Pumsavana, Seemantha, Garbharaksha, Chowla, Upanayana, Upakarma, Godana, all Vratas, and Agrayana (the oblation consisting of first fruits at the end of the rainy season) for all these only daytime is preferred. The entire night is to be avoided.

V—Eclipse

All Muhurthas are to be fixed only after the expiry of three days from the period of eclipse. Muhurtha Deepaka holds the view that five days are to be avoided after a solar eclipse and three days after a lunar eclipse. Madhaveeya lays down that seven days are to be avoided after an eclipse. Brahaspatya is also of the same opinion. The evil of an eclipse is lessened if it heavily rains onc within these seven days.

The day on which the eclipse occurs is also better avoided. The evil accrues only after the eclipse and not before. As such an opinion is current that the day of the eclipse before the actual time of eclipse may be made use of under pressing circumstances.

VI—Twilight Periods

There are four twilight periods in a day. No Muhurthas are to be fixed during these hours. (a) Three hours before sunrise is the morning twilight period. Marriages, sexual unions and the ceremony of giving food to a new-born child for the first time are not to be done during this time. For all other functions a clear period of only two hours and twenty-four minutes before sunrise is to be avoided. In Atreya morning twilight is defined as the period of one hour and twelve minutes before sunrise. (b) One and a half hours after sunset is the evening twilight period. This is to be avoided for all functions. On the 13th lunar day Pradosha day six and a half hours after sunset are not good for anything. Even under very urgent and unavoidable circumstances two hours and twenty-four minutes are to be necessarily avoided. According to Madhaveeya forty-eight minutes before sunset and two hours and twenty-four minutes after sunset on a Prodosha day are not good for anything. In Atreya it is said that the entire night on a Pradosha day is inauspicious for all kinds of functions. Muhurtharathna says that on a Pradosha day one should observe strict silence even without thinking of one's own affairs during the period of one and a half hours before sunset and the end of midnight. The entire period is to be devoted for prayers. Atreya also opines that all good actions are to be avoided during the Pradosha period. (c) At midnight forty-eight minutes are inauspicious and are to be excluded for any action as a rule. (d) At midday a period of forty-eight minutes is termed as Abhijit Muhurtha. Some authors opine that this time is exceptionally good for all functions. It is considered as a period blessed by God Vishnu who protects with His Chakra all actions performed then. Garga is of the same opinion that this Abhijit Muhurtha is good. But Muhurtharathna says that the twilight time at midday is to be avoided for all auspicious functions.

The daytime is to be divided into five equal parts. The fourth and the fifth portions are to be avoided as a rule for all functions.

VIII & IX—Rising Signs & Planets

The twelve signs are good and bad according to the nature of the function or action. For certain rituals some of the signs are reckoned good while others are unsuitable. Muhurthas are to be fixed only in Rasis or signs prescribed for the particular function.

If there is a benefic planet in the sign then the Muhurtha is to be fixed at the time of its rising. In case it is not possible, the Muhurtha is to be fixed at the time of the auspicious Pushkara. The words of a true Brahmin, the rising of a beneficial planet and a beneficial Pushkara (amsa) are said to be highly exellent for a Muhurtha Madhaveeya.

Auspicious and Inauspicious parts of the twelve signs first degree is inauspicious. Twenty-first degree is auspicious.

Taurus, Virgo, Capricorn —Twenty-fourth degree is inauspicious and fourteenth auspicious.

Gemini, Libra, Aquarius— Sixth digree inauspicious and twenty-fourth auspicious.

Cancer, Scorpio, Pisces— Twenty-fourth inauspicious and seventh auspicious.

Auspicious Navamsas

Aries, Leo, Sagittarius—The seventh and ninth navamsas are auspicious.

Taurus, Virgo, Capricorn— The fifth and the third are good.

Gemini, Libra, Aquarius— Eighth and sixth navamsas are good.

Cancer, Scorpio, Pisces— Third and first navamsas are auspicious.

If, by circustances, it is found neither possible nor practicable to have the Muhurtha in the auspicious degrees or at the rising time of the benefic planet at least the benefic navamsa is to be selected.

Planetary positions to be avoided for all Muhurthas

(a) Rahu, Saturn and Mars in the rising sign at the time of the Muhurtha.

(b) All malefics and Venus in the seventh Bhava from the ascendant.

(c) Moon in the sixth, eighth, and twelfth Bhavas from the ascendant.

(e) A sign just left behind by a malefic is to be avoided till a beneficial planet enters it.

Malefics should not be in the second and twelfth Bhavas from the rising sign. The presence of malefics in the ascendant and their aspects are equally inauspicious. The absence of malefics in the eleventh, third and sixth Bhavas and of benefics in the ascendant, fourth, seventh and tenth Bhavas are equally unwholesome.

The eighth Bhava from the ascendant should be vacant (i.e., no planet should be posited in the eighth) for functions like ploughing and sowing, coronation ceremonies, initiation to the art of learning, beginning life in a newly built house, fixing of an idol in a temple naming a new born child and for piercing the ears of a child to put on ear rings.

Medium results are indicated if the Muhurtha is fixed by force of circumstances just before the rising time of the benefic planet occupying the sign. If by necessity it happens to be impossible to have the Muhurtha at the rising time of the benefic in the sign or during the auspicious Pushkara the evil parts of the sign (evil Pushkaras) are to be definitely avoided.

The periods when the Sun is in the seventh degree of Aries, Cancer, Libra and Capricorn; in the fifth degree of Taurus, Leo, Scorpio and Aquarius; and in the ninth degree of Gemini, Virgo, Sagittarius and Pisces are also highly inauspicious.

The time of sunrise is to be avoided for the ceremony of naming a child, for taking out a child into the open air for the first time, marriages, feeding a child with food for the first time, laying the foundation stone for construction of buildings and for occupying newly built houses.

For the ceremony of tonsure, for rites connected with pregnant women like Pumsavana, etc. for the first feeding of a newborn child with food, for marriages and for taking out a new born into the open air for the first time the period of moonrise is to be strictly avoided.

Though it has been stated in general that the aspect of Venus is bad for all Muhurthas it is regarded as good for the digging of wells and tanks, for sexual intercourse and for wearing new clothes. The aspects of malefics are deemed good for Muhurthas to commence treatment of leprosy. The aspect of Saturn is good for the ceremony of taking food prepared with the first crop of the year. For shaving, travels, wearing new clothes, taking the newly harvested crop into the house, making canals to lead water into the fields, and for ploughing and sowing all kinds of seeds, the presence of the Moon in the sixth, eighth or twelfth Bhava of the Muhurtha is not considered bad.

The Sun is not considered as a malefic in Electional Astrology. It has been stated by some authors that the period of sunrise is beneficial for certain Muhurthas. Kehtu is not taken into account at all in this branch of the science.

If a meteor is seen in the heavens three days are to be avoided for any kind of Muhurtha. The traditional position of Kethu in the seventh Bhava from Rahu is not accepted in Electional Astrology.

Aspects

In predictive and horary astrology it is accepted that planets aspect the third, tenth, fifth and ninth, fourth and eighth Bhavas from the signs they occupy. In Electional Astrology this view is not taken into account. The aspects of planets on the seventh Bhava alone are considered.

A sign left by a malefic is inauspicious for fixing a Muhurtha until a benefic comes to occupy it. If a benefic is occupying the sign at the time the malefic leaves it the Muhurtha can be fixed immediately on the exit of the malefic. The sign left by the Sun is not regarded

Timing Events—Transits and Directional Influences

BY B. SURYA PRAKASH

ONE of the hardest nuts in Predictive Astrology is correct timing of an anticipated event. Different schools of astrologers employ different directional systems for this purpose. In the West the Arabic Progressions of one day equal to one year (the so-called Secondary Directions) and the symbolic direction of one deg. equal to one year are mostly employed. Of these several systems 'one deg. equal to one year' has gained much support both for simplicity of working and excellent results. Some of our Western research-minded students have at last 'unfathomed' the use of 'Sidereal Solar Return' chart in giving annual predictions. Here I need not say that this system (Sidereal Solar Return or S.S.R. as is commonly called) has been employed by the Hindus, since time immemorial in the deciphering of annual results under the name of Varshaphal.

So much about western directional systems. Now coming to our own directional systems we have the most popular Udu Dasa followed by Ashtottari Dasa, Jaimini's Dasa (Rasi Dasa system), Ashtakavarga Dasa, Shodashottari Dasa, Dwadashottari Dasa, Panchottari Dasa, Shatabdhika Dasa, Chaturshyabdhika Dasa, Dwisaptatika Dasa, Shashtyani Dasa, Kalachakra Dasa, etc. Of these Vimshottari or Udu Dasa is by far the easiest to apply and is the most accurate one (excepting Kalachakra Dasa) in giving proper timing of the events. Though Kalachakra Dasa gives more accurate results than Vimshottari it is not popular with the rank and file of astrologers on account of the somewhat intricate nature of the calculations involved in applying it. It may be noted, that in Kalachakra Dasa transits need not be taken into account separately as they invariably enter into account with the particular directional Rasi period under operation. After these various Dasa systems we have our S.S.R. as already mentioned. This is just like a minute hand under Vimshottari Dasa in the directional astrology as it gives more or less accurate timing of events in the form of Varshika Dasas. In all these directional systems the house rulerships (not the rasi or sign rulerships as is commonly mistaken by our Western friends) play a prominent part in determining the effects of a particular period. Some of our Western friends and their Indian counterparts have gone to the extent of interpreting the S.S.R. charts in terms of backgrounds and foregrounds, thus completely overlooking the house rulerships. They have deviced various systems of progressions of the sidereal return charts to time the event even to the exact hour—but I am sorry to say that one cannot analyse the progressions and transits to the progressed places of every S.S.R. chart to pick out the important dates in an year—nor if you have a good number of horoscopes awaiting your yearly prognostications, you cannot cast thirteen or so lunar charts for each horoscope to locate 'foregrounds and backgrounds'—unless you have all the time and patience to do so. I wonder even then, if one could succeed in pointing the date of an event beforehand and not merely accounting it after it has happened. But fortunately Indian astrology has a set of well-established rules based mainly on 'Varshikadasas' to give the prognostications of the events and trend of the coming year. Hence one need not attach much importance to 'backgrounds and foregrounds,' though it cannot be denied that a planet in an angle is definitely stronger than a planet in a cadent or succedent house. But, on the other hand, a planet in a succedent house may gain paramount importance over that of an angular planet. Take for instance Pisces as the rising sign in the annual chart and Venus lord of 3rd and 8th (generally) to be in 8th or 12th. If you have examined carefully a number of horoscopes that have gained sudden fortune either through inheritance or through other ways, you invariably find lord of 8th either in 8th or 12th (and more often than not the planet will be Venus, which will work either as lord of 8th or which will give the unexpected fortune in its Varshika Dasa). If in the above example of Pisces as rising sign, you find lord of 8th in 8th or 12th, with lord of 2nd fairly powerful, then without the least hesitation you can say that the native is in store for gaining some unexpected income and the period will be that of the planet occupying 8th or 12th as lord of 8th. Here you will find that the planet is not in the foreground but it is either in the middle or background and it has gained much importance on account of its lordship and position. Here lies the technique of interpretation of a sidereal chart according to Indian astrological rules. Let us take another example: Take Virgo as the rising sign and its lord Jupiter in 4th house in Sagittarius. Here if the native were to enjoy the period of Jupiter, naturally one would attribute very good results of Hamsa yoga to take effect in the period of Jupiter. But, on the contrary, you find that Jupiter's period passes away without showing any good results attributed to it. Why? Here you observe that though Jupiter is in the 4th angle (in the foreground) he has become a malefic by virtue of angular rulership and Badhakadhipatya (ownership of 7th house for a common sign) and hence he will cause untold impediments or miseries in his period with respect to 4th and 7th house affairs. On the other hand, you could have preferred a fairly prosperous period of Jupiter in 5th (in debility) with his cancellation of debility. Certainly here a planet in the 'middle ground' is definitely stronger than the one in the 'foreground'. Thus this instance also clarifies the confusion brought about by our friends interpreting the sidereal charts without reference to lordships which is an essential part and parcel of Indian astrology if you want to time the events by Dasa system.

I shall now try to show, how easily and with least confusion one can time the events with a fair amount of accuracy as per sidereal charts. In timing the events, I generally analyse the appropriate time of an event under three heads: (1) The radical chart—to know whether an anticipated event has been shown in the natal chart (depending upon our Karma); (2) The directional indications—generally under Vimshottari and Kalachakra Dasas (to know when the proper period and sub-period will operate in bringing out an anticipated event promised in the radical chart); and finally (3) The transits to bring the interval of time indicated by the Dasa systems within limited periods. Here I wish to state that transits should be reckoned both from radical position of the Moon, as well as to the natal positions of the planets. Further the planets considered are only nine (from the Sun to Kethu).

Since it is not difficult to analyse the period or sub-period wherein an expected event may occur, I will give the results of transits from Sun to Rahu so as to bring the anticipated time interval within proper limits. Of course I need not state here that these transits are exculsively based on Nirayana charts, on which lines I have been carrying out my researches. We shall start from the slowest moving planet of the lot, namely Saturn.

Transits of Saturn:–Saturn causes evil or good according to his position in radical chart and hence it need not be always evil.

The good aspect of Saturn in transit (irrespective of his position at birth) is the trine. The evil aspect is that of opposition. Conjunction and sextile aspects vary according to his position in the radical chart. This statement may look rather paradoxical for, one is naturally confronted with the idea that, conjunction of Saturn is always evil and his sextile is always good, just as a trinal aspect though not so powerful.

In considering the sextile aspect of Saturn it should be noted that Saturn is a malefic; though a malefic, when he forms a sextile aspect with a natal planet, he causes good (according to the general rules of aspects). But as we know, according to Indian astrology Saturn has an aspect of 3rd sign (not the 3rd house) and it is also pretty well known that a planet (specially a slow-moving planet) causes powerful effects, when in transit to a natal planet, provided the former was in some way or other connected with the natal planet in the radix. Otherwise the effects will be only nominal, though the two luminaries, the Sun and Moon, appear to be exceptions to this rule (for, an evil aspect of Saturn or Rahu to a luminary always gives very trying periods). Take for instance Libra as the rising sign and Mars lord of the 2nd house in conjunction with Rahu. The second lord being afflicted shows that the native will have setbacks in educational career, and troubles with eyesight, these effects being strongly felt when Rahu (the slower of the two) crosses, squares, opposes or conjoins the combination of Mars and Rahu in the natal chart. On the other hand, if Mars is well situated in the natal chart without malefic afflictions, the transit of Rahu on Mars would only cause minor setbacks pertaining to the houses involving the ownership and occupation of Mars. Thus in this way the effects of a transit should be interpreted. Now coming to the 3rd sign aspect of Saturn (in transit), we should not always take this aspect of Saturn to be good for the simple reason, if in the radix (say as for Leo) he chances to be a malefic afflicting a particular lord or house by his 3rd sign aspect, then again when he by transit contacts the same house or lord by his 3rd sign aspect, he causes misery and unhappiness pertaining to the lordship or occupation of the particular planet or house. Now in the above example with Leo rising take Mercury in 12th afflicted by Saturn from 10th. As per natal chart position of Mercury (lord of 2nd and 11th) in 12th in an inimical sign afflicted by Saturn (lord of 6th and 7th), causes setbacks in education, family quarrels, financial troubles and misunderstandings with elder brothers, etc. Now if Saturn by transit comes to his natal position in the 10th house thus making a sextile (3rd sign) aspect with Mercury, instead of any good being expected (as this is a sextile aspect and hence

AROUND the WORLD

BY DOUGLAS HUNT, M.A.

A large number of people in different parts of the world claim to be receiving messages from one Ashtar, who is apparently a kind of Air Chief Marshal of the UPO fleet. On one day I get a booklet from Germany containing not only messages, but a number of portraits of what are presumably squadron leaders and so on. The next day a lady writes to me from New Zealand to say that she herself is receiving messages from Ashtar. And so it goes on.

To a comparatively normal person like your columnist this all seems just a little bit too fantastic. Moreover the 'messages' are not very different from those one might receive from any of a hundred lay-preachers of no very high standard of education. Prudence suggests that one should take them with not just a grain, but a whole barrel of salt.

And yet—! Those people are certainly not charlatans. They certainly are getting some kind of communication. From where? The safest suggestion would be 'from their own sub-conscious'. Wish fulfilment would seem to be Jung's answer to the Flying Saucer riddle. It seems a reasonable and easy way out.

And yet once more! When men like Hermann Oberth and Werner von Braun, expert technicians of the very top rank, express their conviction that 'Uranids', as Oberth calls them, are actually doing their best to make contact with us earth-dwellers it is difficult to push them aside as of no consequence.

The astronomers—most, not all, of them—tell us that intelligent life is not possible on any of the planets of our solar system. Presumably they know what they are talking about, but the very most they are entitled to say is that intelligent life, as we know it, is not possible. God's universe is surely not so poverty-stricken that mankind is not only unique, but also supreme. Many of my readers will believe, as I do, in other forms of life even on our planet. The Devas are certainly not compounded of any of the known chemical elements, but they are visible to the eyes of many.

Which reminds me that I have just received the News Letter of the Fairy Investigation Society. My name is published as that of a member, together with those of such people as Prof. Walter Starkie, C.B.E., M.A., and Air Chief Marshal Lord Dowding. The latter, as all the world knows shares Oberth's belief in 'Uranids'. Many people in this country—and perhaps in India too—would be only too pleased to send round for a plain van to come and pick up the lot of us and stow us away in some nice little asylum. I am probably the maddest of the lot, for I confidently assert that I have lived for a whole year with an angel (Deva)—and I do not mean my beloved wife, much as she merits that title.

And what, indeed, are the planetary spirits in which so many astrologers believe but Angels, Devas, call them what you will?

Shakespeare, that sublimely illuminated spirit, must, of course, have been completely dotty! As Mr. David Freedman pointed out in a lecture at the London Astrological Lodge, his work is full of allusions to astrology. He mentioned especially the speech of Ulysses to Achilles in Act I, Scene III of "Troilus and Cressida" in which the sage speaks of "Sol... whose medicinable eye corrects the ill aspects of planets evil".

Attempts have been made to show that the dramatist despised astrology, especially when he makes Cassius say, "The fault, dear Brutus, is not in our stars but in ourselves, that we are underlings". That is surely a statement with which the majority of astrologers would agree, for to know our stars is to be able to rise superior to them.

More subtle is the suggestion that Shakespeare knew nothing of astrology, for he makes Sir Andrew Aguecheek say in Twelfth Night, "Taurus! That's sides and heart". To which Sir Toby Belch replies, "No, sir, it is legs and thighs". But it must be remembered that here two foolish and ignorant roisterers speak, not Shakespeare himself.

Readers will be sorry to learn that Mr. C. E. O. Carter, the doyen of English astrologers, has retired from the editorship of Astrology. He is succeeded by Mr. R. C. Davison. Mr. Davison and I started our astrological studies together, but while Mr. Davison has gone on from strength to strength I let my studies drop to a large extent, on the principle that to be a good astrologer one must devote the whole of one's time to

it. Readers of Mr. Davison's many scholarly articles in Astrology will know how wrong I was. Long may he continue as a worthy successor to Mr. Carter.

I cannot let the occasion pass without adding my modest tribute to the Grand Old Man of astrology. Few men so naturally combine dignity with humility as does "C.E.O.", who is, and has always been so, much more than a prince of astrologers. I can say no more than the Priest in The Magic Flute says of the candidate for initiation on being told that he is a Prince: "He is far more! He is a man!"

Astrologischer Auskunftsbogen prints in its June issue a table of adverse aspects for 1959 to 2000. The months in which these occur are, we are told, "highly critical for wars, overthrows, revolutions, stock exchanges, falls in currency, aerial catastrophes, mining disasters, and poisoning of the atmosphere". As at least three such months are noted in every single year—as many as ten in 1965—one's flesh does not creep as much as it might otherwise have done. The first three of these catastrophic months are May, June and July 1959. Could that have anything to do with the award of £8,000 damages to Liberace in June?

It is surely not necessary continually to endeavour to curdle our blood in this fashion. If such tables have any value whatsoever, I suggest that it would be much better to give us one of the favourable aspects for the next 50 years? Or are there none?

In the Berlin supplement to this monthly Mr. Troinski draws our attention to the astrological aspects of January–February 1960 under the title "The Beginning of the End". He points out that the Sun–Saturn transit in 13° Capricorn is in opposition to the U.S.A. Sun and in conjunction with Dr. Adenauer's. He suggests that this may well bring about 'local' wars. The maps he uses are for the founding of the United States on 4th July 1776—is it really still the same nation?—and Dr. Adenauer's birthday. Is it certain that that stubborn old man will still be controlling Germany's destiny in 1960? There must be millions who hope this will not be so?

In closing may I remark that the only forecast of the recent events in Tibet which I have seen was Prof. B. V. Raman's in the January 1959 number of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE. Prof. Raman's cautious approach to the highly complicated subject of mundane astrology is one which must command the respect of all readers. Since he has given me a free hand in all I write I hope he will not exercise his censorship on this genuine tribute to him.

THREE HUNDRED IMPORTANT COMBINATIONS

BY B. V. RAMAN

This is not a collection of combinations but a careful selection of just the most important ones which cannot be easily identified in a horoscope.

What makes one a dunce? Why is one unhappy, what makes one poor and the other rich? Why one has no bodily comfort—what makes one a King or an equal, a leader, a business magnate, an industrialist, a great politician, a pauper, a sickly man and a miserable wretch? What makes one attain success without much effect and what makes the other to meet with disappointment in life inspite of his very best efforts?

A study of this book will enable you to easily judge the worth of your own horoscope and adjudge its merits and demerits.

A book of this type containing a collection of rare combinations some of which are special yogas has never been published before.

The author has illustrated the principles with innumerable horoscopes from practical lives. Do not fail to read this book.

Kaka Bhujandar Nadi

Sir,—Reference Mr. Venkataramanan's article on "Some Observations on Kaka Bhujandar Nadi" in the 1959 Annual Number of your magazine, I saw Dr. Ramesh Ch. Mozumdar the well-known historian and archaeologist, and began to read para 3 of the article which refers to the discovery of some astrological verses in Tamil inscribed on stone in Tanjore temple. Before I was half through that para, he shouted out—"I have no time to waste with mad men. You may write and tell him from me that he is a liar (l-i-a-r), and ask him to produce a photo or any other tangible evidence of the existence of such a stone".

It is on his special insistence that I write this letter.

I am myself inclined to believe Mr. Venkataramanan, but as a man of Dr. R. C. Mozumdar's eminence has called him a liar, I think Mr. Venkataramanan should clear his position, if he can, by producing any proof or proofs in support of his statement regarding the discovery or existence of the stone in the Tanjore temple inscribed with the astrological verses mentioned in the article.

Calcutta. DR. S. N. DUTT.

Mr. K. V. Venkataramanan's Reply

Sir,—With reference to Dr. Dutt's letter, had it not been for the defamatory remarks of Dr. Ramesh Ch. Mozumdar referred to by Dr. Dutt's I would have been too glad to give the available information with me about his query. It is a pity that very unbecoming language is used against me:

I feel that Dr. Dutt, much less Dr. Mozumdar, has not gone through my article deeply. All that I wrote was from an astrological point of view and not from an archaeological point of view as Dr. Mozumdar vouchsafing for the accuracy of any stone inscription. Dr. Mozumdar seems to have looked at the matter at a tangent and lost sight of the spirit and substance of my article with the result that all that remained to him was the existence of the stone.

What all I stated in my article is that some astrological verses are also stated to be found in stone inscriptions similar to Nadi writings of yore and the substance of verses has been given as an example to what I have stated in para 2 of my article. One could as well say that what I have stated in para 2 is a myth and all depends upon how one views the subject. I am constrained to say that condemning a thing without fully understanding it and hurling defamatory statements without any regard to other man's credit or character is not consistent with a truly cultured and scientific mind. There are so many things that lie beyond the powers of human knowledge and he who thinks himself all-knowing is ignorant in the higher sense according to enlightened people.

Whether the stone exists in Tanjore temple or not, there are the Tamil verses which begin with the head-line, Kalvettu Sasanam and end with the footnote, Tanjavoor Kovil Vullasasnam which I mentioned in my article out of sheer enthusiasm and interest to let the public know that there are such Tamil verses of ancient times. I have not said anything about the verses to give colour or to elevate myself in public esteem. Nor do I feel humiliated by the remarks of Dr. Mozumdar though his intentions seem to humiliate me in the eyes of the public and cause stigma to my reputation by dubbing me as a liar or mad man.

The version given by Dr. Dutt of his talk with Dr. Mozumdar and his reply clearly show that the latter has not taken the trouble to ascertain the existence of the inscription on stone in dim and distant corners of Hindu temples that stand unknown and unheard of. If Dr. Mozumdar can prove to the hilt that none of the temples in Tanjore contains such inscriptions, then I am prepared to send copies of the Tamil astrological verses given to me by a friend of mine. The verses are not a creation of mine; nor do I possess any poetic genius to compose them. Am I to understand that the allegations said to have been made by Dr. Mozumdar as spoken to by Dr. Dutt that the contents of para 3 are created by me to suit the occasion? Otherwise, I am not, because the article was on Kaka Bhujandar Nadi and not on the stones in Tanjore temples.

According to the higher conception of truth as expounded by the great Tiruvalluvar in his world-famous moral code called Tirukural, "truth is the speaking of such words as are free from the least degree of evil (to others)". Even from that stand-point, I have not harmed anybody by my writing in the article. On the other hand, I have received unsolicited letters of appreciation from cultured people all over India.

Even the distinguished English daily of Madras, The Hindu, in the course of a review of the 1959 Annual Number of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE in its issue dated 11-1-1959 has mentioned my article on Kaka Bhujandar Nadi as highly interesting.

The Horoscope of Mao Tse Tung.

Sir,—While judging the horoscope of Mao Tse Tung, published in April 1959 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE, Mr. G. C. Nixon says: "Here it should be noted that these facts could only be predicted if we use the Rasi or sign chart, and not the Bhava or house position".

But astrologers know that a horoscope merely judged on the basis of the Rasi position of the planets is not scientific. Now I shall discuss Mao's horoscope on the basis of the house positions of the planets to exhibit the planetary dispositions that are responsible for the demise of his wife, children and Rajayoga he has possessed.

The 7th lord Mercury is in the 12th house and is hemmed in between two first-rate malefics, viz., the Sun and Mars. The 7th house is heavily afflicted by the aspect of the 8th lord Sun. These factors evidently indicate the death of Mao's wife. This view is confirmed by Phaladeepika (vide Chapter X, sloka 4, 1st and 2nd padas). In Mao's chart, we find that Venus is aspected by the malefic planet Mars, the lord of the 12th house, Venus is in the 26th degree of Makara and Mars is in the 2nd degree of Vrischika hence the dristi of Mars over Venus is 39 kalas. True to Mantreswara's word, Mao lost his wife.

Let us examine the 5th house of Mao's chart. Venus is the lord of the 5th house. She is also the lord of the 6th house, hence she becomes evil. She is aspected by the powerful malefic planet Mars, the lord of the 12th. Jupiter, the Putrakaraka, occupies the 5th, house and becomes detrimental to Mao's children. Jupiter, the Putrakaraka, is also aspected by Mars. The dristi of Mars on Jupiter is 52 kalas and the 5th house is also afflicted by the aspect of malefic Mars, the lord of the 12th house. All these factors are responsible for the premature death of Mao's children.

In Mao's chart, Venus in the 2nd house which is neither her depression nor is owned by an enemy. Jupiter as lord of lagna is very powerfully posited in the 5th house, because he is in his own drekkana, own navamsa and own dwadasamsa. So, Mao is endowed with Rajayoga and this is confirmed by sloka 7 of Chapter VII of Jataka Parijata.

Further, we shall judge Mao's horoscope on the basis of Chandra Lagna to observe whether he has possessed any Rajayoga. Jupiter as lord of the 9th, reckoning from Chandra Lagna, is posited in the 10th house. Mars as lord of the 5th and 10th is in the 5th along with Mercury. Jupiter is in the 28th degree of Aries and Mars is in the 2nd degree of Scorpio, hence they aspect each other and constitute a powerful Rajayoga.

Lastly, Mao is blessed with three excellent yogas, viz., Gajakesari, Amala and Kahala. Results of these yogas are well known to readers of The Astrological Magazine. All these factors make him famous.

Predicting Events by Transits

Sir,—We, the students of Astrology, felt great pleasure when we read a new method of rectification of horoscope under the above-mentioned caption in your esteemed Astrological Magazine, June 1959. It seems as if the learned author, Dr. Tucker, is going to fulfil the most primary requirements of the students of astrology. The importance of rectification of horoscopes is well-known to all.

May I be kindly permitted to ask Dr. Tucker to explain some obscure points of his method of rectification through The Astrological Magazine?

He says:—"In every epoch horoscope it is the chief influence of the day that influence the selection of the sign-degree rising at birth." But the dominators of birthdays have nothing to play their role in ascertaining rising sign-degree at the time of birth as shown by the learned author in the epochal horoscopes of (a) Queen Elizabeth II, (b) Prince Philip, and (c) Author's own son, Mr. William. How it is so?

At the time of the epoch of Queen Elizabeth II, Sayana positions for Moon and Saturn were 304° 58′ and 209° 43′ respectively. Then how does Dr. Tucker talk of Moon–Saturn conjunction?

While referring to the case of Prince of Wales (Prince Charles) Dr. Tucker says—"And in the case of Prince Charles it is Sun conjunction Moon." But at the time of Prince Charles epoch, Sayana positions for the Sun and the Moon were 305° 14′ and 128° 17′ respectively. It is conjunction or opposition?

Thanking you,

Rajnandgaon (M.P.) M.D. Hariharan and Friends.

Netaji Bose

Sir,—As a regular reader of your most esteemed Magazine, I beg to make the following observations regarding Netaji Bose's horoscope.

In your January 1959 issue, Netaji's lagna was given as Vrishabha or Taurus by Mr. Bishnupada Bhattacharya. In your June 1959 issue, Mr. Rajbans Bharti gives it as Meena Lagna.

Netaji was born on 23-1-1897 at Cuttack at about 12h. 42m. 40s. p.m. Since Cuttack's E. Long. is 85-10, the sunrise will be at 6-30 a.m. Deducting the sunrise we get 6.12.40. This converted into ghatis will give 15.32. The balance on 23-1-1897 will be—

Makara	...	Gh. 3	13
Kumbha	...	4	45
Meena	...	4	15
Mesha	...	4	15
		16	28

From Gh. 12-13 to 16-28 Mesha Lagna will be rising. Since the birth is at 15 ghatis 32 vighatis, the lagna for Netaji is Mesha. So both Vrishabha and Meena are incorrect.

The death of Netaji occurred during Rahu Dasa. Rahu is posited in 10th house with Sun and Mercury. The sub-period was that of Mars who occupying second and being Ashtamadhipathi and aspected by Saturn from 8th (who is the lord of 11th) caused death by accident from plane.

Astrology—Solvent of Frights and Fancies

Sir,—In the May 1959 number of The Astrological Magazine, the word is beholden to its Editor for the very interesting exposition on 'Planets and Planned Parenthood' from the astrological point of view and the Hindu dharmasastras bearing on the life of grihastashrama dharma followed in our country. But since post-Independent days we are dealing with the core of problems on a classless, casteless society wiping out varna and ashrama dharmas. We are led to rely more and more on 'experts', 'statistics' and the 'reformers', the latest to hold the field being the statisticians who foresee a deluge (pralaya) of the world by over-population, as a result of the experts in the regions of science and medicine working incessantly to achieve the Welfare State and World Brotherhood ideologies. To at least a few of these, the article in question may be food for thought. But for the time being the mischief set afoot by statistical prognostications will have a free field and full play. So long as the existence of a Supreme Power guiding our destinies goes challenged and nastikatva is fostered by the rulers of the country here or elsewhere miseries of every kind must ensue. In this context it is interesting to note that on 3-5-1959 in the Indian Parliament a private Bill was sought to be introduced by one representative of the people "to impose fines on those who beget more than three children" and send to prison those who married before 21 (if males) and 18 in the case of women and to legalise abortion in certain cases. The member belonged to the ruling class of Congressites. While there were 30 in a house of 119 to support introduction of the Bill, 89 opposed, probably not being fully prepared for it as yet. Perhaps it is only a question of time when such a Bill would not only be introduced but get passed with several improvements by way of Government interfering to regulate progress of the species to be the fountainhead of a new origin of species, to constitute a Welfare State and the ideal World Brotherhood. To the old and the uninitiated these vistas as unfolding scenery may cause frights and fancies. But their innate faith in the existence of a Supreme Power guiding the destinies of mankind rooted in dharma which never changes and is called sanatana may only cause amusement. There have been changes in dharma from age ro age—yuga to yuga—and the last yuga broke up meeting with an impediment (uncommonly trifling and simple as it may seem to us today) of Arjuna doubting his own dharma as a Kshatriya who had gone to fight and was actually on the battlefield. The consideration of this question or any other from the dharmic point of view would be outside the scope of these pages, if unconnected with the subject of planets and their influences on world affairs and conditions. But luckily there is the utmost of connection between planets and the Supreme Power.

Hailing Dharma we have heard it proclaimed—

Dharmetishtathi sarvametadhakhilam
he dharma samthadhi nat

It is in dharma that the world stands rooted. The maintenance of dharma is not left, luckily enough, in the hands of pigmies and mortals like us who change with passing whims and fancies and the very food that we take. We have read in the Gita that God reincarnates for the establishment of waning dharma, the protection of the good and correction of the wicked and that the soul in us all is the Supreme Atman. If we choose to run away from truths that have sustained us we may do so but at what costs we know not. The intimate connection between us on this plane and the worlds of Gods has been explained in the Gita in the reference to Jagat Chakra sufficient enough for us to know that evil consequences do flow from defiance of eternal laws of the Creator.

The Editorial in THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE gives a lucid explanation of this phenomenon of an increase or decrease in the population. We shall presently see how frightfully Japan is being threatened by a popular deluge, according to another expert essaying on the subject. A combination or concentration of planets in the signs from Libra to Aquarius has everything to do with the phenomenon "but", queries the learned Editor quite appropriately (if I may say so with all respect) "What guarantee is there that there would be no calamities..... which would not upset the fond hopes of these eminent scientists?" It seems, therefore, that on a final analysis the joys and sorrows of mankind due either to over or under population, food production, pestilences, welfare schemes, planned parenthood where sexual co-opulationwill be regulated by a third party. Political power with abolition of the institution of marriage in India must be vesting in a Supreme Power enforcing dharma relevant to and prevailing among the various sections of the populace. There is a simple verse bringing this out which we are apt to overlook but which must be always kept in mind.

Kuri kurvanti grahaah sarve
sanyangarakaadayah

This lifts astrology to a higher plane than we are accustomed to generally locating the place of the Creator vis a vis the creation or the planets. But if we have foresworn Gods and Religion and have pushed them out effectively from our hearths and homes, to rebuild a classless, casteless society which would root out even samanya dharmas and establish fornication in place of vedic marriages we must be prepared for the worst until the rot is wiped out.

Let us turn for a moment to the predicament of Japan about which Don Frifield writes a copyright article featured in The Hindu of 22nd April 1959. I quote a few sentences from the paragraphs here and there:

(1) Japan is a living taunt to the aspirations of Communism in Asia.

(2) Highly industrialised Japan must import with scarce foreign exchange almost all the raw materials she needs for her industry.

Scanned by CamScanner to Preserve Dr B V Ramans Work

(3) At the same time, her population of 92,000,000 is increasing at a rate of more than a million per year, despite an equal number of legalised abortions. All these people dwell in a mountainous land of which only 25 per cent can be cultivated. Unlike the crowded countries of Europe, Japan has no place for large scale emigration. Her powerful Chinese and Russian neighbours want no Japanese nor do other lands of the East, most especially Australia.

(4) Nothing will stop Japan from having a population of 100,000,000 in 10 years almost all of whom must stay at home in Japan's own poor and crowded little island.

(5) Japan's postwar constitution which gave her a democratic form of Government, created at the same time a precedent for irreverence towards the past... For the Reds believe, the tumbling and scattering of old traditions has left the Japanese in a state of flux, with once sacred values booming around like a loose football to be pounched upon by anybody. If the Emperor can be reduced by decree from a god to a man, after 26 centuries, newer concepts like democracy and capitalism can be even more transitory.

(6) As unemployment climbs with the birth rate as Japan's trade difficulties increase, as a kind of national claustrophobia comes more and more into popular consciousness, the communists feed the fire of bitterness.

(7) .....an erosion factor is at work: her increasing millions of mouths to feed and the uncertainty of her being successful. While no nation has been more helpful to Japan than the U.S. it is questionable if any amount of American understanding and aid will solve Japan's basic problem of positively too many people and not so positively any means of taking care of them."

After twelve years of experience the more thoughtful section of the Indian people wearing or about to wear special labels for identification—red, black or blue—or even white will pause to consider: Whether India riding Humpty-Dumpty like on anything that comes in her way?

We are told that scientists will solve all our problems and difficulties. One can only hope for it in the present world of free-thought.

Only the other day Paul Johnson had an amusing article to explain how pedantocracy was working its way with modern television, popular ignorance and the educated Dons: to solve problems. Here is the procedure:—

"Compare: Well, we have heard Mrs. Ada Williams say she does not believe in the After life and we have heard Mr. Bill Evans say he does. Opinion, it seems, is divided. Now let us hear the view of the expert. We have with us in the Studio Mr. I. B. Monkton Smith, who is Professor of Moral Astronomy at Coventry University College. Professor Monkton Smith, as you probably know, has spent most of his life studying the heavens. Well, professor, do you believe in the After Life?

Professor: Let us start by rephrasing the question, shall we? What you really mean, I suppose is do I believe in extra-sensory phenomena."

On the question of over population, therefore, let us not be frightened by the experts' facts and fancies. The need of the hour is for better faith in our own religion and science. The gates of India have been thrown wide open to one and all. The refugee problem difficult enough in all conscience since the partition of the country has been accentuated by more refugees flocking in, lacking food and shelter. Our country's old religions and beliefs are in danger of being supplanted by other religions and beliefs, even the religious institutions that have stood for it for centuries coming under the hammer, with Buddhism once again on the stride to hasten a classless, casteless society for India.

A Peculiar Disease

Sir,—A boy whose birth particulars are given below* is suffering from a peculiar kind of disease pertaining to the lungs. Medical opinion regarding the same is not encouraging. Astrological assessment of the longevity of the boy and the nature of disease, by your learned correspondents will be of much value to the father of the child who is more confused over the contradictory opinions given to him by certain astrologers. Except for the moments of periodical attacks, which come in a way once a week, the boy is cheerful and active in all respects. During the times of attack the boy becomes unconscious and the colour of the body is changed blue. No other external symptoms are present. Will any of our learned readers throw some light on this astrologically?

THE HINDU PROGRESSED HOROSCOPE

By B. V. RAMAN

This book based on Tajaka covers fresh grounds in the field of prediction. It describes a unique method never before disclosed for deciphering annual life readings Predictions made according to this work yield unique results. Whether you are a layman or initiated, you can draw up and interpret the annual reading in an easy and scientific manner. The system propounded in the pages of this work is rational and in actual practice yields most satisfactory results.

OPINION

"The author outlines a method of deciphering annual results from the Hindu horoscope. He claims that the principles of Tajaka astrology have been found to work accurately in actual practice, and controverts the orthodox belief that the system can be applied only to charts of individuals who have passed the age of thirty. There are many useful tables at the end and a summary."

Your SCIENTIFIC DIFFICULTIES Solved

BY MIHIRA

[In the letters THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE receives from the readers, many interesting questions are put pertaining to astrological and scientific problems. Address communications to—MIHIRA, c/o THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE].

Q. 1. (a) Suppose a planet is leaving one sign and entering another sign at the time of birth. What results can be expected during the period of such a planet when it is on the cusp of a bhava? Further when the bhava in question is 11th and the planet is ruler of 6th and 9th for a Cancer native will he give the effects of 6th house or 9th heuse in the beginning of his period or both? (b) The Nirayana position of Jupiter on 7-6-1918 (L.M.T. 9-40 a.m. Long. 82° 30′ Lat. 17° 30′ N.) according to Telugu almanac is Gemini. In Lahiri's Ephemeris it is shown in Taurus. Please let me know the correct position. Which Ephemeris should be followed for casting horoscopes? (c) What are the results of lord of 5th and 10th being exalted in navamsa? Is there combustion for Jupiter when he is 7 degrees away from Sun. Are the results modified if the signs occupied by Sun and Jupiter though in the same bhava? Is Ava Yoga formed when Saturn is in 1st bhava for a Cancer native? What is Kantaka Sani? What are the results of lord of 7th and 8th occupying Lagna? When two first-rate malefics like Mars and Saturn become Yogakarakas, will they cause yoga irrespective of their position in the horoscope? (d) A planet in exaltation naturally aspects its debilitation sign also. Will not such aspect have any significance? Further Mars is an enemy of Saturn, but Mars is exalted in Capricorn. Pisces the exaltation sign of Venus is ruled by Jupiter who is his enemy. This seems to be very peculiar. The reason for this peculiarity may please be elucidated. (e) For Ashtakavarga calculation, is sign or bhava position to be taken? (f) In Gochara (transit) certain planets when they pass through Upachaya houses are supposed to give good results if not subject to vedha. Can this principle be applied irrespective of their lordship from Janma Lagna or Chandra Lagna? When lord of Lagna for a Cancer native is exalted and in close association with lord of 12th (within 3 degrees) what results can be expected from such a combination? (g) How to know the number of issues from the horoscopes of wife and husband? Is the whole horoscope to be studied or 5th house alone? (h) Which house indicates paternal property? How to judge what the paternal property consists of—lands, houses, cash and also whether the property will be spent or not during the life period of the native? Which house indicates self-earned property? (i) What is the principle behind the allotment of the various years of planets in Vimshottari? (j) Why is Sun, the visible God of the universe, considered a malefic? (k) Which Ayanamsa is correct—Lahiri's or that of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE?

A. S., Kharagpur.

Ans. (a) A planet at the end of a sign lacks strength. But if at the same time he is on the cusp of a house he gets maximum residential strength. The planet which rules two houses will give the results of the two houses in their numerical order, that is, if he rules 6th and 9th houses, the effects of rulership of 6th will be realised in the first half and of 9th house in the second half. There are some special rules which have also to be noted. The effects of the house that falls in the Moolatrikona sign alone will predominate. For Cancer Lagna, 6th house falls in Sagittarius which is the Moolatrikona sign of Jupiter. Therefore in such a case, the effects of 6th house alone will be chiefly in evidence and not those of 9th house. There is an exception to this rule. If Jupiter occupies 9th house in such a case, then the effects of rulership of 9th alone will be felt and not those of 6th house. In the example given, as Jupiter is in 11th, the effects of 6th rulership alone will be chiefly experienced. (b) The Sayana longitude of Jupiter at 5-30 p.m. (I.S.T.) on 6 6-1918 is Gemini 21° 38′ and on 7th for the same time he is in Gemini 21° 51′. Find out the longitude for the time required by rule of three and deduct the ayanamsa. This will give the correct longitude and sign of Jupiter. According to one Ayanamsa, the sign may be Taurus and according to another, Gemini. THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE Ayanamsa will be 21° 16′. (c) Exaltation in navamsa is a favourable feature and promotes the significations of the bhavas ruled by the planet. The limit of Jupiter's combustion is 11 degrees from the Sun. Combustion does not take note of sign or house, only distance. Ava Yoga arises when lord of lagna occupies 6th, 8th or 12th houses. As Saturn rules 8th house from Cancer and he occupies Lagna, Ava Yoga arises. Kantaka Sani means Sani in kendra. The effects of Yogakaraka planets benefic or malefic, will be conditioned by the location, aspects, etc, in the horoscope. (d) You are wondering about axioms that are the basis of astrology. We cannot help you here. (e) Only signs are taken. (f) Gochara effects are certainly modified by the rulership of bhava by that planet. For Libra Lagna, Saturn will not be as mischievous in transit as say for Cancer Lagna. The latter part has nothing to do with Gochara. (g) This has been dealt with several times in these pages. Usually the number of navamsas completed by the cusp of the 5th house, Jupiter, lord of 5th are taken into account. Elaborate results are found in standard books like Jataka Parijata and should be referred to for detailed guidance. The subject is too big to be dealt with here fully. There are also yogas determining the number of progeny and also methods given by me there about computation of the longitudes of planets concerned. (h) Ancestral wealth is to be ascertained from the 4th house. The nature of the kind of wealth is to be judged from the Karakas, location of lord of 4th house and planets in 4th house. If Saturn and Moon figure prominently, it may be lands. If Jupiter—money; if Mercury—movable property and so on. (i) The principle behind the allotment of years has not been explained in any of the standard works. (j) This is also an axiom in Hindu astrology. Probably, misfortunes help evolution more than prosperity. (k) It goes without saying that we consider our Ayanamsa as the correct one.

Q. 2. What are the effects, that is, is there any yoga when lord of 3rd occupies 4th, lord of 4th occupies 5th, lord of 5th, 6th and lord of 2nd in 7th?

B. T. K., Poona.

Ans. This is no yoga according to the standard texts and has not been dealt with as such anywhere. To give the effects for such positions, much will depend on what the Lagna is.

Q. 3. (a) On page 92 of How to Judge a Horoscope, Mr. B. V. Raman has written that if lord of 11th reckoned from 9th be in the navamsa of the Atmakaraka planet, then the native will command vehicles. Suppose in a horoscope the lord of 4th house reckoned from the lord of 9th house happens to be Atmakaraka himself, will the native command vehicles or not? (b) Can Rahu or Kethu claim to be an Atmakaraka planet? P. C. S., Indore.

Ans. (a) Your quotation is not traceable and hence cannot be answered. Give more specific reference. (b) Yes. But Rahu or Kethu should have the least degrees in the horoscope to become A. K. as only then they would have attained the greatest number of degrees since they move backward, e.g., suppose Rahu and Kethu is 3rd degree of a sign and no other planet in the horoscope has advanced beyond 26th degree, then Rahu and Kethu become Atmakarakas.

Q. 4. (a) How to judge the effects of occupation of 6th house by Mars in Scorpio? (b) Suppose Mars occupying 6th house in Scorpio occupies the 7th house in Sagittarius as per Bhava, how to judge the effects of Mars? K. N. K. M.

Ans. (a) Mars is strong in his own sign Scorpio. If it happens to be also in 6th house, he would favour the significations of 6th, that is "he will own property, exterminate foes, have a powerful appetite, be opulent and enjoy fame and strength". (b) The question is clumsily worded and is evidently designed to ask the question about the effects of Mars in 6th sign but 7th Bhava. In such a case, the effects of occupation of 6th sign (whatever it is, in this case Scorpio) has to be blended with the occupation of 7th Bhava. Mars' occupation of 7th is evil but the evil will be much reduced as it is his own sign, Scorpio.

Q. 5. (a) Are planets Mars, Neptune and Pluto to be considered in the formation of yogas as per Hindu Astrology? (b) Is there Neechabhanga for Cancer Lagna if Sun occupies 14° and Saturn 17° in Aries? (c) For Cancer Lagna, Mars is in Aquarius and Saturn in Aries. Is this Parivarthana Yoga and what are the effects? G. N. G., Calcutta.

Ans. (a) No. (b) No, as Sun is neither the ruler of the sign occupied by Saturn nor of his exaltation sign; but this is no final answer as Moon's position is not given since such a planet in kendra to Moon may affect neechabhanga. (c) This is an exchange (Parivarthana) between ruler of 8th and 10th houses. This is an evil exchange and cannot confer benefic effects. This is known as Dainya Yoga.

Q. 6. (a) Jupiter is evil for Thula Lagna. Will the effects of Jupiter's Dasa be modified when he is in 8th, retrograde and in Vargottama with exalted Moon? If yes, to what extent? (b) What are the combinations for a good orator? Can the aspect of Jupiter and Moon on the 2nd house from the 8th and Mercury in the 4th house make one a good orator? (c) According to text-books, 9th gives long journeys and voyages and 3rd short journeys. In the case of Libra Lagna with Jupiter in 8th why has the native had several journeys to countries abroad in the dasa of Jupiter? (d) What yoga arises when the lord of 6th is in the 8th? What are its effects and when will they be felt? (e) Combination of lords of kendra and kona give rise to Rajayoga. Some Rajayogas give rise to political power, some success in other fields. How to distinguish one from the other. In the case of Thula Lagna will the combination of Saturn, Venus, Mars and Sun give rise to political power in Saturn's Dasa? (f) How strong is Gajakesari Yoga formed with Moon and Jupiter in Taurus for Thula Lagna, Jupiter being both retrograde and Vargottama? P. G. A., Karachi.

Ans. (a) 8th house occupation of Jupiter for Thula Lagna makes matters only more evil and will accentuate the effects of evil rulership. But his being Vargottama will serve to reduce this combined evil. The retrogression makes him stronger as also his association with exalted Moon. However, there is one other yoga also to be considered. As Jupiter is ruler of 6th in 8th, this is known as Harsha Yoga which is a very good and powerful yoga. The net result will be that the evil effects of Jupiter ruling 3rd and 6th house will be greatly mitigated by the above combined feature which will also have the effect of conferring good results as well. (b) Second house is the house of speech and learning and benefic aspects should confer good speech and learning. But oratory is a special qualification and is not covered by these features alone. Mercury in 4th will confer learning. It has a bearing on oratory as he is Karaka and becomes strong when placed in a Kendra. But oratory of a high order is only conferred by all the planets being placed in kendra from Lagna which is known as Kendra Yoga. At least majority of planets should be so situated. The lord of 2nd should be well placed. The position of Mars ruler of 2nd has not been given. So no considered opinion can be given. (c) This question cannot be properly answered without the full horoscope. The habit of asking queries for solutions of scientific difficulties with fractional horoscope is to be deprecated. In what sub-periods of Jupiter the journeys took place has not been stated. If sub-lords do not influence the major lords which are then taken into account for? Mercury ruler of 9th is in 4th in a movable sign and an angle. He is aspected by Jupiter from 8th. Mercury's sub-period therefore can bring about long journeys. (d) Vide answer to (a) supra. (e) The term Rajayoga is a common name for a particular type of yogas which confer political power, royal luxuries, general prosperity, etc. Of these types of Rajayogas, the yoga formed by combination of rulers of kendra and kona forms only one group and this group generally gives luxuries appurtenant to royalty, or Government service, varying according to the strength of the planets involved. Thus even a peon in a Government office may have Rajayoga as also an ambassador representing the nation in various countries. But there is no common basis to judge the Rajayoga formed in other ways. These Rajayogas are specifically defined our texts and the effects given separately for each. In the case of the example given, Saturn by himself is capable of giving Rajayoga as he rules a kendra and kona. Taking him as ruler of 5th a kona, his combination with Mars ruler of 7th an angle constitutes another Rajayoga. Similarly with Saturn and Venus. But this combination with Venus ruler of 8th and the Sun ruler of 11th will spoil both Saturn and the Rajayoga given rise to an appreciable extent. Though Rajayoga will be enjoyed by the native in Saturn's Dasa the participant in both Rajayogas of the horoscope, the grade will not be very high. (f) The yoga will be as strong as the strength of the planets involved in the yoga, as also the extent of their proximity to each other. Since the degrees of the planets have not been given, their Shadbala strength nor the extent of their proximity to each be judged. The yoga will be in full force for the entire period of life gaining special prominence in the dasas and bhukthis of the two planets.

WHISPERS FROM ETERNITY—By Paramahamsa Yogananda—(Self-Realization Fellowship, Los Angeles, California, U.S.A. Pp. 266. Price 3 dollars).

Paramahamsa Yogananda entered Mahasamadhi (in popular language passed away) in Los Angeles, on March 7th, 1952. The book contains many of his writings and prayers which are described as Whispers from Eternity as these relate to Eternal Life and Truth and ways and means of realising them. "Foreword" has been contributed by Amelita Galli-Curci.

Prayers have been addressed to God, in the aspect of Eternal Mother, Cosmic Mother and so forth, and a Mother cannot but respond to the prayers devotionally uttered by her children. Section I deals with "Prayers and Soul-Thoughts". Section II contains Invocations to Manifestations of God in the temples of Great Lives. In Section III stand assembled "Children's Prayers", "Experiences in Superconsciousness and Messages to Devotees" are recorded in the IVth section. Towards the end valuable glossary is added.

It should be a matter for sincere congratulation that in the land of the Almighty Dollar Indian Philosophy and Yoga should have taken deep roots, such deep roots in the hearts of the people as shown in this volume. It is to be hoped that the message of Paramahamsa Yogananda would make a wider appear in days to come. It is observed that the body of Paramahamsa after 20 days from his death had not undergone any decay, but, looked as fresh as in life.

IMMORTALITY OF THE SOUL—Or Resurrection of the Dead?—By Oscar Cullmann—(The Epworth Press, London. Pp. 60. Price 6sh. net).

Dr. Oscar Cullmann in discussing the question whether Immortality of the Soul or Resurrection of the Body is the truth of the New Testament, has arrived at the conclusion that the Greek doctrine of Immortality can never be harmonized with that of Resurrection of the Body. The work was first published in Switzerland, and several French periodicals published fairly full summaries.

Dr. Cullmann's thesis has elicited a lot of opposition and criticism, and in this booklet, his critics are answered, as he feels effectively. Reference is made to the Ingersoll lecture on the "Immortality of Man", and it would be interesting to investigate if Ingersoll would have approved of the thesis of Dr. Cullmann.

Dr. Cullmann claims that his arguments are based on sound scientific exegetics, but, his critics have not met his exegetical evidence. There is such a problem of Scriptural Interpretation and Scriptural Exegesis standardized by Poorva Meemamsa system in Indian Thought as well.

The position taken up by Dr. Cullmann that exegetical arguments should be met or answered only on exegetical basis is quite correct and unexceptionable.

Student of Cristian Religion and Theology would find the booklet quite illuminating and provocative.

SECRETS OF KERALA ASTROLOGY—Translated from the Original Sanskrit into English—By Nemmara N. Krishna Rao—(Block A, Patri Nivas, 345, Chandavarkar Cross Road, Matunga, Bombay-19. Pp. 31. Price Rs. 2.50 nP. Postage etc., extra).

Mr. Nemmara N. Krishna Rao whose works Ashtakavarga Phala, Nirayana Positions of the Planets from 1958—2000 and others have already marked him out as an author of valuable books on astrology. He has now placed the public under a debt of gratitude by bringing out a translation into English of a comparatively little-known work in Sanskrit entitled Sukra Kerala Rahasya—Secrets of Kerala Astrology as propounded or expounded by Sukracharya. The work contains 423 stanzas which have been arranged by the author of the translation into convenient chapters (the original being without any such arrangement).

The translator notes that the Kerala work seems to have been modelled on the lines of Sarvartha Chintamani, and deals with some significant yogas (planetary mappings, conjunctions or configurations) but, the work, however, has characteristic independent features of its own which would be apparent to readers.

The first twelve chapters deal with the twelve Bhavas from the ascendant to the twelfth. The 13th is devoted to an exposition of "Miscellaneous Yogas", and the 14th gives an account of Karakatwa of planets. (Specific determinants of life values connected with each planet) extracts have also been given from Sarvartha Chintamani regarding profession.

The author has taken indeed, considerable pains to present in plain, simple and straightforward English, the contents of the original Sanskrit, and he has also noted that in certain cases, he has not been able to grasp the significance of the original text.

On page 30, stanza No. 17 does not seem to have been correctly rendered. It contains a rule to determine the ascendant, should any doubt or uncertainty spring up. The stanza runs —Chandralagnadhipo-yatra, etc. Reference is, here made to the ruler of the sign occupied by the Moon, but, in the translation, reference is made only to the sign and not the ruler.

The Karakatwas as mentioned by Mantri Lakshmi Narayana Sastri are also given as the author has found them satisfactory from practical experience. I am afraid the rendering "Effect of Sloka" is not quite correct. It should be "effects as described in the sloka."

The author has carefully pointed out that these yogas are applicable to charts prepared in Hindu fashion only, and foreign readers are requested to find the method of converting Western horoscopes into Hindu reckoning from his work on Ashtakavarga.

Mr. Krishna Rao, by means of the present translation, has shed illuminating light on an important branch or section of Hindu astrology.

ASTRONOMICAL EPHEMERIS FOR 1959—(Jiwaji Observatory, Ujjain. Pp. 65. Price Re. 1-4-0).

The Astronomical Ephemeris of Geocentric Places of Planets for 1959 has been as usual published under the authority and sanction of the Department of Public Instruction of Madhya Pradesh, and it is noted that the calculations have been made on the basis of Sayana method, and Nirayana positions will have to be obtained by subtracting the ayanamsa from the Sayana figure. It is further observed that heliocentric places of Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus and Neptune, have been obtained from Newcomb and Hill's Tables, and have been converted into geocentric latitude and longitudes. Publication of the Hindi edition has been postponed to 1960. The publication maintains its usual level of excellence and we converted it to for all students of astrology and astronomy.

TABLES OF SPHUTA LAGNA—By R. N. Ramasubban—(Ravanasamudram Tirunelveli Dist. Pp. 32. Price Re. 1.25 nP.)

Mr. R. N. Ramasubban, who is already known as author of valuable Tables like Tables of Saptavarga, Tables for Lagnas for Delhi and others has now brought out another booklet or pamphlet in which the Tables are given for Sphuta Lagna (precise or exact ascendant) for all places lying on 13 degrees N. Latitude from Mangalore to Madras. The period covered is 1900 to 1960, and it is a ready-reckoner, which will be found to be useful to all students and practitioners of Predictive Astrology, as accurate foretelling must largely depend on accurate determination of the correct Lagna. There are four tables. Table 1 gives the timings for Bangalore for 1900 (times of commencement of Lagnas). Corrections for different years are embodied in Table 2. The corrections for different places are indicated in Table 3. The exact degree of a particular Lagna can be found from Table 4. By actually working out three illustrative examples, the author has explained how the Tables are to be used and applied for determination of Lagna.

Mr. Ramasubban's silent and patient work will be surely beneficial to the astrologically-minded public.

LAHIRI'S INDIAN EPHEMERIS FOR 1959—(Astro-Research Bureau, 55-A, Raja Dinendra Street, Calcutta-6, Pp. 76. Price Rs. 2.50 nP.)

Lahiri's Indian Ephemeris of the positions of planets, according to the Indian or Nirayana system, for 1959 A.D., compiled by Astro Research Bureau, relates to the Saka era 1880—1881, Bengali San 1365—1366 and Samvat 2015—2016. The present issue which is said to be on the lines of its predecessors, contains certain additional Tables, in which timings of the planets entry into constellations (nakshatras) have been shown. In the place of the Indian Solar Date, the dates of the Government's so-called National Calendar have been shown. Also, from the next issue, it is proposed to adopt the Ayanamsa adopted by the Government of India. This Ephemeris has been calculated for the Central Meridian of India, (5h. 30m.) 82½ E. Longitude. Indian Standard Time has been observed throughout, though in certain cases local time has been the basis. (Tables on Pp. 62-63). "Anniversaries" and "Festivals" are noted, but, it is unfortunate that dates relating to Sankara, Ramanuja and Madhva have been omitted, or ignored, though the date concerning Buddha finds mention. But, dates relating to the Prophet of Jainism, Lord Mahavira have not been mentioned. I hope in the next issue, atleast these dates will be included for the benefit of the followers of these Saints and Prophets.

ASTRONOMICAL TABLES OF WORLD TIME CLOCK—By Pandit Gangaprasad Jyotishacharya—(Mahalakshmi Publications, Singpore Road, Morar, Madhya Pradesh. Pp. 258. Price Rs. 10.50 nP. or 21s.)

Pandit Gangaprasad Jyotishacharya, in his Astronomical Tables of World Time Clock has given the latitudes and longitudes of about 4,500, well-known cities of the world. In the course of his "Preface", Panditji observes that Indian Astrology would appear to have fallen on evil days, on account of differences found in the different almanacs and panchangs published in this country. Though 8 or 10 panchangs are calculated for the longitude of Banaras, they differ in the timings noted for sunrise, sunset, etc. A reliable and trustworthy almanac is the need of the hour.

The author has ventured on a prediction that Indian Astrology will recover all its lost glory in 1965. In this book are given easy methods of calculating the timings for sunrise, sunset, etc., for the whole world. Important Tables are given regarding the calculation of time in and outside India. It is claimed that with the help of this book, horoscope of any children, in any part of the world can be cast. Towards the end, a valuable note is to be found on "How to find out Exact Time of birth?" Pandit Gangaprasadaji's work is bound to be a valuable and reliable source of reference to all workers in astronomy and astrology.

JANMA BHOOMI PANCHANG—(Saurashtra Trust, Ghogha Street, Fort, Bombay-1. Pp. 207. Price Rs. 1.75 nP.)

The Janmabhoomi Panchang for Vikrama Samvat 2015—2016, and Saka 1881, prepared under the general editorship and control of Amrita Lal Lakshmichand Saha, maintains its usual level of eminence and its varied features found in previous issues. It is to be noted the Janmabhoomi Panchang is published both in Guzerati and Hindi. The publication contains not merely the familiar information regarding the Panchang, but, has also given a lot of astrological information. Planetary movements, transits and aspectarian are given. Developments in international trends and relationship in reference to India (Bharat) Pakistan, Asia, Europe, in general outlines, Africa, Britain, America and Russia are described and discussed, and the conclusion arrived at that there is no likelihood of any world war being waged this year. The writer Pandit Mareswara Sastry reveals perfect control over eastern and western systems of astrology. Commercial Forecasts have been contributed by Pandit Krishnaprasad Bhrigu Sastri who has taken trans-Saturnine planets into consideration. Medical astrology has also found its place, and Pandit Lakshminarayana Tripathi in assessing the effects of Kethu (D.T.) in Revati constellation, has come to the conclusion that in certain countries, national health, and international health also may be adversely affected. The Janmabhoomi-Panchang is a veritable boon to Hindi and Guzerati public.

THE INDIAN EPHEMERIS AND NAUTICAL ALMANAC FOR 1960.—Government of India, Meterological Department, Civil Lines, Delhi. Pp. 444. Price Rs. 13 or 20sh. 6d.)

The Indian Ephemeris and Nautical Almanac which has been published by the Government of India and the present publication for 1960 marks the third year of its existence. It is noted that Nautical Almanacs are computed and published by United Kingdom, United States of America, United States of Soviet Russia, France and Spain. It is said a corresponding German publication has been discontinued after publication of issue for 1957. A very significant change has been introduced from the present edition. The places of planets have been shown in accordance with the Ephemeris Time, which is slightly different from Universal Time (Greenwich Mean). The changes introduced in the present publication are described and discussed in the course of "Introduction". Part I deals with Sun, Moon and Planets. Part II is devoted to stars. Eclipses and occultation are dealt with in Part III. Miscellaneous tables are given in Part IV. Part V contains the Indian Calendar.

Uninitiated readers will find the numbering of Principal Festivals on Pp. 410 to say the least amusing. The beginning is marked abruptly by ☌ 78. The series runs on to 90.

CC-0. Mumukshu Bhawan Varanasi Collection. Digitized by eGangotri. All Rights Reserved. Non-commercial Use Only. Work

Then, a beginning is made with No 1. The series runs on to 80. One sees that numbers 78 to 90 relate to Saka year 1881, and 1 to 80 relate to Saka 1882. Some explanation might have been added. As it is, a lay-reader may be excused, if he or she be left wondering how and why a list of festivals commences rather abruptly with 78. The publication is well get up and is bound to be of great use to students of astrology and astronomy. But still it is an open question, whether the Government of India had been well advised in uudertaking publication of a national calendar.

Of course, to keep in line with other countries like Britain and America, the Indian Government may publish its own Nautical Almanac for its own secular purposes and for meeting of the secular demands. It is not clear if a secular Government should go so far in its campaign of Nationalization (sic) as to publish a National Calendar for the whole of Bharat fixing days and occasions of religious significance as well.

SANSKRIT–TAMIL

PADUKA SAHASRA of Sri Vedanta Desika—Translated into Tamil—By D. T. Tatacharya, M.O.L.—(Sarasakala Nilayam, No. 8, South Mada Street, Mylapore, Madras-4. Pp. 734. Price Rs. 15.)

Sri Vedanta Desika, the celebrated and illustrious champion of the Vasishta Advaita of Sri Ramanuja (1268 A.D.—1369 A.D.) is a dazzling personality in the historical evolution of Indian philosophy who has to his credit over a hundred works of rare merit and excellence, and this world famous philosopher, who has hit a literary century can be likened to Jayatirtha of the Dvaita school and and Appayya Dikshita or Vachaspati Misra of the Advaita school. Side by side with philosophical treatises, Vedanta Desika has also written several purely literary works the value and importance of which from the standpoint of rhetoric and prosody in Sanskrit stand very high.

Paduka Sahasra is a striking poetical work of Vedanta Desika in which the eternal and undying glory has been sung of the sacred sandals (footwear) of Lord Sri Ranganatha. In the Srivaishnava fold, different stories are current about the origin of this work. It is well known that Tenkalai and Vadakalai sections are engaged in some despite or another, and in the present case, the Vadakalai version is that under the stress of some competitive challenge thrown out by a scholar of Tenkalai persuasion, Vedanta Desika composed this work within the short space of a single night. Others maintain that it was composed within a sirgle Yama of a Night (i.e., 3 hours.)

The Tenkalai version, on the other hand, denies the story as narrated by Vadakalai section, and seeks to maintain that Vedanta Desika composed the work just at the request of some of his disciples and admirers, and there was neither controversy nor challenge of any kind.

I have absolutely no desire to take sides in this controversy, but, it may be noted that Vedanta Desika himself refers to the existence of envious and jealous persons who always seek to hide, deny, or belittle the value of meritorious works. (Stanza 1004, Pp. 714).

Panditaraja D. T. Tatacharya has done this great work into Tamil in a very striking and attractive manner. Each stanza is printed in bold Devanagari type, and word by word rendering and informative and instructive notes have been subjoined under each stanza.

The author has contributed a "Preface" (Prasthavam) and an "Introduction" (Upodghatam). In the course of the latter, biographical details and literary merits of Sri Vedanta Desika and his work have been enumerated.

The Sandals (Paduka) are in some places referred to as those of Lord Ranganatha. In other places, they are referred to as those of Sri Rama. Yet, in other places, they are glorified as those of the Supreme Lord himself, without any specification.

The work is divided into 32 sections. Each is known as a Paddhati. (Step). There are altogether 1008 stanzas. In Sanskrit rhetoric and prosody, ornamentation is of two kinds. One is verbal ornamentation or embellishment. (Sabda chitra). The other is ornamentation or embellishment in meaning and constructive imagery. (Artha chitra).

All important figures of speech have been employed. A striking instance of verbal ornamentation is to be found in section 30 the whole of which is devoted to rhetorical ornamentation. I refer to stanzas 935 and 936. Each is made up of a single letter. (TA and YA respectively).

Wonderful ideas have been embodied by Vedanta Desika in the work. I shall refer just to three.

Though subordinated by the great one should patiently serve, the same master. For, downtrodden though, footwear actually got a kingdom from Rama at the proper moment. (Stanza 830).

Vedanta Desika observes that during the reign of Paduka, nothing untoward happened. No member of the prohibited caste did penance. There was no premature death of any young person. Paduka reign was thus superior to Rama Rajya. This is one of the finest reflections of the author which stand unsurpassed anywhere in any literature in the world. (Stanza 153).

Or, again, Vedanta Desika was no respector of persons, howsoever eminent these may be or may be imagined to be. He proclaims to the world he prefers to serve the footwear of Lord Ranganatha with folded hands, and he would never spread out his hands (unfolded) before any arrogant rich person. (Stanza 968). Most probably, there seems to be some autobiographical touch in this.

Vedanta Desika observes that envious and jealous persons deny merit even where it exists. Friends hide the faults. He would like neither. Addressing Paduka, he exclaims—you alone are impartial witness of both merits and demerits. (Stanza 1004).

All I can say is the manifold excellences of this work of Vedanta Desika will be best understood and appreciated only by those who can control the original Sanskrit. Those who cannot, would readily welcome the translation of Pandit Tatacharya.

Vedanta Desika's present work has amply vindicated the honourific bestowed on him—Kavi Tarkika Kesari —Lion amongst logicians and poets. His metaphysical treatises par excellence vindicate the title–Lion amongst Logicians.

NOTABLE HOROSCOPES

By B. V. RAMAN

A reliable guide to Practical Astrology

This does not contain startling predictions and amazing forecasts. But it is the product of investigations and studies by the Author presented here in an orderly and specific form but in simple language easily understandable by the average readers.

One is born a beggar but becomes a ruler. One is born a ruler but becomes a begger, How and Why? What combinations make one a Scientist, Physicist, Chemist, Botanist, Poet, Politician, Statesman, Artist, Murderer, Dissimulator, etc.

Though several circumstances are the same for the rich and the poor alike, there will be certain astrological peculiarities in Notable Horoscopes (e.g., Tagore, Nehru, Hitler, C. R. Das, Prof. Rao, Einstein, etc.) which are easily discernible and a careful study of which would enable one to acquire that practical knowledge and experience which is otherwise impossible.

This work shows that birth date and time are of supreme importance as determining not only character but also eventful periods of life.

The book contains the horoscopes of notable persons—their birth data, planetary positions, Dasas and Bhukthis in which important events have taken place in their lives. Then the various combinations which have produced different types of great men are carefully analysed with a view to showing to the readers, the practical application of Raja Yogas, Daridra Yogas and the like. The book also demonstrates the truth of Vimshottari Dasa.

SOME OF THE HOROSCOPES CONTAINED IN THE BOOK

Sri Krishna, Adi Sankara, Akbar, Alexander, Gautama Buddha, Jesus Christ, Prophet Mahomed, Augustus, Goethe, Aurangzeb, Gandhi, Ramakrishna Paramahamsa, Vivekananda, Tilak, B. Suryanarain Rao, Aurobindo Ghose, Ramana Maharshi, Sri Thyagaraja, Sri Vidyaranya, Rabindranath Tagore, Hitler, Mussolini, Abraham Lincoln, Subhas Bose, Jagadish Bose, Milton, Savarkar, Annie Besant, Bernard Shah, Godse, Stalin, Nehru, Eisenhower, Maotse-Tung, C. R. Das, Ashutosh Mukherjee, Sree Chaitanya, Karl Marx, Nero, Duke of Windsor, etc.

And also horoscopes illustrative of extreme religiousness, suicidal tendencies and certain other definite traits.

GRAHA AND BHAVA BALAS (SIXTH EDITION)

A Unique Treatise for measuring the Strengths of Planets and Houses numerically

By B. V. RAMAN

An entirely new book on Mathematical Astrology. The first real effort to present the complicated methods of assigning planetary and house strengths in a popular and easy style. Suitable for even laymen it is just what enquirers have long been seeking containing as it does everything necessary for a quick and accurate study of astrological mathematics so very essential for correct predictions.

Experts and students will welcome this new publication.

Astrological Section

READERS will pardon me if I draw their attention to my remarks in the June issue asking them unreservedly to support bears in cotton market. When the article was written in the month of May, no statistician could have foreseen the fall in cotton values. The immediate cause was the decision of Sudanese Government to allow a discount to the Overseas purchasers. Whatever the mediate or immediate cause be in bringing about a change in the expectation of men, the events have been a sufficient proof of the value of astrology in commercial matters.

For the month of September, I shall dwell on the precious metals according to Nirayana methods. The Sun passes through Purvaphalguna and Uttaraphalguna during the month. Mercury will join it in Purvaphalguna from the 8th. This will cause a rise in silver values specially. At the same time, the passage of Venus from Makha will restrict the bullish temper and prevent the march of values taking a strident turn. Sani's transit through Moola and Rahu's through Hasta serve the same cause of a rise in the values of precious metals.

Jupiter changes the nakshatra on the 15th. This does not have an effect directly on the bullion market, but cheapens the grains and reduces the cost of living. This enables the poor people in the long run to effect some savings which are usually invested by them in the precious metals.

But there is another important phenomenon occurring. Mars passes out of Uttaraphalguna and enters Hasta on the 11th. Here it forms a very important vedha with Kethu and since Kethu is in Uttarabhadrapada, the political atmosphere of cold war will be surcharged with considerable heat. I therefore wish to warn the readers that this hot international tension is likely to raise the values of precious metals and oilseeds.

It is to be noted that there is no vedha at all between any of the planets from 1st to 10th September. Thus the transit of planets as described in the second para plays an important part in determining the values and later the vedha of Mars on Kethu adds the fuel to the fire in bullion markets.

The Sayana maps drawn for the time of the Sun's entry into Virgo for various important capitals of the world indicate a state of extreme preparedness. Once again the Formosan waters come into the picture; there is also a likelihood of England being involved with China this time owing to Hong Kong. Therefore I look forward to a rise in the values of gold and silver, and oilseeds as well.

Elsewhere in this issue, I have remarked on the unsatisfactory nature of monsoon this year. The dry weather conditions will therefore have an important effect on the price level of oilseeds. My advice is therefore to sail with the bulls on the high seas of bullion and oilseeds markets.

The bullish atmosphere will be particularly strong upto the 21st—thereafter there will be both-sided movements with the balance in favour of bulls.

Economic Section

In these columns, it has been advocated that shares of banking companies and insurance companies should not be retained in one's investment portfolio. Some of the critical readers like to know the reasons.

The general public is aware of the policy of the Government to introduce co-operative societies in every sector of society. Co-operative enterprise is no doubt a bulwark against communism. I do not wish to burden the readers about the idealistic theorems of the philosophy of co-operation but would like to point out the fairly happy conditions in countries where it has been tried.

In the very progressive and capitalist countries like England, Sweden and Denmark and among the Commonwealth, New Zealand, co-operative societies have done much to improve the standard of life of the workers, and have established first-rate norms of quality of the manufactured products. They have prevented the exploitation of workers, cut out the middlemen, and distributed the profits of the element of risk among the workers themselves.

If co-operative societies are established in India, it will be natural that they will have to be financed by Government organisations. Let us take the example of agricultural sector of society. The crops will be taken to co-operative credit societies or the State Bank of India. The insurance of such crops will naturally be passed on to the companies which are under the public sector. Thus the private sector, which has been doing this financing of crops will lose a considerable part of the business devoted to the marketing of crops.

Thus the members of a co-operative society will not suffer through the lack of finances; more still, the exploitation of the peasantry would come to an end. The writer holds no brief for capitalism or socialism, he merely wants to examine the economic institutions and wants to explain to the unwary public as to how the economic forces work. If at all, he holds a brief for the middle classes who are the salt-of the earth.

Throughout the centuries of history, the middle classes have led the progressive forces and taking a cue from the history of nations, our middle classes who are now so crushed as to have no energy for protecting their interests, must organise themselves; and the co-operative societies are one of the best mechanisms to deal a blow to the exploiters both above and under the middle classes.

The co-operative finance ensures that the producers will legitimately get a share of rising prices during the off-season. The produce will be stored in the godowns of co-operative societies and black market would naturally come to a stop. Similarly in the manufacturing sector of society, the margin of profit that constitutes the difference between the cost and selling price will be passed on to the producers themselves. At the same time, the margin of profit will certainly diminish. Thus the consumers will

Weather Forecasts for September 1959

BY D. R. MUNSIFF, B.Sc. (Econ.), London, B.A. (Hons.), (Bombay).

BEFORE I start on the subject proper, I wish to draw the attention of the readers to June-July weather. The monsoon in the Bombay State was indicated to break out between 23rd and 26th. Further stormy cloud-bursts were also given for the 1st of July. Further it was also said that inspite of stormy indications, the rainfall would be shorter than the average. Next for Bengal, the weather was said to be still hotter and drier than normal. Last but not least for the farther North-East India, destructive weather was forecast for both May and June. These have been amply borne out. Further the Editor will bear me out that the forecast happens to be in his hands fully two months in advance. If there was a team of astrologers drawing up horoscopes for the time of various celestial phenomena like the formation of exact major and minor aspects between planets and for the time of entry into different signs of all the planets, the results would be far more accurate and known much earlier than our meteorologists can do.

Once again, I give the particulars of the horoscope for the time of Sun's entry into Virgo so as to arrive at certain judgments about August-September weather. I say certain because the other maps which I have said in previous issues to be just as essential are taken into consideration.

For the Bombay State, the last decanate of Leo happens to fall on the 4th house, with Gemini and Sagittarius on the 1st and 7th houses respectively. Thus three dry and hot signs occupy the angles. Further, though the degrees may differ the map remains true of Central and Western India. Therefore, on the whole, the weather will be much drier and hotter than normal. Secondly, Sun the hot planet will be in the vicinity of the 4th house cusp, generating and maintaining its effect exclusively on the weather. The soil therefore in these regions will remain dry and thirsty. Sun is in conjunction with Pluto which will generate winds of some fury and cause dust storms.

Such gusty days are 27th, 28th August, 4, 6 (but this can be a rainy day as well), 12th, 14th, 17th, 2nd 22nd September. These days will also be hot, much hotter, than the average in particular the 27th August, 4th, 12th, 17th, 21st and 22nd Sept.

There is likely to be a good deal of precipitation of rain on 24th and 29th August. 1st September will be cloudy with scattered showers, so also the 2nd with winds added; 5th temperature distinctly falling with showers; 7th cloudy, hazy with mild breezes; 11th and 12th will witness winds with high speed; 13th and 14th mild and equable climate. Though there will be no rain on 17th and 18th, yet there will be very strong winds. Similarly the 21st will be stormy but wet as well. The Parsis in Bombay will be able to enjoy their New Year without their clothes being spoiled as is normally the routine.

For Bengal, Bihar and U P., the stormy sign of Virgo falls on the 4th cusp. Since Virgo rules manual labour and foodstuffs, it becomes doubly important. Unfortunately the planet Mars is in the vicinity of the particular cusp indicating destruction of crops by pests and insects. Still more, the ruler of the 4th house is in close conjunction with the eccentric planet Uranus and tenants the hot and electric sign of Leo. The effects of all these are irregularly unfortunate. There will be many storms of concentrated fury which will cause the destruction of standing crops. The weather will be generally drier than normal.

28th and 29th August are the days when localised storms will hit a good many spots. 30th will be hot and dry with stormy breezes. 2nd September will give rise to hot and dusty winds. There will be widespread showers on the 5th; 6th thunderstorms; 7th rainy with mild breezes; 14th thunder showers; 15th will have widespread drizzles; 16th may gives scattered showers; 17th widespread showers all over the region. There will be thunder showers on the 18th.

For the North-East region, the sign Libra ruled by the beneficent Venus falls on the 4th cusp with Cancer and Capricorn occupying the 1st and 7th houses. The weather therefore will be just as it ought to be. After the early ravages of monsoon this region will be now under the grace of nature and the crops will flourish. There will be timely and regular rain as required for the crops of the season.

stand to gain. But all these financing of the manufacturing units will be done through the State Bank or its agencies or some other institutions of co-operative finance. Thus the business that is now in the hands of private enterprise will gradually, but much sooner than is realised by the public, pass out of their hands.

Having pointed this out, it is also instructive to delve in some of the present abuses which prevail now in some of the co-operative societies. In the Bombay State, there have sprung up many co-operative societies devoted to the financing of cotton crops. Some of them have done outstanding service to the peasantry but in others, the office-bearers have misappropriated large sums of money or have done their best to mis-spend the money. In some cases, large buildings have been erected, in many, there are large sums shown in the balance sheets spent after entertainment, and similarly after food charges of the members. To prevent such abuses for their own sake, and to inspire confidence among the public, as well as to serve the cause of co-operation, the Government must take vigorous steps to eradicate these evils without fear or favour irrespective of the fact as to how high or politically influential these guilty of financial abuses may be.

Once again, to the well placed middle classes, the suggestion is put forward for their organisation and mustering their financial strength. The individual financial strength of the middle classes is very low but the combined strength can be a power to reckon with. It is no longer possible to form a banking society the essence of which is to accept deposit accounts payable on demand by a cheque; but it is within the rights of a society to accept long-term deposits and to utilise these funds for financing local agricultural and small-scale manufacturing enterprise. This process will eliminate the gross abuses, the power to execute and carry out which is accidentally but deliberately passed into the hands of those who control the big financial houses.

If this financial strength is organised in a group of homogeneous well-knit districts and in every state, social and political power will follow. It is not the formation of political parties that well succeed in achieving the objects of our society. It is of course taken for granted that the objectives are freedom of thought and power to preach them; freedom to further one's economic good and to secure the fruits of one's labour. It is astonishing to find that those who are responsible for forming a conservative party hope to win an election, against those who give irresponsible promises to catch the votes of landless and jobless proletariate. It is clear that the goods which the proletariate desires, the conservative party cannot deliver nor can promise but the Congress Party promises knowing fully well that it cannot deliver.

The conservatives or whatever they call themselves, should aim at limited objectives; if they achieve the social and economic good in a limited sector, it would become a goal for many others to achieve. One joins and follows the rising star; that is the position which the middle classes will have to attain to save themselves from annihilation.

The ground is now ripe for the middle classes to come forward and prosper their cause. The proposal to levy a third plan promotion tax is already not merely mooted, but discussed in a serious vain with regard to the quantum The Congress was preaching against the absentee landlords declaiming them as bloodsuckers but now the absentee state comes in to perpetuate the power of the ruling party. Having won the votes of the landless tenants at the cost of untold misery inflicted on all the members of the landed class, they are now bidding for the votes of the agricultural labour at the expense of the recently established small peasantry. It is natural for the captalist entrepreneur class to support such a measure of betterment levy, once out of a sense of grievance and secondly out of the necessity to escape taxation from their own heads. If the middle classes come forward now with an impartial sense of justice to serve the cause of community, there is a God-given opportunity to gain strength and to attain power.

On this subject of impartial justice, it is worthwhile enquiring as to how many organisations of the so-called forum of free enterprise have raised their protest against the exuberant but vindictive statements of the Prime Minister against the distinguished members of the judiciary who were invited to preside over the Boards of inquiry at the Prime Minister's own initiative. The Prime Ministers obiter dictas are an indication of the authoritarian temper in the highest and closed circle of the ruling Congress Party.

The special levy is discussed describing as if the prosperity of agricultural classes has improved and yet the Government declares that there has been a failure or a short fall in the small savings movement. I would go far to state that the economic condition of agricultural classes has worsened. The Government deliberately closes its eyes because the maladies it claimed of curing while winning the elections, have become chronique. The food shortage is clearly revealed in most of the States of India so much so that the food deficit in Bengal constitutes as much as 58% of the important quantity by the Government of India.

What has the Government done in Bengal? It imposed partial controls on grains trade and then removed them. Inspite of the failure of control, the Bombay State as now embarked upon the same programme in the case of sugar-trade. When the Congress was not in power, its leaders were in favour of hanging the black marketeers but now the Government of Bengal refused to give power to the Police to search the godowns of wholesalers. If the Government is so conscious of public welfare, it can at least publish widely the names of those guilty of black-marketing. It is upto the members of the ruling party to galvanise the conscience of the community against those guilty of lining their pockets even at the cost of increasing the misery of the poor. If the Government were to have its eyes open, it would find persons highly placed in society of having been found guilty of smuggling. Why should their names be not regularly published so that the community knows the true worth of such persons who parade the virtue of charity?

BY MANUBHAI P. SHUKLA,
"Sukla Vas", P.O. Patdi.

The political matters forecasted for August 1959 hold good to some extent for this month as well. Lunar Bhadrapada runs parallel to September 1959. Lunar Bhadrapada is ruled by Sun and Sharad Rutu covering this month is ruled by Mercury. Mercury gets accelerated motion. Mercury and Sun both are aspected by Saturn. Venus in trine-aspect from Saturn, along with Sun, Mercury, Mars indicate excess of rains in Northern India, Bihar, Orissa, while indifferent weather in Southern India. Such phenomena create stringent markets in grains, foodstuffs and commodities. Setting of Mars indicates that the Forward Market Commission will apply sanctions and injunctions in optional deals, but it will do nothing to bring down the price-level in the spot markets of foodstuffs.

Venus and Mercury pass through Amrita and Jala Nadis respectively during this month. This phenomenon read along with the Sun–Moon–Venus conjunction in Simha Rasi indicate floods in North India, Bengal, Bihar and Orissa. The people will pass through trouble and enemies. Crops will be devastated. Two lunar days are missing in the first fortnight of Bhadrapada ; this plus the solar eclipse on 2nd proximo on a Friday, in Hasta constellation foretell bullish tone in camphor, scented articles, sandalwood, medicines, herbs and roots, rice, pulses, ghee, oil, sugar, gur and silver. This solar eclipse takes place in the Janma Rasi of India. So Indian masses will have to pass through distressed conditions. The administrators will have to face severe criticism and strong opposition from rival parties.

Cotton.—Solar conjunction with Mars and Rahu in Virgo, i.e., 4th in the cotton speculation sign, indicates destruction of crops due to inclement weather. Venus and Mercurian investments indicate good crops in certain areas. So the merchants in those parts will be sellers in strong market tone and cause a check in further advance in cotton prices. Declines in coton prices are possible from 5th to 12th; 13th to 17th very steady or advances are anticipated ; 18th to 20th bearishness due to timely rains ; 21st to 25th advancing tone ; 26th to 30th sluggish or bearish trend. The prices will move within Rs. 15 to Rs. 20 on decline and on rising side.

Bullions.—Phases of Mercury and Venus in retrograde state have much to do during this month for this section. The month opens with a bullish tone in gold. Between 6th and 10th silver prices will be declining, but from 11th to 17th both gold and silver will have appreciated tone. From 18th, gold prices will be weakened till 24th. This period is likely to continue till the end ; heavy rises in prices are not possible ; but heavy declines are anticipated.

Seeds.—Prices of castorseeds will be under strong effect of Mercury and Venus. The opening of the month may prove to be sluggish or on the decline till 8th ; but thereafter strong bullish tone till 16th or 17th. The restrictions are likely to be applied on 17th or 18th to curb the speculative elements but a sudden good jerk is anticipated till 22nd, with reactions till 26th and bearishness from 27th to 30th.

Groundnuts.—From 1st to 16th, it is bullish for this section, but thereafter it would be one-sided bearish. Favourable crop-reports and injunctions by the Forward Commission in other markets are possible in this section. They should be very cautious between 15th and 17th.

Linseeds.—This section will rule weak till 7th ; but thereafter strong till 15th or 17th. From 17th bearish effects will be experienced till the end of the month.

Sarsoo.—This crop is very likely to face devastation due to heavy floods in sarsoo-growing areas. Bullish sentiment will prevail till 17th and thereafter decline in prices.

Jaggery.–The prices, in this section, will rule weak till 8th or 9th ; 10th to 15th recovery period ; 16th to end of the month bearish, on account of favourable weather reports and big release of sugar stocks by the Government. Sugar prices will remain steady throughout.

Grain Markets.—This section will rule strong. Rice, wheat, bajree, joowar, urad, toowar, and moonga markets will rule strong till 15th. Only the Government's action on 17th will bring down the prices, especially in pulses. We advise traders to be more humane and honest in their deals. Lunar Magha Krishna Panchami falls on Friday. This pre-indicates rise in wheat, rice, moonga and ghee in this month.

Cocoanut Oil.—Month opens with a strong bullish tone, which continues till 10th. Steady decline from 11th to 23rd, and sudden rise in the remaining part of the month due to heavy destruction of crops by severe cyclonic weather are indicated.

Black Pepper.–Strong bullish undertone will be maintained with narrow fluctuations. Occasional rises are denoted during 11th to 16th, and 28th to 30th and decline from 6th to 10th, and 22nd to 27th.

Rubber.—Appreciated market trend from 1st to 15th and thereafter gradual fall on account of diminished demand are indicated. Mars-Rahu conjunction indicates poor crops in comparison to the demand.

Chemicals.—This section will rule strong from 1st to 5th ; weak from 6th to 10th; strong from 11th to 15th and thereafter steady till end.

Stocks and Shares.—Buying is advised between 1st and 10th ; 11th to 15th, strong, bullish period prevails ; 16th to 20th the period is steady but fluctuating ; 21st to 26th sudden drop; and 27th to 30th recoveries on account of purchases at lowered rates are indicated.

On the whole, entry of Jupiter into Anuradha on 16th is favourable to our Prime Minister and he is very likely to take suitable steps in the interest of Indian masses. An important announcement is expected on 17th or 18th September 1959, causing heavy declines in the price structure of several markets.

BY A. P. SATHE

Dr. Deshmukh Building,

Dr. Deshmukh Lane, Bombay–4

The month of September coincides with Lunar Bhadrapada. The Sukla Paksha or the bright half of Bhadrapada is of 13 days only. This factor, our ancients, have mentioned to denote bearishness, by destructions, i.e., some such thing might take place which would bring in prices good declines. All ancient references must be taken to study commodity trends rather than for industrials or stocks in general. Retrogression of Venus and her rise in the east on 6th, setting of Mercury in the east in fast motion, and the direct motion of Saturn. Mutual aspects with the major planets, and Mars getting combusted indicate wide, heavy and erractic fluctuations in the commodity and stock markets of the country. Mars–Saturn square in the first week, Sun–Saturn square and Sun–Rahu conjunction in the third week would influence the markets more. Teji reactions would be witnessed at times rather abrupt. Those taking advantage of these spurts for selling purposes, would get a chance to earn by the 24th September 1959. The whole month points out wide range of fluctuations bothways, and traders or speculators having Mars and Saturn square in their radical chart, should, in fact be out of the market for some time, lest they would have unfavourable times resulting in heavy losses out of their own actions.

1st, 6th, 11th, 17th, 23rd seem to be the turning points for almost all sections of commodity and stock markets.

Solar Ingress charts of 17th August and 17th September.

Leo Solar Ingress chart, no doubt, indicates bearishness in commodities, but if there had already been a good drop in values at the end of August, it will be safer for bears to come out off the bearish line. With the entry of Mercury in Leo, four planets would be posited in this sign. The entry time of Mercury in Leo is not very auspicious or denoting good rises, but there onwards till 11th September 1959 commodities might witness, rise, specially from 6th September 1959 onwards. It will be safer therefore to buy in drops all commodities in the first week. The period from 11th till 17th appears again a bearish period to some extent. But real fall will commence with the entry of Sun in Virgo. I am giving below the chart for this Solar Ingress. Under the mutual aspect of Sun-Saturn square and Sun-Rahu combination all commodities would lose good ground from 17th till 24th. One, buying in these falls, would again have a good opportunity of good gains by the end of the month. In general commodities would rise and fall in the following manner: 1st to 6th steady with little fall from 3rd to 5th; 6th evening to 10th evening teji; 11th to 17th bothways narrow fluctuations-little down; 18th to 24th good drop and 25th till end teji.

New Moon Chart of 3rd Sept. 1959

This chart indicate that the Lagna lord occupies 12th with Ravi and Moon (Amavasya). This fact is not at all favouring rise in stock values. However with entry of the Sun and Mercury in Virgo, the position in this chart improves, but because of the Sun-Saturn square the values of industrial shares and stocks would remain somewhat subdued. One picking up in falls between 17th to 23rd would be benefitted as good inclines are expected from 24th evening onwards till the end of the month.

Cotton and Allied Products.—Mercury in fast motion and Venus in retrogression in Magha throughout one month are not indicating so bullish factors for this section; Saturn's direct transit in Moola, Punarvasu remaining all along under vedhas, martian transit in Uttaraphalguna are factors, which will not allow prices to go down till 11th. After 11th, one drop would be witnessed till about 24th. It will be followed by good upsurge of prices in the last week. The fluctuations in this commodity would mainly be governed by rainfall. In March 1960 Vaida would be in operation on account of the transit of all the three planets—Mars, Mercury and Venus in the 12th house. This position is not good, though occasional rise would be witnessed because of martian transit; one selling till 24th would have a good chance to earn; 1st and 2nd steady; 3rd to 5th fall; 6th to 11th teji; 12th to 24th mandi; and 25th till end teji.

Oilseeds.–Saturn getting direct, Mercury in fast motion and Mars transitting in Virgo, specially in the initial stages in Uttaraphalguna, this section would comparatively remain strong and might show good rise at times. 1st to 11th it would be teji with mandi reactions on 4th and 5th, 11th noon to 17th bothway fluctuating, 18th to 24th mandi, and 25th till end good rise. This section would witness heavy wide fluctuations. Government policies and rumours about price control, or distribution would hamper this market. It is likely that during this month, Government might take some concrete steps to stop unlimited speculations, and control the prices in such a way that fair prices would be obtainable. Good exports would be possible with foreign countries. Traders should watch their position and commitments well.

Metals and Bullions.—This section would show steady rising conditions are on account of the transit of Sun and Mars in Uttaraphalguna, in the initial stages, followed by Jupiter in Anuradha. Possible fall during 17th to 24th only is expected, Comparatively silver would witness a good fall during these days, rather than gold. Other metals would remain strong Stocks and Shares.—New Moon chart of 3rd September denotes fall in values upto 24th. Saturn and Rahu in navamsa are having favourable relations. Mercury transitting along with Mars in Virgo is not inauspicious for stocks values. 1st and 2nd it would be steady and 3rd till 24th fall in general. It is advisable to pick up in falls during 17th to 24th. Good rise is indicated from 25th September 1959. To sell in every rise upto 17th, while to buy in every fall after 17th, would be a good policy in this market.

Lastly, I would like to state here that hereafter natural calamities would be on the increase, and commodity and stock markets would be more influenced by such happenings in some way or the other. The span of time from here onwards till February 1962 (eight-planet combination), the universe would experience many unnatural disasters. According to my humble opinion such combinations would be giving results much earlier and the effects do last for a longer period. Whatever effects astrologers may be predicting through other columns of the esteemed magazine, according to me, it would not be taking place in a day but spread over during a period of 3 years commencing from now onwards.

Again I hint that speculators should remain within their limits during this month if they do not wish to get trapped in the wide and abrupt changes in the price trends that would be witnessed during this month.

THE SUN

The Sun proceeds from the 16th degree of Nirayana Leo, enters Virgo on the 15th and goes upto the 15th degree of the same sign. His northern declination gradually decreases from 8° 38′ to 0°, when he comes to the Autumnal Equinox on the 23rd. After that he proceeds towards the south of the equator upto 2° 25′.

THE MOON

The Moon starts from the 21st degree of Nirayana Cancer, and after making a complete round of the heavens goes upto the 12th degree of Nirayana Leo. He crosses the equator on the 4th and also on the 17th. He goes to the Perigee on the 7th and to the Apogee on the 23rd. He attains maximum declination on the 10th and also on the 24th. He comes to his ascending node on the 4th and to his descending node on the 17th. He forms with the Sun the following aspects during the month.

New Moon	on	3rd	at about 7 a.m.
First quarter	on	10th	,, 3 a.m.
Full Moon	on	17th	,, 6 a.m.
Last quarter	on	25th	,, 8 a.m.

MARS AND MERCURY

Mars moves from the 6th degree of Nirayana Virgo to 24th degree of the same sign.

Mercury progresses from the 1st degree of Nirayana Leo, enters Virgo on the 16th and goes up to the 24th degree of the same sign. He crosses the equator towards the south on the 22nd and sets in the east on the 5th.

JUPITER AND VENUS

Jupiter moves from the 3rd degree of Nirayana Scorpio to 8th degree,

Venus retrogrades from the 17th to 8th degree of Nirayana Leo. He becomes direct on the 23rd and goes upto the 10th degree of the same sign at the end of the month. He rises heliacally in the east on the 5th.

SATURN AND RAHU

Saturn retrogrades from the 9th degree of Nirayana Sagittarius, gets direct on the 5th and goes upto 10th degree of Nirayana Sagittarius

Rahu moves back from 13° 21′ of Nirayana Virgo to 11° 50′ of the same sign.

OTHER PLANETS

Uranus progresses from 26° 12′ of Nirayana Cancer to 27° 46′ of the same sign, Neptune moves on from 12° 54′ of Nirayana Libra to 13° 45′ of the same sign.

Pluto starts from 12° 15′ of Nirayana Leo and proceeds upto 13° 10′.

LUNAR CONJUNCTIONS

The Moon will form conjunctions with planets in the following order:

Mercury	on	2nd	at about 3 a.m.
Pluto	on	2nd	,, 9 p.m.
Venus	on	3rd	,, 4 a.m.
Sun	on	3rd	,, 7 a.m.
Mars	on	4th	,, 4 p.m.
Rahu	on	5th	,, 1 a.m.
Neptune	on	7th	,, 5 a.m.
Jupiter	on	8th	,, 4–30 p.m.
Saturn	on	11th	,, 3 a.m.
Uranus	on	29th	,, 4 a.m.
Venus	on	30th	,, 1 a.m.

YOGA, PSYCHOLOGY AND PARAPSYCHOLOGY

'convincing case' of Mrs. Hester Dowden, controlled or possessed by a number of spirits (Pp. 160). A seance was held at her house by Mrs. Dribbell through a friend. The medium did not know who Mrs. Dribbell was, and what were her family circumstances. Mrs. Dribbell had married a Dutch gentleman, but didn't know the Dutch language. She asked the medium to put her in touch with her Dutch husband's relatives. Immediately the medium gave all the names of his relatives quite correctly and wrote some statements in the Dutch language. Price writes: "Every name and statement was correct", and Mrs. Dribbell herself did not know all the facts which Mrs. Dowden gave through Ouja board, and Mrs. Dribbell's opinion was that "she was contacting minds functioning independently of her own and that of the medium".

Under the caption "Automatic Slate Writing" in his book Life Beyond Death, Swami Abhedananda of the Ramakrishna Mission while in U.S.A. has given a more convincing account of his own experience of this method of proving survival of the human spirit. He says (Pp. 234): "On 4–8–1899, I attended seance, where I saw automatic typewriting on a typewriter. Everybody gave the names of their departed friends. I also gave Jogan's name. In reply I received the name of Jogan, written with a blue pencil. I wanted to find out who wrote it". Next morning, the Swami was invited to the house of Mr. Keeler, a slate-writing medium. He brought out two slates, both sides of which were sponged by the Swami himself. Keeler then asked him to write some questions to the spirit with whom he wished to communicate. The Swami wrote out his questions in the Bengali language on a slip of paper, and put the folded slip on the top of the two slates, which were tied with a handkerchief, putting a small pencil in between. Then they both held the bound slates, with their own hands. Keeler asked the Swami, whether he had written the name of his friend in English as his control medium might not know the Bengali language and would be puzzled to know whom to call. The Swamiji again wrote on another slip the name of Jogan in English with a query to Jogan 'Are you here? Answer my questions written in Bengali'? He folded the slip and put it on the bound slates. After a few minutes, Keeler said, 'Jogan is here'. Then Swamiji says: "I heard the scratching noise of the moving pencil from inside the slates. It was over in two seconds. I felt an electric shock in my arms, while the pencil was moving. We opened the slates and found the following words written legibly 'I find no one here who can answer the questions'. Keeler himself then said: 'Why, your friend is here, he must write'. He then cleaned the slates with a wet sponge, fixed them again, and held them as before. A few minutes after, I heard the scratching noise again and felt an electric shock also". When the writing was over, they found slate-writing in four different languages—Sanskrit, Greek, English and Bengali. Keeler was very much surprised as he did not know Sanskrit, Greek and Bengali. Swamiji says that except himself at Lily Dale, not a single man knew Sanskrit and Bengali, and he was surprised to find the handwriting in Bengali quite resembled that of his friend's. He took the slates away with himself. He has given

FOR SEPTEMBER 1959

BY MIHIRA

[The following forecasts based on Janma Rasi are general and as such those having favourable aspects according to present Dasa and Bhukthi, will have favourable results from the indications made below; while those having adverse aspects according to current directions will experience these predictions to a lesser proportion. The predictions given below are based not upon conjecture, but upon a clear interpretation of the movements or transits of planets. If you do not know your Janma Rasi write to Mihira, C/o THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope.—Ed., A.M.].

MAJOR TRANSITS.–Sun transits Leo till 15th, then enters Virgo; Mercury transits Leo till 16th, then passes on to Virgo. Venus remains in Leo for the entire month as also Mars in Virgo; Jupiter in Scorpio and Saturn in Sagittarius; Rahu and Kethu continues their retrograde motion in Virgo and Pisces respectively.

1. Mesha (Aries).—Venus in 5th Sun in 5th and 6th; Mercury in 5th and 6th; Mars and Rahu in 6th; Jupiter in 8th; Saturn in 9th; and Kethu in 12th.

General.—Venus and Mars are the two transit influences that remain favourable for the entire month but unfortunately both are under check throughout and so not much benefit will accrue out of them. Sun and Mercury become good after change of sign at about the middle of the month and they too come under vedha, Sun throughout and Mercury only after change of sign. Jupiter and Saturn remain evil throughout and of these two, Saturn is under check while Jupiter is free. So neither the good elements nor the evil ones are prominent for the month and in a month of mixed results, the latter may slightly predominate and the second half will be generally better than the first. General success, triumph over rivals, happiness, peace of mind, purchase and enjoyment of articles of luxury, popularity and renown, gains and general prosperous conditions are the results due for the second half. Troubles from rivals and enemies, mental agitation, quarrels and separation, liability to accidents, purposeless undertakings, wearisome journeys, losses, ill-luck, disputes and dishonour, sorrows, unhappiness are also due for the evil transits but will be more or less confined to the first half. Of the three stars of the sign, the best results will be due for those born under Krittika. The worst sufferers will be those with Bharani as their birth-star while those born under Aswini will fare moderately between the two.

Health and Domestic.—Health troubles and minor accidents may occur during the first half especially during journeys, which may be avoided as far as possible. Quarrels and misunderstandings are also probable during this part of the month, and where other testimony concurs may even lead to separation from near and dear relatives. Sorrows, grief, and mental depression may also persist during the month on account of receipt of bad news such as death of near relatives and friends. In point of health and in other respects, too, the second half will be much better generally and may even be almost trouble-free.

Finance and Speculation.–The month will witness probably both gains and losses, the latter being more prominent during first and the former during the latter half. Financial ventures and enterprises are better confined to the 2nd half of the month but where considerable risks are involved or where large amounts are involved, it would be better to postpone them altogether for better times. The month is good only for medium-sized ventures because of the conflicting nature of the transit influences. But so far as speculation is concerned, the month is unfavourable for any type of such activities.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.–The month is neutral with regard to affairs concerning real property, though as a general proposition it would be more correct to say that it is more favourable than otherwise. The general rule that the second half will better than the first, applies here also. What is to be most apprehended during the month is quarrels and disputes, litigation, etc., as only adverse results are to be expected in such cases, however just and righteous your cause may be or you think it is, though good money may be wasted and the disputes and litigation may not be confined to the civil side only. The month is good for the services, perhaps, the transit influences favour this sphere most of all. This is only to be expected with four malefics in sixth (Upachaya) during the second half. Popularity and renown, favours from superiors, triumph over rivals and enemies, favourable changes, etc., are the likely results, though the actual realisation of these results may be postponed to next month or even later. The profession and business will do ordinarily well for this month, during the first half and conditions will greatly improve to above average levels during the second half.

Women.—This month is mildly favourable for the interests of the fair sex as the transit influences are such that they tend to quicken the emotional side of nature and stimulates the feelings to greater activity than usual; but care should necessarily be exercised in all dealings with the opposite sex and the emotional nature should be kept completely under control. They will find that they can be more expressive generally with correspondingly greater success in social activities. It is also indicative that unions and attachments made during the month are well founded and will prove enduring.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs—2, 8, 13, 23, 28, 29; money transactions—1, 6, 7, 12, 14, 15, 17, 22, 27; short journeys—1, 5, 6, 7, 11, 17, 21, 22, 28; long journeys—4, 8, 12, 17, 19, 27; real property affairs and academical enterprises—2, 6, 12, 15, 19, 24, 29; speculation, children's affairs, courtship and love affairs—1, 7, 12, 14. 22, 27; service affairs—1, 5, 6, 7, 11, 17, 21, 22, 28; partnership activities—1, 6, 7, 11, 14, 19, 24, 29; insurance matters—2, 8, 13, 23, 28, 29; professional and business and enterprises–2, 5, 6, 15, 20, 29.

Critical Dates.–Personal and private affairs—4, 6, 7, 11, 17, 18, 26; money dealings—2, 5, 9, 18, 26, 30; short journeys—2, 9, 13, 16, 19, 23, 25, 29; long journeys—1, 2, 6, 11, 14, 22, 29; real property affairs and academical activities—5, 9, 16, 17, 25, 26; speculation, children's affairs, courtship and love affairs—3, 9, 13, 17, 21, 25, 29; service affairs—2, 9, 13, 16, 19, 23, 25, 29; partnership matters—2, 5, 9, 18, 26, 30; insurance activities—4, 2 Vrishabha (Taurus).—Venus in 4th; Sun and Mercury in 4th and 5th; Mars and Rahu in 5th; Jupiter in 7th; Saturn in 8th; and Kethu in 11th.

General.—Jupiter in seventh and unchecked is by far the best transit influence for the entire month. Venus is the only other planet who is similarly placed. Sun, Mercury, Mars and Saturn are all in unfavourable signs only, none of these being in a good place even for part of the month. Thus numerical superiority is with the evil elements. Therefore it is a satisfactory feature to note that Mars and Saturn for the entire month and Mercury for the second half are under check. Thus after all the balance for the month leans for the favourable side generally and so mixed results alone can be expected. Mental worries, losses, distant and difficult journeys, quarrels and misunderstandings, sufferings caused by one's rivals and enemies, ill-health and accidents, troubles from relatives are the probable evil results. But there will be amply compensated for by general alround improvement in the existing conditions, increased power and influence, happiness, pleasure trips, gains, study of new subjects, auspicious events and celebrations, etc. Such favourable results will be more prominent during the first half. Of the three stars of the sign, those born under Krittika and Mrigasira will reap the best results from the favourable transits and suffer least from the evil ones but in the case of those born under Rohini the case will just be the reverse, that is, the good transits will not benefit them much and the evil ones will try them most.

Health and Domestic.—The month may not prove healthy throughout both for you and your children. In your case, it is likely to be one of general debility and weakness rather than any specific illness. Chronic sufferers may get an attack of malaria or other fevers. But in the children's case, the sufferings may be more severe and may call for expert treatment. While there may arrive some minor unpleasantness and bickerings may be present in home and social surroundings, on the whole, the month will prove quite satisfactory in the matter of your relationship with members and relatives inside and outside the domestic circle.

Finance and Speculation.—The position with regard to finances this month may be considered fairly satisfactory. No great change however is to be expected beyond average levels. Though there will be no great gains, there will not be much of losses either; you will get moderate success in your financial ventures as a number of influences are favourable in this respect, but it would not be wise to refrain from big ones or risky enterprises. If you are in need of help financially or in need of partnership for your ventures, you are likely to get such help without much difficulty. But even the best part of the month is not good enough for speculative dealings and transactions.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—All matters connected with real property will mark time. But in the matter of yield or rentals and profits, there may be considerable improvement over average levels especially where new methods of cultivation, etc., have been introduced. The month is also favourable for dealings with agents, lessees, etc., and smoothening out differences if any exist, also for settlements and agreements for a long period of time. This is not the month for purchase or sale of immovable property as there may be latent defects. At any rate, big deals may be postponed and any minor transactions may be done after much scrunity and care. The services may do fairly well, but the second half cannot be said to be as good for their interests as the first as there is a likelihood of incurring the displeasure of your superiors in office or people in high positions. With proper care on your part such events can be entirely avoided as there are good influences also to help you. This is the month to put in spadework rather than for spectacular achievements and this should be had in mind throughout. The profession and business will get increased returns and higher income with results proportionate to endeavour.

Women.—On the whole, the month favours the female sex in all their activities. They will have good opportunities to come in closer contacts with those to whom they have natural sympathy and affection, new friends, more congenial society especially during the first week. For many this part of the month may bring wedlock. To those who are artistically inclined, this is a splendid month for developing their latent abilities and undertaking creative artistic work or developing new hobbies, forming new societies, etc., in fact for indulging in any extra healthy activities or works.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs—1, 6, 7, 12, 14, 15, 17, 22, 27; money dealings—1, 5, 6, 7, 11, 17, 21, 22, 28; short journeys—2, 6, 12, 15, 19, 24, 29; long journeys—2, 5, 6, 15, 20, 29; real property matters—1, 7, 12, 14, 17, 22, 27; speculation, children's affairs, courtship and love affairs—1, 5, 6, 7, 11, 17, 21, 22, 28; service affairs and prospects—1, 2, 6, 7, 11, 14, 19, 24, 29; partnership business—2, 8, 13, 23, 28, 29; insurance activities—4, 8, 12, 17, 19, 27; professional and business enterprises—2, 5, 6, 15, 20, 29.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private affairs—2, 5, 9, 18, 26, 30; money dealings—2, 9, 13, 16, 19, 23, 25, 29; short journeys—5, 9, 16, 17, 25, 26; long journeys—1, 4, 10, 14, 17, 25, 28; real property affairs, educational and academical matters—3, 9, 13, 17, 21, 25, 29; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, courtship and love affairs—2, 9, 13, 16, 19, 23, 25, 29; service affairs—2, 5, 9, 18, 26, 30; partnership affairs—4, 6, 7, 11, 17, 18, 26; insurance activities—1, 2, 6, 11, 14, 22, 29; professional and business enterprises—1, 4, 10, 14, 17, 25, 28.

Chandrashtama from about noon of 10th till afternoon of 12th.

3. Mithuna (Gemini).—Venus in 3rd; Sun and Mercury in 3rd and 4th; Mars and Rahu in 4th; Jupiter in 6th; Saturn in 7th; and Kethu in 10th.

General.—Venus is the only planet favourable for the entire month and though it is not much of an influence in transits, he is free of vedha throughout. Sun is good for the first half and is free of check. But Mercury is good for the second half and good or bad he is under check. The other planets, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn are all in evil signs only throughout. But of these, Mars and Saturn are under vedha while Jupiter alone is free. Thus the unfavourable elements are more in number and also more powerful and this feature will naturally be reflected in the general nature of the events during the month. The first half will be fractionally better, rather, less troublesome than the second. Sorrows and impediments, quarrels and disputes with friends and relatives, loss of position, deceit through friends, troubles caused by one's own kinsmen, losses, fruitless enterprises, tedious journeys and fatigue, etc., are the sort of evil happenings for the month. All this will be no doubt somewhat in abeyance during the first half and also friendship with good and influential persons, some happiness and success are also due. Of all the three stars of the sign, the best effects are likely to be experienced by those born under Mrigasira, next comes those born under Punarvasu and the worst sufferers will be those born under Aridra.

Health and Domestic.—The health is likely to be experienced by yourself as well as by your wife and children, but nothing serious is likely to result. Digestive troubles as well as rectal ailments such as diarrhoea, dysentery are probable. With proper care as to diet, etc., it should be possible to avoid them. Journeys should be avoided as far as possible. Conditions at home will not be happy and harmonious especially during the second half. Obstruction even in respect of routine matters will be felt and may be the cause of domestic unhappiness. Relatives outside the domestic circle are likely to cause plenty of troubles.

Finance and Speculation.—The month as a whole cannot be said to favour finance in any manner. Though conditions will not be very bad during the first half, there will be rapid deterioration during the second when financial stress will be felt continually. Losses may arise through relatives and false friends and may be caused in other ways also. Financial enterprises in general will not come to any good this month. So it will not be wise to indulge in financial ventures of any magnitude and speculative activities should be given a wide berth as losses alone are probable.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—The impact of the evil transits on matters pertaining to landlord interests will be much more severe this month than in any other department of activity and conditions may rapidly become desperate and unbearable by all ordinary standards. Loss of property, poor yield and rentals, difficulties in their realisation, unwanted litigation, quarrels and controversies, etc., may all crop up to fill the month with anxieties and apprehensions as regards the future. No big investment or venture connected with real property is advisable during the month as only setbacks and losses due to carelessness or mistaken judgment are the probable results. On the other hand, the services may by a lucky chance escape the consequences of the evil transits and may even come in for some betterment in their conditions during the first half. Though no actual events may be in evidence, you can by your diligence and hard work earn the recognition of your superiors which will stand you in good stead later on. Some beneficial changes are also probable for some. Though there is likely to be considerable activity and expansion in the case of the business and profession, they are likely to be hectic or sporadic and may not bring much of actual gains or results appropriate to endeavour.

Women.—Mixed trends are in evidence in regard to and pertaining to the fair sex as such but on the whole conditions are more unfavourable than otherwise. Having this in view, it is essential that they should be more than ordinarily careful in their speech and correspondence and be on their guard against hypocrisy and deceit in their dealings with others especially strangers. There is a liability, though remote, to being made the subject of libel or scandal in which one's good name may be imperilled. But the month is suitable for deep studies and generally such activities as will develop the mind.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs—1, 5, 6, 7, 11, 17, 21, 22, 28; money dealings and transactions—2, 6, 12, 15, 19, 24, 29; short journeys—1, 7, 12, 14, 17, 22, 27; long journeys—2, 5, 6, 15, 20 29; real property matters, educational and academical activities—1, 5 6, 7, 11, 17, 22, 28; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, courtship and love affairs—1, 2, 6, 7, 11, 14, 19, 24, 29; service affairs and prospects—2, 8, 13, 23, 28, 29; partnership matters—4, 8, 12, 17, 19, 27; insurance activities—2, 5, 6, 15, 20, 29; professional and business enterprises—4, 8, 12, 17, 19, 27.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private affairs—2, 9, 13, 16, 19, 23, 25, 29; money dealings and transactions—5, 9, 16, 17, 25, 26; short journeys—3, 9, 13, 17, 21, 25, 29; long journeys—1, 4, 10, 14, 17, 25, 28; real property affairs, educational and academical activities—2, 13, 14, 19, 23, 25, 29; speculation, children's prospects and affairs, courtship and love affairs—2, 5, 9, 18, 26, 30; service affairs and prospects—4, 6, 7, 11, 17, 18, 26; partnership activities—1, 2, 6, 11, 14, 22, 29; insurance activities—1, 4, 10, 14, 22, 29; professional and business enterprises—4, 6, 7, 11, 17, 18, 26.

Chandrashtama from afternoon of 12th till night of 14th.

4. Kataka (Cancer).—Venus in 2nd; Sun and Mercury in 2nd and 3rd; Mars and Rahu in 3rd; Jupiter in 5th; Saturn in 6th; and Kethu in 9th.

General.—Venus, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn are good for the entire month and with the exception of Saturn, are also free of vedha. Sun is good for the second half though under check throughout. Thus the month is full of good transit elements, Mercury being the only planet that is evil. Even this planet is under check for the first half. Jupiter in fifth and unchecked is in itself a very good influence and because of Sun too being favourable for the second half, this part of the month will be much better than the first generally. Happiness, success over rivals and enemies, friendship of good and influential persons, comforts and luxuries, good health, gains, success in enterprises, auspicious events and celebrations, increased prosperity in general are the events that are highly probable during the month. Even Mercury cannot be said to be wholly evil and may even favour business, money and bring success in enterprises and his evil effects will be confined to domestic and social sphere. Of the three stars of the sign, the best results are likely to be secured by those born under Punarvasu and Aslesha and those born under Pushya will not benefit so much from the favourable transits.

Health and Domestic.—Domestic comforts and happiness with acquisition of luxury items, and their enjoyments, pleasure from children, etc., are assured by more than one transit influence and as in other matters, the second half will be still better. There is also the likelihood of celebraiton of such events as birth, marriage, etc., within the domestic circle and on the whole will prove to be a pleasurable month. Health too will be good and interrupted as there is practically no single transit that is liable to affect health adversely—indeed a unique state of affairs.

Finance and Speculation.—The month, more so the second half, is favourable for money matters, dealings, enterprises and new ventures. In such matters, extra care should be devoted during the first half. Gains are prepromised by nearly all the transit influences during the second half, especially gains through association with wealthy people and their help, are also probable. This is also a month in which appreciation of capital values will take place or at least is very probable and speculators can take advantage of this by buying low and selling high according to favourable market trends.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—Ordinarily it may be expected that real property affairs will forge ahead under the impact of such exceptionally favourable transits. This can be said to be true only partially. The yield and rentals will be alright through. But a lot of unforeseen elements may arise to mar the prospects of landlords and landowners and cause much confusion and apprehension at least during the first three weeks. During the last week however matters will appear to move forward and offer some promise of betterment of existing conditions in general. The services will be able to exploit the situation to the fullest extent and aim to improve their lot in all manner of ways. With the least manoeuvering you may be able to circumvent your rivals or competitors. Official favours, good opinion of your superiors, gain of position of authority, new position or status, are all indicated by more than one transit, and will legitimately come to you proved you are not hasty, or rash or otherwise misbehave. The profession and business will also benefit much this month and witness expansion and allround prosperity.

Women.—So far as transits are concerned; other considerations and directional influences apart, this will be easily the best month in the whole year or at least one of the best and in accordance with your ability to respond. Success in all your social and artistic activities will be assured and promise good luck in nearly all spheres. It is a good month to give parties and the month is also favourable for attachments, new ties, etc. The unattached are likely to enter matrimony under the benign influences in force during the month. For those who are spiritually inclined, this is a splendid month to develop the devotional side and contemplate the higher things.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs—2, 6, 12, 15, 19, 24, 29; money dealings and transactions—1, 7, 12, 14, 17, 22, 27; short journeys —1, 5, 6, 7, 11, 21, 22, 28; long journeys—8, 12, 17, 19, 27; real property affairs, educational and academical activities—1, 2, 6, 7, 11, 14, 19, 24, 29; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, excursions, picnics, courtship and love affairs—2, 8, 12, 13, 23, 28, 29; service affairs—4, 8, 12, 17, 19, 27; partnership matters—2, 5, 6, 15, 20, 29; insurance activities—2, 5, 6, 15, 20, 22, 29; professional and business enterprises—2, 8, 13, 23, 28, 29.

Critical Dates:—Personal and private affairs—5, 9, 16, 17, 25, 26; money dealings and transactions—3, 9, 13, 17, 21, 25, 29; short journeys —2, 13, 14, 23, 25, 29; long journeys —4, 6, 7, 11, 17, 18, 26; real property matters, educational and academical activities, tests, interviews—2, 5, 9, 18, 26, 30; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, courtship and love affairs—4, 6, 7, 11, 17, 18, 26; service affairs and prospects—1, 2, 6, 11, 14, 23, 29; partnership business —4, 10, 14, 22, 29; insurance activities—1, 4, 10, 14, 17, 25, 28; professional and business enterprises—4, 6, 7, 11, 17, 18, 26.

Chandrashtama from the night of 14th till early morning hours of 17th.

5. Simha (Leo).—Venus in 1st; Sun and Mercury in 1st and 2nd; Mars and Rahu in 2nd; Jupiter in 4th; Saturn in 5th; and Kethu in 8th.

General.—Except Venus, no planet is in favourable sign, not even for part of the month. But it is also a unique feature of this month that no planet escapes vedha including Venus. This is something to be thankful for, as otherwise the effects may be more easily imagined than described. As things are, the evil transits may have no more than nuisance value and though nothing good is to be expected for he month no great unpleasantness too need be apprehended. You may suffer loss of prestige, ill-health, encounter obstacles in your undertakings, have to undergo tedious and wearisome journeys that accomplish nothing, there will be quarrels with friends and relations, troubles from rivals and enemies, you may be scandalized injustly, suffer from the evil advice of wicked and designing persons, mental agitation, etc., but all these because of vedha will not amount to much on the whole and prove to be only minor troubles after all. However, because of Venus, there may be some luxuries and enjoyments, educational and academical successes, etc. Of the three asterisms covered by the sign, persons born under Uttaraphalguna will be only lightly touched by the adverse transits and the worst sufferers will be those born under Poorvaphalguna and those born under Makha will fare moderately between the two.

Health and Domestic.—Though no serious illness need be feared, there are likely to be plenty of minor troubles. Blood pressure may tend to remain somewhat high. There may be chest and respiratory ailments, heart troubles, eye disease, etc., according to constitutional aptitude. Of course, all these will have to be attended to promptly as and when they arise, and should not be neglected. The domestic sphere will have its share of unhappiness from troubles, differences, quarrels, anxieties and jealousies; sorrows too may arise through loss of relatives and friends. In bad cases, even separation from family may take place though temporarily.

Finance and Speculation.—This sphere will not escape the brunt of evil transits so easily and there may arise major worries and difficulties in connection with the finances. Heavy and unconscionable expenditure may arise. Losses may take place through relatives, through deceit, following the advice of evil-minded persons in regard to money matters and transactions, etc. As losses through deceit are indicated by more than one transit influence, great care should be bestowed by you in even ordinary day-to-day transactions and no major enterprises should be launched, Speculation will be dangerous.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—Though landlords and landholders may have their usual quota of sufferings, anxieties snd apprehensions, losses and untoward happenings during the month also, all these may not amount to much and the month may prove to be a period of respite from such sufferings at least temporarily and no serious problems may arise for being dealt with. Still it is up to you to avoid unnecessary controversies, litigation, quarrels, etc. Of course no new innovations introduced during the month are likely to yield good results and may prove a costly failure. This may prove to be an uneventful month for the services as a rule. But there are cases and cases. It is all the more necessary to stick to routine and be circumspect in all matters, as loss of prestige and unjust blame are indicated by more than one transit. Profession and business are also likely to suffer from slump, lack of healthy activities, even minor losses. Generally new ventures should be avoided.

Women.—Though this month is generally unfavourable for all matters pertaining to women as such, the first half will be nondescript and featureless. But the same state of things may not continue during the second half, when even routine matters may give trouble. They should be very careful in their dealings with the male sex, especially older persons. Disappointments should be expected and when they happen, they should not give way to mental depression, as it is likely to have adverse reactions on the health. It will be advisable to always act discreetly and do nothing impulsively during this part of the month especially in domestic and social relationships.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs—1, 7, 12, 14, 22, 27; money dealings and transactions—1, 5, 6, 7, 11, 17, 21, 22, 28; short journeys—1, 6, 7, 12, 14, 15, 17, 22; long journeys—2, 8, 13, 23, 28, 29; real property matters, educational and academical activities—2, 8, 13, 23, 28, 29; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, courtship and love affairs—4, 8, 12, 17, 19, 27; service matters and prospects—2, 5, 6, 15, 20, 29; partnership affairs—2, 5, 6, 15, 20, 29; insurance activities—4, 8, 12, 17, 19, 27; professional and business enterprises—1, 6, 7, 12, 14, 15, 17, 22, 27.

AS IT STRIKES ME

Hinduism is not an institutional religion. To say that China will liberate India from 'lethargy' is to speak nonsense. We do not know whether Russia liberated Europe east of Berlin from any 'lethargy'. Mr. Troinski should note that even astrological prognostications need a basis; and Dr. Koch should remember that a tradition is not dusty if he does not belong to it. It would have been better if these distinguished writers were better acquainted with the Greek tradition Europe inherited and with the objective history of humanity. The days of the herrenvolk are no more; and India never admitted any kind of herrenvolk.

Sanskrit and the European Languages.

The European philologists have developed many a pet belief into a theory, by repeating which they claim to be enunciating a truth. One such belief centres round Sanskrit. The early Sanskritists of Europe believed that Greek, Latin and other Aryan languages were derived from Sanskrit. The later philologists argued that Sanskrit, Greek, Latin and the other Aryan languages are cognate languages which presuppose a common source styled as the primitive Indo-European. This hypothetical language is constructed in the same fashion as the Esperantos. The basis of this argument is said to be provided by the geneological and morphological classifications. And the argument is repeated as a truism even by Prof. J. B. S. Haldane when he says in an article in a recent issue of The Hindu that "the theory that Greek, Latin and so on were derived from Sanskrit was quite reasonable 150 years ago, but is certainly false".

Before we proceed further, we have to consider one factor. If there was a common language which was spoken by all the Aryans, then at least one branch of this homogeneous group must have preserved it; and the same language as spoken by others must have brought forth dialectal and other variations in course of time because of migrations, contacts with other peoples, and geographical changes. Take the Sanskrit root 'bhar' meaning to 'to bear'. The English word 'bear' lost the initial aspirate sound showing that it is subsequent to the Sanskrit word. The Greek word is 'phero'. Here 'bh' has become 'ph', again pointing to a corruption of the initial sound because many Aryan languages have in this word the sound b and not the p sound. What does this show?

The European linguist argues that Sanskrit retained the sound of the parent language, while the others changed it. Here one has to assume the existence of a parent language. It is easier to dispense with this assumption and argue the derivation of these languages from Sanskrit. This is a sane principle accepted in grammar, logic, epistemology, science and metaphysics. An argument that constructs a hypothetical language is to be rejected in favour of one that need not have such a construction.

This contention acquires a greater value from another quarter. The emergence of texts in the Indo-European languages is the quarter concerned. The earliest available texts of the Indo-European family are found in Sanskrit. Next in temporal sequence come the Avestic texts of Iran. Later still are the Balto-slavonic and Greek texts. Long after the Greek works arose the first works in Latin. After these came the works in the Germanic or Teutonic branch. The historical order is thus from east to west; and this was further corroborated in recent times in the emergence of the texts in the Americas. If all the Aryan languages are cognates derived from a mythical parent language, why did these Western Aryans wait so long for the movement from the east to the west? Works ought to have emerged simultaneously; and this did not take place.

As we move West, we find that linguistically Greek presents a simplification of nominal declensions and verbal conjugations found in Sanskrit. Latin further simplified the structure of Greek language. This simplification is carried almost to perfection in English. It is therefore not surprising to find Prof. Haldane arguing that even the symbolism of the bees' language was invented in India only.

The comparative philologist proceeds with the assumption of cognate languages. Spanish, French and Italian are cognates to one another and yet they are all derived from Latin. The Dutch, Danish, Scandinavian, German and English are likewise cognates belonging to the Teutonic branch; and these must be said to be derived from old High German. Is Sanskrit also the cognate of Latin and Greek and German? Take the first numeral. It is eka in Sanskrit. The European branches have no k sound. they have only n sound as in one, ein. This points out not to two words for the same numeral in the mythical language, but to a corruption of the sound. To prove this one has only to see that the Sanskrit or Vedic sha is pronounced kha in northern India. Thus Purusha is pronounced as Purukha. This does not mean that the Sanskrit sha points to an original kha sound. The word 'pasu' similarly became 'pecu' in Latin, as 'satam' became 'centum.'

