MISCELLANEA: (Photographing the Unseen):

Concerning the photography of theAkashic records: Something very similar to this, if not precisely the same thing, has been definitely accomplished. A seed can be photographed in its potential forms - i.e, as shoot and rootlet, plant and blossom which it will become and now is, potentially. And with the proper 'tuning' of the camera, a leaf of the grown plant can be made to yield a photo-image of its stage as seed or bulb.

So startling are these facts, and so complicated their applications, that it is almost impossible to say anything about them which will be both brief and intelligible. Perhaps it will be better for me to quote from a letter received from the Head of the English laboratories where this work has been in progress(for the last ten years).

"It is not generally known and I should like to point out that we believe the photographs obtained from our Cosmic Camera to be the dense etheric counterparts of the 'material' forms. The photographs of organs and diseases are obtained by using the patient's blood or sputum specimen and applying a process of evocation that is fully scientific and repeatable. This materializes the etheric force field long enough for it to record on a photographic emulsion. We have taken over 7,000 photographs in the past four years, and have perfected the process sufficiently to invite investigation.

"It is possible to repeat these phenomena using the person's Kodak photo - graph instead of the blood or sputum specimen. If funds wefe made available to us I believe we could do some fruitful research with the 'flying saucer' photographs.

"An interesting aspect of our work is photographing the etheric force fields predirecting the growth of a plant. This is found by placing the seed of the plant in the apparatus and evoking the various radiations associated with the life cycle of the seed. The enclosed photographs ... (illustrate the point) . . ."

Equally astonishing is the mutual verification of findings of English and American research (crop benefaction and insect pest control). The same basic concepts have been established, by experimental means. This is the first lusty cry of the incredible science of the future - and not all the greed and organized iniquity of our time shall keep this infant long cradled. . . For other facts and comments, see our article called TOMORROW AND TOMORROW in the next issue of Round Robin (Oct. 1) . . . In matters as important as this, we hope readers of both publications will not be displeased by some partial repetition. Meanwhile, reread the letter quoted above and reflect on the application of these discoveries in our modern world. You will soon begin to discover for yourselves why such implications are "top secret - classified" - and why our Robin is somewhat less than garrulous.

MOONS OF MARS: Partly becauseof their metallic appearance, it has been surmised by some that the martian moons are artificial and Martian-made. The astronomer Natalli declares that they natural and not artificial, but still are almost wholly of metallic composition, without earth or stone. He adds that moons are seldom 'thrown off' from any parent body; sometimes this will happen with an exploding star; but the normal process is the formation of a vortex in the ethers and in the vast accumulations of 'space dust', space debris. Such formations take place 'at the time they are needed', and our own moon, according to Natalli, was not originally a part of the earth nor of any terrestrial ejecta.

REACHING THE PLANETS: According to the Control Yada di Shi'ite, man will never reach any of the planets while in his normal physical-chemical body - since his mind-and-body could not survive the conditions of the journey. But for a few at least, teleportation may sometime be possible.

MISCELLANEOUS:

The Riverside Enterprise of August 4, '55, prints a picture of seven airmen of the March Air Force Base - three of whom are struggling to hold back and recover a burrowing piece of garden hose. The water was left running thru the hose, the nozzle went under ground, followed by about five feet of length. Lt. A.R. Anderson and his squad went in for a tug-of-war, but "last reports indicated a stand off." This adds to a series of some 4 or 5 such incidents lately reported in the press. "Suction-holes" are said to be common in some soils, but it seems remarkable that these should appear here and there, for the first time, without other changes in conditions etc. (Assoc.Rev. Verne Cameron)

Riverside Enterprise, August 30, '55. The issue prints a lengthy item entitled:

"Seen Only by Children: Squadron of Flying Saucers Causes Neighborhood Riot." "A squadron of red, blue, orange and silver flying saucers landed here yesterday, according to a story attested to by a dozen Casa Blanca youngsters.". .' The youngsters, most of them residents of Sonora Pl.,range in ages from 14 to three or four. The 'saucers' were seen about 3:15 p.m., Aug. 28. When the reporter visited the spot the entire street was in an uproar and everyone tried to tell his story at the same time. Mrs Mattie Johnson, 2894 Sonora Pl., said that the youngsters who had been playing along the street suddenly broke into shouts, screams, yells and floods of tears as the first 'saucer' landed in a nearby field.

