THE Annual Convocation and Installation of Principals of the above Chapter was held on Monday last. The Chapter having been opened by the Principals, Ex. Comps. Thos. Tunstall, Jas. Jackson and W. H. Robinson, assisted by Ex. Comps. Finney, Brierley, Bowes, and P. J. Edelsten, the rest of the Companions were admitted, and the minutes read and confirmed. The M.E.Z. then invited Ex. Comp. John Bowes P.Z. P.P.G.S.N. to instal the Principals for the ensuing year. Comps. J. Jackson, W. H. Robinson and J. Rymer Young were then introduced into solemn conclaves befitting their respective degrees, and placed in their seats according to the established customs of the Order. Comp. J. Paul Rylands, F.S.A., Starkie and Charles Skinner were then invested as E., N. and Soj. respectively. Comp. Galloway then handed to the Chapter facsimile tracings of entries in the Diary of Elias Ashmole relating to his initiation into Freemasonry in Warrington, for which a hearty vote of thanks was accorded. The auditors produced a satisfactory report of the finances of the Chapter, which was ordered to be printed and circulated among the members. The W.M. of the Gilbert Greenall Lodge, No. 1250, Comp. Galloway, applied for the use of the Chapter furniture, for the purposes of a new Chapter about to be attached to that Lodge, which was granted.

CHAPTER OF HARMONY, No. 178, WIGAN.

THE Annual Convocation of this flourishing Chapter was held in the Chapter-rooms, on Wednesday, 8th inst., at five p.m. The Chapter having been opened by the Principals and P.Z.'s, the rest of the Companions were admitted, and the minutes read and confirmed. The M.E.Z. Comp. C. B. Holmes said the only business before the Chapter was the installation of the chiefs for the ensuing year, and called upon E. Comp. John Bowes P.Z., P.P.G.S.N. to perform the ceremonies. Comps. C. B. Holmes (re-elected), J. Phillips, and G. L. Campbell were then severally presented in solemn conclaves, and installed according to ancient custom. The Royal Arch having been properly cemented, the conclave was closed, and the remainder of the Comps. admitted, when the subordinate Officers were invested, and placed in their respective positions by the installing Principal. The ancient benediction having been given, the Chapter was closed in love and harmony, and the Companions adjourned to the Victoria Hotel, where a sumptuous banquet awaited them, to which ample justice was done. The M.E.Z. was supported by the other Principals, several P.Z.'s, the Officers, and a large number of members, and a most enjoyable evening was spent under his genial presidency.

Metropolitan Chapter of Improvement.—A meeting of this eminent Chapter of Improvement was held on Tuesday evening, 15th inst., at the Jamaica Tavern, St. Michael's-alley, Cornhill, which was numerously attended by Royal Arch Masons, the night being specially appointed for the installation of the three Principals, a ceremony seldom performed in any Chapter of Instruction. The Chapter having been duly opened, the chairs were filled by the following Companions: W. Stephens Z., Turquand H., and H. Thompson J. Comp. Massa having been presented as the First Principal elect, was most impressively and correctly installed into the chair of Z. by Comp. Stephens, and seldom has that important ceremony been so ably performed. The next business was to instal Comp. Storr into the chair of H., which was gone through in an equally impressive manner. The same remark will apply to the installation of Comp. Brown, the worthy Preceptor of the Chapter, into the third chair. At the conclusion of these ceremonies, Comp. Massa moved that a vote of thanks should be recorded on the minutes of the Chapter to Comp. Stephens, for the very able, correct, and impressive manner in which he had performed the ceremony of installation of the Principals that evening, and for his readiness at all times to render any assistance to the Chapter. Comp. Storr seconded the motion, which was supported by Comp. H. Thompson M.E.Z. 619, and carried unanimously. Comp. Stephens, in reply, thanked the Companions for their kindly recognition of his humble services, and assured them that at any time when he could be useful to the Chapter his services were at its disposal. The Chapter of Installed Principals was then closed, and the rest of the Companions were admitted. Amongst the installed Principals, in addition to those filling the three chairs, were Comps. Mickley, Pounceby, N. Green, and Wyer. The ceremony of exaltation was then rehearsed, Comps. Pounceby Z., Lardner H., Dotteridge J., W. Fraser N., J. Payne P.S., and Goodenough, candidate. The following Companions were also present—Lardner, King, W. Fraser, J. Payne, Edwards, and Lovegrove. The ceremony was most ably performed by Comp. Pounceby, and at the close a cordial vote of thanks was passed to him for the very efficient manner in which he had worked the business of the First Principal's chair for the first time. Comp. Pounceby replied, and thanked Comp. Brown for the attention and great assistance he had given him in mastering the duties of the three chairs. The following were then elected members of the Chapter—Comps. Goodenough 503, Mickley 948, and Turquand 1339 and 890. The Chapter was then closed and adjourned until Tuesday, 22nd March, at half-past six p.m.

Bro. Horace B. Marshall, whose liberal donations to our Institutions we especially referred to last week, has been a Mason only two years and the fraction of a year. Yet in that brief time he has contributed no less than 700 guineas to our Charities, and has likewise sent in his name as Steward for the Boys' and Girls' School Festivals for the present year. It is impossible to give too much prominence to conduct so generous. The thanks of the whole Craft are due to Bro. Marshall for setting our younger brethren so brilliant an example.

All Books intended for Review should be addressed to the Editor of The Freemason's Chronicle, 23 Great Queen Street, W.C.

The Freemasons' Calendar and Directory for the Province of Oxfordshire and Neighbourhood. 1881. Comprising Calendar for the Year, with Meetings of Masonic Bodies; the Grand and Provincial Grand Officers Past and Present; Lodges and Chapters of the Province and Neighbourhood; Universities' Lodges and Chapters, Mark, Knights Templars, &c., &c. With the Consent and under the immediate Patronage of H.R.H. Prince Leopold, K.G., Past Grand Warden of England, and Right Worshipful Prov. Grand Master of the Province. Oxford: Bro. W. R. Bowden, 59 High-street.

BROTHER BOWDEN, who is the Editor as well as Publisher of this Calendar and Directory, has done a great service to his Province by compiling the information herein contained, and presenting it in so compact a form to his Oxfordshire brethren. The Chapter gives the days of meeting of the different Lodges, Chapters, &c., in the Province and neighbourhood, and also those fixed for the meetings of Grand Lodge, Grand Chapter, Grand Mark Lodge, the Board of General Purposes, the Colonial Board, and the Lodge of Benevolence, and the different Committees and Courts of our Institutions. Then follow lists of the present Officers of Grand Lodge, Supreme Grand Chapter, and Mark Grand Lodge; present and past Officers of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Oxfordshire; the present Officers of the Provincial Grand Chapter of Berks and Bucks, and Provincial Grand Mark Masters' Lodge of Berks and Oxon; the Members and Officers of the Supreme Council of the Ancient and Accepted Rite, and the Officers of the Great Priory of England and Wales. The Officers for the year 1880, and in some cases for 1880-1, together with the Past Masters and Past Principals of the Lodges, Chapters, &c., in Oxford and vicinity, as well as of the Westminster and Keystone, No. 10, both Lodge and Chapter; the University Lodge and Chapter, No. 1118, &c., complete the list. It would perhaps have been, however, better had the Officers and Past Masters of Isaac Newton University, No. 859, Cambridge, been furnished, as almost the same relations exist, and there is the same interchange of courtesies between it and the Apollo University, No. 357, Oxford, as there is between the latter and the Westminster and Keystone, No. 10, and the University, No. 1118, of London. Brief particulars of the Craft Institutions and the Mark Benevolent Fund are given likewise, so that within modest compass the Oxford brethren will find all that it is absolutely necessary they should know as regards times and places of certain Masonic meetings in the Province and Metropolis. Bro. Bowden is to be congratulated on the pains he has evidently bestowed on his work, and the near approach to accuracy he has attained in all the sections of his Directory.

The Freemasons' Manual and Official Directory of the Provincial Grand Lodge and Provincial Grand Chapter of Kent for 1881. Published under the Authority of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Kent. Fourth Year of Publication. Edited by Thomas Samuel Warne, Rochester, P.M. No. 20; Past Provincial Assistant Grand Secretary, Kent; P.Z.; Provincial Grand Scribe E. Kent, &c. Dover: Printed by J. Terson, Townwall Street. 1881.

GREAT merit is due to Bro. Warne for the manner in which he has arranged this Manual, and the excellence of the matter—apart from what is purely statistical—he has collated. After the Officers of Grand Lodge and Prov. Grand Lodge follows the Roll of Lodges in the Province, and a little further on is a table compiled from Bro. W. J. Hughan's "Register of Lodges," and Bro. Gould's "Atholl Lodges," showing in brief the disposition of the various "ancient" Lodges established in Kent. Both in the Roll and the Table the dates of the several Lodge Warrants are supplied. As regards the Lodges, the Past Masters and present Officers are given in each, and it is perhaps worthy of remark, in passing, that many of these Past Masters ruled the Lodge more than a quarter of a century ago. Thus the senior P.M. of Royal Kent Lodge of Antiquity No. 20 was W.M. in 1846, and there are three others who filled the Chairs in 1848, 1849, and 1855 respectively. The Senior P.M. of Lodge No. 125, Hythe, was W.M. in 1850, 1860, and a third time in 1870. The Senior of Lodge No. 158 Sheerness was the W.M. in 1848, and that of Lodge No. 199 Dover is elder still—speaking Masonically—having been W.M. as far back as 1844. Ramsgate, however, can lay claim to the Senior P.M. of the Province, it seems; for Bro. James Emmerson was elected to fill the chair of the Royal Navy Lodge No. 429 in 1840. There is also a table showing the numerical strength of the Lodges, which, however, we are given to understand is incomplete, owing to some of them not having sent in a return of particulars as requested. That any Lodge should omit or object to supply such information is to be deplored. Similar particulars are furnished for the Supreme Grand Chaper, the Provincial Grand Chapter, and the Chapters on the roll of the Province, only there is no list showing the number of R.A. Companions. The Bye-laws of the Prov. G. Lodge and Prov. G. Chapter follow, and also their respective statements of accounts for the past year. From these statements, it seems, P.G. Lodge voted for our Central Charities per sundry Lodges £252, and P.G. Chapter per sundry Chapters £73 10s. Officers of the Rose Croix Chapter and Templar Preceptory come next in order, and the Directory is then closed with particulars respecting the Prov. G. Mark Lodge and the Lodges on its roll, similar in all respects to those given in respect of Craft and Arch Masonry. As Lord Holmesdale is a Past G.M.M.M., it is not surprising that Mark Masonry should seem to flourish here. We congratulate Bro. Warne on the completeness of his manual.

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

Yarborough Lodge, No. 554.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held at the Green Dragon, Stepney, on Thursday, 3rd inst. Lodge was opened by the W.M. Bro. E. W. Walter, who was supported by Bros. T. W. Tait S.W., W. Cross J.W., T. S. Taylor I.P.M., J. G. Stevens P.M. Treas., G. Ward Verry P.M. Secretary; Past Masters James Kindred, Hugh Cotter, J. J. Berry, T. J. Barnes, J. H. Thorn; also Bros. J. Lineker S.D., John Taylor J.D., J. R. Shingfield I.G., G. T. H. Seddon P.M. Org., C. T. Speight P.M. Tyler. There were also present Bros. Clarke, Arliss, Gilbey, Poultor, Pain, March, Hertman, Peacock, Howes, Symes, Swoffer, Murrin, Kent, Anderson, Battes, Russell, Sallen, Wood, Walter, Allen, Britton, Thomas, Horner, Fardell, Sparks, Wood, Forss, and Goddard. The business of the evening consisted of one raising, one passing, and an initiation. Bro. H. W. Dobbins was raised, Bro. J. H. Arliss was passed to the degree of a Craftsman, and Mr. Donigan was impressively initiated into the secrets and mysteries of the Order, the entire work being well rendered, the W.M. receiving the best possible assistance from the Deacons. The ballot was taken for the admission of Bro. W. G. Goddard 902, as a joining member, and proved unanimous in favour of his admission; Bro. F. Jesse 453 was also proposed for a similar honour. On the announcement that the veteran P.M. of the Lodge, Bro. James Kindred, intended to represent the Lodge at the next Festival of the Girls' School, a sum of £10 10s was unanimously placed on his list, in connection with which it was afterwards announced the sum of £100 had been attained. Several matters of purely local interest having been disposed of,

Lodge was closed, after a protracted and busy meeting, and the brethren supported the W.M. at the banquet table. Here a repast was in waiting which it is no mean praise to say was capitally served, despite the delay Bro. Alfred Walter had been subjected to. The customary Loyal and Craft toasts were honoured in the usual hearty manner, Bro. Tait singing a verse of the National Anthem. Bro. Seddon next favoured the brethren with a selection upon the harmonium, giving great satisfaction. Bro. T. S. Taylor gave the health of the W.M. Bro. Walter; they had all seen in what a splendid manner he had sustained the duties of the chair, fully justifying their choice of him for a ruler. By his working he would uphold the character, and add lustre to the Yarborough Lodge. Bro. Taylor concluded by claiming for the W.M.'s gavel the same attention at the banquet as in the Lodge-room. Bro. J. H. Thorn here gave the "Wolf," excellently accompanied by Bro. Seddon, after which the W. Master thanked the brethren one and all for the kind reception of his name. He was glad to find his endeavours to please were successful; he had worked hard to qualify himself for his position, and assured the brethren he would do all in his power to promote the honour and welfare of the Yarborough Lodge. In toasting the P.M.'s the W. Master claimed great importance for this toast in the Yarborough Lodge, whose Past Masters, unlike what is experienced in some Lodges, are at all times willing and in attendance to assist in the working. Bros. Barnes and Berry had devoted considerable attention to the Yarborough Lodge of Instruction, where the Officers and members received at their hands that tuition which enabled them to discharge their duties as efficiently as they had seen them done that evening. Bro. W. Sparks gave a stirring rendering of the "Bay of Biscay," and Bros. I.P.M. and J. G. Stevens duly responded; Bro. T. J. Barnes also replied. In proposing the toast the W.M., he said, had paid the P.M.'s a compliment, he thought a deserved compliment. All that was in their power the P. Masters would do; they are not only able and willing but fully capable of doing so. He (Bro. Barnes) had never seen better working in a Lodge before; he had watched it closely, from first to last, and he must say, from the Inner Guard up to the Worshipful Master, he had never seen work better done. He would not mention any one name, or those not so mentioned might justly feel themselves slighted, where all had worked so well. Bro. Berry and himself had spent years in working to qualify the Officers and brethren for the discharge of their duties, and it afforded them much gratification to find their efforts crowned with success, and to see how those labours had been exerted to good purpose. In toasting the initiate, the W.M. spoke of the desirability of infusing new blood, and that of good quality; such he believed the newly admitted brother possessed. The toast was heartily received. Bro. Donigan thanked the W.M. and brethren for having honoured him by admitting him into the Order. It had been a great pleasure to meet such old friends as he had there; he would do his best to deserve the confidence they had reposed in him. The toast of the Masonic Charities was heartily received, and responded to in an able and lucid manner by Bro. P.M. Stevens, whose close acquaintanceship with this subject enabled him to give a masterly résumé of work done, and the claims of the three Masonic Charities. The Officers' toast was also well received, and responded to by the brethren of that body who were present. After which the Tyler's toast brought a successful meeting to a close. The musical powers of the Lodge were capitally directed by Bro. G. H. Seddon, whose ability as an accompanyist was again evinced, to the great enjoyment of all. The following Visitors were present:—H. N. Medcalf 212, J. E. Thompson 1076, J. Martin 1067, A. Meyers S.D. 1421, G. H. Stephens J.D. 1623, F. Jesse 453, T. Loane W.S. 1421, J. Fowler 1158.

Yarborough Lodge of Instruction, No. 554.—At the regular meeting, at the Green Dragon, Stepney, E., on the 8th inst., Bro. Richardson occupied the chair. Present:—Bros. H. Forss S.W., T. F. Harvey J.W., J. Taylor S.D., Tyler J.D., Austen I.G., J. J. Berry P.M. Preceptor, W. Cross Secretary; Past Masters Godwin, J. L. Anderson, W. Hawes, J. R. Shingfield, T. J. Tyer, A. Wood, J. Taylor, and Andrews. Lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. Bro. Forss worked the first, and Bro. Stephens the second and third sections of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. Lodge was closed in the second degree, and Bro. Stephens worked the first section of the lecture, assisted by Bro. Shingfield, and the second, assisted by the brethren. A vote of thanks to Bro. Richardson for the admirable manner in which he presided, for the first time in this Lodge, was unanimously passed. Bro. Forss was elected W.M. for the ensuing week. Bro. W. Cross Honorary Secretary took the opportunity of thanking Bro. Shingfield for acting so efficiently for him during his illness. We are extremely gratified to see our esteemed Bro. Cross, who is the J.W. of the mother Lodge, sufficiently restored to health as to be enabled to again discharge his duties as Hon. Secretary of this Lodge of Instruction.

On the 15th inst. there were present Bros. Forss W.M., Ellingford S.W., Shingfield J.W., J. Taylor S.D., Mackenrot J.D., W. Hawes I.G.; also Bros. J. Andrews P.M. acting Preceptor, Richardson, Smith, Wood, Stephens, &c. Bro. A. Wood was interrogated and entrusted. The ceremony of raising was then rehearsed in a most able manner, Bro. Wood candidate. Bro. Stephens worked the first, second, and third sections of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Ellingford was elected W.M. for the meeting to be held on the 29th inst. Lodge was then closed.

Polish National Lodge, No. 534.—The regular meeting of this flourishing Lodge was held on the 10th inst., at the Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, London. Bros. V. Jagielski W.M., Jackson S.W., J. Lancaster J.W., S. Nowakowski P.M. Treas., W. Paas P.M. Sec., Smith S.D., Buntz J.D., Biering I.G., Bryant D.C. P. Masters J. Aspinall, Cumming, Ebner, &c. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. A ballot was taken for the admission, as a joining member, of Bro. Charles Warburton Russell, No. 913, which was unanimously in his favour. The election of W. Master then took place, and Bro. Corrie Jackson S.W. was unanimously elected to fill that office. Bro. Nowakowski P.M. was re-elected Treas. The W.M. stated that Bro. Beckett P.M., who had been Tyler for nearly thirty years, and was seventy-nine years of age, wished to retire. A notice of motion was given that the Lodge present Bro. Beckett with five guineas, to be supplemented by the brethren. The election of Tyler was deferred. Bro. W. Paas P.M. and Secretary then proposed that the usual P. Master's jewel be presented to the retiring W.M. for the great services he had rendered to the Lodge, and in recognition of his exertions in the cause of benevolence and charity. This was fully endorsed by all the brethren. The Audit Committee was appointed. Bro. Privett announced it as his attention to serve as Steward for the Girls' School, while Bro. Aspinall consented to act as Steward for the Boys'; the sum of five guineas was voted to be placed on the Lists of these brethren. The W.M. then, in appropriate terms, presented to the joining member, Bro. C. W. Russell, the emblem of the Lodge—the Polish Eagle—a decoration every member is entitled to wear. Bro. Jagielski explained the symbolical signification this decoration bears, and impressed upon the recipient to join with the members in endeavouring to uphold the dignity and honour it conferred on the wearer. After some special reference had been made to the Bye-laws, and the Fees payable by the members, Lodge was closed until second Thursday in April. A banquet was then partaken of, and grace having been said, the W.M., in eloquent terms, proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts. Bro. Aspinall I.P.M. proposed the health of the W. Master. This was the last time Bro. Jagielski would preside as Worshipful Master at the banquet table. The brethren had seen how he had conducted the duties of the chair—in every way satisfactorily; the brethren had voted him the jewel of the Lodge, which certainly he was fully entitled to. Under these circumstances, he was convinced the brethren would give the toast the reception it merited. The W.M. had great pleasure in replying to the kind remarks of the I.P.M. His aim had always been to do what he considered his duty as Master, and when he looked to the brethren around the table, he hoped they would come to the conclusion he had done his best, and that had been for the benefit of the Lodge. He referred to the National characteristics of the Lodge, and was indeed pleased to see that so many English brethren had joined. Infinitely was he gratified to see so many brethren present to support him, and he trusted his successor would rule over them successfully. The toast of the P.M.'s was next given. Bro. Wiercinski, the founder of the Lodge, the W.M. regretted was not present. Bro. Paas had always been associated with the Charities; he was the right man in the right place, and he (Bro. Jagielski) would counsel the newly-elected W.M. to make an especial friendship with him, as no better Mason could be found. Bros. Cummings and Ebner are worthy Masons; in brief, he would ask the members heartily to drink to the toast. Bro. Aspinall I.P.M. said, since he had been a member of the Lodge, he had always endeavoured to act in a considerate way; whatever he had done was he thought for the benefit of the Lodge. Bros. Cummings and Ebner followed with a few remarks. The W.M. then proposed the health of the Visitors, coupling with the toast the name of Bro. H. M. Levy P.M. 188, who responded. The Wardens were next complimented, special reference being made to the way in which the newly-elected W.M. had endeared himself to one and all. Suitable replies having been made by Bros. Corrie Jackson, Lancaster, and Runts, the Tyler's toast was given. Some very excellent singing emanated from Bros. Gordon, Lancaster, Runts, and Foster. Bros. McRae 180 and H. M. Levy P.M. 188 were present as visitors.

Islington Lodge of Instruction, No. 1471.—On Tuesday, 15th inst., at the Moorgate Tavern, Finsbury Pavement. Present—Bros. Medwin W.M., Kern S.W., Hepburn J.W., J. L. Mather Preceptor, C. G. Sparrow Sec., Cuthbertson S.D., Halestrap J.D., Conchman I.G., and several others. After preliminaries the ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Button candidate. Lodge opened in the second, and the ceremony of passing was rehearsed, Bro. Gabb candidate. The sum of £5 5s was voted from the funds of the Lodge to Bro. J. L. Mather's list for the Festival of the Boys' School. Bros. Walder, Royal Navy 429, and Sprules, Cosmopolitan 917, were elected members. Bro. Kern was appointed W.M. for the ensuing week.

FREEMAN'S CHLORODYNE.

The Original and only true.

HUNDREDS of Medical Practitioners testify to its marvellous efficacy in immediately relieving and rapidly curing Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Neuralgia, Spasms, Colic, Whooping Cough, and all Nerve Pains. It acts like a charm in Diarrhœa, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery. It rapidly relieves pain, from whatever cause, soothes and strengthens the system under exhausting diseases, and gives quiet and refreshing sleep.

Lord Chancellor Selborne, Lord Justice James, Lord Justice Mellish decided in favour of FREEMAN'S ORIGINAL CHLORODYNE, and against Brown and Davenport, compelling them to pay all costs in the suits. See Times of July 24th, 1873. Bottles 1s 1½d, 2s 9d, 4s 6d, 11s, and 20s. Sold by all Chemists.

TESTIMONIALS.—Head Quarter Staff, Cabul, May 31st, 1880. Mr. R. Freeman, Dear Sir,—It is with much pleasure I am able to state that your Chlorodyne has been of special service to me in alleviating the wearisome spasms of Asthma, which is here existent in an aggravated form. Many of my patients now come and beg me to give them that medicine which always relieves them, and which I need hardly say is your Chlorodyne. Yours faithfully, CHARLES W. OWEN, L.R.C.P. Lon., M.R.C.S. Eng., the Divisional Head Quarter Staff and Civil Surgeon, Cabul.

The Times, August 13th, 1877. From our own Correspondent with the Russian Army. Okoum, July 25th, 1877. The want of sanitary arrangements in the Russian Camp was dreadful, and had we remained there a few weeks longer, dysentery and typhoid fever would have played more havoc in our ranks than the bombs of the Turks. I myself acquired an unenviable reputation as a doctor, owing to my being provided with a small bottle of CHLORODYNE, with which I effected miraculous cures.

THE APPROACHING SCHOOL ELECTIONS.

THE task of reviewing the list of candidates for the April election of the Boys' School is not so easy an undertaking as was that in connection with the sister Institution, to which we devoted our attention last week. Then we had but twenty-eight candidates requiring notice; now we have close on three times that number, the list for the Boys containing no less than seventy-eight names. Of these twenty only can be returned as successful, that being the number of vacancies at the disposal of the Committee; so that it may be imagined a hard struggle awaits any one who may desire the success of a particular candidate. We last week made especial reference to one case where we deemed further particulars should have been given, and in another part of this week's issue we refer again to the matter. The result proves that the particulars we asked for show the case to be really more deserving than it was at first represented to be, and we can only hope that sufficient votes will be obtained to place the child under the care of the Girls' Institution, and thereby afford the assistance to the family which the father's long connection with the Craft justifies them in soliciting. We are aware that in drawing attention to any particular case we may err from the fact that the information obtainable is necessarily so meagre, but we contend this is not our fault, but rather the fault of the system that renders it necessary for outsiders to seek for particulars that should be supplied officially. That there is really need for more careful supervision of the petitions which are presented to our Charities is daily becoming more and more apparent, and we can only hope the day is not far distant when the Committees of the Schools will take some steps which will render the acceptance of a petition on behalf of a child who is well provided for an impossibility.

The ballot paper as issued to the subscribers contains the names of seventy-six applicants, but of this number only seventy-three will go to the poll, by reason of the withdrawal of two candidates—Nos. 52 and 70—O. E. Lewis and V. G. Legge—the latter in consequence of his having been selected by the brethren of East Lancashire for presentation in virtue of their right to nominate a pupil to the School—and the removal by the Committee of No. 61, W. H. Gosden, who it appears is in possession of property in his own right amply sufficient to pay for his education and maintenance. Of these seventy-three there are five last application cases, namely—No. 1, John, Reid, one of four fatherless children, accredited to the Province of East Lancashire, who now appeals for the seventh time, with but 34 votes to his credit; No. 2, H. S. J. Crane, one of three similarly circumstanced, who has made five previous attempts, and now appears with a total of 316 votes to the good; No. 5, W. R. D. Foot, from Devonshire, who has made four attempts to secure election, but at present without a single vote being recorded in his favour—we can only imagine that his case is in the hands of the Charity Committee of Devon, of which Province his father was a member, and that they will do what they can for him; No. 18, C. S. V. Field, a Bedfordshire lad, whose mother has nine children dependent on her, and at present has only been able to secure 136 votes on behalf of her son, who has taken part in two previous elections; and No. 56, F. W. Cairney, first application, who is one of two children now dependent on a widowed mother. The case is a West Yorkshire one. We hope that these five at least will, have the good fortune to be numbered among the successful candidates.

London has nineteen candidates in addition to No. 2 already referred to, nine of whom are first application cases; the most distressing perhaps being No. 59, G. A. March, who, as we have said, in referring to his sister's candidature for the Girl's School, is one of ten children, both of whose parents are living, but the father is insane. We heartily wish his friends success at the coming election. Of the others, No. 63, F. F. Skelton, is one of a family of whom there are still seven dependent on their mother; he has a sister in the Girl's School. No. 69, E. C. Rocke, is one of six relying on their widowed mother for support. Nos. 51, C. E. Stewart, and 53, J. Bloomfield, are each members of families of five. No. 54, A. Kirkby, is one of four children, as also is No. 66, H. E. Morris, who has lost his mother, but still has his father living. No. 60, A. D. Ashdown, is one of two, and No. 65, G. C. Willett, an only child, dependent on their respective mothers. Of the London candidates who have taken part in previous elections, six at least may be said to occupy very good positions, the votes already recorded on their behalf ranging from 662 upwards. No. 24, G. D. Carey, stands best in this respect, having 940 votes to his credit from two previous elections; he and five others being dependent on the mother. No. 36, A. L. Lewis, follows rather closely with 925 votes in hand, and seeing that the whole of that number were polled for him in October last, he occupies a very enviable position. The same may be said of No. 41, A. Allan, whose friends recorded 910 votes in his favour at the same election. No. 13, C. S. Estlin, who is an only child, brings forward 896 votes from three previous attempts; while No. 3, Arthur Fellows, is in possession of 714 votes after four trials. No. 9, S. E. Lee, who has a brother in the School, has already appeared at three elections, on which occasions 662 votes have been polled on his behalf; he and three others being still dependent on their mother. No. 40, F. T. Tanner, second application, brings forward 422 votes; while No. 30, G. W. K. Hill, has but 294 as the result of two previous elections, the former being one of five, and the latter one of six fatherless children. No. 44, J. W. Long, secured only 113 votes last October; we think the members of the Perfect Ashlar Lodge, of which his father was a member, should be able to greatly increase that number at no very distant date. No. 31, W. J. Sisley, the last of the London candidates requiring notice, may, we think, be also described as the least—so far as support is concerned. He has taken a part in the two last elections, but at present has only 66 votes recorded on his behalf.

Among the Provinces, Hants, as usual, comes out strong, no less than five candidates appearing on the list from that quarter. These are No. 8, W. H. Woollons, who has 803 votes in hand after contesting four elections; No. 26, J. Langdon, 194 votes, and No. 27, J. Collinson, twenty-six votes, each of whom has taken a part in the last two contests, with No. 37, F. Booth, with 197 votes, and No. 45, R. A. L. Hill, one vote from last October. The brethren of this Province may therefore be said to have their hands full for some considerable time, even if no fresh cases arise, and while we heartily wish them success, we have every confidence in leaving to them the selection and support of the most deserving cases. Durham puts forward four candidates on the present occasion, of whom No. 33, G. Wortley, appears to be the one having the best chance. He is one of eight children left fatherless, and has 542 votes in hand from one previous attempt. If his friends can secure as much sympathy on his behalf at the coming election, they will stand a fair chance of securing his return. No. 12, H. L. Laing, one of seven children, has taken part in three previous elections, and yet has only fourteen votes in his favour. No. 46, J. Humphrey, one of a family of eight, whose father is still living, brings eleven votes forward from last election, while No. 28, E. Farrar, has but one to show as the result of two contests. It seems very hard for these two latter cases if their chance of success is in any way to be gauged by what has already been done for them. Kent and Middlesex have each three representatives, while a similar number appears on the list hailing from abroad. Of the Kentish cases, two are first applications, viz. :—Nos. 48 and 49, F. Pudney and C. J. Sanderson the other is No. 10, C. E. Webb, who at the three previous, contests in which he has taken part has secured 330 votes, he and two others are dependent on their widowed mother. No. 25, C. A. Gurney, of Middlesex, has 761 votes in hand as the result of two trials; we have little doubt but that the members of the Royal Union Lodge, of which his father was a member, will do their best to make a considerable addition to this number at the coming election. No. 23, C. L. Escott, has not been so successful—he has only secured 94 votes at present, although he, like young Gurney, has tried twice before. No. 55, G. W. Taylor, is a first application case. Cumberland and Westmoreland sends No. 57, J. B. Windross, and No. 75, G. Wicks, both new cases. Dorset is next, with No. 4, J. T. Goldsborough, who has 338 votes from four previous elections, and No. 71, H. J. Tink, who now appears for the first time. Essex also has one new case, No. 74, F. J. Cook, and one second application, No. 34, H. L. Jordison, who has 264 votes to his credit. Lancashire (East), in addition to the child they will present, and the last application case already referred to, are interested in two others, both of whom appear now for the first time, No. 62, W. W. Lucas, and No. 76, A. W. Bottomley, being accredited to them. The latter has neither parent living, and is one of two now dependent on the charity of friends. We do not think he could have gone to a much better quarter than to the Masonic brethren of East Lancashire. Lincolnshire presents a wonderful contrast—in the one case organisation of voting power is complete, while in the other, anything but satisfactory results are obtainable. One of its candidates—No. 7, R. W. Pratt,—now appeals for the fifth time, having but two votes in hand. Would it not be much better to withdraw this case than longer to allow it to remain a reproach to the brethren who have lent their names to the petition? The other case from this Province is No. 67, C. J. Crow; this lad has a sister in the Girls' School, and we only hope that a better fate is in store for him than that which has fallen to the lot of young Pratt. Norfolk has 32 votes standing to the credit of one of its lads, No. 38, W. B. Stanford, who has been once before the electors; the other case from this district, No. 68, C. B. Cummings, is a first application. Both the candidates from North Wales and Salop are old cases; No. 22, W. J. Williams, now appearing for the third time with 320 votes in hand, while No. 35, C. P. Liversidge, second application, has 56; this latter candidate is one of a family of nine children looking to their mother for support. From the Western Division of South Wales we have No. 11, E. T. Ball, one of three fatherless children, who now makes his fourth application, with 163 votes already recorded on his behalf; their other candidate is No. 72, G. S. Jones, one of seven fatherless children. Warwickshire has recorded 555 votes at the last two elections on behalf of No. 19, F. A. Clark, who is one of nine children dependent on a widowed mother, and has also another third application case in No. 29, H. T. Burgess, for whom, however, they have not yet made any effort, they doubtless preferring to secure the election of one, rather than waste votes over two. Burgess has only 6 votes in hand at present. No. 15, E. C. Lucas, after three applications, brings forward 968 votes; his case is accredited to Guernsey, and we think the prospect in view is such as the brethren of that outlying District have every reason to be proud of. Berks and Bucks also stands well with its candidate, No. 39, F. R. Blaydon, who has a sister in the Girls' School, and is himself accredited with 742 votes from last October; he is one of six fatherless children and should secure election in April next if the brethren of his father's Province are able to give him their undivided support. Cambridgeshire is represented by No. 6, F. J. Neville, who has 409 votes in hand from four previous elections. He is one of four children dependent on his mother. Surrey follows with 243 votes recorded in favour of No. 14, W. R. Watson, who has already contested three times. We think we may leave his case in the hands of the Province to which he is accredited, as we feel assured that no effort will be spared on the part of the brethren thereof to do what is right. Herts is represented by No. 32, C. C. B. Jones, one of four children left parentless, and dependent; they have but 237 votes in hand from two elections, but we trust that this is no criterion of what they will be able to accomplish. Gloucestershire and Staffordshire stand about equal as regards their cases. No. 42, C. W. Thompson, who has forty-five votes, and No. 43, T. W. Crabb, who has forty-three. No. 20, W. V. B. Jones, of North and East Yorkshire, has already taken part in two elections, with the result that fifteen votes stand in his name. The other five Provincial cases are first applications, coming from Northumberland, Devon, West Lancashire, Cheshire, and West Yorkshire, respectively; considering what some of these Provinces are in the habit of doing, we do not think we should be wrong in saying that perhaps one or more of these five will secure sufficient votes to place them beyond the need of further trouble.

Each of the three Foreign cases appears to be well supported. No. 17, W. L. Wilson (South Africa), heading the list of unsuccessful candidates at the last election, with 1238 votes; he is one of four fatherless children. No. 21, A. H. Ecclestone, from Hong Kong, has 741 votes standing to his credit, after two attempts; while No. 18, W. P. Gunnell, an only child, dependent on his mother, has 371 as the result of three applications.

Before concluding our remarks we think it right to point out that, although we have in every case referred to candidates as being adopted by the Province of which their father was a member, there are doubtless many who have to get the bulk, and it may be the whole, of their votes from outside; and thus it may be that we have given credit to some district where none is due; but in such cases we hope the brethren will ere long see the necessity of making some systematic arrangements for removing any stigma which may be attached to them.

We publish elsewhere a list of the pupils of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys who presented themselves at the Cambridge Middle Class Examination last Christmas. Of the nineteen who went in, no less than sixteen figure in the honour list—namely, three in the Senior Division and thirteen in the Junior, while the remaining three obtained certificates to the effect that their work was, in the estimation of the Examiners, satisfactory. A result so glorious must needs arrest our attention. Every one of "Our Boys" who presented himself for examination was approved, and the great majority approved with honour. This of course reflects the highest credit on the Head Master, Bro. Dr. Morris, and his coadjutors. Making allowance for those shortcomings which will be found in our Boys' School as in other Institutions of a cognate character, it must be evident to our readers there is no shortcoming on the part of our educational staff. Dr. Morris has now been at the head of our Boys' School for some six years, and every time he has sent up candidates to these local examinations their success has been, we feel justified in saying, unexampled. A very small number may have failed to reach the prescribed standard of knowledge, but the majority have gone further, and found places in the honour list. Such results speak eloquently for the Head Master's system of education, as well as the manner in which that system is applied; and it occurs to us that such reiterated successes in the past should receive some substantial acknowledgment. It is, as it were, but the other day that the Secretary of the sister School was unanimously voted a large increment of salary for, as some have been wicked enough to suggest, the very praiseworthy zeal he has exhibited in sitting down and deriving all the benefit it was in his power to obtain from the energetic advocacy of his brother Secretaries. We think the splendid labours of Dr. Morris and his staff are at least entitled to some similar recognition.

On Monday, 21st instant, R.W. Bro. Major G. Singleton Tudor was installed Grand Master of the Province of Staffordshire in succession to the late respected R.W. Bro. the Earl of Shrewsbury and Talbot. The imposing ceremony took place at the Borough Hall, Stafford, in the presence of a brilliant assemblage of brethren. The Earl of Lathom, Dep. G. Master England, officiated as Installing Master. Our report of the proceedings, for reasons we state elsewhere, is deferred till next week, but we take this early opportunity of congratulating our R Worshipful Bro. Tudor on his installation, and the auspicious circumstances under which it took place.

Our attention was drawn, the other evening, at the meeting of the Evening Star Lodge, to a most deserving case, that of the Widow Diver, aged 63 years, who is a candidate for election on the Female Fund of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution in May. Mrs. Diver is the widow of Bro. Thomas Diver, M.D., who was initiated into Freemasonry in the month of February 1858, and attained the rank of Deputy District Grand Master of Bombay. He was, likewise, an active supporter of two of our Institutions, namely, the Benevolent and the Girls' School. Mrs. Diver, therefore, has a claim upon the support, as well as the respect, of the Governors and subscribers to the Asylum for Aged and Deceased Brethren and their Widows. Her late husband's death occurred suddenly, and at the time of its occurrence she was lying helpless, through an accident at the Victoria Railway Station, by which her collar-bone and leg were broken. What is still more to the point, is, that she has never received any compensation for those injuries, which have incapacitated her from doing anything towards earning a livelihood, and that, in the midst of these distressing circumstances, she has dependent on her a family of five children. The case is strongly recommended by Bros. Dr. Erasmus Wilson P.G.D., James Glaisher P.G.D., Magnus Ohren Assist. G. D. of C., F. Adlard P.M. No. 7, F. W. Mitchell P.P.G.W. Surrey, Rev. H. Burchell-Herne P.P.G. Chaplain Herts, and other brethren. Mrs. Diver has our entire sympathy, and we sincerely trust her candidature will be successful.

We understand that Bro. Egbert Roberts underwent an operation in St. Mark's Hospital, City-road, E.C., on the 8th instant, and that he is happily progressing towards convalescence; indeed, he is under the expectation that it will be possible for him to leave the Hospital on the 2nd, or at the very latest, the 10th April. Bro. Dr. Gowland was the operating surgeon. While expressing our sympathy with Bro. Roberts in his suffering, we are also glad of the opportunity of congratulating him on the favourable progress he seems to be making, and his near approach to a complete restoration to health.

A very pleasant meeting of the Lodge of Israel, No. 205, was held on Tuesday, at the Cannon-street Hotel. A report will appear in our next.

Owing to the great pressure on our space, we are unfortunately compelled to hold over till next week several important notices, among them being that of the meeting, on Tuesday, of the Evening Star, No. 1719, and the installation meeting of the Royal Union, No. 382, Uxbridge.

At the meeting, on Wednesday, of the Lodge of Benevolence, no less a sum than £1435 was voted, the applications being, as our reporter has tersely worded it, "exceptionally numerous and deserving." We presume the hard times we have latterly been experiencing will account for this unusually large amount of grants to distressed brethren.

A Lodge of Instruction has been formed under the sanction of the Kennington Lodge, No. 1381, to meet at the Horns Tavern, Kennington, every Tuesday evening, at 7.30, Bro. C. H. Webb Preceptor pro tem. From the numerous attendance of the brethren at the first meeting, on the 15th inst., presided over by Bro. H. P. Speedy W.M. of the Mother Lodge, and the interest they have shown in the formation of this Lodge of Instruction, there is every indication that it will prove successful.

MEETING OF THE LODGE OF BENEVOLENCE.

THE Lodge of Benevolence met on Wednesday evening, at Freemasons' Hall. Bros. Joshua Nunn P.G.S.B. Senior Vice-President, James Brett P.G.P. Junior Vice-President, and C. A. Cottebrune P.G.P., occupied the chairs of President, and Senior and Junior Vice-Presidents. Bros. H. G. Buss Assistant Grand Secretary, W. Dodd, and Neville Green attended from Grand Secretary's office. There was a large attendance of brethren, among whom were Bros. Saml. Rawson, Thomas Cubitt, F. Binckes, James Terry, C. Dairy, W. Stephens, A. E. Gladwell, H. Massey, C. F. Hogard, J. H. Matthews, W. H. Perryman, John Constable, Walter Hopekirk, H. Garrod, G. P. Britton, and R. Watts. The brethren first confirmed recommendations of grants to the amount of £445 made at last meeting, and then proceeded to consider the new cases, of which there were forty-four on the list. After a sitting of four and a half hours' duration, the brethren granted a total sum of £1,435, the cases being exceptionally numerous and deserving.

KINGSLAND LODGE OF INSTRUCTION, No. 1693.

THE ceremonies of consecration and installation were rehearsed by Bro. James Terry P.M., at the Canonbury Tavern, N., on Monday, 21st instant, in the presence of nearly 100 brethren. After the minutes of previous meeting had been read and confirmed, Bro. Terry proceeded with the beautiful ceremony all were so anxious to hear. It is needless to dilate on the perfectness of Bro. Terry's working, suffice it, not a word was missed, whilst due solemnity was given to the many beautiful phrases. The anthem, hymns, chants and responses were most ably sung by the brethren, accompanied by Bro. R. G. Thomas Org. 1602. At the close of the consecration Bro. Terry proceeded with the installation and investiture of Officers, and again proved how thoroughly he is a master of the art, even to the smallest detail. A number of new members having subscribed their names, Lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to a sumptuous fish supper, gratuitously supplied by Bro. Forge, J.W. Beadon 619 Secretary of this Lodge of Instruction, to which nearly eighty sat down. Bro. P.M. Hawkins occupied the chair, supported by Bros. P.M.'s Terry, George, Pearcy, Cusworth and others. The usual toasts having been given, Bro. Hawkins proceeded to propose the health of Bro. Terry, and said he had no occasion to eulogise again the excellent working they all had had the pleasure of hearing. No doubt many there had done so before, but he ventured to say Bro. Terry certainly surpassed himself. Bro. Terry, in reply, expressed the great pleasure he always had in visiting the Kingsland Lodge of Instruction; from the first all were glad to see it in such a flourishing condition; the Secretary having intimated that, after paying all the debts, which were small, there would be a balance. The health of the Secretary and Treasurer followed, especial mention was made of Bro. Forge, the founder of the Feast, who felt great gratification in being of any service to the Kingsland Lodge. He informed them that a collection had been made amongst the brethren to defray the necessary expense of preparing the supper; he had much pleasure in handing Bro. Terry £5 5s, and on being asked to which Charity, the brethren, being gallant and true, replied the "Ladies," consequently Bro. Terry will place the amount to the Widows' Fund. Bro. Terry felt extremely gratified; though the donations were larger than in any former year, the candidates were more and the vacancies less. Bro. Terry then proposed the Chairman, who briefly replied. Several capital songs were given by Bro. Mallord, and others, while Bro. C. Townley convulsed the company with three songs, his own composition.

THE PROVINCES AND THE CHARITIES.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Observing that considerable attention is given in your columns to the subject of Masonic Charities, especially with reference to the contributions of the Provinces, I send, as a supplement to your own statistics, tables showing the relative amount of support awarded by the several Provinces to the Boys' and Girls' Schools up to the end of the year 1880.

I have now prepared these tables for the last two or three years, feeling convinced that it affords the fairest available means of arriving at that knowledge. The four columns following the name of the Province show: 1, the number of Lodges in the Province; 2, the number of Life Votes possessed by individuals, Lodges, &c., within the Province; 3, the average number of votes per Lodge which those figures give; and 4, the number of children from the Province at present in the School.

The numbers immediately after the name of the Province refer to the position last year in the tables published in the Freemason, of 1st and 8th May. The Provinces are placed in order of merit, those equal being so numbered. Fractions of ½ are estimated as a ¼, I have taken no account of annual subscriptions, these vary so much from year to year as to be useless for my purpose.

The first table gives the result for the Girls' School, the second for the Boys', and the third the two combined, by which a fairer average is obtained as some Provinces support one Charity almost to the exclusion of the other.

I am unable to include the Benevolent Institution, which retains the objectionable practice of inserting all subscribers in one alphabetical list. Your own statistics, published on the 12th instant, may give some idea of what the result might have been.

The tables have been prepared with great care, and I believe are accurate. I shall, however, be pleased to acknowledge and correct any mistakes that may be pointed out.

Yours fraternally,

24th March 1881. A PAST MASTER.

AN EARLY CHESHIRE FREEMASON.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—In the Probate Court at Chester is preserved the will of "Edward Kinge, of Halton, co: Chester, freemason," which is dated 15 May 1606, and was proved 7 June 1607. I have examined the will and the only other allusion to the Craft which it contains is a mention of "William Kinge, of Halton, freemason," probably the testator's brother.

I am, yours fraternally,

J.W. 148.

P.S.—From the Bradford Antiquary, part 1, I copy the following inscription from Thornton old church:—

LORDE 1612.

Possibly some of your correspondents will kindly communicate other early notices of Freemasonry of which there is existing contemporary evidence.

In my former communication, Penket should be Penket.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS.

CASE OF E. M. PENNY, No. 15.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

SIR,—With reference to your remarks in last Saturday's issue, the amount of the late Bro. Penny's personal effects was £2,200. Of this sum it now shows, after payment of his debts, and expenses of realisation, funeral, &c., that all that remains is an equity of redemption worth £200, and a little household furniture worth about £50. Total £250. Of this the widow is entitled to a third, and the balance (£166) will have to be divided between the six children, of whom the candidate is one. The widow, therefore, with the exception of the above, is entirely dependent on her other children.

I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

THE ADMINISTRATOR.

[We have great pleasure in publishing the above letter. We are well aware that in commenting on the various cases which come under notice we often experience difficulties, owing to the incompleteness of the information it is in our power to acquire. In this case, the petition represented that the mother of the candidate was in receipt of an income of £50 a year, and when, in the interim between the presentation of the petition and the issue of the voting papers for the next election, we discovered that amended letters of administration had been granted for personalty sworn under £3000 instead of £1500, as originally announced, we not unnaturally came to the conclusion that as the estate had been doubled, so likewise had the income. However, we are much obliged to our correspondent for his clear and straightforward explanation. It is evident the case of the girl Penny is one which deserves to be supported, and successfully supported into the bargain; and we trust those of our readers who may not yet have pledged their votes will give this daughter of a deceased worthy and respected brother all the assistance they can.—ED. F.C.]

The Rt. Wor. Prov. G.M. N. Wales and Shropshire, Sir Watkin Williams Wynn, Bart., will hold his Annual Provincial Grand Lodge, at Newport, Salop, on Tuesday, 26th April 1881, and will consecrate the Audley Lodge, No. 1896.

The Secretary of a Lodge, which meets within a hundred miles of Charing Cross, has written us a letter for the purpose of advising us to caution our readers against a certain brother and his better-half, who, according to his statement, are travelling the country announcing a kind of entertainment which may, perhaps, be best described as "doing" the Provincials. We are sensible of the grave impropriety of such conduct, even in the case of a non-Mason, and we so far fall in with the wishes of our correspondent as to suggest to our Provincial friends that they must be on their guard against peripatetic showmen in general, and the pair of whom our brother complains in particular. Let them strictly avoid having anything whatever to do with any people, be they who they may, who trade upon Masonry.

INSTALLATION MEETINGS, &c.

COMBERMERE LODGE, No. 605.

THE annual festival was held on Thursday, the 17th inst., at the Queen's Hotel, Park-entrance, Birkenhead. There were several visitors present, amongst them being Bros. W. Marquis W.M. 537, John Dutton P.M. 1576 and 477, J. P. Platt 537 P.P.J.G.W., Hon. H. Holbrook P.M. (first P.M. 605), Donald Fraser P.M. and Treas. 477, Frederick Thompson I.P.M. 477, John Wallworth S.D. 1576, W. H. Miller 673, P. H. Dunne 1620, Joseph B. Sparks S.W. 1289, W. S. Stanton P.M. 1289, J. Armstrong P.M. 148, H. Martin P.M. 477, &c. About fifty members of the Lodge were present. The lodge having been opened in due form by the retiring W.M., Bro. Thomas Gregory, and the minutes of the previous meeting being read and confirmed, the W.M. elect, Bro. Albert E. Coveney S.W., was installed into the chair of K.S. by Bro. Thomas Gregory in a very able and most impressive manner. The new W.M. then invested his Officers as follow: — Bros. Thomas Gregory I.P.M., Joseph Sillitoe P.M. P.P.G.J. Treas. (re-elected for 12th time), Geo. J. Davis S.W., Joseph R. Simm J.W., Monkman Bielby Sec., Owen Jones S.D., A. Moore J.D., T. M. Bleakley I.G., Jas. Clarke D.C., George Grant S.S., Alfred Judd J.S., Alexander Bleakley Organist, and Bro. Holtaway Tyler. On the conclusion of the ceremony, the W.M. invested the I.P.M. with a very handsome P.M's. jewel, of gold, enriched with a diamond—provided by the Lodge. In performing this pleasant duty the W.M. spoke in high terms of Bro. Gregory, and said that the I.P.M. had, by his excellent rendering of the ritual, and his zeal and perseverance in the general working of the Lodge, given the greatest possible satisfaction to the officers and brethren; and that in so saying, he, the W.M., but echoed the sentiments and opinions of the whole Lodge. After Bro. Gregory had very feelingly replied, the W.M. proceeded to invest Bro. Simm J.W. with a Past Secretary's jewel of 18 carat gold and enamel, which had been subscribed for by members of the Lodge, in recognition of the high esteem in which he was held, and his valuable services in the capacity of Secretary of the Lodge for the past three years. The W.M. remarked that their P.Sec. had fulfilled his duties with the utmost willingness and fidelity—reflecting great credit upon the Lodge and himself. Bro. the Hon. H. Holbrook P.M. P.P.G.Sup. Works, of New Westminster, M. and A., of British Columbia, moved that a letter of condolence should be sent in the name of the Lodge to the widow of the late Bro. Pickering, of new Brighton. He mentioned that he himself, when Master of the Lodge, shortly after its foundation, had the pleasure of initiating Bro. Pickering, who, though not of late years a member of the Lodge, was highly respected in the Craft as well as in private life. Bro. Henry Davis P.M., seconded the motion, which was supported by Bro. McNerney P.M., who spoke in feeling terms of the universal regret which was felt throughout the district at the sudden death of Bro. Pickering. The motion was carried unanimously. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to refreshment, and sat down to a récherche banquet. The dinner over, the W.M. proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts, which were duly honoured in the way peculiar to the Craft. The toast of the D.G.M., the Prov. G.M., and Prov. Grand Officers past and present was responded to by Bro. Platt P.P.J.G.W., and Bro. Holbrook P.P.G. Sup. Works, the latter of whom spoke of the pleasure it gave him to be once more present at a meeting of the Combermere Lodge, of which he was one of the founders, and which he had never ceased to remember with interest while in his far-off country. He also paid a well-deserved compliment to the exertions of Bro. Platt on behalf of the Charities in the Province, particularly the Cheshire Masonic Educational Institution, the establishment of which was mainly due to his exertions. The toast of the "Cheshire Masonic Educational Institution, and other Masonic Charities," was responded to by Bro. Platt; The "Worshipful Master," proposed by Bro. Gregory I.P.M. The W.M. in his reply spoke of the harmony that existed in the Lodge, and had no doubt it would continue during his year of office. He trusted they would have work to do of the right stamp—the initiating of good men and true, as well as the ordinary work of the Lodge. The other toasts were the "Installing Master," proposed by Bro. McNerney, responded to by Bro. Gregory; the "Past Masters," responded to by Bros. Holbrook and McNerney; the "Visiting Brethren," responded to by Bros. Marquis, Dutton, Fraser, and Martin; the "Officers of the Lodge," responded to by Bro. G. J. Davis S.W.; and the "Musical Brethren," responded to by Bro. Owen Jones. The "Tyler's Toast," brought to a conclusion an evening spent with much harmony and brotherly love.

NEW CONCORD LODGE, No. 813.

THE installation meeting of this highly popular Lodge took place at the Guildhall Tavern, in the presence of a large assemblage of members and visitors, on Thursday, 18th inst., when, in consequence of the great amount of business, the brethen assembled at 3.30. Bro. Sampson George W.M., after the minutes of the previous meeting had been read and confirmed, proceeded to raise Bros. Chubb, Tedman and Perl, and this impressive ceremony was never better worked. Then followed the initiation of Messrs. F. W. Willcocks, A. Perl, and Douglas Martin Sherwill (Manager of Guildhall Coffee House and Tavern) each being taken seriatim. Mr. Chas. Lauri jun. was also to have been initiated, but was prevented at the last moment attending. The ceremony of installing Bro. William Pierpoint was the next business, and Bro. George received at its close the congratulations of all for his excellent working. Bro. Cusworth also acted very efficiently as D.C., whilst the Chaplain the Rev. C. F. Stevens, Ph. D., rendered goodly service at the organ during all the ceremonies. The investiture of Officers was then made, as follows:—Bros. Sampson George Immediate Past Master, L. C. Haslip S.W., H. T. Tiddeman J.W., Rev. C. F. Stevens, Ph. D., Chaplain, John Stillwell P.M. Treasurer, R. R. Harper P.M. Secretary, A. J. Potter S.D., Peter Hurnett J.D., G. Mustoe I.G., Sinclair D.C., J. Boulton W.S., H. H. Allardyce Asst. W.S., C. T. Speight Tyler. The duties of the Lodge being completed, it was closed. The brethren adjourned to a banquet served in Bros. Ritter and Clifford's best style, the tables were beautifully decorated with flowers, and the menu a perfect work of art. It seemed that Bro. Sherwill's genial countenance amongst the initiates tended to sweeten the viands, and we venture to say that the whole of the large number of brethren thoroughly enjoyed the repast which had the sweets of labour attached to it. After the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts I.P.M. George made an eloquent speech in praise of the W.M., who, by the proficiency of his working in the Lodge, had proved himself equal to the high position he had attained; he trusted he would be spared in health to fulfil its obligations. The W.M. in reply, said he could approach the duties of the chair with the greatest confidence, having so efficient an I.P.M.; he trusted he should leave the chair with the same kindly feelings his predecessor had carried away. The W.M. proposed the health of the I.P.M., and said how much he was indebted to Bro. George for the assistance he had always received at his hands. The Lodge fully admitting his assiduity, he had much pleasure in affixing a P.M.'s jewel on his breast, in token that they would never forget his services. Bro. I.P.M. George in reply said, he had endeavoured to uphold the dignity of the chair, and it would have given him greater satisfaction had he had more time to spare. At the same time, owing to the kindly feeling that existed in the Lodge, and the good Officers who had so ably assisted him, the difficulties were removed; he thanked them most heartily for their kind support, and had much pleasure in personally presenting Bro. R. R. Harper P.M., the Secretary, with a jewel, in return for the valuable assistance he had received from him. A toast from the chair—the Secretary and Treasurer—met with hearty support. Bro. P.M. Stillwell said his office was no sinecure without a good Secretary; and he spoke most highly of the great assistance he had received from P.M. Harper. P.M. Harper in responding to his health felt very deeply the kind manner the brethren had received the toast, and how highly they appreciated his services: at the same time he assured them he should do his best to give satisfaction in the future as he had endeavoured to do in the past. The Officers' toast was duly received and responded to by the S.W. and J.W., the J.W. remarking that one object of his life had been to occupy the position he then filled, and to progress from the time he was initiated. The toast of the Past Masters followed, and was responded to by Bros. Gabb, Cusworth, Stead, Harper, Pearcy and Driscoll. The toast of the Initiates, as usual, was most heartily received, and each one said how much he was impressed by the beautiful ceremony; it would be their great aim to push forward and attain the high honour of passing the chair. Bro. D. Sherwill was especially well received. He acknowledged, with feelings of gratitude, the honour which had been conferred upon him by the brethren of the New Concord Lodge by admitting him to the privileges of the ancient and honourable Institution of Freemasonry. He must say that of the twenty-eight Lodges and Chapters which assembled in that house, he had, after due consideration, selected the New Concord, because of the continued friendly disposition of its members, and the kindly feelings which always pervaded their meetings. He was much indebted to their excellent Immediate Past Master, Bro. S. George, for the way in which he had put the initiates through their facings; and on his own behalf he thanked Bro. P.M. Stead for having proposed him, and Bro. P.M. Bartlett, who was not present, for having seconded his nomination. It should be his earnest endeavour to become an apt student of the art of Masonry, to become a credit to this old and distinguished Lodge, and to justify the confidence which had been reposed in him by those who had so kindly acted as his sponsors. It was a great pleasure and honour to be associated with such gentlemen as he saw around him; and the gratification he now experienced would remain in his recollection as long as his life lasted. The reception accorded to his name was a compliment he sincerely and deeply appreciated, and his entrance into the honourable fraternity of Freemasonry would never be effaced from his memory. Bro. Sherwill resumed his seat amidst renewed and prolonged cheering. The toast of the Visitors was next given and heartily greeted. Bros. Past Masters Pearcy and Driscoll spoke of the good working, also of the princely manner in which they had been received. Songs and recitations by the brethren concluded what every one admitted to be a most enjoyable evening.

METHAM LODGE, No. 1205.

THE annual meeting of this Lodge was held on Monday, 21st inst., at the Masonic Hall, Caroline-place, Stonehouse. There was a large attendance, as is usual in this flourishing Lodge. Bro. Thomas E. Peek, by the unanimous voice of the Lodge, was installed as W. Master, the impressive ceremony being very ably performed by the retiring Master W. Bro. Hugh Cameron, assisted by W. Bros. Wm. Powell P.M. and Secretary, and Thomas Gibbons I.P.M., in a Board of Installed Masters. The Officers appointed and invested were Bros. Hugh Cameron I.P.M., W. H. Hunt S.W., Richard Dickson J.W., Daniel Cross P.M. Treasurer, William Powell P.M. Sec., R. S. Smith S.D., Philip Dunn J.D., Thomas Gibbons P.M. Org., Lemuel Martin I.G., George Wilson D.C., John Hayward S.S., H. E. Sitters J.S., T. Gidley Tyler. The usual business consequent on the yearly meeting having been satisfactorily disposed of, the brethren adjourned to the Royal Hotel, at Devonport, for the banquet, which was supplied to the satisfaction of the eighty guests by Bro. Parker. The usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were duly honoured. Bro. J. E. Curtis responded for the Prov. Grand Lodge, and in few but well-chosen words spoke of times gone by as well as the present. Alluding to the late P.G. Master Bro. Huyshe, he hoped the Lodge, and the brethren individually, would all join to perpetuate his memory—not by a painted window, which few would see, placed in a church, not in accordance with universal Masonry; but by a scheme of education, which would have met the approval of Bro. Huyshe, and which was universally advocated in this part of the Province. The task of proposing the health of the W. Master was a pleasant duty for W. Bro. Powell, since he had to present a jewel, which had been voluntarily subscribed for by the brethren, and which it was universally admitted he fully deserved. The handsome gold jewel was inscribed as follows:—"Presented by the brethren of Metham Lodge 1205 to Bro. Hugh Cameron I.P.M., as a token of their fraternal regard, 1881." Bro. Peek presided. The evening was enlivened by appropriate songs, glees, &c. Bro. Thomas Gibbons presided at the piano and conducted.

HEMMING LODGE, No. 1512.

THE annual election of this Lodge took place at the Lodge room, Hampton, on Thursday, 17th inst., where a full muster of brethren put in an appearance, while among the Visitors may be named Bro. H. C. Levander Prov. G. Secretary of the Province, whom the W.M. requested the brethren to greet with the honours due to his rank, the Lodge at the time being in the sublime degree. Bro. B. J. Jeffery of the Urban Lodge 1196 and P.M. 201 visited the Lodge, for the first time, to meet some of his oldest Masonic friends; and as the special guest of the W.M. Bro. J. Faulkner W.M. elect of the Era 1423; Bro. C. S. Costelow, holding an analogous position in the Royal Alfred 780; Bro. Jackson Lawrence of the Industry 186, and Bro. W. Lamb of the Wolsey 1656. The W.M., Thomas William Ockenden, addressing the candidate for the second degree, elicited from Bro. Spearing a very creditable result, proving emphatically his fitness for the honour sought; and which was in due form very ably conferred. Two other brethren were as ably introduced to the mysteries of the third degree. Among the other brethren present were Bro. T. C. Walls, the future Master, for at a later period in the proceedings he was duly made W.M. elect; Bros. J. C. Jessett I.P.M., John Hammond P.M. P. Prov. G.D., Edward Hopwood P.M. P. Prov. G.S.B., Francis Honeywell P.M. Prov. G.O. Organist, Wm. Hammond P.M. P. Prov. G.D. Secretary, Thos. Moody I.G., Alfred Tozer S.S., W. C. Davey J.S., and lay brethren Grosvenor Phillips, William Messenger, Harry Tagg, Wm. Beauchamp, R. M. Axford, A. Jackson, E. Russell, George Cornelius Dohoo, G. Ransford, &c. In justice to the brother whom it deeply affects Masonically, we make the following extract from the minutes read by the Secretary, unanimously confirmed by the brethren, and duly signed by the W.M.:—"The Secretary read a letter from Bro. John Hurst, one of the founders and a P.M. of the Lodge, and Prov. G. Pursuivant Middlesex, in which were detailed circumstances that had transpired with respect to his admission into a Lodge in a Province to which he had removed, affording proof that some person from this locality had circulated injurious reports respecting his character as a man and a Mason." Resolved unanimously, "That this Lodge expresses its sincere sympathy with Bro. John Hurst under the circumstances, and deeply regrets that so worthy a brother and honourable a man should be subjected to the effects of the tongue of slander when taking up his abode in a new district, and offers to support him in any position in which honour, industry and Masonic worth are among the qualifications set forth as an essential possession for the attainment of his object." After the election of the W.M. for the ensuing year, Bro. E. Hopwood was unanimously re-elected to the office of Treasurer, and Bro. Gilbert Prov. G.T. to that of Tyler. On rising for propositions, the usual vote of five guineas from the funds of the Lodge was unanimously made to the W.M. on his retirement from the office, when several of the Past Masters complimented Bro. Ockenden upon his effective exertions during the period he had occupied the chair of King Solomon. In thanking the brethren for the grant, the W.M. expressed his gratification at this mark of high appreciation, but intimated that he should very much prefer that the amount should be spent in aid of the funds of one of the three Masonic Charities. This, however, met with determined opposition, and Past Master John Hammond, on the ground of the financial success achieved by the W.M. in the past twelve months, gave notice of motion to take ten guineas from the funds of the Lodge for a life-governorship of one of the Charities, in the name of Bro. Ockenden during his membership of the Hemming, and at such termination to pass in perpetuity to the Worshipful Master of the Lodge for the time being. This proposition met with the general approbation of the members. Other Masonic business having been completed, the Bye-laws read, some alterations proposed by Past Master John Hammond, and a gentleman balloted for as a member and for future initiation, the meeting was formally closed, and the brethren, to the number of about thirty, adjourned to a moderate but well-spread banquet, for which the host, Bro. W. Ballard, of the Lion Hotel, was deservedly commended. In the after proceedings an hour of congratulatory enjoyment took place, such as a Lodge of harmonious Masons only can conceive and appreciate. In the course of this period all the Royal, Masonic, and official toasts were given, under the presidency of the W.M., who was very warmly congratulated on the termination of, in every respect, one of the most successful years of office in the Hemming Lodge.

York Mark Lodge (T.I.).—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held at York, on Tuesday. In the unavoidable absence of the W.M. (Bro. W. C. Lukis), the chair was occupied by Bro. T. B. Whytehead P.M. There was no business of importance. The report of the auditors was read and adopted, and the acting W.M. announced that since the last meeting two Mark Lodges had been formed at Middlesbro and Malton, respectively. Bro. Broadley, Prov. G. Master of Malta and Tunis, had officiated as consecrating officer, and he hoped that as they now had six Mark Lodges in the Province there was a probability of the formation of a Provincial Grand Lodge, which he felt sure was in every way most desirable. The Lodge having been closed the brethren met at refreshment, and had a couple of hours of pleasant intercourse.

SCIENTIFIC LODGE, No. 840.

THE annual installation of the W.M. of this Lodge took place on Monday, 21st inst., at the Victoria Hotel, Wolverton, Bro. B. King P.M. P.P.G.S.B. being again placed into the chair of the Lodge. At the time appointed for the assembly there were present, besides several members of the Lodge, Bro. the Rev. J. Studholme Brownrigg P.G.C. Deputy Grand Master of the Province, and several Visitors from the neighbouring Lodges, the following brethren having signed the attendance book:—Bros. T. Taylor P.M. P.G. Steward, J. R. Wilmer P.M. Prov. G.D., J. Line J.D., and W. Wilmer of SS. Peter and Paul Lodge, Newport Pagnell, J. Reeve P.M. Prov. J.G.W., W. H. Robinson P.M., W. H. Bull W.M., G. B. Valentine P.M., and Gilkes, of Watling-street Lodge, Stony Stratford, J. McCubbin P.M. P.P.J.G.W. St. Barnabas Lodge, Linslade, Parkes St. Peters Lodge, Wolverhampton, Simpson Edinburgh and Leith Lodge, W. W. Morgan jun. FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE, &c. Bro. W. F. Large, the W.M. of the past year, having opened the Lodge, the Secretary proceeded to read the minutes, which, after some discussion, were confirmed. The report of the Audit Committee was next formally presented and received. It showed the Lodge to be in a very flourishing position, the balance this year being considerably more than at the corresponding period of last year. The W.M. brought forward a proposition, of which he had given notice, to the effect that the sum of ten guineas be voted to the funds of the Boys' School; in doing so he referred to the hearty appeal made by Bro. Binckes at the Provincial Grand Lodge, and said that he should like to show that the remarks then made had been productive of some good to the School. The proposition was then put and carried unanimously. The next business was a proposition by Bro. Reeve, that the ten guineas awarded to the Lodge from the Charity Fund of the Province be given to the Royal Masonic Pupils' Assistance Fund. Bro. Reeve stated that since he had made this proposition, a question had arisen as to whether the Assistance Fund was recognised by the Provincial Charity Fund as one of the Masonic Charities; this, coupled with other information he had received, and which he did not deem it necessary to make public, had induced him to amend—if the Lodge would allow it—his proposition, and he now desired that the money at the disposal of the Lodge should go to the Boys' School. This amended proposition was seconded by Bro. King, and eventually carried unanimously. The installation of the Worshipful Master was then proceeded with, the Deputy Provincial Grand Master assuming the chair as Installing Master. The ceremony being completed, the newly-installed W.M. invested the following brethren as Officers for the year:—Bros. Longstaff S.W., Wade J.W., Rev. F. W. Harnett Chap., W. H. Robinson Treas., A. Culverhouse Sec., Sutcliffe S.D., A. Lindow J.D., W. Mackey Organist, Webb D.C., Clayton Steward, Powell I.G., Bonser Tyler. The name of one gentleman, the son of one of the oldest members of the Lodge, was handed in as a candidate for initiation, after which Lodge closed and the brethren adjourned to a banquet, which was provided by Bro. Hicks, in his usual first-class style. The menu was of the most satisfactory character, the enjoyment being greatly enhanced by the excellent way in which the banquet was served. On the removal of the cloth the usual toasts were proposed from the chair, that of the Queen and the Craft was heartily acknowledged, as also was the Most Worshipful the Grand Master H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, which the W.M. gave in a very eulogistic manner. This toast was followed by that of the Pro. Grand Master the Earl of Carnarvon, the Deputy Grand Master, the Earl of Lathom, and the Past and Present Grand Officers of England. The next toast, the W.M. observed, was one which came a little nearer home. Those who held Provincial rank could bear testimony to the excellency of the working of the Provincial Grand Master, Sir Daniel Gooch, Bart., and it was in his honour that he now called upon the brethren to rise; he was sure it was a toast which every Mason present would drink most heartily, Sir Daniel Gooch was a true Mason and one who performed the duties of his high office in an admirable manner. He had had the pleasure of seeing the working of the Provincial Grand Lodge and could testify to the excellent manner in which it was carried out. Bro. W. H. Bull said he had been entrusted by the W.M. with the proposal of the next toast, that of the Deputy Provincial Grand Master, and the Provincial Grand Officers Past and Present of Berks and Bucks. Bro. Brownrigg had stated that he was extremely sorry that he was unable to stop to their banquet that evening; he was a Bro. Mason so well known to them that it would be superfluous to say much about him. They always recognised in his presence an extra star amongst them—they could not fix upon a more valuable man and Mason than Bro. Brownrigg. He therefore felt sure they would all join with him in wishing Bro. Brownrigg a long life, and hoped he would live many years to occupy his present position. There were several Masons present who now wore the purple, and others who had done so. There was one amongst the latter of these whom they would all feel proud of, viz., their Worshipful Master. He had already congratulated Bro. King on his taking his seat, for the second time, in the chair of King Solomon, and sincerely hoped, under his excellent and judicious management, the Lodge would have a most successful year. With the toast he would couple the names of Bros. McCubbin and Reeve. Bro. Reeve observed too much praise could not be said in behalf of that Provincial Grand Master, or of his abilities as a Mason and a gentleman. With reference to what the Provincial Grand Officers did for the work of the different Lodges, he believed they did it most heartily, honestly, sincerely and well. They were especially encouraged in this course by the fact that Bro. Brownrigg was the acting man, and they knew wherever he was engaged the work would be done well. He thought, however, that the work would be done better, and also be to the advantage of a great many of the brethren if it were done nearer home. For instance, if the Provincial Lodges were held within twenty or thirty miles of a district were all could attend, it would then be more satisfactory for those situated in the north-east part of the Province. It was particularly inconvenient to those in the county who were anxious to attend the Lodges when they were held in another county. He thanked them for the very kind way in which they had associated his name with the toast. Bro. McCubbin said he was glad to be able to inform them that the next Provincial Grand Lodge would be held at Aylesbury, when he hoped the W.M.'s of the different Lodges in the neighbourhood would put in an appearance in full force, and demonstrate to the Lodges in the County of Berks that they were strong enough to have a Provincial Lodge of their own. They were all aware of what an extraordinary Deputy Provincial Grand Master they had in Bro. Brownrigg, who was so well acquainted with the minutest details in connection with the working of the Provincial Grand Lodge. The fact of the Lodge being held nearer home would give the brethren an excellent opportunity of witnessing its working; and he trusted that none would let the opportunity slip by without visiting it, so as to make themselves conversant with the splendour of its ritual and the excellence of its management. Bro. Large I.P.M. said a pleasing duty devolved upon him, being that of the proposal of the toast, The Worshipful Master. He could not say too much in eulogy of Bro. King, for he had proved himself an excellent Master of the Scientific Lodge, besides being its very backbone. He sincerely hoped a kind Providence would restore him to health and strength, and grant him that continuation of health which was so essential to him, and to his successful conduct of the Lodge. Brother King thanked them very heartily for those expressions of goodwill and kindness which they had manifested on that occasion. It was not the first by many which they had exhibited, and he trusted it would not be the last. The fact of his being placed in the position of W.M. that day was somewhat of an accident. He would try to do his best in that position, and endeavour to be punctual as far as possible, and, relying on the excellent support of the Past Masters, I.P.M., and Wardens, he thought he should get through the duties of his office comfortably and satisfactorily. Should it be his good fortune to remain in office during the twelve months ensuing, he would try to warrant the kindness they had exhibited towards him on that day. While relying constantly on the support of those eminent Past Masters, he thought he might, without flattery, name them individually, beginning from the senior. There was his true and esteemed friend, the acting Senior Warden that evening, Bro. Aveline, whose zeal and energy in anything he took in hand was especially remarkable; and following him was Bro. Robinson, their excellent Treas.; and then their esteemed and able Sec., Bro. Culverhouse, learned in the legal laws of Masonry; and lastly, their energetic Immediate Past Master, Bro. Large, whom to follow they must go at a good speed. Relying on such support, he rested in the firm hope of being able to pass a pleasant and prosperous year. The W.M. said the next toast was an important one in that Lodge, namely, "The Past Masters of the Scientific Lodge." Speaking of Brother Aveline, he considered the very fact of his acting in the capacity that he was doing that evening, was only another instance of his readiness at all times to take office, or do anything for the furtherance of Freemasonry. Bro. Robinson had also much work in connection with the Lodge. Bro. Reeve had proved himself a Masonic Star in the Province, besides being possessed with eminent legal knowledge of Masonry. Brother Culverhouse was an excellent Secretary, and he need scarcely tell them that the secretaryship was not now a duty that could easily be performed, for there were such a number of forms to fill up, similar in their perplexities to the forms of the Science and Art Department, requiring great care in execution. Referring to the Past Masters who were absent from the Lodge, he remarked that he had had a communication from Bro. Hales, who was greatly esteemed by the brethren, asking him to say to all inquiring friends—and he had many—that he was extremely sorry to be away from that meeting; when told who was to be the new Worshipful Master, he said, "I wish I could make a rhyme about it." He regretted Bro. Hales was not amongst them, prepared with his rhyme, but was glad to report that their much respected brother was a little better in health. Bro. King then referred to the I.P.M., Bro. Large, and said that although he had left his name to last, it was not in any sense the least. It gave him great pleasure to present Bro. Large with the Past Master's jewel as a token of the esteem of the brethren. Bro. Large very suitably acknowledged the compliment. Bros. Robinson, Reeve, and Culverhouse also replied to the toast. The other toasts during the evening were the Visitors, replied to by Bros. W. H. Bull, T. Taylor, J. R. Wilmer, Simpson, and Parkes. The Masonic Charities, proposed by Bro. Reeve and acknowledged by Bro. Taylor, the Officers of the Scientific Lodge, the Chaplain, Treasurer and Secretary, and Tyler. The harmony of the evening was sustained by Bro. Hall, who sang "Cold everywhere," Bro. W. Wilmer, with "Molly Bawn," Bro. Thorne, "Hearts of Oak," &c.

"LEEDS."

A Paper read before the York College, at a Regular Meeting held in the Masonic Hall Carlton Hill, Leeds, on the 21st August 1880, by W. Fra. Walter Rowley, VI°.

R.W. Ch. Adept and Fratres,

Leeds under the British in Pre-Historic Times, up to 55 B.C.

Leeds can justly claim to be a place of great antiquity. There is some evidence that in the pre-historic days of the ancient Britons it was a locality of some importance originating with them, and of which Leeds may well be proud, for its ancestors date from the earliest race known to have dwelt in the land: thus Leeds is not indebted for its origin to either the Romans or the Normans, who afterwards conquered and ruled over this land.

The earliest records of Leeds that are known are those of Nennius (Abbot of Bangor in the ninth century), who describes twenty-eight towns which owed their origin to the Britons, and which the Romans, upon their invasion, found to have had a previous existence. In these records Leeds is described as Caer-soid-Coit, or City in the Wood (the latter meaning wood), and consisted, probably, in those early days (as its name infers) of a wood, possibly fortified, after the manner of the ancient people, by ditches and ramparts, within which fortifications our ancestors probably erected huts and stalls, for the shelter and abode of themselves and their cattle; and by means of the earthen fortifications and trees they would protect themselves from the attacks of enemies.

Considering that these people are often described as our barbarian ancestors, it is well to remember that the conquests of them by Cæsar 55 B.C.,; by Agricola's 7th and last campaign, 84 A.D., at the time he was Governour of Great Britain, 28 years later; and by Severus, who died at York, 274 A.D., testify that our remote ancestors possessed features of such merit as to justify Julius Cæsar in describing very fully their habits and customs; and when we consider the fact that at the present time, Leeds is one of the most important centres of the iron industry of this country, it is well to remember what we owe to these progenitors of the English race, who, according to the story of the invasion of Julius Cæsar, 55 B.C., and the writings of Ptolemy, were skilled in the use of metal, and made bronze (a mixture of copper). They also possessed one of the great characteristics of civilisation—a stamped gold coinage about 200 B.C., and conducted mining operations in Cornwall, and probably elsewhere. They possessed roads of primitive character, by means of which they possibly carried on commerce with people outside of their own domains, thus indicating, by their habits and productions, an origin of an exceedingly remote period. But few memorials are left in this part of the country of these ancient British inhabitants, except some few names of rivers and places, which I have not had time to fully investigate, but there are many proofs that at this period they were not without some knowledge of those mechanical arts that have contributed so much to the growth and prosperity of Leeds in more recent times.