Morphologically speaking too we find every Sanskrit word having a root or stem plus a suffix. These suffixes tend to disappear in the other Aryan languages. Such a disappearance does not make them cognates with Sanskrit but cognates with the Prakrits which are derived from Sanskrit. Take the example of the word aunt. Sanskrit stri appears in the Prakrits as itthiye or atthiye. These Prakrit forms alone are nearer the word aunt. Consider the morphology of the asmi. Here the stem is as. The Greek and Latin forms are esmi and limi, and the English is am. By themselves these words point to their source word in Sanskrit.

Some may argue that forms not appearing in Sanskrit are found in Greek and Latin, and that therefore all these are cognate languages. This is no valid argument since it depends only on the language available to us in the texts, and not on the language spoken once. Thus some Vedic forms are lost in Sanskrit. And it is also likely that later languages developed new forms. At times they preserved forms they derived from the Vedic. Thus there may not be a form corresponding to Sanskrit eka in Greek or Latin ; but the Greeks had Ecbatana which points to the original Sanskrit eka pattana.

A conjunct consonant tends to become dissyllabic as a language develops out of an original. Thus the Sanskrit dvou became duo in Latin. Aspirate sounds were deaspirated in Greek and Latin. All these point to the common source of the Aryan languages in Sanskrit.

Chandrashtama from the early morning of 17th till noon of 19th.

6. Kanya (Virgo).—Mars and Rahu in 1st; Jupiter in 3rd; Saturn in 4th; Kethu in 7th; Venus in 12th; and Sun and Mercury in 12th and 1st.

General.—Venus in 12th is about the only solitary benefic influence for the month and no other planet is in an auspicious sign for even part of the month. The worst malefics however namely Mars and Saturn are under vedha throughout the month, while the Sun is under check for the second half only. Thus Jupiter is the only planet that remains evil and unchecked for the entire month. So the month's general results though unfavourable on the whole will be tolerable. Venus by himself is not much of an influence in transit though good and unchecked. Sorrows and anxieties, quarrels with friends and relatives, losses, obstacles in undertakings, tedious and purposeless travels, fatigue and low vitality, troubles from enemies and rivals and disgrace and loss of reputation through them, low and undesirable company, loss of status or employment, ill-health, unwelcome changes, deaths among friends and relatives, etc., all these will contribute to the miseries and unhappiness of the month but they will never become intense or intolerable and with care and caution you should be able to circumvent them. Of the three stars of the sign, only those born under Hasta will be affected badly and those born under Uttaraphalguna and Chitta will escape most of the evil consequences.

Health and Domestic.—With so many adverse transits one should be prepared for some health disturbances which will mostly be due to derangements of blood, bile and heat. There is also some danger through bad food, accidents, etc. Though such occurrences are only remotely probable, one should be careful in diet and during journeys and should not be interfere in quarrels and avoid dangerous roads and crowded places. Quarrels and misunderstandings both within and outside the domestic circle are probable and in bad cases even temporary separation may take place.

Finance and Speculation.—With ruler of second house in twelfth, finances cannot be expected to be without trouble of some sort or other. Even losses may take place, as Sun and Mercury in 12th and 1st make the position far worse. There is likely to arise a desire or ambition to set right financial position through impractical schemes or enterprises even illegal financial manoeuvres. But this tendency should be resisted and retain a firm sense of perspective and ensure that any such attempts are foolproof and straightforward. Of course it would be a folly to indulge in gambles or speculative transactions as only disaster is likely to result.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—The month is likely to prove specially unfavourable for landlords and landholders. Their holdings are likely to depreciate in value and yield and rentals will be poor, and conditions are likely to worsen as the month advances. One likely source of loss is through property transactions and so it will be a good motto neither to buy nor sell. Many hindrances, restrictions and delays may occur in any enterprise which you may launch for bettering the yield or increasing the rentals. Quarrels and disputes and even litigation may arise over your rights to property. There is some prospect of freedom from troubles and setbacks for the services during the first half But the second will be full of anxieties and apprehensions regarding your future though actually no evil may transpire. One should be prepared however for unwelcome changes in nature of work or place or in the background influences or there may be changes in the personnel above you which will affect you adversely. The profession and business will fare scarcely any better and will encounter setbacks, losses, etc. Any big venture should be postponed to better times.

Women—The month is not favourable for women in regard to matters that appertain to their sex as such. They may be put to troubles of a mental nature and may have to experience anxieties and worries in various ways. The mind will be unsettled, changeable, and prove to make mistakes and to look at things from an unfavourable standpoint. So much to say that they as a rule will not be successful in their activities. They are not advised to take on new responsibilities, domestically or socially as they cannot successfully get through with the added work in their travels. Care in dealings with the opposite sex is essential lest they should be imposed upon by reason of their sex.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs—1, 5, 6, 7, 11, 17, 21, 28; money dealings—1, 2, 6, 7, 11, 14, 19, 24, 29; short journeys—2, 8, 13, 23, 28, 29; long journeys—1, 6, 7, 12, 14, 22, 27; real property matters and academical activities—4, 8, 12, 17, 19, 27; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, excursions, courtship and love affairs—2, 5, 6, 15, 20, 29; service matters—2, 5, 6, 15, 20, 29; partnership business—4, 8, 12, 17, 19, 27; insurance activities—2, 8, 13, 23, 28, 29; professional and business enterprises—1, 5, 6, 7, 11, 21, 22, 28.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private affairs—2, 9, 13, 16, 19, 23, 25; money dealings—2, 5, 9, 18, 26, 30; short journeys—4, 6, 11, 17, 18, 26; long journeys—2, 5, 9, 18, 26, 30; real property matters, educational and academical activities—1, 2, 6, 11, 14, 22, 29; speculation, children's affairs and prospects and excursions, courtship and love affairs—1, 4, 10, 14, 17, 25, 28; service matters—1, 4, 10, 14, 17, 28; partnership business—1, 2, 6, 11, 14, 22, 28; insurance activities—4, 6, 7, 11, 17, 18, 26; professional and business enterprises—2, 9, 13, 16, 19, 23, 25, 29.

Chandrashtama from about noon of 19th till midnight of 21st.

7. Thula (Libra).—Jupiter in 2nd; Saturn in 3rd; Kethu in 6th; Venus in 11th; Sun and Mercury in 11th and 12th; and Mars and Rahu in 12th.

General.—Venus, Jupiter and Saturn are good for the entire month but unfortunately all of them are under check. So their beneficial rays will not be available fully. Sun and Mercury are in favourable signs for the first half. Sun is free of vedha so long as he is favourable and checked only for the second half when he is evil. But Mercury is under check throughout the month. Mars remains as the only planet who is evil throughout but he is under check all along. Thus both the good and evil planets are completely under check; the only benefic influence that escapes vedha is Sun for the first half only. So there will be much difference between the effects of first half and second half in general, and the first half will be the better half. General success and prosperity, happiness of mind, gain of money, friends, auspicious events and celebrations, triumph over rivals and enemies, luxuries and enjoyments, increased influence, etc., are the likely results of the good transits, but too much need not be expected as all excepting Sun are under vedha. During the second half, sorrows and anxieties, losses, quarrels, troubles and disgrace through enemies may have to be faced, Of the three asterisms of the sign, there is not much difference this month but those born under Chitta will fare best, those born with Visakha as their birth star come next. Those born under Swati will be the worst sufferers.

Health and Domestic.—Good health will be a regular feature of the month. There is no influence which can cause illness which is not under check. But those subject to chronic eye troubles or bilious ailments will do well to be careful in their diet aad habits. Happiness at home and popularity in social circles are also due. Auspicious events at home like birth of a son or a marriage celebration may also happen. Articles of luxury will be acquired or gifted and their enjoyment will be also quite within the probabilities of the month's favourable events.

Finance and Speculation.—This section is moderately favoured this month. There will be influx of wealth from more sources than one and success in financial enterprises and the first half is definitely much better for this than the second. Journeys will prove more profitable and he will receive help from his schemes wherever he goes. During the second half however, success cannot be expected to the same extent and even losses may accrue as this too is indicated by more than one transit. There is nothing encouraging in the month's influence to encourage speculation though there is a good number of benefic transits.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—There is nothing special this month that calls for mention in respect of real property interests except it be that routine may be in progress everywhere and this month may prove to be a rather smooth running period than otherwise in this respect. The good transits do not help very much nor do the evil ones depress much. Yield and rentals can be expected to be normal and relationship with tenants, servants and agents be more or less trouble-free. At the same time, it has to be said that this is not the month for improvements, innovations, enterprises or investments for which better conditions should be awaited. The services are favoured very well during the first half and this is the time to ask favours, press for your claims, seek interviews and try to advance your interests but with restraint and circumspection, new status and positions, honours, defeat of rivals, etc, are all normally due. Beneficial changes of an unexpected nature may also take place. The profession and business are also equally favoured and may rise to high above average levels during the first half and some minor setbacks may occur during the second, however.

Women.—The month is generally favourable though not very much so and all the elements that contribute to happiness and improvement of existing conditions at home or in social circles will be present. Under such conditions usually good and profitable connections are formed and the unattached are likely to enter the matrimonial state under good auspices. They will find it easy to get on with others well even under changing conditions or new surroundings. As in other matters, the second half is distinctly less favourable when they may be exposed to certain temptations which will by no means be too strong or too powerful to be resisted and controlled.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs—1, 6, 7, 11, 14, 19, 27; money dealings—2, 8, 13, 23, 28, 29; short journeys—4, 8, 12, 17, 19, 27; long journeys—1, 5, 6, 7, 11, 17, 21, 22, 28; real property affairs, educational and academical activities—2, 5, 6, 15, 20, 29; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, picnics, courtship and love affairs—2, 5, 6, 15, 20, 29; service affairs and prospects—4, 8, 12, 17, 19, 27; partnership business—2, 8, 13, 23, 28, 29; insurance matters—1, 6, 7, 12, 14, 15, 17, 22, 27; professional and business enterprises—2, 6, 12, 15, 19, 24, 29.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private affairs—2, 5, 9, 18, 26, 30; money dealings—4, 6, 7, 11, 17, 18, 26; short journeys—2, 6, 11, 14, 22, 29; long journeys—2, 9, 13, 16, 19, 23, 25, 29; real property affairs, educational and academical activities—1, 4, 10, 14, 17, 25, 28; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, excursions, courtship and love affairs—1, 4, 10, 14, 17, 25, 28; service affairs and prospects—2, 6, 11, 14, 22, 29; partnership business—4, 6, 7, 11, 17, 18, 26; insurance matters—2, 5, 9, 18, 26, 30; professional and business enterprises—5, 9, 16, 17, 25, 26.

Chandrashtama from about midnight of 21st till about noon of 24th.

8. Vrischika (Scorpio).—Jupiter in 1st; Saturn in 2nd; Kethu in 5th; Venus in 10th; Sun and Mercury in 10th and 11th; and Mars and Rahu in 11th.

General.—Sun, Mercury and Mars are good for the entire month and except for Mercury during the first half are free of check. Venus, Jupiter and Saturn are evil throughout and are free of vedha. Thus there is a greater weightage though slight on the evil side. General results will therefore be only of a mixed character, no part of the month being better or worse than any other. Accomplishment of your desires and wishes, gradual success, good friendships and associations, enjoyment of luxury items, gains, successful enterprises and prosperity, happiness, good health, triumph over rivals and enemies, professional hits, auspicious events and celebrations are the likely results of the favourable transits. Losses, disgrace, domestic worries, tedious journeys, quarrels and misunderstandings, difficulties caused by enemies, delays and setbacks in all matters, disgrace, unsuccessful in competitive matters, litigation, etc., loss of relatives and grief therefrom, are the results due for the evil transits. Inspite of this conflict, conditions will on the whole be tolerable because some of the opposite effects at least will cancel each other out. Of the three stars of the sign, those born under Visakha and Jyeshta will fare better generally than those born under Anuradha.

Health and Domestic.—There is no influential transit to cause any particular kind of sickness or ailments. The only transits relevant here are Jupiter and Saturn and so there is nothing special for this month. Still there may be general debility and weakness throughout and this even will not be very great because of the favourable transits. The domestic sphere will be full of harmony and happiness. In social circles you are likely to contact influential and wealthy persons who may be useful to you later on. There may be additions to the family circle by birth or otherwise. The death of some relative may also be the cause of some sorrows.

Finance and Speculation.—Saturn in second is not generally conducive to financial betterment but there are compensating influences as well. Lord of Janma is in eleventh and lord of 2nd is in first. But in the inevitable conflict between income and expenditure, the latter will win and it will be difficult to escape spells of financial stress during the month inspite of the good elements in force. As losses through deception is not merely a distant probability, you should be on the lookout and be wary in all financial transactions. Speculation is likely to lead only to losses.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—There is nothing special that has to be noticed in connection with matters pertaining to real property and normal conditions in all particulars, namely, yield and rentals, etc., are likely to prevail throughout. Even additions to your existing holdings are probable. If you contemplate purchase, good scrutiny of title deeds is essential. Conditions are favourable, especially in the latter half of the month, for the start of a new and long term enterprise for the purpose of improving land with a view to better yield or for introducing new and improved methods of cultivation, etc. The services can be expected to do very well this month as conditions are uniquely favourable. New position and honours, beneficial changes, favours from superiors, success over rivals and competitors, etc., are all due, for those who have the necessary drive and initiative to win recognition of their merits. This month is one of the best in the whole year for the business and the profession and during this month there will be plenty of scope for initiative, expansion, with results proportionate to endeavour.

Women.—This month will prove good or bad to members of the fair sex according to the manner in which they choose to react to the influences in force which are very impulsive and may rush them into hasty decisions and actions. If the native can overcome her desire for sensation and avoid rash actions, she can easily make the most out of it and all events will be ordered to her satisfaction and prove beneficial in every way. Otherwise, if they lose hold of basic values and want cheap sensation, there will be plenty of that too but which will work only to their detriment.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and domestic matters—2, 8, 13, 23, 28, 29; money dealings—4, 8, 12, 17, 19, 27; short journeys—2, 5, 6, 15, 20, 29; long journeys—2, 6, 12, 15, 19, 24, 29; real property matters, educational and academical activities—2, 5, 6, 15, 20, 29; speculation, children's affairs and excursions, courtship and love affairs—4, 8, 12, 17, 19, 27; service affairs—2, 8, 13, 23, 28, 29; partnership matters—1, 6, 7, 12, 14, 15, 17, 22, 27; insurance activities—1, 5, 6, 7, 11, 17, 21, 22, 28; professional and business enterprises—1, 7, 12, 14, 22, 27

Critical Dates.—Personal and domestic matters—4, 6, 7, 11, 17, 18, 26; money dealings—2, 6, 11, 14, 22, 29; short journeys—1, 4, 10, 14, 17, 25, 28; long journeys—5, 9, 16, 17, 25, 26; real property affairs and academical activities—1, 4, 10, 14, 17, 25, 28; speculation, children's prospects and affairs, picnics, courtship and love affairs—1, 2, 6, 11, 14, 22, 29; services affairs and prospects—4, 6, 7, 11, 17, 18, 26; partnership matters—2, 5, 9, 18, 26, 30; insurance activities—2, 9, 13, 16, 19, 23, 25, 29; professional and business enterprises—3, 9, 13, 17, 21, 25, 29, Chandrashtama from about noon of 24th till midnight of 26th.

9. Dhanus (Sagittarius).—Saturn in 1st; Kethu in 4th; Venus in 9th; Sun and Mercury in 9th and 10th; Mars in 10th; Rahu in 10th; and Jupiter in 12th.

General.—Venus and Mars alone are in favourable signs for the entire month and of these two Mars is under check throughout. Sun and Mercury become favourable after change of sign that is from the middle of the month and of these Mercury alone comes under vedha only so long as he is good. Jupiter in twelfth may not be considered as wholly evil or wholly favourable. Thus Saturn in Janma is the only unchecked evil transit of the month. In a month of mixed effects, the second half is likely to prove better than the first generally. Success, gains of money, of articles of luxury, satisfaction, triumph over rivals and enemies, auspicious events or celebrations, increased fame and prosperity, respects from elders, popularity, etc., are the probable results for the second half. Such troubles as tedious journeys to distant places, loss of friends, obstacles and setbacks in undertakings, even failure are likely during the first half. Of the three asterisms covered by this sign, the best from the favourable transits and the least troubles from the evil ones will be the lot of those born under Uttarashada. Next come those born under Poorvashada and last come those born under Moola.

Health and Domestic.—None of the evil transits have any direct bearing on health and the month may prove to be uneventful in this respect. General weakness, undefined morbid symptoms, mental depression, etc., may be present. But it is likely that the other matters of the domestic circle, i.e., wife and children may be stricken with illness and may even become bed-ridden for a while. With such sorrows and anxieties, it cannot be said that home will be quite happy and peaceful. It is also probable that death may occur among your close relatives and contribute further to your sorrows.

Finance and Speculation.—The month cannot be said to be favourable for money matters or financial enterprises, especially the first half. During the second half, more than average gains from several sources are probable. But neither during the first half nor the second will income be ever able to compete with the demands upon your purse which will only increase as the month advances. Losses, of course minor, enmities on account of money, depreciation of your stocks, etc., are probable during the first half. None of the transit influences favour speculative activities.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—Real property matters come between conflicting influences, the good and bad elements being almost equally balanced. Still some losses in rentals and profits would appear to be inevitable unless due precautions are taken beforehand. Pests may cause considerable damage. Part of the damage may be due to adverse weather conditions. With all this reduction, the net yield may not go much below average. This month is not suitable for making long-range arrangements for cultivation or management of your holdings or for new innovations, nor for investments. But if advantageous terms are offered, you may even part with a portion of your estate. The services will fare well during this month, more especially during the second half when conditions are favourable for your advancement consequent on appreciation of your merits by your superiors. The results may not actually happen within the month itself but favourable changes in the background influences will occur such as will pave the way for your future advancement. There will be more than average services and prosperity for the profession and business during the month and as in other matters this will be more pronounced during the second half.

Women.—The first half is not good for women generally and the second half favourable. During the first half unless one is careful in speedy correspondence, etc., there is likely to be trouble in which your good name is liable to be imperilled. In bad cases, enmities, libel or even scandal may be the result. It is better that no new tasks or responsibilities are undertaken during this part of the month as grave errors of judgment are likely. The second half is just the opposite in all the above respects. Successful engagements and attachments that have lasting good effects are also probable.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs—4, 8, 12, 17, 19, 27; money dealings—2, 5, 6, 15, 20, 29; short journeys—2, 5, 6, 15, 20, 29; long journeys—1, 7, 12, 14, 22, 27; real property matters and academical activities—2, 6, 11, 14, 22, 29 (A.M.); speculation, children's affairs and prospects, excursions, courtship and love affairs—2, 8, 13, 23, 28, 29; service affairs and prospects—1, 6, 7, 12, 14, 15, 17, 22, 27; partnership business—1, 5, 6, 7, 11, 17, 21, 22, 28; insurance activities—2, 6, 12, 15, 19, 24, 29; professional and business enterprises—1, 5, 6, 7, 11, 17, 21, 22, 28.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private matters—2, 6, 11, 14, 22, 29; money dealings—1, 4, 10, 14, 17, 25, 28; short journeys—1, 4, 10, 14, 17, 25, 28; long journeys—3, 9, 13, 17, 21, 25, 29 (P.M.); real property matters and academical activities—2, 6, 11, 14, 22, 29; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, picnics, courtship and love affairs—4, 6, 7, 11, 17, 18, 26; service affairs—2, 5, 9, 18, 26, 30; partnership business—2, 9, 13, 16, 19, 23, 25, 29; insurance activities—5, 9, 16, 17, 25, 26; professional and business enterprises—2, 9, 13, 16, 19, 23, 25, 29.

Chandrashtama from beginning of the month till midnight of 1st and again from midnight of 26th till forenoon of 29th.

10. Makara (Capricorn).—Kethu in 3rd; Venus in 8th; Sun and Mercury in 8th and 9th; Mars and Rahu in 9th; Jupiter in 11th; and Saturn in 12th.

General.—Venus and Jupiter are favourable for the entire month; of these Jupiter is under check throughout. Mercury is good before change of sign that is for the first half only and is free of vedha so long though he comes under check thereafter. Sun, Mars and Saturn are evil throughout and all the three are under check all along, the only exception being Sun during the first half. Most of the transit influences for the month, good and bad, are thus powerless and so the general results would present a mixed pattern and mostly nondescript. No doubt, the first half will be somewhat better than the second. Success generally, happiness, auspicious events and celebrations, gains of money, of articles of luxury and their enjoyments, honour, respect, prosperity, acquisition of good friends, etc., are what one may expect from the favourable transits more especially during the first half. Quarrels and misunderstandings, litigation, wearisome journeys, obstacles and setbacks in general, unjust charges, enmities around, losses, accidents resulting in injuries to person are the results due for the evil transits. Of the three asterisms of the sign, those born under Uttarashada and Dhanishta will be able to fully exploit the benefic transits and suffer least from the evil ones, while the worst sufferers will be those born under Sravana.

Health and Domestic.—Both good health and ill-health are indicated by the transits which are conflicting in this respect but as no specific illness is due for any of the evil transits, general debility, weakness will be the natural result. Still, there are chances of accidents from sharp things with consequent loss of blood are there and though that particular influence is under check, this should not be ignored and care throughout the month in handling sharp instruments is necessary. Goodwill, harmony and happiness will prevail in the domestic circle as also popularity in social spheres of activity.

Finance and Speculation.—Conflicting influences bear upon this sphere also and though the factors for gain and loss are almost equally balanced, it must be said that the former are more powerful during the first half and the latter during the second half. Even during the first half a tendency to extravagant expenditure should be curbed to avoid troubles. During the second half losses, enmities on account of money, etc., will arise and cause much apprehensions and anxieties. Beware of being tempted into speculative transactions because of apparently favourable conditions, but appearances will prove deceptive this month and losses are likely to supervene inspite of some initial gains.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—The position is generally favourable in respect of real property affairs generally. Yield and rentals will be satisfactory and there is also scope for some additions to your holdings. In the case of purchases however, you should be wide awake as to your interests as otherwise you are liable to be saddled with unwanted responsibilities by designing persons. The element of haste and rashness should be completely eschewed in such matters. It has also to be kept in mind all along that there is also a probability, though slight, of losses through damage to property and you should be watchful on this account also. The services will be fairly well this month, inspite of some setbacks and obstacles which may arise now and then. New position, honours, promotion, are all due and may also occur during the month though not to the full limit of your expectations. In the case of some, it may mean appointment to a post of subordinate authority. If setbacks arise, it will be principally due to the keenness of your rivals who may be able to outmanoeuvre you. The profession and business are also likely to do well above average levels, though some setbacks now and then may be inevitable and may be caused by circumstances beyond your control,

Women.–The month is highly favorable for women's interests as such, during which success in social and artistic activities can be confidently looked forward to. Good and congenial friendships, agreeable journeys in good company, picnics and excursions, parties will all make the month enjoyable and happy alround. This is on the maternal side. To those who are devout and spiritual-minded, this month offers very good opportunities to develop that side and take to pooja, spiritual and devotional exercises and contemplate the higher things of life.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and domestic affairs—2, 5, 6, 15, 20, 29; money dealings–2, 5, 6, 15, 20, 29; short journeys—4, 8, 12, 17, 19, 27; long journeys—4, 5, 12, 17, 19, 27; real property affairs and academical activities—2, 8, 13, 23, 28, 29; speculation, children's affairs and prospects and excursions, courtship and love affairs—1, 6, 7, 12, 14, 15. 17, 22, 27; service matters and prospects—1, 5, 6, 7, 11, 17, 21, 22, 28; partnership business–2, 6, 12 15, 19, 24, 29; insurance activities—1, 7, 12, 14, 22, 27; professional and business enterprises—1, 6, 7, 11, 14, 19, 24, 29.

Critical Dates.–Personal and domestic affairs—1, 4, 10, 14, 17, 25, 28; money dealings—1, 4, 10, 14, 17, 25, 28; short journeys—1, 2, 6,11, 14, 22, 29; long journeys–2, 9, 13, 16, 19, 23, 25, 29; real property affairs and academical enterprises—4, 6, 7, 11, 17, 18, 26; children's affairs and prospects, speculation, picnics and excursions, courtship and love affairs—2, 5, 9, 18, 26, 30; service matters—2, 9, 13, 16, 19, 23, 25, 29; partnership business–5, 9, 16, 17, 25, 26; insurance activities—3, 9, 13, 17, 19, 21, 25, 29; professional and business enterprises —2, 5, 9, 18, 26, 30.

Chandrashtama from midnight of 1st till sunrise of 4th and again from forenoon of 29th till end of the month.

11. Kumbha (Aquarius).—Kethu in 2nd; Venus in 7th; Sun and Mercury in 7th and 8th; Mars and Rahu in 8th; Jupiter in 10th; and Saturn in 11th.

General.—Saturn is the only planet in a favourable sign for the entire month and he is free of vedha throughout. The only other planet who is good for at least part of the month is Mercury for the second half who is also free of check. All other planets transit evil signs only,—Venus, Sun, Mars and Jupiter; but all these planets are throughout under check except Jupiter. Thus, there are two unchecked good influences for the second half. Therefore though there is no use expecting favourable results for the month, the second half will prove less troublesome than the first. Tedious journeys, mental depression, quarrels and misunderstandings, humiliation and varied anxieties, health troubles, obstacles in undertakings, temptations, unwelcome and unpleasant changes. Scandals, wicked associations, etc., are the sort of untoward happenings for the month especially during the first half. During the second half however, some steadiness of mind, with cheerfulness, some success, some auspicious event or other, etc., are probable. Of the three stars of the sign, those born under Dhanishta will fare best during the month, next those born under Poorvabhadrapada and then alone whose birth star Satabhisha.

Health and Domestic.— Though health will be affected adversely, no serious trouble need be apprehended. Blood pressure will tend to remain rather high and may register increase further during the second half. Light diet and hygienic measures should be relied upon more than drugs to maintain balance. Urinary and rectal troubles may be said to be special for the month. There are also possibilities for fever, wounds, loss of blood, anaemia and even blood poisoning. But as already observed, some ordinary care will suffice to avert or cure these as and when they arise. In the domestic sphere too, there will be quarrels and misunderstandings with wife and children and other domestic worries as well.

Finance and Speculation.—More troubles are liable to be caused by free, even extravagant expenditure than due to lack of influx of money and depletion of finances through extravagance will be the leading feature of the month. But where careful attention to detail hand considerable planning and forethought this month can be utilised for the start of new, and difficult enterprises and take them on to success. But these observations do not apply in any sense to speculative activities in which unexpected elements as well as your own rashness will contribute only to losses.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—Though real property matters cannot be said to be out of the woods yet and considerable troubles, apprehensions and anxieties may yet centre round such affairs, the sufferings will be minimum only during the month because of compensatory factors at work. Yield and rentals could be improved by employing judicious and tactful methods, careful dealings with tenants, agents, etc. Innovations in methods of cultivation, farming, etc., can also be introduced so as to improve yield. These efforts are likely to prove successfully. The same observations apply more or less to the services also. Inspite of more evil transits than good, the services may not suffer much this month and the second half may even prove quite favourable. In addition, there is also a probability that some unexpected form of events may work out to your ultimate advantage. At the same time, it cannot be denied that you may incur the displeasure of your superiors and on that account you should be watchful so as not to give room for such a contingency. Profession and business will do tolerably well this month.

Women.—Inspite of apparent setbacks, troubles and obstacles in some activities, the month is on the whole favourable for all matters in which women are interested by reason of their sex, during which, especially during the second half all things will go well, and they can have a good time, desires obtained, ambitions gratified and social activities pleasant as well as profitable. Honourable and lasting attachments, new and faithful friendships, etc., are likely to be formed under the favourable auspices of the month. Beneficial changes are also probable in their surroundings and environments.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs—2, 5, 6, 15, 20, 29; money dealings—4, 8, 12, 17, 19, 27; short journeys—2, 8, 13, 23, 28, 29; long journeys—1, 6, 7, 11, 14, 19, 24, 29; real property affairs and academical activities—1, 6, 7, 12, 14, 15, 17, 22, 27; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, excursions and love affairs—1, 5, 6, 7, 11, 17, 21, 22, 28; service matters and prospects—2, 6, 12, 15, 19, 24, 29; partnership business—1, 7, 12, 14, 22, 27; insurance activities—1, 5, 6, 7, 11, 17, 21, 28; professional and business enterprises—2, 8, 13, 23, 28, 29.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private affairs—2, 9, 13, 16, 19, 23, 25, 29; money dealings—5, 9, 16, 17, 25, 26; short journeys—3, 9, 13, 17, 21, 25, 29; long journeys—1, 4, 10, 14, 17, 25, 28; real property affairs, educational and academical activities—2, 13, 14, 19, 23, 25, 29; speculation, children's prospects and affairs, picnics, courtship and love affairs-2, 5, 9, 18, 26, 30; service affairs and prospects—4, 6, 7, 11, 17, 18, 26; partnership activities—1, 2, 6, 11, 14, 22, 29; insurance activities—1, 4, 10, 14, 22, 29; professional and business enterprises—4, 6, 7, 11, 17, 18, 26.

Chandrashtama from sunrise of 4th till morning of 6th.

12. Meena (Pisces).—Kethu in 1st; Venus in 6th; Sun and Mercury in 6th and 7th; Mars and Rahu in 7th; Jupiter in 9th; and Saturn in 10th.

General.—The best transit influence for the month is of course Jupiter in ninth but because of Saturn in 10th he is unfortunately under check throughout. Sun and Mercury are good for the first half only but whereas Sun is free of vedha so long as he is favourable and comes under check during the second half when he is evil, Mercury is under check for the entire month good or bad. Mars is evil throughout and also under check throughout. Venus is evil and free all along. Saturn in tenth, a malefic in an Upachaya sign has good as well as bad possibilities and may not be considered as wholly evil or good. The month's general results will be more unfavourable than good but the first half will be distinctly much better than the second. Success over rivals and enemies, gains, good health, popularity, happiness, increased income in general, etc., are the good things to be expected of the favourable transits during the first half. Losses, dishonour and disgrace, disputes and quarrels, mental worries and temptations, obstacles and setbacks, etc., are the likely results for the second half. Of the three asterisms of the sign, conditions will be generally better for those born under Poorvabhadrapada and Revati than for those born with Uttarabhadrapada as their birth star.

Health and Domestic.—Health for the first half will be good and undisturbed. During the second half urinary difficulties and rectal ailments may manifest but will yield to prompt treatment and sufferings will not amount to much. In the domestic circle, quarrels with wife and children are indicated by more than one transit and so may be expected as a matter of course but will never go too far because of favourable elements. Here too it is the second half that is particularly vulnerable. Additions to the family circle are also probable.

Finance and Speculation—The majority of the transit influences are not helpful for finance and so not much headway is likely to be made during the month in this respect. Gain of wealth and successful enterprises are probable side by side with losses and setbacks and the likelihood is that all may be earned or saved during the first half will be more or less lost or dissipated during the second. Some unexpected reverses during the second may also take place. So any ventures of some magnitude should not be undertaken during this part of the month. Though speculation may appear to be slightly favoured, and there may be some initial gains also during the first half, heavy losses will take place later and the net result will be anything but satisfactory.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—Real property affairs continue to be still in the doldrums and there is nothing special this month for them that can be said to favour their interests appreciably. Of course increase in rentals, income, etc., can be expected as a result of the favourable transits but that is not likely to make the matter trouble-free in other respects. Though there may be apparently a lot of activity designed to improve the lot of those connected with land, very little benefit is likely to accrue therefrom. Whatever may be the conditions present, nothing will be gained by rash or precipitate action in any matter. Better strict to routine in all matters. The first half is highly favourable for the services and success over rivals, as the result of good reports about your efficiency reaching responsible quarters and other favourable changes are due, such as elimination of factors that have been obstructive and detrimental to your interests till. All these apply only to first half. There will be considerable activity in the profession and business above average levels though some setbacks now and then will be inevitable.

Women.—Women are likely to be much disturbed in mind in respect of matters and activities in which they have peculiar interests and the month may prove far from happy for them in general, but the whole month will not be one continual round of such anxieties and apprehensions, which strangely enough may be much less during the second half. The third week may be even said to be good for their interests and some of their desires fulfilled and ambitions gratified during that period. Still they may think twice before indulging or taking part in extra activities during the month generally.

STARS IN THEIR Seasons

BY M. V. RAMAKRISHNAN, M.A., L.T.

Night Sky in September 1959

Zodiacal Constellations

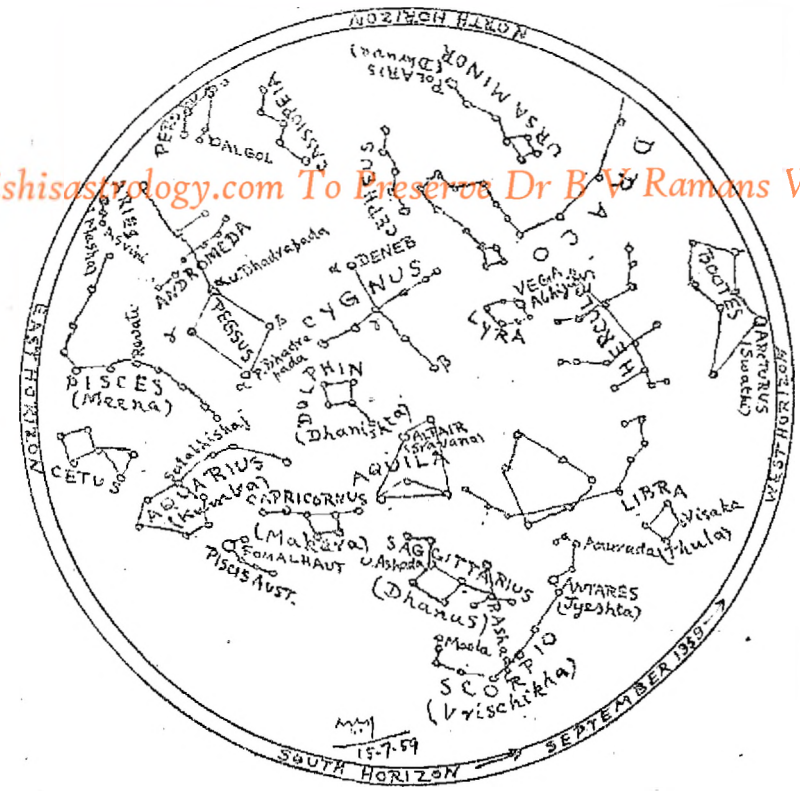
THE zodiacal constellations that are visible this month at about 9-30 in the night, ranged from south-west to east, are Libra (Thula), Scorpio (Vrischika), Sagittarius (Dhanus), Capricorn (Makara), Aquarius (Kumbha), Pisces (Meena) and Aries (Mesha). Libra is about to set, and you can see the lunar asterism Visakha close to the south-western horizon. The picturesque constellations Scorpio and Sagittarius are seen higher up adorning the south-western sky. The insignificant constellation Capricorn is very nearly on the meridian and Aquarius is seen approaching the meridian. In Aquarius you can identify the "hundred starred" asterism Satabhisha. This is the time of the year when Satabhisha is seen to the best advantage.

Above Aquarius is seen the V-shaped constellation Pisces. The stars of this constellation are all faint, and the brightest of them is at the junction of the arms of the V. The third star from this junction star in the southern arm of the V together with a number of stars in its neighbourhood constitutes the lunar asterism Revati.

Below the northern arm of the V of the Pisces group is seen the small but beautiful constellation Aries as a pendant of three stars. Two of them constitute the asterism Aswini. Above Aswini and near it lies the faint group of three stars Bharani, which also forms part of Aries.

Non-Zodiacal Constellations

Of the non-zodiacal constellations Ursa Minor is seen in full low down in the north. Draco is seen stretching from the meridian in the north to the north-north-western horizon. Cepheus is seen erect and approaching the meridian, while Cassiopeia is seen high up in the north-north-east. Perseus is just making its appearance in the same direction. Pegasus and Andromeda are also visible in the eastern sky. Very near the meridian are seen Cygnus, Aquila and Dolphin. Lyra has just crossed the meridian and Bootes is seen low down in the north-western sky, while Hercules and Ophiuchus are seen higher up.



Lunar Asterisms

The lunar asterisms that can be identified in the visible hemisphere are Swati in Bootes, Visakha in Libra, Anuradha, Jyeshta and Moola in Scorpio, the Ashadas in Sagittarius, Sravana in Aquila, Dhanishta in Dolphin, Satabhisha in Aquarius, the Bhadrapadas in Pegasus and Andromeda, Revati in Pisces and Aswini and Bharani in Aries.

The Milky Way

The Milky Way traverses the sky from north-east to south-west, passing through or between the constellations Perseus, Cassiopeia, Andromeda, Cepheus, Cygnus, Aquila, Ophiuchus, Sagittarius and Scorpio.

PLANETS AND KERALA AFFAIRS

Scanned by www.sapnindia.blogspot.com Typeset Dr.B.V.Ramans Work

REGARDING Kerala, we observed thus on page 24 of January 1959 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE:—"Pisces Navamsa rises in Trivandrum aspected by Mars from the 10th, threatening confusion in Communist ranks and the imposition of the President's rule". This prediction was not a delphian oracle but was based on sound astrological reasoning and was made as early as December 1958, when nobody expected that the Communist Government would be thrown out in the year 1959. There is general relief not only in Kerala but also all over India, at the intervention of the Central Government.

Owing to various historical and political reasons, Kerala has been suffering from instability during the last 10 to 12 years. This political uncertainty was further accentuated by the division of India in 1957 on the basis of language and the actual creation of linguistic State of Kerala placed the Communists in an advantageous position in this troubled area. The Kerala electorate which became quite disgusted with the role of the Congress, which professed secularism and concern for the welfare of the people but practised communalism and selfishness and thus created political instability and dissatisfaction, gave the Communists an opportunity by voting them to power in the last elections to try their pattern of democracy. And the Communists have indeed given a good demonstration of what they are capable of doing when they get into power. The ugly happenings in Kerala in the recent past have no doubt given a jolt to Congress thinking while, on the Communist Party of India, the repercussions may indeed be severe. In view of the indulgence which our Prime Minister has generally permitted himself to extend to the Communists in India, and in view of the ever-growing threat to India's territorial integrity posed by recent Chinese policy, we feel that we should reproduce, in extenso our observations in Kerala, given in June 1959 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE, for the information of our esteemed readers.

"The Communist movement as it is known today, originated in the joint works and activities of two outstanding personalities Karl Marx and Friedrich Engels. The Communist manifesto which was the birth cry of the Communist movement was published a few days before the French Revolution in February 1848. Marx had Mars in Lagna and Jupiter in the 7th, Saturn in the 9th and the Sun, Rahu and the Moon in the 11th. Engels had Saturn in the 7th. Both Marx and Engels were at first followers of the great philosopher Hegel but soon the two friends were to turn their backs against the idealism of Hegel and transform his dialectical method into what was to become the logical basis of Marxism—dialectical materialism. Whilst socialists and humanitarians tried to promote idealistic schemes and to force their own individual visions of the 'perfect society' Marx realised the historical necessity of his time. And the causes of this historical necessity are to be found in the cycles of certain planetary configurations and aspects involving Mars-Rahu, Saturn-Rahu, Rahu-Mars, Kethu-Sun, etc. Does such an historical necessity exist now in India, justifying the emergence of Communist rule in Kerala? The answer to this question is to be partly found in the horoscope cast for the time at which the Communist Government was sworn in. At the time of the Bolshevic Revolution, the Lagna was Simha, occupied by Kethu, Mars and the Moon. Saturn was in the 12th and the Sun was neecha, in association with Mercury, and devoid of neechabhanga. Saturn was in the 12th. The outstanding number of squares (between Rahu, Mars, Kethu and the Sun and Saturn) did forebode ruthless action. As history tells us, the Bolshevists established a working class republic, disestablished and disendowed the Church, abolished all private property and made private trade illegal. They simultaneously launched a revolutionary campaign in morals, openly fighting religion and aiming to substitute group and institutional for family life."

"Kerala has peculiar problems to face—highest density of population, high percentage of literacy, great pressure on land, serious unemployment among the educated, and poor industrial development. The 4th house in a horoscope has reference to lands". In the chart cast for the time the Communists came to power, "the 4th lord is Mercury and he is actually in the 10th bhava in a sandhi. In the Navamsa Mercury is considerably afflicted. The 4th house has Jupiter. Thus the influences are more or less evenly balanced. Land reforms would be given a shape that would go at somewhat a tangent disturbing the present set-up and causing suffering and heart-burn to a good many people. The lord of the 3rd Sun aspects the 4th while Jupiter lord of the 7th (foreign matters) is posited in the 4th. Attempts will be made to 'take over' foreign owned plantations. If the Central Government gives in, the repercussions to national economy will indeed be adverse. Due to Jupiter's presence in the 4th, a considerable degree of success will attend other land measures contemplated by the Government—fixing of fair rents, ensuring security of tenure, ceiling on individual holdings, etc. Lord of the 2nd or finance is in 12th, but exalted and in his own constellation and in association with Mars lord of the 6th and 11th, and aspected by both Saturn and Jupiter. New sources of revenue will be tapped. As the 4th has the aspect of exalted Venus recourse will not be had to too drastic or revolutionary methods or measures in the distribution of surplus land or taxation. The Government will fruitfully adjust its taxation policy in a manner which will provide more incentive to the people to produce larger revenues over a period. The aspect of the conservative Sun, though lord of the 3rd, on the 4th, is not without its significance. This denotes subordination of the Government's doctrinaire approach to the State's development needs to make the country economically stronger. From Chandra Lagna, the horoscope presents a somewhat different picture. Chandra Lagna is afflicted by two malefics though aspected by Jupiter. Lord of the 7th and 12th Mars is in Chandra Lagna. Saturn is in the 7th house.

Scanned by www.captainjicastrology.com To Preserve Dr. B V Raman's Work

This means that despite the Chief Minister's assurance that his Government will work within the framework of the Constitution, the party will agitate for changes and there will be considerable friction with the Centre, especially after Saturn's entry into Moola*. The affliction of the Moon may also be interpreted to mean that the services will not be kept entirely free from political interference. Mars is the planet of industries and he is directly aspecting Saturn in the 7th, the only relief being that both Mars and Saturn are in benefic nakshatras From Lagna, Mars and Saturn occupy the 12th and 6th respectively. The impact of these afflictions will be largely felt on the labour-capitalist relations. There will be serious strikes and rioting and the Government will be called upon to tackle a serious situation. Mercury lord of Lagna, in the nakshatra of Kethu, forebodes discontent within the party and various troubles.

"The horoscope is also fortified by the situation of Saturn in the 6th and Kethu in the 11th. At the time the Government was formed, there was a balance of years 1–8–3 in Chandra Dasa. The Moon, as we have already seen, is neutrally disposed. By ownership he is good. By location in a place of exaltation and in his own nakshatra, the Moon is rendered strong. But, by being aspected by Mars lord of the 6th (and 11th) and Saturn lord of the 8th (and also 9th), the Moon becomes afflicted. In the navamsa, the Moon is in a Chara Rasi. All these combinations seem to indicate that the Communists are likely to be in office, until at least the end of Chandra Dasa. Jupiter's aspect on the Moon is significant. It looks as though the Kerala Government will be bent on capturing the public imagination by purging the administration of communalism, corruption, favouritism and sectarianism. The absence of mutual aspects between Saturn and Rahu or Rahu and Mars, involving Lagna or the Moon, may be interpreted to mean that the Kerala Communist Government will set a good example, though Saturn and Mars aspecting each other may make the Communists perverse the arm of the law. The 3rd house rules communications and matters connected therewith. The combined aspects of Saturn and Mars on the 3rd indicate discontent and agitation amongst employees and state control of transport. Educational institutions receive special attention at the hands of the Government. Neither the 10th nor the 10th lord is afflicted by yogas like Guru-Chandala and Nastika. Therefore, there is no indication of Government's interference with the religious affairs of the people".

From the extracts given above, it will be seen that, except in regard to the time-factor—there has been a lag of about 8 months—most of our anticipations about the rule of the Communist Government in Kerala have been fulfilled. What of the future of Kerala? It is indeed linked with the future of India. No definite astrological data pertaining to Kerala is available to venture predictions on the future of this State. Therefore we could only have recourse to the time at which India was linguistically divided in 1957. The horoscope cast for the time of reorganisation of States is not auspiciously disposed, especially because no benefic is situated in angles or trines. Rahu and Saturn are in exact conjunction in the 5th house in the constellation of Saturn while in the navamsa also the influences are equally bad. The 5th house in a mundane chart denotes the intelligence and the emotional side of the People's nature: Rahu–Mars–Saturn influences affecting the 5th house do not reveal a proper emotional set-up on the part of the people. Passions are stimulated. And tensions and turmoils will be conspicuous by their frequent recurrence. In the coming elections in Kerala, there will be a deliberate exploitation of caste-loyalties. The electoral battles will not be quite clean and peaceful. Though the Communists will be disappointed, they will get an appreciable number of votes while the Congress and its allies may just slip into power edgeways. The Indian National Congress is now having what is called Maraka Dasa; and as we have clearly warned several times in these columns, unless the leaders take care to see that the rot that has now set into the Congress ranks does not eat into the very vitals of the organisation—and there is no hope that the leaders would be able to arrest the spread of this rot—the Congress is bound to disintegrate during the Dasa of Mercury, which it has been now undergoing. We shall deal with the future of the Congress on a subsequent occasion. Suffice it to say now that the role of the Kerala Congress in the immediate future will be constructive even though the stop-gap arrangements with the other political parties, will give way, immediately after the elections. We regret we cannot furnish an optimistic political future for Kerala. It seems to us that astrologically, it would be desirable to continue the President's rule until the next general elections. The present dispositions of planets and their movements till about 1962, do not augur smooth-sailing of affairs. On the contrary, they may find expression in a number of destructive ways and outbursts of violence unless countered by the combined will of the leaders. In view of the unfavourable planetary set-up affecting not only India, but the entire world, it is desirable that India's energies are not frittered away for the next 3 to 4 years in experiments of dubious value such as family planning, socialistic pattern, co-operative farming, etc. The movements of the major planets and their coming configuration in 1962 in Capricorn hold the warning that the India Government must make adequate arrangements, for the defence of our Frontiers, at the same time pursuing a foreign policy that does not require the appeasement of Communists whether at home or outside. It would be in the fitness of things if President's rule could be established all over India until the next elections so that the time and energy required to patching-up Congress Party quarrels and bickerings, may well be used for matters of more vital importance —good administration within the country and the adoption of a really dynamic and energetic foreign policy which would guarantee India's security against external aggression.

Several well meaning Indians hold that like Communist parties everywhere, the Indian Communist party is anti-national in the crucial matter of political allegiance. It is not a political party in the democratic sense and to allow communism to triumph in India is to allow the country to pass into the clutches of an iron-dictatorship destructive of every value dear to Indian humanity. For communists, violence as a short cut to desired results, will take the place of morality, culture and civilisation.

Saturn is now having Avaroha movement indicating the undermining of democratic forces. The top leaders of India should see the writing on the wall so clearly indicated by planetary movements, view the sequence of events with a wider perspective, and combat the forces of degeneration, not merely by appealing to the sentiments of the people and invoking the name of Gandhi but by re-orienting their thinking and policies in the light of our ancient cultural and traditional values.

Planetary Distances as a Horoscope Factor

BY REINHOLD EBERTIN

COSMOBIOLOGY, which is specifically represented by the "Conference for Cosmobiological Research", and the "Academy of Cosmobiology" of Aalen, is the antithesis of astrology if one speaks of research in the scientific sense. Astrology may be regarded as a system that has been adopted from the past. Cosmobiology, on the other hand, proceeds from the point of view of modern science, works with the investigative methods of science, makes use of today's scientific knowledge and examines, critically, the resulting information regarding the relationships between planet and man.

It was therefore welcome to have the Viennese investigator Schreiweiss, undertake the attempt of determining the significance of planetary distances in the cosmogram (horoscope).

He visited me in due course, after a lengthy period of correspondence, and I urged him to formulate tables of distances which could be read easily, following which we were able to issue the ephemeris of distances.

As is commonly known, the planetary orbits are not true circles, but are apparently ellipses around the earth. The planets in their orbits, must therefore be closer to the earth at one time and farther away, at another. If planetary influence is assumed to exist, this should be greater when the planet is closest to the earth (perigee) than when it is farthest away (apogee). The concept of perigee and apogee necessarily applies to the individual planet in its orbit.

Proportionately, the difference between perigee and apogee is not as great in the case of the outer planets as in that of the nearby ones.

The maximum difference in intensity of influence, expressed as the square of the ratio of the greatest to the smallest distance from the earth, is, for example 1:3 for Pluto, whereas, for Mars it is 1:49.

To understand the relationship of perigee to apogee, one may use the example of a lighted candle in the corner of a dark room. Close to the candle, the light will be bright enough to read by, whereas in the middle of the room it is much dimmer, and on the far side, so dim that reading is no longer possible.

Therefore Schreiweiss assigned the arbitrary value of 100 to the intensity of the influence at the planet's closest approach to the earth, and zero as its intensity value at its greatest distance from the earth.

For example, the following are the values for Mars for 1958, as given in the ephemeris of distances:

1 : 1 : 1958	28
1 : 2 : 1958	41
1 : 3 : 1958	52
1 : 4 : 1958	63
1 : 5 : 1958	72
1 : 6 : 1958	79
1 : 7 : 1958	85
1 : 8 : 1958	90
1 : 9 : 1958	93
1 :10 : 1958	95
1 :11 : 1958	98
1 :12 : 1958	97

According to traditional astrology, Mars, in certain aspects, corresponds to greater excitement among people than at other times, and may even lead to war. Since the curve of distances for 1958 corresponds approximately to that of 1956, I was able to predict at the beginning of the year that as Mars came closer to the earth, international tensions would increase. When Mars came closest to the earth in 1956, bombs fell on Cairo. In September 1958, with a Mars' distance value of 93, the situation was very disquieting, and in the Far East, the Formosa defences spoke in firmer language.

Of course, we cannot attribute the entire situation to the proximity of Mars, but it does play a prominent part. Thus, a glance at the ephemeris shows that in Aug. 1939, Mars had made its closest approach to the earth, and Hitler, in his insane delusions of grandeur, committed the folly of starting the second World War on September 1, 1939.

Scanned by Jagadish Mahendra Publishing Trust for Preserving Dr. B. V. Raman's Work

Anyone who constantly uses the distance ephemeris will repeatedly establish the fact that a planet exerts a greater intensity of influence when at its perigee. While the transit of a planet through the signs of the zodiac, and the aspects it makes, signifies the quality and nature of the influence, its distance from the earth determines the strength, or intensity, of the energy.

A planet is at its perigee at approximately the time at which it goes into retrograde motion, and whoever has observed the effect of a stationary planet upon a mundane, or an individual, chart, knows that when it occurs on an important position of the chart, the effects are much greater than at other times.

It is extremely important to note the distance values of the planets at the moment of birth.

It is significant that military leaders have high values for their Mars' distances; thus:

General Eisenhower	84
General Franco	87
Marshal Tito	94

Contrasted with these values, is the one for

Adolf Hitler	17

Successful people usually show a high Jupiter value. Thus Eisenhower = 88, Franco = 88. Tito, however, is only 42.

By way of contrast, beauty queens, film stars, etc., who achieve great success in their youth, often show high Venus and Jupiter values. Thus Romy Schneider, who became internationally known at an early age through her "Sissi" films, has a Venus value of 91 and a Jupiter value of 93 in her birth chart.

To answer the question of "How to calculate the distance values?", we take as example, President Eisenhower, who was born on 14-10-1890 (October 14, 1890) at 17 hr. 54 min. (L.M.T.) Denison, Texas (according to the A.F.A. Bulletin of February 25, 1952).

The ephemeris gives distance values for every 10th day.

	Mer.	Venus	Mars	Jup.	Saturn	Uranus	Nep.	Pluto
Thus on 11-10-1890 ...	74	92	85	74	35	46	86	16
21-10-1890 ...	47	94	83	69	39	49	90	17
Differences ...	−27;	+02;	−02;	−05;	+04;	+03;	+04;	+01

As can be seen, the differences are so small that they are readily estimated at sight. The values are then, for 14-10-1890.

66; 93; 84; 73; 36; 47; 87; 16.

In the case of the Sun, there is a perpetual table, and the values are read from the position of longitude.

Sun at 20° Libra 57
Sun at 23° Libra 60

Since Eisenhower's Sun is at 21° Libra, the value is 58.

Calculating the Moon's value entails a more involved procedure. It is necessary to first find the position of the Moon's perigee, in its special table.

On the 26th of September 1890, perigee was at 7° 27′ Pisces

On the 24th of October 1890, perigee was at 13° 23′ Pisces

Difference, for 28 days, is 5° 56′, and its position on October 14, 1890 is thus calculated as approximately 11° Pisces.

We next calculate the distance in longitude between the body of the Moon on that day (4° Scorpio), and its perigee 11° which is equal to 127°. 125° = 28 units 130° = 25 units. Therefore 127° = 28 units approx. A further correction can be made by means of a supplementary Table III, amounting to −6.5 units, and Table IV, correcting for latitude, gives a value of 7 units and therefore the total value for the Moon is 28 − 6.5 + 7 = 28.5 units.

It can be seen that the auxiliary tables do not make any appreciable difference in the final value, and that it is accurate enough to calculate the value solely from the distance in longitude between the Moon's perigee and the Moon itself.

To emphasize again—it is important to note whether a planet is near to or far from the earth,—which planets are close and which ones are distant, and whether the majority are close or distant.

It has been observed that those people who have many planets close to the earth at their birth have a much easier time in going through life than have those in whose charts the majority of planets are distant from the earth. This is particularly true of the faster moving planets, because the values of the slower planets change very slowly, and show little change over a period of several months.

Let us look at several more interesting examples.

Edward, Duke of Windsor, and one time Edward VIII, King of Great Britain and Northern Ireland was born on 23-6-1894, at 22 hr. in White Lodge, Richmond Park. He renounced the throne on Dec. 12th, 1936 to marry Mrs. Wallis Simpson. In his place, his brother George VI, born on 12th December 1895 at 3 hr. 10 min. in London, became king. Let us compare the two charts in terms of distance values.

Scanned by www.sribalaji.org In Reserve Dr B V Raman's Work

	EDWARD	GEORGE VI
Sun ...	2	96
Moon ...	22	67
Mercury ...	78	5
Venus ...	59	21
Mars ...	90	18
Jupiter ...	19	81
Saturn ...	60	18
Uranus ...	83	42
Neptune ...	20	97
Pluto ...	10	10

The difference, in the case of the Sun, is of little significance because its value depends upon the time of the year. But it is indicative that in winter, the Sun is closest to the earth, and in summer, farthest away. In general one can say that children born in winter are tougher and have better health than those born in summer. This is especially valid for the middle latitude and the prevailing climate which must always be considered.

In Edward's case, very high values occur with Mercury, Mars and Uranus—indications of independent thought, a strong will, and a great independence and urge to freedom. This explains how he was unwilling to bow to the conservative views of the royal family and of the government, and therefore preferred to renounce the throne. The low value for the Moon shows a minor family tie and sentimentality. The low value of Jupiter shows a low intensity of striving for recognition and significance. The high Saturn value is characteristic of many difficulties that he had to overcome.

In George's case, the Moon, Venus, Jupiter and Neptune values stand forth. Therein lie the greater family ties, and the urge for recognition and esteem are considerably greater. A high Neptune value indicates greater susceptibility to illness, which also corresponds to the facts in this case. The low values for Mars and Mercury point to a lesser degree of willfulness in thought and action, so that he could adapt himself more readily to the demands of tradition and "kingliness" than could his brother.

An entirely different area is encompassed when one considers the trinity Moon-Mars-Venus together, since they are primarily concerned with the love-life.

We designate three persons, as follows: (1) A passionate woman, born in 1905. Divorced. Not awarded custody of her children by the first marriage because of proof shown that she had had intimate relations with seven different men within a two-year period. The men were usually barely half her age. (2) A cold woman, born 19-4-1920. In an official report, she is described as "Her readiness to show feminine emotion is at its very inception, interfered with by an externally oriented, masculine urge for achieving a goal so that it never developed into a full unfoldment of feeling. A certain coldness emanates from this woman–a reserve which at times can become effective repulsion. (3) The effeminate man. Born 27-11-1897. This case was widely publicized. The man was married in 1923, and fathered two children. Around 1929, a marked sexual change set in that caused him to assume the wearing of feminine clothing. It is of no consequence here whether an actual change of sex occurred,—a thing that is disputed by the medical profession—but rather whether the feminine character is expressed in the birth chart.

Let us look at the distance values.

	(1) Passionate Woman	(2) Cold Woman	(3) Effeminate Man
Sun	3	37	89
Moon	71	90	40
Mercury	30	76	14
Venus	91	19	17
Mars	96	97	12
Jupiter	30	62	22
Saturn	59	80	05
Uranus	74	13	35
Neptune	17	60	93
Pluto	18	38	22

In the case of the passionate woman, the Moon, Venus and Mars values are very high (91, 96) and since sexual drive is symbolized by Venus and Mars, this tendency is very prominent.

The cold woman is lacking in the ability to yield, and to feel affection, as indicated plainly by the low Venus value (19).

The effeminate man has very low Venus and Mars values (17, 12), which show that he is very lacking in passion and in sex drive. In addition, Neptune, with its high 93, is very often associated with abnormality—especially when other indications in the birth chart strengthen this possibility.

It must be especially emphasized that distance values alone are not decisive, but must always be considered along with the complete birth chart. If this has not been done in this article, it is only because it was thereby possible to show the potentialities that lie in the judgment of distance values, in a more emphatic way.

The use of distance values is of outstanding importance in any attempt to create a scientifically based astrology, since they are a contribution derived from exact science that should not be ignored.

And so, in closing, I hope to have given a foundation upon which you can base your research.

Vedas as Sources of Astronomical Knowledge

BY PROF. R. KRISHNAMURTHY, M.A.

THE period of the Mahayuga is also mentioned in the Veda. A.V., 8–2–21 reads as "Satam Te Ayutam Hayanan Dwe Yuge Trini Chatwari Krinmah

This mantra gives the puranic idea that the length of Brahma's life is hundred years and that the length of the Mahayuga is Chatwari, Trine, Dwe and Ayutah. That is 432 x 10,000 which equals 4,320,000 years. Thus 4,320,000 did not take birth in the fifth century as a result of borrowing from the Greeks. Further Rig-Veda, 1–164–41 also implies this number. Gourimimaya Salilanitakshati; Ekapadi Dwipadi Sa Chatushpadi Ashtapadi Navapadi Babhuvushi Sahasrakshara Parame Vyoman.

The measure of Gouri or Devi or Div or Day is given as (1+2) x 4 x 8 x 9 x 1,000 Aksharas or 864,000 Aksharas. Surya Siddhanta says that one day equals 60 Nadis or 3,600 Vinadis or 21,600 Pranas or 216,000 Guruvaksharas, which is equal to 864,000 Aksharas. Satapata Brahmana also (10-4-2, 22 to 24) says that Prajotpati or year wanted to have a body for himself and as he found that the three Vedas contained everything, he assumed a body in the form of the three Vedas. It says that the Rig-Veda consist of 12,000 Brahatis, i.e., 12,000 x 36 syllables or 432,000 syllables or 10,800 Panktis, i.e., 10,800 x 40 or 432,000 syllables. It says further that the Yajur Veda consists of 8,000 Brahatis and Sama Veda 4,000 Brahatis and the two put together 12,000 Brahatis or 432,000 syllables. In the next verse a check to the above number is given in the following words:—Te Sarve Trayo Vedah Dasacha Sahasranyashtaucha Satanyasiti Nabhayan.

The above verse means ten times thousand plus eight hundred multiplied by 80, i.e., (10,000 + 800) x 80 = 864000 syllables. It corroborates the above number by another check by saying that the above number is the number of Muhurtas in a year multiplied by eighty, i.e., 360 x 30 x 80 or 864,000 syllables. Rig-Veda 1–164–39 says Richo-Akshara Parame Vyoman.

Here is a suggestion that the number of syllables in the Rig-Veda corresponds to that in the Vyomachakra. Hence to say that these numbers were introduced in India after sixth century, when the Greek mathematics was brought to India, cannot stand. Thus the Siddhantas including Surya Siddhanta are genuine products of Veda and hence the mention of rasis and week-days and their names as given by Siddhantas are also derived from the Veda.

As regards references to week-days we have a few Riks from the Rig-Veda. It is very well-known that the Sukta 1–164 attributed to Dirghatamas contains several Riks of double or multiple import, Vedanta and Siddhanta meanings included. The opening Rik of the Sukta reads as Asya Vamasya Palitasya Hotustasya Bhrata Madhyamo Astyasnah Trithiyo Bhrata Gritaprishto : Asyatrapasyam Vispatim Saptaputram.

Asya—His; Vamasya—of the left; Palitasya—of the Palita; Hotustasya—of the Hotas; Bhrata Madhyamo—middle brother (place-taker): Trithiyo Bhrata—third brother (or place-taker to the right); Ghrita-prishto—butter-backed (or Agni or Angaraka or Mars). Here I behold the Vispati with his seven sons. For a non-mathematical man, ignorant of astronomy, the meaning of this verse may be a puzzle. Here there is a reference to the seven Putras of Vispati? Naturally we think of the seven week-days. It is declared that the middle brother or place-taker to the left of Palita of the seven Hotas is the third place-taker to the right and he is also called butter-backed. Because there is a reference to the left, we assume the third brother to be on the right. Buttering the back is a practice in secret rituals to indicate certain things; or we may agree with Sayana, to mean Agni, who is very often equated with Angaraka or Mars. Who is the Palita? And who are the Hotas? Palita means white. "Palitam Mundam" of Sankara's Bhaja Govindam is common knowledge. Moon is called Palita. In the "Brihadaranyaka" Upanishad Brihan Pandaravasah Soman Moon is white robed. In the Navagraha worship of the Moon white rice is prescribed for the Moon and other coloured rice for the other planets. It is a common belief that he is affected by white leprosy. Thus Palita stands for the Moon. Who are the Hotas? How many are they? There is a Taitti Samhita mantra (1–5–3–8) which reads Saptate agne Samidah Sapta Jihvah Sapta, Rishayah Sapta Dama Priyani Sapta Hotrah Sapta Dhatva Yajanti Sapta Yoniraprinasthwa Ghritena.

In this mantra there is a reference to seven—sevens to whom ghee oblations are made. In this Hotas are said to be seven and they are equated to the seven rishis also. Rishi comes from the root "Rish" to move; hence a Rishi means a wanderer. A mathematician knows that planets are wanderers. Thus the seven Hotas stand for the seven planets. Veda gives the name of the seven planets or rishis as Atri, Bhrigu, Kutsa, Vasishta, Gautama, Kasyapa and Angirasa. Rig-Veda, 5-40-6 says that Atri or Saturn, discovered by his fourth sacred prayer, the Sun. This suggests that the Sun is the fourth from Atri and also that Sunday is after Saturday. This also establishes the order contained in the Siddhanta that the Sun is fourth from Saturn. Moon's sidereal period is 27½ days. Mercury's is 87 days. Venus' is 225 days, Sun's is 365 days, Mars' is 683 days, Jupiter's is 4,333 days and Saturn's is 10,756 days. Thus the order of the Hotas is fixed as Moon, Mercury, Venus, Sun, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn. If these seven be arranged round a circle in this order, the left middle brother, who is the third on the right is Jupiter, i.e., Thursday and so on. To interpret the Rik as giving a rule for the order of the week-days correctly, we must know that the Hotas refer to the seven planets and that the natural order of the planets is Moon, Mercury, Venus, Sun, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn. These are explicitly stated in our Siddhanta but are hidden in the Veda. It is in this Sukta we have several Riks referring to astronomy. 1–164–1 gives the order of the week-days, 1–164–2 refers to the ecliptic as an ellipse fixed with respect to the stars, as Trinabhichakram Ajaram Anarvam—the three nabhis are the two foci and the centre. 1–164–7 gives another explanation of the order of the week-days. In the above order the fourth to the left is the next in order Vedasya Vamasya Nihitam Padam Veh.

1–164–8 describes the two parts of the ecliptic as father and mother. 1–164–11 describes the year of the twelve rasis and 720 half degrees. 1–164–12 describes the month as 12 x 5 or 60 half degrees. Prasnopanishad quotes this verse in describing the month. 1–164–13 describes the year of ten parts and five double parts. 1–164–15 asserts that the week-days are seven, that any one may be taken as origin or unborn, and that the order of the other six follows according to a particular rule. 1-164-20 gives the position of the solstices as the Pippala tree and Panas tree, thereby indicating Pushya and Uttarashada, 1-164-22 says when the solstice is in Pushya, Agni or equinox is in Madhu. 1-164-38 says that the Rig-Veda consists of 432,000 Aksharas as the Vyomachakra. 1-164-41 says the number of Aksharas for a day is 864,000. 1-164-46 says that the Vyomachakra constitutes Indra, Mitra, Agni, Varuna, the two Suparnas and the Garutman. They are one in the sense that on account of their motions they may interchange positions and as such one but variously described. 1-164-47 gives the phenomena of the exchange of the equinoxes. 1-164-48 gives again the length of the year as twelve months and the three important years, Rasi year, Lunar year and the Tropical Solar year and refers to the division of the rasis into 360 degrees. This is the earliest mention of the division of the circle into 360 parts. Ptolemy too never did this. Unless people try to use the knowledge of Jyotisha, the meaning of several Riks in the Rig-Veda will be obscure.

I have sufficiently explained that the Rig-Veda is not a mere spiritual, religious, philosophical, lyrical and mythical text, but also a Jyotisha sastra. With this idea, if we read the Rig-Veda, we find several verses containing the roots of Indian Astronomy and Indian Astrology. 1-1-1 gives the root of the nine Manas of the Manadhyaya of the Surya Siddhanta in the word Ratna Dhatamam. In 1-1-6 there is a reference to Mars being the lord of Mesha and also the equinox being in Aswini. R.V., 1-115-3 reads Bhadraswa Haritah Suryasya Chitra Etagva Anumadyasah.

Every reader of the Siddhanta knows that Bhadraswa in Yamakoti is the east point, Lanka in Bharata is the south point, Romaka in Ketumala is the west point and Siddhapura in Uttarakuru is the north point. It is also stated there that when it is sunrise in Lanka, it is midnight in Romaka, and sunset in Siddhapura is midday in Bhadraswa. In geocentric study, the terrestrial equator plays an important part and the ninety degree point east of Lanka on the equator is called Bhadraswa. The star Aswini is at the zenith of Bhadraswa when it is on the horizon of Lanka "Bhadra Suryasya Haritah Aswa (Aswini)". Aswini Bhadram is when Aswini coincides with the vernal equinox. In this Rik it is stated that when vernal equinox or Agni causes Bhadram, that is coincides with Aswini; then Angaraka's or the position of Mars is in Satya, i.e., just above the equator, viz., Mesha Rasi.

Aswini plays a very important part in the Rig-Veda. So many things are said about Aswini, which convey no meaning at present; but they would throw much light if read with the help of Jyotisha. In R.V., 1-3-4 "Indra Yahi Chitrabhano Suta Imetvayavah". Indra the autumnal equinox, is addressed as Chitrabhanu; Sun's position in Chitta nakshatra and Chitra's son is Vayu or Swati nakshatra. This shows that the autumnal equinox is at Chitra. R.V., 1-6-1 describes the ecliptic with the equinoctial and solsticial points. R.V., 1-11-1 says Indram Viswa Avivridhan. Indra is coupled with Avi of Viswa, i.e. equinox is coupled with Mesha of the Rasi chakra. R.V., 1-13-2 reads Madhumantam Tanunapat. This refers to Agni or equinox coinciding with Madhu or Mesha. R.V., 1-15-11 Aswina Pibatam Madhu Didyagni Suchivrata. This again refers to Agni or equinox coinciding with Aswini in the month Madhu or Mesha, and starting the Ritu Vasanta. R.V., 1–22–3 Yavam Kasa Madhumatyaswina Sunritavati: Tayayagnam Mimikshatam, refers to 'Kasa' or perigee position of the Sun in Madhu or Mesha Rasi, Aswini and the equinox starting the year. This is also explained in Satapata Brahmana.

Scanned by www.siddhanta.eu

In R.V., 1–22–16 to 21, we have a description of the celestial equator covered by the Sun in three footsteps. The three footsteps corresponding to Aswini, Magha and Moola. It is said here Tad Vishnoh Paramampadam Sada Pasyanti Surayah: Diviva Chakshuratatam. Surayah–north-pole observer; Sada Pasyanti–always sees; Tad Vishnoh Paramampadam–that celestial position of the equator (Vishus are caused by Vishnu or celestial equator cutting the ecliptic). R.V., 1–31–1 Twam Agne Pratamo Angira Rishih Devo Devanam Abhavah Sivah Sakha. Agni or the equinox was at the beginning in the Angaraka's or Mars' house, i.e., Mesha Rasi. Devas were in Deva's position, i.e., Aswini-Chitra part of the ecliptic was above the equator. In R.V., 1–31–2 Agni or the vernal equinox is addressed as Dwimata Sayuh: 'the son of two mothers'. No child can ever be the child of two mothers. The equinox or Agni is as much the child of the ecliptic as of the equator. R.V., 1–30–21 declares that wherever the equinox may be, the year starts with the Sun in Aswini and the month Chitra. Vayam Hite Amanmahyantada Parakat: Aswena Chitre Arushi. R.V., 1-51-1 Abhityam Mesham Puruhutamrigmiyam Indram says 'by your hymns give joy to Indra the famous ram (Mesha)' and this can refer only to the equinox in Mesha Rasi. R.V., 1–51–13 Menabhavo Vrishanaswasya Sukrato. 'Indra became Meena, daughter of Vrishanaswa' shows the movement of the equinox Indra from Vrishanaswa to Meena or from Mesha to Meena. This refers to the precessional motion of the equinox from Mesha to Meena. In the Subrahmanya mantra 'Vrishanaswa is coupled with 'Mesha' 'Mesha Vrishanaswasya Mene'.

In Rig-Veda, 1–52–1 Tyam Sumesham Mahaya Sarvavidam: 'Worship well that ram (Mesha) who makes heaven known'. Who could be this Mesha, who makes heaven known, except the Mesha Rasi? In R.V., 1–55–2 and 4 we have got references to Vrisha. 'He Indra rushes to bring out the mathematical meaning. By doing this I do not deny the meanings suggested by Sayana and other scholars. In R.V., 1-117-6 Sutam Kumbham Asinchatam Madhunam, there is some indication of a relation between Madhu or Mesha and Kumbha Rasi. In R.V., 1-117-115 and 16 Ajo Haveed Aswina which is translated as 'Bounteous Aswins' or 'Aswins, showers of benefits', there is reference to Aswini and Mesha or Aja. For in the very next hymn, i.e., R.V., 1–117–17 we read Satam Mesham Vrikye, etc. This refers to the lapse of 100 years, which causes some astronomical phenomenon, now not understood.

as a bull to drink of the soma juice'. This refers to the position of the equinox and perigee at Vrishabha Rasi. Rushing suggests the perigee position where the Sun has the quickest motion. In R.V., 1–58–4 "Agni, Thou rushest rapidly like a bull amongst the forest trees". This again refers to the position of the equinox and perigee along the ecliptic (forest trees) at Vrishabha Rasi. Every nakshatra is identified with a tree, and the ecliptic consisting of the twenty-seven stars or trees is here referred to as forest trees. In R.V., 1–62–7 it is said Bhagona Mene. Bhaga is the Devata of the nakshatra Uttara or Uttaraphalguna. We know Phalguna is Meena month. So the 'Bhagona Mene' of the Rig-Veda corresponds to Uttaraphalguna and hence Mene or Meena stands for Phalguna or the 12th Rasi. In R.V., 1–89–8 there is a statement Bhadram Karnebhih Srunuyama Devah. Though this is usually translated as 'let us hear, gods, with our ears, what is good'; this contains an eternal truth that the fundamental time starts from Aswini round the Deva part of the ecliptic. There is a play on the double meaning of the verb 'sru' which means either 'to hear' or 'to move'. Satapata Brahmana says that Aswins are the ears and Bhadram is the moment when the equinox coincides with Aswini. R.V., I–90–6 to 8 shows how by the change of the position of the vernal equinox, Madhu or Chitra month may be either, Ushas or morning or night to the Devas or the north pole observer. Devas and Asuras are said to be residents at north and south poles of the earth, by the Surya Siddhanta. Riks in the Rig–Veda contain several suggestions in one and the same Rik and I am trying

R.V., 1–157 is a very important Sukta. It describes some epoch; perhaps the starting of the Vaivaswata Manwatra. This gives several astronomical details. The first three Riks read :–

Savita the Deva has stirred up all men to pursue their various pursuits". "O Aswins when you have equipped your powerful chariot, you inspirit our valour with ghee and honey. Awakening Agni refers to vernal equinox coming to Aswini. Here we find Sun, Moon and Usha together, i.e., New Moon, early morning; Aswini suggests the Mesha Rasi. Thus we have New Moon early morning, Mesha Rasi and Aswini together with vernal equinox. The Vrishnamaswina, Chrita, Madhu and Kshatra suggest Aswini, Mesha Rasi, Madhu month and upper part of the ecliptic, i.e., Uttarayana. Asmakam Brahma suggests the fundamental position of Brahma at the origin of time. Pritanasu Jinvatam refers to Vaivaswata Manwantara (refer Sayana Bhashya). In the third Rik Jeerasve refers to perigee coinciding with the equinox, etc, i.e., Madhu or Mesha, Chrita or Uttarayana, New Moon, etc.

Yaska in his Nirukta, 4–15 translates Kani as Kanni (Kaninake-Kanyake). In the Mahabharata there is a story that Arjuna told Kunti that he had brought a Kani (fruit) and Kunti tells him to have it divided among the five brothers. But by 'Kani' Arjuna means 'Kanni', i.e., Draupadi. Thus in the Veda we find the word 'Kani' used for Kanya Rasi. Taitti Aranyaka describes the six ritus and when it starts describing the Sarad Ritu starts when the Sun leaves the Kanya Rasi. It says Viprasanne Kaninike...Saradyatropa Drisyate. It is common knowledge that the Sarad Ritu constitutes Aswin and Kartik months. That it starts after Kanya's viprasanne bears ample evidence that the month Bhadrapada is referred as Kanya in the Taitti. Aranyaka which nobody considers as post-Greek in origin.

In the Ramayana, Balakanda, 18th Sarga, 9th verse refers to Karkataka Lagna Graheshu Karkate Lagna Vakpata Vindunasaha. This is corroborated by Verse 3, Sarga 15, Ayodhyakandam Lagne Karkatake prapte Chandre Ramasya sha sthite. There is also a reference to Saturday or Sthiravara in Ayodhya Kanda, Sarga 56, Verse 25 Tvara Saumya Muhurtoyam Dhruvascha Divaso Apyayam. Dhruvascha Divaso is Sthiravara or Saturday. So it is not fair to labour under the delusion that the names of the week-days and names of the zodiac signs were imported from Greece to India.

THREE HUNDRED IMPORTANT COMBINATIONS

BY B. V. RAMAN

This is not a collection of combinations but a careful selection of just the most important ones which annot be easily identified in a horoscope.

What makes one a dunce? Why is one unhappy, what makes one poor and the other rich? Why one has no bodily comfort—what makes one a King or an equal, a leader, a business magnate, an industrialist, a great politician, a pauper, a sickly man and a miserable wretch? What makes one attain success without much effect and what makes the other to meet with disappointment in life inspite of his very best efforts?

A study of this book will enable you to easily judge the worth of your own horoscope and adjudge its merits and demerits.

A book of this type containing a collection of rare combinations some of which are special yogas has never been published before.

The author has illustrated the principles with innumerable horoscopes from practical lives. Do not fail to read this book.

Early Parental Death

BY K. K. K. MENON, M.A., B.T.

AN attempt to discuss the different configurations of planets signifying early parental death is made in this paper. Before taking up the configurations, I will survey the influence of constellations themselves on the death of parents in early life. Birth of children during the time of gandanta very often indicates early loss of parents. It is said :

pitir matir kulantakah

Gantanta samaya includes the last quarters of Aslesha, Jyeshta and Revati and the first quarters of Makha, Moola and Aswini. The birth nearer to the extremities the severer will be the result. It is also believed that birth of children in the 2nd quarter of Pushya, 4th quarter of Hasta and 1st quarter of Poorvashada will cause death of mother in early life and that birth in 3rd quarter of Pushya, 1st quarter of Hasta and 2nd quarter of Poorvashada will lead to the destruction of father. It is also stated that 2nd quarter of Hasta and 3rd quarter of Poorvashada causes mother's death and that 3rd quarter of Hasta and 4th quarter of Poorvashada lead to father's death early in life. It is also indicated therein that the birth of the child in the 1st quarter of Moola signifies destruction of the original family as a whole. The sum and substance of the above facts is this: the birth of children under the constellations Hasta, Moola and Poorvashada indicates early parental death provided the configurations of planets also signify the same thing.

It is stated in Saravali that the following conditions of childbirth indicate immediate death of the child and the mother.

Malefics in 7th and 8th aspected by other malefics, without being aspected by benefics.

Eclipsed Moon in conjunction with Saturn in the 1st house and Mars in the 8th.

Eclipsed Sun in conjunction with Saturn in the 1st house and Mars in the 8th. In this case the mother will die as a result of an operation consequent on delivery.

Sun, Mars and Saturn in conjunction with the Moon or in 8th, 9th or 7th reckoned from the Moon.

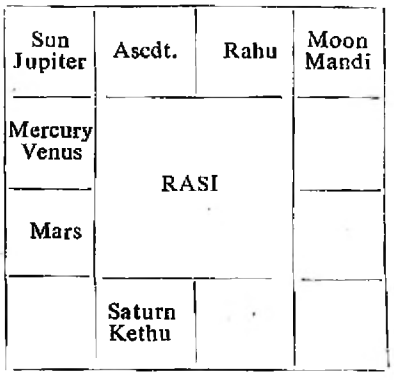
All malefics in conjunction with the Moon in 6th, 7th, 8th or 12th.

Weak Moon in the 1st house with malefics on either side, without being aspected by benefics.

According to Saravali, the following yogas indicate death of father early in life.

The Sun in conjunction with Mars and Saturn or the Sun aspected by Mars and Saturn when the birth is during the daytime. If the Sun is weak and if the Sun, Mars and Saturn are not aspected by or associated with benefics, the effect will be more virulent and father's death may occur earlier. Very often the horoscope of a posthumous child is characterised by this yoga.

The birth during the daytime and the Sun with Mars and Saturn on either side, receiving no benefic aspects.



Mars and Saturn in 7th or 8th reckoned from the Sun, without being aspected by benefics.

The Sun in conjunction with all the malefics in any cardinal sign, receiving no benefic aspects.

The yogas mentioned in Saravali contain the sum and substance of what is stated in Hora and other text-books of Hindu astrology on the subject.

According to Prasnamarga, the sum of the longitudes of the ascendant, the Moon and Mandi, resulting in what is called Thrisphuta. If the Sun occupies the sign of the thrisphuta at the time of birth danger will fall on the child's father; if the Moon is occupying the sign of the thrisphuta mother will pass away early in life. The sign of the thrisphuta is calculated in the same way as we calculate the sign occupied by the planet from its geocentric longitude.

Let me take up a few genuine cases of horoscopes for illustrating the principles already evolved and also for finding out supplementary configurations leading to the same. The following chart is that of a friend of mine who was born as a posthumous child under the constellation Aridra on 28th March 1928. The Sun in Pisces, according to Western astrology, causes danger to father's life. In this particular horoscope the most dangerous spot is that of the Moon. All the malefics including Mandi are occupying very unfavourable positions reckoned from the Moon. Mandi, the most virulent among the malefics, is in conjunction with the Moon ;

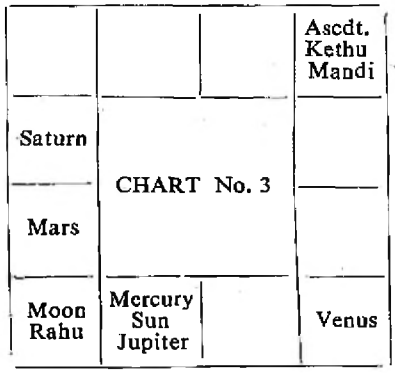
Saturn and Kethu occupy 6th and Mars, aspected by Saturn, occupies 8th from the Moon; Rahu aspected by Saturn occupies Taurus which is 2nd from the Ascendant and 12th from the Moon. It is to be noted that though Saturn and Kethu are aspected by Jupiter no benefic aspect is received by Rahu and Mars. Moon, the ruler of the 4th house, is in conjunction with Mandi, who exercises the portfolio of death, and occupies 8th from 8th house, which is afflicted by Saturn and Kethu. Mercury, the ruler of the house occupied by Mandi, is in conjunction with Venus, the ruler of the maraka positions—2nd and 7th—and occupies 12th house from the Sun. With reference to configurations of planets it is easy to find out indications of early parental death; but it is very difficult to make out whether the catastrophe will fall on the father or the mother. If the father passes away early in life the mother becomes a widow in her youth and the native is worried on account of his mother throughout his life. If it so happens that the mother gets remarried the mental agony of the native will be none-the-less poignant. If the mother meets with death early in life the native will either be worried on account of his widowered and aggrieved father throughout life or lose to a great extent the affection, protection and patronage of his father under severe circumstances of his remarriage. In the chart, we have examined, it is obvious that the Moon's position is more dangerous than that of the Sun. The astrologer may, in similar cases, be puzzled in his judgment and misled to point out that the native's mother passed away early in life. Actually the experience of the native is reflected in the chart. The Moon in the dangerous spot indicates the native's experiencing the sorrows of his widowed mother throughout life.



Let us take up Chart No. 2. It is that of a boy born under Sravana. His mother died on the 20th day after his birth and his father remarried and left the child in his 5th month.

The Sun and Moon are occupying dangerous spots in this chart. Mandi, the mrityukaraka (one who inflicts death) occupies 6th house as reckoned from the Moon and 8th as reckoned from the 4th house. Mother is ruled by 4th house and the Moon is Matrukaraka. Mars occupies 4th house reckoned from the Ascendant and Saturn occupies 4th house reckoned from the Moon. The Moon is weak. The Sun is in conjunction with Mercury, the ruler of the house occupied by Mandi, and occupies 12th house as reckoned from the Moon. The Sun is aspected by Mandi and Kethu occupies 4th house as reckoned from the Sun. The Moon is ruler of the 12th house and occupies 6th.

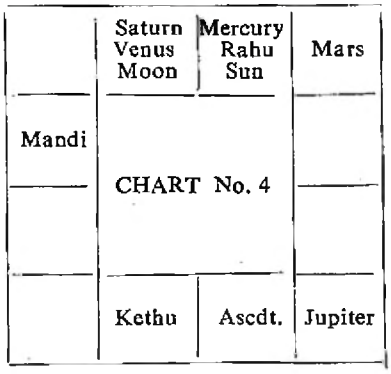


Chart No. 3 given below is that of a young man born under Moola on 28th November 1935. His father passed away in his 4th year in the sub and major period of Venus.

Birth under the constellation Moola indicates early parental death. In this chart the Moon occupies a very dangerous position. The Moon is weak and occupies 7th, maraka house, ruling 2nd maraka house. The Moon is eclipsed and aspected by Mandi. Mercury, the ruler of the house occupied by Mandi, is in conjunction with the Sun; Kethu and Mandi occupy 8th house as reckoned from the Sun. These are clear indications of father's death in early days.

Chart No. 4 given below is that of a lady born under Aswini on 4th June 1910. Immediately after her birth her father was divorced by her mother who got remarried in due course. Father and daughter never met each other again in life.

Aswini is a constellation quite unfavourable for parental happiness. The Sun is eclipsed and occupies 8th house with Mars and Saturn on either side. The Moon is weak and occupies 7th maraka position in conjunction with Saturn (in full), ruler of the sign occupied by Mandi.

The Horoscope of Queen Elizabeth

BY DR. P. S. SASTRI, M.A., M.Litt., Ph.D.

QUEEN ELIZABETH II was said to have been born at 2-40 A.M. on the 21st of April 1926. This time was one hour in advance of the actual time. So taking 1-40 A.M. as the time of birth, we get the following Sayana positions. The Ayanamsa is 22° 50'.

The Sayana positions are: Sun-Taurus 0–12; Pluto-Cancer 12–48; Moon-Leo 12–7; Nep. (R)-Leo 22–2; Saturn (R)-Scorpio 24–26; Mars-Aquarius 20–53; Jupiter-Aquarius 22-3; Venus-Pisces 13–58; Uranus-Pisces 27–20; Mercury-Aries 4–40; Rahu-Cancer 20–31; Ascendant is Capricorn 21–28; 10th house cusp is Scorpio 25–44.

Uranus 4-30 Mercury 11-50	III 8-35 Sun 7-22	IV 2-54 V 21-44	Pluto 19-58 Rahu IV 27-41 VI 8-44
Venus 21-8 II 26-26	RASI CHART (Nirayana)		Moon 19-17 Nept. R 29-12
Jupiter 29-13 Mars 28-3
Kethu 27-41 Lagna 28-38	X 2-54 Saturn 1-36 R

Balance of Mercury's major period is 13 years and 8 months. She has Saturn's sub-period in the major period of Venus from 20-10-1959. The Bhava positions of the planets (Nirayana) are the following:

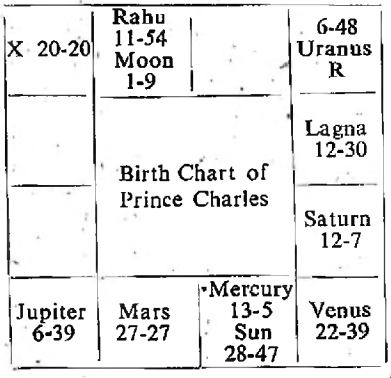
Excluding Uranus there are four planets posited in the second. But in reality only Mars and Jupiter are in conjunction. The Ascendant is in conjunction with Kethu. The Moon is in opposition to Mars and Jupiter, though it occupies the descendant. There is a perfect square aspect of Saturn on this conjunction and on Neptune as well.

The period of Venus began in 1946 December. Her accession to the throne was in the period of Venus, the lord of the fourth, fifth and ninth cusps, posited in the cusp of the 2nd house. This

		Pluto Rahu Moon
Sun		Neptune (R)
Venus Mars Jupiter Mercury Uranus	BHAVA CHART (Nirayana)
Kethu Lagna		Saturn (R)

Venus however has a sextile aspect with the Ascendant. The sub-period of Rahu extended till 21—2—1957; and it includes the Suez affair. Rahu is in the fifth from Venus; and this position has a tendency to cloud the vision and intellect. The owner of the sign, Mercury, is in debilitation. From the standpoint of the bhavas, Rahu is in the sixth from Venus; and since the sixth house position is not unfavourable, the affair did not end in a total disaster. During the sub-period of Jupiter there was the campaign on Oman. Since Jupiter is the lord of the ascendant in conjunction with the lord of the third, tenth and eleventh cusps, this campaign was successful. But Jupiter being the lord of the ascendant and of the twelfth, this period also witnessed a series of personal attacks on the Queen by Lord Altrincham and others.

Do these events confirm the correctness of the time? The Ascendant being Sagittarius, she is conscientious, reliable, thorough, and orderly. An intensely industrious and intelligent nature is revealed by the conjunction of Mars with the lord of the Ascendant. The rising of Kethu in the Ascendant is apt to make her an introvert. Far from indicating a bodily defect, this position tends to isolate her mentally and spiritually from the nearest and dearest. It exemplifies the saying, 'uneasy has the head that wears the crown'. Whatever defect one may speculate, it would involve the vocal organs and the eye only. And when we notice the opposition of Pluto to the ascendant, we are convinced in holding the view that she is mentally alone and spiritually segregated.



Saturn the lord of the second has a square with Jupiter, lord of the first and twelfth, and with Mars, lord of the third, tenth and eleventh. This is ominous. One crisis overtaking her refers to the 3rd house. At the personal level, it involves her relations with her sister; and at the impersonal level it involves her empire. She has to be away from both, and this is further accentuated by Saturn's position on the meridian. It is quite possible that at the not too distant future, the Queen will have to assent to the emergence of independent republics out of the empire. Already Nigeria and Ghana have won their way. The Cameroons are fast slipping. Cyprus is to become a republic. And sometime in 1962 or after she may voluntarily abdicate and become an ordinary citizen of the Commonwealth. The liquidation of the empire over which Sir Winston refused to preside, is decreed by the heavens; and in this decree we find even the abdication. This abdication is further accentuated by the 7th house, thereby implying that Prince Philip, if not the public, will play a major part in bringing about this event.

Saturn on the M.C. is the major factor in this chart. Either the results appear late in life or very early; and if the latter, the individual is overthrown. Now the Queen came to the throne early in life; and this is tragic enough. But Saturn in the 10th tends to make one religious and philosophical and democratic. It should not surprise a student of astrology if the Queen comes to face a situation similar to that presented in Shaw's Apple Cart; and to save the country from such a crisis, and also from a domestic crisis, she is likely to step down in favour of her son.

The chart of Prince Charles supports the contention. He has the major period of Venus from 8-4-1955; and Rahu's sub-period from 8-6-1962. Two or more than two persons in the same family should not have the same major period. This in itself forebodes something undesirable. Venus here is on the cusp of the 4th house, though debilitated. This accession to the throne will be at the expense of the mother. By then the transitting Saturn will oppose the Ascendant, the 4th from the 4th. It is quite probable that health or some other factor will compel his mother to abdicate. In this connection one may note that there is a major configuration of eight bodies in Capricorn early in February 1962, preceded and followed by eclipses.

Reverting to the Queen's horoscope, we find that transitting Saturn on her radical mid-heaven brought about the disaster in connection with the Suez affair. And Saturn's ingress into Sagittarius resulted in the agreement over Cyprus. By 1962 this Saturn will be transitting her radical Mars-Jupiter conjunction.

The 2nd house has five bodies, yet Mars and Jupiter are in conjunctions, and Mercury is in conjunction with Uranus. In between these two is found Venus who is away from both. This pattern indicates something of a mental exploration besides that of a physical exploration. Her relations with Prince Philip do not seem to proceed smoothly. Something of the common man's lot draws the Prince nearer the masses; and the trapping of royalty accord ill with his nature. Can it be he, who will ultimately succeed in making the Queen live like an ordinary citizen? Since a variety of houses are involved in this configuration, it is also probable that by 1961 or so there will arise major differences between the Crown and the cabinet, and between the ministers and the people.

The Ascendant Sagittarius agrees well with her past and it forebodes the greater and speedier liquidation of the empire. It is not an accident that we are having an eight-planet combination in 1962 in Capricorn. Though the United Kingdom as such will not be directly involved in the events of 1962 and after, the ruling titular head will be involved in a series of dramatically exciting incidents. It is with the accession of Prince Charles that a new order of things will crop up in the country; and it will be an order more in time with the rising trends of a new era of humanism. These observations are confirmed when we adopt Mr. Carter's method of progressions also.

OR
THE HINDU PROGRESSED HOROSCOPE

By B. V. RAMAN

This book based on Tajaka covers fresh grounds in the field of prediction. It describes a unique method never before disclosed for deciphering annual life readings. Predictions made according to this work yield unique results. Whether you are a layman or initiated, you can draw up and interpret the annual reading in an easy and scientific manner. The system propounded in the pages of this work is rational and in actual practice yields most satisfactory results.

OPINION

"The author outlines a method of deciphering annual results from the Hindu horoscope. He claims that the principles of Tajaka astrology have been found to work accurately in actual practice, and controverts the orthodox belief that the system can be applied only to charts of individuals who have passed the age of thirty. There are many useful tables at the end and a summary."

Yoga, Psychology and Parapsychology—XVI

BY DR. V. M. BHATT, B.A., M.B.B.S.

SIMILAR to automatic writing, is, what is called 'Precipitation or Automatic Painting'. Bishop Leadbeater has given from Dr. Coate's 'Photographing the Invisible' an experience of Vice Admiral Usborne Moore relating to the precipitation of a portrait within two feet of him. He says: "The Bangs sisters held each one side of the canvas,...while I sat between them and watched the face and form gradually appear...the portrait then proceeded apace until all the details were filled in and in twenty-five minutes, it was practically finished. The precipitated portrait is very much like a photograph of the person, that I had in my pocket during the sitting, which the Bang sisters had never seen.

Leadbeater then gives another instance of a similar precipitated portrait of the wife of Mr. G. Subba Rao, Editor of the West Coast Spectator, Calicut, done with the help of the mediumship of the Bang sisters. He had his wife's photograph in his pocket, but the sisters did not know the fact. When the sitting began, the sisters stated that they saw the life-size image of the lady and accurately described the details, viz., that his wife was standing behind him with her hand on his shoulder, that she wore a jewel on her nose, and a dog was lying at his feet, and so on. When the picture began to appear on the canvas by invisible hands, he says: "Gradually I saw a cloudy appearance, which in a few moments cleared into a bright face. The whole seemed a remarkable enlargement of the photograph. Some ornaments were clumsily reproduced. I point ed out these blemishes, and as a result, when I saw the portrait, next day, they had disappeared. I was satisfied that the portrait had been precipitated by some supernormal agency. As soon as the portrait was finished, I touched a corner of the canvass and a greyish substance came off. The portrait is still in my possession and it looks as fresh as ever. It was all done in 25 minutes". (Vide The Other Side of Death, by Leadbeater, 1954 Ed., Pp. 629).

Similar portraits of his dead son were obtained by the late Sisir Kumar Ghosh (brother of the late Motilal Ghosh of the Amrit Bazar Patrika, a Calcutta daily), through the mediumship of these Bangs sisters. An account of it can be found in "Life Beyond Death" written by M.K. Ghose of the same family and published in 1934. (Pp. 90–93).

I was told by my friend Mr. T. B. Khare (now Shankaracharya of Puri) of a similar story of his dead mother's painting, portrayed by one of my friends, Mr. Saigaonkar, a photographer at Nasik. The story is not on all fours with the above, but is worth-mentioning owing to its peculiarity. Mr. Khare's mother was never photographed, nor was there any picture of her painted while she was alive. Mr. Khare asked Mr. Saigaonkar who seems to have clairvoyant vision, whether he could paint a picture of his mother from his (Khare's) mental image of her. Mr. Saigaonkar consented, and drew an exact picture of her, concentrating all the while on the mental image of her in Mr. Khare's mind. This shows that like the Bangs sisters, Mr. Saigaonkar had before his mind an exact image of Mr. Khare's dead mother, reflected from the latter's mind. According to Mr. Subba Rao's statement the Bangs sisters had also described his dead wife's features possibly by their clairvoyant powers. But it must be remembered that his wife's portrait was painted by invisible hands and not by those sisters.

Automatic Writings Without Mediums

One cannot easily distinguish passive automatic writing without a medium from what is called inspirational or intuitive writing. There are on record many cases of well-known authors and poets, scientists and mystics, who have confessed that their best known works were not their own but were rather dictated to them by some other agency. Kipling's "Demon" and R.L. Stevenson's "Brownies" are familiar examples in literature. And many celebrated authors give all credit to that invisible agency. In a chapter on "Higher Reaches of Personality" Tyrrell gives nearly forty cases to substantiate this point. He writes, Blake said of his poem "Milton", "I have written this poem from immediate dictation twelve or sometimes twenty or thirty lines at a time, without premeditation, and even against my will". George Elliot tells, "in all her best writings there was a 'not-herself' which took possession of her and that, she felt her own personality to be merely the instrument through which this spirit, as it were, was acting." Madame Guyon confesses "before writing I did not know that I was going to write. While writing, I saw that I was writing things I had never known." Dicken's declares about his writings that, "some beneficent power showed it all to him. So does Thackeray say that "it seems as if an occult power was moving the pen". William James emphasises the same point-when he speaks about religious men and mystics. He says "you will hardly find a religious leader of any kind in whose life there is no record of automatism. Saint Paul had his visions, his ecstacies and his gift of tongue. The whole array of Christian saints, including the greatest, the Barnards, the Loylas, the Leuthers, the Foxes, the Wesleys had their visions, voices rapt conditions, guiding impressions and openings. They had these things because they had exalted sensibility, and to such things, persons of exalted sensibility are liable". (Varities of Religious Experience, Pp. 478) Tyrrell and many parapsychologists ascribe this sense of otherness to the 'subliminal self' or 'sub-conscious mind' of the writers, but this theory does not cover all the cases, as for instance, the child prodigies'. Even the authors themselves feel that some external invisible but wiser agency, must be at work and they are mere instruments in its hands.

Scanned by www.saptarishisastry.com © Reserved by V. Vasudevan Mark

Direct Voice or Automatic Speech

There are many cases, very well authenticated by reliable witnesses, in which the dead relatives try to speak with their relations on earth. Shaw Desmond has written a book on this phenomenon known as "You Can Speak With Your Dead". His own son John was dead sometime ago. Suddenly on the 10th March 1933 Desmond while at a friend's house, heard his son's voice quite clearly and had a short talk with him. This was repeated on three occasions in the same year and Desmond who was a sceptic before, became fully convinced that the dead can speak with the living. Sometimes he says Lady Seagrave and some other gentlemen had heard his son's conversation. This was continued till 1940. He also mentions that he had had talks with the spirits of the late Sir Henry Seagrave, expert on internal combustion engines, Sir Artur Conansoyle, William T. Stead, Rudolph Valentine, and others. He says that he and others have witnessed the spirit of late Sir Henry Seagrave talking to his wife on 2-6-1933. And such conversations with the dead convinced Dr. Brown, M.A., M.D., D.Sc., F.R.C.P., of the survival of man. Desmond says (Pp. 133) that man survives death and his earthly life is but one link in the chain of existence.

But the most direct evidence on this score is the conversations of the late Myres and Gurney through the mediumship of Mrs. Willet and Mrs. Piper, described by Tyrrell in his "Personality of Man" (Pp. 150-163) and in the "Survival of Man" by Sir Oliver Lodge. Mrs. Willet used to remain quite conscious when the spirits talked through her. Not so, Mrs. Piper who had to be controlled by some agency and for that she had to be in trance. In the case of Mrs. Piper no loophole for fraud was possible as she was watched under test conditions by Dr. James and Dr. Hodgson. When Gurneys spirit was talking, the tone, voice and the manner differed distinctly from that when Myers was speaking. The conversation seemed quite ordinary and was open to the objection that they do not reveal any new knowledge from the spirit world, which we men and women on earth usually expect. And it is but natural. Removal of a coat from the body is no passport to the new knowledge on earth. So it is not in the other world also where only the fleshy cost is lost. Perhaps paucity of appropriate words to convey a new truth to us here may be an obstacle in the spirit's path even if they wish to reveal it. Shortness of period allowed to them to talk to us may be another hinderance. So we are where we were even after the spirit's long conversations. The only gain is our conviction of their survival in the spiritual world. In this connection the latest evidence can be found in the conversations between the late Mr. Mackenzie King, Prime Minister of Canada, with Mr. Percy Phillip, correspondant of the New York Times, who gave them wide publicity. Perhaps the late prime minister was a medium.

Agreements Fulfilled after Death

The next category of evidence for survival consist of automortem agreements fulfilled by the dead persons after death. Bishop Leadbeater has given three such cases from the literature on the subject, in his book "On the Other Side of Death. (Pp. 389). He had come across with many such cases, but we selected only three of them. I am giving a summary of them here, and I will add a fourth case from the book written in Marathi on this subject by my friend Mr. R. S. Bhagavat. Leadbeater quotes a story of Lord Brougham given by Andrews Lang in his book Dreams and Ghosts. (Pp. 97). The story abridged is as follows:—"Lord Brougham had made an agreement with his intimate friend G. that whichever of them died first should appear to the other and thus solve any doubts about survival after death. G. went to India and died there many years after the agreement. Lord Brougham too forgot all about it and did not know about his

Medical Astrology—Horoscope Vs. Stethoscope

BY DR. JAGANNATHA RAO, M.B.B.S., M.A.A.S.

SRI B. V. Raman remarks in one of his books on astrology that the time when doctors begin to consult, the configuration of planets at the time of birth, will be very auspicious, for, many diseases can be diagnosed easily by looking at the horoscope. And for this reason a horoscope is more useful than a stethoscope. There is a great truth in the observations made by the learned Editor of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE. I being a medical man undertook the study of this ancient and grand science nearly fifteen years ago, and ever since I have been an ardent student of this science. I have studied astrology in all its aspects and I can vouchsafe the truth in the above statement of Sri B. V. Raman.

The stethoscope as we see and use it today was first used by a Greek physician; of course to start with, he had a very simple instrument. The modern stethoscope is an improved instrument for the purpose of hearing heart and breath sounds. Many diseases of these two vital organs can be diagnosed by this instrument. But the horoscope can give us information of the diseases of all the organs in the body, and that is where it is more useful than a stethoscope.

If we study the ancient Indian Medicine we see that nearly 4000 years ago Ayurveda was developed. Ayu means length of life and Veda means learning or knowledge. Thus the knowledge of the length of life is called Ayurveda. In other words health and diseases are dealt with by this system. Ayurveda was developed as an off-shoot of Atharvana Veda, which is really the source of Indian Medicine. In Atharvana Veda we come across many a sloka dealing with normal health as well as deviations caused by different elements and also about the code of conduct for a successful physician. The theory and practice of this system is said to have been developed during the period 3000-2000 B.C. Accordingly Ayurveda is divided into four periods. First being the Vedic period wherein only the principle laid down by the Atharvana Veda was practised. The second period is that of research in Ayurveda. This was the period 2500-2000 B.C. The third period is that of compilation of different principles, old and new. This was about 2000–1000 B.C. Then began one of the worst periods, the period of stagnation. And this period has been continuing, until recently when Government of India came forth with encouragement for research in Ayurveda. Unfortunately the modern Ayurvedic practitioners have started using stethoscope for which there is no instruction in the original system. On the other hand, the ancient practitioners used to give importance to the horoscope of the individual, and believed in Muhurtha, as they used to start treatment on an auspicious day and moment. Thus they were successfully treating most complicated diseases and could give their diagnosis and judgment with more certainty than the modern practitioners with all their laboratory aids.

A horoscope will not only aid the physician in diagnosing the present disease but also indicates possible future diseases also and thus helps us in preventing certain diseases.

Thus it could be used for both preventive and clinical aspect of medicine. The modern medicine does not teach anything about possible future ailments of an individual. But the horoscope will give indications of such diseases. What a difference. I have instances where a modern practitioner has certified an individual to be perfectly 'fit' for certain duties, and the same individual was labelled as 'unfit' due to some chronic disease. But I am sure if our modern doctors look at the horoscope they could never miss an indication for a possible future disease. I therefore appeal to all my colleagues in profession to learn astrology and its application to diseases and treatment. The stethoscope of a modern physician can aid him in diagnosing only the heart or lung diseases, but a horoscope (of the individual) will aid him in diagnosing any disease, be it of the heart or kidney. The ancient Indian Medicine wherein astrology was inseparable, was developed as long as 3000 years ago, but the modern medicine has been developed only 300 years ago. With all their X-ray machines, and laboratory methods they fail to diagnose certain diseases. In comparison an astrologer well versed in Medical Astrology can diagnose merely by analysing the horoscope. What the modern Anatomist teaches, was taught by Ancient Indian Surgeon Sushruta ages ago! A modern doctor requires a heap of instruments and a bunch of assistants to deal with a patient, but it is said of Sushruta that by the very appearance and the gait and the arrival time he used to guess the ailments and used to deal with the patient quickly and singly. The father of modern medicine Nippocrates flourished in between 480-357 B.C. But the great Charaka and Sushruta lived much earlier and mastered the Tridosha theory, which was modified by the Greeks to four-humour theory. It is said that this Tridosha theory was transmitted to Greece by men of Alexander and later on during the time of Darius. In the same manner the Indian influence was spreading in the east. With the spread of Buddhism, the three principles of Indian Medicine also spread to China, and they modified it to five principles of Chinese medicine. Prior to this there were only two theories in China called 'Yin' and 'Yang'. The idea of going into details of this science is that the student of astrology must know about all this. When analysed you see that the Tridosha theory was based on 'trikal' of astrology, i.e., past, present and future. The two principle of theory of old China represented only past and present. There was no mention of future. But the Greeks based their principles on five elements. Whatever be the base of theories, the fact remains that a man must suffer his past karma. A disease is produced according to the past karmic seed, using the present soil. But then you may question how could you prevent what is ordained. I have dealt with this question in my article 'Preventive astrology' published in December 1957 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE.

In short the use of horoscope by physicians and surgeons of modern medicine will greatly assist them in diagnosis and prevention of diseases.

death. But while travelling in Sweden, he halted at an inn, and was taking a warm bath one night. When he turned his attention towards the chair on which he had kept his clothes, he was amazed to see his friend G. on the chair. Brougham was so terrified that he swooned on the floor. When he came to his senses, the apparition has gone. He wrote down the whole story immediately on that date (19th December). After returning home he got a letter from India announcing that Mr.G. had died on the same date. In another similar case we find Rev. Theoder Burkley, Chaplain of the Christ Church, Oxford, appearing according to the agreement, three days after his death, before his friend Mr. Kenneth Mackenzie, (Glimpses in the Twilight, Pp. 62).

Leadbeater quotes another story from Glanville's book Sadducismus Triumphatus, in which Major Sydenham after his death had appeared before his friend Capt. Dyke in fulfilment of his agreement to prove his existence after death.

In Mr. Bhagavata's case, one Mrs. Finney's brother had made two similar marks on a piece of brick, cut into halves, gave one to her and told her that if he dies before her, he would intimate to her where the other piece was to be found. Unfortunately the brother died and sister waited for many days to learn from him about the location of the other piece. Ultimately he conveyed the information through the Planchet that he had kept the other piece beneath his axe in a box in his house. The sister went there with the marked piece in her possession, and found the other similarly marked in exactly the same plac indicated by him.

The Universe and the Heavens

By M. V. Ramakrishnan, M.A., L.T.

The book gives in simple non-technical language all that is known at the present day about the heavenly bodies giving the latest theories of an evolving and expanding Universe. Attempts have also been made to correlate ancient astrology with modern observations.

Though much of the matter in this book has already appeared years ago in THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE, the matter has been entirely rewritten to meet the needs of the layman, the University student, the astronomer and the astrologer.

An invaluable book that every lover of knowledge should possess.

*Timing Events—Transits & Directional Influences—II

BY B. SURYA PRAKASH

THUS from these instances it is suffice to say that the sextile (3rd sign) and conjunctional aspect of Saturn is a mixture of good and evil depending upon its position in the natal chart.

Now let us come to the sextile aspect of Saturn to the 11th house (say Mars in 20 of Leo and Saturn in 20 of Libra). This may be always taken to be benefic and in transit the effects of Saturn may be interpreted to one's advantage when Saturn comes to the radical position of Mars thus sextiling his on natal position or when he conjoins his own position sextiling natal Mars. To be more clear let us take an example. Take Libra as the rising sign, and 2nd lord Mars in 3rd in 11th degree of Sagittarius and Saturn lord of 5th in 5th (in 11th degree of Aquarius). Here Saturn has got 11th house sextile to Mars and therefore may be considered beneficial. This sextile may be considered to mean acquisition of good landed properties, sound financial position, and success in speculations. These effects would manifest when Saturn by transit crosses the natal position of Mars or his own natal place, (though Saturn when crossing Mars aspects his own natal position by 3rd sign aspect, since radically he has no such position but only in 3rd from Mars, the effect of Saturn aspecting his own natal position will not do much harm, but on the other hand being a yogakaraka promotes the indications concerned all the more), though his crossing of Mars may bring minor troubles, sudden illness, etc. Here lies the technique of interpretation of Saturn's transit in the light of sidereal astrology.

*The first part of the article has appeared in September 1959 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE.

Transit of Jupiter

The main aspects to be considered in case of transitting Jupiter are conjunction, opposition, trines and to a lesser extent sextiles. Square aspect does not seem to have any prominence regarding the transits of Jupiter except when Jupiter comes to the 10th house of Moon (forming an exact square) when there will be a lessening down in the activities of the native concerned, more than the obstructions. All the aspects of Jupiter (while in transit) including even the opposition are beneficial, the greatest prominence being given to the trinal aspect. Jupiter always seems to promote the indications denoted by a house (while transitting the cusp of the house) or a lord over which he transits. The transit of Jupiter will be highly helpful in predicting long distance travels, transfers or foreign travels. Usually 3rd and 9th houses respectively are taken for short and long journeys. But if one carefully scans the whole Nirayana astrological literature, one will be surprised to find that no mention has been made anywhere of 3rd and 9th houses as denoting travels. On the other hand 4th, 7th and 12th houses along with Lagna have been mentioned as indicating travels. 4th house indicates short trips and pleasure journeys while 7th and 12th houses indicate distant travelling. Parasara in his Brihat Parasara Hora states that if the 12th house is occupied by a malefic, and 12th lord is conjoined with as well as aspected by a malefic, then the person having such a configuration has many travels over many regions. Again Jataka Parijata mentions that if the planet in the 12th house owning a movable sign also occupies a movable sign, or if it is the lord of a Dusthana or if it is aspected by Saturn then the person will roam over many lands and regions.

Further all ancient texts agree that if the rising sign is a movable one and is aspected by planets from movable signs, then the person will have to undertake many journeys. Again our sages mention that it is from the 7th house that a person has to know all about his journeys. Thus from these it is clear that, no where in the whole of Nirayana astrology, we find any mention of 3rd or 9th, as houses of travel. Probably there may be some literature wherein it might have been stated that 3rd and 9th houses govern travels, and certainly my eyes have missed them. If any one points out that these houses have been mentioned in our astrological literature as houses of travel by proper reference, I stand to be corrected.

It has been constantly observed that while one makes a long distance journey or goes abroad, 7th lord and transitting Jupiter will be very prominent. One can say with a certainty (provided the indications are in the radical chart) that when Jupiter makes a trinal aspect to lord of 7th from a movable sign or double-bodied sign, or when the 7th lord himself is in a movable or double-bodied sign and Jupiter makes a trinal aspect to him, then that person will most probably either will have a long journey or a travel abroad. These points will be shown by me by actual examples from charts of well-known persons in my next article. Thus the transit of Jupiter is very helpful in predicting transfers and important journeys.

Next we shall take important effects of Jupiter's transit over the natal positions of planets.

When transitting Jupiter makes an aspect or transits over the luminaries, it gives a very joyous and optimistic view of life usually the native gets enabling him to have a pleasurable time. The native will be socially active and his undertakings will generally be successful mainly pertaining to the house and lordship in and over which the luminary has relationships.

While Jupiter transits Mercury or aspects him (if Mercury is well situated), one can expect success and improvement in business, educational pursuits, good relationships with intimate people, and coming in contact with influential people.

Jupiter transitting or aspecting his own radical position specially in 2nd house gives good income (in an unexpected way), and inclines the native to the study of occult subjects.

Venus when aspected or transitted by Jupiter gives a happy time in domestic affairs, and if radically connected with 7th house, or 7th lord or Venus the transit of Jupiter to Venus very often brings about marriage.

While transitting Jupiter aspects or conjoins the natal Mars, one can generally expect a very busy time, and the activities of the native will be multifarious. Specially if Jupiter is connected with Mars in the radical chart the effects will be pronounced. For Aries, Leo, Libra, Cancer and Pisces, if Jupiter and Mars in some way or other are harmoniously connected, specially for Libra when Jupiter and Mars exchange places as lords of 2nd and 3rd (in which case Dhanadhipati being a friend of Dhanakaraka will be in 2nd place from the latter) the transit of Jupiter over radical Mars or his own natal position is a sure indication of very good income.

The transit of Jupiter over radical Saturn will give an opportunity to help one in very difficult circumstances, both spiritually and materially. Usually the transit of Jupiter over Saturn demands some sacrifice on the part of the native, but a sacrifice that will prove to be a gain to the native. The sextiles and trines of Jupiter, of course, as usual promote the indications signified by Saturn by virtue of his ownership and occupation.

The aspect or transit of Jupiter on or over the radical position of Rahu though beneficial in a materialistic sense of view, yet it will be completely lopsided from the spiritual point of view unless Rahu happens to be in the 12th or 3rd house.

Transit of Rahu

Rahu, the ascending node of the Moon, has, according to Indian astrology, aspects 5th, 9th and 12th houses. The motion of Rahu always being retrograde, the aspects should always be referred in the reverse or anti-clockwise direction. This does not materially affect 5th and 9th house aspects, but the 12th house aspect actually becomes the 2nd house aspect. Thus if Rahu is in Langa and aspects the 12th house, he aspects not the 12th house but the 2nd house actually. The conjunction, opposition, square and 12th house (semi-sextile) aspects are always bad specially the 12th house and the square aspects. The square aspect is the worst as it forms the mid-point of Rahu–Kethu axis. To this list we can conveniently add quincunx aspect also, though no mention of it is made in Nirayana astrology with regrad to Rahu. The trinal aspects are always good and enables one to consolidate one's position with regard to the house and lord to which Rahu is applying by trinal aspect. The aspects of Rahu, specially the quincunx, semi-sextile and square to the Moon are the worst one can imagine. If Rahu afflicts Moon in the radical chart by conjunction, opposition, quincunx, or square aspect, almost, the identical transit of Rahu to the natal position of Moon will force the native into circumstances which are beyond his control, so much so, that he will not even hesitate to commit suicide. The events that lead the native to circumstances such as mentioned above will be those of the houses ruled and occupied by Moon. Similarly Rahu, afflicting the 8th house of a radical chart usually destroys the health of the native, and when he by transit contacts the same or the rising degree, the native will be made to undergo immense physical tortures in the form of lingering illness, accidents, etc. If at the same time Moon is also afflicted in the 1st, 2nd, 3rd or 8th house, and during the transit of Rahu over the 8th, 2nd, or Ascdt., then you can well imagine the condition of the native better than described! In the next instalment I shall deal with practical examples.

The Kaleidoscope

BY YOGIRAJ GEORGE CECIL NIXON

[Under this heading Mr. G. C. Nixon will astrologically comment on important happenings in the world such as political upheavals, natural calamities and train disasters, etc., with special reference to events in India. Mr. Nixon has been a student of Hindu Astrology and Yoga for a number of years. It is hoped that this feature will be welcomed by our esteemed readers. Publication of Mr. Nixon's views does not necessarily mean that the Editor endorses them.—Ed., A.M.]

The Horoscope of Mr. Robert Nixon

MY namesake, Mr. Robert Nixon, the American Vice-President, was born at 9.30 p.m., (S.T.), on the 9th January 1913 in Orange County, California, 117.51 West, and 33.47 North, according to American Astrology Magazine (see Mr. Gleadow's letter), April 1958. His horoscope is as follows (Ayanamsa 23° 32').

Rahu 13-45		Saturn 3-56	Pluto 4-53
Venus 9-49	Mr. R. Nixon 9—1—1913 at 9/30 p.m.		Neptune 1-13
Uranus 9-11 Moon 26-32			Ascdt. 22-40
Sun 25-52-22 Jup. 8-12 Mer. 6-31 Mars 6-14			Kethu 13-45

In many ways this is a rather remarkable horoscope, for it illustrates therein a most powerful Rajayoga, which is rarely encountered for those born with Leo rising. The Sun, the ruler of the first sign, is in Sagittarius, the 5th sign from the Ascendant, conjoined with Mars, the Yogakaraka, ruler of the 4th and 9th signs, together with Jupiter, ruler of the 5th and Mercury, ruler of the 2nd sign. We thus have the rulers of the Kendras and Trikonas all conjoined in a very favourable sign, Sagittarius, and above all angular in the 4th Mundane House. This fulfils all the classic rules of Hindu astrology for great political power, and there can be no doubt that he is destined to rise to the highest position in the land, which in America, is the Presidency!

It is also very interesting to note the Parivartana Yoga between Venus, ruler of the 10th sign, in the 7th and Saturn, ruler of the 7th sign in the 10th. I am sure that this denotes in no uncertain manner that he owes a great deal of his success and popularity to his charming wife. Planets, especially Jupiter and Venus, are in the 12th and 2nd signs from the Moon, respectively, and this constitutes Durdhura Yoga, which indicates great success, renown and wealth in life, together with fine children. According to Hindu astrology, Jupiter is not an absolute benefic for Leo rising, since he owns the 8th sign from the Ascendant. He will bring some loss and misfortune in his Dasa.

The Moon is in 26° 32' Capricorn, a very active, political sign, very near to the exaltation degree of Mars, and this combined with the Sun in Sagittarius is an indication of his indefatigable energy and world-wide travels. He will be motivated by strong inner religious convictions. The nakshatra was Dhanistha and the unexpired portion of Mars Dasa at birth was 5.25 years. The planetary periods therefore are as follows:

5.25 Mars in Sagittarius Dasa

17.77 Rahu in Pisces Dasa

23.02

15.78 Jupiter in Sagi. Dasa.

1951=38.80

2.97 Saturn in Taurus Dasa

1954=41.77

2.65 Mer. in Sagi. sub-period

1957=44.42

1.09 Kethu in Virgo ,,

1958=45.51

3.13 Venus in Aquarius ,,

1961=48.64

.93 Sun in Sagittarius ,,

He became the Vice-President in Saturn period and sub-period, and at the present time, he is in his Venus sub-period of Saturn. This brings the Parivartana Yoga to the fore and indicates his great popularity, especially on his recent trip to Russia and Poland. As Venus sub-period rules from July 1958 to August 1961, which covers the period of the next Presidential Election in the U.S.A., it seems a very likely pointer to his being elected as the next President of America. In January 1961, there is a conjunction of Jupiter and Saturn on his radical Sun, which denotes the highest honours as well as the greatest burdens, that can be bestowed. It will be a critical moment in American history, and momentous decisions will then be made regarding peace and war.

Mars/Jupiter aspects are always an indication of excitement, popular enthusiasm and emotion, and those who have these aspects in their horoscopes seem particularly apt in arousing these sentiments in others. The triple conjunction of Mars, Jupiter and Mercury in Nixon's chart, were rising in the Ascendant, if the horoscope were equated for Warsaw, 52° 13' North, 21° 0' East, and no doubt he became the focus for a spontaneous outburst of feeling for the masses of Catholic Poland, repressed by the Communist regime.

The Forthcoming Krushchev-Eisenhower Meetings

The invitation to Mr. Krushchev given by President Eisenhower to visit the U.S.A., and of a return visit of Mr. Eisenhower to Russia, came at the close of the abortive Foreign Ministers' meeting at Geneva. It is now necessary to compare the horoscopes of the leaders of these two powerful states. According to Cyril Fagan's rectification, President Eisenhower's birth time was at 5-11 p.m. (L.T.), on the 14th October 1890 at Denison, Texas, 33° 46' North, 96° 32' West. The horoscope is as follows (Ayanamsa 23° 19'):—

Ascdt. 24-0		Nep. 13-11 Pluto 14-15 Rahu 24-3
Jupiter 9-28	President D. Eisenhower 14—10—1890 at 5/11 p.m.		Saturn 19-26
Mars 20-47	Kethu 24-3 Venus 12-48	Uranus 3-26 Moon 10-20	Budha 10-13 Sun 28-16

Recently Eisenhower has had the transit of Neptune over the Moon which accounts for his ill-health and general bewilderment at political developments. The proposed meeting with Krushchev on the 15th September, will come at a time when the transits in Eisenhower's chart are still unfavourable, for they suggest further danger of ill-health and strain, as well as personal sorrow. The indications are bad for August and September, but in November when Jupiter transits the radical Venus, enhanced popularity should result.

When we compare Mr. Krushchev's planetary positions (born 17–4–1894), with those of Eisenhower, we find that there is an exact Sun/Saturn interchange. Krushchev's Saturn is conjoined Eisenhower's Sun, which suggests that Krushchev will succeed in getting some concessions out of Eisenhower, who will be the generous one, and who will also be in some position to concede some points in the interests of a settlement, however temporarily, on the problem of Germany. De Gaulle and Dr. Adenauer fear this. Never was there a more momentous period of political uncertainty than at present.

Even Mr. Nixon's chart is under adverse rays this autumn, for he has Saturn transitting his radical Jupiter which indicates some loss of reputation, attacks made on his public standing, and plans going awry. But Nixon's chances of becoming President, ultimately are strong.

With Saturn transitting through sidereal Sagittarius, the general outlook for America is not good at all, for it indicates a growing sign of financial crisis. The ever-increasing cost of space travel projects, vast atomic armaments, and lending money to backward countries, is making a great hole in her gold reserves. There is now more talk than ever before, of an American devaluation of the dollar, which will have the effect of increasing the price of gold throughout the world. Apart for South Africa, Russia herself, is a very large gold producing country, and this move would mainly benefit her. Eventually, Jupiter also enters Sagittarius in January 1960 and leaves in February 1961, and it may be that between these two dates, devaluation of the dollar will take place. Here is an opportunity for speculators to make a lot of money!

The Sack of Kerala's Communist Government

It appears that my second date for the crisis in Indian politics which I gave as the 24th July, has now been fulfilled, for within a week of this date, denoted by the Q–2 method of directing Mars to the meridian of the Delhi Capsolar chart, President Prasad has removed the Communist Government of Kerala from office. Indeed there was no other solution, if the Indian Central Government was to remain in control of the situation, and Mr. Nehru was forced to make this decision before the Communist menace in India, got entirely out of hand.

As I said on page 552 of the June issue, "This conjunction of Mars and Uranus also falls on Mr. Nehru's Ascendant and at the same time, Jupiter retrogrades into Libra and transits Mr. Nehru's Sun, and is stationary there all during July and August, which greatly favours his position and helps him through a very difficult political situation.

Now, everything depends upon Congress's ability to recapture the masses of Kerala in the elections which will have to be held. The stars favour Mrs. Indira Gandhi's efforts in September, October and November, when Jupiter transits her Sun, but Mr. Nehru will find himself in a humiliating and trying position in December 1959 and January 1960, when Saturn transits his Jupiter radical. Then his reputation will be at stake and his policies to contain Indian Communism fail. Pluto transitting his radical Saturn shows him in dread of his enemies getting the better of him, and grief over a bereavement.

*Predicting Specific Events by Means of Transits—V

BY W. J. TUCKER, D.Sc., Ph.D.

I am devoting this article to a study of the transits that signalled the drastic deeds of four mass-murderers: Cream, Christie, Chesney (the three C's), and those of the 1957 multiple-murderer Charles Starkweather. Four ghastly infamous personalities for Madame Tussaud's Chamber of Horrors.

At this point I will present the particulars of the four rectified horoscopes:

All four men were coldblooded murderers—real Killers by Instinct. Their crimes were not the fruits of hasty impulsive acts committed in the heat of passion but were coldly planned and remorselessly put into execution.

In all crimes of violence Mars is usually found involved. For Mars is emblematic of the killer. Yet, as will be seen, none of the four men whose horoscopes we are about to examine was a Tuesday-born man. Two were Monday-born, one of Thursday-born, and the fourth was Saturday-born.

Nor are Mars—aspects always in question. Christie was born with Mars square Mercury, Chesney with Mars conjunction Jupiter, Starkweather with Mars opposing Saturn. But Cream was born with Mars in sextile with the Sun.

Obviously Mars is not the important planet in the horoscope of the type of coldblooded killer who plans his crimes. The real culprit is Neptune—aided and abetted by the sadistic planet Saturn, or by the almost equally sadistic Jupiter.

In Cream's horoscope we find Neptune opposed by Jupiter—an opposition which is double-squared by the Sun from the nadir.

In Christie's horoscope we find Neptune opposed by Saturn—an opposition which is double-squared by the Moon.

In Chesney's horoscope we find Neptune opposed by Uranus across the horizon circle—an opposition which is doublesquared by Saturn from the zenith.

In Starkweather's horoscope we find Neptune squaring Mercury. At first blush this may seem much less drastic—until we learn the nature of his crimes which bore a paranoidal allure and were obviously committed in a state of paranoidal elation.

Dr. Neil Cream

Dr. Neil Cream was born in Glasgow, on Monday, May 27, 1850. Accordingly his birthday planet was the Moon. On the day of his birth the Moon was opposing Mercury.

Now the birthstar which marked the position of Mercury on the day of Cream's birth was Ξ Tauri, which is a Red star of particularly malignant import, this being a fact which we must bear in mind.

Let us note, too, the extremely important fact that Neptune at Cream's birth stood exactly at the Point Ascendant and was opposed by Jupiter (Jupiter was Cream's horoscope ruler, being the ruler of his Pisces ascendant). Inevitably, therefore, Neptune would colour the personality of this man. Neptune is associated with poisons by astrologers, and poison was this man's murder-weapon for all his crimes.

Daniel Stott

Cream's first murder was committed on Aug. 23rd, 1880 when he caused poison to be administered to Daniel Stott whose wife he coveted. Note that this date was a Monday and therefore under the rule of Cream's birthday planet. The Moon at the time of the crime was transitting over Ξ Piscium (the birthstar which marked the natal position of Cream's Saturn).

Uranus on the date of the murder was at Virgo 8° 50′ and therefore on the cusp of Cream's 7th house (matrimonial intentions) and in direct opposition to o-Aquarii—the birthstar marking the natal position of Neptune.

Neptune himself was at Taurus 14° and therefore in exact trine aspect with Cream's natal Jupiter—a fact which saved Cream from capital punishment.

Saturn was at Aries 28° 49′ and therefore transitting o-Piscium (natal Uranus).

* The first four parts of this article have appeared in April, May, June and August 1959 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE.

Jupiter was at Aries 19° and therefore transitting over ♓ Piscium (natal Saturn).

Mars was at Virgo 21° and in square with Cream's birthday planet—the Moon.

Venus was at Virgo 12° and transitting 58 Leonis (natal Jupiter).

The above are the transits which incited to murder and which procured for Dr. Neil Cream a life sentence.

Ellen Donworth

When wires were eventually pulled to procure Cream's release from prison, our medical man left the United States and came to London.

At 7 p.m. on October 13, 1891, Cream murdered Ellen Donworth by administering poison. The day was Tuesday (Mars' Day).

The Sun was at Libra 20° opposing ♓ Piscium (natal Saturn.)

Neptune was at Gemini 8° 48' retrograde, and therefore in the proximity of 43 Tauri (natal Sun).

Saturn conjoined Mars at Virgo 24° in square with the Red star ♉ Tauri (natal Mercury).

