Saturn	19.07	Capricorn
Uranus	29.45	Pisces
Neptune	18.34	Leo
Pluto	1.16	Cancer

There are four planets in Sagittarius and it will be observed that this was a very unfavourable date in the lunar calendar, as the Moon was invisible from the night sky, being combust the Sun—a Gandantha position, and regarded as unlucky the world over. These positions are now having the Saturn transit in Sagittarius. Since Tibet is in a sense, a theocratic State, does this not indicate the destruction of an ancient religion—Mahayana Buddhism?

When the Dalai Lama was yet a child, it was predicted at the time that his country would be over-run by a foreign power and that he would become a virtual prisoner in his own country. Another also was recently discovered in a cave, that Tibet would be free again in 1958/59. May be it is this prophecy that is inspiring the people to rebel.

THE HINDU PROGRESSED HOROSCOPE

Based on Tajaka (6TH EDITION)

By B. V. RAMAN

This book based on Tajaka covers fresh grounds in the field of prediction. It describes a unique method never before disclosed for deciphering annual life readings. Predictions made according to this work yield unique results. Whether you are a layman or initiated, you can draw up and interpret the annual reading in an easy and scientific manner. The system propounded in the pages of this work is rational and in actual practice yields most satisfactory results.

OPINION

"The author outlines a method of deciphering annual results from the Hindu horoscope. He claims that the principles of Tajaka astrology have been found to work accurately in actual practice, and controverts the orthodox belief that the system can be applied only to charts of individuals who have passed the age of thirty. There are many useful tables at the end and a summary."

*Electional Astrology—II

BY K. V. SIVARAMA IYER

THE purely materialistic aspect of our present day education which never fosters the development of the inner soul but largely contributes to the full development of the animal in the man is mainly, if not, solely responsible for this morally low state of the society. Blinded by animal passions, uncontrolled by the otherwise busy parents and unbridled by the educational authorities, but misguided by the policies of the Government and of the society, young men and women shamelessly indulge in unwarranted sexual connections time in and time out thus spoiling themselves quite unwittingly and giving rise to a generation of miserable weaklings deficient in mind and body. Unless the importance of Time and of Muhurtha is properly understood, appreciated and made use of in practiee in daily life the progress of the society will be definitely downward, however loudly we may proclaim that we live in an era of advanced civilisation and culture. Man has depraved himself to the level of the animal in so far as sexual life is concerned and I wonder how many young men and woman marry now-a-days with the sublime object of begetting healthy and worthy sons and loving daughters.

According to Ashtanga Hridaya "It has been said by the great and the enlightened that the secret sexual union of the couple is for begetting progeny".

Will there be a single pair who can place their hands on their breast and solemnly confess that they had been chaste and pure before marriage? Weak semen and contaminated ovum brought about by the highly encouraged and openly advocated birth control schemes cannot by any lengthy stretch of imagination be said to produce a generation physically strong and mentally enlightened. Instead of wasting crores on birth control schemes, had the Government the idea of improving and encouraging the spread and study of our ancient Sastras and Sanskrit they could have not only attained their objective but also contributed to some extent in building up a better society. But that is not to be. Kali rules and the minds of the authorities cannot work in a way calculated to bring about moral advancement of the society. Unless and until the value of appropriate Muhurthas is fully recognised and all actions done in suitably appropriate moments things are not going to be any the better. I reiterate the question of sexual cohabitation because it is the actual time of mating that shapes and determines the entire future of humanity and of the nation.

Ashtanga Hridaya further says thus: "After his day's work and a hearty meals consisting of ghee, milk and nutritious rice the man should enter the bed chamber with his right leg first according to the injunctions of the astrologer learned in Muhurtha Sastra." This clearly brings out that once the astrologer used to enjoy a position in society far more exalted than that of the Vaidya (man of medicine) or Vaideeka (priest). The importance of the science is also made evident.

The wise sages of old had known this perfectly well. They knew that the combined effect of the various planetary rays affect things on the earth as elsewhere not in the same way at any given moment. Fully alive to this reality they have even gone to the extent of prescribing times and Muhurthas for plucking and cutting of plants and herbs for medicinal purposes. Ayurveda shows this clearly. They have besides stated in detail that diseases which begin on certain days will be of a prolonged duration while other ailments showing the first symptoms during certain periods could be cured easily. These statements made thousands of years back hold good even today bearing out the truth that time is not changing but that it is the thinking of man that gets perverted owing to the deficiency in intelligence and the unwholesome educational system.

Our national Government should realise the depraved moral state of the present society and make an all out endeavour to build up a truly civilised and cultured society. Time should not be lost to bring about radical changes in our educational system. Sanskrit and other ancient Sastras should be given an honoured place in the curriculum of Schools and Universities. The inculcation of these Sastras in the minds of the young will in turn lay the foundations for the establishment and development of morally enlightened and healthy society.

Professionals and amateurs alike should carefully remember the following seventeen points while fixing on a Muhurtha.

The two solstices, the six inauspicious evil—periods—the Solar month, day and night, eclipses, twilight periods, dawn and dusk, the twelve signs, planets, lunar days, week days, constellations, combinations of days of the week with different constellations and lunar days, periods of transit of the Sun from one sign to the other, and the nine harmful periods are the salient points to be always borne in mind while deciding Muhurthas for auspicious functions.

I am giving below short comparative notes on the above points based on various sources, acknowledgment to all of which may not be possible now owing to the non-availability of many of the texts referred to about fifteen years back.

I. Ayana

(The summer solstice and winter solstice—The progress of the Sun to the North and South of the equator). Some religious rites are enjoined to be performed only during summer solstice. A few ceremonies are to be conducted only during winter solstice. It is to be first of all noted during which solstice the particular rite is to be performed. The auspicious period could then be fixed in that solstice.

The ceremony of tonsure, the ceremony of investiture with sacred thread, the rite of giving a cow and a calf as a gift, return to home of a Brahmin after completing his course of religious studies, the important Vratas, fixing of an idol in a temple and other rituals relating to it are to be done only during summer solstice.

II. The Six Evil Periods

These are to be avoided for all auspicious functions.

1. Samsarpa—When two New Moon days occur during a solar month the month is styled Samsarpa. According to another view two Full Moon days make a month Samsarpa.

2. Two Revatis occuring during a month make the month Amhaspati. Amhaspati is caused by two Ravi Samkramas happening in the course of a lunar month.

3. Adhimasa. This occurs once during two years, eight months and sixteen days when two New Moon days fall in a lunar month.

* The first part of the article has appeared in January 1959 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE.

Scanned by www.vedicastrologyindia.com Digitized by Siddhanta eGangotri Gyaan

4. Periods when Jupiter or Venus could be seen during day time at the same or different hours.

5. When Jupiter and Venus are combust, and

6. when Jupiter and Venus aspect fully each other.

Rituals and observances for which days or months only are considered as important these six points need not be taken into account at all.

For sexual intercourse and the ceremony of naming a child after birth days only are reckoned as important. Only auspicious days are to be selected for these.

The ceremony calculated to cause the birth of a male child (Pumsavana), the purificatory rite observed by women in the fourth, sixth or eighth month of their pregnancy (Seemanta), rites performed for the protection of pregnancy (Gharbha Raksha), the ceremony of giving a new born child food to eat for the first time—usually in the sixth month—one of the sixteen Samskaras performed between the fifth and the eighth month, and the religious rite of taking out a child for the first time into the open air which is generally done in the fourth month of its age, are functions for which the month is all important. The six evils need not come into picture while fixing up Muhurthas for these ceremonies.

(Note:—Visibility of Jupiter or Venus during day-time: The periods of about two and a half hours before sunrise and sunset are termed Prahna and Sayahna respectively. Here the day-time is taken as the interval between the end of Prahna and the beginning of Sayana.

III. The Solar Month

It is to be decided whether the solar month is suitable for the required Muhurtha. Some solar months are not taken as auspicious for certain functions; e.g., the signs of Cancer, Aquarius, Sagittarius, Virgo and the latter half of Pisces when the Sun traverses through them are not accepted for marriage. When the Sun transits Aquarius, Virgo and Cancer no anspicious Muhurtha is to be fixed for occupying a newly built house or for shifting to another dwelling place.

The Nakshatras and rising signs shown against each lunar month are to be avoided for auspicious functions in the respective months.

Month	Nakshatra	Rising Sign
Chaitra	Aswini, Rohini	Aquarius
Vaisaka	Chitta, Pushya, Uttarashadha and Swati	Pisces
Jyeshta	Punarvasu	Taurus
Ashadha	Poorvaphalguna, Dhanishta	Gemini
Sravana	Poorvashadha, Uttarashadha	Aries
Proshtapada	Satabhisha, Revati	Virgo
Aswina	Uttarabhadrapada	Scorpio
Kartika	Mrigasira, Anuradha, Krittika, Pushya	Libra
Margasira	Uttarabhadrapada, Visakha, Anuradha	Sagittarius
Pousha	Aswini, Hasta, Aridra	Cancer
Magha	Sravana, Moola	Capricorn
Phalguna	Bharani, Jyeshta	Leo

According to one school of thought the month Pousha is considered inauspicious for marriage and like functions. (To be continued)

Dual Signs (Dwiswabhava Rasis)

In this method if the prarambhadasa happens to be Dwiswabhawarasi the second dasa should be the fifth from the prambhadasarasi, the third dasa should be the ninth from the prarambhadasarasi. In this manner, as per Kendra, Panapara, Apoklimas the twelve dasas are calculated:—

Illustration:

(1; 5; 9; 2; 6; 10; 3; 7; 11; 4; 8; 12)

In the numerical order shown above the twelve Rasis are to be calculated from the prarambhadasarasi.

If the prarambhadasarasi at the time of birth is:	Dwara	Bahya
Mithuna	Mithuna	Mithuna
Thula	Thula	Kumbha
Kumbha	Kumbha	Thula
Karkataka	Karkataka	Simha

Dhanus	Dhanus	Karkataka
Mesha	Mesha	Meena
Kanya	Kanya	Vrishabha
Makara	Makara	Vrischika
Vrishabha	Vrishabha	Kumbha

And, if the prarambhadasarasi at the time of birth is:	Dwara	Bahya
Dhanus	Dhanus	Dhanus
Mesha	Mesha	Simha
Simha	Simha	Vrishabha
Makara	Makara	Kumbha

Mithuna	Mithuna	Makara
Thula	Thula	Kanya
Meena	Meena	Vrischika
Karkataka	Karkataka	Vrishabha
Vrischika	Vrischika	Simha

The above two rasis belonging to Oja pada are calculated clockwise.

If the prarambharasi at the time of birth is:	Dwara	Bahya
Kanya	Kanya	Kanya
Vrishabha	Vrishabha	Makara

A Baffling Horoscope

Sir,—Born in a fairly well-to-do family, the darling of her grand-parents and the pet of the whole family, not allowed to sleep even in her cradle, the child grew up a fair and intelligent girl. Since the parents could not do anything as the father was then a non-earning member, the grand-parents took care of her and great affinity was attached between them. The position of the planets indicated very good Raja Yoga. According to the dictum 'Lagne Sukra Budou nasti, Nasti Kendre Brihaspatau Dasame Angarako nasti, Sajatha Kim Karishyati'.—a horoscope is not a worthy one that has no Venus or Mercury in Lagna, Jupiter in a Kendra and Mars in 10th.

Let us now see the * horoscope. Born on 12-6-1909 at Bangalore at 56-40 ghatis after Sunrise, she grew up at Madras till 1913. Note the positions of planets.

The period of Saturn at birth ruled for 11-1-22, i.e., upto 4-8-1920. Then Budha Dasa Budha Bhukthi started.

Look at the splendid positions: Budha in Lagna, Guru in 4th Kendra, Kuja in 10th, and lord of 10th in 11th with Moon, Saturn, Mars and Jupiter (three planets) in Vargottama. What should an astrologer say to such a position? Mercury and Venus in Parivartana, Guru Mangala Yoga also, and Kalatra Karaka Sukra, not aspected by any one, while Mangalya Karaka (Mars) is aspected by Jupiter. Under such circumstances, she became a virgin widow. Married in June 1921, in Budha Dasa Budha Bhukti, and Sukrantara, she became a widow on 1st August 1923, in Budha Dasa, Kethu Bhukti and Guru Antara. How to account for this happening? No doubt many astrologers try to justify an incident after it happens, especially unfortunate events affecting one's whole life. Now what are the combinations that produce widowhood in a woman's horoscope? As per Stri Jataka (III Edition, page 73) 10 combinations are given for widowhood. The 8th is clean. The 7th has only Kethu, aspected by Sun (lord of 4), Mercury (lord of 2 and 4) and Rahu. Rahu's aspect causes no doubt widowhood and lord of 7th Mars, aspects Ravi and the lord of 8th Guru aspects lord of 7th, i.e., Mars. This is stated to to be a powerful combination for widowhood. Sani aspects Rahu and Rahu aspects the 7th and this is said to indicate early widowhood. Now the question comes here whether, when early widowhood is indicated in a horoscope, is it not possible to prevent the widowhood by marrying the girl after that indicated period is over. The sages have foreseen such questions and irrespective of the age, early widowhood means, becoming a widow soon after marriage. Now in the above horoscope the girl became a widow in Augst 1923 in her 14th year. Suppose she had been married in her 16th year. What then? She would have become a widow afterwards. Then how are we to judge, when a girl becomes a widow and when a man becomes a widower. These are baffling problems and students would do well to study these problems. Certain aspects of life, especially longevity, profession, widowhood and means of livelihood are very difficult problems in the field of Predictive Astrology and savants of the Science, would give us their expert opinions through the columns of the ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE.

Rectification of Birth Time

Sir,—The importance of astrology is well known. But when the astrologer is not able to give a correct forecast, one source of the error is found in his inability or refusal to devote his full energy either for a study of astrology or for an examination of the horoscope. Here the mathematical part is the most important one. It is an absolute fact and well-proved one thereat that the more complete are our mathematical calculations the more correct will the predictions be. These calculations depend on the latitude and longitude of the place of birth, and on the correct time of birth.

Different latitudes indicate different durations of the signs of the zodiac. Differences in the longitude reveal different local times which are not the same as the standard time. Consequently if a horoscope is erected on the basis of the time indicated by the watches and on the basis of the durations of the signs found in the almanac nearby, it will not be the horoscope of the person concerned. So we have first to determine the correct time of birth. In the 1958 Annual Number of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE this problem was raised by Mr. V. Thiruvenkatacharya. Let us examine it.

What is the correct time of birth? When the delivery takes place, is the time of birth (a) that of the discharge, or (b) that of the emergence of the head, or (c) that of the babe's complete emergence and falling on the ground? In the first case, the child is still in the womb; and the child emerges long after this. Consequently this cannot be the time of birth.

Sometimes as soon as the head of the child emerges from the womb, there is a cry; and this implies that the babe has already begun to breathe independently. Then this will be the correct time of birth.

There are cases where we find babes not beginning to breathe even after falling on the ground. The moment when the breathing commences is the moment when the planetary forces begin to exert their influences on that child. This operation comes to a close as soon as the individual breathes his las .

Kalidasa in his Uttara Kalamrita has given us a few principles whereby we can correct the given time of birth. Following these principles, we get at the time which has to agree with the sex of the child, with day of the week, and also with the constellation in which the Moon was transitting at that time. This I have explained in detail in my forthcoming book How to Determine the Birth Time. This method of Kalidasa is the only valid and scientific one in determining the exact time of birth.

Having ascertained this time of birth, one should proceed to construct the horoscope for the latitude of the place of birth. The horoscope thus erected will be the basis for computing the six, twelve, or sixteen Vargas which will reveal the precise strength of the planets and of the cusps of the houses. On the basis of this data the predictions have to be made.

Kalikiri, Dt. Anantapur. C SUBRAHMANYA SASTRI.

Malavya Yoga

Sir,–All standard astrological works while dealing with the Malavya Yoga say that the persons concerned will be addicted to gross sensual pleasures. But our Prime Minister Nehru who possesses Malavya Yoga even though he enjoys palatial residence, Vahana Yoga, servants, furniture etc., cannot be said to have given himself to a life of ease. But his bringing up parrots, rabbits and other animals clearly show that he possesses Malavya Yoga. Will any reader of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE explain what is there in Nehru's horoscope which makes him not to yield to a life of ease.

Hyderabad-Dn. R. RAMASWAMI.

Mars and Marriage

Sir,—I do not completely agree with the following observations appearing in July 1958 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE at page 672.

"Wisdom and experience show however that no aspect of any other planet can resist martian evil".

While agreeing with the contents of the letter of Srimati Bijoli Das appearing in February 1959 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE, I may point out another exception. I have come across a horoscope with Makara Lagna and Mars occupying 7th house from Lagna, along with Saturn. The native has married only once and has a quiet home life with few disturbances. Death of the partner did not occur even by the position of Mars in the 7th house in conjunction with the lord of Lagna.

I may also discuss another horoscope, I came across a few days back. Lagna Thula occupied by Saturn and Mars and the lord of the 7th is in 5th. Even though Mars is not aspecting the 7th house, the native had two marriages. However, Mars did not cause the death of the partner by the first marriage, but they were separated by divorce.

In short, for Thula and Makara Lagnas, Mars in 7th house or aspecting 7th house does not cause death of the partner. However, he plays his mischief and does not promise a happy union. Some disturbances are bound to remain in such cases.

Navasari. J. R. VADALIA.

Jupiter—Sun Combination

Sir,—In the above article, published in November 1958 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE, Mr. N. Viswanathan says, "Gold to Guru when he is powerful". This is a paradoxical statement and this idea will bewilder novices of astrology. Perhaps they will deem that Karakatwa of a planet changes in accordance with its strength. But every astrologer knows that a planet may be strong or powerful, but it does not create any new Karakatwa. Jupiter presides over gold. In Phaladeepika, Ch II, Sloka 30, it is stated clearly:

Thamram Namayam dhanuthamram
chayasm bhaskaradow.

Further he says, "Thus these planets, giant-like, due to their size sould produce peculiar results when they combine". This idea will puzzle a tyro in astrology. A planet may be big or small, but the size of that planet does not produce any peculiar results as it is stated by Mr. Viswanathan. Saturn is a huge planet but he is smaller than Jupiter. Conjunction of Saturn and the Sun does not produce good results like the conjunction of Jupiter and the Sun. Jatakaparijata gives the following results for the conjunction of Saturn and the Sun. Mandaprayamathi Sapatnavasago Mandena Yukte Ravov.

But Mercury is the smallest of all the planets yet his association with the Sun can produce excellent results.

Therefore, good or bad results are not produced by the size of a planet. It is also said in the article: "Jupiter is a divine planet; he is called Guru in Sanskrit meaning 'big'." Undoubtedly Guru has a big body. Jupiter increases our spiritual knowledge. So, Guru is the other designation of Jupiter. Guru means a teacher.

Referring to the Chart No. 7, I say that the chart of Lord Krishna does not coincide with his chart mentioned in Brihat Parasara Hora, wherein it is said that Lord Krishna was born at night on Wednesday, in the eighth lunar day, at Brahmarkhamatra moment, when Vrishabha was rising. The Moon, Mars, Mercury and Saturn were in their exaltation signs. Jupiter was in the 11th house from the Lagna of Krishna and the Sun, Venus and Rahu were respectively in Simha, Thula and Vrischika. So, Kethu was in Lagna.

Chandernagore. SRIMATI BIJOLI DAS.

A Tragedy

Sir,–Mr R. Ramaswami of Hyderabad-Deccan has referred to a case of an unfortunate girl who became a widow within about six months of her marriage, vide his letter published in the 1958 September issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE.

The rule regarding 'Kuja-Dosha' or 'Angaraka-dosha' is well known to the students of astrology. In a female chart, actually it is Mars in the 7th and 8th that causes most evil and brings on widowhood on the native. There is an exception to the rule regarding the evil in the 8th, viz., if there is a benefic in the 2nd, the woman may not become a widow; she will pre-decease her husband. In the girl's chart, before us, it will be found that the 7th house is occupied by an exalted Mars with the lord of the Lagna, the Moon. As a general rule, the occupation of the 7th house by Mars is regarded as Kuja-dosha. However, some say that Mars does no mischief when in the 7th, if that sign is Cancer or Capricorn. Some scholars do not support this view. It is also my humble belief that inspite of such a contention, the dosha does exist. However, if the planet is strong

The above discourse is the opinion of Somanatha Misra. There are various opinions from different commentators on this subject of calculating Dwara and Bahya. Somanatha Misra, in his work, Atmadasaprakarana, had discussed the opinions of the other commentators also, and established the above process for proper guidance and it was unanimously accepted by great men like Krishna Misra, Vanchanadha and Jaina Panditha, (name unknown).

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

and is associated with or aspected by a strong benefic, it does very little evil.

When viewed from the Moon, it will be very interesting to note that the nativity is subject to a very strong Kuja-dosha. It may be noted that the 7th house is powerfully aspected by a strong Mars. The 7th lord Moon is also afflicted by Mars and is subject to Papakarthari Yoga. The 8th house (Leo), which signifies 'Mangalyam', is heavily afflicted by the evil aspects of powerful Mars and Saturn. The Sun, ruling the house of Mangalyam, is also aspected by his bitter enemy, Saturn, and is further afflicted by being combined with the lords of the 6th and the 12th. It will be significant to note that the 2nd house is not occupied by any benefic whatsoever in order to avert the widowhood, i.e., pre-deceaseing the husband. A woman who predeceases her husband is known as 'Sumangali'.

What is still more important to note is that the nativity is subjected to Papadhi Yoga. Added to this, the lords of the Lagna and the 7th from the Lagna or the Moon occupying Dwirdwadasa positions to each other is another striking feature that is worthy of note in the nativity. Moreover, mark the neecha disposition of Venus, who is also lord of the 4th (Sukham), and his occupying the 8th place from the 7th lord Saturn. If we take the 5th house as the Lagna of the girl's previous birth, it will be worth noting that Venus,, who happens to be the lord of the 7th (Kalatra) and the 12th (Duritham or evi deeds), is debilitated. Not only that but Venus as the lord of Navamsa Lagna occupies the 12th in debilitation in the Navamsa also.

Some horoscopes indicate poor conjugal happiness even without apparent Kuja-dosha. It is said that the lord of the 5th or 8th occupying the 7th house deprives the woman of her husband. In the present case, Mars as the lord of the 5th is in the 7th, while the 7th lord occupies the 8th, his Moolatrikona Rasi. It is stated in Sri Jataka or Female Horosopy that if the lord of the 7th is unfavourable and Kuja and Sani are in the 7th or 8th, she becomes a widow very early in life.

The bride is certainly mated with the bridegroom having a similar affliction. However, a mere glance at the two horoscopes under reference will show that Kuja-dosha is much stronger than that in the bridegroom's chart. Hence, the selection of the bridegroom made was not really a proper one.

It appears that the marriage was unfortunately celebrated during quite an inauspicious time, especially when Sukra was eclipsed by the Sun, Guru was transitting the 8th from the Moon and Mars was transitting the 12th from Lagna in the girl's case.

The poor girl is said to have become a widow in October 1957 when most probably she was having Rahu Dasa Sani bhukthi. Mark that Rahu and Sani are situated in the 6th and 8th respectively from the Lagna, causing Papadhi Yoga and Papakarthari Yoga to the 7th lord from the Moon. So far as the chart of the male is concerned, Rahu and Sani are afflicting the 7th lord Mars disposed in the 2nd. Moreover, major lord and sub-lord were then transitting Dwirdwadasa positions to each other in both the charts. Taking the 7th house as the Lagna of the husband in the girl's chart, the sub-lord Saturn owns and occupies the 2nd. Again, in the male's chart, Sani is disposed in the 2nd, and in Navamsa, he owns the 2nd (also Navamsa Lagna) and occupies the 6th from the major lord Rahu.

Monthly Predictions

Sir,—I beg to pen these few lines in appreciation of the articles given in THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAGINE, which I have been reading since 1947, for seeing the monthly predictions and other interesting articles.

Mine is Simha Rasi—Makha Nakshatra and I always found predictions given under that Rasi correctly happening in my case. I give below a few examples:

1. May 1958:—"Through a faulty process of reasoning...May in the end turn out badly."

Taking the given warning, I refrained from opening a big Dairy Farm at Mahbubnagar but still a beginning was then made on a very modest scale. Now I found it turned out badly and I am closing it down.

2. July 1958:—"There is also likelihood of accidents...and other complications".

Inspite of my utmost care during journeys I was injured with profuse bleeding but could avoid other complications by immediately taking anti-titanic injections. The warning helped me to take this precaution.

3. September 1958.—"Harmony inside the domestic circle.....even lead to temporary separation".

Inspite of my utmost tolerance as per the warning given, the quarrel did occur, resulting in temporary separation, with far-reaching effects, mentally troubling me even now.

I thank Sri Mihira with my whole heart for his exact and detailed predictions and warnings. May God bless him. Who can say that Astrology is not a useful science, when great losses etc,, could be avoided by such warnings. I gratefully thank you for bringing out such a useful Magazine.

Rajahmundry V. ADINARAYANA RAO.

Tragic Marriages

Sir,—I wish to place before you my humble opinion on the 'letter' appearing on page 922 of October 1958 issue of THE ASRTOLOGICAL MAGATINE under the above heading. In this connection, the native's horoscope (male) contains all kinds of malofic combinations regarding matrimonial affairs.

1. 7th house is occupied by Sun who is in his enemy's house.

2. Saturn (Nirbhagyadhipathi) and lord of 7th occupies 2nd Bhava (enemy's house) which is also 8th place from 7th house.

3. The supreme planet Sun and the lord of 7th Saturn are placed in Shashtashtama (8 and 6) from each other both being bitter enemies. (Sun is lord for wealth and earning—2nd Bhava).

4. The evil is greately intensified by the worst possible Parivarthana Yoga caused in this horoscope between Sun and Saturn.

5. The native can go on simply marrying since the Satvik planet Jupiter aspects 7th Bhava but the native cannot enjoy a peaceful, loving and harmonious wedded life.

In this connection, I wish to bring to your kind notice that it is not advisable to have a Parivarthana Yoga between lord of 2nd Bhava and 7th Bhava; further I wish that the esteemed Editor may clarify my doubt in this connection.

The native has to simply rot after girls (Kamapeedita) and cannot settle in a life with his beloved partner if lords of 7th and 2nd are interrelated with 2nd and 7th houses both "being enemies".

Erode. R. SITA RAMAN.

Sir,—Let me at the outset congratulate you on the interesting contents and nice get-up of the 1959 Annual Number of THE ASTROLOGIAL MAGAZINE. May I suggest that translations in English be given of all Sanskrit quotations? This would help readers not familiar with Sanskrit, to understand the articles concerned more easily.

Your great magazine has a great future and yours is a greater previlege and opportunity of spreading the message of the stars far and wide and of being a strong link between the two major systems of planetary reference, Nirayana and Sayana. It is my sincere belief that this ideal could be more readily achieved by straining to keep the magazine an open forum for both systems, without showing any bias or prejudice towards either of them, as the magazine's official policy. May you live long for many many more years to come, with all happiness and prosperity, to guide us, junior dabblers, on our common journey.

Thanking you and with all good wishes,

Bombay-1. BEHRAM D. PITHAVALA.

A Request

Sir,—The following Poem 'Salutation to the Dawn' is said to have been written by the famous Kalidasa.

Look to this day!
For it is life, the very life of life,
In its brief course
Lie all the verities and realities of your existence
The bliss of growth
The glory of action
The splendour of achievement
For yesterday is but a dream
And tomorrow is only a vision,
But today well lived makes yesterday a dream of happiness
And tomorrow a vision of hope
Look well, therefore, to this day!
Such is the salutation to the dawn.

Will any of your readers give the original sloka or please help me to trace it.

Thanking you.

LESSONS IN ASTROLOGY—XIV

Mercury, Sun and Venus.—Endowed with luxuries, wealth and authority, living with parents, and relations, and having honour and valour.

Mercury, Saturn and Mars.—Marries a dancing girl, lives in a far-off place, hates his kinsmen, poor, short-lived and loses wife and cattle.

Jupiter, Venus and Saturn.—Leader of the family, having family happiness, of limited means, enjoys pleasures sparingly, famous, and approved or honoured by the public.

Jupiter, Mars and Sun.—Very rich, honoured by the people, learned, free from the fear of enemies and ailments, and having all kinds of happiness.

Jupiter, Mars and Saturn.—A mayor of city, powerful, capable of enduring hardships, wealthy, jealous and full of self-respect and valour.

Jupiter, Saturn and Moon.—Fond of women, blessed with children, happy, friend of sweet-tonged persons, and devoted to parents, teachers and Gods.

Three or more planets joined together in the Lagna, 9th or 10th house, make a person have too many irons in the fire, very virtuous, very intelligent and enjoy pleasures like Kubera.

If the Moon, Mars and Jupiter occupy together the same Rasi except their debilitations and the 6th, 7th, 8th and 12th, one becomes strong, powerful and wealthy.

Saturn, Moon, Mars and Venus.—If these join in the 1st, 9th or 10th, one will be berefit of family and friends, and gets happiness only after going abroad.

If benefics are together in a house, only excellent results will happen; on the other hand, malefics in such a position cause untold miseries; and mixed effects will have to be predicted for the conjunction of both benefics and malefics. If more than four planets combine in a single sign, you cannot expect very good results: they will be mixed. When you examine a horoscope you have to take into consideration all the above-mentioned points relating to the conjunction of planets and the houses where such conjunctions take place. Besides that you have to bear in mind their (of the planets) relative strength. For even benefics cannot give the good results mentioned above if they are not strong or well placed.

The Universe and the Heavens

By M. V. Ramakrishnan, M.A., L.T.

The book gives in simple non-technical language all that is known at the present day about the heavenly bodies giving the latest theories of an evolving and expanding Universe. Attempts have also been made to correlate ancient astrology with modern observations.

Though much of the matter in this book has already appeared years ago in THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE, the matter has been entirely rewritten to meet the needs of the layman, the University student, the astronomer and the astrologer.

An invaluable book that every lover of knowledge should possess.

The publications of the New American Library of Word Literature continue to maintain their attractive external appearance, and excellence of quality of the literary and scientific matter selected for inclusion in the series.

In Cry Terror the thrilling story is told of an innocent woman whose husband and daughter (about five years old) are kidnapped by the leader of a formidable gang of extortionists headed by Paul Hoplin. The extortionist threatens the owner of a big Air-liner-concern that he had deposited a bomb in a liner, and that unless half a million dollars are paid, the plane would be blown up with about a hundred passengers. An innocent woman is sent to take delivery of the amount, and the life of her kidnapped husband and that of her daughter would depend on her safely delivering the amount into the hands of Paul Hoplin. An accomplice attempts to commit sexual outrage on the woman, but, as fate would have it, she cleverly kills the villain. She delivers the amount into the hands of the extortionist, but, meanwhile, the FBI officers take the case on hand. Eventually, she escapes from the clutches of the extortionist, and runs into a tube for her life. She is hotly pursued by Hoplin, but, she is rescued by the police and her husband, and Hoplin is knocked down to death by a train.

The Case of the Dead Divorcee contains the thrilling story of an attractive and bonied young woman, who, as the result of her love affairs, meets with her death under very strange and pathetic circumstances. Ann, first marries Durant, and then, she is divorced. Johnny Adams, having lost his job and separated from his wife, goes to Vermont ski resort, to try his luck and commence business of running a fashionable hotel which is frequented and patronized by a large number of customers, on account of heavy snow-fall in the season. Ann and Adams get to know one another, and she, the divorcee, and he separated from his wife commence romantic living. As ill-luck would have it, Durant, the former husband of Ann, happens to visit the same ski resort. Adams spent a night with Ann, in her apartments, and left in the small hours of the morning. Ann and Adams had discussed the possibility of their marriage at their meeting overnight. Before dawn, however, Durant visited his divorced wife and had an altercation with her. Highly possessive in type, and enraged by the free-lance life led by Ann he strangled her to death. On the basis of circumstantial evidence, Adams was charged with the murder of the fascinating divorcee, but, lawyers and police did their work consumately, and ultimately, Durant himself confesses he strangled Ann. Adams was reunited to his wife, and I presume, he prospered in his hotel-business.

Very few persons are aware of the fact that underneath the glamour of civilization and rich life discernible in several important American cities, there lurks an enormous amount of crime, directed against individuals and society as a whole, and such crime is perpetrated in the most methodical and systematic manner by organisasations and syndicates which divide spoils and booty collected. Three youths in 1915, came together in a Sicilian valley, and evidently, discussed plans for easy and comfortable life. The trio and their gang degenerated into a crime-syndicate named MAFIA. In this EXPOSE, the author who had worked as a reporter of well-known papers tells the blood-curdling stories of crimes committed by MAFIA. All forms of vice, including murder, bootlegging, gambling, deal in narcotics and dope rackets and their overlords and similar phenomena figure prominently in the volume, and no big city in America seems to be free from the operations of the gang of desperados. The author has based his account on the information obtained from newspaper offices, police and detective records, and from other authentic sources. At the same time, this also contains striking accounts of the good and efficient work of the police and detectives as the result of which, serious crimes were brought home to the gangsters and extortionists. The American Police and the FBI, appear to be extraordinarily vigilant and resourceful, and it would be vastly in the interests of safety of the public, if the police and detective systems of America could be taken by other countries as model. Nemesis would seem to have overtaken the MAFIA, on occasions. The author records that after all, MAFIA met its match in a woman. If this volume is carefully studied by some of the top-ranking police officials of the different countries, chances for successful detection of crime, and of bringing the criminals to book would be definitely brighter. It should perhaps be noted that the work of the author won him a Pulitzer prize, and that just now, he is editor of Boulder City News, Boulder City, Navada.

Walter Lippmann who is described as a leading political thinker of America, examines in this volume some of the dangers that threaten the Democratic governments and societies, and indicates the conclusion that unless these democracies function under the control of a strong Central Government which would unhesitatingly act in the interests of the common people, without being swayed or influenced by organised or unorganised mass opinion, and mass-action the much vaunted and much-valued freedom of men cannot be guaranteed and safeguarded. The expression Public Philosophy, may sound some what dubious. as it does not obviously refer to anything like a Public Lecture, but, it is sufficiently made clear and intelligible by the gifted author. They all talk of election of representatives in democratic countries, but, when once, the elections are over, and electors emerge from the polling-booth, these latter are ignored till the time of the next election. Not merely this. Even to fill posts to which incumbents should be elected, specially privileged persons are nominated by other specially privileged persons, and these are appointed to high posts declared "elected without opposition". If the author is inclined to find fault with such seasoned democracies like America and Britain perhaps I wonder what he will have to say regarding the conditions obtaining in an infant democracy like India. Students of political philosophy and state-craft will greatly profit by reading through this challenging volume.

How will this Earth look after the lapse of 43,000 years? This scientifically speculative scientific question is sought to be answered in the highly fascinating volume, 43,000 Years Later. Civilization is marching on at such a tremendous velocity and with such speed as would render any prognostication or envisagement of the future dangerously risky or even impossible. Deadly and dangerous weapons of destruction are being discovered, invented, and brought into existence by the ingenuity of man, and these weapons to be sure can never be allowed to lie idle. The author imagines the possibility of destruction of mankind in the twentieth century itself, by some final catastrofic act of scientific lunacy. The entire Earth and its civilization lie in ruins. In the year of grace, 43,000th, A.D., a party of interplanetary exploration consisting of two gentlemen and a lady visit the Earth in ruins. What would they see and what report they would write? The book contains a stern and timely warning to mankind not to destroy itself with the deadly weapons invented by itself. Will the warning be at all heeded? Will mankind be saved? Or will it be destroyed? Only the Omniscient Almighty can render the correct answer. Meanwhile, the author's answer will be greatly appreciated by readers.

Though human nature is said to be the same throughout the world, there are in fact several human patterns and types which reveal characteristic differences, of behaviour. In physical features, intellectual functions, emotional and volitional reactions, to characteristic environments, different human types reveal striking and even extraordinary divergences. The human types are studied, in Human Types with penetrating insight, and sympathetic understanding. The author does not criticise or condemn. The book contains a scientific study of so-called primitive groups and civilised sections of mankind, ranging between New Zealand and Iceland, on the one hand and on the other between Africa and New England. In sexual relationship, social status, manners and morals, religion and the rituals, cults and superstitions, magic, marriage family and in many other matters, the different sections of mankind reveal characteristic divergences, which are studied scientifically. It is an open question and difficult to answer if these differences could be eliminated so that the so-called primitive sections may be elevated to the level or the plane of the civilized. Students of Anthropology in general and in particular students of social Anthropology will derive considerable benefit from a study of the volume, whether or not they succeed in establishing world-state or world-family.

Dark Ages contains an attractive history of the growth and development or European Literature from the 5th to the 12th centuries, ranging between the heroic sagas of Iceland and the love songs of Provence. The mythological tales and exploits of giants, the sensational doings of the kings and chieftains, and the romantic ballads constitute the subject-matter of this brilliant historical survey of medieval literature of Europe. The author has an unexceptionable criterion for arriving at correct assessment of the value of the work of authors studied by him. He does not seek to judge the medieval writers from modern standpoint. He believed that such author had his own method, and his own value, and his own contribution to make. This individual contribution should be carefully isolated and appreciated. That is an unexceptionable criterion, in literary evaluation. Medieval literature supplied the necessary background for Renaissance. The work will be welcomed by literary circles interested in comparative study of literary contributions of different ages or epochs.

It will be remembered that six years ago, the New American Library introduced publication of New-World-Writing in paper-bound volumes; and the present publication marks the 13th number of this semi-annual series. Editorial selection has been made from the writings of authors existing and functioning all the world over, and the subject-matter included covers a vast and wide range running over stories, poetry, essays and drama. The publication is described as a "New Cross-section of contemporary fiction, criticism," and general and special patterns of literature, but, the volume does not contain much of ethical, religious or philosophical selections. I shall give a sample of the poetry included, and leave readers to judge for themselves. The work is entitled CIRCUS. Here are some striking lines.....

Seeing the world was willing to dance,
Rastelli fell in love with creation,
Through the creation with the Creator,
And through the Creator, again with creation,
And through the creation the Lord.

Of course, it is an easily understandable theme, to regard the entire world as a colossal circus, with the help of picturesque imagery. The New-world writing has come to stay, as America's spectacular contribution to universalization of the work of authors of the world. I would suggest that more selections should be made from the works of Indian authors.

Just now, when political developments are moving tremendously fast is the theocratico-secular state of Pakistan, the present Short History of India and Pakistan dealing with the political, economic, social and other forces that led to the shaping of modern India and Pakistan will be read with interest by all the interested in the destinies of the two states brought into existence as the result of the political and territorial dichtomization of the undivided India. The historical account begins with the ancient times, and proceeds down to the present. The publication is described as an "abridged edition of India in the New Era completely revised and brought up-to-date." The volume is bound to evoke varied reactions. Some would regret the vivisection or dichotomization of India, and others would rejoice, that two communities which can never come together got their own states. One thing is absolutely made clear. As the result of the world-war the British had become dead tired of retaining or keeping control over the Indian sub-continet, and such a feeling of depression and tiredness determined the transfer of power. The volume concluded with emphasis on the absolute need that there is for mutual co-operation between India and Pakistan, and it is observed, that on such co-operation would depend the destinies of southern and south-eastern Asia. The volume will be welcomed both in India and Pakistan as an authoritative account of the origin and development of two states emerged into political atmosphere of independence, and freedom from foreign control and domination.

With the devilish and incredibly tremendous pace of scientific progress, the future will have to face many highly interesting, intriguing, troublesome, and tantalizing problems, which are sure to spring up as the result of interplanetary travels and communications. These difficulties and problems will definitely confront the people of the 21st century in which, presumably, communications will have been established as amongst the different planets. One will hear plenty of Space control stations, Mars bases, Venus burg and Mars port and other thrilling phenomena coming in the wake of travelling at the speed or velocity of light. Suppose, in the course of these interplanetary travels and movements, a child is lost on the Moon with only enough air in its space suit, to last a few hours. What is to be done to keep the child going? Will an adventuresome space pilot running short of fuel, commence wondering and doubting whether his wife on Earth is faithful to him, or having some small affair with this or that gallant? Will women hired in all male space stations cause trouble? These and many other problems of interplanetary space travel are suggested in The Green Hills of Earth and the author who is a well known space fiction writer has done his best to take his readers to some really thrilling exploits and adventures of space travel. The people of 21st century will find space travel as easy and familiar as bus travel to-day.

How will Americans find their daily life in about 25 years or thereabouts? The author considers the future fabulous judged in the light of canons and standards now available. Scientific appliances and inventions are multiplying and increasing by leaps and bounds, and, there is no knowing what the future may hold for the Americans. Television, electronic computors, or calculators, and turbo-jets will all be old hat in about quarter of a century. All houses and residential quarters will be Sun heated and all factories will be worked by atom-power. These and many other marvels of modern science, will make life more happy and comfortable than life in a mythological and hypothetical Paradise. A week would be 24 hour week. Routine office jobs would be done by machines, or perhaps, by robots. People will have pills which would stop or stimulate conception. Other pills will control sex-life. Railways will be run by atomic-power. Purified sea water would convert or transform deserts into blooming fields. One can easily imagine the nature of other wonderful things to follow in the years to come. Ancient Rishis had the power of immediately creating a child the next moment after sex-contact. Perhaps, the future would reduce the gestation period. Readers will contemplate with awe and astonishment the Shape of To-morrow so sensationally and thrillingly described in the volume.

In Satellites, Rockets and Outer Spaces, the author has explained in a fairly detailed manner the basis and foundational theories and techniques of rocketry, and examined the possibilities of space travel in the years to come. The treatment of the fascinating subject should be deemed convincing and most authoritative in view of the position of the author. He was one of the early founders of the German Rocket Society, and he is a member of the American Rocket Society and a Fellow of British Interplanetary Society. He has given a comparative study of the successes and failures of the Americans and Russians in flying rockets, and he has ventured to predict the advancements and developments that may be expected, in the near future, in the matter of conquest of the apparently inconquerable space. The author is emphatically of opinion that flying saucers did not land on this planet at all, but, at the same time, he believes that there are certain unknown phenomena for which no satisfactory explanation has been found or urged yet. If indeed, flying saucers had actually landed on this planet, one would expect the evidence to consist of "wreckage, machinery or bodies". None of these had been found, and pre tante, convincing evidence has not been forthcoming. Arguing the question whether visit from some other planet in space to earth is possible, the author observes that flying saucers certainly "Fail to Fill the Hills". (Pp. 126). This should suffice to silence irresponsible voice of sensation mongering in daily and weekly newspapers. In the event of space travel becoming a fait accompli, there is the persistent problem of food to be taken on the way. Can they be food-pills? Can they be scientifically got ready? Would they be sufficient to feed space-travellers? Where does space begin? If, it begins somewhere, it will be quite natural and reasonable to ask—Where does Space end? When will it be possible for adventuresome man to make his first trip to the Moon or to Mars? Is it likely that some of the epidemics prevalent on Earth had been caused by space bacteria? These and connected questions are sought to be answered by the author in popular language without loss of scientific accuracy and precision. Enthusiasts and students of Space-travel would extend a hearty welcome to this volume on the facts and fancies, methods and mysteries of Space-travel.

TROINSKI'S TERTIARY DIRECTIONS—III

VI. The Future of Russia: 1959?

We shall now (this was written in 1952) try to have a look into the future of Russia through its TDH.

We have already determined in a surprising manner that the first square between T Mars and T Saturn coincided with the beginning of the Russo-German war in June 1941 (vide H. III), and that the first opposition between T Mars and T Saturn fell in timely with Korean War in 1950 (vide H. V).

H. VI

T. D.H: Future of Russia
(March - Nov. 1959)
14.5.1919 - 10 4m (Petrs:)

From the Ephemeris of 1919. we find that second square between T Mars and T Saturn was formed on 14–5–1919. The aspects pertaining to this time are extraordinarily decisive and are likely to give rise to events of world-wide importance. (Vide H. VI). We note the following:

1. The T Saturn as on 18th September 1918 (vide H. III) stands again at 21° Leo and is again in exact conjunction with R Moon (21°8′ Leo)–(vide H. I).

2. To this may be added T Saturn square T Mars and T Sun in 21° Taurus and T Saturn square T Moon in 21° Scorpio (!): Note Saturn (in Leo) square Sun (lord of Leo).

3. The T Mars (and dispositor of the R Sun in the Russian Horoscope—Sun being in Scorpio—vide H. I) is also in conjunction with T Sun in 21° Taurus (!).

4. At the same time T Moon in 21° Scorpio is also in exact opposition to T Mars-Sun conjunction, and in square to T Saturn, at the time when there is a partial lunar eclipse!

5. The Radical Moon in 21° Leo (Moon = people) in the Russian Horoscope of 7-11-1917, will cause severe injury to the lives and property of the people again at the appropriate time (to be presently determined), as it is severely afflicted not only by a conjunction of T Saturn but also by a square aspect from T Mars and T Sun on the one side and by the T Moon on the other at the time of a partial lunar eclipse. (Note also the Lunar aspects in the Radix Chart: Moon conjunction Saturn, square Sun, opposition Uranus; Moon and Saturn in 8 H).

6. Besides, another factor comes into play; viz., the Tertiary Ascendant at this time passes through the 8th house of the Radix Horoscope of Russia of 7–11–1917, and finds itself in the middle of the sign of Leo (cf.—H. I and H. VI).

We have now to find out with which year the above mentioned date of 14th May 1919, corresponds.

From 7th Nov. 1917 to 31st Dec. 1917	=	54 days
1918	=	365 ,,
From 1st January 1919 to 14th May 1919	=	134 ,, 553 days

These 553 days are equal to 553 Tr. mths.

41 years (from Table)		549 ,,
		4 months

So this comes to 41 years and 4 months from November 1917 = March 1959.

We make a comparison of the two TDHs of Russia:

(A) Dated 18–9–1918 corresponding to June 1941.

(B) Dated 14–5–1919 corresponding to March 1959.

A. (H. III)

Aspects:

B. (H. VI)

But you cannot clap with one hand. The tertiary directions for America are still more interesting and convincing, and may be published if the readers show any eagerness for this system and the Editor allows it.

Your SCIENTIFIC DIFFICULTIES solved

BY MIHIRA

[In the letters THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE receives from the readers, many interesting questions are put pertaining to astrological and scientific problems. Here are a few recent queries together with answers. If some similar doubts are puzzling you, why not write us about them? This service is free to all readers of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE. Address communications to—MIHIRA, c/o THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE].

Q. 1. (a) Are there any Rasimanas to fix Sayana Lagna as in the case of Nirayana? (b) How to arrive at Sidereal Time and Bhava Madhya from the figures given in Lahiri's Ephemeris. Please work out an example. (c) For Cancer Lagna or Rasi, Mercury is a malefic and Saturn rules 8th. Which lordship is condemned? But in the forecasts How is this month for January 1958, it is stated that Mercury alone is in a favourable sign. For Scorpio Rasi, Venus is considered as a malefic. But in the forecast it is stated he is in favourable sign and so on. My doubt is, how do the malefic planets by virtue of ownership could become benefic in Gochara? Am I correct if I say that a malefic planet by virtue of ownership becomes more malefic by transitting favourable signs and vice versa. Please clarify. (d) Who is the Karaka for Brahmin hatred? —V. T. S., Arcot.

Ans. (a) There are Sayana Rasimanas—refer to A Manual of Hindu Astrology by B. V. Raman. (b) Vide B. V. Raman's A Manual of Hindu Astrology. You will find an example actually worked out. (c) In Gochara, certain places from the sign of radical Moon known as Rasi are declared to be good and others bad. If the transitting planet be benefic to the horoscope either from Lagna or from Rasi, he will produce good results in the favourable houses and reduce the intensity of evil in unfavourable houses. But if the planet be malefic to the horoscope by rulership, he will be only weak in giving effect to the effects in favourable houses and the evils will be maximum while transitting unfavourable houses. (d) Brahmin-hatred was not present in the past in the sense in which it is in vogue now and therefore there is no Karaka given in astrological works. But Saturn is said to be the leader of the outcastes in Brihat Jataka. So Saturn may be said to typify Brahmin hatred.

Q. 2. (a) A general understanding is that if Dasas and Antardasas run simultaneously for a father and his son, that is the maraka period for the father. Will it be the same in the case of husband and wife or mother and son. In such cases, what will be the effect? (b) Is it true that if there is exchange between lords of 2nd and 12th houses, the native will suffer poverty? (c) Vide Art. "Combinations for Financial Success" published in March 1948 issue of A. M. P. 208, 3rd col. 1st para 14th line—when the 2nd and 12th lords are in Parivarthana Yoga, the former being stronger, will give much wealth. P. 209 3rd col. 2nd para 8th line. Similary one suffers always from poverty when there is exchange between 2nd and 12th lords. My doubt is how the same reasoning is applicable to both, either financial stability or debility. (d) Jupiter is very powerful in Scorpio (Jataka Parijata Chapter II, verse 65). This is an insect sign. So Scorpio should be least favourable for a benefic. Please reconcile the two. (e) Are Rahu and Kethu taken into account in Vesi, Vasi and Ubhayachari Yogas or in Sunapha and Anapha Yogas? (f) If Mars forms an Anapha Yoga with Moon, will the yoga be felt all through life or only during certain periods? If so when? (g) In some almanacs, it is shown as that Saturn entered Sagittarius on 6-2-58. But in some almanacs Saturn reaches that sign in January 1959 only. Which is the correct position? (h) If Venus or 7th house is hemmed in between two malefics, does it show a late marriage or two marriages or no marriage at all. (i) Please explain Vipareetha Vedha in Gochara.

R. R., Hyderabad-Deccan.

Ans. (a) Standard texts do not bear out the statement entirely. Verse 19 of Chapter X Bhavartha Ratnakara says that if two or three sons of the native undergo Rahu dasa simultaneously, then the person will die in his dasa. And he will enjoy ordinary results. So the principle is not carried beyond Rahu dasa or for other members of the family. (b) Verse 2 of Nirdhana Yoga in Bhavratha Ratnakara says: "If the lord of 2nd is in 12th and the lord of 12th is in the 2nd, the native always suffers poverty". (c) Your second quotation is wrong. What is found there is as follows:—"The eleventh lord Mars is no doubt in 2nd in a malefic house but even he is aspected by 12th lord". So there is nothing to be explained. (d) The fact that Scorpio is an insect sign has no bearing on the point. It is ruled by a friendly planet Mars and hence he is strong there. (e) No. (f) From the effects given in B. V. Raman's 300 Important Combinations, it will be seen that effects are given for the whole life generally. (g) This difference arises because different ayanamsas have been adopted by different almanacs. As the question of aynamsa has not been settled beyod all doubt, it cannot be stated categorically which is right and which is wrong. (h) The consequences mentioned have to be judged from the entire horoscope and not merely from one position namely 7th house being hemmed in between malefies. (i) Vedha is well known and need not be explained here. Let us take an example, Sun in 11th from Janma Rasi is good but if some planet is at the same time in 5th sign from Janma Rasi, he will not be able to give good results. Vipareeta Vedha doctrine says that if Sun is in 5th from Moon in transit, there are no planets at the time in 11th from Moon, then Sun will give bad results. Similarly if Sun is in 3rd he will give good results if there is no planet at the same time in 9th. So according to Vipareetha Vedha if Sun is in 9th and no planet is in 3rd at the same time, he will give bad results.

Q. 3. (a) If lord of Lagna and the lord of 7th house, join, it is said to be conducive to marital harmony. Is this true if Mars is ruler of Aries and Venus is ruler of Libra? Does not the conjunction which is malefic affect the nativity? (b) So also conjunction as between Moon and Saturn. How to reconcile? (c) The doctrine of Samasaptama has been extolled as conducive to happiness and prosperity. Will the results be the same if the lords of the constellations governing the boy and girl are enemies? If the boy is born in Uttarabhadrapada and the girl in Chitra, will it produce beneficial results just because Moon happens to be in seventh sign from the other? (d) Even assuming they are mutually in 7th from each other, the lords of the 7th Rasis are in almost all cases mutual enemies. What is the principle behind it? (e) Is it true that when a debilitated planet aspects another debilitated planet, the native is endowed with Raja Yoga? (f) What are the effects of planets in 3, 6, 9 and 12 when these houses are dwiswabhava Rasis? (g) What are the effects of planet in 2, 5, 8 and 11 when these are dwiswabhava? (h) Is it true that Vasumathi Yoga is not affected by Kemadruma Yoga? (i) What will be the effects of two Neecha malefics such as Jupiter—Mars in 2, 8, 6, 12 houses? —R. R., Hyderabad.

(a) to (d) The ancient seers who made this rule of Samasaptama should have necessarily known this also. Therefore it is to be understood that this overrides the other considerations. Yet this is only one of the items of agreement. Others should also be looked to for agreement. (e) Orthodox or standard texts do not subscribe to this view. (f) and (g) No particular significance is attached. The double nature of the sign has to be blended with the nature of the house in the interpretation, e.g, if the house falls in double-bodied sign, the native may give birth to twins. (h) There is no such rule. (i) Jupiter cannot be described as a Neecha malefic, he is a benefic though in debility. Therefore the question is pointless.

Ques. 4. (a) In judging a horoscope as from Lagna and Moon, is it a fact that Lagna is more important in the Rasi chart and Moon is more important in the Navamsa chart? (b) It is stated that an aspect from one planet to the other is good or bad according to the relation between them. (Vide Chapter VIII, Hindu Predictive Astrology by B. V. Raman). Then what is the effect of the aspect between Sun in Aries and Saturn in Libra? (c) Please define the strenth of Kuja dosha when (i) Mars occupies 7th which is his own sign, (ii) when Mars aspects 7th which is his own sign and (iii) Yogakaraka Mars posited in 7th. (f) In a chart, Venus is debilitated, but Jupiter lord of the sign is placed in a Kendra position from Lagna and Moon. Does this cause Neechabhanga for Venus? (g) What is your opinion regarding the formation of Vaira Yoga, an astronomical impossibility? (h) When is a planet called an afflicted planet? (i) Will the presence of Rahu and Kethu prevent Kemadruma? (j) In Hindu Predictive Astrology, page 138, it is stated that Rahu and Kethu are Aprakasa or lustreless planets and they give the results of the lords of the houses they occupy. In some other astrological work, it is stated that Rahu and Kethu are equivalent to Saturn and Mars respectively. Is it right both ways? (k) The conjunction of Venus and Mars is said to be evil. Will it be so even if Mars is Yogakaraka for Cancer and Leo Lagnas? —R.R., Hyderabad.

Ans. (a) The older astrologers had some such working rule. It may not have any foundation in the standard writers. For Navamsa Lagna to be correct, the birth time should be fairly accurately known whereas it is not so in the case of Rasi. Therefore it was safer to have Moon in the Navamsa as the basis as it cannot be wrong. Still, Ascendant and Moon are both to be reckoned in any horoscope and the stronger of the two whether Moon or Ascendant should necessarily be taken. (b) Your question is not clear. In that chapter, the author points out the difference between the Hindu and Western method of judging aspects. In the Hindu Astrology, it is the nature of the planet that determines the nature of the aspect. In the West, it is the nature of the aspect that determines whether it is good or bad. Mr. Cyril Fagan is a strong advocate of the Hindu view of interpretation. The effect will be adverse in the case of Sun and Saturn. (c) The malefic nature of Mars in 7th in his own sign is estimated at 96 units where as his maximum evil is estimated at 192 units. When Mars aspects 7th, the extent of evil will depend upon the sign occupied by him. Yogakaraka Mars in 7th has no mitigation of evil by occupation of 7th in terms of Kuja Dosha. (f) Yes. (g) V. S. Sastri of Bangalore comments as follows in his translation of Brihat Jaatka where Vaira Yoga is defined. Readers who are familiar with the working of the Bhava Sphuta process described in detail in Sripati Paddhati, Chapter I and in my notes thereto, easily see that it is not possible as we go to the higher altitudes to have some of the Bhavas uncommonly short and others extraordinarily long, so that in places like London, Berlin, Petrograd, it is perfectly possible that Mercury and Venus may happen to be in the 4th Bhava with respect to Sun not in the 4th Rasi as interpreted by Varaha Mihira. For example, see page 427 of B. V, Raman's Tables of Houses. If Sun occupies Scorpio 17° 35′ he will be on the cusp of the 4th house for Lat. 52° N. and Mercury can occupy the Ascendant which is Libra 22° 52′. The distance between the two is only 24° 43′ and they can be distant by 27 degrees. (h) A planet is called afflicted when he is in conjunction with or aspected by malefics. (i) Rahu and Kethu do not count as planets here. (j) It is not correct to say that Rahu is the equivalent of Saturn and Kethu of Mars. They are in nature similar. That is all. So there is nothing inconsistent between the two statements.

Ques. 5. (a) As in Kuja Dosha, suppose Sani or any other natural malefic is placed in the horoscopes of both wife and husband, does the evil get cancelled as in the case of Kuja? (b) 11th house is the house of gains. Why is it given prominence when 2nd, 10th, etc., have reference to gain? (c) Is it correct that house governs the mental state or character of a person, while the fourth his conduct? In judging the character of a person, which are the houses to be taken into account? (d) What yogas make a native merciless and cruel? (e) Is death sure to happen to a person or persons who are born during Lagnadhipathi's period (Ascendant lord) or Ashtamadhipathi's period (8th lord) during that period itself in spite of benefic aspects or conjunctions? (f) Will either lord —lord of 1 or 8, prove maraka at any time during one's life? (g) Is longevity definitely shown for those persons that are born with Kalasarpa Yoga? (h) What are the effects of the combination of Rahu and Mandi in 8th house? (i) What will be the effects if lord of 1st house occupies 12th? (j) Combination of Mars and Saturn in the 7th house for Capricornus Lagna is good for that house. What will happen if only one of the above planets is posited there?

Ans. (a) Assuredly. (b) 11th house is given prominence because it is 2nd (acquisitions) from 10th (profession) and represents professional earnings. (c) 9th house represents Chitta-Suddhi —purity of mind. In judging character of a person 5th, 9th and 10th houses are to be considered as well as Lagna. (d) (i) If Sun, Moon and Venus are together in one bhava (ii) If Sun occupies Lagna, (iii) If Mars occupies 1st house, (iv) when Rahu occupies Lagna or (v) If Mars occupies 5th bhava, (vi) If 9th bhava is occupied by Sun, Mercury and Moon or born in the Navamsa of Mars, etc. (e) There is no such rule. (f) If other conditions co-exist, there is no reason why either lord should not act as maraka at the proper time. (g) There is no such rule. (h) The evil significations of 8th house are intensified thereby. (i) Verse 21 of Chapter VI of Sanketa Nidhi gives the effects as follows:—"When the lord of Lagna is posited in the 8th or 12th house, the person concerned will be clever in gambling, in offering advice, and will be miserly. He will commit thefts, have intercourse with other people's wives, will have a dark future and will become, as it were, a boat with a cargo of all sorts of evils and misfortunes. (j) Tne effects are only for the combination. Otherwise the effects of each will have to be indvidually judged. Mars in 7th—The native will be under his wife's influence and absent in foreign place. Saturn in 7th–the person will be base, fickleminded and will be addicted to a bad wife.

Q. 6 (a) If in Chalit Kundali (Bhava Chakra) Moon occupies the other bhava from Rasi Bhava from which house the predictions relating to Moon should be made? (b) In either case, the result will be different, i.e., from one position the particular planet will be in the 3rd house and from other position it will be in the 4th house. Will you kindly indicate the principle in detail. (c) If in a horoscope the cusp of the house falls at 11–29–6–40, then the lord of the house will be Jupiter even though the major portion of the house is covered by the next Rasi. Is it correct that the planets governing the next Rasi will play no part in the ownership of the house and will exert no influence as regards the house? If so why?

M. G., Bhopal.

Ans. (a) and (b) The question is most clumsily put. If in the Rasi a planet is in 3rd but in Chalit, it is in the 4th bhava, the planet is to be considered as being only in 4th bhava. But the sign will be the same as shown in the Rasi chart. (c) According to Hindu methods of house division one half of the bhava (first) will be in Pisces and the second half in Aries. For all practical purposes, Jupiter is the ruler of the bhava. Mars will have only a very subordinate influence as part ruler of that bhava.

MATRIMONIAL MATCHING—A STATISTICAL APPROACH

discredit the female is biologically superior to the male, not only among the human but also among other species. It may not be in physical strength, but in the constitutional strength which alone really matters. They may have less powerful muscles, but they live longer. The stresses and strains of life, malnutrition, fatigue, sickness, shock and such like, do not undermine them to the extent they affect the male. It is scientifically proved that in every age group the death rate of the male is higher than that of the female. Women seem to possess a greater natural immunity to certain type of diseases and when they get attacked, recover more rapidly and frequently. Preservation of the race is the burden of the female and as such Nature seems to have been partial in making them stronger and resilent, not only constitutionally but emotionally as well. Contrary to popular belief women are proved to be more emotionally stable, reliable and ready for integration than the male. Ashley Montague says: "if you function in such a way as to live longer, be more resistent, healthier, and behave in a manner generally calculated to enable you and your progeny to survive more efficiently than others, then by the definition of of our measure of superiority, you are superior to others". In this respect the female occupies definitely a higher level to the male. Perhaps it is a recognition of this factor that made our ancients who originally deviced the system of Poruthams to start all calculations from the female nakshatra, the implication being that the system is to discover whether any given male would be suitable to the female and not necessarily vice-versa. So it is I consider that the female reaction to any situation especially in such matters would be more valuable than what is gathered from the male. For obvious reasons it was not possible for me to do anything in this direction and let me hope that in future earnest students would find it possible.

THREE HUNDRED IMPORTANT COMBINATIONS

BY B. V. RAMAN

This is not a collection of combinations but a careful selection of just the most important ones which cannot be easily identified in a horoscope.

What makes one a dunce? Why is one unhappy, what makes one poor and the other rich? Why one has no bodily comfort—what makes one a King or an equal, a leader, a business magnate, an industrialist, a great politician, a pauper, a sickly man and a miserable wretch? What makes one attain success without much effect and what makes the other to meet with disappointment in life inspite of his very best efforts?

A study of this book will enable you to easily judge the worth of your own horoscope and adjudge its merits and demerits.

A book of this type containing a collection of rare combinations some of which are special yogas has never been published before.

The author has illustrated the principles with innumerable horoscopes from practical lives. Do not fail to read this book.

Weather Forecasts for April 1959

BY D. R. MUNSIFF

THE Editor has consented to start a feature on weather forecasts. In Europe and America, many big plantation owners and social dignitaries arrange their sowing reaping programme and social entertainment programme respectively after consultations about astrological determinants. In a country like India, where monsoon plays a much more important part in agricultural operations, these indications should prove very useful. Let me assure you that in France, many meteorologists have studied and published brochures on weather predictions from planetary aspects.

Since the primary determinant of weather is the Sun, we must pay attention to the time of entry of the Sun in each of the zodiacal signs and draw our conclusions from the map drawn from such time of the entry.

Further, the planets are the long-term contributors for the fixing of the character of weather. If one looks up past records, there is a certain rhythm discovered of spells of wet weather over a period of years followed by dry years and hot years followed by cold years.

The maps for the four solstices are very important because they give us indications of quarterly periods but within that cycle, the conditions are modified at the time of Sun's entry into a sign. And still more, the weather conditions are further modified by the planetary relationships at the time of lunations.

It will not be possible however to discuss all these maps but the readers may be assured that the conclusions that are mentioned in this column have been reached after the digestion and assimilation of all such data. Next, the planetary phenomena at the time of eclipses are very important and give indications for a long period. Maps drawn for those must always be kept handy for reference.

This feature of the month gives the indications from 21st March to 20th April 1959. Let us take the map drawn for Bengal. With a few modifications, this will be true of U.P. and Bihar. Side by side indications, for East Bengal and Assam are discussed. For Assam and East Bengal, this period of time is very important because jute is being sown at this time inmany parts. Next this is the time when north-western showers occur influencing the weather a great deal.

The 28th degree of Leo is rising, Scorpio is on the 4th house. Jupiter finds itself meandering in his own house slowly in the 4th house and Mars, the hot planet passes through Gemini a dry sign in the 10th house. Moreover, Gemini gives rise to winds and storms and its ruler Mercury is in conjunction with Sun in the 8th house. Further there is an accent on the 12th house with Uranus and Moon in Leo. These are not happy signs of normal weather—it is not going to contribute to the well-being of agriculturists.

The forecasts given here should be interpreted in the relative and not absolute sense. A dry period in summer is different from a dry period in monsoon; the latter would mean short rains and when rains are indicated, the precipitation is much lighter than the normal.

The month will witness dry and dusty gusts of winds—sometimes storms as well. The sign Scorpio is never benefical to agriculturists and its ruler is in a dry windy sign in strong aspects with Rahu and Uranus. Further Jupiter is in a fiery sign raising the temperature. The territories to the rest of West Bengal, that is East Bengal and Assam will be greater sufferers. Further Retrograde Jupiter at the time of Sun's entry in Aries—specially round about 23rd may create terrestrial disturbances in Assam. The weather will be hotter and drier than normal and much more so in Assam and East Bengal.

March 22nd windy, 23rd hot and dry, 24th is eclipse day and will be a little stormy (dry), 25th normal but a little windy, 26th hot accompanied by winds with a little moisture in the air, 27th humid, 28th sultry with a little precipitation in light drizzles in E. Bengal, and Assam, 29th and 30th very windy, light drizzles in Assam, very humid weather in W. Bengal, 1st April windy, 2nd humid moist weather, 4th and and 5th windy with light drizzles and scattered showers particularly in Assam, 6th and 7th dry strong winds, 8th light drizzles in East Bengal and Assam, cool atmosphere in West Bengal. 9th humid, 10th and 11th very windy, dry, 12th hot and dry, 13th hot and stormy winds, 14th windy, 15th humid with a little precipitation, 16th windy, 17th very windy, 18th and 19th very humid and sultry and 20th cool winds.

For the western coast region, the conditions are entirely different. The fourth sign is on the cusp of 1st house and 7th on 4th house. Neptune is posited there with Uranus and Moon in the 1st house and Venus in the 10th house. There is no accent on the 8th or 12th house. Neptune with its mildly moist nature, and Venus with the equable characteristic accompanied by Moon—a moist and Uranus a cold planet in the 1st house pull down the temperature. The weather therefore will be milder than normal with cool and moist breezes.

In the Western India, down to the south, there are no agricultural operations carried out; therefore no daily indications are given. 27th, 28th and 30th March are particularly cool days. 31st is humid and sultry; April 4th cloudy, 8th is windy, 11th dry and hot winds, 13th a little stormy, 14th gusts of wind, 15th mild and pleasantly cool, so also 18th, 19th and 29th. Normally the month of April is very sultry for the Bombay region but it will not be so this year; further it will be cooler than normal with stormy gusty winds.

THE SUN

The Sun proceeds from the 19th degree of Nirayana Pisces, enters Aries on the 12th and then goes upto the 18th degree of the same sign. His northern declination gradually increases from 4° 10′ to 14° 28′ during the month,

N.B.—There will be an Annular Solar Eclipse on the 8th April invisible in India.

THE MOON

The Moon begins to progress from the 26th degree of Nirayana Sagittarius, and after making a complete round of the heavens, goes upto the 19th degree of Nirayana Capricornus during the month. She crosses the Celestial Equator on the 6th, and also on the 20th. She attains maximum declination on 14th and 26th. She comes to her Apogee on the 11th and to her Perigee on the 23rd. She forms with the Sun the following aspects during this month :—

New Moon	on	8th	at about 9 a.m.
First quarter	on	16th	,, 1 p.m.
Full Moon	on	23rd	,, 11 a.m.
Last quarter	on	30th	,, 2 a.m.

MARS AND MERCURY

Mars commences his journey from the 3rd degree of Nirayana Gemini and proceeds upto the 20th degree of the same sign.

Mercury continues to retrograde upto the 12th April and moves back from 14th degree to 9th degree of Nirayana Pisces. He becomes direct on the 12th and proceeds upto the 21st degree of the same sign. He rises heliacally in the East on the 6th. He comes to his Node on the 10th, and then crosses Ecliptic towards the south. He crosses the Celestial Equator towards the south on the 11th and towards the north on the 23rd. He goes to his Aphelion on the 21st and attains greatest elongation on the 26th.

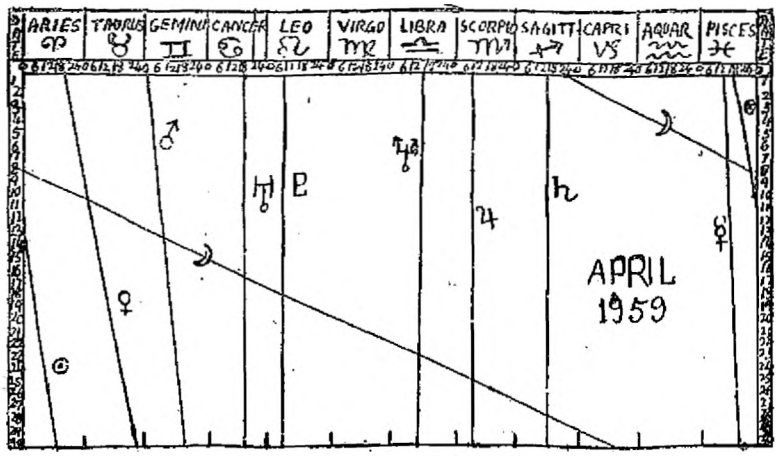
JUPITER AND SATURN

Jupiter continues to retrograde throughout this month also. During this month he moves back from the 10th degree to 9th degree of Nirayana Scorpio.

Saturn sojourns direct upto the 16th April and then retrogrades but remains in the 16th degree of Nirayana Sagittarius only throughout the month. He remains stationary from 13th to 21st of this month.

VENUS AND RAHU

Venus starts direct from the 22nd degree of Nirayana Aries, enters Taurus on the 8th and proceeds upto the 26th degree of the same sign.



Rahu goes back from 21° 27′ to 19° 55′ of Nirayana Virgo, during the month.

OTHER PLANETS

Uranus continues to retrograde and moves back from 20° 34 to 20° 27′ of Nirayana Cancer.

Neptune continues to retrograde from 14° 26′ to 13° 41′ of Nirayana Libra.

Pluto continues to retrograde and moves back from 10° 17′ to 9° 53′ of Nirayana Leo.

* The R.A. is always given on Sayana basis, while in the description of planetary movements, the longitudes are given on Nirayana basis, the current Ayanamsa being 21° 49′ 47.167″.

LUNAR CONJUNCTIONS

The Moon will form conjunctions with planets in the following order:—

Mercury	on 7th	at about	2 a.m.
Sun(Eclipse)	on 8th	,,	9 a.m.
Venus	on 11th	,,	2 p.m.
Mars	on 14th	,,	4 p.m.
Uranus	on 17th	,,	8 p.m.
Pluto	on 19th	,,	7 a.m.
Rahu	on 22nd	,,	4 a.m.
Neptune	on 23rd	,,	4 p.m.
Jupiter	on 25th	,,	6 a.m.
Saturn	on 27th	,,	7 p.m.

degree of longitude on the other side.

Starting from the north pole of the orange, let him now measure 23° 27′ along the line representing the 270th degree of longitude, and mark that point which will become the location of the north ecliptic pole (to be seen in the heavens at the zenith of an observer stationed at the corresponding point of the Earth's surface at 18 hours S.T.) and which will coincide with the Arctic Circle. Similarly, from the south pole of his orange let him measure 23° 27′ along the line of the 90th degree of longitude and so mark the south pole of the ecliptic (which will coincide with the Antarctic Circle on the Earth itself).

The student will now draw on the surface of his orange a series of equally-spaced circles made to converge at the two new points (the new poles) in order to mark out exactly where to cut in order to divide the orange into twelve equal segments. When he actually cuts the orange, the passage of the knife on each occasion will define the plane of each intersecting circle. But the student will find that the division of his orange into twelve segments will be entirely different to those obtained from the natural division of the orange, even though the segments themselves will be of the same size.

It is this new mode of dividing the orange which is presented cosmologically by the Zenith system of House Division in so far as its Terrestrial subdivisions are concerned.

To produce the required horoscopical frame by employing the Zenith system is a matter of the utmost simplicity. All that has to be done is to establish the sidereal time of the birth. Then the point Ascendant of the Zenith Horoscope can be obtained from any table of houses compiled for the latitude of the birth-place.

Then the successive signs in their proper order, each bearing the same degree-number as the point Ascendant, are written around the chart, thus defining the twelve cusps.

By way of an example to demonstrate this, let us consider the birth of a female occurring at 2-45 a.m. G.M.T. June 3, 1915. The time corresponds to 19h. 27m. 18s. sidereal time, and a table of houses for London gives the Point Ascendant as Taurus 17° (see Fig. 1 for the completed horoscope).

STARS IN THEIR Seasons

By M. V. RAMAKRISHNAN, M.A., L.T.

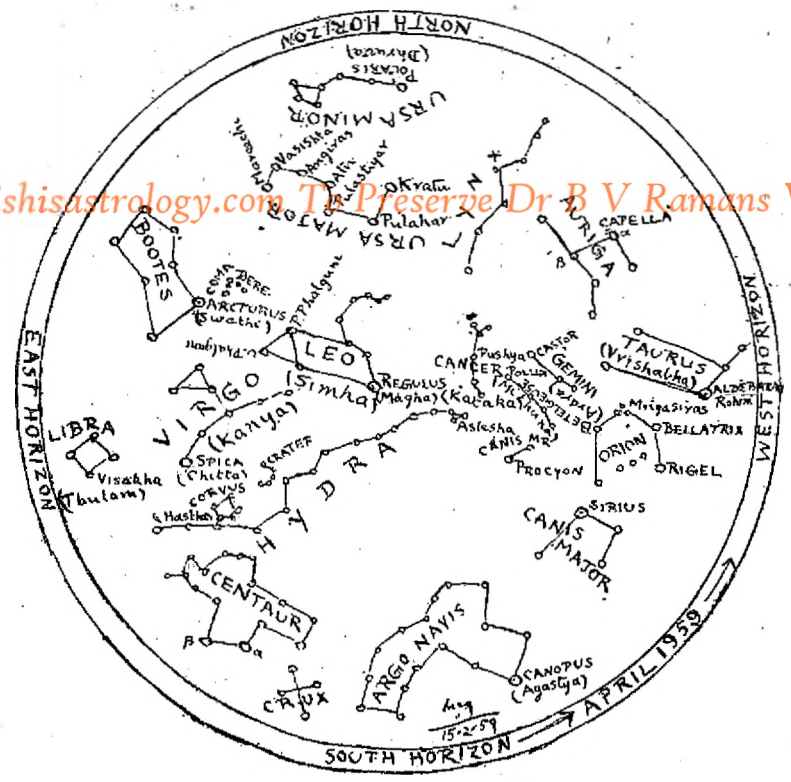
Night Sky in April 1959

Zodiacal Constellations

THE zodiacal constellations that are visible this month at about 9-30 p.m. are ranged from west-north-west to east-north-east, Taurus (Vrishabha), Gemini (Mithuna), Cancer (Kataka), Leo (Simha), Virgo (Kanya) and Libra (Thula). Taurus is setting with the bright Aldebaran close on the western horizon. Cancer and Gemini have crossed the meridian. Castor and Pollux which constitute the asterism Punarvasu are seen high up in the western sky. The asterism Pushya in the constellation Cancer can also be identified as it is high up in the sky. Leo has almost come to the meridian and is seen with its principal star Regulus very nearly overhead. Virgo is seen in a particularly favourable position this month for observation. Its principal star Spica (Chitta) is easily identified by following curve of the tail of the Great Bear, which you see shining bright in the north-eastern sky. Libra has come out of the eastern horizon and is seen a little south of east in the eastern sky. The two western most stars of this Constellation constitute the lunar asterism Visakha.

Non-Zodiacal Constellations

Of the non-zodiacal constellations Ursa Minor is seen in the north extending almost horizontally towards the east. The great star-group Ursa Major is approaching the meridian in the north. The kite-shaped constellation Bootes is seen in the north-eastern sky well above the horizon. The principal star of this Constellation is Arcturus (Swathi) and it is seen in the curve of the tail of the Great Bear. It is the brightest star in the whole northern sky, its only companions being Vega in Lyra and Capella in Auriga.



In the southern sky Orion is about to set with Canis Major and Canis Minor soon to follow. Argo Navis is very nearly on the meridian, while Crux and Centaurus are approaching the meridian. Canopus, the principal star of Argo Navis rivals Sirius in brightness. Crux is seen a little tilted, but when it comes exactly to the meridian, you will find it erect. This is because the stars at the extremities of the long arm of the Cross have about the same right ascension—12h. 28m. and 12h. 23m. The long winding constellation Hydra is seen extending across the southern sky from south-east to a point very nearly overhead.

Lunar Asterisms

The Lunar asterisms that can be identified in the visible hemisphere are Rohini in Taurus, Mrigasira and Ardra in Orion, Punarvasu in Gemini, Pushya in Cancer, Aslesha in Hydra, Magha, Purva and Uttara Phalgunis in Leo, Hasta in Corvus, Chitta in Virgo, Swati in Bootes and Visakha in Libra.

The Milky Way

The Milky Way is seen to traverse the Sky from south-south-east to north-north-west, passing through or between the Constellations Crux, Argo Navis, Canis Major, Canis Minor, Orion, Gemini, Taurus, Auriga and Perseus.

[The chart should be held in such a way that the horizon marked at the bottom in the chart corresponds to the horizon the observer is facing. Then the constellations he sees before him from the horizon to the zenith will be found in the chart from the bottom to the centre. The constellations to his right and left will be found in the corresponding positions of the chart].

WEATHER

Mostly dry throughout

BULLION

Gold.—May fluctuate quite unexpectedly.

Silver.—Initially upward trends but decline slowly during second half.

Grain.—Initial depression but upwards during the latter part of the month.

DAILY GUIDE

1. L.D. Not good for any agricultural work or new beginnings, asterism too not favourable except for purchase of cattle.

2. After 7-30 a.m.; one of the best days in the whole month for all purposes, ploughing, manuring, planting, dealings in cattle. For best effects, use mixture of organic and inorganic manure.

3. Marana Yogam till 1-40 p.m.; after that good for all purposes, planting, defrayal of paddy for farm expenses, also purchase of grain.

4. An ordinary good day but best for storing grain. After 2 p.m. good for cattle dealings.

5. Till 3 p.m.; ordinarily good for all agricultural works. Good for planting, cattle dealings.

6. Yogini towards sky after 6-40 a.m.; thereafter practically the whole day unfit for beginning of ploughing, planting, manuring, etc., but these operations can be begun before 6-40 a.m., and continued.

7. Yogini towards sky or earth whole day and night. Hence not suitable for ploughing, planting, manuring, etc. Harvesting however can be done after 8 a.m.

8. Marana Yogam whole day and night; hence unfit for all agricultural or other work; keep to routine such as digging, levelling, weeding, fencing, etc.

9. L.D. Unfit for any new beginnings till 11 a.m.; thereafter good for all purposes in general, but considered to be specially favourable for planting, purchase of cattle, defrayal of grain; purchase of grain.

10. Asterism is unsuited for all new beginnings; keep to routine works; but harvest, purchase of cattle, storing grain, are not prohibited.

11. Asterism unfavourable for all purposes. Keep to routine only.

12. Though asterism is favourable, L.D. not good for new beginnings till 5 p.m., and then there is Rahu Kala. So practically whole day useless.

13. An ordinarily good day for all purposes in general.

14. Tamil New Year's day; to be observed as an agricultural holiday.

15. An ordinany good day for storing grain.

16. Marana Yogam after 3 p.m. no new beginnings thereafter. L.D. not good. Therefore all important actions to be avoided.

17. Yogini towards sky or earth whole day and night; no planting, ploughing or manuring.

18. Marana Yogam till 4-5 p.m.; no important new beginnings till then.

19. Marana Yogam till 3-30 p.m.; avoid all important actions till then.

20. Asterism not favourable for new beginnings till 2-10 p.m.; thereafter good.

21. An ordinary good day for all kinds of work and new beginnings for digging wells, planting, purchase of cattle, storing grain, manuring, etc.

22. Marana Yogam till 9-45 a.m. L.D. not good till 2-20 p.m.; thereafter good for planting, reaping, harvesting and storing grain.

23. Ordinarily good day for above purposes, such as planting, reaping and storing.

24. L.D. Not good till 7-0 a.m.; thereafter favourable for planting, reaping, purchase of grain and cattle.

25. Yogini towards sky after 11-45 p.m.; therefore whole day good for all matters in general.

26. Marana Yogam till 8 p.m.: therefore whole day unfit for new beginnings.

27. Yogini towards earth 5-55 p.m.; not good for planting, ploughing manuring till then.

28. Specially good day for ploughing, manuring and reaping and also cattle dealing. For best effort, use mixed manures.

29. An ordinarily good day for all purposes and new beginnings.

30. L.D. not good for any purpose. Keep to routine.

The rationale and claims of Astrology have been examined from the viewpoint of Modern Scientific Thought. The arguments put forth by some of the scientists to decry Astrology have been ably refuted and supported by unimpeachable evidence.

The book will convince any so-called sceptic who is accustomed the slogan 'I do not believe in Astrology'. To an intellectual it contains full of weighty material for reflection.

It is a book that every one should read.

Economic Section

I ONCE again come to the subject of inflation and discuss it because it needs to be dinned into the ears of the unknowing public to make them conscious of the disintegeration that follows in the wake of such rising prices and to make them aware of the need of active organisation to stop a disastrous policy. I have already suggested in the past, need for an organisation of the middle classes and once again this is an appeal to them to take the lead in the protection of interests of all the consumers.

The first signs of an inflation are rise in retail prices and with a time lag in the wholesale prices. This is usually followed in this initial stage by a fall in the rates of interest. This can be countered by Government policies such as credit control, compulsory increase in the margin on loans by banks to customers, limitation in the amount of loans to individuals, restriction of dividends to stock-holders and the sale of Government Promissory Notes by the Central Banks such as the Reserve Bank of India. But it hardly happens that appropriate measures are adopted in time.

The next stage of inflation is manifested in the rise in prices in every sector of economic life and a rise in wages and salaries. If the first stage as described in the previous para is not stopped in time, the second stage follows as a matter of course. The rise in wages cuts down the profits by the trading classes both among the individuals and the joint stock companies. This leads to a reduction in the receipts of the Government by way of income-tax. The Government also suffers because its expenditure increases in the shape of increased salaries to its employees.

The Governments of the day are spenders and consumers in more than one direction. They also have to spend more for achieving an unit of production. Thus the vicious spiral of rising prices and increasing taxes emerges with wages and salaries chasing the former. The past experience of all countries that have passed through inflation suggests that in the budgets a very large deficit begins to come into existence which is next met by the sale of Government Securities to the public.

When the Government begins to issue securities on a large scale, it is natural that the confidence in the currency of a country is shaken. Therefore the value of Government securities falls and that of precious metals rise. At a subsequent stage, the prices of all the stocks of manufacturing companies move up and at every subsequent stage, the Government has to offer higher rates of interests to the public for the sale of their securities. Initially, there is always some reserve buying power with the public to buy Government securities but within the present tempo of society with all kinds of taxes from the conscious stage of life until death where only births remain untaxed, it is found that individual members of the public have no where withal left to buy Government securities. Therefore the Government sells the securities to its own Central Banking institution against which the notes are issued. These notes become the base on which deposits and advances begin to expand in particular society for a fresh bout of a rise in prices, wages, salaries and taxes This prices out the exports of a country in foreign markets owing to which, all kinds of artificial measures such as restriction on imports and on exports of capital and the free movement of goods and men are imposed.

The net result is the gradual but sure lowering of the standard of life among all classes though in the beginning, the spurt of inflation originated in a higher standard of life for the working classes and resulted in such. The consequences of inflation are writ large on the pages of history and patent to every eye which looks for it.

The problem of inflation is discussed from many angles because it is a direct consequence of our policy of misdirected expansion of industrialisation. How many of us are aware about the wastage of our resources just because we do not recognise our limitations. There are many pieces of costly and expensive machinery rusting in the docks because there is at present no means of transporting it to the place where it could be fitted up for productive enterprises.

It may be of great interest to mention that heavy lorries are forbidden to ply on the culverts and small bridges lying astride our highways. The delay in the erection of our steel-plants at Bhilai and Rourkela was in many directions due to the inability of our railways to carry the heavy pieces of machinery in time.

Today the C.I.F. price of steel billets from the continent is £ 25 sterling, per ton. China too has been expanding the steel output and is ready to dump it. Against these powerful competitors, there are very small chances of our exports of iron and steel to expand. At the time of partition, our pride did not allow the export of jute mill machineries to Pakistan and a very large part of it is remaining idle and sealed up. What is more is that the Government is directly encouraging to adopt restrictive policies in jute industry : and yet, the Government was anxious at the same time to have a larger output of raw jute. On the whole, the economic policy appears, to say the least, to be amateurish.

The policy in regerd to land and agriculture is equally narrow-minded. There is no industry in our country which needs to be mechanised as much as agriculture. But for the sake of our misguided beliefs, the landlords are destroyed and replaced by tenants in possesion of the land, who are financially too weak to invest in the most primary machines. Our food problem in face of the growing population is likely to remain acute for a long time to come. If we were to realise that our problem of inflation has its roots in the high cost of our elementary foods, how much happier it would be. The retail prices of grains and other primary necessities of life at the present rate of exchange in W. Germany, U.S.A., and England are far lower than in our country even though the rates of wages are far higher in the former.

It has been daily dinned into our ears through speeches on the floor of legislatures, Government inspired press and radio bulletins, that there is ample stock of food everywhere, and specially because there are good harvests this year. And yet the food demonstrations throughout India tell a different story. In fact, it will be salutary to ask the spokemen of Government if there are any states in the Indian Union where during the recent past, no food demonstrations have taken place. Even if such protests on a large scale cannot open the eyes of the Government against the disadvantages of inflation, nothing else can.

The recent abnormal rise in the value of gold and silver is a pointer to the general mind of the people. The public bent to possess those commodities arises from the fact to have a hedge against the falling value of the rupee.

Astrological Section

Oil, Oilseeds and Cocoanuts.—The important phenomena from the astrological point of view are the vedhas between Sani and Rahu upto 10th April, between Sani and Budha upto 13th, between Sun and Mars, between Mars and Rahu, between Saturn and Mars and finally between Sun and Venus. Thus there are many contradictory forces at play. But here with all the bearish forces oposing bullishness, yet the explosive Mars is very powerful. Mars passes through Mrigasira and Ardra. His passage through both the Nakshatras have a direct bearing on edible oil, oilseeds and cocoanuts. Further Saturn becomes retrograde in Purvashadha which is supposed to rule over oilseeds. Taken all these factors together, I would advise the readers of this magazine to store oilseeds more particularly because the coming monsoon will have many vagaries.

Elsewhere, I have discussed the prospects of weather. If the readers were to convey to me the conditions of weather that are best suited to the thriving of the crop of oilseeds such as the time for the preparation of soil, when rains are required, and under the type of condititions the crop thrives most and finally the time of reaping and at the same time the type of conditions that would spoil the crop, I should be able to help the readers a good deal more.

Further Rahu passes throughout the month in Gemini Navamsa of the barren sign Virgo. They are both dry and bullish. Thus the combined strength of three planets Mars, Saturn and Rahu plays its part at one time or the other of the month. There will be many fluctuations but the trend will remain bullish. There is however one snag—whether the oil-exchanges will be allowed to function without hindrance. There is however one period between 27th March and 31st March when there is likely to be a good reaction in the oilseeds market.

But I should like to give the readers a forewarning of the times to come. Mars in association with Rahu becomes powerful enough to create a political crisis. The seeds are being sown at this time to ripen in the next month and such a political crisis generates bullish forces in oil and oilseeds markets.

During the whole month, there will be two-sided movements reflecting the uncertain economic and political conditions. Therefore it is not advisable to specify particular days of reaction. But dealers are warned to make in advance their own arrangement about finances because heavy and penal margins are likely to be imposed on the oil-exchanges—next credit restriction schemes on the trade will be imposed by the Government. Thus the gamblers will have to bear the brunt heavily for their foolhardiness and enthusiasm.

Shares.—Look for a reaction between 17-4-59 and 27-4-59. I think the reaction will emerge before the 23rd. Purchase during the reaction.

April 1959 is mostly covered by lunar Chitra on the first day of which dawns Vikari. The learned Editor of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE has dealt at length with the planetary cabinet for this year and its results in the Annual issue for 1959. Therefore I do not propose to enlarge upon it. Chaitra Lunar month is ruled by Sun. Vasant Ritu is ruled by Venus. Grishma Ritu is ruled by Sun and Mars. We get brighter and burning sunshine during lunar Chaitra, as the Sun during this month transits through Aries belonging to fire triplicity and Sun himself being a fiery planet, the atmosphere will get surged with warmth.

The crops of vasant Ritu will be favourable as the Ritu lord Venus is in his own house and aspected by benefic Jupiter. Coal and mining production will be medium, as Saturn-Sun are in trine aspects. On 10th April Mars enters Aridra—a watery constellation, and forms vedha with Saturn in slow motion transitting through Purvashadha. On this account, the days will be hot and nights cool and moist. In Central India and equatorial regions there will be untimely gusts of wind and rains. The health of the people will be affected by contagious diseases like plague. There will be heavy mortality amongst cats, dogs, rats, serpents, monkeys and wild beasts.

On 8-4-1959, a solar Eclipse takes place in Revathi constellation during Vaidhruti Yoga on Wednesday. It is aspected by the retrograde Jupiter. This eclipse divides this month into parts causing fluctuations in the markets. From beginning to 13th markets would be moving in bearish state due to good arrivals of seasonal crops. On Sun entering Aries on 14-4-1959, the prices will begin to yawn up. Oils, salt, cotton, rice, ghee, vegetable products, potatoes, suran, sakkarkand, camphor, scented articles, sugar, jaggery, urad and moonga will be specially in the limelight. Saturn, Mars, Rahu and Kethu transit through central part of the Swastika of the heavens—viz,, Sarwato Bhadra Chakra, some universal calamities are likely to take place near the equatorial regions. This solar eclipse indicates that India will export raw materials and commodities on an unprecedented scale, beating all the records of the past. Shippers will be much benefitted during this year, as Jupiter transitting through 3rd house in the Indian chart aspects 7th, 9th and 11th houses.

Chaitra lunar month begins on Thursday 9th April and lunar appearance takes place on this very day in Aswini constellation of 30 Muhurats ruling metals and of airy temperament. If you find rains with winds on 5th lunar day (Panchami) Monday 13-4-1959, take it for granted that in your area grain and foodstuff will be difficult to buy in open market during lunar Bhadrapada (August-September). The rates will go very high due to scarcity of stock. Astrology thus guides you to buy in advance your needs, before calamities overtake you.

Solar ingress into Aries takes place on 14-4-1959 (4-39 a.m.) Monday after midnight in Mrigasira. Planetary dispositions at this time denotes changes in export-import tariffs and good conditions with regard to foreign trade. With reference to India's sign Mars lord of 3rd and 8th is transitting through the midheaven in opposition to Saturn. This is not favourable for politics, weather conditions, production standards and mining concerns.

Fire accidents in granaries are likely or there will be incidents of looting foodstuffs in central and northern parts of India. Skirmishes on the borders are also likely. In the chart cast for Delhi at the time of solar ingress, Herschel, planet of democracy gets full help from Sun and Jupiter, but the planets ruling these two houses are placed in the 12th presaging resignation of some higher officials. Inspite of the interference by the forward market commission, the prices in forward and spot market would remain very firm and the figure of living standard will go high.

As regards rises and falls in the markets in general, please note the following:—1st to 3rd bearish with reactionary spurts; 4th to 8th bottom rates of the month; 9th to 13th buying period for all sections; 14th to 19th prices work up; 20th to 22nd reactionary fall; 23rd to 25th buying period for those sections which show decline; and 26th to 2nd proximo good spurt. These fluctions will apply to all sections, unless specially mentioned for that one.

New York Stocks and Shares.—As mentioned in the February 1959 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE, U.S.S.R's Deputy Prime Minister's trip to U.S.A. had created a gulf between the opinion of general public and adminstrative foreign policy makers. Jupiter though transitting through ascending sign in navamsa chart, is in square to Herschel, which planet is in trine to retrograde Saturn. This presages uncertainities in the fluctuations on account of some squibbles in the foreign policy in the middle-east Asia. Between 20th and 25th, a fall of great magnitude is impending. But this will pave the way for good rise thereafter. After 7th, U.S.A. will supply atomic missiles to Spain or Portugal and give monetary help to Britain to expand her programme. Oils, rubber, grain and cotton markets would provide lively fronts. U.S.A. will make fresh alliance with Arab nations—Turkey, and Israel. It is a bullish month in general.

Indian Stocks and Shares —Jupiter's retrogression into Leo Navamsa is not good for Indian Stocks. The opposition between Mars and Saturn will have its malefic effects from 22nd. The troubles in industrial areas by the labour class and communal tension in northern and central India seem evident and there will be disturbed conditions in the shares and stocks market. From 16th to 20th the period seems to be at top rates for steels and industrials during this month. The end of the month will prove most probably very bearish.

London Stocks and Shares.—Amavasya falls in the 8th house and there is Saturn-Mars opposition. Difference of opinion will arise between India and England pertaining to political questions in Africa. This month is favourable for agricultural products. Coal and Iron production will be tiptoe, but strikes are very probable. The first fortnight is favourable for coal, rubber, oil, tea, coffee and electric shares. No-confidence motion is possible during the second fortnight and following month against the current Macmillan Cabinet.

Rubber Markets.—It is a bullish month for rubber market. In foreign nations, the rubber output is likely to be low. This will cause good rise between 15th and 20th. Thereafter, the prices will be dropping in subsequent months.

Black Pepper.—Mars, Saturn and Rahu are in vedha positions mutually. Foreign exports are most likely to be dull. In the other parts of western nations, prices would work up well due to restricted exports from the producing countries. Busy season seems to be from 14-4-59. Bullishness will continue for the next month as well.

Cocoanut oil.—The cocoanut crop would be affected during the later part of March 1959 in Ceylon and South India due to heavy gales and cyclones. It is a bullish month in all respects.

Hides and Skins.—This month, prices would rule higher for buffaloes and kine skins, as purchases from communist nations are probable. Betting leather prices would rule very high throughout the month, while, other types would have easy market during the second half.

Madras Stocks and Shares.—Tea, coffee and rubber plantation shares would be on the upward trend till 20th and thereafter fall in prices till the end of the month.

Cotton Market (Jarilla May 1959).—In May 1959 Jarilla contract will be opened. Saturn gets retrograde on 16th in Purvashadha and in mutual vedhas from Mars and Rahu. Retrogression of Jupiter and Saturn simultaneously would cause a deep cut in prices. The month opens with Sun opposing Rahu and Solar eclipse in the 10th house of the cotton birth chart, having trine aspect of Jupiter (retrograde) in the 6th house. Mars-Saturn opposition takes place from Lagna. Thus angles are occupied by malefics. Share and cotton markets will have fluctuating trends. Mercury ruling this commodity is in retrogression. He rises on 7-4-59 and gets direct on 12-4-59. So it will be a bearish period from beginning to 8th; 9th to 15th reactionary rise; and 16th to 25th fluctuations.

Groundnuts and Groundnut Oil.—It is a bullish month due to heavy export of this commodity. But a moment will come to close down the speculation in eatable oils in North India and Bombay Presidency due to Government policy. Spot rates of groundnuts are likely to go beyond the rate fixed by the Board.

Castorseeds. (Bombay market)—This is the month for new crops in Gujarat, and the rate is Rs. 157. It will not be a surprise if it goes beyond Rs. 170 by this time, due to heavy export business during this month.

Jute Section.—This is a very unfortunate section. From 1st to 8th it would be bearish; 9th to 15th bullish; and 15th to the end of the month lifeless. Good crops are anticipated with negative demands.

Bullions (Bombay).—Saturn's transit affects gold: Rahu, Jupiter and Venus will affect silver prices. Import from Tibet is likely to be better from 15th. The period from 22nd to 30th seems to be a general bearish period in consonance with other markets.

Chemicals.—Troubles in chemical factories are feared and output would be lessened causing the prices to rule high.

Mercury.—This commodity will as well rule very strong during this month.

Sugar.—The prices will rule very strong till 14th. Thereafter the improved foreign export would ease the market position.

Jaggery —For this section, benefic and malefic planets are in Kendras in Rasi and Navamsa charts. The first fortnight is bullish and during later half there will be pressure of sales. If Hapur jaggery touches the new option (Jyestha or Vaisakha) rates of Rs. 17, I shall not be surprised. It is a bullish month on the whole.

Grains.—Rahu, Saturn and Mars are very actively transitting through constellations governing grains. Since Neptune has entered the Nirayana sign Libra, the Co-operative Societies have sprung up and the stocks are put behind the iron bar. This planet creates cliques and rigging of the stocks. The grain market will rule high and the incidents of looting, plundering, etc., will be common. Stocks and godowns will increase. This is what Mars can do while transitting through 9th and 10th houses from the ruling sign of India aspecting Rahu placed therein. This Mars suffers opposition from Saturn placed in the 4th house. Astrology can presage this position in advance for years together.

During the month under review Saturn retrogrades along with Jupiter. Mercury is retrograde in the first half, but attains direct motion on 12th April, 1959. Mercury as the 9th lord and Saturn as lagna lord by retrogression always attain an unfavourable role and if anybody has kept a record he would be convinced that all inauspicious events in the Indian history take place while these two planets are in retrograde motion. Specially Saturn's retrogression in Dhanus and simaltaneous transit of Mars in Gemimi indicate during the month many deadlocks and strikes by labour working in mines and new Projects under construction.

In my report for March 1959, I have not made mention of the lunar eclipse that takes place on 24th March in Hasta. This is a factor pronouncing more bearishness in values of commodities specially after 24th. From this angle the fortnight from 1st April upto 14th April must be well studied. In my March report I had already advised to make good use of the spurts for selling and after studying the planetary transits in relation to Meena Sankranti chart I am of the opinion that commodities would remain subdued in the first fortnight in general under the impact of Mars and Mercury square. Coming to the Solar Ingress chart of 13th April it would be seen that the positions of planets are better specially Lagna Lord, the Sun and Moon and other malefics and benefics are also well placed. This should therefore be a helping factor for rise in commodity values during the second half of this month. Follow mandi in the first fortnight while during the second half teji should be followed. It may be noted that owing to Saturn and Mars opposition hectic price-movements are possible and traders should be cautious aganist losses.

New Moon charts of 9th March and 8th April.—Here also the first 7 days previous to New Moon appear to indicate dullness, though in Navamsa the inter-relation of the two major planets Saturn and Rahu are favourable right from the beginning of the month. In fact Saturn's retrogression in Dhanus should be a factor creating falls in the values of stocks and shares, but the Nakshatra transitted and also the New Moon chart of 8th April being favourable it appears that till Saturn's entry by retrogression to Moola, the fall in values of stocks and shares would be withheld and on the contrary the prices under the favourable positions of the New Moon Chart of 8th April would in the latter half come up. The positions between 13th night (14th morning) and 28th is indicative of good rise in stock values. Please note here that sudden Government action between 18th and 28th is expected or anticipated owing to planetary transits—specially of Sun and Saturn and the traders should be on their guard, lest they are trapped in hectic movements even in stocks and shares. Here also the period coming under the New Moon chart from 8th April 1959 onwards pronounces Teji conditions for the Stock values in general, but more so for Stocks and Shares held in plantations like Tea, Coffee and Rubber. Other sections comparatively will be weak.

Cotton and Allied Products—Among the three rulers of this section, Mars transitting Mrigasira and Aridra is definitely a stronger element, since during his transit in Mrigasira he receives vedha from Sun and while in Aridra receives vedha from Saturn. Venus during the first fortnight transits in Bharani and Krittika, and in Rohini from 15th to 27th and then in Mrigasira. While in Rohini she comes under the Vedha of Sun. From 9th, the transit of Venus in Taurus receives direct aspect of Jupiter. A benefic transitting Taurus is always taken to be a factor of mandi for commodities. Between 9th and 15th I expect, a good drop would materialise in Cotton values, but later on prices would move up only in the second fortnight. Mercury all along remains under the vedha of Rahu, but it is retrograde during the first 12 days and thereafter direct, but in the same Nakshatra division. This transit is not helpful for rise. Aries Ingress chart is denoting teji and it would be advisable to buy in drops that would materialise by the 15th April and made use of for selling by the end of the month. Cotton business is mainly conducted in Bombay. The Vaida chart for May 1959 contract, favours good rise in values. The transits of planets in this chart are all favourable and it is my humble opinion that if drops, ranging from 20 to 26 rupees are materialised during the first half, it would be advisable to buy for the teji in the second half. 1st mandi, 2-3rd teji, 4th bearish, 5th to 7th teji, 8th to 12th mandi, 13th to 15th bothways, 16th to 20th teji, 21st to 23rd bothways hectic movements and 24th to 30th Teji.

Oilseeds and Oils.—Swathi, Sathabhisha and Pushya are the three Nakshatras mainly ruling this section. No planet transits these Naksatras nor these Naksatras are having vedha from a malefic or benefic planet. Saturn the ruler gets retrograde and would be aspecting Hasta from 16th April 1959. This factor would help a rising in this section again. In fact, with Martian entry in Aridra on 10th this section would indicate a steady rising tendency specially in Castors, Linseed and other exportable items of Oilseeds. Groundnuts, Sarson, Rai however would be rather weak comparing the other sections. Mars and Saturn in Vedha from 10th is a factor indicating bothways fluctuations till 16th. Thereafter the effects would be definitely towards creating bullish sentiments. Mandi dates appear to be 1st, 3rd evening, 9th, 12th, 15th specially for groundnuts and 21st to rest of the period bullish. During the first 10 days narrow movements could be expected, but later on good activity in this section is anticipated.

Metals and Bullions.—Mars remaining strong under the Vedha of Sun, the Solar transit in Aswini supports the higher price levels. Venus in the first half, and Jupiter in Anuradha retrogrades and specially in Leo Navamsa from 25th indicates bearishness. Precious metals would move in a narrow range but after 18th would witness a good drop, specially in the values of Yellow metal. Other metals, like Tin, Zinc, Copper would remain stronger comparatively. Good fall in bullion values during 25th and 30th April 1959 is anticipated.

Other Commodities. — Chemicals would remain stronger and would rise substantially during the second half.

Spices.—This section would remain strong between 16th and 23rd only. Rest of the month, prices would remain more or less easy.

Food Grains.—Proper distribution by Government would keep the price levels under check and during the last week good fall may be anticipated.

Sugar and Gud.—Uttarabhadrapada under vedha of Saturn and Mercury in retrogression upto 12th, might keep this section strong during the first fortnight, but contrary to other commodities, this section would lose ground in the second fortnight and specially Gud in the latter part of the month.

Stocks and Shares.—Saturn in Leo Navamsa getting retrograde on 16th April 1959, when considered alone is a bearish factor. Rahu in Gemini Navamsa in good relation with Saturn is a factor giving strength for maintaining of price levels of stocks and shares. New Moon chart of 8th April indicates good rise in values of stocks and shares. Venusian transit in a favourable sign and Mercury's transit in Meena, indicate that prices of stocks and shares would witness a rise, though moderate, but steel section would remain rather dull and on the contrary other sections of the stock markets would be strong and rising. Lead would go to other shares during the month under review, specially shares of rubber, tea, coffee, and allied groups.

In general the month indicates bothway movements and when to follow one line, is hardly possible. Traders are requested to follow line by booking quick profits and changing sides, after seeing the technical factors.

interference with the seas, mountains and atmosphere.

The configuration and the eclipse are taking place in the 5th house of India's sign, and in the 9th house of the Indian Independence Chart. These do not augur well either for the economy of the country or for the administration. The dark shades in the Government may not only come into being but also to light. Attempts may also be made to postpone atleast for a short time the elections. Capricorn being the eighth from the sign ruling U.S.A. and the twelfth from that of Russia, these two will be the worst hit. Britain forces a more or less radical change in her administrative and political machinery; and yet Britain and France will be the only two countries that will manage to come out comparatively unhurt. Civil strife will convulse southern Europe and America. The African nationalist will be in trouble in the initial months of 1962. It looks as though Spengler's idea of the 'decline of the west' will begin to be realized from 1962 onwards.

These thoughts on the unique phenomenon occurring in Capricorn in 1962 February may not appear to many to be well-founded. Only events will reveal the truth. The severe economic depression of the thirties was heralded and accentuated by Saturn's entry into Capricorn in 1931 or so; and his next entry in 1961 is ominous since it is followed too soon by strange occurrences. The nations of the world will not be allowed to sit idle or to sit aloof. The military dictatorships that were aggravated almost with Saturn's entry into Scorpio find their culmination and catastrophe in 1962. It looks as though the Saturnian complex in Capricorn will at least make man think afresh about his social, religious, political and economical problems. Out of this thinking a new energetic middle class will emerge by the year 1966. The outlook for India during that period is not gloomy, nor is it good enough. What the world needs in general, and what India in particular requires, at least from 1961, is commonsense and an emphasis on human values.

HOW IS this month FOR YOU?

APRIL 1959

BY MIHIRA

[The following forecasts based on Janma Rasi are general and as such those having favourable aspects according to present Dasa and Bhukthi, will have favourable results from the indications made below; while those having adverse aspects according to current directions will experience these predictions to a lesser proportion. The predictions given below are based not upon conjecture, but upon a clear interpretation of the movements or transits of planets. If you do not know your Janma Rasi write to Mihira, C/o THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope.—Ed., A.M.].

MAJOR TRANSITS,—Sun transits Pisces till 12th, then enters Aries. Retrograde Mercury continues in Pisces becoming direct on 12th. Venus remains in Aries till 8th only and then transits Taurus. Jupiter is Retrograde throughout the month and continues his stay in Scorpio. Saturn turns Retrograde in Sagittarius on 17th. Mars remains in Gemini throughout. Rahu and Kethu continue their retrograde movement in Virgo and Pisces respectively.

1. Mesha (Aries).—Venus in 1st and 2nd; Mars in 3rd; Rahu in 6th; Jupiter in 8th; Saturn in 9th; Kethu in 12th; Mercury in 12th and Sun in 12th and 1st.

General.—Venus and Mars are good for the entire month. But not much is to be expected therefrom as Mars is under check throughout and Venus for the first week. All the other transits are evil. Only Saturn is under Vedha so that his evil will not be felt; Sun, Mercury and Jupiter are all in inauspicious signs and also free of vedha. Therefore adverse influences are clearly dominent and the month's result will be only in accordance therewith. Sorrows, ill-health, anxieties, obstacles in almost all matters, purposeless and troublesome journeys difficulties through rivals and enemies, quarrels with friends and relatives, and partings from them, are all likely to make the month far from happy. There is practically no counteracting benefic influence. Still there may occur some auspicious event or celebration in the house and intervals of freedom from troubles and anxieties because of Venus. Of the three asterisms of the sign, those born under Aswini and Krittika will suffer much less from the rays of adverse Jupiter and Saturn than those born under Bharani.

Health and Domestic.—The month will have its share of disturbances affecting your health and chronic sufferers from blood pressure, heart troubles, etc., should necessarily take care that any action on their part does not precipitate or aggravate such conditions. Fatiguing journeys are not advisable. The domestic circle too will be disturbed with misunderstandings and quarrels and much excitement and feelings may prevail. There is also a probability of sorrows and emotional disturbance because of death of a close friend or relative.

Finance and Speculation.—There is no reason to expect any favourable developments in financial matters. On the other hand, there is much to be apprehended in the shape of losses, financial setbacks and lack of ready cash for all matters, as almost all the transits are causative of the above results. Jupiter's aspect on your 2nd house will help matters and avert the situation from proceeding to undesirable lengths. Extreme care in money matters is absolutely necessary to tide over the month without mishaps. Needless to say it would be highly dangerous to indulge in speculative activities.

Real Property Services, Profession, etc,—No doubt the affairs of landlords and landholders will be in an unsatisfactory position throughout the month and but for the sustaining aspect of Jupiter, conditions may even prove intolerable. Disputes and litigation may arise with regard to your holdings. Beware under any circumstances of taking the law into your own hands, as the liability for criminal proceedings is just round the corner and the threat of humiliation from any cause whatever is not at all a remote one. Yield and rentals however may not suffer and be just normal or even above average. The services wil be the the worst affected by the adverse transits. There will be troubles caused by rivals and enemies and the likelihood of your claims being bye-passed is ever present during the month except perhaps during the second week which may be considered as being somewhat favourable to your interests. The profession and business will pick up well and manifest increased activity though liable to erratic tendencies off and on. On the whole, conditions will be satisfactory.

Women.—Conditions are none too good for all matters connected with the fair sex as such after the middle of the month. Till then they can normally indulge in all activities, engage themselves in giving parties, take part in social functions in which they can obtain their heart's desire but after the month, much care should be exercised in all your dealings with the other sex as disharmony, estrangements, separation, etc., are likely to arise from the least cause. The unattached should be all the more wary.

Fortunate dates.—Health and domestic matters dealings with relatives, etc., 2, 8, 11, 14. 19, 23, 30. Money dealings and transactions, financial ventures in general—5, 8, 11, 16, 23; short journeys—2, 6. 11, 16, 21, 25, 30; long journeys—2, 6, 11, 16, 21, 29. Educational and academical matters, real property affairs, etc..—2, 6, 9, 16, 19, 23; matters pertaining to children and their prospects, speculation, excursions, picnics, courtships, love affairs, etc.—1, 2, 14, 22, 28, 30. Service affairs and prospects—1, 6, 8, 15, 16, 25, 30. Partnership, dealings with opposite sex in general—5, 8, 11, 16, 23. Insurance matters, dealings with estate of deceased persons—2, 8, 11, 19, 23, 30. Professional and business enterprises—4, 9, 19, 23, 28.

Critical Dates.—Health and domestic maters, dealings with relatives, etc.—5, 11, 14, 21, 24, 27; money dealings and transactions, financial ventures in general—4, 14, 16, 18, 19, 29; short journeys—6, 11, 17, 23, 24, 28; long journeys—12, 21, 22; real property affairs, educational and academical activities—4, 8, 10, 14, 23, 29; speculation, courtship and love affairs, excursions, etc.—4, 8, 16, 23, 29; service affairs and prospects—6, 11, 17, 23, 24, 28; partnerships, dealings with opposite sex in general—4, 14, 16, 18, 19, 29; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased persons—5, 11, 14, 21, 24, 27; professional and business enterprises—3, 7, 14, 21, 24, 27.

Chandrashtama from about sunset time of 24th till about sunset time of 26th.

2. Vrishabha (Taurus)–Mars in 2nd; Rahu in 5th; Jupiter in 7th; Saturn in 8th; Kethu and Mercury in 11th; Sun in 11th and 12th; and Mercury in 12th and 1st.

General.—Mercury, Venus and Jupiter, in fact all the principal benefics transit auspicious signs throughout the month. But it is a pity that Mercury for the entire month and Venus for the greater part come under vedha by which their full beneficence is lost. But Jupiter in seventh is unchecked and this is a very good thing by itself. Sun is good for the first and evil for the second but good or bad, under check all along. Mars and Saturn the principal malefics are evil for the whole month but Saturn under check. Thus Mars remains as the only free and evil planet for the entire month. The general results will therefore partake of both good and bad. Success, prosperty, enjoyments and happiness, gains and losses, sorrows and anxieties, apprehensions from rivals and enemies, quarrels and disgrace, ill-health, gains of friends, honour, satisfaction, luxuries, study of new subjects academical advancement, auspicious celebrations or events, new status and positions, unsavoury associations with consequent evil results are the mixed results due for the conflicting transits of the month. Of the three stars of the sign, those born under Krittigai will fare best, next those born under Rohini and those born under Mrigasira come last.

Health and Domestic.—No serious troubles in health need be apprehended this month. Windy troubles may be present off and on. Those who are chronically subject to bilious disorders should exercise some care as to diet and general habits. But there will be sufficient troubles in the domestic sphere to keep your mind always exercised and cause sometimes even acute anxieties and apprehensions. But even though there are heavy afflictions, the steadying influence of Jupiter in seventh will prevent untoward developments.

Finance and Speculation.—The finances are the most vulnerable sphere to be affected adversely this month. Heavy commitments, frequent calls upon the purse, additional items of expenditure with contraction of resources, will be among the problems that may fairly defy solution. But even here Jupiter is likely to help indirectly and ease the position considerably especially during the first half with help from friends and co-operation of others interested in your welfare. But there is absolutely no help from speculation from any quarter.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—The first half of the month is fairly good from the point of view of landlords and landholders and may even be considered to be on a better footing than has been the case for some time past and the position is ripe for introducing improved methods and innovations to produce greater yield. In some cases it may even be possible to achieve spectacular results by these methods. But the second half especially towards the close is entirely unpropitious for such activities and you may become involved in inflationary schemes or unsound propositions. It is almost the same in the case of the services also as conditions are fairly good during the first half when even new position and honours are due in some cases, but the second half is full of dangerous possibilities and can be averted only with extreme care and caution. Setbacks to carrier may result through some unforeseen factor or as a result of some lack of caution in the necessary qualifications hitherto perhaps unnoticed. The profession and business may get along on above average levels and may not be able to adverse much; nor is any great retrogression likely.

For Women.—Conditions change almost week by week in so far as matters pertaining to the fair sex are concerned. The first week is highly propitious for securing the goodwill of the other sex, formation of interesting new friendships and making fresh social contacts as well. The second week may well bring success in philanthropic enterprises by enlisting the sympathies of the money and influential persons of the opposite sex to your cause. The third week is the worst in the whole month for all matters in general and the fourth week more or less like the first.

Fortunate Dates.–Health and domestic matters, dealings with relatives, interviews, etc.—5, 8, 11, 16, 22, 30; money dealings and transactions, financial ventures, etc.—1, 8, 11, 14, 16, 25, 30; short journeys—6, 11, 16, 19, 27; long journeys—4, 9, 20, 23; real property affairs, educational and academical activities—2, 13, 19, 27; speculation, children's prospects and affairs, picnics and excursions, etc.—2, 14, 15, 30; service affairs and prospects—5, 8, 11, 16, 22, 30; partnerships, dealings with opposite sex in general—3, 9, 15, 19, 23, 29; Insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased—2, 6, 11, 16, 21, 25, 29; professional and business enterprises—4, 9, 20, 23.

Critical Dates.—Domestic matters, personal affairs, dealings with relatives, interviews, etc.–4, 15, 19, 20, 29; money dealings and transactions, financial ventures, etc.–11, 17, 23, 24, 28; short journeys—2, 8, 10, 17, 29; long journeys—7, 11, 14, 18, 21, 27; real property affairs, educational and academical activities–7, 8, 16, 23, 29; speculation, children's prospects and affairs, courtships, excursions, etc.—11, 17, 23, 24, 28; service affairs and prospects—4, 19, 21, 24, 27, 29; partnership business, matters connected with opposite sex in general—5, 11, 14, 21, 27; insurance activities, dealings with the estate of deceased—4, 11, 18, 28; business and professional enterprises–7, 11, 14, 18, 21, 27.

Chandrashtama from sunset of 26th till night of 28th.

3. Mithuna Gemini.—Mars in 1st; Rahu in 4th; Jupiter in 6th: Saturn in 7th; Kethu and Mercury in 10th; Sun in 10th and 11th; and Venus in 11th and 12th.

General.—Sun, Mercury and Venus are the good planets for whole month. Mars, Jupiter and Saturn are all evil throughout. Hence the major planets are inaspicious of which only Saturn is held up by check. Among the good planets, Sun is under check for the first half and Venus for the greater part of the month. Thus the inauspicious transits are definitely more powerful and one should be prepared for a somewhat trying month, though the events will be of of a mixed character. Obstacles in undertakings, losses, misunderstandings with friends and relatives, ill-health, increased expenditure, tedious travels, fatigue, etc., are the likely results of evil transits. But gradual success, realisation of your hopes and wishes at least in part, gains, profitable friendships, happiness, luxuries, triumph over rivals and enemies, timely help from friends, etc. are also probable from the good planets. Of the three stars of the sign, there is not much difference in the general results. Those born under Aridra and Punarvasu will fare somewhat better than those born with Mrigasira as the birth star.

Health and Domestic.–A wide variety of ailments may upset the health during the month, each according to his constitutional predisposition, such as diseases of blood, bile or heat, bronchial troubles, etc. A liability to accidents also should be taken into account and care in your movements and journeys should be excercised accordingly. The other members of the family too may have their health troubles. Some domestic unpleasantness caused by disputes inside as well as outside the domestic circle is also probable but in this respect, there is nothing special for this month.

Finance and Speculation.—In contrast to other spheres of activity, finances may not suffer much. There will be gain of wealth, acquisition of articles of luxury, successful floatation of new ventures, improvement or financial position through unexpected sources or through sudden transactions, etc. All these are more probable during the first half and towards the close of the month, the middle part not being favourable and temporary setbacks may arise off and on. The entire month is to be construed as being unfavourable for speculative activities.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—Matters pertaining to landlords and landholders are liable to undergo much deterioration during the month in all manner of ways. Losses to produce may be caused by pests, lack of facilities for irrigation or other causes. Disputes and quarrels are only too probable and causes much loss and dislocation of work. Strikes, insubordination, etc., will add to the existing troubles. Therefore one should take things philosophically and await better times instead of injuring your cause and wasting money in useless litigation. The services on the contrary will fare somewhat better though one should be alert to avoid the displeasure of one's superiors by diligent work and keeping to routine, with your egoism under complete control and being cautious in thought, word and deed. The profession and business will be practically untouched by the adverse transit influences, and though too much may not be expected, they will function on levels well above average with no cause for complaint or dissatisfaction.

Women.—This should prove to be a generally happy month for the fair sex in so far as matters pertaining to sex are concerned. All the same in all the activities of the month it wood be wise ,not to set your aims to bring down the possibility of disappointment to the very minimum. In shopping for home or in the matter of dress, you may not succeed so well if you do not keep your egerness or impetuosity under complete check. If you do not keep your eyes wide open, you may be even cheated or deceived.

Fortunate Dates.—Health and domestic matters, dealings with relatives, interviews, etc.—1, 8, 14, 16, 21, 25; money dealings and transactions, financial matters in general—2, 3, 6, 19, 23, 27; short journeys—1, 2, 13, 19, 27; long journeys—9, 20, 23; real property affairs, educational and academical activities—1, 8, 15, 16, 21, 30; children's affairs and prospects, speculation, courtship and love affairs, excursions, etc.—5, 11, 16, 22, 25, 30; Service matters in general, dealings with superiors—3, 9, 19, 23, 30; partnership, dealings with opposite sex in general, 3, 9, 14, 15, 19, 23, 29; Insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased—4, 9, 19, 23; professional and business enterprises, 2, 6, 11, 16, 21, 25; 29.

Critical Dates.—Health and domestic matters, dealings with relatives, interviews—11, 17, 22, 23, 24, 28; money dealings and transactions, financial ventures, standing surety, etc.—3, 4, 8, 14, 29; short journeys—8, 16, 23, 29; long journeys—7, 14, 21, 27, 30; real property affairs, educational and academical activities—11, 17, 22, 23, 24, 28; children's affairs and prospects, speculation, excursions, courtship and love affairs—3, 14, 16, 18, 19, 20, 29; service affairs and prospects, dealings with superiors, inferiors, etc.—11, 13, 22, 28; partnerships, dealings with opposite sex in general—4, 11, 17, 19, 27; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased—7, 14, 21, 27, 30; professional and business enterprises—12, 21, 22.

Chandrashtama from the beginning of the month till sunset of 3rd and again from night of 28th till midnight of 30th (end of the month).

4. Kataka (Cancer).—Rahu in 3rd; Jupiter in 5th; Saturn in 6th; Ketu and Mercury in 9th; Sun in 9th and 10th; Venus in 10th and 11th and Mars in 12th.

General.—Jupiter and Saturn are in favourable signs for the entire month but Saturn is under vedha throughout. Except for the first week, Venus is auspicious but checked so long as he is good. Sun is just the reverse. He is good for the second half and also free of check though for the first half when he is evil, he is checked. Mercury and Mars are the planets that remain evil throughout and of these, Mars is checked for the greater part of the month. Though there is more evil than good in the transits of the month, Jupiter in fifth unchecked is a mighty influence for good and will by itself hold out against a lot of adverse knocks, and the second half will be generally better than the first. Success in the accomplishment of the objects of your desire, acquisition and enjoyment of articles of luxury, wealthy and influential friendships, success over rivals and enemies, auspicious events, functions and celebrations, increased prosperity, etc.-are what can be expected by the second half. Enemities with elders, despondency and despair, quarrels and worries, obstacles and hindrances in all matters, unfounded accusations etc., are probable during the first half. Of the three asterisms of the sign, those born under Punarvasu will fare best and the others born under Pushya and Aslesha come only next.

Health and Domestic.—Even the adverse transits do not, affect the health directly. Still those chronically subject to eye troubles and bilious complaints will do well to take some care beforehand, so that even if they arise, they will easily be combated. Conditions at home will be harmonious and pleasure-giving luxuries will be acquired and enjoyed. Auspicious events and celebrations may take place. In some cases, this month may even witness reunion after temporary separation or misunderstandings and estrangements.

Finance and Speculation.—Good income and heavy expenditure will be the keynote of month's finances. Though enemities and other troubles may aries on account of money during the first half it is not unfavourable for exploiting new ideas, inventions, gains through matters connected with transport communications, initiating new ventures etc. Conditions during second half are even better. Speculation too would appear to be favoured but considerable restraint and caution would be necssary for making any gains.

Real Property, Services, Profession etc.—Mixed conditions prevail in matters pertaining to landlords and landholders. Sometimes it may seem as if everything would be going wrong but somehow they will ameliorate. Thus there may be alternating periods of anxieties as well as comparatively better intervals. But it will be a trying month no doubt for which a courageous outlook and a practical commonsense approach to the problems as and when they arise, will help greatly. To give way to listlessness and apathy would only serve to aggravate the situation. Though the first half may prove somewhat indifferent for the services, this will be more than made up during the second half which will bring fruitful results and there will be success in the attainment of your objectives. This does not necessarily mean promotion but may take the shape of subtle changes which though apparently insignificant at the time may have far reaching results later on. Profession and business will be having quite a good time during the month and may function well above average levels.

For Women.—On the whole, this is quite a favourable month for the fair sex in respect of matter affecting them as such. Popularity and social prestige comes to them naturally and they will be able to secure the help of new friends among the elderly and influential people to support them in whatever they set out to achieve but at the same time, it is probable that they will get a lot of opposition, troubles and setbacks from their own relations, even those nearby and closely related to them. With the best of intentions, they may get, not a very good name for all their activities.

Fortunate Dates.–Health and domestic matters, dealings with relatives, friends, etc., interviews—2, 9, 12, 16, 19, 27, 30; money dealings and transactions, financial ventures in general —1, 2, 13, 18, 27; short journeys—2, 11, 16, 21, 25, 30; long journeys—2, 6, 11, 16, 21, 25; real property matters, educational and academical activities, etc.—5, 11, 16, 21, 25, 30; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, courtship and love affairs, excursions, etc.—3, 14, 19, 23; service affairs and prospects—2, 6. 11, 16, 21, 25, 29; partnerships, dealings with opposite sex in general—2, 9, 12, 16, 19, 27, 30; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased—4, 9, 19, 23; professional and business enterprises—2, 6, 11, 16, 21, 25, 29.

Critical Dates.—Health and domestice matters, dealings with friends, relatives, interviews—4, 7, 14, 21, 27; money dealings and transactions, financial ventures, standing surety for others, etc.—7, 8, 16, 23, 29; short journeys—3, 8, 9, 24, 28; long journeys—7, 14, 18, 21, 27; real property affairs, educational and academical activities—3, 8, 16, 18, 20, 29; children's prospects and affairs, speculation, courtships, love affairs, etc., excursions, picnics, etc.–5, 14, 21, 27; service affairs and prospects—1, 2, 9, 14, 16, 21, 25, 29; partnership matters, dealings with opposite sex in general—7, 11, 14, 21, 27; insurance activities and dealings with estate of deceased persons—7, 11, 14, 21, 27; professional and business enterprises —5, 8, 14, 21, 27.

Chandrashtama from sunset of 3rd till sunrise of 6th.

5. Simha ♌ (Leo).—Rahu in 2nd t Jupiter in 4th; ; Saturn in 5th; Kethu in 8th; Mercury in 8th; Sun in 8th and 9th: Venus in 9th and 10th; and Mars in 11th.

General.—Mercury and Mars are good for the entire month, but Mars is under check throughout, while Mercury is free. Jupiter, Saturn and Sun are evil and Venus for the greater part of the month. But all these planets are under vedha so that their evil will not be felt. Thus neither the good nor the evil influences of the month are significant and the month's events will be mostly colourless and nondescript. Some gains, happiness, success, auspicious events in the house, some luxuries, etc., are the results due for the only unchecked good influence for the month, Still there are likely to be some health troubles, quarrels, unsavoury associations, enmities with elders, humiliation and apprehensions, losses, unsuccessful results in litigation or other contentious matters, etc. On the whole a tolerable month either way. Of the three stars of the sign, those born under Makha and Uttaraphalguna will fare better than those born under Purva Phalguna.

Health and Domestic.—High blood pressure, troubles due to excessive heat are the sort of ailments to be prepared for during the month. Only those chronically subject to these need entertain any apprehension. The wife's health is also liable to be affected adversely. The mind may also be exercised over the health of some one of your children. Though the domestic circle may not be free from bickerings, quarrels and misunderstandings, ultimately they will not amount to much if only a commonsense of the situation is taken and trouble causers from outside are turned out.

Finance and Speculation.–The finances cannot but suffer this month for several causes. There will be lack of usual avenues of influx if not total failure coupled with increasing demands upon your purse for various new items as well. This is liable to cause acute crisis during the month but will never assume serious proportions as the malefic transits are without strength. Still this month is a financially uncomfortable month. Not only will there be any benefits for speculation but actually serious losses are probable.

Real Property, Services, Profession. etc.—Matters pertaining to landlords and landholders will be mostly nondescript and featureless this month and no major events are to be expected, In the case of some, some additions to their existing holdings may take place. Even so it may not prove to be of much advantage later on and may even prove onerous. Calm and mature judgment should be brought to bear upon any problems arising this month as impulsive actions and wrong conclusions will be only too easy. Resort to litigation will only result in adverse decisions. The services are not in for a good time this month and considerable care even in daily routine matters will be necessary to avoid trouble, as difficulties are likely to arise from overaction. Strained relationship with superiors as well as inferiors is only too probable to admit of any complacency this month but even here no major events need be feared because of the weakness of the planets responsible for causing trouble. Still the profession and business will forge ahead and do moderately well during the month and setbacks if any will be few and far between.

Women only.—As in all other matters this month can be said to be quite nondescript in respect of matters in which women are peculiarly interested but for the closing days of the month which may well be called a testing period. There may be occasion or opportunities for exalting their moral stature by committing some act of self-sacrifice or even simply overcoming selfishness. It may be a case of assuming a new and heavy responsibility, in the case of a new marriage to a husband having already some children. It may not be possible to visualise the various forms in which the influence are likely to take shape.

6. Kanya ♍ (Virgo).—Rahu in 1st and Jupiter in 3rd; Saturn in 4th; Kethu in 7th; Mercury in 7th; Sun in 7th and 8th; Venus in 8th and 9th; and Mars in 10th.

Chandrashtama from sunrise of 6th till sunset of 8th.

6. Kanya (Virgo).—Rahu in 1st; Jupiter in 3rd; Saturn in 4th; Mercury and Kethu in 7th; Sun in 7th and 8th; Venus in 8th and 9th; and Mars in 10th,

General.—Venus and Mars are the only planets in good signs this month. No other planet can be said in a favourable place for even part of the month. Thus Sun, Mercury, Jupiter and Saturn are all in evil signs throughout. It is certainly satisfactory feature to note that is under check all along and Sun under vedha for the first half. The general results for the month cannot be very satisfactory as the evil influences are predominent. Tedious journeys, ill-health, quarrels, mental depression anxieties, bad associations, obstacles in undertakings, misunderstandings, vain temptations, failures, unwelcome changes in work or environments, deaths among friends and relatives are what may be led to expect from the evil transits. On the other hand as the result of good planets, quick recovery from ill-health, meeting of welcome friends, gains, alround prosperity, even a few luxuries, auspicious events and celebrations are probable. Of the three asterisms of the sign, the least suffers would be those born under Uttaraphalguna and those born under Hastha and Chitrai rank only next.

Health and Domestic.— Stomach disorders, eye troubles are the ailments most probable during the first half and fever, injuries, loss of blood and anaemia are what one may expect during second half. But what ever may be the trouble, they will quickly respond to treatment and can with some care be avoided to a great extent. There may arise a lot of worries connected with domestic matters. Quarrels and bickerings are not also improbable within the domestic circles. In social circles, estrangement from your friends may also take place.

Finance and Speculation.— The position with regard to financial matters is not satisfactory and there may be setbacks in all directions. Even expected and usually certain avenues of income may fail. Minor upsets may occur and because of your apathy or indifference, or extraneous causes, they may be magnified into big events. It goes without saying that with your own active and energetic attitude, much can be done to minimise them. There is absolutely no support for speculation. Not only that, there is danger of considerable risk and losses.

Real Property, Services, Profession etc.—Real property matters will be most unsatisfactory from the point of view of landlords and landholders and they will be the worst hit of all, this month. Quarrels, disputes, litigation and other unpleasant experiences are in store. On any account taking the law into your own hands and resorting the violent methods should be adjured. Disappointments and frustrations may arise from all sides. Yield and rentals may be poor and difficult of realisation; there may be damage to yield through pests and other causes. Nothing new should be tried or innovations introduced. The services too may not fare well during the month. You may come into conflict with your superiors or people in authority and incur their displeasure for which you may have to blame none but yourself. Humiliation and anxieties are also threatened if you do not take hold of yourself and be circumspect in all your speech and actions. In the case of the profession and business, there will be ups and downs throughout the month and more of downs than ups. Here also conditions may not prove quite satisfactory but a good deal depends upon how you set about your business, the greater the care, the lesser the troubles.

For Women.–This is generally satisfactory month for all matters pertaining to the fair sex. A good month for social calls, visits, shopping, etc. But nothing higher may be reached this month for all your efforts as there are no special influences favouring their activities. Therefore the more modest aims means success in proportion. Disappointment alone will result if you set your targets too high. Even in your ordinary activities of the month, success will attend you only in proportion to your steadiness, reserve and tact.

Fortunate Dates.—Health and domestic matters, dealings with relatives, interviews, etc.—1, 8, 14, 16, 21 and 25; money dealings and transactions, financial ventures, etc.—5, 11, 16, 21, 30; short journeys.—3, 9, 19, 23, 27; long journeys.—5, 11, 16, 21, 30; real property affairs, educational and academical activities.–2, 6, 11, 16, 21, 25, 29; speculation, children's prospects and affairs, courtship and love affairs, excursions, etc.—4, 9, 19, 23; service affairs and prospects—4, 9, 19, 13; partnerships, dealings with opposite sex in general—2, 6, 11, 14, 16, 21, 25; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased—3, 9, 19, 23; business and professional enterprises—2, 6, 11, 16, 21, 25, 29.

Critical Dates.—Health and domestic matters, dealings with relatives interviews, etc.—4, 11, 14, 21, 27. Money dealings and transactions, financial ventures, standing surety for others.—3, 15, 18, 19, 20, 29; short journeys—5, 14, 21, 27; long journeys—3, 15, 18, 19, 20, 29; real property affairs, educational and academical activities—4, 11, 18; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, excursions, courtship and love affairs, etc.—7, 9, 15, 21, 27. service affairs and prospects, dealings with superiors.—7, 14, 15, 21, 27; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased etc.—4, 18, 22, 23; professional and business enterprises —4, 6, 17, 24, 28.

Chandrasthama from sunset of 8th till sunrise of 11th.

7. Thula (Libra).—Jupiter in 2nd; Saturn in 3rd; Kethu and Mercury in 6th; Sun in 6th and 7th; Venus in 7th and 8th; Mars in 9th; and Rahu in 12th.

General.—Mercury, Jupiter and Saturn are all in good signs throughout the month but all are under vedha and hence their rays are obstructed from proper functioning. Sun is good for the first half and under check so for. Venus becomes favourable after change of sign on 8th and is free of check thereafter, thus being the only planet who is both good and free of vedha for the greater part of the month; and by itself does not mean much. Therefore though there is no scope for evil happenings or adverse general results, the month may not be notable for good features either because almost all the favourable planets are held up by check. Ordinarily good health, some successes, peace of mind, moderate gains, popularity and renown, defeat of rivals and enemies, some luxuries and enjoyments, good friendships, increased influence, etc., are all due in some measure for the month. Of the three srars of the sign, persons born under Visakha will fare better than those born under any of the two stars namely Chittha or Swati.

Healith and Domestic.—Good health will be maintained throughout. However, there is a slight liability for sustaining injuries from sharp things and so care in handing such instruments or gadgets should necessarily be exercised. Some disturbances in health may happen in the case of the wife. General harmony will prevail at home and in your dealings with your relatives, both inside and outside the domestic circle. The month may also witness some happy event or function in your own house with those of close your relatives.

Finance and Speculation.—Finances will do quite well during the month with influx of wealth not only from the usual sources but also from additional ones as well. Financial ventures are likely to succed well and even prosper if connected with writings, publications, transport, etc. A month that is generally smooth working in all matters connected with finance, but there is no support for too ambitious schemes and enterprises. For example, there is no use of relying on the month's good influences for speculative enterprises and schemes.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—The month is neither favourable nor unfavourable for matters connented with real property. This will be almost a routine month. There is however some scope for difficulties connected with management of your properties because of turbulent attitude on the part of your servants, tenants, agents, etc. who "want more". There may also be some troubles due from adjacent owners, rival claimants. Anyhow the mind is likely to be agitated over something or other connected with your incorporeal rights and any attempts to resort to litigation will only complicate matters further. The month is certainly favourable for the services. Your popularity and standing in the office will improve considerably which will facilitate the attainment of new status or position and some betterment or changes that will prove satisfactory and you may be able to secure a point or two over your rivals or competition in the field. In the same manner, the month will prove propitious for the business and profession also ensuring smooth working and moderate expansion in all matters, though not to the same extent.

Women.—This is a generally favourable month for all matters in the fair sex is interested as such, but lacks strength to support them in any super-normal activities, such as big parties, philanthropic schemes and so forth. The failure in such cases cannot be traced to any perceptible cause. Only things will not shape out well, that is all. Even in quarters where you count support as certain, will fail you. Of course, it will not be the entire month that will be so. Some success may be possible towards the close.

Fortunate Dates.—Health and domestic matters, dealings with relatives interviews–5, 8, 11, 16, 22, 30; money dealings and transactions, financial enterprises—13; 19, 23, 25; short journeys—2, 6, 11, 16, 21, 25, 29; long journeys—2, 11, 21, 25; real property matters, educational and academical enterprises—3, 9, 19, 23; speculation, children's prospects and affairs, excursions and picnics, etc.—3, 9, 19, 23; service affairs and prospects - 2, 6, 16, 21, 25; partnerships, dealings with opposite sex in general—2, 9, 19, 23; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased—5, 8, 11, 16, 22, 30; professional and business enterprises—4, 13, 18, 21, 25.

8. Vrischika (Scorpio).—Jupiter in 1st; Saturn in 2nd; Mercury and Kethu in 5th; Sun in 5th and 6th; Venus in 6th and 7th; Mars in 8th; and Rahu in 11th.

General.—This month is bereft of good influences so far as transits are concerned. All the transitting planets are in evil houses and the exceptions are very few. In fact, there is only one and that is Sun who is favourable for the second half and is also free of vedha. The only influence that flows therefrom is that the second half will be less troublsome than the first. There is not much relief from vedha either. Only Mercury, Venus and Mars come under check for the greater part of the month and Sun for the first half only, the bigger planets Jupiter and Saturn being entirely free. Troubles from enemies, ill-health, anxieties quarrels and worries accidents, aimless wanderings, loss of position, delays and setbacks in undertakings, unwanted litigation, wicked associations with all its attendant disadvantages, are the sort of troubles and difficulties one may have to contend with during the month. Of the three asterisms of the sign, those born under Visakha will suffer much less than those born under Anuradha and Jyeshta.

Health and Domestic.—Ill-health to self as well as for the other members of the family may be present more especially during the first half, but it may prove not very serious and easily amenable to treatment. With Mars in eighth, the likelihood of accidents, wounds and loss of blood cannot be entirely eliminated and care should be taken in such cases, against sepsis and infection. Misunderstandings and quarrels with other members of the family are also probable and in bad cases may even lead to temporary separation.

Finance and Speculation.—The finances with Saturn in second aspected by Mars will be worst hit of all spheres of activity and money being required for every purpose, the consequent difficulties may well be imagined than described. Dearth of income, failure of usual resources, increases in items of expenditures, etc., will well-nigh produce desparate conditions. The second half may prove somewhat tolerable. All the above observations apply with greater force to financial enterprises and speculative activities.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—The troubles that beset the landlord and the landowner will be enormous and they too may be hard hit in several respects. The yield and rentals may be poor and a consiberable part of it may not reach your hands. Unforseen difficulties may crop up to thwart you in your schemes for normalising conditions. Your rights may be assailed and you may have to resort to litigation to vindicate your stand. But you would never achieve anything by taking the law into your hands. The services too will suffer in common with others during the first half, but there would be some perceptible relief so far as they are concerned during the second half. Though there is no scope for any positive benefits or betterment, the way events turn will give you some promise of future advancement and there will be some peace of mind and mental relief taking the place of acute anxieties. The profession and business will be able to maintain their normal levels though with some setbacks off and on.

Women.–It is difficult to make any general statement about the month as conditions change almost week by week as regards matters in which the fair sex is interested as such. The first week is not unfavourable for all activities, partaking in social functions, parties, etc., and normally it would be plain-sailing. Success may attend your efforts during the second week if directed towards philanthropic activities as you may be able to enlist the sympathies of the moneyed to your cause. But conditions abruptly change during the rest of the month and it will be wise not to indulge in any extra activities.

Fortunate Dates.—Health and domestic matters, dealings with relatives interviews, etc.—2, 8, 11, 14, 19, 23, 30; money dealings and transactions, financial ventures—2, 6, 11, 16, 21, 25; short journeys,—4, 9, 19, 23; long journeys—9, 12, 16, 19, 30; real property affairs, educational and academical activities—4, 9, 19, 23; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, courtship and love affairs, excursions, etc.—2, 6, 11, 16, 21, 25, 29; service affairs and prospects–3, 9, 19, 23; partnerships and dealings with opposite sex in general—2, 8, 11, 16, 21, 25, 30; insurance activities and dealings with estate of deceased persons—2, 6, 11, 16, 21, 25, 30; professional and business enterprises—2, 13, 18, 27.

Critical Dates.—Health and domestic matters, dealings with relatives, interviews—5, 14, 21, 27; money dealings and transactions, financial ventures, standing surety for others, 4, 8, 11, 18; short journeys—7, 14, 21, 27; long journeys—2, 14, 21, 23, 29; real property affairs, educational and academical activities—7, 14, 21, 27; speculation, children's prospects and affairs, excursions, courtship and love affairs—4, 8, 11, 18; service prospects and affairs—5, 14, 21, 27; partnerships dealings with opposite sex in general—3, 19, 25, 29; insurance activities and dealings with estate of deceased—3, 14, 17, 24, 27; Professional and business enterprises—7, 8, 16, 23, 29.

Chandrashtama from night of 13th till sunrise of 16th.

9. Dhanus (Sagittarius).—Saturn in 1st; Mercury and Kethu in 4th; Sun in 4th and 5th; Venus in 5th and 6th; Mars in 7th; Rahu in 10th; and Jupiter in 12th.

General.–Mercury is the only planet for the entire month and Venus is the only other influence who is good for at least part of the month. Of course, Jupiter in twelfth may not be considered as an evil transit pure and simple. Sun, Mars and Saturn are evil throughout. Venus is under check so long as he is evil and Mars for the greater part of the month and Sun for the second half only. Thus so far as general results are considered, the month cannot be said to be encouraging. Quarrels and disputes with friends and relatives, sorrows, mental agitation, separation from relatives, ill-health, tedious journeys, losses, increased heavy expenditure, litigation, disgrace, difficulties caused by enemies and rivals, delays and setbacks in all matters are likely evil results of the adverse transits. The influence of the good transits is too feeble to make headway against such odds. Still some gains, honour, happiness, help from friends would prevent the month from being wholly bad and make it tolerable. Of the three asterisms covered by the sign, those born under Moola and Uttarashada are bound to suffer much less than those born under Poorvashada.

Health and Domestic.–Inspite of the predominence of evil transits, health may not suffer much, at any rate, bodily health. Some precautions against hæmorrhages may be taken if chronically subjected to such troubles. But the mind will not know much of peace during the month, as various fears, apprehensions and sorrows may be present. There may arise from any cause such as disputes, quarrels, illness of near relatives, deaths, separation, etc. All the same, conditions will never assume any serious proportions and will be well within tolerable limits.

Finance and Speculation.—The financial position cannot but be adversely affected; not that there will be any failure of the usual avenues of income but that the expenditure will mount up unconscionably to such proportions as to constitute a major crisis. If it is remembered that most of it can be avoided with some amount of prudence and restraint, it will help to render conditions easier. The closing part of the month is not inherently so evil and your efforts will be rewarded with success. But the entire month is unsuitable for speculative transactions.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—The impact of the adverse transits on matters pertaining to real property will be less severe because of the aspect of Jupiter upon Mercury and this month may witness a moderately smooth running period in the small details of daily routine, realisation of yield and rentals, etc. The first half will be even better than the second in this respect. During the second half, setbacks may arise. There may also be threat of litigation which you should try to avoid as far as possible as the final result is likely to be adverse. However there is no strength to support new ventures or innovations. The results will be fairly satisfactory in the case of the services also though during the second half, there is likelihood of incurring Governmental displeasure or those of people in power and position or your immediate superiors. Still all these can be averted with care and prudence on your part as it is only a weak influence. But the profession and business may be hard hit, and may suffer either from apathy and indifference on your part or by an over-zealous exuberance that spoils everything. Even here the middle part will render excellent results.

Women.—A fairly good month for ordinary purposes. But in transactions of purchases at home or while shopping, you need to have all your wits about you so that you may not conclude a bad bargain on the spur of the moment because the articles catch your fancy just for the moment. On second thought you may not want them at all. So do not finish the contract at once or call later. In all other activities, there will be success if you do not aim too high but set your limits reasonably and moderately.

Fortunate Dates.—Health and domestic matters, dealings with relatives, interviews, etc.—2, 4, 6, 11, 21, 25, 29; financial enterprises, money dealings and transactions—4, 6, 9, 19, 23; short journeys—4, 9, 19, 23; long journeys—2, 13, 18, 27; real property matters, educational and academical activities—2, 6, 11, 21, 25, 29; speculation, courtship and love affairs, children's affairs and prospects, excursions, picnics, etc.—3, 9, 19, 23; service prorpects and affairs—5, 11 17, 21, 25; partnerships, dealings with opposite sex in general—8, 11, 14, 17, 24, 27; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased—5, 8, 17, 19, 22, 29; professional and business enterprises—7, 11, 18, 21, 27.

Critical Dates.—Health and domestic matters, dealings with relatives, interviewes, etc.—4, 11, 15, 18, 28; farewell enterprises, money dealings and transactions—7, 11, 14, 18, 21, 27; short journeys—7, 11, 18, 21, 27; long journeys—8, 14, 23, 29; real property affairs, educational and academical activities—4, 11, 15, 18, 28; children's affairs and prospects, speculation, courtship and love affairs, excursions, picnics, etc.—3, 9, 14, 18, 21, 24, 27; service affairs and pros-

10. Makara (Capricornus).—Kethu in 3rd; Mercury in 3rd; Sun in 3rd and 4th; Venus in 4th and 5th; Mars in 6th; Rahu in 9th; Jupiter in 11th; and Saturn in 12th.

General.—Venus, Mars and Jupiter are all good for the entire month. Of these, Mars is under check for the entire month and Venus for the greater part of the month, while Jupiter is entirely free The only planet who is in a favourable sign for at least part of the month is under check throughout whether good or bad. Mercury and Saturn are evil for the whole month but both or under vedha all along. Thus the above analysis reveals that Jupiter in eleventh and unchecked is the only dependable influence for the month all the other good or bad, being under inhibition. But this in itself is a great deal and the month can be regarded as being generally auspicious for almost all matters. Good health, success, comforts, friendship with good people, triumph over rivals and enemies, acquisition and enjoyment of articles of luxury, prosperity, auspicious events and celebrations, excursions, pleasure trips, good news, etc, are the welcome results in general. As against this, there may arise some enmities, minor losses, quarrels and disputes, displeasure, etc Of the three stars of the sign, those born under Uttarashada will fare best, next come those born under Sravana and those born under Dhanishta comes last.

Health and Domestic.—The health for the month will be generally good so far as yourself are concerned. The same cannot be said with regard to your children though their sufferings will be confined to ordinary, simple ailments. In all respects concerning the sphere of domestic matters, the first half will be found to be much better than the second. During the latter half, there may be cause for mental agitation, quarrels and disputes with friends as well as relations both inside and outside the domestic sphere. Impediments may arise in almost all matters inside home and mar your enjoyments and happiness.

Finance and Speculation.—In respect of financial matters also, the first half will be much better than the second. Gains from various sources, increased income, success in financial ventures are due. But too much may not expected at the same time and considerable care and forethought will be necessary for success in financial ventures. Risky ventures should be avoided as losses are likely with lord of 1 and 2 in twelfth which also synchronises with onset of Sadesathi. Speculation comes under the class of risky ventures if operated on margins but safe and dependable investments in shares. Stock is not contradicted by the influences of the month.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—Matters pertaining to real property will generally fare well during the month. There is scope for increased gains from agricultural pursuits as also addition of new items to your holdings. With all this, the situation is not entirely satisfactory. The month is not suitable for new enterprises or innovations connected with your lands as the results are not likely to bear any reasonable proportion to the outlay and your money and energy is likely to be wasted that way. This caution is all the more necessary, as you are likely to be led away by uncontrolled zeal or impulsiveness. The first half is good for the services and the second half is not bad. Some new status or position, or appointment to a post of subordinate authority may well happen in the case of those who are in for it, having completed all the tests and qualifications necessary therefor. Much will depend also upon your power of adaptation to circumstances For most persons, this will be a smooth-running period. The profession and business can expect a moderately good time with increased returns and income around more than average levels.

Women.—So far as matters pertaining to the fair sex are concerned, the month can be said to be quite favourable. Help in all their activities from new friends among the elderly and influential people will be forthcoming readily for all their activities and in the achievement of their objectives. Yet for all their activities, there may be opposition from and obstacles placed by their own near relatives who may not like such outside activities and because of this they may succeed only partially and that after prejudices and obstacles have been overcome.

Fortunate Dates.–Health and domestic matters, dealings with relatives, interviews, etc.–4, 9, 12, 19, 23; money dealings and transactions, financial ventures—4, 9, 12, 19, 23; short journeys—2, 6, 11, 16, 21, 25, 29; long journeys—2, 11, 16, 21, 25; real property affairs, educational and academical activities —3, 9, 19, 23; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, excursions, picnics, etc.—5, 11, 16, 21, 25, 30; service prospects and affairs—2, 11, 16, 21, 25; partnerships dealings, dealings with opposite sex in general—2, 11, 16, 21, 25; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased–2, 13, 18, 27; professional and business enterprises—5, 11, 16, 21, 25, 30.

Critical Dates.—Health and domestic matters, dealings with relatives, interviews, etc —3, 7, 11, 14, 21, 27; money dealings and transactions, financial ventures, standing surety for others.—7, 11, 14, 21, 27; short journeys—4, 7, 14, 18, 30; long journeys—14, 21, 27, 28; real property affairs, educational and academical activities—2, 5, 14, 21, 24, 27; speculation, excursions, children's affairs and prospects, courtship and love affairs—3, 19, 25, 29; service affairs and prospects—10, 14, 17, 21, 27; partnerships, dealings with opposite sex in general—2, 5, 8, 17, 21, 29: insurance activities and dealings with estate of deceased—3, 16, 23, 9; professional and business enterprises—3, 19, 25, 29.

General —Venus and Saturn are the planets in favourable signs for the entire month. But Saturn is under check throughout while Venus is thus affected for the greater part of the month. Sun is good for the second half only and is free of vedha so long. Mercury, Mars and Jupiter are evil for the month. Mercury is under check for the whole month and Mars for the greater part, while Jupiter is free. Though the good and bad transits of the month are nicely balanced, the evil side is slightly more powerful and there is no complete answer to unchecked Jupiter in tenth. In a month of mixed general effects, the second half will be productive of better results. Aquisition of good position or status, gains, good friends, comforts and happiness, success, increased influence and position, pleasure trips, good news, etc., are the good things to be expected during the second half from the favourable transits. During the earlier half, losses, various difficulties, quarrels, unwelcome changes, unjust blame, troubles from enemies may all be present. Of the three asterisms of the sign, those born under Poorvabhadrapada will fare better than those born under either of the other two, namely Dhanishta or Satabhisha.

Health and Domestic.—General debility and weakness may be present though there may not be any actual illness. Still those chronically subject to malaria or other fertile ailments should take precautionary measures all the same. But the children in the house may not escape from the clutches of illness and may suffer even to the extent of causing some anxiety over their condition. Though there may be some bickerings and quarrels in the domestic sphere, on the whole conditions will be quite harmonious. There may occur some auspicious event or celebration in the house.

Finance and Speculation.—Financial conditions for the month will be fairly satisfactory as the good influences are more powerful in this respect. There will be gains and it will be quite possible to accumulate some money during the month—though it may not be a smooth process throughout and some losses now and then may have to be retrieved. As in all matters generally, the second half will be the brighter period and will be more smooth-running. But although the month, conditions are very evil for speculative dealings and if indulged in, will result in heavy losses.

Real Property Services, Profession, etc.—There is nothing special to be mentioned in connection with real property affairs and a normal routine month can be expected; nor there are no influences bearing upon this sphere but they almost cancel each other out but during the second half the good side may be said to be more powerful and increased returns from land may be the outcome. New methods of cultivation, manuring, or other innovations with a view to increasing the yield begun at this time (second half) are likely to succeed well. Repairs, reconditioning and refurnishing on your house will also achieve good results, The services too are more or less in the same position, the good elements are in greater form during the second half and the month is good generally for completing your qualifications and increasing your eligibility for future promotions. The unemployed may get employed and those entertained on a temporary footing, may be well on the way to securing permanence in their respective jobs. As in other matters, the profession and business too will expand and enlarge their activities during the second half rather than during the first and may on the whole do quite well above average.

Women.—This may be said to be a problem month for the fair sex. While in the case of the majority, there may not be anything noticeable or worthwhile, in the case of a few open to the higher vibrations, there may be occasion for making some act of sacrifice which will exalt them to a higher state of consciousness and shed their selfishness for ever. 12. Meena (Pisces).—Mercury and Kethu in 1st; Sun in 1st and 2nd; Venus in 2nd and 3rd; Mars in 4th; Rahu in 7th; Jupiter in 9th; and Saturn in 10th.

General.—Venus and Jupiter are the only good transits for the month and it is a pity that both are under Vedha throughout the month and their beneficial rays will not be available for exploitation. Mercury, Sun and Mars all these planets transit only evil signs throughout the month. But Saturn in tenth cannot be said to be outright evil as it is an Upachaya place where a malefic is said to be strong. Mercury is under check for the whole month, Sun for the first half, and Mars for the greater part of the month. Therefore the malefic influences also do not have much power, though more powerful than the benefic ones. Loss of prestige, ill-health, tedious and purposeless journeys, fears and anxieties, quarrels with friends and relatives, set-backs in all matters, evils arising from wicked associations, deceit through friends, unsteadiness of mind, evil indulgence etc., are the likely bad effects of the adverse transits. Still some happiness, auspicious events, domestic facilities, gain of articles of luxury, success over rivals and in undertakings, are the events to be expected of the good transits. Of the three asterisms of the sign those born under Poorvabhadra will fare best and the others born under Uttarabhadra and Revati come only next.

Health and Domestic.—Though minor troubles in health may be present off and on, such as stomach ache chest pain, etc., actual illness will be confined to a few days in the month like blood discharges, dysentery, etc., which peculiar to the evil transits of the month. But those having high blood pressure or heart troubles, should be careful in diet and general habits. In domestic matters as well as in social circles, you are liable to be let down by your own relatives and friends so that various difficulties may be caused to you may have even to suffer losses on their account.

Finance and Speculation.–The month may not be free from financial worries arising from various causes. There may be failure in the usual avenues of income, you may incur losses through deceit, confidence tricks, or through the actions of your own relatives and friends. Your financial ventures may not prove successful and cause additional cause for worries and anxieties. Still some unexpected quarters will come forward to help you out of your troubles and actually the sufferings may not amount to much after-all. Speculation is not at all advisable though it may be very tempting.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—Matters pertaining to landlords and landholders are liable to be hit hard this month and they should be prepared for all tests of untoward happenings. Difficulties with agents, tenants, realisation of rentals and profits, deprivation, litigation, etc., are the kind of troubles that may await them. Losses through violence are only too probable and therefore you should take care that by no action of yours, you do not touch off the explosive situation. Matters are likely to come to a head at about the beginning of the 4th week of the month and extra care and restraint would be called for at this time. Both good and bad is in store for the services. To those who a mark by their efficiency in work, the month may bring good news and just the contrary for those who do not impress their superiors favourably. It looks as if retrenchment is in the air and not all will be able to escape it this month. The profession and business are likely to have much of ups and downs during this month though conditions may not reach such low levels as to cause acute anxieties.

For Women.—This cannot well prove to be a satisfactory month for the fair sex so far as activities peculiar to them are concerned, though no apprehensiona need be exercised till the first half is nearly over. Thereafter all activities should be restained to home and home surroundings and only routine matters attended to. Even shopping may have its snares and you are liable to be tested even in ordinary dealings. This is not the month suitable for giving parties or even attending them during the second half.

BRIHAT JATAKA

OF VARAHA MIHIRA

English Translation by Prof. B. Suryanarain Rao with original slokas in Bold Devanagari

(FOURTH EDITION)

This is a monumental work written by Varahamihira the versatile genius of the first century B.C. and deals with the entire Science of Astrology in a masterly way. Brihat Jataka, as the author rightly asserts, is intended as a boat for all those who at first get despirited at the sight of the vast ocean of astrological knowledge but who wish to cross the same.

The book contains the invaluable commentaries of Bhattotpala which have made clear many of the obscure passages. Prof. Rao has given copious notes in his own inimitable style ich facilitates easy comprehension.

PLANETS AND PLANNED PARENTHOOD

ACCORDING to some modern thinkers, the world has become too small for mankind because there is a population explosion going on. The British Scientist Sir Julian Huxley thinks that population increase "is the key problem of our age". On the face of it the issue is simple. The total population of the world is now about 2½ billion human beings. The net increase last year was 47 million people and "it would be at least 50 million this year". The increase is fastest in the under-developed region "where the need for food is greatest". And Sir Huxley is quite definite in his prediction that "whatever happens the world population will be doubled in two generations and the total will be over five billions in the lifetime of many people of today". How far the statistical information pertaining to the population growth in the past is correct, in view of the fact that the "information needed for this study is to be sought in the publications of Governments and since the energy and efficiency of Government services vary from one country to another, the available information differs much in extent and accuracy from one end to another", it is for intelligent readers to guess. We do not know on what basis Sir Huxley anticipates that within our lifetime, the world population will be "over five billions". It would be noted that although birth rates and death rates provide information of much importance they may be misleading if taken as measuring the strength of the forces upon which the future trend of population will depend. According to figures furnished by statistical experts, the growth of world population during the last three hundred years is as follows:–

1800	...	906 ,,
1850	...	1171 ,,
1900	...	1608 ,,
1933	...	2057 ,,
1947	...	2326 ,,

If we assume that the current population is about 2500 millions, according to the prediction of Sir Huxley, it would be 5000 millions "in two generations" say by about 1980. We shall, of course, see shortly, whether astrology would lend any confirmation to the panicky predictions of the scientists. No modern scientist can say with any definiteness whether in the world as a whole or in a particular country, a population can begin to grow by natural increase either because the birth rate rises or because the death rate falls. The claim is of course advanced that advances in medicine, have cured the death rate. But the decline of death rate may also be due to the presence of combinations for good longevity in the horoscopes of most people. The world horoscope taking Aries as Lagna, studied in the light of the above table of population increase, would reveal interesting details as to how the increase has kept pace with mutual dispositions of planets at different periods. It occurs to us that population growth seems to keep pace with the coming together of a large number of planets in signs Libra to Aquarius. On 2nd January 1800, when the world population was just 1/3rd of what it is now Jupiter and Saturn were in an area covering Gemini and Cancer while Rahu was in Aries. In the beginning of 1900 however, most of these planets were in Scorpio and Sagittarius with the result there was quite an increase in the population. During this century, the world population has been very rapidly increasing that it is now nearly 2½ billions, 700 millions more than at the beginning of the century. The eight-planet combination taking place in 1962 can perhaps give an explanation for this rapid rise, and for speedy destruction also in the not distant future. Whether the pace of rise will be kept up or not, we shall study subsequently. Somehow scientists—biologists, astronomers, physicists, etc., have generally been painting a very panicky future for the world we live in. There are astronomers, who expect, of course in the long run, some sort of a heat-death for the solar system. There have been astronomers in the recent past who anticipated the earth being shattered to pieces by its coming into contact with huge comets and some other inferior planets. Fortunately no such thing happened. Lord Kelvin startled the world over half a century ago that within about 3 or 4 hundred years all life on earth would become extinct for want of oxygen. His thesis was perfectly reasonable though not sensible. Kelvin based his conclusion on the then existing rate of increase in the population and development of industries requiring fuel, etc. But now of course, our biologist-friends apprehend that unless the birth rate is brought down, humanity is bound to go without food even in our own lifetime. Scientists have succeeded in "death-control" but unfortunately they have not secured a fool-proof method of birth-control. The speculations of many of these scientists are of course supported by a series of calculations and statistical studies which have all the glitter of scientific reasoning about them and in the speculations ventured by them, there are assumptions which have themselves to be definitely proved before we can accept their statements. Sir Huxley expects that the population of the world will be doubled in two generations. But what guarantee is there that there would be no calamities—natural or man-made—such as wars, plagues or pestilences, crop failures, earthquakes, etc., during the remaining part of this century, which would not upset the fond hopes of these eminent scientists? With due deference to these great men of science who have painted a gloomy future for this unfortunate world of ours, we are constrained to observe that some of the statements made by them seem rather ludicrous. War, famine and pestilence are the natural enemies of the human race, but in truth these are all more or less associated with the circumstances of civilisation. In the highest state of civilised society, which we the moderners shamelessly claim for our age, there ought to be no war, there need be no pestilence and there should be no famine unless such famine be an act of God. As a matter of fact, our generation is guilty of the bloodiest wars in history and the greatest economic and food crisis, thanks to the warnings given out by astronomers, politicians and meteorologists. Even according to their own statistics, in several countries occupied by white races there had come such a fall in birth rate that it was regarded as serious by many statesmen. Various European countries such as Belgium, France, Germany and Italy showed concern over their diminishing birth rate and made efforts to promote marriage, lessen contraceptive practices and do away with abortion. While the possible influences of changed habits and of altered environmental conditions may play their own part in the change of birth and death rates in different parts of the world, the more important factor to be considered is whether there is any self-regulated design in nature herself, which restores equilibrium. The ancient Maharshis have clearly shown that crop-failures, financial slumps, wars, earthquakes and birth and death rates are all correlated to solar radiation. In other words, the usual principles of astrology can explain the present population crisis, as they can explain every other crisis and conflict which twentieth-century mankind faces. Apart from contraception, economic circumstances, abortion, etc., the important factors contributing to differential fertility, is the presence or absence of the Bija and Kshetra factors in the horoscopes of different persons. These again depend upon the moment of birth, that is the planetary juxta-positions. While scientists may be justified in anticipating a fearful future for the world by population increase, basing their conclusions on their own pet theories, we as students of astrology, are constrained to feel that there is no astrological basis for the fear that "human reproduction will outrun resources". Beginning from this year, and right upto 1965, there will be a series of combinations of major planets involving Scorpio to Pisces which indicate that not only the birth-rate would be reduced but death-rate would increase. Jupiter and Saturn, Saturn and Rahu, and Jupiter and Rahu joining together or in mutual shashtashtaka or in 3rd and 11th positions from each other and the major planets transitting Saturnine signs indicate destruction of human life on a large scale due to a variety of causes: wars, plagues, crop-failures, famines, pestilences, earthquakes, volcanic eruptions, etc. Therefore, one need not take seriously the warnings given by some of these scientists about the impending doom that awaits the world. Nature has her own safety valves. In what way equilibrium on earth would be restored and how these safety valves work, astrologically it is possible to anticipate at least approximately if not in great detail.

The Sixth International Conference on Planned Parenthood opened at Delhi on 14th February 1959. As our Prime Minister said, the "Government of India was the only Government to adopt a policy of family planning". The Prime Minister's approach to the Family Planning question was from the angle of his favourite theme of "World Peace". He felt that "unless the growth of population was restricted, world peace would be jeopardised". And Mrs. Margaret Sanger, President of the International Planned Parenthood Federation "praised the Government's efforts at propagating Family Planning". This ancient land of Rama, Krishna, Vyasa, Valmiki, Vasista, Manu, Yagnavalkya and the Buddha is to officially sponsor the Family Planning movement, not by methods of Patanjali but by recourse to those of Marie Stopes—use of contraception, sterilisation, etc.! Of course, we have to look "progressive". Many of our politicians are loud in proclaiming on pulpits, the virtues of "planned parenthood" to solve the food problem. One southern state has even gone to the extent of awarding a reward to nurses who persuade men and women to undergo sterilisation. And all these "progressive" steps are being taken by the one-time disciples of Mahatma Gandhi, who devoted his life to Satya (truth), Ahimsa (non-injury) and Brahmacharya (continence). Against the vociferous propaganda indulged in by our politicians, asking normal people to subject themselves to a course of treatment which at best could only render them eunuchs, it would be interesting to note that the medical profession as a whole in U.S.A. has been slow to accept birth control as a routine-practice, "probably from a sense of moral responsibility for the future of the American stock". Ordinarily the function of sterilisation is to protect society "by preventing the production of defective offspring" and is "applied to individuals who have not the ability to care properly for children". But in India, inducement is to be held to undergo sterilisation, ignoring the fact that this may eventually result in the stoppage of births from sections of population which are fundamentally healthy in body and mind. Let it be clearly noted that while birth control advocates may stress the hygienic and social importance of fewer children properly spaced and better cared for, in the majority of people, recourse to contraceptives is apparently motivated by a desire for more unhampered pleasure and the avoidance of responsibilities attendant upon a family of children.

The ancient Hindus also seem to have solved the question of birth control in a manner peculiar to their genius. It is not concerning the question whether there should be birth control but as to the means that are right and wise for accomplishing this limitation of offspring that the present disagreement comes about. It is the arbitrary artificial means of birth control which they consider morally wrong and socially detrimental. The grounds of religious disapproval of contraception are variously expressed. Contraception violates the will of God and the intention of nature. Personal pleasures should be subordinate and secondary. Contraception degrades the sacred institution of marriage to a selfish pursuing of personal pleasure and deprives the couple of the moral growth that comes from spiritualising their relationship and accepting the responsibility of parenthood when children come. It undermines love by degrading domestic comradeship through animal passion while at the same time it develops egoistic attitudes in place of mutual sympathy and sacrifice. Apart from all these, the prevailing practices of contraception, if resorted to, will result in a trail of afflictions. A writer observes that the use of artificial contraceptives has been the cause of nearly 2,000,000 abortions and 20,000 deaths of women every year in the United States of America alone. The average person uninformed in sexology and of prevailing conditions, little realises the discord and misery in family relations and health caused by lack of adequate contraceptive knowledge. Afflicted children born from failed attempts at abortion are numerous. Frigidity, sterility, insanity, fear and worry over undesired conception and suppression are among the deplorable human social problems, facing the west.

The ancient Maharshis have not been slow in recognising the importance and need of birth control but their methods are natural and harmless. Absolute continence in married state is doubtless a safe method of birth control. But in actual practice Brahmacharya with a large majority of married couple is difficult to adopt. In normal man and woman sexual urge is natural and its continuous suppression will have unfavourable effects—physical as well as mental.

Jataka.[1] " If, at the time of sexual union, the Sun, the Moon, Venus and Mars be in their navamsas or if Jupiter occupy the rising sign or the 5th or 9th sign from it, such union will produce a child". This stanza has of course a deep meaning which we shall try to explain shortly.

This reference of Mihira to sexual union reminds us of a theory advanced by some of the modern scientists that conception can be avoided provided coitus is not done in 'dangerous' periods. Dangerous periods are those in which coitus performed will result in conception. The menstrual cycle in a woman more or less is based on the movements of the Moon. The Graffian follicle produces an ovum. This is expelled by means of the follicle bursting under the action of a pituitary hormone. It travels down into the uterus and before it reaches there, the Graffian follicle heals up and changes its nature becoming an endocrine gland full of a yellow substance.

By experiments on women, injecting pituitary hormone, Prof. Knaus discovered that the uterus reacted in the normal way to the hormone upto the 14th day of the menstrual cycle. On the 16th the uterus ceased to make any significant movements, and did not respond to much larger injections of pituitary hormone. The only explanation possible was that the yellow body assumed control of affairs on the 16th day of the cycle. This control persisted until a day before the next menstruation. On that day, the last of the cycle, the uterus movements began once more, proving that the pituitary hormones could once more take effect and that the yellow body had disintegrated because no fertilisation had taken place. Now these fourteen days are the days prior to menstruation. A woman who wishes to take advantage of this method of birth control should keep a menstrual calendar. If, for example, a woman's menstruation begins on a certain day, say March 1st and the next menstruation starts on March 29th hers is a 28th day cycle. She can, then calculate her dangerous period in the following manner. the yellow body assumes control on the 14th day before menstruation, upto and including the last day of the old cycle: therefore the date of birth of the yellow body is March 15th. The ovum is produced one day before, therefore ovulation takes place on March 14th. The woman concerned must abstain from intercourse in the 48 hours preceding ovulation or in the 24 hours following—that is on the 12th, 13th and 14th March. To be quite certain it is probably best also to abstain on the 11th and 15th giving a total of 5 dangerous days. Conception cannot result from intercourse outside these dates, if the menstrual cycle has been correctly estimated. It will be seen that this method has an astrological basis too. This method requires extra vigilence in its application.

Menses[2] appear in women when the Moon occupies 4th, 7th or the 8th houses from Mars; if when aspected by Mars, the Moon happens to occupy one of the Anupachaya signs (4, 7, 8 and Lagna) at the time of the appearance of the menses conception will follow. Thus it will be seen that by examining the positions of planets at the time of menses, whether or not conception would occur can be determined. In case there are no indications of conception, then no fear need be had at all.

A safer method is to fix up or elect times in such a manner that conception may be avoided. The Sun, Moon, Mars and Venus must be in their own navamsas. Jupiter should be in the 5th or 9th from Ascendant. Lagna and/or Moon should not be between malefics: Malefics in the 4th and Mars in Lagna and the 8th are not desirable. Sexual act done when Lagna, the Sun, Jupiter and the Moon are in masculine signs and navamsas results in the birth of a son. These elements in even signs indicate birth of a daughter. At such a time coitus will not result in conception. A calendar of this type may be conveniently prepared and kept for use As an aid to love, this method is obviously the perfect one from the point of view of joyful relations. And there are no appliances to assume or discard. Perhaps most important of all, they will be able to decide when they wish their children to be born. In the choice of an astrological day to avoid conception, the degree of the ascendant seems to be very important. Not only this. There are certain constellations which are effeminate in nature, viz., Pushyami, Anuradha, Uttarabhadra, Aslesha, Jyeshta and Revati. When the sexual act is timed to be performed on the days ruled by such constellations it is said, conception can be avoided. Choose one of the above constellations and elect a time at which the rising sign receives the aspect of Jupiter and adjust your sex relations accordingly. This should not be taken as a hard and fast rule universally applicable. The above suggestions which have been corroborated by strong astrological evidence, are given as material for reflection and research. Further investigation will doubtless result in the discovery of the real secret of the natural method of birth control. Herein lies the practical value of the astrological science.

The Union Health Minister in reviewing the progress of the Family Planning movement in India said that research work was in progress to "evolve cheap and suitable contraceptives". Knowledge must be respected from whatever source it may come. If astrological methods can help people to plan their families, why not Government make sufficient provision for including astrological methods also in its research schemes?

On the world plane, while it is reasonable to assume that since the world is limited in size, it is bound to reach a state of saturation sooner or later, the argument falls to the ground in the light of the astrological theory, that as planets go on continuously occupying different geometrical positions, the radiation of various forms of energy is bound to maintain the natural equilibrium by the destruction of excess population by natural and man-made calamities. Therefore let us not be pessimistic about the ghastly difficulties we are expected to face. There will be no population explosion in the sense Sir Julian anticipates and mother earth will be on constant guard to prevent population disequilibrium in her own mysterious ways.

Astrology Loses a Friend

We regret to record the death of Mr. Kala Venkata Rao, Minister for Planning in Andhra Pradesh, in the early hours of 28th March 1959 at Hyderabad. Mr. Venkata Rao, apart from being an eminent politician and a good administrator, was a keen student of astrology for several years. Well versed in the subject, he was known as the "official astrologer" of Andhra Government. We had the privilege of his friendship for over a decade and whenever he visited Bangalore, he used to call on us and discuss problems pertaining to astrology, and how best to promote the cause of the science. It will be noted that Mr. Kala Venkata Rao inaugurated the First Andhra Astrological Conference at Nellore in October 1955, when we had the honour of presiding over it.

In the death of Mr. Venkata Rao, India has lost a good administrator while the cause of astrology has suffered a great setback by the loss of a fearless champion. We extend our sincere condolences to the bereaved family. May his soul rest in peace.

HOW IS THIS MONTH?

Health and Domestic.— Though some of the transits are liable to cause acute disorders in health, they lack the necessary power to inflict much harm and may be confined to minor digestive troubles during the first half and this can be avoided by proper attention to diet. The first half is also not quite favourable for domestic matters. Some unhappiness by minor troubles and bickerings may result. On the whole, conditions will not be bad but beware of mischiefmongers outside the domestic circle who are apparently well meaning friends or relatives but likely to cause troubles and sorrows by their meddlesome interference.

Spiritual and Astrological Consultancy.com To Present Your Work

Finance and Speculation.—In the matter of finance, there is likely to be much difference between the first half and second half, the former may be beset with financial worries, even losses. Somehow, there will be relief from all this during the second. You should be extra careful during journeys against losses through pilfering, confidence tricks, etc. Your expectations for your ventures have a good chance of being realised during the second half to an appreciable extent though not fully; but speculation is not advisable especially during 2nd half.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—Good and bad influences play upon the matters connected with real property affairs of landlords and landholders. While everything is likely to prove satisfactory in the matter of yield and income from your holdings during the second half, troubles may be met with in all other respects throughout. Troubles may arise in your dealings with others connected with the estate, tenants, agents, etc., as by your own conduct and actions, you are liable to arouse antagonism, where you are likely to overlook regard for the rights and feelings of others. You should not under any circumstances, take the law into your own hands. The second half is positively good for the services, and the first half is only less so. The unemployed may get employed and those on a temporary footing may be made permanent, new status for those to whom it is due. The profession and business will also do well and expand with the results quite adequate to the amount of labour and outlay involved.

Women.—This will be a smooth running month for the fair sex in respect of all of their activities, their relationship with others will be harmonious in social circles, in functions and entertainments which they may give or go to. In all such matters, ready help will be forthcoming to support their cause. This is also a month which is designed to promote their cultural advancement and under proper stimulus their mental horizon will expand by study, tours, attending lectures, and so forth. As in all other matters, the second half will be found to be more conducive for their interests as well.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs, interviews, health matters —3, 13, 18, 22, 26, 30; transactions, financial ventures, etc.—2, 7, 17, 22, 31; short journeys—5, 11, 16, 21, 30; long journeys—2, 7, 17, 22, 31; educational and academical matters, interviews and investments, etc.—5, 11, 16, 26, 31; speculation, children's affairs, excursions, courtship and love affairs—2, 9, 11, 16, 25; service affairs —2, 13, 18, 26, 31; partnership business, dealings with opposite sex—5, 11, 16, 26, 31; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased—5, 11, 16, 21, 30; professional and business enterprises—3. 13, 18, 22, 26, 30.