Leeds during the Roman Period, from B.C. 75 to A.D. 415.

We now pass, in the history of Leeds, to the invasion of this country (by the Romans, who found the British people a valiant race, who so much retarded the efforts of the Romans to subdue them that it was more than a hundred years after the first invasion, during the reign of Vespasian, that the country to the North of the Humber (in which Leeds is situated, was brought under subjection.

During the Roman occupation and rule, Leeds seems to have had a recognised position in this country, but with the civilization of Rome we have a great change in the habits of our British forefathers, who by degrees learned the habits of the Romans, although in a school of great severity, amounting practically to slavery.

Amongst other things which the Romans did was the improvement and the making of good roads, and some of them in the district of Leeds have been traced, in which work they evinced great skill. Those roads best known in this district are the following, (and which have been fully described by Dr. Whitaker):—

1. The road to Danum, or Doncaster; Legeolium, or Castleford, to Calcaria (Tadcaster), and from thence to Eboracum (York).

2. The road from Calcaria, or Tadcaster, through Cambodunum (Slack) to Mancunium (Manchester), which passed through Leeds in a line a little near to Briggate, and continuing past Morley and Gildersome. The road from Calcaria to Mancunium, passing Cambodunum, or Slack, being afterwards abandoned and taken in the direction of Cleckheaton.

3. A road from Castleford through Addle, or Adel (where most important discoveries of Roman altars, pottery, bronzes, &c., and other evidence of an extensive and important settlement have been uncovered) towards Olicana (Ilkeley); but to those who care to pursue the subject further I refer them to Leland and (more recently) Leyland, Holmes, and others, who have traced with great accuracy, after fifteen centuries, these wonderful works; and described in their writings the marvellous skill with which these works were constructed.

It was near to these roads that the principal Roman stations were formed, and there is little doubt but that there was a Roman station, or camp, at Leeds, on the road from Calcaria (or Tadcaster) to Cambodunum (or Slack), and the discovery of Roman remains in Leeds all confirm what is now generally admitted, that the Romans made Leeds a settlement of some importance, and during the Roman period this district seems to have had a very intimate relationship to York, which was a town greatly favoured by them, and in which some of their Emperors and distinguished men occasionally resided; evidences of whose domestic luxury, the vessels, personal ornaments, and the remains of the dead, testify; thus York received many advantages arising from their wealth and courtly surroundings.

This district was the scene of many of the fearful ravages of Saxon days, but no special reference is made to it until the time of the Venerable Bede, who was born in 664. He mentions Leeds, calling it Loidis-en-Elmete.

From the fifth century to A.D. 828 this locality was under the rule of one of the many Chieftains who held supremacy during the interregnum which preceded the supremacy of Egbert, the first Saxon king of England of whom we have any record, and the only association with Leeds that is known, during this period, is that of Edwin, the first Christian chieftain, a monarch of Northumbria, who had one of his residences at Osmondthorpe, in Leeds.

This truly great monarch was defeated and killed at Hatfield, near Doncaster, by Penda, King of Mercia, and his successors—Ostio, and Eanfrid, and Oswald—during the latter period of whose reign Christianity was extended amongst the Northumbrians. In the year 655 Winmoor (Winsedfield), situate at Seacroft, near Leeds, was the scene of a great battle between Penda and Oswry, the brother and successor of Oswald. Oswry was victorious, and as a thankoffering for the victory which Providence had given him, he devoted his daughter, Elfleda to a conventual life, in the Abbey of St. Hilda, at Whitby. This battle is associated with the River Aire, by the Record of Venerable Bede (born a few years after), who states that more of the Mercians were drowned as they fled in the Winwæd, or Aire, (whose banks overflowed at the time) than had fallen by the swords of the Northumbrians.

During the Scandinavian—or wars of the Sea Kings, as they were called—which followed the recognition of Egbert's rule, and who finally subdued Yorkshire, we find a record that these Sea Kings had a settlement at Grant's Hill, Armley, near Leeds, and thus settling in the district, were amalgamated with the Saxon population, both of whom in 860 submitted to the rule of Alfred (truly called the Great), who restored this country to order, and inaugurated a period of great progress in arts and commerce.

Amongst many local associations which have been traced in names and places of our Saxon ancestors in this district, the writer has discovered their footprints in a locality so near to his own hearth, that he hopes he may be pardoned for introducing the subject here. The tract of land on which he now resides, is specially referred to and described by our Saxon forefathers as "A lep" from its abounding with the Alder trees, so that "A lep don" signifies the Alder-hill, by which name the place is known at the present time.

At Barwick-in Elmete, Osmondthorpe, Gipton, Burdsay (all very near to Leeds), remains of Saxons have been found; also at Dewsbury, a town a few miles from Leeds, both of which towns were the scene of the great labours of Paulinus, a missionary Bishop of the Northumbrians, about A.D. 625. A subsequent historian refers to an ancient cross which was inscribed—Paulinus hic praedicavit et celebravit—"Paulinus here preached and administered the ordinances;" and it is probable, therefore, that Leeds formed part of a very extensive Saxon parish in which he often preached and administered the ordinances of the church. It comprised, probably, within its jurisdiction the whole or largest portion of that independent kingdom of Elmete of which Leeds appears to have been at the time the capital, and which formed part of the territory ruled over by those great Saxon kings, Alfred, Athelstan, Edmund, and the pious and truly great Edward; men who, in the so-called darkness of those ages, possessed qualities greatly to be admired, and by which the character of the English nation was moulded so as to gradually combine all the attributes which have conduced to its success and power in subsequent times.

Leeds from the Norman Period A.D. 1066 to 1603.

In the opinion of Thoresby and the most reliable historians of this district, Leeds in the Roman and Saxon times was a place of some importance. According to Bede, the population of Leeds A.D. 664 would not probably exceed 300; and the entire parish not more than 1200; but I think it may be safely assumed, considering the many records we have of Leeds and the district in Roman and Saxon times, that in the space of 400 years, to the time of William the Conqueror, the population had increased to some extent.

History informs us that, soon after the Norman Conquest, the Manor of Leeds was given by the Conqueror to Jebert-de-Lacy, who at that time owned the whole of this district.

Leeds Castle was probably built by him or by Ralph Paynel, about this time to whom was subinfeudated the Manor by De Lacy; it stood upon Mill Hill, not far from the river.

We have the record of the extensive moat or park which usually surrounded Norman Castles in the existing names of Park Lane, Park Row, and Park Place.

The Castle was besieged by Stephen in 1139, and about 1399 Richard 2nd was confined in it prior to his removal to Pontefract Castle. Ralph Paynel during his jurisdiction founded the Priory of the Holy Trinity in York and gave to it the Churches of Leeds and Adel in 1089, the latter is at the present time one of the most perfect and interesting memorials of the church from its earliest days in this country, and is deserving of a more lengthy reference had time permitted.

From a period extending from the advent of the Normans to the Stuarts, say about 540 years, we have no authentic knowledge of Leeds, excepting some occasional reference to it during the times of the Wars of the Roses, especially interesting in respect of the Battle of Towton, 1461, fought in this neighbourhood, and when about 40,000 men are recorded to have been slain; and during the Wars of the Roses, when the history of this district was distinguished by the great battle of Marston Moor, 2nd July 1644, which took place about the probable period of the sieges of the Castles of Leeds, Pontefract and Wakefield (Sandal Castle); Leeds during this period being successively taken by the Royalists, under the Marquis of Newcastle, and the Parliamentary troops under Sir Thomas Fairfax.

About 1552 Leland speaks of it as "Ledes, two miles lower down than Christal Abbey, on the river Aire, is a praty market towne, having one paroche church, reasonably well builded." To this description of the situation of Leeds, we may add, at the present time, that the town is situated near the northern margin, or "out-crop" of the coal measures, constituting the great midland coalfield, a circumstance which has contributed no little to its commercial prosperity in recent times.

The most important ecclesiastical events, so far as this district is concerned, that occurred during this long period, was the creation of Kirkstall Abbey, by Cistercian Monks, in 1153, and its dissolution by Henry VIII., in 1540, but as this famous and beautiful abbey has already been described by a member of this College,* so well able to tell us its true story, I shall not refer further to it, but, in the language of one of its poets, that

"No more the pealing anthem's strain
Resounds in Kirkstall's walls;
No more the swelling vesper hymn
Is heard when evening falls."

"Where lauds at midnight once were sung,
By torches lurid glare,
The silver moonbeams from on high
Have now an entrance there."

Leeds from 1603 to the present time.

The Borough of Leeds was first incorporated by Charles I. about 1625, soon after he ascended the throne, and it is from this time that we may trace the beginning of that career of prosperity, which (although for many years apparently of very slow growth) has distinguished the history of Leeds. The security which this charter and the two subsequent ones afforded, protected trade from the abuses which had grown in the unsettled days prior to this time, and has enabled Leeds and her productions to become known all over the civilised world. Bishop Parker about this time refers to the importance of Leeds as a manufacturing town, calling it "oppidum lanificio opulentum"—"Rich in woollen manufactures." And about the same time, the dukedom of Leeds was created, in the person of Thomas Osborne, who, it is worthy of note, was the descendant of a merchant who amassed great wealth in trading pursuits.

A sketch of the history of Leeds would be most imperfect without some reference to its parish church, dedicated to Saint Peter. The date of the first church is not known, but that there was a Saxon church here admits of little doubt, for in the records of those days it stands first in the description of Leeds, which tells of "a church, a priest, and a mill" that then existed, and this church must have been associated with the conversion of the Saxon king Edwin (who resided at the Villa Regis, or Osmondthorpe Hall, so very near the church), when Paulinus visited this district, and he probably influenced the king to build the church as the first-fruits of his conversion.

One of the most interesting relics of the Saxon church in Leeds is the cross that until recent years stood in the grave ground surrounding the present parish church, upon which was an inscription—Cuni Onlaf. The bearer of this name was a Dane, who entered the Humber in 937; he subsequently became King of Northumbria, and was converted to Christianity. He probably resided in the Villa Regis, now called Osmondthorpe Hall, where afterwards Ethelbert, the first Christian King, converted by Augustine about 625, is recorded to have resided. The cross referred to is supposed to have been erected to the memory of Onlaf about the year 950.

Around this church, from the earliest known period of which any record exists, the history and welfare of the town has been most intimately associated, for the site of the present church is undoubtedly one of very great antiquity. It seems most probable that there was a Saxon church (probably built of timber), at the time when the Saxon Kings of Northumberland had their palace here; and we know, on the authority of the Domesday Book, there was a church here dedicated to St. Peter, at the time of the Norman conquest. Of its parish priests we know nothing till about 1220, when, according to Thoresby, it was constituted a vicarage, and its first vicar was Alanus de Sherburn. In 1837 the great and good Dr. Hook, the late Dean of Chichester, was the vicar, and during whose vicariat the present edifice was built. He was afterwards succeeded by Dr. James Atley (the present Bishop of Hereford) in 1859, by Canon Woodford, D.D. (the present Bishop of Ely) in 1868, and in 1873 by the present vicar, Dr. Gott, all of whom have, by their great zeal and devotion to Leeds, maintained unimpaired the high position which historians have ever given to the old parish church of Leeds.

In the presence of one who has so lucidly placed before the public the records of our parish church,† it would, indeed, be invidious on my part to continue the subject.

Respecting the buildings of Leeds, all that time permits to be mentioned are the new Victoria Town Hall, opened by her Majesty the Queen, in 1858; the new Infirmary, opened in 1869; and the Yorkshire College. The latter is destined, as an affiliation of the new Victoria University, to make Leeds in the future the great centre of Yorkshire for the acquirement of that truly practical and scientific knowledge so necessary to enable this country to maintain its position in arts and manufactures with other nations.

The extensive and convenient mineral resources of Leeds seem to have been known for a long period, as the Romans availed themselves of its clay and ironstone, numerous remains of whose mining operations have from time to time been discovered.

On this subject it is interesting to note that the first railway in this part of the country was made in 1818, for the purpose of conveying coal from the Middleton collieries to Leeds, a distance of about three miles, the wagons of coal (about 15, forming one train load, were drawn by a locomotive engine invented by Mr. J. Blenkinsop). Leeds, therefore, has some claim to the honour of being the birthplace of the railway system. The extraordinary progress of the town from about the time of the opening of this first railway is indicated by the rapid growth of the population, which in 70 years has advanced from 53,162 in 1801 to 259,212 in 1871.

Distinguished Men of Leeds.

Of the many great men to whom Leeds has given birth time will only permit a passing record of a few of those who are gone, but whose name should be ever revered, for in every field of honour, in science, commercial enterprise, and deeds of valour, her sons have in all ages left an indelible mark on the roll of time: of these may be mentioned the following:—

Ralph Thoresby, F.R.S., the distinguished antiquary and historian of Leeds, born in 1658, and to whom Leeds will be ever indebted for his Ducatus Lodiensis, or Topography of the town and parish of Leeds, descriptive of the town and its men of note in the last century; and who, as a faithful writer and scholar of great eminence, and by a life of great benevolence and piety, is entitled to one of the first places in the history of the great and good to whom Leeds has given birth.

Benjamin Wilson, F.R.S., born about 1720, was a painter of considerable eminence, and contributed to electric science great thought and originality, and whose researches have an intimate association with the subsequent important discoveries in that science.

John Smeaton, F.R.S., born in 1724, at Anthorpe, and educated at the Leeds Grammar School, was a civil engineer of great eminence, who, amongst other works indicating mechanical genius, erected under the most difficult conditions, the Eddystone Lighthouse, and other works involving great mechanical and scientific skill; he left a name which will ever be remembered with appreciation by engineers, and will most deservedly occupy an important page in the history of Leeds. He died in 1792.

In 1811 was born Mr. John Blenkinsop, the first mining engineer in this district of whom we have any record, and whose invention of the railway for bringing coal to Leeds at the time when he was manager of the Middleton collieries has been already referred to.

Sir Peter Fairbairn, born 1799, was one to whom Leeds owes very much of her subsequent prosperity; and who, by his great enterprise and skill, occupies one of the highest places in the commercial history of Leeds.

Of eminent men born in the neighbourhood of Leeds we may mention Dr. Priestley, a distinguished philosopher, born at Fieldhead, in 1733, the discoverer, in 1774, of the gas oxygen. This discovery alone must cause him to be remembered, not only as one of the greatest men of any period, but of all time, as this discovery was the foundation of modern chemistry. William Hay, F.R.S., the celebrated surgeon, born 1736: Dr. Bentley and William Congreve, Dr. Hook (previously referred to); General Cockell, a distinguished general in the beginning of this century, and others who by their works deserve to be long and well remembered by the town upon which they shed so bright a lustre.

Masonry in Leeds.

As this College is the Archæological Branch of Masonry, and discharges, under its distinguished Chief Adept, a work of great importance to the intelligent pursuit of Masonry, and thereby fills a long felt want, it may be expected that the writer should make more than a passing reference to the history of Masonry in Leeds; but this is not proposed on the present occasion, especially as there are those present who have a more intimate acquaintance with the records of Leeds Masonry than it has been the privilege of the writer to acquire; and it is sufficient here to record the belief that, with slight interruptions during very troublous periods, Leeds has been associated with Masonry from time immemorial; and we now welcome you to the town in the Hall of its oldest Lodge, Fidelity, No. 289 on the roll of English Masonry. This Lodge was founded in 1792, by a member of a previous Lodge of great antiquity, but which had become extinct a few years previously. The Lodge, after passing through many vicissitudes, and occupying very humble quarters elsewhere, entered into its present home, designed in 1877 for the Lodge by one of the aspirants of this College.* To Knight Templars Leeds is a place of the greatest interest in its associations with Temple Newsam, now the seat of the Hon. Mrs. Meynell Ingram. The Order was founded in 1118, and a Preceptory was established at Temple Newsam, where they continued up to 1311, when the suppression of the Order took place.

In names and places Leeds possesses many other records of the footprints of that Illustrious Order, to which many of us are greatly attached, such as Temple Bridge, Temple Street, and an effigy of a Knight Templar of the name of Steynton in the parish church of Leeds, all of which are evidence of the influence and importance of the Order at Temple Newsam during the period they occupied the beautiful temple from which the name of the present place is obtained, and where the Preceptory at that period was located.

The writer has now given as complete a sketch of the history of Leeds as circumstances permit, and, in the language of the poet, "Conducted by history truth, has trod the long extent of backward

* Fra. E. P. Peterson. † Fra. F Moore. * Bro. W. Bakewell.

Digitized by Google

time," and has endeavoured to place before you, in rapid flight through ages, a period embracing the Anglo Saxon days (when Leeds had but one church of wood, one priest, one altar of stone,) down to modern years, and show that on the pages of Time in every age, Leeds records the lives of her sons, who by their deeds have done honour to the town which gave them birth, and of whom the historian may say, as Virgil said alike of his heroes, distinguished in arts and sciences, as in the field of battle :—

"Here patriots live, who, for their country's good,
In fighting fields were prodigal of blood;
Priests of unblemished lives here make abode,
And poets worthy their inspiring God;
And searching wits of more mechanic parts,
Who graced their age with new invented arts;
Those who to worth their country did extend,
And those who knew their country to commend.
The heads of these with holy fillets bound,
And all their temples were with garlands crown'd."

If this brief sketch of the history of Leeds serves only to remind the members of this Order that the town which they honour by visiting to-day is one which may justly claim to have contributed to the weal of mankind and to the interests of the British race, the object of the writer will have been fully attained.

JAMAICA.

AT the Annual Communication of the District Grand Lodge of East Jamaica, held at Friendly Lodge Rooms, Kingston, on the 15th February last, and presided over by the R.W. A. De Cordova Deputy District Grand Master (who is in charge of the District until the appointment of a District Grand Master), the following brethren were appointed as District Grand Office bearers for the ensuing year :—Worshipful Bros. G. C. H. Lewis Senior Warden, Dr. Thomas Allen Junior Warden, A. Friedlander Chaplain, E. Friedlander Assist. Chaplain, O. Delgado Treasurer, Wm. Andover Registrar, B. Stines jun. Secretary, R. S. Haughton Assist. Secretary, G. J. De Cordova Senior Deacon, G. J. Sargeant Junior Deacon, J. Reep Supt. of Works, C. H. Davis D. of C., J. Holder Assistant D. of C., A. H. Jones Organist, M. Delgado Pursuivant, W. L. Mudon Assistant Pursuivant, N. G. McFarlane, J. Harris, C. Bovill, and G. M. Duff Stewards; Bro. Geo. Magnus Tyler. The administration of District Grand Lodge as formed by R.W. De Cordova is one much calculated to throw oil on the troubled waters of our little Masonic sea, which was so much disturbed by the nomination of Bros. De Cordova and Dr. Allen for the District Grand Mastership. The former Brother having secured the majority of Lodges, also of brethren in the Province, is expected to be selected by the Most Worshipful Grand Master to fill the place. It is therefore pleasing to find that Bro. Allen and his supporters have shown a willingness to adopt the situation by readily accepting office under the Brother whom they so sternly opposed. This augurs well for Masonry in Jamaica, and promises continued prosperity.

SOUTH AFRICA.

Peace and Harmony Lodge. — A meeting was held on Wednesday, the 9th February, at Du Toits Pan, Diamond Fields. Present—Bros. Chas. Roberts W.M., Henry Hartog I.P.M., D. Van Ulsen D.M., B. Kusser S.W., J. B. King J.W., E. Isaacs Hon. Sec., A. Yockmanitz Treas., D. Avis Amb., E. Garisch M.C., W. Kuipers Arch. and Steward, S. Green Tyler. Visitors—Bros. S. G. Solomon, Cosmopolitan Lodge, 1409, G. A. Ettling, Unie Lodge, Bloemfontein, O.F.S., Elias Harris, Sir Hugh Myddelton, M. Rossettenstein, Peace and Harmony, John Schiesler, Cr. Braud, R. Mackenzie, Fortrose, 108, P. Nuts, Tallerman, Richard Giddy, G. R. Blauch, Concord R.A., A. McDonald, Caledonian. After preliminaries, a ballot was taken for Mr. Frank Murray Campbell, and Mr. Alfred McEwen; it proved unanimous in their favour. An application was read from Mr. James Stanley to become a Freemason, and the Secretary was instructed to have his name inserted in the next circular. An apology was read from Bro. N. M. de Kock P.M. for his unavoidable absence. The W.M. then presented, on behalf of the brethren, Bro. P.M. Hartog with a testimonial of the respect in which he is held by the members of the Lodge; he felt pleased to know that the gift was worthy of the recipient, while the recipient was worthy of the gift. The testimonial reads as follows :—

Lodge Peace and Harmony,
E. of Du Toits Pan.

To Wor. Bro. Henry Hartog P.M.,

We, the undersigned, W.M., Officers and Members of the Lodge Peace and Harmony, of Du Toits Pan, Griqualand West, have the sincerest pleasure in offering for your acceptance the accompanying Jewel, Apron and Collar of P.M., in grateful recognition of the faithful and highly valued services rendered by you, not only to our own Lodge, but to the general cause of Freemasonry, during your term of office as W.M. We earnestly hope that we may continue to have the happiness of your presence in our midst, and enjoy the benefit of your highly esteemed co-operation. And, whenever you leave, be assured that you will take away with you our heartfelt desires that health, prosperity, peace and harmony may attend you.

2nd February 1881. (Signed)

After having read the above address, the W.M. continued: He had the honour of clothing Bro. Hartog in the regalia as P.M. of the Lodge, trusting he might esteem the gift, and assuring the brethren that he was really and sincerely pleased that such an honour had been conferred upon him in having been asked to make the presentation. Bro. P.M. Hartog requested the W.M. and brethren to give him their attention for a few minutes. He could hardly express what he felt in being presented with such a valuable testimonial. There had been a time when he could be more eloquent, but to-night he was overcome with their expressions. He would proceed by telling them that if he had merited the testimonial, he could not have done so had he not been assisted by such excellent Officers; without their assistance the working of the Lodge could not have been a success. He could only regret that the presentation could not be shared with those who deserved it equally as much as he. Bro. Hartog thanked those who had so liberally subscribed towards the testimonial, and who had honoured him by their presence that evening. Especially he would thank Bro. Elias Harris, who had so well carried out the wishes of the subscribers. As long as he lived he should cherish the testimonial better than any jewel that could have been presented him. He hoped the brethren would remember that he had been a member of their Lodge for years, and had served in all offices. This showed that if a member be attentive, and took an interest in the Craft, he might be able to rise to the honourable post of W.M., and merit a presentation similar to the one given him that evening. We may mention that the jewel, apron and collar was a very handsome one, selected by Bro. Elias Harris during his recent visit to England. The Lodge then adjourned for a space of five minutes, and on the brethren re-assembling, Lodge was advanced, when Bros. Morrice and A. Aria were introduced, and duly raised to the sublime degree of M.M. The ceremony being ended, Lodge was reduced, when the W.M. thanked the visitors for their kind attendance. Bro. S. G. Solomon, Cosmopolitan Lodge, replied. Before closing, the candidate for the evening, Bro. Aria, expressed his thanks to the W.M. and brethren for the honour conferred upon him in raising him to the sublime degree. Labour being ended, the Lodge was closed, and the brethren departed in peace and harmony. Bro. Elias Harris added to the harmony of the evening by his spirited performance on the harmonium.

SHEFFIELD.—The Theatre Royal at Sheffield has taken a new lease of life under the spirited management of Mr. Romaine Callender, who has for his first lieutenant our good brother John Cavanah P. Prov. G.S.B. of Cheshire, who has been for so many years well and favourably known as a manager of amusements in Manchester. The house has been decorated from roof to cellar, and in all the glory of gold leaf and paint presents a striking contrast to the dingy look we can well remember in olden times. The night we were present the Pantomime of Jack the Giant Killer was still running, and apparently, from the crowded house and roars of merriment which greeted each successive joke and song, possesses sufficient attractions to run to next Christmas. This, however, the numerous engagements will prevent, and during the coming year the playgoers of Hallamshire will be offered a succession of the novelties of the theatrical world. As an example of the wonderful energy displayed by Mr. Callender and Bro. Cavanah, we may mention that when the theatres in London were closed on Ash Wednesday they brought Bro. Toole and the whole of the Folly company down for one night, and to keep their own company employed, took them, numbering about 200, by special train to Bradford, and after a representation to a crowded house there, brought them all back the same night. We wish all success to those who thus cater for the enjoyment of the public.

The installation ceremony will be rehearsed at the Egyptian Lodge of Instruction, Hercules Tavern, Leadenhall-street, on Thursday next, 31st March, by Bro. L. Norden I.P.M. 205.

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

Constitutional Lodge, No. 55.—The first regular meeting of this Lodge since the installation took place on the 17th inst., at the Inns of Court Hotel, Lincoln's-inn-fields, under the presidency of the W.M., Bro. J. Cooper, T. B. Linscott S.W., Johnston J.W., Atkins P.M. Treasurer, G. M. Snow P.M. Secretary, Thompson S.D., Scott I.G.; P.M.'s Dwarber, Collinson, A. Melhuish, Catherwood, J. Dodson, and a numerous assemblage of the brethren, including Bro. Thos. Whaley, the father of the Lodge, and also numerous visitors, viz.—Bros. H. E. Coffin 167, J. Linscott J.D. 30, T. Gates S.D. 1599, T. J. Vohman 871, T. Whorlowhegge 15, J. W. Bromfield 1589, H. G. Harris 1589, J. Miles Treasurer 160, J. Hill 45, Bristle 1547, Ayden 1695, Legg 15, Beningfield, Dickie 1587, Hayden 1589, Dunn, and H. M. Levy P.M. 188. The Lodge was opened and the minutes were confirmed. Bro. W. M. Robinson was passed to the second degree, and ballots were taken for the admission of Messrs. E. H. Page, J. Thompson, and F. Vogt, which were unanimously in their favour. The two former brethren being present, were duly initiated into the Order, both the ceremonies being perfectly and impressively rendered. The resignations of three members were accepted with regret. A sum of £10 10s was voted from the funds of the Lodge to be placed on the list of the W.M., who is a Steward for the Girls' School at the next Festival in May. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren, sixty-six in number, sat down to a sumptuous and récherché banquet and dessert, provided by Bro. W. Gosden. The W.M., in genial and appropriate terms, proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts. Bro. Dwarber P.M. then rose; in the absence of the I.P.M. through ill-health, the duty devolved upon him to propose the next toast. He felt pleased to see the W.M. in the chair. He had the reputation of being able to perform the ceremonies, and to-night the brethren had had an opportunity to see how ably he had carried out what was expected of him. After a song by Bro. Miller, the W.M. thanked Bro. Dwarber for his kind remarks; the enthusiastic manner the brethren had received the toast convinced him he had done his work to their satisfaction; his heart and soul was with the brethren of the Lodge, and in the welfare of the three Institutions, and his services would ever be at their command. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the Initiates, and Bro. J. Linscott sang the E.A. song. Bros. Thompson and Page in responding, said they felt proud at having been introduced into Freemasonry by Bros. Robertson and Dwarber; each had for many years longed to become Masons, and felt it a great honour to be initiated in this old established Lodge. The toast of the Visitors was next on the list, the W.M. calling on Bros. H. M. Levy P.M. 188 and Whorlowhegge, No. 15, to respond. The P.M.'s were next honoured; the W.M. speaking in high terms of the way in which they strove to advance the interests of the Lodge. Bro. Robertson acknowledged the compliment. The next toast on the list was the health of the Treasurer and Secretary, and this brought forth able replies from Bros. Atkins and Snow. At this stage of the proceedings, the W.M. stated that the amount on his list, as Steward for the Girls', had reached £46 4s, which sum he trusted would be still further augmented before the Festival. The qualities displayed by the Wardens and other Officers were fully recognised by the W.M., and the several brethren enumerated gracefully acknowledged the honour done them. In due course the Tyler's toast was given, and the brethren separated. The Lodge of Instruction in connection with this Lodge meets every Tuesday evening, at seven p.m., at the Bedford Hotel, Southampton Buildings, Holborn, W.C.

Rayner, a candidate for passing, answered the questions, was entrusted and retired. Lodge was opened in the second degree, and Bro. Rayner was passed. Bro. Witherington I.G. having given, at the last Lodge, the following notice of motion: That the Permanent Committee be requested to consider and report to Lodge whether any, and what improvement can be made in the place for holding the banquets of this Lodge; after a few remarks by the members it was carried. Bro. C. Oades P.M. having given notice of motion at the last Lodge, "That ten guineas be voted from the Lodge funds towards the Royal Masonic Boys' School, and added to the list of the W.M., and that the ten guineas allotted by the Prov. Grand Lodge, be applied in the same manner;" this also was carried. After the customary ceremonies, the Lodge was closed according to ancient form.

Salisbury Lodge, No. 435.—A regular meeting was held on the 15th inst., at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen Street. Bro. Taffs W.M., Hooper S.W., Allhausen J.W., W. H. Hoop P.M. Treasurer, Berger I.P.M. The first and second sections were worked by the W.M., and the fourth and fifth by Bro. Stephens, assisted by the brethren. Lodge was closed, and the Hon. Secretary submitted the balance sheet for the year, which was duly audited by Bros. Job, Hawkins, and Mills. Proving highly satisfactory to the brethren, it was unanimously adopted. Bro. Levy was elected to preside upon the 18th instant, when we hope he will be well supported.

Lord Warden Lodge, No. 1096.—This very prosperous Lodge held its usual fortnightly meeting on Friday, the 18th inst. Present:—Bros. H. R. Botting W.M., Past Masters J. B. Harrison, T. J. Usher Secretary, E. Kirby Treasurer, F. Leith (Lord of the Manor); Bros. W. Carterfield S.W., F. R. England J.W., E. Rea as S.D., G. Band J.D., H. Chambers as I.G., R. S. Davey, M.D., D.C., T. Park Steward, Holgate Tyler; S. Willey, W. Dunn, James Loughlin, T. F. Young, W. J. A. Norris, C. Hurst. Visitor—Bro. Spurrier, Margate Lodge. Lodge was opened, and the minutes of the last regular meeting were read and unanimously confirmed. The business on the agenda paper was to elect a Worshipful Master, Treasurer, and Tyler. The choice of the brethren was unanimously in favour of Bro. Carterfield S.W., as was also the re-election of Bro. E. Kirby P.M. as Treasurer. The Worshipful Master, in the name of the Lodge, thanked Bro. Kirby for his past services, and hoped that he might long be spared to serve them so faithfully and well. Bro. Kirby, in thanking the Worshipful Master and the brethren for the honour they had conferred upon him, could have wished that some other brother had been elected to fill so important an office; however, as it was the unanimous wish of the brethren, it would give him great pleasure to perform the duties, as he had hitherto done. Bro. Holgate was re-elected Tyler. A brother was proposed as a joining member, and Lodge was closed with solemn prayer. The brethren afterwards spent a pleasant hour together, the Worshipful Master proposing the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts. Bro. Usher paid a tribute to the W.M. elect, Bro. Carterfield, and Bro. Kirby did a like honour to the W.M., for his services during the past year. The W.M. thanked the brethren for their kindness and support. Bros. Usher, Rea, and the W.M. entertained the brethren with songs, &c.

Friars Lodge of Instruction, No. 1349.—At Bro. Pavitt's, Liverpool Arms, Canning Town, E., on Tuesday last. Bros. P.M. Musto W.M., Myers S.W., Pavitt J.W., Johnson I.G., Worsley Secretary; Knopp, Watkins, Smith, Andrews, Risby, &c. The Lodge was opened in due form, and all preliminaries duly observed. The following Sections were worked by the undermentioned brethren:—1st, Worsley; 2nd, Watkins; 3rd, Andrews; 4th, Johnson; 5th, Smith; 6th, Pavitt; 7th, Myers; Bro. Andrews worked the 2nd in the Second Lecture. The Lodge again resumed, when Bro. Myers P.M. was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing week, when the ceremony of installation will be rehearsed, Bro. Smith (W.M. elect 860) as the candidate. We trust there will be a good attendance.

Kings Cross Lodge, No. 1732.—The first regular meeting since the installation was held on Friday, 19th inst., at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street, under the presidency of the W.M. Bro. H. Stiles, H. After preliminary work had been disposed of, a ballot was taken for the admission of Mr. C. S. Mote; this was unanimous in his favour, and he was duly initiated into the Order by the W.M. Bro. Briggs I.P.M. stated that he was about to act as Steward for the Anniversary Festival of the Girls' School, and Bro. Solomon J.W. said he had a ballot draw for the sum of five guineas which he would be pleased to place on Bro. Briggs's list. The acting Secretary read the report of the Committee for the purpose of establishing a Benevolent Fund to be attached to the Lodge. The consideration of this was deferred until October, when the matter will be fully discussed. The Lodge was then closed until October, and the brethren sat down to a substantial dinner. The W.M. proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts. He was sure the brethren would excuse him making long speeches; he sincerely hoped all would enjoy themselves. Bro. Briggs was pleased at having to propose the health of the W.M.; the brethren had heard how he had done the work; during the present year they might be sure they had the right man in the right place. The W.M. in reply thanked Bro. Briggs, and also the brethren for the hearty reception they had given the toast. He should look to the brethren for their kind support to enable him to perform his duties to their satisfaction. The remaining toasts customary on these occasions were fully honoured, and able responses were made. The proceedings throughout were of a most agreeable character.

The Auditors' account was then received, and after giving ten guineas to the Boy's School, a distressed brother was relieved, and the balance in hand was £3 8s 8d. The W.M. informed the brethren that the Fifteen Sections would be worked at this Lodge of Instruction on the 27th inst., when the attendance of the brethren is requested.

THE QUESTION OF JURISDICTION.

A SERIOUS dispute appears to have arisen between the Grand Lodges of New York and Connecticut over a question of which, with every desire in the world to regard it seriously, we cannot bring ourselves to speak with aught but a feeling of contempt. It may possibly occur to some of our readers that the word "contempt" is un-Masonic in its character, but after making every allowance for sectional and fraternal differences, we can arrive at no other conclusion than that, in the squabble which has occurred between the two jurisdictions of New York and Connecticut, the conduct of the former has been supremely absurd. We are, of course, indebted for such information as we possess to American sources, and our arguments, therefore, depend, in chief measure, for their value on the accuracy of that information. However, we may take it for granted that those of our exchanges which treat of the subject, and the Grand Lodge of Connecticut itself, which has passed a very sensible resolution on the matter, are in possession of the circumstances. We do not hesitate, therefore, to make what they have said the basis of our argument.

We must premise that the cause of the squabble between New York and Connecticut is absolutely ridiculous, especially when it is borne in mind that these Grand Lodges are presumed to consist of men of common sense, if not of men who have more than the average share of enlightenment. They are, moreover, presumably actuated by the most kindly and fraternal feelings for each other. Thus, the wonder is that, even under the most afflicting circumstances, anything like a sense of discussion between two fraternal bodies should have sprung into being. However, there exists this unfraternal discord, and, albeit there are not far short of 100,000 Masons in the two States of New York and Connecticut, four-fifths of whom belong to the former, and the remaining fifth to the latter, it has now been decided by the Grand Lodge of New York, that the Masons within its jurisdiction must under no circumstances hold any intercourse whatever with those in the neighbouring State. True it may be they are brothers in name, and the creed that is enjoined on them may be summed up in the clear and concise injunction to "love one another." But somehow it frequently happens that the theory and practice of Freemasonry are at loggerheads with each other. Theory says, Do everything that is reasonable and kind, while Practice retorts—bluntly enough—Stand not upon the order of your doing, but do whatever may seem best to you without vouchsafing a single thought to what is sincerely Masonic. To have made this admission has necessarily given us some pain, but in the interests of truth we are under the necessity of pointing out that this divergence in practice from an accepted theory is quite as commonly to be met with in Masonry as in other societies.

But, after all, the question of jurisdiction is that which claims our present attention, and not whether Masonic individuals or communities are actuated towards each other by a fraternal spirit. This question it is which is at the bottom of the differences between New York and Connecticut. The disagreement arose in manner following:—Certain Masons residing in Connecticut, but being members of a New York Lodge, petitioned the Grand Lodge of the former State for a charter for a new Lodge, and, we believe, the petition was granted. On the strength of this most monstrous violation of a law, which has no real existence, the Grand Lodge of New York has passed a resolution which strictly prohibits all intercourse between the members which owe it allegiance and those who are under the sway of the Grand Lodge of Connecticut. Anathema Maranatha is the very mildest of the pains and penalties to which any one who should violate this resolution will be subjected. Thus, Masonic communication is absolutely forbidden between the brethren of Connecticut and New York, and the reason is that certain members of a New York Lodge, who reside however in Connecticut, petitioned the Grand Lodge of the latter. Let us endeavour to imagine how it would be if the Grand Master of England passed sentence of excommunication on the brethren of the Province of Sussex because some members of a London Lodge residing in Brighton petitioned in the first instance the P.G.M. of Sussex for a warrant for a new Lodge to be held in Brighton. Our readers, of course, will understand that in presenting this imaginary case, we are not seriously contemplating the idea that any P.G.M. has power to issue warrants on his own authority. We have merely suggested such a case in order to show how flimsy is the matter which has succeeded in establishing a dissension between the brethren of two contiguous States such as are New York and Connecticut.

We are not prepared to say the Grand Lodge of New York are not, in the circumstances, justified in the course they have pursued. It may have been an act of the greatest enormity on the part of the offending brethren, who are members of a new York Lodge but reside in Connecticut, to have petitioned the Grand Lodge of the latter State instead of that of the former; but what have the 80,000 New York brethren and the 15,000 or 20,000 brethren—minus the petitioners—of the adjoining State done that they also should be debarred from enjoying the innocent pleasure of cultivating fraternal relations among themselves, whenever an opportunity of so doing presented itself. The beadle of the parish, when arrayed in all the glory of his parochial uniform, is a public personage inferior as regards importance only to the sovereign ruler of a State or his Prime Minister; but even the beadle of a parish would hardly venture on the task of excommunicating the whole of his fellow parishioners and the people of an adjoining parish, because two or three vulgar little boys were one day rude enough to jump upon his favourite corn. We leave our friends to judge if New York, by its sentence of excommunication against Connecticut Masons, has added one iota to its true dignity.

But if the conduct of New York has been undignified, the same cannot be said of the Grand Lodge of Connecticut. The Grand Master of the latter in his customary address at the annual Communication held early in the present year is reported to have said, "by this severe, and as we believe, unjust edict, 70,000 Masons in New York and 15,000 in Connecticut, among whom have ever existed the most friendly and fraternal relations are thus placed at a perpetual distance, and the great work for ancient fraternity sadly infused . . . . By it, for a mere difference of opinion on a question of Masonic Law, and without even a pretence of discourtesy towards our sister Grand Lodge, we are placed under the same ban by the Grand Lodge of New York as the Grand Orient of France, which has struck out the most vital landmark of Freemasonry, and as the Grand Lodge of Hamburgh, which has defiantly planted, and still maintains Lodges in the State of New York." This, in all conscience, is clear and straightforward, but let us note how admirable is the tone of the remarks that follow. "In view of all this," says Grand Master Barlow, whom we venture to congratulate on the kindly and Masonic recommendations he offers. "In view of all this, let us not indulge in harsh words or severe criticisms, but rather let us cherish the kindliest fraternal regard for our brethren of New York, and faithfully perform our Masonic obligations towards them. Let us manifest to the world that the cords of affection and duty, which bind Masons of Connecticut to the ancient Fraternity are too strong to be broken by the angry unprovoked blow even of a brother, and let us labour to hasten the time when the true spirit of our Fraternity shall so fill all hearts, that interdictory edicts shall no more be resorted to as a remedy for unimportant cases of grievances between sister jurisdictions. Let us continue to hope and believe that a returning sense of justice and the hallowed remembrance of our former friendship may lead our sister Grand Lodge to quickly and cheerfully rescind the said edict and accept our extended hand in friendship and brotherly love."

And the Grand Lodge Committee are as delicately firm and kind as the Grand Master. In the resolutions they suggested for adoption by Grand Lodge, the first expresses sincere regret at "the interdiction by the M.W. Grand Lodge of New York of Masonic intercourse between the brethren of the two jurisdictions," and goes on to add the belief that such act is "unwise, unnecessary, and unjust." They then proceed to say, "that this Grand Lodge, in the act which gave rise to the unfortunate controversy, so abruptly terminated by the Grand Lodge of New York, and during the progress of that controversy, has simply asserted and maintained the principles of exclusive sovereignty within its own territorial limits, embracing the right to constitute into Lodges, under its own laws and regulations, and the landmarks of Masonry, any and all Masons residing within its jurisdiction, and has not assumed or sought to give to these laws any extra territorial force or effect. The right which it has thus asserted, it has at all times conceded to other Grand Lodges, and particularly to the Grand Lodge of New York, of which many instances may be shown." The third and last resolution is to the effect—"That the Grand Lodge of Connecticut will await in patient expectation the restoration of friendly relations, by the withdrawal of the edict of non-intercourse by the Grand Lodge of New York; and meanwhile the Masons in this jurisdiction are strictly enjoined to promote that happy event by the faithful performance of their Masonic obligations towards their New York brethren, in the spirit of the suggestions of the Grand Master on that subject, whose recommendations this Grand Lodge most cordially endorses and approves."

There is something manly and dignified, as well as Masonic, in the manner in which the Grand Master and Grand Lodge of Connecticut have approached this subject. They politely indicate it as their opinion that the Grand Lodge of New York has adopted a wrong idea of Masonic law, and that having done this, it has certainly not mended matters by issuing this tremendous edict. Yet, in the face of all this provocation to anger, they have expressed their intention of doing all in their power to promote the welfare of Masonry by courting reconciliation with their sister jurisdiction. Big New York has exploded its anger over an imaginary grievance, and little Connecticut, with respectful concern visible on every lineament of its generous face, stands by ready to shake hands when her peppery neighbour has got over her temper. Well done, Connecticut!

BRO. S. B. WILSON AND THE HOUSE COMMITTEE OF THE R.M.I.B.

WE publish elsewhere an important letter, addressed by Bro. S. B. Wilson to the General Committee of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys. In drawing the attention of our readers to this communication we cannot do better than give a brief sketch of its purport. Bro. Wilson writes that, with a view to prevent unnecessary expense by proceeding with his action against the House Committee of the Boys' School, he proposed to submit his dispute with that body to the arbitration of any one of seven distinguished members of the profession to which he belongs, namely—Sir H. R. Hunt, C.B., George Pownall, Esq., John Whichcord, Esq., Arthur Cates, Esq., W. G. Gardiner, Esq., Joseph Lavender, Esq., and W. Hudson, Esq. Mr. Stanley, Solicitor to the House Committee, with a promptness which does him great credit, agreed to the proposal, but suggested Mr. J. E. Saunders, an architect of equal character and standing with those already named. Bro. Wilson accepted Bro. Saunders as arbitrator, and was prepared to abide by the result of his award. The House Committee, however, have, with a perverse obstinacy which cannot be too strongly condemned, declined to stand by the arrangement of their own Solicitor. The result is that Bro. Wilson has had no option but to give instructions for the action to proceed, and whether he wins or loses, the Boys' School will have some heavy costs to discharge. This is the case as presented to us in the letter we have specified.

Let us take the circumstances into consideration, not the whole of them—Heaven forfend!—but those which affect the case just now. Bro. Wilson has once before expressed his readiness to submit the point in dispute to arbitration, but the offer was rejected. When he found that no solution of the difficulty between him and the House Committee was possible without referring it to a court of law, he at the last moment, with true forbearance and kindliness of spirit, a second time proposes arbitration, and the proposal has been unceremoniously rejected for the second time. Thus then stands the case. Bro. Wilson, the correctness of whose charges for professional work is impugned by the House Committee of the School, has twice agreed to submit to abide by arbitration, while the said Committee, which questions these charges, has twice deliberately refused arbitration. What is the natural inference? That Bro. Wilson has faith in the justice of his case, and the House Committee has not. And after all is said, what more entirely natural? Bro. Wilson, as a respected professional man of long standing, knows fully well what he is justified in doing, and not doing. But the House Committee—is it composed of experienced architects, who are competent to challenge a professional bill of costs? They are probably men of business in their own estimation, and are doubtless familiar enough with the particular callings they have severally followed. But, albeit they are speculative Masons, that circumstance alone gives them no special knowledge about the erection of buildings. For ourselves, we believe the House Committee is animated by an intense and most unmasonic spirit of hostility against Bro. Wilson. On no other ground can we account for that estimable brother having, for a period extending over three years, more or less, been bandied about from Committee to Committee and then to the General Court. Bro. Wilson has tried by every means in his power to avoid litigation. It seems as though the House Committee had left no stone unturned in order to court it. Bro. Wilson, under the most extreme provocation, has even at the very last moment proposed an alternative course, by which, at all events, the cost of litigation would be avoided. The House Committee, even after their own legal representative has accepted this proposal, sternly set themselves to the task of fighting out the battle to the bitter end. We know that business is business, and Masonry is Masonry, and, further, that no one has the right to mix up two things so opposite one with the other; but that is no reason why brethren, who, in the course of circumstances, may have business to transact together, should conduct it on principles which are the reverse of decent, to say nothing of their being the reverse of un-Masonic. One other point to which Bro. Wison is fully alive, and we have done. The members of the House Committee, singularly bigoted as they may be to their own opinions, and making every allowance for their utter incompetence to offer any opinion on this, or it may be, any other business, cannot be blind to the fact that whatever may be the result of the action now pending between them and Bro. Wilson, the funds of the Boys' School must suffer. And yet they insist on the case proceeding! We should be worse than worthless if we allowed ourselves to utter a single word of sympathy with them, and the next time an election to this Committee takes place we trust the electors will bear these matters in mind.

It must be clearly and emphatically understood that our remarks have no reference whatever to the circumstances in dispute. On these we do not consider ourselves competent to offer any opinion.

BRO. S. B. WILSON AND THE HOUSE COMMITTEE OF THE R.M.I.B.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I enclose copy of a letter I have addressed to the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, and if you can find a corner for it I shall feel much obliged.

Yours faithfully,

S. B. WILSON.

TO THE GENERAL COMMITTEE OF THE ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS.

GENTLEMEN AND BRETHREN,—In order that unnecessary expense might be avoided, my solicitors submitted the following names to Mr. Stanley, the representative of the House Committee, for him to select one to act as referee on my claim for professional services to the Institution from the following list:—Sir H. A. Hunt, C.B., George Pownall, Esq., John Whichcord, Esq., Arthur Cates, Esq., W. J. Gardiner, Esq., Joseph Lavender, Esq., W. Hudson, Esq., all of them being, as you are aware, gentlemen of the highest character and standing in the profession.

After a long time had elapsed for consideration, Mr. Stanley suggested Mr. J. E. Saunders, of Finsbury Circus, a gentleman of equal character and standing with those I had named, and my solicitors immediately agreed to accept his decision in the matter.

The House Committee have now refused to agree to the proposal of Mr. Stanley, their own representative, and consequently I have had no alternative but to give instructions to proceed with the necessary steps for the enforcement of my claim; but I think it only right to lay the present position of the matter before you, as the conduct of the House Committee must have the effect of running up heavy and unnecessary law charges, which must eventually fall on the Institution.

Yours faithfully and fraternally,

S. B. WILSON.

27 Walbrook, E.C., 30th March 1881.

THE PROVINCES AND THE CHARITIES.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I beg to congratulate "A PAST MASTER" on his excellent summary published in your columns of last week. He has invited corrections, so permit me to call attention to the omission—so far as Worcestershire is concerned—of no less than fifty-two Boys' votes and four Girls' votes in the published Lists of Subscribers upon which the tables are founded.

I append for your satisfaction proof thereof, which I shall be happy to supply to "A PAST MASTER" if he will favour me with his address.

This brings the Worcestershire average in the Boys' School to 28¼, and fifth place. In the Girls it remains the same, and in the combined Lists it increases the average to 45¼, and the position of this Province to sixth place.

I have supplied the Secretaries with material for the necessary additions.

Fraternally yours,

GEORGE TAYLOR, P.G.J.W.

AN EARLY YORKSHIRE FREEMASON.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I have pleasure in complying with the request of Bro. J.W. 148, and in sending the following note, from the Wills Court, at York, for publication:—

A.D. 1590-1. March 19.

John Kidd, of Leeds, Freemason, gives bond to produce the original will of William Taylor, junr., of Leeds.

Yours fraternally,

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS.

THE monthly meeting of the General Committee of the subscribers to this Institution was held on Thursday afternoon, at Freemasons' Hall, when there were present Bros. Lieut.-Col. Creaton Grand Treasurer (in the chair), John A. Rucker, A. J. Duff-Filer, George Bolton, E. H. Finney, James Peters, H. Massey, Thomas Mass, A. H. Tattershall, Joshua Nunn, James F. Corben, J. H. Matthews, Arthur E. Gladwell, C. G. Brown, Peter de Lande Long, R. B. Webster. After the minutes had been read and confirmed, the Chairman was authorised to sign cheques, and the meeting was brought to a conclusion, a vote of thanks being passed to the Chairman.

CHARITY ASSOCIATIONS.

We are very pleased to hear that the members of the Egyptian Lodge of Instruction, No. 27, have decided on the formation of an association in connection with their Lodge for the purpose of conferring on members Life Governerships in the Masonic Charities, by the payment of small weekly subscriptions. The usual course adopted by similar associations, as to subscriptions and ballot, will be observed in this case, and we can but express a hope that the result will prove most satisfactory. Bro. L. Norden, I.P.M. 205, is the Hon. Sec. pro tem, and either he or Bro. T. J. Maidwell will be happy to take the names of brethren wishing to join. The meetings of the association will be held in connection with the Lodge of Instruction, which meets every Thursday evening, at the Hercules Tavern, Leadenhall-street, E.C. There is yet another claimant for the honour of being looked upon as supporter of our Charities, The Great City Lodge of Instruction, No. 1426, having established a similar association in connection with their Lodge; here also The subscriptions will be one shilling per week, and the usual forms will be observed. We cannot do more than express the hope that this also will prove a success.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR.

THE Annual Convocation of the "Royal Veterans' Encampment of the United Religions, Military, and Masonic Order of Knights Templar," was holden on Friday, 25th ult., at the Huyshe Masonic Temple, Plymouth. E. Sir Knight Sydney L. R. Templer was installed as Eminent Commander. This very impressive ceremony was performed by E. Sir Knight L. D. Westcott, assisted by E. Sir Knights I. Watts, J. Austin, J. B. Gover, Samuel Jew, Thos. Heath, Col. FitzGerald, J. Edward Curteis, R. Pengelly, and E. Aitken Davies. Sir Knight Templer was afterwards installed as Prior of the Priory of Malta. The Officers appointed for the ensuing year in the Encampment were:—Sir Knights Thomas Heath P.P.G.S.B. I.P.E.C., Francis B. Westlake 1st Captain, John James 2nd Captain, L. D. Westcott P.P.G.M. Prelate, Josiah Austin P.E.C. P.P.G.E. Treasurer, Thomas Heath Registrar, E. Binding Expert, W. A. Fowler Captain of Lines, S. Jew 1st Herald, I. Watts S.B., J. B. Gover Almoner, and William H. Phillips Guard. The banquet was held at the Globe Hotel. Frater Templer presided until the inevitable train was due, after which Fraters Heath and Jew acted for him, and a most enjoyable and instructive evening was spent.

MYDDELTON HALL.

A CONCERT was given by Mr. W. Wright, a relation of Bro. J. Osborne, W.M. elect of the Sir Hugh Myddelton Lodge, on Thursday, 24th March. The Hall was crowded in every part, and amongst the audience we noticed Bro. Churchwarden Friend, Churchwarden Warr; Bro. Halford G.P.J.D. Herts, P.M.'s Pearcy, Meekham, Meyer, Weston, Berry; Bros. Parkinson, Bird, Dillon, Ball, Greenfield, Field, Hollidge, Harris, Seamer, Townley, &c. The programme was exceedingly well carried out, Mdlle. Vagnolini, Miss Marian Lynton, R.A.M., and Miss Coyte Turner giving great satisfaction, and necessitating encores: whilst the pianoforte playing of the Misses Amy and Nelly Clark, pupils of the beneficiare, was much admired, and exhibited evidence of careful training. "St. Ronan's Eve," a new song, with Invisible Quartette, by F. W. Lacey, and excellently rendered by Miss Coyte Turner, had a most enthusiastic encore. Mr. Wright, in his solo pianoforte, "Irish Diamonds," surpassed himself, his execution being brilliant, and the expressive passages well sustained. Mr. Ryan received great applause for the song "Alice, where art thou?" as did Miss Coyte Turner, for the "Lost Chord," sung by desire. Messrs. Lovett King, James Bayne, and Charles Walters rendered efficient service in the trios and part songs, and Mr. McLellen was extremely amusing in his effusions à la Grossmith. Mr. Pocklington, with H. Poulet's highly successful song, "Big Ben," pleased greatly. We must congratulate Mr. Wright on the success of his first concert, by which no doubt his reputation as a professor will be materially increased. The comfort of the audience was looked after by Bro. J. Osborne, who had for his aide-de-camp Bro. R. G. Thomas (of this Journal) Org. 1602.

INSTALLATION MEETINGS, &c.

PROSPERITY LODGE, No. 65.

THE installation meeting was held on 24th ult., at the Guildhall Tavern, Gresham-street. The W.M., Bro. E. C. Ferry, occupied the chair, W. Chicken S.W., Roberts J.W., J. H. Goodwin Treas., G. T. Brown Secretary, G. Shadler S.D., C. J. Rich J.D., Stafford as I.G.; P.M.'s Bros. Cornwall, E. Arnold, C. Daniel, Cook, and Chivers. After all formalities had been duly observed, Bros. Fencott, Patience, Mattio, and Pocock were raised to the sublime degree, and Mr. R. J. Clark was initiated into the Order; the ceremonies being ably rendered by the W.M. A Board of Installed Masters was opened, and Bro. W. Chicken S.W. and W.M. elect was presented to the Lodge, and duly installed into the chair by Bro. C. Daniel P.M. Bro. Brown gave the concluding addresses. At the conclusion of the ceremony both brethren were congratulated by the members and visitors; there were twenty-six W.M.'s and P.M.'s present at this interesting ceremony. On the re-admission of the brethren, the new W.M. received the customary salutations; he then, in appropriate terms, appointed and invested his Officers as follow:—Bros. C. E. Ferry I.P.M., J. Roberts S.W., G. Schadler J.W., J. H. Goodwin P.M. Treasurer, G. T. Brown P.M. Secretary, C. J. Rich S.D., F. Kearney J.D., J. Hawkins I.G., C. Daniel D.C., J. Boston A.D.C., E. Marshall W.S., C. Speight P.M. Prov. G. Tyler Surrey Tyler, Bro. James Terry P.P.G.W. Herts efficiently acted as D.C. The Report of the Audit Committee showed a Balance in hand—to Lodge Fund £68 18s, and Benevolent Fund £24 16s. A Committee for making arrangements for a Summer Banquet was appointed. A sum of two guineas was voted to Bro. Mills' Testimonial. Lodge was then closed until June, and the brethren, one hundred in number, sat down to a capital banquet and dessert. Grace having been said, the W.M. proposed the usual toasts. Bro. Ferry I.P.M. rose; he could see with what pleasure the brethren had noticed that he had taken the gavel. It was to propose the toast of the W.M. The brethren would all agree with him when he told them that Bro. Chicken was an energetic Mason. Most of them had seen his working as S.W., and by that could judge his qualifications for Master. He was convinced he need not say another word to ensure the toast a hearty reception. The Worshipful Master thanked Brother Ferry for the manner in which he had spoken of him, he was also gratified at the way in which the toast had been received. It was many years since he was initiated in the Lodge, but to-night was the proudest moment of his life, when he realised that he was the W.M. of the Lodge; his best efforts should be exerted for the service of the brethren; his heart and soul was with them. He had to thank them heartily for their kind expressions. The W.M. next gave what he considered the toast of the evening—the newly-initiated brother. Without new blood no Lodge could go on. The attention he had paid to the ceremony warranted the hope he would be a credit to the Order. The E.A. song having been sung, Bro. Clark returned thanks in an appropriate speech. The toast of the Visitors came next; it was a very pleasing duty; to-night there was a large number of visitors, namely, thirty-five; the W.M. would select four brethren—Bros. James Terry, E. Bowyer, Martin, and T. J. Maidwell to respond. Bro. James Terry, as one of the thirty-five representing the Visiting Brethren, felt proud to return thanks, and to see the Lodge so prosperous. All knew what it had done for the Masonic Institutions, and all knew what it would do. The I.P.M. had taken up one hundred and five guineas for the Aged, while Bro. Brown had already doubled that amount for the Girls' School. He was gratified also in being able to say that the newly-appointed D.C., Bro. Daniels P.M, had the sum of one hundred and thirty guineas on his list for the Boys'. Bro. Binckes he (Bro. Terry) felt assured would not be content with a less sum this year than £17,000. This Lodge was one of which the Craft was proud. Bro. Terry then paid just compliments to the two brethren who had performed the ceremony of installation, while the W.M.'s presidency left nothing to be desired. Bros. Martin, T. Maidwell, and Bowyer followed, and then the W.M. proposed the next toast—the health of the I.P.M. Bro. Ferry, whom he assured of the appreciation the brethren entertained for the way in which he had carried out the duties during his year of office. It was a pleasant task he had undertaken, that of placing on Bro. Ferry's breast a token of the regard in which he was held. In addition he had to present a clock, which he, his wife, and his family would with pleasure look on in recognition of the many hours he had passed with the members. The jewel was a gift from the Lodge, and the clock the gift of the brethren. Bro. Ferry, in response, said, after all the kindnesses he had received, he could hardly find words to express his satisfaction at this further token of their regard. He hoped to be among them as a P.M. for many years; he thanked them for their valuable presents, which his good wife would fully appreciate; her feelings in regard to Freemasonry and charity were in unison with his own. He should always look on the jewel with pride. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the P.M.'s. That night they were not honoured with the attendance of so many as they could wish to see. However, there were several more who would have liked to be present. He would name Bros. Cornwell, Arnold, Brown, Daniel, Cook, Goodwin, Bellerby, and Chivers; all respected them and knew their value and good qualities. To Bro. Daniel especial thanks were due, not only for services in the Lodge, but much energy displayed out of it. He is a Vice-President of one of the Institutions, and is now going up again as Steward. The same remark holds good with Bro. Brown; the one brother as Installing Master, and the other for assistance rendered, deserved their heartiest thanks. Bro. Arnold P.M. first replied; he was followed by Bros. Cook and Chivers, who both felt proud in seeing how the Lodge had progressed. Bros. Brown and Daniel each responded, and then the W.M. gave the health of the Treasurer and Secretary with the other Officers. After suitable acknowledgments for the compliment, the Tyler's toast was given. Several brethren contributed to the harmony of the evening. Bros. C. Daniel P.M., Mills and Sherwell looked after the comfort of the members and visitors. Among the latter were Bros. S. Clarke, Catterson, G. Brooks, F. Stafford, Aynsley, C. Beaumont, C. W. Kent, James Terry, E. Bowyer, Bush, Lazarus, Maidwell, Barker, Nash, Griffiths, Cook, Potts, Martin, Batchelor, Butler, Williams, Fowler, Brass, Martin, Briggs, Haynes, Carman, Fryer, Soucks, Brewer, and H. M. Levy.

ROYAL UNION LODGE, No. 382.

THE Installation Meeting was held on Monday, the 21st ult., at the Chequers Hotel, Uxbridge. The brethren were called for 2.30, but notwithstanding business commenced at this early hour, the sitting was protracted much beyond the time fixed, and, as we have before remarked with respect to the after proceedings at this Lodge, the scramble to make up for lost time sadly marred the enjoyment of the brethren and their guests. The Lodge was formally opened by the W.M. Bro. G. E. Cook, who was supported by his Officers, and the following Past Masters:—W. Coombes, J. L. Coulton, G. Febrenbach, John Weedon, B. H. Swallow, and E. C. Woodward. The Visiting Brethren who signed the attendance book were:—Bros. H. C. Smith 1563, W. O. Beasley J.W. 172, A. H. Baker 720, T. Morris 1306, C. J. L. Sandilands 1540, J. F. Knight-Smith P.M. 1441, E. Berger P.M. 435, T. Chever 145, and H. Perdue 884. After the minutes had been read and duly confirmed, the ceremonial work was proceeded with; this comprised the raising of Bros. Jetsam and Barnicoat; the passing of Bro. Skeate; and the initiation of Mr. F. Miller (who had been previously approved by ballot), Mr. Thomas Brooks, proposed by Bro. Weedon P.M., seconded by Bro. Rowles S.D., and Mr. Charles Albert Poole, proposed by Bro. Weedon P.M., seconded by Bro. Nicholson. After the ballot, however, had been taken for the two last-named gentlemen, and before they were introduced, Bro. Coulton took the chair as Installing Master, and the W.M. elect, Bro. C. Russ, was introduced to receive at his hands the benefits of installation. Bro. Coulton is an old P.M. of this Lodge, and we have ere this had occasion to speak of his skill. Suffice it, therefore, that on this occasion he well sustained the reputation for care and ability he so well merits. Officers invested were:—Bros. Lonsdale S.W., Rowles J.W., Coulton P.M. Treasurer, Coombes P.M. Secretary, Cooper S.D., Nicholson Junior Deacon, Hall Inner Guard, Wilson Organist, Woodward Past Master Director of Ceremonies, Duffin Tyler. The new W.M. then gave the benefit of the first degree to the gentlemen named above, and by the able way in which he conducted the ceremony evidenced the choice the brethren had made was one that must ensure the duties of the chair being carried out in an eminently satisfactory manner during the current year. In the course of the evening reference was made by Bro. P.M. Swallow to the hapless condition of an old P.M. of the Lodge, and a petition for aid from the Board of Benevolence was signed by the Officers and members. After the hearty greetings of the visiting brethren had been tendered, Lodge was closed. The banquet was served in a very creditable manner by host Bro. Philips. The W.M. efficiently presided, and in the briefest terms proposed the regular toasts. A capital musical programme was gone through, but to our mind, it would have been better, in view of the exigencies of the hour if it had been curtailed. We may add that a P.M.'s jewel was presented to Bro. Cook the outgoing Master. The brethren to whom the musical arrangements were entrusted were J. I. Cantle P.M., Knight-Smith P.M., and J. Arthur Thomas. We append a list of the songs, &c.:—"God save the Queen;" Chorus and Duet, "God Bless the Prince of Wales;" Song, "My Pretty Jane," Bro. Arthur Thomas; Duet, "Excelsior," Bros. Knight-Smith, and J. Ion Cantle; Song, "The Blue Alsatian Mountains," Bro. Knight-Smith; Song, "Hurrah for Rosy Wine," Bro. J. Ion Cantle; Song, "The Gay Postillion" (with Whip Obligato), Bro. Arthur Thomas; New Song, "Who Cares," Bro. J. Ion Cantle; Duet, "All's Well," Bros. Arthur Thomas and J. Ion Cantle; Song, "Good Night, Beloved," Bro. Knight-Smith.

ROYAL ALFRED LODGE, No. 780.

TEMPTED by the geniality displayed by the clerk of the weather during the past week or ten days, the brethren assembled in considerable strength at the Star and Garter, Kew Bridge, on Friday, 25th ult. The chair was taken by the W.M. Bro. B. E. Blasby, who was supported by his Officers and the following Past Masters:—Bros. W. Gomm, J. Chambers Rowe, Walter Goss (Treasurer), Chas. May, Littlewood, W. Hilton (Secretary), A. Beasley, H. Potter, &c., with the following Visitors:—Bros. J. E. Carpenter P.M. 1196, R. J. Manning Treasurer 446, T. W. Knight P.P.G.D.C. Kent, W. Harding 193, John Plowman 975, Jas. Terry Secretary R.M.B.I., N. Walton 865, James Squire P.M. 3, Charles Bean 889, R. H. Pearson P.M. 1196, W. Radcliffe I.P.M. 211, J. J. Michael P.G.P. Kent, W. H. Air 554, G. R. Cundell, and E. Morison jun. 1194. Lodge was opened at the hour appointed, and minutes of last regular and emergency meetings were read and confirmed. There were in attendance two candidates for raising—Bros. John Lees and Walter John Sperring. Both passed a satisfactory examination, and the ceremony of the degree was ably worked by the W.M. The aspirants for the second step were Bros. Samuel Blasby, Charles Thomas James Hildersley, and J. Moore Lucas, who sustained their claim for preferment, and were duly passed. The ballot was then brought into requisition for Mr. George Jefferies, proposed by Bro. Blasby W.M., and seconded by Bro. Roe P.M.; for Mr. J. P. Flew, proposed by Bro. Squires, and seconded by Bro. Blasby W.M.; and for Mr. Henry Bailey, proposed by Bro. Blasby W.M., and seconded by Bro. Maton. In each case the result was satisfactory, and these gentlemen were introduced and initiated into the mysteries and privileges of ancient Freemasonry. A sum of £2 2s was voted from the funds in aid of the Hervey Memorial Fund, and £10 10s towards the List of Bro. P.M. Gomm, who has kindly undertaken

a Stewardship for the next Festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys. The resignation of two members was accepted, with regret, and after some propositions had been handed in, and routine work, Lodge was closed. After a brief interval the customary banquet was served, Bro. Brill ably ministering to the requirements of the large gathering. On the removal of the cloth the Loyal toasts were done full justice to. Bro. Past Master Gomm eloquently sang the praises of Bro. Blasby; all the members recognised the zeal displayed by their W.M., and one and all wished him continued prosperity during his year of office. After a capital song by Bro. Jefferies, Bro. Blasby rose to reply. He felt their worthy I.P.M. had been too liberal in the praise he had bestowed upon him. However, he could assure the brethren he should ever strive to promote the welfare of the Lodge, and the comfort of its members. The Past Masters were next complimented. Each of those present addressed a few observations, and many happy allusions were, in the course of their remarks, made to the pleasant bygones of the Lodge. The initiates were next toasted, and replies were forcibly made by the newly-made brethren. The toast of the Charities brought forth an elaborate statement of their needs, and a pleasant résumé of what each Institution was doing for the distressed brethren and their offspring. The toast of the Visitors brought forth the eloquence of Bro. Carpenter, who could boast of forty-two years experience of what the Craft had done. The remaining toasts were not overlooked, and to each suitable responses were made. Altogether the evening passed most pleasantly, Bros. Flaw, Jefferies, Beasley, Gunner, Lucas, Hildersley and others contributing some excellent harmony. The Organist of the Lodge, Bro. Kent, ably assisted at the pianoforte.

SOIREE OF THE GREAT CITY LODGE, No. 1426.

THE members and friends of The Great City Lodge took part in a most enjoyable entertainment on Saturday, 26th March, at the Cannon Street Hotel. The Lodge is so noted for the thoroughness with which everything in connection therewith is undertaken, that we think very little need be said on that score; suffice it, that this evening's meeting proved one of the most successful—if not the most successful—that has ever been held. The opinion we entertain as to the desirability of having at least one ladies' night in connection with our Masonic year is well known. We are assured that the entertainment provided for the fair sex at such meetings as that given by The Great City Lodge can but be beneficial to the Craft, as through its influence the ladies come to look upon the Order with more favour than is the case when they are rigorously excluded from any participation in the enjoyment of its periodical assemblies. We are very pleased to find this opinion growing in favour, and have no doubt that the example of The Great City and other influential Lodges will in the future be frequently followed, and that ere long it will be the custom rather than the exception, as at present, for the ladies to participate in at least one of the Lodge meetings of the year. The programme for the evening, as provided at The Great City, was varied; the entertainment commenced at half-past five for six, with a concert in the Great Hall, which was followed by Mr. Benn's exhibition, which, as many of our readers are doubtless aware, is a display of that gentleman's wonderful ability in the art of portrait drawing, which is, if not exactly instantaneous, at least very nearly so. His power in this direction was amply illustrated when he placed on the board the profile of one of the most prominent members of the Lodge, and the hearty applause which greeted the well known features showed the satisfaction of the spectators, not only of the artist's power, but also of the way in which the duties appertaining to his office are fulfilled by the brother in question. This concluding the first part of the programme, an adjournment took place to the Pillar Hall, where supper was laid out in splendid style, the managers of the hotel apparently doing everything in their power to secure the comfort of those assembled. At the conclusion of the supper, the toasts were very few, the chairman proposing The Queen and the Craft, and later on The Ladies. Success to The Great City Lodge was heartily proposed, and as heartily received. The W.M. Bro. Hamer, in replying, referred to the pleasure he and his brother Officers felt in witnessing the success of the entertainment. He thanked the company for the way in which they had drunk to the success of the Lodge. He was extremely proud to occupy the position of Worshipful Master, but never had he felt more so than on the present occasion, when he saw around him so many friends other than members of the Lodge, but more particularly the Ladies. He then proposed the health of The Ladies, calling upon Bro. Benn to respond. That gentleman, in answer to the call, said he felt it a great privilege to be associated with the ladies, either in a toast or in any other way. He would conclude his remarks with the oft repeated line

"The ladies, God bless them."

The W.M. desired to tender the thanks of the members to those who had so kindly contributed to the harmony of the evening. He then announced that a dance was arranged for in the great hall, and that the band was waiting. Accordingly, a removal was made and a lively dance was kept up until close upon midnight. We have already said the evening was a most enjoyable one, a result which could have been achieved only at great trouble on the part of those who had the arrangement of the preliminary details, and we think that all will agree with us in awarding the palm in that respect to Bro. Blackie, the Secretary. When all passes off well there are few who consider the amount of trouble that must have been entailed to bring about so successful an issue, but we imagine that Bro. Blackie could tell of many an hour spent in arranging details; however, he was amply rewarded, as were all who had assisted him, in being able to point to so grand a result. We understand that at least one hundred and fifty more tickets could have been allotted than were supplied; the committee having deemed it better to disappoint a minority than to inconvenience all. The actual number present was upwards of two hundred and thirty.

EVENING STAR LODGE, No. 1719.

WE invariably look forward to the meetings of this compact and ably conducted Lodge with much pleasure, and the gratification we experienced as the result of our attendance on Tuesday, the 22nd ult., was all we could have hoped for. Lodge was presided over by the W.M. Bro. William Sugg, who was right loyally supported by his Officers. The business comprised the reading of the minutes of last regular, and of an emergency meeting, which were duly confirmed. Bro. John Copper, who by the courtesy of the W.M. of the Windsor Lodge had received his second degree, was raised to the sublime degree of M.M., Bro. Sugg ably conducting the ceremony, which was rendered the more impressive by the organ performance of Bro. Henry Sugg W.M. of the Frederick Lodge of Unity, No. 482. A candidate for initiation, who had for his sponsors Bros. Mildred and Mainwaring, was successfully ballotted for, and notice of motion was given that £5 5s be voted from the Lodge funds towards the Hervey Memorial Fund. The Treasurer reported that the balance in hand at the end of February amounted to £105. An appeal was then made for brethren to offer themselves to serve as Stewards, and Bro. A. Williams expressed his readiness to act for the Girls' Institution; £10 10s was promised in support of his List. We regret no brother offered his services on behalf of "Our Boys," as the Lodge, with considerate liberality, was quite prepared to advocate the granting of a like sum to that Institution. However, we are assured that at the next meeting of the Lodge one of its youngest members, failing acceptance by a senior, will tender his services. We may add that Bro. J. W. Sugg intimated that at the Festival in 1882, for the Royal Masonic Benovolent Institution, he would be happy to act as Steward for the Lodge. Some propositions for joining and initiation were then handed in. Bro. Magnus Ohren Grand Assistant Director of Ceremonies then rose; he stated that it was with great pleasure he had to inform the brethren that he had been entrusted with a commission from their I.P.M., Bro. John Aird—a commission of which he felt proud; it was to present the Lodge, in Bro. Aird's name, with a souvenir of his year of office as W.M., and to mark the many happy hours he had spent with the brethren since the formation of the Lodge. He (Bro. Ohren) must remind the W.M. and brethren that they were already indebted to Bro. Aird for a very valuable gift to the Lodge. It would be in the recollection of all that the Founders each did their best to furnish their Lodge in a manner worthy of the position it was destined to take in the Craft, and all had given to the best of their ability. On that occasion Bro. Aird took upon himself to supply the whole of the collars and jewels required for the Officers. The jewels were of massive silver, and the gift was, he need scarcely say, a most valuable one to the Lodge. Bro. Aird did not, however, rest satisfied with making that mark in the Lodge, but desired to perpetuate his year of office still further, by the gift he now tendered—a magnificent snuffbox. He felt assured that the present and all future Worshipful Masters would see that the box was placed on the banquet table at every meeting, so that future members might know the kindness of feeling that existed amongst the brethren. Bro. Ohren then, on behalf of Bro. Past Master Aird, handed over the handsome present, and moved that the best thanks of the Lodge be presented to Bro. Aird for this mark of his kindness, and that the same be recorded on the minutes, together with a copy of the inscription; he felt confident that not only the Officers, but every member of this Lodge, would reciprocate all Bro. Aird's good wishes and good feeling, and that the motion would be carried with acclamation. It need scarcely be added the proposition was heartily carried. Bro. Aird, in reply, said that, agreeable as it was to hear such kind remarks expressed, he felt he ought not to have been present. However, his acknowledgments were due to one and all, especially to the Worshipful Master and the Secretary, Bro. Ohren. Bro. Mitchell appealed to the brethren for their suffrages and assistance on behalf of the widow of the late Bro. Diver, and recounted the particulars of the case, which was one of great distress. After one or two other matters had been disposed of, Lodge was closed. A banquet was then partaken of, and the brethren spent the evening together most pleasantly. The Worshipful Master provided a capital musical entertainment, in which the following artistes took part:—Misses Helen Grieffenhagen and Millie Turner; Mr. Coward; Bros. Stedman, Charles Tinney, and J. Jeffreys. The following were present as Visitors:—Bros. Mitchell P.M. 944 P.G.J.W. Bombay, C. Hume P.M. 209, Roberts 209, Allport 100, Thomas Crapper 211, Henry Sugg W.M. 482, Cruckenden, W. W. Morgan Secretary 211, Vincent P.M., Browning S.W. 33, Tinney I.G. 1319.

INDUSTRY LODGE, No. 186.

THE second Annual Ball was held on the 15th ult., at the Freemasons' Tavern, under the presidency of Bro. W. Philp W.M. and the following Stewards:—Bros. W. Mann P.M. and Treasurer, J. Seex P.M. Treasurer, T. Tallent P.M., G. Dyer P.M., W. H. Hook P.M., H. J. Johnson S.W., J. F. Taffs J.W., G. J. Dyer I.G., W. S. Page W.S., Noehmer P.M., S. Earl, A. Leon, H. C. Day, T. Hollands, G. F. Stuchbury, H. Stubbins, F. W. Clayton, H. H. Leonard, F. J. Dunsford; and Bro. Douglass Robinson P.M., who efficiently acted as M.C. The company, numbering over 100, assembled in the Crown Room, where a very excellent band, under the direction of Bro. H. Baker, discoursed sweet music. A capital supper was provided by Bro. A. Best, and after the ladies and brethren had partaken of the good things provided, the W.M., Bro. Philp, said, although theirs was a social gathering, they could not go forth without drinking the health of the Queen, whom all revered; he hoped she might long enjoy health to reign over us. Bro. W. Mann P.M. then rose. He would not take up their time in proposing his toast; he must say that great credit is due to the W.M. for his exertions on behalf of the Lodge. Bro. Philp is a young Mason, but he is universally respected. The W.M. thanked Bro. Mann for his kind remarks; he was proud to occupy the chair of the Industry Lodge; he hoped, in his capacity of President on this occasion, he had given them satisfaction. Bro. Noehmer P.M., in humorous terms, proposed the health of the Stewards of the Ball, but he regretted the absence of some of those brethren with their ladies. After an able response from Bro. Tallent P.M., the W.M. proposed the toast of the Ladies; he was pleased to see so many present. There were certain formalities in Freemasonry which precluded them being present at Lodge meetings, but all are pleased to see them at these happy gatherings. Captain Russell ably responded to the toast, and then dancing was resumed.

STUART LODGE, No. 1632.