Jupiter was at Pisces 8° 21' retrograde and therefore transitting the Point Ascendant over o-Aquarii (natal Neptune).

Ellen Donworth was a total stranger to Cream and had played no part at all in his life. Therefore his motive must have been the gratification of sheer sadistic pleasure from the act of slaying an unfortunate.

Matilda Clover

On Tuesday, October 20, 1891, Cream murdered Matilda Clover by administering poison. (N.B.—All Cream's London victims were complete strangers to him and chosen haphazardly).

The Sun was at Libra 27° opposing o-Piscium (natal Uranus).

Saturn was at Virgo 25° and therefore still squaring natal Mercury (i.e., the Red star ♉ Tauri).

Mars was at Virgo 29°, therefore technically still in transit-phase of natal Saturn and square the Red star.

Neptune was at Gemini 8° 40' and technically in transit-phase over the natal Sun.

Jupiter was at Pisces 8° 28' (in square with the progressing Neptune) and transitting both the Point Ascendant and the natal Neptune.

Thus precisely the same conditions which inspired the murder of Ellen Donworth were again present on this day, which, like October 13th, was a Tuesday.

Alice Marsh and Emma Shrivel

This double-murder of Alice Marsh and Emma Shrivel was committed on Monday, April 11th, 1892. Therefore the Moon was to take a hand in the game in a way destined to bring Cream to book at last, she being his birthday planet.

The Moon on that day opposed ♓ Piscium (natal Saturn) from Libra 17° 30' in Cream's eighth house (the house that spells death).

Neptune was at Gemini 7° and still over his natal Sun.

Saturn was at Virgo 24° 25' retrograde, and squaring the Red star ♉ Tauri.

Mars was at Capricorn 16° 41', squaring natal Saturn.

The Death Sentence

Dr. Cream was sentenced to death on Friday, October 21, 1892. On that day the Sun stood at Libra 28½° in exact opposition to o-Piscium (natal Uranus) from the eighth house—the Death House. The Moon was conjunct Uranus and Venus in Scorpio—forming a triple conjunction that was squaring natal Mars.

Jupiter was at Aries 18° 43' retrograde, and therefore transitting over ♓ Piscium (natal Saturn and giving the "thumbs down" signal indicating that Cream's luck had run dead out!

The Execution

Cream was hanged at 8 a.m. Tuesday, November 12, 1892.

The Moon—his birthday planet—was at that hour at Libra 8° conjoined with Saturn. This conjunction therefore formed on the cusp of the eighth house.

Uranus, at Scorpio 7° 30', was still squaring Cream's natal Mars

Jupiter, at Aries 16°, was still over natal Saturn.

Mars, at Pisces 3½°, was close to his Point Ascendant.

So ended the saga of Dr. Neil Cream—on the gallows.

John Halliday Christie

Christie was born in Halifax, Yorkshire, England, on Saturday, April 8th, 1899, so that Saturn is both his birthday planet and his horoscope ruler.

This man was a policeman during the war. Sometime during 1943 he murdered his first victim, Ruth Fuerst; but as the exact (or even approximate) date of the murder is totally unknown, we are unable to test the transits of his first few murders.

Christie's method of murder was first to render the victim unconscious by gassing, and then he would strangle her. Such a method is of course thoroughly in line with the Saturn opposition Neptune aspect double-squared by the feminine Moon, under which he was born.

Note that Christie had a birth star in common with Dr. Neil Cream, namely ♓ Piscium (marking the natal position of Saturn when Cream was born, but marking the natal position of the Sun when Christie was born).

Christie's second victim was Scanned by www.astrologyparish.com © Reserved Vivian Work

Muriel Eddy whom he murdered sometime in 1944.

His third victim was Beryl Evans whom he murdered sometime in 1949.

His fourth victim was his wife (and it was for her murder that he was tried and convicted). He murdered her in December 1952 (the exact date is unknown). Neptune in conjunction with Saturn was then at Libra 23° opposing Christie's natal Mercury and squaring his natal Mars.

Uranus at Cancer 18° was squaring Ξ Piscium.

Mars, at the beginning of December, was at Aquarius 8° and therefore transitting his Point Ascendant.

Note that at Christie's birth, Jupiter was at the zenith, protecting him for years from the discovery of his misdeeds. And meanwhile the bodies were piling up in his house!

His fifth victim was Kathleen Maloney whom he murdered sometime in January 1953. In the same month he murdered his sixth victim: Rita Nelson.

Neptune and Saturn were still conjoined at Libra 23° in opposition to natal Mercury and in square with natal Mars.

Uranus at Cancer 17° was still squaring Ξ Piscium.

Mars was transitting his natal Venus and in square with his natal Uranus.

Christie's final victim was Hectorina McClennan whom he murdered sometime in February 1953. Positions of the effective planets were: Neptune Libra 23°, Uranus Cancer 15°, Saturn Libra 27° (exactly square with natal Mars). (Mars would have transitted over the natal Moon on the first day of February).

On Tuesday, March 24th, 1953 the murders were at last discovered. On that day the Moon was transitting over Christie's natal Mars, while Saturn was at Libra 25½° squaring Christie's natal Mars. Mars himself was at Taurus 3° and beginning to oppose Christie's protective natal Jupiter from the nadir.

Sentenced to Death

Christie was sentenced to death on Saturday, June 27th, 1953.

Neptune, conjoined with Saturn was still opposing Ξ Piscium—an opposition which Uranus was doublesquaring from Cancer 18°

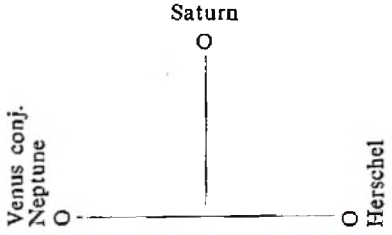
Mars was conjoined with the Sun at Cancer 5½°. It was the day of the Full Moon—which means that the Moon was opposing that conjunction from Saturn's own sign of Capricorn.

Ronald Chesney



The ruling passion of Ronald Chesney (whose real name was Donald Merrett) was the acquisition of money to finance his gambling proclivities and extravagant living.

Chesney was born at Levin in the North Island of New Zealand on Monday, August 17th, 1908, at which date Mrs. Merrett naturally could have had no idea that the brat she was bearing was destined to murder her in his 17th year of life.

However, even in his early teens, Chesney needed plenty of money with which to entertain flashy girl friends and to buy a motor cycle plus a revolver with which to shoot his mother. So he had been heavily drawing upon his mother's banking accounts with forged cheques. He was, of course, well aware that the day would inevitably arrive when his mother would find out about it; and so, in order to provide against that contingency, he purchased the revolver.

Chesney's extravagant tastes and acquisitive money instincts naturally derived from the remarkable quadruple conjunction which formed at his birth (consisting of Mercury–Sun–Jupiter–Mars) in Leo and in his second (money) house, as well as to the facts that being Monday-born the Moon was his birthday planet and was in the luxury-loving sign of Taurus.

However, his racketeering impulsions and his utter unscrupulousness that baulked not at murder was undoubtedly inherited from the following very powerful birth configuration:

(Venus and Neptune conjoined at the Point Ascendant and opposed by Uranus across the horizon circle, doublesquared by Saturn in Aries from the zenith).

Matricide

It was on March 17th, 1926 that Mrs. Merrett discovered the forgeries. Donald promptly shot her through the head and then claimed that his mother had committed suicide! The time was immediately after breakfast. Mrs. Merrett lingered on for ten days and finally expired on April 1st, 1926.

On March 17th, 1926, a Wednesday, the Moon was at Taurus 9° quite close to her own natal position in Chesney's chart.

Neptune was at Leo 22° 33' and therefore transitting over the natal positions of his basic quadruple conjunction in Leo.

Saturn was at Virgo 25° 58' retrograde, and therefore in square aspect with the Mars of his basic quadruple conjunction.

Jupiter at Aquarius was conjoined with Venus (at Aquarius

Scanned by www.spiritualism.org.uk Please do not remove this mark 15° 35') at the cusp of his eighth house.

Mercury, at Aries 13° 35' had just transitted his natal Saturn and was doublesquaring his basic (Venus conjunction Neptune) opposition Herschel.

So well had Chesney camouflaged the murder, that he succeeded in bamboozling the police into believing it was suicide. And it was only because he continued to forge cheques drawn upon his mother's banking accounts after her death, that police suspicions were aroused and Chesney was brought to trial charged with her murder.

The trial took place on February 1st, 1927 and ended on Saturday, February 5, 1927. Five of the jurors voted "guilty of murder" but the remaining seven voted "not proven". In the end the jury returned a verdict of "not proven" in connection with the charge of murder, but "guilty" on the second charge of forgery. Chesney was sentenced to a term of imprisonment. He was released at the end of 1928.

On Saturday, February 5th, 1927, the Moon was transitting Chesney's natal Saturn from the zenith and was trining the progressing Saturn, the latter planet being at Sagittarius 6° in his 5th house. Jupiter was at Pisces 4° in his eighth house in exact sextile with his natal Moon—which was the reason for his luck! But Mars was at Taurus 22° in square with his radical quadruple conjunction, while Neptune at Leo 25° 53' was transitting natal Mars. Hence the sentence of imprisonment.

The present article is not the place to recount the amazing details of the rackets of one of Europe's most fabulous racketeers, and so we must pass on to the year 1953 which found Chesney short of money and focussing his mind upon the money which his wife had conserved from her marriage settlement. It was soon clear to Chesney that the only way he could come into possession of that money was to inherit it after her death. Therefore in that year he endeavoured to contact men whom he thought might be willing to turn assassin for a few of a thousand pounds. He tried out at least four different men, and when those attempts failed he resolved to do the job himself. His plan was to fake the murder as suicide (drowned in her bath accidentally in a drunken stupor).

Murders of wife and mother-in-law

Chesney travelled by air to London from Amsterdam on a false passport on Wednesday, February 10th, 1954, and after plying her with drink for a couple of hours, drowned her in her bath at midnight. Then, at 12-30 a.m., February 11th, 1954, while creeping downstairs away from the murder scene he ran into his mother-in-law. She naturally recognised him, and so he was obliged to kill her too. The old lady fought him resolutely for her life, but he battered her into unconsciousness and then strangled her. That done, he made his escape to the continent.

At the time of the murders the Sun stood at Aquarius 21° 30' in Chesney's eighth house and was opposing his basic quadruple conjunction.

Uranus was at Cancer 19° 51' near his Point Ascendant and natal Neptune.

Saturn was at Scorpio 9° 19' in his fourth house opposing the natal position of his Moon.

Mars was opposing the Moon at midnight.

Venus was at Aquarius 24° 30' in his eighth house opposing his basic quadruple conjunction.

Suicide

At about 2-30 a.m. on Tuesday, February 16th, 1954, in Cologne, Germany, Chesney committed suicide by shooting himself.

The Sun was then at Aquarius 27° in his eighth house and opposing the natal Mars of his quadruple conjunction.

The Moon at Leo 8° was squaring Saturn.

Mars at Sagittarius 3° 30' was squaring Venus at Pisces 1°, forming the ambient under which the Chesney saga reached its conclusion.

*Relative Influences of Sun-Mercury Combinations—III

BY K.T. VISHWANATHAN & S. DURGA PRASAD RAO

General

THE combination of Sun and Mercury in Sagittarius Lagna is most prominent, and in other lagnas also they show a specific and notable effect on the horoscope. We have already discussed the characteristics of Sun and Mercury in Part I. We have tried our best to simplify the subject in the following manner. After going through all the three parts, the readers will appreciate the mode of selection of horoscopes, in such a way that all the twelve bhavas are fully discussed in twelve lagnas. For detailed study we took 12 horoscopes of different bhavas of each lagna, and out of which we have selected one from every lagna, and finally arranged in such a way that all the bhavas are grouped together in a simultaneous fashion. It can be clarified from the table given below :—

Mesha	ninth bhava	Very good
Vrishabha	first ,,	Good
Mithuna	third ,,	Good
Kataka	sixth ,,	Very good
Simha	tenth ,,	Very good
Kanya	seventh ,,	Normal
Thula	twelfth ,,	Good
Vrischika	eleventh,,	Good
Dhanus	second ,,	Very good
Makara	fourth ,,	Good
Khumba	fifth ,,	Good
Meena	eighth ,,	Very Good

Discussion

Now we will be discussing the importance of Sun-Mercury combination one by one in the following lagnas :

*The first two articles have appeared in May and July issues of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE.

Horoscope No. 1 is that of Dhanur Lagna. The combination of Sun and Mercury is in the second, and the Sun is the lord of the 9th and Mercury is the lord of 7th and 10th houses. The person was born in the major period of Sun. He became the Lieut.-Governor of Vindhya Pradesh in the sub-major period of Mercury in the major period of Sani. He is a very good speaker because Vidyakaraka Mercury is situated in Vaksthana.

Mercury in the second indicates that the person will be a good speaker, beautiful and rich. He became famous due to this powerful combination.

No. 2 is a Makara Lagna chart. The combination of Sun (lord of VIII) and Mercury (lord of VI and IX) is in the fourth from lagna. The native is well educated because Mercury is situated in a good place. The 4th house from lagna rules mother, and because the Sun (lord of VIII) is with Mercury in the 4th, he could not get the happiness of his mother for a long-time. In other words the mother passed away when he was very young.

He is well off and is quite a richman due to Mercury (lord of ninth) being in the fourth. Due to the presence of Sun in the same house he is not so happy.

In this horoscope of Kumbha Lagna, the combination of Sun and Mercury is in the 5th house. Here Sun is the lord of seventh and Mercury is the lord of fifth and eighth. The person could not study much because Mercury is the lord of eighth. He is only a matriculate. As Mercury is situated in his own house, however, he is very intelligent.

Jataka Martanda says that Mercury in the 5th gives happiness with wife and children, beauty, devotion to God and Brahmins and respect to elders. According to the same work, the Sun in the fifth indicates difficulties in young age and a strict nature. In his very young age, Budha Dasa was very good and he was very happy also. The major dasa of Sun started in his 50th year, and this was also profitable and good for him. Anyway Sun–Mercury combination seemed to be good enough for him.

In the Meena Lagna horoscope (Chart No. 4) the combination of Sun (lord of sixth) and Mercury (lord of fourth and seventh) has occupied in the eighth. Mercury though in the eighth is good, as he is the owner of two kendras and lord of Vidya (education) and Vahana (vehicles). As the Sun (lord of 6th house) is with Kalatradhipati Budha, his wife is not of good health. The person is gentle, good natured, and respectful to elders. The sub-periods of Mercury in all major periods were very good. He became a Excise Collector in Hyderabad in the sub-period of Mercury in the major-period of Saturn. Anyway this combination had a remarkable influence on this horoscope.

The authors wish to conclude the topic with the remark that Sun-Mercury combination confers an important influence on the horoscope.

Further, the authors wish to say that the study of other combinations such as Moon–Mars, Jupiter–Venus and Saturn–Rahu, will be given shortly.

The authors also wish to gratefully thank Sri Pandit S. Rajashekhara Sastri of Varanasi, for his helpful suggestions in the present investigation.

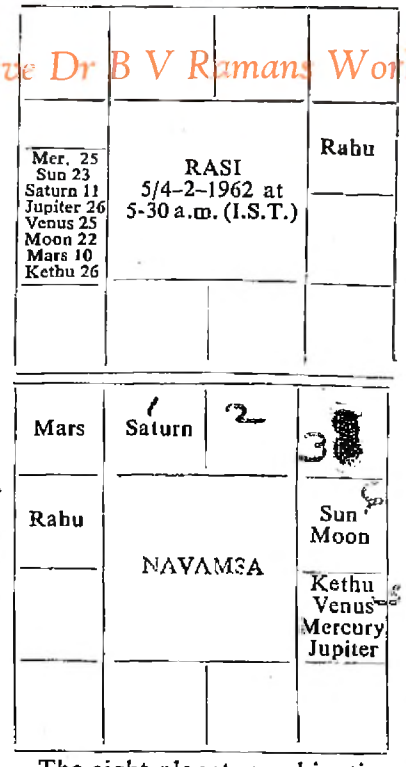
The 1962 Eight-Planet Combination & World Affairs—A Symposium

[As readers are aware, there is going to be a combination of eight planets in Capricorn (Aquarius according to Sayana or the Movable Zodiac), in February 1962. The subject has been dealt with by us not only in August 1957 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE under the caption The Third World War, but reference has also been made to this great concentration of force in one part of the heavens, in our inaugural address to the All-Kerala Astrological Association, at Trichur. This unique celestial combination seems to have excited the curiosities of a large section of the educated public to such an extent that many of them have suggested the subject being discussed in a more detailed manner.

Those intending to participate in this symposium can prepare a suitable paper and send the same for publication. It is left entirely to one's discretion whether to interpret the combination astrologically or astronomically, on the basis of the Nirayana or Fixed Zodiac or Sayana or Movable Zodiac. You have to set out what in your opinion, are the likely results to happen as a consequence of this eight-planet combination in the world as a whole; with reference to the different countries; and/or in regard to individuals born in different signs. All points of view—whether based on ancient classical writings or on modern western texts or on one's own experience, are welcome.

PAPER No. 9—BY MANORANJAN DE, B.A.



THE learned Editor of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE has invited astrologers all over the world to participate in a symposium to discuss the effects of the eight-planet combination (in Nirayana Capricorn and Sayana Aquarius) in February 1962. We wholeheartedly congratulate the learned Editor for his laudable action. This kind of exchange of views in an international way is really essential in the present time when a section of the educated people seem to think cheap of this divine science.

The combination of eight planets in a zodiacal sign is not a usual phenomenon. It is very rare, and happens after a very long interval. Our ancients have given much importance to the combination of luminaries and have very carefully recorded the consequences on individuals and nations. By keen observations and intuition they co-related astronomical phenomena with effects on the earth and its life. We can easily justify these established axioms of our ancients by co-relating them to historical events. Generally great events in world history happen just before or after a major conjunction or combination of planets.

Now, what will actually happen on our globe by the eight-planet combination in February 1962? One stumbling block in the way of giving uniform position of planets is the ayanamsa. But, whatever ayanamsa is taken for calculation an astrologer of experience, who has the power of intuition, can easily come to a correct conclusion. So far as I am concerned, I accept the ayanamsa used by THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE. Therefore, I accept the chart drawn by the learned Editor in August 1957 issue. Though I have reasons to support this ayanamsa, I do not want to discuss the subject in this article. Only mathematics cannot help due to predict correctly though mathematics is also essential. The correct method of prediction is a quite different proposition which an astrologer learns through experiences. An astrologer is born and not made. The grandfather of our learned Editor, predicted with wonderful accuracy, long before the 1st World War that "a global war will break out by the assassination of a prince".

The eight planets meet in Capricorn on the 2nd February 1962, in the house of wealth, fame and powers of Kalapurusha. This being a movable earthly sign, indicates politics and trades in Hindu astrology. Golayoga is caused by the combination of five or six planets in a sign if an eclipse happens at that time. The ancients also say that Mahagolayoga is caused by the combination of seven or eight planets in a sign if a solar eclipse is also caused at that time. In Mahagolayoga, God is said to break down all unholy customs and conventions through the destruction of sinners, establishment of truths again by the co-operation of the pious. Fortunately, the planets are not in close conjunctions, so the results are expected to be minimised to some extent.

Scanned by www.sanjayrao.com. To preserve Dr B V Raman's Work

The eight-planet combination is caused in the house of Saturn, the planet of real and lasting peace, democracy, labour and also of miseries. On the day of eclipse, Saturn remains in the constellation, Sravana, ruled by the Moon and in navamsa, he is debilitated in Aries in the house of Mars, indicating the disturbances of peace of the world, agricultural loss and uprisings of labour class. Consider Saturn as the greatest malefic and that no real and lasting peace can be expected until and unless Saturn is sober and favourable. Mars being in his exalted house remains in the constellation Uttarashada, ruled by the Sun, the planet of aristocracy, power and sense of supremacy; fortunately, he is in the house of his friend in navamsa. Mars being in constellation of the Sun, indicates heavy bloodshed on earth. Mercury, Venus and Kethu are all in the constellation of Dhanishta, ruled by Mars. Mercury, Jupiter, Venus, Moon and Kethu are practically combusted by the Sun and actually powerless and except Moon, all are in the navamsa of Sun. Jupiter the greatest benefic is debilitated and he is almost an idle spectator. Moon is also with the Sun in navamsa. Only Rahu aspects the eight-planet combination from Cancer a movable watery sign and the house of rest of Kalapurusha. Rahu is in the constellation Aslesha, ruled by Mercury. Mercury is the planet of intellect and trade. Rahu is the indicator of Muslims. The eight-planet combination is opposite to Rahu. Cancer indicates the food and water passage of stomach including chest of "Kalapurusa". Actually the global conflict will start provoked by Muslim country. As Rahu is in the constellation of Mercury, the Muslim nations will be wise enough not to take a quick decision knowing fully its consequences, but pressure of circumstances will be such as they will see no other alternative as Mercury is called "Balagraha". Rahu remains in the constellation of Mercury. The combination falls in the 8th from the ruling sign of America and 12th from the ruling sign of Russia. American trade policy on the Muslim nations will invite the danger and afterwards Russia may accept the challenge.

This Mahagolayoga indicates scarcity of food, natural calamities like earthquakes, storm and famine and loss of crops and epidemics. It also indicates outbreak of fires, railway accidents and sudden volcanic eruptions. It is likely that Russia will hit the Moon in 1962 with the definite proof of its reach and in due course, Moon will be conquered by Russia with much benefit of wealth. Aries is the rising sign of the birth of earth and the ascendant lord Mars is in the 10th exalted. The eight-planet combination falls on the meridian from Aries. This combination indicates the "Incarnation of God" somewhere in Himalayas in 1962 on the eclipse day in Aries Lagna in a very honest and humble family. Jupiter being debilitated in mid-heaven with deep conjunction with Kethu in constellation of Mars, He will declare jehad against all faiths on earth for establishing a common faith easily acceptable to all.

I endorse the opinion of the Editor of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE that "the world will witness appaling destruction of human beings but in view of Makara being the Chara Rasi (movable sign) the conflict is not likely to be a long drawn affairs." U.N.O. will die in 1962. The world will be suitable for forming the socialist states normalising and tempering the present so-called communism and democracy. The combination falls in the 10th from the Pakistan horoscope and 10th house in national astrology, indicates King or President, Prime Minister and the stability of the State. 1962 is a very trying period for Pakistan. The stability of Pakistan will fall either by an uprising or by another coup. India will face a religious uprising and much troubles in country's education and strange disease of children. Though, no sign has yet been seen, the circumstances will be such that India and Pakistan will see no other alternative than to unite again in 1962, and Kashmir problem will be automatically solved. As the combination falls in the 9th from the horoscope of Free India and in 10th from Pakistan horoscope—the combination will give the Rajayoga effect through troubles and miseries. The unavoidable situation created by conflict, will compel the sister nations to unite again. All the partitioned States created after World War II will dissolve. The present Anglo-American policy will completely fail after 1962.

Electional Astrology—IV

BY K. V. SIVARAMA IYER

THE following lunar days are to be avoided for all Muhurthas:

Fourteenth (2—waxing and waning), fourth (2), ninth (2), eighth (2—New Moon day), and the latter half of the first lunar day after the New Moon.

But the ninth lunar day is considered good for the Muhurtha of initiating a child to the art of learning. The eighth lunar day after the Full Moon is accepted for marriage. The latter half of the first lunar day after the New Moon is considered auspicious for taking the newly harvested crop into the house. The fourth, ninth and fourteenth are auspicious for the commencement of taking in medicines. New Moon day is excellent to begin treatment for piles.

Investiture of a boy with sacred thread, giving of a cow and a calf as a free gift, important Vratas, Seemantha, and the fixing of an idol in a temple are to be done only on days following the New Moon. Five days after the Full Moon day can also be made use of.

Combinations of Week days with different asterisms.

Sunday–Makha, Monday–Visakha, Tuesday–Aridra, Wednesday–Moola, Thursday–Satabhisha, Friday–Rohini, and Saturday–Uttarashada. These combinations result in Mrityu Yoga and are to be avoided for all auspicious functions.

Week days joining with one of the constellations shown against each are also inauspicious.

Sunday—Makha, Bharani, Dhanishta, Anuradha, Mrigasira, Krittika, Visakha, Aswini, Jyeshta.

Monday—Pushya, Poorvashada, Makha, Visakha, Chitta, Anuradha, Uttaraphalguna, Uttarashada, Uttarabhadrapada.

Tuesday—Aslesha, Aridra, Visakha, Jyeshta, Revati, Poorvashada.

Wednesday—Dhanishta, Moola, Bharani, Aswini, Revati, Poorvabhadrapada and Visakha.

Thursday—Uttaraphalguna, Satabhisha, Rohini, Krittika, Chitta, Mrigasira, Aridra.

Friday—Swati, Rohini, Bharani, Visakha, Mrigasira, Chitta, Dhanishta, Pushya, Aslesha, Makha.

Saturday—Hasta, Pushya, Uttaraphalguna, Punarvasu, Chitta, Poorvashada, Uttarashada, Sravana, Revati.

Combinations of Week Days and Lunar Days

Wednesday and second lunar day, Tuesday and fifth lunar day, Thursday and sixth lunar day, Friday and eighth lunar day, Monday and eleventh lunar day, Saturday and ninth lunar day, Sunday and twelfth lunar day.

These combinations of week and lunar days cause Dagdha Yoga and are inauspicious.

A period of one and a half hours after sunrise is to be avoided on the above days for all functions.

The following combinations of week and lunar days are also inauspicious:

Sunday and one of the lunar days sixth, seventh, twelfth or fourth.

Monday and eleventh, seventh or sixth.

Tuesday and fifth, eighth, seventh or tenth.

Wednesday and second, first, eighth or ninth.

Thursday and twelfth, ninth, eighth or sixth.

Friday and second, eleventh, tenth, ninth, eighth or third.

Saturday and seventh, eleventh, thirteenth or ninth.

Combinations of certain lunar days, week days and asterisms which are termed as poisonous yogas are shown below:

Sunday—fifth lunar day and Krittika.

Monday—second lunar day and Chitta.

Tuesday—full Moon day and Rohini.

Wednesday—seventh lunar day and Bharani.

Thursday—thirteenth lunar day and Anuradha.

Friday—sixth lunar day and Sravana.

Saturday—eighth lunar day and Revati.

Combinations of lunar days with constellations considered inauspicious for all functions are:

Tenth lunar day and Rohini, thirteenth lunar day and Uttaraphalguna, first lunar day and Poorvashada, twelfth lunar day and Aslesha, fifth lunar day and Krittika, eighth lunar day and Poorvabhadrapada.

Thirteenth lunar day with Chitta or Swati, third lunar day with Uttaraphalguna, Uttarashada or Uttarabhadrapada, second lunar day with Anuradha, fifth lunar day with Makha, 8th lunar day with Rohini, seventh lunar day with Hasta or Moola are also inauspicious.

Gradation of lunar days according to their auspicious nature

(a) Excellent for Muhurthas—From the eleventh day after the new moon to the full moon day and from the first day after the full moon day to the fifth.

(b) Good days—From the fifth day after the new moon to the tenth.

(c) Days which can be made use of under pressing circumstances—From the second day after the new moon to the fourth and from the sixth day after the full moon to the tenth.

(d) Wholly bad days—The first day after the new moon and from the eleventh day after the full moon to the new moon day.

On days in which objectionable combinations of week and lunar days and asterisms occur 3/5 of the daytime is to be avoided.

Ravi Samkrama

The transit of the Sun from one sign to the other is defined as Ravi Samkrama.

A period of six hours and twenty-four minutes before and after the transit of the Sun from one sign to the other is to be avoided for all auspicious ceremonies.

If the Samkrama is during daytime the whole of that day and if the Samkrama takes place at night the whole of that night are to be avoided. This is not sufficient. For the Samkrama taking place during daytime the entire day and night, and for the Samkrama happening at night that entire night and day are to be avoided.

Samkrama is the period when the Sun is actually in both the signs.

Worshipping God, pilgrimage and bath in sacred waters, and offering free gifts are best done during the Samkrama period.

For the Samkramas occurring during the transit of the Sun into Cancer and the four fixed signs (Taurus, Leo, Scorpio and Aquarius) the beginning of the Samkrama period is auspicious. In the course of the transit of the Sun into Aries and Libra the central portion of the Samkrama period is said to be auspicious. During the transit of the Sun into the four dual signs (Gemini, Virgo, Sagittarius and Pisces) and Capricorn the last portion of the Samkrama period is favourable and auspicious.

When the Sun transits into the four fixed signs and Cancer and Capricorn three days each before and after the Samkrama are to be avoided for all Muhurthas. One day each before and after the Samkrama taking place during the entry of the Sun into Aries and Libra is not good. For the Samkramas caused by the entry of the Sun into the four dual signs twelve hours each before and after the Samkrama period are inauspicious.

The period between two Ravi Samkramas is a solar month. A lunar month is the period beginning from the first day after the new moon to the next new moon day. (The period between two consecutive conjunctions of the Moon with the Sun). A month of thirty days (a day from sunrise to sunrise) is termed Savana. The period of Moon's transit through the twenty-seven asterisms constitutes a stellar (nakshatra) month. The Samkrama caused in the course of the transit of the Sun into the four fixed signs is called Vishnupadi. The Samkrama occurring during the transit of the Sun into the dual signs is termed Shadaseethi. The Samkramas in Aries and Libra are known as Vishuva. Sun's entry into Cancer marks the beginning of winter solstice while summer solstice commences with the transit of the Sun into Capricorn.

MR. T. V. RAGHAVIAH

In connection with the Shastipurthi Celebration of Bhima Kesari T. V. Raghaviah, A.F.I.I. and Retired Officer, Life Insurance Corporation of India, a huge public meeting was held in the premises of the N.G.O.'s building on 1-7-1959 at 6 p.m. under the Presidentship of Hon'ble Grandhi Venkata Reddy Naidu, Minister for Law and Order, Andhra Pradesh.

Messages from Dr. S. Radha Krishnan, Vice-President of India, Ministers Brahmananda Reddy, Sanjeevaiah, and Bhagavanta Rao, Prof. B. V. Raman, Editor of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE, Sri Gopala Krishna, I.C.S., Chairman, Life Insurance Corporation, Bombay, Sri K. Balasubramanyam, Zonal Manager, L.I.C., Madras, Sri A. Rajagopalan, L.I.C., Bombay, and others wishing it every success were read on the occasion.

The President after paying glowing tribute to Mr. Raghaviah for his charities said that even though there are persons earning much more than their needs persons like Mr. Raghaviah who spend large amounts for charitable purposes are very rare. The title of Dharmadata was conferred on Mr. Raghaviah in the conference by people of Avanigadda.

Sri M. V. Krishna Rao, M.P., presented welcome address on behalf of Sanmana Sangham.

AROUND the WORLD

By DOUGLAS HUNT, M.A.

ONE of the oldest of occult devices in the West is the Tarot, and perhaps the best-known Tarot expert in England is Madeline Montalban, who deals each month in prediction with one of the cards in the pack.

Interpretation of a Tarot spread depends to a considerable degree on the innate occult ability of the reader. Am I being very heretical when I suggest that the same applies in astrology. "Each card", writes Miss Montalban, "means many different things, and all Tarot readers have to find out just what any particular card means to themselves.

In my own few efforts at astrological interpretation I have often found that a sudden hunch as to the reading of a particular planet and its placing has brought me far nearer the truth than a strict adherence to the text-books. It might be too much to say that for many astrologers the horoscope acts in much the same way as does the crystal, by focussing their own occult abilities, but this is most certainly so with a Tarot spread. Naturally this does not obviate a study of the fundamental rules in either case.

Like every good occultist Madeline Montalban has a very large store of sound commonsense. Dealing with the card Six of Cups, which conventionally implies the ability to help others occultly, she points out that this ability is far more often imagined than genuinely present. Oddly enough the good occultist need not necessarily have any 'occult ability' at all. "There is always some way you can help others without using occult forces", writes this supremely wise woman. "The odd shillings in your pocket can buy some comfort for those who need it. The spare time you have can be given to helping the ill or disabled with their housework."

If I personally have any message to give as regards treading the path I could not have expressed it better. The Christian Master put it in much the same way: "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and his righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you." The genuine 'seeker' will find that he is performing miracles without any knowledge of magic—except the magic of the love of God.

It is this spirit that inspires a new and valuable monthly from South Africa, Aquarius Rising, whose philosophy may be summed up in the words: "One cannot serve the Masters except by serving the world, and whoever tries to serve the world is ipso facto serving the Masters."

Aquarius Rising explains its title and aims as follows: "The first great stream of wisdom which is to pour from Aquarius is the Water of Life or Etheric Force long known to the initiates of the Ancient Wisdom, but at last being measured and interpreted by scientific equipment. Once known and used by Paracelsus and Swedenburg, and demonstrated in the healing force of the Christ, this celestial fluid fills the whole solar system, even in areas believed to be a vacuum by contemporary science. It is the medium by which solar energy reaches us as light, heat and magnetism. It flows in cyclic movements from the Sun to the planets and from the planets to man. It penetrates every atom and is the bearer of life. Its effects on health, vitality and intelligence in man have yet to be recognised by science."

Here, surely, is another possible rationale for astrology.

Natalie Banks, writing in Aquarius Rising, claims that Aquarius is among other things the sign of joyful, willing sacrifice, which will characterise the Aquarian Age. "Aquarians", she writes, "are indeed the new Age people; not by any means comfortable to live with, but stimulating, and they do get things going! Basically the ideal is service—to the many, to humanity. In this they will make mistakes, but they will listen to reason and thus they will change."

Is it too much to suggest that we have already seen the intensely evil, negative aspect of this force in Fascism and Nazism, and the first faint beginnings of truly Aquarian movements in the League of Nations and UNO? Is not Communism itself—though in the view of many of us misguided and distorted—in essence Aquarian? Be it noted that, to quote Natalie Banks again, "the unevolved Aquarian can be dogmatic (Aquarius is a fixed air sign), uncompromising and oblivious to the feelings of others—even harsh."

A strange and strangely potent publication is Lichthort. It is published in Germany and it is very strongly pacifistic. It is a keen supporter of the "Friedenskomitee der Bundesrepublik Deutschland" a movement to stop the rearmament of Germany. Such a movement in that country is an intensely encouraging sign—particularly when it is only too sadly evident that in many powerful quarters there the militaristic spirit is very far from extinct.

Lichthort deals also with many aspects of the spiritual and occult, from healing to astrology, from radiesthesia to a long series of telepathic instructions purporting to come from other planets. There is, perhaps, a touch of Aquarian dogmatism in some of its articles, but that is more than compensated for by the deeply idealistic trend of all its teachings. I fancy it would strike a sympathetic chord in many an Indian heart. For any who might be interested it is obtainable from 14b, Marschalkenzimmern, Schwarzwald, Germany. There is no fixed subscription, but the price for single copies is stated to be 35 Rpf.

According to Geokosmos a well-known Swedish engineer asserts that the sun is not a ball of glowing gases. He claims to have demonstrated that the rays of the sun are not, as is normally assumed, hot, but 'cold'. He believes that he can prove that the sun is in fact not a body at all, but a mighty centre of energy. Certainly for astrologers it is the latter, whatever else it may be.

It is not difficult for Englishmen to believe that the sun's rays are 'cold'! At least it has not been so in recent years. This summer the sun has certainly given us the impression that it was on the warm side. 'Scientists' of course assure us that the first fine summer we have had for years has nothing whatever to do with the fact that there have been no atomic explosions this year. 'Scientists', like most of us, can beleive practically anything they want to.

They would, no doubt, also vehemently deny the suggestion that the numerous elks which have been appearing in the suburbs of Moscow recently are the vanguard—as has been hinted—of a mass-emigration from the radio-active pest which has begun to spread over Siberia since the start of atomic tests in that region. Probably the sagacious beasts have arrived in the hopes of hearing a speech from Comrade Krushchev!

Neues Europa proclaims that American chemists and biologists have developed a new gas. "The new poison costs almost nothing", announce the American scientists triumphantly, "can be produced anywhere and can be distributed by aeroplane. In a city of a million inhabitants all life can be extinguished in a minute!"

How marvellous are the triumphs of the scientists! How greatly privileged we are to be able to live—for a short time!—in so brave a new world. Let us abandon the old gods and fall in humble adoration on our knees before the wonderful new god of science.

Or is it possible that you degenerate people prefer such outmoded and antiquated leaders as him who said: Blessed are the peacemakers!

Astrology and Modern Thought

BY B. V. RAMAN

(FOURTH EDITION)

The rationale and claims of Astrology have been examined from the viewpoint of Modern Scientific Thought. The arguments put forth by some of the scientists to decry Astrology have been ably refuted and supported by unimpeachable evidence.

The book will convince any so-called sceptic who is accustomed the slogan 'I do not believe in Astrology'. To an intellectual it contains full of weighty material for reflection.

It is a book that every one should read.

Verification of Predictions

I

Sir,—I take this opportunity to congratulate you wholeheartedly on your startling predictions about Kerala, on page 24 of your January 1959 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE. The imposition of President's rule was foretold in that issue, and today it has come to pass.

Trichur. A. P. KUMAR.

II

Sir,—How wonderfully you are correct in prediction of the affairs of Kerala? How nicely it tallies with facts and figures and happenings in Kerala? You hinted the symptoms of "Mobocracy". We are uttering the slogans of democracy and trying to finish the other party if it can come into power. How the opposition parties are collecting the mobs and destroying the lives and properties of Kerala? It is very easy now to dislodge any civilised Government (who are the representatives of the people) by collecting mobs. Power is in the hands of mobs. He is the leader now, who can collect a big mob and can start agitation. We are preaching democracy and we do not know what we are doing in Kerala. They cannot fight with the ruling party in a constitutional way. The opposition parties collected mobs and got support from our great leader Nehru. How wonderfully your article on Mobocracy is going to be correct in Kerala and in many parts of the earth? So long as Sani is in the constellation Purvashada, the star of Venus, the planet of love and mutual understanding and sympathy, the trouble of Kerala will not be fully over.

Thanking you,

Meerut. M. DE.

III

Sir,—Please refer to your predictions in January 1959 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE. You deserve to be congratulated for your accurate predictions as to America's pulling up of Pakistan and thereby preventing an ugly development (with India). I cannot but be struck by the trends of events, as they have occurred as to its ultimate outcome. On the eve of Baghdad Ministerial Conference on 26-1-59 U.S.A. unlike in the past was not a party to discuss "Kashmir and Canal" affairs. Besides, U.S.A. has refused to include "aggression from India" in her bilateral pact agreement with Pakistan. Finally, U.S.A.'s ambassador's statement at Calcutta on 13-1-59 though new, is quite reassuring about U.S.A's fair-mindedness. And above all your wise counsel (pp. 195) "tonic for evils...faith in God...regeneration of man" are the wisest and most opportune for the moment.

Kanpur. S. SUNDARAM.

IV

Sir,—The present trouble in Kerala State was foreseen by me as far back as October 1958. The following astrological analysis was forwarded to the Editors, Mathrabhumi, Calicut and Jyothishamasika, Cherpu, Kerala, on October 12, 1958.

"The Kerala Communist Government came into being at 12-30 p.m. (noon) on Friday 5th, April 1957. At this time the sign Gemini was on the ascendant with Venus, its best planet astha or combust in the meridian. Venus happens to be the day-lord as well and the combustion is not a happy augury for the Kerala Communist Government. Venus rules the populace and that element which we call popularity. Moreover, it is the traditional lord of peace and goodwill. When it is combust it is capable of bringing unpopularity and turmoils as is evident now.

"The Government had its birth in the Rohini star and the balance period for Moon was 2 years, 5 months and 22 days. Moon is in the 12th house with Mars. This combination is not good for Mithuna Lagna as it confers a Maraka Yoga when 3rd to Sun, lord of 3rd. Moreover, from 24th September 1958 this yoga comes within the field of Kethu in the 4th (Pisces) and this adds to the turmoil and unrest among the populace inhabiting the country and the solar eclipse of October 13th aggravates the tension between the Government and suppressed the people. There will be cases of incendiarism, major vehicular accidents and transport difficulties are to be apprehended.

"What about the birth chart itself? Upto 31st March 1959 the sub-ruler is Venus, in looptha disposition in the meridian which indicates the status, position and power of the Cabinet. Therefore I say most emphatically that the Communists of Kerala will go from bad to worse. If the Government manages to crawl through till 31st March 1959 it will perish after another 6 months elapse. But even now, under the Venus sub-rule, it is declining in power and popularity and when Saturn occupies the 7th (from 7-11-58) and Jupiter occupies the 6th (from 28-12-58), supporters of the Communists in Kerala will be at loggerheads and at cross-purposes. After 28th December 1958 it will be increasingly difficult for the Communists of Kerala to run a Government especially as Rahu-Kethu cut through the Cabinet horoscope. Progressive elements, especially in the South, will now begin to support the Congress actively."

Astrology and Diplomacy

Sir,—I request you to publicise the review I present here in respect of the letter written by Mr. A.R. Paran, Kerala, published in August 1959 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE.

Mr. A.R. Paran suggests to note the importance of the division of human knowledge into various branches of study. In other words he wants to convince that a medical man is not a historian or again a politician cannot be a physician. This is no doubt true to some extent only. But as an instance we can note that Dr. B.C. Roy, the Chief Minister of West Bengal is both a physician and a politician. However I think that when we speak of an astrologer we must very carefully note and think once again what the term 'astrology' means and what and how the astrologers play their role in the society. The 'favourite' study of astrologers is so vast and varied that it is really very difficult for a diplomat to know the depth of the term 'astrology'. Possibly Mr. Paran is aware of this fact as he wishes to be ruled by astrologer-administrators. So also one may wish for astrologer-physicians, astrologer-agriculturists, astrologer-scientists, etc. It now becomes evident that astrology is an art or knowledge which according to Hindus embraced all the sciences of human knowledge respecting organic and inorganic matters of the Universe. So astrology itself is capable of being sub-divided into its innumerable branches of study. Now if any expert astrologer who normally uses to deal with national charts of several States or countries for a long period of time, remarks or points out correctly the transitory faults of a diplomat there seems to be no scope for putting forth an argument against the expert astrologer by levelling the fallacious charges that an astrologer is not at all capable of even putting forth any reasonable remark about diplomatic affairs. This I think is a baseless charge arising out of the incapabilities in knowing even the basic truth of astrology. By way of an illustration I can note the following:—

The planetary conjunctional point in space normally is very sensitive in nature and it losses its characteristic importance gradually by the repeated course of the Sun in a few years. It is now worth noting that the conjunction of Mars and Venus took place on 15th June 1959, 15 degrees of the sign Cancer. The Sun reached the same degrees in the afternoon of 31st July 1959. Taking Makara for India it seems that the President's rule in Kerala as proclaimed at 6 p.m. (I.S.T.) on 31st July 1959 happened to fall in line with the anticipation which one could predict by the study of the aforesaid conjunction of Mars–Venus. (Mars—4th ruler—internal affairs; Venus—5th ruler—policy, 10th ruler —activity; Cancer—7th house—the relation; Moon's house—domestic affairs; Mars—military planet; the Sun—political planet). The proclamation was made at Makara Lagna when Lagna lord happened to be in 12th house. The Moon in 4th stood in trine relation with Lagnadhipathi and this is why this operation is peaceful! But one can now anticipate the nature of an upsurge when Mars stands in tenth from Saturn and joins Rahu in Kanya and another violent one when Mars conjuncts Saturn in Dhanus and a momentous one when Jupiter transits over the conjunctional degree in Sagittarius. It is curious to note that by the year 1962 the two signs Cancer and Capricorn will be excited to the greatest extent.

Do the so-called diplomats know what seeds they are sowing now to reap in near future? Now if any astrologer points out that a particular policy or plan as suggested and adopted by the diplomats is wrong then there is no sound reason to argue that the astrologer is not capable of remarking anything about diplomacy i.e., so-called policy. Astrologers need not know politics and diplomacy from the so-called diplomatic school. They have their own technique and they can correctly point out the tendencies of Nature which ultimately prevail over all schools of thought. Astrology is the study of this Nature; hence it can reveal a tendency beforehand; if man is wise then he can avoid or modify the evil tendency, if not he is to experience bitter results.

The 1962 Eight-Planet Combination and World Affairs

Sir,—Mr. Cyrus D. F. Abayakoon in his above contribution, appearing in June 1959 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE, says: "Mercury, Venus, Jupiter in one sign, are aspected by krura (evil) planets like Mars and Saturn".

But I do not agree with him on the above mentioned point, because a planet cannot aspect another planet when the latter is posited either within 30° on the east or 60° on the west of the former. So, Mars and Saturn cannot aspect Mercury, Venus and Jupiter when all these planets are posited in one sign. So far the planetary aspect is concerned, Mr. Abayakoon's statement is absurd.

He also says, "Kethu–Saturn produced.....in 1939 World War II". It is a mistake to assume that Kethu–Saturn combination is absolutely responsible for a global war like World War II. Kethu–Saturn combination may produce wars but not in a big scale. In this connection, it is to be noted that the importance of Mars cannot be discarded. World War II commenced on the 3rd Sept. 1939. On that very day Saturn and Kethu were in Aries and Mars and Rahu were respectively in Capricorn and Libra. It will be seen that the three cardinal signs of the zodiac were occupied by the first rate malefic planets. Saturn and Mars are aspecting each other. Further, these four evil planets are posited in kendras from one another.

P. O. Chandernagore, Dist. Hooghly (W. Bengal). SRIMATI BIJOLI DAS.

II

Sir,—According to Persian traditions, all the seven planets (Rahu and Kethu being ignored), were in the watery sign of Cancer at the time of the Biblical deluge of Noah.

On the 1st of Rajab Hijri era 580 which works out to be 1186 A.D. again the seven planets were found to be in conjunction, but this time in the airy sign of Libra. As Muslim months are lunar it is difficult to find out the exact date according to the present calendar. Some guess may be made as 1st of every Muslim month is 3rd day of bright half of lunar month of Hindu reckoning. The Sun is said to have just left Virgo, so it should be 14th or 15th of English month. Astrologers predicted a great storm on the day, as the sign happened to be airy, they argued, the destruction must come through air. One of these astrologers was our famous Persian poet Anwari who inspite of his being a Muslim was a firm believer in astrology. Anwari flourished at the court of kings of Khurasan. Sanjar and his successors were his patrons. Anwari was specially famous for his eulogies (Kasidas). Nobody could ever match him in this respect. Anwari himself wrote a book on astrology in Persian known as Mufid Ilm-i-Najum—the useful science of astrology.

It is said that nothing outward happened on that day. On the other hand, wind was so calm and still that a candle on the top of a tower kept burning for the whole night. Astrology has always been condemned by Muslim divines as heresy, but they are kept in check so long as the astrologers enjoy the protection of the court. The king was much angry as Anwari had been the cause of so much worry and anxiety. He ordered his arrest. Anwari was kept in chains under humiliating conditions. The divines were up in arms. Fortunately, Kazi Hamiduddin intervened, reminded the King of the poet's past services and his immortal contribution to Persian literature. At last Anwari secured his release but could not withstand infamy and insult and so one day he secretly escaped and died in Balakh 6 years later in 1192.

Poet after poet has ridiculed Anwari in their satires. One such satire which has survived to our times is by Farid Kalib "Anwari prophesied a storm which would destroy all the buildings and mountains with ease, but on the prophesied day not even a single blow of wind was seen. O', God of Wind, explain the mystery, O Anwari! explain the mystery".

Anwari himself lost faith in astrology and began to ridicule it more than his critics, may be to appease the Muslim orthodoxy.

Some die-hards like 'Tarikh-i-Nigaristan' and 'Mirat-i-Jahanuma' argued as Chengiz Khan first came to Khurasan in 1186 the prophecy was fulfilled in as much as Chengiz was no less than a storm, but Chengiz Khan played havoc and fire in 1216–18, i.e., 30 years later, in 1186 he was just a normal king.

Other important events near 1186 are capture of Jerusalem by Turks in 1187 and passing of India into the hands of Muslims in 1192 when Ghori defeated Prithvi Raj Chauhan, the last Sakinder Emperor in the battle of Tarain.

Tissa, Dist. Muzaffernagar. RAJENDRA PRASAD JAIN, M.A., LT.

III

Sir,—The 1962 eight-planet combination (Kuta Yoga) is today the subject of attention of all over the astrological world and even in the general public few would be unaware of the controversy ranging on the subject as every day some thing or the other comes out in the papers.

I have noticed that some astrologers have predicted grave events in regard to this Kuta Yoga and they seem to think that a third world war is likely. I am convinced that the 1962 combination will not be fraught with the grave consequences attributed to it:

People should not get apprehensive by such predictions. Such yogas do come and go and it is also true that the effect of such yogas is generally bad but certainly not so bad as depicted by some of the astrologers.

The predictions for 1943 comprised complete devastation of world and serious earthquakes. Although I was too young then yet I remember the extent to which the people had got panic-stricken.

Similarly there were predictions of grave calamities in 1957. And in the same trend there were grave predictions in May and August 1957 when a comet was visible and in 1953 when Venus had entered Rohini Shakat. For that even Jyotish Shastra said that the entire earth will be full of human bones and blood and that this could not be evaded. But no such thing happened.

Neither in judicial nor in natural astrology there is any mention of the effect of Kuta Yoga and it is therefore highly surprising on what basis the predictions are made. Some call this as Gola Yoga and according to the current definition this is the name given to the confluence of seven planets—Sun to Saturn. In 1962 Kethu also combines. Those who do not know the name of such a yoga where the eight planets combine content themselves by believing that Kethu is not a substantial planet.

Kuta Yoga or Gola Yoga of 7 planets is said to recur ordinarily at intervals of 13, 21, 31, 42 years but Kuta Yoga of 8 planets comes after centuries and at least after 180 years. The 7 or 6 planets yoga occurred in 1880, 1881, 1882, 1910, 1921, 1934 and so on.

The astrological texts give a description of Kuta Yoga but no where mention its effects. For Gola Yoga also there is only one authority: Natural astrology mentions that on the combination of 7 planets—Sun to Saturn, troubles to people and famine occur. As against this in judicial astrology it is stated that influence of this yoga is highly good. At any rate both the branches agree that there are other ordinary planetary positions which have more adverse effects than Gola Yoga and such positions occur almost every year and if they give the effects attributed every year will have famines and devastation. The fact therefore is that whatever yoga it may be, the effects, good or bad, are caused by the actual positions of the planets. In the event of there being a conjunction, the effect would be adverse. The position of 1962 Kuta Yoga is not such and therefore it cannot have any adverse effect.

Astrologers are of opinion that the Kutayoga would be in January or February 1962. I make bold to disagree with this view as according to the science of astrology the yoga casts its influence sometime after the combination. For example the effects of lunar and solar eclipses happen after six months after the eclipse. The strong planets of Kuta Yoga are Mars and Saturn, The Kutayoga should cast its influence:

(1) between 4th June and 4th Oct. 1962.

(2) between 12th December 1962 and 22nd March 1963.

The real effects of this yoga would be as follows:—

Some atomic, nuclear or naval invention which would be far more important than any invention made so far and which might relate to travels beyond the world will be made. In November 1899 and 1911 there were similar yogas of Saturn and Mars and in 1900, Sri J. C. Bose invented the electrical rays, and in 1911 knowledge of life in plants was obtained.

On 14th September 1956 Mars came very close to the earth and it was in the house of Saturn and vice versa. Mars coming so close to the earth and the interchange of houses by Mars and Saturn can recur after centuries. Such a thing happened in 1956 for the first time in this century. On 4-10-1957, an important invention of the 20th century was made. In April 1949 six planets had joined and the result was the invention of hydrogen bomb. Other effects of this international fame for India; financial soundness; no removal of the internal disputes; scientific developments and strengthening of the communist party in Turkey, Russia, Finland, Arab Republic, Poland and Bulgaria. The period will on the whole be good for South America.

In India, Ceylon, Nepal, Burma, etc., there will be scientific developments, happiness and economic advancement. Inter-disputes might continue. Harmful effects are indicated for leaders.

Unfavourable effects are indicated particularly in Italy, France, Spain, Britain, Western Africa where diseases, wars, loss of man-power and revolution are indicated. In Western Pakistan and Goa, internal disputes and harm to leaders and transport calamities are indicated.

In U.S.A., Canada, Mexico, lessening of international prestige, change in administrators, etc., are indicated. In India scarcity conditions would occur and unemployment will be rampant in Bihar, Orissa and East Pakistan. Some virulent diseases would occur in Punjab and Western U.P. and unfavourable conditions to heads of Govt. would find place in Central India.

There are only two principal conditions in the world-creation and destruction. According to the Puranas if other planets situate opposite Sun, then the period of obstruction occurs and if they are with Sun, creation and development occur. As astrologers overlook that on the day of initial creation on earth there was full Kuta Yoga, i.e., there was the confluence of all the 9 planets. How can the same yoga result in destruction today?

In 1960 the planetary positions would be exactly as it was in 1939. But the evil effects would be limited to the Middle East.

The period from 1963 to 1974 is of special importance to the universe. The Kashmir issue will be finally settled by 1965. From 1965 to 1973 the Russian territory will spread to Western Asia, India, and some parts of Central Europe.

1964 will be the year of 11 months which would occur after 141 years for the first time in 20th century. This will have an adverse effect on the world. Again such a year would occur only nine years after viz. 1973. The result is that if there is ever a possibility of world war it should be between 1964 and 1973 and not in 1962.

I pray that all fears be dispelled and each and every human being be happy and peaceful.

Predicting Specific Events by Transits

Sir,—Pray, I refer to the blundering blunders of your correspondent Mr. F. N. Chubb of Bombay, in August 1959 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE, page 717. He says "..... the Nirayana rising sign was Gemini with ruler Mercury in 23½° Scorpio (apparently Nirayana) in opposition!"...to what?! Definitely not to the rising sign and equally not to Mars, Algol and Moon, whose Nirayana longitude will be about 2° of Taurus. Criticisms be criticisable!

The victim was having about 3 years of Sun's Dasa as balance at birth time according to Nirayana. Death took place during Venus Bhukthi in the afflicted Mercury's Dasa. Venus is 12th lord. Both Saturn and Moon were quincunx by transit to the mid-point of Saturn and Mars, Algol and Moon —combination! The Sun, who was very near his radical position, was in exact square to Uranus in Leo 7° by transit on the fatal day.

So much for planets in conjunction with Algol! Could Mr. Chubb or anybody tell the effects of the cusp of the Ascendant or M.C. falling exactly on the Algol?

Horoscope of Anita Bose

Sir,—In the *horoscope of Miss Anita Bose, daughter of Netaji, the 4th house being Matrubhava is owned by Saturn which lies in 7th house and aspects fully the 4th house and so it is definite the mother must suffer the pangs of separation as Saturn delays, hinders in every sphere.

Kethu being posited in 4th house in Aquarius becomes exalted and gives rise to the fact that during the period of the lord where Saturn is posited being lord of 4th house must reunite father and mother, and hence Vimshottari Dasa of Venus sub-period of Venus, with sub-bhukti of Venus, mother must meet her father. It means that Netaji must reach Vienna by 30-11-'59. Now comes the question whether he will return to India or not. As in the ninth, Moon is posited along with exalted Jupiter, so he must come to India. Period during which Netaji can be expected is 13-12-'59 to 9-1-'60 during the sub-period of Jupiter in fourth degree of Venus sub-period. As regards the girl herself, I am giving some description of facial expression as judged by horoscope :-Soft, thin, light dark and smooth hair; high and broad forehead; thin, long and light black brows; big blue eyes; long-pointed nose with small nostrils and a small mole below the nose; thin and red lips; equal size small teeth; smooth, soft, round chin with two angles and mole in the middle.

By sending it to you, I have given what I could do but I myself am not satisfied by the manner in which it is presented.

Swar (Rampur). R. C. JHANVAR.

Rasi Chart* :—Vrischika-Lagna, Sun, Venus and Mercury; Kumbha-Kethu; Vrishabha-Saturn; Kataka-Moon and Jupiter; and Thula-Mars.

Truth of Numerology

Sir,—Recently I was going through Sport and Pastime and read about the ill-luck of an actress Kabita Roy who got married to Premtosh Roy only to enjoy married life for a short period, because of the death of Premtosh Roy.

I was inspired to see whether this sad event was indicated numerologically, and therefore worked the key values of them by pyramidical method. Key values of the names of Kabita Roy and Premtosh Roy are respectively 21 and 41. On adding both of them—2+1+4+1 gives 8. The result for this number is "contest, ruptures, law-suits, separation or breaking of ties, reversals, accidents, death, disaster".

Therefore there is no wonder that Kabita Roy is separated for ever from Premtosh Roy due to his death.

The sciences of Astrology, Palmistry and Numerology are given to us by wise men of the past for the benefit of the humanity whether the human beings live in scientific age or in less advanced ages. Therefore all will do well by seeking help through these sciences in all their personal matters before they are finalised; because by wise planning many of the unhappy events in a human life can be avoided by His Grace.

Thanking you,

Anantapur. SWAYAM GRAHI.

Horoscope of Christ

Sir,—I am reading with interest your book Notable Horoscopes which I received yesterday and I would like to comment on it a bit.

I am told the various books written by Alice A. Bailey was at the dictation of the Tibetan Master Diwhal (or Dual) Khul, he claiming to be the one who dictated The Secret Doctrine to Helen Petroyna Blavatsky. It is claimed that The Secret Doctrine was badly assembled. Mrs. Blavatsky wrote down what Master Khul dictated; and as each sheet was filled with writing, she would throw it in a waste paper basket. It was then the duty of her assistants to find out (after the waste paper basket was full) which sheet followed another; and to read her handwriting so that a type-setter could set up the type for The Secret Doctrine. Therefore, although Master Khul dictated The Secret Doctrine correctly, errors crept in due to Mrs. Blavatsky leaving work she should have done herself (or at least checked on) to others. Just numbering the pages of her manuscript would have helped!

Alice A. Bailey was born Alice La Trobe-Bateman 1880/6/16th Friday time unknown W 02d 15', N. 53d 29', died 1949/12/15th time unknown, possibly in or near New York City.

In the early 1940, I had the honour of knowing a Lieutenant-Colonel Patrick Joseph O'Shaghnessy, retired due to kidney stones. He was educated at a Roman Catholic Military School, asking for duty with the United States Army on graduation. He told me that while attending the Military School, a Jesuit Father told him that the year, month and date of Jesus Christ's birth is unknown. When Rome conquered Egypt after Julius Caesar conquered Egypt (could this have been Constantine?), the Roman Emperor summoned the Egyptian priests to confer with Christian leaders to see how Egypt could be converted to Christianity. The Egyptian priests replied that only by claiming that a Christian Trinity existed similar to the Egyptian Trinity of Horus, Rosiris, and Isis, and further claiming that Christianity was the Roman aspect (and names) of the Egyptian Trinity, could this be done. The Bishop of Antioch objected to this strenuously, was therefore excommunicated and died in poverty. The advice of the Egyptian priests was taken, the Christian Trinity being then established as God the Father. God the Son (Jesus Christ), (history, Lt. Col. O'Shaghnessy stated wasn't clear on this) either the Holy Ghost or Mary, the Mother of Jesus. Since the birth date of Jesus was unknown, the Christians agreed to the date of 25th December, this being the date on which the Sun started north by declination and latitudes, and therefore being an Egyptian holiday. Your SCIENTIFIC DIFFICULTIES Solved

BY MIHIRA

[In the letters THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE receives from the readers, many interesting questions are put pertaining to astrological and scientific problems. Here are a few recent queries together with answers. If some similar doubts are puzzling you, why not write us about them? This service is free to all readers of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE. Address communications to—MIHIRA, c/o THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE].

Q. 1. (a) If Kemadruma Moon is aspected by planets such as Jupiter, will it act as an exception? (b) Does the strength of a planet depend upon its Amsa, Kala and Vikala? If so, please explain.

B.B.S., Calcutta.

Ans. (a) There is a lot of confusion as regards the exceptions to the yoga. But considering all the authorities on the point, the following may be taken as the correct answer:–"The presence of the planets in the kendras, the Moon's association with any of them, the aspect of all the planets over the Moon are all cases of exception where Kemadruma does not operate." In the instance given, as Moon is aspected by Jupiter, Kemadruma does not operate. (b) The amsa occupied by a planet depends upon its Kala and Vikala in the degree occupied by it. So, the strength of a planet is to be worked out with regard to degree, Kala and Vikala occupied.

Q. 2. (a) If neechabhanga arises because of the ruler of the exaltation sign of the planet occupying a kendra from Lagna, will there be neechabhanga if Mercury is in Pisces in a kendra from Lagna. (b) What is the effect of a debilitated planet when it is in Kendra, Trine or Apoklima positions from Lagna? Explain the effects of Jupiter in Capricorn if it is 6th from Lagna. (c) When Jupiter is in debility, Lagna being Simha, there will be neechabhanga if the Moon ruler of exaltation sign of Jupiter is in Aquarius, a kendra from Lagna. Will there be another cancellation of debility of Mars who is exalted in the sign where Jupiter is debilitated occupies Aquarius?

A.D.C., Mangalore.

Ans. (a) The rule does not operate in this case as the planet that is in debility is also exalted in a sign ruled by himself. This has to be a different planet. Otherwise it will be equal to saying that there will be always neechabhanga in the case of Mercury. (b) Without reference to the sign occupied by the planet, the answer is that in kendra he will be powerful (for evil), in trine he will be much less evil and in Apoklima, he will be least evil. (c) The latter rule is not correct and Jupiter does not get neechabhanga both ways.

Q. 3. (a) Ref. Page 694, Answer to Question 12 (6), July 1958 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE. Does not Saturn become Yogakaraka for Taurus Lagna even when he occupies the 6th house where he is exalted and is the most powerful planet of the horoscope? (b) In the above case, are Sun and Mercury not capable of producing yoga even when both occupy 5th house from Lagna? (c) For Taurus Lagna, the Moon is said to be an evil planet. Will it give evil results when the 10th house is in conjunction with powerful Mars giving rise to Chandra Mangala Yoga?

G.D,S., Beawar.

Ans. (a) If you read the answer to the question, it will be found that the answer is contained therein and it is fully explained. There is no scope for further elaboration. (b) The formation of a yoga is one thing and the degree or extent of its being given effect to in a horoscope is a different thing. For Taurus Lagna, combination of Sun and Mercury, rulers of 4th and 5th houses a kendra and kona, gives rise to Raja Yoga. Since Mercury occupies a kona and is exalted, the Raja Yoga will be effective. (c) The effects of rulership of 3rd house (evil), its position in 10th (good) and the special yoga (Chandra Mangala) will all have to be blended to judge the effects of Moon.

Q. 4. (a) I have not been able to see in any of the publications of B. V. Raman the results of exchange 6th and 8th houses. What are its effects for Pisces Ascendant in a girl's horoscope where Saturn is in 8th exalted? (b) Please give the various combinations for Bandana Yoga. (c) Does the rule of lord of exaltation sign of debilitated planet being in kendra giving rise to neechabhanga apply where Mercury is in debility?

Chamarajnagar.

Ans. (a) There is a Dainya Yoga. The effects are that the native will experience setbacks and meet with all sorts of obstacles in his career. As 8th house is the Mangalya Sthanam in a girl's horoscope, there may be difficulty in settling the marriage of the girl which may be delayed. The presence of Saturn will further contribute to the late marriage of the girl. (b) The 6th house and 12th house should be examined. It is not possible to exhaust all combinations here. (i) If the lords of 1st and 6th houses occupy a Kendra or Trikona position in conjunction with Rahu or Kethu, (ii) or if the lords of 1st and 6th occupy a Kendra or Trikona along with Saturn, (iii) if Venus in the 2nd, Moon in 1st Mercury and Sun in 12th and Rahu in 5th, (iv) if Saturn is in Upavesanavastha, (v) if Saturn occupies Scorpio in a horoscope, (vi) if at birth all the malefics occupy 12th, 5th, 2nd and 9th, (vii) if the rising decanate at birth happens to be a Sarpa, Nigala, or Ayudha Drekkana and if the sign (decanate) be also aspected by malefics. (c) Vide answer to Question 10 (a).

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Sun progressed northward, it melted the snow on the Atlas Mountains, flooding the River Nile and thereby fertilizing Egypt's fields.

Therefore, if I were you, I would try some date—B.C., 6th February—as the date of Jesus Christ's birth. This gives you Sun and all planets in Pisces except Pluto, Neptune, according to horoscope erected by Mr. Ernest A. Grant for B.C. 7/12/25th, I believe. Somewhere in A Treatise on the 7 Rays Master Khul states that Hercules (or Herakles) a Scorpion, Buddha a Taurian; and each having reached perfection in so far as life in a physical body is possible in his last incarnation. Incidentally, the "golden apples" that Hercules is said to have brought to Greece really means "oranges". And in Jesus Christ's former incarnation when the continent of Atlantis was where the present Atlantic Ocean now is, was one of the most advanced of humanity.

As a Roman Catholic Priest remarked to me, "Granting that we don't know when Christ was born, we do celebrate his birthday; even though it may be the wrong date and year." I also read that Johannes Kepler, a famous astrologer-astronomer (A.D.

1571—1630), claimed that all lights (then known) were in Pisces when Jesus Christ was born !

Williamsport EDWARD W. WOODS.

P.S.—Of course, Jesus Christ was crucified during a total eclipse of the Sun at Jerusalem lasting from the 6th to 9th hours. Each "hour" was 1/12th the time between sunrise and sunset; or between sunset and sunrise. Jesus Christ was crucified during the daytime. Cf. St. Matthew XXVII 45, St. Mark XV 33, St. Luck XXIII 44. He was nailed to the cross during the 3rd hour (St. Mark XV 25).

sudden change of career, normal conjugal life, easy financial position, misfortune from brother either from death, disease or separation. One with Jupiter in 1st, 5th and 9th in natal chart will enjoy far better results and Jupiter in Taurus, Venus in Capricorn or Saturn in Taurus, Venus in Capricorn will enjoy a special elevated Rajayoga period.

Gemini.—Occasional physical troubles, loss of social prestige and money, uneasy conjugal life and sudden fall from position. One with Jupiter in 4th, 8th and 12th in natal chart will feel comparatively better.

Cancer.—Health troubles, official disfavour, misunderstandings and quarrel with wife, possibility of accident, want of mental peace, loss in litigation and possibility of long journey. One with Jupiter in 1st, 3rd, 7th and 11th in natal chart will enjoy good time and one having Jupiter in Cancer and Mars in Capricorn will enjoy a special elevated Rajayoga period.

Leo.—Mixed period for health, activities of enemies, uneasy conjugal life, troubles in service, loss in litigation and an alarming period generally. One with Jupiter in 2nd, 6th and 10th in natal chart will feel a tolerable time and Jupiter and Sun in Scorpio and Capricorn will enjoy a special elevated Rajayoga period.

Virgo.—Normal health, sudden luck of children and gains from wife's side, easy financial condition, bright prospects of career, unavoidable journey and normal conjugal life. One with Jupiter in 1st, 5th and 9th in natal chart will enjoy far better period and one with Jupiter in Virgo and Mercury in Capricorn will enjoy a special elevated Rajayoga period.

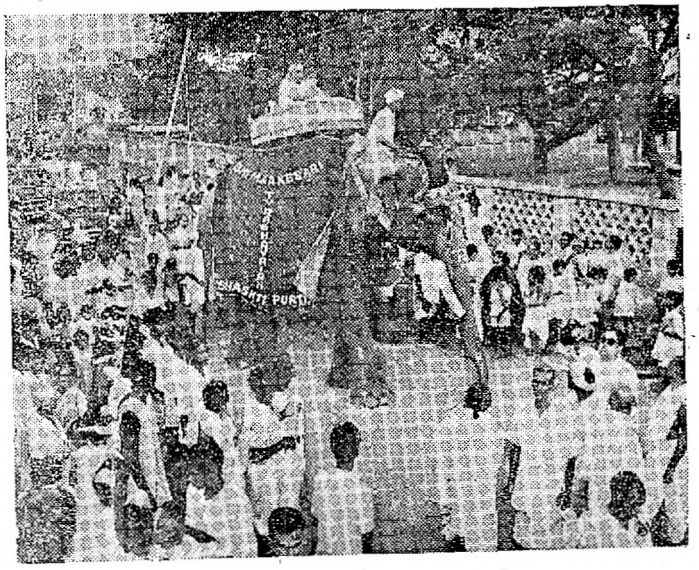
Libra.—Normal health, deceived by friends, relatives and mother, official disfavour, no peace of mind, misunderstanding in conjugal life, educational discredits, financial hardships and loss of properties. One with Jupiter in 8th, 12th or 4th in natal chart will feel some relief and one having Saturn and Venus in Libra or Capricorn will enjoy a special elevated Rajayoga period.

Scorpio.—Normal health, sudden and surprising gains, luck from brother, normal conjugal life, easy financial condition, leadership in religion and philosophy. One with Jupiter in 7th, 11th and 3rd in natal chart will enjoy far better period and the Sun in Scorpio, Mars in Leo or Mars and Sun in Capricorn will enjoy a special elevated Rajayoga period.

Sagittarius.—Bad health, ill luck from relatives either by death, disease or separation, criticism in society, sudden fall of income and loss of money. Jupiter in 2nd, 6th or 10th in natal chart—tolerable period and Jupiter and Sun in Capricorn or Sun and Jupiter in Sagittarius—a special elevated Rajayoga period.

Capricorn.—Ill-health, possibility of an accident if one has Saturn in Aries and Mars in Cancer, sudden fall from position, danger to wife and children and a trying period. Jupiter in 1st, 5th, 7th and 9th—tolerable period. Saturn in Libra, Sun in Aries, Jupiter in Cancer and Mars in Capricorn—a special elevated Rajayoga period.

Aquarius.—Heavy expenditure, sudden increase of enemies, domestic life normal and uneasy financial position and official discredit. Jupiter in 12th, 4th, 6th and 8th in natal chart will have better time and Jupiter in Cancer, Venus and Mars in Capricorn will enjoy a special elevated Rajayoga period.



Pisces.—Ill-luck to children, normal official and financial position, chance of gains from unknown sources, ups and downs of life. Jupiter in 3rd, 5th, 7th and 11th—better time and Jupiter in Cancer and Mars in Capricorn—a special elevated Rajayoga period.

ADVANCED TECHNIQUES OF HYPNOSIS —By Melvin Powers—(Thorsons Publishers Ltd., 91, St. Martin's Lane, London, W.C.-2. Pp. 128. Price 7s. 6d. net).

Mr. Melvin Powers who is described as an authority on Hypnotism and the technical methodology connected with it, and who has toured extensively and lectured on the Theory and Practice of Hypnotism, has explained, in this volume, certain advanced techniques, in fact eight original techniques (Chapter five) which would be found to be of thrilling interest by all students of Experimental Psychology. The author believes that you can hypnotize anyone (Chapter three) and that in certain cases, hypnotism is very useful and helpful as in psychotherapy.

The thesis that anyone can be hypnotized seems intriguing. If this were at all practical politics, and if the war-mongers and dictators of the world could be hypnotized into a permanent state of peace-making and peace-fostering mentality, the world would be certainly earthly paradise.

But, as far as I can see, unless (that is a terrible proviso) the hypnotist is endowed with yogic powers and unless the inherent resistance of the subject is overcome in an instant as it were, hypnotism would be a frustrated game.

The techniques are brilliantly illustrated. The author is founder of American Society for Hypnosis and students flock to his classes from all parts of the world to take lessons and training in hypnotism.

SCIENTIFIC HYPNOTISM—By Dr. Ralph B. Winn—(Thorsons Publishers, Ltd., 91, St. Martin's Lane, London, W.C.-2. Pp. 168. Price 10s. 6d. net).

Mr. Powers has contributed a "Foreword" to the work of Dr. Ralph B. Winn, in which introductory survey is undertaken of theory and practice of what is described as "Scientific Hypnotism". Part I deals with theory, and Part II stands devoted to practice. It is explained that in removing physical and mental ailments and in the field of education, the techniques of hypnotism can be utilized with profit.

It is highly interesting to contemplate how modern politics is essentially dominated by suggestion which is a form of hypnotism. Advertisement and propaganda are mighty engines which crush all minds, millions of minds, into a uniform mould or pattern. When certain dictators are hailed with slogans and cries, and political hero-worship of the most rabid and pathological pattern dominates the world, the only conclusion is that mass hypnotism has become a permanent feature of the cosmos and human constitution.

The author makes it perfectly clear that a person could not be hypnotised into doing something which he or she would not in normal waking life.

The place of hypnotism is particularly significant in the case of difficult child births. Many women could be saved if hypnotic techniques could be successfully employed in maternity hospitals when necessary.

The two volumes on hypnotism throw considerable illumination on this difficult and fascinating subject. Indian yoga deals with hypnotism, but, the techniques are yet to be scientifically developed.

SPOTTING WINNERS IN HORSE RACES —By T. G. Butaney—(Shivajinagar, 201, Near Delisle Road, Police Station, Bombay-13. Pp. 140. Price Rs. 10).

Horse Racing has come to stay in India, as in all civilized countries, and Government claimed to be run on Gandhi ideology has been serious about prohibition. Though, here and there some talk prevailed about abolition of racing, but, evidently, the overwhelming and overpowering influences of Kali Yuga would appear to have prevailed and racing is thriving like a green Baye tree.

Astrology has come to the help of race-goers. Mr. T. G. Butaney has indicated, in this volume, how winners can be spotted in races Explanation of astrological preliminaries, Western and Indian, planets and their ruling numbers, time and weights theories, and other principles connected with the methodology of racing technique constitute main contents of the work. Certain rules to spot winners and their practical application are explained.

It is interesting to note how race astrology differs from ordinary astrology. In ordinary astrology, a retrograde planet is believed to be strong, but, in race astrology, it is judged to be weak. (Pp. 12). It is definitely stated that the author is a believer in the Sayana or the western system of reckoning. Chandraman is a very bad form of Sanskrit. Most likely, it may be the correct Hindi form. (P. 3) Racegoers may find Mr. Butaney's book useful and helpful.

THE HOUSE AT ADAMPUR—By Anand Lall—(Pearl Publications, Waterloo Mansions, 170, Mahatma Gandhi Road, Bombay-1. Pp. 204. Price Rs. 2).

The author was Consul-General of India in New York in 1951–1954. He is well-known in Britain and America. His "westernised" name is Arthur Lall. The story deals with a joint family of middle class which feels the impact of Gandhi movement strongly in resistible and in the movement and struggle which preceded the advent of Indian Independence, elders are willy-nilly drawn into the fray, by the participation of the youngsters, who can neither be ignored, nor left to shift for themselves.

Dewan Ramnath's personality though not schizophrenic, revolves round conflicting trends and tendencies. He has great admiration for the Gandhian ideology, the policy and program for attainment of independence.

And yet, his personal preferments, failings, or whatever they be, drive him to visit his Mistress whenever possible. (Pp. 188). Not merely this. A visit to the person whom he loved so ardently seemed to reinvigorate and revivify the spirits of the old Dewan Sahib.

On Pp. 190 the term Swarajya has been done into rule of the truth. The term does not contain any reference to truth. It just means self-rule. (Sva means self ; Rajya means rule).

The House at Adampur demonstrates that Anand Lall takes his proper place in the group of talented Indians who have distinguished themselves as writers of novels and fiction in racy, popular and telling style.

THE IMMORTALS OF THE BHAGAVAT— By Dilip Kumar Roy—(Lakshminarayan Agarwal, Educational Publishers, Agra. Pp. 215. Price Rs. 5).

Dilip Kumar Roy, mystic, musician and metaphysician, who is well-known in international circles, has widely travelled, throughout India and foreign countries, and has secured for himself a firm and permanent place amongst the great intellectual of the world. He has narrated in English verse, some important and significant stories from Sri Bhagavata which has deeply stirred the minds of all mystics and spiritualists.

Vyasa, even after composing 18 major Puranas, and several other minor ones, was not quite satisfied with his achievement, and was sitting brooding and meditating with an unsettled mind, when Narada Maharshi appeared before him.

Having heard Vyasa's story, Narada suggested that if Vyasa were to write another Purana, which should pre-eminently be devoted to singing of the glory of the Supreme Lord, his discontent would be removed and he would then experience the unique peace and bliss of substantial achievement.

Bhagavata was the result. In this Purana, the deeds and glories of the Lord are sung associated with different incarnations of the Lord. (Avataras). A long and independent Canto has been devoted to devotional description of the Life of Lord Sri Krishna—the Eternal Divine Darling of Humanity.

Dilip Kumar Roy has chosen some of the striking episodes of Bhagavata and told the stories in attractive English verse. The story of King Ambarisha, the tale of Bali and Vamana, the story of Prahlada and tales relating to Lord Krishna, with special reference to milk-maids, serpent Kaliya and Sridam (Kuchela) are narrated by the author.

Some selected "Parables and Similies" of Ramakrishna Paramahamsa have been included. (Pp. 189—214). Dilip Kumar Roy as his daughter, Indira Devi as his disciple, and during their foreign tour, she gave dancing demonstrations to the music of her father. Dilip Kumar Roy is a disciple of Sri Aurobindo. He has founded an Asram in Poona known as Hari Krishna Mandir. Besides his daughter, he has some Indian and foreign disciples intent on realizing the same goal as their Guru.

Sri Krishnaprem (formerly Ronald Nixon) has commended study of Bhagavata as the best of Puranas. Paul Dukes, K.C.B., has contributed the "Foreword", in which it is urged that Christians can find much food for thought in such Indian Classics as Bhagavata.

The peculiar beauty and characteristic of Bhagavata are that a person making a study of it would develop marked unconcern for blandishments of worldly values and develop within a short time intense God consciousness.

Students of religion and philosophy will extend a ready and hearty welcome to the work of Mr. Dilip Kumar Roy.

THE CALL DIVINE—Bhagavan Jayanti Souvenir—Vol. VII—No. 5—(Annual Subscription Rs. 3 or 6sh. 1 Dol. 25c. Single copy As. 4 or 7d. Pp. 151—347).

REFLECTIONS ON THE TALKS WITH RAMANA MAHARSHI — By S. S. Cohen-(Pub. Manager-President, Ramanasramam, Tiruvannamalai (S. India). Pp. 180. Price Rs. 4. (Post etc., extra).

The "Bhagavan Jayanti" Souvenir contains reminiscences recorded by a number of followers, admirers, or devotees of the Maharshi, and a symposium on what is Nirvana to which several well-known scholars and thinkers have contributed instructive and interesting articles.

The contributions are all of a high order, and it may seem invidious to single any one for particular praise or commendation. The term Nirvana is essentially important in the Buddhistic system, though the Vedanta Schools have also adopted it to mark connodenotatively the highest state or stage of spiritual realisation. It is, however, regrettable that more than one error should have crept in, in the Sanskrit passages cited. (For instance—Pp. 276, 277, 278 and so forth).

The message of Sri Ramana is just the message of Advaita of the great Sankara and in the historical evolution and development of Indian Philosophy, the system of Sri Sankara has been criticised by Ramanuja and Madhva. Some do not like scholastic diccussions and debates. They would like to live Vedanta not merely talk it. It is presumed that devotees and followers of Sri Ramana are endeavouring to live actual life, in the light of the message of the Maharishi.

It is noted that the views expressed by S. S. Cohen are the "author's own reflections and are not necessarily those of the Ramanasramam". I take it this note has been put in more as a caution or precaution, as there would not be any likelihood of differences arising between the opinions of Master and Pupil, and the reflections of the author on the talks are illuminating.

We are God Himself or Itself—says the author. Assuming that is true for the sake of argument, how and why does God furiously attack dualism? There being nothing else in existence other than God, God or the Absolute should be attacking itself, when funny attacks are launched against dualism.

That apart, God is said to be faced with a dilemma when a devotee wants to be shown His true self. Who will solve or resolve God's dilemma? Of course, it must be man as both are one. But then, how did Krishna get over the dilemma when He showed his true self to Arjuna? Though dualism, is unceremoniously rejected, it is said to have an important point of agreement with monism (Pp. 138) as self is the starting-point in both.

Students and admirers and followers of Ramana Vedanta will readily welcome both the volumes as containing the essentials of the teachings of their Master.

YOUR SCIENTIFIC DIFFICULTIES SOLVED

Q. 5. (a) What are the results of retrograde Saturn exalted in Lagna Bhava? If an exalted retrograde Saturn is equal to occupying his depression sign, will Sasa Yoga arise? (b) What are the orbs of combustion for Mercury in direct motion? Do the orbs differ if Mercury is retrograde? Does a retrograde but combust Mercury give good or bad results.

P.G., Navsari.

Ans. (a) The rule that an exalted planet in retrogression gives depression result cannot be applied in reference to yogas for which the prescribed conditions must exist as such and not by implication. (b) When Mercury is in direct motion, he will be combust if within fourteen degrees of Sun. But if retrograde only twelve degrees. There are no exceptions to the rule that a planet in combustion gives poor results.

Q. 6. (a) I find that Mercury's transit influence very ticklish in your monthly predictions as it looks both good and bad in all places except in 1 and 2 where he is bad. (b) I find the same difficulty with regard to Vedha also. When and how long is a planet under Vedha and when is it free? Please explain. (c) The Moon's transits of 6, 8 and 12 are bad. What about its effects in other places from Janma Rasi? (d) Please explain giving reasons and suitable examples. "When planets alone cause a yoga neither strength nor position is to be considered. No matter if planet is neecha or in unfavourable position". (e) In B.S. Rao's work on Female Horoscopy, he has dealt with the birth date only concerning female horoscopes. In other works, special mention is made about the prospects and results of life reading depending on the time of appearance of first menses. Of the two above mentioned which is more important in the case of females and how to predict their life career. Please give authorities. (f) You refer to planets being under check in monthly forecast. How is this expressed in Hindu Astrology? (g) Is Meena (Pisces) a nocturnal or diurnal sign? Brihat Jataka mentions Meena as Ubhayodaya. But in the translation, B. S. Rao is silent on the point. Even Bhattotpala is not clear on this point. In Chap. XXVI, verse 4, it is said that birth must be reversely predicted. What is to be done in case Ubhayodaya sign rises? Sambhu Hora Prakasha clearly mentions Pisces as Dhinabala sign. Please clear this doubt quoting authority. (h) Refer to horoscope of Nargis given on page 214 of February 1959 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE. The correspondent has not given the place of Moon in the chart but has given Saturn twice. Presumably, Moon is in Aquarius. What is her wealth due to? (i) In Hindu Progressed Horoscope by B. V. Raman, to erect the yearly horoscope some addition to the birth time and date alone is required. But if an annual horoscope is erected according to Sun's exact Nirayana longitude at birth, there is difference, say an hour or two. Which should be adopted for exact work? (j) What is the effect of a retrograde planet who is exalted but stationary? (k) In Brihat Jataka, it is stated that if 7th and 8th lords exchange houses, longevity is 12 years. What is the position for Cancer Lagna where Saturn rules both 7th and 8th? What will be the longevity if Saturn occupies 7th in such a case? (l) For Mithuna (Gemini) Lagna Jupiter rules 7th and 10th and gets Kendradipatya dosham. In what position will he be benefic and be rid of his dosham, (m) Jupiter in Lagna is very auspicious. But it makes a man corpulent. How to reconcile both? (n) There are three crores of people in Madras State. There are not even 30 girls widowed at the young age of seventeen to nineteen (not one girl for 10 lakhs). But in a large number of horoscopes, Mars will be in 7th or 8th. How to reconcile? (o) Suppose a man has got Kalatra dosham. Will he be rid of the dosham after the death of the first wife or has he to marry twice or thrice for getting rid of the dosham? (p) Some say that if a man marries after his 26th year Kalatra dosham will not affect. Is it correct?

R.R., Hyderabad.

Ans. (a) Mercury is favourable when he transits 4th, 6th, 8th and 10th. He is evil when he transits 1, 5, 7, 9 and 12 from Janma Rasi. He gives both good and bad when transitting 2nd. If you remember this when you read the monthly forecast, his influence will appear so very ticklish. (b) The doctrine of vedha is well-known and has been described in these pages several times. The vedha continues only so long as a planet occupies the vedha sign and there is no vedha between Sun and Saturn and Mercury and Moon, e.g., Jupiter transitting fifth suffers vedha when any other planet transits 4th. Suppose a planet remains in 4th only for the 1st week of the month and there is no other planet there for the rest of the month. In that case Jupiter is said to be under vedha (obstruction) only during the first week. If another planet enters 4th and remains there during the last week, then Jupiter will suffer vedha for the last week also. (c) Moon gives good results when transitting 1, 3, 6, 7, 10th places from Janma Rasi. Your statement that Moon gives evil results when transitting 6th is not correct. (Vide Phalaeepika, Chap. XXVI, verses 4 and 2). (d) Your statement is not correct. (e) Your statement is not correct. The beginning of Chapter II in Female Horoscopy by B. S. Rao says clearly "There are certain events which are peculiar to females and which have to be predicted by the Arthava Lagna or the sign that rises at the time of the first appearance of menses". Chapter XII exclusively deals with puberty and menses and detailed effects are given. (f) The terms "check" and "vedha" are synonymous. (g) Your statement is not correct. In Notes to verse of Chapter I, B. S. Rao says "Pisces is formed of one fish with its tail against the head of the other and vice versa. The signs will be later on called Ubayodaya or that which can rise either way". Your difficulty arises because you confuse two different classifications. The division of signs into nocturnal and diurnal is a separate division. Signs rising with backs, rising with faces and rising both ways is a separate classification. The signs rising with their backs are Taurus, Cancer, Sagittarius and Aries and Capricorn. These signs and Gemini are termed nocturnal rasis. The other six are termed diurnal signs. The second part of your question refers to the technique of constructing a lost horoscope and your difficulty again arises because of confusion regarding division. As some signs are day signs and the remaining six signs are night signs, the basis of your question in case of Pisces is seen to be fictitious. As Pisces is a night sign, the birth should be declared to have been in the day. (h) Only Rasi positions are given in the reference quoted by you. Though it is not always satisfactory to deal with such positions only for the solution of any question, it may be said that benefic lord of 2nd in 1st strong with Jupiter in second conjunction ruler of the 5th. This is also 4th from Moon. No aspect from malefics. (i) The method dealt with by B. V. Raman is as given in the ancient works to cast the Solar Revolution figures when no facilities as in modern times were available. Now we can with better advantage resort to modern methods which will give the time and date of Solar Revolution correct to the second. (j) This is not given in our texts. This position makes the planet strong. But a planet cannot

NOTABLE HOROSCOPES

By B. V. RAMAN

A reliable guide to Practical Astrology

This does not contain startling predictions and amazing forecasts. But it is the product of investigations and studies by the Author presented here in an orderly and specific form but in simple language easily understandable by the average readers.

One is born a beggar but becomes a ruler. One is born a ruler but becomes a begger, How and Why? What combinations make one a Scientist, Physicist, Chemist, Botanist, Poet, Politician, Statesman, Artist, Murderer, Dissimulator, etc.

Though several circumstances are the same for the rich and the poor alike, there will be certain astrological peculiarities in Notable Horoscopes (e.g., Tagore, Nehru, Hitler, C. R. Das, Prof. Rao, Einstein, etc.) which are easily discernible and a careful study of which would enable one to acquire that practical knowledge and experience which is otherwise impossible.

This work shows that birth date and time are of supreme importance as determining not only character but also eventful periods of life.

The book contains the horoscopes of notable persons—their birth data, planetary positions, Dasas and Bhukthis in which important events have taken place in their lives. Then the various combinations which have produced different types of great men are carefully analysed with a view to showing to the readers, the practical application of Raja Yogas, Daridra Yogas and the like. The book also demonstrates the truth of Vimshottari Dasa.

"MORE than three thousand years ago, the Chinese, clustered along the fertile banks of the Yellow River, were able to foretell the coming of the seasons by the stars, while the Babylonians and Chaldeans of that time had developed a scheme of prediction concerning weather and fertility based upon the occurrence of thunder in relation to the phases of the Moon. Astrology remains a craft that can only be practised by experts. Such knowledge is too advanced for the majority of us."

—George H. T. Kimble.

"To despise to hold a bright lamp in the darkness indicates stupidity while to try to secure it at any cost and hold the same to shed light on our future path really throws consummate wisdom. Choose your lot as you please and either control the planets and stand a victor in the struggle for existence and comfort or yield to their evil influences without personal exertions on your part and be a miserable coward."

2. Yogini towards earth whole day; also Amavasai; better observed as an agricultural holiday.

3. Marana Yogam whole day and night; L.D. too unfavourable for greater part of day; avoid all new beginnings and auspicious works and keep to routine.

4. An ordinarily good day; best for manuring; for best effect, use chemical manures; after 7-50 a.m. good for planting also; throughout favourable for purchase of cattle, grain, etc.

5. Marana Yogam throughout day and greater part of night; avoid all important works.

6. L.D. good after 10 a.m. for all matters in general; day best suited for manuring; for best effect, use organic manure; day can also be utilised for planting, harvesting, dealings in cattle.

7. Asterism good only for purchase of cattle, or digging wells, etc.

8. An ordinarily good day for all agricultural purposes; best for planting; cattle can also be purchased.

9. Yogam not very good; L.D. positively bad; so avoid all new beginnings and important works and keep to routine only such as digging, levelling, fencing, weeding, etc.

10. Yogini towards sky or earth whole day and night; avoid ploughing, manuring and planting; L.D. not good; keep to routine.

11. Yogini towards earth whole day and part of night; not good for ploughing, manuring and planting; asterism good for harvesting, and ingathering and producing.

12. An ordinary good day in general; but asterism best only for planting; also good for purchase of grain and defrayal for farm purposes.

13. Marana Yogam whole day and night; avoid all important works and new beginnings be both retrograde and stationary. (k) Obviously the yoga does not apply to cases where the rulership of 7th and 8th merges in the same planet. Longevity cannot be judged by such a single position alone. (l). When a benefic changes its nature by ruling kendra, nothing else can change him back into a benefic. But if he occupies certain favourable places and also is rendered strong, he will be less malefically inclined. If he is in evil places and lacks strength, e.g., by being in debility his malefic nature will be increased. (m) Jupiter in Lagna is certainly good. But it will not make a person corpulent except when other features are also present. (n) Your data are defective. A girl can become a widow only after marriage and loss of husband. You have not given the figures to show what percentage of girls before 19 are married. Then only a percentage can be worked out. (o) You are evidently confused about what Kalatra dosha means. Yogas for one wife, two wives, three wives or even more are given in the texts. You should examine each horoscope as to the presence of these yogas to judge whether the loss of one wife wipes out the dosha or not. (p) The averment is not correct as stated.

Weather Forecasts for October 1959

BY D. R. MUNSIFF, B.Sc. (Econ.), London, B.A. (Hons.), (Bombay).

THE horoscope for the time of entry of Sun into the cardinal sign of Libra is the basis for our weather changes during the above period. For the Western and Central India and even for the Southern India, it will be a very important period for once again the vagaries of the weather will be so pronounced that there will be cloud-breaks in some areas while the others will be suffering from acute draughts.

The watery sign of Cancer is on the Ascendant with Uranus at the tail-end of the house, but there is a cluster of four planets on the cusp of the 4th house, namely Venus, Sun, Mars and Mercury. In addition to these, Rahu gives them company and lends its incendiary forces to the stormy Mars and Sun. Further Mars and Sun are in their debilitated houses owing to which the malefic nature of the planets gains still more prominence.

On the whole, Mercury will keep the air currents active throughout the whole of India and in Western and Central India, there will be many storms. Owing to the association of Rahu with those two planets, there will be many fires as well owing to natural causes. Further, Mercury will continue to remain at a level higher than normal but the company of Venus in the last degrees of its debilitated house with Sun, will quench the thirst of demons and Gods and cause the floods as a result of severe thunderstorms at some places. In short, the weather will be very freakish and stormy.

23 and 24, stormy weather with cloud-breaks in many regions. The important thing to note is that the ingress of September 23 occurs very soon after the eclipse of the Moon on the 17th. Therefore the forces of inclemency gain an upper hand. On the 25th, the Moon within a period of six hours stimulates Neptune, Uranus, Pluto, Saturn, Sun and Mercury. Owing to this a widespread storm is very probable. The weather changes on 26th and 27th which will be generally hot days. 28th is cloudy with occasional but widespread showers. 29th will give mild weather, cloudy and breezy, but 30th is another sure stormy day with scattered very heavy showers. The 2nd of October is a day of widespread showers. 3rd, 4th and 5th are trying and hot days. 6th is a cloudy and musky day with scattered showers. 7th and 8th are delightful days without Sun, cloudy and drizzling sometimes. 9th is a clear and bright day. 10th and 11th are once again the days when Gods call out for clouds to discharge the moisture indiscriminately. 12th and 13th provide a respite with drizzles and cloudy weather, but men on the earth will again suffer in some parts of the country on the 14th with wet storms.

Thereafter the weather settle down to some kind of normality for four or five following dpys. From 20th to 23rd is the delightful cloudy weather with soft breezes throughout the day.

Though the signs remain the same on the cusps of houses for North-Eastern India, there is one very material difference. There is no cluster of planets on the cusp of the 4th house. Instead, they pass on into the 3rd house, while Neptune enters the 4th house. Neptune is located in the stormy watery sign of Scorpio, with its ruler debilitated with Sun. Therefore the weather in these parts of N.E. India will be a little more rainy than normal.

The following days are particularly the ones when the rains are likely to be fairly widespread. 24th and 28th of September; 1st, 6th and 7th of October, 13th, 14th and 15th will witness widespread showers. The last week is fairly dry.

As for Mr. Nambudripad (born 13/6/1909), the recent transit of Saturn in opposition to his Venus has no doubt curbed his ardour and taken the smile off his face. I said in December 1958 issue his transits, "decidedly denote a setback to his plans and his freedom of action would be much curtailed". But there is still plenty of life in him yet and his fortunes will revive in January 1961. When the date of the forthcoming elections becomes known, we will be able to frame a more precise prediction.

[This study is not intended as a tip for investors to follow. The writers have arrived at certain conclusions regarding Cotton, Commodities, etc., etc., mainly based on planetary influences. Those who act on this information will be doing so at their own risk.—Ed., A.M.].

Astrological Section

SINCE the Sun enters the sign of Libra which is a cardinal sign, it is safer and more appropriate to rely upon the horoscope for the time of Sun's entry into this sign than upon the Full Moon and New Moon maps. The lunation horoscopes provide merely the correctives at this time rather than to serve as the fundamental instruments.

This magazine will be in the hands of readers in the middle of September and therefore it would be to the point if I deal with a little of the financial markets in September as well. You are most likely to find the stock markets receding. The signs of a recession must have appeared in the first week of September and they would be deepening with the Sun's entry into Libra because Uranus is on the cusp of the 2nd house for North-East India while it is in the 2nd house actually for Western and Central India.

It is said that many signs serve as the harbingers of time. The trend on the 19th, 21st and 22nd will be weak and direct the readers as to what the planetary cycles have in store during the coming month from 23rd September onwards.

Pluto is in the 2nd house which saves the financial situation for stockholders. Further Pluto is in good aspect with Neptune. The cluster of five planets Venus, Mercury, Mars, Sun and Rahu in the 3rd house is a good sign while Saturn in the 6th house in square with Sun, ercury and Rahu, support the topsy-turvy Uranus in the 2nd house. Further, Saturn is the ruler of 7th house. The fall in stock exchange values will be initiated by the policy of foreign Governments.

The fall in values on the stock exchanges will continue until about the 6th of October. Thereafter the inherent strength of Neptune and Pluto will assert itself and overcome the chess engendered by Uranus. September 11th, 12th, 13th and 14th will witness once again an upward movement.

A critical point is reached on 23rd when the climax of the stock exchange rise will be attained and suddenly the values are likely to recede. This will be for only a day or two the cycle of Pluto stimulated by Sun and Mars and Jupiter from 29th onwards will again provide a push to the stock markets.

For those who are interested in the graphs, it is worthwhile pointing out that the values of, practically every kind of share, form a saw-tooth formation since March and this formation will repeat itself again in August end, September and October. The values will recede fast and recover equally fast thus giving excellent opportunities to the manipulators.

On the last day of the month, Mars enters in the planetary fray and gives the necessary strength to mystic Neptune to bring a revival in a vigorous manner on the stock-markets of India. As was described in the January issue, the cycles of Neptune play a dominant part in the affairs of India. Though it initiated the leftist trend four years ago, yet it is the same Neptune now that holds the reins of radicalism tight.

Economic Section

The Government of India has set great hopes on its steel plants and on the export of iron and steel, to earn foreign exchange. A different opinion has been expressed in these columns citing various reasons, the chief one being lack of research to evolve cheaper methods of producing various categories of steel. It was pointed out that even now, the European countries could undersell us in foreign markets. Now comes the news of a much cheaper method of the manufacture of iron and steel, of a process known as RN Direct Reduction process in which, ore of very low grade without enrichment or stintering is used and which does not encounter the usual difficulties in dealing with impurities such as sulphur, silica and phosphorus. It has been developed in U.S.A. by the Republic Steel Corporation and National Lead Co. Further it is more useful because, it does away with the necessity of metallurgical coal; it ban be worked with any solid carbon fuel, because the temperature required under the process is as low as 105 0° C.

The capital cost of the plant involved is about half that of blast-furnace and coke-fuel complex of the same capacity, while the saving in cost in reducing ore to iron is likely to be within the range of 15 to 20%. Owing to the wide choice of fuel, the plant can be erected near the iron-ore mines leading to a saving in the cost of transport. The move is already proceeding to employ the process in Morocco to treat Riff ores by an international combine. When steel manufactured by the process comes on the market, it is obvious that we shall not be able to compete with it.

With the bumper harvest as the Government spokesmen declare comes the news that prices of grains in fair price shops are increased by the Government. While huge irrigation works are being built, yet nobody takes care of building feeder canals so that lands situated within such contour, but yet far from the main canal can be fed with such water. It is not the size of head but the convolutions of the brain that determine the degree of intelligence of a man. Similarly those feeder canals are so important, yet neglected. If only half the money that is now spent on big projects were spent on some small and localised plans, for the supply of water, India would have solved the food problem for its teeming millions.

Today, President Eisenhower, the chief executive authority in theU.S A., inspite of the approaching elections has been trying his best to curb the inflation–the inflation expressed not in terms of the increase of paper money but as expressed in the general level of prices. The measure recommended has been an increase in the rate of interest for long term borrowing from 4½% to 4¾%. If the rate of interest allowed by the Government is raised, the level of interest would also rise in the other spheres and would bring prices down. Secondly, the Government of the U.S.A. finds it difficult to borrow at the current rate namely 4¼%. In a country peopled hardly with half the number in our country and with national income nearly ten times that of ours, the party in power comes forward boldly to bring down the rise in prices and yet our country with infinitely smaller resources adopts deliberately such measures so as to inflict in the long run more and more hardships on the people.

Such a short-sighted policy is adopted by our Government in order to keep down the service charges of the mounting national debt. But apparently, as is evident, if one were to critically scrutinise the state of affairs as is found in our society, the price level of so many commodities that enter into the purchase programme of the Government is so high that on balance, the Government spend far more in purchasing than the savings effected by way of keeping the interest charges low on national debt. The Government of the day concerns itself more and more with the starting of various industries and it enters daily into competition with the other entrepreneurs in bidding for the various factors of production.

It has already been explained that a raise in the rate of interest on fresh borrowings by the Government will lower the price-level; with such a general reduction in the price level, there will not be a struggle for a rise in wages both by employees in public and private sector. On the whole, the Government is likely to benefit as much as the less happily placed sections of population will do.

Further, whatever the official rate of interest be, such a low level is not existing among businessmen in general. But the private lenders take advantage of such a policy by keeping a low rate of interest on their transactions for the purpose of income-tax record and recover an extra premium in cash. Thus the proceeds from income-tax do not accrue the Government to the extent it should owing to such an artificially kept low rate of interest.

Next the low rate of interest is not an inducement to saving; this happens more so when the purchasing power of the rupee today is continually diminishing. The rupee of 1939 is hardly worth today five annas of 1939 and even the rupee of 1948 is not worth ten annas of the same year today. When the inflation continually lowers the value of rupee, public begins to divert its resources to unproductive channels like the purchase of gold and silver, as a hedge against inflation, as well as a kind of security against the rainy day. The small savings movement would yield far better results if the rate of interest was raised and at the same time ensure in man's mind the safety of his capital, in addition to the fact that all the monetary resources will be diverted to productive channels. In fact, the higher rate of interest can attract the conversion of the private hoards of gold and silver to such an extent that the flow of the monetary equivalent of such hoards would tend to pull down the rate of interest.

Lunar Ashwija commences on 3rd October 1959. Bhadrapada New Moon falls on 2nd October 1959 evening. The New Moon horoscope given below would reval that 5 planets transit Virgo in the initial stages of this month. Virgo transits are very important for judging economic policies of the Government, as Virgo falls in the 9th house governing export trade, stocks, industrial expansion and foreign relations. It is expected that during the period from 24th September 1959 to 24th October 1959, some important decisions pertaining to the levy of Excise duties on exportable commodities, new basis for quota allotments and such other measures to augment export trade of the country as also other measures to keep the price under control, would be announced by the authorities. Rahu's entry on 7th October 1959 into Uttaraphalguna, is also helping the export business and industrial development. It may be stated here that the new measures, would be in the interest of the trade in general, though under the impending Saturn and Rahu degree-wise square, the initial reaction of these measures, would be misrepresented and price trends would be diversely affected than expectations. After 24th October 1959 however the prices will stabilise on steady lines and would show healthy signs.

Coming to the solar transits, the Virgo solar ingress as has been discussed in my September 1959 issue would prove to be bullish after 24th September 1959—the day of Sun–Saturn square. There would be no change in this position and rising tendency should be witnessed on an average till 17th October 1959—the period under the Virgo solar transit. The chart provided below for the time of solar Nirayana entry in Libra on 17th October 1959 reveals rising tendencies only, for all commodities in general throughout the month of October 1959.

The commodities, in general, would have a rise and fall, in the following manner: 1st to 3rd—somewhat subdued; 4th to 8th teji; 9th to 11th steady and slightly dull; 12th to 18th teji; 19th and 20th dull; 21st to 25th mandi; 26th and 27th teji; 28th to 31st mandi.

Note the price trends for the following general lines which would have a change on 22nd October 1959.

Taking various nakshtra transits of the planets, I am giving below my opinion on various principles in forward markets:

Cotton and Allied Products: (Including Cotton, Yarn and Staple and Silk Yarns).—Martian transits are helpful to lift up prices further till 21st. From 21st onwards Mars transitting Swati cannot be said to be helping rising tendency. Venus transitting Magha in direct motion is not a factor for bullish-trend nor Poorvaphalguna transit is bearish. Mercury transitting Chitta, Swati and Visakha, in association with Mars almost till 27th more or less helps rise. Visakha transit only is unfavourable and from 18th onwards this transit would be the main cause for any fall in values. Simultaneously transit of Sun, Mars and Mercury in one sign is generally indicating highly bullish, and it is my humble opinion that one way teji should be followed till 18th. Thereafter prices will be fluctuating bothways till the end of the month.

STARS IN THEIR Seasons

BY M. V. RAMAKRISHNAN, M.A., L.T.

Night Sky in October 1959

Zodiacal Constellations

THE zodiacal constellations that are visible this month at about 9–30 in the night are, from west to east, Scorpio (Vrischika), Sagittarius (Dhanus), Capricorn (Makara), Aquarius (Kumbha), Pisces (Meena), and Aries (Mesha). Scorpio is sinking in the south-western sky, while Taurus is slowly peeping above the north-eastern horizon. Sagittarius is seen high in the south-western sky; Capricorn has crossed the meridian; and Aquarius and Pisces are approaching the meridian. Aries, which consists of three faint stars, is seen shining high up in the eastern sky.

Non-Zodiacal Constellations

Among the non-zodiacal constellations, Ursa Minor is seen in full, extending towards the west, while Draco is sinking beneath the north-western horizon. Hercules is seen above Draco, and to the east of Hercules and on a level with it, is seen Cygnus, the great cross of the northern sky. Between Cygnus and Hercules is seen the little group Lyra, whose principal star Vega is the most brilliant in the northern sky. Both Cygnus and Lyra have crossed the meridian. Above Cygnus and a little past the meridian is seen another little group of five stars, called the Dolphin. To the west of the Dolphin are seen the big constellations Aquila and Ophiuchus.

In the northern sky Cepheus is seen almost erect on the meridian, and Cassiopeia is seen approaching the meridian. In the north-east Perseus come fully above the horizon, and to the west of it are seen the Contiguous groups Andromeda and Pegasus.

In the south very nearly on the meridian is seen Piscis Australis, the Southern Fish, whose principal star Fomalhaut is shining prominently. To the east of Aquarius and on a level with it is seen Cetus the sea-monster. The wonder star of this group is Mira Cetis which changes its brightness during a period of 333 days. For the greater par ofthe time, it is not visible to thet naked eye being only of the ninth or tenth magnitude; but three months after it suddenly brightens up to the second magnitude, and a month after it begins to fade again. Such changes in brightness are due to a faint companion star going round the main star and eclipsing it at every revolution.

Lunar Asterisms

The lunar asterisms that can be identified in the visible hemisphere are Jyeshta and Moola in Scorpio, the Ashadas in Sagittarius, Sravana in Aquila, Abhijit in Lyra, Dhanishta in Dolphin, Satabhisha in Aquarius, the Bhadrapadas in Pegasus and Andromeda, Revati in Pisces, Aswini and Bharani in Aries and Krittika in Taurus.

The Milky Way

The Milky Way extends from north-east to south-east, passing through or between the constellations Perseus, Cassiopeia, Cygnus, Aquila, Sagittarius and Scorpio.

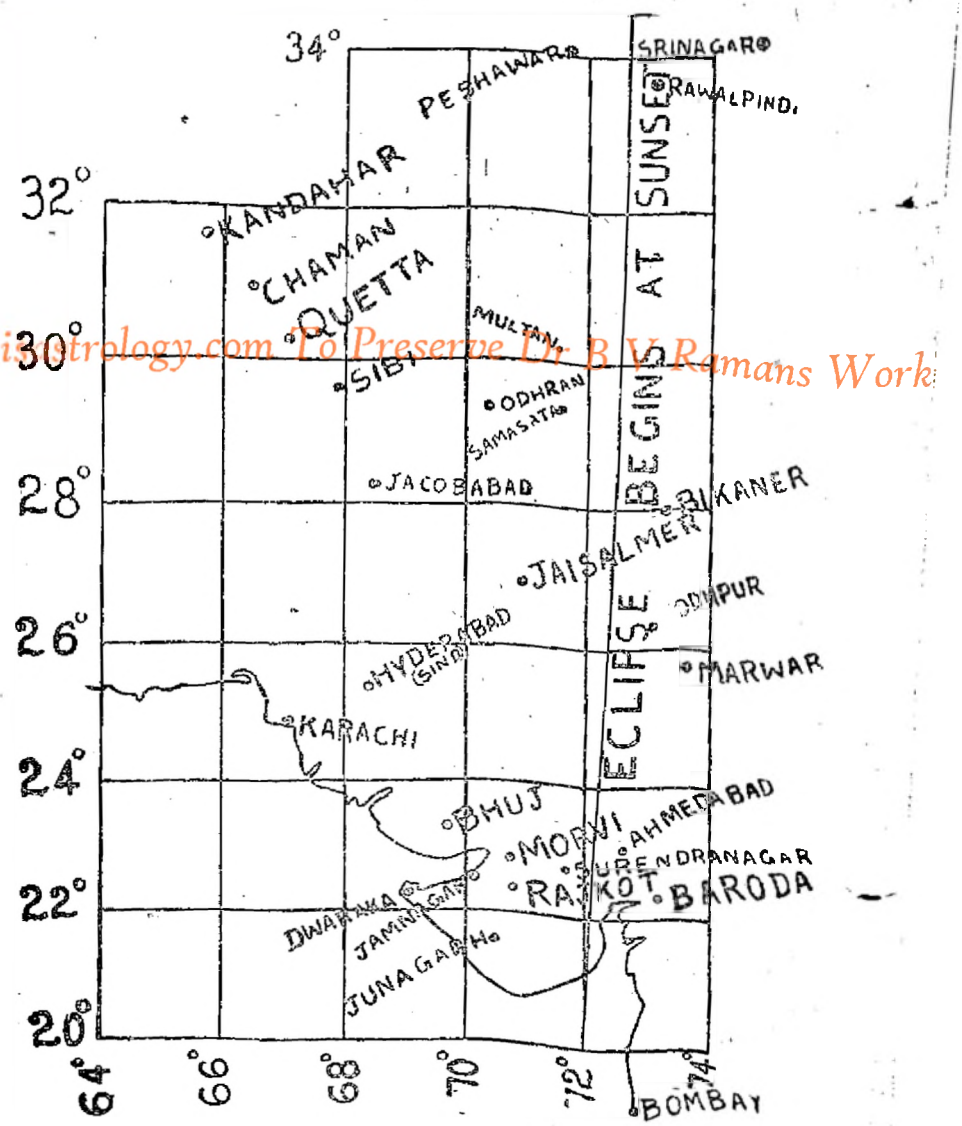
Solar Eclipse of 2nd of October 1959

(By R. RAMANUJAM, Sub-head, Coaching Accounts, Southern Rly., Srirangam.)

A TOTAL eclipse of the Sun occurs on October 2, 1959 (Friday). With reference to the earth's surface as a whole, the circumstances of the eclipse are as under :—

	I.S.T.	Lat.	Long.
	H. M.	° ′	° ′
Eclipse begins.	15-19	33 30 (North)	57 40 (West)
Total Eclipse begins,	16-20	42 35 (North)	72 05 (West)
Total Eclipse ends.	19-33	7 21 (North)	56 15 (East)
Eclipse ends.	20-34	1 45 (South)	41 33 (East)

The path of the total phase so far as land portion of the earth is concerned, passes through Africa. The totality is visible there in some of the regions in the north, north-east and north-west. The maximum duration of the total phase is 3 minutes between 12h. 28m. and 12h. 31m. (Greenwich Mean Time) corresponding to 12h. 26.5m. and 12h. 29.5m. of Local Civil Time which occurs at a point 19° 48′ (North Latitude) and 0° 22′ (West Longitude) in Africa.



As regards India, the eclipse is visible as a partial one in the north-western part, i.e., at places lying to the west of the limiting line "Eclipse begins at Sunsent", as shown in the accompanying map of India. At places lying on this line, the eclipse begins at sunset, while at places lying to the west of the line, it begins just before sunset lasting for a short duration (as will be seen from the timings for some of the places given below) and the sunset occurs before ending of the eclipse.

The following are the points at which the eclipse begins at sunset :

Lat. (N.)	Long. (E.)	Time of sunset I.S.T.
° ′	° ′	H. M.
20 00	72 00	18 31
22 00	72 07	18 30
24 00	72 15	18 28
26 00	72 22	18 28
28 00	72 28	18 26
30 00	72 35	18 26
32 00	72 38	18 24
34 00	72 40	18 23
35 00	72 43	18 23

If these points are plotted on a map of India and joined together by a smooth line, this line will represent the limiting line "Eclipse begins at Sunset" as shown in the diagram. The times of sunset shown above, are those at which the upper edge of the Sun's disc will touch the unobstructed horizon under normal atmospheric temperature and pressure at the time taking into account the mean refraction of 34 minutes of arc at the horizon, when observation is made at sea-level. Any unusual change in the atmospheric conditions and also the height of the place of observation above sea-level, may cause a difference of a few minutes in the given times of sunset. Further, the time involved from the time the lower limb of the Sun's disc touches the horizon till the upper limb touches the horizon, will be about two minutes at the points mentioned above.

The magnitude of the eclipse at the limiting line is zero and it gradually increases as we go towards the west of the limit, that at places lying very close to the limit, the eclipse may not be visible, while it will be visible at places lying clear away from the limit. The atmospheric conditions at the time should also be favourable for the view of the eclipse.

Again if good drops have materialised between 18th and 28th, one should again remain a buyer in this section. Comparatively Cotton and Silk yarns would remain weak or subdued, but in no case they would show mandi tendencies.

Saturn in Moola, a cotton nakshatra and having vedha with Punarvasu, another cotton nakshatra, is a factor, which is the main reason for maintainance of prices at higher levels. In my annual report for 1959 I had mentioned this factor. Martian transit in Virgo from 27th August 1959 is another factor which has to be reviewed. As Bombay is the main cotton business centre, March 1960 vedha chart needs study properly. The position of this vedha chart is most interesting. Lagna, Lagna lord, Sun and Moon are under the affliction of Saturn transitting Moola nakshatra. It is most likely that the same fate would be in store for this contract, that, it may be ultimately, be closed down abruptly by Government's intervention. Those dealing in cotton should do business within their limits. Till the entry of Sun in Makara, the fluctuations would be very wide, uncertain and baffling to speculators, dealers and traders. This review is particularly for cotton. Crop estimates would be improving daily, though initially, crop may be delayed. The total production would not be low, but perhaps would be more than in 1959.

Oilseeds: Oils.—Transit of Rahu in Uttaraphalguna from 7th Oct. 1959 should help rising tendencies in this section. Specially castor and other exportable seeds would be in good demand all over. Perhaps groundnuts and other edible oils would remain somewhat subdued. 1st to 17th rise; 18th to 24th mandi; 25th to 27th bothways; 28th to 29th mandi; 30th and 31st teji.

Bullions and Metals.—Mars transits in Chitta upto 21st, Sun in Uttaraphalguna and Chitta and Jupiter in Anuradha are factors showing rise in prices of all precious and other metals. Both Cancer and Leo remain free from affliction and except silver and other metals would show rise. Silver is likely to remain subdued from 11th onwards.

Gud and Sugar.—Though upto 10th this section would remain subdued but from 11th till end, I expect that there would be good rise.

Chemicals and Dyes.—Unlike other commodities, this section would remain subdued and dull.

Stocks and Shares.—New Moon chart indicates good rise. Upto 7th, navamsa positions of the two major planets—Saturn and Rahu, help rise. Thereafter navamsa relations are not helpful in Uttaraphalguna. Rahu is taken to be good to stocks of industrial companies. Transits of Venus and Jupiter are not indicating rise in share values. It may be that, while steel section, would be strong, other groups, textiles and plantations, may be somewhat dull. Fluctuations would be wide bothways. Both abrupt rise and sudden fall is indicated. 1st to 4th teji; 5th to 9th mandi; 10th to 12th teji; 13th and 14th mandi; 15th to 23rd teji; 24th to 29th mandi and 30th and 31st teji. In general one should follow teji from 2nd October 1959 evening.

The month is bullish in general for almost all sections and one following teji would not be at loss.

BY MANUBHAI P. SHUKLA,
"Sukla Vas", P.O. Patdi.

October 1959 runs parallel to Lunar Aswija month. In most parts the trading community consider the Deewali day as commercial year ending period. They look to the profit and loss account and begin new transactions from Kartika (Sukla Panchami), 5th day of bright half known as Sowbhagya Panchami.

There are five Saturdays during the bright half of the month and three during the dark half. During the latter half (Pratipada) 1st day of dark half and Amavasya fall on a Saturday. When Lunar Aswija (Sukla Pratipada) 1st day of bright half falls on a Saturday, grains should be stocked and not sold off, as scarcity would keep the grain market tight during the month. Since (Krishna Paksha Ekadashi) 11th day of dark half falls on Monday, prices of cows and buffaloes would rise. Since Aswija Amavasya (New Moon) falls on a Saturday, rains during the year will be uncertain. Consequently commodities would go up. Aswija Amavasya (New Moon) falls in Swati, so grain market would remain tight during the month. When Amavasya (New Moon) falls on Saturday, famine would prevail. Much difficulty and troublesome times are to be experienced in joint families. The Aswija Amavasya (New Moon) is longer in duration than that of Chitta nakshatra on that day and the grain market would be strong.

Aswija lunar month falls in "Saradritu" ruled by Mercury. Mercury enters southern declination and rises on 11-10-1959. This is unfavourable for cotton crop.

Excessive rains were caused while Venus and Mars remained conjoined in Makha constellation during 9th to 16th July 1959. Mars aspects Dhanishta, Visakha, Anuradha and Moola. Now Visakha and Anuradha affect North-West Frontier. Moola affects Western regions of India. Dhanishta rules North-Eastern direction. So we had profusive and destructive rains, causing havoc in Kashmir, West Pakistan, Kutch and some parts of Saurashtra. Swati, Visakha and Anuradha rule Broach and Surat districts. Mars continues its transit through Makha till 30-7-1959. Makha, Aslesha, Sravana, Dhanishta belong to (Amrit Nadi) which causes abundant rains during monsoon. From 17-7-1959 to 21-8-1959 Venus transits through Purvaphalguna, its own constellation coming under (Jala Nadi). Mars joins this constellation and Nadi on 31-7-1959 and rejoins Venus till 21-8-1959. Mars now aspects Satabhisha, Anuradha, Jyeshta and Purvashada. Purvashada rules Western direction. Anuradha and Jyeshta rule North-West Frontier. Satabhisha rules North. So monsoon will be still active in those regions. Anuradha and Jyeshta rule Abu, Konkan parts of Maharashtra, Sindh and Malwa. There is likely to be heavy snow fall or earth tremors.

Solar eclipse occurs on 2-10-1959 in Hasta constellation. Illustrious persons, commercial class, elephant riders, high-grade military persons, and articles which can be weighed in scales, artisans, rice, gram, sheathed grains, intellectual and learned persons will suffer much. The eclipse occurs on a Friday. The prices of silver, pearls, white cloth and apparels will rise. Winds will blow very fast. Areas for foodgrains will be increased and grain production will improve. An eclipse occurring in Bhadrapada will bring very good rains and crops. Calcutta, Murshidabad, Nadia, Malda Bhinnamal, Magadha, Saurashtra, Gujrat, Bhutan and regions resided by Muslims will pass through troubled times. Females will suffer from womb diseases. On the whole rains are favourable and commodity prices will come down throughout the world.

Solar ingress into Nirayana Libra takes place on Saturday, 1st day of dark half of Aswija in Aswini constellation, Vajra Yoga on 17-10-1959 at 3-05 p.m. (L.M.T.) at New Delhi. Aquarius 16 degrees is rising and 19th degree of Scorpio is culminating with Jupiter in the 10th house. Aquarius is a fixed sign. When solar ingress takes place when a fixed sign is rising, sanyasins and farmers will have difficult times to pass. When solar ingress into Libra takes place on Saturday,

Scanned by CamScanner

Brahmins, learned men, cattle, wheat and gram will pass through unfavourable times. Epidemics will spread. When solar ingress into Libra takes place, when Moon passes through Aries, wool and all sorts of foodgrains should be stocked and sold in the next month when prices rise high. White cloth, white coloured commodities and silver markets will remain very tight. The Finance Minister will complain about lesser income in the State Treasury. October 1959 can be divided into following bearish and bullish periods :—1st to 9th rise ; 10th to 14th dull ; 14th afternoon to 19th (10-00 a.m.) bearish ; 19th to 30th bullish ; 31st to 2nd steady.

Rahu and Saturn form square aspect from 7th October 1959. This square aspect is unfavourable for grain market So there will be separate trends for stocks and shares section and commodity markets. This is reflected from the speculative planet Mars coming into solar combustion and complete conjunction on 30-10-1959. Such a position of these two planets strengthen the hands of the administration to take effective measures to curb the speculative tendency of the monied class.

New York Stocks and Shares.—This will be a bearish month on the whole. Competition in foreign markets between Russia and U.S.A. will have adverse effect on the price structure and economics in U.S.A. There will be selling waves on occasional good inclines. Bearish stage must have commenced on solar ingress into Virgo on 17-9-1959 and should terminate on 5-11-1959 when Saturn enters into Cancer navamsa in Moola constellation. Major declines should occur during following periods :—1-3; 7-12; 21-24 ; 29-31.

London Stocks and Shares.—The solar eclipse falls in the 2nd house, actually in trine aspect with the mid-heaven. Mars-Mercury-Sun conjunction takes place in this house of finance. Venus lord of 9th is in actual trine with Saturn ruling 5th and 6th houses. Venus rules the 2nd house as well. This planet is separated from Herschel on 20-6-1959. Since then U.S.A. and Britain's foreign trade policy should be antagonistic to each other. Britain would be extending trade facilities to communist nations, while U.S.A. would be doing so in middle east Asiatic regions and Africa against British interests. Sun, Mercury and Mars are in good aspect with Saturn. It is a hopeful sign of good recoveries in the stocks and shares and prices during this month. Transport and export items would be on the prosperous side in addition to mining, textiles, rails, rubber, tobacco and gold shares. Major inclines will be during 9-12 ; 19-21 and 24-26.

Indian Stocks and Shares.—At Calcutta Saturn, ruler of 3rd and 4th houses transits through 2nd house in trine with Venus nearing the cusp of the M.C. This is a good sign. The solar eclipse of 2-10-1959 occurs in the 11th house, but, Rahu is retracing to form actual square with Saturn. So adverse effects will be on the increase as the month progresses. Kethu on the 5th house is not favourable for jute shares, mining and industrial concerns.

The measures to be adopted by the L.I.C. are likely to curb the speculative instincts.

At Madras, Saturn is on the 4th house, in square aspect to Rahu. Mercury is in conjunction with Mars ruler of 8th and 3rd houses. Neptune is placed in the 2nd house. Mars, Mercury and Sun are progressing to trine with the mid-heaven point. So the month should open with a prosperous state in this town. As Neptune-Sun, and Neptune-Mars conjunction will be taking place in the fag end of this month, financial conditions and Government intentions ought to be carefully observed otherwise, heavy losses are indicated for them.

At Bombay Solar eclipse occurs in the 10th house along with Rahu, Mercury and Mars. Neptune is in the 12th house, while Jupiter is rising in the East. With all these beneficial elements, Saturn is transitting the 2nd house and Rahu is tracing back to form a square with this planet. Unfortunately for the bulls, Rahu is separating from Neptune, which planet helped them most during first fortnight of July 1959. It is a period of woes, since then, for bulls. Under these planetary positions, it becomes obvious again, that Bombay stocks will prove to be leading during this month, either for rise or for a decline. General periods of rise and falls are as under : 1-3 bullish ; 4 to 7 noon, bearish ; 7th afternoon fluctuations 14—17 (3-00 p.m.) bearish ; 17-21 steady or little rise ; 21-27 bearish ; 27-30 reactionary upturn ; and 31st to 5th proximo bearish.

How will you transact your Muhurtha business ? The period is bearish in currency at this time. In the beginning of business, buy and sell double with a minor gain. Those who do not care much minor profits, may sell from beginning to end. Textiles and steels will be unlucky items.

Bullions.—Silver prices would rule weak during 7th to 22nd. There may be some unsteady rises during 7th to 11th, but, it is advisable to sell on such bulges. From 1st to 5th October 1959, bullions may move within narrow fluctuations. 10th to 14th gold prices may appreciate on account of Diwali buyings. But 14th evening to 16th appreciable fall is possible. This may have smaller effect on silver, but thereafter it must decline splendidly. Russia is very likely to sell its stock of gold to England in good lump. Incomes from Tibet and Nepal will appreciably be on increase in this month. Gold will improve from 26th to some extent.

Cotton Market.—From 7th Rahu enters Uttaraphalguna constellation and causes vedha on Punarvasu constellation already under vedha from Saturn. Saturn is again placed in Moola constellation having concern over cotton. Rahu in Uttaraphalguna causes vedha on Libra sign ruling the price-structure of cotton market. Rahu's transit is a definite pointer for higher prices in cotton market. Only the troublesome situation is likely to be caused by the Forward Commission in fulfilling the bull's intentions. The solar eclipse occurs in the 4th house-the house indicating crops and weather conditions. Solar eclipse takes place in the 4th house and aspected by Saturn from the 7th house. So bullish sentiment would outlive this point. Saturn in the 7th house indicates that the circumstances may so arise that foreign cotton may not be available for our textile industries and local crop may be smaller than anticipated. It is a bullish period, during which stock should be purchased in decline state between 6th and 7th ; 13th to 16th and 23rd to 26th.

Seeds Market.—Gradually Sun and Mars are advancing to Swati constellation, where Neptune is posited. Neptune is considered as a watery planet, having attributes of Jupiter. Under the circumstances, the bearish effects will gradually get decreased and bullish sentiment will be more in lime-light. Solar eclipse itself is a

By MIHIRA

[The following forecasts based on Janma Rasi are general and as such those having favourable aspects according to present Dasa and Bhukthi, will have favourable results from the indications made below; while those having adverse aspects according to current directions will experience these predictions to a lesser proportion. The predictions given below are based not upon conjecture, but upon a clear interpretation of the movements or transits of planets. If you do not know your Janma Rasi write to Mihira, C/o THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope.—Ed., A.M.].

MAJOR TRANSITS.—Sun transits Virgo till 15th, then enters Libra. Mercury remains in Virgo only till 4th, then enters Libra which sign he transits till 24th, then passes on to Scorpio. Mars transits Virgo till 9th, then goes to Libra. Venus remains in Leo throughout, Jupiter in Scorpio, and Saturn in Sagittarius. Rahu and Kethu continue their retrograde motion in Virgo and Pisces respectively.

1. Mesha (Aries).—Venus in 5th; Rahu in 6th; Sun and Mars in 6th and 7th; Mercury in 6th, 7th and 8th; Jupiter in 8th; Saturn in 9th; and Kethu in 12th.

General.—Venus is the only planet in a favourable sign for the entire month and he is under check throughout. Sun is good for the first half but good or bad he is under vedha throughout. For the first four days and the last eight days, Mercury is in favourable signs and except for the last eight days he is under check. Mars becomes evil after change of sign on 9th but he is under vedha throughout the month. Jupiter and Saturn are evil and while Saturn is under check all along, Jupiter is thus affected for the greater part of the month. Thus this is a nondescript month in which neither the good nor the evil transits have much power and the first half some more of the better elements for its share than the second. Success over rivals and enemies, peace of mind, gains, acquisition and enjoyment of some articles of luxury, good health, popularity and renown, meeting of welcome relatives, help from friends, auspicious events in the family, etc., are the probable happenings for the month, more especially during the first half. The second half will not be favourable at all and trouble from enemies, losses, sorrows and unhappiness, wearisome journeys, disputes and accidents, obstacles in undertakings, etc., are due for the latter half. Of the three stars of the sign, those born under Bharani and Krittikai will fare better than those born under Aswini.

