S P A C E M E N - FRIENDS AND FOES

(A Brochure in Two Parts, by T. James*

(Along with our last issue of ROUND ROBIN (xii-3, Oct. 15, '56) we included an insert page announcing this brochure on the "Spacemen". The following passages may give a more adequate idea of its contents. It is in substantial agreement with many statements made by the Probert Controls during the last ten years, altho Mr. James, we are credibly assured, had no knowledge at all of this latter source).

"Everything written" says Mr. James commendably, "should be scrutinized, evaluated, weighed in the critical judgment of the reader, and accepted or cast out accordingly. One thing can be taken as certain; the messages are authentic communications by telepathy, by myself in a conscious waking state . . .

'There is no real relationship between the proximity of Mars and the sightings of space craft. There is an etheric reaction between Mars and the earth, and this makes the space craft more easily visible ...

Ashtar speaking) ' I am an etheric being. I do not have a fleshly body like yours. But it is possible for me to make my being visible to you by certain changes in its vibratory rate ... We are normally invisible to you but we are visible to each other ... All people on the other planets of this solar system are definitely etheric. We live much as you do ... Unless we choose to convert the vibrational frequency of our bodies we remain invisible to you ... Ships and all entities in them are converted to (the needed) vibrational level...

'FIREBALLS are nullifiers for certain radioactive effects which your scientists do not even know they are releasing ... they prevent the poisoning of your people ... but not all of them have the same purpose.

'At the core of your planet there exists a greatly degenerate astral race... They are capable of space flight within the astral regions around the earth, but are earth-bound. . . They emerge at the South Pole. On your surface they have allies who are without mercy and without morals. I enjoin you to forever close any researches into this astral activity in the interests of your own safety. Be on your guard always, be careful and vigilant. . .

''The Astral regions extend, in your measure, about 125,000 miles above the surface of the earth. At certain times of the year travel to the moon is possible to the astrals when the astral shells of the two bodies overlap. When these separate, however, any entities on the moon are cut off from the earth until the next time the shells overlap. No physical or astral entity can go beyond the earth - moon system.'

(There are craft that appear to us as space craft but are in fact earth - bound machines capable of going no farther than the moon, and that only under certain conditions. TJ).

Ashtar, con.: 'We have all the elements you know about on earth, and many more The etheric form of these metals differs in atomic and molecular structure from earth metals. The distance between the nucleus and the orbiting electrons of the etheric iron nucleus is much greater than in iron as you know it. . . The etheric form becomes visible in accordance with the desire of the controlling intelligence ... No matter how great the mass of the etheric substance, even measuring many miles across in your measure, physical matter cannot damage or injure it or its contents. . .

(Ashtar, con.) 'The center of the earth consists of matter of a density comparable to air, altho it is not air. You would term it hollow in your expression. It is here that forces of evil dwell. Near the south magnetic pole they emerge in their craft, and circle the planet. Primitive by our technology, their craft are still greatly advanced over yours ... capable of speeds in excess of 3,000 miles per hour ...

'The moon people are physical in form and astral in activity and allegiance. They are allied with Powers of Evil ...

'As a general rule you may conclude that all cigar-shaped craft are potentially hostile to your people. These are craft from the center of the earth which have carried out hostile acts. Our craft are for the most part heel-shaped or disc-shaped. This is a 'rule of thumb'. . .

'During the next few weeks and months the astral forces will increase their activities along the western coast of America. Should aircraft of yours be sent against them, they will be destroyed through the agency of a heat ray. Fires of mysterious origin will occur in the Americas and Western Europe. Explosions and unforecasted weather phenomena of a destructive type are part of their system of attack... Failures in electronic equipment are easily induced by them.. .

'There are three-dimensional ships that come from Antarctica ... before the Lemurian flood this was a great civilization. It was frozen quickly. One city, Rainbow City, remains above the ice, with a few dwellers... There are some of these craft also in Tibet...

from Part II) The true (beneficent) interplanetary craft (Ventlas) display colored lights, usually red, green, and white; they sometimes appear constantly red or green, at other times flashing. Those of the 'Satanic' forces seldom exhibit colour, but come with white or bluish-white manifestation, and are usually constant rather than flashing. . . True inter-planetary forces travel in disc or heel-shaped machines which give off red, green and white lights flashing alternately. They travel at the speed of light and in multiples of this speed ...