THE installation meeting of this Lodge was held on Monday, 28th ult., at the Surrey Masonic Hall, Camberwell New Road. The W.M. of the year, Bro. George Harry Gilham, ably presided, and was supported by the following Officers: Bros. Donald J. R. Clark S.W. W.M. elect, G. Lilley J.W., T. Poore P.M. Secretary, G. L. Gilham S.D., W. Job J.D., G. W. Evans Organist, R. Barham and H. Baldwin Stewards, E. Bessell I.G. The preliminary business having been transacted, and the report of the Audit Committee received, the ballot was brought into requisition on behalf of Mr. Charles Fruen, who was a candidate for initiation. The ballot proved to be in his favour, and later in the evening he received the first degree. The Worshipful Master elect having been presented, was obligated, and in admirable manner installed by the retiring W.M. Bro. Gilham; we do not remember seeing any brother perform the ceremony in a more earnest way than did Brother Gilham, every part of the ritual receiving from him an emphasis which lent additional impressiveness. The addresses having been given, the new Worshipful Master invested the following as his Officers:—namely, Lilley S.W., Gilham J.W., Poore P.M. Secretary, Job S.D., Bessell J.D., Barham I.G., Stuart-Barker jun. Director of Ceremonies, and Bannister Organist. Bro. G. H. Gilham then again assumed the chair, and Mr. C. Fruen was admitted and initiated. The Worshipful Master afterwards closed the Lodge, and the brethren adjourned to the banquet. Among the visitors present were Bros. Moss, Taylor, Thomas, Clark jun., Woodman, Milbourne, Canton, Forge, Bright, Dawes, Probyn, R. Longhurst, W. W. Morgan jun. (FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE). At the conclusion of the banquet, the Worshipful Master proposed the preliminary toasts. Bro. Gilham gave that of the W.M. He was again entrusted with the gavel; he never took it in hand with greater pleasure than then. The W.M had been associated with the Lodge from its commencement; and he felt there was no one in the Lodge who could propose a toast that would be more heartily received than that of Brother Clark. Brother Gilham felt sure the new W.M. would do all that could be done to make his year of office a successful one. The Worshipful Master replied to the toast with the greatest pleasure; he was very proud of the position to which he had been elected, and should endeavour to do his best for the Lodge and for that peace and harmony which should at all times characterise Freemasonry. He felt that there were many brethren around him who wished him every success during his term of office, and he could but hope that such would be the result of his efforts. The W.M. next proposed the health of Brother Fruen, the initiate of the meeting. He considered this toast the most important of the evening, as it was to the initiates that they had to look to maintain Freemasonry in its present position. The brother they had that night received into their midst gave every promise of becoming a good Mason, having, if he might judge from his conversation, taken a great interest in the ceremony thus far. Bro. Fruen, in reply, said that it had given him the greatest pleasure to join the ranks of Freemasonry, which he found was based on the principles he had been taught during his whole life—to look to the Great Creator in all cases and on all subjects. The health of the Visitors was given from the chair. The Worshipful Master said he could not speak in more favourable terms of one than of another; still, he had more especially to thank Bros. Moss, Canton, and Milbourne. The Lodge was at all times pleased to see Visitors; he felt sure the members all hoped the guests had spent a pleasant evening—such was certainly his desire. Bros. Moss, Canton, Milbourne, Probyn, &c., replied. In giving the health of the I.P.M., Bro. Clark referred to the many good qualities of Bro. Gilham; he had done well during the past year, and especially so that night, when he had so ably installed his successor. The Worshipful Master had much pleasure in investing Bro. Gilham with a Past Master's jewel, which the brethren had subscribed for, and in doing so wished him long life and happiness. Bro. Gilham, in reply, could not help feeling the kind manner in which he had been spoken of. Ever since he had been initiated into Freemasonry he had made Masonry his religion. He greatly appreciated the proud honour he now possessed of being able to write P.M. after his name. When he became an Officer of the Lodge he endeavoured to do everything required of him to the best of his skill and ability, and hoped he had given satisfaction. He considered it the duty—the absolute duty—of a Master to instal his successor. If he failed in the work his brethren would forgive him, but if he succeeded, then they were ready to shower honours on him. He was extremely pleased with the jewel they had presented to him, and when he considered the unanimity with which it had been voted, he could but look upon it as the proudest ornament he could wear. The Worshipful Master next gave the health of the Past Masters, to which Bro. Stuart-Barker replied. The Officers having been honoured, the proceedings were brought to a conclusion.

Burdett-Coutts Lodge of Instruction, No. 1278.—At the Lamb Tavern, Bethnal-green Junction. At the meeting held on Wednesday, the 23rd ultimo, the chair was occupied by Bro. B. Cundick, who was supported by Bros. W. Musto P.M. as S.W., G. H. Stephens J.W., W. Hogg P.M. Preceptor, A. Hand Secretary, B. Stewart S.D., T. Wooding J.D., Clarke I.G.; Past Masters Myers, Webb, Barnes, Cohen; Bros. Chitson, How, Gladstein, Sturtevant, Loane, Hopkins, Loveday, Seymour-Clarke, Christian, Ward, J. Taylor, McDonald, Richardson. Lodge was opened, and the Fifteen Sections were worked as follows:—First Lecture:—Bros. Richardson, Loane, Clark, Wooding, Hogg, and McDonald. Second Lecture:—Bros. Stewart, Stephens, Webb, Musto, and Hopkins. Third Lecture:—Bros. Barnes, Myers, and Taylor. At the conclusion of the working, Bros. Loane 1421, Richardson 174, and Hopkins 749 were duly elected members. A cornial vote of thanks was passed to Bro. Cundick for the admirable manner in which he had discharged the duties of the chair; honorary membership of the Lodge was also conferred upon him.

Sphinx Lodge, No. 1329.—A regular meeting of this Lodge was held at the Surrey Masonic Hall, Camberwell, on Saturday, the 19th ult. The Lodge was opened punctually at five in the afternoon by the W.M., Bro. B. B. Bryant, and there were present during the meeting Bros. G. R. Richards S.W., J. S. Mansell J.W., A. Middlemass S.D., J. C. Reynolds Treasurer, John Hernaman Secretary, A. J. Brinton I.G., H. Forbes and W. L. Permawan Stewards; Past Masters B. Lyon, G. T. Bickerton, J. Sugden, and H. Martin; W. Andrews, G. P. Britton, G. W. Marsden, R. J. Voisey, T. Heller, D. D. Mercer, T. E. Webb, J. N. Tinney, C. Wilson, J. E. Knox, H. Bickerstaff, F. G. Lewin, J. A. Thornhill, R. Irvine, H. Fanner, C. J. Tyrrell, C. Hollingsworth, J. C. Bradley, C. S. Stevens, W. P. Roberts, C. F. Cockle, G. Harrison, &c. The Visitors were Bros. James Stevens, E. W. Allen, George Yarley, G. J. Earney, F. J. Dubois, T. W. Headon. After confirmation of minutes, Bro. C. F. Cockle was passed to the F.C. degree, and Mr. Alfred William Hammond was duly initiated into the Order. The ceremonies were admirably performed, and the work of the Worshipful Master, which was concluded by an excellent delivery of the charge in the E.A. degree, well deserved the encomiums of members and visitors alike. The Masonic Charitable Institutions were remembered, and the W.M. and Bro. Past Master Bickerton agreed to act as Stewards respectively for the ensuing Festivals of Boys and Girls. Notices of motion for Lodge grants in behalf of both lists were made, and after the proposition of further candidates, the Lodge was closed. The brethren banquetted in the dining-room adjoining the Temple, where a very liberal repast was served. The viands were excellent, and with the service reflected great credit on the caterer, Bro. George Venables, under whose management the Surrey Masonic Hall appears to be now flourishing. The Stewards, Bros. Forbes and Permawan, vied with each other in their endeavours to make members and guests comfortable, and they well succeeded. After the cloth had been cleared, and the usual Loyal toasts honoured, the company were invited by the Worshipful Master to enjoy themselves without formality, and the succeeding toasts were interspersed with songs and recitations in rapid succession. In response to "The Visitors," most flattering comments were made by one and all in regard to the good working of the Worshipful Master and his Officers in Lodge, and their subsequent most hospitable reception. The Tyler's toast brought the evening to a conclusion at a reasonably early hour.

Langthorne Lodge of Instruction, No. 1421.—At the regular meeting of this Lodge at the Swan, Stratford, E., on the 30th ult., Brothers Christian W.M., H. N. Taylor I.P.M., Haslipp S.W., Biggs J.W., A. Meyer D.C., Mansfield I.G., Past Master Latrielle Secretary. Also present Bros. G. F. Dix Worshipful Master 1421, and Past Masters T. S. Taylor, Boulton, Brown, March, Stevens. After due formalities Lodge was advanced, and the first and second ceremonies were well and impressively rehearsed, Bros. Brown and March candidates. The I.P.M., Bro. Taylor, in proposing the Senior Warden as Master for the next meeting, expressed the pleasure it afforded him to see the Officers and members of the mother Lodge attending the Lodge of Instruction. The parent Lodge being in recess, he would advise them all to continue their attendances here on Wednesday evenings, and so fit themselves for their duties when the Lodge resumed its labours. Feeling mention was made of the great loss sustained by the lamented death of Bro. G. Levick, the Treasurer of the Lodge of Instruction, and it was proposed by Bro. Dix, seconded by Bro. H. N. Taylor, and supported by Bro. T. S. Taylor, that the condolence of the brethren be conveyed by letter to the widow of our deceased brother. Lodge was closed and adjourned until the 6th inst., when we trust to see a good attendance.

West Smithfield Lodge of Instruction, No. 1623.—At the Cathedral Hotel, St. Paul's Churchyard, on Monday evening, the 28th ult., and by the invitation of the Lodge, the Fifteen Sections were worked by the following brethren:—Bros. G. H. Stephens J.D. 1623 (in the chair), T. J. Barnes P.M. S.W., W. H. Myers P.M. J.W., B. Cundick P.M. I.P.M. First Lecture:—Bros. J. R. Shingfield, J. Hansen Thorn, Dr. T. Loane, J. J. Berry, W. Hogg, W. Yetton, and T. J. Barnes. Second Lecture:—Bros. B. Stewart, J. Andrews, W. Musto, W. H. Myers, and D. Moss. Third Lecture:—Bros. B. Cundick, T. J. Maidwell, and J. McCarthy. Bros. W. Pennefather Preceptor and C. F. Goodenough Secretary were present during the working. Amongst the visiting brethren were Bros. Seymour-Clarke, T. E. Goddard, D. Partridge, J. Robson, J. Macgregor, F. Kimbell. After the working, which was most admirable throughout, Bro. Cundick proposed that the thanks of the Lodge be given to Bro. G. H. Stephens for the very able manner in which he acted as presiding Officer that night. Bro. Stephens had carried out his duties in a manner requiring but little assistance from him, and his (the speaker's) office had proved a sinecure. The working had been somewhat inconvenient, owing to the incapability of the room to hold the number of brethren who so kindly attended. In spite of this, the work had been well performed. Bro. Myers seconded, and Bro. T. J. Barnes supported, the motion. Bro. Barnes, in putting it to the Lodge, said he never remembered a Worshipful Master having laboured under such difficulties as Bro. Stephens had that night in working the Sections, owing to the crowded state of the room. He was pleased to bear testimony to the able manner in which Bro. Stephens had put the various questions to the lecturing brethren, and was further pleased to see how well he had been supported. Bro. Stephens briefly responded, observing how gratified he was for the support which had been accorded him. He felt very thankful to the brethren of the Lodge for electing him to occupy the chair that night, and also for the way in which many distinguished brethren from the East End had rallied round him. Bro. W. Pennefather proposed that the thanks of the Lodge be given to those brethren who had so ably worked the Fifteen Sections. Bro. Stephens, in putting the motion to the Lodge, thanked the brethren for their kind and efficient help. Bro. Musto P.M. responded, on behalf of himself and colleagues. Bro. Stephens proposed that the thanks of the Lodge be given to Bro. Barnes for his kindness in acting as S.W. They all knew how admirably Bro. Barnes worked; in fact, many lodges had adopted Bro. Barnes' system of working. Bro. Pennefather seconded, and Bro. Myers supported the motion, and it was unanimously adopted. Bro. Barnes thanked the brethren for their kind expressions of regard, both to himself and for his ideas as to what constituted good working. He was pleased to say that but little assistance was required from him in the matter of prompting, for each of the brethren who had lectured had been well schooled. He was always pleased to give what assistance he could to any Lodge, and so long as the Great Architect of the Universe did not issue one of his mystic decrees to call him unto himself, he would continue to do so. He hoped the Lodge would acknowledge the services of Bros. Past Masters Cundick and Myers, by enrolling them honorary members of the Lodge. The suggestion was adopted. A very large number of the visiting brethren being desirous to become members of the Lodge, they were unanimously elected. Lodge was closed in due form, and the brethren separated.

Sir Hugh Myddelton Lodge, No. 1602.—A meeting took place in the Agricultural Hall, on Friday, the 25th ultimo, Bro. John Weston W.M. There were no Past Masters present, but the work, which consisted of a passing and two raisings, was excellently rendered. After the minutes of the previous meeting had been read and confirmed, Bro. Harris was passed to the second degree, and Bros. Brown and Dettmer, having proved their efficiency as F.C.'s, were in due course raised to the sublime degree of M.M. The next business was the election of Worshipful Master, and Bro. Osborne S.W. was unanimously chosen. Bro. Hollidge was re-elected Treasurer. Before the Lodge was closed it was resolved nem con to present a Past Master's jewel of the value of ten guineas to Bro. Weston, as a mark of respect for his assiduous attention to the duties of the Lodge, he having attended every meeting, save one, when he was in Scotland on urgent business. The brethren adjourned to a moderate and well-served dinner, and the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were duly given and honoured. Bro. Weston, in proposing the health of the Worshipful Master elect, spoke very highly of Bro. Osborne, both in and out of the Lodge. They all knew how hard he had worked for its interests, and he felt convinced he would have a most successful year of office. Bro. Speller responded for the Visitors, and said it was the first occasion he had visited the Lodge. He was delighted with the working and the manner in which he had been entertained, and he trusted, should the New Finsbury Park Lodge unite next year with the Sir Hugh Myddelton, the Ball would be a greater success than the last. Bro. Norris J.W., responding for the Officers, drew attention to the fact that he was going up as Steward for the Girls, and trusted that the brethren would make his list as large as possible. Bro. R. G. Thomas responded, as Organist, and trusted he had assisted in making the working harmonious in the Lodge. He had now joined another organ—the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE—which he trusted he should succeed in using to the interests of the Craft generally, and the Sir Hugh Myddelton Lodge in particular. The brethren separated at an early hour, Bro. Steedman, who was re-appointed Tyler in his absence, through severe illness, receiving the heartfelt sympathy of all present.

Eboracum Lodge, No. 1611.—On 21st ult. the regular meeting of this Lodge was held in York, the W.M. Bro. J. T. Seller presiding, supported by Bros. C. E. Padel I.P.M., T. B. Whytehead P.M., J. S. Cumberland P.M., Geo. Balmford P.M., G. Simpson S.W., M. Millington J.W., and several other officers and brethren. After some preliminary business the Lodge resolved itself into a meeting for instruction, and the S.W., Bro. Simpson, having assumed the chair, worked the opening and closing in the first degree and the ceremony of initiation in a very creditable manner. Bro. T. B. Whytehead presented to the Lodge, on behalf of the Rev. W. C. Lukis P.M. 837, a facsimile transcript from the diary of Dr. Stukeley, of the first and last pages of the Cooke Constitutions, exhibited at Grand Lodge in 1721, and a cordial vote of thanks was passed to Bro. Lukis for his interesting gift. A ballot was taken for a life membership of the Benevolent Institution, and Bro. B. Stephenson was declared the winner. The Lodge was then closed, and the remainder of the evening was spent in a social manner.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—Indisputable Remedies.—In the use of these medicaments there need be no hesitation or doubt of cooling, healing, and purifying properties. The Ointment stands unrivalled for the faculty it displays in relieving, healing, and thoroughly curing the most inveterate sores and ulcers, and in cases of bad legs and bad breasts they act as a charm. The Pills are the most effectual remedy ever discovered for the cure of liver complaints, diseases most disastrous in their effects, deranging all the proper functions of the organs affected; inducing restlessness, melancholy, weariness, inability to sleep, and pain in the side, until the whole system is exhausted. These wonderful Pills, if taken according to the printed directions accompanying each box, strike at the root of the malady, stimulate the stomach and liver into a healthy action, and effect a complete cure.

THE SHEFFIELD MASONIC AMATEUR DRAMATIC SOCIETY.

ON Thursday and Friday, the 24th and 25th March respectively, this excellent amateur association celebrated its fifth season, the whole of the entertainments on both evenings passing off most successfully. The joint managers Bros. J. E. Reaney and S. H. Gatty, the President Bro. Alfred Scargill, the Vice-President Bro. Dr. Thomas, the Treasurer and Hon. Sec. Bro. J. Unwin jun., and the officers are to be congratulated on their success. We trust the Association has yet before it many years of useful labour in the same field. Thursday's programme comprised the late J. R. Planché's one-act comedy, "Faint Heart never won Fair Lady," and the late Tom Taylor's one-act comedietta "Nine Points of the Law." Bros. Scargill, West, and Reaney, with Miss Wiber in the important rôle of Donna Leonora, aunt to the Duchess de Torrenueva, played extremely well in the former. In the latter Miss Wiber, as Mrs. Smylie, and Bro. Holiday as Joseph Ironside, by their rare impersonation of these important characters, scored a grand success for the latter. On Friday, Tom Taylor's three-act drama, "A Fool's Revenge," and Mr. T. J. Williams's Farce, "Ici on Parle Francais," made up the programme. Bro. Gatty's rendering of Bertuccio the jester was a very able performance. Miss Maud Cathcart both played and sang well as Bertuccio's daughter Fiordelisa, and, on the whole, though a somewhat severe test to amateur players, the piece went well. The farce, which was well cast, was highly appreciated by the audience, who fully enjoyed the fun in which it abounds.

THE MOHAWK MINSTRELS.

THE ninth annual benefit of Bro. James Francis, one of the proprietors of this troop, took place on Wednesday, when a programme of unusual excellence was offered to the public, and the public responded with an alacrity which must have been intensely gratifying to the worthy beneficiary. The first Part comprised a Grand Olio of Varieties, in which a number of popular artists took part. Bro. Victor Liston, whom we have often had the pleasure of meeting in the Provinces, where he is a fresh favourite, is to be commended for his contribution to the entertainment—"Shabby Genteel." Mr. T. W Barrett was exceptionally good. Mr. G. Clare, the Mohawk's prima donna, acquitted himself well in his burlesque scena, but Mr. Fred Coyne made a great mistake. If there is one thing more than another for which the Mohawks are celebrated, it is that the character of their entertainment is such that no lady need hesitate about remaining the evening through. Mr. Coyne's song was decidedly objectionable, and what was intended to be mere chaff of Mr. Irving was vulgarity itself. Mr. Coyne's exhibition of what he no doubt conscientiously regards as wit, answers to the late Lord Palmerston's definition of dirt, it is "matter out of place," at the Mohawks. The Second Part was entirely new, consisting, as usual, of ballads and songs, sympathetic and comical, which evoked, as number succeeded number, the heartiest applause from all parts of the house. It is needless to say that the veterans Messrs. Duriah, Ted Snow, C. Temple, J. Kavanagh, Freeman, and Garland exerted themselves to the utmost, and successfully. Bro. James Francis was immensely funny in his interpretation of the comic song, especially written for the occasion by his co-proprietor, Mr. Harry Hunter, while a hearty welcome was very naturally and very worthily accorded to Mr. James Francis jun., who appeared, for the first time, at his father's benefit, and sang "Will you be my Hollyhock?" another funny composition of Mr. Hunter's, written especially for the evening. Mr. Harry Hunter was happy as he always is in his capacity of interlocutor. The arrangements were in every way creditable to the manager, Mr. Edgar Mowbray (Bro. Percy), and what is more important still, the house was crammed in every part, as we have rarely seen it crammed before.

NOTICES OF MOTION BY BRO. THOMAS MASSA:—

"That Competition designs be invited from Freemason Architects who are Governors of the Institution for a Preparatory School to be built on the newly purchased site, facing Wandsworth Road, to accommodate the children now temporarily lodged in Lyncombe House and 50 others in addition."

1st.—That the act of the House Committee in trying to get a scheme from a builder! for an additional new staircase to the Infirmary, in lieu of a proper design from the Architect, was as irregular as it proved abortive.

2nd.—That it would be prejudicial to erect the new staircase, without taking into consideration the other additional accommodation now required by the greatly enlarged establishment, as shown on the competition designs accepted by the Infirmary Committee in 1871.

3rd.—That it is unmasonic and derogatory to the Craft to "solicit" a cowan, or employ a person who is not a Freemason, to act as Architect to complete a "Masonic" building, to the detriment of a brother who was appointed Architect as the remuneration for supplying the design in competition; who has carried out a portion satisfactorily, and against whom no offence is alleged; that it is a slur on all Freemason Architects, especially on the many who are Governors of the Institution; and that the House Committee be requested to consider the subject, and report to the General Committee thereon.

"That the Resolution passed by the House Committee, 17th February 1881, with regard to the Architect of the Infirmary and his letters to the Committee, is inconsistent with the facts."

PROVINCIAL G.L. OF STAFFORDSHIRE.

INSTALLATION OF A GRAND MASTER.

THE installation of Bro. Major George Singleton Tudor as Provincial Grand Master of Staffordshire, took place at the Borough Hall, Stafford, on 21st ult., in presence of upwards of two hundred and fifty brethren, including several visitors from Grand Lodge and from other provinces. Since the lamented death, in May 1877, of the Earl of Shrewsbury, who had been the ruler of the Craft in Staffordshire from 1871 to that date, the province had been under the direction of Bro. Macintyre, Grand Registrar. At the first annual meeting of the P.G. Lodge after the death of the Earl of Shrewsbury Bro. Tudor succeeded Bro. Frank James in the office of D.P.G.M., a position which he (Bro. Tudor) had formerly occupied. Bro. Tudor is highly esteemed as a Mason, and the announcement that his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales as M.W.G.M. had appointed him R.W.G.M. of Staffordshire gave universal satisfaction. To this feeling no doubt may be attributed the large attendance of brethren on Monday. The Earl of Lathom D.G.M. attended to perform the installation ceremony, and amongst those who were present were Bros. Col. Shadwell H. Clerke Grand Secretary, F. Richardson S.G.D., H. T. S. Baring J.G.D., W. B. Hughes, M.P., D.G.M. of North Wales and Shropshire, Capt. Hunter P.P.G.M. Aberdeenshire, Foster Gough P.D.P.G.M., Frank James P.D.P.G.M., F. B. Spencer 1149 P.P.G.W. Surrey. The Provincial Grand Officers present were Bros. W. Bayliss S.W., R. Tooth Registrar, J. Bodenham Treasurer, W. Cartwright Secretary, the Revs. E. C. Perry and J. Birch Chaplains, W. E. Parkes S.D., G. Pitchford J.D., K. Macrae Superintendent of Works, T. E. Fowke A.D.C., R. Tolson P.G.P., T. Bedsmore P.G.O., J. Woolridge, J. B. M'Callum, J. Hayes, J. Mottram, T. Rigby, T. Wood Stewards, H. Bagguley Tyler.

The Staffordshire Knott Lodge (26) was opened by Bro. Wood W.M., at one o'clock. Shortly after, the Earl of Lathom entered the room, received the salute, opened the P.G. Lodge, and called upon the P.G. Secretary (Bro. Cartwright) to read the minutes of the last meeting. A communication was received from Col. Vernon, formerly P.G.M., stating that the condition of his health prevented him from attending, and Col. Clerke conveyed a message from Brother Macintyre Grand Registrar, regretting his inability to be present. The Earl of Lathom said they had met to instal a Grand Master of the Province. They were aware that the province had been under the charge of Bro. Macintyre for some time, and knowing as he did what a good Mason Bro. Macintyre was, they must have been satisfied with the way in which he had discharged his duties. He had often been invited to come into Staffordshire by their late worthy P.G.M. the Earl of Shrewsbury, whose death, he was sure, must have been felt as a great loss to every one of them, and although he had not visited the Provincial Grand Lodge of Staffordshire before, he had the greatest possible pleasure in attending to instal Bro. Tudor. The arrival of the P.G.M. designate having been announced, and he having sent in his patent, he was admitted by a deputation of Masters and Past Masters and conducted to the pedestal. The P.G. Secretary then read the patent, and after a prayer by Bro. the Rev. E. C. Perry P.G. Chaplain, Bro. Tudor was duly installed, and invested with the apron, chain, and jewel of office, after which he was proclaimed and saluted. Bro. Tudor on taking the chair said, the honour which the Prince of Wales as Grand Master had conferred upon him had taken him by surprise, but he esteemed the appointment a very high honour, and he also felt it a great compliment for the Earl of Lathom to have attended and installed him. He hoped that the Earl would never have cause to regret the part which he had taken in the proceedings of that day, and that he (Bro. Tudor) would be able to satisfy the Masons of Staffordshire, whose renewed proof of kindness that day would be an incentive to him to continue to try to do his duty. Bro. Foster Gough, who formerly held the office of D.P.G. Master, was again appointed to that office, and as such was saluted by the brethren. The following brethren were appointed to Provincial Grand offices:—Bros. W. J. Gothard 624 Burton S.W., T. Bickley 418 Hanley J.W., the Ven. Archdeacon Iles Wolverhampton, Chaplain, the Rev. J. Burch, Wednesfield, Chaplain, T. Wood 726 Stafford, Registrar, W. Cartwright 460 Newcastle, Secretary, J. G. Ainsworth 460 Newcastle, S.D., F. W. Grove, Stoke, J.D., C. Round 347 Tipton, Superintendent of Works, T. E. Fowke 726 Stafford, D.C., J. F. Pepper 482 Handsworth, A.D.C., J. Thorburn 98 Burslem, Swordbearer, T. Bedsmore 1039 Lichfield, Organist, J. Bryan 526 Wolverhampton, Pursuivant, Captain Thorn 526 Wolverhampton, Standard Bearer. Bro. J. Bodenham 726 Stafford, was re-appointed, by the unanimous votes of the brethren, to the office of Treasurer, and H. Bagguley was, with equal unanimity, re-appointed Tyler. A Committee was appointed to go through the bye-laws of the P.G. Lodge. Bro. F. James P.D.P.G.M., said they had met to witness the performance of a duty to which they had long looked forward, and he had great pleasure in proposing a vote of thanks to the D.G.M. of England for having come amongst them to instal the Prov. Grand Master of Staffordshire. Every one acquainted with Masonic literature was well aware how well the Earl of Lathom performed the duties entrusted to him. His zeal never flagged, and while proposing a vote of thanks to him, they must also feel grateful to the Grand Master of England for having permitted them to meet in the manner they had done, and have as their Master one whom they all had so long loved. Bro. Foster Gough seconded the motion, which was carried with a cordial expression of approval. The Earl of Lathom, in acknowledging the vote, said he had experienced great pleasure in coming amongst them. It always gave him pleasure to go about to different provinces and see how they were prospering, and how the work was being done. Wherever he went he had to thank the brethren for the hearty reception he met with, which made him the more anxious to discharge the small duties which he had to do as D.G.M., and so long as the G.M. thought fit to continue him in office he hoped he should never be found wanting in doing those duties. On the suggestion of Bro. Cartwright, the sum of £52 10s was voted to be added to the list of subscriptions to be taken by Bro. Bodenham to the next Festival of the Boys' School. The brethren then adjourned to St. Mary's Church, where divine service was held. The prayers were read by the Rev. T. Smith, and the lessons by the Revs. W. Randall and E. C. Perry P.P.G. Chaplains. The Ven. Archdeacon Iles preached an excellent sermon, in which he dwelt on the great principles of liberty, equality, and fraternity, as carried out by Freemasons. The amount of the collection was £12 7s 6d, which on return to the Lodge was voted as follows:—£3 3s to the Schools connected with St. Mary's Church; £3 3s to the Chaplains' Schools; £3 3s to the Staffordshire Infirmary; and the remainder between the Hospitals of North and South Staffordshire. Bro. Fowke very efficiently acted as Director of Ceremonies throughout the day.

After the Lodge had been closed, about two hundred of the brethren sat down to an excellent banquet provied by Bro. Nutt, of the North-Western Hotel, the R.W.D.G.M. presiding. At the conclusion of the repast, the Loyal and Masonic toasts were honoured. In responding on behalf of the M.W. Pro G.M. the R.W. D.G.M., and the other grand Officers past and present, the Earl of Lathom said the Pro Grand Master, than whom no better Mason lived, was soon coming back to England with, he (Earl Lathom) hoped, renewed strength from Madeira. Col. Clerke many of them were acquainted with, and it was impossible for any man to do his work better than did the Grand Secretary. He was sure that all the Officers of the Grand Lodge did their work thoroughly and conscientiously, and he hoped that would always be the case. He was grateful for the hearty welcome he had met with in Staffordshire, and he was happy to find that the province was flourishing and that it was placed under the rule of so good brother as Major Tudor. Masonry has made immense strides in the last few years. He might say that since he had had the honour of holding the office he now occupied, he thought it was not wrong in saying that upwards of three hundred new Lodges had been consecrated. He thought it was a very small average to put it at thirty to forty members for each Lodge, and that would give them a slight idea of the enormous increase going on in their brotherhood during the past few years. His own province of Lancashire was prosperous, because though the great depression of trade had prevented many people from joining, still in the last few years the number of Lodges had increased from 69 to 84, many of them having as many as a hundred members. If Masonry increased and prospered in bad times, what might it do in good times? There was every reason to hope that the Craft would prosper, and that their good works would expand and show themselves to the outer world. After a short interval, the Earl of Lathom proposed the health of the newly-installed P.G.M. Before he came to Stafford he had heard how popular the appointment of Bro. Tudor would be amongst the brethren in the province, and he must say the reception he had met with had fully confirmed the report. He should be happy to tell his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales that in selecting a brother to rule over the province his choice had fallen on the right man. Major Tudor briefly acknowledge the compliment, stating that he hoped, with the assistance of the brethren, he should discharge his duties with honour to himself and advantage to the province. Bro. Col. Clerke proposed the health of the D.P.G.M., referring in terms of praise to the manner in which Bro. Foster Gough had formerly discharged the duties of that high office. The toast having been cordially received, Bro. Gough responded, observing that the encomiums passed upon him relative to his past services were far beyond what he deserved. He could, however, assert that the same spirit animated him now as when he took the office some years ago. The Masonic province of Staffordshire was a splendid one, and that day marked the restoration to Masons of their governor. When the ruler of a kingdom was hereditary his loss was great, but when one died who was not an hereditary ruler there was still greater regret felt at his death. The Masons of Staffordshire were now able to hold their proper position in the Masonic world. He had no wish to find fault with Bro. Macintyre, indeed, he had no hesitation in affirming that it was impossible to find within the limits of the Grand Lodge a brother under whose rule the province would be more prosperous than under that of the Grand Registrar. But still it was a matter for congratulation that they were enabled to see in the position of P.G.M. one of themselves, one whose earnest zeal and watchfulness for the protection of the Craft would lead to their best interests being kept steadily in view. The P.G.M. was one who admirably obtained order and maintained discipline, which were vital to the wellbeing, if not the existence of the fraternity. Bro. C. H. Dudley gave the toasts of "the Provincial Grand Officers past and present," for whom Bro. Gothard P.S.G.W. responded; Bro. Cartwright proposed "The Visitors," on whose behalf Bro. Bristowe P.G. Sec. Worcestershire responded; Bro. the Rev. E. C. Perry gave the toast of "The Masters of Lodges," acknowledged by Capt. Thorne (Tudor Lodge of Volunteers, Wolverhampton); Bro. Cartwright presented the toast of "P.G. Stewards," for whom Bro. Dr. Hayes responded. The proceedings concluded with the Tyler's toast. The enjoyment of the company was enhanced by the admirable singing of the Birmingham Glee Union.

He, in reply to all the kind things said, made a suitable answer, and took the opportunity to glance at the difficulties that beset him during his two years' term of office, and congratulated the Lodge on its present prosperous state as compared with that when he took the chair. He had no doubt, with the improved prospects of the district Masonry would advance too. Hearty good wishes were tendered from the United Service Lodge by visiting Bro. Captain Hargreaves, and from Eden Lodge by visiting Bro. Fortzer, who also kindly offered to present the Lodge with a set of Masonic candles. The offer was accepted, with thanks. Obituary.

BRO. MANOAH RHODES.

WE regret to state that Bro. Manoah Rhodes, the head of the firm of Messrs. Manoah Rhodes and Sons, goldsmiths, of Kirkgate, Bradford, expired on Sunday morning, 20th March. Recent references to the prostrate condition to which Bro. Rhodes was reduced by the paralytic attack with which he was seized on Friday, the 11th ult., in the local press had somewhat prepared his friends, as from the first the case was regarded with grave concern.

Bro. Rhodes was born on the 7th of March 1810, so that he had entered upon the 72nd year of his age. Up to Thursday evening, the 10th inst., he had attended to business with his usual activity. The business concern, which under his management had risen to one of leading importance in Yorkshire, was of his own creation. His father a slay and heald manufacturer, lived at Morley, where Bro. Manoah Rhodes was born, and where he resided until he had completed his twelfth year. On the 9th of November 1822, he left his father's house and walked over to Bradford to enter upon an apprenticeship with Mr. John Allott, then a silversmith in Kirkgate, upon the site of whose shop Bro. Rhodes subsequently erected the fine building now standing there. After completing his engagement with Mr. Allott, Bro. Rhodes began business upon his own account in premises at the bottom of Westgate. In 1877 these premises, which had been much enlarged during Bro. Rhodes's occupation of them, were vacated for those at present occupied by the firm in Kirkgate, and which, it may be remarked, constitute one of the first establishments of the kind in the provinces.

For many years Bro. Rhodes occupied a prominent position in the Masonic body in Bradford, having been initiated into the Craft in November 1851. He was a member of the Hope Lodge 302, of which he was Worshipful Master in the year 1863. He was also connected with the Pentalpha Lodge 974, from its foundation, and was its Worshipful Master in 1871. He was a P.Z. of the Chapter of Charity, No. 302; in 1876, P.E.C. of Faith Preceptory of Knights Templar. In 1871 he was elected to the office of President of the Charity Committee of West Yorkshire, and had been one of its most earnest promoters since its formation on 13th April 1859. He had held the honourable office of P.Prov. G.J.W. of West Yorkshire, and was a Vice-patron of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, a Vice-president of Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, and was a large contributor to the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for Aged Freemasons and the widows of Freemasons.

Mr. Rhodes has left a widow and a family of six sons and two daughters.

THE LATE BRO. HUGHES P.M. 179.

It is but the other we chronicled the celebration, at Freemasons' Hall, of the thirty-second anniversary of Bro. Hughes's wedding day. The auspicious event took place on the 25th February, when Bro. Hughes, surrounded by his wife and family, entertained a numerous gathering of his relatives and friends. Everything passed off well, and the heartiest good wishes were expressed that Bro. Hughes might be spared many years, even long enough to be able to celebrate his golden wedding. But four weeks have elapsed since we recounted the particulars of this auspicious event, and now, alas! the happy recipient of all those good wishes has passed away, to the inexpressible grief of his family and a numerous circle of friends and acquaintances. The sad occurrence was brought about by an accident when Bro. Hughes was staying at Ryde, which he had been in the habit of visiting regularly for the last seventeen years, and where he was very highly respected. Bro. Hughes had been slightly unwell on Friday the 18th ult., but became so much better that he was able to go out on Sunday. When he was again taking outdoor exercise the following morning, he unfortunately slipped on some stones when walking near the sluice, and being unable to recover himself, fell into the sea, his head striking against some hard substance in the descent, and resulting in concussion of the brain. The funeral took place at Brompton Cemetery on Saturday, when, in addition to the family of the deceased, most of the brethren of the Manchester Lodge, No. 179, of which our late brother was a Past Master, attended in order to pay their last tribute of respect to one who had so worthily fulfilled his duties during life in every capacity as a man and brother. The Past Masters of the Lodge acted as pall bearers. We beg to offer to the widow and her children the expression of our deepest sympathy with her and them in the midst of their great affliction. The G.A.O.T. has thought fit for His own wise purposes to remove from this mundane sphere the main support of this house. May they find in their firm faith in His wisdom and goodness the strength to bear this sorrow! Bro. Hughes was in the very prime of life, being only in the fifty-second year of his age.

BRO. G. LEVICK.

We have received with deep regret the news of the death of Bro. G. Levick, Past Master Upton Lodge 1227, and one of the Founders of the Langthorne Lodge 1421, of which he was Treasurer since its consecration. Our late Brother also took great interest in the Langthorne Lodge of Instruction, of which he was also Treasurer. The funeral took place on the 29th ult., at the West Ham Cemetery, the service having previously been read at the West Ham Church. The body was followed, after the immediate relatives of the deceased, by the following brethren:—Bros. G. Dix W.M. 1421, H. N. Taylor I.P.M. 1421, C. Lacey P.M. 1421, and many others. A detachment of police also followed, the deceased having been for many years divisional surgeon to the K Division of Police at Stratford.

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

Prudent Brethren Lodge, No. 145.—The regular meeting was held on the 22nd ult., at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen Street. Bros. Dr. Whiteway Wilkinson W.M., C. A. Woods S.W., H. D. Kerrell J.W., T. Bull P.M. Treasurer, E. H. Thiellay Secretary, J. Reid J.D., G. Bank D.C., J. B. Lambe Steward, H. Brook I.G., P.M.'s Bros. Lister and J. H. Leggott. The business of the evening was purely of a formal character. Bro. Higgins 1563 was present as a visitor.

Israel Lodge, No. 205.—A most enjoyable evening was spent by the members of this Lodge, on Tuesday, the 22nd ult., on which occasion some excellent work was done by Bro. H. J. Phillips the W.M. The whole of the three degrees having to be worked, gave a favourable opportunity for judging of the power of Bro. Phillips, and we must say that he acquitted himself most satisfactorily. He was supported by Bros. Da Silva S.W., A. Abrahams J.W., A. M. Cohen Treas., C. F. Hogard Sec., and a large number of members. The business of the evening comprised the passing of Bro. Philcox, the initiation of Messrs. Morris Goldberg, Solomon Zacher, Jacob Bueno de Mesquita and Gustave Saling, and the raising of Bro. Oesterman, the whole of these ceremonies, as we have said, were carried our in a most perfect manner. After the closing of the Lodge, the brethren partook of supper, under the presidency of the W.M., and then spent an hour in social enjoyment. Bro. L. Norden, the I.P.M., in proposing the health of the Master, paid him a just compliment for the way in which he had presided that night. In reply the W.M. said he could add little to what he had said on previous occasions. He should always strive to be of the greatest service to the Lodge of Israel. He then proposed the health of the Initiates, giving the newly admitted brethren a most hearty welcome, and speaking in a way that must have made them feel quite at home. Bro. Mesquita was the first to respond. He could only say that he felt proud, very proud, at being received as a member of the most ancient and noble Order of Freemasonry. Bro. Zacher followed, adding a few appropriate words of thanks. Bro. Goldberg was extremely glad that he had joined the ranks of Freemasonry, and trusted he might do everything that was required of a true brother. Bro. Saling would make it an especial care to perfect himself in the Craft, and trusted that he should in the future occupy a proud position in the Order. He should always endeavour to do his best for Freemasonry. Bro. A. M. Cohen responded to the toast of the Benevolent Fund of the Lodge, the W.M. in proposing it remarking that there could not possibly be a more suitable brother to speak of it than Bro. Cohen, its founder and President. He spoke of the great amount of good that had been done through it in the past. Its funds were devoted entirely to the wants of the members of the Lodge, their widows and orphans. It must be a source of great pride for the brethren to know that through its instrumentality they had been enabled to render some most acceptable assistance in the past, and still had a large amount in hand to meet the claims of the future. It was not the custom of the committee of the fund to award trifling sums, but whenever they found a deserving case to give an amount which would really be of service. One other feature which he thought commended itself to the brethren was the fact that whatever was done by the committee was known only to the committee; they did not give and then make known who was the recipient of their bounty, and thereby counteract the good they had done. He hoped the fund would continue to prosper, and that it would be administered in the future as it had been in the past, and that even in his time its balance would reach a four figure total; they had now upwards of £600 in hand, and he trusted that before the year had expired that amount would be increased to £700. The toast of the Visitors was next given, to which Bro. Jacobs replied. The Past Masters followed, and to this Bro. Norden replied; after which the Officers was given and acknowledged. During the evening Bro. H. Cohen gave a recitation in first rate manner. Among the visitors were Bros. Grammer J.W. 27, Jacobs P.P.G.S. of W. Cornwall, Cox 188, Forte 724, Valentine W.S. 1017, and W. W. Morgan jun. FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

Montefiore Lodge, No. 1017.—The regular meeting was held on the 23rd ult., at the Masonic Rooms, Café Royal, Air-street, Regent-street, Bro. L. Salomons I.P.M., in the absence of the W.M. (on account of domestic affliction), occupied the chair; M. Levy S.W., Syers J.W., L. Jacobs Treasurer, E. P. Albert P.G.P. Secretary, Mann S.D., Benjamin J.D., M. H. Leverton I.G., N. Vallentine and A. Lazarus Stewards; P.M.'s Gulliford, S. Pollitzer, Grunebaum, and J. Lazarus. Visititors—Bros. Argent (Mauritius), Sprules 917, Silvester 193, L. Solomons J.W. 1732, J. Docker W.M. 1687, B. Ollendorf 30, Freystadt 1017, S. Pardoe 1501, Hooper 733, and G. Chines 907. The Lodge was opened, and after the minutes had been confirmed, a ballot was taken for the admission of Mr. Lindsay Sloper, R.A.M., and Mr. J. Levi (for whom a dispensation had been obtained from the W.M., he being under age). Both candidates were unanimously elected, and they were duly initiated into the Order by the acting W.M. Bro. E. P. Albert P.M. raised Bro. M. Levy to the third degree. A vote of condolence was voted to the W.M., Bro. S. V. Abrahams, on account of his recent bereavement. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren partook of a very excellent banquet, provided by Bro. Nicols. The acting W.M. eloquently proposed the Loyal and Masonic toasts. Bro. E. P. Albert P.G.P. responded to that of the Grand Officers. The W.M., in proposing the toast of the Initiates, expressed the pleasure he felt in introducing to our Order one who had distinguished himself in the musical profession, and whose talents were so highly appreciated; he alluded to Bro. Lindsay Sloper. Bro. Levi had also shown his desire to enter the Craft at an early age. The attention both had paid to the ceremony evidenced they would prove a credit to Freemasonry. The toast was appropriately responded to by both brethren. The health of the W.M. was proposed; all regretting his absence, and the sad occasion of it. Bro. J. Lazarus P.M. then proposed the health of the acting W.M., Bro. L. J. Salomons, who had so perfectly rendered the ceremony. His genial presidency must not be overlooked. He was always ready to assist the brethren. The toast having been suitably responded to, that of the Visitors was given, and Bro. J. Docker W.M. 1687 returned thanks. Bro. J. Lazarus responded for the Past Masters, and addressed a few appropriate remarks to the newly-initiated brethren, assuring them that by attention and perseverance the highest offices in the Lodge might eventually be attained. The Treasurer and Secretary were next complimented, and Bros. L. Jacobs and E. P. Albert both responded. Bro. J. Syers replied for the Wardens and Officers. Bros. Silvester (Sidney Franks) and Dr. Chandler contributed to the harmony. Bro. Davis Organist presided at the pianoforte.

Islington Lodge of Instruction, No. 1471.—A meeting was held on Tuesday, the 29th ult., at the Moorgate Tavern, Finsbury-pavement. Present:—Bros. Groner W.M., Pitt S.W., Shipley J.W., J. L. Mather Preceptor, C. G. Sparrow Secretary, Medwin S.D., Couchman I.G., and many others. After preliminaries, the ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Parkin candidate. Bro. Levy answered the usual questions leading to the second degree. Lodge was opened in the second, and Bro. Button answered the questions leading to the third. The ceremony of raising was then rehearsed, Bro. Hutton candidate. Bro. Levy, of the Montefiore Lodge, was elected a member. Bro. Shipley was elected W.M. for the ensuing week.

We are requested to announce that the offices of the Grand Lodge of Mark Master Masons has been removed from No. 2 to No. 8A Red Lion Square, Holborn.

FREEMAN'S CHLORODYNE.

The Original and only true.

HUNDREDS of Medical Practitioners testify to its marvellous efficacy in immediately relieving and rapidly curing Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Neuralgia, Spasms, Colic, Whooping Cough, and all Nerve Pains. It acts like a charm in Diarrhœa, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery. It rapidly relieves pain, from whatever cause, soothes and strengthens the system under exhausting diseases, and gives quiet and refreshing sleep.

Lord Chancellor Selborne, Lord Justice James, Lord Justice Mellish decided in favour of FREEMAN'S ORIGINAL CHLORODYNE, and against Brown and Davenport, compelling them to pay all costs in the suits. See Times of July 24th, 1873. Bottles 1s 1½d, 2s 9d, 4s 6d, 11s, and 20s. Sold by all Chemists.

TESTIMONIALS.—Head Quarter Staff, Cabul, May 31st, 1880. Mr. R. Freeman, Dear Sir,—It is with much pleasure I am able to state that your Chlorodyne has been of special service to me in alleviating the wearisome spasms of Asthma, which is here existent in an aggravated form. Many of my patients now come and beg me to give them that medicine which always relieves them, and which I need hardly say is your Chlorodyne. Yours faithfully, CHARLES W. OWEN, L.R.C.P. Lon., M.R.C.S. Eng., the Divisional Head Quarter Staff and Civil Surgeon, Cabul.

The Times, August 13th, 1877. From our own Correspondent with the Russian Army. Okoum, July 25th, 1877. The want of sanitary arrangements in the Russian Camp was dreadful, and had we remained there a few weeks longer, dysentery and typhoid fever would have played more havoc in our ranks than the bombs of the Turks. I myself acquired an unenviable reputation as a doctor, owing to my being provided with a small bottle of CHLORODYNE, with which I effected miraculous cures.

"We have companies for all sorts of things: why do not some philanthropic gentlemen start an association for lending money to embarrassed traders and housekeepers at ten per cent. interest? There are a number of people now getting three per cent. for their money in Consols who would be glad to invest it in an enterprise in which, if properly managed, there would be no risk whatever, and a certainty of earning eight or nine per cent. profit. Properly managed, such an association, worked on a large scale, would be an immense boon to people struggling with temporary difficulties, and would pay a handsome return to those who invested their money in shares."

BROTHER T. MASSA AND THE ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS.

IT was only last week we drew attention to the difference that has been so long pending between Brother S. B. Wilson and the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys. Now, both from papers we have received, and from the Notices of Motion which appeared in connection with the Quarterly General Court to be held this day (Saturday), in our Advertisement columns last week, it seems a difference has arisen between the House Committee of the Girls' School and Bro Thomas Massa, who is still, or till quite recently was, Architect to the Institution. The gist of Bro. Massa's complaint, if we understand him aright, is, that the services of a builder had been called into request, in order to design and erect a staircase in the Infirmary; whereas, when in 1871 Bro. Massa's designs for the Infirmary were accepted, one of his plans marked D for a separate staircase, though not carried out, was retained by the Institution. From that period till recently, Bro. Massa has been employed as Architect, and he very naturally feels aggrieved that after his plan had been accepted, and in consideration of his services as Architect, his right to superintend the direction of the staircase should have been overlooked in favour of an outside builder. He justly concludes, that such treatment as this is a slur on his professional reputation, and is the more galling to a sensitive man from the fact, in the Ancient Charges it is enjoined as follows:—"None shall discover envy at the prosperity of a brother, nor supplant him, nor put him out of his work, if he be capable to finish the same; for no man can finish another's work so much to the lord's profit, unless he be thoroughly acquainted with the designs and draughts of him that began it." But there is something worse still. Bro. Massa the Architect having been superseded in favour of a builder, it turns out the builder's design was likely to be a disfigurement to the Infirmary, and the House Committee, instead of falling back on the approved services of Bro. Massa, it seems, are desirous of obtaining the services of a non-Freemason Architect; of one, indeed, who is of necessity an utter stranger to the Craft, and who, as a matter of course, can have no especial claim upon their consideration. This course, it is needless to say, has not tended to improve the relations between the House Committee and Bro. Massa, whose designs for the Infirmary were accepted in 1871, who personally superintended the carrying out of those designs so far as the Committee ordered them to be carried out, who, in the time that has since elapsed, has acted in a professional character in connection with the other additions that have been made to the Schools, is now overlooked altogether and his claims to be employed ignored entirely. We can very well understand that, in the circumstances we have described, any one occupying a similar position would have sound reasons for feeling himself most seriously aggrieved. Bro. Massa tells us he was eleven years with the late Brother S. Barton Wilson, and for the nine years that have elapsed since 1871, when his designs for the Infirmary were accepted in preference to those of the other competing Architects, he has rendered much valuable assistance to the Institution for Girls in his professional capacity. He is now overlooked, and the Committee having tried a builder and found him wanting, consider it is not derogatory to themselves or the Craft generally, to solicit the services of a non-Freemason.

This, as far as we can explain it, is the statement in full detail of the difference which has unfortunately arisen between the House Committee of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls of the one part, and Bro. Massa of the other. We are far from saying that it is a matter of the same serious proportions as the quarrel between the House Committee of the Boys' School and Bro. Wilson; nor do we think that Bro. Massa, whom, for the sake of convenience we will style the plaintiff, has conducted his side of the case, as Bro. Wilson has done, with a full sense of the respect that was due, not to himself only, but to the Committee likewise, who may be noted down as the defendant party. Bro. Massa's letter of the 23rd ultimo, which was read out at the last meeting of the General Committee, cannot possibly have enhanced the sympathy with him in his present difficulty of those who heard it. Nothing could possibly have been in worse taste than to have mixed up the Lodge of Antiquity, the Editor of the Freemason, and the late Grand Treasurer with a difference of the character we have described. Nothing whatever is gained by introducing extraneous matter, or suggesting that certain people have adopted a certain course of conduct, when there would be a serious difficulty, if not an absolute impossibility, in proving it. But if Bro. Massa has been so unwise as to weaken his own case by writing ill-advised letters, it does not alter the circumstances of the dispute, and it strikes us the House Committee are under the impression that all they have to do is to lay down the law, and the rest of the Craft must bow down and accept it. We are far from saying that a Committee has no right to an opinion, but it should have some respect for persons, and especially for those who have done good suit and service to Masonry. We do not want too much of the commercial spirit in the conduct of our Masonic Institutions. If Bro. Massa has worthily done his duty as architect to the Girls' School, then the House Committee have not the shadow of a reason for seeking the assistance of some other member of the profession. Nor have we any desire to see the government of any one of our Institutions conducted in the spirit in which it would be administered by a martinet drill-sergeant. Masons profess to have about them some degree of enlightenment, some little kindliness of spirit, and something which may be set down as a spirit of thankfulness for past services. We shall begin to think that Masonry must be undergoing some change, when we find the House Committee of the Boys' School declining to accept its architect's charges, or his offer to submit those charges to arbitration, and that of the Girls' School superseding its architect—Bro. Massa tells us his appointment as Surveyor to the Infirmary is in writing—in so paltry a matter as the erection of a separate staircase, without condescending to assign any reason for so doing. If the Demon of Discord must of necessity make his appearance occasionally in our Lodges, let us keep him from entering within the sacred precincts of our Charitable Institutions.

Prince Leopold Lodge of Instruction, No. 1445, formerly held on each Monday, at the Mitford Tavern, Sandringham-road, Dalston, has been removed to the Moorgate Hotel, Finsbury-pavement, E.C. The first meeting there will be held on Wednesday next, at 7 o'clock sharp. Meetings will be held each Wednesday from 7 to 9 p.m., under the Preceptorship of Bro. W. H. Myers P.M. 820 and 1445.

EARLY AMERICAN LODGES.

By Robert Freke Gould.

BRO. J. H. ESTILL, Master of "Solomon's Lodge," No. 1, Savannah, and Junior Grand Warden of Georgia, claims for the ancient body over which he presides, the distinction of being "the oldest Lodge in America, now in existence."

This contention is very nearly sustainable, but not quite.

The three oldest Lodges in the United States are :—

No.	Lodge	Location	Charter
1.	St. John's	Boston, Mass.	1733
1.	Solomon's	Savannah, Georgia	1735
1.	Solomon's	Charleston, S. Carolina	1735

"St. John's," Boston, was constituted in 1733, and first appeared in the Engraved list of the Grand Lodge of England, in 1734. At the present moment it is one of the most prosperous of American Lodges, and possesses no less than 360 members.

"Solomon's Lodge," Savannah, Georgia, seems to have been constituted by the Grand Lodge of England in 1735, and duly appeared in the Engraved List of the following year.

"Solomon's Lodge," Charleston, South Carolina, was constituted by the Provincial Grand Lodge of Massachusetts in 1735, and first appeared on the roll of the Grand Lodge of England in 1761 as No. 251.*

The subjoined table is made up as follows, viz. :—Nos. 65, 74 and 75, are taken from the Engraved List for 1756, and No. 251 from the Engraved List for 1761. All four of these numbers occur in the numeration of 1756-69.

No.	Lodge	Location	Constituted
65.	Royal Exchange	Boston, New England	1733
74.	Fountain	High-st. Bristol Nov. 12	1735
75.	Savannah	In the Province of Georgia	1735
251.	Solomon's Lodge	Charles Town, S. Carolina	1735

No. 74, which we have seen had been assigned to a Bristol Lodge in 1756, was vacant during 1757-61. In 1762, it was again filled by the promotion of No. 251, "Solomon's Lodge," Charles Town, South Carolina; thus from 1762 onwards, preceding with its local charter of 1735, the other and presumably older Solomon's Lodge of Savannah, Georgia, with a Grand Lodge warrant of the same year. This fact, however, is unimportant. A vacant niche was available at No. 74 for a Lodge of 1735, and "Solomon's Lodge," South Carolina, was accordingly shifted there from its lower position. The supercession of the old No. 75, by the new No. 74. has no bearing on the question of the comparative seniority of constitution of the two Lodges. The practice was very common, of allotting a vacant Number to a foreign Lodge which had been late in coming on the roll; and, no doubt, the usage was productive of less confusion than would have resulted from a partial closing-up of numbers. "St. John's" Lodge, Boston, is unquestionably the oldest Masonic body on the North American Continent. "Solomon's" Lodge, No. 1 Georgia, has clearly the second place on the roll of precedence, and the other "Solomon's" Lodge of South Carolina, makes a good third. It is, of course, open to discussion, whether No. 1 Georgia, or No. 1 South Carolina was first established. But as the former appeared in the English official list of Lodges, for an entire quarter of a century, before its supremacy as an Anglo-American Lodge of 1735 was challenged, I think that the local Lodge claiming as of the same year, must be content to rank with, but after, the original "Solomon's" Lodge of Savannah, Georgia.

BANQUET TO THE DISTRICT GRAND MASTER (E.C.).

THE brethren of the District Grand Lodge of Auckland E.C., gave a banquet, on 22nd January, to Bro. W. S. Graham, on the occasion of his return from a tour in England.

THE DEVON MASONIC EDUCATIONAL FUND.

WE are glad to note the successful progress of this youthful Masonic Charity. The annual general meeting was held at the Huyshe Masonic Temple, Plymouth, on Tuesday, 5th instant, Bro. R. Lose P.M. P.P.G.P. occupied the chair, and among the numerous brethren present were Bros. Vincent Bird Hon. Treasurer and J. B. Gover Hon. Secretary of the Fund, J. Treeby, Samuel Jew, J. B. Westlake, James Beard, &c. After confirmation of the minutes of various meetings, Bro. S. Jew and Richard Cawsey were elected auditors. Bros. Bird and Gover were re-elected Hon. Treasurer and Hon. Secretary respectively. Bros. Rich. Lose, G. R. Barrett and W. E. Warren were appointed the Finance Committee; and Bros. W. Derry, J. E. Curteis, W. E. Elphinstone Stone, J. Brewer. S. Jones, S. Jew, J. Tanner-Davy, J. Treeby, J. Russell Lord, J. Loram, Jas. Murray, D. Cross, S. Hyne, A. R. Lethbridge, R. L. Blight, G. Firks and J. Kinton Bond the Educational and General Purposes Committee. The Treasurer's report, which was submitted and adopted, showed a balance in hand of slightly over £20, while in that of the Secretary it was stated that all the children on the Fund were making satisfactory progress and bid fair to prove a credit to the Charity. The Committee then proceeded to the election of candidates, having first of all, however, appointed Bros. S. Jew, J. Lynn, and O. Knowles Scrutineers. It was originally intended to elect two of the approved candidates, but a further vacancy having been caused by the election of one of the children on the Fund to the London School, it was determined that three should be chosen. The result of the ballot was as follows :—Ethel Wharton 234 votes; Rose Mary Northy 205 votes; Isabella Florence Rowe 204 votes; Francis Walter Spry 127 votes; and Utinia Annie Rawle 27 votes. Accordingly, the first three were declared elected, while the votes of the unsuccessful candidates will be carried forward to their credit at the next election. Votes of thanks were unanimously passed to Bro. Lose for having presided so admirably, to Bros. V. Bird and J. B. Gover for their efficient services in the respective capacities of Honorary Treasurer and Honorary Secretary, and to Bros. S. Jew, J. Lynn, and O. Knowles, for having so faithfully discharged their duties as Scrutineers. It will be seen from this account that, though the Devon Masonic Educational Fund is, as it were, but of yesterday's planting, it has acquired a strength and substance beyond even what the most hopeful of our Devonian brethren could have anticipated. We trust its future career will fully realise the satisfactory promise of its earliest days.

We have received, and beg to acknowledge with thanks, several copies of the "Catalogue of the Masonic Publishing and Furnishing Company's Ninth Semi-Annual Sale" of "Standard and Rare Masonic Books, Pamphlets, Magazines, Addresses, &c." The sale will take place on the Company's premises, 43 Bleecker Street, New York, on Thursday, the 19th May. Those who cannot attend in person may have their orders attended to by Messrs. J. G. Barker, 43 Bleecker Street; John Hoole, 23 Christopher Street; A. P. Moriarty, Room 51, Astor House; Daniel Sickels or John V. Simons, Rooms 65 and 66 Astor House; S. W. E. Beckner, 737 Broadway; Rob. Macoy, 4 Barclay Street; P. O. Anderson, 200 Schermerhorn Street, Brooklyn, N.Y.; or S. Stacker Williams, Newark, Ohio. The catalogue comprises 500 lots, embracing every description of Masonic literature, many of the works offered being of considerable value. We shall be happy to furnish a copy of this catalogue to any of our readers who may wish to have one.

Bro. Purkiss, P.M. Finsbury Park Lodge, will take possession of the Royal Music Hall (late Weston's) on Monday night. On that occasion Bros. Meekham, G. Fredericks, Spiller, and Crowder, will occupy the chair in turn, and numerous other friends have promised Bro. Purkiss their support. We wish him every success in his new undertaking.

DISTRICT GRAND LODGE OF MALTA.

THE Half-yearly Communication of this District Grand Lodge was held, under the banner of the Union of Malta Lodge, at the Masonic Hall, Valetta, on the 29th March. Present:—Right Worshipful Bro. W. Kingston District Grand Master (on the throne), Very Worshipful Bro. the Rev. E. Rosenbusch Deputy District Grand Master, R. Wor. W. K. R. Bedford Past Grand Chaplain of England, and a very large number of brethren from the various Lodges in the District, as well as numerous visiting brethren. District Grand Lodge having been opened in due form, the roll of District Grand Officers and of private Lodges in the District was called. The business on the agenda paper having been disposed of, the District Grand Master appointed and invested his Officers for the ensuing year. A magnificent sword, presented by the District Grand Master in September last, was on this occasion used for the first time, and a hearty vote of thanks was passed to District Grand Master for his handsome present. Two addresses to the District Grand Master from the Ancient Carthage and William Kingston Lodges, at Tunis and Goletta, as well as letters and telegrams from the same part of the District, wishing District Grand Lodge a continuance of the prosperity enjoyed by it, were read. The District Grand Master acknowledged the vote of thanks, the addresses and communications, in a brief but well-chosen speech, and then closed District Grand Lodge in the usual manner.

The ceremonies of installation and consecration will be rehearsed at the Faith Lodge of Instruction, No. 141, at the Restaurant, 2 Westminster Chambers, Victoria-street, S.W., on Tuesday, the 10th May, at seven o'clock precisely, by Bro. James Terry P.P.G.W. Herts, and P.M. 228, 1278, and 1366, Secretary Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution. The musical arrangements will be under the direction of Bro. F. Rhodes P.M. No. 1328 P.P. Grand Organist Surrey. Refreshments will be served at nine o'clock, tickets for which may be had from the Stewards, or of the Honorary Secretary, Bro. A. Bassington P.M. 205, 41 Chester-square, W.C.

The Lodge of Instruction under the sanction of the Joppa, No. 188, has for some years past been in abeyance; many of the members of that distinguished Lodge, however, are taking steps to put it again in working order, and we are informed that in the course of a few days all preliminary arangements will be completed.

It is purely an oversight on our part that we did not last week offer our congratulations to Dr. Morris, Head Master of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, and his coadjutors in the educational department, on the success achieved by "Our Boys," at the Cambridge Examination, Christmas 1880. Three presented themselves in the Senior Division, and all of them were awarded honours, H. B. Brock being placed in the second class, and A. X. Stephenson and E. L. Price in the third class. Of the sixteen who submitted themselves for examination in the Junior Division, five took honours in the first class, two in the second, and six in the third; while the remaining three passed the standard prescribed by the Examiners. Such a result as this must be eminently satisfactory to the authorities of the Institution and to the Craft generally, and proves that the endeavours of Dr. Morris and his staff to improve the educational standard of the School have been successful beyond measure.

The Mediterranean Mark Lodge, No. 278, will be consecrated at Gibraltar, on Thursday, 28th April, by W. Bro. Thos. J. Pulley P.M. P.G.S. Prov. Grand Secretary Berks and Oxon, who has received the authority of the Most Worshipful G.M.M.M., the Rt. Hon. the Earl of Lathom, for that purpose. By a very singular coincidence the number of the new Mark Lodge happens to correspond with the Craft Lodge and R.A. Chapter with which it will be connected—viz., 278. We understand that a new Lodge of Royal Ark Mariners, to be moored to the Gibraltar Mark Lodge, No. 43, will also be consecrated by Bro. Pulley during his visit to the Rock.

CORRESPONDENCE.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for the opinions of our Correspondents.

We cannot undertake to return rejected communications.

THE PROVINCES AND THE CHARITIES.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—If Bro. Taylor will refer to my previous letter, he will find that the tables only profess to go to the end of 1880—the date to which the official lists are made up. I have checked the lists for Worcestershire again, but do not find any mistake; so I presume that he is alluding to votes in respect of contributions paid during the present year, or from brethren not resident in the Province, and who are, therefore, included under some other locality. If either of these suppositions be correct, I cannot admit his claim. Doubtless most of the Provinces have increased their voting power during the present year, or have friends non-resident, but a moment's reflection will show that the only fair way is not to travel beyond the official lists.

I am, however, very pleased to hear that Worcestershire is still advancing. In the last three years it has risen on the Girls' list from 28th to 8th, on the Boys' from 25th to 7th, and on the United from 27th to 9th.

I may mention that I had credited Lodges, &c., as follows:—Prov. Grand Priory, 2; St. Amand Preceptory, 4; Richard de Vernon Preceptory, 1; St. Dunstan Chapter 18°, 2; Leohmere Lodge (Mark), 2.

Fraternally yours,

A PAST MASTER.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I read with much interest the tabular statements which appeared a fortnight since, showing the voting strength of each Province, and the average number of votes per Lodge in respect of our Schools, as well as the number of children who enjoy the benefits thereof. Is it not a pity that something cannot be done in order to place similar information before the Craft in respect of the Benevolent Institution? I know the list of subscribers, as published annually, renders the task a somewhat difficult one, but there are many Provinces which know the voting powers they possess to a single vote. If, then, particulars were obtained from these, it ought not to be very difficult to complete the table for the whole of the Provinces.

Fraternally yours,

STATIST.

THE ATTENDANCE OF PAST MASTERS.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I see from the report you published last week of the election meeting of the Sir Hugh Myddelton Lodge, No. 1602, that "there were no Past Masters present, but the work, which consisted of a passing and two raisings, was excellently rendered." Knowing, as I do, several of the members of this Lodge, I am not at all surprised your reporter should have remarked on the excellency of the work, but how was it all the P.M.'s were absent? Could not one of them have found time to put in an appearance? I hear this is not the first time they have all been away on the same evening, but though a very large share of the credit for the manner in which the work is always done belongs, of course, to them, they would deserve still better of the Lodge if some among them made a point of being present, especially on election nights. Perhaps the prevalence of the east wind has had the effect of detaining them indoors.

Fraternally yours,

E. VAN DONOP.

A MASONIC GIFT.—Alderman J. Naish, who is the father of the Craft in the city of Winchester, sent on Wednesday evening, by Bro. Stopher P.M. and Treasurer, a deed of gift to the Lodge of Economy, No. 76, whereby he gives the brethren thirty fully paid-up shares in the Masonic Hall Company, which have for some time borne a fair and increasing interest, and he desires the interest on this £60 to be thus disposed of. It is first to be offered to the W.M. of the Lodge to aid in purchasing a Life-Governorship (five guineas) in either the Boys' or Girls' Schools. Should the W.M. decline to accept the interest, subject to making the sum up to five guineas, it is to be offered in turn to the Wardens, and failing their acceptance (a most unlikely contingency), the Lodge will become the possessor of the privilege, which will form a permanent memorial of a good Mason. The liberality of Bro. Naish is to be recognised by a vote of thanks on vellum.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—Diseases and casualties incidental to youth may be safely treated by the use of these excellent medicaments according to the printed directions folded round each pot and box. Nor is this Ointment alone applicable to external ailments; conjointly with the Pills it exercises the most salutary influence in checking subcutaneous mischief seated in the interior of the body; when rubbed upon the back and chest it gives the most sensible relief in asthma, bronchitis, pleurisy, and threatening consumption. Holloway's remedies are specially serviceable in liver and stomach complaints. For the cure of bad legs, all sorts of wounds, sores, scrofulous ulcerations, and scorbutic affections, this Ointment produces a cooling, and soothing effect, inexpressibly grateful to the feelings.

REVIEWS.

All Books intended for Review should be addressed to the Editor of The Freemason's Chronicle, 23 Great Queen Street, W.C.

The Freemasons' Calendar and Directory for Leicestershire and Rutland, 1881. Ninth Year of Publication. Comprising a Calendar for the year 1881, and the month of January 1882, the meetings of Grand Lodge and Grand Chapter, the Anniversary Festivals and the Meeting of the Craft Lodges, Royal Arch Chapters, and other Masonic Bodies in the Province. To which are added Lists of Officers for the year, also Lists of Lodges in the adjoining Provinces of Warwickshire, Norths and Hunts, Nottinghamshire, Derbyshire, and Staffordshire; and other Masonic Information. Published by authority of the Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master, and the Provincial Grand Lodge. Compiled by Brother Samuel S. Partridge P.M., P.P.S.G.W., Provincial Grand Secretary.

We are glad to find the practice of publishing Calendars for the different Provinces is on the increase. It is only by means of such useful compilations as these that we are enabled to gauge the real strength of Masonry in this country, and we should very much like to see them generally adopted. Leicestershire and Rutland, albeit, as regards the numerical strength of its Lodges and members, it is one of the smallest among our Provinces, is very far from being the least mindful of its duties. Its Lodges are attentive to their work, thanks to the interest taken by its Provincial Grand Master, Earl Ferrers, and his predecessor, Bro. W. Kelly. It freely supports our Institutions, and what is still more unusual, it has a very fair library at Leicester. Under these circumstances, it is not to be wondered at that this Province should for some years past have been in the habit of issuing a Calendar, that in the period of its issue such Calendar should have been greatly improved, and that now in its ninth year of publication, it exhibits a completeness which is in the highest degree creditable to Bro. S. S. Partridge Prov. G. Secretary, on whom has devolved the task of compiling it. As to the contents, we note, in the first place, that the Calendar embraces a period of fourteen months, it being found impossible, or, at all events, impolitic, to issue it before the month of February. Then each month of the year is provided with two pages, in the first of which are entered against the days of each month the meetings which take place on them, while the other is left clear for the entry of engagements. Lists of the Officers of Grand Lodge of England and the Prov. G. Lodge respectively follow, and then a table chronologically arranged, of the chief events which have occurred in the Province during the period from 1870 to 1880 inclusive. The next lists are of those of the Prov. Grand Lodge Committee of General Purposes, and the Charity Committee of Prov. Grand Lodge. The list of Craft Lodges, with the dates of constitution, followed by nominal lists the Officers and Past Masters, together with particulars as to their respective places of meeting, and the number of subscribing members on the respective rolls, are given as of course, and then full particulars of the Prov. Grand Chapter with its subordinate Chapters, of the Prov. Grand Mark Lodge and its subordinate Lodges, with a list of the Officers of the Byzantine Conclave of the Order of the Red Cross of Constantine. After the list of Lodges, Craft and Mark, and Chapters, &c., comes one of Officers of the Leicester Library Committee. We have a brief résumé of particulars of each of the central Masonic Institutions; and lastly, a statement showing the character of the Leicestershire and Rutland Masonic Charity Association, together with a table, in which is exhibited the full voting strength of the Province. From these it appears that the object of the Association, which was established only two years ago, is to increase the number of Life Subscribers to the three Central Charities. An annual subscription of one guinea and upwards constitutes membership, and at the end of five years—or earlier still in the event of his name being drawn at one of the half-yearly ballots—each member becomes a Life Subscriber to one of the three Charities. It has at the present time 124 members, and in the two years of its existence has given ninety-five guineas to the Girls' School, a hundred and fifty-five guineas to the Boys' School, and sixty guineas to the Benevolent, making together a total of three hundred and ten guineas (£325 10s). We learn, further, that during the past four years the Province has given to the Girls' School, £117 11s; to the Boys' School, £142 8s 6d, and to the Benevolent, £156 17s, or together £1216 16s 6d. This represents the sums actually paid up to the 31st December 1880, sums voted, but not paid, being excluded. From statistics which appeared in our contemporary in May of last year it seems this Province stood 27th on the Girls' School list in respect of the support awarded by it to that Institution, and 15th on that of the Boys' School. From the letter of a "Past Master" which appeared in our issue for the week ended 20th March, and the tabular statements he furnished, it appears that Leicestershire and Rutland up to the close of 1880 stood 23rd on the Girls' School list, and 11th on that of the Boys', while, taking the two together, it stood 19th, with an average of 30½ votes per Lodge. This is a matter on which the Province has reason to congratulate itself. We will add that the total of subscribing members in the Province is 457, which gives an average in excess of forty-five members per Lodge. The total votes the Province has for the three Institutions together amount to 147, namely, 107 for the R.M.I.G.; 188 to the R.M.I.B.; 77 to the Male Fund and 75 to the Female Fund of the R.M.I.B. But as there are two elections for each of the Schools, the actual voting power which Leicestershire and Rutland can bring to bear is 712 votes. In conclusion we congratulate the Province, and especially Bro. Partridge Prov. G. Secretary, the compiler, on having so admirable a Masonic Calendar and Directory—one which contains so much useful information, and on the compilation of which so much pains has evidently been bestowed.

Masonic Calendar and Official Directory for the Province of Wiltshire, Issued with the sanction of the Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master Lord Methuen. Edited by William Nott P.M. 663, P.Z. 632, &c., Provincial Grand Registrar.

This is the first year of issue, and consequently some allowance must be made in the case of any errors having crept in. The difficulties which any one who undertakes the publication of a book of this description is sure to experience can only be appreciated by those who have had to deal with similar tasks. The work looks so simple when it is done that people feel inclined to suggest that any one might venture upon it. But the collection of particulars from several different sources involves no end of trouble. However, Bro. Nott appears to have worked with a will, and presents his book on a well-arranged plan, such as entitles him to the heartiest commendation of the Masons of Wiltshire. As the particulars he furnishes are very similar to those contained in the Leicestershire and Rutland Directory, we need not revise them so fully. The Calendar extends over thirteen months, from January 1881 to January 1882 inclusive, the additional month being given because so many of the Installation Meetings take place in December and January, and Bro. Nott was anxious that the list of Officers should be as complete as possible. No blank pages, however, are furnished for the engagements. After the lists of Grand Officers of England and Prov. G. Officers for Wiltshire, and the Roll of Lodges—ten in number—with their respective dates of Constitution and places of meeting, come the nominal lists of Officers and Past Masters for each Lodge, the number of subscribing members, date of Installation Meeting, and the address of the Secretary being added in each case. Similar particulars are furnished in respect of Royal Arch and Mark Masonry, dates of constitution, which are not contained in the Leicestershire and Rutland Directory, being also given. The Central Masonic Charities having received their due share of attention, and all necessary particulars as to subscriptions, income, expenditure, and the number of beneficiaries furnished by the Provincial Charity Organisation and Benevolent Fund, is fully described. First is given a list of the Committee and Lodge Representatives, and then the rules of the Association as they were adopted at the Prov. Grand Lodge held at Marlborough in October of last year. The objects of this Benevolent Fund are stated as being four in number, namely, (a) The Relief of aged or necessitous brethren of the Province or their indigent widows; (b) the relief, education, and advancement of the children of the Freemasons of the Province; (c) the support of the general Masonic Charities, subject to the approval of the Prov. Grand Lodge; and (d) Masonic Benevolent and Charitable purposes generally. The rules give particulars as to membership, arrangements for carrying on the business of the Fund, the manner in which application should be made, and the character of the information, &c., to be furnished in support of the petition, &c., &c. There is also a Report as to the proceedings during the year preceding, as presented to the P. Grand Lodge on 28th October 1880, recording what was done in the way of supporting the Wiltshire candidates for the Girls' School. This Report is followed by a Table of the votes for the three Charities possessed by Lodges and individual members, from which it appears that with a total membership in the province of 443 brethren, Wiltshire was able to exercise a voting power in 1880 of 1132 votes, including, of course, those cast at the October, as well as April, elections for both Schools. This completes the Calendar, which we trust will henceforward make its appearance regularly every year.

COMMITTEE MEETING OF THE BOYS' SCHOOL.

THE monthly meeting of the General Committee of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys was held last Saturday, at Freemasons' Hall. There were present Bros. Raynham W. Stewart P.G.D. V.P. (in the chair), George J. Row, W. Roebuck, H. W. Hunt, W. Puas, F. W. Ramsay, S. Rosenthal, Alfred Williams, S. Rawson, John Constable, Rev. Richard Morris, D.D. (Head Master), C. H. Webb, Richard Tyrrell, H. Massey, A. J. Duff-Filer, W. Maple, Geo. P. Gillard, W. H. Saunders, F. Adlard, Don. M. Dewar, John Palmer, George Cooper, Thomas Meggy, and F. Binckes Secretary. Two boys were placed on the list for election in October. The Secretary announced that in consequence of three candidates being withdrawn, there would be seventy-three instead of seventy-six candidates for the twenty vacancies at the election next Monday. Some information having been received in respect to another candidate, a decision on the case was deferred for further information; Bro. Saunders thereupon again brought forward his proposition for making the inquiries as to the means of candidates' friends more searching. Bro. Binckes suggested a form of declaration as to pecuniary means at the end of the petition. Two outfits of £5 each were granted to ex-pupils. Bro. Binckes informed the Committee that the following were the notices of motion for the Quarterly Court on Monday next:—

1. By Bro. Thomas Entwisle, Vice-President, per Bro. C. F. Matier:—

To alter Law LV., by inserting after the word "livelihood" (at the end of Law) the words "in any of which cases, except that of sudden death, the father must have been a subscribing member to a Lodge for three years."

2. By Bro. A. J. Duff-Filer, Vice-Patron:—

In Law LXXII. (authorising a grant of money by the General Committee to a boy having left the Institution) to erase the words "twenty pounds" in line 2, and in lieu thereof to insert the words "forty pounds."

3. By resolution of the General Committee, on the recommendation of the House and Building Committee:—

That the House and Building Committee be authorised to expend a sum not exceeding £700 in the enlargement of the Gymnasium, &c., rendered necessary by the increase in the number of boys from 100 to 215.

NEPTUNE LODGE, No. 22.

