THE GREAT ADVENTURE

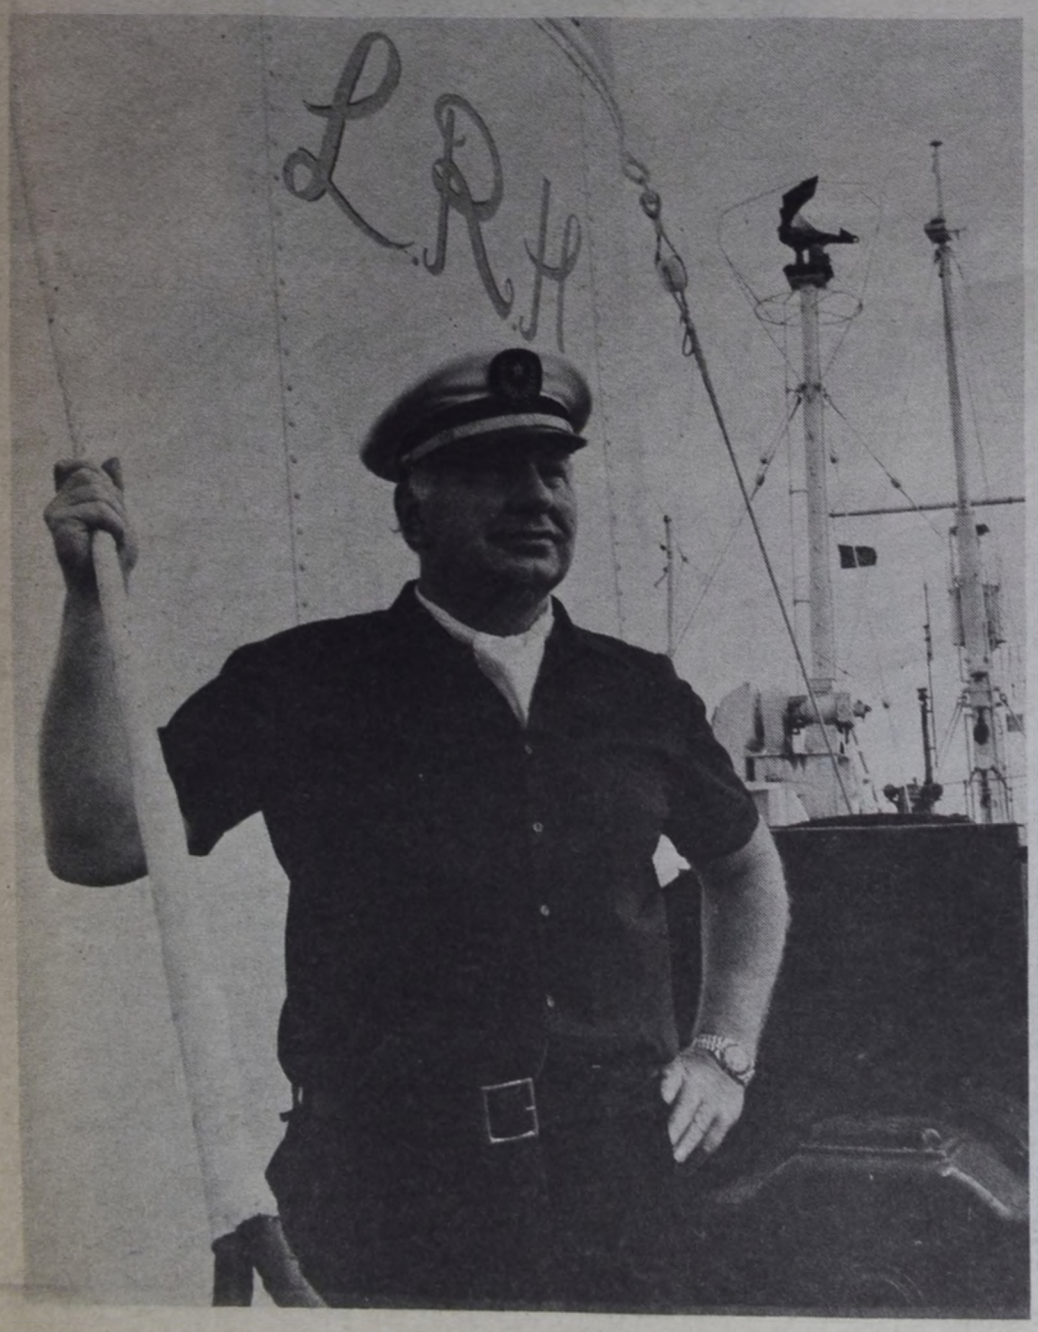

by L. Ron Hubbard

It's quite amazing that the greatest skills are those which appear to be the most casual, the simplest, the least difficult.

Until you go out and try to walk a high wire a hundred feet above the sawdust; or hold 40 lions and 40 tigers in leash with a whip, it might look easy. But when you're in there, it's not all that easy. You fire the gun too quick in the face of Rosie the Roll-Over Tiger, and you've had it!

Comparing auditing to these highly dangerous professions is not done idly. Auditing is a very dangerous profession – if you don't know how! On the other hand, a good auditor, who is skilled, doing his work well and accomplishing his mission, finds himself in the peculiar position of being at cause point over an awful lot of people. Things don't baffle him any more.

Sometime between the first moment he decides that walking tight wires looks easy and his first major success, he has question marks. He has lots of question marks. But one has to start somewhere. Even a trapeze artist or a lion tamer had to start somewhere. If a person wants to be an auditor, the thing for him to do is start – and face bluntly the fact that he's going to flub, make mistakes and fall on his face before he finally breaks through and can all of a sudden audit with the greatest of ease.

A slightly trained auditor, willing to do his job and willing to help people, is senior to a Clear. If you don't believe this, take a Clear who has never been trained in any way and say to him, "You've been very worried about your Uncle George? Well, why don't you just go on over and clear up your Uncle George." And he'll say, "Huh?" Possibly it has never occurred to him to do anything for anybody like that. Possibly, while you were going through the motions, he was busy with his case and never really noticed what this thing called auditing was. Now he's Clear, he's in good shape, he feels better than he's ever felt before, and yet he feels that somehow, somewhere, something has eluded him.

On the other hand, somebody just off the farm comes in for professional auditor training, and in the first week, you have him jumping through hoops, diving under chairs, firing off small guns – he can do something! Oh, he's still as aberrated as the devil – he has sciatica, lumbosis, upper ventricularnosis, neurotic tendencies and traits – yet at the end of that first week's training, he can sit there and talk to somebody. He's able to start a session and persevere somehow.

Case-wise, he is tremendously inferior to a Clear. He has to put up with things that a Clear doesn't have to put up with. The fellow that he is auditing says, "There I was going down the left hand side of the track . . . " and all of a sudden this horrible feeling of nausea comes over the auditor. Now, auditors are not supposed to be restimulated, that's part of his training, so he just shuts it off. But nevertheless, it is nausea. After the session, he says to himself, "I wonder if I've got an engram that has the phrase in it, 'left hand side of the track'? Let's see, 'Left hand side of the track, left hand side of the track' . . . " Well, his fellow students pick him up and take some Scotch tape and glue, hang him back together again and shove him into the next session. And if he learns to audit while he's still aberrated, he has now done something that a Clear no longer has an opportunity to do. He has been able to confront his own case, while confronting the case of somebody else and keeping the show on the road at the same time. This is the greatest high-wire feat in human history!

The person who is studying to become a Scientologist is faced with difficulties, problems, and complications which make lion taming look rather mild. After all, you can see the lion when he bites you, and you know what is biting you, which is a great comfort. But when somebody says, "left hand side of the track", you don't always know what's biting you!

An auditor is counting on sheer guts to get him through, and when he gets through, he knows he's done something. He is totally aware of the fact that, come hell or high water, he can somehow or other poise his way through almost anything. He can do something about it and he can confront it. He has a much wider, broader view of life and people than any person, regardless of state of case, who is not an auditor.

This is a point which the public at large may miss: The auditor is somebody who is three feet back of the society's head. He does things. He is effective. He makes things happen.

Auditing is practically priceless. It has never before existed, and one of these fine days you'll get an idea of its value, a very clear idea of its value.

How much is auditing worth? Well, how much is a human life worth? You could ask any king, as he lies on his deathbed, "What is the value of a continued existence?" He has his palace and his queen, eight mistresses, the treasury, the crown jewels and so forth. He would think hard, because it wouldn't seem to him that that was enough. None of his possessions would be enough to buy what he now wants.

Therefore, when you are dealing with the value of auditing, you'll find it's not something that can be valued. By all means, go ahead and accept donations, and throw it in the bank account so the manager will be happy, and to make the tradesmen that deal with you happy. It's all right to make them happy. Go ahead and accept any amount you want as a donation – but don't think you're being paid. That would be silly, because to put any value to it would be to undervalue it! If you were getting ten thousand dollars an hour, you'd still be underpaid, and basically everyone realizes this.

Well then, how can a person pay this debt?

Way back when, when I was doing quite a bit of auditing, I always told the pc that he owed me something: he owed me a favor, and that I would call for it sometime. I wouldn't tell them what it was. I thought when they got in good enough shape, they might appreciate granting a favor. A few times, people have gotten in good enough shape and they've come around to me and they've said, "What's the favor I owe you?" And I've said, "Just help people, that's all."

Only a Scientologist can truly pay a Scientologist. He can coaudit with him. You audit them, they give you some auditing in return. Only a Scientologist, an auditor, can pay the debt. A Clear can never pay the debt, if he can't audit.

It's only fair that a Clear, or a preclear, would be permitted to pay it back one way or another on the auditor's terms. Whatever he paid you in cash didn't pay for it. You could always say, "Well, now you owe me a favor," and just let it stand. Now he can pay you back – he can go out and make the society more decent to live in. But he'd have to become an auditor to do it.

An auditor is on a broader career than merely being a capable individual. He's already doing something. Clear, unclear, aberrated or half-spinning most of the time, he's still doing something in the widest, highest field there is, which is the inter-relationships of life. And there is no higher field.

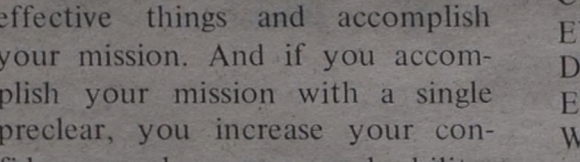

All you have to do, as an auditor, is be effective, do your job, do effective things and accomplish your mission. And if you accomplish your mission with a single preclear, you increase your confidence and your general ability, you become more stable and capable in what you can do for the universe at large, and you win.

Modern auditing takes a long time to learn. There's a tremendous amount of understanding involved in it. There are millions of words written on this subject. There's theory and practice. There are drills and other things that one has to learn.

