The Education Breakthrough

by L. Ron Hubbard

If you can't learn anything, you can't find out how to do anything. Study operates as the door, open or closed.

Even if you're simply looking at a tree to find out something about it you're studying the tree. In that brief instant you observed it to find out something else about it.

Now you can pick up observation from the printed page, and that's second hand observation. It is the route on which almost all knowledge travels. If you were called upon personally and individually to evolve all knowledge there was about anything in one lifetime you would get so little done on this project that you would die stupid. So there is a value to second hand knowledge.

In view of the fact that the greatest body of observation is actually second hand observation, realize that it is perfectly valid observation when coupled with understanding. But realize that it is peculiarly liable to having to be understood.

The less direct the observation the greater the understanding has to be. Understanding is a substitute for mass. If you haven't got a tree to observe and you are being told about a tree, then you had better jolly well understand what you're being told as if you don't you will mis-observe the tree.

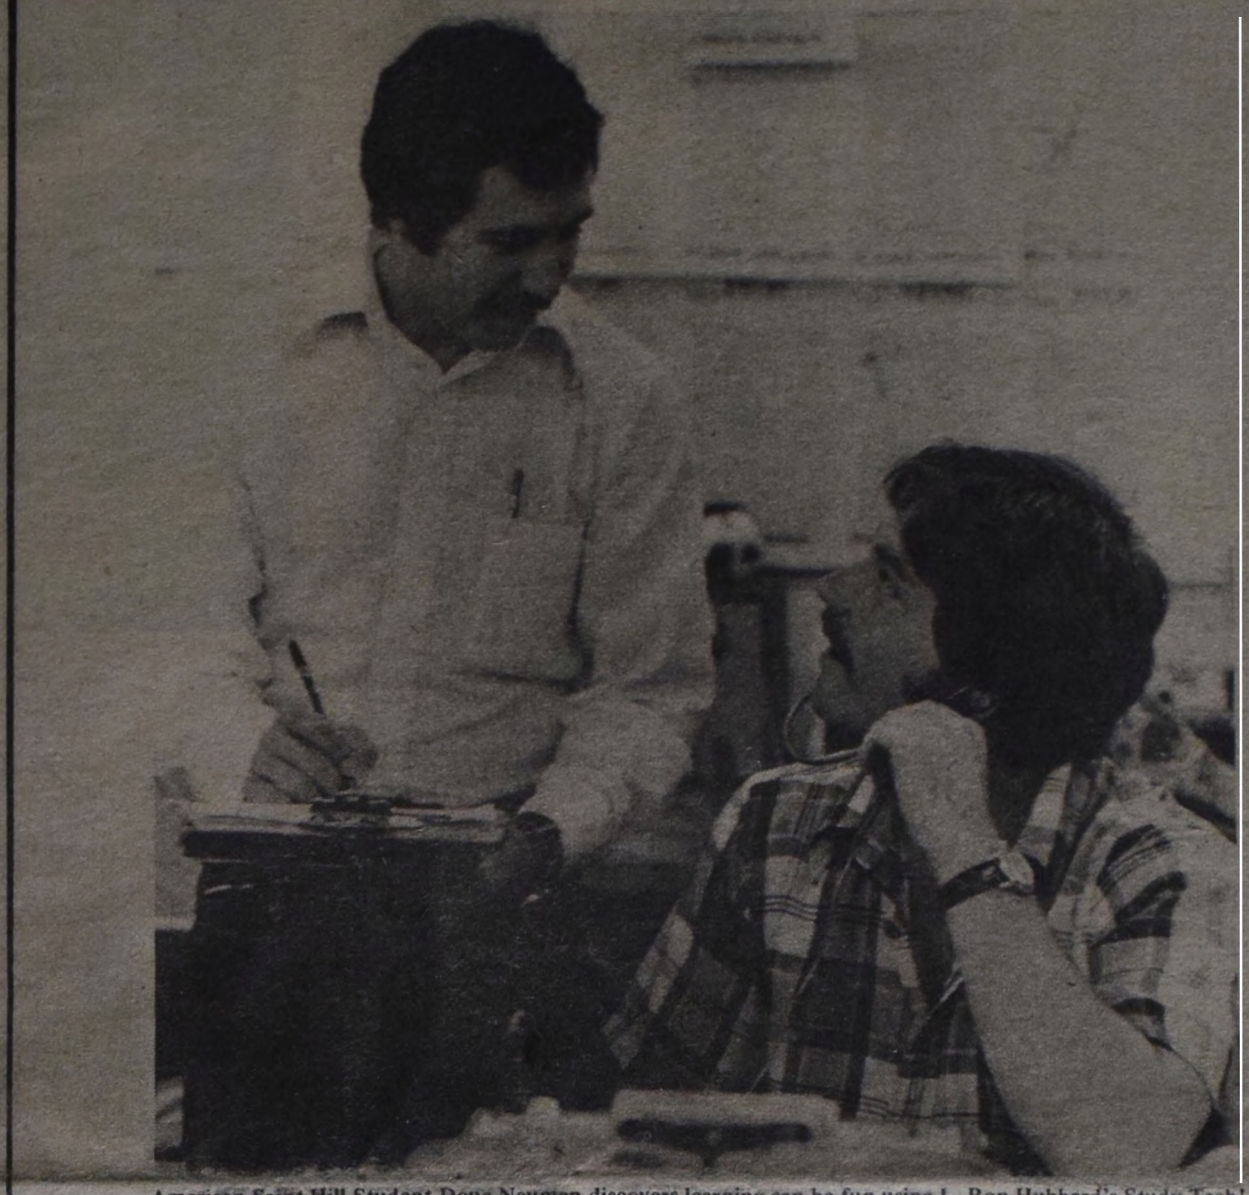

If you are not observing something directly –if you're reading about trees, not observing them directly–then your understanding has to be superior to the understanding which would be required in a direct observation. You've got to understand it better, as otherwise you're going to lose yourself a tree.

Back in 1964, I realized that Scientology was making great headway and that we knew something about the mind but that I would have to wrap up another subject which we were engaged in. We would have to wrap up the subject of study in order to educate, and just in terms of practical education.

There's not been a technology of study or a technology of education. Study normally would be you told somebody something and he was supposed to study it, and if he didn't like it, you would report it to the headmaster. That was how subjective reality was gotten from the student.

I developed the study technology with the purpose of improving the ability of a student to learn by altering the character and methodology of teaching.

The main complaint about modern education is that it does not immediately result in good, clean application. There's a great zone of tolerance in most studies–a student is expected to be very amateurish. Educators teach an engineer to build a bridge and then nobody in that university is forced to sit down and watch him build a bridge.

EFFECTIVE EDUCATION
The key to a sane society

"The basic building block of a society is the individual. From individuals groups are built. And this is the society. No society is better than its basic building blocks." L. Ron Hubbard.