THE final meeting of the season in connection with this old and historic Lodge, prior to breaking up for the recess, was held on Thursday evening, 31st ult., at the Guildhall Tavern, Gresham-street, when there was a large attendance of brethren and visitors, amongst the latter being representatives of Australian and African Lodges. The brethren assembled shortly before five o'clock, and immediately proceeded to constitute the Lodge, which was opened in accordance with the usages of the Craft, by the esteemed Worshipful Master Bro. George Britton, who was supported by Bros. John Harper, Ph. D., S.W., John James Slater J.W., Isaac Wilcox P.M. Treas., T. R. Eames P.M. Hon. Sec., Henry Povey S.D., R. W. Conlcher J.D., W. Cook I.G., E. F. P.M. Storr D.C., W. J. Neats W.S., Parkinson Tyler. Visitors—Bros. Tymms (P.G. Lodge of Griqualand, Africa), E. W. Shove and L. Holden (formerly of the Neptune Lodge), James B. Hannay, Alexander Walker, P. Shove (South Australia), W. Eldridge Johnson. After the confirmation of the minutes of the previous meeting, Lodge was advanced, and Bros. Vane and Stanton, having been proved worthy, were raised to the sublime degree by the W.M., who acquitted himself admirably, the impressive rite being performed with all the requisite accuracy and precision. Subsequently Bro. V. Walker was passed, this ceremony being also admirably carried out; and the brethren then occupied some time in the consideration of a report from the committee appointed at the last meeting to consider the revision of certain rules, and upon which, after considerable discussion, an amicable agreement was effected. Some formal business having been transacted, the brethren adjourned to the banqueting-hall, where a sumptuous repast was served in Messrs. Ritter and Clifford's best style, the arrangements, under the personal direction of Bro. Henry Mills, giving unqualified satisfaction. Dessert having been placed upon the tables, the customary Loyal and Masonic toasts were given from the chair, and duly honoured. In the unavoidable absence of Bro. Collings I.P.M., the health of the Wor. Master was proposed by Bro. Isaac Wilcox P.M. Treas., who spoke in felicitous terms of the manner in which Bro. Britton had worked the ceremonies in Lodge that evening. It afforded him sincere pleasure to see their esteemed Worshipful Master so apt and so painstaking in the discharge of his important and onerous duties, and he felt that the great gratification he experienced must be shared by all who had witnessed the ability, care and judgment which Bro. Britton had displayed. The Wor. Master, who on rising to respond was greeted with rounds of applause, thanked the brethren for the cordiality with which they had again received the mention of his name, and assured them that no effort should be wanting on his part to maintain the prestige which the old Neptune Lodge had deservedly enjoyed for so many years. He trusted that his progress thus far in the exalted position to which, by the kindness of the brethren, he had been elected, had given them satisfaction, and they might depend he should so endeavour to advance the interests of the Lodge as to hand down the insignia of his office to his successor with lustre undimmed and the credit of the Lodge not diminished. He then proposed the health of the Visitors, alluding with especial pleasure to the presence amongst them of two representatives of colonial Lodges, whom they were all pleased and proud to receive. The Visitors severally responded, each expressing the gratification they had derived from the opportunity which had been afforded them of witnessing such excellent working in the Lodge, and participating in the unstinted hospitality which had been extended to them at the festive board. The W. Master, in giving the health of the Past Masters, said, if the working of the Lodge was at all excellent, it was in a great measure due to the counsel and assistance which they had received from those who had passed the chair. He confessed that in some matters that had come under discussion that evening he could not go all the way with them, but he believed they did everything they possibly could to advance the true interests of the Lodge. It was perhaps just as well they could not see eye to eye in everything, for if they did their proceedings might become monotonous. However, they had all the same object in view—the welfare of the good old Neptune Lodge, and he trusted the harmony and good feeling which at present pervaded the brethren might long continue to exist. Bro. James Norman P.M., in responding, said it afforded the Past Masters some consolation to feel that when they had passed away they would be followed by shining lights who would well sustain the reputation of this good old Lodge. With such an excellent W. Master as they possessed, and looking at the Senior Warden, who he hoped to see in due time in that high position, there were elements of great prosperity for the Lodge; and he believed, if he was spared, he should have much enjoyment in seeing the working of their present Worshipful Master, and their "rising sun." Both were actuated by a right principle, and he felt sure they would try and emulate the example of those who had preceded them in the chair. He could recollect when a phalanx of Past Masters mustered at that end of the table, but many of them had passed away to the Grand Lodge above. Their hearts were warm in the cause, not of the Neptune Lodge in particular, but of the Craft in general; and he was pleased beyond measure to discern that those who were coming after were imbued with the same spirit. Bro. L. Holden P.M. also replied. As one who had helped in the resuscitation of this Lodge, many years ago, he could carry the memory back over the last thirty years; he was proud to see that the present rulers of the Lodge were animated by the same zeal and desire to promote its welfare as when he had the honour of filling the chair, now so worthily occupied by their excellent Brother Britton. Though he was almost an octogenarian, he could recall the time when he never failed to obey a summons sent to him at the time he was a subscribing member of the Neptune Lodge, and he hoped every brother who joined it would endeavour to make it par excellence one of the best working Lodges in the Craft. In his time the discipline of the Lodge was perfect, and he sincerely trusted it would remain so under the guidance of its present rulers. The Worshipful Master next gave the health of their Treasurer and Hon. Secretary, whose valuable services to the Lodge he warmly extolled. Bro. Isaac Wilcox thanked the Worshipful Master for the compliment he had paid to his colleague and himself. He had so many times acknowledged such kindly remarks during the last quarter of a century that he scarcely knew how to clothe in fresh and vigorous language his deep appreciation of their kindness. It was a source of pleasure and gratification to work with men like their Worshipful Master, who endeavoured to the best of his ability to discharge his duties in connection with the Lodge. As long as they had brethren who would take upon themselves responsibilities and discharge them as Bro. Britton had done, the Neptune Lodge would sustain its prestige. When he looked at the other end of the room and saw a brother like their Senior Warden, who, he was sure, was most anxious to discharge the duties which devolved upon him, it spoke volumes for the continued prosperity of the Lodge. It was a pleasure also to see so many brethren who had passed the chair with honour to themselves and credit to the Lodge, and he hoped, as had been mooted by Bro. Norman, that when some of the elders were called upon to resign their duties in this Lodge, and were called away to another sphere, they might feel that those who should come after would support and sustain in every way the interest and welfare of this Lodge. It had always been a source of pleasure to him (Bro. Wilcox) to find so many brethren giving their earnest attention and anxiety to support and sustain the position the Lodge had so long enjoyed in the Craft. He believed no Lodge stood higher in its working than did this one, and he trusted the brethren would give faithful, loyal, and zealous support to the excellent Master who filled the chair. Bro. T. R. Eames P.M. and Honorary Secretary also briefly replied, assuring the brethren of his continued interest in the Lodge, and advising the younger members to exercise all diligence and caution in fitting themselves for the higher positions they might at some future time be called upon to occupy. The Worshipful Master then proposed the health of the Officers of the Lodge, and acknowledged the very valuable assistance he always received at their hands. Bro. John Harper S.W. rose with much pleasure to return thanks for the toast so kindly proposed by the W. Master. He agreed with everything which Brother Britton had said respecting his anxiety for the welfare of the Neptune Lodge, and that it should be equal in its excellence of working in the future to what it had been in the past. So far as the Officers were concerned, they would undoubtedly do their best to emulate the example which had been so nobly set them by the Past Masters, and to follow in their footsteps. It was most gratifying to see them there that evening, and to hear the sentiments they had expressed. Nothing would give him greater pleasure than to see, as time rolled on, the Neptune Lodge sustaining the high character it had hitherto held in the Craft. He had no idea, when he took the chair, there was so much to learn; if he had realised it at the time, he thought he should have shrunk from the responsibility. But he now began to love Masonry far more intensely than he had ever done before. The beauty of the ritual was such that he should strain every effort to become perfect in it, not only for the task itself, but for the honour of the Lodge. He cordially echoed the sentiments which had been expressed; the Officers were all anxious to keep up the reputation of the Lodge so that it should be second to none in the Craft. The official list was then closed with the Tyler's toast, and shortly afterwards the company separated. During the evening some excellent songs were rendered, notably amongst which were "The Lord Mayor's Coachman," by Brother H. Povey, and "Impecuniosity," by the Senior Warden, both of which were lustily encored. Brother E. S. Hopper lent efficient aid as accompanyist on the pianoforte.

ROTHESAY LODGE, No. 1687.

A REGULAR meeting of the above took place on the 6th instant, at the Inns of Court Hotel. J. B. Docker W.M., J. Crossland S.W., Duret J.W., L. Beck P.M. Treas. P.P.G.O. Middlesex, F. V. Green acting Sec., B. Swallow P.M. P.P.G.S.D Middlesex W.S., F. Green J.D., Valeriani I.G., Wallis Assist. W.S., Berrow Organist. Visitors—Bros. G. B. Festa 834, J. Foster 1714, G. P. Gillard W.M. 1597, Denford 1158, Carrington 1791, Scott P.M. 749, W. Emdin W.M. 1261, T. De Leliva 1426, H. M. Levy P.M. 188. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. Bro. Gros was passed to the second degree. Bros. Thorne, Joseph, and Colepepper were raised. The election for W.M. then took place, and Bro. Crossland S.W. was unanimously selected. On being officially informed of his appointment, he made a very appropriate speech. Bro. L. Beck P.M. P.P.G.O. Middlesex was re-elected Treasurer, and Bro. Potter Tyler. Bros. Mole, Smith, and Booth were elected auditors. Bro. L. Beck P.M. and Treasurer proposed that a sum of ten guineas be given from the funds of the Lodge for the purpose of presenting the retiring W.M. with a gold Past Master's jewel, and also a Past Master's collar, for the able and efficient manner in which he had conducted the duties of the chair. This was carried unanimously. Bro. Austin was proposed as a joining member; two gentlemen were proposed for initiation at the next meeting. Lodge was then closed until October. The brethren sat down to a very excellent banquet and dessert. The W.M. proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts. Brother L. Beck P.M. had great pleasure in proposing the toast of the Wor. Master. This was the last time he should have the pleasure of doing so. Every one had seen, during his year of office, how he had performed the duties of the chair; the working was perfect, and his presiding showed that every detail required of him was fully appreciated. He asked them to give Bro. Docker a right royal Rothesay fire. The Worshipful Master, in reply, thanked Bro. Beck for his kind remarks. At his election to office he promised to do his duty during his year of office; as one of the Founders of the Lodge, his duty and his zeal for their comfort would be at their command. The Worshipful Master then proposed the toast of the Visitors; he was pleased to see them, and so was every member of the Lodge. He would call on Bros. Emdin and Gillard, as W.M.'s, and Bros. Scott and H. M. Levy, as Past Masters, to respond. Each of these brethren, in returning thanks, complimented the Worshipful Master on his able working and excellent presidency. The Worshipful Master next proposed the toast of the Past Masters; there were three. Bro. Beck was the father of the Lodge, and he would call on him to respond. Bro. L. Beck was pleased to say he was really the only Past Master of the Lodge. True, there were other Past Masters who had fulfilled the duties of Secretary, &c., but he was proud to say he was the first Worshipful Master. He hoped to continue in the capacity of Past Master and Treasurer for many years. The Worshipful Master then said he had great pleasure in proposing the health of the W.M. elect; in selecting him the members placed the right man in the right place. The brethren were assured that during his year of office Bro. Crossland would do good service to the Lodge. One and all might be proud of him, as, by the manner in which he had filled each junior office there could be no doubt that as Worshipful Master he would be a credit to the Lodge. Bro. Crossland W.M. elect replied; that night was a great epoch in his history; to be elected W.M. of this excellent Lodge was indeed an honour. He felt diffidence in following in the footsteps of so worthy a predecessor as their Worshipful Master; in fact, no better Master could be found in any Lodge. The Visitors had truly said, after they had watched his working, he was letter perfect. In speaking to the toast of the Officers, the Worshipful Master said without their able assistance the Lodge could not so have prospered; he would call on the Junior Warden, Bro. Duret, to respond. Bro. Duret felt pleased to hear the encomiums passed on him; he sincerely trusted he had given satisfaction. If they felt he had done his duty it was pleasing to him to hear it. During the evening the brethren enjoyed a great musical treat by the charming singing of Miss Beck—a daughter of Bro. L. Beck P.M.—who was deservedly encored in her several songs. Bro. Green jun. and several other brethren likewise contributed to the harmony, while Bro. Berrow, the Organist of the Lodge, not only sang himself, but accompanied on the piano the other vocalists. The Tyler's toast was then given, and the brethren separated.

Lodge was opened and the minutes were confirmed. Bros. S. Lion, H. Lyon and Vicary were passed to the second degree. Bros. Hicks, Hobman, Harrison, Midgley, Gundlach and Isaacson were raised. Great credit is due to the W.M. for the excellent manner in which he performed the ceremonies. His rendering of the traditional history was very impressive. Bro. L. Alexander proposed, and it was seconded and carried unanimously, that the W.M. for the time being be the President of the Benevolent Fund. The resignation of a Brother, in consequence of inability to attend, was accepted with regret. This brother kindly sent the sum of 21s as a donation to the Benevolent Fund of the Lodge. After routine business, and a discussion on some proposed alterations in the Bye-laws, a distressed brother was relieved. Lodge was closed and "slight" refreshment followed. The toasts were done full justice to, and the proceedings were enlivened by songs, recitations, &c.

All Masonic business being ended, Lodge was closed in due form and adjourned.

A Companion who had joined the Chapter on a previous evening stated, although long living in the neighbourhood, he was until lately unaware of its existence. It was resolved to issue circulars, calling the attention of the Chapters in London to its advantages, which would conduce to the advancement of all newly-exalted R.A. Masons should they be enabled to attend this suburban Chapter of Improvement. The Chapter was then closed and adjourned to Thursday, the 7th April, at eight o'clock p.m.

The W.M. gave the brethren a taste of his quality in the way he delivered the lecture on the tracing board of the second degree; while his rendering of the Six Periods of Creation especially received the deserved encomiums of those present. The Lodge was then closed, and the brethren sat down to an excellent banquet provided by Bro. A. Best, and superintended by Bro. Dawkins. The Portsmouth Times announces that Dr. Spark, the organist of Leeds Town Hall, has just prepared a most talented and practical work, "The Choir Master," which will be sought for with avidity by those interested in the teaching of choirs and choruses, the result of his experience in Yorkshire, where better part and chorus singing is in no country to be heard. It will appear almost immediately, in quarterly numbers. His last work prepared for the press is the Freemasons' "Liber Musicus," a complete library of the choicest English and foreign compositions—ancient, traditional, and modern—both vocal and instrumental, by the best composers, which will form a library of the rarest and choicest Masonic music; in a word, a book indispensable to all Masonic Lodges. The doctor will have the valuable co-operation and assistance of many experienced and distinguished composers, as well as organists and members of the Craft. It will appear under the patronage of the Prince of Wales Grand Master of England and Wales, the Duke of Leinster, the Earl de Grey and Ripon, the Earl Dalhousie, the Earl of Rosslyn, and other dignitaries of the Masonic brotherhood.

CHARITY.

FROM THE LIBERAL FREEMASON.

ONLY a drop in the bucket,
But every drop will tell;
The bucket would soon be empty
Without the drops in the well.

Only a poor little penny,
It was all I had to give,
But as pennies help make guineas,
It may help some cause to live.

A few little bits of ribbon,
And some toys that were not new;
But they made the sick child happy,
Which made me happy too.

Only some outgrown garments,
They were all I had to spare,
But they'll help to clothe the needy,
And the poor are everywhere.

A word now and then of comfort,
That cost me nothing to say,
But the poor old man dies happy,
And it helped him on the way.

God loveth the cheerful giver,
Though the gifts be poor and small,
What doth He think of His children
When they never give at all?

Useless bulk being obviated, articulation is rendered clear and distinct. Perfect mastication is easily and naturally effected. By recent scientific discoveries in the mechanical art, which secures the close adjustment of the Teeth to the gums, and their life-like appearance, detection is rendered utterly impossible.

FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE

23 GREAT QUEEN STREET, W.C.

LODGE HISTORIES.

JOPPA LODGE, No. 188.

IT is greatly to be regretted that, with but few exceptions, the records of those Lodges it has been our privilege to compile should have been so imperfect as to render it in any circumstances difficult, and in some instances impossible, to give a perfect history from the date of their constitution to the present time. The Lodge whose career we are on the point of considering, comes under the category of those with which it is impossible to deal completely. It was constituted by the Grand Lodge of the Ancient or Atholl Masons early in the year 1789, but the earliest minute in its possession is under date the 29th March 1841. There is consequently a period of as nearly as possible fifty-two years, in respect of which it is out of the question that we can acquire any knowledge of its proceedings, until, at all events, some one shall be so fortunate as to discover the missing records. The list of the W.M.'s and Wardens of the Lodge, extending back to the year 1822, inclusive, is fortunately in existence, and more fortunate still, there is also preserved a complete list of the members from the very date of the constitution of the Lodge, that is, from the 21st April 1789, the first names in the order we announce them being Bros. Ebenezer Sibley W.M., James Allibone S.W., and William Ranger J.W., being the principal Officers designate in the Warrant of the Lodge, transcript of which appeared in Vol. IV. page 327, of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE. For the preservation of this list, it seems, the Lodge is indebted to the kindness of Bro. S. Lazarus, who was its Secretary at the time he presented it, namely, on 2nd November 1840, or just a few months before the minutes begin. The title page, as we presume we must call it, runs thus:—"Members of the Lodge, No. 253, at the Globe in Hatton-street, Holborn"—"the sign of the Globe, Hatton Garden (or elsewhere) in London" is mentioned in the Warrant as the place of meeting—"Constituted 21st April 1789. At the Union in 1813, number altered to 315"—query 319—"since which period it was again altered to 223. This book was presented to the Lodge of Joppa, No. 223. Containing the dates of all initiations, passings, and raisings and joinings for upwards of 51 years,—by Bro. S. Lazarus, Secty.—2nd November 1880." As regards the brethren who became members during the years anterior to 1801, no particulars are given by which it is possible to distinguish between those who were initiated and those who joined. For the few years that follow there are cases in which the dates of initiation and joining are mentioned, and later still we have the dates when the several degrees were conferred. As we advance, we find the Register becomes still more complete, and in the column left vacant for "Observations," &c. we find entries as to honorary members, resignations, deaths, &c. This list is continued till towards the close of the first half of 1844, the last entries bearing date the 3rd June of that year. The list of names contains none that are likely to commend themselves to the especial notice of brethren, except perhaps those of William S. Beetham, who in the column for Observations is described as "Now Sir Wm., Knight, Ulster King at Arms," and Jacob Norton, with whom we so often engage in friendly controversy, and who, it seems, was initiated into Freemasonry on the 3rd June 1839, passed to F.C. 1st July, and raised 5th August. The second Record contains not only the list of names continued to the present time, but likewise that of which we have already spoken, namely, the List of W. Masters and Wardens of the Lodge since 1822.

Of the other archives two may be dismissed briefly. One is the "Rules, Orders, and Bye-Laws of the Most Ancient and Honourable Fraternity of Free and Accepted Masons of England according to the Old Constitutions. His Grace the Duke of Atholl, Grand Master. To which are added the Laws and Regulations of the Holy Royal Arch. Published by Order of the Grand Lodge." This, which was printed by Bro. Thomas Harper jun. in 1813, is in a complete state of preservation; but as we noticed a similar code in connection with the St. Michael's Lodge, No. 211, we need not enter into any further description. The other has on its title-page the following inscription, namely:—"Constitutions of the Ancient Fraternity of Free and Accepted Masons. Part the Second. Containing the Charges, Regulations, &c., &c. Published, by the Authority of the United Grand Lodge, by William Williams, Esq., Provincial Grand Master for the County of Dorset." It bears date 1815, and is nearly, if not entirely, complete. Bro. Williams's Preface states that "the First Part, containing the History of Masonry, from the earliest period to the end of the year 1815, with Preface and Copious Index to the whole Work, will be printed with as little delay as possible." Thus, the Second Part, which is unquestionably of greater importance than the History of Freemasonry, even from the remotest period, enjoyed priority of publication. But two years had elapsed since the Union had taken place, and in the interim the Laws for the due governance of the Society had been compiled. Rightly enough did Bro. Williams, under such circumstances, hasten to set before the Craft the new Rules and Regulations. It was far better the brethren of those days should be made acquainted with the rules than with even the most elaborate history of the Society which the greatest possible ingenuity of even the most learned slave to Imagination could find the heart to compile.

Before going further we may repeat the statement that the Joppa Lodge was constituted 21st April 1789, as is stated in the Warrant we have already referred to. When the union between the Ancients and Moderns took place in 1813, it became, in consequence of the numbering of the Lodges which followed, No. 319. On the closing up of the Lodges in 1832 it became No. 223, and when again in 1863 there was a further change in numbers, it took the rank it has ever since retained, namely, that of Lodge No. 188. Having now to the best of our ability cleared the way for the more important duty that devolves upon us, we shall proceed to give a sketch of the Lodge, based on the minutes still preserved.

The minutes, as we have said, date from the 29th March 1841, when the Lodge was numbered 223 and met at the George and Vulture, Cornhill. The opening record, which describes the proceedings in question, is, unfortunately, not of a most satisfactory character. It relates to a meeting which was specially summoned, and the business transacted was confined to an investigation into certain charges preferred against a certain brother by the W. Master and another member. The result of the investigation was, that the incriminated brother, who did not, however, favour the Lodge with his presence, was suspended; but in the course of the evening a letter was received, in which he tendered his resignation, and the resignation, in spite of the sentence of suspension just before passed, was accepted, with a very proper proviso, however, "that his Private Lodge Certificate (when he applies for it), must state fully the particulars under which his resignation was accepted." At the meeting on the 3rd May, after the initiation of two candidates and the transaction of other business, a letter from Grand Secretary White, containing certain resolutions passed by Grand Lodge at the March Quarterly Communication, was read and ordered to be placed on the minutes. These resolutions—as will be seen on reference to our history of the St. Michael's Lodge, No. 211, FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE, Vol. XII. p 132—were directed against the unauthorised publication of the proceedings of Masons' Lodges, and in them the M.W. Grand Master appeals to the loyalty of the Craft generally, and especially of the Masters of Lodges, to assist him in putting down a practice which, in his opinion and that of Grand Lodge, cannot be otherwise than injurious to the well-being of Freemasonry. One other entry in the minutes of this meeting would seem to call forth some remarks. It reads thus:—"Bro. D. Crawcour, having complied with the resolution of the Lodge of the 20th December 1838, was afterwards admitted and took his seat as a Past Master of the Lodge." In the absence of the minutes referring to 1838, we are, of course, unable to offer any explanation as to the nature of the resolution referred to.

Perhaps some among the older members of the Lodge may be in a position to throw some light on the matter. At the meeting in July, after the half-yearly accounts, which showed a balance in favour of the Lodge of £5 0s 10d, had been audited, there was read the report of a Sub-Committee, which had been appointed to inquire into the custom of other Lodges with respect to their Secretaries, the result of such inquiries, so far as they were carried, being, that apart from Grand Lodge, the Lodges of Antiquity, Enoch, Kent, and Prosperity, severally presented an honorarium annually to their Secretaries, and on the strength of this report it was resolved to pay the Secretary of the Joppa the annual sum of £6 in addition to a free membership, such payment to commence from the night of installation of the current year (1841). It may be noticed incidentally, that among the members of the Sub-Committee was Bro. D. Moses, Treas. At the August meeting a motion was submitted by our worthy Brother Jacob Norton, and seconded by Bro. A. Harris P.M., to the effect that "in future all glass that is broken at or after supper or dinner, either by a member or visitor, shall be paid for by such brothers as may break the same." At an emergency meeting, held on the 23rd of this same month of August, the question of removing the Lodge from its quarters at the George and Vulture to a private room was taken into consideration, and a Committee, consisting of the Master, Past Masters, and Officers, was appointed for the purpose of making the necessary inquiries. In the following month the result of these inquiries was set forth, after a deputation of the Lodge had been despatched to the George Hall in order to judge for themselves of its suitability as a Lodge room. When the several members of this deputation had expressed their views on the question, a motion was submitted that the Lodge should take up its quarters at the Hall referred to, conditionally that the proprietor furnished the room with a carpet or drugget, and other necessary accommodation. To this, however, was opposed an amendment that the question of the removal of the Lodge should stand over till the next meeting, and this was eventually carried. At this gathering Bro. Norton, being about to leave the kingdom, tendered his resignation, and the Lodge paid him the compliment of unanimously agreeing to a resolution to the effect that a recommendation be given him on his departure. In October the question of removal was again deferred, not only on the regular Lodge night, but at the emergency meeting held on the 20th of the month, which was called partly for the consideration of that particular business, and partly for the initiation of two gentlemen, of whom one—Mr. Francis Broughton—was a minor, being only nineteen years and seven months old. In his case, therefore, the consent of the father in writing and the Grand Master's dispensation were necessary prerequisites before he could be balloted for, and, as many of our readers may not be acquainted with the form of dispensation granted for this purpose, we have thought it well to reproduce it. This particular dispensation reads as follows:—

"To the W. Master, Wardens, and Members of the Lodge of Joppa, No. 228, meeting at the George and Vulture, Cornhill.

"You having represented to M.W.G.M. that Mr. Francis Broughton, of Falcon Square, London, and minor, of the age of 19 years and 7 months, son of Mr. Broughton, a solicitor of the place aforesaid, is desirous (with the consent of his father) to be initiated into the mysteries of the Craft, and that he is in all respects a fit and proper person to be received, save as to his minority, His Royal Highness is pleased to grant this His Dispensation, and you are hereby authorised and impowered to Initiate the said Francis Broughton, notwithstanding his minority, provided he be approved upon ballot in conformity with the Laws of the Grand Lodge and the Bye Laws of your own Lodge, and that the Consent of the Father shall be duly signified to you in writing. And for so doing this shall be your sufficient Warrant and you are to cause this Dispensation to be read in your Lodge, previous to the Ballot being taken, and also to be recorded in your minutes.

"Given at Freemasons' Hall, London, the 19th day of October 1841.

"By Command of His Royal Highness the Duke of Sussex, M.W. Grand Master.

(Signed) WILLIAM A. WHITE G.S."

In November the proposal to remove to the George Hall was determined in the negative; nor was it till the close of the year 1850 that the Lodge quitted the George and Vulture, and then it removed to the King's Head, Poultry. At the same time, the Bye-Law allowing the Worshipful Master to invite an unlimited number of visitors free, was modified, and henceforth he was privileged to invite two only. In December Bro. J. Woolf was elected Worshipful Master, while Bros. D. Moses and Isaacs were re-elected Treasurer and Tyler. It was subsequently resolved that on the installation night supper should be provided instead of a dinner, Members contributing 4s each, and Visitors 5s, while the Lodge itself gave the sum of £7 out of its funds towards the expenses of the entertainment.

In January 1842, Bro. John Woolf was formally installed as Master, and appointed and invested his Officers. The occasion calls for no remark save one, and the best way of making this is to quote the very words of the minute which has attracted our attention, and affords satisfactory evidence of the exceeding care with which the proceedings of the Lodge were conducted. It reads as follows: "The Summonses having been issued most peremptorily by Brother Lazarus the Secretary to assemble at five o'clock precisely, the Worshipful Master arrived at Three quarters of an hour after five o'clock, and fearing there had been some irregularity in the proceedings without the Warrant which he then brought with him, proceeded to re-open the Lodge with the usual formalities and solemn prayer." For the insertion of this minute, we presume, we are indebted to the conduct of Bro. Lazarus, who, at the next meeting of the Lodge, objected to the confirmation of the minutes of the installation on the ground that they did not give a complete account of the proceedings; and it was only on the promise of the new Secretary, Bro. Daniel, that such an addition should be made that the ex-Secretary consented to waive his objection. Bro. Lazarus, however, though he seems to have been a most worthy and active member, and though steps were subsequently taken with a view to recognising his valuable services as Secretary, does not appear to have been quite as attentive in the matter of delivering up his archives to his successor. Whether the Lodge was or was not opened and re-opened on the same evening is, comparatively speaking, of little importance, but the complaint of Bro. Daniel, who succeeded Bro. Lazarus in the Secretaryship, was a serious one—namely, that the "Old Minute Book, as well as the other Books, were not delivered up to him on his coming into office," and Bro. Lazarus's promise, "that if the Tyler came up for them to his house they should be delivered up," fully satisfies us Bro. Lazarus had no adequate conception of the importance of his duties or of the courtesy due by him to his Lodge. It would not have detracted one iota from the personal dignity of Bro. Lazarus had he been himself the carrier of the book, and himself placed it in the hands of his successor. It happens, unfortunately, that this old Minute Book contains a part, if not the whole of the Records that are missing, and, in the absence of any remarks one way or the other in the pages of the Minute Book now under consideration, we trust the Lodge had sense enough not to pay Bro. Lazarus the compliment of voting him a testimonial until it was shown that he had done his duty by handing over to Bro. Daniel this important record—the ability of the the Tyler to call at his house for it being left entirely out of consideration. A result of Bro. Lazarus's remissness in the fulfilment of his duties is noticeable in the minutes relating to this very gathering. Among sundry inquiries it seems he felt it incumbent on him to make was one as to whether "the names of the Officers eligible to sit in Grand Lodge had been made out," and the prompt reply of Secretary Daniel was to the effect that "he could not do so until Brother Lazarus, the Secretary, gave up the books." Indeed, the whole conduct of this brother appears to have been singularly inexplicable, for in the same set of minutes he is entered as stating "that he held in his hands some papers which should be sealed up, and opened whenever the Worshipful Master thought proper to call a Committee of the Lodge, when those papers should be read. The Worshipful Master promised that a Committee should be called." We ask, in the first place, why this Bro. Lazarus was permitted to retain in his hands, when he was no longer in office, a single paper referring to the business or the members of the Lodge. In the next, how happens it that the W.M. and the rest of the Lodge could have been so weak as to allow themselves to be thus dragooned one minute, and prepare a testimonial to the brother who had dragooned them the minute following. We hear nothing further of the Minute Book, the preservation of which was a matter of the greatest importance, but we do hear much about Bro. Lazarus, which we could well have dispensed with without shedding one single tear of regret.

In the minutes for April 1842 is a record to the effect that Bro. Asher Benjamin presented the Lodge with a windlass, which was placed before the Senior Warden, and that the thanks of the Lodge were given to the donor. In May, a guinea was voted from the funds of the Lodge towards the "Annuity Fund." In September, the half-yearly account, when audited, showed the very satisfactory balance in favour of the Lodge of £11 17s 9d. At the meeting in October, the Bro. Lazarus we have spoken so fully about already gave notice of motion that "the Lodge be closed every night at nine o'clock." What object he could have in making such a proposition does not appear. In November a visiting Brother belonging to what in those days was Lodge No. 78, was refused admission, Bro. Daniel having announced his intention of retiring if the brother in question were allowed to enter. It subsequently transpired that the applicant for admission would never have presented himself had he known that Bro. Daniel was present. This is evidence there was great ill-feeling between the two. What, however, occurs to us as being somewhat strange is, that the W. Master, after Bro. Daniel's objection to sit with the proposed visitor, should have put the question to the vote. He ought there and then to have settled that the admission of the visitor was out of the question. In December the election of a new W. Master took place. Of the nineteen votes recorded eight were in favour of Bro. Moses Levy, and eight for Bro. Lazarus, and the choice was determined by the casting vote of the W. Master in favour of Bro. Levy. Bro. David Moses and Isaac Isaacs were re-elected to their old offices of Treasurer and Tyler.

SOCIETE CULINAIRE FRANCAIS.

THE Annual Ball of this Society was held on the 31st ult., at the Freemasons' Tavern, Great Queen-street, under the presidency of M. Bohers and the following Stewards:—MM. Duplany Secretary, Gudefin, E. Belhomme, Brimond, Dupré, Boizot, A. Penet, Tribolet, J. Cossart, J. C. Innes, Burlet, &c. There was a numerous attendance of ladies and visitors, numbering in all 274. The Ball last year was considered to be a great success, but this year, owing to the indefatigable exertions of the Stewards, the result will doubtless be still more satisfactory. The Balls of the Society are held for the purpose of raising funds to assist the members when in distressed circumstances. The promoter is M. Penet. M. Duplany efficiently acts as Secretary, while the President, M. Bohers, does everything in his power to contribute to the success of these Festivals. The Band was under the direction of Bro. Grove Ellis, and Bro. Johnson acted as M.C. The supper, which as usual was of the most récherché character, was provided by Bro. A. Best, and superintended by Bro. Burlet. The President gave the usual Loyal toasts, and the Ladies and Stewards were not overlooked. Dancing was resumed, and the guests concluded a very agreeable evening, with the additional reflection that it was a most successful one as regards the object which was intended.

MEMORY;

WHAT IT HAS DONE, WHAT IT MAY DO.

FROM THE VOICE OF MASONRY.

MEMORY plays an important part in Freemasonry, and every applicant should possess the ability of acquiring and retaining a knowledge of the art. Without memory the science could not be disseminated and there could be no "wise and accomplished Freemasons." The attention of the Fellow Craft is continually directed to a consideration of the measure of God's bounty to man, and in the summary of His munificence MEMORY is mentioned as a subject which "far exceeds human enquiry and is a peculiar mystery known only to nature and to nature's GOD." When we pause in the bustle of our business occupations and permit our thoughts to revert to ourselves, and the wonderful faculties with which we are endowed, and consider our utter inability to create anything approaching to the perfectness of mankind, it seems impossible that any sane mind will question the existence of a Deity to whose wisdom alone is to be attributed our complete and complex organization.

What would have been man's condition without the power of memory? The most extensive experience would have been of no value, and human progress and improvement would have been impossible. As a faculty it consists in the ability of retaining knowledge and of recalling it instantly when we have occasion to make use of it. But this power varies much in individuals; thus: some persons can express themselves fluently in conversation or upon the rostrum, while others require the slower process of writing to convey their ideas and knowledge to others; some can recall events with astonishing accuracy of detail, while others with equal facilities for observation have but a confused impression of the circumstances. But it is not my purpose to deal with memory in a philosophical manner—simply to show what it has done and what it may do.

There are many instances on record of the extraordinary achievements of human memory, and nearly every child has had some experience in the way of memorizing chapters and verses from the Bible.

It is related that Daniel Webster had a remarkable ability in this direction—when a boy at least. Upon one occasion a jack-knife was exhibited to the school and promised to the boy who should, by the succeeding evening, commit to memory the greatest number of verses in the Bible. The reward was a tempting one, and the boys all entered for the prize, many of them did well, but Daniel recited some sixty or seventy verses, and said he had a few chapters to spare, and won the knife.

A poor girl named Julia Warner, taken from a country poor house, once undertook the task of committing the entire New Testament to memory in order to secure the proffered prize of a handsome Bible. She memorized so rapidly that her teacher found it difficult to spare the time to hear her recite. She won the Book at the expense of much headache and mental torture.

Rev. John Jewell, Bishop of Salisbury, who died 22nd September 1571, had a most wonderful memory. He could repeat verbatim what he had once written, after a single reading, and it was his custom to commit his sermons while the bells were ringing to summon the people to worship. He said that when he had the heads impressed upon his memory, nothing could confuse the order of his thought. His ability as a memorizer was put to numerous severe tests. Two of his brother divines upon one occasion sought to put his powers to a full trial, and one of them uttered twice some of the most difficult and barbarous words he could find in a calendar, while the other gave him a list of forty Welsh, Irish, and foreign words, which he read twice; after a little reflection he repeated the lists both forward and backward. He professed to have reduced his ability to a science, and to be able to communicate it to others, and succeeded so well with one of his friends that after twenty-eight days tuition of one hour each day, the pupil was able to recite the entire Gospel according to Matthew, as well as to recall instantly any verse, and state what was before and after it.

A Massachusetts divine who died some thirty years ago was accustomed to commit his sermons to memory. He had been pastor of one church for seventy years, and when upwards of ninety-five years of age he preached from memory, without any variation, a sermon he had written half a century before. In the afternoon of the same Sunday he repeated the same sermon, but utterly unconscious of the fact that he had preached it in the morning. When his grand-daughter told him of his repetition he saw it at once, but without admitting it, said, "Why, daughter, how can you be so mistaken?" "But, father, you did, and all the congregation knew it." "Daughter," he replied, "was the bread you made last week the same as you made this?" "Why, no, of course not." "But," he continued, "it was made out of the same flour, from the same barrel, in the same way, and baked in the same oven, and I think it must have been just so with my sermon."

But the most astonishing instance of memorizing is that of Cardinal Giuseppe Gaspardo Mezzofanti, the Italian linguist, who was born 17th September 1774, and died 15th March 1849. He was the son of a carpenter, and was designed for the same occupation, but a priest observed his extraordinary intellectual power and had him educated for the priesthood. Before he had completed his university course he had mastered the Latin, Greek, Hebrew, Arabic, Spanish, French, Coptic, German and Swedish tongues, and at the age of twenty-two was appointed professor of Arabic at Bologna and afterwards of the oriental languages. Political changes caused him to lose his appointment, but he pursued the study of language without cessation. He was in the habit of calling upon strangers at the hotels and learning the pronunciation of their tongues. He says this did not cause him much trouble, for he had a "remarkable flexibility of the organs of speech." At forty-three he read twenty and spoke eighteen languages; three years later he had acquired thirty-two, about which time Lord Byron described him as "a walking polyglot, a monster of languages, and a Briareus of parts of speech," an opinion that was induced by the Cardinal's familiarity with English slang, in which he showed himself to be more proficient than the English Lord.

In 1838 he was elevated to the Cardinalate, and his residence at Rome gave him more opportunities for pursuing his favourite study. Cases are recorded of persons coming to Rome who spoke some out of the way language which debarred them from coming to confession; on such occasions three weeks was all the time the Cardinal wanted to make himself familiar with their peculiarities. He is said to have spoken each language with the precision and fluency of a native; his pronunciation, idioms, &c., were unexceptionable; even the familiar words of every day life, the little niceties and peculiarities that characterise every tongue, were known to him. He could detect the particular part of a country a person came from by the dialect, and was frequently mistaken by foreigners as a countryman. He said he never forgot anything he ever read, and his accomplishments certainly warrant such an assertion. It is asserted that at his death he was acquainted with 114 languages, but it is thought that many of these were but variations of the same tongue.

The activity of the memory has always been regarded as subject to the physical condition of the body, and ancient philosophers prescribed plasters, powders, and perfumes to stimulate and strengthen it. Albertus Magnus, a learned Dominican, who lived in the thirteenth century, is regarded by some as the author of a book of Secrets, in which the following receipt is given: "If the heart, eye or brain of a lapwing or black plover be hanged upon a man's neck, it is profitable against forgetfulness, and sharpeneth man's understanding."

The art of improving the memory by artificial means has been a subject of much thought by scholars, and it is supposed that the art originated with the Egyptians. Cicero states that the poet Simonides of Cos first reduced it to a system about 500 B.C. He had been in attendance at a banquet, and during his temporary absence the building fell and crushed the guests: the bodies were so mutilated that they were beyond recognition, but his recollection of the position each occupied at the table enabled him to distinguish them, and he was thus led to contrive a process for aiding the memory. There have been various systems originated to aid the memory, but they have been so complex that little good has resulted. Indeed, the systems have been employed chiefly by their inventors to exhibit feats of memory, which Lord Bacon stated he regarded as "no more than rope-dancing, antic-postures and feats of activity; and, indeed, they are nearly the same things—the one being the abuse of the bodily as the other is of the mental powers; and though they may cause admiration, they cannot be highly esteemed."

The principle of artificial memory is to associate some material object with the idea we wish to remember. Almost every person has experienced the principle when revisiting familiar places from which he has been long absent, or meeting some old friend of bygone days. The annual reunions of the soldiers of our late war tend more to keep alive reminiscences of the strife than anything that could be devised; we see an old comrade's face or form, scarred or mutilated as it may be, and at once our memory goes back to the day we saw him fall, or to some scrape in which we were concerned. Antietam, Gettysburg, Libby, Andersonville are simple words, but the mere mention of them brings up hosts of memories. The second sight mystery is an application of the principle, and every one who has occasion to depend upon the memory has a system more or less elaborate as an aid to the recollection.

During the seventeenth century there was one Robert Pasfield, a servant to an English gentleman, who could neither read nor write. He was a zealous churchman and fond of sermons, and as an aid to his memory he invented a girdle of leather which went twice around his body; this he divided into parts and allotted a part to each book of the Bible, in the proper order; the chapters he represented by thongs of leather, with knots and points for verses. With this girdle upon him he made notes of the sermon, and with such success that he could repeat it through its several heads and quote the various texts mentioned in it.

It is not many years since school teachers insisted upon their pupils "learning by heart." The exact words of the author were enjoined as essential to a perfect comprehension of the lesson, and even in history was this senseless practice enforced. In some studies the exact phraseology is necessary, as on the stage and in the rites of Masonry. Where this "learning by rote" is attempted, a sitting posture should be avoided, as it soon produces restlessness, and the mind becomes diverted from the task. It will be found that walking to and fro in the room and repeating the language aloud will be both healthful exercise and an easy way of impressing the words of the text upon the memory. As an aid to the memory in committing written or printed text my own experience has been that by associating the several paragraphs with the position they occupy on the page, a cue is given by which the order of language is observed. We sometimes forget a very important clause, and by a system of association, such as I suggest, the mind has before it an imaginary page from which the language is, as it were, read. Some Officers in Masonic bodies have much memorizing to do in order to gracefully discharge their duties, and it might not be uninteresting or unprofitable if brethren of experience were to give us their systems of fixing words upon their memories.

We understand from the Portsmouth Times that H.R.H. the Prince of Wales has granted the petition for a warrant for a new Masonic Lodge in Portsmouth, to be called the Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar, No. 1983. The ceremony of consecration will be performed by the P.G.M. of Hampshire and the Isle of Wight (Bro. W. W. B. Beach, M.P.), at an early date, on which occasion the first W.M. of the new Lodge (Bro. Commander Lord Charles Beresford P.M.) will be present and instal the Officers of the new Lodge, which promises to be a great success.

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

Israel Lodge of Instruction, No. 205.—Held at Bro. W. Yetton's, Rising Sun, Globe-road, E. At the regular meeting of this Lodge, on the 27th ult., the evening was devoted to the working of the Fifteen Sections. Bro. T. Wooding J.W. 1306 had been invited to preside, and had the advantage of the able support of Bros. P.M.'s T. J. Barnes as S.W., B. Cundick as J.W., and W. Musto Preceptor as I.P.M., G. H. Stephens Hon. Sec. After full compliance with formalities, the sections were worked, and most ably, as follows: First Lecture:—Bros. Shingfield, Richardson, Loane, Job, Moss, Yetton, and T. J. Barnes; Second Lecture:—Bros. Stewart, Taylor, Myers, Musto, and Webb; Third Lecture:—Bros. Cohen, Cundick, and G. H. Stephens. After the working, Bros. Huxley 55, Couture D.C. 1306, Quay 948, G. Coote 1278, MacGregor I.G. 1445, and others, were admitted members of this Lodge of Instruction, where the teaching of Bro. Musto Preceptor, and the other Past Masters is acknowledged to be unequalled. The highly efficient services of the W.M., Brother Wooding, were next recognised; he being unanimously accorded a vote of thanks from the Lodge, together with the compliment of honorary membership. A vote of thanks to the veteran P.M. and teacher Bro. Barnes was next passed, for his kind and efficient discharge of the duties appertaining to the Senior Warden's chair. Bro. Barnes acknowledged the compliment in an instructive speech. The brethren who had assisted were also thanked, and Lodge was closed; a highly agreeable and instructive evening having been passed.

Yarborough Lodge of Instruction, No. 554.—The usual meeting was held on the 5th inst., at the Green Dragon, Stepney, E. Bro. Cross acted as W.M., and was supported as follows:—Bros. Smith S.W., A. Wood, B. Stewart Deacon, J. Taylor I.G., Poulter, A. Walter, Stephens, &c. Lodge having been duly opened, the ceremony of initiation was ably rehearsed, Bro. Poulter acting as candidate. Bro. Taylor then occupied the chair, and worked the first, second and third sections of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Smith was elected W.M. for the ensuing week, and Lodge was closed, and adjourned until the 12th inst.

Royal Alfred Lodge of Instruction, No. 780.—A meeting was held at the Star and Garter, Kew-bridge, on Friday evening, 1st April, at half-past seven for eight o'clock. Bro. Monson, who had been appointed to the chair, kindly relinquished his claim in favour of Bro. Becket. The Officers were Bros. Monson S.W., Maton J.W., C. D. Botley S.D., F. Botley J.D., Blasby I.G.; there were also present Bros. Roe Preceptor, Gomm I.P.M., Goss P.M., Tucker Treasurer, Gunner Hon. Sec., Kent, Sperring, &c. Lodge was opened, and the minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Sperring candidate. Lodge was opened in the second degree, Bro. Gunner volunteered as candidate, and the ceremony of passing was rehearsed. Bro. Blasby answered the usual questions leading to third degree. Lodge was closed in the second degree. Bro. Monson was unanimously elected W.M. for the next meeting, and appointed his Officers. A cordial vote of thanks was ordered to be entered on the minutes to Brother Becket for his efficient working, for the first time in this Lodge of Instruction. Bro. Becket expressed his gratification, and only regretted that his "private avocations" precluded his attending so frequently as he could wish; he also testified his appreciation of Bro. Monson's kindness in giving over the chair to him for the evening. Bro. Secretary reported that, in accordance with the recent vote, the Treasurer had handed him a cheque for five guineas, and that he had given it over to Bro. Gomm to be placed on his list as Steward for the Boys' Institution. Lodge was closed, and the meeting adjourned till 8th inst., usual hour. In our report last week of the Royal Alfred Lodge, we omitted to mention that five guineas was voted on behalf of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys; the amount is to be placed on Bro. Gomm's list.

Friars Lodge of Instruction, No. 1349.—Held at Bro. Pavitt's, Liverpool Arms, Canning Town, on Tuesday, 30th March. Bros. P.M. Myers W.M., Peterken S.W., Watkins J.W., Ives I.G., Worsley Secretary; also Bros. Pavitt, Smith, Knopp, Brownsom and Wallington P.M. 860. Lodge opened in due form and the minutes were read and confirmed. The ceremony of installation was rehearsed by P.M. Bro. Myers, who installed Bro. Smith W.M. elect 860 into the chair of K.S.; the working of Bro. Myers was most perfect. The Lodge closed to 1st degree, when Bro. Peterken was elected W.M. for the ensuing week. We were gratified at seeing Bro. Wallington on a visit to this little Lodge of Instruction; he received a hearty welcome from those of his old pupils who were present. Now Bro. Wallington has once paid a visit here, we trust the brethren will often have him in attendance. Bro. Worsley worked the first, second and fourth sections of the lecture.

On Tuesday, 5th April, Bros. Peterken W.M., Rawe S.W., Loane J.W., Myers S.D., Johnson J.D., Worsley Secretary, P.M. Musto Preceptor; P.M. Barnes, Bros. Forsyth, Keable, White, &c. After preliminaries, the ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Keable candidate. Bro. Worsley worked the first four sections of the lecture. Bro. Rawe was elected W.M. for the ensuing week. All were pleased to see our friend, Bro. Barnes assisting in working the sections. A cordial vote of thanks to Bro. Peterken was ordered to be recorded on the minutes for the excellent manner in which he performed the ceremony, for the first time. We are sorry to hear that Bro. Smith, a most regular attendant at this Lodge, was absent on account of illness. We wish him a speedy return to health.

Islington Lodge of Instruction, No. 1471.—On Tuesday, 5th April, at the Moorgate Tavern, Finsbury Pavement. Present—Bros. Shipley W.M., Medwin S.W., Orme J.W., Mather Preceptor, Sparrow Secretary, Cuthbertson S.D., Couchman I.G., and several others. After preliminaries, the ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Perl, of the New Concord Lodge, No. 813, was elected a member. Bro. Medwin was elected W.M. for the ensuing week.

EPPS'S COCOA.

GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood, and a properly nourished frame." —Civil Service Gazette.

"We have companies for all sorts of things: why do not some philanthropic gentlemen start an association for lending money to embarrassed traders and housekeepers at ten per cent. interest? There are a number of people now getting three per cent. for their money in Consols who would be glad to invest it in an enterprise in which, if properly managed, there would be no risk whatever, and a certainty of earning eight or nine per cent. profit. Properly managed, such an association, worked on a large scale, would be an immense boon to people struggling with temporary difficulties, and would pay a handsome return to those who invested their money in Shares."

THE RECENT ELECTIONS.

THE Quarterly Court of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls was held at Freemasons' Tavern on Saturday last, when after the ordinary business of the meeting had been transacted, the Governors and Subscribers proceeded to the election of fifteen from an approved list of twenty-eight candidates. We have already noted the distribution of these candidates as among the several sections of the Craft. Ten of them hailed from London; Hants and Isle of Wight sent up three; Devonshire, Essex, Wilts, and West Yorkshire two each; and Cambridgeshire, Northumberland, East Lancashire, Suffolk, Kent, Staffordshire, and Somersetshire one each. Of the London girls exactly one-half obtained vacancies, while ten of the eighteen Provincial completed the list. The first, second, and third places were secured by the former, L. M. Anscombe being first with 2064 votes, E. J. March second with 2011, and E. M. Penny third with 1857. We must congratulate them on their success, for this was their first and only chance of obtaining admission into the School. No. 4 was a Suffolk girl, E. M. A. Townsend, who to a score of 305 votes from the election last October, polled 1508 additional, making a total of 1813. No. 5, S. H. M. Tippler, from Essex, was a first and last application, and secured 1614 votes, while No. 6, G. L. Smith, of London, also secured her admission at her first attempt with 1497 votes. No. 7, A. C. Corps, Kent, was not very far behind, as she obtained 1461 votes, while A. A. Allison, Northumberland, with 364 to her credit from October last, increased her total to 1425. The East Lancashire candidate, L. Williamson, was likewise a candidate last October, when she polled 532. The further support of her friends yielded 844 additional votes, so that the total of 1376 carried her well on to the ninth place. No. 10, G. B. Balch, Somersetshire, and No. 11, Minnie Wedgwood, of Staffordshire, polled 1302 and 1264 votes respectively, the next in order, E. M. Foxall, being twelfth with 1259 votes. One of the West Yorkshire candidates, Florence James, obtained the thirteenth place with 1,221 votes, and the other stood fifteenth with 1163 votes, the Devon candidate, U. A. Rawle, taking the intermediate position with 1209 votes. All these, from No. 10 inclusive, were first application cases. So much for the successful candidates, which, having regard to the number, were fairly well distributed between the Metropolis and the Provinces. Of the unsuccessful candidates, Nos. 16 and 17, with 1,125 and 1025 votes to their credit respectively, hailed from London. The second Essex candidate, E. Deacon, who had 314 votes to the good from three previous elections, raised her total to 819. Unfortunately, this was a final application, and her name therefore will be removed from the list. No. 19, L. M. S. Shrapnel, Wiltshire, polled 492 votes, but as she is not yet nine years of age, there are several more chances, which her Province will no doubt turn to the best account. No. 20, N. L. Walters, London, polled 316 votes. No. 21, E. M. Parker, of Cambridgeshire, though this was her sixth and last application, scored only 176 votes, of which 92 stood to her credit from her previous attempts. Her name, therefore, will disappear from the list. A. G. Cleaver, London, nine years old, obtained 173 votes, and Edith Brown, Devonshire, 110 votes. The latter has yet one more chance of securing admission, as she will not be eleven years old till November. Of the five remaining candidates, No. 24, London, polled 79 votes, and Nos. 25, 26, and 27, all hailing from the Province of Hants and Isle of Wight, obtained 45, 19, and 6 votes respectively. The first and second of this trio have now made three, and the third, two attempts, to gain admission, and they are fortunately young enough to be permitted to try again. The last on the poll, a Wiltshire girl, M. L. Gane, obtained two votes, but doubtless her friends will exert themselves to an appreciable extent at some future election, as she will be eligible for admission till the October election 1883. We do not know that any further remarks need be added, beyond the expression of our regret that the two last cases should have failed. It is always regrettable when a young girl's hopes of admission into the School are thus destroyed. There now remain eleven from the list of last Saturday who are eligible to try in October next, and several of them will have still further chances allowed them.

The Quarterly General Court of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, was held in the Great Hall at the Freemasons' Tavern, on Monday, 11th inst., when, on the completion of the business described in our Advertisement columns last week, twenty pupils were elected from an approved list of seventy-two candidates, the original number of seventy-six having been reduced by three withdrawals, and one removal. Of the twenty thus elected, the admission of two of them has been made conditional on the result of the further inquiries which have been ordered. Of the seventy-two candidates nineteen belonged to London; Hants and the Isle of Wight sent up five; Durham four, East Lancashire, Kent, and Middlesex three each; Cumberland and Westmoreland, Devon, Dorset, Essex, Lincolnshire, Norfolk, North Wales and Salop, S. Wales West Division, Warwickshire, and West Yorkshire two each; Beds, Berks and Bucks, Cambridgeshire, Cheshire, Gloucestershire, Guernsey, Herts, Hong Kong, N. and E. Yorkshire, Northumberland, South Africa, Staffordshire, Surrey, West Coast of Africa, and West Lancashire one each. Eight of the successful candidates hailed from London, and the remaining twelve were Provincial; or, having regard to the number of attempts each had made, one had been a candidate at four previous elections, four at three, two at two, and four at one election, while the other nine succeeded at the very first attempt; it being in the case of one of these nine, a first and last ballot, for had he not succeeded in winning a place, his name must have been removed from the list. The two who obtained the first and second places were London candidates, A. Allan with 910 votes to his credit from last October polled 802 more, and secured the highest position with a total of 1712, while G. A. March at his first trial obtained 1676, and the next highest place. No. 3, one of the two candidates from West Yorkshire, was an applicant for the first time and polled 1665, W. W. Lucas, who stood fourth with 1656 votes, being one of three East Lancashire lads, and also a candidate for the first time. W. H. Woollons, from the Province of Hants and the Isle of Wight, had 803 votes to his credit as the accumulated result of four previous ballots. On Monday he increased his score to 1644 and thus secured the fifth vacancy. No. 6, E. C. Rocke of London, and a candidate for the first time, scored 1623 votes; while No. 7, W. L. Wilson, South Africa, with a credit of 1238 votes from three former attempts, received 374 additional, making his total 1612. Next in order is the name of L. L. Whiteley, an Essex candidate, for whom 1575 votes were cast at this his first trial; F. R. Bladon, Berks and Bucks, with 742 from last October, increasing his poll to 1570, and H. J. Tink, one of the two Dorset boys, being close up with 1562 votes. No. 11, C. E. Webb, hailing from Kent, had received at his three previous attempts only 330 votes, but his friends made a determined onslaught, and with a further poll of 1200 votes, carried him into the eleventh vacancy, with a total of 1530, W. Conway, the Cheshire applicant, being close on his heels with 1,522, all polled for him on this occasion. A London candidate, F. T. Tanner, with 422 votes from the October election, was so well supported that he was returned with 1454 votes, a North Wales and Salop lad, W. I. Williams, being only a short neck behind with 1451, E. C. Lucas, Guernsey, coming next with 1445, of which 968 were already to his credit from three previous ballots. Two London lads followed, one of whom, A. L. Lewis, with 925 to the good from October, increased it to 1431, while the other, John Bloomfield, was a candidate for the first time, and scored 1423. Grantley Wicks, from the Province of Cumberland and Westmoreland, received 1385 votes, and thus fought his way into the School at his first and only trial, the nineteenth and twentieth vacancies falling to London candidates, of whom the former, C. N. Estling, with 896 votes from three ballots, raised his total to 1365, while S. D. Stephen, who had been twice an unsuccessful applicant, and only procured support to the extent of 940 votes, received 416 additional, and thus raised his total to 1356. These last two candidates are the two whose admission into the School has been made to depend on the result of further inquiries.

Of the unsuccessful candidates, the first is A. Fellows, from London, with a total of 1311 votes, made up of 714 from his four previous ballots, and 597 cast for him on Monday. He has one more chance of securing his election, and with such a credit may reasonably look forward to winning his way into the School in October next. George Wortley, a Durham boy, stood for the first time last October, when he polled 542 votes. This was increased to 1263 on Monday, so that he, too, and indeed the seven next in order, stand well for the next election, namely, C. A. Gurney, Middlesex, who increased his votes from 761 to 1225; S. E. Lee, London, who scored 1134, of which 662 were already to his credit; P. H. Mott, West Lancashire, 1113 votes, all polled on Monday; H. A. Ecclestone, Hong Kong, who raised his total from 741 to 1087; H. Lloyd Jordison, Essex, 950 votes, of which 264 were brought forward, and G. W. K. Hill, and A. Kirkby, both of London; the former raised his number from 294 to 887, while the latter polled 821. Next is a Norfolk boy, W. B. Stanford, with 765 votes; then a Warwickshire candidate, F. A. Clark, with 637 votes, 555 of which, however, were brought forward, and then W. R. Watson, the Surrey candidate, whose poll was increased at the election from 243 to 631. However, it is hardly necessary we should go on enumerating the votes polled for all the unsuccessful ones. Suffice it that Nos. 33 and 34 have over 500 to the good, and No. 35 over 400. The next five from No. 36 to No. 41, both inclusive, polled over 300 votes, but No. 39, H. S. J. Crane, will disappear from the list. At six elections he has only obtained 335 votes, and before October he will have attained the age of eleven. Nos. 42 to 46, both inclusive, have each over 200 votes, No. 43, C. S. V. Field being in the same unfortunate predicament as the boy Crane. Nos. 47 to 54 have each scored between 100 and 200 votes, while No. 55 is close up with 94 votes. All these have one or more chances of success still left them, but No. 56, John Reed, though he has tried seven times has failed, poor lad, ignominously—no ignominy, of course, attaches to the lad—and he, too, will disappear from the list. No. 59, a Berks and Bucks lad, was withdrawn, so that the 43 votes polled for him were wasted; it would have been his only chance of securing a vacancy. Nos. 66 and 67, the former a London, and the latter a Worcester boy, were withdrawn, No. 74, London, was removed, while No. 75, a Devon youngster scored—how many think you, gentle reader, at his five attempts? Well, a magnificent 0. His friends must have been most energetic in their support of his candidature. Five elections with 0 as the result. We suppose the poor boy has been living on hope for the last two years and a half, and now even that has deserted him, for he has no further chance of gaining even a vote, much less a place among the successful candidates. Omitting two withdrawals and the one removal, there were no less than eight candidates for whom were cast under ten votes. This completes our survey of the result of last Monday's election. It only remains for us to add that of the unsuccessful candidates as many as forty-seven will have their names and the votes, if any, polled for them, carried forward to the October list, so that whatever may be the number of vacancies then competed for, there is every prospect of the list of applicants being as formidable as at this election. Of these forty-seven boys ten are London, and the rest Provincial.

MASONIC LEGEND AND TRADITION.

FROM THE VOICE OF MASONRY.

AN evening recently spent in the company of an old and experienced Mason was an interesting one to the writer. The venerable brother had been an active and studious Craftsman from early life; had read whatever came within his reach in relation to the history of Freemasonry; had formed opinions concerning the origin and history and growth of the Order, and was prepared to give a reason for his belief. He is, occasionally, quite communicative on this subject, and when in such a mood it is extremely pleasant to pass an hour or two in his company.

On the occasion alluded to I asked his opinion about the origin of Freemasonry—"Whence came it?" Were the stories about its organization among the workmen who constructed the Temple at Jerusalem founded on fact? In brief, what where we to believe about it, or must we leave it where we found it, involved in fiction, legend, and tradition? He seemed willing to communicate, and I listened with reverence and close attention. I now propose to give you, substantially, his views in reply to my question. I may not hope to recall his exact language, but as near as I can, from my notes taken at the time.

"Freemasonry, in its form and fashion of to-day, has a history of only a few centuries. Fort has collected most of what is known on that subject, and his work is quite exhaustive; but beyond the facts and documents he has given us, there is a dim past, through the centuries of which there is an occasional fact that refers to an association either Grecian or Roman or Jewish or Tyrian, probably some from each source, pointing to a real or supposed association of builders. To those half legendary facts, we owe the traditions we so often refer to in the rituals of the present Freemasonry. Even traditions must have some basis for support, and ours may rest upon the snatches of early history, some of which are facts and some the vagrant fancies of busy brains. Some of them were unquestionably facts—many of them mere theories. Let me give you mine, in which recorded truth and fanciful legend are strangely blended. Solomon was about to construct a magnificent Temple at Jerusalem, the capital of his kingdom, in which GOD was to be worshipped according to certain forms, and with certain symbolic ceremonies. The Jews knew but little of the art of building; but men must be had for this great undertaking, workmen, architects, builders; such as could 'hew the architrave' from the cedars of Lebanon, and square great ashlars from the quarries, who could at least prepare the material from its unshapen forms, and then it would be a comparatively easy task to erect the structure. But most of all did he need a 'cunning artificer,' one capable of comprehending the whole plan of the building, of preparing designs and models for the workmen, and of superintending the construction of an edifice, whose original designs were believed to have been furnished by the Supreme Architect of the Universe.

"The Tyrians, composing a small kingdom on the sea coast, were renowned as architects. Tyre was but a short distance from Jernsalem; while its king (Hiram) was on the most friendly terms with Solomon. To Hiram, therefore, overtures were made to supply workmen for the great enterprise, and a favourable reply received. The result was an agreement that, for certain considerations, Hiram should supply Solomon with the artists and builders that he needed. The letters which passed between these two neighbouring kings, in the progress of this negotiation, are still extant, and are invested with the seal of unquestioned authenticity. You may read this correspondence, still preserved in that old work called the Bible—reverenced by Jew and Christian the world over. It is found in the second chapter of the first book of Chronicles, and its authenticity is reliable. It will there be seen that Hiram not only supplied the desired workmen for the forest and the quarries, but he found and furnished an artist of extraordinary skill—just such a one as Solomon needed. The king described him as 'the son of a woman of the daughters of Dan, and his father a man of Tyre, skilful to work in gold, and in silver, in brass, in iron, in stone and in timber, in purple, in blue and in fine linen, and in crimson; also to grave any manner of graving, and to find out every device that shall be put to him.

"This man, half Jew and half Tyrian, must have been a rare artist, of wonderful and varied genius. The Freemasons of a century or more ago, in arranging and adjusting the rituals of the degrees, seem to have taken this Tyrian artist under their special care, and, adding fancy to fact, arranged a tragedy as a novelist does his plot, and then passed it upon the neophyte as veritable historic truth! Or, in completing the mystical structure, they may have borrowed some from the Dyonisians to complete the ideal, half fact and half fiction, which they constructed from the story of the Tyrian.

"The mysteries of the Dyonisians were originally instituted in honour of Bacchus, and looked to Egypt, that land of mysteries, for their parentage. The ceremonies at the reception of a novice were solemn and impressive, and, like the Third Degree in modern Masonry, well calculated to test the virtue and integrity of the candidate. More than three days were required in passing the terrible ordeal, and when he reached the object of his ambition, he was welcomed with shouts, and daily instructed in the doctrines and symbols of the association. This was not unlike the legend of the Third Degree, and it is not difficult to trace the relationship.

"In working out the analogies found in the foundation of our mysteries, it is not necessary to enter into a detail of the labours of those Tyrian artists, in conjunction with the men of Israel, in the preparation of the material for, and final completion of the Temple which rose in almost unearthly grandeur on Moriah. Jew and Gentile wrought together, as though the achievement was designed to prefigure that of the Gospel in later times, when all were to be included in the privileges and blessings of a Temple equally as holy and still more spiritual. On this analogy the fathers founded another legend.

"Now for the corner-stone of another tradation: For seven years the work of constructing that Temple went steadily forward according to the designs of the 'cunning workman' of Tyre in whom was mingled the blood of the Jew and the Gentile. Israelite and Tyrian toiled side by side, until by the united skill and industry of more than one hundred and fifty thousand workmen the Grand Design was completed. Think you a close and fraternal intimacy had grown up between these workmen? In their hours of 'rest and refreshment' they doubtless talked over the history, customs and religions of their respective nations, with the nature and resulting benefits of a closer union; and though the sons of Abraham could not, perhaps, formally unite with their co-workers, the Tyrians, nor embrace their peculiar dogmas in their entirety, they could unite in some of them. The Israelites, perhaps, would commend the doctrines and duties taught by the Prophets, and instructed their Tyrian associates in relation to the claims and promises—the privileges and blessings vouchsafed to them by the God of Abraham.

"The very rock or timber on which their skill was then engaged would lead to conversation on this subject; and in the hours of relaxation from toil, while reposing under the deep shades of the forest on the plains of Zarthan, or the sides and summit of Lebanon, would suggest the wonders God had wrought in behalf of His chosen people; and such themes would lead them to chant the inspired songs of the Hebrew Bards, until the mind and language of the Jew glowed under the inspiration of the themes, and the hopes and prospects opening before them; while their Tyrian associates would listen, and wonder, and admire. It cannot be supposed that this free and unrestrained intermingling of workmen, even of different races, could continue for a period of seven years, without creating an intimacy as sincere as it was disinterested, and without making each party acquainted with whatever was valuable and disirable in the social, religious, or fraternal institutions of the respective nations. The one was as ready to impart as the other was to receive instruction; while both were benefited, and received impressions that ages did not obliterate.

"But the great work was finally completed, and the workmen were again to be separated. The Temple, in which the solemn and imposing worship of JEHOVAH was to be publicly instituted and statedly celebrated, was dedicated with the most imposing ceremonies that earth had ever witnessed. The Ark, with its sacred deposits was safely deposited in the 'Most Holy Place.' On his bended knees 'before all the congregation,' and the vast assemblage which the great event had collected from every part of Judea, the great Monarch of Israel had solemnly consecrated the whole to the worship of JEHOVAH. And God had appeared in awful majesty over the mercy seat, and accepted the offering. Next to the cloud and the thunder and the earthquake upon Mount Sinai, this was the most solemn and awe inspiring scene that man had ever witnessed.

"We may reasonably conclude that many of those Tyrian artists who so long and faithfully laboured in the erection of this wonderful structure, remained to witness the great events of its dedication; and if so, what they saw and heard on that memorable occasion must have made a deep impression upon their minds, and served to confirm them in the truths about which they had heard so much during their seven years' association with their Hebrew friends. Many of the Jewish Craftsmen were, no doubt, by this time well skilled in the science of architecture, and disposed to devote themselves to it in preference to their old occupation. They had also, probably, by association with others, witnessed the order, harmony, perpetual friendship and general benefits resulting from a practice of the secret Rites of the Tyrians or Dyonisians, and were ready to adopt them if they could be so modified as not to conflict with their own religious opinions and prejudices. The mythological fictions of the Tyrians it were easy to supercede by the great truths of the Hebrew system as revealed in 'the law and the prophets;' and events which had transpired during the progress of building the Temple (with which every Mason of to-day is familiar) could readily be substituted, in substance, for those prominent in the Dyonisian Rites. Here, in my opinion, was the commencement of the ancient Guilds or associations of Builders of different nations, which grew and spread, as their services were needed, down to the Middle Ages. The ancient Rites and ceremonies of the old Builders, adapted to the religious dogmas and ceremonies of the Hebrews, wedded to the moral truths taught in the Sacred Law, and baptized at the Altar of JEHOVAH. I will not say that it was the Freemasonry of to-day, but it was the beginning of those old Guilds of after ages the fruits of whose labours, though many of them in ruins, are the wonder and admiration of still later centuries: and these later associations of builders constituted the germ out of which grew the Freemasonry of the present.

"Our tradition and legends are linked with the architects of Tyre and Egypt and Phœnicia and Jerusalem; and these roots of a new and constantly improving system grew from shadow to substance, from root to tree, from germ to structure, until the culmination is now seen in the Masonic Fraternity everywhere. Our traditions and legends connect us, more or less directly, with these ancient rites and systems, but the particulars are shrouded and lost in the dim obscurity of more than three thousand years. I can account for the origin of Freemasonry, its Jewish lineaments, its adhesion to the moral law of the Bible, and its peculiar secrets, legends and traditions, on no other hypothesis than the one I have given; if any one else can, we shall not dispute about it.

"A fact connected with this theory is worthy of thoughtful consideration: the 'cunning workman' who drew the designs for that wonderful Temple, was of both Tyrian and Jewish extraction, and combined in himself the artistic skill of one nation with the religious tenets of the other. Jews could not build that Temple, for they had not the artistic skill; Tyrians could not do it, for they were ignorant of the rites and ceremonies of that religious system to be taught within Jew and Gentile, therefore combined to accomplish the work; and to this day, Jew and Gentile kneel side by side around the altars of Freemasonry, harmonizing antagonistic opinions, subduing discordant national prejudices, and thus are gathering the world into a universal harmony."

And here the old brother paused, while, pencil in hand, I looked up from my notes in admiration of the careful thought he had evidently bestowed upon his theory. He may be correct in his reasoning and deductions, and yet there may be latent errors in his views not discernible at first sight because of their plausibility. But what theory can be advanced on such a subject that is absolutely certain and incontrovertible?

What are the facts? Here is an association or fraternity of almost a million of members scattered over the world. In nearly everything they are a unit, their objects, aims and purposes the same. The organization is not political, nor ecclesiastical, nor mechanical, and yet it includes men of all religious creeds, of every party in politics, of all professions and callings. As I said at the beginning of this article, "Whence came they?" They did not grow out of the tribal dispersion of the children of Abraham; they are not the fragments of the persecuted and scattered Crusaders, they are not the outgrowth of a political idea nor a dogmatic creed—"Whence came they?"

The Masonic writers of a century and a half ago thought they could answer the question, but the answer has not stood the test of criticism. The clearest and most cultured minds of Europe and America have given the subject very careful consideration. With a deep anxiety about the question, and an earnest desire to solve the problem, oceans have been crossed, libraries, public and private, have been examined; money, and time, and thought have been devoted to this investigation, and yet we are still in the dark. Science has discovered wonders in nature and art; ancient history has become familiar to the school-boy; astronomy has almost become the plaything of amateurs; while nature, in air, and sea, and land has been tortured until its secrets have been revealed; but no man, no nation, no writer, no devotee of library or Lodge, no student, ancient and modern, has been able to give us a satisfactory answer to the query, "Whence came they?" Now is not this fact remarkable, and does it not reflect in some manner upon the intelligence of Freemasons? We know when creeds and churches took form and organisation; we know even when the Roman church became crystallized into a power that has sometimes ruled the world. We can point out the period when the Roman Empire was established—and when it fell. We can repeat the story of the Patriarchs, and become familiar with the dynasties of ancient Egypt or India—but when and where was Freemasonry born? Even its own members—the oldest and wisest of them—do not know! After all that has been said and written on the subject, it is still theory—guess work—tradition! Is not this astounding? There are still extant Lodges that have been organized for some three hundred years; yet an examination of their recorded transactions gives us no reliable information on the origin and history of the Order!

As we are still, partially at least, at sea on this question, may not the theory suggested in this article by our venerable brother be as nearly correct as any other? Yet we want certainty, or as near to it as can be attained. We want it for the satisfaction of the Craft at large, for the instruction of the neophyte, for the honour of the Order. We want it to refute the errors and to reply to the sarcasms and insults of our enemies; we want it to satisfy honest inquirers, and give the world assurance of our interest in an association of which we are proud to be members.

Now, how shall we obtain this knowledge—who will unravel the mystery, or point out the footprints of the Order along the track of the centuries, from the first impression to the present? Can it not be done? Are not the resources of the Craft equal to such an undertaking? The Knights Templars spent, perhaps, a million dollars last summer in a trip to Chicago; but there is not a Templar in America who knows with certainty when the first Commandery was formed on this continent, or under what authority!

But I will leave all this for the present, and probably for others; but give us light and reliable information on a question of so much importance.

THE PORTSMOUTH FREEMASONS' HALL AND CLUB COMPANY.—At the annual meeting on Monday, 4th instant, Alderman W. D. King, J.P., presiding, the directors presented a congratulatory report, and recommended, as the result of their nine months' account, a dividend at the rate of 2½ per cent. per annum from the commencement of the company in 1879 until the opening of the building by the P.G.M., and a further dividend at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum until the end of the year. The inadequacy of the share capital to provide for the completion of the buildings, and furnish them throughout, had compelled the directors to borrow the sum of £1,200 from the bank. This sum the directors propose to raise by issuing debenture bonds to the shareholders, of the value of £20, redeemable at three months' notice, and bearing a guaranteed rate of 5 per cent. interest per annum, rather than to raise a mortgage or to increase the share capital, or to pay interest and commission to the bankers. The report was adopted. Messrs. T. Mares, T. Good, and G. Dean were elected directors; Messrs. T. P. Wills and C. J. Messum were re-appointed auditors, and thirty guineas were voted to the Secretary (Mr. E. S. Main) for his services.—Portsmouth Times.

The annual supper of The Great City Lodge of Instruction, No. 1426, will take place at Masons' Hall Tavern, Masons'-avenue, Basinghall-street, E.C., on the 28th inst., when Bro. G. W. Blackie P.M. 1426 will preside. Tickets, 3s 6d each, may be had of Bro. C. F. Goodenough, Secretary pro tem, The Cottage, St. Bartholomew's, Smithfield, E.C.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS.

THE Quarterly Court of this Institution's Governors and Subscribers was held on Saturday last, at Freemasons' Tavern, Col. Creaton in the chair. After the reading and confirmation of the minutes, Col. Creaton was re-elected Treasurer of the Institution. There were three vacancies on the General Committee, and these were supplied by the election of Bros. Beasley, Pugsley, and Cumberland. Bro. Thomas Massa then proceeded to bring on the following resolution, "That competition designs be invited from Freemason architects who are Governors of the Institution, for a preparatory school to be built on the newly-purchased site, facing Wandsworth-road, to accommodate the children now temporarily lodged in Lyncombe House, and fifty others in addition." Bro. Massa showed that the Craft had greatly increased in number, and that in a short time the present accommodation would not be sufficient. He also showed that Lyncombe House was not a suitable building. He also went into the questions whether the extension was required; could it be afforded; when should it be done; was a non-Freemason architect to be preferred to a brother; and was the newly-purchased ground the proper place on which to build an addition to the School? He showed that St. Anne's Society, with smaller funds, and also a limited area in which to seek support, did more for the money than the Masonic Girls' School, while it gave an equally good education. The motion was seconded by Bro. W. Hale. Bro. Gover moved the previous question, and Bro. Clabon in seconding it, appealed to Bro. Massa to withdraw his other four motions. When there was a necessity for an extension the Committee would report upon it, and the Craft would come forward with the necessary funds. At present no such necessity had been shown. "The previous question" was carried by a large majority, and Bro. Massa then withdrew his remaining motions. The brethren proceeded with the election of fifteen girls out of an approved list of twenty-eight. At the declaration of the poll, the following was the result:—

QUARTERLY COURT OF THE BOYS' SCHOOL.

THE Quarterly Court of the Governors of and Subscribers to this Institution was held on Monday last, at Freemasons' Tavern. Bro. Henry Smith, Provincial Grand Secretary of West Yorkshire, presided. Bro. George Plucknett was re-elected Treasurer, and the General Committee of Life and Annual Subscribers were also re-elected. The following motions were on the paper:—

1. By Bro. Thomas Eutwisle, Vice-President, per Bro. C. F. Matier:—

To alter Law LV., by inserting after the word "livelihood" (at the end of Law) the words "in any of which cases, except that of sudden death, the father must have been a subscribing member to a Lodge for three years."

2. By Bro. A. J. Duff-Filer, Vice-Patron:—

In Law LXXII. (authorising a grant of money by the General Committee to a boy having left the Institution) to erase the words "twenty pounds" in line 2, and in lieu thereof to insert the words "forty pounds."

3. By resolution of the General Committee, on the recommendation of the House and Building Committee:—

That the House and Building Committee be authorised to expend a sum not exceeding £700 in the enlargement of the Gymnasium, &c., rendered necessary by the increase in the number of boys from 100 to 215.

The first was altered, on the suggestion of Bro. W. Roebuck, by inserting the words "in the case of paralysis or sudden death from shipwreck or any other cause." The other two motions were carried as they stood. Scrutineers of votes were then appointed, and the brethren proceeded to elect twenty boys out of an approved list of seventy-two candidates, the Court having rejected one case. At the close of the poll the following was the result:—

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—In all sores, wounds, bad legs, and sprains of any kind, this Ointment is the most efficient application. It at once gives ease by allaying inflammation and moderating the flow of blood to the part. Whenever the malady has been of long standing, the Ointment should be assisted by Holloway's purifying Pills, which act upon the stomach and liver, guarding the digestion from falling into that disordered state which the pain, restlessness, and fever attending these ailments is apt to produce, and which much retards recovery, and sometimes even makes serious the slightest case. No mother or nurse should be without these noble remedies; they are equally applicable to all ages and constitutions. They purify the blood, regulate its circulation, renew diseased structures, and invigorate the system.