Nearly two hours after the "little men with four arms and four legs". arrived, one of the little boys was still crying real big tears. Blanche Cameron, 13, said that many of the children saw the objects at the same time... The children were in agreement in saying that the objects were round like basket balls and of different colors. They asserted that flashing lights were directed at them, and also that there were "space ships as big as three houses". . .

(Of course no critical evaluation of this story is possible; it does not take General Spaetz- before your eyes - lately in the news again - or an intellectual fraud like Prof. Menzell to heap up contradictions and ridicule over tales by hysterical children. Any Thomas-Richard-Harold can do that much off-hand. But that kind of brush-off is incredibly stupid to anyone who takes into account the world-wide rash of similar "incredible" and "nonsensical" reports. We turn to --

"Family Claims Visit by Green Space Men" (Los Angeles Times of Aug. 23, '55): 'A farm family living near Hopkinsville, Ky., reported to county and State Police, that they were up all night fending off the little men which glowed with an inner illumination while climbing trees and crawling about the roof of the home.. . A 'space ship' landed in a nearby field and a little green man approached the house. He was about three feet tall, with eyes like saucers and set about six inches apart, and with hands like claws and glowing all over. He retreated when the Suttons fired a shot gun, but soon returned and the Suttons fired again. He fell down from the blast and then ran off. Later more of the green men returned and climbed about the trees and onto the roof. . . The deputy sheriff and two State troopers failed to find any clues ... They said there definitely was no drinking at the Sutton home last night.'

For those whose nerves are steady we recommend ORBIT, published by L.H. Stringfield. 7017 Britton Ave.,Cinn. 27, Ohio. His Sept. 2 issue includes the words "Interplanetary War" in the front page headline. It has been sapiently said: news of public interest is suppressed in the public interest. We do not presume to advise editor Stringfield, but observe his fortunes with interest, wish him well, and (under his blanket permission) quote on the next page some very jittery 'stuff'. ORBIT is $3.00 a year; .25 ea. for all back copies.

En Passant, the well-known author and scholar H.T. WILKINS (England) has long been pointing out various alarming facts quite within the orbit of editor String - field's acceptances also.

THE LITTLE GREEN MEN. (Summarized from ORBIT of Sept.2, 1955)

Amid jeers and chuckles here are a few shocking facts. We advise our readers to stop laughing. We have received numerous reports of 'saucer' landings and little men from points of UFO concentration ... incidents in Venezuela, Brazil, and Argentina, and from new evidence those occurring/France and Italy in 1954. Altho the news wires have hushed the stories emanating from the USA, we know of several incidents where the facts corroborate each other. In all known instances the witnesses, unfortunately, have been dubbed as lunatics .. especially where prominent people are involved. . .

..... The facts show that the fringe areas of Cincinnati have been a repeated site for landings and the appearance of the little green men. The officials are aware of this new menace, and we know that more than a handful of Cincinnatians have become more than passively alarmed.

Before the Hopkinsville "little green men" story broke over the nation, CRIFO now ORBIT had silently gathered some unpublishable facts concerning such encounters near Cincinnati. It is our policy not to publish names in such connections but we wish to cite a case involving a prominent business man living in Loveland. Several weeks ago this person saw four "strange little men about 3 ft. tall under a certain bridge. He reported the bizarre affair and we understand that an armed guard was placed there. A similar event supposedly had taken place near Batavia east of Cincinnati.