Health and Domestic.—It is likely that some health troubles are experienced during the second half, such as those that principally relate to the stomach and rectum. To those chronically subject, eye troubles too may manifest. The wife's health too may suffer and may need prompt attention. The domestic sphere will be far from happy especially during the second half and there may occur death of relatives or friends and sorrows and unhappiness. Quarrels with wife and children, various domestic worries and misunderstandings too may occur. In bad cases, even separation from wife and children may be threatened though it may not take place.

Finance and Speculation.—It is probable that the first half will be free from financial worries and troubles. Even gains are indicated by more than one transit influence. The second half will most likely be just the opposite as losses are indicated by the majority of the transits. There will be considerable risk in financial enterprises launched during the month and strained situations may arise even in normal routine affairs. But as a great part of the difficulties are liable to arise from your own extravagance or hasty actions, care on your part will reduce and even prevent such things. There is no support for speculative activities.

Real Property, Services, Business, Profession, etc.—Nothing special calls for mention in the sphere of real property matters as none of the transits have any direct bearing here. Yield and rentals will prove normal, even satisfactory. During the first half they may even be above normal. But the month cannot be said to be propitious for any new undertakings or enterprises, nor investments of any magnitude. It is quite probable that you are contented with the present conditions and become restless and want to change this thing or that or launch out into something new. But this is not the month for it. The services have it bothways. Anyhow the first half may be said to be wholly beneficial and is indicative of general betterment than any specific advancement. Obstacles and setbacks are also likely to arise but they will be surmounted. During the second half you will have to be watchful lest through any careless action on your part, you incur the displeasure of your superiors in office, or become generally unpopular. The profession and business are likely to do quite well during the first half. Some hindrances, setbacks, even losses are probable during the second. Avoid big enterprises during this part of the month.

Women.—The first half is generally favourable for the interests of fair sex as such but after the middle of the month, it becomes progressively unfavourable, the worst part being the close of the month. Whether the month as a whole proves happy or otherwise would depend mostly on your attitude of mind. In the different spheres of your activities, social and otherwise you are likely to face situations that will be trying even in a critical sense. Wise and discreet action on your part especially where the opposite sex is concerned will result in much good and benefit to you. During the second half especially care must be exercised in all actions, taking thought always before yielding to impulses.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs, domestic matters, dealings with relatives—3, 6, 7, 12, 22, 24, 27, 29; money dealings and transactions, financial enterprises—1, 4, 8, 10, 14, 18, 23, 28; short journeys—1, 3, 7, 12, 14, 24, 29; long journeys—1, 6, 10. 14, 24, 25, 29; real property affairs, educational and academical activities, tests, interviews, etc.—3, 4, 6, 7, 12, 18, 27; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, picnics and excursions, courtship and love affairs—6, 10, 11, 14, 22, 23, 26, 27, 29; service affairs and prospects—1, 2, 3, 7, 12, 24, 29; partnership matters, dealings with opposite sex in general—1, 3, 4, 8, 10, 14, 18, 23, 28; insurance activities and enterprises, dealings with estate of deceased persons—3, 6, 7, 12, 22, 24, 27, 29; professional and business enterprises—4, 10, 12, 17, 24, 26, 31.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private affairs, domestic matters, dealings with relatives—1, 5, 9, 13, 17, 21 25, 30, 31; money dealings and transactions, financial enterprises, standing surety for others—3, 6, 13, 20, 24, 31; short journeys—6, 8, 10, 13, 20, 23, 26, 30; long journeys—8, 9, 12, 16, 20, 23, 27, 30; real property matters, educational and academical enterprises, tests, interviews, etc.—2, 9, 14, 17, 20, 24, 26; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, picnics and excursions, courtships and love affairs—2, 9, 12, 16, 20, 24, 25, 30, 31; service affairs and prospects, dealings with superiors, servants—6, 10, 14, 18, 22, 26, 30; partnership business and dealings with opposite sex in general—6, 11, 13, 16, 20, 24, 31; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased persons—5, 9, 13, 17, 21, 25, 30, 31; professional and business enterprises—1, 8, 11, 14, 18, 22, 29.

Chandrashtama from about sunse of 5th till sunset of 7th.

2. Vrishabha (Taurus).—Venus in 4th; Rahu in 6th; Sun and Mars in 5th and 6th; Mercury in 5th, 6th and 7th; Jupiter in 7th; Saturn in 10th; and Kethu in 11th.

General.—Venus and Jupiter are good for the whole month and what is even more important, both are free from vedha throughout. Sun and Mars become favourable after change of sign, that is for 15th and 9th respectively. Mercury is good for the greater part of the month. All these good influences are also free of check. Thus Saturn is the only planet who is evil throughout the month but he is under vedha all along and his evil does not count. Thus fairly good prospects in general emerge for the month which will prove to be one of the best for the entire year, and the 2nd half will have a greater measure of benefits and comforts to its lot than the earlier. Triumph over rivals and enemies, happiness, peace of mind, gains, increased income, purchase of articles of luxury and their enjoyment, good health, general success, popularity and renown, study of new subjects, auspicious events and celebrations, pleasure trips and excursions, increased power and influence generally are the hopeful indications for the second half. Ill-health, troubles from enemies and rivals, accidents, separation from relatives, losses by theft or otherwise, mental agitation and quarrels, obstacles in undertakings, etc., are what one may expect from the evil transits of the first half. Of the three stars of the sign, those born under Krittikai will fare best, next those born under Mrigasira while those born under Rohini may not benefit such from the good transits and suffer more from the evil ones.

Health and Domestic.—The month should prove to be mostly trouble free in the matter of health. Even during the earlier part of the month, there is no reason to be apprehensive as the disturbances are more likely to be mental than bodily ill-health. Children's health may require some attention early in the month. Some minor accident may even occur. Conditions will be almost ideal in the domestic sphere for harmony and peace, happiness and comforts, luxuries and enjoyments. There may be occasion for the celebration of some domestic or social event that will be auspicious and joy-giving.

Finance and Speculation.—The financial aspects for the month are good though not very good. Still there will be appreciable advance over previous months. There will be influx of wealth from more sources than one and increasing amounts also more especially during the second half. A good month for new financial enterprises and ventures as there will be enhanced ability as well as opportunities to tackle and exploit favourable conditions. In case you have to enlist help from friends or relatives, such help will be usually readily forthcoming. At the same time it cannot be said that purely speculative transactions have the same or equal chances for success though they are not prohibited. Net gains will not go up to expectations.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—So far as yield and rentals are concerned, they will prove satisfactory and mostly above average. Condi-bullish pointer, which will create small crop on larger cultivated areas due to profusion of rains in Saurashtra Kutch which regions produced seeds especially groundnut crop worth 50 crores. We had predicted bumper crops and heavy quota for export and higher rates. On 8th Venus becomes the most brilliant star. So 1st to 8th may be considered for buying period. (A decline to some extent is envisaged after the solar eclipse). Top rates during this month will be in the fag end of this month. New crops in the southern parts of India is likely to come for sales and in consequence some decline is expected. Groundnut oil is not likely to be easily available during Diwali holidays, even in case the Government curb forward market trading and seizes the stocks. Mars in accelerated motion, curbs and troubles stockists black-marketeers and speculators. Rahu is in watery navamsa in Pisces and Saturn aspects it. All seeds will follow this section. After some decline till 8th (if at all comes in), seeds section would remain higher till 23rd. Again some reactionary fall is anticipated between 23rd evening and 26th forenoon. Thereafter again seeds market will be strong.

Sugar and Jaggery.—Little activities are seen in this section; as Jupiter throws its benevolent rays over Aslesha and Pisces. Kethu is situated in Pisces to neutralize the Government actions to stabilize or stagger the prices in this section. Jaggery prices which are now quoted around Rs. 14-60 in Hapur market, may rise to Rs. 16-00 by this time—Diwali.

Black Pepper.—September and October 1959 are unfavourable months for Indonesia and Malaya States. Terrorists' activities would increase. Prices of species would come down from 21st to the end of this month. From 1st to 21st is a reactionary bullish period.

Rubber Market.—Herschel and Jupiter are in opposition, in Navamsa chart, while Rahu is conjoined with Herschel. It seems U.S.A. would show interest in buying this fluid substance after it is lowered in prices. On the whole it is a bearish month till 26th; then some reactionary rise between 16th and 21st.

Grains Market.—Joowar and bajree markets will rule strong as major part of crop will be spoiled by rains overgrowing areas. Maize crop will be somewhat better. Rice and wheat of good quality will not be had except in black market. (Good quality of rice would be quoted at Rs. 50 and wheat at Rs. 36 or 38 per Bengali maund. Charcoal prices in industrial areas will again higher.

Artificial Silk.—This section will rule strong and bigger fluctuations will be noticed. At least a rise of Rs. 50 is envisaged in this section between 7th and 21st. The speculators have to remain very careful. Some good fall is possible between 21st and 26th with slow recoveries in prices in the latter period of this month.

Jute Market.—5th to 21st seems to be very prospering period. On account of development of foreign demand, some relapse after good advance is indicated between 22nd and 25th, but, again the market will recover in the end of the month.

was born at 3-43 a.m. on 15th September 1953. The child's mother passed away at 8-30 a.m. on 26th September, on the 12th day after delivery. The child also died in August 1954.

In this particular chart the yogas leading to infant mortality are combined with yogas signifying early parental death. Jupiter, the ruler of the house occupied by Mandi, occupies 12th, a cadent position which is 8th as reckoned from the Moon. Venus is almost eclipsed in Cancer and all other benefics occupy succeedent and cadent positions. All malefics except Mars occupy angular positions and Mandi assumes 8th house as reckoned from the Sun which is in conjunction with Mars in the 2nd maraka house Moon is in fall and is aspected by Mars. 4th house ruling mother is afflicted by Saturn, the ruler of 7th and 8th houses. Rahu assumes 4th and Mandi 6th house as reckoned from the 4th. Mandi occupies 9th house, ruling father, besides being in the 8th as reckoned from the Sun, the Pitrukaraka. Birth in Jyeshta generally indicates danger to mother.

HOW IS THIS MONTH?

tions may unexpectedly favour your launching into activities for the promotion of yield and this is more probable during the second half and changes made during this month may have the advantage of proving to be of permanent value. However considerable care will have to be exercised as there are some adverse aspects also. In your plans for expansion you will be able to enlist the sympathy and help of others also with gratifying results. In the January issue (Annual) for 1959, it was stated "that October and November are the best months for the services this year, when they are likely to get promotion, preferments or other beneficial changes. During October especially, Sun, Mars, Mercury and Venus will be favourable in addition to Jupiter". To this statement, there is nothing much to be added now except that all these things are more probable during the second half than the first. You will be looked upon with favour by your superiors. This month will be excellent for the business and the profession and your business and professional enterprises and activities are likely to bring you success with results proportionate to endeavour.

Women.—As in other matters, it is the second half that will be specially favourable to the members of the fair sex in all their activities, and under the peculiar influences that are in force at this time, they are likely to be more introspective, the mind will become steadier, more concentrative and persevering and they will go deeper into and endeavour to realise more of their inner nature than formerly. But to those who are out for name and success in activities outside home, and in social circles, they will be also helped in such activities by appropriate circumstances and favourable conditions.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs, domestic matters, dealings with relatives—1, 4, 8, 10, 14, 18, 23, 28; money dealings and transactions, financial enterprises—1, 3, 7, 12, 14, 24, 29; short journeys—3, 4, 6, 7, 12, 18, 27; long journeys—4, 10, 12, 17, 24, 26, 31; real property affairs, educational and academical activities, tests, interviews—6, 10, 11, 14, 22, 23, 26, 27, 29; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, picnics and excursions, courtship and love affairs —1, 2, 3, 7, 12, 24, 29; service affairs and prospects, dealings with superiors, servants, interviews—1, 3, 4, 8, 10, 14, 18, 23, 28; partnership business, dealings with opposite sex in general—3, 6, 7, 12, 22, 24, 27, 29; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased persons—1, 6, 10, 14, 24, 25, 29; professional and business enterprises—4, 10, 12, 17, 24, 26, 31.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private affairs, domestic matters, dealings with relatives—6, 10, 13, 20, 24, 31; money dealings and transactions, financial ventures, standing surety for others—6, 8, 10, 13, 20, 23, 24, 30; short journeys—2, 9, 14, 17, 20, 24, 26; long journeys—1, 8, 11, 14, 18, 22, 29; real property matters, educational and academical activities, tests, interviews—2, 9, 12, 16, 20, 24, 25, 30, 31; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, picnics and excursions, courtship and love affairs—6, 10, 14, 18, 22, 26, 30; service affairs and prospects, dealings with superiors, servants, interviews, etc.—6, 11, 13, 16, 20, 24, 31; partnership business and dealings with opposite sex in general—5, 9, 13, 17, 21, 25, 30, 31; insurance activities and business, dealings with estate of deceased persons—8, 9, 12, 16, 20, 23, 27, 30; professional and business enterprises—1, 8, 11, 14, 18, 22, 29.

Chandrashtama from sunset of 7th till midnight of 9th.

3. Mithuna (Gemini).—Venus in 3rd; Rahu in 4th; Sun and Mars in 4th and 5th; Mercury in 4th, 5th and 6th; Jupiter in 6th; Saturn in 7th and Kethu in 10th.

General.—So far as transits are concerned, this month cannot be said to be favourable. Venus is the only good planet for the entire month. The only other planet who is auspicious for at least part of the month is Mercury. He is good only for the first four days and last week. That is all. Sun, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn are all in evil signs only but check accounts for three of them throughout, Sun, Mars and Saturn being thus held up. Jupiter alone is free except for the last week. Therefore, generally, there will be more of evil in the events of the month than good, though because of check, the evil transits are more or less powerless. Sorrows and apprehensions, quarrels and disputes with relatives and friends, financial pressure, troubles through rivals and enemies, loss of position, deceit through friends, liability to accidents, purposeless undertakings, dishonour, tedious journeys and fatigue arising therefrom, etc., are the unwelcome possibilities for the month. Venus by itself may not mean much ordinarily against such odds but as the malefic influences are mostly under check, some amelioration may be expected. Some success, popularity, happiness and gains, triumph over rivals and enemies are probable during the last week which will be the best part of the month. Of the three stars covered by the sign, the least sufferers will be those born under the asterism of Punarvasu, next come those with Mrigasira as their birth stars and the least favoured are those under Aridra.

Health and Domestic.—There is likely to be much of disharmony in the domestic circle as well as in social spheres, though it may not amount to positive unhappiness all along. Bickerings, quarrels and misunderstandings will be inevitable all the same and relatives both inside and outside the domestic circle will prove a source of sorrows, losses and endless worries. Health is almost certain to be affected. Digestive upsets, rectal ailments such as blood discharges and dysentery, etc. During the second half especially accidents may not be ruled out and care during journeys will be absolutely necessary.

Finance and Speculation.—Except for the off-chance that some unexpected gains may occur during the month. The month's finances will be in the doldrums only and on occasions acute pressure may be felt for ready cash. In some bad cases, there may be even pressure from creditors during the first half especially. Losses too may arise through theft or deceit, the latter half being more probable. You should be on the guard against your friends who want to interest you in some seemingly attractive schemes that are held forth as gold mines. There is absolutely no support for speculative enterprises.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—Only troubles can be expected in matters pertaining to real property, with reduction in the profits and rentals and your efforts to improve the position will result only in added losses and other inconveniences. There will be obstacles, quarrels and setbacks if you venture on enterprises. All thoughts of investing in real property should be abandoned for this month at least. It will be better to strictly adhere to routine only and even postpone making long-term arrangements for lease or cultivation. Troubles with tenants, cultivators, co-owners, etc., are only too probable. But this is likely to prove to be only a temporary phase. The services are likely to fare somewhat better though not entirely free of troubles. By your own actions rather than from any extraneous cause, you are liable to incur the displeasure from Government or people in power and position or superiors especially during the second half of the month. Your rivals and enemies are also likely to cause a lot of mischief and misunderstandings alround, so that you should take care that by your own actions, they are not made to appear worse. Though with some ups and downs, profession and business will be successful on above average levels, conditions generally improving as the month advances.

Women.—Generally speaking, the month may be divided into three parts, so far as matters pertaining to women are concerned. The first part will be generally featureless and of no particular significance in any way. The second part will be very favourable for their interests, financially, socially and sometimes spiritually also. Attachments and friendships formed at this time are likely to prove successful and promising with the possibility of forming permanent friendships and lasting ties. The third part will not be so good. The native's progress in social or other matters is liable to be slowed down and the best results may not be realised.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs, domestic matters, dealings with relatives—1, 3, 7, 12, 14, 24, 29; money dealings and transactions, financial enterprises—3, 4, 6, 7, 12, 18, 27; short journeys—6, 10, 11, 14, 23, 26, 27, 29; long journeys—4, 10, 12, 17, 24, 26, 31; real property matters, educational and academical activities, tests, interviews—1, 2, 3, 7, 12, 24, 29; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, picnics and excursions, courtship and love affairs—1, 3, 8, 10, 14, 18, 23, 28; service affairs and prospects, dealings with superiors in office, servants, interviews—1, 6, 10, 14, 24, 25, 29; partnership business, dealings with opposite sex in general—3, 6, 7, 12, 24, 27, 29; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased persons—1, 3, 7, 12, 14, 24, 29; professional and business enterprises—1, 6, 10, 14, 24, 25, 29.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private affairs, domestic matters, dealings with relatives—6, 8, 10, 13, 23, 26, 30; money dealings and transactions, financial enterprises, standing surety for others—2, 9, 7, 14, 20, 24, 26; short journeys—2, 9, 12, 16, 20, 24, 25, 30, 31; long journeys—1, 8, 11, 14, 18, 22, 29; real property affairs, educational and academical activities, tests, interviews—6, 10, 14, 18, 22, 26, 30; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, picnics and excursions, courtship and love affairs—6, 11, 13, 16, 20, 24, 31; service affairs and prospects, dealings with superiors, servants, interviews—5, 9, 13, 17, 21, 25, 30, 31; partnership business and affairs, dealings with opposite sex in general—8, 9, 12, 16, 20, 23, 27, 30; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased persons—1, 8, 11, 14, 18, 22, 29; professional and business enterprises—8, 9, 12, 16, 20, 27, 36.

Chandrashtama from about midnight of 9th till about sunrise of 12th.

4. Kataka (Cancer).—Venus in 2nd; Rahu in 3rd: Sun and Mars in 3rd and 4th; Mercury in 3rd, 4th and 5th; Jupiter in 5th; Saturn in 6th; and Kethu in 9th.

General.—Venus, Jupiter and Saturn are good for the entire month, Sun and Mars before change of sign that is, till 15th and 9th respectively, and Mercury for the greater part of the month, which is to say that no transitting planet is evil throughout. But unfortunately the full benefit of such transits is not available because of vedha. Saturn is throughout under check and Jupiter for the greater part of the month. Sun whether good or bad is under check for the entire month and Mercury so long as he is good. Thus Venus and Mars are the only planets who are free of vedha so long as they are favourable and this in itself is not much. Though much of good cannot be expected for the month, there would not be much of evil either and the general results will be mostly mixed and nondescript and the first half will be generally better than the second. Good position and status, happiness, gains, good health, friendship with good and influential people, success in undertakings, auspicious event or celebration, acquisition and enjoyment of luxuries, increased prosperity, gifts and presents, triumph over rivals and enemies, etc., are the good things to be expected during the month but more especially during the first half. Some troubles through friends and relatives, quarrels and misunderstandings may be present during the second half. Of the three asterisms of the sign, the best results will be realised by those born under Punarvasu and Aslesha while those with Pushya as their birth star will be the worst sufferers.

Health and Domestic.—Good health will be the rule for the month. Even during the second half health disturbances will be only mild and easily got over with ordinary care. Digestive and rectal ailments are indicated and those generally are prevented by attention to diet and general habits. Harmony will prevail at home and in social circles. However it will be necessary during the second half to exercise some patience and forbearance in your dealings with your relatives and friends to prevent this from being disturbed. A generally increased prosperous conditions will also warrant the purchase of items of jewellery and articles of luxury.

Finance and Speculation.—The prospects of financial betterment during the month are indeed bright and if too much is not expected and dealings and transactions as well as financial enterprises, will bring in a fair measure of success and reasonable emoluments if conducted with ordinary care and caution, the results being quite adequate to endeavour. However it has to be stated that prospects are not quite good during the second half during which there is the likelihood of even some losses through so-called 'friends' who may want to exploit your good nature. The prospects of success in speculation are also quite good if confined to first half and to reasonable limits, and risky marginal transactions are avoided.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—Nothing special calls for mention in respect of matters pertaining to real property. But as in all other matters, the first half is conducive for new enterprises and activities designed to improve your position, yield, etc. Though there is nothing to deter one from making investments and also making innovations in methods of cultivation, etc., greater care will be required and the results may not prove as good. That is all. Yield and rentals can be expected to be slightly above average though not bumper. Even though the majority of the transits are good, not all the problems pertaining to landlords and landholders are likely to be solved during this month, nay even during the year. Though not the best, it is one of the best months in the year for the services, specially helpful to those who have superior technical qualifications or for those who have got a name for prudent forethought and careful attention to detail in their daily work. The attention of those in authority are likely to be drawn to such outstanding features during this month especially. To most, this will be a smooth-running period. This should prove to be an exceptionally good month for the profession and the business.

Women.—This month should prove remarkable for emotional experiences out of the ordinary. To those piously and devoutly inclined, this month may bring experience of inner joy, an illumination, or even a state of ecstacy according to the stage of spiritual development. To the social and worldly ambitions it may mean increased popularity and admiration especially with the opposite sex. To those inclined to the study of arts, music, etc., it may bring artistic inspiration. As in other matters, it is the first half that can be said to be propitious for such matters and experiences, rather the close of the second week.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs, domestic matters, dealings with relatives—3, 4, 6, 7, 12, 18, 27; money dealings and transactions, financial enterprises—6, 10, 11, 14, 22, 23, 26, 27, 29; short journeys—1, 2,3,7, 12,24, 29; long journeys–1, 6, 9, 14 24, 25, 29; real property matters, educational and academical activities, tests, interviews—1, 3, 4, 8, 10, 14, 18, 23, 28; speculation, children's prospects and affairs, picnics, excursions, courtship and love affairs—3, 6, 7, 12, 22, 24, 27, 29; service affairs and prospects, dealings with superiors, servants, interviews, etc.—1, 6, 10, 14, 24, 25, 29; partnership business, dealings with opposite sex in general —4, 10, 12, 17, 24, 26, 31; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased persons—4, 10, 12, 17, 24, 26, 31; professional and business enterprises—3, 6, 7, 12, 22, 24, 27, 29.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private affairs, domestic matters, dealings with relatives–2, 9, 14, 17, 20, 24, 26; money dealings and transactions, financial enterprises, standing surety for others—2, 9, 12, 16, 20, 24, 25, 30, 31; short journeys—6, 10, 14, 18, 22, 26, 30; long journeys—8, 9, 12, 16, 20, 23, 27, 30; real property matters, educational and academical activities, tests, interviews–6, 11, 13, 16, 20, 24, 31; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, picnics, excursions, courtship and love affairs—5, 9, 13, 17, 21, 25, 30, 31; service affairs and prospects, dealings with superiors, servants, interviews—8, 9, 12, 16, 20, 23, 27, 30; partnership matters, dealings with opposite sex in general—1, 8, 11, 14, 18, 22, 29; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased persons—1, 8, 11, 14, 18, 22, 29; professional and business enterprises—5, 9, 13, 17, 21, 25, 30, 31.

5. Simha (Leo).—Venus in 1st; Rahu in 2nd; Sun and Mars in 2nd and 3rd; Mercury in 2nd, 3rd and 4th; Jupiter in 4th; Saturn in 5th; and Kethu in 8th.

General.—Venus is the only planet in a favourable sign for the entire month and he is under check throughout. Sun and Mars become good after change of sign on 15th and 9th respectively. Mercury is good only for the last week, and good or bad he is under check throughout. Jupiter and Saturn transit inauspicious signs for the entire month but both are under check all along. It is a unique feature this month that almost all the transit influences, good and bad suffer check almost throughout. Sun and Mars alone are free so long as they are favourable. This will count for something in the assessment of general effects for the month and while it is true they will be mixed in nature, the second half will be much better than the first. General success and happiness, triumph over rivals and enemies, special honours and position in life, good friendships and associations, gains, luxuries, position of authority, educational & academical successes, all kinds of enjoyments, auspicious events are the probable good results for the second half. Of the three stars of the sign, those born under Makha and Uttaraphalguna will be bettor able to enjoy the good effects of the auspicious planets during second half than those born under Poorvaphalguna.

Health and Domestic.—Good health will be enjoyed throughout the month, as even the few transits that can cause ill-health are under check and even chronic sufferers can maintain themselves in good health with ordinary care and caution. During the first half, harmony may be lacking in the domestic circle as well as outside and quarrels and misunderstadings with friends and relatives may develop. Loss of relatives too may occur. Disgrace and humiliation, scandals and unjust blame, too may occur in bad cases but all this will be speedily set right during the second half.

A lunar eclipse will be visible in all parts of the earth where the Moon will be visible at the time, the times of beginning and ending according to a particular standard time being the same for all places; but the visibility or otherwise of a solar eclipse in different parts of the earth, depends upon the geographical positions of those places even though the Sun may be visible there at the time and the times of beginning and ending according to a particular standard of time will vary from places to place.

Details of timings in respect of some important places are furnished below. The following are also some of the places of visibility in India:

"Hyderabad (Sind), Umarkot, Nawabshah, Devikot, Tajal, Mohangarh, Gotaru, Jacobabad, Alipur, Multan, Dera Ghazi Khan, Dera Ismail Khan, Razmak, Sibi, Khandahar, Chaman, Morvi, Jamnagar, Junagadh, Khairpur, etc.

(a) This is the maximum magnitude which occurs just at sunrise (5h. 59m. Local Civil Time).

(b) This is the magnitude at sunrise, i.e., at 11h. 16m. Greenwich Mean Time (5–59 Local Civil Time) which occurs after the time of greatest phase.

Diagrams showing the appearance of the Sun as will be seen at some important places during the eclipse, are also appended. The time has been marked against each figure together with the magnitude shown in decimal. The arrow mark shown in the diagrams indicates the first point of contact at the beginning and the last point of contact at the ending of the eclipse at the respective places.

HOW IS THIS MONTH?

Finance and Speculation.–The month is not unfavourable for finances in general but loss of money, financial worries, increased expenditure, losses through deceit, etc., are indicated by more than one transit during the first half. On the other hand, gains, success in enterprises, etc., are indicated for the second half. But due to various causes, success will not be easy. Self-deception, muddled thinking, errors of judgment are likely to reduce the profits or gains and hence a vigorous plan of action after matured thinking should be aimed at some immediate and tangible goal than launch out in vague, long-drawn schemes. At no time during the month, will speculation be attractive or profitable.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc —It is probable that real property matters would make some headway during the month and achieve alround improvement over existing levels and in all matters and enterprises connected with such. You will have the willing co-operation of your friends, neighbours, servants, agents, etc., and will ensure generally smooth-running course. There will be also success in introducing machinery or new innovations to improve the yielding capacity of your estate and you may even receive some unexpected help in this connection. It would be better not to begin such activities at the very fag end of the month. The month is also generally good for the services, the second half specially so. A new position or status, success over your rivals will be possible during this part of the month. It may mean a promotion to positions of responsibility as a reward for hard work and steady effort. In some cases, it may be due to the benevolent interest of some one placed high above you. The month is thoroughly favourable for the profession and business who can well exploit the beneficent influences during the month to serve their purposes well.

Women.—Popularity and renown will come to those in search of it as conditions are exceptionally favourable this month in respect of activities in which the fair sex are interested. New friendships and fresh social contacts will render the month happy and agreeable They will come into contact with truthful, honest and sincere persons older than themselves who will prove to be reliable and permanent helpers and advisers. Some of the unattached will be able to meet their future spouse which may begin as a casual acquaintance during the month.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs, domestic matters, dealings with relatives—6, 10, 11, 14, 22, 23, 26, 27, 29; money dealings and transactions, financial enterprises—1, 2, 3, 7, 12, 24, 29; short journeys—1, 3, 4, 8, 10, 14, 18, 23, 28; long journeys—3, 6, 7, 12, 22, 24, 27, 29; real property matters, educational and academical activities, tests, interviews—5, 9, 13, 17, 21, 25, 30, 31; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, picnics, excursions, courtship and love affairs—8, 9, 12, 16, 20, 23, 27, 30; service matters and prospects, dealings with superiors, servants, interviews—1, 8, 11, 14, 18, 22, 29; partnership business, dealings with opposite sex in general—1, 8, 11, 14, 22, 29; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased persons—8, 9, 12, 16, 20, 23, 27, 30; professional and business enterprises—3, 6, 10, 13, 20, 24, 31.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private affairs—2, 8, 12, 16, 20, 24, 25, 30, 31; money dealings—6, 10, 14, 18, 22, 26, 30; short journeys—6, 11, 13, 16, 20, 24, 31; long journeys—5, 9, 13, 17, 21, 25, 30, 31; real property matters, educational activities—5, 9, 13, 17, 21, 25, 30, 31; speculation, children's affairs and love affairs—8, 9, 12, 16, 20, 23, 27, 30, service matters—1, 8, 11, 14, 18, 22, 29; partnership business, dealings with opposite sex in general—1, 8, 11, 14, 18, 22, 29; insurance activities—8, 9, 12, 16, 20, 23, 27, 30; professional and business enterprises—3, 6, 10, 13, 20, 24, 31.

Chandrashtama from about noon of 14th till night of 16th.

6. Kanya (Virgo).—Rahu in 1st: Sun and Mars in 1st and 2nd; Mercury in 1st, 2nd and 3rd; Saturn in 4th; Kethu in 7th; and Venus in 12th.

General.—Venus in 12th is the solitary favourable influence for the month and by itself is not much though free of vedha. Sun, Mars, Mercury, Jupiter and Saturn are all evil throughout. But their rays do not mean much as they are mostly held up. Sun, Mars and Saturn are under check for the entire month, Jupiter for the greater part of the month, and Mercury for the last week only. Therefore this month will be quite ordinary in all respects, with no significant good or bad results though the latter element is bound to predominate to some extent or other. Loss of prestige, obstacles in all matters, delays, wearisome and tedious travels, apprehensions and anxieties of various kinds, quarrels with friends and relatives, failures in enterprises, health troubles, disgrace, difficulties caused by following the advice of evil-minded persons, enmities alround, undesirable and unwelcome changes, miseries and unhappiness, are the sort of troubles due for the evil transits of the month. But much need not be feared as they are more or less powerless. One has to be thankful for Venus for such small mercies as enjoyment of a few luxuries and indulgence in temporary pleasures. Of the three asterisms covered by the sign, those born under Uttaraphalguna and Chitta will suffer much less than those born under Hasta.

Health and Domestic.—Low vitality and general debility will be present throughout. Blood pressure will tend to remain at rather high or above average levels. With ordinary precautions actual illness can be avoided. Otherwise, bronchial affections, disorders of blood, bile and heat may manifest. But nothing of a serious nature be apprehended unless, of course, current directional influences are also evil. Disharmony and quarrels are likely to prevail in domestic matters and in bad cases even separation from near and dear relatives may take place. But it should be possible to avoid any serious consequences.

Finance and Speculation.—Finances cannot but suffer during the month. Losses may occur through relatives and during journeys. Financial enterprises may not shape out well and may even end in losses. Losses may arise also through deceit and confidence tricks. As indications for such things are too many, it would be better not to launch out in any big undertakings during this month but postpone them to better times. In addition to all this new and increasing items of expenditure on quite fresh problems of their own are possible. With such features as above, it would be folly to indulge in speculative activities.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—The sphere which will be worst affected is perhaps real property interests for which no positive favourable developments are yet in sight. Though the entire month will not be bad throughout, the month will prove trying to landlords and landholders as a whole and the closing part of the month will be the worst part. No enterprises or attempts to improve your lot is likely to succeed and will only involve you further and further. Yield and rentals too are liable to be affected. Your whole endeavour should be to keep to routine matters only. Nor is this a good month from the point of view of the services which will generally incur the displeasure of those placed above them and also suffer from the machinations of rivals and enemies inspired by jealousy and illwill. You may be the butt of false charges and unjust blame and in bad cases may suffer loss of position, status or employment as also unwelcome transfers or other changes. Keeping to routine and doing hard work will help to alleviate the above conditions. Profession and business too cannot but suffer from failures and setbacks which are likely to occur off and on throughout the month.

Women.—This is not a favourable month for the interests in which women are interested by reason of their sex. Sudden and unexpected changes are foreshadowed, strange and peculiar episodes in connection with any attachment or friendship that may have been formed. As their nerves will be on edge all the time, they should not do or commit themselves to any strain or any course of action in which their nervous tension will be increased as hysteria and such allied complications may result. They should severely cut down parties attending or giving them, and confine themselves to routine matters only.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs, domestic matters, dealings with relatives—1, 2, 3, 7, 12, 24, 29; money dealings and transactions, financial enterprises–1, 3, 4, 8, 10, 14, 18, 23, 28; short journeys—3, 6, 7, 12, 22, 24, 27, 29; long journeys—1, 4, 8, 10, 14, 18, 23, 28; real property matters, educational and academical activities, tests, interviews—1, 6, 10, 14, 24, 25, 29; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, picnics, excursions, courtship and love affairs—4, 10, 12, 17, 24, 26, 31; service affairs and prospects, dealings with superiors, servants, interviews–4, 10, 12, 17, 24, 26, 31; property matters, dealings with opposite sex in general—3, 6, 7 12, 22, 24, 27, 29; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased persons—1, 6, 10, 14, 24, 25, 29; professional and business enterprises—1, 3, 7, 12, 14, 24, 29.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private affairs, domestic affairs, dealings with relatives—6, 10, 14, 18, 22, 26, 30; money dealings and transactions, financial enterprises, standing surety for others—6, 11, 13, 16, 20, 24, 31; short journeys—5, 9, 13, 17, 21, 25, 30, 31; long journeys—3, 6, 10, 13, 20, 24, 31; real property affairs, educational and academical activities, tests, interviews—8, 9, 12, 16, 20, 23, 27, 30; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, picnics, excursions, courtship and love affairs—1, 8, 11, 14, 18, 22, 29; service affairs and prospects, dealings with superiors, servants, interviews—1, 8, 11, 14, 18, 22, 29; partnership business, dealings with opposite sex in general—8, 9, 12, 16, 20, 23, 27, 30; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased persons—5, 9, 13, 17, 21, 25, 30, 31; professional and business enterprises–6, 8, 10, 13, 20, 23, 26, 30.

Chandrashtama from the night of 16th till forenoon of 19th.

7. Thula (Libra).—Jupiter in 2nd; Saturn in 3rd; Kethu in 6th; Venus in 11th; Rahu in 12th; Sun and Mars in 12th and 1st; and Mercury in 12th, 1st and 2nd.

General.—The good and evil transits of the month are well-nigh balanced not only numerically but also in their strength, rather lack of strength. Three planets Venus, Jupiter and Saturn are favourable for the entire month, but all of them are under check throughout. Mercury, Sun and Mars are the planets that are evil and all these too suffer check all along except it be for Mercury during the last week when alone he is free of vedha. Therefore neither the good influences nor the evil ones have any power to do any tangible good or bad respectively and this will prove to be mostly a nondescript month. Varied anxieties, quarrels with friends, sorrows, losses, obstacles in undertakings, tiresome and profitable journeys, health troubles, injuries or accidents, misunderstandings with relatives, heavy expenditure, humiliation, troubles caused by rivals and enemies are the sort of evil results that are due for the inauspicious transits. On the other hand, influx of wealth, happiness, success in undertakings, triumph over rivals and enemies, prosperity and comforts and enjoyments, articles of luxury, gain of friends, increased influences, are the promised results for the good transits. A more perfect set of opposite results cannot be imagined Of the three stars of the sign, the best results will be for those born under Chitta and the other too namely those born under Swati and Visakha rank only next.

Health and Domestic.–Good health cannot be expected for the month though disturbances will be few and almost negligible. Eye troubles, bilious complaints, low vitality, disorders of blood and heat troubles are the sort of ailments due for the evil transits and the good transits are not such as to counteract them. Though the influences are under check, it is better to be careful as to your health and habits. Though plenty of troubles, quarrels and misunderstandings within as well as outside the domestic circle may occur, they will soon be compromised and harmony re-established without much difficulty.

Finance and Speculation.—The finances will perhaps fare better than can be expected under the circumstances with Jupiter in second house all the time. But lord of 2nd is in twelfth and first. Venus in eleventh is however very good. Gains through help from friends, financial enterprises, influx of wealth from more sources than one, and generally smooth-running period. Some unexpected items of gain too may accrue though because of various causes the amount may not be considerable. Chances for success in speculative dealings are to slender that it would be more prudent to avoid them altogether, as there are at least equal chances for losses as well.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.–Mixed results will be in evidence in matters connected with real property following the general nature of the transit influences; there is no transit that directly bears upon this sphere. Still there will arise plenty of worries in connection with your estate matters; yield and rentals may not come quite up to the mark, and even losses may be caused in your enterprises, be it purchase or sale or other activities connected with the improvement of your lands. If long-term arrangements are pending regarding leasing or management of your estate, their conclusion should be postponed to better times. The affairs and prospects of the services though not very good at the beginning of the month will improve as the month advances until satisfactory conditions obtain towards the close of the month. But nothing spectacular or special should

The Sun begins his journey from the 16th degree of Nirayana Virgo. He enters Libra on the 16th and goes upto the 15th degree. His southern declination gradually increases from 2° 48′ to 13° 47′ in this month. There will be a total solar eclipse on the 2nd October 1959.

THE MOON

The Moon starts to move on from the 26th degree of Nirayana Leo, and after completing a round of the heavens goes upto the 2nd degree of Nirayana Libra. He crosses the celestial equator on 2nd, 14th and 29th. He goes to the Perigee on the 5th and to the Apogee on the 20th. He attains maximum declination on the 8th and on the 22nd. He makes with the Sun the following aspects in this month:

New Moon	on	2nd	at about 6 p.m.
First quarter	on	9th	,, 9 a.m.
Full Moon	on	16th	,, 9 p.m.
Last quarter	on	25th	,, 1 a.m.

* The R.A. is always given on Sayana basis, while in the description of planetary movements, the longitudes are given on Nirayana basis; current Ayanamsa being 21° 50′ 4.2″.

MARS AND MERCURY

Mars starts on his journey from the 25th degree of Nirayana Virgo. He enters Libra on the 9th and goes upto the 15th degree.

Mercury begins to progress from the 26th degree of Nirayana Virgo. He enters Libra on the 4th and Scorpio on the 25th. He goes upto the 9th degree of Nirayana Scorpio comes to the Aphelion on the 14th and rises heliacally in the western horizon on the same day.

JUPITER AND VENUS

Jupiter commences to move on from the 8th degree of Nirayana Scorpio and goes upto 14th degree of the same sign.

Venus starts on from the 10th degree of Nirayana Leo and proceeds upto the 29th degree.

SATURN AND RAHU

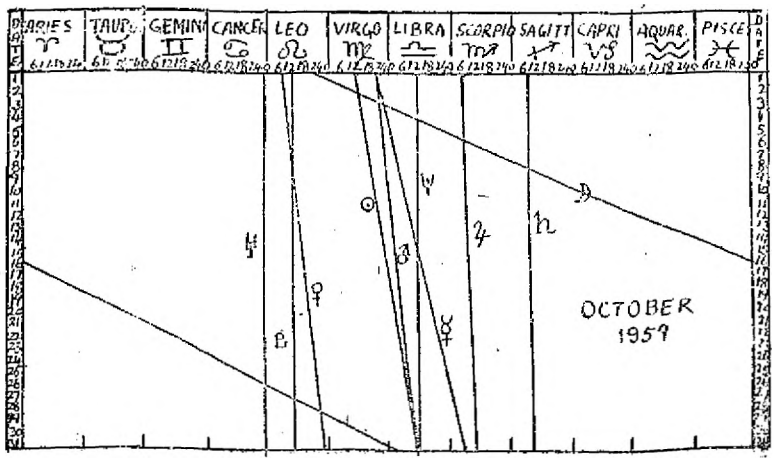
Saturn sojourns from the 10th to 12th degree of Nirayana Sagittarius.

Rahu moves back from 11° 46′ to 10° 10′ of Nirayana Virgo.

OTHER PLANETS

Uranus progresses on from 27° 49′ of Nirayana Cancer to 28° 54′ of the same sign.

Neptune moves on from 13° 47′ of Nirayana Libra to 14° 52′.



Pluto starts on from the 14th degree of Nirayana Leo and goes upto the 15th degree of the same sign.

LUNAR CONJUNCTIONS

The Moon will form conjunctions with planets in the following order :–

Rahu	on	2nd	at about 10 a.m.
Sun	on	2nd	,, 6 p.m.
Mars	on	3rd	,, 9 a.m.

HOW IS THIS MONTH?

be looked forward to as disappointment lies that way. But changes may occur in the background influences so as to favour your interests in general, or removal of impediments and obstacles to your future progress may take place. The same will be more or less the case with the profession and business which may register steady improvement throughout the month with minimum obstacles or setbacks.

Women.—Whether the month's results are to be considered as successful or failure will depend very much upon their attitude of mind there being not much in the planetary influences that can be called outright good or bad, especially in their dealings with the other sex. This month there will be a general broadening of their contacts with the opposite sex and plenty of opportunities will arise for forming attachments, as well as for courtships and love affairs. The results will be good, beneficial and permanent if the native acts discreetly. The one thing will be to avoid rashness, imprudence, too much excitement or being too eager and intemperate.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs, domestic matters, dealings with relatives—1, 3, 4, 8, 10, 14, 18, 23, 28; money dealings and transactions, financial enterprises—3, 6, 7, 12, 22, 24, 27, 29; short journeys—1, 6, 10, 14, 24, 25, 29; long journeys—1, 3, 7, 12, 14, 24, 29; real property affairs, educational and academical activities, tests, interviews—4, 10, 12, 17, 24, 26, 31; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, picnics, excursions, courtship and love affairs—4, 10, 12, 17, 24, 26, 31; service matters, dealings with superiors, servants, interviews—1, 6, 10, 14, 24, 25, 29; partnership business and dealings with opposite sex in general—3, 6, 7, 12, 22, 24, 27, 29; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased persons—1, 4, 8, 10, 14, 18, 23, 28; professional and business enterprises—3, 4, 6, 7, 12, 18, 27.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private matters, domestic affairs, dealings with relatives—6, 11, 13, 16, 20, 24, 31; money dealings and transactions, standing surety for others—5, 9, 13, 17, 21, 25, 30, 31; short journeys—8, 9, 12, 16, 20, 23, 27, 30; long journeys—3, 6, 8, 10, 13, 20, 23, 26, 30; real property matters, educational and academical activities, tests, interviews—1, 8, 11, 14, 18, 22, 29; speculation, children's prospects and affairs, picnics and excursions, courtship and love affairs—1, 8, 11, 14, 18, 22, 29; service affairs and prospects, dealings with superiors, servants, interviews—8, 9, 12, 16, 20, 23, 27, 30; partnership business, dealings with opposite sex in general—5, 9, 13, 17, 21, 25, 30, 31; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased persons—3, 6, 10, 13, 20, 24, 31; professional and business enterprises—2, 9, 14, 17, 20, 24, 26.

Chandrashtama from about forenoon of 19th till night of 21st.

8. Vrischika (Scorpio).—Jupiter in 1st; Saturn in 2nd; Kethu in 5th; Venus in 10th; Rahu in 11th; Sun and Mars in 11th and 12th; and Mercury in 11th, 12th and 1st.

General.—This month has not too much of good influences by transit, no planet being favourable for the entire month and the planets that are good for even part of the month being confined to two only. There are Mars and Sun who are good before change of sign on 9th and 15th respectively and these are under check throughout, good or bad. Mercury, Venus, Jupiter and Saturn are the evil transits of the month. Of these, Mercury alone is under check and the others are free. Thus, the evil elements are more numerous and more powerful also. The general results will only reflect this feature and the month may well prove to be a trying one. But the first half is likely to prove somewhat less troublesome. Losses, sorrows and anxieties, quarrels and misunderstandings, dishonour, troubles from rivals and enemies, undesirable friendships, tedious and wearisome journeys, delays in undertakings, adverse results in pending litigation, financial stress, loss of comforts, etc. may result from the evil transits in force during the second half with considerable freedom from all this during the first half. Of the three stars of the sign, the worst sufferers will be those born under Anuradha and those who suffer last will be those born with Jyeshta as their birth-star while those born under Visakha will fare moderately.

Health and Domestic.—Physical weakness and general ill-health will be almost a daily feature during the month and chronic ailments are likely to be lighted up and manifest acute exacerbations. Those habitually subject to eye troubles, fevers, etc., should naturally take appropriate precautions. The domestic circle will not be peaceful during the second half, especially and quarrels and misunderstandings with wife and other near relatives may arise and mar domestic peace and harmony. Death among relatives and close relatives may also occur plunging the mind in sorrow with much mental depression.

Finance and Speculation.—Loss of wealth, financial stress, increased expenditure will be the prominent features of the month's finances which however does not exclude the prospect of considerable gains and which are only liable to be lost again. As losses are indicated by almost all the transits during the second half considerable care in all money dealings and transactions and in financial enterprises should be exercised during this part of the month. It will be wise to discard all risky and foolish ventures. Speculation will appear no doubt attractive but if indulged in will result in heavy losses.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—The month is one that cannot be said to be favourable for real property interests nor will conditions be very bad during the month. During the first half, there may be some acquisition or exchange of some items of property that will prove helpful in the long run. But it would not be safe to have any such transaction during the second half. Nor would be wise to make heavy investments in improving land with a view to better yield or rentals as they may not have the desired effect. Therefore it would be better that only routine matters are attended to. There is nothing specially wrong with the services this month. The first half will prove even favourable and confer some strategic advancements though not actual betterment in status or position. The favourable elements should be utilised towards completion of your necessary qualifications, technical and otherwise to enable future advancement. You may also succeed in devising new and original methods which may gain you a good name and regard with your superiors, if they have practical value. The same is also more or less applicable to the business and the profession where original ideas may save work and expenses and result in increased gains and returns.

Women.—Broadly speaking, the first half is favourable for the interests of the fair sex but the second half is not. In the earlier portions of the month, much gains, socially and culturally can be made. Courtships and love affairs are likely to bring on good results finalising in permanent and lasting attachments. But there will be a tendency to free even extravagant expenditure which should be curbed. During the second half, the fair sex should be extremely careful in their social contacts and avoid flirtations which are likely to lead to dangerous and undesirable attachments. A liability to scandals and disgrace should be borne in mind throughout.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs, domestic matters, dealings with relatives—3, 6, 7, 12, 22, 24, 27, 29; money dealings and transactions, financial enterprises—1, 6, 10, 14, 24, 25, 29; short journeys—4, 10, 12, 17, 24, 26, 31; long journeys—3, 4, 6, 7, 12, 18, 27; real property affairs, educational and academical activities, tests, interviews—3, 4, 6, 7, 12, 18, 27; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, picnics and excursions, courtship and love affairs—1, 6, 10, 14, 24, 25, 29; service matters and prospects, dealings with superiors, servants, interviews—3, 6, 7, 12, 22, 24, 27, 29; partnership business, dealings with opposite sex in general—1, 4, 8, 10, 14, 18, 23, 28; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased persons—1, 3, 7, 12, 14, 24, 29; professional and business enterprises—6, 10, 11, 14, 22, 23, 26, 27, 29.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private affairs, domestic matters, dealings with relatives—5, 9, 13, 17, 21, 25, 30, 31; money dealings and transactions, financial enterprises, standing surety for others—8, 9, 12, 16, 20, 23, 27, 30; short journeys—1, 8, 11, 14, 18, 22, 29; long journeys—2, 9, 14, 17, 20, 24, 26; real property affairs, educational and academical activities, tests, interviews—12, 16, 20, 23, 27, 30; speculation, children's prospects and affairs, picnics and excursions, courtship and love affairs—8, 9, 12, 16, 20, 23, 27, 30; service affairs and prospects, dealings with superiors, servants, interviews—5, 9, 13, 17, 21, 25, 30, 31; partnership business, dealings with opposite sex in general—3, 6, 10, 13, 20, 24, 31; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased persons—6, 8, 10, 13, 20, 23, 26, 30; professional and business enterprises—2, 9, 12, 16, 20, 24, 25, 30, 31.

Chandrashtama from night of 21st till forenoon of 24th.

9 Dhanus (Sagittarius).—Saturn in 1st; Kethu in 4th; Venus in 9th; Rahu in 10th; Sun and Mars in 10th and 11th; Mercury in 10th, 11th and 12th; and Jupiter in 12th.

General.—Sun and Mars throughout the month and Mercury for the greater part are in favourable signs. Venus also is good for the entire month. Jupiter in 12th may not be considered as wholly unfavourable. Thus Saturn is the only planet that is evil for the whole month. But the advantage is not so great as it appears as the beneficial transits are under check at least half the time and Saturn is throughout check free. As it is, the month will yield only mixed results and the second half will be somewhat more favourable than the first. Gradual success, gains, good company, luxuries, success in enterprises, domestic facilities, enjoyments, good name and popularity, auspicious events and celebrations, study of new subjects and increase in knowledge are the good results due for the month generally. Still there may be necessity for tedious journeys and increased expenditure and some illness too may have to be suffered. But on the whole, the month will be quite tolerable in the net results and pass off normally. Of the three stars of the sign, those born under Uttarashada will fare best, next those born under Poorvashada and those with Moola as their birth star will come only last.

Health and Domestic.—There are no reasons to apprehend any serious troubles during the month with regard to the state of health in which only minor ailments may make their appearance and even this only occasionally. But the same thing cannot be said about the domestic circle. Quarrels inside the domestic circle, misunderstandings with wife and relatives may take place towards the close of the month which is most vulnerable in this respect. Peaceful and harmonious conditions will prevail more or less during the rest of the month.

Finance and Speculation.—So far as influx of wealth is concerned, the month will prove to be easily one of the best in the whole year. No doubt lord of 2nd is in first but ruler of first is in 12th. Therefore moneys will flow in and also flow out rapidly. Without drastically cutting off many items of expenditure, great pressure for money will be felt. But it is probable that valuable lessons in the art of husbanding your resources to meet urgent situations will be learnt if you exercise self-discipline. From whatever angle the matter may be considered, the month is not good for speculation.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—This month should prove to be a distinct improvement over the previous ones in matters generally related to real property. Conditions are also favourable for fresh additions to your holdings and yield and rentals will be satisfactory. But it cannot be said that conditions have capacity to right themselves in all respects. Much uncertainties and apprehensions continue to prevail as regards the future. Damage due to pests and other causes are also probable. There will still be difficulties placed in the way of your improvement to your holdings and in the management thereof and considerable tact and patience will be required to deal with some difficult situations that may arise off and on. The services are in for a good time this month and their affairs will generally prosper though not to the extent expected. In this respect, the second half will be a distinct improvement over the first. New position and honours, authority and power, success in the attainment of your objectives, —all this will be possible. In some peculiar cases, this month may mean enjoyments, touring, etc., being on leave or having a pleasant time in pursuance of your official work, journeying, etc. The month is also highly favourable for the business and the profession but results are likely to be met with only after hard striving and not easily, also not being proportionate to exertion involved.

Women.—So far as matters connected with women by reason of their sex, there is nothing that calls for mention during the first week or so which may be almost featureless. The middle part of the month is highly favourable for their interests in general and will pass off pleasantly, good company, parties and so forth. The closing part of the month cannot be said to be so good and there will generally be a falling off in the favourable trends. It will also be good to remember that this part of the month is particularly unsuitable for new attachments and alliances and it will be desirable to observe extreme caution before any commitments concerning matters affecting the heart, are made.

Fortunate Dates.–Personal and private affairs, domestic matters, dealings with relatives—1, 6, 10, 14, 24, 25, 29; money dealings and transactions, financial enterprises—4, 10, 12, 17, 24, 26, 31; short journeys—4, 10, 12, 17, 24, 26, 31; long journeys—6, 10, 11, 14; 22, 23, 26, 27, 29; real property matters, educational and academical activities, tests, interviews—1, 6, 10, 14, 24, 25, 29; speculation, children's affairs and prospects excursions, picnics, courtship and love affairs— 3, 6, 7, 12, 22, 24, 27, 29; service affairs and prospects, dealings with superiors, interviews, etc.—1, 4, 8, 10, 14, 18, 23, 28; partnership matters, dealings with opposite sex in general—1, 3, 7, 12, 14, 24, 29; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased persons—3, 4, 6, 7, 12, 18, 27; professional and business enterprises—1, 2, 3, 7, 12, 24, 29.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private affairs, domestic matters, dealings with relatives–8, 9, 12, 16, 20, 23, 27, 30; money dealings and transactions, financial enterprises, standing surety for others—1, 8, 11, 14, 18, 22, 29; short journeys—1, 8, 11, 14, 18, 22, 29; long journeys—2, 9, 12, 16, 20, 24, 25, 30, 31; real property affairs, educational and academical activities, tests, interviews—8, 9, 12, 16, 20, 23, 27, 30; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, picnics and excursions, courtship and love affairs—5, 9, 13, 17, 21, 25, 30, 31; service affairs and prospects, dealings with superiors, interviews—3, 6, 10, 13, 20, 24, 31; partnership matters, dealings with opposite sex in general —6, 8, 10, 13, 20, 23, 26, 30; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased persons—2, 9, 14, 17, 20, 24, 26; professional and business enterprises—6, 10, 14, 18, 22, 26, 30.

Chandrashtama from forenoon of 24th till sunset of 26th.

10 Makara (Capricorn).—Kethu in 3rd; Venus in 8th: Rahu in 9th: Sun and Mars in 9th and 10th; Mercury in 9th, 10th and 11th; Jupiter in 11th; and Saturn in 12th.

General.—Venus and Jupiter are the favourable planets for the entire month. But Jupiter is under check throughout while Venus is free. Mercury is good for nearly the whole month but is under check during the whole month whether good or bad. Sun and Mars become favourable after change of sign on 15th and 9th respectively. While Mars is under vedha throughout the month, Sun is free all along. Thus the only planet who is evil throughout is Saturn, but he too is under vedha. There is no lack of good influences for the month but not much is to be expected of them because of vedha. The evil elements are at the same time practically annihilated so that the general effect will be that the month will be fairly good, though the second half will be better than the first because of the greater number of good transits. Gradual and increasing success, accomplishment of your desires, gains, good and influential friends, general prosperity, happiness, triumph over rivals and enemies, auspicious events and celebrations, gains and enjoyment of articles of luxury, good health, etc. are the favourable results to be expected during the second half. During the first half, quarrels and litigation, irksome travels, obstacles in undertakings, unjust changes, humiliation, losses and worries, etc., are probable. Of the three asterisms of the sign, those born under Poorvabhadra and Uttarashada will fare better than those born under Moola.

Health and Domestic.—While it is likely that there are some troubles in health coupled with general debility during the first half, the second half will be almost trouble free. During the first half there is also a liability to injuries from accidents or through the handling of sharp things which should be noted. Care will be necessary to avert septic complications in case such accidents occur inspite of your care. In domestic matters too, the first half is the worse half. There may be quarrels, misunderstandings and in bad cases even separation. But all this will be only temporary and may even be rectified during the second half. In domestic matters especially, prevention is better than cure.

Finance and Speculation.—The transit influences are generally favourable with regard to money matters this month. During the first half however, it is probable that various difficulties and setbacks are met with and that even some emmities may arise on account of money. The second half is exceptionally favourable and will more or less compensate for the setbacks of the previous half. Gains through more sources than one and above average are probable. Financial enterprises will be attended with marked success. But it will be necessary to guard the outlet of the good elements of the month are to be fully exploited. Otherwise the month will prove only to be average. Speculative activities are not contra indicated but here again to make success out of such activities, rashness and taking of undue risks should be completely eliminated.

Real Property. Services, Profession, etc.–It is a probability almost amounting to certainty that new additions are made to your existing holdings are made during the month. This of course does not carry with it the implication that everything is alright in all matters pertaining to real property interests. But conditions will generally be better than has been the case for some time hitherto. Practical work in connection with lands, introducing innovations in the matter of ploughing, manuring and otherwise improving yield are likely to meet with good success. Also in the matter of increasing water supply by power pumps, etc., are also likely to yield good results in the long run though it may involve considerable capital outlay in the beginning, As may be expected, the second half is very good for the services and though no spectacular results are to be expected during the month itself, there will be steady progress, removal of impediments for future advancement and the assumption of responsible position in the management. You should become increasingly popular in the office and gain the confidence of those placed above you by devotion to your work. The profession and business are said to bound to advance gradually from the beginning of the month and the preferments will be quite satisfactory by the time the end of the month is reached.

Women.—This is an outright good month for the fair sex of all grades and types. But as in other matters, it is the second half that will be specially good. To those inclined to the study of art, music and allied matters, this part of the month may well provide the necessary inspiration that will enable them to succeed beyond expectations. To those who are worldly ambitious, the second half will bring them increased popularity and admiration from the other sex and they will experience success in all their social activities. The month has special significance for those who are pious and devout and have religious aspiration who may experience inner joy, illumination or a state of ecstacy according to the state of their spiritual development.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs, domestic matters, dealings with relatives—4, 10, 12, 17, 24, 26, 31; money dealings and transactions, financial enterprises—4, 10, 12, 17, 24, 26, 31; short journeys—3, 6, 7, 12, 22, 24, 27, 29; long journeys—1, 2, 3, 7, 12, 24, 29; real property matters, educational and academical activities, tests, interviews—3, 6, 7, 12, 22, 24, 27, 29; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, picnics, excursions, courtship and love affairs—1, 4, 8, 10, 14, 18, 23, 28; service affairs and prospects, dealings with superiors, interviews, etc.—1, 3, 7, 12, 14, 24, 29; partnership matters, dealings with opposite sex in general—3, 4, 6, 7, 12, 18, 27; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased persons—1, 2, 3, 7, 12, 24, 29; professional and business enterprises—1, 3, 4, 8, 10, 14, 18, 23, 28.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private affairs, domestic matters, dealings with relatives—1, 8, 11, 14, 18, 22, 29; money dealings and transactions, financial enterprises, standing surety for others—1, 8, 11, 14, 18, 22, 29; short journeys—8, 9, 12, 16, 20, 23, 27, 30; long journeys— 6, 10, 14, 18, 22, 26, 30; real property affairs, educational and academical activities, tests, interviews—5, 9, 13, 17, 21, 25, 30, 31; speculation, children's prospects and affairs, picnics and excursions, courtship and love affairs—3, 6, 10, 13, 20, 24, 31; service affairs and prospects, dealings with superiors, servants, etc.—6, 8, 10, 13, 20, 23, 26, 30; partnership business, dealings with opposite sex in general—2, 9, 14, 17, 20, 24, 26; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased persons—2, 9, 12, 16, 20, 24, 25, 30, 31; professional and business activities and enterprises—6, 11, 13, 16, 20, 24, 31.

Chandrashtama from about sunset of 26th till about midnight of 28th.

11. Kumbha (Aquarius).—Kethu in 2nd; Venus in 7th; Rahu in 8th; Sun and Mars in 8th and 9th; Mercury in 8th, 9th and 10th; Jupiter in 10th; and Saturn in 11th.

General.—Saturn is the only planet who is favourable for the entire month and he is free of vedha throughout. The only other planet who is good for at least part of the month is Mercury who moves in favourable signs during the first four days and during the last week only. He also suffers check. Sun, Mars, Venus and Jupiter all transit unfavourable signs only. But of these, Venus, Sun and Mars are throughout under vedha and their evil therefore does not amount to much. Jupiter too is under check for the greater part of the month. Thus neither the good nor the evil transits are powerful during the month but as the evil elements are in greater majority, this will predominate in a month of mixed results. Quarrels, bad associations, loss of status, enmities of elderly persons, humiliation. losses, illness, obstacles and setbacks in undertakings, tedious journeys, unjust accusations, undesirable and unwelcome changes, etc., are the sort of troubles that may have to be suffered during the month at least to some extent, though not seriously. Saturn in 11th is nothing special for this month but this benefic transit will help to make things bearable and is the only dependable good influence for the month. Of the three stars of the sign, those born under Poorvabhadra will fare best and suffer least, next best will be those born under Satabhisha. The worst sufferers will be those born under Dhanishta.

HOW IS THIS MONTH?

Health and Domestic.—High blood pressure, sufferings due to excessive heat, fever, loss of blood through accidents, cuts, etc., debilitating journeys, etc., will be so many forms of trouble this month generally. Prompt treatment in the case of accidents will be necessary to avert septic conditions. In the domestic circle too, conditions will not be happy. Wife and children too may take ill. Quarrels will take place. Friends and relatives may die causing much sorrows. In bad cases there may be even separation from one's own kith and kin temporarily. In all these matters, it can be expected that conditions will improve and be quite tolerable during the last week or so.

Finance and Speculation.—In the matter of finance however, the month will not prove so bad as may be apprehended for the predominance of evil transits. The situation will improve definitely as the month advances. Financial ventures are likely to succeed and the monetary position will become satisfactory. Still setbacks now and then will be inevitable and even losses may arise. Therefore considerable care will be required in all your dealings. But as regards speculation, there is no support whatever and disappointments and losses alone are probable. Even when conditions appear rosy and favourable, unexpected events will intervene and cause considerable difficulties and losses.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—Matters connected with real property come under conflicting influences, while yield, rentals and profits will continue to be faily satisfactory, relationship with tenants, agents, etc, are likely to worsen and cause much apprehension. Owing to various causes, the apprehensions are likely to arise because of danger to your ownership of the property as well and in bad cases may amount to even loss of property. It is not advisable to make big investments or expenditure this month as they may not turn out well or yield the expected results.. The services too will be more or less on the same footing, that is, they are also afflicted by conflicting influences. There are chances that you may incur the displeasure of your superiors or those in authority above you. You may suffer loss of status. There may be false changes against you or there may be unwelcome changes in work or environment. These are on account of the evil transits. But there are compensating influences also which will prevent matters going too far on anything and such troubles if any will have only a temporary existence. There is nothing special that calls for mention in respect of profession or business, They will have periods of depression as well as considerable activity within the month itself.

Women.—The month cannot be said to be favourable for the interests of the fair sex. In their social activities and contacts, they may have to encounter inharmonious and obstructive elements which are likely to cause them considerable heartaches. All this during the first half. The second half will be much better. Considerable help from elderly people will be forthcoming and this will serve to improve their prospects in general. They may be engaged in some serious enterprise in addition to their lighter activities and the unattached will have plenty of opportunities to get into wedlock or meet under favourable conditions those who will prove to be their spouse later on.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs, domestic matters, dealings with relatives—4, 10, 12, 17, 24, 26, 31; money dealings and transactions, financial enterprises—1, 6, 10, 14, 24, 25, 29; short journeys—3, 6, 7, 12, 22, 24, 27, 29; long journeys—1, 3, 4, 8, 10, 14, 18, 23, 28; real property affairs, educational and academical matters, tests, interviews—1, 4, 8, 10, 14, 18, 23, 28; speculation, children's prospects and affairs, picnics and excursions, courtship and love affairs —3, 4, 6, 7, 12, 18,27; service matters and prospects, dealings with superiors, servants, interviews—6, 10, 11, 14, 22, 23, 26, 27, 29; partnership matters, dealings with opposite sex in general —1, 2, 3, 7, 12, 24, 29; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased persons—1, 2, 3, 7, 12, 24, 29; professional and business enterprises —3, 6, 7, 12, 22, 24, 27, 29.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private affairs, domestic matters, dealings with relatives–1, 8, 11, 14, 18, 22, 29; money dealings and transactions, financial enterprises, standing surety for others—8, 9, 12, 16, 20, 23, 27, 30; short journeys—1, 5, 9, 13, 21, 25, 30; long journeys—6, 11, 13, 16, 20, 24, 31; real property affairs, educational and academical activities, tests, etc. —3, 6, 10, 13, 20, 24, 31; speculation, children's prospects and affairs, picnics and excursions, courtship and love affairs—2, 9, 14, 17, 20, 24, 26; service affairs and prospects, dealings with superiors, servants, interviews—2, 9, 12, 16, 20, 24, 25, 30, 31; partnership matters, dealings with opposite sex in general—6, 10, 14, 18, 22, 26, 30; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased persons—2, 9, 12, 16, 20, 24, 25, 30, 31; professional and business enterprises—5, 9, 13, 17, 21, 25, 30, 31.

Chandrashtama from the beginning of the month till afternoon of 3rd and again from about midnight of 28th till about midnight of 31st.

12. Meena (Pisces).—Kethu in 1st; Venus in 6th; Rahu in 7th; Sun and Mars in 7th and 8th; Mercury in 7th, 8th and 9th; Jupiter in 9th; and Saturn in 10th.

General.—Jupiter in ninth, an influence that has become proverbial for its good effects in transit, and the only good transit for the month is without much potency because of vedha throughout. Saturn in tenth which can be said to be outright good or evil is free of check. From 4th to 25th Mercury is in a good sign but under check. Venus, Sun and Mars all transit evil signs only. But Sun and Mars are under check while Venus alone is free. Whatever may be the outcome of the blending of such elements as above, the month cannot yield much of good and mixed effects with the evil content predominating will alone eventuate. Health troubles, tedious and wearisome journeys, quarrels with friends and relatives, undesirable associations and company, varied anxieties and worries, obstacles in undertakings, unjust imputations, losses and litigation are the results due for the evil transits. Prosperity, success in undertakings, efficiency, gains and increased returns generally are the indications of the favourable transits. What is specially to be guarded against during the month is a liability to quarrels which may end in dishonour and disgrace for you if you are not careful enough to avoid them altogether. Of the three stars of the sign, those born under Poorvabhadra and Revati will fare best and even scarcely feel the ill-effects at all, while those born under Uttarabhadrapada will have to suffer most.

Health and Domestic.—Digestive, rectal and urinary troubles are the ailments that may be caused by some of the evil transits. Those subject to chronic fevers may have an attack unless proper precautions are taken. Those subject to high blood pressure should take readings now and then and take measures to prevent its going higher. Eye troubles too may arise off and on. Domestic quarrels, disputes with friends and relatives, mental agonies and all kinds of anxieties and apprehension will mar peace and happiness. Accidents may happen and if injuries are caused prompt measures should be directed to prevent sepsis and other complications.

Finance and Speculation.—It cannot be expected that finances for the month will be satisfactory and success in enterprises cannot be taken for granted. Even if there is success in some of them, losses in others will reduce the net result to nil balance. Therefore it is better to refrain from taking much risks though the prospects of success may appear tempting. This month should be especially avoided for the beginning of joint ventures in money matters or taking undue responsibility on behalf of others in respect of obligations. Though the month cannot be said to be so bad for speculative activities in general, it would be wiser to avoid them altogether as the balance of gains over losses will be very negligible and not worth all the time and trouble.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—The general conditions with regard to real property matters will be only depressing but in the matter of usual income from lands, houses, etc., there may not be much changes for the worse. It is even probable that there is some slight improvement. The month is not propitious for making innovations or fresh investments; nor is it favourable for commencing litigation in vindication of your rights, unless of course exceptional conditions present themselves. On occasions, you will be sorely tempted to take the law into your hands but if you do so the consequences are unpredictable. You should avoid taking suggestions from interested persons who are liable to lead you astray. The overall picture in the case of the services is not however so discouraging as in other matters, though your position and good name may be assailed on occasions especially during the second half. But if you stick to routine and do nothing auspicious or rash and not thus aggravate the situation by your own actions, the influences will pass you by, as there are good background influences also to back you up. The profession and business too can achieve good results but only by dint of hard work and strenuous efforts. It is not an easy month.

Women.—This is a month in which the fair sex will have to confine their activities to familiar surroundings and more or less run a routine course as the vibrations during the month are not conducive to their best interests. Frayed nerves will be the result if they exert themselves too much either physically or emotionally. Attending or giving parties should be avoided as far as possible and the time spent mostly in quiet and peaceful surroundings. Functional troubles if and when they arise should be promptly treated by best medical advice as carelessness or bad treatment may lead to psychic and allied troubles.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs, domestic matters, dealings with relatives—1, 6, 10, 14, 24, 25, 29; money dealings and transactions, financial enterprises—3, 6, 7, 12, 22, 24, 27, 29; short journeys—1, 4, 8, 10, 14, 18, 23, 28; long journeys—3, 6, 7, 12, 22, 24, 27, 29; real property affairs, educational and academical activities, tests, interviews—1, 3, 7, 12, 14, 24, 29; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, picnics, excursions, courtship and love affairs—3, 4, 6, 7, 12, 18, 27; service matters in general, dealings with superiors, servants, etc.—6, 10, 11, 14, 22, 23, 26, 27, 29; partnership matters, dealings with opposite sex in general—1, 2, 3, 7, 12, 24, 29; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased persons—1, 3, 4, 8, 10, 14, 18, 23, 28; professional and business enterprises—1, 6, 10, 14, 24, 25, 29.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private affairs, domestic matters, dealings with relatives—8, 9, 12, 16, 20, 23, 27, 30; money dealings and transactions, financial enterprises, standing surety for others—1, 5, 9, 13, 17, 21, 25, 30, 31; short journeys—3, 6, 13, 20, 24, 31; long journeys—5, 9, 13, 17, 21, 25, 30, 31; real property affairs, educational and academical activities, tests, interviews—6, 8, 10, 13, 20, 23, 26, 30; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, picnics, excursions, courtship and love affairs—2, 9, 14, 17, 20, 24, 26; service affairs and prospects, dealings with superiors, servants, interviews, etc.—2, 9, 12, 16, 20, 24, 25, 30, 31; partnership matters, dealings with opposite sex in general—6, 10, 14, 18, 22, 26, 30; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased persons—6, 11, 13, 16, 20, 24, 31; professional and business enterprises—8, 9, 12, 16, 20, 23, 27, 30.

Noteworthy Features

(1) The Tables have been prepared for places in all Latitudes from 0° to 60° N., 57°, 58° and 59° excepted. Therefore the Tables can be used by students all over the world.

(2) The positions of the Houses or Bhavas are given for every 2½ minutes of Sidereal Time, while almost all extant Tables gives the houses for intervals of 4 mts. or 5 mts. of Sidereal Time.

(3) The Sphutas of non-angular houses have been calculated according to Sripathi.

Scanned by www.sadanandhoroscopy.com For Praises On B V Ramans Work

(4) The Sphutas or mid-points of houses are given correct to a minute and not to a degree as in most other Tables.

(5) The Tables can also be adapted for South latitudes by using the method described on page ix of the Tables.

(6) Students of Western Astrology can also use the Tables to get Sayana Maps by applying the appropriate value of Ayanamsa, as given in Table III.

There are no Tables extant amongst Hindus and the Nirayana Tables of Houses just published will be of immense practical use to every student of Astrology enabling him to calculate easily and quickly the exact degree of the Lagna and the Bhavas.

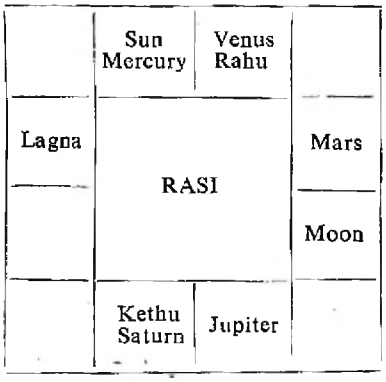
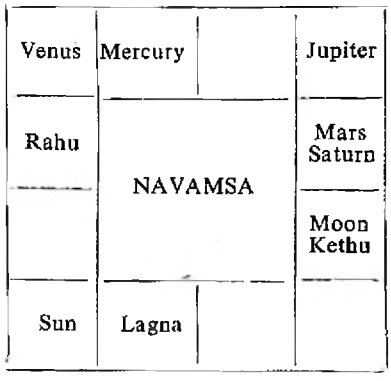
HOROSCOPE OF PROPHET MAHAMUD

THE Prophet was born on 20th April 571 A.D.* (O.S.) at 1-10 a.m. (Lat. 21° 20' N., Long. 40° 14' E.), when the Nirayana planetary positions were as follows:—



The Sun 28° 45'; the Moon 136°; Mars 90° 35'; Mercury 2° 24'; Jupiter 209° 50'; Venus 39° 29'; Saturn 211° 46'; Rahu 35° 31'; Kethu 215° 31'; Lagna 304° 47'; and 10th house 227° 1'.



Aquarius rising with Scorpio in navamsa seems to fit in with the traditional description of Mahamud, as "of middle height, greyish, with hair that was neither straight nor curly, with a large head, broad-shouldered with thick hands and feet". The lord of Lagna Sani is actually in the 10th bhava and with Jupiter in bhava association and with Kethu in rasi association. Lagna is rendered strong by Lagnadhipathi or Ascendant lord, Saturn being in close association with Jupiter who also aspects Lagna. Aquarius is a mystic sign and consistent with the nature of Saturn, the Prophet "lived a life of severe simplicity". The 2nd lord being Jupiter and the 2nd house being unafflicted gave him a "deep and pleasant voice". The karaka of the mind Moon is in Leo aspected by Saturn, Lagnadhipathi. In the navamsa again, the Moon is afflicted. Consequently (it is said)

*The data given by Prof. B. S. Rao in Royal Horoscopes appears to be correct but not the kundali. The rectified time of birth is 1-10 a.m. Prof. Md. Abdul Khaleque, in a letter addressed to me observes thus regarding the Prophet's birth details: "As to the month of the birth of the Prophet, the opinions also differ. The majority of the opinions are that he was born in the month of Rabiul Awal. One or two narrators have said that he was born in the month of Ramadan. It has been proved that the latter are not at all reliable persons, so their words cannot stand against the words of the most trustworthy and vastly that "he was in the habit of giving violent expression to the emotions of anger and mirth". The last days of the Prophet, however, (Guru dasa) were remarkable for their calmness and serenity of mind. The 4th house is highly afflicted indicating that he was illiterate.

karaka. In his own house in the 4th Venus gets the positional as well as directional strength while his association with Rahu and his being aspected by Saturn renders him afflicted. The lord of the 7th is exalted and is in the last navamsa, aspected both in Rasi as well as in Navamsa by Jupiter. The Prophet married eleven wives, and the first wife Khadija was a widow and was his senior by 15 years. Mark Rahu-Venus association.

According to classical texts, when the Sun is in a Dusthana and the Lagna is in the Dwadasamsa of Pisces or Leo, the native would be a posthumous child. It will be seen that in the Prophet's horoscope, the Sun is in the 3rd and the Lagna has fallen in Pisces Dwadasamsa, suggesting clearly that he was a posthumous child. Mark the fortification as well as affliction of Venus, Kalatra-

Two powerful Rajayogas are to be found—one in the 3rd house by the association of the Sun (lord of the 7th) and Mercury (lord of the 5th) aspected by Jupiter lord of the 2nd and 11th; and the other having reference to the 10th by the mutual aspects of Lagnadhipathi Saturn and the Yogakaraka Venus. Jupiter the planet of wisdom is in the 9th or Dharmasthana aspected by Mars, lord of Karmasthana, who in his turn has obtained Neechabhanga and is Vargottama and hence strong par excellence. The emphasis on the 9th and 10th—in-learned scholars of the age. So it is certain that he was born in the month of Rabiul Awal. As to the date of his birth almost all the historians are of the opinion that he was born on the 12th of Rabiul Awa corresponding to the month of April, 571 A.D." The views of the great historians and the traditions of the Prophet clearly indicate that he was born on the 12th of Rabiul Awal. The Halabi taking all the different views together and judging the merits of the assertions in the critical light, has shown that it can undoubtedly be said that he was born on the 12th of Rabiul Awal.

volving Jupiter and Saturn—Kethu gives us the clue as to the methods adopted by the Prophet in spreading his doctrines, especially his encouragement of the shedding of kindred blood in the cause of Islam. He wanted to spread his Dharma (Jupiter in the 9th) but the means (Karma) was in consonance with the nature of Mars. In the navamsa again, it will be seen that Mars and Saturn are in the 9th.

His mother died in his 6th year when he was having Sukra Dasa Rahu Bhukthi. Mark the position of these two planets in the house of the mother. Marriage with Khadija, a widow and senior to him by 15 years took place when the Prophet was 25, during the Moon's Dasa Sani Bhukthi. It will be seen that the major lord is in the 7th from Lagna and the sub-lord Saturn owns the 7th from the Moon and occupies the 7th from Kalatra-karaka. His flight to Yathrib initiated the Mohammedan era (Hijira) and this happened in Rahu Dasa Sukra Bhukthi. Mark again the disposition of these two planets in the 4th. The turning point in his career began in the same year and under the same directional influences. The campaign of Mahamud for the spread of Islam involving violence took place in Rahu Dasa. Mutual aspects between Rahu and Saturn are not desirable. One of his sons died in Guru Dasa Sani Bhukthi. It is significant that the major lord Jupiter is aspected by the Sun a maraka and Mercury the sub-lord is associated with the maraka planet Sun. In the navamsa, again, Jupiter as owning a maraka place is in the 8th while Mercury is lord of another maraka from the Moon.

In the world's religious history, Mahamud is certainly of a most extra-ordinary character. He was a Prophet, philosopher and politician. The peculiar disposition of Jupiter in the 9th, Lagna-dhipathi in the 10th and the Sun and Mercury in the 3rd and Venus in the 4th —each powerful in its own way, and each bringing into play its peculiar indications due to ownership, association, etc., render the horoscope a remarkable one. Mahamud influenced the world in no ordinary way. Deep thinkers who have studied his works carefully admit the grandeur of his religious system and the depth of his wisdom and all this is due to the blessings of Jupiter's position in the 9th. Moksha-karaka Kethu's situation in the 10th in the house of Mars is significant. This made Mahamud a real gnani but because the sign involved is that of Mars, he did not adopt an entirely peaceful method to propagate his religion. The Prophet has influenced the lives of millions of his followers during the last thirteen centuries and the clue to his unique personality is to be found in his horoscope.

A Rational Approach to Directional Prognostication

BY DR. P. S. SASTRI, M.A., M.LITT., Ph.D. (DOUBLE)
University of Saugor, Saugor (U. P.)

"WITHOUT a reliable and complete system of directing, all natal astrology tends to remain vague and abstract". Having stated this candidly, Mr. Carter proceeds to observe that "all candid astrologers will admit that none of our present systems give entirely satisfactory results". In his 'Introduction to Radix System', Mr. Robson pleads for a method which can combine "the wealth of directions and the definiteness of predictions of the primary system with the ease of the working of the secondary". Some systems of directing take a day after birth as equivalent to one year. Others progress the Sun and the M.C. by one degree or 59' 8" per year after birth. Still others take the solar return or the lunar return or both. When we look at the arcs of progression given by various authorities, we are bound to be confused.

Before we proceed let us have a look at the confusion into which the astrological authorities are pleased to throw us. Frankland wants to apply 4°/7 or 34 2/7 minutes per every year after birth and also to apply 3°/7 or 25 5/7 minutes per year. Carter leaves it to us to choose one of these; and then we have to combine it with one degree and 2½ degrees progression per year. He accepts Frankland's view that 4°/7 arc is malefic while 3°/7 measure is benefic. And in his 'Principles of Horoscopic Delineation' he observes: "If I abandoned all others, I would at least retain the 1° to a year measure". Dutt proposed that 3° 36' to be added per every year after birth. Dutt got this arc by dividing the total degrees of the zodiac by one hundred. If we can divide it by 100, we have a better justification to divide it by 120 which is at the basis of the Vimshottari system. Actually we step into the land of symbolism when we take up directional progression. Any such symbolical progression must apply uniformly to every house and to every planet in any given nativity.

When the individual is born, he has a certain configuration of planets and other astral bodies; and these are with the individual. As he grows, so do they. This rate of growth depends on the intellectual, moral and spiritual growth of the individual. On the purely physical plane the rate of growth can be a fixed unit per year. But man is more than a physical object. As such the rate of progression is bound to vary from individual to individual; and it also varies from one period to another in the life of the same individual. This appears to be the truth underlying the method advocated by Mr. Robert Yaget in his paper in the 1957 Annual Number of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE.

Most of the arcs of progression per year vary from 57 minutes to 65 minutes; and only a few go beyond or below these figures. The arc may be obtained either from the rate in which the Sun's apparent motion is found after birth; or one may take recourse to the motion of the Moon, or to the sidereal time. We have to enquire whether we can fix the approximate measure of progression.

As we advance, we are carrying with us the zodiacal pattern found at the moment of our birth. There should then be a corresponding advance in every cusp and in the position of each planet. The whole zodiac symbolised as the nativity affects us; and consequently the zodiac in its entirety represents the maximum possible duration of a man's life. When we divide the 360 degrees of the zodiac by this maximum duration, we may also be able to get the average arc per year. And this very complicated job can be solved if we have a scientifically accurate method to determine the longevity of any nativity. But then new problems may crop up. And we can only experiment with the system of directions, before we can arrive at any certain measure. Now we have, for good or bad, the Vimshottari system which gives us a maximum of 120 years. In view of reports of people living beyond 120, we may have to revise this figure. The degrees of the zodiac are exactly divisible by 120; and we can then take up any figure which can so divide 360. Thus we can have an average arc of 2 or 3 or 4 or 5 or 6 degrees per year. And if we consider the horoscope to represent a connecting link between the past life and the future life of an individual, we can have an average measure of one degree. And for purposes of this paper, we propose to show how the average arc of one degree and the average arc of three degrees actually work.

In the actual working of the directions, the entire emphasis shifts to the aspects formed between the radical and progressed positions. No aspect is good or bad in itself. Its precise nature depends on the nature of the planets, on their relation to the ascendant, and on their location. Next we have to consider the observation of Robert Yaget that the actual event may not take place exactly at the time when an aspect is formed. This he designates the time-lag. In other words every aspect has a certain orb. It extends. If it extends in one direction, it can as well extend backwards. Then the period covered by an orb will be something like a vidasa or a minor period within a sub-period. Can we overcome the conception of a time-lag ?

Consider the nativity of Mahatma Gandhi (Chart I). His death took place when he completed 78 years and four months. If we take the 2° measure we need a progression of 156° for Saturn to effect an exact opposition to Mars. Four or five months prior to this period we can find the progressed Mercury in opposition to Sun. This would easily give an average arc of 1° 59′ 26″. When he was sentenced on 18–3–1922, Mercury, the lord of the house of incarceration and confinement, has a square with Mars. This measure, however, does not give us any adverse direction for the death of his wife. Nor is the ascendant involved here in any way.

If we apply the three degree arc we may be able to explain some facts easily. If the M.C. progresses by 226° 27′, it will have a square with Saturn; and at that time the progressed ascendant will be in opposition to Saturn. If this were the time of the death, then it will work to an arc of 2° 53′ per year at an average. By 18–3–1922 we find Venus progressing by 155° 19′ to make a square with Uranus. At this rate, the Moon has a square with the ascendant and Saturn is in conjunction with Pluto. This will give an average of 2° 58′ per year. Here is no question of a time-lag. When Mercury advanced by 218° 36′ he came into opposition with Saturn; and this coincides with Saturn's conjunction with Uranus and with the Sun's conjunction with Pluto in the seventh. These aspects can account for the death of his wife. This would give an arc of 2° 57′.

This method takes all the cusps and planets to a distance of roughly 180 degrees when the individual completes sixty years; and the completion of the sixtieth year is even now looked upon as a critical period in the life of the individual. The planets come to their 'fall'.

This method can explain many cases. George VI gets his progressed Saturn to the 7th house in square to Jupiter by February 1952; and at this time the Moon will be in opposition to progressed Mars. Here the arc comes to a little more than three degrees. In Hitler's nativity his progressed Saturn squares Sun by August 1945; and the arc is 2° 50′ per year.

Inspite of this, it may be simpler to work with an average of one degree arc per year. Consider Chart II. With the one degree arc it will not be possible to eliminate the time-lag. This native failed narrowly in 1944 in his matriculation. That was when he completed 14¼ years. Now progressed Jupiter, squares Moon at 14° 0′, and Sun opposed Uranus at 14° 3′. This gives an arc of 58′ 29″ and the event can be said to occur within a couple of months. After a progression of 15° 6′ Sun conjunction M.C. operates and this will take us to 1945 March when he passed. In 1947 when he passed his Intermediate examination, after a progression of 16° 44′ Saturn squares M.C., and Jupiter opposes the ascendant. Moon comes to oppose Mars at 18° 30′ and to square Pluto at 19° 22′. Now 18° 30′ works to September

1948 and 19° 22′ comes to 1949 July. It was by March 1949 that there appeared symptoms of a disorder; and this evidently means that the Moon's aspect has resulted in an event six months after its formation. It was in January 1950 that he discontinued his studies abruptly and began to develop hypochondria. This gives an average arc of 58′ 38″ per year. Then in succession we find Moon opposing Mercury 21° 20′ (19–7–1951), Neptune squaring Saturn 22° 13′ (25–6–1952), Sun squaring Pluto 23° 27′ (1–9–1953), Venus squaring Jupiter 23° 38′ (7–11–1953), Jupiter squaring Uranus 23° 58′, and Saturn squaring Mars 24° 13′ (1–7–1954). It was this last mentioned aspect that operated by the middle of March 1955 when the mental depression took a pretty bad turn resulting in confinement. Here the time-lag works to eight months and a half. The same Saturn took a little more than a year to operate when he squared Uranus at 15° 41′; and the result was an elder brother's death. But this Saturn opposed Pluto at 25° 5′ when the arc advanced to 58′ 57″ per year; and this was on 25–6–1955. The same confinement came nine months later.

This example enables us to believe that this method, first suggested by Robert Yaget, is workable. The only lag that lurks in this method is the orb of the aspects. After the aspect is exactly formed, one has to wait for the result. The orb of the aspects formed by the progressed Sun, Mars, Venus, Jupiter and Uranus appears to extend to nearly ten minutes, working to two months. The orb of Mercury extends to fifteen minutes. The orb of the aspects of Moon and Neptune extends to thirty minutes. The orb of Pluto at times extends to fifteen minutes. The orb of Saturn appears to extend from 30 minutes to one degree.

Before we apply this method of directing, we should know how we have to tackle any given nativity. Here it is impossible to better the statement of the position given by Mantreswara in his great treatise Phaladeepika. In our second chart, the trouble began at a time when Moon in the fourth came to be afflicted by Mars and Pluto The confinement involved the lords of the 2nd and the 12th houses. It is not the position by house, but by cusp that is always involved, The cusp or bhava plays a prominent part. All bhavas are capable of giving good results when they are occupied or aspected by their owners or by benefics without being afflicted. These planets, however, should not be in their depression or in inimical signs; nor should they be eclipsed, if we want them to give good results.

Any bhava, says Mantreswara, is strong and beneficial if the trines and squares and the 2nd house from that bhava are occupied by their own lords or by benefics. If they are malefics in these positions, the bhava becomes inauspicious. This is a valuable point since it determines the kind of results we can expect from any house.

If the lord of a bhava occupies the eighth from that sign, or if he is eclipsed or depressed, or if he is in an inimical house, and if all the while there is no benefic association to that bhava, then one can safely predict that the results of that bhava will be malefic in character. A similar result would follow if a bhava is occupied by a malefic who is not the owner of the bhava. Likewise if the 6th, 8th, 12th houses from a bhava have malefics, or if the lord of a bhava is 6th, 8th, 12th from that house, or if the lord of 6th, 8th or 12th occupies the bhava, the nature of that bhava becomes malefic. But inspite of all this, if it has a benefic association, the result will not be so bad. When the bhava, its lord, and the planet who can give the results of that bhava are weak and are located between malefics, or when they are associated only with malefics or inimicals, that bhava gives only malefic results.

The lords of the third bhava from the Moon and from the ascendant, the planets aspecting the eighth, the planets occupying the eighth, the lord of the 22nd decanate, and the worst malefic like Mars or Uranus are capable of destroying the cusp in association with which they are found. The cusp having the lord of the ascendant gets stronger for the good of that cusp.

A planet can be the owner of two houses. Then we should know which results will appear first. If one of the houses is its Moolatrikona, the results of this house will be felt in full. Counted from the ascendant, or from the bhava concerned or from the aspecting planet, the bhava that comes first in order will give its results first. But if a planet is in an odd house, the results of the odd house will always precede. We should, however, remember that a planet has maximum power only when it is in the centre of a bhava, not in the centre of a house.

The one-degree symbolic measure discussed above, is easy to apply. The time-lag it presents can be overcome by combining it with the Vimshottari (120 years) system of periods. A close examination of the three-degree method may throw fresh light on this problem. Consider Chart III. Progressed Mars in trine with Jupiter at 48° 32′ 14″; and this gives the date of marriage as 16–4–1936. The average arc of progression per year works to 2° 59′ 23″. At the completion of twenty-four and a half years, he joined his profession. Then progressed Sun was trine Jupiter at 73° 47′ 10″. This gives an arc of 3° 0′ 42″. Slowly the arc began to fall since there resulted an intellectual lethargy. Exactly one year later he narrowly escaped from a serious accident. Now progressed M.C. squared Pluto at 76° 41′ 1″ giving an average measure of 3° 0′ 26″ only, though for one year there is a fall of six minutes. In the following there were two serious calamities spread over a period of three months and twenty-three days. Now we find progressed Venus opposing Saturn at 79° 36′ 42″ and progressed Sun squaring Mercury at 80° 28′ 29″. The second was a brother's death and Mercury was involved. The arc works to 3° 0′ 13″. A change of place for better came early in 1948 when progressed M.C. came to a sextile with the Moon at 83° 8′ 48″ giving an arc of 2° 58′ 42″. A serious ailment ensued towards the end of the year when progressed Neptune had a semi-square with Venus at 85° 51′33″. Progressed Mercury squaring Sun at 99° 31′ 31″ brought a serious setback to his future plans. This was in July 1953, and the arc fell to 2° 58′ 31″. Another major setback came exactly three years later; and this time progressed Mars opposed Jupiter at 108° 32′ 14″. This three-degree measure seems to be capable of eliminating all time-lag.

Whatever system of directions we like to perfect, we have to keep in mind two factors of paramount importance in any prognostication. The first is the dasa system of 120 years which in itself is a system of directions. This is of great help in fixing up the exact time for an event; and the nature of an event can be read with the help of the dasa system and with that of the directional aspects.

The second factor refers to the modification of events brought forth by the transitting planets. It has been our experience that the influence of the transitting planets is capable of being read accurately only when we interpret the transits with reference to the radical Sun, Moon and Saturn, and also with reference to the radical M.C. and ascendant. Even then, as Mantreswara observed, Sun and Mars give results only when they transit the first decanate of a sign; Venus and Jupiter show their effects only when they are in the second decanate; and Moon and Saturn have their influence as they pass through the third decanate.

Apart from the usual rules enumerated by many an authority, there are a few principles to be remembered. If the malefic planets transit in 1, 3, 5, 7, 10, 19, 23 stars from the asterism at birth, there will be some trouble or danger. If a planet transits from one sign to another on a day having 1, 10 or 19 asterism from that of the birth, or if there is an eclipse or planetary war in any one of these asterisms, it forebodes some calamity. But if these planets are aspected by a benefic, or if they have the conjunction of a benefic, the evil is greatly minimised. Similarly if the signs having these asterisms are transitted by malefics who are the owners of these signs, then too there can be no evil effects.

Reckoning from the natal asterism, Mantreswara classifies all the stars to represent the whole body. He asks us to find out the asterism through which a planet transits. If that is a malefic transit, the part corresponding to the asterism will be affected. Thus for the Sun we get the following :—

Counting from the asterism at birth	Part of the body	Effect

The 1962 Eight-Planet Combination & World Affairs—A Symposium

[As readers are aware, there is going to be a combination of eight planets in Capricorn (Aquarius according to Sayana or the Movable Zodiac), in February 1962. The subject has been dealt with by us not only in August 1957 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE under the caption The Third World War, but reference has also been made to this great concentration of force in one part of the heavens, in our inaugural address to the All-Kerala Astrological Association, at Trichur. This unique celestial combination seems to have excited the curiosities of a large section of the educated public to such an extent that many of them have suggested the subject being discussed in a more detailed manner.

Those intending to participate in this symposium can prepare a suitable paper and send the same for publication. It is left entirely to one's discretion whether to interpret the combination astrologically or astronomically, on the basis of the Nirayana or Fixed Zodiac or Sayana or Movable Zodiac. You have to set out what in your opinion, are the likely results to happen as a consequence of this eight-planet combination in the world as a whole; with reference to the different countries; and/or in regard to individuals born in different signs. All points of view—whether based on ancient classical writings or on modern western texts or on one's own experience, are welcome.

PAPER No. 10—BY ALDO LAVAGNINI

A rare and outstanding celestial phenomenon is due for the first week of February 1962, with Mars entering there on February 2, in applying conjunction to Saturn, the six planets shall be found comprised between it and retrograde Mercury within the first 23° of tropical Aquarius, upon the sidereal background of the constellation of Capricorn. On the following night (February 3), the Moon also will join them, in conjunction with Mars and Saturn, while Mercury also comes in conjunction with Jupiter, and in the following day with Venus. On the subsequent night of February 4, the Moon will join the Sun near Kethu, at about 15° 40′ Aquarius (tropical), which therefore shall be eclipsed. On the night between February 5 and 6 (about sunrise for India), Venus will have attained the same longitude of Jupiter, and the two planets placed between the two lights but nearer to the Sun, shall be also very near in latitude and declination. The same shall occur with the Mars–Saturn conjunction at 4° Aquarius on the following day, with Mercury placed between them and the Sun.

A panoply accompanied by an eclipse, shortly followed by the conjunctions of the benefics and malefic planets respectively, with Mercury and the Moon running in contrary sense between them, and with all the seven planets very near on the south side of both the equator and ecliptic, is a powerful configuration, and its impact is bound to be felt geophysically, no less than on the human events which may follow it in the same year, as also in the following one.

Since the eclipse shall occur at about 21 h. 30 m. in London and 3 a.m. (I.S.T.), the phenomenon may be visible in Eastern Asia and the Pacific region, up to the Eastern coast of America before sunset. Its influence shall be felt more strongly in Central Europe, where it will come on the lower meridian, and at the rising and setting lines, respectively, together with the path of its shadow over our planet, between these two lines.

As we have seen, we have really the combination of four phenomena, the one overshading the others, all of them comprised within the first 20° of tropical Aquarius, between the Mercury conjunction with Jupiter and the direct station of that same planet:

(1) an eclipse at the mid-point between the winter solstice and the spring equinox—a very sensitive point of the ecliptic, since it is a cusp in its eightfold division;

(2) the Venus–Jupiter conjunction at 19° Aquarius, within 1° of the Nodal line, and therefore on the very path of the Moon and preceded by their occultation;

(3) the Mars–Saturn conjunction below the forepart of Aquila, in the intermediate nakshatra of Abhijit (Vega);

(4) the Moon's passage between these two conjunctions, before and after the eclipse respectively, with Mercury running backward also between them.

Whichever the Ayanamsa chosen, those 20° are unmistakable under the Makara constellation, with Mars and Saturn near its head stars, and the other planets nearer to the hind part and below Delphinus, in the Sravana nakshatra (Altair). We must, therefore, take account of these three constellations as the starry background of the first 20° of tropical Aquarius, together with this particular section of the yearly rhythm of life.

In addition to the above we should consider the position of the more recently discovered planets: Uranus and Pluto, at 29° Leo and 9° 30′ Virgo respectively, the first is so near to Regulus or Magha and the second to Zosma or Purvaphalguna. These are approaching their conjunction in the same sidereal constellation of Leo, in VIIth or VIIIth house to the planetary stellium. Lastly, Neptune is very near to the middle point of tropical Scorpio, in a square relationship with the major assemblage.

Together with the navamsa chart, familiar to Hindu astrologers, it may be further interesting to notice the Dwadasamsa positions of the same planets, from the tropical viewpoint. These old Dodecatomoria were highly honoured by the Greek astrologers, as "a means to discover that which is concealed" in the usual chart, in a very similar way to the navamsa or novenary division.

The decanate chart of the eclipse shows the two lights in Leo, together with Mercury, opposite to Mars solitary in Aquarius; the other planets, with the exception of Uranus and Pluto, occupying together with the two Nodes, the two opposite divisions of Pisces and Virgo: Saturn, Neptune and Rahu in Pisces; Venus, Jupiter and Kethu in Virgo; Uranus in Cancer and Pluto in Sagittarius.

If we consider the Nodal Chart—a movable lunar zodiac beginning with Rahu, which may be divided either in 9, 12 or 27 equal sections—we have there Uranus and Pluto in the first division corresponding to Aries, while the stellium, at the moment of the New Moon, comes in the division corresponding to Virgo, with the exception of Jupiter solitary in the following one. However, if we use the ninefold division, all seven planets are in the same one, apportioned between the first two ones of its three movable mansions. In any case, from this viewpoint, the angularity of Venus, Jupiter, Uranus and Neptune is more especially stressed.

Heliocentrically the stellium becomes sub-divided in two parts: Saturn, Jupiter and Venus over the background of Capricorn (tropical Aquarius from the earth viewpoint), the earth together with the Moon, Mercury and Uranus on the opposite side, i.e., in the Cancer constellation, with the exception of Uranus which is with Pluto over Leo, while Mars comes over the hind part of Sagittarius. Since the best division of the heliocentric zodiac is the one naturally made by the Via Lactea, we have from this viewpoint, with Neptune, a powerful T configuration in the fixed signs.

Scanned by www.vedicastrologyinstitute.com Digitized by eGangotri

From which it may be easy to deduct that the impact of this configuration will be felt very powerfully in the whole solar system, modifying the quality of the Sun radiations. What is an extraordinary conjunction from our earthly viewpoint is, however, a more than ordinary opposition from the viewpoint of the Sun and Mercury, with Jupiter, Venus and Saturn arrayed, as it were, against our planet and its satellite, and Mercury, placed between the earth and the Sun. Since, however, the stronger impact on our planet is from the two benefics Venus and Jupiter, in some way the evil may be minimised, so that the shocking effects from this "excess of goodness" are more likely to be ultimately good, and constructive rather than the contrary.

The more evident and strong felt among these effects shall, of course, be the geophysical ones: even from a purely material viewpoint, the greatest weight of the solar system, coupled with that of our own satellite, pulling at one side of our globe and planetary field, cannot avoid but to produce some disturbance on the four elements and our space itself. It may be particularly unsafe, on those first days of February, to travel either on air or sea, and even in some place, to sleep in a house. Especially in those parts where there have been previous seisms, it may be a measure of prudence to sleep in the open, or in an equivalent comparatively safer habitation.

An eclipse in the second decanate of Aquarius is said to "damage the seeds" that have been sown with the additional evil effect of the Mars–Saturn conjunction, later sowing in that year may be safer than early.

Is there danger of war? We live in a dangerous time, when military expenditure and so-called defence usually take the larger part of a power budget, the greater ones building a stock of very dangerous weapons, so danger cannot be absolutely excluded at any time. We may, at most, speak of greater probability.

The Mars–Saturn conjunction in a human sign, below the Eagle and so near to the two chief horn stars of the Goat (Alpha and Beta), is very apt to stimulate some warlike action, both on air and earth. To it we must add the VIIIth house ray of Uranus and Pluto joined to those Leo stars. However, both lights leave this conjunction, applying to the one of Venus–Jupiter, even while these planets are said to be combust: an eminently peaceful and constructive combination, favouring agreement and goodwill generally. Even taking account of the affliction by Kethu and the Neptune square, we would say that the precipitation of a third World War at this time, or in this year, is comparatively unlikely.

There may be danger, of course, but a still greater danger, in our opinion, will come at the time of the Uranus–Pluto conjunction in opposition to Saturn, in 1965. Something, however, is bound to happen, and not one thing but several ones, of a more or less spectacular nature: unsolved problems and unstable situations are the weak sensitive spots, most likely to be stimulated and react under the impact of this unusual configuration.

With such powerful Saturn, for instance, and the negative influence of Kethu, strikes are no less likely than military actions, while on the other hand, the Venus–Jupiter conjunction, in such a sign, will favour religion, cultural enterprises, and some great peace move or movement. Progressive movements, generally, may be powerfully stimulated, as well as congresses possibly may have summit conference. Agreement in any issue may come more easy and seem more necessary at this time.

Two countries are very probably to be strongly affected by this configuration, not so much because of a hypothetical rulership or a traditional one of tropical Aquarius and sidereal Capricorn, respectively, Russia and India. In both cases the panoply comes in opposition to a similar if lighter stellium, in tropical Leo and sidereal Cancer, which presided to their actual political birth: the Bolshevic counter-revolution of November 1917, and the Indian Independence and partition in August 1947.

Within one degree, more or less, the eclipse comes on the M.C. for Delhi of the Independence Chart for midnight August 14–15, 1947. While Jupiter opposes the Sun, the opposite side of earth comes exactly on the position, occupied by Venus, 15° 42' Leo, near that Pluto–Saturn conjunction, which we may consider symbolic of the partition itself. Since the chart is an eminently political one, the eclipse should affect India mostly politically, and since the New Moon is in conjunction with the two (or three) benefics—combustion apart—that influence should be mostly on the benefic or constructive side; it could well mean her reunion with Pakistan, even while the way in which it takes place may not be an unmixed blessing.

For Karachi, it is the Mars-Saturn conjunction which comes nearest to the M.C. of the Independence Chart, while her ascendant is exactly square to the Venus-Jupiter conjunction. Because of these positions, some kind of revolution or political anarchy is much more likely to be the cause than war or a threat of war. We must remember that the same Independence Chart for Pakistan has Mercury on the fourth cusp, the planet of instability and change, while the chief benefic is just over the Western cusp; so that good may come to her mostly through association. A reasonable conclusion for a country which can hardly ever become self-sufficient, so that sooner or later her reunion with India, of which she is geographically a portion, seems to be her inevitable destiny.

As to Russia, the eclipse, which is also a Mercury conjunction, squares exactly the Sun-Mercury conjunction of the November 7 chart, at the same time opposing Saturn, while the Mars-Saturn conjunction opposes the place of the 1917 Saturn-Neptune conjunction, which presided to and stimulated the Bolshevic move. Something is bound to happen there, on the way to a greater degree of democratization (Aquarius), a more or less definite departure from the already so long enduring personal dictatorship which, with little variation, has been on the power since.

The Leo-ruling Sun in Scorpio is the natural signature of such dictatorship, since it is placed midway between the Saturn-Uranus opposition, this last planet means that which must ultimately defeat it. The eclipse, together with the Venus-Jupiter conjunction, so near to the Uranus position in the November chart, is very likely to be

Planets and Peace of Mind

BY S. SARAVANABHAVAN

NOTWITHSTANDING possession of riches, comforts and other conveniences in life, some feel disgusted with life and go even to the extent of suicide for reasons which may appear absurd to most of us. There are also people who lead a happy life amidst adverse conditions. The thing which may appear to one as a trifle may turn out to be a serious problem to another. One may give up his life for love while another may hunt after it as a hobby. How are these to be accounted astrologically? These are adjudged by reference to the afflictions and good positions of the planets. The native derives displeasure through the afflicted Bhava relations and pleasure through the well-placed planets and Bhavas. The affliction of a certain Bhava does not necessarily indicate negation of the things represented by that Bhava but it does, of course, delineate the unpleasant reaction of the mind of the native to the affairs of the afflicted Bhava; for, a person in affluence may have his 2nd Bhava afflicted and vice versa and the afflicted 2nd Bhava will shatter the peace of mind of the native through financial matters, etc. The mind of the native is so delicately formed at birth as for his radical planetary configurations that he takes the things humorously, lightly or seriously. And where all the malefics jointly throw their evil powers upon one Bhava, such a native will be the worst afflicted by the matters connected with that Bhava that he will even try to put an end to his own life through it regardless of his other fortunes in life. Let us go into the details of the Bhavas to have a clear idea of this article.

Seventh Bhava—In affliction.—The native becomes discontented because of his failure in trying to get himself married or if he is married he curses himself for his unsatisfactory match

			Rahu
Jupiter Venus Kethu
Sun	Mars Mercury	Saturn

and married life. Even when he gets a fair and rich wife, imaginary suspicions of morality problems, etc., trouble his mind. And on any conditions, he tries to lose his peace of mind.

The above chart belongs to a person who got mentally deranged because of being unable to bear the unpopularity that rose against his fair wife's conduct. It can be seen from the chart that the 7th Bhava is occupied by Sun, a malefic by nature and rulership. It is besieged between the two malefics Mars and Kethu. Lord of the 7th is in depression in the 8th an evil house. Karaka Venus also is in 8th and Kethu is in conjunction with both the Karaka and Bhava lord. Saturn aspects the 7th, the Sun and the Moon. There is thus a series of bad influences around the 7th Bhava. It is no wonder that the native got mad (and is not yet relieved of that disorder) during the major period of the Sun and sub-period of Venus, vide the afflicted 7th house matters.

In good position.—The native is fond of his wife. Neither the bachelorship nor the loss of wife implant a serious mental shock as he naturally views it in an air of saintliness. He never troubles himself into discovering the nature of his wife even when he hears reports of scandal as he is quite confident of her character.

Sixth Bhava—In affliction.—The native is sad because of his incapacity to repay his debts. He curses his misfortune which led him to borrow or that there is none to lend him in his dire necessity. He unnecessarily worries himself that his present good health may one day fail and he may succumb to some diseases. His servants turn out mischievous and bother him. In case they are faithful, the native sees them with suspicious and vigilant eyes and mistakes their over-obedience for a show or bad intention.

In good position.—The native naturally never gets upset with credit items and he goes on borrowing to keep up a happy life. He may also be in such a position as not to go out for credits. He may be sickly and can have mischief-making servants, but he is so accustomed or so strong in mind by nature that he does not care for these simple things. He may also be healthy and strong in constitution.

Fifth Bhava—In affliction.—The native feels unhappy for want of a child; if he has children, for lack of their good health, intelligence or conduct as the case may be. He is ready to renounce his worldly possessions and even his life for the cause of love. He loses by speculation and loses joy each time he fails in it. If he gains something in it, he is displeased that it is not up to the mark of his expectations.

In good position.—That he has no children or that his children lack in intelligence, health or conduct, does not trouble his mind; sometimes he finds pleasure in prattling about his children's graces. He is successful in love affairs; or he hunts after love as a hobby unmindful of the success or failure attending on such pursuits. He gains by speculation and is content and glad. Though he loses each time in the speculation, he does not lose heart as he has hopes still that he may win one day or the other during his lifetime.

The following is the chart of a native who committed suicide in love affairs (i.e., he could not marry the lady he loved).

Rahu			Jupiter
			Lagna Mars
Saturn	Mercury Venus	Sun	Moon Kethu

Lord of the 5th (Mars) is in debility. The dispositor of Mars (Moon) is cadent along with Kethu and is subject to the aspect of Saturn. 5th Bhava is hemmed in between the depressed Sun and Saturn. The Karaka of love (Venus) is in the Bhava of love (5th). This is a bad omen, when other evil influences also prevail.

Third Bhava—In affliction.—The native is too weak in mind to tolerate even the common difference of opinion arising between him and his brothers. He is ready to dart at them on the slightest provocation. He is disinclined to travel. And in necessity of travelling he feels uneasiness and displeasure.

In good position.—The person amicably adjusts himself with his brother on any circumstances. Even when they are aggressive, he deals with them patiently and intelligently and is glad that he has convinced them. Travels and communications afford him great pleasure.

The above are the charts of two brothers who have different views with regard to each other.

Native born under Chart A has his 3rd Bhava aspected by Jupiter from 9th and also his 3rd lord (Saturn) located in the 2nd Bhava in the sign of Jupiter. But, B has his 3rd Bhava lord (Moon) placed in the 12th along with the two malefics, debilitated Saturn and Kethu. Jupiter's aspect on the 3rd Bhava has however modified greatly the evil effects.

Second Bhava—(In affliction).—The native suffers from want of wealth. If he is rich, he is sad because of discontent, avarice and miserliness. His joy entirely depends on the figures entered in his Bank Pass Book. He is elated and depressed according to the addition and diminution in the figures.

In good position.—The native is rich. Though he may be poor, what he gets makes him happy. The wealth problem never troubles him either in prosperity or adversity.

The above is the chart of a person who experienced temporary mental derangement through the 2nd and 3rd Bhava affairs.

Lord of the 2nd (Moon) though exalted is in 12th along with Rahu. Aspect of Jupiter over Moon modifies the evil nature. Sun, lord of the 3rd, though exalted is along with depressed Saturn. Mars, the Karaka is in the 3rd Bhava which is inauspicious. The native has got good amount of wealth. However, his miserly and avaricious tendency lead him to quarrel frequently with his brother regarding financial settlement that he took it, by nature, too deep to heart as to experience madness temporarily during the major period of Rahu in the sub-period of Mars.

The U.S.S.R. and the Future of the World

[BY D. R. MUNSIF, B.Sc. (Econ.), (London), B.A. (Hons.), (Bombay).

WE are going to deal with the foundation theme of the Soviet Russia. The theme as set out is characteristic. The evening of 7th November 1917 at the Winter Palace of Petrograd will be considered a momentous one. The theme of this major event is set up for 20 hrs. 27 mts. (G.M.T.) which gives the M.C. at 25° 21′ Aries and Ascendant at 19° Leo. The planet Uranus in this picture is angular which is significant. Mars is on the cusp of the 2nd house which is 8th from the 7th house, namely, continuous action to destroy the adversary, and Jupiter on the cusp of the 11th house representing the hopes and aspirations of arrogance. The day was the starting point of the revolution.

But it was not the day on which the constitution was inaugurated. It was the 30th December 1922 when the first Congress of the Soviets assembled and during its session proclaimed the constitution of the Union of the Soviet Socialist Republic. From all the evidence, the theme should be set up on that day. But the fixing of the time would need considerable labour. If one sets up a few maps for different times of the day and sifts them in the light of future events from the day, one would find the horoscope set for 17 hrs. 38 mts. (G.M.T.) can be proved to be the most suitable.

The comparison of this horoscope with the one of Stalin and of Krushchev will furnish a solid base of its being considered valid. The Sun will be found to be super-imposed upon the Sun of Krushchev at 11° Capricorn; the same is the case with Venus at 26° Scorpio with Mars of Stalin's theme—the governor of action and of his mid-heaven is placed on the M.C. of Soviet Russia. Jupiter in Stalin's map at 9° Pisces the lord of his 11th, desires and projects, finds its place in the horoscope of the Republic near Uranus, lord of 7th.

The ascendant of Stalin is 22° Capricorn in exact conjunction with Mercury of the Republic. Finally the place of Saturn in Stalin's map at 9° Aries lord of the ascendant as well as the dispositor of his Sun is placed in the 9th house of Soviet Russia (the house of foreign affairs) while the Saturn of Soviet Russia is on the cusp of the 9th of Stalin at 18° Libra.

The comparison of the theme of Soviet Russia with that of Krushchev is no less important. The conjunction of Saturn in the two maps is important. The ascendant of Krushchev is at 11° Scorpio and of his Uranus at 13° Scorpio are found near F.C. and on Jupiter of the Soviet map while the Sun of Krushchev at 9° Taurus lord of his M.C. finds its place in the tenth of Soviet Russia. The M.C. of Krushchev at 16° Leo is in conjunction with the ascendant of Soviet Russia. Finally the Moon of Krushchev at 27° Aquarius is on the descendant of Soviet Russia.

If we now examine the transits for different events, there will be no room for the doubts about validity of this map. The Russo-German War which began on 22nd June 1941 is a cardinal event in the history of Russia. Among the various combinations of planets, the triple conjunction of Uranus, Ascendant and Moon of the Soviet Socialist Republic strikes you in the eye. Further this is opposed to Venus which is the lord of M.C. of the Republic and its conjunction with Moon indicated the trials, the people of Russia had to go through. Further the transitting Mars and Neptune which had relation to the 8th house of the Republic afflicted both Saturn and Venus of the Republic. Further the Moon was passing over M.C. and to the opposition of Jupiter, ruler of the 8th house of the Republic.

The transits relative to the time of the demise of Stalin are also very important and striking. The Sun was just on the point of the 8th and on Mars and this transit has still more importance because it is said that the M.C. is the ascendant of the chief of the State. One would find on proper examination that the Sun governed the 4th from M.C. and Mars the 12th from M.C.

The sudden reversal of the State policy known as de-stalinisation (14–2–1956) was marked by the simultaneous passage of Pluto and Jupiter on the ascendant and that of Sun on the descendant, and those three planets forming a double square with Venus and the radical Moon. This opposition of Pluto–Jupiter combination to the Sun on the Ascendant–Descendant axis is more significant inasmuch as the same planets formed a very important and close aspect in the radical map.

Now for the sake of reading future history from this map of the Soviet Republic, we should note that the Sun of U.S.A. is opposite to that of Soviet Russia and the same holds good for Mercury which would prove that the ideologies of the two countries cannot but be different. It enables us to the tracing of the great events of the future.

We talk of the great nations, their historical past and future and we discuss about measures of peace and co-operation but yet we are compelled to fall back upon wars and conflicts. THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE has already published a symposium on the coming events as can be read from the seven-planet combination to occur two years hence. I should like to join them in saying that the planetary combinations in the years 1961, 1962 and 1965 are very menacing and have the power to engender world conflicts.

However I would like to state the U.S.S.R. will not directly take a straight step that would lead to hostilities. The foundation map of the U.S.S.R. is not such as to mark out Russia as the country destined to start a world war. In order that a country should play such a role of aggression, the lord of the foundation map should affiict the natural significators of war and destruction notably Mars and the lord of the 7th house. In the case of Soviet Russia, Sun and Mercury which are the two lords of the 1st house do not afflict the two destroyers. On the contrary, the Sun is afflicted by Pluto, while Mercury and Saturn are in square aspect which marks out an unfortunate fatality.

Further the conjunction of Mars and Uranus (lord of 7th and 9th) on the cusp of the 8th house signifies destruction by war. Thus in 1941, it became a victim of German aggression and such a risk will recur because the Mars-Uranus conjunction is found in a double-bodied sign. From the study of transits one can find cause for an attack on Russia in 1961 and 1962. In the course of the next two years, Pluto will oppose the Mars-Uranus conjunction in the radical map, Neptune will pass over F.C. and radical Jupiter.

When we contemplate about a war in which Russia is participant, one automatically thinks of U.S.A. But the horoscope of U.S.A. is no more indicative of aggression. Mercury which is the ruler of the ascendant in the Declaration of Independence map, does not afflict any one of the significators of war. But Mercury is afflicted by Uranus, lord of 10th and placed in the 12th house, which would mean a trial of strength thrust upon it and not a challenge thrown by it. Further Mars of U.S.A. does not afflict any one of the sensitive points of the Soviet theme.

To make the explanation still clearer, there is no chance of the two great powers coming into conflict directly. But if one begins to draw up a progressed horoscope for 1961, there is no theme which receives more afflictions than the U.S.A. horoscope at the very beginning of 1961. On the contrary, there appears to be a chance or two during this half year (1959 latter half) for the two to come into conflict.

The U.S.S.R. is more fortunate in 1961 than the U.S.A. but it will have to pass through many trials in 1961 and 1962. As to the possibility of the death of the collective entity known as U.S.S.R., it will be wiser to postpone the prognostication until the year 1965 and more particularly until the month of May. The lunation of 3rd March 1965 cannot present a more sombre picture pregnant with the severest trials than it does.

Judge the events for yourselves. Retrograde Mars at 20° Virgo will be opposed to Mercury; Neptune at 20° Scorpio will be opposed to Jupiter; Saturn at 9° Pisces will be opposed to both Uranus in 13° Virgo and Pluto in 14° of the same sign. Finally this triple conflict between Uranus, Pluto and Saturn will be stimulated by the conjunction of the luminaries in 13° Pisces.

The geniture of U.S.S.R. will be terribly afflicted because the lunation falls on the cusp of the of the 8th (death) in conjunction with Mars, lord of the 4th (end). Mars on the cusp of the 8th will be also opposed by Pluto (lord of 4th—Sagittarius) and by Urauus. Uranus will be afflicted by the conjunction of Saturn and radical Neptune will be squared by Jupiter transitting Neptune.

The theme of the Republican Chinese is equally afflicted by this lunation—no doubt the materialist conception of communism will receive its death blow but it is equally true that it is not the victory of what we say of the capitalist conception. Let us hope that the great conflict of 1965 will assure peace and a period of co-operation to humanity.

Predicting Specific Events by Means of Transits—VI

BY W. J. TUCKER, D.Sc., Ph.D.

AT this stage we shall investigate whether or not it is a fact that the course and outcome of one of the great decisive battles of history; the battle for Alamein was written in the stars. For this was a battle in which a famous Scorpio warrior directed the operations of the German and Italian forces under his command, and in which an equally famous Scorpio warrior, who was destined to be the victor, directed the operations of the British and Dominion forces.

Both these famous Commanders-in-Chief were Sun in Scorpio men, and were therefore warriors who were as hard as nails-born soldiers and leaders of men to whom the principles and practice of strategy and tactics in war were second nature. Both men derived their basic character from Scorpio, giving each the same mystical animation, the same uncanny ability to sense the moves of the opponent, and the same craftiness in baiting traps!

How came it then that Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, who, until the arrival of Lieutenant-General Bernard Montgomery at his theatre of war, had been so signally successful that he was within an ace of over-running Egypt, was stopped in his tracks and finally decisively defeated by the generalship of the newcomer? And why was the generalship of one Scorpio general superior at this juncture to the generalship of the Scorpio opponent?

Such questions are crucial; and if the method of predicting events by means of transits can provide the answers in clear and unmistakable manner, we shall surely have established our claim to have found a scientific accurate method for predicting specific events.

The horoscopes of both commanders (Figs. 1 & 2) have been rectified by means of the scientific method I have previously revealed. They show that Field Marshal Montgomery was born when Saturn was at the zenith, and that Field Marshal Rommel was born with Uranus at the zenith. Montgomery was Thursday born so that his birthday planet is Jupiter. His horoscope ruler is Mars, for he has a Scorpio ascendant. Rommel was Sunday born, so that his birthday planet was the Sun. His horoscope rulers were Saturn and Uranus (these two being the co-rulers of his Aquarius ascendant).

Note at this point the important fact that the opposing Commander-in-Chief shared a most important birth star, namely 44-Virginis. This star marked the birth position of Mars for Rommel and of Uranus for Montgomery, thus presaging the nature of the destiny-conflict to be fought out between these two mortal adversaries. For it will be duly observed that the heliacal rising of the New Moon of Saturday, October 10th, 1942 (which also constituted a heliacal rising of Mars) occurred when the lunation was actually transiting 44-Virginis. It was the warning signal for the gigantic battle that was to open on Saturday, October 24th, between the opposing armies, for the possession of Alamein.

Cadet Montgomery passed the entry examination for Sandhurst in January 1907. January, the month of Capricorn and Aquarius, is of course a Saturn-ruled month and a natural success month for someone who was born with Saturn at the zenith. However, the more directly important factor that assured Montgomery's success was the transit of Mars in Scorpio over 1-Librae (natal Jupiter). For Mars is the ruler of Montgomery's horoscope and the main instigator of his personal triumphs.

On October 13th, 1914, Lieutenant Montgomery was shot through the chest on the battlefield in France. The day was a Tuesday, and Mars and Mercury were conjoined (Mars at Scorpio 10°—Mercury at Scorpio 15°) in the vicinity of 1-Librae (natal Jupiter)—which accounts for preservation from mortal injury—but with Mars squaring the natal

Scanned by www.cosmicastrology.com To Preserve Dr. B.V. Raman's Work

Saturn of the zenith and with Uranus at Aquarius 7° 42′ at the nadir also squaring Mars and opposing n-Cancri (natal Saturn). Plainly apparent indeed were the marks of critical and ominously menacing danger for Montgomery in the configurations of the day. He has to thank his birthday planet for his preservation.

In his memoirs, Montgomery tells us that in May 1939 he suddenly became very ill (he was then at Haifa in Palestine). A patch on a lung was detected and he was shipped home. On his arrival back in England the patch disappeared and he recovered completely.

Unfortunately the Field Marshal has not provided exact dates. But let us note the important fact that on May 3rd, there was an eclipse of the Moon which fell across his horizon circle, the Moon being at Scorpio 12° at the time of the eclipse —which again was a safeguard inasmuch as the Moon was fast approaching transit over 1-Librae (natal Jupiter). No doubt it was the transit of Neptune over o-Leonis (natal Mars) that was responsible for the appearance of the patch on the lung. This is because Virgo is one of the two signs concerned with the formation of the Virgo–Pisces axis which, as I have shown in my book Astromedical Diagnosis can and does precipitate tuberculosis when stimulated. (In March 1939, Jupiter has been opposing o-Leonis and it was then, no doubt that the chill giving rise to the patch was actually contracted). Uranus in May 1939 was at Taurus 18° directly opposing 1-Librae and completing the dire threat. However, Montgomery is a Thursday–born man, and it was again his birthday planet Jupiter that saved him. Jupiter was then passing out of Pisces and entering Aries (the sign on the cusp of Montgomery's 6th—health–house), and by the time the planet was trining n-Cancri (natal Saturn)at the zenith at mid-June, complete recovery could have been guaranteed. Such then are the stellar secrets behind that particular episode.

On August 28th, 1939, Lieutenant General Montgomery assumed command of the 3rd Division on Salisbury Plain. Note that Neptune was at Virgo 22° in the vicinity of o-Leonis (natal Mars) and was being trined by Uranus from Taurus 22°. Jupiter was then at Aries 7° in trine with the radical Saturn of the zenith.

Montgomery records that in January 1941 (again he does not give the exact date) he lost everything he possessed in the air raid on Portsmouth. In that month Jupiter at Taurus 6° was conjoined with Saturn in exact square to the natal Saturn of the zenith.

Which brings us to the date of Thursday, August 13th, 1942 when Montgomery sent his famous telegram to G.H.Q. saying that he had assumed command of the Eighth Army as from 2 p.m. that day. (As he himself acknowledges, this was disobdience since he had been expressly ordered not to take over command till August 15th. However, for a Thursday-born man, Thursday is his lucky day, and there was no come back !) Note that on that day the Sun in Leo was trining the natal position of Montgomery's horoscope from the 10th house (career and profession).

But it is now time we turned our attention to Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's horoscope in order to discover the nature of the transits which had been stimulating the outstanding successes of the Africa corps before the arrival of Montgomery on the scene.

On April 13th, 1941, Rommel's mechanised forces by-passed and surrounded Tobruk and occupied Bardia. That day was Sunday (Rommel's lucky day !), and the Moon just before midnight would have transitted over his natal Sun at Scorpio 23°. Note that Mars was at Aquarius 8° transitting his Point Ascendant. Uranus at Taurus 24° 17′ however was opposing his natal Sun —which was the stellar reason why he failed to take Tobruk.

On Thursday, May 1st, 1941, Rommel made a determined attempt to take Tobruk by means of a large scale attack which lasted until May 4th. His troops however were beaten to a standstill.

It was maladroit on the part of Rommel to launch such an attack at the very moment when Saturn at Taurus 17° was transitting o-Arietis (the place of his natal Moon) and when Jupiter at Taurus 24° was opposing 32-Librae (natal Sun). Especially as Mars in Aquarius was fast coming into double-square with that opposition. Finally, the conjunction of Venus with Saturn which formed at Taurus 17° on May 4th exactly over o-Arietis combined to enforce the standstill.

On Wednesday, November 19th, 1941, the Desert Rats began a big offensive making a thrust that advanced their lines 50 miles in the course of that day. Saturn at Taurus 24° 55′ retrograde, was conjoining Uranus to oppose Rommel's natal Sun; and although this same conjunction was in fact trining his natal Saturn, it nevertheless signalled, all the indications of a reverse for him. By November 25th, the losses in tanks on both sides had been terrific. However, by November 27th, the British troops in Tobruk had broken out and had joined the main

Evolution of the Calendar

BY DR. S. S. CHATTERJI

FROM time immemorial people were in possession of systematic knowledge of time and space. They had a rudimentary astronomy; and, as civilization developed, elementary science arose to meet the practical needs of an agricultural population. The cultivation of crops, dependent on the seasons, made a calendar almost a necessity. The day as a unit of time was, of course, imposed by nature. The movement of the Moon conveniently provided a longer unit—the month—which was reckoned from one New Moon to the next, but the movement of the Sun presented practical difficulties. It was at first supposed that twelve of lunar revolutions were equal to one solar movement, but the difference was soon discovered, and the necessary adjustments were made from time to time. Thus about 50 B.C. Julius Caesar brought some mathematicians from Alexandria and adjusted the Roman calendar by adding a Julian year of nearly 500 days. This year was subsequently incorporated in the Roman calendar, and filled up the gap between B.C. and A.D. A few centuries later some discrepancies were observed. Pope Gregory made the present European calendar by adding a day to February after every third year, and calling it a "leap year". In the beginning of the nineteenth century when decimal system was first introduced in France, efforts were made to decimalize the year, but after the downfall of Bonnaparte, so great, became the influence of the Pope again that no change was acceptable against the Gregorian tradition, and only the 18th Brumaire, when Napoleon dissolved the Directory and seized power, to decimalize the time unit also.

In the absence of a regular historical record, it is very difficult for us to say when and how our calendar was formed. Our priests observed the heavens for performing sacrificial rites, and a kind of calendar was established. They kept accurate records of the rising and setting of various heavenly bodies until Arya Bhatta was in a position to calculate in advance the relative positions of the Sun and the Moon, and thus predict eclipses. It may not be out of place here to mention that this austere Brahmin anticipated Copernicus, but did not unlike Galileo preach his ideas against the writings of his days. Some of his observations were undertaken out of pure curiosity in order to discover what regularities existed amongst the motions of the heavenly bodies; and once this stage had been reached, it was turned to practical account—not, of course, to any practical purposes of agriculture and the like—but to the foretelling of the future in human affairs. Parasara and Bhrigu elaborated a system of concord and discord in planetary motions and Jaimini laid the foundation of astrology which was regarded as a real justification of astronomical researches. There is nothing wrong in all this; and it would be unfair to sneer at our early astronomers as being "Superstitious". Even as late as the seventeenth century so great a scientific man as Kepler used his vast astronomical knowledge to make astrological predictions.