'As to the crews of the Saucers from the center of the earth : they may be Elementals, sub-human slaves of the Astrals, or they may be astral monsters of a proportion and type likely to fill you with terror. In your measurement some of them are gigantic and horrible to behold.'

T.J.) . . . All these data are a definite backing for two factors that mankind must realize soon. First; the Saucer entities are not all friendly. Second, they are of an order of matter not our own.

In this last comment of Mr. T. James, as also in scores of others scattered thru the 35 pages of Parts I and II of SPACEMEN, our BSR Associates will recognize statements made scores of times during the last ten years, originating with the Controls of Mark Probert, and elaborated upon in hundreds of pages of BSR publications. These Controls have always touched very lightly on the hostile and dangerous aspects, but have always stressed the etheric nature of the phenomena and their character as emergents. In every major aspect the progress of events now justifies the knowledge and sagacity of these entities and the wise patience of Mark Probert who has given his time and strength to such research.

"FLYING SAUCER UBER SUDAFRIKA", by Edgar Sievers; Sagittarius Publishers; 416 pp indexed, sources and literature index. In German language. Price - $3.70 postpaid from: Herman H. Mitchell- 22 North St., Huntington Station, N.Y. Assoc. H.H.M. has translated the following paragraphs from this book, and adds his comment: "The title is misleading; but everything else pertaining to saucers is covered in the 416 pages in a most thorough manner. . . " "You might say the book is a summing up of the "Zeitgeist" of our century, with this remarkable difference from other philosophical works of our time: the 'saucers' are part of the philosophy; they are accepted, dealt with and fit into the picture of the state of affairs. This book was not written for the average "saucer fan" who seeks sensational sighting reports, although he may want a copy for his collection. THIS IS ADULT FARE."

(Translated paragraphs:)

"If, indeed, the saucer beings had indicated in the least that they consorted by the same diplomatic rules as we do on earth, then, today, the entire world would have no doubt that they existed. This open discrepancy between their actions and our expectations is what seems so unbelievable to us; hence, they themselves are unacceptable. The difference between their thinking and ours makes them strangers to us."

"Man on earth - counterpart of the beings that visit in their saucers. Indeed, we are part of the question when we ask: Why don't they land? Have we ever wondered how we look to them? Who we really are? What impressions we convey to these beings? These questions are important as we approach a period of world-wide decisions terminating in great changes."

" - for the 'airplane' that reappeared week after week above the Union was mostly seen by people who had never seen an airplane and as sightings continued this year, the high command at Pretoria found it necessary to issue on August 29, 1914, the following bulletin: 'Since in past weeks the press and other sources published reports about airplanes sighted in various sections of the Union, the government announces officially that, since there are no airplanes belonging to the Union in South Africa, any airplanes that might still be sighted are enemy machines. Therefore, anybody who sights an airplane in the air above the Union is asked to shoot at it and try to down the machine; or, should he discover one at rest, he is requested to capture it and report the case immediately to the nearest police station.'"

"Passing through the dark tunnel of our time we need strength and self-confidence. We encounter many false ideologists and artificial luminaries that try to impose their doctrine upon our minds; they are up there under the dim bulbs on the ceiling, letting the light shine on themselves, feeling illuminated, but casting only tiny shadows. All peoples of this earth have produced true heroes of history - the great wise and the wise great. Here and there, their shadows are still impressed upon the path. Could that be all? Is it possible that man has terminated here, only yet capable of losing himself in material existence and with the most terrible weapon of all in his coatpocket on the march to end it all; to be pitied and mourned by no-one? It can't be! Then, what are we to do? Cast wishful glances up at beings from space, hoping they will come and pull our mismanaged cart out of the mud? Certainly not. Let's do it ourselves, like men -"

"Thus, we are confronted with the saucer phenomenon. Some believe in saucers, some don't; a third group of citizens is too phlegmatic to open their minds but the last group fights with all its power in anticipation of events and changes to come. We shall meet them all again later - day after tomorrow - with the well-known refrain upon their lips: We knew it all the time that saucers were real!"