Critical Dates.–Personal and private affairs, dealings with relatives, domestic matters, interviews, health matters in general—1, 8, 12, 16, 28; money dealings and transactions, financial ventures, standing surety for others—1, 5, 13, 20, 26, 29; short journeys—3, 19, 22, 25, 29; long journeys—1, 5, 13, 20, 26, 29; real property affairs, educational and academical activities, tests, interviews, investments—1, 9, 14, 21, 24, 28; speculation, children's prospects and affairs, excursions, picnics, courtship and love affairs—4, 6, 7, 9, 14, 25, 28; service affairs and prospects, dealings with superiors, servants, etc.—7, 15, 19, 22, 29; partnership business and activities, dealings with opposite sex in general—1, 9, 14, 21, 24, 28; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased—3, 19, 22, 25, 29; professional and business enterprises—1, 8, 12, 16, 28.

The 1962 Eight-Planet Combination and World Affairs—A Symposium

In this issue, we have the pleasure to present points of view of two esteemed contributors, Mr. C.E.O. Carter of London and Mr. K.M. Kharegat of Bombay. Mr. Carter is a prominent British Astrologer, Principal Emeritus, Faculty of Astrological Studies, London, Editor of the well-known quarterly "Astrology" and author of a number of books on the subject, known for their clarity and originality and therefore his views on this great combination should be of interest to our readers. Mr. Kharegat needs no introduction to our readers as his articles have appeared several times in THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE. Mr. Kharegat, a keen student of of both the Hindu and Western systems, deals comprehensively with the implications of the combination as he views them.—Ed. A.M.

I Found it impossible to refuse Prof. Raman's courteous and flattering invitation to express my views on the above phenomenon.

But actually it is my view that when such a very unusual formation occurs in the heavens, one cannot go safely much further than to forecast some equally strange and unprecedented condition on earth.

To illustrate this I recall that in the 1930's the then Astronomer-Royal challenged us to predict what would happen consequent upon the full moon of May 11, 1941, which fell in Taurus (tropical), Mercury, Venus, Jupiter, Saturn and Uranus all being in the same sign.

Now something very unusual did in fact happen. There was one of the greatest of all Blitz-attacks on London, with vast destruction of property, and stranger still, Rudolf Hess was parachuted into Scotland on some mission of his own devising.

But who could have foreseen such things several years before, when any sort of war between Britain and Germany was still hardly considered a possibility, leave alone such things as wholesale and indiscriminate bombing?

Since the satellitium occurred in Taurus and gravely afflicted King George VI's planets in the 2nd house of his nativity, one might indeed have safely forecast some sort of ruin in terms of the 2nd house; but our present knowledge does not admit particularization. There may indeed be those who can interpret such things in detail, perhaps in the East, perhaps in the West, perhaps in both hemispheres. But persons so gifted are as a general rule indifferent to publicity. One must not reject, either, the possibilities of the future, when more is known of such things, for example, as local rulerships.

The responsible astrologer will be very cautious in making public pronouncements. He will

MUCH popular interest has been aroused by the fact that in the year 1962, there will be a combination of seven planets (eight including Kethu) in the sidereal sign Capricorn, and the probable astrological consequences thereof. Of course the combination of four or even five planets in one sign is not an uncommon phenomenon, and a sinister import need not be read into such combinations every time that they occur. But in this particular case the nubmer is unusual, such a combination not having occurred for over 800 years, with other features that make it of interest. This conjunction takes place round about the 5th, February, 1962; the planets remaining in this sign for about three days. For prognostication however it is necessary to fix one day and time. This can be conveniently done for the moment of New Moon. The time of conjunction in longitude will be 00.11 U.T. on 5th, February, 1962. It will also be a day of a total eclipse of the Sun, its disc being completely obscured for a rather long period of over 4 minutes. This eclipse will be invisible in India, but visible in New Guinea, Australia, etc.

At the outset there is a difficulty that as there are no reliable ephemerides or almanacs available for such a long distance ahead in time, the positions of the planets can only be obtained approximately, and rather wide orbs should be given to the planets than is customery. Some idea of the dispositions of the planets must be kept in mind when reading. Mars and Saturn are in close conjunction with a quincunx aspect of Uranus, and a parallel aspect of Pluto, Sun, Moon, Mercury, Venus and Jupiter are in conjunction opposed by Rahu and Uranus, and all squared by Neptune. These dispositions are rely not upon one indication only, but will look for confirmation of his first judgment in as many directions as he can.

Now as regards the subject of this paper, I reject all highly alarmist forecasts.

It would seem that a heavy unbalance in the heavens will certainly cause (or correspond with) something of the same sort in matters terrestrial. And, since most people (except) the very oppressed) dislike violent changes, they tend to view them as "evil" or at least as disagreeable.

To begin at the beginning (so far as occidental tradition goes) there is an ancient tradition that many planets in the sign Aquarious indicate floods. The sceptic will probably observe that this is obviously due to the fact that Sun-in-Aquarius occurred at the time of floods in Mesopotamia. Certainly, if the sort of position we are discussing has in fact a relation to floods, then they will be likely to occur in countries and districts liable to floods.

If we look at the map of the People's Republic in China, we find Mars and Pluto in 15 and 17½ Leo, so that the eclipse itself falls in very close opposition.

So there may be catastrophic floods in China, and certainly there will be conditions of a catastrophic nature, especially as the conjunction of Mars and Saturn (4 and 6 Aquarius) coincides with the Chinese Moon in the 3rd degree of that sign. I feel justified in predicting very difficult times indeed for the present regime of China and probably for the people in general.

Of course Neptune squares the place of the eclipse from a watery sign, Scorpio.

It is true, if my data are correct, that the conjunction Venus–Jupiter in the ecliptic horoscope falls on Mao–tse–tung's radical Venus, but one cannot be sure whether he will be alive and in power in 1962. If he is, then it seems unlikely that his prestige will suffer, whatever else may happen.

To Australia, also subject to inundations, there seems no special threat.

The United states are directly affected, with a radical Moon (probably) in 18 Aquarius. "Probably" that is what the unfortunate astrologer has so often to write, hampered as he constantly is by dubious data.

But an eclipse plus Jupiter–Venus on the natal U.S.A. Moon can hardly be unfortunate. Nevertheless big changes of some kind are probably enough.

Scientific developments of a quite unprecedented and perhaps as yet unforeseeable nature are a safe forecast, I think, and perhaps, as regards U. S. A., the Moon itself may be involved, and we shall see the Americans making some spectacular step forward in lunar exploration.

Throughout the world scientific and sociological changes seem certain and I do not for a moment suggest they need be undesirable, except, as I have hinted, for the ultra–conservatives.

Colonel Nasser does not appear favoured by any means. Again, birth–data are not above suspicion, but if he has Neptune in 6 Leo, which at least is probably correct, he gets an unpleasant stress from Mars–Saturn in the eclipse figure.

The U. S. S. R. seems to have come into existence on either the 7th or 8th November, 1917, and in either case there is a heavy stress from the eclipse. Neptune 7 Leo, Saturn 14th Leo, Uranus 19¾ Aquarius: these will all be affected with results that one can only surmise will be violent in nature. It seems the present regime will undergo great changes and perhaps make way for something that is not so rigidly tied to materialistic points of view.

Nevertheless it is only right to say that the U.S.S.R. has already passed through plenty of severe astral assaults, and although these have certainly operated, the regime itself has remained, in broad outline, much the same. The natal figure has strong afflictions, but, with nations as with individuals, such sometimes appear to give a remarkably tough constitution, if I may be permitted to run the the risk of being accused of a pun!

Readers will perhaps be aware that three maps have been suggested for Great Britain.

I prefer the 1801 chart, and here the eclipse falls exactly on Venus, the ruler of the map!

Now (at any rate in the west) it has always been a rather moot point as to the value of eclipses falling on benefics. Does the eclipse temporarily submerge the "benevolence" of the planet, or does it stir it into special activity?

Much depends, no doubt, on the natal strength of the benefic in question. Venus, in the 1801 figure, is not very strong, and,

The Practical Aspect of Medical Astrology

ASTROLOGY and Medicine are intimately linked inasmuch as the science of healing forms an important branch of remedial astrology. Karma finds manifestation in physical, mental and spiritual planes. The resultant of evil Karma on the physical plane is disease and medicine is the first shanti or remedial measure for the alleviation of human suffering.

The fundamental purpose of medical astrology is to give the planetary influences which cause the various diseases, afflictions and accidents. In ancient times all doctors were expected to know astrology and its relation to disease, what diseases would be produced under different planetary conditions, the duration of such diseases and whether or not they would prove fatal. Modern doctors would do well to lay aside their prejudices and make use of astrology for the diagnosis and treatment of diseases. When properly applied, astrology would quickly determine the seat of disease in the patient. Diseases may be classed under two heads—inherent and active. Inherent tendencies to diseases are shown by the afflictions in the birth horoscope. These tendencies may remain latent for long periods and then appear when the directions of evil planets are in progress. On the other hand, the 'active diseases' may make their appearance with every evil transit, provided the Lagna is weak and afflicted.

Every student of astrology must recognise the importance of mental influence upon bodily ailment. The Moon rules over the mind, the Lagna represents the body and the Sun governs the soul so that when the Moon and the Sun are strong and free from affliction, one can enjoy sound health even if the Lagna is subject to unfavourable aspects and conjunctions. All these days, modern medicine had been persistently preaching that all diseases were curable by drugs. Ayurveda, on the other hand, had recognised that physical disease was interdependent upon the mind and insisted that mental harmony was the sine quo-non of health and well-being. That is why great stress was being laid by ancients on the strength of the Moon in the horoscope. Sir Walter Langdon Brown, Regius Professor of Physics in the University of Cambridge, is reported to have observed that "drugs are not the whole of medicine. The dualism of mind and body has broken down under the assaults of psychologically-minded physicians. The doctors of the future will have to come doubly armed with material aid for physical troubles and psycho-therapy for distresses of the spirit." In other words, modern medicine is only returning to the point of view held by the sages five thousand years ago that health depends on harmony and disease upon discord within the body.

The first thing for an astrologer is to study the Moon and thereby the mental qualities of a patient. Note the sign in which the Moon is placed, the house and the Arishtas and Yogas to which he is subject. The secondary determinant of mental qualities is of course Mercury, as he is the ruler of the nerves and the nervous system. The basic qualities of these two planets in the signs should be very carefully studied. Harmonious relationship between these two planets is a great asset. If the Moon is in conjunction with Saturn and there is no beneficial aspect to relieve, the mind is stubborn, slow and subject to melancholia. When however there is Adhi Yoga or Gajakesari Yoga, a well-balanced mind with good reasoning qualities will develop and a retentive memory is shown. Mars in intimate contact (association or aspect) with the Moon shows that the person is of a high strung emotional, erratic type with little control over the mind. Chandra Chandala Yoga, resulting by Rahu–Moon association, suggests that the mind is inclined towards unhealthy and unnatural conditions, obsession, religious mania, mediumship, drugs, vices and so on. How these tendencies express themselves depends upon the houses and the signs. When, for instance, the Moon is in Scorpio and is afflicted by Saturn and/or Rahu, the native is often tempted to use black-magic and may himself become the victim of those who unscrupulously use these dreadful practices. Again, when the Moon is severely afflicted by Rahu or Saturn, the person will have a sort of 'hysteria' as it may give the mind suicidal tendencies owing to extreme sensitiveness or short temper. The psychological set-up is therefore of the utmost importance before the predisposition to physical diseases is considered.

It must be made very clear that a 'mental' diagnosis should never be made on the basis of one or two combinations. The entire horoscope should be considered carefully.

Before taking up the 'diagnosis' proper, a few observations seem to be necessary. The strongest planet in the horoscope determines the predominance of the physical, mental and spiritual peculiarities of the person. Thus

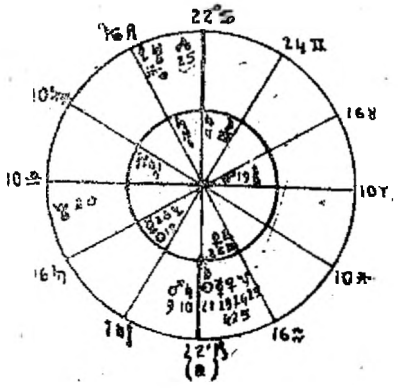

Fig. 1 (P.450) shows the tracks of the planets at the moment of New Moon (00.11 U.T.) as they rise, set, culminate, and are at the nadir across the face of the earth. Owing to the large number of lines the figure may appear confusing so the chart should be studied a little before starting to use it. At the top are given the longitude degress east or west of Greenwich. Below that, in the line marked X, are given the signs of the zodiac with their boundaries. These refer to the sign on the cusp of the 10th house corresponding to the longitude of the place given. For instance, what is the sign on the cusp of the 10th house Peking? Drawing a vertical line from Peking upwards it will be seen that the sign is Scorpio. The very small dotted lines on the chart are the boundaries of the ascending signs. These signs are shown at the bottom along the line marked AS and also along the 60th north parallel. By interpolating along the latitude of the given place, the approximate degree of the rising sign (within about 5°) can be obtained. All zodiacal signs both in the chart and the sequel below refer to the sidereal zodiac, with Lahiri's value of the Ayanamsa, and merely require to be augmented by 23° 20′ to convert them into tropical signs and degrees. The tracks of Mars and Saturn are so close that they cannot be separated on a map on this scale so they have been combined and shown as thick black lines across the map. Similarly the positions of the Moon, Mercury, Venus, and Jupiter are close to that of the Sun and so only the track of the latter is shown. As an experimental measure the track of the baneful star Algol, has also been charted.

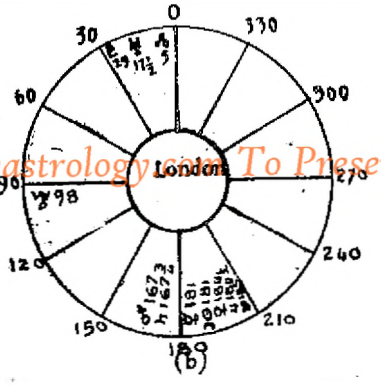

General Predictions.— First, reading the chart in general terms, without going into details, and proceeding from left to right we find the curve of Mars and Saturn (setting) follows almost exactly the contour of the West coast of the North American continet, and even that of the Westcoast of South America. As these coasts are in earthquake zones, there will be destructive earthquakes in California; and earthquakes and tidal waves in Peru and Chile; especially near Lima, Arequipa and Iquique, where both Mars and Saturn cross the meridian near the zenith. This track also passes through Alaska and Western Canada. Of Mars on the seventh cusp, Raphael states that "it shows great danger of international disputes, disagreements with other powers, and danger of war!" Of Saturn he says: "unfavourable for foreign affairs, and presages much trouble and difficulty in dealing with other powers.....especially those ruled by the sign in which Saturn is placed". Saturn is placed in the tropical sign Aquarius which is the traditional sign of Russia: so in the event of a war with Russia, which is not unlikely, the first brunt of the attack will fall on the west-coast of U.S.A., Alaska and Canada. Proceeding eastwards, the track of Mars and Saturn at nadir passes through West Africa, near Portugal and close to Ireland. Eartquake shocks will be felt in the Madeira and Azores islands, Portugal and England. There will be disastrous mining and railway accidents and crops will suffer. Again the track of Neptune in the ascendant crosses Ghana, French West Africa, Algeria, Hungary, East Germany, Poland, the Baltic states and Finland. Neptune in this position brings communist leanings to the people of the land, much agitation against established rule and secret propoganda and treachery. We may therefore expect that the whole of West Africa and Eastern Europe will be in a ferment seething with discontent, and the people at the latter place attempting to be free of their masters the Russians, with consequent civil strife. The track of Pluto on the meridian passes through Egypt close to Cairo, Turkey, a large part of U.S.S.R., and parts of South Africa. Racial tensions will reach breaking point at the last mentioned place, but as Sagittarius, a benefic sign rises on the east side and its lord Jupiter is with benefic Venus, the Government will still have the upper hand But its passage through Egypt. Turkey, and U.S.S.R. bodes ill for these countries and war between Turkey and Greece and Egypt with U.S.S.R. taking a hand is not ruled out. The effect of Pluto however is not definitely known. So it may mean that in these countries only the people will rise against the established Government and overthrow the people in power. The track of Mars and Saturn on the ascendant passes through Ceylon, Bengal, East Pakistan, Bhutan, close to Nepal, Assam, China, Mongolia and East Siberia. In Ceylon it will produce much distress among the people, riots, fires and loss of trade with a possibility of civil strife. The cases of the other countries will be dealt with later on. The track of Uranus on the descendant crosses Sumatra, Singapore, Saigon, Canton and Peking showing sudden and akward complications with foreign powers. The track of Mars and Saturn on the midheaven passes through Eastern Siberia, and South New Zealand. In the latter place there will be deaths amongst prominent people, and war like conditions will prevail, as Aries is rising and exalted lord Mars is conjoined with the malefic Saturn. But, because of the strong position of Mars, the ruler of the first, the Government will come out best. As this is also a region of earthquakes, destructive earthquakes will take place there. The track of Algol is interesting. It crosses vast tracts of China, Mongolia and south U.S.S.R. So in the event of war it is clear as to who will be the aggressors. It crosses Azerbaizan in north west Iran, through Syria, Palestine, Iraq, Egypt (close to Cairo), right across the African continent, to South America through Patagonia and Chile. It appears therefore that war is inevitable between Israel, and Egypt and Syria, egged on by Russia and China with Turkey joining in. However as the national effects of Algol have not been given in any of the text books, the conclusions must be deemed to be tentative and experimental in nature. It must also be emphasised that the deductions made from the track of a single planet must be accepted with excessive caution as such tracks are common in occurrence; it is only when two or more planets are involved that reliable inferences can be drawn.

An examination of the chart discloses that the worst disastrous configurations of malefics fortunately fall largely in the oceans and uninhabited places, thus mitigating the severity of their effects for mankind. However there are still some regions which are affected by the complex of planets and these will now be considered in broad detail.

Detailed Considerations.—The outer circle in Fig. 2 (a) shows the configurations of the planets together with their longitudes at London at the time of the New Moon. These longitudes will remain the same for all places on the earth, only the signs and degrees on cusps of the houses will alter with each different locality. The inner circle shows the longitudes of the planets in the horoscope of U.K. as used by Western Astrologers (1–1–1801). Fig. 2(b) shows the mundoscope of the New Moon at London. The grouping occurs in the 4th house with Rahu aspecting it from the tenth, and Neptune by a square from the first. That is Rahu, Neptune, and Sun, etc., are involved in a mundane T square. This will make the Government of the day very unpopular, will increase the peoples' displeasure; but the position of Venus and Jupiter, the first being lord of lagna might enable the Government to tide over its difficulties, though it will meet with a lot of treachery in high places. The position of Mars in bhava sandhi in the mundoscope conjoined with the yogakaraka Saturn (for Libra lagna) will not lead to a prolonged war, but the sign on the cusp of the seventh is Aries, a war like sign and England's own. It is significant that the 1801 Mars is close to the cusp of the 7th house and the Mars of the Queen's horoscope is conjunct the eclipsed Sun, and so is under the influence of the T square. These are all war-like conditions and a short war appears to be probable, but because of the exalted position of Mars. England will be victorious but at at heavy expense, the same Mars being ruler of the second. The position of Pluto on the cusp of the eleventh be-tokens disruption between the Allies, and the possibility of the Commonwealth being reduced in size. The weather will be unkind, with alternate droughts and floods and there will be an earthquake shock and both mining and agriculture will suffer.

Fig. 3 shows the mundoscope at Berlin. The signs and degrees on the cusps of the angular houses are given for convenience, but they refer to the horoscope and not to the mundoscope. The position of Uranus on the tenth cusp in almost exact square to Neptune, will give rise to sudden and unexpected developments with a tug of war between the people and the Government of the day; but the T square of U. K. no longer exists. But the comparison with the foundation (republic) chart (8–5–1949) is ominous. The foundation Saturn is exactly on the midheaven, foundation Mars is only 6 degrees below the horizon on the 7th cusp. Foundation Pluto is in partile zodiacal square to Neptune and curiously enough the 1801 U.K. Mars is exactly on the descendant of Berlin. All these are war-like configurations, which will cause much suffering to the people of Germany, and it may even lose its sovereignity for a time (foundation Saturn on cusp of the tenth) but because Saturn is a yogakaraka and Jupiter and Venus are not far from the 4th house cusp, Germany will turn victorious in the end, and may unite in some sort of modified socialistic regime.

Ghana and French West Africa. At these places the mundoscope is almost the same as that at London, except that Mars and Saturn are closer to the nadir and the fateful star Algol is within 9° of the horizon in the twelfth. The African races are said to be under Cancer, if so, its lord Moon conjoined to the Sun and Kethu in the constellation ruled by Mars and very close to the cusp of the fourth betokens communistic leanings, uprising against rulers and general chaos. At Cairo, the sign Scorpio rises and the mundoscope shows the star Algol setting in mundane square to Pluto on the mid-heaven. Neptune is seated close to the cusp of the twelfth, and the ascendant lord Mars is in bhava sandhi in the second. The specific sign of Lower Egypt is Libra, and this sign is on the cusp of the twelfth, its lord Venus being combust and conjoined to Jupiter, the lord of the third and the sixth. It seems that Egypt does not want war, but nevertheless owing to secret machinations it will be involved against its will with disastrous consequences to itself. This mundoscope will be practically the same for all countries in the Mediterranean close to Egypt, where it will cause similar conditions.

India. As can be seen from Fig. 1, India is under specially malefic influences, especially on its eastern seaboard, and as already stated in the Calcutta, Bhutan, Assam area. Fig. 4 is the mundoscope at Delhi. The sign Sagittarius rises, its lord Jupiter is in the second debilitated but obtaining Neechabhanga. For finances this is good testimony; on the other hand Jupiter is combust and opposed by Rahu from the 8th house, and the expenditure will be heavy especially as the lord of the second is in the first conjoined with the lord of the twelfth. But this is the only good testimony, the rest of the chart is bad. Neptune on the mid-heaven is squaring the combination of Mars and Saturn on the ascendant, and the eclipsed luminary is again squared by Algol from the fourth and opposed by Rahu from the eighth. In turn Algol is in trine to Pluto in the eighth. All these signify that war or civil strife is imminent, with much misery to the people. A large part of India will turn communist, and will oppose the established Government, which will still continue with its woolly headed thinking and will refuse to come to grips with reality. Deaths of important people will occur and in this connection it might be noted that the Mars–Saturn combination falls exactly in opposition to the ascendant of Pandit Nehru. But it is really the east coast of India and the region near Calcutta that will be badly off. The mundoscope of Calcutta is given in Fig. 5. Here the sign Capricorn rises, heavily afflicted by an exact mundane square of Algol and the conjunction of its lord Saturn with Mars, the ruler of the fourth. Venus, the tenth lord is combust seated with the twelfth lord Jupiter and with a close opposition aspect of Rahu. Pluto is within four degrees of the eighth cusp. These configurations will remain substantially the same for Assam, Bhutan, East Pakistan and upper Burma. It appears that the whole region will suffer invasion from the East possibly China, with drought, famine, earthquake. and other natural calamitiess

At Peking Aquarius the ruling sign of Russia rises with the war-like sign of Scorpio on the mid-heaven. The lords of both these houses are conjoined in the twelfth with a trine aspect of Neptune from the eighth. The lord of the eighth, Sun, is eclipsed close to the ascendant with an opposition aspect from Uranus from the seventh, which particularly concerns foreign relations. So we can infer that such relations will deteriorate suddenly and unexpectedly and that China will come worse off from such an encounter. At Washington, Leo rises, and its lord Sun is eclipsed in the sixth by the Moon (12th lord) and by Kethu and has a partile square of Neptune. Pluto is within a degree and a half of the ascendant conjoined with Uranus. Also the combination occurs in the 8th house from U.S.A. sign of Gemini, and the present Mars –Saturn conjunction is joined to Pluto radical in the eighth in the foundation map of U.S.A. The 10th house sign is a benefic one but its lord is with the sixth combust, so that although it will go through a thin time it will come out on top, but with much diminished prestige. However it is not at Washington that the worst effects will be experienced. It is the area near Chicago, Detroit, Pittsburg, the highly industrialised area of U.S.A. and round about Winnipeg in Canada that they will manifest themselves. Fig. 6 gives the mundoscope at Chicago, but the reading of it can be left to the reader. In Mexico, Guatemala, there is a massing of malefic planets on the angles. A mundoscope of this area shows this concentration of planets to be on the cusp of the seventh all in mundane square to Algol on the mid-heaven and opposed by Rahu and squared by Neptune from the fourth. There will be revolutions in this land. Agriculture and crops will suffer, destructive earthquakes will occur, but as the seventh cusp is between two benefics Venus and Jupiter, foreign relations will be peaceful and they will not be drawn into a general war. At Moscow, Scorpio rises with Virgo on the mid-heaven. The grouping of planets occurs in the second and third houses, only Pluto being on angle. This is a puzzling feature, as these configurations do not indicate any war like activities, but perhaps it only means that Rusia in Europe is not affected, for Siberia is heavily afflicted.

Mystery Region? On the extreme right of Fig. 1 in north east Siberia, there is a heavy concentration of almost all the planets and on only two angles. This is not an inhabited region according to the maps, except for a small town called Verkhoyansk and a mountain range of that name. Fig. 7 shows the mundane dispositions of the planets in this area. An exalted Mars is on the ascendant (though the zodiacal tropical sign Aries rises) and two malefics are close to the cusp of the seventh. This is a terrific combination for war, sudden, unexpected, and complicated with treachery in foreign dealings. Now I am not quite certain whether this is a real physical effect or is merely due to the distortion of house divisions that the Campanus and other systems introduce for places within the Arctic circle. But on the whole I am inclined to think that it is a real effect. If so, is it the location of a secret U.S.S.R. base, from which missiles can be launched against Alaska and the Western seaboard of U.S.A? (see the Mars-Saturn track in U.S.A. Alaska, and Canada previously referred to.)

The reader may well ask whether in all these gloomy prognostications, there are no places where there will be benefic effects. Unfortunately the planets are so situated that no matter which sign ascends, its lord is always afflicted one way or another, and especially with its conjunction with the lords of 6th, 8th or 12th house. Nevertheless it appears that countries under Pisces or where Pisces rises will fare best. From Fig. 1. Australia, and New Zealand, and Russia in Europe are countries that appear to be least afflicted. The countries most afflicted are Central Europe, West Africa, Middle East, India, China, Mexico, U.S.A. and Siberia. It is a curious coincidence that traditionally the sign Capricorn is said to rule over

Albania, Bulgaria, Greece, India, Mexico, and Luthiania, and our map shows that these are precisely the areas that are most affected. Again the combination occurs in the 8th house from Gemini said to rule West of England, Egypt, Belgium, and U.S.A.; and in the 12th from Aquarius ruling Russia, Sweden, Poland, Prussia; and Fig. 1 shows that these very countries are in the most troubled zones. But according to Western text books, these refer to the tropical signs, whereas we have worked with sidereal signs. It seems therefore that the signs originally fixed by the ancients are in the main correct, but they refer to the sidereal zodiac, and not to the tropical one as is wrongly done at present. Of course one case alone does not prove anything, but the "coincidence" is so striking that it hardly appears to be merely a chance effect. A point that the reader should bear in mind is that we have deliberately selected places on the earth where the afflictions are to the angles and therefore most severe, and so we have neglected cases where the affliction is in other houses e,g. at Moscow; but for reasons that are evident we cannot consider every country in one article.

Effects, when due? The effects of eclipses do not always occur at the time of the eclipse, but occur a short or long time after or in some rare cases even before. Sepharial gave a rule in which he stated that the effects become evident when a major planet transits in conjunction or opposition to the eclipsed point of the zodiac. Accordingly, critical dates will be 8th and 20th Feb, 10th June, 2nd Nov., 1962; and Feb. 1963, especially as both Mars and Saturn then transit the critical points.

Conclusion. All these conclusions are based on one lunation, and this does not apper to be a fair way of evaluating all the effects. The previous Solar ingress should also be studied in conjunction with this lunation, but this for obvious reasons cannot be attempted here. Nevertheless, the combined testimony of other astrologers, like Herr Troinski, etc., using quite different methods agree on this year being a critical one, and hence we are justified in placing confidence in the conclusions arrived at here. Some sort of conflagration involving Russia, China, U.S.A., the Middle East, and parts of India seems indicated and it will start suddenly and when least expected. Usually in lunation and ingress maps, even if the malefics afflict, the two benefics Jupiter and Venus are in such positions that they mitigate the evil effects. In this case, both the benefics are themselves combust and Jupiter is debilitated. Moreover a conjunction between the two major planets Mars and Saturn occurs only two days later.

*Predicting Specific Events by Means of Transits—II

BY W. J. TUCKER, D.Sc., Ph.D.

EACH planet belonging to the solar system is eternally travelling forward in its particular orbit. Even when executing its apparent "retrograde motion" whenever it reaches a certain part of its orbit relative to the position of the Earth in its own orbit, since the reversal of the planet's motion is not a real one.

The position which a planet reaches at any given moment is called its progressed position; and when the progressed position reaches the same longitude as that of the position of a radical planet in a birth chart which he is observing, the astrologer concludes that a transit is occurring.

Perhaps it is, and perhaps it isn't—it all depends on whether the transitting planet has the same (or approximately the same) latitude as that of the radical planet. Also on whether proper allowance has been made for the precessional motion which has been accumulating at approximately 50″ of arc per year since the day the person was born.

When an astrologer says, for example, that "Uranus is transitting over the natal Mars", he is using a form of speech which he and other astrologers think they understand but in actual fact make nonsense. For Uranus cannot transit the natal Mars of a horoscope, since Mars moved away years ago from the position he occupied when the person was born. What is true, however, is that at the moment a person was born, the Sun, Moon, and the eight planets (Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, Neptune and Pluto) were each occulting or interacting with the one of the fixed stars of a zodiacal constellation. Henceforth it will be those ten stars—the birth stars—that will comprise the really sensitive points of the horoscope.

The sign zodiac however is merely a belt of stars through the centre of which the line of the ecliptic swept out by the centre of the Sun in his apparent motion through the successive zodiacal constellations before he closes the apparent circle at the end of his yearly travel. And although the ten members of the Solar System all travel the same belt, it must be realised that the type of astrology which is based solely upon the convolutions of the solar system is in effect rigorously restricted to one single plane and not to a sphere. And that will not do at all. For if the energy, or alteration of energy, coming from even a single star of the constellation zodiac can be held to influence objects on earth in any way whatsoever, the same can be held of any other star not belonging to the constellation zodiac. It is impossible to confine the action to a single circle (the scliptic circle) or to a single plane. For the galaxy comprising the zodiac of signs is intersected at right-angles by the galaxy of the milky way (which is also a sign-zodiac even though planets of the solar system do not revolve in its plane). It is, in fact, the combination of these two gigantic zodiacs which comprises the sphere that constitutes the vault of heavens. And all the visible stars set in this vault must necessarily be capable of influencing the earth and things on the earth via radiation. The problem then is to discover in what ways certain of these stars are capable, by dint of a variation of their radiation through some natural cause, to start off on the Earth a train of secondary causes and effects which may total up the production of a specific event of extraordinary kind.

Aristotle defined certain of the problems in the following words:

"Now all motion in space (locomotion) is either straight or circular or a compound of the two, for these are the only simple motions, the reason being that the straight and circular lines are the only simple magnitudes. By 'circular motion' I mean motion around the centre, by 'straight', motion up and down. 'Up' means away from the centre, 'down' towards the centre. It follows that all simple locomotion is either away from the centre or towards the centre or around the centre. This appears to follow consistently on what was said at the beginning: body was completed by the number three, and so now is its motion.....

"Circular motion must be primary. That which is complete is prior in nature to the incomplete, and the circle is complete figure, whereas no straight line can be so. An infinite straight line cannot, for to be complete it would have to have an end or completion, nor yet a finite, for all finite lines have something beyond them: any one of them is capable of being extended. Now if (a) a motion which is prior to another is the motion of a body prior in nature, (b) circular motion is prior to rectilinear, (c) rectilinear motion is the motion of simple bodies (as e.g. fire moves in a straight line upwards and earthy bodies move downwards towards the centre), then circular motion also must of necessity be the motion of some simple body.....

"The following arguments make it plain that every body which revolves in a circle must be finite. If the revolving body be infinite, the straight lines radiating from the centre will be infinite. But if they are infinite, the intervening space must be infinite. In the case of finite lines it is always finite, and moreover it is always possible to take more than any given quality of it, so that this space is infinite in the sense in which we say that number is infinite, because there exists no greatest number. If then it is impossible to traverse an infinite space, and in an infinite body the space between the radii is infinite, the body cannot move in a circle. But we ourselves see the heaven revolving in a circle, and also we established by argument that circular motion is the motion of a real body.

"The shape of the heaven must be spherical. That is most suitable to its substance, and is the primary shape in nature....."

We can see from the definition of Aristotle that he regarded the motion of a planet in the orbit as a circular motion : "motion around the centre", and therefore prior to rectilinear. Which is why we may regard the transit of a planet over a birth star as prior. And the fact can be proven (provided all the precautions presently to be described are observed) that a simple transit of this kind will be followed unfailingly by the occurrence of a major event in the life of the native concerned.

Nevertheless simple or compound transits of planets over birthstars do not account for the occurrence of all kinds of events in life. (1) Transits themselves comprise only one group of three very different celestial phenomena which all three operate as signal of specific mundane effects which will follow their occurrence; (2) the heliacal rising of a planet or an important fixed star, especially at the time of New Moon; (3) the appearance anywhere on the Hour Circle of the Sun at the moment of a heliacal setting of an important fixed star—especially a fixed star of the Milky Way Zodiac.

Astrologers have, in the past, endeavoured to correlate the planets to certain fixed stars not belonging to the constellational zodiac. But they have attempted this with peculiar ineptness. Some have based sensational predictions upon an alleged "conjunction" of Mars with Algol while ignoring the fact that the nearest approach of the planet to the star still leaves a wildly impossible conjunctional gap which cannot be spanned by even the most generous theory of "planetary orb of influence". Furthermore, such astrologers persist in calculating the zodiacal longitudes of the stars by means of the same mathematical formulae which are used for calculaing the positions of the planets on the Ecliptic Sphere.

This is not the place for entering into an exhaustive discussion of the problems of spherical trigonometry. Moreover, in correspondence already published in this magazine I have given some reasons showing why the system of conversion is invalid. Therefore I will at present content myself with pointing out that whereas the linear distance of the planets of the solar system to the Earth are comparatively short, the linear distances of the fixed stars are incredibly long. For a planet to interact with a fixed star there must be an unimpeachable natural phenomenon connecting the two; and such connection is not to be found by using an Ephemeris' planetary position in the hope of obtaining a longitudinal correspondence with a fixed star whose position has been calculated by the same formulae by means of which the original right ascensions of the planetary positions have been converted to zodiacal longitudes. Predictions based upon such methods are bound to prove abortive.

In my previous article I remarked that astrologers were unwise to have departed from those natural principles for locating the heavenly bodies which are employed by astronomers. Astronomers make all their measurements and all their predictions entirely on the Celestial Sphere. Astrologers would have been wiser had they done the same.

In my early work in astrology* I began with that same premise and made my measurements on the Celestial Sphere. Which is why I used the M.C. to determine the position of the "Rotational Sensitive Point" (which is located at 90 degrees from the M.C. following the run of the signs). In point of fact, that is a far more realistic method of locating the really sensitive point which matters, than the practice of calculating the position of the eastern horizon. For physically, the establishing of the eastern horizon is no easy matter, not only because of the phenomenon introduced by the obliquity of the ecliptic, but also because of the twin factors of aberration and refraction. It is in fact calculated by measuring 90° from the bisected point of the ecliptic arc (the ecliptic zenith) in the run of the signs. The fact that I decided ultimately to base the frame of my horoscopes upon the Ecliptic Zenith for all my astrological researches, was solely because astrologers are in effect married to their astrological ephemerides. For my own part I would infinitely have preferred to continue with my original conception relating the M.C. to the Rotational Sensitive Point.

To facilitate demonstrations which will be given in the course of these articles, I am presenting a list of certain important stars which do not belong to the constellation zodiac but which play an indispensable part in transit prognostications and determinations. The zodiacal longitudes of these stars which I am giving have not been converted to agree with place-positions calculated for the Ecliptic Sphere. Instead, the longitudes of these stars are given for a quite different purpose. The longitudinal place-position of each star is being solely referred to the point on the Ecliptic Circle that will be cut by the Prime Meridian at the moment at which it passes through the star itself.

The following list is far from comprehensive, but will enable a very great deal of practical work to be done. If however, readers should desire to be furnished with a more comprehensive list, they have only to notify the Editor to that effect, when I will gladly oblige them by preparing a much more comprehensive list for publication.

without being an alarmist, I hardly think 1962 will see any augmentation of British prosperity or influence, but rather the reverse. However, Venus and Jupiter (and Mercury) stand near by, and they may turn the balance in Britain's favour.

These three planets fall on the Queen's Mars–Jupiter conjunction, but this, unfortunately, is opposed by Neptune and squared by Saturn. The British can hardly expect an easy time.

When, last but not least, we turn to the map of the Republic of India, it is to be feared we find decidedly difficult conditions arising: it is not necessary to repeat the eclipse positions but it is obvious that the Indian chart, with Sun 5 Aquarius, Jupiter 12 and Venus 14, and with Pluto in 17 Leo, will undergo very severe stresses. Moreover, the progressed Sun will by then be in opposition to Pluto, though in trine to Neptune. Conditions will certainly arise that will shake the sub-continent severely.

Pakistan, with a satellitium in Leo, will be equally affected.

One can but hope that the venerable culture of India will not pass under the Communist steam-roller, to be flattened out into conformity with an alien and materialistic conception.

The outlook is difficult and threatening. I shall await with the utmost interest the views of our Indian colleagues on this matter.

I must summarize this brief review as (a) great scientific advances (b) great sociological changes, and (c) possibility of floods and similar catastrophes on a vast scale.

I do not feel that anything of "global war" is denoted.

Heliacal Rising. A method of prognisticating events based upon the heliacal risings was employed by the ancient Chaldeans. However, in their day the Sun, and the planet or star which rose with him, were never of the same right ascension or longitude. This was because the ancient Chaldeans were not furnished with modern nautical almanacs or ephemerides. They were practical observers who first had to see with their own phenomenon of the planet or star rising with the Sun. Consequently, in order that they might see it, the rising of the planet or star was bound to precede the rising of the Sun.

We of the present day are far better equipped for the purpose, for we can determine heliacal risings which they never see, such as an exact conjunction of Mercury or Venus with the Sun, or a fixed star being occulted by the Sun.

In order to enable such determinations to be made, it is necessary to present the reader with yet another list of fixed stars, namely those fixed stars which belong to the constellation zodiac.

STUDIES IN JAIMINI ASTROLOGY

By B. V. RAMAN

SECOND EDITION

This is the first attempt to present the complicated principles of Jaimini contained in all the four Adhyayas, is a simple, comprehensive and attractive manner, information being gathered from rare and difficult sources. Calculation and interpretation of Dasas suggested by Jaimini, which have hitherto remained obscure have, for the first time, been clearly expounded with suitable illustrations.

CONTENTS

Differences between Jaimini and Parasari; Distinctive Features of Jaimini; Importance of Karakamsa; Jaimini's Abstruseness, Significance and Determination of Karakas; Certain Exceptions; Different kinds of Lagnas; Pranapada and its Significance; Dwara and Bahya Rasis; Gulika; Finding Brahma, Rudra and Maheswara; Aspects and Argalas; Significance of Argalas; Source of Rasi Strength; Numerical Measure of Strength; Kinds of Dasas; Importance of Chara Dasa; Determination of the Order and Duration of Chara, Sthira, Brahma, Shula, Yogardha, Thrikona and Varnada Dasas; Longevity Determination; Increase and Decrease of Terms of life; Main and Sub-periods of Death; Horoscope Judgment, Physical and Mental Characteristics; Financial Prospects; Health and Disease; Education and Marriage; Combinations peculiar to Women; Karakamsa and Profession; Source and Nature of Death; Rajayogas according to Jaimini; Misfortunes and Miscellaneous Yogas; Timing Events by Chara Dasa; Nature of Results in Rasi Dasas; Maraka Periods for Parents, Self, Brothers, etc., according to Nirayana Shula Dasa; Summary.

Illustrated by two example Horoscopes. This is a book that no astrological student could afford to miss as this is the first time an attempt has ever been made to write a text-book exclusively based on Jaimini.

Survival in Pitruloka or Spiritual World

"The beginning and end of beings are unmanifest.

They (the beings) manifest only in between"—Geetha, Ch. II.

"Basing my conclusions on experience, I am absolutely convinced not only of survival, but of demonstrated survival"

—Sir Oliver Lodge.

IN a previous article, I had pointed out how the Linga Deha or Subtle Body continues to inhabit the physical body, and hinted there that it survives the last crisis of life, viz. Death. Now, in this chapter, I will marshall all the available proofs to convince the readers that it does continue to live in the invisible human kingdom, (Pitru Loka) or Spiritial World for some period, and does try to conclusively show his individuality through some mediums, or sometimes without them, but by some perceptible means.

Nachiketa's Question to Yama, God of Death.

This question has haunted humanity from times immemorial. We find in the Katha and Taittiriya Upanishads the story of Nachiketa who questioned Yama about death and what becomes of the individual after death. Even then, it seems, there was controversy about this problem. And Yama told him that the Soul is immortal, and, following the method of Yoga, it can be released from its bodily sheath as the grass stem from its hollow covering. From this reference to the Yogic method and the withdrawal of soul from the body, it seems, that the ancient sages knew that process, which according to Dr. Cannon's testimony, is still practised in Tibet (Invisible Influence, 83.)

Materialists' Objections Answered.

Ancient Charvak–type materialists were not satisfied with such answers even in those days in India. Like their present kith and kin, they argue thus: "the body after death is either cremated or buried, and so its elements mingle with nature, and nothing remains behind. Even supposing that the Astral Body or Linga Deha exists, what is the nucleus for its existence, when all the material elements are dispersed in all directions? For, from the astral body, the elements must cluster together; and, after the disposal of the body, the elements do not remain together in cohesion. We grant that matter or energy is indestructible. But that energy or matter is not found in its former place and it must, remain tied in one place if we are to think of a body astral or physical".

Some analogies will serve as an effective answer to this objection of course. Like all analogies, they are not perfect. But they will help us to understand the problem. For instance, when iron or gold is put in a crucible in a furnace, the alloy is burnt out but not the metal. So even though the gross physical body is cremated or buried, the gross elements are disposed off, but the finer elements need not be thus affected. Again the universal soul or Cosmic Energy, or God, who has created the sun and the stars, burning at white heat for millions of years, cannot be affected by tremendous degrees of heat. And even though this integration and disintegration process by heat is going on in the universe for all time, he remains untouched thereby. So the Vedantists say that even though the gross human body dies and disintegrates still the Astral body or Linga Deha, can and does remain, unaffected. As gold remains gold, and chlorine remains chlorine in the gold–chlorine compound, so the Linga Deha keeps its identity intact even when the physical body is transformed into its elements. We see daily, and sciences also teach us, that human beings are always changing. Our childhood, youth and old age mark out these changes visibly. Unconsciously these are going on, yet the individuality remains the same. The Rama or Jones who passes through all these changes, calls himself by that very name, right to the old age, and resents the implication of any change, if we scientifically prove to him that he cannot be the same individual. He maintains his identity in spite of the changes going on in his body. And if we can show that even after the last crucial change (death), the fine Linga Deha proves its identity by various means and methods, repeatedly and scientifically tested, then we can be convinced that the same individual exists in an invisible material form of Linga Deha, however formidable the materialists' objections may appear to be.

Nature of Evidence

As we are to deal with immaterial intangible body in this case, we must be very cautious in choosing our evidence which will suit our special case and purpose. For instance, when from a long distance, we listen to our friend on telephone or radio, even though we can't see him, we take into consideration his known peculiar voice, his manner of speech and his choice of special words, etc., and fairly conclude that we are probably hearing his and his words only, even though he is invisible to us. On this pattern let us see what kind of evidence will satisfy us and others, when we are faced with a special case of our invisible dead friend trying to make his identity and presence felt.

Moreover in this peculiar case, we must first remember that to experience this fact of survival is a rare occurrence. We cannot, like physical and chemical experiments, have that experience at our beck and call Therefore we must observe those rules and disciplines and select the proved means and methods, which are necessary for such special psychical experiment. For instance, we must have, in almost all cases. a 'medium' and be amenable to his moods and time and place, where and when he finds it convenient to demonstrate his power. As the experiment is psychical, we cannot dictate to him our terms and conditions. For, even the psychics—mediums — confess that they themselves do not know when and where they will be in their mood. Even in some physical experiments, as for instance in photography or retinoscopy or X-ray screening, we have to fulfill certain conditions. We must have complete darkness for all these. Or in catalysis, we must have catalitic agent or a medium. So in these psychical experiment, we must comply with certain favourable conditions of the mediums. Some of them, very few in fact, can demonstrate their faculty at any appointed time, in full daylight, and in full awareness. Others require darkness and hypnosis or dream-like states. This necessity of a medium may introduce some of his subjective element in the experiment. But it is inevitable. And we must make allowance for it, and be satisfied with what objective experience we can get under these peculiar conditions.

One more precaution also has to be observed in these experiments. Most of the mediums, at least in Europe and America, have become professionals, and exploit their gifts for their own livelihood. Unfortunately their natural gifts wear after a certain period. And then they find themselves in deep waters. To sustain their reputation and status, many of them then resort to fraud, and carry on deceiving their followers for some time. They are ultimately found out, but their fraudulent tactics rouse suspicions about the truth of such experiments, done even by the most honest mediums. And it is a psychological fact that, like prejudices, doubts also die hard. To avoid this possibility of fraud, eminent scientists had laboured hard to scrupulously observe every detail in their laboratories, and have devised fool-proof technique of such experiments.

Eight Categories of Evidence

Let us now settle the criteria of our evidence. I think the categories described below will satisfy the most fastidious critics about the truth of survival. They are :

I. Full materialisation of the dead person without a medium. Three instances: (1) Mrs. Lalitabai Ajgaonkar, (2) Spero, (3) Rosalie.

II. Experiments through the medium : (1) Kate King, (2) Mirabelli, and (3) Baron Notzing's experiments.

III. Experiments through controlled mediums : Possession. (1) Helen Smith, (2) R 101 Aeroplane, (3) Raymond, (4) Sir William Cooper's experiences, (5) Ghosts.

IV. Dream messages from the Dead with objective evidence : (1) Chaffin Will case, (2) Prof. Hilprechet's archaeological experiences, (3) Randall's Promissory Note Case.

V. Automatic Writings and Paintings through a medium.

Automatic Writings and Paintings without a medium.

VI. Ante-mortem agreements fulfilled after death.

VII. Cross Correspondence.

VIII. Reincarnation.

Let us take them seriatim.

1. Materialisation cases.—(1) Mrs. Ajagaonkar. I believe readers will be fully satisfied after so much detailed evidence, supported by a few authenticated cases out of the many described in the proceedings of the Society of Psychical Research and in spiritualistic literature. And at the outset, I will storm the citadels of suspicion and agnosticism or materialism by three genuine cases of full-bodied materialisations of dead persons, experienced by their friends and relations, and solemnly attested by other witnesses of unimpeachable character and status. These cases of self-experience are the climax of the truth of such evidence, and to try to better them is as futile as to paint the lily. On this phenomena of materialisation, readers may, if they like, refer to the monumental work Phenomena of Materialisation by Dr. Baron Von Schrenck Notzing.

Here I will describe the actual materialisation of the dead wife of my friend, Dr. S. S. Ajagaonkar D. O. an Opthalmologist of Bombay. She died of cancer on June, 7th, 1952. After her dead body was cremated, she, on the next night appeared in a fully materialised human form before her brother, Mr. R. G. Samant B.A., LL.B., an advocate of the Bombay High Court. The story is so interesting and arresting, and verified by amazing subsequent events, that her brother and her more critical doctor-husband could not help publishing it in the June number of the Purushartha, a Marathi monthly magazine, in 1953. The substance of it is given below :

"Mrs. Ajagaonkar, Lalitabai by name, was a very religious-minded pious lady. For 25 years, she was observing with fast the ritual of Vrata-Pournima (the 15th day of the lunar half of the month Jyeshta of the Hindu Calender on which the Banyan tree is worshipped by ladies whose husbands are alive), and she died on the same day. Usually the fast is broken on the next day by the Hindu ladies. Owing to her death, she could not do it. As described above, she appeared on the subsequent night before her brother, and asked him to prepare a cup of coffee for breaking the fast. On that night, Mr. Samant, her brother was alone in the house, and had got up early in the night at 1 a.m., and was awaiting the arrival of the motor driver for going to Nasik to immerse her ashes in the river Godavari. But his dead sister's sudden appearance before him in a fully materialised human form so startled him that he could not believe his eyes. He pinched his body several times to make sure that he was fully on his senses. And when he convinced himself that he was fully conscious, and not at all dreaming, he welcomed her, and took her by the hand and made her sit on a cot. As she desired a cup of coffee, he prepared it, but could not find milk for it. She told him where it was. He put it in the cup and offered the cup to her. She told him that her ritual of breaking the fast will be fulfilled, if he himself drank the coffee instead of her. So saying she wished him well, and suddenly disappeared. The cup of coffee remained there, and it was offered to the motor driver, when he appeared at 4 A.M. Mr. Samant noted the event and told the whole incident to Dr. Ajagaonkar and his near relatives.

But the subsequent events are more wonderful and awe-inspiring. Mr. Samant was childless, and it was impossible for his wife (aged 40 then) to bear a child owing to her infantile uterus. Many doctors had examined and treated her several times, and had declared her case as hopeless so far as pregnancy was concerned. But his dead sister appeared again once or twice in his dreams, and told him that she was all along praying God to bless him with a child, and she requested him to have his wife examined again as she had missed her monthly periods. Mrs. Samant was reluctant to do so, but owing to the strange happenings and dreams, she consented and was again examined by Dr. Karande, M.D. of the K.E.M. Hospital (Bombay). He himself had examined her three times in the past years. But, on this occasion, he found not only that the uterus was normal, but was big with child! He got a frog test done by Dr. Rane, for the confirmation of pregnancy. It proved positive. During this pregnancy of Mrs. Samant, the dead Mrs. Ajagaonkar again appeared in Mr. Samant's dream, and told him that she herself is coming again as his child. After full term, the child had to be delivered by the Caesarian section as Mrs. Samant's pelvis was contracted and narrow. It is a female child, and is named Lalita in memory of his dead sister. I have seen the child myself, and heard the whole story from her parents and Dr. Karande himself.

These events led Dr. Ajagaonkar and Mr. Samant to publish, after a year, this extraordinary case of the influence of the departed saintly lady. It is a very brilliant example of the psycho-kinesis of a dead individual. Her material manifestation, her appearances in dreams, her invisible but powerful influence on the physical organs of her sister-in-law culminating in pregnancy, and her re-birth as her child, are positive events which tell their amazing tale, which no comments can embellish. These events followed one after another according to prediction and fully confirm not only the survival of the dead, but their manifastation, and psycho-kinesis also. It is a very recent case, fully authenticated and proved by a series of material proofs, with a living growing child as a brilliant climax of the whole series of awe-inspiring events. And be it noted, that in this case, there was no medium.

(2) Spero: Another mediumless case of actual meterialisation was described by Camille Flammarion, a well-known scientist and Astronomer – Royal of France in his book Urania. Sir William E. Cooper has taken many extracts from it in his book Spiritual Science, and I am quoting the gist of it from the latter book. Sir William Cooper had lived in India for many years, being a business man in U.P. and was a member of the legislative Council in the British regime. He writes: "This scientist Flammarion tells us how his soul became conscious of the 'Life after Death'. Repairing to a certain tower whereon he was in the habit of studying the midnight heavens, he (Flammarion) became suddenly conscious of the presence of a dear friend, who had died sometime previously. This is how Flammarion recounts his experiences:

'But my foot was still on the last step, when I stopped terror-stricken, uttering a cry, which seemed to die away in my throat. Spero ! yes, Spero himself was there before me, seated on the parapet. He said in his gentle voice, which I knew so well, "Do I frighten you?" He was smiling at me. His face, lighted by the moonlight, was just as I had seen it when he left Paris... I stood looking at him...cried "Spero, is it you? Let me look at you and feel you"...I passed my hands over his face and body, through his hair, and had precisely the same impression as if he had been a living being... So I said, "You still exist"...I sat down beside him on the parapet..... A long conversation ensued between the friends in which Spero told him some experiences of the other world. I give a few choice sentences here.

"Souls conscious of their individuality are beyond the conditions of space and time. After the death of their body, as during life they occupy no space...man makes his own destiny.....the soul's destiny is to free itself more and more from the material world...It then enters upon the spiritual life....The supreme aim of all beings is the perpetual approach to absolute perfection and divine happiness" (P. 124-127).

Here is the Royal-Astronomer's testimony of not only seeing his dead friend, but touching and talking to him for a long time. Like Mrs. Ajagaonkar, Spero not only materialised in full human form in the exact likeness of his former self, but allowed his friend to touch and hear his direct voice, satisfying directly three of the five senses by which man can claim direct perception and proof.

(3) Rosalie: The next instance is that of Rosalie, given by Harry Price in his Fifty years of Psychical Research, Ch. VIII. Here I can give only a summary of it. Price had taken "every precaution against deception". He was allowed full control of the room and the sitters. He could "search the house, seal all the doors or windows, place electric contacts there, search any person before or after the seance". After taking these precautions, Price says, he saw "the most amazing seance" he had ever experienced.

Rosalie was the daughter of Madame Z (names were not to be published). Her father died in 1916 in the first Great War. At six, Rosalie also died of diptheria in 1921. Madame Z was a spiritualist and was much distressed by the death of her only daughter. Four years after Rosalie's death (1925) the mother was awakened one night by Rosalie's 'voice' crying mother, mother ! This occurred so frequently that the mother used to be awake at night to hear it. Gradually she began to see the dim outline of Rosalie in the dark. Finally her hand was clasped by Rosalie one night. Though Rosalie began to appear frequently, still the mother did not hold any seances till 1928, and only in 1929 she materialised one day without warning in a seance. She then spoke to her mother in monosyllables.

To test the truth of her materialisation, Price was invited to the seance. In all there were six sitters in the Seance Room. When the sitting began, and Rosalie made her appearance, Price says: "there was something quite close to me, and I could smell it". Then with Madame Z's permission, he stretched out his left arm and "contacted the nude figure of the girl". He passed his hand over her chest, chin and cheeks, and they were warm. He could hear and feel her respiratory movements, and passed his hands over her whole body. He "felt every inch of that . little form". Price continues: "If it is a spirit, then there is no difference between a spirit and a human being. With my right hand...I felt her pulse. It was about 90 to the minute. I put my ear to her chest and could distinctly hear her heart beating...Then I picked up my business plaque, and a soft fluorescent glow flooded the feet of Rosalie,...and we beheld a beautiful child...Her features were classical. Her eyes were bright." Price put her some questions. But she did not, could not answer them. But when asked "Do you love your mummy?", She lisped 'Yes'. Madame then clasped her to her breast, and in about 15 minutes Rosalie had gone.

Afterwards lights were switched on and Price found all his seals on doors, windows and chimney intact. The only drawback in this experiment was that it was not done in Price's own laboratory. Had he been permitted to do it there, then he says: "I should not hesitate to proclaim to an incredulous world that Survival was proved". And the seance was not held in his laboratory simply because Rosalie's mother was afraid that she might cease to come and she would lose the only solace of her life. Her hesitancy was natural and quite understandable. But Price's objection loses its force when we remember that we cannot impose our own material conditions on phenomena on a psychic or spiritual plane. As Dr. Alfred Russell Wallace has said: "In all other branches of research, Nature, and not they (scientists) determine the essential conditions, without a compliance with which no experiment will succeed. But even if Price had made the experiment in his own labora-

Astrology: A Science or Pseudo-Science?

BY S. SRINIVASAN, M.A., B.L.

THE ordinary run of a Hindu may not know what science is or who a scientist, in the sense in which these words are bandied about though, as Sir John Woodroffe and several others working on the plane of pure thought, have testified that the "vedantic doctrine is in conformity with the most advanced scientific and philosophic thought of the West and where it is not so, it is the science which will go to Vedanta and not the reverse". To the Hindu pure science may be as mythical as "the tiller of the soil", an entity sprung into existence in post-Independent self-sufficient Indian economics. The era is one in which we are employed in the task of discovering or coining words to express science and scientific ideas because Amara is a pigmy who could only write an imperfect Kosha whereas we have become, or are becoming, Goliaths on the lines developed by the Westerners.

A writer explains that science and theology "are like the particles and the wave theories of light, each valid for explaining some aspects of the universe but neither competent to cover all aspects". He adds that "science is a knowing-about whereas the essence of knowing-about is not any kind of knowing-about but is intuitive knowing". Proceeding to distinguish knowledge from wisdom he says that "myths transit wisdom whereas explanations, descriptions and expositions impart knowledge". Think of it: 'Myths' faggots of pseudo-science, transforming into sources of Wisdom!

To the Hindu sources of knowledge are three-fold. There are really six of them, pramanas, as they are called, but the more important of them are (1) Saakshaatkara or pratyaksha, (2) shabda or sruti, meaning, revelation and (3) Anumaana. These and these only are the test-tubes and laboratories of the oriental scientist. The first one is the intellectual source of knowledge.

There are again three kinds of knowledge: the metaphysical, the religious and the philosophic. The starting-point of metaphysics is "essentially something intellectually evident or certain, which is communicated to those able to receive it by symbolical or dialectical means designed to awaken in them the latent knowledge they bear unconsciously and eternally within them". And this is a means of stimulating the reminiscence.

The religious tradition of the Hindu emphasises detachment, meditation and humility. He seeks to transcend the self and soul because he believes that "the soul of the soul" is the divine spirit. As one writer points out it is man's deepest and innermost essence. It is explained that spirit is to the soul what the ocean is to the wave. But each answer of the scientist only spawns new enigmas. So the back of the Hindu is set against the scientist even from birth. In fact he has no time for it, seeped as he is in, and starting with, detachment (vairaagya), meditation (dhyaana) and humility (vinaya begotten of vidya).[1]. He is guided by the Lord's word in the Bhagavad-Gita[2].

It should not therefore be difficult to understand why the Hindu does not start with learning "sciences" or look to a scientist, to find what to believe or not of his ancestral teachings. The home-truths are sufficiently clear and valid, to take him through life, safely and wisely, notwithstanding the modern fashionable characterisation of one branch of our learning, astrology, as pseudo-science. It is a misfortune that some of us admire the Westerner for his cheek in painting us black and for his fatuity. We clutch at a slogan that there are really no classes and castes. An ideology gets into the head and we run after it headlong. An old cripple unable to cultivate his patch of land employs a member of the family or paid labour to do it for him or her and the situation is seized to promulgate a legislative truth that a mere owner of land is not a "tiller of the soil", for purposes of expropriating or appropriating the property working on the plea that the owner of the property is already the State. Likewise the invasion of science in every branch of human activity—agriculture, industry, irrigation, medicine and administration has

[1] Vidyaavinaya sampanne; Vidyaa dadaati vinayam, meaning, humility brought about, finished or perfected (sampanna) by learning (vidya). Humility is the mark or badge of learning rightly called. The second expression would make it clear when it elucidates that vidya bestows or gives humility (Vidya).

[2] Tasmaath saastram pramaanam te Kaaryaakaarya vyavastitan Jnaatvaa saastravidhaanoktam Karma Kartu mihaarhasi. 16-24. Meaning, wherefore on this mundane plane of Karma (that is, where Karmic rites are enjoined, and there are no such rites in the other worlds of the gods or manes, etc., which is wherefore called Karmabhoomi) the scriptures alone are the guides for you (being repositories of jnana). The pronoun te here is meant to emphasise the fact of birth here. It is to that end that Sastra exists—to declare what shall or shall not be done, by an understanding of which, born on Bhavakanda, you qualify to resulted in strange, and unparalleled incongruities. One such is the discovery held out by scientists that in the not-distant future there would not be sufficicient place on this mundane plane for mankind to live, regard being had to the colossal rate at which it is increasing while another assures us that it is only natural that mankind should increase seeing how science is combating death and disease. But it is common ground that notwithstanding the marvels of science we are far from obtaining happiness which our Scriptures declare ensures peace of mind in this world which is all Brahman and the soul, jiva or atman within is eterernal and changeless.[3] Our miseries arise from bad associations and environment.[4]

Astrology may be described as that branch of Hindu science dealing with the vicissitudes of the jiva in the course of its births and rebirths of this plane, touching on the problem of whence it came, how its present is cast and and whither it may go, briefly throwing some light on its past, present and future, in the background of man's likes and dislikes or as a scientst may call it, the tyranny of the mind over the man. It is a science which deals with our proclivities and predilections, our possible faiths, activities and thoughts, standing above all, as a guide and mentor for a better and happier living. It is a science dealing with the imponderables of life—not a science to help create visible bye-products such as sputniks and H-bombs.

Let me illustrate by some homely incidents in the life of a saint-philosopher whose expositions always carried convictions to the most unconvincible minds, the late Pontiff of Sringeri, Sri Chandrasekhara Bharati Swamiji a veritable living god-on-earth, omniscient and omnipresent. On one occasion a visitor to Sringeri calling on him attempted to switch on an electric fan that was not working for want of power. His Holiness seeming to wonder at that marvel of science asked him whether science had not overtaken Vayu, the Wind-God; Varuna, God of Water; and Agni, the messenger of Gods, by such gadgets. We have made valets of these Gods but "has man been able to create life?" he asked. What about the other side of the question? In harnessing the waters of the rivers for power, is not the scientist destroying life that subsists in water and is he not committing any sin? The queries were unanswerable to the Hindu audience. Once a young man (a Brahmin) was being introduced to the Swamijee as a student of medicine. His Holiness put him the question: "Suppose you make a wrong diagnosis of your patients' ailments and give them a wrong medicine, which kills them eventually. What do your science books say about the sins flowing therefrom? Do they say anything at all?" We are disembowelling Mother Earth to take away priceless wealth of the country to provide ourselves with luxuries and gadgets, satisfy man's ever-increasing wants and desires. Does that make for happy living? Is that what science is meant to teach?

Our ancients knew to "command" the elements. Ravana, we read, did it. Science has progressed in this line at a staggering speed until we are face to face today, with weapons that can be used for landing on planets or to annihilate men and countries in the quest to bring in for the survivors and misfits peace and plenty. Our ancients knew and commanded the asta-siddhies. We read in the latest research studies that there was the sauptika method of warfare during the times of Ramayana followed by the aisheeka method. Aswathama made use of the missile called Brahma Siras to destroy the Pandavas: a digression but referred to show that our ancients also knew science of a sort but looked on it as pseudo-science when perverted as at present. This scienee perverted is operating today in all fields of activity. We proceed to abolish class as it is unscientific and to induct a casteless society in order to create a democratic socialist pattern of society which each one is free to understand as he likes. But in the process more classes and castes are nurtured to divide the country into congressites, communists, P.S.Ps, D.M.K's etc., based on differing ideologies and political animosities, uprooting the very foundations of a welded society, rigidly to deny Sri Krishna's declaration that, from the beginning of creation there have been only four varnas, based on the three gunas and ordained karmas. Let us take another example. In discussing do your moral and religious duties which are appropriately yours swakarma, karma opp. jnaana, speculative religion or knowledge of Brahman. A correct understanding of the words is of the utmost importance to bring home to the mind that Gita is essentially a moksha grantha. But the genius of the Sanskrit language—the language of Gods—baffles understanding, a mere difference in reading and sounding making at times all the difference in thought which again, says a verse in the Gita, is the result of your past training; always requiring of us a Guru to teach and adhikara or authority in the pupils to learn.

[3] Sarram Khalvidam Bramha: This entire creation is Brahman. Jeevo Bhutah Sanaatanah: The aatman is eternal.

[4] Asanga Sangadoshena Satyaascha Mati Vibrahmah: Meaning, the association of the worthy with undesirables or non-or/unworthy results in dosha (expatiatory pollution or defilement). The result of it is mental illusion, confusion, infatuation of mind even in those who are established in truth.

the place of Will in any activity psychologists tell us that, in science, there are several types of decision and they proceed to exolain the nature of voluntary acts as being "a supply of ideas of the various movements that are possible, left in the memory of experiences of their voluntary performances." This is said to be the first requisite of the voluntary life. The Hindu was aware of it long ago but not in the English nomenclature of "glandular secretions", and he put it in a verse[5]. That explains also a common but none-the-less curious experience of all that certain minds are drawn towards unworthy things or deeds and repelled by the really worthy. That is because their power of decision is governed by dhaatus which spring up allowing to what you have already earned for yourself by way of credit or indebtedness. According to another saying[6] from the limbo of past and forgotten things, the deeds of previous births generate forces, in the present, leading one on to link his education, wealth and wife.[7]

All this is certainly not 'science' as they understand it in the West but it is no less than to Hindus and more accurate. The reason is as Dr. Wm. J. Tucker, D.Sc., Ph.D. says,[8] "No scientist belives in any theory until it has been thoroughly tested and experimentally proven". While that may be quite legitimately, without raising any controversy it would be hardly fair for anyone to characterise the various branches of Hindu learning, including astrology, as unscientific or a pseudo-science. The only regret would be that to the Western scientist many things must remain unexplained to eternity if he would only realise that there are many things in life beyond the pale of human intellect or perception or beyond experimental proof and even undreamt of in his philosphy.

Nowadays pseudo-science has come into play more than ever before to puncture a true word, thought and deed and that must be arrested. Diplomacy is pseudo science, par excellence, when words are employed to hide thoughts and feelings. Recently an elder statesman of ours revived the exploded doctrine of burdens or "a white man's burden", while holding forth on the topic of taxation in India. He remarked that it should not be regarded as a burden at all. Taxation on the business community was no doubt heavy, he admitted, but proceeded to justify it by a counter question, "What about the burden of eight per cent of the population borne by me? Who would carry it? Although they were proud of doing so, he went on to observe, "it was not more pride but compulsion of circumstances that made them carry the burden.". In days gone by 'statesmen' there were who also carried on burdens of this and other varieties but they were Kshatriyas who ruled according to Dharma, taking only a fixed percentage of produce from the land but their modern counterpart called Government, spring a scientific concept of it called Communism; in that nothing belongs to the people except some apartments of one's house to live in and extremely personal things which one can call one's own and thereby one is far away from all dharma of our ancestors. But the Communist concept must operate and be put through, once we raise the slogan of a socialistic pattern of society to function through democratic processes in order to bring about a 'Welfare' State. A classless, casteless society is the sine qua non of a 'Welfare' society, gods and religion being jettisoned into the domain of 'personal belief' to come into play only within the four walls of one's own puja or worship room. The process has started off knocking ourselves into shape by democratic forms and institutions to implicitly believe in 'authoritative utterances'. But that way lies danger also, according to one view. "The result will not be good in the long run". Because "the habit of belief in authoritative utterance may be worse in the long run than being wrong in one's own judgment". "A man who will use own judgment has at least fighting chance of discovering his mistake while those who take their judgment from others eventually lose both inclination and capacity for private decision".[9]

The reader may now better appreciate why the Hindu would put his faith in his sacred books and his natural reluctance to take the scientist at his word. Arjuna's judgment on the battlefield was proved to be an erroneous conception. Scientists can only feel their way through test-tubes and laboratories. They can never rise to loftier heights nor reach the levels attained by seers and sages. A scientist who knows how the heart mechanism works can make an artificial contraption to make it go for a time but he cannot make a heart or endow life. That is still the secret of the creator. The scientist cannot make the Panchabhootas nor convert anything made of panchabhootas eternal, says Sage Vasishta. We can demonstrate what a combination of them can make or unmake (panchi-karana). The Garbhopanishad of the sages tells us what goes on inside the womb of a living person without having to open to expose the body to changes incidental to it. This latter passes for science but not the other. That is right enough from the viewpoint of western sciences as the word is understood there but to us who accept sabda or sastra also, as pramana the Upanishadic contents cannot be rejected as unscientific or apramana. For us an act or activity includes whatever is done even by the mind.

The Western scientists may perhaps better understand what, to the Hindu, science or pseudo-science is by looking into the teachings of the Lord in the Bhagavad Gita. The story starts, as we are all aware, with Arjuna's refusal to fight, after having entered the battlefield for it and stationed himself between the contending armies. He advances a number of arguments in support of it, the most important of them being, perhaps, the idea that death means complete annihilation. Two ideas are expounded by the Lord: that the soul or jiva in us is eternal and can never perish and that, on death, the jiva casts off the worn-out casting of its physical frame and puts on a new one, just as we discard our old clothing. This they call pseudo-science! In another place Sri Krishna warns Arjuna that even if he decides not to participate in the battle Arjuna would be forced to fight on account of his innate kshatriya guna. That is again something hard to understand for the alien to Hindu culture. Expressions like "ultimate reality" or a statement that a thing is not true as Siddhanta or what we experience in this world of maya is only phenomenal reality, that Anatma which is drishya is constituted of Maya and its effects can convey absolutely no meaning to the western scientist or to the Hindu who has lost his ancestral heritage. To such a class were addressed Prof. Toynbee's remarks about astrology. We need not quarrel with him for it.

Perfection, either of knowledge or of wisdom, is for no mortal, least of all to the scientist who starts from scratch and deals only with matters anatmic or drishya. In the last chapter of the Gita, at the conclusion of his exhortation, the Lord asks Arjuna: Is your moha begotten or ajnana gone?" To which Arjuna replies emphatically, "Gone is that, my moha, through and by gathering up of my recollections. Thanks to your divine grace. Of placid mind am I. My doubts have cleared and here am I to carry out your commands". In all of us and more so in the scientist's cavity of heart this moha lasts for ever without a guru of the order of a seer or saint.

All this is something difficult to understand: (1) that moha is ajnana which we usally translate as ignorance but is nescience sempiternal, standing in the way of our recollecting the past as a mass of impenetrable darkness for clear understanding. (2) That this clear and correct perception is never for him who has not god's grace (prasada). (3) That such grace is indispensable for man's onward progress towards godhead. (4) That tranquility of mind is a condition precedent for attainment of perfect wisdom. (which we can find only in Lord Brihaspati or Jupiter). (5) That our doubts arise from the tumultous working of mind, living, as we do, in rank material environments impinging on and knocking against our indriyas. (6) That peace is only for him who turns his vision inwards from things outside towards the Atman within. (7) That this is not possible of achievement by unaided effort. (8) And it is for him only who believes in the Lord's word a gnani day in and day out living a life of guna and karma imposed on him.

The Vedas are not man-made. Jyotisha or astrology is a limb of Veda–Vedanga. It is as much science as any other but only to those who believe in the Veda, it is nothing extraordinary. That those who do not believe in the origin of Veda should characterise it as pseudo-science or pooh-pooh in contempt.

Relative Influences of Sun-Mercury Combinations

BY K.T. VISHWANATHAN & S. DURGA PRASAD RAO

IN the present communication the authors have exclusively studied the relative importance of Sun–Mercury combination and its influence on the horoscope on the basis of some practical illustrations and theoretical background. Only four lagnas namely Mesha (Aries), Vrishabha (Taurus), Mithuna (Gemini) and Karaka (Cancer) are fully discussed in this paper with suitable examples.

General

According to B. V. Raman "astrology is the science of planets which records the influences on terrestial phenomena" The influences of planets on man can be conveniently classified under three headings, i.e., physical environments, mental peculiarities and spiritual aspirations. The systematic influence of planets on man can be grouped together in the horoscope on the basis of time of evolution. For casting an horoscope of a man, time, place, and date of birth are necessary elements without which it is not possible to predict the planetary influences. The combination of planets indicates special significance in the horoscope and is named as yogas. Here we will discuss the significance and influence of Sun–Mercury combination in the horoscope. First the characteristics of the Sun and Mercury in general are as follows :—

Characteristics of the Sun:— The Sun is the source of all energy and hence the most powerful of all planets. According to Allan Leo "the Sun represents the individual, his moral and higher mental expression". It further represents courage, valour, royalty, father, right eye, gold, east, etc. The nature of the Sun is malefic and male. It is an indicator of political power, doctoring capacity, self reliance, philosophical tendencies, and patrimony. etc.

Bheeroothpanna Manushyaloka Chathurasrasthiprathapasthrinam.

—(Uttarakalamrita, Ch. V. Sloka 23)

It means that the Sun indicates soul, energy, acute intellect, forte, power, fire, heat-effect, courage, worshipper of Lord Shiva, thorny trees, royalty, old age, land, father, taste, knowledge (spiritual), fear, rectangular shape, bones, popularity, etc.

Characteristics of Mercury:— Mercury as the name suggests denotes sparkling intellect and reasoning power of a high order, scholarship, command over tongue, truthfulness, playground, industry, relations, tact, uncle, nephew, relationship, friendship, trade, north, etc.

—(Uttarakalamrita, Ch. V. Sloka 36)

It means that Mercury indicates presiding diety, education, horse, good mathematician, good speaker, architect, astrologer, pilgrimage, sweet talking, temple, trade, philosophy, maternal grand father, learning maternal uncle, mantra, yantra, and tantra, etc.

Discussion

The combination of the Sun and Mercury has been named in Hindu astrology as Surya Budha Yoga and the characteristics which have been observed in the practical horoscopes by the authors are discussed here. Now we will describe the relative influence and importance of the Sun–Mercury combination in reference to the first four lagnas in different Bhavas :

Kethu	Lagna Moon
Mars	RASI Date of Birth 29-12-22 A Dist. Magistrate
Sun Mercury	Venus	Jupiter	Rahu Saturn

This is the horoscope of Mesha Lagna and the Sun–Mercury combination is seen in the 9th house. The characteristics are;– wealthy, god-fearing, enjoys confidence of superiors, affection of parents (Sun) and learned, good speaker, efficient, disciplinarian, well behaved (Mercury), etc.

Here is the combination of the Sun (lord of 5th house) and Mercury (lord of 3rd and 6th house) in the 9th house. Thus this combination shows that the man must be powerful and mighty. He was a commander in Military in the beginning due to this combination. Later he became the District Magistrate only due to this combination in the 9th house where Mercury is in the seat of Nyaya-sthana (justice). Here the readers should clearly understand that being lord of 6th Mercury is not defective, because he is situated in the house of his friend. Mercury is an imprint of being an astrologer, and this man possesses a good knowledge of and belief in astrology. The Sun in the 9th house is appreciable and the characteristics are as under:-

Vidhigathena Nathe Sathyavadheem Sukeseem.
Kulajana Hithakaree Devaviprasurakthaha
Prathama Varyasarogee Yowanasthairyayuktha
Bahuthara Dhanabhogee Deergajeenee sumuthreem.

"When the Sun is in the 9th house the man will be truthful, beautiful, religious, courageous in young age, rich, long-lived, happiness with wife and children etc. All these qualities are present in the above horoscope, which has been practically observed by the authors. The sub-period of Mercury in the major period of the Sun has offered him enough pleasure, happiness and affection of father.

Here is a combination of Sun–Mercury in a Vrishabha lagna case. Both the planets are in lagna itself. This is the combination of the Sun (lord of the 4th house) and Mercury (lord of 2nd and 5th) in lagna itself. Due to this the man is famous for his learning and possesses good academic distinctions. He is having his own house and children. For Mercury it is said that:—

SanthoVaheethassuthaSamudhaso Narassadhabara
Parothidheeraha Vidwan Kalagna
Vipulathmajascha Seethasam Soono Janena Thanustha.

—(Jathaka Marthanda)

"When Mercury is in lagna the man will be gentle, intelligent, learned and good natured". He is a good doctor in Madras. Practical experience has shown that this combination of the Sun –Mercury in lagna or the 5th house is the sign of becoming a doctor.

Here is the combination of Sun–Mercury in the 3rd bhava from Mithuna lagna. Mercury being lord of lagna is situated in the 3rd with the Sun. Mercury is the lord of commerce and hence the man is a big merchant in Hyderabad and he is powerful, intelligent, educated and possesses a good nature. The major dasa of the Sun started after 28 years of his age and during that period he was happy and successful in all affairs.

No. 4 is the horoscope of a Cancer lagna person and the Sun and Mercury are in the 6th house. The Sun is the lord of 2nd and Mercury is the lord of the 3rd and 12th and the combination is in the 6th.

The present major Dasa in this horoscope is that of Mercury. As soon as Budha dasa started he became the Deputy Minister and in the sub-period of the Sun he became Finance Minister and he will have more higher chances of success in future. The Sun is very prominent and the qualities are as under:—

The Sun in the 6th house ensures permanent happiness, capacious in defending enemies, owner of vehicles, and makes the man king or minister". Thus the Sun and Mercury are both powerful and notable in this horoscope.

Vocational Determination

BY DR. JAGANNTHA RAO, M.B.B.S., M.A.A.S.

THE 10th house is no doubt of primary importance in assessing the tendency of a native towards any profession. There are, however other houses also which have a great say in the matter: for instance the 4th and 5th houses. Besides applying the usual astrological principles to determine a native's profession, the astrologer must take into account the circumstances of the native as well. Generally speaking the following points are to be considered :

The nature of 10th house; the planet or planets posited therein; the lord of the 10th house, his position and nature; the 5th house and its lord; the 4th house and its lord; the Karaka planets and Atmakaraka planet; the planets causing Raja yogas; the strongest planet in the horoscopes; the navamsa position of lord of tenth; and the planets aspecting the 10th house.

The above are but only a few important points. Apart from this the Lord of the lagna and planets in Lagna also have a say in the matter. Thus an astrologer must intelligently balance all these points before venturing his prediction. Here one thing must be remembered and that is the strength of the lord of tenth. If he has no strength or if afflicted, then the native will not perform his duties properly and will suffer humiliation and punishments in his profession.

For any position of command and power Sun and Mars should be well-placed and strong. Jataka Parijata declares that "When the tenth bhava from the rising sign is occupied by a benefic planet, the fame of the native will last as long as Moon and stars last !" (Adh. 1–Sl. 119). The same authority takes into account the 2nd house also in some cases to determine one's profession. For instance Adh. —Sl. 81 to 84 may be referred to. And Phaladeepika declares that if 10th house is occupied by Mercury the native will be successful in whatever career he throws himself (Adh. 8. Sl—13). But the astrologer will cut a sad figure if he were to take these dictums on the face-value of a horoscope. As stated we have to take into account all the principles laid down for the consideration of profession. Perhaps determining one's profession is one of the most difficult problems of an astrologer. Whereas it might be possible to predict the nature of profession a native might follow, it is always difficult to give the exact profession.

When considering the profession of a particular individual it is not enough if we simply hint at the possible avocation. We should be able to say whether a person will be able to stick to that job all the while, or he is likely to change his profession often. This point is really very important, for, many of us will be anxious to know if our present job will last. Besides the nature of services also could be hinted, such as whether it would be a touring job or stationary, etc. Thus you will see that after all predicting one's profession is not that easy. I found the Nadi principles very useful and reliable in predicting whether a person would stick to a certain job. I will elaborate this point shortly.

Broadly speaking the profession a native might follow can be hinted at by considering the nature of 10th house and the planets posited therein. The signs and probable profession indicated by them are mentioned as under :

If the 10th house is Aries, Leo, or Sagittarius the native is likely to be connected with army, surgery, or factories.

If the 10th house is Taurus, Virgo, or Capricorn, the native might follow the profession of agriculture, gardening, farming, trade, stock exchange, salesmanship, etc.

If the 10th house be Gemini, Libra, or Aquarius, the native might be connected with files. mathematics, engineering, clerks, advisors, steno-typists, etc.

If the 10th house be Cancer, Scorpio or Pisces then the native will be connected with hospitals, navigation, hotel keepers, wine merchants, sailors, water works, nurses, etc.

Sun rules over executive posts, high government jobs; Moon governs over pearl merchants, navigation, sailors, wine merchants; Mars governs over surgeons, generals, weapon dealers, etc.: Mercury governs over writers, clerks, lawyers, astrologers, journalists, book-sellers, insurance agents, etc. Jupiter governs over priests, temple attendants, judges, professors, ministers, pandits. Venus has influence over artists, songsters, painters, dancers and other fine arts; Saturn governs over coachmen, policemen, coolies and menial work. Judicial service is also indicated by this planet. Saturn in 10th house gives meteoric rise in career, but at the same time it brings him down also. Jupiter singly in 10th house gives ministerial service. Mars in 10th if exalted will confer great authority over the subject.

NOTABLE HOROSCOPES

By B. V. RAMAN

A reliable guide to Practical Astrology

This does not contain startling predictions and amazing forecasts. But it is the product of investigations and studies by the Author presented here in an orderly and specific form but in simple language easily understandable by the average readers.

One is born a beggar but becomes a ruler. One is born a ruler but becomes a begger, How and Why? What combinations make one a Scientist, Physicist, Chemist, Botanist, Poet, Politician, Statesman, Artist, Murderer, Dissimulator, etc.

Though several circumstances are the same for the rich and the poor alike, there will be certain astrological peculiarities in Notable Horoscopes (e.g., Tagore, Nehru, Hitler, C. R. Das, Prof. Rao, Einstein, etc.) which are easily discernible and a careful study of which would enable one to acquire that practical knowledge and experience which is otherwise impossible.

This work shows that birth date and time are of supreme importance as determining not only character but also eventful periods of life.

The book contains the horoscopes of notable persons—their birth data, planetary positions, Dasas and Bhukthis in which important events have taken place in their lives. Then the various combinations which have produced different types of great men are carefully analysed with a view to showing to the readers, the practical application of Raja Yogas, Daridra Yogas and the like. The book also demonstrates the truth of Vimshottari Dasa.

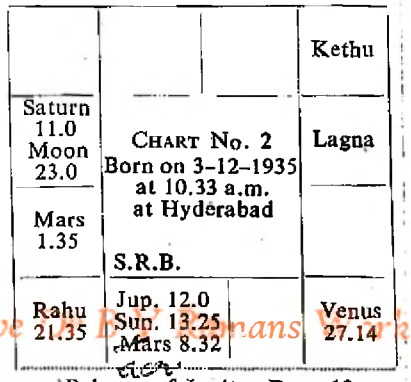
Apart from 10th house it is usual to consider the 2nd and 11th houses also for financial stability, the above being the general considerations when predicting the nature of profession. I however attach much importance to that aspect of prediction which shows whether a native would follow the same profession throughout or is he likely to change it for better or for worse. For we have seen many a school master becoming namlatdars, and clerks ending their careers as soldiers! How would you account for this? Some might say that a person would follow as many professions as there are planets in the 10th, concurrently or one after another. But this simply cannot work out. I have a number of horoscopes which have more than two planets in the 10th and still following the same profession as they first started with. Here comes the influence of Dasa system, which again will be judged from Nadi rules, i.e., considering the constellations of Dasanatha.

I would like to give some more details about this method. Suppose a man starts his career in Moon's dasa as a doctor. What will happen when the period of Moon ends. If Mars happens to be in the house of Moon or is in its constetlation or if associated in any manner, then the native is definite to continue in the same profession. Otherwise he will stop his practice and start a shop of surgical instruments! In the same manner for any other profession, we have to consider this all important factor whether the consecutive Dasa lords are mutaully on good terms or are associated with each other in some manner. If not you can be sure that the subject will change his profession to that indicated by the operating planet. For instance I would quote just one case. This is the horoscope of a man who had to change his profession many times or rather he was made to change! While considering the continuity of profession we should see if the consecutive lords are mutual friends or enemies, then also a change in profession is indicated. Satyacharya (vide Jataka Satyacharya) says a person may enter a certain profession in the sub-period of a yogakaraka planet or a benefic planet, but with the onset of a malefic sub-period he may be discharged from service. Thus we have to look into all these points before we can predict about the continuity.



Balance of Venus Dasa 10—4—0

The native of Chart No. 1, started in a certain career in Moon's dasa. But as soon as it came to a close, he had a break in service and had to enter a different kind of job in Mars dasa. He continued for some time in Rahu dasa also in the same job. Note Rahu is in the constellation of Venus; and Venus is placed in Vrischika a sign of Mars. But in Sun's antara he was again thrown out of job, and had to remain for some time without any job. But he was soon employed in quite a different job. Note Sun has no relation with Mars or Venus. Now in the forthcoming Guru dasa he is thinking of making money in a different way. Thus you can see the patterns of constellations affecting his career.

Sometimes the usual principles fail to give correct result, and we have to make use of Jaimini principles also. Thus an astrologer must be well-versed in all the methods as propounded by various Rishis.

I will quote here just one case to show how baffling is the question of determining one's profession.

Balance of Jupiter Dasa 12 years 4 months 24 days

This is a typical case which has truly baffled many an astrologer. The 10th house lord is exalted in Makara. And he is also in vargottamamsa. So naturally one would be inclined to say he would follow a profession indicated by Mars. And again note Saturn is aspecting the 10th house. On further examination you will see that the exalted tenth lord Mars is aspecting the 10th house which is his own sign. So strong is this point that a simple astrologer was easily misled when he predicted that the native would become a police officer (influence of Mars and Saturn). Saturn is in his own house and aspecting the 10th house. Even if you examine the horoscope from the angle of Lagna, you will see that exalted Mars is aspecting it. No doubt Jupiter also is aspecting Lagna, from the 5th house, and is associated with Mercury. If you take these things into account you may be of the opinion that the native must hold some important and executive post. One astrologer as I mentioned had predicted that he would become a police officer, and another told him he would certainly hold an executive post. But what you think he is now by profession? A musician! An exalted Mars owning 10th house and aspecting his own sign (tenth) as well as Lagna could not have allowed him to become a mere musician. Now what is the secret of his profession. If you examine Venus a karaka for fine arts, you will find him in 3rd house, apparently having no say in the matter. But applying Jaimini's principle we will see that he has become the Atmakaraka planet. And Mars has the bhoga of only one degree and 39 minutes, just a child indeed. And yet he did influence in his career, in the sense that the native has to use different kinds of musical instruments. Thus the influence of Mars and Venus combined made him follow the present profession, which on first sight is rather very difficult to say.

Varaha Mihira the celebrated author of Brihat Jataka departs from the other authors while describing the probable professions. He gives simple combinations of two planets to produce different professions. For instance when Sun and Moon conjoin they produce a machine or a mason. Thus two different professions are indicated by this combination. This can happen only on an Amavasya day or near about it. Sun in conjunction with Venus makes the native earn on stage, and the combination of Sun and Saturn makes for a potter. In the like manner he has given indications—for other planets also. The much discussed Moon and Mars combination going under the name of Chandra-mangala yoga, is in reality not so bad as some authors seem to make of it. As a matter of fact this combination is one of the most common things to be met with in a horoscope. In my experience I have seen men with such a combination to be of great administrative capacity. Of course in all such cases the natives are very passionate, jealous, and amorous in private life. I did not come across with a single native having this combination "dealing with women or selling women" which probably means a 'middle man' for which the position of Venus must in all cases be studied. For it is this planet which is responsible for the 'taste' of a person. And unless this planet is afflicted or posited in the house of Saturn such a profession cannot be caused.

In short I would add that a thorough study of the horoscope of a child is of immense help to parents to put the child in the right direction. I would go to the extent of saying that it is absolutely necessary for parents to get an expert opinion on this subject, if they want to avoid 'misfits' and complications arising there-of.

THREE HUNDRED IMPORTANT COMBINATIONS

BY B. V. RAMAN

This is not a collection of combinations but a careful selection of just the most important ones which cannot be easily identified in a horoscope.

What makes one a dunce? Why is one unhappy, what makes one poor and the other rich? Why one has no bodily comfort—what makes one a King or an equal, a leader, a business magnate, an industrialist, a great politician, a pauper, a sickly man and a miserable wretch? What makes one attain success without much effect and what makes the other to meet with disappointment in life inspite of his very best efforts?

A study of this book will enable you to easily judge the worth of your own horoscope and adjudge its merits and demerits.

A book of this type containing a collection of rare combinations some of which are special yogas has never been published before.

The author has illustrated the principles with innumerable horoscopes from practical lives. Do not fail to read this book.

The Lunar Year Vikari—A Retrospect and Prospect

BY B. LAKSHMINARAIN RAO, B.A.

THE last Vikari when Prof. B. Suryanarain Rao, my late revered father was a leading lawyer of the Bar in Bellary and was editing the III Volume of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE, brings to my mind many a good recollection of those days. The first plague began its havoc in a terrific way. Bellary was surrounded on all sides at a distance of 4 miles by plague, but there was not one case in Bellary, due to my father's efforts in convincing the English Collector of the beneficial results of Santhies and getting them done for 48 days by 48 Brahmins. The Collector and other dignitaries were all present at the time of Purnahuti and partook of the Prasadam. One of the most important books by Prof. Rao in that year, viz., Vikari and Its Prospects (unfortunately not even one copy is available) contained very valuable astrological information. The conjunction of 7 planets on 18–11–1899 (except Moon and Kethu) foretold many events of international significance. It was the year in which Prof. Rao was forced to leave Bellary for good. For his Janma Rasi (Mesha) the conjunction of seven planets took place in the 8th and Prof. Rao considered this an indication of Apamrityu in his own case. And this forecast was fulfilled. While driving his dog-cart himself, he was jerked out of the cart and fell in front of the horse. He therefore left Bellary with his family and remained for 4 months at Koratagere, where he got remedial measures performed for his sake and overcame the bad period and changed his career to being a pure astrologer and took up astrology as his main profession from 1900. The last Vikari was mainly responsible to make Prof. Rao leave his lawyer's practice and become an astrologer, building up an international fame and giving the neglected and exploded science of astrology, a respectable place and making sceptics open their eyes to the grand truths of this sublime subject.

Prof. Rao's lagna was Vrishabha or Taurus with Sun, Mercury and Jupiter in the 10th and the Moon in the 12th. The last Vikari began on Monday 10th April 1899 at 11-30 a.m. when the planetary positions were thus disposed.

Note the positions in Navamsa where the lords of 2, 3, 5, 7, 10 and 12 are in Karmasthana, while lord 8 and 9 in the 11th is debilitated with lord of 1 and 4 and in Rasi where the lords of 2 and 3 are in 10 while in 2 there is a debilitated planet Mars who has not lost his debilitation are significant. Saturn aspects Lagna as lord of 8 and 9. All these tended to make Vikari one of the worst years at that time. The word Vikari means ugly and it indicates:—

Vikaribhovikaryabdhai
Pittharogadhibhirnarao,
Meghauvarshathisampoornam
Phalabhavethinanyatha.

While the Lunar year actually commenced on Tuesday, the 11th April, the Solar Year commenced on Wednesday the 12th and thus the Cabinet was as follows:

1. King–Mars; Prime Minister–Mercury; Commander-in-chief–Mars; Lord of Vegetation–Saturn; Lord of Grains–Jupiter; Lord of Commerce–Mars; Lord of Justice–Moon: and Lord of Minerals–Venus. The most important planet, the Sun has no port-folio. The year showed its ugliness in the shape of the first plague in India, and in Bangalore, where I was an eye-witness at that time, the horrors of the plague could be better imagined than described. People while walking would fall down and die; the lord of 8th being in 7th and the 8th aspected by a debilitated Mars and in Navamsa the 8th being aspected by a debilitated Saturn is significant. It was the year of the Boer War, the first step in the fall of British supremacy, when the Boers showed their mettle and made the British feel their power. A study of the year's horoscope gives an idea of what the world would be like and Vikari and Its Prospects by Prof. Rao, gave a very vivid picture. The prophecies that he made then proved true and paved the way for his future astrological greatness.

Let us now see what the coming Vikari has in store for us. We have seen in the 1959 Annual

Number of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE the able forecast of Prof. B. V. Raman about world events and about our own country. He has been doing this ever since he took up the Editorship of the magazine and his combined knowledge of oriental and occidental astrology, has enabled him to make very good future predictions, and no one so far as I am aware during my past nearly 50 years' experience, has ventured like him in the field of world predictions every year and at the same time so successfully.

I may differ in some points from the learned Editor in my calculations, as the Ayanamsas that are followed are different. But as the approach to a subject has various paths, it would be interesting to note them. The year Vikari (1959–60) begins on 9–4–1959, Thursday, though the actual entry of the year is on 8–4–1959 at 7–45 a.m., on the 26th of the solar month Meena (Pisces). The following are the planetary positions as per my calculations.

Kethu Sun Moon Mercury	Venus Ascdt.		Mars
	CHART NO. 2 Lunar Year Vikari 1959—1960 RASI
Saturn	Jupiter		Rahu

			Rahu
Sun Moon	NAVAMSA
			Saturn
Venus Kethu Ascndt.			Mercury Jupiter

Lord of Ascendant aspects 6th, 9th and 10th houses and lord of 10th is in the 12th from his house. Venus as lord of 2 and 7 is in the last degree of Aries in Lagna which is in a Sandhi. His movements indicate poor crops and high prices; income would be less, while expenditure would be heavy and people indulge themselves in sensual pleasures. Robbery would increase and fear of thieves would be prominent; the lower classes would come up and assert themselves too much.

Jupiter in the 8th and travelling in 3 signs this year indicates loss of nearly 70 million people in the world during this year Vikari. Between October and December 1959, the strained relationship between India and Pakistan, would assume a serious turn. Saturn is in the 9th (Bhagyasthana) and as lord of 10th and 11th, he will cause draught and brake up the friendly relationships of powerful rulers, and all the Big Powers would try to test their respective strengths and thus cause fear, anxiety and scarcity in their countries. In India, Punjab, Kashmir, Orissa and Bengal, would suffer more than other parts. Bihar suffers terribly especially when Saturn is moving into Purvashada, i.e., from December 1959 to March 1960. Other countries to be affected are Western States of Africa, Egypt, Germany and Russia; and in India, Madhya Pradesh, Sourastra, Rajaputna and Sindh. Rains would be whimsical and fall where they are not wanted and there will be no rains where they are wanted.

There would be no eclipses, so far as we are concerned. The planetary cabinet differs in some respects from what the Editor has given in the 1959 Annual Number.

The planetary cabinet according to me is thus disposed: King or Raja—Jupiter: Commander-in-chief or Senadhipathi the Moon; Controller of Grains or Dhanyadhipathi Mercury; Controller of Commerce or Arghadhipathi the Moon; Controller of Clouds or Meghadhipathi the Moon; Controller of Metals or Nirasadhipathi Jupiter; Prime Minister or Mantri Mars; Controller of Vegetation or Sasyahdhipathi Venus; and Controller of Juices or Rasadhipathi the Sun.

Both the King and Minister are benefics and the Moon gets four portfolios; and the Sun and Mars are excluded as per THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE.

The exclusion of malefics is a good point and there would be ¾ good crops for the year. Rains would be timely and there will not be much change in the present rate of articles. Very heavy rains cause damage in the N. E. parts of India. Politics will have to face serious problems, and the Indian Government will face serious trouble during the last quarter of 1959. The prices of gingelly seeds, oil, jaggery, salt and juicy substances would go down very much; gold and gems, arecanut, cotton, leather, etc., will fall down in prices. The proportion of population increase and death is 9 to 17. Thefts on a large scale would be seen while the police would be helpless and trace only 5% of the thefts. Happiness would be less by 25% than misery. Deaths due to reptiles and animals would be great. Brahmins would suffer more than the others as also the labouring class. Simha, Thula, Kumbha and Meena Rasi people would fare better in political and official circles than others. The first quarter of 1960

Prospects for India

BY B. SURYA PRAKASH

IN this article an attempt has been made to indicate the future events that are likely to befall the country, on the basis of a general survey of the horoscopes of the Indian National Congress, Indian Independence and Mr. Nehru.

It is a pretty long time (nearly 75 years) since the Indian National Congress was formed. Thanks to the auspicious moment chosen for the opening session of the Congress, it has been able to survive many blows and thus become a ruling party of one of the biggest nations in the world—India. Inspite of the moral drawbacks which it has been exhibiting of late, Congress is still the ruling party practically with very little opposition.

The organisation first came into existence, in a humble way through a small session held at Bombay.

Lagna			Saturn
Kethu Venus	CHART No. 2 RASI

An examination of this horoscope reveals many interesting points. The rising sign is in the last degree of Pisces and hence Vargottama. The lord of the ascendant Jupiter is in 7th in association with Mars (lord of 2nd and 9th), and conjunction with Moon (lord of 5th) thus forming a formidable yoga. Besides, being Vargottama, the ascendant gains much strength as it is aspected by the above mentioned three planets, viz., Jupiter, Moon and Mars, forming a Raja Yoga. Pisces rising with Saturn's aspect makes the organisation, at its beginning stages, a democratic party. The situation of Ascendant, its lord, and the good position of lord of 8th in 11th in a friendly sign within the orbs of a trine aspect of Jupiter, lord of the ascendant, has given the organisation a long life. Another characteristic feature of this horoscope is the position of Chandra Lagna in Virgo, which incidentally is the ruling sign of India. The situation of 2nd and 9th lord Mars along with Jupiter (Dhanakaraka and Lagnadhipati) and Moon (lord of 5th) has no doubt shown that the organisation would never be in need of funds: but the same situation of 2nd lord Mars in a maraka-sthana coupled with an inimical place

Lagna Moon	Jupiter		Kethu
Mercury Saturn	NAVAMSA
Mars			Sun

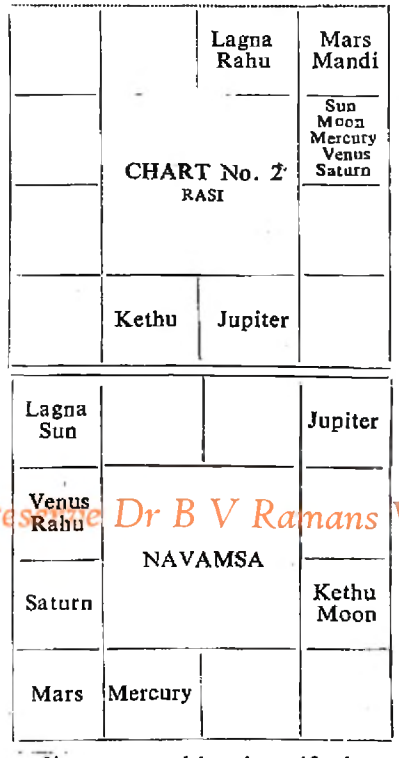
along with the temporary malefic Jupiter (on account of his angular lordship) has resulted in the funds being wasted in undesirable ways also. The present disintegration phase of the organisation is accounted for by the powerful aspects of Mars and Saturn (lord of 12th) over the 10th house and Ascendant.

The other notable yogas of this chart are the Gajakesari Yoga (involving Lagna, 5th, 7th and 10th houses); Chandra-mangala Yoga (involving 2nd, 5th, 7th and 9th houses); Guru Mangala Yoga (involving Lagna, 2nd, 7th, 9th and 10th houses); Parivartana between Mars and Mercury involving 7th and 9th lords and finally the powerful Adhi Yoga caused by the situation of Venus in 6th from Moon involving 11th house. It may be observed that the stress involving these yogas has been laid on very important houses, namely 1st, 2nd, 5th, 7th, 9th, 10th and 11th thus allowing full scope for the yogas to operate. But there are equally powerful baneful yogas also. These may be seen in Parivartana between Mars and Mercury from Chandra Lagna involving Lagna and the third, the situation of political planet in the 10th afflicted by two powerful malefics Mars and Saturn; affliction of the 11th lord in 4th house by the 6th lord Sun; affliction of the 6th house by Rahu and the sixth lord Sun by the 12th lord Saturn, etc. These yogas are powerful enough to vitiate the good points of the horoscope. Though the Sun is in 10th house afflicted by Saturn and Mars, it has also made the party democratic. The same aspect also supplies the answer for the party moving away from its laid out principles in undesirable routes, now and then.



It will be noticed that Indian Independence was obtained during the sub-period of Sun in the major period of Saturn in the Congress Chart. Sun, the Rajyakaraka, is in 10th aspected by Saturn, the planet of democracy. Saturn, it will also be seen, is the ruler of 11th (house of gains) and is situated in the constellation of Rahu, who is well placed in the royal sign Leo in the 6th house (a good upachaya house for a malefic). But since Sun also receives the aspects of Saturn (as lord of 12th or house of losses), and Mars the planet of violence, the Independence came after a good deal of suffering by Indians and only after the splitting up of the country into two units, India and Pakistan. Again the death of Mahatma Gandhi took place under the same directional influences. Sun, the sub-lord owns 12th from Moon and 6th from Lagna and is aspected by Mars, who besides being a maraka from Moon (as he owns 3rd and 8th houses therefrom) is also a planet of violence. Hence the death of a political mass leader by violence was inevitable. With the entry of Saturn into Libra which happens to be the 8th from Lagna and 2nd from Moon (sadesathi), the disintegration of the Congress Party commenced with outbursts of corruption, fight for power. etc. Thanks to the transit of Saturn and Rahu in the 3rd from Moon, the Janma Rasi, the Congress won the general elections of the country. At that time the major and sub-periods of Mercury were in operation. Mercury as both the major and sub-lord, owns the 4th and 7th from Lagna, has obtained Parivartana with Mars, lord of 9th (house of fortune or general luck) and is in the 9th from Lagna and 3rd from Moon. Besides being in his own constellation Jyeshta, he occupies an upachaya position from Lagnadhipathi Jupiter. All these enabled Mercury to confer a win on the party in general elections. But because he also owns 7th (opposition) Congress had to lose many seats in various State Assemblies and Legislatures.

At present the horoscope is having Kethu Bhukthi in Budha Dasa. Kethu is in 12th and is in the house of Saturn, and in the constellation of Jupiter. It will be noted that Saturn is lord of 12th afflicted by the Sun lord of 6th, and Jupiter occupies a marakasthana, besides being himself a maraka on account of his angular ownership and association with Mars lord of 3rd and 8th from Chandra Lagna. Hence throughout Kethu Bhukthi, corruption, bitter fights for power, lawlessness etc., inside the party circles can be clearly visualised. But the sub-period of Venus in the major period of Mercury will be highly significant. Though Venus is in 11th in a friendly sign, he is much blemished as he owns 3rd and 8th houses, and is in the constellation of Mars, who besides owning 3rd and 8th from Moon, occupies the 7th, another maraka-sthana from Lagna. These dispositions of Mercury and Venus as major and sub-lords point to the scandals in the organisation involving prominent men and women, as also further disintegration of the party, and deaths of one or two prominent persons now occupying exalted positions in the country. It will also be seen that an elderly statesman, at present holding a very high place in the affairs of the country, is having the major period of Mercury, a maraka, (Sagittarius is Lagna) along with the sub-period of another maraka planet-Saturn. There is also the transit of Saturn in the 8th from radical Moon (of the said horoscope) in the ascendant over the radical places of Mars and Mercury in opposition to its own place in the 7th. These confirm the anticipation given above about the passing away of some leading party members.

Taking the Indian Independence horoscope (Chart No. 2); Though Taurus is rising, Saturn is not a yogakaraka for this horoscope as he owns 10th and 11th houses and not the 9th and 10th houses. Again though it may appear that as many as 5 planets are in an Upachaya place (3rd) actually with the exception of the Moon, all the others move into the lower meridian with fairly good residential strengths. It would have been an extraordinary combination if these planets had the aspect of Jupiter. The closest aspects on the meridian are those of Saturn and Venus, both the aspects being good—the former's as lord of 10th and the latter's as a natural benefic and Lagnadhipathi. Both the 7th house and its lord are considerably toned down by the presence and aspect of Jupiter respectively. Even in Navamsa the 7th lord Mars is in a benefic sign aspected by Jupiter. This explains the line followed by our foreign policy makers. It should be noted that Jupiter in the present case is very strongly

The Kaleidoscope

BY YOGIRAJ GEORGE CECIL NIXON

[Under this heading Mr. G. C. Nixon will astrologically comment on important happenings in the world such as political upheavals, natural calamities and train disasters, etc., with special reference to events in India. Mr. Nixon has been a student of Hindu Astrology and Yoga for a number of years. It is hoped that this feature will be welcomed by our esteemed readers. Publication of Mr. Nixon's views does not necessarily mean that the Editor endorses them.—Ed., A.M.]

The Horoscopes of the Indian Cabinet

I am introducing for the first time a composite horoscope of several members of the Indian Cabinet, so far as they are known to me. The birth-data has been culled from the International Year Book and Statesmen's Who's Who, but the data is incomplete as some of the Cabinet's birthdates are unknown.

The advantage of this chart is that it reveals at a glance, the sign position of the planets of each Cabinet member, and from this we can study how each Minister, harmonises or disharmonises with his colleagues, and also from a study of the planetary transits we can deduce which departments of the nation will be the most active, successful or otherwise, during the coming year, provided they continue to hold their present positions. Only three members' birth-times are known to me, and those are Mr. Nehru's, Mr. Krishna Menon's, and Mr. Morarji Desai's. The rest are approximate positions for Greenwich noon on the day of birth. Their Moon's position therefore can be some 6° either way.

A great deal of interesting information can be gleaned from this chart. They all have strong horoscopes in a way; which no doubt has brought them to Cabinet rank, and it should be noticed how many have planets in Cancer and Capricorn, the political signs. Also note how many have planets exalted or in their dignitaries. This can only occur on the Nirayana or Sidereal Zodiac.

Mr. Govind Ballabh Pant, Minister for home Affairs, has the Sun in Leo and the Moon in Taurus, a combination of great strength, which I call the Sri Krishna combination. Although Mr. Pant's Jupiter is on Mr. Nehru's Venus, yet his Mars and Saturn are also on Mr. Nehru's Moon and this suggests they will not always see eye to eye on some matters.

Mr. Krishna Menon and Mr. Moraji Desai are almost the same age and there is bound to be rivalry between them, since Mr. Desai's Mars is on Mr. Menon's Moon. There should also be a mutual admiration and sympathy of ideas between the minds of Mr. Desai and Mr. Pant as they have the Moon and Sun in the same degree of Leo, respectively. So in this way we can easily guess the tendencies and inner currents of sympathy and antipathy within the Cabinet, and this method can be applied to any group of men acting together.

It will be noticed that Mr. K.C. Reddy also has strong stars with Sun, Mars and Mercury in Aries, and should also rise in power and influence. The future rivalry for the Premiership after Mr. Nehru could well be between Mr. Krishna Menon and Mr. Moraji Desai, and as I have mentioned in a previous discussion on their individual horoscopes, I think the prize will go to Mr. Krishna Menon. Mr. Menon could come to power at a time of national emergency. It will be observed that the great eight-planet conjunction in Capricorn in 1962 will fall on his radical Moon! This will be a time of great trouble for India.

As for the indications for the current year, 1959, it will be seen that Mr. Keshava Deva Malaviya, Minister for Steel, Mines and Fuel, will be having the transit of Uranus over the Sun Rad, and Pluto over Mercury, as well as Neptune over Mars, which indicates that the year will be most eventful for him, there will be great changes in his career, much strife, criticism, and controversy. If he retains this Ministry, it suggests that the department of the national economy which will suffer most, will be the steel and mining industry, with perhaps strikes, labour troubles and Communist disturbances. The Bihar, Orissa, Calcutta area may be the sparking point.

The transit of Jupiter in Scorpio favours Mr. Pant, Mr. Nehru, Mr. Menon, and Mr. Karmarkar, and their departments should thrive in 1959.

Prince Phillip's visit to India.

The visit of Prince Phillip, Duke of Edinburg to India's capital cities was something of an occasion. The warm welcome he received from India's millions is just another sign of the world-popularity of this man. It is unfortunate for astrologers, that his birth-time is quite unknown, and hence remarks have to be confined to the position of the planets at Greenwich noon on the day of the birth, which was 10th June, 1921, at Corfu, 35.30 North 20.0 East. (See page 482)

Astrology and Universities in Ceylon

Sir,—The Daily News of Colombo dated 31st January 1959 reports the following discussion in the House of Representatives, vis a vis teaching of Astrology in the Vidyodaya and Vidyalankara Universities in Ceylon.

> Dr. N. Perera, Leader of the Opposition, said that they were not grudging the money that was being allocated to these institutions. He agreed with the MP for Vavuniya that the money set aside was inadequate. But that was not what he had meant to say. He had carefully scrutinised the personnel who had been appointed to the staff of the two universities and he was very worried about it. He pointed out that one university had set up a faculty of Astrology.
> The Prime Minister.—It is a very important science.
> Dr. Perera.—Astronomy, yes. But not Astrology.
> The Prime Minister.—No, both.
> Dr. Perera.—Give me the name of a single university where there is a chair of Astrology.
> Government Interruption.— We have one.
> Dr. Perera, continuing, asked whether they knew who had been appointed to teach Astrology.
> Who? asked several members.
> A person called Lolimbawansa, said Dr. Perera.

From the aboue extracts, you wil see that astrology has been receiving the attention it deserves at the hands of our Government. In the two Universities above referred to by me, astrology has been included as an optional subject, so that one who would wish to enter the University can now take astrology as an optional subject.

Tertiary Directions and Mahabharata

Sir,—I found the rule for the Tertiary Directions also in Mahabharata, XII, 232, 16.—"A month is a day and a night of the manes....." is given not only in the Laws of Manu, I, 66, but also in the above book of heroes of the Indian history. This information I give for the knowledge of the readers of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE.

Both Mahabharata and the Laws of Manu mention the Tertiary Directions (Independent Lunar Directions) first, the Secondary Directions (Independent Solar Directions) in the next verse (Mahabharata, XII, 232, 17; Laws of Menu I, 67). Once more to the general knowledge of the Indian astrologers: (a) German Republic (9th November, 1918) tertiary Sun conjunction Mars conjunction Algol (devil fixed star) firstly since 1918; the 30th January, 1933 (Hitler Chancellor of the German Republic!); (b) Soviet Russia (7th November, 1917) tertiary Sun conjunction Mars conjunction Algol (devil fixed star) firstly since 1917: July 1959.

Week Days

Sir,—The article in your esteemed journal prompts me to mention that there is an ancient pre-Budhistic Temple dedicated to Karthigeya (Skanda) at Kataragama in the Ruhuna District of South Ceylon, where a ceremony of anointing called "Nanamuri" in Sinhalese and "Thirumuluku" in Tamil has been carried on from the very inception more than 2,500 years ago and long before the advent of Prince Vijaya the reputed founder of the Sinhalese Race. The original worshippers were Veddrahs in whose midst Valli is said to have been born and later married to the God. Among the Tamils in Ceylon, it is a common custom to anoint themselves with gingely oil and bathe themselves on Saturdays. Your journal is very useful and instructive. May the Lord spare you for long to carry on the good work begun by your illustrious grandfather.

Kaka Bhujandar Nadi

Sir,—With reference to your letter of the 5th instant communicating a reader's appreciation and request for elarification on certain points of my article, "Some Observations on Kaka Bhujandar Nadi" that appeared in your 1959 annual, I hasten to emphasize that the above article has been written purely from a cultural and research point of view without any political motive or bias towards any party or personality. Hence those who pitch any political interpretation will do so at their own risk for which I am not at all responsible.

Apropos paragraph 3 of the article on which the esteemed reader seeks clarification, namely, the end of the White Man's rule, formation of two Governments under the names of Needhan and Vizhian, epoch-making changes after 12years, followed by a long and beneficent reign called "Ramakalai", the matter was based on some astrological verses that came to my notice just before completing my article. By a study of the verses, I came to understand that they incorporated the views of one Jalandhranar who perhaps might have been an astrologer-saint. It is not possible to say definitely whether the verses refer to the present, past or future Kaliyuga. So I cannot vouch for the accuracy of the predictions contained therein; nor do I dismiss them altogether. It is not possible to understand what exactly the ancient author meant by the terms: "Needhan", "Vizhian" and "Ramakalai".

In so far as I am able to understand the term "Ramakalai" it may mean somewhat a benevolent reign under the leadership of some dynamic personality by name Rama having divine faith. But I do not mean such a perfect and ideal Kingdom of God Rama, as posed by the reader.

Personally, I am inclined to attach some weight to portions of the verses in view of other astrological and astronomical factors like Golaka Yoga of 1962 arising out of a very rare combination of 8 planets in Makara Rasi from which some astrologers apprehend or anticipate world-shaking and world-shaping changes. If coming events cast their shadows before, will Golaka Yoga of such a momentous significance begin to cast its shadow from the ensuing year of Vikari (1959-60) itself?

In this connection a verse in Kaka Bhujandar Nadi with its characteristic poetic exaggerations and esoteric exuberance, hints at extra-ordinary changes in the earth in Vikari (1960). It is not clear which Vikari the Nadi means. Some scholars opine that it may mean 60 years from the preceding Vikari (1899–1900) to the ensuing Vikari (1959–1960). But my own interpretation of the verse from a broader context is that it may mean Vikari, the 5060th year of Kaliyuga which according to Vakya calculations, corresponds to 1959–60 A.D.

If so, will the coming Vikari prove an unsettling year which may mark the beginning of a Great Change foreshadowed by Golaka Yoga of 1962 ringing out the Old?

Bhadra Yoga and Budha Aditya Yoga

Sir,—A fact which in predictive astrology is mostly overlooked is the existence of very few horoscopes with Bhadra Yoga. Bhadra Yoga will make a person a versatile genius, (e.g., Dhanur Lagna with Mercury in 10th). We have to compare with this yoga Budha Aditya and Hamsa Yogas. Hamsa Yoga is that one which exists in the horoscopes of persons like Sankara under whose feet even greatest monarchs prostrated. But the person with Bhadra Yoga will be a versatile genius, giving counsel to kings but not a Sanyasi. Budha Aditya Yoga obtains in the horoscope of Sir C. P. Ramaswami Iyer (published in Three Hundred Important Combinations) and how he was looked upon in Travancore State may be imagined easily by anybody. Recently Sri B.V. Raman (in his article "Planets and Political Careers", published in February 1958 issue of The Astrological Magazine) has come out with a point that Sun-Mercury combustion in Tippu's horoscope is good. He has stated that Jupiter aspects combust Mercury and hence the significance of combustion is considerably lessened. When a planet becomes combust, whether aspect of Jupiter can redeem it passes one's comprehension. The same author has stated in some of his works that if Mercury is combust, no profit can be expected from Budha Aditya Yoga. (Three Hnudred Important Combinations). I expect a correct clarification in regard to this. But a Tamil astrologer says that Mercury (a liquid metal) will have value only when it is in the liquid form and if it becomes solid, Mercury has no value. Accordingly combust Mercury only will give good fruits. This also is to be examined by the readers. In my opinion, Bhadra Yoga may be taken as inferior to Budha Aditya Yoga (with combust Mercury) even though Bhadra Yoga cannot be completely neglected as a yoga.

Significance of Fingers in Palmistry

Sir,—I have read with great interest in March 1959 issue of The Astrological Magazine, the letter of Sri Santhanam from Hyderabad, in appreciation of 1959 Annual Number. I entirely endorse the appreciative views expressed therein. I am very much thankful to Sri Santhanam for pointing out the obvious omission in not dealing with "Sankus and Chakras", in my article on "Significance of Fingers in Palmistry". To recompensate it, I shall contribute articles not only on the same subject, but also on the "Life Line, Fate Line, Head Line and Sun Line," if the Editor is kind enough to permit.

It may be, by the way, recapitulated, that separate articles were written by me on each of the above subjects and published from time to time in The Astrological Magazine.

Thanking you,

Bombay. N. L. Desai.

"An Elusive Horoscope"

Sir,—With reference to my letter under the above caption appearing in March 1958 issue of The Astrological Magazine and the reply given by Lankendra in August 1958 issue I should like to point out that it is regrettable that Mr. Lankendra should have thought it fit in producing private correspondence for publication in the press and to name the subject as "Rammukpotha Boy". It is unfair by the parents of the child. In writing to you I have distinctly said that the boy is from an adjoining house. Mr. Lankendra should have seen it. I have a child born in 1954, but nowhere near the date in question. My interest is only both as a student and a close friend of the parents from our school days. My friend naturally got interested in the prediction. As he did not understand the various astrological terms when the chart is explained, he sought my co-operation in the matter.

The prediction in question was about a child born far away from Colombo in the Southern Province, belonging to very poor parents. If I remember right, a few of the conditions given by the astrologer under which the birth was to take place were the child will be a first born, birth will take place in the south of Ceylon in a hut (Patpatha), there will be a drizzle at the time of birth, etc. All these conditions were fulfilled at the time of birth. Mr. Lankendra further goes on to say: "the astrologer had got hold of a newspaper to make capital out of it". This is again unfair. The statement is being made in a foreign paper, and in a language which the astrologer, perhaps, does not understand. I hold no brief for the man, nor do I know him at all. In fairness to him it must be said that he has made some very good forecasts. He blundered once by relying on the assurance given to him by a very prominent politician in this country during the last visit of H. M. the Queen of England to Ceylon. He is not the only one seeking advertisement in the press to have gone wrong.

It is humam to err, but it is a different matter when people try to frighten fond parents, ignorant of astrology, and lead them to fall into the hand of crooks or even get into debt especially the poorer ones.

Mr. Allan Leo in his Dictionary of Astrology, page 145, rightly says: "It is an Astrologer's duty to advise careful living, proper attention to laws of hygiene, a conservation of energy, and right methods of living, but never predict death".

This reminds me of an anecdote related to me some years ago by an Indian gentleman while travelling in a train from Madras to Bangalore. The substance in short of what he said, if I remember right, was as follows:—In the ages gone by, a professor of astrology looked into the horoscope of his son to choose an auspicious day for him to get married. He saw that the Mangala Yoga was to follow by death the following day. The father explained to the son the serious consequences to follow if he married. The reply of the adventurous youngster was that he must see married life and die. The old Professor was so sure that he invited his friends and relations for the wedding and the funeral at the same time, a very unusual thing to do. The marriage was solemnised at the auspicious hour. The following day the gathering awaited in breathless silence for the fateful moment. Nothing happened that day nor even a week later. The Profeesor was so disgusted with astrology that he made a public announcement that astrology was a black-art; and that all literature on the subject in possession of the family will be burnt. The respect with which this science is held in India was evidenced by the thousands that gathered to witness the pending destruction of valuable manuscripts. After explaining to the gathering the reason for his decision, he approached the heap of books to burn them. A stranger from the crowd cautioned him to be patient as "Gurus" were liable to make mistakes; and suggested that they jointly reconsider the chart to see if a mistake had been made. After an exchange of views it was pointed out by the stranger that though a Maraka is given in the Professor's authority it was decreed elsewhere that the Maraka was not to take place. It was pointed out to him that the failure of the prediction was not due to the fault of the science but due to want of further reading and study. After saying so he vanished from sight. The Professor returned home, a wiser man.

The late venerable Suryanarayan Rao says that there are 400,000 sutras in this vast ocean of astrology. Mr. Lankendra's lifetime is not enough to have approached the subject within reasonable distance for us to have accepted his opinion as Gospel truth. We, therefore, decided to write to THE ASTROLOGIAL MAGAZINE as it is the best journal of its kind within everybody's reach to get a considered opinion on the point.

It will be of interest to the readers of this letter if I invite their attention to two illuminating observations, one by Mihira and the other by the learned Editor as to how mischievous it can be to express one-sided views solely for the purpose of ridiculing another. Ref: A. M. June, 1953, page 471 column 2, line 19—"Still it is clear that all planets can neither be wholly benefic nor malefic for any horoscope; perhaps because life itself is a struggle for all and everybody has greater woes than joys however apparently well placed he may be for all appearances". (2) Ref. How to Judge a Horoscope Part 1, Chapter 1—"Sometimes it so happens that many of the principles of astrology given even in standard works do not bold good in actual charts".

These words will be deposited by the stream of Astrological Research History like grains of gold in the sands of a river.

Reading through Mr. Lankendra's exhaustive attempt to paint a picture of all evil, it is obvious that it is written with a biassed mind. Mr. Lankendra seems to be disappointed that his advice to resort to remedies was not accepted. In fact I did convey your advice. The parents disagreed. The lady of the house let loose the venom of her spleen in a refined and intelligent argument on the basis as to how on earth a human being can be born into this world with nothing but bad as made out by your version. I put it to Mr. Lankendra the following:

You say that there is a heavy Karma in the 4th year (death ?); at the same time you say I have valid reasons for giving the subject 50 years. Where is the consistency of your argument? Further you say that "when Jupiter is in 10th to Sun it is called Guptha Vyirya Drishti bringing "Karya-Nasha, Sangrama, Kalaha, Viwada, Dukka, Soka". Who is the human being who is free from these? The greater the man the more he will face them. Jupiter's 10th position will be discussed later. We are not thinking of a future Arahath.

You want to know if the Lagnadhipathi is in power receiving Subhah Yoga and Subha Drishti. No, the dictum is only a general requirement. There is Subha Yoga but in the absence of Subha Drishti, the Lagnadhipathi can still be powerful. Any defects of the Lagnadhipathi are counteracted by a powerful Chandra Lagna backed by other yogas. At this point it is possible to cut short the letter and take the major planets and your reference to them.

I am sure you as well as others who follow the Nirayana System will agree with me that the learned Editor is an authority on the Nirayana System in the world to-day. I say so with due respect to the others. He must be having in his possession results of research for at least a 100 years from the time of his grand-father. His opinion on a point must be respected. You are entitled to your views.

I agree that there are weak points in the chart as there must be in any chart.

We must bear in mind that we are not discussing the birth chart of an Emperor of a mighty Empire. The prediction is about a future Janadhipathi of a small half-developed country. This is very important.

Regarding the major planets you argue that Saturn is Astha (combustion) and Vakra (retrograde); Venus is Astha (combustion) and Vakra (retrograde); Jupiter is evil as lord of 3rd and 6th houses; Mars is in conspiracy with Jupiter; all planets are enveloped in a so-called Kala Sarpa Yoga which is not even mentioned in the recognised text books; rendering the chart useless as you want us to understand.

Now, vide page 246 A. M. February, 1958, 2nd column top: the learned Editor says: "There are as usual different shades of combustion and combustion being one of the modes of conjunction it cannot be treated as harmful".

It is an established tact that the effect of the combustion (Astha) of Saturn and Venus is lesser than in the case of other planets. They are Astha (combustion) to a weak Sun's rays in Thula. Venus is in conjunction with Sun and the Astha (combustion) has no effect on Venus and Venus being unspoiled is the dispositor of the Rasi where Saturn is placed acting as a safety valve to Saturn. Chandra as Ava-Chandra owning a kendra has made the Chandra-Lagna powerful as the 10th is an Upachaya Rasi. Regarding the Vakratwa (retrogression) of a planet it has been stated that an exalted planet in Vakra (retrogression) gives neecha (debilitated) results but in the Navamsa Saturn has attained Neechabhanga (cancellation of debility) Raja Yoga. The comparison in effect here is like a planet Neecha in Rasi and Uccha in the Navamsa. Saturn as a trine lord has showns signs, I am informed by the parents, of giving good results, as it is now end of the Mahadasa, true to the dictum of Bhavarthia Ratnakara.

Regarding Jupiter let me again refer you to page 248 A. M. Feb., 1951, 1st column bottom. The learned Editor in commenting on the horoscope of the late King George VI whose chart is also Libra Rasi and Dhanu Navamsa with Saturn and Venus in Lagna and Jupiter in the 10th, says: "The horoscope has three important Raja Yogas justifying the exalted position of the native. Saturn's exaltation in lagna causes Sasa Yoga. Venus in lagna causes Malavya Yoga and Jupiter exalted in the 10th gives rise to Hamsa Yoga. These Panchamahapurusha Yogas having reference to lagna and the 10th are indeed an unique feature rendering the horoscope highly fortunate. (In our chart there is an additional Panchamahapurusha Yoga by Mars who is the lord of the 10th from Chandra lagna causing Ruchaka Yoga). Further same page 2nd column bottom he says: "These three Panchamahapurusha Yogas, referred to above plus the existence of two more powerful Raja Yogas, viz., Mercury occupying a Rasi other than Makara, identical with Chandralagna; and the occupation of a Kendra position from the Moon, by the lords of 2nd, 9th, (11th) are outstanding features which rendered the reign of this monarch colourful and unique".

In the absence of the 1st Yoga referred to above the gap is filled by Parvata Yoga in our chart. It is hardly necessary to go furtherl in the face of the learned Editor's observations on a similar position of the main planets Venus, Saturn and Jupiter.

May I, dear Sir, crave your patience for a little more space to pacify those humiliated and anxious parents and tell them that however elementary my version may have been there is no cause for anxiety about Balarishta or any thing else as there is an opposition to what Mr. Lankendra has tried to make out for reasons best known to him.

In addition to the above it must not be forgotten that there are several other Yogas which will contribute a very substantial share to the general strengthening of the horoscope, viz., (1) Rajalakshana Yoga, (2) Parijatha Yoga, (3) Amsawathara Yoga, (4) Saraswathi Yoga, (5) Amala Yoga, etc.

Again, Sir, Mr. Lankendra says: "Jupiter and Mars may be friends but enemies for Thula Lagna, i.e., two enemies of a Thula man conspiring. Elementary Astrology cannot be allowed to have the final word". On the contrary, Mr. Lankendra, elementary or not, our version is now more correct.

Let me again draw your attention to a few more words of the learned Editor regarding the great malefic for Libra subjects you speak of viz., Jupiter. Vide A. M. February, 1951, page 248 column 2, he says : "the situation of Jupiter in the 10th from the ascendant was no doubt the most sustaining factor which stood the native in good stead when Hitler was striking England at vital spots, at vital moments when he was a master practically of the whole of Europe". I knew the value of Jupiter in the chart when I spoke of the brilliancy of Jupiter when I wrote to you about three years ago.

These two little kids known to have been born at this time, when they grow up will have no Hitler in Ceylon to fight against. Our local Hitlers are not so powerful as the German product, the late King of England had to face. Even if the two Panchamahapurusha Yogas by Saturn and Venus are defective still the chart is very substantial. Jupiter's aspect over any planet as a natural benefic is of weighty importance apart from the fact that he is temporarily ill-disposed. Now, I hope, you are convinced that though Jupiter is cited as a malefic in the data given for Thula Lagna it is not everywhere that the rule applies. Mars is the lord of the 10th from Moon. Ruchaka Yoga with reference to 1 and 10 either from the Lagna or Chandra Lagna is strong. They are not within the critical point of aspect. The aspect of Mars on the 10th house further substantiates the position. Vide the learned Editor's remarks on the opposite position of Mars in Capricorn and Jupiter in Cancer (Hindu Predictive Astrology by B. V. Raman page 50).

Regarding the Kala Sarpa Yoga (Vide A. M. July, 1955, page 573—Q. 13 (1) "What is Mala Yoga which is said to reduce the effect of Kala Sarpa Yoga?" Answer : "When benefics occupy kendra houses Mala Yoga is formed. The person born in Mala Yoga will be learned and rich".

Kala Sarpa Yoga is commonly found in many horoscopes of people in all walks of life. They have lived long and held good positions in life. To mention a few :—Gandhi, Nehru, Maria Montessori, Hitler, Mrs. Roosevelt, Jinnah and so forth. I remember reading somewhere that the Kala Sarpa Yoga in the imperfect form with Mars outside the hem is a birth mark of a revolutionist.

Regarding stanza 1234 of Sarvartha Chintamani, it is not for Mr. Lankendra to decide whether Sarvartha Chintamani is to supercede the laws of Brihat Parasara, in view of the fact that the stanza has come under the scrutiny of the vigilent eye of the venerable Suryanaryana Rao. The value of the book lies on the notes given by him.

Lastly Mr. Lankendra says : In the lagna chart lord of 8th to 8th is Jupiter. It is a powerful malefic opposed to another malefic lord of 7 and 2. In the Navamsa chart 8th to 8th is Saturn. It is neecha (debilitation) in Aries 7th to Moon, lord of 8th.

No. Mr. Lankendra, Saturn as Ayushkaraka owning or aspecting the 8th house is good for longevity. The lord of the 8th Moon has no astha (combustion) dosha. The danger point is not here as you say but lies elsewhere. It is in Venus Mahadasa.

What you say cannot be considered as anything serious. You are asking me to study books I have already studied. Though a beginner, I feel like asking you to be so good as to attain a good standard of control of your mind in judging a horoscope and expressing your views. Rishi Vasistha said : "Blessed are the virtuous who have cleansed their hearts from the dirt of ignorance; and victorious are those heroes, who have conquered their insatiable and ungovernable minds"

What you say cannot be taken on the face value. It has to be considered with the Ayurdaya (longevity) and other factors. The Ayurdaya (longevity) in the chart works up to about 76 years. Rahu as a natural malefic is in the house of the lord of 8th to 8th (Jupiter). Rahu is also in the constellation Visaka of Jupiter, thereby taking the full colours of Jupiter In the Navamsa chart Rahu is in association with the lord of 2 and 7 absorbing as a shadowy planet, Maraka influence from Mars. Rahu Mahadasa dawns at about 73rd year. Commonsense will have it Rahu as a natural malefic will be more harmful as regards longevity than Jupiter. A danger point lies in Venus Mahadasa as I said before.

It has been stated by the learned Editor that Venus can cause Maraka to a native in spite of Venus occupying the lagna for Thula subjects. The horoscope of King George VI is one example. Let us see if the same can apply to our chart.

The question of Maraka is not a pleasant subject to discuss nor it is safe to do so. It amounts to senselessness to tell a fond mother such a thing especially when it is a half-considered opinion.

In the horoscope of the late King, Venus, Saturn and Jupiter, the major planets are in the same position with Libra Rasi and Dhanu Navamsa. Venus Mahadasa caused his death. Now, in the King's chart Venus and the sub-lord Saturn assume Maraka power both from the Lagna and Moon in the Rasi chart. Venus goes further and assumes Maraka in the Navamsa as well. It is seen the Lagna Lord assumes Maraka both in Rasi and Navamsa. Moon as lord of the 8th in Navamsa is also placed in the 2nd (Scorpio) with lords of 2, 7, and 12. Hence the Maraka influence in Venus Mahadasa is very strong. Here the two exceptions (1) Venus the lagna lord for Thula placed in lagna and (2) Moon has no asta (combustion) dosha and did not hold good as Venus and Moon assumed Maraka (death) influence both in Rasi and Navamsa.

In our chart it is only Saturn that appears to assume Maraka influence in the Navamsa being 7th to Moon lord of the 8th. This position in the Navamsa chart alone as sub-lord in Venus Mahadasa; Saturn (the Ayushkaraka) is not strong enough for destruction. It is in cases like this that Venus does not cause Maraka especially when all the benefics are in Kendras with a good Ayurdaya or Longevity. It is only when the situated in 7th in his own constellation in the house of Lagnadhipathi (though an enemy), with a shadbala of 5.5 rupas. At the time of declaration of Independence, the balance of Saturn in Saturn was about 14 days. Rahu in Saturn ends on 24–2–1961. Rahu is in close conjunction with the rising degree, and he receives the aspect of Jupiter–in this case an evil planet by his rulership of 8th and 11th houses. So it was not surprising to see that with the commencement of Rahu Bhukthi the planet ruling Muslims, and aspecting the 7th and aspected by evil Jupiter–lord of 8th and 11th houses, Indo-Pakistan's relations reaching almost a breaking point. With the commencement of Jupiter's sub-period, the relations between India and Pakistan may further deteriorate. During the operation of Jupiter's sub-period in the major period of Saturn, the unusual configuration of 8 planets in Capricorn would be occurring very near the meridian point of the Independence Horoscope, denoting a complete change of Government. This configuration also presages the commencement of Mercury's period—a period of much prosperity and enormous scope for the fulfilment of the 5 year-plans as Mercury connected with all these is fairly well situated by both ownership and association.

The disposition of 6th house is extremely interesting. The cusp of 6th falls in Libra—a Venusian sign—and a sign that happens to be the 7th from the sign rising at Karachi during the declaration of Independence. Though the 6th house is neither aspected nor occupied by any planet, good or bad, the 6th lord is considerably afflicted by malefics Saturn and the Sun, the latter being a bitter enemy of the 5th lord. In Navamsa, the 6th falls in Leo, a malefic sign occupied by the Moon and Kethu and aspected by Rahu and Venus, the latter being the lord of 3rd and 8th from Navamsa Lagna, 6th lord the Sun is in Lagna and aspected by Saturn and Mars, the former besides being a natural malefic, is also lord of 12th (house of losses). These dispositions of the 6th house indicate the directions from which the troubles arise, viz., Libra in Rasi denoting Pakistan and Leo in Navamsa denoting France. Since Libra is the 7th from the ruling sign of Britain, and Leo, also indicates Malaya, troubles from these quarters are also not ruled out specially from the latter as it has the aspect of Rahu who also represents communists. In Navamsa the 6th lord is in Lagna without returning the aspects of Mars and Saturn clearly indicating that India naturally never entertains hatred against others, but the same cannot be said of others. With respect to India, the same situation of the 6th lord also indicates that in questions pertaining to French-India territories, India would have to face, troubles from countries ruled by Mars and Saturn. Thus the 6th house, though it looks plain, explains many significant points.

Finally before closing this article, let me have a passing glance at the horoscope of our present Prime Minister Mr. Nehru. This horoscope has been discussed many a time, and I shall confine my remarks to just a few salient points. At present the Prime Minister is having Budha Bhukti in Rahu Dasa upto July 1961. No doubt Mercury is well placed in the 4th in a friendly house. But he is equally afflicted on account of his association with Venus, a malefic for Cancer on account of his 4th house ownership, Kendradhipathya and also as Badhakadhipati (as he owns 11th house for a Chara Lagna). Besides Mercury himself is lord of 3rd and 12th and is in the constellation of Rahu who occupies 12th aspected by Jupiter lord of 6th. Thus it would be seen that both Mercury and Rahu, the major and sub-lords are connected with each other, one by sign situation and the other by the situation in constellation. Both the planets are connected with dushthanas–6th and 12th. As Mercury is the planet of buddhi or thinking, his situation in Rahu's constellation does not give successful terminations to the Prime Minister's plans and ambitions at least during the period mentioned above. The eight-planet configuration occurs in opposition to the Ascendant cum Janma Rasi of Mr. Nehru and these do not promise happy days.

Thus summing up the influences in all the three horoscopes referred to above, the planetary configurations indicate for the next 4 to 5 years, much difficulties both to the country as well as to the Congress organisation, lawlessness, and people being led astray due to want of proper leadership, etc. The fact that at present, Saturn is transitting the 4th from radical moon in the Congress organisation horoscope should be sufficient to warn those holding the party reins, about the disintegration occurring in the party without their knowledge. This coupled with Rahu's transits over the Janma rasi of the horoscope clearly envisage, the predominence of undesirable elements making the best use of the party for their own whims and fancies.

India can hope for a bright future only during the major period of Mercury in the Indian Independence horoscope.

The Sun 25.23 Taurus; the Moon 23.54 Cancer; Mars 0.44 Gemini; Mercury 19.34 Gemini; Jupiter 17.06 Leo; Venus 11.50 Aries; Saturn 24.41 Leo; Uranus 15.59 Aquarius; Neptune 17.58 Cancer; and Pluto 14.12 Gemini.

His visit is supposed to be a non-political one but there isn't any doubt that it confirms certain trends in British and Indian affairs which have been noticeable over the past two years. With the downfall of the Salisbury–Churchill–Eden group in the Suez debacle, new influences began to play upon the British throne. Mr. Macmillan, the British Premier, has striven to reverse the policy of this group, and instead, has sort of a closer accord with India. His visit last year paved the way. But there is another and deeper reason which may explain Prince Phillip's welcome in India—he is a Mountbatten, and Lord and Lady Mountbatten, who have devoted so much of their lives to India, are his adopted parents.

Prince Phillip has his Sun in Taurus and the Moon in Cancer, with Mercury in Gemini. This denotes he has a fine, inquiring mind in tune with the modern age of scientific progress—his quest is ever for more knowledge. He is well aware that our survival in the modern world depends entirely on the advancement of our technical skill and inventive ability and is deeply conscious of the sociological trends of the 20th century. This contrasts unfortunately with the backward-looking glance of his Queen, whose mind is dominated by the anachronistic prejudices of the old, horse-breeding aristocracy.

At the present time, Prince Phillip is having the transit of Uranus over the place of the Moon in Cancer, which suggests its radical place is about 20°–21° Cancer, and that he was born in the morning. This is always a sign of travel, thrilling new departures and experiences, with greater public interest and activity. Thus the influence of the Mountbatten's and the pro-Indian party, are now coming fully into power. Lord Mountbatten, himself was recently appointed supreme commander of the British Armed Forces, by Mr. Macmillan.

It has been frequently rumoured from time to time, that all is not well in the marriage between the Duke and the Queen. It is certainly difficult to imagine how two people with such contrast in upbringing and outlook, could possibly harmonise for any great length of time. In the Queen's horoscope there is going to be a transit of Uranus over the Mars/Jupiter opposition of Neptune in her 7th and 4th houses, during the next two years, and I am sure that this will finally bring out into the open the powerful conflicting political forces at work behind the throne, and which may even jeopardise her marriage.

The Cuban Revolution

The long threatened overthrow of the Batista regime, which was so eloquently portrayed in the 1958 Capsolar chart, with Mars conjunct Saturn on the Descendant of the eastern part of the island, the seat of Fidel Castro's revolt, came to its dramatic conclusion on the 1st January last. General Batista and his higher officers fled with their families to Dominica and joined company with the other exiled dictators Peron and Peres.

The Lib-lunar chart for the 3rd January 1959, which occurred at 8.49 a.m. G.M.T., or 3.21 a.m. local Havana time, clearly portrayed the conditions of public rejoicing, excitement and pillage and the commencement of a new regime, for Pluto was on the meridian, and Jupiter was exactly rising in Scorpio opposing Mars in Taurus, setting below the horizon.

The event also affords us another opportunity to test the rival claims of progressing the cusps of the local Capsolar chart to see which method gives us a better indication of the event. The 1958 Capsolar chart for Havana occurred at 2.18 p.m. L.T. on the 14th January 1958 with a S.T. of 21.52. The Batista regime collapsed in the early hours of the 1st January 1959 which was therefore the 352nd day of the Capsolar Year. The calculation for the Quotidian method is as follows:—

THE TRIAL OF SCIENCE FOR THE MURDER OF HUMANITY—By A. S. P. Ayyar. (The Orient Publishing Co., Madras. Pp. 52. Price Rs. 1.50).

Mr. A. S. P. Ayyar, Retired Judge of the High Court of Judicature in Madras, has written several important works relating to ancient Indian history, philosophy, culture, and so forth, and his literary output has been vastly enriched by his account of a Mock-Trial of Science for the Murder of Humanity, which has now run into its sixth edition, which must suffice to demonstrate the popularity of the work. It would be inaccutate to describe it as a satirical play as some newspaper reviewer has done. It is just description of a trial of modern science for murder of humanity.

The original charge for murder is amended. The amended charge is attempt to murder. There sits a full bench consisting of judges—Philosophy, Culture, and Intuition. But, the Judge intuition seems to me really to merge into Philosophy, and I may not be far out, if I venture to suggest the Bench will have to be reconstituted.

Eventually, the Jury's verdict is that the charge has not been proved and the accusation has not been brought home to Science in the dock.

Science is set at liberty and leaves the dock honourably acquitted. But, the judges have unmistakeably indicated the initiation of security proceedings against Science, should it engage in destructive or subversive activities.

PROPHETS AND SAINTS—By T. L. Vaswani, (Jaico Publishing House, 125, Mahatma Gandhi Road, Bombay. Price Rs. 2.50).

The essays brought together in this handy and attractive volume had been written at various times, and the eminently religious outlook that dominates them, would justify their publication in an independent volume.

Gautama Buddha, Junnuna Misri, Rabia, St. Francis, Guru Nanak, Kabir, Mira, Rishi Dayananda, and Sri Ramakrishna Paramahamsa are the saints and prophets whose teachings are briefly expounded in this volume.

Mira deserves special mention as the most gifted woman saint and singer. It is perhaps one of the inscrutable decrees of Fate that such divine personalities as Mira are thrown into the vortex of matrimony and family-life. Mira secures the needed adjustments to family life and surroundings, but, the entire environment stifles the spiritual expansion of her personality.

Mira's encounter with Jiva Goswami resulted in a rebuff being administered to masculine pride and arrogance. When the Goswami refused to see Mira, a woman, she reminded him sternly that the Supreme Lord Krishna is the only male, and all finite souls are females.

It is remarkable that while some of the modern saints and prophets dabbled in politics, the ancient saints, and seers, philosophers and prophets shunned politics as deadly poison. Mr. Vaswani is particular that his essays should make a special appeal to modern young men and women in schools, colleges and universities.

BAL GANGADHAR TILAK—By T. V. Parvate—(Navajivan Publishing House, Ahmedabad. Pp. 552. Price Rs. 7).

It will be remembered that in 1956, the birth-centenary of Bal Gangadhar Tilak was celebrated throughout the length and breadth of India, and to commemorate the occasion in a fitting manner, the Indian National Congress announced that a prize would be given to the best biography of Tilak in English.

Mr. T. V. Parvate's work was judged the best out of 31 submitted (one of the three best) and the Navajivan Publishing House has brought out the valuable prize-winning treatise which is most authoritative, fully documented, and attractively written with considerable literary charm and grace. In the course of "Preface", the author has declared the claim that "this biography is a dispassionate account of Tilak's life. It is for the readers to judge if and how far the claim is justified and supported,

There are thirty-three chapters, which deal with the different events and aspects of life and personality of Indian political evolution. Tilak's life was a stormy one in more than one sense. He was an indomitable political fighter for Swaraj, which, he declared is the birth right of every individual. He was a great journalist, and above all, he was a keen student of ancient Indian literature and systems of philosophical thought.

The most important, and somewhat controversial is the 32nd chapter entitled "Tilak and Gandhi". (Pp 510—30) in which the author has undertaken a comparative estimate of the ideology and methodology of both. The author introduces himself as never having been an unreasoning admirer of Tilak, the hero of his biography. The author seeks to maintain that the popular view has been that there existed some opposition, antagonism, and incompatibility, between Tilak and Gandhi, but, he has rejected the popular view. He has pointed out that these two prominent personalities of Indian politics, agreed in essentials and fundamentals, basic needs of the people and so forth,

It is not possible to accept the estimate of the author in toto. It is only too obvious that both Tilak and Gandhi were in absolute and perfect agreement regarding the attainment of Swaraj, and the driving of foreigners from the country. But, there is an inherent fallacy in such comparative study and judgment. A personality has to be judged in the light of the environment and the circumambiont atmosphere in which it had to function. When Tilak commenced his fights with the Bureaucracy, it should be recalled that British power was at its highest. When Gandhi commenced his fights, conditions had materially changed.

I clearly see in my mind that between the Mandalay Prison to which Tilak had been consigned, and the Aga-Khan Palace in which Gandhi had been interned, there is an unbridgeable and yawning gulf.

So, I reckon there is a difference, both on the academic and practical planes, between the ideology and methodology of Gandhi and Tilak. Consider, for instance, the reference made by the author to the views of Gandhi and Tilak on Gita. Tilak rightly took the Gita as advocating War as the only pis aller under certain circumstances. But, Gandhi held Gita to teach peace. It would be impossible to attempt any reconciliation between these opposed views.

Or, again, so far as I can make out, Tilak never countenanced fasting as a form of political weapon. Gandhi lagna lord attains Maraka powers both in Rasi and Navamsa with a weak or fair Ayurdaya with Saturn the sub-lord also attaining Maraka influence that will over-ride the Ayushkarakathwa of Saturn and nullify the rule that Moon has no Astha (combustion) Dosha. I have in possession an ancient Singhalese old book which gives this version and which has been found to be correct by me in many similar cases. Saturn has attained neechabanga (cancellation of debility).

Saturn's Bhukthi in Venus Mahadasa is unfavourable to a native. The evil effect of this sub-period to the native directly will be loss of health and position (temporarily). Saturn's Maraka influence will manifest itself, flowing through a different channel, indirectly affecting the native.

The Mangalyakaraka Venus is in the 7th in Navamsa aspected by Saturn. The lord of the 7th in Navamsa (Mercury) has a tinge of destruction as lord of the 12th in Rasi in makara Navamsa (2nd). Saturn aspects both 2nd and 7th houses in Navamsa. Mercury's position in Makara is also bad. In Rasi as lord of destruction Mercury aspects the 7th house. All these indications are likely to affect a future partner in life of the native and not the native's life.

You want to know where the Aristabhanga (cancellation of death) lies. Aristabanga is caused by the position of all benefics in kendras with a good Ayurdaya and secondly, the lord of the constellation in which the lord of the 8th house (Venus) is situated becomes exalted (Jupiter), thirdly, I have no hesitation in accepting stanza 1234 for Bala-Arishtabhanga (cancellation of infant mortality).

At the time I first wrote to THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAGINE in this connection the child was passing through Saturn's Erastaka (7½ years period of Saturn) period in his Mahadasa and on top of it the Bhukthi of a natural malefic Mars. Rahu followed and caused havoc in the house. When I referred to Jupiter's brilliancy I meant that the Erastaka (7½ years Saturn) and the Bhukthis of the natural malefics should be clear before the brilliancy of Jupiter's general influence dawns on the horoscope. It is now clearly seen that Saturn's Erastaka in his Mahadasa is about the worst period in a man's life. I do not remember you to have made any reference to it. But if you say so I will accept it. Anyway, it is not much of a difficult thing to say even for a beginner, leaving aside a man of such learning as you claim to be.

Sir, a fundamental necessity in a leader's horoscope has been amply satisfied in this chart. The lord of the 6th is in the constellation of the Yogakaraka Saturn. Another very auspicious factor is that the 6th, 8th and 12th houses are clear; there are no Dwirdwadasa or Shastashtama positions of planets; nor the Lagna, Lagna Lord, Chandra, Chandra Lagna Lord are hemmed in between evil planets.

I have quoted at length from THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE as it gives a considered opinion on various points and no better reference can be thought of for this subject.

Dear Sir, in conclusion I submit that I am at a loss to enlighten the readers of this letter if the astrologer who made the prediction is in possession of any ancient Sinhalese literature to substantiate his version. However, according to the Hindu System I have given you over whelming evidence to prove that Mr. Lankendra has failed to ridicule the man.

Here we find that the only operative transit was Neptune on the 7th cusp, which may account for the flight of the President and the subsequent confusion, but to my find it is not good enough.

The calculation of the P.S.S.R, method is as follows.—

This is highly significant and denotes M.C. conjunction Mars opposition Jupiter in the 4th, and Uranus conjunct the Ascendant. Jupiter had just progressed past the conjunction of the place of the Moon radical in 28.29 Libra, all symptomatic of a popular event: the rioting, destruction and public rejoicing. Mars conjunction the M.C. in Aries is a perfect indication for a revolution. Once again the P.S.S.R. method of progressing the Capsolar chart, seems to give better results.

is likely to see a set-back in the political circles of the Central Government and also in some southern States. On the whole, India would shine much better during this year in international matters.

Here we go again. Playing the game of marrying off Princess Margaret. Mr. William Tucker, the astrologist, announced last night that the marriage of the Princess was being arranged for September 17.

He said so during an interview in a Pathe newsreel, released to cinemas yesterday.

Mr. Tucker, the President of the Federation of British Astrologers, was giving the Queen's horoscope when he said that "The Queen will have to make an important decision concerning the Princess's marriage in May."

Last night at his home at Sidcup, Kent, Mr. Tucker assured me confidently: "I won't be proved wrong. I'm sure of that."

He poured over charts and maps showing the position of the stars and the planets—I didn't notice the recent Russian addition—and from them concluded:

"The Queen's horoscope shows that she will have an emotoinal disturbance in May connected with a personal and family matter.

"I deduce from this she will take a decision concerning the marriage of Princess Margaret.

"The princess's horoscope gives a very exciting year for her. A decision concerning her future will be taken in May.

"Her stars indicate contemplation of marriage and suggest her desire will be rendered effective this year.

"The date of Thursday, September 17, is highly suggestive for the actual wedding.

"The husband she would choose would be assuredly a Mars type—that is influenced by the planet Mars—and in all probability will be a Scorpio—that is born between October 23 and November 21."

Naturally I agreed.

Peter Townsend is such a type. He was born on November 12, 1914.

frequently resorted to it. I do not recall Tilak having ever resorted even to Self-Purificatory Fasts, as I am sure the Lokamanya should have considered himself ever pure, in the service of the Supreme Lord and His creatures.

It is neither here nor there. The British did not quit India, as the result of employment of Tilak-methodology. Nor, did they quit, when asked and challenged to quit, by means of Gandhi-methodology. The British quit India as the result of conditions brought about in the wake of the Second World War. That is the verdict of History and lovers of truth and non-violence should never seek to discountenance or discredit it.

In arriving at comparative estimates of personalities, it may not be safe to be posing any hypothetical questions, but, I would like to ask whether Tilak would ever have agreed to partitioning or political dictomization of the country. On P-539, the author records that Jinnah had great admiration for Tilak, and even after partition warned the Karachi mischief-makers to leave Tilak's statue alone.

Readers will have no hesitation in congratulating Mr. Parvate, on his masterely biography of the Lokamanya. Political work apart, Tilak would long be remembered as author of the Arctic Home of the Vedas, and of the Gita-Rahasya. Tilak's independent judgment is praiseworthy. He does not feel fettered by the commentaries of Sankara, Ramanuja, and Madhva, on the Gita, and has given readers his own independent interpretation of the message of the Gita.

To the extensive mass of Tilak-literature, Mr. Parvate's biography will be a very striking addition, and for years to come, this will be a standard work of reference to all students of Indian Political history and evolution.

THE NEW YEAR BOOK 1958—Ed. P. C. Sarkar, B.A., LL.A. (S. C. Sirkar & Sons, Ltd., 1-C, College Square, Calcutta-12. Pp. 440. Prier Rs. 3.50).

The New Year Book for 1958, which is the fifteenth issue, contains all the usual and familiar features associated with its predecesssor-volumes. As there is a tall talk about the achievements of First Five Year Plan, and almost extravagant anticipations and expectations are entertained about the Second plan, the volume contains a review of the achievements of the former, and description of the salient features of the latter.

The Who's Who (P. 418) seems to be a small affair after all, considering the All-India character of the publication. World-famous cine-stars are missing from the list and even professional politicians, and Newspaper magnets. I fail to understand the principle, (if any) on the basis of which the list has been prepared. Proprietors of certain fashionable Hotels of All-India importance have been ignored. I congratulate the Editor and publishers.

THE HILLS AND HUMANITY — By Nagendra Narayan Das. (Author Santipurkuti, Gauhati, Assam. Pp, 108. Price Rs. 5).

From the "Foreword" written by C. P. Das, it is gathered that the author who was a member of the I.C.S. resigned in 1947 and in 1957 he contested the election as a candidate for the office of Presidentship of India—the highest in the state. The author came out second. The relative position between the successful first and the third made the author of the "Foreword" compel the author to write the book.

Whatever the circumstances. under which the author wrote his book, it has undoubted literary and didactic value and significance. In India hills and mountains have been respected as abodes of Gods and Saints and sages, and the heaven-kissing mountains proclaim the smallness and insignificance of man in the scheme of things. The author has drawn other important lessons from Hills, and mentioned 10 features of Rama-Rajya (Pp. 66—87) none of which would seem to be present in modern republican Bharat. The author has written a challenging work.

A SAINT'S CALL TO MANKIND—By Madan Mohan Varma. (Author Rambagh Road, Jaipur, India. Pp. 174. Price Rs. 3 or 6sh. or Dol. 1-25c.).

Mr. M. M. Varma, (Member of the Rajasthan Public Service Commission) has published in this volume the essentials of discourses delivered by a saint whose identity is not revealed as he desires to remain anonymous. The work contains a "Foreword" written by Dr. Radhakrishnan. The subject-matter would seem to have been expounded by the Saint previously and these have appeared in print, in the shape of books in Hindi. Some of these essays here collected had appeared in periodicals like Theosophist, Adyar, etc.

The call of the saint to the mankind is the clarion call of spiritualization of existence by appropriate sadhana. There is a useful glossary. In the section on God, it is observed that God himself could hardly describe his real nature. (P. 96). This would detract from god-head. This would negative omnipotence.

I hope there will be proper response to the call of the Saint.

CARE OF THE EYES— By H. H. Sivananda Maharaj—(Yoga-Vedanta-Forest - University, Rishikesh, Sivanandanagar, Himalayas—Pp. 342. Price Rs. 4).

H. H. Sivananda Maharaj is not only a practitioner of yoga discipline, but, he is deeply interested in affording people freedom from physical illness and ailments.

There is the well-known dictum in Sanskrit that the eye constitutes the most important and precious organ. (...Sarvendriyanam Nayanam Pradhanam...) H. H. Sivananda's eye-relief-camps are universally well-known. These camps are affording free eye treatment to hundreds of poor villagers.

In this volume the Swami has given a description of diseases connected with eyes, and also described in detail remedies-allopathic, ayurvedic, homoeopathic, naturopathic, and so forth. The volume will be found eminently useful and helpful by ophthalmic practioners, and laymen.

It should be common experience that the ancients who were living well regulated and disciplined lives had correct vision even in advanced old age. Now, the countless artificialities of life have resulted in premature decay of eye-sight. If life and food are regulated, perfect vision can be enjoyed. The lay and the medical worlds would welcome this exhaustive work on the care of the eyes.

KANNADA

TANTRA SARASANGRAHA—Translation by B. Govindacharya—(S. M S. Granthalaya, Udipi Pp. 290. Price Rs. 4.)

The volume which forms number second of the Anandatirtha-Granthamala, contains the text of an important work of Madhva known as Tantra-sara-sangraha, or even as Tantra Sara. Of the 37 works of Madhva, this deals with the fundamental quintessence of the Mantra and Tantra literature.

Madhva has caustically observed that most of the Mantras, (sacred chantings or sacred syllables of occult power and potency) have lost their power, in the Kali-yuga, but, there are still some which happen to be potent and effective. Madhva has brought them together and the work contains practically all Mantras dedicated to different deities, of the Hindu Pantheon.

The Mantras relating to Vishnu, Hayagriva, Vyasa, Ganapathi, and other deities are assembled in the work. The Tantra advocated by Madhva is free from all the horrible features associated with Sakti-Tantra of the North.

The Tantra expounded by Madhva is Sattvika-Tantra, and only good can come out of the pursuit of the spiritual discipline advocated in this treatise.

The rendering into Kannada is eminently readable and graceful, and the auther of the translation deserves the gratitude of all students of the occult, for his clear and authoritative work, which, must enrich extant Kannada literature.

VARNA MANJARI OUDAVA RAGA VARNA MALIKE—By Krishna Sarma. (S. V. D. Granthamala, No. 2703 1st Main Road, Vanivilasa Mohalla-Mysore. Pp. 72. Price Rs. 2-8-0).

This scholarly work on Music composed by the author, (a retired sericulturist and not a professional musician) was reviewed by a critic in a Madras Paper, who is also not a professional musician, and the reviewer never had the fair mindedness to mention that Mr. G. R. Josyer, M. A., (Hons) has written a "Foreword". The term Varna cannot be translated into English, and this pattern of singing is sui generis to the genius of Indian Music. The author has composed 12 special Varnas and 14 other Varnas, and they are in celebration of the familiar Hindu gods. It is needless to add that those varnas can be effectively rendered only by disciplined experts.

The critic deplores that varnas are not sung now a days, at commencement of concerts and performances. There is no biblical commandment they should. In the course of a scholarly "Foreword" Mr. Josyer, editor of Rationalist, commends the work of the author.

There are traditional varnas which can never be superceded, but, Mr. Krishnamurthy has done his work so well that it is likely to kindle the envy and jealousy of professional musicians, who living under the strain and stress of professional demands have hardly any time for creative compositions. The professionals connot thus be blamed.

5. TULASI RAMAYANAMU—done into Telugu by Srimathi N. Lakshmi Sarasvati, (Pp. 473. Price Rs. 12).

(All published by Addepalli & Co., Rajahmundry).

(1) This volume which bears the imprint of "Sarasvathe Grantha Mandali", proclaims the spiritual power and efficacy of chanting the sacred names of Lord Sri Rama and the highly suggestive picture on the cover of Sri Hanuman, immersed in ecstatic reverie chanting the names of Lord Rama, and enjoying the bliss of vision of the Supreme Lord, convey in a striking manner, the main objective and subject-matter of the booklet, and the author has contributed an important volume to the current religious and spiritual literature in Telugu. Though considered to be evil and accursed, the age of Kali has a significant virtue in that, the Lord is easily pleased by the simple devotional repeating of His sacred names. Young and old, men and women, can secure spiritual treasures by repeating the names of the Lord. The experience they got will be unique and inestimable.

(2) India is a land of temples, feasts and festivals, and also of fasts, and other austerities and penances. In an interesting and instructive booklet, the author has explained and expounded the true inwardness and genuine significance of some of the most important festivals. The festivals described are—Vatsaradi, (New Year day), Dasara, Deepavali, and Sankranthi. In these festivals, there occurs a happy and harmonious commingling of the social, religious and spiritual aspects, and the author, has done real service to the Telugu public in having elucidated the real meaningfullness of these festivals. Fasting days, like Ekadasi, have their own value, and long before the advent of Gandhi, India had realized the utility of fasts.

(3) In the form of musical verses, the author, has retold in graceful Telugu, the substance of the Gita. Each stanza has been covered. The Telugu rendering has to be sung after the model or pattern of "Kasturiranga—ranga....." The volume covers the first six chapters, (prathamashatka) and two other parts are promised which would bring the work to conclusion. Srimathi Kamakshi Amma, Principal of the Andhra Women's Sanskrit College, has recorded an appreciative testimonial in favour of the good work done by the author. The Gita, is a permanent theme, and source of inspiration to many authors and notwithstanding obvious difficulties, that a translater has to encounter, the author has accomplished his task in a praiseworthy manner. The present exposition of the message of the Gita will be greeted joyfully in the Andhradesa.

(4) The compelling picture on the title cover, containing design of a circle half of which is white, and half black, would suggest perennial succession of day and night, and obviously life is neither one complete day, nor, even one complete night, both following one another. The talented authoress observes that the short story has come to stay, but, it is a fact that in this land of Panchatantra, Hitopadesa, Kathasaritasagara and so forth, the technique of short-story-writing does not seem to have been practised and developed to the extent to which they have been in the West. The stories contributed by the gifted authoress demonstrate she is perfectly at ease in creating these stories, and it is hoped, more and more tales will be forthcoming with advance of time and with increasing perfection of her art.

(5) The Ramayana of Tulasi Das Goswami Maharaj, known as Ramacharita-manasa, is universally known as a Hindi-classic of first-rate religious and literary eminence, and the work has been rendered into many languages. The elegant and graceful style of the authoress does great credit, to the artist, and brings out the spirit of the original in full. The volume contains an account of the life-history of Tulasi-Das, and an account also, of the greatness of Ramayana. (Ramayana-Maahatmya). Students of comparative research have yet to undertake an original study of critically examining the text of Valmiki in Sanskrit, of Kamban in Tamil and of Tulasi-Dass in Hindi. Such an attempt is bound to reveal the literary idiosyncrasies and special features of each. For, one thing, Tulasi-Ramayana refers to Lanka-

Your SCIENTIFIC DIFFICULTIES Solved

By MIHIRA

[In the letters THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE receives from the readers, many interesting questions are put pertaining to astrological and scientific problems. Here are a few recent queries together with answers. If some similar doubts are puzzling you, why not write us about them? This service is free to all readers of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE. Address communications to—MIHIRA, c/o THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE].

Q. 1. (a) What is the order of strength of the three different ways of cancellation of debility? Are these ways additive in strength? (b) Ref. Answer to Question 11 (c) P. 1014 of Vol. 46 of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE, Phaladeepika Chap. VI verse 37 states that Sankha Yoga is caused by the lords of Kona and Kendra being in an auspicious bhava. (c) May the conjunction of two planets be treated also as to be in mutual Kendra position? (d) Too much hair on the body both in males and females.

S. K. M., Calcutta.

Ans. (a) There does not appear to be any grade in the cancellation of Neecha caused by the various yogas referred to in the texts. But if we are to pay attention to the language employed two grades can be inferred. (i) It is stated that if the lord of the sign occupied by a planet in depression or the lord of the planet's exaltation sign is in a Kendra from Lagna or Moon, the person born will be an Emperor endowed with full riches, virtuously disposed, respected by other kings, etc. So also if the lord of the depression sign or the lord of the planet's exaltation sign be in a Kendra position to that planet. The same is said to be the case when the depressed planet is aspected by the lord of that sign and if the depressed planet should be in an auspicious house (that is other than 6, 8 or 12). (ii) The second grade appears to cover cases when the depressed planet though aspected by the lord of the sign does not occupy an auspicious house. (b) According to Phaladeepika, a differentiation is made in Raja Yoga according as the lords of the Kendras and Konas are lords of 9th and 10th or are lords of other Kendras and Konas such as 4th and 5th, 4th and 9th, 7th and 9th, 5th and 7th and so on. Phaladeepika says it is Raja Yoga only when lords of 9th and 10th houses are in conjunction in an auspicious house; but when lords of other angles and trines are in conjunction in auspicious houses, it is called Sankha Yoga. This is not the variety of Sankha Yoga defined in your reference. (c) Planets in conjunction are necessarily in Kendra from each other. (d) If earthy or watery signs rise or occupied by majority of planets there is likely to be plenty of hair, particularly Taurus, Cancer and Pisces. Similarly fiery signs tend to lose hair soon. The presence of Sun or Saturn in such signs inhibits the growth of hair. Mars makes it stiff and coarse.

Q. 2. (a) Some authorities say that Adhi Yoga will not produce good results if Moon is in debility or combined with Sun. Is the view correct? (b) In a Tamil astrological journal, it is stated that when Lakshmi Yoga is produced by combination of lords of 1 and 9 only when they happen to be benefics, i.e., Cancer or Libra as Lagna and there will be no results in the case of Gemini Lagna. Is this view correct? (c) For above Yoga (Lakshmi) it is stated that there will be no results if the combination takes place in 3, 6, 8 or 12. Is this view correct? (d) Which of their positions is best for Rahu from the point of view of wealth—3, 6, 4 or 5. (e) Some authorities say that Malavya Yoga will be caused if Venus is in Kendra from Lagna or Moon even though there is no exaltation or dignity. Is this correct? (f) Is it true that people born under Malavya Yoga will live only in big cities? (g) Between two types of Sakata Yoga (i) Moon in 12th from Jupiter, (ii) Moon in 6th or 8th from Jupiter, which is worse? (h) Will Rahu and Saturn in 5th cause Dattaputra Yoga? (Vide Dattaputra Yoga in B. V. Raman's 300 Important Combinations). (i) In defining Shanka Yoga, B. V. Raman says that persons born under Hamsa Yoga will have Shanka marks in the leg. Are the Shanka and Chakra found in finger tips also taken into account?

R. R., Hyderabad.

Ans. (a) It stands to reason that the effects will be less. But results will not be totally absent. (b) It is not correct to say that there will be no effect at all if they happen to be malefics, e.g., in the instance given, for Gemini Lagna, the ruler of 1st is Mercury and ruler of 9th is Saturn. Mercury is a natural benefic and is a friend of Saturn. Therefore it is not reasonable to say there will be no effects at all. The Zodiacal rulership is so arranged that rulers of 1st and 9th, cannot both be malefics except in the case of Sun and Mars and even these planets happen to be friends. Of course greatest results are to be expected where both are benefics and also friends. (c) Here again it is only a question of degree and not total negation. (d) Third is best for finance. (e) There is no support for this position in authoritative texts. (f) Nor is this a necessary result of Malavya Yoga. (g) Moon in 12th is better than being in 6th or 8th from Jupiter. (h) Affliction of 5th house is necessary for adoption. There should be some favourable features as well. Otherwise the native may not have any son, born or adopted, at the time of his death. So the whole horoscope should be studied. The presence of some malefics in 5th does not mean by itself adoption only. But in the case cited, there are yogas or combinations which give rise to adoption given in texts. We cannot predict the same results substituting one malefic for another and judge that the result will be the same. (i) Marks found in the finger tips are not those meant or referred to there.

Q. 3. (a) What is Gajakesari Yoga? What are its characteristics and effects? (b) What are the effects of Saturn in Gochara when in 12, 1 and 2 from Janma Rasi.

—K. N. V, K., Coimbatore.

Ans. (a) This has been dealt with several times and is a well known Yoga. This yoga arises when Jupiter is in Kendra from Moon. For details vide yoga 1 in 300 Important Combinations by B. V. Raman. (b) 12th—continuous calamities, bad health, quarrels in family, separation, grief and sorrows, death among relatives and friends, losses. 1st: Troublesome journeys, losses, delays and setbacks in all matters, failure in enterprises, heavy expenditure, illness to children, even death of children, danger of imprisonment. 2nd: Bad for wealth, heavy expenditure, pressure for money, also ill-health and physical debility. Death among relations or family members.

Q. 4. (a) Please show how to work out Kalachakra Dasa with reference to 15° 31′ Virgo. (b) Vide P. 623 of July 1955. How was superior Moon 19° 22′ Capricorn was obtained by the writer on June 5, 1934. How is the calculation made? (c) Vide Page 547, June 1957. How is the proportional arc of Sun and Rahu over the Moon calculated?

—C. N. S., Imphal.

Ans. (a) This is given in all texts and in all almanacs also and is too elaborate to be given here. Moreover, it is a personal query. (b) The whole thing is explained there. Superior Moon there means Moon's longitude on 15-2-1912. The event referred to happened on 5-6-1934, that is 22 years after birth. One day equals one year. 22 days plus birth date 24-1-1912 takes us to 15-2-1912, the year of the event. The calculation is on the basis of 1 day equals one year. (c) As the theory of proportional arcs has been only discussed in reference to Sepharial, Aroodas, etc., without examples, we are not able to explain how these arcs were arrived at in this case.

Q. 5. What yoga occurs by exchange of lords of 2nd and 8th houses and what are the effects? J.S., Kanpur.

Ans. The Yoga is called Dainya Yoga. The effects are, there will be ups and downs in life.

Q. 6. (a) Ref: B. V. Raman's Notable Horoscopes, Page 212, Henry Ford. There it is stated that Marutha Yoga is present, for which Jupiter should be in trine from Venus. In the horoscope this condition is not fulfilled. Please reconcile. (b) Does the same yoga arise if Jupiter, Sun and Moon are in trine to each other for Scorpio Lagna? (c) Will Mars in 2nd and Jupiter in 1st cause Ayattna Dhana Labha Yoga for Scorpio Lagna? (d) Ref: Notable Horoscopes, Page 119. The Editor says Samrajya Yoga is caused when lord of 9th house, i.e., Moon occupies Navamsa of Aries and Mars ruler of that sign joins 2nd house. Can this yoga alone by itself make a man equal to a king? (e) Same reference. Vasumathi Yoga is said to be caused by Jupiter in 6th and Mercury in 11th. There are Mars and Rahu in 3rd Upachayas. How can Vasumathi be said to be caused because they are malefics? (f) What happens when there is a conjunction of Mars and Saturn for Scorpio Lagna in Sagittarius?

J. S. Kanpur.

Ans. (a) Venus and Jupiter being in the same sign is also considered to be in trine with each other. (b) No. (c) No. This Yoga arises only when the 1st and 2nd lords are in exchange and not otherwise. (d) Even Raja Yogas do not necessarily make the person having the yoga equal to a king. The same is the case with this yoga also. (e) Vasumathi Yoga arises when benefics occupy Upachaya houses from Lagna. Malefics in Upachayas also do not prevent this yoga arising which are also beneficial places for malefics to occupy. Only it is called Vasumathi Yoga. (f) Nothing happens.

Q. 7. (a) Does the combination of Venus and Mercury give rise to any yoga just as the combination of some planets as Moon and Jupiter, Mars and Jupiter, Moon and Mars, gives rise to Gaja Kesari, Guru Mangala, and Chandra Mangala Yogas? If so, what are the results? (b) In a person's horoscope Venus, Mercury, Jupiter and Full Moon are all in their own houses. Is it of any advantage to the person? (c) Is it a fact that Jupiter in Cancer Navamsa is better than Jupiter in the sign of Cancer? If so why? (d) It is stated in Sanskrit astrological text books that persons having Jupiter in Cancer a watery sign in the Navamsa will have to travel in a ship on ocean. Is it correct? (e) Is it a fact that Adhi Yoga will be powerful only when Moon is powerful? (i.e.,) will give good results only for persons who are born on L.D. 10, 11, 12, 13, 14 after Amavasya and those born on Full Moon day? (f) I see that a great many kings are born in Thula Lagna with Venus in Lagna? Is this a great Yoga? (g) Has anybody looked into hundred or two hundred horoscopes of poor peasants? what are the yogas that make them live from hand to mouth? (h) What is meant by Gurubalam coming for a girl? They say that if Gurubalam comes, the marriage of the girl will be celebrated? (i) What has been the effect of Sakata Yoga in Nehru's horoscope? (j) Is it a fact that Amavasya born persons will be low in financial status as Moon will be very weak in their charts? Is it not better for Moon to be far away, 4, 5, 6 or 7 rasis from the Sun? (k) What is the condition of Neechabhanga of Moon in Scorpio, and of Mars in Cancer? (l) Will each Neechabhanga bring in Neechabhanga Raja Yoga (i.e., is there any Neechabhanga without bringing simultaneously Neechabhanga Raja Yoga? (m) Some say that Mesha Lagna, Kataka Lagna, Simha Lagna, Thula Lagna and Dhanur Lagna are great Lagnas in which Maharajas and Emperors are born. Is it a fact? R. R. Hyderabad.

Ans. (a) Though not in the sense of giving rise to any special yoga as cited, this combination is in itself a good one and the effects are stated to be very good.

Shasthreeganavinodhahasyaarasikha
Shukaysachandrathmajay

"If Venus be in conjunction with Mercury, the person will be versed in the sacred books," fond of music and is humorous". (b) This will certainly be a very great advantage as under certain circumstances it will give rise to powerful Raja Yogas or Dhana Yogas. It is also good for longevity. (c) Usually in the texts a contrast is made as between Jupiter in exaltation sign but in debilitation Navamsa but Jupiter in debilitation sign and exaltation Navamsa. In the latter case, Jupiter is stated to be much more powerful. You appear to have some such case in mind but as a general rule no differentiation is made as between, Jupiter in exaltation Rasi and exaltation Navamsa. As Navamsa in some cases is considered more powerful, some authorities appear to prefer Jupiter being in exaltation Navamsa than in exaltation Rasi. In the Rasi there is just a chance that Jupiter may occupy a debilitation Navamsa and this is ruled out when he occupies the exaltation Navamsa itself. (d) To our knowledge, there is no authoritative text books which say that travel in a ship in the ocean is inevitable for a person with Jupiter in Cancer Navamsa as, such a travel depends upon so many various factors in the horoscope. But such a travel is rendered all the more feasible by this position as Jupiter is ruler of the constellation containing Argo Navis. And Cancer is a movable and watery sign. (e) The proposition as stated is not correct. Moon can be powerful in more ways than one. Moon can be powerful in his own sign, when he is exalted, when he is in waxing, when he is in an angle, during night and so on. Though Moon's strength will add to the efficacy of the yoga, it does not mean without the strength of Moon the yoga will be null and void of effects. You appear to think that Moon can be powerful only during Poornima or when he is near full. (f) Quite so.—But many great kings and great men are born in other Lagnas also and without Venus in the Lagna. (g) Not only poor peasants but also poor workmen slaving in factories and coolies who act as human bullocks and draw loads in huge cities also live from hand to mouth. If these horoscopes are taken and examined Daridra Yogas are present in each and every one of them. Poverty is not to be associated only with poor peasants who in many respects are better off than their fellow labourers in cities who live in slums and eke out a miserable existence and are mostly pavement dwellers. (h) Gurubalam means only strength of Jupiter. When he is favourably placed in transit, i.e., in 2nd, 5th or 7th or 9th or 11th, marriage is probable for those to whom it is due, as these are auspicious places for Jupiter. (i) You should supply the horoscope along with the question as we do not have all the horoscopes of great men at hand always for reference. (j) It is always better to be born on days that are not Amavasya as Moon will be combust then and hence powerless. Finances also will suffer as Moon is one of the karakas for wealth. (k) Mars must be in a Kendra from Lagna and Moon must be in Kendra from Lagna respectively. (l) Neechabhanga means Neechabhanga Raja Yoga. (m) Great persons are born in other Lagnas too. But it is not entirely correct to say that really great men are generally born in any one of the cardinal signs.