INSTALLATION MEETINGS, &c.

STRONG MAN LODGE, No. 45.

THE annual meeting of this old Lodge was held at the Masons' Hall Tavern, Masons'-avenue, Basinghall-street, on Thursday, the 7th inst., on which occasion Bro. C. Cordingley was installed as W.M. for the ensuing year. Bro. S. B. Halle, the W.M. of the past year, presided at the opening of the Lodge, being supported by Bros. C. Cordingley S.W., the W.M. elect, W. A. S. Humphries J.W., H. Follett Treasurer, A. A. Wing Secretary, W. Ball S.D., J. Smith J.D., H. J. Nell I.G., and F. M. H. Jones Steward, several members, and the following Past Masters:—Bros. Dyer, Sawyer, Symons, Jones, Moss, and Reed. The minutes of the last meeting having been read and confirmed, Bros. Upjohn and Bolt, candidates for the second degree, were prepared, and in due course passed as Fellow Crafts. On the resumption of the Lodge to the first degree, the ballot was taken and proved unanimous in favour of Messrs. Ritter and Murphy, the initiation of whom is expected to take place at the next meeting. The installation of Worshipful Master was next proceeded with, Bro. G. G. Symons assuming the gavel as Installing Master. He performed the ceremony in a clear, distinct, and effective manner, being ably assisted in the work by Bro. P.M. Moss, who acted as Director of Ceremonies. The newly-installed Master having been saluted in due form, appointed the following brethren as his Officers:—Humphries S.W., Ball J.W., Follett Treasurer, Wing Secretary, Smith S.D., Nell J.D., Jones I.G., Callow and Hunt Stewards, Steed Tyler. The ceremony was then completed, and the Lodge closed until the first Thursday in May. The brethren next proceeded to the banquet-room, where a first-rate repast was provided by the proprietors of the tavern. The W.M. presided, and in due course proceeded with the toasts of the evening. The customary loyal ones having been honoured, the I.P.M. proposed that of the Master, paying a just compliment to Bro. Cordingley for the way in which he had fulfilled the duties of his office in the past, and wishing him every success and prosperity in the future. The W.M. tendered his hearty thanks to the brethren for the way in which they had responded to the call of the I.P.M. He hoped when his term of office had expired to leave the chair with the esteem of the brethren. He then proposed the health of the I.P.M., presenting him, in the name of the Lodge, with a Past Master's jewel, as a memento of the year during which he had presided over the Lodge. Bro. Halle expressed his sincere thanks for the great kindness that he experienced during his term of Mastership. Whatever he had done he had undertaken for the advancement of Freemasonry. He had endeavoured to do his best during his year of office, and should always hold his services at the disposal of the Lodge. The toast of the visitors followed. The W.M. heartily welcomed the numerous guests around him—there were among them many brethren who were honoured, not only in the Craft, but also in private life—they were all welcome, and the W.M. trusted had thoroughly enjoyed themselves. If the Strong Man Lodge should at any time lack in the good cause, the W.M. felt assured it would never lose its reputation in respect of hospitality, which characteristic of Freemasonry the members of the Lodge were one and all anxious at all times to exemplify. After a reply from a visiting brother, the W.M. gave the health of the Past Masters, which toast Bro. Moss acknowledged in suitable terms. The Treasurer, Secretary and Officers then each received their meed of praise, and the proceedings terminated.

UNITED LODGE, No. 607.

THE annual Festival of this Lodge was held on Friday afternoon, 8th April, when Lieut. Colonel H. Somerville Burney Grand Deacon of England, and one of the Founders of 607, again attended to perform the Installation ceremony. The W.M. Elect was Bro. A. Gosling S.W., and he appointed the following as his Officers for the ensuing year:—Bros. Thomas G. Mills S.W., G. A. Eustace J.W., Rev. E. H. Crate P.M. Chaplain, Thomas Eustace I.P.M. Treasurer, Thomas Rix P.M. Sec., C. D. Marshall S.D., R. Smith J.D., W. Jelley D.C., John B. Lugar Organist, S. H. Ellis I.G., Quarter Master Sergeant Foreman, George Littlebury, and J. T. Bailey Stewards, S. Munson Tyler. About forty brethren afterwards dined together at the George Hotel, a récherché banquet being placed on the table by Mrs. Guiver. The usual toasts were given and responded to on the removal of the cloth; and some excellent singing by the brethren added greatly to the pleasures of the evening. Among those present, either at Lodge or banquet, were Wor. Bros. Lieut. Colonel H. Somerville Burney J.G.D., Thomas J. Ralling P.G. Sec. Essex, John J. C. Turner W.M. 51 P.P.G.O., John F. Harrington W.M. 160, John Dean W.M. 433, J. E. Wiseman P.M. and Sec. 433 P.P.G.A.D.C., J. E. Richardson P.M. 433 P.P.G.S.B., W. Clarey P.M. 433, Thomas Jennings W.M. 650, F. J. Wiseman W.M. 1734, F. French 433, and the following members of 607, in addition to those already mentioned above:—Bros. R. E. Clowes, J. Durrant, J. H. Johnson, Thomas Matthewman, J. W. Alliston, T. H. Gravelock, R. Foster, J. J. Wade, R. J. Godfrey, J. Alliston, W. C. Potter, W. G. Siggers, &c.

STRAWBERRY HILL LODGE, No. 946.

THE genial spring weather which has happily set in made the run down to Twickenham, on Wednesday last, exceedingly pleasant, and a large company assembled at the Grotto Hotel to witness the installation of Bro. W. H. Rohrs as W.M. of this Lodge. The brethren present at the ceremony included the following members of the Lodge, viz.—P.M.'s Bros. G. Mayon Cooke, T. Price, R. T. Whitley, W. H. Waghorn, J. M. Wohlgemuth, W. Platt Sec., W. Smeed, A. Johnson, J. J. Pope; also Bros. J. L. Skinner, J. Aston, A. T. Ackermann, W. Board, J. S. Sweasey, A. Loft, W. S. Bell, Charles Moore, E. D. Garwood, P. V. D'Ifinger, A. Bliss, S. Jewell, E. Burke, A. B. Weston, C. Holland, G. Parkes, and others. There was also a large attendance of visitors, among whom we noticed Bros. William Jones P.M. 765, J. Wright P.M. 1585, A. Green P.M. 211, W. Radcliffe I.P.M. 211, R. W. Forge I.P.M. and Secretary 1793, J. Pillar W.M. 1793, Thomas Goodchild S.D. 1793, J. Greenfield J.D. 1602, T. J. Arnold 780, W. G. Smeed 1585, G. H. McLoughlin 1706, E. H. Dove 15, D. W. Tough 905, H. Handel 1793, W. J. House 1828, W. G. Collier 1793, and others. After the despatch of general business in the Lodge, Bro. Daniel Argyle the W.M. presented Bro. Rohrs S.W. to the Installing Master, Bro. W. Smeed P.M. and P.P.G.S.W. Mid., and the ceremony of installation was then proceeded with. Many of our readers have doubtless had the opportunity of hearing Brother Smeed's masterly delivery of this beautiful service. On this occasion every line of the sublime charges was given with point and emphasis, and made a deep impression upon the brethren. After receiving the warm congratulations of those present, the newly appointed W.M. proceeded to invest his Officers, as follow:—Bros. Skinner S.W., Aston J.W., Beard S.D., D'Ifanger J.D., Parkes I.G., Wohlgemuth Treasurer, W. Platt Secretary, Bliss Organist, Ackermann Director of Ceremonies. The brethren then adjourned to a splendid banquet, provided by Bro. Garwood, who has recently enlarged his dining room, so as to give ample accommodation for a party of sixty or seventy persons. After the usual loyal toasts had been duly honoured, the W.M., in proposing the health of the Provincial Grand Officers, alluded to the gratifying fact that two of their Past Masters had held honourable positions in the Province as P.G.J.W. and P.G.A.D.C., viz., Bros. Smeed and Whitley, whose names he coupled with the toast. These brethren having suitably responded, Bro. Smeed rose to propose the toast of the evening, and referring to the excellent social qualities of Bro. Rohrs, took occasion to say that he believed the brethren had selected one to rule over their affairs who would prove himself in every respect worthy of their choice. Bro. Rohrs was universally esteemed both in and out of the Lodge, and being an earnest and painstaking Mason, would, he hoped, meet with the success he deserved during his tenure of the chair. The W.M., in replying, wished to thank the brethren for the kindness and assistance he had always experienced from them during his progress through the different offices, and assured them that no effort should be wanting on his part to merit a continuance of their esteem and goodwill, whilst his chief aim would be to uphold the dignity and credit which the Lodge at present enjoyed. In felicitous terms, the W.M. next proposed the health of the Installing Master, and elicited hearty applause from the brethren from his allusion to the many valuable services rendered to the Lodge by Bro. Smeed. The latter, in thanking the W.M. and brethren for the compliment paid him, referred to the fact that he was initiated in the Lodge eighteen years ago, and although he could not expect the Grand Architect of the Universe to bestow upon him many more years of strength and activity, he should continue, so long as he was able, to devote his best energies to the Lodge to which he was so warmly attached. The W.M. next gave the toast of the Past Masters, which was replied to by all the brethren present holding that rank, Bros. Argyle and Cooke observing that this was an age of progress, and that the Strawberry Hill Lodge was keeping pace with the time, and enlarging its sphere of social intercourse and usefulness. The W.M. then gave the toast of the Visitors, remarking that several among them had achieved honourable distinction in Freemasonry, and were therefore well able to judge of the position which the Strawberry Hill Lodge was entitled to hold in the Craft. Bros. Jones, Wright, Radcliffe, Green, and others, in responding, bore testimony to the cordial hospitality for which the Lodge was distinguished at all times, and expressed the pleasure they had derived from hearing the installation ceremony so ably performed by Bro. Smeed that evening. Bro. McLoughlin, who was understood to have recently made an appeal on the Stock Exchange, with most successful results, on behalf of one of the charitable institutions of the metropolis, advocated the cause of the Masonic Schools, and hoped the brethren would do what they could in the cause of Charity with all their heart. During the evening several of the brethren contributed some excellent songs, and we must speak in the highest terms of Bro. Ross Browne, who gave several character songs in most artistic style, without the aid of pianoforte accompaniment. Altogether this was one of the most agreeable and successful evenings we have had the pleasure of spending at the Strawberry Hill Lodge.

THE annual installation meeting of this Lodge took place at Freemasons' Hall, London, on Wednesday, 13th inst., on which occasion the following brethren were present: — C. Atkins W.M., O. L. M. Letreille S.W., A. Rosenthall J.W., Dr. Jabez Hogg P.M. P.G.D. Treasurer, J. H. Southwood P.M. Secretary, W. Ryan S.D., H. Evans J.D., G. T. Salmon I.G., F. A. Beeton D.C., H. J. Dean Organist; several other members of the Lodge, and the following visitors:—Bros. R. F. Gould P.M. 92 S.G.D., A. Mullord W.M. 1288, G. Short, W. Toombs, W. R. Lister P.M. 145, J. Batchelor, F. G. Baker P.M. 753, L. Hiong, E. B. Grabham, John Green P.M. 27, G. Andrews, W. Davies, F. G. Longley P.M. 1261, J. B Sorrell jun. P.M. 176, J. I. Cantle P.M. 1257, &c. The amount of work which had to be got through was exceptionally heavy, especially for an installation meeting, and as a consequence it was not until a very late hour that the proceedings terminated. The Lodge having been opened, the minutes of the last regular Lodge and a Lodge of emergency were read and confirmed, after which Bros. Frank Taylor and William Renner were passed. The ballot was brought into requisition and proved unanimous in favour of two gentlemen proposed for initiation, and of Bro. H. F. Frost, a candidate for joining. The two former—Messrs. Samuel Hart Baker and Henry Hooker—were then introduced and received, at the hands of the W.M. the benefit of Masonic light. The report of the Audit Committee was passed, and then the installation of Bro. O. L. M. Latreille was proceeded with. The ceremony was most effectively performed by the I.P.M. Bro. Atkins. In due course the W.M. invested his Officers, the following brethren being appointed for the year:—Rosenthall S.W., Evans J.W., Hogg Treasurer, Atkins Secretary, Salmon S.D., Beeton J.D., J. H. Southwood and Captain Joseph Heaton M.C.'s, Dean Organist, James Mansell I.G., Cox and Reason Stewards, C. T. Speight Tyler. This concluded the business set down for the evening. Before the W.M. closed the Lodge, he presented to Bro. Atkins the regular P.M.'s jewel of the Lodge. He had very great pleasure in placing it on the breast of Bro. Atkins, to whom he presented it on the unanimous vote of the members, as a small mark of their esteem, and in recognition of the great services he had rendered to the Lodge. He trusted it would be accepted with the same kindly feeling as it was presented, and that Bro. Atkins might long live to look upon it as a pleasing memento of his year of office. Bro. Atkins having tendered his thanks, Bro. Dr. Jabez Hogg desired to draw the attention of the brethren to the Hervey Memorial Fund, which had lately been started. The subject had been referred to at a previous meeting, but as so few of the members were then present, no action was taken in the matter. Bro. Hogg could but feel somewhat disgusted that the committee had taken the step they had, and had so utterly ignored the existence of the John Hervey Lodge, which, he ventured to think, was the most fitting memorial to their late respected brother the Craft could provide. He believed every brother around him—visitors as well as members—would agree with him in this respect. He considered the action of the committee disrespectful and un-Masonic. He therefore submitted the following proposition:—That in the opinion of the W.M. and brethren of the John Hervey Lodge no better nor more fitting memorial of the late much and sincerely respected Brother, John Hervey, could be founded than that for some years in existence; the John Hervey Lodge, No. 1260 on the books of the Grand Lodge of England, and founded for the express purpose of perpetuating the honoured name of John Hervey amongst Freemasons. The regulation jewel of the P.M. of the Lodge bears his effigy in portrait, and a flourishing Chapter, also bearing his name, has emanated from the John Hervey Lodge. Amongst the names of the founders of the Lodge will be found enrolled that of John Hervey, together with other Grand Officers; at the consecration of which he presided, remaining an honorary member and manifesting great interest in the prosperity of the Lodge to the day of his death. The W.M. and brethren then cannot but feel surprise on finding its existence totally ignored by those who had thought proper to inaugurate a Hervey Memorial Fund, and that the Officers of the John Hervey Lodge should not have been more formally communicated with than by a printed circular prepared for general circulation amongst the Craft. Bro. J. H. Southwood seconded the proposition, feeling assured that members of the Craft would understand the feelings with which the members of the Lodge were actuated. They fully recognised the claims the late John Hervey had on the Craft, and were not desirous of acting in opposition to the Committee, but they at the same time felt somewhat the slight that had been cast upon them. He thought the Committee might have communicated with the Lodge, with the view of connecting what was to be done in the future with the already existing mementoes of Bro. Hervey. By special permission of the Grand Master, they had been allowed to add the prefix John to the name by which the Lodge was known at its consecration, and all this had been done that a lasting memento of a worthy brother might be established. The proposition of Bro. Hogg was then put to the meeting, and adopted, the Secretary being instructed to send to the Committee a copy of the resolution. Lodge was then closed, and the brethren adjourned to the Crown room, where a first-rate banquet was served. This concluded, the usual toasts followed. Replying to that of the Grand Officers, Bro. R. F. Gould S.G.D. said, that in a Lodge called after so honoured a Grand Officer as the late Grand Secretary, and which still numbered among its members so worthy a representative of Grand Lodge as Bro. Hogg, it was but natural that the toast should be well received. It was the earnest wish of the present Grand Officers to tread as much as possible in the footsteps of those who had gone before, and whose management of the affairs of Grand Lodge had secured for it the respect of Masons throughout the country. Bro. Gould briefly referred to the discussion which had taken place in Lodge as to the Hervey Memorial, and thought that were it possible for their departed brother to be then amongst them, he could but be satisfied with the memorial that the Lodge presented, exemplifying as it did those principles of which during his lifetime he was so worthy an exponent. Bro. Atkins next gave the toast of the W.M. He had very great pleasure in resigning the office which the brethren so kindly entrusted to him when he looked upon the worthy brother who had succeeded him. He believed it was but four years since Bro. Latreille had been initiated in the Lodge. He had early evinced a desire to work up in Freemasonry, and the result was that, in so short a time, he had been elected by the brethren to preside over the Lodge. Bro. Latreille scarcely felt able to express his thanks. He took upon himself the responsibility of W.M. of the Lodge with some degree of pleasure, but at the same time he was not unmindful of its responsibility. He should endeavour to fulfil all that was required of a W.M. as laid down in the Book of Constitutions, and hoped he might, on attaining the position then occupied by Bro. Atkins, be entitled to the approval of the brethren. The toast of the Initiates followed, the W.M. taking the opportunity to address a few suitable words to the brethren who had that evening been admitted. Bro. Baker felt that, standing as he did on the threshold of Freemasonry, a few words would suffice from him. He hoped the brethren might never regret the action they had taken that day in admitting him as a member of the Lodge. Bro. Hooker expressed his sincere thanks to the brethren for having received him, and trusted he might long remain a member of the Lodge. The toast of the Visitors followed, Bros. Gould and others acknowledging it. That of the I.P.M. was next given. Bro. Atkins, in replying, expressed the pleasure it had afforded him that day to instal his successor. He sincerely hoped that the Lodge would go on and continue to prosper. He was particularly gratified at the kind way in which the brethren had recognised the little he had been able to do for the Lodge; he should always prize the jewel they had given him. When, a few years since, he joined the Lodge, he little thought he should so soon become its Master, and be entitled to wear the jewel of P.M. thereof. The health of the Treasurer, Secretary, and Past Masters was most heartily received, and acknowledged by Bros. Hogg and Southwood. The Press was next honoured, and to this toast Bro. Morgan briefly replied. The Tyler was then summoned, and the proceedings were brought to a conclusion.

Grey Friars Lodge, No. 1101.—A meeting was held on Wednesday, 13th April, at the Masonic Hall, Reading. Present—Bros. W. Ferguson W.M., J. Early Danks I.P.M., Blackwell S.W., R. Dowsett J.W., Ivey P.M. Secretary, Rev. C. R. Honey S.D., J. H. Hawkes J.D., W. J. Browne D.C., Ravenscroft Steward, Newman Almoner, Prickett I.G., Hemmings Tyler; P.M.'s Hurley, Flanagan, Margrett, Welch; also Bros. Whitfield, Bailey, Parks, Coates, Titcomb, Cotterell, Greenaway, H. Ferguson, Knight, James, Hukins, Goff, Weatherhead. Visitors—Bros. C. Stephens W.M. 414, F. J. Ferguson J.W. 414, A. W. Parry J.D. 414, Butler and Martin Stewards 414, J. F. Tarrant Southern Star 1158. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes were read and confirmed. The ballot was taken for Mr. Marmakuke Sands, who was elected for initiation. Bros. Parkes, Coates, Cotterell and Whitfield were candidates for passing; they gave proof of their efficiency, were entrusted, and retired. The Lodge was opened in the second degree, Bros. Parkes, Coates, Cotterell and Whitfield were passed to the degree of F.C., Bro. Greenaway a candidate to be raised to the third degree gave satisfactory proof of his efficiency and was raised to the sublime degree of M.M., the beautiful ceremony was correctly rendered, the effect being considerably enhanced by the vocal and instrumental music, under the direction of Bro. Ravenscroft, the acting Organist. On resuming, the W.M. called attention to a communication he had received from the Hervey Memorial Committee; he found that Lodges, as well as individuals, had contributed in sums varying from one to ten guineas; he requested the brethren to express their sentiments on the subject. After some discussion P.M. Margrett proposed that the matter should be deferred till after the Provincial Grand Lodge had met, as the subscription list would not be closed till the end of the year—in this the Lodge acquiesced. The labours of the evening being ended, the Lodge was closed according to ancient form, and the brethren retired for refreshment to the Ship Hotel.

St. Leonard Lodge, No. 1766.—The last meeting previous to the summer vacation was held at the Town Hall, Shoreditch, on Wednesday, 6th inst., when there was a full attendance. Bro. C. F. Barham W.M. presided, and was supported by Bros. G. T. Barr I.P.M., L. Stean P.M., E. Benjamin S.W., J. A. Jones J.W., Rev. H. G. Henderson Chaplain, C. Stevens Treasurer, J. Cox Secretary, A. A. Clement S.D., J. Funston J.D., E. Walker I.G., F. Matthews D.C., G. C. Young Organist, R. Drysdale and H. J. Thrower Stewards, C. T. Speight Tyler. In addition to about twenty members, there were the following visiting brethren:—Bros. Major John Dunbar 487, W. S. Gedge 228, G. J. Freeman 1613, W. H. Gimingham 1707, S. Smither 193, L. Dyer 1366, C. Steel 1365, E. P. Phillips 1017. The Lodge having been opened in the several degrees, Bros. Barratt and R. H. Drysdale were raised to the degree of M.M. Mr. Samuel Fennell, having been duly approved, was initiated into the mysteries of the Order. The ceremonies were admirably and impressively worked by the W.M. and his Officers. The distinguishing characteristic of Masonry was exemplified in the voting and raising of upwards of £20 for a brother who had met with misfortune. Some further business was also transacted, and the Lodge was adjourned till October. After an excellent banquet, the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were duly honoured, and several of the speeches referred to the advantages of the Craft both in England and when travelling in all parts of the world, one of the visitors having been a member of a Lodge during the Crimean war, and since that time in India, Malta, Corfu, and other places. The evening was a pleasant one in all its stages.

Duke of Cornwall Lodge, No. 1839.—The regular meeting of this new Lodge was held on the 9th instant, at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street. Bros T. C. Corpe W.M., Dr. W. G. Bott S.W., Smith J.W., J. W. Dewsnap Treasurer, J. W. Brooke I.P.M. Sec., J. C. Wilkins J.D., Smith sen. D.C., Captain Farse W.S. Visitors—A. C. Payne 192, Cattermole 1808, and H. M. Levy P.M. 188. Lodge was opened, and the minutes of the emergency meeting, and the regular Lodge were read and confirmed. Bros. H. S. Trego, F. Gent, and J. Da Silva were passed to the second degree. A ballot was taken for Mr. A. T. Baschinski, and was unanimously in his favour. This gentleman was then duly initiated into the Order. The W.M. rendered the ceremonies most perfectly. The charge in the first degree, so seldom given, was listened to by the brethren and Visitors with great attention. The election for W.M. then took place, and Bro. Dr. W. G. Bott was unanimously chosen. The W.M. complimented him as one of the founders on having been elected; the members were satisfied that he was competent to carry out the duties. A suitable reply having been given by the W.M. elect, Bro. Dewsnap was unanimously re-elected Treasurer, and Bro. Goddard P.M. Tyler. Bros. Cattermole, Marais, and Watts were appointed Auditors. The S.W. proposed that the sum of ten guineas be voted from the funds of the Lodge for the purpose of presenting the W.M. with a P.M.'s jewel, for the able and efficient manner in which he had carried out the duties of the chair. The Secretary announced that, by permission of the Grand Secretary, the night of meeting had been changed from the last Thursday in the month to the second Saturday. The resignation of a brother was accepted. It was then announced that the brethren intended to form a Chapter in connection with the Lodge, and a motion to that effect was given and carried unanimously. Lodge was closed until the second Saturday in September. The brethren afterwards sat down to a substantial repast, provided by Bro. A. Best, and superintended by Bro. Dawkins. The usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were given. Bro. Brooke I.P.M. rose: This was the last time he should have the pleasure of proposing the health of the W.M., who, in surrendering the reins of government, might feel proud to know that the members thought no Master of a Lodge could have done his duties better. The W.M. thanked Bro. Brooke for his kind expressions, and the enthusiastic way the brethren had responded; in resigning the gavel to his successor, he felt sure Bro. Dr. Bott would fully carry out the duties required of him. Personally it was a source of great pleasure to know the members were satisfied. His only regret was that he had to leave the chair; however, he would always be with them, heart and soul. The toast of the Initiate was next given, the W.M. expressing a hope that Bro. Baschinski would never regret this, his first night in Freemasonry. After this compliment had been acknowledged, the W.M. proposed the health of the I.P.M. For the Visitors Bros. Payne, H. M. Levy and Cattermole replied; the latter brother intimating his wish to become a joining member. The Officers received their meed of praise, and in due course the Tyler gave the parting toast. Bros. Trego, Mus. Bac., Smith, R.A.M., Marcus, Cattermole, Gaspeg, and Gent contributed to the harmony of the evening.

THE ATTENDANCE OF PAST MASTERS.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Your correspondent signing himself "E. VAN DONOP" has taken a great liberty in writing you upon the absence of the Past Masters from the Sir Hugh Myddelton Lodge, No. 1612, on the occasion of the last meeting. I charge him with this for the following reasons:—

1st. His knowledge comes from a report.

2nd. His general information is obtained from members, some of whom he knows, &c.

3rd. He hears this is not the first time they have been away, &c. I should like to know what business it is of "E. VAN DONOP'S?" According to his own showing, he has no further interest in the Lodge than "knowing some of its members." Is he one of those pests of society, particularly Freemasonry, who neglects his own business to meddle with the affairs of others?

If he is in a position to gain so much information from his friends as he represents, he would have heard I was ill and confined to my house; that Bro. Coombes was kindly attending to my business; that Bro. Rowley lives at Brighton, and Bro. Somers was unable to attend owing to some important engagement.

The letter addressed to you would lead to the inference that the Past Masters were frequently absent. So far as my knowledge goes, this is the first occasion since the Lodge was founded.

I hope, after this explanation, your correspondent will be good enough to mind his own business, and not take upon himself the questionable honour of blazing forth the shortcomings of others.

Yours fraternally,

EDWARD G. SIMS.

Queen Victoria-street, E.C.

FREEMASONRY IN SURREY.

To the Editor of the WALLINGTON AND CARSHALTON HERALD.

SIR,—I read with considerable pleasure your report of the consecration of the Wallington Lodge, which gave a very full and lucid statement of the meeting, setting forth the character of the institution and the kindliness of its teaching. I, as one living in Epsom, cannot but envy Wallington in being able to start so admirable a society, and I sincerely wish them success.

I observed in your paper some short time since that we were likely to have a Lodge opened in this town, and have been anxiously waiting to hear further particulars concerning it. I trust that the idea is not abandoned, and that before long we shall vie with our neighbour Wallington, and be able to start a good Lodge. I for one look for great and good things that will, I am sure, arise from such a beneficent society, as I feel sure that it would tend to unite and bring together many who would not otherwise meet, and by so doing contribute greatly to the progress and welfare of our town.

Yours truly,

Epsom, 31st March. EPSOMITE.

DEATH.

PLUMRIDGE.—On Sunday, 13th March 1881, in his 41st year, Brother JAMES THOMAS PLUMRIDGE, of the Southwark Lodge, No. 879.

GRAND CHAPTER OF PRINCE MASONS OF IRELAND.

THE Triennial Convocation of the Prince Masons of Ireland will be held at the Chapter Rooms, Freemasons' Hall, Dublin, on Friday, the 22nd April 1881, at six o'clock p.m. The Hon. Judge Townshend, LL.D., President of the Order, will preside. A report as to the progress and present position of the Order in Ireland will be presented to Grand Chapter. The banquet will take place at seven o'clock. All duly vouched members of the Rose Croix Degree are admissible.

Several Installation Reports are unavoidably held over, notably those of the St. Marylebone, Dalhousie, and Polish National Lodges.

A MASONIC PATRIARCH.—Bro. John Wiggington, the oldest Freemason in England, died on Friday last, at the age of ninety-one. Initiated in 1818, in the Etonian Lodge, No. 209, he soon attained the rank of P.M., and was the father of the Windsor Castle Lodge, No. 771, in which also he passed the chair. On his jubilee of Masonry he resigned the Treasurership of the latter Lodge—having held it for thirty years—and was presented with a magnificent jewel and illuminated address. Past Grand Senior Warden for Berkshire, he was closely identified with all Masonic works, and greatly assisted in the establishing of the Masonic Hall at Windsor, continuing his connection with Masonry to the last. He was also the oldest Companion in the Royal Arch. He was to have been interred at Eton on Thursday.

LODGE HISTORIES.

JOPPA LODGE, No. 188.

Early in January 1843, Bro. Moses Levy was duly installed Worshipful Master, in the presence of a Board of Installed Masters, among whom was the late Bro. Alex. Dobie P.G.J.D. and President of the Board of General Purposes. Bro. Lazarus was re-appointed to the office of Secretary, and later in the evening was presented with a silver Tea Service, in accordance with the recommendation of the Audit Committee passed the month previous. The teapot bore the following inscription:—

"Presented to Bro. S. M. Lazarus by the members of the Lodge of Joppa, No. 223, in testimony of their Fraternal regard and esteem, for the indefatigable zeal and exertion he has manifested on all Masonic occasions as their Honorary Secretary for five successive years. 4th January 1843."

The report of the Audit Committee showed a balance in hand amounting to £28. At the March meeting, on the proposition of Bro. A. Benjamin P.M., seconded by Bro. D. Moses, it was resolved that the Lodge do take some measures for purchasing a Life-Governorship to the Boys' School. At the meeting on the 1st May, announcement was made in open Lodge of the death of H.R.H. the Duke of Sussex, and the following entry, expressing the deep feeling of regret experienced by the Lodge at the melancholy event, was ordered to be made in the minutes:—

"His Royal Highness Prince Augustus Frederick was initiated into the mysteries of our Order, in the Royal York Lodge at Berlin in the year 1798, and on the 12th February 1812 was appointed Deputy Grand Master by His Royal Highness the Prince Regent, then Grand Master.

"On the 7th day of April 1813 His Royal Highness, then Duke of Sussex, was elected Most Worshipful Grand Master of the Grand Lodge"—a few months later to the "United" Grand Lodge—"of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons of England, to the great delight of all the Craft, and that His Royal Highness continued to fill that important office until the period of his decease, with unparalleled zeal, and with great advantage and satisfaction to the Order, and that His Royal Highness had thereby gained the sincere regard and fraternal affection of all the Brethren, until it pleased the Great Disposer of Events to remove His Royal Highness our Most Worshipful Grand Master from this Terrestrial Lodge, and we hope, to the Grand Celestial Lodge above: which melancholy event took place at Kensington Palace on Friday, the 21st day of April 1843, at a quarter past 12 o'clock a.m., to the great regret of all the Fraternity.

"Resolved unanimously—

"That the decease of His Royal Highness Prince Augustus Frederick, Duke of Sussex, Knight of the Most Noble Order of the Garter, Earl of Inverness, Baron of Arklow, &c., &c., &c., Most Worshipful Grand Master, having caused the deepest grief, not only to the Craft in general, but to every Lodge in particular,

"This Lodge therefore feels itself called upon to testify their high respect for the eminent services, great talent, and unwearied exertions of their illustrious Grand Master during a period of thirty years, and to record on their minutes the expression of their veneration for his sacred memory.

"1st May 1843."

We may remark in passing that we have taken the liberty of slightly altering the description given at the outset. The words in the original state that on 7th April 1813, H.R.H. was appointed G. Master of the "United Grand Lodge," but there was no "United Grand Lodge" till December of that year. We think our friends of the Joppa will, under these circumstances, excuse the emendation.

But the entry of this minute in the Lodge Records was not the only mode adopted by the Lodge in order to show the respect in which they held the memory of their late chief. An emergency meeting was held on the 4th May—the day appointed for the obsequies of the illustrious Duke—in which the Lodge of Israel joined, when was held a Masonic funeral service in honour of the deceased. Everything was done to make the ceremony as solemn and impressive as possible. The Lodge was covered with black cloth, the furniture with black velvet; there were additional wax lights, the floor was strewn with flowers, and each brother carried a sprig of acacia. Bro. S. M. Lazarus acted as W. Master, Bro. Moses Levy, W.M. No. 223, as S.W., and Bro. Harris Barnett, No. 247—now Israel, No. 205—as J.W. Bro. J. L. Lyon delivered a most eloquent and appropriate oration, which was most reverently listened to by those brethren.

Very little else of moment happened during the year. In November a resolution was passed to the effect that a return be made of the number of initiates during the past seven years, the number and the name of the W. Master in each year being specified; but, as it turned out on inquiry that such a motion was contrary to the Constitutions, it was by permission withdrawn at the next meeting. In December Bro. Carstatt was elected W.M. for the ensuing year, Bro. David Moses being for the thirty-fourth time re-elected Treas., while Bro. Isaacs was re-appointed Tyler. The same month a further attempt appears to have been made to have the Lodge-quarters removed from the George and Vulture, but when it came to a vote, the motion was unsuccessful. In January 1844, Bro. Carstatt was installed, and at the next meeting votes of thanks were unanimously passed to Bro. Moses Levy, his predecessor, as well as to Bros. Daniel and Woolf, who occupied the chair in the years 1841 and 1842 respectively. At the same Lodge a motion, which Bro. Lazarus had some time previously given notice of, namely, that each member contribute an additional sixpence per quarter to what he already paid for Masonic charity, was carried unanimously. In April of this year, there is a singular entry, singular in this respect, that a brother is at the trouble of sending in a letter of resignation, while in a footnote it is stated that the brother in question withdrew his resignation, and remained a subscribing member. In the May minutes is entered an address of congratulation to the late Earl of Zetland on his appointment to the office of Most Worshipful Grand Master in succession to the late lamented Duke of Sussex. It may be said, indeed, that though the minutes of Joppa are not complete, nor anything in the way of models of what minutes should be, they nevertheless record very fully whatever of consequence happened during the period to which they relate. We have already seen this in the full and circumstantial record referring to the death of the Duke of Sussex, and here, within the brief period of a few months, is a second and almost equally prominent instance. But to return to this address to the late Earl of Zetland, which is as follows:—

"To the Right Honourable the Earl of Zetland, Most Worshipful Grand Master of the United Grand Lodge of England.

"May it please your Lordship,

"We, the Master, Past Masters, Wardens, Officers, and members of the Lodge of Joppa, No. 223, embrace the earliest opportunity of congratulating your Lordship on your accession to the chair of the United Grand Lodge of England.

"The house of Dundas has been for many years closely allied to the Craft, which has derived great advantages from its attachment to the Order.

"The many virtues of your late revered Father are well known and remembered by the Craft, and leave no doubt that they have descended to your Lordship.

"May the Great Architect of the Universe grant your Lordship health and length of days to preside over the Craft!

"Done in open Lodge at the George and Vulture Tavern, Cornhill, this 6th day of May, 1844.

(Signed) S. M. Lazarus
Secretary.

An answer to this address was received in due course, and ordered to be recorded on the minutes, but the space it should have occupied is left vacant.

In June, the petitions of the widows of two brethren for recommendation to the Lodge of Benevolence were rejected, one on account of some informality, and the other because it was beyond the date allowed by the Constitutions.

In September a letter of condolence with Bro. S. M. Levi was addressed to him on the death of his affianced bride, and ordered to be recorded on the minutes. This letter of condolence was duly acknowledged. In December, Bros. Carstatt, David Moses, and Isaacs were re-elected W. Master, Treasurer, and Tyler respectively. We are not surprised that the first-named brother should have been re-chosen. During his term of office the number of initiates and joining members was very considerable, more so, indeed, than in any single year in the history of those Lodges whose minutes we have been privileged to examine. Moreover, the re-installation of Bro. Carstatt was made additionally prominent, the usual dinner being dispensed with, and a ball and supper substituted. At the meeting held the following month, a Committee, consisting of the W. Master, Past Masters, and Officers of the Lodge, was appointed for the purpose of revising the Lodge Bye-Laws. We also gather from a corrected statement of accounts that the balance in favour of the Lodge for the present month amounted to £38 12s 1d. In April, a resolution was unanimously passed to the effect that £5 be paid to the "Royal Masonic Annuitant Fund," in order to purchase a Life Governorship for fifteen years. In June it was arranged that the Lodge should adjourn till the month of September, the members to pay only half dues in the meantime. At a meeting on the 29th September, a complaint was submitted by Bro. F. I. Behrend, from Berlin, to the effect that he had been refused admission into the Royal York Lodge at Berlin, on the 19th May preceding, on the sole ground of his being of the Hebrew persuasion, and in accordance with his request a letter giving the requisite particulars was addressed to the Board of General Purposes in the following terms:—

"To the Worshipful the President, Vice-Presidents, and members of the Board of General Purposes,

"W. Sirs and Brethren,

"A complaint having been preferred by Bro. F. I. Behrend to the Lodge of Joppa, No. 223, in which he was initiated a member, against the Royal York Lodge at Berlin, for refusing him admittance into their Lodge on the 19th day of May 1845, solely on the grounds of his being of the Jewish religion, such being contrary to the principles of the Order, the Lodge of Joppa on the 29th September instant having taken the subject into their consideration, resolved unanimously to support and forward such complaint, which they hereby do, with all the original documents and translations to the Board of General Purposes, considering it a matter which deserves their serious consideration, more particularly as there is an exchange of representatives with the Grand Lodge of England and the Royal York Lodge at Berlin. Without entering at any length on the subject, as the enclosed documents will fully explain the nature thereof, date, and circumstances connected with it, the Lodge of Joppa sincerely hope the Board will give it such attention as a matter of so much importance requires, and will take such steps as will at once remove the barrier between Brother and Brother, and restore that fraternal feeling and bond of friendship which are cultivated throughout the Universe by Brethren of every creed, sect, and opinion.

"Done by Order of the Lodge,

S. LAZARUS Sec.

29th September 1845."

This letter appears to have been referred by the Board to the Earl of Zetland M.W.G.M., and his Lordship must have taken steps to remonstrate with the Royal York Lodge, for in the minutes of the 29th December is a letter addressed to the Grand Master, sincerely and gratefully thanking him for the manner in which he "introduced the subject to Grand Lodge, and the effective measures which" his Lordship intended "taking with the hope of relieving" Jewish brethren "from their present privation of participating in the privileges of the Order."

This letter was read at an emergency meeting, the chief business of the regular meeting having been, as usual, the election of W. Master, Treasurer, and Tyler, the choice of the Lodge falling upon Bros. Abrahams, David Moses, and Isaacs respectively. On the same occasion it was resolved that, in recognition of his valuable services as W. Master of the Lodge during his two years of office, Bro. Carstatt should be presented with a Past Master's jewel of the value of ten guineas. In January 1846, Bro. Abrahams was installed in the presence of fourteen installed Masters, among whom was the late Bro. T. H. Hall, Grand Registrar, Prov. G. Master of Cambridgeshire, and Bro. Carstatt subsequently received his jewel, which was set with diamonds, and bore the inscription, "Presented by the members of the Lodge of Joppa, No. 223, to Bro. N. Carstatt, for his efficient and valuable services as W. Master for the years 1844 and 1845. 7th January 1846." Such a testimonial was never more fully deserved. We have already noted that the number of initiates and joining members during his first year of office was very considerable. His second year was equally successful in this respect, while as regards the Funds of the Lodge, they were in a most satisfactory state when he vacated the chair in favour of Bro. Abrahams, the balance to the credit of the Lodge being over £80. As a matter of course, the installation was followed by the investiture of the Officers, but no brother was appointed and invested Secretary, though during the period we have been considering, that officer was entitled to the membership and an annual honorarium of £6. We are not in a position to say if Bro. Lazarus was of opinion that this was too modest a recognition of his services, or if the Lodge so held in consequence of the increase in the numerical strength of the Lodge. At all events, the Lodge Committee of General Purposes submitted a report on the subject of the Lodge being without a Secretary, and at the March meeting that office was tendered to Bro. S. M. Lazarus, in consideration of his receiving for his services the sum of £10. Nothing requiring any special notice appears to have happened during Bro. Abrahams' term of office. The number of initiates and joining members was in keeping with the steady increase of the past few years, and when Bro. Abrahams laid down the reins of office to his successor, Bro. Canner, he had the satisfaction of knowing that during his rule the Lodge had prospered both as regards numbers and finances, the net balance at the end of 1846 being, as per Auditors' report, £80. In such circumstances the unanimous vote of the Lodge that he should be presented with a Past Master's jewel of the value of ten guineas was something more than a graceful compliment to his efficiency in the chair; it was a just acknowledgment of such efficiency.

At the installation of Bro. Canner, there were present R.W. Bro. Henry Shute Prov. G. Master of Bristol, and W. H. White Grand Secretary, and when the ceremony was over and the Officers for the year appointed and invested, Bro. Abrahams received his testimonial, and later on in the evening presented to the Lodge a new set of gavels. In the minutes of the meeting of the 1st February 1847, is noted the very rare occurrence of a candidate for initiation being rejected. In those of the 29th March we are informed that a letter was read from the Prov. G. Lodge of Essex, accompanied by an application from Bro. Rowland Alston P.G.M., on behalf of the nine orphan children of the late Rev. F. T. Hewlett Prov. Grand Chaplain, and in response a sum of two guineas was voted by the Lodge. In June, a Portsmouth brother who had attained the great age of eighty-eight years and was in great distress was relieved to the extent of a guinea out of the Lodge funds, while a subscription among the members resulted in the raising of a further sum of one guinea and a half. At the December meeting Bro. J. Nathan was elected W.M. for the ensuing year by the narrow majority of one vote over his rival candidate Bro. B. Moss; Bros. D. Moses and Isaacs being re-elected Treasurer and Tyler respectively. Bro. Canner was voted a Past Master's jewel, and from the record of the meeting of the Audit Committee held later in the month, it seems there remained to be carried forward to the year 1848, the good balance of within a fraction of £83. It further transpired on this same occasion that the Treasurer had paid for the last P.M.'s jewel voted £3 10s more than he had received, owing to sundry brethren who had promised subscriptions never having paid them. The Committee therefore suggested that the Treasurer should be re-imbursed the amount out of the Lodge funds.

During Bro. Nathan's year of office we find more than one case of the initiation of a minor, the necessary dispensation from the Grand Master having been first duly received and ordered to be entered on the minutes. In March 1848, a brother who had resigned his membership thirty-three years previously, and in the interim had not subscribed to any other Lodge, presented a petition for the purpose of having it recommended to the Lodge of Benevolence. The Lodge, however, did not think it merited their favourable consideration, though, under the circumstances, they relieved him to the extent of £3; one-third from the Lodge funds and the rest by private subscription. In September, a motion was carried with a view to having the Bye Laws of the Lodge revised. The Committee of General Purposes were entrusted with the task of revising, and the amendments they suggested were subsequently approved of in open Lodge. Towards the close of the year certain attacks in the Freemason's Quarterly Review on Grand Master the Earl of Zetland, were reported to the Lodge, and at the election meeting in December—when, by the way, Bro. Henry Levy was elected by a small majority of votes to be W. Master for 1849—the following letter was agreed to be sent to his Lordship:—

"To the Right Honourable the Earl of Zetland, M.W. Grand Master of the United Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons of England.

M.W. Grand Master,

"We, the Master, P. Masters, Wardens, Officers, and members of the Lodge of Joppa, No. 223, have heard with the deepest regret that several articles have been published in a work entitled the Freemason's Quarterly Review and circulated throughout the Craft, which have a tendency to traduce your Lordship's exalted and distinguished position as our M.W. Grand Master, that obloquy has been measured out to your Lordship with no sparing hand, and that motions are constantly introduced whereby the business of Grand Lodge is greatly impeded and is calculated to injure our Order by causing a disunion and thereby weakening our bonds of fraternal affection, and likewise intended to deprive your Lordship of several of the ancient privileges hitherto possessed by our late illustrious Grand Masters.

"We beg to express our utter abhorrence of such proceedings, and to assure your Lordship that we shall deem it our bounden duty to support, uphold, and maintain, in all its pristine lustre, the dignity of the Grand Master of England, in whom we beg to express our entire confidence, and take leave most respectfully to renew, with additional attachment, our allegiance to your Lordship, and at the same time pledge ourselves to support you by every constitutional means, and endeavour to suppress those factions should they again appear in Grand Lodge.

"Done in open Lodge, held at the George and Vulture Tavern, Cornhill, in the City of London, the 4th day of December 1848. Signed on behalf of its members,

"J. NATHAN, Master.
"S. SELIG, S.W.
"H. LEVY, J.W.
"S. M. LAZARUS, Sec."

The hand of the average scholar is certainly not visible in the composition of the foregoing letter, but the hearty expressions of sympathy with the Grand Master are a credit to the worthy brethren of Joppa.

The installation meeting in January 1849 was a slightly tempestuous one as regards the opening, several brethren being under the impression it was opened before the hour fixed in the summons. However, the storm passed away, and the induction of Bro. Henry Levy into the chair passed off satisfactorily, among the more distinguished visitors present being Bro. R. G. Alston P.G.J. Warden. In the course of this year a nice question was raised as to whether a brother, having once tendered his resignation and had it accepted by the Lodge, could withdraw and resume his membership. The Grand Secretary ruled that this could not be done, but a way out of the difficulty was suggested by that official, who pointed out that the Lodge might refuse to confirm so much of the minutes as related to the acceptance by it of a member's resignation. Otherwise a brother who had resigned must, in the event of his desiring to renew his membership, undergo the usual ordeal of the ballot. In May, it was agreed to contribute a sum not exceeding five guineas towards the fund then being raised with a view of presenting a testimonial to Bro. W. H. White Grand Secretary, and it was resolved that the Worshipful Master should represent the Lodge on the Testimonial Committee. In September, in consequence of the very satisfactory state of the Lodge funds, it was agreed, on the representation of the Audit Committee, to purchase some new furniture and repair some of what it already possessed. In November, a resolution was unanimously adopted "to establish a Fund for the Relief of Aged and Decayed Members of this Lodge, their widows or orphans," the arrangement of Laws and Regulations for such Fund being entrusted to the Committee of General Purposes. We have already noted several instances of the generosity with which the Lodge assisted such brethren as were in distress, and the establishment of such a Fund reflects even greater credit, if possible, on the members. These Laws were submitted and approved at a special meeting held on 1st December, the Fund itself being started with £20 presented by the Lodge, together with donations, &c., by individual members. This proved the nucleus, while, as regards its maintenance, it was agreed that each member should subscribe sixpence a month, and that the Lodge should give out of its funds from time to time, according to its ability. A special vote of thanks was passed to Bro. Carstatt P.M. for his exertions in establishing the Fund; a somewhat similar compliment being paid to the other brethren who had laboured to the same end. Two days after Bro. S. Selig was elected Worshipful Master for the ensuing year, Bros. D. Moses and Isaacs being re-chosen Treasurer and Tyler respectively, while a Past Master's jewel was voted to Bro. H. Levy, in recognition of his services as W.M. Prior to Bro Selig's installation, Bro. Levy presented to the Lodge a handsome poniard, while, after the installation, he received his jewel, set with diamonds, and Bro. Carstatt P.M. the illuminated vote of thanks accorded him for his labours in establishing the Lodge Benevolent Fund. The balance brought forward from the year 1842 was £110 16s 1d, but of this £20 had to be paid over to the Benevolent Fund, £20 for furniture, £36 to Grand Lodge, and £5 to the White Testimonial; so that the net balance was under £30, or, with money due to the Lodge, about £40. In March 1850 the Treasurer reported that he had purchased stock, in the name of the Benevolent Fund, to the amount of £69 16s 6d. In the same month, however, a strict inquiry took place into the Lodge accounts, and from this it appears that, having regard to the assets and liabilities, there was, in fact, a small balance against the Lodge, and the Committee of General Purposes recommended in their report the adoption of certain steps by which it was anticipated the finances would be straight again. These recommendations were adopted, with the result that in a very short time the Lodge had a considerable sum to its credit.

COMMITTEE MEETING OF THE BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION.

THE Committee of this Institution met on Wednesday, 13th inst., at Freemasons' Hall, Bro. John Constable in the chair. Bro. Terry, Secretary, reported the death of one female and four male annuitants, the total amounts they had received being £1,400. Bro. Terry also read the Finance Committee's Report, which showed that over £14,300 was realised at the late Festival, the largest sum derived from one Festival in the annals of the Institution. £9,057 had been collected since the Festival. Up to the 31st March there was a balance, after all annuities and expenses had been defrayed, of over £8,100. The Finance Committee recommended the investment of £1,500 on the Male Fund, and £1,500 on the Female Fund, in Three per Cent. Reduced. The Committee also recommended the presentation to Bro. James Terry of one hundred guineas, in recognition of his successful exertions on behalf of the Institution at the late Festival. The recommendations of the Finance Committee were adopted, Bros. Col. Creaton, J. A. Farnfield and William Hale were appointed the Committee to draw up the annual report. Bro. Terry read a letter from Bro. Curteis, stating that the Province of Devon wished to commemorate the services of the late Rev. J. Huyshe Prov. G.M., and asking what sum would be required to purchase a perpetual presentation of an annuitant to the Institution. After some discussion, in which Bros. J. G. Stevens, J. A. Farnfield, William Stephens, J. M. Case, James Brett, R. H. Giraud, Raynham W. Stuart, J. H. Leggott, C. G. Dilley, and C. J. Perceval took part, the Committee decided that the reply to be given should be such a sum as would produce £40 per annum in the Funds. On the motion of Bro. Raynham W. Stewart, seconded by Bro. Henry Smith Prov. G. S. West Yorkshire, it was resolved "That the House Committee be instructed to obtain an estimate for the enlargement of the present hall (at the Institution at Croydon) and providing proper accommodation for the same." Whytehead, in proposing the candidate, took occasion to explain the system of Masonic degrees in Blue Masonry in England and on the Continent, and alluded to the origin of speculative Masonry as it exists at the present day, urging on the brethren that they should make as much use as possible of the Lodge library, which already embraced a numerous selection of useful and standard works on Masonry, the perusal of which could not fail to increase in their minds the interest which they already felt in the Craft.

The Lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes of the meetings held on 17th and 31st March were read, confirmed, and signed. Lodge was opened in the second degree. Bro. Coop, it was agreed that Bye-law No. 1 be suspended until the last Thursday in May, and that the Lodge meet weekly until that time, except on Thursday next, the 14th inst. Lodge was closed in due form, and the meeting adjourned to Thursday, 21st April.

FREEMAN'S CHLORODYNE.

The Original and only true.

HUNDREDS of Medical Practitioners testify to its marvellous efficacy in immediately relieving and rapidly curing Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Neuralgia, Spasms, Colic, Whooping Cough, and all Nerve Pains. It acts like a charm in Diarrhœa, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery. It rapidly relieves pain, from whatever cause, soothes and strengthens the system under exhausting diseases, and gives quiet and refreshing sleep.

Lord Chancellor Selborne, Lord Justice James, Lord Justice Mellish decided in favour of FREEMAN'S ORIGINAL CHLORODYNE, and against Brown and Davenport, compelling them to pay all costs in the suits. See Times of July 24th, 1873. Bottles 1s 1½d, 2s 9d, 4s 6d, 11s, and 22s. Sold by all Chemists.

TESTIMONIALS.—Head Quarter Staff, Cabul, May 31st, 1880. Mr. R. Freeman, Dear Sir,—It is with much pleasure I am able to state that your Chlorodyne has been of special service to me in alleviating the worst-case spasms of Asthma, which is here existent in an aggravated form. Many of my patients now come and beg me to give them that medicine which always relieves them, and which I need hardly say is your Chlorodyne. Yours faithfully, CHARLES W. OWEN, L.R.C.P. Lon., M.R.C.S. Eng., the Divisional Head Quarter Staff and Civil Surgeon, Cabul.

The Times, August 13th, 1877. From our own Correspondent with the Russian Army. Okoum, July 25th, 1877. The want of sanitary arrangements in the Russian Camp was dreadful, and had we remained there a few weeks longer, dysentery and typhoid fever would have played more havoc in our ranks than the bombs of the Turks. I myself acquired an enviable reputation as a doctor, owing to my being provided with a small bottle of CHLORODYNE, with which I effected miraculous cures.

"We have companies for all sorts of things: why do not some philanthropic gentlemen start an association for lending money to embarrassed traders and housekeepers at ten per cent. interest? There are a number of people now getting three per cent. for their money in Consols who would be glad to invest it in an enterprise in which, if properly managed, there would be no risk whatever, and a certainty of earning eight or nine per cent. profit. Properly managed, such an association, worked on a large scale, would be an immense boon to people struggling with temporary difficulties, and would pay a handsome return to those who invested their money in Shares."

THE GRAND FESTIVAL.

THIS day (Saturday) being St. George's Day, the Annual Grand Festival of the United Grand Lodge of England will be held, in accordance with the Constitutions, on Wednesday. At the meeting of Grand Lodge, the G. Officers for the year will be appointed and invested with the insignia of their respective offices, and afterwards the brethren will dine together, in accordance with the time-honoured custom which prevails in this country in conection with everything that possesses or may be supposed to possess even a small modicum of public interest, of consummating the work of the day by a gathering at the festive board. Everything will be done to give honour to the event, and in accordance with a very proper rule, there will be a complete absence of Lodge meetings in the metropolitan district. One Grand Festival, however, is so much like another, that to say anything new in connection with it is well-nigh impossible. Were there any reason to suppose that His Royal Highness the Grand Master would preside in person, there is no doubt the meeting would be on a larger scale than usual; but having regard to the fact of the Court being in mourning for the late Emperor of all the Russias, there is little likelihood of His Royal Highness being present. Indeed, the number and variety of the Prince's engagements make it extremely difficult for him to appear often in his place in Grand Lodge. Naturally the Craft would be intensely gratified if he were able to preside more frequently, but they know that his interest in all that relates to Freemasonry is very considerable. Nothing of importance is done until it has been submitted for, and received, his sanction. Not a few Grand Masters have thought they conferred sufficient honour on the Craft by nominally presiding over its destinies and discharging their duties by deputy. But the Prince of Wales has no such lax ideas as to the position he occupies in Freemasonry. He is aware that, if the Grand Lodge is honoured by having him, the heir apparent to the British crown, for its chief, he, too, is equally honoured by being annually re-elected Grand Master of the oldest and most splendid Masonic jurisdiction the world has ever known. Hence, though it cannot be doubted the Craft would rejoice at seeing him more frequently present at the Communications of Grand Lodge, they are perfectly satisfied that in his hands the honour and well-being of Freemasonry are in safe keeping.

But if we cannot say much that is new in connection with the Grand Festival, it offers a convenient opportunity for glancing at the events of the past six years. His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales accepted the G. Mastership of the United Grand Lodge of England in September 1874, but it was not till the month of April of the following year that he was formally installed into office by the Earl of Carnarvon in the presence of the largest, as it was also the most brilliant, gathering of Freemasons ever held in this country. However, the events of that memorable day when our Grand Master was installed in the Royal Albert Hall, Kensington, in the presence of between 8000 and 10,000 brethren, are too fresh in the recollection of our readers to need they should be recounted in these columns. Let us rather note what has since happened—the progress that has been made, the good that has been done in English Masonry since Albert Edward, Prince of Wales, was first saluted and proclaimed Grand Master. A mere recital of what has taken place during the brief period of his Grand Mastership will serve to show that English Freemasons have reason to be thankful at their choice of a ruler.

Mere increase in the number of Lodges and members does not necessarily indicate a commensurate increase in strength; but we are justified in assuming that in this respect the progress made by Freemasonry in the last half dozen years has been in the main satisfactory. Without, then, laying too great stress on numerical increase, we note with some degree of pleasure that sixty-six new Lodges were constituted in 1875. The year following the increase was even greater, the number of Lodges for which warrants were granted being sixty-nine, while in 1877 no less than seventy-three Lodges received warrants of constitution. It was hardly, however, to be expected, or even desired, that so rapid a rate of progress should be maintained; and in 1878 there was visible a slight falling off, only sixty-five Lodges being added to the roll of Grand Lodge. In 1879 this diminution was maintained, and but fifty-three warrants were granted; while in 1880, up to the time when the Grand Lodge Calendar was published, but thirty-three warrants were issued. Thus, in the six years under consideration, no less than 359 new Lodges have been added to the roll of Grand Lodge. London, the Provinces, and Districts abroad have had each their share in the increase; but what is most gratifying is, that the Provinces and Districts have benefited most largely, only about one-fourth of the whole 360 being located in the Metropolitan area. It is, indeed, this very fact of the bulk of the new Lodges being established in the country and the colonies and possessions of the British Crown, that impresses us most favourably with the belief that, in this respect, Freemasonry has acquired a real and substantial accession of strength. Especially satisfactory is it to note the creation of so many new Lodges abroad—in India, in South Africa, and in our Australasian Colonies; and we think it was a wise policy which has confined, for the time at least, the issue of fresh warrants for Lodges to the Provinces and foreign Districts. A further increase in the number of our Metropolitan Lodges is unnecessary for the present.

We have said that the Grand Master is not as often present in Grand Lodge as the brethren would like to see, and that we know this is due, not to his lack of interest in the Craft, but to the heavy demands that are being made upon his time—demands which it must severely tax even the amazing energy of His Royal Highness to satisfy. But if he has only twice appeared in Grand Lodge since his Installation—once at an Especial Communication, when he appointed and invested Lieut.-Colonel Shadwell H. Clerke as Grand Secretary, and once when his brother-in-law, the Crown Prince of Denmark, honoured Grand Lodge with a visit—there are several occasions on which he has taken part in the work of Masonry. Thus, in his capacity of patron of the Grand Lodge of Scotland he laid the foundation stone of the new Post Office at Glasgow. On his way to India he performed a similar function in respect of the new Market at Gibraltar, and one of the earliest of his public acts, on arriving in India, was the laying of the foundation stone of the new Docks at Bombay. Since then he has installed Lord Suffield, K.C.B., as Provincial Grand Master of Norfolk, and laid the corner stones of Truro Cathedral, the last occasion on which he has shown his interest in Masonry being his visit to, and entertainment by, the Grand Master's Lodge, No. 1, which met for the occasion at the Mansion House, in the Mayoralty of Sir Francis Truscott, Grand J. Warden of England. Thus in the six years he has been Grand Master there are nearly a dozen occasions on which he has taken an active part in some more or less important Masonic function, and he himself has told us that in the course of these years the number of Grand Lodge Certificates which have emanated from the office of the Grand Secretary has averaged about 10,000 annually. We know, too, how wonderful has been the increase in the support of our several Institutions—from, in round figures, about £26,000 or £27,000 at the Festivals in 1875 to very considerably over £40,000 at those of last year. Let us hope that in the year which commences from Wednesday, and in all succeeding years, the picture we may be privileged to draw of the progress and position may be as satisfactory. We may be sure it will not be the fault of the Prince of Wales, the M.W. Grand Master of the United Grand Lodge of England, if it does not maintain, and even strengthen, its present proud position, and the respect in which it is almost universally held, not only in the United Kingdom, but among all civilized countries.

THE CHESHIRE EDUCATIONAL MASONIC INSTITUTION.

WE beg to acknowledge, with thanks, a copy of the "Eighteenth Report of the Cheshire Educational Masonic Institution for the Education and advancement in life of the children of Distressed and Deceased Freemasons, for the year 1880." This is one of the most useful among the many similar institutions existing in the Provinces. The good that it does is very considerable, and must have the effect of lessening very appreciably the demands on our two central schools, so far as, at least, Cheshire itself is concerned. It was founded in the year 1863, and during the whole of its career has been managed with a due regard to economy, and in a manner which reflects the greatest credit on the executive. This year, however, the report is not quite so favourable as usual. The Committee state that "heretofore they have always had a surplus of receipts over expenditure, but this year the contrary is the case." A first glance at the statement of account hardly bears this out, for there are two small balances, one in a local bank, and the other in the Treasurer's hands; but this apparent discrepancy admits of satisfactory explanation. It is an important element in the Constitution of the Society, "that the expenditure shall only consist of the revenue derived from investments originated by subscriptions and donations, which are considered as Capital." Hence, on examining the account more minutely, it will be found that, while the revenue derived from investments amounts to £159 6s 11d, the expenditure for printing, &c., the education of seventeen children, and the advancement of two, as well as for stationery and other incidental outlay for the year is in all £173 10s 3d, of which £124 2s 2d was for education, and £10 10s for advancement. Under these circumstances, and especially as there are seven candidates for education, as against two whose names will be removed from the list, there is strong reason for the urgency of the Committee's appeal to "some active Mason to take up the cause, and originate an entertainment of such a nature as will rehabilitate the funds, and put the Committee in good spirits." The point indicated by the Committee is indisputable, "that an immense amount of moral, as well as intellectual good is done" by the Cheshire Educational Masonic Institution, and it must be very gratifying to them to be in a position to state that "the reports furnished by the masters and mistresses of the various scholars are really heart-cheering." Turn we, however, without further preface, to the account for the past year, as exhibited by the Committee.

The balance brought forward from last year amounted to £292 1s 6d. Donations and subscriptions from Lord and Lady De Tabley, the Prov. Grand Mark Lodge, and the different Lodges and Chapters, and brethren, represent the very satisfactory total of £168 6s, while interest on investments is, as we have said, £159 6s 11d. Add to these the proceeds of two Mersey Dock Bonds, expired on 27th September last, amounting together to £350, and we have a total from all sources of £969 14s 5d. On the expenditure side, we find, as before mentioned, a total sum disbursed for advancement, education, printing, audit, stationery, &c., equal together to £173 10s 3d. Investments represent £782 13s 5d, and the balances are in all £10 10s 9d, which with another small item exactly equalises the two sides of the account. The present funds of the Institution, including bonds, mortgages, stock, and balances, are set down as £3880 17s, so that though the ordinary expenditure is in excess of the ordinary income, it cannot be said the Institution has not gained some additional strength in the course of the year. It has swelled its investments very appreciably, and has therefore proportionately increased its permanent income.

A few words may be added as to the qualifications and privileges of governors, and the qualifications of candidates. A subscription of five shillings constitutes him who makes it an annual Governor, with the privilege of one vote—every additional five shillings giving an additional vote—at the election of children, but not at that of Officers, or in respect of resolutions connected with the government of the Institution. Five guineas, in one or more payments within twelve months, or at two successive annual meetings, constitute the donor a Governor for life, with the privilege of one vote for each guinea. Twenty guineas, in one payment, or in two or more payments in two years, constitute him a Vice President; and a Lodge or Chapter making a donation of a similar amount at one time, or in the course of three years, becomes entitled to twenty votes during its existence, the same privileges extending to a subscribing Lodge as to an individual subscriber; while ministers of religion, who are Freemasons, and advocate the cause of the Institution, and have a collection made on its behalf become Governors for life, with the privilege of five votes. As to the eligibility of candidates, the father of an applicant must have been a subscribing member for at least three years to some Lodge or Lodges in Cheshire. He or she must be over seven and under fifteen years of age, except in the case of a child who has lost both its parents, when it may be admitted at six years. No one is to enjoy the benefits of the Institution after attaining to the age of sixteen. The candidates must have their names approved by the General Committee before being placed on the list. Certificates in support of these facts, as well as of health, must be furnished.

We have before described the nature and operations of this Institution; but we have been at the pains of doing so again, because the Committee are justifiably anxious for further support, and the work they have done and continue to do is so highly meritorious, that we think every Cheshire Mason, and many who are outside the Province, but take an interest in every good Masonic work, should give it their support. We trust that the next report may be as satisfactory as the most sanguine hopes of the Governors and Subscribers can possibly desire.

INTEGRITY LODGE, No. 163, MANCHESTER.

WE have great pleasure in noting certain particulars in connection with this Lodge as to its financial condition, and the support it so liberally gives to our Central and other Charities. The statement of accounts extends over a period of thirteen months ended 26th January 1881, and opens with a balance of £133 11s 5d, of which £100 represents the value of twenty Masonic Hall shares, the rest being cash in bank and treasurer's hands. The general body of receipts amounts to £335 19s, the principal items being for initiation and joining fees £134, and for subscriptions £178. Some small items in the shape of interest and dividends on Masonic Hall shares bring up the total of sums received to £341 8s 9d, making, with the balance brought forward, the very satisfactory total of £475 0s 2d. Per contra, we have the expenses of St. John's Festival, £36 11s 6d; stewards' account for teas and light refreshments, £76 2s 5d; for rent, stationery, postages, &c., £74 16s 8d; Grand Lodge and Provincial Grand Lodge Fees, &c., £35 6s; Benevolent Account, including to a lady, £20; to the three Masonic Charities as many small subscriptions, together with fifty guineas to the R.M. Benevolent Institution Male Fund, and twenty guineas to its Female Fund, with twenty guineas to the East Lancashire Systematic Masonic Educational and Benevolent Institution, the whole amounting to £122 6s. These different items taken together leave a balance to the good, including the aforesaid Masonic Hall shares and £10 15s 9d, the estimated value of spirits, wine, and cigars in stock, of £129 17s 7d.

Turning to the particulars of the Lodge's donations in aid of our Central and other Charities, we find that in the case of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, it has given £168 to the General Fund, and £84 to the Building Fund, together £252, for which it is entitled to seventy-four votes, which are thus apportioned: The W.M. is a Vice-Patron, with forty votes; and the I.P.M., S. Warden, and Treasurer Vice-Presidents, with fourteen, ten, and ten votes respectively; and there are four votes for the annual subscription of two guineas. To the Girls' School it has given £189, for which it receives thirty-three votes in perpetuity, the W.M. being a Vice-Patron, with twenty-three votes, and the I.P.M. Vice-President, with ten votes. There are also four additional votes for the annual subscription of two guineas. To the Male Fund of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution the Lodge has given £265 10s, for which it enjoys seventy-two votes in perpetuity, the W.M. and I.P.M. being Vice-Patrons, with thirty votes apiece, and the S. Warden a Vice-President, with twelve votes. The annual subscription of one guinea commands four votes. To the Female Fund it has given £223 10s, and is entitled to fifty-eight votes, the W.M. being a Vice-Patron, with thirty votes, and the Junior Warden and Treasurer Vice-Presidents, with eighteen and ten votes respectively. It has four votes for its annual guinea. To the Provincial Fund it has given £141, for which it receives 141 votes at every election. Thus Integrity has given to our Central Charities £930, for which it is entitled in perpetuity to 237 votes, irrespective of those it receives for its annual subscriptions of six guineas; and if we add the £141 it has given the local Masonic Institution, we arrive at the very handsome contribution to Masonic Charity of £1,071. It has also subscribed £57 15s, for which it receives annually one vote from December 1869, and ten votes annually from December 1876, to the Manchester Warehousemen and Clerks' Orphan Institution. There are whole Provinces in England which have not subscribed the half, or even the quarter, of what Integrity, No. 163, has subscribed to our Masonic Institutions. We shall abstain, therefore, from offering further comments on a glorious statement which speaks for itself more eloquently than any words of ours could do.

AGED MEMBERS OF THE CRAFT.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—You will, I know, be only too pleased to correct an error in last week's CHRONICLE as to the oldest Freemason in England. That title has been borne for some time past by Bro. Norris, Warden at the Royal Masonic Institution at Croydon, now in his ninety-second year, and none the worse for the severe illness of this last winter. Bro. Norris was initiated in 1812, whereas the late Bro. Wigginton was not admitted till six years after—viz., 1818.

Yours truly and fraternally,

H. J. STRONG, M.D.,

Hon. Surgeon to the Institution.

Northend, Croydon, 18th April 1881.

THE ATTENDANCE OF PAST MASTERS.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Bro. Sims is very angry about a very trivial matter. He has, so to speak, employed a Nasmyth hammer to crack a nut. He could not have been more violently emphatic in his language, if I had been so rude as to describe the Past Masters of the Sir Hugh Myddelton Lodge as a parcel of old women. I will not, however, imitate his example and work myself into a paroxysm of anger over his letter, which many a man would feel justified in describing as impertinent. I prefer having a good hearty laugh over it. I am quite willing to acknowledge that I derived my knowledge from the report which appeared in your columns a fortnight since. I plead guilty to the soft impeachment of knowing some of the members, and, though the information I received may have been incorrect, I certainly did hear that it was not the first time all the P.M.'s had been absent together. What there is in this to lead him to regard me as one of those pests of society who attend to everybody's business but their own, I fail to see. I suggested that it would be well, if possible, if one at least of the Past Masters might manage to be present, especially at so important a meeting as that of the election of the W. Master and Treasurer, and the suggestion was based on a report published in the columns of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE, which I think it will be generally admitted is a fair subject for independent comment. I added further, that from the manner in which the work was said to have been done, it was evident that the Past Masters must have done their duty famously. Why, then, this explosion of anger on the part of Bro. Sims, when there was nothing rude in my letter, and much that was complimentary to those it referred to? If I felt that my poor little innocent criticism had given offence, I should apologise forthwith, and so far as the absence of the Past Masters was unavoidable, I do so, of course, with a great deal of pleasure. But my criticism has this trifling merit, that it was based on an accurate report, and is itself accurate as regards the particular absence alluded to, while Bro. Sims is unable to speak, from his own knowledge, as to its never having happened on any previous occasion.

I remain, fraternally yours,

E. VAN DONOP.

London, 20th April 1881.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—With all due respect to Bro. Sims, I think your correspondent, Bro. "E. VAN DONOP" was justified in drawing attention to the absence of the Past Masters from the election meeting of the Sir Hugh Myddelton Lodge; nor do I think the severity of his strictures is warranted by the circumstances. Your correspondent spoke in terms of praise of the manner in which the different ceremonies were rehearsed, proving, as it did, that if the Past Masters were absent on the occasion referred to they had, at all events, been not unmindful of their duty. Moreover, your correspondent's remarks were legitimate enough, as they were grounded on a published report; and that, of course, is public property. However, what I wish to point out is that the present race of Past Masters appears to be under the impression that Freemasonry would die a natural death were it not for the services they render. They think they are above criticism, and are occasionally overbearing in their treatment of younger brethren. I respect them when, by the moderation of their demeanour, they prove to the Masonic world that they respect themselves. If they fail in this respect, they cannot expect their juniors to show them due consideration.

Faithfully and fraternally yours,

A MASTER MASON.

THE QUALIFICATIONS OF PRECEPTORS.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Perhaps some of your readers will kindly inform me if there is any qualification required in the case of a brother who is appointed Preceptor of a Lodge of Instruction. Or, to frame my question more clearly, Is a brother appointed to be the Preceptor of such a Lodge because he is desirous of filling the office, or because he is capable of filling it? We all know there are many Preceptors who would be all the better for a little instruction in English Grammar, and they would be in still better form if they exhibited now and then a small modicum of common sense. Perhaps, however, English Grammar and common sense are not deemed requisite qualifications in the Preceptor of a Lodge of Instruction. I shall be much obliged if you or some one of your readers will enlighten me on this point.

Fraternally yours,

ALPHA.

The growth of Masonry in the great West is evidenced by the fact, that a little over thirty-five years ago, nine brethren united to form the present Grand Lodge of Michigan, which now has a membership in its Lodges of twenty-six thousand brethren.—Keystone.

The death of the Earl of Beaconsfield, K.G., is a serious loss to the country. A Mason has nothing to do with politics—that is, of course, in his Masonic capacity; but he cannot be otherwise than interested in the well-being of his country, and we all know the well-being of the country depends, in great measure, on the ability and integrity of its statesmen. It may be truly said of the deceased Earl, that no man of his time achieved a grander measure of success than he did. By his own splendid talents he raised himself from the comparatively humble, though honourable, position of clerk to a firm of attorneys to be twice Prime Minister of Great Britain, and he passed away, in the fulness of years, an honoured Member of the hereditary House of Parliament, and a Knight of the most noble Order of the Garter. For over a quarter of a century he was the leader of the great Conservative party, yet his Liberal opponents were well-nigh as enthusiastic in their admiration of his brilliant abilities and patriotic conduct as his own supporters. No public man ever strove more arduously to win a place on the Roll of Honour than did the late Benjamin, first Earl of Beaconsfield and Viscount Hughenden, K.G.; and, be it added, for the edification of others, no one ever more fully deserved the honours that he won.

WHY SPRIGGINS DID NOT BECOME A FREEMASON.

SHOWING HOW WE PRESERVED THE INTEGRITY OF OUR EMINENTLY SELECT AND RESPECTABLE LITTLE LODGE.

BY BRO. F. JULIAN CROGER.

Preface.

Ever man in our Lodge was known to every other;
Each one was tried and true, and each to each a Brother.
When in Lodge assembled we profitably employ'd ourselves,
And, working most harmoniously together, we always fully enjoy'd ourselves.
For, studying the virtues and practising true charity,
We seldom split—dissension was a rarity.
We never gave utterance to observations vituperative—
In fact, to minds diseased an evening at our Lodge was quite recuperative!

Argument.

There lived within the precincts of our parish
A cad of a fellow, whose mode of life was garish—
That is to say, this egotistic fellow
Had but one object: to make his own life mellow!
It matter'd not to him that others' lives were bitter,
His life must be a round of flashy show and glitter!
He spent his cash, ne'er heeding others' sorrow,
Ne'er let a beggar beg, nor poor man borrow;
He never did a charitable action, because it could not give him satisfaction!
Enough for him to spend his yellow money
In making his own mean life seem bright and sunny!

Now, being a neighbour, and mixing with us on many an ordinary occasion,
We soon discover'd that his mind was assuming a very objectionable persuasion;
He began to think he would like to become a Brother,
Because, as he said, he noticed that we all helped one another;
And, "when a fellow was trying to get on in the world, he thought it was an advisable movement,
To crawl round the affections of the Masons, as it aided his worldly improvement!
In short, he regarded the idea from a selfish and narrow-minded distance, Never dreaming that probably some one else might claim his assistance!
And it ended in his abruptly asking us, if we'd propose him as a candidate,
As our Lodge was going to meet at a handy date.

No matter what cad a man may be, if Providence doth send him,
One hardly likes to hastily offend him;
And as this fellow, moreover, held a local official position—
The prestige which we knew it would injure if we openly snub'd his ambition—
We felt a great delicacy in striking the blow, and saying immediately a plain "No!"

Therefore, somehow we consented; but, soon as it was done we heartily repented;
And being in this instance particularly—"birds of a feather,"
That is, of one mind, we flocked together
To cogitate what plan we could adopt so that his candidature might be stop'd.
We thought one whose morals were so vitiated
Into our Craft ought not to be initiated.
The question was, How to prevent it? We anxiously consulted,
And our little Privy Council soon resulted
In the hatchment of a plot, whose artful aid
We soon besought to make him feel afraid.

The Plot.

Our Lodge met on Saturday. On the previous Monday night
One of us paid him a visit;
This Brother's face being as solemn and long as a kite, Spriggins anxiously ask'd, "What is it?"
"Oh, nothing, old man!" "But something's up!" "Well, yes—I was thinking"—
"Well?" "I was thinking of next Saturday"—"Go on!" "But, no! I Should make you feel nervous!—you must keep your nerves from sinking!
"Keep up your spirits, old boy!—keep up your spirits!" This he said,
And went, while Spriggins scratched his puzzled head!

On Tuesday, another went—a man most mournful,
Who of hilarity was ever scornful;
He moan'd and groan'd, like a worn-out minister,
And talk'd of dismal things in accents sinister;
He made poor Spriggins miserable, slowly goading
His mind into a state of dim foreboding!
He steadily continued to aggravate him,
And spoke of serious ordeals that would await him,
And wound up by saying, "I'm pleased we shall enlist you,
It gives me pleasure to be thus able to assist you.
And, as you know that gentleness to me is virtue,
I'll take good care the Brethren do not hurt you!"
Then went way, unruffled and salubrious,
While Spriggins wonder'd, lost in thoughts lugubrious

On Wednesday, we left him to himself. The seeds we'd sown
Might rankle in his mind if left alone!
On Thursday night we sent our funny member,
With deep facetiousness, to fan the smouldering ember.
He gave him a dig in the ribs that nearly made him bellow,
And chuckled, "Ha! ha! we'll make it hot for you, old fellow!"
"Make it hot!" cried Spriggins; "What d'ye mean?"
Our funny one put his finger to his nose and said, "That remains to be seen.
Oh! wait, my boy! I guess we'll make you wriggle!"
And he gave him another dig in the ribs accompanied by a demoniac giggle.
"Look here, you know"—began Spriggins; but our jocular brother Cut him short, saying "Oh! won't you want to go home to your mother?
Lay in a good dinner before you come, old fellow!—there's nothing like plenty of forage
To give a helpless man a stock of courage;
Ta-ta! old fellow! Ta-ta!" he cried, with a chuckle most hideously wheezy,
And left poor unfortunate Spriggins in a state of mind sadly uneasy.

Then came the last man's turn. He cap'd all their previous warning,
For, putting on a look of the saddest and woefullest mourning,
He sigh'd, "Ah me! This is a serious matter!"
Spriggins looked at him wistfully, and his teeth seem'd inclined to chatter.
"I hardly know," said our brother, "whether I'm doing right or wrong;
But, as I was near you,
I thought I would just pop in and endeavour to cheer you.
Do you manage to keep yourself pretty cheerful?" Spriggins look'd at his feet, Mumbling "Thank you, middling," as he fidgetted in his seat.
"Ah, me!" sighed our brother, "I'd better not stay,
Or I shall frighten every bit of your courage away!
But before I go I'll give you a bit of advice,
Or your situation on Saturday may not be nice!
My friendship prompts me to tell you, whatever my conduct may seem,
But, you'd better take some liniment and a little good cold cream!"