"But now that we glimpse away from earth and speculate on space and before our mothers bear the pioneers of the far trip to the stars, is this not the time to try and regain our station in life? Let us bring ourselves to behave with dignity. Let us conduct our affairs so that we need not be ashamed of them: our political aspirations, our struggles for economic security and our cultural efforts which must not remain upon the niveau of the ape -trainer Tarzan. Now the pendulum of space and time returns: the conquest of our earth, the material, the technological existence must now be followed by the conquest of the inner self and its fortifications. It matters little if we want to or not, whether the individual find the outer front of his existence more attractive than the inner, calm consciousness that lies behind it; for, if we disobey the call from space, the pendulum surely will deal us a blow on the head and we are no more! Slouched in front of the bank-teller's window, check in hand, slid off the movie seat while the gangster's revolver burps and quietly drowned in the bathtub of all our cheap entertainments and comforts! Somehow, then, man must win the confidence that deep within him a something may be found that brings joy and contentment to the individual - and to all of us a something that makes life truly worthwhile."

"Should one not assume that the first interest of the people who meet in the world's interplanetary and astronautical societies is devoted to flight through space? The names of these organizations seem to imply that. It would be most reasonable to think that they direct their entire curiosity and energy toward an appearance that suddenly penetrated into the atmosphere of earth. Shouldn't we expect them to be the first to satisfy themselves whether or not this might be an intelligently guided astronautical flying machine? Is it at all possible that no suspicion enters these societies that the recorded phenomena might conceivably be interplanetary vehicles? It seems, the saucer phenomenon is not only not taken seriously but the societies for promotion of space travel intentionally turn their broad backs toward the sky! Only in April last year we received this significant sentence in a letter from one such group, member of the International Astronautical Federation: 'To our knowledge no objects have ever been observed over Germany that could be identified as so-called flying saucers."

With reference to the foregoing: we hope to offer, in our next issue of Round Robin (Nov.-Dec., xii-4), a much longer translation by Mr. Mitchell of selected passages from Dr. Siever's book. We repeat Mr. Mitchell's apposite expression - THIS IS ADULT FARE.

A story has somehow gotten spread abroad, not only in the U.S. but in European countries, concerning a supposed visit from the skies, on November 7th next, of some kind of huge 'spacecraft which will hover over Los Angeles, visible to all and bringing confusion to all sceptics. We find no good reason for belief in this event - nor for rejecting in advance its possibility. As usual, there are too many "X" quantities in the equations. But we did inquire of the Mark Probert Controls, as to whether they knew of any such demonstration, and they replied:

" WE DO NOT BELIEVE THAT ANY SUCH EVENT WILL TAKE PLACE AT THE TIME AND PLACE PREDICTED"

We quote this here and now, on account of the remarkable interest and credence given the prediction in the press. This is the 28th of October, 1956.

WHAT RADIESTHESIA IS AND WHAT IT CAN DO

- by - Bruce Copen, F.B.R.A.

The above heading is also the title of a 20-page brochure issued by the Copen Radiesthesia Laboratory, Naird Lane, Prestwood, Buckinghampshire, England. Price 1 sh 6 d. "The applications of radiesthesia" - writes Mr. Copen "may appear at first to be quaint or unorthodox, but it does not follow that these are not possible." One might add that in the present state of scientific knowledge and theory anything labeled 'outlaw' and ridiculous is likely to prove interesting and important. "All over the world", says Mr. Copen, "this science of radiesthesia is gaining a footing by its proven facts".

"Radiesthesia is the science of radiation detection. In its simplest form it consists of the use of the pendulum ... which has been known for many centuries. The operator uses himself as a receiver and transmitter of radiation of very subtle kind. About %90 of all humans, it is estimated, could use the pendulum as a detector if they tried. Every person and object gives off radiation, and this can be detected and interpreted. This of course runs into radionics and the use of many complex instruments.