Q. 8. (a) Varaha Mihira says that if Moon in Capricorn is aspected by Mars, the native will be a king. If Mars aspects Moon in Capricorn from Gemini which is the Lagna of the horoscope; will the native become a king even though born of a poor family? (b) If for Pisces Lagna, Mars lord of 9th in Lagna is aspected by Jupiter and also by Sun ruler of 6th, will the aspect of Sun reduce the good effects because of his 6th house ownership. (c) Mercury and Venus in Sagittarius Lagna, Sun in Capricornus and Saturn in Scorpio both 60 degrees apart. Is it Papakartari Yoga or Daridra Yoga. In the same horoscope, Jupiter, lord of Lagna is posited in 10th. Is it Maha Yoga or Amala, or Parvata Yoga? What are the results? Which yoga will prevail—Papakartari or Parivartana Maha Yoga? (d) Saturn in Libra Lagna exalted, Mercury exalted in 12th, Sun and Mars in 11th, exalted Jupiter in 10th, Moon in 9th, Kethu in 8th, which yoga functions? (e) Sun, Mercury, Moon and Venus in Sagittarius in 4th, Jupiter in 5th, Saturn and Mars in 6th, Rahu in 3rd; which yoga performs? Mercury ruler of 10th is combust. Will he become a Sanyasin? (f) If lord of 3rd is in 12th and lord of Lagna in 6th, is loss of property sure? (g) What is Sakata Yoga and what are the results?

Ans. (a) Though the wording in Varaha Mihira's Text (vide Chapter XIX verse 3) does not include quincunx aspects of Mars, still some hints thrown by some of the commentators appear to suggest that only square aspects and opposite aspects of Mars are meant. But if there is actually any such qualification we would expect Varaha Mihira to have made mention of that. Therefore the reason why such efficacy is attributed to the aspect of Mars (that of elevating the native to the ranks of kingship) seems to be derived from the places occupied by Moon rather than the places occupied by Mars. An analysis of the case dealt with where the aspect of Mars is said to have the effects are only when Moon occupies Aries, Leo, Scorpio or Capricorn. In three of them Mars is either exalted or its own sign. Leo is a royal sign and Mars is Yogakaraka. The aspect of Mars is not invalidated by his rulership of 6th or 11th house for this purpose when the Lagna is Gemini. (b) No doubt the aspect of ruler of 6th will reduce efficacy. (c) Both Papakarthari and Maha Yogas co-exist. Both are general yogas. Amala Yoga is also present but not Parvata Yoga. As benefic yogas predominate, the effects of Papakarthari Yoga will be greatly modified. Also because benefics occupy Lagna. (d) Hamsa Yoga and Sasa Yogas are present. (e) This question cannot be answered satisfactorily without knowing the strength of the various planets. If no planet is powerful, then there will be no ascetic yoga. If the planet most powerful is Mercury and he is combust, then too there will be no ascetic yoga but the native will be attached to ascetics. (f) Loss of property will take place unless there are other modifying features in the horoscope. (g) Sakata Yoga is caused when Moon occupies 6th, 8th or 12th from Jupiter. But if Moon be in a Kendra from Lagna there is no Sakata Yaga. The person born in Sakata Yoga will become of ten unfortunate (looses his luck) and may again regain what he has once lost. He will be a very ordinary and insignificant man in the world. He will attain much marital grief that is inevitable and will be exceedingly unhappy.

Q. 9. (a) The effects for Sakata Yoga are differently described in stanza 13 of Chapter CII of Brihat Jataka and stanza 17 Chapter VI of Phaladeepika. Please elucidate. (b) Godhooli Lagna occuring in the evening is stated in a standard text as best for marriage. Do Hindu sastras permit of such evening marriages? (c) What are the factors that are indicative and causative of the following:– (i) Premature retirement, (ii) Retirement with good gratuity, pension etc. (iii) Re-employment after retirement, (iv) Changes in the profession. (d) Planets in Parivartana are stated to give effects as if they are in their own signs. Does this imply that the effects will be as if they bodily occupy their signs and do all the operations which they will do as if they are there: conjunction, aspect, combust, contribution to yoga, etc. Is Parivartana good for Navamsa also? (e) Where there are a number of yogas good as well as bad together found in a horoscope, how to predict their combined effects?

Ans. (a) Because two different yogas are defined by Varaha Mihira and Mantreswara, though the common name Sakata Yoga is used for both. Verse 4 of Chapter XII of Brihat Jataka defines Sakata Yoga as arising when all the seven planets are in the 1st and 7th houses, whereas Sakata Yoga as defined in Phaladeepika is given in answer to query 8 (g) supra. (b) Hindu shastras simply prescribe the mantras and other procedure for marriage. It is only astrology that enables one to fix Lagna for which also strongest conditions are prescribed. We do not know what your standard text is, since you have not quoted it. Probably it states that the usual objectives to a Lagna may not be observed if godhooli lagna is chosen. Why not quote your authority and have the matter thoroughly cleared up? (c) (i) Premature retirement will mostly occur because of directional and transit influences. In such cases, Saturn may also be found afflicting the tenth house in the nativity also. (ii) Retirement with good gratuity also may be traceable only to directional and transit causes. Still favourable influence of Jupiter on the 10th house may be found in the horoscope. (iii) This is purely due to transit and directional influences that are favourable to that end. (iv) A double-bodied sign on the cusp of the 10th house, Sun the Karaka for profession being in 10th bhava in a double-bodied sign or lord of 10th occupying a double-bodied sign with some connection with the 10th house are likely to cause changes in the profession, the time of course depending on directional causes. (d) Parivarthana Yogas are good or bad according to rulership of houses by the concerned planets. So we would like to know the authority that states that planets should be considered as to be equal to being in their own signs. We prefer to answer the rest of the question after perusing such authority if it exists. (e) There is no rule by thumb method. Constant practice and judgment are required to develop the intuition to seize upon the materials that count in such cases and come to a conclusion.

(6) The author, it would appear, undertook a tour of pilgrimage to important centres in the North, and, in the booklet, here noticed, an account is given of the tour undertaken by him. In these days, pilgrim special trains, tourist-trains and saloons are becoming increasingly evident, and that would demonstrate the attitude of the public in the direction of combining spirituality and sight-seeing. The author's descriptions of Gaya, Prayag, Benares, Haridwar. and other places of pilgrimage will be widely read with interest by Andhra reading public We commend this book to all religious minded Hindus.

*Importance of Astrology in the world of Science

The inauguration of the All Kerala Astrological Association took place at Trichur on 14th Septhmber 1958 under the Presidentship of Prof. B.V. Raman, Editor, THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE, Bangalore. In his presidential speech Prof. Raman reviewed mainly the development of Astrology in different provinces and their organisation, research and study. From his speech, it is hoped that the science of astrology will in the near future, gain national importance and also it would be one of the subjects for study in the Universities. In the days of yore in our country, this science was deeply studied by learned Maharishis and they had good support from the kings and Maharajas. Today, unfortunately, the science has passed into the hands of some quacks and imposters who misuse the same for their own selfish motives. Now a days from the common man to the distinguished person in the society, seek the astrologer's advice for one or the other reason. This clearly indicates that the science of astrology has much to do with social environment and it fulfills the requirements of the society. However many of the so-called distinguished persons hesitate to admit their belief in astrology. They do this only as a modern fashion. Probably they would accept the value of the science only if it would come to them by having processed by westerners. On the contrary, these so called distinguished persons in society should take initiative to promote the study of and research in the science of astrology and thus try to put it on a more scientific basis. This science has the longest history and tradition in our country. And naturally it will not be justifying to depend upon foreigners for its progress. It is our sincere duty to try to develop our own science on scientific lines.

Failures in predictions should not necessarily be the main reason to condemn the science. Some medicines also cannot cure diseases. Failures in forecast may be due to several factors such as insufficient or incorrect data or want of sufficient knowledge of the principles of astrology or the unscientific technique and interpretation. Science is proved by its own scientific evidence and astrology as a science has proved its validity on innumerable occasions. Then why hesitate to call it a science at all?

Prof. Raman's suggestion that the science of astrology should find a place in University education is of great importance. The science of astrology today is looked down, and the main reasons may be said to be the differences in various principles and consequent confusion in the different Almanacs or Panchangas, the Sayan-Nirayan dispute and the difference of opinion among different astrologers. Moreover this branch of knowledge lacks professional authorities who can express their decisions authoritatively. Naturally it gives a chance to the quacks and imposters to exploit the situation. It also adversely affects the dignity of the real pursuers and researchers of knowledge of the science. Hence the true pursuers of the knowledge who desire to work out something good for the science should ignore all these discrepencies and should try to work out good for the benefit of posterity. It is only by completely ignoring these so-called discrepencies in the make-up of astrology, that they can create a favourable atmosphere for the uplift and promotion of the subject.

In this respect Prof. Raman wholeheartedly appreciated the working of some institutions. He pointed out that persons from all walks of life and different types of occupation viz; teachers, professors, clerks, pleaders, doctors, are taking interest in astrology. Moreover like any of the other hobbies, astrology has become a hobby of many. Astrology is no more an isolated science. It has extended itself to every facet of human life viz., monsoon, agriculture, medicine, physiology, psychology, economy, politics etc. and as such this treasure of knowledge should enrich our understanding. The time has come now to put the whole issue on most scientific lines and thus to serve the human race. Only unselfish persons of knowledge can do this best.

THE HINDU PROGRESSED HOROSCOPE

By B. V. RAMAN

This book based on Tajaka covers fresh grounds in the field of prediction. It describes a unique method never before disclosed for deciphering annual life readings. Predictions made according to this work yield unique results. Whether you are a layman or initiated, you can draw up and interpret the annual reading in an easy and scientific manner. The system propounded in the pages of this work is rational and in actual practice yields most satisfactory results.

OPINION

"The author outlines a method of deciphering annual results from the Hindu horoscope. He claims that the principles of Tajaka astrology have been found to work accurately in actual practice, and controverts the orthodox belief that the system can be applied only to charts of individuals who have passed the age of thirty. There are many useful tables at the end and a summary."

"AND apart from the scientific verities to which the science of planetary influence directs us, there are other not less important and fascinating truths of a purely philosophical nature to which it inevitably impels the mind and which cannot fail to exercise a tremendous influence in the shaping of our thought in regard to the purpose of life. It places the thoughtful student in an entirely new position with regard to many of the deeper problems of existence, and it is certainly the fact that to those who newly come to its study, astrology is a revelation, an enlightenment, and a conviction for which there is no possible or desirable escape". —Sepharial.

"If on the lunar dates 5, 7, 9, 13 and 15 of waxing Moon in the month Chitrai, there is thunder, lightning and light showers, there will be heavy rains in the ensuing rainy season".

"If in the months of Chitrai and Vaikasi, if there is Indra Dhanus formed in the western horizon, there will be good rains in the ensuing rainy season".

STARS IN THEIR Seasons

BY M. V. RAMAKRISHNAN, M.A., L.T.

Night Sky in May 1959

Zodiacal Constellations

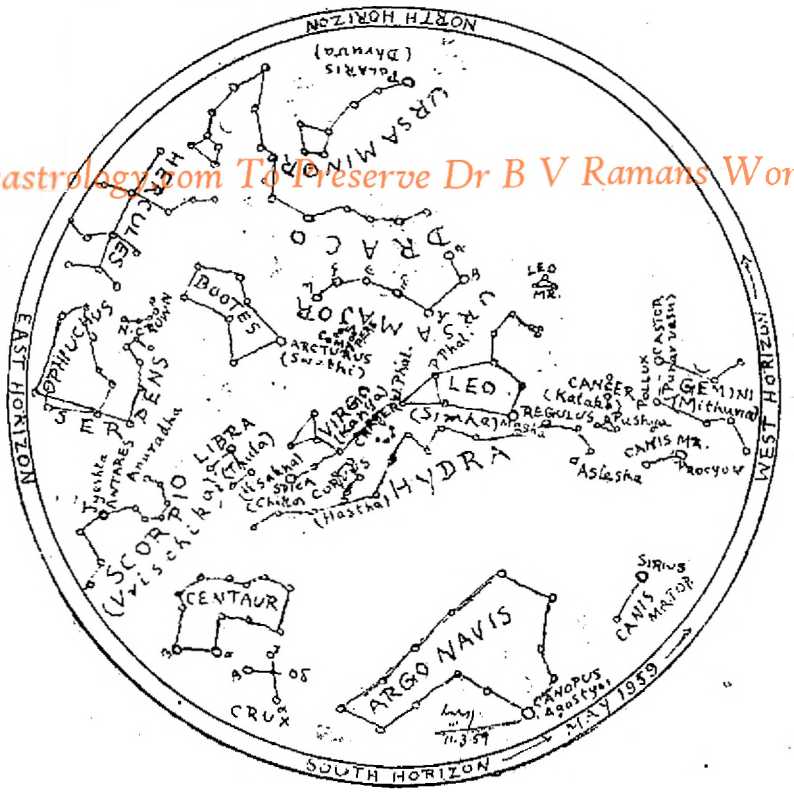
THE zodiacal constellations that are visible this month at about 9–30 in the night are, ranged from west–north–west to east–south–east, Gemini (Mithuna), Cancer (Kataka), Leo (Simha), Virgo (Kanya), Libra (Thula) and Scorpio (Vrischika). Gemini and Cancer are seen setting in the west, with Castor and Pollux close to the western horizon; while Scorpio is seen rising in the east. Scorpio has not come out fully above the horizon, but you can see the bright red Antares, the principal star of the constellation, a little above the eastern horizon in the south. Antares and the two faint stars, one on either side of it, constitute the lunar asterism Jyeshta. The group of four stars in the claws of the Scorpion is the asterism Anuradha. Moola, which is a group of eleven stars in the tail of the Scorpion, has not yet come out of the horizon.

Leo has crossed the meridian, with Uttara Phalguni very nearly over head and Magha a little to the west of the meridian. Virgo and Libra are approaching the meridian, and you can identify the lunar asterism Chitta in the curve of the tail of the Great Bear shining brilliantly in the northern heavens.

Non-Zodiacal Constellations

Of the non-zodiacal constellations Ursa Minor and Ursa Major are seen in the north. The huge constellation Draco is seen crawling between the two Bears. The constellation Bootes is nearing the meridian, and you can identify in it the bright star Arcturus by following the curve of the tail of Ursa Major. Coma Berenices is seen shining between Bootes and Leo. East of Bootes is seen the semi-circular group of stars known as the Northern Crown. Farther east are seen the big constellations Hercules and Ophinchus which have just come out of the horizon.

In the southern sky, Canis Major and Canis Minor are setting; Argo Navis is seen in full sail: the Crux and the Centaur are approaching the meridian. The two bright stars, Alpha and Beta of the Centaur, are in a line with the small arm of the Crux. The star Alpha of the Centaur is the third brightest star in the whole heavens, being outshone only by Sirius and Canopus.



Lunar Asterisms

The lunar asterisms that can be identified in the visible hemisphere are Punarvasu in Gemini, Pushya in Cancer, Aslesha in Hydra, Magha and the Phalgunis in Leo, Hasta in Corvus, Chitta in Virgo, Swati in Bootes, Visakha in Libra, and Anuradha and Jyeshta in Scorpio.

The Milky Way

The Milky Way is seen to traverse the sky from east to west, passing through or between the Constellations, Ophichus, Scorpio, Centaurus, Crux, Argo Navis, Canis Major, Canis Minor and Gemini.

Weather Forecasts for May 1959

BY D. R. MUNSIFF, B.Sc., (Econ.) (London), B.A. (Hons.) (Bombay).

LAST month, I gave the readers some indication of the astrological principles from which judgments regarding weather are drawn. In addition to factors given last month, I wish to draw the attention of readers that Mercury determines very much the conditions of weather. Mercury rules over the winds and the winds carry rain-bearing clouds to various parts of the country. There has been no storm or a typhoon dissociated with a heavy planet which was either placed in the 2nd house or ruler of the 2nd house. While giving judgment regarding weather, one must therefore have a horoscope erected for the time of its entry into each sign of the zodiac and place that in juxtaposition with the one for the time of Sun's entry into each sign. No judgment about weather will be correct without reference to Mercury.

The Taurus solstice map for North East India has Venus on the 4th house but Venus is not so well placed because it is in square with Pluto, quincunx with Neptune and Saturn, and wide opposition to Jupiter. Moreover the majority of angles are occupied by dry and arid signs of the zodiac, with Gemini, Leo and Sagittarius occupying the 4th, 7th and 10th angles.

The dryness of weather becomes more pronounced as you go towards further East. Therefore Eastern Pakistan and Assam will not have the usual heavy showers that are usually associated with the month of May. Moreover the planet Jupiter after a period of twelve years comes to reside in his own sign marking the period with more than usual dryness. Once again I have to repeat that the remarks are to be read in a relative sense, because in a region of heavy rains, it cannot be that there will be no rains at all. But the dryness will be felt more and more as one proceeds further east from Calcutta.

This forecast rules good for a month from 21st April 1959.

22nd bright and sunny weather, humid on 23nd, slight drizzle on 24th, drizzles and strong winds on 25th, humid or sultry on 26th, windy on 28th, light drizzle on 29th, strong winds on 30th, light shower on 1st, very humid on 2nd, strong winds on 3rd, bright with heavy winds on 4th, light showers on 8th, 9th to 12th very sultry, 13th relatively cooler with occasional drizzles, 14th bright and sunny, 15th very sultry and humid, 16th occasional light shower, 17th widespread scattered drizzles, 18th sunny and bright and strong winds on 20th.

Western Coast—Gujarat and Kathiawar

The weather will be much more humid and dry than the average because the 4th house is dominated much more than is the case with the North East Area, by Venus. Taurus occupies the 4th house, but the association of the 7th house with Uranus will give rise to dust-storms. For such high and dry winds, the following days may be particularly marked.

30th April, 1st May, 8th May and 20th May.

The intensity of moist and enervating heat will be felt on 28th and 29th April, 5th May, 7th May, 17th May and 11th May.

The eastern coast area round about the Madras state will have the same kind of very dry weather and the conditions described under the previous section will also apply in this case.

THE stock-exchange trends for the month of may should be judged from two lunations—the full Moon of April 23 and the New Moon of 7th May. In the map drawn for the former lunation, three planets fall in the 11th house, namely Neptune, Jupiter and Moon and two, Uranus and Pluto in the 8th house with Sun in the 4th house. Mars and Saturn form an opposition just across the horizon in the map drawn for Calcutta, Mars falling in the 7th house. The emphasis therefore is on the affairs denoted by the three houses namely 11th, 8th and 7th. The planetary positions with respect to the houses remain more or less the same for the whole of India, though the degrees may vary on the cusps of houses. Therefore this map is of very great importance.

The placement of Mars in 7th house shows that our foreign relations will be strained. Of course Pakistan question immediately presents itself before our eyes but at this particular time, you will hear of some friction with China. Saturn, the ruler of both the 1st and 2nd houses, is placed in the former. It generally restricts the activities of people and the three planets in the 11th house go to prove that a lot of restriction will be the result of parliamentary legislation.

The ascendant for North East India happens to be in conjunction with Saturn, in opposition with Mars, in square to Mercury—the planet of diplomacy. This gives to the authorities a tendency to egoism, and to domination. It also indicates reverses and difficulties for the political administration.

The financial aspect therefore will be limited by the above mentioned factors but the trend is strong and bullish. The 2nd house is ruled both by Uranus and Saturn. Uranus is not very well placed in the 8th house, while Saturn is afflicted by Mars but well aspected by Neptune and the grip of Neptune on financial markets will last for some time. But at the same time, Jupiter and Pluto steel away a lot of strength from Neptune because they are in square aspect. This month, the financial markets will remain in a state of flux and will witness two-sided movements.

The New Moon map of 7th May has Saturn in the 10th house and Jupiter in the 9th house. Saturn is well aspected and strong by sign—it stabilises the existing and traditional position of Government. The authorities in power will remain austere and conscious of their responsibility, just severe and economical. It is a period of sagacious administration.

Jupiter in the 9th house withdraws from the malefic Pluto by retrograde movement. It will therefore add a stimulus to the financial march. In this, it is assisted by the winged messenger Mercury from the 2nd house marking it to be an important and flourishing period for business and commerce. Finally the lights are placed in the same 2nd house of finances which portend a period of rising values.

The period beginning from 10th May onwards will be strongly bullish but the first ten days are very uncertain.

Bullish days:—2, 13, 14, 15, 16, 24, 25, 27, 28, 30 and 31st.

On the 1st, 3rd and 4th there will be good reactions.

Economic Section

If readers were to take trouble to refer the March issue, they will see there the forecast of the budgetary provisions has come out remarkably according to the principles of astrology.

There has been a slight increase in indirect taxation, more taxation on luxuries, and an effort to relieve the burdens on productive enterprise by altering the structure of taxation on limited companies and at the same time imposing heavier burdens on holding companies, which were not connected directly with the promotion of Industry. Further, it was remarked that for a week after the budget the markets will be in a state of flux which also has been amply borne out. Further, the budget abolishes the system of grossing up the income-tax dividends in the total income of individual shareholders. This has struck fear in the hearts of black-marketeers because dividends received on shares held in the name of fictitious banami owners now will have to bear the full brunt of taxation because they will not be able to approach the income-tax authorities to claim the refund.

In face of such measures, it was natural that violent movement in the values of stocks and shares were witnessed. There has been some concentrated propaganda from inspired quarters who have missed the boat that the implications are bearish. I therefore wish to advise the readers that they need not be afraid of such propaganda because the markets are well set on a march to recovery and the bears will have to exit. There is one particular provision which the readers should note. After the lapse of one year, the bonus issues made from the premium on issue accounts will also be subject to taxation. Therefore it will hasten the day for many companies to issue bonus shares.

Next taxation on dividends and wealth of the companies has been abolished which in case of good companies, if distributed to the shareholders, will give them larger returns in case of people with small means.

Now I want to refer to resolution of Nagpur sessions of the Congress regarding land which finally will abolish the landlords. Though the productivity of land has not increased inspite of so many penal measures enacted against the landlords, our legislators have not yet learnt the economic lessons. It does not enter the stony crust of our leaders that there is no industry requiring more capital than agricultural industry today and the small landholders will never be in a position to command such large capital.

In countries like U.S.A. and Canada the farmer has taken not one big step towards mechanisation but the second big step as well towards automation. Behind him are the means developed by scientists of capitalist society in the shape of anti biotics, hormones, nutrition of plant and animal genetics, with the result that farm-productivity is soaring up at an unbelievable rate. It has risen at an annual rate of 4.7% from 1938 onwards against 2.2% for the rest of the economy. Still more striking is the fact that productivity is increasing at an accelerating rate. Last year it increased 8% when the planted acreage was the smallest since 1919. But the yield was 11% greater than in the previous record year 1957.

Thus the number of farmers is steadily dropping. The new methods of mechanisation and automation developed by the capitalist farmers can show to our Congressmen how to solve the food shortages brought on by the oppressive rise in population. While so much is being talked about a little progress here and there under the dictatorships of the communists. the magnificent achievements of people living under free institutions are lost sight of and there remains almost a diabolical plot to keep a record of such progress hidden from our people.

Some say that India is ruled by Capricorn, others say that she is under the rulership of Sagittarius. But astrological implications and predictive literature with me, distinctly supply proofs that India is ruled by Virgo. This being the case, Sagittarious comes on the 4th house which has concern with weather conditions. During the lunar month Pushya when the Sun transits through Sagittarius the Garbha or inception of the rainy season takes place. The rains will be delivered when the Sun passes through Aridra constellation, Gemini having reference to the mid-heaven from India's ruling sign.

According to a well-known astrological aphorism, if there are five Fridays during the lunar month of Vaisakha, white coloured and juiced articles, bajree, oils, kapas and cotton seeds remain strong. If there are five Saturdays during this month, bajree, ghee, oil, kapas and seeds markets remain bullish and there will be political unrest in Gujrat Province. During May 1959, both these aphorisms hold good; but, caution is essential as Jupiter and Saturn—a major benefic and a major malefic respectively are in retrogression.

The 1st day of lunar Vaishakha coinciding with Bharani is a good indication for increased yield of grass, firewood, jungle products and grains. In the present case, the 1st lunar day becomes associated with Bharani only for about six ghatikas. Those who own cattle-farms and grass merchants, should be careful as the fodder problem during the lunar year ahead will become serious.

The fifth lunar day falls on a Wednesday ruled by Punarvasu; this indicates that jaggery, ghee, seeds, bullions, brass, copper, wheat, millet, and sarsoo markets would rule firm.

May 1959 chiefly comes under Grishma Ritu, whose lords are Sun and Mars. Lunar Chaitra ruled by the Sun completes on 7–5–1959 and and the rest of May runs parallel to Lunar Vaishakha ruled by Moon. During May the Sun transits Aries—a fiery sign till 14th and then gets into Taurus—an earthy sign. Mars transitting through airy sign Gemini, enters into Cancer—a watery sign and its house of fall on 20th. So there will be a sudden change of weather in the eastern hemisphere from 20th. In Punjab, Bengal, Assam, Orissa, Central Provinces, Malabar Coast, Saurastra, Cutch, Gujrat, Malwa, Sindh, (Pakistan) hot and dry climate will give way to moisty nights between 21st and 26th. The rest of this month will experience strong cyclonic winds and air service timings will not be maintained. As the Sun is aspected by Jupiter, the crops of this season ruled by the Sun, will be favourable, while those ruled by Mars will be below standard. The Sun rules over vegetation and fruits and mechanical concerns.

This month is a double-sided month. Mercurian phases and phenomena, viz., setting, rising, retrogression, direction, changes in declination, etc., are always associated with important events, announcements and occurrences. According to me, Cancer is the ruling sign of New Delhi. Mars is transitting into the Capital's birth sign. In Navamsa chart as well Saturn retrogrades, will be meeting Mars in Cancer Navamsa. I give much importance to this planetary change. The readers will do well watching the repercussions of these movements on trade, commerce, financial position and political developments. I predict sudden good break in all spot and forward markets.

In the second fortnight the first lunar day falls on a Saturday. It creates political unrest and famine conditions. In May 1959, the first lunar appearance taking place on the 9th May Saturday in Rohini goes under the name of Amritasiddhi Yoga favouring stable markets in foodstuffs and cereals on account of the efficient controlling machinery and good co-operation of the merchant classes. But, this may not last long, as the very planet ruling India—Mercury—is in an accelerated motion and this will not be repeated again during this year indicating undertone in markets, created by better demand and reduced incomes or stock position.

Mars during this month transits through the 10th house of the Indian Chart and comes in opposition to another malefic, Saturn retrograde in the 4th house. Opposition between these two malefics suggest unrest, sudden accidents and tragic happenings in the country, interruption of communications, troubles in mining concerns, earth tremors, heavy cyclones and typhoons. There will be opposition against the party in power and no-confidence motions against some Chief Ministers will be brought forward. Anyhow, trade and commerce will be carried on without much interference.

At the beginning of this month, there is square aspect between Mars and Rahu involving 12th and 3rd houses in New Delhi's chart. Mars is the worst maraka (being the ruler of 8th and 3rd houses from Virgo). By mutual vedhas of malefic planets, the land products will be affected during the coming lunar year. It is for the producers, merchants and industrialists to conserve the articles to meet with the demand during the following period. South Africa and South America will get heavy rains, devastating the fertile lands. India will have best exports outwitting her past records and her foreign exchange will be better.

New York (Stocks and Shares).—Mars is sextile to Amavasya and progressing to trine with the ascending sign. The opposition of Mars–Saturn will cause serious aerial accidents. During the ending part of this month and next one, heavy floods are inevitable in the Central American regions affecting crop position in Mexico's southern regions. On the whole, U.S.A. stocks will improve after some decline. U.S.A's foreign trade position will also be very prospective and her production will be stepping up inspite of natural disturbances, accidents and the unforeseen events mostly in northern parts. Severe setbacks in rubber, raw cotton, grain and oil markets will create temporary nervousness, on account of Herschel square Jupiter, mining areas will have severe internal tremors and blockades affecting tin, coal, copper and uranium. 11th to 21st is a very strong period for buying at lower levels for profit thereafter.

London Stocks.—Saturn is transitting through the coal and iron mining 'areas'. Some proposed new projects are likely to be postponed on account of severe labour troubles. Changes in the British Ministry are possible during this month, on account of Sun-Herschel square and Sun opposition Jupiter. 11th to 21st May 1959, the period would be very critical for the allies in the Western hemisphere. Due to political situation, trade, commerce and industrial activities cannot pass unaffected. Change in Bank rate is likely in England and France. It will prove bearish for the stocks and shares. British mining, oil, rubber and gold shares will have severe setbacks between 9th and 20th. Pick-ups here would prove profitable later.

Indian Stocks (Bombay and Calcutta).—Saturn will be trining Midheaven point of Calcutta Ascendant, but will be facing opposition from Mars. There are two Ati Ganda Yogas during the lunar Vaisakha indicating galloping bullish trend during this month for steels and metal shares, while bearish side for textile concerns due to congestions of stocks and lesser demand or labour troubles. In Bombay chart, Mars is advancing to trine with Jupiter and conjunct in Ascendant. Amavasya is separating from square of Herschel and forming square with the M.C. point. Mars separates from the benefic aspect of New Moon. Taking into consideration the Navamas position of Saturn and Jupiter in retrograde, it is a bullish month, which may develop sudden decline and pretty good rising. Cautious trading is essential between 9th and 22nd. First and last weeks are the periods of bullish trend.

Madras Stocks.–Venus is separating from the conjunction of mid-heaven point and proceeding for conjunction with Mars, which is in good aspect with Ascendant. New Moon is separating from the malefic aspect of Herschel, but proceeds to square with Pluto. Labour strikes and socialistic trends are probable in Plantation areas. 13th to 22nd will prove to be a disheartening period for the shareholders and stockists. It is advisable to buy on 16th March 1959 for all Indian stocks and shares centres this month.

Cotton (Jarilla).—Venus is moving through Mrigasira during the first ten days of this month. It is an indication of good incomes from a number of tenders. 3rd to 12th is the period of speculation. So there is very good probability of increased disparity in rate levels of May 1959 and new contracts. On a general view, I think it advisable to buy July or August 1959 option round the level of Rs. 613/619, or sell round the level of 649/655. Between 10th and 26th cotton prices will have erratic fluctuation. So at the above levels, it is advisable to buy and sell or take profits.

Bullions.–Saturn and Jupiter remain together in Leo Navamsa from beginning of the month till 9th; and moves to Cancer Navamsa from 23rd. These periods would create stringent market, as greater quantity of smuggled gold would be spotted out by the Excise Department. Between 15th and 22nd incomes from Himalayan regions either will be very good or excise duty for bigger quantity of silver coins is likely to be paid up. From 24th to rest of the month, the period will be bullish. Thus careful getting in and out of the market would be paying. Sun-vedha and opposition with Jupiter will cause very turbulent fluctuations.

Jute.—Two benefic planets–Venus and Mercury—will be at their greatest elongation on 30-4-59. Rahu–Mercury opposition on 29-4-59; 15th, 18th, 20th, 23rd, 25th, 27th may indicate Government's actions to speculative concerns in Bengal and United Provinces are anticipated. So the traders should be careful. It is a bullish period till 16th; the second fortnight will be on the gradual bearish side. During the following month, there are planetary configurations to show the foreign demand on the increase.

Seeds.—Solar aspects on Jupiter indicate persistent interference in optional market section and turbulent fluctuations in Northern India. The Sun transits Krithika from 1st to 24th having concern over oilseeds and bullions, and causing Vedha from 23rd. Sun is hemmed in between two benefics Venus and Mercury and Jupiter opposing; hence, my above reading is valid. Manufacturers and exporting agents will be very busy in purchases at reduced rates or reactionary fluctuations between 7th and 16th. 17th to 20th some notable rise warranting Governmental actions is probable. But it will be temporary. From 26th eventng the market would turn bullish and yawn from a good break in prices.

This will apply to all kinds of seeds and oils during this month.

Grain Markets.–The Indian Government has firmly advocated the policy of stable rates and easy supply of grains throughout India. Mars transitting in the 12th house from the Ascendant at New Delhi does not indicate mutual co-operation among important trading personalities. In February 1959, it was presaged in these columns that looting and setting fires to granaries are possible on account of Mars–Rahu–Saturn positions in the heavens. Especially oils, barley, rice, pulses, salt, jowar, bajree would rule strong and supply position will not be smooth and easy. Transport bottlenecks would create headaches. Kariana markets would as well rule strong.

Sugar, Jaggery.—During February and March 1959, quota for sugar export was anticipated. They have proved correct. If sugar or jaggery prices have experienced a good break, during the ending part of April 1959, it is advisable to pick up now. Prices are likely to recover till 10th; again 11th to 22nd will be going down due to Governmental actions. At lower levels purchasing power will again reappear from 23rd. Foreign business is as well likely to be coming forth.

Black Pepper.—From 1st to 12th. Tejana markets, chillies, onions and garlic markets will rule very firm till 22nd and sluggishness afterwards. In the beginning of the month, Vedhas by Venus to Rahu and Kethu may prove bearish; otherwise, it is a bullish period. Good export business will be there.

Chemicals.—There will be two-sided fluctuations in this section on account of late arrivals from overseas. Local industries will be flourishing. The month is bullish till 22nd and declines afterwards.

Leather and Skin.—Heavy mortality is impending in the bovine cattle during this month. Naturally, the prices in the following two months would go cheaper. Manufacturers may well take note of this situation

Mercury.—If the previous month has witnessed a fall, it would replenish the stock during 1st week. It is a bullish month for this section, as retrograde Jupiter transits its exalted Navamsa by 23rd.

Dried Fruits. — Saturn aspecting Abhijit, gets into Mula on 10th. So 1st to 10th, a bullish period will be turned into sluggish period till 20th. Again from 20th to 23rd will witness some rise. 24 to 26th fall; 27th to 31st rise. It seems during second fortnight, the income will not be as anticipated. "So less supply and good demand" would be the market position.

Rubber.—If the preceding period has passed under a depressive tone, it is favourable to purchase for swift short profit during 1st and 7th and sell between 11th and 15th and 16th to 20th. But my anticipations are for a swift fall. During this decline, it can be doubly purchased and profits may be taken by 4th proximo. Henceforth, there will be good export business from Malaya.

Dr. Deshmukh Lane, Bombay–4

Budget proposals for the year 1959-60 are now before the traders and the public. As anticipated by me no burden has been placed on Industries, but some incentive is offered so that more capital would be attracted and would come under taxation. Immediate effects of the policy have proved well and investment markets are indicating rising spree. I have hardly resorted to patting my own back but I do not think it will be incorrect to point out to the readers that in my Annual Report for Stocks particularly I have only indicated the periods of rise. The day before the period of rise has commenced the stock market has so far shown the lowest rates so as to give advantage to the maximum extent for those following the line. This is just to draw attention of the readers.

Coming to the month under review, two major planets Saturn and Jupiter are in retrograde motion now. By 10th May, Saturn re-enters Moola Nakshtra division. Astrologically this is not a factor helping sound economy, but with vedhas by Mars from Punarvasu and the lagna at the time of this change, being favourable, even with this change temporarily one rise in values of commodities and Stocks may be expected. Jupiter by retrogression re-enters Nakshatra division Visakha with its Cancer Navamsa in which it joins Saturn. From (22nd) here in general bearish trend would be visible in commodities. But for the monthly lines in commodities it is necessary to review.

Solar Ingress Charts of 14–4–59 and 15–5–59. Aries solar ingress as has already been indicated in the last report is definitely bullish in the ending part. The chart for Taurus solar entry also is quite bullish, and it might be safer to follow teji in every mandi reaction in commodities during this month.

New Moon Chart of 7–5–59: For the benefit of readers the chart is provided below. Planetary positions even in this chart are favourable so as to point out rise in values of Stocks as well. Specially the period between 14th to 25th would be highly bullish for stock values.

Cotton and Allied Products.—Martian transit from Ardra, Punarvasu and Pushya indicates bullish sentiments in commodities. This transit from the second house of the May 1959 contract chart indicates even cornering of the goods and hectic rise in prices is not overruled. Venus while transits Ardra only is somewhat weak, but being in association with Mars in Gemini from 4th May 1959, she also will help rise in values.

Mercury Kethu	Sun Moon		Venus Mars
Lagna	NEW MOON 7–5–1959
Saturn	Jupiter		Rahu

Kethu	Mercury	Sun	Mars Venus
Lagna	SOLAR INGRESS 15–5–1959 at 1–34 a.m.		Moon
Saturn	Jupiter		Rahu

Comparatively Mercury transitting Bharani and Krittika is somewhat weak from 16th May onwards, but except creating small occasional setbacks, will not affect the trend of the market which will be bullish in general. After judging all the counterbalancing factors, my opinion is as under: 1st to 3rd teji; 4th to 8th mandi; 9th to 10th bothways. Buy in falls. 11th to 20th Teji; 21st 22nd Mandi; 23rd to 26th bothways. Again buy in falls. 27th till end teji.

Oils and Oilseeds.—Excepting the martian transit, Saturn and Mercury transits are not favourable so as to lift up prices. Though because of the indications available in Solar Ingress charts, drops are overruled, this section will lack follow up at higher levels. It is only after the entry of Mars in Pushya on 26th that this section will witness once again rise in values. 1st to 8th bearish; 9th to 15th steady bothways; 16th to 26th somewhat bearish; (fall between 22nd and 26th) from 26th evening till end firm and moving up.

Metals and Bullions.—Though Jupiter is devoid of strength martian and solar movements are helping a steady rising trend. Watching date is 10th evening with entry of Saturn into Moola. Vedha between Mars and Saturn is a factor which might pull down prices once and excepting the period between 10th evening and 26th when it appears to be doubtful whether prices will be maintained at higher levels, the indications for other periods of the month help rise. 1st to 8th dull; 9th to 16th mandi; 17th to 22nd teji; 23rd to 26th mandi; and 27th till end teji.

Sugar and Gud.—Steady conditions would be maintained. Rise specially in the ending chart.

Foodgrains. — Proper distribution will place the prices checked. From 22nd May 1959 prices may also come down.

Chemicals and Spices. — Martian movement from Gemini would help rise in prices of this section as well.

Stocks and Shares.—Navamsa positions between the two major rulers of this section are not favourable after 10th. But many favourable mutual aspects and the position of the New Moon chart indicate that prices will witness rise between 7th and 22nd. Only good mandi dates appear to be 11th, 13th, 19th, 22nd, 26th and 28th. First 10 days are indicating steady conditions with little activity.

THE SUN

The Sun starts on his journey from the 19th degree of Nirayana Aries, enters Taurus on the 13th and terminates the journey on the 17th degree. His northern declination gradually increases from 14° 47′ to about 22 degrees.

THE MOON

The Moon commences to move from the 2nd degree of Aquarius, and after completing a round of the heavens, he stops on the 6th degree of Pisces. He comes to the equator on the 3rd, 18th, and 30th. He attains maximum declination of about 18° on the 11th and on the 24th. He comes to his Apogee on the 8th and goes to his Perigee on the 22nd. He forms with the Sun the following aspects in this month :—

New Moon	on	8th at about	1 a.m.
First quarter	on	16th ,,	1 a.m.
Full Moon	on	22nd ,,	6 p.m.
Last quarter	on	29th ,,	2 p.m.

* The R.A. is always given on Sayana basis, while in the description of planetary movements, the longitudes are given on Nirayana basis, the current Ayanamsa being 21° 49′ 51″.

MARS AND MERCURY

Mars begins to move from the 20th degree of Gemini. He enters Cancer on the 18th and then stops on the 8th degree.

Mercury commences his journey from the 22nd degree of Pisces. He enters Aries on the 7th and Taurus on the 24th. He crosses the ecliptic towards the north on the 30th.

JUPITER AND VENUS

Jupiter is retrograde throughout the month and moves back slowly from the 8th degree of Scorpio to the 4th degree.

Venus starts from the 28th degree of Taurus. He enters Gemini on the 3rd and Cancer on the 30th. He then stops on the 1st degree of Cancer.

SATURN AND RAHU

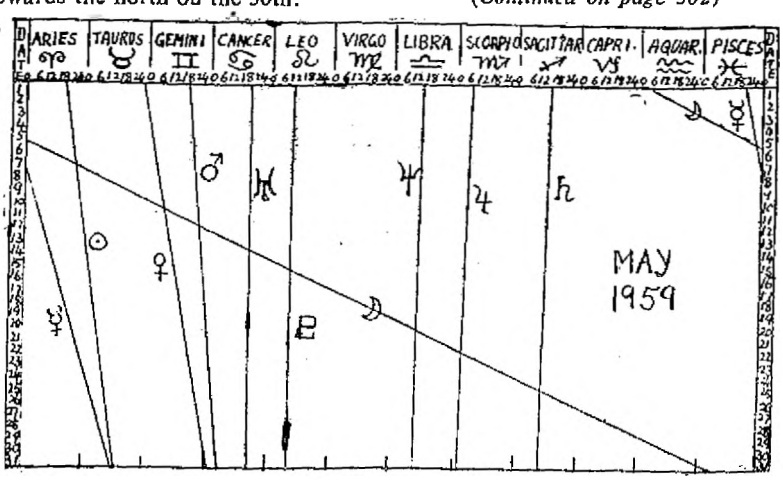
Saturn is retrograde and moves back slowly from 16th degree of Sagittarius to the 14th degree of the same sign. He goes to the Aphelion on 29th.

Rahu moves back from the 22nd degree of Virgo to the 20th degree.

OTHER PLANETS

Uranus moves on from 20° 37′ of Cancer to 21° 17′ of the same sign.

Neptune is retrograde and moves back from 13° 39′ to 12° 54′ of Libra.



Pluto is retrograde and moves back from 9° 53′. He becomes direct on the 13th and then goes upto 9° 54′ of the same sign.

LUNAR CONJUNCTIONS

The Moon will form conjunctions with planets in the following order :—

Mercury	on 5th	at about	6 p.m.
Sun	on 8th	,,	2 a.m.
Venus	on 11th	,,	7 p.m.
Rahu	on 12th	,,	6 p.m.
Mars	on 13th	,,	6 a.m.
Uranus	on 15th	,,	4 a.m.
Pluto	on 16th	,,	3 p.m.
Rahu	on 19th	,,	1 p.m.
Neptune	on 21st	,,	2 a.m.
Jupiter	on 22nd	,,	12 noon
Saturn	on 25th	,,	2 a.m.

MAY 1959

BY MHIRA

[The following forecasts based on Janma Rasi are general and as such those having favourable aspects according to present Dasa and Bhukthi, will have favourable results from the indications made below; while those having adverse aspects according to current directions will experience these predictions to a lesser proportion. The predictions given below are based not upon conjecture, but upon a clear interpretation of the movements or transits of planets. If you do not know your Janma Rasi write to Mihira, C/o THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope.—Ed., A.M.].

MAJOR TRANSITS.—Sun transits Aries till 13th, then enters Taurus. Mercury remains in Pisces only till 7th, then passes on to Aries and remains till 25th only on which date he goes to Taurus. Venus is practically in Gemini for the entire month. Mars transits Gemini till 18th, then enters Cancer. Jupiter is in Scorpio and Saturn in Sagittarius for the entire month. Both are retrograde. Rahu and Kethu continue their backward motion in Virgo and Pisces respectively.

1. Mesha (Aries):—Sun in 1st and 2nd; Venus in 2nd and 3rd; Mars in 3rd and 4th; Rahu in 6th; Jupiter in 8th; Saturn in 9th; Kethu in 12th; and Mercury in 12th, 1st and 2nd.

General.—Venus is the only planet good for the entire month and he is under check for the greater part. Mars is favourable before change of sign on 18th and he is free of check so long but comes under vedha for the rest of the month when he is evil. No other planet is good even for part of the month, Sun, Mercury, Jupiter and Saturn all being unfavourable throughout Nor is there much relief because of vedha. Saturn alone is under check for the whole month and Mercury for the greater part. That is all. Therefore the general effects for the month will be mixed, rather more, unfavourable than otherwise. Obstacles and delays in all matters, tedious and purposeless journeys, fears and anxieties and health troubles, quarrels with friends and relatives, loss of position, troubles from rivals and enemies, undesirable friendships evil consequences arising therefrom, scandals, losses and unhapiness are the rather unpleasant probabilities that are in store for you this month. But the first half will be certainly less troublesome and there is even some scope for gains, a few luxuries and some minor accesses and happiness. Of the three stars of the sign, those born under Bharani may prove to be the worst sufferers while the principal evil transits are likely to touch those born under Aswini and Karthigai only lightly.

Health and Domestic.—Those suffering under habitual blood pressure should be watchful during the first half and take appropriate steps. There may be stomach troubles also accompanied with chest pain. But during this month generally only chronic sufferers need worry and even these with some extra care and caution can manage to avert troubles and upsets. Quarrels may arise within the family circle and may lead to domestic unhappiness. Even relatives outside the family circle as also friends may cause troubles, anxieties and apprehensions and much patience and tact will be called for on your part.

Finance and Speculation.—This sphere may not be affected very adversely this month though not trouble free. There is scope for considerable gains as well as considerable losses and heavy expenditure. As most of the losses are liable to be caused by following the advice of wicked and designing persons posing as friends, your own prudence should warn you against following such advice and prevent losses arising from such causes, thus saving your gains practically. But in the matter of speculative activities, there is no support whatever and only losses are probable.

Real property, Services & Profession, etc.—The month may prove quite tolerable so far as real property matters are concerned and the first half may even be quite favourable. Measures taken during the first half to improve your position, or the betterment of soil by scientific manuring, or introduction of new methods of cultivation are likely to bring good results. It would be advisable not to make any innovations during the second half nor make any bargains or transactions of purchase, sale, etc., as there is a probability that you will be duped or at least not come out on top and the other 'party' has all the advantages. The services are liable to be rather badly hit this month and the causes may be various. Keep to routine and lie low should be the watchword. For the more you try to wriggle out of your difficulties and akward situations, the more deeply you are liable to be involved. Your enemies and rivals will be busy scandalising you and thwarting you. But do not think of putting back. As in many other matters, profession and business will do better during the first half. During the second half, there may be even greater activity but greater obstacles and setbacks also.

For Women.—The month, in some respects, favours and in other respects, mars the activities that women as such usually indulge in. New developments and unforeseen situations may arise in the social spheres and precedents may be established for new departures. But the conservative instinct should be always alert and watchful to see that no irrevocable steps are taken. There will be a great urge to renew the wardrobe or change the jewels to new style but these shoul not be given free vent as they are likely to snowball to extravagant proportions. In anything, especially this month there should be no deviation from the middle path.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and domestic matters, interviews, matters concerning health, commencing treatment, private dealings, etc.—2, 5, 7, 17, 22, 31; money dealings and transactions, financial enterprises, etc.—5, 11, 16, 21, 26, 31; short journeys—5, 11, 16, 21, 25, 31; long journeys—14, 25, 26, 30; real property affairs in general, matters connected with landlords and landholders, investments, educational and academical activities —2, 11, 16, 26, 27, 30; children's affairs and prospects, speculation, excursions, picnics, courtships and love affairs, etc.—2, 13, 18, 26, 31; service matters in general, dealings with superiors, servants, etc.—5, 11, 16, 21, 26, 31; partnership matters, dealings with opposite sex in general, litigation, etc.—5, 11, 16, 21, 26, 31; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased persons—5, 7, 18, 22, 31; professional and business enterprises—2, 7, 16, 20, 29.

Critical Dates.-Personal and private affairs, interviews, health matters, domestic matters, dealings with relatives—13, 16, 20, 26, 29; money dealings and transactions, financial ventures, standing surety for others, etc.—8, 16, 20, 22, 29; short journeys—15, 16, 20, 24, 31; long journeys—11, 12, 18, 27; real property affairs, investments, dealings with tenants, landlords, educational and academical activities, tests, interviews with superiors, etc.—1, 7, 9, 14, 21, 28; speculative dealings, courtship and love affairs, matters connected with children and their prospects—7, 11, 15, 22, 29; service affairs and prospects, dealings with superiors, inferiors, etc.—11, 15, 16, 20, 24, 31; partnerships, dealings with opposite sex in general—2, 8, 16, 20, 22, 29; insurance activities, dealings with the estate of deceased—1, 5, 13, 20, 26, 29; professional and business enterprisss—4, 12, 18, 24, 31.

Chandrashtama from about sunrise of 22nd till about sunrise of 24th.

2. Vrishabha (Taurus).—Venus in 1st and 2nd; Mars in 2nd and 3rd; Rahu in 5th; Jupiter in 7th; Saturn in 8th; Kethu in 11th; Mercury in 11th, 12th and 1st; and Sun in 12th and 1st.

General.—Venus and Jupiter are no doubt in favourable signs for the entire month but not much good is derived thereby as Venus is under check throughout and Jupiter for nearly the whole of second half. The only other planet who is good for at least part of the month is Mars during the second half and he is free of vedha so long. Mercury is no doubt good for the first week but good or bad he is under check throughout the month. Sun and Saturn are only in evil signs for the entire month but both suffer check all along. Thus both good and bad elements are affected by vedha. The part played by vedha this month is welcome as it inhibits more evil planets than good. Otherwise this month may prove very bad indeed with Saturn in 8th; and Sun in 12th and 1st. Quarrels with friends and relatives, anxieties and sorrows, obstacles in undertakings, aimless journeys, fatigue, increase of rivals and enemies, unsavoury associations, likelihood of disgrace and dishonour are within the scope of the evil transits of the month. During the second half, however, these troubles may be much less, and there will be some success, pleasures and luxuries. Of the three asterisms of the sign, those born under Krittiga will fare best and suffer least. Next come those born under Rohini. Those that are least benefited this month will be those born under Mrigasira.

Health and Domestic.—Bilious and windy troubles may be present during the first half and they will easily yield to ordinary treatment, though persons suffering under habitual blood pressure should necessarily exercise greater care. But domestic and social spheres may prove decidedly more troublesome. Misunderstandings, quarrels and even estrangement may result but again these may not proceed very far with some care and tact and restraint on your part. You should also try to avoid travels as far as possible, as there is a likelihood of accidents. If inevitable, you should exercise care during jonrneys.

Finance and Speculation.—You may have to face much difficulties this month so far as your pecuniary matters are concerned both, because of failure or contraction of usual avenues of income but also through heavy drains on your purse as additional items of expenditure will appear off and on. The strain during first half may even prove greater. The situation may be further complicated by losses in your financial enterprises that may happen due to unexpected causes and no fault or carelessness on your part may be involved. Speculation will prove a positive share and danger.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—Landlords and landholders will also feel the brunt of evil transits which are likely to disorganize their affairs. The yield too may by affected adversely and difficulties experienced in the collection of rentals. You may have also to be prepared for some upexpected happenings that will affect your position detrimentally. In such diffibult situations that may atise, you should act with cool deliberation instead of lashing out as you may be sorely tempted at the moment. But the first half of the month is not unfavourable for organising or introducing innovations in methods of cultivation, etc., or in other ways.

The second half may be said to be favourable from the sources but during the earlier half, you may incur the displeasure of your superiors and care will be needed in dealing with your own co-workers. You may suffer from misrepresentation, wrong moves, and decisions which may cause frustration of your expectations. But if these are tided over well with tact, the second half may produce excellent results. Nothing special calls for mention in respect of profession and business which may function round average levels during the entire month with some positive betterment during the second half.

For Women.—The month is not generally favourable for matters concerning the fair sex as such and the part about the middle of the month is the worst affected. The influences at about this time may cause her to lose her friends and even popularity in her social circles. Extra care in toilet may be necessity as you may be tempted to be slovenly and careless about your personal appearance through sheer mental depression. This is not the month to plan extensive social activities, conduct parties yourself but you should not also stay at home and contrive to spend the off hours in the congenial company of your own sex.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and domestic affairs, private matters, interviews, health matters, etc.—3, 5, 11, 16, 21, 25, 30; money dealings and transactions, financial enterprises, etc. —5, 11, 14, 16. 26, 31; short journeys —2, 11, 16, 30; long journeys—2, 7, 16, 20; real property affairs in general, educational and academical activities, interviews, etc.—2, 13, 18, 26, 31; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, courtship and love affairs, excursions and picnics—5, 11, 16, 21, 26, 31; service affairs and prospects, dealings with superiors, servants—5, 11, 14, 16, 26, 31; partnership matters, dealings with opposite sex in general—2, 7, 17, 22, 31; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased, etc.—1, 3, 8, 13, 18, 22, 30; professional and business enterprises—2, 7, 16, 20, 29.

Critical Dates.—Personal and domestic affairs, private matters, health matters, interviews (personal)—4, 16, 19, 29; money dealings and transactions, financial enterprises—1, 14, 16, 18, 28; short journeys—7, 14, 22 27; long journeys—11, 12, 18, 27; real property affairs, educational and academical activities, tests, interviews —3, 7, 15, 22, 25, 29: speculation, children's affairs and propects, courtship and love affairs, excursions and picnics—1, 9, 14. 18, 24, 28; service affairs and prospects—3, 19, 22, 29; partnerships, dealings with opposite sex in general—5, 13, 16, 20, 23, 26, 29; insurance, activities, dealings with estate of deceased—1, 5, 12, 16, 28; professional and business enterprises —11, 12, 18, 27.

Chandrashtama from sunrise of 22nd till sunrise of 24th.

3. Mithuna (Gemini).—Mars in 1st and 2nd; Rahu in 4th; Jupiter in 6th; Saturn in 7th; Keth in 10th; Mercury in 10th, 11th and 12th; Sun in 11th and 12th; and Venus in 12th and 1st.

General.—Venus alone is favoutable for the entire month but mostly free from check. Sun is good for the first half and also free of vedha. Except for last week, Mercury also is auspicious but he is under check so long as he is good. The other planets are in unfavourable signs only, namely, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn, that is all the major planets whose influence counts for most in transits. Though Mars and Jupiter are free of vedha throughout, Saturn is under check all along. Thus in a month of mixed results, the first half will be somewhat more favourable than the second, though not much by way of good can be expected even during the first half. General success, prosperity, comforts, educational and academical successes, auspicious events and celebrations, all these will make conditions in first half fairly tolerable. But, journeys, unwelcome changes, ill-health, quarrels and disputes with relatives, troubles from rivals and enemies, obstacles in all matters, etc., varied anxieties and disgrace will be among the unpleasant happenings of the month especially during the second half. Of the three stars of the sign, those born under Mrigasira and Aridra will suffer lesser than those born under Punarvasu and also reap better results for the good transits.

Health and Domestic.—Ill health of some sort or other will be present dur ing the month, more especially during second half and each may suffer according to his constitutional predisposition. Lung troubles, affections of blood, bile or heat, nervous debility, etc. Though not very great, there is also likely to arise some danger through fire, drugs or sharp instruments that this possibility should be had in mind during the first half. Bilious and windy complaints are more probable during the second half. It is also during this part of the month that quarrels and misunderstandings with friends and relatives both within and outside the domestic circles are liable to occur.

Finance and Speculation.—The finances are perhaps in a slightly better position than other matters. Still losses are indicated by more than one transit influence and considerable care and caution should necessarily be exercised in all your dealings and enterprises, especially as losses through deceit, impositions and confidence tricks are the more likely forms than increased items of expenditure which will also be present. Still the favourable influences will help you much in tiding over all these kinds of difficulties. However there is absolutely no help from speculative transactions.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—The impact of the unfavourable transits is likely to be fully felt by the landlords and landholders and all their affairs suffer in consequence. Unexpected occurrences, fears and appre, hensions, wrong moves and decisions-necessity to defend your rights and privileges against encroachment by others, frustration of your plans, all these may give you several unpleasant jolts during the month. But at the same time, it is likely that whatever happens during the month good or bad will be only of a temporary nature and so not much harm may practically ensue, unless of course you commit yourself to irrevocable contracts, etc. Avoid this month, decision in important matters. The first half is tolerable for the services and in the case of a few may prove to be really good. But during the second half, almost all may have to experience departmental displeasure, or other unpleasant situations. Even here, all these may prove to be only transient disturbances. The worst part of the month in this respect, is the last week. Though not free from setbacks and obstacles, the profession and business may do quite well almost throughout on above average levels.

Women:— Inspite of predominence of evil transits, this month is not at all bad for matters pertaining to the fair sex as such. All their affairs run harmoniously during the greater part of the month and social contacts will bring them care-free exuberance and enthusiasm. You will be sought after by others for your opinions even by more experienced persons and this sould prove very flattering to you, your social prestige will be enhanced. There is nothing against your giving parties and engaging in philanthropic activities but as they are likely to cost you much more than your first appraisal would lead you to expect. Avoid them, but if not possible, work out the expens items carefully beforehand and stick to them.

Fortunate dates:— Health and domestic matters, private affairs, dealings with relatives, friends, personal interviews, etc; health matters–5, 11, 16, 21, 26, 31; money dealings and transactions, financial ventures, etc.– 3, 11, 16, 22, 26, 30; short journeys– 2, 8, 13, 18, 22, 26; long journeys–2, 7, 16, 20, 29; real property affairs in general, matters connected with landlords and landholders, educational and academical activities, interviews, tests–5, 11, 16, 21, 16, 31; speculation, matters pertaining to children and their affairs, courtship and love affairs, excursions, picnics, etc.–5, 8, 13, 16, 21, 30: service affairs and prospects, dealings with superiors, servants, etc.–2, 7, 17, 22, 31; partnership and dealings with opposite sex in general–1, 3, 13, 18, 22, 26, 30; insurance activities and dealings with estate of deceased, etc.–2, 7, 16, 20, 29; professional and business enterprises–1, 3, 13, 18, 22, 26, 30.

Critical dates:— Health and domestic, private affairs, dealings with friends and relatives, interviews, health matters, etc.–1, 3, 15, 18, 29; money dealings and transactions, financial enterprises, standing surety for others.–4, 6, 9, 12, 15, 28; short journeys–7, 15, 22, 29; long journeys –4, 12, 18, 24, 31; real property affairs generally, matters affecting landlords and landholders such as investments, etc.–1, 3, 15, 18, 29; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, courtship and love affairs, excursions, picnics, etc.–3, 8, 19, 26, 29, service affairs and prospects, dealings with superiors, servants, etc.–1, 5, 13, 20, 26, 29; partnerships, dealings with opposite sex in general —4, 15, 27, 31; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased—4, 12, 18, 24, 31; professional and business ventures—4, 15, 27, 31.

Chandrashtama from sunrise of 24th till sunrise of 26th.

4. Kataka (Cancer).—Rahu in 3rd; Jupiter in 5th; Saturn in 6th; Kethu in 9th; Mercury in 9th, 10th and 11th; Sun in 10th and 11th; Venus in 11th and 12th; and Mars in 12th and 1st.

General.—Good transits are plenty this month. Sun, Venus, Jupiter and Saturn are all favourable for the entire month. Though, of these, Venus and Saturn are under check throughout and Sun for the second half, Jupiter is entirely free and this fact is a great feature in itself. Thus Mars remains as the only unfavourable planet for the whole month and he is under check till change of sign, that is till 18th. Therefore the general results for the month should prove to be quite good and satisfactory. Gradual success in all matters in general, good associations and friendships with consequent advantages, happiness and prosperity, new position and honours, triumphs over rivals or enemies, auspicious events or celebrations in the house, aquisition and enjoyment of articles of luxury, official favours, gain of new friends, pleasant associations in social spheres, etc., are the accredited results of the favourable transits. But because of Mars, some obstacles and setbacks now and then especially during the second half, health troubles, etc., as well as some mental worries and quarrels may be present. Of the three asterisms of the sign, those born in Punarvasu may not derive so much benefit from the benefic transits as those born under Pushya or Aslesha.

Health and Domestic.—The month's health can be expected to be quite good with so many planets in favourable signs. But it is not also unlikely that chronic sufferers from eye diseases, bilious and 'heat' disorders will be entirely trouble-free in the matter of health during the second half. High blood pressure people should be careful during this part of the month. Conditions in the domestic and social circles will be quite harmonious. Some auspicious functions or celebrations too may take place. There will be purchases of luxury items and their enjoyments. On the whole, one of the memorable months in the whole year.

Finance and Speculation.–The month may also prove remarkable in the matter of finance. Increased gains from several sources are indicated by more than one transit influence. Your attempts in financial enterprises will meet with assured success and you may find that the returns even exceed your expectations in some cases and the enterprises themselves are likely to be on a much bigger scale than at any time hitherto. The second week generally is the best part of the month in this respect. The month would appear to be highly favourable for speculation also provided kept with reasonable limits and not shaken too hard.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—Though the landlords and landholders are also likely to benefit from the benefic transits of the month, the improvement in their ease is bound to be somewhat limited and may not prevent frustration of your plans whatever they may be. You are liable to make wrong moves and come to wrong decisions that will alter your position for the worse, though because of the benefic transits, they may not after all amount to much. Any transactions or investments made this month may not turn out to be what you expected when making these investments. So, unless exceptionally good, these should be avoided as a rule. This is one of the best months in the whole year for the services. Many a result awaited for, for a long time may find fulfilment during this month and you may attain to a new position or status, and in some cases, this may be the attainment of independent authority—the first gazetted post, or the mere official becomes an officer. The third week may be considered as the best part of the month in this respect. Business and profession will reach up to new levels of achievement and expansion and produce excellent results in the shape of incomes, profits and dividends.

Women only.—As can be expected this month is highly favourable to the interests of the fair sex during which success in all matters that have been longed for will reach near fulfilment in almost all respects. Travels for pleasure with congenial companions with cultural and intellectual parity will be a welcome feature of the month. The ideal month for courtship and love affairs, a confessian of love or the receipt of a 'proposal' may mark a definite stage. Social and philanthropic activities will also prove successful and even succeed beyond expectations.

Fortunate Dates.— Family and domestic matters, personal affairs, interviews, dealings with relatives, friends, health matters, etc—1, 4, 9, 19, 24, 25, 31; money dealings and transactions, financial ventures, etc.— 4, 10, 20, 25, 28, 31; short journeys –3, 7, 18, 24, 18, 30; long journeys–4, 9, 19, 24, 28; real property affairs in generl, matters connected with londlords and landholders as such, educational and academical activities, interviews, tests.–1, 5, 16, 22, 26, 31; speculation, courtship and love affairs, excursions, parties, picnics, etc.–3, 8, 19, 24, 31; service affairs and prospects, dealings with superiors, servants, etc.–4, 9, 19, 24, 28; partnerships, dealings with opposite sex as such–6, 11, 21, 25, 31; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased–6, 11, 21, 25, 31; professional and business enterprises–3, 8, 19, 24, 31.

Critical Dates.—Health matters, personal and domestic affairs, dealings with friends and relatives, interviews, etc.–6, 13, 15, 23, 29; money dealings and transactions, financial enterprises, standing surety for others–7, 11, 15, 23, 29; short journeys–3, 7, 11, 15, 19, long journeys–6, 13, 15, 23, 29; real property matters in general, landlords and landholders, investments, etc.–3, 7, 11, 15, 19; speculation, courtship and love affairs, excursions, picnics, children's affairs and prospects–6, 13, 15, 23, 29; service affairs and prospects, dealings with superiors, servants, etc.–6, 13, 15, 23, 29; partnerships, matters connected with opposite sex in general–2, 8, 12, 16, 23, 29; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased persons–2, 8, 12, 16, 23, 29; professional and business enterprises–6, 13, 15, 23, 29;

Chandrashtama from the beginning of the month till noon of 3rd and again from sunrise of 26th till noon of 28th.

5. Simha (Leo):– Rahu in 2nd; Jupiter in 4th; Saturn in 5th; Ketu in 8th: Mercury in 8th; 9th and 10th; Venus in 10th and 11th; and Mars in 11th and 12th.

General:— There are more evil transits than good this month. It is a rather peculiar feature that no planet, not even Venus is in favourable sign for the entire month. But it can be taken that Venus is good practically for the whole month and free of check also. Mercury is good till change of sign that is for the first 18 days. But then, he is under check throughout good or bad. Sun is good for the second half only and he too is under check all along. Mercury is auspicious for the first and last weeks only and under check except for the first week. Therefore the evil planets are Jupiter and Saturn only and they too are under vedha throughout. Thus there is a very poor show of the transit influences, whether favourable or unfavourable and this is likely to make the month void of results, and insignificant for any purpose good or otherwise and the general results will be nondescript mostly. Slow success, indifferent realisation of your objects, good friendships and favourable results therefrom, gains of various things, luxuries of lands, etc., triumph over rivals and enemies are the likely good results. Enmities and humiliations, troubles through women, quarrels, false implications, wicked associations, etc., are the probable evil results. Of the three stars of the sign, those born under this sign, the evil results will be suffered much more by those born under Purvaphalguni than by those born under Makha or Uttaraphalguna.

Health and Domestic.— Health is liable to suffer off and on throughout the month but the sufferings will be neither continuos nor serious at any time. The mind will suffer because of anxieties, apprehensions and agitation than the body. Tedious journeys may sap your vitality. Bilious complaints and eye affections may trouble chronic sufferers therefrom. The domestic circle will also suffer from internal quarrels, further troubles may also be caused by relatives from outside. There is also likely to arise sorrows and grief from death of relatives.

Finance and Speculation.—There is not much scope from any favourable financial developments during the month. On the other hand, fairly acute critical situation may arise because of contraction of usual avenues of income if not total failure and also mounting expenses. However timely help will be secured so that you will be enabled to tide over their difficulties tolerably well. Expenses because of adverse results in pending litigation may be one of the causes also as this is indicated by more than one transit. Speculation will be one of the worst kind of activities to be indulged in during the month, as losses alone are probable and success is well-nigh impossible.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—This month there may be some temporary relief from landlords and landholders from some of their acute troubles, though the general position continues to be unsatisfactory. Yield and rentals will be good and may be realised without much difficulty. The month is unfavourable for litigation of your rights and if any litigation is pending there is the probability of an adverse result. The influences are not also favourable for launching new schemes, introducing innovations, etc. in methods of cultivation and so forth. A cautious and conservative policy may enable you to avoid pitfalls. There is nothing special that calls for mention in the case of the services. The general position however is unsatisfactory. At the same time it is also certain that no serious difficulties will arise. Still care, caution and prudence and reserve may be called for in some unexpected situations that may arise and much will depend upon how you deal with them for your future mental peace as also prospects. Keep to routine but be alert to deal with conditions that may arise. The profession and business however will do well, even rise to above average levels during the month without any setbacks even so to say.

Women.—Conditions at the opening of the month are very favourable for all matters pertaining to women as such but are just the opposite towards the end of the position gradually deteriorating as the month advances. They may be able to engage in and come out with flying colours in philanthropic and social activities and receive unstinted help from those to whom they apply for succour. But the same state of things may continue and if you still persist in such activities, you may find yourself called upon to face undue hardships and make sacrifices which though unpleasant at the time will serve to strengthen you and build up your reserve strength.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and domestic matters, personal interviews, dealings with friends and relatives, health matters, etc—2, 13, 18, 26, 31; financial enterprises, money dealings and transactions 5, 11, 16, 26, 31; Short journeys—5, 11, 16, 21, 30; long journeys—2, 7, 17, 22, 31; real property affairs, litigation, educational and academical activities, interviews, tests, etc—2, 7, 17, 22, 31. Insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased—3, 13, 18, 22, 26, 30; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, courtships and love affairs, excursions, etc—3, 13, 16, 22, 26, 30; service affairs and prospects, dealings with superiors, servants—2, 7, 16, 20, 29; partnerships, dealings with opposite sex in general—2, 7, 16, 20, 29; professional and business enterprises—5, 11, 16, 21, 30.

Critical Dates.—Personal and domestic matters, personal and private interviews, dealings with friends, relatives, health matters—7, 15, 19, 22, 29; money dealings and transactions, financial ventures, standing surety for others—1, 9, 14, 18, 22, 28; short journeys—3, 19 22, 25, 29; long journeys—1, 5, 13, 20, 26, 29; real property affairs educational and academical activities, tests, interviews—5, 13, 20, 26, 29; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, excursions, picnics, courtship and love affairs—1, 5, 8, 16, 28; service affairs and prospects, dealings with superiors, servants, etc.—4, 8, 12, 18, 24, 28; partnerships, dealings with opposite sex in general—4, 8, 12, 18, 24, 28; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased, etc,—1, 5, 8, 16, 28; professional and business enterprices—3, 19, 25, 29.

Chandrashtama from noon of 3rd till midnight of 5th and again from sunset of 30th till the end of the month.

6. Kanya (Virgo).—Rahu in 1st; Jupiter in 3rd; Saturn in 4th; Kethu in 7th; Mercury in 7th, 8th and 9th; Sun in 8th and 9th; Venus in 9th and 10th; and Mars in 10th and 11th.

General.—Mars is the only planet in a favourable position for the entire month. Even so his influence in 10th is of doubtful value as he is under check so long as he is there. The only other planet who is good for at least part of the month is Mercury from 7th to 25th but then he also suffers vedha so long. The other planets Sun, Venus, Jupiter and Saturn—all of them are in unfavourable signs only. But it is a matter for some consolation that all these planets except Jupiter are all under check. Thus though there is a great numerical preponderance of the evil transits, the month may not prove so evil in the general results as may be feared and the last two weeks may prove to be the least troublesome. Evil associations, ill-health, failure in endeavours, enmities, obstacles, misunderstandings and worries, tedious and wearisome journeys, unwelcome changes, quarrels and disgrace, mental unhappiness, are some of the unsavoury possibilities of the month. But towards the close of the month, some successes, happiness, comforts and luxurious, auspicious events, pleasures, etc., are probable. Of the three asterisms of the sign, those born under Uttaraphalguna will fare best, next comes those born under Hastha. Those born under Chitra will derive least benefit from the auspicious transits and stand to suffer most from the evil ones.

Health and Domestic.—Though there is bound to be ill-health during the month, the actual sufferings may not amount to much. Troubles due to excessive 'heat', blood pressure, weakness and general debility are the sort of troubles which may have to be suffered each according to his constitutional predisposition. Except for some common worries, anxieties and apprehensions, the domestic sphere is not affected in any way so that peace and domestic happines will be the rule rather than the exception. The death of some relative or close friend is not improbable.

Finance and Speculation.—The finances are not yet out of the word and there may not be any appreciable changes for the better during this month. Rather one should be glad if no changes for the worse take place. Danger lies this month from a tendency to launch into enterprises without proper forethought and consideration. The rule should rather be not to attempt anything new till better times, as there is a likelihood of losses arising through deception and through women also. As there are absolutely no hope of success in speculative transactions, they had better be left alone this month.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—The worst affected will perhaps be landlords and landholders for whom there are absolutely no good things in prospect this month. Their affairs will suffer in all aspects—yield and rentals, dealings with tenants, agents, co-owners, etc., and with Governmental bodies as well. The threat of loss of their holdings will be a standing menace and depress all things and apparently no way out of the meddle is yet in sight. Even those who are supposed to be benefited by the new regime, if born under this sign may not benefit much and not be very enthusiastic about the whole thing. But some stand a chance of gaining additional holdings. The services may stand to gain something during the month though it may not be very substantial and may after all prove to be temporary. It may prove to be permanent in the case of the very efficient and those who are really deserving. Though the profession, etc., are not much affected by the adverse transits, there is bound to be a setback after advancement and therefore the net gains may prove to be after all disappointing. There will be brighter conditions however at the close of the month.

Women.—The fair sex are touched only very lightly by the adverse transits in respect of matters appertaining to them as such. Their relationship with the opposite sex will be happy, cordial and harmonious and they will have the required help from their own as well as the opposite sex in all their activities. There will also occur opportunities for expanding your sphere and gaining fresh experience and knowledge through new friends, contacts, journeys, studies. A generally smooth running month in which if any disappointments occur, they will be the exception rather than the rule.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs, domestic matters, personal interviews, dealings with relatives and friends, health matters, etc.—5, 11, 13, 16, 17, 26, 31; money dealings and transactions, financial ventures, etc.—5, 11, 16, 21, 30; short journeys—2, 7, 17, 22, 31; long journeys—5, 11, 16, 21, 30; real property affairs, educational and academical activities, tests, interviews, etc.—3, 13, 18, 22, 26, 30; children's affairs and prospects, speculation, courtship and love affairs, excursions, picnics, etc.—2, 7, 16, 20, 29; service affairs and prospects, dealings with superiors, servants, etc.—2, 7, 16, 20, 29; partnerships and matters connected with opposite sex in general—3, 13, 18, 22, 26, 30; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased—2, 7, 17, 22, 31; professional and business enterprises—5, 11, 13, 16. 17, 26, 31.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private affairs, domestic matters, personal interviews, dealings with relatives and friends, health matters in general—1, 3, 9, 15, 20, 21, 28; money dealings and transactions, financial enterprises, standing surety for others —3, 7, 19, 22, 25, 29; short journeys —1, 5, 13, 20, 26, 29; educational and academical activities, tests, interviews, matters connected with landlords and landholders, landed interests in general—1, 5, 8, 16, 28; speculation, children's prospects and affairs, courtship and love affairs, excursions, picnics, etc.—4, 8, 12, 15, 18, 24, 31: service affairs and prospects, dealings with superiors, servants—4, 8, 12, 15, 18, 24, 31; partnerships, dealings with opposite sex in general—1, 5, 8, 16, 28; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased—1, 5, 13, 20, 26, 29; professional and business enterprises—1, 3, 9, 15, 20, 21, 28.

Chandrashtama from midnight of 5th till noon of 8th.

7. Thula (Libra).—Jupiter in 2nd; Saturn in 3rd; Kethu in 6th; Mercury in 6th, 7th and 8th; Sun in 7th aad 8th; Venus in 8th and 9th; Mars in 9th and 10th; and Rahu in 12th.

General.—There is no dearth of good transit influences for the month but the most powerful ones among them are affected by vedha and not much benefit will really accrue. Venus. Jupiter and Saturn are all good for the entire month. But Venus alone is free of check. Mercury is favourable for the greater part of the month but excepting for the last week, he is inhibited. It is however significant that no planet except Sun is evil for the whole month and of these evil transits, a few also are checked. Thus though there may not be much of note on the credit side of the month, it is equally true that there is very little on the other side as well. Success, popularity, gains, prosperity and renown, success over rivals and enemies, auspicious events and celebrations, enjoyments and luxuries meeting of welcome friends and relatives, increase of knowledge through study, travel, etc., acquisition of new status and position are all in some measure or other due for the favourable transit influences, while mental worries, temptations, obstacles, worries, misunderstandings and quarrels. association with wicked people, weariisome and tedious journeys, etc., are also due for the evil transits. Of the three asterisms of the sign, those born under Chitta and Swati will suffer less from the evil and benefit more from the favourable transits than those born under Visakha.

Health and Domestic.—The month's health will be alright. But during the first half it cannot but be mentioned that the liability to suffer injuries through accidents or wounds from sharp instruments is sufficiently real that one should be careful to avoid such positions as far as possible. Besides, there may be general debility, mental agitation and anxities. But from all this there will be considerable relief during the second half. There is also scope for auspicious events and celebrations, acquisitions of luxuries and their enjoyments and peace and harmony at home.

Finance and Speculation.—There is plenty of scope for improvement in the financial conditions during the month though this will be more and more pronounced as the month advances and will be at its height at the close of the month. Some long-cherished enterprise may fructify with gratifying results and satisfactory rewards adequate to the labour and time involved. But in respect of enterprises begun during the month, great care and caution will be required to make a complete success. In the matter of speculation, there is no encouragement whatever and the risks increase as the month advances and the danger of losses through recklessness becomes very great at the close of the month.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—Inspite of the fact that the month does not lack favourable elements in general so far as transits are concerned, there is nothing much to improve the lot of landlords and landholders which will continue to be in the doldrums and they are liable to be harassed on all sides, troubles from tenants and agents from below and by Governmental action from the top. In addition to all this, the yield is liable to be damaged by pests and may even be poor. Quarrels and litigation may crop up at any time and add to the prevailing discomfort and confusions. The principal caution to be taken note of is that you would be tempted to take the law into your hands but you should not do so however sorely you may be tempted. The month is positively favourable for the services. The attainment of a new status or position or other favourable changes may be confidently awaited. In the case of a few however, actual results may not be achieved this month and things may even apparently move backward. For them it is only a question of time and sooner or later their ambitions will be realised. The profession and business too will benefit substantially this month and there will be appreciable expansion and greater emoluments, activities increasing as the month advances.

Women.—The month is both good and bad for the fair sex. In some of their activities and enterprises, they are likely to achieve stunning results and in others, for no reason at all, the whole thing may prove to be a flop and for no fault of yours. Therefore it would be necessary to watch your step and pursue a thing only if results are increasingly encouraging but retire from the scene when the immediate results are not promising. For all matters, it would be best to keep to routine matters and pursue the middle path instead of starting ambitious schemes of doubtful results.

Fortunate Dates.—Private and personal affairs, domestic matters, dealings with relatives, personal interviews, health matters in general—5, 11, 16, 26, 31; financial enterprises, money dealings and transactions—2, 7, 16, 22, 31; short journeys —3, 13, 18, 22, 26, 30; long journeys —5, 11, 16, 26, 31; real property affairs in general, investments, educational and academical activities, tests, interviews—2, 7, 16, 20, 29; children's affairs and prospects, speculation, courtship and love affairs, excursions, picnics, etc.—2, 7, 16, 20, 29; service affairs and prospects, dealings with superiors, servants, etc.—2, 7, 16, 20, 29; partnership matters, dealings with opposite sex in general—2, 7, 16, 22; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased—5, 11, 16, 26, 31; professional and business enterprises—2, 10, 11, 13, 20, 25, 30.

Chandrashtama from noon of 8th till early morning hours of 11th.

8. Vrischika (Scorpio):—Jupiter in 1st; Saturn in 2nd; Kethu in 5th; Mercury in 5th, 6th and 7th; Sun in 6th and 7th; Venus in 7th and 8th; Mars in 8th and 9th; and Rahu in 11th.

General.—Venus is the only planet in a good sign practically for the entire month and even this planet suffers check throughout. There are only two planets that are favourable for part of the month and they are Mercury from 7th to 25th and Sun for the first half only. Till 25th Mercury is under check good or bad but Sun is free. Thus practically the good elements are very few. Mars, Jupiter and Saturn, the major planets are in evil signs for the entire month and Mars for the greater part and the others throughout are free of vedha. Therefore nothing favourable in the general results can be expected and the month is likely to be full of trials and tribulations. The first half because of Sun may prove less troublesome. Tedious journeys, mental depression and anxieties, humiliation, quarrels and misunderstandings, purposeless undertakings, obstacles in all matters, vain temptations, increase of troubles through rivals and enemies, increased expenditure, are the troubles in store for the month especially during the second half. During the first half, however, some successes, triumph over rivals and enemies, peace of mind, etc., are quite probable. Of the three asterisms belonging to the Sun, those born under Anuradha and Jyeshta will fare much better and suffer much less than those born under Visakha.

Health and Domestic.–Some ailments or trouble with health will have to be faced throughout the month. During the first half, however, they may be only minor and nominal. During the second half digestive troubles, ailments connected with rectum and stool, feverish symptoms, etc., may be present. Even minor injuries or scratches should receive prompt attention, lest they turn septic. The domestic sphere too will witness bickerings and quarrels with wife and children as well as with relatives outside the domestic circle. But these will be minor and quickly resolved.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.— The month is not also good for the landlords, landholders and their interests because of various difficult situations arising in which it is not possible to come to a conclusion as to the best course to be pursued. It is not a question of yield or rentals. but about your rights to your property. Especially during the last ten or twelve days of the month, you may have to act warily and not come to any decision in any situation that may arise, without deep thought. Otherwise, it may have far-reaching consequences. Do not resort to courts for redress of your wrongs if any except as a lost resort. Nor are the services are likely to fare any better in this set-up of transit influences. No doubt the first half may be said to be good for them, not because anything positive can be expected but only negatively. The evil elements will not be able to accomplish anything during the first half, that is all. Unless you take very good care, there may be humiliation and disgrace awaiting you during the second half. The profession and business are in no exceptionally favourable circumstances and will suffer along with others and the last ten days will prove to be the most trying period, during which no new enterprises are advisable.

Women.—The month has nothing that can be said to be favourable for the fair sex who are liable to become subject to fits of mental depression for no apparent or conceivable reason. This may extend even to the extent of neglecting to attend to your ordinary duties, let alone planning and conducting extra activities. Personal charms and with it popularity may be lost. Therefore you should not also neglect attention to your own personal toilet, nor should you mope in depression. Seek out congenial company of your own sex and spend it in agreeable topics of conversation or go out to pictures or like entertainments that will brighten your spirit.

Favourable Dates.— Personal and private affairs, confidential matters, dealings with friends and relatives, personal interviews, health matters in general–2, 7, 17, 22, 31; financial ventures, money dealings and transactions–3, 13, 18, 22, 26, 30; short journeys–2, 7, 16, 20, 29; long journeys–11, 16, 23, 30; real property affairs in general, investments, educational and academical activities, interviews, tests—2, 7, 16, 20, 29; children's affairs and prospects; speculation, courtship and love affairs excursions, picnics, etc.–3, 13, 18, 22, 26, 30; service affairs and prospects–2, 7, 17, 22, 31. partnership activities, dealings with opposite sex in general–5, 11, 16, 21, 30; insurance business and activities connected therewith as also dealings with the estate of deceased–5, 11, 16, 26, 31; protessional and business enterprises–11,16, 23, 30.

Critical Dates.–Private affairs, personal interviews, confidential matters, dealings with friends and relatives, personal interviews—1, 5, 13, 20, 26; financial ventures, money dealings and transactions, standing surety—1, 8, 16, 28; short journeys—4. 12, 18, 24, 31; long journeys—7, 12, 15, 22, 28; real property affairs in general, investments, educational and academical activities, interviews, tests etc.—4, 12, 18, 24, 31; children's affairs and prospects, speculation, courtship and love affairs, excursions, picnics, etc.—1, 8, 16, 28; service affairs and prospects, dealings with superiors, servants, etc.—1, 5, 13, 20, 26; partnership dealings and business, dealings with opposite sex in general—3, 19, 22, 25, 29; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased—1, 14, 18, 21, 28; professional and business enterprises—7, 15, 19, 22, 29.

Chandrashtama from early morning hours of 11th till noon of 13th.

9. Dhanus (Sagittarius).—Saturn in 1st; Kethu in 4th; Mercury in 4th, 5th and 6th; Sun in 5th and 6th; Venus in 6th and 7th; Mars in 7th and 8th; Rahu in 10th; and Jupiter in 12th.

General.—There is no transit influence that is favourable for the entire month. Even Venus is evilly disposed throughout. Mercury is good for the first and last weeks only and free of vedha so long. But Sun who is favourable for the second half only is under check during that period. Mars and Saturn are evil for the whole month. It may be said, however, that Jupiter in twelfth may not be considered as altogether evil or wholly good. So far as the general results are concerned, the emphasis will be only on the evil side which will be somewhat better during the second half and more so during the last week. Sorrows, mental agitation, difficulties caused by rivals and enemies, quarrels with relatives, losses, ill-health, aimless travels, dishonour, death of relatives, obstructions and delays in all undertakings, are the likely results of the adverse transits especially during the first half. Popularity, general prosperity, gains, fame, happiness, success, etc., are the probable good happenings for the second half. Of the three stars of the sign, those born under Moola and Uttarashada will fare much better than those born under Poorvashada and suffer much less.

Health and Domestic.—Though there may be ill-health. it is likely to be only nominal and may be confined to the first half only and the sufferings are likely to be more, mental than of the body. Stomach may be upset and care in diet necessary. The sufferings in the case of wife and children from something or other may prove greater than in your case. The domestic circle too will not be trouble free and bickerings, even quarrels and misunderstandings too may occur. You should also be prepared for troubles caused by the mischief of some female relatives inside or outside the domestic circle.

Finance and Speculation.–The money position will be difficult at the beginning of the month and may even appear to grow worse. But really there is no room for much anxiety or apprehension as conditions are likely to grow better as the month advances and the position will somewhat be better at the close of the month. But the principal difficulty will lie in controlling the expenditure which may swell to exorbitant proportions. Losses are indicated by more than one transit influence, hence great care in enterprises should be exercised and it would be better to avoid in toto transactions of the speculative nature, especially dealings on margin.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—The evil transits do not affect real property affairs very much nor are there any influences specially favouring them either. The general position will be unsatisfactory though worst fears may not come true this month. Yield and rentals may prove satisfactory and may be realised without much difficulties. But for other matters like litigation about results, or even pending litigation, the month may prove unpropitious. In the matter of investments, you are liable to commit some error of judgment principally due to over-confidence and so you should keep your wits about you in this connection. The services may neither profit nor suffer much this month, though the incurring of displeasure of your superiors or minor setbacks appear to be inevitable. In the case of a few, matters may even go further especially if current directional influences too are unfavourable, they may have to face departmental charges and may incur disrepute. The month is not at all propitious for the business and the profession, at least the first half will be dull and uninspiring and may improve to normal levels and above later on.

Women.—The month is fairly good for all matters pertaining to the fair sex as such though the transits are preponderatingly evil for the greater part of the month (latter part) they will be able to order things to their satisfaction and fairly harmonious conditions will prevail in social circles and their contacts. In fact, your sense of importanoe and self-satisfaction will be gratifyingly enhanced by older and apparently wiser people coming to you for advice and consultation. You may go ahead with your parties and philanthropic schemes but beware, you may unwittingly commit yourself to greater expenses than you have in mind.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs, domestic matters, personal interviews, health matters in general—3, 13, 18, 22, 26, 30; money dealings and transactions, financial enterprises—2. 7, 16, 20, 29; short journeys—2, 7, 16, 20, 29; long journeys—2, 13, 18, 26, 31; real property affairs, educational and academical matters, interviews, tests, investments —3, 13, 18, 22, 26, 30; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, courtship and love affairs, excursions, picnics, etc.—2, 7, 17, 22, 31; service affairs and prospects–5, 11, 16, 21, 30; partnership matters and business, dealings with opposite sex in general –5, 11, 16, 26, 31; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased persons—1, 2, 10, 11, 16, 24; professional and business enterprises–5, 11, 16, 26, 31.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private affairs, interviews, domestic matters—13, 16, 20, 26, 29; money dealings financial ventures, standing surety—8, 16, 20, 22, 29; short journeys–15, 16, 20, 24, 31; long journeys —11, 12, 18, 27; real property affairs, investments, dealings with landed property, educational matters, interviews, etc,—1, 7, 9, 14, 21, 28; speculative dealings, love affairs, matters connected with children—7, 11, 15, 22, 29; service affairs, dealings with superiors, etc.—11, 15, 16, 20, 24, 31; partnership, dealings with opposite sex—2, 8, 16, 20, 22, 29; insurance dealings with the estate of the deceased—1, 5, 13, 20, 26, 29; profession and business—4, 12, 18, 24, 31.

Chandrashtama from noon of 13th till about midnight of 15th.

10. Makara (Capricorn).—Kethu in 3rd; Mercury in 3rd, 4th and 5th; Sun in 4th and 5th; Venus in 5th and 6th; Mars in 6th and 7th; Rahu in 9th; Jupiter in 11th; and Saturn in 12th.

General.—Sun and Saturn are evil for the entire month but both are under check throughout. Mars is good before change of sign that is till 18th but good or bad he is under check all along. Venus is evil practically for the whole month but then he too is under vedha. Mercury transits a good sign between 8th and 25th while transitting Aries, 4th sign from Janma Rasi. He too is under vedha for the entire month. Jupiter is the only remaining planet and he is favourable throughout the month and what is even more significant, he is free of check. This is the brightest feature of the month, while all other transits for the month good or bad lack power, this single transit is full of force and will be responsible for keeping it on above average levels in almost all respects if the Sun is the strongest planet, the native enjoys a well-balanced health, looks only at the bright side of things. The weak point is the eye-sight. He is likely to suffer from accidents due to fire. However, if the Sun is predominantly weak, one may become blind, the heart will be in a poor condition. He will be frequently troubled with palpitations and aneurism. He may be a victim of sun-stroke. When Mars is very strong in the horoscope, the sanguine temperament is represented. The blood is rich. Apoplexy, skin disease, inflammation of the inner organs are the likely complaints. He runs a great risk of wounds and quarrels. When Mars is highly afflicted, the native may commit acts which may lead him to the scaffold. The Mercury-Man is endowed with a bilious temperament. His weak points are the nervous system, lever and digestive organs. He is sometimes childishly superstitious and has a tendency to go in for quack remedies. When Jupiter is the strongest planet, the temperament is both phlegmatic and sanguine. One may suffer from excessive indulgence in eating and drinking. The Venus person is strong, health and happy, sensual, full of likes for the worldly things. The disposition is cheerful. He may suffer from disappointments in love, derangements of the generative organs. At worst, he will suffer from the consequences of his excesses and has to pay for them dearly. Syphilis, blood-poisoning, etc., are not outside possibility. When Saturn is the strongest planet, one may often suffer from vericose veins. He worries a great deal and suffers from chronic melancholia that may sometimes grow into insanity, unclean in habits, uncouth in appearance, with rough hair all over the body, lean and tall, inactive, one is apt to make himself an undesirable visitor. The spinal column requires special care.

generally. Good health, success in general, triumph over rivals, acquisition of articles of luxury and comfort and their enjoyment, good friends and associations, auspicious events and celebrations, honour, prosperity, etc., are the results due for the beneficial transits of the month. Litigation, quarrels, displeasure of superiors, dishonour, purposeless undertakings, enmities with relatives, etc., are the results attributed to the evil transits. Of the three asterisms of the sign, those born under Uttrasashada will fare best; next come those born under Sravana, while those born under Dhanishta will be affected more adversely than the others.

Health and Domestic.—In the matter of health, the month may prove quite trouble free. Though some of the transits are disposed to cause such troubles as stomachache, eye troubles, they are powerless to implement them. Still chronic sufferers will do well to take precautionary measures. It is quite probable that the wife's health may be affected during the second half. The domestic sphere too will be free of troubles and quarrels and greater harmony than usual will be present. This however does not mean there will be no differences whatever in the matter of the family budget or other domestic policies.

Finance and Speculation.— The financial sphere may not so well reflect the good from the favourable transits where the conflict between income and outflow will create some critical situations that will be only barely tided over with the help of the good influences. Hence punctilious care in controlling expenditure will be quite necessary to successfully combat reduced income or failure of the usual resources that may well happen during the month. However speculation would appear to be favoured though not highly favoured. With the usual care and caution, it may be possible to net some gains.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.— No doubt the majority of the transit influences are nondescript and unable to affect the affairs pertaining to real property appreciably. But still some of the transits that matter, may be said to favour this sphere of activity even to the extent of contributions to your existing holdings by additional items being acquired and such investments if made, may also shape out well in the future. Improvements, introduction of new devices, machinery, etc., to facilitate all stages of agricultural work can also be made with profit. But these schemes should be well thought out to the minutest detail and not introduced in haphazard fashion. The services are apparently in good favour and there would be every indication that you should progress well in your appointed sphere. You would also have completed all necessary tests, technical qualifications, etc., that may be necessary for your uplift. In competition, you may have come out very well. But things simply do not happen this month. Something intervenes and postpones. But such things are purely temporary. The profession and business will function well above average levels this month.

Women.— This month, indeed, favours all matters connected with the fair sex as such. Excursions and picnics, travels with congenial company, new cultural contacts, social and intellectual delights, etc., may well come within the experiences of the month. The unattached may well succeed in attaining the matrimonial state or courtship may reach the definite stage of engagement or betrothal. The home may be the recipient of presents, luxury items, or domestic gadgets that are delightful to the feminine heart. Parties and social functions are the success they are meant to be.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs, domestic matters, dealings with friends and relatives, personal interviews, health matters in general—2, 7, 16, 20, 29; money dealings and transactions, financial ventures in general—2, 7, 16, 20, 29; short journeys—3, 13, 18, 22, 26, 30; long journeys—5, 11, 16, 26; real property affairs, educational and academical activities, interviews, tests, investments—2, 7, 17, 22, 31; speculation, children's prospects and affairs, courtship and love affairs, excursions, picnics, etc.—5, 11, 16, 21, 30; service affairs and prospects —5, 11, 16, 26; partnership matters, dealings with the opposite sex in general—2, 3, 11, 16, 21; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased—2, 13, 18, 26, 31; professional and business enterprises—5, 11, 16, 21, 30.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private affairs, domestic matters, dealings with friends and relatives, personal interviews, health matters in general—4, 8, 12, 18, 24, 31; money dealings and transactions, financial ventures, standing surety for others —4, 8, 12, 18, 24, 31; short journeys —1, 8, 16, 28; long journeys—1, 14, 18, 21, 28; real property affairs, educational and academical enterprises, tests, investments—5, 13, 20, 26, 29; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, courtship and love affairs, excursions, picnics, etc.—3, 19, 25, 29; service affairs and prospects—1, 14, 18, 21, 28; partnership matters, dealings with opposite sex in general—1, 7, 9, 14, 25, 28; insurance activities and business dealings with estate of deceased in general—4, 8, 12, 18, 24, 31; professional and business enterprises—3, 19, 25, 29.

Chandrashtama from about midnight of 15th till early morning hours of 18th.

II. Kumbha (Aquarius):—Kethu in 2nd; Mercury in 2nd, 3rd and 4th; Sun in 3rd and 4th; Venus in 4th and 5th; Mars in 5th and 6th; Rahu in 8th; Jupiter in 10th; and Saturn in 11th.

General.—Venus and Saturn are in favourable signs for the entire month, While Saturn is under check throughout, Venus is free. Sun is good for the first half, Mars for the second, and Mercury for the last week. This exhausts the list of good influences for the month. Jupiter is evil for the whole month and unchecked throughout. Therefore, the prospects for the month are not very bright and the general effects which will partake of a mixed character will be more evil than be of a favourable nature throughout. Sorrows, obstacles in all matters, quarrels and disputes with friends and relatives, troubles from rivals and enemies, losses, mental agitation, worries, disgrace and dishonour, unjust blame, undesirable changes, etc., are the sort of undesirable effects due for the evil transits of the month. But gains, happiness, increased name and fame, auspicious events, visits of welcome relatives and friends, success over rivals and enemies, excursions, pleasure trips, good news, etc., are also due for the favourable transits. Of the three asterisms of the sign, those born under Dhanishta and Satabhisha will suffer much less than those born under Poorvabhadrapada.

Health and Domestic.— Health troubles may not be a big item of the month's results because of compensatory factors at work. Not that the month will be entirely free of ailments, ordinary troubles, stomach-ache, headache, may come but quickly yield to treatment. No major sickness need be feared. The same sort of mixed and nondescript happenings will be witnessed in the domestic sphere also. Minor differences, bickerings and quarrels will be present. There may be troubles from relatives both inside as well as outside the domestic circle.

Finance and Speculation.—The financial position will be fairly satisfactory for the month. Gain from more than one source is indicated as also increased income from the usual sources. There will be also success in the realisation of outstandings. Financial help too is likely to be readily forthcoming from highly placed and rich persons who can be induced to take interest in your affairs. Though these observations apply in general to the whole month, they are more specially characteristic of the first half. Some stress may even be felt during the second half. But none of the transits are in favour of speculation. With Mars in fifth aspected by Saturn, speculation can bring in only disaster.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—The influences would also appear to favour real property matters in general though in some matters deterioration during the month is inevitable, especially in the matter of dealings with tenants, agents, co-owners or others connected with your estate. Disputes are likely to arise and though you may come out successful in the end, a lot of expenses, troubles and unpleasantness will result. There is just a bare possibility that your land may contain some valuable ore or oil and it may be worthwhile prospecting for the same, or at least the new methods of cultivation may be tried to make the yield more plentiful. Perhaps it is only for the services that the month may prove most propitious. Recognition of your merits by your superiors with consequent elevation to new position and honour, success over rivals, triumph in competitive posts, etc., are due for the favourable transits in force during the month. The profession and business too may do well and there will be success in their enterprises adequate to the extent of trouble and labour involved, though no spectacular advance or expansion may not be possible this month.

Women.—The month opens well for all matters in which women are interested because of their sex. They may engage in all activities with the assurance that success will follow. But on that account, they should not overtax their capacity or resources as the influences do not remain the same throughout the month and conditions are likely to deteriorate as the month advances. You should be more and more careful in your commitments as you may be unwittingly led on to be compelled to do things and make sacrifices beyond your original estimate.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal domestic matters, interviews and health matters in general—2, 7, 16, 20, 29; money dealings and financial ventures—3, 13, 18, 22, 26, 30; short journeys—2, 7, 17, 22, 31; long journeys—5, 11, 16, 21, 30; real property affairs, educational and interviews—2, 10, 11, 16, 21, 30; partnership and dealings with opposite sex—2, 13, 18, 26, 31; insurance business, dealings with the estate of deceased—5, 11, 16, 26, 31; speculation, children's prospects, excursions, courtship and love affairs—5, 11, 16, 26, 31; professional and business enterprises—2, 7, 18, 22, 31.

Critical Dates.—Health and domestic matters, personal affairs and interviews—4, 12, 15, 18, 25, 31; financial enterprises and standing surety, etc.—1, 8, 16, 28; short journeys—5, 13, 20, 23, 26; long journeys—3, 19, 25, 29; educational and academical activities, interviews and investments—4, 19, 25, 29; speculation, children's prospects, excursions, courtship and love affairs—9, 14, 18, 21, 28; dealings with superiors and servants, etc.—4, 6, 8, 12, 22, 25; partnership and dealings with opposite sex in general—7, 15, 19, 22, 25, 29; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased persons—9, 14, 18, 21, 28; professional and business enterprises—1, 5, 13, 20, 23, 26.

Chandrashtama from early morning hours of 18th till about sunrise of 20th.

12. Meena (Pisces).—Kethu in 1st; Mercury in 1st, 2nd and 3rd; Sun in 2nd and 3rd; Venus in 3rd and 4th; Mars in 4th and 5th; Rahu in 7th; Jupiter in 9th; and Saturn in 11th.

General—Venus and Jupiter are good for the entire month, but unfortunately both are under check throughout and hence their beneficial rays will not be available for exploitation. Mercury and Mars are in unfavourable signs for the entire month. They also suffer vedha but not throughout. Sun is good for the second half only and also under check. The only remaining planet is Saturn. In tenth he is neither wholly good nor wholly evil, 10th being an Upachaya sign where malefics are powerful. The net result is that so far as general results are concerned there will not be much of good or evil either. The second half may yield somewhat better results. Worries, fears and anxieties, quarrels with friends and relatives, unsuccessful enterprises, sorrows through relatives, ill-health, losses, unfortunate changes, scandals and unjust blame, etc., are unfavourable results due for the evil transits especially during the first half. During the second half however, prosperity and success are probable. Of the three stars of the sign, those born under Uttarabhadrapada and Revati will fare much better than those born under Poorvabhadrapada.

BRIHAT JATAKA

OF VARAHA MIHIRA

English Translation by Prof. B. Suryanarain Rao with original slokas in Bold Devanagari

(FOURTH EDITION)

This is a monumental work written by Varahamihira the versatile genius of the first century B.C. and deals with the entire Science of Astrology in a masterly way. Brihat Jataka, as the author rightly asserts, is intended as a boat for all those who at first get despirited at the sight of the vast ocean of astrological knowledge but who wish to cross the same.

The book contains the invaluable commentaries of Bhattotpala which have made clear many of the obscure passages. Prof. Rao has given copious notes in his own inimitable style which facilitates easy comprehension.

CONTENTS

Introduction, Explanation of Technicalities, Differences in Planets, Various forms of Birth, Conception and Peculiarities of this Phenomenon, Peculiarities of Birth, Balarishta or Early Death, Determination of Longevity, Periods and Sub-periods, Results of Planets, Means of Livelihood, Rajayogas, Nabhasa Combinations, Results of two Planets in Combination, Ascetic Combinations, Stellar Influences, Lunar Influences, Results of Planetary Aspects, Results of Planets in different Houses, Mixed Results, Misfortunes, Female Horoscopy, Combinations for Death, Lost Horoscopy, Drekkana Influences, etc.

In fact this is the one book that everyone should read for getting a thorough knowledge of the subject. Prof. B. Suryanarain Rao is hailed as Abhinava Varahamihira and his masterly notes and the lucidity with which he has explained the principles merit your attention.

PLANETS AND DEVELOPMENTS IN TIBET

Scanned by www.sabarishastrology.com Dr. B. V. Raman's Work

WHILE addressing the U.S. House of Representatives during his visit to America in 1949 Mr. Nehru declared that "where freedom is menaced, or justice threatened or where aggression takes place, we cannot be and shall not be neutral". His statements in and out of Parliament vis-a-vis developments in Tibet leading to the flight of the Dalai Lama and the ruthless action taken by the Chinese Government against the Tibetans, clearly reveal that Mr. Nehru has either revised his stand or where the matter concerns Communist countries he is prepared to modify his pet theory of Panchasila. When we protest against what is happening in Central Africa and when we oppose colonialism and imperialism of the West, we must also denounce with the same vehemence any aggression committed by the Communists. The plea of friendship is no excuse for keeping silent about China's aggression in Tibet. Mahatma Gandhi said, oppose the British Government but treat the British people as friends. Similarly with regard to China. To a student of astrology however the fluidity of Mr. Nehru's thinking becomes clear by the disposition of the Moon in a Chara rasi in the constellation of Mercury, subject to a powerful Papakarthari Yoga. Examining the astrological implications of the Panchasila agreement entered into between Mr. Nehru and Mr. Chou-en-Lai, when the latter was in India in 1954, we observed thus in the August 1954 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE: "In the Chinese Republic horoscope, Chandra Dasa lasts till about 1958. Throughout this Dasa, the Chinese Republic will be engaged in consolidating its gains and maintaining the party's internal purity and strength of purpose". In Mars Dasa "there will be nationalist uprisings which will be ruthlessly suppressed by the ruling authorities.....due to cleavages within the Communist Party in China, Sino-India relations will not improve to the extent envisaged in the Prime Ministers' statements.....the dominating position of Mars will cause disputes in regard to border areas. Our leaders will accept at their face value statements of Chinese statesmen and this will place India in a difficult, inconvenient and awkward position".

From the Dalai Lama's statement about the 'leonine' repression resorted to by the Chinese in Tibet and the heroic fight of the Tibetan people for their freedom emerges a clear picture of Communist Imperialism and the unworkability of Panchasila theory when one of the parties is a Communist totalitarian state. The People's Republic horoscope is having the Dasa of Mars and Mars though neecha is in the 7th or house of foreign relations and there is clear neechabhanga. Therefore whatever be the professions and protestations of China—Mr. Chou-en-Lai persists in his theory that the Tibetan crisis is due to a handful of rebels—it is clear that from now on and until the end of Mars Dasa, China will embark on an aggressive policy with a view to extending her boundaries and influences in other parts of Asia and in acquiring, of course by force, what she considers her legitimate territory even in disputed areas.

No reliable astrological data about Tibet are available. This "roof of the world" has had an interesting and checkered history. According to native tradition the Tibetan race descended from a monkey into whose body had entered the compassionate spirit known as Chen-re-si (Avalokiteswara). The earliest kings of this country commence with Nya-tri Tseupo, said to have been the fifth son of King Prasenajit of Kosala. Thus our relations with Tibet extend back to legendry periods. As early as 1013 A.D., the Hindu Pandit Dharmapala came to Tibet with several of his disciples. From Vikramasila, Atisha came to Tibet and founded the Kar-ma-pa sect of Tibetan Buddhism. In the 12th and 13th centuries the priests steadily increased their power and influence. The grandson of the great Changizkhan invited the priest Sakya Pandita to his court in 1247 and in 1252 the Pandita's nephew Pak-Pa Gyal-Tsen was invited to the court of China by Kublai Khan who invested Pak-pa with sovereign powers over Tibet. This event is said to have taken place in the year 1264 and, from this time the Lamas became the rulers of Tibet. After this there was the rise of Tsong Ka-Pa, the "man from the land of onions" and his disciples known as Yellow Hats as distinct from the Red Hats of the existing priesthood, were forbidden to marry or drink wine and a stricter code of morals was instituted. The grandson of Tsong Ka-Pa was Sonam Gya-tso, who spread the faith through Mongolia, received the title of Dalai Lama Vajradhara from a Mongol Chieftain and this title continues today. It was in 1641, that Lobsang Gya-tso was established as the ruler over the whole of Tibet. We do not think that on the basis of historical facts furnished above, it would be possible to construct an astrological base for Tibet. But throughout 1641, Saturn's movement was confined to Kumbha or Aquarius and that of Jupiter to Makara. It will also be seen that in 1643, there was a conjunction of these two planets in Pisces. The conjunction of Jupiter and Saturn either in the 12th or 2nd from Aquarius seems to produce great events in Tibet. This is just a suggestion and it is for students of astrology to work on this theory and find out how far, historical developments in Tibet have patterned themselves in the light of Jupiter–Saturn movements—especially conjunctions—with reference to Aquarius. Coming to modern history Sir Francis Younghusband, the political representative of the then Government of India effected a treaty with Tibet in September 1904. In 1910 as the Chinese entered Lhasa the Dalai Lama fled to India. In 1911, as the Chinese Revolution broke out, disorder among the Chinese troops ensued and the Tibetans were able to drive them out of Lhasa. The Dalai Lama returned to Lhasa. In 1917, the Chinese attacked again but were defeated. The last Dalai Lama died in December 1933 and his successor the present Dalai Lama was enthroned on 22–2–1940, with Chinese support. The birth particulars of the present (14th) Dalai Lama are not known but he is said to have been born 18 months after the death of the 13th Dalai Lama.

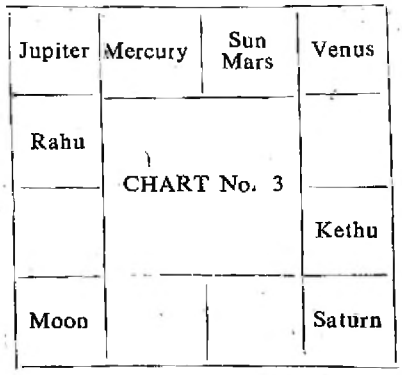
It will be seen that on the day the Dalai Lama ascended the throne, the Moon was full. Perhaps the day was selected by Tibetan astrologers but Chandra Lagnadhipathi is in conjunction with Mars, a maraka. All the planets are dwirdwadasa. The time of the event is not known. But the Dasa was that of Guru. At the moment the Dasa of Saturn is operating. Though Saturn is a Yogakaraka, he is debilitated and is in exact conjunction with the Sun, in the constellation of Kethu. The Sun–Saturn conjunction in this case—and the horoscope is having Saturn's Dasa—is a very unfavourable position denoting a very critical time in which all affairs go wrong. It also "cramps and warps" the mind and brings an anxious period into the life. Throughout Saturn's Dasa, there does not seem to be a chance for the Dalai Lama to be restored back to his throne.



According to Press reports, the Dalai Lama entered into Indian territory on 31st March 1959, Tuesday in the evening, perhaps when Virgo was ascending with Rahu in association and aspected by Mars and Saturn. The affliction of the Moon in Sagittarius by Saturn and Mars gives us a clue as to the state of mind of the Dalai Lama when he entered India. Mars and Saturn aspecting the 10th (from Chandra Lagna) and lord of Lagna being debilitated indicates a decidedly dangerous period he was in. Even in this chart, 'separation and estrangement' are clearly denoted. The Moon's affliction limits his actions and bring him sorrowful and depressing experiences.

The Tibetan revolt and its suppression by Peking present a new and dangerous chapter in Asian history. Responsible people can no doubt understand Mr. Nehru's caution and reticence. He is also still hoping that China will get back the Dalai Lama and restore complete internal autonomy to Tibet. Against these fond hopes of our peace-loving Prime Minister what are the astrological indications? On the day of the treaty under which China took control of Tibet's foreign and military affairs, the positions of planets are interestingly disposed. The Moon is in Sagittarius and Saturn is exactly in the 10th, Kethu in the 9th and Venus (lord of the 6th and 11th) in the 7th and the Sun and Mars in conjunction in Taurus. Evidently, strong opposition to Chinese rule must have commenced even as early as 1956, when there was a conjunction of Saturn and Rahu in Scorpio, having reference to the 12th in Chart No. 3. It will be seen that the uprising in Kham began in 1956, and this rapidly spread throughout the whole of east Tibet. It seems considerable pressure was put on the Dalai Lama by the Chinese publicly to dissociate himself from the revolt, an action which he managed to resist. The Dalai Lama's visit to India took place also in the same year and it is reported that the Dalai Lama asked for sanctuary for himself as he had no intention of returning to Tibet.

*"Mr. Nehru immediately sent for Chou-en-Lai, at that time on a visit to India—and Hungary—who tried to persuade the Dalai Lama that the atrocities and oppression were due to a too strict interpretation of China's policy by local commanders and that he personally would see to it that these were not repeated on his return to China. But the Dalai Lama remained firm in his refusal to return to Tibet against all arguments and cajolery, even, when Chou-en-lai finally agreed to withdraw Chinese personnel from Tibet, maintaining that China had made promises before and had never kept them. It was only when Mr. Nehru gave his assurance that India would see to it that China's promise of withdrawal from Tibet was observed, and that he himself would visit Tibet in a few months' time, that the Dalai Lama finally agreed to return to Tibet."

In the horoscope of the People's Republic, Mars is strongly posited and Lagnadhipathi is subjected in an inimical sign to a powerful Papakarthari Yoga. Mars Dasa rules till about 1965. The period of Mars will be dramatic and

GRAHA NAKSHATRA PHALADESH SANSHODHAN MANDAL, POONA

The eleventh anniversary function of Graha Nakshatra Phaladesh Sanshodan Mandal was celebrated on 25th April 1959 at 6 P.M. in the Assembly Hall of N.M.V. High School, Poona. Prof. B. V. Raman, Editor, THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE, presided over the function. On this occasion the degree of Jyotisha Pandit was conferred on Sri S. K. Bhatt and Sri Ajanta Jain, two distinguished astrologers of Poona.

There was also a Conference of astrologers and local Newspapermen inaugurated by Dr. N. B. Parulekar, Editor of Sakal. Discussions among astrologers and students of astrology were held. Prof. Raman gave convincing replies to the various questions put to him and the discussions were most interesting and lively.

Prof. Raman also paid visits to leading educational and cultural institutions.

A detailed report of the deliberations along with the Presidential address, etc., will appear in the next issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE.

The Ancient Social Fabric

THE traditional Indian social structure which is now in a ferment has many valuable constituents. It is a close-knit pattern based on the principles of peaceful co-existence and mutual co-operation. The latter alone gave a vitality to the social organism. There are not only the farmers, but wage-earners in whose capacities and activities rested the well-being of the social community. It is a pity that our reformers when they talk of land reforms, ignore this wage-earner; they do not seem to realise that most of our farmers depend only on these labourers. The much-boosted Kisan is only a typical idle bourgeois with many vested interests; he is as much an absentee landlord as an urban inhabitant.

Besides these, the social pattern had an important place for the barbers whose presence at every auspicious occasion is a necessity. Then there is the tailor who in the South Indian villages is mostly a muslim; and these muslims are usually associated with certain musical instruments that come out during the Hindu marriage ceremonies. Those who belong to rural India know well that the Hindu-Muslim quarrels and problems are largely cooked up ones. Actually one feels that these problems are manufactured by the politicians and statesmen belonging to the non-Hindu parties. The British Government, the Congress and the League, a rural citizen is convinced, have created these problems.

Leaving this aside, let us look deeper into the social pattern. There are many castes, each one having its own privileges and duties in the social fabric, some of these castes have very few members. Thus the Banias and the Brahmans form a negligible percentage of a village population. And yet there had been no rivalries and quarrels between these minorities and the rest till the Government and the vested interests created them during this century. If these different castes lived together peacefully, it is because they practised peaceful co-existence and because they actively co-operated with one another.

It was in this set-up that there was found an astrologer too. He may not have been always a profound astrologer. But he was deemed to be necessary. The Hindu believes in the performance of many karmas or duties. There are duties towards fellow human beings, towards the rest of the organisms in the external world and towards the deities. These duties begin even before the individual is born. For the performance of any of these duties one needs an auspicious moment which will take him through successfully. In the village community the man who fixes the auspicious moment is the priest who is supposed to know at least something of electional astrology. In other words, the social sructure of the village community has an indispensable need for an astrologer who was generally not paid anything and who did not expect any payment either.

In the wake of our self-styled rationalist politicians and statesmen, we find some of our countrymen exhibiting an inadequate knowledge of these factors inherent in our social structure. In the weekly periodical Yojana published by the Government, we have a curious instance of this. In the issue dated March 8, 1959, we find a gentleman blowing hot and cold in the same breath. He admits that the astrologer in early times never had a care in the world and that he was needed for every important occasion in the lives of the villagers. But he appears to repent when he next says that those were the days of faith. Evidently this author like many others found in some of our political parties appears to take faith to mean blind belief or superstition. It is probable that these 'rationalists' do not dislike their faith in the five year plans and the like. That is, they have faith in one and they condemn all those who have a faith in something else. This is an ubiquitous use of the word faith. If faith stands for religion, we can observe that with the loss of faith in this sense there are left only 'naked shingles of the world'. Individualism and anarchism are the fruits of this irreligion. Moreover, faith is not something irrational; but it includes rationalism and even transcends it.

In the days of faith, people believed in Varnasramadharma. But this does not mean the rejection of the equality of man. Even in the Gita, the Lord tells us that he has created the four Varnas on the basis of the qualities and vocations of the individuals. That a caste is superior or inferior to another is a myth created in later times by the politicians and outsiders. Mutual co-operation is the basis of the division of society into four Varnas. It is a form of mutualism. Our contemporary refuses to recognise this truth. Consequently he jumps to the conclusion that the astrologer had been taught that the king was God on earth. This is anything but true. There is a famous passage in the Aitareya Brahmana in the context of a Coronation ceremony. There the priest was proud enough to declare to the assembly that his true king is in Heaven and that he cannot take the earthly king to be a God.

Our social pattern is fast changing. Whether it is progressing or not is debatable. There have been many brilliant thinkers who have rejected the idea of progress; and others have seen only a degeneration of man. We do not want to enter the lists on this question; for, we believe that we are progressing on the materialistic plane only and that we are decaying mentally, spiritually and culturally. And when the younger generations have faith in themselves, it is not a faith but a conceit. It is the absence of faith in himself that has driven man into the cold war, into the pacts and blocs, and into foreign aids. Whether we are on the right path is not for us to say. Posterity will judge us.

A facile and irrational rejection of astrology is not a mark of progress, nor a symptom of one's faith in himself. Astrology does not make man a fatalist, nor does it make one a free-lancer. A careful planning in the light of astrological directions is bound to make our Yojanas really successful. Let us awake to this truth even now. It is never too late to learn the truth.

Studies in Jaimini Astrology

By B. V. RAMAN

SECOND EDITION

This is the first attempt to present the complicated principles of Jaimini contained in all the four Adhyayas, is a simple, comprehensive and attractive manner, information being gathered from rare and difficult sources. Calculation and interpretation of Dasas suggested by Jaimini, which have hitherto remained obscure have, for the first time, been clearly expounded with suitable illustrations.

The 1962 Eight-Planet Combination & World Affairs—A Symposium

[As readers are aware, there is going to be a combination of eight planets in Capricorn (Aquarius according to Sayana or the Movable Zodiac), on 2nd February 1962. The subject has been dealt with by us not only in August 1957 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE under the caption The Third World War, but reference has also been made to this great concenttation of force in one part of the heavens, in our inaugural address to the All-Kerala Astrological Association, at Trichur. This unique celestial combination seems to have excited the curiosities of a large section of the educated public to such an extent that many of them have suggested the subject being discussed in a more detailed manner.

Those intending to participate in this symposium can kindly prepare a suitable paper and send the same for publication at an early date. It is left entirely to one's discretion whether to interpret the combination astrologically or astronomically, on the basis of the Nirayana or Fixed Zodiac or Sayana or Movable Zodiac. You have to set out what in your opinion, are the likely results to happen as a consequence of this eight-planet combination in the world as a whole with reference to the different countries, and/or in regard to individuals born in different signs. All points of view—whether based on ancient classical writings or on modern western texts or on one's own experience, are welcome.

Mr. Abayakoon, a leading astrologer of Ceylon and a student of Indian and Western astrology deals with the results of the eight-planet combination in an exhaustive manner. He brings to bear upon his conclusions a keen sense of insight into Mundane astrology—Ed., A.M.]

PAPER No. 4—BY CYRUS D. F. ABAYAKOON

PROFESSOR B. V. RAMAN, the indefatigable Editor of this renowned journal, has requested me to ascertain what contagion can reach us from the planets as a result of the Great Conjunction which is due to form at 3-30 a.m. (CST) on Sunday 4th February 1962. This invitation to join in a symposium is much appreciated and I trust my point of view will be of some use to students of astrology.[1]

Not only astrologers but even astronomers have been intrigued by Great Conjunctions. There is the classic case of the Austrian Falbe, Professor of Astronomy, who predicted that the world will end on November 13, 1899 at 3.03 p.m. That this prophecy will be falsified was predicted by that great savant, the late Professor B. Suryanarain Rao. He stated in THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE that according to Hindu astrology no such combination of planets existed to justify the destruction of the world at the stated hour in 1899. Then there was Albert Porter, Professor of Astronomy, who predicted that the whole solar system would be strongly out of balance due to the conjunction of six planets between December 17–20, 1919. He anticipated a state in which the earth and all the planets would pull jointly on to the Sun. If an astrologer had said this the astronomers would have cited the case of the end of World War I and general tranquillity on this earth, not its career towards the Sun and possible destruction.[2]

Astronomically-speaking a combination of eight planets can disturb the cosmic electrical balance mechanism that the Sun and the planets share. Following Dr. Abbott's work on the variations of the solar constant (ultra-violet and infra-red) we could say that Saturn in its changing relationship to both Jupiter and Uranus could affect the weather and the stock exchange. Soviet scientist Velikovsky shows in his book, Earth in Upheaval that the balance mechanism extends to billions of miles from the centre of our solar system and that "short-wave frequencies are disturbed when Jupiter, Saturn and Mars line-up, either in a straight line or at right angles to one another." Changes in the electro-magnetic field or state would naturally disturb the gravitational field round the earth and man, beast, bird, oceans and rivers will be subject to an unusual disturbance which will manifest itself in many ways. Professor Corrigan, Director of Carlton University (1940) stated that if a new planet should break away from the Sun there would be a terrific explosion and our puny planet will be smashed and all animal

[1] In taking 3-30 a.m., on February 4, 1962 as the start of the Great Conjunction, I am reminded of the fact that on January 15, 1934, seven planets congregated in Capricorn and the disastrous Bihar earthquake occurred just after Moon entered Capricorn.

[2] Astronomers are very jealous of their high-calling and presume that astrologers gate-crash into their sacred precincts. Dr. Spencer Jones, one-time Astronomer-Royal, issued a challenge to all astrologers in 1938: What can they say about the unusual series of conjunctions on May 11, 1941? As "Asteiro" I took up the challenge in The Ceylon Daily News of June 29, 1938 and said:—"These configurations predict a World War a great famine, a trade depression, epidemics, fall in the birth-rate and the loss of a King." In my Star-O'-Scope of February 1941 (page 8), I referred to this challenge and said: "Anyone knows that there is a World War on, King Carol has abdicated, there is a famine in German-occupied Europe, trade has been affected, virulent diseases have come in the wake of the Germans and people in Central Europe are dying faster than they are born."

life in land as well as in water will be destroyed. [3]

If such then can be the power of inter-planetary action and reaction, it is well for us to examine the ancient Hindu theory that during a Great Conjunction which is followed by a solar eclipse of magnitude, solar energy directed towards the earth could be lessened and distributed on the other planets and the sequent effects can lead to war, pestilences and plagues. [4]

The Great Conjuunction should begin to influence our world when Moon joins the Sayana grouping in Kumbha rasi. Rahu is located 11° away from Uranus, Neptune occupies 13° of Scorpio and Pluto is in Virgo 10°. [5] The old Chaldean astrologers held that the orb of Sun is 15° before and after an aspect. We can therefore say that Sun is in opposition to Uranus. Also, by 6-45 a.m. on February 5, Moon's orb being 12° it too will be in opposition to Uranus. And Uranus is involved in this unusual stellium. Moreover, Sun, Mercury, Venus, Jupiter and Rahu are square to Neptune. Thus we see science and mathematics employed in an unusual manner to produce a catastrophic state akin to the Napoleanic wars and political bullies will inveigh against religion. We also see that Rahu is in opposition to Jupiter—the forward march of armies under military dictatorship. The distance between Jupiter and Kethu is only 16′ of space—almost a Kalasarpa Yoga—possibility of gas and chemical warfare and the eruption of latent volcanoes on the earth as well as on the Moon. This conjunction involves all the planets—an extraordinary circumstance. [6]

The Nirayana Division is as under when the stellium begins to take effect:

Planet	Makara-sphuta	Nakshatra	Ruler	Avastha	Condition

How will the above mentioned spherical predominance express itself? Dundi Rajah, the author of the valuable Jathakabharana, says that if seven planets associate with the Sun, in one rasi, the yoga entitled Golaka is formed. Secondly, if Sun stays with four or more planets the Pravujyah yoga is created. A person born under the first will be full of sorrow and will live on the charity of others. The second, to be effective, should occur either in the 7th or 8th house. Then, the subject, if he does not become a hermit, will turn out to be a good person. [6] If the chart happens to be that of a female (she) will have to go through extraordinary suffering. The Jataka Parijata (Adh. VII, sl. 173) refers to the Gola yoga and says in sloka 180 that "he who is born in the Gola yoga is without wealth, indolent, of vagrant habits, short-lived and ignorant."

Dundi Rajah wants us to ascertain the strongest planet in the group to learn whether a remarkable religious person will be born under this configuration. [7] In the classification made we see that the strongest planet is Mars and it foretells the birth of a remarkable Buddhist

[3] Soviet scientists speak of the "gravitative pull of the Sun" and the "influence of the Earth and Moon" on the cosmic rocket. Fesenkov suggested that cosmic rays may be inter-stellar matter accelerated by the magnetic field of our galaxy. Ambartsumyan said that a comet's visibility on earth is due to its sodium particles diffusing solar light. (Soviet Union News—No. 24).

[6] C. S. Khassapes, Director of the Government Observatory at Mount Pendeli, Greece, states :—"One of the rare meetings of several planets in the sky occurred according to records compiled by the German astronomer, Johann Kepler (1571–1630), in the 750th year after the foundation of Rome. In that year, the planets Jupiter, Saturn and Mars are recorded as having appeared as one in the sky, creating a spectacle of magnificent brilliance. Khassapes thinks that the "Wise Men" of the East were Babylonian astrologers and that it would have been most unusual if they had not interpreted the meeting of the three planets in the sky as an event heralding the appearance of a unique personality on earth."—Times of Ceylon, January 16, 1959, page 7.

bhikshu—possibly the Maitreya Buddha expected.[8] That such a mighty conjunction presages the arrival of a World Teacher, at a moment of great stress for humanity, has been an astrological Law in ancient India among the Aryan sages. This Law received special attention in ancient Persia and embodied in "The Book of the Philosopher Jamasp, containing Judgments on the Great Conjunctions of the Planets and the events produced by them." Jamasp was the State Astrologer to the Persian Emperor Vishtaspa (B.C. 580), father of Darius (B.C. 521) and his book records the periodical conjunctions of Saturn and Jupiter. He prophesied the birth of Jesus Christ, the rise of Christianity and Islam and the extinction of the Magi faith after Gautama Bardiya (Gautama, son of Bardayana ?).[9]

Unlike Dundi Rajah, the sage Yavanacharya has a different version. He asserts in his Manasagara Puddhati that if all the planets occupy either the 11th, 10th or the Lagna, then it should be known as the Karikah Yoga. The person who has this, if of low-birth, will become a king; if of royal line, surely a king. We have to understand here that the yoga cannot be auspicious in the remaining nine houses.[10]

What of the world? It is a stage. We are merely players, having our exits and our entrances. If those who control the destinies of nations via political power suffer from imbalance due to the Golaka the result will be a major tragedy of our times. Are we fated to suffer due to territorial, racial and ideological conflicts? For one thing, February 4th is a fatal day for that month according to the Secret Schools of Alexandria which recorded the ancient Egyptian tribulations before the exodus under Moses—blood, frogs, lice, flies, murrain, plagues, halo, locusts, nights no man sleeps, death.[11]

The configuration is styled Sanmoha and Kosa and will appear like a bow before the dawn of the 5th. According to Rishi Kasapa such a portent forebodes starvation, drought and war. Reckoning from Madhya Bharat, the heaviest affliction will fall on South-East Asia. The grouping has particular reference to Russia, Australia, Arab countries (UAR), France, Kurdistan, Eastern European States, India, Pakistan and Lanka. The division of the Kalapurusha is as under and it looks as if the whole world is involved :—

The below classification is meant to convey the idea that each planet will throw its evil to the sign or signs influenced by it due to the Golaka and the afflicted nature of that particular planet will be felt in the country or countries represented. Where a country gets repeated in the classification it indicates that more than one affliction will fall on that country. Varahamihira states that "the objects represented by the planet which

Now we have to proceed, planet by planet, to learn of the influences operating over the particular countries indicated by the signs-planets as well as over particular parts of a country. As all planets are defeated by an Akranda Moon there will be a War Cry in almost every country. In the 21st star it is said to destroy seeds, creatures in water and animals in forests and there will be also fear from fire. Occulting Mars turbulent conditions operate over Pakistan, Baluchistan and Afghanistan. Passing over Saturn—fear from weapons and from hunger.

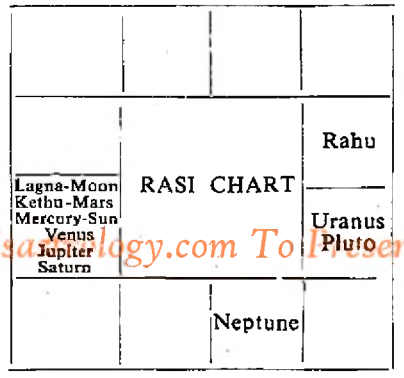
Jupiter indicates that persons and objects that are White and those connected with temples and churches will suffer. The Eastern parts of India come under adverse influences and in one particular area, like Bengal, there will be hail-storms. Some people will develop diseases in the neck. With all that the crops of Sarat will thrive well.

Due to Venus combustion in the Southern Path, the condition of the countries indicated by it will be poor. The inhabitants will pass through a troublous time. As Venus ends its combustion in the sixth mandala, in certain parts there will be wealth and prosperity. Agriculture and dairy-farming in particular areas will be good but fear in certain places, after March 12th. There will be diseases of the ear.

As Mercury precedes Venus and is under the beams of the Sun, there will be rain in the countries indicated by Mercury in the schedule given above. There will be diseases like bilious jaundice. The crops, during the hot season, will flourish but it will be unfavourable for yellow-robed persons, priests, rulers moving in vehicles, physicians, dancers, wrestlers, the owners of horses and Communists. And, according to Devalsya, as Mercury is retrograde, there will be wars in the land. It is significant that February 4th is Independence Day in Sri Lanka and who knows whether or not the Devas will decide to judge people, high and low, according to their actions! We must not forget that Destiny overlaps our mortal state. [13]

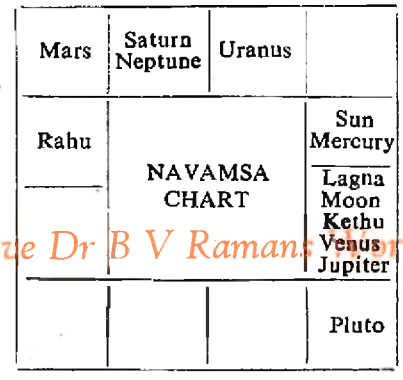
"The planets, when subjected to the hot rays of the Sun are freed from their impurities just as gold is purified by the action of fire."—Varahamihira.
"And therefore is the glorious planet Sol, in noble eminence enthron'd and spher'd amidst the other; whose medicinable eye corrects the ill-aspects of planets evil."—Shakespeare.

[13] Parasara asserts in his Samhita that Mercury in Dhanishta is Ghora and is evil for 15 days. According to Devalsya, the first 12 days are inauspicious. The days here mean not only days, but according to Mundane astrology, as many months as days. Thus there is a threat of a major war from 12 to 15 months from the date of the eclipse. When Mercury is occulted the inhabitants of Bihar come under a bad star while the rest of the country in Eastern India enjoy a prosperous time subject to the general excursions and alarums common to the times.



Saturn throws its restrictions on the people of Kalinga, apart from the countries indicated. Public officials, the chief religious luminaries and physicians will have to await Father Time.

And now we come to the eclipsed Sun which influences not only the Virgo countries but all those under the stellium. The phenomenon occurs in Makara rasi and is subject to malefic planetary influences. Men in Holy Orders, families of Ministers, noted physicians and distinguished scientists will suffer, of course, according to their own horoscopes. Even several experienced and famous soldiers might reach the end of the battle.



The solar eclipse is unfavourable for the people of Bihar, Pakistan, Persia and adjacent territories, East Africa, Nepal, Mysore, Maharashtra, Mathura (N.-India), Punjab, Afghanistan and the former Buddhist areas of N.E. India. The adverse influences operate for seven months [14].

The eclipse falls to the Axamardana class and influence Sravana and Dhanishta, two stars ruled by Indra. We can therefore expect terrestrial disturbances of some magnitude in the territories bordering the Himalayas. There will be heavy rains in North China and flooding of rivers. The floods will create dysentery, influenza, swelling of neck, poxes and vomitting diseases. Members of high-ranking families, rulers of the country and army commanders come under a cloud. Ladak, Bhootan and Eastern Afghanistan will have heavy rainfall for six months.

As Jupiter is astha, and is later occulted by the Moon, I doubt whether the following by Varahamihira applies in this case :—"If Jupiter, a beneficent planet, should also see the eclipsed disc, the evils described will vanish in just the same way as the flame of fire dies out when water is poured over it." [15]

Total Solar Eclipse.—Monday, February 5th, 1962, calculated to 6-45 a.m. (CST). 23rd star, Dhanishta, 1st pada. Mars major period : 6 years, 11 months, 20 days. Ghatika-Pimma (Rahu-Pimma) falls to Maheswara and

Moon's nakshatra and Moon is in a Purusha nakshatra. Consequently there will be a mixture of rain and drought throughout the world except of course in the specified areas. [16]

Mars indicates that the rulers of almost all the countries will have sleepless nights. And this becomes more so when the following law is not present :—"If Jupiter does not suffer by occultation or by conjunction with other planets and when he represents Mars, War-Lord and Lord of the East.

From the above analysis it appears quite clear that the Great Conjunction, followed by a total solar eclipse, is not a good portent to the world. All religious leaders should do Japa for Peace. Some have predicted a great Deluge which can engulf the world. But this seems far-fetched due to (a) Mercury, Venus, Jupiter in one sign, are aspected by krura (evil) planets like Mars and Saturn ; (b) When all the planets are close to the Sun they are not all to its East or to its West ; (c) Sun is in [14] Varahamihira states thus : "If on a New Moon day an eclipse should occur when the Sun is in Makara then tradesmen should store up iron and other metals, vessels and grains... If while the Sun passes through the sign Makara should be accompanied or within sight of malefic planets, the prices will either fluctuate or fall." "If the eclipsed Sun should be subject to malefic planetary influence there will be death and famine in the land." The other noteworthy points are :-(a) Mercury sees eclipse ; money and oil becomes scarce ; Princes suffer. (b) Mars aspects Sun ; war in the land ; fear from fire and robbers. (c) Venus aspects crops injured ; mankind afflicted. (d) Saturn aspects drought and famine'; fear from robbers—may be jack-boots of dictators. In respect of all these indications and predictions the readers should not develop a fatalistic outlook. Coming events cast their shadows before. We should not get caught like a bird that is ensnared in a net at an evil time.

[15] As all planets are below 15° 21' of Kethu we have to take note of the following :—(1) Mars-Kethu : Affects Avanti, Cauvery, Nerbudda, (2) Mercury-Kethu : Disturbs Ganges, Jumna, Nepal, Bengal, Burma, Siam. (3) Jupiter-Kethu : Indus, Kashmir, Afghanistan, Baluchistan. (4) Venus-Kethu : Dassaraka, Ayodhya. (5) Saturn-Kethu : Saurashtra, Bengal.

is in his good course mankind will be happy." We see that Jupiter passes through three signs in 1964.

Mars with Jupiter increases irresponsibility among labour; with Saturn, passions are generated and the bestiality in man is stirred up. Venus with Saturn usually points to financial upsets, border disputes, sensational love crimes, loss of honour and credit among important people. Mars heightens emotions and feelings are roused, and murders increase. Mars with Sun increases blood diseases (pox) and the general health of the inhabitants is at low ebb. Moreover, when Sun in evil admixture associates with Kethu, Mercury and Venus, Royalty suffers and there is a big trade depression. Above all, Jupiter in Capricorn has not proved itself to be good in international affairs. [17]

Kethu stands for war, soldiers, weapons of war, ambulance officers (doctors and nurses) and everything pertaining to conflict between nation and nation, man and man. In 1860 Kethu-Saturn produced the American Civil War, in 1904, the Russo-Japanese War and in 1939, World War II. So history can repeat itself in 1962. Furthermore, the eclipse occurs in the third decanate of Capricorn and it too foretells the march of armies led by a powerful dictator. By reflex action we get the influences of Rahu in Cancer—fear through attackers and robbers, rise in the price of metals. These signs will be clear from July 1962. [18]

Dr. W. J. Tucker writing on "How the Stars incline Man to War" states that Saturn stands for cupidity and that aspects between Jupiter and Saturn "are the causes which set the force of cupidity in motion". [19] Its greed for power that leads sawdust Caesars (even in Ceylon) to bring others under their jack-boots and talk big behind the cover of bayonets held by poor-paid, ill-clad soldiers. Darrington Welze speaks of "The Great Jupiter-Saturn Cycle" [20] and believes that the twenty-year Cycles of Jupiter-Saturn occur "in order to save the world." It is therefore possible that a great personality might appear to save mankind when the Nations of the world are gathered together for the greatest showdown after the Great Bharata War. Welsh refers to the prophecies in the Book of Daniel, the Astrologer. [21]

Charles A. Jayne indicates political disunity in Russia by about 1980. "Actually, it might come earlier than this (around the early 1960's) when the Saturn-Uranus short-term rhythm indicates that somewhere in the world there will be a revolutionary upheaval." [22] Again, we see him say: "Toynbee states that the British Raj—established about 1818—was the reconstitution of the Universal State and again by an alien power. From this, the cycle should end and Britain pull out by the Jupiter-Saturn-Capricorn conjunction of 1961. Actually, they granted dominion status to India on August 15, 1947, so that the cycle may end at little early. On the other hand, the liquidation of an empire is not accomplished overnight, so India may not enter her next stage till around 1961." [23]

There is no doubt therefore that the next great Jupiter-Saturn conjunction in Makara (1962) is of utmost importance for the peoples of India and Lanka who from time immemorial have been one though subject to diverse ethnic differences which are magnified by political adventurers for their own selfish ends. If the Indians and the Sinhala people are watchful they can swim in the gigantic democratic deluge

[18] When we study the Sunspot Cycle we find that 1961–62 will be like 1870, 1881, 1893, 1095, 1906, 1916, 1927, 1938-39; all years in which some international trouble or other operated. Sri Nemani Sathyanaryana says:—"As such a combination of eight planets in one sign has not occurred since a long time past, it is upto research scholars to study it along with the effects of the 13-day lunar fortnight those of the solar eclipse occurring in that year (1962). To my mind it appears that a world war will not break out before the latter part of 1961. It may occur close by to April 1962".—THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE, August 1953, Pp. 581.

Cheseaux Remarques Historiques, Cronologiques et Astronomiques sur quelques Endroits due Libre de Daniel" (Trans. Dr. Grattan Guinness). Working on these Tables I predicted in The Ceylon Daily News of July 23rd, 1937 as follows: "In A.D. 1945, eight years hence, there is a break in the planetary system predicting the end of a World War, the downfall of Ecclesiastical Power and the complete occupation of Palestine by the Jews." Repeated in my Star-O'-Scope, August 1938, p. 5, February 1941, p. 6 and March 1941, p. 8. Working on the basis 1260 Synodic Revolutions of Mars/2691 year-Cycle we find that 1962 leads us to 1970 when the break up of the USSR into independent, democratic States is indicated. It is interesting to note that 1962 is 2691 in the reverse and contains 126 (−) of the Great Mars Cycle. The exact opposition of Saturn-Uranus occurred in 1692 and we see a recurrence in 1962—the first brought the British Parliament. Democracy triumphs in 1962.

Medical Astrology

BY DR. JAGANNATHA RAO, M.B.B.S., M.A.A.S.

Elephantiasis

THE disease Filariasis or Elephantiasis as it is commonly known, has existed in India from the very early days of history. But somehow it seems to have escaped the notice of our ancient Rishis who have given such a lot of information about other diseases in their astrological works. Most of the modern books on astrology also do not deal with this horrible disease. And this lack of information made me investigate into this matter. And I was further encouraged by Sri B.V. Raman. In one of his books he remarks thus: "There is, however, considerable scope for research in medical astrology and it is hoped that students of astrology will be able to collect important material by a study of large number of horoscopes—". Thus prompted by a veteran of this ancient science, I started my investigations with regard to Filariasis. I personally visited the parts where this disease is endemic. And I submit the results to the intelligent readers of this magazine for verification and further researches.

Before I actually start with the subject proper I want to introduce my readers to the causation of this disease. From medical point of view this is a disease of lymphatics and connective tissue, caused by the bite of a special species of mosquito known as 'Culex Fatigans'. This mosquito is the host of the causative factor 'Filaria Sanguinis Homanis'. The adult form of this worm is known as 'Filaria Bancrofti', and the embryonic form is known as 'Filaria Nocturna' or microfilaria. The adult male is only half the size of female; the female being 3 and ½ inches long! The female discharges its eggs in the lymphatics. The embryonic form is really worth seeing under a microscope. It looks like a snake and its length is about 1/90th of an inch. And still the head is provided with a short spine and a circlet of hooked lips! These are present in the surface vessels during the sleeping hours, in as large a number as 40 to 50 million. Since they are detectable only in the night they are termed as 'nocturna'. Should you change the habit of sleeping, the worm also changes its habit! Such an infinitely small worm can cause a tumor weighing about 200 pounds!

To come to the point I have collected a few horoscopes of persons suffering from elephantiasis of leg and genitals and I will now discuss the causation from astrological point of view. The above however is the pathology of the disease. But what actually makes a few persons only suffer from this horrible disease, even though others also may be living in the same surroundings and environments? Medical science stops here and the answer can be provided only by astrology. Certain combinations which I have come across in the horoscopes of suffering people are produced here for further verification and research.

It is an accepted fact of astrology that the nerves are governed by Mercury, lymphatics by Venus, and that the dry planet Saturn governs the connective tissue, fibrous tissue and mesentry. Since in this disease nerves, lymphatics and connective tissues are involved, we will see that the lords of these substances play a great part in producing this disease.

Inspite of the fact that I saw hundreds of persons suffering from this disease I could collect only a few horoscopes. This is because most of the victims to this disease were poor and from labour class who do not maintain birth data. So I had to be in search of educated patients. And these were only a few. Here is the horoscope of a woman born in Mangalore District, on 30th March 1907 at 6-5 a.m. (Lat. 12-53 N. and Long. 74-50 E.)

Sun 16.4 15.40 L			Jupiter 10.13

Balance of Moon's Dasa 4-0-0 yrs.

Here the lords of nerves, and lymphatics, i.e., Mercury and Venus are posited in the house of Saturn and keep company with him; hence greatly afflicted. Besides the luni-solar distance is above 180 degrees, which usually causes some circulatory disturbances. It is observed that even by gochara whenever the luni-solar distance increases above 150 degrees or decreases below 50 degrees, the blood circulations suffers. This can be noticed only by close observation. The native belongs to a well-to-do family, and is herself moderately educated. This is an important fact to be noted. For the medical men would argue that this disease is common in such people who expose themselves to mosquitos, as such the poor and labour class is more liable. There might be some truth in it. But I have observed a few families, the members of which live in the same circumstances and surroundings and yet only one or two are affected. The horoscopes of these afflicted will definitely show an affliction of the above mentioned planets. In this horoscope as I have said Mercury and Venus are afflicted in Saturn's house and that the luni-solar distance is also not conducive for 'perfect' circulation of blood. In elephantiasis the lymphatics are blocked, the blood circulation also is hampered, as such the growth of connective tissue in abundance, causing the phenomenon. Wherever we come across a fibrous or connective tissue tumor, we notice the hand of Saturn in it. Similarly in this disease Saturn's participation is necessary to produce the disease. You will notice that in this individual the disease started in Saturn's Dasa, as she was 48 when the signs of this disease appeared. In this horoscope the affliction has occurred in the 12th house denoting legs. And actually her left foot and leg are involved.

	Mars 1.9 Rahu 24.12		Sun 5.57

Balance of Kethu Dasa 5–5–3 days.

Here is another horoscope born on 22nd September 1918 at 4 p.m. (Lat. 12–53 N. and Long. 74–50 E.) with similar combinations and affliction. But this has occurred in the 8th house from lagna. The readers I believe know the principle that the 8th house governs the genitals. Therefore his scrotum is affected. It may further be noted that this affliction has occurred in Leo, a sun-sign and that in this case also the luni-solar distance is not a happy one. As such the disease made a beginning in Sun's Dasa.

I have made a close observation of the fact that whenever the luni-solar distance is above 150 degrees in the natal chart, the person will suffer from some sort of circulatory trouble, depending of course, on the operating dasa and Anthar Dasa. You might have also observed that even the rosiest of cheeks become pale at some time, and again they get the blooming radiance. This is all due to varying luni-solar distance by gochara movement.

The extent of disturbances of 'appearance' of course is considerably modified by benefic aspect of Jupiter in Lagna or radical Moon.

The third born on 3rd December 1928 at 3–45 p.m. (Lat. 12–53 N. and Long. 74–70 E.) is the horoscope of a young merchant. Note the 8th house is heavily afflicted. Sun and Mercury are heavily afflicted by association with Saturn and Kethu. Venus though seemingly out of this affliction, has in actuality suffered, as it has just entered Uttarashada, a constellation of Sun who is himself afflicted. Thus the affliction of Venus and Mercury is complete. But there are two good points here. Note the luni-solar distance which has not exceeded the limit of 150 degrees and note the aspect of Jupiter or Venus. Thus the disease is within control and only the scrotal skin is thickened and the size though increased is small. He was at the moment under the treatment. I particularly stress the luni-solar distance here, which is within 100 degrees. As such the circulatory disturbance is not much and the disease can be arrested to the present size. I have seen another case with similar affliction of 8th house with enlarged scrotum weighing as much as 180 pounds! You can imagine what a great burden the poor man has to carry.

Materialisation through the Help of the Medium

KATIE KING: Let us now turn to the second category of evidence, where a medium is necessary for the success of the experiments. And I will first take what Price calls the classic experiments of Sir William Crookes, wherein, through the mediumship of Florrie Cook, Katie King was materialised many times. And the whole story was described by Crookes himself in his Researches in Spiritualism. Here I will quote a few extracts mainly from Malcolm Grant's A New Argument for God and Survivals, Butler's Exploring the Psychic World, and some other books also as I could not get the original book. Sir William was fiercely attacked for his rambles in spiritualism and even his reputation as one of the greatest scientists was also at stake. But convinced as he was, he cared little for the rabid criticism, and stood loyal to truth. The critic's objection was that Florence Cook, the medium, was deceiving this great man, and she masqueraded as Katie King. Sir William took the gauntlet and convincingly proved that Miss Cook and the materialised Katie King were two quite distinct individuals, and gave so many features distinguishing the one from the other that not a shread of doubt should remain in the minds of honest critics. He gives what he calls "absolute proofs" which I mention below in a tabulated form for comparison:

Besides these distinguishing marks, Crookes observes that "it was a common thing for the seven or eight of us to see Miss Cook and Katie at the same time under the full blaze of electric light". Again he continues: "For nearly two hours (Katie) she walked about the room conversing familiarly..... On several occasions she took my arm when walking.....I asked her permission to clasp her in my arms" to verify the fact. Permission was given, and "I did (clasp) her..... Katie now said .....(that she would) show herself and Miss Cook together in the room..... With my phosphorus lamp.....I found Miss Cook crouching on the floor...in black velvet.....and perfectly senseless ..... Raising the lamp, I saw Katie standing close behind Miss Cook.....robed in flowing white drapery.....trickery was impossible". Moreover his photographs showed Katie and Cook standing together as two distinct individuals.

	KATIE	MISS COOK
1.	Height varies but she was 6 inches taller than Cook.	Usual height.
2.	Skin on the neck perfectly smooth to touch.	Skin on the neck had a blister, and rough to touch
3.	Ears unpierced ...	Ears pierced as she wore ear-rings.
4.	Complexion very fair ...	Complexion very dark.
5.	Fingers longer, face larger ...	Shorter.
6.	Pulse rate 75 ...	Pulse rate 90.
7.	Dress white ...	Dress, velvet black.
8.	Visual proof of Katie and Cook as two distinct individuals at the same sitting after they were photographed.

Mrs. Ross–Church corroborates Sir William's description in every detail, and quotes her own experiences in a book There is No Death (Pp. 141). In one sitting Katie "cut off a lock of her own hair, and a lock of the medium's, and gave them to me. I have them safe to this day. One is almost black, soft and silky, the other a coarse golden red".

Further evidence is unnecessary.

Mirabelli.—Equally amazing is the phenomena of materialisation described by Rev. Johannes Greber in his book Communication with the Spirit World (published by Macoy Publishing Co., N.Y., Pp. 221—247). He took it from the magazine of Parapsychology published by Oswald Mutze, Leipzig. I will give here a few extracts from it, abridged where necessary. Carlos Mirabelli was a Brazilian medium. His phenomena occurred in daylight or bright light.....at times in the presence of sixty witnesses, representing the leading scientific and social circles in Brazil,—Two University professors, 72 physicians, 12 engineers, 36 lawyers were among the 557 persons who observed these phenomena closely.

Mirabelli was a universal medium, i.e., when in trance he could speak in at least 24 recorded languages, and write spirit messages in them with an amazing speed. For instance, it is recorded that he wrote out five pages in Polish language on the 'Resurrection of Poland' in 15 minutes. He was also a physical medium showing marvellous telekinetic phenomena as Levitation of objects and apports. We are not now concerned with these, and hence I will state here only the materialisations of spirit for the investigation of which a committee of three leading scientists was appointed at Santos. This committee held many sittings. At one seance held at 9 a.m., they had several leading scientists as witnesses. All of them thoroughly satisfied themselves that "every door, window and every chink was so closed, locked and sealed that none could enter into the seance room without breaking the walls or doors."

The Committee reported that when the seance began, Mirabelli went into trance. "Suddenly a child's figure appeared and its voice called out 'Papa'. Dr. Ganymede de Souza, who was present, recognised the voice of his little daughter, who had died of grippe. Her father stepped out, spoke to his child, folded her in his arms and assured the others that it was his own daughter... Then Col. Octavis Viana rose to convince himself, took her in his arms, felt her pulse, and asked her questions to which she answered rationally... The apparition was photographed and a copy of it was appended to the Committee's report. The child disappeared after 36 minutes. Ten doctors of science attested this occurrence."

Another materialisation was that of Bishop Jose de Camargo Barros who lost his life in the shipwreck of 'Syrio'. When his spirit was materialising, the room was filled with the odour of roses. The Report said: "Suddenly there appeared a fine mist, which became denser, and out of which emerged a smiling apparition of the Bishop... Dr. de Souza went towards him, touched and examined him minutely, listened to his heart and breath-sounds, looked at the finger nails and eye balls, and convinced himself that the 'figure before him was that of a man'. Other witnesses also found that they were face to face with a human being, which possessed all the organs of a normal human 'body". The Bishop conversed with them in well-chosen Portuguese, and finally said "now watch me closely as I disappear."

There were many spirit materialisations, but I take only one more, that of the deceased Bezerra de Meneses, who was an eminent hospital physician. He spoke to them and assured them that "it was he himself who was there talking with them." Drs. Assumpcion and Mendoca subjected him to physical examination for 15 minutes, and convinced themselves that "an anatomically normal human being, possessed of all organs, was before them". And all the scientists present vouched for the correctness of that conclusion.

Outstanding meritorious work was done in this field by Dr. Baron Von Schrenk Notzing, and his work Phenomena of Materialisation is worth studying. As he himself says in its introduction, he worked for nearly 25 years on this subject, and his book contains a mine of information. He worked with famous mediums like Eusapia Palladino, Eva C, and the Schneider boys. Work with Eva C, for instance, extended over hundreds of sessions from May 1909 to June 1914, and his book contains no less than 225 illustrations mostly from actual photographs of the occurrences. He was fully aware that much fraud was practised by mediums consciously or unconsciously, and he tried his best to make his experiments under test conditions. Even Harry Price admits that he, along with the other invited scientists, had "witnessed phenomena under unimpeachable conditions (Pp. 96). And amongst "the wonders they witnessed at Brannau of Schneider boys under perfect conditions of control, were telekinetic movements of objects and appearance of pseudopods and a fully materialised hand, tug-of-war with handkerchief between the hand and the sitters." These manifestations were repeated time after time, giving the sitters ample opportunity to study the conditions of control during the actual occurrence of the phenomena (Pp. 99, Fifty Years of Psychical Research, by Harry Price). It is impossible to summarize Notzing's book here to prove materialisation. But I think it is not necessary after citing the above testimony. And the readers will please note that he was not alone to work in this field. Dr. Geley, a noted authority in Science, has also written a book Clairvoyance and Materialisation (1927) giving ample proof of this phenomena. Madame D'Esperance, a medium herself, has also written an equally authoritative work Shadowland on this subject; and she gives her own experiences in it. In it she vividly describes how she found it difficult to distinguish between herself and Anna (the phantom who materialised quite near her). Bishop Leadbeater has also given his own experiences of seeing three materialised forms together,— "an Arab, six inches taller than the medium, another a European of medium height, and the third, a little girl of dark complexion—, while the medium was securedly locked up inside a wire-cage,

Mandi in Predictive Astrology

BY K. K. K. MENON, M.A., B.T.

MANDI or Gulika as it is otherwise called is not a planet which can be seen in the heavens. It is more or less a theoretical planet the conception of which is more mathematical than astronomical. Foreign astrologers have no conception of Mandi at all. Even in the horoscopic charts prepared in several parts of India except in Kerala, Mandi is very often missing. But the horoscopic chart of a Kerala astrologer will be considered to be complete only if it contains the position of Mandi. Without concerning ourselves as to its practical existence as a planet let us discuss how Mandi actually influences mundane affairs. According to Hora, Saturn is the ruler of illness, length of life and death. Mandi for whom the portfolio of death is set apart by Kerala astrologers is always designated as Mrityu Karaka.

Before entering into the details of the malefic effects of Mandi let us see how the position of Mandi is calculated in relation to the earth at any given moment. An approximate data for Gulikakala (assuming sunrise to be at 6 a.m.) which is considered to be inauspicious is as follows :—

DAY OF THE WEEK	DAY	NIGHT
Sunday ...	3 p.m. to 4-30 p.m.	9 p.m. to 10-30 p.m.
Monday ...	1-30 p.m. to 3 p.m.	7-30 p.m. to 9 p.m.
Tuesday ...	12 a.m. to 1-30 p.m.	6 p.m. to 7-30 p.m.
Wednesday.	10-30 a.m. to 12 a.m.	3 a.m. to 4-30 a.m.
Thursday ...	9 a.m. to 10-30 a.m.	1-30 a.m. to 3 a.m.
Friday ...	7-30 a.m. to 9 a.m.	12 p.m. to 1-30 a.m.
Saturday ...	6 a.m. to 7-30 a.m.	10-30 p.m. to 12 p.m.

The above data which is current in the almanacs is based on the nadikas of Gulikodaya (rise of Mandi) after sunrise during the daytime and after sunset during the night. They are as follows :—

Day of the week	Day	Night
Sunday ...	26	10
Monday ...	22	6
Tuesday ...	18	2
Wednesday ...	14	26
Thursday ...	10	22
Friday ...	6	18
Saturday ...	2	14

In Prasna Marga it is said :

मान्दि काला यनाद् यार्के चरज्यां विभजेत् शिखिः
लब्धा विनाडि का स्ताभिर्हत्वा मान्दिघटीः पृथक् हरेन्नीलै र्विघटिका लब्धं स्वर्णं यथाक्रमम्
मान्दिनाड्या सायनार्के मेषजूकादि संस्थिते
मान्दि नाड्य स्तदा स्पष्टा स्ताभिस्तु गुलिकस्फुटं
आनेतव्यं यथा लग्नं नाड्या दिवस यातया

Using the simpler principles of modern arithmetic, the process of calculating Gulikasphuta (longitude) contained in the above passage can be summarised as follows: Let us calculate the Gulikasphuta for the daytime of Wednesday 14th January 1959.

Nadika of Gulikodaya ghaties of Gulika's birth after sunrise on Wednesday daytime =14.

Duration of daytime on Wedday 14-1-1959=28 na 34 vina

∴ Actual nadika (ghati or 24 mts.) of Gulikodaya after sunrise=14/30x28 na.34 vina =13 na 20 vina

Moment of rise of the sign of Pisces =9 na 15 vina.

Moment of rise of the sign of Aries=13 na 28 vina.

From this it is clear that Gulikodaya is the sign of Pisces during the daytime on 14th Jany. 1959. The Gulikasphuta (position of Gulika) for the moment 13 na 20 vina after sunrise is identical with the Lagnasphuta (rising sign and degree) for that particular moment.

Lagnasphuta for the moment 13 na 20 vina after sunrise = 11s. 29° 10" (expressed in rasi, amsa and kala.)

∴ Gulikasphuta for the daytime of Wednesday 14–1–1959= 11–29–10 Gulika is obviously in the Meena navamsa of Meena rasi. (Pisces navamsa in the sign of Pisces).

We find Gulika in the sign of Sagittarius during the same night and again in the sign of Pisces, during the daytime of Thursday 15–1–1959. During the night of 15–1–1959 Gulika is in the sign of Scorpio. From this it is evident that Gulika is static for the entire day and for the entire night. In fact the moment of Gulikodaya is an acute point on the day and on the night which is highly malefic on mundane affairs.

The following passage quoted from the 14th chapter of Prasna Marga is considered to be the most authoritative for the Bhava- phala of Gulika both in Jataka and Prasna.

Gulika in the 1st house causes sickness and deformity. In the 2nd house, it makes the native ill-dressed and interested in scorning others. If in the 3rd house, the native will be bold and brave but will often have a tendency to ill-treat his younger brothers and sisters. In the 4th house, it will cause mental worries and unhappiness and create fear of enemies. In the 5th house, it will create contempt for teachers and elderly people and cause childlessness. If Gulika is in the 6th house, the native will ill-treat his own relatives. In the 7th house it is injurious to the wife or the husband and detrimental to the family as a whole; besides, it will make the native highly passionate and evil-eyed. If Gulika is in the 8th house, the native will be wise and intelligent; but his health will be poor and weak and life extremely short. Gulika in the 8th house often causes death by poison, fire or weapons. In the 9th house Gulika will make the native irreligious, with no penance and virtuous conduct. If in the 10th house Gulika will exert salutary influence; it will make the native well-known and renowned for his public activities. It has benefic influence in the 11th house also. There it will make the native highly prosperous and wealthy and engaged in activities consistent with his valour and magnanimity. He will have numerous servants also to attend to him. If Gulika is in the 12th house, it will cause bad dreams, deformity and defective nails.

The malefic influence attributed to Gulika is actually exerted by the planet which is the ruler of the house occupied by it. It is to be noted that even a benefic planet occupying a favourable house may become malefic if it is a Gulikabhavanadhipa (lord of the sign Gulika is in). I have found from my personal experience that the Gulikabhavanadhipa is invariably injurious to the bhava occupied by it no less than the bhava aspected by it. Gandanta dosha of child birth in the 1st, 9th, 10th, 18th, 19th and 27th constellations and maraka dosha—Kooru in Malayalam of child births in the constellations Pushya, Hasta and Purvashada are always indicated by Mandi in the horoscopical map. If Mandi is in the 4th or 10th house, it is injurious to the mother; if in the 9th or 3rd house malefic to the father. If the Moon is in conjunction with Mandi or aspected by it, the mother will be in danger. In the same way if the Sun is in conjunction with Mandi or aspected by it, the child birth will be detrimental to the life of the father. If the Moon is Gulikabhavanadhipa it is unfavourable for the mother and if the Sun is Gulikabhavanadhipa it is dangerous to the father. The severity of the maraka dosha of Mandi should be judged on the basis of the totality of the malefic influences involving it. It can be stated categorically that no child will lose his parents if his or her horoscope is free from all the influences of Gulika I have mentioned above. The readers can convince themselves with proper verifications using suitable horoscopical charts. The following is the chart of a girl born under the constellation Hasta (1st quarter) in April 1936.

Sun Mercury Venus	Ascend- ant Mars		Kethu
Saturn	CHART No. 1
			Mandi
Rahu Jupiter			Moon

Birth of the child in the first quarter of Hasta is detrimental to father's life, and it is to be noted that in this particular case the Sun is Gulikabhavanadhipa. The Moon is aspected by the Sun. This child lost her father almost at the end of the Chandra dasa. The following chart gives the horoscopical map of a friend of mine born under the constellation Ardra in March 1928.

dhipa, is in conjunction with Venus, who is the general significator for the mother in the case of natives born during the daytime (according to foreign astrology). Again the 9th house, which rules the father, is aspected by Gulika. In fact this person was born as a posthumous child; his mother became a widow even before his birth.

Now let us discuss how death can be predicted using Gulika-sphuta.

लग्नेन्दु मान्दि सं योगस्त्रिस्फुटं

This is the definition of Thrisphuta. Thrisphuta is obtained by adding up the sphutas of the Ascendant, the Moon and Gulika.

According to Prasna Marga,

कुलीर शृंगमत्स्येषु दोषदं स्याद्य थोत्तरं
तथाप्यहीन्द्र पौष्णेषु तथैव स्त्रिस्फुटं भवेत्

If the sign of Thrisphuta is Cancer, Scorpio or Pisces, it is injurious to the long life of the native. Scorpio is more malefic than Cancer and Pisces more than Scorpio. The more advanced in a particular sign the more injurious to life. If the Thrisphuta falls in the constellations Aslesha, Jyeshta and Revati, life is said to be short.

Again,

कर्कटान्त्ये नवभाग संश्रितं
स्त्रिस्फुटं मरणदायि वत्सरात्
मास तो मधुकरान्त्य भागगं
रेवती चरम भागगं दिनात्

If the Thrisphuta falls in the last navamsa of Cancer, death will take place within a year; if in the last navamsa of Scorpio, it will take place within a month; if in the last navamsa of Pisces, it will take place within a day. This general principle is often applied in horary astrology. But the spirit of it will hold good in Jataka (horoscopy) as well. Further, in Prasna Marga, it is said:

स्त्रिस्फुटं नवहतं विहन्तिव नैः
भं विना यदि तदक्ष सन्धिगं
जन्मगं यदि ल तत्त्रिकोणगं
मृत्युदं भवति पृच्छतां ध्रुवं

Multiply the Thrisphuta by 9. Multiply the amsa (degree) and kala (minute) of the resultant by 12. The final result is navamsa dwadasamsa sphuta of Thrisphuta. If this final sphuta falls in the last navamsa of Cancer, Scorpio and Pisces or in the nakshatra or anujanma nakshatra (9th from birth star) of the questioner, death is sure to take place shortly.

Again, it is said:

स्त्रिस्फुटस्य भवनांशयोर्बलं यस्य तेन
जनि चन्द्र संगमः
मृत्यवेजहरि कार्मकां शगं स्त्रिस्फुटं यदि
महत्तरायुषे

Calculate the sign and the navamsa sign of the Thrisphuta. Find which is more powerful. If the sign occupied by the Moon is the same as the more powerful of the above two death is to take place before long. If the Thrisphuta is in the navamsa of Aries, Leo and Sagittarius, long life can be predicted.

Further,

यस्मिन् राशौ नवांशे वा
स्त्रिस्फुट तद्गते विधौ
त्रिकोण स्थेभवा कें वा
प्रोक्तलक्षण संभवः

The period in which the Sun and the Moon travel through the signs and the navamsa sign of the Thrisphuta and their trine signs will often cause death.

Again,

योंश स्त्रिस्फुट गोस्य यातघटिका
धीघ्ना विभज्यास्थिरैः
शिष्टं स्त्रिस्फुट तारकादि गणये
दक्षागतं मृत्युभं

Calculate the nadika and vinadika (the equivalent time-factor) in the particular navamsa of the Thrisphuta. Multiply that by 9 and divide it by 27. Find the remainder. Count as many as the remainder from the constellation of the Thrisphuta. The constellation obtained is called the Mrityu nakshatra, the probable constellation under which the native or questioner may die.

Gulikasphuta is an important factor of the Pranasphuta, Dehasphuta and Mrityusphuta which are of immense use in medical astrology. The process of calculating these sphutas and their influence on life are contained in the following passage from Prasna Marga.

प्राग्लग्ने पंचनिघ्नं गुलिक युतमसुं
प्राहुरिन्दुं वसुघ्नं
मान्द्याढ्यं चापि देहं मुनिहतगुलिकं
भानुयुक्तं च मृत्युं
प्राणाधिक्ये तु रोगः शमनमथ रुजां
देहवृद्धौ प्रवृद्धे
मृत्यौ स्वात्तेषु मृत्युज्जनि भमुपगते
सार्प पौष्णेन्द्र भे वा

Pranasphuta is obtained by adding Gulikasphuta to five times Lagnasphuta. Dehasphuta is the sum of Gulikasphuta and eight times Chandrasphuta. Add Ravisphuta to seven times Gulikasphuta and we will get Mrityusphuta. If Pranasphuta exceeds illness will increase and if Dehasphuta exceeds recovery from ailments can be predicted. Death will immediately take place if the Mrityusphuta is in excess. If the Mrityusphuta falls in the constellations Aslesha, Jyeshta or Revati, or Janma nakshatra or anujanma nakshatra, death may happen shortly.

NOTABLE HOROSCOPES

By B. V. RAMAN

A reliable guide to Practical Astrology

This does not contain startling predictions and amazing forecasts. But it is the product of investigations and studies by the Author presented here in an orderly and specific form but in simple language easily understandable by the average readers.

One is born a beggar but becomes a ruler. One is born a ruler but becomes a begger, How and Why? What combinations make one a Scientist, Physicist, Chemist, Botanist, Poet, Politician, Statesman, Artist, Murderer, Dissimulator, etc.

Though several circumstances are the same for the rich and the poor alike, there will be certain astrological peculiarities in Notable Horoscopes (e.g., Tagore, Nehru, Hitler, C. R. Das, Prof. Rao, Einstein, etc.) which are easily discernible and a careful study of which would enable one to acquire that practical knowledge and experience which is otherwise impossible.

This work shows that birth date and time are of supreme importance as determining not only character but also eventful periods of life.

The book contains the horoscopes of notable persons—their birth data, planetary positions, Dasas and Bhukthis in which important events have taken place in their lives. Then the various combinations which have produced different types of great men are carefully analysed with a view to showing to the readers, the practical application of Raja Yogas, Daridra Yogas and the like. The book also demonstrates the truth of Vimshottari Dasa.

SOME OF THE HOROSCOPES CONTAINED IN THE BOOK

Sri Krishna, Adi Sankara, Akbar, Alexander, Gautama Buddha, Jesus Christ, Prophet Mahomed, Augustus, Goethe, Aurangzeb, Gandhi, Ramakrishna Paramahamsa, Vivekananda, Tilak, B. Suryanarain Rao, Aurobindo Ghose, Ramana Maharshi, Sri Thyagaraja, Sri Vidyaranya, Rabindranath Tagore, Hitler, Mussolini, Abraham Lincoln, Subhas Bose, Jagadish Bose, Milton, Savarkar, Annie Besant, Bernard Shah, Godse, Stalin, Nehru, Eisenhower, Maotse-Tung, C. R. Das, Ashutosh Mukherjee, Sree Chaitanya, Karl Marx, Nero, Duke of Windsor, etc.

And also horoscopes illustrative of extreme religiousness, suicidal tendencies and certain other definite traits.

*Predicting Specific Events by Means of Transits—III

BY W. J. TUCKER, D.Sc., Ph.D.

IT is now necessary to discuss Birthday Planets, as this is a factor which will play an important part in our determinations, especially in connection with birth charts. The essential thing about a "birthday planet" is that it is the ruler of the day on which the individual was born.

If an individual is born on a Sunday (the Sun's Day), his "birthday planet" is the Sun. If on a Monday (the Moon's Day), it is the Moon. If on a Tuesday (Mars' Day), it is Mars. If on a Wednesday (Mercury's Day), it is Mercury. If on a Thursday (Jupiter's Day), it is Jupiter. If on a Friday (Venus' Day), it is Venus. And if on a Saturday (Saturn's Day), it is Saturn.

Now the days of the week did not receive their names merely by accident, or by way of an arbitrary assignment to them of the names of the seven "wandering orbs" which move freely among the fixed stars. In point of fact the naming of the days resulted from the work of an unknown but very brilliant ‡Egyptian astrological observer in the period immediately prior to the beginning of the Christian era who had convinced himself that the Sun, Moon, and the five planets known to him, had jurisdiction over the affairs of mankind for exactly one hour in turn, repeating the series in endless succession for all eternity.

He found that these "planetary bodies", seven in number, completed three series of rule in 21 hours, with the first three planets beginning a new series for the final three hours of the day, and the remaining four performing the same duty for the first four hours of the succeeding day. And so on.

This ancient Egyptian astrologer found that the order of the rulership ran in accordance with the distance of the orb from the earth, beginning with the outermost planet, thus: Saturn, Jupiter, Mars, Sun, Venus, Mercury, Moon. However, the most remarkable fact which he discovered was that when the planets are written down in that succession, a new planet rules the first hour of each succeeding day, to repeat the same series at the end of each succeeding week. This planetary ruler of the first hour appeared to him to wield such a predominant power over the affairs of mankind, that he came to the positive conclusion that the planet ruling the first hour of a day has paramount rulership over the entire day!

The following tabulation will demonstrate exactly how the system works, and how the days of the week came to receive their names. Of course the farthermost of the then known planets (Saturn) led the way; and since he ruled the first hour (and consequently the first day), that first day received the name of Saturn's Day.

‡The credit of naming the week days should invariably go to the Hindus. The Horas (or planetary hours) in each day were determined by the Hindus long before Egyptians knew anything of astronomy. —Ed., A.M.

The planetary influence ruling each separate day was so obvious, and accorded so closely with observed effects, that the theory stirred the imagination of thinkers in all countries, who thereupon adopted the system, and it was inevitable that in all the countries of Europe the days should be named after this model. Here, for the sake of comparison, are the names of the days of the week in seven different languages:

Sanskrit: Adigavasara, Somavasara, Mangalavasara, Budhavasara, Guruvasara, Sukravasara Sanivasara.

Latin: Dominica, Dies Lunæ, Dies Martis, Dies Mercurii, Dies Jovis, Dies Veneris, Dies Saturni.

French: Dimanche, Lundi, Mardi, Mercredi, Jeudi, Vendredi, Samedi.

English: Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday.

German: Sonntag, Montag, Dienstag, Mittwoch, Donnerstag, Freitag, Samstag.

Italian: Domenica, Lunedi, Martedi, Mercoledi, Giovedi, Venerdi, Sabato.

Spanish: Domingo, Lunes, Martes, Miercules, Jueves, Viernes, Sabado.

The importance of the discovery of the planetary ruler of each particular day cannot be overstressed, and throughout the whole of my work in astrology will be found clear indications of its over-riding importance in genethliacal and predictive astrology. In fact, from the very moment in which an astrologer knows the day of the week on which a given person was born, he has already in his possession a wealth of information about that person, if the astrologer himself has been trained on the right lines.

Rectifying the Horoscope

One further supremely important operation needs to be carried out before we attempt to study the practical application of transits. This operation consists of the scientific rectification of each horoscope in order to ensure that it is correctly oriented to the four cardinal points of the Heavens, namely the Point Ascendant and Point Descendant, the Zenith and the Nadir.

It was recognised by Ptolemy nearly two thousand years ago that "the actual moment, in which human generation commences, is, in fact, by nature, the moment of the conception itself; but in efficacy with regard to subsequent events, it is the parturition or birth."

The moment of conception is, of course, the moment at which an ovum is fertilised by a spermatozoon. But there is a point in time anterior to conception which has to be chosen for the purpose of the rectification, and that point in time is called the epoch. For the epoch begins with a phenomenon that is regulated by the Moon's influence. For she rules the moment at which an ovum will ripen in an ovary and prepare it for descent through a fallopian tube into the uterus. I have determined the epoch as measuring 294 days precisely, anterior to the date of the birth (10 lunations precisely).

Both the epoch and the actual birth occur on precisely the same day of the week. Thus, if the birth occurred on a Monday, the epoch also occurred on a Monday. If the birth occurred on a Tuesday, the epoch likewise occurred on a Tuesday. Thus both days come under the jurisdiction of the selfsame planet.

In the case of persons born within the first 18 hours of any particular day, the epoch horoscope has to be cast for the heliacal rising on that day (i.e., the moment of sunrise). But in the case of those born during the final hours of a particular day, the epoch horoscope has to be cast for the time of the heliacal setting.

As all astrologers know, it is often claimed that a person was born at midnight. Mr. E. H. Troinski of Berlin, for example, claims that he was born at midnight December 18/19th, 1910. But inasmuch as his actual birth date is given as December 18th, one may be sure that the time of his birth was sometime before midnight of that day. Consequently his epoch horoscope has to be cast for the heliacal setting on Sunday, February 27, 1910.

I have found from my researches that in approximately 65% of all cases the position of the epochal moon itself pinpoints the sign and degree that will rise at the moment of the birth. The solution of the remaining 35% of cases, however, is to be found in the clue provided by Ptolemy in Chapter III of Book III of his Tetrabiblos.

I myself was born in London on Thursday, November 19, 1896. Therefore the date of my epoch was Thursday, January 30, 1896. I therefore come under the dominion of Jupiter, and it will be found that on the day of my epoch the Moon was conjoined with Jupiter!

In my epochal horoscope the Moon will not pinpoint the rising sign and degree as she was not in dominion on that day. That honour belongs to Jupiter with whom she was conjoined, it being Jupiter's Day. So in this instance Ptolemy's principles apply, and the prerogative is selected in terms of triplicities.

Sagittarius is the only one of the two Jupiter-ruled signs

Digitized by www.saptarishisastrology.com For Preserving the Rare Knowledge Work which belong to the fire triplicity (indicated by the epochal ☾☌♃ in Leo). Therefore Sagittarius is the sign that would rise at birth. However, the degree number would be that of the epochal moon, thus making the Point Ascendant Sagittarius 8°.

Queen Elizabeth II was born in London at 2-40 a.m. (G.M.T.), Wednesday, July 1, 1925.*

On the day of the Queen's epoch, the Moon conjoined Saturn. It is therefore the stabilising influence of Saturn which pinpoints the degree number rising at her birth. As Saturn was at Scorpio 8°, the 8th degree of a sign would rise at birth.

Moon conjuction Saturn occurred in the fixed sign of Scorpio. But the prerogative cannot be selected by triplicity because no sign of the water triplicity is ruled by Saturn. Under such circumstances, therefore, it will be a fixed sign ruled by Saturn that will ascend at the birth. There is only one such sign, viz., Aquarius. Consequently the Point Ascendant will be located at Aquarius 8°.

Prince Philip was born at Corfu, Friday, June 10, 1921. Therefore his epoch fell on Friday, August 20, 1920. At the epoch the Sun conjoined Jupiter and constituted a heliacal rising in Leo. This provided so powerful an influence that it would certainly cause Leo to ascend at the moment of the birth. However, the day was Friday, and Venus was conjoining Saturn. As Venus is his birthday planet, the position of the epochal Venus would normally provide the rising degree. But the conjunction of Venus with Saturn at the epoch was in sextile with the Moon, so that it will be the Moon's number that will determine the ascending degree. This places his Point Ascendant at Leo 13°.

The Prince of Wales (Prince Charles) was born in London at 9-30 p.m., Sunday, November 14, 1948. A horoscope cast by the usual methods, would give Leo 8° as Point Ascendant. His epoch occurred on Sunday, January 25, 1948. But as the Full Moon was imminent at that date, and as the Moon directly controls the epoch itself, it is certain that in this exceptional case the epoch must have occurred on Monday, January 26, 1948. Also, as his time of birth fell within the final 6 hours of Sunday, November 14, 1948, we have to cast his epoch horoscope for the time of heliacal setting.

In every epoch horoscope it is the chief influence of the day that influences the selection of the sign-degree rising at birth. As already shown, in my own epoch it was Moon conjunction Jupiter that was the decisive pointer. At the Queen's epoch it was Moon conjunction Jupiter. At Prince Philip's epoch it was Sun conjunction Jupiter. And in the case of Prince Charles it is Sun conjunction Moon. As the epoch occurred on a Monday, the dominant influence is that of the Moon. As the Moon's position at the epoch was Leo 5°, his Point Ascendant at birth would be Leo 5°—a value which agrees closely with a horoscopical figure cast for the published time of his birth.