The Hopkinsville incident broke after these events and no two parties knew each other. But if that case is not sufficient evidence of verdi sapiens extra - terrestrialis being now amongst us on earth, we have still another case that erases any doubt. We cannot even hint at the identity of these people, but we can say that it involves three persons holding crucial positions in the city. The encounter terrified these people and broke up their planned vacation. This event took place near Indianapolis in July 1954.

In the following we have checked each person involved and gotten their personal account. One case occurred near Stockton, Ga., on July 2, 1955 .. terrified Mrs. Margaret Symmond who was driving to Florida. The hour was 3:30 a.m.and her husband was asleep in the back seat. Suddenly Mrs. S. jerked the car away to the side of the road, almost careening. She screamed, awakening her husband. To CRIFO Mrs S. explains that she saw four little men glowing green. She said their eyes were huge and piercing, their faces dark. They wore strange-looking garments capes and were carrying a rod that looked metallic in the reflection of the car lights. "They did not move at first, but as the car approached one moved one step backwards. They looked hideous"... Mr. Symmonds admits that his wife was terrified by something and that he was awakened by the car spinning to the side of the road.

The most recent little-men episode occurred near Greenhills, Aug.25, the same evening when the huge object was seen hovering over Fernald atomic plant. Four teenagers told of their experience with a little green man standing by some bushes. The car lights shone directly on the creature. He was 3-4 ft. tall, had large bright "yellow" eyes, a dark face, and a sort of shimmering greenish body. The creature wore an odd garment and they saw a "claw-like hand". The biped took three steps toward the car, but no one waited to see what would happen. . . Without hesitation they informed the police but the latter found nothing. The driver, Bill Wallace,was shaking when he came home and locked all the doors - according to his mother. One of the girls in the group became hysterical. '

NOTE:

One does not note any overt and aggressive act by the green men, but they cause fear and shock, which create a very dangerous tension. Information about these beings is greatly needed - at once.

NUCLEAR FALL-OUT REPORT: PART 3, con.
-by BSR Associate T.V.

Nerve gas is so deadly that a single droplet in the eye of a person can kill him, a military publication disclosed. This new clue to the potency of the SILENT, UNSEEN, MASS-DESTRUCTION WEAPON is contained in a Chemical Warfare Service handbook. The booklet outlines first aid treatment for laboratory workers who might accidently become exposed to the material, which can have the form of either a gas or a liquid.

Nerve or "G" gas now is in the chemical warfare arsenals of the United States and other military powers. It could kill more people more swiftly than the heaviest dose of radioactivity from a nuclear bomb.

The Chemical Warfare Service, in an earlier, general discussion of the weapon, said nerve gas is "designed to destroy life with suddenness". The "G" gas is being produced at the Rocky Mountain arsenal of the Army near Denver.

The first-aid hand-book was prepared at the laboratories of the Army Chemical Center, Edgewood Arsenal, Md. It said: "Without treatment even a small droplet of agent in the eye may represent a fatal dose."

Nerve gases, of which there are several types, are a group of organic esters of phosphoric acid derivatives, virtually colorless and odorless. The hand-book gives a time-table for death from nerve gas when a man inhales a heavy dose of the vapor. In five to fifteen minutes the circulatory system would collapse, bringing death.

The antidote emphasized is atropine, either injected or taken by tablet. Atropine is a common drug, related to belladona, and used to relieve spasms and pain and to diminish excessive secretions, such as saliva. (It also used to be used to dilate the eye-pupil when getting tested for eyeglasses. One drop in the eye every few minutes dilated the pupil for about 24 hours.)

- - - - - - - - - - - - - - -

After this pleasant little digression, we return to the super-bombs and Dr. Lapp. He continues: "Quite apart from the bomb size, we must consider the effects, which, Dr. Libby's speech made clear, ARE AS RADICAL AS THE BOMB'S DESIGN. Last February the AEC announced that its March, 1954 Bikini bomb could cause radiation sickness and death over an area of 7,000 miles--far beyond the 300 or 400 miles hit by blast and heat. But Dr. Libby revealed that the fall-out area would cover 100,000 square miles. The AEC has said that the death-dealing fall-out lasts only 36 hours after the bomb bursts. Dr. Libby revealed that this fall-out period WOULD STRETCH INTO DAYS AND WEEKS. Dr. Libby said that a human being should not absorb more than 10 roentgens of radioactivity, far less than PREVIOUS ESTIMATES."