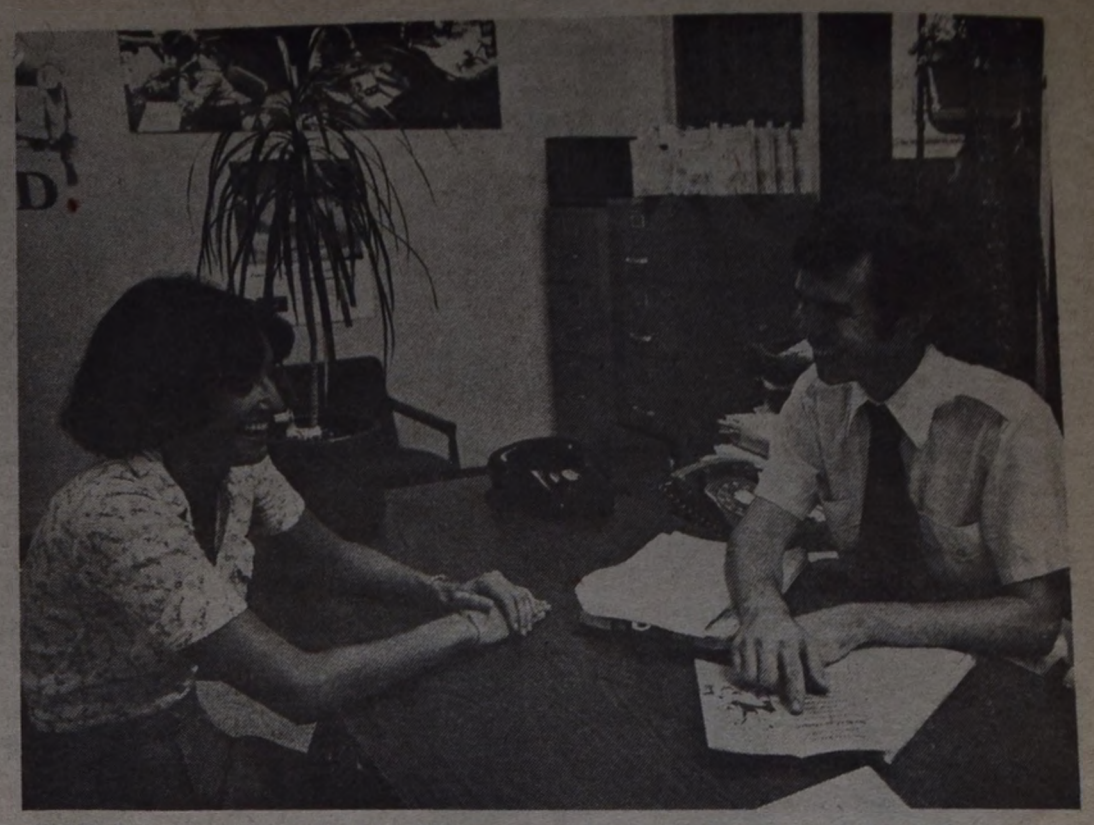

But the moment a person goes to a Comm Course and starts in on his HAS, he is already walking a track which is higher than the track to Clear.

If you weren't good people who wanted to help your fellow man, you wouldn't have started on this track at all, so you'll find routinely that desire for training as an auditor winds up eventually in an ability to audit, to give a terrific session and to be very effective.

Just deciding, in the first place, to be an auditor is the first step.

ASHO GRADUATE SAVES CHILD

What would you do if your two year old daughter fell off concrete steps forehead first onto a concrete slab while playing?

This is the situation that faced JO PLUNKETT early this year. When she arrived on the scene, the child's face was blue, she was slumped over and unable to speak. "It almost made me ill to see my beautiful child in that condition," confesses Jo. "I thought I was going to lose her. But fortunately I had been studying Assists on the Saint Hill Special Briefing Course. I decided I could and would handle the situation."

She immediately began an Assist. Soon the color came back into the child's face, she regained control of her body and started to talk. As her sensibilities returned, she expressed concern about the doll she had been holding when the accident happened and could walk again.

Her doctor was very pleased with the child's recovery, as well he might have been. She was almost completely pulled out of the accident within two days and within a week was fully back to normal. Today she is a happy child, with no brain damage or disability, which could have occured due to the seriousness of the fall. Jo is certain the assists actually saved her life.

Jo's son Tai, age 6, is another living miracle. In an accident in school this spring, he sliced off the end of his middle finger (from below the fingernail) in a metal door. Jo did Assists with him in the emergency room at the hospital, and later had Class VI Auditor ROBIN MOON, one of the first graduates from the new Expanded Dianetics Course at ASHO, audit the young boy. Incredibly, the end of his finger has grown back to the same length as before, fingernail and all!

Jo and her husband Dennis began reading books on Dianetics and Scientology in 1970 while living in Idaho where they ordered them through the mail. They began their training and auditing soon after in Salt Lake City, and Jo has just graduated as a Class VI Auditor from the Briefing Course at ASHO.

Thankful mother JO PLUNKETT, recent Class VI graduate, has two happy, active children (Maya, 2, and Tai, 6) today as a result of her ability to apply Scientology technology.

"Before Scientology," she recalls, "I had education, money, had travelled all over the world, but I was still dissatisfied. I wanted to respect myself but I didn't always. And I wanted to be able to help people. Since my training and auditing I am much more the kind of person I really wanted to be. I am a much better mother and wife. I have the ability to help others and I use it!"

Jo is Clear and also a trained Scientology course supervisor. She will be continuing to train at ASHO through Class VIII and the Organization Executive Course.

"The Briefing Course gave me a total overview of what went into finding the Bridge to Clear and OT," she sums up. "I now have the certainty that I can get people up that Bridge and that they can achieve Clear and OT and experience the kind of benefits I have."

The Second Golden Age of Hollywood

"Hollywood is the place."

– slogan of the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce, 1940.

It began as a way station between Los Angeles and Spanish mission settlements to the north. Its first adobe house was built by Don Thomas Urquidez in 1853.

Farmers began arriving in the 1870s, attracted by the sunny climate. The wife of an early settler, Horace H. Wilcox from Topeka, Kansas, was entranced by her new surroundings which reminded her of the summer home of a friend in Chicago. She gave it the same name: HOLLYWOOD.

Orchards of lemons, oranges and apricots sprang up as more farmers settled. In 1903, citizens voted 88 to 77 to incorporate as a city, and by 1910 voted to become part of Los Angeles.

It was in 1907 that Francis Boggs and William Selig were the first to discover the advantages of the Hollywood sun, which shines brightly 11 months out of the year for filmmaking. Chased out of Chicago by an Illinois winter which had descended on their shooting (lights in those days not being bright enough for indoor filming) they established a studio just east of Hollywood in Edendale.

The Hollywood sunshine soon brought more filmmakers, and the first studio established in Hollywood itself was set up on the northeast corner of Gower and Sunset.

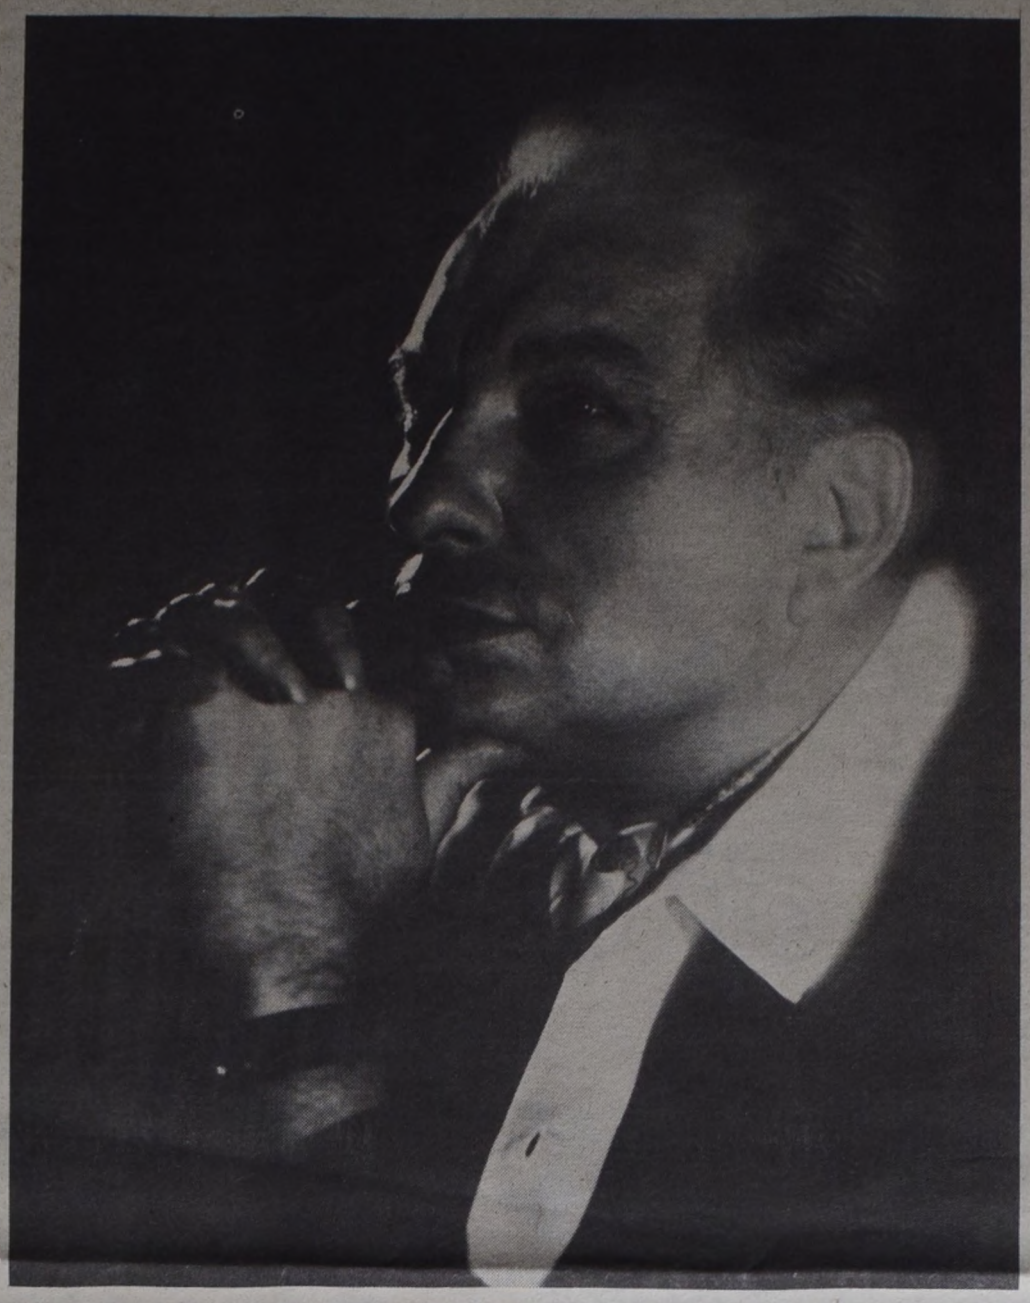

From the 20s nearly to the 50s, the people came in droves – in beat-up Chevies, on the Super Chief, on the thumb, and mostly on the bus – hoping to become part of the excitement and success. For more than a quarter of a century, Hollywood was the home of the American dream, alive with sparkle and stardust.

But built upon the illusions of the screen, somewhere on the other side of the coming of television the bubble burst. The famous streets were still there, the studios (now mainly adapted for TV) were still there, but the golden age was gone. No one believed in "happy ever after" anymore.