As astrologers of any experience at all must be aware, nothing is more uncertain than a birth time, and obviously it would be folly to attempt to apply rigorous scientific method to a wrongly-oriented horoscope. But all astrologers should make it an absolute rule never to rely upon the veracity of a stated time of birth unless it can be positively attested and proved by the claimant.

I owe the discovery of my method of rectification solely to the fact that I confined my initial researches exclusively to horoscopes of the few persons known to me about whose birth times there could be no possible doubt whatever. One of those horoscopes was that of my own son, William.

I was present (in an adjoining room) at the birth of my son, and heard his first cry at a time which I recorded as 11 p.m. Today, my wife would tell you (from memory) that the birth occurred at midnight. My sister—who was also present—would tell you likewise from memory, that it occurred at 10 p.m. It so happens, however, that I can certify under oath that the birth occurred at approximately 11 p.m., Sunday, October 16th, 1921. And I can back my statement with scientific proof. For it so happened that at the time of the occurrence I was watching through the open window the progress of an eclipse of the Moon. At the very instant when the Moon completely entered the earth's shadow, the child in the adjoining room cried for the first time!

According to Raphael's ephemeris for 1921, the time the eclipse was exact that evening was 10-59 p.m.

As my son was born in the late evening, the epoch horoscope has to be erected for the heliacal setting on Sunday, December 26, 1920. In that epoch horoscope the Moon's power is predominant, for she is found to be in the ascendant at the 23rd degree of Cancer (the Moon's own sign). The sign and degree of the Moon at the epoch therefore indicates with precision the exact location of the Point Ascendant at the exact moment of birth, namely Cancer 23°.

*Your author is well aware that there are some who believe the bulletin time was summer time. However, an Act of Parliament of the year 1880 decreed that the official time for all public announcements in Great Britain is to be taken from the meridian of Greenwich (i.e. G.M.T.) The rectification of the Queen's horoscope proves that the published time was in fact G.M.T.

At the exact moment of his birth the Moon was precisely at the zenith and the Sun precisely at the Nadir. Which facts orient the horoscope with remarkable precision.

A Current Example

At a dinner held by the Federation of British Astrologers on October 31st, 1958, I asked Miss Patricia Goulding (who was seated next to me at table) for her birth data I wanted to examine her horoscope because she had been bitten by a lion cub whilst on holiday in Germany at approximately 11-30 a.m., September 8, 1958. She told me she was born at approximately 2 a.m., Thursday, June 3, 1915 (equivalent to 1 a.m., G.M.T.). However, her fiance, Mr. A. Ward, who was also present and is himself an astrologer, remarked that she must certainly have been born with Taurus rising because of the physical impress of that sign being plainly discernible in her features (a remark which a horoscope cast for the submitted birth time would certainly not substantiate. However, it so happens that Mr. Ward is quite correct in his assertion about Taurus ascending at Miss Goulding's birth).

As Patricia was born in the forenoon, the epoch horoscope has to be cast for the heliacal rising of Thursday. August 13, 1914. In that epoch horoscope the most notable configuration of the day can be represented in symbols: (☉ opp. ♃ □ ☽), and expressed in words as: "the opposition of the rising Sun to Jupiter across the horizon circle, double-squared by the Moon from the zenith." All three celestial bodies are in fixed signs, and therefore a fixed sign would be certain to rise at birth. But which one? The zenith position of the epochal moon affords the answer: it will be Taurus. The day of the epoch, however, is a Thursday—Jupiter's Day—and therefore the degree-number rising at birth will be the number of the epochal Jupiter. Consequently the location of the Point Ascendant at birth is fixed at Taurus 17°. This brings the Moon and Uranus to the zenith.

It should be mentioned that during the weeks preceding the visit to Germany, Patricia had been suffering from a chronic health disorder and had proved allergic to the medical treatment she had been receiving—with the result that blood poisoning and a debilitating fever was being experienced. It was hoped that the continental holiday might prove beneficial.

The health condition was accentuated by the entry of Neptune into Scorpio (a sign which has a blood affinity and which is always liable to precipitate blood disorders) aggravated by Jupiter (her birthday planet) which rules the blood, into the same sign on September 7th, 1958. The health trouble was due to come to a head (the crisis point) on September 24th, 1958, on which date Jupiter would conjoin Neptune at Scorpio 3 degrees, in opposition to the birth star marking the position of her natal Mars across her 6th–12th houses (her health houses). From that date onwards, the blood affections plus the debilitating fever would stand an excellent chance of clearing up.

However, the bite from the lion cub preceded that point in time, occurring as it did, on September 8th, 1958.

It has been noted already that this girl was born with Uranus at the zenith. The progressed (transitting) Uranus on September 8th was at Leo 14° at her Nadir, in opposition to the birth star marking the radical position held by Uranus at her birth, and in exact square with the birth star marking the radical position of Venus.

Venus, at this girl's birth, was at her Point Ascendant and in Taurus—a sign with which that planet has greatest affinity. Accordingly, Venus becomes the ruler of her horoscope. On the day of the accident, therefore, the transitting Uranus had reached a highly critical point at the Nadir, and was currently afflicting three of the four cardinal points (Ascendant, Zenith and Nadir).

In my view it was highly fortunate for this girl that she was not bitten on the preceding evening when the Moon was transitting over the birth star marking the natal position of the Mercury-Saturn conjunction in Cancer, because I am certain that more grievous consequences would then have ensued.

At the time of the accident, however, Mars in Taurus was in sextile aspect with the radical position of Juptier (her birthday planet) thus affording her stellar protection against the more serious consequences that could have resulted from the imminent accident, as well as ensuring competent medical attention for her (a factor which is similarly determined by the stars.)

The German doctor who treated her for the animal bite (she had been bitten right through an arm), immediately detected in addition the nature of her basic condition which was threatening to get out of

The Truth of Astrology

BY N. VISVANATHAN, M.A.

AFTER a careful study of the subject of Astrology, Palmistry and Numerology for about 10 years, I can definitely say that it is possible to know what has happened and what is going to happen to one and what one is going to do and how one will adjust in different periods of one's life. This possibility has nourished in me a strong belief in such subjects.

Whether what is going to happen can be averted or not is a different matter. Astrology is a science of tendencies. Physics is a science. But the path of light as conceived by Newtonians is not reality as seen by scientists today. But that as established by Einstein may not be a reality a century later. Nevertheless physics is a science. Indivisible atom of old is divisible now. Indivisible "ions" may be divisible later on. But chemistry is a science. In the same way, perhaps with greater emphasis, we can say that astrology is a science. What is a science after all? You can be doing experiments and try to establish certain truths. Take astrology. Cast a horoscope of a man correctly. Suppose Sun alone occupies Lagna in an inimical fashion. The horoscopian will be short-tempered. He will have an air of superiority. His nose will be prominent. He will be critical in his attitude. He may not be very active. His health may suffer if Sun is afflicted. Particularly his eye-sight may be weak. If these results are not true, then astrology can be condemned. Results are true if studied statistically. Astrology is greater than probability. Here there is no probability. That man will be so. If any change is wanted, that man should generate an abundance of soul-electric forces to counteract the rays from the planets.

Mr. Nehru, in order that he may impress upon his vast audiences, will criticise communal organisations and in the same breath, astrology. He will go on exposing his ignorance of the subject by saying "We do not consult astrologers.....", as if he has taken the trouble of comparing results of effects of Sun in Lagna in hundred horoscopes and put forth similar efforts to have an analytical view of things. He may say hundred things about foreign policy, Congress and similar matters. But he is totally incompetent to pass a remark on a subject in which perhaps God has ordained his ignorance to shine.

If astrology cannot be called as science, the world has no system of study now, not previously, which hopes to resemble at least a science. At least Newton was a true scientist. All scientists and all sciences point to one thing, namely, truth. Only one truth exists. That truth is the existence of a power which conducts the activities by introducing several forces. These are rays from planets, stars, comets and souls. 'Soul' can emit rays. Gandhi's soul emitted rays.

Can ultra-violet rays cure disease? 'Yes, Sir' says our efficient Anglo-doctors. Can X-rays produce effects? Can there not be any other ray? Silence. Doctors gaze. Study astrology which deals with Sun's rays pushed by star Aswini, etc., Moon's rays pushed by stars, Mars' rays pushed by the star-lore, Mercury's Jupiter's, Venus' and Saturn's rays joined by rays from stars. There are hundred thousand rays. X-Ray, U-Ray, infra-red ray, etc. are but a pigmy compared with all rays detailed above. Effect of handful of rays is described in a branch of science called Medicine and Light; but what about other crores.....? These are detailed in astrology in simple language.

Now, Sun shines and emits rays. Planets eagerly devour these and reflect only those which they represent intrinsically. If electric shock can produce a healing effect in a nervous and demented patient, Moon's rays spoiled by Saturn's can affect brain. Has any so-called decrier of astrology taken pains to study these effects? So these rays can affect any system on earth. To study these things with the so-called Western advanced costly instruments, it will take years and cost as many crores as there are horoscopes in this world. But Rishis with their best instrument, Divya-Drishti, conducted research using their soul-force, and have stated the effects of planets, stars, etc., in beautiful language for which there is no comparison, till now, from the point of view of its excellence alone. For example, Guru is a Sanskrit word meaning big. The planet is so named because it is the heaviest of the planets leaving Sun. Again Guru represents gold, so say Rishis. Scientists after study and through costly spectrometers have established that Jupiter is made up of gold. Imagine the nature of the force that will be released if such huge metallic bodies reflect hot rays from Sun. Study of this force is the region of astrology. It covers Science, Mathematics, Politics, History and other branches of knowledge. An expert astrologer has to be conversant with all branches of knowledge. What is greater? No doubt that astrology covers all fields. That is why I believe in astrology.

We can study Mr. Nehru's and others' horoscopes and say why they condemn astrology. It will be only due to a weakness in their horoscopes. A particular corner of their organic system is not illuminated by good light. They are "studying" and viewing astrology under yellow or perhaps black light—Hence their jaundiced view. May Lord Surya expel their darkness and lead them correctly in this particular aspect of their life!

So my belief in astrology is deep rooted because of the scientific aspect it possesses and of the possibility of offering all scientific explanations. More light is not thrown because we have not cared to study. Can any one say why 1 plus 1 equals 2 and what is zero? No..... prolonged explanations may pour in..... I want an one word explanation. So also, we may not explain why Sun in Lagna acts in that way. Can anyone explain in simple language why man has this peculiar shape, why a collar is necessary, why nose cannot be in the chest and why evolution should take place? Can anybody say how Darwin's theory had been crystallised in the story of Dasavatara? So I start from the axioms in astrology. I take them for granted. I apply. Wonder and admiration and regard for Sri Parasara and others result.

I would like to make a reference to Freewill. Sun's rays are the root cause for terrestrial affairs. Sun represents soul. So soul's actions are root cause for the variegations on the earth. So if Soul Force is generated and developed, it can send rays to control or modify those already sent. God Krishna has observed in Bhagavat Gita as follows:

न चैनं क्लेदयन्त्यापो न शोषयति मारुतः॥

If such imperishable, unaffected soul is given to all, and if after all, the Mighty Soul contained in Sun is able to control planets' activities there is no reason why there should not be a possibility of developing that Soul Force strong enough to promote good and counteract evil. Remember the story of Bhishma who died at will. It may not have happened or it may have happened a hundred times. Nevertheless, it hints at a possibility. Without it (Freedom) world will be a gloomy gutter. With it blooming faces can work together with an effort to produce good results. May be, entire success is not ours, as Lord Krishna has stated in Gita:

कर्मण्येवाधिकारस्ते मा फलेषु कदाचन।
मा कर्मफलहेतुर्भूर्मा ते सङ्गोऽस्त्वकर्मणि॥

To know what effort is necessary and how one can conduct oneself better, aid of astrology is necessary. If an occasion arises, there is scope to expand the scientific outlook on astrology which I hope to do a little later.

Thanking the honourable Editor for the donation of valuable space to record my views, I want to refer you to certain day-to-day occurrences in my life which have confirmed my faith in astrology and allied subjects.

It is said in astrological works that lord of Lagna in 5, takes away the first born forcing 'its' father to survive it. I have this combination and I lost my first born daughter aged 3y. 6m. I have seen this combination in not less than 10 horoscopes whose natives have lost their first born issues invariably.

I have noticed that I am prejudiced to a certain class of people but I easily get along with another class. After closer examination of the horoscopes concerned, I find that people born in certain lagnas say Kanya, etc., are holding views slightly different to mine. I am born in a different Lagna and rasi and people with the same Lagna or rasi are easily my friends who have great admiration and love for me and I, for them.

Again taking my beloved and first born whom I lost 7 months back, I found, after exmination carried out after the 'event', that the Doctor whose help was sought for has a particular name whose syllables work up according to Cheiro, to a particular digit represented by a particular planet, i.e., Mercury, who was unfortunately a powerful maraka for my daughter born in Kataka Lagna. Also, the Doctor entered our house for the first time to examine the patient, on a Wednesday, whose lord is Mercury and at an hour ruled by Ravi, who is also a maraka for people born in Cancer Lagna. So my daughter died.

On a particular occasion while talking to a particular gentleman, I noticed that he had a peculiar blackish glitter in his eyes, he moved left and right his body above waist while walking and he had prominent front teeth and neck. I guessed that he should have something to do with Kumbha Rasi or Lagna. After our talk I found that his star was Dhanishta. In another case also I could guess it.

These incidents have established my faith in astrology. What

My Experiences of Some Bhrigu Astrologers

BY MADHAV SADASHIV KELKAR

HAVING read the experiences of Mr. K. M. Munshi in February 1958 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE, I am giving my experiences of some Bhrigu astrologers from 1919 to 1922. The first of these was one from Meerut district. He came to Ahmedabad in 1919 and soon became well-known. He had readings of a few hundred horoscopes, probably written by himself after acquiring some 'Siddhi' or spiritual power as a result of reciting some 'Mantra' for twelve years. He used to read one horoscope every evening, charging only five rupees for it, and charged rupees thirty for its written copy if the person wanted it. He also made money by performing 'Anushthana' mentioned in the reading for getting rid of the effects of bad stars. On being acquainted with him as a student of astrology and a friend of Mahatma Gandhi, he talked freely with me about astrology and effects of mantras. I was also present at the time of reading of a horoscope if the person did not object. Thus I noted down the chief points of some horoscopes while being read, and the chief points of some others from the written copy got from him.

This man was an expert astrologer and his speciality was to find out the number of marks of a horoscope which decided the level of the person. Thus, when a horoscope got a number more than 120, he used to say that the person was a rich man, even though some of them came to him in ordinary clothes, posing as poor to test the astrologer. He assigned 140 marks to Lokamanya Tilak's horoscope due to some special aspects which gave him fame if not money, while that of the last German Kaisar got only 133 marks. He once told me that horoscopes of some Emperors and godly men like Rama and Krishna got more than 160 marks; so after a few days, I showed him the horoscope of King George V without telling him the name, and he told me that it must be of some Emperor as it had 162 marks. Even when he said that he did not possess the reading of a horoscope, he answered whatever the person had to ask, free of charge. He once promised to tell me how to assign the marks to a horoscope, but somehow he went on postponing it till his death in October 1920 after performing an Anushthana for the bad aspects of a rich man.

Though he did not possess the reading of Lokamanya Tilak, he read to me that of his younger son, in March 1920, in which the father was described as being a pleader but who gave up the practice and was imprisoned for doing his duty; that he would be known in other lands and be 'Lokmanya'; that he would have diabetes and that during the 24th to 25th years of the son, the father will suffer seriously during the months when the Sun was in Cancer or Leo; and that if he survives, it would be like another birth. In May 1920, I told Lok. Tilak about this reading and suggested to him to take rest during July and August as they were bad for him. But as the stars would have it, he had to do some urgent work during the third week of July and fell ill on the 23rd, his birth date.

Another speciality of these readings was that horoscopes of near relatives or friends were mentioned with the places of planets. Thus in this case, horoscopes of Lok. Tilak and his elder son (then living) were mentioned.

Another point worth noting in all Bhrigu readings is that the year and solar month when the reading is heard by the person or someone else is mentioned, the year being that of the age of the person. Then some mantra is given to efface the sins of past life, mentioned in short. In most cases, the truthfulness of the former life cannot be tested as the references are vague; but in a few cases, as I shall now relate, these are found to be true from historical works. Before I close the description of the Ahmedabad readings, I may mention the reference to the first World War in the reading of a Government servant, born in April 1890, while describing his 27th year, and its coming to an end in 29th year after the Sun in 6th sign.

Having heard about a Bhrigu astrologer of Meerut, I went there in November 1920, and met an old man who was not an expert in astrology but who had the readings of some horoscopes, written by some predecessor of some spiritual power. From him I got the readings of the horoscopes of Mahatma Gandhi, Lala Lajpatrai, Pandit Madan Mohan Malaviya and two less known persons as controls, as it may be said that the man might have known the horoscopes of the three leaders. At the most the horoscope of Pandit Malaviya may have been known as I got it from a leading astrologer of Jaipur; but no one had the other two except myself. The ascendant of Mahatma Gandhi in 7th sign was suggested to me by an astrologer friend in Poona, while

I myself wrote down the horoscope of Lajpatrai with ascendant in 7th sign. At that time, I myself wanted to test the truth of astrology and the genuineness of such writings; so I never suggested the names or positions of persons whose horoscopes I showed to any astrologer. Lastly, the detailed incidents mentioned in the three readings leaves no doubt that they were written by one of great 'Siddhi' though the events near the ends do not tally with facts. It is said that the Siddhi for knowing the past events of a man can be attained after an Anushthana for some years, but that for knowing the future is rather difficult. As the time of hearing is mentioned correctly and the events upto that time are correct they show the power of the writer; and the reference to the former birth of Mahatma Gandhi giving his name and that of the state and the period between the two births also shows the higher nature of the power.

In order to increase the length of the writing, a general description is first given; then the few events of former birth are given and then follow the events during short periods from early life till death, usually the month and time of death is given and the caste of future birth is mentioned. I shall now mention the chief points in the three readings.

In the case of Pandit Malaviya, former birth is mentioned as a Brahmin born in Banares but he left his family during youth and went to Prayag. There he once saw a large meeting addressed by some one in English and was sorry that his own (Sanskrit) education was of no use; so he prayed God that as a result of his good acts, he should get respect from the rulers during the next birth. So he was reborn a Brahmin after only three years of his death. As no name is mentioned, it is impossible to verify these events; but the probability is shown by his command over English and his preference to speak in English instead of Hindi. He is described as often being a member of the Rulers' Assembly where he was somewhat feared. He is said to have built many houses for education; he was a pleader and also a writer; it is said that after the age of 23, there was obstruction in education and that he earned money as a teacher; during his 67th year, he travelled by water, and his life is given as only 69 though he lived longer.

Lala Lajpatrai's former birth is given as a general named Dhyan Sinha of a king in Punjab, who became king by killing the prince through the instigation of bad friends. After some time, he and his friends were killed in battle. At the time of his death, he repented and prayed God not to make him a 'Kshatriya' in next birth and he was born after 20 years in Punjab in a 'Vaishya' family. As I did not get a history of Punjab about 1830 to 1840, I could not verify these events. He is mentioned as a follower of Vedas though the family was Jain. He helped the people during a famine during his 27th to 32nd year and those affected by earthquake about his 40th year. During his 41st to 44th year, he helped the people of Bengal against Government, and had to go to the other side of the earth, and he was in foreign country about his 50th year. During his 55th–56th year, many students and others were killed due to Government being angry, and he was greatly worried about a friend during 57th–58th year (or during 1921-22). His life is given as about 76 though he died unexpectedly in November 1928.

About Mahatma Gandhi's former birth, it is said

चित्तस्य आह संयुक्तात् शब्दनिर्माणि यस्कृतं
तस्याधि पस्य वेतात ज्येष्टपुत्रो बभुवसः ॥
वासना स्वपितुर्ज्ञात्वा राज्यं दत्वाऽनुजस्याच ।

That is, he was the elder son of King of Chitod (in Rajasthan) and he gave up his right to the state in favour of his younger brother, according to his father's desire. His name is given as Chudajee and that there are some people of a sub-caste named after him. (There are some Rajputs called Chudavat). He had to kill many people in battles, but he was then sorry and so was born in a Vaishya family near the sea-coast, after 400 years.

On hearing this, I referred to Todd's Rajasthan in the Meerut Library and found that a king Lakha Rana ruled at Chitod during first half of 15th century A.D. He had a son, Chudajee. Some men from a nearby state came to the king with offer of giving their princess in marriage to Chudajee, but before they made it clear that the offer was for the son, the father said in jest that the offer must not be for himself as he was getting old and accepted it for his son who was out shooting. On his return, the son did not like his father's remarks and refused to marry the girl, so the king said that as he had accepted the offer, he will marry her if the son were ready to give up his right if a son was born, and thus he agreed to it. After some time a son was born who succeeded to the state, and Chudajee acted as a general.

During the general description, it is said that at one time he was sorry for being married early and also for the early death of his parents for not being able to serve them. Then it is said that he stayed more in other countries and less in his own, and he was often imprisoned; he had thousands of followers and

Zodiacal Background of Music

BY S. SARAVANABHAVAN

IN the present article, it is proposed to demonstrate the close connection that subsists between the zodiac and the basis of Carnatic music as also an astrological technique to discover a musical secret lying not so very apparent at the outset. The signs of the zodiac, the planets, the houses and many other features of astrology have their counterparts in the elements of music and this will be explained later on. As the events likely to occur in a native's life are fore-determined with the aid of astrology, so also it is possible to predict beforehand some of the minutest details of Carnatic music with its help. And the particular musical aspect which I would like to deal with here with the help of astrological technique in this article pertains mainly to "Sruti Bheda" which lends itself to be thus simply and clearly explained. In rendering a particular Tunal pattern (Raga), if a particular swara of it is treated as foundational (Adhara-Shatja) and the Raga too is elaborated accordingly, the original Raga sounds as a different one. And the astrological method with the zodiac as the background would be of immense use in easily determining beforehand how the Ragas will vary. Before expounding the method, let us see how astrology and music are correlated.

(1) The second sign of the zodiac is called Rishabha which is the name of the second swara of Carnatic music.

(2) The seven planets from Sun to Saturn (excluding Rahu and Kethu which are only Moon's nodes) represent the seven swaras (Saptaswaras) of music.

(3) The twelve signs of the zodiac correspond to the twelve Bheda swaras of music in the twelve-sruti scheme.

(4) The swaras Shatja and Panchama, the first and eighth swaras in the twelve Bheda swaras are vital to the father (Kartha) Ragas (numbering seventy-two), just as the first and eighth signs of the zodiac are ruled by Mars, the planet of energy and vitality.

(5) Shatja and Panchama have no alternative swaras but the other five swaras have, such as Chatusruti Rishabha for Suddha Rishabha, Anthara Gandhara for Sadarana Gandhara and so on. This is parallelled by the fact that the Sun and the Moon have only one house each, while the other five planets have two each.

(6) Shatja and Panchama swaras are Prakriti swaras and the most fundamental and the others are Vikriti swaras. The Sun and the Moon as luminaries are the most important of the planets. The Vikriti swaras which we have compared to the other five planets have not that fixity or unchangeability and are subject to manipulation in their rendering unlike the Shatja and Panchama swaras. This feature, so to say, can be compared to the phenomenon of retrogression, stationary condition and acceleration to which these five planets are subject unlike the Sun and the Moon.

With these similarities worked out between the zodiacal arrangements and planets and the swaras of music, we can glimpse the zodiacal background of music. Now, let us illustrate the astrological method.

The twelve Bheda swaras of the twelve sruti scheme are given here below. They are equally divided and therefore the difference between the first swara and the second is the same as the difference between any two adjacent swaras.

Swara Nos.	Names of the swaras	Contractions	Corresponding signs.
1st	Shatja ...	S	♈
2nd	Suddha Rishabha ...	Sud-R	♉
3rd	Chatusruti Rishabha (Suddha Gandhara)	Chat-R	♊
4th	Sadarana Gandhara (Shatsruti Rishabha)	Sad-G	♋
5th	Anthara Gandhara	An-G	♌
6th	Suddha Madhyama	Sud-M	♍
7th	Prati Madhyama ...	Pra-M	♎
8th	Panchama ...	P	♏
9th	Suddha Daivata ...	Sud-D	♐

11th	Kaisika Nishada ... (Shatsruti Daivata)	Kais-N	♒
12th	Kakali Nishada ...	Kak-N	♓

The diagram can be drawn thus to make easy the problem.

To discover the musical secret, the following rules should be borne in mind.

(1) Place the swaras of the Raga which is being mainly rendered in their corresponding signs.

(2) Indicate the sign relevant to the swara which is to be treated as foundational (Shatja) as Lagna.

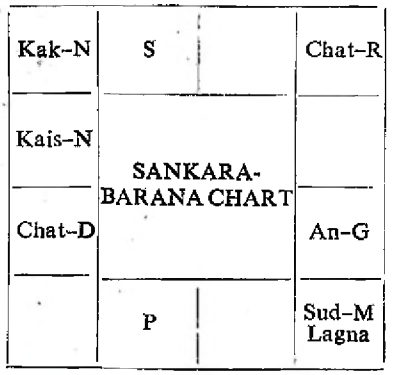
(3) Then note whichever Bhavas contain swaras in the particular chart as 1st, 2nd, etc., etc. The numbers thus arrived at, will be the swara numbers of the varying Raga. Now, let us go into the examples given below:–

Examples

(1) Find out the varying Raga when the "Mohana Raga" is mainly rendered when its Rishabha swara is treated as foundational.

Mohana Raga is composed of the swaras Shatja, Chatusruti Rishabha, Anthara Gandhara, Panchama and Chatusruti Daivata. The following is its chart:–

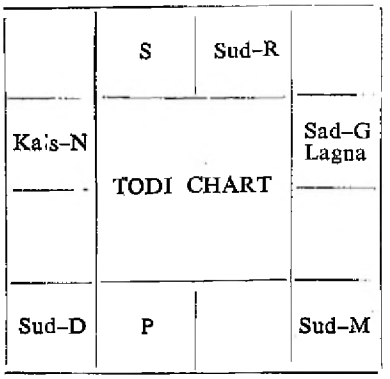


As per rule (1), Mohana Raga swaras are placed in their corresponding signs. As per rule (2), Gemini is indicated as Lagna as Chatusruti Rishabha is treated as foundational. As per rule (3), if we note the Bhavas containing swaras from Lagna onwards, we can find that the 1st, 3rd, 6th, 8th and 11th Bhavas are containing swaras from Lagna onwards. The numbers thus arrived at (namely 1st, 3rd, 6th, 8th and 11th, i.e., Shatja, Chatusruti Rishabha, Suddha Madhyama, Panchama and Kaisika Nishada) are the swaras forming the Raga Madhyamavati. So, the varying Raga will be Madhyamavati.

(2) What will be the varying Raga when the Madhyama swara of the Raga Sankarabharana is treated as foundational?

Sankarabharana Raga consists of the swaras Shatja, Chatusruti Rishabha, Anthara Gandhara, Suddha Madhyama, Panchama, Chatusruti Daivata and Kakali Nishada.

The chart for Sankarabharana can be drawn thus :—



As per rule (1), the above diagram was drawn. As per rule (2), Virgo is indicated as Lagna as Suddha Madhyama is treated as foundational. As per rule (3), it can be found that 1st, 3rd, 5th, 7th, 8th, 10th and 12th Bhavas contain swaras from Lagna onwards. The numbers thus arrived at (namely, 1–3–5–7–8–10–12) Shatja, Chatusruti Rishabha, Anthara Gandhara, Prati Madhyama, Panchama, Chatusruti Daivata and Kakali Nishada) refer to the Raga Kalyani. So, the varying Raga is Kalyani.

(3) What Raga will you get, by treating the Gandhara swara of Todi Raga as foundational?

Todi Raga is formed of the swaras Shatja, Suddha Rishabha, Sadarana Gandhara, Suddha Madhyama, Panchama, Suddha Daivata and Kaisika Nishada.

In the below chart drawn as per rule (1), Lagna falls in Cancer as Sadarana Gandhara is treated as foundational as per rule (2). And as per rule (3), it can be seen that the 1st, 3rd, 5th, 6th, 8th, 10th and 11th Bhavas contain swaras.

The numbers thus arrived at, namely, 1–3–5–6–8–10–11. (Shatja, Chatusruti Rishabha, Anthara Gandhara, Suddha Madhyama, Panchama, Chatusruti Daivata and Kaisika Nishada) represent the Raga Harikamboji. So the varying Raga is "Harikamboji".

A Striking Feature

Examine the following chart of Subha Pantuvarali Raga. The name Subha Pantuvarali is peculiarly appropriate in the light of the technique adopted as above because its swaras excepting Shatja and Panchama which are the common swaras to all the seventy-two father (Kartha) Ragas, occupy the Rasis of Subhas only, namely the signs of Venus, Moon, Venus, Jupiter and Jupiter.

The Kaleidoscope

BY YOGIRAJ GEORGE CECIL NIXON

[Under this heading Mr. G. C. Nixon will astrologically comment on important happenings in the world such as political upheavals, natural calamities and train disasters, etc., with special reference to events in India. Mr. Nixon has been a student of Hindu Astrology and Yoga for a number of years. It is hoped that this feature will be welcomed by our esteemed readers. Publication of Mr. Nixon's views does not necessarily mean that the Editor endorses them.—Ed., A.M.]

Mr. Macmillan's Visit to Russia

MR. HAROLD MACMILLAN, the British Premier, is no doubt living through the most eventful and colourful period in his life. In the present grave international situation, his recent visit to Russia, has received the full glare of world publicity, and he has achieved results which have never yet been accorded to any other politician living outside the Soviet Union. He was allowed to freely visit and discuss views and differences with leading Soviet citizens, and also to address 10 million viewers on Soviet Television, and for this the credit must go to Khrushev. These are great changes since the days of Stalin's repressive regime. Khrushev appears to be playing the role of a 'Liberal' Communist—if there is such a thing !

Mr. Macmillan is a shrewd, hardworking and far-seeing man, and is not easily upset by the excitability of other people. This is true to his Sun in Capricorn, and combined with the Moon in Pisces adds flexibility and insight to his character. He was born on the 10th February 1894, but the time is unknown. The planetary positions at noon were published in April 1957 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE, but I repeat them here for convenience.

The Sun–28.25 Capricorn; The Moon–21.46 Pisces; Mars–4.23 Sagittarius; Mercury–7.37 Aquarius; Jupiter–29.12 Aries; Venus–8.53 Aquarius; Saturn–2.46 Libra; Uranus–22.57 Libra; Neptune–17.24 Taurus; and Pluto–14.38 Taurus.

His tour of Russia commenced on the 21st February last, and on this date we find a most significant transit at work, for the Sun had just transitted his Mercury and Venus in Aquarius, Russia's ruling sign and in opposition to the transitting Pluto. To this Jupiter adds a transit by square aspect. All this was very favourable, especially for speech-making, discussion, and for giving him an opportunity to show his charm of personality. His Mercury conjunction Venus shows that he has peace at heart, and illustrates his efforts to try and bring about a bridge between U.S.A. and Russia, and pave the way for a summit conference.

Mr. Khrushev was born on the 17th April 1894 and is therefore the same age as Mr. Macmillan. His planetary positions at noon are as follows:—

The Sun–3.24 Aries; the Moon–26.00 Leo (Approx); Mars–20.49 Capricorn; Mercury–7.24 Pisces; Jupiter–9.39 Taurus; Venus–18.17 Aquarius; Saturn–28.0 Virgo; Uranus–20.37 Libra; Neptune–18.13 Taurus; and Pluto 15.54 Taurus.

The only planetary interchange is between Mars and Sun in Capricorn in Mr. Khrushev's and Mr. Macmillan's charts respectively, and it denotes that they would only succeed in irritating each other, if left in each other's company for long! So I doubt if anything is gained in the long run. Mr. Khrushev is having the transit of Uranus over Mars by opposition aspect, and this clearly indicates that he has acted in a very high-handed, brash and unnecessarily aggressive manner, in making his ultimatum to the West on Berlin. It denotes that he is bent upon an aggressive policy, but will be considerably shaken by an unexpected attack upon his policy, either within or without Russia. Although the deadline for the ultimatum to expire is the end of May, negotiations will continue for a while no doubt, but a very dangerous situation will develop in July and August this year, when the Sun, Mercury and Uranus continue to transit Khrushev's Mars.

The 1959 Berlin Capsolar chart shows Mars setting and Pluto culminating, and this is a dangerous sign of a dramatic struggle and we can only hope that the rising position of Jupiter will keep the peace.

Mr. Macmillan also intends to visit Bonn, Paris and Washington in March and so there is no opportunity for a General Election in England in the spring. The Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh plan to visit Ghana in November, and as the Queen must be in England during a General Election, it is probable that this may take place on the Thursday the 29th October 1959. Mr. Macmillan has his Sun progressed to the opposition of Saturn this year and at his October lunar return, Mars will transit Saturn, which indicates defeat and overthrow, as well as ill-health. So he is strongly advised to postpone a General Election until the spring of 1960, if he wishes to be successful. 1960 will be a remarkably successful year for him, as Uranus will oppose his Sun by transit and square his Jupiter.

The Cyprus Peace Treaty

Readers may recall that last year I made a prediction that peace would come to the strife-torn island of Cyprus when Jupiter entered Scorpio, at the beginning of 1959. This was fulfilled to the letter, first by the amnesty and truce at X'mas, followed by active negotiations between Greece and Turkey, which lead to the dramatic signing of a peace treaty, in which all sides had to make concessions. The treaty was signed in London on the 19th February 1959 at 5–30 p.m., in most unusual circumstances. Mr. Menderes, the Turkish Prime Minister, had a most remarkable escape from a terrible aircrash at Gatwick Airport, only two days before, when many leading Turkish politicians lost their lives. As Mr. Menderes was too shaken to take part in the final stages of the conference, both Mr. Macmillan and Mr. Karamanlis, Premiers of Britain and Greece respectively, went to the London clinic to Mr. Menderes bedside and there the treaty was signed.

Archbishop Makarios was made the head of the State and to Britain remained the sole control of two military bases for the protection of her interests in the Near East. Of all these leaders I regret to say that no information of their birth dates has been published. General Grivas, the Eoka leader, who fought so stubbornly against the British in the rocky fastnesses and forests of this Cypress—studded island, was born, according to his brother on the 23rd May 1898 in Nicoscia, time unknown. The noon positions are as follows :—

The Sun–8.59 Taurus; the Moon–11.19 Gemini; Mars–25.31 Pisces; Mercury–15.18 Aries; Jupiter–7.02 Virgo; Venus–3.18 Gemini; Saturn–16.10 Scorpio; Uranus–8.11 Scorpio; Neptune–28.10 Taurus; and Pluto–20.11 Taurus.

The satellitium of Sun, Neptune and Pluto in Taurus, opposite Saturn and Uranus in Scorpio, all affecting the Cyprus situation should be noted. At the present time, Saturn is transitting the opposition of his radical Moon which denotes disappointed hopes and a great sense of frustration. He cannot expect much sympathy since he was a murderer of innocent women. At the time of writing (9th March, 1959), he has not yet come forward, and in some quarters it is doubted if he is alive. According to Tom Pocock, writing in the Sunday Despatch on the 19th October 1958, he died and probably was burnt to death in June 1956 in the great military operations against him, when whole forests were set on fire. Certainly at that time he was under very adverse transits. An eclipse of the Moon fell on his birthday, 23rd May 1956 with Saturn in opposition in 5° Scorpio.

The general influence bringing peace to this island is the presence of Jupiter in the sign Scorpio, throwing a full aspect on to the sign Taurus which rules Cyprus. But it is also very fascinating to note that the progressed 1959, London Capsolar for the 19th February, showed Jupiter exactly rising, in mundane parallel to the transitting Venus in Pisces, near the fourth cusp. This once again demonstrates the superiority of the PSSR rate of progression to the Q-1. The progressed Ascendant was 2°.00 Scorpio, which incidentally was only 2 degrees from the cusp of the 4th house of the chart of the actual signing of the agreement. The chart for the signing in the London clinic was as follows :—

Venus 0.0		Mars 9.57	Moon 20.30
Mercury 10.37 Sun 6.9	CYPRUS AGREEMENT 19–2–1959 at 5–30 p.m. GMT at London		Uranus 19.28
			Ascdt. 8.52 Pluto 8.51
Saturn 10.26	Jupiter 6.40	Neptune 12.45

Here we find that Pluto was exactly rising in opposition to the Sun and Mercury, conjoined on the 7th cusp—a dramatic agrement if ever there was one. Mars on the meridian, opposite Jupiter on the fourth cusp, illustrates tension yet to come, but the angular position of Jupiter in the fourth should make the agreement lasting.

The Anglo–Egyptian Financial Agreement

On the 28th February 1959, after prolonged negotiations, England made a tentative economic agreement with Egypt, to clear up the mess left by the Suez campaign. Searching for astrological pointers, which interest the astrological student, I find that on this date, Jupiter was in 7.18 Scorpio, which was almost exactly conjoined to the position of Saturn in 8.04 Scorpio on the 31st October 1956 when the Anglo-French assault on Egypt took place. Thus after a period of 2 years 4 months, Jupiter coming to the place of Saturn in the latter chart, brought the period of antagonism temporarily to a close.

It is also of great interest to note that Jupiter was in 7.58 Taurus in Col. Nasser's chart, so the successive transits, by opposition aspect, first Saturn and then by Jupiter brought about the assault and the financial peace. It is expected that this will later lead to a full resumption of diplomatic relations in the near future. The full chart for the signing of the agreement at midnight on the 28th February 1959, Cairo time, is given below :

Venus 12.23		Mars 14.25
Mercury 27.50 Sun 15.24	ANGLO-EGYPTIAN FINANCIAL AGREEMENT 28-2-1959 at 10 p.m. GMT at Cairo		Uranus 19.7
			Pluto 8.51
Saturn 11.8	Ascdt. 4.42 Jupiter 7.18	Neptune 12.40 Moon 29.46

There seems to be a general tendency to hold ceremonies and inaugurations at midnight during this century. This is never a good omen, and to me is more reminiscent of a Black Pact or a Witches Sabbath. Nothing ever good came out of midnight. Although Moon in Libra and Jupiter are conjoined on the Ascendant in Scorpio, and is temporarily good, yet Mars is in the 7th in Taurus and square the Sun in the 4th which means further trouble in due course.

At present Col. Nasser is having the transit of Uranus over Saturn in his chart, which denotes the recent setback to his policies which I predicted for him. He has been driven to signing this agreement with Britain owing to his great need for money, coupled with the fact that Moscow has found another and more willing stooge in the new Premier for Iraq. I have long been predicting that he will come face to face with danger, when first Mars in June conjoins his Saturn, and more especially after the New Moon in August which falls on his radical Saturn.

The Nyasaland Uprising

Hardly was the ink dry on the Cyprus agreement before Britain was troubled with another Colonial outbreak, this time in Nyasaland, a territory incorporated in the Rhodesia's in the heart of tropical Africa. An attempt to massacre the small white and Indian population was narrowly averted by the prompt action of Sir Roy Welensky, the Federal Premier. It seems as if the African hatred of the white man is also levelled at the Indian too. It must be remembered that the African natives have only recently been rescued from the jungle and it would need but little for them to fall back into savagery and witchcraft, if left to their own devices.

It is a mistake to think that all black men are equal. Some negroes are highly cultured and educated especially those from the Americans and the W. Indies and Ghana, but this does not apply to those of Central Africa. A great deal of patience will be required before he evolves into a true civilised status.

Sir Roy Welensky's horoscope might give us a clue to the future of the problem. He was born on the 20th January 1907, time unknown. His noon positions are as follows :—

The Sun–5.51 Capricorn; the Moon–26.01 Pisces; Mars–27.11 Libra; Mercury–27.18 Sagittarius; Jupiter–9.41 Gemini; Venus–20.52 Scorpio; Saturn–18.42 Aquarius; Uranus–16.23 Sagittarius; Neptune–17.19 Gemini; and Pluto–28.35 Taurus.

Here we find that Saturn is transitting his Jupiter by opposition which denotes the disappointed hopes he must be feeling on the situation, but fortunately there are no really bad transits for some time to come and we can safely conclude that he will succeed in coping with the situation. His real troubles will come when Saturn transits his Sun in 1961.

Mrs. Indira Gandhi's Election to Congress Presidency

I last commented upon Mrs. Gandhi's planetary positions in the June 1958 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE. I repeat them again here, for now that she was recently elected to the important role of President of the Indian National Congress, her horoscope becomes of importance politically–to India.

The Sun–2.54 Scorpio; the Moon–1.19 Capricorn; Mars–15.16 Leo; Mercury–11.53 Scorpio; Jupiter–14.03 Taurus; Venus–19.46 Sagittarius; Saturn–20.48 Cancer; Uranus–26.16 Capricorn; Neptune–13.23 Cancer; and Pluto–11.18 Gemini.

It is unfortunate that we do not know her time of birth as her complete horoscope would make a most fascinating study. The elevation of women to these important political positions is always one of great interest and is yet another pointer to a universal trend that when men fear to pursue bold policies, because of the consequences, they put a woman up in front to captivate the masses. The Congress Party is rent with rivalries, factions and nepotism and is fast losing its hold on the imaginations of the Indian people. Jupiter transitting her Sun in Scorpio, no doubt elevated her to the position of honour on February 2nd last, and is again active in May and later in September 1959, when further success is assured her.

But there is a powerful influence to the contrary acting in her chart, which comes to a head in June, July and August, when Mars and Uranus are conjoined on her radical Saturn. This indicates some political crisis arising then in the affairs of Scanned by Parivar Sarvarishsabdalaya.com for the purpose of Shri V.K. Rao Web

Congress, in which she will suffer loss and frustration to her plans and ambitions. It also brings risk of ill-health or news of bereavement. This conjunction of Mars and Uranus also falls on Mr. Nehru's Ascendant, but at the same time, Jupiter retrogrades into Libra and transits Mr. Nehru's Sun and is stationary there all during July and August, which greatly favours his position and helps him through a very difficult political situation. It is interesting to observe the influence of the Sun in Libra in Mr. Nehru's chart, as this clearly denotes his basic policy of neutralism, almost to the point of pacifism. Libra people strive to keep the balance between two opposing forces, and try by all adroit means to avoid being involved in a conflict. This solar position gives the key to the man and his policy. So long as he has the control of events in his hands there will be no war for India, but the time is rapidly approaching when he will no longer be able to keep this balance. His daughter Indira has the Sun in Scorpio which will make her more rash, impulsive and controversial.

If we take a look at the progressed Capsolar chart for Delhi we find by the PSSR method, Mars will be on the meridian on the 16th June, and by the Q-2 method, on the 24th July. These should be crisis dates for Indian politics this year.

The Horoscope of Pope John XXIII

I am indebted to Herr E.H. Troinski for the correct birth-time of the newly elected Pope John XXIII, who has kindly sent me a photostat copy of the birth certificate; which clearly states that he was born at 10-15 a.m. on the 25th November 1881 at Sotto il Monte, near Bergamo, Italy, 45.42 North, 9.40 East. I append his horoscope as follows. Ayanamsa=23.06 :—

	Saturn 14.0 Nep. 21.34 Jupiter 26.27	Pluto 4.40 Kethu 16.7	Mars 22.1
	POPE JOHN XXIII 25-11-1881 at 10-15 a.m. at Bergamo		Uranus 22.6
Moon 28.52 Ascdt. 18.57	Sun 10-11.34 Rahu 16.7	Venus 19.14 Mercury 20.21

This horoscope is a splendid study in itself and a wonderful proof of the truth of astrology, despite its condemnation by the Catholic Church. Note the elevation of Venus in its own sign Libra on the meridian, conjunction Mercury, ruler of the 10th sign from the Ascendant, and opposite Jupiter and Neptune conjoined in Aries near the cusp of the 4th house. On the exact date of his enthronement, the 4th November 1958, the Sun, Jupiter and Venus were exactly in conjunction on the place of Venus radical on the M.C. In my previous remarks, on this triple conjunction, I was sure this must have been the cause of his election, but the time of birth bringing the planets to prominence exactly to the cusp of the 10th, is to my mind remarkable.

His Moon was in 28.52 Sagittarius which is Vargottama, being the Sagittarian navamsa of Sagittarius. The nakshatra was P. Ashada ruled by Venus whose unexpired Dasa was 1.68 years. The Dasas were as follows:

1.68	Venus in Libra Dasa
5.92	Sun in Scorpio	,,
7.60	Moon in Sagittarius Dasa
9.87
17.47	Mars in Gemini Dasa
6.90
24.37	Rahu in Scorpio Dasa
17.77
42.14	Jupiter in Aries	,,
15.78
57.92	Saturn in Aries	,,
18.73
76.65	Mercury in Libra	,, August 1958
79.02	Kethu Bhukti	,, November 1960

He was thus elected to power in his Mercury Dasa and Bhukti, which is elevated in the 10th house conjunct Venus and opposition Jupiter. What more is needed? By the Divinatory method (equal house or sign division), Mercury is ruler of the 10th sign from the Ascendant in Libra the 11th sign conjunct Venus the ruler, and opposition Jupiter ruler of the 1st and 4th signs from the Ascdt.

By the radix system of directions, the Oblique Ascendant had progressed to the conjunction of Jupiter, trine Uranus. What is so satisfying to the astrologer in this case, is that we do know the time of birth for certain, and that it confirms to the hilt, all astrological rules.

The St. Louis Tornado

A severe tornado struck the city of St. Louis, 38.40 North, 90.20 West, during the night of 10th February last and killed 31 people in their beds, and injuring 400 others. If we re-erect the Capsolar chart for St. Louis we find that we get a S.T. of 3.30 which gives us Mars almost on the meridian in opposition to Jupiter on the 4th cusp, in mundane square to Pluto near the cusp of the Ascendant. Scores of buildings were ruined, fires broke out, and the danger was great from escaping gas. From this we learn that a Mars, Jupiter, Pluto combination can be very

AROUND the WORLD

BY DOUGLAS HUNT, M.A.

AT the moment England is in the throes of the most widespread epidemic of influenza in the last forty years. Hardly an office or business where at least half the staff has not been laid up. Schools seem to have been the worst hit, almost every child having had at least one dose. Fortunately it has been a mild form, though there have been about 2,000 deaths, most of elderly people.

I do not know if this is the beginning of Troinski's "Weltschicksalsjahr". As far as I remember he did not mention it in his book, and I have seen no forecasts of it elsewhere.

Your columnist, perhaps because he has—so far—escaped the 'flu, remains unrepentantly optimistic, and has booked a holiday in Switzerland for early September, in spite of all the horrifying forecasts of the Troinski school. Ticklish as the world situation is, a few gleams of common sense do seem to be appearing, notably in the settlement over Cyprus. Frankly I consider that the British Government can consider itself very lucky not to have had to pay more severely for its intransigence.

God knows we are not yet out of the wood, but when I thumb through all the terrifying predictions which have been made during the last ten years I am more than ever convinced that bridges should not be crossed before one comes to them. The defeatist and fatalistic attitude which so many people take towards the future is not, in my humble opinion, the correct approach to astrology. Even where the prophets of doom are right, as they have so often not been, it were better not to approach the moment of crisis with one's mind already made up to defeat.

Nevertheless it is part of my job to present to you the outlook as it appears to some of our leading western astrologers, and who better to start with than M. Brahy of Brussels?

In Destin M. Brahy presents an article entitled "Les grands reperes astrologiques d'ici l'an 2000". With commendable modesty he remarks that although "events often resemble one another they never repeat themselves exactly. How then can the astrologer conclude that such and such an event must occur in the future?" In his survey of the remainder of the century M. Brahy does not even mention the 'fatal' year 1959. Indeed he remarks categorically that "only the period around 1968 and that from 1972 to 1976 exhibit truly disquietening symptoms".

In saying this he is dealing principally with the parallels of declination, and he makes further mention of that between Pluto and Uranus around 1990, which, however he expects to have most influence in the southern hemisphere. Incidentally he notes that for the whole half-century "the planet Pluto is at its maximum of declination for the northern hemisphere—a fact which may explain many things."

Turning to the longitudinal aspects he refers especially to the three conjunctions, Uranus–Pluto in 1965, Jupiter–Saturn–Pluto about 1982, and finally Neptune–Uranus around 1990.

M. Brahy expects the last-named conjunction to be particularly virulent, since it occurs at about the same time as the parallel of conjunction referred to above. He suggests that India will be especially affected.

Have you noticed, as M. Brahy has done, that the first two conjunctions are both sextile to Neptune? and that Pluto and Neptune are in sextile till 1990? If so, I must leave you to draw your own conclusions. M. Brahy warns us against imagining that any of the alarming configurations necessarily portend a 'hot' war—even one limited to the United States and the Soviet Union. Yet he cannot disguise from himself that the indications for the next forty years give rise to a certain amount of alarm, and he hints at possible natural catastrophes. Well, the Atlanteans, whom I mentioned last month, are not the only people who expect a tilt in the earth's axis. If this takes place a great many of us are likely to say good bye to life on this planet. I for one refuse to be alarmed at the prospect, though I shall probably scream as loudly as the next when I am engulfed by molten lava or an icy tidal wave!

Frank Edwards reports in Fate (Chicago) on an interview he had with Frank Halstead, former curator of Darling Observatory, University of Minnesota-Duluth. Mr. Halstead asserts his belief that intelligent beings exist elsewhere in the universe, possibly, or probably, developed far beyond our level in some instances, and that it is a reasonable assumption that some of them have solved the problem of crossing space. To a question as to whether such travellers might conceivably have visited earth he replied, "I think we should assume that we have had such visitors... Through the years I have discussed this prospect with my fellow astronomers and almost without exception their convictions were identical to my own."

All this, as Mr. Halstead emphasised, is pure speculation, "or almost pure speculation", yet I suggest that it is a speculation on which the astrologer should try to make up his mind. May it not be that this century will bring the answer?

Let me for once in a way conclude with a little mild sensationalism. The following report appears over the name of Michele Bartoux in Neues Europa. It is a delightful story, which I should dearly love to believe, but...well, can you?

The Italian clairvoyante Emilia Cellini reports the following 'vision', which she saw herself.

"During the Easter season of 1959 the following events will take place in the Andes, in the Alps, and in the Pyrenees: In a remote locale, summoned by a telepathic call, there will meet seven individuals of differing origin and nationality. The World Spirit will manifest himself to them.

He will tell them the truth of what is to be and will empower them to send advice and warnings to the leading personalities in all the nations. These elect who have been initiated into the knowledge of the world plan for the next decades will then spend many years incognito among mankind.

To a certain extent it will be given into their hands to pray the Lord of the World to spare humanity as well as individual nations from the worst.

Their testing consists, however, in recognising God's intention even in humanity's errors and not to beg for anything which runs contrary to the general trend of today's events".

May I remark that all this has nothing to do with my coming visit to Switzerland!

Eight-Planet Combination and World Affairs

I

Sir,—My feeling about 1962 is that it is an astrological error to expect a single sensational event to exercise a long-centered planetary configuration. It is less a question of international war than of a wave of guerilla warfare, the dragon's teeth of minor national independences cannot but.....result in conflict. The world is turning into one vast pepper-box. The years 1959—1966 are likely to witness a series of natural eruptions with a final decline of trade unions' tyranny and mob rule. The oil configuration is social.

II

Sir,—At the outset, I would like to warmly congratulate you on your starting a symposium on the strange phenomenon of eight-planet combination. It is a nice thing through which able scholars on the subject may discuss about things in greater detail. Dr. P.S. Sastri's contribution to the symposium as a 1st paper is indeed noteworthy and he has discussed things in a most scientific and convincing manner with his usual inborn quality of being precise and to the point.

When I went through the symposium, I am reminded of a prophecy of a Muslim Saint made some 600 years ago, appearing on page 116 of January 1950 issue—Annual Number—of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE. It is only for our guidance and to assure necessary care and caution that people of yore took pains and wrote about them. It does not thereby connote that they were weak-minded and hence took up the study of this science.

The key to success in prediction purely and supremely lies in the interpretative side and in the intelligent application of its principles. The same thing finds expression in each and every branch of study. So, if some were to misinterpret its principles—perhaps due to ignorance or lack of research, it is not wise to denounce the science or the astrologers as a whole.

To know a certain thing beforehand, is forearmed and this science alone can help to get at that end!

Thanking you,

Ayanamsa and Vimshottari Dasa

Sir,—I have been a student of astrology for about 30 years and more. Out of the several different methods of forecasting events, I find that Vimshottari Dasa system gives a fairly large number of accurate predictions.

As everyone knows, Dasa systems are based on the position of the Moon in a particular nakshatra (constellation), which is 1/27th part of the celestial zodiac. The main question that arises in all astrological matters is always the Sayana and the Nirayana problem. I therefore tried to take a few horoscopes of elderly persons from whom I collected data of events which actually happened in their lifetime.

I worked out the Vimshottari Dasas of these horoscopes according to Sayana and also according to Nirayana zodiacs; while working out the Dasa according to Sayana, I took it for granted that the beginning of Ashwini nakshatra was at the equinox. Comparing the actual events I found that the Sayana Dasas do not give any results which are corroborated in actual happenings. This is probably because the centuries-old astrologer who may have propounded the theory of Vimshottari Dasa had based his observations on the Nirayana zodiac. So I left this matter there only.

Coming to the Nirayana zodiac, there is quite an abundance of difference of opinion about the Ayanamsa; and as the calculations regarding balance of Dasa at the time of birth entirely depend upon the exact longitude of the Moon at the time of birth, the question of Ayanamsa becomes all important.

Without going into the question of how and why different astrologers assume different Ayanamsas, I took a person's birth date, etc., and a list of 61 actual events in his life. I then proceeded to work out Vimshottari Dasas according to some of the different Ayanamsas as explained below.

There is a very great difference of opinion about the year (A.D.) in which the Nirayana and Sayana zodiacs coincided. These years vary from 295 A.D. to 575 A.D., the actual years being 295, 397, 498, 505, 528, 532 and 575. There may be some more also, which have not come to my notice.

There is also a difference of opinion about the precessional value. The minimum is 50.2 and the maximum is 58.4 seconds per year.

For all practical purposes, I have taken Raphael's ephemeris as the most accurate Sayana Panchang, and calculating the Sayana position of the Moon at the time of birth, I deducted the Ayanamsas according to the various opinions given above.

I also worked out an additional Ayanamsa. This was done by assuming the year 517 A.D. as the average starting year and 50.2332 seconds as the average precession per year.

I then worked out the Vimshottari Dasas for each of the Nirayana position of the Moon. They are given below:

Nirayana Moon at birth		Balance of Dasa at Birth		Ayanamsa
RASI			Y. M. D.
11—9—16—34	...	Sani	10—6—12 ...	18—25— 2
11—8—35—48	...	,,	11—6— 1 ...	19— 5—48
11—8—11—24	...	,,	12—0—29 ...	19—30—12
11—6—44—18	...	,,	14—1—23 ...	20—57—18
11—5—22—18	...	,,	16—1— 4 ...	22—19—18
11—5— 7—56	...	,,	16—5— 6 ...	22—33—40
11—8—27—17	...	,,	11—8—13 ...	19—14—19

Note:—The last one above is according to the average mentioned above.

As stated above, 61 events were taken, with their dates, etc., and each event was compared with the Dasa and Bhukti planet according to each of the above 7 methods, and my findings are given below. The number of events that tallied with the Dasa and Bhukti in each of the above 7 methods in their respective order were: 26, 33, 35, 34, 28, 24 and 38, all out of 61 events.

Thus, numbers 2, 3, 4 and 7 may, I think be adopted as a fairly accurate estimate of the Ayanamsas; the respective figures of the starting year and the precession of equinox are as follows:—

Case No.	Starting Year A.D.	Precession.
2	528	50.2638″
3	498	50.2325″
7	517	50.2332″

I am quite aware of the fact that a comparative reading of one single horoscope cannot be taken as a final conclusion on this subject. But I am placing this matter before the readers of your world-wide magazine with a hope, that readers, who have done some research workon this subject, may place it before the astrological world.

In the example, given by me above, the maximum number of correct events is only 38 (even if we take the average Ayanamsa as correct) out of 61; i.e., only about 62%. It will be interesting to know the results of such comparative study made without a biassed mind.

Will any of the learned readers publish more matter on this subject?

Perpetual Calendar

I

Sir,—In the letter by Mr. K. M. Kharegat on the above subject published in the March 1959 issue of The Astrological Magazine, I could not follow the author's formula which gives the day of the week of 'Dates for all centuries, new style'.

Will he please explain the same in your celebrated magazine.

Thanking you,

Gorakhpur. P. C. Verma.

II

Sir,—There are four items in the Calendar: (1) Year, (2) Month, (3) Date, and (4) Day of week, and provided any 3 of the items are given the fourth, can under some circumstances be found out. But as the processes are similar and space is short, I shall briefly deal with the date and day of the week.

Rule for finding out the day—

Day = (Year index + month index + date) Modulo 7.

Year Index—Deduct 1900 from the given year; 5/4th of the remainder = Year index (excluding fraction, if any).

Ex.—Year index for 2000 A.D. = 2000—1900 = 100, 100 × 5/4 = 125. 125 Modulo 7 ≡ 6.

Month Index—To remember easily, the M.I. numbers the following prominent numbers are used:—

(1) 12 = No of months in a year, 5 × 6, the factors of 30 days of the month or 5 = fingers No. and 6 = seasons of the year, and 365 No. of days in the year 2/5 × 365 – 146.

Formula for month index numbers—

12^3 not 5^3 dot 6^3 and 2/5 year, i.e., 1440, 250, 36, 146 beginning from January.

Ex.—(1) Find out the day for October 5, 2000 A.D.

Day = Here Year index as above 6 plus Month index October 1 plus date 5 = 12 (Modulo 7) = 5.

That is the 5th day of the week, taking Sunday as given in Calendars.

Ex.—(2) Find the day for 1778 December 16.

Year index 1778—1900 = —122, —122 × 5/4 = —152 plus 7 × 22 = 2. Exclude fraction and add 1 as the century is not multiple of 400.

M.I. (2 plus 1), 3 and Month index for December = 6, and date 16, = 1 plus 2 plus 6 plus 16 = 4 (Modulo 7). i.e., the 4th day from Sunday 1 = Wednesday.

N.B.—Years not multiples of 400 are not leap years and in leap years in the month of January and February the days are 1 day behind as found by the above calculation. Minus figures and large positive figures can be reduced to correct positive figures by adding or subtracting suitable multiples of 7.

General De Gaulle

Sir,—Your world-wide circle of readers might be interested to learn that I have received the personal thanks and good wishes of General Charles de Gaulle, President of France, for my *prophecy about him 18 years back.

On his personal card the General writes in French: "With thanks and best wishes". Presidence Republique, Paris, 19-1-1959. To: Monsieur Cyrus D. F. Abayakoon.

Colombo-4. Cyrus D.F. Abayakoon.

*The relevant prophecy is: "General de Gaulle is a born soldier. His Rajayoga planet, Mars is exalted, 11th from Moon. As Jupiter is fallen in the 2nd house, and joins Mars, the whole of the French Empire will come under his power between the age of 68 to 75. He will be a strong and powerful President of France. As the Moon was sextile to Mars and Jupiter and trine to Sun, there is no doubt that between 1943 to 1959 his influence in foreign and domestic activities will be paramount". Note:—The General was born in 1890, hence 68 years in 1958. This prediction was made in November 1940 issue of Asteiro's Star O'Scope.

D.P. Log. for Solar Return

Sir,—Ternary Prop. Log is in use for computation of Solar Return Map and Mr. Cyril Fagan has even proved (in his sidereal Zodiac Ephemeris 1948, etc.), that using D.P. Log. is incorrect. But D.P. Log. itself can give as exact an answer as T.P. Log., in finding out the space of time taken by the Sun to get at a given longitude. The following is the way in which the common D.P. Log. can easily be used.

Suppose 27° 18′ 25″ of Scorpio is the position of Sun, and 27° 12′ 42″ and 28° 13′ 17″ are given as noon position (G.M.T.)

Sun's daily motion comes to 60′ 35″
Distance to be travelled by the Sun 5′ 43″

Divide both by 4 for convenience,

$$\frac{5'\,43 \div 4}{60'\,35'' \div 4} = \frac{1'\,25\tfrac{3}{4}''}{15'\,8\tfrac{3}{4}''} = \frac{1^\circ\,25\tfrac{3}{4}'}{15^\circ\,8\tfrac{3}{4}'}$$

" $15^\circ\,8\tfrac{3}{4}'$ = ·1997
1·0255

Digitized by Arya Samaj Foundation Chennai and eGangotri Sri Sastology.com To Preserve Dr B V Raman's Work

Time for Log. 1·0255 = $2^h\,16^m$
(i.e., 2·16 p.m., G.M.T.)

This can be tested in any case to our satisfaction. For even calculating Sun's longitude (to seconds) from the time given, Sun's daily motion should be divided by 4 at first, and its log. then added to the log. of time given and the total log. will give us the 1/4th portion of space travelled by the Sun as in the following:—

Sun's daily motion 1° 0′ 35″
Time $2^h\,16^m$
Sun's daily motion by 4: 15′ $8\tfrac{3}{4}''$
Log. for the same is ·1997
" $2^h\,16^m$ 1·0248
1·2245

(i.e., 1′ 25 44/51″)
Space travelled 1′ 25 44/51 × 4 = 5′ 43″.

This method of dividing by 4 is adopted only for the sake of our own convenience to use the D.P. Log. table given only for 18 hours.

Blindness

Sir,—My near relative was delivered of a son on 12th October 1958 in the local Government Hospital under chloroform and with the aid of forceps. Still the child has not yet opened the eyes. Doctors felt there may be blindness in both the eyes. But the eye surgeons have said time must be allowed for the development of the child to ascertain details inside both the eyes. The child was born here on 12-10-1958 between 6-30 a.m. and 6-34 a.m. May I request your readers to examine the baby's horoscope particularly about the vision and express their views.

Saturn and Makara Lagna

Sir,—With reference to Mr. Sastri's letter on the above subject, published on page 999 of the November 1958 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE and Mr. N. Sundaresa Iyer's request (page 141 of January 1959 issue), I wish to express that Saturn as Ascendant lord on Makara will not do any good. My personal chart is an example.

During 1944 (Sukra Dasa, Sani Bhukti), I had a rise with the Japanese Military Officer and a steep fall in job, no financial gain and I met with an accident and hurt my foot.

During 7½ years' Saturn transit over Moon (in January 1953), I had lot of office troubles. From 1953 to 1956 I lost a lot of finance and family and office status.

My personal experience makes me disagree with the quotation in Tamil Makarathu Sanikku Paharamillai.

Kuala Lumpur. S. T. ARASOO.

A Strange Theory

Sir, — Vide THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE for March 1959, page 322, Mr. Kariyala Pillai O. P. Muthuramalingam forgets that the Sun's diameter is about 864,100 miles and the earth's less than 25,000 miles. He also forgets that the earth's atmosphere refracts all light, refracting ultra-violet the most (making the clear sky appear blue), and infra-red the least. You forgot this, too!! Therefore more than 180d. of the earth's surface is bathed in infra-red light and about 180d. in ultra-violet. Better get a physicist to estimate the exact amount which will vary, of course, with the Sun being apogee and perigee.

Coincidence ?

Sir,—Following is quoted from The Hindu of 28-10-1958 :—" Cats were responsible for a girl and a child getting accidentally burnt at two different places in the City yesterday.

" Karpagavalli (10), residing at Singari Amman Koil Street, Maduvakkarai, was reading at about 10-30 in the night, when she was startled by a cat running close by her side. The girl struck at the cat almost involuntarily while the animal, in its turn, it is stated, fell on the lamp by the side of the girl and upset it. The skirt (pavadai) of the girl caught fire and she sustained burns in the left leg and hand. She was taken to the General Hospital, where she was admitted as an inpatient this morning.

" The other incident happened at Korattur, where a cat upset a lamp which fell on a child that was sleeping by the side of its mother and caused burns. The baby was admitted in the General Hospital."

Originality of Hindu Astrology

Sir,—It is a great pity that some of our learned people always prefer to trace astrology to foreign sources. We, in India, have no doubt learnt a lot from others and still continuing to learn from them. But in regard to Astrology, Astronomy, Philosophy and Yoga, the matter is quite different. Many western scholars have frankly admitted the origin of these subjects in India. In March 1959 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE, Sri Ram Dularey Gupta observes under the caption of " House Division and Ayanamsa " that " Yogas and Vimshottari dasas are peculiar to the genius of India and the natural indicator system appears to have a common origin in hoary past when Indians, Chaldeans, Babylonians and Egyptians practised astrology as part of their religion and learnt from each other ". He further says : " In this connection it may be stated that Sripathi flourished in the first half of the eleventh century. It seems to me that the system of Porphyry came to India at about that time and began to be followed by Indian astrologers giving rise to the confusion pointed out by Mr. Nixon". This means the natural indicator system was practised commonly by Indians, Chaldeans, Egyptians, etc. Afterwards Jaimini came and introduced the system of house division and next to him Parasara was born to introduce the system of Vimshottari dasa and yogas. And at last Sripathi was born in 11th century and learnt just the imported system of Porphyry and introduced it throughout India, which has given rise to the confusion pointed by Mr. Nixon. For all this Sri Gupta's authorities are " it may be stated ", " it seems to me ", " it would be fair to presume, etc. ". I think Sri Gupta has not gone through the article of Bhrigu in the 1959 Annual under the caption of " Half-Baked Theories ". I do not know why Sri Gupta did not spare his attention regarding Mathematical Astrology. Even on equator itself the houses and Bhavas differ in some rasis at junctional points. For instance, when Gemini rises at 28th degree the 10th house will be the first degree of Aries, when Cancer rises at the 28th degree the zenith will be 3rd degree in Vrishabha. Where there is a change in meridian everything will naturally change. When such change occurs even at equator, what will be the case of the people whose land is situated from 8° 37° N. latitude. Did our people purposely evade such an abnormal difference for the sake that we are nearer to the equator than the western people? Is it correct to think we are not feeling so much cold as westerners, so we should remove our clothes? All such pet and preconceived theories cannot correspond to actual facts. Sri Gupta's statement itself proves how he is inclined towards foreign importations. He says Indians, Chaldeans and Egyptians learnt from each other the natural indicator system. When they have established common affinity in learning, why they did not learn the other systems, namely of house divisions, Vimshottari dasas and yogas? Were there any break in contact, if so how the so-called Porphyry system came to India? Sri Gupta says, "Mr. Nixon feels that the natural indicator system does not belong to India and has been imported from outside about 300 B.C. when Greek culture greatly affected Indian Astrologers". So according to Mr. Nixon, before this astrology in India consisted merely of Vimshottari dasa and yoga system but not the natural indicator system. I do not know how he defines the so-called natural indicator system. In astrology this is the preliminary and elementary system. Without it, there could be no astrology at all. Our ancient people not only know the natural indicator system of planets, but the rasi indication system also, without which it is impossible to attribute certain rasis to certain planets. This attribution is as old as creation of the world. If not let Sri Gupta tell me when and how the Hindus considered not any other rasi but the first point of Aries as the beginning of the zodiac. This is described and dealt so exhaustively in Surya Siddhanta a work which is at least five thousand years old. It is quite clear that when the Buddha was born before Christ our astrologers predicted the exact happenings in his life. We have thus to measure the astrologers' qualification at that time. Then they were not importing anything. They were the perfect and absolute masters of the subject. Varahamihira a very great exponent of astrology who is the author of Brihat Jataka, quotes several names of old masters such as Satyacharya, Jeevasarma, Gargi, Yavanacharya and others. These old Acharyas expounded several methods of Ayurdaya (system of longevity). Is this masterly analysis of the subject possible without knowing the natural indicator system? The theory that Hindu astrology originated from foreign sources is based on the twisted history on one side and a few English translations on the other side. Of course, there may be several difficulties such as Sayana-Nirayana, Bhavas-Rasis, Neecha-Bhanga Raja Yogas, Ayanamsa, etc. We should scrutinise everything in a scientific and rational way along with concerned old texts of authorities. We have no yogic powers as the ancients possessed. We have become petty creatures, nor do we understand the invisible celestial forces around us. Some body can attribute one of the twelve rasis even to the Russian rocket and can write its nature and effects in a big text-book. Are we to follow it without knowing what it is at all? Such foreign import mentality brings several obstacles in the way of progress of the subject, instead of helping it. Whatever the complications of the subject may be I feel extremely sorry when our educated people look to foreign sources for everything.

Mrs. Indira Gandhi

Sir,—The astrological comments under the heading "The Kaleidoscope" by Yogiraj Nixon are really interesting for the readers of your esteemed magazine. Now I am to point out how his predictions about the future of Mrs. Indira Gandhi have not turned out to be true. He wrote in June 1958 issue of The Astrological Magazine: "This foreshadows sorrow, emotional upset", and threatens bereavement followed by illness. So I request him to publish a critical study of the horoscope of Mrs. Gandhi with reference to the study of the nativity of Indian National Congress, and show, how far she will be able to shoulder the heavy responsibility of the Congress Presidentship.

Netaji Bose's Horoscope

Sir,—With reference to the discussion of Netaji's *horoscope in January 1959 issue of The Astrological Magazine by Mr. Bishnupada Bhattacharya, I beg to make the following observations :

If Netaji is born on 23-1-1897 at about 12h. 42m. 40s. p.m., he is not likely to take birth in 'Vrishabha' Lagna, because of the following reasons :—

On 23-1-1897, the Bombay standard sunrise was at 7h. 18m. 0s. and the difference between the Bombay and Cuttack, viz., 0h. 13m. 36s. standard time is to be added to make standard Cuttack sunrise and that comes to 7h. 31m. 36s.

Now the birth time is about 12h. 42m. 40s. p.m., from which the standard sunrise of Cuttack should be deducted to bring hours, minutes and seconds of the birth after sunrise, i.e., 12h. 42m. 40s. minus 7h. 31m. 36s. brings out 5h. 9m. 4s. as the difference, that is Netaji was born at 5h. 9m. 4s. after sunrise in Cuttack. This converted into ghaties, etc., gives 12-52-40. This converted into degrees gives 77° 16′ 0″ or 2s 17° 16′. The clear Sun at the birth time was 9s. 9 10′ 39″. Adding both, the total comes to 11s. 26° 26′ 39″ or Meena 26° 26′ 39″ which may be considered to be the lagna.

In the horoscope given in Jany. 1959 issue of The Astrological Magazine, page 91, the author has fixed the Sun in 9th house, which does not seem possible if the birth takes place at 12h. 42m. 40s. p.m. This shows nearly a difference of four hours in birth time. The Sun can be in the 9th house if Netaji was born at about 4h. 42m. 40s. p.m., but it is not the case here. Even Netaji's father has also declared the son's birth was between 12 and 1 p.m.

This proves that the 'Vrishabha Lagna is not likely when Netaji was born, and it should be 'Meena'.

Thanking you,

Rasi chart.*—Ascendant in Pisces; Mars in Taurus; Kethu in Cancer; Jupiter in Leo; Moon in Virgo; Saturn in Scorpio; Sun, Mercury and Rahu in Capricorn; and Venus in Aquarius.

(The above Raga is composed of the swaras Shatja, Suddha Rishabha, Sadarana Gandhara, Prati Madhyama, Panchama, Suddha Daivata and Kakali Nishada).

Thus it has been demonstrated with examples how the real background of music lies in the zodiac and its traditional astrological division into twelve parts ruled by seven planets.

BY DR. R. NAGARAJA SARMA, M.A., Ph.D., D.LITT.

THESE THINGS HAPPEN—By Charles J. Seymour—(Odham's Press Ltd., Long Acre, London. Pp. 160. Price 8s. 6d. net).

Do ghosts exist? Do spirits exist? Do they interfere with the affairs of men and with the inanimate objects like household furniture and so on? These mysterious things happen is the thesis of the author developed in this interesting volume. Anthony Boggia has contributed the "foreword".

The author explains and studies instances relating to Peltergeist phenomena, ghosts, phantasms of the living, automatic writing and the planchette, precognition, spiritualism, phonevoyance, scrying, dowsing, ESP in animals, and examines the relation of these with scientists and materialists.

This volume will be carrying coals to Newcastle, as far as Malabar or the Kerala country is concerned, known for practising of Black-magic, and cures being effected of the evil-effects of Black-magic. The entire field or department of mantra-lore connected with such phenomena is yet to be scientifically investigated.

Whether atheists, materialists and so-called scientists believe or not in the existence of strange and mysterious phenomena, the author feels positively certain that these things happen. If ESP is possessed even by animals, there is absolutely no reason for man to feel proud as the lord of creation. I dare say the volume will be welcomed by all students of the supra-normal, or para-normal.

MENTAL HEALTH IN THEORY AND PRACTICE—By Bahadur Lal, M.A.—(Visweshvaranand Vedic Research Institute, P.O. Ashram, Hoshiarpur. Pp. 166. Price Rs. 2-4-0).

It is no exaggeration to say that the ideal for happy life and existence is a sound mind in a sound body. Mental health is as important, in fact, more important than the physical or bodily health. Mens Sana in Corpore Sano is the ideal.

But, on account of various circumstances, social and environmental conditions, congenital or hereditary factors, persons, men and women, suffer from many mental maladies like inferiority-complex, shyness, depression, insomnia, anxiety and worry, haunting illusions, fixed ideas and so forth, and correct diagnosis and treatment are very difficult and only an expert can handle cases. If patients were to approach quacks, who call themselves psychoanalysts and psychotherapists, they are undone.

The author, retired principal of the D.A.V. College, has written a careful and complete account of the theory, technique and practical treatment of mental maladies, and it is to be hoped that readers will realize the absolute importance of mental well-being or health.

If a person were to realize his or her own physical and mental virtues and defects or vices and endeavour to do one's best without aspiring for the impossible and the unattainable, mental health would be perfect. Over-rating and under-rating of one's endowments, abilities and equipments, lead to disturbances of the mental equipoise. If correct estimate is arrived at, the mind would remain adamant in health and healthy in adamantine attitude to life. Students of psychology and psycho-therapy will welcome the volume.

NEW LIGHT ON THE INDUS VALLEY CIVILIZATION—By K. N. Sastry—Vol. 1.-(Atma Ram & Sons, Kashmere Gate, Delhi-6. Pp. 130. Price Rs. 10 or 21sh. or 3 dollars).

With a "Foreword" from Dr. Radhakumud Mookerji, this research publication claims to throw some New Light on the Indus Valley Civilization, and though within the limits of a brief review like this, no adequate justice can be done to the original investigations of the author, it can be said that students of Indian History, Archaeology and Ancient Indian Culture will find the work of Mr. K. N. Sastry, vastly illuminating and throwing a flood of lurid light on many a dark and obscure corner of the period of the Indus civilization.

The first volume deals with Religion and Chronology, and it is noted that a Hindi edition of the work would soon be coming out. It would appear that the life of this period was dominated by the male, and not by the female as wrongly imagined by scholars like Sir John Marshall, and that the Mohenjo Dare God was not Siva, but, a buffallo-headed composite deity. Europeans endeavour to bring everything within short distance of the Christian era, and Indians seek to push Indian culture and civilization back by many a millennium in the period B.C. These two extremes are to be avoided. The author has made a valuable contribution to Indian historical research.

INTERPRETATIONS OF GHALIB—By J.L. Kaul—(Atma Ram and Sons, Kashmere Gate, Delhi-6. Pp. 108. Price Rs. 5 or 10s. 6d. or 2 dollars)

Ghalib the poet should be well-known to students of Islamic culture, and his period extended from 1797 to 1869. Maulana Abul Kalam Azad has contributed an appreciative to the work. 326 verses have been selected and rendered into English by Pandit J. L. Kau and in this selection, the philosophy of Ghalib is interpreted. In the course of a fairly lengthy "Introduction", the life history of Ghalib has been described, and the poet had to pass through many vicissitudes.

The poems are on Art, Life, Love, Gloom and Despair, and on certain obstinate questionings and permanent problems of higher thought. Ghalib wanted that his work should be judged in the light of his verses in Persian and not those in Urdu. It seems doubtful if Ghalib believed in any God. He is said to have been an intellectual and agnostic, and also dissatisfied with agnosticism. Ghalib describes himself as engaged in reading during daytime, and drinking in the nights. He had 17 bottles of pure wine in his celler. (Pp. 7—Foot-note.)

God might be in Heaven. But all is not well with the world. That seems to have been the philosophy of life revealed by the verses here assembled and rendered into English with conspicuous ability and control over the technique of versification. Students of comparative study of Hindu-Muslim culture will greatly value the translation.

KASHYAPA VANAM—Publication No 1—(The Jupiter Press, Bangalore-2. Pp. 16. Price 58 nP.)

The publishers came across, it is said, a work in Tamil which seems to be patterned on Nadi lines. They observe they are not astrologers. The work is attributed to Rishi Kashyapa. World events are described for the period of transit of Saturn in Sagittarius. The Tamil text of the work is extracted. Russia is said to have got the sputnik-secrets from Buddhistic countries. America has been assigned only a second rank. Bharat (India) will make its outstanding contribution, in the maintenance of Peace. Two more publications are promised. In these the effects would be described of Saturn moving through latter half of Sagittarius and through Capricorn. God governs the Universe as He wills. His Will cannot be completely understood and foreseen by Man. The public will await with interest to verify if Kashyapa predictions come true.

HYMNS—By Minocher K. Spencer—(The Spiritual Healing Centre, R.S. Puram, P.O. Coimbatore. Pp. 118. Price Rs. 2).

Dedicated to Rishi Ram Ram, this volume of hymns, composed by Mr. M. K. Spencer breathe the genuine spirit of religious devotion to the Supreme Power which is guiding and directing the destinies of the world.

In the "Introduction", the author has emphasized the importance of correct religious and devotional approach to the Lord-God, and explained that these hymns were composed by him, at the rate of a hymn a day, after the daily prayers and meditation. 116-Hymns have been collected and published in this volume, and they have one common spiritually unexceptional theme, God and devotion to God.

"Thou giveth a chance to every sinner", is a highly significant hymn which deals with a controversial doctrine of philosophy. The Lord has definitely stated that some are condemned to eternal damnation without reaching Him. (16–20).

The piece "Man, Nature and God" has a fine touch about it, and stresses at once the Immanence and Transcendence of the Lord. The final hymn entitled the "Journey's end" contains intimations of immortality and brings into prominence the participation by finite self in two worlds, here and hereafter. These hymns reveal poetic inspiration and religious devotion. The technique of versification is successfully employed, and good rhyming is a prominent feature of these hymn-verses.

HINDI AND ENGLISH IN THE SOUTH—By M. K. Gandhi—Edited by M. P. Desai—(Navajivan Publishing House, Ahmedabad. Pp. 26. Price 30 nP.)

Readers will recall something of the controversy that raged in the daily press about the place of Hindi in South. This booklet has been issued containing the views of the Mahatma on the relation between Hindi and South.

It is pointed out that it is a curious irony that C. Rajagopalachar, Vice-President of Dakshina-Bharat-Hindi-Prachar-Sabha started by Gandhi in 1918, should be vigorously opposing spread of Hindi in the South, and advocating the continuance of English. The booklet considers the attitude of leaders like C.R. a challenge to the march of the Nation to real Swaraj.

I have no axe to grind. Today top-ranking officials of Congress rule, in the states and in the centre are ignorant of Hindi, and if these can continue in high offices from eternity to eternity, the fate of Hindi seems sealed. It is neither here nor there. One fine morning naya-paisa currency appeared. Another fine morning the metric system of weights appeared. A national Panchang for the whole of Bharat has appeared.

So, I expect that one fine or even cloudy or stormy morning, the Congress Government would proclaim a law making Hindi compulsory throughout Bharat. There is nothing improbable or impossible about this. If people can adjust themselves to naya paisa currency, they would adjust themselves to compulsory Hindi.

I hope the booklet will be carefully read in the South.

SIVANANDA—TWENTIETH CENTURY SAINT—By Sri Indrajit Sarma, M.A.—(Yoga Vedanta Forest University, Sivanandanagar, Rishikesh, Himalayas. Pp. 409. Price Rs. 5.)

Mahamandaleswar Swami Sivananda Maharaj, Founder-President of the Divine Life Society on high Himalayas has been, without exaggeration, a spiritual dynamo radiating and broadcasting, as it were, intellectual, religious and philosophical waves of energy for the benefit of humanity at large—Orient and Occident. Today H. H. Sivananda is the only Indian saint, or sage, who is giving practical instruction in the technique of yoga to his disciples. There is no secrecy about him or his teachings. There is no esoteric section, as far as I am aware.

One of his young disciples, Srijut Indrajit Sarma, has written this volume bringing out the salient features and excellences of the personality and teachings of Sivananda. Part I deals with "Twentieth Century Saint". "Siva—A study" is the subject-matter of Part II. Sivananda's letters to the author are given in the third. Part IV contains questions and answers on yoga.

It is noteworthy that Sivananda literature, by which I mean the personal writings of His Holiness, has run to over hundred volumes whice enjoy today international circulation. His disciples are lying scattered throughout the world—in Britain, Continent, Americas, Russia, Australia and other countries. The present work is a brilliant study of the personality and philosophy of Sivananda.

THE SACRED KURAL—Selected and translated by H. A. Popley, —(Y.M.C.A. Publishing House, 5, Russell Street, Calcutta-16. Pp. 158. Price Rs. 3-8-0.)

This second edition "revised with fresh translation", of the Sacred Kural of Saint Tiruvalluvar, will be welcomed by all lovers of Tamil classics.

The work appears in the "Heritage of India" series, and in view of the importance of the classic which is considered to be Tamil Veda, and looked upon with biblical or scriptural sanctity, the translation will be a great help to those who may not be in a position to control the original Tamil.

In the course of an elaborate and fairly exhaustive "Introduction", the translator has examined all relevant questions relating to chronology, literary qualities and ethical excellences of teachings, and connected problems.

Section I deals with virtue, the second with property, and the third with love, both furtive and married. The learned translator has made the admission frankly that there are very obvious difficulties in conveying the truths embodied in a classic of one language into another, but, it is a pleasure to note that the rendering is fairly faithful to the original, and endowed with literary charm and grace.

It is totally a different thing if Tamilnad today is governed in accordance with the political ideology of the Kural, and the present translation is a welcome addition to current literature on Kural.

FACTS ABOUT INDIA—(Ministry of Information and Broadcasting, Delhi-8. Pp. 268. Price Rs. 2 or 4 sh. or 60 cents).

Under the headings, General, Economic and Cultural, Facts about India have been stated, for purposes of publicity both in and outside India. Volumes for previous years have been noticed in these columns. The present volume is dated December 1957. Those responsible for the publication may have taken greater care to give correct accounts. For instance, the accoun of the Mahamagham festival which is celebrated once in a period of 12 years is too scrappy and even inaccurate. I venture to draw the attention of the authorities to a correct and authentic account contributed by the present reviewer to the 1956 Mahamagham Souvenir issued by the Kumbakonam Municipality.

It is observed that C. Rajagopalachari and T. Prakasam developed the Swarajya, and about that time, The Hindu became a powerful influence in Madras, and eventually one of the best edited papers in the country.

It is a thousand pities that in Government publication got ready by experts, the 268th (last) page should have been numbered as the 68th. Both Indians and foreigners who may be in need of knowing Facts about India will find the publication useful as a ready source of reference.

It is also noted that English will continue to be official language till the year 1965.

TAMIL

PANCHATANTRA HITOPADESA KADAIGAL—By A.S.P. Ayyar, M.A., I.C.S. —(Pazaniappa Brothers, Chepauk, Madras-5. Pp. 394. Price Rs. 5-12-0)

The tales and stories known to the world under the titles Panchatantra and Hitopadesa are universally known and they need no introduction to the public. The tales and stories were first written in English by the Hon. Justice A.S.P. Ayyar, and these have been done into Tamil, by Mr. K. S. Venkatasubba Iyer, B.A., L.T., for the benefit of a larger public. 1942 saw the publication of the first edition, and the month of December of 1957 has witnessed the publication of the second.

In the course of an elaborate critical introduction, Mr. A.S.P. Ayyar has examined the style and contents and reconstructed a complete and dazzling picture of civilization portrayed in the stories.

There are 48 stories in the volume, and each is intended to convey an important moral lesson to readers. Not merely, in these stories, but, even in the sacred epic of Mahabharata, different animals are represented as participating in the evolution of affairs, along with human beings and Gods.

Some of the modern critics are very uncompromising and even disconsolate that Valmiki should have introduced anthropiodal characters in Ramayana. These critics will have to be told that the entire creation being throughout dominated by the influences of the three Gunas—Sattva, Rajas and Tamas, divinely-gifted authors like Vyasa and Valmiki have introduced in their works Gods, men and animals (demons and other lower orders) corresponding to the three Gunas.

These tales and stories have permanent interest, and since, their creation, they have delighted and entertained young and old alike. The stories take rank along with Aesop's Fables, Arabian Nights, and others in the line found in the different languages and literatures of the world.

It is highly intriguing to contemplate that these tales have striking contemporary interest. The tales centre round a simple plot. A teacher agrees to educate and train up the sons of a king in the art and science of Government and in correct understanding of the behaviours of different persons and of the strange and mysterious ways of the world. Such a political education was completed in about six months.

But, in many modern democracies, the adult-vote mechanism has actually catapulted many mediocres and even less than mediocres into high offices, and all the troubles of democracy are due to lack of correct education of professional politicians.

Pace Panchatantra, if a law be made that no one should enter politics, unless he gets minimum political training and education for six months, democracy may be saved.

If not, democracy would disintegrate. The author and translator have done valuable work in the cause of ancient Indian literature.

SANSKRIT-TAMIL

SRI SUDARSANA SATAKAM—Ed. by S.M. Sundararajacharya. —(P. T. R. Srinivasa Iyengar, 35, North Chitra St., Sreerangam. Pp. 720. Price Rs. 12).

Sri Saint Kooranarayana's Sudarsana Satakam, collection of 100 stanzas composed in glorification of the DISC of the Lord (Sudarsana-chakra) is here given in Sanskrit (Devanagari) and concise meaning in Tamil, for the benefit of the religious-minded and orthodox-minded members of the public. Tradition has it that when a disciple was suffering from a severe and incurable malady, Saint Kooranarayana composed the special prayer of 100 stanzas, reciting of which cured the disciple and restored him to normal radiant health. Such is the very great spiritual efficacy of the prayer.

Each individual stanza is believed to be specially efficacious in enabling aspirants to secure characteristic ends or objectives. The Editor and Publisher have done a highly useful service to the spiritually-minded. It is to be hoped devotees will recite the prayer and secure for themselves material and spiritual advantages vouchsafed.

HINDI

RATNA DEEPIKA—By Sri Lakshminarayana Tripathi—(Mahadeva Prasad Kapoor, Bibihatia, Banares. Pp. 52. Price Re. 1.)

The present booklet in Hindi which forms the fifth in the Daivajnya Bhavan series of publications, is devoted to a description of the different types of precious stones, which are believed to have some special significance other than their worth in terms of the currency of the country.

The book stands divided into four sections, in the course of which the special correlations of the precious stones, with different planets, their curative, and even supernatural effects and other details are given. Generally, it is believed that these precious stones are classified into (navaratna) and they are held to possess some strange and mysterious talismanic effects on those who wear them. So far as I am aware the exact relation between these precious stones, and the evil or beneficent influences which they are claimed to exercise, over those who wear them does not seem to have been scientifically investigated.

Such a piece of research is worth undertaking, and whatever, unbelievers and Doubting Thomases may say, the belief is universally prevalent that these precious stones influence the luck of those who wear them. Thus, the sale of so-called lucky stones is on. The Hindi public would be glad to welcome the booklet as throwing light on a branch of Hindu occultism.

THE DANCE IN INDIA—(Government of India, Publications Division, Delhi-8. Pp. 24. Price Re. 1.)

In ancient India, dance had been restricted to a professional group and the community of dancing girls was considered to be inferior in social status and schemes of social recognition. The Bharatanatyam also was in the same condition. Now, with changing times, dancing also has changed, and quite a large number of men and women, belonging to highly respectable families are today engaged in studying and practising the art of dancing.

This booklet or pamphlet has been "issued on behalf of the Tourist Divisions", and gives an illuminating picture of different types of dances—the tribal, folk and the classical. The special dances of different places find mention like Kathakkali, and the Manipuri.

Scanned by www.sastrishikasthalam.org to Preserve the Sivaganga Mani

The booklet is printed attractively on glazed paper and photographic representations of different dance-types, and dance-poses and dance-postures make the booklet instructive and informative. It is observed that Folk Dances form a colourful and spectacular item, in the pageantry connected with Republic Day celebrations.

The late lamented Satyamurthi seems to have once remarked that India would sing its way to Swaraj. The booklet will make one exclaim that India has danced its way to Swaraj.

he considered men of low caste as his brothers. During description of short periods, it is said that during 15th to 18th years the mother worried about his eating what was banned by religion on account of bad company, but then he improved and at the time of going to another country for education, he took three oaths not to touch liquor, meat and women. His mother died before his return. He was a pleader and went to another country about 25th year. During 29th-30th years, he was near battle-area and saved many persons of high rank. He expressed his opinions by writings. Between 38 to 40, he was fortunately saved from a bad-hit. (This reference is to his being hit by Pathans on 10-2-1908). About his 44th year, his wife and son were imprisoned during travelling. During 46th to 50th years, Government at first adopted an arrangement for the good of the people, but during latter half it changed and published arragement bad for the people; there was danger from unlawful men (अराजक भयं) and many educated and intelligent persons were illed by shooting. (This reference is to the Amritsar shootings of 13th April 1919 at Jalianwala Bag). In Lajpatrai's life, there is reference to this as here the words are विद्याबुद्धिबलैर्भुक्ता शतघ्न्यादिवशात् क्षयं: ।

राजकोधाश्च तद्देशे छात्रवगदियो बहन् ।
चा मृत्युवशान्नाष्टा :

This shows that both the writings were written by the same man. There is again a reference to danger from unlawful men and many friends being dead during his 59th and 60th years. One of his sons becomes known by his acts in another country. Two references at the end to his wife's death during his 66th to 68th year, when the Sun was in 10th to 12th signs and his own passing away at 71 on 11th day of bright half of Magh in the afternoon are partly wrong about the years of life but correct about the months. It is said that he spent a large sum, after his wife's death, for the education of women.

Though I had been with Gandhiji for some months before going to Meerut, I did not know many of the events mentioned in this writing at the time, as they were published later on, while a few of the later events were found to be true. Thus there is no doubt that the writings going under Bhrigu's name were written by men with spiritual powers, though some planets are mentioned as denoting some events.

After some time, I met another Bhrigu man at Delhi, whom I showed only Gandhiji's horoscope, two months before Lord Reading came to India as Viceroy. He read to me a page in which it was said that 'a new mantri' is coming; he does not belong to the ruler's class but belongs to कुबेर वंश or the monied Jew class. On meeting this leader, he will put some proposals before him which he will not accept and then his life will be in danger. Then I remembered how the Meerut reading mentioned that followers of Government boiled with anger in respect of him.

One Mr. Reddi had come to Bombay in February 1922. He had the readings of some horoscopes written on leaves. The late Mr. Nawathe, an astrologer of Bombay, was present when some persons heard their readings, and published the main events of some of them in Marathi in his magazine. I copied eight of these which I have even now. These readings are very short and a few events were found incorrect. One of these persons was a Mohamedan mentioned as of Turkish caste. and a Christian was mentioned as a devotee of Mary.

Here are a few recent queries together with answers. If some similar doubts are puzzling you, why not write us about them? This service is free to all readers of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE. Address communications to—MIHIRA, c/o THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE].

Q. 1. For Aquarius Lagna, Mars occupies Cancer in debility. Will there be Neechabhanga for Mars if Moon is in Sagittarius and Saturn in Pisces? T.A., Vellore.

Ans. Yes; as Mars is exalted in Capricorn the ruler of which Saturn is in a kendra from Moon.

Q. 2. (a) In astrology the term Rajayoga has a definite meaning. But Swami Vivekananda also uses this term for one of his books 'Rajayoga' as meaning some yogic exercise. Kindly state how this term can be used for both? (b) It is stated by some authorities that only that Neechabhanga Rajayoga which is brought into play by Mercury getting Neechabhanga will be the most powerful. Is there any authority? (c) What is exactly meant by Gaja Kesari in the yoga of that name? How are the lion and elephant brought into the picture? (d) What is Mahabhagya Yoga? Has it anything to do with success in lottery? (e) Is it a fact that Mars exalted in 7th for Kataka Lagna has no dosha? (f) Is it a fact that those having Angaraka Dosha will have a hot constitution? (g) Some say that if a person has 5 or 6 planets in 2nd house, it will denote much wealth and oratory, e.g., Hyder Ali, C. P. Ramaswamy Iyer. Is this a fact? (h) In a horoscope, all the seven planets are in two signs. In one there is Moon and all the other six in the next. Does this constitute Grahamalika Yoga? (i) It is said that dwirdwadasa positions as between planets are bad. But in Nehru's horoscope, it is present, as part of Grahamalika Yoga. What is the correct position? R.R., Hyderabad.

Ans. (a) In astrology, the word yoga in Rajayoga means a combination of planets. In Philosophy and other sacred texts, yoga means equilibrium and the methods prescribed to attain that state, namely, a high spiritual condition. The word yoga means both, and to be interpreted differently according to context. (b) The word need not necessarily mean anything except denoting a yoga. (c) It is more often referred to only as Kesari Yoga (vide Phaladeepika). (d) If at a day birth in the case of a male the Sun, Moon and Lagna are in odd signs this yoga is formed. The same yoga in the case of a female will arise when the birth is at night and the Sun, Moon and Lagna are placed in even signs. It has nothing to do with success in lotteries. (e) There are two reasons why there is no dosha. Exaltation of Mars is an exception to the dosha whichever may be the Lagna, or Rasi or Venus sign. Moreover Mars has no dosha in seventh when that seventh sign happens to be one ruled by Saturn. (f) We see no reason why it should be so. (g) This is no necessary effect. No doubt when any bhava is associated with several planets, there will be great activity with regard to the affairs of that bhava. But if the concerned Karaka Jupiter for wealth and Mercury for speech are spoiled, there will be no such result, at least it will be greatly reduced. (h) This is not known as Grahamalika Yoga but as Yuga Yoga. (i) Dwirdwadasa positions are overruled in Grahamalika Yogas which necessarily imply such a position.

Q. 3. (a) For Makara Lagna, Sun's debilitation is cancelled if Mars is placed in Cancer. Is the neechabhanga any the less efficacious because Mars is in his debility? (b) Strength of a debilitated planet is said to be zero. Does it follow that in any other sign it will be better for strength? (c) On page 899 (November 1957 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE) it is stated that Rahu in the constellations of Krittika, Uttara and Uttarashada will intensify the bad effects? Is it to be presumed that Rahu in any other constellation can be ignored in predictions? (d) Planets are said to produce evil effects when they are in their Sayana Avastha. Is Rahu an exception to the general rule?

Y.B., Puthur.

Ans. (a) It follows: But Mars must necessarily be in an angle to produce cancellation. In an angle he is powerful. But this position is certainly less efficacious than when Mars in in any other sign when he cancels debilitation of Sun. (b) It follows. (c) It does not follow. Your conclusion defies all laws of logical inference. Simply that a planet in a particular position of evil, it does not follow that he is either worse or bettter in any other place. Therefore it cannot be ignored. (d) Rahu is good when he is in Sayana Avastha only when he occupies Taurus, Gemini, Aries or Virgo where he is said to cause opulence to the native. In other signs he will bring only trouble to the native.

Q. 4. (a) Ref. 3rd paragraph, page 531, col. 2, June 1957 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE. What are fruitful signs? (b) Ref. 2nd paragraph, 1st col., page 531 above issue. How is it that all the planets except Saturn are above the horizon? What is meant by 'above the horizon?' (c) Which half—the 1st or 2nd belong to foreground and which half background? (d) What connection has 'above the horizon' and 'background' with visible half and two halves.

J.M., Seraikella.

Ans. (a) Cancer, Scorpio and Pisces are considered as very fruitful signs. Gemini and Sagittarius are sometimes fruitful. Taurus, Gemini, Libra and Aquaruis are moderately so. Aries, Leo and Capricorn are known as barren signs. (b) When planets are between the second half of seventh and first half of 1st house, they are said to be above horizon as they can be seen. This is known as the visible half. In the reference quoted it is a mistake that Sun, Venus and Jupiter are also stated to be above horizon as they actually occupy 6th house and hence below the western horizon. (c) Foreground is a common name for kendras or angles of the horoscope. If any planet is in any one of the kendras, he is said to be in the foreground. (d) A planet is in background when he is in 3rd, 6th and 12th houses. There is no connection between these terms. The meaning and scope of each has to be individually understood.

Q. 5. In dealing with horoscope No. 7 in December issue of the magazine, S. Rajagopala Iyer says there is Rajalakshana Yoga when all the benefics are in kendras. Horoscope as follows:—Gemini Lagna with Venus and Mercury; Jupiter in Virgo in conjunction with Saturn and Rahu; Moon in Sagittarius. Why has not the native of this horoscope derived any benefit from this yoga?

K.N.K., Rajapuram.

Ans. You have given the Navamsa Lagna as Libra and Jupiter's navamsa as Taurus. It is very probable that Jupiter does not occupy the seventh Bhava though in the seventh rasi. Please examine Bhava kundali to see if it is so. If it is, there is reason sufficient. Always consult Bhava kundali for bhava positions of yogas.

Q. 6. (a) Are predictions to be made according to the position of the planets in the Rasi Chakra or Bhava Chakra if the planets occupy different positions in both? (b) When the strength of the planets is to be judged, it is said that navamsa is a better guide than the rasi. Please confirm. (c) It is mentioned on page 122 of Hindu Predictive Astrology by B. V. Raman that if Lagna is a common sign and if Moon occupies a common sign, death takes place before 32nd year. Are there any exceptions to this statement? If so, kindly clarify. (d) In a horoscope, the date of birth is known. It is also known that the time of birth was sometime between 9–30 and 10–30 p.m. How to ascertain the exact time and Lagna? Is there any formula to find the same? (e) In some horoscopes, we find Mandi shown as one of the planets. Is this planet of any importance in influencing the life of an individual. Please also state how to locate the Mandi in any horoscope? D.P., Bombay–16.

Ans. (a) According to both. For sign position, Rasi chart is to be looked to and for house position, Bhava chart. Suppose Saturn occupies 25th degree of Gemini and Ascendant Aries 5th degree. In these latitudes, Saturn would be in third sign but fourth bhava. The interpretation is 'Saturn in 4th in sign Gemini'. (b) Yes, authorities are almost unanimous on this point. (c) This is not to be taken as an invariable rule. This combination is indicative of Alpayu and can be counteracted by other powerful factors for long life, e.g., by Jupiter being strongly placed in Lagna or 7th and so on. (d) There is no definite formula as each case will have to be proceeded with according to the general requirements. The Lagna should be calculated for 9–30 p.m., and also for 10–30 p.m. If the two are different, the probable Lagna is to be settled by the Mandi test which is as follows:—"Note the Rasi occupied by Mandi at birth and note also where the lord of that rasi is posited. The Lagna at birth will be a position triangular to that of the aforesaid lord or one triangular to the navamsa occupied by the owner of the sign representing the navamsa occupied by Mandi. This will narrow down the period of investigation in most cases. After this, Pranapada test, or Parasara test, or Nadi tests—all formulae, should be applied to arrive at the correct birth time. To explain all that would be too elaborate and require an article by itself. They are all described in standard texts. (e) When the length of the day is 30 ghatikas, the position of Mandi on the week days counting from Sunday onwards is at the end of 26, 22, 18, 14, 10, 6 and 2 ghatikas during the daytime. These figures have to be proportionately increased or decreased according as the length of the day is greater or less than 30 ghatikas. In the night time, the lords of the first seven Muhurthas are counted not from the lord of the week day birth from that of the 5th. These at night time will therefore be from Sunday onwards at the end of 10, 6, 2, 26, 22, 18 and 14 respectively.

Q. 7. (a) When more than three planets transit through positions exactly corresponding to their location in a chart, how is the combined effect predicted? How are the results modified if the radical planets are retrograde? (b) Please suggest remedial measures to be carried out for a native born with Kalasarpa Yoga with rising degree outside the grip? (c) Please explain the extent to which healthy and wise parentage contributes to the health, constitution and intelligence of a child vis-a-vis the contribution as per birth time. (d) Please explain the following yogas:—(i) Kamini Yoga, (ii) Chhapa Yoga, (iii) Kalanidhi Yoga and (iv) Kusuma Yoga. (e) In Electional Astrology are the Tharabalam and Chandrabalam to be considered for travels, tree planting, sowing seeds, etc.?

T.R., Madras.

Ans. (a) In Hindu astrology, transits of planets are considered as from Janma Rasi. Some include as from Lagna also. The effects of transits of planets over their own radical positions are considered only in Western astrology. The effects will be different according to each planet. These are found in Western astrological text books. No difference in effects because the radical planets are retrograde. (b) So far as we know, no remedial measures are available for Kalasarpa Yoga. It stands to reason that if Rahu and Kethu as well as Sun are propitiated, they will have the desired effect. (c) We are not able to gather the purport of the question and the difficulty that has to be solved. If you will express yourself in plainer language, we hope to be able to tackle the question. (d) Kamini Yoga:—Venus should occupy 4th from Lagna, Moon in 7th, Mercury in 11th, Jupiter in 2nd, Sun in conjunction with benefics. This will confer prosperity from birth for 42 years. Chhapa Yoga:—If the ascendant lord is exalted and 4th and 10th lords have interchanged houses, this yoga is present. The native will grace a King's council, wealthy, full of strength and an exchequer or Comptroller of Treasury. Kalanidhi Yoga:—Jupiter must join or be aspected by Mercury and Venus should either be in the 2nd or 5th house. Jupiter must occupy 2nd or 5th identical with Swakshetra of Mercury or Venus. The native will be highly passionate, good natured, revered by kings, commanding different kinds of conveyances and all shorts of aristocractic paraphernalia and immune from dream. Kusuma Yoga:—Jupiter should be in Lagna, Moon in 7th and Sun in 2nd. Effects:—The native will be king or equal to him or helping others and becomes head of a town or city after the age of 20. (e) Yes: For all elections, the strength of both is necessary.

Q. 8. (a) What are the equivalent English meanings of the undermentioned sensitive points. Do they correspond in any way to the sensitive points mentioned in Robson's Text Book of Astrology. Appendix D:—Punya, Dampathya Manmatha, Bharya, Prana, Awasara, Mrithyu, Pramada, etc. (b) What signs, nakshatras, or planets govern the shooting of landbirds, water game birds, big game? Does one's birth constellation enter with the scheme at all or affect the particular day in any way? (c) What signs and degrees are the Lagnas for the following town: and what nakshatras rule them? Simla, Srinagar, Ootacamund, Madras, Calcutta, Bombay, Delhi? S.T.A., Nilgiris.

Ans. (a) These sensitive points are found in Varshaphal by B.V. Raman and are to to be used in Solar Revolution maps for delineating annual results. These should not be given undue prominence in natal astrology as there are so many of them (50 according to Nilakanta, 48 according to Venkatesa and 21 according to Kesava) and also different methods of calculation that with these we can explain almost anything and everything. Similarly also the sensitive points in Robson's Appendix. Even in Western astrology, they are generally now ignored. (b) They all come under the main heading of 'hunting'. Separate classifications are not available in the texts. If Mars and Saturn combine together, it favours hunting. (c) The 3rd decanate of Leo is ascribed to Bombay by Western writers on Astrology. The other towns have not yet been placed by either Western or Eastern astrologers.

Q. 9. (a) Vide page 688, August 1957 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE. Chandradhi Yoga is stated to be more powerful than Lagnadhi Yoga. Will this hold good if Lagna is more powerful in the horoscope than Moon? (b) Vide page 690, August 1957 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE. Pisces itself when it arises at birth makes a person learned. Will a person born in Pisces Navamsa be learned? (c) How to ascertain that the native is a great mathematician? What are the principal combinations to make a man a mathematician? (d) What are the general results when 5th lord Moon and 11th lord Saturn aspect each other in the navamsa? (e) Please explain the following terms:—(i) above the horizon, (ii) below the horizon, (iii) epoch, (iv) secondary directions and sensitive points in a birth chart. (f) What yoga is prescribed by Sun and Jupiter exalted in kendras and Venus exalted in an evil house? J.M., Seraikella.

Ans. (a) If Lagna is more powerful than Moon, then Lagnadhi Yoga becomes powerful. This question will arise only when both Lagnadhi Yoga and Chandradhi Yoga co-exist in the same horoscope as to which is more powerful. The meaning implied is that Chandradhi Yoga will carry a man further up than if it were on Lagnadhi Yoga. (b) It is only a general statement and does dot mean that every person born under Pisces will be a learned man. Of course what applies to rasi applies to navamsa also. (c) (i) If Kethu and Jupiter be posited in 2nd, 5th or 3rd from the navamsa occupied by Atmakaraka, the native will be clever in mathematics. (ii) Mars occupying 2nd house and aspected by a benefic also makes the native as above. (iii) The native will be learned in mathematics if Moon and Mars are in conjunction and are aspected by Mercury and either Mercury or Mars should be in a kendra. (iv) If strong Mercury happens to be the lord of 8th house, Jupiter is in Lagna and Saturn occupies 8th, the native will be a clever mathematician. (v) If Jupiter is in a kendra or a kona, Venus be possessed of strength and Mercury is in 2nd house or rules 2nd. The effect will be the same. (vi) Moon in Virgo if strong and well placed, will make the native skilled in writing, drawing and mathematics. Generally strength of 2nd house and Mercury is necessary for proficiency in mathematics. (d) This will have to be interpreted in connection with the context of the other horoscopical factors in rasi and navamsa. (e) (i) Vide answer to question 13 (b) supra. (ii) Vide answer to question 13 (b) supra. (iii) This is the moment when the birth ascendant and Moon exchange as birth ascendant becoming Moon or the opposite point and birth Moon being in ascendant or descendant about 10 lunar months before birth. (iv) This is the system of directions by which one day after birth corresponds to events of one year after birth. (v) Sensitive points are imaginary points derived by the manipulation of the ascendant, M.C. planets, to derive new points believed to have efficacy in some special way according to the radical factors involved in the manipulation. There are multitudes of them both in Hindu and Western astrology to be of much practical utility. (f) This does not correspond to any recognised yoga.

Research in Astrology

The Editor of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE will be glad to receive birth particulars of persons suffering or having suffered from chronic diseases, misfortunes pertaining to family life, loss of children, loss of political power, social status, etc. Persons who are very rich, who are extremely poor, who occupy high positions, who have suffered from incarcerations (political or otherwise) will also do well to send their birth particulars (time, place and date) giving dates of such important happenings and also enclosing their photographs and palm impressions.

These horoscopes will be made use of by our Research Department for purposes of astrological investigation. They will be treated confidentially and illustrated for demonstrating typical astrological principles. Readers should note that making predictions is beyond the scope of this section. Those who wish to submit their horoscopes should fill in the details called for above in a questionnaire which will be supplied free on request to

I would now wish is that I should so focus my balance of life towards research in co-ordination with the work done by my superiors in this field as Prof. B.V. Raman and others, that volumes and volumes of knowledge on this topic as Astro-Medicine, Astro-Physics, Astro-Chemistry, etc., may be made available to humanity. Our Rishis have bequeathed a lot. Our duty is to try to understand and explain or at least to bow to their wisdom. Their works show us the starting point.

Why should I not believe in astrology when I find that persons born in Simha Lagna behave in a particular fashion, show a preference to aristocratic living and are experts in trying to be independent? Why should I not believe in astrology when Prasna Sastra properly applied gives correctly more correctly than costly police dgs, a clue to the location of lost articles, run away persons and so forth? Why should I not believe in astrology when I find that in spite of best efforts certain work started in inauspicious times does not prove fruitful? Why should I not believe in astrology when I find that the method of finding sexual potency in men and women from the point of view of generative power, given for example in Mantreswara's Phaladeepika works so beautifully well? All these results are obtained without any instrument.

Westerners are trying to perfect their method of diagnosis; to say a few days before delivery whether issue to be born is male or female and so on. These methods are tending to prove successful only when the event to occur is so nearby that any possibility to modify or counteract is probably lost. But the science given to us by our Rishis, if only studied and applied by one, will lead one to correct diagnosis of events, years ahead; years ahead, mind you. This factor has been understood by me, fortunately. I have been showered by Him, His Grace. So, I have a facility to understand this wonderfully true phenomenon called astrology. Whoever cares to study astrology properly cannot retreat from it. It is so attractive and expansive that one will find a large universe in it. One will be forced to realise the truth of this following verse in Isavasyopanishad.

सर्वभूतेषु चात्मानं ततो न विजुगुप्सते॥

A man robs: he is prompted by Mars-Moon badly afflicted or by Rahu badly posited. You understand why he robs; how the Supreme robs Himself punishes Himself and reaps results Himself. Lord Krishna has observed in Gita as follows:

अजोऽपि सन्नव्ययात्मा भूतानामिश्वरोऽपि सन्।
प्रकृतिं स्वामधिष्ठाय सम्भवाम्यात्ममायया॥

One is forced to see Maya in Reality and Reality in Maya. I have benefitted much in trying to understand a bit about the extraordinary power of the Supreme, by a study of astrology. As a result I find that even ordeals prove play when power of the Supreme is once understood. If that be so, why should I not believe in astrology?

Being a Hindu by birth and being what I am, I cannot deny that I have a great leaning to our sacred Vedas, Scriptures, Epics, etc. I personally believe that whatever is contained therein has been said with a purpose and will be true for ever provided that is adapted to changing circumstances. Such sacred things positively embrace astrology as a Vedanga and contain profuse references to astrology. Why should I not believe in astrology?

I am sure there are greater scholars than my humble self. I am a mouse before such elephants. May I be fortunate to read more convincing arguments put forth by such! May God bless them with long life!

THE HINDU PROGRESSED HOROSCOPE

Based on Tajaka (6TH EDITION)

By B. V. RAMAN

This book based on Tajaka covers fresh grounds in the field of prediction. It describes a unique method never before disclosed for deciphering annual life readings. Predictions made according to this work yield unique results. Whether you are a layman or initiated, you can draw up and interpret the annual reading in an easy and scientific manner. The system propounded in the pages of this work is rational and in actual practice yields most satisfactory results.

OPINION

"The author outlines a method of deciphering annual results from the Hindu horoscope. He claims that the principles of Tajaka astrology have been found to work accurately in actual practice, and controverts the orthodox belief that the system can be applied only to charts of individuals who have passed the age of thirty. There are many useful tables at the end and a summary."

1. Generally good for all purposes, but L.D. specially suitable for ingathering of produce and for putting in manure; for best effects, use animal or fish manure according to nature of soil and produce desired effects. Till 7–30 good for purchase or sale of grain; thereafter good for purchase of cattle.

2. Ordinarily suited for all purposes but specially favourable for manuring; for best effect, use chemical fertilisers. Day good also for purchase of cattle.

3. Marana Yogam till 1 p.m.; till then unsuitable for any purpose especially new beginnings; keep to routine such as weeding, levelling, fencing, etc. After 1 p.m., asterism unfavourable for all actions.

4. Yogini towards sky only after 7–25 p.m., and yoga bad only after 3–35 p.m.; but asterisms ruling whole day and night are very bad for all matters in general; keep to routine.

5. Yogini towards sky or earth whole day and night; so not good for ploughing, planting, even manuring. L.D. too bad for all purposes; keep to routine only.

6. Yogini towards earth till 5–30 p.m., practically whole day. L.D. too Amavasya; whole day to be observed as an agricultural holiday.

7. L.D. not recommended as being suitable for any purpose; new beginnings may be avoided; otherwise routine work to go on.

8. A day suited for all purposes and agricultural beginnings of any kind; but the asterism is recommended only for storage of grain.

9. An excellent day for all agricultural purposes and new beginnings; but the best use will be for purposes of manuring; for best effect, use organic manure.

10. Though asterism is favourable for all purposes, L.D. is not recommended for any new beginnings.

11. Though L.D. is favourable for almost all purposes, asterism is not; avoid all new beginnings and keep to routine work.

12. Whole day and greater part of the night ruled by Marana Yogam; so unsuited for all new beginnings; keep to routine.

13. L.D. good but asterism unsuitable for all new beginnings; keep to routine.

14. Whole day ruled by Ashtami which is evil for all new beginnings.

15. Whole day and night Yogini towards sky or earth; hence unsuited for digging, ploughing, planting, even manuring; therefore keep to routine only.

16. Yogini towards earth till 1–45 p.m.; till then unsuitable for ploughing, planting and manuring. L.D. thereafter good for manuring primarily and generally for all purposes, including purchase of cattle.

17. A good day for all agricultural beginnings; L.D. suitable also for purchase of cattle.

18. A day ordinarily good for all purposes; asterism good for planting, purchase of grain and cattle.

19. Till 6–35 a.m. excellent for all purposes; any new beginnings or projects can be begun before 6–35 a.m. and thereafter L.D. generally unsuitable for all purposes.

20. Day, L.D. and asterism combine to make this an undesirable time for all purposes; keep to routine.

21. L.D. not good generally; avoid all important works and new beginnings.

22. Till 2–15 p.m. good only for purchase of cattle; after that, good for all purposes in general.

23. Whole day good for all purposes in general; after 4-30 p.m., becomes much better; specially good for manuring; for best effect, use organic manure, especially goat manure.

24. Yogini towards sky or earth whole day and night; hence unsuited for digging, ploughing, planting, even manuring. L.D. too not good; hence avoid all work except routine.

25. Yogini towards earth till 7–0 p.m. Yogam bad after 1 p.m.; therefore this day to be avoided for all important purposes and new beginnings.

26. Till 1–40 p.m. good for planting, purchase of grain and cattle but not for other purposes; thereafter good only for purchase of cattle.

27. Yogam bad till 2–40 p.m.; thereafter good for all purposes; especially manuring, planting, harvesting, storing grain.

28. L.D. not good generally for any purpose; keep to routine.

29. L.D. not good in general for all purposes; keep to routine.

30. An ordinarily good day; good for purchase of grain, planting and purchase of cattle.

As a result of the prescriptions which he then prepared, the new treatment got at the root of the trouble and eradicated it (instead of aggravating it as the previous treatment had done)—with the result that immediately after the crisis date of September 24th, 1958 had passed, the girl began to return to a radiant state of health.

The major point to note, however, is the transit of Uranus at the Nadir, the importance of which will be demonstrated in other examples in due course.

THREE HUNDRED IM ORTANT COMBINATIONS

BY B. V. RAMAN

This is not a collection of combinations but a careful selection of just the most important ones which cannot be easily identified in a horoscope.

What makes one a dunce? Why is one unhappy, what makes one poor and the other rich? Why one has no bodily comfort—what makes one a King or an equal, a leader, a business magnate, an industrialist, a great politician, a pauper, a sickly man and a miserable wretch? What makes one attain success without much effect and what makes the other to meet with disappointment in life inspite of his very best efforts?

A study of this book will enable you to easily judge the worth of your own horoscope and adjudge its merits and demerits.

A book of this type containing a collection of rare combinations some of which are special yogas has never been published before.

The author has illustrated the principles with innumerable horoscopes from practical lives. Do not fa to read this book.

STARS IN THEIR Seasons

BY M. V. RAMAKRISHNAN, M.A., L.T.

Night Sky in June 1959

Zodiacal Constellations

THE zodiacal constellations that are visible this month at about 9–30 in the night are from west to east, Cancer (Kataka), Leo (Simha), Virgo (Kanya), Libra (Thula), Scorpio (Vrischika) and Sagittarius (Dhanus). Cancer is setting and the lunar asterism Pushya is seen close to the western horizon. Sagittarius has risen and is seen as a picturesque group of stars in the south-eastern sky. Virgo and Leo have both crossed the meridian, while Libra and Scorpio are approaching the meridian.

This month the constellation Scorpio is in a very favourable position for observation. It is a fine group of a large number of bright stars. Its shape resembles that of a Scorpion with outstretched claws and curving tail. The four stars in the claws of the Scorpion constitute the asterism Anuradha. Near the Scorpion's heart shines the bright red star Antares, the rival of the ruddy planet Mars in colour and brightness. On either side of Antares is seen a faint star; these three constitute the lunar asterism Jyestah. At the extremity of the tail of the Scorpion are seen two fairly bright stars; these together with nine other stars in the tail constitute the asterism Moola.

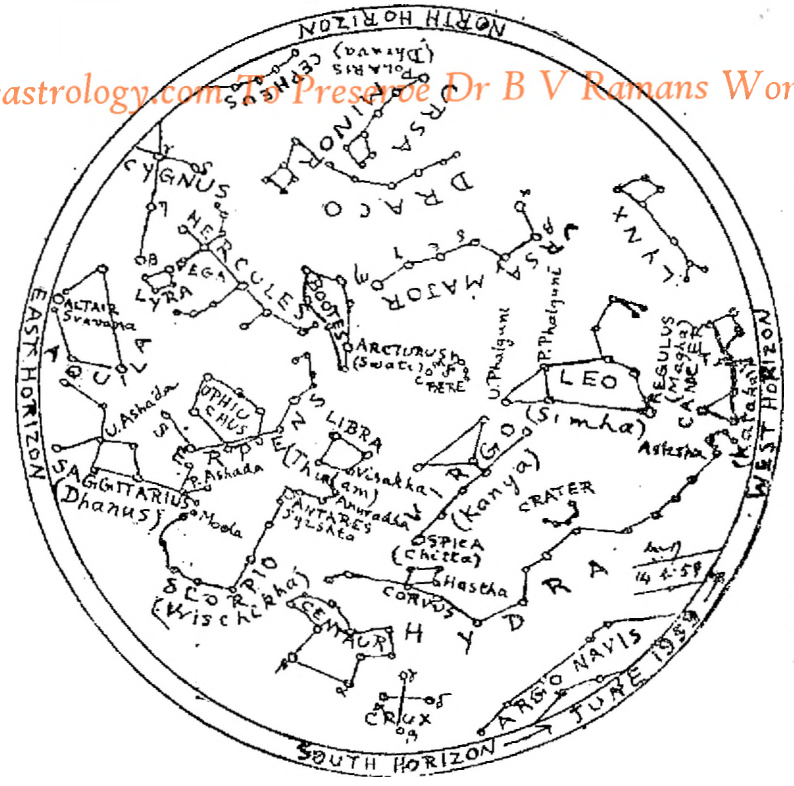
Close to Scorpio towards the east lies the fine constellation Sagittarius. This group consists of a good number of stars of the second and third magnitude. It contains the two Ashadas, one of which lies in the Milky Way while the other lies outside to the east of it. This constellation is exactly opposite Taurus, so that as it rises in the east the Bull disappears in the west. On this account it is sometimes called "The Bull-Killer".

Non-Zodiacal Constellations

Of the non-zodiacal constellations Argo Navis in the southern sky and Lynx in the north are setting, while Aquila and Cygnus are rising in the east. Ursa Major is seen shining in all its glory in the north a little past the meridian. Lower down is seen the less attractive group Ursa Minor. Between the two creeps the long winding constellation of the dragon, Coma Berenices is seen to the east of Leo; Bootes, Ophiuchus and Hercules are approaching the meridian; Crux is seen a little past the meridian, while Centaurus is just crossing the meridian.

Above Sagittarius is seen a constellation of eight or nine stars embedded in the Milky Way. It is just now coming out of the eastern horizon. This is Aquila, the Flying Eagle. The principal star of the constellation is the first magnitude star Altair. On either side of it lies a star of the third magnitude. These three constitute the lunar asterism Sravana.

Below Aquila and a little further north-west and to the east of Hercules lies the small constellation Lyra. The principal star of this group is Vega which is a bright white star of the first magnitude. Vega with two other stars of the group constitutes the asterism Abhijit.



The Lunar Asterisms

The lunar asterisms that can be identified in the visible hemisphere are Pushya in Cancer, Aslesha on the head of Hydra, Magha and the two Phalgunis in Leo, Hasta on the back of Hydra, Chitta in Virgo, Swati in Bootes, Visakha in Libra, Anuradha, Jyeshta and Moola in Scorpio, the Ashadas in Sagittarius, Abhijit in Lyra, and Sravana in Aquila.

The Milky Way

The Milky Way traverses the sky from north-east to south-west and is seen to pass through or between Cepheus, Cygnus, Aquila, Sagittarius, Scorpio, Centaurus, Crux and Argo Navis.

Weather Forecasts for June 1959

BY D. R. MUNSIFF, B.Sc. (Econ.) (London), B.A. (Hons.), (Bombay).

THE horoscope drawn for the time of the Sun's entry into Gemini will give us the part indications of the weather conditions upto 20th June from 22nd May. In addition to this, Mercury enters the cardinal sign Cancer on the 11th May. This will play a vital part because the wet conditions of weather normal at this time of the year will depend a great deal upon the winds bringing the rain-bearing clouds to different regions. We must not neglect the New Moon and Full Moon maps also because they modify the conditions started by the Sun.

However, as described in the previous articles, the utmost attention is to be given to the Sun because it causes changes in the weather as it passes through various signs of the zodiac.

For U.P., Bengal and Bihar and even Orissa, the following map will be valid and good. The 4th and 10th and 7th houses are ruled by dry and airied sign while the first house is ruled by a watery sign. But a benefic and moderate planet Venus is posited in the fourth the house of its exaltation, and a heavy and wet and cold planet is in the tenth house. Moreover the ruler of the fourth Mercury having its sway over the winds resides in the house of Venus. Therefore the weather will be alternately hot and wet—the latter particularly in Bengal where north-westerners are common bringing relief to the citizens in the shape of water. But since three angles are occupied by dry signs, there will be a few very trying days of hot and dry weather.

May 22nd and 23rd hot and moist; 24th scattered drizzles; 25th hot and dry winds finally ending in cloudburst; 26th sultry and warm; 27th and 28th sultry, moist and hot; 29th a little cooler with winds; 30th hot; 31st hot with scattered drizzles. June 1st cloudy and hot; 2nd scattered showers; 3rd and 4th widespread showers; 5th and 6th sultry, moist and hot; 7th widespread showers; 8th, 9th and 10th windy, cloudy with slight drizzles; 11th cloudy, little cooler; 12th hot and sultry; 13th cloudy wind, with light showers; 14th, 15th and 16th hot, sultry and cloudy; 17th and 18th heavy showers; 19th light drizzles and 20th widespread light showers.

This month, for the Western Coast and Bombay region, the geniture is radically different. Even the signs across the ascendant and descendant change, they being Aquarius and Leo.

Next, Venus passes out from the 4th to the 5th house while Saturn moves from the 10th to the 11th house while the hot Pluto tenants the 7th house.

Therefore the weather will be hotter and drier than normal. The following days should be particularly noted with the characteristics mentioned against them:—24th cloudy with strong winds; 25th very strong winds with possibilities of a storm; 30th and 31st strong hot winds; 1st June cloudy and breezy; 4th once again the probability of a storm; 7th very cloudy and slight drizzle; 13th very cloudy with high wind; 20th a hot day with scattered cloudburst, but monsoon is not at hand. There will be many more hot and dry days before the Bombay region is blessed by monsoon rains.

For Madras region, the weather will be hotter and drier than normal also.

For the highlands of Assam, the weather is very stormy and wet because both Uranus and Mars find themselves posited in the 4th house accompanied by thunder. The storms that will pass over the region will be more numerous than usual. Secondly destruction due to stormy weather will be considerable. Such probable days are April 22nd 24th, 28th, 30th, May 13th, 16th and 21st.

Astrology and Modern Thought

BY B. V. RAMAN

(FOURTH EDITION)

The rationale and claims of Astrology have been examined from the viewpoint of Modern Scientific Thought. The arguments put forth by some of the scientists to decry Astrology have been ably refuted and supported by unimpeachable evidence.

The book will convince any so-called sceptic who is accustomed the slogan 'I do not believe in Astrology'. To an intellectual it contains full of weighty material for reflection.

It is a book that every one should read.

THE SUN

The Sun proceeds from the 18th degree of Nirayana Taurus, enters Gemini on the 13th and progresses upto the 16th degree of the same sign. His northern declination increases from 21° 55′ to 23° 14′ during the month. He comes to the summer solstice on the 22nd.

THE MOON

The Moon begins to progress from the 19th degree of Nirayana Pisces. After making a complete round of the heavens he progresses upto the 9th degree of Nirayana Aries. He attains maximum northern declination on 7th and southern declination on 20th. He crosses the equator on 14th and 27th. He reaches the ascending node on 16th and the descending node on the 28th. He goes to his Apogee on the 4th and the Perigee on the 19th. He forms with the Sun the following aspects during the month:

New Moon	on	6th	at about 5 p.m.
First quarter	on	14th	,, 10 a.m.
Full Moon	on	21st	,, 1 a.m.
Last quarter	on	28th	,, 3 a.m.

MARS AND MERCURY

Mars commences his journey from the 9th degree of Nirayana Cancer and proceeds upto the 26th degree of the same sign during this month. He goes to the Aphelion on the 18th.

Mercury begins to progress from the 16th degree of Nirayana Taurus. He enters Gemini on the 7th and Cancer on the 23rd. He traverses upto 10th degree of Nirayana Cancer during the month. He goes to the Perhelion on the 4th, when he attains equality in declination with Venus on the same side of the equator. He rises in the West on the 13th.

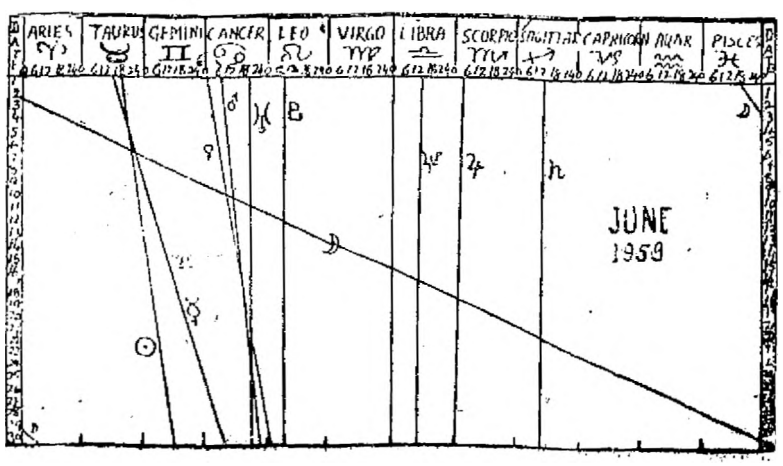
JUPITER AND SATURN

Jupiter continues to retrograde during this month also. By his retrograde motion, he recedes from the 4th degree of Nirayana Scorpio to the 1st degree of the same sign.

Saturn continues to retrograde from the 14th degree of Nirayana Sagittarius to the 12th degree of the same sign.

VENUS AND RAHU

Venus moves from the 2nd degree of Nirayana Cancer, enters Nirayana Leo on the 29th and moves upto 1st degree in that sign. He attains greatest elongation on 23rd.



Rahu moves back from the 19th degree of Nirayana Virgo to the 17th degree of the same sign.

OTHER PLANETS

Uranus progresses from 21° 9′ to 22° 26′ of Nirayana Cancer during this month.

Neptune continues to retrograde from 12° 53′ of Nirayana Libra to 12° 26′ of the same sign.

Pluto moves direct from 9° 55′ to 10° 22′ of Nirayana Leo during the month.

* The R.A. is always given on Sayana basis, while in the description of planetary movements, the longitudes are given on Nirayana basis, the current Ayanamsa being 21° 49′ 55·5″.

LUNAR CONJUNCTIONS

The Moon will form conjunctions with planets in the following order:—

Kethu	on 1st	at about	10 a.m.
Sun	on 6th	,,	5 p.m.
Mercury	on 7th	,,	3 a.m.
Venus	on 10th	,,	5 p.m.

Uranus	on 11th	,,	11 a.m.
Pluto	on 12th	,,	9 p.m.
Rahu	on 15th	,,	5 p.m.
Neptune	on 17th	,,	11 a.m.
Jupiter	on 18th	,,	5 p.m.
Saturn	on 21st	,,	10 a.m.

Pramana Gulikasphuta is an important factor for predicting death. How it is computed and how it is applied is given in the following text of Prasna Marga:

जातस्याह्नि सषड्ग्रहो गतनिशामान्दि :
प्रमाणाहेंवयो...

रात्रौ प्राग्दिन मानदिरेव न परं तद्रा-
शिनाथालयें
मन्दोसुष्य नवांश पाश्रितगृहे मृत्युप्रदायी
गुरु
भानुर्द्वादश भागपाश्रितगृहे त्रिंशांश
पक्षे शशी

If the birth is during daytime, Pramana Gulikasphuta is obtained by adding six rasis to the Gulikasphuta of the previous night. If the birth is during the night the Gulikasphuta of the preceding daytime is the Pramana Gulikasphuta. Saturn in conjunction with the ruler of the house of Pramana Gulikasphuta, Jupiter in conjunction with the ruler of the navamsa rasi, Sun in conjunction with the ruler of the dwadasamsa rasi and the Moon in conjunction with the ruler of the trimsamsa rasi will cause death to the native.

I have drawn all my quotations from Prasna Marga*, the most popular astrological work in Kerala. My attempt is only to suggest to those who are interested in astrology the importance of Mandi in the predictive aspect of the science and pave the way for further research on the astronomical significance of this malefic significator.

*An English translation of this book by B. V. Raman will be published shortly.

YOGA, PSYCHOLOGY AND PARAPSYCHOLOGY

secured by two keys, which were in his pocket" (Pp. 663, The Otherside of Death, 1954 Ed.) I think these proofs, belonging to the second category of evidence, will convince any fair-minded critic of the genuineness of the materialisation phenomena, proving survival of man after death.

Ecto-Psycho-Tele-Plasm

Naturally critics ask of what material these apparitions are formed? Many scientists have investigated the subject, and I can give briefly the conclusions they have arrived at after repeated experiments for a long time. Notable among the workers was Dr. W. J. Crawford, D.Sc., Lecturer in Mechanical Engineering, Queen's University, Belfast. He made the medium sit or lie on a weighing machine, and when any telekinetic or materialising phenomena occurred, he found the weight of the medium was less by approximately the weight of the phantom or the body levitated. The connection between the medium and the materialised or levitated object was maintained by what he describes as a 'psychical structure' of unknown composition derived mainly from the body of the medium, or sometimes from the sitters' bodies. (Crawford's Reality of Psychic Phenomena). On page 145 of this book the readers will find that according to him the substance of psychic structure was "clammy, cold, almost oily". He succeeded in photographing it many times and propounded the theory of its cantilever—like action on objects moved, levitated or materialised. Many scientists tried to find its composition, but could not succeed in their attempts. Later, this psychic structure came to be known as 'Ecto-Tele or Psycho-Plasm', which, as Malcolm Grant says, came to be photographed, weighed, analysed, put inside boxes, netted, trapped, tricked, pinched, teased (Pp. 208) with the result that scientists are where you or I should be". So it means we have not yet understood what it is. But there is agreement on this point that "it is exuded from the medium's body and becomes moulded intelligently into forms and figures". Dr. Gustav Geley has said: "the ectoplasmic construction of bodies and limbs is not substantially different from nature". He asks "why does a leaf or a flower grow to the size, shape, colour and symmetry pattern? When a wound is repaired, why are the form and outline of the original pattern so closely followed?" In the same way, he says, these temporary ectoplasmic patterns are moulded true to life!

Wax Moulds

Most convincing proof of materialised hands and limbs is seen in the experiments of what are known as 'Wax Gloves'. Dr. Geley made many such experiments with the medium Frank Kluski of Warsaw. The latter was an educated man, a writer and a poet, speaking many languages and a born medium. He gave his services freely, first to his polish compatriots and then to the metapsychic Institute, urged by frank devotion to science. The experiments were thus described: "In these sittings, a tank of melted paraffin wax was set upon an electric heater, and the materialised entity was asked to plunge a hand or foot into the paraffin several times. "Dr. Geley and Richet then, to avoid trickery, had one time introduced some cholesterol into it,—which turns violet red by adding sulphuric acid,—so that the experimenters could be sure that the same paraffin was used. Prof. Richet says that medium's both hands were firmly held by them and yet "the first mould obtained was of a child's hand, then a second mould of both hands, and the third of a child's foot. The creases in the skin and the veins were visible on the moulds, and the plaster casts made from them". Readers can very well realise that the wrist is smaller than the hand and the hand cannot be withdrawn from the mould without breaking it. But as the hands and the limbs dematerialise in the mould itself, it remains intact. And as the ectoplasm of the limbs is reabsorbed into the medium's body, the coloured paraffin leaves its traces on his or her body. Dr. Geley says: "Mr. Kluski had not been near the place either before or during the experiment." And "yet there was paraffin on his hands and clothes, though his hands had never been released from the hold of the controllers". (Pp. 224, Dr. Geley's Book). "The moulds show hands with fingers bent down, or in some cases two hands are shown with fingers interlocked in various ways. For these and other reasons, it is quite certain that the wax moulds were made upon human limbs which were dematerialised afterwards". Walter's finger-prints were taken on the dentist's wax to have their permanent record.

FOR JUNE 1959

[This study is not intended as a tip for investors to follow. The writers have arrived at certain conclusions regarding Cotton, Commodities, etc., etc., mainly based on planetary influences. Those who act on this information will be doing so at their own risk.—Ed., A.M.].

Astrological Section

WHAT is given this time to the readers of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE will prove a boon to those interested in cotton trade. Let me announce from the very beginning that you can make hay by selling cotton forward. There is no saving grace for this trade in the month of June. Each and every planet contributes his strength to bring about the fall in cotton values. That does not mean that it is a crash but there is no other commodity except cotton where bears will have a comfortable time by selling forward and reaping handsome profits.

Upto 7th of the month, the fall will be gradual and slow; the 9th and 10th, there are very good chances for the market to revive a little but from the 11th onwards it is a tale of unending fall.

The vedhas between Sani and Kethu as well as between Saturn and Venus end on the third June. Between the third and eleventh the skies are free from any vedhas except the very natural one between Rahu and Kethu. The latter one supports the market to some extent and prevents the market from taking a headlong turn. After the eleventh, there are vedhas between Mercury and Kethu, Mercury and Rahu, Sun and Kethu and Sun and Rahu and finally between Mercury and Saturn. It is significant to note that the vedha of Rahu and Kethu is formed at the same time and simultaneously with one and the same planet in two cases, the first one being Mercury and the second being Sun.

Further, the passage of Jupiter through Visakha of Venus through Pushya and Aslesha and especially the latter and of Mercury through Aridra and Punarvasu is not very auspicious for cotton trade. I therefore would suggest the speculative-minded readers to have a fling in this white coloured commodity. The following days will be particularly suitable for those who are interested in applying Mandi option:—15, 23, 28 June. Of course, the bearing trade does not end in June but continues on into the following month.

To sum up, the beginning of the month will witness a gradual withdrawal of bulls from cotton market. To fool the unwary speculating public, there will be an attempt on the part of such operators to pull up the cotton prices but thereafter it is a question of continual recession without any appreciable reaction.

Economic Section

We are having a merry round with printing of currency notes. The note issue which was in the vicinity of 1,600 crores has now raced upto nearly 1,700 crores. Further it has so happened in the months during which usually large amounts accrue to the treasury by way of tax gathering. Therefore the speed and extent of the increase in note circulation at the end of the year could be very well visualised by the public.

The budget speech disclosed that the rise in prices was up by nearly 12% during the year. The Government calls it a modest rise—this has occurred without a corresponding rise in the incomes of people; in many cases it has been accompanied by a reduction in the money incomes of many classes of people because the overtime earnings are a matter of the past. Moreover, the prices of raw materials have fallen in foreign countries from which no imports are allowed. It has been dinned daily into our ears that exports to foreign countries have suffered a check. It has been difficult for the official mind to realise that nothing else can happen if the printing of notes is allowed without any checks in the rate of productivity.

In the previous series of these columns, it has been pointed out that exports in the end will have to be effected by a subsidy at the expense of tax-payers in this country. It is now occurring today because the essence of all schemes that have been evolved for increasing our exports is the same in one form or other. The authorities are ready to allow a reduction in freight rates (clearly a differential treatment to a class of people, the validity of which according to our constitution needs really to be tested in the courts of law); the scheme to allow units of industry which are able to export their wares, to import raw materials from foreign countries (once again a differential treatment giving such units two advantages one of cheaper source of raw materials and the second one being in the shape of the privilege of entering into a trade in which they were unknown to the direct disadvantage of classes of people who were long known to the foreign markets) has the same meaning.

In cases of direct subsidy as it happened in the case of Tatas during the thirties, the public always knew what they paid to the industry but the schemes which have now been evolved are meant to throw dust in the eyes of tax-payers since they will never be able to discover it.

From time to time, the Government has been giving details of smuggling cases caught by the customs authorities. Today in big towns, the shops are full with goods manufactured in foreign countries. One never knows how these novelties and articles of imitation jewellery are sold so openly. Does it not lie within the power of the Government to inquire as to how such materials reached the hands of those shopkeepers? The public must demand such an enquiry. Today many units of engineering industries are obtaining from the authorities imported steel articles at specially cheap rates. These flow at the next stage to the black-market. Next, the great necessity of checking the need for goods which are imported under a special license is apparent for more often than not, those goods are placed on the free disposal list so that the importers are able to command in many cases two to three hundred percent profits.

At present, a lot of money in India is being spent on armaments; the usual argument of U.S.A. aid to Pakistan is used as a parent cry. Recently on the floor of the legislature, there was a lot of protest about the British naval base in Maldive islands; but we are deliberately closing our eyes to the happenings in Tibet. There is no community less prone to take up a fight than Tibetans. For centuries they have stayed on the roof of the world without causing annoyance to their neighbours. Nor are they accessible to any military power. Yet the Chinese steam roller is crushing them with artillery and bombs. The foundations of yellow imperialism are clearly laid. The idiom of "Chinese torture" is on the lips of the world as a term implying inhuman treatment for its victims. We are the silent spectators of its revival.

Our present day rulers were very eloquent supporters of the League of Nations in the days before the last war. They held meetings and took out processions as a protest against Japan when Shanghai was bombarded and Manchuria was invaded; when Italy invaded Abyssinia, we preached the boycott of Italian goods and when Hitler came to power, we eloquently talked about the equality of races but now when an innocent unarmed ethnic group is rooted out of existence, our great moral principles do not lead us to utter an inaudible protest. Whatever one may say now, we have deliberately sided with Chinese imperialism in Korea and Viet-Nam, and now in Tibet, the graves of out freedom are being dug. The signs of such times are clearly indicated in the Chinese official maps and more emphatically in the Chinese action of occupatioa of a part of our border territory in Uttar Pradesh.

Pakistan has wisely safeguarded itself against the Chinese steam-roller by its military pact with the U.S.A.; such an opportunity is within our grasp but at present, Delhi breeds ostriches and no statesmen. It is now upto the elder statesmen of the day to bring about as much political pressure as possible on the present day policy makers. Political isolation did not pay in times of great conflicts—it will not pay us now. Our moral principles are good enough against a civilised nation having some scruples about using violence. The protests of the affliction, in actuality they too have suffered as the lord of house in which they are posited, is himself afflicted The so-called sookshama parivarthana which is caused between Sun and Venus (for they are in exchange of constellations) has failed to exert any benefic influence as this has occurred in the house of an enemy. Besides the house afflicted has come between Sun and Moon, and thus causing adverse effect on circulation. The disease made appearance in the last part of Mercury Dasa, and both scrotum and genital organ became involved. It got worse by the end of Kethu Dasa when he had to submit himself for an extensive operation on both parts. He has no children. Note 5th house affliction and his married life was also not good. Sun in 7th from Lagna is indicative of some sort of operation. But this cannot be held good in all such cases. He was operated at the dasa chidra of Kethu. Note Kethu is in Bharani a constellation of Venus. And Venus has a great part in this disease. Besides the affliction of Venus has occurred in 7th house. Thus we can see that in elephantiasis of any part both Mercury and Venus must suffer and the afflicting planet be the dry planet Saturn.

Here is one more case (No. 5) born on 24th October 1920 at 6-40 p.m. (Lat. 12·53 N. and Long. 74-50 E.) of scrotal elephantiasis. The size is that of a football, causing great inconvenience to the native. Besides he lead a debaucherous life and was a victim of syphilis also, at the age of twenty. The disease made appearance from about the middle of Mercury Dasa. Partly due to his negligence and partly for the fact that no radical cure has yet been found for the disease, the size went on increasing to the present size. From looking at the horoscope you would find Saturn away from Venus and Saturn, as such the combination is not present. But if you closely examine the chart you will find that both Venus and Mercury are in Anuradha a constellation of Saturn. Further Sun lord of blood circulation is not only neecha, he has suffered the affliction of Rahu in addition, a very unfortunate point in the horoscope. And Saturn is occupying the sign of Sun. Thus you will see that all the factors responsible for this disease are present. Thus I have come to the conclusion that to produce this disease both Venus and Mercury should suffer at the hands of Saturn. And the limitation of the disease, of course, depends upon the luni-solar distances and affliction of Sun mainly. In this case also the affliction has occurred in the 8th house, as such, scrotal disease.

The above are some important facts of this disease, so far neglected, now presented before you. Though I could see hundreds of persons suffering from the disease, I was helpless, as most of them did not have any birth data. With great difficulty and search I could collect 20 horoscopes of persons suffering from elephantiasis, and I have picked up just five cases which are typical to illustrate my findings. I leave the matter at that for further investigations and confirmation of my findings by intelligent readers.

I should acknowledge with thanks the encouragement from Prof. B. V. Raman. I have no doubt his efforts to give a status to this ancient science will one day bear fruit and that one day it will be made a national subject of study in colleges.

whole world did not prevent a Hitler from inflicting untold cruelties on the helpless Jews; more recently, such protests did not save the Hungarians from the most cruel bombardment and Siberian liquidation; further the world has not yet heard of the political and economic conditions in North-Korea and Viet-Nam. Let not the conditions reach such a stage that the flames of moral principles become totally extinct in the rarer atmosphere of the world.

During the month under review both Jupiter and Saturn are throughout retrograde. Saturn transits Moola in Dhanus and Jupiter in Vishakha in Scorpio upto 22nd and thereafter once again in Thula. Nakshatra Vishakha, though is owned by Jupiter, this has warlike tendencies. The positions of these major planets indicate, along with the transit of Mars through Cancer, disturbed political atmosphere, labour troubles and consequent handicap in industries.

At the time of writing these notes stock market is more or less at the top levels. May be traders and trading community, or investors be in a better position, but the condition of masses has not improved. Everybody has to face rising cost of living.

Coming to the trade pattern as envisaged by the cosmic factors during the particular month under review, we will have to study the solar ingress charts and New Moon chart of 6th June.

Solar Ingress Charts of 15th May and 15th June

If gochana transits are studied in relation with Taurus solar ingress chart provided in the last report, it may be safely stated that till 11th June till such time Saturn and Venus, and Saturn and Mars shadashtaka aspect takes place, commodities in general would remain weak; or will witness occasional selling pressure, though the Sankranti chart indicates bullish conditions. Gemini solar ingress chart is given below. After studying it properly one would find that 2nd house is afflicted by Mars. Moon the 2nd lord is in association with Rahu and in square aspect with Saturn. Sun and Saturn opposition also takes place on 26th June. These factors denote bearish conditions. But Sun-Saturn opposition sometimes produces contrary results. One can say definitely only one thing; that from 15th till 26th will be a period depicting one trend, while the trend in the other half from 27th June onwards will be divergent, i.e., from bearish to bullish and vice versa. To judge alone from Sankranti chart, I divide the period of the month as under: 1st to 11th bearish; 12th to 15th rise; 16th to 26th bearish and from 27th to 30th rise. This in general would be the period of rise and fall in all commodity sections, and these periods will have to be modified according to indications for individual sections.

New Moon Chart of 6th June 1959

I give below this chart. Positions of Mars and Venus, two kendra lords are good, as also the positions of Sun and Mercury in the initial stages upto 15th are good. Though Mars in Cancer is taken to represent bearishness, the relation of this planet with Venus, and the navamsa positions of Saturn and Rahu, it appears that stock exchanges would witness boom. Follow in stock exchanges teji throughout the month.

Cotton and Allied Products.—Martian transit in Cancer in Ashlesha from 17th cannot be taken to indicate bullish sentiments. The transit in Pushya upto 16th June is not weak. Venus in the initial stages transits Punarvasu one of the cotton nakshatras. The transit is bearish, but the vedha of Saturn is a factor that would keep up prices rising. Transit in Pushya is in association with Mars representing bullish sentiments. Transit in Ashlesha from 16th June till end of the month is again bearish. Mercury the trader and the third ruler of this section in the initial stage upto 8th June is weak. From 9th his entry in Gemini and transit in Aridra is denoting teji conditions. In short this section would be both sided. 1st to 8th bearish in general, 9th to 18th rise, 19th to 26th bothways wide fluctuations, and rise from 27th till end of the month.

Oilseeds and Oils.—Mars indicates latter half is bearish. Saturn by retrogression and transitting Moola is also weak. This section due to lack of export demand will remain subdued and it would be worthwhile following mandi in this section. 1st to 8th mandi, 9th to 11th bothways, 12th to 17th rise, 18th to 26th bearish, and 27th till end steady. Sarson prices would witness rise especially between 11th evening till 18th.

Metals and Bullions.—Sun transits in Mrigasira and Rohini upto 22nd. Martian transit in Pushya, and Mars-Venus conjunction and the relations between Mars and Jupiter being good, bullion prices will record further rise till 16th June. From 17th to 22nd prices would remain steady, but under check and from 23rd till end, downward trend.

Chemicals and Salts.—Good rise is anticipated in these sections.

Foodgrains.—As was hinted by me in my annual return, Government has rightly taken the step of taking over control through the State Trading Corporation. Before the entry of Jupiter in Dhanus this step would come to stay on proper footing.

Sugar and Gud.—Kethu's entry in Uttarabhadrapada on 3rd June would perhaps put an end to the trading in this section, especially sugar, but Gud prices would witness buoyant conditions.

Stocks and Shares.—Right from 2nd June evening, start picking up stocks and shares and this section is expected to witness boom conditions during the whole month. Reactionary dates appear to be 12th, 18th, 22nd and 25th.

New Moon (Amavasya Yoga) falls on 6-6-1959 Saturday and in Rohini. Dwitiya falls on 8-6-1959 Monday in Aridra nakshatra. On this very day Mercury enters its own sign Gemini, and rises heliacally on 13-6-1959

Saturday. Nirayana solar ingress into Gemini takes place on 15-6-1959 Monday, while Moon transits through Hasta at 8-12 a.m. (I.S.T.), Vyatipata Yoga is in current this day till 4-48 p.m. (I.S.T.) Jyeshta lunar month begins on Sunday and there are five Sundays and Mondays during this month. Full Moon day takes place on Saturday in its proper lunar constellation Jyeshta. Sun enters in watery constellation Aridra on 22-6-1959 at 7-52 a.m. (I.S.T.) and the rainy season in the eastern hemisphere generally commences from this day. On this very day Jupiter retrogrades into Libra at 11-30 a.m. (I.S.T.) Mercury enters watery sign Cancer on 24-6-1959 and Venus gets out of this watery sign, to enter into fiery sign Leo on 30-6-1959 at 9-3 p.m. (I.S.T.) Lunar Jyeshta month Amavasya is duplicated with duplicated lunar constellation Aridra on Sunday 5th July 1959 and Monday 6th July 1959.

Grishma Ritu ruled by Sun and Mars will terminate on 22nd June 1959 and rainy season (Varsha Ritu) ruled by Moon will begin from this date. Lunar Jyeshta month is ruled by Saturn, and this planet is in Moola constellation and Sagittarius sign in retrograde motion. Moola constellation belongs to watery group. Heavy gusts on rains accompanied with high speed wind and lightning flashes in western and eastern directions. Jupiter and Saturn are in watery navamsa Cancer till 22nd June 1959, when Jupiter retrogrades into Geminian navamsa of Visakha constellation. Saturn will retrograde in this navamsa, but, of different constellation Moola on 2-7-1959. This phenomenon is presumed to prove obstructive for the rainy season during the following month.

From political point of view this month will be very critical as Mars—the war lord—is transitting through Pushya constellation ruling Hastinapura and Ashlesha, the birth constellation of our illustrious Prime Minister. Mars is proceeding for conjunction with Herschel, the planet given to democracy of the current times. Mars is in unfavourable angle with Mercury, Herschel and Neptune. This asks us to pin up our attention on Srinagar, Rangoon, Karachi, Lahore, London, Washington and New Delhi. Some uneasiness is anticipated for the heads who wear the thorny crown of administration. A web of international spying activities is most likely to be unearthed with regard to taking life of V.I.P. of Kashmere, Bharat, Burma and Tibet. This month will prove very catastrophical one for Siam, Malaya, Archipelago and Japan. Severe type of earthquake is brewing nearby Manila, George Town, Rangoon, Tokyo and Bangkok.

Jupiter's retrogesssion into Cancer navamsa of Visakha on 23rd May 1959 and Mars entry into Pushya on 26th May 1959 will prove to be opening dates for very very important events in the history of the world. On account of Jupiter's transit through Libra sign and Visakha constellation during 1958 A.D.'s ending part, Australia's wheat production saw a new level, and her stocks got congested till first quarter of 1959 A.D. India has record production this year in sugar, wheat, rice and seeds. But, alas! to say the masses in India could not get sweet oil at cheaper rates. Planets did indicate heavy rises in prices of oils and seeds. The mundane administrative organs could do nothing to stop this spiral spring before 6-1-1959. On this day the bulls took heavy toll from Bears: Bulls squared up their businesses and thereafter on 7—1—1959, the Forward Market Commission woke up from deep slumber and applied margin restrictions in seeds and oils forward transactions. Bulls outwitted again these injunctions and seeds and oil forward prices rose to new levels during March 1959. This clearly proves the sterling effects of the planetary combinations in the heavens

Mars in transit through the Cancer sign—its house of fall. Malefic planets Sun, Rahu, Kethu form mutual vedhas from Aridra, Hasta, Uttarabhadrapada constellations. This means unexpected turn in trend of markets, and accompaniment martian transit through Pushya and Aslesha swift waves of rises and falls in bullions, wheat, sugar, jaggery, oilseeds, oil, salt, rice, sandalwood, ginger, chillies markets. Speculation will be very rife and the governmental curbs thereon would ruin a small speculator, desiring to increase his side income by side business. I appeal to such elements to remain very cautious.

In the New Moon chart of 6-6-1959, Jupiter is rising at New Delhi, Srinagar and Karachi. But Amavasya falls on the cusp of the 8th house along with Mercury and is in shadastaka with Jupiter. Further Mercury and Mars are in semisquare. Mercury and Herschel are as well in semisquare. The latter major malefic planets in transitting through the birth constellation Aslesha of our Prime Minister. So Indian Prime Minister's health and his foreign policy will have to cross over a curiously darkened horizon in the local and the international problems.

From 12th June 1959, retrograde Jupiter enters in the commencing degree of Scorpio, i.e., Cancer navamsa of its own constellation Visakha of 45 Muhurthas. This is anticipated to cause a single-sided market trend till 21st and it will be of a bearish nature. From now onwards there will be speedy recoveries as well. Under the planetary positions, June 1959 can be divided into three positions: 1st to 12th bullish. But during this bullish period, one should clear out of bullish side and sell for profits: between 13th and 21st bearishness will be looming forth in most of the forward markets due to setting of timely rainy season, Government interference to check bull's manipulation in optional markets and political vagaries. Again, all markets would rebound with double vigour during the last ten days.

New York Stocks and Shares.—It is practically a bearish month as the ascendant is closetted between retrograde Saturn and retrograde Jupiter. During the first week it is advisable to clear stocks. Buy during 2nd week's beginning and take profits at the end of the same week. 3rd week will be reactionary on account of political opinions likely to vary with England and France as regards Germany and the East. 4th week will be unfavourable for the health of the President.

London Stocks and Shares—New Moon occurs on the mid-heaven and Mars and Mercury are in semisquare. Differences of opinion would become wider between India and Pakistan. British production will either suffer, or her stocks will be piling up creating a financial tangle. Labour strikes will as well disturb the progress of trade and shipping concerns. It is a bearish month.

Indian Stocks.—Mars is heading for conjunction with Herschel and Mercury comes in semisquare to Herschel. Sun and Venus as well comes in semisquare. Samyukta Maharastra movement, it seems would gain grounds and some strikes—hartals are most probable in Bombay and Ahmedabad, affecting the morale of the speculators. Transit of Mars through Pushya has greatest concern over Ahmedabad and Delhi, it being the birth constellation of these two most important towns. Death of some spectacular personality seems to be most imminent to cause a windfall shock in stocks and shares. During the first week, it is thus profitable to sell stocks at higher rates and re-enter shares and stock market by 21st.

[The following forecasts based on Janma Rasi are general and as such those having favourable aspects according to present Dasa and Bhukthi, will have favourable results from the indications made below; while those having adverse aspects according to current directions will experience these predictions to a lesser proportion. The predictions given below are based not upon conjecture, but upon a clear interpretation of the movements or transits of planets. If you do not know your Janma Rasi write to Mihira, C/o THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope.—Ed., A.M.].

MAJOR TRANSITS.—Sun transits Taurus till 13th, then enters Gemini. Mercury remains in Taurus only till 7th on which date he enters Gemini which he transits till 23rd, then passes on to Cancer. Venus is in Cancer practically for the entire month. Mars, Jupiter and Saturn remain in Cancer, Scorpio and Sagittarius for the entire month. Rahu and Kethu continue their retrograde motion in Virgo and Pisces respectively.

1. Mesha (Aries).—Sun in 2nd and 3rd; Mercury in 2nd, 3rd and 4th; Venus and Mars in 4th; Rahu in 6th; Jupiter in 8th; Saturn in 9th; and Kethu in 12th.

General.—Venus is the only planet in a favourable sign for the entire month and he is free of check. Sun is good for the second half, also free of vedha. Mercury is unfavourable except for the last week and he is under check for the greater part of the month. The major planets Mars, Jupiter and Saturn are evil for the entire month. Of this, Saturn is under check throughout while Mars is inhibited for the 2nd and 3rd weeks only whereas Jupiter is free all along. Therefore the prospects for the month cannot be said to be at all encouraging in general and presents a mixed pattern in which the evil element is undoubtedly in preponderance. But it is to be expected that the second half will fare somewhat better than the first. Some success, domestic comforts, good friends, happiness, pleasure trips and excursions, good news, etc., are the likely favourable occurrences for the second half. During the first half, however, losses, worries, quarrels, health troubles, troubles through rivals and enemies, disgrace and dishonour, tiresome journeys, fruitless enterprises, etc., are the likely results. Of the three stars of the sign, those born under Bharani will fare best and suffer least, next come those born under Krittika and those born under Aswini rank last.

Health and Domestic.—Health will no doubt suffer to some extent. Stomach troubles are the most probable and may, if not careful, lead to diarrhoea and dysentery. In the case of a few, an attack of fever is probable. The liability to accidents during journeys should not be forgotten. But no serious illness or accidents need be feared. But mental troubles and sorrows may be acute consequent on receipt of bad news, relating to the demise of some near friend or relative. Domestic harmony will prevail for the greater part of the month.

Finance and Speculation.—Though there may be some financial worries during the first half, the month as a whole is not bad for finance. Opportunities may arise during the month for improving your financial position. Circumstances may also make you lose amounts through carelessness, excessive generosity or through fraud. In some cases no amount of care or caution may enable you to avoid these. Therefore it will be all the more necessary not to start new enterprises or schemes and also refrain entirely from speculative activities.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—Unexpected occurrences not necessarily evil may create a necessity for reorientation of your policy in relation to your holdings. The month is also good for yield and rentals and initiating new schemes to increase your yield and rentals and the introduction of modern scientific methods in your cultivation operations. The month may also witness some additions to your existing holdings on terms advantageous to yourself. All the same, considerable care and caution should be exercised in all matters during the first half which is less favourable generally. The services cannot be said to be at all favoured this month as they may experience difficulties in a variety of ways and some impediment or other may be encountered often in the working of routine matters even. But these will be minor only and will not stand in the way of your ultimate success, and you should see that so far as you are concerned, there is not even a small detail left incomplete. While experiencing vicissitudes of all sorts, the profession and business will not be denied their average measure of profits or income. This month is not generally suitable for new ventures.

Women.—So far as the female sex is concerned, this month may be characterised as one of peace-making. This month is favourable for restoration of severed relationships, be it as between friends, or lovers, or even among married couples who have been living apart. The month is ideal for courtships and love affairs, picnics and pleasurable activities, and pleasant social contacts. Of course, this does not mean that the whole month will be like that, and it will be worthwhile to make note of the favourable and critical dates listed below.

Fortunate Dates.—Health and domestic matters, personal interviews—5, 15, 19, 28; financial ventures—5, 10, 15, 19, 29; short journeys—6, 12, 17, 27; long journeys—9, 14, 18, 22, 26; real property matters, academical activities, interviews—5, 12, 15, 18, 19, 30; speculation, courtship, excursions, etc.—11, 17, 25, 30; service affairs—3, 6, 12, 17, 27; partnership matters, dealings with opposite sex—5, 10, 15, 19, 29; insurance activities—5, 15, 19, 28; professional and business enterprises—3, 12, 17, 25, 30.

Critical Dates.—Health and domestic matters, interviews—2, 6, 10, 17, 20, 23; financial ventures—2, 17, 20, 24, 27; short journeys—2, 8, 13, 26, 30; long journeys—4, 12, 24; real property matters, academical activities, interviews—2, 8, 17, 23, 26; courtships and love affairs, speculation, excursions, etc.—6, 14, 17, 20, 29; service affairs and prospects—2, 5, 8, 13, 26, 30; partnership matters, dealings with opposite sex in general—2, 17, 20, 24, 27; insurance activities—2, 6, 10, 17, 20, 23; professional and business enterprises—4, 12, 24.

Chandrashtama from about noon of 18th till past noon of 20th.

2. Vrishabha (Taurus).—Sun in 1st and 2nd; Mercury in 1st, 2nd and 3rd; Venus and Mars in 3rd; Rahu in 5th; Jupiter in 7th; Saturn in 8th; and Kethu in 11th.

General.—Venus, Mars and Jupiter are good for the entire month. Of these, Jupiter is under check throughout and Venus for the first half, while Mars is free. Sun, Mercury and Saturn are evil throughout. Of these, Saturn is under check all along and Sun and Mercury too suffer check though not for the whole month. The good and bad influences for the month would appear almost to cancel each other out, though Mars in 3rd and unchecked is a dependable influence on the favourable side which will give general success, a fair measure of happiness and prosperity, gains, luxuries, etc. Increased influence and position, honour, good friends, etc., are also due. The evil transits are mostly powerless and may give rise to obstacles and setbacks, delays, anxieties and apprehensions, health troubles, quarrels and misunderstandings, various difficulties caused through relatives, low friendships, losses, etc. In a month of mostly mixed results, the good side may be seen to be slightly predominant. Of the three stars of the sign, those born under Krittika and Mrigasira will fare somewhat better than those born under Rohini.

Health and Domestic.—Good health will be the rule rather than the exception this month. Still persons subject to such disorders as blood pressure, heart pain, asthma, eye troubles will do well to exercise some care and adopt precautionary measures against a recurrence of such attacks. The domestic circle will be quite harmonious and peaceful and a period of domestic happiness will be experienced. But things may not be the same outside the domestic circle where it is almost certain that you will be troubled by your relatives who may cause much anxiety, apprehension and acute misunderstandings.

Finance and Speculation.—The month is not so favourable for finance as one may be led to expect. Expectations will not be realised to the full and there may be disappointments and setbacks also. Losses through relatives are liable to occur. None of the above need be considered as serious handicaps for success and with due care and caution, it will be quite feasible to avoid them. It will be better all the same not to launch out into risky ventures and totally avoid speculative transactions.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—On no account, this month can be said to be favourable for landlords and landholders who will have to contend with various difficulties during the month and may have even to face hardships of an exceptional and unprecedented nature. Relations with tenants, agents, etc., may become strained and the management of your estate and the realisation of rentals may become more and more difficult as the month advances. It will be unwise to try to force things as the chances are that you may not only prove not successful but the consequence may be far-reaching and affect future prospects also. The services are generally favoured though no undue expectations may be built upon the favourable transits. The actual realisation will always fall short of your expectations. But those who have good directional influences as well may succeed in getting substantial preferment. While the business and profession may be expected to do well during the month, it should be noted as well that there will be ups and downs, though the general trend will be upward.

Women.—The first half of the month cannot be said to be good for the interests of the fair sex as such because of a liability to suffer from emotional disappointments of an acute nature and it may occur in any field pertaining to their activities, may be in social spheres in the matter of friendship or in courtship or love affairs. But all this is confined to the first half only and the second half and Archipelago islands, severe shock of earthquake is brewing. It would be favourable to insure stocks against any type of calamitous times during this month. Danger becomes conspicuous between 21st and 26th. The first and last weeks are of progressive rates.

Black Pepper.—First week is bullish, 2nd and 3rd are steady to dull and last one bullish due to greater demand and shortage of stocks.

Oilseeds and Oils.—It is a strong bullish month for this section, barring some sudden decline between 13th and 21st on account of administrative measures to be taken by either the Forward Market Commission or the Government. But traders and speculators will outwit such sort of actions on account of heavy demand during last 10 days. Some heavy declines are plausible to be followed by similar good recoveries. Sarsoo, tilli, groundnuts, castor-seeds, linseed and all such seeds including cocoanut oil are included in this section.

Cotton Markets.—It is a very reactionary month having double-sided fluctuations of Rs. 25 or 30 (or more) on each side. Vedha between Mercury and Rahu between 11th and 21st accompanied with Jupiter-Saturn conjunction in Cancer navamsa is expected to cause a good fall; and separation of these elements would cause a rebound especially in cotton prices. Still however, it is not to forget the climatic conditions of rainy season during last 10 days.

Jute Section.—Month opens with a strong bullish tone, but will undergo a sudden change on account of Pakistani movements on the eastern border. Stocks seems to suffer congestion and negative demand between 10th and 18th. It is advisable to enter here for purchases as foreign demand is imminent to appear.

Bullions.—It is a very topsy-turvy month for this section. A fall of Rs. 10 and similar rise is anticipated during this month on account of martian movements through Cancer sign in company with Venus and Herschel. It would be paying to sell short for chokers in the highest rates between 1st and 6th. From 11th to 21st pretty good bearish period will be current for silver prices especially and gold prices will follow it to some extent. It is a time to mint money during a short period according to my understand of the planetary positions. Market will be on recovery side during the ending decade of this month.

Grains.—It is a bullish market period unless Government has taken over the supply machinery in the hands. Much of the stocks will find their way through black-market traffic on both sides. Some good notable smugglers would be trapped in by the administrative organs. The masses would not get foodstuffs and cereals smoothly during this month in industrial areas.

Sugar and Jaggery.—Some good fall is anticipated for a temporary time between 11th and 21st; otherwise, it is practically a bullish month.

Chemicals.—This section would rule very strong. It is advisable to buy more if any temporary decline is witnessed between 11th and 21st due to the Government actions in other sections.

It is said thus as regards the retrogression of Jupiter:—When Jupiter retrogrades in the end of the sign, it definitely creates bullish markets around. During this month Jupiter retrogrades into the last degrees of Libra from 22nd.

may be as favourable as the former was bad when they can look forward to success in all such activities and gain the support of all those who were till then unsympathetic or adverse to their cause.

Fortunate Dates.—Family and domestic matters—5, 10, 15, 19, 29; financial ventures—6, 12, 17, 27; short journeys—1, 5, 12, 19, 28; long journeys—3, 12, 17, 25, 30; real property matters, academical activities, tests—1, 3, 5, 11, 16, 25, 30; speculations, children's affairs, courtship and love affairs, excursions, etc. —6, 12, 17, 27; service affairs—5, 10, 15, 19, 29; partnership, dealings with opposite sex in general—5, 15, 19, 28; insurance activities—2, 9, 14, 18, 22, 26; professional and business enterprises—3, 12, 17, 25, 30.

Critical Dates.—Family and domestic matters, interviews, health matters in general—2, 14, 17, 20, 27; financial enterprises—2, 5, 11, 13, 22, 30; short journeys—2, 8, 14, 20, 23, 27; long journeys—4, 8, 11, 15, 21, 27; real property affairs, academical activities, interviews—6, 14, 20, 24, 27; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, excursions, courtship and love affairs—2, 5, 11, 13, 22; service affairs and prospects—2, 14, 17, 20, 27; partnership affairs, dealings with opposite sex in general—2, 6, 10, 17, 20, 23; insurance activities—1, 4, 12, 21, 24, 28; professional and business enterprises—4, 8, 11, 15, 21, 27.

Chandrashtama from about noon of 20th till past noon of 22nd.

3. Mithuna (Gemini).—Venus and Mars in 2nd; Rahu in 4th; Jupiter in 6th; Saturn in 7th; Kethu in 10th; Sun in 12th and 1st; and Mercury in 12th, 1st and 2nd.

General.—But for Venus, it has to be said that there is no single planet who is in a favourable sign for the month, not even for part of the month. Venus is not much of a transit influence either for good or for bad, but even this solitary planet is inhibited by check throughout. The inference follows that there is practically no good transit for the month. This unenviable position is somewhat relieved by the fact that two of the principal malefics who are also evil for the month, namely Mars and Saturn are held up by check and Mercury too for part of the month, Jupiter being the only planet both evil and free of vedha for the entire month. Misunderstandings with friends and relatives, losses, sorrows, obstacles, tiresome and tedious travels, health troubles, jealousies and anxieties, troubles from rivals and enemies, fear of humiliation, difficulties caused by the evil advice of wicked people or designing persons, unjust blame, fruitless enterprises, etc., are the probable results that are likely to flow from the evil transits. Of the three stars of the sign, those born under Mrigasira and Punarvasu will fare much better than those born under the asterism of Ardra.

Health and Domestic.—Health will be affected adversely. Fever, stomach troubles, high blood pressure, asthmatic respiratory ailments will be the forms of affliction according to constitutional predisposition. More than the body it is the mind that will suffer from various apprehensions, anxieties, jealousies and irritation, and possibly disgrace. In addition, domestic unhappiness, quarrels and disputes inside and outside the domestic circle with friends and relatives will render the month miserable throughout though not very much because of Venus in 2nd house.

Finance and Speculation.—Conflicting trends will be witnessed in the financial sphere which will be active throughout the month. Gains at one time will be offset by losses at another time. Some enterprises may be attended with success and others may prove a failure. But by the exercise of considerable care and caution, it may be possible to avert the failures and achieve some measure of success with the help of the favourable transits. With this uncertainty as regards the success of ordinary enterprises, success in speculative dealings and transaction appears remote, and well-nigh impossible.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—Landlords and landholders are liable to suffer much this month because of various factors operating against their interests. Yield and rentals will be adversely affected. Pests may have to be controlled before the menace becomes formidable. There may arise troubles with tenants and neighbouring owners. Unforeseen factors may emerge to complicate things further. Co-operation will be lacking even from those whom you may count as being perfectly reliable. Your mind will become gloomy and apprehensive as regards the future prospects. It is only in the case of the services that it may be expected that the adverse transits will touch them lightly though no positive good is likely to materialise. Continual vigilance may be necessary to avoid unwise or rash actions that may have far-reaching consequences. Extra care will be required in dealings with superiors, servants, interviews, as there is a probability that through lack of tact you may alienate the sympathies of those who may be inclined to view your claims favourably. Professional and business pursuits may however progress fairly satisfactorily throughout the month with but occasional setbacks.

Women.—The interests of the fair sex as such cannot but be also adversely affected generally and the likelihood of their suffering by being imposed upon by the opposite sex is all the greater this month. Awkward situations may too readily arise involving the other sex and they are prone to suffer in prestige and in other ways during the month if they let their emotions run away with them. If care and prudence is bestowed in all such matters, they can experience a smooth-running month in which they may be able to order everything to suit their convenience and satisfaction.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and domestic matters, health matters in general—3, 6, 12, 17, 22, 27; financial ventures, etc.—3, 5, 6, 10, 13, 15, 17, 27; short journeys—2, 3, 6, 11, 16, 22, 25, 30; long journeys—3, 12, 17, 25; real property matters, academical activities, tests—3, 6, 12, 17, 22, 27; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, courtship and love affairs, excursions, etc.—5, 10, 15, 19, 29; service affairs—5, 15, 19, 28; partnership activities and business, dealings with opposite sex in general—2, 9, 14, 18, 22, 26; insurance activities—3, 12, 17, 25; professional and business enterprises—2, 9, 14, 18, 22, 26.

Critical Dates.—Personal and domestic matters, health matters in general —2, 5, 8, 13, 15, 23, 30; financial ventures—2, 6, 14, 17, 23; short journeys—6, 10, 14, 20, 27; long journeys —4, 8, 15, 21, 27; real property affairs, academical activities, interviews, etc.—2, 5, 8, 13, 15, 23, 30; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, excursions, courtship and love affairs—2, 6, 17, 24; service affairs—2, 6, 10, 17, 23, 27; partnership business and activities, dealings with opposite sex in general—1, 4, 12, 24, 28; insurance activities—4, 8, 15, 21, 27; professional and business enterprises—1, 4, 12, 24, 28.

Chandrashtama from about noon of 22nd till about sunset of 24th.

4. Kataka (Cancer).—Venus and Mars in 1st; Rahu in 3rd; Jupiter in 5th; Saturn in 6th; Kethu in 9th; Sun in 11th and 12th; and Mercury in 11th, 12th and 1st.

General.—Venus, Jupiter and Saturn are good for the entire month, Sun for the first half and Mercury for the first week. Venus and Jupiter, the two great benefics are absolutely free of vedha throughout and Mercury too so long as he is in a favourable sign. Sun is also under check so long as he is good that is for the first half and Saturn from the middle part of the month. Mars is the only planet evil for the entire month and he is checked all along. Thus the only unchecked evil influences for the month are Sun for the second half and Mercury from 2nd week onwards. The general effects for the month can therefore be expected to be quite good and the first half will be even better than the second Gradual success, realisation of your objects of desire, gains, friends among highly placed persons, happiness and prosperity, auspicious functions and celebrations, enjoyment of luxuries, educational and academical successes, triumph over rivals and enemies, etc., are the likely results of the good transits. Sorrows, quarrels with friends and relatives, troubles through women, obstacles in undertakings, health troubles, heavy expenditure, are the sort of evil results that may happen especially during the second half. Of the three stars of the sign, those born under Aslesha will undoubtedly fare best, next come those born under Punarvasu and last come those born under Pushya.

Health and Domestic.—Health for the month will be good except for some minor troubles during the second half such as bronchial effects and disorder of blood, bile and heat. Those who are not chronically subject to such things may not fear anything, but such as are accustomed to such, should be careful in diet and general habits. Harmony will prevail at home and in social circles though during the second half some difficulties are liable to be caused by evil minded relatives or friends, On the whole, a trouble-free month.

Finance and Speculation.— As in all other matters, the first half will be better than the second. There will be increased gains and general prosperity will prevail with success attending financial ventures, the first half especially. Friendship and association with affluent persons will bring with it its own advantages. It may so happen that you may have to wield or be entrusted with some new responsibilities in connection with financial matters in the very beginning of the month. Speculation too would appear to be promising and with much care and prudence, it may be possible to secure some success but all such activities should be confined to the first half only.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.— Inspite of the good transits, no substantial benefits are likely to accrue in the case of landlords and landholders and it may prove to be a period of trial and tribulation for them, especially during the second half. It would be difficult to define the nature of the troubles that are likely to beset them but they should be prepared for all eventualities. They will do well to confine themselves to routine matters and not attempt any new enterprises or innovations nor even make fresh investments and acquisitions and await better times. The month is definitely favourable for the services. Favour of superiors, new position and honours or other favourable changes, success in departmental tests, interviews are all probable. You may also succeed in gaining a point or two over your rivals or come out on top in competitive examinations, etc. The month is also favourable for the business and the profession which will rise to high above average levels and bring increased gains, profits and a period of prosperity in general, especially during the first half.