Geological 'Prospection': The search for water, oil, coal, raw materials, minerals, gems and treasures. This 'dowsing' for earth deposits can be done from maps and distance seems no bar to the operation (teleradiesthesia). Ores and minerals can be analyged as well as located by this means.

Medical diagnosis and therapy: This is usually done with the help of a spot of blood. "The operation is easy and devoid of technicalities if the operator is fully conversant with his work. This use extends into the selection of diet, Naturopathy, Chiropractic, Homeopathy, and bio-chemistry. Treatment can be given at a distance; there is also the non-luminous colour therapy.

Domestic Radiesthesia: In connection with food, see Archdale's Elementary Radiesthesia & the Use of the Pendulum. In Criminal Detection Rad. is used for finding lost persons, detecting forgeries, tracing stolen property etc. Some police forces and (it is claimed) many private detectives make frequent use of Rad. methods and with much success.

In Psychical Research the pendule in its various forms shows important possibilities. Mr. Copen writes: "I have successfully used the pendulum to detect haunted buildings, to trace the movements of "ghosts" and to build instruments capable of connection with the aetherial forces."

In Agriculture and Horticulture Rad. is of great value in selecting crops, soils and fertilizers, and suitable mating times of animals. The experimental gardener employs it with reference to the blending of various types of pollen and in treatment of plant diseases. The poultry raiser uses it for detecting fertility of eggs prior to setting them (a method long known to the Chinese). It is used by the veterinarian for animal diseases (which rules out autosuggestion). Used in manufacturing cosmetics, in character analysis, in stamp collecting (vs forgeries), in forecasting sex in pre-born children, and to some extent in forecasting the future.

Mr. Copen might well have referred also to crop benefaction and extermination of pests, and to the remarkable achievements of Dr. George Delawaar, of the De la Warr laboratories, Oxford, Eng. - who is able to photograph the past and future life stages of (say) a seed or plant. We also call attention to the well-known Psychical Physics of S.W. TROMP (Professor of Geology); ca. 400 pgs; Elsevier Pub. Co., Inc., N.Y. & Lon. 1949 (price $8.00); a remarkable compendium of scientific data in the whole field of radiesthesia.

THE WRATH OF THE UNKNOWN GODS

- HAROLD T. WILKINS -

At 12:50 p.m. on October 1, 1956 I was in the great Reading Room of the British Museum, engaged in some rather recondite research into the very long history of singular phenomena, associated with UFO's and extra-terrestrial visitants who do not announce their comings or goings. The day before, in bright sunshine, I had been roaming the woods and pastures of a region of the Kentish Weald, about 25 miles from central London. On a sudden at that time, October 1, a mysterious darkness blanked the sky above the great glass dome of the Reading Room, as if the last day had come with ebon blackness of a starless midnight. All the lights were switched on.

It must have been about this very time when the giant four-engined British bomber Vulcan, equipped to carry atomic and hydrogen bombs, was approaching London airport after a record-breaking tour of 26,000 miles, to and from Australia and New Zealand. Day had on a sudden become night; there was a queer fiery glow on the horizon, and in driving rain the bomber was being 'talked in' by radio from the airport control tower.

An official of the A.V. - Hawker-Siddeley group, builders of this giant Vulcan said: "It seemed as if the Vulcan hit something like an obstruction as she approached the airport." Be it noted that the Vulcan had, before this trip, been tested in order to insure that she could take shock-waves at high speed, and endure stresses up to 700 tons without breaking. Shewas thus the last word in aeronautical science and technique. She seemed to hit a ploughed-up ditch about a mile from the runway, had her undercarriage ripped off, had 15 of her 18 wheels embedded in mud, and then, when the pilot at once turned on full power and tried to climb, she came down at a steep angle and hit the concrete of the runway, exploding in a holocaust of flame and gases. Four British senior air officers were killed, and the British Air Marshal in command and his co-pilot escaped by reason of the fact that they alone had ejector seats.

It is curious that not one London newspaper I saw, gave the time of this disaster. Why? Was this accidental, or was it officially desired that no one should associate this disaster with the very unusual meteorological phenomenon? I cannot say.