"According to a Federal report," wrote L. Ron Hubbard in November of 1974, "one million US children from 12 to 17 years old in Grades 6 to 12 cannot read even at the level of a 9 year-old in the 4th Grade. This statistic was arrived at after a 4 year testing program of the Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare, and in a Doctor Holloway's own words . . . . 'The schools obviously are not meeting the kids' needs.' "

Some students have responded angrily with vandalism or riots. Others respond with apathy. Others, after long years of schooling at astronomic cost, have been graduated from universities still wondering what it was all about.

Unemployment, crime, drug abuse are among many social problems that have long been traced to inadquate, irrelevant education. Yet our society's current learning institutions have not solved the basic question of what useful training and education really consist of.

L. Ron Hubbard, himself an educator of unparallelled success, observes: "The idea that it takes 12 years to made a mud pie maker is false. TIME in training does not determine quality of training. Amount of data learned that can be applied and skills successfully drilled determine training. That the society currently stresses time is an aberrated factor. The ability to learn and apply the data is the end product of training. Not old age."

In this month's Auditor, read about the effectiveness of the Study Technology L. Ron Hubbard developed to make possible good education and from there, a sane society.

Education is in the direction of accomplishing certain actions professionally. Now that is my own word, professionally, but if one is educated in a subject one expects to be able to accomplish certain things in that subject.

There is no argument with competence. It doesn't come down to a test of what a person knows but a test of what a person can do. There is a lot of doingness in the study of Scientology, and the degree to which a student understands the real knowledge available to him in Scientology will determine the esteem and satisfaction he can be assured of.

Scientology is the precise study of knowing how to know. It seeks to embrace the sciences and humanities as a clarification of knowledge itself.

One studies to know a science. His study is without avail when he does not know the science of study.

One lives and learns of life but life is not comprehensible to him no matter how much he lives, unless he knows the science of life itself.

One studies the humanities. If he does not know how to study the humanities he often fails.

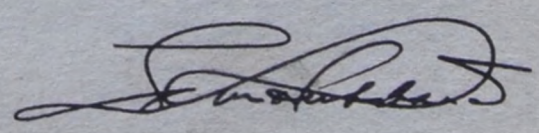

The physicist and the fission bomb expert know physics but not the humanities. They do not conceive the relationship and thus physics itself fails.

Into all these things the skills of Scientology can being order and simplification.

One lives better with Scientology since life, understood and controlled, becomes liveable.