Women.—The month is a good one for the fair sex as well and it is up to them to exploit fully the favourable influences and get the utmost out of them. This month can be utilised for giving parties, attending important functions, acquisition of sartorial luxuries, etc. The month is also good for courtships, love affairs, etc., but not all dates are equally suitable and it may be necessary to exercise more than usual care on the dates marked critical here below.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and domestic matters, dealings with relatives, health matters, etc.—5, 9, 14, 18, 22, 26; financial ventures—3, 6, 11, 16, 25, 30; short journeys—1, 3, 6, 12, 16, 27; long journeys—2, 9, 14, 18, 22, 26; real property affairs, academical activities, interviews—1, 3, 6, 12, 16, 27; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, excursions, love affairs—5, 16, 19, 28; service affairs and prospects—2, 9, 14, 18, 22, 26; partnership business, dealings with opposite sex in general—3, 9, 12, 17, 25, 30; insurance activities—3, 9, 12, 17, 25, 30; professional and business enterprises—5, 16, 19, 28.

Critical Dates.—Personal and domestic matters, health matters—2, 10, 17, 23, 27; financial enterprises—2, 6, 10, 14, 20, 27; short journeys—2, 11, 13, 15, 23, 30; long journeys—1, 4, 12, 24, 28; real property affairs, academical activities, interviews—2, 17, 20, 24, 27; speculation, courtship and love affairs, children's affairs and prospects, excursions—2, 6, 10, 17, 23, 27; service affairs and prospects —1, 4, 12, 24, 28; partnership, dealings with opposite sex—4, 8, 11, 15, 21, 27; insurance, business—4, 8, 11, 15, 21, 27; professional and business enterprises—2, 6, 10, 17, 23, 27.

Chandrashtama from sunset of 24th till about midnight of 26th.

5. Simha (Leo).—Rahu in 2nd; Jupiter in 4th; Saturn in 5th; Kethu in 8th; Sun in 10th and 11th: Mercury in 10th, 11th and 12th; Venus in 12th; and Mars in 12th.

General.—Sun is the only planet who is favourable for the entire half. Even so, he is under check for the first half. Mercury is good for the greater part of the month but good or bad he is under check throughout. Venus in twelfth may also be considered as auspicious for the entire month. Mars, Jupiter and Saturn, the major planets are all evil. But Jupiter and Saturn are under check throughout and Mars for the greater part. So in this tug-of-war between the good and bad transits, the good side wins by a narrow margin and in a month of mixed results the second half will prove to be the better of the two. General success, good friendships and associations with their advantages, gain and enjoyment of articles of luxury, happiness and prosperity, fame, triumph over rivals and enemies, honours, etc., are the good results to be expected of the favourable transits. Increased expenditure, litigation false implications and humiliation, grief through loss of relatives, difficulties caused by rivals and enemies, quarrels, etc., may also result for the evil transits. Of the three asterisms of the sign, those born under Poorvaphalguna and Uttaraphalguna will fare better than those born under Makha who will rank least.

Health and Domestic.— Eye troubles and bilious complaints are what are indicated by the transits but may not appear except in the case of those who are chronic sufferers and also yield quickly under treatment. While travelling, it is better to be careful as otherwise minor accidents may occur. There is nothing special to be mentioned about domestic matters which may run smooth more or less. Yet troubles and anxieties are liable to be caused by relatives outside the domestic circle, some of which may even prove quite upsetting at the time though of no lasting effects.

Finance and Speculation.— Gain of wealth, success in financial enterprises, influx of money from more sources than one can ordinarily be expected though to make a saving will be found to be quite a difficult task as there is more than one transit influence will tend to deplete your resources and always keep wanting for more. In the matter of new enterprises, great care will be necessary to scrutinise carefully proposals brought to you by others who are apparently disinterested persons. There is nothing in the transits of the month to make for success in speculation.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—The month is neither favourable nor unfavourable for real property matters in general. The evil transits in this sphere may cause unwanted litigation, heavy outlay of expenditure, bad investments, etc. The good transits will however be responsible for good yield and rentals and their easy realisation and also for success in new ventures and innovations designed to promote yield by the application of scientific methods of cultivation. But there is a likelihood of some damage to property and some losses in this connection. So in any matter, care and forethought would be absolutely essential especially with regard to combustibles that may be kept stored. This is a fairly good month for the services generally and you may succeed in the realisation of your objectives by your own merits which will attract the attention of your superiors and you may attain new position and honour, even scoring a point of two over your competitors. The profession and business will do fairly well throughout the month and proceed to new levels of achievement and results will be proportionate to ondeavour.

Women.—But this month cannot be said to favour women in regard to matters in which they are interested by reason of their sex. This may easily prove to be a month in which they are on trial and may be called upon to face strange situations, even hardships before they can succeed in whatever activities they are engaged in. They may have to face obstacles and setbacks and undertake new responsibilities each according to the nature of the work, she may be engaged in. A great deal of self-restraint will have to be exercised in many of the situations that may arise during the month.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and domestic matters, interviews, health matters—3, 5, 11, 16, 25, 30; financial ventures, etc.—3, 6, 12, 17, 27; short journeys—5, 10, 15, 19, 29; long journeys—5, 15, 19, 28; real property affairs, academical activities, interviews-5, 15, 19, 28; speculation, love affairs, excursions, children's affairs and prospects—2, 9, 14, 18, 22, 26; service affairs and prospects—3, 12, 17, 25, 30; partnership business, dealings with opposite sex in general—3, 12, 17, 25, 30; insurance activities—2, 9, 14, 18, 22, 26; professional and business enterprises—5, 10, 15, 19, 29.

Critical Dates.—Personal and domestic matters, interviews, health matters in general—2, 6, 14, 20, 27; financial ventures and enterprises—2, 5, 8, 13, 15, 22, 30; short journeys—2, 6, 17, 24, 27; long journeys—2, 6, 10, 17, 23, 27; real property affairs and academical activities, interviews, etc.—2, 6, 10, 17, 23; children's affairs and prospects, speculation, excursion and love affairs, etc.—1, 4, 12, 21, 24, 28; service affairs and prospects—1, 5, 12, 18, 24, 28; partnership matters, dealings with opposite sex in general–1, 5, 12, 18, 24, 28; insurance activities—1, 4, 12, 21, 24, 28; professional and business enterprises—2, 6, 17, 24, 27.

Chandrashtama from the beginning of the month till sunrise of 2nd and again from about midnight of 26th till noon of 29th.

6. Kanya (Virgo).—Rahu in 1st; Jupiter in 3rd; Saturn in 4th; Kethu in 7th; Sun in 9th and 10th; Mercury in 9th, 10th and 11th; and Venus and Mars in 11th.

General.—Venus and Mars are favourable throughout the month though Venus is under check all along. Mercury is good after the first week and partially comes under vedha. Sun is auspicious for the second half and free of vedha. The unfavourable transits are those of Jupiter and Saturn, but Saturn is under check throughout the month. The good and bad elements for the month are more or less equally distributed and therefore the nature of the results for the month will be of a mixed character. But the second half will be distinctly more favourable than otherwise. Gain of money as well as articles of luxury, friendship and help of highly placed persons, successful undertakings, triumph over rivals and enemies, spread of name and fame with prosperity, enjoyments, and happiness are the good features probable during the second half. Tedious journeys, deaths among friends and relatives causing sorrow, disgrace, unwelcome changes, failure in enterprises or setbacks, enmities, etc., are probable because of the evil transits more especially during the first half. Of the three asterisms of the sign, those born under Hasta will attract more of the evil transits and hence benefit much less than those born under Uttaraphalguna or Chitta.

Health and Domestic.—If at all it is only during the first half that health troubles may make their appearance and even then it may not be any actual illness but only fatigue from tedious journeys and general debility in consequence. But it is probable that the mind will be troubled much more, especially during second half because of enmities and misunderstandings with elders, separation from friends and relatives, false implications, bad news, etc. The domestic circle will be fairly harmonious and there will be happiness with enjoyment of luxuries.

Finance and Speculation.—The finances are generally favoured well this month, especially the second half. During the first half, there is a probability that you may lose through being victimised by confidence, tricks, fraudulent enterprises, etc., or enmities may arise with money as the principal cause. Gains from various sources, success in financial enterprises, help from friends, opposite sex are all quite probable. But in respect of speculative dealings, it cannot be said that success will be uniform and gains may be offset by losses. So it is better to avoid speculation altogether.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—There are prospects of new acquisition of real property holdings but that is all that can be said on the favourable side. In all other respects, such as yield, rentals, management of their properties, etc., landlords and landholders are liable to suffer. Your incorporeal rights are liable to be infringed upon and if you resort to litigation, you are likely to get only adverse results. If you launch in enterprises designed to improve yield, there may be some last minute obstruction which will prevent their successful completion. The services are in a much better position though not entirely free from difficulties. You may have to exert yourself extra to achieve even ordinary results and there will be competition and you will have to strain much to successfully emerge from such situations. You may be tempted to give in before the obstacles or thoughtlessly alienate the sympathies of those above you but you should see to it that you do not do any of these things, in which case you will succeed and position and honours are likely to come within your reach. Though there will be setbacks and obstacles during the first half, the profession and business will forge ahead during the second half which will be attended with success and prosperity.

Women.— This is not a good month for women. They are liable to be too easily imposed upon by the opposite sex in all matters. They may have to suffer also from uncongenial surroundings perhaps because the family has to move away from familiar surroundings owing to some reason or other. Social activities may be reduced to nil and this is not the month to indulge in the purchase of feminine luxury items such as ornaments, new clothing or other articles of finery. But these observations do not apply strictly to the second half which is generally more favourable.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and domestic matters, interviews, health matters in general—3, 6, 12, 17, 22, 27; financial enterprises—5, 10, 15, 19, 29; short journeys—5, 15, 19, 28; long journeys—5, 10, 15, 19; real property matters, academical activities, interviews—2, 9, 14, 18, 22, 26; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, love affairs, excursions—3, 12, 17, 25; service affairs and prospects, etc.—3, 12, 17, 25; partnership business—2, 9, 14, 18, 22, 26; insurance activities—5, 15, 19, 28; professional and business enterprises—3, 6, 12, 17, 22, 27

Critical Dates.—Personal and domestic matters, interviews, health matters in general—2, 5, 8, 13, 15, 23, 30; financial enteprises—2, 6, 17, 24; short journeys—2, 6, 10, 17, 23, 27; long journeys—2, 10, 17, 27; real property affairs and academical activities, interviews—1, 4, 12, 24, 28; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, love affairs, excursions—4, 8, 15, 21, 27; service affairs and prospects—4, 8, 15, 21, 27; partnership business, matters connected with opposite sex in general—1, 4, 12, 24, 28.

Chandrashtama from sunrise of 2nd till about sunset of 4th and again from about noon of 29th till end of the month.

7. Thula ♎ (Libra).—Jupiter in 2nd; Saturn in 3rd; Kethu in 6th; Sun in 8th and 9th; Mercury in 8th, 9th and 10th; Venus in 10th; Mars in 10th; and Rahu in 12th.

General.—Mars, Jupiter and Saturn are all favourable for the entire month. But all these planets are under check throughout. Mercury is good for the first and last weeks only and it is only during the first week that he is free of vedha. This exhausts the benefic influences for the month, Sun and Venus being in evil signs. Sun is however under check for the greater part of the month while Venus alone is free. Thus both good and bad transits for the month are powerless and as the good elements are more numerous, the balance is still on the favourable side. Mixed results alone can be expected, such as quarrels, evil associations, heavy expenditure, failure, losses, ill-health, obstacles in undertakings, unjust changes, adverse results in contentious matters like litigation, etc., are the probable evil results. General success, increase in one's sphere of influence, happiness, acquisition of new position and enjoyments, auspicious events and celebrations, prosperity, etc., are among the good results due for the auspicious planets. Of the three stars of the sign, those born under Chitta will fare best while those born under Swati and Visakha come only next.

Health and Domestic.—Good health will be maintained more or less throughout the month as there is nothing in the transit influences to affect the health. General health may suffer from one or two tedious journeys and blood pressure may tend to remain rather high during the first half. But it is in the case of the children that greater care may be needed and they may have to be protected from prevailing epidemics if any by appropriate prophylactic measures. The domestic conditions will be happy and harmonious and there will be happiness and satisfaction in home and social circles.

Finance and Speculation.—The month perhaps is best for financial matters. Various gains, influx of wealth from more sources than one, successful financial ventures and enterprises and in professional activities, help from influential and wealthy friends, etc., are the probable effects and provide a smooth-running period in which the financial position can be unobtrusively improved upon and built up on a sound basis. With all this, this month cannot be pronounced to be a favourable one for speculative dealings and transactions in which losses are likely to result.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—Matters pertaining to landlords and landholders come under conflicting influences while some of them undoubtedly favour their interests, there are others that will definitely act as a setback and cause confusion. Quarrels, disputes and other unpleasant experiences as a result of conflict of interests may reach considerable proportions and you may be tempted on various occasions to take the law into your hands which would be extremely inadvisable. Political conditions also may contribute to cause you distress and losses. The services will do exceptionally well this month. Your position will receive the increased interests of those in authority above you provided you take considerable pains to perfect your own work and complete all details that may be necessary for your uplift, so that your case may not suffer for want of some technical qualification or other. The profession and business can be expected to be very active this month though it may be that the results may not prove quite adequate for the amount or volume of work involved. Still the month will be well above average levels generally.

Women.—This month is good in general for the fair sex and many happy events may take place, such as restoration of severed relationship with close relatives or friends in the social circles, may be within the family circle itself. The month is favourable for courtships and love affairs also, excursions, picnics, etc., and there will be plenty of opportunities for making pleasant contacts with the opposite sex, indulging in pleasurable activities, and cementing broken attachments and making peace with rivals and gaining your heart's desires.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and domestic matters, health matters in general—5, 10, 15, 19, 29; money dealings and transactions—5, 15, 19, 28; short journeys—2, 9, 14, 18, 22, 26; long journeys—6, 12, 17, 27; real property matters and academical activities—3, 12, 17, 25, 30; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, courtship and love affairs, etc.—3, 12, 17, 25, 30; service affairs and prospects, etc.—2, 9, 14, 18, 22, 26; partnership matters, dealings with opposite sex in general—5, 15, 19, 28; insurance activities—5, 10, 15, 19, 29; professional and business enterprises—3, 5, 6, 10, 13, 15, 17, 27.

Critical Dates.—Personal and domestic matters, health matters in general—2, 17, 20, 24, 27; money dealings and transactions—2, 6, 10, 17, 23, 27; short journeys—1, 4, 12, 24, 28; long journeys—2, 11, 13, 15, 23, 30; real property matters and academical activities, interviews—4, 8, 11, 15, 21, 27; speculation and love affairs, children's affairs and prospects, excursions—4, 8, 11, 15, 21, 27; service affairs and prospects—1, 4, 12, 24, 28; partnership matters and dealings with opposite sex in general—2, 6, 10, 17, 23, 27; insurance activities—2, 17, 20, 24, 27; professional and business enterprises—2, 10, 17, 23, 27.

Chandrashtama from about sunset of 4th till sunrise of 7th.

8. Vrischika (Scorpio) —Jupiter in 1st; Saturn in 2nd; Kethu in 5th; Sun in 7th and 8th; Mercury in 7th, 8th and 9th; Venus and Mars in 9th; and Rahu in 11th.

General.—Even a cursory glance at the transits of the month will suffice to indicate that this will prove to be a difficult one as good transits are practically non-existent. The only planet who is good for the entire month is Venus and though he is not much of an influence in transits by himself, he is also under check throughout. The only other planet who is good for at least part of the month is Mercury who is favourable for the second and third weeks and even then he is under check; so that there is virtually a black out of the benefic influences for the month. Sun, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn are all evil throughout. Though Sun and Mars suffer check at least for portions of the month, Jupiter and Saturn are free throughout. Thus it will be easily seen that the prospects for the month are not over-bright. Tedious journeys, ill-health, varied anxieties, mental depression, quarrels and misunderstandings, heavy expenditure, general debility, obstacles in all matters, enmities, losses, financial stress, etc., are the probable undesirable effects that may have to be faced. Of the three stars of the sign, those born under Visakha will suffer least and those born under Anuradha come next and those born under Moola will be the worst sufferers.

Health and Domestic—Disorders pertaining to stomach, rectum and urinary system as well as those due to excessive 'heat' and blood pressure are the probable forms of suffering indicated and so chronic sufferers from such ailments will do well to take the necessary precautionary measures. With much care, the troubles can be greatly mitigated if not totally obviated. Children's health too is liable to be affected. Accidents are not improbable. Quarrels inside the domestic circle may disturb domestic peace. Quarrels, outside the domestic circle too are likely such as with relatives and friends and lead to serious misunderstandings

Finance and Speculation.—The impact of the transits upon the financial position will be quite serious and lead to far-reaching results. Death of ready cash with mounting expenditure items will cause critical conditions and losses too are not at all improbable. Therefore any financial venture, however promising it may appear at the time should be postponed to better times and in all dealings and transactions, even though routine, great caution should be observed. Needless to say, speculation would prove disastrous.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc— The affairs of landlords and landholders come within the scope of the affliction of the transitting planets and nothing will shape out to their entire satisfaction. Yield and rentals will suffer. Since there are no compensating favourable influences almost anything may occur to complete their discomfiture and make the future appear dark and gloomy with apprehensions and forebodings. So nothing new should be attempted and routine be kept up. The prospects are not good for the services either. Anything from incurring the displeasure of superiors or people in authority up to downright suspension and disgrace may happen. But, for the latter to happen, the current directional influences too should be unpropitious. In all your actions or dealings with superiors, rivals or co-workers you should be guided by reason, reticence and keep a continual check against a tendency to lash out which will be only too easy. Profession and business will be dull and unremunerative.

Women.— Matters pertaining to the female sex as such also suffer this month, but the affliction is neither uniform nor severe. So the position is that no definite guidance is possible. When conditions appear favourable for their activities, they can go ahead with their activities and achieve satisfaction, happiness as they can be confident of a fair amount of success. But when conditions appear unpropitious, they should take the hint and retire and attend to only routine matters and never try to force results. With this as a golden rule, they can avoid the pitfalls of the month and make a fairly tolerable month of it.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and domestic matters, health matters in general—5, 16, 19, 28; money dealings and transactions—1, 4, 12, 24, 28; short journeys—4, 8, 11, 15, 21, 27; long journeys—2, 10, 17, 23, 27; real property affairs, academical activities, interviews, etc.—4, 8, 11, 15, 21, 27; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, love affairs, excursions—1, 4, 12, 24, 28; services—5, 16, 19, 28; insurance activities—5, 9, 14, 18, 22, 26; professional and business enterprises—2, 6, 10, 14, 20, 27.

Critical Dates.—Personal and domestic matters, interviews, health matters in general—2, 6, 10, 17, 23, 27; money dealings and transactions—1, 4, 12, 24, 28; short journeys—4, 8, 11, 15, 21, 27; long journeys—2, 10, 17, 23, 27; real property matters, academical activities, interviews—4, 8, 11, 15, 21, 27; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, courtship and love affairs, excursions—1, 4, 12, 24, 28; service matters and prospects—2, 6, 10, 17, 23, 27; partnership business, dealings with opposite sex in general—2, 17, 20, 24, 27; insurance activities—2, 10, 17, 23, 27; professional and business enterprises—2, 6, 10, 14, 20, 27.

Chandrashtama from sunrise of 7th till sunset of 9th.

9. Dhanus (Sagittarius).—Saturn in 1st; Kethu in 4th; Sun in 6th and 7th; Mercury in 6th, 7th and 8th; Venus and Mars in 8th; Rahu in 10th; and Jupiter in 12th.

General.—Venus is favourable for the entire month and unchecked. But he is the only planet who continues good for the entire month. Sun is good for the first half only but under check; Mercury is good for the first and last weeks and he comes under check for the last week. No other planet is favourable for even part of the month. Of course Jupiter in twelfth need not be considered as downright inauspicious. Mars and Saturn are evil. Of these, Mars is under check for the greater part of the month while Saturn is free throughout. The good transits make a poor show and naturally this will be reflected in the general results for the month, the first half would prove less troublesome than the second. Mental depression, varied anxieties and apprehensions, quarrels, misunderstandings, ill-health, tiresome and useless journeys, obstacles in all undertakings, death of relatives, are the general results that may be caused by the adverse transits during the second half especially. Some gains, luxuries, domestic happiness, auspicious events and celebrations, popularity and renown, etc., are due during the first half. Of the three asterisms of the sign, those born under Moola and Uttarashada will fare much better than those Poorvashada.

Health and Domestic.—There is no reason to expect any serious disturbances in health this month as none of the evil transits point to such. But weakness and general debility will persist throughout. Special care should however be taken as against accidents which may result in serious loss of blood and other unlooked for complications. Domestic peace may be disturbed during the second half and quarrels and misunderstandings may arise with wife and children but there is every probability that these will amount to no more than bickerings and may be quickly resolved.

Finance and Speculation.—The first half will be quite tolerable in the matter of finance. There will be gains and success in financial enterprises and conditions may even be fairly satisfactory during the closing week also. But the middle part of the month may prove trying when there may be heavy expenditure and even losses. Losses may arise because of your own faulty reasoning, or expected help not forthcoming or to unexpected causes. If you speculate especially on margins, there is a probability that because of unexpected market fluctuations, you are liable to incur even heavy losses.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—Though matters connected with landlords and landholders are also liable to be adversely affected by the transitting influences, it can be said that some compensatory factors are at work which will mitigate the extent of damages that may otherwise result and may even render the month tolerable. Yield and rentals may prove satisfactory. One may go ahead with schemes for improving the capacity of yield of your holdings, construction work and other enterprises that may tend to increase the capital value of your holdings. Acquisition of new items is also not contra-indicated for the month. The same compensatory factors are at work in the case of the services also which will witness tolerable conditions and the first half is even likely to prove favourable, though it has to be said that no notable events may take place. But the month will be smooth running in all matters in the office and the authorities will be quite pleased with your work and put up favourable notes in your dossier. The profession and business are liable to suffer setbacks and the general conditions may even go below par. But these observations are applicable more to the second half than the first.

Women.—Much prudence and care should be exercised by the fair sex in all their activities during the month, especially in their dealings with the opposite sex as they are only liable to be too easily influenced upon and be made to count themselves to actions against their better reasons, be it a purely domestic matter or activities in the social or philanthropic sphere or matters in which their heart is involved and this injunction is to be specially enjoined in the case of the unattached as a hasty engagement or unwitting commitments may cause endless difficulties later on.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and domestic matters, health matters—2, 9, 14, 18, 22, 26; money dealings and transactions—3, 9, 12, 17, 25, 30; short journeys—3, 9, 12, 17, 25, 30; that is foreshadowed engulfing dictators and their repressive laws. Of course there might be weeping and gnashing of teeth here and there but a crucible is necessary to purify man for as Premier Sri Nehru says: "We are stretching out our arms to the Moon. Some say we will go to Mars or Venus next but we forget what is happening on earth and cannot manage earth properly. There has been some inner decay of mind and spirit — a cracking up of moral values."

I believe that the Great Conjunctions herald the dawn of the Aquarian Age. Liberty and Justice will triumph. "And vast confusion waits, as doth a raven on a sick-fallen beast, the imminent decay of wrested pomp."

PLANETS AND DEVELOPMENTS IN TIBET

of far-reaching consequences. We are clearly witnessing today the beginning of an active Chinese expansionist policy and astrologically China's action in Tibet would be of immediate concern to us. The security of India needs our most important attention. The vacuum has been fully filled by Chinese power and India must look to the security of her northern border. India, which was the only country which appeared to be convinced that the Chinese had no expansive ambitions, discovered to her amazement that the work of the Chinese revolution is not yet done in other parts of Asia. Jupiter neecha in Lagna, Moon and Lagna both aspected by Mars from the 7th, and Lagnadhipathi in an inimical sign and otherwise afflicted always denote things repugnant to human nature such as hypocrisy, aggression, selfishness and the like. The curious concentration of benefic and malefic forces on the 10th—Mars and Saturn aspect the 10th by their Viseshadrishti—denotes that there is the usual iron hand. Tibetans are no doubt distinct from the Chinese in race, culture and traditions and they should be left to pursue their own way of life unimpeded by any fiat from Peking. India is of course "ever ready to lend her helping hand" to bring about a settlement in and between China and Tibet. But the point is, would China agree especially that she is undergoing the dasa of the aggressive Mars. Really speaking Peking does not care for India's friendship. Although India has been championing China's cause in the United Nations, Peking has never cared to pay heed to India's repeated protests, even in regard to a small matter as the inclusion of Indian territory in maps of China The coming years will show that while protesting friendly relations, China will display a more aggressive attitude towards India and that China will not respect Asian feelings. India faces a very complicated situation and it is our earnest prayer that Almighty God would guide our Prime Minister in the right direction so that Mr. Nehru's foreign policy which is falling more and more out of tune with educated public opinion in the country would become more realistic and that he will not have one yard-stick for some people and a different one for others. Astrologically there is no prospect of Tibet's question being resolved in a manner satisfactory to the Tibetan nationalists. The present order or disorder must continue until the fateful combination of eight planets in 1962.

10. Makara (Capricorn).—Kethu in 3rd; Sun in 5th and 6th; Mercury in 5th, 6th and 7th; Venus and Mars in 7th; Rahu in 9th; Jupiter in 11th; and Saturn in 12th.

General.—Jupiter in eleventh and unchecked is by far the best influence for the whole month. This transit serves a double purpose. In eleventh, Jupiter acts also as a check on the baneful influence of Saturn transitting the twelfth. No other planet is good for the entire month. Sun is good for the second half only and Mercury for the second and third weeks. All the other transits of the month are unfavourable, Venus and Mars are evil throughout. But Mars is under check for the greater part of the month. It cannot be denied that the month will bring only mixed effects but the good elements are assuredly preponderant and the second half may even be quite free of evil effects. Good health, triumph over rivals and enemies, peace of mind, gains, popularity and renown, auspicious events and celebrations, acquisition of luxuries and their enjoyment, new positions, honour and prosperity are the likely good occurrences for the month, especially latter half. Harassment by rivals and enemies, mental agitation, sorrows and separation from relatives, losses, quarrels with friends and relatives, purposeless undertakings, association with wicked elements, litigation, etc., are the probable results of the evil planets to be expected mostly during the first half. Of the three stars of the sign, those born under Uttarashada and Dhanishta will fare better than those born under Sravana.

Health and Domestic.—Though some health troubles are probable during the first half, the second half will be comparatively free. This month children's health too will most probably suffer though no serious illness need be feared. Indigestion and other stomach troubles, ailments affecting the eye may be suffered by those chronically subject to such things. Minor accidents, cuts, etc., may occur during the first half. Minor troubles, quarrels and bickerings are to be expected in the domestic and social spheres but these really do not amount too much and are likely to vanish during the second half.

Finance and Speculation.—The month is fairly good for finance especially during the second half. No doubt there are conflicting influences and a good deal of influx during the month will be drained away, some in necessary and some in useless and extravagant ways. But much can be done by judicious management to retain a good part of it by rigidly excluding all waste. Financial enterprises begun during the second half have greater chances for success. Even speculative dealings have some chances for success provided the rash element is entirely eliminated throughout.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—Real property affairs from the standpoint of view of landlords and landholders will only steadily worsen during the month, though apparently conditions are prosperous on the surface and nothing adverse may actually take place during the month. There may be a lot of change below surface during the month that may erupt into action later on causing considerable inconveniences even dislocation. Actually there may be also some gains and additions to your holdings this month, but great care should be taken to see what is acquired, lest it should prove a source of liability later on. The second half of the month is highly favourable for the services in all contentions or competitive matters, that is your efforts to succeed in tests, outrank others and be selected for jobs in test of merit will be in proportion to the extent of the work you put in and is specially suited for gaining honours and advancement. The profession and business are likely to have a smooth-running period with around expansion and increased returns more especially during the second half.

Women.—The general set up of the month is propitious for the interests of the fair sex as such and it is up to them to fully utilise the favourable influences to the best of their capacity especially in social and philanthropic activities, social functions, parties and the like. But however, in courtships and love affairs, especially in the case of the unattached they should have their wits about them and should not on the spur of the married or without due deliberation and advice commit themselves to irrevocable steps which may cause difficulties later.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and domestic affairs, health matters in general—3, 9, 12, 17, 25, 30; money dealings and transactions, etc.—4, 8, 11, 15, 24, 27; short journeys—2, 9, 14, 18, 22, 26; long journeys—1, 3, 6, 12, 16, 27; real property affairs, educational activities, interviews, etc.—2, 6, 10, 17, 23, 27; speculation, children's prospects and affairs, courtship and love affairs, excursions—2, 17, 20, 24, 27; service affairs and prospects—2, 11, 13, 15, 23, 30; partnership matters, dealings with opposite sex in general—5, 9, 14, 18, 22, 26; insurance activities—3, 11, 16, 25, 30; professional and business enterprises—1, 3, 6, 12, 16, 27.

Critical Dates.—Personal and domestic affairs, health matters in general, interviews—4, 8, 11, 15, 21, 27; money dealings and transactions—4, 8, 11, 15, 21, 27; short journeys—1, 4, 12, 24, 28; long journeys—2, 11, 13, 15, 23, 30; real property affairs, academical activities, interviews—2, 6, 10, 17, 23, 27; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, courtship and love affairs, excursions—2, 17, 20, 24, 27; service affairs and prospects—2, 11, 13, 15, 23, 30; partnership business, dealings with opposite sex in general—2, 10, 17, 23, 27; insurance activities—2, 6, 10, 14, 20, 27; professional and business enterprises—2, 17, 20, 24, 27.

Chandrashtama from about midnight of 11th till forenoon of 14th.

11. Kumbha (Aquarius).—Kethu in 2nd; Sun in 4th and 5th; Mercury in 4th, 5th and 6th; Venus and Mars in 6th; Rahu in 8th; Jupiter in 10th; and Saturn in 11th.

General.—Mars and Saturn are favourable for the entire month. While Saturn comes under check during the middle part of the month, Mars is entirely free of vedha. Mercury is good for the first and last weeks. The other planets Sun, Venus and Jupiter are evil for the entire month and except for Sun during the second half, they are free of vedha. Therefore the evil transits are more powerful this month and this feature will be reflected in the general results for the month. Impediments in all matters, sorrows, quarrels and disputes with friends and relatives, harassment by rivals and enemies, useless enterprises, loss of position or status, unwelcome changes, scandals, danger to property, unwanted litigation, etc., are the likely evil results. But success, favourable termination in litigation, gains, prosperity, honour, fame, purchase and enjoyment of articles of luxury, friendship with wealthy and influential persons, popularity and renown, etc., are the probable good results also that are due to the favourable transits. Of the three asterisms of the sign, those ruled by Dhanishta and Poorvabhadrapada are likely to fare much better and suffer less than those born under Satabhisha.

Health and Domestic.—Even the evil transits do not affect in the matter of health. General weakness and debility may be present but no actual illness need be suffered. Of course care in diet and general habits will be essential to enjoy good health throughout the month. Minor accidents may happen. Children's health however may require more than ordinary attention, and prophylactic measures adopted and it is the middle part of the month that may require extra care. Domestic matters will on the whole be satisfactory with minimum bickerings and quarrels.

Finance and Speculation.—The month may prove quite satisfactory in the matter of finances. Gains, increased income, success in enterprises are all due almost throughout the month though some losses, during the second half may occur inspite of your best care and caution. Some extra items of expenditure such as money required for litigation may also arise but no serious handicaps are likely. But the month cannot be said to be at all favourable for speculation as none of the transit influences are helpful in this respect.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.— Real property matters however are favoured generally in the sense that the evil elements are compensated for to a great extent, though it is not to be expected that something positively advantageous is likely to happen. Usual troubles and difficulties will be absent. There is also scope for some additions to your holdings though this may not prove an unmixed blessing later on. Litigation should be avoided as far as possible, though your rights may be assailed. Mediation and arbitration will perhaps be the best course to adopt. The services will be affected adversely. No doubt in this respect, there are some good elements but these may not be able to avert unpleasantness in the office, displeasure of superiors, danger to your position, scandals and false imputations which may render the mind quite anxious and apprehensive as regards their consequences. But some improvement may be apparent within the month itself which will become more pronounced during the next month and not have any lasting effects. The profession and business may fare ordinarily well though setbacks and obstructions cannot be avoided now and then.

Women.— This cannot be said to be a pleasant month for the fair sex. Routine is liable to be disturbed in any matter or activities in which they may be engaged and much depend upon their individual capacity to adopt themselves to the changed circumstances or novel situations that are almost certain to arise during the month. It may so happen that new responsibilities may have to be undertaken or sought to be through upon you, some of which may even entail hardships. Therefore considerable thought should be bestowed before committing yourself to any definite course of action.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and domestic matters and interviews, health matters in general—3, 9, 12, 17, 25, 30; money dealings and transactions—2, 9, 14, 18, 22, 26; short journeys—5, 16, 19, 28; long journeys—1, 3, 6, 12, 16, 27; real property affairs, academical activities, interviews—2, 6, 10, 17, 23, 27; speculation, children's prospects and affairs, excursions, parties, courtship and love affairs—2, 11, 13, 15, 23, 30; service affairs and prospects—5, 9, 18, 14, 22, 26; partnership matters and business, dealings with opposite sex in general—3, 6, 11, 16, 25, 30; insurance activities—1, 3, 6, 12, 16, 27; professional and business enterprises—5, 6, 19, 28.

Critical Dates.—Personal and domestic matters, health matters—4, 8, 11, 15, 24, 27; money dealings and transactions—1, 4, 12, 24, 28; short journeys—2, 6, 10, 17, 23, 27; long journeys—2, 17, 20, 24, 27; real property matters and academical activities, interviews—2, 17, 20, 24, 27; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, courtship and love affairs, excursions—2, 11, 13, 15, 23, 30; service affairs in general—2, 10, 17, 23, 27; partnership matters, dealings with opposite sex in general—2, 6, 10, 14, 20, 27; insurance activities—2, 11, 13, 15, 23, 30; professional and business enterprises—2, 6, 10, 17, 23, 27.

Chandrashtama from forenoon of 14th till about noon of 16th.

12. Meena (Pisces). —Kethu in 1st; Saturn in 3rd and 4th; Mercury in 3rd, 4th and 5th; Venus and Mars in 5th; Rahu in 7th; Jupiter in 9th; and Sun in 10th.

General.—Venus and Jupiter are favourable for the entire month, but both are under check throughout. Sun is good for the first half but under vedha so long as he is good. The only favourable transit that is both good and free of vedha is Mercury during the 2nd and 3rd weeks. Thus the good influences for the month do not amount too much. But of course Saturn in tenth need not be considered as wholly evil as a malefic in transit of an Upachaya place is capable of doing good. Mars is evil for the whole month but under check during the greater part of the month. It is also seen that neither the evil elements are prominent. Thus the month's general results will not be eventful either for good or bad but be quite ordinary in which the first half will be somewhat better than the second. Some minor successes, happiness, comforts, good friendships, triumph over rivals, gains, auspicious events and celebrations, help from friends, meeting of relatives, are the probabilities for the first half. These become less pronounced as the month advances and loss of savings, scandals, loss of honour, quarrels and failures, trouble from rivals and enemies, etc., are probable. Of the three asterisms of the sign, those born under Poorvabhadrapada and Revati will fare better than those born under Uttarabhadrapada.

Health and Domestic.—Health for the month will be generally good. But for a trifling liability to haemorrhages from whatever cause, the month will be quite tolerable. But children's health may be affected by any of the prevailing epidemics and some prophylactic measure is advisable if there is any such danger. This month especially you should be somewhat careful in regard to personal and private affairs, domestic matters, and dealings with relatives particularly as quarrels and misunderstandings are likely to arise for the least or no cause and cause much mental agitation.

Finance and Speculation.—Money matters are neither favoured nor adversely affected much either way and this may just be a normal and routine month. Some minor gains and successes may occur during the first half. During the second, there may be some losses, heavy expenditure and dearth of ready cash with consequent financial stress which also is likely to be tided over with help from friends or other facilities. The month is not suited for financial enterprises where the least risk is involved and this warning applies with greater emphasis to speculative transactions.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—Both good and bad influences play upon matters pertaining to real property but it can be said that the evil ones are the more powerful. Landlords and landholders are likely to suffer from lack of co-operation from those it can be legitimately expected, such as tenants, agents, etc. Difficulties may occur in the realisation of yield and rentals even to the extent of seeking the aid of courts. Troubles from co-owners, adjacent owners, etc., too may arise. They may meet with obstacles in their enterprises and attempts to improve their holdings with a view to better yield. It is better not to introduce innovations during the month. The services are in a somewhat better position and the first half can be said to be favourable also and to those who are in the run for it, special honours, new position or status, etc., may be conferred. Recognition of your merits by your superiors is also probable. But towards the close of the month conditions are adverse and should be avoided for interviews, tests, etc., as it would be difficult then to come off with flying colours. The profession and business while doing quite well even above average levels are liable to meet with sudden and unforeseen setbacks now and then.

Women.—So far as transit indications go, women as a rule, will have to be on their guard in all their activity this month, especially in such matters where they have to do with the opposite sex as they are only liable to be too easily imposed upon. Even those who are very wide awake in such matters, are liable to be taken in and the caution is all the greater in the case of the unattached. This caution is also to be observed in their investments in luxury items, fineries, ornaments, etc., as they may not get their moneys worth. Social activities may not flourish.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and domestic matters, health matters—2, 9, 14, 18, 22, 26; money dealings and transactions—5, 15, 19, 28; short journeys—3, 12, 17, 25; long journeys—5, 15, 19, 28; real property affairs, academical matters, interviews, etc.—3, 6, 12, 17, 22, 27; speculation, children's prospects and affairs, courtship and love affairs, excursions—5, 9, 14, 18, 22, 26; service affairs and prospects—3, 6, 11, 16, 25, 30; partnership business and activities, dealings with opposite sex in general—1, 3, 6, 12, 16, 27; insurance activities—1, 3, 6, 12, 14, 27; professional and business enterprises—2, 9, 14, 18, 22, 26

Critical Dates.—Personal and domestic matters, health matters—1, 4, 12, 24, 28; money dealings and transactions—2, 6, 10, 17, 23, 27; short journeys—2, 17, 20, 24, 27; long journeys—2, 6, 10, 17, 23, 27; real property affairs and academical activities, interviews—2. 11, 13, 15, 23, 30; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, courtship and love affairs, excursions—2, 10, 17, 23, 27; service affairs and prospects, interviews—2, 6, 10, 14, 20, 27; partnership business and activities, dealings with opposite sex in general—2, 11, 13, 15, 23, 30; insurance activities—2, 17, 20, 24, 27; professional and business enterprises—1, 4, 12, 24, 28.

BRIHAT JATAKA

OF VARAHA MIHIRA

English Translation by Prof. B. Suryanarain Rao with original slokas in Bold Devanagari

(FOURTH EDITION)

This is a monumental work written by Varahamihira the versatile genius of the first century B.C. and deals with the entire Science of Astrology in a masterly way. Brihat Jataka, as the author rightly asserts, is intended as a boat for all those who at first get despirited at the sight of the vast ocean of astrological knowledge but who wish to cross the same.

The book contains the invaluable commentaries of Bhattotpala which have made clear many of the obscure passages. Prof. Rao has given copious notes in his own inimitable style which facilitates easy comprehension.

PLANETS AND AFFAIRS IN ORISSA

Scanned by www.santarishiastrology.com To Preserve Dr.B.V.Ramans Work

IS it political expediency or practical necessity that has brought the alliance between the Congress and the Ganathantra Parishad in Orissa? Astrologically, though it may not be possible to answer this question fully, yet, a careful study of the horoscope of the Congress with reference to the current directional influences, can reveal the reasons which prompted the great Indian National Congress to join hands with Ganathantra Parishad dominated by "feudal reactionaries". It is clear that between these two political bodies—the Congress, committed to "co-operative farming, ceilings on land and a socialistic pattern of society" and the Parishad, the most criticised and condemned party of yesterday, any unity of purpose could exist. Functioning within the limits of a State, the Parishad is the one party which within a short span of ten years after its origin, has not only given an effective challenge to the Congress in Orissa but has now been able to form a coalition with it. We do not hold any brief for the Parishad, but it is important to note that beginning under a barrage of calumny and scandals persistently fired at by the "progressive" parties inside Orissa, the Parishad held its ground in its own right. It must be noted that when the Parishad came into being, Saturn was retrograde in the beginning of Leo while Jupiter was in Sagittarius. Within about 12 years, corresponding to a Jupiterian cycle—Jupiter is now passing through Scorpio—the Party has made such rapid progress that the Indian National Congress has thought it fit to form a coalition with it. The effects of retrograde planets are generally powerful. But the manner of their effects varies with reference to each individual chart, and to interpret such effects, considerable skill and experience are called for on the part of the astrologer. In the case of the Parishad, Saturn is retrograde in the royal sign of Leo. Saturn's disposition in Leo is generally capable of producing unfavourable results. But when Saturn is retrograde, he can become extremely powerful and productive of results contrary to what he would do otherwise. Or in the beginning adverse effects may be realised followed subsequently by favourable ones. According to classical texts, when a planet is vakra, highly malefic effects, such as disappointments, aimless roaming about and sorrow will happen. But the planet gains tremendous strength and gives rise to highly auspicious results. Benefics and malefics, appropriate to their nature, can give rise to contrary results, depending upon a number of factors in the horoscope. So far as Ganathantra Parishad is concerned, it looks as though the retrogression of Saturn in the beginning of Leo, has been a blessing in disguise. It will be seen that painted initially as separationists the Parishad members had to weather persecutions and sufferings at the hands of the Congress rulers. Threats failing, temptations of high offices were said to have been held to its leaders. The Party achieved some respectability for the first time in 1952 when it could return 31 members to a house of 140 in Orissa Assembly. Mars was also retrograde in Leo when the Parishad was born, both these planets receiving the aspect of Jupiter.

There are certain progressive elements in the programme of the Parishad —nationalisation of mines, fixation of a ceiling on landholdings and reduction of tax-burden to be met out of the earnings of State enterprises. It looks as though the immediate future of the Parishad appears to be quite good. To give a more comprehensive analysis of the Parishad's horoscope is not called for in the absence of the exact time of birth of the party. If the Parishad can be dubbed as a reactionary and revivalist party because it has amongst its legislators a number of ex-rulers and their family members, with the Maharaja of Patna State as the leader at the helm, then the Congress is not without its quota of ex-princes, ex-Muslim Leaguers, ex-communists and ex-communalists in the Assembly party. But astrologically speaking, Jupiter's aspect on Saturn and Mars in the beginning of Leo, seems to add an element of stability and unity of purpose, which will characterise the Ganathantra Parishad.

We have several times analysed in these columns the horoscope of the Indian National Congress and have also suggested the various combinations which have made the Congress what it is today. The basic structure of the horoscope is strong. But the moral rot the Congress has been ailing from, has set in only after the advent of Mercury's Dasa. Long before this Dasa commenced, we had hinted in these columns that Mercury being a maraka, the organisation would disintegrate in the course of Mercury's Dasa, unless the leaders tried to hold their grip more firmly and prevented the Organisation from being degenerated itself into a body consisting of large numbers of self-seekers and careerists. In the Congress horoscope, there is a Parivarthana (interchange) Yoga between Mars and Mercury, involving some of the most important houses—2nd, 4th, 7th and 9th. Mercury is the planet of diplomacy. He is quite strong in the 9th occupying his own constellation. But his situation in a martian sign and a Saturnine amsa, devoid of the aspect of Jupiter or Venus, favours the inference that the Congress no longer stands for the great ideals of truth, fair means or selflessness. The aspect of Mars on Mercury is nearly to the extent of 43 shastiamsas (72%). Therefore the major lord Mercury is responsible to a large extent in making the Congress resort to a certain degree opportunism and expediency in its policies even though in the present case of Orissa, it may be said to have acted with a certain amount of noble intentions. What the future repercussions would be, we shall analyse shortly.

In the light of recent happenings in the Congress Camp, it would be appropriate, even at the risk of repetition, to quote once again our remarks in the March 1957 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE, viz., "these dispositions coupled with the fact that Saturn would be transitting Sagittarius, the radical place of the Sun, suggest that during the coming years, the democratic forces within Congress will gradually give place to autocratic and authoritarian trends. Though Mercury is a benefic and well placed, he is rendered weak and somewhat afflicted in the navamsa. Political parties die by swallowing their own lies. And unless the leaders take care to see that the rot that has now set into the Congress ranks does not eat into the vitals of the organisation, the Congress is bound to disintegrate during this maraka dasa. In the navamsa, Mercury has joined Saturn aspected by the Sun. There are no benefic aspects. This evidently suggests that especially in Budha Dasa Kethu Bhukthi, Congress adventures in socialism will not only vitiate initiative and enterprise in the private sector, which are vital to economic growth of India, but will land the country in a bog. All this economic regimentation will be done by 'peaceful and non-violent' means, of course by using the docile majorities the Congress Governments will command. The common man will be further confused and the people will feel a sense of frustration".

According to Press reports, a three-member Congress Ganathantra Parishad Coalition Ministry was sworn in at 10 a.m. (I.S.T.) on 22nd May 1959.

The array of planets is interesting, especially the disposition of the malefics in Upachayas—Rahu in 3rd, Saturn in the 6th and the Sun in the 11th. But the important factor of the horoscope, viz., the foundation is not very sound, because, lord of the ascendant Moon is debilitated in the 5th and has not

	RASI		Lagna Mars		NAVAMSA	Mars	Moon Jup. Sat.
Sat.	Jup. Moon		Rahu	Kethu	Lagna Mer.

obtained neechabhanga. The Lagna and the lord of Lagna symbolise the "life and destiny" of the chart as a whole. Whilst the Lagna lord is debilitated, he is full—the Moon being full on this day, and is in conjunction with the benefic Jupiter, lord of the 9th, both occupying the constellation of Saturn. Debilitated Mars, who also happens to be the Yogakaraka, is in Lagna—being Vargottama and aspected by Jupiter. All these factors are no doubt favourable prima facie. But against these benefic dispositions, is the situation of Kethu in the 9th or house of 'good luck'. Kethu's influence is quite malefic as that of Mars when afflicting the 9th house. In individual charts, such a disposition of Kethu denotes that the person would *"follow a vicious or sinful path, will slander the good and will be devoid of father". In a political horoscope also, the results may be quite unfortunate; but the evil here is tempered by the aspect of Jupiter. None-the-less Kethu's affliction of the 9th does not indicate that the Coalition Government would successfully work together. Peculiar problems and practical difficulties will come in the way of the smooth functioning of the Ministry. As the Lagna is chara and as the 8th is aspected by two first-rate malefics, Mars and Saturn, it looks as though, within the first year itself the Ministry will be reconstituted due to fatal illness of one of the Ministers. Another factor to be noted is that in the chart both the Sun and Mars are strongly disposed. Mars occupies 5 vargas of the Moon who is also full, though debilitated. Saturn the planet of the masses is in a common sign, retrograde. As a consequence, while in the long run, the Coalition might help the interests of Orissa, it will definitely act as a curse in disguise for the Congress. The Congress may pride itself that its whole history and tradition is one of absorbing in its organisation all the new elements that entered it. But the dominance of the Sun and Mars referred to above, points to the fact that the prestige of the Ganathantra Parishad would go high, to the detriment of the Congress interests and the experiment will result in the further losing of its influence by the Congress. Since the directional influences in the Congress horoscope are not favourably disposed from the point of view of its own stability, it occurs to us that the Coalition would have serious repercussions in other States, particularly Rajasthan and U.P. There can be no substance in the charge levelled against the Congress by its critics that the Congress was keen on perpetuating the domination of feudal lords by this coalition. But, on the contrary, Congress ideologies and policies will not simply appeal to the mass of the people because they will be so completely divorced from practicality while the programmes and policies of the Parishad would be more realistic and sensible. Mercury, in accordance with his being a fickle-minded planet, will confer a wavering mentality on the Congress leaders with the result they will not be definite in anything they say and it will be difficult for the Congress to propagate its ideologies and policies especially in rural areas, because of the waning influence which will mark its future existence in several parts of India. The dangers emphasised can be minimised or overcome to a certain extent, by suitable efforts, but whether the Congress can really bring to bear upon its progress, vision and imagination, it is difficult to say, in view of the Maraka Dasa now operating in the Congress horoscope.

The 4th is aspected by Mars and Mercury while the 4th lord Venus is in the 12th. From Chandra Lagna, the 4th is aspected both by Saturn and Mars, the former being the lord of the 4th. With such a disposition it will not be quite easy to carry out the programme of land reforms, co-operative forming and state trading in foodgrains "which are steps forward to the goal of socialism."

The 2nd lord in the 11th aspected by the lord of Lagna and Jupiter lord of the 5th, denotes augmenting of the financial resources of the State with the minimum burden on the common man. There are also indications that the administrative efficiency will be maintained. But what should be of concern to the Congress is the fact that because Mars and the Sun are quite strong, the Ganathantra Parishad will gain more importance and prestige while, thanks to the favourable indications in Dr. Mehtab's horoscope, even though he may continue to be the leader of the Coalition Party, the Congress will lose its strength and influence so that during next elections, it will be difficult for the Congress to win. Lords of Lagna and the 7th are in mutual Dwirdwadasa. Therefore the Coalition—between the former ruling and the opposition parties—will not run smoothly, sharp differences arising even in regard to the carrying out of the development schemes. The "Nagpur Resolution" will be made to fit into the frame work of land reforms as conceived by the Parishad. It will be seen that the Ministry was formed in the Dasa and Bhukthi of Saturn, a maraka in this case, and according to the scheme of Varshadasas, the period of Mars rules from 13–1–1960 to 3–2–1960. Saturn and Mars are shashtashtaka (6th and 8th). Mars is Yogakaraka and Saturn is a Maraka. Therefore during this period, internal wranglings in the Coalition Cabinet will be so pronounced that the Ministry may resign or in the alternative, the Congress Party lose its individuality to the extent that it will fully toe the line of the Parishad. The Orissa Congress will fail to follow the official directives, and group rivalries and simultaneous exhibition of disloyalty will be the order of the day. Summing up, whatever may be the consequences in the distant future—and they are not pleasant—the Coalition Ministry has been installed at an auspicious moment assuring for the State a fairly stable Ministry for some months to come thus ending the stalemate which has characterised Orissa politics ever since the last general elections.

Scanned by www.saptarishisastrology.com To Preserve Dr B V Raman's Work

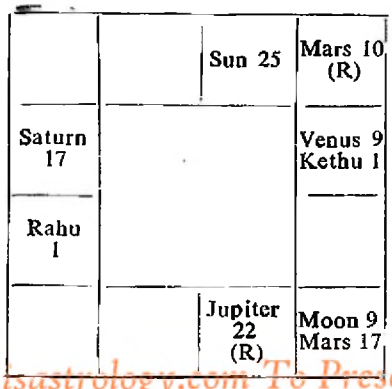
As it STRIKES ME



BY BHRIGU

THE recent upheaval in Tibet has been a reminder of the truth contained in the predictions made under the Editorial pen in THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE. At the same time, in the Editorials many a warning was given to the Government not to be misled by the emotional attachment to Panchashila. The scoffers of astrology should at least now open their minds a little to the great truths of astrology.

Very recently we came across a press report which said that Tibetan astrologers have been warning the Dalai Lama of 1959. According to them the year 1959 is a critical year both for him and for Tibet and that 1960 would prove beneficial. Tibet has been the home of the esoteric for many centuries. The Hindu traditional lore has been well preserved there; and it is possible that the prediction was based on the Hindu system.

We do not have exact data about the birth of the Dalai Lama. Some authentic reports give the date of birth as 10th June 1935. The positions of the various bodies are given in the chart. We can tentatively study it from Chandra Lagna.

These are the noon positions. If the birth is reducible to 2 p.m. (G.M.T.) or after the constellation will be Hasta. Or else it will be Uttaraphalguna. From the Moon we find certain peculiarities. Jupiter, a malefic to Virgo is in the second. The lord of the twelfth is in the house of fortune. With the Moon we have the lord of the third and the eighth. It is not a simple accident that he sought the asylum in India, when we note Virgo with the Moon. He is emotionally attached to India whose ruling sign is Virgo.

Part of Tibet appears to come under Libra and the rest under Virgo. Chandra Lagna may be the actual Ascendant too. Whatver may be the fact, the present major period is that of Rahu which began sometime in 1953 or so. Rahu's position in the 5th house is significant. It is also the house where we are going to have the eight-planet combination in 1962 at the time of a solar eclipse. There are portentious events for the future of Tibet.

The chart reveals a powerful Saturn who will certainly crown the efforts of Tibetan Nationalists. Tibet has often been maligned as being a medieval theocratic state. The Tibetans are religious and their religious head is the supreme secular authority too. This might as well mean the identity of nationalism with religion and race. Even in modern times we have an example of such an identity in the case of Israel. If the identity works, we cannot condemn it. It worked in Tibet to the well-being of Tibetans.

The Tibetan debacle is an example for various factors. It has shown that on our soil there are communist and anti-communist spies operating more successfully than our own intelligence. It has shown that our frontiers are not so well guarded as we have been told. It has also shown that the Communist bloc like the Western bloc is trying to force us into the cold war. And it has also shown that our sentiments and emotions are bound with those of the Tibetans. China may plead that the Tibetan affair is her own internal affair. For that we have to thank the British and the Indian Governments. Yet Tibet has posed the question of the racial, cultural and religious minorities. It is a question that is typical of the age of Aquarius. With the entry of Saturn into Capricorn, these questions are bound to loom large.

The Dalai Lama's and therefore Tibet's troubles appear to have started in 1951 when Saturn was passing through Virgo. They were eased temporarily. But Saturn's entry into Sagittarius aggravated them. It stands to reason to argue that the transit Saturn's movement over the radical Saturn will open a new chapter in the history of Tibet.

With the entrance of the spiritual and temporal head of Tibet into India, the Communists have begun their propaganda offensive. Our own Communists are more eager than the Panchen Lama to support Peking. China new sees imperialists in India and shows parts of Indian

By B. V. RAMAN

A reliable guide to Practical Astrology

This does not contain startling predictions and amazing forecasts. But it is the product of investigations and studies by the Author presented here in an orderly and specific form but in simple language easily understandable by the average readers.

One is born a beggar but becomes a ruler. One is born a ruler but becomes a begger, How and Why? What combinations make one a Scientist, Physicist, Chemist, Botanist, Poet, Politician, Statesman, Artist, Murderer, Dissimulator, etc.

Though several circumstances are the same for the rich and the poor alike, there will be certain astrological peculiarities in Notable Horoscopes (e.g., Tagore, Nehru, Hitler, C. R. Das, Prof. Rao, Einstein, etc.) which are easily discernible and a careful study of which would enable one to acquire that practical knowledge and experience which is otherwise impossible.

This work shows that birth date and time are of supreme importance as determining not only character but also eventful periods of life.

The book contains the horoscopes of notable persons—their birth data, planetary positions, Dasas and Bhukthis in which important events have taken place in their lives. Then the various combinations which have produced different types of great men are carefully analysed with a view to showing to the readers, the practical application of Raja Yogas, Daridra Yogas and the like. The book also demonstrates the truth of Vimshottari Dasa.

SOME OF THE HOROSCOPES CONTAINED IN THE BOOK

Sri Krishna, Adi Sankara, Akbar, Alexander, Gautama Buddha, Jesus Christ, Prophet Mahomed, Augustus, Goethe, Aurangzeb, Gandhi, Ramakrishna Paramahamsa, Vivekananda, Tilak, B. Suryanarain Rao, Aurobindo Ghose, Ramana Maharshi, Sri Thyagaraja, Sri Vidyaranya, Rabindranath Tagore, Hitler, Mussolini, Abraham Lincoln, Subhas Bose, Jagadish Bose, Milton, Savarkar, Annie Besant, Bernard Shah, Godse, Stalin, Nehru, Eisenhower, Maotse-Tung, C. R. Das, Ashutosh Mukherjee, Sree Chaitanya, Karl Marx, Nero, Duke of Windsor, etc.

And also horoscopes illustrative of extreme religiousness, suicidal tendencies and certain other definite traits.

Need for Research in Astrology

(A Summary of the Presidential Address delivered at the 11th anniversary celebrations of the Graha Nakshatra Phaladesh Sanshodhan Mandal, Poona, on 25-4-1959 by Prof. B. V. Raman, Editor, THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE).

PROF. RAMAN in the course of his Presidential Address thanked "Mr. Kelkar, the indefatigable secretary of Graha Nakshatra Phaladesh Sanshodhan Mandal for the honour he has done me in asking me to preside over the annual celebrations of the Mandal this evening", and dwelt at length on the scientific basis of astrology. He went on to observe: "The other day, when Mr. Phadnis called on me at Bangalore on behalf of the Mandal, I felt a bit hesitant to accept his kind invitation being conscious of my own incapacity. When I further learnt that the programme included the awarding through me of the degree of Jyotisha Pandit to some eminent astrologers of Poona, the thought occurred to me that the Mandal's choice of the President was not quite happy because I would be the least qualified person to perform such an important task. However, this initial diffidence was overcome by the very charming tone of persuasion of Mr. Phadnis and the thought that as a student of astrology I should not miss the opportunity of not only contributing my humble mite for the cause of astrology but also of participating in the pleasant function of honouring distinguished astrologers. I know I am not talking to a lay audience today. Indeed it would be presumptuous on my part to try to make a case for astrology before such a learned gathering. But yet I seek your indulgence to place before you a picture, however imperfect, of what I consider to be the general background of astrology.

"In recent times, interest in the study of astrology has been growing by leaps and bounds. Paradoxically the world is also told in and out of season that astrology is an idle pursuit, that it is not a useful or serviceable branch of knowledge and that astrologers live mostly on the gullibility of the ill-informed and the ignorant. There are also some persons who look down upon astrology merely because it is fashionable to do so, even though strangely enough, they resort to astrologers, of course privately, even in regard to most trivial affairs.

"The hoary antiquity of Hindu astrology is an established fact. It was propounded in India thousands of years ago by the great Maharshis—men of the highest intellectual and moral calibre, sanity and enlightenment. How can we suppose that these great thinkers intend to perpetuate a fraud on the people in the shape of formulating the science of astrology? Are astrologers intrepid adventurers into the unknown or just harmless cranks? Some of the orthodox scientists, especially the astronomers are apt to decide in favour of the latter alternative. The convinced astrologer however may be tempted to show modern science off the door with the remark that it has been scratching on the surface of things. As a life-long student of astrology, I feel that even if the subject-matter of astrology is peculiarly intractable to all so-called scientific methods of exploration, it is only by pushing these methods as far as they possibly can, that scientists would be able to give a dignified place for astrology in the comity of other sciences. The word astrology covers a multitude of sins and much of what passes as astrology is by no means in line with the real conception of the subject. Actually the word astrology is used in a very vague manner many of the astrologers themselves not understanding the real nature of the forces they are attempting to grapple with and the scope or limitations of the subject." Prof. Raman, proceeding, dealt with the scientific basis of astrology and traced the correlations visible between planetary movements and terrestrial happenings, and exhaustively dealt with the Hindu viewpoint of Karma and its relation to astrology. "Whether we call it deterministic principle, Karmic indication or planetary influence" Prof. Raman said, "the fact is that the existence of correlations between celestial changes and terrestrial phenomena is demonstrated. Astrology explains the fact that a certain phenomenon in time and space can express itself in terms of happenings in the life of an individual or a nation." He then stressed the necessity of making a clear distinction between science that deals with analytical abstraction and the science that deals with human experience. Astrology, according to him, belongs to the latter category. The lecturer cautioned against the inadvisability of measuring the validity of astrology by the yardstick of science. He then dealt with the significance of the New Moon and Full Moon in causing different types of diseases and pointed out how scientific and sensible the ancients were in correlating such astronomical phenomena with human diseases. He further added that the unusual concentration of force within our solar system in the year 1962, when there will be a combination of eight planets in Capricorn should be a warning to our statesmen that the year 1962 would be a very fateful one indeed.

He next cited instances of modern research workers increasingly corroborating the scientific basis of most of the astrological principles handed over to us by the sages. Proceeding, Prof. Raman went on to say that "it is interesting to read the recent scientific findings of the famous sunspot expert John H. Nelson of the Engineering Department of R.C.A. communications. He offers standing evidence that the positions of the planets–Saturn and Jupiter in particular–play a big part in causing magnetic storms—storms that bring out a black-out of communications and severely affect the progress of military action. In National or Mandane astrology, the movements of these two bodies are of great importance. Indeed, Nelson's findings lend weight to many of the precepts of Hindu astrology, based as they are on the inter-relations of planets when in certain mutual geometrical positions. According to Kalyanavarma, planetary distances from their exaltation points are an important horoscopic factor in determining one's general status. This theory of Kalyanavarma is in a way confirmed by the researches of the Viennese scholar Schreiweiss. Of course, he calls astrology by the name of Cosmobiology. His theory, perfectly sensible, is that if planetary influence is assumed to exist this should be greater when the planet is closest to the earth (perigee) than when it is farther away (apogee). He assigned an arbitrary value of 100 to the intensity of the influence when the planet is in perigee and zero at apogee. It must be noted that a planet is at its perigee at approximately the time at which it goes into retrograde motion, and Hindu astrology knows that a planet in retrogression is capable of producing stronger effects.

According to this Viennese, military leaders have high values to their Mars distances. Eisenhower gets 84, Franco gets 87, and Tito gets 94. Again successful people usually show a high Jupiter value and Eisenhower gets 88 and Franco also 88. His other finding is that people who have many planets close to the earth at their birth have a much easier time in going through life than have those in whose charts the majority of planets are distant from earth. This is found to be particularly true of faster moving planets like the Moon, Mercury and Venus. Those who have a low value of Jupiter show a low intensity of striving for recognition. The high Saturn value is characteristic of many difficulties and sorrows one has to face and overcome. Low values of Mars and Mercury show a lesser degree of wilfulness in thought and action. The findings of the Viennese scholar scientifically endorse the various astrological yogas. He feels that these distance values are derived from exact science and should not be ignored.

"Characteristics of persons born in different thithies or lunar days—and thithies mark the mutual geometrical positions of the Sun and the Moon—have been sketched in almost every book on Hindu astrology. For instance, one born on the first lunar day is said to be given to worrying. An American psychologist, based upon the distance of the Moon from the Sun, has made an eight-fold classification of human beings corresponding to eight segments of 45° each commencing from the New Moon. According to him whoever is born at any one phase of the cycle is stamped by the character of that phase. These eight-lunation types of personalities are thus connected with the 8 most characteristic phases of the soli-lunar relationship. The well-known psychologist Carl Jung has divided personalities into "extravert" and "introvert" and then into 4 types according to the predominance in their nature of one of his four psychological functions: intuition, sensation, feeling and thinking. By combining these two kinds of classification, 8 categories or psychological types are created and these are compared by the American psychologist to the eight kinds of personalities which he bases on the soli-lunar relationships. Obviously, this method of approach directly confirms what the Hindu astrologer noticed thousands of years ago—the connection between Moon and mental instability. Persons who have the Moon afflicted in their horoscopes by association with Mars and Saturn in certain signs of the zodiac are delicately unbalanced mentally and they are liable to go over the edge at the time of the New Moon or the 8th lunar day depending upon the nature of the Moon's affliction. A French criminologist has produced statistics to show that apparently motiveless murders, attacks and crimes of all kinds rose and fell in a 28-day cycle corresponding to the phases of the Moon.

"Today there is an imperative need for freeing astrology from dusty cob-webs and placing it on a sounder and firmer basis in line with the peculiar scientific temper of this age. For research-minded people, astrology affords vast scope. The coefficient of correlation between longevity and the dispositions of the Lagna, Moon and Hora Lagna can be

Graha Nakshatra Phaladesh Sanshodhan Mandal

Report of the Eleventh Anniversary Celebrations

BY B. SURYANARAIN RAO, B.Sc.

THE Eleventh anniversary function of Graha Nakshatra Phaladesh Sanshodhan Mandal was celebrated on 25th April 1959 at the Assembly Hall of N.M.V. High School, Poona, under the Presidentship of Prof. B. V. Raman, Editor, THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE, Bangalore. There was a select gathering of distinguished astrologers and citizens of Poona. Dr. P. L. Deshmukh, a leading medical man, who is the Vice-President of the Mandal welcomed Prof. Raman and others present. Introducing Prof. Raman to the distinguished gathering present, Dr. Deshmukh gave a detailed account of the activities Prof. Raman has been engaging himself in during the past twenty-five years by way of various writings on astrology and editing THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE and commended to the attention of the public the single-minded devotion with which Prof. Raman has been serving the cause of astrology. Dr. Deshmukh said, "Prof. Raman's labours in the field of astrology have won universal approbation. He has to his credit a large number of fulfilled national and international predictions made from time to time in his famous ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE. By his able writings, he has created in the minds of the educated public a lively interest for the study and appreciation of astrology. It is a great honour to India that Prof. Raman intends proceeding to America shortly, as the Vice-President of the International Congress of Astro-Science to be held at New York. It is indeed the good fortune of the Mandal that Prof. Raman consented to preside over this evening's celebrations."

Next Mr. D. N. Narvane gave in detail the history of the Institution and explained its aims and objects. In a spirited speech Mr. Narvane countered the baseless charges generally hurled against astrologers and astrology by a handful of ill-informed critics and pleaded for a fair deal to the Institution and its activities. It must be noted that Mr. Narvane, who was a Trade Commissioner in some of the European countries, has been devoting his entire time for the cause of astrology and the Mandal.

On this important occasion the Institution awarded the degree of Jyotisha Pandit to Mr. S. K. Bhatt and Mr. Ajanta Jain and Prof. B. V. Raman handed over the certificates to the two distinguished astrologers. Introducing Mr. Ajanta Jain, Mr. S. K. Kelkar, the Secretary of the Mandal, paid tributes to the astrological activities carried on by Mr. Jain and his co-worker

Srimathi Indoomathi Pandit in Maharashtra. Mr. Kelkar said that Mr. Jain was mainly instrumental in rousing the interest of the Maharashtrians to the importance of Mundane Astrology by his various articles and predictions made from time to time in the Marathi and Gujerati Press, besides bringing out publications on Mundane Astrology in Marathi and Gujerathi. Mr. Kelkar further observed that widespread interest is now being taken by the educated public in the study and promotion of astrology. Regarding Mr. S.K. Bhatt, the other recipient of the title of Jyotisha Pandit, Mr. Kelkar said : " Mr. Bhatt is a silent and unostentatious worker in the field of astrology, having to his credit a number of verified predictions based mostly upon certain methods of prognostication developed by himself ". Concluding his speech Mr. Kelkar expressed pleasure that the Institute was indeed privileged to have the degrees conferred on the two leading astrologers of Poona by Prof. Raman.

Prof. B. V. Raman then delivered his presidential address (a summary has appeared on page 603 of this issue). He gave a a lucid and interesting discourse on various astrological problems and urged for Government aid for astrology. He established by sound reasoning that astrology developed in India thousands of years ago is a live force and not a dead science and explained how modern thinkers in the West, despite their indifferent attitude towards astrology, have indirectly been endorsing the scientific basis of the subject. He placed before the Mandal certain problems of interest to astrologers and astrology which the Mandal could try to tackle satisfactorily.

After the Presidential address, vote of thanks was proposed by Mr. Phadnis, Joint Secretary of the Institute. Mr. Phadnis, a leading businessman of Bombay has been evincing keen interest in the promotion of astrology and despite his pre-occupation with business he has been devoting

[Two points of view have been presented in this issue by our two well-known contributors Dr. W. J. Tucker of London and Srimathi M.A. Rukmini of Madras. Dr. Tucker does not seem to attach much importance to the combination as such but he feels that it is the conjunction of Jupiter and Saturn that would create conditions for a show-down, even though, he has been careful enough to deal with the subject in a non-deterministic manner. Srimathi Rukmini has tried to examine the issue entirely from the viewpoint of Hindu astrology and has advanced arguments suggesting that there is no indication of a world war as a consequence of the combination.—Ed., A.M.]

No. 5—BY DR. W. J. TUCKER, D.Sc.

IN extending to me a kind invitation to participate in this series of articles on the Third World War, the Editor has drawn my attention to the combination of planets that will group in the Nirayana sign of Capricorn alternatively Aquarius, if the Sayana zodiac employed by western astrologers is held on February 2nd, 1962.

It should here be mentioned that apart from the differing usage of the Nirayana zodiac from the Sayana zodiac used by westerners, Hindu astrology also excludes planets outside the orbit of Saturn, whereas western astrologers make use of Uranus, Neptune and Pluto. In addition, Hindu astrology considers the Moon's nodes to be planets.

For this reason, I find it essential to make the following observations to make clear my personal position :

The Moon's Nodes.—The nodes of the Moon consist merely of the two points on the celestial sphere where the imagined line of the Moon's orbit cuts the imagined line of the Sun's orbit twice in each monthly revolution of the Moon. As reference points for astronomical purposes (concerned with enabling predictions as to whether or not a given conjunction or opposition of the Sun and Moon will produce an eclipse), the nodes are of course invaluable. In addition they may perhaps be of some exceptional value on the rather rare occasion when a planet happens to have the same longitude as one of the Moon's nodes at a moment when the planet has zero latitude. However, those two circumstances apart, no physicist could possibly accept the view that the Moon's nodes, per se, possess any influential property whatsoever. Consequently, I myself make no use of the Moon's nodes for predictive purposes.

The Trans-Saturnine Planets.—In my research work I make considerable use of the planets Uranus and Neptune. But I make no use whatever of the planet Pluto. Indeed I most strongly deprecate the highly fanciful deductions which many western astrologers persist in drawing from a basis of dubious analogies and upon (what to me seem to be) incredible associations of ideas.

No. 6—BY SRIMATHI RUKMINI, B.A., B.L.

EVIDENTLY feeling that his own conclusions recorded in the issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE for August 1957 (Pp. 666) and in his address to the Kerala Astrological Association may not be regarded as final, but, need comparative study, in the light of what others may have to say, Prof. B. V. Raman, with his unique catholicity of outlook, and consideration for the opinions of others, has started a symposium on the "8-planet combination to come in February 1962" and has had the kindness to invite me to participate in the discussion. I thankfully accept his invitation, and, in the course of the succeeding paragraphs, I shall place before the public, what I understand would be or may be the results of the said combination which strictly speaking reveals only the nature and consequences of the Karma, of individuals, communities and nations

There have been wars, as must be known to all since the dawn of creation. The wars of Ramayana Mahabharata, Trojan wars and others would, be readily recalled. The Ramayana war could not be described as world war. It had been localized in the land of Ravana. Now, can the Mahabharata war be considered to have been a world Armageddon. Though several Indian kings and states were involved, the fight had been localised in the field of Kuruskshetra. Though Valmiki gave a detailed horoscope of Sri Rama, no such specific chart has been drawn by the poet for the Ramayana war. Of course, here and there there might be indications that might be worked out by researchers. The author of the Mahabharata has been specific in regard to the planetary positions that heralded the dread event.

There is no need to struggle with minute details. Saturn had been described to afflict Rohini. Mars and Jupiter are shown in different constellations standing wide apart. The reference is too well known to be stated more pointedly. My point is the major malefics and major benefics were situated in different signs at the time of the Mahabharata war. But, other conditions described by Vyasa are appalling in all conscience. Complete

It is true that my own scientific training obliges me to be far more cautious. Pluto is a newly-discovered planet that has only been under physical observation by the astrologers since 1930. And inasmuch as the orbital revolution of Pluto is calculated to have a period of 249 years, it is obvious that during the 29 years interval since its discovery, the planet has been practically confined to a single sign of the zodiac—a fact which offers astrologers no justification whatsoever for imagining what Pluto's effects might be in other signs of the zodiac.

Furthermore, the planet Pluto is a remarkably tiny body possessing a mass only one-tenth that of the Earth's. Its diameter measures less than 3,700 miles—which is less than one-half the Earth's own diameter. So that, as we are dealing with physical entities in the universe, we must necessarily pay some regard at least to comparative influences, and it is perfectly obvious that in no way whatever in influential capacity is Pluto to be compared with the influences of the giant planets such as Saturn (diameter 76,500 miles), Uranus (diameter 32,500 miles), or Neptune (35,000 miles). Moreover, Pluto's orbit is so eccentric that when the planet reaches perihelion in 1989, its orbit will lie within Neptune's orbit.

Such are some of the reasons why I entertain most serious doubts concerning the validity of the astrological deductions made in reference to Pluto by many of my contemporaries. And meanwhile, until I have completed my researches and experiments in connection with Pluto, I prefer to leave the planet totally outside consideration instead of adopting completely misleading assumptions.

Having made those points clear, I now turn to the stipulated date of February 2nd, 1962.

Unfortunately, inasmuch as I do not possess an ephemeris for the year 1962, I find myself at a disadvantage, being obliged to calculate the positions which the planets will occupy on the given date, and being unable to find any one co-operative enough to check my figures. However, I have little doubt that the calculations will be found reasonably accurate. They show that on February 2nd, 1962 the Sun, the Moon and planets should be at the following positions, according to Sayana :

Sun	12° Aquarius
Moon	3° Capricorn
Mercury	13° Aquarius
Venus	13° Aquarius
Mars	0° Aquarius
Jupiter	18° Aquarius
Saturn	3° Aquarius
Uranus	29° Leo
Neptune	12° Scorpio

The Moon's south node should be in Aquarius too at that time, although I have not troubled to calculate the exact position. However, counting that node as having the value of a planet, the total number of planets in Aquarius on the given date will be 7.

Now it is perfectly true that on that particular date there will be quite a number of eggs in one special basket labelled Aquarius. Unfortunately, however, I personally am unable to accept the proposition that the congregation of a number of planets in a single sign is an indication that a really momentous and world-shaking event will inevitably follow. For the facts of experience belie any such assumption.

It has to be pointed out that similar congregations of a similar number of planets in a single sign are by no means a rare event. Already, in fact, we have had two such previous congregations during the past half century.

For instance, on December 2nd, 1899 planets were grouped in the following positions :

Jupiter	25° Scorpio
Moon	0° Sagittarius
Uranus	8° Sagittarius
Sun	9° Sagittarius
Mercury	18° Sagittarius
Moon's Node	20° Sagittarius
Mars	21° Sagittarius
Saturn	24° Sagittarius
Venus	29° Sagittarius

However, so far as the world in general was concerned, the period happened to be a remarkably placid one, and the congregation was certainly not followed by any world-shattering event. In fact, the only really discordant event of that year was the South African War. But unfortunately the war did not await the congregation of planets for its outbreak, but started up in October 1899.

Scanned by Parishramjyotish Astrology Seva Trust To Preserve Late B. V. Raman's Work

On Monday, April 28th, 1941 another congregation of planets occurred in Taurus, the positions being as follows :

Mercury	29° Aries
Sun	7½° Taurus
Venus	10° Taurus
Saturn	16⅝° Taurus
Jupiter	23½° Taurus
Uranus	25° Taurus
Moon	26° Taurus

The date was, of course, in the middle of World War II, but no world-shattering event occurred as a result of the congregation. It was certainly not responsible for the war itself, since that scourage had already been raging for nearly two years. On the night of the 27th April 1941, the Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill, reviewed the war position and declared in the broadcast that in view of the aid now assured from America "the eventual and total defeat of Hitler and Mussolini is certain".

social and family chaos as evidenced by incestuous unions and other hideous abnormalities had been prevailing. Neither during the time of the Ramayana war, nor during the time of the Mahabharata fight had there been any grouping of planets.

The world wars 1st and 2nd have been comparatively recent, and the planetary mapping during these days has been before the public since. As the ancients had firm belief in omens and other indications the epics naturally contain an account of the evil omens that had reared their ominous heads in the days of ancient wars. Modern rationalists and civilized persons do not believe in omens. That may be perhaps the reason why the lord does not send these omens to warn unbelievers.

It should be well known that Hindu astrology is made up of three sections or divisions (Thri skandha). They are the Siddhanta, Samhita and Hora sections. The first is concerned with astronomical calculations. The second deals with cosmic phenomena like wars, epidemics, floods, earthquakes and so forth. That may correspond to what the occident regards as mundane astrology. The third has for its subject-matter individual horoscopy or chart reading. Varahamihira has written highly significant and authoritative treatises on all the three divisions. They are Pancha Siddhantika dealing with mathematical calculations, etc., Brihat Samhita dealing with cosmic phenomena and mundane astrology, and Brihat Jataka dealing with individual horoscopy or predictive astrology.

I draw the attention of your readers to Chapter 20 on Graha Sringataka. (Pp. 204, Brihat Samhita, Bangalore Edition). I am afraid the rendering planetary triangle seems incorrect. The term Sringataka simply means group, assemblage, or combination. Varahamihira has listed the combinations and enumerated the consequences connected with each. Regarding the number of the planets, four and five are specifically mentioned. Obviously more than five are contemplated. The consequences are described to be good, bad, and neutral or indifferent. The consequences have been said to be clash of weapons, epidemics, destruction of masses of mankind and so forth. Varahamihira refers to two categories. One is the land together with peoples lying in the direction or the cardinal point concerned. The other is the constellation. The direction and constellation would be the determinants. It is interesting to note that good consequences are also enumerated. Other results are described as neutral or colourless.

The 1962-combination has to be evaluated in the light of the findings recorded by Varahamihira. It is my personal view that Kethu may be ignored. The other seven would be there. I am not taking into account the trans-Saturnine planets which, however, are considered by westerners. The Sun will be dominating the configurational scene or theatre. Practically, all the other six planets are within the ambit of Sun's influence. They are setting or very near the combustion zone. The language used by Varahamihira, however, does not contemplate absolute non-visibility of the other planets. After the sunset, the planets are described as visible in a specific direction. The evil influences are said to affect the said direction or the cardinal point. In this context, again, the translation, "after their emergence from the Sun" does not seem to be quite happy.

I have discussed these stanzas with a number of traditionally trained Pandits, and they themselves, felt somewhat doubtful about the nature of the exact configuration in the heavens. Some said the other planets should be just visible for a while, and then, they would be going down the horizon. Others said they would be seen after sunset. The term direction is used, but, it is not left identified. Yet others said the planets, after their combustion period is terminated, would be just visible for a short time. Varahamihira specifically mentions only five. Surely, more could not be excluded from the context. The direction or the cardinal point in which these planets are visible, is described as liable to witness disasters and destruction, wars and pestilence, grave dangers and difficulties.

In the 1962-combination, it should be obvious that important planets are within the combustion zone. They would not be visible. In their case, the term used by Varahamihira Drisyante will not be applicable.

The term is highly significant. The classical author should have rigorously held the view that planets in combustional propinquity with the Sun will be deemed absolutely powerless either for good or evil. Others are not so near. Their influences will certainly count. Even these influences will be mixed and neutralized in character. The group is held by benefics and malefics in one and the same sign. Neither will be happy. Neither would be in congenial surroundings. Directed by the Almighty Lord of the Universe to be moving in their orbits, and rendering as it were, certain appointed cosmic duties, these planets are as impotent and powerless to escape from uncongenial surroundings as individuals harassed by unscrupulous tenants. To the extent to which the planetary group under consideration includes benefics like Jupiter and Venus, it is bound to indicate some good, at least remote, or, it may help to counteract evil influences of the malefics, or, it may remain neutral and colourless.

At the same time, the group is made up of malefics as well. As Mars has got into the combination, it is bound to put the other planets into flutter. In the company of this incandescent Mars, the other members of the solar system, cannot even breathe freely. The planets have to exist and function amidst such uncongenial and even antagonistic conditions and disturbing environment. Varahamihira has mentioned the direction in which the evil indicated by the planetary group would be felt. Not merely this. He has also explained that persons born under the constellations involved would be subjected to sufferings. If the Nirayana reckoning be adhered to, the constellations would be Uttarashada, Sravana and fifty per cent of Dhanishta. Sun, Moon and Mars will function as the rulers of the constellations. If the Sayana reckoning be followed, the constellations would be Dhanishta (half) Satabhisha, and Poorvabhadrapada (three-fourth). The rulers would be Mars, Rahu and Jupiter. Here again, Mars seems most powerful on account of his rulership of a constellation assigned both to Makara and Kumbha. It thus, becomes, a source for mischief unique in evil propensities.

In Varahamihira's account of the different countries lying in different directions, one would come across more of the places in Bharat, than of foreign lands and countries in accordance with the general geographical knowledge then prevalent. The wars and fights contemplated by Varahamihira evidently, should be understood to be those between states within India, but, no world war, in the sense, in which it is being used now, would have been then thought of. Varahamihira himself, has assigned the zodiacal signs to different cardinal points or directions. East, South, West and North are repeated in order from Aries.

The 1962–planetary group would be in signs associated with south and west, in accordance with Varahamihira's assignment. Taking India as the centre, it may be stated that the effects of the planetary combination would be felt in countries lying south and west of India. It is impossible to have an absolutely fixed starting point from which south and west can be identified. The judgment is bound to be relative. Each country will have to identify its own south and west. Such a relativity of judgments is inherent in all astronomico-astrological schemes of interpretation, in view of the well-known effects of differences in latitudes and longitudes.

How is this planetary combination to be interpreted? I am aware of the tradition or usage according to which certain zodiacal signs are assigned to different countries as determining their destinies. For instance, it is said that the sign of England or British Isles is Aries. Gemini is said to rule United States of America. Leo is said to rule France. Aquarius is said to rule Soviet Russia. Your readers will be knowing the assignment of the signs to other countries. I have given my best thought to understanding the rationale or rational justification of this scheme, but, there appears to be a certain amount of arbitrariness, in the assignment which has not been satisfactorily accounted for by astrologers. Taking the scheme for granted, one method of interpreting the 8–planet combination would be to start with the signs allotted to different countries, and taking them as ascendants, the chart prepared has to be studied in the same manner as any other horoscope. Second method of interpretation would be to take the combination, as one of the main topics or subject-matter mentioned in the Samhita portion. The reading of the significance would be on the lines laid down by Varahamihira. The third method would be to judge the combination, as one occurring in the course of planetary transits and read the significance, on the lines laid down for determining the effects of the Gochara planets. I shall briefly examine these methods one by one to see what may be the likely consequences.

Today, the Eastern powers do not count for much. (I beg pardon of Indian politicians for this statement). Western power blocks rule the world practically. The western power block is dominated by America and Russia. If at all, there would be a third world war, the parties to enter the arena first would be these two countries. In their wake other countries may be drawn in and involved willy-nilly.

If Gemini be the sign controlling America, the combination occurs in the 8th house, or in the 9th. The former is connected with frustrations and disappointments. The latter is associated with luck, fortunes, and all forms of material prosperity. The combination occurring in these houses would vitally and dynamically influence the affairs connected with them. If Gemini be taken as ascendant, then, the combination reveals a curious mixture or conglomoration of good and evil planets. The combination, at a single stroke, as it were, contains within itself rulers of the trines and quadrants, rulers of the 6th, 8th and the 12th houses.

I do not feel competent to say dogmatically or categorically, whether the 8-planet combination would herald the Third World War, but, it contains ingredients inflammable enough to start a conflagration even with the operation of a tiny spark. American economic and socio-political conditions indicate rapid strides of advancement in beneficent directions, and comparatively newer things might be brought into existence. But, the constructive values may not be permanently reared up or fostered. As the 8th house effects must follow, there would be disasters and destructions. There is no need further to elaborate the argument. Just as an ordinary chart is studied, America's chart with Gemini as ascendant may be studied, the combination of planets being noted either in the 8th or the 9th. Speaking of frustrations and disasters, these may be connected with earth, fire, air, water, and space, or ether.

In the same manner, taking Aquarius to be the ascendant of Russia, it would be seen the combination would be occurring either in the 12th or in the ascendant itself. Corresponding to 8th and 9th in the case of America, Russia would have the 1st and the 12th houses. As the ascendant itself is involved, there would be drastic changes in the socio-political set-up or pattern of Russia. In this country, anything may happen. Your readers will recall how one fine morning, in a particular context, the Third International was unceremoniously wound up and closed down. Anything may be revived at a moment's notice. Anything may be closed down. Should at all, the Third World War be waged, it may not be possible for any one power to claim or obtain decisive or conclusive victory. Whosoever may be the victorious party, it would be gaining only pyrrhic victory.

That cannot be helped. While in the case of one power, the 8th house is involved, in the case of the other, the 12th has entered into the bargain.

If the second approach be pursued, the Samhita indications as enumerated by Varahamihira would be prominent consequences. Earth tremors, fires, floods, travel disasters, epidemics and so forth may be the likely consequences. The directions will be indicated by Capricorn and Aquarius. They will be respectively south and west. It is difficult to say which is to be taken as the starting point or centre of reference for the determination of south and west. Is Himalayan range the starting point? Or, the mythical Mount Meru? Or, the range of Vindhyas? Here again, a certain amount of vagueness, indecision, uncertainty and other elusive factors have to be reckoned with.

I may not be far out, or out at all, if I just venture to suggest a commonsense procedure. Each country may be judged a starting point for its own purposes. From that country, southern and western countries and peoples may be determined. These may be taken to be subjected to the evil effects enumerated by Varahamihira. I am led to say this, because, Varahamihira has unequivocally and unhesitatingly mentioned direction or cardinal point in which the combination appears to be noticed.

Students of Ramayana may be inclined to associate south with the land of the Rakshasas and Ravana, and it is likely Ceylon, and Australia may be adversely affected by this combination. It should not, at the same time be forgotten that the combination is holding within itself, rulers of the favourable houses as well.

So, the results will be likewise mixed in character and it would be extremely risky to predict either good or evil exclusively. This should be taken to be inevitable. Predictive astrology, be it individual horoscopy or mundane astrology, is none-theless human endeavour, and as such, it must share the imperfection, inconclusiveness, and uncertainties inseparably intertwined with all human effort.

If the third method of approach be pursued, readings will have to be given in accordance with the well-known and standardised principles laid down in the classical texts and treatises. There is hardly any need to develop this picture further, as the effects of planetary transits are familiar to most students of astrology, and even to some laymen swallowing with avidity the astrological columns in Daily Press.

Those whose rasi (i.e., Janma Rasi) is Pisces or Aries, would find most of these planets good and evil in the eleventh house, and the peculiar position would indicate fairly large slice of gains, profits, financial returns by means of speculative venture and so forth. In determining the effects of the Gochara planets, it has been stated that even malefics turn out to be favourable in the eleventh house. It should be made clear that this approach is only for the individual horoscopy, but, not for mundane astrology.

If countries dominated by Pisces or Aries be expecting windfalls and high money in this period, they may be disappointed. Individuals are sure to be successful. It is most likely that certain important and celebrated Film magnates and Press magnates be confronted with a lot of around troubles along with extraordinary financial output.

I should perhaps briefly examine if this combination may be described as Golaka Yoga as was actually done in certain Daily Papers of Madras. It is a pity that the editors and correspondents of these papers had so easily and readily arrogated to themselves a type of omniscience which could never be theirs. For, he who runs may read that Varahamihira has listed the Golaka Yoga in the chapter on Nabhasa Yogas. The text is open to all. There are translations. It would be easy to see that this yoga refers to individual charts, and it has not any place in mundane astrology. In individual horoscopy, the Golaka Yoga has been taken to be a bad yoga and it would be indicating nothing good or favourable to the subject.

Not merely this. Clarifying the matter, further, Varahamihira has plainly stated that these yogas are permanently effective throughout life, in all the dasas and in all the periods. (Niyata Phaladah Sarvasvapi Dasasu).

So, the attempt made by some in the Daily Papers to describe the 1962 combination as Golaka Yoga should be dismissed as untenable. It can only be taken to be Graha Sringataka within the jurisdiction of the samhita section of astrology.

There is doubtless a Sringataka Yoga listed in the chapter on Nabhasa Yogas. That is, however, a totally different combination. Varahamihira observes that this yoga will be appearing, if in a chart all the important planets lie in distribution amongst the three houses—the 9th, 5th and the ascendant. The Graha Sringataka, on the other hand, is a group which is concentrated in a single sign. So, the two Sringatakas have easily recognisable characteristic features, and there is nothing to bring about any confusion as between the two.

Another important point deserves notice. In the present planetary combination, all the planets are near the Sun. That would mean that they are situated farthest from the planet occupied by man. It is good for all concerned. In view of their enormous distance from the earth, they may not be able to work as much mischief as they might have, if they had been nearer. This argument may have popular value. Or, it may even have some astronomical value. Whatever that be, it is lucky that the mischief-making planets are all far away from the earth.

Whether one talks of the gravitational pull, or any other form of attraction, or any other form of interplanetary actions and reactions, or radiation of energy and so on and so forth, the outstanding fact remains that such phenomena as the combination are simply milestones, on the interminable highway of time. Lord Simsumara, the Supreme Ruler and Energiser of Dhruva Mandala which in its turn controls the entire planetary system as known to Man and systems that are still unknown, fulfils Himself in many ways, and in the course of the onward March of Time, exhibits and displays prominently cosmic indications like the 8-planet combination as a warning and guidance.

It is a warning to intellect intoxicated mankind. Man may send out sputniks in space, but he cannot order these combinations to occur at will. Nor, can he prevent their effects, particularly, evil effects. It is a guidance, afforded to mankind in the cultivation of humility and religious devotion to the Supreme Lord—the Creator of the planetary systems. It should be clear the planets themselves are helpless. They cannot choose or select their own destinies.

Planets are pushed into houses of enemies. They are put in the company of strange bedfellows. They come into clash and conflict with one another.

It is not their private affair at all. Their movements, their conjunctions, their aspects, their oppositions, and other phenomena are all so many indications thrown out of the evolution of the destinies of individuals and sections of mankind unfolding itself according to the great and universal Law of Karma.

Whether mankind will heed the warning or will care to profit by the wise counsel and guidance, it would be impossible to state dogmatically.

Perhaps, the most significant point would be to consider this combination vis-a-vis the position of Saptarshi mandala. The Rishis are there rendering severest of penances for the welfare of sinning and erring mankind. They take one hundred years to cover a single star of the constellational system. They were moving in Magha when King Yudhistira was ruling. I do not desire to enter into prohibited region of Indian Chronology. If, in the beginning of Kali, the Rishis were transitting Magha, and if they take 100 years to move through a single star, one can easily calculate the present position of these holy sages who are doing penances for saving mankind from disasters and destructions.

I am told the Rishis are much nearer the earth than the combination of the planets foreboding evil. It seems to me that the saving grace of the Rishis will be showered on mankind and there might not be any world-wide destruction of masses of mankind brought about by mankind itself.

Yoga, Psychology and Parapsychology—XV

BY DR. V. M. BHATT, B.A., M.B.B.S.

III. Control Mediums or "Possession"

NOW we will turn to category three of the evidence in which the phenomena of control mediums can be seen. In ordinary language it is called "possession". And I will first quote the case of Helen Smith, described by one of the most respected professors of Psychology, Dr. McDougall, in his Abnormal Psychology (Ed. 1946, Pp. 510–514). He says that the case was "most admirably studied and reported by Prof. Flournoy, Professor of Psychology at Geneva", and he thinks "it must rank as a classical case". She was a respectable young woman, and developed mediumistic powers while attending private seances. Her mediumship was complex, including waking vision, automatic speech and writing, and auditory hallucinations. These messages seemed connected with spirit 'Leopold', who claimed to be her guide and possessor. These revelations have a common origin in the medium's depth. It appeared that Helen had twice lived upon the earth before her present incarnation. Once, five hundred years ago, she was an Arab Chief's daughter who (Simandini by name) became the favourite wife of a Hindu prince Shivrouka, who reigned over a kingdom of Kanara, and constructed in 1401 the fortress of Chandragiri. Flournoy says "researches in old and little-known books on Indian history confirmed some of the details such as the names of the places and persons described in this romance. Simandini uttered many Hindu words and phrases, and wrote also similar phrases in Arabic script. All this various mimicry and the exotic speech have so strongly the marks of originality, ease and naturalness that one asks with stupefaction whence comes to this medium... without artistic training and without special knowledge of the orient, a perfection of art which the best actress might attain only at the cost of prolonged studies or by residence on the banks of the Ganges".

Flournoy gives other revelations through Helen Smith, but I will not give them here for want of space. About her controlling spirit 'Leopold', the author says, that he manifested himself in visual hallucinations, in automatic speech and writing, most commonly during trance, but also at other times. He disclosed that beneath the pseudonym of 'Leopold' was hidden the personality of the famous Cagliostro.

And strangely enough Flournoy repudiates decidedly the spiritualistic hypothesis of 'possession'. One wonders how these psychologists explore all the other hypotheses except the right one!

Equally convincing and very well authenticated case of this 'control' or possession phenomena is about 'R' 101 Disaster, given by Harry Price in his book (Pp. 151–153). Mrs. Garrett was a British trance-medium, with 'Uvani'—an Arab spirit, as her control. She is also known for her work at the Duke and other American Universities. R 101 was an airship which crashed in France, near Beauvais on 5–10–1930. Her commander was Lt. Irwin, who perished along with others. On 7–10–1930, a sitting was held by Price, and as soon as Mrs. Garrett went into trance, Uvani announced that Irwin wished to communicate. It was about 60 hours after the crash. The medium's voice suddenly changed, and Irwin gave a detailed and highly technical account of how and why the airship crashed. This was at once noted, and Price sent copies of it to the British authorities. At the subsequent public inquiry, under Sir John Simon, some of Irwin's statements were found to be correct. Some of the facts proved were: bulk of the derigible was too much for her engine capacity, engines were too heavy...elevator was jammed. Flying was at too low an altitude, load was too great for long flight, etc. One remarkable statement was about this exorbitant 'scheme of carbon and hydrogen, which was entirely and absolutely wrong.' No experiment about it had actually taken place, and the scheme was unknown outside official circles, and its sudden revelation by an entranced medium in a London seance was quite startling. Another remarkable statement was: "we almost scraped the roofs at Achy". This Achy village was not to be found in any guide book or press report of the disaster. Nor was it marked in any map. But it was there in the large scale map, which Irwin was using. This fact makes it probable that it was Irwin's spirit that was relating the true story. Price remarks: "It was inconceivable that Mrs. Garrett could have acquired the R 101 information through normal channels, and the case strongly supports survival". (Italics mine). As an argument for spirit communication, it is much more convincing than the evidence provided by Raymond (?). Telepathy will not cover the facts. Because no one at the seance was thinking of R 101 disaster, and no one had any technical knowledge of airships? Price, like Flournoy, was a non-believer in spirit theory but this and other evidence compelled him to change his opinion. And in the chapter "I Believe" on page 298, he propounded his theory of survival in the following words: "My own theory concerning such cases is that a portion of us, an emanation of an ego or personality, or a part of our intelligence persists after death, and can be picked up by a suitable mind attuned to that emanation. The contacting of Mrs. Garrett with the persisting residue of the departed Irwin is a brilliant example of this. I am convinced that this is the correct theory". Does this not approximate to, or translate, our Vedantic theory of Linga Deha? Dr. Broad's 'Emergence Theory' echoes partly Patanjali's idea contained in the sutra 4 of Ch. IV which says that minds are created out of ego inasmuch as the doctor suggests, like Price, that a "psychic factor" survives the dissolution of the body, and this factor unites with an entranced medium's mind and a temporary mind emerges out of this union and reveals details of its previous owner's life". Readers will see how verified factual evidence compelled these investigators to acknowledge 'survival' as the only solution which covers all such facts.

Exactly parallel to the above R 101 case is that of Raymond's communications to his father Sir Oliver Lodge about his photograph and other matters. Raymond was Sir Oliver's son and was killed in the Great War I on September 14, 1915. Eleven days after his death, Raymond communicated to his mother about it (the photograph) through Mrs. Gladys Leonard, a 'control' medium,—whose control was 'Feda', an Indian girl's spirit. Later Vout Peters, another control medium, became cognisant on 27–9–1915 of Raymond's photograph, taken on 24–8–1915, with a group of officers. On 3–12–1915, Mrs. Leonard, or her control Feda, gave details of this photo and its whereabouts, and on 7–12–1915, Sir Oliver received a copy of it exactly at the place mentioned by Feda. The accuracy of the mediumistic description was thus fully confirmed. Yet, Price, following Dr. Richet, is not willing to believe in spirit theory in this case, as Raymond gave very few details about himself. But the argument falls flat when we remember that, neither Mrs. Leonard, nor the Lodge family, knew even the existence of such a photograph or its whereabouts. And when we read Raymond Revised by Lodge, which gives abundant details of a personal character, unknown to anybody on earth, Price's suspicions seem to be completely groundless.

More startling proof of this 'possession' or control phenomena can be found in cases where an illiterate medium is found to speak, in trance, in languages, which he had never had a chance in his life to hear or learn. More convincing the case becomes, when he speaks in languages like the old Chinese or old Egyptian, spoken two or three thousands of years ago. I will quote from Osborne's The Superphysical (Pp. 216—219) two such cases abridged for want of space. Dr. Neville Whymant has described a case in Psychic Adventures in New York in which George Valiantine, a simple stupid and quite unlettered man was the medium. Dr. Whymant himself was a world-renowned authority on oriental languages. In one sitting, he heard from Valiantine's mouth the sounds of a Chinese flute, and an indistinct name 'Kung-fu-tsu' (Confucius' name) and some other words. After several repetitions, Whymant knew that Valiantine was speaking in old classical Chinese of Confucius' time (2500 years ago). Now it is a dead language. Whymant proceeds: "I thought of a supreme test—several poems in the 'Shee King'—have baffled the commentators ever since Confucius himself edited the work. Western and Chinese scholars have long ago given up trying to understand them. I knew the first lines of some of these poems. It occurred to me that...I might now get a chance to astound the communicator who called himself 'Confucius'. I asked if the master would explained to me the meaning of one of these long obscure odes. I recited the first line of the third ode. I did not know any other lines of it. The voice (through Valiantine's mouth) took up the poem and recited it to the end. I made notes of it and jotted down keys to the intonation used. The voice had put a new construction on the verses, and made the whole as a normal poem".

"There were about a dozen sittings. The self-styled Confucius was very regular. Fourteen foreign languages were used in these twelve sittings. They included Chinese, Hindi, Persian, Sanskrit, Arabic, Portuguese, Italian, German and Greek".

In the absence of any background of the principle of Reincarnation, Osborne discounts the idea of Confucius coming and giving the correct interpretation of the poem. Indians will not give up the idea so easily. If Confucius is still living, in the other world (Loka as we call it), there is no inherent impossibility of his spirit controlling or possessing Valiantine and satisfying Whymant's 'supreme test'. But Osborne, while discarding the above idea, is faced with two equally difficult theories: (1) of cosmic record, and (2) a discarnate mind. Both these assumptions involve, as he says, "a psychic functioning independently of the brain", a position not fundamentally different from the one adopted by those who accept the spiritist hypothesis.

Equally remarkable is the case of 'Nona' who 'possssed' or controlled 'Rosemary', an ordinary English girl medium. Osborne writes that no one living was familiar with the vowel element of the spoken language of ancient Egypt, with the exception of Howard Hulme, who learned it from 'Nona'. The mediumship, under the scholarly guidance of Mr. Hulme has, says Dr. Fredrick Wood in his Rosemary Xenoglossy completely restored to Egyptologists the vowel element as spoken in Egypt 3300 years ago! Nona used these vowels consistently and fluently along with the known consonants...ever since the Xenoglossy began (1931). In some cases a word used in 1932 did not recur till 1936...and yet its pronounciation and grammatical usage were exactly the same. Nona's Egyptian is as fluent and easy as my command of English. Dr. Wood, who particularly investigated this case, considers that this case provides "the strongest inference of immortality hitherto published in evidential form". (Pp. 219).

Nona claims to have lived in Egypt in 1380 B.C., as one of the wives of Pharoah Amenhotep III. It is also asserted that Rosemary was her contemporary. Dr. Wood states that over two hundred examples of the old Egyptian tongue have been spoken through Rosemary, a common English girl, they have been analysed and translated by an expert. They are correct speech-idioms of the period 1380 B.C. Osborne concludes: "The memory in this case belongs to Nona, the 'spirit control', who strictly speaking is not reincarnated. But if we accept Nona as a separate entity, we might also accept that Rosemary was a contemporary of hers, and is therefore now reincarnated". These ancient dead language tests drive us to conclude that (1) spirit or soul in the Linga Deha survives after bodily death, and (2) it makes its presence evident by 'possession' or control test, or by automatic writing, speech and other means.

Regarding this category of evidence Myers says in Chap. XI of his abridged edition of Human Personality (1927): "The phenomena of possession are the most amply attested as well as intrinsically the most advanced in our whole repertory. Let us then at once consider what the notion of 'possession' does actually claim. The claim is that the automatist in the first place falls into a trance, during which his spirit 'partially' quits the body, enters at any rate into a state in which the spiritual world is more or less open to its perception; and in which also—and this is the novelty—it so far ceases to occupy the organism as to leave room for an invading spirit to use it in somewhat the same fashion as its owner is accustomed to use it. The brain being thus left partially uncontrolled, a disembodied spirit, sometimes but not always, succeeds in occupying it. In some cases (Mrs. Piper), two or more spirits may simultaneously control different portions of the same organism. The controlling spirit proves his identity—by facts, which belong to his memory. He may also give evidence of supernormal perception of other kinds. After a time, automatist's spirit returns. The automatist awaking, may or may not remember his experiences in the spiritual world during the trance". (Pp. 268).

More significant of this psychical excursion of the automatist's spirit is the fact that it paves the way to the extremist claim to a novel faculty 'Ecstasy'—a wandering vision ... not confined to this earth ... but introduces the seer into the spiritual world and among communities higher than any which the planet knows". (Pp. 270).

The inevitable conclusion, Myers draws from the evidence on 'possession' is: "one must thus practically regard the body as an instrument upon which the spirit (automatist's or of other discarnate being) plays—an ancient metaphor which now seems actually our nearest approximation to truth". (Pp. 273).

Scanned by www.digitalmeditationblog.com to Preserve the Spiritual Work

Discussing the theoretical importance of the spirit's excursion noted above, he very particularly draws the same conclusion which we have drawn in the last and the present chapters. He says: "If a spirit from outside can enter the organism, the spirit from inside can go out, can change its centre of perception and action, in a way less complete and irrevocable than the change of death. 'Ecstasy' would thus be simply the complimentary or correlative aspect of spirit control. Such a change need not be a spatial change. If the incarnate spirit can change its centre of perception in response to a discarnate spirit's invasion of the organism, there is no obvious reason why it should not do so on other occasions as well". (Pp. 294).

And his last peroration in the epilogue is worth quoting: "Amid much deception, fraud, and illusion, veritable manifestations do reach us from beyond the grave. The central claim of Christianity (viz. The Resurrec- tion of Christ) is thus confirmed as never before. If our own friends can return to tell us of love and hope, a mightier spirit may well have used the eternal laws with a more commanding power. There is nothing to hinder the devout conviction that He of His own act took upon Him the form of a servant, and was made flesh for our salvation". (Pp. 298).

My friend Dr. P. S. Mahajan knows of one illiterate Hindu Brahmin woman reciting prayers from Koran when she was possessed by a Muslim spirit. So also another friend of mine, Dr. Limaye, frequently heard a Hindu illiterate cowherd boy reciting Koran in trance. When he came out of it, he could not utter correctly any prayer in his own Marathi language. Dr. Limaye told me that he and his friends one day brought one Muslim priest to listen to his recital of Koranic prayers, and the priest himself confessed to them that very few Arabic scholars could say these prayers so correctly as the boy did in trance. These two instances support Myers' conclusion.

One may ask what are the points of difference between these 'possessed' personalities, and the secondary personalities mentioned before. The points are:

	'Possessed'	Secondary Personalities
1.	In these cases individuality of the dead is proved.	No. It is indefinite.
2.	No effect on medium's body, mind or intellect.	Profound effect.
3.	Trance is not always necessary.	Usually necessary.
4.	Individuality of the spirit proved sometimes by automatic speech, writing or movement of objects.	Not necessary.
5.	Duration usually temporary.	May last for months and years even.

Research in Astrology

The Editor of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE will be glad to receive birth particulars of persons suffering or having suffered from chronic diseases, misfortunes pertaining to family life, loss of children, loss of political power, social status, etc. Persons who are very rich, who are extremely poor, who occupy high positions, who have suffered from incarcerations (political or otherwise) will also do well to send their birth particulars (time, place and date) giving dates of such important happenings and also enclosing their photographs and palm impressions.

These horoscopes will be made use of by our Research Department for purposes of astrological investigation. They will be treated confidentially and illustrated for demonstrating typical astrological principles. Readers should note that making predictions is beyond the scope of this section. Those who wish to submit their horoscopes should fill in the details called for above in a questionnaire which will be supplied free on request to

Role of Symbology in Astrology

BY SURENDRA NATH KASHYAP

ASTROLOGY is both a science and an art. Were it merely a "science" it would not have been so difficult of practice as it is actually found to be, for after all science is comparatively easy of practice as the operation of its laws requires empirical and mathematical knowledge whereas an art requires inter alia the faculty of imagination which may elude the mental grasp of persons whose minds are incapable of soaring and going beyond the four walls of materialistic conception of things. In any art the flight of imagination plays a prominent part and astrology is no exception to the general rule. In astrology the flight of imagination has to work on the plane of "analogy" and "correspondence" which are the basis of the science of symbology.

Symbology, in fact, is very intimately related not only to astrology—the divine art of interpretation of the stellar positions—but also to all systems of prophecy or divination. The Cheshta Sastra or the science and art of pose and movements for example, lays great emphasis on the importance of symbology in the matter of interpretation of good and bad results for any person putting a query to the divinor. The nature of movement, pose, position, of the enquirer and the circumstances prevailing round about him at the time of query determine both the nature of query and its answer. This has been clearly stated by the great Varahamihira in 51st Chapter of his famous Samhita thus :—

दैवज्ञेन शुभाशुभं दिगुदितस्थानाहतानीक्षता
वाच्यं प्रष्टु निजा परांग धारनीं चालोक्य
लकाल धिया।

सर्वज्ञो हिचराचरात्मकतयाऽसौ सवपर्शी विभ
च्चेष्टा व्याहृतिभिः शुभाशुभफलं संद-
र्शयन्यर्थिनीम् ॥

The divinor should tell the enquirer about the good or bad results of his query by a thorough consideration of the nature of the time, the direction, the place and the movement, pose, etc., of the enquirer and those round about him for the Omniscient and Omnipresent lord embodies in himself all that is created and tells himself as it were, through the chest and movements, etc., of the enquirer, the nature of his query and its results.

For example if the class or caste of the party involved is desired to be determined, it should be seen as to what portion of the body is touched by the enquirer at the time of query. If he touches the neck or the portion of the body above it, the class or caste is "Brahmin" or priestly. If he touches the portion of the body below the neck and above the naval, the class is Kshatriya or warrior, i.e., military. If he touches the portion between the naval and above the knees, the class involved is Vaishya or the trader and lastly, if he touches the portion of the body below the knees, the class involved is Sudra or the labourer, i.e., the lowest. It would be seen that the symbology of the high and the low has been applied. That which is situated higher up in the body, viz., the head corresponds to Brahmin who is of course highest in the social set up everywhere by whatever name he may be called. The symbology seems to have been borrowed from the holy Vedas which declare :—

ऊरुतददय पद्ड्यम् शूद्रोऽजायत।

—Rig Veda.

That of the Virat Purusha—the symbolized social man—Brahmin is the head, arms—the Kshatriyas—thigh, the Trader and feet—the Sudras.

Similarly the prophetic art of dream interpretation also works on the principle of "correspondences" implied in symbology. When the biblical prophet interpreted the dream of ban kine as foreboding a famine he was clearly working on the "law of correspondence" which forms the bedrock of the science of symbology.

Most of the readers of this esteemed journal would be aware that the author of Scientific Laws of Hand-reading has explained at some length that the pose, demeanour, manner of movement, etc., of persons has a great bearing on their character. Here, in the sphere of palmistry also, the character is judged on the basis of analogy and symbology.

The system of prediction known as Ramal makes use of 16 shapes of dots and lines arising out of the member selected by the enquirer at random. This system has also 12 houses like the houses of astrology and assigns to each of them exactly the same traits and characteristics as we assign in astrology. Here again symbology is seen clearly operating the field for in Ramal there cannot possibly be any question of the division of the mundane position standing for houses of astrology.

Instances of other systems of divination can be cited. But we would now like to offer our remarks on symbology as we find it operating in astrology. In this system of divination symbology has a basic importance. Here we start from the premise "यत्पिण्डे तद्ब्रह्माण्डे". As above so below. The shape, colour, strength, position, speed, movement, distance, in fact every conceivable trait of planets has a corresponding meaning for us on this earth.

It is the fundamental principle of astrology that the planets reproduce on the earth conditions and circumstances corresponding to their own conditions and circumstances in the heavens.

It is left to the developed art of symbology of the astrologer to read a meaning in their position interse and to transpose it to the affairs of the earth—a difficult and divine art indeed.

It is known to all students of astrology that in determining the relative length of objects, use is made of the signs which are considered as having various lengths in comparison to one another. Aries, Taurus, Aquarius and Pisces are considered as of short length, Gemini, Cancer, Sagittarius and Capricorn are of middle length while Leo, Virgo, Libra and Scorpio are of great length. One may ask the question. Is Aries really shorter than Gemini and is the latter really shorter than Leo? By no means, for all signs are of equal length, viz., 30 degrees. What then is the basis of differentiation? The answer lies in the fact that use has been made of the science of symbology in this respect. How? The Sun is observed to take the least time in traversing Aries and Pisces and more time in traversing Taurus and Aquarius, etc. The apparent variation in the time taken by the Sun to traverse different signs of the zodiac has served the students of the science of symbology to furnish a basis on which to allot different lengths to different signs.

Students of astronomy are well aware that the Sun is classified as a "star" and not as a "planet". In other words according to the science of astronomy Sun has no perceptible motion like the wandering planets Moon, Mars, etc. Still astrology treats Sun as a planet, and quite justifiably in our opinion, for in astrology we are concerned with "appearances" also and not merely with the true but hidden traits of the heavenly bodies. To us on earth the Sun appears to move. We see its movements and interpret it symbologically and assign restlessness to the Sun and then we make practical use of the symbology by declaring a person to possess a restless nature if Sun happens to be in his ascendant. Such a person is desirous always to be on the move. He does not like to set motion less even in his study room and has an urge to pace up and down that room!

When we read in the holy Vedas that "सूर्य आत्मा जगतस्तस्थुषश्च" "Sun is the Atma of all that is stationary or moving", we do not restrict the meaning of the term "Atma" to the soul of the Universe. By symbology we extend its meaning to all spheres of enquiry. Everywhere Sun will stand for Atma—the soul—the innermost essence, the core of the problem or the object, the heart and vitality of the situation—the prop—the base. For example, in the matter of relations we take Sun as the father for he is the origin of the whole family. In body he is the vital part—the heart. In the alphabet the consonants cannot be pronounced without the help of the vowels. The latter are the soul so to say of the former. This is the reason why Sun rules over the vowels as against the consonants. The application of symbology is clear.

Moon is the fastest moving planet in the whole of our solar system. Mind is the fastest moving principle known to man in in his own make up. Hence by the law of symbology we equate Moon to mind for mind is as fickle and fast as the Moon.

Great problems of life cannot be thought out in the hustle and bustle of a fickle and fast-moving mind. These problems require for their solution our pointed attention and concentrated thought which is possible only to a methodic, exact, slow and patient mind. Thus concentration, contemplation, samadhi and the like are by the laws of symbology the traits of Saturn—the slow-moving planet and not of the fickle and fast moving planet Moon. For the same reason, of the law of correspondence, the lame persons are considered to correspond to Saturn also called pungu for the lame must of necessity walk slow like Saturn.

The epithet Kumar for Mercury is also based on the conception of symbology. Kumara means a boy—not merely in age but also in time. Mercury rules over Gemini and Virgo the two signs immediately surrounding those of the Sun and the Moon. Since Sun and Moon are treated as Lagnas, the assignment of position next to the Lagnas to Mercury has its own symbological meaning. It means that Mercury rules over the period of age following the birth years. Hence the period of boyhood is ruled by Mercury. The symbology applies still further. In any problem of time, if the total period corresponds to the whole life concerned, the portion of that whole period governed by Mercury will be the first period. For example, if the whole of the married-period-of-life be considered as 35 years and be divided into 7 equal parts of 5 years each the part governed by Budha will be the first of those parts. Thus if Budha lord of 7th suffers and denotes separation, the event will take place within first 5 years of married life. This is the practical use of the science of symbology, for we have applied the fact of Budha's lordship in space to its lordship in life's time.

To the question why Sun and Moon are given in astrology an importance equal to that of the ascendant, the answer is furnished by the same science of symbology. We know that the ascendant is the starting place —the beginning—the birth, the cause, the first factor, in all problems. There the Sun and Moon in their relation to the inhabitants of this earth and to other beings on this earth are the cause of life, the source of life—the start of life. Thus the Sun and Moon are likened to Lagna.

Rahu and Kethu are not material bodies like the Sun, Moon or other planets. These are only points in space. Yet without Rahu and Kethu in the astrological system, it would not be possible to predict correctly. The recognition of the astrological value of these mere points in space by the Indian seers is a proof of the fact, if proof was needed, that in the astrological system "appearances" and "phenomenon" have an importance in no way less than that of the actual impact of the influences emanating from the planets. This is nothing but a recognition of the symbological value of these points.

We mistake serpent for the rope. The cause is the shadow of the darkness. Hence shadows are deceitful. These shadows like Rahu and Kethu hide from our view the light of truth. Symbology therefore, equates Rahu and Kethu with the spirit of deceit. Whenever Rahu and Kethu have an intimate relation with the factors denoting mind such as Moon and the 4th house, we can be sure that the man is deceitful, cunning, hiding true facts, diplomatic, etc.

The sight of Sun and Moon being devoured by the shadow —Rahu is really awful. We apply the symbol of this terrifying sight to actual life and say that Moon is terrified of Rahu and wherever we see in a horoscope Rahu linked to a weak Moon as well as the fourth house and or its lord, we opine that the native is likely to suffer from fits such as that of epilepsy where fear of one type or another is present. This is again the practical use of the application of symbology to astrology.

Do planets really have a retrograde motion is another question that may be posed. The answer is clearly in the negative. Students of astronomy know it for certain that Mars, etc., in reality always move in the same direction in space. It is as a result of an illusion created by our own relative position that they appear to us as retrograde. Yet appearances are vital to astrology. A retrograde planet even though it is so in appearance only has tremendous significance in the art of prediction. If we know retrogression, we can apply its symbology in the art of astrology. Retrogression is the motion of Mars, etc., in a direction opposite to the one normally followed by them. Symbologically retrogression will stand for the trait of giving results opposite in nature to those normally expected of a planet. For example, Jupiter in Cancer is considered in exaltation and is normally expected to give excellent results by virtue of exaltation but an exalted Jupiter in retrogression would surely mean that Jupiter is just the opposite of being in exaltation; that is to say it should be taken as in debilitation. It is, we presume, on the basis of a symbological interpretation of the phenomenon of retrogression that the celebrated author of Uttara Kalamrita has asserted in sloka 6 of Khanda I that "if a planet be retrograde in his motion while in his exaltation house, he gets only neechabala, i.e., strength arising out of his being in debilitation, i.e., nothing. If a planet be retrograde while in his debilitation house, his strength is similar to that in his exaltation".

We would, however, like to extend the analogy a little further in the shape of a logical corollary. We would suggest (on the basis also of our experience) that it logically follows from the main proposition enunciated in the concluding portion of the above para that the nearer a retrograde planet is to its exaltation sign, the more inclined it is to give results of debilitation and the nearer it is to its debilitation sign the more inclined it is to give results of its exaltation. In other words, the weakness or strength of a retrograde planet, according to this corollary, should not be restricted to the two extreme cases of exaltation and debilitation but should be judged for all intermediary positions as well.

Let us take a Scorpio nativity by way of illustration. Jupiter—the natural significator of sons (पुत्रकारक) himself becomes the lord of the 5th house—the house of sons. According to the principle enunciated above, if Jupiter is retrograde and in Cancer, he is very likely to deny a son to the native except for the fact that he may get one due to the aspect of Guru on the 5th house. But if he be in Capricorn, he is likely to give many sons, say four or five in number. Now let us take one of the intermediary positions of Jupiter. Suppose he is in Mithuna, i.e., near its sign of exaltation, it will deny a son. So also will be the case if it is in Simha—allowing slight chance for the fact that it will be in the 10th kendra. Similarly the native is likely to get quite a number of sons if Jupiter is either in Sagittarius or Aquarius—the two signs nearest to its sign of debilitation, viz., Capricorn. It will give a number of children if stationed in Scorpio and one or two in Libra which is midway but again one son with difficulty while in Virgo.

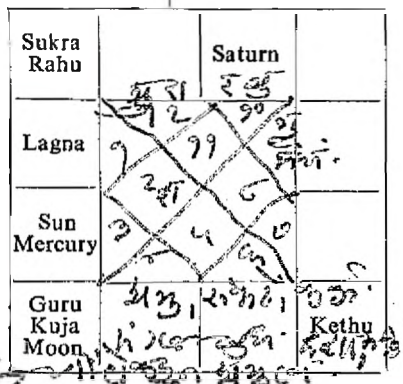
The science of "symbology" explains that while the fact of exaltation of a planet implies its strength in a horoscope, it also denotes "height" and "glory" relating to that house. For example, Christ had Moon exalted in the 8th house of his nativity—the house denoting the manner of death. There was therefore, something unusual, something lofty, something glorious about the manner of his death. Moon being the lord of his 8th house denoted in his case the death for a spiritual cause.



Sardar Patel had his Moon exalted in the 11th house. Moon in his case was the lord of Lagna as well as the natural significator of the emotional mind. Hence her strength in the 11th house, particularly her strength in Pakshabala clearly suggests symbolically the fact that his emotions were controlled, his will was disciplined and strong and it was through that type of will that he achieved his ambition and Rajya (11th near zenith).

From the point of view of symbology, the term "debilitation" is not so appropriate as the Sanskrit term "neecha" for neecha means and implies something debased, unbecoming, immoral, unsocial, etc. Hence when a planet is in neecha, he hints that there is something mean or unbecoming about the house in which that planet is situated or about the houses over which it has lordship. For example, the notorious dacoit Man Singh had his Sun in debilitation (neecha) in the 12th house and his Sukra neecha in the 11th house. Now Sun in such a case becomes the lord of the 10th house and Sukra that of the 7th The latter house, it will be remembered is 10th to 10th and as such represents 10th. Thus the debilitation or neechatva of the lord of the two houses representing actions and karma are neecha thereby clearly pointing out the unbecoming channels through which the man's activities were likely to manifest themselves.

In the art of divination known as Ramal (समल शास्त्र) great stress is laid on zid and hat which may be translated as the phenomenon of recurrence or repetition.

In that system of divination if a particular shakla or "shape" repeats itself in two or more houses representing an identical or similar trait, events, etc., denoted by that shape come to fructify in life or manifest themselves in many ways. This phenomenon of "zid" or hat" is not restricted to the system of Ramal only.

Readers will recollect that our worthy Editor has made a very practical use of this phenomenon in the field of astrology recently (January 1959 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE) while discussing the planetary cabinet for the ensuing lunar year. He has pointed out that an overwhelming number of portfolios have gone over to the Sun which fact has been interpreted by him as leading to totalitarian trends in world affairs because of the aristocratic nature of Sun. His conclusion is thus based "zid" the repetition of the fact of assumption of office in different shapes by one and the same planet—Sun. The same phenomenon of "zid" can be explained in the application of the Vimshottari Dasa system. We would like to take a concrete example from actual life. Consider the following horoscope:

We are required to predict the results of the major period of Mars and the sub-period of Mercury. Now observe. Firstly, Budha—the sub-period lord is enemy to the main period lord. Secondly, the main period lord is enemy to the lord of the ascendant. Thirdly, there is द्विद्वादश (second/twelfth) position or position of enmity between the main period lord and the sub-period lord. Fourthly, Budha is aspecting the 6th house—the house of enmity. Fifthly, Mars the main period lord is situated in the house 6th to 6th (भावत् भावत्) again an inimical house. Sixthly, Mars is aspecting the 6th house—the house of enmity. Lastly Mars, the main period lord is situated with Guru the lord of the house 6th to 6th (enmity). The readers could not have failed to notice that the fact of "enmity" is "ranging" all through the seven aspects from which we have examined the main and the sub-period lords. Thus the "zid" of enmity prominently forces it-

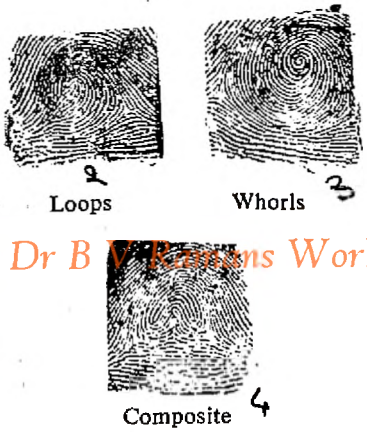
Significance of Finger-Prints in Palmistry

BY N. L. DESAI, B.COM., LL.B.

THIS article is an aftermath of a letter from Sri V. Santhanam of Hyderabad published in the March 1959 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE. It was suggested by Sri Santhanam that a discussion on finger-prints would have greatly added to the quality of the article on the same subject appearing in the 1959 Annual Number.

So far as the modern history of finger-printing is concerned, it may be noted that as far back as 1823 Purkinje, Professor of Physiology and Pathology, had submitted a thesis on finger impressions before the University of Breslau in Latin, wherein he had classified the finger-prints into nine different types. However their importance was first pointed out in 1880 by Henry Faulds. Sir Francis Galton, the English Scientist deviced a workable system of classification of finger-prints in 1892, fixing primarily three standards or types, which was also adopted by Bertillon in France. The present trend seems to be a fourfold classification namely into arches, loops, whorls and composites.



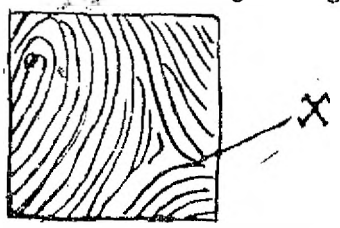
Sir Galton had also proved that the details of the ridges constituting the patterns of finger impressions, persist throughout the life span of a man. He insisted and it has since been acknowledged that such details of the ridges which might be found on the fingers of the infant's palm can be traced successfully on the fingers of the same person in old age being effaceable only by the decomposition of the body after death. It has also been stated that the marks on the fingers of many Egyptian mummies and on the paws of of the stuffed monkeys remain legible.

Mr. F. R. Cherrill, M.B.E. of Finger Print Branch, C.I.D. New Scotland–Yard, after examining the hands of a number of decomposing corpses has concluded that generally the muscles and the skin of the left hand of a cadaver exhibit signs of greater decomposition than the right hand and according to Mr. Cherrill it may be due to the muscles, tendons and neurones getting less developed in the left hand. Mr. Cherrill, therefore, feels that the left hand of a person may show certain signs, which might go to indicate certain type of disease or the future possibility of its development.

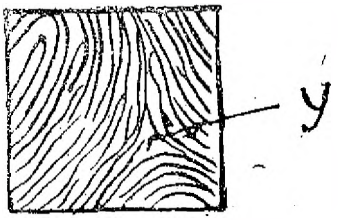
It is said that even before the pregnancy is halfway through, main lines on the palm get themselves established in their characteristic adult form; it is further said that before the establishment of the foetus of the main lines, the unchangeable intrinsic basic patterns of the digital skin ridges or finger-tips are formed. These ridges follow the Mendelian hereditary pattern representing the fundamental and unchangeable foundation of the individual's character.

The subject of the finger-prints brings to the fore a study and analysis of the papillary ridges which are studded with microscopic pores, the mouths of the ducts of the glands, which secrete perspiration located below the epidermis. The ridges are said to grow as the age advances being sharply marked in the sensitive, psychic or artistic hand and seem to loose that sharpness of definition in the elementary or premitive hands. Kollman the physiologist, calls the papillary ridges the "gyri of the skin", using that cerebral name to bring home their correlation with and resemblance to the cortex of the brain. In case of children, therefore, the delicacy of the ridges would correspond, with their development, growing with the growth of the body.

As stated above, all finger-print impressions can be divided into four different types. namely arches, loops, whorls and composites. The arches are further grouped into simple arches and tented arches. (Fig. 1).

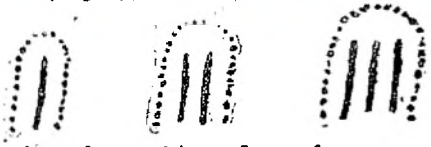


Loops also are similarly classified further as central pocket loops, lateral pocket loops, twinned loops and accidentals. Such a sub-division, however, is not necessary for the purposes of delineations on the basis of palmistry.



For deciphering each type of formation, and especially, the loops, whorls and composites, fixed points known as "inner" and "outer" terminus are to be noted. The outer terminus

Scanned by www.vedicastrologyresearch.com to preserve Dr B V Raman's Work



(Fig. 2-X) is formed by either bifurcation of a single ridge or by abrupt divergence of the two ridges that hitherto had run side by side. (Fig. 3-Y). The inner terminus say of a loop may consist, either of even or uneven number of the ridges. not joined together; which when seen under a powerful magnifying glass would be seen as shown in (Fig. 4), or it may seem to consist of two ridges formed together at their summit. (Fig. 5.)

Where a loop consists of uneven number of ridges, the top of the central ridge will be the inner terminus. In whorls, circular or elliptical in form, the centre of the first ring is the inner terminus, where the whorl is spiral point from which the spiral begins to revolve is the inner terminus.

Arches are easy to detect. In them the ridges run from one side to the other making no backward turn; there is ordinarily no outer terminus, but if any such sign is encountered, no ridge must intervene between the inner and outer terminus. In tented arches, the ridges near the middle may have an upward turn or thrust, arranging as it were on both the sides of a spine or axis towards which adjoining ridges converge. These ridges make the pattern appear like a tent and hence the name.

In loops some of the ridges make a backward turn but without twist; there will be only one outer terminus. A loop may be ulnar or radial. It is ulnar when the downward slope of the ridges about the inner terminus is from the direction of the thumb towards that of the little finger (Fig. 6, left hand impression) i.e., towards the ulnar border of the hand; when it is the other way round, from the direction of the little finger towards that of the thumb, it is termed radial. In whorls, some of the ridges make a turn through at least one complete circuit and there will be two outer terminals. The composites mean and include patterns in which combinations of the arch, loop and whorl are found. Both whorls and composites present varieties of pattern.

A person having mostly loop patterned finger-prints (that is if almost all fingers are with loop formations) will have an emotionally responsive temperament and will be adaptable and versatile. He will have weak digestion and a nervous and apprehensive attitude of mind. If majority of fingers are having arched type finger-print pattern, the persons would be very secretive, suspicious and emotionally repressive. Physically he will develop ulcerations, with a marked tendency for infections and malignant conditions. The person would have a basic secretive self-defensive attitude, rather suspicious and emotionlly repressive. A person, with a tented arch type of finger-print pattern on almost all the fingers, would be very sensitive and emotionally responsive with a high sense of idealism especially so if the pattern on the first finger be also of tented arch. Such a person may suffer from nervous breakdown some time or the other in life more than once.

Whorls indicate very independent and individual temperament, almost martian in character and outlook. It is especially so, when the whorl pattern is on the tip of the third finger, indicating a certain positive element of personal independence; whenever, it is on the third finger, it is a sure indication of a basic ability to disregard conventional rulings once they are considered to be of personal interest.

The composite type of pattern endows a man with the practical and a material mind. He will be repressive, critical and resentful. It shows lack of elasticity. Physically the person generally develops fatty and toxic conditions. These conditions may be heightened if especially such a pattern is also formed on the second finger indicative of a basic practical and possessive materialistic mind and especially so if at the termination the line of head or mentality, which horizontally courses across almost the middle of the palm, turns upwards pointing towards the mount of Mercury, the elevated pad at the base of the

in elasticity or that amount of flexibility or adaptibility which is necessary to make life a compromise, if the thumb also is not waisted or flexible.

It is said that left hand of the right-handed person might show signs of a developing disease earlier and white lines which seem to appear on the finger tip imprints go to show certain pathological conditions. These lines are mostly found on the second, third and little fingers of the left hand; when such lines are found on the ring finger of both the palms they are said to indicate the presence of "Darier's" disease (?). Similar formation when also noticed on the little finger may suggest suffering from lesions caused by radium. In cases of spinal tuberculosis also the finger-prints patterns are said to assume atrophied to knife-edge dimensions.

In the Indian Samudrika Sastra, the finger-print patterns are broadly classified into two main categories namely Chakras and Sankhas. The whorls, composites, etc., may be interpreted as chakras, and arches and tented arches as sankhas. It may be stated that neither all chakras are signs of good omen nor all sankhas the portents of evil. The chakras are distinguished as Dakshinavruta meaning radial and Vamavruta meaning ulnar which have also been dealt with elsewhere. The anatomical name for the upper edge of the hand from the thumb is the radial side and for the auricular or outer edge, the ulnar side, which are so called because the radial artery branches out towards the thumb side of the palm and the important ulnar nerve runs along the outer edge of the hand. Thus the Dakshinavruta or radial chakra would seem to be going from left to right that is from the side of the little finger and towards the thumb. Such a radial chakra is considered a very lucky sign to have, firstly because, it is sure indication of the good and secondly because it is capable of giving results earlier in life. The ulnar chakras are positively not considered potent enough to give good results and may indicate some loss, depending on the finger on which it is formed.

According to Samudrika Sastra a person having chakra formation (meaning radial) on the thumbs and all the fingers might become either a saint, who is greatly revered and respected or enjoys best of the riches as if he were a king. With nine chakras and one sankha, he is likely to become a "Sachiva" meaning a Minister, Dy. Minister either at the State or Central level or may be a parliamentary Secretary, depending however on the other signs and lines on the palm, and especially upon the formation of the finger and mount of Sun or Appolo as also upon that of the line of Sun. Eight chakras are said to bestow riches but are indications of ill-health. Seven chakras are connected with general happiness and religious tendencies. Six chakras mean a passionate nature and the ultimate culminating satisfaction therefrom. Five chakras are linked with fame and popularity, four or three with good nature and virtue. Two chakras give honour and one chakra again general happiness.

For chakra on the index, first or Jupiter finger, the following sloka is encountered :

तर्जन्यामथ चक्रंच मित्रद्वारा धनंभवेत् ।
तेनैव विपरीतंतु व्ययोभवति निश्चितं ॥

Chakra on the first finger bestows a greater and broader vision of the self and its being, envisaging immense pleasure, delight, joy and ethereal bliss in spiritual pursuits. The person is likely to succeed in winning friends and in getting to know people of position and repute and to acquire benefit through them. If the chakra is ulnar instead of radial it is likely to cause loss through friends at least once in the lifetime of the person depending on the other indications on the palm.

Chakra on the second finger is good enough to yield benefits through landed property or from solid investments such as long-term Government securities, gold, etc. The Samudrika verse is as follows :—

मध्यमायां स्थितेचक्रे देवद्वारा धनं लभेत् ।
तेनैव विपरीतंतु व्ययोभवति निश्चितं ॥

This would mean that the subject is likely to gain wealth through some act or work connected with God, temple, etc. If radial, it will also give an intense love of occultism, a power to attain serenity of mind, rapidity of thought and sureness of action.

For chakra on the ring finger, the Samudrika verse is as follows:

अनामिकायां भवेच्चक्रं सर्वद्वारा लभेद्धनं ।
तेनैव विपरितंतु व्ययो भवति निश्चितम् ॥

Scanned by zoomi.sastrascience.com. To preserve the G. V. Ramans work

According to the said verse, the person is likely to gain wealth through all the sources so exploited for the purpose. If the chakra is ulnar, it indicates loss of wealth. In general a person with a chakra on the ring finger has aesthetic sense enough to give him recognition in the field of dramatic art, music or literature, painting, etc. If such a person renounces the world and is initiated into the life of a Yogin or Sanyasin, he surely becomes leader of a religious sect or a matha and is also destined to become a guru of Royal personages. The person would yet be an introvert, taking interest in the analysis of his own being. It would all the more be so if there is also a chakra on the first finger, as all the above said qualities would be heightened.

For chakra on the little finger, the quotation is as follows :—

कनिष्ठकाया भवेच्चक्रं वाणिज्येन धनं लभेत्।
तेनैव विपरीतंतु व्ययो भवति निश्चितम् ॥

It means that the person will gain wealth through business as opposed to service. The person would get to travel a lot in his own country as also abroad, may be for commercial interests especially so if the mount of the Moon is well developed and the fate line is good. The person becomes learned, has a gift of writing or expressing himself in fine arts. It would, therefore, indicate success and/or recognition in commercial art, business, medicine, engineering, science, etc., depending in each case on the shape of the hand and signs and markings on the palm.

For chakra on the thumb, the sloka is as follows :—

यस्याथ चक्रमंगुष्टे यवः पूर्णश्च दृश्यते।
तदापितामहादीनां मर्जीतम् धनमाप्नुयात्॥
तेनैव विपरीतंतु धनलाभं भवेन्नही।

When there is a radial chakra found on the thumb and is also accompanied by "Yava" or islanded formation at the junction of the will and the logic phalanges of the thumb, then the person is likely to get a legacy from the father or grandfather. If the chakra is ulnar, he is not likely to do so.

Sankha formation is not unfavourable to have only, it suggests either gain late in life or never at all, depending on the formation of the line of Fate and shape of the palm. If the palm be otherwise good sankhas on the thumb and the fingers may delay the happenings of the good events in life and rise in general may be late. Sankhas, by themselves, therefore, have a tendency not to totally deny but to delay and to a certain extent on one hand minimise the gain or on the other increase the burden of work and labour. But in short it is not an inauspicious sign.

Sarvajanik Jyotish Kendra Parishad Astrology.com To Preserve Ancient Work

Sankha on the finger of Jupiter indicates that the person is fickle in nature and flexible by temperament depending however, on the formation of the thumb also. If there be a waisted thumb and both the thumb and the finger of Jupiter be flexible enough to bend backwards the mental traits as indicated by the sankha would be confirmed. If there is also a sankha formation on the thumb, then woe be tied, the person surely suffers considerably as he acts almost to his greatest disadvantage due to his unbalanced views on life and living, being easily led away by friends and or relatives.

Sankha on the finger of Saturn bestows learning and spiritual enlightenment; sankha formation on the ring finger is suggestive of loss of money through "Yavanas, Sudras", etc., or in short evil company. Sankha on little finger is indicative of loss of wealth through theft, chicanery or deceit. The formation of sankhas on each of the fingers and the thumb must be analysed by keeping in mind the other signs and lines on the palm.

It would be best to conclude the article, in the words of Mark Twain, who back in 1893 wrote a story of a remarkable lawyer in Missouri named David Wilson who pursued hobby of collecting finger-prints and here follows the address of David Wilson to the Jury.....

"Every human being carries with him from his cradle to his grave certain physical marks which do not change their character, and by which he can always be identified and that without shade of doubt or question. These marks are his signature, his physiological autograph, so to speak, and this autograph cannot be counterfeited nor can he disguise it or hide it away, nor can it become illegible by the wear and mutations of time. This autograph consists of the delicate lines or corrugations with which nature marks the insides of the hands and the soles of the feet.

"One twin's patterns are never the same as his fellow—twin's pattern's—you have often heard of twins who were so exactly alike that when dressed alike their own parents could not tell them apart yet there was never a twin born into this world that did not carry from birth to death a sure identifier in this mysterious and marvellous natal autograph."

The Flight of the Dalai Lama

I think that those who regularly read these articles will agree that my comments and predictions on the events in Tibet which appeared last March, were very much to the point. Never has India been so stirred in recent times, as over the dreadful rape of Tibet and the flight of the Dalai Lama. Here was a country devoted to its religion, wishing to live apart from this world of strife and warfare, forced at bayonet point of the ruthless Chinese Communists, into the world-wide conflicts of the modern 20th century.

The events of last March have been a great lesson to all thinking Indians, that no country can remain aloof to the great world crisis of the age in which we live—the conflict between the material and the spiritual, of science and religion, of age-old traditions and modern dialectical materialism. The Communists are determined to force the issue of choice on each one of us.

The Dalai Lama chose spiritual freedom and sought refuge in India, a country which is truly the spiritual refuge of all Asia. As defenders of the Indian tradition and of Hinduism in particular, it is the duty of all of us to safeguard our ancient heritage, our teaching of Yoga, the Vedanta, and above all, as astrologers our Jyotisha Sastra. The Communists are bent upon the destruction of all astrology, and if we have any prophetic vision in us at all, we cannot escape the conclusion, that it may soon be our turn next. The retinue and family of the escaping Dalai Lama, had with him the State astrologer!

If we examine the 1959 Cap-solar chart for Lhasa, 29.40 North, 91.10 East, erected for 7-59 a.m., on the 15th January, we find strangely enough, Jupiter exactly on the meridian but in opposition to Mars. Venus was exactly rising and Uranus was setting. The Jupiter opposition Mars aspect seems to be very prominent in revolutionary outbreaks, for it seems that Jupiter inflames or magnifies the martian influence to strife and violence, as we have noticed before in the Cuban affair. It was this position which lead me to predict the Tibetan revolt in the March issue. But it also seems that the public rejoicing which I foresaw, was rather in connection with the miraculous escape of the Dalai Lama, than in the success of the revolt. When he reached Towang monastery, his journey then became a triumphal procession with garlands all the way. Towang is about 92 East and 27.40 North. Here the mundane square of Jupiter and Venus was fully manifest. In Lhasa itself, 20,000 unarmed men and women sacrificed their lives to ensure the Lama's safe escape. Even the elements lent themselves to the flight, for on the afternoon of the 19th March, a great sandstorm enveloped the capital under cover of which the entire entourage got away. Some believe that this was a Divine manifestation or of yogic power in the manner so often related in the story of Tibet's great patron saint, Mila Repa!

Brigadier R. C. Firebrace, C.B.E., President of the Astrological Association, London, N.W. 1, who has devoted much time to the study of these sidereal solar and lunar ingresses, has sent me his findings on the progressed Lhasa Cap-solar return for the 19th March. By the Q-2 method, he points out that the M.C. came exactly to the conjunction of the position of the Sun, denoting the ruler, and the descendant to the conjunction of Neptune, indicating flight, abdication and incidentally the sandstorm!

At this point in our researches it seems that Neptune is the prime factor in such events as abdication. It will be recalled that on the 1st January of this year at Havana, President Batista fled the country, when the Q-2 progression also brought Neptune to the cusp of the 7th house.

The Mosul Revolt

Since the Baghdad coup d'etat of last July, the power of the Communists in Iraq has greatly increased so that today President Kassem seems powerless to control them. The Nasser sympathisers, ousted from one position to another, finally felt goaded on the 9th March to revolt under Col. Shawaf in Mosul, near to the Syrian border. The revolt was short-lived and seemed to play into the local Communist party's hand, for with Russian air assistance, Col. Shawaf was severely injured in an air attack, and finally murdered by a hospital orderly when he went for medical treatment. The mob then took over and massacred many rich and influential people whose names were on the Communist lists for liquidation.

Astrologically speaking, this occasion was another illustration of the Jupiter opposition Mars aspect, operating in the Capsolar chart. This chart for Mosul is erected with S.T. 11.52, which gives 5 Virgo on the M.C., and 18 Scorpio rising. Progressed by the Q-2 rate to the 9th March we find once again the remarkable opposition of Jupiter and Mars on the meridian circle for Mosul. Jupiter was only two degrees from the M.C., and Mars had passed the nadir some four days previously. This shows the integrity of sidereal astrology for in all the cases we have examined recently, similar events have shown precisely similar astrological indications. In this way we will slowly and instructively built up a most reliable system of prediction and interpretation by purely empirical means.

The event set off a spate of violent speeches by frustrated Col. Nasser, against Soviet penetration in the Near East, and the full significance of the Krushchev/Nasser, Mars-Saturn interchange in their horoscopes fulfilled my prediction that they would end as enemies. How quickly has this been fulfilled—in less than a year from Nasser's Moscow trip! Now, new alignments are taking place and overtures are being made with Jordan on the one hand, and the new Government of Lebanon on the other. The World Bank is even considering lending money again for the construction of the Aswan Dam. A glance at Nasser's solar return for 1959 should be very instructive.

From this we see that he is now having the Saturn transit of his radical Mercury opposition Pluto, and we are not surprised that he feels a disillusioned man. His plans for a world-wide Arab Empire have gone wrong. He is badly in need of money and he will have to give up many of his claims in order to get it. The radical Venus is on the meridian of the solar return and denotes that he will make peaceful overtures to former enemies. His difficult period will be in June, July and August, when his efforts to unseat Kassem are doomed to failure.

The Resignation of Mr. Dulles

The indomitable American Foreign Secretary Mr. Dulles was forced to relinquish his task of retaining world communism on the 15th April last, having fallen victim to that fell disease-Cancer. He was born in Washington, on the 25th February 1888, time unknown. The planets' positions at Greenwhich noon were as follows–Ayanamsa 23.11.

The Sun–13.10 Aquarius; the Moon–16.54 Cancer; Mars–6.40 Libra; Mercury–25.55 Aquarius; Jupiter–12.09 Scorpio; Venus–8.32 Capricorn; Saturn–7.26 Cancer; Uranus–23.32 Virgo; Neptune–4.11 Taurus; and Pluto–9.48 Taurus.

I am sure that he will rank as the greatest of all American Foreign Secretaries todate, for he displayed all the virtues of the Sun in Aquarius, steadfastness, uncorruptibility and unswerving idealism and a prodigious hard worker to the last. The Moon conjunct Saturn in Cancer showed his stern unyielding nature and this may be the astrological indication of the disease which laid him low. Aquarians are notorious for their inflexibility and rugged strength of character which enables them to weather many a storm, and help them to achieve great objectives where other men would waver and fall by the way.

The appointment of Mr. C. A. Herter to the unenviable position of U.S. Foreign Secretary may turn out to be an unmitigated disaster for America. He was born in Paris on the 28th March 1895. His noon positions are as follows :—Ayanamsa 23.17.

The Sun–14.16 Pisces; the Moon–7.56 Aries; Mars–22.03 Taurus; Mercury–16.53 Aquarius; Jupiter–5.03 Gemini; Venus–12.13 Aries; Saturn–12.35 Libra; Uranus–26.12 Libra; Neptune–20.03 Taurus; and Pluto–16.37 Taurus.

From this it will be seen that he has the Sun in Pisces and the Moon in Aries. This denotes a very variable character which blows hot and cold according to circumstances. I am afraid that Pisceans are too accommodating and variable to enforce any given policy for long. They are of course expert in the art of deceiving the other side, and stealing the thunder of their opponents. His appointment is not disastrous on account of his personality however, but more in regard to his present luck, for he now has Neptune transitting his radical Saturn in opposition to his Moon and Venus. This cannot in any way bring success to American foreign policy this year in the fateful Berlin summit talks. It shows confusion, doubt, and fear of his enemies exposing his faults and weaknesses and a desire to retreat from commitments. The strain too will react upon his health and bring a breakdown.

*Relative Influences of Sun-Mercury Combinations—II

BY K.T. VISHWANATHAN & S. DURGA PRASAD RAO

IN this article we shall study the aspects of Sun-Mercury combination in respect of Simha (Leo), Kanya (Virgo), Thula (Libra) and Vrischika (Scorpio).

General

The Sun-Mercury combination seems to give effect to very prominent results in respect of Simha Lagna and in others it seems to be the source of free and happy livelihood. The characteristics of Sun and Mercury have already been discussed in Part I.

Discussion

This is an extraordinarily remarkable combination in Simha Lagna. Here is the combination of Sun (lord of 1st house) and Mercury (lord of 2nd and 3rd houses) in the 10th from lagna producing definite characteristics.

Mercury in the 10th indicates that the person will be sincere towards elders, extremely rich, owner of vehicles and a good speaker.

The Sun in the 10th house indicates that the person will be gentle, noble minded, rich, happy and helpful to good men.

The first part of the article has appeared in May 1959 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE.

When the native of Chart No. 1 was born he was an ordinary person. He did not study much. In his horoscope, the lord of lagna is the Sun and he is situated in the 10th in association with Mercury. Here the readers will appreciate that though the Sun is not in a friend's house, still the major dasa of the Sun gave the native Rajayoga. He is very religious and during his lifetime he has done some charities. Today he is the owner of forty houses and ten motor cars and is very popular in Andhra Pradesh. In the beginning he was only an Assistant Manager in National Life Insurance Co. Then he became the Branch Agent. It has been observed by us that the major periods and the sub-periods of Sun and Mercury were very good and successful. He has no children because Rahu is situated in Putrasthana. He has a good personality and possesses good eloquence.

Chart No. 2 is the horoscope of a Kanya Lagna person (postman) and Sun-Mercury combination is in the 7th house from lagna. The lord of 10th and lagna is Mercury and he is situated in the 7th and thus becomes powerless. Mercury conjoins the Sun, lord of 12th house. The combination is not so powerful and hence the person is a member of the middle class. He is working as a postman at Varanasi. Such combinations indicate that the person leads an expensive and not happy life in family matters. Vidyakaraka Budha is not powerful. Therefore the native could not get higher education. He has studied only upto VIII standard.

The native was well and happy in the major dasa of Sun. When he was eleven years old he fell down from a tree and he was saved by some body and his parents invested money for his education. Whatever it may be on the basis of quotation given below, it can be said that the major period of the Sun was very good.

Though the combination of Sun and Mercury is in the 12th house, yet it has given him a good yoga and due to powerful Mercury and his situation the native is very pious, religious and is a lover of Sanskrit language. He is also noble hearted. Due to the presence of Sun in the 12th house, the person's eyes became defective after 24th year of his age.

Chart No. 4 is the horoscope of Vrischika Lagna person. Here is the combination of Sun (lord of 10th) and Mercury (lord of 8th and 9th) in the 12th. The 10th is termed as Karmasthana in Hindu astrology. Owing to the combination of Sun, lord of 10th with Mercury, the lord of 8th, the person lost his father in the sub-period of Sun in the major period of Mercury.

It means that Budha Dasa is very good and it will lead him to successful life. He got good promotion in his service, only after the beginning of Budha Dasa. Nowadays he is working as a Station Master. He is very intelligent and noble minded. He studied upto B.Com. due to the presence of Mercury in its own house, who is responsible for education.

THREE HUNDRED IMPORTANT COMBINATIONS

BY B. V. RAMAN

This is not a collection of combinations but a careful selection of just the most important ones which annot be easily identified in a horoscope.

What makes one a dunce? Why is one unhappy, what makes one poor and the other rich? Why one has no bodily comfort—what makes one a King or an equal, a leader, a business magnate, an industrialist, a great politician, a pauper, a sickly man and a miserable wretch? What makes one attain success without much effect and what makes the other to meet with disappointment in life inspite of his very best efforts?

A study of this book will enable you to easily judge the worth of your own horoscope and adjudge its merits and demerits.

A book of this type containing a collection of rare combinations some of which are special yogas has never been published before.

The author has illustrated the principles with innumerable horoscopes from practical lives. Do not fail to read this book.

Siddhanta or Drik?

BY S. K. KALLIANPUR

THE perplexing question as to which almanac got ready by which mode of calculation, to be used in our daily Dharmakaryas has been keen in the minds of people throughout India for some time now. As a result of this, several conferences were held in every province of India, so also in our Karnataka. Though definite decisions were arrived at in a conference held at Mysore in 1934, there are still some persons dissatisfied with these decisions who are trying to bring in their own theories by any and every means.

The two main divisions of opinions are usually called (1) Siddhantapaksha and (2) Drikpaksha. These terms are however not suitable to either of them. When there is a difference opinions on any point, that is arrived at as the correct is called by the word Siddanta. Hence this word is not suitable in the present case; whereas this word is correct when used for naming Suryasiddhanta, Aryasiddhanta, Brahamasiddhanta, etc., as here the mode of calculation which comes correct at the particular time is indicated by the word.

There are certain corrections to be given to planets in computing conjunctions, heliacal rising and setting, measurement of cusps of the Moon, parallax in longitude and latitude given to the Moon in case of solar eclipse etc. which are called by names Ayanadrakkarma, Aakshadrakkarma, etc. The term Drikpaksha being similar to the above terms a certain amount of confusion is likely to arise in understanding the terms; hence it is but proper to call these by different names; the first mentioned may be named Purvapaksha and the second Uttarapaksha. These terms will henceforth be used in place of Siddhanta and Drikpaksha. The first word comprises Suryasiddhanta method of calculation and the second word will indicate the modern method of calculation brought into use in India by renowned men like Keropanth, Ketkar, Dapthare, etc.

These drakkarmas are called Beeja by some authorities. Apart from these, there are other corrections called also by the name Beeja. These (last named) are applied prior to the Sputeekarana, i.e. before applying equation of centre. There are two divisions of beejas that are given to the mean places of planets before applying the equation of centre. These are called sthirabeeja and charabeeja. Sthirabeeja is one figure added to each planet at the beginning of the year. These are dealt with in Siddhanta Siromani by Bhaskara and in books like Siddhanta Sekhara written by Sripathyacharya, etc. This is called sthirabeeja because change in it throughout the year is too inappreciable. The other is called charabeeja. This is to be applied only to the Moon. There are two categories of corrections of this charabeeja given in this work called Bijopanaya by Bhaskara. This is called charabeeja as the amount of corrections is changing throughout the month. The Beejas named drakkarma are applied only for obtaining the correct moments of planetary phenomena mentioned previously and not for computation of ending moments of thithis, etc., required for our daily almanac as is seen in the following texts:

This very same idea is expressed very clearly by Sreenivasa Dikshit in his small but very popular work called Tithinirnayakarika. If his family (Kula) and the work that he takes as an authority to write his are examined, the above theory that he favours the Uttarapaksha is confirmed further. Sri Raghunathsastry who worked to bring the Uttarapaksha into usage and Sri Sundaresha Shrouti who is editting the Kamakotipeetha Kumbhakonamatha panchanga are from his family. He has used words like etc., from Bhaskareeya Beejopanaya. Purvapakshees state that last named work is not a genuine work, but Kruthak (written by unknown person). This is not correct as there is mention of this in other works and Sreenivasa Dikshit has taken it as authority. Purvapakshees in trying to show that Tithinirnayakarika is favouring their own school, have taken about half a dozen slokas at random from his work, put them in the order they wished, splitting even a verse in two parts and using them in the order they pleased. A certain author remarks that this action of theirs is similar to Drastadyumna's action in cutting Dronacharya's dead body into pieces. This remark appears to be very appropriate.

'बीजोपनय भाष्येच' 'भास्करेण विपश्चिता'
'बीजोपनय वासना' 'तत्काल चरबीजकै':

Though it is not necessary to explain all slokas of Tithinirnayakarika, it is necessary to discuss the meaning of one sloka:—

स्यातां तत्काल बीजोत्थौ बाणवृद्धि रसक्षयौ॥

If the words तत्कालबीजोत्थौ are cut out from the above, it may perhaps be possible to bring out the desired meaning of the purvapakshees that the paramavadhi (extreme limit) of thithi should be between 54 and 65 ghatikas only. The first portion of the sloka ending तिथ्यादि भोगत clearly indicates a departure from वृद्धिक्षय of 5 and 6 ghatikas got by only the mandaphala samskara of the Sun and the Moon. Hence the effort of the purvapakshees in trying to bring out their intended meaning is futile and it can also be definitely said that the author was not of their opinion. Hence it is not proper for the purvapakshees to argue and state that the तिथिपरमावधि should not go beyond 54 and 64 ghaties.

In Saka 1580 an admirer of Suryasiddhanta named Kamalakara who is different from the author of the well-known Nirnayasindhu said in his Siddhanta Tatvaviveka the above बाण वृद्धि रसक्षणउक्ति. This is not seen in any work of either Dharmasastra or astronomy written prior to him. Since he found that thithis calculated according to Suryasiddhanta system of calculation were not going beyond these limits, it appears that he must have mentioned this. But this does not go to prove that motions of Sun and Moon by which thithis are determined will not vary in course of time from creation to deluge for thithis to go beyond these limits. If it were not so, there would have been no cause for the springing up of various methods of calculations at different times by different people like Siddhanta Siromani, Grahalaghava, etc. The fact that the longitudes calculated by Suryasiddhanta method in the present day do not tally with those observed has been well established.

The purvapakshees put forth that new methods of calculation were founded by different people at different times, not for the purposes of this but for correctness in knowing timings of eclipses and the like. This argument is baseless as Vedanga Jyotisha is clear on the point that astronomy is for knowing Kalagnana correctly.

The following is the 9th sloka in 1st Adhyaya of Suryasiddhanta.

युगानां परिवर्तेन कालभेदोत्र केवल:॥

In the commentary on this sloka, Ranganatha states clearly that difference in planetary motion occurs as time passes on and methods have to be modified after sufficient intervals of time. Though this theory has been contradicted by the previously mentioned Kamalakara and upheld by the recent commentator Sudhakar Dwivedi, the theory of Ranganath not only appears sensible to the common man but has been proved by actual observations.

तत्तद्गतिवशान्नित्यं यथा दृक्तुल्यता ग्रहा:।
प्रयांति तत्प्रवक्ष्यामि स्पुटीकरणमादेरात्॥

From this sloka, it is clear that the object of Grahasputeekarana is to find out planetary positions in the sky which are correct to observation. But the purvapakshees maintain that because only one mandaphala samskara is said in the following sloka the chapter, the result obtained by this equation should be considered as the sphuta. This logic does not hold good. It should be borne in mind that with the mere object of enabling even an ordinary man (knowing only the four fundamental rules of arithmetic and without possessing the knowledge of higher mathematics) to compute the planetary positions, the methods were simplified by giving only one samskara. This does not lead us to think that the seers who wrote various siddhantas were not in favour of improving the methods. It is a very laborious task to work out the accurate positions of planets by the use of problems in higher mathematics. Aim of Suryasiddhanta is simplicity without at the same time sacrificing accuracy to any great extent. This can be seen if the methods of working out

AROUND the WORLD

BY DOUGLAS HUNT, M.A.

I was very happy to hear once more from my old friend-by-correspondence Professor Troinski. As I have written to him myself, I devoutly hope that he will prove a false prophet, yet one must admit that his predictions to date have frequently been astonishingly accurate.

In the January 1959 number of the monthly Berliner Auskunftsbogen, of which Professor Troinski is the editor, he lists the following predictions which he made in 1958: No third world war in 1958, an impressive political revolution in the spring (Fourth Republic: Krushchev's nomination as Prime Minister and head of the Communist Party), intensification of the cold war (Iraq, Jordan, Quemoy, West Berlin), outbreak of a local war in which Soviet Russia is involved (Troinski states that Soviet weapons were involved in the firing on Quemoy), danger of war at the turn of the year (Krushchev's 'ultimatum' over West Berlin).

More interesting, perhaps, are the forecasts for 1959 made in the same issue.

(1) Impressive intensification of the cold war over Berlin and both parts of Germany in the summer of 1959. (2) Military or near-military dispute between Soviet Russia and the United States and/or the West over Berlin in summer and autumn of 1959. (3) Berlin conflict at its height in the autumn of 1959. (4) Rapid deterioration of the world political situation, because the Communist block operates with particularly 'sharp' methods. (5) Danger to the life of a head of state. (6) Military action by the Soviet Union in or outside Europe. (7) Danger of developments leading to a third world war. There will be no war on German soil. (8) The Communists use every possible means to achieve their end of extricating both parts of Germany from the West and of weakening western and central Europe. (9) World Communism achieves certain successes. (10) To save West Berlin for the West there will be a 'federal' discussion between both parts of Germany.

Am I being unduly cynical in suggesting that the non-astrologer might well foresee any or all of these possibilities. Nevertheless I have already booked my holiday on the continent for the beginning of August. I shall not get really alarmed till the Daily Express starts printing a daily assertion that 'there will be no war this year'. When that happens I shall really get the wind up!

Professor Troinski also draws attention to the summer solstice horoscope and asserts that it shows an exceptionally aggressive tendency for Moscow and gives rise to great anxiety. He states categorically (in contradiction of Adenauer's statement on 5th December last): "Something will happen!" Taken literally this would seem to be a pretty safe prognostication!

The summer horoscope for Moscow, writes the Berliner Auskunftsbote, shows a warlike opposition between the Sun and Saturn from the 12th to the 6th house, with Mars in the fiery sign Leo in the 1st house.

Once again, with all due respect to Professor Troinski, I can only hope that this time the tertiary directions prove at fault.

The Berliner Auskunftsbote also quotes without comment but with suitable exclamation marks a telegraphic message from Sao Paulo, Brazil: The Venusians say that the atom war will begin on 18th May 1959 and last till 1963. It will begin neither in the U.S.A. nor in Russia, but in the Far East. On the 18th May 1959 a head of state will be assassinated.

I completely acquit the Berliner Auskunftsbote of anything but humorous intent in quoting this exceptionally silly 'canard.'

It will probably be news to readers of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE that to Troinski's tertiary directions a new system of quarternary directions has now been added. But let me start from the beginning.

From the well-known publishing house of Hermann Bauer, Freiburg im Breisgau, I have received a fascinating volume, Wie man sein Schicksal erforscht. This is a survey of all the methods used from the earliest times for foreseeing one's destiny. Of particular interest to us is the extensive section on those methods connected with the reading of the heavens.

The author reminds us that the religion of the early races was 'astral' (in the sense of 'starry'), and that the heavenly bodies were regarded as divinities. The earliest divinatory systems can be divided into astromagie, heliomagie, selenomagie and eromagie.

Scanned by Bharat Sapre at bhasastrology.com to Preserve Dr. B. V. Ramans Work

Astromagie was primarily concerned with identifying the various stars and planets with the divinities they were supposed to embody. These were all assumed, as in astrology, which is a development of astromagie, to have their influence on the fortunes of men. It is interesting to note modern astrology is once more beginning to concern itself with the fixed stars.

Heliomagie was, as its name indicates, concerned with the influence of the Sun and with periodicity. It is still reflected in the numbering of the years in Tibet, China and Japan. Selenomagie dealt with the influence of the Moon. Eromagie dealt, among other things, with the division of time into seven: thus the seven major 'planets' ruled one year each, so that every seventh year came under Saturn, every seventh under Sol, and so on.

In the section dealing with astrology as such mention is made of Professor Troinski's tertiary directions, but the author, Roland Dionys Josse, suggests a still further extension of the system, by which one lunar month gives the directions for one year. That is, that the influences ruling during, say, the fiftieth month after birth would indicate those for the fiftieth year of life. Some experiments have been made with these 'quarternary directions', which have proved encouraging. Some readers of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE might like to pursue the research still further.

But scant justice can be done in the short space at my disposal to the impressive research work embodied in this little volume. It deals also with the rapidly developing science of radiesthesia, and with the latest in the magician's bag of tricks, namely psychiatry. From my own experience of this last I would prefer rhabdomancy, hydromancy, or almost any other method of diagnosis and treatment. However perhaps one day this infant science may achieve the ripeness of astrology, divination and many other of the maturer methods.

From the same firm comes a translation into German of Shaw Desmond's You can talk to your dead. Spiritualism is not, I believe, very popular in India, but those who would like to know what is being done in this field in England could well do worse than turn to the work of an experienced researcher such as Mr. Desmond. The book deals with many of the most important aspects of this by no means unimportant subject.

Finally I would like to raise my feeble voice in protest against the rape of Tibet. It is contrary to all the traditions of the great Chinese people.

Martian Influences in a Horoscope

BY MAHADEO DAMODER BHAT, LL.B.

I take it a pleasure in contributing this article to the famous ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE. It is certainly fascinating for a serious student of astrology to study each planet under proper scientific classifications. It has come to my notice, while teaching the subject in an astrological class conducted at Poona that many students form some wrong-headed notions about the nature and the characteristics of planets. The object of this article is to show how every planet should be studied in its entirety at the beginning alone.

In my view a planet should be studied under following heads :—

(a) Its astronomical aspect.

(b) The independent nature and the characteristics of the planet under study.

(c) Study of the other various characteristics of the planet.

(d) Study of the planet according to the Karakatva.

(e) Study of the planet in accordance with the nature of various rasis.

(f) Study of the planet in relation to other planets.

(g) Study of the general effects of the planet according to houses.

(h) Study of the planet in mutual aspects.

(i) Study of the planet under reference according to team work.

I now proceed here to the study of the planet Mars (Mangal) as per the scheme presented above.

The Astronomical Aspect

Every student must be in the know of some essential astronomical facts about the planet under study. The main astronomical characteristic of Mars is, that it lies outside the orbit of the earth. Its distance from the Sun is 141 million miles and it revolves round the Sun in 687 days. The student must also know all the essential things about the mean motion of the planet Mars for geocentric position. The mean motion of Mars is 45′ of arc per day and approximately 2′ per hour. It is 31′ per day in regard to heliocentric position. Mars becomes retrograde approximately once in two years for 80 days. It is stationary 3 days before and after it becomes retrograde and direct.

The Independent nature of Mars

Mars is a male planet. He is tamas by nature. He has fierce eyes and youthful appearance. He is reddish in colour. He has bile in his composition. He is fickle-minded. He is udara, i.e., generous in his disposition. He is pratapi, i.e, powerful and strenuous. Mars is termed a malefic planet. Practically no planet is benefic and no planet is malefic but it is in association and placement in the particular nativity that makes it malefic or benefic for the particular native. But it is on certain fundamental principles accepted by the science of astrology that we regard certain planets malefic and certain benefic and it is on this line that Mars is termed a malefic planet. So far as aspects are concerned, Mars casts his full eye over 4th, 7th and 8th houses.

Study of Other Characteristics

For predictive purposes, Mars is generally powerful in 1st and 10th houses. The student must be in the know of the general principles that retrograde planets are always powerful. Whether they are powerful as malefics or benefics depends upon the position they occupy in a particular nativity. Some scholars are of opinion that benefics when retrograde are powerful benefics and malefics when retrograde are powerful malefics. Whatever may be the case, it is true that retrograde planets are powerful in their effects. The principle on this topic is as under:— "वक्रगो उच्चगो वामहाबली" or "वक्री स्वोच्चबल :" i.e., when a planet is retrograde his strength is similar to that when in exaltation. So Mars is powerful when he is retrograde. The second principle to be noted is Mars when retrograde in Cancer, Taurus and Libra is regarded as powerful. All planets are generally powerful when in Own Navamsa, Uchcha Navamsa and Vargottama positions. Mars becomes a full yogakaraka for Simha Lagna because it owns kendra and trikona houses. Mars becomes a totally powerful maraka for Thula Lagna because it owns maraka houses in the horoscope. There are of course exceptions.

Mars and Its Karakatva

The following events are said to belong to the Karakatva of Mars.

'पराक्रम विजयविख्याती संग्राम साहस
सेनापत्य दंड नेतृत्व।
खड्गपरश्वध कुंतकुठारशतघ्नीभिदिपाल
धनुर्वीणनैपुण्य धृति ।
गीभार्थं कामक्रोध शत्रुबुद्धि आग्रहवग्रह परा-
पवाद स्वतंत्रभातृ भूकारक : कुज : '

The Karakatva as explained by Sarvarta Chintamani is sufficient for a student to understand the essential attributes of the planet Mars: combative success, general success, fame that is achieved through the essential attributes of the planet Mars, battle field, courage, command, punishment of the superior strength, leading qualities, various weapons, all sports, archery, etc., seriousness, passions, anger, increase of enemies and of opposition in general, public censure, independent nature, brothers and lands.

Mars and the nature of the Rasis

Mars is the lord of the two zodiacal signs, viz., Mesha or Aries a movable sign which is always powerful as a kendra and Vrischika or Scorpio a fixed sign powerful as Lagna under the 8th house. Mars is comparatively powerful in Mesha, a movable and fiery sign, in which his combative nature takes a proper shape. Scorpio is comparatively secretive and material. The combative nature of Mars and his other essential attributes and qualities takes a slight secretive and material shape in this sign. Mars is exalted in Capricorn. Predictive strength and value is to be given to such a Mars when he is placed in a kendra house. Mars is a fiery planet and a fiery planet demonstrates his natural qualities and attributes better in a fiery sign. Mars in Leo is better for general predictive effects. Mars in Leo gives a generous disposition, simplicity, a typical martian hospitality and straightforwardness Mars in Scorpio is good for executive ability and general command. This Mars creates enemies and opposition. In earthly signs, Taurus, Virgo and Capricorn, the essential qualities and attributes of Mars take a little bit different shape. Mars in these signs makes the native materialistic. Mars in Taurus or in Libra (signs owned by Venus) makes the native passionate. If Venus be afflicted along with such a position, the native becomes irrationally passionate. Mars in Taurus or sometimes even in Libra gives love for gambling and luxuries. Mars afflicted in Libra gives urinal and kidney troubles. Mars in Virgo is good for the art of criticism, mathematics and accountancy. Persons who have Mars in this sign generally create a deadlock and misunderstandings in their circle. They are never easily understood by their friends. Mars in Gemini if well-placed is always good for oratory and games. Next to fiery signs watery signs (Cancer, Scorpio and Pisces) are always good for Mars. Mars in Sagittarius is always good for general effects. Aquarius is a very bad sign for Mars to occupy. Here he gives mental agitation and creates a very tough opposition for the native.

Mars in relation to other planets

Every planet works in harmony or in disharmony with every other planet. The principle is based on the general nature of the planets and in accordance with the affinity of the planets in general.

The presence of afflicted Mars gives small-pox marks or small-pox in childhood.

Second House.—Not good for finance. When in Taurus or Libra gives love for gambling and speculation will have a sickly wife. Indicates separation from joint-family after marriage.

Third House.—Always good for service in executive departments. If afflicted gives ear troubles in childhood. Presence of a solitary Mars in the third is always good for happiness from brothers. If totally afflicted indicates death of brother either born after or before.

Fourth House.—Not good for general happiness. If found afflicted, indicates the remarriage of the native. In Pisces, generally gives good qualifications.

Fifth House.—Generally not good for the longevity of issues. Indicates the possibility of mechanical educational happiness. There will be delays in marriage or a storm in the tea-cup while settling it. Many times it happens, that the marriage date is postponed.

Eighth House.—Not a good position for longevity in general. Creates financial deadlocks.

Ninth House.—Whenever Mars is the lord of kendra or trikona and is placed in the 9th, it gives power and honour in service. The native becomes the worshipper of Ganesha.

Tenth House.—For Mesha Lagna good for executive jobs. For Vrischika Lagna, good for police and medical lines. Mars in the 10th in any sign gives lift at the age of 28. It creates a dead-lock in service when Mars happens to be in Mithuna. Early retirement and constant quarrels with superiors are the general effects of this planet when in the 10th house.

Mars in Houses

First House.—Mars in watery signs gives good personality. If such a Mars is in conjunction with Venus, the person becomes passionate and is always attracted towards women. Fiery signs in the Ascendant generally give some mark on the forehead.

Sixth House.—In watery signs gives chronic troubles. If afflicted, the native becomes consumptive and there will be enemies and quarrels.

Seventh House.—Not good for tion. If afflicted in the female nativity, there will be abortions or late issues.

Eleventh House.—It is not a good house for Mars. It is only along with one benefic that this planet works nicely in the 11th house.

Twelfth House.—Afflicted Mars indicates (a) robbery or theft in the house, (b) an accident to the brother,

International Congress of Astro-science

Sir,— As already announced, the International Congress of Astro-science will be held from 2nd October to 10th October 1959, at Hotel New Yorker, 8th Avenue, 34th Street, New York. Your attendance in New York at the Congress is very important, as the top-ranking representative of India as a nation with a strong interest in co-operative understanding among the peoples of the world. Your ability to give the western world the understanding of India's methods and interpretations of astrological science will be most valuable to those persons attending the Congress from all parts of the globe. There will be representatives in attendance from England, Canada, Germany, Columbia, Egypt, Brazil, Japan, France, Australia, Belgium and possibly from Spain, Netherlands, Italy, Yugoslavia and Cuba. We expect some 20 nations to be represented among our list of 80 speakers.

Our people in our various cities such as Philadelphia, Chicago, Washington, Boston, Pittsburgh, Danover, New Orleans, San Francisco, Seattle, Hollywood, Los Angeles and San Diego will be most happy to greet you and to hear your messages both astrological and philosophical. You are to be the accredited representative of India in our Nation this year.

Other Indian friends who would wish to attend the Congress may kindly contact us direct or our Asian Representative Mr. K. S. Shastry, Astrological Research Centre, Jalgaon, Bombay State.

Week Days

Sir,—How can one distinguish one week day from another and how could the periodicity of seven days that makes a week be determined ? While going through ancient Tamil literature one comes across the "Science of Saram," mentioned by the ancient Yogee Thirumular in his 3000 Tamil verses that go to form his Thirumanthiram where he describes the free flow of air through different nostrils on different days of the week, e.g., on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays the air flows freely through the left nostril, whereas on Tuesdays, Saturdays and Sundays it flows freely by the right nostril but on Thursdays it flows through the left during the bright half of the waxing Moon and through the right during the dark half of the waning Moon. Similar references have been made by the Tamil Poetess Avvayar in her Saranool. The dates of these personages have not been accurately fixed but the popular idea is that Thirumular lived in the second century before Christ and Avvayar in the first century before Christ, etc. As neither of them speak of Buddhistic and Jainistic thought there is sufficient ground to believe that these two lived before these religions spread into Tamilnad, i.e., 3rd century B.C. or even earlier in Asoka's time. That the week days were known to the Tamils even before these two savants is more than probable by their customs, usages and folk-lore.

Influences of Rahu and Kethu

Sir,—During the past six months my horoscope led me into strange byways of the occult. I was given the opportunity to study ancient olas which had been jealously guarded for centuries. Among these manuscripts were aphorisms on Rahu and Kethu, some of which, I have decided, to place before the readers of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE.

I can now confirm what I wrote in THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE of March 1951 (Pp.239) that Rahu's exaltation is in Gemini and that Kethu is exalted in Sagittarius.

If a person is born under Aswini and if Rahu is exalted the subject will become easily discouraged and will leave for a foreign place. If Kethu is exalted he will become very sad due to various troubles that beset him. His 40th year will be vexatious.

In order to conserve space I shall summarize the exaltation influences of Rahu and Kethu according to the Janma nakshatra.

Bharani: Rahu—Will become a hermit. Kethu—Will leave for a foreign place. For 17 months he will be troubled by evil stars.

Krittika: Rahu—Will be cruel hearted. Kethu—Will gamble his way through life.

Rohini: Rahu—Will leave for a foreign country. Kethu—Will be a source of annoyance to his neighbours and home people.

Mrigasira: Rahu—Will be a thief or an embezzler. Kethu—Will be a gourmand.

Aridra: Rahu—Will suffer from sexual abberrations. Kethu—Will be dumb or deaf.

Punarvasu: Rahu—Will be cruel hearted. Kethu—Will leave home or country; adoption.

Pushya: Rahu—Will be fond of enjoyments of all types. Kethu—Will fall out with his people and become a hermit.

Aslesha: Rahu—Will not bring honour to his own people. Kethu—Will leave for a far off country or abandon his people.

Makha: Rahu—Will be clever at bearing arms for the king. Kethu—Will live by making weapons or instruments.

Purvaphalguna: Rahu—Will be fond of machinery, firearms and weapons generally. Kethu—Will be a propitiator of deities and rather weak in health.

Uttaraphalguna: Rahu—Will be a good agriculturist. Kethu—Will be unfortunate in married life.

Hasta: Rahu—Will not have children or will have no joy through children. Kethu—Will be imprisoned.

Chitta: Rahu—Will be a robber or one who takes things by force. Kethu—Will take poison; suicide.

Swati: Rahu—Will become poor due to foolishness. Kethu—Will become lucky; auspicious marriage.

Visakha: Rahu—Will be a dabbler in Black Magic. Kethu—Will become a paralytic. The body will swell. In the 10th year after birth the subject will lose a limb.

Anuradha: Rahu—Will be clever a annoying or robbing people by devious methods. Kethu — Will marry below caste and get into difficulties. The body will be swollen.

Jyeshta: Rahu—Will get an itch which will spoil the skin; will live in an unclean way. Kethu—Will be a learned man and get the esteem of people.

Moola: Rahu—Will be greatly favoured by fortune. Kethu—Will be a person of exemplary character.

Purvashada: Rahu—Will be exalted; will be tall and handsome. Kethu—Will be a master of the vedas—a renowned pandit.

Uttarashada: Rahu-Will be a double dealer: a parasite or a prostitute. Kethu-Will gamble away his wealth and then become a beggar.

Sravana: Rahu—Will become a fighter. Looked upon as an enemy of society. Kethu—Will live in a foreign land for a long time.

Dhanishta: Rahu—Will be a religious man—a believer in Deva Poojas. Kethu—Will be extremely clever and will master several languages and subjects.

Satabhisha: Rahu—Will be a quarrelsome person who will get into many difficulties. Kethu—Will be loved by his family and fellowmen.

Purvabhadra: Rahu—Will have pox-marks on the face. Kethu—The mother will have pox-marks on the face.

Uttarabhadra: Rahu — Will leave home town and prosper in a foreign place. Kethu—Will become a king or a millionaire. Surely a Raja-purusha.

Revati: Rahu—Will get silver and gold—a wealthy man. Kethu—Will become a criminal.