(Nuclear Fall-Out Report: Part 3) (contd)

Dr. Lapp now relates: "Using this new fall-out data, this writer deduced that one super-bomb could contaminate an area larger than Pennsylvania so badly that people would be forbidden to enter the state FOR SEVERAL YEARS to avoid absorbing the critical roentgens. Thus again, in the light of the new fall-out facts, the planning of Operation Alert is unrealistic. Only a few of the simulated bombs were big enough to produce serious fall-out. Moreover, most of the weapons were stipulated to be air bursts, which minimizes fall-out. It is hardly likely that a ruthless enemy would oblige us by exploding his bombs as high air bursts. To do so would be to forego using the greatest po - tency of the superbomb.

"The real significance of radioactive fall-out is that even after having been evacuated from the blast area of the superbomb, millions of escapees will need shelter for a considerable period. Each major city must be surrounded with a vast cordon of safe shelters to which metropolitan dwellers - 8 million in New York City - can flee on short notice. Dr. Libby spelled out many of the awesome problems for which Operation Alert did not plan. Man must protect himself not only from the direct effect of radioactive fall-out; he must also check all food and water to prevent intake of contamination."

THE CYBERNETIC MAN

Bright electronic eyes illume the way / Of modern Cymbernetic man. He hears
Far battle cries with his antenna ears
And sees with radar eyes to Judgment Day.

Dour and anonymous he grimly stalks / With robot legs across the shrinking earth.
Machinery displays no joy or mirth.
A record spins within him when he talks.

Man's throbbing mind is housed no more in bone / And flesh. The human orbit has become / Mechanical. The ocean's rhythmic roll
The bird song and the tree tone are unknown / To mental motors in a cranium
That has a polar ice cap for a soul.

PHILOSOPHY Of The Communicators: (Con.)

Responsibility:

Some of the communicators have from time to time rejected the doctrine of moral responsibility as this is commonly understood - and have profoundly shocked some of our readers by doing so. They have declared, for instance, that all moral values are man-made and that the Cosmic Life knows nothing of good or bad. "There's nothing either good or bad but thinking makes it so." Of course, the ideas of good and evil go very deep. Their root is, that to our finite perceptions, change exists, and something we call evolution, which seems to be directional and not mere change, which would be chaos. That which conforms to this current, to the 'plan' of Nature, we call good, and that which opposes is bad. All these, however, are clearly time-concepts. They are our way of thinking about the cosmos and human life. But that does not give them any final validity. And much of the emphasis on the responsibility-idea arises from man's self-importance, his effort to feed his own ego. There is really no goal for man except the pursuit of knowledge, and what we call badness disappears in proportion to increase of knowledge. This pursuit is endless, but goodness and badness (relative ideas) disappear as it progresses. The word GOD is a symbol for the cosmic life. The existence of God or the Cosmic Life is a matter of faith, provided faith be defined as a postulate of experience which is rationally undemonstrable. Man is a psycho-physical entity capable of unlimited development. DUTY means "learn, grow, unfold". The mode of unfoldment is increasing attunement to the God-life, Cosmic-Life. And each man acts as he does because of his stage of development.

The doctrine of the High Self is regarded by the Communicators somewhat in the following manner:
The entity which is the personality has a power of selectivity or choice; it can change its vibratory rate and so 'tune in' on different wave lengths. Consciousness is continuous experience, and the entity has the power to learn by experience, and so make 'better' and 'higher' selection of subject matter. To invoke the High Self, then, is really to invoke the vast potentialities of the personality. Such invocation is greatly to be commended, because it has a powerful suggestive effect and leads to unfoldment and development.

