The Road to Perfection

by L. Ron Hubbard

In January of 1963, I had a "gamble on time" going. The time gamble was: could I complete the job before the roof fell in? I knew I could complete the job but could I do it before the roof fell in?

There were many factors involved in this. First, exactly what did one have to do to make an OT? Then, exactly what did one have to do to get the materials in a communicable form? And then, what did one have to do to communicate the materials so that they could be understood and used? These were the immediate problems which we faced, and I think you'll agree that this was a hat-full of problems!

At the same time, it was necessary to form a bridge from the individual "on the street" on through to reaching distance of these materials. That had to be solved, too, and oddly enough, that was the more difficult problem.

A progress of wins

Exactly how does one get somebody up to reaching-distance of these materials? It's a steep mountain; a steep, very exacting Mont Blanc .

If you've ever noticed, walking in foothills, every time you reach the crest of one hill, you see a bigger hill. Well, in this particular case, when a person scales the last hill, he see Mont Blanc. Now he's got to scale that!

These little foot hills become progressively bigger as an individual walks along. And unless he's walked securely up to the crest of the hill, he'll be so discouraged when he sees the next hill that he'll quit. So in other words, it's a progress of wins.

You have to have materials which cause the individual to walk forward with wins.

What is a win? A win is, in essence, when an individual accomplishes something that he wanted to accomplish. And a lose is when he fails to accomplish something that he wanted to accomplish.

You have to repair a man's ability to win. That's a brand new thought isn't it? You may not realize that the preclear you get in off the street may be unable to win at anything. You're trying to give him a win, but he can't win at anything. He could inherit a million dollars and he still wouldn't have a win, because he "can't win".

Therefore, when we talk about mounting these little foothills, one by one, until

we get to the mountain, we are actually dealing with a progress or gradient of wins.

The early steps

Taking a preclear up the lower levels is sort of like trying to walk up the easiest slopes.

Actually, it is a much more difficult job to get somebody from Level 0 to Level V than it is to get him from Level V all the way through.

Taking a preclear up the lower levels is sort of like trying to walk up the easiest slope with some girl, let us say, who has French spike heels, made out of the type of material than just rips to pieces if you get a spot of water on it, and she can't walk very well anyway, and she's wearing one of those French skirts that permits a stride of a sixteenth of an inch, and she's held together with glue and sticky plaster (the makeup is on), and if the slightest drift of wind came by, it would mess up her hair. Trying to get this girl over a little bit of rough terrain would be like your first steps in auditing with a preclear.

Now, when you're taking this person from Grade V up through Grade VI, you're dealing with an experienced mountaineer in spiked boots, who is perfectly decent with a rope and alpen-stock . And you'll find, actually, that it's much safer to climb Mont Blanc with him than it was to walk up this gentle slope with this girl!

Those early wins, they are the problem. How do we get people from the street, over the foothills, at least to the base of Mont Blanc?

Too much truth

True self-confidence depends on the individual's ability to conceive the truth of any situation.

That is the true and complete answer to self-confidence, serenity, poise, any of these things, which add up, simply, to peace of mind. Peace of mind doesn't mean an inactive frame of mind, you know. It just means that you're calm about it. Knowing the truth of the existing situation is really the only thing which supports self-confidence. Recognition of the truth in any existing situation alone has the power to as-is that situation.

But very often, one is confronted, without a gradient scale, with so much truth that one cannot assimilate it or as-is it, and then one gets swamped with it.

Take the fellow who has always had an unhappy marriage, and who has often wondered why. Only finding the truth about the marriage could bring a calm frame of mind about, right?

But let's take this fellow, with all of his normal aberrations and upsets and frailties and weaknesses, and suddenly unload on him, in one and a half seconds, the reason why his marriage has been such a failure: his wife has been unfaithful to him for ten years! Well, that's more truth then he can as-is, and he cracks up. So this actually discourages a person from the recogniation of truth.

So what is it, really, that brings an individual away from recognizing truth and makes him less clear-sighted? It's lack of gradient, that's all. It isn't done on a gradient scale, one step at a time.

ARC

How do you protect an individual, confronting truth and knowledge, from this exact occurence?

Well, there is another factor which is involved in truth. I know it sounds strange that something else should be involved in truth, but there is another factor: Reality. we could define reality as the ability to assimilate truth.

And when we talk about assimilation, we come to another point: assimilation is dependent upon cause-distance-effect, or communication.

And then there's such a thing as an even balance of mind while one is assimilating, and we call that affinity.

So you actually have the factors of Affinity, Reality and Communication bound up in this thing called truth. Truth is truth, but truth which has no ARC hooked up to it is denied the individual and can wrong him or harm him.

Truth must go hand in glove with understanding.

All the truth in the world can sit in the middle of a park for everybody to gaze at and if there is no potential of understanding of any kind whatsoever, it will not be truth to anyone.