Then followed a time when our outlook on life was changed and the ensuing centuries produced nothing in science. We lost all curiosity about the sort of things which science could tell and derive all informations from two sources—reason and revelation. The highest discoveries of the human reason were embodied in the Upanishads and the Vedas contained divine revelations on the matters not accessible to reason. These two kinds of information were synthesised magnificiently in the Gita.

No doubt, the scholastic outlook discouraged scientific enquiry, but it does not mean that the scientific knowledge so far obtained was abandoned. As a set of working rules we find in the Jataka the practical use of nautical almanac during long voyages as a result of previous astronomical investigations. Our Panchanga does not only deal with auspicious times for performing ceremonies or undertaking hazardous travels, but gives the positions of the stars and planets in the zodiac (rasi).

Although there was a general concensus of opinion regarding the length of the year (one solar revolution), its beginning was subjected to long controversy. The Jews observed 25th December as the great festival day (Yules)—the day when the Sun was noticed rising, and therefore the 26th was made as the beginning of the year. When the calendar on modern lines was first made in Rome some modifications became necessary, and the first of January was fixed as the first day of the year. In India Sun's path was divided into twelve parts according to the positions of the twelve important stars; and Makara (Capricorn) being the nearest star when the day was observed increasing, Sun's position on it was made the commencement of the year. In Tibet and in some parts of its adjoining territories, Makara Sankranti is still regarded as the first day of the year.

As time rolled on and our knowledge of astronomy further developed, our mathematicians, chiefly Varahamihira and Samudra Gupta, were not satisfied with the old system, and, during the reign of the great King Vikramaditya, they made the point of intersection of the ecliptic (Sun's path) and the equator as the starting point of the year. Aries (Mesha) being the nearest star to the position, Sun's location on it was made the first day of the year. Harsha and other rulers followed this system; and in India, unlike Gregory's Europe, the day following the vernal equinox was regarded as the first day of the year. The name of Vaisakha was given to the first month and it is still considered to be the most auspicious month of the year all over the country.

About a couple of centuries ago, Raja Jai Singh, who had constructed various astronomical observatories in Northern India, most important ones being at Ujjain, Jaipur, Delhi and Varanasi, made another point of intersection of the ecliptic and the equator (autumnal equinox) as the first day of the year. In Rajputana, therefore, the new year begin in autumn, and the Marwaries change their bahikhata on the Dewali. Thus we see that different parts of India follow different starting days of the year.

As the British established their supremacy in India, they enforced their own system, and the Gregorian year was set up; but with the disappearance of Western sovereignty in the last decade we were faced with the problem of having our own calendar. We have had naturally to depend on astronomy, as we have no authentic record of the birthday of our hero-reformers like Krishna or Rama. It was generally accepted that our year should begin in spring, as it was in antiquity; but there arose a controversy whether it will be by the first day of Vaisakha or Chaitra. The star Aries (Mesha) having moved considerably during two thousand years owing to precession and nutation, first of Vaishaka falls on or about the fourteenth of April, while the vernal equinox is on or about 21st March. The Bengalis argued that Vaisakha was an auspicious month, and it would be against their tradition to make Chaitra the beginning of the year; but as there was a difference of about eight days between first of Chaitra and 21st March, while that of Vaisakha and equinox was of about twenty-two days, first of Chaitra was shifted to 21st March and our national calendar was made accordingly. The Bengalis, who were never influenced by Jai Singh's system, maintained their own almanac and refused to accept an all India calendar which they say is against their tradition. Thus in our country three separate calendars are in use at present and time alone will determine what further modifications would be necessary in our system.

The Magi Priests—Iranians or Lemurians

BY BEHRAM D. PITHAVALA

IT is related in the Holy Bible that at the birth of Jesus Christ three wise men visited Bethlehem and worshipped the Christ child by offering him gold and incense and myrrh. It is generally admitted that these wise men were the Magi Priests of Iran, who had gone there guided by "his star in the East."

In his very interesting and informative article on the subject of *Kaka Bhujandar Nadi in January 1959 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE, the learned author Sri K. V. Venkataramanan states, inter alia, that these Magis "were not Iranian priests as confounded by some scholars. They are said to have lived in Sakadvipa, a region lying somewhere in the Arabian Sea near the West coast of India which went under water along with a big continent called Lemuria during a minor Pralaya or deluge."

It has always been known down from Herodotus to this day that the Magis were none other than the priests of Iran. The three Magis had their own reason for making this pilgrimage to Bethlehem which I shall presently set out.

Herodotus (484–424 B.C.), the Greek historian, often referred to as the "Father of History", records that during Iran's invasion of Greece, the Athenians offered sacrifice to Boreas; that this 'Dæmon' was charged with having submerged and wrecked 400 ships of the Persian fleet on the rocks of Mt. Pelion; that the 'Dæmon' had become so furious that all the Magi Priests of Xerxes, the King of Iran, could hardly counteract him by offering contra-sacrifices. Thus the great historian of the 5th century B C. has recorded that the Magis were the priests of Iran. Herodotus lived in Asia Minor, then a part of Iran, and personally knew what he was talking about.

It may be pointed out in passing that the word 'Magi' is derived from the Avestan title of the Prophet of Iran, Holy Zarathushtra, who is referred to as the 'Maghavan', and after him the high priests of Iran were known as 'Maghavans', 'Maghavas', 'Magopats', 'Magis', etc. They led highly spiritual lives and were gifted with power of performing great miracles and hence their art came to be known as 'magic' from Magi.

Even after the fall of Iran at the hands of the half-savage, fanatic Arab hoards, some Zoroastrian families did not want to leave the motherland in spite of extreme harsh treatment meted out to them by the invaders and remained there as staunch followers of Prophet Zarathushtra, though they outwardly professed Islam. The Immortal Poet of Iran, Firdausi, who wrote the great epic Shahnameh or the history of the Kings of Iran, belonged to one such family. Khwaja Shamsuddin Mahomed Hafiz, the great poet, astronomer and Saint of Iran, of a later era, belonged to such other family. Khwaja Hafiz states that he was a disciple of an old Zoroastrian Priest, whom he constantly refers to as Peer-i-Maghan, i.e., Head of the Magis. The following couplets from his Diwan-i-Hafiz make this quite clear:—

"Chemiaee ast ajab bandagi-i-Peer-i-Maghan, Khaate u gashtam va chandeen darajjaatam daadan", i.e., "the rituals of the Head of the Magis are so surprisingly efficatious like Alchemi that though I went to his sanctuary lowly like dust, he raised me so high (spiritually)".

"Moshkele eshq bar Peer-i-Maghan bardam doosh, Koo bataaiday nazar hal-lay may-ammaameekard",

i.e., "last night I placed a problem of divine love (eshq, Bhakti Yoga) before the Head of the Magis since by the aid of his inner vision (clairvoyance) he was explaining esoteric subjects."

Here then is a Moslem Poet of Iran who flourished so late as in the fourteenth century of the Christian era, testifying to the fact that he acquired esoteric knowledge at the hands of his Guru or Oostad, Peer-i-Maghan, the Head of the Magi Priests of Iran. There are numerous other references in his work, describing his meetings with the Magi Priest, his discourses with him on subjects of divine love (eshq) at his headquarters, called Mae-khana (i.e., wine-shop) where he partook of "glasses full of wine" (i.e., acquired ancient wisdom) and how he received from his Guru the cup of knowledge of the past, present and future of everything in the whole world (Jam-e-Jehannooma), a system of astrology of the Persians which, he says, belonged to the ancient King of Iran, Jamshid (Av. Yima, Sk. Yama, the Manu of the Aryan Root Race).

Thus, the incontrovertible testimony of Herodotus, who lived in the fifth century before Christ, and of Khwaja Hafiz, who lived in the fourteenth century after Christ, finally clinches this matter and there is no doubt at all that the Magis were the Persian Zoroastrian Priests of ancient Iran.

If any one doubts the fact that this Peer-i-Maghan of Khwaja Hafiz and his associates secretly followed Zoroastrianism, I humbly offer him the following two couplets of immortal Hafiz :—

" Bay khaak-i-paa-i-soboohlkshaan ke taaman must,
Bay kooe mae-kadeh eestade am baydarbaanee,
Bay heech zaheday zaaher-parast na neshashtam,
Kay zeer-i-kheerkay ne zonnaar daasht bay-panhaanee", i.e., "I swear by the dust under the feet of "wine-drinkers" (i.e., Bhaktas, Mumukshoos, those who keenly desire the acquisition of esoteric knowledge) that, so long as I have stood here lost in search of God (must), guarding the Mae-kadeh ("wine-shop", i.e., the meeting place of the Bhaktas of the Head Magi), I have not sit near any known devotee who has not under his robes secretly tied the Zonnaar (i.e., Kusti, the sacred thread of the Zoroastrians tied around the waist)".

Further, the three Magis are usually shown clad in Iranian dress, with turbans on, for to an Iranian it was a sin to be bare-headed. Further, they offered the Christ child, among other things, frank incense and myrrh, which they considered very sacred, for they are used in the incense offered five times a day to the holy fire, perpetually kept burning in their churches.

In an old Iranian book on world prophecies, compiled by Jamasp Hakeem, a close disciple of Lord Zarathushtra, the time of birth of the next prophet was mentioned. The Iranians were therefore, anticipating eagerly the birth of the Saviour. The Bible account states that the three wise men saw "His star in the East", which guided them to the very abode of his father Joseph where the birth was to take place. Many scholars and astronomers have taken great pains to find out what the star must have been; some opine that it was a conjunction of Jupiter and Saturn or Jupiter–Mars–Neptune, some conjecture that it must have been a bright Nova or a blazing comet! But I fail to understand how any star, however bright, could have indicated that the birth would take place in a particular town, street or house. Three days after his crucifiction Lord Christ arose from his grave, physically appeared before his disciples and visibly ascended towards heaven. By analogy, could it not have been that before his birth the Magis could see his spirit descending from heaven, over the Eastern horizon, in the form of a bright star, and ultimately entering the very abode of Joseph? In this connection I humbly invite attention to the words "His star" used in the Gospel.

Now, as to the reason why the Magis should have gone out of their way to make this pilgrimage to Bethlehem for offering worship to the child Christ.

In one of his divine discourses Lord Zarathushtra requested God, Ahura Mazda, that he be made immortal so that the prophet may without any break continue to preach God's divine message to the suffering humanity and bring it to its final goal in the shortest possible time. Thereupon Ahura Mazda placed before Lord Zarathushtra a panoramic view of the future of humanity, with particular reference to Iran, from the Golden Age of Zarathushtra to the time when the humanity would have reached its salvation, showing the attempts at destruction of the Zoroastrian faith and civilization twice (by the drunken Alexander and by the Arabs) the wars and tribulations that will imperil Iran's rule by the Persians during the Hashemi Hazara (Yuga or Age of Mars, which started at about the birth of Prophet Mahomed and which is now running according to the Persian system of Mundane Divination) how people would lead very sinful and wicked lives, etc., how Iran would be ruled from time to time by nations wearing different coloured caps and carrying different coloured flags; that finally it would be ruled by armies carrying red flags and wearing red caps (Russia?), and how thereafter Iran would once again come under the rulership of the Persian Zoroastrians and that Zoroastrianism would once again flourish in Iran (like a big tree, from the seed that is, according to divine plan, preserved in India, i.e., the Parsis). In short, God convinced the zealous prophet that it was not possible for Him to grant his request, for the simple reason that if Lord Zarathushtra was made immortal, Ahriman, the Spirit of Evil, whom God had temporarily brought into manifestation to test and chastise mankind, would also have to be made immortal; otherwise, God's Plan of Evolution would be frustrated. It was, however, ordained that the work of the prophet would be continued by his sons to be born thereafter in different Hazaras or Yugas under the following plan.

During the lifetime of Lord Zarathushtra, it is stated in the scriptures, three seed-atoms fell on the ground from his holy body which, under divine guidance, were deposited in the sea, Vouroo-kashya (Caspian) and that 99,999 holy spirits guarded the repository of those seed-atoms. The God's plan was that virgins would go to bathe in the sea and would become immaculately conceived by means of the said seed-atoms deposited in the sea, and that

The Diseases of the Lungs

BY T. V. RAMAN

I HAVE been spending most of my time in regard to indications of diseases in the radical charts during the last 15 years. I am a regular reader of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE as also an occasional contributor. The articles pertaining to diseases such as "Moon and Mental Maladies", "Moon and Menstrual Disorders" and "Combinations for Leprosy" written by Dr. Jagannatha Rao attracted my attention. I had also expressed a different viewpoint apart from criticisms about these articles and the learned Prof. B. V. Raman, our esteemed Editor, had been as usual, generous in publishing them in the "Letters to the Editor" columns.

The worst of all lung troubles, is tuberculosis. Nowadays this deadly disease, which was responsible for countless deaths has, to some extent, been brought under control by recent medical discoveries.

The position of the lord of the Lagna and aspects to the Lagna, apart from evil positions of Lagna lord, no doubt, contribute to diseases. Astrologically, lung troubles might be brought under the following conditions :–

(1) When the 3rd house in a horoscope is afflicted either by malefic aspect or association.

(2) When the 3rd lord is posited in a dusthana (6th, 8th or 12th), or hemmed in between malefics.

(3) When the Moon, Mercury, Jupiter and Venus are all placed in dusthanas or combusted by the rays of the Sun or hemmed in between malefics.

The 3rd house governs the lungs and so when evil planets occupy, aspect or associate with that house, lung trouble is indicated. If the third lord is not placed in a dusthana, associated with malefics, combust or hemmed in between malefics, the attack is not so serious. In that case, the lung affliction is caused by bronchitis, pneumonia, pleurisy, etc.

When the lord of the 3rd house is placed in a dusthana (6th, 8th or 12th) combust or hemmed in between malefics, the case becomes so serious as to create tuberculosis. The most serious factor will be present, when in addition to that, the 3rd house becomes associated or aspected or hemmed in between malefics.

This apart, when Moon, Venus, Jupiter or Mercury are posited in 6th, 8th or 12th house or hemmed in between two malefics or combust, tubercular growth is almost certain. This is all the more positive in cases where one of the planets is posited in dusthana and at the same time 3rd house either from Lagna or Moon, aspected or associated by malefics.

If, in case, the 3rd house is aspected or associated with any benefic planet, then the catastrophe is averted.

But when 3rd house is neither associated with nor aspected by a malefic or a benefic; but Moon, Mercury, Jupiter or Venus is combust or hemmed in between evil planets, the common bronchial affection, pneumonia, etc., are caused. But in that case when any of these planets is affected, no specific disease can creep in, until or unless some lords of the houses, or houses themselves, are afflicted or posited in 3rd, 6th, 8th or 12th houses. In such cases, the suffering would be due to the disease ruled by the particular house affected and the tendency of the planet concerned.

For example, the Moon is hemmed in between evil planets and 4th house of the native is afflicted. In this case mental disorders, neurotic tendency, etc., might appear. When Venus is afflicted, hemmed in or combust; and the 7th house of the native is also afflicted, diabetes, etc., would be witnessed.

The following illustrations would be of interest to learned readers:

Chart No. 1.—Kanya–ascendant: Moon and Rahu in 6th; Venus in 10th; Mars in 11th; and Mercury, Rahu, Sun, Jupiter and Saturn in 12th.

The 3rd house in the above illustration is unaffected but Jupiter is combust. The native suffered from T.B, and died at the age of 30 despite best medical aid.

Chart No. 2.—Sagittarius rising: Rahu in 5th; Moon in 6th; Sun and Mercury in 8th; Jupiter, Venus and Saturn in 9th; and Mars and Kethu in 11th.

The 3rd house from the Moon is afflicted. The native suffered from consumption but was cured.

Chart No. 3.—Aries rising with Sun: Rahu in 3rd; Moon in 4th; Saturn in 8th; Kethu in 9th; Mars and Jupiter in 10th; Venus in 11th; and Mercury in 12th.

The 3rd house is afflicted by association of Rahu and 3rd lord Mercury is in debilitation. The native suffered from T.B. but was cured after treatment.

This apart, the 2nd house indicating the tendency to heavy smoking and drinking should also be taken into account.

Reincarnation—The Cosmic Law of Evolution

By Rev. Dr. JOHN H. MANAS, President, Pythagorean Society, New York

THE Law of Reincarnation is very little known among the masses. It is greatly misunderstood by modern scientists and educated persons, and it is opposed by the Church as a dreadful and a heretical doctrine. Man may become a mental giant by the accumulation of immense knowledge. However, a man grows to real knowledge always only by the expansion of the consciousness of his soul, and this cosmic knowledge really counts. For this reason enlightenment is always found with the small minority in every society. As the majority rules, there is the general opinion and the minority is ridiculed and ignored. This happens with the Cosmic Law of Reincarnation today.

This state of affairs is nothing new. Three hundred and twenty-seven years ago the same thing happened to Galileo in Padua. Then, one of the most powerful Christian Churches, basing its great power and authority upon the dogma of the infallibility, as well as the scientists of that day, taught that it was the sun and the stars that revolve around the earth, which was the centre of the Universe. This was the prevailing knowledge of the majority of that time. Galileo, a renowned astronomer, physicist and a philosopher, dared to contradict them. For this crime, he was condemned to be burned at the stake as a heretic by the Church. Because he was a useful man to Society, the Church to save face, forced him to recant his theory publicly. However, in spite of this denial and notwithstanding the application of all kinds of penalties against the opposing minority, the existing Cosmic Law of the Revolution of the earth around the sun was not changed in the least. Fortunately, Cosmic Laws are beyond the reach of the ignorant and fanatical man, no matter how powerful he may be. Time proved that the Church and those scientists were wrong! They just erred. This fact brings us to the logical conclusion that they both may err again today as far as Reincarnation is concerned, since they erred many times in the past on many occasions.

They accuse us of teaching transmigration of souls, the theory according to which a human soul incarnates indiscriminately in the physical body of animals. There is no place in God's Universe for such a fantastic belief. The Cosmic Law is that each soul always builds and animates a corresponding human physical form, according to the degree of its strength and perfection. No human soul can ever incarnate in the physical body of an animal. The high mental vibrations of the human soul will break and destroy the animal form, thus setting the soul free again.

Cosmic Law versus Man-Made Dogma

According to authentic historical sources, the Law of Reincarnation was taught in the Christian Churches in the first centuries of Christendom to the inner circle of the brothers, since the first Christian communities were nothing else but an imitation of the ancient Pythagorean, Platonic and Essene communities and schools and the continuation in a limited way of the ancient Greek, Egyptian and Mithraic mysteries. However, from the time the Christian Church under the Roman emperor Constantine decided to become a political organization, a drastic change had to be made in the teachings of the Church, and certain dogmas had to be formulated for the spiritual subjugation of the masses. These radical changes and dogmas were the following: (1) The original sin, (2) Hell and Paradise, and (3) The forgiveness of individual sins by the clergy.

In order that these man-made dogmas be established—which are in opposition to the Cosmif Law of Reincarnation—, the latter had to be thrown out of the teachings of the Bible and oc the Church. In this way the new religion acquired numerous converts, but at the same time the darkness of ignorance, fear—the greatest enemy of man—, superstition, religious fanaticism, the Roman inquisition, and the black practices and events of the middle ages, until only a few decades ago, enshrouded the human mind, and civilization was moved back by two thousand years.

The elimination of the Cosmic Law of Reincarnation and the establishment of the new man-made dogmas have brought up the following three great logical questions, which the Courch was never able to answer and it will never will: (1) The Inequality of Man. (2) Hell and Paradise. (3) The forgiveness of sins.

Astrology and Marriage

By J. VENKATESWARLU

IT is gratifying to note that in spite of the advance of the so-called Western civilisation and the increase of secular outlook on life, amongst the South Indians, there is great belief in astrology, and many are those who consult astrologers before they perform any ceremony or religious rite. The auspicious moments for all events of importance, not to speak of marriages only, continues to be of paramount to them.

As an astrologer I have been often approached by the members of the public to compare horoscopes of boys and girls for their wedlock. As you know there are many cases today wherein, it is difficult, to know all the particulars about the history of the parties, their temperaments, biological suitability and their character. However respectable the family may be, it is still possible that there is something shady about the character of some of the brides or bridegrooms, which cannot be brought to the surface. Further, who knows, what is the longevity, or the absence of chronic diseases, and whether the course of married life as a result of the alliance, would be smooth and happy, or not? Astrologers of ability are not wanting in South India, and the marvels of nadi astrology are well known to all those cultured in the ancient Indian lore. It is they who advise the parents on a wise choice.

It is therefore in regard to settling the marriage affairs the astrologer is relied upon in South India. In regard to the scrutiny of compatability of the parties, he examines ten fundamental characteristics, on the basis of the Janma nakshatra or the birth asterism, as it is called. The Moon is supposed to rule over the mind. The menstrual cycle of the female is attributed to the Moon. It recurs almost on the same nakshatra, once in every 28 days in all normal and healthy cases. Also the rise of desire for company of man, in woman, is said to be dependent on the phases of the Moon. The word lunatic it may noted is derived from the word "Luna" which means pertaining to Moon. The Moon governs types of people who are over-optimistic, if born on the full Moon day, and over-pessimistic if born on the New Moon day. But as cited above, persons of balanced mind, are born when the kalas or digits of the waning Moon, are not more than 8, or those of the waxing Moon, not less than 9. The Moon collects and reflects the solar energy. The Moon is said to be connected with the biological life of the female, including gestation, etc. As the Moon moves on the constellations across his orbit, the astrologers carefully watch the day-to-day movements of the Moon. The stars particularly noted are: Aldebaran (Rohini), Regulas (Makha), Spica (Chitta), Arctaurus (Swati), Delta Scorpi (Jyeshta) and these stars are said to be evil, unless they are associated with benefic planets like Guru (Jupiter), Sukra (Venus), Poorna Chandra (full Moon), and Budha (Mercury) and unassociated with Saturn and Kuja (Mars). These stars when associated with malefics, are said to cause loss, ill-health or demise to the couple and hence are avoided as far as possible. We have referred to above ten fundamental characteristics; these characteristics, are, the ten commandments, to be observed in fixing the suitability, by way of temperament, commonness of outlook, amicability, adjustment in home life, promotion of health, and the future longevity of the couple. These have been called "Dasavidha Ponthanams" or in Tamil Nad, as "Dasa Vidha Poruthamgal".

Agreement in regard to the following ponthanams or characteristics is considered essential before a boy or girl is accepted in an orthodox family for marriage amongst the Hindus.

(1) Rajju Ponthanam; (2) Stree Deergham; (3) Dina Kutam; (4) Gana Kutam; and (5) Yoni Kutam.

Unless the parties are biologically agreeing, there can be no marriage. Although men appear to be perfect outwardly they are found to lack, in potency or desire; so are women, who may be either frigider, rejecting men. Again, there may be excess of passion, or unusual desires, and criminal tendencies or propensities in sex life. By reading the seventh house indications and aspects to Moon and Venus in the male; or to Sun and Mars in the female, the astrologer can locate the nature of defects in the horoscopes. Benefic planets in odd signs and evil planets in even signs or rasis, tend to produce less sexual desire or rejection in married life.

Venus in the horoscope of the male should be well-placed, with sthana or amsabala, and free from malefic association to get excellent married life, love, amicability and social position. Sukra is said to be the Karaka for "Ashta Bhogams", such as vanitha=girl, tamboola=betel leaves, kavya=poetry, vahana=conveyance, etc. Long married life is to be expected as a result,

Scanned by www.siddhanta.eu [illegible] reserves [illegible] Ramans Work

If, on the other hand, Sukra were to occupy a position of debility in Kanya, the native will have troubles in married life, he will be crossed in love, he will suffer from Kama Jwara, or Viraha (love fever or pangs of separation) and possibly he may fail to marry the girl of his choice, or he may prefer to marry a girl much inferior to him in status. Similar predictions in the case of the women are done with Kuja (Mars) and Ravi (the Sun) as the basis.

Evil to Life

Where, besides the debility of Sukra in a male horoscope, malefic planets like Sani and Kuja are elevated nearer to the mid-heaven, or posited in the Lagna, he will commit crimes of all natures connected with sex.

Ideal Matches

In selecting an ideal match look to the Lagna first. It must be free from evil associations. The 7th house should also be free likewise and there should be no planets in the 8th, particularly evil planets. Such malefics should be found located in the 3rd, 6th and 11th either from the Lagna or Chandra. For those born in Karkataka Lagna and Simha Lagna, Kuja is not harmful wherever he may be located. In the woman, the Sun and Kuja should be free from evil association. The evil planets should occupy odd signs and benefics should occupy even signs. The majority of ponthanams should agree.

Both the horoscopes of the boy and the girl must be made to overlap. It should be seen that the sign or rasi of the boy's horoscope, when overlapped in the girl's horoscope, the boy's Lagna should not coincide with the position of an evil planet Sani or Kuja; and vice versa in that of the girl's. Also, when in the boy's horoscope Sukra occupies the same rasi, when Kuja is found in the girl's horoscope, there is immediate and permanent attraction.

Angaraka Dosha

Angaraka Dosha or malefic influence of Mars is supposed to be potent enough to kill one of the parties immediately after the marriage or within a couple of years. This is a much dreaded evil in South India. Prof. Suryanarain Rao has cited practical and real instances to prove its potency in his admirable work Stree Jataka which could be perused with advantage. In case, this is found in the boy's horoscope and also in the girl's horoscope, the evil or the dosham is neutralised.

Unless all these factors are clearly examined, including the longevity of the parties established, they do not accept alliances.

Red China Infiltrates into Indian Soil

THE Chinese Communist threat to Northern India, which I specifically predicted in the April number of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE (page 394), is now rapidly being fulfilled. At that time, I wrote, "Communist Chinese hordes, who by air, descended upon the Ganges plain, destroying all mutts, temples and sacred Ashrams of India and massacred their inhabitants. Does this sound fantastic? Not today! The stars indicate that this may happen in the very near future."

Assam, Bhutan and Sikkim are in immediate danger and fighting has already occurred with Chinese troops infiltrating into the area. In Kashmir, we now learn that Chinese troops invaded the Ladakh area a year ago! The Indian people have been kept in ignorance of this by the Nehru Government for reasons best known to themselves! One may speculate upon the reasons for China's aggressive actions, when Mr. Nehru has done so much to cultivate peaceful relations with China, even to the promise of support in the United Nations of her application for membership to that body. Astrology should help to throw some light upon this, for if we can arrive at right conclusions as to these reasons, we can then accurately assess what the future developments will be.

Communist forces within India have long been planning to overthrow the democratic constitution, by making it unworkable, and the recent example in Kerala forced Congress and the Central Government to get rid of the local Communist regime. This may be one reason why the Chinese decided to precipitate a struggle by forcing herself upon India's northern boundaries. They judge that the extreme action of the Central Government is a sign of weakness, and coupled with the growing multiplicity of parties, the time is now ripe to split the country into two opposing forces—those who are somewhat pro-Communist like Mr. Nehru and Mr. Menon, and the Conservative forces who seek to curb any further extension of socialist experiments in India. The Chinese hope that their action will widen the split and that it will lead to anarchy. It will be noted that a severe outbreak of food-rioting in Calcutta was fanned up at the same time, in the first few days of September. There is no doubt that Calcutta is the Chinese ultimate objective.

I base my foregoing remarks upon the Delhi Capsolar chart for 1959, wherein this situation is most accurately portrayed by the opposition of Jupiter and Mars on the angles of East India from 85° to 91° East. I have demonstrated on several occasions how this configuration incites to war, revolt and acts of violence, and there is no doubt that this will continue to ascerbate conditions in this part of India until the end of the year.

The attempt by army generals to get rid of Mr. Krishna Menon, who appears to cling tenaciously to a pro-Chinese policy, and Mr. Nehru's passionate defence of his 'blue-eyed boy' confirms the deep schism that is taking place in the Indian scene. The formation of the Conservative Swatantra Party is another straw in the wind. Mr. Menon was saved by the great strength of his stars at present, for it will be recalled that I predicted success for him this year, as he has Jupiter progressed to the meridian of his chart for his 62nd year. (See page 753, August 1958 A.M.) He will also have a transit of Jupiter over the opposition of his Mercury in October which favours his plans, and speech-making, but he will encounter further attacks upon him in November when the Sun and Mars transit his radical Saturn at the time of his lunar return. From this we can conclude that the left-wing section of the Congress Party will prevail for a while, but there is no doubt that Mr. Nehru's star is waning. Pluto has transitted his Saturn, and Saturn will transit his Jupiter in December, and this will bring down his prestige still further.

When we compare Mr. Nehru's chart (page 309, March 1957 A.M.) with that of Mao Tse Tung (page 393, April 1959 A.M.) we are struck by the close concord and harmonious aspects that are formed. Mr. Nehru's Venus is on Mao's meridian and his Jupiter on Mao's Sun. Admittedly Mao's Mars is on Nehru's Sun, but his Jupiter is also exactly opposite as well. All this clearly informs me that Mr. Nehru would be only too pleased to accommodate Mao and come to some arrangement in a revision of India's borders in China's favour. But how far Mao is at present responsible for China's aggression is a questionable one, for his internal policy has come under intense fire, and it may be that the Chinese generals are more in control of the situation than is at present realised.

This brings me to the second important reason that I put forward to explain China's aggression at this juncture. China is advancing on two fronts, in the Himalayas and also in Laos where the Vietnamese are infiltrating into this kingdom on the borders of Siam. It may be that China fears a Russian agreement with the West, which might follow from Mr. Krushchev's forthcoming visit to America, and this is her way of embarrassing Russia, or even frustrating a successful Summit Conference. Or it may be that Krushchev and Mao have a secret understanding, that Russia seeks a settlement of the status quo on the European front, thus leaving China and Russia free to concentrate upon the final liquidation of India, Pakistan, Burma, and South-East Asia in the course of the next two years, or by the time of the eight-planet conjunction in 1962 in Capricorn. In this direction, China's ultimate objective is Singapore.

A comparison of the charts of Krushchev and Mao should help us to solve this problem, but we find there are no significant interchanges, except that Krushchev's Sun is on Mao's fourth cusp, but the fact that we don't have Krushchev's complete chart makes the problem rather unsolvable. In my opinion there is a latent antagonism between China and Russia which western diplomacy may attempt to widen.

Since Pakistan and India are jointly threatened, the situation could lead to a rapprochement between the two countries and a joint defence policy achieved, but here again we astrologers are at a disadvantage, as we don't have the birth data of General Ayub Khan. If any reader can establish this, it will throw a great light upon the prospects of this development.

I append once more the important Delhi Capsolar map for 1959 in which it will be seen that on the 1st September, when the political crisis with the Army and Mr. Menon came to a head, the Q-2 progression, gave the Ascendant conjunct Mars in Virgo to within one degree. The calculation is as follows :—

The Kashmir Floods

In the first week of July, very heavy rains and serious flooding occurred in many parts of India, but perhaps the worst was in the Kashmiri valley, where 30,000 people fled from their homes, leaving many drowned. In some districts over 150 square miles were under water and the entire district may be put out of action for at least a year. This disaster may also have a most adverse effect upon the food situation in that State.

Searching for an astrological pointer, for a natural catastrophe such as this, I think that the only suitable one which would also satisfy the most exacting of scientific critics, would be the indication in the Canlunar chart for the 6th July 1959, which is a map for the Moon's entry into sidereal Cancer, which occurred at 11.0 p.m. (G.M.T.) This chart adjusted for Srinagar gives 20° Aquarius on the M.C., and 8° Gemini rising, exactly in opposition to Saturn setting in 9° Sagittarius. Saturn it will be noticed, is always present in major meteorological and seismic disturbances.

Queen Elizabeth's Solar Return

On the 8th August last, it was officially announced that the Queen was going to have another baby, which was expected to be born in the period between 21st January and 14th February next. Here is an excellent opportunity for astrologers to test their skill in trying to predict the exact date of the Royal confinement, and especially for me to publicly put to the test the PSSR method of progressing the sidereal solar return.

All About Gems

BY BIBHUTI BHUSAN SHARMA

PEOPLE of different countries—East and West, have attached faith and importance to gems (ratnas) which have got special meaning and magic of their own.

In this article I will delineate briefly how gems (ratnas) produce beneficial effects on human body, and how the same are used in Ayurvedic medicine.

Like Kalpa, Siksha, Vyakarana, Nirukta and Chhanda, Jyotisha is also a part of Veda and hence it is called Vedanga and the same is also related with Ayurveda to some extent. But there is no doubt about it, that like medical science, Astrology is also based upon experience and experiments.

According to Varaha, the great astrologer, human body is composed of seven elements which are nerves, bones, blood, semen, fat and bone-marrow. Generally, we find combinations of gems of proper sizes and quality prove to be effective to some extent both for body and mind by way of curative and preventive measures.

It is a known fact that different colours create different influences on our body and mind, as the former has got close connection with the latter. The colours of the planets are as follows :—

The Sun–deep red, the Moon–white, Mars–red, Mercury–green, Jupiter–yellow, Venus–bright white, and Saturn–blue and black.

There are two more planets, Rahu (Dragon's head) and Kethu (Dragon's tail). But some are of opinion that Rahu and Kethu have no form and they do not exist in the sky. If Rahu and Kethu are taken into account there are nine planets.

Nine planets have got nine varieties of gems and each planet resembles the colour of its own stone. According to scientific discoveries of Dr. Oscar Brunler of America, all tangible things are nothing but condensations of ether. By ether is meant the all-pervading reservoir of cosmic fluid which is the root of all creation. Whenever this cosmic fluid is condensed, it gives rise to power which can be measured. This method of measurement is called the radiation method. When radiation is applied to jewels (gems) we derive satisfactory results.

Be it noted here that in Ayurveda ash (basma) of gems such as ruby, pearl, coral, emerald and nila, etc., is used in medicines as they are composed of natural minerals. Various medicines are prepared out of the basma or ash of the gem for curing various diseases.

Gems are of nine varieties: (1) Ruby, (2) pearl, (3) coral, (4) emerald, (5) topaz, (6) diamond, (7) sapphire (nila), (8) gomedaka (garnet or cinamon stone), (9) cat's eye.

Ruby.—Ruby is the stone for Ravi. It is of deep red colour. The best quality of ruby comes from Mogok in Upper Burma, Ceylon and Siam.

In different countries, it is called by different names such as Manikya, Padmaraga, Chuni, Lalbodpasam and Ruby.

In Ayurveda, ruby is good for health, brain and preventive of fever, etc.

Pearl.—Pearl is for Chandra (Moon). Pearls are found in shells of oysters. Pearls come from Basra and they are called Basrai pearl. They also come from Dacca (East Pakistan) and Ceylon. Pearls are of different colours such as white, yellowish, rosy and blackish.

In different countries, it is also called Moti, Mukta, Pearl and Margarita.

In Ayurveda, it is good for general health, sight and preventive for decaying diseases.

Coral.—Coral is the stone for Kuja (Mars). Corals are found in Mediterranean sea, Italy, Africa and also in Japanese coast. Corals are of different colours such as red, deep red, white and light red, etc.

In different countries, it is also called Pola, Probal, Bidrum coral, Mirzan and Coralum rubrum.

In Ayurveda, it is good for sight, bile and preventive of cough and cold.

Emerald.–Emerald is the stone for Mercury (Budha). It comes from Muzo, Columbia and Udaipur.

In different countries, it is also called Panna, Emerald and Samaragdus and Pancharatna.

Emeralds are of light and deep green.

In Ayurveda, it is used for increase of memory and strength; it prevents stammering and headache.

Topaz or Pushparag (yellow) is the stone for Jupiter (Brihaspati). It comes from Ceylon. Pushparag is of two varieties, white and yellow.

In different countries, it is also called Pokhraj, Pushparag and Topaz.

It is a lucky stone for all business enterprises.

Diamond.—Diamond is the stone for Venus (Sukra). It comes from Kimberly (South

NOTABLE HOROSCOPES

By B. V. RAMAN

A reliable guide to Practical Astrology

This does not contain startling predictions and amazing forecasts. But it is the product of investigations and studies by the Author presented here in an orderly and specific form but in simple language easily understandable by the average readers.

One is born a beggar but becomes a ruler. One is born a ruler but becomes a begger, How and Why? What combinations make one a Scientist, Physicist, Chemist, Botanist, Poet, Politician, Statesman, Artist, Murderer, Dissimulator, etc.

Though several circumstances are the same for the rich and the poor alike, there will be certain astrological peculiarities in Notable Horoscopes (e.g., Tagore, Nehru, Hitler, C. R. Das, Prof. Rao, Einstein, etc.) which are easily discernible and a careful study of which would enable one to acquire that practical knowledge and experience which is otherwise impossible.

This work shows that birth date and time are of supreme importance as determining not only character but also eventful periods of life.

The book contains the horoscopes of notable persons—their birth data, planetary positions, Dasas and Bhukthis in which important events have taken place in their lives. Then the various combinations which have produced different types of great men are carefully analysed with a view to showing to the readers, the practical application of Raja Yogas, Daridra Yogas and the like. The book also demonstrates the truth of Vimshottari Dasa.

SOME OF THE HOROSCOPES CONTAINED IN THE BOOK

Sri Krishna, Adi Sankara, Akbar, Alexander, Gautama Buddha, Jesus Christ, Prophet Mahomed, Augustus, Goethe, Aurangzeb, Gandhi, Ramakrishna Paramahamsa, Vivekananda, Tilak, B. Suryanarain Rao, Aurobindo Ghose, Ramana Maharshi, Sri Thyagaraja, Sri Vidyaranya, Rabindranath Tagore, Hitler, Mussolini, Abraham Lincoln, Subhas Bose, Jagadish Bose, Milton, Savarkar, Annie Besant, Bernard Shah, Godse, Stalin, Nehru, Eisenhower, Maotse-Tung, C. R. Das, Ashutosh Mukherjee, Sree Chaitanya, Karl Marx, Nero, Duke of Windsor, etc.

And also horoscopes illustrative of extreme religiousness, suicidal tendencies and certain other definite traits.

Electional Astrology—V

BY K. V. SIVARAMA IYER

ALL the salient points given already should on no account miss the ken of the astrologer fixing a Muhurtha. Besides these there are also various ditches to be avoided, several exceptions to be noted for particular functions and numerous specific periods for separate ceremonies to be satisfied. The subject as has already been stated is dry and confusing and unless the reader is ardently interested he is likely to find these lines a bundle of repetitions and unnecessary verbalism.

After a dull and impassive reading of a dry statement of broad principles of the science it will certainly be a profitable diversion to go through the following paragraphs dealing with auspicious days and periods suitable for various activities of daily life drawn by the saintly authors based on the fundamentals formulated by themselves. Very often it will be hard to obtain the specified moments for various actions when the nearest auspicious period could be selected by applying the primary rules given above.

Auspicious days and periods for setting out on travels

Constellations: The twenty-seven asterisms are divided into four groups. Each group is named after a direction showing the suitability of each asterism for travel in that particular direction.

(a) Eastern stars—From Krittika to Aslesha; (b) Southern stars—Makha to Visakha; (c) Western stars—Anuradha to Abhijit; Northern stars—Dhanishta to Bharani.

Eastern stars are also good for journeys to the North and Northern stars are good for travels to the East. Stars particularly noted as auspicious for travels in the Western direction are suitable for going in the Southern direction also. And so too the Southern stars are suspicious for moving to the west. But it is to be clearly borne in mind that Southern and Western stars are not good for going to the north and the east while Northern and Eastern stars are inauspicious for making journeys to south and west.

The following constellations noted against each direction are to be strictly avoided for travels in that direction.

East—Jyeshta, South–Poorvabhadrapada, West—Rohini, North—Uttaraphalguna.

Specially good days for travels in each direction are: East—Pushya, South—Hasta, West—Sravana, North—Aswini.

(Brihaspathi has said that the following constellations are good for travels in all directions: Aswini, Hasta, Mrigasira, Anuradha, Sravana, Dhanishta, Revati and Pushya. Varahamihira is of opinion that Pushya, Hasta, Anuradha and Aswini are good and auspicious for journeys in all directions.)

Travel in the direction as denoted by the particular star should not be made when Venus transits that constellation. Also Venus should not be on the left side to the direction of travel.

Eastern stars are good for travels in the south-eastern direction, southern stars in the south-western direction, western stars in the north-western direction and northern stars to the north-eastern side.

Suitable Lunar Days

For travels to the East—First, sixth and eleventh; South—Second, seventh and twelfth; West—Third, eighth and thirteenth; North—Fifth, tenth and fifteenth.

Days of the Week

According to Brihaspati, the following days are prohibited for travel in the direction noted against each: Sunday and Friday–East; Tuesday–South; Saturday and Monday–West; and Thursday and Wednesday–North. Auspicious week days are: Tuesday–East; Monday and Saturday–South; Wednesday and Thursday–West; and Sunday and Friday–North.

Sripathi's opinion differs from the above. All journeys and travels are to be avoided in the eastern direction on Saturdays and Mondays, in the southern direction on Thursdays, to the West on Fridays and Sundays, and to the north on Wednesdays and Tuesdays.

Yogini

The position of Yogini is also to be followed on Lunar days:—

1—East; 2—North; 3–South-east; 4—South-west; 5—South; 6—West; 7—North-west; 8—North-east; 9—East; 10–North; 11—South-east; 12–South-west; 13–South; 14–West; 15–North-west.

The position of Yogini on week days is as follows:— Sunday—East; Monday—North; Tuesday—South-east; Wednesday—South-west; Thursday—South; Friday–West; and Saturday–North-east.

At the commencement of journey Rahu, Yogini, and the Sun should be opposite to the direction of travel.

Mandi, Saturn and Vishti should also be opposite to the direction of travel. It is foreboding evil if a journey is commenced in the direction in which Saturn, Mandi or Vishti is posited at the moment.

The planet ruling the direction of travel should be in a kendra. The rising time of the sign owned by that planet is good for starting on the journey. The planet owning the week day of the travel should be on the right side to the direction of travel.

The rising sign at the commencement of the journey should not coincide with the sixth or the eighth sign as counted both from the ascendant and the Moon in the horoscope of the person starting on the tour. The lords of the sixth and the eighth Bhavas, both from the ascendant and the Moon should not be posited in the rising sign at the commencement of the travel. Weak or debilitated lords of the ascendant and of the sign occupied by the Moon in the horoscope, their combinations with malefics or malefic aspecting them, weak benefics and the weakness of the planets owning the direction of travel and of the rising sign at the commencement, all forebode adverse effects, bordering even on death.

The twenty-fifth and twenty-seventh stars counted from the Janma nakshatra of the person starting on the travel are quite inauspicious.

According to Gargya, the sign Gemini is not suitable for starting on travels. The sign Pisces foreshadow difficulties en route. Even fixed signs could be taken for travels if they are rising with face upwards. (But Aquarius is not good).

The rising times of the watery signs other than Capricorn, and the amsas of the Mridu (Chitta, Revati, Anuradha and Mrigasira), Kshipra (Hasta, Aswini and Pushya), and Chara (Dhanishta, Satabhisha, Swati, Sravana and Punarvasu) nakshatras other than those falling in Capricorn are good and auspicious for starting on journeys by boats and ships.

At the time of starting on the travel if the Moon is with benefic planets, quarrels with relatives are indicated. Moon's combination with malefics at the time of setting out on the journey shows that there are chances of falling ill en route.

Africa), Golkunda and Brazil. It is of different colour such as white, yellow, red and black.

In Ayurveda, it is said that diamonds are of four classes, such as Brahmin, Kshatriya, Vaisya and Sudra. White diamond is Brahmin, reddish diamond is Kshatriya, yellow diamond is Vaisya, and black diamond is Sudra.

It is good for health and general debility. Romans believed that diamond gives courage and renders its wearer fearless. It is also believed to be potent of poison.

In different countries, it is called Hira, Diamond, Hiro, Adams and Bajra.

Sapphire.—Sapphire is the stone for Saturn (Sani). It comes from Kashmir, Burma, Siam and Ceylon. It is of two varieties, bluish and reddish. Reddish sapphire is called Raktamukhi Nila and bluish one is called Indra Nila or Nila.

In Ayurveda, it is used as a preventive for cough, blood pressure, insanity and paralysis.

Gomedaka.—Gomedaka is the stone for Rahu (Dragon's head). It comes from Ceylon. Its different names are Gomedaka, Pitam, Garnet or Cinamon stone Its colour is orange. It is good for brain.

Cat's eye.—Cat's eye is the stone for Kethu (Dragon's tail).

In different countries, it is called Vaidurya, Cat's eye and Lousunia. It comes from Ceylon and Trivandrum. Its color is yellowish, ashy, or green and black.

In this age of scientific advancement and progress we should not be guided by prejudice and ignorance in respect of wonderful and magic effects of gems. It may be mentioned here that wearing of gems produces psychological effects which make us feel that malefic effects of planets are countered.

THE HINDU PROGRESSED HOROSCOPE

By B. V. RAMAN

This book based on Tajaka covers fresh grounds in the field of prediction. It describes a unique method never before disclosed for deciphering annual life readings. Predictions made according to this work yield unique results. Whether you are a layman or initiated, you can draw up and interpret the annual reading in an easy and scientific manner. The system propounded in the pages of this work is rational and in actual practice yields most satisfactory results.

OPINION

"The author outlines a method of deciphering annual results from the Hindu horoscope. He claims that the principles of Tajaka astrology have been found to work accurately in actual practice, and controverts the orthodox belief that the system can be applied only to charts of individuals who have passed the age of thirty, There are many useful tables at the end and a summary."

AROUND the WORLD

BY DOUGLAS HUNT, M.A.

MR. G. C. Nixon has certainly put a cat among the pigeons with his letter in the July issue of Prediction. He comes out boldly in favour of the sidereal zodiac as used in the east and as championed in England by Cyril Fagan, Brigadier Firebrace, and Rupert Gleadow—an imposing assembly. The sting in his letter lies in the sentence, "The zodiac as used in this country and the West generally is false, and quite useless for astrological purposes."

In the September 1959 issue a battalion of Old Faithfuls takes up the challenge. Colin Evans strikes a manful blow by asserting that Gleadow in his Astrology in Everyday Life draws all his modern evidence for empirical and statistical proof of the validity of Astrology from the work and research and statistical experiments of astrologers using the tropical zodiac, and adds: "As to rationale, no hint of any theory, why a sidereal zodiac should work has yet been found by me in the literature of the subject, except some unconvincing hints of a kind of magnetic radiation from stars constellationally grouped only by parallax at distances millions of times greater than that of the most distant member of our solar system."

R. C. Davison, President of the Astrological Lodge of the Theosophical Society and editor of Astrology—who must surely be a Libran—asserts that: "Both sets of figures are extremely valuable". Your columnist, out of sheer ignorance, takes neither side, but hopes to see a number of scholarly letters and articles to prove that Mr. Nixon—or Mr. Evans—is right—or wrong!

I do not know when the Roman Church made its peace with the exponents of the novel idea that the Earth goes round the Sun. At the time of Galileo such an absurd and blasphemous concept was considered heretical, and those who were ridiculous enough to accept it deserved only to be roasted alive. To the best of my belief it is now comparatively safe for Roman Catholics to adhere to a thesis once proclaimed by an infallible Church to be damnable nonsense.

A somewhat similar procedure seems to be taking place today. Not so very long ago nobody but accredited saints was permitted to exhibit occult phenomena, or, to use the approved terminology, to perform miracles. Witches, spiritists, and such-like wicked persons did indeed exist, but were all considered to be in the pay of the Devil.

Today there is in existence a paper, obviously approved by the Church authorities, dealing with what is somewhat naively characterised as "Christian Parapsychology". (One is reminded of Hitler's National Socialist Mathematics.) It is entitled Verborgene Welt.

Neither the Roman Church nor the editors of the above will care two hoots what a non-entity like myself has to say about this excellent periodical, yet I would like to go on record as stating that it is indeed stimulating to observe the freedom with which some subjects are treated.

In the number before me there are two articles on bilocation. The author of one, Professor Gebhard Frei, whom I believe to be a priest, even goes so far as to challenge the official standpoint that this phenomenon is only to be discovered in the case of saints—Catholic saints, of course, all non-Catholics being heretics, and therefore not capable of being saints!

Am I wrong in thinking that this new freedom of expression is all a part of that wave of liberalism which seems to be sweeping the Roman Church since the installation of that great and very human gentleman, the present Pope!

Both the writers on bilocation draw freely on the work of Professor Hornell Hart, of Duke University, and of Dr. J. J. Poortman of the University of Amsterdam.

Bilocation is, of course, a recognised phenomenon in the East. In the West anyone who considered at the time of my boyhood that it merited one moment's serious study would have been promptly removed in a plain wagon.

Just in passing, one wonders sometimes whether the pontiffs of science will ever reverse their verdict and tell us that the geocentric theory is, after all, the correct one.

Another heretic is Dr. Frank A. Brown of North Western University, U.S.A. Science Et Vie informs us that he has scandalised his colleagues by affirming that all living beings, from the bacterium to President

Scanned by Kandis Publications astrology.com To Preserve Our Rich Work

Eisenhower, are subject to the influence of the Earth, the Sun, and the Moon. I don't know what the scientists of the U.S.A. are coming to. They will be believing in astrology next!

From Destin comes another startling item of news. Seven hundred and fifty American savants have been sent to the four quarters of the globe to probe the secrets of sorcerers, healers, witch-doctors, black, red, yellow and white, and to find out—if possible—how they effect their cures. This amazingly sensible and scientific procedure gives one fresh hope for the world. Could it be a sign that we are coming to an end of the centuries which have been governed and terrorised by infallible Churches, infallible scientific bodies, and infallible political parties? Or do such institutions, good as they may sometimes be in their incipient stages, invariably crystallise and develop into blind tyrants?

Clima Astral, which is published in Sao Paulo, Brazil, silently reproves me for my criticisms of the Roman Church. Pope Julius II, it tells me, had the day of his coronation determined by astrologers, Pope Paul II got them to decide on the hours of meeting of the Consistory, and Pope Leo X was responsible for the founding of Chairs of Astrology at the Universities of Padue, Bologna, and Paris.

In a series of articles on the history of astrology the same magazine gives some excellent reproductions of the Hindu, Japanese, and Siamese zodiacs. For those who read Portuguese this excellently illustrated and well got-up magazine is very well worth studying.

Astrologischer Auskunftsbogen presents in its August number a useful table of the planetary hours, and a not very favourable study of the likely events in the term of office of President Lubke. It also foretells that 1962 will be a year of great success and importance for Japan.

The publishers of the above also announce a new work on astrology, Dorothy Zurlinden's Religiose Astrologie.

LESSONS IN ASTROLOGY

0.25 Rupa as Varshapa and the Moon 0.5 Rupa as Masapa.

The best way of finding the lord of the hour or Kalahora is the following: Subtract the longitude of the Sun from the ascendant. Multiply the result by 2. If the number of signs exceeds 7, divide it by 7. The remainder will show the particular Hora counted from that of the lord of the week-day in question. The order of Horas is—Sun, Venus, Mercury, Moon, Saturn, Jupiter and Mars. In our example the Lagna is 11s. 9° 13′ 58″. Subtracting the Sun's position, 9s. 21° 48′ 24″ from this, we get 1s. 17° 25′ 34″. By multiplying this by 2 we get 3s. 4° 51′ 8″. This shows that the birth took place in the 4th Hora on that day, which belongs to Mars. So he gets 1 Rupa as Horadhipa. Another way of calculating the Kalahora is to take 2½ ghatis or one hour for every Hora beginning from sunrise.

Astrology and Modern Thought

BY B. V. RAMAN

(FOURTH EDITION)

The rationale and claims of Astrology have been examined from the viewpoint of Modern Scientific Thought. The arguments put forth by some of the scientists to decry Astrology have been ably refuted and supported by unimpeachable evidence.

The book will convince any so-called sceptic who is accustomed the slogan 'I do not believe in Astrology'. To an intellectual it contains full of weighty material for reflection.

It is a book that everyone should read.

The Eight-Planet Combination

Sir,—In regard to the combination of all the planets, known to the ancients, in the constellation Capricorn, on February 5, 1962, the following note from Star Lore of March 1897 (Pp. 33), edited by Zadkil, may interest the far-flung readers of your excellent magazine :—

"Berosus, a Chaldean astrologer, wrote the history of Babylon, and quoted from the Babylonian tables. He declared that when the Sun and planets shall again occupy Capricorn together, another great deluge will take place—such as the sinking of a continent beneath the ocean..."

It will be recollected that the Babylonians used a sidereal (Nirayana) zodiac exclusively, commencing just one degree East of Spica (Chitra), putting the latter in Virgo 29°. Rahu and Kethu were not regarded by them as being planets.

Verification of Predictions

I

Sir,—I am a regular reader of your ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE for the last several years. I have read many articles written in the Annual Number of 1959 January. Your world predictions have evoked great interest in me. Your predictions regarding Kerala State :—"Confusion in the Communists ranks and the imposition of President's rule" is very accurate and based on scientific principles of astrology and I congratulate you for the success of your predictions. I earnestly request you to write about the future of Kerala State and the election prospects and about the political parties and their stability. I hope that all of your prediction regarding India will come true. Wish you all success in your predictions.

Cannanore. SOMEN MOOLYIL.

II

Sir,—My heartiest congratulation is due to your goodself for accuracy of your prediction given on page 24 of 1959 Annual Number, Col. 1, lines 6-11; "Pisces Navamsa.....President's rule".

Calcutta. SURATH KUMAR MONDAL.

III

Sir,—Yes, despite the fact that I am neither a fellow traveller of Communist Party of India nor Indian National Congress and as such it is but natural I am not a supporter of imposing President's rule in Kerala whose merits and demerits are not proper to be discussed or detailed in the pages of your esteemed ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE. I am again forced and duty bound, to congratulate you, on your correct prediction about Kerala, months before. You observed thus on "Pp. 24, line No. 10, Col. 1, A.M.'s Annual 1959"... "And the Imposition of the President's Rule". I just say again "hats off".

Kanpur. S. SUNDARAM.

IV

Sir,—I am writing this just to record my deepest appreciation of your illustrious magazine. What a beacon flare it is to guide a world groping in darkness. Fools and knaves do not understand it. That is my only grief.

It is only appropriate to recall that to state in the October 1958 issue of your magazine, you have warned the political leaders about mobocracy with reference to the planetary movements. You have observed thus: "Elements indulging in violence and intimidation will be given quarter by politicians to serve their own selfish ends, and Government instead of effectively dealing with such developments will adopt an unrealistic policy. There will be frequent attacks on public and private property and political leaders will act without any sense of responsibility. Kerala, Tamil Nad, Western India, Bengal, Orissa and parts of Uttara Pradesh will witness violent scenes of industrial, linguistic and political unrest".

How true are these predictions? I am confident that unprejudiced minds will surely nod their approbation.

Again in the 1959 Annual Number, your predictions regarding Kerala have come absolutely true; "threatening confusion in communist ranks and imposition of President's rule". "Both in Bengal and Kerala, labour will be in uproar with strikes paralysing different industries and national services".

Long life to THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE.

Astrology and Diplomacy

I

Sir,—Mr. Paran has taken you to task for some of the remarks you had made about Mr. Nehru's foreign policy in August 1959 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGIAZINE. I am glad you have published a letter in which you have been severely criticised. It shows that as an Editor you are not partial but quite open minded.

I do not think that the stand taken up by Mr. Paran is at all sensible. As a regular reader of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE, I have found that several of your political predictions made in the past have turned out to be surprisingly accurate. As early as 1955 June, astrologically analysing the Sino-Indian agreement, you predicted that it would not work and that China's policy would be a threat to India's security. It has now been fulfilled. You merely hoped, as any of us would have hoped, that God guide our Prime Minister rightly so that he may not continue his appeasement policy towards aggressors. There is nothing wrong in such a hope. Modern experts of diplomacy may not be astrologers but a real astrologer who has to deal with political horoscopes is bound to be a diplomat too. I wish that Mr. Paran is more realistic and less provocative in his criticism which lacks constructive element.

Trichur. ASTRO-DIPLOMAT.

II

Sir,—In the August 1959 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE, Mr. Paran takes up the stand that astrologers do not know what they are talking about on diplomatic matters. For that purpose, may I know if he would go beyond and say that a common man has no right to talk about the foreign policy of the Government?

Next, he makes much of his travels in four or five foreign countries. Which were they? Ostensibly, the countries like N. Korea and N. Viet Nam, Burma of Mr. Thakin Nu and not General Nye and Ceylon of Mr. Bandarnaike and possibly Indonesia. He visited those countries also before the rape of Tibet. Further, he went to foreign countries in the course of his duties as a servant of the Government of India to carry out the dictation of official policy. In his official garb with the clouds of official policy round him, could he have seen the light and did he have the opportunity to listen to an opinion different from what he was supposed to support.

He quotes Nehru, "Where freedom is menaced, justice threatened or where aggression takes place, we cannot be or shall not be neutral."

In the war between North Korea and South Korea, which country was the aggressor? It was an Indian judge who pronounced it to be North Korea. What did India do? Instead of applying sanctions, moral and material against the aggressor, our foreign policy did its best to stabilise the aggressor's position.

When Hungary was attacked and its leader Nogy who was promised protection by the Hungarian Government and its Russian ally and yet who was kidnapped through sheer force, our feeble cry of protest was inaudibly uttered after such a lapse of time from the moment of occurrence that one could not even trace its origin.

Now with the rape of Tibet has come the tumultous voice of the masses of India against the tyranny of China and an attempt by leaders like Jaiprakash Narain to call a spade, a spade. What is the official reaction? Mr. Paran knows it better than I do or at least should know better.

Mr. Paran, if he would refer to history and try to find out what Mr. Nehru and other leaders who now are his august colleagues said at the time of Japanese attack on Shanghai, at the time of Abyssinian war against Italy, and finally at the time of Japanese conquest of Manchuria, should by all standards of worship at the altar of his Alma mater, conclude that those admirable sermons remain not acted upon at the time when the sanctions of the civilised world need to be imposed upon. The lights of freedom are now burning out fast; China is building Aerodromes and Military roads in Tibet and Mr. Paran with his knowledge of diplomacy would agree with the Chinese version that they are meant to be against English and American imperialists.

Will Mr. Paran read Gita once again and try to probe into Lord Krishna's soul saying that war, merely because it is destructive is not to be shunned but to be faced in defence of moral values.

Predicting Specific Events by Transits

I

Sir,—I have been carefully following Dr. Tucker's articles on the above subject in your esteemed magazine. Dr. Tucker always gives evidence of a systematic approach, scientific thinking and also originality in his writings. But I feel that some of his assumptions are not tenable astrologically, whether according to eastern or western systems. Is it ever possible to make a prediction by a strictly astronomical approach for the horoscope? Astrology is a science in the broad sense of the term but not in the sense in which the term science is used in the West. When I say that a planet conjoins Algol, I mean it an astrological conjunction. I do not know why Dr. Tucker has been wasting so much of ink and paper in trying to explain what a conjunction is vis a vis Algol!

I submit one more question to Dr. Tucker. Is he sure that he can predict the exact month—let alone the date—in which an event can take place, based on his system of transits? We have the Dasa systems in India—tried and tested for hundreds and thousands of years not only by serious students of astrology but also by the Nadi writers. Will Dr. Tucker, in order to demonstrate his system of transits accept a friendly challenge? Let us take the horoscope of Mr. Nehru or Dr. Adenaur or the British Queen. I shall predict an important event, based on Hindu astrology, to happen say in July 1960. Let Dr. Tucker also do the same thing? If he is successful, I shall take my hats off to him If he is not successful, let him temper the exaggerated claims he makes for his transit systems. That my offer is reasonable, I am sure, everyone will agree Will Dr. Tucker accept this suggestion?

Poona. HINDU ASTROLOGER.

II

Sir,-I should like to reply as briefly as possible to the three letters published in your August 1959 issue.

First of all, the point concerning the days of the week. The rulerships of the days were not arbitrarily or schematically fixed, but resulted from scientific observations. The ancients first of all established by observation the relative order of the planets by distance. Saturn was the most distant from the Earth, Jupiter next, then Mars, the Sun, Venus, Mercury, and finally the Moon—which was nearest.

I have no doubt the ancients initially attempted to apply the planets in that order to consecutive days in order to establish the rulership of the days observationally. But, being men of undoubted veracity, they found it did not work and remained dissatisfied with the results of that experiment.

It was at that point that it occurred to the mind of a mathematical genius that, instead of ruling consecutive days of the week in the natural order by distance, each of the planets actually had rulership over consecutive hours. And I personally do not doubt the discovered at the same time experimental means for convincing his colleagues of the reality of that rulership. At all events, in no time after that discovery, the remarkably ingenious method of selection of the natural rulers of consecutive days, which I outlined in my Article No. 3 published in your June issue, followed.

I now ask: If the numerical sequence of this ingenious discovery is not scientific, what is it?

As I demonstrated in the table printed in Article No. 3, the planetary rulerships of the days emerged naturally in the following order, Saturn, Sun, Moon, Mars, Mercury: Jupiter, Venus.

Instantly the high grade intelligence of the great thinkers of that early epoch were able to perceive observationally the reality of the influence of the day-rulers. For they were able to perceive—as I myself today able observationally to perceive—that every person born on Saturn's Day (Saturday) reveals in his personality marked Saturnian characteristics. That every person born on Jupiter's Day (Thursday) reveals in his personality marked Jupiter characteristics. And so on.

Indeed, it is clearly evident that the principle thinkers in all countries were immediately struck by the essential truth of the proposition, as is proved by the truly remarkable fact that, by unanimous agreement by all the communiant nations of the world, the days were named precisely in that order.

Again I ask: If that natural evolution of the naming of the days is not scientific, what is it?

Now I turn to Algol and alleged "conjunctions" with that star. I must first of all point out that astronomy is a remarkably well-developed science. That astrologers are compelled to make use of the science of astronomy (which indeed they were the first to found!) as the means for tracing the occurrence of events and palpable hanges operating on earth, to the individual influences of certain celestial bodies. And since astronomy is the indispensable basis of their deductions and predictions, astrologers need to be most particular about proving direct and absolutely accurate correspondences between celestial causes and mundane effects.

When, therefore, one talks about a conjunction occurring between two planets, or between a planet and a fixed star, the astronomical definition of the word "conjunction" must necessarily be strictly and undeviatingly applied. Two co-ordinates—and not merely one—are necessary and indispensable in order to establish place position. In this connection many astrologers become most careless and slovenly in their work, with the result that they end up in erroneously assuming that just because two celestial bodies happen to have the same longitude on a particular day, they are automatically "in conjunction"! Nothing could be farther from the truth. The two bodies have also to agree in declination—or at least agree in declination close enough to be seen together in the sky—before they can be in conjunction.

The Waverley Children's Dictionary (and I choose this dictionary because it defines words in a way capable of conveying the correct idea to the minds of children), gives the following the astronomical definition of the word conjunction: "In astronomy it is applied to the effect produced when, owing to their movements, two heavenly bodies appear to unite, although actually one of them passes between the earth and the second body".

No member of the Solar System can ever conjoin Algol! And when an astrologer alleges that Mars is in conjunction with Algol, he is betraying the most lamentable ignorance of the science of astronomy, and thereby revealing himself as an unashamed charlatan. For, even when the right ascensions of Mars and Algol agree on a certain day, the two celestial bodies are separated in the sky by as much as 22 degrees, and with thousands of other stars filling in the gap between the two bodies!

Now concerning the epoch: The 294th day is applied to all normal births (we will trouble ourselves with abnormal births on another occasion). The name "epochal day" has perhaps been unhappily chosen. Which is why I now prefer to rename it the "day of ovulation", in order to make the appellation more scientifically accurate.

Your correspondents allege that the countless number of births occurring in the world on any given date cannot have the same rising sign. But I would like to point out that the onus of proving their assertion rests with them!

In an article entitled "Planets and Planned Parenthood" printed in the May issue of this Magazine, Prof. B. V. Raman has produced the scientific evidence of Prof. Knaus in order to prove that there is one day only, each month, in the life of every woman, on which she can possibly conceive. Is that evidence not selective enough?

However, I must ask your correspondents to be a little more patient before jumping to hasty conclusions, and would remark that they will be well advised to suspend judgment until they are in possession of the complete researches. At the end of the present year, for instance, my article entitled "How to Plan Your Family by Means of Astrology" should have appeared. And I incline to the belief that when the contents of this particular article have been studied, it will become apparent that my researches directed towards the solution of this problem, together with the related question of horoscope rectification, have not been altogether founded on thin air and guess-work!

I must also point out that if we are to be scientific we have to be mathematical, because mathematics is the science of measurement, of space and number. We may perhaps be justified in exercising our artistic talents in drawing deductions from our measurements in order to produce an artificially-concocted "living" picture of what we believe to be a true likeness of the appearances of reality. But what we are not entitled to do—and must not do—is to strain the truth by choosing to depart radically from the basic measurements just in order to produce a sensational but totally false prediction (such as, for example, the kind of prediction cited by Douglas Hunt in your present issue). Astrologers who resort to such methods are doing so for quite obvious reasons, and not even the most naive need be taken in!

However, once astrologers depart from the axioms of astronomy, and therefore from accurate measurement, in order to indulge in such purely imaginary assumptions such as that of an alleged "conjunction" of the Sun with Mars and Algol in Aug. 1959 (vide Troinski on page 45 of the August 1959 issue of American Astrology), they should realise where such practices are leading them.

"August will be the most dangerous month of the year, especially for the Soviets whose Tertiary Sun has progressed to meet Mars in conjunction with the diabolic star Algol, the first such conjunction since the Lenin Revolution in 1917". Thus says Troinski.

Such astronomical data is purely imaginary. In actuality there is no conjunction between the Sun and Mars in the sky during August 1959. And moreover, as I have already pointed out, Mars can never approach Algol closer than 22 degrees of distance.

It remains to add that those astrologers who attempt to predict from the postulations of an imaginary astronomy of their own concoction, will in due course pay the penalty demanded from all charlatans. But meanwhile, we who are responsible thinkers, and careful of the good name of our own science, Astrology, must refuse to countenance such false teachings, and must see to it that young students are not taken in by them.

Horoscope of Netaji Bose

I

Sir,—As correctly observed by our learned Editor, the astrological predictions affecting nations should be advanced with a certain sense of balance and without giving impression of sensationalism. As for the prediction of the reappearance of our beloved Netaji, one is unable to estimate the degree of sensation it may create new, specially after a series of stories have been told and retold about his expected arrival.

Though it is not my present task to prove anything to the contrary, I have my own doubts regarding the one opinion forwarded in this connection that the ruling authorities have confirmed the death of Netaji just to discourage the leftist parties. Netaji is primarily a nationalist and only, if necessary, and that too secondarily a leftist and ruling party of this Free India at no time need fear a staunch nationalist, who has worked so hard for the freedom of this country.

As far as astrology is concerned, I would only request our learned contributors and esteemed Editor to examine the question in detail, in time, and help us to arrive at a correct conclusion. Our thanks are due to Dr. S. N. Dutt for drawing our attention to this important affair. Since the question of the correct birth time of Netaji is not a fully answered one, any prediction based on astrology must be only advanced with great caution.

I am never for hurting the feelings of any second adventist. But to me, the statement that a brave Netaji lives even today somewhere in the world simply awaiting an appropriate moment to come back to his beloved free motherland, for the freedom of which he fought and staked his own life, sounds more incredulous than sensational.

Dindigul. V.S.K. RAMAN.

II

Sir,—I shall be highly obliged if you kindly permit space for this letter in your much esteemed journal.

On page 560 of June 1959 number of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE, Sri Rajhans Bharti writes:—"On 23rd January 1897 the Bombay standard sunrise was at 7h. 18m. 0s., and the difference between the Bombay and Cuttack, viz., 0h. 13m. 36s. standard time is to be added to make standard Cuttack sunrise, and that comes to 7h. 31m. 36s."

Bombay is at 72° 49′ E. Long., 18° 58′ N. Lat., while Cuttack is at 85° 54′ E. Long., 20° 28′ N. Lat. Difference in longitude is 13° 5′; therefore difference in time is 0h. 52m. 20s., and for places in the east the Sun rises earlier and not later. I am sorry to state that the esteemed correspondent is fundamentally wrong

Again on page 798 of September 1959 number of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE, Sri T. S. Narasingham has given the sunrise time and duration of rising time for several signs on 23-1-1897 A.D. for Cuttack's latitude. I am afraid he has obtained these figures from a Kerala almanac instead of one for Cuttack. Moreover, the Moon's position invariably indicates birth in the Sun's period; and he has so fancifully brought the natives end in Rahu's period (Vimshottari)?

Horoscope No. 71, Notable Horoscopes, Pp. 371, Subhas Chandra Bose, Time 12 noon (L.M.T.) rectified as 11-24 a.m. (L.M.T.) by consideration of the life events of the subject. Lagna 0s. 8° 24′. Ayanamsa 0s. 20° 59′. Balance Sani Dasa 0 yr. 4m. 15 days. On Pp. 91 of 1959 Annual Number of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE, the Bhattapalli scholar Sri Bishnupada Bhattacharya taking 12-20 p.m. Madras time arrived at 30° 42′ ascending (Ayanamsa 22° 27′). Late Jyotishvachaspati, a Bengalee exponent on this subject taking 12-15 p.m. (L.M.T.) arrived at 23° Aries as ascending degree. But he has stressed on a Sandhi Lagna birth, i.e., junction of two signs rising at birth.

12-15 p.m. is the officially recognised birth time of Netaji Bose. Now prior to 1906 A.D. the old Railway time, same as the Madras L.M.T. was observed in greater part of India including Cuttack. Hence 12-15 p.m. Madras time is 12-37-36 p.m. Cuttack L.M.T., Madras being at 80° 15′ E. Long., 13° 4′ N. Lat.; and from Lahiri's Ephemeris:—

Ayanamsa for 1897 A.D.	22 25 24
S.T. for 23rd January	20h. 5m. 46s.
Correction for 1897	+ 5m. 35s.
Advance in time from noon	+ 37m. 36s.
S.T. at birth	... 20h. 48m. 57s.
0° Taurus rising at Cuttack	20h. 52m. 0s.

Hence 30th degree of Aries is just rising. As the time is approximate, the Aries–Taurus junction may be assumed to be rising at Netaji's birth. It is worth-mentioning here that the true signs of Aries and Taurus have an overlapping range of 4 degrees—rear portion of the Bull and the hind part of the Ram. The 30th degree is the mid-point of this overlap. Therefore in my humble opinion characteristic influences of both these signs so far as rising ones are concerned have made the nativity intricate as well as complicated for delineation. 'He is a patriot among patriots'—Mahatma Gandhi. Finally I quote Pandit Hrishikesha Shastri of Vindu Palit Lane, Calcutta-6; "...the death will occur in his motherland, at sunrise time on 14th day in the bright half of the Moon, a Thursday, in the solar month of Pausa in Saka 1888, affected with coronary thrombosis". Panditji has taken 12–15 p.m. as Madras time and arrived at Taurus Ascendant.

Calcutta. SURATH KUMAR MANDAL.

III

Sir,—Mr. Narasingham points out in the September 1959 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE, that according to the given birth time of Netaji on 23–1–1897 at 12h. 42m. 40s. at Cuttack; his Lagna should be Mesha and not Vrishabha as arrived at by Mr. Bhattacharya.

I may assure Mr. Narasingham that Mr. Bhattacharya is neither a careless astrologer nor is he ignorant of finding out the correct Lagna of a given birth time. The Indian Panchangas are mostly wrong. Mr. Bhattacharya bases his calculations on the Nautical almanac, the correctness of which nobody can challenge.

Calcutta. DR. S.N. DUTT.

Mutual Aspect of Jupiter and Mars

Sir,—In December 1957 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE, Sri R. Ramaswami of Hyderabad-Deccan, wants to know if the mutual aspect between Mars in Capricorn and Jupiter in Cancer is a good yoga. I endorse my view expressed by Sri B. V. Raman in his Hindu Predictive Astrology that "the opposition aspect has the same power as conjunction" and it is a good yoga.

I have, during the course of my study of Astrology, come across one horoscope having Mars in Capricorn and Jupiter in Cancer. The native, although born in a middle class and humble family rose to a high position in society and status. In my opinion Mars in Capricorn and Jupiter in Cancer (7th house aspect) is a good yoga which will make a man bold and ambitious in life.

Bombay-14. S. L. HATTANGADI.

An Uninteresting Magazine

Sir,—I wish to comment as follows in THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE. Still the Editorial is on political subjects which carry only biased political views and offer nothing predictive but only a post-mortem of events that have happened. Some assumed data without any scientific validity are taken for that purpose.

The monthly forecasts are too stereotyped and look out of place in a serious magazine like yours.

It is suggested that this letter may be published in your magazine to elicit the views of other readers.

Your SCIENTIFIC DIFFICULTIES solved

By MIHIRA

[In the letters THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE receives from the readers, many interesting questions are put pertaining to astrological and scientific problems. Here are a few recent queries together with answers. If some similar doubts are puzzling you, why not write us about them? This service is free to all readers of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE. Address communications to—MIHIRA, c/o THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE].

Q. 1. All the stars are equidistant from each other in the sky. How to find them in the sky in longitude and latitude?

Ch. R., Uppugundur.

Ans. The 27 stars of Hindu Astrology are not equidistant. The zodiac of 360 degrees is divided into 27 equal parts of 13° 20′ each and each division goes by the name of a star associated with it. They are not therefore necessarily equidistant, e.g., refer to Lahiri's Ephemeris for the year 1958, page 35. Aswini (p-Arietis) Longitude 0-10° 6′ 41″ and Bharani (41 Arctis) 0-24° 20′ 42″; Krittika (Aleyone 2) 1-6° 8′ 2″; Rohini (Aldebaran 3) 1-15° 55′ 48″; and so on. So it can be easily seen that they are not equidistant.

Q. 2. If, in a female horoscope, Mars is in Vrischika Lagna (Scorpio) and Saturn is posited in the 7th Taurus, what are the effects? If it is to be yoked to a person born in a different Lagna but with a similar combination, will it make things worse or will the evil of both be nullified?

N.S., Salem.

Ans. Proper comparison of horoscopes does not depend merely on the disposition of any two such planets only. But taking the above combination alone, the view of Hindu Astrology is that the evil will be to a great extent nullified. Of course much will depend on what the Lagna of the other horoscope is and the degree of malificence of Mars and Saturn will also depend upon the sign occupied. From the point of view of Mars dosha also there will be difference according to the sign occupied by Mars. For complete information on the above points vide B.V. Raman's Electional Astrology or How to compare Horoscopes by S. Rajagopala Iyer.

Q. 3. Mercury is a natural benefic and hence if he rules angles, he becomes a malefic. Suppose he is hemmed in between malefics or aspected by malefics, then he is to be considered as a malefic. Will he then, because of his ruling angles, become again a benefic?

R.C.P., Uttarpara.

Ans. No. The rule of a benefic ruling kendras becoming malefic is confined to natural benefics and of malefic and ruler of kendras becomes a benefic to natural malefics like Saturn Mars and Sun.

Q. 4. (a) Ref. B. V. Raman's Notable Horoscopes, page 212 (Horoscope of Henry Ford). It is stated that Marutha Yoga is present. One of the ingredients of Marutha Yoga is that Jupiter should be in trine from Venus. Both are in the same sign in this horoscope. How can Marutha Yoga arise? (b) Can Marutha Yoga arise if Sun and Moon are in trine to each other, Moon in 5th from Jupiter and Venus in kona from Jupiter? (c) Suppose to form a Dhana Yoga, a planet has to occupy the 2nd house. Will the same yoga arise if the planet only aspects that house, e.g., for Scorpio Lagna, Mars lord of Lagna is in 2nd and Jupiter in Lagna causes Ayathnadhana Yoga. Will the same yoga arise if lord of Lagna is in 2nd and lord of 2nd aspects Lagna from Taurus? (d) Samrajya Yoga if present is said to make a person a king or equal to a king. It is present in the horoscope given (rasi and navamsa positions alone given). Why is the native an ordinary man? (e) Notable Nativities, page 119. How is Vasumathi Yoga said to be present when Mars and Rahu are in 3rd from Lagna both being malefics? Please reconcile. (f) Ref. A.M. January 1950, page 114. Letter of J.P. Chaturvedi says that any Bhava occupied by Jupiter (except 6th, 8th and 12th houses) spoils the bhava. How will their spoliation take effect in respect of 7th Bhava if he occupies it?

R.M.C., Ahmedabad.

Ans. (a) On the analogy that Lagna is to be considered as both a kendra and a kona, planets in the same sign are to be considered as being both in kendra as well as kona from each other. Hence Venus and Jupiter are in kona from each other also. (b) No, in Marutha Yoga, Moon and Sun have to be in kendra from each other. (c) No. (d) You commit the common mistake that rasi and navamsa charts are sufficient for all purposes. Bhava cusps also have to be given. Otherwise, it is impossible to judge whether the yoga is present or not. (e) Vasumathi Yoga has nothing to do with malefics. The reason why this yoga arises is given by the learned author himself thus "Vasumathi Yoga is present because of the situation of Jupiter and Venus in the 6th and 11th Bhavas respectively". (f) This opinion is not shared by standard writers.

Q. 5. (a) When Lagna is Virgo 27° who is the lord of Lagna, Mercury or Venus? Who is the lord of the eleventh bhava, Moon or Sun? (b) If Rahu occupies same degree with Mercury in the above case, can Rahu be called the lord of Lagna and the horoscope discussed accordingly? (c) If Venus occupies third degree of Libra in the above case, is he to be considered as weak or strong? (d) If Moon is in conjunction with Mars at the time of birth, it is stated that the goddess of wealth always abodes in his house. Does this yoga counteract all other defects of the horoscope, if any.

H.P.G., Calcutta.

Ans. (a) Mercury is the lord of Lagna. Who the eleventh lord is, will depend on the latitude of the birth place. In these latitudes and upto latitude 46° N, the ruler will be only Moon. For Lat. 47° N. and above, the ruler of the eleventh will be Sun. (b) Simply because of his association with lord of any particular Bhava, Rahu does not become the ruler of that Bhava also. Generally he reflects the effects of the planet in whose sign he is placed, with whom he is in association and the planets which aspect him. (c) Venus is to be considered as strong for two reasons: (1) He is in his own sign. (2) He is in Lagna Kendra (first Bhava). (d) No. Moon conjunction Mars is a Dhana Yoga. If other evil yogas or Nirdhana Yogas are present the effects will be mixed. Such yoga or yogas which are more powerful than others will prevail. This has to be judged in reference to each horoscope.

Q. 6. Ref. February 1948 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE, page 156, col. 3, "The following rules will indicate the nature of the transit. (1) Not only the Sun but also each planet when in the sign of the transitor makes the transit positive and good results will come from the transit. (2) The moving body in the sign of the transitor, etc. The 'moving body" surely is the transitor? Is this the author's intended meaning? Illegible, Nilgiris.

Ans. Much of what is contained in the article is not easily understandable and the rules mentioned appear to contradict the ordinary rules of transit contained in texts. But we agree with you in thinking that transitor and moving body must mean the same thing.

Q. 7. (a) If a person is born on 26th or 27th of a lunar month, should the position of Sun be shifted to the next sign according to Sayana zodiac? (b) Should Vimshottari system be accepted in predictions? If so, on what grounds? S.R.B., Shillong.

Ans. (a) The question as framed is unintelligible. A lunar month is divided into two parts (1) increasing, (2) decreasing. Even supposing that 26th or 27th relates to the second or decreasing half, it refers to the lunar date or thithi which measures the distance of Moon from the Sun and gives no clue whatever as to their respective longitudes in the ecliptic. This distance is the same for both Sayana and Nirayana zodiacs. Therefore the question as to which sign Sun should be allocated according to Sayana zodiac has no meaning. (b) Yes; because it is uniformly laid down in all the standard texts

Q. 8. In a horoscope lord of Lagna (Gemini) occupies 11th, lord of 11th occupies 9th and lord of 9th occupies 5th and lord of 5th occupies Lagna. Does this have any significance? Is it any yoga? K., Rajasthan.

Ans. Such a yoga has not been referred to in the standard texts. But as all the bhavas concerned are auspicious, it should only mean good and serve to strengthen the significations of the bhavas involved in the above chain.

Q. 9. (a) Ref. Pp. 39 of January 1947 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE, "It is also significant to note that the learned author wants the dusthana lords to be in a place other than their own place. But the very best results would follow when the planet is debilitated and also in a bad place". And Ref. Pp. 479 of May 1957 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE, answer to Question 11 (a) "If such a planet is in debility all their prospects will not be fully realised and greatly reduced; the means employed for achieving success will not be above board", etc. Please reconcile the two contradictory statements. (b) What are the effects of exchange between lords of 6th and 12th, and 6th and 11th for Pisces Lagna? (c) What are the effects of Vipareeta Rajayoga? (d) For a person having Mercury in Pisces, Lagna with Jupiter in 5th in conjunction with Moon, is there Neechabhanga Raja Yoga? Is Gajakesari Yoga also present? (e) Ref: Pp. 366, Question 6 (b) of May 1951 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE. What is the yoga and what are its effects? Is there any change if Moon occupies Cancer?

H.C.V., Ahmedabad.

Ans. (a) No doubt they represent two different views—whether it is better for the lord of a dusthana to be strong or weak? But they are by two different authors. If they emanate from the same authority, a reconciliation may be thought of as may be only apparently contradictory. But here no reconciliation is possible. (b) The effects of exchange are given in the texts only as between rulers of houses. No doubt differences will have to be judged with reference to each Lagna in each horoscope. But as from Lagna alone, there is no significance. Exchange between lords of 6th and 12th gives rise to Vipareeta Rajayoga as per Uttarakalamrita, but the author of Phaladeepika does not consider this to be auspicious. He considers both the exchanges between lords of 6th and 12th as well as 6th and 11th houses as Dainya Yoga. Persons born under Dainya Yoga are said to undergo ups and downs in life. (c) The native will enjoy the effects of Rajayoga, i.e., royal luxuries, political success, prosperity, etc. (d) Both yogas are present. (e) There the question was about a horoscope (Pisces Lagna) in which there was exchange as between lords of 6th and 11th houses from Lagna and 4th and 10th as from Moon (Scorpio). The former is Dainya Yoga and the latter Maha Yoga, respectively, bad and good yogas. Now the present question appears to be what will be the position if Moon occupies Cancer. Then the exchange will be as between 2nd and 8th houses. This is also Dainya Yoga only.

THREE HUNDRED IMPORTANT COMBINATIONS

BY B. V. RAMAN

This is not a collection of combinations but a careful selection of just the most important ones which cannot be easily identified in a horoscope.

What makes one a dunce? Why is one unhappy, what makes one poor and the other rich? Why one has no bodily comfort—what makes one a King or an equal, a leader, a business magnate, an industrialist, a great politician, a pauper, a sickly man and a miserable wretch? What makes one attain success without much effect and what makes the other to meet with disappointment in life inspite of his very best efforts?

A study of this book will enable you to easily judge the worth of your own horoscope and adjudge its merits and demerits.

A book of this type containing a collection of rare combinations some of which are special yogas has never been published before.

The author has illustrated the principles with innumerable horoscopes from practical lives. Do not fail to read this book.

RAMAN PUBLICATIONS, "SRI RAJESWARI", BANGALORE-20

BY DR. R. NAGARAJA SARMA, M.A., Ph.D., D.LITT.

THE FACE OF THE SUN—By H. W. Newton—(Penguin Books Ltd., Harmondsworth, Middlesex. Pp. 208. Price 3s. 6 d.)

This Pelican book bearing No. A. 422 constitutes a remarkable contribution to a correct and proper understanding of the nature and characteristics of the Face of the Sun which has engaged and which is still engaging the serious attention of astronomers all the world over. A special piece of work entrusted to the care of astronomers, in the International Geophysical year is the study of the surface of the Sun. 16 plates and 30 diagrams convincingly illustrate some of the facts about the surface of the Sun.

The author gives an account and running commentary regarding the progressive development of knowledge secured about the Sun, during the last three centuries and a half since Galelio first turned a telescope on the stars.

The solar surface, sun-spots, giant sun-spots, flares and prominences, solar activity, earth's magnetism, radio-waves from the Sun and cosmic rays, sun-spots and weather disturbances and uncertainties, and other matters are described by the author in an attractive and engaging manner. It is said that 50,000 (fifty thousand) miles long tongues of gas shoot out from the surface of the Sun, into space, and certain types of solar activity are believed to be responsible for unexpected disturbances in weather conditions and radio. In the farthest expanses of limitless space, there are thousands and thousands of stars like the Sun and the picture here given of the Sun may be taken to be typical of phenomena obtaining in these remotest reaches of space.

The author, who, it is said, has recently retired from RoyalGreenwich Observatory is an authority on sun-spots and sun-flares, and his researches won for him the Royal Astronomical Society's Model. In Appendix two are listed 25—Greatest of sun-spots noticed between 1874 and 1954. Whether any sun-spots will appear in 1962—the year which will witness the combination of 8-planets and whether astrologically, appearances of sun-spots will indicate any good or evil effects are today's open questions.

It is observed that the Island Universes are rapidly moving away from our own and greater the distance, the faster is the speed. This phenomenon would lend support to the theory of Expanding Universe. (Pp. 187).

Mr. Newton's work is authoritative, well-documented and illuminating, and it amply enriches contemporary literature on sun and sun-spots and other solar phenomena. All Hindu astrologers worship the Sun who is believed to be the giver of best and robust health.

KASHMIR FOREVER—By Jagat S. Bright—(Bright Institute, 5005, Roshanara Road, Delhi-6. Pp. 240. Price Rs. 2.50).

Scanned by Gangotri Digital Astrology.com To Preserve Rare Books Work

The author observes that he has no political or other axe to grind and that he holds no brief for anybody. He paid a visit to Kashmir and he has written this book with an unbiased mind, without pride and prejudice.

Since the advent of Indian Independence and partition or dichotomization of the country into Pakistan and India or Bharat, Kashmir has been a problem, and it is not yet solved or settled.

Life and conditions, general, economic, educational, political and social, in the delightful land of Boat Houses, are described by the author in the most telling and effective manner. When you read through the volume, you will find as if you have been transported to the valley of roses and apples. In political analysis and reflections, the author has held a balance between Pakistan and India. Incidentally, this volume contains a defence of Mr. V. K. Krishna Menon and vindication of his interpretation and championship of India in foreign countries.

The author does not mince matters. He emphatically and categorically states that handing over of Kashmir and Pakistan is "like handing over a young pregnant Cow to a Butcher". (Pp. 225). Indian and foreigners who may be anxious to know the truth about Kashmir will carefully study the book of Mr. Bright.

THE MEANING OF HOME SCIENCE—By Dr. (Mrs.) Rajammal P. Devadas—(Avinashilingam Home Science College, Coimbatore. Pp. 54. Price Rs. 2).

Is there any need for Home Science? Should it be studied in colleges? Is it not after all simple cooking and house-keeping and rearing of children? Were not ancient mothers and grandmothers successful home scientists without any college education? These and other misconceptions about Home Science are removed and its aim, scope, and methods are explained in this book by Dr. Rajammal, Chief Home Economist, Ministry of Food and Agriculture, Government of India, Delhi. The articles and contributions of Dr. Rajammal have been assembled in the form of the present publication.

Mr. T. S. Avinashilingam, has written a valuable "Foreword", in the course of which, the importance and significance of Home Science have been brought out. Modern young women educated in colleges and Universities contribute articles to the Press, knew something about the Tensor theory of Equations, and so on, but, are not able to prepare homely food and maintain a family and home in a disciplined and economic manner. In foreign countries, great importance is attached to study of Home Science. So, this book has been published with a view to helping young women in learning the art and science of home-keeping.

The book will be a useful text for students studying in our schools and colleges offering instruction in Home Science for degree course of the Universities.

RAMBLES IN LITERATURE, ART, LAW, AND PHILOSOPHY—By A.S.P. Ayyar—M. A. I. C. S.—(The Madras Law Journal Press, Mylapore, Madras-4. Pp. 479. Price Rs. 5 or 7s. 6d).

Dedicated to the "Youth of India in a spirit of Humble Service", the volume contains a number of essays, and lectures of Mr. A.S.P. Ayyar, Retired Judge of the Madras High Court, collected together and presented within the compass of a single publication. The author had delivered several lectures, contributed articles to different periodicals, and broadcast some talks. At the request of friends who desired that permanent form and shape should be given to these in view of their importance. Mr. Ayyar has agreed to bring out these assembled in a single book.

His view on Law should be noteworthy as emanating from a former Judge. The author believes that short-time imprisonment is no good, as, in that case, potentially good persons may become hardened criminals by contact with the latter. Of course, in unavoidable cases, criminals have to be sentenced to different terms of imprisonment commensurate with the nature and gravity of the crime. But, as far as posible, the State should endeavour to reform and transform criminals into honest law-abiding citizens. A book which runs to 479 pages should have been provided with an index. I feel certain that youth of the country will vastly benefit by making a careful study of the volume.

YOGA—THE AMAZING LIFE SCIENCE—By Major P.G. Francis—(Thorsons Publishers Ltd., 91, St. Martin's Street (Lane), London, W.C. 2. Pp. 88. Price 7s. 6d. net).

It is interesting and encouraging to note that yoga is claiming and enlisting more and more interest in Western countries in Britain, Continent and America. With the advancement of experimental psychology, yoga seems to be exercising some fascination over the minds of Englishmen and Americans.

In Part I, the theories and technique of yoga are explained. In Part II, it is explained how yoga can be utilised to increase thought-power and how it can be made to function as success-mechanisms or success-method. Yoga is mainly inspired psychically, but, the author believes that yoga has within itself down-to-earth practical success-techniques and mechanisms, as striking and effective as these created and standardized by trans-Atlantic experts.

The author has described seven planes of consciousness, and pointed out, that yoga condemns all fatalism. Individual effort, energy and initiation would alone lead to success in yoga.

The author has very rightly distinguished between individual Karma and and national Karma. There must be international Karma as well.

Enormous potentialities and possibilities lie concealed in a synthetic study or pursuit of both yoga and western psychological techniques. I believe the present publication of Major Francis will vastly facilitate such a synthetic investigation of both yoga and experimental psychology.

GREAT WRITINGS OF GOETHE—Ed. by Stephen Spender—(Mentor). Pp. 280. Price 75 c.)

Edited with an interesting and illuminating "Introduction", by Stephen Spender who is described as "Another Shelly", this collection or anthology contains some of the best and most sparkling writings of Goethe, who was a gifted, poet, novelist, essayist, letter-writer, scientist, statesman, and playwright and these many-sided writings have some permanent interest for mankind.

Goethe would appear to have been very hard on a Book Reviewer, who having once enjoyed a lunch with him, had the audacity to discuss critically the fare, with a neighbour of Goethe. Harsh as the comment, I feel the reviewer should have been grateful to the lunch-giver and host, one too as eminent as Goethe.(Pp.46). Also, Goethe seems to have held the view-"When we have drunk, we know what is right". (Pp. 24). Goethe, also, appears to have been fond of invoking God.

MAINSPRINGS OF CIVILIZATION—By Ellsworth Huntington-(Mentor). Pp. 672. Price 75 c.)

Why do nations differ? Why have they individual idiosyncrasies? What are the causes? These and connected problems are explained and discussed by the author in the Mainsprings of Civilization. In the Universe of the Almighty Lord, there is nowhere any dull mechanical uniformity. Differences and diversity dominate the entire creation.

These differences are all due to differences regarding heredity, geography and climate of the countries concerned where the nations live.

The Russian advancement in modern technology is believed to be the outcome of intensely cold winters. Likewise, the diet of Chinese, which is judged to be below the standard, is perhaps, the reason why Chinese culture is stagnant. On account of the communistic impact, things in China have changed. Evidently, Chinese diet must have now seen vastly improved (in terms of calories perhaps).

Heredity would account for German militarism. But, it is not safe at all to generalise in this manner. Militarism has now spread throughout the world.

Oases in deserts would explain the seclusion of Arabian women. But, then, women in other parts of the world have also been kept secluded.

The author has written a challenging, controversial work which will be read and discussed widely by students of history and sociology. Heredity or environment, it is indispensable that nations should make provision for high military budget.

THE THREE GREAT PLAYS OF EURIPIDES—Trans. by Rex Warner—(Mentor Classic). Pp. 192. Price 75 c.)

Three Great Plays of Euripides are here, given in a new translation by the author. The plays are—Medea, Hippolytus and Helen. Euripides is universally known as author of remarkable tragedies.

Why do certain lives terminate in tragedies? Are the tragedies brought about by others? Or, are the individuals themselves concerned the authors of their own self-undoing? Euripides furnishes the answer that after all, the cause of tragedy lies in oneself, and that each has to fight the devil or demon of one's own self.

In the beginning, doubtless, Medea was a good and loving woman. When, her husband betrayed her, all her love got transformed into hatred. Tragedy was the result. In such contexts, there is hardly room for calm reflection, and the tragedy cannot be at all averted. One's lower self triumphs over the higher.

Hippolytus is a very chaste and moral youth. He is confronted by illicit love. He cannot respond of reciprocate. He just spurns or rejects the illicit love. It all terminates in tragedy. In this story, the Gods and goddesses take sides, and judged, in the light of human standards, the conduct of Divine personalities could not be justified.

The story of Helen is not just the same as the Homeric one. Euripides perhaps followed the version of Stesichorus according to which real Helen did not move to Troy, but, it was only her phantom. Madhvacharya interprets that only a phantom of Sita was taken away by the demon of Lanka.

THE OEDIPUS PLAYS OF SOPHOCLES.—Trans. by Paul Roche—(Mentor Classic). Pp. 224. Price 75 c.)

The Theban Trilogy centres round the history of King Oedipus, whose story has been immortalized by Sophocles, in three plays which are presented in a new rendering by Paul Roche.

Murdering one's father and marrying one's mother, would seem highly improbable and unlikely, but, in the background of Greek culture, there was evidently, as room for any such improbabilities.

The tragedy of Oedipus had been foretold. Modern rationalists would go on questioning—Did the tragedy happen, because, it had been foretold? Or, did the Gods foretell, because, the tragedy was destined to happen?

Scanning has been carried out with Machine Learning Algorithms for Preservation Work

Oedipus inflicted on himself terrible self-punishment. That must vastly and specifically rehabilitate his character. But, the permanent question is—Should such a terrible error at all have occurred? Do Gods and Fate —share a portion of the blame? Not many modern women placed in similar circumstances or situations would be choosing the path Antigone chose. At the same time, it should be observed that in modern life such situations are not likely to arise at all. Towards the end of "Oedipus at Colonus", the chorus uttering tragic accents would be seen to proclaim—All's Ordained—Past All Denying. There is nothing dubious or doubtful about this. Was Sophocles a fatalist? Did the public of these days believe in fatalism, or determinism? These are permanent and persistent problems, and there is plenty of material for future research.

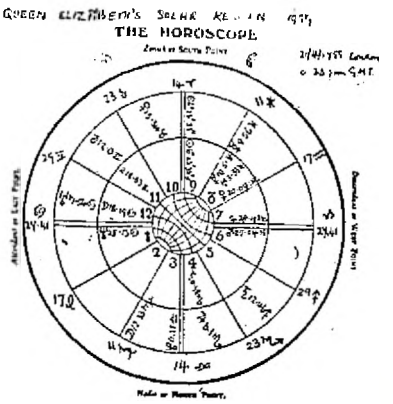
STORIES FROM SHAKESPEARE—By Marchette Chute—(Mentor.) Pp. 320. Price 75 c.)

Stories of all the plays of Shakespeare have been told in a charming and engaging manner by the distinguished lady-writer Marchette Chute who is described as an authority on English Literary History. Shakespeare is a permanent theme, and is one of the greatest of immortals of the dramatic world. All shades and subtleties of human mind and personality are exhibited by the celebrated dramatist on the stage, and when the characters of Shakespeare move on the stage, the Panorama of life seem to be moving in variegated multi-coloured emotionally toned scences and pictures.

The stories stand arranged thus—first came the comedies. Then, the tragedies are narrated. Histories or historical play-stories appear next. 36 plays are given as noted in the first folio. The stories relating to first two, are arranged in the chronological order of writing them. Historical stories are told in the order in which the kings concerned reigned.

The main purpose of Miss Chute being just story-telling, there is no discussion of the Philosophy of Shakespeare, in the course of "Introduction". All the great dramatists have had a characteristic philosophy of their own which they expounded through delineation of heroes or characters. The philosophy of tempest is unforgettable, and in fact universal, in metaphysical speculation—"Our little life is rounded with a sleep. Miss Chute's narration easily excels all others in the line.

NEW WORLD WRITING—(Mentor.) Pp. 320. Price 75 c.)



The fourteenth issue of the New World Writing, which is described as a "vital cross-section of the best new fiction, poetry, criticism', etc., contains an imposing collection of writings of fairly well-known writers selected from forty countries. A special feature of the publication is inclusion of new writing from Latin America. Perhaps, the most arresting section of the volume is the one relating to the last days of Dostoevski. Hindu readers will appreciate reference to "amorous nuptial Friday" though of course, not all Fridays are devoted to love-making. It is indeed, very difficult to make a selection from world writing; as selection would always mean rejection. Each nation has its own idiosyncrasy. Each nation is a microcosm. But, the Editors have exercised their best care and judgment, in making, the final selection they have made representative of most of the great nations of the globe. This being the case, the selection will never lend itself to any universal agreement or acceptability, in the light of Universal standards and generalizations. The 14th issue of the New World Writing, pre-eminently maintains the excellence of its predecessors in quality and quantity, on which the Editors and Publishers may well be complimented. There seems to be something philosophical about the "little monkey—little donkey and the little mannikin". (Pp. 317). Notwithstanding the advancement of modern experimental sciences which have very nearly dismissed God and Existence of God, from their schemes and studies, and particularly now, when, when mankind seriously planning space travel to other planets for purposes of conquest and colonization, it may seem strange that leading nations of the world, owe allegiance to some religion or another, faith and belief in which would seem to be make them live and sustain meaningfullness of life and all the values, sacred and spiritual.

The Queen's 1959 sidereal solar return occurred on the 21st April 1959 at 0.28 p.m. (G.M.T.) and the chart is as follows :—

In this composite chart the radical positions are placed in the inner circle and the solar return positions in the outer circle, so that a clear comparison can be made of the transits within the chart itself. The first thing which strikes the eye is the radical position of Jupiter and Mars exactly setting on the 7th cusp, opposite Neptune rising. This is very suggestive of a confinement and that Mars is the ruling planet of this event in a woman's horoscope. But it will also be noted that the solar Mercury, the ruler of children, is exactly transitting the radical Mercury and in opposition to the solar Moon and square solar Mars, again perhaps significant of the event. We would expect these positions therefore to be prominent in the likely period of child birth, either by progression or transit and this is what we find.

On the 11th/12th February next, the progressed M.C. by the PSSR method comes to the conjunction of both the solar and radical Mercury and then goes to the opposition of the solar Moon and square Mars solar. At the same time, the Sun by current transit will be in 28° Capricorn conjunct the radical Jupiter, and Mars by transit will be in 28° Sagittarius, exactly on the Queen's radical Ascendant. I suggest therefore that the royal birth might occur about these dates, the 11th/12th February 1960.

Hints FOR AGRICULTURISTS

FOR NOVEMBER 1959

BY MIHIRA

"IF in the month of Purattasi (October–November) on days ruled by Chitta, Swati and Visakha, there are light showers, the nanja and punja crops will yield plentifully because of timely and adequate rains and happiness and contentment will prevail in the land".

"If in the month of Arpasi (November-December) during bright half, there are even light showers on lunar date 1 or lunar date 8 there will be good rains from that date upto Karthika 30th and the tanks and lakes will be filled with water and crops will flourish".

—The Science of Rainfall.

"Summer crops will be good if at the time of Sun's entry into Scorpio, Venus or Mercury or both occupy either Sagittarius or Libra".

—B. V. Raman.

"Plant a garden when the asterism Rohini rules; betelvine in Aslesha; brinjals in Bharani; ragi and paddy in Swati; roots in Moola; palmyra, cocoanut, mango in Aswini; vegetables in Bharani; plantains and sugarcanes in Pushya".

"For planting and grafting trees, the Moon should be either in Taurus, Leo, Virgo, Aquarius or Pisces. Taurus is the best, and in sextile or trine aspect with Venus. Let Saturn be direct in motion and either in the ascendant 11th, or 5th or 2nd house dignified. If this cannot be done, let Jupiter be in one of these houses and in benefic aspect with Saturn. If neither, let Moon be in one of them or in 10th free from impediment".

—A. J. Pierce,
Text Book of Astrology.

N.B.—Impediment is synonymous to "affliction by evil planets".

Reaping the Crop.—"Bharani, Rohini, Mrigasira, Aridra, Pushyami, Makha, Uttara, Hasta, Visakha, Anuradha, Uttarashada and Sravana, are favourable constellations to start reaping the crop. Avoid 4th, 8th, 9th, 11th, 12th and 14th lunar days and also New Moon. Taurus, Gemini, Virgo, Libra, Sagittarius or Pisces should be rising". —B.V. Raman.

DAILY GUIDE

1. L.D. not generally favourable for new beginnings or works of importance; usually observed as an agricultural holiday; but routine work like digging, levelling, fencing, raking, weeding, etc., can be done.

2. A day favourable for select agricultural works such as planting, harvesting, purchase of grain or cattle. Afternoon and evening: Good for all matters in general.

3. Marana Yogam after 11–10 a.m.; no good works to be begun after 11 a.m.; keep to routine thereafter; till 11 a.m. good for all work specially manuring; for best effects, use organic manure.

4. After 9–30 a.m. Marana Yogam; L.D. too does not favour new beginnings for the whole day; avoid all important works and new beginnings.

5. After 8 a.m. asterism is not good for any purchase except purchase of cattle; till then, conditions are also not favourable though asterism and L.D. are good because of Yamagandam. Therefore this day which is apparently a good one, does not favour important works.

6. An ordinarily good day for all purposes in general; best for purposes of manuring and harvesting; also dealings in cattle; after 3 p.m. conditions are very good for all purposes —one of the best in the whole month.

7. A generally alround good day; best for storing grain; this can be utilised also for digging wells and grafting plants.

8. Asterism good for limited purposes only; but L.D., Marana Yogam and Yogini conspire to render this day practically unfit for all purposes and agricultural works.

9. Yogini towards sky or earth whole day and night; not good for ploughing, planting, manuring, etc.; but after 11 a.m. day is favourable for purchase of grain or cattle for agricultural purposes.

10. Marana Yogam and Yogini make this day unfit for all agricultural works whole day.

11. One of the few alround good days in the month for all agricultural matters in general and can be utilised for manuring, planting, or beginning of any work in general; harvesting and storing can also be done.

12. A very good day for all matters; all agricultural and horticultural work can be begun and conducted. Planting, manuring, etc., can be done, as also digging wells, cattle purchase; for best effects, use organic manure, fish manure, etc.

13. Till 11–45 a.m. good for all purposes; best for planting; later L.D. unfavourable.

14. Till 1 p.m. not good; after 8–40 a.m. asterism unfavourable; avoid all good works for the whole day.

15. L.D. and asterism combine to make this day inauspicious for all agricultural works in general.

16. Marana Yogam till 1–30 p.m.; but L.D. continues to be unfavourable till 5 p.m.; thus best part of the day becomes unfit for good works. If important work has to be begun, it can be begun after 5 p.m. and continued next day.

17. An alround good day; the day specially favours manuring; for best effect, use cattle manure; also good for planting, harvesting, digging wells, purchase of cattle, etc.

18. Another alround good day.

19. Yogini towards sky or earth whole day and night; so unfit for planting, ploughing and manuring; but day can be utilised for the purposes of defrayal of grain for agricultural purposes for which alone L.D. is favourable.

20. Till 10–20 a.m. yogini towards earth; therefore the day can be uti-

"A closer study of the doctrine of elections as the proper choice of time for specific purposes is called in astrology would lead man to take a conscious part in the conspiracy of well-being, by the adjustment of action to purpose and of both to astral and cosmic conditions. This would be infinitely better than 'taking one's choice' and certainly more in conformity with the spirit of true religion."

"If, as demonstrated, the inner plane weather (mapped by astrological positions) influences all other things on earth; it would indeed be strange if it does not also influence the outer plane weather. That it does, has been verified by a great many Church of Light and other students who have tested out the system of astrological weather predicting here set forth."

"Avoid air journeys when Yogini lies towards earth or sky; avoid Marana Yogam days and Nasa Yogam days; observe in addition Vara Soolai and if possible thithi soolam also and if the Lagna of the journey conforms to Nishpanchaka rules, be sure you will have a safe journey.

Air Journeys.—"Take due note of Tarabala. Let the Lagna be an aerial sign; avoid Mars in Lagna, 7th and 8th. Let the Moon be waxing and as far away from Rahu as possible; render the ascendant strong by a suitable disposition of Jupiter."

DAILY GUIDE

1. Marana Yogam after 2-20 p.m.; L.D. not good till 2-10 a.m. (night); better to avoid journeys by air till 2-20 p.m.; thereafter to be thoroughly avoided especially towards south.

2. Marana Yogam till 12-45 p.m.; air journeys only thereafter; if absolutely necessary avoid journeys at least towards east.

3. Marana Yogam after 11-10 a.m.; avoid air journeys thereafter at least towards north.

4. Marana Yogam after 9-30 a.m.; avoid journeys by air thereafter at least towards north.

6. Marana Yogam after 5-20 a.m. (night); avoid starting on air journeys between 5-20 a.m. (night) and sunrise at least towards west.

8. L.D. bad; Yogini towards sky after 11-50 a.m.; Marana Yogam after 4 a.m. (night); if air journey cannot be avoided start from the house at least before 11-50 a.m. and do not journey towards west.

9. Yogini towards sky or earth whole day and night; avoid air journeys at least towards east.

10. Yogini towards earth till 10-30 a.m.; Marana Yogam till 4-30 a.m. (night); air journeys only thereafter; avoid north in any event.

11. Whole day and night safe for air journeys except after 5-25 a.m. (night) when Marana Yogam begins.

16. Marana Yogam till 1-30 p.m.; avoid journeys till then; especially towards east.

18. Yogini towards sky after 9-10 p.m.; avoid air journeys thereafter at least towards north.

19. Yogini towards sky or earth whole day and night; avoid journeys by air throughout especially towards south.

20. Yogini towards earth till 10-25 p.m.; Marana Yogam after 10-50 p.m.; so no journey is safe except between 10-25 p.m. and 10-50 p.m.; make a start from the house in this interval if journey is absolutely necessary; avoid west.

21. Marana Yogam after 0-20 a.m. (night); avoid journeys thereafter especially towards east.

22. Marana Yogam after 1-25 a.m. (night); avoid journeys thereafter especially towards west.

23. Bad L.D.; Marana Yogam till 2-0 a.m. (night); if air journeys unavoidable, begin journey after 2 a.m. (night); avoid eastern direction.

25. Marana Yogam after 1-40 a.m. (night); avoid air journeys thereafter especially towards north.

28. Yogini towards sky after 7-15 p.m.; avoid air journeys thereafter especially towards east.

29. Yogini towards sky or earth day and night; Marana Yogam throughout day and night; a day to be specially avoided for air journeys in any direction.

30. Yogini towards earth till 3 p.m.; avoid air journeys till then especially towards east.

lised for all purposes in general and beginning of works; however best for manuring, purchase of cattle and grain.

21. L.D. makes the day only good for manuring, harvesting and purchase of cattle; not suitable for other purposes.

22. Asterism makes the whole day unfit for all auspicious matters, new beginnings, etc.

23. L.D. makes the whole day unfit for all good works in general.

24. Both L.D. and asterism combine to render the day wholly unsuitable for all works.

25. One of the few alround good days in the whole month; any work can be begun, cattle can be purchased, well digging commenced, as also manuring; for best effect, use chemical manures and fertilisers.

26. One of the best days in the month; day, L.D. and asterism are all good for almost any purpose; but L.D. best for manuring and purchase of cattle; for best effect, use combination of chemical and organic manures.

27. An alround good day; but best suited for harvesting and storing of grain; also for digging of wells.

28. Day can be utilised for planting and purchase of cattle and grain.

29. Marana Yogam all day and night; to be avoid for all purposes.

30. L.D. makes the day unfit for new beginnings and auspicious works.

NOVEMBER 1959

BY MIHIRA

[The following forecasts based on Janma Rasi are general and as such those having favourable aspects according to present Dasa and Bhukthi, will have favourable results from the indications made below; while those having adverse aspects according to current directions will experience these predictions to a lesser proportion. The predictions given below are based not upon conjecture, but upon a clear interpretation of the movements or transits of planets. If you do not know your Janma Rasi write to Mihira, C/o THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope.—Ed., A.M.].

MAJOR TRANSITS.—Sun travels in Libra till 14th, then enters Scorpio. Mars moves in Libra till 22nd, then goes to Scorpio. The other planets do not change signs during the month. Mercury in Scorpio turns retrograde on 14th. Venus moves from the beginning of Virgo to the end of Virgo within the month. Jupiter and Saturn are in Scorpio and Sagittarius throughout, respectively. Rahu and Kethu continue their retrograde motion in Virgo and Pisces respectively.

1. Mesha (Aries).—Venus and Rahu in 6th; Sun and Mars in 7th and 8th; Jupiter and Mercury in 8th; Saturn in 9th; and Kethu in 12th.

General.—There is only one planet that is good for the month and that is Mercury and he is free of check. Still, Mercury's influence in transit may not amount to much. The other planets, transit evil signs only. Of these Venus, Sun and Saturn are under check throughout and Jupiter for the greater part of the month. This would be of help in reducing their evil effects. But the month is likely to be troubled throughout and generally prove to be disappointing in most respects. Tedious journeys, health troubles, quarrels, humiliation and varied anxieties, losses, grief, liability to accidents, litigation, increased and heavy expenditure, losses, troubles and difficulties caused by rivals and enemies, fruitless enterprises, etc., are the sort of troubles that may have to be experienced in some form or other during the month. Amidst all these, occasional success, auspicious events in the house, some steadiness and happiness, gains, etc., are also probable now and then. It would better to be careful in all matters from domestic to professional enterprises during the entire month. Of the three stars of the sign, the least troubled will be those born under Krittika, next in rank comes those born under Bharani and those born under Aswini come last though the difference between these two may not be much.

Health and Domestic.—Health of self as well as that of other family members are liable to be affected adversely and ailments ranging from mere indigestion to high blood pressure may be present in your case, off and on, throughout the month. Fever, 'heat' troubles, dysentery and other rectal ailments may also trouble you according to the nature of the system. Wife and children may be subjected to various ailments. During journeys which should be avoided as far as possible, you must guard yourself against fatigue as well as against accidents. The domestic circle will not be without quarrels, bickerings and misunderstandings and peace of mind will be almost entirely absent because of this and other causes.

Finance and Speculation.—Finances cannot but suffer during the month and everything will take a downward course. Not that the usual avenues of income will fail, they will quickly disappear in constantly increasing demand for items of expenditure, new and old, not the least part of it will see cost of medicines and doctor's bills. The redeeming feature of this that money will be found for all this and without much difficulty. But there will be need for watching the outlet carefully, otherwise not all your resources will be found adequate and may have to resort to borrowing which should be avoided as far as possible. Under such transit influences, it would be only folly to speculate.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—Though matters pertaining to real property will follow the general downward trend as in all other matters, there are some favourable elements that would prevent things from going too far. Some unforeseen factors are even likely to favour them and it is up to those interested to utilise the favourable influences to the utmost. There may not be much to complain of in the matter of yield and rentals but disputes are likely to arise and even litigation threatened in some cases. Of course, it need not be stressed that litigation should be avoided as far as possible as the result is not likely to be in favour of mirasdars or landowners generally. The services are bound to suffer during the month. There may be setbacks, official frowns and disfavour. Impediments even in normal routine matters are liable to occur and frustrate not only your hopes but also make you apprehensive as regards the future. By strict adherence to your duties and not looking to right or to the left, you should be able to escape the baneful effects of the evil transits. Profession and business come within the affected sphere and it is better to avoid new enterprises of any magnitude during the month and not take undue risks.

Women.—Women as such are likely to feel the adverse effects as any others and should go about wearily in all matters that are germane to their sex. There is a likelihood of their suffering from the malice of others of their own sex and separations and estrangements are only too probable. The probability through reunite, of danger of dishonour or disgrace should be had in mind. Some may have to pass through the throes of confinement with all its apprehensions and forebodings especially if it is the first occasion. It is also better not to be too active socially, giving parties or attending them and so forth especially if long travels are involved.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs—5, 9, 20, 27, 30; money dealings—1, 6, 16, 18, 22, 27, 30; short journeys—2, 7, 11, 21, 25, 30; long journeys—2, 6, 11, 21, 26, 30; real property affairs and academical activities—6, 9, 20, 21, 25, 28; excursions and love affairs—5, 10, 20, 25, 27, 30; service affairs—2, 7, 11, 21, 25, 29; partnership matters—1, 6, 16, 18, 22, 27, 30; insurance activities—5, 9, 20, 27, 30; professional and business—9, 13, 23, 28, 30.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private affairs—3, 7, 11, 18, 22, 29; money dealings—3, 4, 11, 13, 15, 19, 24; short journeys—5, 9, 13, 16, 20, 24; long journeys—3, 9, 16, 20, 24, 27; real property matters and academical activities—1, 4, 7, 14, 15, 22, 29; speculation and love affairs—4, 7, 15, 23, 29; service affairs—5, 9, 13, 16, 23, 26, 30; partnership matters—4, 7, 11, 15, 19, 23; insurance activities—4, 7, 11, 14, 22, 29; professional and business enterprises—4, 7, 11, 15, 18, 22, 26.

Chandrashtama from about midnight of 1st till sunrise of 4th and again from about noon of 29th till the end of the month.

2. Vrishabha (Taurus).—Venus and Rahu in 5th; Sun and Mars in 6th and 7th; Jupiter and Mercury in 7th; Saturn in 8th; and Kethu in 11th.

General.—Venus and Jupiter are in favourable signs throughout the month and remain unchecked. Sun and Mars are good before change of sign on 14th and 22nd respectively and are also free of vedha so long. Mercury and Saturn are evil for the entire month but Saturn is under check throughout and Mercury for the greater part of the month. Sun is under check so long as he is evil. Thus while the good elements are free of vedha, only Mars of the evil planets is free of check for a part of the month. This will be reflected in better results for the month in general and the first half will be much better than the second. General success, gains, peace of mind, success over rivals and enemies, acquisition of articles of luxury and their enjoyment, good health, study of new subjects, auspicious events and celebrations, honours from elders and superiors, meeting of welcome relatives and friends are the good things to be expected from the favourable transits of the month, especially during the first half. Troubles from friends and relatives, ill-health, losses and anxieties, family and domestic difficulties, misunderstandings and quarrels, obstacles in enterprises, tedious and wearisome journeys, etc., are the troubles that may be caused by the evil transits in force during the second half. Of the three stars of the sign, those born under Krittika will fare best, and those born under Rohini will fare worst and those born under Mrigasira will fare nearly equally with those born under Krittika.

Health and Domestic.—Good health will be experienced during the greater part of the month. Towards the close however, stomach troubles, dysentery, fever, may be present according to constitutional susceptibility. But at the same time be apprehended that the troubles will be serious. Avoid journeys as far as possible, as they may be a cause for disturbance of health. Domestic comforts, peace and harmony will be enjoyed and home will be pleasant and satisfying. There may be an auspicious event too, increase in number of family by birth or otherwise. Some care however in dealings with relatives will be necessary during the last week; otherwise some misunderstandings and quarrels may arise.

Finance and Speculation.—With so many planets favourable, finance will be one of the bright spots during the month. There will be quite sizable gains from more sources than one though they may fall short slightly below expectations. Still with the available resources and some restraint as to the outlet, quite a good month can be made of it financially. But to avoid disappointment, too much expectations should not be entertained and enterprises should be confined mostly to the first half only. Conflicting influences prevail in the matter of pure speculation and there are many chances for losses as for gains. Therefore it is better to avoid speculation and some unnecessary bother for which there is no positive corresponding advantage.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—There is nothing specially favourable or unfavourable in matters related to real property though the general position may be said to be quite good so far as rentals, profits, etc., are concerned. Friction in your dealings with others connected with land, tenants, agents, co-owners, Government, etc., is probable and may give rise to apprehensions and anxieties as regards the ultimate outcome of all this. It is necessary however that quarrels at any cost and litigation as far as possible should be avoided in assertion of your rights. The reason is that though your cause may be just, you may be able to get justice. The first half is undeniably good for the services and much may happen to favour them. You may gain a point or two over your rivals. You should be all out to exploit the good influences of the first half but whether you succeed fully or not, you should lie low during the second half as by injudicious action on your part, you may lose the fruits of the first and may even actually encounter setbacks. There is just a chance that the unexpected element may enter and bring some advancement not necessarily during the first half, for during the first half, it would be unexpected. A generally good month for the profession and business especially who handle business professionally on behalf of others such as lawyers, administrators, brokers, insurance agents, etc., as also receivers.

Women.—The month, rather, the greater part affords excellent prospects for matters in which the fair sex are interested as such and the acquisition of luxury items dear to their heart, dress, fineries, social engagements, parties, excursions and so forth. There may even occur a pilgrimage which will afford satisfaction and delight. The second half is not good generally but more especially the last week should be avoided for most of their activities. Even if travelling is necessary, they should not travel alone and without proper escort.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs—1, 6, 16, 18, 22, 27, 30; money dealings—2, 7, 11, 21, 25, 30; short journeys—6, 9, 20, 21, 25, 28; long journeys—9, 13, 23, 28, 30; real property matters and academical activities—5, 10, 20, 25, 27, 30; excursions and love affairs—2, 7, 11, 21, 25, 29; service affairs—1, 6, 16, 18, 22, 27, 30; partnership matters—5, 9, 20, 27, 30; insurance activities—2, 6, 11, 21, 26, 30; professional and business enterprises—9, 13, 23, 28, 30.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private affairs—3, 4, 11, 13, 15, 19, 24; money dealings—5, 9, 13, 16, 20, 24; short journeys—1, 4, 7, 14, 15, 22, 29; long journeys—4, 7, 11, 15, 18, 22, 26; real property affairs and academical activities—4, 7, 15, 23, 29; speculation, excursions and love affairs—5, 9, 13, 16, 23, 26, 30; service affairs—4, 7, 11, 15, 19, 23; partnership matters—4, 7, 11, 14, 22, 29; insurance activities—3, 9, 16, 20, 24, 27; professional and business enterprises—4, 7, 11, 15, 18, 22, 26.

Chandrashtama from sunrise of 4th till about sunrise of 6th.

3. Mithuna (Gemini).—Venus and Rahu in 4th; Sun and Mars in 5th and 6th; Jupiter and Mercury in 6th; Saturn in 7th; and Kethu in 10th.

General.—Mercury and Venus are the good transits for the entire month. Of these, Venus is under check throughout. Sun and Mars become favourable after change of sign and are free of vedha so long. Jupiter and Saturn are evil for the entire month but are under check; so their adverse rays will not affect much. Therefore mixed general effects alone can be expected for the month and though conditions may be somewhat difficult at the opening of the month, there will be improvement as the month advances and the second half will be better than the first, and the last week the best part of the month. General success, gains, triumph over rivals and enemies, happiness and peace of mind, purchase of luxury items and their enjoyment, popularity and good name, increased power and influence, good news, excursions, auspicious events in the house, etc., are the sort of good things that are probable from the favourable transits of the month. During the first half, however, there may be much trouble from enemies and rivals, sorrows, separation from relatives, ill-health, mental agitation, losses and worries, quarrels and disputes, failure in undertakings, etc., are probable. Of the three stars of the sign, those born under Mrigasira and Punarvasu will reap better results from the favourable transits and suffer less than those born under Aridra.

Health and Domestic.–Though there may be deviation from normal health, off and on, during the first half of the month, they will not be of much account. The children's health too may need some attention and precautionary measures taken against prevailing epidemics. There is a liability to accidents during this part of the month which too should be kept in mind. In the domestic sphere too, it is the first half that is liable to suffer through quarrels and misunderstandings with near and dear relatives and harmony spoiled. All this of course give place to domestic harmony, happiness, auspicious events and celebrations, etc., visit of welcome friends and relatives, etc., during the second half.

Finance and Speculation.—Unexpected events may happen in regard to finance this month and they will be bad or good according as they happen during the first or second halves respectively. Liability to losses due to various causes is present during the first half and losses through theft in the house or office are not excluded. Therefore you should take appropriate care and be watchful throughout. Even success in financial ventures may be endangered during this part of the month whereas the position will be just the reverse during the 2nd half. Gains, success in enterprises, prosperity, gains through land—agriculture, manuring etc., or profession, etc., may be enjoyed. At the same time, there will be a tendency to free expenditure which should be curbed. Speculation during the first half is absolutely prohibited but permissible during the second.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.–Real property affairs are specially favoured this month though this does dot mean everything will be rosy all along the line. The income and rentals will be quite satisfactory and may register an alround increase and may even touch peak during the month, especially towards the close. But strenuous and hard work will be required to achieve the results. There is also a liability to damage through pests or other unforeseen causes, like floods, etc. Though results may not approximate to the amount of labour and trouble involved, there will be substantial general improvement in all matters pertaining to land, be it agricultural, or mining or other interests. The month is perhaps best situated with regard to the services; promotion, higher pay or increased status, popularity in the office, additional powers, etc., are due during the month especially during the latter half. Chances may occur for specialising and improving your knowledge through travel or in special technical institutions (foreign)? Anyhow you should display sufficient merits which attract the increased interest of those in authority above you. Conditions in profession and business will be above average and quite satisfactory and those connected with the practice of healing or the army or naval affairs, will fare better in general than the others.

Women.–This is a very good month for the fair sex in all matters in which they are peculiarly interested. In all matters, they can rely on the co-operation of relatives, neighbours and the opposite sex especially. But certain consequences that are not quite desirable may arise by being over-optimistic or careless in certain matters which should be noted and corrected before they proceed too far. Especially in their relations with the opposite sex. A good percentage of the unattached born under the sign will find themselves matched and in a few cases there is bound to be some disparity socially or intellectually between the two, but there are good prospects of good harmony and a happy domestic life.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs—2, 7, 11, 21, 25, 30; money dealings—6. 9, 20, 21, 25, 28; short journeys—5, 10, 20, 25, 27, 30; long journeys—9, 13, 23, 28, 30; real property matters and academical activities—2, 7, 11, 21, 25, 29; excursions and love affairs—1, 6, 16, 18, 22, 27, 30; service affairs—5, 9, 20, 27, 30; partnership matters—2, 6, 11, 21, 26, 30; insurance matters—9, 13, 23, 28, 30; professional and business enterprises—2, 6, 11, 21, 26, 30.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private affairs—5, 9, 13, 16, 20, 24; money dealings–1, 4, 7, 14, 15, 22, 29; short journeys—4, 7, 15, 28, 29; long journeys—4, 7, 11, 15, 18, 22, 26; real property affairs and academical activities—5, 9, 13, 16, 23, 26, 30; children's prospects and affairs, courtship and love affairs—4, 7, 11, 15, 19, 23; service affairs and prospects—4, 7, 11, 14, 22, 29; partnership matters—3, 9, 16, 20, 24, 27; insurance activities—4, 7, 11, 15, 18, 22, 26; professional and business enterprises—3, 9, 16, 20, 24, 27.

Ghandrashtama from about sunrise of 6th till forenoon of 8th.

4. Kataka (Cancer).—Venus and Rahu in 3rd; Sun and Mars in 4th and 5th; Jupiter and Mercury in 5th; Saturn in 6th; and Kethu in 9th.

General.—Venus, Jupiter and Saturn are in favourable signs for the entire month. But Saturn suffers check for the entire month, Jupiter for the greater part, while Venus alone is free. Sun, Mercury and Mars are evil for the whole month. Of these, Mars is under vedha for the greater part, Sun for the first half while Mercury is free. Therefore the good and bad influences of the month appear to be almost well balanced not only in numbers but also in the matter of distribution of vedha. Therefore the month can be expected to yield only mixed results in general and no part of the month being worse

The point I want to impress is that conjunctions, combinations, aspects, bad positions, etc., in the 3rd house from Lagna or Chandra Lagna, and the position of 3rd lord in particular, are all relevant factors in deciding T.B. The greater the afflictions to the 3rd lord and 3rd house (with reference to Lagna and Moon), the more deadly is the disease. The milder the affliction, less fatal is the disease.

I will suggest to talented medical astrologers like Dr. Jagannatha Rao and others to study a number of horoscopes who have been cured of T.B. and those who have become victims to this deadly disease, so that by empirical analysis, it could be ascertained when and how the disease would make its appearance and how it would be cured.

the bodies thus brought into being would be made use of by the future prophets. In this way, it is said, three prophets would be successively given birth to by virgins without any male intervention. Their names are given as Hoshedar-Mah, Hoshedar-Bamee and Saoshyant. At the time of the last prophet, Saoshyant, humanity as a whole will have reached superhuman stage; Ahriman will be no more, he having served his purpose; sin, disease and death will disappear and men will live on as youths of sixteen summers.

Thus the Magi Priests of Iran must have gone to Bethlehem, sincerely believing that the time of fulfilment of the old prophecy of Jamasp Hakeem and the promise of God to send future prophets to carry on the work of Lord Zarathushtra, was near at hand. In particular, they must have been impelled to make the pilgrimage by their sacred belief that the prophet about to be born would have a physical body which was linked with the holy body of their Prophet, Lord Zarathushtra, whom God had ordained the father of future prophets.

Even assuming for the sake of argument that the Magi Priests came from a region which formed part of the continent of Lemuria, somewhere in the Arabian Sea near the West coast of India, as suggested by my learned friend, I humbly submit that there is no historical or scientific proof of the fact that such a region at all existed at the time of birth of Lord Christ. I do not dispute the fact of Lemuria, but it should be borne in mind that the said continent was submerged lacs of years before the birth of the Prophet of Nazareth and it is patently absurd and futile to resurrect it to suit this proposition.

Again, assuming such a region existed in the Arabian Sea about 2000 years back, the Magis would be said to have gone to Israel from the south and not from the east. It was only from Iran, a country situated on the eastern border of Israel itself, that the Magis could be said to have come from the east.

From what has been stated above, it will be absolutely clear to any impartial student that there is not an iota of sense in the proposition that the Magi Priests went to Bethlehem from Lemuria. Proofs, historical, scriptural and ethnological, are all against this proposition.