But this is the third time I have observed this phenomenal blackout. The first occasion was in December 1952, just after atomic bombs had been blasted off. I was then in an express train from Paddington, W. London, bound for Gloucester in the west of England. We were passing Acton, London W, when, also on a sudden, A singular midnight blackness came over the sky, causing lights to be switched on in all factories and work shops. About 90 miles away, in a railroad tunnel called Sapperton (Glostershire), and I noticed men inside and outside with torches carefully inspecting walls, entrances and revetments. The arth had become water-logged, and there were clearly grave fears for the safety of this important tunnel. Needless to say, not a word of this was published in the press.

Smog? Well, it is very easy to adduce this explanation, but so often has it been done that one is reminded of the gabble of the Lord Chancellor in one of the Gilbert and Sullivan operas: "No possible, probable shadow of a doubt - no probable doubt whatever."

Since official science has adopted as its tacit maxim: "Science kills to make the world free for the fourth war to end all war" one has not the complacency and cocksureness of that learned idiot Menzel, the Harvard professor, or of the military and farouche martinet Admiral Strauss. Indeed, unlike that unpleasant royal pervert, King James 1 of England and the sixth Stuart of Scotland, once called the 'wisest fool in Christendom', one is compelled to conclude that the demons are unfortunately - not necessarily - to be found only in a not very respectable, but very not and remote place - but rather nearer the surface in the U.S., Great Britain, the U.S.S.R., and in Australia.

The heresy of today is but too likely to be the painful fact of tomorrow, when those who come after us will execrate us for the earnest striving of the militarists, the big business magnates and their lackey scientists, to make a world fit for the heroes who will be condemned to live in it.

'Science saves' - maybe. But what about some of the scientists?

(Mr. Wilkins address is Colomberie, 29, Bean Road, Bexleyheath, Kent, Eng. He is widely known as a writer and explorer).

GLIMPSES OF THE UNSEEN WORLD - by Carl Frederick Krafft: This is a 30 - page mimeo. booklet, including an 8-page introductory article by Victor M. Waage; issued by Borderland Sciences, October 1956. Copyright by Carl F. Krafft. This brochure will be of importance to physicists interested in the concept of the ether, and in the bearing of this on problems of space flight and the nature of the "UFO". The Table of Contents follows:

The Antiquity of the Ether Concept -- The Existence of an Ether -- Further Evidence of an Ether -- The Gravitational Field -- The Electrostatic Field -- The Magnetic Field (Part I) -- Magnetic Field (Part II) -- The Superposition of the Elementary Fields of Force -- Successful Predictions Under the Ether Vortex Theory -- The Constitution of the Sun and Stars -- Anti-gravity and 'Saucer' Propulsion...Four diagrams of atomic structure.

Apart from the excellent introduction by physicist Victor M. Waage, this booklet is largely in the nature of a compendium of very short articles, previously printed in the BSR Journal Round Robin (whence some needless repetition of the author's name at the head of each 'chapter'). The basics of Krafft's concepts will be found also in The Ether and its Vortices (60 pgs., printed: pub. by the author; Annandale, Va. Box 687. $1.00).

"With the exception of radiant pressure there are three and only three elementary forces which act at a distance; namely, gravitational, electrostatic, and magnetic forces. It has always been difficult to understand how three such forces can act independently of one-another in the same space and at the same time. The ether-vortex theory now seems to furnish the answer. According to our latest views the force of gravity is caused by a pressure of the ether rather than by a movement thereof. If we assume that the elementary particles of matter are vortices in the ether, then it seems reasonable to suppose that these will keep the surrounding ether in motion...Electric and magnetic forces are caused not by pressure of the ether but by movement of the ether in the form of whirls or eddies ... smaller and more localized than gravitational fields of force... since these can exist regardless of the ether pressure, we can understand why they can act independently of gravitational force, and vice versa. . ." (Glimpses: Pg. 15).

TWO QUESTIONS -- For BSR Associates and other readers: Do you consider that telepathic communication while the subject is under hypnosis

A / is established beyond reasonable doubt?

B / Do you consider that "projection" and/or travelling clair - voyance with the subject under hypnosis is established be - yond reasonable doubt?