Attainable truths

The Transcendentalists said that "there are things that transcend your ability to understand – that you will never understand – that nobody will ever understand." This was Kant's untenable bailiwick : that certain things were "knowable" and other things were "unknowable" – they would never possibly be known by anybody, anyplace.

Fortunately, there are no such things as "unattainable truths". All truths are attainable. We can just reverse transcendentalism and say, "all truths are attainable."

The Route to Truth

There have been many philosophers in many ages concerned with the route to truth. How does one approach truth?

That's an interesting question, when you don't know what truth is. It's like saying, "How do you get to Memphis?" without knowing that there is any town called Memphis or even that there are towns.

Studying the route to truth, then, with nobody around who has a final concept of what the truth is, is an idiotic activity.

Kant "solved" it by saying that you could never know what truth is. That was a good solution – it kept a lot of speculation from occuring. It was a slave-master's operation to prevent anybody from ever reaching anything.

We happen to be in an optimum position with regard to this thing. We can demonstrate that the individual is not a body. We know that certain phenomena exist. So we know the truth we're trying to attain.

Everybody has, to a greater or lesser degree, some sympathetic harmonic with that truth. They know these things are true at some level – even the level of "feel".

What is their reaction to that truth? It all depends on how much truth they can assimilate; how much reality they have on this truth.

The journey back

So, what is truth? Well, we know that it's not a city in the sky nor a spot on a road map. We know that it lives right where the preclear is sitting. We know we're continuously in contact with it. So the route to truth is not really a journey across space and time, but a journey of undoing the lies by which the individual has road-marked himself down.

Various things have marked this fellow's road downwards. We have to find out what mile-marked the downhill road, what put him down to the next lower curve every time. And all we have to do to recover the individual and his ability is undo these mile-marked turns for the worse.

So we are travelling a road that has been travelled, but travelling it backwards. The Road, the Way, the Tao, whatever you want to call this thing, we know what it is. It is the road that the individual has followed from a degree of perfection and beingness on down to a disintegration, forgettingness, bluntingness, until he's in the state you find him in the preclear's chair.

He has travelled that road. All the auditor has to do is walk him back that road. It's already there. It's all mile-marked. The auditor just has to get him to the point where he started to take that road downward, in order to recover the individual and his potential, which we know existed to begin with.

So, what is truth? Seen from the viewpoint of an auditor, it's what actually happened. It's the situation which actually exists at any given moment in the state of beingness of an individual. That's truth.

The Road to Perfection

So don't say that truth is an ultimate that we are seeking to attain. Truth is that which exists. Instead of talking about the Road to Truth, we might better call it the Road to perfection.

We know where we are going. We know how to get there, what processes we have to go through, what disciplines we have to master.

But there is one more point to be mastered, and that is an estimation of the individual's ability to conceive of truth.

Here sits the greengrocer. You tell him something about Scientology. You might be using the word Scientology, but you are talking to him about the Road to Perfection. You are talking to him about the composition of himself: who is he? What does he consist of? What potentials could he have? What potentials has he been robbed of – or robbed himself of? You may be using the word Scientology, but these are the things which you have embarked upon to discuss.

And the unanswered question is, "what can he recognize?"

Yes, you could throw all the truth down his throat and he might, suddenly, in starry-eyed startlement, go about half off his hinges: "What do you know!!!!"

If you were to say to him, "Try not to be three feet back of your head," and he was suddenly three feet back of his head, looking at his body – there's an awful lot of truth! "I'm me, and it's it!"

But then, two hours later, "What exteriorization? I wasn't exteriorized. Well, possibly something happened, but I don't know . . . " He could see it, but he couldn't have it. So you can show people things they can't have. And that's how you generate an unreality. You show people truth which they are then unable to achieve, attain or accept.

Provide the road

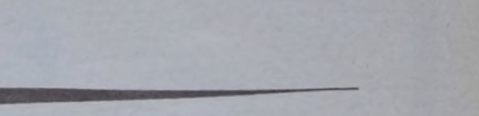

Our materials are very prone to lay out a great deal of truth in front of people. Well, there's no reason not to do so. By all means, lay out the truth. But provide the road.

And the road is provided by having levels of acceptable truths or realities that an individual can attain. Attainable realities.

In view of the fact that you can't start running him up the side of Mont Blanc like a mountain goat, in the next ten minutes, it requires that you establish and rehabilitate his ability to win in some fashion, and then increase it to eventually achieve the point where he can have truth.

It does not matter what you tell people. It does not matter what you show people. It does not matter to what degree you, momentarily or temporarily, overwhelm a public. The final point is whether or not you provide for them a gradient scale of acceptable wins and acceptable realities by which they can progress to a higher state and a better understanding.

And if you can do that, you'll succeed.

Ron says, "At Saint Hills our responsibility is to train auditors."