A civilization could fare better with Scientology since that would not be pock-marked with unknowns and rendered null with chaos.

The only richness there is is understanding. That is all that Scientology has to give.

Class VI Virginia Budlong shows one of her students how to use a demonstration kit, described in the Study Tech materials.

Educator finds Briefing Course Essential

Virginia Budlong, Class VI auditor and and OT VI, not only has been an educator for the past 20 years, but has been using L. Ron Hubbard's Study Tech during that period of time.

"One HAS to use Ron's tech to be an effective teacher," said Virginia who has owned and operated the Montessori Day School in Hollywood, California for nearly two years.

'I've particularly used the technology developed by Ron in teaching small children," Virginia said. "I've also been applying the tech that I learned on the Saint Hill Special Briefing Course. I use the Code of an Auditor in working with children in the areas of granting beingness, not evaluating and not invalidating."

"Actually," said Virginia, "the tech on the Briefing Course makes it possible for me to understand children."

At her Montessori school for children 2½ to 7 years, Virginia uses all the technology related to clearing up misunderstood words that children might have.

"We simply don't allow misunderstood words to get by the children," Virginia said.

According to Virginia, "What we are doing at the school, is not to change the children, but to create a safe environment of mutual respect where as Ron says, the able can become more able."

ASHO Graduate applies her training to achieve EFFECTIVE education

BONNIE McNEELY had always hoped to start her own school where she could create a safe, sane environment for children. And, after she began her training on the Saint Hill Special Briefing Course at ASHO, that dream became a reality.

Soon after she had started teaching high school in 1970, she heard about L. Ron Hubbard's Study Technology. When she went back to teaching after training, she applied it. "I realized that colleges do not train teachers," she recalls. "Teachers don't learn a technology on how to get children through a course of study. They learn how to score tests, how to perform on the playground, but they don't know how children learn or how to help when they're not learning. It wasn't until I discovered the Study Tech that I really learned how to be a teacher."

She decided to get trained as a Scientology Auditor to learn even more about people, and, in January of 1974 started the Saint Hill Special Briefing Course at the American Saint Hill Organization. One month later, she opened the Apple School with 15 young children on the 2nd floor of a neighborhood church. "While on the Briefing Course my level of confront and responsibility came up to the point where I knew without any doubt or reservation that I could do it," she says.

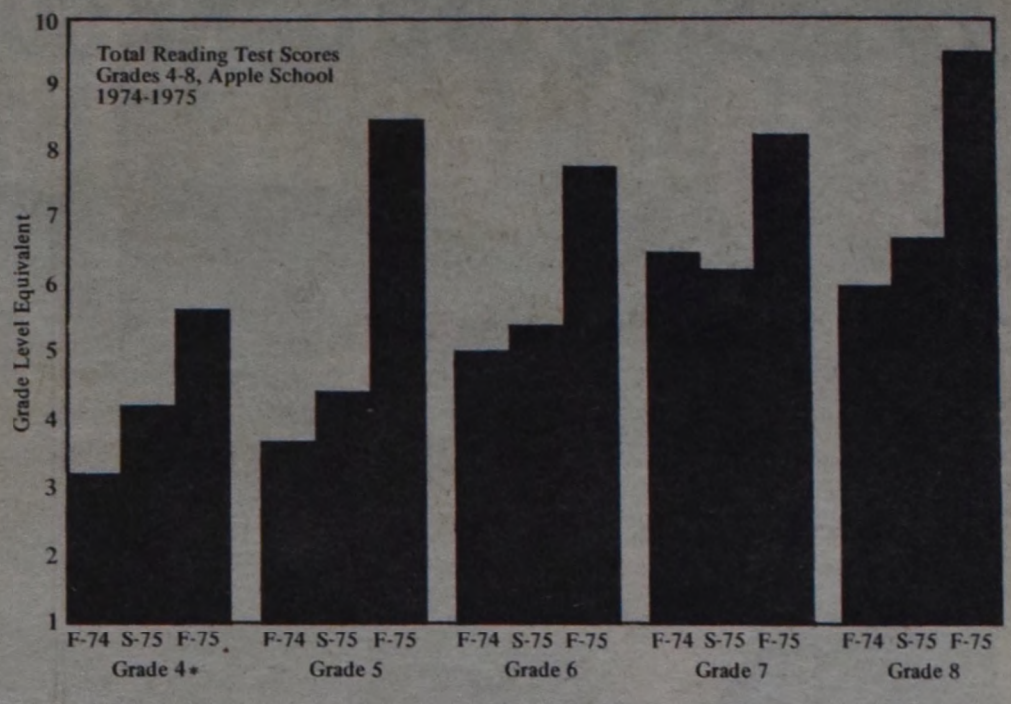

When she graduated as a Class VI Auditor last July, there were 127 students at Apple School in their current 6½ acre campus, with a staff of 18, kindergarten through high school. Today, in the spring of 1976, Apple School in Los Angeles has 162 students with 40 more waiting to start next fall. A new Apple School has opened in Denver and by September there will be others in 3 more California communities. Bonnie is also managing another similar school in Flagstaff, Arizona.