These influences to a large extent will be felt in the Dasas and Antardasas of Rahu and Kethu. Due to other factors the radical influences can get modified or accentuated. We will have to study quite a lot of horoscopes to ascertain how far these ancient laws have proved true in the lives of people born in different climes and under varying circumstances.

I may mention here a case: Male born on January 22, 1953 at 3-17 p.m. He had Kethu exalted in the navamsa. 2nd, Sagittarius while in the Lagna-chart Moon was in Aswini. Kethu Dasa extended for 17 months from birth. On the third day after birth the subject spat blood. In the second month he developed intermittent stomach-ache which could not be brought under control even by some of the best doctors. On the 4th of June this year the child was buried.

Trans-Saturnine Planets

Sir,—It is the students of astrology who question why the trans-Saturnine planets are not taken into account in Hindu astrology. The answer to this question that is given every now and then, by Mihira in THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE issues is concise and not explained with full details. The reason for such concise answer is not far to seek. Due to want of sufficient space, a short answer is furnished. However, the following lines in quotation, here below, are the satisfactory answers to the problem

"There are millions of planets but the chief ones are only seven. Rahu and Kethu are the nodes. These seven planets have been known to exercise direct and tangible influence on earth and its numberless phenomena and hence the ancient astrologers confined their research to them." (See Ch. II, St. 1, Brihat Jataka).

Saturn and Impotence

Sir,—On page 248 of February 1959 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE Sri V. V. Hyderabad, wrote that you stated that "if Saturn be in 6th or 8th counted from Venus, it causes impotence". But I cannot but differ from you on this point as an intimate friend of mine who has been married (though it was an inter-caste marriage and was not performed in accordance with any local or usual custom) for about 8 months is leading, to the best of my knowledge and information, quite a normal conjugal life though in his *horoscope Saturn is in 8th counted from Venus.

Dhana Yoga

Sir,—I would like to refer to the letter of Sm. Bijoli Das on the above subject, published in March 1958 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE.

The correspondent while questioning the validity of Dhana Yoga, viz., "for a person born in Vrishabha Lagna, Guru Dasa will cause Dhana Yoga if the Moon and Venus are in the 6th and Mercury and Jupiter are in the 11th", has sought for clarification of this yoga further.

The English translation of Bhavarta Ratnakara, in which the above yoga finds its place, was rendered by Sri B. V. Raman. Sri Raman is a Fellow of the Royal Astronomical Society as well as an able expounder of the cause of astrology. In the 'Introduction' to his translation Sri Raman writes:

"I had decided to bring out a translation of this book three years ago but I had to put off the decision as I wanted to test the various principles rather exhaustively by applying them to practical horoscopes before I could bring them to the notice of the public".

This statement of the learned translator is sufficient to accept the validity of the yoga in question. However, for the satisfaction of the correspondent I may please be allowed to clarify the point as desired by her.

The relative position of the heavenly bodies required for the fulfilment of this and similar yogas can be observed only in higher latitudes, i.e., Lat. 60° and above. Further, those parts of our globe which are exposed to such peculiar planetary configurations must present necessary environmental forces so as to respond to the accumulative propensity of different nativities.

Let us now look back into the environmental conditions that prevailed in Yukon Province of the Dominion of Canada at the close of nineteenth century A.D. The description given below has been taken from A Geography of America by T. Alford Smith, B.A. (Lond.), F.R.G.S., published by Macmillan & Co., Ltd., London, in 1919.

I. "In 1896 gold was discovered in the Klondike Valley in the Canadian Yukon District and shortly afterwards it was found in other parts of Yukon basin and at Nome on the West Coast. This discovery led to a rush of miners." (Page 159).

"Yukon was constituted a separate political area in 1898. Dawson, the Capital, has only three thousand people." (Page 72).

II. Mineral Production of Canada (Page 18)—

"Yukon Province: Gold—£1000, 942; Silver—£1000, 9; Copper—£1000; Lead—£1000; Coal—£1000, Tons—7; Pig Iron—Tons 1000."

III. Density of Population (Page 9)—

"Yukon Province: Land Area in 1000 sq. miles—206; Census 1911—1000, 9; Population per sq. mile—Nil."

*Mercury, the Sun and Lagna in Kataka; Mars in Simha; Kethu in Thula; Saturn in Dhanus; Moon in Makara; Rahu in Mesha; and Venus and Jupiter in Vrishabha. Born on 7th, Sravan (July 1930), Tuesday.

Having this vast resources before him in a rather thinly populated area, it was just possible for any enterprising person to exploit all available resources at his disposal and to become wealthy. His descendants would also get access to wealth and enjoy the fruits of his labour.

I have no case history at my disposal to substantiate the line of my thinking. Accordingly, I would like to point out that the requirements of the yoga are present on the 4th/5th January 1891 in Northern Lat. 60° and above, along 139° to 165° West Meridian Circles. I request your correspondent to calculate a table of houses for Dawson (64° 5′ N. and 139° 20′ W.) in accordance with the Regiomontanus system and to see for herself the position of Venus–Moon in 6th and Mercury–Jupiter in 11th.

The question as to how Jupiter in debility can give wealth particularly through gold, the letter of Sm. Das on 'Jupiter–Sun combination' published in the current issue (April 1959) has its answer.

Truth about Numerology

Sir,—My date of birth being 15–6–1927 it gives on adding 1+5+6+1+9+2+7=31 which again adding gives 3+1=4. Rhythm of Life by F.C. Dutt gives for No. 4 the following result:—"Accomplishment, fixed, durable results, realisation, failures or indifferent success, sudden events and changes".

Ever since my childhood, I had always worries with the result even though I could succeed I never felt joy over success. How accurately it is said as indifferent success. Though I had many failures, still I could complete my educational career with success. Please see "accomplishment". Even the achievement of things of ordinary course are difficult because of some unexpected people interfering with my affairs. Please note "Failures and sudden events and changes" stated above. I am therefore forced to believe that there is truth in Numerology and is of much help to common man if a good study is made of it.

I therefore request the learned readers of your magazine with similar date of birth giving the value "4" to contradict or support my conclusions. I also request your learned contributors on Numerology to suggest a remedy for people born under No. 4, so that they can have a smooth life.

Thanking you,

Anantapur, SWAYAMGRAHI.

Tragic Marriages

Sir,—In a letter published in the October 1958 issue of your esteemed Magazine, one "Anonymous" of New Delhi has given 3 cases of married lives. Their story indeed reads tragic if not unusual. The writer would have done well if he had furnished the navamsa charts as well of Smts. B and C to help in the working out of the trimsamsa positions of the planets in their horoscopes. For in the case of females particularly, the trimsamsa positions will enable us to predict more accurately about their own characteristics as well as those of their husbands and their married lives. Anyway, with the details available, I will try to analyse astrologically the causes of their marriages having proved a failure. The queries posed by anonymous call for examination of each chart individually and also collectively

What strikes us at a glance is that Moon is posited in Thula Lagna in all the 3 charts. The Moon's position in the 7th house of the zodiac is an indication of the nativities, each trying to bring the other under his or her control. In the chart of A, we find that the lord of the 7th house is Saturn also ruling 8th and is posited in 2nd; Sun, a natural malefic and ruling 2nd is in 7th but receives benefic aspect of exalted Jupiter. Lord of Lagna and the karaka for mind Moon placed in 4th is considerably afflicted being associated with Rahu and aspected by Kethu and Saturn. From Chandra Lagna also, we find that Kethu is in 7th aspected by afflicted Moon, Rahu and Mars, ruling 2nd and 7th. Venus, the Kalatrakaraka is in the house of Mars, his enemy but receives benefic aspect of Jupiter. Further, lords of the 1st and 7th both from Lagna and Chandra Lagna, namely, Moon and Saturn ratios like sine and cosine as given in Suryasiddhanta by employing only whole numbers and without even going into decimals is examined. If the figures in whole numbers given as values of sines is turned into decimal figure by dividing by the value 3438 given for trijya or radius, the result will be seen to differ only in the 4th decimal place from the figures in the present accurate mathematical tables. Thus it will be seen that planets computed with Suryasiddhanta method were not much out at the time when it was brought into use. As the difference began to increase astronomers wrote various works from time to time. Thus the methods of calculation available in the present day are many. None of them however is correct to observation now due to lapse of time. Since facilities and encouragement to astronomers is wanting in India in the present day, no one could construct any method of his own accord, like Bhaskara and Ganesh. But the deficiency was made up by people studying methods from the west and making easy tables for computation of planetary positions in India. Purvapakshees state that these methods are unholy having come from the west (म्लेच्छ देश) and cannot be considered to be either vedanga, shastra or siddhanta. Words of a great seer like Garga repeated by well-known astronomer Varahamihira praises the Miechas thus :—

'म्लेच्छाद्दियवनास्तेषु सम्यक् शास्त्रमिदं-स्थितं'।

ऋषि व त्तेपि पूज्यंते किंपुन : दैव वद्विज: ॥

When such is the case, we will only be degrading ourselves if we do not respect the knowledge of the west.

A difference of 12 degrees between the longitudes of the Moon and the Sun constitutes one thithi. This is the definition of thithi as given by astronomers and also by Dharmasastrakaras. The ending moments of thithis as obtained by Suryasiddhanta do not tally with the actual difference of longitude between the Moon and Sun at the time as per the definition. The purvapakshees explain this discrepancy thus :—Discrepancy may be found when the longitudes are measured from the centre of the earth but there will be no discrepancy if viewed from Bhachakra Nabhi (centre of the zodiac). This leads us to entirely a different phase of the question. There were several conferences in various places to settle this point and it has been decided definitely in A.D. 1877 at Kamakotipeetha Kumbakonam and other places that Bhachakra Nabhi is no other than Bhumadya (centre of the earth). Bhachakra or zodiac is only an imaginary circle, its position in the universe cannot be fixed anywhere as the distances of stars from each other and from us is vast and immeasurable. It is not possible to fix up the Bhachakra in any position. A great circle in the celestial sphere imagined with the centre of the earth as centre and its plane coinciding with the Sun's path with any convenient radius is the Bhachakra. Its Nabhi or centre is no other than the centre of the earth. This is understood easily by any one having the knowledge of spherics and by no one else.

Author of the statement Banavriddhi Rasakshaya also divides thithis into 2 categories dhrishtaphalajanaka and adrishtaphalajanaka. These statements do not appear in any works written prior to him. There is no possibility for Thithivriddhikshaya to remain within Banarasa always (from सृष्टपादि to प्रलयांत). Bodhayana forbids certain dharmakaryas in fortnights having 13 or 17 days: Bheeshma warns Yudhistira of a great war owing to the presence of such a fortnight. It is impossible for a fortnight to lose or gain 2 days if the thithis should remain within the limit laid down by Kamalakara and copied by authors after him. Hence his statement is not sound and not arising from any authority; and thus it cannot be taken as authoritative.

The weapon of Banavriddhi Rasakshaya is used by purvapakshees in many ways. If the वृद्धिक्षय of तिथि goes beyond बाणरस i.e., if the duration of thithis goes beyond 54 and 65 ghatikas, it will not be possible to fix correct days for things like Shradha, etc. It can be proved by figures that this difficulty if experienced in case of duration going beyond 54 and 65 the same difficulty will be present for Banavriddhi Rasakshaya also. Dharmasastrakaras have framed rules bearing in mind all possibilities and hence this objection does not become sound. Another objection:—It is not necessary to have very accurate calculation for thithis; it is enough to have a method nearing average. On this ground Suryasiddanta system cannot be recommended, for it does not come under this head. Cases in which one thithi comes on 2 days and another does not appear at all in one paksha are common to both the methods. If an average method is required resort can be had to the Vedanga Jyotisha system which is nothing short of the word average as thithis, etc., are mere addition of some units every day, and also it is more ancient than the Suryasiddhanta system; but the purvapakshees are not ready even to accept this, since they know that this is very inaccurate and for this very reason this was given up by ancients in preference to a more correct method, viz., of Suryasiddhanta.

It appears that there is a wrong idea prevalent amongst so-called astronomers that there are two kinds of calculations in every astronomical work; one is meant for Nityapanchanga like thithi and the other for finding out first and last contacts of eclipses, conjunctions, heliacal rising, etc. This as well as the idea that Drigganita requires alterations every year is entirely wrong. This is the opinion of those having a perfunctory knowledge of the subject. A ganitha which is Drik at one time is not so always. It will not be Drik at another time, i.e., say after a few hundreds of years; for this reason naming the older ganitha Sastrasiddha (approved by sastras) is nothing but ignorance. Object of grahaganitha is to intimate us the places of the planets in the celestial sphere. If it does not fulfil this condition it cannot be called a calculation.

There are passages in Varahapurana Chaturmasya Kalpa that the kind of calculation which gives the correct timings of eclipses, etc., should be used for the calculation of Nityapanchanga. Thus it is proved by argument and authority that planetary velocities do not remain constant throughout; but keep on changing slowly (the change is inappreciable say in about a century) and that accurate longitudes of planets should be used for all purposes including Nityapanchanga and that Dharmasastra is not against this view point.

LESSONS IN ASTROLOGY

Bhavas. Please remember that if the planet is in his debilitation or inimical house, the effects mentioned for the several Bhavas will not come to pass. Also remember that you have to see the various Bhavas and the planets posited therein with reference to the Chandra Lagna, the calculation of the cusps of houses being done exactly in the same way as from the Lagna. When more planets than one are joined together in a house, you have to be doubly careful in making predictions.

MARTIAN INFLUENCES IN A HOROSCOPE

THE PLANET JUPITER—By B. M. Peek —(Faber and Faber, 24, Russell Square, London. Pp. 283. Price 42 sh. net).

With several plates, diagrams, photographic representations, this completely documented and thoroughly authoritative treatise constitutes a supremely significant contribution to research on Jupiter, the giant amongst the planets, which will long remain as a standard source of information and inspiration to further investigations.

Part I contains "Introduction". Observations of the surface of Jupiter are recorded and explained in Part II. Certain theoretical considerations are explained and discussed in Part III. Part IV is devoted to a study of the satellites of the planet. There are 16 plates and 14 diagrams. The book is the outcome of the rich and varied experiences of the author in study of the planet Jupiter, extending over 35 years of patient and systematic investigation.

It should be interesting to recall that in Bhagavatha (Canto 5, Chap. 22) reference is found to the planetary system as then, known, and the fact is recorded that Jupiter takes about one year to cover each zodiacal sign. Centuries ago, when astronomical appliances were not available, when study of planets was predominantly observational, only naked eyes having been used, it should be deemed remarkable that the ancients had in their possession facts about Jupiter and other planets, of real and genuine astronomical significance.

The four appendices in the volume contain an account of certain quantitative measurements and critical tables.

On Pp. 268 attention is called to the obvious dangers lurking in what are known as "Freak observations" of the satellites, and to the surprising fact that even the Royal Astronomical Society had been on a particular occasion.

What may be the significance of the Great Red Spot? What do the wireless signals emanating from Jupiter suggest? These and many other fascinating phenomena about the Giant Planet are scientifically described and examined in this volume, and some items of latest information regarding study of the planet have been incorporated in this volume.

What is the nature of the atmosphere surrounding the planet? What light can be thrown on the constitution of the solid body of the planet? The author has furnished the latest answer to these and concomitant questions.

The author humorously refers to "inhabitants of Jupiter" on Pp. 45. Fun apart, is the giant planet inhabited? The author has not considered the question. I hope that at some future date, he will throw some genuine light on the question.

From the purely speculative standpoint, there is absolutely no reason why all the planets need not or should not be inhabited.

It would appear that for the first time, the author has assembled together all the facts known to modern astronomy, about Jupiter, in this volume, and I commend this as a masterly and magnificent research work hard to excel or supercede.

THE MAURYAS AND THE MAURYAN EMPIRE—By Ramakrishna—(Ramlal Puri, Atma Ram and Sons, Kashmere Gate, Delhi. Pp. 78. Price Rs. 2).

In the course of a brief "Preface", the author refers to the familiar opinion that the Golden Age of Indian History had been marked by the Gupta Age and he suggests that this familiar and historically uninitiated judgment has considerably to be modified, if not altogether surrendered in the light of incontrovertible evidence available. The author seeks to maintain, in the course of this research publication of great value and undoubted merit that prior to the advent of the Gupta period, the Mauryan Empire had extended its conquests beyond the Indian frontiers, and he has given a brief and authoritative account of the rise and progress, development and eventual downfall of the Mauryan Empire.

Social and Economic organization, Political and Administrative achievements of the Mauryans, descriptive, historical and critical estimate of the reign of Asoka have been dealt with by the author in a scholarly manner with an eye to precise adherence to facts and data proved and verified. The volume contains four plates and a Map of India of the age of Asoka.

Today, Panchasila in imitation of Asoka's creed, has been practically done to death though the world does not seem to be willing to tread the path of Asoka. With great delight, I am commending this work to the earnest attention of all students of Indian History and historical research.

THE SCEPTRED FLUTE—Songs of India —By Sarojini Naidu—(Kitabistan, Allahabad. Pp. 231. Price Rs. 6-8-0).

In the course of a brief note, the publishers have pointed out, that the Indian and American editions of the poetical works of Mrs. Sarojini Naidu having been out of print for a long time, it would be opportune if they brought out a new edition of her collected works. It is for the first time the collected works of the gifted poetess appear in the land of her birth. Late Dr. Amranath Jha has brought the work to the notice of the public in the course of a commendatory announcement.

Folk-songs, Songs for Music, Poems, Songs of Love and Death, Songs of the Spring-time, Indian Folk-songs, Songs of Life, Songs of Life and Death, The Flowering Year, The Peacock Flute, and The Temple constitute the different types of subject-matter on which her poetical talents and imagination have been exercised.

Though her political and administrative capacities and abilities may have been undoubtedly great, far greater are her literary and poetical gifts and achievements.

Such will be judgment of all who may go through the volume of her poems now published. Gandhi enthusiastically, it is said, described Mrs. Sarojini Devi as Bulbul in British cage.

This new and latest edition of the collected works of Mrs. Naidu will be a source of inspiration to poetic aspirants.

THE PROBLEM OF DIVORCE—By Robert S.W. Pollard—(Watts, 40, Drury Lane, London, W.C. 2. Pp. 148. Price 12 sh. 6 d. net).

After the advent of political independence, Indian politicians and legislators are glibly talking of Hindu Law Reforms, and particularly, reforming of laws relating to marriages, with a view to rendering divorces cheap and easy. These kind-hearted, good and innocent legislators and politicians will do well to note and get themselves acquainted with some of the dangers concomitant with hasty reforms of laws affecting such a vital, deep and intimate relationship as marriage.

They will, further, do well, to make a careful study of the thoughtful volume written by Mr. Pollard, who is a lawyer and Justice of Peace. The Case of Divorce, its History, Relation to Church, the Law, the Need for Reform, Divorce-grounds, Miscellaneous Reforms, and Prospects of Reforms are studied and examined, in this volume, and the author is of opinion that both men and women should be guided by a rational sex and marriage ethic.

Years ago, the present reviewer contributed an article to the International Journal of Ethics (Chicago University) reviewing and critically examining texts in the Sanskrit language relating to divorce.

The ancient Indian Saints and Sages, Sociologists and Lawgivers were never so conservative as modern critics imagine them to have been, and they had indicated clearly the circumstances under which divorce has to be permitted, not merely, but, as being the only solution.

It is, however, reckless and irresponsible to be taking advantage of Divorce Law and changing wives and husbands as one might change collars and coats. There must be an element of religion in the basic conception of marriage, without which the contractual element would lead only on to chaos and disaster.

The author has pointed out that most of the difficulties spring up from defective legal machinery dealing with divorce cases. If the defects in the legal machinery and system be removed, Divorce Law can contribute to the good of the parties concerned. The custody of children of divorced parents, and the control of illegitimate issues are also considered by the author.

Divorces are sometimes had by mutual consent, by collusive adultery, and by other means. These cases may seem strange, but, it is neither here nor there. If for whatever reason or reasons, man and women feel they cannot remain inside wedlock, divorce is the only remedy.

Man should not seek to dissolve marriages, because, they are sacramental is one extreme. That they can be dissolved at any time is another. Safety and harmony and domestic joy lie in the golden mean. I hope Mr. Pollard's work will be a constant companion to married and unmarried, to lawyers and to social reformers. I hope Indian legislators will make a careful study of the volume.

KNOW THY FUTURE—By Dr. Jagannatha Rao, M.B.B.S., etc.—(Copies from District Medical Officer, Bangalore. Pp. 69. Price Rs. 2).

This volume which bears also another title "Predictive Astrology", is described as an Astro-Medical research publication, and, is written by a medical person, with a high medical degree. Exhaustive Bhavaphala, Gocharaphala, and character reading are given in the work which is something like an astrological self-instructor, with the help of which the readers can not only develop themselves into astrologers, but, make others as well astrologers. The work contains a "Preface" written by Mr. Narasinga Rao Manvi, Director of Information Bureau of Andhra Pradesh, and it is dedicated to the celebrated saint of Mantralaya situated on the sacred banks of Tungabhadra, Sri Guru Raghavendra.

The book is divided into six chapters, and contains a popular account of the nature and significance of different houses, planets stationed in them, and the transitting planets. (Gochara). The author has not made any reference to the Dasa systems commonly used by the professional practitioners of astrology.

Students of astrology will find the work useful as a preliminary introduction to deeper and more detailed study of the subject. It is unfortunate that Pp. 17—24 are topsy-turvey and bound in a disorderly manner.

RELIGION IN LIFE.—(Pp. 220. Price Rs. 3.)

THE OTHER WORLD.—(Pp. 234. Price Rs. 2.50 nP.) Both books by Minocher K. Spencer—(Spiritual Healing Centre, R.S. Puram, P.O. Coimbatore).

Religion in Life, which is now issued in its second edition is a philosophical volume which contains the essence of the teachings of the Hindu saints and sages, of Buddha, of Zoroaster, Christ, Mohammed, and others, does great credit to the author, Mr. M.K. Spencer many of whose works on religion and philosophy, in prose and verse are now before the public.

Though for spectacular platform performances, ever and always laboratory scientists deny the value of religion, even they, fall back upon religion and the consolation of religious ministrations at times of physical and mental crises.

What is God? Is there God? These and allied questions will continue to be asked so long as human thinking and speculation last, and no final answers are possible to these persistent interrogations.

The author has expounded in easy, popular language, the answers given from time to time by great prophets and world teachers. Modern science has planned travel to other planets, and possibly, the abode of the Almighty may soon be assailed by man with some suitable sputnik. At this rate, faith in religion is likely to be undermined. But, the author has endeavoured his utmost to vindicate religion and religious values.

The Other World, which is running in its fourth edition would easily demand that there exists for the publications of Mr. Spencer, who combines, living life of religion, felicity of expression, and keen perception of the significance of religious and spiritual truths.

The existence of the other world is not doubted nowadays, in view of the discoveries and researches accomplished by para-psychologists and spiritualists, and other forms of extra-sensory investigations. It is nevertheless, an open question if the other world is better, or worse than the present one.

The author has examined, predictions, spiritual healing, mediumship and come to the conclusion that death is not the end of all, but, there is survival of the individual personality which has to render proper account of the conduct pursued in this world before a judge sitting in another.

Mediumship may exist in some as ESP (extra-sensory perception) but, it is an open question whether it can be cultivated in a mass-scale just as muscles by means of gymnastics and exercises. The author has answered the objections and criticisms urged by doubting Thomases, against spiritualism, and the answers seem convincing and satisfactory, but, I cannot say if scoffers will remain to pray. Mr. Spencer's books are sure to afford religious and spiritual consolation to doubt-distracted minds.

Digitized by Siddhanta eGangotri Gyaan Reserve Dr B V Raman Work

Upasani Baba Maharaj, the well-known mystic of Maharashtra, had been giving for the benefits of his disciples and the public talks on different religious and philosophical subjects, and these talks have been assembled together for the purpose of bestowing permanent form on them.

The third volume contains a fairly long biographical account of the life and work of Upasani Maharaj. He was born on 15th May 1870, and shuffled off his mortal frame on 24th December 1941.

It is regrettable that sufficient care has not been bestowed on printing arrangement. From the "Contents" list of Vol. 11, reference to different sections has been omitted though on the title page sections I–V are noted.

These talks reveal no internal order, no systematic philosophical cohesion, or unity of theme. The talks seem desultory, and the arrangement also is haphazard. It is clear, however, that Baba Maharaj was a follower of Advaitic thought, and his own personal, mystic experiences are those described in Advaitic classics.

Upasani Maharaj, was a disciple of the celebrated Sai Baba, and he had only a single, recognised, official disciple, Srimathi Godavari, a married lady, but, there were hundreds and thousands of others—men and women who followed his teachings. Like every prophet, Upasani Maharaj had been subjected to a lot of trouble and persecution by some of his contemporaries, and even by his own disciples, but, the pin-pricks were never heeded by Baba Maharaj.

It is observed that several girls were dedicated to him, or were married to him and all these were called kanyas (virgins) and these were asked to recite vedic hymns (contrary to general practice which prohibited women from chanting Vedas). Thus Babaji is claimed to have revived the vedic ideal of equality of men and women in the matter of chanting and studying the Vedas.

Nowadays, one comes across massive volumes full of flamboyant verbiage masquerading as books on philosophy in international circles, and it is a great and welcome relief to turn from the sterile volumes on the imponderables, to the homely, popular, and yet remarkably spiritual talks of Baba Maharaj.

I have no doubt in my mind that these three volumes make an outstanding contribution to popular exposition, of the fundamental truths of Higher Hinduism, and these volumes are far superior to those on Hindu View of Life, Idealistic View of Life and others written in pedantic jargon. Upasaniji's metaphysical message will be welcomed generally by all, and particularly by lovers of Maharashtra land.

THE CHALLENGE OF BERNADETTE—By Hugh Ross Williamson—(Burns and Oates, London. Pp. 101. Price 10 sh. 6 d.)

Dedicated to Margaret Mills, the present publication which is described as a challenge deals with a spiritual phenomenon, which had created a tremendous sensation in the Christian World, in general, and particularly, in the Catholic World.

In the year of Grace, 1858—The Blessed Virgin appeared before Bernadette, a mere girl of 14—and the first vision was on Thursday the 11th of February—and the last and 18th was on July 16th, Friday. In the "Preface", the author has narrated the story of the life of the wonderful recipient of the Grace of Blessed Virgin.

Why did the Blessed Virgin select this particular girl? Why the particular place or locality? Why just a 100-years ago? These and many other puzzling questions are discussed and answers sought in the volume. Bernadette had to face hostile demonstrations in the days of Napoleon III. In the end, she stood thoroughly vindicated.

Hindus will recall how the Supreme Lord appeared before Dhruva and Prahlada who were merest boys, and granted their prayers.

If the Christian tales and stories are true, then, the Hindu stories also must be admitted to be true likewise. If rationalists reject the one, the other also must be rejected. That must be an unexceptionable position. Christians and non-Christians alike will I am sure react characteristically to the challenging work of Mr. H. R. Williamson.

THE SPIRIT OF THE SPANISH MYSTICS —By Kathleen Pond—(Burns and Oates, London. Pp. 170. Price 16 sh.)

Every country in the world has produced its own mystics, and is full of mystical literature, and in this volume, Miss Kathleen Pond, has assembled together striking and significant extracts from the writings of Spanish Mystics, whose works are not so well known as those of others. The volume, is thus, rightly, described as an anthology of Spanish Mystic Prose. The period covered is from the 15th to the 17th century. The passages have been chosen, rendered into English, and introduced by Miss Pond, in the most methodical manner.

In the "Introduction", it is observed that Spain is a country of realism, intensity, faith and of contrasts. The minds of the people are deeply rooted in Catholism. Spanish concepts of Mysticism agree with those of Hinduism, and, on Pp. 47—ten things are listed which hinder devotion. These would readily bring to memory the ten obstacles to yoga mentioned in the Upanishadic texts.

Though the works of St. John and St. Teresa are well-known in English translations, there are others, equally important, but, not so well-known.

Miss Pond's Anthology, brings together the salient aspects of the writings of the Spanish Mystics neglected hitherto for no fault of theirs. Students of Catholic Religion and students of comparative research into mysticism throughout the world will find the anthology prepared by Miss Kathleen Pond highly informative and instructive. She has done distinguished service in the cause of Spanish Catholicism and Mysticism.

HINDI

PAURVATYA PASCHATYA SAMUDRIKA VIJNYANA—By Sri Lakshminarayana Tripathi—(Daivajnya Bhavan, Narasingagadha, Madhya Bharat. Pp. 34. Price not noted.)

In this Hindi booklet, the author has explained the theoretical principles and their practical applications relating to Eastern and Western systems of palmistry familiarly known as Samudrika Sastra. The significance of hand, fingers, nails, mounts, lines, and other matters connected with palmistry are expounded in Hindi. The volume contains a large number of quotations from the writings of some of the well-known western authors like Cheiro and others.

Towards the end of the booklet, two sacred mantras are given known as Samudrikasapa mochana mantra and Kalajnyana mantra, latter of which has been attributed to the authorship of Varahamihira.

It is regrettable important Sanskrit texts cited on the opening page itself contain many typographical errors.

It should be observed that there cannot be any divergence between the destiny of a person as portrayed by Palmistry and destiny as revealed by horoscopy. There prevails an erroneous notion that palmistry is more reliable than astrology or horoscopy. The proper place of palmistry lies only where correct horoscopes cannot be prepared or cast owing to uncontrollable circumstances.

Hindi-knowing students of palmistry would find the booklet instructive and informative.

and Venus and Mars are in 3rd and 11th positions with relation to each other. Thanks to the strong benefic aspect of Jupiter on Venus and Sun, the marriage ties between A and B might have been broken long ago. The planetary positions, particularly those of Sun, Saturn, Venus and Moon in this chart are the pointers to the nativity coming in contact with C suffering humiliation at the hands of women and ultimately being deprived of his happiness.

It is a pity that the 7th house in B's chart does not receive any good aspect. Venus and Mars, lords of the 7th (and Kalatrakaraka) and Lagna are respectively in 3rd and 6th, ruling enemies, both Apoklima houses. Venus also ruling 12th is unchecked. And from Chandra Lagna, we find that fiery Mars, ruling 2nd and 7th is in 7th aspected by Moon, ruler of 10th, Kendra and Jupiter, ruler of 3rd and 6th. The position of Moon and Jupiter in the 12th had already its share in reflecting somewhat villainic frame of mind of the native. This coupled with the badly placed Venus and Mars and the vacuum in the 7th has contributed to the native always regarding A as a contemptible wretch and their ultimate separation.

I cannot help feeling a bit sorry for C. In her chart, we find that Mars and Venus ruling 1st and 7th are placed in the ascendant and 2nd from Chandra Lagna. In my view, the position of Saturn in 2nd and the combination of Mars, Mercury and Venus in the Lagna are only to be blamed for the native having fallen in love with A and trying to get rid of her present partner.

Summing up we may reach the following conclusions :

(i) The chances of A and B joining again are not very encouraging in view of the unfavourable planetary positions in both their charts as enumerated above.

(ii) The aspect of exalted Jupiter in the 9th on the combination in the Lagna of C's chart should make her drop the idea of divorcing her present husband for the good.

(iii) The position of Jupiter, ruling 6th and 9th (Dharmasthana) in A's chart and 2nd and 5th (mind and wisdom) in C's chart and exalted in the ascendant and 9th of the respective charts warrant us to rule out the possibility of C marrying A.

(iv) In view of (i) above, I will be surprised, but certainly welcome, if B is received back by A or they both come to a settlement anyhow.

May God bestow his grace upon these unfortunate souls !

*ABHINAVA KERALEEYA JYOTISHA MASIKA

This is an astrological monthly published in Malayalam. In almost all the issues we find thought-provoking articles on subjects like rectification of birth-time, nashta jataka rahasyam, etc., and also simple lessons on the general effects of ascendants, constellations and houses. Monthly forecasts of market rates and human fortune with reference to the constellations, panchangams and muhurthams of the solar month of publication enhance the value of this periodical as a helpful guide. Some issues are found to be adorned by the free translations of the leading articles of the learned Editor of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE, containing brilliant predictions on world events. Samsaya Nivarana Pamkti (the column of clearing doubts) is a highly useful section of this publication which gives extensive scope for research work on the predictive aspect of the science. But, however, this column does not seem to have gained substantial progress for want of proper response from veteran scholars of Kerala who have dived deep into the intricacies of astrological research. If this monthly is properly encouraged by the adherents of astrology in Kerala, it will surely attain a higher and better standard.

Astrology and Modern Thought

BY B. V. RAMAN

(FOURTH EDITION)

The rationale and claims of Astrology have been examined from the viewpoint of Modern Scientific Thought. The arguments put forth by some of the scientists to decry Astrology have been ably refuted and supported by unimpeachable evidence.

The book will convince any so-called sceptic who is accustomed the slogan 'I do not believe in Astrology'. To an intellectual it contains full of weighty material for reflection.

It is a book that every one should read.

Q. 1. (a) What is the astrological use of Rasi, Hora, Drekkana, etc., upto Trimsamsa. For what particular branches of prediction, these divisions of signs are used? (b) Births take place at the same time on a particular longitude (say 77°) at different places in India from Cape Comorin to Himalayas. Are their Lagnas and planets the same? If different, how and in what way? Please illustrate by example. (c) Rasi and Navamsa. In comparison of horoscopes for marriage adaptability, what is the procedure to be adopted if there is dosha in rasi and none in navamsa or vice versa? (d) Mars in 7th and 8th is said to cause Angaraka Dosha but not in 6th or 10th where he aspects Lagna. There is no dosha even if he is in Lagna. What is the correct position? (e) If in one horoscope Mars is in Lagna and in the other 6th or 10th, will the two horoscopes match, other things being agreeable. (f) It is stated that if Mars is in 1, 2, 4, 7, 8 and 12 in one horoscope and if Mars is in any of these places in the other horoscope, it is said that this is sufficient for agreement. Is it correct?

P.K.A., Palghat.

Ans. (a) These divisions are based on the principle that whatever is contained on the whole is also contained in the part according to the structure of cosmos. An atom is a correct reproduction in miniature of what obtains in the solar system itself. These divisions have got two uses (1) to ascertain the Shadbala strength, (2) to determine the Amsas—such as Gopuramsa, Paravatamsa and so on. These are well explained in all textbooks. The physical body, the features, the health and the like should be determined by the lord of the rising sign at birth; the prosperity and the wealth of the native by the hora lord; the fate that is in store and the profession followed by the native from the decanate lord; the brothers by the saptamsa lord; the children by the navamsa lord; the marriage partner by the dwadasamsa lord; the knowledge of death by the trimsamsa lord. (b) If births take place at the same time in the same place, it goes without saying that the horoscope will be the same. If several births take place at the same time but in different latitudes, the planets' positions as well as meridian will be the same but the ascending degree and the houses will be different, e.g., Cape Comorin Lat. is 8° N. Long. 77° E. (approximately). Simla 31° N., Long. 77° E. Suppose a child is born on 10-4-1958 at noon (L.M.T.) The sidereal time at birth will be 1h. 12m. 0s. On reference to the Tables of Houses by B.V. Raman, you will find that the M.C. (10th house cusp) for Lat. 8° for 1h. 12.5m. is Pisces 28° 3'. You will find that for Simla Lat. 31° N., it is also the same. But you will find that the Ascendant for Lat. 8° N. is Gemini 28° 11' and that for Lat. 31° N. (Simla) the Ascendant is Cancer 7° 19'. The cusps of the houses will also be found to differ as they are based on a trisection of the longitudinal distance between the M.C. and the ascendant. The planets' positions will be the same. (c) The rasi positions of planets are primary and navamsa positions only secondary for comparison of horoscopes for matrimonial purposes. (d) There are a great many anamolies in the definitions and application of theory of Angaraka Dosha in comparison of horoscopes. By itself it has no great value in determining agreement. The main task in comparison is to appraise the malefic content of both horoscopes and see if there is agreement. This is practically ignored nowadays. Hence the trouble. In malefic content appraisement Mars in 1 has the same value as in 7th or 8th where occupation of a house alone is taken into account and not aspect. (e) On this item alone, there is no balance as Mars in 1 has got a higher degree of maleficence but nil in 6th or 10th. (f) For purposes of appraising malefic content 1, 7 and 8 form one group and 2, 4 and 12 a different group. The first group is much more malefic than the latter.

Q. 2. (a) What are the various combinations which make a person settle down in foreign countries? (b) What are the results when lord of 4th and Moon are situated in the 12th house? (c) Lagna being Virgo when Saturn lord of 6th house together with Mars lord of 8th house are posited in the tenth, how is it likely to affect health and what remedies will ward off if ill-health is indicated? (d) When Saturn is posited in 7th house in signs Capricorn or Aquarius, what are the general effects during his Mahadasa? (e) Which shall be the results of the Mahadasa of the lord and 3rd house when lord of Lagna occupies 2nd house, lord of 2nd occupies 3rd and lord o 13rd occupies Lagna?

S.K., Patna

Ans. (a) Combinations are very many and they cannot all be given here. (i) The simplest combination is to be a combination of 6 planets in the same house-Sun, Moon, Mercury, Jupiter, Venus and Saturn. (ii) Moon in the 12th bhava is also said to have the same effect. (iii) Also if lord of 4th bhava occupies 12th. The above are general. More specific guidance is given in verse 23 of Chapter XI of Jataka Parijata as follows:—"When the lord of 12th house from that occupied by the lord of Lagna is the latter's enemy, or is in depression or weak, the person goes to a foreign country. He will abide permanently there if the lord of 12th house referred to above be aspected by Venus in the capacity of a friend. His haunt will be a small township if the same Vyayapa is eclipsed by Sun. If the Vyayapa is possessed of strength, the haunt will be a wealthy municipality". Other combinations given in texts are: Saturn in 2nd house; Kethu in 3rd house; if lord of Lagna occupies 12th house, a malefic planet in 10th and Moon conjoined with Mars; if lord of 9th occupies Lagna and lord of Lagna occupies 9th; if Lagna is in a movable sign and lord also is in a movable sign and aspected by a planet occupying a movable sign. (b) Happiness is denied to the person with lord of 4th in 12th as 4th represents happiness and 12th is loss. If Moon occupies 12th, the native will have feeble eyes and a defective limb and he will suffer on account of women. But if the sign occupied by Moon is Cancer or Taurus, the person will be happy and will become rich. The effect of conjunction of Moon and Mars in 12th will also have the effect of making the native devoid of happiness. So, the question cannot be adequately answered within a knowledge of Lagna and the signs occupied by the planets. (c) Mars is liable to cause skin diseases and as he rules 8th and is in conjunction with Saturn lord of 6th in sign Gemini (whose ruler also rules skin) he is liable to cause serious skin disorders. For cure Sun, Mercury, Mars and Saturn should be propitiated. (d) When Saturn occupies 7th house, he is likely to confer increase of name and fame, gain of property, prosperity to self and family and auspicious celebrations. When he occupies Capricorn, gains, pilgrimages, happiness, etc. When in Aquarius vehicles, increase of name and fame, success in undertakings, happiness of children and kinsmen, and general prosperity. (e) This combination does not give rise to any known yoga. So the lord of 3rd occupying Lagna is the only main consideration. Lord of 3 in 1 is well placed. If he is also strong, the following may be expected—fraternal help, to and from brothers, receipt of good news, gain of good servants, fame, honour and help from all generally.

Q. 3. (a) Ref. Pp. 39 of The Astrological Magazine—January 1947 issue, 2nd column:—"It is also significant to note that the learned author wants Dusthana lords to be in a place other than their own place", but the very best result will follow when the planet is debilitated and also in a bad place. And again refer page 479 of The Astrological Magazine of May 1947 issue, question 11 (a) "If such a planet is in debility, all these prospects will not be fully realised and greatly reduced, the means for achieving success will not be above board". Please reconcile. (b) What are the effects of exchange between lords of 6th and 12th and lord of 6th and 11th? What are the effects of Viparecta Rajayoga? (c) Lagna Pisces, Mercury in Lagna, Moon and Jupiter in Cancer. Is there Neechabhanga for Mercury? Is Gajakesari Yoga also present? (d) Ref Q. 6 (b) of May 1951 issue of The Astrological Magazine page 366. What is the yoga and what are its effects? Moon is in Cancer. Are there any special effects due for this?

H. Vyas, Ahmedabad.

Ans. (a) You put the question as if the two different opinions were expressed by the same author. The former article is written by an experienced astrologer who says his experience shows that the yoga is effective when such lords are also debilitated and weak and this is confined to cases of Viparecta Rajayoga as defined in Uttara Kalamrita with which the article deals. The opinion of Mihira is different, that is all. This is a matter where there is even difference between Varahamihira and Satyacharya. Each is to be guided by his own experience. (b) Both are designated as Dainya Yogas. The effects are troubles from enemies and there will be ups and downs in life. He will meet with obstacles in his undertakings. The effects of Viparecta Rajayoga are that the native will become a great king lording over other kings and blessed with fame and wealth (c) Neechabhanga is present as Jupiter ruler of Pisces is in Chandrakendra. Gajakesari is also present because Jupiter is in a kendra with Moon. (d) Here too the exchange is between lords of 6th and 11th. Hence Dainya Yoga. If Moon is in Cancer instead of Scorpio, the yoga will not be a Maha Yoga as from Moon but only Dainya Yoga as the exchange will be between lords of 2nd and 8th houses.

Q. 4. (a) How to know that a person shall go to a foreign country and for how long he will stay there? (b) How to judge the number of issues that a native will get? (c) What are the combinations for no marriage? (d) When is a house or planet said to be afflicted? (e) What will be the effect of a dasa of a planet if it is in its own sign or exalted? (f) How to know the number of brothers and sisters a native will have? (g) Are there hard and fast rules for determining the profession of a person?

T.S., Hoshiarpur.

Ans. (a) Vide answer to question 2 (a) supra. (b) Take the fifth cusp, lord of 5th house, Jupiter. Find out which is strongest. See how many navamsas have been completed by that planet in the sign. This number will give the number of issues. This is only a rough and ready method and will require to be modified according to each horoscope and no particular method may apply for all horoscopes. (c) If the 7th house is not occupied by a benefic or aspected by a benefic, marriage is not likely. 7th from Lagna as well as Moon should be examined. There are also very many combinations which if present may deny marriage. It is not possible to enumerate all of them; if the 7th bhava be in Dhuma or Kala, it has been stated there will be no marriage; when all the planets being in bhavas other than 10th occupy their depression or inimical signs or portions of them; when benefic and malefic planets occupy kendra positions and the Moon aspected by the lord of the rising sign is in a navamsa belonging to Saturn; if the navamsas occupied by Venus and Jupiter be owned by their several depression or inimical signs and if Saturn is also in a navamsa such as described above; if Venus and Mars be in 7th bhava or in the 9th and 5th bhavas (Jataka Parijata, Chapter XIV, verse 5). (d) When occupied or aspected by malefics. (e) The effects are different for each planet and are given in all standard texts. (f) Same procedure as for (b). But instead of 5th house take 3rd and instead of Jupiter, take Mars. (g) There are no hard and fast rules.

Q. 5. (a) What is the special yoga that a native would derive if the lords of 1st, 2nd, 6th, 9th and 11th houses are in eleventh aspected by Moon and lord of 5th is in Lagna which is Capricorn. Would the lord of the 6th affect the yoga in any way? (b) Would Moon give rise to a Dhana Yoga if it is placed in 3, 6 or 12 from Sun. (c) What is the type of employment will a Capricorn person get if the lord of the 10th is in Lagna and Jupiter and Rahu in the 10th house?

N.N., Jaffna.

Ans. (a) No single yoga can be said to arise from the above combination. But it is clear there are two Rajayogas which arise by the combination of Mars ruling 4th (a kendra) and Mercury ruling 9th (a kona), and Saturn ruling Lagna (a kendra) and Mercury ruling 9th (a kona). The fact that Mercury also rules 6th a Dusthana will spoil the Rajayogas to some extent. (b) This point is covered by 1st verse, Chapter XIII of Brihat Jataka which says "according as Moon occupies an angular, succeedent and a cadent house in respect of Sun will the moral training, wealth, knowledge and the intellectual precision of the person born be in the owest, middling or highest". In your query, the position of Moon is stated to be in a cadent house from Sun. So highest. (c) He may become a poet, author, writer, or employed as such in educational or judicial departments.

Q. 6. (a) If the 4th house cusp falls in more benefic vargas can we assume that the native will have college education? (b) Rising sign is said to be the sign on the horizon at birth. Do the houses, i.e., the latter part of rising degree of Lagna, 2nd, 3rd, 4th, 5th, 6th and as such degrees in 7th as obtained in the latter part of rising degree come under below horizon? This has reference to page 441, May 1957 issue of The Astrological Magazine. (c) What are the general effects when majority of planets are posited below the horizon? (d) Is there no cut and dried rule to find out the strongest planet at a plane? (e) Ref. para 3, col. 2, Pp, 531, June 1957 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE. What are the fruitful signs? (f) If 5th house cusp falls in more benefic vargas, can we derive benefic matters in connection with 5th house significations? (g) What is meant by unearned money? How to judge such things from a horoscope? J.M., Seraikella.

Ans. (a) Yes, ordinarily. (b) Question is obscurely worded. The half of the zodiac extending from the rising degree to the setting degree along the direction of the signs is said to be below the horizon. The other part is said to be above horizon; the second half of Lagna bhava and the first half of 7th bhava will therefore be said to be below horizon. The first half of Lagna bhava and the 2nd half of 7th bhava will be above horizon. (c) Success will come late in life indicating that there is a great deal latent in the native but that he will probably pass through life unrecognised and unknown. It also indicates that the native succeeds better when employed under others than by taking responsibility upon himself. (d) See if there is any exalted planet or planets in its sign. See if he is in kendra. Also the vargas occupied by him, Navamsa, Drekkana, Hora, Dwadasamsa, all this can be done mentally at a glance from the degree occupied by the planet. If these are all present, own or benefic varga, then most probably he is the strongest planet. If there are several planets in kendras similarly placed, choose the one in the tenth. (e) Fruitful signs are Cancer, Scorpio and Pisces; Gemini and Sagittarius also considered less fruitful. (f) Yes, ordinarily it is so. (g) Unearned money is that which comes to the native without any exertion of his own as by will or legacy, or settlement or by gift. If 8th house is strong and well-aspected, the chances for the native coming by such kind of wealth are very good.

Q. 7. (a) Is there any Sanyasa Yoga present due to the conjunction of five planets in Capricorn and if so in which dasa and bhukthi will the man become a Sanyasi? (b) What is the effect of Sasi Mangala Yoga in Sagittarius and when its effect is to be expected? R.R., Madras-6.

Ans. (a) This is a personal query. But this raises several important questions and as regards Pravraiya Yoga this will be answered. The general notion appears to be that an ascetic yoga is formed as soon as four or more planets are found in a particular sign in a horoscope. First of all, it has to be stated that the birth time and date have not been given, an unusual practice of many who want their difficulties solved scientifically. But as far as can be checked, Moon is placed in a wrong navamsa for 17° 56′ in sign Sagittarius, the navamsa should be in Virgo. We find Moon placed in Leo navamsa. First of all, the query starts by saying five planets are in sign Capricorn including Kethu as a planet. This verse appears in Chapter XV of Brihat Jataka. Varahamihira usually ignores Rahu and Kethu in that work. So Kethu cannot be considered as a planet in this context. But we shall proceed as four planets are found in sign Capricorn. The question arises in any one sign or bhava or both. Our opinion is that four planets should occupy only the same sign but also in the same bhava. Since the latitude of birth place is not given, we cannot judge whether the planets are in the same bhava. We will assume they are all in the same bhava and proceed. One condition for ascetic yoga is that there should be a grouping of four planets. The next condition is that they should be possessed of strength.

एकस्थैश्चतुरः दिमिर्नलयुतैर्जीतः

In this horoscope, one of the four planets Jupiter is in debility. So he cannot be said to be equipped with strength. Even now let us suppose that all the planets are endowed with strength. The next verse in Chapter XV of Brihat Jataka says that "If strong planets capable of leading to ascetism be obscured by the Sun's rays, the person born will have great reverence for ascetics though they may not become initiated into the holy order". Here, of the four planets one is Sun, and Mercury and Venus are within 2 or 3 degrees of Sun and so both are combust. So of the four planets, two are combust and one is in debility. Sun alone remains. He cannot be said to be strong in Capricorn a sign ruled by his enemy Saturn. Now the questioner may himself judge as to the chances of his becoming an ascetic and when? (b) The effects of Moon conjunction Mars are given in all texts. But the querent evidently wants its effects in sign Sagittarius. This is a personal question and refers to the horoscope given above. It will be seen that the Moon is in the second bhava and Mars is in first bhava probably. Though presence in the same sign is sufficient for Sasi Mangala Yoga technically. For full effects to be observed, they should also be in the same bhava. The following effects are given by B. V. Raman: "Earnings through unscrupulous means, a seller of women, treating mother harshly and doing mischief to her and other relatives". As this conjunction occurs in Sagittarius, a sign ruled by Jupiter who is friendly to both Mars and Moon and is also a benefic, the cruel qualities of the yoga may not find acute expression.

Q. 8. What remedy if any is provided in the sastras to avert, neutralise or minimise the baneful effect of Visama—Santaka union between a Leo male and an Aquarius female? S.K K., Calcutta.

Ans. We have not come across any expiation prescribed for such. It is not stated whether Leo and Aquarius relate to Lagna or Moon sign. In case of latter, it is first class agreement. In any event, propitiation of Sun and Saturn appears sufficient.

self as it were on our attention and we are bound to declare by a symbological interpretation of that zid that the man is bound to be surrounded by enemies, litigation and obstacles, etc., which is the actual fact.

It is our conviction that a symbological approach to astrology will not only give us better results but also open up vast vistas of unexplored regions to our mind's eye.

An excellent and up-to-date library of books on the subject of Jyotish is maintained in the premises of the Bharatiya Vidya Bhavan—with which this Society is affiliated.

Weather Forecasts for July 1959

BY D. R. MUNSIFF, B.Sc. (Econ.) (London), B.A. (Hons.), (Bombay).

BEFORE commencing the regular feature, let me ask the readers to refer to the issues of April and May of this widely read magazine. It was stated that the weather was to be hotter and drier than usual. This has been amply borne out. Round about the end of April, the State of Bombay suffered from a heat wave. In the two important towns of Gujerat, namely Surat and Broach, Mercury reached 112°. The northern side of the Bombay State suffered acute distress in the shape of drying up of water-beds in many wells. Similarly such acute shortage of water was reported from many districts of Bengal and Bihar.

The weather from 22-6-1959 for the next month also deviates considerably from the normal and is equally inclement. I have taken all the maps into consideration namely for the time of Mercury's entry into Cancer, of the 2 lunations and also that of Sun's entry into the watery cardinal sign of Cancer, which is discussed below. Ordinarily for many mundane affairs, the map for Sun's entry into each cardinal sign is important by itself but in this particular case it is very important because though the degrees may vary on the cardinal angles, yet the signs or the angles remain the same except for Assam and some eastern districts of Bengal and Cooch Behar, and for the northernmost regions of Kashmir.

Leo occupies the ascendant and Aquarius the descendant; Taurus occupies the mid-heaven and Scorpio the nadir. Leo is a hot and avid sign. Scorpio is a water sign but stormy as well. Its ruler Mars also is fiery in temper and when inclement can bring great destruction. Moreover it occupies the Sun's field in association with Uranus and Venus. Thus the sign Leo dominates the whole picture. In a human being's geniture, the complexion of the person can be determined from the ascendant. Similarly the weather complexion can be read partly from the ascendant.

For the Bombay State, the 12th degree of the fifth sign occupies the Ascendant with Mars, Uranus and Venus within two degrees of the Ascendant. Moreover the last eclipse of the Sun occurred on the 18th degree of Aries which is in exact square of the Moon of the map under discussion and Mercury as well which always lends colour to the climate with the speed it impacts to winds.

Thus the climate throughout India will be very stormy and wreak great destruction. On the 23rd of May, when Moon passes over the ascendant of the Bombay region, there is likely to be a storm in Bombay and the nearby districts of the Konkan Coast.

For Bengal and Bihar, Mars, Uranus and Venus fall in the 12th house signifying altogether unhappy times. There will be considerable damage and losses through the vagaries of weather. On the whole, the weather would remain dry but at many places, there will be storms and furious winds accompanied by thunder and cloud bursts of short duration but heavy in character. The destruction to crops and animals will be widespread.

23rd, 24th, 25th and 26th June for the Bombay State and particularly the regions of the Western Ghat adjoining Bombay will be marked by thunderstorms and cloud bursts. 27th hot winds, 28th and 29th warming up with the rising Mercury, 30th cloudy with scattered light showers.

1st July will again be stormy and thunderous with a cloud-burst, 2nd cloudy, 3rd widespread drizzles, 4th sunny spells during the day, thermometer indicating a higher range than the previous day; 5th, 6th and 7th mild equable climate with fair winds; 8th high winds, with scattered showers; 9th and 10th equable, mild and fair weather; 11th scattered showers; 12th high winds with thunder with rains; 13th mild weather with a few showers; 14th, 15th and 16th weather warming up; 17th and 18th fair weather; 19th warm winds; and 20th, 21st and 22nd cool, pleasant and equable cloudy weather.

For Bengal and Bihar, the above forecast will hold good except that the thunderstorms will be more local and concentrated; while the general weather for the wide regions of the country will be hotter and drier than the average, more so than in the Bombay Stock. It is significant to

ASHTAKAVARGA PADDHATI—By Pandit Kesava Sarma Galagali—(Jai Hind Art Press, Dharwar. Pp. 142. Price Rs. 4 (Board), Rs. 4-8-0 (Calico).)

Though certain ill-informed Indian and foreign critics still continue to maintain that the Directional System had not been known to ancient Indian classical astrologers, the undoubted fact is there that the Ashtakavarga methodology of predicting and timing events is nothing but the directional system in a slightly different garb.

The present work in Kannada written by Pandit Kesava Sarma Galagali is the most authoritative and convincing. Prof. B. V. Raman has contributed a Foreword (Munnudi) in which the work has been commended to the earnest attention of the public Divided into 24 sections each dealing with a separate and independent topic, the volume contains a fairly good and elaborate treatment of the theory and practical application of the method of Ashtakavarga.

Readers will easily recall that Varahamihira has allotted a separate chapter to expounding the methodology of Ashtakavarga, the strength of which has been fixed as 8 stanzas with robust sense of mystery and humour. Varahamihira does not say that the Ashtakavarga method is his own, and it must follow that it had been in actual practice years before the period of Varahamihira.

It should be common knowledge that the effects of transitting planets is determined in reference to the sign held by the Moon at the time of birth (Janma rasi). Thus the Janma rasi furnishes a point of departure for calculation of effects of the moving or transitting planets. The ascendant and signs held by other planets together furnish 7 other starting points. As effects are sought to be calculated from these 8 starting points, the method is rightly known as Ashtakavarga.

The author had made it clear that timing of different events in life, good and bad, and particularly, determination of longevity are best done in the light of the results of Ashtakavarga. On page 110, the author has made reference to the opinion of Prof. Raman that the determination of longevity can be accomplished more successfully by reference to the dasa system than by the method of Ashtakavarga. The author appears to be quoting the view of Prof. B. Suryanarain Rao in support of his thesis.

I have great pleasure in testifying that Pandit Sarma's work in Kannada has enriched—vastly enriched, the language and literature concerned. On page 123, I find the third quarter of the Sanskrit stanza reveals a metrical breakdown (i.e., Vasantatilaka metre).

STARS IN THEIR Seasons

BY M. V. RAMAKRISHNAN, M.A., L.T.

Night Sky in July 1959

Zodiacal Constellations

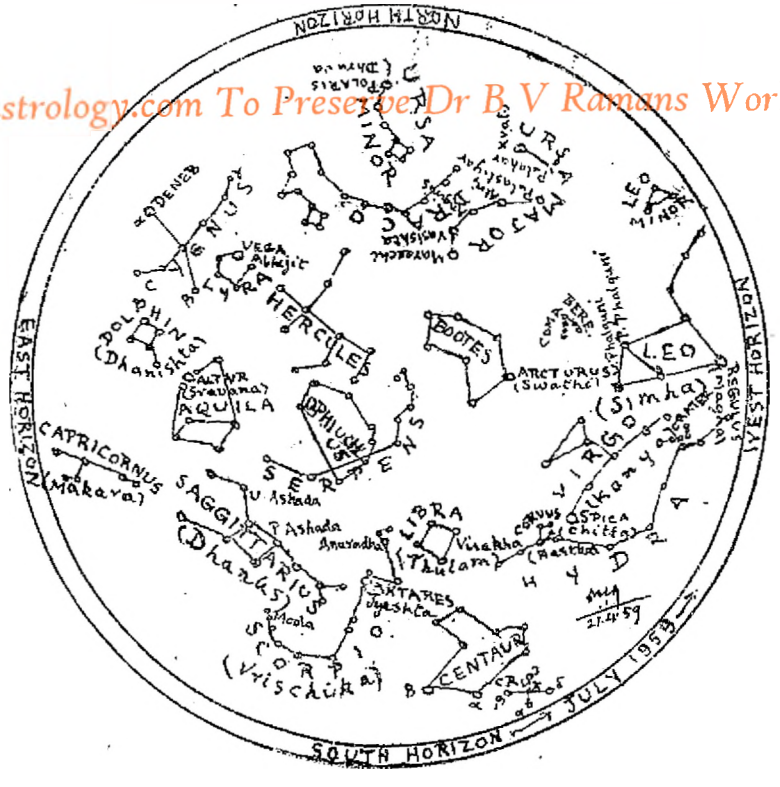
THE zodiacal constellations that are visible this month at about 9-30 in the night are, from west to east, Leo (Simha), Virgo (Kanya), Libra (Thula), Scorpio (Vrischika), Sagittarius (Dhanus), and Capricorn (Makara). Leo is about to set and is seen low down in the western sky, with its principal star Regulus close to the western horizon. To the south-east of Leo is seen Virgo occupying a prominent position in the western sky with its chief star Spica shining brilliantly. Libra has crossed the meridian, while Scorpio and Sagittarius are approaching the meridian. This month Scorpio and Sagittarius are placed in a favourable position for observation; and you can locate easily the lunar asterisms in both these groups.

Non-Zodiacal Constellations

Of the non-zodiacal constellations, Ursa Minor is seen in the north; it looks as if the Little Bear is balancing on its head. Ursa Major is seen approaching the western horizon. Between the two Bears lies the constellation of the Dragon. Very nearly overhead is seen the semi-circle of stars, the Northern Crown, and a little to the east of it lies the kite-shaped constellation, the Bootes with its principal star Arcturus (Swati) lying in the continuation of the tail of the Great Bear. Hercules and Ophiuchus are approaching the meridian. Above Capricorn and almost due east is seen Aquila embedded in the Milky Way. Its principal star is Altair. On either side of Altair and in a line with it are seen two stars of the third magnitude; these three constitute the lunar asterism Sravana.

Lying fifteen degrees to the east of Aquila is seen a small constellation of five stars, four of which form the shape of an elongated square. This is the asterism Dhanishta. The ancient Greeks called it the Dolphin. Near Aquila you see a very bright star. This is Vega of the little star-group Lyra. Vega and two other stars near it constitute the asterism Abhijit. Not far from Lyra is seen a big constellation in the shape of a great cross. This is Cygnus, the Flying Swan. Its principal star is Deneb.

In the southern sky, Hydra is sinking in the south-west, with the little groups Corvus (Hasta) and Crater lying on its back. Centaurus and Crux have both crossed the meridian and are shining bright low in the southern sky.



Lunar Asterisms

The lunar asterisms that can be identified in the visible hemisphere are Magha and the Phalghunis in Leo, Hasta in Corvus, Chitta in Virgo, Swati in Bootes, Visakha in Libra, Anuradha, Jyeshta and Moola in Scorpio, the Ashadas in Sagittarius, Sravana in Aquila, Abhijit in Lyra, and Dhanishta in Dolphin.

The Milky Way

The Milky Way is seen to traverse the sky from north-east to south-west passing through or between the constellations Cygnus, Aquila, Ophiuchus, Sagittarius, Scorpio, Centaurus and Crux.

THE SUN

The Sun continues his journey from the 17th degree of Nirayana Gemini. He enters Cancer on the 15th and travers upto 16th degree of that sign. He comes to his Apogee on the 5th, and his north declination decreases from 23° 10′ to about 18° 31′ during the month.

THE MOON

The Moon progresses from the 21st degree of Nirayana Aries and after completing a round of the heavens she goes upto the 23rd degree of Nirayana Taurus. She comes to her Apogee on the 1st and also on the 29th. She goes to her Perigee on the 17th. She attains a maximum northern declination of about 18 degree on the 4th and southern declination on the 18th. She crosses the celestial equator towards the south on the 12th and towards the north on the 24th. She forms with the Sun the following aspects during this month :—

New Moon on 6th at about 7-30 a.m.
First quarter on 13th ,, 5 p.m.
Full Moon on 20th ,, 9 a.m.
Last quarter on 27th ,, 8 p.m.

MARS AND MERCURY

Mars starts from the 27th degree of Nirayana Cancer, enters Nirayana Leo on the 7th and then stops on the 15th degree of the same sign.

Mercury moves from the 12th degree of Nirayana Cancer upto the 28th degree of the same sign on the 23rd and then retrogrades upto the 25th degree of the same sign. He comes to the node on the 7th and crosses the ecliptic towards the south. He attains greatest elongation on the 8th and goes to his Aphelion on the 18th.

JUPITER AND VENUS

Jupiter continues to retrograde upto 20th and then direct, but does on the 1st degree of Nirayana Scorpio only all through the month.

Venus commences his journey from the 2nd degree of Nirayana Leo and proceeds upto the 23rd degree of the same sign by the end of the month. He attains greatest brilliancy on the 27th.

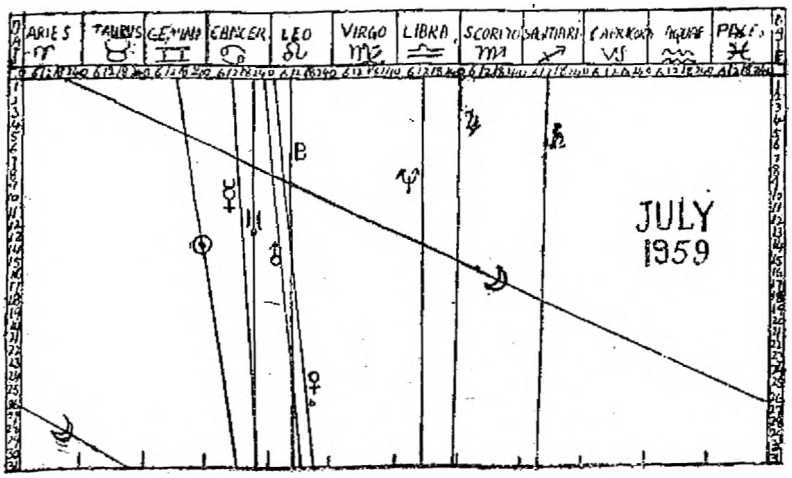
SATURN AND RAHU

Saturn retrogrades from the 12th degree of Nirayana Sagittarius to the 10th degree of the same sign.

Rahu in his mean position moves from the 17th degree to the 16th degree of Nirayana Virgo.

OTHER PLANETS

Uranus moves direct from 22° 30′ of Nirayana Cancer to 24° 14′ of the same sign.



Neptune continues to retrograde upto 16th and then direct in the 13th degree of Nirayana Libra.

Pluto goes from the 11th degree to the 12th degree of Nirayana Leo.

LUNAR CONJUNCTIONS

The Moon will form conjunctions with planets in the following order :—

Mercury on 8th at about 1 p.m.
Uranus on 8th ,, 7 p.m.
Mars on 9th ,, 11 a.m.

* The R.A. is always given on Sayana basis, while in the description of planetary movements, the longitudes are given on Nirayana basis, the current Ayanamsa being 21° 49′ 59·7″.

Venus	on 10th	at about	2 a.m.
Pluto	on 10th	,,	4 a.m.
Rahu	on 12th	,,	7 p.m.
Neptune	on 14th	,,	5 p.m.
Jupiter	on 15th	,,	11 p.m.
Saturn	on 18th	,,	4 p.m.

note that both the rulers of the 7th and 10th houses are in Leo in association with Mars which rules the 4th house.

For the far eastern regions of India, the 4th house comes to be ruled by Jupiter with Sagittarius on the 4th house. It is really so remarkable to note that in this case also Mars dominates the weather because Jupiter resides in Scorpio and the satelletium of Mars, Uranus and Venus gains still more strength with the association of Pluto, in the 12th house with Moon and Saturn in the 6th house. Therefore the ravages of weather are likely to be more widespread in Assam and Eastern Bengal. Mark particularly the five days from 24th to 28th June and 7th, 8th and 12th of July.

There are signs indicating some terrestrial disturbances during the month on the eastern boundaries of U.P.

Altogether, the month's weather is very unfavourable for India and Eastern Pakistan.

Bombay Astrologer Honoured

We are pleased to announce that Sri Nemmara N. Krishna Rau, author of Ashtavarga Phala and Ashtavarga Dasa and 4 other astrological works, and a regular reader of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE from 1936, has been awarded two titles of honour, namely, Vidya Visarada in recognition of his life-long studies in the field of astrology and allied sciences and Jyotisha Kala Nidhi, the citation in respect of which says that he is almost an authority on ancient as well as modern science of prediction. The first title was announced as the award of the founder of the Arogya Ashram, Gandhi Nagar, Madras, at the Mahotsava held in September 1958 under the Presidentship of Sir C. P. Ramaswamy Iyer, K.C.S.I., LL.D. and the 2nd title in another Mahotsava held under the Presidentship of His Excellency Dr. B. Ramakrishna Rao, Governor of Kerala on 3rd April 1959 at the Arogya Ashram, Madras.

We sincerely trust that these titles of honour are stepping stones for still higher honours to come for our reader Shri Rau and wish him long life. May God bless Mr. Rao with success in his efforts to serve the cause of astrology.

Astrological Section

THE astrological determinants of the stock exchange trends for the month of July are determined by the planetary configurations at the time of lunations of 6th and 20th July. The lunation falls in the 2nd house both for Calcutta and Bombay. There could be no better evidence that the state of the public exchequer will be on everybody's lips.

Saturn in his own sign finds itself placed in the 8th house. Kindly note that dividend declared during the fortnight of all the public companies will be very good and attractive—more particularly of mining and heavy industries.

Saturn is in trine with Pluto in the 4th house—there will be good news about corporations engaged in plantation activities.

With Mars and Jupiter badly configurated between 4th and 6th houses, the industrial unrest will be attracting the attention of many public bodies.

The trine of Saturn and Pluto is stimulated by Neptune in the 6th house. This is one of the excellent signs of a rapid progress in the values of practically all counters on the stock exchange.

These vital factors remain in the same houses for the Bombay's financial position. Thus the improving tone will be equally marked on both the exchanges.

The second lunation of July 20th is far stronger to indicate the rising tone of the market. Uranus in conjunction with Mercury in the 2nd house gives a shot in the arm of all the stock exchange values. People who are interested in certain symbolisms will be very glad to discover that Jupiter becomes direct on the very day of the lunation and since it is situated in the 5th house of speculative activities, the direct march will give a sharp edge to all the financial trends. Moreover Neptune, the High God of all the visionaries resides in the same house and continues to stimulate the trine between Saturn and Pluto. This trine aspect has been for some time the most potent influence in lifting up the stock exchange values, and the dreamy Neptune for once is going so to raise the hopes as to fulfil them. At this stage Mars lends its fiery temper to all the stock exchange actors—it conjuncts Pluto and stimulates the trine between Saturn and Pluto and raises the visionary dreams of Neptune to a high pitch. Woe be to the bears—they will have to wind up their business and flee.

All the investors who had been lying low beset with all the problems of rising taxation will have now occasion to smile with very broad lips without any reservation even though their teeth may be yellow with tobacco stains. Once again I tip in particular Indian cable, Indian aluminium and Indian iron shares I would suggest to all the speculators that if there is any time propitious for them, it is this. No venture, no gain; venture during this month and the returns will be in the shape of not merely gold but diamonds.

Let me serve a warning at this stage that this judgment is derived from Sayana astrology which is based on aspects and gives good results about stock exchange trends. Since I have asked speculators to take this opportunity by the horns, they need not run away with the idea that all the other exchanges will behave in the same fashion.

Since this issue will be in the hands of the readers in the second week of June, it is time to give an opportunity to cotton speculators. From early June, for at least a few days or rather a number of days, the upward trend that had been striking evident since last four months would come to a halt and fall in the reverse gear.

But if I suggested in the New Year issue that bears must exit, this is now the time for bulls to strike that blow or the stock exchanges. I would go even further and state that the hard-headed speculators may feel that the values had run away so sharp and up that they would take the chance with the bears. More particularly those who rely on charts and figure analysis or those who rely on the basic statistics and analysis of balance sheets will fall into grave error. The reading of balance sheets is good in normal times but will never give the projection of figures. There is now a method being developed in the U.S.A. to project the curves into future by discovering certain rhythms—this method is indeed far better than the normal reading of charts with its various patterns of head and shoulder, trend channels, triangles, wedges, double tops, etc. The foremost among such new pioneers is Bakin but his methods are very complicated, and require a good knowledge of mathematics besides experience.

But astrology scores over them all and this will be the month to prove it. The chartists suspect any trend a 30° angle, but this month the upward trend will be marked by a 70° angle or on many days even steeper.

Economic Section

A few months ago, the idea of co-operation through the organisation of middle classes was suggested; now it is establishing itself in a very strong manner through the agencies of the Government and the channels of the largest political party in the country, but in a different direction.

The manner in which it is now going to be introduced into the rural society has double-sided implications. Primarily it is proper that our agricultural output cannot improve unless the most scientific and up-to-date mechanical implements are utilised. Soil needs to be tested and analysed for the purpose of finding out what nutrient elements are lacking in the requirements of the crops to be raised on it. These nutrients must be given at a particular time and quickly which cannot be done except with the aid of machines. Next, the present processes of tilling, hoeing, sowing and reaping are outmoded and prodigal with effort and sacrifices of human labour yielding inadequate returns.

If landlordism is abolished, it needs to be introduced now in another from so that large scale methods can be profitably employed. There is nothing wrong in this and by no stretch of imagination can it be said that the process of co-operation would lead to a civil war. The individual owner, when he is forced to be inducted in a co-operative society still remains the owner of the piece of land but has his freedom of action in planting and raising a particular crop restrained. But that need not be to his advantage because the decision to raise a particular crop would be reached according to the dictates of agricultural chemistry.

But the latest speech of Mr. Nehru as reported in the mofussil edition of The Times of India of 4th May 1959 reveals the red lines of our Prime Minister. It has been stated that the private owners will not be extended the facilities as the co-operatives.

During the middle of the last year the idea for the organisation of the middle classes was mooted to save themselves from the exploitation of the plutocrats on the one hand and the rising arrogance of the labour on the other. They were asked to form themselves to organise societies for financing local crops with a twofold view to earn better return on investments and to aid in the smooth marketing of crops without the fear of any loss through the misadventure of a gambling debtor.

It was pointed out that the biggest plutocrats of the capitalist class in the disguise of bankers had combined together to cut down the rates of interest to be allowed to the depositors to compensate for the misdeeds of the very monied barons who presided over in carrying out a policy that usually resulted in bad debts on a very large scale and secondly against the rising demand of the unions.

The readers must read the Chairman's speech delivered at the General Meeting of the Shareholders' Association of the Central Bank of India Ltd. It has been clearly stated that a revision in the interest rates or various classes of deposits was in the offing and to that end a suggestion was made to all the bankers to reach an early decision. If the readers were to note that the Vice-Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Central Bank of India Ltd., is also the President of the Association of Indian Bankers, they would realise the fate of the return to be derived on their savings invested with bankers.

Unfortunately these plutocrate cannot look beyond their noses. They have not yet disallowed the interest to current account holders who belong to the upper classes or joint-stock companies. They still allow disproportionately high rates of interest to persons investing large sums on fixed deposits in comparison with the niggardly rate of 2% per annum allowed to small depositors. And this cry for a smaller rate of interest to depositors comes from the Chairman of the Central Bank of India Ltd., which advertises itself as "your own Bank".

Both the shareholders and depositors must now demand that the amount of bad debts must be disclosed every year in the balance sheet. Only then the public will be able to realise as to whom their savings are trusted. It must be said to the credit of the foreign banks that they have not fallen in line with the cries of our Indian plutocrats. They do not allow interest to current account holders and offer uniformly much higher rates of interest and other facilities to small depositors.

On the strength of the last report and Chairman's speech at the Annual General Meeting of the shareholders, apart from other unsatisfactory features, I would advise the readers to dispose of the holdings of shares in the Central Bank of India Ltd., in the same manner as I had asked the readers in January issue to purchase the shares of Indian cable.

To guide the investors I would like to suggest to purchase paper company shares even at the existing prices, shares in the Indian Cable Co., Ltd., and shares in all the engineering companies managed by Messrs. Martin Burn Ltd., and particularly the Indian Iron Co., Ltd. Over a period of the next six months, this policy will yield good returns.

July 1959 commences on the 11th lunar day (Ekadasi) of the dark half of Jyeshta, Wednesday. So on 6th July falls the New Moon (Amavasya) in Aridra constellation on Monday. There are five Tuesdays during this lunar monrh. Three Tuesdays come in dark half and to during bright half.

Five Tuesdays in lunar Ashadha ruled by Jupiter, is a cause for monsoon vagaries. Scantiness of rains would affect the foodgrain and commodity markets. In the Sapta Salaka Chakra meant for forecasting weather conditions, Jupiter, the lunar month lord is transitting through Visakha, ruled by himself. This lunar month comes in rainy season which is ruled by Moon. So in the south-western direction, high winds accompanied by sharp splashes and falls of lightning will be experienced. Outbreak of monsoon will be experienced in north-eastern frontier. Crops standing in the fields of those parts will dry up, while heavy rains in N.E.F. would cause floods and destruction of crops or postponement of sowing operations. Green and black colour, and commodities of these colours would have bullish undertone.

Stocks of rice should be held if rainbow appears on 24th July. It would cause destruction of paddy crops in the regions, where the rainbow makes its appearance. Stocks of rice would fetch high market rates during lunar Kartika. It will be similarly paying in wheat markets, when lunar Ashadha commences in Cancer at Delhi. The Amavasya falls in its 12th house.

कर्के सुखं तु पूर्वस्यादुत्तरस्यां सुविग्रह : ।
स्याच्च सनबलं यावदुभिक्षम् पश्चिमेदिशि ॥

Thus it will be unfavourable month politically and people in northern parts of India will pass through unfavourable times. On 9th July, Mars enters Leo, the 12th house from India's ruling sign. This is an unfavourable position for 3rd and 8th house concerns affecting the masses, trade, commerce and safety. Mars in 12th, Rahu in Lagna, Saturn in 4th and Kethu in 7th will cause anxious time for the administrators of India. Lunar appearance of Dwitiya (2nd day) will be on Tuesday and Pushya lunar constellation. Sun enters this constellation on a Full Moon day (Monday). Jupiter comes in its normal motion on this very day. Important events will be taking shape. The Finance Minister would become the scapegoat of some deep laid political plot to throw him off. It goes without saying that such conditions must have their severe repercussions on trade, commerce and finances of our nation. From all sides, V.I.P.s in India will have an anxious time to pass through.

In the Februay 1959 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE, it was mentioned by me in these columns, that numerous fire accidents would occur during summer. During March and April in Bombay Presidency, there were several fire accidents in cotton ginning factories and grass godowns, while there was also a cyclone on 19-4-1959, the type of which had not been experienced during the last fifty years in northern Gujret. Similar train of fire accidents occurred during 1954 A.D. while Kethu was passing Gemini and Mars-Rahu through Sagittarius. In 1954, there were many fire incidents in jungles and mountainous regions, viz., Girnar, Abu Mountains, etc. Tejis year's martian transit in Taurus, and Gemini in opposition to Saturn and Jupiter, and trine and square of Rahu was also significant It is for the researchers in the mundane astrology to fix the ruling signs of particular regions from such incidents. Whether earthly Governments or the planetary cabinet is more powerful, can be gauged from the higher rates prevailing in the seeds markets this year. The forward commission has injuncted heavy margins in seeds and bullions forward markets, but the rates in those sections have advanced very steep points, smashing past records of several years. Wisdom should have prevailed with our rulers to set aside the stocks of eatables, and foodgrains for the genuine use of the people at fixed rates and then allowed the speculators, stockists, or shippers to gamble with the rest of the stocks. But, it is a great pity that the actions taken by the rulers have, on several occasions, proved to be of no use.

July 1959 can be divided into following periods to suit the market-wise position :—1st to 9th reactionary; buying advised in markets which pass through easier state; 10th to 20th bullish; 21st to end of the month reactionary; selling advised in good inclines. During first and last periods, the coming in of rains would cause sudden good declines. In the middle periods, uneasiness would cause stringency and more stock-piling.

Good rains are anticipated on 8th, 9th, 10th, 20th, 21st, 22nd, 23rd accompanied by severity of lightning and gusts of winds.

New York (Stocks and Shares).—Mars enters Leo on 9th. It will be in the 10th house and would trine Saturn in retrograde in 2nd. It is a strong bullish point for almost all the U.S.A. stocks and shares. Buying is advised in the lows during 4th and 9th; 10th to 20th is a very strong bullish period which would draw profit during 21st to 25th. Cotton, cloth, transport and scripts would rule weak, while rubber, oil and arms, ammunition types would show good inclines.

London Stocks.—England is likely to repay better part of loan to U.S.A. during this month. Fluctuation in British interest rate and exchange ratio is most probable during this month; steels, rails, aviation, the foreign Bonds, rubber, oils, lubricants and electric shares would be in the limelight. Kaffirs and gold shares would suffer decline during 4th and 10th, and 26th to 30th, while sharp rises in all sections are anticipated between 10th and 15th, and 20th and 23rd.

Indian Stocks and Shares.—New Moon on 6-7-1959 takes place in the 12th house with Jupiter's aspect at New Delhi. At Bombay, it takes place in the 9th house with trine aspect of Jupiter. But Mars transitting the M.H. point and squaring Jupiter indicates sharp reversal of temporary nature after steep rises. Some restrictions by the exchange Boards and alarming rumours from our frontiers or across it, are very likely to upturn the bulls' intentions. There are two Vridhruti Yogas and five Tuesdays, presaging concern in the fixed policy of the States. The general trend would be from 1st to 9th, a period of sluggish tone. 9th to 15th will be a stiffy bullish period; 16th to 20th again uncertain and fluctuating; 21st to 25th fluctuations will he caused by political and monetary conditions; 25th to 30th sudden, onesided reversal. Textiles, industrial, chemical, shipping, steels will have the same movements.

Cotton (Jarilla).—Most of the planets are in the setting horizon, Rahu being most firmly placed in Hasta in Virgo. The transit of Mercury and the planet ruling this commodity are indicating easy conditions of supply during this month. Jupiter gets direct on 20th in Libra in Gemini navamsa, in which navamsa Saturn is transitting since 2nd in retrograde state. Incoming of rains would affect this market. 1st to 11th is a bearish period depending on the situation created by rains; 12th to 15th rise; 16th to 20th bearish tone; 21st to 25th rise; and 26th to 31st declining stage.

Bullions.—In Navamsa chart, Rahu is in the 4th quadrant and by sign position is in 8th house aspecting the 2nd house of finance. Sun leaves off from trine aspect over ascendant and Jupiter on 16th. Venus and Saturn aspects the ascendant. So malefic and benefic aspects are mixed during this month. But Mercurian phases are very important during this month for this section. Venusian semisquare with Sun during this month indicates that disparity between optional markets and spot rates would become much narrow. I shall not be surprised if both will stand on the same line. Those who understand the intricacies of bullion fluctuations, it would pay them best dividends. Gold will be weak during 5th to 8th. General bearish line seems to be in the offing from 14th with accentuated rise during 10th to 14th and 20th to 23rd. As regards silver, it will be paying and fluctuating on Thursdays and Saturdays during this month. Presumably Saturdays would prove bullish and Thursdays bearish. Strong bearishness during 20th to 31st is to be noted.

Jute.—Fluctuations are seen in this section due to political and the international situation. Still however, I advise the traders to note the fluctuations between 1st and 8th. If the rates of 8th go higher in comparison to 1st, it is advisable to follow a bearish trend till 14th. If lower, then follow bullish and buy till 22nd. In all cases, sell in this section between 22nd and 25th.

Seeds.—Saturn, Rahu and Kethu have occupied important bullish positions, which neutralizes the benevolent aspects of benefic planets. New rains and progress of sowing of ground nuts in south and eastern parts of India would affect the bullish side in this section. Jupiter and Neptune both become direct during this month, but martian entry into Leo would combat the bearish tendencies of former two benefic planets. 1st to 15th is a bullish general period. So it would be paying during the first week. 15th to 20th it is possible to bring distress sales but it is good to buy in such falls and follow bullish line till 25th. 25th to 5th proximo it would be a bearish trend.

Castorseeds.—July 1959 opening seems to be bearish till 8th probably. All positions indicate good fluctuations and bullish side. Foreign demand would be very high during this month. Sarsoo, linseeds, eatable oils would as well follow the same line as mentioned for groundnuts. Linseeds and oil prices would rule very firm during this month.

Grain Markets.—Jyeshta Amavasya and lunar Ashadha beginning on Tuesday indicate scarcity of stocks. Pratipada and Pournima indicate that the bright lunar half of Ashadha may witness steady grain markets and the dark half would be bullish, as Pratipada, Ashtami and Amavasya falls on Tuesdays.

Sugar, Jaggery.—1st to 8th is a strong bullish tone which may cause the Indian Government to release more stocks for local consumption between 8th and 15th; 16th to 28th, again a bullish trend. From 28th to 5th proximo easy supply conditions would prevail.

Chemicals.—It is advisable to buy in the remaining part of the month, after Mars, Herschel conjunction is over. The first fortnight will be bullish; but 20th and 25th some decline is to be feared and thereafter recoveries will be possible.

Black Pepper.—1st to 9th bullish; 9th to 13th bearish; 14th to 25th bullish; 26th to 5th proximo bearish on account of the fresh arrivals from the producing countries.

Scanned by Digitized by Arya Samaj Foundation Chennai and eGangotri

Mercury.—This section will rule very strong. If easier conditions prevail during the first week till 8th, advise buying. Good rise from 27th but would prove unreliable, sluggish and dropping.

Rubber.—It is practically a bullish month. Hence buying in lower rates during the first week will prove profitable till 25th. Thereafter the market tone would turn bearish, due to higher rates.

Dried Fruits.—Bullish for the whole month, but lesser demand would create temporary fall between 25th and 3rd July.

There are no new developments on the economic front so as to drastically affect the present trade pattern or trend of prices, but we find that daily costs of essential commodities are souring to new high levels and for a middle class person like me it has become almost impossible to maintain himself. If this position continues, and it appears cosmic factors do favour such a contingency within a few days the situation will go beyond remedy and control unless those

If any widespread destruction is actually brought about as the results of one or more of the calamities of Nature, that should be viewed as act of God over which mankind could have no control. The Rishis are to be sure engaged in grave penance for saving mankind. But, it is most likely, that in the race towards annihilation, mankind may far outwit or outstrip the Rishis. Notwithstanding the constructive spiritual influences and contributions made by the Rishis, two world wars had been waged.

They all spoke of war to end wars and so on. They spoke of making the world safe for democracy and so forth. And yet, the Second World War was fought. The Lord's sarcastic language used to show Arjuna his place in the scheme of things should be ringing in the ears of all students of the Gita. The Lord said: * Even without you (i.e., Arjuna) those whose days had been running out would be killed. (Chap. 11—32).

Your readers will be aware of what lawyers after all can do. They can only argue for or against an issue. The decision is in the hands of the Judge. This is, of course, a very rough analogy. Men and women can only act their tiny petty parts on the cosmic stage. But, all directions are in the hands of the Lord Supreme. So, before an answer is ventured to the question—whether or not, there would be the Third World War, it would be necessary exactly to determine the influences exerted by the Rishis on the 8-planet combination.

I find Prof. Raman is very nearly anticipating anything like a Third World War in the crucial period. I am told some British, American and continental astrologers too are expecting the Third World War. Kaisers and Hitlers and those who think with them dictatorially are a permanent institution in God's universe. So long as these continue, wars, there must be.

I have approached the question just as a commonsense lawyer would. Sometimes, some of our clients see through the game. They are not prepared to throw away good money after bad in legal fights. So, war-mongering politicians and busybodies notwithstanding, I hope sturdy and hard commonsense would ultimately prevail, and there may not be the Third World War at all. That is my hope and wish.

* I have not yet been able to determine the nature and extent of the influences exercised by the Saptarshi mandala on the 8-planet combination. I hope some researchers would attempt it.

I am inclined to believe that the calming and soothing influences of the Rishis may be prevailing as final determinant.

There is no point in being swayed by false sense of patriotism. The western power blocks do not consider India as a military power at all. India is a borrowing country. Pledged and committed to Panchsila, India is neither feared as a formidable enemy, nor welcomed as an important ally. This truth is worth knowing and contemplating. Should there be Nature as calamities, in India, as in other countries, India would adjust to environment as best as the resources would permit.

For, modern mankind, even in this sputnik age, has not been able to anticipate and control or prevent such disasters as the one just caused in Madagascar by floods and cyclones. Mankind can only pray to the Lord to mitigate the evil effects of the 8-planet combination. The Debt of Karma can neither be written off nor is there any provision for any insolvency protection being granted in cosmic courts.

In paying back the Debt of Karma, mankind has to pray to the Lord for sufficient mental strength and resourcefulness. Omar Khayyam has asked an amusing question whether Almighty like a playing child would destory the very playthings with which the game was carried on.

Mankind has and it must have a glorious future. The age of Kali has to run to lakhs of years yet. so, the 8-planet combination does not mean any cosmic disaster, or extinction of mankind. In conclusion, I do not believe there would be Third World War at the time of the 8-planet combination.

"IT (Astrology) caress for itself a place among the sciences for the sole reason that it is capable of mathematical demonstration, and deals only with the observed positions and motions of the heavenly bodies and the man who holds to the principle of Newton, the solidarity of the solar system, the interaction of the planetary bodies and their consequent eletrostatic effects upon the earth, cannot, deny the foundation principles of astrology. The application of these principles to the facts of everyday life is solely a matter of prolonged research and tabulation upon an elaborate scale which has been going on for thousands of years in all parts of the world."

"Astro-Meteorology is the art of predicting the weather from planetary aspects. This branch is again becoming a popular study and has been reduced to a marvellous degree of accuracy by a number of researchers. It is not at all associated with the methods in common almanacs and by the Government weather Bureau. It is only a matter of time however when nations will generally recognise this information and includes it in their present calculations thus making their system more practical, serviceable and efficient."

—Llewellyn George.

"While physicists are rather reluctant to commit themselves to the idea of super-solar explanation we have noticed that there is an ever-increasing disposition on the part of some of them to talk of the earth's cosmic environment (which includes meteorology of course) of one planet—certainly there are some uncanny resemblances between the periodicity of weather cycles and the orbital periods of the planets. This seems to be particularly true of Neptune, Uranus, Saturn and Jupiter."

DAILY GUIDE.

1. Asterism not good for new beginnings; routine work alone such as digging and levelling, fencing, weeding, etc., to be done.

2. Marana Yogam day and night; so nothing new should be ventured; asterism too evil.

3. Marana Yogam whole day and greater part of the night; so keep to routine only.

4. Yogini towards sky whole day and night; so ploughing, planting, manuring should not be done on this day; keep to routine matters only; work already begun can be continued.

5. Yogini towards sky or earth whole day and night; unfit for ploughing, planting and manuring throughout.

6. Yogini towards earth till 7-40 a.m. only. Moreover asterisms in force till then also not good except for storing of grain; L.D. too not favourable for new beginnings.

7. An ordinarily good day for all kinds of agricultural work; the day is best for ploughing and manuring; for best effects, use organic manure in preference to inorganic manure.

8. One of the few alround good days during the month; good for all kinds of work, new beginnings, ploughing, manuring, planting, etc.; best period till 10-40 a.m.

9. Also a fairly good day in general; planting can be done, grain can be purchased as also cattle.

10. Marana Yogam till 11-10 a.m.; thereafter favourable generally, specially for purchase of cattle.

11. Marana Yogam after 10-45 a.m.; L.D. not so good practically for whole day; however, manuring and harvesting can be begun before 10-45 a.m., cattle can be purchased or sold.

12. One of the few very good days in the whole month for all purposes in general; ploughing, planting, manuring, etc., can be begun and continued; for best effects, use chemical fertilisers.

13. Yogini towards sky after 1-17 a.m. (night); so day is not affected by Yogini; still L.D. is inauspicious for new beginnings and enterprise.

14. Yogini towards sky or earth day and night; to be avoided for ploughing, planting, manuring, etc.; L.D. too not good in general for new beginnings.

15. Yogini towards earth till 8-25 p.m.; therefore whole day affected; avoid ploughing, planting, manuring; not bad for dealings in cattle.

16. An alround good day ordinarily; specially good for manuring; for best effect, use organic or farm manure.

17. Marana Yogam till 1 a.m. (night); so whole day useless for all new beginnings; keep to routine.

18. L.D. and asterism good for new beginnings, purchase of grain, defrayal of grain for farm expenses, purchase of cattle.

19. Asterism good only for purchase of cattle: otherwise keep to routine only.

20. Marana Yogam whole day; keep to routine and avoid new beginnings.

21. After 8 a.m., good for all purposes generally.

22. Asterism favourable for dealings in grain and for planting.

23. Whole day Marana Yogam; keep to routine matters only.

24. Yogini towards sky or earth whole day and night; avoid ploughing, manuring and planting; asterism good only for purchase of cattle.

25. Yogini towards earth till 6-25 a.m.; but L.D. not so good thereafter; but manuring, cattle dealings, etc., can be done.

26. After 7-30 a.m. an alround good day for all purposes in general—ploughing, manuring, planting, cattle dealings, harvesting, etc.; also cutting down trees.

27. L.D. bad after 8-50 a.m., but till then Rahukalam; therefore till 7-30 a.m. good for all new beginnings.

28. L.D. not good whole day; asterism too quite evil; avoid all new works and important enterprises.

But on April 28th, 1941, there was merely a report that the evacuation of certain British troops from Greece had begun. Otherwise, even at the theatres of war there was comparative inactivity.

Consequently, in the light of research experience, any attempt on the mere basis of a congregation of planets in a particular sign of the zodiac to predict world-shattering events, must of necessity, leave one unimpressed. For, as I have now shown, the study of similar past congregations in the light of history, fails to offer the investigator the slightest encouragement in support of such assumptions.

However, as this particular group of articles has also reference to The Third World War, presumably it will not be out of place if I strive to pin-point the period in which I consider the risk of world war capable of reaching maximum. The period I choose to spotlight is the year 1961, for it is then that the major struggle will come. And for the first of my reasons for pin-pointing that year, I will point out that right from January of that year the horoscope of N.A.T.O. will be specially activated.

What is the horoscope of N.A.T.O.? Well, on August 24th, 1949, President Truman announced that sufficient ratifications for the constitution of N.A.T.O. had been received. Therefore the moment of the heliacal rising on that Wednesday provides us with the basic horoscope of the organization.

What is the horoscope of the Soviet Union? Well, on Monday, January 21st, 1924, Lenin died as the direct result of poison given to him by Josef Stalin (for confirmation, read the statement of Trotsky in his biography of Stalin). Stalin chose a moment for giving Lenin the poison when his own chief rivals were far from Moscow, intending in that way to seize the power. A horoscope cast for the heliacal rising of Monday, January 21st, 1924, therefore, provides us with the authentic horoscope of the Soviet Union.

The horoscope of Great Britain is cast for the heliacal rising on Monday, May 1st, 1707, the date when the Act of Union came into force.

The horoscope of the United States of America is cast for the heliacal rising on the day of the Declaration of Independence, Thursday, July 4th, 1776.

Now that we have our basic horoscopes, let us examine certain transits of the planets over the fixed stars which mark the original planetary positions, as they will occur in 1961.

Gratefully acknowledging Sanskrit Digitization by eGangotri Trust. Preserve Dr. B. V. Raman's Work

In January 1961 Saturn will conjoin Jupiter at Capricorn 20°; and before I go any further I will point out that Saturn-conjunction-Jupiter is essentially a suicide symbol (see my book Astromedical Diagnosis under "suicides"). That conjunction will directly oppose ν Geminorum in the chart of N.A.T.O. (ν Geminorum is the star which marks the position held by Mars at the birth of N.A.T.O.). In addition, I wish to point out that at the same time it will oppose the self-same star in the horoscope of the U.S.S.R. (N.B. ν Geminorum marks the position held by the Moon at the birth of Stalinism.)

That Saturn-Jupiter conjunction, therefore, will mark a point in time where the danger of world war may become most acute.

It will be noted, however, that I do not predict world war. God forbid that I should ever come to regard modern war waged with annihilating nuclear devices as inevitable. For being a physicist I possess a knowledge of the destructive capacity of nuclear weapons which certain convinces me that the result of such a contest would be the elimination of the major part of the human race. And there could be no neutrals. Even if the would-be neutrals were initially spared direct hits, they would certain receive the fall-outs.

Consequently no sane man should venture to predict the kind of war in which nuclear weapons are likely to be employed. If he does so, indeed, his sanity is to be seriously questioned.

Notwithstanding which, however, we are all of us well aware of the dangers inherent in the present composition of the world which is so self-evidently today peopled by manifold violent spirits who need remarkably little encouragement to break out into bestial manifestations of violence under the flimsiest of pretexts. Consequently I would feel I was failing in my duty if I failed to point out that to the best of my knowledge and belief, this coming conjunction of Saturn-Jupiter will impose the greatest test of restraint on the leading statesmen that the world has ever known.

Indeed, as I know full well that the sands of time are running out fast, I make no bones at all about asserting that disaster will not be avoided unless between now and then really serious efforts to effect a compromise are made by the responsible statesmen concerned, and in that way settle the highly-dangerous differences that divide them. For unless a substantial advance to that end is made in time, January 1961 in my view is quite capable of precipitating the showdown.

There will, of course, be growing dangers long before the critical explosion point of January 1961 is reached.

For example, in January 1960–and again in June-July 1960–Uranus will transit 83 Cancri (the star which marks the position held by Neptune on the day of Lenin's death), the effect of which can be to cause the Russian leaders to make major miscalculations in the political field. Especially in June 1960 when Mars will oppose 204 G. Virginis (marking the original position of Saturn at the zenith of the Russian chart) from the nadir from Taurus 2° simultaneously with the Uranus transit which we have already noted.

In the horoscope of Great Britain, Saturn at the same time will be opposing Σ Geminorum (the star which marks the position held by Mars at the birth of Great Britain). And, in the U.S.A. chart, Saturn will be at the Point Descendant opposing ι Geminorum (i.e., the very point of the heliacal rising).

Hence the summer of 1960 is sure to comprise a highly critical period in the world affairs, especially as Jupiter will come into conflict, by quadrature, with ν Leonis of the N.A.T.O. chart during July, August and September 1960, clearly revealing that that organisation will be disturbed and alerted.

There is, of course, a very great deal I could say and predict concerning the configuration of the critical years. However, I am of the opinion that other than indicating the exceptionally critical nature of the configurations and conveying some idea of the nature of what is likely to happen should the worst come to the worst, the least that is said about the matter too far in advance, the better. For there are many sensitive people in the world, and fears and forebodings are capable of rendering their lives completely joyless, and might even produce a fatal apathy or an equally indefensible fatalism.

War—which is organised murder—is always the effect result of the design of certain men, and is not—as some like to think—the hand of fate. Therefore, as in the case of the individual murderer, it is avoidable and does not have to happen.

We have a classic example of what can and ought to happen in solving the world's problems, in the form of the Cyprus solution. In that particularly vexed problem, the leaders of Greece, Turkey, Cyprus and Great Britain displayed the sound sense and courage needed to forge a solution requiring the heaviest concessions on the part of all concerned.

In the far larger problems which threaten the peace and security of the whole world, the responsible statesmen concerned are perfectly well aware that nuclear weapons are incapable of forcing a solution. For once they have started to use those, there will be nothing left in the world for them to quarrel over. Consequently, faced with the certainty of that knowledge, I find it extremely difficult to believe that they will fail to hammer out a just and equitable solution to the vexing problems that on a family scale, could be speedily settled in a court of law and which ultimately, on a global scale, should be settled by the United Nations—if that body were not composed of mere partisans but showed a little more international spirit on selfless lines.

Consequently, instead of predicting war I content myself with pointing out the periods in which the heaviest struggles for supremacy can be expected to come, meanwhile hoping that the contending statesmen will be intelligent enough to compose their differences in manner similar to the Cyprus compromise, and thereby lift from humanity the shadow of war.

responsible to run the Government are vigilant enough and take such drastic measures to check up any further rise. Whatever may be the reports about the improvement in economic conditions; boom in stocks of industrial undertakings, or higher price levels of essential commodities are not the criterion or indications of sound economy. On the contrary in a country where food and clothing is available within the reach of every person that country must be taken to have based its economy on sound lines. Today even with the growers the tendency to hoard and speculate is increasing and in this country if this tendency is allowed to have its own say with whatever success we might achieve with our huge projects, food and clothing would not be available to all within one's income. It is easy to have a control on a few dealers and or traders but to place a control on 90% growers is but an impossibility.

Coming to astrological factors during the month of July till 20th both Saturn and Jupiter remain in retrograde motion. Jupiter gets direct on 20th though on 23rd Mercury gets retrograde and sets on the west on 25th. The last week of the month therefore indicates that some soothing factors would arise then and give some relief to the public in general.

Solar Ingress Charts of 15th June and 16th July.—The first fortnight upto 16th July falls under the Gemini solar transit. It has already been discussed in my last report that period from 27th June 1959 onwards under the Gemini solar transit would prove to be bullish and upto 16th July in general prices would be on the upgrade only. During the first half martian transit from Leo is bullish for certain commodity groups, while transit of Sun from Punarvasu under vedhas of Saturn indicates teji conditions only. Follow teji in general upto 15th July 1959. I give below the Solar Ingress Chart of 16th July. On proper study it would be observed that the positions are not strong enough but this chart is rather weak. Specially from 20th onwards prices of commodities will steadily come down.

New Moon Chart.—Upto 6th July the period falls under the last lunation chart of 6th June. The position of planets even now helps rise upto 6th, but more or less top rates would be touch by 2nd July and during the period 2nd evening to 6th prices will be maintained on steady level. The New Moon chart provided below of the 6th July 1959 does not either show good declines nor good rise. Martian entry in Leo on the contrary shows good drop in values and it is my humble opinion that during 6th to 14th July one good drop in values would materialise in stock values.

Cotton and Allied Products.—Solar transit from Aridra upto 6th July and the Sankranti indications upto 15th do not favour fall in prices. However martian transit from Cancer—Ashlesha upto 9th and transits of Mercury and Venus are almost throughout the month are weak. Solar ingress chart of 16th July favours bearishness and it would be safer to sell in every rise between 9th and 15th. 1st to 6th steady narrow movements. 7th to 15th teji. 16th to 23rd mandi. 24th to 30th bothways.

Oil Seeds and Oils.—Saturn transitting Moola retrograde. Mars in Leo and Saturn and Rahu's unfavourable relations in navamsa together with Mercury transitting Cancer are all factors denoting drop in values of almost all sections of this group. Export front would also be full. Only the transit of Sun from Punarvasu because of the vedhas of Saturn might give some diverse results and prices might show a rise. However such rise would be temporary. Good decline in values of this section might be witnessed during the month. 1st to 12th steady. Little bullish. 13th to 31st July fall in prices. Prices would steadily drift lower. Utilise every rise for selling purposes.

Bullions and Metals.—Gold: Solar transit from Aridra, Punarvasu and Pushya is favouring rise. While in Punarvasu Sun is under vedha from Moola by Saturn. This might adversely affect the price trends and prices might have a small set back. Other transits of Mars in Leo and Jupiter in Vishakha helps steady conditions. Jupiter and Saturn by interchange attain power and drops materialising in gold values during 6th and 9th should be utilised to buy. Prices would steadily move up. 1st to 5th steady dull. 6th to 9th fall. 10th to 17th evening rise. 18th to 23rd bothways. Mandi more. 24th to 31st July teji.

considerable time for the work of the Mandal.

Among the distinguished astrologers present at the function were Mr. Javakhedkar, Mr. V.D. Gore Sastri, Srimathi Indoomathi Pandit, Mr. Balasaheb Gokhale, Mr. R. D. Kharmarker and Mr. S. N. Haring.

Mr. J. M. Akhani, Director of Victory Navigation, Bombay; Mr. P. K. Joshi, Jalgaon; Mr. D. A. Karnia, Bombay; Mr. Karandikar, Bombay; and a number of others sent their messages wishing a bright future for the Mandal.

Our Correspondent at Poona adds:

Poona, the great city of learning and culture should indeed be proud because of the founding and growth of another Educational Institution—Graha Nakshatra Phaladesh Sanshodhan Mandal, an Institute which has as its principal aim, study of and research in astrology, unlike other Institutes and Associations which are astrological in name only. 25th April 1959 marks an important mile-stone in the life of the Mandal, because on this date, the Mandal was actually put on the astrological map of the World by Prof. B. V. Raman when he presided over the 11th anniversary celebrations of the Mandal. On the morning of 25th April, Prof. Raman was accorded a warm welcome at Poona Railway Station by Dr. P. L. Deshmukh, Mr. M.D. Bhatt and Mr. K.S. Kelkar and he was taken to the residence of Mr. Rajmachikar, who acted as host throughout Prof. Raman's stay at Poona. Mr. Rajmachikar, himself a keen student of astrology and who recently got the title of Jyotish Visharad conferred on him by the Mandal, spared no pains to make the stay of Prof. Raman as comfortable as possible. In the morning, a number of astrologers called on Prof. Raman and there was a general discussion on various astrological matters. Mr. Javakhedkar expounded a certain theory of planetary aspects which he has been developing and his exposition was interesting. Another astrologer who impressed Prof. Raman was Mr. S. K. Bhatt. It must be said to the credit of Mr. Bhatt that he has hit upon a certain novel method of assessing the yogas and the benefic and malefic natures of planets. He showed to Prof. Raman a number of horoscopes, in which predictions made according to his novel theory had been fulfilled.

At 10 a.m., Prof. B.V. Raman accompanied by Mr. Kelkar paid visits to Dr. Bhandarkar's Oriental Research Institute and Deccan College Post-graduate Research Institute. Dr. P. K. Gode, Director of the Bhandarkar Institute received Prof. Raman and took him round the Institute. At the Institute Prof. Raman met Prof. Abhayankar, a great scholar in Sanskrit who has edited the original Jaimini Sutras and who is now engaged in bringing out Panini's Grammar. There was an interesting discussion about Yavana Jataka and the authorship of Jaimini Sutras.

At the Deccan College, Dr. S. M. Katre, Director of Linguistics and Dr. Sankalia, Director of Archaeology, gave very warm reception to Prof. Raman and explained to him the various research projects conducted by the Institute. Prof. Raman appreciated the work and was very glad to visit this great Institution. Prof. Raman was also introduced to some European scholars working in the Institute on a Sanskrit dictionary.

At 1 p.m., Mr. M. D. Bhatt, a keen student of astrology who conducts astrological classes run by the Mandal gave a grand dinner in honour of Prof. Raman's visit and this which was largely attended.

From 3 to 6 p.m. leading newspaper men, astrologers and students of astrology met Prof. Raman. The Press Conference was inaugurated by Dr. N. B. Parulekar, Editor of the leading Marathi daily Sakal. Dr. Parulekar gave a lucid talk on the responsibilities of an astrologer and the limitations and scope of astrology. He stressed the need for astrologers following a certain code of ethics in dealing with their clients. "An astrologer's approach to a consultor" observed Dr. Parulekar, "should be constructive. There is no use making predictions which would have adverse psychological effects on the client." Then in a lighter vein Dr. Parulekar drew a parallel between the anticipations of the future events by journalists and astrologers and felt that astrological predictions should be grounded on commonsense and psychological factors.

During question time the journalists put a number of questions to Prof. B.V. Raman as to the future political and international developments while the questions put by astrologers ranged from Ayanamsa to extra-Saturnine planets. A number of astrologers took part in the discussion bearing on Ayanamsa, Fate and Freewill, Directional Astrology, etc., and Prof. Raman gave convincing replies. The discussion was most interesting and lively. After the Press Conference, Prof. Raman gave a lecture on "Pitfalls in Prediction" mainly intended for astrological students and the lecture was much appreciated. During his stay at Poona, Prof. Raman visited Mr. Ajanta Jain and Srimathi Indoomathi Pandit in response to their invitation. Both these persons have been doing their best to popularise Mundane Astrology in Maharashtra. Prof. Raman was very glad to see the systematic work conducted by Mr. Jain and Miss Pandit in Mundane Astrology and was much impressed by the scientific approach evident in their work.

Prof. Raman's programme of the day was rounded off with a dinner in the night given by Mr. S.K. Bhatt at his residence.

The Presidential address was reported not only in the Marathi Press but also in leading papers like The Hindu, Times of India, Indian Express and the Deccan Herald.

Mr. S. K. Kelkar, Mr. M. D. Bhatt and Mr. Phadnis spared no efforts to make Prof. Raman's stay at Poona comfortable and enjoyable.

History of the Institution

With the active co-operation of eminent astrologers and leaders of public opinion in Poona late Pandit Ratna S. K. Nagarkar, started this Institution in 1949. The unique position which the Institution now occupies is entirely due to the indefatigable labours of Sri Nagarkar and his co-workers. With a view to develop more activities and to secure financial help from the public, the Institution registered itself as "Graha Nakshatra Phaladesh Sanshodhan Mandal" in December 1954 with the Charity Commissioner under the Public Trust Act.

As the name itself indicates, the main aim of the Institution is to promote scientific research in the various systems of predictive astrology. This research has to be based on intensive study of the principles and practice of the science, together with an investigation into the possibilities of applying the conclusions to the complexities of modern life with its urge for specialization and precision.

As a first step towards the realization of its aim, the Mandal has been arranging every Sunday, lectures and discussions on various aspects of astrology and allied subjects. Eminent astrologers and serious students of the subject have taken part in this series. The Mandal has so far been able to arrange an unbroken chain of over five hundred lectures. The fact that over two hundred interested listeners attend these lectures every Sunday is proof of the utility of the series.

With a view to encourage comparative study on modern lines, the Institution has been conducting regular classes. The course of these classes is of three years and successful candidates are awarded the degree of Jyotish Pragnya and Jyotish Visharad and Jyotisha Pandit. An Examination Committee of three members with late Sri J. S. Karandikar, Editor, Kesari as Chairman was appointed in the first instance. So far 21 Jyotish Pragnyas and 5 Jyotish Visharads have been declared by the Institution. The main object of these classes is to create interest among the new blood to study the science on academic lines. Secondly these classes are expected to provide essential trained personnel for the purpose of extensive study and scientific research.

On the occasion of the birth centenary of Lokmaya Tilak the Mandal published a small collection of representative horoscopes—Kundali Sangrah—covering a cross-section of the Society. They include classified horoscopes of Doctors, Lawyers, Engineers, Politicians, Journalists, Dramatists and Sportsmen. A serious student of the science can find out for himself the salient common characteristics of each group and verify the principles in relation to his handling of horoscopes. Prof. B.V. Raman, Editor, THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE in reviewing the book has observed, "The collection of horoscopes is bound to be definitely useful from statistical standpoint. It is all post facto analysis and to a large extent the collection would be useful in predictive astrology".

The Institution had started a monthly periodical on astrology and allied subjects in Marathi Language from November 1957 and seven issues have so far been published. Within a short period of five to six months, it became popular in Marathi area. But, further issues could not be published due to financial and other difficulties. The Institution desires to continue its publication shortly.

In addition to its own publications, the Mandal sponsors publications of works written by scholars with the object of expressing its appreciation of all efforts towards the furtherance of the aims of the Mandal. Ten such publications compiled and written by Sri Ajanta Jain, Sri Javakhedkar, Sri Krishnachandra Sharma, Sri M. D. Bhatt, Sri P. K. Joshi (Bhusaval), etc., have been brought out under the auspices of the Mandal during the last ten years.

For some time the Mandal has been contemplating the establishment of study circles for co-ordination of astrological principles to realities of human life. The Mandal feels this science must not confine itself

JULY 1959

By MIHIRA

[The following forecasts based on Janma Rasi are general and as such those having favourable aspects according to present Dasa and Bhukthi, will have favourable results from the indications made below; while those having adverse aspects according to current directions will experience these predictions to a lesser proportion. The predictions given below are based not upon conjecture, but upon a clear interpretation of the movements or transits of planets. If you do not know your Janma Rasi write to Mihira, C/o THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope.—Ed., A.M.].

MAJOR TRANSITS:—Sun transits Gemini till 14th, then enters Cancer. Mars remains in Cancer only till 7th and then goes to Leo. Mercury remains throughout the month in Cancer becoming retrograde on 22nd and Venus in Leo. Jupiter and Saturn continue in Scorpio and Sagittarius respectively. Rahu and Kethu remain in Virgo and Pisces throughout.

1. Mesha (Aries).—Sun in 3rd and 4th; Mercury in 4th; Mars in 4th and 5th; Venus in 5th; Rahu in 6th; Jupiter in 8th; Saturn in 9th; and Kethu in 12th.

General.—Mercury and Venus are the good transits for the entire month. Sun is good for the first half only but free of vedha. Whereas Venus is under check throughout and Mercury is thus affected for the first half. Mars, Jupiter and Saturn, the major planets are all evil for the entire month. But Mars and Saturn are under check for the entire month and their evil rays need not cause much concern. However Jupiter is free throughout. In a month of mixed results, the evil side is likely to greatly dominate, and the first half will prove much less evil than the second. Happiness, success, gains, domestic comforts, good friendships, honours, general prosperity, help from friends, fame, etc., are the probable good results for the first half. Sorrows, quarrels and disputes with friends and relatives, domestic troubles, ill-health, fears and apprehensions, troubles caused by one's own kinsmen, mental agitation and worries, wearisome journeys, enmities, death of relatives, friends, etc., are the probable evil results for the second half. Of the three stars of the sign, those born under Bharani will fare best and suffer least from the evil rays. Those born under Krittika will also do fairly well and come next in order. But those born under Aswini will perhaps be the worst sufferers.

Health and Domestic.—The first half may prove fairly healthy but during the second, digestive troubles, fever, haemorrhages, etc., may be present. During this part of the month, a liability to some sort of accidents should not be overlooked, especially during journeys. Journeys should be avoided as far as possible during the second half. In the matter of domestic circle, the difference between the first and second halves may be even more pronounced. Conditions can be expected to be reasonably peaceful and harmonious during the first. But a lot of impediments and troubles may supervene during the second causing much of impediments and even unhappiness.

Finance and Speculation.—The month as a whole is not good for financial matters. Losses may arise through deceit, theft or due to other causes especially during the second half during which in bad cases, there may be even pressure from creditors. But owing to some helpful influences and the weakness of evil transits, the troubles will never become insufferable and can be quite overcome with help from friends coupled with your own resources. Though conditions are not too bad for speculation, it is better to refrain from such activities as the gains may not amount to much after all and the risk of losses is great.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—The beginning of the month is sufficiently disheartening for the landlords and landholders and the first week especially may prove to be a very trying time. Disappointments, quarrels, impediments to agricultural operations and unexpected troubles may cause much annoyance and apprehensions if not actual losses. But with some care and forbearance, it should be possible to steer clear, though this, as in this respect, the month is not entirely bereft of good influences as well. But much constraint and patience will be essential. In critical matters, it would be better to postpone decisions rather than come to hasty but wrong conclusions. The services may do quite well during the first half and acquisition of new position and status, triumph over rivals, and enemies are also probable; or at least your good work will be recognised by your superiors and this is bound to produce good results sooner or later. In the case of those to whom preferments long overdue have not been conferred and whose affairs have been hanging fire for some time, it will be found that progress begins at about the middle of the month. In the case of the business and the profession, average levels will be maintained throughout.

Women.—So far as matters peculiar to the fair sex are concerned, there is so much of change from time to time for good to bad and vice versa almost throughout the month that it is difficult to make any genetal statement. In the beginning there is scope for social pleasures, strange and romantic attachments, etc., but these are liable to be followed by sudden estrangements and even scandals and separation for some time at least. These alternating conditions will be present more than once and will be repeated at least twice. The closing part of the month is positively unfavourable and there is a definite risking in contracting dangerous attachments.

Fortunate Dates:—Health matters, personal engagements, private affairs, dealings with relatives, interviews—4, 8, 14, 15, 16, 25, 31; money dealings and transactions, financial ventures—4, 9, 11, 13, 18, 28; short journeys—4, 8, 14, 15, 16, 25, 31; long journeys—6, 7, 15, 19, 24; real property affairs, educational and academical activities, tests, interviews—4, 11, 13, 14, 24, 26, 31; speculation, excursions, children's affairs and prospects, courtship and love affairs—7, 13, 15, 24, 30; service affairs and prospects—1, 8, 14, 15, 16, 25, 31; partnership matters, dealings with opposite sex in general—4, 9, 14, 18, 28; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased—4, 13, 18, 23, 27; professional and business enterprises—9, 11, 14, 23, 27.

Critical Dates:—Health and domestic matters, personal affairs, dealings with relatives, interviews, etc.—1, 9, 16, 19, 22, 30; money dealings and transactions, financial ventures, standing surety for others—3, 10, 16, 19, 23, 30; short journeys—1, 12, 18, 21, 28; long journeys—5, 9, 18, 21, 25, 29; real property matters, educational and academical activities, tests, interviews—1, 5, 12, 15, 20, 23, 27; children's affairs and prospects, speculation, excursions, courtships and love affairs—6, 9, 16, 20, 23, 27; service affairs and prospects, dealings with superiors, interviews, etc.—1, 12, 18, 21, 28; partnership matters, dealings with opposite sex in general —3, 10, 16, 19, 23, 30; insurance matters, dealings with estate of deceased in general—1, 9, 16, 19, 22, 30; professional and business enterprises —1, 5, 12, 18, 24, 28.

Chandrashtama from about midnight of 15th till about midnight of 17th.

2. Vrishabha (Taurus).—Sun in 2nd and 3rd; Mercury in 3rd; Mars in 3rd and 4th; Venus in 4th; Rahu in 5th; Jupiter in 7th; Saturn in 8th: and Kethu in 11th.

General.—The best influence for the month should be that of Jupiter in seventh but for the fact that he is throughout under check. The only other favourable transit for the entire month is that of Venus who is however free of vedha. Mars is good before change of sign that is for the first week only. Sun is good after change of sign that is for the second half. Both are free of check. Mercury and Saturn are throughout evil but also under check all along. The only evil factor that is not under check is Sun for the first half. Thus though the good and evil transits for the month almost cancel each other out, the good elements are seen to be more powerful and the month's results will naturally reflect this. General success, happiness, gains, pleasure from children, sartorial luxuries, good health, study of new subjects, auspicious events and celebrations, good news, pleasure trips and excursions, etc., are the good results that can be expected of the favourable transits. However there may arise some troubles through litigation, anxieties regarding children, troubles caused by servants and also relatives and enmities with them, deceit through friends, health troubles and unhappiness as the outcome of the evil transits. Of the three stars of the sign, those born under Krittika and Mrigasira will fare much better than those born under the asterism of Rohini.

Health and Domestic.—For the month good health will be the rule rather than the exception. For troubles in the eyes if any, it may not be wise to resort to treatment during the second half. People with digestive troubles should be able to avoid them by care as to diet and thus avert further possible complications. Of course there may be some bickerings inside the domestic circle but this will be as a rule negligible. But considerable care and firmness will be required in your dealings with relatives outside the domestic circle lest they give rise to anxieties, unhappiness, even loss. Do not compromise where firmness will be the line of action needed.

Finance and Speculation.—The financial position cannot be said to be satisfactory for the month. Dearth of ready funds may prove to be a characteristic of the month. In the case of those who are always in plentiful supply, it will manifest as an unreadiness to spend even for necessary purposes. Financial enterprises may not shape out well to one's entire satisfaction as unforeseen obstacles may crop up or delays may be caused for lack of some fundamental requisite lacking to complete the deal or transaction. But success in speculative activities is thoroughly ruled out for the month.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—But for the fact that the middle of the month is somewhat propitious for the interests of landlords and landholders, it is no exaggeration to say that the month will prove barren and disappointing to them and none of their affairs will come off straight. Hardships may have to be faced and even some sacrifices may be called for. There will be considerable delays even in the matter of ordinary routine. Ungenerous restrictions and hindrances may have to be surrounded before you could realise what is due to you even as a matter of routine. Such troubles may emanate from the Government or other sources. The services may expect to do pretty well only to predicting the destiny of a human being; it must help him to take advantage of the stars and their implications for betterment of human beings. As a modest beginning the Mandal proposes to set up soon a study circle for Medical Astrology with the active participation of eminent astrologers, students of the classes and well-known doctors. The circle will study the impact of planetary positions on the health of the individual and try to evolve some general principles to guide human beings in their physical betterment.

Financial help for the various activities undertaken by the Mandal has been given by Sri G. M. Oka, Sri D. N. Narvane, Sri G. V. Khare, Poona; Sri Baburao Deshmukh, Nagpur; Sri P. K. Joshi (Bhusaval); Sri J.B. Risbud, Poona; and Sri Rangari and Sri Abhayankar.

For some time the Mandal was considering the proposal of Library and Reading Room for students and members. Some of the individuals and institutions have helped the cause very generously. Among the institutions, Kesari Maratha Granthalaya and Phala Jyotish Sanshodhan Mandal, Poona, are the chief ones.

Educational and other work done by the Institution has been appreciated by the authorities of Poona Municipal Corporation who have kindly granted financial help in the form of grant-in-aid for the last three years. The Institution is highly grateful for the help. Similarly, the authorities of Nutan Marathi Vidyalaya High School have kindly given their school for all sorts of activities of the Institution during the last ten years.

The Hon'ble Sri H. V. Pataskar, present Governor of Madhya Pradesh when he was Minister of Legal Affairs, Government of India, visited the Institution in 1956 and expressed appreciation of the work of the Mandal. Other distinguished guests including the Mayor of Poona, M. M. Datto Waman Potdar and scholars from foreign universities have also paid visits on various occasions.

We wish the Mandal every success in its laudable attempts to promote the cause of astrology.

HOW IS THIS MONTH?

during the entire month. Some to whom it is long overdue may succeed in acquiring new position and status, a post of higher authority or special honours. In the case of most, the favourable influences may remove some longstanding obstruction that will facilitate their rise to a better position later on. In the case of the business and profession, there will be greater activity and enlargement of charitable but may not be actually reflected in increased income or profits as an immediate consequence.

Women.—On the whole, this month may prove to be a pleasant one for the fair sex, socially and emotionally, the middle of the month being the most favourable part. Increased popularity, romantic attachments, platonic friendships, etc., will be the various forms in which influences may express themselves. But it will be futile to expect such conditions throughout the month. In the beginning and at the end of the month, one should be very careful in dealing with strangers and be on the guard as against persons who voluntarily seek to contact them for various purposes ostensibly philanthropic or other laudable activities.

Fortunate Dates :-Personal and domestic matters, dealings with relatives, friends, interviews, etc.—4, 9, 11, 13, 18, 28; money dealings and transactions, financial enterprises—4, 8, 14, 15, 16, 25, 31; short journeys—4, 11, 13, 14, 24, 26, 31; long journeys—1, 5, 12, 18, 24, 28; real property matters, educational and academical activities, tests, interviews—7, 13, 15, 24, 30; speculation, children's prospects and affairs, excursions, picnics, etc., courtship and love affairs—1, 8, 14, 15, 16, 25, 31; service affairs and prospects, dealings with servants, superiors, etc.—4, 9, 14, 18, 28; partnership matters, dealings with opposite sex in general—4, 13, 18, 23, 27; insurance affairs, dealings with estate of deceased—6, 7, 15, 19, 24; professional and business enterprises—9, 11, 14, 23, 27.

Critical Dates :—Personal and domestic matters, dealings with relatives and friends, interviews, etc.—4, 9, 11, 13, 18, 28; money dealings and transactions, financial enterprises, standing surety for others—1, 12, 18, 21, 28; short journeys—1, 5 12, 15, 20, 23, 27; long journeys—9, 11, 14, 23, 27; real property affairs, educational and academical activities, tests, interviews—6, 16, 19, 20, 23, 27; children's affairs and prospects, speculation, excursions, courtship and love affairs—1, 12, 18, 21, 28; service affairs and prospects, dealings with superiors, servants—3, 10, 16, 19, 23, 30; partnership matters, dealings with opposits sex in general—1, 9, 16, 19; 22, 30; insurance matters, dealings with estate of deceased in general—5, 9, 18, 21, 25, 29; professional and business enterprises-1, 5, 12, 18, 24, 28

Chandrashtama from about midnight of 17th till about midnight of 19th.

3. Mithuna (Gemini).—Sun in 1st and 2nd; Mercury in 2nd; Mars in 2nd and 3rd; Venus in 3rd; Rahu in 4th; Jupiter in 6th; Saturn in 7th; and Kethu in 10th.

General.—Venus is the only planet in a favourable sign for the entire month and is under check for the first half. Mars becomes favourable after change of sign, i.e., after the first week, but he is free of check so long as he is good. This sums up the entire favourable influences for the month, Sun, Mercury, Jupiter and Saturn all being in evil signs throughout. But Saturn is under vedha all along and Sun for the second half only, the others being free. Therefore the month's results will be predominatingly unfavourable, the second half being less unfavourable than the first. Loss of name and fame, health troubles, obstacles in all undertakings, wearisome journeys, apprehensions and anxieties, quarrels with friends and relatives, disgrace and dishonour, unjust blame mostly, scandals, heavy expenditure and unwelcome changes are the probable evil results due for the month. However, there is some scope for success, acquisition of luxuries and enjoyments, recovery from illness and also comparative freedom from worries during the second half. Of the three stars of the sign, those born under Mrigasira will suffer much less and reap better results than those born under Aridra or Punarvasu.

Health and Domestic.-Health should be carefully watched at least during the first half. Those suffering from habitual high blood pressure should take care not to indulge in anything that is likely to increase it. There may occur chest pain also, stomach troubles, etc. Chronic sufferers from asthma should also be watchful. The second half will be comparatively free from such ailments. Disputes with relatives both inside and outside the domestic circle are likely to occur thus marring domestic peace and harmony. Unless you are careful, you may get a bad name in social circle and even be subjected to scandals.

Finance and Speculation.-The month is both good and bad for finances. There will be considerable increased activities and enterprises that will bring in good amounts exceeding average limits. But the offtake, because of increased demands on the purse, will be equally heavy and still pressure for money acutely felt, especially during the first half. Even losses may occur in financial ventures unless you are extra careful. Losses through deceit is not also a distant probability. There is nothing in the month's influences to support speculative activities which are better left alone.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—Only gradual deterioration is to be expected in all matters pertaining to landlords and landholders, though the process during the month may be gradual even imperceptible. Troubles may arise with tenants, servants, agents, co-owners or adjacent owners. The best method is to adopt a non-committal attitude and cultivate a philosophical approach rather than to fight things out, which will only result in disadvantage and losses alround. Advantage may be taken of the favourable vibrations as and when they are present to advance your interests amicably settle your disputes and forge ahead with original plans to improve your lot as best as you can under the existing circumstances. On the other hand, the month can be said to be definitely favourable for the services excepting for the first week. Increased influence and position, respect, gain of a coveted position, etc., may be your lot this month. There will be opportunities for all to advance their interests through energetic work or adopting bold measures such as bearding the lion in its own den or through discreet wire pulling. The profession and business too may do fairly well and find that they are able to extend their sphere of influence attended with increased returns and profits.

Women.—This would ostensibly prove a dull month for the fair sex; there is not much scope for the display of their characteristic talents be it a housewife or a cinema star, or a society lady. But there is a way to enliven the dull moment in harmony with the vibrations in force during the month, by way of cultivating sympathy towards persons who are maladjusted in their emotions, cultivating the acquaintance of older and maturer persons of your own sex and learning much towards the stabilisation of your own emotional nature through such contacts. Avoid customary parties, social functions and empty exchanges during the month.

Fortunate Dates :—Personal and domestic matters, dealings with relatives, health matters, interviews, etc.—4, 8, 14, 15, 16, 25, 31; money dealings and transactions, financial ventures —4, 11, 13, 14, 24, 26, 31; short journeys—7, 13, 15, 24, 30; long journeys—9, 11, 14, 23, 27; real property matters, educational and academical enterprises, tests, interviews —1, 8, 14, 15, 16, 25, 31; children's affairs and prospects, excursions, speculative activities, courtships and love affairs—4, 9, 14, 18, 28; service affairs and prospects, dealings with superiors, interviews, etc.—4 13, 18, 23, 27; partnership matters, dealings with opposite sex in general—6, 7, 15, 19, 24; insurance matters, dealings with estate of deceased—1, 5, 12, 18, 24, 28; professional and business enterprises—6, 7, 15, 19, 24.

Critical Dates :—Personal and domestic matters, dealings with relatives, health matters, interviews, etc.—1, 12, 18, 21, 28; money dealings and transactions, financial ventures, standing surety for others—1, 5, 12, 15, 20, 23, 27; short journeys—6, 14, 16, 19, 20, 23, 27; long journeys—1, 5, 12, 18, 24, 28; real property matters, educational and academical activities, tests, interviews—1, 12, 18, 21, 28; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, excursions, courtship and love affairs—3, 10, 16, 19, 23, 30; service affairs and prospects, dealings with superiors, servants, etc.—1, 9, 16, 19, 22, 30; partnership matters, dealings with opposite sex in general—5, 9, 18, 21, 25, 29; insurace activities, dealings with estate of deceased—9, 11, 14, 23, 27; professional and business enterprises—5, 9, 18, 21, 25, 29.

Chandrashtama from about midnight of 19th till about sunrise on 22nd.

4. Kataka (Cancer).—Mercury in 1st; Mars in 1st and 2nd; Venus in 2nd; Rahu in 3rd; Jupiter in 5th; Saturn in 6th; Kethu in 9th; and Sun in 12th and 1st.

General.–Venus, Jupiter and Saturn are favourable for the entire month. Sun, Mercury and Mars are evil throughout. Among the favourable planets, Saturn alone is under check. Of the evil planets, Mercury and Mars are under vedha for the entire month and Sun for the second half only. Venus and Jupiter both good and both free of vedha, are very good influences for the entire month and the general results are bound to prove quite satisfactory. Auspicious events and celebrations, favours and respect from elders, gain of luxuries and their enjoyment, increased general prosperity, beneficial changes, happiness, etc., are the welcome results to be expected of the favourable transits. Success over rivals and enemies are also quite probable. Losses through relatives and friends, losses during journeys, or through the evil advice of wicked persons, obstacles in undertakings, misunderstandings with friends and relatives, apprehensions and anxieties, aimless journeys, etc., are the likely outcome of the evil transits of the month. Of the three asterisms of the sign, those born under Aslesha will fare best during the month and those born under Punarvasu and Pushya rank only next.

Health and Domestic.—There is a liability for feverish ailments during first half and rise of blood pressure during the second which should be noted. But only those who are chronically subject to such complaints need have any worry and even for them ordinary care and caution should suffice to avert any evil consequences. This month is good par excellence for domestic matters. There may be additions to the family circle by birth or otherwise. There may occur auspicious functions and celebrations such as marriage, etc. Visit of welcome friends and relatives are probable.

Finance and Speculation.—The month is also generally favourable for financial matters, enterprises, etc. Money will be got from various sources, even an unexpected item or two may figure during the month. An inherent weakness is that much of it will not be saved but slip through your fingers, leaving not much behind, unless of course you are very careful. Cut out all items that may even smack of extravagance. Otherwise expenses are likely to get out of control. Speculation too appears to be favoured and some gains may be made that way but much greater caution and care would be required to retain them.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—Landlords and landholders are neither hindered nor helped by the transit influences of the month and this may prove to be a month of ordinary routine for all practical purposes. Though generally favourable, it may not be easy to succeed with new methods or innovations with a view to improve yield or cut short labour. In case it is necessary to resort to such things, the matter should be given a thorough trial with all the resources at your disposal. No half-hearted attempts are to be made, as only loss and failure lies in that direction. The month is fairly good for the services. There is even scope for success in competitive matters where you may be able to gain a point or two over your rivals and derive its consequent advantages. Or you may be the fortunate recipient of favours from those placed above you and who are satisfied with your work. Some favourable change or other is likely within the month. The profession and business too will function above average levels during the greater part of the month. Even here, much care should be bestowed upon new ventures to prevent their becoming at least partial failures.

Women.—This is an ideal month suitable for activities in which the feminine heart usually delights —chopping and purchase of luxury items, jewels, fineries, attending and giving social functions, parties, etc., cultivating new friendships, making contacts with those placed higher in the social scale, association with wealthy people, excursions, picnics, etc.; of course, courtships and love affairs too. That the transits are favourable for such as above does not mean that discretion can be thrown to the winds and still success can be achieved. In all contacts and activities, you should be alert and wide awake not to compromise yourself in any way or indulge in reckless buying, etc., and still hope to get away with it all.

Fortunate Dates :—Personal and domestic affairs, dealings with relatives, interviews, health matters—4, 11, 13, 14, 24, 26, 31; money dealings and transactions, financial enterprises, etc.—7, 13, 15, 24, 30; short journeys 1, 12, 18, 21, 28; long journeys—6, 7, 15, 19, 24; real property matters, educational and academical activities, tests, interviews—4, 9, 14, 18, 28; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, picnics, excursions, courtship and love affairs—4, 13, 18, 23, 27; service affairs and prospects, dealings with superiors, servants, interviews—6, 7, 15, 19, 24; partnership matters, dealings with opposite sex in general—1, 5, 12, 18, 24, 28; insurance matters, dealings with estate of deceased—9, 11, 14, 23, 27; professional and business enterprises —4, 13, 18, 23, 27.

Critical Dates :—Personal and domestic matters, dealings with relatives, interviews, health matters, etc.—1, 5, 12, 15, 20, 24, 28; money dealings and transactions, financial ventures, standing surety for others—6, 16, 19, 20, 23, 27; short journeys—1, 12, 18, 21, 28; long journeys—5, 9, 18, 21, 25, 29; real property matters, educational and academical activities, tests, interviews—3, 10, 16, 19, 23, 30; children's affairs and prospects, speculation, excursions, courtship and love affairs—1, 9, 16, 19, 22, 30; service affairs and prospects, dealings with superiors, servants, interviews—

5, 9, 18, 21, 25, 29; partnership matters, dealings with the opposite sex in general—9, 11, 14, 24, 28; insurance activities and business, dealings with estate of deceased—1, 5, 12, 18, 24, 28; professional and business enterprises—1, 9, 16, 19, 22, 30.

Chandrashtama from about sunrise of 22nd till about noon of 24th.

5. Simha (Leo).—Venus in 1st; Rahu in 2nd; Jupiter in 4th; Saturn in 5th; Kethu in 8th; Sun in 11th and 12th; Mercury in 12th; and Mars in 12th and 1st.

General.—Venus is the only planet favourable for the month and is throughout under check. The only planet who is good for at least part of the month is Sun for the first half only. He is however free of vedha. Mercury, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn are all evil throughout. But their severity is greatly pulled down because of the fact that all of these except Mercury are under check for the whole month, while Mercury is thus inhibited for the first half only. Therefore it is naturally to be expected that though mixed effects are what are to be expected, there will be neither much good nor much of evil during the month and the proportion of the latter element will predominate somewhat and the first half will be much better than the second. Success in undertakings, general prosperity with happiness, gains, domestic comforts and facilities, enjoyment of a few luxuries, etc., are due for the first half. During the second half however, mental confusion and agitation, heavy expenditure, various difficulties for the children, wicked associations and contacts, false implications and disgrace, loss of relatives, etc., may be caused by the evil transits but as they are mostly under check no serious harm is likely to result. Of the three stars of the sign, those born under Purvaphalguna will fare best during the month, while those born under Makha will be the worst sufferers. Those born under Uttaraphalguna will come between the two and neither suffer much nor enjoy much.

Health and Domestic.—There may not be much disturbance in health during the first half. There may be some bilious disturbances but there will be plenty of mental worries. Avoid travel as much as possible but if necessitated, be careful as against minor accidents. During the second half especially quarrels may occur within the domestic circle and cause misunderstandings with relatives near and dear. Grief may have to be suffered through loss of some relatives or close friend. Both mind and body will be in a depressed state during the second half generally.

Finance and Speculation.—Nothing favourable can be expected in this sphere during the month, though the first half may appear deceptively favourable. No big enterprises or serious ventures are to be started or undertaken during the entire month. Even the usual avenues of income will not be satisfactory and there may be even temporary failure and some obstacles may arise even in routine matters and cause confusion and apprehension. This is not the month to lend money or stand surety for friends and relatives. Speculative activities of any sort is besought with danger and liability to heavy losses.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—Conditions pertaining to landlords and landholders may be ordinarily satisfactory at the beginning of the month but they will tend to deteriorate as the month advances. During the second half, conditions may worsen very much. Many troubles may be caused because of your own excited condition, restlessness and lack of restraint in your dealings with tenants, agents, etc. Nor is the month good for litigating about your rights, as there is an ever present danger of adverse judicial decisions. Choose the best person for consultations about your future plans and schemes or litigation, as you are liable to be betrayed and confidence abused in this respect. You may have to encounter enmities from secret sources. Even in the matter of services, there is not much good that can accrue during even the first half which is more favourably situated in this respect. Still you may have to face a period of trial, undertake unwanted responsibilities and various obstacles placed against your normal advancement. In bad cases, there may be even fall from power during the second half. However for the profession and business there is some support and they may function normally about average levels.

Women.—In matters pertaining to the fair sex also, the first half may be said to be generally more favourable than the second; rather the first half will be less unfavourable than the latter. Difficulties and disappointments may arise in all sorts of ways; some of which may be traceable to the opposite sex. The entire month is not without a liability to being scandalised or at least being inconvenienced in your social contacts that you should be careful where you go, with whom you have dealings and in whose company you spend the time. The unattached should take note especially.

Fortunate Dates:—Personal and domestic matters, dealings with relatives, personal interviews, health matters, etc.—7, 13, 15, 24, 30; money dealings and transactions, financial ventures, etc.—1, 12, 18, 21, 28; long journeys—4, 13, 18, 23, 27; short journeys—4, 9, 14, 18, 28; real property matters, educational and academical activities, tests, interviews, etc.—6, 7, 15, 19, 24, 27; service affairs and prospects, dealings with superiors, servants, interviews—1, 5, 12, 18, 24, 27; partnership matters, dealings with opposite sex in general—9, 11, 14, 23, 27; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased—6, 7, 15, 19, 24; professional and business enterprises—4, 9, 14, 18, 28.

Critical Dates:—Personal affairs, domestic matters, dealings with relatives, health matters—6, 16, 19, 20, 23, 27; money dealings and transactions, financial ventures, standing surety for others—1, 12, 18, 21, 28; short journeys—3, 10, 16, 19, 23, 30; long journeys—1, 9, 16, 19, 23, 30; real property affairs, educational and academical activities, tests, interviews—1, 9, 16, 19, 22, 30; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, courtship and love affairs, excursions, etc.—5, 9, 18, 21, 25, 29; service affairs and prospects, dealings with superiors, servants, interviews—9, 11, 14, 24, 28; partnership matters, dealings with opposite sex in general—1, 5, 12, 18, 14, 28; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased—5, 9, 18, 21, 25, 29; professional and business enterprises—3, 10, 16, 19, 23, 30.

Chandrashtama from about noon of 24th till night of 26th.

6. Kanya (Virgo).—Rahu in 1st; Jupiter in 3rd; Saturn in 4th; Kethu in 7th; Sun in 10th and 11th; Mercury in 11th; Mars in 11th and 12th; and Venus in 12th.

General.—Mercury, Sun and Venus are in favourable signs for the entire month. Sun and Venus are unchecked throughout but Mercury is under vedha. Mars is good for the first week only. Jupiter and Saturn are evil but Saturn is under check. Thus Jupiter is the only transit influence that is evil and free of vedha for the whole month. The month is therefore likely to present only mixed results in general, though the good elements will tend to preponderate. Success generally though gradual, fulfilment of your desires, acquisition and enjoyment of articles of luxury, good and desirable friendships and associations, prosperity, happiness, auspicious events and celebrations, etc., are the good results that are likely to be produced by the favourable transits. Tedious journeys, health troubles, deaths among relatives, failure in undertakings, unwelcome changes in environment or nature of work, quarrels and misunderstandings, troubles caused by rivals and enemies are also probable from the evil transits. Of the three asterisms covered by those born under Uttaraphalguna and Chitta will fare better than those born under Hasta.

Health and Domestic.—Health for the month will be tolerable. If at all, there may be some troubles caused by excess of bile and some eye troubles for chronic sufferers. Otherwise there are no serious ailments to be apprehended. In the domestic sphere there is no likelihood of any disturbances of note. Minor quarrels and bickerings may be present. But there may be plenty of troubles caused by relatives outside the domestic circle and this may cause various anxieties and acute worries even. It is all the more reasonable that short of avoiding them altogether you must be careful in your relationship with them.

Finance and Speculation.—The month can be said to be positively favourable for financial matters. Gains from more sources than one, success in financial enterprises are to be naturally expected. This is the month to think of long-term investments and such investments will shape out well in the long run. These observations also apply to large scale business enterprises connected with water, oil, or liquids in general. But all the same considerable care and caution should be employed before launching in such big things as adverse influences are also present which may too often create obstacles. Well thought out schemes persisted on with vim and vigour have considerable chances for success. Speculative elements should be ruled out.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—The class least benefited by the good influences and most affected by the evil transits would be landlords and landholders. Troubles and uncertainties on all sides will beset them sorely and it may not be possible to find any solutions to their problems or shape out consistently a policy that will see them through safely. Yield and rentals may be affected. There may be loss of property as well. Unwelcome changes may take place. Unwanted litigation may crop up and end adversely. Beware of resorting to any direct action yourself under any circumstances. The month is favourable for the services in general. Success in your objectives can be achieved. New position and honours gained. You will be able to get help from men of authority and power on your behalf and this will stand you in good stead at critical times when the question of your advancement or promotion comes up for discussion. All this does not mean that everything is easy of achievement. You yourself will have to clear the ground by means of hard work and equipping yourself with the necessary qualifications. Otherwise the influences will pass you by. In the case of the business and profession conditions cannot be said to be as favourable and returns and profits may not be adequate to the amount of work or energy involved.

Women.—This is just an ordinary month for matters appertaining to the fair sex as such—may even be called a dull month. But it can be put to good uses. There is no use of trying to enliven the dull days by conventional methods like attending functions, giving parties, etc. But the time can be usefully employed in extending emotional help to those who are miserable, frustrated, maladjusted by seeking out their company and brightening them up with words of sympathy and goodwill. The month will be useful also to enter into the silence of you own heart and stabilising your own emotions.

Critical Dates :—Personal and domestic matters, dealings with relatives, interviws—1, 12, 18, 21, 28; money dealings and transactions, standing surety, etc.—3, 10, 16, 19, 23, 30; short journeys—1, 9, 16, 22, 30; long journeys—3, 10, 16, 23, 30; real property affairs, educational matters, etc.—5, 9, 18, 21, 25, 29; speculation, courtship and love affairs—9, 11, 14, 24, 28; service affairs, etc.—5, 12, 18, 24, 28; partnerships, dealings with opposite sex in general—5, 9, 18, 21, 25, 29; Insurance business, dealings with estate of deceased—1, 9, 16, 19, 22, 30; professional and business enterprises—1, 12, 18, 21, 28.

Chandrashtama from night of 26th till morning of 29th.

7. Thula (Libra).—Jupiter in 2nd; Saturn in 3rd; Kethu in 6th; Sun in 9th and 10th; Mercury in 10th; Mars in 10th and 11th; and Rahu in 12th.

General.—The month fairly bristles with good transits as no planet is in an evil sign for the entire month and the only planet who is evil for part of the month is Sun for the first half only and even so long as he is under check. But it is doubtful as to how much of these good transits will be able to help in producing favourable results as most of them are controlled by check from the other planets and very little alone is likely to actually materialise because of this fact. The only good influence who is free of vedha is Mars alone for the greater part of the month and Sun for the second half. Therefore so far as the general results are concerned, though no great things are to be expected because of the presence of a large number of benefic transits, the month will not be entirely barren of good results and will be above average in most respects. Gradual and increasing success in the accomplishment of your desires, gains, acquisition of articles of luxury, good and helpful friends, auspicious events and celebrations, enjoyments, name and fame, triumph over rivals and enemies, prosperity, new status and positions, gain of friends of the opposite sex, etc., are the good things that are probable as the effects of the favourable transits. The only caution that is necessary because of the evil transit of Sun during the first half is to be careful in your dealings with elders and superiors. Of the three asterisms of the sign, those born under Chitta and Visakha will fare generally better than those born under Swati.

Health and Domestic.—Health for the month should be throughout good and satisfactory. Home conditions will be pleasant and peace and harmony will prevail within the domestic sphere. Your name and fame will also increase in social circles and you will attain to a position of honour and respect. You will acquire a number of new friends during the month who are likely to prove helpful to you in your future career. There will be pleasant and auspicious functions at home and a member of the family may get married. A number of luxuries will be acquired and enjoyed.

Finance and Speculation.—In respect of money matters, the entire month as a whole is promising, though there will be greater success in your financial ventures during the second half. During the first half, there is a liability to enmities arising because of money matters, but this can be avoided with some care as well as generosity on your part. It will be possible to derive gains and profit from more than one source and existing resources can be expanded to yield more than their average quota as conditions are quite propitious therefor, but not for speculative dealings.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—Though almost all the transits are favourable, they may not be able to effect much improvement in matters pertaining to landlords and landholders. But no unfavourable developments are likely during the month. Dealings with tenants, agents, etc., may not be quite satisfactory. On the whole, conditions may not at all prove bad. Defeat of rivals and enemies, increase of power and influence or beneficial changes, new status and positions are all probable. More or less the same conditions will be reproduced with regard to business and profession, in which more than average activity and increased returns are probable nearly throughout the month.

Women.—The month as a whole will be a pleasant one for the fair sex in all manner of ways. All their activities will meet with a fair measure of success and social leaders will find the conditions quite appropriate and congenial for extending their sphere of influence. Courtship and love affairs will progress to the satisfaction of both parties and many of the unattached born under this sign may find themselves engaged. The second half may be said to be generally more favourable than the first.

Fortunate Dates:—Personal and domestic matters, health matters—4, 9, 14, 18, 28; money dealings—6, 7, 15, 19, 24; short journeys—6, 7, 15, 19, 24; long journeys—1, 12, 18, 21, 28; real property affairs, academical matters, interviews—1, 5, 12, 18, 24, 27; speculation, love affairs, excursions, etc.—9, 11, 14, 23, 27; service affairs—6, 7, 15, 19, 24; partnership business—4, 12, 18, 23, 27; insurance matters—4, 9, 14, 18, 28; professional and business enterprises—4, 11, 13, 14, 24, 26.

Critical Dates:—Personal and domestic matters—3, 10, 16, 19, 23, 30; money dealings—1, 9, 16, 22, 30; short journeys—5, 9, 18, 21, 25, 29; long journeys—1, 12, 18, 21, 28; real property matters, academical activities—9, 11, 14, 24, 28; speculation, children's prospects and love affairs, excursions, etc.—5, 12, 18, 24, 28; service affairs—9, 11, 14, 24, 28; partnerships—1, 9, 16, 19, 22, 30; insurance activities—3, 10, 16, 23, 30; professional enterprises—1, 5, 12, 15, 20, 24, 28

Chandrashtama from about the midnight of 1st till noon of 4th and again from the morning of 29th till night of 31st.

8. Vrischika (Scorpio).—Jupiter in 1st; Saturn in 2nd; Kethu in 5th; Sun in 8th and 9th; Mercury in 9th; Mars in 9th and 10th; Venus in 10th; and Rahu in 11th.

General.—This month is noteworthy because none of the transit influences are to be found in favourable signs. The only planet that can be said to be at all favourable is Mars after change of sign but good or bad he is under check throughout the month. Sun, Mercury, Venus, Jupiter and Saturn are all in evil signs only for the entire month and Jupiter and Saturn are free of vedha while Sun and Mercury come under check for part of the time only. Thus the prospects for the month can be more easily imagied than described, anxieties, general debility, tedious journeys, losses in undertakings, enmities and unjust accusations, quarrels with relatives, deaths among relatives are the probable happenings for the month. Therefore it is necessary that you should be especially careful in all matters in general throughout the month. Those for whom this is the close of the third cycle of sadesati should observe the greatest caution. Of the three stars of the sign, those born under Jyeshta will be the persons to suffer least and those born under Anuradha and Visakha come only next.

Health and Domestic.—There will be general debility throughout the month and those who have high blood pressure should be watchful that they do not do anything to increase it at least during the first half and take appropriate precautions. Ailments due to excessive 'heat' are also probable. The wife and children's health too may be affected adversely. The mind will be always ill-at-case. Personal and domestic matters too will give additional causes for worry.

Finance and Speculation.—The finances would also prove to be a source of perpetual worry throughout the month. None of the gains that accrue will outcast the month and will be quickly defrayed. It would be better to refrain from financial enterprises, there is considerable risk in speculative dealings.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—The impact of the evil transits upon the matters pertaining to landholders and landlords will be severe. Yield and rentals may suffer, litigation and quarrels take place. Even loss of property may occur. On many occasions, you may be sorely tempted to take the law into your own hands and fight it out but such a course will be a grievous mistake as well transpire later on. The services too are bound to suffer along with other interests. In any case conflict with superiors or people in authority should be scrupulously avoided. The profession and business may become actuated with extra possibilities but this may not be reflected in any tangible favourable results

Women.—Nothing special calls for mention in respect of matters connected with the fair sex as such, whose affairs and activities may function normally as usual. They should not hostilly commit themselves to any course of action without studying its full implications or taking the advice of maturer minds on the matter on hand or proposed line of action. But no important decisions should be made within the month.

Fortunate Dates:—Personal and domestic matters, interviews, health matters—6, 7, 15, 19, 24; money dealings—6, 7, 15, 19; short journeys—1, 5, 12, 18, 24, 27; long journeys—4, 11, 13, 14, 24, 26; real property affairs, academical matters—9, 11, 14, 23, 27; speculation, children's affairs—6, 7, 15, 19, 24; service affairs—1, 12, 18, 23, 27; partnership matters—4, 9, 14, 18, 28; insurance matters—1, 12, 18, 21, 28; professional and business enterprises—7, 13, 15, 24, 30.

Critical Dates:—Personal and domestic matters—1, 9, 16, 22, 30; money dealings—5, 9, 18, 21, 25, 29; short journeys—9, 11, 14, 24, 28; long journeys—1, 5, 12, 15, 20, 24, 28; real property and academical activities—5, 12, 18, 24, 28; speculation, children's affairs, excursions—9, 11, 14, 24, 28; service affairs—1, 9, 16, 22, 30; partnership matters—3, 10, 16, 23, 30; insurance matters—1, 9, 16, 22, 30; professional and business enterprises—6, 16, 19, 20, 23, 27.

Chandrashtama from about noon of 4th till midnight of 6th.

9. Dhanus (Sagittarius).—Saturn in 1st; Kethu in 4th; Sun in 7th and 8th; Mercury in 8th; Mars in 8th and 9th; Venus in 9th; Rahu in 10th; and Jupiter in 12th.

General.—Two planets are good for the entire month, namely Mercury and Venus. Of these, Mercury is under check throughout. Of course Jupiter in 12th may not be considered as wholly evil or wholly favourable. Sun, Mars and Saturn are in inauspicious signs and of these Mars is under check all along while Sun comes under check only for the second half. Saturn is free throughout. Thus the month cannot very well be termed as either wholly good or wholly bad and it is clear that evil elements preponderate. Tedious and wearisome journeys, health troubles, mental depression, losses, wounds from accidents, heavy expenditure, death of relatives, that may be present during the month. But the good transits also provide for some happiness, auspicious events and occurrences, good name, general prosperity, enjoyment of luxury items, success, etc. Therefore with your own diligent efforts superadded, the month may prove quite tolerable and even at times, quite happy. Of the three asterisms of the sign, the month will prove best for those born under Poorvashada; those born under Uttarashada come next in order while those born under Makha may not be able to derive much help from the transitting planets and may suffer most.

Scanned by www.sapthrishisastrology.com & Digitized by eGangotri

Health and Domestic.—The most probable forms of illness during the month will be stomach and rectal troubles, urinary difficulties, fever, high blood pressure especially during second half, and ailments due to excessive heat. This, of course, does not mean that all these troubles will be present throughout for all persons. Only those who are chronically subject to such ailments need apprehend anything. The domestic circle however will be trouble free and harmony will prevail as the evil transits do not have much effect in this sphere.

Finance and Speculation.—The financial sphere comes under mixed influences and there will be considerable activity so far as money matters are concerned. Though there will be good influx of wealth through various sources, very little will stick because of uncontrollable expenditure items cropping up. The month cannot be said to be at all favourable for speculative transactions as they do not have the support of even a single transit influence; hence they should be avoided.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—Real property conditions would be tolerable so far as landlords and landholders are concerned. The situation is full of possibilities for conflict, apprehensions, and even loss of property but with the help of the favourable planets, the position will never get out of hand. Yield and rentals may not be quite up to the mark, yet there will be no serious loss. The services cannot expect anything favourable for this month. It will be a good thing if they are not subjected to harassment and other troubles as they are liable to incur the displeasure of their superiors especially during the second half of the month. The business and profession are liable to experience alternate bursts of activity and depression during the month without any radical changes.

Women.—The month is not favourable for external activities. You may also go to the help of the less fortunate who may have emotional entanglements and will need your sympathy and help all the more for that reason. This is not a month in which you can aspire for success in social activities, parties, picnics, etc.

Fortunate Dates:—Personal and domestic matters—6, 7, 15, 19; money dealings—1, 5, 12, 18, 24, 27; short journeys—9, 11, 14, 23, 27; long journeys—7, 13, 15, 24, 30; real property matters, academical activities, etc.—6, 7, 15, 19, 24; children's affairs, speculation, excursions, courtships and love affairs—1, 12, 18, 23, 27; service affairs—4, 9, 14, 18, 28; partnership matters—1, 12, 18, 21, 28; insurance matters—4, 11, 13, 14, 24, 26; professional and business enterprises—1, 12, 18, 21, 28.

Critical Dates:—Personal and domestic matters, etc.—5, 9, 18, 21, 25, 29; money dealings—9, 11, 14, 24, 28; short journeys—5, 12, 18, 24, 28; long journeys—6, 16, 19, 20, 23, 27; real property matters and academical activities—9, 11, 14, 24, 28; speculation, children's prospects and love affairs—1, 9, 16, 22, 30; service affairs and prospects—3, 10, 16, 23, 30; partnership matters—1, 9, 16, 22, 30; insurance activities—1, 5, 12, 15, 20, 24, 28; professional and business enterprises—1, 12, 18, 21, 28.

Chandrashtama from (about) midnight of 6th till morning of 9th.

10. Makara (Capricorn). — Kethu in 3rd; Sun in 6th and 7th; Mercury in 7th; Mars in 7th and 8th; Venus in 8th; Rahu in 9th; Jupiter in 11th; and Saturn in 12th.

General.—Venus and Jupiter are good for the entire month. But Venus itself acts as a check on Jupiter so that much of the good effects of that planet are not available for the month. Venus however is free. Sun is good for the first half and free of vedha. Mercury, Mars and Saturn are evil for the entire month. Mars and Saturn are under check throughout the month and Mercury is thus held up for the first half only. Therefore if the good transits are powerless to do much good, the evil planets also lack power to do harm. In a month of mixed effects, the first half will be somewhat better than the second. General success, triumph over rivals and enemies, gains, happiness and peace of mind, auspicious events and celebrations, acquisition and enjoyment of luxuries, meeting with welcome friends and relations are the results due for the month, more particularly during the first half. Quarrels, litigation, quarrels and misunderstandings, losses, obstacles in undertakings, vain temptations, liability to accidents, etc., are also probable as the result of the evil transits. Of the three asterisms of the sign, those born under Uttarashada and Dhanishta will generally do better than those who have Sravana as their birth star.

Health and Domestic.—Indigestion, stomachache, fever, eye troubles, are the forms of illness that may afflict you during the month. As there are preventible by appropriate hygienic precautions, proper care should be taken as to diet and general habits. Injuries resulting in loss of blood too are probable and in such cases, prompt steps should be taken against sepsis and other complications. Quarrels with wife, disputes with friends are only too probable for the month mostly due for the second half.

Finance and Speculation—In respect of finance, the month is likely to prove fairly satisfactory and gains, etc., will be greater during the first half than the second. The general financial position can be sought to be improved by safe long term investments, new enterprises, etc., but the best may not be realised due to causes beyond your control, though as caution and prudence is to be desired in such matters, it is quite probable that too much of caution and lack of certainty and confidence may be the reasons. Speculation too may add to your profits provided suitable precautions are taken.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—The month is also generally favourable in respect of matters pertaining to landlords and landhoders. There may be opportunities for acquisition of more property under favourable auspices for all. There are also some influences which may bring about even loss of property. Therefore much may depend upon current directional influences as to how the month turns out. But there may not be any difficulties in realising normal income or rentals and carrying on routine matters. At the same time, it should be remembered that this month cannot be said to be suitable for big changes, innovations or enterprises or acquisitions. The month as a whole is favourable for the services, and the first half the more so. You may be also gain a point or two over your rivals or equals and get a promotion or new position; or other beneficial changes may take place. With some help from current directions, sudden upliftment which may even be of an unexpected nature, may result. Though nothing special or spectacular is to be expected, the month is generally favourable for the business and the profession which may do quite well during the month.

Women.—The month is quite good for the fair sex too and well suited for all of their activities normally. The month may provide quite good opportunities for cultivating new friendships, becoming intimately acquainted with those placed higher on the social scale and thus improving your social standing. Parties, attending such functions or giving them, come well within the scope of this month's activities. Best of all, the month is good for making purchases, shopping round to your heart's content but beware at the same time that you are not taken in and made to purchase worthless things or trinkets having no lasting value.

Chandrashtama from morning of 9th till afternoon of 11th.

11. Kumbha (Aquarius).—Kethu in 2nd; Sun in 5th and 6th; Mercury in 6th; Mars in 6th and 7th; Venus in 7th; Rahu in 8th; Jupiter in 10th; and Saturn in 11th.

General.—Mercury and Saturn are the good planets for the entire month. Mars is good for the first week and Sun for the second half. Jupiter and Venus are evil throughout. Venus is under check all along but Jupiter is free. Sun and Mars are under check only so long as they are evil. Thus the good and bad influences for the month are more or less evently balanced and only mixed results are to be expected throughout the month. Harassment by rivals and enemies, mental apprehensions, sorrows, liability to ill-health and accidents, alternating with peace of mind, cheerfulness, success, triumph over rivals, prosperity, gains and losses, disputes with friends and relatives, popularity and renown, unwelcome changes, scandals, wicked associations, troubles through the opposite sex, etc., are the sort of good and bad results that may be present off and on throughout the month and may have to be experienced in some form or other. Of the three stars of the sign, those born under Dhanishta and Poorvabhadrapada will reap better results from the favourable transits and suffer less from the evil transits than those born under Satabhisha.

Health and Domestic.—Minor health troubles will be experienced during the month but there will be no major sufferings. There will be ill-health to the wife and children also. Indigestion and stomach and eye troubles may have to be suffered according to constitutional predisposition. Nothing special calls for mention in respect of domestic matters which will continue as usual with a mixture of good and bad elements. Quarrels at least some bickerings with the wife will arise at times but there will be harmony and peace of mind for the greater part of the month.

Finance and Speculation.—Finances will be ordinarily in good shape with more than average share of acquisition of wealth, and success in financial enterprises. But as there is a simultaneous liability to incur losses as well, it would be better not to undertake risky ventures or big enterprises during the month and await better times. Still much headway can be done during the month by hard work—clearing the ground for future undertakings by spade work; no spectacular achievements are however probable within the month itself. Speculation will bring in only disappointments and losses.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—The same mixed sort of happenings will characterise matters pertaining to the landlords and landholders. There will not be much of deviation from normal routine; the yield and rentals will prove satisfactory. It is even probable that there will be increased income. There are also some chances of gain of property. At the same time, there is the likelihood of unwelcome changes, strained relations, danger to property as also quarrels and disputes regarding your rights. But major changes either for good or bad are not likely. There will be a lot of activity in regard to the services, changes for good and bad on the background influences. The second half of the month will be decidedly the best part of the month in this respect. All the same, you will have to be careful and watchful in all your actions as there is an ever present liability for you to incur the displeasure of your superiors. The profession and business will be normal with alternating bursts of activity and depression off and on and conditions will prove on the whole tolerable.

Women.—The month does not promise much of importance or excitement for the fair sex beyond normal. In activities beyond normal, difficulties and obstacles may arise. It is better to keep yourself in reserve throughout the month, as there is a liability to your actions being misconstrued and there is just a chance that you may even be scandalised. This is a matter which the unattached should take especial note of. But there is no reason that you should keep yourself secluded and refrain from normal activities, courtship, etc.

Fortunate Dates :—Personal and private affairs, dealings with relatives domestic matters, interviews—9, 11, 14, 23, 27; money dealings and transactions, financial ventures, etc.–6, 7, 15, 19, 24; short journeys—1, 12, 18, 23, 27; long journeys—4, 9, 14, 18, 28; real property matters, educational and academical activities, tests, interviews, etc.—4, 9, 14, 18, Chandrashtama from afternoon of 11th till night of 13th.

12. Meena (Pisces).—Kethu in 1st; Sun in 4th and 5th; Mercury in 5th; Mars in 5th and 6th; Venus in 6th; Rahu in 7th; Jupiter in 9th; and Saturn in 10th.

General.—Jupiter transitting ninth is the best general influence for the month but unfortunately he is under check throughout. Mars no doubt becomes favourable after change of sign, that is after the first week but good or bad, he is under check throughout the month. Sun, Mercury and Venus transit evil signs only. Of these Mercury is under vedha for the whole month, Sun for the second half only and Venus free throughout. Saturn in tenth is unchecked and as a malefic in an Upachaya house he need not be classed as wholly evil or as wholly favourable. The month will most probably be a mediocre one in all respects. Sorrows, obstacles, quarrels and misunderstandings with friends and relatives, difficulties caused by rivals and enemies, worries of all sorts, purposeless undertakings, litigations, disgrace, etc., are the evil results that may flow from the unfavourable transits of the month. But success and prosperity, auspicious events and celebrations, happiness at home, purchase of articles of luxury and their enjoyment are what are to be expected from the favourable influences. The net result will be that there will be neither much of good nor evil during the month and on the whole may prove quite ordinary. Of the three stars of the sign, those born under Revati will fare much better than those born under Poorvabhadrapada and Uttarabhadrapada.

Health and Domestic.—As haemorrhage is one of the possible health troubles of the month, persons who are chronically subject to such disorders should naturally take precautions but this is confined to the first half of the month. During the second half it is the mind that is likely to be troubled more than the body. There is just a liability to minor accidents. Quarrels with relatives inside as well as outside the domestic circle may take place and cause much mental disquietude, worries and agitation. In your social contacts, you should be very careful that your motives are not suspected or that you suffer dishonour and disgrace.

Finance and Speculation.—On the whole, it is probable that the month will prove fairly good in the matter of finance. No doubt there will be worries, pressure and stress at times especially during the first half. But you will be able to realise your own out standings and with successes in your enterprises as well you will be able so surmount these difficulties. At the same time, you will have to husband carefully what you gain during the month, as there is every probability that your savings may be lost through carelessness or recklessness. All the more reasonable that you should not indulge in speculative activities.

Real Property, Profession, etc.—Landlords will find that their affairs do not prosper well during the month. But generally with regard to management, difficulties may arise with no end of worries. During the first half, the services may find themselves in unforeseen difficulties Relief from all this is close at hand, during the succeeding months. The profession and business though faced with difficulties, will yet forge ahead to fresh achievements.

Women.—This may be just an ordinary month for the fair sex. Yet the month is capable of being put to good use.

Fortunate Dates:—Personal—6, 7, 15, 19, 24; money dealings——1, 12, 18, 23, 27; short journeys—4, 9, 14, 18, 28; long journeys—6, 7, 15, 19, 24; real property matters, academical activities—4, 11, 13, 14, 24, 26; speculation, children's affairs, love affairs—4, 11, 13, 14, 24, 26; service affairs—6, 16, 19, 20, 24, 28; partnership matters—1, 12, 18, 24, 28; insurance activities—4, 9, 14, 18, 28; professional and business enterprises—6, 7, 15, 19, 24.

Critical Dates:—Personal and domestic matters—9, 11, 14, 24, 28; money dealings—1, 9, 16, 22, 30; short journeys—3, 10, 16, 23, 30; long journeys—1, 9, 16, 22, 30; real property matters, academical activities—1, 9, 16, 22, 30; speculation, children's prospects, love affairs—1, 5, 12, 15, 20, 24, 28; service affairs—6, 16, 19, 20, 24, 28; partnership matters—1 12, 18, 21, 28; insurance matters—3, 10, 16, 19, 22, 30; professional and business enterprises—5, 9, 18, 21, 25, 29.

NEED FOR RESEARCH IN ASTROLOGY

me that a certain Professor in the Gorakpur University has found in 100 cases studied, the Jaimini system of Balarishta Yogas being verified in 74 cases. In a science like astrology sometimes facts may lack analytical explanation but may be found by experiment to be true. In astrology, the difficulty of correct evaluation of a horoscope is always real because every horoscope has to be judged independently of other horoscopes even where they are somewhat similar.

"Despite the fact that some eminent men betray a haste and carelessness in dealing with astrology which would wreck their reputation if they did the same thing in any other department of knowledge and despite the fact they appear to be in the grip of a psychological urge to disallow what is distressingly unfamiliar, there are quite a number of honourable exceptions to this type of attitude. I have myself come across several men of science and of letters and persons in high walks of life who are not only conspicuously open-minded towards astrology, but have been carrying on research in the subject. In this connection I would particularly refer to three gentlemen: one a German scientist who was for some time Professor in the Indian Institute of Science, Bangalore and who is now in America; another a British scientist who was connected with a leading Indian University till recently and who sometimes writes articles to THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE under a pseudonym; and an Indian scientist who is occupying a topmost position today in the field of science. These gentlemen because of their official positions prefer to remain anonymous. It is not only individual scientists who are interested. Some institutions have been conducting astrological research for years such as the Clinic for Psychiatry and Neurology of the University of Innsbruck whose Rector Prof. H. Urban has written in respect of the horoscopes of patients he studied that "in some cases there were really astonishing congruencies." A significant development in recent years is that while some of our own astrologers have begun advocating the Sayana zodiac based on the vernal equinox, a large body of eminent astrologers in the West have now accepted the Nirayana or the sidereal zodiac which is undoubtedly the basis of Hindu astrology. A leading American astrological writer says: 'I deplore the years I wasted neglecting Hindu astrology by which is really meant Vimshottari Dasa technique. Now the dasa system has proven statistically valid.'

"In India, astrology had always occupied a unique place and found illustrious supporters. Many an enlightened ruler not only made use of astrology for the benefit of the country and the people but also encouraged its study. It is only after the advent and consolidation of British Power that for a time scepticism and derision were the predominating features characterising the intellectual equipment of a section of the then educated Indians who looked down upon astrology as fit for study only by unscientific minds. In fact the downfall of astrology appeared irremediable. It was at this time that my revered grandsire, the late Prof. B. Suryanarain Rao undertook the task of reviving the subject by diverting the thoughts of the Indian cultured public to the secrets of a unique class of phenomenon, hitherto the object of ridicule to others who passed for better minds under the convenient name of men of science. Today however, a great desire for serious study of astrology has overtaken the vast majority of our educated countrymen. Astrology is a national science and it is not clear why our present rulers have not been extending to its study and development the attention and encouragement it richly deserves, while immense sums are being spent on chimerical purposes. Is it necessary that we should still be looking to the West to be told that they endorse the hypothesis of astrology before we ourselves take up its study? We have set up a number of National Laboratories. Millions and millions of rupees are being spent upon them and all subjects from Psychology to Sarvodaya are receiving attention. Why then make an exception in the case of astrology? For instance, though scientists have not been able to account for Bode's Law in astronomy, which was entirely an intuitional generalisation on the part of Bode, astronomers have not shown any reluctance to use this law to explore space and discover more planet. An empirical rule which is found to be true in practice cannot be discarded simply because no analytical explanation is forthcoming. Behind each single success of science there lies a whole series of failures hidden from public gaze? Why should then we display indecent impatience in the case of verification of astrological facts? My submission is that our National Government should deal with astrology in the same manner that they have been dealing with other subjects for doing researches in which dozens of laboratories have sprung up.

"Friends have told me that the great City of Poona is not lagging behind in the matter of astrological studies and quite a lot of work is being done unostentatiously by the Graha Nakshatra Sanshodhan Mandal and that the output of astrological literature in Marathi is not inconsiderable. I venture to suggest that the Graha Nakshatra Phaladesh Sanshodhan Mandal would devote its attention to three important items: The first is to institute organised research in astrology by statistical study of horoscopes in the light of available authoritative astrological principles; the second is to bring to light valuable astrological books by ancient authors by translations into English so that the works of the Masters may be known to the astrologically interested all over the world; and the third and the most important item is to prevail on the Poona University to introduce chairs of Hindu astrology and Hindu astronomy.

"It also occurs to me that the Mandal may throw open the membership to all those interested in astrology from all over India and even abroad and that it should also hold annual examinations, prescribe qualifications for practising astrologers and issue diplomas for successful candidates. I would put forward one more suggestion for what it may be worth. In this land of the great Chatrapati Sivaji who rejuvenated our national spirit and our universally respected Dharma when it had been eclipsed by other evil forces, would it be much to expect that the Graha Nakshatra Phaladesh Sanshodhan Mandal under the inspiring guidance of its promoters, would prevail on the Government concerned to extend to astrology the same encouragement that is being given to other branches of knowledge. 'The system of licensing astrologers who possess a certain minimum knowledge and proficiency would go a long way towards improving the profession especially that in India there is a fair demand for the services of an astrologer and consequently plenty of room for quacks.' I wish the Mandal every success. In concluding this address, may I once again add how grateful I feel towards the Mandal for the great honour they have conferred on me in asking me to preside over this evening's function and to participate in the pleasant function of awarding titles to learned astrologers who have been keeping the flame of astrological learning alive.

"To scholars to whom I have just now had the privilege of handing over the titles, my submission is that they should devote themselves more and more to upholding and promoting the cause of astrology on right lines and thus show to the world that India possesses a department of knowledge really useful to mankind, if properly tackled."

24 Fri.—L.D. 4 till 6-15 a.m. then L.D. 5. Poorvabhadrapada till 10-25 p.m. then Uttarabhadrapada. A.M.: Highly favourable for all matters in general, changes, removals, journeys, business and professional matters, litigation, social activities, speculation, auspicious events. P.M.: Good for seeking benefits from influential person of the opposite sex, compromise and arbitration, journeys, new friends, assuming high position.

25. Sat.—L.D. 5 till 6-35 a.m. then L.D. 6. Uttarabhadrapada till 11-45 p.m. then Revati. A.M.: Not favourite in general; delays in matters, bad for new ventures, bad for dealings with female relatives, changes, removals, dealings in real property, investments. P.M.: Continues unfavourable, liability to accidents, disgrace or loss of reputation, losses through inferiors, servants.

26. Sun.—L.D. 6 till 7-30 a.m. then L.D. 7. Revati till 1-40 a.m. (night) then Aswini. A.M.: Favourable for all matters in general, excursions, pleasurable pursuits, courtship, love affairs, dealings with opposite sex in general, journeys, changes, political activities, dealings with Governmental or corporate bodies, contracts. P.M.: Mixed trends are present though conditions continue favourable for all of above but not for journeys, because of liability to accidents,

27. Mon.—L.D. till 8-50 a.m, then L.D. 8. Aswini till 3-50 a.m. (night) then Bharani. A.M.: Good for financial and business matters, journeys, speculation within limits, investments, dealings in real property, dealings with the public en masse. P.M.: Mixed trends are present but more unfavourable than good; bad for dealings with Governmental and corporate bodies, contracts, journeys, liability to losses in financial matters through fraud.

28. Tues.—L.D. 8 till 10-30 a.m. then L.D. 9. Bharani whole day and night. A.M.: Thoroughly evil for all purposes in general; likelihood of disappointments, frustrations, critical period; liability to be defrauded in money matters; speculation will bring heavy losses; check tendencies to extravagance, excessive desires or temptations. P.M.: Continues evil for all above purposes as also for occult matters, property investments, etc.

29. Wed.—L.D. 9 till 12-25 p.m. then L.D. 10. Bharani till 6-20 a.m. then Krittika. A.M.: Bad for journeys, correspondence, interviews, business interests, contracts, dealings with young people, superiors, money matters and enterprises; friends may become enemies. P.M.: More or less same conditions continue but much less unfavourable.

30. Thurs.—L.D. 10 till 2-25 p.m. then L.D. 11. Krittika till 8-55 a.m. then Rohini. A.M.: Not favourable generally; bad for journeys, liability to accidents, bad for dealings with opposite sex, courtships, love affairs, physical and athletic pursuits, sports, etc. P.M.: Favourable generally; good for dealings with Governmental and corporate bodies, contracts, business expansion, professional activities.

31. Fri.—L.D. 11 till 4-15 p.m. then L.D. 12. Rohini till 11-25 a.m. then Mrigasira. A.M.: Generally favourable, good for business activities, changes, removals, occult interests, dealings with Governmental or corporate bodies, contracts, journeys, correspondence, interviews, etc. P.M.: Becomes less favourable; bad for dealings with relatives, friends; avoid strange company and undesirable persons generally; resist temptation and morbid tendencies.

BRIHAT JATAKA

OF VARAHA MIHIRA

English Translation by Prof. B. Suryanarain Rao with original slokas in Bold Devanagari

(FOURTH EDITION)

This is a monumental work written by Varahamihira the versatile genius of the first century B.C. and deals with the entire Science of Astrology in a masterly way. Brihat Jataka, as the author rightly asserts, is intended as a boat for all those who at first get despirited at the sight of the vast ocean of astrological knowledge but who wish to cross the same.

The book contains the invaluable commentaries of Bhattotpala which have made clear many of the obscure passages. Prof. Rao has given copious notes in his own inimitable style which facilitates easy comprehension.

HOW IS THIS MONTH?

General.—Jupiter in ninth in transit is reputed to be a very powerful influence for good and this has become even proverbial. But he is the only favourable planet of the month and is also under check. Therefore not much is to be expected of this transit during this month at any rate, Mars is favourable for the greater part of the month, that is for the first three weeks till change of sign. But good or bad he too is under check throughout. Saturn in tenth is not outright good but it cannot be classed as downright evil either. Sun is good for second hlf and also free of vedha so long. Mercury and Venus are evil for the entire month but Mercury is under check. The result of all this will be that the general results for the month will be of a mixed character and the second half will prove somewhat better than the first. Success, gains, happiness, luxuries and comforts, favourable results in contentious matters like suits and litigation, triumph over rivals and enemies, auspicious events and celebrations, beneficial changes, etc., are the events probable for the month, especially during the second half. During the first half, sorrows, separation from relatives, harassment by enemies, ill-health and accidents may occur as also loss of position and dishonour. Of the three asterisms of the sign, those born under Uttarabhadrapada and Revati will fare better than those born under Poorvabhadrapada.

Health and Domestic.—Health for the month should prove to be good. Of course there may be some minor disturbances like colds, etc., but these will be negligible. During the first half there is a slight liability for accidents but this too is insignificant. Conditions in the domestic circle will be happy and harmonious with auspicious events and celebrations, meeting of relatives and friends. During the second half especially luxuries will be acquired and enjoyed. Agreeable and beneficial changes are probable and you may change to new and happier surroundings and environments, bringing increased pleasure and happiness.