When most people think of Hollywood, they still think of it as the wild and flighty film community of years ago.

But Hollywood is different today. It is much like any modern city, less expensive, more spacious, and more casual to live in than many, but complete with supermarkets and laundromats and gas stations.

Perhaps ironically, Hollywood was one of the places an adventurous young engineer and world traveller was researching human nature, many years ago, looking for the way to make man's dream of happiness come true. That young man was L. Ron Hubbard, and in 1950 he released a book that shook the world: Dianetics the Modern Science of Mental Health. The technology in this book, the result of researching 13 primitive cultures (including the American) laid out the road for anyone to achieve his hopes about himself not in the ephemeral world of the screen, but in real life.

L. Ron Hubbard, who researched and codified the philosophy and technology of Scientology which is bringing the second Golden Age of Hollywood into being.

Today, it's the study of Scientology that is drawing the flocks of people to Hollywood.

Over the last 27 years, the number of Dianetic enthusiasts and later Scientology enthusiasts has grown into the millions.

Strong, independent organizations have built up around the world, teaching and administering this technology to its result of renewed respect and dignity for the individual. Scientology staffs have worked often against almost incredible odds to carve out corners of sanity in a world sliding rapidly into degradation.

Now the Scientology community in Hollywood is growing up. In this community, probably one of the most famous in the world, a new Golden Age is dawning. An age where it will be safe to walk down the street, where strangers can trust one another, where Man can regain his dignity and respect for his fellows.

A steady flow of Scientologists coming from all over the country for training has brought new vigor to the Hollywood community. Where once they flocked to Hollywood to become actors and actresses, people are now flocking to Hollywood to study Scientology and to become more themselves.

One of the largest property owners in Hollywood now, the Church of Scientology is busily renovating a huge eight building complex (formerly the Cedars of Lebanon Hospital), which will consolidate the services of nearly a dozen scattered buildings into the hub of Scientology in Hollywood, with a half dozen Scientology buildings retained nearby.

Right now, just a few blocks from that first studio in Edendale, is the current building of the American Saint Hill Organization (ASHO), where Scientologists come for advanced training and auditing. Just off Gower and Sunset, where that first Hollywood studio was built, lies the beautiful Scientology Manor – in the early days, home of the stars of Hollywood; now, the home of the new stars of Hollywood – the Scientologists making their way up the Bridge to Clear.

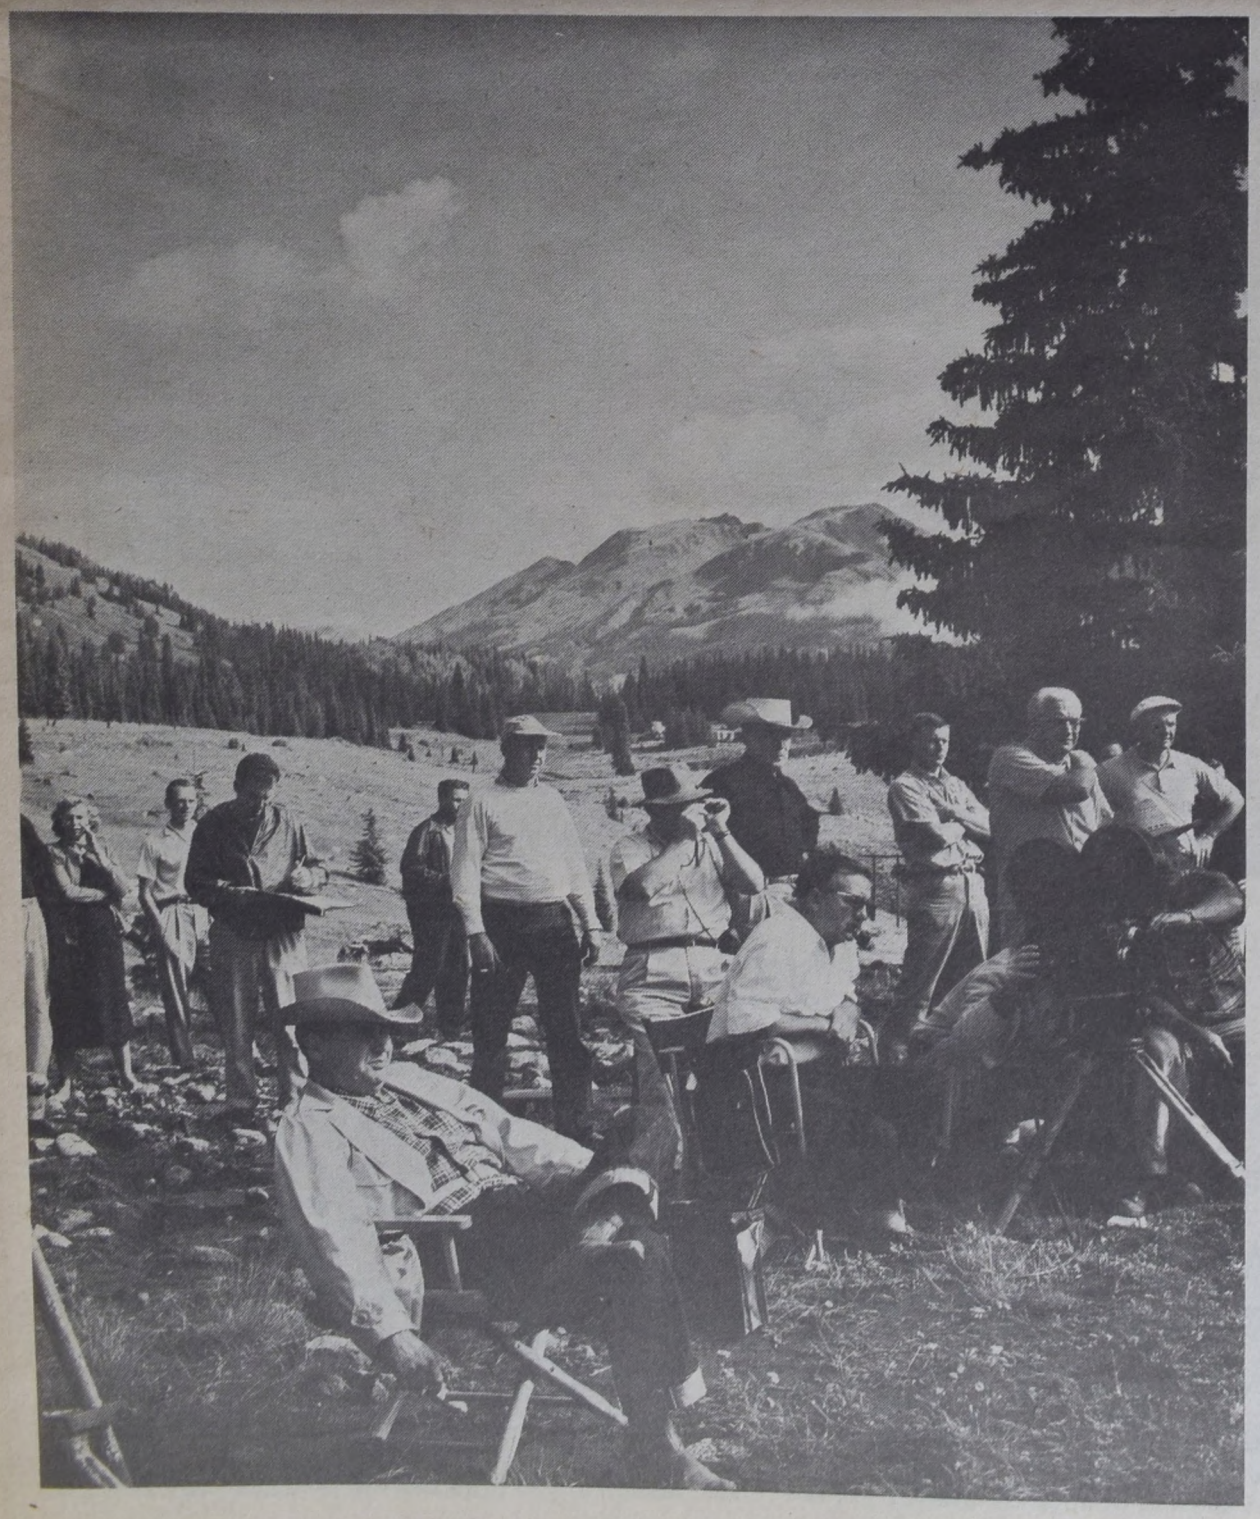

"Coming to know the Church through its work in the community," said the Director of the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce this year, "I find their philosophy of involvement has made them an asset to community life. I feel the presence of the Church of Scientology should help to revitalize Hollywood and create a safer environment by working to reduce crime."

This was no idle prediction. Crime is down 12% in Hollywood, according to the Hollywood Independent. And the influx of Scientology ideals and practicing Scientologists in this community is just beginning.

As you make your plans to join the thousands of Scientologists already studying in Hollywood, we hope you will enjoy reading about some of the sights and sounds that await you.