The School's effectiveness is reflected in student attitudes. Discipline problems are practically unheard of. Students, enthusiastic about their classes, quickly learn good judgement on behavior without having to be forced to study under threat of punishment.

Bonnie attributes the overwhelming success of Apple School to her training at ASHO. "That training has enabled me to allow others to be themselves and expand. With the training I've gotten I understand others more than I ever thought possible – running a sane organization is very simple because I understand the people who make it operate," she comments.

F=Fall S=Spring
*Note: These students were in Grade 4 from F-74 through S-75, and as of F-75 were just starting their next grade. The same pattern is followed throughout the graph.

Test scores show results

The above bar graph shows scores of Apple School children from 4th through 8th grade on the reading battery of tests from the Comprehensive Tests of Basic Skills published by CTB/McGraw Hill from Fall 1974 through Fall 1975.

The scores are reported in terms of the student's grade level of achievement, called grade equivalent. This graph shows total result of reading tests, which include both vocabulary and reading comprehension.

Between Fall 1974 and Spring 1975, the Behavioral Research Laboratories programmed reading instruction program, widely used in public schools, was used at Apple School. Test scores showed acceptable increases in grade equivalent in all grades but Grade 7.

At the beginning of Fall semester, 1975, full application of L. Ron Hubbard's Study Technology was put in. Teachers were fully trained in it, students in all grades received specific instruction in the exact technology of study developed by Hubbard. Interestingly enough, there was no formal reading program in the school until after the fall testing due to late arrival of reading materials. Other subjects (math, language arts, social science, science), however, were presented in accordance with Study Technology data.

As a direct result, grade equivalent scores shot up an average of 2 years 5 months from Spring 1975 to Fall 1975, which allows for just four months actual school time. Not only did students who made acceptable progress on the Spring 1975 test do outstandingly well, but the negative trend in seventh grade students was completely reversed.

Learning how to learn: First step to a SANE society

Young student at Applied Scholastics is intent on a clay demonstration. "The purpose of clay demos are: to make the materials being studied real to the student by making him demonstrate them in clay; to give a proper balance of mass and significance; and, to teach the student to apply." L. Ron Hubbard.

Applied Scholastics

Four years ago, Applied Scholastics Incorporated began operations in the United States to deliver the study technology of L. Ron Hubbard into the society's school systems and to cause Ron to be recognized as source in the field of educational reform.

Today, there are Applied Scholastics offices throughout the world offering Ron's Study Tech to general public and teachers and students in private and public institutions.

Reducing illiteracy and crime – the result of poor education – are the targets which Applied Scholastics has set in striving to create a saner society.

At Applied Scholastics, the first gradient is learning how to learn, according to William J. Goens, president of Applied Scholastics U.S. and winner of the World of Tomorrow Education Committee's 1974 Educator of the Year Award.

Goens, who oversees the U.S. headquarters on the campus of the University of Southern California in Los Angeles points out the aim of Applied Scholastics is HOW a subject is studied.

"Let's take, for example, a student who never got past third grade reading level. Upon investigation, we usually find out that this person never had the SKILLS to read at a third grade level. If the student does not know how to learn and apply, a school never gets to teaching content," says Goens. "Through the study tech developed by L. Ron Hubbard, I have seen my students gain the skills to learn any subject."

There are currently major Applied Scholastics outlets to deliver L. Ron Hubbard's standard Study Technology in Boston; Albuquerque; Davis, California; Sacramento, California; Portland; and one being formed in the San Francisco area.

By setting up an organized outlet specifically for school applications of Ron's study tech, a planned approach becomes possible which can unite and strengthen the efforts of the many excellent teachers and administrators already using and forwarding the tech to achieve sanity in education. To achieve this purpose, ASI was established as a separate, non-profit and tax-exempt educational corporation dedicated to excellence in education.

The curriculum at ASI is built around the following courses:

The Reading Program for readers and non-readers of all ages.

How to Use a Dictionary Course for children and adults who need this skill.

Learning How to Learn Course for children which also can be done by adults.

Basic Study Manual for older children and adults.

Subject Coaching – All subjects, all professions for all ages.

Basic Teachers Course – Offered free to all teachers everywhere. The exchange for giving the course free is that these teachers refer students to ASI who are bugged and parents of children who need reading handled.