Finance and Speculation.—With increased income, profits, etc., there will be also increased items of expenditure. There will be also a tendency to rash and extravagant expenditure which if judiciously controlled, may not create any difficult situation at all during the month. New ventures started during the month may not flourish up to expectations and considerable forethought should be made before launching into any enterprise of some major trade. Still speculation is not totally prohibited but even indulged in with great care may not produce adequate gains.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—Conflicting influences play upon all matters pertaining to real property so that no tangible good or evil is probable in this sphere during this month. Increased income as well as reduction in rentals and profits are indicated and the result in this as well as in other matters will be almost drawn. Quarrels and disputes are liable to arise inspite of your best efforts to remain peaceful but in the matter of going to court and litigating as to your rights you should exercise the utmost restraint. Though you may succeed ultimately it will cost you much time, expense and trouble. The services can confidently await favourable developments during the month, especially during the second half. There may be an increase in salary, success over rivals, new status, or new employment, all constituting beneficial changes in your service conditions, such as are likely to bring you mental satisfaction and happiness. So you should try to show your efficiency by doing good work and then you will exploit the good influences to the full. There will be increased returns for the businessmen and increased income for the profession.

Women.—The month is generally favourable for women also in respect of matters in which they are peculiarly interested by reason of their sex. All their affairs within the domestic sphere or in social circles will run smooth and give them thorough satisfaction, even in matters that are part of daily routine. Their relationship with others, members of their own sex or of the opposite, will be pleasant and harmonious and they may count on their support in all their activities. The month is also good for outings and excursions, courtship and love affairs. Many of the unattached are likely to be engaged even if they do not enter the matrimonial state within the month itself.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs—3, 7, 12, 16, 20, 28, 30; money dealings —1, 3, 6 (a.m.), 13 (a.m.), 16, 21, 25, 30; short journeys—4, 5, 8, 13 (a.m.), 21, 27; long journeys—1, 11, 15, 25, 28, 30; real property affairs and academical enterprises—4, 5, 8, 13, 21, 27, 30; speculation, children's prospects and love affairs–3, 7, 11, 15, 23, 25, 29; service affairs–3, 4, 9, 13, 23, 24, 29; partnership business—4, 5, 8, 13, 21, 27, 30; insurance activities—2, 7, 11, 15, 24, 29, 31; professional and business enterprises—3, 7, 12, 16, 20, 28, 30.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private affairs—1, 5, 15, 18, 21, 25, 29; money dealings–6, 13(p.m.), 20, 24, 28, 31; short journeys—3, 13, 16, 20, 27, 30; long journeys—6, 13 (p.m.), 20, 24, 28, 31; real property affairs and academical activities—1, 7, 11, 17, 24, 28; speculation, children's prospects and love affairs—3, 10, 13, 16, 20, 27, 30; service affairs–4, 8, 11, 15, 18, 26, 30; partnership activities—1, 7, 11, 17, 24, 28; insurance activities—3, 13, 16, 20, 27, 30; professional & business enterprises-1, 5, 15, 18, 21, 25, 29.

FUTURE OF FRANCE

THE historian's task is mainly that of looking back into the past and constructing a faithful record of events that have happened, and explaining why things happened in the manner they did. The astrologer's task is not only similar to that of the historian in interpreting the past events which he does in the light of astrological theories but also prediction of the future. When judgment of the future is called for, correct data are required, and it is this want of correct data that has always been a source of handicap for an astrologer to attempt future predictions in political matters. Dealing with the question of France in July 1958 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE, we no doubt suggested that the Moon's period would cause death to the Fourth Republic, while anticipating at the same time on the basis of General de Gaulle's approximate birth details that " large executive powers would be voted to an individual leader in 1959 " thus justifying the " complete breakdown of democratic institutions in France ". Most of these anticipations have been realised with the assumption of the Presidency by General de Gaulle. But there has been a certain time-lag because of the inadequate nature of the data employed. Relying on Press reports, we took the birth of the Fourth Republic on 24-12-1946 as at 3–11 p.m. (G.M.T.) whereas according to an esteemed French Correspondent, the Fourth Republic of France was founded on 30th October 1946 at about 3–30 p.m. (G.M.T.) This new data completely changes the pattern of the future, even though by virtue of certain similar combinations present in the two different charts, more or less similar conclusions on some matters can be drawn.

With the coming into power of Charles de Gaulle, the Fourth Republic died a natural death. It would be interesting to examine the checkered career of this unfortunate Republic. A student of history will not be slow in realising that the end of the Second World War saw a France militarily prostrate and morally collapsed. The Third Republic, whatever be its faults, lived at least for 70 years, until France laid down her arms in June 1940, when she fell a prey to German onslaughts. The horoscope of the Third Republic shows good longevity because of the disposition of the Sun lord of the 8th in the 8th, Mercury being exalted in the 9th and Yogakaraka Venus aspecting Lagna. It will be seen that Venus is with the political planet Sun while Mercury is in the 7th in debilitation. It cannot therefore be a coincidence that the end of the Republic was brought about by France being involved in a war. A Yogakaraka's association with the military planet Mars, no doubt gave France a vast overseas empire and enabled her to retain her hold on the empire because of neechabhanga of Mars. But the horoscope still lacked vitality especially that Saturn lord of Lagna is in association with Kethu, the Moon also being involved in the combination. Jupiter no doubt aspects the yoga, but Jupiter has become evil as lord of the 3rd and 12th and as occupying a martian constellation. In a national horoscope, the 12th indicates foes, quislings and losses. It was for want of national unity that France had to suffer defeat in the hands of Hitler. In the navamsa again, Saturn is not only debilitated but is further afflicted by the aspect of Mars. No statesman expected in 1938 or 1939 that the French Republic would collapse in 1940. That astrology did give some indications to this effect, becomes evident from the following prediction we had made in our book World Prospects in 1939 and 1940, published in 1937 :

"The conjunction of the Moon, Kethu aad Saturn in the 12th from the Ascendant augurs an unstable Republic...that must give place to monarchy or dictatorship. The future of France is not as good as it should be. 1940 is one of the likely periods for any sudden developments in the French political world". And it was in 1940 that France collapsed in her war with Hitler with the signing of the Franco-German armistice. Dealing with the Armistice horoscope in December 1941 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE we wrote as follows :

"The time at which Franco-German Armistice was concluded is decidedly favourable to the Allies. Inspite of trials and tribulations this great nation will suffer due to German occupation, the unquenchable spirit of her people will make itself felt and she will survive the present fearful onslaught. Jupiter's entry into Cancer will be quite favourable for this great nation. Though France will suffer from strife, internal revolutions, unrest and dissatisfaction in army and navy, the French people will extend support to the Free-French movement of General de Gaulle". Subsequent happenings are a matter of history. In giving these extracts from our earlier writings, we would like to inform our readers that given correct data, it is possible astrologically to anticipate with a fair degree of accuracy the trend of national and international events.

That the Fourth Republic was born under unfavourable circumstances, becomes clear from the pattern of the horoscope given below, even though prima facie the horoscope appears to be quite strong. Lord of Lagna Saturn is in the 6th, the sign of the Moon. Whatever the faults, the Republic brought to the French people a great degree of individual prosperity. Saturn the democratic planet is not afflicted. "In its foreign policy the Fourth Republic started the first step towards European and North Atlantic integration. Hesitantly it started an enlightened policy in its African Colonies south of Sahara. It recognised the independence of its former Protectorates of Moracco and Tunisia". The Moon in a common sign—here it is the volatile and violent Sagittarius—with the secondary planet Mandi indicates a psychologically unstable foundation for the Republic. It is in the sub-period of the Moon in Venus major period that the first cloud of war appeared on the horizon of Indo-China. During the sub-period of Mars—lord of the 10th in the 10th but afflicted especially in navamsa, France rushed from crisis to achievement and from achievement to crisis. Rahu in the fourth is said to make one "a fool causing him sorrow". It was during Rahu's sub-period when U.S.S.R. threatened blockade of Berlin that the "French allowed themselves to be persuaded to propose a European army". Rahu's sub-period also saw another increase in the "already dangerous inflation", and France had to face an election. Jupiter as lord of the 2nd and 11th is in the 9th or house of fortune in conjunction with the Sun who is debilitated but is also neechabanga.

With the dawn of Jupiter's sub-period France seemed to be emerging from the shadow of her worst difficulties. Under the same directional influences Mendes France came to power and outlined a programme of his own to "cure the chronic inflation". Jupiter rules the 2nd or house of finance. He introduced drastic cuts in military appropriations. Consistent with the 'peaceful' nature of Jupiter there was also the cessation of hostilities in France's overseas possessions. Saturn's situation in the 6th generally indicates subduing of enemies, display of courage and increase of self-respect. As soon as Saturn's sub-period commenced, Mendes France again came to power, sought a new European army agreement and tried to solve the Franco-Tunisian tensions. But Saturn's situation in the 8th from the Moon and his occupying the constellation of Mercury—a maraka from Chandra Lagna saw the early fall of Mendes France and breaking out of serious trouble in her colonies and she had to fight a sordid and vicious war in Algeria. It was again under the same directional influences that the Government in France "was bankrupt", and that the "wild Suez adventure, the mounting irresponsible intransigence of the Algerian colonials, the grim desperation of harassed and abandoned professional troops and the juvenile prospecting and posturing of apprentice dictators all around the scene took place". And as soon as the sub-period of Mercury commenced, de Gaulle arrived on the scene and with his election as President, collapsed the Fourth Republic. In other words maraka or death happened in the major period of Venus and the sub-period of Mercury. Both the major and sub-lords are in the 12th from Chandra Lagna in the constellation of Saturn who though Lagnadhipathi is a maraka from Chandra Lagna. As a death-inflicting lord, Saturn's transit of Dhanus coupled with that of Rahu in Libra over the position of debilitated Sun the inevitable collapse of the Republic had to come.

What are the prospects for the Fifth Republic, which according to usually authoritative sources came into being on 6th October 1958 at 6 21 p.m. (Summer Time) at Paris? We cannot vouchsafe for the correctness of the time.

Assuming the Presidency of the Fifth Republic, General de Gaulle set about his self-imposed task of restoring France "to national greatness" and if need be "impose" what the public good demands. The greatness of a nation, as that of an individual rests on the disposition of the 10th house. Here Jupiter is both the lord of Lagna and the 10th but he is in the 8th in association with Rahu. In navamsa, Jupiter is not much afflicted. The 10th house itself is aspected by Mars, and this is good so far as it goes, as Mars is lord of the 2nd and 9th. But Mars himself is afflicted due to the aspect of Saturn lord of the 11th and 12th. These dispositions of planets denote that General de Gaulle would not hesitate to take even unpopular measures to impose what he considers good for the people, but his courage in the economic field will be matched by his political hesitancy in the matter of "Colonies" which are now asserting their independence. The 5th lord Moon is unafflicted but is in a common and mercurial sign and is Vargottama and occupies the constellation of Jupiter. Therefore the Republic will have clear-cut ideas as to what measures she should adopt at home and what policies she should follow with France's associates and friends. The French will no doubt play their part in raising themselves to a new pitch of national endeavour. Saturn the planet of democracy is no doubt in the 9th but his being aspected by Mars, is not a favourable augury for democracy. The vote for de Gaulle is undoubtedly an expression of the shift to a rightist position and reflects the mood of a large number of the French people—a mood of indifference or disgust with democracy.

The 7th house is interestingly disposed. The 7th lord Mercury (who incidentally also happens to be lord of Chandra Lagna) is exalted in the 7th occupying the constellation of the Moon. This disposition is highly favourable to restore French power and prestige as it denotes considerable activity in foreign affairs, commercial agreements and diplomatic gains. But what is disquieting is the association of Venus, lord of the 3rd and 8th and therefore a malefic lord. Venus is neechabhanga. Mercury is also in association with the Sun lord of the 6th. Thus there is considerable affliction centered on the 7th; the Sun, Venus and Mercury being in the constellation of the Moon lord of the 5th acts as some sort of a check. It looks as though France will be guilty of diplomatic blunders, breaking of treaties, and a general disagreement in international matters. There is no astrological evidence that the new Government will do anything materially to alter the situation so far as her involvements in the NATO, etc., are concerned. There will be entente with Israel. France will continue to stand with the West but it goes with strong suspicion of American policies. Africa will give France quite a lot of headache. The affliction of the 6th house is also severe due to the aspect of both Mars and Saturn. Therefore while the internal policy—wages, prices, housing and unemployment—will be the preoccupation of the Government, there will be strong dissatisfaction among the working class resulting in strikes, closure of factories and labour demonstrations. Despite all this, the new Government will issue some measures to encourage collective bargaining and sharing of productivity gains. It is interesting to note that the French suspicion of German aims and policies will be the main cause for want of real rapproachment between Germany and France. Apart from the Fifth Republic, General de Gaulle himself has a powerful horoscope which clearly indicates that French policy will gain self-confidence and capacity for decision that was so signally lacking during the last decade.

The Republic horoscope has a balance of Jupiter's Dasa for about 5 years and 14 days. Jupiter, we have already seen, though Lagnadhipathi, is considerably afflicted not only by occupying the house of an enemy but being in association with Rahu. Moreover, Jupiter is also in the constellation of Rahu. From Chandra Lagna, he happens to be a maraka. Jupiter's Dasa ends in 1963. Especially in 1962, after the commencement of Rahu's sub-period, there is a likelihood of dramatic political changes and serious confusion in France leading almost to collapse of the Fifth Republic. France, it occurs to us is not destined for the eminence de Gaulle has dreamed of for her; but she will certainly be able to play a constructive part in the world affairs besides raising her own greatness and pride.

Karma and Planetary Influences

THE difference in the planetary influences and the fortunes and misfortunes of being human or otherwise, are delicate and complicated. The Karma and the planetary influences are two different matters and ought not to be confounded. If planets alone influenced the human affairs, and if they are the dictators of the production of all the terrestrial phenomena, then no higher duties need be approached and religion of a sublime form would dwindle into the common place researches of the Physical Science. Divine vibrations are beyond the ken of ordinary men. They require a study and thought, a practice and perseverance, an insight and a genius, ordinary sciences could not conceive of. From the so-called known we have to proceed to the unknown and unknowable with the ordinary knowledge men have at their command. What is then Karma, what is man and what are the planetary influences? These are questions of deep importance. If there is any connection between causes and effects, if the one is related to the other, in however a remote way, if the superior energies working in their own mysterious ways, bring molecules together and produce all the natural phenomena, if the guiding power in all these cases has a system by which the inferior is moulded after the methods of the superior and if causes and effects again reproduce causes and effects then we will not be unreasonable in drawing certain inferences based on the premises warranted by the close study of such causes and effects. In the regions of philosophy and higher principles of sciences the arguments do not appear to be so plain to the ordinary minds as the principles of lower forms of logic appear to be. In fact, our own argument now appears to be vague and unintelligible. We shall make these clear by illustrations. We have on this terrestrial plane creatures of all grades and temperaments; on the celestial plane we have planets of different colors, form, power, influence and dimensions and Karma of most complicated, confusing and inexplicable natures. The human governments, relations among nations, communities and societies, authority of parents and other elders over their juniors and dependents, and in fact the Divine Rights of so-called persons and powers to regulate, govern and guide others of lesser physical or mental capacity and developments have been supposed to be based on the principle that they are all organised on the model of Divine Institution and Divine Influence. When summarised this comes to the simple proposition that whatever we see on the earth have been modelled after the divine fashion, and the proverb man is made in the image of God seems to be believed by the most enlightened individuals. If this be so then we shall examine the above three items calmly and in a fair spirit of inquiry and research. A man lives in a society modelled by local, political and natural conditions and he is affected by them entirely on the principle of his past and present Karma. Say, he lives in a cold country, in a republic and in a certain community and a certain family. He is mostly regulated by the conditions surrounding him as affected by his own Karma (acts, deeds, speeches and thoughts) towards them. Say he lives in the midst of dacoits and is surrounded by their methods. Here the same relationship holds good. If he finds his surroundings good he lives in accordance with them and he turns out to be a good man. The balance of his previous good Karma induced him to take birth in that land and to live in the midst of good people and his surroundings add much stimulus to the tendency he has to be good by his past Karma. He lives in a bad country and surrounded by bad people and governed by tyrannical rulers. To be born in such a country is the result of his previous bad Karma and his own tendency to be bad (by the momentum, imparted to his indisposition to do bad by his past evil Karma) is greatly augmented by the nature of his surroundings. This is due to certain previous causes, which cannot be fully explained or understood. If planets influence us in every way, hold us in their tremendous grips, and compel us to do bad then certainly the suggested murderers, rogues and dacoits may set up the simple defence before the judges when brought up for trial for their criminal acts, that as the evil planets in their horoscopes induced them to do bad Karma, they simply obeyed their mighty momentum, and that they are not responsible for their wicked deeds, but that their powerful abettors the evil planets, if at all, who compelled them to commit bad Karma must be held responsible and punished. Let us take an example.

The man's morality has to be judged by the 10th and 4th houses, their lords and the planets occupied or aspected by them. The horoscope is that of a man who is well known to us and therefore the characteristics here described are not imaginary or delusive. The 4th house is occupied by its lord Venus. Mars his enemy is there and Saturn the most evil among the planets aspects the 4th house. There is the aspect of Moon too. Lagna is aspected by Saturn an evil planet. The man led a most immoral life, had complicated forms of venereal diseases and lost the power among some of his limbs and sight by such diseases. Suppose he pleaded, when brought to trial that he could not help committing adultery as the planets in the 4th made him commit bad Karma and that as the influences were very powerful he could not resist them and that he should be excused for his evil deeds and that Sani, Kuja and Sukra should be held responsible and punished for making him lead an immoral life. He may further with reason plead that when he is held in the grip of a very powerful man, made to steal or do some other criminal deed by force and carried away by such power, could the law justly hold him responsible for his acts and could he reasonably be punished for what he was so powerfully forced to do much against his will. In the latter example, though there may be no will, the physical force compelled both body and its weak mind to do that which he ought not to do, and omit that which he was bound to do as a matter of duty. In the physical plane the body more than the mind undergoes the compulsion, and as we cannot expect all men to be generally proof against evil temptations, they comply with the impulses of the physical forces for want of that strong determination of mind which defies all physical evil including terrible pain and even death. But on the mental plane the matter is still worse. If the planets influence all phenomena objective and subjective, visible and invisible, then men have no minds to call their own, which would act independently, which will have power to resist the physical as well as the mental temptations, and which could be regulated with reference to planetary influences. Man, physical and mental, is a mystery of mysteries, wonder of wonders, and a confounded complication and confusion. His physique has been examined for so many thousands of years and still it is a great mystery which has received no satisfactory solution, and whose innermost workings and methods have yet to be analysed and understood. No physicist or chemist can come forward and assert that he has understood the physical composition of man or for that matter the tiniest of living beings. He is moping and groping in profound darkness of the physical nature of man and probably he has to do so for a numberless centuries more.

ASTROLOGY TODAY

The Astrological Research Associates, New York, writes :

This is an inquiry among people seriously interested in astrology conducted by the Astrological Research Associates. The findings will be incorporated in a thesis which Mrs. Marcia Roof as analyst is writing for a Radcliffe College degree, and will be published in the Astrological Quarterly Journal, In Search.

We are glad to say that the following prominent astrologers have allowed us to use their names as Sponsors of this project. They will not see the questionnaires.

B. V. Raman, Editor,
The Astrological Magazine.
Charles E.O. Carter
Dr. Marc E. Jones
Margaret Morrell
Carl Payne Tobey
Dane Rudhyar
Brigadier R.C. Firebrace, C.B.E.
Margaret E. Hone.

This is the first international survey of astrologers and its statistical and scientific value depends entirely on your co-operation.

We fully realize the limitations of this or any survey. Our questions are designed to elicit some of the collective attitudes and ideas of those most concerned with the validity and practice of astrology. We hope the results will give an overall picture of how astrologers today think and feel about certain general issues. You may find, therefore, that it does not allow much scope for you to express the many subtleties inherent in your own individual approach to the art. This is a necessary compromise. The questionnaire will be supplemented by personal interviews with persons eminent in the field and a general discussion of the significance of astrology today, and we will make a sincere effort to reintegrate the findings within the larger context of astrological thought. Questionnaires and other particulars will be sent on application to Astrological Research Associates, 310, EAST 9TH STREET, NEW YORK-3, N.Y., U.S.A.

INTERNATIONAL CONGRESS OF ASTRO-SCIENCE

It is learnt that Mr. K. S. Sastry, Asian representative of Astrologers' International Ltd., and Director, Astrological Research Centre, Jalgaon, will attend the International Congress of Astro-Science to be held at New York from 2nd to 11th October 1959, along with Mr. Dhananjay of Mehsana and Mr. G. D. Tikale of Ahmedabad.

Mr. Kasturi Srinivasan

IT is with deep regret that we have to refer to the death of Mr. K. Srinivasan, Editor of The Hindu, on 22nd June 1959. At a time when the maintenance of a good and proper Press in India is in danger, the passing away of Mr. Srinivasan is an immense loss for India. Knowing him as we did rather intimately for nearly quarter of a century, it would be difficult for us to write anything about him with detachment. He was a dynamic personality, always calm, cool and collected; a keen student of human nature and capable of instinctively judging persons. When he once formed an opinion about a person, he would stick to it, no matter what others might think. A man of varied activities and cultural tastes, astrology held for him a special interest and a special significance. Perhaps very few people must be aware of the fact that he was not only a keen student of astrology and a patron of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE but had developed certain theories of his own, which he used to discuss with us whenever we had opportunity to meet. The Press and the public have already paid high tributes to Mr. Srinivasan's qualities of head and heart, his contribution to the cause of Indian freedom and the encouragement he unstintingly extended towards the development of music, education and Indian Culture in general. He richly deserves all that has been said of him in the Press. But there is one facet of his life which has not been referred to by the leading public figures of the country, and that is, his keen interest for the development of astrology on proper lines. Though an advocate of the Sayana system in 1940's, he became gradually convinced that the Nirayana system is the true basis of Hindu astrology. He had a special fascination for the Jaimini methodology.

As our friend Dr. R. Naga Raja Sarma has observed in The Hindu of 24th June, "another fundamental characteristic of Mr. Srinivasan lay in his uncanny and surprisingly singular genius for friendship. His friends came from all ranks and strata".

Mr. Srinivasan was born on 7th August 1887 at 1-20 p.m. (L.M.T.) at Coimbatore.

The strength of the lagna is of supreme importance whatever the bhava under consideration. In this case, the lagna and the lord are very powerful. What are the strong combinations for wealth and affluence in this chart? While the 2nd indicates wealth in general and the 9th the extent of wealth, the source of earning it comes from the 10th. Thus in judging the degree of wealth, one must note the connection between the 2nd, 9th, 10th and 11th houses. The first and the foremost combination in this horoscope is the presence of a powerful Adhi Yoga. The 2nd lord aspects powerfully the lord of lagna while the latter aspects powerfully the 2nd house. These two sets of combinations have fortified 'wealth' considerably. The 11th is occupied by Venus, who though in debilitation is strengthened by the fact that he is in the Sun's constellation. The situation of Saturn and the Sun (as lords of the 4th and 9th and hence causing a Raja Yoga), whilst having its own evil significance, is not without considerable strength in inducing flow of wealth and prestige. Mars is almost abutting on the 9th house and hence is highly fortified. Viewing from the Moon, we find that the 2nd lord Mars is in the 4th aspecting the 10th while the lord of Chandra Lagna and the 10th (Jupiter) aspects Mars. These mutual aspects between the 2nd lord and lagna or the 2nd house and the lagna lord always express themselves in terms of influx of considerable wealth. This is a combination the importance of which is hardly recognised by the average astrologer. The native was a newspaper magnate having to do with labour, machinery and trade. Mark the inter-relations between Saturn, the Sun and Mercury. Since Saturn has caused a Raja Yoga powerful gain by labour, responsibility and investments is indicated. The Sun indicates political influence and Mercury rules trade and journalism. No wonder he should be able to command immense influence with the ruling classes and the newspaper world. The 10th house is Leo, a fiery sign. Rahu is the planet of machinery. When a fiery sign happens to be in the 10th house, a profession involving dealings with factories, printing machines, etc., is shown. The appropriate blending of the influences of Leo, Saturn, the Sun, Rahu and Mercury—a great journalist wielding much influence amongst classes indicated by the Sun, bearing the qualities of Mercury and coming into contact everyday with persons and properties indicated by Saturn—is noticeable. Mercury gave the subject tact and a clear mind, with fertility of resource, fluent speech and retentive memory.

The Sun is a creative planet. He rules aristocrats, kings and monarchs, persons highly placed in life, high political dignitaries, etc. Mercury rules authors, printers, booksellers and Saturn governs hawkers, factory and machinery workers. The blending of all these forces in a harmonious manner—the foci in this case being the 9th and 10th houses—has given an impetus to the financial aspect of the horoscope. When a point of contact is established between the lords of the 1st and 9th, fortune in general seems to receive an impetus. This goes under name of Lakshmi Yoga. Jupiter lord of Chandra Lagna powerfully aspects Mars lord of the 2nd and Lakshmi Yoga is given rise to. The horoscope brings in to relief an important astrological maxim that for a successful blending of Saturnine and Mercurian influences coupled with the fact lagna should also be strong while an equally strong disposition of the Sun would render the native to be equally influential in high political circles.

The horoscope reveals he had mental ambitions applied to universal services, philosophic outlook in tune with steady mind, tactful yet independent, studious and responsive to new thought, sympathetic towards others, human tendencies are marked. Mars in the 3rd from Karakamsa made him brave and unyielding but not unsympathetic. Venus in the 11th gave him an aesthetic sense of appreciation, an ear for music and a taste for fine arts. The horoscope in question is indeed a remarkable one, as the

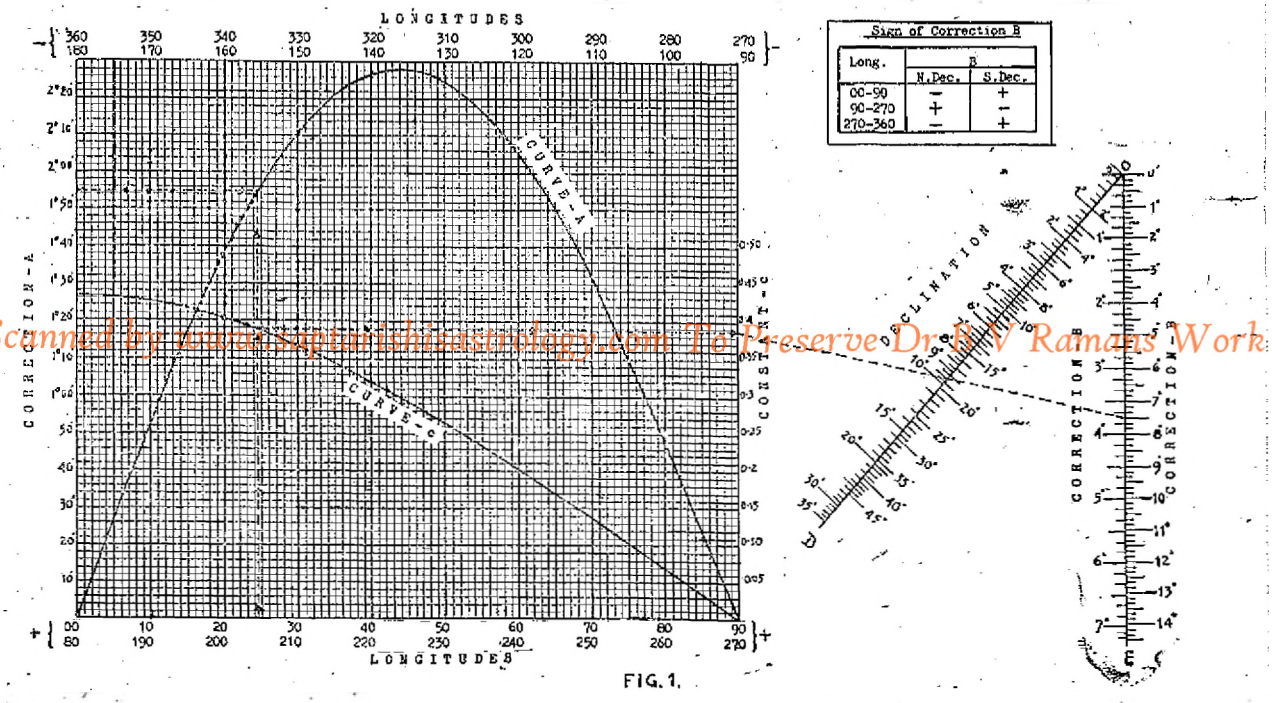
Calculation of the Mundoscope

BY K. M. KHAREGAT

THE Mundoscope is a figure of the heavens cast for the actual mundane positions of the heavenly bodies at a parcular instant of time. It is similar to a horoscope as it is usually cast, except that in the latter only the zodiacal or ecliptic longitudes of the bodies are tabulated. In some cases there may be considerable differences in the positions of the bodies shown in the two diagrams. For instance, in the mundoscope the planet Pluto may be well below the horizon, as it actually is, whereas in the ordinary horoscope it may be charted as being above the horizon and in the 7th house. The difference arises from the fact that in the horoscope, the latitudes of the heavenly bodies are neglected, whereas in the mundoscope all these factors are taken account of, and the actual physical positions of the bodies represented in relation to the meridian of the locality, only of course in so far as three dimensional configurations can be represented on a plane.



It had long been the practice of Western astrologers to use the mundane positions of the planets for prognostication, but latterly it had completely fallen into disuse, despite the fact that it is the only correct way to draw a horoscope and study the relations between the planets. The revival of the practice of considering mundane positions as an adjunct to the horoscope is due to Mr. Cyril Fagan, and it is not the least of the many debts we owe to this distinguished research astrologer. I believe even the very word "mundoscope" was coined by him. To calculate the mundoscope however requires extensive trigonometrical calculations which are time-consuming and quite beyond the capacity of the ordinary practising astrologer to compute. It is the intention of this article to remedy this defect and supply the astrologer with graphical aids by which he can construct a mundoscope with very little calculation and so rapidly that after a little practice, he will be able to cast a mundoscope in less time than he will take to chart a horoscope.

It must be borne in mind that only the Sayana positions of the planets are to be considered in the mundoscope and if the reader uses a Nirayana ephemeris like Lahiri's he must convert all longitudes to their equivalent Sayana degrees by adding the appropriate Ayanamsa. The horoscope, of course, may be cast in any system the reader favours.

I. Calculation of the Right Ascension.—It is a pity that the Ephemerides in common use amongst astrologers like Raphael's or Lahiri's do not give the right ascensions of the planets along with their longitudes. Evidently these compilers are very orthodox people, since some time back I had written to them showing how they could accommodate this extra information without increasing the bulk of their publications, but I did not receive even an acknowledgment in reply! The Nautical Almanacs give the RAs but it is beyond the reach of the ordinary practitioner. So he must learn to find out the RAs from the published data, until such time as the Ephemeris makers wake up from their sleep. Unfortunately, this requires the use of logarithms and cosine tables and this frightens him. The use of Fig. 1 will make the process simple. Only two corrections A & B have to be applied to the longitude to obtain the RA. The first correction A is given by the curve A. The longitude of the planet is sought at the bottom or top of the figure, then a vertical line is erected from this longitude up (or down) until it meets the curve. Then from the meeting point a line is taken horizontally to the left to read the amount of the correction A in degrees and minutes If the figure is entered from the bottom, the corection is +, if from the top it is negative, e.g., what is the correction A for longitude 24° 31′? The dotted lines with the arrows show how the chart is used in this particular instance. We enter at 24½ at the bottom, and read the figure 1° 55′ at the left where the line and curve meet; and it is positive. The same correction applies for a longitude of 204° 31′. Again the same amount of correction but with a negative sign applies for longitudes 155° 29′ and 335° 29′ (since now we enter the chart from the top). To obtain the second correction B, again enter the figure with the given longitude and proceed up or down until the curve c is reached. Then turn right from the meeting place and read the value of c at the right. Now take a ruler (a transparent plastic one would be preferable) and lay its edge at the value of c and in such a manner that its edge also passes through the given declination marked on the inclined line OD. Then the ruler edge will cut the vertical line OE in the required value of the correction B. Again the dotted line shows the procedure in the case where the longitude is 24° 31′ and the declination is 9° 31′. Since 9° 31′ is found on the left of the inclined line the amount of correction B is to read from the figures on the left of the vertical line. If, on the other hand, the figure for the declination lies on the right side of the inclined line, the value for the correction must likewise be sought on the right side of the vertical line. In the case given, namely 24° 31′ longitude and 9° 31′ declination, the correction is 3° 44′. Had the dec. been 18° 34′ (the dotted line cutting the inclined line on the right) the correction would have been 7° 30′ (the figure on the right). 5° or less, it is sufficiently exact to multiply the minutes in the declination by the factor c to get the correction B. On the other hand when the value of the constant c is very low say less than 0.10 the straight edge of the ruler will cross the inclined line OD at an acute angle and so make accurate readings difficult. In such cases also the correction c multiplied by the minutes in the declination will give the correction B in minutes. All this has taken long to describe, but once the reader has become accustomed to reading the chart, he can get the two corrections in a matter of seconds; and so get the RA without any trigonometry whatever. The chart has been so constructed that the RAs of many of the extra zodiacal stars can also be obtained. It is recommended that as far as possible the figures on the left side of OD be used. The RAs obtained from the chart should not be in error by more than 3′ if care be taken, and this is sufficiently exact for all practical purposes; but if the reader is not skilled in reading charts the error may be more. In such cases if he wants greater exactness, a simple procedure will give him the RA accurately. He must procure a table of natural trigonometric functions to at least four figures, and these cost only a few annas. Then add and subtract the latitude of the planet to and from the longitude, and take the sum of the cosines of the angles so obtained. Also add and subtract the declination from the RA obtained from the chart and similarly add the cosines of the two angles so obtained. The two totals must be the same, if our RA is correct. If not, a few trials by adding or subtracting 2–3′ will soon give us the correct RA. As an example, the longitude of the moon is 10° 56′ Taurus (40° 56′) its declination is 12° 54′ N. and its latitude is 2° 20′ S. What is its RA? En-

Careful attention should be paid to the sign of B. A table showing the sign to be used is shown in the figure at the top. Then RA = longitude + correction A + correction B. In our cases if dec. be north: RA = 24° 31′ + 1° 55′ − 3° 44′ = 22° 42′; or RA = 155° 29′ − 1° 55′ + 3° 44′ = 157° 18′. If the dec. had been south the RAs would have been 24° 31′ + 1° 55′ + 3° 44′ = 30° 10′ or 155° 29′ − 1° 55′ − 3° 44′ = 149° 50′. If the value of the declination is tering the chart, correction A we read as 2° 27′, the constant c is 0.315, from which we read correction B is 4° 05′. So our computed RA = 40° 56′ + 2° 27′ − 4° 05′ = 39° 18′. We now check:

cos	38° 36′	=	0.78152
	Total	...	1.50969
cos	52° 12′	=	0.61291
cos	26° 24′	=	0.89571
	Total	...	1.50862
cos	52° 09′	=	0.61360
cos	26° 21′	=	0.89610
	Total	...	1.50970

The second total does not equal the first, but is slightly smaller, indicating that our assumed RA is a little in error. So we take a slightly smaller value of the RA and by taking it as 35° 15′, we get the third total which exactly equals the first. The true value therefore of the RA is 39° 15′.

II. To find the Domal Longitude.—The domal longitude of a heavenly body gives its position in the mundoscope taking the midheaven as 0°. Fig. 2 simplifies the determination of this longitude for all places on the earth situated between 19° and 60° latitudes. Before starting to use the chart the reader is recommended to study it carefully and see which lines mean what and to note the following points: (1) The longitude is required for a certain instant of time, and the sidereal time or RAMC is calculated for that time in the usual manner; call it ST. (2) The hour angle of the body must next be determined. This is equal to the sidereal time ST, less the RA of the body. If the remainder exceeds 180° or 12 hours, subtract the ST from the RA. In the first case the body is in the western half of the mundoscope, and its hour angle, H, is +; if the latter it is in the eastern half and H is negative. (3) The domal longitudes obtained are to the west or east of the meridian according as H is positive or negative. (4) Latitude lines, are the oval lines and are given rising by 1° from 19° to to 30°, thereafter by 2° to 40° and after that by 5° to 60°; with a special curve for London marked in dotted lines. (5) The hour angle lines are curves which look like radii, and are drawn for each 5° or 20 minutes differences in H; they can be used indifferently for positive or negative values of H and can be used directly when the RA is expressed in hours and minutes, and H so calculated. (6) The measure of the declination of the body is shown along the base line. (7) The domal longitudes should be read in degrees on the outermost curved line. The chart has been primarily meant for use in the northern latitudes, but it can be readily adapted for use in southern latitudes merely by changing the sign of the declination, that is changing north to south and vice versa and then using the chart as drawn.

To use the chart, first locate the point on the base line where the declinations are marked. Then locate the point of intersection between the hour angle and latitude lines; if the given values of these items are not marked on the chart (and they rarely will be) interpolate between the two relevant curves. Join the declination point and the interpolated point by a straight line. From the centre O draw a parallel line to this line until it cuts the outermost circle and read the required domal longitude there.

An example will make the procedure clear. What is the domal longitude in latitude 35° N. of a body with 22° N. declination, and an hour angle of 52°? We first locate the intersection of the interpolated curves of 35° latitude and 52° of H. This point is shown by a small circle on the chart. Then connect by a straight line this point with the declination point, this is done by the broken line on the chart. Next draw a parallel line to this from 0 (see upper dotted line) until it cuts the outermost circle in 47°, which is the longitude required. (Actual calculation will give the longitude as 46° 57′.)

For those readers who do not know how to draw even parallel lines, the following modification might be of use. Procure a 6″ protractor on a transparent base such as schoolboys use for their geometry lessons. Lay its base line on the base line of the chart with its centre on the point indicating the declination and its 0° on the left or at the top. Now take a transparent ruler and join the declination and the interpolated points and read the degrees at which the edge of the ruler crosses the protractor edge. This degree is the domal longitude. The accuracy with which results are obtained depends on the first instance on the accuracy with which the interpolation if effected between the curves. For people unaccustomed to the use of charts, interpolation between rapidly expanding or contracting lines might appear puzzling and errors or at least inaccuracies might be frequent. For such people the wisest course would be to get the domal longitudes where the two nearest curves actually cross and then interpolate in the figures of the two domal longitudes so obtained. For instance, in the above example we may proceed like this:

0	H=50°	H=55°	Interpolated Value of L
34°	45.3	49.4	46.94
36°	45.4	49.4	47.00

Therefore at latitude 35° interpolating between the last two values, L=46°.97′ or 46° 58′ (actual value is 46° 57′).

The 1962 Eight-Planet Combination & World Affairs—A Symposium

[As readers are aware, there is going to be a combination of eight planets in Capricorn (Aquarius according to Sayana or the Movable Zodiac), on 2nd February 1962. The subject has been dealt with by us not only in August 1957 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE under the caption The Third World War, but reference has also been made to this great concentration of force in one part of the heavens, in our inaugural address to the All-Kerala Astrological Association, at Trichur. This unique celestial combination seems to have excited the curiosities of a large section of the educated public to such an extent that many of them have suggested the subject being discussed in a more detailed manner.

Those intending to participate in this symposium can prepare a suitable paper and send the same for publication. It is left entirely to one's discretion whether to interpret the combination astrologically or astronomically, on the basis of the Nirayana or Fixed Zodiac or Sayana or Movable Zodiac. You have to set out what in your opinion, are the likely results to happen as a consequence of this eight-planet combination in the world as a whole; with reference to the different countries; and/or in regard to individuals born in different signs. All points of view—whether based on ancient classical writings or on modern western texts or on one's own experience, are welcome.

PAPER No. 7—BY V. THIRUVENKATACHARYA, M.A., B.T.

IT is really very good of the Editor of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE to have invited a symposium of articles discussing the astrological effect of this extraordinary conjunction in Sayana Kumbha Rasi.

As a matter of fact, all the planets known to the ancients form a conjunction with a simultaneous solar eclipse, the effect of which must be very powerful. Uranus and Neptune send their malefic rays to the conjunction sign. Dr. P. S. Sastri has made the first contribution in the April 1959 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE in which he has drawn some very interesting conclusions.

In the Nirayana Chart, Makara —the sign of conjunction—is a watery sign according to us; but it is not fully watery. The learned Editor naturally infers upheavals in the watery regions of our mother earth and interception in the sea-routes. The combination is so powerful that the upheavals will be in all spheres of terrestrial life.

Our sages say that a new era begins when such a combination takes place in Aries (Mesha), the changes being most significant when the conjunction takes place in a single point. On such an occasion, creation itself is said to start.

At the end of the Krita Yuga, the mean positions of the planets are said to coincide at the beginning of Mesha Rasi—the first point of Aries.

अस्मिन्कृतयुगस्यान्तो सर्वेमध्यगताग्रहा: ।
विनातुपातमन्दोच्चान्मेषादौ तुल्यतामिताम: ।

"At the end of the Krita Yuga, the mean positions of all the planets excepting the nodes and the Mandochachas coincide at the first point of Mesha".

When the apparent positions coincide with the nodes, there must be Mahapralaya according to our sages. A conjunction of a general type—but not single-point—occurs in Sayana Kumbha Rasi, which should naturally bring about tremendous changes in our mode of life. What they are, we shall try to understand.

The Great Conjunction:—The great conjunction takes place on 5-2-1962 at 3-16 a.m. (I.S.T.). It is also the moment of a solar eclipse.

As per Sayana the planetary positions in Kumbha are as follows:—

Mars 2° 12'; Saturn 3° 45; Sun, Moon 15° 37'; Mercury 16° 54' R; Venus 17° 39; Kethu 18° 11'; Jupiter 18° 35'; Neptune in Vrischika 13° 26'; and Uranus in Leo 29° 2'.

(a) Effects—India:—Charity begins at home and naturally we would like to study the effects on India first. The moment of solar eclipse may be taken as the moment of conjunction even though one should say that the effect has begun when Moon comes in conjunction with Kuja on 4-2-1962 at 6-42 a.m. (I.S.T.). At Delhi then, 23° Scorpio is on the M.C. and 15° Kumbha is rising which is a Vargottama position making it powerful either for good or bad.

The meridian is afflicted by Rahu-Uranus mid-point indicating political upheavals. I have already pointed out years ago that Congress influence will begin to wane after 1960; and it behoves the Congress to set its house in order and reorientate its policy to pass over the serious crisis.

Lagna indicating the people is in Vargottama position with its lord in the lagna. There will be unexpected changes in the country. The proximity of Guru is a good augury; but the square aspect of Neptune indicates unconventional methods and subversive activities.

Neptune in the 10th house indicates loss of reputation to the ruling classes. It should be noted that Neptune is badly afflicted and so it is quite possible that a new party may come to power at Delhi.

5-2-1962 is a day of solar eclipse and at 3-16 a.m. (I.S.T.) 29° Kanya is on the meridian with 16° of Dhanus rising at Delhi. The meridian is afflicted by the Sun and the Moon and the lagna is having the malefic aspect from Kuja and the benefic aspects from the five other planets strengthening the earlier influences. There will be political changes of a significant nature leading to economic changes for the advantage of the common man even though this change will cause some inconvenience to him in the initial stages.

Scanned by www.sahajishisastrology.com To Preserve Classical Vedic Work

Let us consider the Indian Republic Chart of 26–1–1950, 10-19 a.m., Delhi. 6° 13′ of Mesha is rising with Sun (5° 41′), Guru (12° 12′) and Sukra (13° 54′) in Kumbha, the 11th house. This group of planets receives the trine aspect of Kuja, Kethu and Neptune from Thula.

The eight-planet configuration takes place in the 11th house of the Indian Republic Chart with benefic aspects indicating benefic Parliamentary changes and legislation. It is quite certain that it is only after 1962, can the common man in India feel that his interests are quite safe in the hands of his representatives in the legislative bodies. Till then every action will be directed to strengthen the party influence. The problem of Kashmir will cease to exist afterwards.

Pakistan.—At the time of the conjunction, 17½° Kanya is on the M.C. with 8° Dhanus rising.

The meridian is terribly afflicted indicating political upheavals of a serious type.

Transfer of power to Pakistan took place on 14–8–1947 at 9 a.m. at Karachi (25° N., 67′ E.) with 22° Kanya rising. The configuration falls in the 6th house with a square from Guru in Vrischika and opposition from Budha, Sani, Sukra and the Sun from the royal sign Leo.

The effect of the configuration will be discontent from the working classes, Army and Navy. The present regime will give room to a workers' dominated Government without doubt.

This also afflicts the 9th house Rahu and Guru who is the lord of the 7th house; the foreign policy may change to the discomfiture of the present allies. As India's chart does not show war-like activities, the change in the foreign policy may probably be for the better, in relation to India.

Burma.—Our next neighbour is Burma and 17½° Thula is on the meridian with 8° Makara rising. Burma can breathe a sigh of relief and a stable Government will come to stay to the advantage of the common man.

China.—Our next important neighbour is China and at Peking 8½° of Vrischika is on the meridian with 14° Makara rising. This does not augur well for that country; the suffering of the common man will increase and important political changes will come off.

Since the meridian is in close conjunction with Neptune, subversive activities will become very prominent leading to a change of Government policy.

Lagna is having a close sextile with Neptune near the meridian, socialistic pattern of the Government will not undergo any radical change since the lord of Lagna is in his Moolathrikona house Kumbha.

Formosa will cease to exist as a problem since the meridian for this great conjunction is in close square to the mean of the planetary positions—13° 34′ Kumbha. Change of Government in Taiwan is bound to follow immediately.

England.—9° Thula rises at London with 11½° Kataka (Cancer) on the M.C. There will be no violent changes as the average Britisher is a person of sound commonsense. The country will surely and certainly move towards socialism increasing the wealth and prosperity of the common man.

U.S.A.—8° (Leo) is rising with 26° of Aries on the meridian aggravating the relationship with foreign powers leading to disputes. Divorces will increase. U.S.A. will beware of the subversive Neptune in the 4th house of the chart.

U.S.S.R.—4th degree of Vrischika is rising with 19½° Leo on the meridian with Rahu nearby. This is a powerful influence for the good even though on the domestic front many changes may take place. Stalin's death chart indicates tremendous changes and after this conjunction, Stalin's Communism will cease to exercise its influence in that country. Moscow must be careful about the bellicose attitude of U.S.A.

Cairo.—This young Republic is unfortunately faced with tremendous difficulties. It is one thing for Nasser to rise to power but another thing to retain it.

General.–Countries between 20° E. and 50° E. longitude will undergo remarkable political changes. The countries affected are Central Europe and East Africa, Turkey, Iran and Arabia. The Dark Continent will experience the throes of rebirth and all the Colonial Powers will be wiped out of existence in that continent. All the South American countries will be in the grip of political and social upheavals, bringing about unexpected changes. Australia will not be free from the onslaught of this terrific astral influence; the white Australia policy could not be sustained after this date especially in Eastern Australia. Physiognomy of Women

BY SHIVA RAJ NARAIN DEVA, B.A., LL.B.

OLD order has changed yielding place to new. Social rules and marriage laws have undergone vast changes and metamorphosis is still going on in this direction. People have discarded the sastras and negligently ignored the maxims and principles contained therein. They are tabooed as superstitious, irrational and incredible. But if we look deep and minutely, we will find that they still hold good and are helpful to us as before. Physiognomy the art of judging character from features of face or form of body, is essential to be taken into consideration at the time of marriage. Modern youths go in for all that is gaudy, showy, superficially pretty and charming to their eyes. But they forget—all that glitters is not gold. Sages have depicted in clear and unequivocal terms the good and bad qualities of the various bodily organs of a woman and thus have warned man from pitfalls, risks, troubles and difficulties in conjugal career.

For the interest of the readers and general information I briefly give below the various Lakshanas (features) of women.

Hairs on the Head

Soft like velvet, thin, deep dark, very long like cobra and smooth hairs are regarded good symbols of beauty and fortune. On the reverse hard, thick, rough, short ones are ill omen.

Forehead (Lalat)

High forehead is auspicious for a lady just like a man. It is a sure sign of good luck. But when it is low and covered with hairs, the effect is selfishness, peevishness and abject mean mentality. If it is depressed in the middle then such a damsel is possessed of jealousy, scheming thoughts and ill-will towards all. She may also turn out to be loving her husband's younger brother. Half-moon shaped, hairless, clear, shining and not very high forehead is deemed the abode of Lakshmi.

Brows (Bhru)

The two eye-brows possess soft hair on them. They are not only marks of beauty but also tell a good deal about the character of a pretty maiden. Unhappily if the brows are hairless or have got very little hair, then it is a sure sign of ill-luck. Dark black hairs are good whereas golden ones are bad, and indicate ill-temper, mean nature, short-sightedness and narrow-mindedness. When the two brows join each other then the person is untrustworthy, wicked at heart and a cheat. Bow-shaped brows with a little bent are considered very good and show the lady to be possessing magnanimity of heart, patience, love, pleasing manners. According to Bhatruhari only a very fortunate man can have the honour of being the husband of such a beauty. Brows should not be straight, lengthy, ill-formed, reddish, broken, joint and very thick.

Eyes

The eyes of a sweet-heart should be like that of a deer, large, extended, shining with lustre, dark pupil with little red threads around, devoid of monkey's restlessness and throwing pleasant, smooth radiance. Every society shall be proud of such beauties. Women equipped with Sulakshanas (virtues) of the eyes possess knack and tact of leadership and administration.

Reverse is the case when eyes are dull, gloomy, restless, gray-coloured, round, slightly bent, blank or like those of a pigeon, elephant, buffalo and sheep. Such eyes not only mar the facial prettiness of a girl but also hinder her advancement and rise in life. She cannot exercise any influence, cannot control, cannot successfully administer and cannot successfully hold an office.

Nose

Like the eyes nose too have a special importance on the face. A lady with nose like that of a parrot must be very shrewd and clever and good tempered. Very often such a woman acts or proves or secretary to her husband. Ladies with monkey-like nose are cunning, mischievous and lasacious. A straight normal nose of symmetrical proportions not only enhances beauty of the female form but also imparts her energy, diligence and nimbleness. When the nostrils are fat and wide, the girl is block-headed, lazy and more inclined towards pleasures. If the nose is depressed in the middle small, long, front part very high, crooked or very fat, then the lady will be devoid of love and sympathy too hasty in actions, wicked and cruel in nature, quarrelsome and scheming, very talkative and harsh in language.

Ears

Good indications for ears are: a little flabby, soft, long, of proportionate dimensions, equal in size, "Bhanuri" shaped.

On the reverse if the ears are small, crooked, not equal, and the hole does not appear then they are Ashubha (not good).

Cheeks

Round, full, red cheeks denote good health and beauty. On the contrary depressed, fleshless, skinny cheeks prove ill-health and diseased body. A delilah generally possesses cheeks that are tempting but have pits at the time of laughing—which is not at all a good symbol. Apple colour in the cheeks forebodes good character while black dots give out depravity and loose character.

Scanned by Gurukul Kangri Vishwavidyalaya, Haridwar in DL-DRS Project

Lips

Red lips like ripe "kundru" fruit are "gurhal" flower, thin, smooth, hairless are regarded good, their husbands adore them. A lady with thin lips yearns to govern the household, is very talkative. If the lips are black and thick, then the woman will be given to luxury, restlessness and temptations. She will not like to stay within doors, but would prefer to visit from door to door. When the lips are heavy, dropping and thick, then she becomes generally unchaste and adulterous.

Teeth

There are two sets of teeth. In every set, the teeth should be pearl-like, white, shining, of equal size and 16 in number. Very often teeth like those of a rat are considered good. When the teeth are big, fixed apart, crooked, unequal, high and low, dirty or blackish in colour, then not only the facial prettiness is marred but also the damsel is unlucky and unworthy to be married. Grinding of teeth in sleep is bad. If the gums are black, then this too is not a good symbol.

Chin

The good signs of a chin are: smooth, round, soft, width two angles and symmetrical and proportionate. When the chin of a lady is heavy, fat, protruding, out of proportion, not round, cony, then she must be short-tempered, hasty in action, haughty and vain, black at heart, fault-finding, scheming, harmful and self-centred. If there is a pit in the chin, the person is cheerful, lovable, kind-hearted but unlucky so far as wealth and happiness are concerned.

Countenance

Face is the index of personality and fortune. When the countenance of a girl is like a "Kamal", flushed red, charming smooth, glamorous, throwing lustre all round then she is a princess, worthy of being the queen of loving heart. She can control lions and administer lands with a strong hand. But mind, she is a double-edged sword—she can adorn and also destroy.

Voice

Ladies equipped with sweet, pleasing voice are generally good natured, loving and attractive. Their voice like that of a kokil works as a charm and subdues the cruel. On the reverse when the voice is harsh, rough, repugnant to the ears like that of a "crow" then she should be pugnacious, ready to scheme up a quarrel, sly, wicked, breaker of peace and happiness.

Neck

The good qualities of a neck are: smooth, shankh-like, not very long. If it is small, fat and wide, then the nature of the girl shall be bad, evil, thinking and doing malevolently mischievous deeds.

Breasts

If the two breasts are fat, disproportionate, like the trunk of an elephant becoming narrower at the end from the root, or one heavy and the other light then the charming damsel will not be very lucky and the later part of her life will be full of miseries, troubles and wants. The tips of the breasts should be dark, round and beautiful and such a lady is sure to be the mother of a son. But when the two tips are different in shape and size, fat at the top and thin at bottom, with hairs, high and low, then they are important. If the upper parts of the breasts are depressed, large, narrow, rough, flabby and loose then Nemesis will deal with her strongly. Breasts hanging upto the belly denote widowhood.

Arms and Hands

For a fortunate lady it is necessary that her arms be hairless, tender, soft and well-chiselled, straight according to proportions. If they are otherwise, i.e., hairy, hard, stiff, crooked then luck will be reluctant to favour her. When the hand is extraordinarily long, she may have to pass her days as a widow. Rough, unequal, crude, dry hands like the hawk indicate misfortune and hard-sailing in life.

Fingers

Beauties, whose thumb is weak and thin and fingers are knotty, thin in the middle and fat at the tips, marry only for the sake of wealth. When the thumb is turned backward (or little) and fingers are smooth and pointed, then the damsel is fastidious about her dress and ornaments and self-centred and conceited by nature. 'A sweet 16', whose little be a little crooked and the rest be thin and pointed and the upper part of the thumb be long, will be like a butterfly moving from one paramour to another and her love will be ephemeral. Women with their second and third fingers long and cony and the 4th and 5th (little) fingers specially long and curved; are very often interested in gambling, trickery cheating, deceit and are sly and cunning like a fox, and can go to any length when they are up. If the fingers are small and fat and the thumb too is small and fat at the nail,

THE new method of rectification disclosed in the preceding article revealed that the Point Ascendant of Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II was located at Aquarius 8° at her birth. Consequently we proceed to erect her horoscope as shown in Fig. 2; after which we must ascertain her birthstars marking the natal positions of the principal planets. We find them to be:–

In addition to the above, the zenith is of supreme importance. In the case of a queen or king destined to reign, it will be found that the birthday planet (in the case of Queen Elizabeth it is Mercury, she having been born on a Wednesday) will transit the zenith both on the day of the marriage and on the day of birth of the first-born (i.e., the future reigning monarch).

Let us now test the transits which have in the past operated to bring about specific events in the life of Queen Elizabeth II.

Marriage

The Queen's marriage took place on November 20th, 1947, a Thursday (Jupiter's day).

Note first of all that the heliacal rising on that day occurred with the Sun on an hour-circle that picks out Beta Serpentis (R.A. 15.44.18, Decl. +15° 33').

The Moon at the time of the marriage was transitting v-Aquarii (i.e. the star which marks the position where the conjunction of Mars with Jupiter occurred at her birth) in her 1st house.

Saturn (the Queen's horoscope–ruler, i.e., ruler of her Ascendant) was transitting a-Leonis in her 7th house (marriage).

The Queen's birthday planet is Mercury (she being Wednesday born). Note that on the day of the wedding, Mercury was exactly at the zenith of her horoscope, being then at ♍8°.

The above are facts which elicit the all important factors to look for when predicting the event of marriage).

The Queen's First Broadcast

Princess Elizabeth (as she was then) first came to the microphone to address the world on April 21st, 1947. That event was heralded by the fact that the New Moon of Monday (the Moon's day), April 21st, 1947, occurred exactly over o-Piscium (the birthstar marking the natal position of her Sun) at the heliacal rising, and on an hour-circle that rung a bell with Epsilon-Cassiopeaia. Note that this heliacal rising of the New Moon occurred in her 3rd house broadcast communications.

The Birth of Prince Charles

The Prince of Wales was born on Sunday, November 14th, 1948. The Sun's hour-circle at the heliacal rising of that day connected with δ Lupi (R.A. 15.18.40, Decl. −40° 30'), which will be an important star in the life of Prince Charles.

At the moment the Prince was born, the Moon was transitting the Queen's birthstar o-Piscium (i.e., the exact position of her natal Sun in Taurus).

At the time of the birth, Mercury was at ♍6½° transitting the zenith of the Queen's horoscope; and again you are reminded that Mercury is the Queen's birthday planet, she having been born on a Wednesday.

The Birth of Princess Anne

The Queen's second child—Princess Anne—was born on Tuesday, August 15th, 1950. At the heliacal rising on that day, the Sun's hour-circle connected with k-Hydrae (R.A. 9h. 38m. 20s. Declination—14°) which becomes an eventful star in the life of the Princess.

At the time of her birth, the Sun transitting the Queen's birth star o-Leonis (marking the position held by Neptune at the Queen's own birth). Do not forget that at the Queen's birth, Neptune formed party of the following major configuration: [(Mars conjunction Jupiter) opposition Neptune] square Saturn.

* The first three parts of this article have appeared in April, May and June 1959 issues of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE.

Again at the moment of her birth of the Princess, the Moon was conjoined with Mercury at ♍18° 50'. The significance of this is to be seen in the fact that Virgo is the fifth sign (i.e., the house of children) from Taurus — the Sun-sign of the Queen.

Coronation of Queen Elizabeth II

Elizabeth was crowned Queen on Tuesday, June 2nd, 1953.

At the time of the Coronation the Sun's hour-circle connected with v-Tauri (4h. 0m. 58s., Decl. + 5° 52') which will become an im portant star in the Queen's reign.

The Moon at the time of the heliacal rising on that day was at ♒ 8°—the Queen's Point Ascendant!

This was Tuesday—Mars' Day —and the Queen's birthday planet Mercury was conjoined with Mars at ♏ 22° in exact trine with v-Aquarii (that birthstar of Her Majesty) which marks the position where the Mars-Jupiter conjunction occurred at her birth

Having now demonstrated the significance of certain transits that produced specific events in the past life of Her Majesty, let me now attempt to show you how future events in the life of the Queen may be predicted.

To do this, of course, we have first to familiarise ourselves with certain salient facts connected with the Queen's horoscope, the principal of which are the following:

Mercury—the Queen's birthday planet—will colour all her Majesty's activities in life. In addition to the heightened aesthetical sense which she derives from the Venus-ruled sign of Taurus in which the Sun appeared at her birth, Her Majesty has the powerful mental stimulation of Mercury to render her fertile in inspiration and in ideas. It is under this influence that she reveals herself to be the bright and cheerful extrovert type of personality which we know her to be.

Saturn—the ruler of her ascendant—is the Queen's planet of destiny. At her birth—fortunately—Saturn was in trine aspect with Uranus-the co-ruler of Aquarius.

Saturn at the Queen's birth was in Scorpio; and Scorpio is the 7th sign from the Taurus—a fact which indicates that marriage will be one of the most important events in her life. This the Queen undoubtedly realised very well beforehand, and I am sure her future husband was chosen with great care. For the presence of the trine from Uranus was there present to guarantee the wisdom of her choice.

However, there is a reverse side to this particular medal which we have to examine. For Saturn at the birth of Her Majesty was forming the composite configuration which has already been cited, namely [(Mars conjunction Jupiter) opposition Neptune] square Saturn.

If this particular configuration appeared in the horoscope of an ordidary person, I would deduce early widowhood as part of the indication. However, appearing in the horoscope of someone of exalted rank such as that of a reigning monarch, it can mean quite the reverse. Grave danger is to be apprehended from the date when Uranus transits over the birthstar marking the natal position of Neptune. In the Queen's horoscope that birthstar is o-Leonis over which Uranus will pass in 1960.

From that date it is to be feared that Her Majesty will become exposed to three separate dangers which I will specify in order of probability and of importance:

(1) Danger of morality through an accident. The principal danger is aviation, and the Queen's advisers should dissuade Her Majesty should she manifest a desire to travel by air at any time during the two years 1960 and 1961.

(2) Danger of assassination. This danger will be less menacing, but the period in which precautions should be taken to protect the person of Her Majesty against potential assassins of the political or insane types, stretches from August 1960 to July 1961.

(3) Possibility of a serious illness. Here the danger areas are centred in October 1960, and January/February and July 1961.

In August 1960 Uranus will coincide in right ascension with o-Leonis but will by-pass that star with a margin of 5° of declination—which is a lot. Therefore it is doubtful whether action will be triggered off in that particular month. However, in October 1960, Uranus will come into square aspect with 32-Librae, the birthstar marking the natal position of Saturn—the Queen's horoscope ruler. At the same time Jupiter will form square aspect with 20-Piscium (the birthstar marking the natal position of Uranus), but will himself be in trine with the transitting Uranus, thus affording some hope of a mitigation of the imminent danger.

However, it is most important to pay attention to what is meantime happening to the Queen's birthday planet Mercury. It will be found that in October 1960, Mars will be opposing Saturn across Cancer-Capricorn (the 6th, 12th health houses) which the natal position of Mercury will be double-squaring, though not within close limits.

At the immediate moment I do not possess a detailed ephemeris for 1960, but I deduce that the deadline will occur in October 31st, 1960 on which day the Sun should rise with Neptune at ♏8°. This heliacal rising of Neptune would therefore coincide exactly with the Queen's zenith. That seems to me to be the most dangerous date of all.

However, should that menacing configuration be safely negotiated, the next to be encountered will form with similar configurations in January 1961, the deadline falling on the 22nd on which day the heliacal rising occur at ♒8° at the Queen's Point Ascendant.

The third menacing period will come up with the heliacal rising of July 7th, 1961—a heliacal rising of Saturn at ♒15°. On that day Neptune will again be at ♒8° at the zenith. However, I deduce that Jupiter may be at the Queen's Point Ascendant at that time—in which case there will again be hope, especially as the point of the zodiac marked by natal Mercury is not involved in the current configuration.

However, there is no doubt that the configurations which have now been pointed out are indeed the most formidable that Her Majesty will have to face for many a year. However, if these dangerous moments can be safely negotiated (and certain elements of the configurations concerned do lend some encouragement for hope) then the Queen's reign will continue tranquilly until October/November 1980.

At this point I propose to demonstrate other means whereby the timing of these future events in the Queen's life may be checked.

First of all let us turn to the horoscope of the Duke of Edinburgh (Fig. 3). In Prince Philip's horoscope the planet Mercury is obviously the representative of his wife, for it is the Queen's birthday planet. Therefore, when attempting to read the nature of any events affecting the Queen, regard must be paid to the birth position of Mercury in his chart. With that knowledge in mind, let us note that when the Mars-Saturn opposition of October 1960 forms, Mars will simultaneously be transitting over that birthstar of Prince Philip which marks the position which Mercury occupied at his birth. We shall find it located at the cusp of his 12th house.

Turning now to the horoscope of Prince Charles (Fig. 4), the planet Mercury, for the same reason (viz., that Mercury is the Queen's birthday planet), is to be regarded as emblematic of his mother. Mercury at the Prince's birth was at ♏7° at the nadir of the horoscope (i.e., the cusp of the 4th house—the house of the mother).

In October 1960 Neptune will arrive at ♏7°, passing over the birthstar marking the natal position of his Mercury! Uranus will be squaring his natal Sun from his 1st house; and on October 31st, Jupiter will reach ♑0°, completing the first cycle in the life of the Prince and at the same time opposed the births marked out by the natal position of Uranus. Jupiter, however, will be trining his natal Moon at the zenith, thereby offering hope of the Queen's recovery.

It wil therefore be seen that forthcoming events, which are indicated by transits, are plainly reflected in the horoscopes of members of the family who are intimately concerned with those events.

PHYSIOGNOMY OF WOMEN

the beauty will exercise her adamantine will and adhere to her resolve—come what may. When the thumb is weak and thin and 4th and 5th fingers a little curved, then the woman will have no will of her own, will be sensitive, liable to be misled and cheated. When the fingers are crooked, small, rough, uneven, flat, bad-coloured, very long and out of proportions then they are not 'Sulakshanas'.

Stomach

The stomach of a belly should be not high, proportionate and symmetrical, not very large, soft and smooth, hairless. But when the case is otherwise, her belly is long or high, like a pot or a mridang, hairy, bulging or protruding, then she is doomed, ill-luck will be on her track.

Waist

The waist like that of a tiger is considered the best. It should be narrow, well-formed, not very large or too small or fleshy, and hairless and smooth. The lady will be the cynosure of all eyes and fortune her hand-maid. If the waist is bent, big or large, flabby, hairy, rough and crooked, then the young lady will be petulent, pettish, peevish, scheming and even wicked.

Thighs

The thighs of a beautiful nymph are straight, round, tapering like the trunk of an elephant, fat at the top then gradually lowering down, hairless, fleshy and smooth. She will be not only lucky but brave and kind-hearted too. On the other hand if the thighs are fat like that of a jackal upto the knees, very hairy, disproportioned or thin, skinny, then the lady cannot push her fate onward, will be miserable and even sickly.

Feet

When the young lady walks her full foot must fall on the ground and all the toes should touch the earth—it is a good sign. But while walking 4th and 5th (little) fingers do not kiss the ground, then she may have to bewail her fate as a widow. When 3rd toe is bigger than the second even then she may have to do "tapashcharya" for her lord. Big, out of bodily proportion, rough, hard, hairy, sweating feet may effect her adversely. Red coloured, well formed, not very fleshy, medium size feet make the lady proud, daring, successful in life.

Identical Horoscopes

By S. SARAVANABHAVAN

THAT astrology is a true science, is established in more ways than one. Natives born on the same date but with a difference of about an hour and a half, exhibit a marked divergence in their characteristics and fortunes. This was the subject-matter of the article entitled "Identical birth dates" published in the August 1958 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE. The converse also appears to be true. Persons born on different dates but with almost identical horoscopes show a great similarity in their characteristics and careers as will be amply borne out by a study of the following two horoscopes:—

One (whom for the purpose of convenience, we will call "A") was born on 31-1-1912 at 3-27 a.m. (night) L.M.T. at Lat. 11° 6′ N., Long. 79° 42′ E. The longitudes of the planets are:—The Sun 8s 28° 25′; the Moon 2s 18° 37′; Mars 1s 7° 46′; Mercury 8s 28° 25′; Jupiter 7s 17° 33′; Venus 8s 9° 47′; Saturn 0s 20° 57′; Rahu 0s 2° 53′; Kethu 6s 2° 53′; Lagna 8s 4° 22′; and M.C. 5s 9° 4′.

Similarities

It will be noticed that in both horoscopes, the sign Sagittarius rises at birth almost in the same degree in the navamsa of Taurus. Jupiter, the ruler of 1st and 4th houses occupies the same rasi, Bhava and navamsa; so also Saturn, lord of 2nd and 3rd houses; Rahu and Kethu. Venus, the ruler of 6th and 11th as well as Mars, the ruler of 5th and 12th, occupy the same rasi and Bhava in both charts. Mercury though in different signs occupies the same Bhava; Moon is in the same triplicity (airy) and occupies only benefic rasis and amsas.

Personality of the natives

The description of Sagittarius born persons as given in Phaladeepika typically applies in the case of both.

दीर्घास्यकण्ठ : पृथुकर्णनास : कर्माव्रत :
कुब्जतनुर्नृपेष्ट :
प्रागाल्भ्यवाक्याग तोहरिहन्ता सान्त्रैक-
साध्यो उश्रिमवोबलाद्य :

"Persons born in Sagittarius, will have long face and neck, big nose and ears and short stature. They will be intent on business, favourite of the king, eloquent, liberal in gifts, destroyer of enemies. They can be won by kind treatment and they will be endowed with strength".

Mental Characteristics

Lagna and Sun signs being the same and Moon signs being human rasis and of the airy triplicity in the case of both horoscopes, it is no wonder that they are almost indistinguishable in their mental characteristics. In Capricorn the Sun gives a quiet, thoughtful and serious nature, deep mind and good reasoning ability; generally practical, economical and given to investigation. They act with dignity and self-esteem and are also ambitious and persevering never entirely discouraged though often disappointed. They are thorough and hardworkers. It is noteworthy that the Sun in both horoscopes though in different navamsas are in the navamsas ruled by Mercury. Two other planets (Moon and Mercury) to whom we may naturally look to for mental characteristics also exhibit marked similarities. In A's chart, Moon occupies Gemini sign and Pisces amsa. Rulers are benefics. In B's chart, Moon occupies the sign Libra and navamsa of Taurus. Venus, the ruler of both also is a benefic. It is also located in the same triplicity and human signs. Mercury in A's horoscope occupies the sign of Sagittarius in rasi and navamsa, thus he is Vargottama in the sign of his temporary friend. In B's horoscope, Mercury is in the sign of Capricorn ruled by Saturn who is Atimitra or very friendly to him in this case. It is a common feature of both horoscopes that Moon and Mercury are in kendras from each other. In A's chart Mercury is aspected by Mars and in B's chart both Mars and Mercury occupy the same navamsa Aries. Though Moon is in different signs in the two charts, it is aspected by Saturn in both which is perhaps the reason why they are often put to mental agony. Jupiter lord of 4th house and lagna placed in 12th Bhava in the sign of Mars and aspected by Mars from the 6th Bhava in both the nativities denotes loss of comfort and peace. But, Venus as lord of 12th house, placed in lagna Sagittarius has good effect, namely:

गुणै : पूज्य : सस्वतुर्गसाहते दानवगुरौ ।

"Venus in Sagittarius, makes the native adored for his good qualities".

व्ययेशेऽङ्ग सुवाक्

"Lord of 12th Bhava placed in lagna makes the native born capable of good speeches".

Of course, they gain influence around because of their good manners and soft, humorous and convincing talks.

Finance

They are endowed well in respect of worldly goods. Saturn lord of the 2nd Bhava though in debilitation sign, occupies exaltation navamsa which is a very good feature. The shadvargas of Saturn also bear out the point that Saturn cannot be considered to be a great malefic in both horoscopes. For he occupies lunar Hora, Drekkana and Dwadasamsa of Jupiter, navamsa of Venus and thrimsamsa of Mercury—five benefic vargas in all (i.e., Simhasanamsa). Moreover Saturn's debilitation has caused neechabhanga Rajayoga for both the natives as Venns lord of Saturn's exaltation sign is in lagna kendra. There is also a special rule for Saturn in 5th Bhava for Sagittarius born-persons.

धनुर्लग्नेतुजातस्य पञ्चमस्य शनेर्दशा ।
शुभप्रदायोगदेति वदन्तिविबुनेत्तमा : ॥

"For persons born in lagna Dhanus, Saturn placed in the 5th is said to be causative of yoga and benefic results".

Children

Fifth house falls in the sign of Aries in both the nativities. The cusp of the 5th is beseiged between malefics namely Rahu and Saturn. Mars lord of the 5th Bhava is cadent in the 6th Bhava. Jupiter, the karaka of children is subject to the malefic aspect of Mars from the 6th Bhava and he himself is in the 12th Bhava. They got rather late in life birth of issues and the children too are sickly and often subject to the common ailments incidental to childhood. Both natives have got only two female children so far. The probability of future children is not excluded in the case of both. Saturn and Rahu occupies the 5th from lagna in the case of both. Lord of 5th has the aspect of Jupiter, the benefic and karaka of children. Jupiter is in a negative sign. Lord of 5th, Mars also is in a negative sign. In this connection, verse 50 of Chapter 10 of Sanketa Nidhi will be seen to be relevant. It says

शनौतुद्रे कन्येपुत्रैक्यमी वशाश्च ।

"When Saturn occupies 5th, the native will have two daughters and one son". (No planet aspects the 5th in this case).

Career

It is not surprising to find with the same sign rising on

The Horoscope of the Dalai Lama

A very informative article on the Lamas of Tibet appeared recently in the Deccan Herald, written by the Venerable Bhikkhu Buddharakkhita, Chairman of the Mahabodhi Society, Bangalore, in which he stated that the present Dalai Lama "was born on 6th June 1935". This is very useful information and I pass it on to all Indian astrologers for study. The planetary positions at noon Greenwich (time of birth being unknown) are as follows:– Ayanamsa 23° 51'.

The Sun–21.0 Taurus; the Moon–21.04 Cancer; Mars–14.28 Virgo; Mercury–9.58 Gemini; Jupiter–21.12 Libra; Venus–4.45 Cancer; Saturn–16.11 Aquarius; Uranus–10.0 Aries; Neptune–18.0 Leo; Pluto–0.35 Cancer; and Rahu–0.06 Capricorn.

The Sun in Taurus and the Moon in Cancer are an indication of a very learned, intelligent and popular personality. The Sun in Taurus gives deep insight and a desire to know about the mysteries of life, whilst the Moon in Cancer gives popularity, public leadership and fame. It will also be noticed that he has Mercury in Gemini and Saturn in Aquarius, all in their dignities and there is no doubt that the Lamas chose well in selecting him to be their spiritual ruler.

He was ceremonially enthroned on the 2nd of February 1940. At that time the most significant transit was the Sun conjunct Mercury, exactly opposite his radical Moon. The transits which coincided with his flight to India in March last are most significant and informative. First we have Neptune in opposition to the radical Uranus. Uranus always stands for journeys, and sudden, unexpected, unaccountable changes that we have to make in view of pressing circumstances. It denotes our capacity for departing from the normal routine of life. The transit of Neptune however gives panic, disaster and a feeling that one is a victim of plots. Neptune transit over Uranus indicates therefore that one is beguiled or persuaded to make changes or journeys which result in a lot of unpleasantness and danger. One is trapped, molested, or detained. How true this is of the Dalai Lama needs no comment. Another very significant transit is that of Uranus over the radical Moon, which always denotes a complete change of place or residence, and many exciting or even exhilerating long journeys in which all that is novel and fresh is experienced. He may yet travel to the West in quest of support to his cause.

If we assume that the transit of Uranus was exactly on the radical Moon in March 1959, i.e., 18.26 Cancer, then this would give us a rough idea of his time of birth. Calculations show that on the 6th June 1935 in Chinghai province, the Moon was in this position about 0.49 p.m. (L.T.) which gives us Virgo for an ascendant, with Mercury his ruler in Gemini in the 10th house. This could be a very suitable speculative horoscope.

Now as to the future, we find Saturn at present transitting in opposition to his radical Mercury which denotes obstacles being put in his way and to the expression of his ideas, thoughts, and diplomatic correspondence by the Government authorities. He will be hindered and pestered at every turn. But there will be a great change for the better in his fortunes in December 1959, when the Sun and Jupiter conjoin in opposition to his radical Sun. He then will be able to do more as he wishes and achieve his ambition. If the Communist Government of China makes overtures to him again, he must be on his guard however, for in the long run, with Pluto gradually coming to the opposition of Saturn and conjunction of Neptune, no good would come of it.

The Indo-Pak Agreement on Indus Waters

With the assistance and encouragement of the World Bank, India and Pakistan signed a preliminary agreement on the Indus Waters on the 17th April 1959 in Washington. The time is unknown. The planets at noon Greenwich are as follows– Ayanamsa 24° 10'.

The Sun–2.33 Aries; the Moon–16.38 Cancer; Mars–9.50 Gemini; Mercury–7.42 Pisces; Jupiter–6.30 Scorpio; Venus–8.57 Taurus; Saturn–12.54 Sagittarius; Uranus–18.04 Cancer; Neptune–11.40 Libra; and Pluto 7.37 Leo.

The position of the Moon is important here and it is conjunction Uranus which accounts for the surprise and sudden development. The Moon also has the trine of Jupiter. Hence we can safely conclude that it is a genuine understanding and that it will lead to better relations between the two countries. Mercury, the planet of agreement is also trine Jupiter and sextile Venus. Venus is opposite Jupiter. These are all good omens. That there will still be friction from time to time is shown by Mars opposition Saturn.

Disturbances in Bihar

Readers may recall that in the March 1959 issue of this magazine on page 312, when dealing with the effects of the Delhi Capsolar chart for 1959 I specifically predicted that there would be trouble in the region of 85° East, affecting Patna, Gaya and the Eastern provinces of Bihar and Orissa, due to the angular position of Mars on the Nadir. This was fulfilled by the riots which occurred on 17th April last when nine people were killed and several injured. The trouble arose over alleged cow slaughter in the town of Sitamarhi, near Muzaffarpur. Geographical coordinates of the latter town are 26.0 N., 85.32 E., so the position of Mars denoted the area exactly. Throughout the year this will continue to be a disturbed area.

The 1959 Derby

For a change from political commentary, I propose to write a few words on the astrology of racing, and give the horoscope of that major British sporting event of the year—The Derby! The Derby is usually run on the first Wednesday in June every year at Epsom, and this year the event occurred on the 3rd of June at 3.20 p.m. British Summer time.

It has always been the ambition of most astrologers to discover some astrological system, or way of employing astrology that will enable them to pick winners, but we have not yet heard of anyone who has succeeded in doing so, and we can safely conclude that this gift or invention is beyond the wit of ordinary astrologers. Astrology as we know it, cannot indicate specific events such as the winner of a race, especially where there are more than two competitors. Astrological indications are too general to be applied to the particular. It would be like using a sledge hammer to crush a nut to expect it to be otherwise.

In my many years as an astrologer, I think I have investigated every known astrological system for horse racing, and I have not found any capable of withstanding a prolonged test for accuracy and reliability. They have all been based on fallacies. There are too many unknown factors to be taken into consideration, such as the horoscopes of the horses, the jockies, the trainers and the owners, before any general ideas can be formed as to the relative chances of each competitor. It would be quicker and much more satisfactory to rely on form than upon debatable astrological findings or theories. Weights, names, colours and betting prices have all got their devotees but the truth is that none of the factors can be given any real astrological significance.

However, despite all this I give below the horoscope of the Derby for the benefit of those who think they can see the name of the winner in the chart. The race was won by Parthia at 10/1 owned by Sir Humphrey de Trafford. The value of the prize to the winner was £36,078.

The cusps of the Ascendant and the meridian are pretty well the same each year since it is run about the same time of day. Here Virgo rises and Mercury the ruler is in Taurus conjunct the Sun in the 9th house. Venus is culminating near the meridian in Gemini, whilst the Moon is

	Moon 16-31	Mercury 18-40 Sun 18-08	Venus 28-20
			Mars 7-20 Uranus 18-54
			Pluto 7-34
Saturn 11-12	Jupiter 1-0	Neptune 10-59	Lagna 17-18

in Aries separating from the opposition of Neptune and applying to the square of Uranus. I am quite certain that nothing can be made of this in the light of our present knowledge.

However, there is one point to which I wish to draw readers attention. The birth data of Sir Humphrey de Trafford is 30th November 1891, time unknown. The noon positions are as follows:—Ayanamsa 23° 31'.

The Sun 14.30 Scorpio; the Moon 3.05 Scorpio; Mars 1.34 Libra; Mercury 2.14 Sagittarius; Jupiter 15.52 Aquarius; Venus 2.54 Sagittarius; Saturn 5.13 Virgo; Uranus 10.25 Libra; Neptune 14.07 Taurus; and Pluto 14.35 Taurus.

From this it will be seen that at his previous lunar return date Jupiter was transitting his radical Moon which is always an indication of great joy through some personal success, either from a business venture or a sporting achievement. It often brings one to public notice. From this we could conclude that if Sir Humphrey de Trafford was also an astrologer and knew his own horoscope, as well as being an owner of race horses he could quite easily have predicted

A Discourse on Somanatha Misra's Jyothisha Kalpalatha commentary

BY SRI M. K. SASTRY

IN the previous article I have discussed about Atmanadee Dasa, one of the Ayurdaya Dasas. Now, Hora Dasa of Ayurdaya Dasa will be the subject in this article.

Determination of Longevity:

आयु : पितृदिनेशाभ्याम् 2–1–1

By the lords of the first (Lagna) and eighth (Ashtama) longevity should be determined.

प्रथमयोरुत्तरस्थयोर्वा दीर्घम् 2–1–2

प्रथमद्वितीययोरंस्थयोर्वा मध्यम् 2–1–3

मध्योराद्यंतयोर्वा हीनम् 2–1–4

When both the lords of lagna and 8th are in chara rasis (movable signs) or when one of these two planets is in sthira rasi (fixed sign) and the other in dwiswabhava rasi(common sign), the native will have a full term of life (Deerghayus).

When out of the lords of the lagna and 8th, one is in chara rasi and the other is in sthira or when both of them are in dwiswabhava, the native will have a middle term of life (Madhyayus).

When out of the lords of lagna and 8th, one is in chara and the other in dwiswabhava or when both of them are in sthira, the native will have short life (Alpayus).

एवं मन्दचन्द्राभ्याम् । 2–1–5

पितृकालतश्च 2–1–6

Thus in the same manner as stated above the longevity can be determined by lagna and the Moon and lagna and Hora Lagna also.

संवादात् प्रमाण्यम् 2–1–7

When calculating the longevity according to these three ways if either two or all the three ways give the same result that kind of longevity will be taken for consideration.

विसंवादे पितृकालतः ॥ 2–1–8

If all the three give three different results, then that kind of longevity given according to lagna and Hora Lagna will be taken for consideration. This is the general procedure of determining the longevity.

Exceptions

पितृलाभगे चंद्रे चंद्रमन्दाभ्याम् ॥ 2–1–9

If the Moon has occupied the seventh house from lagna then which kind of Ayurdaya will result that kind of Ayurdaya will be taken for consideration. How to know the eighth house:

For the natives born in either chara rasis or dwiswabhava rasis the ashtama (8th) will be known by Prakruti chakra. But for those born in sthira rasis ashtama will be known by the Vikruti chakra from the seventh house.

The following are the eight houses for sthira rasis according to the above principle:

Sthira rasi	Eighth house
Vrishabha	Mithuna
Vrischika	Dhanus
Simha	Karkataka
Kumbha	Makara.

This is illustrated in the following quotation:

वृषभे मिथुनं रंध्रं वृश्चिके चापमादिशेत् ।
सिंहे तु कर्कटं रंध्रं कुंभेतु मकरं विदुः ॥
इति ॥

When the lord of the lagna also happens to be the lord of the eighth house, then whichever planet is the lord of the eighth house from the place where the lord of the lagna is that planet will be taken for consideration as the lord of the 8th house. Even then if the lord of the 8th house also becomes the lord of the lagna the lord of the eighth house will be taken for consideration from Hora Lagna.

For Rahu and Kethu

When Kumbha becomes either lagna or 8th and when Sani is also posited in that rasi and Rahu occupies any other rasi, then Rahu will be the lord of Kumbha. When Rahu and Sani are occupying separate rasis other than Kumbha, the lord of Kumbha will be either Sani or Rahu whoever conjoins with other planets.

When Rahu and Sani have conjoined with other planets the lord of Kumbha will be that planet who conjoins with the more number of planets.

When these two planets have conjoined in equal number with other planets then the lord of Kumbha will be that planet that is the strongest according to Rasi bala. If that situation also happens to be equal then the lord of Kumbha will be that planet which produces more number of 'Dasa years'.

If one of these planets is in his exalted position he will be the lord of Kumbha.

In the same manner Vrischika rasi also may be studied to determine the lordship of Kuja and Kethu.

It is seen that Somanatha Misra and Raghava Bhat have both accepted Vrischika to be the exalted sign for Rahu and Kumbha for Kethu. The source of the opinion of these two authors is not known yet.

Prakruti Chakra, etc.

Prakruti chakra— (प्रकृतिचक्रनाम ओजीराद्यीनां क्रमेण युग्मानां व्यत्क्रमेण गणनमेव ॥)

The procedure of calculating clockwise for Oja rasis (odd signs) and anti-clockwise for Ugma rasis (even signs) is known as Prakruti chakra.

Vikruti chakra—(ओजिनां व्यत्क्रमेण युग्मानां क्रमेण गणनमेव विकृति चक्रम् ॥)

The procedure of calculating clockwise of Ugma rasis (even signs) and anti-clockwise for Oja rasis (odd signs) is known as Vikruti chakra.

Udaya chakra— (उदयचक्रंतु :– ओजयुग्मसाधारण्येन क्रमगणनम् ॥)

Clockwise calculation for both the Oja and Ugma rasis is known as Udaya chakra.

Graha chakra—(ग्रहचक्रंतु:– लग्नाधिपतिमारभ्य उदयचक्रवशेन ग्रहक्रमेण गणनमेव ॥)

The clockwise calculation of planets from the lord of dasa or lagna is known as Graha chakra.

Of these, Prakruti and Vikruti methods are useful for calculating Dasas and the Udaya chakra for calculating Arudha, etc. and the last for determining the Bhavakarakas (Dasakarakas) of the Dasas.

In any horoscope if the lord of the lagna happens to be Atmakaraka there will be a speciality for the determination of the longevity.

When the lord of the lagna is Atmakaraka that rasi occupied by the lord of the lagna will become the lagna and that rasi occupied by the lord of the 8th will become the Hora Lagna. In these two rasis whichever is stronger, from that rasi calculated upto the other one and the sum total figure being divided by four and then if the balance is one the longevity is Alpatarayus (say before 12 years). If the balance is two, the longevity will be Alpayurdaya (33 years). If the balance is three, the longevity will be Madhyayus (66 years) if there is no balance, i.e., four, the native will have Deerghayus.

The procedure of determining longevity in the above manner will only apply when the lord of lagna happens to be Atmakaraka only.

Kaksha Hrasha and Kaksha Vriddhi

Kaksha Hrasa means diminution of a compartment of longevity and Kaksha Vriddhi means increase of a compartment of longevity.

शनौ योगहेतौ कक्षाहास : 2–1–10

The same sutra is read by Raghava Bhat as follows :

"शनौ पाते वा योगहेतौ कक्षाह्रास :"

But according to the commentary of Somanatha the former reading seems to be correct. On this sutra Somanatha says :

"एवंभूत लग्नहोरालग्नयोर्वा दिनदिनेशयोर्वा शनियोगे सति वा दृग्योगे सति वा कक्षा (कक्ष्या) ह्रास :॥" इति ॥

Since the quotation reads as above it is thought that the word "Pateva" is absent in the sutra. According to this sutra if there is the aspect or conjunction of Saturn to lagna and Hora Lagna or to the 8th house or to the lord of the 8th house then diminution in longevity which is determined before, has to be predicted. Kaksha Hrasa or Kaksha Vriddhi should be applied only to that kind of Ayurdaya determined before. Only some years have to be reduced to Ravi and others from the Ayurdaya obtained before. Somanatha says as follows :

अथ दशासु कक्षा ह्रासनिर्णय : वर्षनिर्णय : क्रियते । खे : त्रीणि क्षीणेंदोरेकद् गुरोरुच्चगतस्य द्वादश । पूर्णेंदो : षट् । गुरोरन्यत्रषद् । बुधस्य त्रीणि । शुक्रस्य षट् । उच्चगतस्यापि तद्वदेव । राहो : पर्याय : । केतो : तद्वित् । शने : बलाबल विचारेण पंच षट् सप्त ग्राह्या : ॥"

.....कुजस्य द्वित्रिवर्षाण्येव । एवमायुर्दायविषये योगविषयेऽपि

बुधपूर्णेंदु शुक्रजीवानां डाकद्वित्रिचतुर्वर्षाणि वृध्धि : । शनिकुजफणीनां डाकद्वित्रिवर्षाणि । केतोस्तु वर्षार्धं ॥

नीचगतस्य मासद्वयम् । उच्चगतस्य तु वर्षार्धं ॥ केचित्तु

रवे : नेति वदन्ति ॥ सर्पसंयुक्तग्रहाणाम् शुभत्वे सति

एकैकस्यार्धवर्ष संख्यया वृध्धियोजनीया ।

पापत्वे सत्यपि नथैव ह्रास : । उच्चनीचत्वादिकमपि यथा–

संभवमालोचनीयम् ॥ शुभग्रहाणां योगेपि वृध्धि ह्रासयो :

पर्यायाधिकता यंत्र कुत्रापि नसंभवतीति संप्रदाय : ॥

किंच ॥ शने : यावन्ति वर्षाणि कक्षाह्रासे तावन्त्येव वृध्धावपि ॥

So it is not said in his commentary that there should be reduction in the Kaksha. That means the years fixed to Sani only have to be deducted in that kind of Ayurdaya years obtained before. Somanatha is of the opinion that when there is the relationship of Saturn, Poornaurdaya will not become Madhyamayurdaya, and also Madhyamayurdaya will not become Alpayurdaya. But Raghava Bhat did not agree with the above ideas.

*The Year 1959

BY MISS INDOOMATI PANDIT, B.A., & SRI AJANTA JAIN

OUT of the three eclipses of the year 1959, the solar eclipses are on April 8th and October 2nd, whereas a partial north Nodal Eclipse of the Moon occurs on 24/25th March. Amongst the noteworthy planetary configurations we have to note that Mars opposes Saturn on 22nd April, Mars conjoins Uranus on 24th, Pluto on July 25th, Moon's node on Sept. 12th, and Neptune on 31st October 1959, at 12 hours 09 mts. (I.S.T.) Jupiter enters Sagittarius first on 10th Feb. and again on 5th Oct. and Moon's node enters Virgo on 8th December 1959 A.D.

The Sun enters Capricorn on 22nd Dec. 1958 at 14 hrs. 10 mts. (I.S.T.) and Aries on 21st March 1959, at 14 hrs. 25 mts. (I.S.T.) Many parts of the northern hemisphere in general and South Asia in particular will receive heavy rain fall much before the usual commencement of the monsoon season. Disastrous thunderstorms will be witnessed in the same area in the beginning of June as well as July. In the last part of May in general and nearby May 24/25th in particular earth tremors will be felt in some parts of Middle East and elsewhere. Very damp and dense climate will be witnessed in the first week of November. In the week Mars conjoins Neptune, seismic troubles will be felt in many parts of the globe.

Saturn enters India's ruling sign Capricorn on 5th January 1959 and finally moves out on 3rd January 1962. This sojourn of Saturn in Capricorn is to be regarded as one of the historic watersheds of our period, when death and displacement of leading personalities, parting with some of the old traditions and policies will lead to crises, but they are crises that have a hopeful tone.

It is a historical period not perhaps for the magnitude of its events, considerable as these will be, but for the consequences of decisions in all walks of national life, which will in this period be taken. It is certainly a peculiarly fragile phase, when the hitherto suppressed national desires will burst-forth, and the peoples' discontent will be voiced prominently. Added to this are the reports of various types of catastrophes, which, even the modern scientists could not control.

A new and powerful India may emerge out of these natural and man-made crises, which will be remembered by the posterity as the birth-pangs. No astrologer can overlook the factor that India's democratically functioning, the ruling political party, the Congress also has Capricorn as its ruling sign, which is no less influenced by this sojourn of Saturn, hence a significant change in the moods and manners of the Congress party must be anticipated, in this fragile phase.

India shall be able to find out in this time as to who its real friends are amongst different nations. The politicians and social workers will realise that unless a socio-economic programme is adopted the masses cannot be led by mere slogans on nationalism, secularism and unity in danger. Indian nation must become economically prosperous and all must come together and work hard for the economic advancement of the nation.

In the first half of the year the Late-India campaign in Western Pakistan will reach a climax, whereas the occurrences in some neighbouring country in the 2nd part of the year, as per the popular demand, Union Government at New Delhi will have no other go but to adopt some strong measures against the policy and activities of that neighbour, whosoever it may be, whose attitude and earlier created uncomfortable situation to the Union Government, bringing it into International news.

In the year as a whole, a lady in India will rise to a prominent political position and achieve considerable success. In the field of education considerable measures will be adopted to improve its standard and status. Maharastra will press for the improvement in the same field, while considerable strain may be felt by the Poona University to keep pace with the changing situation. India will do its utmost to create better relations in between foreign powers and with neighbouring countries.

The indications for our great neighbour Pakistan, however, are not propitious. Though the Government at Karachi appears to be strong and will survive the strokes, the masses are in a mood to agitate. Yet our other neighbour on the North, Afghanistan faces some internal crisis—it will witness a tough time to meet the natural catastrophes there. Foreign military experts, however may visit Afghanistan to search for military bases. There are clear indications in many maps of the year that a food or crop shortage may be felt in many parts of South-East Asia, due of course, to natural causes.

While there is a strong Government ruling in Japan, the Emperor faces some peculiar crisis.

According to a noted astrologer, the horoscope of Russia indicates that power and strength of Russia will be a danger to other nations. He has warned the statesmen of the world that if precautions are not taken, Russia will be in a mood to start the third global war in which the culture and lives of many countries may face extinction. It would be a fateful time for many nations.

P.S.—Whereas the aforesaid paragraphs were written on 5th July 1954, the following paragraphs are written on the night of 13th May 1959, as the English edition of the present book was being revised and recast. While applying a new technique of predictive astrology, discovered by us, we examined the chart of India's Union Cabinet, sworn in on April 17th, 1957 and anticipated in a Press article at that time, that India's Finance Minister (TTK) will have to leave the post in disgrace. He did, while Saturn was crossing the 2nd house of the Cabinet, then Sri Morarji Desai, was called upon to take charge of the Finance portfolio. In the year 1959, Saturn touched the cusp of 4th house and will be crossing it till January 1962. This brings the Home Minister of India (Sri G.B. Pant) into mortal trouble. We found while Mars crossed the mid-heaven and looked at the 4th house, the Home Minister took to hospital. If the theory proves true, as we fear it may, much time is not left for our beloved Home Minister, to enjoy the benefits of this post. Though we do not have all the horoscopes before us of all the Ministers of the Union Cabinet, the one which draws our attention is that of Sri Morarji Desai, and it may be a second coincident that he will be called upon to take over the Home portfolio.

As time advances, deeper moves Saturn in Capricorn ominously overcasting the mid-heaven of Cabinet as well as Congress party map. Pursuing the same new astrological technique it deeply distresses our patriotic heart to forsee an astrological truth that our beloved President and Prime Minister will be coming under dark shadows of merciless fate. Time alone will prove the newly discovered theory right or otherwise, but as humble citizens of India we shall strongly pray for failure of the theory so that the trusted leaders are spared for a long time to guide the destiny of our motherland.

Taking note of some incidents of the recent past we find that while Saturn was transitting over the ruling sign of India's ruling party, the Congress, it adopted the Nagpur resolution on agrarian policy and while Mars moved through Cancer the same party approved, for the first time, the idea of a Coalition Government in Orissa.

As the planet Mars entered Cancer, Dalai Lama on the 14th entered Birla House at Mussouri, leaving Potalo Palace, as an honoured guest of the Indian Government, taking shelter from the mighty military pressure of Red China.

The fact is that the occurrences and decisions taken in the early part of 1959, after the entry of Saturn into Capricorn, will have a long-term effect ranging forward for as long as three years. The horoscopes of India, the Congress Party and the Union Cabinet show an actual period from 1959 to 1962. These are the historical years for our Indian Nation. India will, of course, surely come out of the crisis with flying colours due to entry of Jupiter into Capricorn in October 1960.

The Universe and the Heavens

By M. V. Ramakrishnan, M.A., L.T.

The book gives in simple non-technical language all that is known at the present day about the heavenly bodies giving the latest theories of an evolving and expanding Universe. Attempts have also been made to correate ancient astrology with modern observations.

Though much of the matter in this book has already appeared years ago in THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE, the matter has been entirely rewritten to meet the needs of the layman, the University student, the astronomer and the astrologer.

An invaluable book that every lover of knowledge should possess.

*Horoscope of Miss Anita Bose—Netaji's Daughter

BY SRI BISHNUPADA BHATTACHARYA

THE native was born at Vienna on 29th November 1942—Sunday at 6-30 a.m. (Central European Time or L.M.T. 6-35-28 a.m.): Long. 16° 22′ E., Lat. 48° 12′ N. The planetary positions were: Sun 7s 13° 15′; Moon 3s 22° 13′; Mars 6s 25° 28′; Mercury 7s 12° 13′; Jupiter 3s 1° 44′ (R); Venus 7s 16° 26′; Saturn 1s 16° 12′ (R); Rahu 4s 5° 48′; and Kethu 10s 5° 48′.

1. The native's Lagna is Scorpio (8) and Rasi is Cancer (4). Both the Lagna and the Rasi being even signs, she will be beautiful, faithful, of a good nature and possess many other good qualities:

युग्मे लग्ना विशाकरौ इत्यादि ॥

2. Although Mars, lord of the ascendant is in the 12th, the positions of Venus and Mercury in the ascendant, and of exalted Jupiter in Cancer (in the 9th) in association with its lord; the Moon, rule out any untimely death (rishta-bhanga) and give her a fairly long lease of life (over 60 years).

3. Venus, Mercury and Sun in Lagna, with Moon in her own house in the 9th and in association with exalted Jupiter indicates the native's birth in a well-known family. The association of Jupiter and Moon (Guru Chandra Yoga) in the 9th (which is the Pitrusthana according to Parasara and the 10th only, to some extent) indicates that the native's father is a well-known and highly respected person.

तुंगीत्रिकोनी स्वगृहीच युतो भवेद्वा
यदिचन्द्रदृष्टइत्यादि ।

In the case of Rabindranath, this Guru Chandra Yoga occurs in Pisces (Lagna) and Cancer by a mutual exchange of houses between Jupiter (in Cancer) and Moon (in Pisces, the ascendant). The result (world fame) was therefore applicable to the native himself. As in Anita's chart, this yoga takes place in the 9th (Pitrusthana), similar world fame is indicated for the father.

4. According to a special sloka:

भौमांप्यकस्थितेभानौ स्वपुत्रेननिहीक्षिते ।
प्राक्जन्मनो निवृतिःस्यात् मृत्युबापि-
शिशौ : पितु : ॥

If the Sun be posited in the navamsa of Mars and is aspected by Saturn in any chart then it indicates that before the birth of the native, the father will have either died or abandoned the family.*

Kethu	BIRTH CHART		Moon Jupiter (R)
			Rahu
	Sun Venus Mercury Lagna	Mars

In Anita's chart, the Sun is in the house of Mars and is also aspected by his son, Saturn. Such a position would be more effective than if the Sun were in the navamsa of Mars. Hence it may be concluded that the native's father either abandoned the family or died before her birth. But we all know it for a fact that the father was alive long after the native was born. Furthermore, the position of Sun (lord of 10th) in the ascending house of Mars (Lagna) and in opposition to Saturn also indicates that the father abandoned the family.

5. In the native's chart, Saturn in the 7th and in opposition to Sun indicates her father's death when she is either 21, 26 or 30 years old.

रन्ध्रेरेयामित्रगेमन्दे मन्दात् थमित्रगेरवौ ।
खिंशौकविंशठाड विंशे जनकेस्यमृतिर्भवेत् ॥

6. At present (on 25-3-1959), Anita's age is only 16 years, 3 months and 26 days. So this corroborates my reading of Netaji's horoscope (vide 1959 Annual Number of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE) that he is still alive. The earliest indication in the native's chart is 21 years, but Netaji will outlive even that.

		Mars Saturn Rahu
	NAVAMSA CHART		Jupiter
Moon
	Venus Kethu	Sun Mercury

7. According to Brihat Parasara, if the lord of the 12th (Vyayadhipathi) be in conjunction with a malefic planet and is aspected by another malefic planet, and if there be also another malefic posited in the 12th, then it indicates that the native will travel through various countries. These planetary configurations are to be found in Anita's chart. Therefore it may be safely predicted that she will travel through various countries. Thus astrologically, there is no bar to her coming even to India.

*The original in Bengali is translated into English by Dr. S. N. Dutt, Netaji's maternal uncle.

* Netaji left Germany when Anita was only 2 months old at Vienna. Even before Anita's birth, Netaji must have decided to abandon the family in view of his forthcoming journey to S.E. Asia—Dr. S. N. Dutt.

8. In the next sloka, it says that if this configuration in the native's chart is associated with any bhavapathi or bhavakaraka, then those persons (father, mother, etc.) will experience the same results.

In Anita's chart Vyayadhipathi (lord of 12th) Venus is associated with Pitrukaraka Sun (conjunction) and Mars (a malefic) being in the 12th, it indicates that her father also will travel through various countries.

9. The native's matrubhava (4th) is the house of a malefic (Saturn) and in that house is posited Kethu, the significator of inter-casteism! Such a configuration indicates :

(a) Her mother will always have mental worries. (b) Her mother will contract an inter-caste marriage. And above all, Mars the lord of navamsa of the 4th (Matrubhavamsapati) being associated by aspect with Venus in both the navamsa chart (by opposition) as well as in the radical chart (by mutual exchange of houses), it indicates that the mother will contract an intercaste marriage :

मौमांनाशक गते शुक्रे शुक्रांशक गतेकुजे ॥

इत्यादि ।

10. According to astrological rules laid down by Parasara, either the sign of exaltation or of fall of the native's lord of the ninth, should be the Lagna of the native's father, i.e., either Vrishabha or Vrischika. Of these, Vrischika, being the native's own Lagna, her father's Lagna should be Vrishabha. (This is a further corroboration of Netaji's horoscope discussed by me in the 1959 January issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE. At that time, I was not in possession of Anita's birth data).

11. In the native's chart, Rahu in the 10th also indicates her father's troubles, hardships and even a life incognito.

12. According to Parasara, the association of the lords of the 5th (Jupiter) and the 9th (Moon) in the native's chart constitutes a Rajayoga ; and according to the same authority, if such association be by conjunction or by opposition, then the native will be born in a royal family.

तप : स्थानाधिपोमन्त्री मन्त्राधिप्रियो विशेषत : ।

उभावन्योन्य सन्दृष्टौ जातश्चेदिह राज्य-माक् ॥

यत्कुलापिसंयुक्तौ तौ वापि सप्तसमौ ।

राज्यवंशोद्भवोवालो राजाभवतिनिश्चितम् ॥

Whether her birth as the daughter of the Head of the Azad Hind Government fulfils the above prediction of Parasara (under modern conditions) it is left to the reader to decide. In any case, she is destined to enjoy great fame, immense wealth and power and to do a good deal of philanthropic work by virtue of this Rajayoga.

13. According to Parasara, the 9th house and partly the 10th indicate the father. The lord of the 10th is posited in the Lagna, and the lord of the 9th is in the 9th, in association with exalted Jupiter. These planetary positions indicate that the native will live with the father and enjoy his love and affection.

14. The lord of the 7th being posited in the Lagna in association with Mercury, indicates that she will have a learned husband coming from a well-known family.

15. Inspite of Mars being in the 12th, she will not become a widow, according to a sloka of Parasara :

यमिलेच यदासौरिर्लग्नेवाहिबुकेऽथवा

इत्यादि ।

But during the Dasa and Bhukthis of Mars, she will have many troubles and worries, illness in the family and heavy expenses.

16. She will have a medium span of life—about 63 years, and will pass away in Rahu Dasa, Jupiter Bhukthi.

Vimshottari Dasa Results

17. According to the Vimshottari method of Dasa calculation, the native was born under Mercury Dasa, Moon Bhukthi, lasting upto 25-4-1944. This period indicates her mother's prosperity and her fathers' fame and power.

18. Then comes Mercury Dasa, Mars Bhukthi, which lasts upto 22-4-1945. This period indicates slight illness of the native, her mother's mental worries, her father's participation in the war and partial success.

But Mercury, lord of 8th, is in Lagna, and Mars, lord of 6th, is in the 12th. These planetary positions indicate her father's failure in the long run during Mercury Dasa, Mars Bhukthi inspite of his initial success.

19. Then she has Mercury Dasa, Rahu Bhukthi from 22-4-1945 to 10-11-1947. Rahu being in the 10th, it indicates mounting difficulties, final defeat and subsequent disappearance of her father.

20. Then follows the sub-period of Jupiter under Mercury

AROUND the WORLD

BY DOUGLAS HUNT, M.A.

AS I quite often see myself quoted in other publications I would like to make it clear that I make no claim to be an astrologer, and that my function in THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE is merely to report what others say. In doing this, I neither reject nor confirm their findings; my own knowledge of astrology is not sufficiently extensive to entitle me to criticize those who have perhaps spent a lifetime in studying the science. If I ever suggest possible future developments I do so with the greatest diffidence, and not as an astrologer.

For this reason I quote the following extract from Astrologischer Auskunftsbogen by Professor Troinski without comment —except perhaps to say that I personally never allow myself to be downcast by even the direct predictions. "It may never happen", is my motto in these cases.

*"China's military masses", writes Troinski, "will invade India, lift up the thousands of lower castes there and liberate the oppressed. They will overrun Tibet, Pakistan and India, and bring indescribable misery on the whole Indian people. India's Croesuses will be plundered and made beggars, there will be no more Maharajas. The sins of the upper classes against the vegetating (sic) castes, their physical exploitation for thousands of years, the toleration of the formation of hundreds and thousands of lower castes for the purpose of mental, spiritual and physical enslavement will be avenged, and after colossal revolutions a completely new age will open up for India and South Asia. The Chinese rod will here be a means to an end, so that the people of India may be awakened from the 'religious' lethargy into which they have been forced. India's horoscope for 15th August 1947 proclaims this coming revolution, because all the malefics are below the horizon".

I feel sure that readers would like to hear the comments of some qualified writer in THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE on this alarming prognosis, to say nothing of the scathing commentary on Indian civilisation. May I repeat that I merely quote; I do not endorse.

It is extremely interesting to compare this with a truly fascinating article in Les Cahiers Astrologiques by Andre Pelardy entitled "Le veritable theme de l'U.R.S.S." The article, which deals at considerable length with various progressions, is too lengthy to do full justice to. Important is the claim that the true map for the Soviet Union should be that of Moscow, 30th December 1922, 17h. 38m. (G.M.T.), the time at which the First Congress of all the Soviets solemnly proclaimed the existence of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics.

At the conclusion the writer poses the question: Will the Soviet Union be directly responsible for unleashing hostilities (in a possible war in the early sixties D.S.H.)?

"To this question", says the writer, "one can almost without hesitation answer in the negative. The horoscope of the Soviet Union is not that of a country destined to bring about a world war, but rather that of one called upon to be at the receiving end of such a war. For a country to play the role of an aggressor it is necessary that the ruler of its map should afflict the analogical or particular significators of war and destruction, notably Mars and the ruler of the Seventh. This is not the case for the Soviet Union, since the two rulers of the Ascendant, Sun and Mercury, do not afflict any other planet. The Sun is even in sextile with both Mars and the first ruler of the Seventh, namely Uranus, which shows a conciliatory tendency."

It is suggested that the Soviet Union will be the victim of a new war in 1961–62. "K's horoscope", continues M. Pelardy, "confirms this. It is certainly not the map of an aggressor. His Mars...is in the pacific sign of Aquarius and is not in square or opposition to any other planet: on the contrary, it is moderated by a trine from Saturn."

When the question of a possible aggressor arises M. Peoardy is even more interesting.

"When one speaks of a future

*We completely dissociate ourselves from the stand taken up by Mr. Troinski, as regards the future of India. We do not know on what astrological basis Mr. Troinski has arrived at the conclusion that China would invade India and 'awaken' India from what he calls religious lethargy, etc. According to Hindu astrology however there is no indication of the events mentioned by Mr. Troinski happening in the foreseeable future. Therefore readers need not get uneasy. Astrological predictions affecting nations should be advanced with a certain sense of balance and without giving the impression of sensationalism. —Ed., A.M.

conflict one logically imagines it as between the 'Great Two'. Is logic right? Nothing is less likely, for the map of the U.S.A. is no more that of an aggressor than is that of the U.S.S.R. And if the 'Great Two' are in conflict one of the two would have to play the role of aggressor, for which each is so little suited."

The writer's conclusions are so interesting that I feel bound to quote them at length.

"In endeavouring to clear up this question I would estimate that there is not more than one chance in four that the 'Great Two' will be in direct conflict. The chances are, however, at least three out of four that the U.S.A. and the U.S.S.R. will be terribly mutilated by a third power. The U.S.S.R. will undoubtedly be less affected than the U.S.A. in 1961, but its trials will continue in another way in 1962. As for the extinction of the collective entity called the U.S.S.R. it would be reasonable to foresee it for 1965, and particularly for the month of March.

"If one notes that the map of the People's Republic of China will also be fatally affected by the lunar transit of 3rd March 1965, one might logically suppose that materialistic communism will receive its death-blow at this time. Which will by no means signify the victory of so-called capitalistic conceptions. It is probable that governments in the years after 1965 (whatever they may label themselves) will have a socialistic and fraternal tendency and that there will be an increase in spirituality. Let us hope that after these great tribulations these governments will know how to assure for humanity a period of peace and co-operation, such as it will badly need before facing the apocalyptic period at the end of the century."

After these fascinating but disquieting speculations let us turn to a publication whose object is to fortify us to meet the future with dynamic heroism, whatever it may be.

For many years the Lucis Press has published a bi-monthly, The Beacon, devoted entirely to the life of the spirit. It now appears in new and improved format. It claims to be, "A magazine of esoteric philosophy, presenting the principles of the Ageless Wisdom as a contemporary way of life." It deals indeed in a highly practical manner with the methods by which each individual may sharpen his own sword of the spirit and play his part in the radiation of positive, constructive and co-operative concepts which may pierce the night of egocentric materialism which threatens to engulf us.

The concept of one world is almost as old as humanity. Never was it more needed than today. When that concept is realized—and The Beacon is doing valiant work in that direction—it will be possible to laugh at all the prognostications of mundane astrology, for the human spirit, when it so determines, can be invincible.

Astrology and Modern Thought

BY B. V. RAMAN

(FOURTH EDITION)

The rationale and claims of Astrology have been examined from the viewpoint of Modern Scientific Thought. The arguments put forth by some of the scientists to decry Astrology have been ably refuted and supported by unimpeachable evidence.

The book will convince any so-called sceptic who is accustomed the slogan 'I do not believe in Astrology'. To an intellectual it contains full of weighty material for reflection.

It is a book that every one should read.

Predicting Events by Transits

I

Sir,—In the recent issues of your excellent magazine, we find the highly interesting articles on 'Predicting Specific Events by Transits' by the well-known astrologer Dr. W. J. Tucker and I eagerly look forward to the further series in your future issues. I have been an admirer of Dr. Tucker's works for a long time and was a subscriber to his magazine Science and Astrology which had suddenly become defunct many years back. Dr. Tucker has been priding himself on the scientific basis of his studies. The recent article in the June 1959 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE, however, is a bit of a damper. How can an arbitrary fixation of rulership of the days of the week, unrelated to a strictly astronomical basis, be regarded as scientific? It rather amounts to pure schematism as Mr. Cyril Fagan would say. Then again has his epoch day any scientific basis? A little reflection will show that rectification by reference to the 'epoch' in question can hardly work, for on a given date many souls would be born having not only different degrees of a sign on the ascendant but different signs rising. All of them would have their epoch on the same date, i.e., 294 days prior to birth. How can that date take care of all the varying degrees and signs on the natives' Ascendants at birth?

Dr. Tucker has been at pains to denounce the views of several astrologers, ancient and modern, in regard to the alleged effects of Algol and its situation in about the 25th degree of Taurus. He says that no planet can at any time form a conjunction with Algol because of the latter's extreme north declination and latitude. There must surely be something in the belief widely held by astrologers of old. Ptolemy said that if Mars be near the Gorgon of Perseus (Algol) he will produce death by decapitation or by mutilation of limb. Junctius and others likewise speak of the evil effects of Algol and its situation in about the 25th degree of Taurus (during the present century).

Sometime back a friend of mine lost his father-in-law under tragic circumstances. The poor old man was foully murdered on his 76th birthday by some person or persons unknown who remain untraced to this day, the motive being apparently robbery. His face was badly mutilated. Anxious to know what his horoscope had to say, I managed to obtain the same and what do I find? Birth took place at Bombay on 31-10-1879 with about the middle of Cancer (Sayana) rising. Moon was in 25½° Taurus conjunction with Mars in 24½° Taurus (Algol and its fateful degree)! The other malefic Saturn was on the M.C. at 10½° Aries in semi-square to Moon and Mars. The Nirayana rising sign was Gemini with ruler Mercury in 23½° Scorpio in opposition! The murder took place in the early hours of 31st October 1956. Surely the above fateful positions, near about the 25th degree of Taurus and so eloquently bearing out Ptolemy's dictum, are highly significant and cannot be lightly dismissed as pure coincidence.

II

Sir,—The article by Dr. W. J. Tucker, on predicting specific events by transits is highly interesting and thought-provoking. Predicting by transits alone forms a separate branch of 'Prognosticative Astrology' and events can be timed with sufficient accuracy by employing Indian Dasa system (either Kalachakra or Vimshottari) along with 'Transits' to the radical positions of the planets as well as through the Gochara system. Those who do not have sufficient knowledge of the Indian Dasa system can time the events accurately by resorting to Herr Trionski's excellent Tertiary Directions along with transits. Dr. Tucker should be congratulated for bringing out his special method before the cultured public.

Dr. Tucker says that he has fixed the days for the 'epoch' as 294 days. No more unsound statement than this can be made or imagined. Commonsense and practical experience definitely show that all 'epochs' cannot and will not occur in 294 days. Instances are not wanting to show that the 'epoch' date varies from a seven-month period to a ten-month period. How can one anticipate then, all the 'epochal dates' to fall within a period of 294 days?

Secondly, Dr. Tucker wants one to erect the map of heliacal rising on the 'epochal day' (294th day counted back from the date of delivery) to find the rising degree. But it is quite clear that on any one day countless number of births occur in this world. Surely all of them cannot have the same rising sign or even if the same rising sign should ascend in majority of births in a particular latitude, it will not be the same rising degree. Hence how can any one say that the horoscope for the heliacal rising on the epochal day (294th day) would correctly give the rising degree or sign?

Again Dr. Tucker says that he attaches no importance to Moon's nodes (Rahu and Kethu), even in predictive astrology, let alone in the epochal chart. If Dr. Tucker's researches are complete (as he says they are) then he should have found that the nodes account for all those cases where murders, underground plots, treacheries, beastly behaviours, etc., more than the recently discovered trans-Saturnine planets Uranus, Neptune and Pluto, the sign ownerships and other natural rulerships ascribed to which are only imaginary and confusing.

I hope Dr. Tucker will make all these points clear in his future articles with good practical examples and more so of the instances where the epochal date has fallen on the same day with two or more identical births.

Before closing this letter let me congratulate Dr. Tucker once again for his attaching great importance to the ruler of the birth day. It may be noted that the ruler of the week day of the birth is given a very prominent position in the calculation of shadbalas in Indian astrology.

III

Sir,—The article on "Predicting Specific Events by Means of Transits" published in the June 1959 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE by Mr. W. J. Tucker does deserve the attention of all savants in astrology. It is a radical and a fundamental approach.

However, I feel there is some fundamental confusion or even a defect in respect of his observations regarding the fixing up of the birth degree based on the planetary positions either for the time of the heliacal rising or setting on the epochal day.

The author says he was born on 19-11-1896 and the date of his epoch is 30-1-1896. He has fixed his birth degree based upon the planetary position on the epochal day.

The epochal horoscope is cast either for the heliacal rising or setting and as such there are only two fixed horoscopes on the epochal day for reference for finding the correct birth degree for persons born on a particular day.

It may be assumed that on 19-11-1896 innumerable births besides the author, would have taken place and for all of them the correct birth degree is to be ascertained on the planetary positions of the two fixed horoscopes only of the epochal day. This is certainly impossible as births in all the degrees of all the signs would have taken place on that day in this world. This process is therefore not helpful or completely dependable.

Assuming as an amendment that the planetary positions are noted on the epochal day for the noted time of birth, it will not be also helpful as a reference to the epochal chart is necessary only in cases where the correct birth time is not known and as such, this process may lead to begging the question.

Several systems have been in vogue to rectify the birth time and in my opinion all of them have a confusion or defect as indicated in the system referred to above. Nowadays too much stress is laid upon mathematical approach to astrology as if life is a mathematical equation. A horoscope has no doubt a mathematical structure, but that is not the only thing. It has an emotional, intellectual, spiritual and other structures, and the interplay of these structures give the charm in life. In all classical works on astrology, greater stress is placed upon the strength of Moon, and lord of Lagna, as they would indicate the emotional and intellectual forces being brought into play upon the events of life.

The rectification of the birth time will be always a problem. If the birth time is not known, it will be similar to the problem of fixing the correct Ayanamsa now. I feel much time need not be wasted on fixing the correct birth degree. The principles of Udu Dasa system have solved this problem.

Maharshi Parasara and others have unequivocally stressed the principle that the position of the Dasa lord is the starting point or Lagna for predicting the events during its period. The degree position of any Dasa lord will not be for wrong and it can be ascertained fairly accurately on each day as it is not subject to rapid changes during the course of the day. The Vargas of the Dasa lord can be easily calculated. There is a fundamental correctness in this approach as we notice vast changes in individual's career during his life and they cannot be explained by merely equating the planetary forces to the birth degree.

In many horoscopes, I have noticed Dhana Yogas based upon Lagna which is a fixed point and as such the Dhana Yogas should be operative throughout life. It is not the case. They have been also poor during certain periods of life and this cannot be explained on a cent per cent approach to Lagna alone. They are only explainable on the basis of the Dasa lords whose radical position in the horoscopes constitutes the Lagna for his period. Therefore for practical predictive purposes, the exact birth degree is not necessary.

Astrology and Music

I

Sir,—It is with immense pleasure I write this to congratulate Mr. S. Saravanabhavan who wrote the article "Zodiacal Background of Music" in the June 1959 issue of your magazine. It is very beautiful in so far as it has brought out the intrinsic relations between Astrology and Carnatic Music. The theory of 'swara bedha' is well explained and is a joy to understand in a subjective manner. I wish that the author will come out with similar spontaneous articles in your esteemed journal for the benefit of the interested public.

With best wishes,

Salem. BOA SUBRAMANIAM.

II

Sir,—This is to appreciate Mr. S. Saravanabhavan the author of "Zodiacal Background of Music" in the June 1959 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE. Well! Out of nowhere I had to come again as this one was simply irresistible. As an admirer of Hindu Carnatic Music and after seeing Mr. Saravanabhavan's article, I cannot but start imagining each raga with its horoscope whenever and wherever it is sung. The effect is tremendous! Understanding each raga as a personality with a particular sign as its Lagna and Sapta Swaras as Grahas, therein the chart that unfolds before us as a microphoto of a lifetime—well it exceeds explanations!

Blessings to Sri Saravanabhavan and long live his astrological manodharma.

Madras-4. ASTRONOMER-ROYAL.

III

Sir,—To please a planet, we choose a particular precious stone and wear it; or we do some mantras relevant to it; or we give away as gifts to poor, some varieties of grain, metals or gems as prescribed in the ancient texts; or we offer to the planets some prepared food such as seasamum for Saturn, jaggery for Sun and so on and distribute it among the poor; or we sing or play on instruments Navagraha Kirtanas; or we render the ragas by name Suryakantari for Sun, Chandra Jyoti for Moon, Shanmuga Priya for Mars and so on. The tunal patterns suitable to an individual horoscope according to the Dasa and Bhukthi periods are one of the ways in which we can please the planets.

Suppose the Dasa of Jupiter and Bhukthi of Venus are passing. We should find where both the planets are located in Rasi and Amsa and where their dispositors are placed and where the lord of Lagna and the constellation lords of the two planets are in and then find out the swaras corresponding to them (see my article in June 1959 issue) and the raga formed of such swaras. Rendering such ragas vibrate the planets through the swaras and signs, when sincerity and devoutness are maintained in doing so. For the problems of wealth, health, birth of issues, fame and name, we should see where the Karakas and Bhava lords are located and choose the suitable raga in the above way. This has been found satisfactory in my own personal affairs and in the cases of some of my friends.

Mayuram. S. SARAVANABHAVAN.

Astrology and Statecraft

Sir,—I am amused to read in the learned Editorial of your esteemed journal (June issue) that the erudite Editor is hoping that the Almighty God would guide our Prime Minister "so that Mr. Nehru's foreign policy which is falling more and more out of tune with the educated public opinion in the country would become more realistic". It seems to me that the learned Editor here is committing the same mistake of which he has been accusing Mr. Nehru for a long time.....speaking about a subject on which he is not fully qualified to speak (concerning Mr. Nehru's usual tirade against astrology and astrologers the Editor has been saying almost that). I consider what Mr. Nehru speaks about astrology with the same 'respect' as what an astrologer (however learned he might be in astrology) writes about Diplomacy and Statecraft.

In the same issue (June) in the article under the caption "Market Forecasts" (written by Sri D. R. Munsiff) there are equally amusing statements about our foreign policy. On page 578, "whatever one may say now we have deliberately sided with Chinese Imperialism in Korea and Viet Nam", and on page 579, "further the world has not yet heard of the political and economic conditions in North Korea and Viet Nam". Reading these I was wondering from where the learned writer amassed all these surprising pieces of information. Actually I am at a loss to understand what the so-called "Chinese Imperialism" has to do or had to do in Viet Nam. I have stayed in Viet-Nam (both in the Democratic Republic of Viet Nam—North Viet Nam and in the Republic of Viet Nam—South Viet Nam) for two years as an Assistant in the International Commission for supervision and control in Viet Nam formed under the Geneva Treaty of 1954, and I was in charge of the Saigon Headquarters of the International Commission (comprising India, Canada and Poland) and can assure the writer that we have not sided with any "Imperialism"—Chinese or French or American. Also, I can assure the writer that we know a lot about the political and economic conditions of both the Viet Nams.

Our policy of "non-alignment" with either power bloc and our way of treating each issue in its own merits have been admired by all writers and critics on foreign policy. I have visited four or five foreign countries and can tell you without any fear of contradiction that our foreign policy is enthusiastically acclaimed by all discriminating thinkers. More and more people in and outside India are coming to appreciate the wisdom imbedded in our foreign policy. Our policy is not 'neutrality' on all occasions—perhaps it is 'positive' neutrality and non-alignment with major power blocs—"Where freedom is menaced, or justice threatened or where aggression takes place, we cannot be and shall not be neutral" (Mr. Nehru) In this atomic age of missiles and hydrogen bombs possessed by both the major power blocs it is sheer commonsense to keep aloof from either of these groups.

To sum up, I request astrologers to confine themselves to their favourite subject of study—the science of astrology. Also I would request diplomats like Mr. Nehru to delimit themselves to the domains of Diplomacy and Statecraft. If the opinion of Mr. Nehru on astrology can be considered as childish gibberings, the view points of astrology on Diplomacy, Statecraft and Foreign Policy can be taken as infantile pratterings.

I know from my personal experience with 'Nadi' astrology and 'Bhrigu Samhitas' that astrology is a wonderful science—a science which needs very careful study perhaps throughout a lifetime to master—and I also know that diplomacy is an art which requires no less study and persistent application for its successful mastery. Of course, it is helpful for a diplomat to know astrology as it is for an astrologer to have diplomacy. Plato in his "Republic" pleads for 'Philosopher-kings' I would plead for 'Astrologer-adminstrators' and 'Administrator-Astrologers'.

Thanking you,

Originality of Hindu Astrology

Sir,—This is to invite attention to Sri T. Gurumoorthy's letter captioned "Originality of Hindu Astrology" published on page 559 of June 1959 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE. I must thank Sri Gurumoorthy for the kind attention he has bestowed on my article, "House Division and the Ayanamsa" published in the March 1959 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE.

I am sorry Sri Gurumoorthy has taken offence where it was not meant. I have never said that Hindu Astrology is not original. Jaimini, Parasara, Varahamihira are nothing if not original. What I have said was that the yogas and the Vimshottari Dasa system undoubtedly belong to India and that the Natural Indicator system seems to have a common origin in the hoary past.

I am second to none in my pride for Hindu culture. But I have so far not come across any incontrovertible proof that the Natural Indicator system originated in India and it was borrowed from here by other countries. Personally I believe that India is the birth-place of this system also, but foreigners cannot be expected to take us on our word in the absence of adequate proof. If Sri Gurumoorthy can produce such proof, all lovers of Hindu Astrology would be grateful to him.

In my article "House Division and the Ayanamsa", it was not my intention to establish the originality of Hindu Astrology. My intention was only to refute Yogiraj Nixon's contention that Hindu Astrology consists of a mixture of two systems, which are not compatible with each other, and that it was only the House Ownership system which gives correct results according to the canons of Hindu Astrology. The acceptance of Sri Nixon's view would take away a vital part from Hindu Astrology and would leave it truncated and multilated.

In my article under reference, I have argued that if we accept the Equal House Division system the confusion and difficulties pointed out by Sri Nixon would vanish. Personally I feel that the Equal House Division system is more in accord with the spirit of Hindu Astrology. Pt. Gopesh Kumar Ojha* also subscribes to this view. However, the superiority or otherwise of the Equal House Division system can only be established through research. If a hundred horoscopes whose histories are already known are systematically examined on the basis of both the systems of house division—the Sripathi Paddhati and the Equal House system, the superiority of one over the other can be conclusively proved. In this connection, a sufficient number of horoscopes belonging to higher latitudes will have to be examined. This work could very well be initiated by the learned Editor of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE.

I would once more like to point out that the Equal House Division system divides the celestial zodiac into twelve equal house of thirty degrees each, starting from the point in contact with the eastern horizon. Other systems of house division are not concerned with the celestial zodiac, but with the zodiac as it appears from a particular point on the earth.

Ancient Social Fabric

Sir,—My heartful thanks to you for publishing the article under the above caption in "As It Strikes Me" by Bhrigu in June 1959 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE. Such articles are frequently required with a view to penetrate deep into the minds of peoples of India who have been misguided and confounded by the so-called, selfish and narrow-minded political parasites who have no other vocation to adopt to earn their livelihood. I have to state that I subscribe fully to the ideas of "Bhrigu".

Thanking you again,

Missing Person

Sir,—I am giving herewith the *horoscope of my brother Sri Brijendra Singh, B.A., Sahitya Ratna, born on 2nd September 1930 at about 10 p.m. at Allahabad whose whereabouts are unknown since 26th July 1955 from New Delhi where he was serving as an Assistant Librarian in the Public Library, Delhi.

Now I am to request you to kindly have his horoscope examined by your esteemed readers to find out whether he is alive and if so his whereabouts.

For this act of kindness, I shall ever remain grateful.

Netaji's Horoscope

Sir,—I have read with great interest, the article "Some Observations on Kaka Bhujandar Nadi" by Sri K. V. Venkataramanan, in the 1959 Annual Number of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE, and his "Letters to the Editor" on the same subject in the May 1959 issue. The following comments may be of interest to your readers :—

In para 3 of his "Observations" in the January 1959 issue, Mr. Venkataramanan refers to :

(a) the end of the British rule, yielding place to two Governments under the names of Needham and Vizhian.

(b) twelve years hence (i.e., in 1959–60) the verses foreshadow epoch-making changes followed by a long beneficent rule.

There can be no doubt about the fulfilment of the events mentioned under (a) irrespective of the meanings of the words Needham and Vizhian.

For the fulfilment of the second event, the appearance of a very strong man with a dynamic personality is necessary. Such a man is Netaji—if he be alive today. But is he alive to this day? In this connection, I should like to make certain observations and leave my readers free to draw their own conclusions :

(a) The Netaji Enquiry Committee, at the instance of the ruling authorities, have confirmed in a majority report, the death of Netaji (in spite of all relevant evidence to the contrary) just to discourage the Leftist Parties from banking on Netaji's reappearance.

(b) I have published Netaji's horoscope, as judged by a versatile astrologer, Mr. Bishnupada Bhattacharya of Bhatpara in the 1959 Annual Number. In this he predicts the return of Netaji under Saturn Dasa, Sun Bhukthi—i.e., between 27–1–59 and 9–1–60. At that time, I had also secured a reading of Netaji's Bhrigu, but I did not disclose this to the astrologer, as I wanted to have his own independent reading of the horoscope.

I have already sent for publication in THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE, the horoscope of Miss Anita Bose (Netaji's daughter), as read by the same astrologer. As I had to disclose the place of birth (Vienna) for the purpose of the chart, there was no point in my withholding the identity of the native from the astrologer. But I told him to give me his honest judgment uninfluenced by the horoscope of her father. He tells me that he has been greatly astonished at the perfect co-relation between the horoscopes of the father and the daughter. He believes in Parasara, and judges every horoscope according to the slokas of Parasara, which he often quotes in his readings, so that other astrologers may be able to test the correctness or otherwise of his judgment.

According to him, Anita will meet her father during the period of her Venus Dasa, Venus Bhukthi and Venus sub-Bhukthi—i.e., between 25–10–1959 and 15–5–1960.

Since sending her horoscope for publication, I have secured a Bhrigu reading of Anita also, and I am writing to the astrologer to come and see it.

After all, men may err, but our Rishis were supermen. I should like Mr. Venkataramanan to procure for me, if possible, the readings of Netaji and his daughter from the Kaka Bhujandar Nadi.

The Bhrigu readings of Netaji and his daughter tally completely in all respects.

Netaji's Bhrigu reading :

States correctly the names of his parents and their deaths.

Mentions correctly the total number of brothers and sisters (14) and the number of brothers (7) and sisters (1) alive even after his 62nd year.

Mentions correctly the name of his wife, where and how married, etc., etc.

Gives the time of his return (let us wait and see!)

There are of course various other correct details of past events of his life.

Anita's Bhrigu reading :

Besides the names of her parents and grand parents, it gives a wonderfully correct description of her father's life and activities—even his war efforts in S.E. Asia, and then his failure and disappearance (and not death) a life incognito.

It describes how he bluffed the Government to release him from jail, and then left his home and country under a disguise (Mayamurti) and went to a foreign country by way of Afghanistan (Gandhar).

It gives the time of his return with reference to her age and the positions of the Sun in the zodiac, and this also tallies with the time of return given in Netaji's own Bhrigu. (So let us wait and see!)

Various other noteworthy events of her father's life are correctly stated.

It also mentions some coming changes—which may be called epoch-from 10–11–1947 to 16–2–1950. This period indicates the commencement of her education and the usual happiness pertaining to childhood.

21. At present on 25-3-1959, the native's age is 16 years, 3 months and 26 days, and she is passing through the sub-period of Mercury under Kethu which will last upto 25–10–1959.

22. Then comes Venus Dasa, Venus Bhukti, Venus sub-Bhukthi. This will last from 25-10-1959 to 15–5–1960 (Age—16 years, 10 months and 26 days to 17 years, 5 months and 16 days).

This will be the most momentous period of her life, and if text-books like Sarwartha Chintamani, Sambhu Hora, Sripathi, etc., are to be believed, then she will surely meet her father during this period.

The most astounding feature about Anita's chart is that it corroborates the events of her father's life without a single contradiction.

May God preserve her and grant her eternal happiness!

GEM THERAPY—By B. Bhattacharya—(F. K. L. Mukhopadhyaya, Calcutta. Pp. 76. Price Rs. 5 or 9 sh. 6 d. or 1 dol. 50 c.)

The author who seems to have treated about 3 lakhs of persons, and who has studied all the different systems of medicine, believes that of all systems of cure, the gem therapy would be the most effective. In this highly interesting, instructive, and provocative volume, the author has explained that all diseases are the outcome of cosmic rays, as that if certain characteristic rays are wanting or deficient, ray-hunger is produced. Ray-hunger leads on to different diseases. If the ray-hunger is satisfied, if the deficient rays are supplied, diseases are removed. This is the thesis of the book. The author has indicated in detail the methods of preparing the gem mixtures, and he claims the system to be most effective.

To critics, the author has thrown out the following challenge—Strike—But, Hear. As far as I am concerned, I shall be ready to hear without striking.

After all suffering patients want cure and freedom from diseases. Whatever the prophylactic system utilised, it would not matter. That would be the correct rationalistic attitude. I welcome gem therapy. I hope practitioners will give it a fair trial. The proof of the pudding must lie in eating. The author has made a strikingly original contribution to medical research.

SADHU SAMAGAMA–By Srimadacharya Keshub Chunder Sen—Translated into English by Jamini Kanta Koar—(Navavidhan Publication Committee, 95, Keshub Chunder Sen Street, Calcutta-9. Pp. 76. Price Rs. 3.)

The original work in Bengali of Keshub Chunder Sen, the dynamic personality of the Brahmo Samaj has been translated into English so that the valuable contents may be made available to a wider public, and a larger number of readers. The volume contains a brief account of the lives and teachings of the different prophets of the world who have figured from time to time. The author and his congregation undertake as it were a pilgrimage to the different prophets whose visions are conjured up in devotional meditation.

Moses, Socrates, Sakya, Rishis, Christ, Mohammed, Sri Chaitanya, are the prophets contacted, in the course of the meditational pilgrimage, and then, the pilgrims wend their ways to the scientists and men of genius. Now that the British have walked out of India, the statement of the author that "India is indebted to England in matters relating to statecraft, literature, sciences and other things" (Pp. 69) will be specially appreciated. The fact can never be denied, or forgotten that even today Bharat can never get on without foreign loans and foreign experts in this or that. The volume will be read with interest by all lovers of different religious systems and schools of philosophy as revealing the attitude of the followers of Brahmo Samaj to matters of metaphysical and spiritual moment.

MAHARANA PRATAP—By Sri Ram Sharma—(V.V.R. Institute, Hoshiarpur. Pp. 156. Price Rs. 2.50).

The history of Maharana Pratap, Rana of Mewar, who refused to submit to Akbar and maintained and safeguarded the independence of Rajputs should be well-known to all students of Indian History, and, in this, thoroughly documented and authoritative masterly volume, the author narrates the story of the Rana, who refused to bow before the mighty throne of Akbar. While some of the Rajput chiefs had entered into alliance with Akbar by accepting high jobs at the Delhi Court of Akbar, and by giving of their daughters in marriage to Akbar and his relations, Rana Pratap of Mewar refused to recognise the sovereignty of Akbar.

The Rana contemptuously scorned both feudal and matrimonial alliances with Akbar. The author has made excellent use of original sources in Hindi, Persian, and in fact, has written down his history only on the basis of proved and verified facts.

The late Dr. Woolner has contributed an appreciative "Foreword" to the work in the course of which the author is complimented for his devotion to facts. The Rana was so chivalrous that the women of the enemies he had subdued, were sent back to their homes with due respect and honour. Mr. Sri Ram's volume throws a flood of new light on the history of Maharana Pratap.

INDIA'S MESSAGE OF PEACE—By A. N. Purohit—(Copies from the author Gurupara, P. O. Sambalpur, Orissa. Pp. 302. Price Rs. 5.)

Individual, National, and International Peace is described to be the objective sought to be inculcated in and achieved by the book. The author Achyuta Nand Purohit who as a delegate from India had attended the International Congress of Comparative Law, and his present work have been highly commended by modern savants like Swami Sivananda of the Divine Life Society and others. Highly romantic statistics are given. If the money spent during the two world Armageddons be distributed amongst mankind, each individual would get Rs. 50,000 (fifty thousand rupees, four thousand pounds and sixteen thousand dollars). Can wars be altogether eliminated from human transactions? This is a profoundly, philosophical problem which merges into the larger or more comprehensive one—Can evil be eliminated from the world?

No dogmatic answer is possible. Nonetheless, it is the duty of every individual to strive to establish peace and goodwill amongst mankind. The Gita emphatically asserts that no one who does good and the auspicious would go astray (nahi kalyanakrit—durgatim—gacchati 6—40).

I do not believe that Mr. Purohit will be able to stop all wars, but, I have no doubt that his volume on peace and peace-mission, will be widely and universally welcomed by all lovers of peace, calm, and happiness in whatever part of the world found. Not only India, every country on the face of the globe has produced saints and sages who have proclaimed and broadcast the message of peace and goodwill amongst mankind.

TOWARDS INTEGRATION—Essays and Addresses—By Rohit Mehta—(The Indian Book Shop, Banaras-1. Pp. 168. Price Rs. 3).

The essays and addresses written and delivered by Robit Metha, General Secretary of the Theosophical Society in India, have been assembled and published in this volume under the significant and suggestive title "Towards Integration". It is observed in the course of a note by the publishers that most of the essays had appeared in the pages of the Indian Theosophist, and in this collected edition, some of these have been slightly revised.

It must be admitted that a compartmentalized, truncated, partitioned life is bound to be defective and deficient, and only an integrated life can afford full and complete satisfaction in secular and spiritual concerns.

The good and bad, virtue and vice, straight and crooked, moral and immoral, the beautiful and ugly, are the common dualisms, or opposites, reconciliation of which should be the aim of all philosophical and religious systems. Since, the dawn of creation and human reflection search foy reconciliation is being pursued, and the author offers the theosophical solution as most promising and encouraging.

The proof of the pudding lies in eating. If the solution offered by theosophy is able or competent to remove or reconcile the dualisms, it should be admitted to be universal in its appeal. Mr. Metha's essays and addresses deserve careful study.

AURVEDIC CLINICAL RESEARCH—By Trikkovil Achyutan Warier–(Principal, Sanskrit College, Tripunithura, Kerala State). Pp. 122. Price Re. 1).

Dr. Warier who is described as proficient both in Ayurvedic and Allopathic systems of medicine has given, in this volume certain clinical observations of characteristic diseases and described the remedies to be adopted for complete cure. These notes have been taken from the diary maintained by the author and the publication is intended to vindicate and demonstrate the perfectly scientific nature of the Ayurvedic system.

Dr. K. Balaraman, of the Maharaja's College, Ernakulam, has contributed an appropriate 'Introduction', and H. H. Rama Varma (Pareekshit Tambitan), Maharaja of Cochin, has commended the volume for acceptance by the public. In respect of each disease, brief history is given, together with the clinical observations. Remedies adopted are described. Brief notes are also added for the benefit of laymen, who are usually confused by technical medical terminology. It is even now, the practice of allopaths to condemn the ayurvedic system as unscientific quackridden and forth, but, the public would just want cures, and not academic and prejudiced controversies. The indigenous system must have its place in the land of its birth, and Dr. Warier's work is sure to create faith and confidence in Ayurvedic treatment. This is the first volume. Others are promised in due course to be published.

NEW ERA OF SCIENCE—By Dr. K. S. Krishnan—(Pp. 46. Price 50 nP. or 10d. or 15 cents).

A SOCIALISTIC PATTERN—By H. M. Patel—(Pp. 28. Price 25 nP. or 6d. or 10 cents).

INDIA'S WILD LIFE—(Pp. 41. Price Re. 1.50 or 3 sh. or 50 cents).

(All published by the Publications Division, Ministry of Information and Broadcasting, Government of India, Delhi-8).

In 1955, the All-India Radio instituted what is known as Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel lectures as an annual feature. The series was inaugurated by Bharataratna C. Rajagopalachar on the subject of "Good Administrator". The seeond year's lectures delivered by Dr. K. S. Krishnan, in October 1956 have been published in this booklet or pamphlet and the lectures deal with "New Era of Science" Dr. Krishnan lecturing on a subject of his special study is certainly at his best, and he has given account of some of the latest advances and discoveries in the pure and applied sciences which will be found useful by the general public. But, it is a thousand pities that the scientist-specialist should have committed such glaring errors while referring to Sanskrit, which, has nowadays, developed to be No-man's land. His reference to Puranah, in the masculine gender. is a fine and amusing tragic comedy. The term will have to be used in neuter gender. On page 10, again the term Papraccha, (questioned or interrogated) has been wrongly printed. These lecturers do not give any direct or straight answer to the question which is in the month of every one—Is new era of science a blessing, or curse, or a blessing in disguise? Blessing or curse, sciences will go on advancing, So has God willed.

The expression "Socialistic Pattern of Society" has been practically done to death being repeated in season and out by top-ranking official of the Congress government. Three talks broadcast by the All-India Radio by H. M. Patel have been brought together in this booklet, and these deal with the structure and functions of the so-called socialistic pattern. It is observed that in India, conditions of life and culture being different, no attempt has been made merely to transplant on the Indian soil, the socialism, found in other countries. Writers and speakers on socialism conveniently evade answering one crucial and fundamental question whether in countries like Russia, there is absolute equality in relation between State and individuals, and between individual and another. Independent India has been knowingly or unknowingly importing many of the administrative and governmental measures found in other countries, like nationalisation of transport, etc., but, such importation has not been productive of good to people. The booklet will be read with interest by students of politics, but, economic and political freedom is one thing, and utilization of the freedom in the interests of the masses is quite another. Bharat has driven foreign rulers away, but, the chronic poverty of the masses has not been driven. Is that socialistic pattern?

Recently, I believe the Wild Life week was celebrated, and the present publication on Wild Life in this country, is bound to be welcomed by all lovers of these wild animals and those who may be lovers of hunting, shooting, and so forth. The question why the Lord God created wild and dangerous animals at all which kill and prey on human life is one of the persistent problems of philosophy as important as the other question why did He create mankind at all.Both the questions seem unanswerable. One would like to see lions and tigers in a zoo, but, these wild animals are held in dread and terror. With the dawn of independence, wild life has acquired its own importance, and the present India government publication is sufficient proof for it.

It is reckoned that there are 500 different species of mammals, 3,000 species of birds, and more than 30,000 forms of insects. India's wild life lies distributed in the Himalayan regions, Indo-Gangetic plain and the Deccan. There are four appendices detailing the different species and indicating the locality of each. The publication on wild life is highly informative and useful.

making! (I will not say what they are).

Thus, the epoch-making changes, predicted by Kaka Bhujandar to take place 12 years after the end of British rule (i.e., by 1959–60) may actually take place. Then, of course, the learned astrologers will come out with their chalks and charts to "predict" the past events!

That such a change is imminent, none can see now, or they keep silent for special reasons.

Q. 1. In Kashmir, Yogini Dasa system is followed and the results are very accurate. Why on this side this is not followed? Any reason and advantages in the Vimshottari?

A.B.C., New Delhi.

Ans. Vimshottari system is based on good authority and gives very accurate results. The Yogini Dasa system is not known here. Therefore the comparative merits of both cannot be discussed here. Will you please explain the Yogini Dasa system of Kashmir?

Q. 2 (a) Ref. to Question 62 in 1951 January issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE chart as follows:—Virgo-Lagna; Saturn-Libra; Moon-Scorpio; Jupiter-Capricorn; Sun and Mercury-Aries; Venus-Taurus; Mars-Gemini. In the answer to this question, you have stated that Jupiter has no neechabhanga. It must be wrong as Mars (the planet exalted in Capricorn) is in kendra from lagna. Explain your incorrect answer. (b) You have given the answer to Moon's neechabhanga in a different way. Should not the answer be such as Moon is exalted in Taurus and the ruler is in kendra to Moon, there is neechabhanga? (c) In Jataka Siromani, very good effects are attributed to Panchama Yoga (all planets in five signs). Will it really be able to cancel several evil combinations as stated therein? (d) In the Nadi system of astrology, predictions are based on an examination of the stellar positions of the planets. Is this system useful? (e) Is it true that a debilitated planet in retrogression gives results as if he is exalted? (f) How to know whether Atmakaraka is benefic or malefic for different lagnas? Vide answer to question 4 (d), Pp. 206 of February 1951 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE. (g) Refer the answer to the same question in April 1958 issue. In the former answer, you say that Malavya Yoga is defunct whereas in the latter answer, you say that Malavya Yoga is not defunct. Please explain why you have given contrary answers. (h) The exchange of houses of lords of 4th and 9th is a good Pariwarthana Yoga, but they will be in shashtashta positions which is bad, being quincunx to each other. In this case, will the yoga be powerful? (i) It is stated that when malefic planets like Mars, Saturn, Rahu, transit the same places occupied by them at birth, the time will be bad or critical for the native. If so why? (j) What is the strength of a retrograde planet when he is in his enemy's house, when he is in exaltation sign? (k) Vide page 525 of August 1951 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE. You say there is no neechabhanga for Mercury as lord of the sign in which he is neecha namely Jupiter, is not in an angle either from lagna or Moon. But Mercury will be exalted in Virgo and the ruler is Mercury and he is in kendra from Moon. Also because the planet exalted in Pisces is Venus and he is in kendra from lagna. Please explain your incorrect answer.

R.R., Hyderabad-Deccan.

Ans. (a) For a planet to get neechabhanga, the ruler of the sign in which the planet is found should be in a kendra from lagna or Moon. As regards this, there is no controversy. But as regards exaltation, there is difference of opinion based on interpretation of the word thaduchha (तडच्च). Some say this means the planet in whose sign the debilitated planet gets exalted. Others say that the planet which will be exalted in the sign occupied by the debilitated planet. This view is rejected by some scholars as this cannot be possible for all planets as in the case of Moon being in debility, no planet is exalted in Scorpio. Hence the former rule is generally accepted. This is the view followed also in the answer to the question referred to by you. Your opinion appears to be different and conforms to the latter view. The other view does not therefore become 'wrong'. (b) This neechabhanga comes within the first rule—the ruler of the sign occupied by the debilitated planet. Therefore it is not necessary to go into the controversial second rule. (c) When planets are distributed in five signs, the yoga is known as Pasa Yoga and is treated in Three Hundred Important Combinations by the Editor. The effects are given as "the person will acquire wealth through right means and he will be always surrounded by friends, servants and relatives". It is not stated that it will overcome all other evil yogas nor is such an effect mentioned in texts accepted as authorities. (d) The Nadi system is a separate system of interpretation by itself and should be studied by itself. If done, it gives very good results by itself. It should not be mixed with Parasara system or Jaimini system except to the extent allowed in Nadi system. (e) (वक्री नी प्रबल:) (स्वनीच भवने वक्री बलंलङ्गजम्:) (line 2, verse 6, Chap. II of Uttara Kalamrita) says so. (f) Evidently there is some confusion in your mind as regards the planet who is stated to be Atmakaraka. Atmakaraka is that planet who has advanced most in any sign, be he benefic or malefic, e.g., if Saturn occupies 28th degree of a sign and no other planet's degree is more than that, Saturn is the Atmakaraka of the horoscope. Therefore no question of an Atmakaraka being benefic or malefic for any lagna arises. (g) When you seek elucidation you should not misrepresent things. Wherever there are contradictions or errors, you are entitled to point them out in the interests of the readers and the science itself. But why do you say that in the former answer it is stated that Malavya Yoga is defunct whereas if you read column 2 on page 206 of 1951 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE, you will see "The yoga cannot be said to be defunct". (line 20 from top). (h) All exchanges between 4th and 9th house lords though good cannot have the same identical effects. Suppose in a case of Aries Lagna, Moon is in the 1st degree of Sagittarius and Jupiter is in 28th degree of Cancer; there is exchange between 4th and 9th lords. But though in signs that are quincunx, the planets are actually in trine positions with regard to each other as the distance between them is only 123 degrees. Jupiter is exalted and aspects Moon powerfully. Moon is in a friendly sign. In contrast take the Sun exchange for Taurus Lagna and suppose ruler of 9th Saturn is in Leo 2nd degree and Sun is in Capricorn 2nd degree. Both the planets will be inimical rasis and exact quincunx. Moreover Saturn would [illegible] debilitation in navamsa. So the two exchanges cannot mean the same thing (i) The horoscope at birth gives the sensitive points of the zodiac. The places occupied by benefics are potent for good and the places occupied by malefics are potent for evil. These qualities are liable to be exerted by directions and by transits. When a malefic transits the place occupied by it at birth, the evil is exerted and hence may prove to be a critical period, e.g., when Saturn transits its own radical place, all the miseries inherent in birth chart because of Saturn's position will be intensified. If journeys, changes, or new undertakings are effected while this is in force, the results may prove disappointing. (j) When in enemy's house, the strength due for retrogression is liable to be reduced. But when exalted तुलामे वक्री नीच बल : he will be as a planet in debility (line 1–2, verse 6 of Chapter II of Uttarakalamrita). (k) Your first reason is no reason as in the case of Mercury, he will be himself the lord of the sign he is exalted in and so the rule cannot obviously apply. The second reason is according to the alternative view explained in answer to question (a) which is your opinion to which you are entitled.

Q. 3. (a) Are the period and sub-period of retrograde planets bad for success in examinations? (b) Retrograde Saturn is exalted in lagna. Is there Sasa Yoga? Will not retrograde Saturn in exaltation give results of depression. If so, how can Sasa Yoga arise? If it arises at all, will it give good results? (c) Does retrograde Mercury become combust in the same way as ordinary Mercury, or is there any difference? If so state. Does retrograde but combust Mercury give good or evil results? (d) Is it correct to say that benefic retrograde planets give good results while malefic retrograde planets give evil results? By malefic do we mean malefic by nature or malefic because of rulership? (e) Can a debilitated planet which is retrograde give rise to Panchmahapurusha Yoga? G. Navsari.

Ans. (a) वक्रगस्यपाकेस्मा नमान सौख्याद्यपच : । (Sutra 15 of Jataka Tattwa, Chapter I).

"During the Dasa of a planet that is retrograde, there will be fall in position, loss of honour and decline of happiness"- Of course, there is nothing to connect the retrogression of a planet with failure in an examination but if that planet is in some way connected wfth 4th house, such an event is probable. (b) Sasa Yoga is formed no doubt. The retrogression will only reduce the good effects, that is all. It cannot be said that an exalted planet when retrograde becomes for all interests and purposes a debilitated planet. He is only stated to become weak like a debilitated planet which is a different thing. (c) In ordinary motion, Mercury becomes combust if he is within 12 degrees from Sun? But if retrograde Mercury will be combust when he is within 12° from Sun? A retrograde planet when combust can give only bad effects. (d) शुभा वक्रगा राज्यामेदा : पापव्यासन हानिदा : (Sutra 98, Chap. R.J.T.) Benefic planets when retrograde will bestow kingdom, power and wealth when malefics in the same condition will cause evil and loss. (e) No. Vide answer to (b).

Q. 4. (a) How to measure the strength of a horoscope in general? Do not planets give benefic or malefic results as the case may be varying in proportion to the general strength of the horoscope? (b) What is the significance of exchange between 5th and 11th house-lords? Has this any special significance where lagna is Leo. (c) Does the aspect of Saturn on 7th delay marriage? What if that happens to be his own sign? (d) Planet is benefic or malefic either by inherent nature because of rulership? How is the student to know which of them is meant by the author? (e) Is Navamsa chart more important than Rasi chart for determining agreement between any two horoscopes for purposes of marriage alliance? (f) Please state what kind of strength is indicated by Vargottama position of a planet (g) A natural benefic in conjunction with Kethu is said to be afflicted. What is the position when the afflicting malefic is Vargottama? (h) Is Rahu bad in 8th? What is the position if he is Vargottama? (i) If 2nd house afflicted when Kethu alone occupies it what result is Vargottama?

P.A.S., Adipur.

Ans. (a) This comes only by experience and no hard and fast rules can be given. Planets do not give varying results according to the general strength of the horoscope. Rather it is otherwise. The general strength of the horoscope depends on the varying results of the planets. (b) This is a Maha Yoga which is a beneficial one. In case of Leo Lagna, the mutual aspect will give added efficacy to the yoga. (c) Saturn has certainly a delaying effect. It is the inherent nature of Saturn to do so and the fact that the aspect is upon his own sign is not a help in this case and may not mitigate the delay. (d) This should be gleaned from the context. If it is simply stated a benefic or malefic, the natural benefics or malefics are meant. Suppose the phrase "aspected by benefics" occurs in a verse without any qualifying clause. This means only natural benefics and not malefics ruling kendras. (e) No. (f) (i) Vargottama planet gets the same strength as if he is in his own sign. If such a planet is a malefic, he will have to be judged as if he is in his own sign, i.e., his natural maleficence will become greatly reduced.

Q. 5. Are Sakata Yoga and Kumuda Yoga Raja Yogas? Kindly describe the yogas and what are the good and bad effects? V.N.S., Arrah.

Sakata Yoga arises when Moon is in 6, 8 or 12 from Jupiter. The native may lose his fortune and may regain it. He will be ordinary and insignificant He may even suffer from poverty. So this cannot be a Raja Yoga. But there are at least two other yogas that go by the same name and with

G. A. Natesan & Co.—Sixty years of Publishing—(G. A. Natesan & Co.—Sunkurama Chetty St., G.T. Madras-1. Pp. 300. Price Rs. 5).

In connection with the celebration of the Diamond Jubilee of the well-known and enterprising firm of publishers, G. A. Natesan & Co., an attractive souvenir has been published by the present management controlled by the sons of Mr. Natesan. The well-known monthly Journal, the Indian Review, is an outstanding publication of this concern.

The felicitations and greetings, goodwill messages, and congratulations, received on this happy occasion, have been printed, and President Rajendraprasad, Vice-President Dr. Radhakrishnan, Prime Minister Nehru, Governors of States, Chief Ministers and others have sent in their tribute of praise to the good proprietors for their work accomplished.

Natesan publications cover the entire range of human culture and they include literature, religion, philosophy, economics and politics. The souvenir contains about 150 pictures, attractive insects, colour plates. I hope this souvenir will be widely appreciated and encouraged by the public who never afford to forget the handy pocket-edition of the Gita, with the translation of Dr. Annie Besant.

STARS IN THEIR Seasons

By M. V. RAMAKRISHNAN, M.A., L.T.

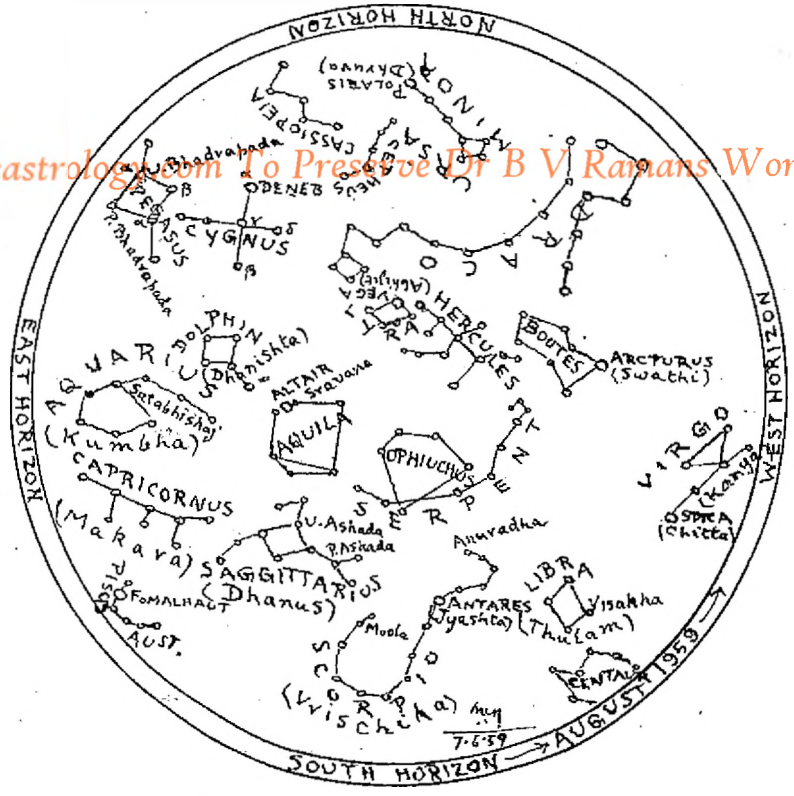
Night Sky in August 1959

Zodiacal Constellations

THE zodiacal constellations that are visible this month at about 9-30 in the night are ranged from west to east, Virgo (Kanya), Libra (Thula), Scorpio (Vrischika), Sagittarius (Dhanus), Capricorn (Makara) and Aquarius (Kumbha). Virgo is setting and you see its principal star spica (Chitta) close to the western horizon. Libra is seen somewhat higher up in the south-western sky. Scorpio is crossing the meridian, and you can clearly identify the lunar asterisms in this constellation. Sagittarius and Capricorn are seen approaching the meridian. In Sagittarius you can recognise the two Ashadas. Above Capricorn and almost directly in the east you see the big constellation Aquarius. It has come out fully above the horizon; and it is prominent with a few bright stars shining out well in an otherwise unattractive region of the heavens.

Non-Zodiacal Constellations

Of the non-zodiacal constellations, Ursa Minor is seen in full in the north and Ursa Major is seen sinking in the north-western sky. Betwixt the two is seen the constellation of the Dragon well past the meridian. The kite-shaped constellation Bootes and the sprawling constellation Hercules to its east have both crossed the meridian. The little attractive group Lyra with its principal star, the bright white Vega is seen high on the meridian a little north of the zenith. Ophiuchus has crossed the meridian. Cepheus, Cassiopeia and Cygnus in the north are seen approaching the meridian. The diamond shaped group Dolphin and its neighbouring constellation Aquila are approaching the meridian. In the north-east Pegasus and Andromeda are seen coming out of the horizon, while in the south-eastern sky Piscis Australis, or the Southern Fish, has just come above the horizon.



Lunar Asterisms

The lunar asterisms that can be identified in the visible hemisphere are Chitta in Virgo, Swati in Bootes, Visakha in Libra, Anuradha, Jyeshta and Moola in Scorpio, the Ashadas in Sagittarius, Sravana in Aquila, Dhanishta in Dolphin, Satabhisha in Aquarius and the Bhadrapadas in Pegasus and Andromeda.

The Milky Way

The Milky Way traverses the sky from north-east to south-west, passing through or between Cassiopeia, Cepheus, Cygnus, Aquila, Sagittarius, Scorpio and Centaurus.

Weather Forecasts for August 1959

By D. R. MUNSIFF, B.Sc., (Econ., London), B.A., (Hons., Bombay).

BEFORE discussing the weather for the July-August period, I should like to recall what I had said for the Bombay State and North-East India bounded by U.P., Bihar and West Bengal for May-June period. It was said that the Bombay State will pass through much hotter climate than the usual. It has been amply borne out for many cities barely 200 miles north of Bombay had to toil through the temperature ranging from 110° F. to 116° F.

For April-May period, it was said about North-East India that there were going to be far fewer North-Easterners while for the May-June alternate periods hot and moist weather and strong showers were indicated. As soon as Sun entered Gemini on 21st May, the deficit of rainfall decreased and at the time of writing during the first week of June, the rainfall is a little above normal.

Now for July-August period, we must concentrate on the geniture of the Sun's entry into Leo on July the 23rd. Once again for the North and N.E. India, the dry signs Gemini, Sagittarius and Virgo dominate the map while the twelfth sign is on the Ascendant. The third sign is on the cusp of the fourth house. The ruler of the fourth house is Mercury—the very planet which plays such a large part in carrying the rain-bearing clouds. It is in conjunction with Uranus which bring about electric storms. Both of them are in the hot and dry sign Leo. Therefore these parts of India are going to pass through once again a period much drier and even hotter than the normal. However the saving graces consist in Saturn and Moon in the angles. But speaking generally, the weather is certainly not beneficent for the crops. Further, there will be plenty on air charged with static electricity which will create thunderstorms.

July 23rd thunderstorm, 25th a hot and moist day with drizzles ending with fast winds, 26th a mild and mellow day with cloudy weather, 27th hot and moist, 31st fast winds, Mercury falling down with widespread thunder-showers; 1st and 2nd hot, moist and trying days; 3rd light showers accompanied by thunder and lightning; 5th strong hot winds; 6th a hot and trying day; 7th light rain with plenty of humidity; 9th and 10th lower temperature than on the previous day with light widespread showers; 13th hot and strong winds; 14th light drizzles; 16th a very hot day ending in a very light shower with thunder; 19th lower temperature with widespread thunder-showers; 20th mild and mellow sun with clouds.

The weather for the Western Coast and the Bombay State area is dominated by Venus because the sign Taurus is on the fourth cusp. The weather will therefore be not so hot, and likely to remain cloudy but unfortunately Venus finds itself stationed in the sign of its fall—a dry sign. Therefore the temperature will be a little below normal but certainly rains will be shorter than normal.

July 23rd scattered showers; 1st and 2nd August good rains; 3rd scattered showers; 8th and 9th widespread and heavy showers; 10th strong winds; 12th and 13th are hot and windy days; 14th a hot day with light showers; 16th strong winds with scattered showers; 19th strong gusty winds with widespread rains; 20th a hot and cloudy day with widespread drizzles.

For Assam and other parts of North India, it is a different story because the sign Cancer rules the cusp of the fourth house and what is more is that Moon, the ruler of the fourth house is placed in the twelfth sign of the zodiac. Therefore the weather will be wet more than the average. This results in plenty of water in the lowland fields of Assam which are required for washing the jute fibre. This is the one part of India at least where timely and adequate rains do a lot of good to the agriculturists. I should like to warn therefore those who are interested in jute trade that jute prices will fall at this time owing to the prospects of a good crop.

NEW LIGHT ON JAIMINI ASTROLOGY—II

विपरीतमित्यन्ये ॥ 2–1–11

Some astrologers say that when there is the relationship of Saturn only increase in longevity has to be predicted. But Maharshi Jaimini is against it.

न स्वर्क्षेतुंगगे सौरे ॥ 2–1–12

केवल पापदृग्योगिनिच ।2–1–13

If Saturn is in his own house or in exaltation and having only the relationship of malefics then it is not necessary to apply Kaksha Hrasa.

Dasarambha

The beginning of Hora Dasa should be calculated either from the lagna or Hora Lagna whichever is stronger. These dasas should be calculated upto that rasi in which Marakagraha (death-inflicting planet) is posited. Dasas have to be calculated according to Prakruti chakra and it has been discussed previously.

Determination of Maraka in this Hora Dasa

It should be first decided who is the stronger of the two lords, namely lord of the Hora Lagna or Karaka. Death will happen in the Rasi Dasa in which (rasi) is posited the strongest of the lords amongst 3, 6, 8 and 12 counted from Karaka if he is stronger than the Hora Lagnadhipa, and in the sub-period the strongest of the rasi in which is posited the strongest of the lords of 6, 8 and 12 counted from Hora Lagnadhipa.

In the same way death will happen in the Rasi Dasa in which is posited the strongest of the lords of 3, 6, 8 and 12 counted from Hora Lagnadhipa if he is stronger than the Karaka, and in the sub-period of that rasi in which is posited the strongest of the lords of 6, 8 and 12 counted from Karaka.

The strengths mentioned in Adhyaya II and Pada III are taken in determining the strengths of planets. This will be discussed separately at a later stage.

Determination of sub-periods in the Hora Dasa

The Dasa years are divided into twelve equal parts. And from the Dasarambha rasi subperiods are calculated according to Prakruti chakra.

"LET the astrologer go out of the town or village into the open, select a pure place, and kindle a fire and put incense in it on Holi Amavasya day (4-8-1959) or on Adi Poornam day (18-8-1959). If the incense arising from the fire proceeds towards the east, the produce that year would be number and would be double the normal yield. If towards the south-east, there would be prosperity in the land. If towards the south, there would be no rains. If towards south-west both prosperity and rains will be little. If towards west, the produce nanja and punja would be fairly good. If towards north-west, the produce would be damaged by pests, locusts, etc. If towards north, prosperity in the land. If towards north-east, abundant rains and the red variety of paddy will be great". —Science of Rainfall.

"Plant a garden when the Moon is in Rohini, for betel vine-Aslesha, for brinjals-Bharani, for ragi-Swati and for roots when the Moon is in Moola; for plantains and sugarcane when the Moon is in Pushya. For creeping plants that yield edible roots in Punarvasu". —Kalavidhanam.

"If during an eclipse of the Sun or Moon, there are heavy winds or if clouds gather thick in the sky or if there are lightning flashes, thunder, or rumbling, there will be good seasonal rains and prosperity in the land". —Science of Rainfall.

"The Moon on account of her proximity to the earth, her reflection of the solar light and the swiftness of the motion is considered to be the most powerful significator in astrology. It is therefore of the utmost importance that the Moon be free from affliction and in close aspect with either one of the fortunes or the Sun or the planet ruling the business on hand when election of an opportune moment for the commencement of such business is desired—as to the signs of the zodiac, the ancients said that it is best to have the Moon in an early sign (Taurus, Virgo, Capricorn) when sowing or planting or repairing buildings; in Cancer for travelling by sea; in Sagittarius for buying horses and cattle. In any case, Moon should be more than 12 degrees distant in longitude from the Sun or the business will be hindered. —A. J. Pearce.

DAILY GUIDE

1. A generally good day for all purposes; specially favourable for manuring and buying of cattle; planting also can be done; for best effects, use farmyard manure.

2. Whole day is good alround for all agricultural beginnings, but the best period is after 3-15 p.m. till 4-30 p.m. for making new start; good manuring specially; for best effect, use chemical manures.

3. Because of Yogam not suitable for ploughing, manuring or planting whole day and night; L.D. not good for new beginnings of any kind; better keep to routine such as digging, levelling, weeding, fencing, etc.

4. Amavasya. Whole day not suited for ploughing, manuring or planting because of Yogini; better observed as an agricultural holiday.

5. Both L.D. and asterism unsuitable for any auspicious beginnings; keep to routine.

6. A good day in general; one of the best in the whole month and so should be utilised for starting some good works; favourable for planting purchase of grain, digging wells, purchase of cattle.

7. Asterism not good for any agricultural works; only thing favoured is purchase of cattle.

8. Marana Yogam throughout day and night; so unfit for any new enterprises; keep to routine only.

9. An alround good day; favourable for all kinds of new beginnings, planting, harvesting, purchase of grain or cattle, digging wells, storing grain, etc. In manuring for best effect, use both green and chemical manures combined.

10. After 3-35 p.m. good for all kinds of work and new beginnings—especially planting, purchase of grains and cattle and defrayal of paddy for farm expenses.

11. Till 11 a.m. very well suited for manuring; thereafter L.D. not favourable for any purpose; for best effects, use manure of organic and inorganic manures.

12. L.D. and Yogam make this day unsuitable for all new works; keep to routine matters only.

13. Yogam makes this day unsuitable for manuring, ploughing and planting; whole day is however good for dealings in cattle.

14. The day has limited uses: Till 9-15 a.m. Marana Yogam; therefore good for planting and dealings in cattle.

15. Asterism renders the day suitable only for dealings in cattle; otherwise keep to routine.

16. One of the very good days in the month for all purposes in general; any kind of agricultural work can be started— manuring, planting, ploughing, storing grain, digging wells, harvesting, etc.

17. L.D. not good for new beginnings; keep to routine.

18. Best suited for planting and should be utilised for this purpose; next best for manuring; for best effects, use mixture of organic and inorganic manures.

19. L.D. not good generally; keep to routine.

20. Asterism makes this day suitable only for dealings in cattle; however waterlifts can be put up.

21. An alround good day for all purposes; should be exploited for anything on hand; planting, digging wells, manuring, harvesting and storing of grain; for best effects, use organic manure.

22. Yogini makes whole day and night unfit for ploughing, planting,

Astrological Section

THIS article is posted to the Editor on 6th June 1959. It is yet too early to say what would happen in June but all the same, readers are requested to refer to the June issue and re-read the forecasts on cotton prices. Readers were asked to sell cotton at the end of May—they were informed that there was no saving grace.

On 31st May, the price of cotton stood at Rs. 710 per candy—yesterday evening the price closed at Rs. 691. I trust that the readers of this column do not require more, and those sceptics who air their views without knowing the elements, should note that the forecast was in the hands of the Editor fully two months before the due time. Next, this fall has occurred at the time when the cloth production in the country is expanding, and when the reports have spread that the cotton crop for 'the year has been smaller than estimated.

It will bear repetition that for commodity forecasts, conclusions are drawn only from the Nirayana basis and the interpretations of the effects of various planets (Uranus, Neptune and Pluto are not considered) in nakshatra of which there is no counterpart in Sayana system. Further, the system of aspects employed is entirely different from that of the Western methods.

It is remarkable to note that there is no vedha between the planets (Moon is not considered because it causes only fleeting vedhas) between the 3rd and 10th of this month. Such a time gives the astrologer an opportunity to study the dominant effects of planets as well as nakshatras on different commodities.

Mars enters Purvaphalguna on the 31st July and stays there until 21-8-59 when it proceeds to Uttaraphalguna. Mercury is in Aslesha upto the 9th and in Pushya upto the 22nd at which time it re-enters in Aslesha.

Sukra with its retrograde and direct motion continues to woo Purvaphalguna.

Rahu remains in Hasta, Kethu in Uttarabhadrapada, Sani in Moola and Jupiter in Visakha.

But this month's economic trends are entirely in the hands of Mercury and Venus because they become slow and retrograde and thus prolong their stay in a nakshatra much longer than the normal span. Further the Sun passes the same nakshatra as does Budha namely Aslesha and later Makha from the 20th of the month.

The aspect of Budha on Sukra begins on the 11th and continues until the 22nd, and of Mercury on Sun from the 22nd onwards. All these combine to have an overbearing influence on the price of the precious metals silver and gold. This month will witness a severe break in the prices of these metals and other metals also which have been in short supply. The break will emerge from the seventh onwards and will gain speed during the middle of the second week of the month.

It is possible at this stage that Russia will emerge as a seller of the precious metals on the world market. Therefore those who are trading in bullion should remain extremely watchful. The values will suffer a fall of nearly 5%.

However this picture will suddenly be transformed from 27th onwards and the economic situation will be topsy-turvy. The value of commodities which has suffered a fall during the month will rise and vice versa.

Economic Section

Some miscellaneous items of topical interest are dealt with in this column this month; they are not necessarily connected but all of them impinge upon the economic situation of the day.

First, all the tall talk that various spokesmen connected with the ruling party were indulging in, is being recanted slowly. The ex-President of the Congress Mr. Dhebar gave a rather fearful cry in speaking aloud the fact that the fruits of the various plans completed, or in course of completion would be dead and rotten fruit if the targets of food production were not achieved. Next at the time of writing these columns, there is a clear and unmistakable admission on the part of the Food Minister of the West Bengal Government that no success has been achieved in controlling the price of rice.

The newspaper columns are full with the news of rise in the price of wheat in the North. The Government has taken complete control over the quantities of sugar manufactured by the companies all over the country. This is indirectly an admission on the part of Government that there was a black market in sugar. Surely it is possible for the Government to trace the people and organisations guilty of those malpractices and to bring them to book. Since this is not done, the implications of the acts of omission are left to be drawn by the common people.

The reports of the Committees of Inquiry about the L.I.C. deal in the shares of companies controlled by Mr. Mundhra are already out. One of the conclusions has been that the L.I.C. (Life Insurance Corporation) was made the milch-cow for the contributions made by Mr. Mundhra to the Congress Party, though the Government did not accept that view. The political morality of the ruling party which exploits Mahatma Gandhi's name could not have fallen lower than as betrayed in the deal with Mr. Mundhra.

There are reports which can be verified by social reformers of every colour that cane-sugar is diverted to the manufacture of gur more and more. It is clear from this that the scale on which illegal distillation is being carried on increases. If only there was an impartial commission of enquiry with medical practitioners on its board to carry out an investigation, it will be found that a very large number of people are ruining their health by the cottage-industry brew. More still, the profits derived from this industry are so large that they attract into its field a number of middle-class people of a good station in life. This results in a vested interest prospering on crime and to perpetuate its prosperity, it corrupts by its wealth and position the guardians of law.

We have read about heavy penalties imposed upon some businessmen who have been found guilty of breaking the exchange-control regulations. These could not have taken place without the direct or indirect agency of a bank or banks. If this be so, one wonders why those banks are not called upon to explain how the matters were allowed to pass. Further, one does not understand why those guilty persons are allowed to continue in the public offices they hold. Surely, they should be barred from attending public and Government functions.

The amendments to the Company Act are now on the anvil; they are proposed to be introduced with a view to protect the public's interests from the misdeeds of those who pull the strings of power. Yet, the banking companies are not brought within the full view of the public. There should be a compulsory provision for disclosing the bad debts every year. There are many so-called reputed banks who have completely lame-ducks on their books with no chance of realising a single penny from them; but year in and year out, such accounts are carried on their books as good assets. Next, it is the duty of the Government to find out as to how far those bad debts are connected with the deliberate decisions and actions of the Directors. In fact, though the Government has declared that it is opposed to nationalising the banking industry, yet this will be the first industry that is likely to fall into the hands of the Government through its inefficiency. The falling share-values inspite of the large inflation of notes that find their way to the banks as deposits are a witness to that prophecy.

There is a seminar proceeding in the cool and salubrious heights of the Nilgiris to study the implications of the proposed third year plan. One wonders why such a seminar is necessary. The Government has already declared that targets for the small savings movements have not been achieved. Unemployment has increased—there is no comparable increase in the food production in juxta-position with the increase in population. The cost of living is not controlled. The raw material position of some of our industries is pretty bad; the reports have fallen while the fruits of the past sacrifices which were accumulated in the shape of sterling balances are falling to a dangerous level.

Where are the internal resources for a plan on a scale that is being envisaged by the party in power? Inspite of several measures of ameliorative legislation, the economic condition of the peasantry has not improved. The middle classes are destroyed they are joining the ranks of the proletariat. There is hardly any monetary surplus left with the working classes inspite of increased wages, after paying for the base maintenance costs. The very rumour of a proposed increase in taxation during the third five-year plan brought the stock-exchange values tumbling down. How much it will cost the Government in the shape of declining revenues from capital tax, property tax, income and super-tax? Today, taxation is a double-edged weapon; just because taxes are increased, the revenue does not necessarily increase. The implications of the third five-year plan are made clear to the readers from the sweltering climate of the Indian summer in intimate contact with the daily life.