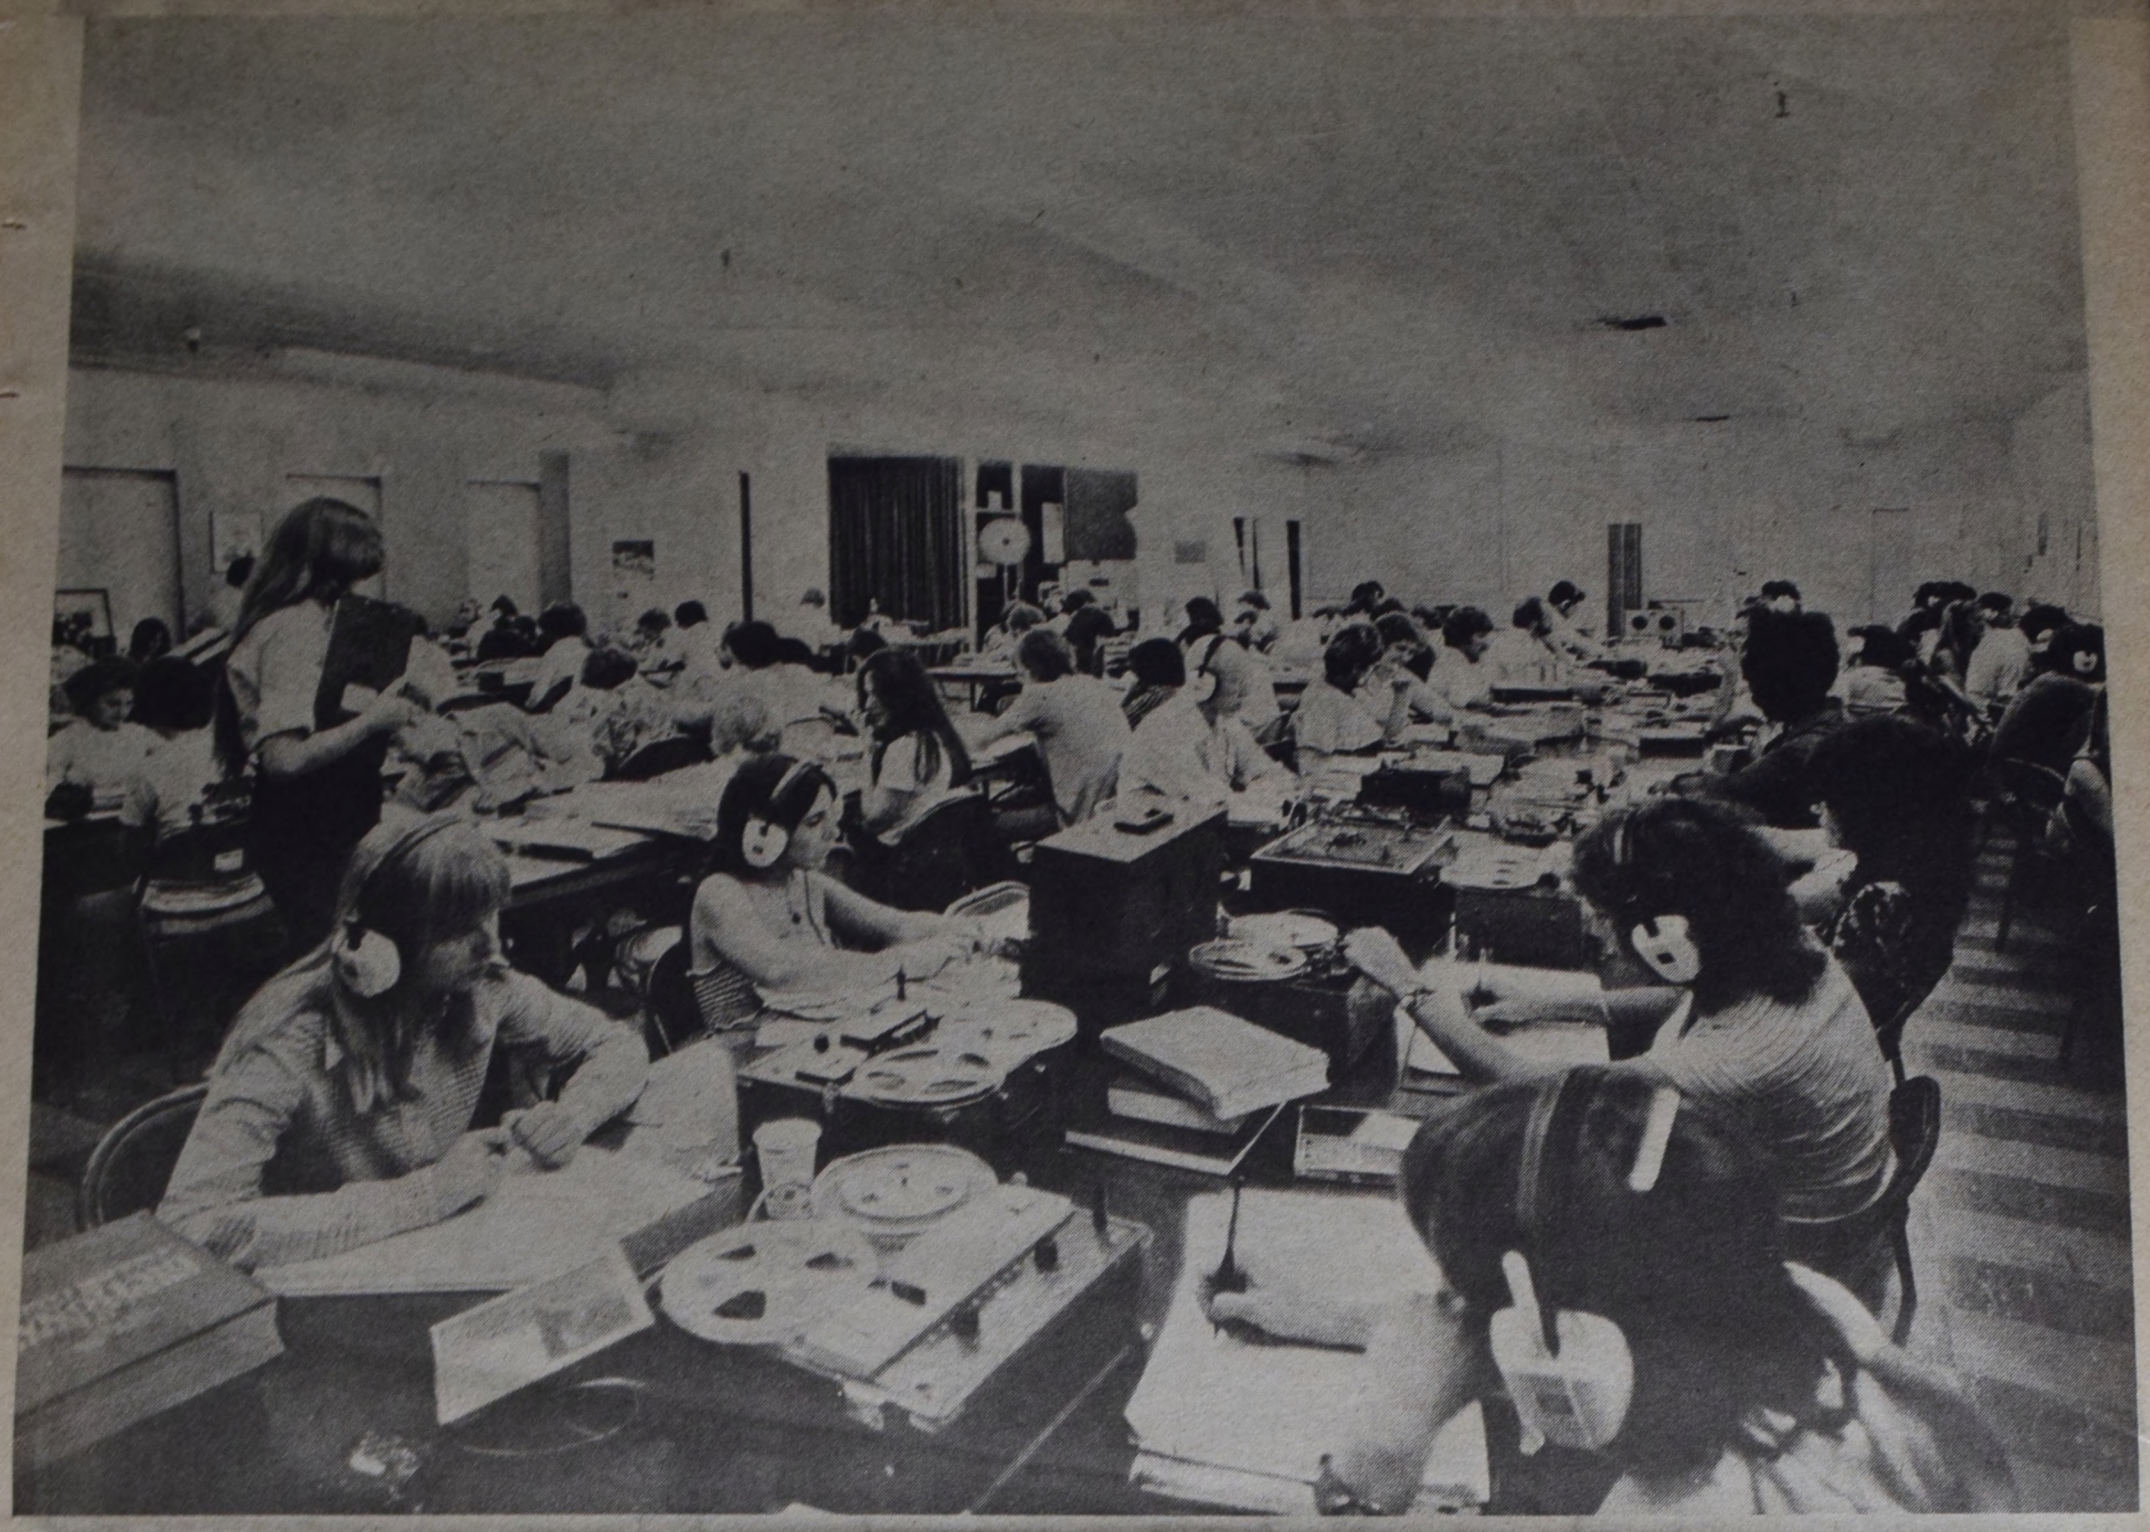

ON THE COVER: The top of one of the eight buildings in the Scientology complex in Hollywood.

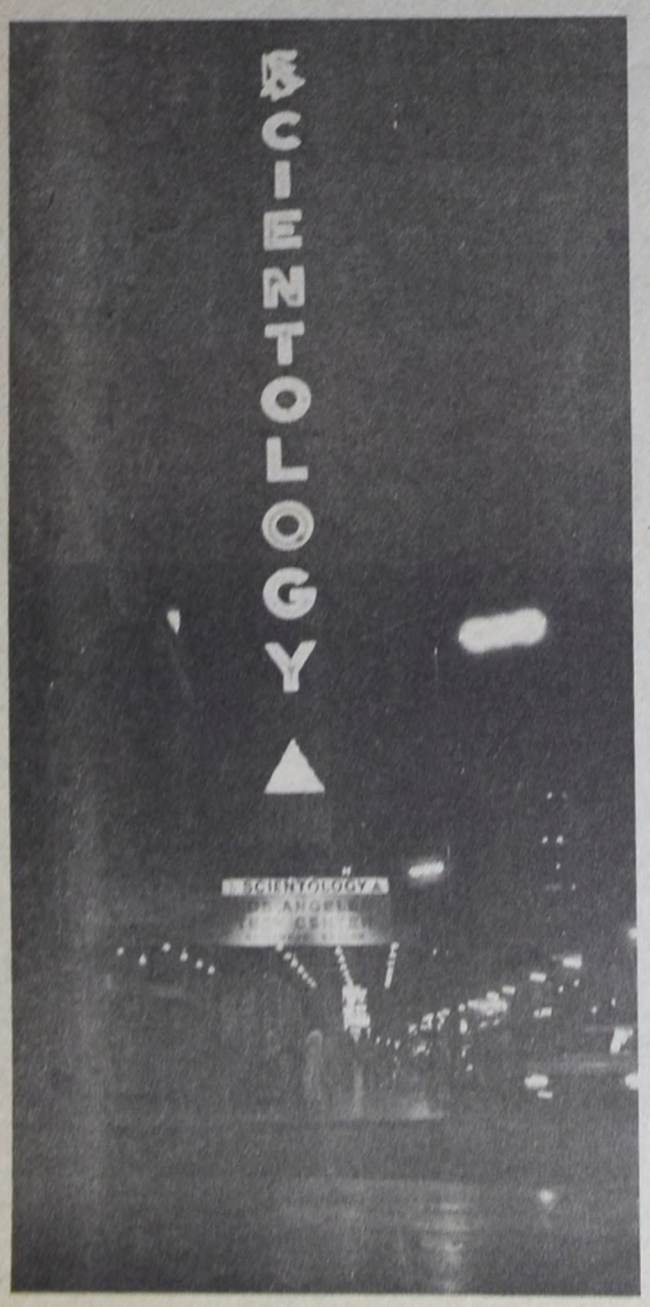

Sunny skies and variety of terrain attracted early residents to Hollywood, just as it does today. Then, as now, newcomers were always surprised to find how obligingly the temperature cools down after dusk — California's first "built in" air conditioning.