Among the major achievements accomplished through Applied Scholastics have been in the area of improving reading and subject skills. At East Los Angeles College a "How to Study" program was held for students who were in academic difficulty. Reading Vocabulary went from 9.1 (9.0 indicates ninth grade level) to 10.1 and Reading Comprehension from 9.8 to 10.9.

In another program at the same college, a group of 75 students had dropped out or were about to drop out. Of these, 69 enrolled in an Applied Scholastics how-to-study class; 68.3% of them were able to become successful students, with an average grade point increase of .75 the next semester. None of the failing students enrolled in classes without Study Tech training were retained in school.

At Angeles Mesa Elementary School in Los Angeles, 16 third grade students were making very minimal progress despite extensive special assistance. Going into the second semester of third grade, their reading scores on the California State Reading Test ranged from a grade level of 1.2 to 2.3. After 75 hours of instruction utilizing L. Ron Hubbard's Study Technology, the range went from 1.7 to 3.5. Their average growth was 6 months during the 3 month instruction period, considered exceptional progress for these students.

According to an official at the school, "The testing data on reading and mental ability certainly indicate that your efforts (Applied Scholastics) on behalf of the students, were fruitful and yielded some very positive results. A factor that was not measured by the pre and post testing was the change in attitude towards reading of many of the students. They seemed happier and more willing to participate."

Other major wins for Applied Scholastics include:

– Training entire U.S. Olympic Alpine Ski team and Canadian Olympic ski team in communications skills.

– A communications and Study program for approximately 160 teachers in the Boston School System.

– A federally funded program of communications and study skills administered to the Young People of Watts in Los Angeles.

– Implementing Ron's Study Tech at a school in Mexico with 20 teachers and 2,000 students, as the first phase of a program to open a teacher college using Study Tech.

In Southern California, ASI already has delivered programs at the University of Southern California, Los Angeles Harbor College, California State University, East Los Angeles College, Crenshaw High School, VISTA, and the Los Feliz Apple School.

As for the future of ASI, Goens said the target is 50 offices of Applied Scholastics by the end of 1976. The offices will continue to be located near college and university centers.

"The idea," said Goens, "is not just to get the students in our society in the door of an educational system, but to give them the skills to continue there, to do well, and to use what they learn to build a saner society for all of us."

Top Speakers to Address Conference

The roster of event speakers continues to grow as dynamic individuals from various walks of life are contacted by the Event Committee. Chosen for their personal integrity, all of the speakers have made a name for themselves by their willingness to take a stand in society.

Ranging from ecology to psychiatry, additions to the speaker line-up are as follows:

Richard Reynolds—Internationally recognized as one of the world's first environmental planners, Richard has made major contributions toward an impressive list of development and conservation programs in the U.S. and abroad. Concerned with Man's relationship to the environment, he uses the concept of ethics as his basis for improving life on the planet.

Howard Wilkins—A graduate of Yale University, Mr. Wilkins went on to become one of the most successful self-made businessmen in the country and is Chairman of the Kansas Economic Commission. Despite prevailing popular opinion that American business has to be dishonest, Wilkins contends that a company's expansion is directly related to the honesty that is maintained in its operations.

Raymond Reynolds, M.D.—A former psychiatric consultant for the State of California, Dr. Reynolds found that psychiatric rehabilitation left much to be desired, and has since returned to a purely medical practice. According to Dr. Reynolds, "The cost of rehabilitating a person who has had shock treatments is extremely high due to their slow learning and tendency not to complete tasks. The majority of them end up on welfare."

Bill Arnold—Entertainment Editor of Seattle's large metropolitan newspaper, the Post-Intelligencer, Bill became interested in the mysterious and tragic story of Frances Farmer, the beautiful American screen star of the 40's. His interest led him on a difficult investigation of the facts surrounding her psychiatrically-caused demise and has culminated in his authoring a book, The Dark Odyssey of Frances Farmer. An abbreviated version of the story was featured in FREEDOM and negotiations are now underway for publication of the book.

Dr. William Goens—President of Applied Scholastics, Inc., Dr. Goens will speak of his experiences in the last two years in applying L. Ron Hubbard's study technology and how it has become a recognized solution to study problems facing both teachers and students.

In an historic moment on March 29th, 1976, Bert Salzman, film maker, became the first Scientologist to win an Academy Award.

In accepting the Oscar for "The Best Short Film", Bert acknowledged all those who had helped him and closed by giving special thanks to L. Ron Hubbard, "the person who helped him get it all together."

Televised throughout the world by Telstar satellite, the broadcast was seen and heard by 26 countries as well as by an estimated 70 million people in the United States.