What I have learned is that cases do not progress beyond their Scientology education level. This has made a difference. A case hangs right at the point to which it has been educated in Scientology. Processing gains are parallel to education gains and the two balance, 50% of a case gain is from processing, 50% from training.

The best things a person can do are to (1) get trained and (2) get Cleared. Auditors will always be senior to Clears. Always."

NEWS FROM ARC

Latest News From Ron

The following data has just been received from Ron. An HCOB will be issued on this soon.

"There is a misprint in E-Meter Drill Number 5 in The Book of E-Meter Drills, page 19, Number 4: 'Set the Sensitivity Knob at 1 on the sensitivity dial.' This is an incomplete sentence and was probably omitted during the printing. One was supposed to set the Sensitivity Knob at 1 and then move it forward to 2, 3, 4 and note the sensitivity in every case. The rest of the instructions were omitted. This would leave an auditor thinking that you left the sensitivity setting at 1 and this is exactly what you have been encountering. This made a can squeeze an unnecessary piece of nonsense. I will issue an HCOB correcting it. The HCOB will also state the exact proper method of holding the cans, preventing the PC from laying a finger on the can which wasn't on it during the squeeze and other such actions.

"Number 6 is also missing a line: 'each time the sensitivity knob is increased.'

"Love, Ron"

New Era Dianetics Life Saving Miracles are a Reality !

In September of 1978, NED Auditor Tom Davis' father suffered a heart attack. Tom quickly jumped into action and taught his mother to do assists from the Volunteer Minister's Handbook. Tom's father, George received three assists a day until he was able to return home. Once home Tom took his father into session and ran the incident out in 6 hours with New Era Dianetics!

In George's own words; "The doctor ordered an examination to be done to analyze the heart damage. The weekend before I had a Dianetic assist to run the illness. It was light, smooth and short. The action gave me much more certainty with processing.

"The test was performed on October 4, 1978 and the results were the only thing they could be . . . everything was healing well and no surgery would be needed. Later the doctor told us that he fully expected to have to operate on the heart. "My thanks to the Mission for being here in Atlanta. And thanks to L. Ron Hubbard for giving us New Era Dianetics — it's dynamite!"

Tom had a phenomenal success with using New Era Dianetics, "The Dianetic assist I recently completed on my father did exactly what it was suppose to do; uproot that reason that an illness would continue. I'm very pleased to have been able to help someone with New Era Dianetics who has been of such help to me."

George Davis is now enrolled on the New Era Dianetics Course at the Atlanta, Georgia Mission, along with many other students getting the training needed so they too can become "miracle makers"!

UND THE WORLD

YOUR CHALLENGE:

The government has been trying to wipe out Scientology and your right to practice Scientology.

They've done this by raiding the Scientology organizations in DC and Los Angeles in 1977, and are now charging less than a dozen Scientologists with the "crime" of attempting to protect and preserve their religion.

A few suppressive persons in government wanted this court battle to cost Scientology so much money that the Church would have to stop delivering services, and eventually die off with the technology lost forever.

What these few suppressive people failed to realize was that Scientologists would never allow that to happen.

A few dedicated people formed the Religious Freedom Defense Committee* and told the officials of Scientology to forget about having to pay for the court costs.

The Religious Freedom Defense Committee (RFDC) promised to raise the needed funds from individual Scientologists and from others who are dedicated to religious freedom and human rights.

One of the ways we have been doing this is through the raffling off of Scientology services.

Another way has been through straight donations from many Scientologists. In November and December 1978 we asked the readers of the Auditor to help us raise one million dollars by Christmas. Well, we didn't make it, but the response was good. Those of you who didn't contribute probably didn't know the main facts given above.

We know that the readers of the Auditor can help us raise one million dollars because we know (which the government failed to realize) that Scientologists:

A. Would never let Scientology be wiped out.

B. Value their many personal wins and gains from Scientology technology, and expect to achieve more in the future.

C. They are a very determined people who won't stand for injustice towards their fellow man or to their group.

We know that one real way for each of you to help is to assist us in raising funds.

Overall we need more than a million dollars, probably more than three million dollars, to pay for all the extremely expensive legal fees. We simply have the one million dollar goal for the combined readers of the Auditor.

Each of you should send in a contribution of $20 or more. If you do that, we'll make the one million dollar goal.

If you've already contributed, make sure your close friends and relatives, who read the Auditor, have donated their $20 or more.

We will be keeping you posted each month to show you the overall progress towards, and finally reaching, our goal.

If each person reading this contributes we'll make it. There's no way we can allow ourselves not to make it.

Send your donations to:

Focus On Success

Bridge Traveling at ASHO Day!

I finally got some reality on getting case gain from auditing. I am a New Era Dianetics auditor and have really been waiting to get started on some processing. The objectives were great. I felt I knew what to expect before I started them, but I sure didn't. It was much more than I expected. I can really see why Ron has two sides to the Bridge.