The course rooms such as these at the American Saint Hill Organization (ASHO), where L. Ron Hubbard's technology is taught, are the center of attraction in Hollywood today. Just a few of the Scientology buildings in the area forming the Bridge to Clear and OT include (clockwise) the Manor, the Advanced Organization (AOLA), Celebrity Centre, the Hollywood Test Center. There are also 14 Scientology Missions in the greater Los Angeles area.

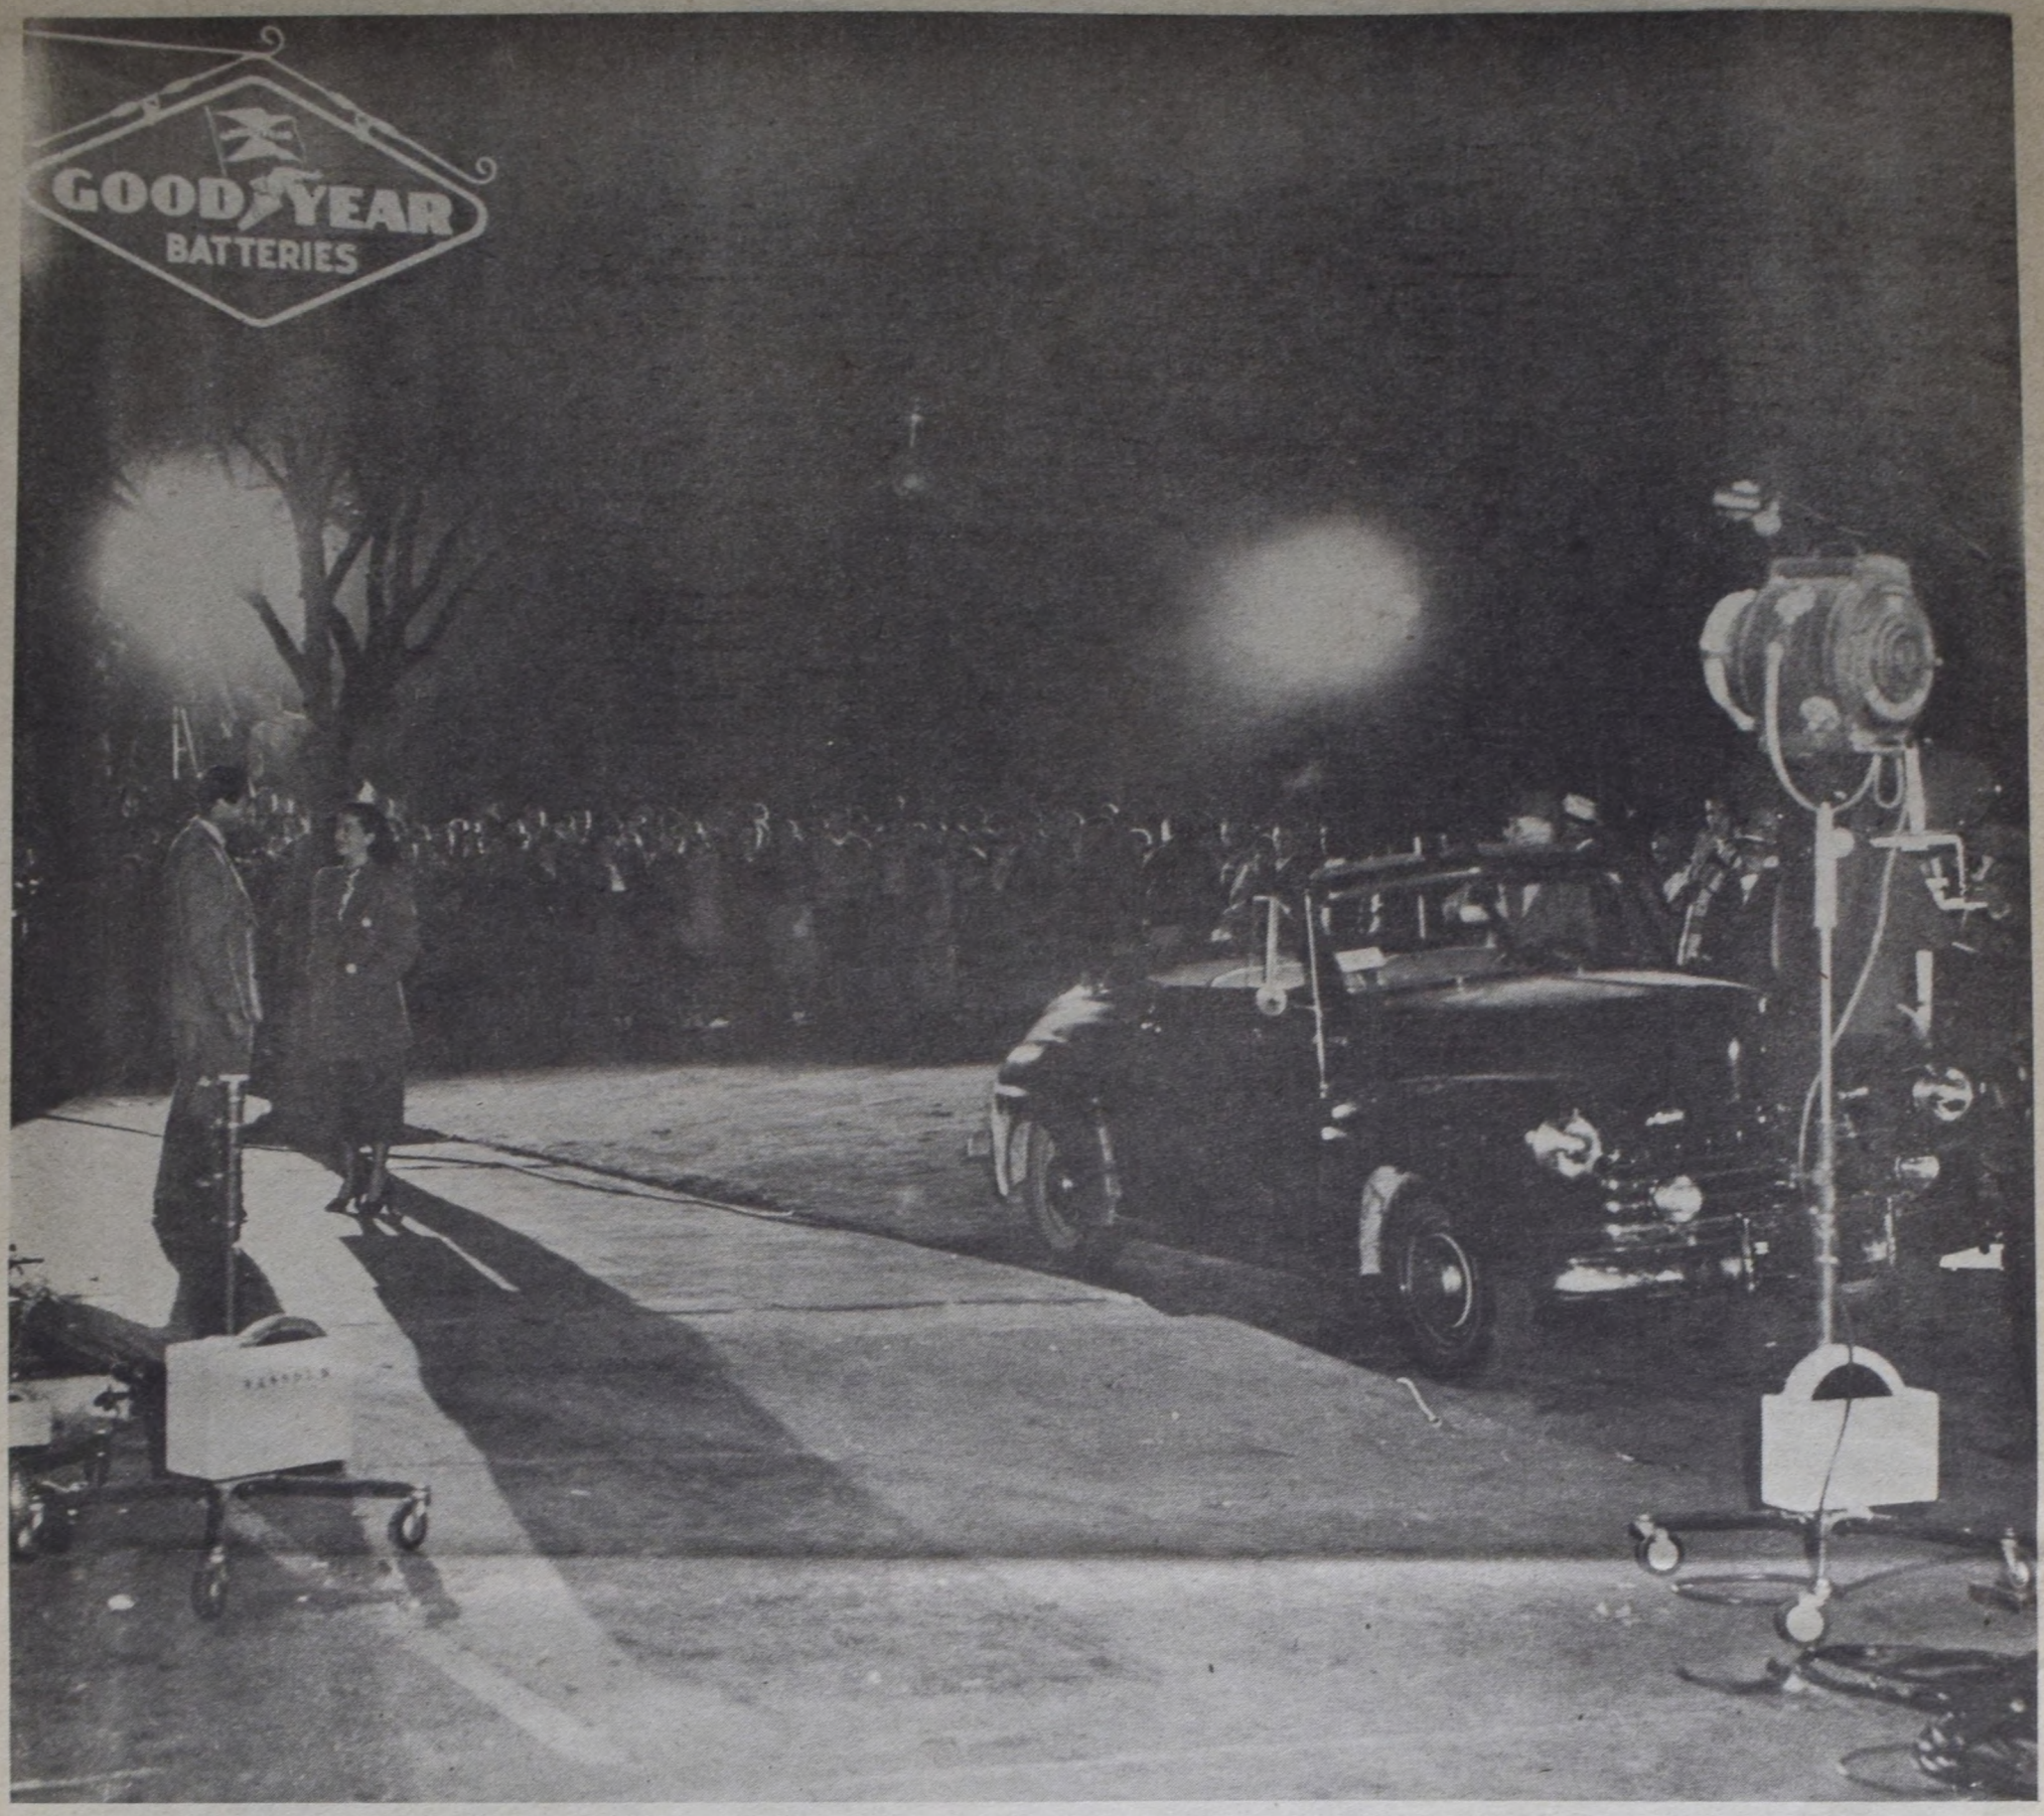

Where once elaborate movie premiers and the fancy parties of Hollywood movie stars were in vogue, now the premier of a new book by L. Ron Hubbard is the news.