The winning film, Angel and Big Joe, portraying individual responsibility, will be presented in a special screening in the morning session on Friday, August 27th, during the Scientologists in The Movies segment of the Conference.

"Ideas and not battles mark the forward progress of Mankind. Individuals and not masses form the culture of the race . . . A culture is as rich and as capable of surviving as it has imaginative artists, skilled men of science, a high ethic level, workable government, land and natural resources, in about that order of importance."

L. Ron Hubbard

Participate in the Event Activities!

This is your opportunity to contribute to the Conference and Prayer Day Event. Scientologists from all over the world will be joining to present a spectacular view of how far we have come since 1950 by applying the philosophy and technology developed by L. Ron Hubbard.

Scientologists will be able to contribute to the event by presenting papers and participating in the International Art Exhibition, as well as displaying their products in the many booths and exhibits which will be a featured part of the event activities.

PRESENTATION OF PAPERS

Applications for papers to be read as part of the event program are now being accepted in the following categories:

- Scientific papers or original research towards betterment of conditions
- Social reform and government
- Land and natural resources, ecology, conservation or land rehabilitation
- Ethic level as evidence of the indispensability of Scientology in citizenship, finance, the Third World and other areas

A form for the submission of papers is on the right-hand side of this page. Just fill it out and send it in.

INTERNATIONAL ART EXHIBITION

There is already a great deal of excitement over the first International Art Exhibition featuring Scientology artists. The exhibit will be held in the Grand Lobby at the Anaheim Convention Center during four days of the event and will be attended by Scientologists from all over the world, opinion leaders, VIPs and the media.

Works on display will include paintings, graphics, sculpture, photography and other categories. The exhibition will be coordinated by Scientology artist Peter Green who, as Exhibition Director, will ensure that all works receive proper care and professional display.

As Ron says, Art is the "Quality of Communication" and with top Scientology artists on exhibit all in one place, the professional application of LRH's art bulletins will be highly visible, not only to fellow Scientologists but to non-Scientologists as well.

The International Art Exhibition entry form is at the right of this page. Fill it in and you will be sent the official agreement for the exhibition with all the details you will need. Space is limited so entries will be judged on the basis of originality, professionalism and, of course, quality of communication.

BOOTHS AND EXHIBITS

Scientology is being applied successfully in many fields including education, science, business, industry, medicine, ecology, the arts and others. One of the main attractions at the International Event will be booths and exhibits sponsored by Scientology groups and individuals who are changing conditions on the planet. This is a unique opportunity for you to reach Scientologists from the world over and receive the attention of many prominent non-Scientologists and the media.

The booth and exhibit application is on the right side of this page. Get your application in early—space is limited so reserve yours now.

L. Ron Hubbard's Study Technology at work means a GOOD EDUCATION

. . . in Public Schools

For 10 fifth graders at Fulton Elementary, Toledo, Ohio last September, it looked like another dreary year, just like the previous five apathetic years. Their future didn't look too promising. September state tests had pegged their reading grade average at 3.1.

And helping other people? A pretty foreign idea. Fighting for survival, in their homes, on the streets, in the school, was their way of life. You got what you could by pushing, shouting, stealing – that's one lesson they HAD learned.

But this year turned out to be something altogether different for them.

School counselor Marcella Long began a program using L. Ron Hubbard's Study Technology. It was a pilot system of individualized learning steps, compiled by Abilities Research Associates in California. The curriculum is expressed as "read and do" actions on a gradient approach designed to give the student WINS instead of LOSSES.

Its goals: to develop in the student responsibility for his own learning, and a disposition to help others learn. Students were paired as "study buddies" to help each other through.

The results? At semester's end, questionnaires indicated these students were happy to be in the program because it was helping them to learn.

Mrs. Long, veteran educator of 23 years, noted they had gradually become more independent and responsible as the program went on. Though attendance was not demanded and required they come to school a half hour early, students came every morning. Soon they would get their materials and begin working immediately, so purposeful they hardly took time to greet friends! Some of the more capable students had even begun coaching others outside of class to help them progress faster.

This spring, the usual student antagonism is conspicuously absent. In its place is a growing respect for themselves and each other.

Parents are responding too. "I don't know why, but lately my son has been the first to volunteer to do odd jobs the other kids won't do," writes one. "My daughter seems to have more understanding of her work," writes another. All parents with children in the pilot want it continued, all want more information on it.

A few weeks ago, 19 eight graders begged Mrs. Long to offer them the pilot program too. As a result, 17 of them are attending a Basic Study Technique class two days a week for two hours a day, in their own time after school. One mother, because she feels her son is improving so much from it, is now taking a supervisor's training course in L. Ron Hubbard's Study Tech to be able to supervise a group of students next year herself!