Kevin Kamenzind

My Class VI Internship was everything I'd expected – ranging from a lot of work to throughly successful.

The video tape system is a great tool for making smooth, flubless auditors. It gives the viewpoint of what the PC is really receiving in his session and allows the auditor himself to see his weak points, and get them handled. Much, much thanks to my supervisors, the case supervisors, the Dir of P, DTS, and my fellow interns!

Bob Anderson

I have just finished being audited on New Era Dianetics and I have never felt so consistently uptone in all my life!!! If you haven't as yet done New Era Dianetics, DO IT!! Until you do, you just don't know what you're missing. Validations to Ron, for putting it here to deliver, and to Elaine Savitsky for delivering it with unbelievable ARC and total validation of beingness.

Scotty Grover

While being on lines at ASHO I have become a new person – the person I always wanted to be. I can not thank you ASHO enough for the excellent service always promised and always delivered.

Sally Tate

ASHO Day, the Top Training Org of the Planet. It is here that hundreds of students win daily on the Saint Hill Special Briefing Course.

It was a real joy to go thru basic Dianetic "old" bulletins like the time track bulletins. It's been 8 years since I did HSDC,and since then I did the SHSBC and went OT. Going back over those bulletins from my first course and having them be so crystal clear and knowing the full background was a real EP for me on Dianetics. And delight No. 2 actually most valuable all those new HCOBs by LRH. This course is straight from Source (sounds like a slogan) which of course makes questions minimal. And auditing a green person; what a revitalization of my Dissem purposes. No more worrying about saying "the right thing", just audit them! I'm very excited with all the breakthroughs of which New Era Dianetics is one.

Thank you all.

Gail Peterson

I have regained knowingness of the real sources of power and am now able to have power. I'm me! It's so simple and such fun. Thanks Ron Dennis and staff of ASHO. Most of all thanks Ron for another wonderful gift.

Gail Hill

Great, really great course. My biggest success on this New Era Dianetics Course was auditing a stranger on Dianetics. I just walked up to a young L.A. City College student, gave her a very good reality on what I wanted to do, got her full agreement and ran an incident, right there on the lawn at the college. She was very happy and wrote a success story that was really heart warming – thanks LRH – once again you gave me the knowledge to expand my and other people's universes.

Diane Willett

The Class VI internship was an amazing experience. It gave me in life and auditing what I've always strived for – confidence, competence, ability and finesse. I now am a great auditor, I can handle any case with ease and proficiency. This internship has also given me those things in life in general. I've achieved a new level of responsibility and ability to get things done.

Kevin Good

The Saint Hill Special Briefing Course, it is here, at ASHO Day, where the top auditors on the planet are made. They are trained to high Saint Hill standards.

I hope everyone will learn the data on the New Era Dianetics Course. New Era Dianetics gives you the skills to take anyone even a person who's never heard of Scientology before, and put them right into session – with the result of fantastic wins. I hope Scientologists will expand in the area of dissemination and using the technology – the New Era Dianetics Technology!

Mary Jo Slatkin

Class VI, in fact the whole Briefing Course cycle was the most amazing thing I've ever done this lifetime. It was also the most fun thing I've ever done I loved it, the data that is now at my fingertips is a beautiful tool and it makes me feel more confident as an auditor than I've ever felt before. The data is amazing, so thanks agains to LRH for giving us this amazing data.

Marty Gutman

There have been quite a few changes in my life since completing Power. At first they weren't too obvious to me, because it was all so natural; I knew that this was much more the way things were meant to be. Life is much more of an even flow these days and when I do have an occasional set-back in something I'm doing, it doesn't upset me. I just step back from it, look it over – then go about setting it right. I have learned what a powerful tool intention is, as well as how to make it work for me. I find myself almost totally without doubts, fears or reservations in my life. I know now that I can change my lifestyle, my job, my place of residence (across the country or across the planet) and be happy and successful. I look for new challenges but changes in a way I never could before, not because I did not know they were there but because I didn't realize how easily I could face them and win.

Barbara Dotson

If I had to put my successes, as a result of Power, down in two wins it would be increases self determinism and the ability to maintain a position in space. Now I can stand in the midst of confusion and not only maintain my sanity and space but alter the confusion to my own determinism needless to say, that puts me in a very comfortable source position! Being in college where confusions and misunderstood words run rampant, both these abilities are necessary for me to be causative and keep a fun game of life going!

I knew it would return to me with any joy it found.

Ebulliently, with comet speed, it entered someone's eye.
It galloped through their universe and tickled them alive.

So potent was this simple imp,
that once it did its deed,
more smiles went sailing from the face
it journeyed to to breed!

I never missed my vagabond
once I set it free, for daily from the lands it reached came smiles to visit me.