The Dénouement.

Our Lodge-night came. We duly assembled,
And for our little plot each brother trembled;
If he should come, our plot having failed to appal him,
Then must we be hard-hearted and black-ball him?
This measure we were saved, however, for our noble hero—
Whose courage had evidently sunk down to zero—
Sent a beautifully-worded message to say,
That "important business prevented his coming, and his initiation must be put off to another day!"
That day never came, as I need not remark,
And our hero will, in all human probability, for ever remain in the dark!

The Moral.

"The end doth justify the means;" if mean our dodge,
At least we saved the honour of our Lodge!
Or fair or foul? If you don't think the latter,
Why—there's an end to the matter!

WORTHY AND WELL QUALIFIED.

FROM THE VOICE OF MASONRY.

AMONG the older workmen of the Temple, as well in their writings as in their oral instructions, in their laws as in their rituals, there were forms of expression, brief, sententious and comprehensive, that have "gone out of fashion," though they told more in a single sentence than much of modern composition expresses in an entire page. Such was the language used when the Fathers were young; when Masonry was in its simplicity and purity; when amid the forests and the quarries, as well as when the ashlars perfected by the hands of Fellow Crafts were being laid in the walls of that wonderful building on Moriah—in the Temple reared to His glory and worship. It is well for us now and then to go back to those earlier days and gather jewels from the mine not yet exhausted, and learn simple and sublime truths from the lips of those who framed and enacted our laws, and lessons, and teachings, and left us instructions for the future. They did not expect to make Freemasonry perfect from the beginning; but they did give us elementary principles, and indicated the path we were to travel in our efforts to keep up with the progress of the ages.

I have said their words were simple, but full of meaning; as, for instance, those at the head of this article. They are pervaded by very profound instruction—so full of it that they are rarely analyzed or even critically examined to learn the full meaning of each word, syllable, and letter. In this article I propose to take some of them to pieces, if possible, and bring from the treasures thus brought to light such as are rarely revealed and seldom comprehended as they should be.

"Worthy!" Without intending offence to any, I may express my opinion that Freemasonry was not, and is not, designed for "the million," but for the select few who are eminently worthy of its honours, and can appreciate its sublime mysteries. An old French lady once said to me, alluding to her girlhood days, when she used to attend the social gatherings of the Craft in company with her father, "the Free- masons were all gentlemen," and the lady was correct in her estimate. They were gentlemen, for none others were admitted. A man may be poor and follow the plough, or work at the forge, or drive a dray for a living, but he may at the same time be a gentleman, and, as such, be eminently "worthy" of admission to the Brotherhood. His wealth should count for nothing, nor his fine apparel—"to whom related or by whom begot"—but he must be a gentleman in manners, in his habits, in the principles on which is based the rule of his conduct in life. He must be liberal and large-hearted, scorning a low act, pure in his thoughts, and blameless in his life and conversation. Such only are "worthy" of recognition at the outer door of the Temple, or of being received as brethren and companions in the great mystic Brotherhood.

But, besides this, if he would be esteemed "worthy" in Masonic estimation, he must ask for admission without any mercenary or sinister motives—with no desire to make money by his connection with the Order, or to enlarge his business, or add to his chances for political preferment. Any persons who come to the doors of Masonry with such motives are not "worthy" of recognition as Masons. If I may be excused for venturing a warning, I would say to the Craft—let political aspirants and office-hunters have "a wide berth." It was said in the papers during the late presidential election, that both of the candidates for the presidency were Freemasons and Knights Templars, but I would give the old and only hat I have for the man who has seen either of them in a Lodge within the last ten years!

If Freemasonry have all the possibilities for good we concede it, it ought to have a membership composed of the very best men in society—men of pure lives and pure hearts, who love their country and their kind—whose charities are equal to their means and opportunities—men who live, not for themselves alone, but to do good to others. Such are "worthy."

This question of worthiness is sometimes a difficult one to settle. It is not because a person is in affluent circumstances and gives liberally to the church; nor that he is successful in business matters and manages his affairs adroitly—by this means accumulating a fortune; nor that he subscribes largely to enterprises intended to benefit the town in which he resides, for that is only a means of increasing the value of his own property, and thus adding to his fortune. He declares before his admission that his object is "a sincere desire to be serviceable to his fellow creatures;" not especially to serve himself, for if that were the standard most men would be "worthy." It is not difficult to find one who desires to benefit himself; but how to forget self and self-interests in a desire to benefit others! And yet this latter quality is what is demanded of one before he can be deemed "worthy" to become a Freemason.

I remember a number of years since that an eminent jurist was to be initiated. Nearly every member of that Lodge whom I met for a day or two in advance of the time asked me to be present at their next meeting, as Judge —— was to be initiated! Now, Judge —— had the reputation of being a good lawyer, and had attained some eminence as a judge; he had been a member of Congress, and was not only a member of a church but a very pious man, to say nothing about his conceded eloquence and scholarship. "Are you coming to see Judge —— initiated?" I said, "No!" "But why?" "I have a high respect for Judge —— as a jurist and a man, as well as a citizen, but he is now an old man. He lived in the days of anti-Masonry, when it was unpopular to be a Freemason. Now Masonry is popular, and it will be no bar to his election to office to be known as a Freemason. If, many years ago, when the Judge was a candidate for Congress, Masonry had been as popular as now, he would probably then have become a Mason; or if Masonry were as unpopular to-day as it was thirty years ago, the Judge would not now desire to be a Freemason. If he were so pleased with the objects and purposes of Freemasonry, he would have faced the storm and stood by the Order when to belong to it would hazard his popularity and political prospects. He has waited for thirty years, until Masonry is a passport to respectability and popularity, and now he asks to become a Mason. Whatever other good qualities he may have, I do not believe he is 'worthy' to be admitted as a Freemason. I shall not be present!"

Well, the Judge was received with much eclat, and the members of the Lodge considered themselves highly honoured; it seemed to an observer that he was conferring honour upon the Order, instead of the Order conferring honour upon him by admitting him to its ranks! He was of no benefit to the Fraternity, except to partake of its good suppers and make responses to toasts; but, as he knew but little of Masonry, his speeches were made up of platitudes and general remarks that had been heard a thousand times. He was of no real practical benefit to Freemasonry, as he never thoroughly acquainted himself with it, though a man of pure life and noble aspirations; and all he was "worthy" of, in the sense we use that word, was a kind of honorary membership.

But the question comes back—"Is he worthy and well qualified?" He may be "worthy" in one sense, but not in another. Mr. H. may be worthy to be the Governor of his State, but not worthy to be a Professor of Astronomy in the University, for he is no astronomer; he may be worthy of all respect and honour as a Christian gentleman but not worthy as a minister of his church, for he has not studied the subject from that stand-point; he may be worthy of all respect as an industrious mechanic, but not as a jurist or a physician. So he may be eminently worthy as an agriculturist, but not as a student of Masonry on Lebanon, or at Zarthan, or on Moriah. Some of the best men I ever knew were worthy of almost any other position or calling, but they had no fitness for membership in the "Ancient and Honourable Fraternity." They were destitute of those qualities of mind and natural tastes so essential to one who may become prominent as a Mason, and an exemplar of its duties. But I will pass this part of the subject, and consider what is necessary to be well qualified" when one is seeking admission to our "Ancient and Honourable Order."

The "Ancient Charges of a Freemason," which are law everywhere in the Anglo-Saxon world, give some special directions needed by and essential in a candidate who is presented for acceptance in Freemasonry. I will consider them, not perhaps in the order in which they are enumerated in the Charges, but as they come to me in recollection, and possibly may omit some even in that effort.

He must not "be a stupid atheist nor an irreligious libertine." It is said in the lessons of the Lodge-room that no atheist can be made a Mason;" and that declaration touches the very corner-stone of our mystic Temple. How can you require a person to offer up his prayers to Deity if he does not believe there is a Deity, a Creator, a Supreme Being, a superintending Providence, who can hear and answer prayer? We can have no atheism among Masons; no Bob Ingersolls to pollute with terrible mocking profanity the sanctity of the Lodge-room. To be "well qualified" the applicant for the privileges of Masonry must entertain a sincere and well established belief in the existence of GOD, or the ceremonies of initiation would be a mockery and an insult. I cannot conceive how any intelligent being, even a heathen, can say, "There is no GOD!" Since the days of French atheism, a hundred years ago, we have never heard such coarse, insulting, shocking profanity as the papers attribute to Bob Ingersoll; and yet, strange as it may appear, Christians of all sects, ministers of the highest type of pulpit eloquence, and politicians who would regard it as a personal insult to have it whispered that they sympathised with such sentiments, or such mocking atheists, crowd round him, and listen with apparent pleasure, if not with heartiest approval, to his blasphemous mockery and atheistical utterances. King David, in considering this Ingersollism of more than three thousand years ago, remarked that "The fool hath said in his heart, there is no GOD." He said it in his heart, for even at that early day, fool or philosopher would be ashamed to utter such sentiment with his lips; and the readers of the VOICE will excuse me for saying, none but a fool ever, even in his heart, said "there is no GOD." Sun and moon, planets and stars, ocean waves and river streams, bird and beast, field and forest, whispering zephyr and raging tornado, all declare him a fool! Such a belief, such an expression, is so shocking, so terrible, so death-like and desolate, that human nature, and I was going to say all nature, shrinks from the thought. It is the pall of death shrouding the hopes of immortality; it is the orphanage of the tomb; it is the desolation and darkness of the grave for ever. Let atheists glory in their creed; let preachers, and pietists, and politicians encourage the Ingersollism of the day: but, thank GOD, atheism is not tolerated in a Lodge of Freemasons, and never can be!

"Stupid atheist, irreligious libertine": This is the language used by the fathers in Masonry some centuries ago. It is well that a barrier was raised somewhere against a doctrine which sets law aside, unsettles moral principles and future hopes, while it clogs the mental powers and ignores human pretensions to reason and discernment. We are proud that Freemasonry, centuries ago, issued its proclamation, for ever irrepealable, against the insane and blasphemous atheism of the present age. "No atheist, no irreligious libertine" can be made a Mason! There it stands, a law for ever! The eloquence of Plymouth may sweep aside the moral convictions of the hearer and win the homage of fashionable Christianity; while politicians, from the President to the pauper, who make it their boast that this is a Christian nation, encourage and sustain the atheistical blasphemy of Ingersollism, but pure Ancient Craft Masonry declares "thus far thou may'st go, but no farther!" Whoever has read the story of the French Revolution, with the braggart declarations of the atheism of the time, that was succeeded by the crimes and bloodshed which disgraced the cultured, and fashionable, and refined people of that nation, will rejoice that Freemasonry stands as a granite rock against the further progress of atheism. The deadly moral miasma may be proclaimed by the silver-tongued orator from the rostrum, and Plymouth may utter its encouragement from what is called a Christian pulpit; but every Masonic Lodge, in every nation of Anglo-Saxon civilisation, closes its doors against the foul utterances, and from its altars and its East still declares "There is a GOD," and neither "stupid atheist nor irreligious libertine" may hope to gain admission to a Lodge of Freemasons.

A candidate for Masonry must have been "free-born," according to the ancient Masonic law; else he cannot be admitted. In the Lodges of the United States this is an essential in the estimate of "well qualified!" In England, as in other countries of English thought and habit, the rule has been set aside, or modified; and if the candidate be a free man he has the needed qualification in this regard. Such is an indication of progress: and though some teachers in our mystic Temple may say there can be no progress in Masonry, yet they bow to this behest of the centuries with profound respect. Allow me to say just here, though at the risk of being considered a lunatic, would it not be better for all Grand Lodges to follow the Grand Lodge of England in changing the old phraseology from "free-born" to "free-man"? There are no slaves now: the flags of America, of England, of Germany, of France, wave only over free men and free humanity. To be free in body and mind, free to think, to decide, to act, should be sufficient, whether the applicant was born in bondage or secured his freedom in later life. It is too late in the world's history to cavil about matters over which the candidate has had no control. The world moves, social life and social conditions change. Freemasonry was made for man; not man for Freemasonry. If the candidate be now, at the time of his application, free and able to act of his own volition, his condition should fill the spirit of the old law; and in this particular he should be "well qualified" for admission to our society and ceremonies. This, too, without reference to his colour, his creed, or his nationality.

Some thirty years ago the great Hungarian statesman Kossuth was in the United States. He had been a leader in the rebellion against Austrian tyranny, but escaped Austrian vengeance. No Christian country in Europe would permit his presence, and he took refuge in Turkey beneath the flag of the Prophet. He finally came to the United States, and in Cincinnati was made a Freemason. When required to name his residence, he declared he had none, but was "an exile for Liberty's sake." His reply was deemed sufficient, and he was made a Mason: we were present with three or four hundred of the Craft, and witnessed the admission of one of the greatest men of his generation, though he was from a far-off land and "an exile for Liberty's sake!" His nationality was not further inquired into, but in this regard, as in all others, he was considered "well qualified" for admission to the ranks of Freemasonry.

Two or three years since I attended a meeting of Masons in one of the large cities of the West—I believe it was a Council of Royal and Select Masters. There was work to be done, and I noticed one who seemed to be a prominent actor in the ceremonies. He was a man above medium height, of fine physique, of good address and commanding presence. He seemed to be well instructed in the rituals, had a good voice and utterance, and I was charmed with his manner. I inquired of a friend sitting by me, a Past Grand Master of Masons, who the brother was. He whispered to me, "He is a coloured brother!" I asked him where he was made a Mason: and the reply was "in one of the Lodges of this city. He is of African descent, though nearly white. He is well educated, a lawyer in good practice, and a gentleman in every sense of the word. His sister, a finely educated lady, is the wife of a United States Senator from one of the Southern States, Senator Bruce." The brother was esteemed none the less because of a tinge of African blood in his veins. He was made a Mason in a legal Lodge, and, as a man and Mason, was an honour to the Fraternity. In his lineage, as well as in all else, he was "worthy and well qualified" to be a member of our Ancient and Honourable Fraternity.

Another question that may be asked, "Is he of good report?" Is his standing in community respectable, and does he maintain a good character as a man? Is he free from vicious habits, honest in his dealings, temperate in his living, and kind and charitable to the needy and deserving about him? All this, and more, is included in the query, and should be answered in the affirmative before it can truly be said he is "well qualified" to become a Freemason. He must be "of lawful age" also. The old rule said "mature age," and that language should still be used. The present requirement is twenty-one years, but neither Washington nor Warren was of that age when initiated; yet they were both "well qualified" in the estimate of the old law of Masonry, and that law should never have been changed.

The law also says the candidate must be sound in body, and of "hale and entire limbs, as a man ought to be." This quality refers to the age of practical Masonry when the Craft were workmen, and needed all their limbs and faculties to enable them to discharge the duties of their calling. For the last hundred and fifty years the requirement has only been symbolic; and it will probably be another hundred years before this stringent rule can be modified, if ever.

Another requirement to be "well qualified" is that the candidate must be a man. I shall not attempt to enlarge upon this question now. I have long been satisfied, however, that there should be some law by which the wives and daughters of Freemasons might be admitted to membership in the Order. It is not yet time for the discussion of this question; but when it comes up for consideration, if alive, I will be ready to meet it. We deny to our wives and daughters what we claim for ourselves. Why? Are they not to be trusted? Are they not as capable of appreciating kindness, and goodness, and charity, and as ready to aid in works of benevolence?

MEETING OF THE LODGE OF BENEVOLENCE.

THE Lodge of Benevolence met on Wednesday evening, at Freemasons' Hall. Bros. Joshua Nunn, James Brett, and Samuel Rawson occupied the chairs of President and Senior and Junior Vice-Presidents. The brethren first confirmed the recommendations of the last meeting to the amount of £465, and afterwards relieved twenty cases out of the new list with £535. Three cases were deferred, and one was dismissed. There were but twenty-four cases on the new list, which is a great contrast to the heavy lists with which the Lodge has recently been burdened.

Payne N., J. Payne P.S., W. Fraser, Gillard, G. Brown, W. Chicken, Goodchild, McDonell, Briggs, Thompson, Walker, Turner, and Burns. The ceremony of exaltation was ably worked, Comp. J. The members of this Chapter again assembled at the Jamaica Tavern, on Tuesday evening, 19th April; but in consequence of the holiday week the attendance was not so numerous as usual. Comps. Catterson Z., Taylor H., J. R. Fraser J., Walker N., Turner P.S. There were also present Comps. Kirke, Veal, Thompson, R. Payne, Pulman, and W. Fraser. The ceremony of exaltation was rehearsed, Comp. W. Fraser being the candidate. Comp. Pulman, of the Bedford Chapter, No. 157, was elected a member of this Chapter of Improvement. The election of Officers for the next fortnight then took place, as follows:—Comps. Thompson Z., Pulman A., J. S. Fraser J., W. Fraser N., McDonell P.S. The Chapter was closed and adjourned until Tuesday evening, 26th April, at half-past six o'clock.

The Annual Supper of the Burdett Coutts Lodge of Instruction, No. 1278, will be held on Wednesday, the 4th May, at the Lamb Tavern, Wilmot-street, Bethnal-green, at 7 o'clock, under the presidency of Bro. Dr. Defriez, the W.M. of the mother Lodge. Tickets (4s each) should be applied for at once; they may be had of Bro. Hand, Hon. Sec., 1 Southborough-road, South Hackney.

WHENCE? WHAT? AND WHITHER?

FROM THE KEYSTONE.

WHEN you consider the spiritual, mental and physical equipment of man, are you surprised that philosophers in all ages have inquired, WHENCE came he? WHAT is he? and WHITHER is he travelling? In certain thoughtful moments, have you not had an intimation of pre-existence, and said, with Wordsworth, in his exquisite Ode on Immortality,

> "Our birth is but a sleep and a forgetting:
> The Soul that rises with us, our life's Star,
> Hath had elsewhere its setting,
> And cometh from afar:
> Not in entire forgetfulness,
> And not in utter nakedness,
> But, trailing clouds of glory do we come
> From God, who is our home:
> Heaven lies about us in our infancy!"

In was in a sense akin to this that Socrates called himself a "midwife of the mind," because he assisted in bringing to the birth truths with which the mind was in labour. He unfolded what was infolded. Sir Walter Scott seemed sometimes conscious of pre-existence; while Plato taught that when we seem to be instructed, we are only put in mind of what we knew in a former state.

Springing out of this doctrine of reminiscence, was the curious one of the transmigration of souls, once largely taught in Egypt, Greece, and India, in the philosophy of Pythagoras, the Orphic Mysteries, and the religion of Brahma. One of the fundamental injunctions of the latter is, to abstain from flesh, fish and fowl, for fear of eating your ancestors! Some of our American Indians were permeated with this belief. The Haidahs of California, Mr. Bancroft tells us, gravely affirmed, and steadfastly maintained, their descent from crows. The Chipewayans derived their origin from a dog. Others assert their derivation from the prairie wolf, and to explain the loss of their tails, they say, "an acquired habit of sitting upright has utterly erased and destroyed that beautiful member!" Plato taught, in his Phaedo, that those men who practise the civil and social virtues, when they die will pass into some gentle social nature, like their own, such as that of bees, or ants, or even back again into the form of man.

A related doctrine to metempsychosis was that of emanation, held by Zoroaster, the Gnostics and others—that all beings have proceeded from, and are parts of, the Divine Being—in one sense a sort of pantheism, but in another, and better sense, a doctrine that all may accept; for our living soul is, according to Moses, an emanation from the breath of God, and thus a part of Him.

The philosophers of to-day are as busy as their brethren were thousands of years ago, in inquiring, Whence is man? And they are often quite as erratic in their conclusions. Huxley and Haeckel argue that we come from "protoplasm," while Lorenz Oken deduces our origin from "primordial slime." For ourselves we should prefer to skip the "slime" and the "protoplasm" and come rather from a coyote, a dog, or a crow. But we reject all of these vagaries. Man came from God, so the First Great Light in Masonry teaches us, and we can have no higher authority. We have not been "developed"—we are born, not made. Omnipotence calls us into being. It is He that made us, and not we ourselves. Nor are we any deduction, or physical inference, or the end of a chain of being. We are, in short, ourselves, and ever shall be.

What is man? Look in your neighbour's face and answer the question, if you can. The eye of a god! The figure of an Apollo! The mind of an angel! And more! What a mystery is this mind of ours, with its powers of reflection, expression and memory. Who can explain how it is that language comes instantly at the bidding of thought; how that no sooner is a conception framed, than the appropriate words come brimming to the lips, in apt description, glowing metaphor and convincing logic? That man lives not who can penetrate the arcana of the human mind. We are, what we are, what God made us to be; but it doth not yet appear what we shall be. Doubtless glory will be added to glory, and we shall shine as stars in the firmament of heaven.

Whither are we travelling? Ah! who can penetrate through the grave into the great hereafter? Who, but the initiated, know the secrets of God's Greater Mysteries? Plato tells us of an ingenious Sicilian, or Italian, who compared the souls of men who were initiated into the "Mysteries" of his time, to staunch sailing vessels, which sped beautifully on their course towards the happy isles of the blest; while the souls of the uninitiated he likened to leaky vessels, full of holes, that go down, and never on, but miserably sink in the waves. The souls of the ignorant, owing to a lack of faith, hope and charity, he says, are as full of holes as is a colander. May we not say, then, that we are going whither our vessel of life is carrying us?

Death is the mystery of mysteries. One day health mantles the cheeks, life sparkles in the eyes, the organs of speech give forth sweet sounds, and the step is firm and elastic—and the next, the voice is still, the eyes closed, pallor overspreads the countenance, and the spirit has fled from its ruined tenement of clay. Released, disembodied, it has sought, and found its own place. He who has exemplified the golden, Masonic virtues of Faith, Hope, and Charity, need fear no translation. He will only go over to the majority—his spirit will return to God, who gave it.

The monument to the memory of the late Bro. John Dove, Grand Secretary of the Grand Lodge of Virginia, has been "completed and paid for." Bro. James Evans, Grand Lecturer of this Grand Lodge, at the age of eighty years has declined a re-election.—Keystone.

THE STREETS AS ART GALLERIES.

WE have received from Messrs. Cassell, Petter, and Galpin a programme of the promised contributions to the columns of their Magazine of Art, which is full and varied in character, and which, if carried out with the energy and ability which characterise the management of all the many periodical publications issued by this firm, will make the Magazine in question one of the most popular of the day. The promised articles will be written by men who have already distinguished themselves in the literature of Art, amongst whom may be mentioned Messrs. Sidney Colvin, Rev. R. St. John Tyrwhitt, Grant Allen, Lewis F. Day, J. W. Mollett, G. Beavington Atkinson, Percy Fitzgerald, Gilbert Redgrave, J. Forbes-Robertson, G. R. Halkett, H. Baden Pritchard, Egmont Hake, Allan S. Cole, and Wyke Bayliff. In the May number will appear an article entitled "The Streets as Art Galleries," in connection with which we have received a miniature engraving of the design by Mr. Hubert Herkomer, A.R.A., for a pictorial advertisement which will be made, as it were, the text of the article in question. The design is in every way worthy of that artist's reputation, and if Mr. Herkomer has only a small measure of success in bringing about a more artistic style in street advertisements, he will deserve and receive the thanks of the community. We fully recognise the truth of the proposition that the graphic arts, as they are presented to the eye in our streets and railway stations, are there seen "in their utmost degradation. No young barbarism could produce anything so vile, because in savage art there is always something direct, sincere, and germinative." The object of the present movement, in which Mr. Herkomer is taking so conspicuous a part, is to "extend art not merely to every reader, but to every passer in the street." The initiative was taken, we are told, some ten years ago by Mr. Frederick Walker, who designed a most artistic poster advertisement of Mr. Wilkie Collins's dramatic version of that writer's well-known work, the "Woman in White," and it was Mr. Walker's opinion, that a reform, in the direction indicated, of street advertising might lead to the development "of a most important branch of art," while the following opinion, expressed by Mr. Herkomer, is to a somewhat similar effect. "I go so far as to say," says that artist, "that here is a grand opportunity for displaying art to the populace, for, with the means usually employed, some of the most interesting works of art could be produced. Professor Richmond proposed, in his address at Edinburgh, that pictorial advertisements should be executed under the supervision of some artists of standing. I go much further, and say artists of standing ought to execute these pictorial advertisements themselves. Let a body of artists form a guild, and their productions would soon drive out the present form of hideousness." The movement has our heartiest wishes for its success, for nothing can be more unsightly than the barbarously-grotesque posters which disfigure our streets and public centres.

The Knights Templar of Richmond, Va., have courteously invited St. John's Commandery, of Providence, and De Molay Commandery, of Boston, to visit Richmond and accept the hospitalities of the brethren and Knights of that city. The invitation has been accepted by both Bodies, and committees have been appointed to make arrangements for the trip, which will occupy some eight or ten days. The two visiting Commanderies will probably go and return in company, taking the same route and making the same halts by the way. A tarry at Washington for a day or two, with the opportunity of visiting Mount Vernon, will very likely be included in the programme. Considerable enthusiasm has already been developed, and it is highly probable that both Commanderies will be largely represented in the excursion, which promises to be an occasion of special interest and enjoyment. The proposed visit will revive the memories of former interchanges of hospitality, whilst it will tend to bring into closer alliance and sympathy the Templars of two important jurisdictions. The visit will most likely be made in the early part of May.—Freemasons' Repository.

POLISH NATIONAL LODGE, No. 534.

THE annual meeting of the Polish National Lodge was held at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, London, on Thursday, 14th inst., on which occasion Bro. Dr. Corrie Jackson was installed into the chair of K.S., the ceremony being efficiently conducted by Bro. Aspinall P.M. Bro. V. A. Jagielski, M.D., M.R.C.P., the W.M. of the year, presided at the opening of the Lodge, being supported by his Officers and several visitors and members. A part of the business of the evening was the acceptation and initiation of Mr. Jonah Nowakowski, son of the esteemed P.M. and Treasurer of the Lodge, and we need hardly say that he was most warmly received. A proposition to vote three sums of five guineas each—to Bro. Beckett, the late Tyler, on his retirement after 26 years' service, to the Girls' School, and to the Boys' School—having been disposed of, and the installation and other business of the evening transacted, the brethren proceeded to the Crown Room of Freemasons' Tavern, where a most enjoyable banquet was partaken of under the presidency of Bro. Corrie Jackson the new W.M., who in due course proceeded with the usual toasts. In giving that of the Initiate, Bro. Jackson expressed the pleasure he, in common with the other members of the Lodge, felt in receiving as one of their number a worthy son of so worthy a brother as their beloved Treasurer. He gave a few words of advice to Bro. Nowakowski jun., and concluded by expressing a hope that the son would follow in the footsteps of his father, and become as worthy a member of the Lodge, and as honoured a Mason as he. Bro. Nowakowski in acknowledgment expressed his hearty thanks to the W.M. and members of the Lodge for the very kind way in which they had received him. It would be his endeavour to fulfil all that Brother Jackson had pointed out he should do, and could only hope that in years to come he might occupy as proud a position as did his father at the present time. Bro. Jagielski then, in a forcible speech, proposed the health of the W.M. Although many toasts had already been proposed, and although it was customary to designate the toast of the Initiate the principal one of the evening, he could not but feel that the one he had to propose occupied the foremost position in the hearts of the members of the Lodge, being as it was the health of his esteemed and respected friend Bro. Jackson. (Cheers.) It was but an echo of the sentiment he himself felt to hear the hearty way in which the mention of their W.M.'s name was received. Bro. Jackson had always performed the work of his office most creditably, and now that he had reached the chair, Bro. Jagielski had little doubt but that he would continue to display his great ability. He felt sure that his year of office would prove a real success—would be one of which all would be able to boast, and that the members of the Lodge would have reason to congratulate themselves on having secured so distinguished a brother to preside over them. Personally it was a great satisfaction for him to leave the chair to be succeeded by so worthy a brother. Bro. Jackson having tendered his acknowledgments, referred to the progress of the Lodge during the time he had known it. It was between seven and eight years since that he had been initiated in it. At that time the Lodge was somewhat deficient in regard to its supply of Officers, for he well remembered that a visiting brother acted as Deacon at the time of his receiving the first degree, now there were so many of the members efficient and able to undertake the duties that he had had some little difficulty in deciding who to place in the respective offices, but he trusted that his appointments would merit the approval of all, and that the Lodge would be conducted with the heartiest goodwill during the ensuing year. He could not do better than conclude his remarks by the quotation given on the toast list from "The Taming of the Shrew"—

"Thus have I begun my reign,
And 'tis my hope to end successfully."

The health of the Visitors was now proposed and duly acknowledged, after which the W.M. gave the P.M.'s, briefly recounting the services each had rendered to the Lodge in the past, and particularly complimenting Bro. Aspinall on the way in which he had fulfilled the duties of Installing Master. He had never been so impressed by a ceremony as by the one he had that evening taken a part in. Bro. Jagielski having briefly replied, was followed by Bro. Major Szulczewski, who, as one of the founders of the Lodge, was particularly honoured in the proposition and reception of the toast. He very much regretted that he had been unable to attend as much of late as he could have desired, but his health would not permit of his being out as often as he could wish. The present state of the Lodge was a great satisfaction to him. He could but look back on its past history with pride, and although there were very many of its P.M.'s then absent—many of them having gone to another world—he saw around him worthy brethren, whom he considered in every way suited to continue the good work they had commenced. He was particularlygratified at the initiation that day of one of their countrymen—he might almost say one of their own sons. Although he was happy to see brethren of other nationalities among them, he could not forget that the Lodge was established for the benefit of Poles, who from causes of adversity, were obliged to seek shelter on the hospitable shores of England. He hoped it would long continue as a memento of the gratitude of his countrymen for the symyathy the men of England had evinced towards them in the hour of their suffering. He concluded by endorsing the remarks of the W.M. in thanking the Installing Officer for the way in which the work had that evening been performed. Bro. Nowakakowski followed, particularly referring to the pleasure he felt in witnessing the hearty reception the brethren had accorded to his son. Bros. Cummings, Aspinall, and Paas also tendered their acknowledgments, the latter brother referring to his long tenure of office as Secretary to the Lodge, and announcing his desire to be relieved of the work at the end of the present year. This announcement was received with great regret by all assembled, and hopes were expressed that Bro. Paas would reconsider the matter, and eventually continue in the post, the duties of which he had so faithfully fulfilled for many years past, and for which he was so justly honoured by every member of the Lodge. The health of the Officers was duly proposed and acknowledged, thus bringing to a conclusion the programme of the evening. Before separating the brethren received from Bro. Beckett a hearty expression of thanks for the great kindnesses he had experienced at their hands. He hoped that the Lodge would long continue its prosperous career. Among the Visitors were Bros. Bradford Pierpoint 1452, Gwinnell 1235, W. Atkins P.M. 857, J. A. Reed S.D. 1228, W. Goldsmith 1769, C. A. Betts 46, C. J. Chambers 834, H. W. Alford J.W. 228, H. G. Powell 50, R. T. Kingham P.M. 1507, J. Rosenthal 1017, W. Skinner 227, E. Bellamy 263, J. Bassett, J. Newcomb 742, E. C. Kilsley 871, G. McRae 180, B. Gallon 1670, C. P. Farlow 171, W. W. Morgan jun. FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

MERCHANT NAVY LODGE, No. 781.

AT the meeting of this Lodge, held at the Silver Tavern, Burdett-road, Limehouse, on Wednesday, the 13th instant, the installation of Bro. Benjamin Carne Rawe took place. There was a numerous assemblage of brethren, including several visitors, among whom were Bro. Buss and other brethren of distinction. The ceremony was performed by Bro. James Terry (an honorary member of this Lodge) in a masterly and impressive manner. Indeed, seldom has he been listened to with such pleasure as upon this occasion. After being installed, the new W.M., in very appropriate terms, presented, in the name of the Lodge, a Past Master's jewel to Bro. Andrew Scheerboom, the retiring Master, as a token of the appreciation of the valuable services he had rendered to the Lodge during his year of office. The business of the Lodge being then ended, it was closed, and the brethren adjourned to an excellent banquet, well served by Bro. Emanuel Gregory, the host, over which the new W.M. presided with great ability. The usual toasts were then drunk, and Bro. Buss replied for the Grand Officers past and present. The Worshipful Master was proposed, in a neat little speech, by Bro. Scheerboom, the I.P.M., and suitably acknowledged by Bro. Rawe. The health of the Visitors followed, and was responded to by Bro. Turquand and several others, Bro. J. Keable concluding his remarks by reading the following lines:—

We meet around this festive-board, where oft we 've met before,
To celebrate the birthday of our Master, Brother Rawe.

May happiness attend his path, and heaven his life long spare,
To meet with brethren whom he loves with upright lives and square.

We know his kindliness of heart, his liberal hand and free,
To benefit whene'er he can the cause of Masonry.

The Merchant Navy Lodge can boast of names a long array,
Who have good suit and service done in their Masonic day.

There's Reid and Wright, and Neville too,—there's Scheerboom, Daniels, Reeves,
And others, too—an honoured line—of brethren such as these.

Then while we drink to Brother Rawe, in this we all concur,
That in his office he may have a prosperous, happy year.

May candidates come forth to join, and his the privilege be,
Of shewing them the mysteries of our old Freemasonry.

And when his year comes to its close, and he has ran his race,
We hope the "Ould 'un" sitting there may come to take his place.

W.M. then proposed the health of the Installing Master, and Bro. Terry responded in eloquent terms, and took the opportunity of making an earnest appeal on behalf of the Masonic Charities. The Treasurer and Secretary was the next toast, and Bro. E. T. Reid, the highly esteemed Secretary of the Lodge, replied for himself and for Bro. Wright, who we regret was unavoidably absent through domestic affliction. The Officers of the Merchant Navy Lodge followed, and the Tyler's toast concluded a very pleasant and profitable evening.

DALHOUSIE LODGE, No. 860.

THE annual meeting of this popular and ably-conducted Lodge took place on Thursday, the 14th instant, at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street. Beyond the event of the day—the installation of Bro. W. J. Smith—there was but little work to be done. The brethren assembled at four o'clock, when Lodge was opened by the W.M., Bro. W. G. Dickins, who was well supported by Past Masters W. H. Wallington (Treasurer), L. F. Littell (Secretary), T. B. Dodson (Director of Ceremonies), John C. Bates, H. W. Dalwood, and George Weige. Among the visiting brethren we noticed Bros. Thomas Clark J.D. 1178, John Hattersley 1366, Henry Evans 144, F. W. Farmer 25, R. J. Taylor W.M. 144, James Kift 1791, A. W. Herzog 902, J. S. Easey 511, T. Underwood 1679, C. J. Burnett 1624, W. Watkins 1076, W. W. Morgan Secretary 211, T. Scowcroft 467. After reading and confirmation of the minutes, the Auditors' report was received and adopted. Bro. Dickins then proceeded with the installation ceremony, which he performed in a very satisfactory manner. The W.M. invested the following brethren as Officers for the ensuing twelve months:—R. Burleton S.W., J. Barker J.W., W. H. Wallington P.M. Treasurer, L. F. Littell P.M. Secretary, Jos. Pavitt S.D., Christian J.D., Saunders I.G., Tomkins D.C., Corun W.S., Marsh Tyler. The W.M., in investing the several Officers, addressed them most fully as to what was expected of them in the due fulfilment of their several trusts; and then the Installing Master gave a forcible rendering of the customary addresses. Routine work followed, hearty good wishes were tendered, and Lodge was closed. A capital banquet was served by Bro. Clemow, the spirited proprietor of this popular Masonic establishment, and on the removal of the cloth Bro. Smith proceeded with the toasts. After "The Queen and the Craft," the National Anthem was sung by Bro. W. H. Wallington, with Bro. Kift at the piano. "The Prince of Wales, Most Worshipful Grand Master of English Freemasons," was next honoured, and Bro. Past Master Weige sang, "God Bless the Prince of Wales." After the toast of the Pro Grand Master, the Deputy Grand Master, and Grand Officers, Bro. Kift gave the amusing song, "Proverbial Philosophy," and then Bro. Dickins proposed the health of the Worshipful Master. Bro. Smith had been an assiduous worker in every post he had held in the Lodge, and as W.M. all felt convinced he would not relax in his zeal for its welfare. He (Bro. Dickins) had great pleasure in asking the brethren to do honour to the toast. After a capital song by Bro. Farmer, the W.M. replied. From the first moment he had entered the Lodge he had been actuated by but one feeling—the welfare of its members. He meant well, and would do all he could to promote the happiness and comfort of the brethren. In proposing the health of the Immediate Past Master, the Installing Officer of the evening, the W.M. spoke in the highest terms of praise of the way in which Bro. Dickins had carried out his duties, and of how he had consummated his year's work by performing the ceremony of installation. The jewel it was his privilege to be the medium of presenting from the members was well deserved, and he trusted might long be appreciated by the wearer. Without further remark, he would call on the brethren to drink the toast. After a song by Bro. Weige—"The Old Bottel"—rendered with that worthy brother's wonted vigour, Bro. I.P.M. Dickins replied; he was much indebted to Bro. Smith. He had tried to do his best for the Lodge during the term of his Mastership, and had received every kindness at the hands of the members. He was sincerely grateful for the Past Master's jewel, which it would ever be his pleasure to wear, and he had specially to thank some of the brethren who had thought fit to supplement the gift made by the Lodge. In proposing the health of the Visiting Brethren, the W.M. said that if there was one toast more than another they desired to honour in the Dalhousie Lodge, it was that of those who favoured them with their company as guests. With the toast he would associate the names of Bros. Taylor, Farmer, and Morgan. At this stage of the evening Bro. Herzog played a selection on the zither, discoursing most exquisite music from this little instrument. The several brethren named then replied for the Visitors, and bore testimony to the happy feeling pervading the Lodge, and the ability displayed by one and all in the conduct of its affairs; at the same time expressing a hope that during the present Master's reign still further prosperity might be the result of the year. In replying for the Past Masters, Bro. Bates spoke of the gratification felt by those who had passed the chair at seeing the continued prosperity of the Lodge. The members seemed united as one man, and so long as this continued, the result would be all that could be desired. In proposing the health of the Treasurer and Secretary, reference was made to the zeal displayed by each in conducting the business of the Lodge. The members fully appreciated the exertions of their esteemed Secretary, who, on account of his official duties, had felt almost constrained to resign his post. However, Bro. Littell had once again consented to place his services at the disposal of the brethren, and one and all trusted it might be many years ere his association with the Lodge, in his present capacity, came to a termination. "The Officers," and other toasts in due course followed, and adequate responses were elicited. The musical abilities of the brethren were well displayed throughout the evening, and the arrangements throughout seemed to give unqualified satisfaction.

Lodge of Union, No. 414.—A meeting was held on Tuesday, 19th inst., at the Masonic Hall, Reading. Present:—Bros. C. Stephens W.M., S. Bradley I.P.M., R. C. Mount S.W., F. J. Ferguson J.W., Rev. N. T. Garry Chaplain, S. A. Pocock P.M. Treasurer, M. J. Withers Secretary, S. Wheeler S.D., A. W. Parry J.D., Butler Acting D.C., F. Blackwell Acting I.G., Haywood Organist, Hemmings Tyler; Past Masters Bros. J. Morris, Oades, Baker; Bros. Higgs, Moffatt, Grant, Hart, George, Rayner, Hawkes, Chamberlain, G. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes of the last regular meeting were read and confirmed. Bro. J. F. Stevens, a candidate for passing, answered the usual questions, and retired. Lodge was opened in the second degree, and Bro. Stevens was passed to the degree of F.C. Bro. Rayner, having satisfactorily answered the questions leading to the third degree, was entrusted, and raised to the sublime degree of M.M., the ceremony being performed by the W.M. in a very admirable manner. The absence of music, both instrumental and vocal, which would have given an additional effect to this beautiful ceremony, was very apparent. We understand that for the future this omission will be remedied. After the proposal of candidates and the usual ceremonies, Lodge was closed according to ancient form.

La Tolérance Lodge of Instruction, No. 538.—At the Green Dragon, Maddox-street, on Wednesday, the 20th inst. Bros. J. Hurdell W.M., W. H. Richardson S.W., J. Paul J.W., J. Hurdell Preceptor, L. G. Smith J.D., Owen I.G., and Bros. H. Stephens, Geflowski, and Tucker. The Lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes of previous meeting were read, confirmed, and signed. Lodge was opened up to third degree, closed in third, and resumed to first degree. Bro. T. Smith answered the questions leading to degree of F.C., and the Lodge was resumed. The W.M. rehearsed the ceremony of passing, Bro. Smith candidate. The W.M. next rehearsed the ceremony of initiation with the same candidate. Bro. J. Green was unanimously elected W.M. for the next meeting.

We beg to remind our readers that the meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge of North Wales and Salop will be held at the Town Hall, Newport, on Tuesday next, the 26th instant. EASTERTIDE SPORTS AND PASTIMES.

THE Easter holidays afford the British public ample opportunities for indulging in some of their favourite outdoor sports and pastimes, and it is needless to say the opportunities are turned to very excellent account. For those who are content with making one or more excursions to their favourite inland or seaside resorts, the railway and other companies offer every facility. Those, again, who prefer witnessing or taking part in some special sports or pastimes have no difficulty in so doing. In London and throughout the Provinces there are athletic and similar grounds almost without number, and at one and all of them some kind of arrangement is made with a view to meeting the wishes and needs of the public in this respect. Here foot races are organised. There a series of wrestling contests is provided. In a third locality cricket or rowing finds the chief favour, while as regards indoor entertainments, the theatres and music halls, museums and arts galleries—all these are crowded with eager and interested visitors. We need not enter very minutely into details. Our daily contemporaries have furnished these already in abundance. A short outline, however, will doubtless prove interesting.

On Good Friday was held at Lillie Bridge Grounds, West Brompton, the annual meeting of the Cumberland and Westmoreland Wrestling Society. The attendance was very large, while the sport was of the usual excellent character. There were three matches for (1) the London Twelve Stone Prize, for which there were thirty-eight entries; (2) the Champion All Weights Prize, for which sixty-seven entered; and (3) the Country Eleven and a Half Stone Prize, for which there mustered a field of fifty-six. J. W. Wannop of Carlisle, won the first of these contests; G. Steadman who scaled 17st. 6lb. threw Lowden, of Frizington, 16st. 10lb., and took the Champion Prize; and J. Frear, of Frizington, after a series of sharp tussles with J. Moffatt, of Brampton, won the Country Prize. In addition to these, the programme contained an Open Quarter-Mile Handicap, and a Pole-Leaping contest. In the former, W. E. Pearl, 52 yards, G. Chillingworth 28 yards, and W. Broughton 48 yards, were placed first, second, and third respectively, and were awarded the corresponding prizes of £15, £4, and £2. In the Pole-leaping, John Thwaites, of Keswick, took the First Prize, clearing 10ft. 1in. while the Second was divided between J. F. Simpson, Ulverstone, and J. Pearem, of Keswick, each of whom cleared 9ft. 10in. On Saturday, a second similar meeting was held, the Prize being the Championship of the World Belt, presented by Sir John D. Astley. The wrestling on this occasion was of what is known as "the catch-hold" description, and G. Steadman, of Drybeck, repeated his victory of last year and secured the trophy. Should he prove victorious in 1882 the Belt will become his absolute property.

With Easter Monday there have of late years been associated two interesting events—the Volunteer Review, which though it lapsed for a few years, has now been revived, and the Easter Hunt in Epping Forest. The interest in the latter event is limited; it is not every citizen of London who is desirous of emulating the performance of the immortal John Gilpin. But the Volunteer Review is popular throughout the country, and we are glad to see the War Office authorities are willing to recognise that a volunteer field day on a large scale, if it has no other effect than to keep our citizen soldiers in excellent humour, is productive of some good. If it results in no other benefit, it proves the carrying powers of one of our leading railway companies are equal to almost any emergency. The punctual conveyance to and from Brighton of some 15,000 troops, to say nothing of the heavy holiday traffic, which was dealt with easily, is a feat of which the directors of the London, Brighton, and South Coast Railway Co. has every reason to be proud. As regards the Review itself, the manœuvres appear to have been well conceived and well executed—so far as the contracted space and time would allow; while the march-past gave every satisfaction. The Duke of Connaught was in command of a division, and among the distinguished officers present were H.R.H. the Duke of Cambridge, F.M. commanding-in-chief, Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar, and General Higginson, in charge of the arrangements of the day.

The race for the Hundred Miles Bicycle Championship of the World was run at Leicester on Saturday. Eight of the competitors who had entered appeared at the post and after a gallant struggle, G. W. Waller of Newcastle-on-Tyne, the long distance champion, won by five yards from H. Higham of Nottingham, A. E. Derkinderin of Coventry taking the third prize. Wood, Evans, Lamb, Edlin, and Patrick severally covered the eighty miles necessary to entitle them to the award of £2 to all who accomplished that distance.

Though the cricket season is not supposed to begin till May, it is not unusual for some county teams to test the strength of their rising players at Easter. Three of these test matches took place on Monday and Tuesday of this week. One of them came off on the Leicestershire Cricket Ground, when a County and Town team met under the captaincy of G. Parker and J. Garner respectively. The struggle was a close one, the Town team winning by one wicket. The same day the Derbyshire Colts Match was played at Derby between the County Eleven and Twenty-two Colts and resulted in a draw, which was slightly in favour of the Eleven. The Notts Colts Match was played at the Trent Bridge Ground, the Twenty-two making 85 and 171 (with one wicket to fall), while the Eleven scored 103 in their first and only innings.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS—Ever Useful. The afflicted by illness should look their diseases fully in the face, and at once seek a remedy for them. A short search will convince the most sceptical that these noble medicaments have afforded ease, comfort, and oftentimes complete recovery, to the most tortured sufferers. The Ointment will cure all descriptions of sores, wounds, bad legs, sprains, eruptions, erysipelas, rheumatism, gout, and skin affections. The Pills never fail in correcting and strengthening the stomach, and in restoring a deranged liver to a wholesome condition, in rousing torpid kidneys to increase their secretion, and in re-establishing the natural healthy activity of the bowels. Holloway's are the remedies for complaints of all classes of society.

WALTER RODWELL WRIGHT.

FROM BRO. A. M. BROADLEY'S HISTORY OF FREEMASONRY IN THE DISTRICT OF MALTA.

WITH a considerable reputation both as a jurist and homme de lettres, Walter Rodwell Wright, who had devoted many years of an active life to Masonic researches, was appointed early in the present century to the post of British Consul in the Ionian Islands, which subsequently became the theme of his admirable descriptive poem "Horæ Ionicæ."* In the year 1801 (December 18th) Bro. Wright joined the Prince of Wales Lodge (then No. 412), and three years later was elected Grand Master of the Order of the Red Cross in England, this degree being then at the zenith of its prosperity. He was at that time described as "a most distinguished Mason and a personal friend of the Dukes of Kent and Sussex." In 1807, Edward, Duke of Kent, having executed a charter or warrant for the revival of "The Knights of the exalted religious and military Orders of the Temple and Holy Sepulchre of St. John of Jerusalem," &c., Bro. Wright was elected Grand Master on the 12th April of that year.† He continued to hold the office till the 6th August 1812, when the Duke of Sussex succeeded him. In the record of the meeting of the Grand Council of the Red Cross held on the 15th December 1810, Sir Knight Wright is described as Grand Commander.‡ On the 27th January 1813,§ he attended at the ceremony accompanying the presentation of a magnificent jewel to the D.G.M. the Earl of Moira, who was about to leave England as Governor-General of India. Shortly before this he had been appointed P.G.M. of the Ionian Islands, and composed the ode sung at this farewell dinner in the presence of six royal dukes, all members of the Craft.

Although on the 18th May 1813, he informed the Grand Council of the Red Cross of "his approaching departure for a foreign land," he was destined to take a very prominent part in the most important Masonic transaction that England has ever seen, viz., the Union of the Two Grand Lodges of the Ancients and Moderns. In the Articles of Union, dated the 1st December 1813, his name immediately follows that of the Duke of Sussex as one of the five signatories on behalf of the Grand Lodge under the Constitution of England, and he was present at the magnificent ceremonials of the Lodge of Reconciliation and first meeting of the United Grand Lodge of England, which took place on the 27th December of the same year. Meanwhile he had resigned the Grand Mastership of the Red Cross, and proposed the Duke of Sussex as his successor. It was resolved to present him with a testimonial of not less than one hundred pounds in value. On the 19th July 1813, G.M. Wright informed the governing body that he had conferred on the Duke of Sussex the noviciate, whereupon the latter was unanimously elected a Grand Cross. His Royal Highness was then introduced, and admitted to the Grand Cross, "making his offering according to ancient custom." He was on the same day elected G.M. for his natural life, and duly installed by his predecessor. On the 11th September the Council resolved to inform P.G.M. Wright that a sum had been paid to his bankers, which he was requested "to dispose of either by the purchase of a sword or other ornament as a mark of remembrance of that affection and regard his zeal and Masonic labours had established in the hearts of his brethren and companions." Returning once more to the memorable 27th December 1813, we find that the recitation of an ode written by Bro. Wright formed an important portion of the day's proceedings. It is printed in extenso in Preston's "Illustrations" (p 429), and extends over five pages. Amongst the papers of Bro. Wright in Malta we have found a similar effusion, of which he is said to be the joint author, and which certainly adds to his claim to rank as one of the most able and industrious of Masonic minstrels.

During the following year Bro. Walter Rodwell Wright proceeded to Malta to fill the important posts of President of His Majesty's Court of Appeal and Senior Member of the Supreme Council of Justice in that island. With the advent of Bro. Wright the reliable history of modern Masonry in Malta may be said to begin.

‡ An engraving of Bro. Wright was published by Mr. Scott on the 17th November 1813. He wears a collar from which depends a R.A. jewel. On his breast is the jewel of the Order of the Red Cross. Beneath are the arms of the Degrees of K.T. and Kadosh, and several emblems belonging to the former. This print still can be seen in the Masonic Hall at Malta.

[In our Review of Bro. Broadley's book, we have referred to the above Sketch of the late distinguished Freemason, Bro. W. R. Wright, but we are certain the full particulars will be none the less acceptable to our readers, because, in a former article, we have given a résumé.

ST. MARYLEBONE LODGE, No. 1305.

THE Installation meeting was held on Wednesday, 13th inst., at the Eyre Arms Hotel, St. John's Wood. The Lodge was opened by the outgoing W.M. Bro. Charles Arthur Smith, who was supported by a goodly party of Past Masters, Officers, and members of the Lodge, with the following, amongst other, Visitors:—Bros. James Long P.M. 733, Samuel Drewell 177, B. A. Groves 172, George Dorsitt 172, Henry Lake 59, J. A. Alsopp 1381, G. B. Yapp 21, F. Higgins late 1305, John Douglass 228, W. W. Morgan Secretary 211. The business on the agenda paper, in addition to the event of the day—the installation of the W.M. elect, Bro. E. W. Timewell—comprised the raising of Bro. Ellis, and the passing of Bros. Dunn and Pescod. The ballot was brought into requisition for Mr. George Felton, a candidate for initiation, who was proposed by Bro. Ellis, and seconded by the W.M. The result was unanimous in favour of this candidate. Bro. Frederick Seager Hunt, of the Canterbury Lodge, No. 1635, had likewise expressed a desire to join this Lodge, and on proposition duly made at the last meeting by Bro. Past Master Baker, seconded by Bro. Charles Arthur Smith the W.M., the ballot was again brought into requisition, and the candidate was unanimously elected a joining member. Bro. Charles Arthur Smith, as Installing Master, fulfilled the highest expectations of his friends, and carried out the duties in an eminently satisfactory manner. On the re-admission of the brethren below the rank of I.M. the customary greetings were given, and then came the appointment of Officers, with the following result: Phillips S.W., White P.M. J.W., Wm. Botting Treasurer, Baker P.M. Secretary, Moufiet S.D., Hill J.D., Halliday I.G., Gomm Director of Ceremonies, Drake W.S., Daley Tyler. After the addresses to the Master, Wardens, and Brethren had been delivered, the new W.M. performed the ceremony of initiating Bro. Felton, the candidate named above, and gave an earnest of the ability he will bring to bear in the fulfilment of his duties as W.M. during the ensuing twelve months. Routine work followed; it was decided that the Lodge should have a Summer Banquet in lieu of the usual June Banquet, and during the discussion on this question some pleasant reminiscences were indulged in of the happy surroundings attending previous gatherings of a like nature. A proposition stood on the paper that the sum of £10 be voted from the funds of the Lodge for a testimonial to Bro. E. White, as a slight acknowledgment of services so ably rendered as Secretary for a period of five years. Some considerable discussion ensued hereon. The members, one and all, seemed to appreciate the zeal displayed by their worthy Secretary; and in the end an amendment was carried that fifteen guineas be voted from the Funds of the Lodge for this laudable purpose. Soon after the Lodge was closed. The banquet was capitally served, under the personal superintendence of the Bros. Perrot, the proprietors of the hotel, whose exertions seemed to be thoroughly appreciated by the members and their guests. The W.M. gave the Loyal toasts, which were done full honour to. Bro. C. A. Smith I.P.M. proposed the health of the W.M. All were pleased to see Bro. Timewell in the chair of the Lodge. He (Bro. Smith) had worked step by step with the W.M., who had filled every office in the Lodge. As to his capacity for conducting the business, what he had already done that evening would give evidence of what the members might expect of him. For his own part he had no hesitation in saying that Bro. Timewell was thoroughly conversant with every detail, and that his year of office would be a thoroughly successful one. The members one and all would join in wishing Bro. Timewell every happiness. After Bro. W. Pope had favoured the company with a song—"The Skipper and his Boy"—the W.M. replied. He, thanked Bro. C. A. Smith for the kind way in which he had submitted the toast, and the brethren for the heartiness they had accorded it. He could assure them he had the interests of the St. Marylebone Lodge at heart, and would strive to add to its lustre and prosperity. The next toast on the list was the health of the Initiate, and the W.M. remarked that the members were at all times gratified in receiving additions to their ranks when candidates came with such recommendations as Bro. Felton had brought him. After Bro. Morgan had given a recital, the "Wreck of the Indian Chief," the Initiate replied, and then a compliment was paid to the joining member of the day. Bro. Seager Hunt, the W.M. said, had a local reputation; they gave him a hearty welcome, and trusted his engagements would permit of his frequent attendance at the meetings of the Lodge. Bro. Seager Hunt thanked the W.M. and the members for the reception they had given him. He was but a young Mason; still it was a pleasure to him to say that he already fully realised that the carrying out of the true principles of Freemasonry had a tendency to make them better men and better citizens. There had been a time perhaps when he had felt inclined to ridicule the pretensions put forth on its behalf; however, he was now more deeply impressed, and felt especially grateful to Bros. Baker and Smith for introducing him to the Lodge. In proposing the health of the I.P.M., the W.M. scarcely knew what to say. Bro. Charles Arthur Smith had had a very successful year of office. His happy face and general geniality of temperament had diffused a sense of comfort all around. He had well merited the P.M.'s jewel, which it was now his (the Worshipful Master's) duty to place on his breast, and it was the sincere hope of the brethren that the G.A.O.T.U. might grant him many years of life to wear it. The jewel, which was of neat and artistic design, bore the following inscription:—

the St. Marylebone Lodge, No. 1305, To Brother CHARLES ARTHUR SMITH, P.M., for his valuable services as Worshipful Master for the year ending
April 13th 1881.

Bro. Smith in reply said, His year of office had essentially been one of success. As the Master had gracefully put it, his list for the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution in February last had been well supported, and he was in a position to take up on behalf of his Stewardship a sum of over £82. Theirs was not, numerically speaking, a large Lodge, but their contributions had enabled them to rank as about No. 10 on the list as regards amount. He expressed his thanks to the Past Masters for the assistance they had always given him. The pleasant gatherings in the Lodge would ever be associated in his mind, and the jewel which the brethren had presented to him he hoped to wear for many years. In conclusion, he trusted he might long have the gratification of meeting the happy faces of those he now saw around him. The Visitors were next complimented, and Bro. Yapp and others acknowledged the toast. Bro. P.M. White in replying to the toast of the P.M.'s, alluded to the recognition made of his services. He assured the brethren the duties were of no trivial character. He was ambitious to occupy the post of honour in his Lodge, but he thought he had waited patiently. He had advanced a step that evening. Any assistance he could give to the newly-appointed Secretary was always at command. The remaining toasts in due course were disposed of, and the brethren separated, gratified at the success attending the day's proceedings. The Past Masters of the Lodge who were present in addition to those already mentioned, were Bros. J. L. Baker, G. Draper, W. W. Tyler, S. Stringer, Thomas Smith, J. J. Pope, and Henry Ashwell.

Prince Leopold Lodge of Instruction, No. 1445.—Held at Bro. Fromm's, the Moorgate Tavern, Finsbury Pavement, on Wednesday, 13th inst. This Lodge met in its new city Quarters, under the presidency of the veteran Brother T. J. Barnes 554 and 933, supported by Bros. W. Musto P.M. 1349 as I.P.M. in the temporary absence of Bro. W.H. Myers P.M. 820 and 1445 the Preceptor, who arrived before closing; S. L. Green P.M. acted as S.W., McDonald as J.W. Lodge being opened, and the minutes read, the ceremony of passing was rehearsed, Bro. Kimbell being candidate. The first, second, and third sections of the lecture were worked by Brother McDonald, assisted by the brethren. Lodge being closed in the second degree, and the dues collected, Bro. S. L. Green was elected W.M. for Wednesday, 20th. The brethren unanimously expressed their pleasure in having the company of Bros. Barnes and Musto. The following brethren were also present: G. C. Young W.M. 820, Partridge S.W. 1445, J. Robson, C. Robson, Loring, Ewen, Kerton, C. Smith, Seymour-Clarke Sec.

Mount Edgcumbe Lodge of Instruction, No. 1446.—The usual weekly meeting was held on Tuesday last, at the Harp Tavern, Jermyn-street, Piccadilly. Bros. Blundell W.M., Richardson S.W., Skinner, J.W. Among those present were Bros. Paul, Hemming, Docker, Wood, W. C. Smith, Wood, &c. Lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. The Lodge was opened in the second and third degrees, when Bro. Paul worked the first section of the third lecture. The ceremony of raising was rehearsed, Bro. Paul acting as candidate. Lodge was then closed to first degree, and Bro. Richardson was unanimously elected W.M. for Tuesday week, after which Lodge was closed in harmony. We beg to remind the brethren that on Tuesday, the 26th April, the Fifteen Sections will be worked at this Lodge of Instruction, to commence at seven o'clock, Bro. Paul in the chair.

The Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar Lodge, for which a Warrant has recently been granted by H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, the Grand Master of England, will be consecrated on the first Wednesday in May. His Royal Highness cannot possibly attend, but a member of the Royal family will, it is expected, be present, and the Grand Lodge will also be represented. Owing to the large muster of brethren anticipated on the occasion, the ceremony will take place in the Lecture Hall, Penny-street, but the regular meetings of the Lodge (which are fixed for the first Wednesday in each month) will be held in the Masonic Hall, Highbury-street, Portsmouth. The Prince of Wales has intimated to Commander Lord Charles Beresford, the W.M. elect, his intention to visit the Lodge during his stay at Osborne, towards the close of the summer.—Portsmouth Times.

The Sir Hugh Myddelton Lodge of Instruction, No. 1602, have adjourned their next meeting until Tuesday next, 26th April. The Lodge is held at the Crown and Woolpack Tavern, St. John-street-road, Bro. R. Pearcy P.M. 228 Preceptor.

EPPS'S COCOA.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood, and a properly nourished frame."

"We have companies for all sorts of things: why do not some philanthropic gentlemen start an association for lending money to embarrassed traders and housekeepers at ten per cent. interest? There are a number of people now getting three per cent. for their money in Consols who would be glad to invest it in an enterprise in which, if properly managed, there would be no risk whatever, and a certainty of earning eight or nine per cent. profit. Properly managed, such an association, worked on a large scale, would be an immense boon to people struggling with temporary difficulties, and would pay a handsome return to those who invested their money in shares."

FESTIVAL OF THE ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS.

THE Ninety-third Anniversary Festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls will be held at Freemasons' Tavern, on Wednesday, the 18th May. The newly-elect R.W. Prov. Grand Master of Gloucestershire, the Right Hon. Sir Michael E. Hicks-Beach, Bart., M.P., has consented to preside, and what with the support he may rely upon receiving from his Province, and the exertions which we are justified in anticipating will be made by the Board of Stewards, we trust the announcement which it will devolve on Bro. Hedges to make will be as satisfactory as the friends and supporters of the School can desire. There are, however, apart from the very natural anxiety of the brethren to support so long-established, well-ordered, and serviceable an Institution, many and various important reasons why Bro. Hedges and the Board of Stewards for the year should meet with a prompt and liberal response from the Craft generally to their eloquent appeals for the pecuniary help which is so much needed, and these reasons we will devote some modicum of space to consider in this article, so that our readers may have an opportunity of weighing them well between now and the day of the Festival.

Our friends need hardly to be informed that our Girls' School was founded in the year 1788, chiefly through the active exertions of the late Bro. Chevalier Ruspini, surgeon dentist to George III., who for a succession of years held the office of Grand Sword Bearer, and other enthusiastic brethren, who with him succeeded in enlisting the sympathy of our then Grand Master, His Royal Highness the Duke of Cumberland and his Duchess, after whom, indeed, the School was at first named. From the beginning of its career, it appealed successfully to the good wishes of the Craft, and it can proudly boast, that in the period of its existence, it has educated, clothed, and maintained as many as twelve hundred and fifty daughters of distressed or deceased brethren. Like many successful institutions of a similar character, it had but a very modest start in life, but it has been slowly but surely increasing, till now there are maintained within its walls no less than 228 girls. That so much substantial assistance should have been rendered, and be in the way of being rendered to children who would otherwise have been brought up in comparative poverty, and have had no better education, perhaps, than is afforded at a small day school, must be in the highest degree gratifying to the Craft generally, but especially to those who have had a hand in effecting so much good. But having brought the School to this state of efficiency, and having undertaken the maintenance and education of so large a number of girls, there is all the greater reason why the Craft must continue annually its exertions. It is scarcely necessary to point out that the greater the undertaking, the greater must be the amount of support, and the greater will be the energy indispensable to furnish such support. Another element that cannot be lost sight of is, the just pride we must all feel at the splendour of this particular monument we have been successful in rearing in honour of the grand principles of Freemasonry, and having erected this monument, it is our bounden duty to maintain it in the most perfect state of efficiency. It must never be in the power of any folk to point the finger of scorn at the English Craft, and charge them with having entered on a task which, as the years rolled on, they found it was impossible for them to continue. We have more than once expressed ourselves strongly against the practice during these later years of too rapidly extending our central Institutions. But now that the extension has been made, we loyally bury our old opinions out of sight, and are prepared to support any and every measure which, after due consideration by the authorities, may be thought necessary in order to maintain their present status. Thus, it having once been resolved to purchase Lyncombe House, and receive into the School an additional twenty-five girls, we are as eager as those whom, in the exercise of what we conceived to be our duty, we opposed, to do all we can to keep the School up to its present strength. These are among the principal reasons why we trust the Festival about to be held next Wednesday fortnight will be at least as successful as any of its predecessors.

Let us next consider the income and expenditure of the School, so that we may judge of the amount which must be provided annually for its support. The ordinary expenditure for the year 1880, during which there was an average of 199 pupils on the roll of the Institution, is reported by the Auditors to have amounted to £7,184 1s 9d, which gives an average cost per girl of £36 2s. If we take into account the cost of the additional twenty-five who began their school career in January, we shall find that for ordinary purposes, the sum of, in round figures, £8,000 is absolutely necessary. Leaving the purchase of Lyncombe House and certain Government Stock out of the question, we find the further expenditure incurred reached the sum of £1,655 12s 4d. Taking the two together we arrive at a total of over £9,655; or, if we allow a liberal margin for contingencies, we shall at the same time be not very greatly exaggerating if we affirm that a round £10,000 must be forthcoming every year towards the support of our Girls' School. Towards this amount Grand Lodge contributes £150 and Grand Chapter £10 10s, while the interest on invested moneys is set down in 1880 as having been £1,245, so that adding these together, the total permanent income is £1,405 10s. But stating it broadly at £1,500, it must nevertheless be obvious to our readers that about six-sevenths of the year's requirements must be subscribed by the Craft, if at least the School is to be maintained at its present strength. Be it also remembered that, in saying this, we are leaving only the very smallest possible surplus to meet a serious contingency such as must be looked upon to occur every now and again even in the best regulated Institutions. This further reason ought to, and we believe will, have the effect of stimulating the Craft to such efforts as will secure the success of the approaching anniversary.

We have spoken of the School as being well-managed. This will be the more apparent if we institute a comparison between the expenditure of 1877 and 1880. In the former, as in the latter year, a large sum was disbursed in enlarging the premises; but leaving this out of the calculation, the ordinary expenditure, which we have given as £7,184 1s 9d for last year, in respect of 199 girls, or an average per girl of £36 2s, was in 1877 £5,870 13s 7d for 162 girls, giving an average per girl of £35 15s 11d. The Extraordinary expenditure was £783 12s 8d as against £1,655 12s 4d last year, so that comparing the sum of the two classes for each year, we have a total in 1877 of £6,654, and in 1880 of £9,655. The difference in the extraordinary expenditure may be explained by the outlay of over £650 on laying out grounds, tar-paving playground, building dwarf boundary wall, painting and cleaning laundry, &c. expenses which, it must be admitted, are not likely to be of annual recurrence. As regards the annual expenditure of the two years, the actual difference in the average cost per girl is only six shillings. Economy, with a due regard to efficiency, is clearly therefore the order of the day in the management of this School, and brethren will be all the more disposed to give freely when they know their donations and subscriptions will be turned to the best account. We have also spoken of the excellence of the School as an educational establishment, nor need we go further in any attempt to prove this assertion than to the two years we have already referred to. In 1877, five prizes were awarded to as many girls for passing the Cambridge Examination. In 1880, one girl was awarded a prize for passing the Senior Cambridge Examination, another was similarly rewarded for "passing in honours Cambridge Examination," and six others were similarly honoured for passing the examination. This is public testimony to the excellence of the education afforded, and proves that the standard of proficiency is not only maintained at what it was in 1877, but has since improved very considerably. Nor can it be denied that a School which bears such good fruit deserves the support of brethren throughout the country.

Having thus urged on the attention of our readers the reasons why we think and believe the Craft generally should exert itself, so that the second Festival of 1881 may as nearly as possible equal in its results that of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution in February last, let us add a few words in order to strengthen and confirm what has gone before. It must not be forgotten that Bro. Terry was so fortunate as to secure the Grand Master of the Province of West Yorkshire as Chairman for his Festival, and West Yorkshire, with its formidable array of Lodges, loyally supported their chief with a total subscription of £3,500. But Gloucestershire, albeit, as we shall see later on, it has regularly done its duty towards all our Institutions, is far from being a strong Province. It has but fourteen Lodges all told, and but two of the towns within its limits can boast of having more than one Lodge—Cheltenham and Gloucester. Yet it has figured well at the majority of the Festivals we have been privileged to chronicle. In 1876 it gave £276 14s to the Boys' School. In 1877 it is returned as having subscribed £28 7s to the Benevolent, £135 9s to the Girls' School, and £338 2s to that of our Boys: total for the year, £501 18s. In 1878 it gave, Benevolent £118, Girls £229 16s 6d, Boys £379 13s: total, £727 9s 6d. In 1879 the Benevolent received £148 12s, the Girls £312 19s, and the Boys £378 10s: total, £840 1s; while last year the Benevolent had £88 8s, the Girls £358 1s, and the Boys £234 3s, or together £680 12s. In February last it contributed to the Benevolent £263 12s. In short, since the beginning of 1875 till now, the total of its subscriptions to our three Institutions is a fraction over £3,332. This is an array of figures which speaks most eloquently for the liberality of our Gloucestershire brethren, and having regard to the aforesaid paucity of Lodges, furnishes an additional reason, if any such reason were needed, why the Metropolis and the other Provinces should come forward and lend a helping hand in the cause which Sir M. Hicks-Beach has loyally undertaken to advocate, and which the Lodges in his Province are sure to support. Let us look hopefully forward, as we feel we may safely do, under the tutelary auspices and with the powerful advocacy of the newly elected Provincial Grand Master of Gloucestershire, to our Girls receiving what, in common parlance, is called a "bumper" Anniversary Festival on the 18th May, now approaching so rapidly.

COMMITTEE MEETING OF THE GIRLS' SCHOOL

THE monthly meeting of the General Committee of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls was held on Thursday, at Freemasons' Hall. There were present Bros. Col. Creaton G. Treasurer (in the chair), J. M. Case, E. H. Finney, Thomas Massa, H. A. Dubois, W. Bailey, Joshua Nunn, Frank Richardson, James Patten, H. Massey, Peter de Lande Long, E. Letchworth, E. C. Mather, C. Hammerton, and F. R. W. Hedges (Secretary). After the reading and confirmation of the minutes of last meeting, and the reading of the minutes of the other Committees subsequently, Bros. Massa, Frank Richardson, John Case, and A. J. Duff-Filer nominated lists of brethren to serve on the House and Audit Committees of the Institution for ensuing year. There were but two petitions for the admission of candidates to the list for election. Bro. Hedges informed the Committee that Sir Michael Hicks Beach, M.P., Prov. G.M. for Gloucestershire, had appointed Tuesday, the 17th May, for the Stewards' visit to the School, when he will distribute the prizes. The Committee shortly afterwards adjourned.

G.P., W. Clarke G.P., W. T. Howe P.G.P., H. G. Buss, Assistant Grand Secretary, T. Cubitt P.G.P. At the conclusion of the banquet the customary toasts were honoured. That of the Queen, the Chairman said, required no recommendation in an assembly of Freemasons. It was forty-three years since the gracious lady who ruled over us ascended the throne; doubtless there were some present old enough to remember her accession, but all could appreciate how thoroughly Her Majesty had endeared herself to her subjects. It was not, however, as loyal subjects alone that they honoured Her Majesty; members of the Craft could never forget that she was the daughter of a Freemason and the mother of their most distinguished Grand Master. The toast was duly honoured, and was followed by the National Anthem. The next toast was H.R.H. the Princess of Wales and the other members of the Royal Family. It happened that it had been the privilege of the noble chairman to be a great deal in Denmark. He had the honour of remembering, and he might say of knowing, Her Royal Highness from the time of her childhood. He well remembered the grief which overspread her native land when she was taken from it and transferred to England; but he ventured to say that she received a welcome from Englishmen which she had thoroughly appreciated. She had identified herself with Englishmen, and was very intimately connected with Masonry. He did not know that he had ever been in any foreign country where the solemnities of Masonry were carried out more accurately and successfully than in Denmark. They must remember it was there that our Grand Master got his first degree in Masonry, and therefore Her Royal Highness had a very friendly regard for everything connected with Masonry. He believed that she was very much touched by the message sent to her by Grand Lodge on her birthday. He hoped he might say without presumption that her two sons, the illustrious young blue jackets now serving their country, might, when they became of mature age, be enrolled in the Craft. The toast met a hearty reception, and was followed by that of the Grand Master. The chairman, in proposing it, referred to the installation of the Prince of Wales at the Albert Hall, remarking that he had never seen a more picturesque gathering than was there assembled. It, however, lacked one element, and that he was only too pleased to see supplied in the gallery before him, the ladies always lent a charm to any proceedings at which they were present. He thought that all who had witnessed that scene could but feel gratified at the selection then made. Although His Royal Highness was not present in Grand Lodge as often as they could wish, the brethren might rest assured that their interests were not neglected. Considering his many duties, it was impossible for him to do all he desired, but so far as he was able he attended personally to all matters appertaining to his office, while the interests of the Craft were never lost sight of by him. The Chairman next proposed the Grand Lodges of Scotland, Ireland, and Foreign Grand Lodges, the latter to include the United States of America. Bro. Maxwell Close was the first to respond. He desired to thank the brethren for drinking success to the Grand Lodge of Ireland, and assured them that he deemed it a great compliment to be called upon to respond to the toast. Having the honour to represent the Grand Lodge of England in the Grand Lodge of Ireland, he knew how cordial and happy were the relations between the two bodies. Nature had done much to sever the two countries, but he believed that the Craft had been unceasing in its efforts to unite the two countries in the bonds of fraternal affection. Bro. Linenger, Past Grand Master Nebraska, followed. It afforded him great pleasure to make a public declaration of the manner in which he had been entertained in England. As representing one of the youngest Grand Lodges of the West, the membership of which, however, was now about 125,000, he was glad to say that Freemasonry in the far West was in a very prosperous condition indeed. He was extremely pleased at the hearty reception he had met with in this country, and assured the brethren that should they ever have an opportunity of visiting his district, the same hand of good fellowship would be extended to them. In proposing the health of the Pro Grand Master, and the Deputy G. Master, the Chairman referred to apologies each had sent for their non-attendance. All must regret their not being present. He doubted if they were to search the United Kingdom from one end to the other if they would find two brethren better fitted to fill the offices they occupied. In giving the health of the Grand Wardens and the other Grand Officers Present and Past, Gen. Brownrigg referred to the difficulty the Grand Master must experience in making selections of Grand Officers; but he thought the appointments made generally gave satisfaction. On the present occasion he though the Craft was singularly fortunate. The Right Hon. the Earl of March replied. He should make every effort to secure the approbation of Grand Lodge. It struck him at the appointment of the Grand Officers that while some, like himself, were new to office, others were re-appointed—not for the first time. The hearty applause which greeted the latter gave assurance of the approval with which the brethren regarded their past services, and their confidence in the future endeavours of the G. Officers. Bro. D. Sandeman proposed the health of the Chairman. The toast was one for which he had been safely selected because it was one which required no verbiage and no eloquence. There were many brethren in the hall who like himself (and he was proud of the distinction) had for many years been intimately acquainted with the Right Worshipful Chairman in Freemasonry; but he knew that all present, whether intimately acquainted with him or not, were well acquainted with his name, which was a household word in the Craft; it was one which belonged to one who had for many years taken great interest and an active part in the ceremonies, taken also a leading part in the Charities, and done everything which could make him dear to them. The chairman tendered his cordial thanks for the toast and for the patience with which the brethren had listened to what he had had to say. Although he had many friends in the room, he attributed their kind attention to the fraternal regard they had for him as a brother and an old soldier. The health of the Provincial Grand Master followed, the chairman regretting that so few of the members were present. The Provincial Grand Master for Staffordshire, being the only representative besides himself, Bro. Major Tudor briefly replied. As yet he had had but little to do with the work of his Provincial Grand Mastership, but for a good many years he had been acquainted with the Provinces, and he could safely say that Provincial Grand Masters always desire to do all they can to further the interests of Freemasonry and to cary out its principles. The toast of the Charities followed, Bros. Hedges, Binckes, and Terry, each replying. The chairman considered there could be no better evidence of the interest taken in the Charities than the increased subscriptions which were heard of at the festivals. Year by year they increased, and he hoped year by year they would continue to increase. There had been a good deal of correspondence on the subject, but after all he thought among sensible, straight-thinking men it was always better—though he was open to conviction—to go and see the Institutions for themselves. Very few he thought could see the correspondence without being sure that to a very great extent there was a good deal to be said about it; but for all that, there was the broad fact that we supported an immense number of orphan children and decayed Masons and their widows. The very basis of Freemasonry was charity and brotherly love, and he hoped the day would never come when the Masonic Charities would cease to be what they were now. The health of the Stewards was duly proposed, and acknowledged by Bro. Rudolph G. Glover. This concluded the proceedings in the banquet hall, and the brethren adjourned to the Temple, where the customary concert was given, under the the direction of Bro. C. S. Jekyll, G. Organist.

The Grand Lodge of the most Ancient and Honourable Fraternity of Free and Accepted Masons, Pennsylvania. Its early History and Constitutions from A.L. 5730, A.D. 1730, its Minutes and Proceedings. List of Lodges from earliest date to December 27, 1880. Part III. Compiled and published by the Library Committee of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania. Philadelphia: Sherman and Co. Printers, 1880.