Professional response has been equally gratifying. In February, the Toledo School Report carried a front page article praising the new pilot for promoting responsibility and a spirit of helpfulness. The Toledo Board of Education Director of Counselors has asked Mrs. Long to send information on the teaching method to the Board's Reading Specialist Supervisor.

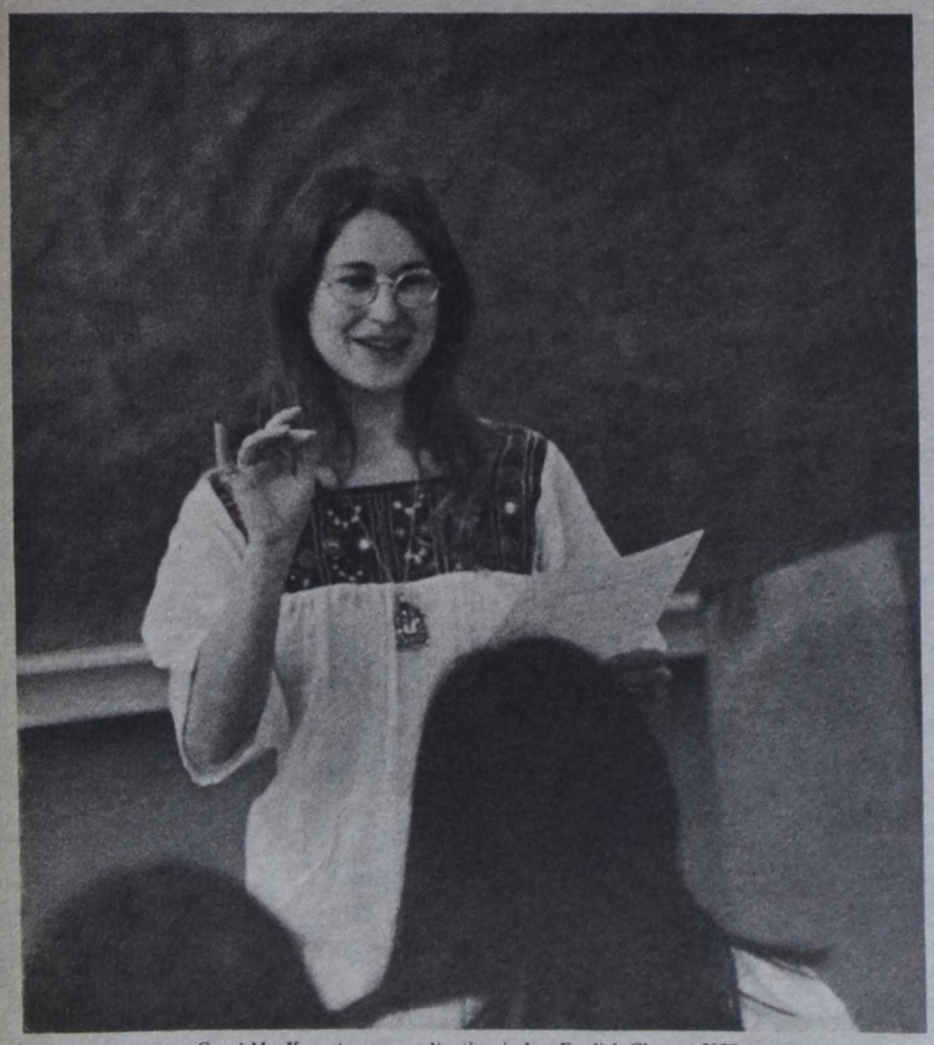

Marcella Long of Fulton Elementary School in Toledo, Ohio, works with students in pilot program using L. Ron Hubbard's Study Tech.

But most important, the Study Technology of L. Ron Hubbard has made a big difference for the Fulton students this year. For the first time in their lives they're getting a chance for a good education, a chance to learn what freedom from stupidity is really like.

The almost unbelieveable effectiveness of this study technology is not confined to elementary schools. From Ardmore, Pennsylvania, high school teacher Patty Martin writes: "Four years ago, I was on the verge of succumbing completely to the apathy and suppression in the school system. Today I teach reading to illiterate ninth graders – my section of kids is the only section that has advanced three grade levels in the ability to read aloud and comprehend what they are reading. My only classroom activity is L. Ron Hubbard's Study Technology. The kids love it, and it's a real win for me to know I'm being effective in the classroom."

Felicia Ballentine, 6th grade teacher at Bryson School in Southgate, California, was another teacher who had great success with L. Ron Hubbard's Study Tech.

Carol MacKay stresses application in her English Class at UCLA.

. . . in Universities

Following are some examples of L. Ron Hubbard's study technology making education more effective at the university level.