By travelling clairvoyance is meant 'clairvoyance where the center of perception is changed' (Fodor).

We have avoided the word proof in these questions; but proof in the usual and legalistic sense means: evidence sufficient to convince beyond reasonable doubt. We also avoid pro tem. any definition of the words conviction, reasonable, and evidence. Just let us have your present and personal opinion - if interested.

THE JANET X CASE) Australian Saucer) Record: Vol. I,No.) 4, Kilburn, S. A.)

"One of the strangest and most interesting cases so far investigated by the AFSRS is that of Janet X. In February 1955 an Adolaide hypnotist approached the Committee with a fequest that we investigate the case. Janet X was a school girl about ten years old at that time and the hypnotist had been giving her a series of treatments for a slight nervous disorder. This consisted of inducing a state of complete relaxation under hypnos- is for short periods, during which the subject was unconscious of her surround - ingsbut would respond to the hypnotist's voice. To check her response the hypno - tist would ask, "Where are you, Janet?". Normally she would reply "in a chair" or words to that effect. On the occasion concerned however, she replied "In a flying saucer". (Note here the resemblance to the case reported by H.S.W. Chibbett in Uranus, Vol. 1 No. 1). The astonished hypnotist questioned her further and received a running commentary on a trip inside a saucer to another planet. She described the landing, the people, and a kind of city - all as though it were act- ually happening and she were merely describing what she saw. . ."

(The ASR Committee arranged a sitting and everything said was recorded on tape. The experiment lasted two hours, under meticulous precautions which in the opinion of the investigators 'ruled out any idea of a conscious hoax on the part of Janet'. She "described the Saucer, containing three men with black hair wearing colored 'over-all things'. She said she could see the planet they were approach- ing, in a 'screen thing. It looked like a red and silver ball. There was "a big mountain with a hole in it" and the saucer went inside. There was "a big lift thing" and a 'city with glass buildings. . . rooms, long corridors, machinery, and black-haired people ... women eating grapes and drinking a dark liquid like wine."

These people apparently were aware of Janet's presence and were hospitable. The earth could be seen in a 'screen thing'. A helmet had to be worn for breathing, if one went outside. The Southern Cross was visible and part of the moon. There was snow on the ground but the snow was warm. No vegetation visible. A television- like device gave a picture of the earth ...

Janet was told 'there are flying saucers over Australia now'; and on the follow- ing day Australian newspapers carried headlines reporting public excitement over high-flying "poached eggs" and "weird blue half-moons -- perhaps coincidental but certainly of interest. "All the facts are completely accurate" says the ASR Com- mittee."

FIREBALLS: A 10-page brochure by Sidney H Fullerton, President, Inter - planetary Research Group; 357 Argyle St., Hobart, Tasmania. (We do not have copies of this brochure for sale; inquirers should write to President Fullerton at I.R.G. Hdqrs. We quote part of two items, with special reference to The Farmington Affair as an amazing example of the inertia ('or something') of the human mind. Here we have, not isolated observers, but mass-phenomena seen by thousands of people; all of which happened some six years ago - but still the asinine debate went on (and still goes on) as to whether the UFO et cet. are "real" or only spots or Spatz before the eyes. The will-to-ignore seems invincible - but what will happen when it finally cracks up? ml

THE FARMINGTON AFFAIR: There seems to be some resemblance in the "Meteoric Procession of 1913" and the Farmington, New Mexico sighting. This sighting occurred on March 17, 1950. The following day the headlines of the Las Vegas, New Mexico "Daily Optic" read "Spaceships Cause Sensation", and eight columns of space were devoted to a story from nearby Farmington, a township of 5,000 residents, a story that fully half the town's population had the previous day sighted hundreds of spaceships soaring overhead, from 10:15 in the morning until 11:15 A.M., and again at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

March 17 was a clear day in Farmington, with only a faint scattering of high cirrus clouds, and there were no strong winds. But at 10:15, the Farmington "Daily Times" was suddenly deluged with scores of reports that a mass flight of disc-shaped objects was rushing across the sky in solid waves. The hundreds of people witnessing their amazing flight, including residents, business men and police, were soon joined by the staff of the "Daily Times", whose advertising manager, Mr. Clayton Boddy, with a group of business associates, watched one flight go over. They said the objects were definitely discs, and that they "tended to flutter." The objects streaked across Farmington at tremendous speeds, so fast that it was almost un - believable, and one estimate placed the actual number at more than 500.