THE period of time over which the Minutes contained in the Part before us extend is five years and a half, namely, from the Quarterly Communication in June 1799 to that in December 1804, the R.W. Bro. Jonathan Bayard Smith being Grand Master for the earlier portion, and R.W. Bro. Israal Israel during the latter. The earliest minute contains extracts from the Report of the Charity Committee announcing, in the first place, that the said Committee had received on behalf of Grand Lodge five perpetual shares in the Philadelphia Dispensary in return for a donation of fifty guineas to the funds of that Institution; and in the next, that when the G. Master and Dep. G. Master had called on Mrs. Dean, widow of a Bro. Dean, to present to her the sum of twenty-five dollars which had been voted her out of the funds of Grand Lodge, the lady, while expressing her grateful sense of the kindness evinced towards her, declined to accept the grant on the ground that she was in better circumstances, and "that she had no doubt but the brethren had many objects which stood in greater need of it than she did." Such an act of honourable self-denial as this deserves to have been recorded. Two other matters of interest are noted: one, that Bro. S. Benge had presented G. Lodge with two purple sashes for the G. and Dep. G. Masters respectively, together with "an apron of white satin for the R.W.G.M., seven leather aprons for the R.W.D.G.M., S.W., J.W., Secretary, Treasurer, S.D., and J.D., all the aprons trimmed with broad purple ribbon and gold lace, and hangings of broad purple trimmed with gold lace for the jewels of the above-mentioned eight officers." For this handsome gift a vote of thanks was unanimously passed to the donor. The other matter concerned Grand Lodge premises, the room where it had previously been held being no longer available. Consequently a Committee was appointed to prepare a scheme whereby a Hall should be erected. On St. John's Day, 24th June, this Committee presented a Report, in which they recommended a scheme for the formation of a "Pennsylvania Freemasons' Hall Association" with a view to "raising by subscription and chances the sum of six thousand dollars for the purpose of procuring by purchase, or otherwise erecting a building to be denominated a Freemasons' Lodge." The plan, full particulars of which are furnished, was read a first time, and after two failures to secure the requisite attendance of members, a second time at an extra Communication on the 11th July, the further consideration of its details being postponed. The regular September Quarterly Communication was not held owing to an epidemic of yellow fever in the city, and the consequent removal into the country of a considerable number of the inhabitants, but at a special meeting on the 13th November, the Committee for finding temporary quarters reported, that in compliance with the request of such Committee, His Excellency T. Mifflin, Governor of the State, had granted to Grand Lodge the Secretaries' Chamber in the State House till such time as its use for state purposes might be required. The thanks of Grand Lodge were voted to His Excellency, and steps were ordered to be taken so as to have the Chamber furnished and made ready for the reception of Grand Lodge. At the December meeting communications were read from the Grand Lodges of Upper Canada, Lower Canada, and North Carolina. These show that in Upper Canada there were fourteen Lodges, and in Lower Canada sixteen Lodges; Brother W. Jarvis being G. Master of the former, and H.R.H. Prince Edward, afterwards Duke of Kent, G. Master of the latter. Bro. J. B. Smith was then re-elected G. Master, Bro. Israel Dep. G. Master, and other brethren G. Wardens, Treasurer, and Secretary, the last entry in the minutes of these meetings being the very singular notification that certain brethren had been excluded from Lodge No. 80, one for a period of "80 years," and two others for "40 years." So quaint a notice would seem to suggest that the inhabitants of Pennsylvania, or at all events the members of this particular Lodge, must have been remarkable for their longevity.

The minutes of the next two meetings, held on the 26th and 27th December, describe the measures taken by the brethren of Pennsylvania to pay honour to the memory of the illustrious Washington who had departed this life a short time before. That held on the former of the above was an extra Communication, summoned for the purpose of enabling Grand Lodge to comply with the invitation of the State Congress to take part in the funeral obsequies, vulgarly known as "Washington's sham funeral," which had been ordered by the State. But for all the unreality of the proceedings there can be no question as to the reality of the sorrow that was felt by all classes of the community, and especially by the Freemasons who had lost in G. Washington not only a beloved fellow-citizen and revered leader, but also the most distinguished member of the Masonic Craft in the United States. Were evidence of the truth of this statement necessary, we have but to refer to the address delivered in Grand Lodge on the solemn occasion by the R.W. Grand Master, in which, after noticing the deceased General's connection with the Craft, Bro. Smith went on to say:—

"The Old as well as the New World revere this name: he was indeed an illustrious Brother, Citizen, and Chief, in peace and in war, in council and action pre-eminent. The Masons of Pennsylvania have exulted that the name of Washington stood enrolled on their list of Brethren, and they will cherish the remembrance of his virtues and services as a rich legacy for their emulous example. If devotion of time and talents to ameliorate the state of man be a virtue; if obeying the calls of his country in times of the greatest difficulty and danger at every risk be a Masonic duty, of that virtue may Masonry boast that this our Washington has exhibited an instance beyond former example brilliant; and for the exercise of this duty will our Washington ever stand conspicuous in the foremost ranks. Are a love of order and sacred regard to the laws of the social compact characteristic of Masons? For his exemplary adherence to these Masonic virtues through all the vicissitudes and variegated difficulties of a Revolutionary War, has our Washington received the plaudits of thirteen Sovereign States."

At the latter of the two meetings the Grand Master and other principal Grand Officers were installed, and the subordinate Grand Officers appointed and invested, and this important duty having been fulfilled, resolutions were passed to the effect that the Grand Lodge-room should be put in mourning, and the members of Grand Lodge should wear black crape on the left arm and over the emblems on their aprons for six months. We may add here, before dismissing these references to General Washington, that a special communication was held on the 3rd February 1800, when it was resolved that a Masonic procession should be held on the 22nd of that month—that being the day recommended by the President and Congress of the United States to be set apart as a day of public mourning for the deceased General. Particulars of the procession are given under a later date.

But though Grand Lodge was thus mournfully engaged in adding its tribute of respect to that paid by the whole of the United States to the memory of their late chief, they were not unmindful of the ordinary business of the day. In the minutes of the 27th December mention is made of the near likelihood that the "modern" G. Lodge of South Carolina, the only one at the time in the States that was held under a foreign jurisdiction would be amalgamated with the "ancient" Grand Lodge of that State, and that, too, without any departure from, or infringement of, ancient landmarks on the part of the latter; and a hearty wish is expressed that the union of the two may be speedily accomplished. Reference is also made to certain resolutions transmitted by the said ancient Grand Lodge of South Carolina, advocating yet again the establishment of a superintending G. Lodge for the whole of the States, and inviting the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania to join in the preparation of plans to that end. In a note it is added that in the year 1799, Grand Lodge and the Lodges in Philadelphia, with the exception of two which had made no returns, had expended in charity over 1492 dollars, nearly one half of which was thus disbursed by the French Lodge, "L'Amenitie," No. 73. In the minutes of the 3rd February 1800, is an entry to the effect that a certain brother had ascertained that "the African Lodge, held in or near this city, was visited by members of some of our Lodges," and a committee of inquiry was appointed, to obtain further particulars and report.

In the minutes of the 3rd March, a question affecting the status of Past Masters who had obtained that degree under a foreign jurisdiction and had become members of Lodges in the jurisdiction of Pennsylvania since the adoption of its then existing rules and regulations, was submitted. A long discussion ensued, and in the end the Deputy Grand Master, acting as Grand Master, was requested to give his decision, which he did to the following effect: "That, agreeably to the first article of the said Rules and Regulations, all Past Masters who at the time of adopting the said regulations were actually members of Lodges under this jurisdiction were members of G. Lodge; but that since the adoption of those Rules and Regulations no P.M., however or wherever made, who was not a P.M., and also a regular member of some Lodge under this jurisdiction at that time, is a member of this G. Lodge unless he shall have served a regular time as Master of a Lodge under said jurisdiction." Nearly the whole of the rest of the minutes of this meeting relates to the proposal made by South Carolina to establish a Superintending or Supreme Grand Lodge for the whole of the United States. We may content ourselves, however, with noting that the idea was not favourably received by Pennsylvania, and that as a well-known fact nothing ever came of this or any other proposal of a similar character.

Among the records of an Extra Communication, held on 21st April, is a resolution condemnatory of an apparently common practice at the time of lending the jewels and aprons of Lodges for theatrical purposes. The resolution reads thus: "That this R.W.G.L. disapprove of the conduct of the aforesaid Masters, inasmuch as the use to which these emblems of our Order are applied is degrading to the dignity of the Craft, and has a manifest tendency to render it trifling and ridiculous in the eyes of the public and all sensible Masons, and that any such application of these ornaments be considered as meeting the severe disapprobation of this body." At the meeting of the 24th June was read a letter received from the Lodge St. John, Les Frères Unis, No. 77, Port D'Espagne, Trinidad, holding under the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania, stating that it had given Bro. Delaunay, who had been deputed some time previously to visit the Lodge, the sum of one hundred and fifty dollars, one part in payment of its dues to G. Lodge, and the other part as a "voluntary contribution to assist in the purchase or building of a place suitable for the meetings of the R.W.G. Lodge." Thanks were voted for this gift, and the sum of one hundred dollars was ordered to be invested in some public stock in the name of Grand Lodge, and in due course to be applied to the purpose for which it was given.

At the September meeting a statement of accounts for the period from 27th December 1797 to 29th June 1800 was submitted by the Accounts' Committee, from which it appears that the receipts were 925.59 dollars, and the expenditure 406.6½ dollars, leaving a balance of 518.97½ dollars. A further statement for the period from 28th December 1798 to 5th July 1800 was also submitted, to the effect that the Committee of Accounts, hearing that Bro. McElwee Grand Treasurer was about leaving for Europe, had called upon him to settle his accounts. Bro. McElwee accordingly attended the Committee, and some progress in the matter was made. He had, however, in spite of an assurance that he was not at once about to leave, sailed for Europe before another meeting, as appointed, could be held. Bros. Orr and Cannon, who had charge of the Grand Treasurer's papers, had obligingly permitted the Committee to examine them, and the result was that the Committee were of opinion Bro. McElwee was indebted to Grand Lodge in the sum of £211 6s 7d. A motion for the election of another brother as Grand Treasurer was postponed till the next meeting, and Bro Gavin Hamilton was then elected, and installed in that office. At the September meeting a letter of sympathy from the Grand Lodge of Ireland was read in reference to the loss sustained by the United States through the death of Washington. This letter contained a list of the Grand Officers, headed by Lord Viscount Doneughmore Most Worshipful Grand Master, and was accompanied by a letter announcing that an Orphan School had been established, under the patronage of their Grand Lodge, which had voted £200 towards its support. Communications were also read from the Grand Lodges of Lower Canada, Connecticut, Maryland, Georgia, Virginia, and North Carolina. We learn also that at this time in North Carolina there were forty Lodges, in New York fifty-four Lodges, in Connecticut thirty-seven Lodges, and in South Carolina forty-four Lodges. The election of principal Grand Officers then took place, Bros. Smith and Israel being re-elected Grand Master and Deputy Grand Master respectively. At an adjourned meeting on the 15th December a motion for remunerating the Grand Secretary for his services during the past four years with the sum of three hundred dollars, and that in future he be paid at the rate of one hundred dollars per annum was ordered to stand over. It was then resolved that one-third of the Grand Lodge moneys should be considered as constituting the Charity Fund, and the other two-thirds the General Fund, Grand Treasurer having authority to invest the latter in some productive fund for the benefit of the Lodge. On St. John's Day the installation of the principal and the appointment of the subordinate Grand Officers was carried out with the usual formalities, and the motion with reference to the remuneration of the Grand Secretary was adopted, with the substitution of 120 dollars for 100 dollars as his future annual salary.

At the adjourned Quarterly Communication on the 16th March 1801 a resolution of Grand Royal Arch Chapter was submitted, and approved by G. Lodge. It was to the effect that no candidate should be exalted in any Chapter held under the warrant of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania, and under the jurisdiction of the Grand Chapter thereof, unless his petition for exaltation was accompanied by a certificate from the Worshipful Master and Officers of his Lodge that the petitioner was a regular Past Master, having served the office of Master of such Lodge, or having passed the chair by dispensation from the Grand Master. Sojourners, not residents in the State of Pennsylvania, to be admitted as before. There was also presented a Report of the proceedings of a special Grand Chapter, held on 21st February, relating to certain matters connected with Chapter No. 52, in which certain brethren had been exalted who were not regular Past Masters. The error, however, was set right, and a motion based on the report was passed to the effect, that for a brother to pass the chair of any Lodge he must either have been duly elected Worshipful Master of a Lodge, or have received a dispensation for the purpose from the Grand Master. Mention is made likewise of a Bye-Law of the Grand Lodge of Connecticut, that no Warrant should be granted until the W. Master designate had been examined as to his knowledge by Grand Lodge or a Committee thereof, and that the Wardens designate must also previously be examined by the Officers of some neighbouring Lodge as to their Masonic proficiency. It was further laid down in the Bye-Laws of the same Grand Lodge that a penalty of eight dollars was imposed on every Lodge absent from a Quarterly Communication, and one of five dollars on one omitting to make its return to Grand Lodge at the proper time.

At Extra Communications on 4th and 18th May respectively, the prayers of three petitions for establishing Lodges—in two instances, in the Island of San Domingo, and in the third, at New Orleans, were granted. On 15th June application was made by Bro. David Putnam, Secretary of American Union Lodge, No. 1, held at Marietta, requesting that, as the house in which the said Lodge had been accustomed to meet had been destroyed by fire, and the furniture, working tools, jewels, and charter burnt, a new Warrant should be granted; but as the request was not made in due form, Grand Secretary was instructed to write to that effect, and enclose copy of the rules and regulations of Grand Lodge, so that the petition might be renewed in the manner prescribed therein, when there would be no hesitation in complying with it. In answer to a memorial praying for an inquiry into certain irregularities in the election of Officers in Lodge No. 59, a Committee was appointed to make the requisite inquiries. A third prayer, of a curious kind, was submitted and granted. A brother, "Henry Snider, otherwise known and called Henry Sharpe, had found out that he had been deceived by the woman who had brought him up, whom he had always conceived to be his mother, and who had always kept from him his real name; that he had now found his name to be Snider, which he had adopted, and hence he had petitioned his Lodge for having his true name of Snider substituted, and this had been done. At the instance of his Lodge, however, he besought Grand Lodge to endorse its action, and Grand Lodge acceded to the proposal. On the 23rd June, after an application from a member of No. 2 Lodge for such materials to be furnished to him as would enable him to publish a half yearly Masonic Calendar for the jurisdiction had been ordered to lie on the table, notification was made that a letter from the Secretary of Lodge No. 7, Jamaica, had been received, in which the writer cautioned the brethren against certain Masonic impostors whom he both named and described. The Committee of Inquiry into the alleged irregularities connected with the election of the Officers of Lodge No. 59 reported as to their having undoubtedly taken place, and it was ordered that the Lodge be directed to instal the Officers elect the following evening.

At the meeting on St. John the Baptist's Day, 24th June, it was mentioned that Lodge No. 73 had resolved on holding but one election annually—on St. John the Evangelist's Day. At the same meeting the Committee appointed to arrange for the purchase or erection of suitable premises for G. Lodge reported that "a new and unfinished tenement and plot of ground in Arch-street, near to the south-west corner of Ninth and Arch-street," is for sale for 3250 dollars. Resolutions were accordingly passed that it should be purchased, and that a deed of conveyance should be made to the G. Master, Deputy G. Master, Grand Wardens, G. Secretary, and G. Treasurer as joint tenants in fee simple, and that they should execute a declaration of trust to G. Lodge.

YARBOROUGH MASONIC ASSOCIATION.

THIS Association, in connection with the Yarborough Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons, held its monthly meeting at Bro. A. Walter's, Green Dragon, Stepney, E. Bros. T. J. Barnes P.M. President, J. J. Berry P.M. Vice President, J. G. Stevens P.M. Hon. Sec. There were also present—Bros. E. W. Walter W.M. 554, J. Taylor, W. Cross, J. R. Shingfield, A. Walter, S. Poynter, &c. After the usual routine business, the ballot was proceeded with for Life Governorships; these resulted in favour of Bros. A. Packer and J. R. Shingfield. Bros. Walter and Shingfield were elected to conduct the annual audit, and the question of the Anniversary meeting having been discussed, it was fixed to take place on the 24th of May. From the remarks which fell from Bro. J. G. Stevens, it was gathered that during the existence of the Association, no less than forty-nine Life Governorships had been created. Of this number eighteen have been apportioned to the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for Aged Masons, seventeen to the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, and fourteen to the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls. The total amounts contributed, exclusive of the two ballots just taken, were £502 5s. The officers of the Yarborough Masonic Charitable Association are to be congratulated upon the success which has attended their exertions to aid and sustain our Masonic Institutions.

COLLINS' MUSIC HALL.

BRO. HERBERT SPRAKE, the General Manager of this Hall, took his annual benefit on Thursday evening, in presence of an audience that was crowded to overflowing. In fact, the Hall, which is none of the largest, might have been filled half-a-dozen times over with the friends of the beneficiary, who were bent on paying him a well-deserved compliment on so important an occasion. One of the most liberal programmes we have seen was provided, and among those who tendered their services were a majority of the ablest and best known music hall artists of the day. Under the head of "comic" was ranged the names of the Great MacDermott, the Great Vance, T. W. Barrett, Herbert Campbell, Sidney Franks, Victor Liston. Among the serio-comics were Jenny Hill, Ethel Victor, Nellie Farrell, Ida Morris, and Amy Francis. The "Specialities" included Mab Chambers, the Wonderful Banjoist and Laughing Artiste; Pattie Haywood, Burlesque Actress; Chirgwin, the White-eyed Kaffir; Vento, Ventriloquist; and J. Maccann, Concertina Soloist. There were in addition Duettists and Trios, and Negro Artists, the whole of the arrangements being under the charge of Mr. Stephen Medcalf, of the Manor House, Green Lanes, who was assisted in his arduous duties by Messrs. Walter Laburnum and Fred. Williams, while the stage was under the able direction of Mr. W. Palmer. Everything passed off most satisfactorily, and as Collins's Music Hall is known to be one of the best managed in the metropolis, it goes without saying that all who were fortunate enough to be present enjoyed themselves most thoroughly.

The M.W. G.M. H.R.H. the Prince of Wales has been pleased to grant a Warrant for a new Lodge to be called the Montague Guest Lodge, No. 1900, to be held at the Inns of CourtHotel, Lincoln's-inn-fields. The R.W. P.G.M. for Dorsetshire and P.G.D., Bro. Montague I. Guest, M.P., being one of the Founders. Bro. W. H. Dean P.M. 417 and P.P.G.S.B. Dorset is the W.M. designate.

We have very great pleasure in announcing that on Monday evening, at the Greyhound, Richmond, of which Bro. Moufiet is host, the opportunity was taken of recognising the valuable services which Bro. Phillips, P.M. of the Rose of Denmark Lodge, No. 975, has rendered for some considerable time past to the Lily of Richmond Lodge of Instruction, No. 820, as its Preceptor, or, to phrase it more complimentarily, as its "guide, philosopher, and friend." On the occasion in question, and in the presence of a numerous gathering of the brethren, Bro. Phillips was made the recipient of a testimonial, which the W. Master for the evening presented after a brief but eulogistic speech, and which Bro. Phillips acknowledged very warmly.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS will be found the best friend to persons afflicted with ulcerations, bad legs, sores, abscesses, fistulas and other painful and complicated complaints. Printed and very plain directions for the application of the Ointment are wrapped round each pot. Holloway's alterative Pills should be taken throughout the progress of the cure, to maintain the blood in a state of perfect purity, and to prevent the health of the whole body being jeopardised by the local ailments; bad legs, old age's great grievances, are thus readily cured, without confining the patient to bed, or withdrawing from him the nutritious diet and generous support so imperatively demanded, when weakening diseases attack advanced years, or constitutions evincing premature decrepitude.

ST. JOHN OF WAPPING LODGE, No. 1306.

THE installation meeting of this thriving Lodge was held at the Moorgate Tavern, Finsbury Pavement, E.C., on Wednesday evening, the 13th inst., when the following brethren and visitors assembled:—Bros. C. Veal W.M., J. Magrath S.W., T. Wooding J.W., H. T. Hardy Secretary, Beck P.M. Treasurer, J. Horseley S.D., T. J. Tyer J.D., J. Contare D.C., J. G. Twinn I.G. pro tem., T. J. Tarling W.S., A. G. Clements and G. T. Holdom Stewards. P.M.'s Brothers Dawson and Hayward; also Bros. J. Loftus, C. Rayner, J. S. Phillips, J. Carrociero, C. Whybrow, H. Parsons, C. East, T. J. Barnes junior, J. McDougall, F. Crawley, Wm. McCreddie, O. N. Stranger, T. B. Ryton, W. L. Hodgson, J. M. Stevens, J. Sommers, E. Blaney, Visitors—Bros. J. McClelland, H. Harbard, B. Stewart, Hammond, S. S. P. Blight, C. Stephenson, Sherwin, C. Allen, R. Green, W. S. Bassett, G. J. King, John Shephord, John How. The Lodge was opened at four o'clock, according to the usages of the Craft, and the minutes of last Lodge meeting, with the report of the Audit Committee read and confirmed. A ballot having proved successful in favour of Mr. O. N. Stranger, he was duly initiated into the Order. Bro. Veal W.M. then proceeded to instal his successor, Bro. Magrath S.W. into the chair of K.S., the working of this ceremony was performed in a masterly manner; it might perhaps be equalled, but not excelled. After the customary salutations, the W.M. appointed and invested his Officers as follow:—Bros. T. Wooding S.W., Horseley J.W., Beck P.M. Treasurer, A. G. Clements Secretary, T. J. Tyer S.D., Contare J.D., G. T. Holdom I.G., Rev. M. C. Brown Chaplain, Twinn D.C., Sommers W.S., J. Loftus and Rayner Stewards, Longstaff Tyler. The W.M. on rising said he had now a very pleasing duty to perform, and that was, in the name of the Lodge, to present Bro. Veal, the retiring W.M. with a Past Master's jewel; he was confident that it would be highly appreciated; the brethren all considered the jewel well earned, as the duties of his office for the year had been carried out with the greatest excellence; in conclusion he hoped the G.A.O.T.U. would permit him to wear it for many years to come, so that it might be looked upon by his children with the highest value and estimation. A brief acknowledgment was here given by the Immediate Paast Master, who had no desire to detain the brethren as he supposed they would expect to hear his voice later in the evening. Votes of thanks—firstly, to Bro. Veal, for the very efficient manner in which he had conducted the affairs of the Lodge; secondly, to Bro. P.M. Dawson, for the able manner he had acted as D.C.; thirdly, to the Audit Committee; fourthly, to Bro. H. T. Hardy, for his attention to the duties of Secretary; and two proposals for initiates brought the business of the Lodge to a close. A sumptuous banquet and dessert, provided by the proprietors (Kingston and Fromm), followed. The artistic arrangements and general view of the tables was most enticing, and this was further well supported by the abundance of good things that followed. The W.M. proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts, all of which were duly honoured. The I.P.M. said he now rose with great pleasure to propose the toast of the W.M. All present well knew his capabilities and willingness. He had filled creditably the offices prior to that he now held, and he believed this was a unanimous opinion of all the brethren. He had been associated with him for some considerable time, and he trusted that his year of office would be a successful one in every respect. The W.M., replying, thanked Brother Veal for the kind expressions he had made respecting himself. He was ready and willing to work if it came before him. He sincerely hoped to make good progress, and he thought this might be expected when he saw such good feeling around him. He had every faith in being well supported by his Officers. In proposing the health of the I.P.M. he could not speak too highly of what Bro. Veal had done for the Lodge. His successful efforts were already known to all the brethren. The expense and trouble that Bro. Veal had put himself to in various ways for the welfare of the Lodge commanded their gratitude. He would ask them to be upstanding and give a hearty Wapping fire to their esteemed Bro. Veal, which it is needless to say was well responded to. Bro. Veal, in reply, said when he first filled the chair he thought it an easy task; he, nevertheless, was amply rewarded for all that he had done when he saw it so well acknowledged. He heartily thanked them for the handsome present they had thought proper to give him, and should feel proud to wear it as long as he lived. Notwithstanding that he had left the chair he should always be pleased to be brought into action whenever he was required. He hoped to be amongst them for some time to come, and see the present Officers advance and attain the prominent position that Bro. Magrath now held. The toast of the Initiate was next given and suitably replied to. The next toast from the chair was that of the Visitors, all of whom severally responded, in terms praising all they had seen and heard. The E.A.'s song, with others, added much to the enjoyment of the brethren, thus a really pleasant evening was spent. The Officers' toast was next in order, and that of the Tyler brought the meeting to an end.

FRIARS LODGE, No. 1349.

THE annual meeting of this Lodge was held at Bros. Kingston and Fromm's, Moorgate Tavern, Moorgate-street, E.C. Bro. H. R. Hallam W.M. was supported by Bros. R. Durell S.W. (W.M. elect), A. Peterken J.W., H. L. Godolphin S.D., Past Masters W. Musto Treasurer, W. Hogg Secretary, T. Foxall, J. Shepherd, J. Wright, &c. Among the visitors were Bros. L. Isaacs 1614, C. Veal, A. Calver 933, T. J. Barnes P.M. 554, W. H. Myers P.M. 820, R. Dryden, T. Loane W.S. 1421, &c. Lodge was duly opened, and the minutes of previous regular meeting were read and confirmed. Bro. Richard Durell was then presented to the W.M. for the benefit of installation, and having taken the necessary obligations, was duly installed into the chair of K.S. The brethren saluted their new ruler in due form, and the investiture of Officers for the ensuing year was then proceeded with, the W.M. appointing them as follows:—Bros. A. Peterken S.W., H. L. Godolphin J.W., Spencer S.D., J. Togwell J.D., E. J. Friedeberg I.G., J. Howcraft D.C., W. Musto P.M. Treasurer and Wine Steward, W. Hogg P.M. Secretary. The Installing Master, Bro. Hallam, then gave a fine rendering of the three charges, and concluded his arduous duties amid the applause of all present. The ballot was taken for the admission of Messrs. Thomas Christmas and Thomas Eastman; proving favourable, those gentlemen were admitted into the secrets and mysteries. The report of the Audit Committee was presented, and unanimously adopted. Lodge was closed in due form, and the brethren sat down to an excellent banquet, served in capital style by the caterers, Bros. Fromm and Kingston. On the removal of the cloth, the usual toasts were given, that of the Queen and the Craft being heartily received; Bro. Friedeberg sang a verse of the National Anthem. The health of the Prince of Wales was next honoured, followed by a verse of "God Bless the Prince of Wales." The W.M. then gave the Earl of Carnarvon Pro Grand Master, the Earl of Lathom Deputy Grand Master, and the Grand Officers past and present, which was responded to by Bro. J. Wright P.G.P. Bro. Hallam, having taken up the gavel, expressed the pleasure he felt in proposing, for the first time, the health of the W.M. With this all present would be in accord, and he was sure all would join in it. Bro. Durell was a W.M. the brethren might be proud of; they all felt assured that, if his health permitted him to attend every meeting, he would give satisfaction by his working. The W.M., in reply, thanked Bro. Hallam and the brethren for the kind and cordial manner in which the toast had been proposed and received. He was very much indebted to them, and trusted that, as Bro. Hallam had wished, he would be able, with the help of the G.A.O.T.U., to attend every meeting, and discharge his duties to the satisfaction of all. The Past Masters were next honoured, the W.M. saying that all the brethren liked to be Past Masters, and work up in that direction, but their true value could only be felt by a new occupant of the chair. Bro. Hallam responded; he was gratified at the warm and hearty manner in which the toast had been received. He might be pardoned for saying a few words about himself. During the past year, as W.M., he had experienced many anxious moments, and had received great assistance from the Past Masters, the Wardens, and, above all, the members of the Lodge. On behalf of himself and fellow P.M.'s, he tendered his sincere thanks. The toast of the Visitors was next given, and duly responded to. The health of the Treasurer and Secretary was then proposed, and heartily received. Bro. Musto replied, on behalf of Bro. Hogg and himself. He had had the honour of introducing the W.M. into Freemasonry, and teaching him some portion of his Masonic knowledge. Bro. Durell proved himself an apt pupil. It at all times afforded him (Bro. Musto) considerable pleasure to see those whom he had introduced into the Order, or imparted Masonic instruction to, arrive at the chair of K.S. For himself, he would be always willing to perform any duty or hold any office in the Lodge whereby he might advance its interests. Speaking as Treasurer, he said that whilst they found him the money for the bills the W.M. ordered, if not extravagant, he would pay them, but their Treasurer could not become their banker. He also trusted the Benevolent Fund (recently started) would not trench upon the comforts of the brethren, as he maintained that, whilst they were enjoying the fourth degree, we felt most for the wants of others. The Initiates was then given, the W.M. remarking that without the introduction of new blood the Order would gradually decline. He asked them to give a hearty reception to the newly made brethren. In response, Bro. Eastman said he scarcely knew at present what to say, but he promised them that, with God's help, he would strive to become a worthy Mason. This sentiment—endorsed by Bro. Christmas, the other initiate—was very favourably received. The health of the Officers was then given, and duly responded to. The Tyler's toast concluded a very enjoyable evening's proceedings. Bro. Godolphin, in his songs—"The Village Blacksmith" and Monarch of the Woods"—was most effective, and Bro. C. Eschwege also gave much pleasure by his rendering of "The Vagabond," and a recitation from "The Lady of Lyons." Several other brethren contributed to the general harmony, and a word of praise is due to Bro. Shelford 765 for his able accompaniment, and the very enlivening morceaux played during the post prandial proceedings.

RAVENSBOURNE LODGE, No. 1601.

THE annual installation meeting in connection with this young and popular Lodge, whose headquarters are at the Offices of the Lewisham District Board of Works, at Catford, took place under the most agreeable auspices on Friday evening last. Lodge was opened at five o'clock, in accordance with ancient formalities, under the presidency of the W.M. Bro. Francis Burdett, who was supported by W. Bro. Magnus Ohren Assist. G.D. of C. England (W.M. elect) S.W., Bros. W. George Lemon P.M. 165 Treasurer acting as J.W., Charles W. Thompson P.M. Hon. Sec., Edwin Howard P.M. 181 S.D., Robert Langford Sindall W.M. 1293 J.D., Alexander Gordon Hennell D.C., John Carline I.G., Nelson Reed P.M. and W.M. 1572, Joseph Clever, G. W. Murnane, B. Horton, E. Harlook, H. W. Jackson, H. E. Joyce, John P. Ingoldby, Richard Worf, J. Clarricoats, Alfred Thompson and Alfred F. Layton. Visitors—Bros. Charles Greenword G.S.B., John Sampson Peirce P.M. 2, J. J. Avory P.M. 70, George Lewis J.D. 1671, C. M. Ohren J.D. 452, Percy Crampton 1572, C. J. Sturge 1572, Edward A. Basley 1586 and Edward Wharton 1706. The minutes of last Lodge meeting having been confirmed, the report of the Committee of Management was considered and passed, with expressions as to the satisfactory condition of the Lodge, both numerically and financially. Lodge was then advanced, and by request of the W. Master of the Carnarvon Lodge 1572, Bro. Charles Joseph Sturge was raised to the sublime degree, the ceremony being performed, and the impressive charges duly delivered, by the retiring W. Master, who acquitted himself admirably. Bro. Magnus Ohren was then presented as Worshipful Master elect, and a Board of Installed Masters having been constituted, he was installed in form, and received the customary salutations of the brethren on their readmission. Bro. Nelson Reed P.M. officiated as Installing Master, and the manner in which he performed the ceremony afforded interest, as it gave evident pleasure and instruction to the brethren assembled. The newly installed W. Master then invested his Officers for the ensuing year, the collars being thus bestowed:—Bros. W. Geo. Lemon P.M. S.W. and Hon. Treasurer, Edwin Howard P.M 181 J.W., Rev. William Taylor Jones P.M. Chaplain, Charles W. Thompson P.M. Hon. Sec., Robert Langford Sindall W.M. 1293 S.D., John Catline J.D., Nelson Reed P.M. Director of Ceremonies, Alexander Gordon Hennell I.G., Benjamin Horton 1st Steward, Alfred Thompson 2nd Steward and Henry Shaw Tyler. Lodge duties having been concluded, the brethren took train for London, and the banquet was held at the Guildhall Tavern, Gresham-street, the throne-room of which had been specially reserved for the company of guests. A récherché repast was provided by Messrs. Ritter and Clifford, and the arrangements, under the personal superintendence of Bro. Henry Mills, gave abundant satisfaction. Dessert having been placed upon the tables, amidst a profusion of exquisite cut flowers, the customary Loyal and Masonic toasts were duly honoured. In proposing the Most Worshipful the Pro G. Master the Earl of Carnarvon, the R.W. the Deputy Grand Master the Earl of Lathom, and the rest of the Grand Officers present and passed, the Worshipful Master said he had hoped to have seen two or three other Grand Officers present that evening, but unfortunately those whom he invited had not been able to attend. He was not aware of this at the time he invited them, but it was only at the last moment they were obliged to decline. He had hoped that the G. Secretary would have been present, and had they kept a place for him till the last moment; but he had a Committee of Grand Lodge to attend, and could not therefore be with them. However, they had a representative of Grand Lodge whom all were proud to see, and he coupled with the toast the name of Bro. Charles Greenwood, the present Grand Sword Bearer of England. Bro. Charles Greenwood G.S.B., who was received with applause, said there was no doubt they had in their Pro Grand Master, Deputy Grand Master, and other prominent members of Grand Lodge, distinguished Masons of whom any assembly might be proud. They gave an immense amount of labour and care to all matters that affected Masonry; and the duties of the Grand Officers were most arduous and important. It might be fairly said that before a man was appointed a Grand Officer he must have won his spurs and have done good suit and service to the Craft. They had an excellent example of this in their Worshipful Master, whom he had known many years, and had an opportunity of seeing how anxious he was to promote the best interests of the Craft. He (the speaker) was perhaps best known in the Province of Surrey, in which he had held the office of Grand Secretary for many years. He could say that no brother was more highly or deservedly respected in that Province than was their esteemed brother who now occupied the chair of the Ravensbourne Lodge, and who was the Prov. G.S.W. He augured a very prosperous year for the Lodge when they had in the chair so excellent a man as Bro. Ohren, in those of the Wardens worthy brethren of whom any Lodge might be proud. If the Ravensbourne Lodge did not make its mark in Masonry, he should be very much deceived. The I.P.M., in proposing the health of the W.M. felt sure the brethren would receive the toast with the utmost courtesy and pleasure. He could scarcely do sufficient honour to it, although he must say his friend Bro. Greenwood had somewhat taken the wind out of his sails. He was very proud, as one of the founders of this Lodge, that so distinguished a Mason as Bro. Ohren had been elevated to the position he now filled, for his name was as a household word amongst them. The W.M., who was received with loud and prolonged applause, thanked the brethren for the kindly manner in which they had received the toast. When he became a founder of this Lodge, he little anticipated he should become a Grand Officer. Bro. Greenwood had spoken of the position he held, and he must say the Ravensbourne Lodge had been one of the jewels that had assisted him in attaining the dignity he now enjoyed, by the kindness of the brethren. Every man must make his mark in Masonry, and amongst the Lodges with which he had been connected, the Ravensbourne had been one of the most useful and advantageous to him. He had now arrived at a point that every man who entered Masonry should try and achieve—the top of the tree—the chair of a Masonic Lodge. He thanked them for the honour they had done him in promoting him to that position, and for the cordiality with which they had received the mention of his name. He could only say he trusted that at the expiration of his year of office, the brethren would be able to say he had done his duty. In turn, he gave the health of "The Visitors," amongst whom he was glad to welcome many distinguished brethren that evening. It was gratifying to him to know that some had attended in consequence of this being the annual installation, and he wished to convey to them a cordial welcome. Bro. J. S. Peirce P.M., in responding, was glad, as a Mason of over a quarter of a century, to find on the banks of the Ravensbourne an example of such excellent working. He applauded Bro. Ohren for electing men to the higher offices in the Lodge who had gone through a considerable amount of Masonic labour, and who had borne the heat and burden of the day. It was a pleasure to an old Mason like himself to see other old Masons keeping to the front, in order that the younger brethren, who were the backbone of every Lodge, might receive from them lessons which would be useful in their career, and which, although they might not appreciate it in their neophyte state, they would do in after years. He congratulated Bro. Ohren upon having attained so high a position in the Craft, and felt assured he would hand down the insignia of office to his predecessor pure and unsullied. The W.M. then gave the health of the Past Masters, in doing which he presented to the Immediate Past Master a P.M.'s jewel, which had been voted to him by the Lodge. He hoped Bro. Burdett would receive it as an expression of their hearty good wishes and appreciation of the manner in which he had discharged the duties of his office. The I.P.M., in acknowledging the compliment paid to him, said he had been identified with the Craft many years, and thanked the brethren for the gift, not merely for its intrinsic value, but as an expression of their cordiality and goodwill, which he trusted might ever subsist amongst them for years to come. Bro. Nelson Reed also returned thanks, in doing which he regretted the absence of Bro. Jones P.M., who was the father of the Lodge, and who had done good suit and service to it. He had very great pleasure in conducting the installation ceremony, and congratulated the Lodge upon having secured the services of so excellent a Master as the brother who now presided over them. Bro. C. W. Thompson also responded to the toast in a few happily chosen sentences. The W.M. then proposed the health of the Treasurer and Secretary, in doing which he expressed regret at the unavoidable absence of Bro. Samuel Jerrard, their late Secretary, who had been compelled, through ill health, to resign his office. The Lodge had been exceedingly fortunate in securing the services of Bro. Lemon as Treasurer, and he was proud that he had been elevated to so high a position. Several other toasts were honoured, the health of Bro. W. G. Lemon being received with especial favour. During the evening some excellent vocal and instrumental music was given, Bro. E. A. Basley, Mus. Doc., rendering efficient assistance as accompanyist on the pianoforte.

Percy Lodge of Instruction, No. 198.—Held at Bro. Fysh's, Jolly Farmers, Southgate-road, on Saturday, the 23rd instant. Present:—Bros. Gibbs W.M., Perl S.W., Potter J.W., R. Pearcy Preceptor, A. W. Reason, Houghton, Ferrar, Wolf, Snook, and R. M. Jones. After usual formalities had been duly observed, the ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. R. M. Jones acting as candidate. On Lodge being advanced a degree, Bro. Gilham proved himself efficient, and was entrusted, when Lodge opened in the third degree, and the ceremony of raising was rehearsed, Bro. Gilham candidate; both ceremonies were ably performed by the W.M. Bro. G. F. Snook, of the Kingsland Lodge 1693, was elected a member, and Bro. Perl was duly appointed to preside on the first Saturday in May, after which Lodge was closed and adjourned.

The Fifteen Sections will be worked in this Lodge of Instruction this evening, under the very able presidency of Bro. S. E. Moss P.M. Tranquillity Lodge 184, who will be supported by Bros. D. Moss (I.G. Star 1275) S.W., Brasted (W.M. Duke of Connaught 1524) J.W., and R. Pearcy (P.M. United Strength 228) Preceptor. Lodge opens at 7 p.m.

Myers W.M., Johnson S.W., Pavitt J.W., Smith S.D., Roddam I.G., Brownson, Day, Rawe, &c. Lodge opened in due form, and the minutes were read and confirmed. The ceremony of raising was rehearsed in a very able and impressive manner. The W.M., assisted by the brethren, afterwards worked the first section of the lecture. Bro. Johnson was elected to occupy the chair on Tuesday, 3rd May.

On Tuesday, 26th April, Bros. Cundick W.M., Myers S.W., Pavitt J.W., Musto Preceptor, Ives I.G.; Smith, Johnson, Watkins, Rawe, Keable, &c. LODGE HISTORIES.

JOPPA LODGE, No. 188.

A curious incident is noticed at the meeting in April 1850. The W. Master (Bro. Selig) announced that he had appointed Bro. D. Joseph I.G. to the office of J.D., and Brother J. Phillips to that of I.G. The Secretary very sensibly pointed out that such a course of procedure was unconstitutional, as the resignation of Bro. Defries J.D. had not been received, and consequently there was no vacancy. The W. Master, however, was obstinate, and invested Bro. Phillips with his jewel of office, but at the May meeting he was under the necessity of retiring from his false position. He had been informed in the interim by the Grand Secretary that such appointments as he had made were, under the circumstances, contrary to the Laws of the Craft, and accordingly so much of the minutes of the previous Lodge as related to such irregular proceedings were non-confirmed. It may be added that the absence from his post of Bro. Defries J.D. was the cause of no little inconvenience to the Lodge, and that brother was written to with a view to its being ascertained if he had any intention of taking up the duties which had been assigned to him. As far as we can judge no notice of this application would seem to have been taken, and later in the year, on the remonstrance of the W.M. in open Lodge, as to the continued absence of Bro. Defries, it was resolved to appoint a new Junior Deacon in his stead, and Bro. Phillips received the appointment. One or two other matters of consequence happened during Bro. Selig's Mastership. The Lodge Bye-Laws were revised. The Secretary announced that he had discovered among the records of the Lodge "an autograph signature" of the late Duke of Sussex, M.W.G.M., and a resolution was passed to the effect that such signature should be framed and glazed and placed in the Lodge. In December a motion was made that Bro. Alexander Levy should be elected a joining member on payment of the registering fee only. An amendment, however, that Brother Levy should pay the full amount of the joining fee was carried, and Bro. Levy then tendered his resignation, which, with a due regard to its dignity, the Lodge wisely, in one sense, declined to accept, though it may fairly be doubted if the membership of the brother in question was in any way creditable to Joppa Lodge. At the same meeting Bro. W. B. Aaron was elected to be Worshipful Master for the year 1851, Bros. D. Moses and Isaacs being re-elected Treasurer and Tyler. It was further unanimously agreed that a Past Master's jewel be presented to Brother Selig in recognition of his services in the chair. We must note, however, that before Bro. Selig vacated office, a resolution was adopted unanimously for the removal of the Lodge from the George and Vulture, Cornhill, to the King's Head, Poultry, and this having been duly confirmed, the Lodge met at its new quarters for the first time on 6th January 1851, when the installation of Bro. Aaron as W. Master, followed by the appointment and investiture of Officers, took place. The Audit Committee's Report was submitted and approved. Sundry resolutions of the Committee of General Purposes, notably that providing for one audit in the year instead of two, were accepted, while the Benevolent Fund Report was submitted, and drew from the brethren manifestations of satisfaction, which, considering it had in the short period of its existence already reached close on £100, were fully justified. Bro. Carstatt was re-elected President of the Fund, and in response to his address, a further sum of £23 12s 6d was subscribed to it. In March the joining fee was, in accordance with a recommendation of the Committee of General Purposes, increased from one to two guineas. In May a quaint Bye-Law, yet one creditable to the Lodge, was unanimously passed, that a brother who had rendered good service should be admitted a member on subscription of five shillings per annum, his privileges to include those of voting on all occasions and being present on all occasions, without payment, at the various banquets. But the new law did not meet with the approval of the Grand Master, who considered it was inconsistent with the spirit and intention of the general laws of the Fraternity, and under those circumstances, so much of the minutes as related to such Bye-Law were non-confirmed. At the Emergency meeting, held in August, the somewhat unusual occurrence is noted of the withdrawal of a candidate's name for initiation on the ground that sundry members of the Lodge were not on friendly terms with him. At the September meeting a statement was presented showing that the Benevolent Fund amounted to £155 10s, of which £129 15s were in Consols, the rest being donations promised and subscriptions due, together with a cash balance in hands of Treasurer amounting to £4 3s. On this occasion the Lodge was honoured with a visit from "His Royal Highness the Ex-King of Oude, a member of the Globe Lodge, No. 23," who was accompanied by his Secretary. In October, after a slight difference between two members had been settled amicably, certain propositions made by the Committee of General Purposes, and relating chiefly to the expenditure of the Lodge, were dealt with, one relating to the extension of the vacation from two to three months being carried unanimously. In December, the usual election of Master, Treasurer, and Tyler took place, Bro. J. A. Ellis being so fortunate as to be chosen for the first-named office, while Bros. D. Moses and Isaacs were re-chosen to the other two. The Committee and Trustees of the Lodge Benevolent Fund were appointed, and a Past Master's jewel was voted to Bro. Aaron for his valued services as W.M. A captain in the Hungarian service, who had been initiated in Hamburgh, received a small sum in relief of his immediate necessities.

We have noted that at the close of 1850 motion was made and carried that the Lodge should remove from the George and Vulture, Cornhill, where it was located in March 1841, to the King's Head, Poultry. We presume the latter hostelry can hardly have given satisfaction, as at two successive emergency meetings in December 1851 it was unanimously agreed that the Lodge should be removed to 39 Finsbury-square, which at the time appears to have borne the designation of the City Masonic Hall, and there it was that in January 1852 Bro. Ellis received the benefit of installation as W. Master, Bro. Aaron subsequently receiving his Past Master's jewel. At the February meeting Bro. H. M. Levy, of Lodge 291, Edinburgh, who is now a very active Past Master of the Lodge, was elected a joining member of the Lodge. At the meeting on 1st March announcement was made that, in accordance with the unanimous vote of the Lodge, a letter of condolence had been addressed to the widow of Bro. J. A. Jones, one of the trustees of the Lodge Benevolent Fund, and that it had been most gratefully acknowledged by the family of the deceased brother. It was further announced that Mr. A. A. Jones, the deceased's brother, had presented five guineas to the Fund. In June, in consequence of a notice from the landlord of the house, it became necessary to seek fresh quarters, and after due consideration, at an emergency meeting assembled for the purpose, a Sub-Committee was appointed with a view to making the arrangements; and in October the Lodge resumed its meetings at its new quarters, the White Hart, Bishopsgate-street, the principal event of the meeting being a motion that Bro. D. Moses, who had held the office of Treasurer for over forty years, should be requested to sit for his portrait, as the Lodge was anxious to be possessed of such a memorial of one who had so long and faithfully served it. The request was acceded to by Brother Moses, and a Committee for carrying out the necessary arrangements was appointed. Nothing further of any moment occurred during Bro. Ellis's term of office; and when, in the course of things, the election night came round and Bro. Beyfus had been elected his successor, while Bros. D. Moses and Isaacs were re-elected Treasurer and Tyler respectively, the usual satisfactory compliment of a Past Master's jewel was voted to him in recognition of his great services to the Lodge, while, in addition to this, it was unanimously agreed that a vote of thanks be recorded on the minutes to Bro. Ellis for the zeal and ability he had displayed, and for his readiness on all occasions to promote the welfare of the Lodge. The proceedings at the installation were of an eminently satisfactory character. There was a balance in favour of the Lodge, after reckoning its assets and liabilities, of upwards of £26, while the Benevolent Fund Report showed that, when the promised subscriptions had all been paid in, the total sum was over £240. In the course of the evening a hearty appeal was made on its behalf by the W. Master, in response to which subscriptions were announced to the extent of £45 3s. In the course of this Lodge petitions for relief were presented on behalf of two brethren, who were inmates of the "Hand-in-hand Institution," but the Lodge ruled that, as "that asylum afforded every comfort to its members," the petitions were not deserving of consideration. At the meeting on the 2nd May 1853, among other candidates for initiation, occurs the name of Bro. E. P. Albert, now P.M., Secretary, and P.G.P. England, who is thus within a few days of having completed a connection with the Craft of over twenty-eight years. It may be as well to add that the election was unanimous, and that his initiation into the mysteries of the first degree followed as early as possible the same evening. On the same day the sum of £5 was voted from the funds of the Lodge towards the portrait of Bro. D. Moses, Treas. Later in the year this portrait, handsomely framed, was presented to the worthy Treas., the following inscription being placed on a tablet attached:—"Presented to Bro. D. Moses, by the Members of the Lodge of Joppa, No. 223, as a mark of their esteem for his valuable services as Treasurer 43 consecutive years, A.L. 5614—A.D. 1853." The presentation was made in open Lodge by the Worshipful Master, and most gracefully acknowledged by Bro. Moses. In the interim, a rude letter of resignation was sent to the Lodge by two of its members, which, for reasons best known to itself, the said Lodge did not think proper to receive. Later in the year, steps were taken for the purpose of obtaining long leasehold premises where a Masonic Hall might be erected, and a Committee to that end was appointed, without, however, being able to effect what was desired. In November occurred another case of the rejection of a candidate, the number of black balls being seven. In December the ballot for a candidate was deferred till the next meeting, because different statements were made by two brethren as to whether the candidate had said it would seriously inconvenience him to attend and take his degrees, in the event of the ballot being successful. In the case of a certain brother from Liverpool, who applied in the course of the same meeting for relief, and whose case proved to be a very distressing one, the Lodge Bye-Law restricting the amount was suspended, and the poor brother was assisted to the extent of three guineas. After this the election for Worshipful Master took place, and resulted in favour of Bro. A. J. Jones S.W. Bros. D. Moses and Isaacs were re-elected to their old offices of Treasurer and Tyler respectively. The Committee and Trustees of the Lodge Benevolent Fund were chosen, and a Past Master's jewel was unanimously voted to the retiring Master, Bro. Beyfus, the terms of the resolution respecting the testimonial to that worthy brother being more than usually complimentary, and a sum of over £30 was at once subscribed by the members for the purpose of giving due effect to the resolution. Nor need any one be surprised at this. After making every allowance for outstanding liabilities, the balance, as per the report of the Auditors, showed a sum of £54 5s 6d in favour of the Lodge, while the Benevolent Fund had increased during Brother Beyfus's year of office from £240 to over £326, or, including subscriptions and donations, promised but not paid, £340 19s 7d.

On 2nd January 1854, Bro. A. J. Jones was installed Worshipful Master, and his predecessor was presented with the very handsome testimonial voted to him so gracefully on the last occasion he presided in the chair of the Lodge. The various reports were submitted and approved, with the exception of that of the General Purposes Committee which, as it contained two important propositions, was ordered to stand over for consideration. Of these propositions one was to the effect that the ballot for candidates for initiation should be delayed as late as possible at a meeting, in order that it should take place in as numerous a gathering of members as possible—a most wise resolution, which might be commended to other Lodges. The other proposal was to the effect that, owing to the great increase in the membership of the Lodge, the initiation fee should be increased to ten guineas, and the joining fee to five guineas. It will be seen in due course what was the fate of these proposals. At the February meeting a report of the Committee of General Purposes was submitted. The first resolution was to the effect that a member and past Officer, who had been guilty of conduct disrespectful to the Worshipful Master on the occasion of his installation, should be admonished, and as this part of the report was accepted, the sentence of admonition was recorded against him. The other resolution, which, however, was not accepted, was strong in its condemnation of the brother who had undertaken to supply the installation banquet. We may imagine how strong was the feeling of the Committee when it introduced into its motion such language as that "such a dinner was disgraceful for any professed cook to lay upon a table at a Public Festival." In March it was unanimously resolved to subscribe one guinea annually to the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls. At the May meeting we find among other candidates for initiation, and who were accepted, the name of Bro. S. B. Gompertz, and he and them were initiated accordingly the same evening. In November a recommendation of the Committee of General Purposes was agreed to, that the initiation fee should thenceforward be seven guineas, and not ten guineas, as formerly suggested, while the annual subscription was fixed at £2 10s per member, with an additional seven shillings and sixpence in the case of those brethren who dined on installation night. In December Bro. Henry Lyons was elected Worshipful Master for 1855, while the outgoing Master, Bro. A. J. Jones, was complimented in the usual manner. The latter also received the further honour of being unanimously elected on the Committee of the Benevolent Fund.

On 1st January 1855 Bro. Lyons was installed, and Bro. Jones decorated. The Auditors' report showed a balance in favour of the Lodge of over £74, out of which it was unanimously agreed to present the sum of ten guineas to the Patriotic Fund. It was further agreed that the Worshipful Master should have the privilege of inviting six guests to the banquet instead of two. On this occasion there were present no less than eighty-two brethren, including visitors. In February steps were taken with a view to moving to other quarters, and after due consideration and discussion, at an emergency meeting, it was resolved that a move should be made to the Albion, Aldersgate-street, the present headquarters of the Lodge, and most excellent headquarters they are known to be. In May a resolution was passed, on the motion of Bro. Past Master Selig, to the effect that a memorial should be presented to the Board of General Purposes, complaining against the President and Board of Stewards for refusing tickets to the Worshipful Master and Officers of the Lodge for the last Grand Festival of the Order, held on the 25th April. A reply was furnished to this, in which the Grand Secretary stated that the said Board of General Purposes saw nothing in the memorial or resolution calling for its interference. In October the unusual incident of seven gentlemen being initiated on one and the same evening occurred, the Most Worshipful Grand Master's sanction having been previously applied for and granted, the ground on which the application was made being that some of them were on the point of leaving England. At an emergency meeting, held in the same month, two grandsons of the venerable Treasurer, Bro. D. Moses, were balloted for, and initiated. In November the Committee of General Purposes submitted a report to the effect that (1) the provision at the last banquet had been prepared in accordance with ancient custom, so that a rumour to the contrary had no foundation in fact; (2) it would be necessary for each member to pay an additional halfcrown per quarter if it was intended to have five banquets in the year; (3) the Tyler's remuneration should be increased from nine to fifteen shillings. These several recommendations were unanimously accepted. The month following Bro. Risch was elected Worshipful Master for the year 1856, while Bro. Beyfus was appointed a Trustee of the Benevolent Fund, vice Bro. Henry Levy P.M., who was about to leave England. The Committee to the said Fund was elected by ballot, as usual, and a Past Master's jewel was unanimously voted to Bro. H. Lyons, in recognition of his services to the Lodge.

At the meeting in January 1856, after the installation of Bro. Risch as W. Master, the appointment and investiture of Officers, and the presentation to Bro. H. Lyons I.P.M. of a handsome Past Master's jewel, with an illuminated vote of thanks for his services, the Reports of the Audit Committee and Benevolent Fund Committee were submitted and passed. The former showed a balance to the good of over £73, and from the latter we learn that the net amount received in 1855 was £84 16s 11d. At the February meeting, a Report was presented with reference to having a ball, and it was resolved on making the necessary arrangements for one to take place on the 18th March. The Committee of General Purposes submitted a Report on the subject of the price to be paid per head for banquets, and also in respect of an application which had been made to the Worshipful Master for his recommendation in favour of a new Lodge. The Committee reported as to the latter business that Bro. Risch had declined to meet the wishes of the applicants until he had the opinion of the Committee and the Lodge. The recommendation of the former was to the effect that the Master and Wardens be authorised to sign the petition, with the proviso that as the principal point urged by the applicants for a new Lodge was that the Lodge of Joppa was "uncomfortably numerous," the application of the petitioners for the Warrant, and the election of others who might join it, should be considered "tantamount to a resignation from the Lodge of Joppa," in the event of the prayer of the petitioners being granted, as that would be "the only means of carrying out the genuine objects" the brethren had in forming the new Lodge. This recommendation, in spite of an amendment to non-confirm it, was endorsed by the Lodge by a very large majority. On 7th April Bro. S. M. Lazarus tendered his resignation of the Secretaryship, and Bro. Selig P.M. was appointed in his stead. In May the sum of two guineas was voted towards the Girls' School Festival, and it was resolved to subscribe one guinea annually towards that admirable Institution. At this meeting a brother appealed for relief, and also that his petition to the Lodge of Benevolence should be supported by the Lodge. Both applications were acceded to, but we gather from the minutes of the June meeting that the brother died before the petition could be presented to the Lodge of Benevolence, and the widow therefore prayed the Lodge to support her petition. This request was promptly attended to, and the poor lady's wishes were satisfied. At an emergency meeting on the 16th October, a report from the Committee of General Purposes, recommending that the members pay fifteen shillings per quarter instead of twelve shillings and sixpence was submitted. The recommendation was discussed at length, and adjourned on the motion of Bro. Beyfus P.M., on the ground that a great deal of time had been spent in debate, and that dinner was waiting. The brethren then adjourned to the banquetting hall, where they "partook of dinner with ample dessert and wine, &c.," and doubtless with an appetite increased a thousandfold by the labours of discussion. The December meeting must have been a mournful one, the W.M., Bro. Risch, having died since last meeting. The funeral service was read as a tribute of respect to his memory, and after considering various plans for further honouring their deceased Worshipful Master, it was resolved to erect by private subscription among the members a monument over their brother's grave. The sum of £27 was then and there collected towards this purpose, and it was further resolved to have a resolution of regret for the untimely demise, after a brief illness, of Bro. Risch, entered on the minutes, and a similar resolution on vellum framed and glazed, and hung up in the Lodge room, as a perpetual memorial in his honour. Bro. L. Alexander was elected W.M. by a majority of votes, and the same brethren who had occupied those offices for many many years were re-elected Treasurer and Tyler.

In January 1857 took place, with the customary ceremonial, the installation of the new Master Bro. Lewis Alexander, among his officers being Bros. E. P. Albert S.D.—promoted from J.D. in 1856—and H. M. Levy I.G. The Audit Report showed a balance in favour of the Lodge, after every outlay had been provided for, of £107 12s 8d, while that of the Benevolent Fund showed that £77 2s 6d was added to that fund in 1856, and after dinner a further sum of fifteen guineas was subscribed to it. At the April meeting a son of Bro. Henry Lyons was initiated, by dispensation from the M.W.G. Master, he being a minor of eighteen years and upwards. At the same meeting a motion was submitted for the removal of the Lodge from the Albion, but an amendment, that no sufficient reasons had been assigned for the removal, and that therefore it should remain in its present quarters, was carried, and the motion thus fell to the ground In May a motion to increase the annual subscription from £2 10s to £3 3s was lost, as it was agreed to by only 14 votes to 9, and the Bye-Laws required a two-thirds majority of those present in all questions affecting the amounts to be paid to the Lodge.

A DESERVING CASE.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR,—Allow me the space of a few words in behalf of a widow of a Freemason who seems to be much neglected, although much deserving the support of the Masonic fraternity.

She is named Naomi Gamble, of Plymouth, making her fourth application, and standing No. 5 on the list of candidates for election to the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for Widows of Freemasons in the month ensuing of May 1881.

Her late husband, as I am credibly informed, spent much of his money, for nearly a quarter of a century on Masonry; and his poor widow is now left out in the cold forsaken, unless she can find a friend to help the helpless. I shall be glad to receive proxies in her favour.

Yours faithfully,

DANIEL ACE, D.D., F.R.A.S.

Laughton Vicarage, Gainsborough,
26th April 1881.

We have received a further able letter from Bro. Sims P.M., and also one from another Officer of the Sir Hugh Myddelton Lodge, No. 1602, on the "Attendance of Past Masters." As Bro. Sims courteously accepts Bro. E. Van Donop's apology for having unintentionally wounded the feelings of Bro. Sims and his brother Past Masters, and concludes his letter with the two very excellent pieces of advice—"Don't do it again," and "Be merry and wise," and as we think no advantage will be gained by the publication of these letters, we close the correspondence with this acknowledgment of the receipt of said letters, and express the hope the writers will be content with this recognition of their contents.

CONSECRATION OF THE SELWYN LODGE, No. 1901.

THE Consecration of the Selwyn Lodge took place on Thursday, 21st inst., at the East Dulwich Hotel, its advent being most successful, and augaring well for its future prosperity. The occasion will be long remembered by all who were fortunate enough to be present, as a red-letter day in the annals of Freemasonry. The ceremony was most impressively performed by Bro. Col. Shadwell H. Clerke, the Grand Secretary of England, who was assisted by Bro. Rev. Ambrose W. Hall, M.A., P.P.G.C. (since appointed G. Chaplain) as Chaplain, Capt. N. G. Philips P.G.D. as S.W., H. D. Sandeman P.D.G.M. Bengal as J.W., and James Terry P.M. P.P.G.W. (Secretary Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution) as Director of Ceremonies. The musical arrangements were entrusted to Bro. Edwin M. Lott P.P.G.J.W. Jersey P.P.G.O. Surrey, &c., and the way in which they were carried out aided the general success of the meeting. The consecrating ceremony having been completed, Bro. W. H. Hook P.M. 186 and 1619 was duly installed into the chair as first W.M.—the G. Secretary fulfilling the duties of Installing Master, and warmly congratulating Bro. Hook on his accession—for the third time—to the highest office of a Lodge. The Officers were then appointed, and a long list of names of candidates, both for joining and initiation, having been presented, and the propositions on their behalf seconded, the Lodge was closed, and brethren proceeded to the banquet-room, where a first-rate repast awaited them. The banquet was served by Bro. Gurney in a manner which reflected the highest credit on his supervision and care; everything that could conduce to the comfort and pleasure of the brethren was carried out, with the result that a most enjoyable evening was spent. After disposing of the usual loyal toasts the Worshipful Master gave the Grand Officers, thanking them for their presence on the occasion, which presence had lent lustre to the ceremonies, and grace and dignity to the social board. The W.M. felt honoured by having so many illustrious Masons to support him. The Right Wor. Bro. Hugh D. Sandeman replied, in a few well chosen remarks stating the gratification and pleasure it gave him and the Grand Officers to assist on this occasion, and to support the dignity of the chair in Lodge and at the banquet. The toast of the Consecrating Officer, the V.W. Bro. Col. Shadwell H. Clerke, was then given by the W.M., who thanked him very much for the courtesy and kindness shewn him, for the manner in which he had received him at Grand Lodge, the careful advice he had given him, and the interest he had taken in the formation of the Lodge. He most heartily tendered his best thanks for the very able and impressive manner in which he had performed the duties of consecration and installation, and he felt proud to have the honour of his presence at his right hand that evening. The Grand Secretary returned thanks for the enthusiastic manner in which his health had been given, and said he was delighted to be present with the W.M. and brethren. He expressed his gratification at the manner in which the W.M. had arranged everything. He believed he could say, there was nothing left undone which could have been done by the W.M. to ensure success, and he believed from so good a foundation a most influential and useful Lodge would be the result. They had a goodly number of influential members and candidates proposed that evening. They had a good Lodge-room and accommodation, and a good Mason as the first W.M. The Grand Secretary then proposed the W.M.'s health, which was received most enthusiastically. He felt sure, from what he had seen and known of Brother Hook that he was the right man in the right place. He could testify to the anxiety which the W.M. had evinced for the welfare of his Lodge. He was evidently a Mason in the true acceptance of the term. His son and his son-in-law were both present, and had been initiated by their respected father. He felt quite sure the foundation of the Selwyn Lodge was safe in his hands, and he hoped the Great Architect of the Universe would spare him many years to watch over the interests of the Lodge. The W.M. responded in a few well-chosen remarks, thanking the Grand Secretary for his kindness and good opinion of himself; he felt that whatever was worth doing was worth doing well, and hoped his conduct through life would always merit the esteem and confidence of his brethren in Freemasonry. The W.M. next gave the Visitors, coupling the toast with the name of Bro. C. Hutton Past Grand Deacon. He said they had a goodly array of Visitors there, indeed so many that time would not permit him to give their names, but he felt sure they all believed the right hand of fellowship was held out to them, and always would be by the brethren of the Selwyn Lodge. They were honoured that evening by the presence of many great names in the Masonic world who had thought it not beneath them to visit and uphold this Lodge on its birthday; he thanked them most heartily for their presence and support on the occasion. Bro. Hutton, in response, said he took exception to one or two remarks of the W.M. with regard to thinking it beneath their dignity to be present there that evening; he thought it one of the noblest principles of Freemasonry that mansions, terrace gardens and broad acres were no obstacles to the fraternisation of Mason with Mason; all barriers were swept away when they met on the level in their Lodges; he was pleased to be there. It was no light task to undertake the obtaining a warrant for a new Lodge, especially now the Grand Master had expressed his opinion on the subject; grants would be few, and very carefully considered. The members might be surprised to hear he had known their W.M. for twenty-five years, and could tell them Bro. Hook was no rolling stone, he had by his own energy and perseverance placed himself in a high position in the mercantile world; he is a man of energy, usefulness and uprightness. He (Bro. Hutton) had no fear for the success of their Lodge now he saw who was at the head of it. Follow Bro. Hook's advice, follow his principles, listen to his suggestions, and support him; their Lodge will then be one of the best in London. He thanked them one and all for the very kind way in which they had received the toast of the Visitors. The W.M. next gave the Officers; he was particularly fortunate in having Officers who intended the work should be done well; he hoped the Selwyn Lodge would be second to none in its working; it was a most painful thing to see an Officer performing his duties in a meaninglees and slovenly manner; one such in a Lodge spoilt the whole ceremony; he trusted and believed each Officer he had appointed was fully competent for his position. He thanked them for their support; they had responded most heartily to his wishes. The splendid Lodge furniture and fittings would be paid for nearly all by donations from the Officers and brethren, and this was a good beginning. He trusted at the end of his year of office to say, Well done, good and faithful servants; he believed he should have the full confidence of the Officers and brethren during his year of office. Bro. Linscott S.W., replied on behalf of the Officers. He trusted that the opinions of the W.M. would be fully realised; he could speak with confidence for himself; he believed every Officer was anxious to work well and fully to support the W.M. The Worshipful Master gave the Charities, coupling the name of Bro. Terry, whom he thanked heartily for the part he had taken in the ceremonies, and his kind words at all times. Bro. Terry was always ready with advice and help, and deserved well of all who knew him; he trusted the Selwyn Lodge would come to the front as regarded the Charities; he did hope and trust that in the second year of its existence the members would send a Steward to one of the Institutions, with a round acknowledgment of the thanks of the Selwyn for favours received. Bro. Terry, in the course of his remarks in reply, said, of course all the Charities wanted help; all he could say was, that although the W.M. did bring a substantial amount as Steward for the Benevolent Fund last year, he could strongly recommend him to try it again next year; personally he could recommend the Benevolent Fund; he thanked the brethren for toasting him so heartily, and hoped soon to see them in working trim. The Tyler's toast brought the proceedings to a close, which were pronounced to be a great success in every way. Bros. G. T. Carter, J. L. Hodges, and Wallis, with Bro. E. M. Lott at the pianoforte, gave some songs, &c., during the evening, thus adding to the enjoyment of the brethren.

Royal Alfred Lodge of Instruction, No. 780.—At the regular meeting, held at the Star and Garter, Kew Bridge, on 22nd April. Bros. C. E. Botley W.M., F. Botley S.W., Gomm P.M. J.W., Tucker (T.) S.D., Gunner (H.S.) J.D., Monson I.G., &c. After preliminaries, the ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Tucker candidate. After a call off, Lodge opened in second and third degrees, when the W.M. rehearsed the ceremony of raising, Bro. Gunner candidate. Bro. F. Botley was elected W.M. for 29th instant.

Prince Leopold Lodge of Instruction, No. 1445.—Held at Bro. Fromm's, The Moorgate, Finsbury Pavement, on Wednesday, 20th inst., under the Preceptorship of Bro. W. H. Myers P.M. Lodge was opened by Bro. S. L. Green P.M. W.M., supported by Bros. Partridge S.W., Robson J.W., McDonald, Kimbell, Smith, Seymour-Clarke Sec., and others. The ceremony of raising was ably rehearsed by the W.M. Bro. Partridge was afterwards elected W.M. for Wednesday, 27th inst. Brethren are earnestly invited to attend. The House is next Moorgate-street Station. Hours seven until nine p.m.

Mount Edgcumbe Lodge of Instruction, No. 1446.—At the Harp Tavern, Jermyn-street, on Tuesday. Bro. Paul W.M., W. Cleghorn S.W., Hemming J.W., Farwig Preceptor, F. V. Green Hon. Sec.; Birrell, Hurdell, Richardson, Percy, F. Green, Cohen, Levy, &c. Formalities were fully observed, and the Fifteen Sections were worked by the following brethren:—First Lecture—Bros. Cohen, J. J. Smith, Skinner, Clegborn, W. C. Smith, E. Farwig, and Watts respectively. Second Lecture—Bros. Pink, Hemming, Richardson, Clegborn, and Hurdell. Third Lecture—Bros. Blundell, Birrell, and Richardson. Lodge was resumed. Bros. Percy, N. J. Lloyd, Gulliford, George Coleman, Kirkaldy, Birrell, and Hill were unanimously elected members. A vote of thanks, to be recorded on the minutes, was voted to the W.M. for the able manner in which he had worked the Fifteen Sections, and that he be elected an honorary member. The W.M. returned thanks in suitable terms. All Masonic business being ended, Lodge was closed.

NEW ZEALAND.

An Auckland correspondent sends us the following items:—

The regular Quarterly Communication of the Provincial Grand Lodge S.C. was held 1st February, at the Masonic Hall, Bro. the Hon. F. Whitaker V.W.P.G.M. for the North Island of New Zealand presiding. The principal business was the election of Grand Lodge Officers. With one exception the whole of the retiring Officers were re-elected. Bro. Hendry P.G. Sword Bearer, declined to take office again, and Bro. Dunwoodie I.P.M. of Lodge Manukau was elected in his place.

It would appear as if the erection of a Masonic Hall in Auckland, on the site in Prince's-street, is after all to be an accomplished fact, for, after years of waiting, plans have been prepared by Mr. Skinner, which have been approved by the committee. Tenders have been called, and, at a meeting held on Monday night, one was accepted. There was close competition. The tenders received are as follows, and the lowest was accepted:—J. Ellingham, £3,579; Bailden and Stephenson, £3,127; J. J. Holland, £3,010; McConnachie and Flatt, £2,967; Marshall, £2,960; J. Hay[illegible]n £2,950; W. Shailer, £2,943; C. J. Matthew, £2,918; A. Wat[illegible], £2,870; A. Maguire, £2,799; W. Blowden, £2,767; J. Colbeck, £2,630.

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

LORD WARDEN LODGE, No. 1096, DEAL.

IN consequence of the usual night of meeting falling on Good Friday, a Lodge of Emergency was held on Friday, 22nd inst., at the Lodge Room, St. George's Hall, at 3.30 p.m., for the purpose of installing Bro. W. Carterfield S.W. and W.M. elect. The weather was fine, but owing to the few and inconvenient trains to Deal, there was not quite such a numerous gathering as was expected. As a rule this is one of the best attended meetings in this part of the Province, owing, no doubt, to the reputation which this Lodge has gained for itself during the past few years. There were present—Bros. H. R. L. Botting W.M., T. J. Usher P.M. P.P.G.R., J. B. Harrison P.M. P.G.C., F. Leith P.M., E. Kirby P.M. Treasurer, R. Measham P.M. P.P.G.C. Devon, T. Ayling P.M., W. Carterfield S.W., G. Band S.D., R. S. Davey D.C., H. Chambers Steward, S. Holgate Tyler, S. Willey, E. Rea, J. Loughlin, H. Webb, George C. Harding, B. M. Beer, E. Grigg, Alex. F. S. Bird P.P.G.J.W., B. Wood W.M., T. Bent P.M. of 784, C. W. Carlyon 1174, J. Jackson 1428, W. Crawford W.M. 127, J. Pardon 1205, R. J. Emmerson P.M. P.P.G.J.W., L. Hills P.M. 1206, T. Fenwick W.M. 1209 P.P.G.S.B., J. Webb W.M. 1223 and J. Chubb P.M. 1314; Bro. H. Abrams 127 officiated as Organist. Lodge was opened in the first degree, and the minutes were read and confirmed, as this was on the notices of the meeting. As soon as the Lodge was opened in the second degree, the W.M. elect was presented by Bro. E. Kirby, who during the ceremony acted as Director of Ceremonies. The W.M. then duly and regularly installed his successor into the chair in a way that has seldom been equalled, and rarely, if ever, excelled; reflecting the highest credit upon the Lodge, and adding another to its laurels. No point was omitted. When the Lodge was closed in the second and third degrees, the W.M. invested his Officers as follow:—Bros. Band S.W., Davey J.W., Chambers S.D., Rea J.D., Harrison Chaplain, Kirby Treas., Usher Hon. Sec., Leith D.C., B. M. Beer and Webb Stewards, Holgate Tyler, accompanying each with a few suitable remarks. The addresses were then delivered by the Installing Master in a most impressive manner, which obained the attention of every one. After the ceremony was over, votes of thanks were given to the Visitors for the pleasure they had afforded by their presence, and to the Installing Master for the very efficient way in which he had performed his arduous duties that afternoon; these were suitably responded to. The W.M., in a neat and feeling speech, then presented the Installing Master with a very handsome P.M.'s jewel, subscribed for by the brethren as a mark of their fraternal regard and esteem. In thanking the Worshipful Master and brethren for their, to him, most unexpected kindness, he assured them the gift would always be highly prized by him and his. There being no further business after the election of Bro. T. Ayling as the Representative of the Lodge on the Prov. Charity Committee, Lodge was closed, and the brethren and visitors adjourned to the banquet, provided by Bro. Spinner, of Margate, in the Lodge room, which was most elegantly decorated. The viands were of first rate quality, excellently cooked, and admirably served, much to the gratification of those present, who did ample justice to the repast. After the removal of the cloth the W.M. gave the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts, which were heartily responded to. Brother Bird in replying to the toast of the Prov. G. Officers, took occasion to bring forward the Holmesdale Testimonial Fund, and after pointing out the great good the Prov. G. Master had done in the Province during the past twenty-one years, said it was a matter of great regret that the subscriptions had fallen very much short of their anticipations. Though most Lodges had subscribed, very few individual members had done so. The subscriptions were limited to 10s for members, but there was no reason why a smaller sum should not be given. This was a matter he should leave to the consciences of the brethren. The I.P.M., Bro. Botting, then rose: he had the pleasure of proposing the next toast which was the one they were there to do honour to—the health of their W.M. The unanimity of the vote by which they had elected Bro. Carterfield as their W.M. for the ensuing year was a sufficient proof of their confidence in him, and of their knowledge of his qualities without needing any trumpeting from him. He congratulated the W.M. on his selection of Officers as he was sure his choice met the approbation of the brethren, and would ensure the proper working of the Lodge and the maintenance of its efficiency. Their W.M. had served a very good apprenticeship, and he was confident that if his health permitted, he would never be absent from his post. He (Bro. Botting) had had the pleasure of introducing him into Freemasonry, and in fulfilment of his promise given then had stuck closely to him, and would see him safely through his year of office. He called on the brethren to unite with him in wishing their W.M. a prosperous year of office, and every happiness here below. This toast was drunk with the utmost enthusiasm and real, good "Kentish Fire." The W.M. briefly but suitably responded. Bro. Kirby then proposed the Masonic Charities, and in a very forcible speech pointed out the great good these Charities were doing, and how the necessity of maintaining them became every year a greater duty in spite of the exertions they had already made. Although many Masons were constant subscribers, yet there was a countless number who never subscribed anything. He pointed out that the large sums that were collected last year by the Stewards should incite them to greater exertions. Every Mason could act as a Steward by collecting subscriptions from his own family and friends. However small those subscriptions might be, they would help to swell the amount. He could point to several well known members who for years had acted as Stewards, and he thought it was quite time some of the younger brethren came forward to take their place, and infuse fresh life into the work. He coupled Bro. Ayling's name with this toast. In reply, Bro. Ayling gave some very interesting statistics with reference to the Institutions, and took the opportunity of refuting the statements made by some one who had not studied the matter, that the cost of each boy in the School was £80. Such a statement, unsupported by evidence, was such as never ought to have been made by a Mason, as it was likely to give the brethren an idea that the Institutions were very extravagantly managed, when such was not the case. He compared them with other great Schools, and maintained they could maintain their own, as was evidenced by the result of the last examinations. In conclusion, he made a very strong and urgent appeal for support on behalf of our excellent Institutions which Bro. Kirby had aptly called the "three noblest in the kingdom." Bro. Usher P.M. proposed the health of the I.P.M., saying he had done his duty well, had been most constant in his attendance, and zealous in the performance of his duties. The way in which he had done the work that afternoon was a fitting termination to his year of office. He had justly earned the respect and esteem of the brethren, and all hoped he would be spared many years to be with them, and continue his services to the Lodge. Bro. Harrison proposed the Visitors, and remarked that he hoped by that time next year there would be greater facilities for locomotion, and so they might reasonably expect a greater number. Bro. Webb W.M. Amherst Lodge replied, and thanked them for the very capital evening he had spent, and complimented the Lodge upon their excellent working. Bros. Wood and Crawford also responded. The W.M. gave the P.M.'s, and Bro. Usher the Senior P.M., and one of the founders of the Lodge returned thanks. Bro. Band S.W. replied to the toast of the Officers, and said it was their intention to strive with all their might to prove themselves worthy of the honour that had been bestowed on them, and that in them their W.M.'s confidence had not been misplaced. After the Tyler's toast, the brethren separated, having spent a most enjoyable evening. The proceedings were very agreeably enlivened by some excellent vocal music. Under the direction of Bro. Botting, assisted by Bro. Abrams at the piano, the following programme was gone through with excellent finish and style, to the intense enjoyment of the brethren, Bros. Botting and Chambers and Messrs. Davies and Arnold being the vocalists:—The National Anthem, "God Bless the Prince of Wales," Hatton's "Happiest Land," "The Four Jolly Smiths" (Bro. Botting), duet, "Larboard Watch" (Chambers and Arnold), rendered with capital effect; song, "The Sexton" (Arnold), most feelingly sung; Pearson's "Iron Founders" (four part song) was very much admired by the audience; song, "Give me the man of honest heart," was most excellently sung by Bro. Chambers; trio, "Here's a health," was rapturously applauded. Mr. Davis then sang "The Village Blacksmith" in a manner which earned the approbation of all present. Duet, "The Convent Bells" (Davis and Botting) and Pinsuti's "Good night, Beloved," completed this capital programme.