Department of English
University of California, Los Angeles

"Teaching English 1A, a required course, to a group of initially unwilling students would be a challenge to any teacher, but I found that this quarter's group of students has a different attitude thanks to my insights from L. Ron Hubbard's Basic Study Manual.

I have been helping to make the students' study their own by constantly pointing out application of the data to their writing situations. As a result, my students have a much greater enthusiasm to the point where they want to take more English classes.

The use of words clearly understood creates clearer thinking, better possibility for communication, a key point in contributing to a sane society.

I am a student myself, working toward my doctorate in English at UCLA. I, too, have benefitted from learning to make a subject my own, to confront what it means to me. Sorting out importances from unimportances has left me feeling much more assured about confronting my qualifying exams when they come up."

Carol MacKay
Teaching Associate, UCLA

School of Law
University of California, Davis

"Our course (Law 210) is titled Skills, and deals with interviewing and counseling. We utilized Section IX – Essays on Applied Communication, from the Applied Scholastics Basic Study Manual, and the students did the training routines described.

I've had much formal training in communication (collegiate debate, persuasive speaking courses, etc.), but I learned more in the application of these training routines than all of my other training combined. The students felt the same way. We were able to tailor and adjust the program for the individual, without altering the material or its application. The student worked on the parts that were hardest for him, and didn't go on till he really could do it well. All the students completed the drills, and were very happy about their success.

The course was initially offered Fall quarter, 1974. Due to the very enthusiastic student response, and student petitions requesting the course be re-offered, Professor Goodpastor and I taught it again Winter, 1974. Offering a course twice in one year is very extraordinary for our law school, and Spring quarter found even more students requesting the class.

I've been looking for somthing of this excellence, simplicity and effectiveness, and now I've found it."

Mark Siegel
Teaching Assistant, Law 210

Scientology training: your best education

Training in Dianetics and Scientology technology is your best education. As a trained Scientologist, you'll be able to actually bring out another person's respect for himself and others through counseling (auditing), enabling him to be a much saner, happier person.

During your Scientology training, you will learn more about yourself and your own reactions, as well as learning about other people. The training materials are specifically designed by L. Ron Hubbard to give you far greater ability to handle life situations.

The effectiveness of the materials themselves, combined with the effective educational technology of Study Tech, means your time through courses is measured in weeks, not years. Each course results in a specific ability gained, and you will graduate with certainty you have achieved it.

Ron has set a target of 100,000 active Auditors, Case Supervisors and Course Supervisors by March, 1977. By being one of them you can do your part in making a saner society!

You will start your training at your nearest Church of Scientology (addresses on back of this issue).

First for every student is the BASIC STUDY MANUAL, as all Scientology and Dianetics Courses are taught with Study Tech. Next on your program will be the Hubbard Standard Dianetics Course, where you learn to apply Dianetic counseling to relieve permanently the effects of emotional stress on a person's mental and physical well being.

Then you will learn to give and receive Method One Word Clearing – a special application of the principles of Study Tech to personal counseling, in which the misunderstood words of subjects studied in the past are cleared up.

Next is your Academy Training on Levels 0-IV, where you learn the procedures for spiritual counseling to help another person communicate more easily, handle his own problems, feel relief from past hostilities and upsets, and have the ability to do new things.

Then it's on to the American Saint Hill Organization for Level V and VI, the famous Saint Hill Special Briefing Course and Senior Briefing Course! At ASHO you will find L. Ron Hubbard's Study Tech fully applied to give you professional knowledge and skill in applying Scientology counseling successfully with any person.

Then you will do an internship at ASHO to polish your skills under expert supervision. When you have proven your application is consistently flawless, your Class VI Certificate is made permanent.

Next in the auditor training line-up is Class VII, special training in the Power Processes, for those who are Scientology Church staff members (5-year contracted or more). For others, the next step is Class VIII and internship. Here your level of confront and integrity increases to the point where you are fully certain you can help achieve the goals of Scientology, and help others in your area to apply Scientology STANDARDLY.

Class IX Training and internship gives you knowledge of special advanced counseling procedures.

ASHO is the place where upper level training, Class V through IX, is delivered to you. ASHO is also the place where you are fully trained as a Scientology Course Supervisor and Case Supervisor.

Start your Scientology training now!

Do these two things:

(1) Write a letter to the Letter Registrar at ASHO, Church of Scientology of California, 2723 W. Temple, Los Angeles, California (90026), telling her of your interest in training. Ask for free literature on ASHO courses and details on advance registration.

(2) Walk in to your nearest Church of Scientology (see back page for address) and ask to see the Registrar. Tell her you want to sign up for your Auditor training!

Start today.