At one time, you could scarcely walk down the streets of Hollywood without running into a film crew. Today a Scientologist in Hollywood can expect instead to run into other Scientologists wherever he goes.

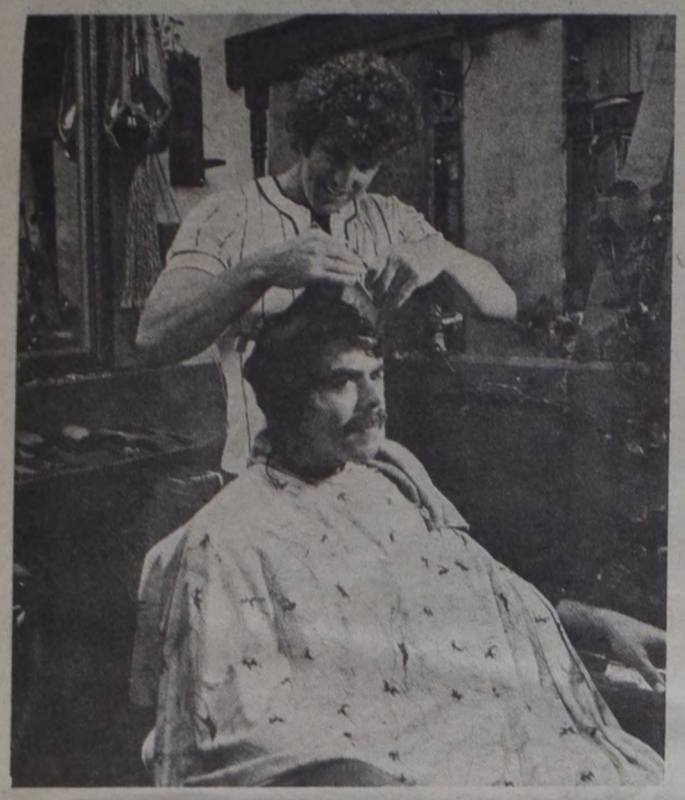

Where once young people were most intent on being coached for movie roles, today they are more interested in being coached to become good Scientology or Dianetic auditors (Young people of all ages, that is.)