It will be admitted by all sincere students that in such matters a line has to be drawn somewhere between theories based on known historical and/or scriptural or scientific facts and those based on conjectures and surmises founded merely on irrelevant materials and immaterial considerations. I am only wondering why some Hindu scholars should fight shy of giving credit that is rightly due to the ancient Iranians (the forefathers of the Parsis of India), who were the very kith and kin of the Hindus of yore, and more so when I find that in such attempts the Hindu scholars often go to the length of making statements which are palpably anachronistic. No one disputes the great antiquity of the Indian Aryan civilization, but at the same time it is quite fair to expect that they do not attempt to belittle other contemporaneous Aryan civilizations without any reasonable grounds.

As the question of Lemuria props up very often, I have collected some materials thereon which I beg to place before my learned readers.

Lemuria was the cradle of the third Root Race, the Atlantean being the fourth, and the Aryan being the fifth in point of time.

The continent of Lemuria covered "the whole area from the foot of the Himalayas which separated it from the inland sea rolling its waves over what is now Tibet, Mongolia and the great desert of Shamo (Gobi); from Chittagong, westward to Hardwar, and eastward to Assam. From thence, it stretched south across what is known to us as Southern India, Ceylon, and Sumatra; then embracing on its way, as we go south, Madagascar on its right hand and Australia, New Zealand and Tasmania on its left, it ran down to within a few degrees of the Antarctic Circle; and from Australia, an inland region on the Mother Continent in those ages, it extended far into the Pacific Ocean, beyond Easter Island, which now lies in Lat. 26° S. and Long. 110° W." Secret Doctrine, Vol. III, Pp. 323-4.

Lemuria "extended in the shape of a horse-shoe past Madagascar.....through Atlantic upto Norway..." (Ibid, Pp. 332).

"Later the continent of Lemuria broke asunder in many places and formed new separate continents. Nevertheless, neither Africa nor the Americas, still less Europe, existed in those days; all of them slumbering as yet on the ocean floors. Nor was there much of present Asia; for the Cis-Himalayan regions were covered with seas, and beyond them stretched the lotus leaves of Shvetadvipa, the countries now called Greenland, East and West Siberia, etc." (Ibid, Pp. 327).

This was over a million years ago

".....there was a time when the Indian Peninsula at one end of the line, and South America at the other (were) connected by a belt of islands and continents....." (Ibid, Pp. 326).

The Lemurians built great images nine yatis high (i.e., 27 feet), the size of their bodies. The gigantic statues discovered on Easter Island as also on the outskirts of Gobi are all between 20 and 30 feet high.

The woolly-haired Negroes are the only remnants of the Lemurians today.

" The later sub-races of Lemurians built their first rock-cities out of stone and lava". (Ibid, Pp. 317).

" There were civilized people and savages in those days as there are now." . (Ibid, Pp. 318). Lemurians were the earliest physical men. Their evolution, says occult sources, started about 18,000,000 years ago. (Ibid, Pp. 357). The previous races had only ' shadow bodies '.

The one-eyed giants of folk-lore were really Lemurians. The two front eyes were developed as physical organs only in the beginning of the fourth Root Race, whose cradle was the lost continent of Atlantis, Atala of the Hindu Puranas.

Lemuria was destroyed by subterranean fires and lava, whereas Atlantis was destroyed by deluges. A major part of Atlantis, viz., Ruta and Daitya Island continents, perished some 850,000 years ago, towards the close of what is known among geologists as the Miocene Age. The east remnant of Atlantis, the island of Posedonis, went down in the year 9564 B.C. in a great deluge which is referred to in the Rig Veda, the Vendidad and the Jewish Bible and by Plato. By that time the earth took on more or less its appearance of today and no major changes at all have taken place since then. Surely, there is no evidence of any sort to show that at the time of birth of Lord Christ any trace of even the continent of Atlantis, leave aside the question of Lemuria, at all existed on the physical plane!

I may add that " between the two catastrophes (viz., the destruction of the continents of Atlantis and Lemuria), a short period of about 700,000 years elapsed." (Ibid, Vol. IV, Pp. 348).

There is enough positive scientific evidence to substantiate the above statements, but due to lack of space it is not possible to give it here.

PREDICTING SPECIFIC EVENTS BY MEANS OF TRANSITS—VI

forces. Nevertheless once again Rommel succeeded in cutting the land contact with Tobruk on December 2nd. On December 5th, Rommel counter-attacked ineffectively, his trouble in all probability being the transit of Neptune over β Virginis (natal Saturn).

On Thursday, December 18th, after a three-day battle near Gazala in which Rommel counter-attacked with all the forces he could muster, the savage assaults were beaten off and his troops were pursued by the Desert Rats who advanced 30 miles. Note the heliacal rising of the New Moon of that day at Sagittarius at 26° in square with Rommel's birth star β Virginis over which Neptune was transitting.

On Wednesday, May 27th, 1942, Rommel began a new advance. Had he chosen well according to the stars? Well, Neptune was at Virgo 27° 8′ and therefore still right over β Virginis (=natal Saturn his horoscope ruler); Jupiter at Gemini 26° 53′ was squaring that same point, the ambient being Jupiter square Neptune; Saturn and Uranus were conjoined at Gemini 2° 25′ in opposition to β Scorpii (natal Mercury). Configurations which were not at all auspicious to say the least. It is not surprising therefore that by June 1st, Rommel had failed to break the British lines. In fact, by June 4th, he had had quite enough of the battle of the gap. On June 5th, therefore, the initiative passed to the British.

On Saturday, June 13th, 1942, Rommel launched his new big offensive which seemed to be aimed at breaking through the right wing of the British Eighth Army. Note that this day, the 13th, saw the heliacal rising of the New Moon at Gemini 22° comprising a heliacal rising of Mercury. Saturn was at Gemini 4° 36′ opposing o-Scorpii (Rommel's natal Mercury). But Jupiter was then at Cancer 0° 42′ trining the natal Uranus at his zenith. Would that melange of configurations help him to pull it off? Well, the battle raged violently throughout Sunday and Monday. However, by Tuesday June 16th, it became clear that the Eighth Army had suffered a setback, for Rommel's troops were again south of Tobruk. By that date Mars had reached Leo 2° and was in sextile aspect with Uranus, forming a highly successful ambient for a general, whose horoscope ruler is Uranus.

On Sunday, June 21st, 1942, Tobruk fell—a great victory for Rommel. But was it really a great victory after all? The question is asked because of the effect that disaster produced in Whitehall. The news had caused a violent wave of indignation in London where the feeling was widespread that the disaster could and should have been avoided. That anger found expression in the appointment of General Montgomery to command the Eighth Army, thus bringing to this theatre of war the very man who was destined to enact the role of Rommel's Nemesis. However, let us note what were the configurations on Sunday, June 21st. First it was a Sunday—Rommel's lucky day. But the heliacal rising on that day occurred at Gemini 29°, and in the afternoon the Moon conjoined Neptune at Virgo 27° immediately over β Virginis (natal Saturn) in square with the place of the heliacal rising. Therein, in fact, is to be found the true significance and real omen concerning the future.

So now we arrive at the date when Genl. Montgomery sent his momentous telegram announcing that he had taken over command of the Eighth Army. For it was from that very moment that Montgomery and Rommel prepared for the real duel to the death. Now at long last Rommel had to meet the strategy of a Sun in Scorpio man who was every bit as willy as he was; and one, moreover, who had discovered Rommel's Achilles heel! For Montgomery had instantly grasped the secret behind Rommel's successes, realising that the trick consisted of luring British tanks to attack his armour which was carefully covered by well-concealed anti-tank gun emplacements. Then, when the British armour had been knocked out or decimated, Rommel's own armour was free to roam the desert and effect deep thrusts. Montgomery was resolved not to be caught by that kind of trick. On the contrary, he was busily preparing a number of traps for Rommel to fall into.

This takes us to the date of Saturday, October 24th, 1942 when the great battle of Alamein began.

The first thing to note is that the battle opened under the full Moon. This full Moon was exact at the time of the heliacal rising when the Sun rose at the first point of Scorpio with the full Moon setting at the first point of Taurus. Which means that the Sun-Moon opposition was straddling the horizon circle of Montgomery's chart. Mars (Montgomery's horoscope ruler) was then conjoined with Venus at Libra 24½°, but was at the same time in exact square with Jupiter (Montgomery's birthday planet). Fortunately, Jupiter was simultaneously trining Montgomery's natal Sun from Cancer 24½°. So that the ambient for the actual day certainly had its difficulties.

However, it was Rommel who faced the major difficulties to begin with. For observe that the Sun at the heliacal rising was about to transit his natal Uranus (ruling planet) at the zenith, opposed by the Moon from the nadir. That Uranus was opposing his natal Mercury. That Saturn retrograding at Gemini 11° 46′ was soon to repass over Σ Tauri (natal Neptune). That the Jupiter square Mars-Venus ambient was much more badly placed for him than for Montgomery, even though Jupiter was similarly trining his natal Sun.

Nevertheless the situation at the beginning was still touch and go, and Montgomery himself believes that the real crisis of the battle occurred on Sunday (Rommel's lucky day!) October 25th when the British Commander-in-Chief had occasion personally to intervene with certain corps commanders in order to ensure the carrying out of his orders in reverse of their own defeatism.

At 11 a.m. on Thursday (Montgomery's lucky day!) October 29th, the Commander-in-Chief of the Eighth Army suddenly resolved to change his plan, deciding to attack Rommel's forces at the point of juncture of the German and Italian forces. Note that the heliacal rising of that day occurred at Scorpio 5° which is Montgomery's Point Ascendant, and that at 11 a.m. the Moon was trining the Sun from Cancer 5°. Two days later that Moon would be conjoining Jupiter at Cancer 25° in trine with Montgomery's natal Sun. This was in fact the very day Montgomery had chosen for "Operation Supercharge". However, Montgomery decided to postpone it until 1 a.m. November 2nd, 1942 at the very moment at which Mars would be at the first point of Scorpio and would be transitting the point where occurred the heliacal rising which saw the opening of the battle. Note that Mars was due to transit over Rommel's 210-G. Virginis (natal Uranus) at his zenith on November 6th—by which time Rommel's forces would be completely smashed and routed.

Scanned by www.sapiritualastrology.com In Presence Dr. B V Raman's Work

The battle of Agheila was fought and won by Montgomery on December 15th/16th when the Sun was transitting his natal Moon in trine with the progressing Moon in Aries. Then began the advance on Tripoli which British troops entered at 4 a.m. Saturday, January 23rd, 1943.

On Saturday, March 6th, 1943 Rommel counter-attacked twice, His attacks were beaten off and he lost 52 tanks which—Montgomery laconically observes—would have been of great value to him at Mareth. Notice the proximity of the transitting Saturn at Gemini 6° 20′ to Rommel's Σ Tauri (natal Neptune).

Montgomery has written: "by 9 a.m. March 28th, we were in possession of the famous Mareth Line after a battle lasting only a week." The 28th was a Sunday (which normally would have been Rommel's lucky day), but unfortunately for the German

ONCE again, I take my deductions, for the month of November, Stock exchange trends from the map drawn for the Sun's entry into Vrischika (Scorpio) and not relying on the lunation chart. I do so, because, the preceding eclipses link up the different countries of the world. Next, the effects of eclipses will be apparent in the financial sector immediately. I find that such effects are more stimulated by the Sun than the Moon.

I would request the readers to mark closely the map drawn for Bombay, which, with a few modifications in the number of degree on the cusps, will hold good for the whole of Central India including the Capital town Delhi. The 9th degree of Sagittarius (Dhanus) rises and its ruler, resides in the 12th house. Fortunately it is in its own sign and well aspected by Rahu, Neptune, Sun and Mars. But Saturn is in the 1st house with Moon in the 8th house and Rahu in the 10th house.

Note the concentration of planetary forces in the 11th house, Sun, Mars, Neptune and Mercury representing the soul, martial strength, deceit and treachery, and diplomacy respectively.

The ruler of the 2nd house Saturn is in the 1st; the ruler of the 5th is in the 9th and the ruler of 8th, Moon is in its own sign. Saturn suffers from a square aspect of Rahu. Immediately after the square aspect is separated, it is likely to be dull for two or three days, in stock markets, but thereafter, the values will rise. I would request the readers to concentrate their attention on iron and steel, coal and to a certain extent, jute industries. Mars in his own sign with Sun and in good aspect with Saturn, Pluto and Neptune, will revive the markets rapidly. The bears must come out of the market, soon after the 24th. I expect the grip on stocks and shares, to be apparent, from the 28th October onwards. On 30th and 31st, rise in the stock markets is possible.

The beginning of November is again marked by a square aspect between Jupiter and Pluto. The square is always a very strong discordant aspect. Therefore this square between Jupiter and Pluto will prove to be bullish. This will be supported, a week later, by the semi-sextile aspect between Jupiter and Neptune. Therefore upto the 11th Nov., there will be a steady and progressive rise in the stock exchanges of India. There will be a pause and a little recession may take place on the 13th, 14th and 15th. But from 16th onwards, the values will be ascending. This will continue right till the end of the month with a pause on 25th, 26th and 27th.

This year, the stock exchange movements have been marked by quick and sudden fluctuations. The bull market has not yet exhausted itself and it has still a lot of time to run. But short-sellers will be caught badly as they have been caught so many times during the year.

Economic Section

As a result of the progressive tyranny of the ruling party and the common herd mentality of our representatives in the legislature, it was natural that some would break away at least from it. It is a commentary on our political acumen that the break away transpired so late as recently with the efforts of Rajaji. But the chief props of Rajaji do not inspire any respect among the public. They merely represent political opportunism trying to map up the lustre that Rajaji sheds.

But what is the programme of this newly constituted party? It is primarily banking on the opposition of the public to state trading in grains, and at the same time trying to arouse the indignation of the farming class against the co-operatives. There is no class of people who deserve the wrath of the public more than those who have been dealing in grains. This particular class of people is very prodigal with their contributions to all political parties and has escaped the public chastisement. Rajaji is wrongly defending this class and is making a big political mistake in relying on their support.

Next on the question of co-operatives, the opposition of Rajaji is misconceived. The Congress party of which Rajaji was a member, was wedded to the principle of co-operation; of course, he has a right to change his mind and if his experience has taught him that co-operatives are not good for the country, he must openly do so stating his reasons. But before he does so, it will be salutary to state the cause against him. As a member of the Congress party and as a luminary who occupied some of the highest offices of the State under the Congress banner, he is as much responsible as any one else for the annihilation of the middle class of which the agricultural class in the shape of landlords was an important constituent element.

When the annihilation of the landlords was planned, these leaders of the Swatantra party did not even utter an audible whisper against it. Were not some of the Swatantra leaders responsible for this for they were also in the sacred circle of the Congress leaders that framed the political and economic policy on the planks of which the last election was fought?

What did the industrialists do? In order to draw away the attention of the people from their misdeeds, they allowed those middle classes to be sacrificed hoping that the few hands of radicalism will not fall on their heads. But when this class of people of traders and merchants has to face only a part of what the agriculturists suffered, they are squeeling.

But if we do not recollect the past and look to the future, is this policy of opposition to the principle of co-operation likely to take us anywhere towards our goal of a higher standard of our life. Today 70% of our people are found in villages. An uplift in their standard of life can alone lead to a better life for India. Further a higher standard of their life can be achieved only if a better yield of agricultural crops is produced. Such a higher yield is not possible without the aid of machinery, fertilisers and other scientific processes of tilling the land. Now that the class of landlords is destroyed, there is no other alternative left except to invest capital on land and improve the methods of farming which could be possible only through the mechanism of co-operation. In fact there is no industry today which requires more capital per unit of land and per unit of man than agriculture. At present our methods of cultivation are so primitive that even a slight improvement in the methods will lead to such an improvement in the yield of crops that the food problem will be a tale of the past. Further if the co-operatives come into existence, they will prove a bulwark against the onrush of communism. If the Jews coming from all parts of the world speaking different tongues and with no common way of life can unite in co-operatives, there is no reason why our masses would not do so if they are led properly.

If any new party wants to win the election, it must formulate a programme to fight corruption and ameliorate the day-to-day grievances of the people. Let the party organisers open up the office in every town and have an advertisement inserted in any one of the widely-read newspapers inviting complaints from the public about their real grievances against public authorities and semi-public bodies. Let the party workers investigate into those complaints and expose the corrupt practices that have now penetrated through the thick walls as well as the guards and sentries; let them initiate a policy to redress the day-to-day tyranny of the landlords against poor tenants in the town; let them prosecute the adulterers of food and purveyors of spurious drugs; let them frequent the courts of law and expose the evil practice of postponement of cases so that a case is not decided, until after a lapse of two to three years; let them help the small traders and merchants who have to waste their time and money in visiting the various officials who never come in time to the offices nor fill in their proper quota of hours of duty; let them visit the district headquarters agricultural officers and find out the trouble that every agriculturist meets with in purchasing seeds and manures. If they do all these to fight nepotism in every sector of public life, the victory at the election is in the lap of the party which does it.

The Congress party will never have the courage to do all these things. But is the Swatantra party prepared to do so? It remains to be seen. No amount of rhetoric about freedom can at all now rouse the people because the content of freedom is within the grasp only of a privileged few. If we were to describe freedom, it would really mean today a release from the petty tyrannies which when added up over a period mean the travesty of justice which the erudite mind of Rajaji can well comprehend.

Further, if Rajaji succeeds in fighting co-operatives, will he show a practical way of raising the standard of life and restore to the middle class their rightful place in society? Will he also show the way to absorb the teeming millions of unemployed? If Rajaji were to analyse the trends of history, he would find it worthwhile redressing the grievances in a practical manner.

November 1959 is a contemporary month with lunar Karthika commencing on a Sunday. Dwitiya (2nd lunar day) falls on a Monday in Anuradha constellation, occupied by Jupiter. Pournima (Full Moon) falls on a Sunday in Krittika constellation, ruler of that month. There are five Sundays and Mondays during this lunar month.

This lunar month is ruled by Mercury and Hemantha Ritu (winter season) by Jupiter. Mercury transitting through Scorpio, gets retrograde on the 14th lunar day, Saturday (14th November 1959) sets in the west on 17th November 1959 Tuesday, gets combust on 24th November 1959 and rises in the east on 30th November 1959. The season lord Jupiter gets combust on 21st November 1959; Mars lord of that sign (Scorpio) where Sun, Mercury and Jupiter are traversing, enters this sign on 24th November 1959 in a state of combustion.

Jupiter in an accelerated nation, has already entered Jyeshta constellation on 22nd November 1959. Democratic and newly invented planet Herschel gets retrograde on 27th November 1959 in Aslesha constellation, in trine aspect with Karthika Amavasya (New Moon) and the five planets—Sun, Moon, Mars, Mercury, and Jupiter.

Solar ingress into Scorpio on 16th November 1959 occurs at 14-47 hrs. (L.M.T.) in Rohini constellation on Monday, the 1st lunar day of the dark half. The rising navamsa is a critical point, for change in commercial and political fields. Sun passes this point on 16th November 1959; Mars on 24th November 1959 and retrograde Mercury does so on 28th November 1959. Mercury rises and gets direct in this very navamsa. Mercury comes very nearer to earth on 26th November 1959. All these aspects will cause rise and fall in market trends and weather conditions as well.

Kethu Ascdt.		Moon
	Solar Ingress Chart 16-11-1959 at 2-47 p.m. (L M.T.)
Saturn	Sun Jupiter Mer. (R)	Mars	Venus Rahu

Jupiter, the lord of ascendant and 10th, is placed in the 8th along with Mercury (lord of 4th and 7th), Mars (lords of 2nd and 9th) and Sun (lord of the 6th). Malefic planet Saturn is in the tenth sign, but actually in the 9th house. Moon is in the 2nd house, aspected by Mars, Sun, Jupiter and Mercury (R). Venus ruler of 8th and 3rd, is placed in the 7th house, aspected by Saturn. Herschel is in the 5th house, in trine to Sun, Mercury and Jupiter, and square to Mars. Thus the 2nd, 5th, 8th and 10th house affairs will be more in limelight. It is not a favourable chart, considering the position of Saturn, as a ruler of the 12th house.

Scorpio is hemmed in between Saturn and Mars. Moon is well placed in the 7th house. So the planetary positions do not indicate a very hopeful time for the summer season crops. Thus seeds, oils and cotton will remain high in prices. If Moon happens to be in Taurus, at the time of Solar ingress into Scorpio, all sorts of grains, glassware, salt and chemicals should be stocked, and disposed off during the next two months, where prices are on the progressive side.

The efforts of the Indian Government to bring down the prices of grains, etc., will be successful to some extent in industrial areas and principal towns.

New York Stocks.–Saturn and Rahu are forming square to each other and Herschel and Jupiter trining each other. Therefore reactionary declines are possible during this month, but it will prove good for future rise. Some good declines are anticipated in chemicals, oils and steel industries till 24-11-1959, specially on dates 5, 6, 7, 12, 13, 14 and 23. From 24-11-1959 to December 1959, New York stocks and shares exchange will witness prosperity.

London Stocks.—The ruling planets (Mars and Herschel) of Britain and U.S.A. are in square aspect in the beginning of this month. London stocks will be affected by the political causes of these two nations. Rails, mining and utility scripts will experience selling waves along with liquid fuel till 24-11-1959. British foreign trade and financial conditions will improve and prosper. During the bearish dates, as mentioned in the New York stock exchange column, it is advisable to purchase, especially, between 14th and 23rd.

Indian Stocks and Shares.—At Madras the New Moon occurs in the 3rd house. Mars is squarring Herschel. Parallel aspect between Mercury and Jupiter indicates earth tremors, rail disaster, strikes in the communication departments, especially in railway workshops and aeronautical industries. Rubber, coffee, tea and plantation shares are likely to suffer on account of the communists' activities. The first fortnight is of bearish nature but improvement will be seen during the second one.

At Calcutta.—The New Moon occurs in 12th house. Jupiter, the ruling planet of the ascendant, is transitting through the ascending sign. So the communists will continue trying their schemes till 6–10–1959, but their efforts to put down the present ministry will prove of no avail. Trade and business will get new life during the Durga Pooja holidays. The stocks are considered worth buying at the end of the first fortnight. Improvement is indicated thereafter.

At Bombay.—The New Moon occurs in the 12th house. Mars and Herschel are posited in the 12th and 9th house respectively. Herschel is transitting towards the M.C. point. Mars and the Sun are squaring the ascendant by 21st November 1959. These are termed as Sinister squares. Shares and stocks would be very nervy and pass through severe drops. It is advisable to close the stock and share exchanges to avoid severe declines from 21-10-59 to 21-11-59. There are two Vyathipatha Yogas during this month and crisis are their outcome.

Cotton Market.—This section is unfortunate during Diwali holidays. On 7–10–59 Rahu enters Piscean navamsa of Uttaraphalguna constellation. This navamsa is very sensitive to elevate cotton prices. Note the ascending price level till 8–12–59. Cotton crop will suffer destruction, on account of natural causes, such as pests, excessive rains or drought conditions. Second lunar day falls on Monday. Full Moon day and 1st lunar day, falling on a Sunday, and duplication of Ekadasi, indicate bullishness in cotton prices. Mercury–Jupiter conjunction will keep cotton prices within narrow fluctuations till 5th. Buying is advised on 5th. Thenceforth till 21st, cotton prices will keep on improving. 22nd to 24th, reactionary fall, at higher rates is probable, while 25th to 28th similar improvement is definite.

Bullion Market.—Amavasya (New Moon) synchronising with the solar ingress moment indicates bullish tone. Taking into account the planetary vedhas (checks) during this month, major malefic planet Rahu continues to disturb the supply problem. Venusian entry into Virgo will cause selling for profits. Reactionary trends will be in force between 3rd and 13th for silver and 6th to 10th for gold. From 14th to 25th again improvement will be shown in both. But drastic fall is indicated during last 4 or 5 days. Care and caution on your part is essential. To bulls and stockists, it is my opinion that bullion rates will be dropping down from this month. Import restrictions will be most likely rigid.

Seeds Market.—There had been rains in excess during this monsoon in northern parts of India and Bombay State, which are principle centres of productions. In these columns, we had presaged bountiful crops and exports of seeds, oils and oilcakes and it had surpassed all past figures. Neptune continues its transit through Swati constellation which dominates seeds and oil markets. Entry of Jupiter into Anuradha constellation on 1–10–1959 will cause good crops. Only Saturn continues to affect the crop conditions in western parts of India. Crops in Brazil, Argentine, Africa and China will not be in a state, to export stocks, to India, in the next year. So the holders of new stocks of export items, can do well, by remaining alert, for foreign demands. The month opens with a bullish tone. Mars is in its weaker state and may not favour the speculative guns. But, exporters will do good business and get good profits through vegetable products and oilcakes. Till 22nd, the trend seems to be bullish, but reactionary declines are not ruled out, during 7th and 14th, and 25th and 28th. This will apply to all seeds including sarsoo.

Yarn and Art Silk.—This section will have improvement throughout the month, on account of improved position of the export items. As the month progresses, prices will go upwards.

Chemicals.—The current month can be divided in two sections. First fortnight will be sluggish and the second will be improving, upto next month. Especially red and white sorts will be in good demand. Acids and Mercury will again shoot up in the second fortnight.

Grains Market.—Karthika month begins on a Sunday. The full Moon day of lunar Karthika falling in Krittika constellation, and the phases of Jupiter and Mercury, during this month, indicate steady bullish tone in bajree, joowar and pulses. Good rice and wheat crops, from mofussil, will keep the price levels down. As Amavasya (New Moon) falls on a Monday, the month will see some decline in this section. Edible oils and ghee will remain dear.

Sugar and Goor.—Duplication of Ekadasi (11th lunar day) on a Tuesday and a Wednesday, and Mars transitting through its sign Scorpio will gradually raise the jaggery prices with reaction. But the Jupiterian entry into Anuradha on 22nd forctells, good crops of sugarcane, in Maharashtra and Northern India. In short planetary positions indicate very steady market in the spot position. The export is very likely to be postponed during this, and the following month, to give relief to the consuming masses in India.

Rubber Market.—The demand will improve in the export of rubber in Ceylon, Malaya and Indonesia, as the month progresses. Some speedy rises are anticipated during the second half of this month and coming month.

Black Pepper.—This section seems to be very steady during the first fortnight, but good demand is very likely to spring up in the next fortnight and the following month, when Mercury becomes direct in Scorpio and conjuncts Mars and Jupiter.

BY A. P. SATHE
Dr. Deshmukh Building,
Dr. Deshmukh Lane, Bombay-4

Readers would recall that in my annual report, I had stated clearly that due to Jupiter transitting Scorpio, Government might take up the foodgrains distribution in their hands. The question of State Trading Corporation, handling all foodgrains, seems to be under active consideration. In Bombay State, sugar has already come under control, and distribution is arranged to the public through authorised dealers. This measure is being enforced when Jupiter entered Anuradha constellation. This transit is bullish in nature to some extent; since Jupiter transitting over Saturn's constellation cannot be said to be favourable or to show his natural tendencies. It is therefore doubtful how far the measure taken at this juncture would be helpful for the public. On 22nd November 1959 Jupiter enters Jyeshta nakshatra or constellation in Scorpio. This constellation is ruled by Mercury. Jyeshta falls in the Naidhana group of nakshatras. As a natural benefic, Jupiter must be doing good, while transitting the 11th house from Capricorn, the rising sign of India, but does not own benefic houses. I am doubtful therefore whether this measure now taken by the Government, or that is now under contemplation would be helpful, nor I feel when Jupiter changes the constellation on 22nd November 1959, will add more hardships for the masses and fresh incentives for malpractices in the system of distribution of foodgrains.

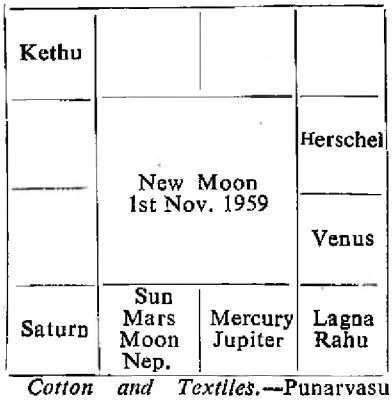
Among the other major planets, Rahu and Saturn continue their sojourn through Uttaraphalguna and Moola respectively throughout the month. In my article for October 1959 I did not discuss at length the effects of Rahu transitting in Uttaraphalguna, since this position is going to continue for a long time and I wanted to give detailed indications in my coming issues. Let me however point out here that Rahu transitting this constellation, which falls in 'Janma' or natal group of constellation would add to the hardships and natural repurcussion, in prices of commodities so essential for daily maintenance

This would therefore show, that in the long run, prices of essential commodities, in general, would still be rising rather than coming down. But this is a general line, and one has to look to monthly minor planetary changes for looking to short lines. That traders and readers should not loose sight of the general line that I discussed the major transits.

Solar transits in Libra and Scorpio



Already I have stated in my last report and also in my general commodity report in the annual magazine for January 1959 that the solar ingress on 17th October would prove to be bullish. It is necessary for us to study this chart in the light of the minor changes in November 1959. Venus, on 2nd November, enters Virgo—her sign of debility—and associates with Rahu and aspected by Saturn. This factor should help in pulling down the prices from peak levels steadily. At the commencement of the month Sun and Mars transit through Swati–a constellation denoting Satvik tendencies though under the rulership of Rahu. This transit may not prove to be so bullish for commodities in general, excepting oilseeds section. From the peak levels, commodities would slowly come down during these 15 days upto Sun's entry into Scorpio though the trend may be reactionary and cannot be said to show mandi conditions. Scorpio solar entry chart shown below would reveal that in this chart Lagna lord Jupiter is in association with Sun posited in the 9th house along with Mercury retrograde. Moon occupies Rohini constellation, signifying bearishness in commodities. Sun and Jupiter combination also indicates bearishness and it may therefore be stated that this period would be little bearish till such time Mars does not join Sun, Mercury and Jupiter in Scorpio. Martian entry into Scorpio on 29th November 1959 would bullish after that date. Solar ingress chart should again witness a rising trend.

New Moon on 1st November 1959

Lagna rising is Virgo, falling in the 9th house of India. This fact denotes that trade, especially international, would have good fluctuations and good activity would be witnessed during this month. Stocks and exportable commodities should show good activity. The chart would show conflicting situations. Mercury in friendly constellation Anuradha and also being lord of Lagna in association with Jupiter does not indicate bullish factor. 2nd house is associated with malefics—Sun and Mars and 2nd lord is in 12th house. Saturn aspects the Lagna. These positions are bad and show the trade would be hard hit in the initial stages. Mercury getting retrograde on 14th November, Sun entering Scorpio on 16th and finally Mars entering Scorpio on 24th, point out that the latter half would show good rise in foreign trade, exports and stock prices would show improvement.

Cotton and Textiles.—Punarvasu constellation is still under vedha. Martian transit in Swati upto 10th is somewhat bearish and in Visakha it is bullish slightly from 10th to 29th. Venus however in debility transits in Hasta from 13th and Mercury in Anuradha throughout (retrograde from 14th) are factors denoting bearishness. As discussed in Solar Ingress chart upto 24th, prices of this section, also would come down. Martian transit in Visakha and solar transit in the same nakshatra, and Mercury and Jupiter remaining under vedhas might show occasional spurts, but upto 24th they must take advantage to sell. After 24th, prices would show good rise—6th mandi; 7th to 13th bothways—little rise; 14th to 19th—teji; 20th to 23rd—mandi; and 24th to 30th—bullish.

Oilseeds.—Saturn in Moola is not a factor for helping rise in this section and Mercury also is weak upto 14th as said above. Rahu in Uttraphalguna is a factor showing good demand in exportable items. Transit of Sun in Swati along with Mars show rise in oilseeds, Satabhisha being under vedha, would cause prices of castors and other exportable seeds to show rise. Prices of foodgrains may not be so strong as Jupiter and Mercury are in vedha to Aslesha, ruling sarson, rai, and such other oilseeds used more for food. Here also more rise would be witnessed after 24th. 1st to 10th steady, 11th to 23rd bothways more fall and 24th to 30th rise. From 14th divergent trends would be seen. While groundnuts, sarson would be remaining weak and even showing declines, castors and linseeds would show rise.

STARS IN THEIR Seasons

BY M. V. RAMAKRISHNAN, M.A., L.T.

Night Sky in November 1959

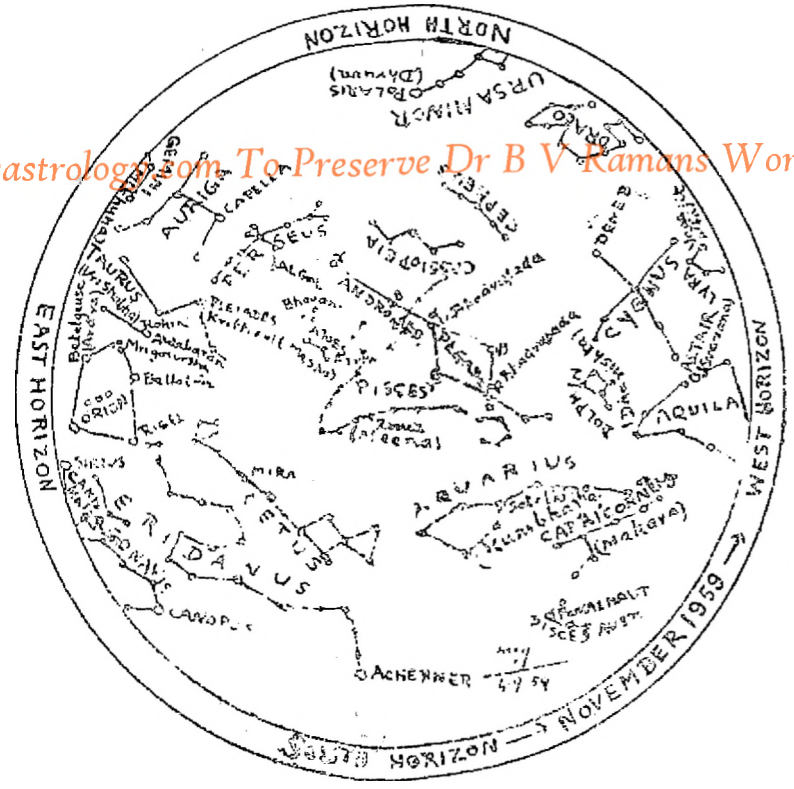
Zodiacal Constellations

THE zodiacal constellations that are visible this month at about 9-30 p.m. in the night are, from west to east, Capricorn (Makara), Aquarius (Kumbha), Pisces (Meena), Aries (Mesha), Taurus (Vrishabha) and Gemini (Mithuna). Capricorn is approaching the western horizon, while Gemini is peeping above the north-eastern horizon. Pisces is very nearly overhead. Aquarius has crossed the meridian, while Aries and Taurus are approaching the meridian. The asterisms Aswini and Bharani of the Aries group are in a favourable position for observation. Also Rohini and Krittika, the asterisms of the Taurus group shine out very bright in the eastern sky.

Non-Zodiacal Constellations

Among the non-zodiacal constellations, Draco, Aquila and Lyra are setting in the west, while Canis Major and Argo Navis are rising in the east. The stars, Altair of Aquila and Vega of the Lyra group, are seen close to the north-western horizon. To the east of Lyra is seen Cygnus, the great cross of the northern sky; its principal star Deneb shining prominently. The small but attractive constellation, Dolphin (Dhanishta), is seen between Aquila and Cygnus. The constellations Cassiopeia, Andromeda and Cetus are crossing the meridian; Pegasus and Cepheus have already passed the meridian, while Perseus is approaching it.

This month three bright constellations attract our attention; and they are Orion, Auriga and Eridanus. Orion consists of seven bright stars, of which two are of the first magnitude and five are of the second magnitude. The leading star is Betelgeuse at the eastern end of uppermost side of the lozenge-shaped group. At the western end of the upper side is Bellatrix, and below it at one end of the lower side is the first magnitude bluish white star Rigel. Starting from the foot of Orion near Rigel runs a long winding group of stars, covering a large tract of the southern sky. This is Eridanus or the celestial river. It contains as many as three hundred stars visible to the naked eye. Yet none of them is brighter than the third magnitude, except the last star called Achernar which is even much brighter than Aldebaran. At this time of the year it is seen directly in the south.



Lunar Asterisms

The lunar asterisms that can be identified in the visible hemisphere are Sravana in Aquila, Dhanishta in the Dolphin, Satabhisha in Aquarius, the Bhadrapadas in Pegasus and Andromeda, Revati in Pisces, Aswini and Bharani in Aries, Krittika and Rohini in Taurus, Mrigasira and Aridra in Orion.

The Milky Way

The Milky Way is seen passing through or between the constellations Orion, Gemini, Taurus, Auriga, Perseus, Cassiopeia, Cygnus and Aquila. It is now seen lying east and west across the middle of the northern sky.

HOW IS THIS MONTH?

or better than any other. Domestic troubles, impediments and sorrows, quarrels and disputes with friends and relatives, harassment by rivals and enemies, mental agitation, separation from relatives, evils arising through bad company, deceit, losses, purposeless enterprises are the likely evil results for the bad transits. On the other hand, favours from elders and superiors, auspicious functions and celebrations, purchase and enjoyment of luxury items, good and wealthy friends and help through them, success over rivals and enemies, successful enterprises, increased influence and position, happiness and general prosperity are the good results. Of the three stars of the sign, those born under Punarvasu and Aslesha will fare much better generally than those born under Pushya.

Health and Domestic.—Health will be somewhat troubled off and on throughout the month. Fever, digestive troubles, rectal ailments like diarrhoea and dysentery or general debility and ill-health will be what one is to expect for the month. Children too may suffer from ailments peculiar to childhood. Minor accidents may occur during the second half. Beyond some general bickerings and quarrels, nothing will take place in the domestic circle that is capable of causing serious disturbances. A lot of difficulties will be caused by your own near relatives which may even cause you some monetary losses, with consequent agitation of your mind and temper. The only best thing to do is not to take such occurrences seriously.

Finance and Speculation.—The conflicting nature of the transit influences will be reflected in the financial sphere also. Both gains and losses, success and failure in enterprises, etc., will be the general rule. Both may be of a sudden and unexpected nature that have nothing to do with your forethought or prudence. Adverse political factors, Governmental action, popular movements, etc., may be the causes. What you can do is not to jump at every fact as apparently promising opportunities may end disastrously. The closing part of the month will be best financially with the above uncertainties. Speculation cannot be expected to fare well and should be thoroughly abstained from.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—The conflicting influences operate similarly also in matters pertaining to real property. Unexpected factors will both help and hinder all affairs. But in this particular sphere, there will be more suffering and troubles and untoward events than beneficial happenings. There will be cause for much disappointments also. Political events and Governmental action too may cause great confusion and apprehensions and there will be very little that you can improve by your own endeavour. The first half of the month may prove worse in the matter of yield and rentals also and dealings with tenants, agents, etc, may become a delicate matter. Even here you can do very little by losing your temper and quarrelling, but a tolerant and sober attitude will help a great deal. There is nothing to be said about the services as the good and bad elements are likely to cancel each other out and the month may prove uneventful and sterile for all that. But there is a lot that you can do to improve your chances by quiet, patient and unstinting hard work as when the chances which are found to occur in the near future, come, this work of yours will be remembered and will facilitate your advancement. In the case of the profession and business, the movement will be bothways, success and profits will alternate with failure and losses throughout and it would be better not to venture too much or stake too much in your enterprises but follow the tide of events unresistingly.

Women.—During this month, the peculiar influences at work in regard to matters that appertain to the fair sex as such, are likely to favour or hinder them according to their temperament, that is to say the bold and venturesome, will get much better results than those who are shy, timid and sensitive. The former type can afford to take risk and in doing so may get away with it with flying colors but the latter rather not do such things. But in normal routine matters, there may not be much difference between the two and each may do as well as the other. The month is good for excursions, picnics, parties and so forth as well as allied activities, interest in fine arts, music, etc.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and domestic matters—6, 9, 20, 21, 25, 28; money dealings—5, 10, 20, 25, 27, 30; short journeys—2, 7, 11, 21, 25, 29; long journeys—2, 6, 11, 21, 26, 30; real property matters—1, 6, 16, 18, 22, 27, 30; speculation and children's affairs—5, 9, 20, 27, 30; service affairs and prospects—9, 13, 23, 28, 30; partnership matters—5, 9, 20, 27, 30; insurance activities—9, 13, 23, 28, 30; professional and business enterprises—5, 9, 20, 27, 30.

Critical Dates.—Personal and domestic matters—1, 4, 7, 14, 15, 22, 29; money dealings—4, 7, 15, 23, 29; short journeys—5, 9, 13, 16, 23, 26, 30; long journeys—3, 9, 16, 20, 24, 27; educational and academical activities—4, 7, 11, 15, 19, 23; speculation, children's affairs and prospects and love affairs—4, 7, 11, 14, 22, 29; service affairs—3, 9, 16, 20, 24, 27; partnership matters—4, 7, 11, 15, 18, 22, 26; insurance activities—4, 7, 11, 15, 18, 22, 26; professional and business enterprises—3, 7, 11, 18, 22, 29.

Chandrashtama from forenoon of 8th till about sunset of 10th.

5. Simha (Leo):—Venus and Rahu in 2nd; Sun and Mars in 3rd and 4th; Jupiter and Mercury in 4th; Saturn in 5th; and Kethu in 8th.

General.—Mercury and Venus are the only planets who are in favourable signs for the entire month. Venus is free of vedha throughout but Mercury is under check for the first three weeks. Sun and Mars are good before change of sign, that is till 14th and 22nd respectively. Thus Jupiter and Saturn are the only evil planets for the entire month, but this is no special feature of this month as they are slow moving planets and continue in the same sign for a long time. So it is good thing that they are under check throughout as each planet is the vedha planet for the other. In a month of generally mixed results, the first half rather the first three weeks will be better than the rest of the month. Happiness, good friends, gains, trumph over rivals and enemies, special honours, popularity, good health, comforts and luxuries, success in enterprises, prosperity, educational successes, academical triumphs, all kinds of enjoyments are what are legitimately expect during the first half of the month. The evil planets may be the cause for some mental agitation, increased demands upon the purse, losses, false implications, humiliation, losses through deceit, evils arising from unsavoury friends and associates, quarrels and disputes with friends and relatives. Of the three stars of the sign, those born under Uttaraphalguna will fare best during the month in all matters, next comes those born under Poorvaphalguna and last only those born with Makha as their birth star.

Health and Domestic.—Health will be fairly well maintained throughout the month. Even during the second half or last week, there will not be actually any illness but some general debility or mild digestive troubles. But there may be a lot of mental agitation and anxieties about the health of some member within the domestic circle probably a son or a daughter whose condition may require more than ordinary care and treatment. Otherwise there may not be much trouble at home or lack of harmony and the month will be passed without any bickerings, quarrels or misunderstandings—one of the least troubled months in the whole year in this respect.

Finance and Speculation.—Finances may prove to be one of the bright spots of the month and there will be more than the average gains and from more than one source too. At the same time it has to be observed that expectations may not be realised to the full because of the limiting influence of Saturn's aspect. Those whose means of gain are not quite straight, not to say of the blackmarketeers, will reap the greatest results and the month may prove a record in this respect for them. But the month will be hard on speculators, especially those who operate on margins. Though there may be some initial gains, they will be offset by subsequent losses. In some cases, the losses may even be steady.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—Real property will be the best feature of the month. Profits and rentals will be satisfactory nearly throughout the month and may even proceed to above average levels. The month is also highly favourable for planning for the future as many good ideas are likely to be hatched out that will prove successful in the future. It may not be possible to specify which sphere will turn out best, but those in which modern methods and mechanisation are involved, will perhaps yield the most beneficial results. Relationship with tenants, agents, etc., also ought to improve and prove generally satisfactory. The services too are likely to be favoured especially during the first 2 or 3 weeks. For some at least, there will be acquisition of new position or status, recognition of merits by superiors in office, special honours, enhanced salary, etc. Towards the close of the month however, during the last week, some amount of care should necessarily be exercised in your dealings with superiors, interviews, etc., as there is a likelihood of your actions and speech being misconstrued and misinterpreted, however well intended your actions and speech may be. The returns from profession and business will be much above average during this month though there may be setbacks off-and on during the month.

Women.—The month may not prove as favourable to the fair sex as may be expected under the circumstances and their relationship with the opposite sex may not prove quite happy during the major part of the month. They may also have to suffer through envy from members of their own sex affecting them and their reputation in a variety of subtle ways. They also may lose through the dishonesty of their servants which may cause them petty losses. They should not also move indiscriminately in crowded places in street or places of entertainment, lest they lose some of their belongings by theft. On the whole, not a good month for having any sort of ambitious programmes, socially or for excursions, picnics, parties, etc.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs—5, 10, 20, 25, 27, 30; money dealings—2, 7, 11, 21, 25, 29; short journeys—1, 6, 16, 18, 22, 27, 30; long journeys—5, 9, 20, 27, 30; real property matters and academical activities—5, 9, 20, 27, 30; speculation, children's affairs and love affairs—2, 6, 11, 21, 26, 30; service affairs and prospects—9, 13, 23, 28, 30; partnership matters—9, 13, 23, 28, 30; insurance business—2, 6, 11, 21, 26, 30; professional and business enterprises—1, 6, 16, 18, 22, 27, 30.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private affairs—4, 7, 15, 23, 29; money dealings—5, 9, 13, 16, 23, 26, 30; short journeys—4, 7, 11, 15, 19, 23; long journeys—3, 7, 11, 18, 22, 29; real property matters and interviews—4, 7, 11, 14, 22, 29; speculation, children's affairs and love affairs—3, 9, 10, 20, 24, 27; service affairs and prospects—4, 7, 11, 15, 18, 22, 26; partnership matters—4, 7, 11, 15, 18, 22, 26; insurance activities—3, 9, 16, 20, 24, 27; professional and business enterprises—3, 4, 11, 13, 15, 19, 24.

Chandrashtama from about sunset of 10th till about midnight of 12th.

6. Kanya (Virgo).—Venus and Rahu in 1st; Sun and Mars in 2nd and 3rd; Jupiter and Mercury in 3rd; Saturn in 4th; and Kethu in 7th.

General.—Venus is the only planet in a favourable sign for the entire month and he is free of vedha. But he is in his sign of debility and so not in a position to help much. Sun and Mars become good after change of sign on 14th and 22nd respectively and so long as they are good, they are also free of check. But before change of sign when they are evil, they are under check. Mercury and Saturn are in unfavourable signs for the entire month but they are under check throughout. Thus though the favourable transits make a poor show for the month, the evil elements though more numerous are all under check without exception. Therefore the month will not be eventful in any sense neither for good nor for bad and be generally nondescript. Still the second half will be much better than the first in a general sense, and some happiness, success, domestic comforts, friendship with men of position and power, gains, luxuries in dress, ornaments, etc., educational successes, enjoyments, etc., are promised by the good transits in force during this part of the month. Some troubles too may be caused by the evil transits such as tedious journeys, separation from family and friends, death of relatives, evil associations, failure in enterprises, unwelcome changes, enmities, disgrace, etc. Of the three asterisms of the sign, those born under Uttaraphalguna and Chitta will fare much better than those born under Hasta.

Health and Domestic.—The first half of the month may witness some health troubles but generally they will not be of much account. They may take shape in bilious and windy complaints and these may be generally eliminated by care as to diet and general habits. Though the evil transits have not much direct adverse effect upon bodily health, they will be responsible for a lot of worries, mental irritation, apprehensions and anxieties of all sorts. Enmities with relatives both inside and outside the domestic circle are likely to arise in consequence. Loss of friends and relatives are also liable to cause much sorrows and unhappiness. There may be unwelcome changes in work or environments adding further to the already existing troubles.

Finance and Speculation.—The second half will be in much better shape during the second half than the first. There will be enough of worries and troubles during the first, caused by increased expenditure and even losses. Extra care in money matters and dealings is called for as losses indicated by more than one transit during the first half. Of course, all this may be remedied to some extent during the second when there will be increased gains and the expenditure too will be perceptibly less and under control. It is better not to launch in big or risky enterprises during the month. This applies with all the greater force for speculative activities especially during first half.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—The month is undeniably adverse to real property interests. Even the second half when three planets transit, favourable signs cannot be said to be favourable or helpful in this respect. Rentals and income will suffer beyond all expectations and cause much worries and apprehensions. Real property owners, especially landlords may have to part with their property either by voluntary sale or involuntarily through sales at a loss or on other disadvantageous terms. Though nothing may actually transpire within the month itself, this month will be full of apprehensions as regards the future. Litigation though threatened should be avoided at any cost. The first half is as bad for the services as the second half is good. Displeasure from Government, superiors in office and troubles through them, loss of status, position, or employment—all this may actually happen or simply threatened. Such conditions will witness appreciable betterment in the course of the second half, especially during the last week. Gradually recognition from superiors, restoration of status will take place. Even the unemployment will get into some work though temporarily. The profession and business will not escape the brunt of the evil transits and suffer diminition during the major part of the month. The closing part of the month however will be somewhat better.

Women.—This month is perhaps most suited for the fair sex in respect of their peculiar interests, however bad or indifferent it may be in other respects. They will be able to secure around co-operation in almost all of their activities and moderate success will attend their parties, excursions, shopping, expeditions, acquisition of luxuries, etc. But the scope for success is not infinite but only within well defined limits, beyond which if matters are pushed there will be only defeat and disappointment. Wedlock is probable in the case of a good many of the unattached during the month. The month is also promising for courtships and love affairs.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs—2, 7, 11, 21, 25, 29; money dealings—1, 6, 16, 18, 22, 27; short journeys—5, 9, 20, 27, 30; long journeys—1, 6, 16, 18, 22, 27, 30; real property affairs and academical activities—2, 6, 11, 21, 26, 30; speculation, children's affairs and prospects and love affairs—9, 13, 23, 28, 30; service affairs and prospects—9, 13, 23, 28, 30; partnership matters—2, 6, 11, 21, 26, 30; insurance activities—5, 9, 20, 27, 30; professional and business enterprises—2, 7, 11, 25, 30.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private affairs—5, 9, 13, 16, 23, 26, 30; money dealings—4, 7, 11, 15, 19, 23; short journeys—4, 7, 11, 14, 22, 29; long journeys—3, 4, 11, 13, 15, 19, 24; real property affairs and academical activities—3, 9, 16, 20, 24, 27; speculation, children's affairs and love affairs—4, 7, 11, 15, 18, 22, 26; service affairs and prospects—4, 7, 11, 15, 18, 22, 26; partnership matters—3, 9, 16, 20, 24, 27; insurance activities—3, 7, 11, 18, 22, 29; professional and business enterprises—5, 9, 13, 16, 20, 24.

Chandrashtama from about midnight of 12th till afternoon of 15th.

7. Thula (Libra).—Sun and Mars in 1st and 2nd; Jupiter and Mercury in 2nd; Saturn in 3rd; Kethu in 6th; and Venus and Rahu in 12th.

General.—Jupiter and Saturn, two major planets and Venus are in good signs for the entire month. But all these three planets are under check throughout the month. Mercury, Sun and Mars are evil for the whole month; of these, though Sun and Mars suffer vedha all along, Mercury remains free. Therefore it is clear that the month will not be notable for good or bad and nothing of importance either way may be expected for the month in general, though mixed in character. Various health troubles, troublesome and purposeless journeys, obstacles in all matters, mental apprehensions and anxieties, quarrels with friends and relatives, losses, separation, troubles through rivals and enemies, disgrace and dishonour, scandals and unjust blame, etc., are the likely results for the evil transits of the month. But gain of items of luxury and enjoyment, gains, pleasures, prosperity, increased influence, happiness, success in undertakings, triumph over rivals, auspicious events and celebrations, etc., are the good things to be expected from the good transits. But as already observed neither good prospects nor the evil will function much because of vedha or interplanetary inhibition. Of the three stars of the sign, there may not be much of difference in the translation of the planetary rays but those born under Chitta and Visakha will fare generally better than those born under Swati and suffer less.

Health and Domestic.—Though there may not be any serious breakdown in health this month, chronic sufferers from such complaints as high blood pressure, heart disease, stomach and chest pains, respiratory and eye diseases will do well to take due care of their health from the side of prevention rather than combat them after their onset, which is always more difficult and unsatisfactory. In the domestic sphere, too, conditions may not prove quite happy in a general sense. Actually there may not be any specific cause for unhappiness or sorrow but neither will there be complete harmony. In bad cases, it may amount at most to a state of dignified separation and only temporary even then.

Finance and Speculation.—Conditions will be quite good and above average so far as financial matters are concerned. Gains will accrue through many sources consequent upon success in almost all of your ventures. During the first half especially the good influences can be exploited to the full. During the second half though conditions still continue to be favourable, financial worries in some form or other cannot perhaps be avoided as also a few minor losses as well. But, on the whole, even during the second half, there will not be much to complain of provided one does not take on too risky enterprises. The same observations also apply to speculation where cautions and sober operations may bring in some gains which will be limited and not adequate to the labour and risk involved.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—Real property conditions will not be satisfactory from the point of view landlords and landholders as well as for the tenants and workers in the land. Yield and rentals are liable to be affected adversely by many causes, such as floods, pest or other acts of nature and all this may have unpleasant reactions, and give rise to quarrels and disputes. In any event it is essential that you should not take the law into your own hands and resort to law should be had only as a last resort. There is always a danger of defeat in such matters during the month. This month should be devoted to steady quiet routine work only and no innovations should be attempted. Inspite of some setbacks which are inevitable, on the whole, the services will do quite well this month. It may be that some bold action is called for to produce results favourable to you and advance your interests. To take such action will be quite legitimate this month such as bearding the lion in its den or have it out with the boss. Even so you should be careful not to be rash or overstep your limits.

A. H. Wheeler & Co.

THE House of Wheelers, premier Railway Bookstall Contractors who have now completed 75 years of railway bookstall service deserves our congratulations and felicitations on the most efficient manner in which they have rendered service to the travelling public as also the publishers. This premier concern was founded by one late Mr. E.E. Moreau about the year 1885 and this was done by placing an almirah at the railway platform at Allahabad. Since then it has grown and this organisation is now directly responsible for the maintenance of about 5,000 people. This institution is now one of the biggest newspaper distributors in the whole of the East and is looked upon as one of the National Institutions of India.

The Company was European owned till 1937 in which year the goodwill was purchased by the late Mr. T. K. Banerjee who had spent more than 40 years of his career developing this business. The two present Managing Directors Messrs. A. C. Banerjee and R. N. Banerjee are the sons of late Mr. T. K. Banerjee.

A noteworthy feature of this organisation is that it is entirely Indian owned and Indian managed. They run a fully equipped carpenters' workshop to manufacture the bookstalls and also a printing press where innumerable number of forms, etc., required for their vast organisation is printed.

Wheelers' claim that there has not been a single occasion where any publisher had to take recourse to legal proceedings to realise his dues during the course of their existence for the last 75 years. The very limited space at Wheelers' disposal at the railway bookstalls is fully packed by the best of books and periodicals in all regional languages including Gandhian literature, Sarvodaya literature, tourist literature, RAMAN PUBLICATIONS and THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE, etc. In the matter of selection of books Wheelers are also to be congratulated and it is understood that they do not sell any kind of literature on sex or sexology not approved of by the railway authorities.

Every bookstall run by Wheelers is their own property and the stocks therein are also displayed on their own account. Their contribution to the growth of education has been of great value.

Metals and Bullions.—Transit of Sun and Mars in Visakha must be said to be bullish. Jupiter in Anuradha also helps to rise. Only in the initial stages upto 6th, solar transit in Swati shows decline in metal values. From 7th to 21st prices of precious metals would be steady, showing even little rise. Jupiter getting free from martian vedha and Pushya coming under vedha of Jupiter, prices might show small setback, and again pushed up after 25th. Ending days would be highly bullish in both yellow and silver metals. Other metals would maintain, steady prices.

Chemicals and Salts.—Aridra constellation remaining free from any benefic or malefic influences and Sankranti indications being not good, prices of chemicals would come down to some extent during the month, specially between 13th to 25th.

Foodgrains.—Both rice and wheat would show a rising tendency. Specially wheat prices would go hard.

Stocks and Shares.—Navamsa positions of both Rahu and Saturn improve from 4th evening. Amavasya (New Moon) chart indicates that after 14th stock values should show rise. It may be safely predicted that till 14th markets would be dull without much activity and somewhat bearish but from 14th onwards steadily bullish trend would emerge. 1st to 13th bearish; 14th to 19th slightly bullish; 20th to 22nd reactionary fall; 23rd till end teji.

Eleventh Bhava–(In affliction)—The native is sad for want of friends. His friends induce him to take dangerous steps in his personal matters with the result his peace of mind is shattered. He involves himself in crimes for the sake of his friends and suffers the consequences later.

In good position.—He gets a number of good friends who advise him, convincingly to be calm even in the matters requiring serious steps to be taken. His pleasure is multiplied by the association of his friends and his pangs divided. He receives constant assistance from his friends.

Thus, the mind is the agent of receiving pleasure or pain through the twelve Bhavas and reflecting them. Peace of mind will be present only in the nativities, having almost all the Bhavas least afflicted.

Commander-in-Chief, Saturn on that day stood at Gemini 7° 50′, and therefore passing over Σ Tauri (natal Neptune).

That saw the end of Rommel in Africa. The war on that continent came to an end on May 12th, 1943.

On Friday, April 23rd, 1943, Montgomery himself went down with tonsillitis. Note that the heliacal rising of that day occurred at Taurus 2° and remember that Taurus is the sign that has a direct connection with the throat. Saturn, conjoined with Venus at Gemini 10° 25′, was opposing the Moon—providing a not very encouraging ambient for health conditions. Jupiter from Cancer 17° 54′ was squaring Montgomery's natal Uranus in his 12th house (sickness)—a doleful but not too distressing aftermath for a victorious general who had succeeded in kicking Rommel out of Africa.

HOW IS THIS MONTH?

Otherwise more evil is likely to result than good. Perhaps this month is most favourable for the profession and business who will get results above average in their activities and work. There is scope for considerable expansion in either.

Women.—It is better that women restrict their outside activities to the minimum during this month as conditions are not very propitious for matters pertaining to them by reason of their sex and confine themselves to home and household work such as cleaning up, re-adorning, painting the walls, needle work, etc., etc. When they go out for any purpose, social activities or other work, the probability though remote of danger of dishonour or disgrace should be had in mind. It is better they do not travel alone or visit crowded places or the streets or places of entertainment.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs—1, 6, 16, 18, 22, 27, 30; money dealings—5, 9, 20, 27, 30; short journeys—2, 6, 11, 21, 26, 30; long journeys—2, 7, 11, 21, 25, 30; real property matters and academical enterprises—9, 13, 23, 28, 30; speculation, children's affairs and love affairs—9, 13, 23, 28, 30; service affairs and prospects—2, 6, 11, 21, 26, 30; partnership matters—5. 9, 20, 27, 30; insurance activities—1, 6, 16, 18, 22, 27, 30; professional and business enterprises—6, 9, 20, 21, 25, 28.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private affairs—4, 7, 11, 15, 19, 23; money dealings—4, 7, 11, 14, 22, 29; short journeys—3, 9, 16, 20, 24, 27; long journeys—5, 9, 13, 16, 20, 24; real property matters and academical activities—4, 7, 11, 15, 18, 22, 26; speculation, children's affairs and love affairs—4, 7, 11, 15, 18, 22, 26; service affairs and prospects—5, 9, 13, 16, 20, 24; partnership matters—3, 7, 11, 18, 22, 29; insurance activities—3, 4, 11, 13, 15, 19, 24; professional and business enterprises—1, 4, 7, 14, 15, 22, 29.

Chandrashtama from afternoon of 15th till early morning hours of 18th.

8. Vrischika (Scorpio).—Jupiter and Mercury in 1st; Saturn in 2nd; Kethu in 5th; Venus and Rahu in 11th; and Sun and Mars in 12th and 1st.

General.—Venus in 11th is the only good transit influence for the month. No other planet is in an auspicious sign for even part of the month. But Venus is unchecked throughout. Sun, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn as also Mercury are all in evil signs only. But it is somewhat computing to note that all these planets except Saturn are thoroughly under vedha and so their evil rays are inhibited and do not amount to much. Still in transit, Venus is no match against Saturn in 2nd and the month can prove to be quite uncomfortable, even troublesome generally and in some special matters also. Obstacles and setbacks in enterprises as well as in normal routine matters, delays, tedious and aimless travels, loss of prestige and honour, sorrows, quarrels with friends, varied anxieties, money losses, ill-health, separation from relatives, misunderstandings, troubles through increased enemy activities, low and undesirable company and difficulties and losses arising therefrom, deaths among relatives, etc., are the likely results which will trouble you in some form or other though they may never assume serious proportions. The only relieving feature will be that in all your trials, you will get whatever help you want from your friends and sympathisers which will serve to make the troubles appear less irksome. Of the three stars of the sign, those born under Visakha and Jyeshta will fare better and suffer less than those born under Anuradha.

Health and Domestic.—No doubt there will be upsets in health but because the planets lack strength in their affliction, they will prove to be mild and easily amenable to treatment. Chronic sufferers should necessarily take measures against fevers, blood pressure, heart troubles, stomach and respiratory ailments and eye disorders. Bronchial respiratory affections should be attended to with more than ordinary care. The wife's health too may need some attention. There is nothing to be mentioned about domestic affairs which will be quite uneventful. There may be some minor bickerings and differences which will not reach the state of quarrels. But in regard to dealings with relatives outside the domestic circle, considerable patience and prudence will have to be exercised to avoid troubles and loss. Their apparently well-meant 'advice' should be carefully scrutinised as there is sure to be a catch somewhere.

Finance and Speculation.—Financial stress and worries will be more or less a regular feature of the month. Losses in dealings and transactions and in enterprises may take place and further add to your problems. Unexpected items of expenditure will crop up to complicate the position still more. During journeys you should take special precautions against losses by theft. Beware of confidence tricks all along. Of course there may accrue gains from the usual avenues and there may not be failure in that. But they will prove grossly inadequate. No doubt speculation will be tempting as a means by which you can solve your financial problems and there may be some initial successes also to tempt you further. But at the end your losses will exceed your gains and so keep away from speculation.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—Real property matters sufficiently bad at the beginning will deteriorate more and more as the month advances and assume fairly serious proportions towards the close of the month. Landlords and landholders especially will have much to apprehend as regards the future because of impending legislation to curtail their holdings without adequate or satisfactory compensation. There will be also considerable disappointments on the part of those sought to be benefitted because of their attitude that the "reforms" do not go far enough. Anyway there will be only confusion and strife in the matter of collection produce, rentals, manoeuvrings of both sides, and so on and so forth. The services are not likely to profit much this month. It will be good if status quo is being maintained. But there is nothing in the transit influences to affect them directly either for good or for bad and so if routine is kept up to rigidly and conscientiously, the month can be expected to pass off peacefully and without loss of honour or prestige. Inspite of prevailing transit influences, there will be greater activity on the profession and business though it may prove to be of the hectic type and not the result of natural expansion and healthy endeavours.

Women.—The month is generally not unfavourable for matters connected with the fair sex as such, that is the transit influences are neutral in this respect. Those who have natural pluck, and are bold and venturesome may carry on as usual and attain success in their activities which are normally due but the timid and sensitive had better keep to their homes and not attempt or indulge in activities beyond their capacity as there will be absolutely no luck factor to bring matters to a successful conclusion. However the month is good for excursions, picnics, outings and pleasurable activities in general.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs—5, 9, 20, 27, 30; money dealings and transactions—2, 6, 11, 21, 26, 30; short journeys—9, 13, 23, 28, 30; long journeys—6, 9, 20, 21, 25, 28; real property affairs and interviews—9, 13, 23, 28, 30; speculation, children's affairs and love affairs —2, 6, 11, 21, 24, 30; service affairs and prospects—5, 9, 20, 27, 30; partnership matters—6, 16, 18, 22, 27; insurance activities—2, 7, 11, 21, 25, 30; professional and business enterprises—5, 10, 20, 25, 27, 30.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private affairs—4, 7, 11, 14, 22, 29; money dealings—3, 9, 16, 20, 24, 27; short journeys—4, 7, 11, 15, 18, 22, 26; long journeys—1, 4, 7, 14, 15, 22, 29; real property affairs and academical enterprises—4, 7, 11, 14, 22, 29; speculation and children's affairs—3, 9, 16, 20, 24, 27; service affairs and prospects—3, 7, 11, 18, 22, 29; partnership activities—3, 4, 11, 13, 15, 19, 24; insurance matters—5, 9, 13, 16, 20, 24; professional and business enterprises—4, 7, 15, 23, 29.

Chandrashtama from early morning hours of 18th, till afternoon of 20th.

9. Dhanus (Sagittarius).—Saturn in 1st; Kethu in 4th; Venus and Rahu in 10th; Sun and Mars in 11th and 12th; and Jupiter and Mercury in 12th.

General.—No planet can be said to be in a favourable sign for the entire month. Sun and Mars are the only planets that transit favourable signs for at least part of the month as they are good before change of sign, that is till 14th and 22nd respectively. They are also free of check. All the other planets are only in evil signs except it be that Jupiter in 12th may not be considered as transitting an outright inauspicious sign. Of the other three p anets, Mercury, Venus and Saturn, Venus is under check throughout, Mercury for the greater part of the month but Saturn not at all. From all this it can be inferred that in a month of mixed results generally, during the first half good results and during the latter, evil results alone will predominate. Success in enterprises generally, gains, happiness, honour, auspicious events and celebrations, purchase and enjoyment of articles of luxury, etc., are what one may expect during the first half. During the second half none of the planets are favourable. General debility and ill-health, apprehensions as regards future, journeys to distant places, loss of friends, loss of money, failure in undertakings, increased heavy expenditure, quarrels and disgrace, defeat in contentious matters, troubles through rivals and enemies, etc., are the unwelcome possibilities. Of the three stars of the sign, the best results and least suffering will be the lot of those born with Uttarashada as their birth star, next come those born under Moola and last only come those born under Poorvashada.

Health and Domestic.—While the first half will be fairly healthy, the second half will not be so. Some general debility alone may be present during the first two weeks, whereas, eye troubles and bilious complaints may be superadded along with fever. Due rest and ordinary care as to diet and general habits should suffice to avert these ailments or bring them to a speedy termination. As regards domestic circle and the social sphere, it may be next to impossible to avert quarrels and misunderstandings with relatives and friends, even though you may be taking the best of care of yourself and be guarded in speech and actions. So it is unnecessary to enjoin the strictest control of temper under any circumstances.

Finance and Speculation.—There is not much to expect that can be favourable in financial matters during the month especially during the second half. There will be some gains and success in enterprises during the first half but all this are liable to be washed away during the latter part and acute problems that are difficult of solution will have to be faced. Losses in enterprises will be rather the rule than the exception as there will be no less than four planets in the twelfth house during this part of the month, one of which will be Mars. Therefore it will be imperative that waste and extravagance of any sort should be discouraged and expenses kept under strict control. No part of the month can be said to be favourable for speculative transactions.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—There is a probability that real property interests may not suffer like the other spheres of activity but then it will be rather a matter of degree. Even here no positive good can be expected even though the evil transits may not entail much of suffering during the month itself. There is also a probability that some additions to your holdings may take place during the month, but its actual utility or benefits arising therefrom will be questionable in the long run. Therefore before making any investments it would be necessary to exercise much prudence and consideration of pros and cons to reach final conclusion. The services will be the least troubled and most favoured during the month and this observation holds good only for the first half. Popularity, advancement, fame and credit, preferments, etc., are probable. In the case of some this part of the month will be the last chance for new position and honours during the year and so the utmost should be made of the influences and try to rope in all help that you can secure for this end. During the second, the less such attempts are made the better as the influences abruptly change for the worse. In a way, the profession and business are also favoured and it would be better to follow the general trends in any matter rather than attempt to force any results. That way there will be minimum loss and maximum profits.

Women.—This month cannot be said to be favourable to the fair sex in any sense and the less the activities they indulge in and the less the hopes they entertain, in less measure will be their disappointment also. The home is the best place for them without exception. Whatever outside activities they may attempt they are only likely to end in failure. Even at home, it is best to stick to routine matters, cleaning up, house warning, arrangements, freshening up by painting, etc., or quiet reading. Avoid the opposite sex as much as possible and withdraw into yourself and contemplate.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs—2, 6, 11, 21, 26, 30; money dealings—9, 13, 23, 28, 30; short journeys—9, 13, 23, 28, 30; long journeys—5, 10, 20, 25, 27, 30; real property matters and academical activities—2, 6, 11, 21, 26, 30; speculation, children's affairs and love affairs—5, 9, 20, 27, 30; service affairs and prospects—1, 6, 16, 18, 22, 27, 30; partnership business—2, 7, 11, 21, 25, 30; insurance activities—6, 9, 20, 21, 25, 28; professional and business enterprises—2, 7, 11, 21, 25, 29.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private affairs—3, 9, 16, 20, 24, 27; money dealings—4, 7, 11, 15, 18, 22, 26; short journeys—4, 7, 11, 15, 18, 22, 26; long journeys—4, 7, 15, 23, 29; real property matters and academical activities—3, 9, 16, 20, 24, 27; speculation, children's affairs—3, 7, 11, 18, 22, 29; service affairs—3, 4, 11, 13, 15, 19, 24; partnership business—5, 9, 13, 16, 20, 24; insurance activities—1, 4, 7, 14, 15, 22, 29; professional and business enterprises—5, 9, 13, 16, 23, 26, 30.

Chandrashtama from the afternoon of 20th till about sunrise of 23rd.

10. Makara (Capricorn).—Kethu in 3rd; Venus and Rahu in 9th; Sun and Mars in 10th and 11th; Jupiter and Mercury in 11th; and Saturn in 12th.

General.—Sun, Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter—all these planets transit favourable signs during the entire month. No doubt the efficacy is to some extent spoiled by two of them,

Mercury and Venus being under check throughout the month. But it is a point greatly in favour that the Sun and Jupiter whose influence in transit count for most, are both good and free of vedha. The only evil planet for the month is Saturn and he is under check all along. Therefore the good influences are greatly in predominance over the evil which may be said to be practically nil as Saturn in 1st is nothing peculiar for this month. Thus the general prospects for the month are seen to be bright. General success, gains, luxuries, triumph over rivals and enemies, influential friendships and associations and benefits arising therefrom, prosperity & happiness, good health, auspicious events in the house as also celebrations, new studies and increase of knowledge, etc., are the good results that will be the natural expression of the beneficial transits in force. Some quarrels, disappointments, grief from loss of relatives and friends, minor losses and ill-health will be all that the single evil transit may be also to accomplish. Of the three stars of the sign, those born under the asterism of Uttarashada and Dhanishta will derive much better results from the good transits than those born under Sravana.

Health and Domestic.—Good health throughout the month will be the rule. But this is only so far as your health is concerned. The children's health may have to be safeguarded and prophylactic measures taken as against prevailing epidemics if any. If ailments are present at the opening of the month, they will quickly disappear under appropriate treatment taken during the month. It would be advisable to begin treating yourself this month in case you are suffering from complicated chronic diseases which have so far resisted remedial measures. So far as domestic happiness and harmony is concerned as also the celebration of auspicious events and occasions this month is easily the best in the whole year.

Finance and Speculation.—With lord of 1st and 2nd houses in 12th, the month cannot be expected to yield maximum results in the financial sphere, inspite of the fact that almost all the transits are favourable. Mounting expenses will also be one of the causes for the unsatisfactory condition of finances during the month especially towards the close of the month. But such a state can be combated by early attention to the outgoing expenditure items and cutting short most rigorously suspicious items. By these means this month can also be made to be one of the best in the year. The same observations can be applied so far as may be to speculation also. With good care and restraint and never venturing too far success can be achieved and sizable gains made. But it would require superhuman control to retain them by subsequent imprudent deals.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—Real property interests are also favoured generally this month. Rentals and profits will be quite satisfactory and there is scope also for acquisition of new holdings by purchase or otherwise. Landed and mining interests specially will stand to gain much. But some changes too may arise and all of them may not be for good. Damage to property may also arise through various causes, political, accidents, acts of nature, etc. The worst of the thing is that there is very little that you can do by your own actions to avoid them. But when the situation in some way worsens and you think of resorting to legal action, you should think twice before doing so. The month is good for the services, in fact it can be said to be one of the best months in the whole year. New position and honours, attainment of your long cherished ambitions and desires, promotion or other desirable changes are due and may take place within the month itself. In a few cases for some reason or other, they may be postponed to the next month. As much will naturally depend upon favourable reports about your works, you should take care to be efficient and equip yourself fully with the necessary qualifications lest the influences pass you by for lack of basic requirements. The profession and business too stand to gain much this month and will witness all-round expansion.

Women.—This month is one of the best in the year for the fair sex as well. They may witness the fulfilment of their most ardent desires and longings in the course of the month, such as purchase of items of luxury in dress, ornaments, household gadgets, radio, etc. Then circle of friends and admirers will widen and success in social activities, parties, excursions, picnics, garden parties assured. The unattached among them may suddenly find themselves engaged and married and move to entirely new and romantic surroundings. Some may have to endure the pleasure and pains of the throes of confinement, may be for the first time.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs—9, 13, 23, 28, 30; money dealings—9, 13, 23, 28, 30; short journeys—2, 6, 11, 21, 26, 30; long journeys—2, 7, 11, 21, 25, 29; real property affairs and academical activities—5, 9, 20, 27, 30; speculation, children's affairs and love affairs—1, 6, 16, 18, 22, 27, 30; service affairs and prospects—2, 7, 11, 21, 25, 30; partnership business—6, 9, 20, 21, 25, 28; insurance activities and enterprises—5, 10, 20, 25, 27, 30; professional and business enterprises—1, 6, 16, 18, 22, 27, 30.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private affairs—4, 7, 11, 15, 18, 22, 26; money dealings—4, 7, 11, 15, 18, 22, 26; short journeys—3, 9, 16, 20, 24, 27; long journeys—5, 9, 13, 16, 23, 26, 30; real property affairs and academical activities—3, 7, 11, 18, 22, 29; speculation, children's affairs and love affairs—3, 4, 11, 13, 15, 19, 24; service affairs and prospects—5, 9, 13, 16, 20, 24; partnership business—1, 4, 7, 14, 15, 22, 29; insurance activities—4, 7, 15, 23, 29; professional and business enterprises—4, 7, 11, 15, 19, 23.

Chandrashtama from about sunrise of 23rd till forenoon of 25th.

11. Kumbha (Aquarius).—Kethu in 2nd; Venus and Rahu in 8th; Sun and Mars in 9th and 10th; Jupiter and Mercury in 10th; and Saturn in 11th.

General.—Mercury, Venus and Saturn, are all in good signs during the whole month. Though Mercury is under check throughout, Venus and Saturn are free entirely. Sun and Mars become favourable after change of sign on 14th and 22nd respectively. Good or bad, Mars is under check throughout but Sun is under check only so long as he is evil. Jupiter is the only planet who is in an unfavourable sign for the entire month and he is under vedha during the greater part. Thus the good elements are seen to be in preponderance. This feature will be naturally reflected in the results of month. But the second half will be much better in general than the first as five planets are in good signs during this part of the month. Success generally, gains, good friendships and advantages therefrom, triumph over rivals and enemies, prosperity and happiness, gain of luxuries, good health, auspicious events and celebrations, increased popularity and fame, attainment to a good position, etc., are the results to be expected during the second half of the month. During the first half, however, there is scope for some troubles such as receipt of bad news, death of friend or relative, unwelcome changes in work or environment, scandals and bad name, ill-health to children, tedious and wearisome journeys, enmities with elderly people, quarrels, etc. Of the three stars of the sign, those born under Dhanishta and Poorvabhadrapada will fare much better and suffer much less than those born under Satabhisha.

Health and Domestic.—Even during the first half, no actual illness need be apprehended. At the same time, it has to be observed that there is likely to be loss of vitality and general debility and this may arise from various causes, through previous sickness, acute or chronic or even through loss of blood caused by some injuries during the month itself. Besides, there will be cause for some mental agitation, worries and anxieties. But all this are liable to be set right during the second half when recovery from illness and restoration to health will take place. The domestic circle too will be only very little disturbed during the first half when perhaps some minor bickering take place. Peace and harmony with celebration of auspicious events and functions will take place in the second half.

Finance and Speculation.—Finances may be even said to be specially favoured during this month, more especially the second half. In the earlier half it may be difficult to avoid some losses, financial worries, etc. But whether these take place or not, there may arise some enmities on account of money. In the second half gains, success in financial ventures, professional and business successes, capital appreciation of your holdings, etc., will take place and your money problems will to some extent at least be solved. But these observations should not encourage you into speculative activities in which several circumstances will continue to cause only heavy losses. Very adverse influences prevail in regard to this matter.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—Real property interests are also helped by the transit influences in force during the month and gain of lands, houses, etc., can be envisaged as among the possibilities for the month as also capital appreciation of your holdings in planting and mining shares. But there are some contrary influences as well which are likely to create up and down movements and even violent fluctuations. But, on the whole, the situation is likely to be more satisfactory than has been the case for some time past. There will be nothing to complain of in the matter of yield and rentals which may reach above average levels. Conflicting influences converge upon matters pertaining to the services and their prospects, in some cases they will be helped and in others now. Still it can be expected that the second half will be free from troubles such as displeasure of superiors, unforeseen setbacks, etc. Many of the unemployed will be able to secure employment during this part of the month and those who have been employed on a temporary basis may find their post made permanent. Considerable increased activity and expansion will be witnessed in the case of the business and the profession with adequate and satisfactory results in gains, profits and increased income.

Women.—The month, the second half especially is favourable for the interests of the fair sex. They can indulge in all activities germane to their sex moderately with hopes of success and satisfaction. Society ladies especially will have quite a good time. They will have occasion to entertain valued and honoured friends and relations whose advent is always welcome and they will occasion also to visit places where they are being received and honoured. Shopping too will be a delight as they can succeed in getting objects and items that have been long their dream but unattainable till now. But there are limitations and such investments should be moderate and not beyond one's capacity. Otherwise there may be source of mental irritation later on.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs—9, 13, 23, 28, 30; money dealings—2, 6, 11, 21, 26, 30; short journeys—5, 9, 20, 27, 30; long journeys—1, 6, 16, 18, 22, 27, 30; real property affairs and academical activities—1, 6, 16, 18, 22, 27, 30; speculation, children's affairs and love affairs—2, 7, 11, 21, 25, 30; service affairs—6, 9, 20, 21, 25, 28; partnership business—5, 10, 20, 25, 27, 30; insurance activities—2, 7, 11, 21, 25, 29; professional and business enterprises—5, 9, 20, 27, 30.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private affairs—4, 7, 11, 15, 18, 22, 26; money dealings—3, 9, 16, 20, 24, 27; short journeys—3, 7, 11, 18, 22, 29; long journeys—4, 7, 11, 15, 19, 23; real property matters and academical activities—3, 4, 11, 13, 15, 19, 24; speculation, children's affairs and love affairs—5, 9, 13, 16, 20, 24; service affairs and prospects—1, 4, 7, 14, 15, 22, 29; partnership matters—4, 7, 15, 23, 29; insurance activities—5, 9, 13, 16, 23, 26, 30; professional and business enterprises—4, 7, 11, 14, 22, 29.

Chandrashtama from forenoon of 25th till past noon of 27th.

12. Meena (Pisces).—Kethu in 1st; Venus and Rahu in 7th; Sun and Mars in 8th and 9th; Jupiter in 9th; Mercury in 9th; and Saturn in 10th.

General.—Jupiter in 9th is an undoubtedly good transit influence, one of the very best. But he is under vedha throughout and is the only favourable transit for the month. Hence, there is not much to be hoped from Jupiter. Saturn in 10th, a malefic in an Upachaya house cannot be said to be altogether evil nor wholly good either. All the other planets Mercury, Venus, Sun and Mars are all in evil signs only. These planets are under check only before change of sign, Mercury alone being thus affected throughout. At least for this if not any other, the first half will prove less troublesome than the second. On the whole not a good month in general and full of troubles, mishaps, apprehensions and forebodings. Bad associations, quarrels, loss of status, enmities with elders, humiliation and despondency, losses, accidents, tedious and wearisome journeys, general debility and ill-health, the trigger releasing the power of some great more or less secret movement. Some kind of corporative state is most likely to take the place of the dictatorship, as a natural development of the prevailing socialistic trend.

EIGHT-PLANET COMBINATION

The eclipse in Aquarius is also opposite to the Mars-Pluto conjunction in the 7th house of the Chinese Popular Republic chart, so, if there is any danger of war, this may be one of the hottest places. For the greater part of America, the eclipse comes more or less nearer to the 7th house cusp, so that it should affect mostly her relations. On the other hand, because of the dominating position of Neptune, in the Xth house from the Sun-Moon, the general move toward some kind of socialization is likely to prevail everywhere.

And many other things may happen which can hardly be predicted, through the impact of the Law of Causation, which is always supreme, even while acting orderly through the moving frame of the planetary pattern.

HOW IS THIS MONTH?

obstacles and setbacks in undertakings, unfounded charges, troubles through the opposite sex, scandals, etc., are the likely results for the evil results of the month. But the entire month will not be one continuous run of ill-luck in all matters and will be punctuated by spells of success and prosperity. Of the three stars of the sign, those born under Purvabhadrapada and Revati will generally suffer less than those born under Uttarabhadrapada.

Health and Domestic.—Health is liable to be affected rather badly during the month, though after all nothing is likely to prove serious or make you bedridden for a long time. People with habitual high blood pressure should certainly be careful and not do things that are likely to put it up higher. 'Heat' troubles are also probable. Accidents resulting in wounds causing loss of blood and other complications are not improbable. Blood poisoning in such cases is an ever present probability and hence prompt measures should be taken even with regard to slight injuries. Quarrels and misunderstandings with wife and other members within the domestic circle are very probable and you should guide your speech and actions always with this in view. There may be additions to family members by birth or otherwise.

Finance and Speculation.—Money matters cannot but be affected adversely. Income and gains will become less and expenditure items multiply like anything. It will not be good to spend as in other months and expenditure should be cut out rigidly. Losses too may take place. Misunderstandings on account of money are quite likely during the second half. Financial enterprises may not bring in the expected results and may even end in losses. So no enterprises involving the least risk should be indulged in during this month. Even inroads on previous savings may be found necessary because of frequent demands and the failure of usual avenues of income. Speculation will appear enticing but would end only in losses.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—Real property interests will suffer like other spheres of activity but at any rate not so much. Yield and rentals will be reduced no doubt but not so much as one may apprehend. But any summing up of the position with regard to matters pertaining to real property is likely to be upset by unexpected elements taking a hand, such as acts of God, Governmental action, unrest among tenants, fraudulent agents, etc. But Jupiter's favourable influence will effectually prevent matters going too far in any direction. In the majority of cases, conditions will be found tolerable for the greater part of the month. It is no use trying new innovations this month generally. Nothing favourable is in store for the services. This does not mean that there will be setbacks either. But the month can be utilised for increasing your efficiency and completing all tests lack of which will be normally a bar to further advancement, as the influences can be exploited to that end at least, no promotion or preferments being possible within the month itself, except where the directional influences also take a hand. With some difficulty some of the unemployed can get the work though on a temporary basis. The last week or ten days will be the best part of the month to which none of the disabilities aforementioned are applicable. This observation applies equally well in the case of the profession and business.

Women.—There is nothing that is specially favourable or unfavourable for the matters in which the fair sex are peculiarly interested, and a normal routine in all such matters may be expected. But it is quite another thing to expect success in matters, that are out of routine and required special efforts, or co-operation from others, or others in which the expenditure of considerable amounts are involved such as the giving of parties, purchase of luxury items that are costly or expensive travels. For such extra activities, the month is thoroughly unsuitable. It will be quite proper to attend to only ordinary and routine duties throughout the month for all concerned be they rich society ladies or commonfolk.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs—2, 6, 11, 21, 26, 30; money dealings—5, 9, 20, 27, 30; short journeys—1, 6, 16, 18, 22, 27, 30; long journeys—5, 9, 20, 27, 30; real property matters and academical enterprises—2, 7, 11, 21, 25, 30; speculation, children's affairs and love affairs—6, 9, 20, 21, 25, 28; service affairs and prospects—5, 10, 20, 25, 27; partnership matters—2, 7, 11, 21, 25, 30; insurance activities—1, 6, 10, 18, 22, 27, 30; professional and business enterprises—2, 6, 11, 21, 26, 30.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private affairs—3, 9, 16, 20, 24, 27; money dealings—3, 7, 11, 18, 22, 29; short journeys—3, 4, 11, 13, 15, 19, 24; long journeys—4, 7, 11, 14, 22, 29; real property affairs and academical activities—5, 9, 13, 16, 20, 24; speculation, children's affairs and love affairs—1, 4, 7, 14, 15, 22, 29; service affairs and prospects—4, 7, 15, 23, 29; partnership business—5, 9, 13, 16, 23, 26, 30; insurance matters—4, 7, 11, 15, 19, 23; professional and business enterprises—3, 9, 16, 20, 24, 27.

WEATHER FORECASTS FOR NOVEMBER 1959

By D.R. MUNSIF, B.Sc. (Econ.) (London), B.A. (Hons.), Bombay

ONE usually expects the first nip of winter in the beginning of November but this year all over India, it will be late. If one looks at the map of Sun's entry into Scorpio, Sagittarius is on the ascendant and Gemini on the descendant. Next the most important house for determining the weather is the 4th house which is hot and dry. Further its ruler Mars is posited in his own sign Scorpio, establishing stormy weather. But fortunately Mars falls in the 11th house in conjunction with Sun, Neptune and Mercury.

Saturn is in an angle for Central and Western India and Moon is posited in his own sign the 8th house. Therefore the weather will be dry, hot and windy with a little nip only, when Saturn's cycle is stimulated. Since monsoon is now over, there is no detailed forecast about weather. Generally the temperatures all over India will be normal. 28th and 30th of October, 2nd, 12th, 13th, 18th, 19th and 22nd of November will be found to indicate that the cold weather is not far off.

FOR MERCURY, VENUS AND JUPITER

Asterism	Part of the body	Result
1, 2, 3	Head	Sorrow
4, 5, 6	Face	Gain
7 to 12	Hands	Calamity
13 to 17	Stomach	Gains
18, 19	Generative organs	Loss
20 to 27	Feet	Fame

FOR SATURN AND THE NODES

Asterism	Part of the body	Result
1	Face	Sorrow
2 to 5	Right hand	Happiness
6, 7, 8	Right leg	Travel
9, 10, 11	Left leg	Loss
12 to 15	Left hand	Gain
16 to 20.	Stomach	Pleasures
21 to 23	Head	Happiness
24, 25	Eyes	Happiness
26, 27	Back	Danger

These observations will go a long way in dating the event and in determining the precise nature of the event. The confusion that has been set afoot by the directional system can be resolved by working either on the one-degree arc or on the three-degree arc in conjunction with the dasa system and the transit influences. Then alone can we succeed in rationalising astrology.

The Universe and the Heavens

BY M. V. RAMAKRISHNAN, M.A., L.T.

The book gives in simple non-technical language all that is known at the present day about the heavenly bodies giving the latest theories of an evolving and expanding Universe. Attempts have also been made to correlate ancient astrology with modern observations.

Though much of the matter in this book has already appeared years ago in THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE, the matter has been entirely rewritten to meet the needs of the layman, the University student, the astronomer and the astrologer.

An invaluable book that every lover of knowledge should possess.

INDIA'S CONTRIBUTION TO ASTROLOGY

A Summary of Address delivered by Prof. B. V. Raman, Editor, THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE, to the International Congress of Astro-Science, on 7–10–1959 at New York.

ESTEEMED FRIENDS :

I ventured to accept the kind invitation of Dr. Adrian M. Ziegler to address the International Congress of Astro-Science because of the conviction that the honour is one that is meant more to India and Hindu astrology, which it has been my great privilege to expound and practice for over 25 years than to me personally. From another point of view, I felt that it gave me an opportunity not only to meet learned astrologers and astrological exponents in America, and to acquaint myself with the great work carried on by them but also to tell the American people, something about the ancient system of Indian astrology, its importance and its potentialities for research and practical use. Today is an auspicious occasion in the whole of India, being the day of Saraswathi Pooja, a day specially dedicated to the invocation of the Goddess of learning and wisdom and I feel that it is of great significance that my first address on Hindu astrology in America should coincide with such an auspicious date and I therefore foresee a period of co-operation between American and Indian astrologers to achieve the common goal of promotion of astrology on right lines.

No doubt the West, particularly the great democracy of America, has made tremendous discoveries in the fields of the physical sciences, the biological sciences and the technical and the technological sciences. Never has this influence of science been more dominant than today when phenomenal progress has been achieved and when man is looking forward to reaching the planets, the stars and even the outer-space. But despite all this, modern science or at least the trend of modern scientific thought seems to have failed to take note of the fact that there is a unique branch of knowledge bequeathed to us by the ancient Sages which links man with the celestial order, which seeks to establish a type of causal relationship between happenings on the earth and changes in the heavens and which enables man to know and to improve himself and thereby to know and to understand others. It is unfortunate that some of the astronomers are loud in their condemnation of astrology, forgetting the fact that what they call astronomy is only a part of astrology, being only a means to an end. They do not seem to realise that if at all there is any subject in the world that has tried to tackle the problem of life in its various aspects, it is astrology. If the basic issue of freewill versus determinism is involved in this question, it only shows that astrology goes to the very root of life and man's experience as an individual and as a species. With all the costliest instruments and fabulous sums of money spent, the greatest astronomers of the world, in giving us a picture of the universe, do not seem to have improved on what the ancients have already discovered. Astronomy is an exact science. Yet no two astronomers seem to agree, whether the universe is finite as Dr. Einstein conceives or infinite as Prof. Ernest Brown thinks. Of course all astronomers say that there are millions of universes. But please note that the ancient Hindu Sages addressed God as Akilandakoti Bramanda- nayaka or the lord of millions and billions of Bramandas or Universes. And modern astronomers do not seem to have much improved on this picture of the ancients. Has any astronomer been able to answer man's most vital question about himself and the world? Some scientists are also baffled how astrology came to be discovered at such an early epoch. Its principles are far from dubious or simple. It is scarcely conceivable that they were hit upon by accident. Even if by some extraordinary brain-wave somebody conjectured that there might be a correlation between man's life-history and the configurations of planets at his birth time, still it would have needed the life work of many researchers to accumulate the data from which the main astrological laws could have been derived. Compared to this, the achievements of Copernicus, Kepler and Newton appear indeed very modest.

Being conscious of the fact that I have the privilege today to address distinguished astrologers having come from different places, it would be presumptuous on my part to try to make a case for astrology. I believe the day is long past when one could sit and debate whether astrology is science or superstition or correct or incorrect.

In the course of my address to you this evening, I would like to tell you something about the antiquity achievements and background of Indian culture, how Hindu astrology views the question of determinism and freedom and how it tackles the problem of man's ability to mould his future to some extent. I shall also try to tell you some distinctive features of Hindu astrology.

Ancient Maharishis or Sages were past masters in every branch of knowledge. As early as 1872, the Edinburgh Review observed, "The Hindu is the most ancient nation of which we have valuable remains and has been surpassed by none in refinement and civilization; though the utmost pitch of refinement which it ever attained preceded in time the dawn of civilisation in any other nation of which we have even the name in history". In every feature of national and cultural life the Hindus were in the top rank. The antiquity of Hindu civilisation is amazing. Nations have risen and fallen, empires founded and disintegrated but the Hindu civilisation and culture that saw their rise and fall, their foundation and destruction still remains. Count Bjornatjerne conclusively proves that Hindu astronomy was very far advanced even at the beginning of Kali Yuga, i.e., about 5000 years back. A word about the Yugas or cycles of years. It has been suggested in ancient works that each one of the Mahayugas—and a Mahayuga is equal to 4320000 (four millions, three hundred and twenty thousand) years may represent certain waves of evolution. Of course these cycles may not correspond entirely with modern geological periods. What is most astonishing is, Surya-siddhanta gives the age of the solar system and according to this, in the current year the age is 1,972,949,099 (one thousand nine hundred and seventy-two million, nine hundred, forty-nine thousand and ninety-nine) years or roughly 2000 million years. According to Sir James Jeans, the age of the earth based on geological, or astronomical data is about 2000 million years. Even if the Hindus knew nothing but made only shrewd guesses, the agreement between Jeans and Surya-sidddhanta on this point is remarkable. You will see ladies and gentlemen, I have given some evidence of the highly developed scientific thought amongst the ancient Hindus. My object in pointing out all these is to suggest that long before the dawn of what is popularly called the period of authentic history, great strides had been made in ancient India in almost all branches of knowledge and that it is not quite safe to assume as correct, the opinions of scholars who have tried to trace the origin of Hindu astronomy or Hindu astrology to Grecian or Chaldean sources.

There is hardly a modern science with which the Hindus were not acquainted in some form or other. With a flexible and perfect language like Sanskrit in their hands, the thoughts of the great savants revealed the solutions of the sublest problems of philosophy or psychology. It is no exaggeration to say that there is no other nation in the world which has been able to keep its ancient literature in tact as we Indians have been able to do. The very works of the Rishis or the great sages on every conceivable subject—philosophy, grammar, physical and chemical sciences, engineering, botany, medicine, sculpture, dancing, music, agriculture, physiology, yoga, astronomy and astrology, have come down to us in their entirety and we can see in them a clear picture of their achievements. That picture is indeed helpful not merely in reconstructing world history but also in patterning our lives on healthy, mental, moral and spiritual lines. There are aphorisms full of wisdom as to imprint themselves on the human mind, by assimilating which even ordinary men can become wise. What is most important to note is that the knowledge possessed by the Hindus—philosophical, scientific or astrological—was far more deeply based on and intimately correlated to the realities of life than dreamt of in modern times.

Apart from the Hindu contribution to world culture and civilisation in general, which it is not my intention to deal with in detail today, there are three aspects of human knowledge, viz., Yoga, Vedanta and Jyotisha or Astrology—which have been fully systematised and completely developed. You have all heard of what yoga is. It is not an occult or mystical science. It is intensely practical. It enables one to secure mental equilibrium, poise, health and spiritual satisfaction. The father of Yoga is the great Patanjali who is said to have lived about 5000 years ago. He defines yoga as Chitha Vrithi Nirodhaha, i.e., inhibition of the function of the mind brought about by practice and freedom from attachment. This inhibition or control of the mind becomes yoga only when the mind is so far inhibited that the presiding spirit—what is generally called the soul or Atman or the life force—becomes free from its shackles and abides in its own pure nature. Astrology and Yoga are intimately connected as in a way yoga provides some of the remedies needed to set right what we call 'afflictions' in horoscopes. So far as Vedanta is concerned, it is the last and the most important of the Darsanas or the six classic systems of Hindu philosophy, enabling man to understand the ultimate Reality and know the difference between God, Matter and the World.

Scanned by Digitized by Siddhanta eGangotri Gyaan Dr. V.R. Thanikaivel

The third and perhaps the most important subject with which we are now concerned is however Jyotisha, i.e., astronomy cum astrology. In ancient India, unlike today, astronomy has never been divorced from astrology. Millenia before the Christian era, centuries before the time of Egyptian, Babylonian and Greecian civilisations, the Hindus studied astrology and astronomy and developed it in a scientific manner. To do so effectively, they invented Algebra and Trigonometry and they fashioned them to the needs of their astrology. Apart from the Vedas in which Indian astronomical and astrological thought have their firm roots, there are a large number of treatises supposed to be revelations and others written by distinguished seers and authors. According to tradition, there are 18 Sages who are supposed to have propounded the grand science of Jyotisha, i.e., astrology cum astronomy. (And they are Surya, Pitamaha, Vyasa, Vasishta, Atri, Parasara, Kasyapa, Narada, Garga, Marichi, Manu, Angirasa, Lomasa, Paulasa, Chyavana and Yavana. Of all these authors, it is the Sage Parasara's works that form the basis of Hindu astrology of today). Two books—one on astronomy, viz., Surya Siddhanta and the other on astrology proper, viz., Parasara Hora stand pre-eminent today, as the most authoritative and they are held in great esteem and reverence by Hindu astrologers. However sceptical one may be regarding the great antiquity of these works, it can be clearly shown that they are at least five thousand years old and that the subject matter of them was discovered and planned entirely by the Hindu genius. According to Surya-siddhanta Jyotisha, i.e., astronomy-cum-astrology is the foremost anga or limb of the Vedas, which is secret, supreme, pure and exalted science. The Vedas are supposed to be the repositories of all knowledge, and astrology has been called Vedha Chakshu or the eye or the vision of the Vedas. The Veda meaning wisdom, is the accepted name for the highest spiritual truth which the human mind is capable of grasping. It is the work of the Rishis or seers. "The truth of the Rishis are the products of spiritual intuition—Divya Drishti or divine vision. The Rishis were able to discover the eternal truths by rising their life-spirit to the plane of immortal spirit. Their utterances are based not on transitory vision but on a continuous experience of resident life and power. When the Veda is regarded as the highest authority, what is meant is, that the more exacting of all authorities is the authority of facts". And astrology has its origin in the Vedas. Thus you will see that a very important place has been given to astrology in India. It must be noted that in the Hindu philosophical system in which astrology has its roots, the short span of life whose problems seem beyond our ability to solve, is but a small section of our destiny and the chief value of astrology lies in its use in determining the relationship which this life bears to the whole. The modern theory of evolution deals only with the past and fails to formulate any law for the future. It is essentially materialistic and has got nothing to say of the spirit which governs that matter and shares its future course of destiny through the series of progressive expansions or unfolding. Man's existence here, says one of the disciples of the great Sage Kapila, the first evolutionist in the world, is a more repetition and reproduction of his other previous existences. His present existence is but a link in the chain of eternal existences connecting the past with the future. In his each birth, he carries one step forward the inceptive purpose of his creation, to its goal and consummation, until he attains the one in which the past, present and future are blended together and Time and Space are annihilated.

The entire fabric of Hindu astrology therefore rests on the broad principle of evolution in Time. The Hindu astrologer believes that man's actions in this world have a long tie with his moral principles. To him this cult seemed to conform with perfect logic. Then the vision of the trans-migration of souls and the results of his past life repeated in the present floated before him. Naturally he went on reflecting what those results meant and how far they affected, deterred, and facilitated his present life. Being guided by a series of observations and intuition he discovered that certain mathematical co-ordinates gave satisfactory answers to his queries re-divining of future events. In Sanskrit, astrology is called Jyotisha. Jyothi means light and light is all pervading and comprehends everything in nature. It is also called Hora Sastra or the Science of Time for it unravels what is contained in the womb of Time. According to Indian tradition, the horoscope indicates the results of past Karma.

The theory of Karma is based on the cause-effect relationship not only on the physical plane but also on the mental and moral planes. In physical phenomena, the cause and effect relationship can easily be demonstrated but in regard to Karma theory the effect of action cannot be physically analysed. The law of Karma operates through a series of births. Man has to suffer the consequences of his actions until he succeeds in regulating his actions by true knowledge and wisdom. Astrology and Karma are therefore inter-related. The horoscope reveals the consequences of our actions which we do not remember in this life and are untraceable in this birth. The result of our unknown action is what we call 'fate' or adrishta. Many people in the West seem to imagine that the theory of Karma is based on fatalism and predestined necessity and that therefore it leaves no room for individual development. This is not a correct idea. According to Hindu texts, when one dies, his soul which is enveloped in a subtle sheath and invested with the sum total of good and bad Karma passes after some time into another plane leaving off his gross body as a man casts off his worn-out clothes and puts on new ones. His reincarnation will then take place in a physical body corresponding with the deeds done by him in his previous life. The processes of death and birth go on until Moksha or final liberation. The Karma is the result of our actions and our actions are due to our thoughts and hence it is man who creates his Karma for it is the product of his thought. There are three categories of Karma. The first is Sanchita or the accumulative or those that are lying latent like seeds stocked up in granary for fruition in future lives. The second is Prarabdha or operative—those whose machinery has been set in motion towards their fruition in the present life and third is Agami, those that are contemplated to be done in the present life. There is nothing that can stop the machinery that has been set going and therefore it is the effects of the Prarabdha Karma that we are experiencing in our present lives. In other words the horoscope indicates the Prarabdha portion of our past Karma—being our destiny in this life. Therefore astrological predictions are tendencies of nature in their way towards fulfilment or manifestation and we can either strengthen or weaken their momentum in the desired direction by recourse to suitable remedial measures prescribed in ancient astrological books. In this connection I may also casually refer to what Varahamihira, one of the greatest astrologers and scientists of India who lived in the 1st century B.C., says about astrology. According to him just as a lamp reveals the nature of different objects at the onset of night or darkness, astrology reveals the results and consequences of Karma done in previous lives.

There is also another important question to be examined. Man suffers and enjoys the fruits of his past Karma. What part do planets play in this game? Do they blindly and mechanically indicate the current of human destinies or is there any active agency on the part of the planets? If a man loses his son, he suffers for his Karma, which might consist in his having caused a similar affliction for somebody in his previous birth and not because Mars occupies the 5th house in the horoscope. Ancient classical texts after describing the various planets, their dimensions, distances, etc., use the word Tanniyamaha meaning the existence of an activie, intelligent or astral cause behind the physical mass of the planet. It is a bit difficult to conceive an active agency as possessed by the planets when viewed from a purely materialistic angle. Some educated and enlightened Indians taking their stand on classical texts think that there is nothing repugnant to our mind in the idea that the planets together form a body of executive officers, charged with the duty of rewarding and punishing humanity for their past Karma by the command of the Most High.

Whether we call it deterministic principle or Karmic indication or planetary influence—the name does not matter—the fact is that the existence of correlations between planetary dispositions in the heavens and happenings on the earth, is clearly demonstrated. Astrology cannot be called a science in the narrow sense of the term because science deals only with material objects. If by the term science is meant knowledge co-ordinated, arranged and synthesised, then astrology is certainly a science. If a scientific definition of astrology could be attempted, we may say that astrology is the empirical systematisation of the idea that radiation is the determinant of all terrestrial phenomena and the first human attempt to apply mathematics to biology. Just because the orthodox scientist feels that the underlying conceptions of astrology are not possible to be reconciled with the general account of the universe, as understood by him, it does not mean that astrology is no science.

Broadly speaking Hindu astrology can be brought under three important divisions, viz., Siddhanta, Samhita and Phalita. Siddhanta is astronomy proper. The Hindus studied astronomy in a scientific manner and they devised a sidereal zodiac studded with what they call the 27 asterisms or star-groups and this zodiac forms the basis on which the different predictive methods have been developed. The Hindu zodiac commences from the end of the star Revati which is identified with the modern Zeta Piscium, and this shows a fundamental difference from the European system of reckoning in which all longitudes are measured by arcs of the ecliptic the origin being the equinoctial point at the time of observation. This does not mean that precession was not known to the Hindus. The very Sanskrit terms Sayana and Nirayana to distinguish between the two zodiacs mean with precession and without precession.

The Samhita portion generally deals with natural phenomena, including what is now called Mundane Astrology. The best and the most authoritative works on the Samhita are Brihat Samhita by Varahamihira, who lived about 2000 years ago and Garga Samhita, which is a much earlier work. Earthquakes, floods, volcanic eruptions, growth of plants, rainfall, changes in weather, political catastrophes, mass frenzy, wars, downfall of kingdoms and rulers, mass migrations, economic crises, patterns of political thought have all received considerable attention in the hands of these Samhita writers. Some of your own country man like Dr. Stetson have suggested the existence of correspondences between the appearance of sunspots and business depressions. And books on Hindu astrology written 25 centuries ago give a detailed exposition of the sunspots and their effects on terrestrial phenomena. The ancient texts say that during sunspots the heat radiated from such hollow regions is considerably higher than otherwise thus bringing about variation in the solar constant for the particular time and for the particular region of the earth which may be pointing towards such a stress of radiation. With the aid of the present day advanced science, it should be possible to know the particular stages of sunspot activity and the terrestrial regions particularly exposed to such activity. According to Brihat Samhita, "spots appearing on the Sun's disc bring danger to people in the direction in which the spots make appearance on the disc". The disasters occurring are not only natural—such as destruction of crops, earthquakes, floods, thunderbolts, drought, etc., but also affect the people, viz., death of the rulers, outbreak of diseases, mass movements and the like. In Garga Samhita, there is a clear description of the results flowing from the appearance of the spots in different shapes. The subject has been dealt with in such detail that one who is well versed in this ancient lore can get a very good picture of the results. Here is a fertile field for study and investigation for astrologers to undertake. The effects of sunspots change according to the constellations which the Sun occupies. Thus if the Sun is in Aridra (6th asterism) which is said to be ruled by Rahu or the Moon's ascending node, there will be severe loss of life due to floods. Hindu astrologers have recognised that the geocentric positions of planets, stars and the earth create their own gravitational fields and these field-forces along with stellar and cosmic radiations are responsible for the variegated display of changes introduced by their actions on the animate and inanimate systems of this universe. No critic of astrology can deny that there is a correspondence between the low and high oceanic tides and the luni-solar movements. The Hindus have developed to considerable perfection the principles pertaining to the effects of the luni-solar movements on human psychological phenomenon and on human affairs in general. There is a statement in the ancient works which reads that the 8th lunar day removes the disease or cures the ailment. This day is recommended for commencing medical treatment or for undergoing surgical operation. According to a leading Indian doctor who has been trying to combine astrology with medicine in his daily practice, on this day, the Sun and the Moon being 84° to 92° apart diminish each other's attraction for fluids. The blood in the human beings remains thus comparatively in an undisturbed state from the outside influences and any treatment on this day, is supposed to be more effective if it is properly chosen. Here is a dictum from ancient astrological works written over 2000 years ago, which is quite scientific and which is being followed all over India. From a medical-astrological point of view the 14th lunar day, i.e., when the Sun and the Moon are about 156° to 168° from each other and especially when it is 167° is considered very important as it is said to mark a critical phase during serious illnesses while skin diseases, insanity, and epilepsy become more virulent just when the 29th lunar day ends and the New Moon is about to commence. When the Sun and the Moon are capable of pulling at the oceans and drawing the water up, the human organism, composed as it is of various cells is also capable of responding to the lifting forces of the Moon. Intense emotional disturbances take place on these days and hundreds of cases are on record showing deaths on the 29th and 30th lunar days. It is amazing that Hindu astrological writers were able to find, thousands of years ago such intimate correspondence as exists between planetary movements and menstrual periods of women. An ancient text of 2000 years ago says: Kujenduhethu Prathimasamarthavam meaning that the menses in a woman sets in every month when the Moon is in a particular position from the ascendant and that it is due to the interaction of the Moon and Mars. It looks as though this theory of Varahamihira was corroborated, after 2000 years by the Swedish scientist Arrehenius when he says that menstruation occurs in a large number of women at one particular time. Or take the question of birth of children. When examining the 5th house, methods are given to find out the fertility or otherwise of the couple by a consideration of what are called beeja (seed) and kshetra (or bed)—representing as they do not merely the sperm and the ovum but the active agency or life element which really makes the male and female fluids suitable for the entry of a new soul. The husband and wife may be physiologically normal. Their sex relations may be happy. But still if their beeja and kshetra lack the element or fertility—and this is ascertained by taking into consideration the positions of the Sun, Venus and Jupiter in the case of a male and Mars, Moon and Jupiter in the case of a female, the couple will not bring forth any issues. This is a very important astrological maxim enabling us to judge with a fair degree of accuracy, whether one will have children or not. It is only after ascertaining this, the number of issues to be born will have to be determined. Lakhovsky claims that the act of fertilisation between the sexes is itself not sufficient to produce the living being. He says that at the moment when fertilisation occurs, it is necessary that certain cosmic radiations materialise within the fertilised egg. The ancient Hindu astrologers knew this and suggested indirectly that the kshetra and beeja deficient in vitality were proof against the materialisation of such cosmic radiations with the result there would be no pregnancy. According to Hindu astrology, if the Sun is in the 1st house, he gives bodily pains, and causes diseases in the childhood. Another physicist friend of mine who has been working on certain ancient astrological theories in the light of modern physics says that these results assigned to the situation of the Sun in the 1st house will be found to be in line with experimental physics if we attach any significance to the statements of physicists that just before sunrise or immediately after sunrise, if the sky is clear, the radiation received on a surface normal to the rays is still strong. The astronomical position of the Sun is always in the 1st house during or just before or after sunrise. Such instances, I think, must suggest that Hindu astrological principles have a sound basis.

Great significance is attached to birth in specific constellations and lunar days. Based upon the distance of the Moon from the Sun, and of the Moon from the first point of constellational Aries, the Hindus have made classifications of human beings corresponding to thirty lunar days and the 27 constellations. Whoever is born under a particular lunar day and constellation is stamped by the character of that combination. Thus, for example, one born on the first lunar day, i.e., when the distance between the Sun and the Moon is 12° is said to be Vyasanasakta Chithashva, i.e., always given to worrying. Similarly birth in different constellations confer certain well-marked psychological characteristics. For instance, one born in Aswini or the first star, will be strong in mind but not sincere; fickle but merciful and attains the favours of the high-ups and women by the art of flattery. He will be handsome, generally fortunate, dexterous, intelligent and of martial habits. One born in Makha or the 10th constellation will be quarrelsome in habit, possessing great courage, having keen perception, has little wealth and children, respects the parents and the elders, and is capable of attempting great things in life. These influences are however largely affected by counter-influences. The lunar day influences are more important. If a particular lunar day and a particular constellation fall on the same day, it has special significance attached to it and can clearly impress its effect upon the person. The influences due to the lunar day and the constellation occupied by the Moon can enable one to construct a fairly accurate psychological picture of an individual pointing out his temperament, his likes and dislikes, his aptitudes, his moods, his abilities and weaknesses thus enabling him to know what he is. This information can be of the greatest practical importance for him to adjust himself towards his kith and kin and towards the society in general. As a general rule, whatever other potentialities there may be in the horoscope, the manner of their manifestation is subject to the overall psychological background due to the lunar day and constellation of birth. Thus one born on a day when Dhanishta (23rd asterism) and the 8th lunar day coincide will be cruel-hearted, vindictive and easily amenable to vices of women. If, in the horoscope of such a person, potential combinations which would make him a ruler are present, he will become a tyrant, bent on inflicting misery on the people. If birth occurs on a Tuesday coinciding with the constellation of Jyeshta and 14th lunar day, it is called Marana Yoga or death-dealing combination. The person will lack constructive ability. He delights in harming others. He never succeeds in life but has generally to meet with reverses. Any work commenced on such a day is not likely to produce long or lasting effects.

According to Hindu theory, in a Vinadi (or 24 seconds of time), a normal human being inhales and exhales six times so that in a sidereal day the number of breath-intervals will be 21,600 corresponding to the 21,600 minutes of arc in the celestial circle. When a horoscope shows a crisis in health at a particular period, the native is advised in advance to regulate his breathing, that is have recourse to certain types of Pranayama, by means of which the number of inspirations and expirations in a day is reduced with corresponding intake of a greater quantity of Prana or the vital air.

I should like also to briefly tell you, and I am sure most of you already know—certain other distinctive features of Hindu astrology apart from the differences in the zodiac employed. Hindu astrology does not take into account the extra Saturnine planets, viz., Uranus, Neptune and Pluto. The Moon's ascending node, viz., Rahu, and the Moon's descending node, viz., Kethu, are given great prominence. Even though the Hindus were aware that the Sun is a star; the Moon, a satellite of the earth; and the nodes, points of inter-section between the orbits of the Sun and the Moon—all these were termed planets for astrological purposes. The term 'planet' for the Sun, the Moon and the nodes in modern astronomical parlance is no doubt a misnomer, but the Hindus had their own reasons to call them Grahas, which for want of a better term, in English, we call as planets. Graha in Sanskrit means a "centre of energy" capable of the properties of attraction and repulsion. You will thus see that in Hindu astrology when the term planet is used it may be the Sun, Moon, Mars, Mercury, Jupiter, Venus, Saturn or the Moon's ascending or descending node. It is mainly on the nine planets, 12 signs and 27 constellations that the entire predictive art of the Hindus has been developed.

Some of the general principles such as rulerships, exaltations, etc., are common to both the Hindu and Western systems. But regarding aspects, there is divergence. For example, Western astrology considers, a square or an opposition as always bad and a trine or a sextile as always good. According to Hindu system, however, no aspect by itself can be good or bad. It is the nature of the planets involved in the aspect and the type of ownership they held with reference to the ascendant, that determines the nature of the aspect. An aspect like Moon–Jupiter square or opposition, in the words of Mr. Carter for instance denotes in addition to the "same good humour that we find with the good aspects, a more restless and sometimes even combative disposition". But I think on the whole you consider a square aspect as bad. But according to Hindu astrology, such a disposition causes what is called Gajakesari Yoga—indicating respect, name, fame and position. Even here, the nature and extent of fame or position rests upon the type of lordship, the two planets hold with reference to the ascendant, the nature of the constellations held by them and the vitality the two planets have secured and so many other factors such as their dispositions in the various sub-divisions, etc. Where for example the ascendant is Sagittarius with Jupiter in the constellation of Moola (i.e., the 19th) and the Moon in Pisces—in the constellation of Purvabhadra (25th), the fame and name will be on the plane of philosophy, but of a non-traditional type because Jupiter would be in the constellation of the Moon's descending node, while the Moon is powerfully placed as he occupies both the sign and constellation of Jupiter; or again if we take Virgo as ascendant and Jupiter in Libra in the constellation of the node (Swati—15th) and the Moon in Aries in the constellation of Venus (Bharani—the 2nd) it is indeed a splendid combination for success and fame in occult matters which in a sense includes astrology, theosophy, and possibly psychology. In such a yoga, Jupiter aspects the 6th house giving opposition, antagonism and also success over the opponents, while his aspect on the 10th is generally favoured as it gives the person certain settled convictions, and also the faculty of provision. The other distinctive features of Hindu astrology are yogas or typical combinations of planets which enable us to ascertain clearly the rank and status of a person, and the Dasas or methods or progression enabling one to time events.

I shall now tell you something about the remedial or the curative aspect of Hindu astrology. There is a significant statement made by the Sages, viz, :

Purvajanma Kritham Karmam Vyadhiroopena Peeditham
Thassantherowshadir Dhanajapa Homa Surachanaha.

i.e., the results of evil Karma express themselves as so many vyadhis or physical diseases, mental worries or spiritual afflictions. They can be tackled by medicines, mantras and yogic practices. The horoscope can be looked at from two aspects. One convinced of the theory of Karma can view it philosophically. That is the horoscope

Prof. B. V. RAMAN

(By Our Correspondent)

PROF. B. V. RAMAN, Editor of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE, arrived in New York on 6th October. On the 7th, he addressed the International Congress of Astro-Science at Hotel New Yorker, on "India's Contribution to Astrology". On the same evening, a Dinner had been arranged in his honour at the Cosmopolitan Club by Mr. Ronald Freelander. At 8 p.m., he delivered a lecture under the auspices of the Asia Society on "Astrology in Indian Social Life", at the French Institute. The lecture was largely attended, mostly by intellectuals including a number of medical men, psychologists, lawyers, etc. On the 8th, a lecture was delivered at Hotel New Yorker on "Outlook for 1960". On the 10th, he was the guest of honour at the Special Conference organised by the Astrologers' Guild of America, at Hotel Astor, in honour of his visit. Sri Raman addressed this Conference on "Astrology in India". There were several group meetings held to hear Prof. Raman speak on Indian Culture. One of the notable features is that his lectures are being attended by important medical men, psychiatrists, practising psychologists and even physicists. One such noteworthy meeting was arranged on 10th October by Dr. Percy E. Ryberg, M.D., a noted Psychiatrist of New York, at his residence. Dr. Wagner, a noted Chemist, Dr. James Stephenson, a leading Physician, Dr. Richard Barry, a noted Cancer-specialist, Dr. William Gutman and Mr. Charles Jayne were present in addition to a number of other psychologists, and others interested in astrology. Prof. B. V. Raman gave an exposition of the basis of Hindu astrology and how it could be made use of by medical men and psychologists. Prof. Raman's exposition made a good impression on those present. Throughout Prof. Raman's stay in New York, Dr. and Mrs. Hans Havemann and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jayne took special care of his comforts.

On the 12th, a grand dinner was arranged in his honour by Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Grant at Hotel Hamilton at Washington and covers had been laid for over 100 guests, drawn from different walks of life. Prof. Raman spoke on the significance of astrology in Indian social life and how, astrology can be made use of for correcting several social ills facing modern life. Among those who attended the lecture and congratulated Prof. Raman for his "Wonderful exposition" were the noted astronomer and doctor, Dr. Gant, Dr. Russel Fields, and the noted surgeon of the Pacific Coast Dr. Langly. It must be noted that Dr. Gant has a 35000 dollar telescope in his Observatory and had made special studies of the Moon. In fact the British Astronomical Association has named one of the craters on the Moon after Dr. Gant. The next day another lecture was delivered at the Houston Hotel before a select gathering on "Yoga and Modern Psychology". Prof. Raman visited the Indian embassy. In the absence of the Ambassador at the Hague, Prof. Raman was warmly received by the First Secretary Mr. Dwarkanath Chatterjee.

Prof. Raman's lecture at Boston on 14th October was on "Astrology and Remedial Measures". The lecture was delivered at the New England Astrological Association, Hotel Lenox. It was largely attended. Prof. Raman was also treated to dinner and music by Mrs. Dorothea Lynde and there were a large number of guests. Mr. Weber, a leading astrologer of Boston took special care of Prof. B. V. Raman.

On the 15th, a lecture was delivered at Cleveland at Hotel Hollander under the auspices of the Ohio Astrological Association and there was a large gathering of men and women. The lecture was on the "Importance of Saturn in Hindu Astrology". A dinner was arranged in his honour by Mrs. Mc Bean, President of the Society. There were

Hindu Mathematics

ASTROLOGY is based on the fact that the celestial bodies exercise an influence on the destiny of man. The same influence causes the change of seasons, rainfall, storms and the like. Countries like Babylon shared the belief that the future can be predicted from the positions of the celestial bodies. The Vedic sutras and the Brahmana recommend the idea of a lucky star. The auspicious moment has become an important factor in the social, economic, political and religious activities of the Hindus at least.

It is a firm belief that a religious function is not effective if it is not performed at an auspicious moment. We have only to remember the recent Bhakra disaster. There are numerous text-books to guide us here. The standard treatise of Varahamihira makes mention of the works of Asita, Devala, Garga, Vriddha Garga, Narada and Parasara. Vriddha Garga Samhita is the famous book which contains the excellent prophetic predictions concerning man. Varahamihira is famous for his Brihat Samhita. He divides astrology into three parts. One is the Tantra which is based on the astronomical and mathematical data. The second is the Hora which deals purely with horoscopy. Finally there is the Samhita, covering the whole sphere of natural astrology. This part of the science has immense potentialities to make human life happy here and hereafter.

Astronomy is connected with astrology and mathematics from the earliest times. This was required for Vedic sacrifices and for the various needs of practical life. Jyotisha Vedanga tells us that there is a calendar arranged on the basis of the five-year Yuga. Further development is found in Vriddha Garga Samhita and in the Parisishtas of the Atharva Veda, the Pitamaha Siddhanta recorded by Varahamihira and elsewhere. The Panchasiddhantika of Varahamihira is a handy compendium of five great Siddhantas, viz., Pitamaha, Romaka, Surya and Vasishta. Romaka Siddhanta is connected with Rome and adopts a non-yuga system. Paulisa is associated with Paulus Alexandrinus, and it does not adopt a constant yuga. It gives the difference in longitude between Yavanapura and Ujjain. The Suryasiddhanta accepts the Kalpa system. None of these five Siddhantas exist in their original forms. Brahma Siddhanta forms part of the Vishnudharmottara Purana on which Brahma Gupta's Sphuta Brahma Siddhanta is based.

The Romaka was touched by Lalla and revised by Srisena. The Vasishta Siddhanta was revised by Vijayanandin before Brahma Gupta, and then by Vishnu Chandra. The Laghu Vasishta Siddhanta is not connected with the original or with the revision. The Surya Siddhanta was modernised by Lalla. The credit for the development in the field of astronomy and mathematics goes to Aryabhatta of Kusumapura who lived before the Christian era. He is famous for his Aryabhattiya. This work includes Dasagitika sutra which mentions his numerical notation and Aryashtasata of 108 verses which is divided into the section of Ganitha in 33 verses, Kalaksaya of time in 25 verses, and Gola (sphere) in 50 verses. His other works are not to be found. He is the first man who gave a separate chapter on mathematics in relation to astronomy. He held that the earth was a sphere and rotated on its axis. He equated the four yugas despite the traditional difference in the length. He ascribed eclipses not to the operation of Rahu but to the Moon and the shadow of the earth. There was a second Aryabhatta who wrote Arya Siddhanta which differs from the earlier.

The works of Simha, Pradyumna and Vijayanandin mentioned by Varahamihira appear to be lost. The Panchasiddhantika of Varaha declines to accept the conjunction of planets as explaining eclipses. Brahma Gupta of Billamalla near Multan who wrote his Sphuta Siddhanta in 628 and 665, gave a practical and valuable treatise.

Aryabhatta for the first time discovered the distinction between day and night caused by the rotation of the earth. Bhaskaracharya discovered the centre of gravity causing the fall of heavy things towards the earth long before Newton (17th century) found it in Europe. This same law appears also in Kasyapa Silpa. The relation between the Sun and the Moon and the earth, and other planets and the stars, the causes of eclipses, and the ebb tide and the flow tide were also discovered first in India. Arithmetic and Algebra are chiefly the first discoveries of the Hindu Mathematicians. The numbers 1 to 9 and zero (Sunya) were discovered here and spread to Arabia and other European countries. Aryabhatta, Bhaskaracharya and Brahma Gupta solved such problems of Algebra as came to be known in Europe not before the 17th and 18th centuries. Baudhayana and Apastamba (2nd century B.C.) dealt with geometrical theorems and showed how to draw a square equal to a triangle, and a circle equal in area to a square. In trigonometry the Hindus discovered the sine long before it was found out in Europe in the 16th century by Briggs. Bhaskaracharya explained the method to find the length of sides of equilateral and equiangular figures of 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8 and 9 sides drawn within a circle in comparison with its diameter.

Mathematics comprising geometry (jyamiti), algebra (bijaganita) and arithmetic (ganita or ankasastra) are direct descendant from astronomy. The origin of geometry is traced to the architectural measurement of altars, which were required for the great Soma sacrifice. They were made in ten different shapes as enumerated in the Sulba-sutras (200 B.C.) or supplementary positions of Kalpa sutra of Baudhayana and Apastamba. These altars refer to the construction of squares and triangles; the relation of the diagonal to the sides; the equivalence of rectangles and squares; and the construction of equivalent squares and circles.

Aryabhatta was the first to insert a definitely mathematical section (ganita). "He deals in it with evolution and involution, area and volumes, progression, algebraic identities, and indeterminate equations of the first degree ($ax+by=c$)": It defines that the product of three equal numbers is a cube and it also has twelve edges. His notation is expressed in consonants, viz., K and M for 1 to 25, Y to H for 30 to 100, vowels denoting multiplication by powers of 100, A being 100 and B 1000.

Brahma Gupta's work covers the ordinary mathematical operations, square and cube rules, rule of three, interest, progressions, geometry, including treatment of the rational right-angled triangle, and the elements of the circle, elementary mensuration of solids, shadow problems, negative and positive quantities, cipher, surds, simple algebraic identities, indeterminate equations of the first and second degrees in considerable detail, and simple equations of the first and second degrees, and cyclic quadrilaterals being specially treated.

The Ganitasara Samgraha (9th century) of Mahaviracharya gives many examples of solutions of indeterminates but not the cyclic methods of Brahmagupta; introduces geometrical progressions, and deals with eclipses, but he has no formal algebra. The Trisati of Sudhana (born 991) deals, in addition, with quadratic equations. The Bijaganita of Bhaskaracharya which agrees with Brahmagupta, contains the fullest and most systematic account of algebra, and his Litarati includes combinations. The Bashkali manuscript of the 3rd or 4th century also refers to Hindu mathematics.

Even Prof. Keith does not believe in the Greek influence on Indian mathematics. "The facts are that, as regards indeterminate equations, the Greeks by the 4th century achieved rational solutions, not necessarily integral, of the equations of the 1st and 2nd degree and of some cases of the 3rd degree. The Indian records go distinctly beyond this". Brahmagupta shows a complete grasp of the integral solution ($ax + by = c$), and indicates the method of composition of the solution of $ox^2 \pm = q$. Bhaskaracharya adds the cyclic method. The combination of these two methods gives integral solutions, the finest thing achieved in the theory of these numbers. "To find an ultimate Greek origin for these discoveries" concludes Prof. Keith "seems due rather to a parti pris than to justice".

In regard to geometry both Indian and Grecian mathematics shows from 300 A.D. "an absence of parallels, nor gives a theory of proportion, while the traditional inaccuracies are common". The independence and originality of Indian mathematics have been defended on the score that the love of dealing with large numbers and making calculations is recorded early for India. The abacus was invented in India and the numbers of the West were borrowed from India, words for numbers are used in the unique system of Aryabhatta. The figures of the Brahmi or Kharoshthi notation in Asoka inscriptions have no place value which is actually found in inscriptions from the ninth century onwards. But the Indian figures were known in Syria in 662 A.D. "The probability still remains that India did render a great service in this regard and in any case excelled Greece" concludes Prof. Keith.

India has also inspired the Arabic mathematics. The algebra of Md. Ibl Musa (782) bears the Indian influence. Arabian science from 771 "borrowed freely from Indian astronomy, translating and adapting both Aryabhatta and Brahmagupta".

Coincidences with the Chinese mathematics are numerous and interesting. The so-called Chinese invention of the system of nakshatras found in early Indian astronomy is undeniable. Indian influence on China is

Th. J. J. Ram—Nestor of the Netherland Astrologers

ON December 19th of this year, Mr. Ram hopes to celebrate his 75th anniversary.

We will herewith give a brief summary of his many merits towards the expansion and development of modern astrology (to be further developed in a following series of articles in this journal). In 1917, Mr. Ram joined the Netherland Astrological Association, engrossing himself in and extending the work of the founder of the Association, A. E. Thierens, Ph.D., who had shown that the coherence of the 12 signs of the zodiac was at the same time a static as well as a dynamic whole, formulated as "The Object" or "The law of 12". Ram showed that next to an object, a subject must always be present, developing its own course, by receiving its experience by and in the object.