The above deals with the internal economic situation. But more and more, the economy of a country is geared to the international economy. There is no country in the world today which plays so dominant a part as the U.S.A. in determining the price level specially of the raw materials of the world. About eighteen months ago, the recession in the U.S.A. though it was a small one, yet caused a fall in the price level of iron ore, manganese tin, copper, rubber, cotton and even other foodgrains. The picture is now reversed. The United States economy is now in strong shape; the national income has risen since the depression nearly 20%; the number of totally employed people is now more than at the time recession set in; the production of steel was at no time at such a high level.

The economy of Great Britain has recovered a good deal. West Germany is prospering. The problem of unemployment has not yet been born in the Scandinavian world. But at the same time, there are going to be startling shifts in the lines of production as a result of the man's quest for the conquest of space. The traditional sources of power like coal and oil will be displaced; the traditional hard materials like iron and steel are likely to give place to other harder alloys as well as some lighter materials. Even man's enemies are changing—the microbes and viruses that took a toll of human life are now conquered but new scourges are emerging. The conquest of disease is a will of the wisp for disease is merely a result of man's adaptation to his environment. If the environment changes as it has changed already with the introduction of atomic technology, and will change still more with the development of the missile age, newer scourges will make an appearance. The result of all this is that a fresh era of expansion in the economic field is emerging—its presence is not yet noticed but it is going to break with a tremendous impact in the late sixties of this century.

For the time being, the demand of the existing products will continue to expand and whatever may be the taxes, the sheer weight of the expansion of currency will raise the prices. The deficit budgets all over the world are a testimony to the rise in monetary price level of all the things including stocks and shares in the short run; much will remain in the hands of readers after two years will be unfolded in these columns in due course.

Dr. Deshmukh Lane, Bombay-4

Those who must have expected that some concrete decisions would be taken at the A.I.C.C. Seminar at Ooty must have been disillusioned, since nothing has been done except fruitless discussions without taking any definite decisions. As usual a Committee has been appointed to go into the question of rising prices and fixation of the Third Plan taxation targets? By the time Committee gives its report position would have drastically changed to an extent that another seminar, or another Committee would be essential. Anyway what a common man faces today is expected taxation and more taxation just to crush him. I fail to understand whether with such increased taxation measures the Government could really get the Third Plan executed. This is a problem which must be decided in right perspective. There should be no harm in going slow, but attaining definite results is necessary today. What the two plans which are said to have been implemented have achieved needs proper study before hastening further plans. As was expected by me sometime back, cess on cash crops is being suggested and it may be even implemented in the near future. Such a step would have far reaching effects on the commodity markets in general and may even depress the incentive to produce.

During the month under review among the major planets only Jupiter changes sign on 17th August and this planet of soberity and knowledge enters Scorpio. At the time of this change (according to the Janmabhoomi Panchanga which is being followed by me) the ascendant and the planetary positions are favourable and I anticipate that a wave of bearishness would sweep over all the commodity markets in particular round about this time. Among minor planets the positions of Mercury and Venus during the month need proper scrutiny. Mercury while becoming direct on 17th, rises in the East on 14th. Venus throughout the month transits her own nakshatra Purvaphalguna getting retrograde on 11th. Both these positions point mandi conditions only and are likely to aid the bearishness as propounded by Jupiter's transit as well.

Solar Ingress Charts of 16th July and 17th August

The indications in the Cancer ingress chart have been already discussed. It appears right from the beginning of the month till 10th particularly, mandi conditions would prevail in the commodities with slight teji reactions thereafter till 17th. The chart for Solar Ingress of Leo also indicates good drops in the values of commodities. I have hardly discussed in any of my articles effects of Herschel and Neptune. I may state here that whenever any planet is transitting the sign occupied by these two planets the planet transitting that sign gains strength. Mercury in Cancer in association with Herschel therefore is more destructive and indicative of more bearishness than one can ordinarily expect. It is only after the entry of Mars in Uttaraphalguna specially in Virgo from 26th that there might be some strength in commodity markets. It appears that therefore only in the last week of the month commodities might recover to some extent, but practically the whole month is bearish.

In general commodities should witness rise and fall as indicated below. 1st and 2nd steady, 3rd to 10th mandi, 11th to 14th slightly bullish, 15th to 20th mandi, 21st to 26th bothways, 27th to 30th teji.

New Moon Chart of 4th August 1959.

According to the New Moon chart of 4th August, bothways fluctuations in a narrow range would be witnessed during the whole month in stocks generally. It would be advisable to follow mandi in the first 9 days. From 10th to 20th markets would once rise, again to fall in the ending part of the month.

Cotton and Allied Products—Textiles

Coupled with indications in the solar ingress chart, martian transit from Purvaphalguna, Mercury transitting Cancer and Venus transitting also Purvaphalguna are all bearish factors. Mercury rising on the 14th and Venus retrograde on 11th are factors which add to the mandi conditions and it would be advisable to follow mandi in Cotton Vaida—forward—upto 21st August 1959. August is a monsoon month and much depends on the weather and rain. In the ending part of the month scanty rains would be the cause which might change the trend of the market from being bearish to bullishness and specially after 21st people should come out of mandi at least from the maturing contract—August 1959 vaida, when all of a sudden prices will start soaring. Lack of demand for textiles as depicted by Mercury and Venus transits should keep in general prices subdued and there seems to be no harm in following mandi upto 21st August 1959. Thereafter prices will steadily improve.

Oilseeds and Oils

This section is ruled by two counterbalancing forces—Mars and Saturn. One governs heat, while other denotes contraction—coldness. The interpretations as followed by us from planetary forces therefore many a times go wrong. This month however both Mars and Saturn transitting Purvaphalguna and Moola respectively denoting bearishness along with weak Mercury, it will be a one-sided activity with prices daily showing new bottoms. Follow one mandi line in this section without interruption. Only during the period 16th to 22nd vedhas between Mars and Mercury would show slight rehearsal to be followed by further drops.

Metals and Bullions.—Jupiter in Scorpio from 17th August, in Cancer navamsa, Venus in Purvaphalguna and solar transits in Aslesha and Makha all indicate bearishness in values. Martian transit is only indicative of little bullishness in yellow metal specially. Silver would show marked decline while gold would remain little subdued. In other metals copper would remain somewhat strong. Except copper other metals would remain weak. Follow mandi in every Teji reaction. 1st to 10th mandi, 11th to 13th teji, 14th to 21st mandi, 21st evening to 26th bothways, 27th to 30th teji.

Sugar and Gud.—Kethu transitting Uttarbhadrapada, and Aslesha transit of Mercury are factors which denote depressing conditions even in these sections during this odd season.

Chemicals and Dyes.—Ardra remaining free from affliction, and Mercury and Venus remaining weak, same story continues here and prices will be on an average sagging.

Stocks and Shares.—Comparing the commodity markets this section would be somewhat strong. New Moon chart indications are not favouring much drop. Navamsa relations of Saturn and Rahu are favourable. One should expect a rise during 10th and 18th. But solar transit accompanied by Mars and Venus in Leo is not at all good for stock markets and in the ending part while commodities would start improving stocks, and shares would be steadily coming down. Market would fluctuate in a narrow range. 1st to 9th mandi, 10th to 18th teji, 19th to 26th down, 27th to 30th steady.

P.O. Patri, Dist. Ahmedabad.

August 1959 commences on Saturday Krishna Paksha Dwadashi and Mirgasira nakshatra. Ashada Amavasya falls on Tuesday Pushya-Aslesha constellations; lunar Sravana commences on Wednesday. There are five Wednesdays and five Thursdays during this lunar month ruled by Mars. It comprises of monsoon season ruled by Moon. Shukla Pratipada and Ashtami of lunar Sravana fall on Wednesday. Full Moon day occurs on Tuesday in constellation Dhanishta. This means that natural zodiacal constellation Sravana ruling this lunar month is not accompanied on Full Moon day. It presages stringent times for foodstuffs and cereals. Lunar dark half of Sravana has three Wednesdays—accompanying Pratipada, Ashtami and Amavasya known to be दर्श अमावास्या. Mercury the ruling planet for this lunar month is within the orb of the Sun, known as बुधास्त पश्चिमे. This planet is the ruler of Bharatavarsha and has turned retrograde during previous month on 23-7-59 and is combusted from 25-7-59. Its transit through the watery sign Cancer during lunar Ashada month favourable for rains in the Western horizon, where rains, out of season, are the outcome. On 11-8-59, another minor benefic planet Venus gets retrograde in Leo sign. On 14-8-59 the planet of wisdom, speech and commerce Mercury heliacally rises known as बुधोऽध्यपूर्व. On 15-8-59 is the Indian Independence Day. Subplanet अगस्त्य will become visible in the sky from now. Mercury gets direct on 16-8-59. On 17-8-59, Sun enters its own sign Leo. It is Monday, lunar Sravana Shukla Chaturdashi, Uttarashada nakshatra. Jupiter as well enters the watery sign Scorpio on this, this yoga is often confused. Verse 4 of Chapter XII of Brihat Jataka says that Sakata Yoga arises when all the seven planets are in 1st and 7th houses. The effects of this yoga are given in verse 13 of the same chapter as follows :— "The native will gain his livelihood by driving a cart and will be sickly and cursed with a bad wife". Verse 108 of Chapter VII of Jataka Parijata defines Sakata Yoga thus :—"If Jupiter occupying 6th or 8th bhava from Moon be elsewhere than in a kendra in respect of lagna, this yoga arises". The effects are given in the next verse. The person born in Sakata Yoga be he of royal family becomes indigent and in consequence of the trouble and fatigue falling to his lot, he is always distressed and becomes an object of aversion to the king". So this too does not indicate Rajayoga. Kumuda Yoga :—We have not seen this defined in standard texts.

"In the April issue of your Magazine, 2nd April is listed as a critical date while in Daily Guide, Astrological Magazine, is given as highly favourable. 11th April is given as fortunate date while in Daily Guide it is given as a highly critical reading. Please explain."

Ans. Different considerations prevail in determining a critical date in How is this Month and Fortunate Dates in Daily Guide. In Daily Guide, the day, lunar date, asterism and yoga are also taken into account along with planetary positions. But in How is this Month the rulership of planets in relation to the rasi under consideration is also included. Obviously this cannot be done in the Daily Guide which is general. Therefore it is probable that they are differently described under the two headings in a few exceptional cases. Greater importance should be attached to the fortunate and critical dates which is special to each rasi, though it will be advisable to take only such dates as are good in both as fortunate dates.

that he would win a large sum of money that month!

If his speculative interests were mostly confined to racing then he would be sure in his own mind from whence the gain would come, but the difficulty is, that if he has numerous other speculative interests at the same time, say on the stock exchange, or in business, it would not be possible from a mere transit of Jupiter over the Moon to say from which direction the great gain would come. Since there were 20 horses competing in this race the difficulties facing the examiner of all the horoscopes of the owners at least would be tremendous, providing he knew all their respective birth data. The outsider who was not in a position to get at this data would therefore have a hopeless task. However, I hope that I have made my point clear that the clue to successful winner finding, is to be found in the horoscope of the man most concerned rather than in the time of the race itself.

I have found by experience that luck in speculation can only be a very occasional thing and it is usually shown by the angular position of Jupiter in both the sidereal solar and lunar returns. If Jupiter is conjoined with the radical Mars or Moon, or if transitting Jupiter is with Uranus or Neptune on the angles, then the chances are greatly enhanced. Any rational system for picking up winners would work for a short time only for you, during the period of Jupiter transit in your horoscope.

IDENTICAL HOROSCOPES

the M.C. and with the major planets in the same signs, their careers run on parallel lines. They are employed in the same department, beginning from humble position and working their way up through integrity, honesty and hard work. It is a common characteristic of Sun in Capricorn people that they meet with some heavy obstacles in the path of their desires and by dint of persistent, patient and concentrated efforts often but their way through and triumph over circumstances. Mercury lord of 10th Bhava is in the 2nd Bhava. The effects are said to be :—

व्योमभेशे स्मरक्षेतृवित्तस्थिते लब्धवर्णो जन : स्थन्यनस्थी तथा ।
सत्य धर्मप्रतिष्टो गुणी लोकविख्यातकीर्ति : कृपासागर : ॥

"Lord of 10th Bhava in 7th, 3rd or 2nd makes the native born, learned, high-minded, foremost in having truth and virtue as the ideal, possessed of highly noble qualities, famous and merciful".

Promotion in Services

"A" is now undergoing the major period of Mercury which was successfully passed by "B" till 13-11-1956. "B" got all his promotions only in the dasa period of Mercury; naturally because of its being lord of the 10th Bhava—the Bhava of profession and also the most responsible planet of avocation in this case. Its position in the 2nd Bhava is said to afford very good results during its dasa period.

वित्तगसौम्यदशायां विद्याप्राप्ति महत्व-कीर्तिंच ।
भूपति भाग्यसमानो राजस्थनि प्रधानतां यति ॥

"Mercury in the 2nd Bhava is productive of good results in its dasa, such as studies, fame, kingly riches and promotion to the highest ranks in the palace."

The dasa of Mercury has commenced only on 12–12–1948 in the case of A and lasts till 12–12–1965. And the two more promotions, yet remaining to equalise the status of the natives A and B, are expected to be got by A within the end of the dasa period of Mercury. This difference in status is just what one would be left to expect from the difference in the commencement of the dasa periods at birth in the above horoscopes.

THE SUN

The Sun starts on his journey from the 17th degree of Nirayana Cancer. He enters Leo on the 15th and then terminates his journey on the 16th degree. His northern declination gradually decreases from 18° 16′ to 9°.

THE MOON

The Moon begins his journey from the 5th degree of Nirayana Gemini, and after making a complete round of the heavens stops on the 8th degree of Cancer. He crosses the equator on the 8th and also on the 21st. He attains maximum declination of about 18° on the 1st, 14th and 28th. He comes to his Perigee on the 13th and goes to his Apogee on the 26th. He forms with the Sun the following aspects in this month:—

New Moon	on	4th	at about 8 p.m.
First quarter	on	11th	,, 10 p.m.
Full Moon	on	18th	,, 6 p.m.
Last quarter	on	26th	,, 1 p.m.

* The R.A. is always given on Sayana basis, while in the description of planetary movements, the longitudes are given on Nirayana basis current Ayanamsa being 21° 50′ 3.9″.

MARS AND MERCURY

Mars begins to move on from the 16th degree of Nirayana Leo. He enters Virgo on the 24th and then stops on the 5th degree. He sets in the west on th 28th.

Mercury is retrograde and commences his journey in the backward direction from the 25th degree of Nirayana Cancer. He becomes direct on the 17th and then moves forward upto the 30th degree of the same sign. He attains greatest elongation on the 23rd, comes to his node on the 26th and then goes to his Perihelion on the 31st. He rises heliacally in the eastern horizon on the 12th.

JUPITER AND VENUS

Jupiter starts on from the 1st degree of Nirayana Scorpio and proceeds upto the 3rd degree.

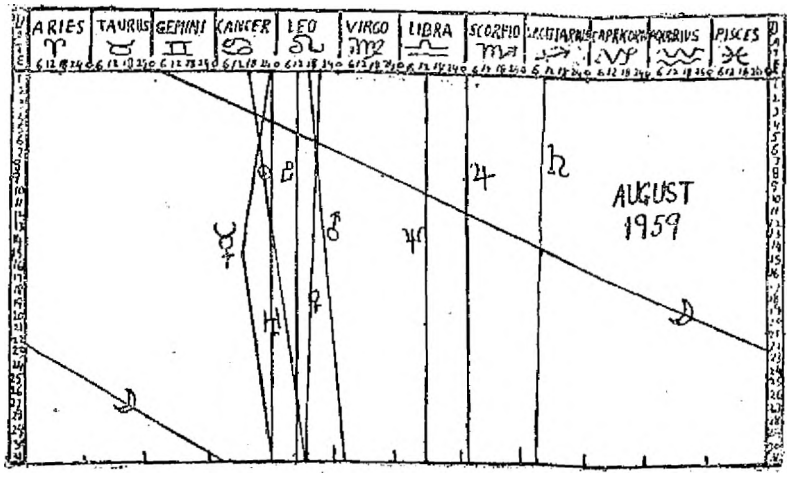
Venus commences to move on from the 23rd degree of Leo and proceeds upto the 18th degree of the same sign in this month. He crosses the equator towards the south on the 14th and goes to the Aphelion on the 15th. He becomes retrograde on the 12th and then crosses the equator towards the north on the 28th. He sets heliacally in the west on the 21st.

SATURN AND RAHU

Saturn is retrograde and moves back slowly from the 10th degree of Nirayana Sagittarius to the 9th degree.

Rahu moves back from the 15th degree of Virgo to the 14th degree.

OTHER PLANETS



Uranus moves direct from 24° 18′ of Nirayana Cancer to 26° 9′ of the same sign.

Neptune starts on his journey from the 12° 26′ of Libra and moves on very slowly upto the 12° 53′ of the same sign.

Pluto progresses on from 11° 14′ of Nirayana Leo to 12° 12′ of the same sign.

LUNAR CONJUNCTIONS

The Moon will form conjunctions with planets in the following order:—

Sun	on 4th	at about	8 p.m.
Mercury	on 4th	,,	11 p.m.
Uranus	on 5th	,,	5 a.m.
Pluto	on 6th	,,	11 a.m.
Mars	on 7th	,,	1 a.m.
Venus	on 7th	,,	10 a.m.
Rahu	on 8th	,,	8 p.m.
Neptune	on 10th	,,	10 p.m.
Jupiter	on 12th	,,	6 a.m.
Saturn	on 14th	,,	10 p.m.

EIGHT-PLANET COMBINATION

question arises whether there will be war?

What are the possibilities of a global war? For this let us consider the solar ingresses for March and December 1961. Since London is considered to be the geographic centre of the world, the charts are to be considered for these two epochs for the City of London.

At the moment of March ingress, at London, 6° of Leo is on the meridian with 4° Scorpio rising, receiving the benefic aspect of Kuja from 9° of Cancer. Kuja—the martial planet is the lord of the year; will he destroy the world? Kuja is weak in Cancer but with afflictions from the luminaries which are receiving the benefic aspects of Guru and Sani.

Kuja receives a trine aspect from Neptune and a sextile from Rahu. I think that the trigger happy politicians will be put under restraint by the common man or the workers. Guru is in the fourth house of the chart. There is no chance of a global war.

The December ingress is equally significant with a full Moon, the luminaries occupying the Vargottama positions. Guru is again on the lower meridian, confirming our earlier conclusions. The ingress of March 1962 is not sufficiently bad to cause a global war. Our country will not be involved in any such conflict.

Kumbha is an airy scientific sign and tremendous and unexpected improvements or changes will take place in all fields of science—atomic research, space travel, etc.

The Jana Sangh was founded on 21-10-1951—time unknown. G.M.T. noon positions of the planets are as follows:—Sun 27° Thula; Moon 11° Kataka; Neptune 19° Thula; Herschel 14° Kataka; Sani 8° Thula; Guru 7° Mesha; Kuja 10° Kanya; Sukra 13° Kanya; Budha 3° Vrischika; and Rahu 7° Meena.

The readers will see for themselves that the planets at the time of the great conjunction make powerful benefic angles to the planets in the foundation chart of the Jana Sangh. It will be of astrological interest to note the effects. Let us wait and see.

this very day. 18th August 1959 is the Sravana Full Moon day, Tuesday.

On 21st Friday Krishna Paksha Tritiya Venus gets combusted known as शुक्रास्त पश्चिमे. On 24th, शरदऋतु starts. Mars enters Virgo sign, wherein Rahu is already retreating. This planet—war lord and speculator's indicator is combusted known as भौमास्त पश्चिमे on 29-8-1559.

I had given a tip during May 1959. "Mars enters in Cancer on 20–5–59" and so on. Actually there was a severe bearish wave in almost all forward markets during that period—a debilitated position for the fiery planet in a watery navamsa between 21st and 26th May 1959. It had an immediate change in the weather as well. The monsoon broke down in Bombay.

There were severe and serious fire accidents in North Gujerat and Saurashtra during the martian transit through Taurus and Gemini during March, April and May. Heavy and fast moving winds and cyclones had also been witnessed during these transits, causing disturbance on land and sea as well. Lunar Sravana Amavasya falls in the 12th house from the ruling sign of India. Herschel in Cancer comes in trine to Jupiter on 17th. So, the political sphere will control and pilot the mass without any break or change over to any other administration, as apprehended.

June to November 1959 is very precarious time for Indian masses. The first and foremost thing for the Government should be to see that the poorest of human being in India gets ample food, ghee, milk and clothing freely from the market. Merchant classes also should be sympathetic and honest in their dealings.

Scanned with CamScanner www.astrologyvisionastrology.com The Research Work

On 15th August 1959, Venus remains at the farthest distance from the earth. Distance between Venus and Mercury is 38° 4' and Venus gets direct motion on this very date. On 31st August, Mercury comes at the Perihelion point. Heliacally, Mercury forms opposition with Sun on 5-8-59. Venus comes in opposition with Sun on 1-9-59.

Setting of Venus has much to do with Indian masses as Venus is the ruler of 2nd and 9th houses of the Indian Chart. Bharani, Rohini, Aridra three Purvas and three Uttaras belong to मनुष्यगण. The Aryan Astrological literature have described the setting of Venus in western horizon in Purva as follows :—

मनुष्यगण शुक्रास्ते वन्हिभी रोमपत्तने
देशभ्रास : कोङ्कणे चलाटे सिन्धौतुशून्यता ॥
दुर्भिक्षमुत्तरे देशे विग्रहो द्रविडाश्रये ।
गुर्जरे चसुभिक्षस्यात् वनस्पति फलोदय : ॥
मासमेकं महर्धस्यात् ततो धान्ये समर्धता ।
घृततैलान्ननिष्पत्ति : षट्सूत्राणि सर्वत्र : ॥
राजान : सुखिन : सर्वा : प्रजारोगविवर्जिता : ।
सर्वत्र वसतिर्देशे दुर्गेष्वानन्दनन्दिता : ॥

If Venus comes within the solar orb in Manushya Gana constellation, it causes serious fire accidents in Italy and Russian territories. Distressing times would prevail in the Sindh (Western Pakistan). Famine conditions would prevail in the northern regions of India. In S. India disturbed political conditions will prevail. For one month grain markets would remain tight and then gradually, scarcity would disappear. Ghee, oil, grain and cloth markets would go bearish, on account of better productions and lesser demands.

Retrograde Venus gets combusted and forms square with Jupiter and trine to retrograde Saturn in the 12th house. This would cause stringency all over. Venus rises in Makha, a Rakshasa Gana constellation, giving following results :—

नक्षत्रे राक्षसगणे शुक्रस्याभ्युदयेसति ।
गुर्जरे पुग्दल भयं दुर्भिक्षं द्रव्यहीनता ॥
पंचवर्ण पहशून्नं पूल्येनापि चदुर्लभम् ।
श्रीफलं दुर्लभं मूल्यं : श्रेष्टवंसश्च कस्याचित् ॥
उत्पादश्चीनदेशेस्यात् सिंधुदेशेऽतिविग्रह : ।
दिनत्रयमवाधिज्यं विग्रहो माल वादिके ॥

In Gujerat Province, occasions will arise causing lathi charge by the Police, famine conditions and stringent times in monetary affairs ; cloth, silk and rayon cloth prices will go up. Similarly prices of cocoanuts would as well rise due to lesser crop and higher demand. Some most notable personality will pass away. Political unrest will prevail in China, Sindh (Western Pakistan) and Madhya Pradesh. There may be hartals in these regions.

दिननाधेन्दु कवयोयदैकत्र सभाश्रिता : ।
उत्तरस्यांदिशि भयंप्रजा : क्रंदति नित्यशा : ।
यवान्न मुङ्ग वस्त्राणां संग्रहे चकुंतेसति ।
मासेसप्तमके चैव लाभो भवति त्रिगुण : ॥

When Sun, Venus and Moon transit through one and the same sign of the zodiac, during that month bullish markets would be experienced. In the following next month bearishness would be witnessed. Again bullish markets are observed in the 7th month. This phenomena affects the northern part of India. Barley, grains, moonga, cloth markets would experience high rates.

In the ending part of August 1959 and on 2nd, 3rd and 4th September 1959, this combination takes place. So the 2nd fortnight of August and 1st fortnight of September 1959 will be the period of effect. Further it is said :—

भद्रेशुक्रचतुर्थ्यां पंचम्यां वा उदितौ यदा शुक्रसतौ ॥
धान्यं पुष्टिका बपधं तदा जनेलभ्यामतिकष्टकृत्

If either Mercury or Venus rises on Lunar Bhadrapada Sukla Chaturthi or Panchami, grain becomes too dear and severe scarcity of foodstuffs would prevail. In this column, I had previously mentioned such aphorisms for May 1959 and the same had taken place as predicted. There was communal trouble in Ahmedabad and in Nagpur Station area.

शुक्रस्यास्तंगते सौम्य : प्रादेति श्रावणे यदा ।
तदा भाद्रपदे वापि मेघो नैव प्रवर्षति ।
चतुष्पद विनाशेन तक्रं न क्वापि लभ्यते ॥

If during lunar Sravana or Bhadrapada month, Mercury rises and Venus sets, rains do not set in. Bovine cattle die in great number and ghee and curds become very scarce. Lunar Sravana month lord is Mars, and monsoon season's lord is Moon. The production of seasonal crop will depend on the aspects between these two planets. Moon is very fast moving planet. Mars transits through Purva and Uttarapalguna nakshatras during this month. So the production in mining departments will be better : but earthly production and flourishing of crops in the field will not be good on account of uncertain monsoon.

बुध : प्राच्यां प्रतिच्यां च भृगुर्हि श्रावणे यदि ।
वृष्टिर्न विज्ञेय ध्रुवं भाद्रपदा वधि ॥

When Mercury is in the East and Venus is in the West during lunar Sravana श्रावण none should expect rains during the season. It causes scarcity of oil, oilseeds, rice and cloth and moonga.

श्रावणे कृष्णपक्षे च शनौ चतुर्थी जायते यदा ।
देशभंगं चदुर्भिक्षं लोके भिक्षापि दुर्लभा ॥

The above two aphorisms are applicable during lunar Sravana month. So the administrators and masses have to remain careful about supply of foodstuffs and weather conditions.

Since Sravana Sukla Shashti, Saptami and Ashtami are accompanied with Chitta, Swati and Visakha constellations respectively, it is an omen for the future stoppage of rains.

Vedha continues during this month between Rahu in Hasta and Kethu in Uttarabhadra. So rice, sugar, ghee, jaggery, scented articles, camphor, sandalwood, cotton, kapas, grass would have stringent markets. While Jupiterian Vedha on Dhanishta from Visakha would keep prices stable in wheat market on account of foreign stocks purchased by the Government, and would be sold at cheaper rates. This vedha will again cause monetary conditions easy. Bullion prices will have lower levels and at the end good reactionary fluctuations. Stocks and shares markets will witness heavy reactions on account of duplication of व्यतिपात, सिध्धि and शिव योग during this month.

11th, 14th, 16th, 17th, 21st, 26th and 29th would be the turning dates in several forward and spot market fluctuations. If the rates are higher than the previous day's closing, it would be paying on purchase side and vice versa.

New York Stocks and Shares.—Jupiter transits through the ascending sign and Amavasya forms an angle with Neptune placed in the 12th house. Amavasya is again in sextile to Mars, which planet is again in sextile to Mars. This indicates further progress in the atomic energies. Liquid, steels and sharp edged machinery producing concerns' shares, radio, television and mining shares, will have prospective side. Cloth, rayon and grain producing concerns will have medium rises. Railways, transport and air service shares and stocks will have to witness selling pressure. 4th, 5th, 7th, 8th, 11th, 18th, 19th, 21st, 29th and 31st will witness bearish tone. Pick-ups during these dates would prove favourable to bulls.

London Stocks and Shares.—London stocks would witness an erratic market fluctuations as Mars is nearing the ascending sign wherein Venus is placed. This planet will have a retrograde motion. So the month will prove to be a bullish one. Amavasya takes place in the 11th house. Cloth and mechanical shares would get good rise. Saturn would very likely affect cattle and gas production. Electric and transport shares are considered worth buying in lower reactions on dates mentioned in New York column.

Indian Stocks and Shares.—At Calcutta, New Moon occurs in trine to the ascending sign. Mars and Venus are transitting through the 10th house with a benefic aspect of New Moon. Saturn's transit shows restrictions from the Government in several forms to curb the speculative elements and to fill up the Exchequer's coffers for the 2nd Five-Year Plan by additional taxation.

At Madras, New Moon takes place in the 11th house with favourable aspect with the ascending degree, Venus and Mars. Rahu transits through the ascending house. Saturnian transit through the 4th house is not favourable for plantation shares, tea and coffee concerns. Cloth and industrial shares will have a favourable period during 1st fortnight, while 2nd one may prove very nervy. At Bombay, New Moon occurs in the 9th house in conjunction with Mercury and Herschel approaching the M.H. and in square to Jupiter in the ascending sign. Saturnian transit through the 2nd house from Jupiter denotes monetary weakness; while Kethu's position in the 5th house indicates curbs by the administrative organs in the shape of taxes on bonus shares dividends and in stamp duties, and so on. Mars and Venus transit through the 10th house indicates swift rises and falls in notable cloth and industrial shares, who have scored foreign markets overseas. Engineering and locomotive shares will be leading on bullish side in addition to textiles. Coal and mining shares would suffer losses on account of rumours of coal business would be nationalised. Bank shares will be steady. Navigation and airways are worth buying in the primary stage of the month. Governmental help in these sections would favour bull's buying. Iron and steel shares are expected to rise during the second half of this month. Purchases during first fortnight would prove profitable business. But, it should be borne in mind that strikes by labour class is impending in industrial areas during August-September 1959.

1st to 6th bearish; 7th to 12th reactionary and bullish; 13th to 20th steady and narrow moves; 21st to 25th decline; 26th to 29th sudden rise but unsteady at the end.

Rubber Markets.—Saturn retrogrades on the ascendant, Jupiter coming to 12th house from 11th. Rahu in 10th and Kethu in 4th. With Amavasya falling in the 8th house, favours the bears till 17th when Sun ingresses into its own sign Leo, to 9th house. Foreign demand will spring up in the second half of the month and the prices all over the world would have lift up till 26th. When Mars enters 10th house, disturbances in politics would affect the morale of traders and stockists. Mars-Rahu conjunction on the M.H. is anticipated to prove bearish, but caution should be applied if it turns out to be a bullish. Watch the market tendency between 26th and end of the month for further guidance during next month.

Black Pepper. — Martian transit through Leo favours bull market practically for the whole month or till 26th when Mars enters Virgo. Good demand is expected. Stockists who desire to sell their stocks in forward market, should consider the demand situation or their bargains would prove losses. They are likely to be squeezed by cornering elements or bulls on account of very good demand against better stock position.

Oilseeds and Oils.—Planets indicate heavy rises and falls in this section, as Venus gets retrograde and Mars gets out of Purvaphalguna constellation. 1st to 5th bullish; 6th to 10th bearish; 11th to 23th good spurt; 14th to 17th steady or some decline; 18th to 28th good rise; 29th to 31st sudden decline.

Castorseeds.—Mercurian and Venusian setting, rising and retrogression have much to do in this month in seeds and oil sections. U.S.A. demand will not appear till 4th or 5th. From 5th to 20th is a bullish period on account of good demand and want of rains in overgrowing areas. 21st to 26th good decline is possible on account of rains and disappearance of demand. 26th to 31st sudden spurt from reduced levels are anticipated. Linseeds and sarsoo will have the same fluctuations as casterseeds.

Cocoanut oil will follow the line given for G. nuts as above During this month groundnuts option for August 1959 will be terminated. Very limited number of tenders are likely to be offered in delivery. From 17th the traders are requested to observe the purchases by the State Trading Corporation. Oilcakes would be very dearer this month.

Cotton Markets (Sarilla).—Rahu is firmly posited in the crop section with a sinister aspect by Saturn. Mars will join this planet on 26th. The month opens with good income of foreign cotton especially from America, till 12th; 12th to 20th minor fluctuation on both sides; 21st to 25th rise; 25th to 28th fall and rise in latter part; 29th to 31st rise. August option will terminate and new option started in the previous month would be mostly in operation. Hence stockists have to remain cautious from 17th as to how the cornering elements work.

Jute Markets.—This will follow the cotton indication. From 17th August 1959, the trend in this section will have a change. Bullishness will have firm grip over this group.

Bullions.—Retrogression of Mercury and Venus, setting of Mars and entry of Jupiter into Scorpio has much to do with this section. Sun, Mars and Venus transit through Leo. Mercury mostly transits through Cancer sign in Aslesha and Pushya constellations. Gold: 31st July to 5th August bullish; Silver will have moves sideways during this period and rise from 6th to 10th. 11th to 13th both will rise; 14th to 17th both will suffer some fall; 18th to 20th gold would appreciate but silver will move sideways and decline; 21st to 26th good decline in both.

Grains.—Steady markets with little fluctuations are anticipated. Foreign wheat will be distributed by the Government. But rice, bajree, joowar prices rule steady with strong undertone. Moonga, Arhar, Urad, Toowar will rule strong, while gram prices will be somewhat weak after 17th August 1959.

Sugar-Jaggery.—First fortnight is bullish. While retrograde state of Venus will affect the morale in forward bullish market. The Government will announce more release of sugar by 17th or 18th.

Chemicals.—This section would rule very strong and steady cultivation of grain, cereals and seeds over very large areas would affect the morale of grain and commodity markets after 16th August 1959.

AUGUST 1959

By MIHIRA

[The following forecasts based on Janma Rasi are general and as such those having favourable aspects according to present Dasa and Bhukthi, will have favourable results from the indications made below; while those having adverse aspects according to current directions will experience these predictions to a lesser proportion. The predictions given below are based not upon conjecture, but upon a clear interpretation of the movements or transits of planets. If you do not know your Janma Rasi write to Mihira, C/o THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope.—Ed., A.M.].

MAJOR TRANSITS.—Sun transits Cancer till 15th, then enters Leo. Mercury remains in Cancer throughout the month. He is retrograde at the commencement of the month and assumes forward motion on 16th. Venus remains in Leo becoming retrograde on 11th. Mars transits Leo till 23rd on which date he enters Virgo. Jupiter is in Scorpio and Saturn in Sagittarius. Rahu and Kethu continue their retrograde motion in Virgo and Pisces respectively.

I. Mesha (Aries).—Mercury in 4th; Sun in 4th and 5th; Venus in 5th; Mars in 5th and 6th; Rahu in 6th; Jupiter in 8th; Saturn in 9th; and Kethu in 12th.

General.—Mercury and Venus are favourable for the entire month. Mars becomes good after change of sign, that is after 23rd. But Mars is under check throughout the month, good or bad. Venus too is under vedha for the entire month, the only good influence that escapes check. Sun, Jupiter and Saturn are evil. Saturn is however under check and Sun for the second half only, while Jupiter is entirely free. Therefore the good elements for the month are neither numerous nor powerful and this feature will necessarily be reflected in the general results. Sorrows and unhappiness, obstacles in all matters, quarrels and disputes with friends and relatives, troubles caused by rivals and enemies, separation from relatives, health troubles, worries, wearisome journeys, liability to accidents, losses, dishonour, etc., are the probable effects of the evil transits. But as there are some good transits also, the effects of which are just the opposite of above, we may consider the evil elements to be somewhat counteracted and there is scope for some good results also such as gains, happiness, success over rivals and enemies, purchase of articles of luxury and their enjoyment, etc. Of the three stars of the sign, those born under Bharani will reap the best results of the good transits and suffer least from the evil ones. Next in rank come those born under Krittika and the least benefitted will be those who have Aswini as their birthstar.

Health and Domestic.—It will be more a question of general debility and weakness during the month than any special illness. There is a liability to accidents which though remote should not be ignored. The children's health too is liable to suffer and may be the cause for some anxiety even. Domestic unhappiness in some form or other with impediments in the harmony of married life and in bad cases even amounting to temporary separation may be experienced. Even otherwise, quarrels with one's own children or other relatives will take place and give rise to much mental agitation.

Finance and Speculation.—The evil transits however do not affect much in the sphere of finance. Though no positive benefits may accrue, neither will any great inconvenience be caused. There is scope for some gains, increased income, etc., as well from the usual sources. New ventures in the monetary sphere of any magnitude should be abstained from, especially if they be of an experimental or risky nature, as the influences are not sufficiently powerful to sustain you in such activities. The situation is certainly much worse for speculative transactions.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—In matters pertaining to real property, the better influences prevail and moderate success can be expected generally. Rentals and yield can be improved upon and measures taken to that end are likely to succeed and produce satisfactory results. But this month is not suitable for dealings in real property—acquisition or sales. Care would however be required in your dealings with all persons, either tenants or agents or co-owners, etc., as even little differences are likely to flare up into quarrels with unwanted and unpleasant consequences. The month can be said to be only moderate for the services. The last week will however be much better. Though there is a probability that in some matter, you may incur the displeasure of your superiors, the matter is likely to be passed off lightly and may not leave any serious consequences behind. All the same you should see to it that there is no such cause arising from your own actions. During the last week, you can achieve success in your objects, popularity, etc. Nothing special calls for mention in the case of profession and business which will do quite well during the month.

Women.—Women will have a generally good time during this month with normal success in all their activities. There will be good opportunities for making pleasant social contacts with the opposite sex, achieve harmony in existing relationships, indulge in pleasurable activities and even for making peace where such relationships have been strained in the past. Facilities for such improve from the very beginning of the month and are at the maximum at about the middle of the month and thereafter as gradually decline.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs, interviews, domestic matters, dealings with relatives, health matters, etc.—4, 5, 8, 13, 21, 27; monetary and financial matters, enterprises, new ventures, etc.—2, 7, 11, 15, 24, 29; short journeys—4, 5, 8, 13, 27; long journeys—3, 7, 12, 16, 20, 28, 30; real property affairs, educational and academical activities, tests, interviews—2, 7, 11, 15, 23, 27, 30; children's affairs and prospects, speculation, picnics and excursions, courtships and love affairs—3, 5, 9, 13, 23, 24, 29; service affairs and prospects—4, 5, 8, 13, 21, 27; partnership matters, dealings with opposite sex in general—2, 7, 11, 15, 24, 29; insurance matters, dealings with estate of deceased—1, 11, 15, 25, 30; professional and business enterprises—6, 10, 18, 23, 24.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private affairs, interviews, domestic matters, dealings with relatives, health matters, etc.—1, 7, 11, 17, 24, 28; money dealings and transactions, standing surety for others, financial ventures—3, 10, 13, 20, 27, 30; short journeys

Chandrashtama from about sunrise of 12th till morning of 14th.

2. Vrishabha (Taurus).—Mercury in 3rd; Sun in 3rd and 4th; Venus in 4th; Mars in 4th and 5th; Rahu in 5th; Jupiter in 7th; Saturn in 8th; and Kethu in 11th.

General.—Not very many planets are to be found in auspicious signs for the month, Venus and Jupiter being the only favourable transits for the entire month and Jupiter may as well be counted out as he is under check throughout. Sun is favourable for the first half only and free of vedha. All the other planets are evil and under check. The first half will be the best part of the month. The general results will be mostly mixed and of a nondescript character. If at all it is the evil element that is likely to predominate, sorrows, various obstacles in domestic social and other activities, quarrels and disputes with friends and relatives, sufferings due to contact with evil-minded persons, deceit through friends, troubles from enemies, mental agitation and worries, etc., are the sort of evil results to be expected for the month. During the first half however, general success, triumph over rivals and enemies, good and valuable friendships, gains, prosperity, auspicious celebrations and events, luxuries, etc., increase in sphere of influence and popularity, excursions, etc., are probable. Of the three asterisms of the sign, those born under Mrigasira are likely to be the worst sufferers, while those born under Krittika and Rohini are likely to fare better.

Health and Domestic.—It is probable however that health will not suffer much this month, the first half of the month being practically trouble free. Those subject to haemorrhages should be careful during the second half. Digestive troubles accompanied by diarrhoea are also probable and so care in matters of diet is absolutely necessary. Those subject to fevers, like malaria should be careful throughout the month. The second half may witness some unhappiness on the domestic sphere consequent upon misunderstandings and impediments. Enmities with relatives inside and outside the domestic sphere are also probable.

Finance and Speculation.—Conflicting influences are at work in this sphere indicating both gains and losses, success as well as failures, periods of affluence as well as times of financial stress. As in all other matters, the first half will be the best part of the month, during which there is scope for considerable gains through journeys or matters connected with transport, communications, literary or publication work, or through the usual avenues. But at no time during the month, gains through speculation or speculative activities appear feasible. On the other hand, losses are more probable.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc—Mixed conditions will prevail in all matters pertaining to real property. On the one hand, increased agricultural gains and increased rentals are probable during the entire month. On the other hand, losses due to foreseen causes such as pest, damage through excessive heat, dearth of water, etc., are also very probable. The month is not favourable for investments or purchase of new items of real property. But intensive work with modern methods for improving yield are likely to succeed and bear fruit later on. As regards the services, the first half is definitely favourable and the second half is definitely unfavourable. Recognition by superiors, special honours, new position are due for the 1st half. Troubles from superiors in office, Governmental quarters, etc., are probable for the second half. Therefore you should try to advance your interests in all possible ways during the earlier half and lie quiet and adhere to routine work only during the second. The greater part of the month cannot be said to be favourable for the business and the profession and it will be better not to start any enterprises of some magnitude during the month.

Women.—Though the general conditions and set-up are on the whole favourable for the fair sex, the entire month will not be uniformly propitious for their interests. The first half will be quite good for parties, entertainments, picnics and cultivating the society of the opposite sex for pleasurable pursuits or help and the best part is the middle of the month. Conditions begin to deteriorate rapidly thereafter and it would be better for all purposes to keep yourself to strict routine domestic matters and not have any social activities or ambitions during the rest of the month.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs, dealings with relatives, interviews, domestic affairs—2, 7, 11, 15, 24, 29; money dealings and transactions, financial enterprises—4, 8, 13, 21, 27; short journeys—6, 7, 10, 12, 15, 23, 27; long journeys—6, 10, 18, 23, 31; real property affairs, educational and academical activities, tests, interviews—3, 5, 9, 13, 23, 29; speculation, children's prospects and affairs, excursions, picnics, courtship and love affairs—4, 8, 13, 21, 27, 31; service affairs and prospects—2, 7, 11, 15, 24, 29; partnership matters, dealings with opposite sex in general —1, 11, 15, 25, 30; insurance affairs, dealings with estate of deceased persons—3, 7, 12, 16, 20, 30; professional and business enterprises—6, 10, 18, 23, 31.

Critical Dates.—Personal and domestic matters, dealings with relatives, private interviews, etc.—3, 10, 13, 16, 20, 27, 30; money dealings and transactions, financial ventures, standing surety for others—1, 11, 14, 17, 20, 24, 28; short journeys—1, 11, 13, 17, 20, 26, 31; long journeys—1, 4, 8, 14, 21, 24, 28; real property affairs, educational and academical activities, tests, interviews—4, 8, 11, 15, 18, 26, 30; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, picnics, excursions, courtship and love affairs—1, 7, 11, 14, 17, 24, 28; service affairs and prospects—3, 10, 13, 16, 20, 27, 30; partnership matters and business, dealings with opposite sex in general—3, 6, 10, 13, 20, 24, 28; insurance activities, dealings with the estate of deceased—1, 5, 8, 18, 25, 29; professional and business enterprises—1, 4, 8, 14, 21, 24, 28.

Chandrashtama from the morning of 13th till noon of 16th.

3. Mithuna (Gemini).—Mercury in 2nd; Sun in 2nd and 3rd; Venus in 3rd; Mars in 3rd and 4th; Rahu in 4th; Jupiter in 6th; Saturn in 7th; and Kethu in 10th.

General.—No planet except Venus is in a good sign for the entire month and the only two planets who are favourable for at least part of the month are Sun and Mars—some after change of sign on 15th and Mars before change of sign till 23rd. Mercury, Juoiter and Saturn are evil for the whole month. Of these, Saturn is under check throughout. Two against three is the proportion of good to bad this month, but as Saturn is under check, it is almost two against two only. Thus the events for the month are likely to be a mixture of good and bad. Fears and anxieties, quarrels with friends and relatives, fruitless endeavours, deceit through friends, loss of position, ill-health, unjust blame, disgrace and dishonour, tedious journeys and fatigue are the likely evil effects of the adverse transits. But, gains, luxuries, honour, success, good position, good health, friendship with good and influential persons, domestic comforts, etc., are also due for the beneficial transits. Therefore most probably there will be neither much suffering nor much of good during the month. Of the three stars of the sign, persons born under the asterism of Aridra will fare somewhat better than those born under Mrigasira or Punarvasu.

Health and Domestic.—Good health will be enjoyed for the greater part of the month. During the last week, fever, digestive and rectal troubles may manifest. Still with some care as to diet and habits this can be avoided. But the mind is likely to be troubled and exercised a great deal about a lot of unpleasantness, such as unjust blame, scandals, etc., but nothing will eventuate and so finally not much harm will result. The domestic circle will have its share of bickerings and the ordinary trials and tribulations of family life but nothing serious.

Finance and Speculation.—The finances however will be in much better shape than what the transits may lead one to expect. More than average income from the usual sources can be expected though fresh enterprises may not meet with much of success. Those concerned with publications, communications, public utilities in general may fare better than others from the point of view of actual gains. These observations are to be confined only to ordinary business enterprises and speculative activities are not encouraged in any form or shape.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—The month generally is not favourable for landed interests or any matters connected with real property. It is likely that income, profits and rentals may undergo diminution and contraction being affected by pests, adverse weather conditions, or other unexpected causes. But the entire month may not prove adverse. The closing part of the month may prove as unexpectedly favourable and witness at least amelioration of the existing conditions. Therefore it would be advisable to postpone decision on all important matters till then. Perhaps it is the services that are liable to be least affected by the adverse transits. Acquisition of new position and status as the result of the recognition of your merits by your superiors may result. Those to whom it is due, special honours or a position of authority may be attained with some help from current directional influences. You should also equip yourself for such by completing all necessary tests and qualifications. The profession and business too will do fairly well with widening of their respective interests and increased returns.

Women.—Inspite of all that has been said about the good and bad transits for the month, it can be unhesitatingly asserted that this month will prove favourable in all manner of ways for the fair sex as such and may be counted as one of the best months in the year for all the activities associated with them. Though success in all their objectives may not be possible to the fullest extent, it appears fairly certain that below the best can be achieved and they will have the satisfaction of obtaining co-operation from all concerned, be it of their own sex or the opposite.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and domestic matters, private affairs and interviews, health matters—1, 4, 7, 8, 13, 15, 21, 27, 29; money dealings and transactions financial ventures, etc.—3, 7, 11, 15, 23, 25, 29; short journeys—5 9, 13, 23, 27, 29; long journeys—6, 10, 18, 23, 29; real property affairs, educational and academical activities, tests, interviews—1, 4, 7, 8, 13, 15, 21; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, excursions and picnics, courtship and love affairs—2, 7, 11, 15, 24, 29, 31; service affairs and prospects—1, 3, 7, 11, 12, 15, 16, 25, 30; partnership activities, dealings with opposite sex in general—3, 7, 12, 16, 20, 30; insurance matters, dealings with estate of deceased persons—6, 10, 18, 23; professional and business enterprises—3, 7, 12, 16, 20, 30.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private affairs, domestic matters, dealings with relatives, interviews, etc.—3, 10, 13, 16, 20, 27, 30; money dealings and transactions, financial enterprises, standing surety for others—1, 11, 13, 17, 20, 26, 31; short journeys—4, 8, 11, 15, 18, 26, 30; long journeys—1, 4, 8, 14, 21, 24, 28; real property matters, educational and academical activities, tests, interviews—1, 7, 11, 14, 17, 24, 28; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, courtships and love affairs, picnics, excursions—3, 10, 13, 16, 20, 27, 30; service affairs and prospects, dealings with superiors, interviews, etc.—3, 6, 10, 13, 20, 24. 28; partnership activities, dealings with opposite sex in general—1, 5, 8, 18, 26, 29; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased persons—1, 4, 8, 14, 21, 24, 28; professional and business enterprises—3, 10, 13, 16, 20, 27, 30.

Chandrashtama from noon of 16th till afternoon of 18th.

4. Kataka (Cancer).—Mercury in 1st; Sun in 1st and 2nd; Venus in 2nd; Mars in 2nd and 3rd; Rahu in 3rd; Jupiter in 5th; Saturn in 6th; and Kethu in 9th.

General.–Venus, Jupiter and Saturn are favourable for the entire month and excepting for Saturn, they are free of vedha throughout. Mars becomes favourable after change of sign, that is for the last week only and is free of vedha so long as he is good. Mercury and Sun are the only planets that remain evil for the whole month but both are under check all along. Hence this month is placed much better for beneficial results as it is a unique feature that the few evil transits are controlled by check, while two benefic influences are free throughout and the closing part of the month will be the best. Good gains, honours, health and happiness, success, luxuries, auspicious events and celebrations, association with wealthy and influential people, increased prosperity in general, triumph over rivals and enemies are the probable good results for the month. These may off and on be punctuated by minor troubles such as obstacles, aimless journeys, mental irritation and worries now and then troubles through relatives, etc. Of the three asterisms of the sign, those born under Aslesha will reap the best results from the benefic transits and those born under Punarvasu and Pushya only come next.

Health and Domestic.–Health for the month will be quite good. All the same, it will be better that those subject to habitual blood pressure be on their guard and not indulge in things that are likely to increase it, such as heavy food, over-exertion, etc. There is a likelihood of auspicious functions and celebrations in the house such as marriages, purchase of articles of jewellery, clothes, etc., and their enjoyment. Home surroundings will be pleasant and harmonious with success also in social circles. You will achieve fame and popularity.

Finance and Speculation.—This will be quite a satisfactory month in respect of finance with success in your monetary ventures and enterprises, though the entire month cannot be expected to yield uniformly good results and the opening week would appear to be the best part of it, when opportunities for which you have been waiting perhaps for a long time are likely to present themselves to be exploited. It is necessary however that you are very careful in doing so as there are chances that haste, rashness, oversight may well land you in losses. The month is not also unfavourable for speculation if you set about it rightly and without taking undue risks.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—Though there are no influences specially favouring real property matters, the general favourable nature of the transit influences will be reflected in all matters connected therewith and there may not be much to complain of in the matter of yield, rentals, management, dealings with tenants, agents, etc. Still the conditions will not be entirely free of all troubles and something or other is likely to turn up to render the mind uneasy and apprehensive as regards the immediate future. The month is not favourable for new investments in real property. The services are well favoured this month. You may be the recipient of official favours, a new position with increased authority as well as responsibilities. This does not necessarily mean a proportionate or adequate increase in emoluments or substantial advancement of salary which may come only later on and such changes as take place this month may even entail added worries and heavy work in addition. This would be a generally good month for the profession and business.

Women.—From the point of view of matters pertaining to the fair sex as such, the month may be said to be quite neutral, the favourable and unfavourable features almost cancelling out each other. Generally however it is the second half that is more favourable for their interests and the last week is the best. So if you plan anything extra this month, in any sphere, it is better to reserve it for this part of the month as success is almost assured. For most of women the month may prove uneventful, though there is a probability that some of the unattached may enter wedlock.

Fortunate Dates.—Persona and private affairs, domestic matters, dealings with relatives, private interviews—3, 7, 11, 15, 23, 25, 29; money dealings and transactions, financial enterprises–5, 9, 13, 23, 27, 29; short journeys—1, 4, 7, 8, 13, 15, 21; long journeys—6, 10, 18, 23; real property affairs, educational and academical activities, tests, interviews—2, 7, 11, 15, 24, 29, 31; speculation, matters connected with children and their prospects, courtship and love affairs, picnics and excursions—1, 3, 7, 11, 12, 15, 16, 25, 30; service affairs and prospects, dealings with superiors, servants, etc; 3, 7, 12, 16, 20, 30; insurance affairs and prospects, dealings with the estate of deceased persons—6, 10, 18, 23, 29; professional and business enterprises—1, 3, 7, 11, 12, 15, 25, 30.

Critical Dates.–Personal and private affairs, domestic matters, dealings with relatives, interviews–1, 13, 17, 20, 26, 31; money dealings and transactions, financial enterprises, standing surety for others—4, 8, 11, 15, 18, 26, 30; short journeys—1, 7, 11, 14, 17, 24, 28; long journeys—3, 10, 13, 16, 20, 27, 30; real property affairs, educational and academical activities, tests, interviews—3, 10, 13, 16, 20, 27, 30; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, courtship and love affairs, picnics and excursions–3, 6, 10, 13, 20, 24, 28; service affairs and prospects, dealings with superiors, servants—1, 5, 8, 18, 25, 29; partnership matters, dealings with opposite sex in general—1, 4, 8, 14, 21, 24, 28; insurance affairs, dealings with the estate of deceased—1, 4, 8, 14, 21, 24, 28; professional and business enterprises—3, 6, 10, 13, 20, 24, 28.

Chandrashtama from about noon of 18th till night of 20th.

5. Simha (Leo).—Venus in 1st; Mars in 1st and 2nd; Rahu in 2nd; Jupiter in 4th; Saturn in 5th; Kethu in 8th; Mercury in 12th; and Sun in 12th and 1st.

General.—Venus is the only favourable transit for the entire month and he is under check throughout and all the other planets are to be found only in evil signs. But luckily enough, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn are under vedha for the whole month and so their evil rays are of little consequence. Among the other transits, Sun is under check for the second half only and he is free for the first and Mercury is the only planet who is evil and free of vedha throughout. Thus though no good effects are to be expected of the transits during the month, the evil effects too will prove only nominal and have perhaps only nuisance value, as Mercury by himself however evil cannot domuch. His effects in twelfth will be mostly confined to the domestic sphere, troubles and disgrace through enemies and minor losses. The effects of Sun in twelfth are also likely to work out more or less in the same way and so the first half may prove more troublesome generally than the second, though at no time, any serious troubles are to be apprehended. Of the three stars of the sign, those born under Poorvaphalguna will suffer least and the worst sufferers will be those born with Makha as their birthstar. Uttaraphalguna persons will fare midway between the two.

Health and Domestic.—Minor troubles in health are only to be expected as a matter of course and each is likely to suffer from ailments according to his own constitutional susceptibility—fever, blood pressure, bronchial affections. Some minor accidents too are likely especially during travels. The domestic sphere will neither be peaceful nor harmonious and is liable to be disturbed with quarrels, misunderstandings with near relatives. A lot of troubles also will come from some of the relatives outside the domestic circle. Sorrows from lo s of relatives may also the figure among the happenings of the month.

Finance and Speculation.—Only adverse influences play upon this sphere and no good can possibly happen for the month. There will be even contraction in the existing avenues of income with reduction and even losses. Particular care will have to be taken against losses through theft either in the house or in the business premises or in the office. Expenditure items will be on the increase with no ready means of meeting them and extreme pressure with consequent mental distress and anxieties will be felt. With Saturn in fifth, it will be only great folly to speculate.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—Real property affairs would perhaps the least affected this month and may even get along tolerably. Provided that in no circumstances, matters are not attempted to be forced or strained to produce the desired results and the lines of least resistance are followed, not much harm will be caused and even good may result in the shape of normal yield and rentals. No new schemes or enterprises are favoured and the best policy would be to adhere strictly to routine matters looking neither to the left nor to the right, avoiding all contentious matters, disputes and most of all litigation. Whatever may be the nature of the impact of the transit influences upon service matters in general, nothing eventful either way is likely to take place within the month, but strangely enough if you keep to routine and devote your attention entirely to the work before you, the work will be done more quickly and satisfactorily than one can imagine and this will leave very desirable effects for the future. The business and profession will function normally round average levels.

Women.—Excepting perhaps for the last week which is favourable, the month will prove mostly disappointing to women in respect of matters they are especially interested in as such and to prevent disappointments leaving on their trail undesirable effects mentally and materially, it is better that they do not have or make any appointments! The best thing will be to have no activities outside home, social or otherwise except during the last week, during which they can make the most out of it and may be the realisation of a long cherished dream.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs, domestic matters, dealings with relatives, etc.—3, 4, 9, 13, 23, 24, 28, 29; money dealings and transactions, financial enterprises —4, 5, 8, 13, 21, 27, 30; short journeys—2, 7, 11, 15, 24, 29, 31; long journeys—1, 11, 15, 25, 30; real property matters, educational and academical activities, tests, interviews—1, 11, 15, 25, 28, 30; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, picnics and excursions, courtship and love affairs, etc.—3, 7, 12, 16, 20, 28, 30; service affairs and prospects, dealings with superiors, servants, etc.—6, 10, 18, 23, 27, 30; partnership matters, dealings with opposite sex in general—6, 10, 18, 23, 27, 30; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased persons—3, 7, 12, 16, 20, 28, 30; professional and business enterprises —2, 7, 11, 15, 24, 29, 31.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private affairs, domestic matters, dealings with relatives, etc.—4, 8, 11, 15, 18, 26, 30; money dealings and transactions, financial enterprises, standing surety for others—1, 7, 11, 17, 20, 24, 28; short journeys—3, 13, 16, 20, 27, 30; long journeys—3, 6, 13, 16, 20, 24, 28; real property affairs, educational and academical activities, interviews, tests—6, 13, 16, 20, 24, 28, 31; speculation, children's affairs and prospects, picnics, excursions, courtship and love affairs—1, 5, 15, 18, 21, 25, 29; service affairs and prospects, dealings with superiors, servants, etc.—1, 4, 8, 11, 14, 21, 28; partnership matters, dealings with opposite sex in general—1, 4, 8, 11, 14, 21, 28; insurance activities, dealings with estate of deceased persons—1, 5, 15, 18, 21, 25, 29; professional and business enterprises—2, 13, 16, 20, 27, 30.

Chandrashtama from the night of 20th till about sunrise of 23rd.

6. Kanya (Virgo).—Rahu in 1st; Jupiter in 3rd; Saturn in 4th; Kethu in 7th; Mercury in 11th; Sun in 11th and 12th; Venus in 12th; and Mars in 12th and 1st.

General.—The majority of the planets transit evil signs only. The planets that are in good signs for the entire month are Mercury and Venus. Sun is good for the first half only. Mars, Jupiter and Saturn are to be found only in inauspicious signs. Of these, Mars and Saturn are under check throughout, while Jupiter is free of vedha. Of the benefic transits, Mercury is under check. Sun is under check only when he is evil, that is for the second half. Thus neither good nor bad elements are in force, but the latter elements are slightly more preponderant and this feature will no doubt be reflected in the general results of the month. Sorrows and anxieties, quarrels, troubles from opposite sex, dishonour, losses, obstacles in all undertakings, separation from relatives, troublesome journeys, unwelcome and undesirable changes, loss of friends, death of relatives, unhappiness, etc., are the sort of troubles. The first half however is likely to be much less troubled than the second and there is a likelihood if its being favourable also in some respects, such as success attended with prosperity in undertakings, domestic peace and happiness, gains, popularity, even honours and recognition. Of the three stars of the sign, persons born under Uttaraphalguna and Hasta will fare much better and suffer less generally than those born under Chitta.

Health and Domestic.—Troubles in health there will be but not much. Sufferings through derangement of blood, bile and heat, high blood pressure, eye complaints, bronchial affections, etc., may occur according to constitutional susceptibility. As there is nothing inevitable in regard to health matters, the greater the care you take about yourself, the less will be the troubles in health and with sufficient care, can be totally avoided. There will more of sorrows and unhappiness in the domestic sphere than troubles due to quarrels and misunderstandings with the members thereof.

Finance and Speculation.—The first half may prove quite tolerable with regard to income and money matters in general. Financial undertakings will be successful generally. But a good part of it is liable to run through your fingers during the latter half due to causes beyond your control, so that with the best of care on your part, it may not be possible to escape financial stress. Even losses through various sources may arise which will add to the existing difficulties. At no time during the month conditions can be said to be favourable for speculative activities. Only failure and losses are probable.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—Landed interests are liable to much suffering during the month and in all manner of ways. Nothing connected with real property matters is likely to prosper and the deterioration existing will only increase as the month advances. In some instances that may arise you may be sorely tempted to take the law into your hands to vindicate your just rights. But it is not advisable to do so as it may give rise to serious repercussions. The only silver lining in the cloud appears to be that your efforts in improving the land towards better yield, or affecting improvements in other ways though they may involve much trouble and expense at the time will bear fruit later on. There is no unmixed blessing for the services this month. During the first half however which is more favourable than the second, success, recognition of your merits by your superiors resulting in acquisition of new position or status may take place. But this may not be the result of anything done by you during the month itself but only the reward of painstaking and conscientious work done previously, so that if you have not such work to your credit nothing may take place. Profession and business may do quite well during the first half but conditions are bound to deteriorate further on.

Women.—This month is generally favourable for all matters in which the fair sex are interested as such, inspite of the fact that there are more evil transits than good. During this month, a good number of the unattached will enter the state of matrimony. Cupid will be more busy than usual. The general rule that the first half is generally more favourable holds good in this sphere also. Even the unambitious (socially) of the fair sex will find that this month runs quite smoothly in all respects being enabled to order the smallest details of everyday routine according to their convenience.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs, domestic matters, dealings with relatives, interviews, etc.—4, 5, 8, 13, 21, 27, 30; money dealings and transactions, financial enterprises —2, 7, 11, 15, 24, 29, 31; short journeys—1, 11, 15, 25, 28, 30; long journeys—2, 7, 11, 15, 24, 29, 31; real property affairs, educational and subject was the builder of an institution which has been instrumental not a little in regulatting the political, cultural and economic thought in this part of the country for over half a century.

It is indeed difficult for us, as it should be to a number of his close friends, to reconcile ourselves to the thought that he is no more in flesh and blood. But the inevitable has happened. We mourn his loss, but we must also remember the Lord's saying that physical death implies a transition for the spirit to pass away to a higher and perhaps a happier plane of existence. May Mr. Srinivasan's soul rest in peace and may his example be an inspiration for his successors!

While in his death, the world of Journalism in general and India in particular has lost a great figure, the world of astrology has lost a silent but a sincere champion of its cause at a time, when the attitude of some of the eminent publicmen of India towards astrology has not been quite happy.

AS IT STRIKES ME

If the scientist asserts—he must be a rank fool to do so—that he has understood the nature of his physical organisation then he cannot have a category of incurable diseases—like leprosy, plague, cholera, consumption, small-pox, paralysis, and so forth. Could he cure the dying man? No. Could he find out from what causes the epidemics prevail and cause such terrific loss among the human lives. From sickly and worthless physical parents we see the production of beautiful and healthy children. From perfectly healthy and vigorous parents we see the production of most sickly and imbecile offspring. Have the so-called physicians any causes given for such abnormal phenomena. When nature baffles their expectations and produces apparently contrary objects the physicians blink like idiots, attribute derelictions of duty to nature, call the products abnormal, and try to fix causes which honestly they know not. When he is so rankly ignorant, of the physical nature of himself, which is visible, which can be handled and subjected to chemical experimentation and tests, and of which he has everyday experience and knowledge, how can he be expected to command a perfect knowledge about mind, which is subtle, invisible, and cannot be subjected to his knife or his tests, and about the working of which in his own head he does not know anything himself. Of course in all these statements we have used the word "he" and now we must find out what is meant by that wonderful and inscrutable word "he". The physique of man is visible and can be handled. The mind of man though not visible, is still perceivable by his intelligence and he has at least the audacity to state that he has tried to analyse it and write works on its workings under the grand name of Psychology.

A greater presumption can hardly be entertained by the writers of such works, who to speak the truth did not know much about their own minds and how it worked in them. On a subsequent occasion I propose to deal with fatalism and freewill and how it is possible to influence fate to some extent by the exercise of free-will and how fate as such could never be deemed to be supreme as contended by certain thinkers.

Chandrashtama from about sunrise of 23rd till about sunset of 25th.

7. Thula (Libra).—Jupiter in 2nd; Saturn in 3rd; Kethu in 6th; Mercury in 10th; Sun in 10th and 11th; Venus in 11th; Mars in 11th and 12th; and Rahu in 12th.

General.—There is literally a spate of good influences this month—all the planets are in favourable signs throughout the month. The only exception is Mars and he is in a bad sign for the last week only and he is under check so long. Conditions would be ideal indeed so far as transits are concerned if the planets are also free of vedha. But unfortunately that is not the case. Venus, Jupiter and Saturn are under check and that for the entire month, so that their rays are not available for translation into effects. But it is something that Sun is good and free of vedha for the whole month and Mars too so long as he is good. No planet being found in an evil sign is certainly a rare feature and this month should prove to be the best in the whole year. The observations made in the annual forecast may be recalled here. "Jupiter and Saturn are throughout the year in favourable sign. Roughly from about the middle of May to the end of August, Mars would be in favourable signs...from the middle of July to the end of August, Sun, Venus and Mercury would be additionally favourable". Generally, happiness, influx of wealth, success over rivals, auspicious celebrations, new status, increased prosperity, luxuries and enjoyments, etc., should figure among the month's events. Of the three stars of the sign, those born under Swati will fare even better than those born under Chitta or Visakha.

Health and Domestic.—There will be practically no ill-health during the month and even if there had been any previous illness of a chronic or sub-chronic nature, they would lend themselves easily amenable to proper treatment during the month. Home and domestic circle should prove happy and harmonious with social, religious and auspicious celebrations and consequent rejoicing. Your popularity and renown would be at its peak and probably there will be a lot of journeying with your multiplying social and friendly contacts and increase in the sphere of your influence.

Finance and Speculation.—Alround gains, success in your financial ventures, extra money facilities would ordinarily fall to your lot this month and you can make some easy money. You will also find that you can secure the co-operation of others in your work for your help, even those who have been keeping aloof so long. By careful planning and steady effort, this is the time to expand your resources, increased outlay in capital expenditure so that your ultimate gains can be increased. But you should see that you do not let your enthusiasm run away with you against your better judgment, especially during the last week when there is a slackening of the good influences. All these observations are not to be understood as favouring speculation in any shape or form, especially on margins.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—Matters connected with real property are not helped so much as one may be led to expect from the fact that there is practically no evil transit during the month, both good and bad are in store for the landlords and landholders. The astutes will exact hard work and steady effort to get things going and it may be necessary to indent on your reserves for pushing on with ameliorative and constructive work on the farm. But it will be some satisfaction to note that, though not immediately, these efforts and expenditure will not be in vain and would bring in increased profits and rentals in the not distant future. The services will be most fitted to exploit the good influences of the month and it would be difficult to envisage more promising conditions for them at least so far as transits are concerned. Success, accomplishment of one's desires, new position and honours, good name, triumph over rivals and enemies, etc., are the probable results. Some beneficial changes in the background influences that have been hampering you till now are also due. This is the month to fully exploit the favourable influences to the limit for the profession and business as the results will be quite up to expectations.

Women.—As may be expected, this will be a very good month for women, who will have a good time with success in all the activities they may engage in during the month—parties, pleasurable and social activities, excursions, picnics, etc. Harmony can also be achieved where there has been lack of it even amounting to discord in the past by proper manoeuvres to the effect. Facilities for making social hits, contacting new friends, getting the co-operation of others, etc., will be available.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs, interviews—2, 7, 11, 15, 24, 29, 31; money dealings, etc.—1, 11, 15, 25, 28, 30; short journeys—3, 7, 12, 16, 20, 28, 30, long journeys —4, 5, 8, 13, 21, 27, 30; real property affairs, educational activities—6, 10, 18, 23, 2J, 30; speculation, children's affairs, excursions and love affairs—6, 10, 18, 23, 27, 30; service affairs, etc.—3, 7, 12, 16, 20, 28, 30; partnership activities—1, 11, 15, 25, 30; insurance activities–2, 7, 11, 15, 24, 29, 31; professional enterprises—3, 7, 11, 15, 23, 25, 29.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private affairs—3, 13, 16, 20, 27, 30; money dealings—6, 13, 16, 20, 24, 28, 31; short journeys—1, 5, 15, 18, 21, 25, 29; long journeys—3, 13, 16, 20, 27; real property affairs, academical activities—1, 4, 8, 11, 14, 21, 28; speculation, children's affairs and love affairs—1, 4, 8, 11, 14, 21, 28; service affairs—1, 5, 15, 18, 21, 25, 29; partnership matters—3, 6, 13, 16 20, 24, 28; insurance activities—3, 13, 16, 20, 27, 30; professional enterprises—3, 10, 13, 16, 20, 27, 30.

Chandrashtama from about sunset of 25th till about sunrise of 28th.

8. Vrischika (Scorpio).—Jupiter in 1st; Saturn in 2nd; Kethu in 5th; Mercury in 9th; Sun in 9th and 10th; Venus in 10th; Mars in 10th and 11th; and Rahu in 11th.

General.—Except for Mars, no planet is to be found in a favourable sign for the entire month and Mars is under check throughout. The only other planet who is good for at least part of the month is Sun for the second half. Mercury, Venus, Jupiter and Saturn are all in evil signs only. The aggravating circumstance is that none of them suffer check for even part of the month. Therefore it is clear that with so many powerful evil transits the month will be full of sufferings and unpleasantness with no help from any benefic transits but the second half may prove somewhat less troublesome. Despondency and despair, loss of status and humiliation, failure in undertakings, obstacles and hindrances in all matters, tedious and wearisome journeys, unjust imputations, quarrels with relatives, increase of enemies, anxieties, defeat in litigations, physical debility, etc., are the sort of undesirable events that may occur during the month especially during the first half. During the second half however, there is scope for some gains, enjoyments, success in undertakings, fulfilment of your desires and good friendships and associations. Of the three asterisms of the sign, those born under Anuradha and Jyeshta will much loss than those born under Visakha.

Health and Domestic.—The evil transits of the month are not such as to cause any particular illness or even accidents, so no serious illness need be apprehended because all the transits are unfavourable. There may be lack of good health rather than ill-health, weariness caused by tedious journeys, general debility, etc. But quarrels and misunderstandings with elders inside and outside the domestic circle are probable. Domestic worries, bickerings and misunderstandings are also probable. Sorrows from death of relatives and friends are not also improbable.

Finance and Speculation.—It is clear however that financial matters will not prosper during the month. There will be contraction even in the usual avenues of income and monetary stress will be felt throughout. The position will be further complicated by additional items of expenditure cropping up. It is probable that enmities will arise on account of money or monetary transactions. You should also be on the guard against losses by deception through designing persons, as losses that way are indicated by more than one transit. It is needless to say that with such influences, speculation will only end in disaster.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—Matters pertaining to real property will have to bear the full brunt of the evil transits and suffer much in consequence. Poor yield further depleted through losses by pest, waste or acts of God or State will well-nigh create a situation bordering on despair. Only by cool and level-headed behaviour on your part, you can hope to reduce troubles and losses to the minimum. Much tact will be required to avoid unwanted quarrels and disputes. Above all, it would be necessary to avoid litigation which may land you in a fresh series of troubles and expenses with no corresponding gains. The services, however, are directly affected by the transits. True, unjust and false charges may have to be faced and enmities of all sorts arise alround. But ultimately nothing will come out of these and success comes to you gradually during the course of the month, more and more as the month advances, the closing week being the best part of the month in this respect. In some cases, you may have to wait till next month for the realisation of your hopes and wishes though the groundworks for all that will be laid during this month. Inspite of the evil transits, the profession and business will have a good time.

Women.—As in all other matters, this month cannot be said to be favourable for all matters in which the fair sex are interested. But the general situation improves as the month advances. So, from about the middle of the month conditions will be quite satisfactory and they can get along with all their activities, shopping, giving and attending parties, have outings, etc. Till the middle of the month however, it is better that attention is concentrated on domestic and routine matters, tidying things, new arrangements and furniture, replacing worn out fabrics and such actions of like nature.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs—1, 11, 15, 25, 28, 30; money dealings—3, 7, 12, 16, 20, 28, 30; short journeys—6, 10, 18, 23, 27, 30; long journeys—3, 7, 11, 15, 23, 25, 29; real property matters—6, 10, 18, 23, 27, 30; children's prospects and love affairs—3, 7, 12, 16, 20, 28, 30; service affairs and prospects—4, 5, 8, 13, 21, 27; partnership matters—3, 13, 16, 20, 27, 30; insurance activities—4, 5, 8, 13, 21, 27, 30; professional and business enterprises—3, 4, 9, 13, 23, 24, 28, 29.

Critical Dates.—Personal and domestic affairs—6, 13, 16, 20, 24, 28, 31; money dealings—1, 5, 15, 18, 21, 25, 29; short journeys—1, 4, 8, 11, 14, 21, 28; long journeys—3, 10, 13, 16, 20, 27, 30; real property matters and academical activities—1, 4, 8, 11, 14, 21, 28; speculation, children's and love affairs—1, 5, 15, 21, 25, 29; service affairs and prospects—3, 6, 13, 16, 20, 24, 28; partnership matters—3, 13, 16, 20, 27, 30; insurance activities—3, 13, 16, 20, 27; professional and business enterprises—4, 8, 11, 15, 18, 26, 30.

Chandrashtama from sunset of 25th till about sunrise of 28th.

9. Dhanus (Sagittarius).—Saturn in 1st; Kethu in 4th; Mercury in 8th; Sun in 8th and 9th; Venus in 9th; Mars in 9th and 10th; Rahu in 10th; and Jupiter in 12th.

General.—Mercury and Venus are the good planets for the month. While Mercury is under check, Venus is free throughout. The other planets are all in unfavourable signs, that is Sun, Mars and Saturn. Jupiter in twelfth is neither wholly good nor wholly evil. Sun and Mars however are under check for the entire month. From all this, it can be easily inferred that the month's result in general will be more unfavourable than otherwise. Undesirable friends, quarrels, extravagance and heavy expenditure, enmities alround, despondency, loss of status, wearisome journeys, losses, general debility, death of relatives, obstructions and delays in all matters are the sort of troubles that one should be prepared for during the month. But because of the good transits, there will be gains also, success, happiness, auspicious events and celebrations, luxuries, study of new subjects, fame, prosperity, etc. Of the three stars of the sign, those born under Poorvashada and Uttarashada will fare much better than those born under Makha.

Health and Domestic.—The month may prove somewhat troublesome in the matter of health. Ailments due to excessive heat as also high blood pressure may be present during the first half. General debility due to lack of vitality will also be present. There is also a liability to injuries and wounds through accidents,—all this only during first half. Illness to wife is probable. During the second half however, health will improve and other troubles will be greatly reduced. There may not be much of troubles in the domestic sphere except minor bickerings. Still the mind will be agitated and anxious over something or other throughout the month.

Finance and Speculation.–In money matters, while there may not be much of reduction or unfavourable changes in regard to the usual avenues of income, there will be such an increase in the number of items of expenditure, some necessary and some extravagant, that difficult situations will arise quite frequently and cause much of suffering. Even enmities also are liable to arise on account of money. Therefore drastic cut in the budget alone is likely to save the situation this month. Speculation is never favoured during the month and will be even dangerous during the second half.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.–Real property matters will grow steadily from bad to worse during the month and all sorts of troubles are likely to crop up. Yield may be affected by bad season pests, and many other causes as well. Quarrels and disputes in connection with your rights to property and litigation, etc., may arise with all its unpleasant consequences. Though this sphere is heavily afflicted, the position is not without some saving influences and these can be availed of only if you are careful and not precipitate matters by being rash or by taking the law into your own hands. The services though afflicted are in somewhat better form, but as the first half is the worst part of the month in this respect, good care and control on your part will be necessary so that you do not bring down upon you the displeasure of your superiors or those in authority above you. But once the middle of the month is past, conditions will be somewhat favourable though nothing that is positively beneficial can be counted among the happenings of the month. The profession and business may have a sort of hectic activity with no corresponding good results.

Women.—Though only evil transits predominate during the month, the members of the fair sex are likely to get away with it and may not attract the evil vibrations at all during the greater part of the month. So they can get along with their ordinary and extraordinary activities, the best part of the month being about the middle, when they will find that their matters get along smoothly and well. This part of the month is well suited for all kinds of activities, such as excursions, picnics, courtship, love affairs, getting into matrimony and also philanthropic doings and acts.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs—3, 7, 12,16, 20, 28, 30; money dealings—6, 10, 18, 23, 27, 30; short journeys—6, 10, 18, 23, 27, 30; long journeys—3, 4. 9, 13, 23, 24, 28, 29; real property affairs and academical activities—3, 7, 12, 16, 20, 28, 30; speculation, children's prospects, love affairs—4, 5, 8, 13, 21, 27; service affairs and prospects—3, 13, 16, 20, 27, 30; partnership matters—4, 5, 8, 13, 21, 27, 30; insurance matters and activities—3, 7, 11, 15, 23, 25, 29; professional and business enterprises—4, 5, 8, 13, 21, 27, 30.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private affairs—1, 5, 15, 18, 21 25, 29; money dealings and transactions—1, 4, 8, 11, 14, 21, 28; short journeys—1, 4, 8, 11, 14, 21, 28; long journeys—4, 8, 11, 15, 18, 26, 30; real property and academical activities—1, 5, 15, 18, 21, 25, 29; speculation, children's prospects and love affairs—3, 6, 13, 16, 20, 24, 28; service affairs and prospects—3, 13, 16, 20, 27, 30; partnership matters—1, 7, 11, 17, 24, 28; insurance activities—3, 10, 13, 16, 20, 27, 30; professional and business enterprises—1, 7, 11, 17, 24, 28.

Chandrashtama from morning of 3rd till afternoon of 5th and again from sunrise of 28th till end of the month.

10. Makara (Capricorn).— Kethu in 3rd; Mercury in 7th; Sun in 7th and 8th; Venus in 8th; Mars in 8th and 9th; Rahu in 9th; Jupiter in 11th; and Saturn in 12th.

General.—Venus and Jupiter are favourable for the entire month. But Jupiter is under check throughout. All the other planets are in unfavourable signs only, that is, Sun, Mercury, Mars and Saturn. Of these Sun, Mars and Saturn are under vedha for the entire month, while Mercury alone is free. So, though the evil transits outnumber the good ones, they are held up for exercising their malefic rays and Mercury though free by himself will not amount to much. Similarly, the best transit of the month namely Jupiter is powerless and Venus the only other auspicious planet may not be able to do much by himself. Thus the month will not be remarkable in any way nor very troublesome because of the evil transits. Tedious journeys and bodily fatigue, mental depression, humiliation and anxieties, health troubles, quarrels and misunderstandings, heavy expenditure, obstacles in all matters, temptations, litigation, etc., are the sort of undesirable happenings one should be prepared for during the month. As the good transits stand for just the opposite conditions, the troubles will never be allowed to go too far and on the whole a tolerable month can be looked for. Of the three stars of the sign, those born under Uttarashada and Sravana will fare much better generally than those born under Dhanishta.

Health and Domestic.—One should be prepared for troubles in health during the month. Indigestion, diseases of the stomach and rectum generally, fever, loss of blood, blood poisoning, etc., are the likely forms of suffering. To be fore-informed is to be forearmed. Therefore it is up to you to avoid all these by proper care as to diet and general habits and also be careful and avoid accidents as far as possible. In the domestic sphere, there will be also quarrels with wife and children, misunderstandings, and domestic worries. Mental agitation and sorrows may also arise on account of death among relatives and friends.

Finance and Speculation.–Both gains and losses are indicated for the month and both are likely to happen but in this respect, the evil transits have greater power and so the losses are likely to greatly outweigh the gains and cause much stress, troubles and anxieties during the month. Over and above all these usual happenings, a break-up of existing conditions and facilities with a consequent feeling of insecurity and instability is likely to occur that may leave far-reaching effects, even beyond this month. The month is undeniably unfavourable for speculation though the temptation will be strong for indulging in such activities.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—In the matter of real property conditions also, conflicting influences prevail and this feature will naturally be reflected in the results. Gain of property, good yield and generally a period of prosperity is indicated by one set of transits. On the other hand losses, obstacles, heavy expenditure in connection with the estate are also indicated. The way in which this conflict will shape out is unpredictable as this may function differently according to individual peculiarities of each case. Therefore it will be better to be prudent and circumspect in regard to any new developments that may take place and think twice before launching out into any extensive schemes of capital expenditure or investments in real property. The services are likely to have a bad time though at the same time it is probable that good may come out of it for example, a period of intense official worries and acute apprehensions may be followed by a period of comparative ease and freedom from worries and a preferment, promotion or other favourable change may await you at the end. In the case of the business and profession, there may not be much of change either for good or bad and last month's conditions are likely to continue.

Women.—Nothing remarkable is due for the month and there may not be any change in the existing conditions as the good and bad transits almost cancel each other out and it cannot be said that any part of the month is better or worse than any other in this respect. There is however a probability that not a negligible proportion of the unattached may enter the matrimonial state before the middle of the month. It is better that the fair sex travel as little as possible during the month and never alone and that only for unavoidable matters as there is a chance that thereby they are liable to be assaulted in out of the way places or suffer accidents of some sort or other.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs—6, 10, 18, 23, 27, 30; money dealings—6, 10, 18, 23, 27, 30; short journeys—3, 7, 12, 16, 20, 28, 30; long journeys—4, 5, 8, 13, 21, 27, 30; real property affairs and academical activities—3, 6, 13, 16, 20, 24, 28; speculation, children's prospects and courtships—1, 4, 5, 8, 13, 21, 27; service affairs—4, 5, 8, 13, 21, 27, 30; partnership matters—3, 7, 11, 15, 23, 25, 29; insurance activities—3, 4, 9, 13, 23, 24, 29; professional and business enterprises—2, 7, 11, 15, 24, 29, 31.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private affairs—1, 4, 8, 11, 14, 21, 28; money dealings—1, 4, 8, 11 14, 21, 28; short journeys—1, 5, 15, 18, 21, 25, 29; long journeys—1, 7, 11, 17, 24, 28; real property affairs and academical activities—6, 13, 16, 20, 24, 28; speculation, children's prospects and love affairs—3, 13, 16, 20, 27, 30; service affairs and prospects—1, 7, 11, 17, 24, 28; partnership matters—3, 10, 13, 16, 26, 27 30; insurance activities—4, 8, 11, 15, 18, 26, 30; professional and business enterprises—3, 13, 16, 20, 27, 30.

Chandrashtama from afternoon of 5th till midnight of 7th.

11. Kumbha (Aquarius).—Kethu in 2nd; Mercury in 6th; Sun in 6th and 7th; Venus in 7th; Mars in 7th and 8th; Rahu in 8th; Jupiter in 10th; and Saturn in 11th.

General.—Mercury and Saturn are the good planets for the entire month and both are free of vedha throughout. Sun is good for the first half only—also free of check so long. Venus, Mars and Jupiter are in unfavourable positions, but Mars is under check as also Venus. This leaves Jupiter alone among the evil transits free of vedha. Considering all above matters, it can be said that this month the good and bad elements are almost evenly balanced, inspite of the numerical superiority of the latter and the first half will be better than the second. Good health, triumph over rivals and enemies, general success, gains, popularity, prosperity and fame, good position and honours, gain of property, auspicious events and celebrations, domestic happiness, etc., can be envisaged as the results for the first half. Tedious journeys, health troubles mental depression and anxieties, quarrels and disputes with friends and relatives, loss of status, property, undesirable changes, scandals, etc., are also due for the evil transits more especially during the latter half of the month. Of the three stars of the sign, there may not be much difference in results and all will more or less prosper and suffer alike.

Health and Domestic.—Health for the month will be generally good especially during the first half. During the second half, those who are chronically subject to kidney and rectal disorders should be careful in their diet and habits so as not to create conditions which will bring on or aggravate these troubles. Slight wounds, even scratches should be carefully heated and bandaged so that complications may not arise. All this applies not only in your case but to your children also. The domestic circle will be on the whole peaceful and harmonious but for a few bickerings.

Finance and Speculation.—The month is not unfavourable for money matters in general as also for financial enterprises. But the real danger would appear to lie in not knowing when to go in and when to stop. Initial successes may lead you on into bolder ventures which you may not have thought of originally and these may result in unexpected losses. The element of losses through rashness or extravagance cannot be eliminated at any time during the month. Therefore it is all the more reasonable that you should totally abstain from speculative activities throughout the month.

Real Property, Services, Profession, etc.—Affairs connected with real property will hold their own during the month without much of viscissitudes. But this cannot be said to be an important month in any sense, just an ordinary routine month with minimum variation from average in almost all respects. If at all it is favourable, it will be in such matters as gaining the goodwill of all persons connected with you and to help you in achieving your objectives, as they are likely to respond well under the vibrations in force during the month, especially during the first half. The month is positively good for the services, the first half more so than the second. Your popularity in the office will increase alround which will stand you in good need for strengthening your position and securing a triumph over your rivals and winning the favour of your superiors. This month those in temporary service can succeed in gaining a permanent footing and some of the unemployed will find suitable berths. The profession and the business will function on well above average levels with however a few temporary setbacks during the second half.

Women.—This is only an average month for women in which normal activities will meet with a fair amount of success. However the influences may be said to favour them in one respect more than any other. They will find that their voice carries more weight and their words attended to with greater respect not only in social circles but within the domestic circle as well so that this can be exploited to full advantage in having their pet schemes put through either in gaining more funds for the family budget or for their personal adornment, luxuries, etc.

Fortunate Dates.—Personal and private affairs—6, 10, 18, 23, 27, 30; money dealings—3, 7, 12, 16, 20, 28, 30; short journeys—3, 6 (a.m.), 13 (a m.), 16, 20, 24, 28; long journeys—2, 7, 11, 15, 24, 29, 31; real property affairs and academical activities—4, 5, 8, 13, 21, 27; speculation, children's prospects and love affairs—4, 5, 8, 13, 21, 27, 30; service affairs and prospects—3, 7, 11, 15, 23, 25, 29; partnership activities—3, 4, 9, 13, 23, 24, 29; insurance activities—4, 5, 8, 13, 21, 27, 30; professional and business enterprises—1, 11, 15, 25, 28, 30.

Critical Dates.—Personal and private affairs—1, 4, 8, 11, 14, 21, 28; money dealings—1, 5, 15, 18, 21, 25, 29; short journeys—6 (a.m.), 13 (p.m.), 16, 20, 24, 28; long journeys—3, 13, 16, 20, 27, 30; real property affairs and academical activities—3, 13, 16, 20, 27, 30; speculation, children's prospects and love affairs—1, 7, 11, 17, 24, 28; service affairs and prospects—3, 10, 13, 16, 20, 27, 30; partnership matters—4, 8, 11, 15, 18, 26, 30; insurance activities—1, 7, 11, 17, 24, 28; professional and business enterprises—6, 13, 16, 20, 24, 28, 31.

OUTLOOK FOR GERMANY

THOUGH 14 years have passed since the end of the second World War, the fate of the divided country of Germany still hangs in the balance. Today the "German Reich" lives merely as a hope in the hearts of its people. As a political entity it does not exist. At the end of the last war, Germany was divided for purposes of occupation by the victorious powers. At the end of 14 years this temporary division has assumed an alarming degree of permanency—alarming in the sense that the big East-West fight over how Germany should be re-united goes on unabated. What is more distressing is, the German problem still constitutes one of the gravest dangers to world peace. What are the astrological indications for the re-unification of Germany? If an astrologer were to study some of the important charts bearing on German history, he will no doubt find that there is some sort of similarity between Germany's state of disunity a century ago and her present division.

Some astrologers assert that Germany has never been founded and that therefore it cannot have a horoscope in the sense of her birth. On this basis, it may be argued, that no countries on this earth can ever have been 'founded' because, they have all been in existence perhaps ever since our terra firma assumed its present shape. But in mundane astrology, we are concerned with certain epochs in the life of a nation—foundations, revolutions, etc., affecting the political structure of a state in a new manner. On this basis, the birth of a new German Republic on 7th September 1949 marks an important epoch in the long and tortuous history of this great nation. Before taking up the horoscope of the post-war West German Republic, we shall casually refer to the chart cast for the time at which the German Republic of 1918 came into existence.

The 1918 Republic horoscope has several afflictions; indicating Alpayurdaya or early death. The Lagna is Capricorn and Saturn is in the 7th bhava (while in 8th Rasi) and lord of the 8th is in the 10th, debilitated. There is no doubt neechabhanga (cancellation of debility) for the Sun, but this is more than counter-balanced by Saturn aspecting the 10th from an inimical house. Moreover, the map is full of Dwirdwadasa (2nd and 12th) positions. The adverse situation of the lord of the ascendant coupled with the disposition of Mars in a Bhava Sandhi reveal the appaling difficulties faced by men to whose lot fell the task of Government. Sun's Dasa for the Republic extended till 7-1-1934. The Sun rules Leo, the natural ruling sign of France. In 1923 the French occupied the Ruhr. This involved the necessity of supporting a large part of the population out of State funds. The aspect of Mars on the 2nd house explains all these financial difficulties. The Moon's Dasa ruled till 7-1-1934. The Moon lord of the 7th is in the 12th with Mars. Before the close of the Moon's Dasa, the Chancellorship of the Reich was handed over to Herr Hitler which meant the death of the Republic, a peaceful death without any armed resistance. Though the Moon has caused Gajakesari Yoga, and occupies a Vargottama, she has turned out to be a maraka because of the ownership of the 7th and situation in the 12th in association with Mars, whose malefic nature has been augmented by his ownership of the 11th. The Moon is in the constellation of Venus—a Yogakaraka, but Venus is himself considerably weakened and afflicted. It was only the end of the Moon's Dasa that proved destructive to the life of the Republic.

We do not propose to discuss the implications of the various combinations present in the horoscope of Hitler's National Socialist Regime, for that has already been done in some of the previous issues of The Astrological Magazine. But we should like to emphasise the fact that Aries, a martial sign rising, unaspected by benefics, and the lord of Lagna in another royal sign Leo, aspecting the Moon in Pisces, the 12th or house of loss—all denote tremendous aggressive designs, and the meteoric rise and fall of the regime, about the time Jupiter transitted the exact longitude of radical Mars and when the Dasa of Mercury, lord of the 3rd and 6th occupying the 10th with Saturn and the Sun was in operation.

In the absence of the time at which the Federal Republic came into being on 7-9-1949, we shall be basing our discussion on the Janma Rasi, in the horoscope. What strikes the eye of a discerning astrologer is the disposition of the three most important planets Mars, Sun and Saturn in the 6th and 7th respectively. The Sun is strongly placed but equally strongly afflicted by Saturn's conjunction. Lord of Chandra Lagna in the 7th explains the fact that the men to whose lot fell the task of establishing this Republic had to deal not only with the material effects of a lost war and a dictated peace but also with the psychological effects of these events on the people. The 4th lord Venus and Kethu in conjunction in the 8th, and the 4th being aspected powerfully by Saturn, stresses the disadvantages under which the new Republic was born and the innumerable odds it had to face before it became an entity in European Politics. Dealing with the same horoscope in the November 1949 issue of The Astrological Magazine, we observed thus :—"The 6th house in a national chart rules the armed forces. Here Mars is neecha. Therefore German militarism will be at its lowest ebb until at least such time that Saturn by Gochara enters Libra, when he will aspect radical Mars. The natural ruling sign of Russia is Aquarius, the Janma Rasi in the Republic chart. Obviously this denotes that Russians will continue to strive for the domination of all Germany and in fact establish a separate German Government in their zone, and this sort of thing should continue until at least Saturn by transit reaches the 24th degree of Libra, which means, roughly about 5½ years. The Saturn-Sun conjunction may also be interpreted to mean that in the Russian zone there would be further economic stagnation and political discontent and the Russians will therefore be obliged to change their attitude. The Soviets will continue their own attempts for the re-establishment of a United German administration. The Western German reaction to this would be mixed. The French will continue to put forth further obstacles in the way of American programme for German recovery. The conflicting aims of the Western Allies would be like thorns that cause the feelings of frustration, irritation and rising nationalistic spirit, with the result there will be many bottlenecks in the relations between the new Republic and Western Allies. One of the tragic comedies of Sun-Saturn conjunction is that Germany's ablest leaders, who earnestly desire sincere co-operation with the allied Governments will be more than annoyed at the seeming contradiction between democracy as preached and as practised by the Allies. The Sun-Saturn conjunction can be interpreted in a number of other ways. For instance, it is inevitable that the Russians try to rebuild Eastern Germany on a pattern which they themselves have adopted, just as it was natural and inevitable that the Western Allies would wish Western Germany to develop on the pattern of a 'Western' democracy. But the two are incompatible. They cannot be blended or reconciled. And one of the great problems of future Germany is that the conflict between two conceptions of democracy has to be decided. If Germany is to be united again, the East must become 'westernised' or the West 'easternised'. No compromise or synthesis is possible. Between Saturn and the Sun, representing the two political ideologies, the Sun is definitely stronger as he occupies his own sign. Consequently, though for the time being partition must continue, ultimately Western democracy will triumph.

"It seems to us that until the entry of Saturn into Sagittarius, things must continue to be unsettled and unsatisfactory. It would only be after 1958 that there will be improvement in the world economic situation when Germany can also look forward to improvement in her own affairs as well as in foreign relationships".

Recent events have fully justified our anticipations made ten years ago. The splitting-up of Germany into two sovereign parts, first in the economic and later in the political field and the diametrically opposed conditions under which the two Germanies live have all become historical realities. It will be seen that the major obstacle to re-unification is Russia's objections to German rearmament. It is only after Saturn's entry into Libra that West Germany became rearmed. It is anticipated that very soon the German Federal Republic will have the largest standing army under NATO command. Mars as 10th lord is in the 6th debilitated, and aspected by a debilitated Jupiter. The mutual aspects of two debilitated planets cancel each other's debilitation so that Mars becomes quite powerful.

According to an esteemed German correspondent, the German Chancellor Dr. Adenauer was born on 5-1-1876 at about 10-33 a.m. L.M.T. A superficial examination of the horoscope does not disclose any strength or potentiality. All the planets are dwirdwadasa and Venus Yogakaraka is in the 12th. But from Chandra Lagna, the picture changes a little. However if the horoscope is carefully scrutinised, it will be found that there are potential combinations capable of making the person what he is today. Jupiter in the 10th, lord of Lagna Saturn in Lagna, Mars lord of the 10th in the 2nd, aspected by the lord of the 2nd, Mercury lord of the 5th, Vargottama —are all strong points in the horoscope. The Moon's situation in Aries, in the constellation of Aswini and the disposition of Mars lord of Chandra Lagna in Pisces with Rahu aspected by Jupiter explain his strong convictions about German Rearmament and his uncompromising attitude of non-recognition of the East German State. The ascendant being Aquarius always favours an attitude of astuteness, open-mindedness and firmness and conservatism. Till 1961, he will be having the sub-period of Saturn in the major period of Saturn. The major and sub-lord Saturn is actually in the 12th Bhava. The 12th house position for a lord whose directional influences are in progress is not a happy one. Here Saturn being in his own sign, the evil is considerably minimised. Saturn's position in the constellation of Mars enabled him to once again become the Chancellor of Germany. He will not only continue to guide his country for some time more but will also be able to hold the stability of the Bonn Government. Added to this, the Republic horoscope has favourable Gochara positions—Saturn transitting the 11th and Jupiter passing through the 10th. The indications are that Dr. Adenauer will continue to be loyal to the Western Powers. With Jupiter in the 9th Bhava it is unthinkable that he would ever agree to compromise with the Communists. Until the entry of Saturn into Capricorn the East-West German question will remain as it is. Except for occasional verbal fireworks, Mr. Khrushchev will not think of precipitating a crisis. It occurs to us that astrologically the re-union of East and West Germany will not be in sight until at least 1962. In the meanwhile, a strong and growing sentiment in West Germany will favour expanded negotiations with East Germany. When Saturn enters the 3rd Navamsa of Makara (some time during 1962), radical Mars will be in bad aspect with transitting Saturn. This period would be unfortunate for the Republic. The Western idea of free elections to be followed by the integration of East Germany into the West Germany will not be realised. In fact opposition for this will come mainly from West Germans. From 1961, Dr. Adenauer will be having the sub-period of Mercury in the major period of Saturn. Mercury as lord of the 8th is in association with the Sun lord of the 7th and hence a maraka. Therefore 1961–62 will again see a Germany torn by internal conflict and lacking a clear-cut policy of her own both in regard to internal and international matters. There will be serious difficulties in the national life, discontent on the part of the people, a turbulent spirit, outrages, assassinations, and a change of regime. The Constitution which has been evolved after months of deliberation will crack like the Weimar Constitution under the pressure of extremist forces. The Republican form of Government may give place to some sort of monarchy or benevolent despotism. By this time Germany will have not only become renascent and fully industrialised but will have gained back her lost place and prestige. She will turn out to be a bulwark against Soviet expansionism. In the first German Republic horoscope, Saturn is in the 9th from the Moon and excepting this planet, all the others have Dwirdwadasa positions. But in the 2nd Republic horoscope all planets have Dwirdwadasa positions. The first Republic ended in 1933 by the time Saturn came to Makara, when the Republic was about to become free from Sadesathi. The new Republic will collapse by the time Saturn enters the third Navamsa of Capricorn, i.e., when Sadesathi begins for the chart. Both the horoscopes have Saturn in the same position. In the first case Saturn aspects the Sun, neecha, and in the 2nd, there is a regular conjunction. It is for German leaders to take advantage of these astrological indications for the benefit of their country and people.

ASTROLOGY IN AMERICA

By BHRIGU

CONFERENCES of astrologers have nowadays become more necessary and imperative. When the Governments and self-styled rationalists are indifferent to all moves to make astrology more and more exact and scientific, and when the academic circles at least openly talk shop about this science, it is the duty of astrologers to assert themselves and to vindicate the truths of the science of astrology. Of late we have had a number of astrological conferences in India. But now we have very good news from the United States, the home of the modern progressive scientific thinking. Dr. Adrian M. Ziegler, Director, informs us that THE INTERNATIONAL CONGRESS OF ASTRO-SCIENCE will be held at New York from 2nd to 10th October 1959 and that there will be 21 sessions representing about 20 nations. Dr. Ziegler is the moving spirit behind the Congress. The first Congress was held in 1957 in Los Angeles. Dr. Ziegler is a great astrological enthusiast and deserves to be warmly congratulated by all those sincerely interested in astrology. He has been trying to bring together astrologers from different lands and to create a common platform for some sort of a unified presentation of the science to the moderns. He expects delegates from different parts of the world. Editor of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE is likely to participate. Others who wish to attend the Congress may contact Dr. Adrian M. Ziegler, Director, 5555, Hollywood Building, Hollywood 28, California, U.S.A. We are sure that Dr. Ziegler's efforts will advance the cause of scientific astrology.

We also understand from Mr. Charles Jayne, Jr. Editor, In Search, that under the auspices of the Astrologers' Guild of America, of which he is the President and Director, another CONFERENCE OF ASTROLOGERS will be held at New York "to honor and to greet" visiting astrologers, on 10th and 11th October, i.e., immediately after the International Congress of Astro-Science concludes its session. Mr. Jayne is a sincere worker in the field of astrology and his excellent Journal In Search is an interesting endeavour devoted to the promotion of the cause of astrology on serious lines.

It is also gratifying to note in this connection that the Astrological Research Associates, New York, has issued a questionnaire which all genuine students of astrology should fill up early. The results of this enquiry are to be published in the quarterly In Search. The questionnaire is fairly exhaustive and it gives an idea of the trends on which the science of astrology has been developing in the West.

The duty of the students of Hindu astrology is clear. They have not only to contribute to the making of the science of astrology; but they have also to advance the cause of the ancient Hindu system which has been handed over to us by our great Sages and seers and which contains principles several of which are as valid today as they were when first propounded.

Prejudice and Ignorance

MR. E. H. TROINSKI is a controversial figure in European astrology. His work in mundane astrology is rated high by some Western astrologers. Not content with his yet-to-be-proven tertiary directional system, he has chosen to indulge in a series of diatribes against Indian culture, philosophy and religion. In a recent issue of Astrologischer Aufkunstsbogen he speaks of a Chinese invasion of India which will "lift up the thousands of lower castes there and liberate the oppressed. The sins of the upper classes against the vegetating castes, their physical exploitation for thousands of years, the toleration of the formation of hundreds and thousands of lower castes for the purpose of mental, spiritual and physical enslavement will be avenged". All this is supposed to be revealed by India's horoscope for 15th August 1947. This is the limit of colossal ignorance, prejudice, superstition and arrogance. Mr. Troinski has apparently not awakened from the herrenvolk lethargy induced on him by Nietzsche, Hitler and others of the same brand. He may be finding elsewhere what Hitler did in Europe—'mental, spiritual and physical enslavement' of peoples through concentration camps and jew-baiting.

Evidently Mr. Troinski finds the caste system only in India. But then what was it that prevented the British from having the present Duke of Windsor as their monarch? What was it that led to a severe uproar in Britain at the rumoured marriage of Princess Margaret? He may remember the exclusive rights conferred on the gauleiters and the like in Germany; and he may not forget the treatment of the jews in Germany. If this is not the operation of a caste system, what else is it? Mr. Troinski, we are sure, cannot show similar trends in any period of Indian history.

Mr. Troinski is obviously ignorant of the caste system in India. When this system is examined, it will reveal important factors which we have earlier explained in these columns. This system does not imply that any caste is superior or inferior to any other. It implies, on the other hand, that the various castes are interdependent, that each is necessary to the rest, and that all the castes together make up the social fabric. If we study ethnology from the standpoint of astrology, we find the same truth corroborated. Why should Jupiter have anything to do with the theological persons and Saturn with the agriculturists and farmers? If you do not believe in these social or vocational distinctions, how can you proceed in astrology?

The caste system also implies a tradition. Each caste has its own specific tradition which it seeks to preserve and promote in the interests of the entire society. A break with the tradition arises when influences come from outside the homogeneous group. Thus a religion arising from the Semitic people altered the history, culture and outlook of the European branch of the Aryan family. A religion coming from the Aryan people transformed the outlook, life and thought of the Mongoloid peoples of East Asia. In such situations we find converts and fanatics who give rise to a number of castes. Thus there are Mormons, Jesuits, Catholics, Lutherans, Presbytarians and so on. When fanaticism seizes any one of these sects, the others appear to it to be the lower castes. Then again another source of new castes is found in marital relations; and we need not point this to any one in Western Europe since it is rampant there. And will Troinski say that these castes in Western Europe need to be liberated because they oppress other castes? If he does not, then will he extend an invitation to the East European Communists? It is to preserve the hierarchy of social and economic castes that the West Europeans are struggling with the NATO Pact.

Scanned by www.sriparashisastrology.com To Preserve Late B.V. Raman's Work

Leaving this aside, we wish to point to Mr. Troinski and men of his thinking that mundane astrology, like any other branch of astrology, needs a careful, scientific and well-reasoned approach and investigation. If you claim a new technique, it does not entitle you to practise yellow journalism. One formidable reason for the contemporary prejudices against astrology is the way sensational and unfounded predictions are made by astrologers like Mr. Troinski. Even before his wish for a Chinese invasion of India is materialised, he is avenged by those who denounce astrology for cheap sensationalism.

Mr. Troinski speaks of the "liberation of the oppressed"? The so-called oppressed people are those whose ancestors frequently changed their religious or social traditions and habits, and who were therefore denied admission in the traditional set-up. The British when ruling India sufficiently backed them up to defeat the forces of nationalism: and Mahatma Gandhi was the man who set himself to the task of liberating them in this century. The Hindu never believed in oppressing any one. Many foreigners, even from the days of Alexander, have recognized the broad spirit of tolerance exhibited by the Hindu. Tolerance and oppression are antipodes. If this is not realised, one should refrain from talking about India or about the Hindus. Because of this toleration, the Hindu never thought of the irreligious principle of canvassing for conversion. When Christians and Muslims began to play the joke with the backing of the Governments, the Hindu did reply well with the Ramakrishna Mission.

Mr. Troinski is not the only one of his kind to underrate and abuse India. It is a sorry spectacle to note that Dr. Walter Koch should observe in his article on the "Vernal Point and Era of Aquarius" that the Rig Veda "could not have originated prior to the second century B.C." because Aswini is the first lunar constellation of Indians. But who told him that Aswini constellation is mentioned in Rig Veda? Even in the Brahmanas, which were posterior to the Samhitas, the constellations are given from Krittika onwards. Aswini may be at the vernal point in 178 B.C.; but what about Krittika? Evidently prejudice blinds this author to truth. Then again he tells us that the works of Paulus Alexandrimus of about 380 A.D. were translated in the Indian text of Paulisha Siddhanta and adopted by the Surya Siddhanta. Paulisha Siddhanta, be it remembered, was contemporaneous with Varahamihira who lived in the first century B.C. And it is an accepted fact that the Surya Siddhanta was the oldest available text, preceding the Greek texts by many centuries. With this ignorance of correct history, the learned Doctor observes that "the present day Indian astrologers are lacking in their historical knowledge of Greek antiquity. It was from the Greeks that they took their never rejuvenated and now dusty tradition". The Greeks till the days of Socrates, Plato and Aristotle had no culture worth mentioning. Even then many a great thinker was said to have travelled to the East. Alexander took with him from India many ascetics, thinkers and astronomers and astrologers. Even Pythagoras was said to have come to India. In later times, the Neo-Platonists looked again to India for inspiration and guidance. In some earlier articles in THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE it has been stated on the basis of incontrovertible evidence that migrations from India to Europe were the regular feature in the prehistoric times too. To say that the Indian tradition is never rejuvenated is a grand lie betraying ignorance. A tradition cannot be alive and powerful if it does not gather fresh strength and impetus at every epoch. In astronomy and astrology one has only to recall the great names of Varahamihira, Bhaskara, Ganesha, Sripathi, Parasara, Jaimini, Mantreswara, Venkatesha and others. It is possible that our tradition was not rejuvenated in the sense that it did not change its coat at every change of the wind. But it is a tradition which did rejuvenate some of Germany's great figures like Goethe, the Von Schlegels, and Schopenhauer. Even Nietzsche was considerably rejuvenated by this tradition. Mathematics and medicine continued to migrate from India to Europe through the Arabs even in later times.

Dr. Koch finds that this Indian tradition is 'now dusty'. Evidently he is not able to understand it. The cat with closed eyes sips the milk and believes that the world is blind. If the Indians accepted the Sayana or moving zodiac and if they discarded their surer methods of prognostication in favour of the never-to-be definite Western methods of directing. Dr. Koch may not have seen the dust there. What Dr. Koch and Mr. Troinski do not seem to realise is the simple fact that the Europeans did inherit the Greek tradition which they could not rejuvenate and which had gathered dust upon it because of another tradition which they borrowed from the alien Semitic peoples. And yet the Europeans ill-treated the Jews who bequeathed their tradition to the Europeans. The conflict between these two traditions is something which the Europeans have not so far been able to resolve amicably. An attempt was made during the period called the Renaissance; but it was scotched.

Rejuvevnation is necessary for those who have become old and senile. But India and Indian culture have never become old and senile.

This was possible because every Hindu holds fast to the creed of spiritual humanism. It is a creed according to which the individual is more important than a group. Respect for the independence and integrity of the individual is the central pivotal doctrine of Hinduism as it is practised even today. In such a cultural setting there is neither an oppressor nor the oppressed, anything old nor anything young and fresh. In the past many a vagabond invaded India with the hope of smashing Hinduism; but he failed for the simple reason that

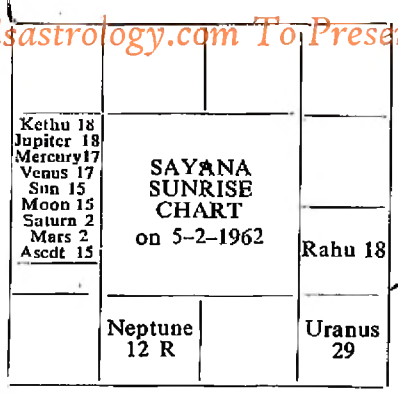
The 1962 Eight-Planet Combination & World Affairs—A Symposium

[As readers are aware, there is going to be a combination of eight planets in Capricorn (Aquarius according to Sayana or the Movable Zodiac), in February 1962. The subject has been dealt with by us not only in August 1957 issue of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE under the caption The Third World War, but reference has also been made to this great concentration of force in one part of the heavens, in our inaugural address to the All-Kerala Astrological Association, at Trichur. This unique celestial combination seems to have excited the curiosities of a large section of the educated public to such an extent that many of them have suggested the subject being discussed in a more detailed manner.

Those intending to participate in this symposium can prepare a suitable paper and send the same for publication. It is left entirely to one's discretion whether to interpret the combination astrologically or astronomically, on the basis of the Nirayana or Fixed Zodiac or Sayana or Movable Zodiac. You have to set out what in your opinion, are the likely results to happen as a consequence of this eight-planet combination in the world as a whole; with reference to the different countries; and/or in regard to individuals born in different signs. All points of view—whether based on ancient classical writings or on modern western texts or on one's own experience, are welcome.

PAPER No. 8—BY S. P. SAMBASIVA IYER

IN an earnest attempt to contribute my views on the above interesting subject I have adopted the Sayana method throughout. It is not that I hold the Sayana system in any way superior to Nirayana; but because that my study of mundane astrology has all along been in line with the western system and I have consistently found the results quite satisfactory. The following is the picture of the heavens as found on the fateful day of 5th February 1962 with my comments and views.



The chart is computed for Delhi on the basis of the data given by Prof. B. V. Raman and the Ayanamsa adopted is 22° as a round figure instead of 21°49′47″ as given by him in THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE.

The 5th February 1962, dawns with an eclipse of the Sun in the fifteenth degree of Aquarius (the Sun and the Moon occupying the same degree) closely followed by Mercury and Venus conjunction in seventeenth degree and Jupiter and Kethu in the eighteenth degree, practically all the six planets in close conjunction.

Mars is in the second degree of Aquarius within one degree of conjunction and parallel of declination with Saturn.

Neptune in the twelfth degree of Scorpio in the ninth house is just separating from a square of the Moon and Sun and ascendant. Uranus occupying twenty-ninth degree of Leo is in an exact square to the meridian and quincunx to Mars and Saturn. The overall picture is indeed foreboding indicating unfavourable consequences for the country in general. The zodiacal sign Aquarius is a fixed one and of airy nature indicating effects which will last for a considerable period of time.

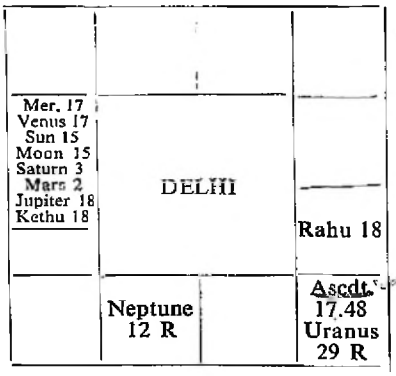
From a consideration of the planets' dispositions including Uranus, Neptune and Pluto it will be seen that they are between Rahu and Kethu "the devil and the deep sea" so to say and it is a bad omen. Mars and Saturn find themselves in the 12th house, Mars coming to the conjunction of Saturn and both of them are polar opposites in their nature, capable of producing cataclysmic effects. Being not only in zodiacal conjunction but also in parallel of declination the evil import is considerably enhanced. Saturn no doubt is fortified in his own sign, but finds himself in the 12th house in uncongenial association, and naturally the evil nature of configuration is not likely to be mitigated to any appreciable degree, perhaps not at all.

The Sun which is just rising is eclipsed and becomes a first rate malefic. Closely following is the conjunction of Mercury and Venus in the identical degree and within a degree further on is the great benefic Jupiter. But for the fact that these benefics are within the orb and tainted by the eclipsed Sun, it is an excellent testimony for bright and prosperous mundane affairs.

It is said that when a planet just separates and forms a new aspect with another planet, the nature of the separating aspect is carried to modify or augment the new aspect materially. In the present case the eclipsed Sun is separating from a square of Neptune and applies successively to the conjunction of benefics Mercury, Venus and Jupiter. The nature of this can be determined to be a gradual diminishing of the evil import and an ultimate outcome of benefic results.



Uranus from the 7th house not only afflicts the meridian with a powerful square but also aspects both Mars and Saturn by a quincunx. Thus one will see that both inner and outer planets are inextricably linked to each other and all the four angels are badly afflicted presenting an overall picture of some impending dose of calamitous happenings.

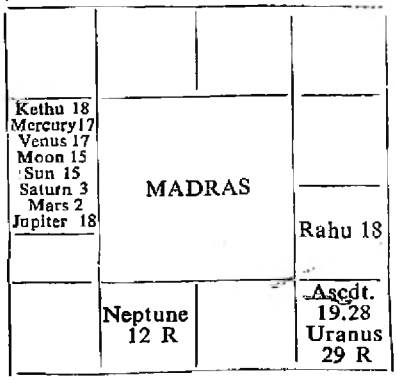
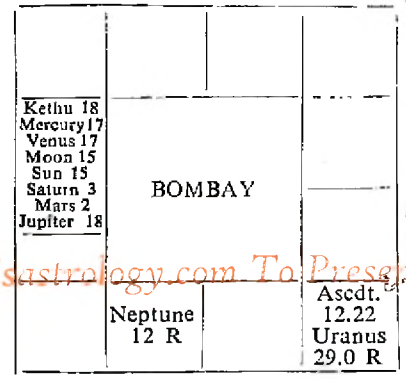
Now let us try and examine the nature and shape of things which are likely to follow:—



The satellitium of planets in a fixed sign shows among other things famine, earthquakes and degeneration of public morality. The concourse of many planets in one sign is like a powder keg or a dynamite and the fuse and ignition is invariably provided by the incidence of an eclipse or lunation closely following. In this instance the events are likely to materialise almost immediately. The intensity and duration of the effects of this phenomenon depend on the magnitude of the solar eclipse as well.

Mars represents heat and fire and Saturn cold. These two polar opposites do not combine but destroy each other, leaving noxious fumes and charred remains. In celestial science the influences either combine co-exist or produce a third effect but never cancel each other, as is the case in the physical science also. This conjunction in the 12th house is very unfortunate for the country. Mars by himself even when alone is evil denoting increase of crimes like murders, incendiarism, violence of all sorts and activities of spies, saboteurs, but in combination with Saturn will warp and enhance all the above factors in their intensity. Mars being the lord of the 10th house of the chart and the meridian being strongly afflicted by Uranus, is a positive indication of the government finding itself vulnerable to attacks of unruly elements. The square from Uranus having emanated from the 7th house, the house of foreign relation, is likely to adversely affect the country's normal relationship with other powers.

Neptune from the 9th house in square with the rising Sun and Moon will create great confusion, unrest and chaotic conditions. The country's nationals abroad will meet with hardships and harassments, danger to shipping and air disasters as indicated by Neptune's quincunx aspect to Saturn the lord of the ascendant. In a mundane chart the most important house is the ascendant representing the people, the general condition of the country, the state of affairs and the public health. It is hemmed in between Saturn and Mars on one side and six planets on the other side including Kethu. Rahu and Kethu are especially powerful factors at the time of an eclipse. Any planet between them and the eclipse is as good as eclipsed and develops malefic tendencies even when benefic. Thus the ascendant inspite of the combination of benefic planets, is like a pent up volcano ready to blow up at the slightest pressure and there are all the elements for an explosion. The moment will be when the Moon comes to the point of opposition to the place of eclipse or when Mars comes in conjunction with the degree of the eclipse. Events will follow rapidly to disturb every aspect of the country's life, creating conditions like earthquakes, fires, epidemics, famine and violent storms detrimental to the well-being of the people at large.



Aquarius the most evolved of the mental triplicity and most humane and altruistic will be intensely and deeply agitated and stirred, by this phenomenon and its basic qualities and nature will find full expression in the beginning, although in a manner savouring of calamitous and cataclysmic nature. This is according to the divine scheme of evolution and progress. Let us now pause and reflect for a while what the condition of our world was at the dawn of history a million years ago and what it is today. What are the causes which helped the steady process of evolution and progress? The progress of everything on earth is mainly through human endeavour and ingenuity only. Human mind becomes quickened after every calamity for finding amenities and reconstruction on improved pattern follows every destruction. The human mind endowed with the divine spark of life is restless and seeks expansion like the expanding universe and requires only a medium of impetus. The evolution of life left to itself within the elements and frame work of what are available within the earth's nature, will probably be where and what it was at the beginning of creation. It is the external force coming now and then in the form of celestial phenomena like eclipses concentration of a number of planets in a sign, visitations of comets and the like that produces basic changes in the earth's matter and life initiating conditions for progress. From time immemorial such celestial phenomena have occurred millions of times and at every incidence some change in our earth's pattern of life has been registered and at every step further advance in progress is maintained. There will be great scientific advancement which will be more constructive than destructive. The altruistic tendencies will show up in purer form and there will be better understanding between man and man. The airy nature of the sign will help expansion of ideas and exploration of hidden secrets of nature and the space. However, it can be said with confidence that the net outcome of the initial severity and calamitous nature of happenings may help the humanity as a whole to move a significant step forward in the advancement of scientific achievements and create an atmosphere of better understanding of humane values. Further the significance of the configuration of eight planets coming after the great conjunction of Juipter and Saturn termed as "the great mutation" by Raphael, occurring in the 26th degree of Capricorn during the last week of February 1961, will have started in motion, very serious conditions prone to cause warlike conditions, misunderstanding, deterioration of public morality, political upheavels, rioting and danger to governments and prominent people.

Our own country happens to be adversely affected. The day dawns with the eclipse hemmed in between planets Mars and Saturn in the twelfth and other four planets including Kethu in the ascendant. It looks as if all the twelve Bhavas are thrown into the melting pot or crucible and it will be interesting to watch how they will resolve and in what shape and colour they will emerge ultimately. Aquarius being a fixed sign, intense quake-shocks are indicated between 60° and 80° E. longitude and comprising Western Arabia, Afganistan, Pakistan and Central India. There will be chaos and confusion in the political atmosphere. The government, the social and cultural institutions will become targets to the onslaughts of the unruly and selfish elements egged on by unfriendly foreign agents. Economic structure will be shaken, black-marketers, unsocial elements will appear within strength to take advantage of the situation to fulfil their nafarious ambitions. But as Prof. B. V. Raman has pointed out the evil things will not last long as planetary dispositions definitely point towards a speedy recovery from the initial dose of catastrophy and calamity. Mercury, Venus and Jupiter are progressively rising in the ascendant showing an array of exceedingly benign influences sufficient to wipe away all evil things. The pleasant dreams of all unruly and selfish elements will be shattered and the government and country will emerge gloriously under a new healthy set-up.

The rising sign of India is Virgo. The most important cities also come under the same sign. As per Sepharial's findings Delhi rises under 17° 48', Bombay 12° 22', Calcutta 28° 19', Madras 19° 28'.

These four cities being the centres of administration as well as centres of commerce and trade, naturally have a marked control over the life of the country as a whole. For Delhi, Calcutta and Madras the congregation of eight planets falls within the 5th house of the ascendant, but for Bombay only Mars and Saturn find their places in the 5th house and the rest of the planets are in the 6th house. Generally the 5th house representing children of the soil are likely to be under the strain of this potential combination especially children and women. Educational institutions and places of amusements will suffer due to disturbances—riots, fires. Bombay will fare worse than other places, probably deterioration of public health due to epidemics in serious form. Working classes will suffer hardships. Violent riots and strikes in the docks and mill area will be a daily occurrence marring the normal pattern of life. Uranus rises in the ascendant of India in quincunx aspect to the eclipsed position and in square to the meridian will prove to be very evil influence on the life of the country showing subversive activities, outrages against authority and violent disturbance of the peace. Neptune in his mundane manifestations when afflicted stands for chaotic conditions, like fraud and dishonesty. His position in the 2nd house of the national chart and in square to the Moon and Sun denotes losses to the revenue of the country through sharp practices by the trade. Stocks and shares will fare very badly and there will be upsets, slump and loss of confidence in the financial and commercial fields. Gamblers and unscrupulous elements who usually take advantage of situations like this are forewarned and they are sure to meet with disappointments.

Russia.—Aquarius happens to be the ascending sign of this country and the seventh sign of Moscow, ruled by Leo. About 10th March, Mars conjuncts the eclipsed degree in opposition to Moscow's ascendant when Saturn also comes to square of Moscow's meridian. The astrological indications are that U.S.S.R. as a whole will experience a thorough shake-up. Severe quake-shocks will occur east of Ural mountains resulting in damages to cities and mines. Locally there will be disturbances in the existing pattern of life by uprisings, riots and revolts against the established rule of law and administration. Its own neighbouring satellite governments will try to cut off their allegiance and be independent as denoted by the position of Uranus in the 3rd house. Neptune in the 4th house indicates the mass in revolt and unsettled state of affairs. Above all the 7th house to Moscow where the combination has occurred, presages very bad relationship with foreign countries. There will be warlike monoeuvre and intense propaganda but not actual declaration of war. The question of the independence of Germany will become prominent as shown by the planet Mars ruling Germany in conjunction with Saturn, ruler of Russia. At the beginning Russia will appear to have things in its own way; but gradually its grip will loosen by about May–June when Mars comes to his own sign Aries and Saturn begins to retrograde. Germany for once will be united and become independent. Russian people inspite of all mishaps and sufferings and troubles will reap their own benefits by gradually shaking off the rule of autocracy and march towards popular democratic form of Government as denoted by Saturn the planet of democracy entrenched in his own mansion.

United Kingdom.—The combination of planets in the 11th house of the ruling sign Aries denotes that the events following will be of a mixed nature. The ruling lord Mars is the most elevated planet but is in conjunction with Saturn the lord of the 10th and 11th houses. The 11th house indications such as, both the houses of Parliament, and friendly association with foreign countries figure prominently. Internally there will be dissensions among the various political parties and affiliations and material changes in the governance of the country will be made. There will also be some cold shouldering from some of the country's friends and/or member of the Commonwealth if not actual breaking away. The country will be deeply involved in a conflict with Russia on the issue of Germany. The country will pass through a strenuous period both internally and externally.

United States of America.—The ruling sign is Gemini and the concourse of planets is found in its 9th house. Mercury the ruling planet is not only involved in the combination but also is within the orb of the eclipsed Sun. A normal interpretation of the astro-mundane significances shows that apparently all the 9th house indications will come to figure prominently. Some of them are religion, law, shipping, colonial affairs, foreign trade, airways, etc. All these factors are likely to be adversely affected with the resultant loss of men and materials. Damages to ships, collision in airways, danger to mines due to explosion. Violent hurricanes over many cities, and destruction of buildings and crops, are indicated. Ideological conflicts among the political groups will result in the formation of new parties and policies in opposition to the country's international involvements and commitments. This attitude of the nation is consistent with the nature of Mercury and its position in chart in close conjunction with the major benefics Jupiter and Venus and also due to the absence of any excitement to the angles of the national chart. The only angular planet Uranus is in the 4th house within a degree of the cusp of the 5th house and its influences will be associated with minor disturbances and danger to properties and mines referred to above. There appears no valid and compelling reason according to the planetary set-up in relation to the ruling sign of U.S.A. to declare with any amount of assurance that the country will plunge in a war against its European rival U.S.S.R. The utmost limit the country will go to will be to render assistance with materials and finance to her allies in the NATO organization.

Other countries which come more prominently under the influences of the astronomical combination of planets will be Middle-East, Eastern Europe, Argentina, Japan, Egypt and Siberia. It is not be construed

Yoga, Psychology and Parapsychology—XV

BY DR. V. M. BHATT, B.A., M.B.B.S.

I shall give here a summary of (' Chaffin Will Case ') given by Osborne in his book The Superphysical (1937, Pp. 200-201). In North Carolina, U.S.A., there lived a farmer by name J.L. Chaffin. In November 1905, he made a will and gave away his whole estate to his 3rd son only, leaving nothing to his wife and other sons. Pricked by his conscience, he made another will in January 1919, assigning equal portions of his estate to his four sons, and charged them to look after their mother's maintenance and comforts. According to law, this second will if proved, should have prevailed over the first. But this second will was unknown to his family members. Chaffin had put it in two pages of his family Bible, and had glued them together. None knew that fact except Chaffin. He died accidentally on 7–9–1921 and on 24–9–1921, the third son inherited the whole estate according to the first will.

In June 1925, four years after Chaffin's death, his second son began to have in his dreams, messages from his father's spirit, indicating that his second will would be found in the Bible kept in the pocket of his black overcoat. The boy, urged by repeated dream messages, inquired about the overcoat, and found it in his other brother's possessions. He told the whole story to him, and they found the Bible in his pocket. In the presence of witnesses, specially summoned, they turned over its pages, and found the will glued between its two pages, as indicated in the dream. They then instituted proceedings in law courts, and the Court found that the second will must prevail, and decided the case accordingly. In the Court proceedings, the whole story of how the second will was found according to the dream messages was narrated, and was proved by witnesses who had seen it in the two glued pages of the Bible. Osborne says that the case is well-documented and also mentions in a footnote two or three similar cases with their references for the benefit of readers.

One of the most astounding cases of dream messages can be found in Myers' Human Personality (Pp. 80-85). It was recorded by Prof. W.R. Newbold of the University of Pensylvania in a paper on "Subconscious Reasoning" in the proceedings of S.P.R. Vol. XII, Pt. II. I will summarise it here. Prof. Hilprecht was a professor of the Assyrian in the Pensylvania University. He says: "I was worrying myself to decipher inscriptions and lines on two small fragments of agate supposed to belong to the finger rings of some Babylonian King. Dozens of similar fragments had been found in the ruins of the temple of Bel at Nippur. I could not say more than that they sprang from the Cassite period of the Babylonian history (Circa, 1700–1140 B.C.). I ascribed one fragment to King Kurigalzu while the other fragment was placed with the unclassifiables. About midnight, weary and exhausted, I was soon in deep sleep. Then I dreamed a remarkable dream. A tall thin priest of Nippur, about 40 years of age, and clad in a simple abba, led me to the treasure-chamber of the temple. He addressed me as follows:— 'The two fragments belong together, and are not of finger rings. King Kurigalzu once sent to the temple of Bel an inscribed votive cylinder of agate. Then we priests suddenly received the command to make for God Nilib a pair of earrings of agate. There was no agate at hand (we) cut the cylinder into three parts, thus making three earrings each of which contained a portion of the original inscription. The two fragments are portions of them. If you will put the two together you will have confirmation of my words. Next morning to my astonishment I found all the details of the dream precisely verified the original inscription read "To the God Nilib, son of Bel, has Kurigalzu presented this'."

Dr. Hilprecht then went to Constantinople "to study the objects sent from Nippur and preserved there in the museum". He says: "Halil Bey, the Director to whom I told my dream, was so interested that he at once opened all the cases of the Babylonian section and requested me to search". Father Scheil of Paris, whom the articles were sent, and who had examined them before, had not put them together, and so Dr. Hilprecht found them in two separate cases. He continues: "As soon as I found the fragments, and put them together the truth of the dream was demonstrated an oculos".

Although Prof. Newbold ascribes the above solution of the problem to 'subconscious reasoning', and Myers seems to agree with him, I certainly think that, along with so many cases of verified messages, Prof. Hilprecht was helped by the spirit of the priest and showed him the right key to the problem, which had worried him for so long a time. Such dream messages confirm Patanjali's sutra

38, Chap. I which says "knowledge acquired in dreams encourages concentration of mind."

Exactly parallel but received through trance medium, and not in dream is the case told by Randall in his book The Dead have Never Died (Pp. 104–105). I will quote its summary here. He says he gives it as "it will appeal to the purely materialistic", who hankers after some objective evidence of the identity of the dead person who communicates it. Randall himself was a lawyer and was the inheritor of his father's estate. But his father did not mention to him of one promissory note through forgetfulness. After the father's death, he told Randall one night through a medium that he had 'overlooked an item', and he wanted to mention it from the spiritual plane. He said "some years ago he loaned a small sum of money to Susan Stone, and took from her a promissory note "upon which under the laws of that State (Pensylvania) he was entitled to enter a judgment at once without suit. As he was anxious about the loan, before maturity, he took the note and filed it with the prothonotary at Eric, and the latter entered judgment, which became a lien on her property. In his books of account "there was no reference to the note or judgment". He therefore asked Randall to go to the prothonotary's office, find the judgment and collect the sum. Randall says: "I was much surprised at the information thus received and sent for the copy of the judgment. I found it entered Oct. 21, 1896, and with that evidence collected from the debtor 70 dollars with interest". No one knew of the transaction besides the makers and the prothonotary. Randall certainly did not know it. He says: "I had no reason to suspect it. The psychic (medium) at that interview could not have known about the matter and I certainly collected the money. By father's voice was clearly recognisable on that occasion as it has been on hundreds of others, and I cite this as an instance for the benefit of those who measure everything from a monetary standpoint".

V. Automatic Writing and Painting

Another way of proving surviving spirits' guidance and of his identity is through automatic writing with or without medium, and through telekinesis. Ample evidence is available on this point. Dr. Walter Prince's The Riddle of Patience Worth and The Case of Patience Worth (1927) speak volumes in proof of survival in the spirit world. Readers will find the case abridged in Tyrrell's Personality of Man. The case is very eloquent on this point. I will give here a summary of it. Mrs. Curran was an ordinary woman of British parentage. She was a psychic but was not much educated. She became a very good medium at the age of 30. She was however remaining conscious all along when Patience Worth used to possess her, and write through her hand. The literary output was enormous, consisting of three million words, which included many stories, novels, prayers, life of Christ, etc. 'Patience' described herself as a Dorsetshire girl, who had migrated to U.S.A., in the 17th century and was murdered by an Indian. And the language of her writing, says Mr. Caspar Yost, who had made a deep study of it, shows "no words later than the middle of the 17th century English". The dialects, however, sound different in many places, utterly different from the colloquial American of the middle West. Dr. Prince says, that Patience has a caustic tongue, shows a strong character and an emphatic will, quite different from Mrs. Curran's. Tyrrell says that so alien is Patience from Mrs. Curran that "the latter has actually been educated by her", and he quotes her own testimony in the following words: "Six years ago I could not have understood the literature of Patience Worth had it been shown to me. The sensation of the presence of Patience Worth is one of the most beautiful that it can be the privilege of the human being to experience. When the stories come, the scenes become panoramic. And the experience was as real to me as any personal experience". Regarding the literary merit of these automatic writings, Dr. Prince says that only "a genius can produce them! Dr. Prince and Dr. Schiller (both psychologists) who studied this case came to this conclusion: "Either our concept of what we call the subconscious must be radically altered to include potencies, of which we have had no knowledge, or else some cause operating through, but not originating in the subconsciousness of Mrs. Curran, must be acknowledged" (Pp. 143, Tyrrell, Personality of Man). Personally I am inclined to take the latter view without which many cases, like the one given below, cannot be satisfactorily explained. And Patience's spirit 'possessed' Mrs. Curran for nearly 25 years!

This evidence plus the phenomena of cross-correspondence, to which sometimes many automatists contribute without knowing each other, leaves us no alternative but to accept the only conclusion that it establishes a nexus between the living and the dead".

In addition to this, Harry Price gives in his book Fifty Years of Psychical Research, a

Solar Influences in a Horoscope

BY RAMESH CHANDRA VERMA, B.A.

THE Sun is the most important planet in the solar system. It is around this planet that all others revolve. In the solar system the Sun and Moon are luminous planets. The remaining 5 planets beginning from Mars onwards are star planets. The Sun is the only planet (with exception of Moon) whose rays are visible to human eyes. Hence the Sun is one of the most important planets to be noticed in a horoscope. He governs the 'Atma' or soul. He is immovable, round in shape and is 'Agnitatva' or fiery planet. Thus his nature is hot, but it is not evil like Mars. The Sun produces 'Satvik' nature in a man. He is Kshatriya by caste and governs the "Raj Vidya" or royal sciences. The direction allotted to this planet is East and he is powerful during daytime. The Sun is Chatuspada or quadruped. His flavour is pungent. He looks upwards and his digbala or strong quarter is in the south or the 10th house. The Sun is old in age.

The Sun owns Leo. He is exalted in Aries and is depressed in Libra. The 'Moolatrikona' of the Sun is Leo. He is exalted as well as depressed in the 10th degree. The stone of the Sun is Manikya or ruby and his metal is gold. The appropriate places of the Sun are temples—places of worship. His article of apparel is coarse cloth. The Sun governs timber and other trees which are inwardly strong.

In the human body the Sun stands for the centre of the body, forehead, circulation of blood, eye troubles, heart diseases, heat, bile, fever, acidity, fits, unconsciousness, pain in legs or back or deformity in them. The Sun is possessed of energy, is of a square built body, black-red in main, lovely with his limited quantity of hair. He mainly consists of the quality of goodness. In planetary war Saturn is overpowered by the Sun. The Sun is strong in his exaltation, his own house, his drekkana, his hora, his week day, his navamsa, his northern passage, the middle of the day, at the time of entering a sign, the initial portion of the navamsa of a friendly planet and the 10th house. Planets in the six signs before the Sun are called prone and those that are behind are supine. They are productive of happiness and wealth. The Sun can remove the evil effects of all the six planets. The death-dealing planets of the Sun are Saturn and Rahu and the rest are 'Tarak' grahas.

The Sun remains in a Rasi for one month only. During pregnancy the Sun governs the 4th month when bones are in formation. His 'Bhagyodaya' time is between 22 to 24 years. The Sun is friendly with Moon, Mars and Jupiter. Venus and Saturn are his enemies while Mercury is neutral that is neither friend nor foe. The Sun is the indication of the following:—

Father's happiness, good deeds of the previous birth, state of mind, official work, happiness from elderly brother, physician, short distance travels, friendship with rich and persons of position, royal honour, power, service, leadership, success in undertakings, etc. The Sun makes me a frank speaker, courageous, deep-hearted, interested in medicines, sober faced, impressive, famous, sacrificing, intelligent, winning his enemies, of high thoughts, dutiful, unselfish, deep thinker, far-sighted, stern, truthful, leader and reformer. In 1st, 3rd, 5th, 9th and 10th houses the Sun makes the native a leader and puts him in high status in the society. A person ought to divine about his own self, father, influence, health, vigour and fortunes from the Sun.

If the Sun is in the Lagna, the native will be of normally long stature, thin; his eyes will be brown; he will have few hairs. Solar persons are very proud and think themselves to be somewhat better than others. In Lagna, the Sun will affect that part of the body denoted by the Rasi posited in that house. If bad planets form yogas with Sun, then its good qualities are diminished.

Scanned by www.sattvikastrology.com To Preserve Dr. B.V. Raman's Work

If the Sun is lord of the Lagna, then the native will be healthy and strong. He will have an excellent built of body. He will have much self-confidence and will be a man of good deeds. Such men are very efficient public workers and are successful leaders. They are kind towards others. They get angry very soon. They are very social and soon become popular.

If the Sun is posited in lagna, in Aries the native will have brain and teeth troubles. He will be learned and virtuous. He will have good eye-sight. He will be famous and independent. In Taurus he will not be tall; in Gemini he will be intelligent; in Cancer he will be brave; in Leo he will be ambitious and may be night blind but strong in Virgo he will be very health but selfish; in Libra he will b clever but can do no work importance; in Scorpio he w be esteemed; in Sagittarius will be worldly; in Capric he will be clever in every k of exercise; in Aquarius he not be very intelligent but will be religious minded ; and in Pisces he will prosper by agriculture and will be waited upon and served by females.

If the Sun is owner of the 2nd house, then the native will be born in a middle class family. He will generally earn his living by service. He cannot do independent business. If the Sun is posited in the 2nd house in Aries, Leo or Sagittarius then there will be eye troubles, but if the Sun is in Cancer, Scorpio or Pisces then the native will have landed and ancestral property. But, on the whole, in my experience that the Sun is not good in the second house. It never allows a man to become rich. On the other hand, it has been noticed that persons having Sun in the 2nd house are extravagant in their expenditure.

In the 3rd house, the Sun proves to be a beneficial planet because 3rd house is an 'Upachaya' or 'Apoklima' house and as a cruel planet the Sun does good to the native. The Sun specially gives good results in Aries, Leo, Scorpio, Sagittarius and Aquarius. Here he makes a man brave and ambitious. He will be served by bad men and will be liberal but wealthy. The good results do not appear if the Sun goes to form bad yogas with other planets. Persons having Sun in the 3rd house generally are eldest brothers and are intelligent. If the Sun is the lord of the 3rd house, then the native will not have much travelling and his nature will be very good.

If the Sun is owner of the 4th house, then the native will be born in a noble family with good status and passes his life in happiness. The Sun is not very powerful in the 4th house. Persons having Sun in the 4th house suffer from heart diseases and will have little peace of mind. They are not very intelligent and are also found to be cruel. But at the same time they belong to a respectable and high family. They are fairly well-to-do persons and the later part of their life is happy and satisfactory. In Aries, Leo and Sagittarius, the Sun gives worldly pleasures. Such persons are of happy nature. In Taurus, Virgo and Capricorn he makes persons absorbed in the worldly pleasures but in Gemini, Libra and Aquarius, he makes the native religious minded. If the Sun is spoiled in the 4th house, then the native gets no love from his mother and the later part of his life passes through misery and discomfort.

If the Sun is the owner of the 5th house, then the native will be interested in speculation. He will be a courageous businessman. He will be generous and live happily with his wife. In the 5th house the Sun gives good brain power. Such persons get good education with credit and may also go abroad. When Mercury is in conjunction with Sun in this house, then the educational aspect in all the more brightened. When the Sun is in the 5th house, the 1st issue generally is a son. But if the Sun is spoiled, the native may have unsteady mind and he may have no issues at all or if there are any, they will be short-lived. When the Sun is in Aries, Leo or Sagittarius, the issues are very few but in Cancer, Scorpio or Pisces, they are too many.

If the Sun is owner of the 6th house. then the native will not be healthy. He will also be coward. The Sun in the 6th house is not beneficial for health He affects that part of the body which is represented by the Rasi posited in that house. Such persons are brave, lustful, full of self-esteem, renowned and honoured by the King. Though the man has got to serve in the subordinate service, yet he is well respected and is happy. Except for health, the Sun is favourable in the 6th house for all other purposes. But care should be taken to see that the Sun does not form a bad yoga here. Such persons should be careful from their enemies.

When the Sun owns the 7th house, then the native gets a good companion as wife. Though the marriage takes place a bit later, yet both of them live very happily. The Sun in the 7th house is considered to be more important in the horoscopes of women than men. A man having Sun in the 7th house gets a lady of high family as his wife. Such persons to some extent hate womenkind and may be wicked. In business also, he gets good partners and is benefitted by them.

If the Sun becomes owner of the 8th house, then the native will get no wealth from his wife's side, but he will be a successful businessman. If in the 8th house the Sun is powerfully situated and is favourably aspected, then only the native gets some wealth from wife. He is heart winning and skilled in disputes. But when the Sun is spoiled in that place, the native does not get any wealth from his father-in-law. He is somewhat sickly and dies due to some hereditary disease. Such persons die earlier and do not face old age. Combination of the Sun and the Moon in the 8th house forms Balarishta Yoga and the native dies early in childhood. It is also noticed that persons having Sun in the 8th house have defective eye-sight and have only a few issues.

When the Sun becomes owner of the 9th house, then the native becomes very religious minded. He is intelligent, dutiful and also learned. The Sun is a cruel planet. Naturally in the 9th house it is not said to be good. Such persons do not give proper respect to their elders and follow a different religion than that of their own parents. But when the Sun forms good yogas with other planets, he gives good results. It gives faith in religion and gives fame, generosity and good nature. Such persons love justice and truth. They hold responsible positions in Government and even are seen employed in foreign offices.

If the Sun is the owner of the 10th house, then the native is highly placed in the socicty and he prospers in business or service. He always gets happiness from his father. In the 10th house the Sun is most powerful. Persons having Sun in the 10th house are born leaders. They are generous and hold high offices in the State. The nature of the work which the native will have to do should be judged by the Rasi posited in that house. The middle part of the life of such persons passes very happily.

When the Sun is in the 10th house in any Rasi except Capricorn or Aquarius, then the native gets full happiness from his father. The Sun gives good position in society. The native gets hereditary wealth, virtue, learning, fame and strength. If the Sun forms good yoga with other planets, then the good qualities are improved but bad yogas diminish the effect of the Sun.

Except in Cancer, Scorpio and Pisces in the 11th house, the Sun does good to the native. He will possess extensive wealth, good wife and children. He gets respect and position in society. He has much self-respect and is ambitious, but he always likes a fair course to enhance his position. He has few but good friends of position. He is generally in Government service and his officers are always pleased with him.

The 12th house is an apoklima house. We already know that the Sun is a cruel planet. Therefore it does good to the native. If the Sun becomes owner of the 12th house, then the native becomes a spiritual and religious scholar. He will have no secret enemies nor will he ever have troubles from the King. The Sun makes the native intelligent. Such persons have self-confidence and they become famous in the later part of their life. If there are some bad yogas formed, then only some harm may be done; otherwise the Sun will invariably do good to the native.

When the Sun is exalted in the horoscope, then the native of that horoscope will possess wealth and command an army; if in Moolatrikona he will be wealthy and respected by people. When the Sun is in his own house, the native will own a fine building, lead a depraved life and will suffer from fierce lust; if in the house of a friendly planet, then he will have firm friends. He will be liberal and famous. If the Sun is in an inimical house, the native will sacrifice the conveniences of his father and engage in the service of others; if depressed, then he will be an abandoned person without friends and relatives and bent on going to exile.

The Sun has one special feature of his own. Just as Saturn has his seven and half years period (Sadesati) so also has the Sun. When Saturn passes the 2nd and 12th house of the Sun in the birth chart, it is known as the period of Sun's Sadesati. The result of this period has got to be ascertained according to the planets posited in those houses and also the aspects of the planets thereon. It should be noted that no other planet has got this special feature except Saturn.

Significance of Muscle Twitching

BY DR. JAGANNATH RAO, M.B.B.S.

NATURE warns us in various ways of coming events. Such warning comes in the form of 'indications' which are either external or internal. The external indications are carried to us through various 'omens', 'voices', 'sounds', and 'animal behaviour' which I hope the readers have heard.

In this article I will deal with 'internal' indications. This subject is again divided into two parts. The first part deals with condition of mind giving rise to good or bad dreams. And the second part deals with physical part of being, i.e., twitching of various muscles. As a medical graduate and so a man interested in yoga and medical astrology I studied this particular 'phenomenon' for a period of six years to verify the significance of the same and I should say the results are very gratifying.

The study of twitching of muscle is not new to Indians. Our ancient astrologers studied it and even as a matter of routine some of the 'indications' are included in 'panchangas'. But people ignore them and label them as 'another superstition' I wish they take notice of the nature's warning or forecast and benefit themselves.

Twitching of head-muscles: If the left temporal muscle twitches, it indicates a new position, honour, unexpected gains and praise. If the right temporal twitches, a sure travel or long journey which may be tedious. If the parietal muscles twitch, praise on left side and abuses on right side. If the occiput twitches, it indicates hidden enemies are active, and that they are wishing ill of you.

Muscles of face: Eyes:—As far as 'throbbing of eyes' is concerned both western and eastern astrologers as well as common-folk understand and give importance to it. You will find great novelists and dramatists often referring to this 'indication' Julius Caesar was warned in this way and even Sita was warned before she was abducted by Ravana. If only she had heeded to this warning of nature! You will find so many instances, both historic and recent, where the eyes have faithfully indicated the coming events and yet they were ignored, resulting in untold misery and suffering. I will give here some details about the eyes: (When giving various indications of twitching of facial muscles the nose is taken as median line and significance is placed either medially or laterally). Above the right eye on the forehead towards temple: good news, success in undertaking. If tords medial side, it indicates loss, misunderstanding, and unsuccessful attempts in any undertaking. If the upper lid of right eye twitches on medial side it indicates fear and disappointments. If on the lateral side it indicates quarrels and trouble. If the lower lid twitches it indicates success over your rivals and defeat of enemies. If the eyebrow itself twitches it is not a good indication despite the opposite belief. Left eye: Above the brow if medially, it indicates you will hear old and unpalatable news, unwanted tidings. And if laterally you will hear bad news. If the upper lid of left eye twitches it indicates good news. If the lower lid flutters you will have trouble with your enemy, and dishonour. Nose: On the right side it indicates happy relations, amusements and happy events at home. If on the left side domestic quarrels and indignation. Upper lip: If upper lip flutters it indicates good friendship, happy relations with opposite sex, and release from financial acute condition. Lower lip: Your friend will prove faithful to you, and that you will be benefitted by one of your friends without your knowledge. Right ear: Indicates you are remembered by your relations and that you will pass through a crisis, or critical situation. Left ear: luxuries, unexpected money and release from financial acute condition. Right cheek: happy domestic relations and arrival of friends and relations. Left cheek: bad health, irritation.

Shoulders and Trunk: Right shoulder: big gains, unexpected money, recovery of dues. Left shoulder: expenditure, loss of money, etc. Right arm: You will surely wear new cloths. Left arm: Ordinary benefits. Right nipple: Loss in family circle and bad news if female and if left nipple indicates good news. Just the reverse in case of males. If chest throbbs it indicates unknown fear. Abdomen: gases.

Genitals and lower limbs: Testicles: ungratified intercourse. Right thigh: neither good nor bad. Left thigh: difficult domestic affairs, bad situations. Right knee: gains and good news. Left knee: troubles. Right calf: comforts. Left calf: trouble and disappointment. Sides of feet: Invitation to travel long or short, talk of travel or actual short journey. Soles of feet: If they twitch they indicate sure travel long or short, talk of travel or you will receive a letter asking you to undertake journey.

Dasamsa and Profession

BY SRI K. S. RAMAKRISHNAN

THE readers of THE ASTROLOGICAL MAGAZINE have been deriving the benefit of knowing the various systems of examination of the tenth house in a horoscope, suggested by different veterans and protagonists of astrology. Each one of these suggestions has been unique and worthy of adoption in the course of judging the tenth house in a horoscope. A careful study of all these suggestions would convince anybody that astrology is such a vast science that no amount of knowledge could enable one to boldly assert that one's is the only correct approach to the problem of predicting the effects of the 10th house or for that matter any house in a horoscope. It is therefore with a diffident heart that I place my views before the learned readers. I shall be satisfied if these are found to be contributive to the multiple systems of examination of horoscopes and of prediction of future therefrom.

It is known that there are various methods of prediction of one's profession. I shall now mainly deal with the Dasamsa of Lagna and how it influences one's profession, in association with the indications of Lagna, second, third, fourth, fifth, tenth and eleventh houses. The reason for my statement that the indications of Lagna and the other six houses mentioned above have to be taken into consideration in judging the effects of Dasamsa is that, in my view, it is not enough if a particular house alone is taken isolated from others and judged. It is also necessary to consider all the other houses and form a definite view as to how they could influence the house under consideration. I have mentioned only these seven houses here because these are intimately connected with each other and have a decisive influence over a native's profession. I shall explain this fact further. Lagna is the indicator of the bodily structure of an individual and unless a man is physically fit he cannot be expected to express himself in any field in an effective manner. Having ascertained the strength of Lagna and its lord, one could also form an idea about the longevity of the native. Second house is the indicator of family (Kutumba), eyes (vital organ indispensable for an effective living) and one's speech. A consideration of the Kutumba will generally enable one to find out the circumstances under which one was brought up and one's tendency to react to his surroundings. Third house may be referred to find out one's Buddhi (brain) and also one's probability to receive help from others. This may further explain whether the native could co-operate with other members of the society and whether one could receive help from the society as otherwise one may not be able to practice a profession conveniently and beneficially. One's courage to pursue one's own way of life may also be studied from the third house. Now comes the fourth house. Generally, a horoscope having beneficial planets in all or any of the four kendras, (i.e., Lagna, fourth, seventh and tenth) indicates that the native is born in a well-to-do family and could receive good education. Education may be high, medium or low according as the strength of the owner of the fourth house, position of Mercury with reference to fourth house and his strength or weakness; sometimes, even natural benefics when they own bad houses in respect of a particular Lagna do not allow the native to pursue his studies to a considerable extent and in such cases the native, though he may not have higher studies, may acquire knowledge by his own efforts. Fifth house is also to be considered. While the third house indicates one's Buddhi (brain), fifth house indicates one's intelligence (prathibha) and power of intuition. Intuition has got a good bearing on vocations connected with literature, art and science. A correct stock-taking of these houses together with the eleventh house, which could give a clue as to the native's source of income, is necessary before venturing to predict one's profession.

Scanned by www.sutherhisastrology.com to Preserve Dr B V Ramans Work

I shall now try to illustrate how the Dasamsa of Lagna plays a vital part in deciding one's profession. Here is the horoscope of a gentleman who has been practising as a physician. He is not an M.B.B.S.

Let us now try to examine the following horoscope: The Lagna is in Guru Dasamsa. Guru indicates "physicians, lawyers, clergymen, clothiers,.....". The Lagna has the aspect of Jupiter and the association of Moon, the lord of 10th house. The lord of Lagna is in an Upachaya Rasi. Yet, he is not quite powerful as he is combust and is placed in an enemy's house. Moon, who is also the lord of 10th house, is in aravoha. Thus it will be found the Lagna's power is medium and the fame, bodily strength, etc., of the native will be only satisfactory. A consideration of the 2nd house reveals that the native's financial position will be subject to serious ups and downs as its lord Mars is combust and Kethu is occupying that house along with Gulika. And yet the situation of the Karaka of 2nd house–Guru–in a kendra from the 2nd house and the aspect of Mars on the 2nd house indicate that the native will not be put to suffering due to want of money. The lord of the 3rd house Guru is in fifth. His position in an Upachaya Rasi from the third is good in regard to outside help. Saturn, the lord fourth, being situated in an enemy's house and subjected to combustion, is not a happy indication for education. Note also that Mercury is in eighth from the 4th house. The position of Moon in Lagna itself, however, promised necessary education for the native. Jupiter in the 5th house is the indicator of the development of the spiritual side of a man's nature and no wonder, the native is deeply interested in philosophy and is even strenuously trying to mould that side of his nature in a better way.

The lord of 10th house is a benefic (waxing Moon). He is placed in a benefic sign having attained a benefic navamsa. The 10th house has not got any malefic aspect. All these point out that the native's profession should be a good one (i.e., Subha Karma) and should cause minimum evil and maximum good to himself and to the society. Eleventh house encloses five planets, four of whom are combust and the fifth Sun is the dominating planet. A striking feature in this horoscope is that, all the three planets who are powerful, viz. Sun, Moon and Jupiter are of Satwaguna. It appears as though the native is destined only for the purpose of developing his Satwaguna and spiritual side of his nature. The Sun, as lord of the eleventh, indicates income by means of career connected with "medicine, Government job, etc." Sun is the indicator of ego and the Jupiter's philosophical aspect on him brings forth submission of ego to philosophical virtues. A critical examination of all these makes us conclude that the native is an introvert. Jupiter is a healing planet and the Sun also gives doctoring capacity. Thus Jupiter's influence coupled with the Sun's influence over the income, made the native practice as a physician. Perhaps, the native is destined to heal the physical ailments of the humanity in his present life, in as simple a way as possible. Thus a close study of all the points enables an astrologer to find out the particular profession among the several indications of the planets in a horoscope.

In this particular case none of the lords of tenth house and of the navamsas in which the lords of tenth from Lagna, the Moon and the Sun has influenced the native's profession as much as the Dasamsa Lord in association with the lord of house of income.

(I have not mentioned twitching of hands here for it merely means you will handle money be it incoming or outgoing.)

On the back: If back muscles twitch it is sure indication that you are bitten at the back, people talk ill of you and false accusations. Anus: difficult situations. Hips onright: bad situations, and false accusations on left side.

I have submitted the above indications after careful personal study of each and every item over a number of years. The truth or otherwise of the above statements can be known only if you take notice of the 'warning'. We can take immense advantage of such 'warnings' and be prepared to meet the situations calmly and if possible we can even evade them.

* The Mundoscope—II

BY K. M. KHAREGAT

III. Erection of the Mundoscope

AS an example of the complete erection of a typical mundoscope, I have taken the liberty of using the mundoscope given by its founder, Mr. Fagan, in the February 1958 issue of the American Astrology. I trust he does not object. The figures obtained from the chart are compared with his calculated figures. Data: Required to erect a mundoscope for a native born in latitude 41° 55′ N. at Greenwich Mean Noon on 16th April 1917, in such a longitude that the ST is 20h. 16m. It is best to proceed systematically and make a table as above:

U.T. 12.00 S.T. 303° 59′ 20H. 16M. LATITUDE 41° 55′N.

PLANET	DEC.	R.A.	HOUR A	DOMAL L.		ZODIACAL L.

Mercury	...17 41 N	40 14	96 15	82½ E	82 21	13 19	Taurus
Venus	... 7 58 N	22 02	78 03 E	76 E	75 49	23 21	Aries
Mars	... 5 40 N	15 02	71 03 E	72	71 58	16 02	Aries
Jupiter	...14 51 N	40 39	96 40 E	85	84 59	12 50	Taurus

Algol	...40° 38′N	3h 3m	6h 47m E	66½	66° 40′	25°	Taurus

This table will also serve for practice in the use of Fig. 2. Hence two extra items of Rahu and a fixed star with a high declination have also been included though they are not given by Mr. Fagan. Also in the last two the RAs and the hour angles are in units of time instead of in degrees, so that the reader can learn to work in either units with ease. Col. 5 gives the domal longitudes as directly obtained from Fig. 2; Col. 6 gives these same longitudes (except the last two) as calculated by Mr. Fagan. It will be seen that the agreement is fairly close, good enough for all practical purposes. In the last column are given the zodiacal longitudes of these bodies. From these values we erect a mundoscope and a horoscope side by side (see Fig. 3). In the mundoscope, the meridian is always marked 0°, and thereafter the other houses each 30° in advance of the preceding. On this blank, we insert the planets with their domal longitudes, exactly as in an ordinary horoscope. For longitudes marked E (i.e., East) the longitudes as obtained are directly used; but for those marked W they are subtracted from 360° before being entered on the chart. Mr. Fagan adds 105° to each of these values as well as to the cusps of the houses, so that the M.C. is labelled 105° Cancer, 11th house, 15° Leo, etc. Others put the meridian as 0° Aries, 11th house as 0° Taurus, etc. I suggest that the reader mark the cusps only in degrees as shown, as the introduction of fictitious zodiacal signs where they do not belong is likely to lead to confusion in reading the chart.

It is not the aim of this article to explain the interpretation of the mundoscope, but some points of interest might be noted by the astrologer. In the horoscope, the star Algol is seen to be in close conjunction with the ascendant, actually the star's physical body is close to the cusp of the 12th house as can be seen from the mundoscope. In the horoscope Mars and Saturn are in square with an orb of 8° which is a very weak square; actually from the mundoscope it is apparent that the square is very close being within 2°. In the horoscope the benefic Jupiter is some 11° above the horizon; actually however it is only 5° above, and therefore may be said to be in conjunction with the ascendant. If we regard the cusp as the centre of a house, as is usual in Indian astrology, it will be noticed at once that whereas in the horoscope, only Algol, Jupiter and Mercury are in the 1st house, actually as shown by the mundoscope, two benefics Jupiter and Venus, as well as Mercury and the Sun are in this house, and the baneful Algol is now definitely in the twelfth. There are other differences as pointed out by Mr. Fagan, and the reader is referred to his article for further details. Indeed it is strongly advised that always a mundoscope be cast alongside a horoscope and judgment made by consulting both. Remember this rule: Where the signs of the zodiac are required for forming judgments, like exaltations, characteristics, etc., use the horoscope; for all relations for amongst the planets (or stars) themselves, like aspects, or between planets and cusps of houses; consult, only the mundoscope.

IV. Precision of the Chart.—For the reduced size of chart as printed, the domal longitudes should be capable of being read—with a precision of about ½° which is ample for all ordinary purposes. If greater precision is required, as in higher latitudes where the mundoscope is more useful, the chart must be enlarged to at least foolscap size, when longitudes can be read to within 10'. If two charts are made one for latitudes less than 35° and another with double the scale for latitudes in excess of 35°, more accurate results can be got when they are most needed. If still greater accuracy is required, and it will very rarely be so required, recourse must be had to the trigonometrical formulae given later.

V. Other Uses of Fig. 2.—Although primarily made for finding domal longitudes, the form of the equation from which it is made enables us to use it with equal facility for other purposes as well.

(a) To find the time of rising or setting of a heavenly body on a given date.

From the declination mark corresponding to the declination of the body, draw a line parallel to OA that is perpendicular to the base line; and where this line cuts the latitude of the given place, read the hour angle. Now as already stated S.T.=R.A.+H.A. for setting, and =R.A.—H.A. for rising. Having obtained this sidereal time, the sidereal interval between ST at mean noon for the place is readily found, and converted to mean time, which added to or subtracted from noon gives the time of setting or rising respectively. Example: At what time will the Sun rise on 26, May, 1958 at Bombay (Lat. 19)? The declination of the Sun was 21° 00' N. The working is: Hour angle from the chart—(6h. 30m.) So ST at rising=4h. 10m. (RA) —(6h. 30m.)=(2h. 20m.) ST at mean noon was 4–13–24. So the sidereal interval was 4-13-24 less –(2h. 20m.) or 6-33-24, which is equal to 6-32 mean time. Therefore, the time of rising was 12h. less 6h. 32m.=5h. 28m. (L.M.T.) This of course is the time of "astrological" sunrise, that is when the centre of the Sun is on the horizon. The sunrise and sunset times given in the almanacs refer to the Sun's upper limb, and are affected by refraction, so that sunrise is about 34 minutes earlier and sunset time that much later than the times as obtained as above. With the Moon a further correction for parallax is required. But for the planets and stars only refraction need be considered. To allow for this make the domal longitude of the star, =90° 34′ for rising, and 90° 34′ for setting; and then work as above.

(b) Primary Directions.—Calculating primary directions used to be an accomplishment with all old Western astrologers. Recently however the system has fallen into disuse, mainly because it requires extensive and tiresome trigonometric calculations which are time consuming and results did not appear to be commensurate with the time and labour involved. With the aid of Fig. 2, these directions can be rapidly calculated, and with no more labour than a few additions and subtractions. To calculate all the primary directions with its help requires little more time than that required for calculating by symbolic directions (once the RAs are known) and much less than that required for secondary and tertiary directions. If the meaning of the primary direction is understood, the process become easy. What is meant by directing a planet A to another planet B? It merely means that planet A in course of time shall occupy the same domal longitude as the planet B did at birth. So we have only to find the hour angle at which the planet A has the same domal longitude as planet B, and the difference in hour angels between its radical position and its new position, gives a measure of time. Often a difference of 1° is made equivalent to a year, some prefer Naibod's measure, etc. Ex. 1: Direct Mars to the conjunction of Uranus. The domal longitude, at birth, of Uranus is 35° 17′. At what hour angle will Mars attain this longitude in latitude 41° 55′? The declination of Mars is 5° 40′ N, so from this declination we draw a line making an angle of 35° 17′ with the zero position and read the hour angle where it intersects the curve of 42° latitude (Note: Actually drawing the line is not necessary as holding a transparent ruler edge will be sufficient). Carrying out this process we find that the hour angle is 30° 15′. So the interval is 71° 03′ less 30° 150′ or 40° 98′ which at the rate of a degree per year works out at 40 years and eleven months. As Mars is the ruler of the 7th house the appropriate event can be guessed (consult the horoscope for rulers). Converse directions may be similarly obtained. Ex. 2: At what age does Algol come to the ascendant by converse direction? The declination of Algol was 40° 38′ N so that the hour angle at rising was 140° 24′. The hour angle in the mundoscope was 101° 42′. Therefore the difference was 38° 34′ or 38 years and 5 months. Directions to the cusps of the houses can be got by the same process, the domal longitude of the cusp being taken instead of that of the planet, indeed the rising and setting times given above are particular cases of this general procedure. Aspect directions of other than the conjunctions can be got by adding or subtracting the aspect angle from the domal longitude and proceeding as before.

(c) Casualty Tracks.—In a previous issue of this magazine, the calculation and drawing of casualty tracks at the time of important celestial phenomena like ingresses, eclipses, etc., was explained. The formulae there given require trigonometrical calculations, but with the aid of Fig. 2 they can be obtained very simply. For instance, if we require the track of the descendant of any planet whose declination is say, 10° N, we have only got to lay a transparent straight edge at 10° N and at right angles to the base line. Then for each latitude on the chart, read the corresponding hour angle. From the ST of the phenomenon on the meridian of Greenwich subtract the RA of the planet, which gives the hour angle at Greenwich. Then the difference between the two hour angles gives the longitude east or west of Greenwich corresponding to the particular latitude. A curve can then be drawn through these points which is the required casualty track. Mr. Fagan and his school give importance only to the planets near the angles, but Mr. Troinski and others (and rightly in my humble opinion) lay great stress on the planets in the 8th and 12th houses also.

To draw the casualty tracks for coincidence with the 8th or 12th (or any other house) cusp is equally simple. Since, the domal longitude of the 8th house is 60W and that of the 12th is 60E, put the transparent straight edge at an angle of 60° (instead of at right angles) to the base line. Or put the zero of the protractor at the declination and read off the hour angles crossing the different latitudes at an angle of 60°. Then proceed as outlined above, and the whole track can be readily laid out on a map.

(d) Quotidians.—The method of obtaining the date of the year when a particular casualty track crosses a given place was explained before, but Fig. 2 can also be used. Find the hour angle corresponding to the given domal longitude (say 90 or 60) and the latitude of the given place. Then add the RA to the hour angle and subtract the longitude (if east) and the remainder will be the ST at Greenwich. From this subtract the time (hours and minutes after noon converted to the sidereal interval) and the value of the remainder will be the ST at noon. From the ephemeris find the date of the year when the ST at noon at Greenwich takes this value, and that will be the required date.

(e) A few other applications can also be made, and doubtless the reader can find others. E.G. RAs can be obtained from the longitudes and declinations, cusps of Campanus houses for different latitudes can be got, etc., but the precision with which these results can be got is low, and hence it has not been thought advisable to explain them here.

VI. Mathematical Considerations.—In this section are given all the relevant formulae so that the reader can construct these figures for himself on a larger scale, and so get greater precision in his work. In order to plot the curves a sheet of transparent paper ruled in millimeters will be useful. Then this paper can be laid on another on which parallel lines are drawn thus obviating the nuisance of drawing parallel lines.

Fig. 1 for finding the RA from longitude and declination has been adapted from the formulae and tables given in the appendix to Simon Newcomb's Compendium of Spherical Astronomy. Curve A has been drawn from the tabulated values of A and the nomogram at the right designed from the formulae given there.

In the February 1958 issue of the American Astrology, Mr. Fagan gives two different formulae for finding the domal longitude. There is a small error in his second formulae, for instead of reading CP=(B–A)+(B+A), it should really read CP=½ (B–A) +½ (B+A); as is clear from the example he works out. But apart from this the formulae are cubersome to use, the proper meridian for calculating the meridian distance has to be found, and auxiliary angles have to be obtained for logarithmic calculations. I therefore derived an alternative formula which appears to be simpler. It is: cot L=sin θ tan d cosec H + cos Ø cot H; where L is the domal longitude, Ø the latitude, d the declination (+, if N) and H is the hour angle (+if West). In this formula only the M.C. has to be considered and the signs of the functions are easily "kept straight". Calculations using this formula are simple, and using an engineer's 10″ slide rule quite rapid. But if the reader still finds difficulty, the following alternative form in which this equation can be transformed may be of help:

$$\tan d = \frac{2\sin H}{\sin(A+\phi) + \sin(A-\phi) + \cos(H+\phi) + \cos(H-\phi)}$$ where A is the ascensional difference for the latitude and declination as tabulated on page 71 of Lahiri's Ephemeris. The tabulated values can be converted to degrees by dividing them by 4. Then alternatively adding and subtracting the latitude from A and H and consulting a table of natural trigonometrical functions, the denominator is very quickly calculated. A simple division then gives the value of L. If the reader can construct two tables for himself, one by multiplying the figures for sin A by cos ϕ and another of cos ϕ cos H with ϕ and H as arguments the calculation can be expedited and only two small tables will be necessary. The chart in Fig. 2 however is based on the first formula. The latitude lines are ellipses with 0 as centre, major axis=cosec Ø; minor axis=cot ϕ; and eccentricity=sin ϕ. They can be drawn by any of the numerous methods available for constructing ellipses geometrically, or by straightforward calculation of the co-ordinates on squared paper. The iso-H linesare hyperbolas, with 0 as centre, eccentricity=cosec H; and the general formula $\frac{x^2}{\sin^2 H} - \frac{y^2}{\cos^2 H} = 1$, the asymptotes making an angle of 90°–H with the x axis. The declinations are proportional to tan d starting from 0. The L curve is a circle with any convenient radius with centre 0 and equally divided in degrees. The form of this equation is fairly common in Spherical Astronomy and hence the manifold uses of the chart for other purposes.

Although Mr. Fagan does not specifically mention the fact, it must be remembered that the

The Parts of Paul of Alexandria

BY ROBERT YAGER

EARLY astrologers suffered under the limitation that not only was astrology not worked out in some of its finer methods of directing, but also because certain planets were not yet known to them. It is therefore surprising that they obtained such good results as justified them in their belief in astrology and confirmed them in it.

We are more fortunately placed, and many aspects which form in direction which our predecessors could not have foreseen, help us to obtain more satisfactory results. Nevertheless, it is quite certain that we are often dealing with imponderables, and sometimes a direction stands out sharply as being of more importance in action than may have been anticipated beforehand, and, sometimes, it is disappointing in its results. In this latter connection it is often because we are expecting material advantages, and the directions are very likely concerned with the immaterial. However, in part, it seems to the writer our difficulties when they arise of this nature are due to planets, or methods of direction not yet known, just as they were when the same thing happened in the case of predecessors. Although, with the discoveries which have been made there must be less chance of this happening frequently now than in the past.

However, we may be in some danger of losing knowledge, while on the other hand we are gaining new information from scientific discoveries. It, therefore, behoves us to preserve what we have. It is, in this conneetion, that we wish to draw attention to the Parts of Paul of Alexandria. We have not had time to investigate these thoroughly, but there has been sufficient correlation in one or two striking cases, and we believe that, as a consequence of this, there is a case for thorough investigation. Consequently, since many may not be familiar with them we propose setting out briefly what they are.

One of these parts is, however, well known. That is the Part of Fortune, called Tuxee by Paul of Alexandria. It is the distance from the ascendant as far as the distance from the Sun to the Moon. Our own experience is that this part is effective in direction. When it conjoined the ascendant and a few months later the midheaven, the one by converse direction of the angle and the other by forward directing, it, lying in the 11th house, saw the birth of a son and heir in the horoscope from which we take this example. The 11th house is of the same fundamental nature as the 5th, and this is the highest form which fortune can take. Consequently in that instant, Pars Fortuna, as the part is called in its Latin form of the name, certainly was an operative direction of great significance. Pars Fortuna also coincided with the Dragon's Tail within 4 months of a very considerable piece of ill fortune. (We may say that we think the difference of reconciling the interpretation of the Dragon's Head and Dragon's Tail between western and Indian astrology is due to the fact that both are right, and neither! That is that these are very sensitive points dealing with the fortunes, and neither good nor bad in themselves, but which take on a good or bad aspect according to the other and prevailing directions falling out at the same time). Fortune also on reaching an opposition of Saturn ushered in a period when very considerable financial losses were incurred in the horoscope. While Fortune's conjunction to midpoint with Mars saw a period of great troubles, and some litigation. Therefore, we are firmly convinced that Pars Fortuna cannot be dismissed as of no relevance, as is done by some modern astrologers, and if they do that they are in danger of losing some of the important lore already transmitted to us.

If that is so it seems there is a good case for the other parts which Paul of Alexandria has enumerated, and which we have taken for convenience from Maurice Wemyss' excellent work The Wheel of Life, Vol. V, Pp. 100.

These parts are as follows, quoting from the above work:

Nemesis: Found by the distance from the Ascendant as far as the distance from Saturn to the Part of Fortune.

Nikee—(Victory): Found by the distance from the Ascendant as far as the distance from Jupiter to the Part of the Demon.

Tolma—(Audacity): Distance from the Ascendant as far as the distance from Mars to the Part of Fortune.

Daimon—(Demon): Distance from the Ascendant as far as the distance from the Moon to the Sun.

Eros—(Love): Distance from the Ascendant as far as the distance from Venus to the Part of the Demon.

Anagkee—(Necessity): Distance from the Ascendant as far as the distance from Mercury to the Part of Fortune.

According to Paul of Alexandria these are for a diurnal horoscope. For a nocturnal one the direction from the ascendant is reversed.

It will be observed that Demon is the same distance from the ascendant on one side as Fortune is on the other. It will also be noticed that some of these parts are formed by taking Fortune as the baais and others Demon. We doubt if this is strictly scientific, and it is possible that there are two parts for each planet, one to Fortune and the other to Demon. This is worth experimenting with. Furthermore, it is obvious that there must be parts for Uranus, Neptune and Pluto which should be taken in the same way from Fortune and from Demon.

Incidentally we should say that we do not think that anything particularly malefic should be read into the name of Demon, per se. We can see no reason for doing that, and in any case in the Greek, Demon means a spiritual being between Man and the Gods.

Taking these parts and referring to the same horoscope to which we have made reference before we find several concordances which may well justify these Parts of Alexandrine Paul.

For instance, the ascendant progressed came to the opposition of the Part of Nemesis ten months before a very considerable loss of money occurred. Ten months is a reasonable period for a lag where a Saturn influence is involved, and this looks very much as though there is evidence here of the operation of this Part of Nemesis or Saturn.

The Part of Victory came to an opposition of Mars, which being a conjunction with a part formed from Jupiter, should have been of value in an honourable sense. It was followed 15 months later by a knighthood. Jupiter takes a long time in operation, and this would be a reasonable period of lag. Jupiter is honours, and Mars is chivalry, knighthood, coats of arms, and similar honours of that sort. Again, this looks like correlation between the operation of these parts and events.

The Part of Audacity, which is based on Mars, came to a conjunction with the evil cusp of the 12th house, and was followed 5 months later (a reasonable lag for the quick operating Mars unlinked with any slow planet like Jupiter) by some downright act of treachery in which colleagues conspired to get the subject into some trouble behind his back. This is clearly in keeping with the nature of the 12th house. There was a very stiff struggle (symbolised by Mars) when the subject discovered the action and stopped it. Nevertheless it did permanent harm as might be expected from such a direction.

The same part of Audacity came to a conjunction of the good cusp of the 11th, representing hopes and aspirations, and the subject 5 months later received his Army commission on which he had set his heart.

While the Part of Eros came to a conjunction of the matrimonial 7th cusp and 4 months later (a reasonable lag for the quick working planet Venus) the subject was engaged to be married.

This is quite a formidable list taken from one horoscope only, so that it cannot be said that one has jumped about and just picked and chosen at random things that appear to fit. While we do not say it proves that the Parts of Paul of Alexandria absolutely work in the way our experience of planets to cusps is concerned, it sets up a very strong case that they do. As a consequence we feel that they ought not to be neglected in future study and research.

Upto the present it has not been possible to estimate the amount of lag involved, or which should be involved in the parts. Fortune and Demon being based on the Sun will tend to be rather short, or at least one would assume so. Consequently since all the other parts are based on Fortune and Demon, there will be a tendency to shorten the time which the planet with which they are also associated would take to act. Thus supposing the Moon and Jupiter take in some horoscopes at certain periods of life as much as 24/27 months to operate, yet perhaps 16 months might be the time expected of the Part of Jupiter (Nikee), while Mars, which normally takes about 7 months, might take 4/5. The examples we have given above suggest that some such principle as this is involved.

Scanned by www.sophirishastrology.com To Preserve Dr B V Ramans Work

To conclude, we consider that the parts of all the planets to both Fortune and Demon should be worked out. (This reconciles the alleged difference between diurnal and nocturnal horoscopes which we very much doubt). We propose when added to the ascendant and they should be described as + (plus), and when deducted from it as − (negative). Only the conjunctions and oppositions (both being of the same value) will be valid, as it has been a long established principle that Pars casts no rays. But they can be worked out to planets, angles, cusps, and to midpoints of these.

If our reasoning is valid, a whole series of new and important horoscopical points will be added to the charts of the researcher, which will enable more exact investigations and judgments to be made.

IV—Day and Night

SUITABILITY of day and night is the point to be settled next. Whether day or night or twilight time is the right period for the function is to be decided. Then the Muhurtha could be fixed in that part of the day.

For sexual intercourse only night time is enjoined. Nakshatra and Ayurhoma (offerings put into the fire to propitiate the stars with a view to get increased prosperity and long life) and the like functions are to be done only during daytime.

The ceremony of naming a child after birth, the ritual of of initiating a child to the art of learning, ploughing fields, sowing seeds and the fixing of an idol in a temple are functions which may be performed after eight hours of night.