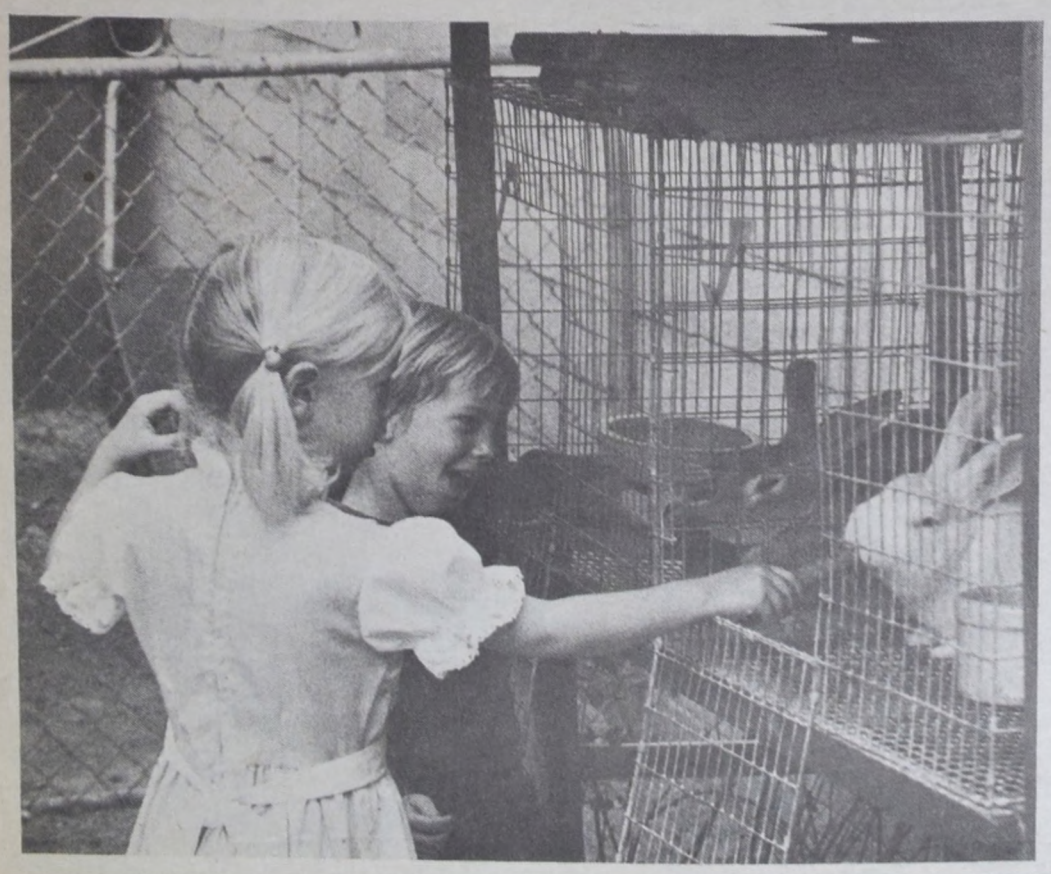

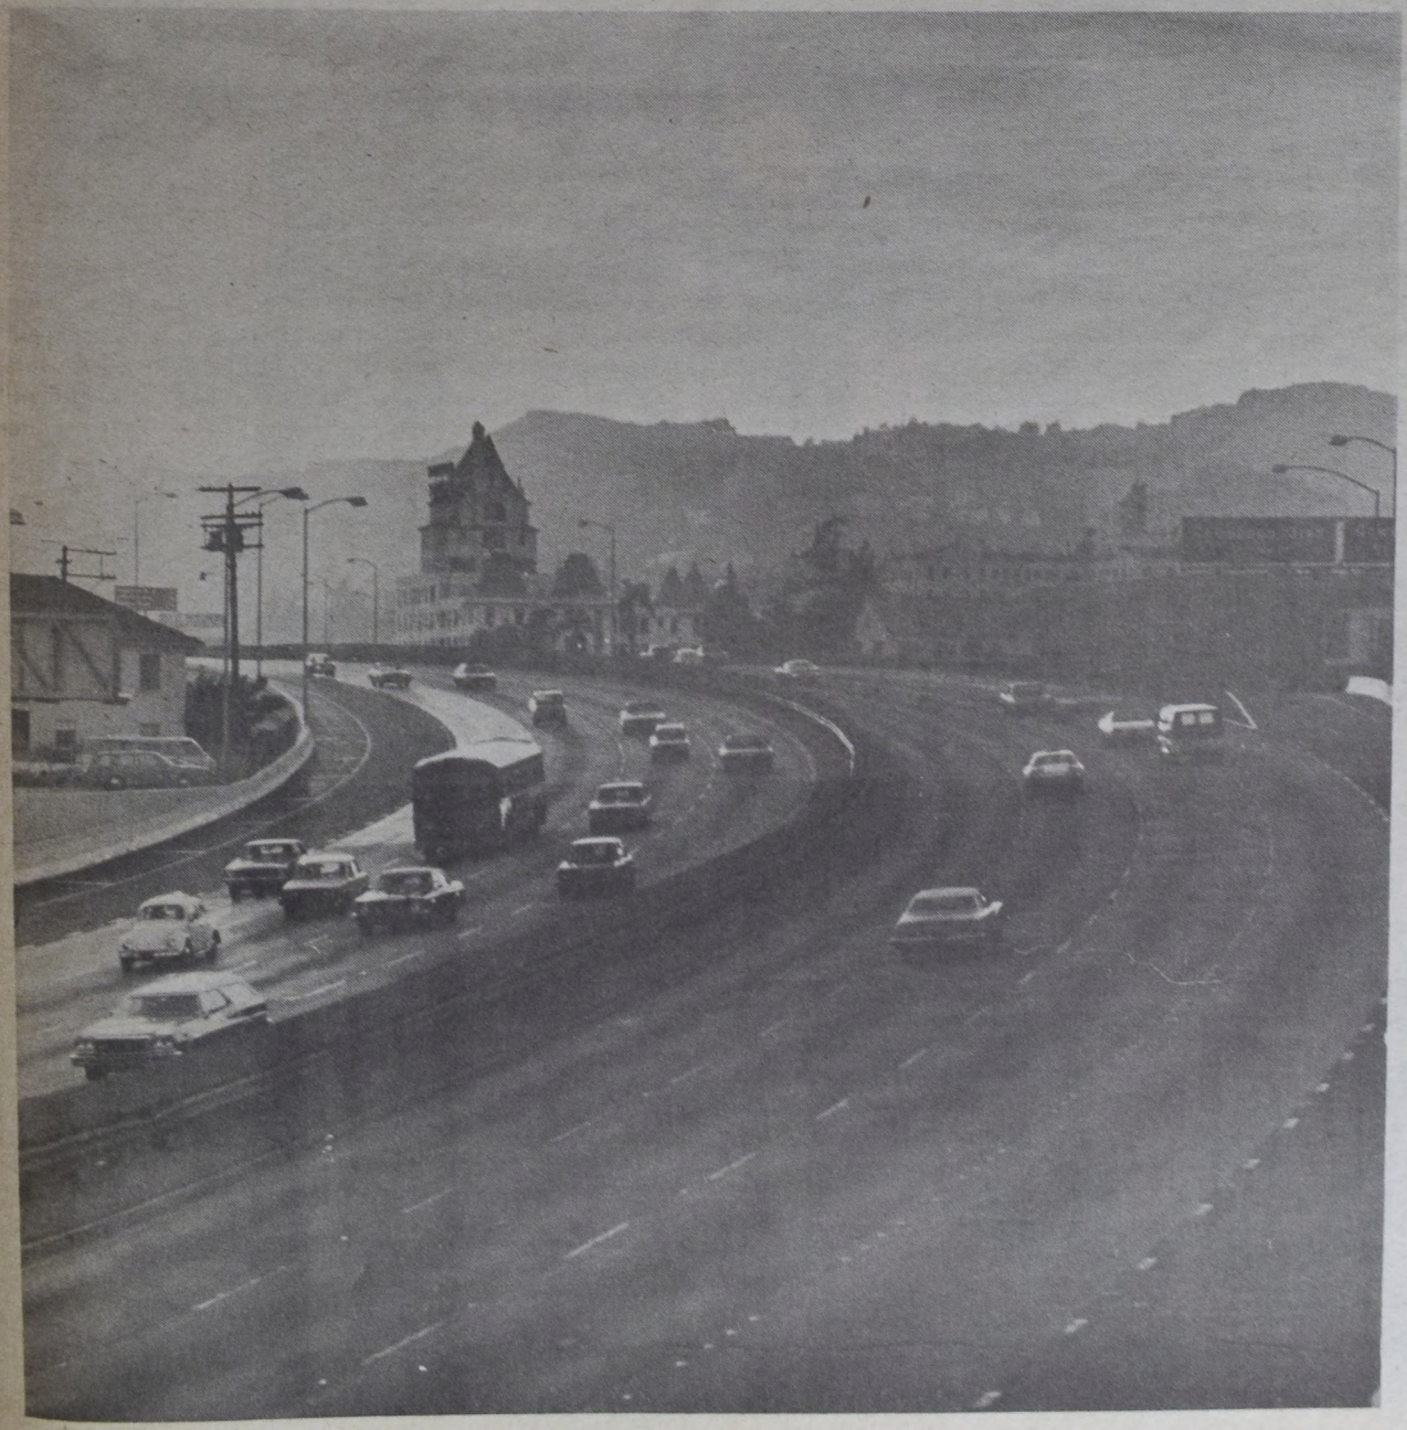

You could get anything you needed in the way of costumes and props in the movie days of Hollywood. Today, you can get almost any service or product you need in life from a friendly and helpful Scientologist. Doctors, dentists, lawyers, accountants, stock brokers, interior designers, hair stylists, seamstresses, auto sales or repairmen, baby sitters, teachers, artists, printers, architects, janitors, movers, house painters, roofers, secretaries, nutritionists — and yes, even electricians and plumbers — you will find all these Scientologists in Hollywood. And of course, there is service and repair for your E-Meter too.

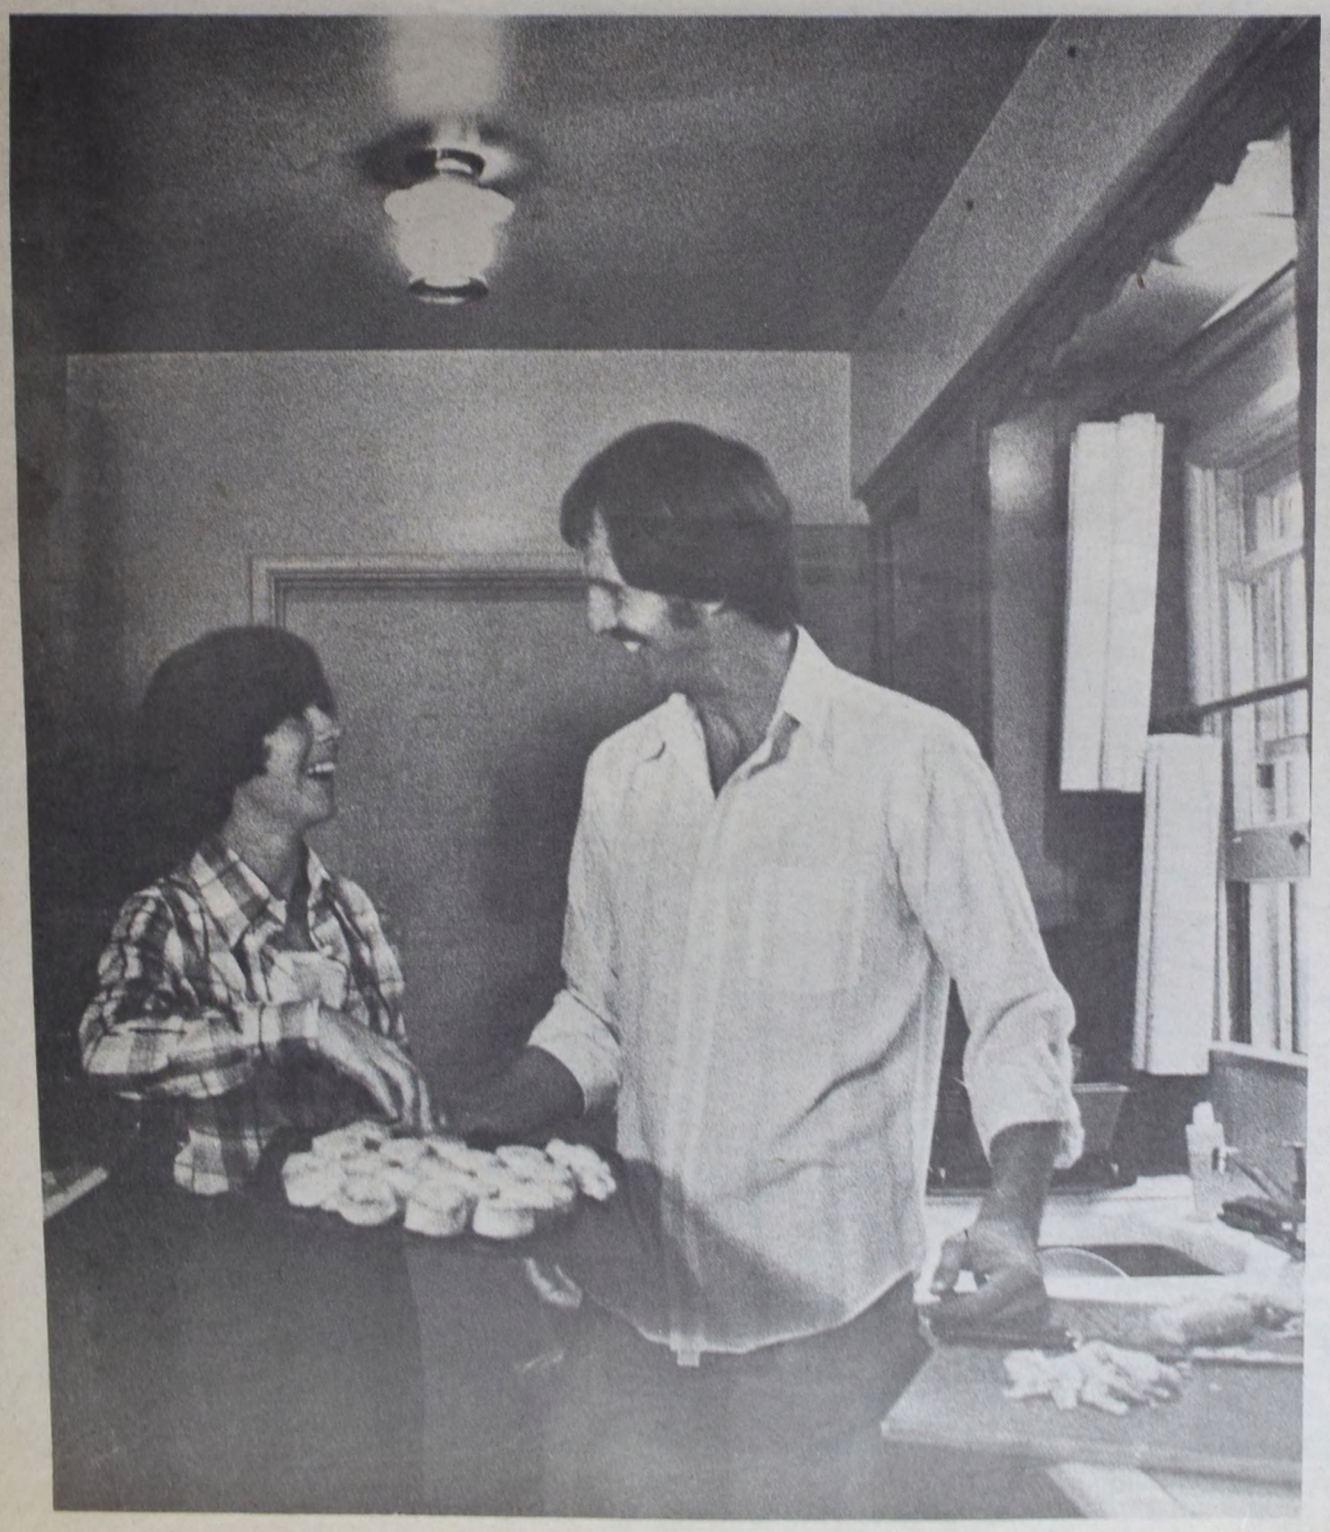

While once dirt roads did not allow very rapid travelling in Hollywood, today you can make it from Hollywood to downtown Los Angeles in one direction, or Hollywood to the beach in the other, in a matter of minutes. Hollywood and Los Angeles, in addition to boasting the largest number of swimming pools per capita in the world, has the best freeway system anywhere. It's a big help to Scientologists, who are always on the go.

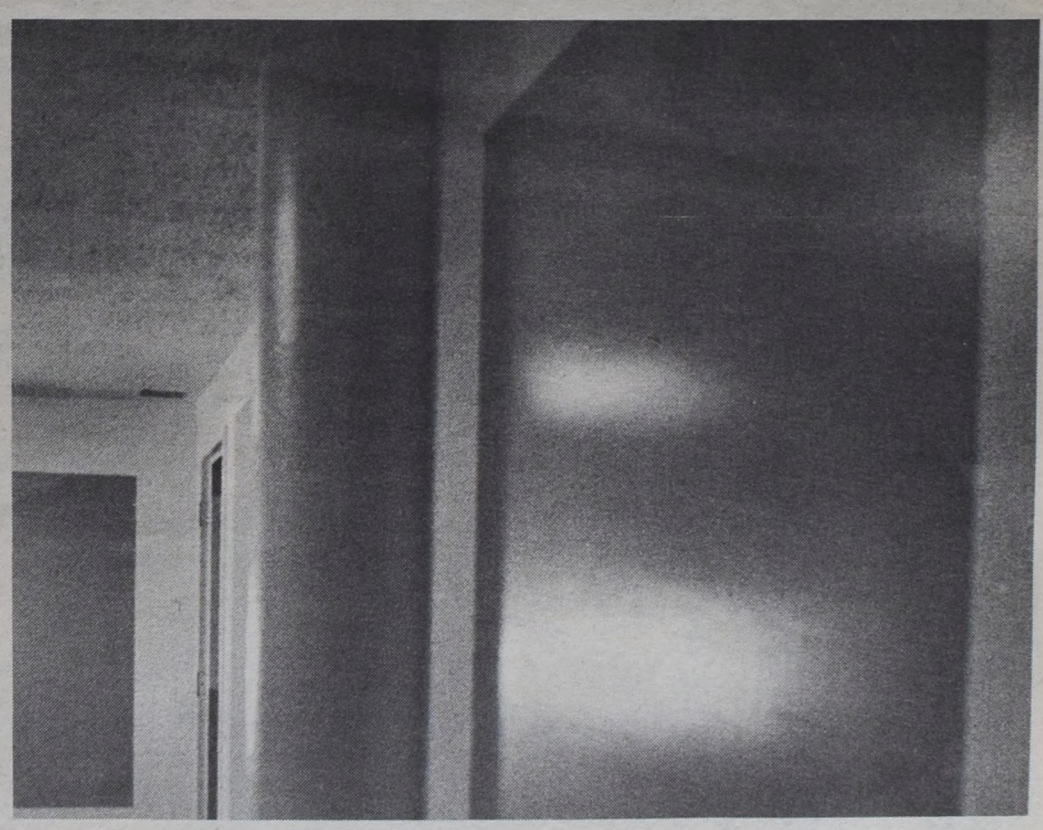

Probably most important of all, where once happiness and satisfying relationships happened only to celluloid heroes and heroines, with the application of Scientology, they happen here to real men and women every day.