Most observers agree that, further, the objects were silver colored, and some witnesses added that the only differently colored one was an unusually red one. This one seemed to be the only one of them flying at a moderate height, yet even in its case, observers swore it had gone from horizon to horizon in less than a brief three seconds.

An estimate of the object's size placed this at about twice that of a B-29 bomber.

For hours calls poured into the "Daily Times"office from people seeking an official explanation of the object's origin. Pilots and others noted, for one thing, that many of the aerial visitors performed right-angled turns, an impossible feat even for the latest model jet, rocket, or, in fact, any kind of conventional aircraft. A Farmington garage employee said that their speed was ten times that of a normal, terrestrial jet-plane, and that although they appeared sometimes to be swooping directly towards each other in flight, at the very last second, one would veer upward at right angles, while the other swooped just as sharply downward. Another witness, Mr. Edward Brooks, who had been a B-2 tail-gunner in the U.S. Air Force, refuted the suggestion that the speedy objects might have been ordinary aircraft, because they were too manoeuvreable. Yet another observer reported the "Daily Times" the next morning, said, "They flew sideways, on edge, and at every conceivable angle, which made it easy to determine that they were saucer-shaped."

Almost simultaneously with the Farmington and the Las Vegas viewings, reports came in from places as far away as South Carolina and Peru, confirming the New Mexican claims.

"THE FLYING SAUCER": This is a brand-new 'Saucer' publication, and is under the presidency of one of our B.S.R. Associates, Jose' Escobar Faria (Brazilian lawyer). It is a bi-monthly publication, and the address is: - - "Flying Disks Research Center" - - Caixa Postal 8449, Sao Paulo, Brazil. -- -(C.P.D V (Centro De Pesquisa Dos Discos Voadores) meaning in Portuguese: "Flying Disks Research Center".)

This isaremarkably interesting publication, and quite distinctly above the average, with respect to its I.Q. - "Table of Contents" for this first issue is as follows: - (No. 1 -- August, 1956) -- "Foreword. . . From The Editor. . . Article by Prof. Charles A. Maney . . . New Process for Photographing UFOs. . . Books Review. . . Saucer Sightings in Brazil . . . F.Y.I. . . . Mail Bag . . . "

The point of view is indicated as follows: ". . .The CPDV thinks that flying disks have no connection whatever with any esoteric prophecy. And if perchance we state that beings inside the space-ships are far more advanced than us earthlings also in the moral field - an irrefutable fact proven by their non-belligerant presence in the skies of the Earth - the riddle will finally be proposed and discussed when the three questions, what are they, where do they come from, and what for, be definitely answered. On the other hand, the theory of their interplanetary origin vouched by our Center is the initial premise for an investigation of large proportions."

". . . Our Research Center is based on the assumption that the flying disks are real and that they come from planets inhabited by intelligent beings, either from the solar system or any other system. . ."

The issue also contains valuable articles on "New Process For Photographing UFOs" -- a review of: C. Allingham's "Flying Saucers from Mars" -- M.K. Jessup's "Case for the UFO." -- Keyhoe's "Flying Saucer Conspiracy" -- and an article on "Saucer Sightings In Brazil . . ."

NOTE: At end of this first issue of the above publication, Mr. Faria states: "We wish to contact every organization in the world, so that we may send our Bulletin. So please, address CPDV -- Caixa Postal 8449, Sao Paulo, Brazil. - No stamps or money requested. . ."
Also: ". . . This Bulletin is an exact translation of the Portuguese issue. From this number we have taken out the Estatutes of CPDV because we don't think it would interest people abroad and the sheet with indications to report a sighting.."

--- BSR Hdqrs. is happy to recommend this publication to our Associates. -- (Ed.)