What constitutes a 'medium': The Controls agree in saying that in a mediumistic person the sympathetic nervous system is highly strung and sensitive to etheric vibrations and magnetic influences. No specific cause for such a condition can be assigned; the causes lie deep within the history of the entity. This has reference to the 'natural' medium; the sympathetic nervous system can be sensitized in many persons by processes of 'development' .... There are important differences between sleep, trance, and hypnotic trance ... "As to instrumental communication: any instrument you devise will still have to use energy from the body of a person on your side." (This does not mean that a mediumistic person need always be present). "Yes, I believe that one can go on acquiring knowledge through what you would call endless time.

..... I believe that reincarnation is inexcapable for all humans during many thousands of years of your time.... As to the war predicted for the near future - foreknowledge of such a war does not exist on this plane, and the other Controls here concur in this. IF it is written in the Akashic Records it will take place, but only a few can be sure of reading these Records correctly. I do not say that I myself can read the Records.... I do not believe that the Etheric visitors to your planet will permit such a war... I concur with what has been said by other Controls about discs or Lokas...." (Sentences in quotes are from Lao Tsu).

GROWING INTO LIGHT - by Max Freedom Long (Founder and Director of the Huna Research organization. Author of The Secret Science at Work, and The Secret Science Behind Miracles). 177 pages. Huna Research Publications, P.O. Box 875, Vista, Calif. Price $3.00 (plus .09 tax for residents of Calif). In his introductory pages Max Long emphasizes that he is not a teacher and does not offer finalities and revelations, but writes as a student trying to share what he has so far learned. The Huna techniques are practical and usable in the Western world, and Growing Into Light is a vade mecum for both the newcomer and the experienced student. The nature of the contents is largely indicated by the chapter headings:

Polishing the Mirror of Faith -- Entering the Stream -- The Union that was Cleft -- Restoring Union -- The Function of the Low Self in Prayer -- - Coming to Know -- Love -- Opening the Path to the Light -- What May be asked for in Prayer -- Priming the Pump -- Fear and Release from Fear -- The "Last Enemy" -- Dogmas added to Religion -- The Problem of Evil -- The Breath of Life -- Human Relationships.

It is very interesting to note how deeply this book integrates, in a basic sense, with the new Creative Realism of Rolf Alexander, and also with the (yet unpublished) New Worlds Behind the Atom, by Langston Day - in both of which the mind is treated as energic in character, and capable of affecting the matter of our plane to an extent hitherto unbelievable. This is, as I see it, the true new approach to the science of the future, and it is quite wonderful to note how the very ancient of the Kahunas fits here, as a key into its lock.

Each chapter of Max Long's book is followed by exercises, affirmations and prayer-forms, and the meditation techniques seem practicable, and certainly profitable.

THE ETHER AND ITS VORTICES: Dr. Carl Frederick Krafft; with diagrams and bibliography. About 65 pages. Published by the author, at Annandale, Va. (Box 687, Rt.2). I again call attention to this remarkable book, described briefly in CQC-E-3. Copies have been deposited in all the larger public and college libraries, and may be had free by such libraries on request. Offered to the public at the nominal price of $1.00.

We also recommend an article by Dr. Krafft, to appear in Round Robin XI-3, Sept.-Oct. issue, and entitled THE EXISTENCE OF AN ETHER. "The existence of an ether", writes Dr. Krafft, "is not a question that can be answered by a simple yes or no. And when I stated in my book that there can hardly be any question as to the existence of the ether, I meant a dynamic or turbulent ether, and not the quiescent stationary ether of the 19th century". The article is a valuable clarification of the more technical discussion in the booklet mentioned above. Chapter headings in the latter are as follows:

The Hydromechanical Ether -- Sub-atomic Vortices -- The Three Elementary Forces -- The Origin of Consciousness -- The New Vortex Atoms -- Radioactivity and Atomic Fission -- The Nuclear Theory Disproved -- Periodic Table of Elements