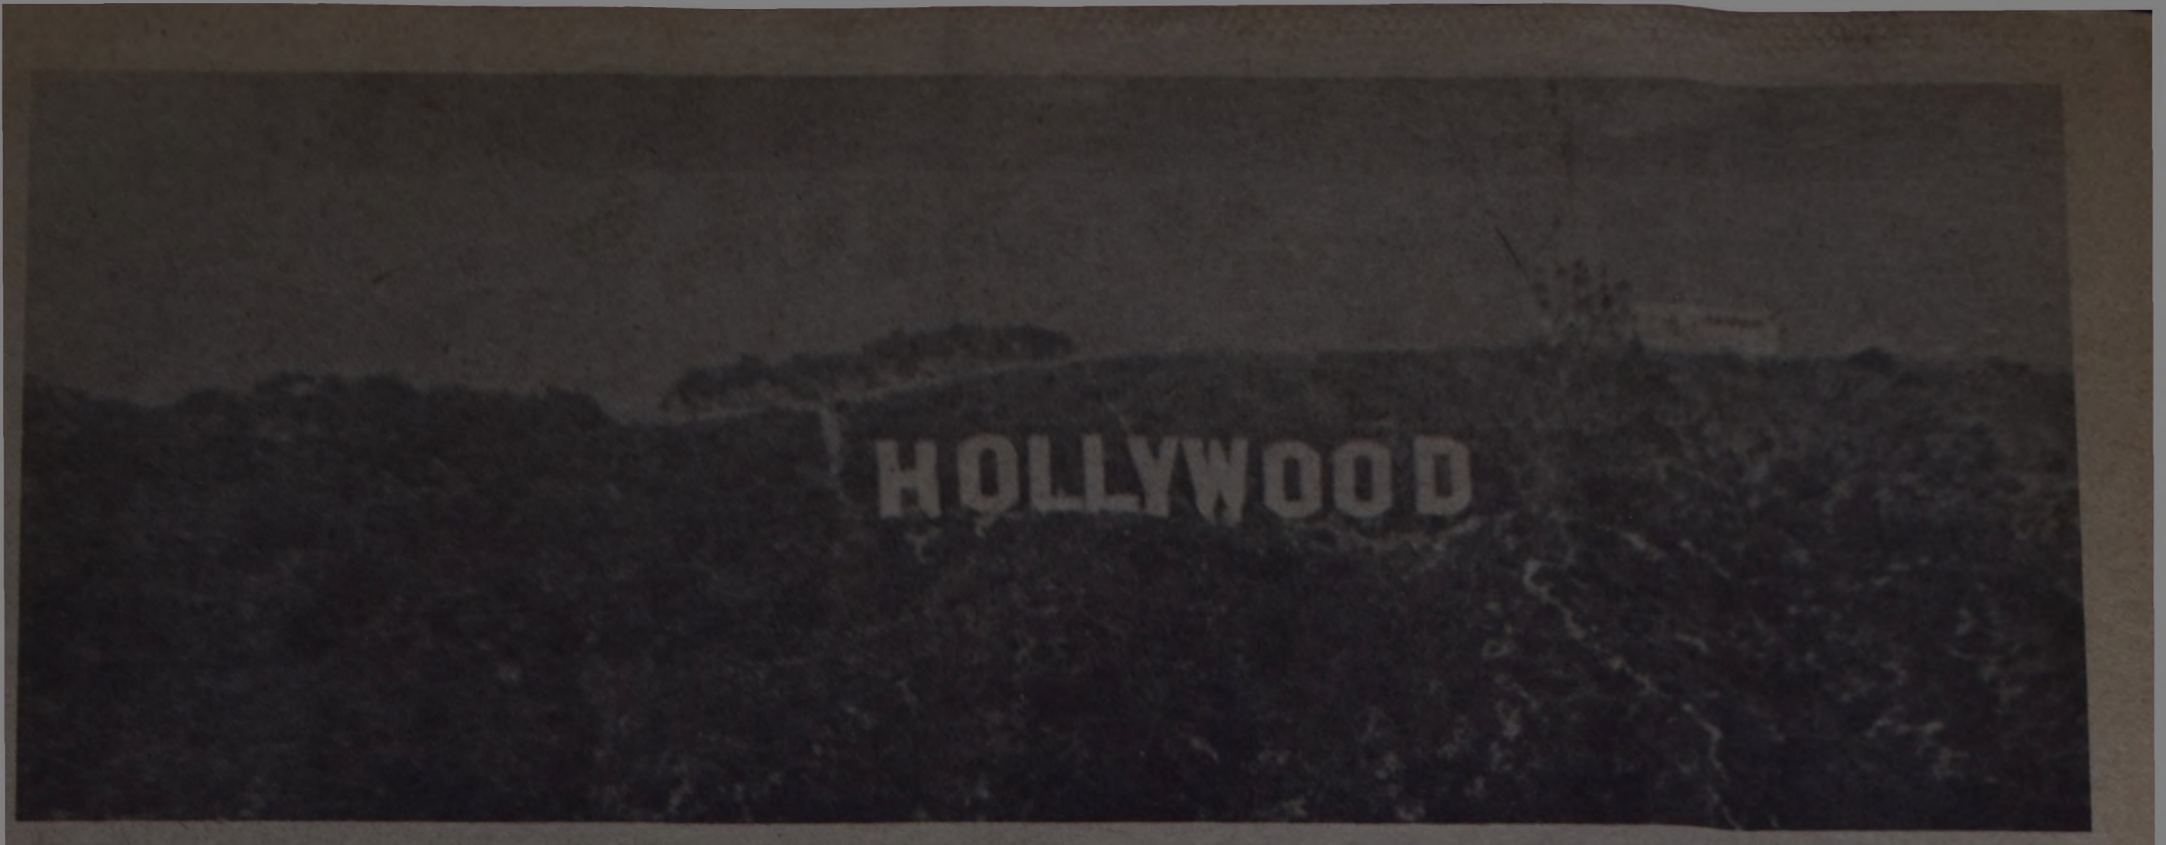

In closing, here are a few sneak previews of the new Scientology complex in Hollywood which is now undergoing extensive renovation and redecorating. The Los Angeles Class IV Church, the American Saint Hill Organization, the Publications Organization, and the Advanced Organization are some of the Scientology units which will be expanding into this space. Here they will be able to deliver better service to the ever-increasing number of Scientologists who are applying L. Ron Hubbard's technology to create the second Golden Age of Hollywood.

"Others talk about a better world. We are making one."

L. Ron Hubbard.

SCHOLARSHIPS for AUDITORS

"Auditors have since the first session of Scientology been the only individuals on this planet, in this Universe capable of freeing man.

An Auditor is one who has been trained in the technology of Scientology. An Auditor applies standard technology to preclears.

At times some will forget or choose to ignore the fact that the Auditor is not just another fellow or a guy who works in Scientology. An Auditor is a highly trained specialist, no matter what level of Auditor. He or she is the only one who can give man the truth, that man knows.

An Auditor is to be respected. An Auditor is very important in Clearing this planet, and this Universe. It's a big job and the Auditor will do it. All Auditors are appreciated."

L. Ron Hubbard

Wherever auditors have gone in society, RESULTS have followed.

Increasingly, it is to the Scientology or Dianetic auditor that the public is turning when in need of help. Many, many more auditors are needed to go around for the millions of individuals in your own city or state. Auditors will be in fierce demand for a long, long time to come. THIS is the calling of the future!

To help auditors advance their training more rapidly, SCHOLARSHIPS are now being awarded to auditors and those who desire to become auditors. YOU may qualify. Find out NOW! Contact the Regiatrar at ASHO, the home of professional auditor training for the United States and Canada.

THE ADVENTURE of TRAINING

From the moment you begin to understand what makes people tick to the day you realize with certainty you can DO something to help them, training is an adventure all the way. It is the greatest adventure there is – the discovery of an understanding of human nature and of yourself that only an auditor has.

What IS an auditor and what does he do?

"Scientology processing is done on the principle of making an individual look at his own existence, and improve his ability to confront what he is and where he is. An auditor is the person trained in the technology and whose job it is to ask the person to look, and get him to do so. The word auditor is used because it means one who listens, and a Scientology auditor does listen." (Scientology 0-8 by L. Ron Hubbard).

The day you watch someone become more himself before your very eyes as you apply the technology of Scientology will convince you that the adventure of helping others achieve self discovery is the greatest adventure there is. It is literally the step by step creation of Man's first sane civilization based on personal dignity and respect – building block by building block, one individual at a time.

Through training, the exact tools you will need to take part in the great adventure are put into your hands.

As you learn about the potential of a being, you will learn about your own potential. As you learn how that potential becomes trapped and suppressed, you will come to understand far better your own route to greater freedom and ability.

AUDITORS are the individuals who will make the difference. Without them, our civilization will continue on its current course. With them, a new day may yet dawn for Man.

STEP BY STEP TRAINING

Auditor training starts at your nearest Scientology organization. It is set up in a series of levels, each one taking you to a higher level of ability and understanding.

DIANETIC training is available at all Scientology Churches and Missions. Basic SCIENTOLOGY auditor training, which enables you to improve communication, increase problem-solving ability, bring relief from the burdens of worry and upsets, and remove the barriers to learning new things, is available at Churches of Scientology listed on the back of this issue.

The FULL briefing on Scientology, its technology and the application of it is given on L. Ron Hubbard's Saint Hill Special Briefing Course, offered at the American Saint Hill Organization in Los Angeles.

Advanced professional auditor training is also available at ASHO.

GETTING CLEAR

As you train, you receive auditing from your fellow auditors to forward your own progress toward the state of Clear. You also receive auditing in the Hubbard Guidance Center of your organization at professional rates (50%).

"There are 2 or 3 billion preclears out there and only a few of us auditors. Have a heart and also lend a hand. Furthermore, how do you know what good auditing is unless you're trained?"
– L. Ron Hubbard

Start on the training adventure today. Call or write the Registrar at your nearest Church of Scientology and tell her you want to become an auditor!

Clearing frees you to follow your own basic purposes. You become the CAUSE of events in your own life.

Clearing Course donation is $1303.11.

For information on how to take the Training Route to Clear, write Registrar, Church of Scientology of California, ASHO, 2723 West Temple, Los Angeles, California 90026 (213-380-0710).