This personal subjective development, has in the Netherland Astrological circles since then been known as "The law of 7".

Mr. Ram had his own conception of the house system, the so-called Ascendant-Parallel-Circle system, in which the factors Time, Place and Force (influence) were compounded to a pure, harmonious unity, use being made of the afore-mentioned 3 factors, each in itself forming the one-sided basis of the house systems of respective Regiomontanus, Campanus and Placidus.

Because in judging the value of the subject in a horoscope, great value has been attached to the position of ruler I in house and sign,—that is to say of the ruler of the rising sign—this ruler standing for the conscious I of a being, Mr. Ram had difficulties with the interpretation of horoscopes with the signs of Taurus, Gemini and Cancer as ascendant. The use of the classic rulers of these signs, Venus, Mercury and the Moon, did not offer any interpretations as an answer to the reality.

It was thus, that through long years of experimenting on the one hand, and through theoretical deductive considerations on the other, that he came to the drawing up of an ephemeris of the 3 real, however still undiscovered rulers of these signs, an ephemeris, which since then has been indispensable in the Netherland Astrology.

In connection with this, he came to a distribution of the thus formed 12 planets in four groups of traids, respectively called ich-es—Uberich and Uberes, whereby the Moon has been assigned an important function outside the so-called sign rulership.

Analogical with the distribution of positive and negative signs, Mr. Ram divided the houses in the same way, furthermore fixing the house-cusps by means of position circles.

This lead furthermore to an analogical localisation of the planets in the horoscope, also by means of position circles leading to the so-called active planet positions, that can be seen as individual positions, in contrast to the longitudinal or collective positions from the ephemerides, from which the individual positions are derived for a certain horoscope. (They conform to these which Johndro called the horizontal-longitudinal positions).

In classic astrology it occurred many times, that the position of a planet near the cusp of a house, was said to influence the neighbouring house, this in order to avoid discrepancies between the horoscope and the reality of a person's life.

By applying the abovementioned methods to both houses and planets, Ram made it impossible to transmute planets from one house to another. Popularly said: Planets stand and work out, where their active places are.

The distribution and combination of the position of planets in positive/negative signs and positive/negative houses, has fundamentally enlarged the interpretation of horoscopes.

In principle, Mr. Ram entirely renewed the doctrine of aspects as a dynamic cycle of two planets, running from one conjunction to the next, whereby the slowest was viewed as resistance and the faster one–the departing planet–as force.

Through this force, the created arch from the first conjunction to the opposition, was called the outgoing arch, with the therein contained outgoing aspects in contrast to the aspects falling on the incoming arch from the opposition to the next conjunction, which are called incoming aspects.

The conceptions outgoing and incoming lead to totally different disposed astro-psychological estimations.

An analogy of this can be seen in the development of the Moon phases from New Moon to the next New Moon.

That which Thierens had done in regard to the 12 zodiacal signs, was used by Mr. Ram in regard to the 12 houses or sectors, as they are called nowadays in the Netherlands.

Determination of Profession

BY K. V. SIVARAMA IYER

AT a time when men and women alike irrespective of caste, creed or nationality are free to choose any profession they like from among countless openings within their reach, the astrologer on whose lot it is to pinpoint the exact line of profession to a native's horoscope finds himself in a very embarrassing situation. Just a study of the strange paradoxes we encounter day-to-day in our age will reveal to us the importance of fixing up the planetary instinct of the native for his chosen line of profession sufficiently early. Without taxing the patience of my readers too much may I cite some instances? In a family of four brothers, the eldest brother becomes a doctor, the next a pilot, third a musician while the youngest chooses for himself the profession of a teacher. Then again we meet with a Brahmin who takes to driving a motor car, a Kshatriya in the role of a cook, a carpenter by heredity as a doctor, a purdha woman as a nurse and a harijan as a teacher. These examples go to prove that while heredity and tastes point in one direction, when it comes to the question of eking a livelihood, the actual choice of profession more frequently than not swings in a diametrically opposite direction.

Quite recently I had occasion to watch the glass blowing process in a glass factory, I saw one workman taking molten glass from the oven by a special type of apparatus and blowing the molten material so drawn to a particular shape. Immediately thereafter he passed on the half formed material to his compatriot nearby who in his turn blew at it and contributed his share for refining its shape. He then turned over the thing to another man standing by his side who gave it the perfect form and shape of a hurricane lantern chimney. On discreet enquiries I came to know that these persons were engaged in the same work for the past twelve years. At one end of the manufacturing department I saw some women engaged in breaking glass pieces They were breaking into pieces the finished products that turned out to be substandard material so that the salvaged glass pieces could once again be sent back to the smelter. These women were engaged in breaking and breaking the substandard materials all through the day for so many years. On seeing these people at work and happening to be appraised of the grim fact that they have had to do the same monotonous work all through the day for a period of years together, I felt that I would have given anything just to learn the exact planetary combinations of these men and women which forced them to this sort of drudgery. In most of the factories where division of labour and mechanisation form the keynote we meet with men and women doing the same work all through their days of employment. It would certainly be of interest to us to probe into the planetary combinations of these people and arrive at a correct inference as to the particular combination that has literally reduced and transformed them into mere robots. A sample survey of the planetary combinations of a shorthand typist, a commercial traveller, a sample distributor, a bus conductor, a taxi driver, a pilot, a broker, one engaged in promoting birth control and distributing birth control appliances, or even a black marketeer promises to be highly interesting, useful and instructive.

Determination of the most suitable profession of the native by a study of the planetary combinations is one important aspect of astrology which calls for research and experiments. Serious thought and undivided attention are yet to be bestowed on this phase of the science and to me it appears that the time and labour spent on such research will not be in vain if we can thereby forecast with reasonable accuracy sufficiently in advance the aptitudes and inclinations of children for their most suitable profession. If we succeed the parents decidedly stand to gain a lot. They can direct the education of their children along the right path far in advance. Had this been possible we could not have had as many frustrated parents as we come across today. Just visualise the sad plight of a father who in the fervent hope of making a doctor of his beloved son spending all he has, only to be miserably disappointed to find his son wasting all his money and giving up the medical course and dissipating himself in all sorts of vices. A few who manage to scrape through and become doctors curiously enough are found fit for everything excepting curing patients. Hundreds of instances can be cited of Law graduates choosing the profession of teachers and Masters of Arts and Mathematics working as quill drivers. Many of the anomalies and incongruities could have been avoided had we been able to advise the well-meaning parents of these children on their natural instincts by the aid of astrology. In the interpretation of the science we are prone to make mistakes but it is my conviction that astrology can at least greatly minimise the number of round pegs in square holes like the examples I have referred to above.

The profession of a native—the way by which he is destined to earn his livelihood is indicated by the 10th Bhava (stronger of the two, one counted from the ascendant and the other from the Moon). A strong planet in the 10th Bhava also shows the line of profession. If more than one planet occupy the 10th Bhava the strongest planet decides the issue. If the 10th Bhava is void of planets the strength of the Bhava points out the vocation of the native.

Though the 10th Bhava is the prime indicator a comprehensive study of all the other Bhavas is also found by experience to be an unavoidable and essential factor in the determination of the calling of an individual. The strength of the lord of the ascendant, his relative position in the horoscope and the various aspects of the other planets on him, etc., besides showing the courage and ability of the native also decides how far he is entitled to enjoy the fruits of the actions or to what extent he is disposed to act. The educational attainments which play a very important part in the determination of profession have to be looked into. The mental calibre of the native is to be assessed. Health, physique and longevity are to be studied and weighed. The general luck in life, the ways of income and gain, nature of external help, the marital relations and the aiding or detracting nature of the life-partner's horoscope, etc., are also to be scrutinised before finally deciding on the nature of profession of a native. It is therefore clear that to correctly hit at the life's profession of a native an extensive study of the entire horoscope, I mean of all the 12 Bhavas in their relation to the 10th, is absolutely essential.

To begin with we shall note the general indications imparted by the 10th Bhava when it falls in the various signs. Aries—When the 10th Bhava happens to be Aries (either from the ascendant or from the Moon) the following are said to be the various means of earning a livelihood. (1) Gardens—gardening, etc. (2) Own sons—through their efforts, help, luck, etc. (3) Friendship with landlords. (4) Farming. (5) Essences-making, manufacturing, or dealing in them. (6) All jobs pertaining to trade. (7) Gambling. (8) Dealing in or handling past or dead affairs—Historical research, etc. Characteristic nature—Cruel and immoral deeds.

Taurus.—(1) Work connected with terrestrial vehicles of all sorts. (2) Cattle-dealing in them, keeping diary farm, etc. (3) Birds—catching them, dealing in them or taking care of birds in zoos. (4) Animals like deer, etc. (5) Storing cereals like paddy and the like—keeping of grain stores or dealing in them. Highly noble and moral.

Gemini.—(1) Sea-borne trade-shipping and all maritime activities. (2) Pearls, precious stones, etc., conches and other rare and costly articles got from seas. (3) Vessels of all kinds—making, keeping, or dealing in them. (4) Astrological or other calculations. (5) Drawings or other allied artistical work. Kingly, noble and famous.

Cancer.—(1) Weapons-making, trading or using them. (2) Fire—being near fire, boilers, smelters, etc. (3) Trading in women. (4) Pearls—gathering or trading in them. (5) Black arts and magic. Intelligent, quiet and pleasant.

Leo.—(1) Gems, precious stones, gold, silver, etc.—gathering them or dealing in them. (2) Operating or making machines, etc., in connection with the above. (3) Ores—Iron, aluminium, gypsum, etc. (4) Farming. (5) Trading in cattle or dealing in paddy. Cruel, sinful and taking delight in horrible deeds.

Virgo.—(1) All kinds of work connected with terrestrial vehicles. (2) Collecting or dealing in gems, precious stones, gold and the like valuable metals. (3) Scents and spices. (4) Music—all artistes. (5) Painting. (6) Writing. Honourable and gentlemanly.

Libra.—(1) Giving advice to others and instructing them on proper lines of action. (2) Exchanging gold and other valuables. (3) Carrying on different kind of lawsuits in courts and jobs connected with litigation, etc. (4) Markets and other places of merchandise—all jobs connected with them. (5) Being a broker. (6) Dealing in cattle, cereals, corals and conches, fish and the like. (7) Growing vegetables and edible roots. (8) Artistical work—decorations, etc. Kind, humble and moral.

Scorpio.—(1) Fair sex—by constantly moving with them, pleasing them, or by attending to their various needs. (2) Farming. (3) By being always active and energetic. (4) Stealing. (5) Attending on kings and the rich. (6) Medical advice and treatments. (7) Dealing in iron and iron articles. (8) Dealing in cereals. (9) All sorts of evil deeds. Irreligious and immoral.

Sagittarius.—(1) All work connected with the ruling of the country—Ministers, Commanders-in-chief, etc. (2) Dealing in cows, oxen, buffaloes and horses. (3) Keeping cavalry. (4) Firewood—forestry, etc. (5) Logs of wood—dealings in wood. (6) Birds—dealing in them, etc. (7) All kinds of machinery. (8) Accountacy—calculations of all sorts. (9) Astrology and astronomy. (10) Medicine—Doctors and druggists. Kingly, famous and ever ready to render service.

Capricorn —(1) Trading in all kinds of things got from water. (2) Trade with foreign countries, shipping, etc. (3) Gardening. (4) Making or dealing in all kinds of furniture and other luxury articles. (5) Distilling essences or dealing in them. Immoral and irreligious.

Aquarius.—(1) All work connected with weapons and fire. (2) Stealing and cheating. (3) Digging and other spade work. (4) Carrying loads. (5) Cooly work of all kinds. (6) Shouldering weighty articles—all muscular labour. Faithless, ingratious and greedy.

Pisces.–(1) All work connected with water and weapons. (2) Seduction and debauchery, dealings with women. (3) Dealing in horses or keeping them. Intelligent, kind and obliging.

The second important point to be looked into in determination of the calling of a native is the study of the navamsa of the lord of the 10th Bhava. For this, the strengths of the planets —Sun and Moon—and of the ascendant are to be accurately assessed and weighed. The navamsa of the lord of the 10th Bhava counted from the strongest of the three is to be noted. The type of work or job indicated by the lord of that navamsa will be the native's profession. These indications if properly interpreted are seen to aid the astrologer in finding out the line of profession of the native.

When the lord of the navamsa happens to be the Sun the native is said to earn his bread by trading in medicines or by administering them; marine activities and all jobs connected with water and water transports; trade; work of gathering or dealing in corals and pearls; carrying messages; scouting; hiking and walking; giving advice; teaching mantras and vedas; all jobs connected with essences and spirits; buffoonery; reading, teaching and explaining Puranas or religious texts; and by attending on kings or other great personages.

When the navamsa of the 10th lord falls in the Moon's sign the native's profession will be trading in articles obtained from water or grown in water; farming; moulding clay and all work connected with mud and earth; discussions and arguments; walking distances; acting in dramas and the like; putting on fanciful dresses and masquerading; and doing business in clothes and piecegoods.

Mars indicates all jobs connected with iron, silver, gold and allied metals; discussions and quarrels and litigation; cruel and inhuman actions; all work near and with fire; fighting and service in army and all kinds of brutal and hard-hearted actions.

In the navamsa of the 10th lord falls in a sign owned by Mercury the native will be engaged in all kinds of artistical work; in literary and other cultural jobs; in astrology and astronomy in teaching religious texts and vedas and in giving advice.

Jupiter makes the native serve the learned and the gods; teach children; read or lecture or explain religious texts and Puranas lecture and expound law and justice or do religious propaganda.

Venus as the lord of the navamsa causes the native deal in gold, silver and precious stones; all work connected with them can be attributed to the native. Jobs having a direct bearing on elephants, horses, etc., can also be ascribed. Trading in cattle, jaggery, milk, curds, and butter also form the profession of these types of people. Hotel business is also indicated by Venus. Those who earn their living by running or errands of the fair sex fall under this category.

Saturn as the lord of the navamsa of the 10th lord fills the native's life with all jobs of a despicable nature. Masonry and carpentry work of every description, carrying loads on heads and shoulders, butchery and allied cruel deeds are ascribed to this class of people. Sometimes these people are seen carrying tales and making quarrels from which they eke out their living.

In all these cases the types of jobs as indicated by the Karakatvas of the different planets are also to be examined and studied comparatively with the above before finally judging the life's profession. If the lord of the navamsa of the 10th lord (strongest of the three) falls in his own sign, Navamsa, Drekkana, Hora, Thrimsamsa or Moolathrikona or in his exaltation degree or in a friendly sign and is endowed with all kinds of strength it is to be learnt that the native will lead his life happily with a noble and exalted profession. The strength of the lord of the 10th Bhava, that of the lord of the navamsa of the 10th lord, their benefic or malefic nature, their positions in the chart, aspects of other planets on them, combinations with other planets and the states in which they are placed are also to be minutely examined.

Indications given by the different planets when they occupy the 10th Bhava are to be studied next.

Sun.—According to one school of thought the actions of the native with the Sun in the 10th will be kingly, fruitful and bold while another view holds that the native will have to do different kinds of jobs. Combined with Mars, Sun in the 10th Bhava indicates service of wages, a good study of the sciences like astrology, palmistry, etc, performance of tantric rites and the like. Such natives are prone to do cruel and harsh deeds. Sun and Mercury point out a merchant having all sorts of marine and mercantile activities, trade with foreign countries, dealings in corals, pearls, conches and allied water-borne valuable articles and salt too. Farming can also be said to engage the serious attention of these people. Sun in combination with Jupiter confers kingly duties which will be successfully manned by these people. Jobs calling for undaunted energy, boldness and nobility and tactfulness will fall to the share of those who have the Sun-Jupiter combination in the 10th Bhava. Sun and Venus make the native depend on his relatives and clever in running on errands of the fair sex from whom will be the major part of his earnings. Such people will like female supervision and are generally found to shine as courtiers. When associated with Saturn in the 10th Bhava Sun creates menials and servants, idiots and cattle-like people quite unable to understand and follow. Sun in the 10th Bhava has been said to indicate gain of wealth from one's father, and authoritative and supervisory work. People with Sun in the 10th Bhava are also seen learned in arts and music. Though they are very often rash and hasty they occupy responsible positions under the Government. A few horoscopes with Sun in the 10th Bhava belong to flourishing merchants. Attendance on Kings and the rich and earning a living thereby can also be ascribed to Sun placed in the 10th Bhava.

Moon falling in the 10th Bhava at the time of birth makes the native reticent in nature. He is likely to become a contractor who usually undertakes digging of wells and tanks and construction of temples, churches or sanitoriums. He will be energetic engaging himself in all social activities. Mercantile activities may also form their profession.

When Mars occupies the 10th Bhava the native will be pushing and energetic, active, bold and forward in everything. They will have very strong tendencies to do cruel and harsh deeds as well as brutal and despicable actions. People engaged in all sorts of work connected with cavalry or keeping or dealing in horses or elephants will have Mars in the 10th Bhavas of their horoscopes. Thieving, all kinds of underhand dealings, hunting and immoral actions show Mars in the 10th Bhava. Mars and Mercury when fall in the 10th Bhava make the native skilled and bold in the use of weapons. Such people are seen to earn their livelihood by exercising their brains and intelligence. Mars and Jupiter create army chieftains and commanders-in-chief. Travelling agents, travellers and merchants dealing in gold, gems, etc., have the combination of Mars and Venus in the 10th Bhavas of their charts. Rash actions, horrible and despicable sometimes, are caused by Mars associating with Saturn in the 10th Bhava. Mostly such people are seen idle, sickly and lethargic. Gain of wealth from enemies is also indicated by Mars in the 10th Bhava. Planning for towns, buildings and other projects is seen to be the profession of the natives who have Mars in the 10th Bhavas of their charts. Some are seen holding responsible positions in Devasthanams and allied departments. Generally people with Mars in the 10th Bhava are seen to have income in different ways enabling them to lead good and luxurious lives.

Mercury when posited in the 10th Bhava shows that the native is learned, wise and truthful. With clear thinking and hard and bold work, such people are very often seen to bring to fruitful end any work begun by them. They will be flourishing in commanding or supervising or authoritative positions in life according to the strength of the planet. In combination with Jupiter in the 10th Bhava Mercury confers leadership on the native and enables him to win laurels. Mercury and Venus shape Governors or ruling chiefs or ministers of States. When associated with Saturn, Mercury very often bestows skill in making vessels, toys and other articles with clay. Instructors in arts and handicrafts will have this combination. Writing, drawing and painting also form the professions of these natives in a general way. More often than not those engaged in dealing with books or libraries are seen to have this combination in the 10th Bhava. Income of wealth from one's relatives is the general indication given by Mercury in the 10th Bhava. Lawyers are also seen to have Mercury in the 10th Bhava. People whose main earnings arise from instigating others to go to Courts of Law for litigations, etc., also belong to this class. Mercury alone in the 10th Bhava is seen to confer honour, nobility and fame on the native who will be either a Governor or a State representative.

Jupiter in the 10th Bhava shows that the native is liberal minded and entitled to do ministerial work. Very often they will be respected and famous. The ability to find out ways and means of doing things will be vested in them. They are generally seen completing the undertakings commenced by them. Such natives will be mostly connected with the ruling of the country or similar professions honourable and grave. In combination with Venus in the 10th Bhava Jupiter places the native in quite an enviable position under the ruling authority with a kingly and luxurious life. Such a native will be an adviser to many. When associated with Saturn Jupiter makes the native do despicable deeds. Gain of wealth through one's brothers is also indicated by Jupiter in the 10th Bhava. Learned and wise the native in whose chart Jupiter shines in the 10th Bhava is very often seen to be a landlord or one possessing good wealth.

Venus–Work requiring manliness is bestowed on the native by Venus in the 10th Bhava. He will be highly skilled in litigations, etc. Nobility will characterise his actions. He will be respected for his work. Venus indicates work in all arts and sciences as well as their intelligent application. Lawyers, Governors, Collectors and Ambassadors come under this group. Foundations for things of high magnitude are often laid by men having Venus in the 10th Bhavas of their horoscopes. Venus and Saturn in the 10th Bhava create an artist or a painter or a maker or dealer in scents or scented articles or spices, powders, medicinal drugs, inks, colours and lime. A man of medicine may also fall under this type. Venus in the 10th Bhava is indicative of gain through the fair sex. Deans of Universities, Educational Directors and Professors are seen to have Venus in the 10th Bhava. Such natives are highly respected for their knowledge and are seen to lead excellent lives.

Saturn in the 10th Bhava has been said to make the native do low and despicable actions. Such natives will generally be fickle minded, unfit for steady application to a job in hand. Weak or sickly and they will be always perplexed in work. Another school of thought lays down that Saturn in the 10th Bhava makes learned and forceful leaders of armies. Heads of co-operative societies and Panchayats are very often seen to have Saturn in the 10th Bhavas of their horoscopes. Gain through servants is indicated by Saturn in the 10th Bhava. Some with farming as their life's profession are seen to fall under this group. People going to foreign lands to eke out their living are invariably seen to have Saturn in the 10th Bhavas of their horoscopes. (Varahamihira says that Saturn in the 10th Bhava makes the native valorous and learned in sciences and sastras. Saturn in the sign of Jupiter or in his own house or in his exaltation sign renders the native highly beneficial effects. Sasa Yoga brings out the same principle. Aspects and combinations with benefics deprives Saturn of his intrinsic malefic nature. Saturn in the 10th Bhava is said to aid the native in getting riches through employing a good number of servants (workmen). The native will have his income by supervising the work of his employees. Saravali also supports this view. Satya Samhita beautifully describes the effects of Saturn in 10th Bhava. A powerful Saturn in the 10th Bhava with aspects and combinations of benefics makes the native a landlord or an official with judicial and ministerial powers. The author of Chamatkara Chintamani holds that Saturn in the 10th Bhava tends to destroy the parents of the native even during the latter's young age and make the native prove a bane to his wealth and farms.)

The fourth important point to be looked into in the determination of profession of a native is the study of effects when the lords of the different bhavas fall in the tenth. The following general indications will be highly useful. The lord of the ascendant in the 10th Bhava ensures the native gain from Governmental bodies by intelligent and constructive service. The lord of the 2nd Bhava posited in the 10th shows acquisition of wealth from kings or ruling authorities by supervisory or authoritative work. The lord of the 3rd Bhava makes the native an ardent worker for social welfare. Service under Government is indicated by the 4th lord placed in the 10th Bhava. Ministerial jobs and ruling of countries fall to the lot of those in whose charts the lord of the 5th Bhava occupies the 10th. The 6th lord when he falls in the 10th Bhava shows a native of cruel and despicable deeds. Unlawful acts, underhand dealings to upset constituted authorities and plotting against moral and social codes can be attributed, beyond doubts, to those who have their 7th lords posited in the respective 10th Bhavas. If the concerned planet happens to be a cruel one the despicable nature of the native's crooked mind will be tenfold strong while his words will be harsh and haughty. The lord of the 8th Bhava posited in the 10th makes the native do all kinds of dirty and sinful actions. If the 8th lord is a malefic the native will be extremely idle and lethargic. Nobility will characterise all actions of the native in whose horoscope the lord of the 9th Bhava occupies the 10th. Such people will be leaders of men. The lord of the 10th Bhava posited in the 10th makes the native highly honoured and respected placing him in a very influential position in the Government of the country. The lord of the 11th Bhava falling in the 10th endows on the native much wealth and gives him an honoured position in the ruling of the country. The lord of the 12th Bhava in the 10th drags the anger of the ruling authorities and makes the native do different kinds of jobs.

Effects of combinations of three planets in the 10th Bhava are also to be noted. A few are given below :

Sun, Mars and Saturn.—Men of all kinds of despicable and cruel deeds including murder.

Sun, Mercury and Jupiter.—Professors, authors and advisers.

Sun, Mercury and Saturn.—Soldiers, dealers in weapons or those engaged in ammunition making.

Sun, Jupiter and Venus.—Authors, scientists, ambassadors and those engaged in research work.

Sun, Jupiter and Saturn.—Bold and courageous warriors, advisers, Representatives or Ambassadors.

Mars, Mercury and Venus.—Designers, men of artistic tastes, ornament makers or dealers.

Mars, Jupiter and Venus.—Bold and noble State Representatives and men of diplomacy.

Mars, Venus and Saturn.—Men of too many jobs.

Mercury, Venus and Saturn.—Poets, authors and writers. Also pugilists, weight lifters and travellers.

The very broad indications laid out in the texts as to what would be the nature of the life profession of a native when a particular sign happens to be the 10th Bhava or when such and such a planet or group of planets are posited therein are only hand posts from where we are to work out, think and draw out conclusions. Remembering well that astrology is a science of tendencies the learned astrologer should find out from the planetary positions in the horoscope following the textual hints the probable line of profession the native might follow and then employing his cogent and logical arguments based on experience should correctly hit at the exact calling of the native.

The accurate fixation of the means of earning livelihood of a native these days by studying the planetary dispositions in the horoscope has been rendered wildly complicated by the diverse methods employed to earn the day's bread, some of which like the catching of frogs and the shooting of dogs are quite abominable and even undreamt of. To draw out a list for ready reference showing particular planetary combinations for particular jobs cannot also be thought of; for we have doctors with Mars, Saturn, Jupiter and Venus as navamsa lords. The same planetary positions are seen in the horoscopes of soldiers, pilots, compounders, artists and bus drivers. Accountants, lawyers and stenographers have almost identical planetary combinations as far as their 10th Bhavas are concerned. Any amount of effort or study or experiment, I am lead to believe, cannot help one to state unerringly and conclusively that such and such a planetary combination indicates a stenographer, a clerk or a photographer. A single individual embraces a number of professions which have nothing in common whatever—a lawyer first, then a teacher, then an accountant, a store-keeper, and lastly an Ayurvedic Medicine shopkeeper and all through life a hand to mouth living. Rahu, Saturn, Mars and Moon posited in the 10th Bhavas or owning the 10th Bhavas or being the navamsa lords have made teachers and professors. How far Saturn or Mars or Rahu have a bearing on the teaching profession is a topic yet to be investigated, studied and analysed. How far a Saturnian doctor can be successful in his profession is a subject for intensive study. There are many points of relation in the planetary combinations of a horoscope, still hidden and untranslated, holding a strong sway over the Karmas of the natives. These points though quite elusive shine out to the mind of a duly qualified astrologer. We may observe that the profession of a native is not wholly controlled or finally indicated by the 10th Bhava or its lord or the navamsa of the 10th lord alone but that a comprehensive study of the entire horoscope combined with the highly merited moral life of the astrologer may help him to name out the exact profession of the native with unerring accuracy.

BY DR. V. M. BHATT, B.A., M.B.B.S.

THE seventh category of evidence for survival in the spiritual world is what is called cross-correspondence. In this a part of a message is given by a spirit of the dead to one medium at one place and simultaneously, the second part of it to another medium in the second place, distant from the first, and at the same time the third part to another medium in the third place, different and distant from the first two places, the medium being ignorant of one another and of the message as a whole, but the parts fitting into each other, and intelligible only when put together and not otherwise. This gives a convincing proof of the fact that the message is given by one intelligent discarnate being, with a purpose to prove his identity. Tyrrell has given a chapter to this phenomenon (Chap. 17) in his book and Sir Oliver Lodge has made frequent references to it in his book The Survival of Man. Dr. Reynold Johnson alludes to it in his book The Imprisoned Splendour and Bishop Leadbeater has dealt with it in his book so often quoted. All these authors consider that it is a valuable proof of the identity of the spirit, deliberately sending a planned message, through different mediums, simultaneously at different places at a distance, without knowing one another, and the message being complete only when the pieces of it are put together. They have adduced proofs from several cases from the literature. I will quote briefly only one simple case from Leadbeater's book. It is known as the "Kildaire Club Case". It is published by Mr. Carrington in his book Psychical Phenomenon and the War (Pp. 284), recounted by Count Hammon. It is summarised as follows:—

On Monday, May 14, 1917, a seance was attended by the Count in which Mrs. Harris was the medium. Among those present was Dr. Hector Munro. There, after many convincing conversations, a spirit said "I want to send a message to my father". Asked who he (the spirit) was, he replied:—"I was an officer recently killed in Flanders." But though he told his name often, it could not be heard distinctly. Then he told his message thus; my father lived near Dublin and he will be found in the well-known Kildaire club". His father's name was also not distinctly heard. But one gentleman knew the club. Then the spirit was asked to complete the message again. He said: "My father is very much worried over my loss. But tell him I am alright. I want someone to tell him that I want to send this as a test message that he should no longer worry about me. He goes to mediums in Dublin, and I send him messages through them, but I want this to be sent to him as a test message". Then he gave again his father's name and his christian name also. The latter could be heard distinctly but not the former. However, the gentlemen interested in this case, sent a letter to the secretary of the club, giving out all the details. After a few days, the father replied: "I have had messages from my son, recently killed in Flanders, saying he had sent me a message, through a medium in London, that he had difficulty in getting the name and address, but he wanted to give me a 'test'." Here two mediums, one in Dublin and another in London, got messages from the same spirit, who wanted to convince his father that his son, and none else, was sending out the consoling messages with a set of purpose that one message could be used as a test message to corroborate the other. Several cases are given by these authors to convince the readers about the truth of phenomenon. In one case, Myers and Gurney were conversing with Sir Oliver Lodge through Mrs. Willett, and the messages bore out Myers erudition from some of the philosophical terms such as "interactionism", "..... epiphenominalism", etc., which he alone could use, the medium being innocent of them.

In The Superphysical, Osborne gives some elaborate experiments of cross-correspondences with the medium "Margery", Dr. Crandon's wife (Pp. 230). I need not copy them here, as a general pattern of his experiments is the same as given above. But I cannot resist the temptation of quoting Sir Oliver Lodge's remarks on these experiments. He says in his Survival of Man, (1911, Ed. V, Pp. 336). "We find deceased friends—some of them well-known to us and active members of the P.R. Society while alive,—especially Gurney, Myers, Hodgson,—constantly purporting to communicate with the express purpose of patiently proving their identity and giving us cross-correspondences between different mediums. We also find them answering specific questions in a manner characteristic of their own personalities, and giving evidence of knowledge appropriate to them".

The last and final conclusive evidence hinges on reincarnation or rebirth. If we get some small innocent children or adults, who had never known about reincarnation, give some verifiable details of their past lives, and if these details are verified by perfectly disinterested reliable witnesses, then this positive but objective evidence would hit the last nail in the coffin of scepticism about the survival in the spirit world. Fortunately psychical research workers have found a few well authenticated reliable cases in the vast literature on the subject. Bishop Leadbeater has quoted some cases in his often referred book The Other Side of Death. (Pp. 702–715). Similarly, Osborne has discussed this subject in The Superphysical, and has quoted many cases in support of it (vide Ch. XV). Dr. Reynor Johnson has treated the subject elaborately in his book Imprisoned Splendour (P. 381) and quotes the subjective testimonies of Prof. Lutoslawski, a polish scholar and of J. Krishnamurthy as direct evidence on the point. Bishop Leadbeater too has emphatically declared that he did remember a large number of his own past births but he frankly admits "it would not be a proof for others" (Pp. 715). But the cases quoted by him especially the one published by the New York Times on 16th September 1923 under the signature of Rai Bahadur Sham Sunderlal, concerning the past life memories of a four-year boy Prabhu, and amply proved by objective evidence deserves mention. Similarly the life history of a previous birth, given by a ten-year girl Shanta, related by Mr. Radhika Narayan from Delhi, and proved to the hilt with the objective evidence by the late Pandit Madan Mohan Malaviya, founder of Benaras Hindu University throw a flood of light on this doctrine of reincarnation and therefore of survival in the spiritual world. This case will be found abridged in The Superphysical (Pp. 281). We Hindus never question the doctrine of reincarnation, as we sip it with our mothers milk and experience its truth in our everyday life by varied psychic phenomenon from reliable sources. The recently published book The Search for Bridey Murphy by Morey Barnstein in U.S.A. points a new way to establish the truth of this doctrine. Dr. Sir Alexander Cannon has proved in Power Within by over one thousand experiments of regression that there is a core of truth in this doctrine. All this evidence is so overwhelming that it cannot but convince an impartial seeker of the truth of this principle of reincarnation. In a small space, I can only indicate the sources of evidence on this point. I think I need not burden the minds of my readers by quoting a few extracts from these resources. The chapter has already been too much lengthy, and I do not wish to strain their patience any more by adding similar evidence for survival.

THREE HUNDRED IMPORTANT COMBINATIONS

BY B. V. RAMAN

This is not a collection of combinations but a careful selection of just the most important ones which cannot be easily identified in a horoscope.

What makes one a dunce? Why is one unhappy, what makes one poor and the other rich? Why one has no bodily comfort—what makes one a King or an equal, a leader, a business magnate, an industrialist, a great politician, a pauper, a sickly man and a miserable wretch? What makes one attain success without much effect and what makes the other to meet with disappointment in life inspite of his very best efforts?

A study of this book will enable you to easily judge the worth of your own horoscope and adjudge its merits and demerits.

A book of this type containing a collection of rare combinations some of which are special yogas has never been published before.

The author has illustrated the principles with innumerable horoscopes from practical lives. Do not fail to read this book.

The 1962 Eight-Planet Combination & World Affairs—A Symposium

[As readers are aware, there is going to be a combination of eight planets in Capricorn (Aquarius according to Sayana or the Movable Zodiac), in February 1962. The subject has been dealt with by us not only in August 1957 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE under the caption The Third World War, but reference has also been made to this great concentration of force in one part of the heavens, in our inaugural address to the All-Kerala Astrological Association, at Trichur. This unique celestial combination seems to have excited the curiosities of a large section of the educated public to such an extent that many of them have suggested the subject being discussed in a more detailed manner.

Those intending to participate in this symposium can prepare a suitable paper and send the same for publication. It is left entirely to one's discretion whether to interpret the combination astrologically or astronomically, on the basis of the Nirayana or Fixed Zodiac or Sayana or Movable Zodiac. You have to set out what in your opinion, are the likely results to happen as a consequence of this eight-planet combination in the world as a whole ; with reference to the different countries ; and/or in regard to individuals born in different signs. All points of view—whether based on ancient classical writings or on modern western texts or on one's own experience, are welcome.

PAPER No. 11—BY JASHBHAI R. VADALIA, LL.B.

WITH thanks to the Editor Sri B. V. Raman for his timely open invitation to participate in the symposium "The 1962 Eight-Planet combination and World Affairs", I put my humble views before the readers through the columns of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE.

Especially in these days when it has become a fashion with the so-called advanced people to propagate that they do not believe in astrology and that astrology is nothing but a humbug, the learned Editor Sri B.V. Raman's devotion to the subject of astrology is highly appreciable and he deserves congratulations.

The eight-planet combination takes place on 5th February 1962. All planets except Rahu will be in Capricorn (Makara) according to Nirayana theory and in Aquarius (Kumbha) according to Sayana theory. We Indians are inclined towards Nirayana theory in astrology which is now considered better than the Sayana. Our ancient literature on astrology is on the Nirayana basis and hence I put below my views as per that system.

We are eager to know the two-fold effects of the combination (1) with reference to different countries, and (2) in regard to individuals born under different signs.

As regards the effects of the "Eight-Planet combination" on the different countries it will be interesting to note that as the constellations affected are Uttarashadha, Sravana and Dhanishta the countries affected will be parts of India, Pakistan, Iran, Afghanistan, Greece, Bulgaria, Egypt, Algeria, Hungary, Germany, England, Portugal, France, United States of America and Russia.

The combination takes place in the sign Capricorn (Makara) ruling politicians and military dictators and the armies and also the lower class people. The combination is accompanied and followed by solar eclipses on 5-2-1962, 31-7-1962 & 25-1-1963. All these suggest a bad time for the established governments, labour classes and the diplomats. The solar eclipses also suggest spreading of epidemics, ruins due to floods, loss of crops, earthquakes, etc., in the affected areas.

With the curiosity to know what will happen in other part of the globe, one is naturally more inclined to know about the events 'at home'. I may therefore first of all discuss the effects of the combination of planets and eclipses 'at home'.

India

The combination takes place in the 5th house from India's ruling sign. It takes place in the 11th house from the Lagna and 5th house from the Moon in the chart of the Indian National Congress. This is not a healthy thing for the normal administration of the country.

Bihar, Punjab and Uttar Pradesh will be affected most. Some calamities from natural phenomenons like floods, earthquakes and epidemics are likely to trouble the people in this area. Loss of crop is also feared.

As Makara is a watery sign the coastal areas are also liable to affliction. General administration in the affected areas will undergo much stresses and the present government may have to face crisis.

The country's financial position in general is likely to suffer much though in the long run no financial crisis need be feared. However financial tensions will be there which may last upto the end of 1963. Troubles at the borders will reach a climax and the Indian armed forces may be put in a position to reply in the same coin.

Pakistan

The present Military Government may have to undergo great changes. It is very hard indeed to say whether General Ayub Khan will be able to come out safely from the affliction. There will be serious dissatisfaction among high officials of the Pakistan armed forces; as a result some big changes are anticipated.

Scanned by Astrojyothisastrology.com To Preserve Dr. V. Raman's Work

Parts of Punjab and Bengal which now comprise Pakistan territories, are likely to undergo calamities through floods and epidemics. People will suffer most and may try to overthrow the present administration.

Burma

The combination and the solar eclipse take place in the 3rd house from Lagna and fifth from the Moon in the Independent chart of the country. Lord of the seventh, that is, Venus is afflicted. This is really a very hard time for this country and the country's administration will undergo changes more than once.

United Arab Republic

The 9th house from the ascendant and eleventh from the Moon is afflicted in the chart of the United Arab Republic. It is also not a happy time for Colonel Nasser as the 3rd house from the Lagna and the house occupied by the Moon are afflicted.

It is quite possible that Egypt may be made a battle-field and its relations with the communist countries will suffer. The country will suffer a great loss and main role will be played by Israel.

Indonesia

The 5th house from the ascendant and eleventh from the Moon is afflicted in the Republic chart. Lord of the ascendant is in the 5th house and will be under affliction.

Dr. Sukarno's ascendant and Moon are badly afflicted. Thus it is very hard times for the country. Some civil war will be inevitable and Dr. Sukarno's position will be threatened. The country will have to face a war-like situation.

Great Britain

Venus, the ruler of the chart, is afflicted by the combination and the solar eclipse. This will be a critical time for Britain. It is likely that Great Britain will involve herself in some strife in the Middle-East. The chart on the whole reveals that the effects will be quite temporary and the country will wisely take herself out of the strife at the end, though after a good stroke on its prestige.

U.S.A. and U.S.S.R.

No indications are seen of any direct war between these big nations of the world. However they may involve themselves in the internal problems and peace of other nations with conflicting interests with each orher.

The circumstances will make the leaders of both the nations wise enough not to involve themselves in the direct warfare and it is not too much to say that much of the future of the world depends upon the steps taken by these two big nations of the world. The combination does not suggest any world war and hence the atomic war need not be feared.

The U.S.S.R. will see some changes in the present Presidium, which may help the lifting of the iron-curtain and the rigidity for which the country is well known.

People and the statesmen in the U.S.A. will try to understand more and more the opposite block, which may lead to some distant future solution of their disputes by 1967 or so.

While concluding the effects of the combination and the solar eclipse on the world, I may say that I do not see any chances of world war affecting the world at large and shall no atomic war need be feared. Only military moves between nearby countries with conflicting interests are foreseen. Some interested countries may jump into the troubles and may make the situation worse. The trouble will start from about July or August 1961 and may last upto the beginning of 1963.

According to my humble opinion the end of this strife will force the leaders of the nations to be more wise and sensible, thus bringing some better situation at the end of the strife.

At the same time it will be interesting to note the effects of the combination and the solar eclipse on the individuals born in the different signs. As this is a transitory effect I shall discuss the effects from the position of the Moon and not the Lagna. However one will get more light if he reads both the readings from his Moon and Lagna point and come to a conclusion after considering both the readings.

Mesha (Aries).—The combination takes effect in the 10th house. The persons in service need great care. They should keep to strict routine. It will be risky for them to try any change in the service. Health of father or grandfather will require great care if the Sun is weak in the horoscope.

Vrishabha (Taurus).—Persons born with Moon in this sign need not fear too much. Nothing need be feared in particular.

Mithuna (Gemini).—As the 8th house is afflicted, the health will require utmost care, especially if any malefic is in the 8th house in the horoscope. The finance is also affected adversely. They will be required to spend a good amount after their health.

Kataka (Cancer).—The health and the mood of the partner-in-marriage require great care and attention during the period. If the Lagna or 7th house in the horoscope is occupied by a malefic the native should be more cautious and avoid any danger regarding this house.

It will also be wise to keep in control your mood otherwise some conflicts will unnecessarily be created by your hasty steps

Predicting Specific Events by Means of Transits—VII

BY W. J. TUCKER, D.Sc., Ph.D.

IN this article it is proposed to test the method of transits on the horoscopes of two secret service women agents who were decorated for distinguished services in the Second World War: Odette Marie Celine Brailly—world-famous under the simple name of Odette—and Georgette Robinson.

Odette's birth time is unknown, and her horoscope has been rectified. Her birth date was Sunday, April 28th, 1912, so that her epoch occurred on Sunday, July 9th, 1911 when the ruler of the day—the Sun—was conjoined with Neptune in Cancer—a fact which indicates the Point Ascendant as Cancer 21°.

Georgette Robinson's birth time was given to me by her father and mother as 9 p.m. She was born at Wasmuel, Belgium, Tuesday, November 30th, 1920.

Note that the "Secret Service Planet" Neptune was at the Point Ascendant of both these girls. Note too that both were born under certain identical configurations, namely: Sun square Herschel, Mercury square Neptune, Venus trine Jupiter. In both horoscopes Mars is seen to be void of aspect.

Odette was born on a Sunday so that her birthday planet is the Sun. Cancer being her ascending sign, the Moon is her horoscope ruler. Her Sun was in the Venus-ruled sign of Taurus, so that obviously the influence of Venus is very important in the life of this noble woman. So observe the important fact that at her birth Venus and Mercury were conjoined in Aries at the zenith.

	Venus 19-30 Mercury R 18-53	Sun 7-45 Saturn 21-27
Uranus 3-25	Solar Chart of Mr. Odette 28th April 1912		Ascdt. 21-0 Neptune 21-11 Mars 12-45
Jupiter 14-17		Moon 1-30

Note that her birthday planet—the Sun—is in her 10th house. Manifestly it is also the symbol of Odette's father, Sergeant Brailly (Croix de Guerre avec palme, Medaille Militaire), who was a soldier in the 1st World War but who was blown to bits by a high explosive shell after the battle of Verdun when Saturn and Neptune were conjoined in Leo, square to Odette's natal Sun.

Odette's biographer, Jerrard Tickell, states that just before her eighth birthday, Odette went blind. He records:

> "The whole world that she had known faded into total darkness and it was only on the painful screen of her mind that she could project the beloved sight of eager horses walking, trotting, tossing their heads in the sunshine, cantering, and breaking into a joyous gallop. For a long time she could not be comforted. And then her ear-drums began to understand fully what they had hitherto merely received and to distil into her consciousness patterns of light. Her melancholy took the rhythm of Chopin watzes and her finger-tips—already acquiring a sensitiveness which they have never lost—danced to the formal cadences of Mozart.
> "Almost reconciled to blindness because of the acute perception that it had brought, Odette was led one day by her mother to a despised old man, a herbalist who lived in a back street and brewed noisome potions. The specialist had failed. How could this old man with the dirty waistcoat succeed?.....
> "Within a fortnight, Odette saw things dimly. With infinite care and patience, the veils of darkness were allowed to flutter down and she saw clearly after two years."

Odette's 8th birthday occurred in 1920 so that we must investigate the cosmological pattern of that period in order to gain an appreciation of what actually happened. Undoubtedly the following major configuration which formed in March 1920 was responsible: Neptune conjunction Jupiter square Mars. Neptune and Jupiter being conjoined at Leo 9° (therefore square to Odette's natal Sun—her birthday planet), and Mars being at Scorpio 9°.

It must also be observed that Saturn at Odette's birth was at Taurus 21½° and therefore at the beginning of the area covered by the group of nine stars called the Pleiades, the brightest of which Alcyone lies at Taurus 29°. This group of stars was observed by Claudius Ptolemy eighteen centuries ago to have a special connection with blindness.

Thus the clues provided throw into relief on Monday, March 8th, 1920 as being the vital date when Odette was stricken with blindness. For that was the day on which (Neptune conjunction Jupiter) square (Mars conjunction

Scanned by www.vedicastrology.com To Preserve Dr.N.V.Raman's Work

Moon) was exact, and when Venus was squaring Odette's natal Saturn from Aquarius.

Now the heliacal rising of March 8th, 1920 occurred at Pisces 17° and it would be necessary for Uranus to transit that precise point before the damage could be fully restored. That transit would not occur before July 1923. So that the New Moon of that particular month would be the phenomenon of exceptional importance. That lunation occurred on Saturday, July 14th at Cancer 21°—therefore transitting ν-Geminorum, (i.e., natal Neptune at the Point Ascendant), and in trine with Uranus which was then at Pisces 17° 22′. A fortnight later, namely July 31, 1923, Uranus was at Pisces 17° exactly, and so transitting the precise point where the heliacal rising of the lunation had occurred on March 8th, 1920.

Odette's biographer says :

"In the early spring, Odette caught fever and spent most of the summer in bed." Unfortunately he omitted to say what year! However, the stellar indications themselves enable us to fix with precision the date when the trouble must have been precipitated. And so we point to the significant date of Wednesday, March 5th, 1924 when the lunation occurred at Pisces 14½° in conjunction with Uranus and squared by Jupiter in Sagittarius, which latter planet was in the vicinity of μ Scorpii. Nevertheless the real cause was Neptunian and is to be located at the very opening of 1924 when Neptune was squaring Odette's natal Saturn, to be precipitated by the configurations of March 5th. Cosmologically, the infection would not be cleared up until after Neptune had again squared Odette's natal Saturn in September 1924 under the ambient of Neptune opposition Mars. Only from that point could there be real recovery.

"In the early spring of 1942, the late Commander Rodney Slessor, R.N.V.R., went to the microphone and broadcast a talk to the nation," writes Odette's biographer. Will biographers start to learn the supreme importance of providing exact dates? That form of laxity appears to be occupational disease to which biographers are particularly prone.

Slessor's purpose was to ask the public to send into the Admiralty all picture postcards of continental resorts including snapshots taken on holiday abroad. Odette responded to the appeal. But she made the mistake of sending her photos to the War Office instead of to the Admiralty. It was this simple contact that was to result in a mother of three small children becoming a secret service agent! (Odette had married Roy Sansom in 1931. Francoise was born in 1932 and, soon afterwards, the young Mrs. Odette Sansom sailed across the channel to make her home in England." Lilly was born in 1934 and Marianne in 1936. But as the biographer has merely given the year in each case and never the date, we have to omit these important events from our stellar review). However, the vital letter from the War Office was received by Odette on June 28th, 1942, fixing on appointment for 11 a.m. Friday, 10th July.

June 28th, 1942 was a Sunday—the ruler of which is Odette's birthday planet. It was also the date of the Full Moon (Sun in Cancer—Moon in Capricorn). But how did Odette receive the letter on a Sunday? (There are no postal deliveries on Sundays). Did it reach her by despatch rider? The fact that Uranus, Saturn and Venus were all three conjoined in Gemini in trine with Odette's birthstar o-Virginis (natal Moon in 3rd house—communications) provides the answer and signals the importance.

Odette kept the appointment for the 10th July. At 11 a.m. on that day the Sun was at Cancer 17½° in the immediate vicinity of her Point Ascendant and in transit-phase of birth star ν-Geminorum (natal Neptune, the secret service planet).

On June 28th at the time of the Full Moon the Sun's position had been Cancer 6° and on July 10th Jupiter was transitting over that same point.

The proposition to join the secret service as agent was put to Odette. At the very moment the Moon had conjoined Venus (Venus was theplanet in power that day, for it was a Friday). That Moon–Venus conjunction was opposing μ Scorpii (natal Jupiter) and therefore inciting caution. Which was probably why Odette did not directly accept but said she would think about it. However, the New Moon of Monday, July 13th, 1942 was to form at Cancer 20½° right at her Point Ascendant, and on that day was transitting over ν-Geminorum (natal Neptune–the secret service planet!) Odette telephoned acceptance.

At the completion of her training, Odette received her final instructions, reading :

"Most Secret

Operation : Clothier.

Third amendment to final instructions for 'Lize'. You will report to the R.T.O. at Paddington at 10 a.m. on 10th October, travelling under the name of "Odette Bedigis", a civil servant, for which necessary documents are attached. You will proceed to Redruth in Cornwall where transport

Scanned by www.astrologyhistory.com For Research and Reference Work has been arranged to convey you to a hotel and subsequently to the airport. You will proceed by bomber to Gibraltar and thence by felucca as previously arranged. This cancels first and second amendments to your final instructions."

The bomber took off with Odette at 2 a.m., Sunday, October 11th, 1942. Odette was born on a Sunday—a day that normally should be lucky for her. The bomber crashed on take-off, but Odette was unhurt. Notice that October 10th, 1942 was the date of the New Moon and the heliacal rising of Mars. That New Moon formed at Libra 16½° near Odette's nadir, in opposition to birth star Σ-Piscium(natal Venus-Mercury conjunction).

Odette went to Gibraltar by boat instead of by 'plane.

Notice that Odette's actual secret service work in France began in November 1942 when Neptune was transitting o-Virginis (natal Moon in the 3rd house).

It was on February 24th, 1943, when Mars reached Capricorn 21° in opposition to v-Geminorum (natal Neptune), that Odette had her encounter with Hugo Ernst Bleicher of the counter-espionage section of the German army. This German spy asked her to put him into touch with the War Office in London. To one who is capable of interpreting the significance of Mars-opposition-natal-Neptune in Odette's horoscope, such a red-light signal is unmistakable. She radioed London about it, and the department instantly realised that the organisation had been betrayed. They sent immediate orders to dissolve the circuit and clear out.

On Friday, April 16th, 1943, Odette and Raoul (Captain Peter Churchill) were arrested, and on Saturday, May 8th arrived at Fresnes prison near Paris for interrogation by the Gestapo. Herr Bleicher tried to induce her to reveal what she knew. Jupiter was then at Cancer 20° at her Point Ascendant and about to transit v-Geminorum in square with Σ-Piscium. Odette refused to talk.

On Tuesday, May 25th, 1943, Odette was brought to the torturers of the Gestapo. They demanded to know the whereabouts of Arnaud, Roger, and a certain document. Odette said she had nothing to say. Thereupon the torturers burned her back with a red-hot poker. Finding that ineffective, they proceeded to wrench out each of her ten toe-nails.

It being Tuesday, Mars was in power, and the ambient of that particular Tuesday was Mars-opposition-Neptune (Neptune was at Virgo 29½° in the vicinity of Odette's natal Moon o-Virginis). Saturn was at Gemini 14° 18′ in exact opposition to her birth star μ Scorpii(natal Jupiter). Jupiter was at Cancer 22° 57′.

On Friday, May 12th, 1944, Odette was taken from Fresnes prison. Ultimate destination: Ravensbruck. The Sun was transitting δ Arietis (natal Saturn). Neptune was transitting o-Virginis (natal Moon—3rd house). Mars was at her Point Ascendant. The day being Friday, Venus was in power, and she was transitting 27 Arietis (Odette's natal Sun).

Odette entered Ravensbruck on Tuesday, July 18th, 1944. The Sun was at Cancer 26° (it was two days prior to the eclipse of the Sun). Neptune was still transitting o-Virginis (Odette's natal Moon). But the ambient of the day was provided by Moon conjunction Saturn—a conjunction which occurred in the 12th house: Prison.

The unforgettable experiences and maltreatment suffered by Odette in Ravensbruck are set forth in detail in her biography and need not be repeated here. We pass on to Monday, April 16th, 1945 when the Commandant of Ravensbruck received direct orders from Himmler that all persons detained in the Bunker were to be executed immediately. That order was promptly carried out, except in the case of seven prisoners, one of whom was Odette. For reasons known only to himself, Fritz Suhren had spared the lives of these seven.

The Sun on that day was at Odette's zenith, and was conjoined with Venus. But Mars was in her 8th house (death house) opposing Jupiter. What, then, stayed the hand of the executioner? Was it because of the ambient of Sun conjunction Venus at her zenith?

At midnight on April 27th, just as her birthday was dawning, Fritz Suhren came to Odette's cell and told her she would be leaving at six o'clock in the morning. Her anniversary that year was Saturday—Saturn's Day. But the news itself had been given to her under the Full Moon of April 27th when the Sun was at Taurus 7°.

On Thursday, May 3rd, 1945, Fritz Suhren drove Odette to the Americans and surrendered to them. On this Jupiter's Day the Moon in Capricorn was trining Jupiter in Virgo, forming a spectacular ambient. Mars in Aries was opposing Odette's o-Virginis (natal Moon) when the prisoner of Ravensbruck ordered the Commandant Fritz Suhren to hand over to her his revolver—which he did. Note that Venus and Mercury were conjoined at Aries 18½° Σ Piscium (the birth star marking the birth conjunction of these same two planets). Odette's rebirth was occurring.

So ends the war-time saga of this extremely brave George

Cross heroine: Odette Sansom, M.B.E., Legion d'Honneur.

We now turn our attention to the horoscope of Georgette Robinson.

The great adventure started for this young woman on Wednesday, May 15th, 1940. When her home-town, Mons in Belgium, was bombed by the Luftwaffe five days after the invasion of the low countries by the Nazis. This bombardment signalled to the Robinson family that it was time to leave if they were to hope to get to a French port and over to England. So their car joined the endless procession of refugees on the highway leading to France—a procession that was constantly being bombed and machine gunned by the Luftwaffe. Thus it was indeed the day of a big change in the life of Georgette, and the heralds of that change were: Jupiter in Aries in the 9th house, and Neptune at Virgo 22° 49′ transitting v-Leonis (natalSaturn)

Unable to reach a port, the family finally settled down as refugees to the beautiful town of Lourdes in the south of France. Presently, Mr. Robinson began quietly and imperceptible to organise an escape route for refugees by means of which they could be passed over the Pyrenees into Spain.

Furnished by her father with a forged identity card, Georgette travelled from Lourdes to Licq (a village at the edge of the Pyrenees) as his representative charged with arranging with the leader of the Basque guides the procedure that must be followed to pass a pipe-line of refugees over the mountains into Spain. It was an evening of March 1941 (Georgette herself cannot recall the exact date, but it was probably Monday, March 27th when the eclipse of the Sun occurred at Aries 6½° trine a-Scorpii). Uranus, at Taurus 23⅓°, was in Georgette's 10th (father's) house trining v-Leonis (natal Saturn). Saturn himself was at Taurus 12° 47′ at Georgette's zenith, conjoined with Jupiter.

On Thursday, Aug. 7th, 1941, Georgette had trouble with the Vichy police. A member of the Robinson organisation had betrayed her. It was the day of the Full Moon and the Sun at Leo 14° was transitting k-Cancri (natal Neptune). Fortunately Jupiter at Gemini 15° 28′ was in sextile aspect to k-Cancri, protecting Georgette. Though the police chief knew very well she had been travelling with a forged identity card, he turned a blind eye to it.

On Sunday, September 21st, 1941, a new carte d'identite was forged for Georgette in the name of Nelly Marie Duparc. The Sun was eclipsed at Virgo 28° and therefore in the vicinity of v-Leonis (Georgette's natal Saturn). The heliacal rising of that day was a heliacal rising of Neptune. Neptune was at Virgo 27° 28′ trined by Saturn from Taurus 28° 27′.

On Monday, March 16th, 1942, Georgette and her father were arrested. The Solar Eclipse of that day occurred at Pisces 25° in opposition to v-Leonis (natal Saturn). Saturn was at Taurus 24° trining v-Leonis, and it was probably this trine that saved Georgette from committal to prison. Mars was at Gemini 5½° in opposition to Georgette's natal Sun (a-Scorpii). Georgette was released, but her father was committed to the prison of Tarbes.

In September 1942, Georgette began to reorganise the escape route under her own leadership and with totally new personnel. The same devoted Basque guides were employed, however.

The New Moon of Thursday, September 10th occurred at Virgo 17° 8′. It was an eclipse of the Sun and it transitted o-Leonis (natal Jupiter) on this Jupiter-ruled day.

So successful was the escape route that more than a thousand soldiers, airmen and refugees, were passed over the Pyrenees into Spain under the noses of the German forces, the Gestapo, the Vichy police, and the frontier guards. The Basque guides—who alone could render the feat possible—would not listen to any proposal from anyone to guide refugees over the Pyrenees, unless they were authenticated by Georgette. So the Deuxieme Bureau (the French Scotland Yard) who wanted to pass selected men of their own, were forced to come to Georgette to seek her aid. This was a fact which gave Georgette a chance to bargain with them. She agreed to pass their men through into Spain provided that they for their part agreed to organise the escape of her father from the Military prison in which he was incarcerated under sentence of death.

On Thursday, December 24th, 1942, Georgette had the audacity to present herself at the Military prison near Perigeux, armed with a forged warrant and papers authorising her to visit her father. In that way she was able to give him an indication that his escape from prison had

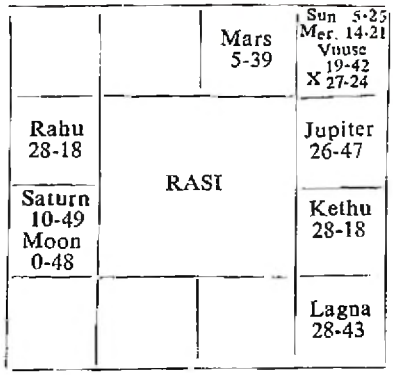
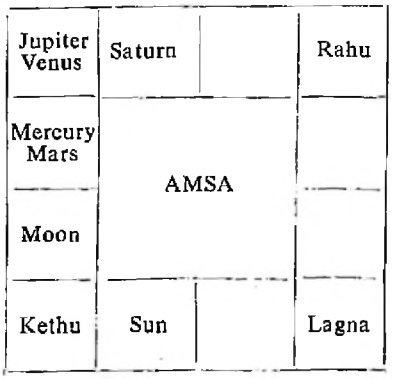
Effects of Old Planets

BY B. M. SIVARAMIAH

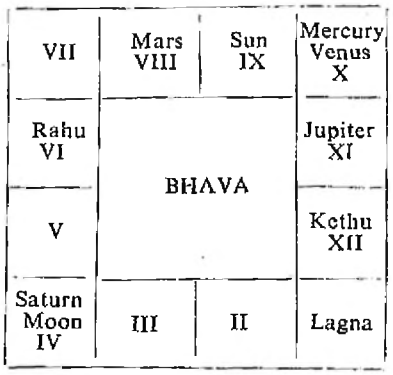
THIS is an answer to the article on "Effects of New Planets" by Rao Saheb K. Gopalakrishnamacharya that has appeared in August 1958 number of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE at Pp. 757, wherein the learned writer has lucidly discussed the astrological cause for the failure of the marriage of an educated and employed comely lady, and ably shown how the presence of the new planets, Neptune and Uranus (extra-Saturnines) is of much consequence indeed, as illustrated by the lady's horoscope.



As we know, these planets are foreign to our ancient Astrology which depends only on our usual 9 planets (intra-Saturnines) as encompassing and influencing all the results or effects of worldly life, for astrological investigations, ignoring the more distant, scarcely visible, lethargic celestials, the 'New' planets, however huge they may be far there, as of little consequence.



The learned writer has put up both the Nirayana and the Sayana charts for the lady, and a Solar Return for 1957, and given a comparative study of them and drawn his conclusion—that the 'New' planets only could make possible the break of marriage almost settled, and that without them we have no indication for the frustration encountered from amongst the old school of planets.



The Rao Saheb may be right, but still I have wondered and worried myself whether the 'old' planetary system by itself has not been sufficient to indicate this 'break' effect, and whether we have not got clues enough in the old Nirayana chart only for shrewdly finding this mishap to occur, inspite of satanic Uranus and Neptune lurking behind! I am only a (hobbyist) student of astrology, and I cannot match the high intellect of the Rao Saheb, and I wish an abler pen had handled this controversy than my humble self, but still I shall endeavour to give only a plain and simple study of the sufficiency of the intra-Saturnine planets to influence all our life matters, taking up the very example of this lady's case.

Making use of the Nirayana birth chart of the lady as given by Sri K.G.K. Acharya, I have herewith given the Rasi, the Navamsa, and the Bhava charts for her, and tried to show from them that this 'break' could be seen without the aid of the so-called new planets.

Be it noted, however, I am writing more for students of astrology like me than for its masters, and my treatment will be easy and fundamental so as to be followed by all, and not expert. So, some latitude has to be allowed me if I am a little elementary in my hypothesis.

Born in the constellation of Uttarashada, the balance of Sun's Dasa at birth is given as 4 years, 4 months and 17 days. It is said that it was during the sub-period of Jupiter in Rahu Dasa, the question of marriage cropped up with a proper groom, almost settled, and mutual correspondence went on for nearly 6 months in furtherance of the fixture, and that the marriage was almost in sight. But suddenly and unexpectedly, it is said, the would-be bridegroom wrote curtly and cancelled the engagement on a trifling pretext, as soon as Saturn's sub-period ushered in at the heels of the Jupiter Bhukthi. Exalted Jupiter, lord of 7, brought in a good chance for the woman during his Bhukthi, says the writer, but 'strong' Saturn spoiled the whole thing. He also hints that very probably Jupiter being Shadashtaka with the Dasa lord Rahu, the good effect became infructuous, and leaves it there to proceed on his case for the 'New' planets. He has also doubted the appropriateness of applying the Vimshottari Dasa in preference to Shatabdika (as per Parasara) since this is a case of Vargottama Lagna native. But the Vimshottari system being in vogue and found satisfactory generally all over India let us see if on the premises laid down there is any necessity to call in the new planets to explain the sad frustration effect

Rahu, Jupiter and Saturn are the planets concerned in this affair, as also Mars (lord of VIII), Moon (dispositor of Jupiter, and associate of Saturn), Venus (marriage-maker), and Mercury (lord of Lagna as well as associate of Venus). We have ample directions in our astrology to evaluate the influence or power of these planets under Shadbala, Shadvarga, Ashtakavarga, Tarabala, etc., tabulate and compute them to see what each planet can or cannot do for the native in a certain circumstance. It is for us, as the necessity of the case dictates, to enter into and see on all these tests, or any one or two of them. I do not propose to enlarge on, or worry the reader on the details of all these, which interested reader can work out for himself, but I will confine myself to a line sufficient for the point raised, leaving the rest for others to fill. Herewith I give a table of the star value (Tarabala) of these 7 planets for comparison at a glance :—

Planet	Star position	Star lord	Tarabala
Rahu	Purvabhadra	Jup.	Pratyak
Jup.	Aslesha	Mer.	Nidhana
Saturn	Sravana	Moon	Sampath
Moon	Uttarashada	Sun	Janma
Mars	Krittika	Sun	do.
Venus	Aridra	Rahu	Kshema
Mer.	Aridra	Rahu	do.

From this, it can be seen that as both Rahu and Jupiter are under malefic star influence (with reference to the birth star) at their very inception, Rahu Dasa Guru Bhukthi itself is not a fruitful period for the native. The Dasa lord is in an unfavourable constellation (pratyak or upsetting) governed by Jupiter, the bhukthi lord, who is himself in a very bad star influence (Nidhana or death), governed by Mercury, Lagna lord, himself governed by Rahu again. The vicious circle of influence is at once seen here 'debilitating', our exalted Jupiter! Besides the Shadashtaka (6-8) as between the Dasa and Bhukthi lords, Rahu and Jupiter, there is Dwirdwadasa (2-12) between Jupiter, Bhukthi lord, and if we only remember that marriage is in question now, both Mercury and Venus being ruled by the vily Rahu once again. In addition, Mars (lord of VIII), who is in Saturn's amsa ruled by Sun it may be noted, is throwing his wicked glances on Jupiter and as lord of VIII from VIII, also both in the Lagna and navamsa charts he is a powerful malefic for the native. And last, though not the least, there is Shadashtaka (6-8) as between Jupiter, lord of VII in XI and Moon lord of XI in IV and Saturn lord of VI who is in Mars' amsa, and in the nakshatra ruled by Moon, have both gone over to IV house in the Bhava, the house of domestic happiness, if we only remember happiness by marriage is also in question. All this internal trouble was there and more!

Hence it was all an 'abortive' attempt—this marriage business—and it would not have ensured long or happily to the native's benefit even if it had hastened to materialise, as lord of VII Jupiter is not quite well placed in the chart, governed as he is by Mercury his enemy in X, and though exalted in rasi he has fallen and begun to rise again (see navamsa). In my own experience a planet, especially Jupiter, is better when he is approaching his exaltation than when he has passed it. I have a planet (Saturn) both exalted and retrograde in my chart in XI and in Nidhana (death) and a Jupiter approaching exaltation, but not exalted, and in Nidhana too, and I know how they have been useful to me. I have another planet (Sun) passed exaltation, but in Kshema (safety) and so a little bit better. I cannot forget my experience.

In this we cannot but perceive that just as Saturn in the amsa of Mars has tried to reach and encompass the IV and affect the IV house of happiness, and if Saturn has dulled it Mars has embittered it. (Compare Rasi and Bhava positions of Saturn and Mars in respect to IV). There is a sort of mutuality or exchange aspect between Mars and Saturn (for doing evil) in this horoscope, and they have vied with each other.

Under these circumstances, the affairs of VII (marriage) have been spoiled, but my own feeling is that as Moon and Saturn, governed by Moon, in Sampath (wealth) constellation, both in the IV house aspected by Venus and Mercury, both in the Kshema (safety) constellation from the X house (suggesting her vocational position has something to do with her marital happiness—it was interference by Saturn once, it may help by Moon another time) it was after all for her good in the end. Fortunately there is no mutual (4-10) aspect between Mars and Saturn here. In my humble opinion, Rahu Dasa Venus subperiod may be a more favourable period for marriage for the native (note Venus with Jupiter in VII in navamsa, with Mercury, lord of Lagna, in Bhava X aspected by Moon, the dis-

The Question of Considering Herschel and Neptune

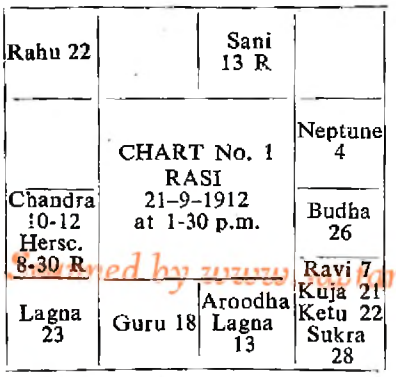
BY S. S. PENDHARKAR

THERE has been apparent, of late, a growing tendency on the part of certain followers of Hindu predictive astrology to include for purposes of prediction, the recently discovered planets Herschel and Neptune. They assert that, if Hindu astrology is to keep pace with the rapidly progressing world, old prejudices must be cast off. They seem to have strong reasons to believe that both Herschel and Neptune play important roles in the lives of human beings. On the other hand, orthodox Hindu astrologers show a marked unwillingness to consider the alleged importance of these planets and with equal force assert, that it is not given to either Herschel or Neptune to control any part of human destiny. In view of this tug-of-war it become necessary to put the whole matter to a searching and critical examination. We shall begin with a revision of the nature and significations of the planets, Herschel and Neptune and then, with the aid of a few actual charts decide upon the justification of considering these planets as factors influencing human affairs.

I am fully aware of the fact that a few examples are not enough to establish the truth or otherwise of an important rule. But I am sure that the examples such as I have chosen will at least aid some clarification and better understanding of our problem if not complete solution or enlightenment. In fact this article does not seek in the least, to pronounce judgment on the issue. It's role is less authoritative inasmuch as it seeks to place before the readers the mass of evidence on either side of the question and leaving them to arrive at their own conclusions in the light of such observations as the author deems it fit to make from time to time.

The nature of Herschel is said to be eccentric, electric and changeable. It represents abruptness, originality, genius and subtlety of idea, being the higher octave of Mercury. Some authors for instance Alan Leo, regard it as the essence of all planets. All that is unlimited and unbound is said to come under his dominant influence and sudden events of a catastrophic nature are attributed to him. With him it is the unexpected that always happens. The generality of authors give the position of this planet by house, predominance over his position by sign, though of course he is said to own Aquarius and to be well placed in the other two airy signs. As for aspects to Herschel the inharmonious aspects such as the square, the opposition, and the conjunction of the Moon and the Sun are said to be unfavourable as regards health and longevity and may cause accidents to the body of the person. He is said to make astrologers, airmen, electricians and antiquarians.

The planet Neptune is said to be moist in nature. He has largely to do with the psychic and the emotional sides of human nature. He is said to make the native amiable and good natured but the native is liable to be irresolute and inclined to shrink from responsibilities. Some are inclined to the view that he affects the subconscious mind rather than actual physical events. He is said to be well placed in Cancer and Pisces. But he is generally regarded to be a malefic unless well fortified. The inharmonious aspects to him of the Sun and the Moon are not conducive to firmness of character or balance of mind.



Our revision having concluded we shall examine a few actual charts to see how far the influence of these planets is actually felt. We must however bear in mind that some of the results attributed to Herschel are also attributed to Mars and Saturn in Hindu astrology. Similarly each of the planets Venus, Kethu and the Moon is said to produce some of the results attributed to Neptune. Since we are concerned only with the question of the advisibility of considering Herschel and Neptune for purposes of prediction based on the Nirayana system the horoscopes used for examination must be Nirayana. The value of the Ayanamsa used by me is the one adopted by Prof. B. V. Raman. For the present at least the aspects to these two planets to be employed must perforce be those used in Western astrology. I propose to deal first of all with the part these planets are said to play in matters of health and longevity.

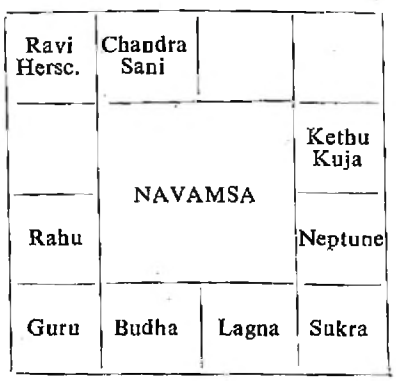


Chart No. 1 is a case of still birth. The birth time is correct since the birth took place in a hospital. This chart has been taken from the late Sri V. G. Nawathe's Jathaka Sangraha. I have converted the original Sayana chart into a Nirayana one.

A still birth is an occurrence both rare and catastrophic and as such absolutely in keeping with the bizarre nature of Herschel. In fact this is a fit case for Herschel if ever there was one. Neptune should also be expected to play a major role. We must pause here and reconsider the questions we are called upon to answer to justify the inclusion of Herschel and Neptune. The two questions are (1) whether the inclusion of these planets enables one to account for the strangeness of the incident, and (2) whether their exclusion denies one an access to the knowledge of this catastrophe. For the claim for inclusion of these planets, can be justified only when it is established beyond reasonable doubt that their exclusion would mean the loss of a definite clue to the nature of the incident. Let us now look at Chart No. 1. The Moon is conjunct Herschel and both are in opposition to Neptune. Apparently the claim seems to be justified. I say apparently because, there is a hitch. For how does Herschel indicate the birth of a dead child by occupying either Capricorn or the junction of 1st and 2nd houses? And again how does Neptune indicate the same by occupying the 8th house? It is of course held by certain authors in the West that the inharmonious aspects between the Moon and Herschel, the Moon and Neptune and Herschel and Neptune are not conducive to either physical or mental soundness and may indicate a catastrophe. It occurs to me that as these aspects take place over the 2nd and the 8th, one the house of death and the other the house of longevity. They should be construed to affect the longevity adversely and also to cause strange and sudden death. This argument is atleast sensible. But what about the aspects to the Sun? He has no inharmonious aspects according to the western system. Mars is far away and out of conjunctional orb. Let us now see what difference their exclusion makes. Lord of lagna Guru is in the 12th aspected by malefic Sani. Lagna point is powerfully aspected by another malefic Mars. The Sun Thanukaraka is in association with Mars, Kethu and Venus (neecha) the lord of the 6th. Sukra is also the Atmakaraka besides being the lord of the 6th and in deep debility without neechabhanga. The Dasa at birth is that of Moon the 8th lord. The birth is in a Nakshatra sandhi. In the navamsa, Venus the lord of Lagna is in debility in the 12th. Lagna is aspected by Saturn and Mars both in debility while Moon is with debilitated Sani and aspected by Guru the lord of 3 and 6. Considered from Aroodha Lagna which is 13° Thula, lord of lagna Venus is in debility in the 12th in association with three first class malefics. Guru lord of 3 (longevity), is in the 2nd (house of death). Sukra lord of 8th (longevity) is in 12th (house of loss). Any astrologer of some standing would concur that the child will die immediately if it is not already dead. The question now is: does either Herschel or Neptune or do both of them together improve in any way the judgment based on a system that excludes them? I leave the answer to the intelligent reader with a request that he or she weigh the mass of evidence on either side and arrive at his or her own conclusions. We shall now go over to Chart No. 2 which is that of Mr. P.B. Shelley the great English poet. This chart is even better suited for our purpose than Chart No. 1. Sukra the 6th lord is with Ravi the lord of body and Herschel and all of them are in exact degree conjunction right over the 8th cusp. All the three are quincunx to Moon. Shelley was drowned in the sea at the early age of thirty as a result of a boat disaster. As expected Herschel has brought upon sudden and accidental death by his conjunction with the Sun on the 8th cusp and his quincunx position with the Moon. The cause of death, viz., drowning is also explained by the disposition of the Sun and Herschel in the watery sign of Cancer. Neptune's association with Jupiter the ascendant lord and Mars a malefic in opposition to Saturn adversely affected the longevity. Let us now see what we learn if we drop out Herschel and Neptune. Ravi the Thanukaraka who is also the Atmakarka (he is actually 35 minutes ahead of Sukra) is on the 8th cusp with Sukra the lord of 6th in a watery sign. Guru occupies the same degree as Kuja and both are aspected by Sani. Mutual aspects between Sani and Kuja indicate catastrophe. From Chandra Lagna, lord of Lagna Sani is in debility though with neechabhanga in the 3rd house. Chandra the 6th lord is in lagna. Ravi the body indicator and Atmakaraka is in 6th. Budha the 8th lord aspects lagna. The accidental nature of death is indicated by mutual aspects between Moon the 6th lord and Mercury the 8th lord. I shall again leave the conclusion to the reader. For my part I am inclined to the view that at least so far as the question of health and longevity is concerned Herschel and Neptune can be of some help only to the followers of the western system of prediction. They are superfluous to the system of Nirayana Hindu Predictive Astrology. The reason is very simple. The western system lays great emphasis on the natural significations (Naisargika Karakatwa) of the planets; leaving out their temporal significations due to theis various lordships of houses. In short the western system does not take into consideration the Bhavesh Phalam, i.e., results accruing from the lordships of the planets. This deficiency may be said to be supplemented by Herschel and Neptune.

In this connection it will be interesting to study Chart No. 3. This is the chart of the late

Pandit Ishwarchandra Vidyasagar the great social and educational reformer of Bengal. Here Herschel and Neptune are in conjunction and Herschel is right on the lagna point. Both Herschel and Neptune are quincunx to Moon while Neptune is square Mercury and the Sun. Herschel is also square Mercury. Both Herschel & Neptune are in a fiery sign (even according to Sayana) uncongenial to their nature. We now come to another aspect of life which these planets are said to influence, viz., mental stability and the working of the mind. In Mr. C.E.O. Carter's opinion the Herschel-Neptune conjunction makes the native "self-willed and frequently extremely able", though he says nothing about their effects on health or longevity. But it is normal to expect that natural malefics as they are, they should influence both the health and the longevity of the native adversely when occupying the Bhava Madhya of lagna in an uncongenial sign. Add to this their quincunx to the Moon their square to Mercury the planet of intellect and Neptune's square to the Sun the Thanukaraka and we have the picture of a person extremely intelligent but self-willed, perverted in views and cynical. Health and longevity also cannot be expected to be above average. The fact is that Pandit Vidyasagar lived upto the age of 71, was a man of simple habits, cool and clear thinking, deep understanding of all matters and sober views, though a reformer. I do not intend to impose upon the reader my conclusions. I shall only say that the followers of the Hindu system of predictive astrology can make proper use of Herschel and Neptune in predictions but certainly not in the same manner as that of the westerners. I assert, inspite of the contentions of certain adepts to the contrary, that both Herschel & Neptune can be exploited to help us in a finer and greater understanding of a chart. But at the same time I do not think that we are poorer without them. The two statements are neither inconsistent nor contradictory. They simply mean that those of us who do not possess much intuition and find it difficult to solve the numerous problems of a native's life with the aid of only ten planets (the Saptagrahas, the nodes and Gulika)can bestow consideration on Herschel & Neptune with some profit. In my next article I propose to enquire into the alleged influence of Herschel & Neptune over certain other affairs of life, viz., marital happiness, intellectual ability, financial status, etc., and also to place before the readers certain rules formulated by me for rendering the services of Herschel & Neptune available for purposes of prediction to the followers of the system of Nirayana Hindu Astrology.

NOTABLE HOROSCOPES

By B. V. RAMAN

A reliable guide to Practical Astrology

This does not contain startling predictions and amazing forecasts. But it is the product of investigations and studies by the Author presented here in an orderly and specific form but in simple language easily understandable by the average readers.

One is born a beggar but becomes a ruler. One is born a ruler but becomes a begger, How and Why? What combinations make one a Scientist, Physicist, Chemist, Botanist, Poet, Politician, Statesman, Artist, Murderer, Dissimulator, etc.

Though several circumstances are the same for the rich and the poor alike, there will be certain astrological peculiarities in Notable Horoscopes (e.g., Tagore, Nehru, Hitler, C. R. Das, Prof. Rao, Einstein, etc.) which are easily discernible and a careful study of which would enable one to acquire that practical knowledge and experience which is otherwise impossible.

This work shows that birth date and time are of supreme importance as determining not only character but also eventful periods of life.

The book contains the horoscopes of notable persons—their birth data, planetary positions, Dasas and Bhukthis in which important events have taken place in their lives. Then the various combinations which have produced different types of great men are carefully analysed with a view to showing to the readers, the practical application of Raja Yogas, Daridra Yogas and the like. The book also demonstrates the truth of Vimshottari Dasa.

SOME OF THE HOROSCOPES CONTAINED IN THE BOOK

Sri Krishna, Adi-Sankara, Akbar, Alexander, Gautama Buddha, Jesus Christ, Prophet Mahomed, Augustus, Goethe, Aurangzeb, Gandhi, Ramakrishna Paramahamsa, Vivekananda, Tilak, B. Suryanarain Rao, Aurobindo Ghose, Ramana Maharshi, Sri Thyagaraja, Sri Vidyaranya, Rabindranath Tagore, Hitler, Mussolini, Abraham Lincoln, Subhas Bose, Jagadish Bose, Milton, Savarkar, Annie Besant, Bernard Shah, Godse, Stalin, Nehru, Eisenhower, Maotse-Tung, C. R. Das, Ashutosh Mukherjee, Sree Chaitanya, Karl Marx, Nero, Duke of Windsor, etc.

And also horoscopes illustrative of extreme religiousness, suicidal tendencies and certain other definite traits.

Astrology as a Practical Science

BY K. S. GOPALAN

MY interest in Astrology dates back to the year 1921 when I was nine years old. A Sadhu (mendicant) appeared in front of the post office at which my father was a postmaster. Pointing out to me, the Sadhu exclaimed!—"This boy will be brought up by his maternal uncle". Pointing out to my brother, he uttered!—"This boy will have two wives; I can say this from the way he is blinking". Referring to my sister who was of marriageable age at that time and inspite of vigorous efforts, no suitable bridegroom could be found, the Sadhu said: "Go eastward and within a few miles, you will get a husband for her". Referring to my mother, the Sadhu predicted that she would unexpectedly get a new house to live in and also two thousand rupees. To my father he remarked: "White ants are going to eat away the main rafter of the house". No questions were put to him to elicit the above answers. For all these predictions, he wanted to be paid only a quarter anna (2 naya Paise in present coinage) which was paid and he gladly accepted.

As there was no high school in those days in the town in which my father was a postmaster, I was sent to my uncle's house at District headquarters for my further studies. My sister could get a husband from the very direction pointed out by the Sadhu within a few miles. My school master gave some examples of how to use the words 'no sooner' 'as soon as' and 'immediately after' and the examples were as follows:

"As soon as I heard the telegram, I wept aloud. No sooner I heard the telegram I wept aloud. Immediately after I heard the telegram, I wept aloud". I was reciting these examples in my study at night and they were ringing in my ears and vibrating. Next morning, a telegram was received intimating my father's death. "Coming events cast their shadows before". The Sadhu's prediction of the 'main rafter of the house, viz., my father being the main rafter (support) of the house being eaten away, like white ants eating away the rafter, was fulfilled. Soon after my father's death, my maternal grandfather built a new house at his village and settled my mother and other family members there. My mother also received on my father's death a sum of Rs. 2,000 insured by my father. I, however, continued to reside with my uncle.

When I finished my scholastic career, I used to spend my time in pursuit of astrology, which is a hobby with me. My brother was married to a relative girl. Her sister was also of marriageable age and the mother of the girl put the question to me when she would be married and what sort of husband she would get. After having a look at the horoscope of the girl, I predicted that she would be married as a second wife but the husband would be quite a young man and there would not be much difference in age between the two. Exactly as I predicted, she was married as a second wife and the husband was not much older than the girl. The husband was no other person than my own brother whose first wife died 3 years after marriage. The Sadhu's prediction of my brother having two wives (Dwikalatra Yogam) and my prediction of the girl becoming the second wife and that too to a young man had coincided and proved cent per cent true.

I give predictions free of charge to those who come to me but as for myself, I consult competent astrologers in the field. One of the astrologers in Andhra, a professional, of course, whom I consulted regarding my marriage wrote to me that 'marriage will not be early or easy but you will ultimately be married in your 26th year and you will gain socially and financially through your marriage'. When this prediction was made, I was only 22 years old but my marriage was settled and the date also fixed. I was about to write to the astrologer that I was going to be married in my 22nd year and not in 26th year as predicted by him and his prediction was bogus but before I could do so, a telegram was received stating that my marriage was postponed. Ultimately, I was married in my 26th year as predicted by the astrologer but to a different girl and I gained socially and financially through that marriage. My wife's gold ring was missing from the house. The astrologer whom I consulted told me that the maid servant of the house (he gave description of age, colour, etc., of the said servant and the fact of her being a virgin (Kanya)) had stolen the ring and hidden it behind the threshold of the backyard of the house and if tackled gently, the ring would be delivered. Accordingly, she was tackled and she removed the ring from the very spot pointed out by the astrologer and returned the ring to me.

One of my nephews, a B.Sc. has no belief in astrology. To make him believe in it, I predicted that his wife was going to

Be Weather-Wise

BY K. SREENIVASIAH

MUCH old weather lore is reliable; the winds, the clouds and other physical manifestations are indeed the true weather prophets of Nature.

The weather lore associated with the colours of the sky, for instance. A red sky at the time of sunset is caused by dust particles in the atmosphere, which scatter light. There can be a large number of dust particles in the atmosphere only if the weather is dry. A dull, grey sky, on the other hand, can occur only if the air is moisture-laden. Hence a red sky at the time of sunset is generally taken to indicate dry weather coming on from the west, and a grey sky to indicate bad weather. In the same way extreme visibility is an indicator of rain.

Sky colours

What weather lore has to say about the sky colours is as good as our modern knowledge of the phenomena.

Evening red and morning grey
Help the traveller on his way.
Evening grey and morning red
Bring down rain upon his head.

Of course these sayings depend for their value on the direction in which the traveller is travelling.

As a result of systematic study a number of rules have come to be formulated regarding the significance of the sky colours. A red sunrise is said to indicate rain or snow within 24 hours seven times out of ten; a red sunset at least 24 hours of fair weather two times out of three. A pale yellow sky in winter is again said to forecast a 60% risk of rain within 24 hours.

The weather lore associated with the colours of the moon is also of some value.

Pale moon doth rain,
Red moon doth blow,
White moon doth neither rain nor snow.

And:

If the moon show a silver shield
Be not afraid to reap your field;
But if she rises haloed round
Soon we'll tread on deluged ground.

A white moon and the moon with a silver shield are common phenomena on dry cloudless nights. But what is a pale or a haloed moon due to? It is a meteorological fact that the presence of cirrostratus clouds often makes the moon look pale or haloed. Cirrostratus clouds run ahead of a depression. A red moon frequently shows high humidity in the atmosphere, a condition that often prevails prior to wind and rain.

Cloud forms

Clouds are perhaps the truest weather indicators. It is said that there are more reliable cloud rules than pressure rules. You find the sky threatening, and it does often rain. Similarly the promise of fine weather generally comes true when it is indicated by white fleecy clouds.

The presence of cirrus clouds often implies a depression, associated with wind. In the popular lore cirrus is referred to as mares' tails, fillies' tails, the scratchings of a hen, the painter's brush, etc. The sayings about it are of some value:

Hens' scarts and filly tails
Make lofty ships carry low sails.

Again:

Trace in the sky the painter's brush:
The winds around you soon will rush.

If there are cirrostratus clouds in the sky sometimes haloes are formed round the sun and moon. Cirrostratus clouds are composed of ice particles, and the haloes round the sun and moon are formed when their light is refracted by the ice-crystals. The presence of cirrostratus clouds is a fairly sure sign of rain associated with an active depression. The weather lore associated with the haloes of the sun and moon has some truth.

When the sun is in his house it will rain soon,

And

The moon with a circle brings water in her beak.

According to the weather experts the probability of rain is greater after the halo is seen than before; the probability is greater in winter than in summer; the brighter the halo the greater the risk of rain; and the bigger the ring the nearer the rain.

One expert concludes: "As a rough rule you can reckon that there is a two to one chance of rain occurring within 12 or 18 hours of the appearance of the halo."

Plants and birds

Certain plants, birds and insects are also excellent prophets. It is also common experience that table salt cakes, soot gets heavier and starts to fall, seawood looks wet, ropes tauten and the hair becomes unruly when the air becomes muggy, indicating the approach of a warm front.

The Nine Evil Periods

THESE are to be strictly avoided for all Muhurthas.

(a) Mandi

Jet black, long and lanky, in the form of a serpent, having five faces with re-hue eyes and protruding, curved, thick teeth, ruthless and extremely ferocious, iniquitous and vile, viciously sinful, striking terror and dismay is Mandi, the son of Saturn, the causer of death and fear.

This Mandi rules over certain hours of the day and night which are to be studiously avoided for all functions.

Days of the week	Rising Time of Mandi Day	Night
Sun.	10 hrs. 24 mts.	4th hr.
Mon.	8 hrs. 48 mts.	2 hrs. 24 mts.
Tues.	7 hrs. 12 mts.	48th mt.
Wed.	5 hrs. 36 mts.	10 hrs. 24 mts.
Thurs.	4th hr.	8 hrs. 48 mts.
Fri.	2 hrs. 24 mts.	7 hrs. 12 mts.
Sat.	48th mt.	5 hrs. 36 mts.

The above are Mandi periods for days and nights of equal lengths. The exact periods are to be found out by calculation based on the times of sunrise and sunset for each day.

Divide the daytime into eight equal parts. The first part is ruled by the planet owning the week day. The seven other parts are governed by the owners of the other week days in order. Thus the planet dominating the first division will again come to rule the eighth division. In the same way if the night time is divided into eight equal parts the ruler of the first portion will be the lord of the fifth week day counted from the owner of that day. The portions of the day and night that fall under Saturn's rule are termed as the periods of Mandi. There are also other different opinions current regarding the period of Mandi.

This rising time of Mandi is considered good for storage of grains, smearing medicated oil on the body to cure rheumatism, etc., commencing harvests, starting trade and mercantile activities, repayment of loans, beginning treatment of diseases, fixing pillars and doorways of buildings and for the ceremony of bringing the new crop of the year into the house.

(b) Vishti

The following are the Vishti periods on the different lunar days :

4th day after the N. Moon		2nd half
8th day	,,	1st half
11th day	,,	2nd half
Full Moon day		1st half
3rd day after the F. Moon		2nd half
7th day	,,	1st half
10th day	,,	2nd half
14th day	,,	1st half

Eight kinds of Vishtis are named by Sripathi.

One hour and twelve minutes towards the end of the Vishti period are to be avoided for all Muhurthas. (Opinions differ widely on this Vishti period also. According to one school of thought Vishti falls on the former halves of the fourth and eleventh lunar days after the new Moon and on the latter halves of the full Moon and the eighth lunar days. On the third and tenth lunar days after the full Moon Vishti occurs during the first halves and during the second halves on the seventh and fourteenth).

(c) Visha Ghatikas (the poisonous parts of constellations), (d) Ushna Sikhas (the unsuitably hot portions of asterisms),(e) Argala, (f) Sarpamasthaka, (g) Lata and Vaidhrita (caused by the Sun and the Moon) are also to be avoided for all Muhurthas

(Any good almanac will give the above periods.)

(i) Gandantha

The last twenty four minutes of the signs Cancer, Scorpio and Pisces, and the first twenty-four minutes of Aries, Leo and Sagittarius are termed Rasi Gandanthas. A period of one hour and twelve minutes towards the ends of the fifth, tenth and fifteenth lunar days and the beginnings of the first, sixth and eleventh lunar days is termed as Thithi Gandanthas. Two hours each towards the end of Aslesha, Jyeshta and Revati and at the commencement of Aswini, Makha and Moola are known as Nakshatra Gandanthas.

Scanned by www.saptharishisastrology.com To Preserve Dr B V Ramans Work

These Gandantha periods are quite inauspicious for all Muhurthas.

The rising sign should be free from all sorts of evil influences mentioned above. The whole of the sign is to be avoided for all auspicious functions in which Mandi, Visha and Ushna affect the latter half.

If these affect at the commencement of a sign the portion of the sign after the poisonous moments can be taken for Muhurthas.

Only the exact periods of Sarpamasthaka, Gandantha, Ekargala and Vishti are unsuitable for Muhurthas in a sign. Other degrees of the sign unaffected by any of these are good.

The constellation affected by the middle portion of Lata or Vaidhrita is also to be entirely avoided.

The evil effects of Mandi need not be taken into account if the conceive shortly and give birth to a girl. He retorted that he would see that his wife did not conceive. As predicted, his wife conceived and gave birth to a female child. When I pointed out to him about the correctness of my prediction, he said: "It is a usual thing for a newly married couple to produce children" but he had conveniently forgotten his bet that his wife would not conceive.

A friend of mine who was issueless wanted to know when he would get a child. I told him that he was not destined to be blessed with a child. He said that a professional astrologer had told him that he would get an issue in his 45th year and I told him that my reading was different. He is past 48 and still without issue.

My grandfather on my wife's side is a veteran amateur astrologer and he predicted at the time of my marriage that my horoscope was so good that my rise in profession would be by leaps and bounds with increments of 50 rupees at each stage of promotion and his prediction had come true. He also told me that pinning his faith in astrology and the bright future shown by my horoscope, he selected my horoscope for my marriage with his grand-daughter as he was sure that I would rise far above the sphere of life into which I was born.

The above instances in real life are enough to establish that the science of astrology is not false. No rhetorical or theoretical explanations are required to vindicate the cause of astrology and to repudiate the defamations on the astrological science by those who have no faith in it. The proof of the pudding is in the eating and practical examples of predictions having come true ought to be enough to dispel the doubts of doubting Thomases and Bhides regarding the part played by astrology in human life.

its petals are closed during the daytime, it is found to "betoken rain and foul weather; contrariwise, if they be spread abroad, fair weather." The daisy and the chickweed behave in a similar way to the rise and fall of humidity in the atmosphere. The main part of the "everlasting flower" remains pointed to the direction in which the damp air blows.

"When the swallows fly high the weather is going to remain beautiful; when they fly close to the ground a change can be expected." This is generally found to be true. Swallows eat insects which they catch in the air. When the weather is fair the insects fly fairly high; when the air cools off, indicating a cold front bringing rain, the insects come down to take shelter in their hideouts. The swallows in order to catch the insects also come down to low levels.

Aches and pains

Some of the aches and pains that human flesh is heir to are correlated with the humidity of the air.

Old sinners have all points
O' the compass in their bones and joints.

Someone has referred to the "torpid liver and inflammatory rheumatism as the most insistent weather prophets known to suffering mortals."

Physicians have found physiological causes for the pain felt in old scars and fractures at changes of the weather. Healthy tissue reacts to the humidity of the air. If this reaction is interrupted by old scars, a specification may result.

Nearly as good

Most of the weather rule based on thunder and the rainbow are also accepted as generally true.

Thunder in spring
Cold will bring.

And

Rainbow in the morning, sailors take warning;
Rainbow at night, sailors delight.

In default of instruments and meteorological departments man in former times relied on weather lore for his weather knowledge and guidance. Modern science has shown that much of the weather lore is as good as the instruments and the departments.

DEPARTURE OF
Prof. B. V. RAMAN
TO NEW YORK.

(By Rambler)

THE Local Press of Bangalore and Outside have already reported in full about the departure of your distinguished Editor, Prof. B. V. Raman, to the United States of America and Europe. As one who has been an invitee to all the functions associated with the departure of Sri B. V. Raman to U.S.A., I will be failing in my duty, if I did not press and compel you to publish Staff participations. The Staff was not behind with the other friends and admirers in feeling proud of the unique distinction conferred on the Editor, B. V. Raman, as the Vice-President of the International Congress of Astro-Science.

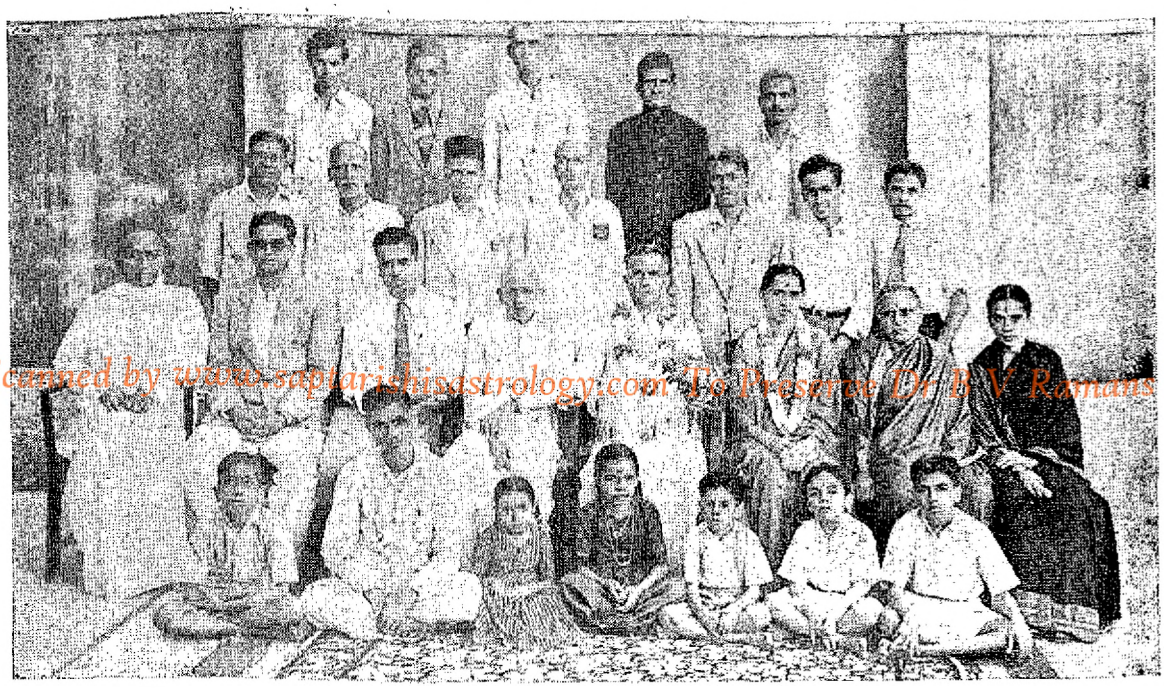
With characteristic humility, the competent and efficient staff of Raman Publications & Press has echoed the sentiments expressed by other eminent persons in the field of Hindu Astrology. In fact, they have summed up his services to Hindu Astrology in their Bon-Voyage Address as under :

"More competent and learned people than our humble selves like Andhra Sammelana, Kerala Astrological Conference, Graha Nakshatra Phaladesh Sanshodhan Mandal, in paying eloquent tributes to your god-fearing nature, compassion for the suffering, high literary gifts, have publicly acknowledged your unrivalled authority and unequalled services in the field of Hindu Astrology".

Prof. B. V. Raman suitably acknowledged the willing co-operation of the members of the staff and expressed his gratitude to them.



Departing is always associated with mixed feelings. There is a feeling of joy for the honour and pain for the momentary seperation. This is illustrated by the three group photos, which I importune you to publish in your esteemed journal.

Pandit Nehru—A Numerological Study

BY EDWIN H. ALEXANDER

IT was astrologically predicted long ago that India would become a World Power of the future, that in Europe, the Conservatives would become more liberal and that the Democrats would turn more to the right. Recently, I have calculated many Numeroscopes, for the Indian University students here in London, and am deeply impressed, and also somewhat disturbed at their potency, and superior indications, in contrast to European charts, which are either difficult of judgment or feeble. National Karma, manifests itself through individual Karma. I point this out, because India's first Prime Minister, who is not favourably disposed to Astrology, and its kindred subjects, may be interested to learn that his name and birth date are not devoid of Kabalistic and theosophical significance. The generally accepted birth date of Pandit Nehru, is Thursday, 14th November 1889, Allahabad, India. The son of a wealthy lawyer, and a Kashmiri Brahmin by caste, this statesman began life under the best advantages. In Pandit Nehru's case, it was necessary to calculate the name values, and combine them with the birth date. Two esoteric compounds were obtained from the birth-data, i.e., 15 and 33, the latter numeral repeating itself in the name of Jawaharlal, which shows courage; the name Nehru is pivotal. The inner urge ruler is 3; all aspects of the numerals cannot be given here; but on the constructive side indicates self-expression and talent; on the negative side, shows worry and disparagement. The personality number is 6, and one of its excellent indications is that the individual is deeply interested in home policies, and family, though, adversely points to false pride. The destiny number is the regent 9, and its government is over world travellers, ministers, lawyers and philanthropists. The compound from the birth date is interesting. Some Kabalists assign 15 on the material plane, to events which are predestined. The birth path ruler is the domestic number 6 governed by Venus. This figure places Pandit Nehru, alongside Abraham Lincoln and the Kaiser, whose life path it was. The first American and Nehru have the two best laws of correspondences, out of the three. It can be safely admitted that in their home policies they were on constructive ground.

In calculating the life data which was divided into three parts, i.e., major and minor Arcana, and Pivotal Pears, as many as 35 important years were revealed. Experience has proved that world conditions act as a pressure on the destiny. Only the most significant periods can be dealt with here. Biographers, who have stressed so much the year 1916, when Nehru married, and met Mahatma Gandhi fell into the minor arcana, and is therefore not quite as important, as historians would have us believe, but it was the year 1919 which is the strongest of all, and epochal. In 1929 Pandit Nehru became elected President of the Congress Party. This year appears in the pivot section, his successive elections in 1936 1937 and 1946, come up in the major and minor arcana respectively. Curiously the historical date 1947, when he became first Prime Minister of the New Dominion of India does not appear at all. The creation and bestowal of this office was—but putting on the chimney after the house had been built. As the natural law of periodicity is not shown, the destiny is directed from the outside. The birth took place in 1889—Universal Ruler Saturn in the heavy or major cycle of Mercury in Sagittarius—and is indicative that the mental determination would interest itself in commercial and industrial matters. The surprise of this study occurred in the working out of the pinnacles, which are excellently spaced and numbered. Here is the most significant answer to Nehru's success. The first pinnacle which is personal is governed by the numeral 7 and points to difficulties, introspection and spiritual and mental development, educational matters and specialisation. At 30 years of age in 1919, with a law of correspondence and age points that seem to show predestination, with an accurate fledging, his disposition well in hand, and the welfare of his people at heart, he embarked on his career, and entered his second pinnacle which was to last nine years until 1928. This era was ruled by the number 4, and placed Nehru on the square. It was a time of slow building, constant endeavour and service. The third spire, governed by the master numeral 11 (eleven) is indicative of fame, inspiration and the reaching for ideals. This pinnacle closed in 1937, in the year of Nehru's re-election as President of Congress. This year is also repeated in the Major Arcana. The last stage of the life's attainments is the best period, ruler 1, and lasts until close of life. In 1938 Pandit Nehru entered this pinnacle, and it gives opportunities to be at the head of things, an active time filled with changes.

The industrialisation of India, which is a policy of Pandit Nehru, is attracting world interest, and owing to their excellence Indian goods are well in demand especially in England. The commercialization of a nation will not make it a Utopia because, the businessman wants power and monopolies, therefore India could, quite within reasonable time, become a World Economic force from the outside, yet be torn with bitter feuds from the inside a common feature of business nations.

In the Decan of seven of Scorpio (20° to 29° 59′) of the Astro-Tarot in which Pandit Nehru is placed, its symbolical keynote is illusionary success. We all must hope and pray, that for the good of India, it will not strike a chord in the achievements of Pandit Nehru.

Dear Sir,—The books and the magazine articles are indeed interesting and fascinating. I am amazed to learn that this branch of science has been developed by the Hindus to such a high degree. May I congratulate Professor Raman on his concise and clear way of presenting this subject to the reader and student. Thank you.

Medical Astrology

Sir,—I am deeply interested in "Medical Astrology" in your June 1959 issue by Dr. Jagannatha Rao in which he discusses the astrological susceptibility of those who contract elephantiasis (also known as filariasis) as being governed by afflictions between Mercury (which governs nerves inter alia), Venus (which governs lymphatics inter alia) and Saturn (which governs connective and fibrous tissue, cold and—a fact which Dr. Rao apparently overlooked insects).

Malaria is also a disease of which an insect (the mosquito anopheles, female) is the host. It is therefore my idea that should your learned physicians be not too much prejudiced against astrology, they would find those most susceptible to malaria have Saturn afflicting Mars. We have a disease in the United States of America called "Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever" which first afflicted cattle, later mankind, which was found to be spread by a wood tick (Dermacentor venustis), a disease marked by chills, fevers, pains in the muscles and joints and eruptions of livid spots. It is possible that your eminent physician who understand astrology might (if this disease also exists in India) learn who is, and who is not, susceptible to this disease; Saturn, Mars and Venus again being involved but in a different way from both elephantiasis and malaria. As you know, malaria is caused by at least four varieties of the genus Plasmodium.

As you probably know, the laws of many States of the United States of America forbid the practice of astrology for gain or profit. Also, I believe that the laws of all States and Territories (including the District of Columbia) prohibit diagnosing diseases unless one is licensed to do so. To obtain such a license, one must attend college and then three years of medical school, where one is taught that astrology is a false science. The only physician licensed to practice in the United States of America who believes in astrology, and whom I have heard does believe in astrology as a means of diagnosing illnesses, is Dr. Wm. M. Davidson of Chicago, Illinois. He is often confused with a physician of the same name on our west coast.

Scanned by www.VedicAstrologyStudy.com To Preserve Vedic Knowledge

Dr. William J. Tucker's Astro-Medical Diagnosis has not to my knowledge been reviewed by the American Medical Association as promised me by its President (due to the fact, probably, that he does not understand astrology or does not believe it). But Dr. Tucker writes me that he is swamped with inquiries about diagnosing diseases which physicians cannot diagnose, as a result of his book; and that it is selling well, but not to physicians.

Astro-Phoebia

Sir,—The perfections of a Science are only known when we read its literature and apply its rules to the existing order of human relationship—vide Brihat Jataka translation by late Prof. B. Suryanarayana Rao, page 61 bottom. In a News Magazine issue of Saturday, May 2, 1959, it is published that the Chief Minister of Uttar Pradesh Dr.Sampurnanand "displayed courage when he maintained that there was nothing disreputable about astrology, the scientific study of which proved that 74 per cent of the predictions turned out correct". In this era of developing destructive weapons, a Government controlling the destiny of nations would do well to establish centres of learning for study of Jyotisha Shastra. Bangalore with its salubrious climate and far away from being influenced by political or other upheavals, should well prove suitable for the establishment of a Technical College in this science and the Editor of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE should guide the same as his experience would prove very valuable (vide page 29 of Brihat Jataka translation). One has to concur with the views of the contributor to THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE under the caption "When and How in Astrology—Page 743, December 1951 that "it behoves every sincere student of astrology, therefore, to strive to find the solution of this problem". Before expounding on the particular event of the marriage of a female referred to therein, it should be borne in mind very clearly :

Jyotisha Shastra is an exposition of the energising effects of planets. If it is stated that planets are acting it should be understood that their energising effects are meant.

Centuries back when communications were not so easy as we are now learning was transmitted by word of mouth and by scribes putting them on palm leaves or parchment.

Vakya Panchangas therefore are individualistic in nature due to the knowledge given us from one particular meridian centre. The variations noticed are not indicative of disruptions in planetary motions.

Our theory, backed by experience of centuries, is based on a fixed zodiac only and referring to seven planets although the galaxy holds crores (kotayaha).

As expressed by that contributor " not to run away with the belief that the western system is superior to the eastern" we should equip ourselves with and completely master the literature published by the Editor of this Magazine.

Now with the particular case mentioned herein the following should have dawned on the Valluvan who arrived at this Dasa balance "as it did not however fix this period of marriage". There should be consistency in astronomical calculations. Otherwise there is bound to be disappointment in prognostication. In depicting a corrected picture, recourse was made to the planetary longitudes of 13th July 1951—the date of marriage and to the Drik Panchanga published under the auspices of Kumbakonam Matam for birth longitudes. For calculations to the Graha and Bhava Balas by B. V. Raman and How to Judge a Horoscope for prognostication. Also to a Tamil Goniometry (Jothida Ganitham) published about 45 years ago.

Moon meandering through the zodiac has, at the birth of this native, a calculated motion of 766'.12" and a total duration of Satabhisha (Moon's longitude at birth 10s-9°-33') 25 hrs. 4 mts. leaving Rahu Dasa unexpired as 14 yrs. 1 month 10 days. Partnership for this native with Sun in Taurus and Moon in Aquarius is considered by Allen Leo as propitious; and life partnership, according to our system, would take place when Jupiter and Saturn progressed to the position of opposition as at birth. But the energising effect of Jupiter as owning 8th and 11th houses was not favourable till Saturn's major period in the sub-period of Mercury whose energising effect caused the formation of joint life as lord of 2nd & 5th house in Kethu's Antharam. All this reasoning is of course after the events, but with meticulous care in calculations of Graha and Bhava strength, the relative positions of planets having potential energy to fructify an event a well-versed astrologer should prove of immense value to a society or a nation.

Jamshedpur. P.B.S. IYER.

Signs on Fingers

Sir,—Readers of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE must be benefitted by the highly informative article 'Significance of Finger-Prints in Palmistry' published in the July number of 1959.

I find that according to Samudrika Sastra the more the number of signs on fingers the more the native abhors procrastination; absence of sign on the thumb indicates that the native has to spend for the cause of parents; and absence on pointer means that the native is not careful about expenditure. I observe that ridges tend to be circular on thumb and elliptical on other fingers. In my humble opinion the whorl, a fine sample of which has been supplied by the esteemed contributor is the 'Sankha' sign and samples of 'Chakra' sign on thumb and on other fingers are supplied herewith, though these are of eccentric variety and not of the concentric type which are extremely rare to be met with. It is rather difficult to ascertain certain signs mentioned in the old Hindu works as descriptions are unfortunately wanting. It appears that the term 'chakra' has been loosely used to mean both chakra and sankha signs. It may also be mentioned here that no line or sign should be judged singly for correct interpretation. It will be highly pleasing to see samples of concentric circular sign (an ideal chakra) in these columns in a future date.

Thanking you very much,

Calcutta. SURATH KUMAR MONDAL.

Blindness

Sir,—With reference to a *case of blindness given by Mr. Kasi Aiyer of Chittoor in the column of the 'Letters to the Editor' of the June 1959 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE on page 559, I endorse the following opinions in the light of the horoscope erected for the time given.

At the time of birth, Chandra Dasa, Rahu Bhukthi and Kethu interperiod was running. Lord of Lagna Venus in the 12th along with Moon, lord of Dasa—the former debilitated and the latter devoid of Pakshabala and eclipsed—denotes the loss of sight clearly. Mercury lord of 12th denoting left eye is along with Sun lord of 11th eclipsed. Sun stands for right eye and also Karaka for eyes in general Chakshossuryo Ajayatha. Here Jupiter as lord of 3rd and 6th, though a natural benefic, is a malefic for Thula Lagna. He is in the Lagna along with Sun, Mercury and Rahu. Jupiter also becomes the lord of the house occupied by Gulika and Gulika aspects the 12th from the 6th. Saturn from the 3rd aspects the 12th. Saturn is in the junction of two signs: Sun stands for the right eye and the Moon for the left eye. After 29-4-1959 Guru Bhukthi comes. Guru is in the 3rd house in Gochara. He comes to the 2nd house on 22nd June 1959.

* Rasi.—Thula Lagna and Jupiter; Scorpio–Saturn; Pisces–Kethu and Mandi; Taurus–Mars; Virgo–Venus, Ravi, Moon, Rahu and Mercury.

Navamsa.—Thula Lagna; Aquarius –Jupiter; Pisces–Saturn, Mars and Kethu; Aries–Moon; Gemini–Venus; Cancer–Mandi; Leo–Ravi; and Virgo–Rahu and Mercury.

Balance of Chandra Dasa.—7 years, 7 months and 17 days.

Propitiation for Sun and Moon in its proper manner, respectively done on their week days can aid speedy recovery of the eyes. Guru as lord of the 4th asterism (Kshema Thara) may bring back the eye-sight.

Before the end of Jupiter's sub-period, we can expect recovery. For, by that time, by secondary direction, Moon will progress into Lagna bhava gradually approaching the conjunction of Jupiter after escaping from its node.

Kadavam. A. VENKATACHALAM.

Widowhood

Sir,—Mr. B. Lakshminarain Rao has invited opinions from the students of astrology on a query raised by him in respect of a horoscope of an unfortunate female, who has become a widow in her 15th year, vide April 1959 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE. Such cases are not few and it is really a very pitiable and cursed life of a girl who becomes a widow soon after her marriage without enjoying the marital happiness whatsoever.

There may be splendid Rajayogas as stated by Mr. Rao in the chart before us, but they are totally useless in so far as her Saubhagyam is concerned. The 7th house in the present case has to tell its own tale. It may be noted that the 7th house is occupied by Kethu, while its ruler Mars also happens to be the lord of the 12th house (Duritham) Jupiter rules the house of (Mangalyam) marital welfare (8th). If we judge the horoscope with respect to the previous birth of the native by taking the 5th house as the Lagna, it will be very interesting to note that (i) the 7th house is subject to Visha Yoya caused by the Moon–Saturn combination occurring in it, (ii) the 7th lord Jupiter (also lord of the house of Sukham) is situated in the house of Duritham (12th), and (iii) the house of Mangalyam is owned by Mars. It will be most significant to note an outstanding feature in the nativity, viz., (i) the 7th lord Jupiter, disposed in the house of Duritham in her previous life, is now acting as the ruler of Mangalyam or marital welfare, disposed in the house of Sukham in this life and (ii) Mars, the ruler of her Mangalyam house in her past life, is now acting as the 7th lord in this life. Mark that both these planets are mutually opposing each other. It is this evil configuration coupled with other combinations denoting widowhood, which is responsible to cause widowhood to the native during the Budha Dasa, Kethu Bhukthi and Guru Antara, Kethu is situated in the 7th house owned by Mars, occupying an inimical sign Kumbha and aspected by 8th lord Jupiter. Major lord Mercury owns the 7th house (Marakasthana) from the Moon. Taking the 7th as the Lagna of the husband, Budha owning the 8th occupies the 7th (Marakasthana) therefrom, and is heavily afflicted by dire malefics like Saturn, Mars, Rahu, Kethu and the Sun, while Jupiter owns the 2nd (Marakasthana) and the 7th house. Thus, if the native was predestined to be a widow in her 15th year, I fail to understand how a mortal on this earth can avert such a catastrophe by getting her married after the said predestined period. The example of Satyavan Savitri fully supports my contention. The parents of Savitri knew full well that their daughter was destined to be a widow and yet they could not avert her widowhood by marrying her, after the predestined period. The God of death (Yamaraj) took away her husband at the destined hour. It is another matter that Savitri got her husband back from Yamaraj by some other source with which we are not concerned at all. Similar is the case of Markandeya who was destined to die at the age of 16 years. In this case also, Yamaraj had come to take away the life of Markandeya at the destined time. However, it was Lord Siva, a supernatural power, who averted his death. There is yet another instance of Parasara, who could not avert his death by snake-bite, even if he knew that it was so destined. We have many other instances from our sastras sacred texts wherein, none could avert any happening which was destined in his life. After all, it is the Almighty who can do and undo anything. We, human beings, cannot alter a thing done by Him. There is a proverb that, marriage and death, are in the hands of the Almighty, the Supreme Power. In the atomic age, the world is becoming more and more materialistic, with the result that the spiritual and religious aspect of life, which is now being forgotten, requires a serious consideration in this age.

Sir,—For a true research, I request Sri Rao to give publicity to the horoscope of the groom of the virgin widow, whose horoscope was published in his letter under "A Baffling Horoscope" on page 399 of April 1959 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE.

Present day marriage rules have since erased the question of virgin widowhood. Still it is worth reading such horoscopes.

It has been my firm conviction after continued observance of such horoscopes that virgin widowhood does occur only when the planets are well situated. They are sent to the world for tapasya and loka seva to atone for sins of a previous birth and attain Divinity.

In this connection, I publish the following sloka told by Lord Siva to his consort Uma in Karma Vipaka, vide 145th Adhyaya, Maha Bharata, Anusasana Parva.

Brahmacharyam Param Soucham
Brahmacharyam Param Thapaha

Prapyathe Paramam Patham

Brahmacharya (austerity) is best purification.

Brahmacharya is the best tapasya. Salvation is attained by Brahmacharya alone.

The Evil of Mars

Sir,—It is a well-known principle of astrology that when Mars occupies the Ascendant, 2nd, 4th, 7th, 8th and 12th houses, it is Kuja dosha (malefic effect of Mars). Just as every rule has an exception to it, there are also some exceptions to the rule of Kuja dosha. It is said that "Mars being in his own sign or exaltation sign or being aspected by Jupiter or in conjunction with Jupiter are considered as exceptions to the rule of Kuja dosha" (vide B.V. Raman's Electional Astrology). Some other exceptions are also mentioned therein, viz., Mars in the 4th causes no dosha if the sign is Aries or Scorpio. Mars has no malificence, if the 7th, is Cancer or Capricorn etc." Vide April 1953 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE.

Srimati Bijoli Das has stated in her letter published in the February 1959 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE that, for a person born in Thula Lagna (Libra), Mars in the 7th is not very evil for marriage, because his inauspicious and destructive influence are greatly neutralised, for he is in his own sign, and, consequently the position of Mars in Aries in the 7th does not indicate the death of partner. This statement appears to have been made on the strength of a rule that a planet posited in his own sign is auspicious and promotes benefic results of that house. However, she concedes at the same time that Mars is a malefic, and so, in married life, the native will be confronted with quarrels and separation. Sri Vadalia has also supported the views expressed by her and stated that for Thula and Makara Lagnas, Mars in the 7th house or aspecting the 7th does not cause the death of the partner though he plays mischief and unhappy union, etc. If Mars in his own or exaltation sign is held to be an exception to Kuja dosha, or if Mars in his own house in the 7th, is auspicious and promotes benefic results of the house, I really fail to understand how the so-called auspicious Mars in his own sign in the 7th would attribute evil results as narrated by the learned writers. If a native is subject to the quarrels and separation and is bereft of all marital happiness in life, such a condition is more dreadful than death of the partner.

It will be very significant to note that even though Joseph Stalin had Mars in Aries in the 7th house in his chart, Sri B. V. Raman has observed while dealing with his horoscope that the presence of Mars in the 7th suggests two marriages, vide Notable Horoscopes. "Malefic role of Mars" in marriage, by Sri P. Damodaran Nair, is a very interesting and instructive contribution, worth studying by the students of astrology. In Chart I of the said article, we find exalted Mars in the 4th house along with Rahu. It may be noted that Mars posited in his exaltation sign is an exception to Kuja dosha as stated above. However, while dealing with the said horoscope, Sri Nair observes that, "It is the malefic influence of Mars that is indicated here. Note also that it owns two unfavourable houses, the 2nd and 7th from the Ascendant". The native is said to have lost his wife within five years of marriage, vide January 1954 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE. It will thus be seen that Mars in his own or exaltation sign, as an exception to the rule of Kuja dosha, is not at all applicable to the above two cases. Moreover, according to my humble opinion, the exception that Mars in his own sign or exaltation sign is quite in conflict with the exception that Mars has no dosha if the 7th house is Cancer or Capricorn, or that Mars in the 4th has no dosha, if the sign is Aries or Scorpio. How to reconcile these exceptions which are quite contrary to each other?

Kuja dosha is said to play its prominent role in matrimonial problems. A rule is therefore laid down that a person having such a dosha ought to be necessarily married to a native having a similar dosha. The reason behind this, is, to balance the said dosha, just as two negatives make one positive. But, marriage union of a prospective bride and bridegroom is strictly prohibited, if either of them has no such dosha. However, eminent astrologers on this side consider Saturn in positions, as those of Msra, as an antidote, to Kuja dosha, and approve such unions. Srimati Bijoli Das has also quoted a citation of Garga from Brihajotisara in this respect for critical research, viz., "If Rahu and Saturn occupy Lagna, 4th, 7th, 8th, and 12th houses, then Kuja dosha will be ineffective, etc." This is, therefore, really a very important question that requires utmost consideration, whether or not Saturn in positions of Mars, can act as an antidote to Kuja dosha, and such unions are ever advised to be mated with.

Astrological Significance of Basic Instincts

Sir,—The articles under the above caption, published in January and March 1959 issues of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE, in two parts, have been dealt with and interpreted well, with horoscopic examples, where necessary.

Astrological analysis and synthesis in respect of different sorts of instincts correlated with different kinds of sign shave be enrendered well.

Let us illustrate the horoscope of Stalin, the political hero of Russia, in this respect. Hence, for his horoscope, pages 464 and 465, May 1955 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE are referred to.

In Stalin's horoscope, the striking features in respect of zodiacal signs and instincts correlated therewith, are the sign Libra with Venus and Aries with Mars, which represent food seeking instinct and combat instinct respectively Libra is fully aspected by Jupiter, the greater benefic. His aggressive instinct and food seeking instinct (better modified) react upon each other. Mars in the 7th adds to his aggressive quality. His is the adage that end justifies the means. He was said to be "a man of steel". Aquarius which rules the Creative Instinct (Instinct of Construction) is made strong in the chart with Jupiter in Vargottama. Russia will never forget him for her (Russia's) development (i.e., the political hero).

For full-fledged interpretation, analysis and synthesis, not only the basic instincts of signs are vitally necessary, but also the other factors, e.g., strength of the chart as a whole, planets, planetary permutations, etc. The basic instincts as explained in the articles referred to above are a great help to the study of a horoscope. Such articles are really welcome. It is God's will to make more and more successful and prosperous the issues of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE.

positor of Jupiter, lord of VII, and Rahu being in Mercury (amsa). But this is only by the way.

Hence, the learned readers will see that there is intrinsic blemish with the 'old' planets rely for the unfortunate misturn of affairs in this case, and one need not have to look upto Uranus and Neptune, or Pluto for this. The learned writer himself conceded at the end of col. 1 on page 757 that 'strong Saturn though far away from the cusp of IV spoiled the whole affair' (exalted Jupiter bringing in a good proposal as ruler of VII). Sure, he does not look upon Saturn (whom he is quoting) as a 'new' planet.

BY DR. R. NAGARAJA SARMA, M.A., Ph.D., D.LITT.

THE RELIGIONS OF MANU—By Hustar Smith—(Mentor). Pp. 336. Price 50 c.)

In this volume, the author, who is described as a Professor of philosophy and Lecturer on philosophical subjects, has given a graphic account of different religions which are live, active and dynamic. It is sometimes derisively said that religions have only museum value. That it is not so bad as all that and religions are matters of life and death, are the important truths sought to be emphasized in this work. Hinduism, Buddhism, Confucianism, Taoism, Islam, Judaism, and Christianity are the great religions essentials of which are expounded in this publication with clarity and insight.

The work is written in such a manner as would make ready appeal to all thinking men and women whatever their personal religion. There are errors in the chapter on Hinduism. These seem inevitable in the writings of foreigners. But, the seventh step of yoga being numbered as 8th, or conversely, the eighth step being described as the "seventh" could not be condoned.

LANGUAGE—By Joshua Whatmough—(Mentor). Pp. 240. Price 50 c.)

Prof. Joshua Whatmough, head of Department of Linguistics, and professor of comparative philology at Harvard, has, in his original work on language scientifically sought to relate language with other disciplines and branches of knowledge like Neurology, Statistics, Symbolic Logic, and by means of this comparative study and analysis thrown considerable light on the evolution of language. The mechanics and dynamics, historical evolution, and anthropological progress of language, meaning and connected symbolism are expounded with vision and vigour, and though, the mystery of language is not completely solved, the work goes a long way to shed illumination on more than one dark corner, of scientific linguistics. Study of all about language had been carried to perfection by Panini, in his sutras, (Apothegms) on Sanskrit Grammar.

It is still a mystery what sort of language Adam and Eve spoke. Whatever it is, language wields tremendous influence over the minds of men and women, and without the mechanism of language, thought cannot be conserved and communicated. The present volume is the result of systematic original research and it will be accorded a ready welcome in academic and scientific circles.

THE STORY OF JAZZ- By Marshall Stearns—(Mentor). Pp. 272. Price 50 c.)

Even amongst the Europeans and Americans there are some who do not like Jazz. Some have a ear for music. Some have not. But, majority of mankind feels some fascinations for music. Marshall Stearns, who is described as an authority on Jazz, who is founder and Director of Institute of Jazz - studies in New York, and who is a well-known lecturer on the theory, technique and practice of Jazz, has written a thrilling story of the evolution or development of Jazz from the earliest African times, down to the present period of magnificence of Jazz in New Orleans. The prehistory of Jazz, New Orleans Background, the American Background, the process of diffusion during the Jazz-age, Jazz Yesterday and Today, the Nature of Jazz, and Jazz Tomorrow, constitute the seven chapters in the course of which, the history of Jazz is narrated. A well-formulated definition of Jazz is given on Pp. 200. The predominant or outstanding components or con tituents of Jazz are said to be—European harmony, Euro-African melody and African rhythm. It is absolutely clear that Negro contribution to the development of Jazz has been remarkable. Socially and politically, Negroes may be disliked, but, they cannot but be liked by those who like Jazz. Music is a great harmonizing and socializing force. Students of comparative musicology and music would immensely like the volume

THE AZTEC—By Victor W. Von Hagen—(Mentor Ancient Civilization. Pp. 224. Price 50 c.)

The Aztec people acted in accordance with the commands of their Gods. They waged wars, fought, conquered, sacrificed, and established themselves in Mexico. How did all this happen? The story is told by Victor W. Von Hagen, in this volume, which traces the history of the Aztec people ever since they set foot on the Mexican soil and created their own civilization. Their culture and civilization seem to have been greatly advanced. They had made considerable headway in city-planning, writing, sculpture, and in other matters and they were following the custom of human sacrifice. Roundabout 50 pictorial illustrations and 16 pages of photographs make the volume attractive, and it is, however not known exactly, when the first man arrived in the Americas. The life of the Aztec in times of peace and war, their social patterns, marriage rites and ceremonies, their gods, their religion and sacrifices, and other details are described in this work which brings before the mental eyes of readers a striking picture of the primitive people portrayed.

They were worshippers of Sun-God, and they frequently went to war the motive being both economical and religious. It is tragic to read the brief account of the fall of the Aztec. The Spanish conquest drove the Aztec into the limbs of oblivion. Students and research-workers in history and archaeology will find the work vastly stimulating, and a trustworthy source of reference.

THE STATESMAN—By Henry Taylor (Mentor). Pp. 160. Price 50 c.)

There are statesmen and statesmen. In these days, of the Adult Vote and Democracy it is difficult to judge who are the best and most successful statesmen and why. But, then, Henry Taylor, as early as 1836 wrote the statesman giving a list of certain personal traits, qualities or requirements for one to be a successful and efficient statesman. Gladstone himself is said to have been deeply impressed by the publication, and Taylor's work has now, been published, with a "New Introduction", by C. Northcote Parkinson. Statesmen throughout the world have many problems to solve, many situations to meet, and many questions to answer. These questions and problems may range between the intensely personal one of selecting a wife or bride, and the profoundly, momentous problem of declaring war or maintaining peace.

In more than one country today, absolute mediocres are found to be statesmen, and they seem to be getting admirably on. The dictum is—to get in is to get on.

In some other modern Governments, dictators have been dismissed from office overnight as it were, and new dictators spring up next morning. Statesmen habitually consider themselves indispensable for cosmos and cosmic affairs, but, they would do well to know that with every tick of the clock, they and their coveted office are steadily marching to divinely ordained end. Introduction is written in a masterly manner.

THE GREEK PHILOSOPHERS—By Rex Warner—(Mentor). Pp. 240. Price 50 c.)

It has been admitted without doubt or challenge that European culture and civilization as they stand today, are the outgrowth of Greek philosophy and intellectual evolution. It would be legitimate to investigate in what manner precisely, Greek Thought has influenced modern European culture. Towards that end, knowledge is essential of the contributions made by the line of distinguished Greek philosophers. In this volume, an account is given of the different systems of philosophy and as far as possible, the philosophers have been made to speak for themselves. The account covers the entire period beginning from the period of philosophy in Ionia and ending with the period of decline of philosophy under the Roman Empire. Thales, Socrates, Plato, Aristotle, Plotinus and others have been chosen, and Rex Warner's account is able and appealing, charming and convincing. Going through the different philosophical systems, one is bound to entertain the feeling strongly, that though laboratory sciences have advanced in the present period, modern philosophical systems have had nothing new to say—not said by the Greek philosophers centuries ago. The contribution made by Greek philosophical systems and ancient Indian systems of the Vedanta can never be superseded by any modern brand of philosophic nouvelle.

MAN—HIS FIRST MILLION YEARS—By Ashley Montague—(Mentor). Pp. 192. Price 50 c.)

The story of Man's First Million Years, is told in this arresting volume, by Dr. Ashley Montague, who believes that the anthropologist, more than any other scientist has a significant part to play, and a vital and substantial contribution to make in establishing international harmony and World Peace. Dr. Montague, in the course of his anthropological survey of the origin, and evolution of Homo Sapiens, emphatically states, that notwithstanding certain differences and idiosyncrasies, nations that inhabit the globe are practically the same, in possessing higher feelings and nobler instincts.

Dr. Montagu's survey runs from pre-historic times down to the present day. The differences noted are due to environmental demands each nation or community had to meet, in the march of evolution. Primitive man first learnt the use of fire. Today, life is largely controlled by gas, electricity, and so forth. It is too early to state in any dogmatic manner, in what direction future evolution would proceed. The proper study of mankind is Man, or conversely, the proper study of Man is mankind.

The history of evolution of individual, tribe, group, family, community, society, notion and other units is narrated, in this volume with conspicuous success and distinction. While, poets and artistes of a particular type have exaggerated the value and significance of sex, the anthropologists are convinced that sex is exclusively the arrangement or contrivance of nature, for the perpetuation of a given species. The volumes here noticed, have all been published by the New American Library of World Literature, 501, Madison Avenue, New York-22, N.Y.

Astrology and Modern Thought

BY B. V. RAMAN

(FOURTH EDITION)

The rationale and claims of Astrology have been examined from the viewpoint of Modern Scientific Thought. The arguments put forth by some of the scientists to decry Astrology have been ably refuted and supported by unimpeachable evidence.

The book will convince any so-called sceptic who is accustomed the slogan 'I do not believe in Astrology'. To an intellectual it contains full of weighty material for reflection.

It is a book that everyone should read.

Your SCIENTIFIC DIFFICULTIES Solved

BY MIHIRA

[In the letters THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE receives from the readers, many interesting questions are put pertaining to astrological and scientific problems. Here are a few recent queries together with answers. If some similar doubts are puzzling you, why not write us about them? This service is free to all readers of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE. Address communications to—MIHIRA, c/o THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE].

Q. 1. (a) It is generally stated that lord of Lagna posited in 8th house becomes weak. Does he gain any beneficial strength if he is retrograde also. (b) Suppose Jupiter has come to Virgo from Libra by retrogression, for which of the two signs are his effects to be considered? (c) What are the effects of exalted Mars aspecting exalted Sun? Does it come under the rule that one exalted planet aspects another exalted planet, the native becomes a beggar? (d) Lord of Lagna Venus is exalted in 6th house. Does this exaltation lose strength in any way since it occurs in a dusthana? (e) Lord of 1st in 2nd, lord of 2nd in 11th and 11th lord in 4th. Does this give rise to any yoga? (f) Gemini Lagna: Mercury, Saturn and Sun in Libra. Is there any yoga?

A.B.C., Bombay.

Ans. (a) No doubt Lord of Lagna becomes weak in 8th. But retrogression gives a different kind of strength that is lord of 1st in 8th will be much weaker if he is not retrograde at the same time. (b) For natal astrology, he is to be considered as if in Virgo. For transits, it should be considered that he continues in Libra. (c) There is no rule in any standard texts that it is harmful for one exalted planet to aspect another exalted planet. The aspect will be all the more powerful and beneficial because of exaltation. (d) Lord of Lagna in 6th makes him weak. This weakness will be overcome to a great extent if he is exalted. (e) This is not a recognised yoga. (f) Mercury is ruler of Lagna kendra. Saturn is ruler of 9th, a kona. Their combination gives rise to Rajayoga. The presence of Sun if close enough to cause combustion will make the Rajayoga more or less ineffective.

Q. 2. (a) If Mars is situated in 10th from Moon, it is called Bhadra Yoga. Moon is 80° (in Capricorn) and Mars is 250° (in Virgo). From Moon 80° to Mars 80° 9th house parts are over. So are we to say Bhadra Yoga? (b) Saturn is in 10th house from Lagna. Venus is in the kendra and Moon is in kendra. Then what is the name of that yoga and its results?

V.M., Avanigadda.

Ans. (a) If Mars is in 10th from Moon, it is not called Bhadra Yoga. If Moon is in Capricorn, it cannot be 80°. If Mars is in Virgo, it cannot be 250°. The expression "9th house parts are over" is neither astronomical nor astrological. It is not known what is meant thereby and so there is nothing to be answered. This is an example of how a question should not be put. (b) It cannot be said from the data whether any yoga results or does not result.

Q. 3. (a) Longitude of Venus 0-8° 14′ 37″. What is the Navamsa-Gemini or Virgo? (b) What book do you suggest for Horary Astrology?

B.N.B., Bengal.

Ans. The degree shows that Venus is in 3rd navamsa. 3rd navamsa from Aries in Gemini. So navamsa is Gemini. If the longitude of Venus were to be 0-18° 0′ 0″ it will be in sixth navamsa. 6th navamsa from Aries is Virgo. So navamsa will be Virgo. (b) Shatpanchika or Jinendra Mala are good works on Horary Astrology.

Q. 4. (a) What yoga is formed or what does it signify if Jupiter which is an angle (10th house) in Taurus has got full Drishti on Moon in Scorpio in 4th house from Lagna? (b) What is the effect if Rahu is situated in 9th house in Aries from Lagna and 6th from Moon? (c) What is the effect of the following aspects: Saturn in 5th house in Sagittarius aspecting Mars and Mercury posited in Aquarius?

N.G.M., Palghat

Ans. (a) The yoga is called Gajakesari Yoga. (b) Rahu in ninth from Lagna improves the mental qualities and gives success in educational, legal or religious studies. Favourable for voyages and foreign affairs; some dreams and prophetic intuition. If in sixth from Moon favours the health and strengthens the body. Faithful and honest employees, gain through service; fortunate by means of father's kindred and by small animals. (c) Saturn is in the sign of a planet neutral to him. As Jupiter's position is not stated, it cannot be judged whether he is in a friendly sign or inimical sign. Mars is in the sign of a planet neutral to him but who has become friendly by their occupation of 3rd and 11th signs from each other. Mercury has become an intimate friend of Saturn. Saturn is the ruler of 6th and 7th from Lagna. Mercury has become a malefic by being in association with and aspected by a malefic. Mercury and Mars are enemies. They are in occupation of 7th and are aspected by ruler of 7th from a double-bodied sign. Mercury is ruler of second 'family'. It is very probable that the native will have to marry more than once; his health will suffer, he may suffer if he undertakes long journeys or voyages or obstruction and obstacles be placed against taking such journeys. There will be also obstacles in accumulation of wealth. The number of issues will be limited and a few may die.

Q. 5. Jupiter owning 9th and 12th houses is posited in 3rd from Lagna and Moon and is Vargottama in the nativity of a male. What will be his effects when his dasa comes as 6th in life?

P.V.R., Nagercoil.

Ans. Jupiter's dasa coming as 6th in life is said to be evil only from the point of view of longevity. Otherwise it is good. If the longevity of the nativity is estimated to take the native beyond Jupiter's period, (short life, medium or long life as the case may be) Jupiter will not act as maraka. His period therefore need not be considered as evil for other purposes than for questions of longevity.

Q. 6. (a) In Phaladeepika, it is stated that when the planets mutually exchange places, a Parivarthana Yoga is formed. There are 66 such interchanges. Discuss briefly how to view separately the specific results of each kind of Parivarthana with reference to the two bhavas involved in each case. Suppose there is Parivarthana (exchange) between lord of 3rd and 7th houses. What specific results are to be expected therefrom? (b) On Pp. 208 of March 1948 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE, the Editor has stated that considerable fortune is indicated if Jupiter is placed in 2nd house. Does this hold good if Jupiter is ruler of 6th, 8th or 12th houses? (c) Evil planets in the 6th must be declared to be inauspicious and not producing good results. (Vide Brihat Jataka, Pp. 306, 3rd edition, by B. S. Rao). Presence of a malefic in the 6th gives success over enemies and redemption from debts (Astrology for Beginners by B. V. Raman, 6th edition, page 69). How to reconcile these)? (d) In July 1948 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE, you have stated that in a female horoscope, Moon in the 7th house combined with a malefic like Mars or Saturn causes co-wife distress. What would be the position if the combination is found in a male horoscope or if Rahu as a malefic conjoin Moon in the 7th house in a male or female horoscope? (e) A planet debilitated in rasi is exalted in navamsa. What does it signify? (f) A planet exalted in rasi is debilitated in navamsa. What does it signify? (g) How to find out from a given horoscope that it belongs to a millionaire? (h) It is generally stated that a neecha planet inspite of his bhanga, if he occupies 6, 8 or 12 will make a king, a beggar, etc. (i) Jaimini Sutras, vide Adhyaya 2, Sutras 2 and 4 repeat lords of 1 and 8 if one happens to be in movable and another in a common sign cause both long and short lives but the notes and table widely differ. Will you please enlighten? (j) Suppose the lord of a sign in which a debilitated planet stands is in an angle from Lagna according to bhava and not by sign. Does this cause Neechabhanga? R.R., Hyderabad.

Ans. (a) It is not possible to give in these pages the specific results of each of these 66 forms of exchange, as there will be no room for any other question in the coming issues. The 66 forms are classified in Phaladeepika itself thus Dainya Yoga (30) Khala Yogas (8), Maha Yogas (28)—total 66.

Dainya Yogas.—Exchange of lord of 12th with any other house lord (11) and lord of 6th with any other houses except 6 and 12 (10) plus lord of 8th in exchange with any house lord except 6, 8 and 12 (9)—Total 30. The man born in Dainya Yoga will be a fool, will be reviling others and commit sinful actions. He will be always tormented by his enemies, will speak woundingly, and will be unsteady in his mind. Interruptions will rise in all his undertakings.

Khala Yogas.—Exchange of lord of 3rd with any of the remaining 1, 2, 4, 5, 7, 9, 10 and 11 the lord of any of which occupies 3rd—total 8. The man born in Khala Yoga will at one time become haughty and foul tongued while at another time gentle in speech. Sometimes he will attain all kinds of prosperity, while at other times he will have to endure much distress, poverty, misery and the like.

Maha Yogas.—Total 28 are found thus (1) Lord of Lagna in exchange with any one of the remaining 2, 4, 5, 7, 9, 10 and 11 (total 7). (2) Lord of 2nd house in exchange with lords of any one of 4, 5, 7, 9, 10 and 11 (total 6). (3) The lord of 4th house in exchange with 5, 7, 9, 10 and 11 (total 5). (4) Lord of 5th house in exchange with lords of 7, 9, 10 and 11 (total 4). (5) Lord of 7th in exchange with lords of 9, 10 and 11 (total 3). (6) The lord of 9th in exchange with lords of 10 and 11 (total 2). (7) Lords of 10 and 11 in exchange (1). Grand total 28. The person born in Maha Yoga will be repository of the blessings of the Goddess Lakshmi and will be a lord and wealthy. He will wear clothes of variegated colour and bedeck himself with gold ornaments. He will receive rich presents from his sovereign and certain powers will also be conferred on him. He will command vehicles, wealth and children. (b) No, because his beneficence is to a great extent lost by ruling malefic houses. (c) There is no conflict whatever. In Brihat Jataka, Varahamihira states the view of Satyacharya in the passage quoted Sathyaha Kathayathi. It is Bhattotpala's interpretation that is embodied there, e.g., in the case of 6th house which signifies enemies. Benefics there will destroy enemies, while malefics will increase them. What is mentioned in B. V. Raman's book is Varahamihira's own view as propounded in Laghu Jataka. (d) As there cannot be co-husband distress, the combination does not apply and is peculiar only to female horoscopes. (e) For all practical purposes, the effects of exaltation will be maintained. (f) For all practical purposes, the effects of debilitation will be visible. (g) By constant practice and judgment and observation of such horoscopes. (h) Please quote authority for the statement. (i) Your doubts will be cleared if you refer to section 104–7 in Studies in Jaimini Astrology by B.V. Raman. Short life is indicated when one is in movable and the other in common sign or if both are in fixed signs. Medium life when both are in common signs or one in a movable and the other in a fixed sign. Long life when both are in movable signs or one in common and the other in a fixed sign. (f) It is the bhava position that is relevant.

Q. 7. (a) Is retrograde Jupiter in debilitation strong or weak? (b) Malefics in 3, 6 and 11 give good results. Does weak Moon in 3 or 6 give good results? (c) Does a planet get neechabhanga if the lord of that sign is strong in Shadbala but not in kendra or kona from Lagna or Moon? (d) In page 49 of Astrology for Beginners, it is stated that Jupiter and Venus ruling kendras become inauspicious. Are the quadrants to be counted from Lagna or from any other house? (e) Ref. Neechabhanga article Pp. 419 of 1947 July issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE. The view as to which planet has caused the bhanga is not clear. Please explain. (f) What is meant by the expression "eclipsed by the Sun" or Sun's rays and when does this happen? (g) If a debilitated planet is in the same sign of an exalted planet does it cause neechabhanga when they are more than 15 degrees apart. What is the difference between association and conjunction of planets? (h) It is stated that in Dina Kootam, that the number counted from the constellation of the girl to that of the boy should be divided by 9. When the number is just second from the girl's how to proceed? (i) A strong malefic in the 4th house especially Mars is not conducive to conjugal happiness. What does it mean? Can it not be modified by other favourable factors present in the horoscope such as by Jupiter's aspect from the 12th? R.R., Hyderabad.

Ans. (a) According to Uttara Kalamrita, any debilitated planet in retrogression has powers equal to exaltation. (b) Weak Moon means Moon weak in Shadbala strength. This term does not mean necessarily that Moon is a malefic. It is decreasing Moon that is considered to be a malefic. A weak Moon in any place can give only poor results good or bad. Malefic Moon in 6th an Upachaya can give good results though only natural malefics are powerful in Upachaya signs, like Mars, Saturn, Sun, Rahu, Kethu, etc. (c) No. (d) The kendras are to be reckoned from Lagna or Moon. (e) There the author of the article gives 3 instances of Sun in debility and says that Saturn (the planet who will be exalted in Libra) and not Mars (in whose sign Sun will be exalted) has caused the cancellation of debility. According to him, Saturn is the planet that should be looked to for cancellation of debility. (f) Eclipsed by Sun is synonymous with 'combustion'. Combustion arises in the following cases and is given in all text books on Astrology.

Mars when within 17 degrees of Sun.
Mercury when within 14 degrees (but when retrograde 12 only).
Jupiter when within 11 degrees.
Venus when within 10 degrees (but when retrograde 8 only).
Saturn when within 15 degrees.
Moon when within 12 degrees.

(g) Association and conjunction mean the same thing. In Hindu Astrology, planets in the same sign are said to be in conjunction or association. (h) Two divided by nine gives quotient "0" and the remainder two. Two is the number. (i) Any evil influence is modified by other favourable factors present in that respect in any horoscope. Jupiter's aspect is effective in dispelling all evil effects.

Q. 8. (a) Who are the Adhi Devas for each planet? (b) It is stated in Uttara Kalamrita that Saturn and Venus give contrary effects in their mutual Dasa bhukthi if they are good and if they are bad, they cause good effects. How is this in actual practice? (c) Mars in 1, 4, 7, 8 or 12 causes death of consort How can you tell the exact period of bereavement? (d) When lords of Lagna and 7th house are in conjunction, there will be marital harmony. Does this always hold good? (e) In B.V. Raman's Graha and Bhava Balas, page 14, article 24, a table of permanent friendship of planets is given and therein it is mentioned that for Moon, Saturn is neutral. But in article 27, page 15, the author says as follows:—"For instance in the standard horoscope, the Moon is in Kumbha (Aquarius). The lord of Aquarius is Saturn who is an enemy to Moon, so that we say that the Moon in the Rasi occupies a Saturn's Kshetra or Varga or an enemy's varga. How are the two statements to be reconciled? (f) Is it a fact that if a child is born in the first quarter of Moola, the father of the child will die? What will be the effect if the father too was born in the asterism of Moola? (g) Is it a fact that Mercury can never be combust? (h) Does the 8th lord destroy the house in which it is posited? (i) Is it a fact that conjunction of planets with the Sun is always evil as they become 'Kopishta' irrespective of what the planet is or in what house the conjunction takes place? (j) Is Rahu specially weak in Sagittarius (Dhanus) and Kethu in Mithuna? What is meant by Kodanda Rahu? (k) Are retrograde planets evil whether benefic or malefic? (l) Is it a fact that the aspect of the 8th lord on Lagna or conjunction of 8th lord with lord of Lagna is evil or shortens life?

R.R., Hyderabad.

Ans. (a) The Devas are as follows: For Sun–Agni; Moon–Varuna; Mars–Lord Muruga; Mercury—Maha Vishnu; Jupiter—Indra; Venus—Indrani; and Saturn—Brahma. (b) This exception works in certain cases and certain cases appear to be exceptions to the rule. (c) This is known as Angaraka dosha and may cause death of consort, if that horoscope does not match well in this respect with the other horoscope. If not so matched, it need not necessarily cause death as if longevity is strong, it may pass off with some severe illness or accident according to the nature of the dosha. (d) There are always exceptions to any rule and no rule is universal. (e)) You have not correctly understood the meaning of the statement in the light of the contest Article 24 deals with permanent friendship and enmity. Article 25 with Tatkalika friendship or enmity, that is temporary. Article 26 with combined or mutual relations and the results for each planet according to the combined relations in the standard horoscope is shown in the same article. Article 27 refers to this combined relationship in the standard horoscope where Saturn is given as inimical to Moon in that table. Why do you perversely see only the contradiction? The context makes it clear that it is the combined relationship in the standard horoscope as the one that is referred to. So, there is nothing to reconcile. (f) Vide page 97 of Electional Astrology by B. V. Raman. There it is stated that the last quarter of Moola is said to cause the death of the father-in-law and that the first three quarters of Moola are highly beneficial. (g) It is not a fact. (h) It causes distress to the matters signified by the bhava. (i) Except combustion, there is no other disability for conjunction with Sun. (j) There appears to be no authority for this statement. (k) Retrograde planets are considered strong whether benefic or malefic. (l) It will have such an effect unless counteracted by other factors present in the horoscope.

been planned. Georgette's birthday planet Mars was on that day at Sagittarius 6½° about to transit over a-Scorpii, which gave her the courage for the purpose. But observe the menacing Saturn at Gemini 7° in opposition to that star and Mars. Georgette was in infinitely greater danger than she actually realised.

Back in Pau in January 1943, Georgette, who had several men wanted by the Gestapo concealed in various hiding places awaiting transit along the pipeline, was herself being actively sought by the Gestapo who were closing in. She was warned about it by her friend the Police Commissioner of Pau who himself had orders to arrest her. Escape was therefore a matter of extreme urgency. Nevertheless she first collected her charges. In two taxis the party drove to Oloron and thence to Tardetz.

On Thursday, January 21st, 1943, Georgette and her party, led by Basque guides, began the perilous mid-winter crossing of the Pyrenees over uncharted routes taken to avoid the regular paths which were being patrolled by Nazi troops accompanied by police dogs. There were also the machine gun and searchlights posts at the actual frontier to be negotiated.

Observe that at the time of the New Moon the Sun was about to transit β-Capricorni (natal Mars, the birthday planet of Georgette). Thus the day was well chosen. However, the endurance test was supreme for a young girl of 22 who had to compete with the party of young men on a non-stop climb lasting more than 36 hours before the soil of Spain could be reached. An endurance test which was imposed by Saturn at Gemini 6° opposing a-Scorpii (natal Sun).

In this present abbreviated survey it is recognised that scant justice has been done to the war contributions of this young heroine who was to be decorated by Poland and France (Legion d'Honneur). However, the full story can be read in her own autobiography entitled Green Avalanche shortly to be published by The Pythagorean Press, 1690, Hanover Street, Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, U.S.A.

STARS IN THEIR Seasons

By M. V. RAMAKRISHNAN, M.A., L.T.

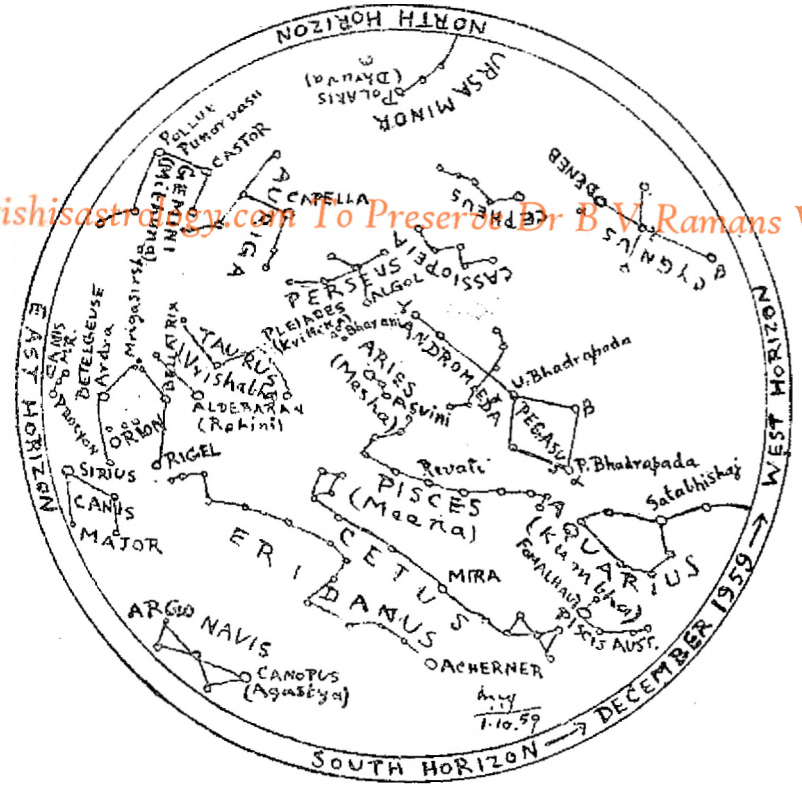
Night Sky in December 1959

Zodiacal Constellations

THE zodiacal constellations that are visible this month at about 9–30 in the night are, from west to east, Aquarius (Kumbha), Pisces (Meena), Aries (Mesha), Taurus (Vrishabha), Gemini (Mithuna), and Cancer (Kataka). Aquarius is setting and you can see the lunar asterism Satabhisha close on the western horizon; while Cancer is struggling to come above the horizon in the east. Pisces has crossed the meridian, and Aries is very nearly overhead. Taurus is approaching the meridian, while Gemini is seen high above the north-eastern horizon. Taurus is situated in a very favourable position for observation this month, with its first magnitude star Aldebaran shining prominently. Near Aldebaran is seen a cluster of six stars like a "V" lying on its side, with the open end of "V" turned to the east. This cluster is the Hyades. Hyades and Aldebaran constitute the lunar asterism Rohini. Within Taurus is another beautiful cluster, called the Pleiades. This constitutes the lunar asterism Krittika.

Non-Zodiacal Constellations

Of the non-zodiacal constellations, Ursa Minor, Cepheus and Cassiopeia are seen in the north. Both Cepheus and Cassiopeia have crossed the meridian. Pegasus and Andromeda have just crossed the meridian and are seen fully extended a little west of the zenith. Perseus is approaching the meridian beyond Perseus are seen Auriga and Canis Minor in the north-eastern sky. Auriga consists of five bright stars, the brightest being Capella. Close to the horizon in the south-eastern sky are seen the beautiful constellations, Orion, Canis Major and Argo Navis, starting from the foot of Orion, a little north-west of Rigel is a large stream of stars winding southward and ending in the first magnitude star Acherner. This winding stream of stars is Eridanus, the celestial river.



Lunar Asterisms

The lunar asterisms, Satabhisha in Aquarius, the Bhadrapadas in Pegasus and Andromeda, Revati in Pisces, Aswini and Bharani in Aries, Krittika and Rohini in Taurus, Mrigasira and Aridra in Orion and Punarvasu in Gemini, can be identified in the visible hemisphere.

The Milky Way

The Milky Way traverses the sky from south-east to north-west, passing through or between the constellations, Argo Navis, Canis Major, Canis Minor, Orion, Gemini, Taurus, Auriga, Perseus, Andromeda, Cassiopeia and Cygnus.

"THE progressive student will do well to remember that "destiny" properly means whatever is possible unto us and "fate" means the external circumstances which appear in our pathway to be manipulated and eventually overcome through effort and understanding. "He would slay dragons must first learn their habits". To overcome fate, we must first know our fate. Astrology points the way to that desirable information."

—Llewellyn George.

"Astrology is not a doctrine of fatalism. It provides us with an inventory of the working materials with which we were endowed at birth in the form of tendencies, mental capacity, physical endowments and abilities; but how we use or neglect to use the tools remains within our own jurisdiction. 'Wisdom puts an end to pain'. Through astrology, we learn how to improve our workmanship on the wheel of life and consequently to improve our fate by complying consciously with nature's laws instead of violating them". —Llewellyn George.

"Astro-meteorology is the art of predicting the weather from planetary aspects. This branch is again proving a popular study and has been reduced to a marvellous degree of accuracy by a number of researchers. It is not at all associated with the methods used in common almanacs and by the Government weather bureau. It is only a matter of time however when nations will generally recognise this information and include it in their present calculations, thus making their system more practical, serviceable and efficient".—Llewellyn George.

If ye lay bound upon the wheel of change,
And no way were of breaking from the chain,
The heart of boundless being is a curse
The soul of things fell pain.
Ye are not bound! The soul of things is sweet
The Heart of Being is celestial rest;
Stronger than woe is will; that which was good
Both pass to Better—Best.

DAILY GUIDE

1. Marana Yogam till 5-45 p.m. L.D. not good till 12-25 p.m.; therefore not good for any new or auspicious beginnings; keep to routine work only; after 5-45 p.m. not favourable in general and any necessary work can be done, new beginnings, planting, etc.

2. Marana Yogam till 4-10 p.m. L.D. good for whole day; but after 4-10 p.m. asterism becomes unsuitable for any business except for purchase of cattle; keep to routine work such as digging, fencing, levelling, weeding, etc.

3. Asterism continues evil for any purpose except purchase of cattle till 2-45 p.m.; thereafter favourable generally; but as L.D. is not good for nearly whole day, keep away from important works and new beginnings.

4. The first alround good day in the month for all kinds of agricultural work and new beginnings—planting, digging wells, manuring, harvesting, storing grain, etc.

5. An ordinary good day though suited specially for commencing harvest only; manuring also can be done; for best effect, use organic manure, goat manure, etc.

6. Marana Yogam till noon; thereafter favourable generally; best for planting, purchase of grain, cattle, etc.

7. L.D. unsuited for all good works; avoid all new beginnings; after 11-50 a.m. asterism too becomes evil; hence, stick to routine works only throughout.

8. Marana Yogam till noon; but L.D. not good throughout; avoid all new beginnings throughout.

9. Yogini towards earth whole day; no ploughing, planting or manuring to be done; but harvesting and storing paddy can be done and cattle can be purchased after 1 p.m.

10. An alround good day—good for manuring, planting, havesting, storing grain, dealings in cattle, etc.; for best effect, use organic manure.

11. An ordinary day, but becomes evil in general after 4 p.m.; till 4 p.m. good for planting and purchase of cattle.

12. Asterism evil throughout day; hence whole day to be avoided for all new beginnings and important works.

13. Both asterism and L.D. evil for the whole day; keep to routine only.

14. Till 8-25 a.m. bad for all purposes; after that good for planting, harvesting, storing grain.

15. Till 10-30 a.m. is favourable for planting, harvesting and storing grain; after that it is not good for any purpose keep to routine.

16. L.D. not favourable generally till 12-35 p.m.; thereafter good only for storing grain.

17. One of the best alround good days in the whole month; any work can be begun and continued with the best of results; good also for purchase of grain and cattle.

18. Marana Yogam throughout day and night; avoid all new beginnings and important works.

19. Yogini towards sky or earth throughout day and night; avoid ploughing, manuring, planting; Marana Yogam after 7-55 a.m., avoid any new beginnings after that.

20. Asterism till 9-5 a.m. evil for all purposes; till 5-15 p.m. Yogini towards earth; therefore after 9 a.m. such works as harvest, storing grain, purchase of grain and cattle can be done; avoid all other works such as ploughing, planting, manuring.

21. Marana Yogam till 9-40 a.m.; therefore good for manuring and harvesting though it would be best to commence these only after 3-40 p.m.

"IN Muhurtha (Elections) it is always advisable to strengthen the ascendant and its lord and the Moon. Each type of election requires fortification of some appropriate house and planet. Even when the ascendant is strong, certain parts of it which go under the name of Lagna Thyajya should be rejected. Sometimes only fixed signs are to be chosen, sometimes only movable signs are to be chosen. Hence a reader has to very carefully understand these subtle distinctions".

DAILY GUIDE

1. Marana Yogam till 5-45 p.m.; thereafter safe for journeys; better avoid north.

2. Marana Yogam till 4-10 p.m.; thereafter safe; but avoid journeys towards north.

6. Marana Yogam till noon; avoid all journeys till then, especially towards west.

7. Yogini towards sky after 1-25 a.m. (night); avoid air journeys thereafter.

8. Yogini towards sky or earth day and night; avoid all air journeys especially towards north.

9. Marana Yogam after 1 p.m.; Yogini towards earth till 2 a.m. (night); better avoid all air journeys especially towards south.

15. Marana Yogam after 1-45 a.m. (night); avoid journeys thereafter.

18. Marana Yogam throughout day and night; avoid journeys especially towards west.

19. Yogini towards sky or earth day and night; avoid air journeys especially towards east.

21. Marana Yogam till 9-45 a.m.; avoid journeys till then especially towards east.

23. Marana Yogam after 9-40 a.m.; avoid journeys thereafter especially towards north.

26. Marana Yogam after 5-15 a.m. (night); avoid journeys thereafter especially towards east.

28. Yogini towards sky or earth whole day and night; avoid air journeys throughout especially towards east.

29. Yogini towards earth till 1-25 a.m. (night); Marana Yogam till 0-25 a.m. night; therefore air journeys should be completely avoided till 1-25 (night) especially towards north.

22. Till 10 a.m. good only for purchase of cattle; therefore good for all kinds of agricultural works, such as new beginnings, planting, purchase of grain and cattle, manuring, harvesting, storing grain; but as L.D. is evil after 4-40 p.m., no operation may be commenced thereafter.

23. Marana Yogam after 9-40 a.m. L.D. evil whole day; better no important works are done and routine alone kept up.

24. L.D. not good till 2-15 p.m.; thereafter alround good day; good for new beginnings, planting, harvesting, digging wells, storing grain, etc. also good for purchase of cattle.

25. One of the few alround good days in the whole month; favourable for all purposes, such as ploughing, manuring, planting, harvesting, purchase of cattle, digging wells, etc.; for best effect, use inorganic fertilisers.

26. An ordinary good day for all purposes in general; good specially for manuring and planting as well as harvesting and purchase of cattle.

27. Good for almost all purposes—an alround good day; specially good for manuring, planting, harvesting and purchase of cattle; for best effect, use organic manure.

28. Both L.D. and Yogam inauspicious throughout day and night; avoid all important works and new beginnings throughout.

29. Amavasai and Marana Yogam —no works or new beginnings to be done.

30. L.D. not good; asterism too unsuited for all new beginnings or work except purchase of cattle; better avoid even that because of L.D.

31. An alround good day; favourable for all new beginnings and works planting, digging wells, manuring and harvesting especially; also storing grain; for best effect, use a mixture of organic and inorganic manures.

Economic Section

At present, the economics are so intertwined with political conditions that it becomes impossible to deal with merely business economics in terms of rupees and naya paisa. It can be easily perceived from the experience of the last twelve years that the economic results have followed from the programme of action dictated by a particular political point of view.

Many a time in these columns, the problem of land has been referred to the problem of agricultural land. Today whenever the urban land is taken over by improvement trusts in big towns or by municipalities, a fair compensation is offered to the owner. Further there are organisations in society to determine a fair price; more still such decisions are made justiceable Thus natural justice is meted out.

If any industrial undertaking is nationalised, compensation has been given at the market value on the date of nationalisation or at the rate of real value as can be arrived at from the critical scrutiny of the position of real accounts. But when agricultural land has been expropriated, all the avenues of natural justice have been thrown overboard. When these measures were pushed through, the industrialists readily sacrificed this core of the middle class with a tradition of culture and moral values behind them.

Today nature is taking a toll of such unethical action; throughout India, there have been floods wrecking havoc and destruction with the result that the peasantry has suffered. A large part of the standing crops has been destroyed; their dwelling houses and huts have given way under the pressure of water and their cattle and other movable wealth have suffered still more.

Let us now see whether the governments of the various provinces can go to their succour. I venture to say that for a number of years there is no hope for the peasantry to improve its lot. With the abolition of the landed class, the peasantry can never get adequate support to rehabilitate itself. Today the peasants would need money to buy cattle and implements to re-build their huts and ploughs, and to purchase seeds for the winter crops; the more urgent demand for money will arise to repair the ravages of health.

Scanned by www.sanatanishastrology.com To Preserve Our Ancient Wisdom

There is a good deal of tall talk through various organs of propaganda at the command of the government as to how much material help is being extended to the peasantry. The ministers and the political forces they command are now put to the test. I leave the readers to imagine if the organs of government will ever go to the aid of people suffering through disease—whether the small peasants will ever get loans to support the servants who drive the ploughs—the servants which can be described as indentured labour.

In old days the landlords were performing these humane tasks and as a consequence many of their loans resulted in bad debts. Now the landlords cannot recover their loans at all because in law there is an initial bias against them. Today if the peasant does not repay the loan granted by the co-operatives and other organs of government in the shape of takkavi, there is immediate foreclosure depriving the peasantry completely of the means of livelihood. Further the rement is to be made at the appointed time.

The principles on which these loans are now made, are entirely economic except that the peasant can obtain the loan quicker by pulling the strings and here the small officiating class of people who inspects the land and conveys the necessary economic information about the credit worthiness of the peasant proprietor can hold them all at his mercy. Under such circumstances the human conditions of life and death do not play the part at all.

Today, the uneconomic small holdings are being consolidated under some compensation to the dispossessed. Further such holdings cannot be sold except with the consent of the district collector and it has been provided that the consent will be withheld if the prospective purchaser is not a cultivator and even if he be a cultivator, his holdings at the time of purchase should be less than the ceiling that is laid down.

Can we ask today if the small peasants have got any capacity to buy any piece of land?

If the landholdings cannot be subdivided how are the descendants of the peasant proprietor who will be dispossessed to be compensated?

The dispossessed will be roaming about from place to place poaching and stealing; the persons inheriting a consolidated holding will have no cash to pay the other brothers and sisters nor are they likely to care for them. Thus family feuds will start which are already frequent enough in the Indian villages. The country will therefore pass through an acute shortage of raw materials and grains during the next three to four years. This year's floods have broken the backbone of the peasantry. They will never have sufficient wherewithal both in the shape of physical strength and material sources to raise the winter crops. Of course, there will be no foreclosures this year owing to general famine conditions.

But if the material resources of the farmers are exhausted this year, there will be still greater difficulties next year. With very little wealth at their disposal, they will be hard hit in maintaining themselves and their families and at the same time to raise crops. At the end of the next year's season, i.e., in the beginning of 1961, the foreclosures at the initiative of co-operatives and other organs will start and raise a hue and cry among the villagers. Bombay is again to be sub-divided; if that be so, there is another Kerala in the offing. What is today the best administered state will fall from its enviable position.

Readers may note that even though all pointers from the economic point of view indicate a fall, the stock markets are staging a rise. The older readers will remember that when a famine is there, the prices of all stocks and shares fall. This year's floods have been so widespread throughout India that the backbone of the purchasing power of the country is broken. More than 70% of our Indian people are living in villages and if they are impoverished, there is bound to be a depression. But the present conditions on the stock markets of India are a tribute to the Government Printing Press. The more the depression is postponed, the more severe will it be when it sets in.

Those who are in trade ought to be knowing that the forward quotations of the agricultural crops are rising much more than those for ready delivery. Specially the future quotations for oilseeds are taking a strident march reflecting the scarcity that will arise in future but the ready delivery prices of vegetable oils are lagging behind. This shows very clearly that there is hardly economic strength in the country. The readers if they believe in astrology, will take care to take hints from the future issues regarding trends in the economic life of the country. In the meanwhile, they should tighten their belts because the policies of the Goverement have created such a situation that the springs of credit flowing to the peasantry and of which they are in perpetual need have dried up.

Astrological Section

I request the readers to have a look at the map drawn for the time of Sun's entry into Sagittarius. At Calcutta the same sign is rising with the concentration of five planets Neptune, Mars, Sun, Mercury and Jupiter in the 12th house, and four planets Venus, Uranus, Pluto and Moon in the 9th house. Saturn by itself remains in the 1st house. The presence of Sun, Mercury and Jupiter in the 12th indicates treachery in diplomacy because there is a large concentration of forces in the 9th house. Further look at the conjunction of Moon and Uranus in the ninth squaring Mars and Sun, while Venus squares Jupiter; further Pluto squares Jupiter and Sun.

For the Western India, the position is a good deal different. Jupiter, Sun and Mercury move into the 1st house and Saturn moves into the 2nd house. Therefore the initiative on stock markets will remain with Bombay. Along with the unsatisfactory nature of our foreign relations, there will be a strong nationalist temper rising which will not merely sustain but raise the level of prices. There will be a strong current to discount the present and a mystic gaze towards the future. Further all the cycles between major planets are very bullish. Though the floods all over India have caused the destruction of purchasing power of the masses, yet the investing class owing to the planetary forces will remain blind to the obvious facts. The most leading force to bring about such a deception is due to Neptune which is not merely in sextile with Pluto but also in sextile with Saturn. It will raise a new class temporarily into the realm of finance only to destroy it. But this destruction is not in sight for the time being.

There will be some lucky individual with Neptune and Saturn strong and beneficially inclined in their horoscopes; in such cases they will reap a fortune during the current month. Further the joint stock companies such as Indian cable which has this joint planetary force in good aspect, will show a very remarkable appreciation at the end of the current year. I want the readers to note that this is written early in October.

Further, there is again the sesquiquadrate aspect between Saturn and Uranus on the very first day of December. But it will not bring a decline because it is subordinate to the trine between Saturn and Pluto and to the sextile between Saturn and Neptune three weeks later. The tea shares which have hitherto remained neglected will gain a little prominence; at the same time, there will be a march forward in the values of plantation shares—specially the rubber ones. Do not forget the chemicals and tobacco company shares–they will rise as well.

But all these sections must yield the limelight to the shares of sugar companies. This buoyancy will be very evident in the unofficial quotations at the end of the month when the markets will remain closed owing to Christmas holidays. The whole of this month is very bullish and therefore I do not at all propose to indicate the reactionary days because the reaction will get exhausted during the working of the day. Therefore the following days should be specially noted when the bullish forces will be specially prominent.

December 1, 2, 3, 4, 8, 11, 12, 14, 16, 17, 20, 21, 23, 27, 28 and finally the 31st.

For those of you who are specially interested in iron and steel shares, I would suggest to look for a better rate of appreciation in the value of Tata irons than in others.

To the readers of the Astrological Section, I would request to pay a little attention to my remarks in the other section as well, and accordingly suggest to dispose of the lame ducks from investment portfolio. Further, to the speculators I would suggest to book profits and not to indulge in cornering because attempts at such cornering under the aegis of Neptune do not finally succeed. Of course, the grand saviour of the big financial guns is Pluto which always brings into existence a new integration.

Finally I would like to wish, to the readers of this magazine, greetings of the season and a Happy New Year.

Solar entry into Sagittarius, the 4th house from the ruling sign of India, and in 6th house from the ascending sign at Delhi takes place on 16th, at 5-41 a.m. (I.S.T.) on Tuesday, in Aridra constellation. Aridra, Hasta, Purvashada and Uttarashada are angular constellations. Hence, this ingress presages very inopportune time for Central India. Severe snowfall, earthquake or volcanic eruption in Siberia, Afghanistan, Kashmir and Italy respectively are indicated.

Jupiter rises on the 19th on the eastern side of Sun. Saturn gets combusted on 15th. Mars rises on 23rd on the eastern side of Sun. All these three planets are faster (Athichara) in motion, indicating settlement of several outstanding problems in the international sphere, pertaining to oil, navigation, sea-borne trade, foodstuffs and supply of implements to backward nations.

The Government should encourage Mundane Astrology, pertaining to weather, crop, epidemics, and natural calamities. Sun and Saturn in the 4th house from India's ruling sign (Kanya) and in opposition to Moon are unfavourable for the masses, crops, production, farming and mining operations. Saturn aspects Rahu placed in the ascending sign, is indicating to cause discontentment and impurity of blood amongst masses. This is not a fortunate month for starting or launching mass co-operative planning schemes. Saturn–Sun in opposition to Moon is unfavourable for military.

The ingress takes place on a Tuesday in Aridra constellation. This is a very unhappy combination. Bullion and cotton markets will pass through, an unfavourable state of affairs. Herschel and Jupiter are in favourable position. India's relation with foreign nations will be harmonious and could expect good help from U.S.A. The export trade will be on the progressive side.

December 1959 is a contemporary month with lunar Margasira, There are five Tuesdays in the month. Amavasya or New Moon takes place on a Tuesday in Purvashada constellation. Conjunction of Mars, Mercury and Jupiter takes place at the end of the month. They presage some natural disaster of greatest magnitude.

Fluctuating Periods.—1st to 4th steady and bullish; 5th to 7th sudden break; 8th to 10th (noon) some recoveries; 10th (afternoon) to 11th midnight decline; 12th to 16th (noon) steadiness; 16th (afternoon) to 21st morning bullish; 21st to 24th stormy fluctuations; 25th to 28th noon, good decline; and 29th to 31st steady rise.

New York Stocks.—Saturn is separating from the square of the shadowy planet Rahu, and approaching for a sextile aspect with Neptune. Overseas trade will be on the progressive side, while local demand will not be so hopeful. Sun forms 30 degrees' aspect with the lunation, which presages good rise in rubber, tea, coffee, yarn and plantation sections. Banking and electric sections as well will be on the progressive side. Bearish periods are:—1st to 3rd; 10th to 12th; and 15th to 17th. During the 2nd fortnight, there will be no uniformity in movement of prices in all stocks.

London Stocks.—In the African regions some catastrophical events are foreseen. There is a congregation of 6 planets in the 3rd house. The lunation falls in square aspect to the ascending sign and in conjunction with Jupiter. During this month, constructive measures in land and mining concerns are possible. Rubber, oil and tin concerns along with tea and coffee, will be on the progressive side as the month progresses. Textiles and woollen goods will have good export.

Indian Stocks.—Jupiter the lord of the 2nd house is forming trine with M.C., Herschel in retrograde, and Mars lord of the ascending sign, is separating from the square aspect of M.C. and Herschel. Venus and Herschel are in sextile aspect. It shows the Government would reduce tariff rates against textiles and cotton, to export larger quantity. Still Saturn transits through 2nd house which is not a favourable factor for steels, iron and mining concerns. Industrials and textiles will be more in the limelight during this month as well and steels will be very slow. Lunation takes place in the ascending house. Navigation and oil shares will be on the progressive side. Thus the month opens with a bullish tone continuing till 3rd evening. 4th to 8th, it will react on decline side, on rumours of heavy deliveries. But the scars will be outwitted from 8th afternoon and the progress will be attained through both sides. 19th afternoon to 22nd noon, again sudden good decline will be experienced. 22nd noon to 25th evening, bullish parties will be buying. 26th to end of the month, the political moves will influence the morale of the traders.

Cotton.—A bullish tone had started due to Rahu's entry in Piscean Navamsa on 7-10-1959, and it is also acting as a check on Mars' entry into Scorpio on the 24th November 1959. This check will not be long effective. Unfavourable reports of crops from U.S.A. and Egypt are in hand. Chaturdasi (14th lunar day) is duplicated. 1st to 7th is a bearish period. 8th to 20th is a strong bullish period. 21st to 31st is a very reactionary period.

Seeds.—Two yogas are missing during Margasira. Full Moon day falls on a Tuesday, in Mrigasira constellation. Mars–Jupiter conjunction takes place in the end of the month, while Sun–Jupiter conjunction takes place in the beginning of the month. Jupiter transitting Jyeshta causes vedha or check on Pushya. Saturn's entry into Purvashada on 7th December 1959 causes vedha with Kethu in Uttarabhadra. Good export business is indicated. Vegetable products will have good demands. The month is of a bullish tone. Hence, it is only good to buy every type and sort of seeds in good declines till the middle part of the month. The oil-cakes will be in greater demand in the second fortnight. The periods 10th to 13th, 16th evening to 18th evening, and 25th to 28th may witness decline.

Grains and Commodities.—Accelerated motion of Saturn, Mars and retrogression of Mercury are favourable for decline in grain market. It is an old aphorism, that while Saturn is in Moola Mercury in Swati and Moon in Makha, grains would touch the lowest prices; good for buying and selling after six months. Jupiter will be at the farthest distance from earth during this month. When this benefic planet attains this position, distinguishing power of good from bad elements disappear. Jupiter's trine with Herschel presages, the inception of State Trading Corporation in grains. 8th, 9th and 10th December 1959 are the most probable dates of changes in Central Cabinet and a like announcement of such inception.

Oils.—All sorts of oils are expected to rise. Even kerosene, petrol and liquid fuel will rise so. General rise in the international sphere will cause all round spurt.

Chemicals.—Acids, spirits, alcohol and their component parts or ingredients will witness good spurt during this month, which must have begun by 16th of the last month.

Jute Markets.—If this section has remained idle or dull till now, it will have a good spurt during this month more so from 7th December.

Sugar and Jaggery.—A time is approaching fast, when the Government will have to take over the distribution of jaggery, sugar, rice and wheat. Entrance of Saturn into Purvashada on 7th December 1959 clearly indicates such a position to happen. It lies with the business people to act cautiously. Crops will be affected and the season will be late by a month.

Tejana Markets.—It is purely a bullish month. The income will be lesser and the seasonal demand will be greater. The price levels in this section will be very high. The transit of Rahu through Uttraaphalguna and Purvaphalguna, indicates that even garlic, turmeric, onion, chillies, salt and allied items will rise during the first six months of the lunar year. Cocoanuts, grains and eatables will witness serious rises during V.S. 2016.

Bullions.—Banking concerns would experience worried times, when Mars-Jupiter conjunction takes place. Bank rates and interests would most probably increase. The conjunction takes places in 3rd house of the India's ruling sign and in the 5th house from the New Delhi chart. The value of the rupee will get lowered and so will be the case with Government loans. The first week is bearish for gold and silver, and will continue till Neptune-Venus conjunction taking place, on the 15th, the solar entry into Sagittarius will change the trend from bearish to bullish side. Diamonds, pearls and cultured pearls will be cheaper during this month.

Scanned by CamScanner

Artificial Silk.—The first fortnight is good for making hedge sales against the stocks held and double after the solar entry into Sagittarius. Second fortnight will have an upward trend, but, the political sphere must be carefully matched.

Rubber Markets.—The first fortnight is favourable for the stockists to clear stocks at improved demand and higher rates. Second fortnight is unfavourable for the export section and demand will disappear. A sluggish but weak market is anticipated during the second fortnight.

which can otherwise be easily checked with some precautionary measures if taken at proper time.

Simha (Leo).—The persons born with Moon in Leo are not so badly affected by the combination and they need not worry much.

Kanya (Virgo).—Take care of your children's health especially if Jupiter is weak or under affliction in your horoscope. Persons with heart trouble should take care of their health. Students should give up other activities and concentrate the attention on studies, otherwise they will have to fear failure in the examination.

Thula (Libra).—Persons having immovables will be required to pay more attention to their estates. It is advisable not to plunge into litigation concerning the immovables. Rental yields may suffer. Try to maintain good relations with the tenants. Old parents with weak health should be taken care of especially the females.

Vrischika (Scorpio).—Some disturbances in family circle are inevitable. Try to be a little bit practical to other persons' feelings. Avoid difference of opinions with the family members.

Dhanus (Sagittarius).—Time is not suitable to you so far as finance is concerned. Cultivate a habit of preparing budget and to follow the same strictly. Avoid all unnecessary expenses. Eighth house is afflicted and the lord of your rasi is also under affliction and is debilitated. Your health demands your attention.

Makara (Capricorn).—Persons with weak Moon in the horoscope need much to take care of their health and the health of partner in marriage. If Saturn is also weak in the horoscope Sadesathi effects will be most adverse. Be careful and do not go out of the way in any sphere of the life.

Much mental pressure will be experienced. Sometimes the pressure will be crossing the limits of your endurance. Be courageous. Try to be cheerful. The mental pressure may affect your digestion and thereby your health. Be very careful and do not give way to sentiments and hasty decisions. Be considerate and act according to the advice of the elders and the well-wishers.

Kumbha (Aquarius).—The combination and the eclipse fall in the 12th house, the house of Vyaya (expenses and losses). Try to be considerate in expenses and think twice before spending even a pie, otherwise the following proverb will come true in your case :—

> "He who buys what he does not want,
> Must oft sell what he does want"

If the 12th house and/or its lord in your horoscope is weak, be careful in court-matters. It is advisable to avoid disputes. Be away from 'Courts'.

Meena (Pisces).—The combination is not so bad for you and may not affect you much. Its effects will be obstructive rather than destructive in your case. Though not a favourable period for those in public service as Jupiter is afflicted and debilitated they need not fear any difficulties in particular. However one should not create difficulty of his own accord. Strict routine will save you from unnecessary trouble. Childrens' health may be affected adversely but there is no danger to their lives in any way.

THE HINDU PROGRESSED HOROSCOPE

By B. V. RAMAN

This book based on Tajaka covers fresh grounds in the field of prediction. It describes a unique method never before disclosed for deciphering annual life readings. Predictions made according to this work yield unique results. Whether you are a layman or initiated, you can draw up and interpret the annual reading in an easy and scientific manner. The system propounded in the pages of this work is rational and in actual practice yields most satisfactory results.

OPINION

"The author outlines a method of deciphering annual results from the Hindu horoscope. He claims that the principles of Tajaka astrology have been found to work accurately in actual practice, and controverts the orthodox belief that the system can be applied only to charts of individuals who have passed the age of thirty, There are many useful tables at the end and a summary."

THE SUN

The Sun in this month proceeds from the 17th degree of Nirayana Scorpio, enters Sagittarius on the 14th, and goes upto the 17th degree of that sign. His southern declination increases from 21° 39′ to 23° 10′. He comes to the winter solstice on the 22nd.

THE MOON

The Moon starts from the 26th degree of Nirayana Scorpio and after making a complete round of the heavens, goes upto the 4th degree of Nirayana Capricorn. He attains maximum declination on 1st, 15th and 29th of this month. He crosses the equator on the 8th and also on the 23rd. He goes to the Apogee on the 14th and to the Perigee on the 29th. He makes with the Sun the following aspects in this month.

First quarter	on 7th	at about 7 a.m.
Full Moon	on 15th	,, 10 a.m.
Last quarter	on 23rd	,, 8 a.m.
New Moon	on 30th	,, 1 a.m.

MARS AND MERCURY

Mars commences his journey from the 7th degree of Nirayana Scorpio and goes upto the 28th degree of the same sign

Mercury starts from the 3rd degree of Nirayana Scorpio, enters Sagittarius on the 3rd and goes upto the 2nd degree of that sign.

JUPITER AND VENUS

Jupiter begins his journey from the 20th degree of Nirayana Scorpio and goes upto the 27th degree.

Venus starts from the 1st degree of Nirayana Libra, enters Scorpio on the 27th, and goes upto the 6th degree of that sign.

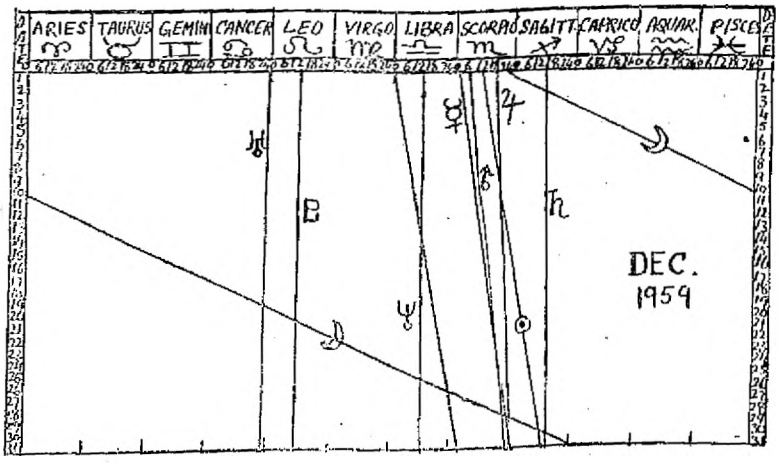
SATURN AND RAHU

Saturn starts from the 15th degree of Nirayana Sagittarius and proceeds upto the 18th degree of the same sign.

Rahu moves back from 9° 48′ to 6° 25′ of Nirayana Virgo.

OTHER PLANETS

Uranus is retrograde and moves back from 29° 14′ of Nirayana Cancer to 28° 44′ of the same sign.



Neptune is direct and progresses from 15° 59′ to 16° 51′ of Nirayana Libra.

Pluto is retrograde and moves back very slowly from 14° 18′ to 14° 13′ of Nirayana Leo.

LUNAR CONJUNCTION

The Moon will form conjunctions with planets in the following order :—

Saturn	on 2nd	at about	11 a.m.
Uranus	on 20th	,,	6 a.m.
Pluto	on 21st	,,	11 a.m.
Rahu	on 23rd	,,	6 a.m.
Neptune	on 26th	,,	3 a.m.
Venus	on 26th	,,	1 a.m.
Mars	on 28th	,,	6 p.m.
Jupiter	on 28th	,,	6 p.m.
Mercury	on 28th	,,	9 p.m.
Sun	on 30th	,,	1 a.m.
Saturn	on 30th	,,	3 a.m.

Weather Forecasts for December 1959

BY D. R. MUNSIFF, B.Sc. (Econ.),
London, B.A. (Hons.), (Bombay).

LET us examine for the sake of weather conditions, the map for the time Sun enters the sign Sagittarius on 23rd November. The positions of planets in the map drawn for North-Eastern India are as under. The second decanate of the ninth sign is rising; there is a cluster of five planets Neptune, Jupiter, Mars, Sun and Mercury in the 12th house. The watery sign of Pisces is on the cusp of the 4th house ruled by the very ruler of the ascendant. Further the part ruler of the 4th house Mars is in mundane conjunction with Jupiter, the ruler of the 4th house though actually in the skies, they are a little more than fifteen degrees apart. The ruler of the two angular houses 7th and 10th namely Mercury is also in conjunction with both Mars and Jupiter.

Thus Mercury, the planet ruling over the winds is the connecting link between the two planets Jupiter and Mars. The centre of our Universe Sun round which our planetary system moves lends forces to all those forces and marks the accent on the 12th house. This is not a very good omen for the weather conditions for the area covering Bihar, Orissa, some eastern parts of United Provinces and West Bengal. Generally speaking, the weather conditions will be marked by gusty and stormy winds. The winds do not bring much moisture with them but the driving force of the martian planet with the buoyant Jupiter, both strong in their own signs, will bring many storms and cyclones. In this destruction, the winged messenger lends its force. Further it is accompanied by Sun. Altogether, the planets are in a very destructive mood.

Saturn in the 1st house denotes the general condition of people. It shows the despondency and general moroseness of the people. But Saturn residing in its own house also indicates the constructive mood of the people. At this particular time, people will be doing their best in co-operation with the authorities to improve their lot.

In short, the weather will be inclement; there will be very strong winds throughout the month; at some places, it will cause heavy cloud-breaks because the 12th sign is a watery one on the cusp of the 4th house.

The planets for the map drawn for Western and Central India are not indicative of such stormy weather. The last decanate of Scorpio is rising with Mars almost on the ascendant. The Sun and Jupiter move into the 1st house. Thus the ruler of the 4th house remains in the 1st house. The jovial Jupiter will give strength and cheer to the masses. Of course, the messenger of winds will certainly bring strong breezes to the Western and Central India but they will not be destructive in their nature, as much as in the North-East.

Further Saturn moves from the 1st house into the second house. The sad and morose nature of Saturn will no longer afflict the people of this part of India during the month beginning from November 23rd.

But I want to draw the attention of the readers to one very important fact that the last eclipse of the Moon occurred in the 8th degree of Libra. In the 2nd and 3rd week of the month of December, Saturn stimulates the very same degree squaring it exactly. Moreover, Neptune also does so but the aspect is a benefic sextile. Therefore the eastern part of India which was afflicted by bad weather conditions in the last week of September and the first week of October will again suffer at the hands of cruel nature.

The dates portending cyclonic weather are November 24, 28, 29, December 2, 3, 5, 12, 14, 17, 21 and 23.

Finally the readers may note my remarks about stormy and destructive weather in September and October issues of this popular magazine which to my regret have been borne out by events.

HOW IS this month FOR YOU?

DECEMBER 1959

BY MIHIRA

[The following forecasts based on Janma Rasi are general and as such those having favourable aspects according to present Dasa and Bhukthi, will have favourable results from the indications made below; while those having adverse aspects according to current directions will experience these predictions to a lesser proportion. The predictions given below are based not upon conjecture, but upon a clear interpretation of the movements or transits of planets. If you do not know your Janma Rasi write to Mihira, C/o THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope.—Ed., A.M.]

MAJOR TRANSITS:—Sun transits Scorpio till 14, then enters Sagittarius. Mercury remains in Scorpio practically for the entire month. Venus remains in Libra till 26th, also practically for the whole month. There is no change of sign in respect of the other planets. Mars, Jupiter and Saturn continue in the same signs as they were at the end of the previous month, that is Mars and Jupiter in Scorpio and Saturn in Sagittarius. Rahu and Kethu continue their retrograde motion in Virgo and Pisces respectively.

1. Mesha (Aries).—Rahu in 6th; Venus in 7th and 8th; Mars and Jupiter in 8th; Mercury in 8th; Sun in 8th and 9th; Saturn in 9th; and Kethu in 12th.

General.–Mercury is the only planet in a favourable sign for the entire month. Though unchecked throughout, he is not such a potent influence in transit. Venus is evil before change of sign, so practically for the whole month. Sun, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn—all these transit inauspicious signs only. Of these, Saturn is under check throughout and Mars and Jupiter for nearly the entire period. Sun is under vedha for the first half and free during the second. So the general results can be expected to be only predominantly adverse, though because of check, conditions will not generally be very bad. Still the outlook for the month is not bright. There is likely to occur enmities with elders, displeasure of superiors, unsavoury and bad company, quarrels with friends and relatives, ill-health, humiliation, anxieties and despondency, wearisome journeys and fatigue, liability to accidents during journeys, losses, troubles from rivals and enemies, sorrows owing to death of relatives and friends, etc. As against all this, there may be some happiness, success, gains, steadiness, auspicious events, etc., because of Mercury. Of the three stars of the sign, those born under Aswini will suffer least, those born under Krittika come next in order and the worst sufferers will be those born under Bharani.

Health and Domestic.–Good health cannot be expected for the entire month. Troubles due to excessive heat, blood pressure, fever, accidents, blood-poisoning, fatigue from tedious journeys, etc., are probable. Chronic sufferers from such troubles as above will do well to take extra care and journeys avoided as far as possible. The wife's health too may suffer. There is also the likelihood of quarrels and misunderstandings inside the domestic circle, and also troubles caused by the opposite sex even from outside. The death of some relative or friend causing deep sorrow is also probable.

Finance and Speculation.—Increased activity will be witnessed in the financial sphere but most of it will have only adverse results. Income will not be lacking and may even improve but all that will be spurt and there would be need for more. Losses too are probable. So big financial enterprises should be avoided as far as possible as chances of losses through unions, open rivalries or enmities and competition may have to be faced. Theft cannot be considered as a remote source of loss. With all this, speculation will have some attractions during the month but it would be very difficult to find the correct time for beginning operations and once begun to call them off at the correct time.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—Matters connected with real property may run a normal course, almost unaffected by the prevailing evil transits and do not call for any special comments this month. True, one must be prepared for the unexpected element to take a hand and may cause much deviation from normal course. Losses through unvoluntary alienation or other causes. The month however is not unpropitious for dealings in real property, sale, exchange or purchase. The yield and rentals will be quite good and satisfactory. Contentions and disputes are likely to arise in regard to any matter connected with real property but litigation should be avoided as far as possible. This is an equivocal month for the services. In the case of most persons, obstacles, delays, bad name, displeasure of superiors or people in authority, ill-luck, troubles from rivals and enemies are likely to arise. But in the case of a favoured few, especially when the directional influences are also strong, there may be recognition and reward for devoted and faithful services in the past. The month cannot be said to be quite unfavourable for the profession and business. Professional journeys may prove a success. The publishing fraternity may have some special successes or honours awaiting them.

Women.—This is not an important month for the fair sex, and may well prove to be a dull one on all accounts. There is no scope for any great success, domestically or socially in any of their usual activities and none of their ambitions are likely to be realised. Anything started during the month will simply drift aimlessly and so it is better to start none and await better times. The month is however not unsuitable for shopping, purchase of luxury items, making of jewellery, etc., especially during the first half. There is scope for some success in philanthropic activities.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and domestic matters—3, 8, 13, 17, 19, 24, 28, 29; money dealings—1, 5, 13, 16, 22, 24, 26, 31; short journeys—3, 5, 7, 14, 18, 24, 27, 30; long journeys—1, 4, 5, 9, 13, 19, 24, 26, 27; real property affairs and academical activities—1, 3, 7, 9, 18, 20, 24, 28; speculation, children's affairs and love affairs—1, 5, 9, 13, 20, 24, 25, 30; service affairs and prospects—3, 5, 7, 14, 18, 24, 27, 30; partnership activities—1, 5, 13, 16, 22, 26, 31; insurance matters—3, 8, 13, 17, 19, 24, 28, 29; professional and business enterprises—6, 13, 15, 24, 28, 30.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private affairs—6, 12, 14, 16, 21, 25, 28; money dealings and transactions—2, 3, 7, 11, 15, 19, 25, 28; short journeys—2, 8, 12, 17, 21, 25, 31; long journeys—2, 8, 17, 18, 22, 29, 31; real property matters and academical activities—2, 6, 8, 12, 21, 23, 26; speculation and children's affairs—2, 7, 11, 15, 19, 23, 26, 29; service affairs—2, 8, 12, 17, 21, 25, 31; partnership dealings—3, 7, 11, 15, 21, 24, 25; insurance activities—6, 12, 14, 16, 21, 25, 28; professional and business enterprises—3, 8, 12, 16, 21, 23, 29.

Chandrashtama from the beginning of the month till noon of 1st and again from midnight of 26th till midnight of 28th.

2. Vrishabha (Taurus).—Rahu in 5th; Venus in 6th and 7th; Mercury, Mars and Jupiter in 7th; Sun in 7th and 8th; Saturn in 8th; and Kethu in 11th.

General.—The outstanding good influence for the month is Jupiter in seventh and unchecked. Unfortunately however this is to a great extent offset by the fact that no other transitting planet is in a favourable sign even for part of the month—Mercury, Venus, Sun, Mars and Saturn being throughout in evil signs only. But as Saturn is under check all along, Mercury and Mars thus affected for the greater part of the month and Sun for the first half, there is not much harm done after all. Venus is the only planet free of vedha. Mixed results with the evil elements preponderating is what one should expect for the month. The second half will be somewhat worse than the first. Health troubles, mental depression and anxieties, quarrels, fatigue from travels, losses, disputes with friends, obstacles in undertakings, unfounded accusations and charges, dishonour and disgrace, evils arising from opposite sex, adverse litigations, etc., are the probable evil results of the unfavourable transits. But happiness, luxuries, auspicious events and celebrations, study of new subjects, etc., are the results due for the favourable position of Jupiter. Of the three stars of the sign, the worst sufferers will be those born under Mrigasira and the least will be those born with Rohini as their birth star while those born under Krittika will come between the two.

Health and Domestic.—There will be plenty of ill-health and sufferings from ailments but they will be all only on a minor scale and never assume serious proportions. Ailments of stomach and rectum, urinary troubles, high blood pressure, eye troubles, etc., may be present. The children's health as well as that of the wife may also be affected. Peace will not be the rule in the domestic sphere and will be disturbed quite often with bickerings and quarrels. In bad cases, it may even amount to temporary separation from wife and children. You are also likely to suffer much worries because of the actions of some of your relatives outside the domestic circle.

Finance and Speculation.—Contrary and uncertain trends in financial matters may create many a puzzling situation within the month. Excessive expenditure cannot perhaps be helped but acts of extravagance should be abstained from. There will be also some contraction in the usual avenues of income. Losses are indicated by more than one transit influences and so you should think twice before launching or participating in any financial ventures. It will be a difficult matter to refrain from contracting debts but this should be heroically abstained from as otherwise complications may arise. This is not the month for indulging in speculative activities of any sort.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—The month is not generally favourable for real property matters. In any activity or project connected with land, you should particularly avoid joint ventures or partnerships as you are likely to suffer from losses and other troubles through premature breaking up of such an arrangement. This may as well be held to include partnerships in heavy industries such as mills, foundries, etc. Even involuntary alienation of ancestral property is threatened during the month but the favourable influences will stand you in good stead in aiding your efforts to avoid such a contingency. Both good and bad influences bear upon the services and nearly cancel each other out. Still chances for your incurring the displeasure of your employers and superiors are very great and you should conduct yourself warily on that account. Beware of launching or taking part in any activity that is likely to make the authorities look upon you with suspicion inspite of great temptation to do so. Great care will be required in the handling of business matters and professional activities, especially in the case of lawyers, trustees, etc, especially where the handling of estate of deceased are concerned.

Women.—While, for all ordinary matters, the month may be said to be favourable for the fair sex, the influences are not sufficiently powerful to support them in any extra activities or any ambitious programmes—social, philanthropic or otherwise. The unattached especially will have to be wary in their dealings with the opposite sex, as there are chances for their being deceived or disappointed. Excursions, picnics, outings, etc., in mixed company should as far as possible sought to be avoided.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs—1, 5, 13, 16, 22, 24, 26, 31; money dealings—3, 5, 7, 14, 18, 24, 27, 30; long journeys—6, 13, 15, 24, 28, 30; real property affairs and academical activities—2, 8, 12, 17, 21, 25, 31; speculation, children's affairs and love affairs—3, 5, 7, 14, 18, 24, 27, 30; service affairs and prospects—1, 5, 13, 16, 22, 26, 31; partnership business—3, 8, 13, 17, 19, 24, 28, 29; insurance activities—1, 4, 5, 9, 13, 19, 24, 26, 27; professional and business enterprises—1, 4, 5, 9, 13, 19, 24, 26, 27.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private affairs—2, 3, 7, 11, 15, 19, 25, 28; money dealings—2, 8, 12, 17, 21, 25, 31; short journeys—2, 6, 8, 12, 21, 23, 26; long journeys—3, 8, 12, 16, 21, 23, 29; real property matters and academical activities—2, 7, 11, 15, 19, 23, 24, 29; speculation, children's affairs and love affairs—2, 8, 12, 17, 21, 25, 31; service affairs—3, 7, 11, 15, 21, 24, 25; partnership activities—6, 12, 14, 16, 21, 25, 28; insurance business—2, 8, 17, 18, 22, 29, 31; professional and business enterprises—3, 8, 12, 16, 21, 23, 29.

Chandrashtama from noon of 1st till noon of 3rd and again from midnight of 28th till midnight of 30th.

3. Mithuna (Gemini).—Rahu in 4th; Venus in 5th and 6th; Jupiter, Mars and Mercury in 6th; Sun in 6th and 7th: Saturn in 7th; and Kethu in 10th.

General.—Mercury and Mars are favourable for the entire month and Venus for nearly the whole month. Jupiter and Saturn are evil throughout. Sun is good for the first half only. It is rather unique feature of the month that all the good transits are free of check and the evil ones are under check. Sun is the only exception as he is free of vedha during the second half when he is not favourable. Therefore generally good influences predominate and the first half will be even better than the second. General success, triumphs over rivals, happiness, gains, purchase of luxury items and their enjoyments, popularity and renown, auspicious events in the house and celebrations, help from friends, meeting of welcome relatives, honours, etc., are the probable good results of the first half. Unwelcome changes, tedious journeys, ill-health, disputes with relatives, fruitless undertakings, losses, humiliation and anxieties are due for the evil transits. Of the three stars of the sign, the best results will be for those born under Aridra, while those born under Mrigasira and Punarvasu will not benefit much from the rays of the favourable planets.

Health and Domestic.—Troubles in health such as indigestion, dysentery fever, etc., may occur in the second half and would yield to prompt treatment and ordinary precautions and may even be prevented by prophylactic care. The wife and children may require something more than ordinary attention if they fall ill. Though ordinary bickerings, even quarrels may be present off and on throughout, domestic peace and harmony will not be seriously disturbed. There is just a chance that you may suffer sorrow through the demise of a beloved friend or relative, the news of which may come upon you rather unexpectedly.

Finance and Speculation.—The first half will be quite satisfactory in the matter of finance. There will be gains, success in financial enterprises, increased income, help from friends and general appreciation of your holdings. Greater care will be required in your dealings and enterprise, as there is an abrupt change in the transit influences which may render them fruitless or even cause losses. So risky ventures should not be indulged in. This caution applies with all the greater force to.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—The matters connected with real property may have a smooth run generally during the month but the facilities may not be so great as may be expected from the prevailing good transits Both good and bad may take place in this connection. There are chances for some gains through inheritance or otherwise and at the same time there is also scope for losses through unvoluntary or enforced sales. The yield and rentals are also liable to be affected to some extent. If new enterprises or innovations are planned such as for introduction of modern methods of cultivation on a large scale, it would be better to postpone them for better times. The first half is undoubtedly favourable for the services. Success over rivals and enemies, promotion, termination of previously existing obstacles, popularity, favour of superiors, etc., are all due during this part of the month. Though conditions will not be as good during the latter half, still there are no reasons to expect adverse results or any setbacks. Conditions will be above average for the profession and business and those who will most benefit during the month will be persons connected with military and naval contracts, supplies, hospital supplies and the medical profession in general.

Women.—The month can be said to be generally suitable for all such activities as are germane to the fair sex. The month is ideal for excursions, picnics, parties, courtships and love affairs, etc. But members of the fair sex have to be wide awake as to where their best interests lie, especially in the case of the unattached as there is a liability of their forming ill advised attachments below their rank or station because of temporary or transient glamour or other causes. They will do well to avoid matrimony entirely during this month. In doing so, they will have no regrets later on.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs—3, 5, 7, 14, 18, 24, 27. 30; money dealings—1, 3, 7, 9, 18, 20, 24, 28; short journeys—5, 9, 13, 20, 24, 25, 30; long journeys—6, 13, 15, 24, 28, 30; real property affairs and academical activities—3, 5, 7, 14, 18, 24, 27, 30; speculation, children's affairs and love affairs—1, 5, 13, 16, 22, 26, 31; service affairs—3, 8, 13, 17, 19, 24, 28, 29; partnership matters—1, 4, 5, 9, 13, 19, 24, 26, 27; insurance business and activities—6, 13, 15, 24, 28, 30; professional and business enterprises—1, 4, 5, 9, 13, 19, 24, 26, 27.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private affairs—2, 8, 12, 17, 21, 25, 31; money dealings—2, 6, 8, 12, 21, 23, 26; short journeys—2, 7, 11, 15, 19, 23, 26, 29; long journeys—3, 8, 12, 16, 21, 23, 29; real property affairs and academical activities—2, 8, 12, 17, 21, 25, 31; speculation, children's affairs and love affairs—3, 7, 11, 15, 21, 24, 25; service affairs—6, 12, 14, 16, 21, 25, 28; partnership business—2, 8, 17, 18, 22, 29, 31; insurance business and activities—3, 8, 12, 16, 21, 23, 29; professional and business enterprises—2, 8, 17, 18, 22, 29, 31.

Chandrashtama from noon of 3rd till afternoon of 5th and again from midnight of 30th till end of the month.

4. Kataka (Cancer).—Rahu in 3rd; Venus in 4th and 5th; Mars, Mercury and Jupiter in 5th; Sun in 5th and 6th; Saturn in 6th; and Kethu in 9th.

General.—Venus, Jupiter and Saturn are in favourable signs for the entire month. But Saturn is under check throughout and Jupiter for nearly the whole month. Venus too suffers check though very late in the month. Sun is good for the second half only though free of vedha. Thus Mercury and Mars are the only planets in evil signs for the entire month. Of these Mars is under check practically throughout while Mercury is entirely free. On the whole, it is seen that good influences are in the majority and during the second half four planets are in auspicious signs and so this will be the better part of the month. Good health, success over rivals and enemies, gains, cheerfulness, good company and associations, increased prosperity, acquisition and enjoyment of luxury items, auspicious events and celebrations, gain of knowledge, excursions, good news, help from friends, etc., are the good things to be expected of the favourable transits. Troubles through enemies, especially during the first half, sorrows, quarrels and misunderstandings, mental agitation and worries, losses, weakness and debility, purposeless undertakings, etc., are the evils that may be caused by the adverse transits. Of the three stars of the sign, those born under Pushya will be most benefitted by the auspicious transits of the month and those born with Punarvasu or Aslesha as their birth star may not be able to derive much benefits.

Health and Domestic.—Weakness and general debility will be the general nature of the complaints during the month rather than any specific illness. But in the case of the children, it may be worse. They may catch any of the prevailing epidemics or fever and suffer much causing much mental anxieties. The influences may also be responsible for some accident to you r to a member of the family circle. The peace of the family is liable to be disturbed by occasional bickerings and quarrels especially during the first half, but they will never prove to be serious and on the whole may have only nuisance value.

Finance and Speculation.—Finance for the month will be fairly satisfactory from all points of view. Ordinarily more than average levels will be touched. But it is also likely that you will not be able to realise the full fruits of your financial enterprises due to some cause or other, such as sickness, or unforeseen market failures or other factors. There is also likelihood of gains through investments, entertainments, etc. All this applies more to the second half than to the first during which conditions are not so favourable and there is even likelihood of some minor losses. Speculation as such is not taboo this month and gains can be effected if operations are done with care and caution.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—Real property matters are well favoured for nearly the whole month and yields and rentals will reach satisfactory levels. In other respects however, the results will be mixed. This month is favourable for investments in real property, or shares on a long-term basis as they are likely to turn out well in the future, but troubles may arise in your relations with agents, tenants, servants, etc., but can be avoided if you pay due regard to the rights and feelings of those with whom you have to deal from their viewpoint and by making some concessions instead of fanatically sticking to your own views. The second half is highly favourable for service interests and the difficulties experienced during the first half may be remedied to a great extent. The good and bad during the month may not be traceable to your own actions but be related to changes in the background influences or in the fortunes (or setbacks) of those placed above you. The second half will witness good expansion and advancement in the professional and business front and will be generally a smooth-running period with minimum setbacks or hitches. Those connected with publicity, communications and transports, publishing, education, etc., may be said to be specially favoured.

Women.—This is rather a peculiar month for the members of the fair sex inasmuch as two separate sets of opposing influences operate at the same time. On the one hand, there is the likelihood of unfortunate love affairs because of their being too impressionable and on the other, due to the inability to arouse sufficient response from the object of affections. But all this would apply only to a small percentage who are in the courting stage and may not be generally predicative of the sex as a whole. As in all other matters, the second half is generally more favourable.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs—1, 3, 7, 9, 18, 20, 24, 28; money dealings—1, 5, 9, 13, 20, 24, 25, 30; short journeys—3, 5, 7, 14, 18, 24, 27, 30; long journeys—1, 4, 5, 9, 13, 19, 24, 26, 27; real property affairs and academical activities—1, 5, 13, 16, 22, 26, 31; speculation, love affairs and children's affairs and prospects—3, 8, 13, 17, 19, 24, 28, 29; service affairs—1, 4, 5, 9, 13, 19, 24, 26, 27; partnership business—6, 13, 15, 24, 28, 30; insurance matters—6, 13, 15, 24, 28, 30; professional and business enterprises—3, 8, 13, 17, 19, 24, 28, 29.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private affairs—2, 6, 8, 12, 21, 23, 26; money dealings and transactions—2, 7, 11, 15, 19, 23, 26, 29; short journeys—2, 8, 12, 17, 21, 25, 31; long journeys—2, 8, 17, 18, 22, 29, 31; real property affairs and academical activities—3, 7, 11, 15, 21, 24, 25; speculation, children's affairs and love affairs—6, 12, 14, 16, 21, 25, 28; service affairs and prospects—2, 8, 12, 17, 18, 22, 29, 31; partnership business and dealings—3, 8, 12, 16, 21, 23, 29; insurance activities—3, 8, 12, 16, 21, 23, 29; professional and business enterprises—6, 12, 14, 16, 21, 25, 28.

Chandrashtama from afternoon of 5th till about midnight of 7th.

5. Simha (Leo).—Rahu in 2nd; Venus in 3rd and 4th; Mercury, Mars and Jupiter in 4th; Sun in 4th and 5th; Saturn in 5th: and Kethu in 8th.

General.—Venus is the only transitting planet that is in a favourable sign for the month and free of vedha but even so cannot do much in transit. All the other planets are in evil signs only except Mercury who is for the greater part of the month under check. Mars, Jupiter and Saturn are unfavourable right through as also Sun. But for the doctrine of check, the outlook is certainly not very promising for the month. As it is, Jupiter and Saturn are under vedha throughout, Mars for nearly the whole month and Sun for the first half only. So the predominance of evil transits may not prove as bad as may be feared under the circumstances. Still there will be quarrels and disputes with friends and relatives, even separation, unhappiness, impediments and obstacles, ill-health, troubles through rivals and enemies, loss of position, deceit through friends, false implications and charges, humiliation, litigation, losses, etc. However some successes, increase of one's sphere of influence, some luxuries, auspicious events, gains, pleasure trips and excursions, good and helpful friendships, etc., are to be expected from the good transits. Of the three stars of the sign, those born under Makha will suffer least, next come those born under Uttaraphalguna and the worst sufferers will be those born under Poorvaphalguna.

Health and Domestic.—It may be your lot to suffer some of the inconveniences due to failure of health. It may be anything from ordinary fever and digestive troubles due to hæmorrhages, diarrhoea or dysentery or accidents. But there is no reason to fear any major or serious setbacks in health due to disease or accidents. But there are likely to be plenty of mental worries, apprehensions and anxieties. The causes may be purely domestic or otherwise also. Troubles and sorrows caused by intimate relatives both inside and outside the domestic circle may well be behind the major worries of the month. Sorrows may also result from the death of relatives.

Finance and Speculation.—Varied activities will be witnessed in the financial sphere and not all may prove to be adverse. Anyhow financial stress cannot be avoided during the month. In bad cases, it may even be pressure from creditors or stress may arise through deceit by 'friends' or even promised help not forthcoming at the right time even from willing friends. All this is not inconsistent with normal and routine progress in your financial affairs but mean only that these will prove entirely inadequate to the extra demands and losses that may happen during the month. Speculation has no support for the entire month.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—The month as a whole is not favourable for real property matters and all activities connected therewith, be it investment or sale, or enterprises and innovations connected with its improvement. Yield and rentals too will not prove satisfactory and considerable difficulties and friction may have to be encountered in the way of their realisation. Quarrels, disputes and litigation too may crop up in this connection. The month is not also good for changes and removals. It is however probable that some important matter, the probable issue of which was hanging fire till now, may be terminated favourably to you during this month. By keeping strictly to routine, the month may be passed uneventfully. There is nothing in the influences that are favourable to the services. On the other hand, there are plenty that are adverse. False charges, humiliation, depromotion, displeasure from Governmental sources or persons in power and position over you, are the results due for evil transits in force but because of vedha and other compensating features, these may be only threatened but not actually happen. Therefore it is up to you to be careful in all matters to avert as far as possible such consequences as much as lies in your power. The profession and business are in a better position and may function round average levels.

Women.—Conditions at the opening of the month are not adverse to the activities of the fair sex as such. But as the month progresses, there is gradual worsening so that the closing part of the month is the worst from this respect. This in the case of only those who lead an actively social life and are socially ambitious. But the greater part who lead normal life as housewives this month there is nothing special except it be that some of the unattached may become engaged though not actually married within the month.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs—1, 5, 9, 13, 20, 24, 25, 30; money dealings—3, 5, 7, 14, 18, 24, 27, 30; short journeys—1, 5, 13, 16, 22, 26, 31; long journeys—3, 8, 13, 17, 19, 24, 28, 29; real property affairs and academical activities—3, 8, 13, 17, 19, 24, 28, 29; speculation, children's affairs and love affairs—1, 4, 5, 9, 13, 19, 24, 26, 27; service affairs and prospects—6, 13, 15, 20, 28, 30; partnership matters—6, 13, 15, 20, 28, 30; insurance activities—1, 4, 5, 9, 13, 19, 24, 26, 27; professional and business enterprises—1, 5, 13, 16, 22, 24, 26, 31.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private affairs—2, 7, 11, 15, 19, 23, 26, 29; money dealings—2, 8, 12, 17, 21, 25, 31; short journeys—3, 7, 11, 15, 21, 24, 25; long journeys—6, 12, 14, 16, 21, 25, 28; real property matters and academical activities—6, 12, 14, 16, 21, 25, 28; speculation, children's affairs and love affairs—2, 8, 17, 18, 22, 29, 31; service affairs—3, 8, 12, 15, 21, 23, 29; partnership business—3, 8, 12, 16, 21, 23, 29; insurance activities—3, 8, 17, 18, 22, 29, 31; professional and business enterprises—2, 3, 7, 11, 15, 19, 25, 28.

Chandrashtama from about midnight of 7th till forenoon of 13th.

6. Kanya (Virgo).—Rahu in 1st; Venus in 2nd and 3rd; Mercury, Mars and Jupiter in 3rd; Sun in 3rd and 4th; Saturn in 4th; and Kethu in 7th.

General.—Venus and Mars transit good signs for the entire month, but Venus is under check throughout. Sun is good for the first half and free of vedha but bad for second half and under check. Mercury, Jupiter and Saturn are evil for the entire month. Of these Saturn is under check all along as also Mercury while Jupiter is inhibited for the greater part of the month. Thus it is seen that there is at least one transit influence that is favourable and free of check whereas not even one malefic transit is free. This is of good augury for the month generally though somewhat limited in scope as one can expect only such of the good things as promised by a solitary planet. It has also to be remembered that evil transits are more numerous. In a month of mixed results the first half will make a much better show than the second. Happiness, success over rivals and enemies, gains, good and valued friendships, new position and status, special honours, success in undertakings, gifts and presents, auspicious events, acquisition of luxury items, etc., are the good effects of the favourable planets especially during the first half Tedious journeys away from family and friends, death among relatives, failure in enterprises, unwelcome changes and removals, loss of friends, loss of position, enmities and misunderstandings with relatives and friends, impediments and setbacks in all matters, are the likely evil results especially during the latter half. Of the three stars of the sign the worst sufferers will be those born under Chitta while the least will be those born under Hasta. Those born with Uttaraphalguna as their birth star will come between the two.

Health and Domestic.—Colds and rheumatic troubles are the sort of ailments one has to be on guard against during the month. Rectal ailments such as piles, hæmorrhage may also make their appearance during the second half. In short, the genito-urinary system is liable to be affected and precautions should be taken. Some domestic unhappiness too may arise during the second as also impediments in married life and enjoyments. Quarrels and enmities with relatives, outside the domestic circle are also probable. Changes and removals should as far as possible be avoided during the month especially during the second half.

Finance and Speculation.—Though mixed influences are in force here also, the first half is decidedly more favourable and there will be success in financial enterprises and gains through personal ingenuity and industry and there will be scope for financial advancement as a result of sober and steady effort. This is also the time for long-term investments. But during the second half setbacks, even losses are probable. There will be much work for little gain. The temptation to make "easy money" will be strong and if indulged in, heavy losses are probable. This observation applies with all the greater force to speculative activities throughout the month.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—The month as a whole is not favourable for real property interests in general. Yield and rentals are liable to be affected by various causes including weather, governmental action, pests, etc. There may be sudden and unforeseen setbacks may arise as a result of your inability to adapt yourself to changes, through trying to shirk your obligations. You may have to take upon yourself unwanted responsiblities through lack of forethought. Therefore you should seriously study each situation as it develops and make a decision and never act on hearsay or second-hand interested advice especially in making investments. The month is generally good for the services, especially the first half when you can expect to get the necessary recognition of your work by your superiors and score a point of two over your rivals and this may mean in favourable cases, the acquisition of new position or status or a position of authority. During the second half, just opposite conditions may prevail; there may be trouble from your superiors, government and your rivals and enemies. The month is not unfavourable for the business and the profession and success will accrue through short journeys, business trips, and Governmental commissions, etc.

Women.—The month cannot be said to be favourable for the fair sex as a whole. Unwanted quarrels with neighbours and even relatives are likely to develop and lead to much mental conflict and excitement. The difficulties will be greater in social circles and nothing will shape out well. Even in your letters and correspond-

" proved sufficient by the history of Chinese buddhism and the discoveries in Central Asia ".

The original contributions of the Hindus in the practice of arithmetic, algebra and geometry may be briefly illustrated. They discovered the cardinal numbers 1 to 9, and also the zero (bindu). They knew the eight-fold system of addition (yoga), subtraction (viyoga), multiplication (purana), square (varga), cube (ghana), square root (vargamula), and cube root (ghanamula). They discovered the modern method of division and the rule of three. They knew the fraction and its addition and subtraction by the method of L.C.C., called Niruddha in the Ganitasara Samgraha of Mahavira, Pingala (2nd cent. B.C.) used in his Chhandas sutra the method of permutation and combination (Chhandoganita). Aryabhatta refers to this and also to A.P. and G.P. In his Lilavati Bhaskaracharya has demonstrated that when a figure is divided by zero the result is an infinite number.

NESTOR OF THE NETHERLAND ASTROLOGERS

He put forth these last 12 as the personal/individual zodiac, in contrast to the cosmic/universal zodiac of the 12 signs.

The basis and distribution of the 12 signs in their different aspects, apply mutatis mutandis, also for the personal/individual cycle, the 12 sectors.

Thus the modern horoscope-interpretation was based on:

(a) Potentiality (ability/aptitude) that is to say, the co-operation of the rulers of the 12 sectors, divided in certain cycle, in analogy with the distribution of the 12 signs in the triangles, crosses, etc. The character of a planet as planetary force, remains so far out of consideration.

The whole thus forms the geno-typical element, or the objective part of the horoscope, so-called one's "Aptitude".

(b) Ideality, the subjective part of the horoscope, formed by the conglomeration of the planetary forces, that is placed at the disposal of a new-born, as a sort of arsenal of tools (forces), with the intention of realizing the individual aptitude (a).

The important root of this subject is what we call nowadays, from the modern astrological point of view, "the character", e.g., the co-operation between individuality (Sun), personality (Moon), and temperament (Ascendant).

(c) Reality, which occurs through the interaction between the (a) & (b) conceptions, leading to the phenotypical view, or the reality of someone's life, with, and in the given circumstances.

The interpretative part of Mr. Ram's closed astrological system has been put down in his "Psychological Astrology" and will be, as far as needed, more fully detailed and elaborated in his "Psycho-Astrological Encyclopedia", of which some volumes have already appeared.

As far as is known to us, we do not believe that in any other part in the world, so complete an astro-technical, psycho-astrological and philosophical system has been published.

This is Mr. Ram's greatest merit for the science of astrology, to which he has consecrated the greater part of his life.

At the same time he has bridged and united Eastern Wisdom and Western Science, although the results of this part of his exceptional energy and capacities, do not lie on a public level.

a stream of visitors to his residence at the Hotel Hollander.

Prof. Raman's visit has been evoking great interest in the States. His simple and unassuming nature, sincereity, his saint-like habits (ever since he came here he has been living on milk, fruits and corn-flakes) and the manner of his exposition of Indian Culture and Astrology have won for him great admiration and he is being referred to in such terms as the first Hindu (here for Indian, the term Hindu is mostly used) authority to speak on ancient astrology, the messenger of ancient culture, etc. He has created in the minds of a good many Americans—including some matter of fact scientists—a great interest and esteem for Indian Culture and Astrology. He will be visiting Toledo, Chicago, Los Angeles, Hollywood and San Francisco, before leaving for Europe on 28th October. He has a heavy lecture programme in Europe also.

indicates the results of Karma. From a purely scientific aspect, the horoscope can be considered as the mathematical interpretation of the energy-quanta with which human systems—biological and psychological, are composed of. With regard to each horoscope, "the future or the destiny-pattern is the net-energy-quanta possessed by the system". The energy-quanta can be increased or decreased according as there is a deficiency or excess, in two ways. One extraneous, viz,, by the application of mantras or regulated forms of sound vibrations, by the use of gems and certain herbs and the other by internal processes; that is, by the regulation of the energy within the system itself. Let us take the instance of a person born in the constellation of Makha (Regulus), and the ascendant being Aquarius and Mercury being placed in Scorpio. This combination goes under the name of Paisacha Yoga the result being extreme mental imbalance and violent outbreaks of temper. Depending upon whether the combination is capable of permanent or transitory influence, the extreme form of mental imbalance will be temporary or permanent. If temporary, the appropriate directional influences should be noted. In this case, there is a certain deficiency of the energy-quanta pertaining to the Moon and Mercury. In such a case, gems like pearl and emerald are used. The ancient theory is that since gems or precious stones are formed under great pressure of solar rays they contain the essences of the different planetary rays. What the deficient quantity is can be mathematically ascertained. The Sages through their intuition were able to find out what types of mantras (packets of sound vibrations) are necessary to deal with the deficient energy-quanta of the different planets. There are special mantras—regulated forms of sound vibrations, with the aid of which the deficient energy-quanta is made good. In a number of cases, such treatments have proved highly satisfactory. Many of these ideas may seem strange to you; yet when we analyse them we find that they have their roots either in some intrinsic quality of these gems or in an instinctive appreciation of their symbolical significance; and through manifold transformation this symbolism has persisted to the present day. By certain yogic practices which involve the regulation of breath and the manipulation of certain Chakras or force-centres within the system itself, the system is enabled to replenish the deficient forces. The Moon–Saturn conjunction especially in a constellation ruled by Mars denotes a restless and anxious disposition. The person is apt to pass through severe phases of depression. These tendencies can be overcome by recourse to certain types of spiritual practices—involving release of certain types of neutralising energies from the mind itself. In India, music is also largely employed to get rid of physical and mental ailments. As you all know, green color is associated with Mercury. Green is a cheerful and energising color. It excites a desire to grow, to create and to accomplish. Mercury rules intelligence or buddhi. Green is a color capable of creating a sense of intelligent appreciation. If Mercury is, say with the Moon's descending node, the person's intelligence becomes stunted. Certain musical tunes have been designed by the Sages, in respect of each planet. Color is vibration and sound is vibration—the difference being one of frequency. By making the person concerned listen to the particular tune assigned to Mercury for a certain number of times or by making him wear a green stone, it is said that the affliction can be remedied. Remedial astrology is perhaps not much known in the West. But in India this has been developed into considerable perfection. What are called, in astrological parlance, as afflictions merely constitute the deficiency of the requisite or normal energy-quanta and this can be compensated by mantras which are nothing but packets or bundles of adjusted forms of sound vibrations. The Hindus were fully alive to the tremendous potentiality of sound vibrations. The rotation of the earth on its axis, gives the unit of time called the sidereal day and this is related to the Prana or breath-interval in a human being.

Hindu astrology is a fully developed system, absolutely original and indigenous and is handed down to us in its pristine original form. Thousands of combinations experimented by Sages of the highest intellectual and spiritual calibre, covering every phase of mundane and spiritual existence are available. They have been preserved for posterity in the shape of treatises composed by different sages. These systematic treatises were written in short aphorisms called sutras meaning clues and were intended as memory-aids. Often maximum thought was compressed into these sutras in as few words as possible with the result that in the absence of proper initiation, their true import cannot be understood. Moreover, the tradition persists even today that the real secrets of astrology should be taught only to a few deserving and trusted disciples capable of using the science only for the good of mankind. Parasara's dictum is: meaning that the secrets of astrology should not be revealed to pupils other than one's own, to atheists, and to fools. If revealed, there will be sorrow everyday. There are instances of Gurus or preceptors dying without revealing the secrets just because, there were no deserving disciples. The thoughts of these sutras were much developed by later thinkers. To give you an example: There is a sutra which reads Aayuphpithrudhinesabyam. This aphorism contains all the principles needed for determining one's term of life. I may add for your information that in the published books on Hindu astrology, not many real secrets of the science have been revealed. It is only the general principles that have been given. Then there is the grandest and the most wonderful system of practical astrology called the Nadis. This system enables us, provided the exact Nadi or the sensitive-point of birth is correctly ascertained to know the entire future history of a person in clear-cut terms, i.e., such details as the number of children, the number of wives, public life, financial ups and downs, rise and downfall, health and disease and a number of other details including—if one is inclined to believe in it—one's past birth.

Nadheyam Parasishya Nasthikaya
Satayava Dhathe Prathirdhindhu
Banjayathe Nathra Samsayaha

India has thus made a wonderful contribution to astrology and this becomes evident to anyone who makes up his mind to study it. You will be surprised to learn, that 2000 years ago, the Sages had laid down qualifications for astrologers and judged by the ethical standards adopted by modern astrological associations, the ancient qualifications are indeed rigorous. One who wishes to be an astrologer should have no mean motives, he should have real contentment, a good grasp of the subject, honesty, sincerity and truthfulness should be his forte; he should get proper initiation from a qualified Guru; he should be actuated by a sense of service, and he should possess creative or inferential ability. Hindu astrology, in its original form, is being used most successfully all over India. What is necessary is that in view of the differing social and cultural conditions in the West, some of the methods used by us in horoscopic interpretation may have to be revised and reconditioned. Hindu astrology offers all enterprising astrologers, very great scope for research.

In India, astrology had always occupied a unique place and found illustrious supporters. Many an enlightened ruler not only made use of astrology for the benefit of the country and the people but also encouraged its study. It is only after the advent and consolidation of British Power that for a time scepticism and derision were the predominating features characterising the intellectual equipment of a very small section of the then educated Indians who looked down upon astrology as not fit for study by scientific minds. It was at this time that my revered grandsire, the late Prof. B. Suryanarain Rao undertook the task of diverting the thoughts of such Indians to the secrets of astrology. Today however, a great desire for serious study of astrology has overtaken the vast majority of Indians.

In India, astrology is a national science. Most of the enlightened men and those in high political, social and scientific walks of life not only believe in it but have a great reverence for the subject. Though, as in your country, there is not much organised effort, and perhaps this is due to the widespread use to which astrology is put in the life of an average Indian in every walk of life, yet useful work is being done by some individuals and institutions. A number of associations and individuals have been carrying on useful work. But I personally feel that we have to take a lesson from you, and imbibe more of your spirit of inquiry and organisation.

To me the most gratifying thing is that many astrologers in America appear to be bubbling with enthusiasm not only to restore the science of astrology to its proper place but also to know more and more about Hindu astrology and Indian culture. I think if the scientific spirit, so evident in you all, Ladies and Gentlemen, is combined with the vast mines of knowledge we have, a substantial contribution to the cause of astrology could be made. I venture to suggest that the International Congress of Astro-Science, the spirit behind which is my esteemed friend Dr. Ziegler, would make it a point to institute an organised research in Hindu astrology and I assure him of my fullest co-operation. The Congress should also bring out suitable books on Hindu astrology so that the works of the ancient masters may be known to our American friends. I do not know what the attitude of the American Universities is towards astrology. In India, it is definitely not antagonistic. In fact, one of the leading Indian Universities has asked me to deliver lectures on astrology. But anyway, an attempt can be made to prevail on at least some Universities in America who have a broader outlook, to introduce chairs in astrology. This may be a far-fetched suggestion. But I give it you for what it may be worth.

I have told you that Hindu astrology is original in conception and is a fully developed system. By this I do not mean to suggest that it is superior to what you have and that it should be substituted for your system of horoscopic interpretations and directions. I only plead for a better understanding of the Hindu system so that astrological science in the West, as a whole, may be enriched. America is the greatest democracy in the West, and India is the youngest and the largest democracy in the East and is also a very ancient nation. On the political and economic planes, American and Indian leaders have not only begun to understand each other but also appreciate each other's point of view. There are many things common to Indians and Americans. Your attitude towards religion, moral values, political philosophy and institutions, human liberty and dignity is much the same as ours. It is therefore my sincere hope that by coming together astrologically also we can build goodwill and friendship between our two countries and thus make a joint contribution for universal good and universal understanding.

Before I close my address, may I once again express my grateful thanks to Dr. Ziegler and his associates for the very great troubles they have taken to organise such a Congress on a worldwide basis and for having provided me with the opportunity of meeting such a large number of men and women interested in astrology. To bring together astrologers from different parts of the world on a common platform and to hold a Congress of this type, requires not only great organisational ability but also sustained effort against odds, all of which I am happy to note, have been displayed with commendable ability by my friend Dr. Ziegler. I wish his efforts success and I am sure everyone of you, Ladies and Gentlemen, will join me in thanking him once again for the immense troubles he had had to take in this regard. May God crown Dr. Ziegler's efforts with success, is my earnest prayer!

HOW IS THIS MONTH?

ence you will have to be careful as unwittingly you may give offence where nothing is actually intended. Therefore a month to strictly confine oneself to ordinary household activities and keep to routine, avoiding even short journeys as far as possible.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs—3, 5, 7, 14, 18, 24, 27, 30; money dealings—1, 5, 13, 16, 22, 26, 31; short journeys—3, 8, 13, 17, 19, 24, 28, 29; long journeys—1, 5, 13, 16, 22, 24, 26, 31; real property affairs and academical activities—1, 4, 5, 9, 13, 19, 24, 26, 27; speculation, children's affairs and love affairs—6, 13, 15, 24, 28, 30; service affairs and prospects—6, 13, 15, 24, 28, 30; partnership business—1, 4, 5, 9, 13, 19, 24, 26, 27; insurance activities—3, 8, 13, 17, 19, 24, 28, 29; professional and business enterprises—3, 5, 7, 14, 18, 24, 27, 30.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private affairs—2, 8, 12, 17, 21, 25, 31; money dealings—3, 7, 11, 15, 21, 24, 25; short journeys—6, 12, 14, 16, 21, 25, 28; long journeys—2, 3, 7, 11, 15, 19, 25, 28; real property affairs and academical activities—2, 8, 17, 18, 22, 29,31; speculation, children's affairs and love affairs—3, 8, 12, 16, 21, 23, 29; service affairs and prospects—3, 8, 12, 16, 21, 23, 29; partnership matters and business—2, 8, 17, 18, 22, 29, 31; insurance activities—6, 12, 14, 16, 21, 25, 28; professional and business enterprises—2, 8, 12, 17, 21, 25, 31.

Chandrashtama from morning of 10th till night of 12th.

7. Thula (Libra).—Venus in 1st and 2nd; Mercury, Mars and Jupiter in 2nd; Sun in 2nd and 3rd; Saturn in 3rd; Kethu in 6th; and Rahu in 12th.

General.—Venus, Jupiter and Saturn are in good signs for the entire month. But the two major planets whose influence count for most in transits are under check throughout, namely Jupiter and Saturn. Sun is evil for the first half and under check and good for the second half and free of vedha. Thus Mars and Mercury alone are evil for the entire month. Of this Mars is under check all along, while Mercury is free. Thus in a month of mixed results in general, the second half will be better than the first. Happiness, good health, success over rivals and enemies, valuable friendships, gains, success in undertakings, auspicious events, prosperity and enjoyments, gain of luxuries, educational and academical success, increased name and fame, acquisition of new position, etc., are the results due for the month more especially during the second half. Anxieties and disgrace, apprehensions and fears due to enemy action, quarrels, increased expenditure and losses, scandals and unjust blame, grief, litigation, etc., are due for the evil transits. Of the three stars of the sign, the best results will be for those born under Swati while those born under Chitta and Visakha may not benefit much from the rays of the favourable planets.

Health and Domestic.—Beyond minor disturbances in health mostly due to irregularities in diet and excesses, there may not be much to complain of in this respect. Those chronically subject to bilious and 'wind' complaints will do well to take some precautionary care. Harmony will prevail at home and in social circles. Your popularity will increase with success in all your social activities. Auspicious events and celebrations will take place and you may also have to attend or take part in pleasant social functions.

Finance and Speculation.—More than average activity will prevail in the financial sphere with increased income and also increased expenditure. Friends and acquaintances will be helpful to you in your enterprises and money needs. Your own initiative will develop into new and fruitful channels of endeavour. The businessman will gain through foreign connections, the sea, scientific pursuits, publication or money dealings. Partnership may well be entered into as a means of expanding your resources. All these observations apply to first half especially. However, the chances for success through speculative activities are very slender throughout the month.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—The month cannot be said to be so very good for real property matters. The month will be more or less a testing period when the native will be called upon to face hardships and make sacrifices, all for no fault of his. In all his activities concerning his possessions, there may be interference through delays, restrictions and hindrances. Yield and rentals will be normal but there may be troubles with agents, tenants, etc. Considerable difficulties may arise in realising them. A bad month for long-term investments. Anyway, the month may bring on increased responsibilities and additional worries in their wake. The month is ordinarily good for the services and somewhat above average during the second half when your good work is likely to obtain recognition from your superiors and with some help from current directional influences, acquisition of new position and status would become possible, if not this month, during the next. The month is favourable for the successful undertaking of new ventures and even making radical changes in the existing setup with a view to build it on a surer and broader foundation.

Women.—The month is neither positively good nor evil for matters connected with the fair sex as such. With Venus in 1st and 2nd, the month can be utilised for purchase of luxury items, feminine knick-knacks, dress, ornaments, etc. The month is not unfavourable for philanthropic activities. But as regards other matters, the month's influences are not propitious and success may not follow ambitious programmes in whatever sphere they are attempted. So it is better to confine oneself to routine and household matters throughout.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private matters—1, 5, 13, 16, 22, 26, 31; money dealings—3, 8, 13, 17, 19, 24, 28, 29; short journeys—1, 4, 5, 9, 13, 19, 24, 26, 27; long journeys—3, 5, 7, 14, 18, 24, 27, 30; real property matters and academical activities—6, 13, 15, 24, 28, 30; speculation, children's affairs and love affairs—6, 13, 15, 24, 28, 30; service affairs and prospects—1, 4, 5, 9, 13, 19, 24, 26, 27; partnership activities and business—3, 8, 13, 17, 19, 24, 28, 29; insurance matters and business—1, 5, 13, 16, 22, 24, 26, 31; professional and business enterprises—1, 3, 7, 9, 18, 20, 24, 28.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private affairs—3, 7, 11, 15, 21, 24, 25; money dealings and transactions—6, 12, 14, 16, 21, 25, 28; short journeys—2, 8, 17, 18, 22, 29, 31; long journeys—2, 8, 12, 17, 21, 25, 31; real property affairs and academical activities—3, 8, 12, 16, 21, 23, 29; speculation, children's affairs and love affairs—3, 8, 12, 16, 21, 23, 29; service affairs and prospects—2, 8, 17, 18, 22, 29, 31; partnership matters and business—6, 12, 14, 16, 21, 25, 28; insurance activities—2, 3, 7, 11, 15, 19, 25, 28; professional and business enterprises—2, 6, 8, 12, 21, 23, 26.

Chandrashtama from nightfall of 12th till morning of 15th.

8. Vrischika (Scorpio).—Mercury, Mars and Jupiter in 1st; Sun in 1st and 2nd; Saturn in 2nd; Kethu in 5th; Rahu in 11th; and Venus in 12th and 1st.

General.—Venus is the only planet in a favourable sign for the entire month. Sun, Mercury, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn, all transit evil signs only. This should indeed prove to be very bad for the month but for the fact Mercury, Mars and Jupiter are throughout under check and Sun for the first half. Saturn is free of vedha for the whole month and Sun for the second half. So far as general results are concerned, the prospects are not at all favourable and there will be only misfortunes, difficulties and setbacks, Venus by himself not being a powerful transit influence. But these troubles will never go very far because of vedha of the principal evil planets. Troublesome and fatiguing travels, stomach troubles, obstacles in undertakings, quarrels with friends and relatives, losses, separation from relatives, low friendships and contacts, increase of rivals and enemies and troubles thereby, disgrace, loss of position, financial stress, deception through designing persons are what one may have to experience during the month. Some enjoyments, educational successes, luxuries, etc., may relieve somewhat the tedious monotony of evil happenings. Of the three stars of the sign, those born under Anuradha will suffer least and those born under Visakha and Jyeshta will feel the brunt of the evil transits to a much greater degree.

Health and Domestic.—Inspite of the evil transits, no major illness or setbacks in health need be feared this month. However the month will not be free from ailments such as high-blood pressure, heart troubles, stomachache, respiratory disorders, danger through heat (fire), poison, and weapons, etc., physical weakness and debility each according to his constitutional predisposition. Grief from loss of relatives, domestic worries, quarrels with relatives inside and outside the domestic circle, even separation from relatives have all to be envisaged as far as possible for the month. Journeys should as far as possible avoided to avoid unnecessary fatigue as also liability to accidents.

Finance and Speculation.—Conflicting influences prevail in this sphere. On the one hand, money may come readily to you from more sources than one, but none will be found sufficient and many obstacles and difficulties are likely to arise through want of or on account of money. In financial enterprises, success will be elusive, sometimes one appears to be getting along splendidly, success seems close and sure, but suddenly inevitable conditions and reverses arise resulting in failure and losses. The causes may be opposition, enmities, jealousy or adverse and unforeseen contingencies. These observations apply with all the greater force to speculative transactions.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—The real property matters may not be so severely afflicted as may be expected under the circumstances. No doubt yield and rentals may not fare very well and difficulties may be met with in the way of their realisation. But the influences are not adverse to dealings in real property, purchase as well as sales. Even those to whom buying and selling of real property is not a regular business, can dabble in such dealings of their own property or transact business on behalf of others and it will be possible to make some profits that way. The month is not at all propitious for litigation or resort to courts in assertion to your disputed rights and arbitration would appear to be the best way. The services will have a great many difficulties placed in their way and there may be friction even in normal routine matters. It will be only too easy to incur the displeasure of your superiors in office and you may suffer much by following the evil advice of interested persons without due regard to what is proper or improper. Normal conditions will prevail in the sphere of profession and business and it may be even possible to achieve some measure of success through industrious effort, high ideals and dealings with Governmental bodies.

Women.—Nothing special calls for mention in respect of matters connected with the opposite sex as such. But this is no month for ambitious programmes socially and otherwise as there is nothing in the influences to support them in such extra activities. Even in dealings and purchase of articles for the household or gadgets, you should be critical and careful lest you should be deceived, into the acquisition of worthless stuff and incur loss thereby. The unattached will have to be particularly careful in their dealings with opposite sex and beware of being led into contracts for utmostly matrimonial alliances by interested persons.

9. Dhanus (Sagittarius).—Saturn in 1st; Kethu in 4th; Rahu in 10th; Venus in 11th and 12th; Mercury, Jupiter and Mars in 12th; and Sun in 12th and 1st.

General.—The only planet in a favourable sign for the month is Venus. No other planet is good for even part of the month. Sun, Mercury, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn are transitting only evil signs throughout. But, of these planets Mercury, Mars and Jupiter are under check for nearly the entire period and Sun during the first half. Saturn is the only planet both evil and free of vedha, and Saturn by himself can be responsible for a lot of undesirable happenings while transitting Janma. But this is no novel feature for this month only as he remains in a sign for about two and a half years. Quarrels and misunderstandings, varied anxieties, sorrows, losses, obstacles in undertakings, tedious and purposeless travels, dishonour, troubles from rivals & enemies, increased expenditure, ill-health, death of relatives, failure in enterprises, etc., are due as a result of the evil transits of the month. But gain of friends and help from them, some happiness, gains and prosperity are also probable because of the favourable transit of Venus in eleventh and twelfth. Of the three stars of the month, those born under Moola will suffer least. Those born under Uttarashada come next in order and the worst sufferers will be those born with Poorvashada as th ir birth star.

Health and Domestic.—Health cannot but be affected under the impact of the adverse transits and all sorts of trouble may make their appearance or recur. Ailments pertaining to blood, bile and heat may figure largely. Those subject to bilious troubles should take special care. Stomachache, chest pain, asthma, eye troubles, high blood pressure too may prove troublesome according to constitutional susceptibility. The domestic sphere too will witness troubles from sundry quarrels and bickerings upto estrangement and separation. With all this, secret unhappiness, enmities often as a result of one's own actions, sufferings and misfortune will be also caused unless one takes quite a philosophical view of things and happenings.

Finance and Speculation.—Nothing that is of outstanding financial benefit is probable during the month. On the other hand, there is every likelihood of losses through risky ventures and even in ordinary dealings and transactions. The chances for loss through confidence tricks are too great to be ignored and watchful care is essential before entering into or concluding any deal and the least sign of suspicion should be sufficient to call it off. There will also manifest extravagant tendencies and unless curbed, may lead you into many unforseen difficulties. Success in speculative ventures is well-nigh impposible and should be rigidly eschewed.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—Nothing favourable is in store for owners of real property, landlords or landholders this month. On the other hand, there is real danger of their losing their possessions actually or in some other form. The yield and rentals are liable to suffer from pests or other causes and the general position will be unsatisfactory to the core. Perhaps this is one of the worst months in the entire year for real property interests. It would not be profitable to make new acquisitions or engage in large scale schemes to improve eitheir the capital value of your holdings or with a view to increase output. Litigation in respect of your rights can have only one end —defeat. The services at any rate may not fare so badly. Though there is no scope for positive advancement, there may not be any setbacks either actually. Still one has to be prepared for a lot of unpleasantness and setbacks, delays and disappointments and all this will have to be gone through with a stiff upper life and dogged adherence to routine, with the sure knowledge that better times are not for ahead. In bad cases, loss of office, honour or dignity may occur. Business and profession will have to tread warily in their respective fields as there is a chance that their associates may become secret enemies and subvert their interests.

Women.—The fair sex are liable to be subjected to a lot of unhappiness, secret sorrows, jealousies and other vexatious apprehensions as none of the transit influences are favourable to their peculiar interests. In the case of unattached, no care would be too great on their part as false promises, false glamour may lead them into situations from which it would be difficult to extricate themselves with honour and dignity. It would be wise to avoid mixed company wherever it is likely to be met with, parties, public announcement, excursions, etc.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs—1, 4, 5, 9, 13, 19, 24, 26, 27; money dealings—6, 13, 15, 24, 28, 30; short journeys—6, 13, 15, 24, 28, 30; long journeys—1, 5, 9, 13, 20, 24, 25, 30; real property affairs and academical activities—1, 4, 5, 9, 13, 19, 24, 26, 27; speculation, children's affairs and love affairs—3, 8, 13, 17, 19, 20, 28, 29; service affairs and prospects—1, 5, 13, 16, 22, 24, 26, 31; partnership activities—3, 5, 7, 14, 18, 24, 27, 30; insurance activities—1, 3, 7, 9, 18, 20, 24, 28; professional and business enterprises—3, 5, 7, 14, 18, 24, 27, 30.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private affairs—2, 8, 17, 18, 22, 29, 31; money dealings—3, 8, 12, 16, 21, 23, 29; short journeys—3, 8, 12, 16, 21, 23, 29; long journeys—2, 7, 11, 15, 19, 23, 26, 29; real property affairs and academical activities—2, 8, 17, 18, 22, 29, 31; speculation, children's affairs and love affairs—6, 12, 14, 16, 21, 25, 28; service affairs and prospects—2, 3, 7, 11, 15, 19, 25, 28; partnership activities—2, 8, 12, 17, 21, 25, 31; insurance business—2, 6, 8, 12, 21, 23, 26; professional and business enterprises—2, 8, 12, 17, 21, 25, 31.

Chandrashtama from the night of 17th till morning of 20th.

10. Makara (Capricorn).—Kethu in 3rd; Rahu in 9th; Venus in 10th and 11th; Mercury, Mars and Jupiter in 11th; Sun in 11th and 12th; and Saturn in 12th.

General.—Saturn in twelfth is usually a bad augury but he is there for two years and a half and so does not mean anything special for a particular month. His affliction may vary month to month in degree and during this month specially it is at a great discount. Not only he is under check throughout but all the other transit influences of note are very favourable. Mercury, Mars and Jupiter are in eleventh, a very good place for transit for any planet—benefic or malefic—and the least important of these alone, namely Mercury suffers vedha, Mars and Jupiter being quite free. Venus is the only transit that is evil for nearly the whole month. Sun is good for the first half and bad for the second when he comes under check. From all this, it can be easily conjectured that this will be perhaps the best month in the whole year for those born under this Rasi. Those born with Sravana as their birth star will be able to realise the best results from the transit effects and those born under Dhanishta will benefit least and those born under Uttarashada will come between the two. For all, the first half will prove to be better than the second. Gains, success and prosperity in undertakings, new position, elevation, domestic happiness, auspicious events and celebrations, gain of friends, articles of luxury and their enjoyment, respect and honours, etc., are the results due for the good transits especialy during the first half. All the same, it may be difficult to avoid contentions and quarrels, some reverses in litigation or otherwise, displeasure of elderly persons, etc., because of the evil transits.

Health and Domestic.—There will be scarcely any ill-health during the month. Those subject to fevers, especially of the filarial type will do well to be careful as to diet and general habits during the second half. Domestic harmony and happiness will be the rule. There is likely to be an addition to the family circle by birth or otherwise. The domestic circle may be enlivened by the celebration of some happy family event or by visit of valued friends and relatives. On the whole, a very pleasing month.

Finance and Speculation.—Though the 11th house is well fortified, the influences bearing on the 2nd house are not very good and so mixed conditions alone are likely to prevail in the financial sphere. However there will be good gains and the position on the whole will be quite satisfactory as good elements predominate. Those who make their income through secret sources, rearing and maintenance of large cattle, occult practices and demonstrations, travel agencies, etc., are in for a good time. Though speculation also is supported well, great care and caution will be required to make a success of it.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—Matters connected with real property should also do particularly well. Yield and rentals should also prove satisfactory. But this is where the influences that are favourable reach their limit. But activities are attempted beyond routine, there is a likelihood of your receiving setbacks, disappointments, even losses. These undesirable effects may be the result of too much impetuosity on your part and faulty reasoning from a wrong standpoint. There is also a prospect of adverse legal decision if you litigate unwisely with regard to any matter connected with real property. So, though the major transit influences are favourable, you cannot count on them much so far as these matters are concerned. The first half is favourable for the services and should be the recipient of good news in connection with your prospects for advancement, promotion, etc. But the second half cannot be said to be so favourable and may even prove disappointing in respect of some matters wherein you had built good hopes for the future. But this will be only a temporary phase. The profession and business will have a good time throughout with increased gains and profits alround.

Women.—As in all other matters, the first half is generally more favourable and good for all activities peculiar to the fair sex. Their circle of agreeable friends will enlarge and their zeal and work in social and other spheres will bring them satisfaction because of fruitful results. But if they are to extend such activities into the second half also, their success is not assured and they may even meet with disappointments. This is not a good month for matrimony for them as the choice of mate may not be quite fortunate as will be proved in the long run. This caution applies only to the second half.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs—6, 13, 15, 24, 28, 30; money dealings—6, 13, 15, 24, 28, 30; short journeys—1, 4, 5, 9, 13, 19, 24, 26, 27; long journeys—3, 5, 7, 14, 18, 24, 27, 30; real property matters and academical activities—3, 8, 13, 17, 19, 24, 28, 29; speculation, children's affairs and love affairs—1, 5, 13, 16, 22, 24, 26, 31; service affairs and prospects—3, 5, 7, 14, 18, 24, 27, 30; partnership business and activities—1, 3, 7, 9, 18, 20, 24, 28; insurance activities—1, 5, 9, 13, 20, 24, 25, 30; professional and business enterprises—1, 5, 13, 16, 22, 26, 31.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private affairs—3, 8, 12, 16, 21, 23, 29; money dealings—3, 8, 12, 16, 21, 23, 29; short journeys—2, 8, 17, 18, 22, 29; long journeys—2, 8, 12, 17, 21, 25, 31; real property matters and academical enterprises—6, 12, 14, 16, 21, 25, 28; speculation, children's affairs and love affairs—2, 3, 7, 11, 15, 19, 25, 28; service affairs and prospects—2, 8, 12, 17, 21, 25, 31; partnership business—2, 6, 8, 12, 21, 23, 26; insurance business and activities—2, 7, 11, 15, 19, 23, 26, 29; professional and business enterprises—3, 7, 11, 15, 21, 24, 25.

Chandrashtama from morning of 20th till sunset of 22nd.

11. Kumbha (Apuarius).— Kethu in 2nd; Rahu in 8th; Venus in 9th and 10th; Mercury, Mars and Jupiter in 10th; Sun in 10th and 11th; and Saturn in 11th.

General.—Sun, Mercury, Mars and Saturn are good for the entire month. Venus is in a favourable sign for the greater part of the month. But Mercury and Mars throughout and Venus so long as he is good are under check. However, Sun and Saturn are entirely free. Thus Jupiter alone remains as the only evil transit of the month and he is under check for nearly the whole month. The good elements in the month are therefore more numerous and more powerful also and naturally one can expect the general results for the month to be quite good. Success, gains in money and luxury items as well, fulfilment of your desire and wishes, powerful and influential friendships, prosperity, domestic happiness, triumph over rivals and enemies, widening of circle of influence, name and fame, attainment of new and honourable positions are the benefits that are likely to accrue during the month. As against this background the likelihood of unwelcome changes, removals, quarrels and scandals, sorrows, losses, ill-health, loss of status should also be taken into account at least as possibilities if not probabilities. Of the three stars of the sign, those born with Satabhisha will be able to get the best results while those born under Dhanishta and Poorvabhadrapada will not benefit much from the rays of the good planets.

Health and Domestic.—There is nothing this month in the transit influences to cause ill-health. Even the evil transits are not likely to affect the health adversely. So it follows that good health will be enjoyed by you throughout. But the other members of the family may not be so immune in this respect. It is even probable that some one of your issue may fall ill and require medical attention and care. Domestic peace and harmony will prevail and in this respect this may prove to be one of the best months in the whole year. It is indeed rare that such exceptional conditions would prevail often or repeat themselves.

Finance and Speculation.–The month is also very good for finance. Surely the gains would be well above average and the sources will be varied-through occupation or business, profession, merchandising, governmental agencies, travel, etc., publicity, communications and transport, publishing may also figure as money bringers. Financial ventures are also likely to succeed whether they bring in immediate profits within the month or not. A generally smooth running period in all matters connected with finance. But these observations do not apply in the case of speculative activities which are liable to end only in losses.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—Conflicting influences bear upon matters pertaining to real property. On the one hand, there is scope for gain of property, increased returns from land, and the general conditions will be quite good and satisfactory. But there is also a liability to losses through damage by pest, as also through events happening beyond your control. There is some danger through your own actions also and setbacks may occur through your own lack of restraint and unbridled impulsiveness which may lead you into commitments with regard to your holdings about which you may have to regret later on. Perhaps this is the best month in the year for the services and almost anything in reason will be within your grasp. New position and honours, triumph over rivals in competitive matters, favour of and recognition by superiors, etc. There is every chance that during the month unemployed will get employed and those on a temporary footing may be made permanent. The month is highly favourable for the business and the profession and the results adequate to endevour will be got.

Women.—This is a month which gives full scope for the socially ambitious among the fair sex as they will be able to achieve success and popularity in such activities beyond their expectations. Yet the influences of the month are not best fitted for spectacular achievements in any field but for sober achievements of planned endeavour. Even in the field of courtship and love affairs, sudden glamorous attachments will lead nowhere. Bounds of affection formed slowly and developing from previous acquaintance or friendship ripening into love sre likely to endure and yield very aatisfactory results.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs—6, 13, 15, 24, 28, 30; money dealings—1, 4, 5, 9, 13, 19, 24, 26, 27; short journeys–3, 8, 13, 17, 19, 24. 28, 29; long journeys—1, 5, 13, 16, 22, 26, 31; real property affairs and academical activities—1, 5, 13, 16, 22, 24, 26, 31; speculation, children's affairs and love affairs—3, 5, 7, 14, 18, 24, 27, 30; service affairs and prospects–1, 3, 7, 9, 18, 20, 24, 28; partnership business—1, 5, 9, 13, 20, 24, 25, 30; insurance business and activities—3, 5, 7, 14, 18, 24, 27, 30; professional and business enterprises—3, 8, 13, 17, 19, 24, 28, 29.

Critical Dates.–Personal and private affairs—3, 8, 12, 16, 21, 23, 29; money dealings—2, 8, 17, 18, 22, 29, 31; short journeys—6, 12, 14, 16, 21, 25, 28; long journeys—3, 7, 11, 15, 21, 24, 25; real property matters, educational and academical activities—2, 3, 7, 11, 15, 19, 25, 28; speculation, children's affairs and love affairs—2, 8, 12, 17, 21, 25, 31; service affairs and prospects—2, 6, 8, 12, 21, 23, 26; partnership matters—2, 7, 11, 15, 19, 23, 26, 29; insurance activities—2, 8, 12, 17, 21, 25, 31; professional and business enterprises—6, 12, 14, 16, 21, 25, 28.

Chandrashtama from sunset of 22nd till about midnight of 24th.

12. Meena (Pisces).—Kethu in 1st; Rahu in 7th; Venus in 8th and 9th; Mercury, Mars and Jupiter in 9th; Sun in 9th and 10th; and Saturn in 10th.

General.—Venus and Jupiter are in excellent signs for the entire month. But Jupiter is under check throughout while Venus is free. Venus by himself cannot do much by way of transit influence. The only other transit that is good for at least part of the month is Sun during the second half and also free of vedha. Saturn is in tenth and this connot be said to be good or bad—outright as a malefic in an upachaya sign can be responsible for both kinds of events. The two evil transits, those of Mercury and Mars are not of much consequence as both are under check for the greater part of the month. In a month of mixed results, the second half will be better than the first. Success in attaining your objects of desire, gains, enjoyment of luxury items, moving in high circles, success in enterprises, auspicious events in the family like birth, etc., new status, increased prosperity in general etc., are the effects of the favourable planets. Losses, scandals, dishonour, obstacles and setbacks, false charges, tedious journeys, danger of accidents and wounds through sharp instruments, quarrels, misunderstandings and enmities are probable because of the evil-transits. Of the three stars of the sign, those born with Uttarabhadrapada as their birth star will benefit most from the favourable transits and suffer less from the evil ones while those born under Purvabhadrapada and Revati may not be much benefitted.

Health and Domestic.—There is nothing even in the adverse transits to disturb the health. But the probability of troubles and sufferings through wounds resulting from accidents cannot be underestimated. Great care in handling sharp instruments or gadgets would be needed. General debility and weakness may be presented. The effects of the evil transits will not be reflected in the domestic sphere either and there will be pleasure and hapiness at home. It is also probable that an auspicious event or occurrence may be celebrated.

Finance and Speculation.—Considerable activity may be witnessed in the financial sphere. The unfavourable elements are likely to have the upper hand in the first half and even quarrels and misunderstandings may arise with regard to dealings or money matters in general. But the second half will be quite good. You will be able to enlist the sympathy and active help of others in your financial schemes and attain successful results through your own drive and initiative also. A long journey may be necessitated in connection with your financial interests. Speculation too would appear to be slightly favoured and cautious dealings may bring in some profits.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—Real property interests cannot be said to be favoured and may suffer only deterioration. As regards your attempts to better the existing position or retrieve lost ground in connection with your affairs, you will encounter only setbacks. Therefore you will have to proceed slowly and warily with regard to any matter. Shelve all important matters such as investments, sales, long-term arrangements, etc., as you are not likely to come to correct conclusions and will be swayed by extraneous factors and come to ill-formed judgments. Keep to routine generally. Even loss of inherited property is not improbable. The second half is good for the services and may bring opportunities for elevation to positions of responsibility as the reward of previous hard work and steady effort. The influences are not however likely to benefit those who are not upto the mark and have not put in such good work previously and for them conditions may even prove adverse and they may be put upon their mettle and be given opportunities to prove their worth and such opportunities may not come often. Conditions may change abruptly from good to bad and from bad to good during the month so far as business and profession are concerned

HOW IS THIS MONTH?

Women.—The month is not important for matters connected with the fair sex as such and may prove to be just an ordinary routine month. However there is a slight emphasis on the pleasurable side and may be spent in shopping, excursions, picnics, attending parties and so on. Several important matters may come up for decision during the month which will have a bearing on your future happiness and in coming to a conclusion in such matters you should rely on your own independent judgment rather than simply follow the suggestions or advice of others even though they are near and dear to you and have no thought except for your welfare.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs—1, 4, 5, 9, 13, 19, 24, 26, 27; money dealings and transactions—3, 8, 13, 17, 19, 24, 28, 29; short journeys—1, 5, 13, 16, 22, 24, 26, 31; long journeys—1, 4, 5, 9, 13, 19, 24, 26, 27; real property matters and academical activities—3, 5, 7, 14, 18, 24. 27, 30; speculation children's affairs and love affairs—1, 3, 7, 9, 18, 20, 24, 28; service affairs and prospects—1, 5, 9, 13, 20, 24, 25, 30; partnership business—3, 5, 7, 14, 18, 24, 27, 30; insurance business and activities—1, 5, 13, 16, 22, 29, 31; professional business and enterprises—1, 4, 5, 9, 13, 19, 24, 26, 27.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private affairs—2, 8, 17, 18, 22, 29, 31; money dealings—6, 12, 14, 16, 21, 25, 28; short journeys—2, 3, 7, 11, 15, 19, 25, 28; long journeys—2, 8, 17, 18, 22, 29, 31; real property affairs and academical activities—2, 8, 12, 17, 21, 25, 31; speculation, children's affairs and love affairs—2, 6, 8, 12, 21, 23, 26; service affairs and prospects—2, 7, 11, 15, 19, 23, 26, 29; partnership dealings and business—2, 8, 12, 17, 21, 25, 31; insurance activities—3, 7, 11, 15, 22, 24, 25; professional and business enterprises—2, 8, 17, 18, 22, 29, 31.