FREEMAN'S CHLORODYNE.

The Original and only true.

HUNDREDS of Medical Practitioners testify to its marvellous efficacy in immediately relieving and rapidly curing Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Neuralgia, Spasms, Colic, Whooping Cough, and all Nerve Pains. It acts like a charm in Diarrhœa, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery. It rapidly relieves pain, from whatever cause, soothes and strengthens the system under exhausting diseases, and gives quiet and refreshing sleep.

Lord Chancellor Selborne, Lord Justice James, Lord Justice Mellish decided in favour of FREEMAN'S ORIGINAL CHLORODYNE, and against Brown and Davenport, compelling them to pay all costs in the suits. See Times of July 24th, 1873. Bottles 1s 1½d, 2s 9d, 4s 6d, 11s, and 20s. Sold by all Chemists.

TESTIMONIALS.—Head Quarter Staff, Cabul, May 31st, 1880. Mr. R. Freeman, Dear Sir,—It is with much pleasure I am able to state that your Chlorodyne has been of special service to me in alleviating the wearisome spasms of Asthma, which is here existent in an aggravated form. Many of my patients now come and beg me to give them that medicine which always relieves them, and which I need hardly say is your Chlorodyne. Yours faithfully, CHARLES W. OWEN, L.R.C.P. Lon., M.R.C.S. Eng., the Divisional Head Quarter Staff and Civil Surgeon, Cabul.

The Times, August 13th, 1877. From our own Correspondent with the Russian Army. Okoum, July 25th, 1877. The want of sanitary arrangements in the Russian Camp was dreadful, and had we remained there a few weeks longer, dysentery and typhoid fever would have played more havoc in our ranks than the bombs of the Turks. I myself acquired an unenviable reputation as a doctor, owing to my being provided with a small bottle of CHLORODYNE, with which I effected miraculous cures.

"We have companies for all sorts of things: why do not some philanthropic gentlemen start an association for lending money to embarrassed traders and house keepers at ten per cent. interest? There are a number of people now getting three per cent. for their money in Consols who would be glad to invest it in an enterprise in which, if properly managed, there would be no risk whatever, and a certainty of earning eight or nine per cent. profit. Properly managed, such an association, worked on a large scale, would be an immense boon to people struggling with temporary difficulties, and would pay a handsome return to those who invested their money in Shares."

THE APPROACH OF THE HOLIDAY SEASON.

THE mere mention of the month of May is sufficient to kindle that excitement which invariably attends the prospect of well-earned rest from labour. The season of Masonic activity, which set in with its wonted vigour last autumn, is rapidly approaching to a close, and with the exception of a few Lodges, as well as but occasional gatherings, the Craft, in London, at all events, will be in a state of quiescence. Of course, there are certain events which yet remain to be accomplished ere the present working year is brought to a conclusion, and certain of these are of the very greatest importance. There is, for instance, the Anniversary Festival, on Wednesday week, of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, when the chair will be taken by Sir M. Hicks-Beach, Bart., M.P., Provincial Grand Master of Gloucestershire, and a numerous and active Board of Stewards will, we trust, be successful in causing a liberal array of donations and subscriptions to find their way into the coffers of that Institution. It is needless to say, after our article of last week, that we sincerely hope the Craft will behave with its accustomed generosity. Two days later—that is, on Friday, the 20th instant—will be held the Annual General Meeting of the Governors and Subscribers of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, and sundry annuitants on the Male and Female Funds will be elected to fill the vacancies which death has caused during the past twelve months among our Old Folk. Having regard to the magnificent success of the last Festival, let us hope the meeting will resolve on making an addition, more or less considerable, to the number of those who are chosen to receive the benefits of this Charity. Later still there is the Anniversary Festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys. The Marquess of Londonderry, K.T., Provincial Grand Master of Durham, has, with a view to signalise his appointment to that office, very kindly consented to preside, and we may be sure the interests of "Our Boys" will be well looked after, under the auspices of so distinguished a Mason, both by the Craft generally and by the Province which has the honour to acknowledge him as its Chief. And still later, there will be held the Anniversary Festival of yet another Masonic Charity, to wit, that of the Mark Benevolent Fund, which, though as yet small by comparison with our Central Charities, is worthy of all encouragement and support, and one day no doubt will assume greater proportions. But when we have enumerated these, we have about completed the list of events which are likely to prove of general interest, and we may look to the season from now to mid-September or October as being wholly given up to rest, with an occasional interlude in the form of an excursion by land or water to some chosen resort of pleasure. To this form of entertainment we propose to devote a small space.

We have, on more than one occasion ere now, expressed our opinions on the subject of excursions, and the best way of turning them to good account. It is proper, as well as pleasurable, for members of a Lodge to meet together and enjoy themselves at these festive gatherings. So much is constantly said and written as to Masonry and its duties, that people are apt to lose sight of the fact that one of the most satisfactory of its characteristics is that it is essentially a social institution. Free and ancient Masonry may be defined, and very properly, as including no more than three degrees, with the Royal Arch, and the learned among us may exercise their minds as to the origin and significance of those degrees, whether their existence is coeval with that of Masonry, or whether one of them may not have been erected in order to give greater completeness to the system. But whatever differences of opinion may exist on these and other points of moment, there is no doubt as to the social element being a very appreciable part and parcel of the Craft. Being a morality, one of its principal aims is to promote good-fellowship, and how can this be done better than by including in the programme of our regular and holiday gatherings, a hearty and energetic discussion of the good things of this life? It is all very well for people to look aghast at so audacious a proposition; men and women were not created only in order to meet together in conclave, and solemnly discuss the serious questions which affect all communities alike. The good things of life were meant for their use and enjoyment, and the abuse, by abstinence therefrom, is doubtless, in the eyes of the Creator, as great a sin as is the too reckless and extravagant indulgence in them. The man, be he a Mason or not, who has honestly done his work, is entitled to a rest and to something in the way of enjoyment, and that is what very many among us are now looking forward to with so much zest.

But though we are entitled to this sort of recreation, there is no reason why we should be called upon to pay for it an outrageous price. We have again and again pointed out, and we shall keep on pointing out, that the idea by which many would seem to be actuated, to wit, that the measure of enjoyment depends on the sum expended, is altogether an erroneous one. There are those who think a banquet cannot possibly be enjoyable unless a few cases of champagne are disposed of, or that an excursion into the country is likely to be of no account whatever, unless it necessitates a large expenditure of money. But just as there are people who are sensible enough not to despise a thing because it is purchasable for a modest sum, so there are those who do not think it smacks of meanness or narrow-mindedness, if some regard is paid to the cost of an entertainment. We are not all of us so fortunate as to be indifferent to money, and if the tariff of charges is fixed too high in the case of our Summer Excursions it follows logically that some will have no option but to forego the pleasure of participating in them or to pinch themselves in their ordinary mode of living. Now we have known people enjoy themselves for the outlay of a few shillings as much as, and possibly even more than, those who have believed the expenditure of a few pounds was necessary to that end. Champagne-cup is very pleasant, but so is cider-cup, and there is a slight difference in the cost of the two beverages. A dinner at two guineas is doubtless a very grand affair, yet it is possible to supply a varied and liberal bill of fare for a crown—a bill of fare that even a Cræsus might not disdain to partake of. There is nothing reputable in the lavish expenditure of money, and a great deal of enjoyment is to be got at a moderate outlay, if the Stewards of an entertainment are people of experience. On the other hand, there is little pleasure to be anticipated from an excursion when people are afraid, every time there is a call upon them for some contribution, that their purses will be emptied before the day is over; but while people ought not to be lavish, they need not exhibit niggardliness. There is such a thing as economy to be considered, and economy does not mean cheeseparing any more than it grudges the use of what is right and proper. If our Lodges will but bear these things in mind when they are organising their Summer excursions or entertainments, they will be doing a service to many excellent members of the Fraternity who like to take their pleasure in season, but are not able to afford extravagance, and perhaps are a little too proud to acknowledge it. Moreover, there is this further to be considered. Ladies are present on these occasions, and if the charges are high, a brother who has a wife and daughters, and considers there is no reason why they should not have a part in the day's pleasure, will probably think twice about joining. He will argue that he would like to be of the party, but he and his belongings must find their enjoyment elsewhere, where the demands on his purse will be less formidable. We hope a sense of moderation will prevail whenever an entertainment of this description is on the carpet, so that the greatest, not the smallest, number of brethren and their friends may have part in the enjoyment.

ORIGIN AND AIM OF MASONRY.

A Fragment, by Bro. W. R. Wright.

I HAVE perused with great attention Sir William Drummond's observations on the origin and nature of the Institution of Freemasonry, and have derived the highest gratification from its perusal. However I may differ from Sir William in some few points of his hypothesis, as a man who as devoted much attention to Masonic pursuits and learned to contemplate the Institution itself in a very different point of view from that in which it has been generally treated by its advocates and its enemies, I feel the greatest satisfaction in finding my own notions of its genuine antiquity and important tendency, in so great a degree confirmed by the authority of his distinguished talents and profound erudition, for which I entertain the most sincere respect and deference. I perfectly agree in his supposition that the belief of the Zabeans was in a great degree prevalent among the Jews; but I consider it to have been adopted by that people in the more gross and corrupt form to which it was so evidently liable to be perverted, and not, as he seems to imagine, in that of pure and speculative Theism.

But as those corruptions were ultimately derived from sublime, though inaccurate and imperfect conceptions of the divine nature, I am inclined to think that the real object of the Craft degrees of Masonry as instituted by S. (Solomon?), was to reclaim the followers of that sect to a purer and more philosophical investigation of their original tenets, thus gradually preparing their minds for the reception of revealed religion.

And in this respect I would draw a marked distinction between what is usually termed the Craft or symbolical part of the science, and the system of H.R.D.M.—K.D.S.H., or as it is now more commonly styled the R.A. of J.—to which I shall first advert as being the most antient branch of our institution, and comprising what may not improperly be termed the mysteria majora.

The foundation of this most antient Masonry I apprehend to have been coeval with the creation of man, consisting in that system of knowledge, moral, physical, and philosophical, which the Almighty Creator gave to the first being whom he animated with a spirit resembling his own divine nature, which system was preserved in the traditions of the antient Patriarchs to the time of ———.

About the time when that eminent character appeared, these traditions, beginning to be obscured by the lapse of seven centuries, had fallen into much neglect even among those who professed to adhere to the creed of their forefathers, and were treated as idle superstitions by those of a different character.

In order, therefore, to preserve them from being further effaced or totally forgotten, that Patriarch deposited written memorials of those scientific and divine communications in the bosom of a holy mountain well known to the Fraternity, and the better to provide further security by confining such knowledge to those who might prove themselves worthy of it, instituted certain probationary and religious observances of a secret nature, which circumstance, I apprehend, is alluded to when it is said that ——— first taught men to call upon the name of the Lord.

Such is my idea of Masonry in its original and simple state. Thus preserved amongst the sons of the Patriarchs to the time of the captivity of Israel in Egypt, the system became in some degree corrupted by the intercourse of their descendants with the people of the country, who for the most part adored with extravagant and fantastic rites and monstrous superstition the symbols under which the priests of Misraim concealed the theistical doctrines derived from their progenitor ———, the son of Noah.

On the enfranchisement of the Israelites from their Egyptian captivity, the public worship of ——— was re-established among the people, in general under the injunction of solemnities and formal observances at once suited to captivate their imaginations and keep alive their zeal and attention by ordinances interwoven with all these civil and social relations, and tending to connect the past history of the human race with those future destinations of which they were the archetype.

But as the human mind, once infected with any degree of superstition or infidelity, can recover its energy and purity only by gradual means proportioned to its remaining and returning health . . . . The instruction which they there received, so far as regarded the antient ritual, was that compendious system adopted by the G. and R.C. of J., which comprised under five divisions or principal degrees the several ordinances respectively established by M. and by S., explaining under the last or 5th degree the nature and distinctive characteristics of the several intervening stages of the Mosaic Institution, the ceremonial of which it was no longer deemed necessary or expedient to retain.

Among the Crusaders the Knights of the Temple appear to have given the most sedulous and particular attention to the details of the antient Masonic system on the principles of which their own fraternal union was founded, requiring secrecy of initiation and observing the practice of mysterious ceremonies unknown to other orders of chivalry.

No one who is acquainted with the history of the Templars can doubt that these means were adopted by them for the purpose of concealing from general observation those ambitious views of domination from which their apologists (however successful in refuting all other charges against this illustrious body), have never been able to exculpate them.

On the dissolution of the Order, and in consequence of the persecution to which its members were exposed under the authority of the Pope and Philip the Fair of France, many of its principal officers took refuge in Scotland. Zealously attached to the principles of their association, they availed themselves of its ancient relation to Masonry to establish a close connection with the Lodges existing in that country, and found means to engraft on the simple plan hitherto promulgated by the brethren of the Crusades, the peculiar observances which they had exclusively retained, so modified, however, as to bear a proximate allusion to their own circumstances, and tending to keep alive the ambitious designs of the Order . . . . . by a desire to wreak vengeance on their persecutors, and to transmit these sentiments to succeeding ages, that the hour of retribution, however distant, would at length arrive.

Hence originated what is generally called the Kilwinning Rite, which appears, however, to have been more generally adopted and to have taken most deep root among the nations of the Continent (particularly in France and Germany) than among the moral and reflecting people of the country where it was originally established.

And I do most fully agree with those who attribute to the silent and progressive influences of this perverted system (co-operating with political causes, and more especially reacting on the abuse of the secular and the intolerance of the ecclesiastical authorities), a considerable portion of those anti-social and anti-christian doctrines which have spread such desolation throughout Europe.

I have observed that this system found little acceptance with the Scotch and English Masons. In the former kingdom these intermediate degrees are very imperfectly preserved; in the latter they were never received into practice, and even the degree of Knights Templar, as still existing in both countries, is strictly confined to the ritual of initiation antiently observed by that order, disfigured, indeed, by lapse of time and the ignorance of those into whose hands the administration of it has fallen, but still retaining palpable traces of the grand and impressive ceremonial originally practised on such occasions.

The similarity of our allegorical structure with the Temples of the Zabeans, and the resemblance which exists between the mysteries of Masonry, and those of Osiris, Mithras, and the Eleusinioi . . . . in various points of preparation, reception, and instruction, as well as its connection with the Pythagorean and Platonic Schools of Philosophy, have been so ably treated by Sir W. Drummond that I cannot presume to offer any comment in addition to what he has observed on that part of the subject, further than by remarking that the universal prevalence of similar institutions amongst the civilized nations of antiquity in Asia, Africa, and Europe (though confessedly imperfect and obscure in their nature and tendency, and widely differing from each other in many particulars), afford a strong testimony in favour of the existence of some original and pure system of mysterious and traditional instruction existing from the earliest ages of the world.

To enter upon the discussion of the relations which our institution bears to the complicated system of Hindu mythology (always beautiful and often sublime, even in its wildest extravagance of fiction) would require far more leisure and erudition than I am possessed of or can pretend to. I cannot, however, refrain from observing the extraordinary manner in which that system is itself connected with the hieroglyphics of Egypt, the belief of the antient Phœnicians (probably the founders of the Druidical religion), and the tenets of the Pythagorean and Platonic schools as far as they relate to the mysterious doctrines of the Metempsychosis and the . . . . so often descanted upon, and so little understood by contemporary and succeeding writers.

Subjects of this nature are beyond the compass of those limits which I have prescribed to my present observations; but I am not the less convinced that to the investigation of such subjects the deeper researches of the speculative Mason should be sedulously directed in the more advanced stages of his progress.

The existence, nature, and attributes of the Creator and of those spiritual essences which derived there being from Him—the origin of evil, the existence of man, the existence of matter—as taught or regarded by the followers of the Epicurean, Platonic, or Brahminic philosophy.

The end proposed in the creation of the system to which we belong.

The original nature and destination of man and of the animals subject to his power.

The primary laws and properties of the vegetable and mineral kingdoms.

The physical and moral . . . . introduced by the corruption of mankind.

The institution of sacrificial worship as well with reference to its own nature as the end for which it was designed.

The effects of that great convulsion of nature recorded in the Scriptures and in the imperfect tradition of all nations.

The confusion of languages and the analogy which all the varieties still bear towards each other through the medium of their common original.

The foundation of Mythological superstition and of prophetical tradition as connected with astronomical observations and occurrences.

The general review of the great scheme of the moral economy of Providence for the subjugation of evil and the ultimate perfection of all things.

To those who see no more in our institution than a secret association for the inculcation and practice of universal benevolence; to those who carry their views no farther than to the ritual and instructions ordinarily observed and communicated among us, it would appear the dream of an extravagant enthusiast to connect these subjects with the name of Masonry. But in addressing myself to the writers of the papers now before me, and through the medium of the friend from whom I received that communication, I am assured that I shall incur no ridicule by such an assertion, nor be in danger of having my conception misunderstood.

In conclusion, I have only to express my regrets that Sir. W. Drummond has not carried into execution the intention to which he adverts in the concluding paragraph of his observations, and my earnest hopes that he will not abandon a design which no other can execute with so masterly a hand, and which is in itself so highly interesting to the development of the history of man and the knowledge of the mysterious dispensations of perfect wisdom and eternal truth.—From Broadley's History of Freemasonry in the District of Malta.

CONSTITUTION OF THE NEW LODGE AT PORTSMOUTH.

THE date of the Constitution of the Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar Lodge, No. 1903, has been definitely fixed for Wednesday, the 25th of May, and the Committee are now engaged in completing the preliminary arrangements. Various circumstances have combined to invest the inauguration of the new Lodge with peculiar interest, not the least, of course, being the acceptance of Brother Commander the Right Hon. Lord Charles Beresford, of the Royal Yacht Osborne, of a cordial invitation to be the first W.M. His Lordship, who is a P.M. of the Methem Lodge, Devonport, is anxious to do all in his power to promote the prosperity of the Lodge, and has expressed his intention to devote as much time and attention as possible to its efficient working. In the I.P.M. his Lordship will have the support of an enthusiastic Mason, and the other Officers, of whom a list is subjoined, will cordially co-operate with their Chief in order that the expectations of the Founders of the Lodge may be realised, and that it may gain high rank in the province. The Constitution of the Lodge will take place in the Lecture Hall, Penny street. The ceremony will be performed by the R.W. the Prov. G.M. of Hampshire and the Isle of Wight (Bro. W. W. Bramston Beach, M.P.), and representatives of the Grand Lodge of England and other distinguished members of the Craft will be present. As admission to the ceremony will be by ticket, a circular has been sent to each Lodge in the province asking for a return of the number of brethren who intend to be present on the occasion, and no doubt is entertained that the gathering will be one of the largest that has taken place in the province for many years past. The ceremony is fixed for 11 a.m., and the banquet for 2 p.m.; the latter, by kind permission of Bro. Colonel C. Lanyon Owen, is to take place at the headquarters of the Hants and Dorset Artillery Volunteers. The Warrant for the Lodge, granted by the Grand Master (H.R.H. the Prince of Wales), is now in the hands of its Founders, and the Officers have been appointed as under:—Bros. H. W. Townsend I.P.M., T. Page S.W., Lieutenant Sackville H. Carden, R.N., J.W., H. Threadingham Treas., A. Leon Emanuel Secretary, G. Knowles S.D., J. L. Martyn J.D., J. Winterbottom Organist, G. Lind Director of the Ceremonies, McLeod I.G. H. Long and S. Knight Stewards, Mansell and Carter Tylers.—Portsmouth Times.

ISLINGTON LODGE OF INSTRUCTION, No. 1471, MASONIC BENEVOLENT ASSOCIATION.

THIS Association, founded in 1877, by members of the Islington Lodge of Instruction, having been brought to a successful termination, a number of brethren celebrated the occasion by a supper at Bro. Gabb's, St. Martin's Court, Ludgate-hill, on Monday, 2nd instant, Brother J. L. Mather P.P.G.D.C. Herts, the President of the Association, in the chair. After the usual loyal toasts, Bro. C. F. Matier proposed the health of the Chairman, and in the course of his remarks congratulated Bro. Mather and the working Officers of the Association on the success that had attended their efforts, a sum amounting to nearly £700 having been collected for the benefit of the various Charities—forty Life Governors being added to the list of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, fourteen to the Boys', six to the Girls' Schools, while four at present remain unappropriated. Bro. Mather returned thanks, and proposed the health of Bro. D. P. Holness 1471, the Secretary, and Bro. J. Shipley, the Treasurer of the Association, speaking in high terms of the assidnity with which they had performed their arduous duties, to the satisfaction of all the members; and at the conclusion of his remarks presented each with a handsome testimonial, as some slight return for the services they had rendered, which was acknowledged by those brethren in appropriate terms. Bro. Binckes, the Secretary of the Boys' School, in reply to the toast of his health, in an eloquent speech made an earnest appeal on behalf of the Charities in general, and the Boys' School in particular, urging those who had done good service in the cause not to relax their efforts, and those who had not yet turned their attention in this direction to do so, as it was a duty incumbent on all Masons, and all could assist if they would. More especially by the means of associations such as the one at whose "obsequies" the brethren were then assisting. These associations had done an immense amount of good, and he hoped to see them multiplied in all directions, a wish that was cordially reciprocated by the brethren present. The meeting broke up about eleven o'clock.

ATTENDANCE OF PAST MASTERS.

Notwithstanding what we wrote last week, it still appears, according to a communication just to hand from Bro. Sim, he thinks we have acted unfairly in not giving insertion to the letter he sent on the subject of the "Attendance of Past Masters." Bro. Sim further informs us that the members of the Lodge interested feel aggrieved at the rejection of his epistle, more especially as they imagine they trace to a member of our staff the authorship of Bro. E. Van Donop's letters. We may take this opportunity of assuring Bro. Sim and the other brethren he represents that they are wrong in their surmise. The reason we acted as we did, as we stated last week, was, that we felt enough had been said on the subject. However, as Bro. Sim differs with us, we now give his communication the benefit of publication, and hope he and others interested will be satisfied with its appearance.—[ED. F.C.]

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

60 Queen Victoria-street,
London, E.C.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I am charmed at having excited the risibility of your correspondent "E. VAN DONOP," and he seems equally so at having aroused what he is pleased to term my anger. Allow me to assure you he is mistaken in his conclusion. As perhaps with him terms are synonymous, will he pardon me if I inform him that anger and indignation are totally different experiences. I again assert that I am justified in being indignant at the liberty a stranger has taken in bringing any matter forward in the press in which he has no interest. Has "E. VAN DONOP" had the cloak of Masonic censorship thrown over him? If not, why does he take upon himself the onus of calling the attention of the Masonic world to a matter which he states has come to his knowledge by the perusal of a report? If "E. VAN DONOP" is regularly going to call attention to the shortcomings of every member of every Lodge, I deeply sympathise with him in his arduous task, and trust he will meet with the recognition such valuable information to the Craft in general will merit. One correction. In my communication I wrote:—

"The letter addressed to you would lead to the inference that the Past Masters were frequently absent. So far as my knowledge goes, this is the FIRST occasion since the Lodge was founded."

"E. VAN DONOP" concludes with the following paragraph:—

"Bro. Sim is unable to speak from his own knowledge as to its NEVER having happened on any previous occasion."

I would call attention to the false logic of your correspondent "A MASTER MASON." He writes:—

"However, what I wish to point out is, that the present race of Past Masters (another amateur censor!) appears to be under the impression that Freemasonry would die a natural death were it not for the services they render."

Is that supported or contradicted by the point in question—the absence of Past Masters? Is not the inferential conclusion that the present Officers are considered so capable that they do not require the presence or support of those who have passed the chair?

I regret his final assertion, "They think they are above criticism, and are occasionally overbearing in their treatment of younger brethren."

Has "A MASTER MASON" been presuming, as some young Masons do, and had his knuckles rapped, leading him (inadvertently, of course) to a conclusion attributable to another cause? I trust he will lay the "flattering unction" of his two concluding sentences to his own soul.

I cannot conclude without accepting, in as hearty a manner as tendered, "E. VAN DONOP'S" apology, and do so with a word of advice. Don't do it again. "Be merry and wise."

Yours truly and fraternally,

EDWARD G. SIM.

The City of London Orchestral Union, of which our esteemed Bro. G. T. H. Seddon P.M. 174 is the conductor, announce their closing Concert for the season, which will take place on Wednesday next, the 11th instant, at the Albion Hall, London Wall. The vocalists engaged for the occasion are Madame Blanche Owen, and Bro. George F. Weige P.M. 860. From the success that has attended the previous efforts of this Union, a most agreeable entertainment may be prognosticated.

The report of the installation and fiftieth anniversary meeting of the Northern Counties Lodge, No. 406, is unavoidably held over till next week. We also crave the same indulgence with regard to the meeting of the Northumberland and Berwick Lodge of Mark Masters.

The Grand Lodge of the most Ancient and Honourable Fraternity of Free and Accepted Masons, Pennsylvania. Its early History and Constitutions from A.L. 5730, A.D. 1730, its Minutes and Proceedings. List of Lodges from earliest date to December 27, 1880. Part III. Compiled and published by the Library Committee of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania. Philadelphia: Sherman and Co. Printers, 1880.

At the close of our last week's notice of these minutes and proceedings we stated that on St. John the Baptist's Day 1801, the G. Lodge passed a series of resolutions for the purchase of a tenement and lot of ground near the south west corner of Ninth and Arch Streets, for the purpose of erecting on it a building suitable for holding their meetings. Many brethren, however, appear to have objected to these resolutions being carried into effect, owing to its remote situation, and in June of the following year it was resolved to purchase of a William Hunter, described as an "Arch Master," a certain "three storey brick-built messuage and lot of ground situate on the south side of Filbert-street, between Eighth and Ninth Streets" for the sum of three thousand dollars, while other resolutions were passed for having the house conveyed in fee simple to Bro. J. B. Smith and others in trust for Grand Lodge. It may be as well to add that, when the building had been made suitable for Masonic purposes, it was solemnly dedicated to Freemasonry by Bro. Jonathan Bayard Smith, in the presence of the Grand Officers and the representatives of twenty-four Lodges, that auspicious event being the last which occurred in the Grand Mastership of that distinguished brother. Here the brethren continued to meet until 24th June 1811, when they migrated to their new and more commodious premises in Chestnut-street, and the Filbert-street-building was sold for 4500 dollars, or the one-half of its original cost. On 9th March 1819, the first Chestnut Hall was destroyed by fire, and Grand Lodge re-occupied their old quarters, while the new or second Chestnut-street Hall was being built. The new Temple was ready for occupation by 1st March 1820, and since then the history of the old "Pennsylvania Freemasons' Hall" in Filbert-street is entirely without interest, all Masonic work in it having ceased since that date. On the 30th January 1880, the last meeting of the Rosicrucian Society was held within its walls, and the day following orders were issued for its demolition. A photograph of the old building is one of the illustrations which embellish this present Part III. of the Grand Lodge Records.

Having noted all that is important in connection with the purchase and dedication of the Hall, let us now glance at what took place in the interim between those events. On the 7th December 1801 Bro. Jonathan B. Smith was again elected R.W. Grand Master, Bro. James Milnor being chosen Deputy Grand Master, and Bros. John W. Van Cleve and E. Ferguson G. Senior and Junior Wardens respectively. At this meeting a letter from Bro. Smith was read, in which he announced that he had received, through Bro. Duplessis, the representative of several Lodges in San Domingo, under the jurisdiction of Grand Lodge, a request that a Provincial Grand Master should be appointed to preside over Masonry in that island, there being already six Lodges in working order, while applications for the grant of warrants for two more had been made. Bro. Smith stated that he believed it came within his Province, as Grand Master, to grant the prayer of the petition on his own authority; but he thought it preferable to submit the matter to the judgment of Grand Lodge. On the 21st of the same month, the Committee appointed to inquire into and consider the matter reported that they thought it advisable a Provincial Grand Master for the island of San Domingo, with the rank of a Deputy Grand Master, should be appointed, and they expressed their opinion that the making of such appointment was a prerogative of the Grand Master. They accordingly requested him to confer the office on such brother as he might think proper. On the 1st March 1802 the petition for a warrant for a new Lodge at new Orleans was submitted and granted. On the 7th June 1802 it was agreed that the Committee of Purchase and Building should write to Bro. John McElwee, formerly Grand Treasurer, who would seem to have returned from Europe and taken up his quarters at Baltimore, requesting him to pay his debt to Grand Lodge, under penalty of having his conduct notified to the different Grand Lodges. On the 24th June Bro. Israel announced that he had in his possession two large china bowls, the property of Grand Lodge, and also sundry jewels, aprons, &c., which he had found in the hands of their former Grand Treasurer, Bro. McElwee, and requesting to be informed to whom he should deliver them. It was thereupon ordered that he should hand them over to the Grand Treasurer for the use of Grand Lodge. The Quarterly Communication of September 1802 was not held, owing to the presence of yellow fever in the city. On the 6th December, after the election of Bro. Israel as Grand Master, in succession to Bro. Smith, it was resolved to hold a procession of the Brotherhood, in accordance with Grand Lodge Rules, on the anniversary of St. John's Day next, the day fixed for the dedication of the new Hall. A unanimous vote of thanks was afterwards passed to Bro. Francis for having accorded permission to Grand Lodge and the subordinate Lodges to meet in his room, and this compliment was enhanced at a later meeting by a further resolution to the effect that he should be allowed to pass the chair, and be presented with an apron and jewel. In the minutes of the meeting on the 13th December a series of charges was submitted against Lodge No. 46 by one of its members, and ordered to be referred to a Committee. The charges are those of a brother who, whatever may have been his Masonic merits, was almost totally ignorant of his mother tongue. Charge I. was that the Lodge did not keep "Regelar minnets of there Proceeding." In Charge II. it is objected that the Bye Laws had not been "even agreed to by the Bodey." Thirdly, it was alleged that the Present members which only consistes of 5 or 6 holds all the propertia of the sd. Lodge," and yet had petitioned Grand Lodge for the remission of their dues. This "propertia was purtichased by the members while at Churchtown, and since the Removvell has not attended the Lodge, since nor do the mean to attend." Fourthly, he finds "there conduct as Maisons in my opponion was un-Missonck," and by no means comming up to the Rules of Masonery." The brother closed his petition with the following explanation: "It is altogether for the Sake and Love I have for Masonery that causes mee to brig this forroward and through no spite of any inveduel of the Body." We have seen the letters of many illiterate people, but rarely one which contained so many and such marvellous mistakes. The same day the Committee on Correspondence reported that among the various Communications they had received were resolutions from the Grand Lodges of Massachusetts, Virginia, and New Hampshire, to the effect that in their opinion the establishment of a superintending Grand Lodge for the whole of North America would be neither expedient nor wise. They further announced receipt of resolutions from the Grand Lodge of Maryland, that (1) "a person rejected in a Lodge shall not be accepted or initiated in any other Lodge without the consent of the Lodge to which he first applied," and (2) that no Lodge should initiate any person or persons applying for that purpose, "when there is a Lodge of Masons held nearer to his or their residence than the one to which he or they apply, without the consent of that Lodge, except seamen." Then is recorded an important regulation of the Grand Lodge of Virginia, "that no Master of a Lodge nor regular Past Master without his own consent previously obtained, can be called to account and tried for misconduct before any other tribunal than the Grand Lodge, or a Committee appointed by them or by the Grand Master," such regulation, however, being at variance with the views of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania, which at this very meeting had ruled that, as the Master of a Lodge was only a member of Grand Lodge ex officio, when he ceased from any circumstances to be Master, his connection with Grand Lodge likewise ceased, and the Lodge had full power over a delinquent W.M. to deal with him as they thought proper. Among other announcements may be mentioned that in Virginia the Grand Master appoints his Deputy, while in North Carolina a brother acting as representative of two or more Lodges, has the power to vote in respect of each and every of the Lodges he represents. On the 27th December, the Hall, as we have said, was formally dedicated, and the Grand Master delivered an address appropriate to the occasion, after which Bro. Israel was installed as Grand Master by Bro. Duplessis, and after cordial votes of thanks to all who had taken part in the eventful ceremony of the day had been passed, a similar vote, supplemented by the presentation of a Past Grand Master's gold jewel, was ordered to be recorded on the minutes in recognition of the valuable services rendered by Bro. J. B. Smith during the term of his Grand Mastership.

At the meeting on 3rd January 1803, the subordinate G. Officers were appointed and invested, while on the 7th March the question of the establishment of a Supreme Grand Lodge cropped up once more, owing to a communication received from North Carolina to the effect that the G. Lodges of North and South Carolina had acceded to the proposition. Pennsylvania, however, retained its old opinion as to the unwisdom and inexpediency of having a central G. Lodge, but expressed no objection to a convention of delegates being held for the purpose of "forming a more intimate union, and establishing a regular and more permanent intercourse between the said G. Lodges." The Building Committee then made report as to the difficulties by which they had found themselves surrounded in the erection of the new Temple, especially as to their not having met with that private support in the shape of subscriptions from individual brethren. They recommended, therefore, that Grand Lodge should recommend to all the subordinate Lodges meeting in the Hall to appropriate and pay to them not less than five or more than ten dollars out of each initiation fee; that the price of a warrant should be raised to fifty dollars, and that twenty out of such amount should be paid to the same end, and that each Lodge using the Hall should pay a rent of forty dollars, while each Chapter and Encampment should pay twenty dollars. These and other propositions for raising the necessary ways and means—the Committee were in debt to the extent of 1500 dollars—were submitted to G. Lodge, and with other measures were accepted. On 5th June, the rare event occurred of the G. Secretary being absent and the minutes of the previous Quarterly Communication, the Minute Book likewise being an absentee, could not, of course, be read. An interesting communication from the Grand Lodge of England, "Ancients," was presented, from which it appeared that that Grand Lodge, without one shilling of debt, had a clear ascertained income of over £500 a-year, principally from the British Funds, and that such income was not wasted in ostentation, but religiously devoted to the purposes of Masonic benevolence, being distributed monthly by a Committee of Masters of Lodges. Two other communications were read—one from the Grand Lodge of Ireland giving a list of Grand Officers for the current year, and announcing that they had established two Masonic Schools, while the other was from "Brother John Mitchell K; H; P.R.S., Sovereign Grand Inspector-General of the Thirty-third and Grand Commander in the United States of America." At the 5th September, another communication from the Grand Lodge of England, "Ancients," was read, cautioning the brethren of Pensylvania against any people who may happen to present certain certificates described. A report from the Committee to which the letter from Bro. John Mitchell 33 was referred, was to the effect that as G.L. had "no jurisdiction above Royal Arches," it could not conceive that any degree above that was founded in Ancient Masonry. Later on, a letter was read from Bro. Smith Past Grand Master in which he requested the acceptance by Grand Lodge of a painting of Solomon's Temple which he had purchased, and which he thought Grand Lodge would like to possess. A vote of thanks was cordially passed to Bro. Smith for his gift, and it was agreed that the picture should be suitably framed. This painting is now in the possession of the Grand Lodge Library. Particulars were submitted by Bro. Duplessis respecting the appointment and investiture of the Provincial G. Officers of San Domingo, and the condition of the Craft in that island; from which it would seem that the country was in a very disturbed state, that the P.G. Lodge and Lodges were unable to meet with regularity, and that all the brethren who could do so were using their best endeavours to escape from the island, while many who had done so had been plundered of all they had saved by British cruisers.

In December, Bro. Israel was re-elected G. Master, and Bro. James Milnor, in spite of his request to be succeeded in his office by some other brother, D.G. Master; and these, with the Grand Wardens, &c. &c., were subsequently installed, and the subordinate G. Officers and Hall Committee appointed. In January 1804, a Committee reported adversely as to the proposition whether or not a brother could be "a member of two Lodges at one and the same time, and under two different Grand Lodges," and the report was endorsed by Grand Lodge. In March a resolution was agreed to "That the Committee of Accounts be directed to call on the Committee appointed on the 15th of November 1802 to procure subscriptions in aid of the building in Filbert-street, and to examine and inspect what moneys have been subscribed, what moneys have actually been collected by each member of the said Committee, and how much each member has paid over to the Building Committee, and also the amount of moneys subscribed and remaining uncollected, and that they report the same fully to this Grand Lodge." At a Special Communication on 10th April, a letter was read from the Chairman of the Joint Committees of the Tammany Society and the Philadelphia Legion, inviting the Masons to join in a procession that was being organised for the purpose of celebrating on the 12th May the acquisition of Louisiana, but Grand Lodge passed a resolution to the effect, that while thanking the Joint Committee for the said invitation, it would not be in the power of the brethren to take part in the procession in the character of Masons. In June, it was resolved that in future all communications from other Grand Lodges should be referred to a Committee of Correspondence, while the petition of a brother of Lodge No. 75, complaining of his having been expelled the Lodge without having been informed of the complaint made against, or having had a chance allowed him to make any defence, was acted upon in so far as that the Grand Secretary was instructed to write to Lodge No. 75 transmitting copy of said letter, and requesting to be furnished with a copy of the proceedings in the case. The committee of accounts reported that they were not ready to report on the accounts of the committee appointed on 15th November 1802, to procure subscriptions towards the erection of the Hall. At the meeting on 25th June, the Committee of Correspondence presented a long and elaborate report on the propriety and expediency of applying for an act of incorporation. It is unnecessary to repeat the Committee's reasons for declining to recommend the plan, which emanated from the Grand Lodge of Virginia. It will be enough if we mention that reference was made to the case of Grand Lodge of England, which "once agreed to apply for a charter of incorporation, and a bill was introduced into Parliament for that purpose, but no sooner was its pernicious tendency discovered than the united remonstrances of the brethren induced the then Deputy Grand Master, who was a member of the House of Commons, to move for its postponement sine die. The motion was agreed to, and the measure has not been revived."

Even a Grand Tyler has his difficulties to contend with, as will be seen from the following letter from Bro. Schnider, who held that important office, to the Grand Master, asking for advice under certain troublesome circumstances:

"Your Grand Tyler respectfully begs leave to represent that on every St. John's Day he is in a very disagreeable situation, and without intention gives offence either to the new officers elect or to the old ones. Both are wanting the aprons and jewels of their office, and claim the right to represent the Grand Lodge for their respective Lodges for that day. The new Officers say that they are installed and their time begins on that day. The old Officers contend that they receive notices from the Grand Secretary to attend Grand Lodge, and not the Grand Officers elect; that the Grand Lodge does not know the new Officers until the Grand Lodge is opened, and the reports of the new Officers is read, consequently the time of the new Officers begins after the Grand Lodge is closed. I, therefore, humbly beg the R.W. Grand Lodge will please to decide which of the Officers has the right to wear the aprons and jewels on St. John's Day, and prevent further altercation on that day.

"I remain, with the greatest respect, R.W. Grand Master,

"WILLIAM SCHNIDER,

"Grand Tylor."

The consideration of this letter was deferred; but at the meeting on 15th October it was resolved, "That the new Officers of the different Lodges are entitled to wear their badges and represent their respective Lodges in Grand Lodge on the St. John's Day ensuing their election." At the meeting on the 2nd December a letter was read from Bro. James Milnor, requesting not to be re-appointed Dep. G. Master, and this time his wish was respected, Bro. Israel being re-elected Grand Master, and Bro. Fred. Wolbert elected Dep. G. Master, while Bro. Thomas Armstrong was elected Grand Treasurer This completes Part III. of the Minutes, which includes "A Paper read before the Rosicrucian Society of Philadelphia, by Charles E. Meyer, on Friday Evening, January 30th, 1880," and a list of Lodges in Pennsylvania, both vacated and defunct, from the beginning of Masonry in that State in 1730 till the present time. As, however, we have already said all that is necessary as to the Pennsylvania Freemasons' Hall, to which Bro. Meyer's excellent paper refers, we need not take any further notice of it. We are content with repeating our thanks for the copy forwarded us by the courtesy and with the compliments of Bro. C. E. Meyer.

GRAND CHAPTER.

THE Quarterly Meeting of Grand Chapter was held on Wednesday evening, 4th inst., at Freemasons' Hall. Comps. S. Rawson, W. F. A. Powell and E. E. Wendt occupied the Principals' chairs. Somerville Burney G.S.B., and H. G. Buss Assistant S.E. There was a full attendance of the Comps. Shadwell H. Clerke S.E., Montague Guest, M.P., S.N., Major Gen. H. Clerk, F.R.S., Principal Sojourner, Rev. Ambrose W. Hall 1st Assistant, J. Sampson Peirce 2nd Assistant, Lieut.-Col. John Creaton Treasurer, H. C. Levander Sword Bearer, Capt. A. Comps. Colonel Creaton, Robert Grey, A. J. Duff-Filer, E. Letchworth, W. Stephens, H. C. Levander, W. H. Perryman, F. Adlard, and C. F. Hogard were appointed the Committee of General Purposes, and Grand Chapter was then closed.

PROVINCIAL GRAND CHAPTER OF SUSSEX.

ON Saturday afternoon, 23rd ult., a special meeting of this Chapter was held in the Music Room, Royal Pavilion, the most important feature of the gathering being the installation of Comp. Sir W. Burrell, Bart., M.P., Z. 1466, as Grand Superintendent. There was a good attendance of brethren. The Installing Officer was the Most Ex. Comp. Col. Shadwell H. Clerke Grand Scribe E., and the ceremony, unique in its character, was doubly interesting from the fact that it was the foundation of the Sussex Provincial Grand Chapter, and that Sir Walter W. Burrell held the proud position of being the first Grand Superintendent. At the conclusion of the ceremony the newly-installed G.S. appointed the other Principals (who were duly obligated), and invested his Officers, addressing them briefly on the nature of their duties, and pledging them to the performance of them. The Principals and Officers appointed were—Provincial Grand Principals Comps. John H. Scott as H. and G. W. King as J., V. F. Freeman Scribe E., W. R. Wood N., Dr. Trollope First Principal S., Woolley Second Principal S., Pidcock Third Principal S., J. Dixon Director of Ceremonies, St. Clair Smith Grand Sword Bearer, C. J. Smith Grand Standard Bearer, Gerard Ford Grand Registrar, Crosskey Treasurer, A. King Organist, and T. Hughes Janitor.

ZETLAND CHAPTER, No. 236.

The annual installation meeting of this Chapter was held on Wednesday, the 27th ult., at York. The Chapter was opened at 6 p.m., and the minutes having been read and a ballot taken for candidates, the installation of Principals was proceeded with. Comp. Joseph Todd P.Z. acted as installing Principal, assisted by Comp. the Hon. W. T. Orde-Powlett P.Z., and the three chairs were filled as follows:—Comps. G. Balmford Z., J. M. Meek H., and A. Buckle J. The Officers then took their chairs as follow:—Comps. G. Kirby S.E., M. Rooke S.N., W. H. Gainforth P.S., W. Draper 1st A.S., S. Border 2nd A.S., J. Todd P.Z. Treas., T. J. Hodgson Org., J. S. Rymer D.C., W. Smith and William Nicholson Stewards, J. Redfare Janitor. Three exaltations took place, and a sum of ten guineas was voted to the list of Comp. Todd, who will be a Steward at the approaching Girls' Festival. After the close of the Chapter the members met at supper, and the usual toasts were duly honoured. Amongst those present during the evening were:—Comps. Sir James Meek P.Z., T. B. Whytehead P.Z., J. S. Cumberland Z. 1611, Rev. W. Valentine, T. W. Wilson, J. Fairburn, T. S. Camidge, C. Waistell, O. Robinson, G. Cattell, J. Young and E. J. de Salis.

Metropolitan Chapter of Improvement.—The usual meeting of the Metropolitan Chapter of Improvement was held on Tuesday evening, 3rd May, at the Jamaica Coffee House, St. Michael's-alley, Cornhill. Present—Comps. Lardner Z., R. Payne H., J. Payne J., W. Fraser N., Sayer P.S., also Comps. Maidwell, Darcy, Edmonds, Goodchild, Veal, Dottridge, Daniels, G. Brown, Sayer, Chicken, J. S. Fraser, Steingrober, Turner, Walker, Massa, Turquand, Taylor, Brasted, Kirke, Gillard, and F. Brown S.E. Preceptor. The ceremony of exaltation was rehearsed, Comp. Gillard being the candidate. Comp. Daniels, of the New Concord Chapter, 813, was elected a member. The following Officers were elected for the next fortnight:—R. Payne Z., J. Payne H., Chicken J., Gillard N., Maidwell P.S. It was announced that Comp. Turquand, M.E.Z. of the Stockwell Chapter, 1339, and Hornsey, 890, will rehearse the ceremony of installation of Principals on Tuesday, the 17th of May, at six o'clock punctually, after which, at half-past six o'clock, the usual exaltation ceremony will be rehearsed. As this is probably the last time, during the present season, that this important rite will be gone through here, it is to be hoped that there will be a goodly muster of Royal Arch Masons to support Comp. Turquand, and particularly P.Z.'s, so as to render the gathering one that shall maintain the high reputation of this supreme Chapter of Improvement, which has undoubtedly been the school of the most distinguished Royal Arch Masons of the present time. The Chapter was closed and adjourned until Tuesday evening, 10th May, at half-past six o'clock.

Panmure Chapter, No. 720.—The Principals for the ensuing year in this Chapter will be installed at the Horns Tavern, Kennington, on Monday, the 9th inst., at 5 p.m. The Principals elect are Ex-Comps. R. N. Field as M.E.Z., Samuel Poynter as H., and Thomas Meggy as J. Ex. Comp. James Stevens P.Z. and Scribe E. of the Chapter will undertake the installation ceremony; a full report of the proceedings connected with which will appear in our next issue.

Montefiore Lodge, No. 1017.—The regular meeting of the above flourishing Lodge was held on the 27th ult., at the Masonic Rooms, Air-street, Regent-street. Bros. S. V. Abrahams W.M., M. Levy S.W., G. T. Mann as J.W., E. P. Albert P.G.P. Sec., L. Jacobs Treas., M. Leverton S.D., L. Lazarus as I.G., N. Vallentine Steward. P.M.'s Bros. L. J. Salomons, Grunebaum. Visitors—G. Short 1766, Pennefather P.M. 1623, Chapman 289, and H. M. Levy P.M. 188. After the Lodge had been opened and the minutes confirmed, a ballot was taken for the admission of Mr. Arthur Solomons, and that gentleman was duly initiated into the Order. Bros. Lindsay Sloper and Levi having satisfactorily answered the usual questions, were passed to the second degree. From the fact that the W.M. has previously filled the chair in this, and is likewise a P.M. of another Lodge, we need scarcely say the work was well performed. The Secretary announced that Bro. Lindsay Sloper and Bro. A. Solomons had each given the sum of 21s to the Benevolent Fund. The W.M. thanked the members for their kind letter of condolence sent him on his recent domestic bereavement. The Lodge was closed, and the brethren sat down to an excellent supper, provided by Bro. Nicols. The W.M. proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts, and alluded to the advent of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, who had been that day re-installed as M.W.G.M. Bro. E. P. Albert P.G.P. responded for the Grand Officers. The W.M. in proposing the health of the Initiate, said it was a great pleasure to introduce him into the Order, as he felt assured he would be with them as a brother, and be held in the same respect Masonically as in private life. The Worshipful Master would ask the brethren to drink the toast heartily. Bro. Solomons in replying said he hoped that the remarks of the W.M. would be eventually carried out. He should endeavour in every way to perfect himself and strive to gain their esteem by following in the footsteps of those brethren who had proposed and seconded him. The W.M. proposed the toast of the Visitors, who severally responded, and deservedly complimented the W.M. for his excellent working. Bro. L. J. Salomons P.M. proposed the health of the W.M. He could not find words to express how efficiently he had performed every duty required of him; he had endeared himself to the brethren in and out of the Lodge, and he hoped he might be spared many years to be among them. The W.M., in reply, thanked Bro. Salomans for his kind expressions, and the brethren for the warm manner in which they had responded. It afforded him great and heartfelt satisfaction to hear it said he had done his duty. The toast of the P.M.'s followed; the brethren had seen how ably the I.P.M. had done his duty; Bro. Albert was a bright and shining light, not only here, but also in Grand Lodge. With the toast the W.M. would couple the name of Bro. Grunebaum, who very ably responded. After one or two more toasts the brethren separated.

Strong Man Lodge of Instruction, No. 45.—Held at the George Hotel, Australian-avenue, Barbican, on Monday, 2nd May, at seven p.m. Present—Bros. Fitch W.M., Caton S.W., Nell J.W., Gush Preceptor, Fox Secretary, Wing Treasurer, Brown S.D., Pelican J.D., Herridge I.G., and several other brethren. Lodge was opened with usual formalities. The W.M. rehearsed the ceremony of initiation, Bro. Collison acting as candidate. Bro. Fox worked the first, second, and third sections, and Bro. Tate the fourth, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Drysdale of Lodge 1766 was elected a member of this Lodge. Lodge was closed in due form, and adjourned till Monday next at the hour of seven o'clock. Lodge will meet in future at seven instead of eight o'clock as heretofore.

Faith Lodge of Instruction, No. 141.—A meeting was held on the 3rd instant, at 2 Westminster-chambers, Victoria-street, S.W. Present—Bros. Glover W.M., Skirving S.W., Bruce J.W., Bassington Honorary Secretary, Bloxom S.D., Cleaver J.D., Edwards I.G.; Past Masters Bros. Perceval, Stephens, Hunt, Dairy, Rhodes; also Bros. Cross, MacMullen, Alberga, Solbé, Swain, Allison, A. Perceval, Collins, and Beasley. Lodge opened in due form and minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Allison candidate. The first and second sections of the lecture were worked by Bro. Stephens. All Masonic business being ended, Lodge was closed till Tuesday next, 9th inst., at seven o'clock, when the ceremonies of Consecration and Installation will be rehearsed by Bro. James Terry P.P.G.J.W. Herts. Brethren are invited to attend.

Candour Lodge, No. 337.—This Lodge held its first meeting in the New Masonic Rooms, High-street, Upper Mill, on Wednesday, the 13th ult. It is intended to hold and celebrate the Festival of St. John on the next regular Lodge night, 13th May. The Lodge meetings will in future be held in the above rooms, and not in the Commercial Inn, as heretofore. The brethren have built a plain, substantial building: Dining room, 12 yards by 8 yards; Lodge room over, 12 yards by 8 yards; ante-room, 15 feet by 15 feet; additional ante-room, 13 feet 6 in. by 9 feet; lavatory, refreshment bar, man's house, kitchen and four bed rooms, spacious entrance hall—all fitted up with gas and water, with requisite cooking arrangements. The furnishing has been done by private subscription among the members, independent of the building fund. It is expected that the outlay, including crockery, glasses, cutlery, tables, chairs, forms, cupboards, building, all complete, will be under £1000. In the front of the building is a stone, upon which is carved a variety of Masonic emblems, the work of Bro. B. B. Bradshaw, who is a Mason and sculptor by profession, so that the operative and speculative are combined in him. He is now the I.P.M., Bro. Samuel Robinson being the W.M.

Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction, No. 860.—On Tuesday last, at Bro. Smyth's, Sisters' Tavern, Pownall-road, Dalston. Bros. Polak W.M., Clark S.W., Christian J.W., Catling S.D., Edwards J.D., Carr I.G., Lorkin Secretary, Brasted acting Preceptor; also Bros. Wardell, Boyce, Forss, Clark, Glass, Dignam, and others. Lodge was opened in due form and the minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed; the ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Glass acting as candidate. Bro. J. Lorkin worked the first, second and third sections of the Lecture, assisted by the brethren. Bros. Cushing of Lodge 1607, and Pearson of Lodge 453, were elected members. Bro. T. Clark was elected W.M. for the ensuing week and appointed his Officers in rotation. All Masonic business being ended, Lodge was closed in due form, and adjourned.

West Middlesex Lodge of Instruction, 1612.—Meeting held at the Feathers' Hotel, Ealing, on Thursday, 28th April. Present—Bros. J. Green W.M., G. Coop S.W., W. Seward J.W., F. Smith I.G., J. Wells Sec., A. Jones S.D., P.M. Andrews J.D., H. E. Tucker Treasurer and Preceptor, C. O. Walter. Lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes were read, confirmed and signed. The W.M. rehearsed the ceremony of raising, Bro. C. O. Walter candidate. Lodge was closed to first degree, and Bro. H. E. Tucker read a letter from Bro. Captain Wilson, at Cape Coast Castle, thanking the brethren of this Lodge for their good wishes. It was unanimously agreed that the letter be recorded on the minutes. Bro. G. Coop was elected W.M. for the next meeting.

CONCERT AT PLYMOUTH.

THE concert at the Plymouth Guildhall on Wednesday evening was a grand success, the attendance having in view the counter attractions, exceeding expectation, and although the prices of admission were exceptionally low, the Devon and Cornwall Educational Fund will undoubtedly receive a welcome addition to its finances. Mr. John Hele, Mus. Bac., who has been indefatigable in his endeavours to make the event a profitable one in the interests of the Fund, must indeed be proud of the result. Although such well-known names as Messrs. Rendle, Jarvis, Morris, Fly, and Wickenden were announced, the centre of interest was naturally Miss Clara Dowle, whose reputation had preceded her. Rarely is such a voice as Miss Dowle's heard in the Hall, and the audience testified their appreciation of her rare abilities in the rendering of "I cannot say Good-bye," by a loud and deafening encore. "It was a Dream" was sung with the same sweetness and force by Miss Dowle, but, upon a demand being made for its repetition, the lady re-appeared, and acknowledged the compliment, retiring, however, without fulfilling the evident desire of the audience—an act which we were glad to notice. "The Friar of Orders Grey," by Mr. Jarvis; "The Brothers," by Messrs. Barter and Rendle; "The Vicar of Bray," by Mr. J. Rendle; and "The Vagabond," by Mr. Morris, went capitally, in one or two instances an encore being asked for. Mr. J. Fly—who, by the way, leaves the town shortly for Torquay—played a cornet solo, "La Neige," manipulating his instrument with his usual ability, and, in reply to a unanimous and hearty demand, made the building echo with the strains of "Scots Awa' where Wallace Bled." Two part songs—"Down in a Flow'ry Vale," and "Friendship"—rendered by the male vocalists, concluded the first part. A treat was in store for the audience in the second part—no less than seven selections from Gilbert and Sullivan's comic opera, "H.M.S. Pinafore." But for Mr. Hele, the audience would not have had the pleasure of listening to this delightful music. Despite the fact that at first the permission of Mr. R. D'Oyly Carte to the introduction of "H.M.S. Pinafore" appeared insurmountable, Mr. Hele persevered, and succeeded in meeting with Mr. D'Oyly Carte's sanction to the selections being rendered. The audience was more than pleased with the bright and sparkling "Pinafore" music, and when it is stated that Mr. Hele only had the choir together three times, the result is the more to be wondered at. The chorus numbered thirty—ladies and gentlemen. Mr. Barter showed to great advantage, whilst Mr. Rendle, as the "Captain of the Pinafore," who "never used a big, big d——," was exceedingly good. Miss Dowle pathetically rendered "Sorry her Lot," and met with the sympathetic applause of her listeners. A similar concert will probably take place in the course of a few days in aid of the same Fund.—Western Daily Mercury, 5th May.

The Band of the Sunday League will commence playing in the Regent's Park on the 15th of May. Bro Hiram Henton has been re-appointed Conductor.

Obituary.

THE LATE BRO. JOHN COUTTS, P.G.P.

IT is with very great regret that we announce the death, at Bournemouth, on Tuesday, the 3rd instant, of Bro. John Coutts, a Past Grand Pursuivant of England, at the comparatively early age of fifty-three. Our deceased brother had highly distinguished himself as a Craftsman, and was beloved and respected for the many admirable qualities he possessed by all who had the privilege of being acquainted with him. Bro. Coutts first saw the Light of Masonry in a Scotch Lodge, and joined our Egyptian Lodge, No. 27, on the 7th of May 1861. Thus, had he survived till to-day, he would have lived to complete a connection with English Craft Masonry of exactly twenty years. In due course our worthy brother rose to fill the chair of his Lodge, and so admirably did he discharge his duties as Worshipful Master, that he was elected for a second time, the full period of his Mastership extending over the years 1867 and 1868. He was also a Founder and first Worshipful Master of the following Lodges, namely:—the Harrow Lodge, No. 1310, Harrow, in 1870; Ebury Lodge, No. 1348, in 1871; the Chislehurst Lodge, No. 1531, Chislehurst, in 1875; the Covent Garden Lodge, No. 1614, in 1876. His merits indeed were so generally appreciated, that in 1870 he was appointed Grand Pursuivant, and he had also filled the office of Prov. Grand Deacon Middlesex. His career in Royal Arch Masonry may be said to have been equally conspicuous. He was exalted in the Domatic Chapter, No. 177, in 1863, and was a P.Z. thereof. He joined the Royal Union Chapter, No. 382, Uxbridge, in April 1864. In 1871 he became a Founder of the Royal Middlesex Chapter, No. 1194, and in 1875 he joined the Ebury Chapter, No. 1368, as a Founder and first M.E.Z. He was likewise a member of the Premier Conclave of the Order of the Red Cross of Rome and Constantine. But this is far from representing the sum of his Masonic achievements. He was a Life Governor and Annual Subscriber to each of our Masonic Institutions. He had twice filled the office of Steward to the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, and both our Boys' and Girls' Schools had been served by him in a similar capacity. Had his life been prolonged, there would seem to be little, if any, reason to doubt that our Institutions would have been still further and more liberally, though not more willingly, supported. A career such as we have described would do honour to any member of the Craft, and it must be a great consolation to the relatives and friends of our deceased brother to know that few members of the Craft in England were more deservedly esteemed. It remains for us to offer our respectful sympathy to his family and friends in their bereavement, and to state that the funeral will take place on Monday next, at the City of London Tower Hamlets Cemetery, Bow.

MR. ERNEST SEYD.

It is our painful duty to record this week the unexpected death, at the early age of fifty-one years, of Mr. Ernest Seyd, of the firm of Seyd and Co., of Lombard-street, the author of several important works on questions connected with the Currency. Mr. Seyd had gone over to Paris to attend the Monetary Congress there assembled, when he was overtaken by an attack of congestion of the brain, to which he succumbed, after a brief period of suffering. Mr. Seyd had given evidence before Committees of the House of Commons on several of the subjects on which he was acknowledged to be an authority, and that evidence had been not unfruitful of good on several of the monetary questions of the day. Among the numerous books and pamphlets, of which he was the author, must be mentioned the following, namely: "California and its Resources," Trübner and Co., London, 1858; "On the Establishment of an Anglo-Californian Bank and a Refinery of the Precious Metals in San Francisco"—for private issue—London, 1868; "Bullion and Foreign Exchanges Theoretically and Practically Considered," Effingham Wilson, Royal Exchange, London, 1868; "The Question of Seignorage and Charge for Coining," Effingham Wilson, 1868; "The Depreciation of Labour and Property which would follow the Demonetisation of Silver," London, W. W. Morgan, 1869; "Letters to the Times"—see the "Gold Coinage Controversy," republished by the Bank of England, 1869; "Universal Coinage and Variations in Foreign Exchanges"—read before the Statistical Society; "Enquête sur la Question Monetaire," published by the French Government; "On the Currency Laws, and their effects on Pauperism," read before the Statistical Society, 1871; "Die Münz-Währungs und Bankfragen in Deutschland," Bädeker, Elberfeld (Prussia), 1871; "Suggestions in reference to the Metallic Currency of the Unites States of America," London, Trübner & Co., 1871. The premature death of Mr. Seyd is to be greatly regretted, as it leaves a gap in the ranks of those writers who treat of these important questions, which it will be very difficult to fill up. We experience the greater sense of satisfaction in offering this slight but sincere and respectful tribute of sympathy with the family of the deceased, because for many years we had a personal acquaintance with him, and not only that, we took a considerable part in the printing and publication of several of his works. We always found him as prompt and particular in his business engagements as he was genial and kind in his private and personal relations.

At the request of several of our friends we have republished, in pamphlet form, our Analysis of the Stewards' Lists at the recent Festival of the Benevolent Institution. We have also added the Tabular Statement that appeared in the columns of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE, shewing the amounts contributed by the several Provinces during the years 1875-1881, both inclusive. Stewards who may desire to circulate this pamphlet can obtain copies (2s the dozen, or 12s per 100) from our publisher.

Mark Masonry.—One of the most interesting ceremonies ever presented to the brethren on the Rock took place at the Masonic Hall, Horse Barrack-lane, on Tuesday, the 26th ultimo, when the Mediterranean Mark Lodge, No. 278, was consecrated, in the presence of a large number of brethren, by Worshipful Brother Thomas J. Pulley P.M. P.G.S. England, P.P.G.S.O. Hampshire and Isle of Wight, Provincial Grand Secretary Berks and Oxon, &c. The following brethren attended and assisted in the ceremonies:—Charles Johnson Worshipful Master Designate, C. W. Moore-Keys S.W. Designate, W. F. Cottrell J.W. Designate, T. J. Pulley P.M. 54, &c., J. Cunningham P.M. 43, E. Barker P.M. 43, W. MacLean P.M. 3½ (S.C.), J. J. R. Morgan P.M. 43, A. Ross P.M. 325 (I.C.), E. D. Bacon W.M. 43, Broster White S.W. 43, W. Glassford P.S.W. 43, J. Button J.W. 43, J. King P.J.W. 43, J. C. Phillips M.O. 43, J. McInerney S.O. 43, G. Lane J.O. 43, C. Mortimer J.O. Broadley Lodge, W. H. Allen Secretary 43, W. Tait R.M. 43, P. Lyons S.D. 43, F. Crompton I.G. 43, D. S. Miller I.G. 607 (S.C.); and Bros. Roberts, Banks, Russell, Blake, Howard, Serfarty, Azopadi, all of 43; Crozier 54, Dumaresq 74, Henderson, McLaren 160, Glass Broadley Lodge, T. Evans 325 (I.C.), and others. The brethren commenced to assemble in the ante-room at 6 o'clock, and at 6.30 a procession was formed, under the direction of W. Bro. Bacon W.M. Gibraltar Lodge, No. 43,—who had kindly acceded to the request of the Consecrating Officer to act as Director of Ceremonies,—and entered the Lodge room, which had been elaborately and carefully prepared for the occasion. The presiding Officer having assumed the chair, supported on the dais by the Past Masters present, he requested the Officers of the Gibraltar Lodge, No. 43, to assist him in the working of the ceremonies, and they at once took their places in the various chairs. The Secretary pro tem, Bro. W. Cottrell, then read the patent of the Most Worshipful Grand Mark Master, authorising and requesting Bro. Pulley to advance candidates, consecrate the Lodge, and instal the Worshipful Master Designate, Bro. Charles Johnson, after which a Lodge was opened in due form and order, the opening Anthem being beautifully rendered by Bro. C. W. Moore-Keys Acting Organist and a well trained choir of brethren, under the direction of Bro. W. H. Cottrell. A ballot was then taken for the following brethren:—The Rev. W. H. Bullock, J. H. Bryant, G. D. Twigg, J. S. Langdon, H. J. Campbell, H. C. Schott, W. F. Roberts, R. S. Ireland, L. Cohen, and H. W. Carden, which proved unanimous in their favour. Bros. Bullock, Bryant, Langdon, and Schott, being in attendance, were then advanced to the honourable degree of M.M.M. by the presiding Officer, the interesting ceremony being performed in the most perfect and impressive manner, every Officer performing his allotted part in the proceedings with studied care and attention, the orchestral and vocal portion adding great effect, the various anthems being beautifully rendered by Bro. Bacon W.M. 43. The Lodge was then called off, in order to prepare the room for the ceremony of consecration, and the brethren having re-assembled, the solemn and impressive ceremony was conducted by the Consecrating Officer in a manner which will not readily be forgotten by those who were present, the whole of the proceedings being witnessed with rapt attention from beginning to end. The elements of consecration were borne by four Past Masters, viz., Bros. Cunningham, Morgan, Barker, and McLean, and the Lodge was incensed to the honour and glory of the G.O.O.T.U. by the Acting Chaplain, Bro. the Rev. W. H. Bullock, who also offered the Consecration Prayer in a very impressive manner. The four corners of the Lodge having been duly honoured by the Consecrating Officer, he then summoned the Founders and new members of the Lodge to appear in the North and South, and proceeded to dedicate and constitute the Lodge. The brethren having resumed their places, Brother Pulley again ascended the throne, and the Worshipful Master Designate, Bro. Charles Johnson, was presented by Wor. Brother Bacon W. Master 43, for the benefit of installation, and after being suitably addressed by the Presiding Officer, and satisfactorily answering the necessary questions, the brethren below the degree of Installed Master in the Mark degree were requested to withdraw, and a board of Installed Masters was opened, and Brother Johnson was duly installed in the chair of A. in accordance with ancient custom. The brethren were then re-admitted, and, having rendered the customary homage to the newly-installed W.M., Bro. Johnson was duly proclaimed and saluted. The Installing Master then presented the W.M. with the working tools, and in entrusting him with the Warrant of the Lodge expressed his high sense of the honour which had been conferred upon him by the M.W.G.M.M. in being selected by him to convey the all-important document direct to the W.M.'s charge, and also expressed the earnest hope that it would be handed down by the W.M. to his successor, and thenceforward, for many generations, pure and unsullied as he then received it. The W.M. having accepted the trust reposed in him, then appointed and invested his Officers, as follow:—Bros. C. Johnson W.M., T. J. Haynes I.P.M., C. W. Moore-Keys S.W., W. F. Cottrell J.W., W. Howard M.O., B. R. Croizer S.O., A. H. Dumaresq J.O., J. H. Bryant S.D., W. F. Roberts Secretary, Rev. W. H. Bullock Chaplain, J. S. Langdon R. of Marks, J. A. Speed Treasurer, G. D. Twigg I.G., J. Peterken O G. The Installing Master then delivered the Addresses to the W.M., Wardens, Overseers, and brethren, in well chosen language, and resumed his seat at the left of the W.M.; amidst tokens of approbation from all the brethren present. The W.M. then rose and proposed that a vote of thanks be accorded to Bro. Pulley for his kindness in coming out from England to consecrate the Lodge, and for the careful and impressive manner in which he had conducted the whole of the interesting proceedings. This being carried by acclamation, it was ordered by the W.M. to be entered on the minutes. Bro. Pulley was then elected an honorary member of the Lodge, and expressed his thanks for the honour which had been conferred upon him, and then proceeded to propose a cordial vote of thanks to the W.M. and Officers of the Gibraltar Lodge, No. 43, for the very kind and efficient manner in which they had assisted in the ceremonies, and especially tendered his thanks to the W.M. Bro. Bacon for the invaluable assistance which he had rendered as Acting G.D. of C. This also being carried by acclamation was ordered to be entered on the minutes. Bro. Bacon then responded, and expressed the great pleasure it had given him and all the Officers of his Lodge to assist upon the auspicious occasion; they would at all times gladly do anything in their power to forward the interests of the new Lodge. "Hearty good wishes" having been tendered, the Lodge was closed in ancient form and with solemn prayer, and the brethren adjourned to the banqueting-room, where a most récherché banquet awaited them, due justice being accorded to the various good things on the table after the lengthened ceremonies in the Lodge. The usual Mark Masons' toasts received due attention, and the proceedings were enlivened by some excellent songs from Bros. Cottrell, Moore-Keys, Bryant, Bacon, Pulley, Roberts and others. Altogether the proceedings were a marked success, and too much praise cannot be given to the Acting-Secretary Bro. H. Cottrell for the care and attention given by him to all the arrangements, which were simply perfect, not a single hitch occurring from beginning to end. It is worthy of note that the number of the Lodge is, by a singular coincidence, the same as that of the Craft Lodge and Chapter, to which it is attached, viz., 278.

A MOST successful ball, given by the combined Masonic Lodges of Gibraltar, took place on the 27th April, at the Theatre Royal. Dancing was announced to commence at nine o'clock, but long before that hour the boxes were filled by a large number of the fair sex, while the brethren in their quaint and handsome Masonic clothing were assembling in the ball room for the procession, and reception of the District Grand Master. A Freemasons' ball is always a most noticeable object, from the variety of the different costumes belonging to the several Orders, and the jewels and ornaments, all of which possess a mystical meaning not known to the uninitiated, and last night it was even more so than usual from the very great taste displayed in the decorations of the ball room and staircases and their great variety. The general groundwork of the colours employed was red and white, in broad stripes, producing a very rich effect, and the general idea of the ornamentation of the ball room was a series of Moorish arches in the same colours around the proscenium and tiers of boxes, while mirrors, flowers, pictures, mottoes, arms, &c., all lent their aid in producing a most charming effect, which was generally and deservedly admired. The roof of the theatre was tented in full rows of red and white, and the whole effect was excellent, and reflects great credit on those charged with the important duty of preparing a fitting and tasteful ball room for the many guests who had received invitations. The actual work of the decorations was taken in hand by Bro. Peso, and very well indeed it was carried out. At a quarter past nine the District Grand Matter Bro. Cornwell, accompanied by the Deputy District Grand Master Bro. Major Gilbard, arrived, and was conducted in due form to the ball room, where the brethren were drawn up in two lines and passing between these, to the music of the Grand Masonic March, the D.G.M. was received at the lower end by Bro. Ross P.M., President of the Ball Committee, who, in a short and very appropriate speech, heartily welcomed the District Grand Master to the combined ball in the name of the givers of the entertainment; and also the distinguished brethren who accompanied him (Bros. Major Gilbard D.D.G.M., Rev. R. Patterson Past D.G.M. for Manitoba, and T. J. Pulley P.M. I.G. Mark Steward from England). The District Grand Master briefly tendered his thanks, and after the National Anthem and "God Bless the Prince of Wales" had been played by the band, declared the ball opened, when dancing immediately commenced and was continued with the greatest spirit till 4·30 in the morning. The Calpe band supplied the music. Freemasons' balls are always some of the most popular amusements given in Gibraltar, and the one of last night will bear the most favourable comparison with any which has gone before. All the arrangements were excellent, nothing was omitted by the Managing Committee which could either give éclat to the entertainment or add to the comfort and amusement of the guests, and it must be a great source of satisfaction to them, and indeed to all the subscribers (of whom we hear there were nearly 150), that their efforts were so successful and, of course, so thoroughly appreciated. The total number present was 450. The Committee of Management was composed as under:—Bros. Alexander Ross P.M. President; White P.M. 153, G. Lane 153, E. J. Barker P.M. 153, C. Johnson P.M. 278, Moore-Keys J.W. 278, J. Wink W.M. 576, P. Adair Secretary 576, E. Silva W.M. 576 and Sec. 115, A. Ferrary 576, F. Franceri P.M. D.G. Sec., N. Bassadone 325, Fromow 325, Stewards.—Gibraltar Chronicle, 28th April 1881.

INSTALLATION MEETINGS, &c.

LODGE OF HARMONY, No. 133.

THE installation meeting was held on Monday, 2nd instant, at the Minor Hall of the Faversham Institute, Faversham, Kent. Among those present were Bros. W. H. Drake W.M., F. W. Underdown S.W., Rev. F. C. Jagg J.D., Stapleton Payn J.W., J. W. Penton P.M. Secretary; P.M.'s F. F. Girand, Henry Bathurst, F. A. Gange, F. A. Whiting, E. Hogben, George French, Richard Griggs; Visitors—Bros. C. Drawbridge W.M. 20, S. Varren W.M. 184, M. J. Sullivan W.M. 158, R. J. E. Brown I.G. 158, R. R. Hall P.M. 709, H. J. Piper W.M. 503, J. Kenwick W.M. 1209 P.P.G.S.B. Kent, George Page P.M. P.P.G.J.D. 1209, F. C. Bugler 709, T. Davy, W. A. Rudd I.P.M. 186, H. W. Poole W.M. 709 P.P.G. Sup. Works Kent, W. W. Morgan Secretary 211, &c., &c. Beyond the installation of the W.M., Bros. F. W. Underdown, there was no business to take up the time of the members, who assembled at three o'clock, when Lodge was opened by Bro. W. H. Drake, who conducted the ceremony of the day. Bro. P.M. Griggs efficiently acted as Director of Ceremonies. After the W.M. had been saluted in the three degrees, he invested the following as his Officers for the year:—Bros. Stapleton Payn S.W., Rev. F. C. Jagg J.W., F. A. Gange P.M. Treasurer, J. W. Penton P.M. Secretary, E. J. Acworth S.D., Alfred Greey J.D., G. H. J. Rogers I.G., R. Griggs P.M. D.C., John E. Cook Tyler. The addresses to Master, Wardens, and Brethren were delivered by Past Master Griggs, and then on motion made by P.M. Bro. Gange, seconded by P.M. Bro. Longhurst, the thanks of the members were voted to the I.P.M. for services rendered during the year, the same to be recorded on the minutes. A like compliment was paid Bro. Griggs, for the assistance he had given in the work of the day, and after hearty good wishes had been tendered by the visiting brethren, Lodge was closed. An adjournment then took place to the Ship Hotel, where a capital banquet was served by Bro. Hogben. On removal of the cloth, the W.M. proposed the health of Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen, with which toast he would couple the sentiment, "Prosperity to the Craft." He was reminded, he said, by his own age, of the time Her Majesty had reigned over the people of this country. It certainly had not been an uneventful period. Railways and steam had brought about wondrous changes, and telegraphic communication had become an absolute necessity. Added to this, the telephone was becoming an essential requisite of every day life. Surely, then, it could not be denied this was an age of progress, and it might be said that the progress applied especially to Freemasonry. Monarchs in every age had done their best to advance it. And now for an application of his remarks to the toast. Her Majesty may fairly be considered a promoter of Freemasonry, inasmuch as she is the mother of our Most Worshipful Grand Master, while two other of her sons take a lively interest in the doings of the Craft. The toast was most heartily received, and the National Anthem was sung. In giving the second toast—the Most Worshipful Grand Master of England, H.R.H. the Prince of Wales—Bro. Underdown said the Grand Master performed the duties in a manner eminently satisfactory, and considering the many public duties he has to perform. It must always be remembered that of late years Her Majesty had preferred retirement, and as a consequence heavy responsibilities devolved upon the Heir Apparent. Therefore, Freemasons could but be gratified at the sustained interest His Royal Highness took in the doings of the Craft. The next toast—the Right Worshipful Pro Grand Master, the Earl of Carnarvon—was entrusted to Rev. Bro. Syrce, who in humorous terms drew attention to the many qualities of the noble Earl. Bro. P.M. Gange next had the gavel handed to him, and he gave the health of the Right Worshipful Deputy Grand Master, the Earl of Lathom, and the rest of the Grand Officers of the Grand Lodge of England, Past and Present. As regards the working of the Grand Lodge of England, we in the Provinces are content to know that it gives universal satisfaction to Masons generally. The Deputy Grand Master, the Earl of Lathom, does his duty in a most earnest and thoroughly consistent way, and it cannot therefore be wondered at that he is one of the most popular men in the country. Bro. Girand proposed the health of the Prov. G.M. of Kent, Lord Holmesdale. He had presided over them for several years, and had always taken a deep interest in the Lodges of his Province. He had made personal visits, and at all times exerted himself for the advancement of the Craft. The next toast—the Very Worshipful Deputy Prov. Grand Master, Bro. Eastes, and the rest of the Provincial Grand Officers, Past and Present—was given by the W.M. Bro. Underdown regretted the absence of Bro. Eastes; an absence that was occasioned by a domestic affliction, which one and all must regret. In calling upon those present to honour the toast, the W.M. spoke of the zeal displayed by the Deputy P.G. Master in all that pertained to Freemasonry in the Province of Kent. Bro. Thorp, Grand Treasurer, observed that after the kind remarks of the previous speaker, he rose with regret at the absence of the Dep. Prov. Grand Master, which, however, had been satisfactorily accounted for. For himself, as Treasurer, he had now got used to the duties, and he trusted it might be many years ere his association with the Province of Kent, an association which had descended to him from his father, was brought to a termination. He feared he had omitted to refer to many matters that might have given pleasure to those assembled, but he was not unmindful of many happy incidents in connection with the Lodge of Harmony, where it was gratifying to know the P.M.'s took such interest in their Lodge as to make a point of installing their successors. There had been a time when it was considered necessary to go to London for a brother to conduct the ceremony of installation. However, the way Bro. Drake had carried out the proceedings of the day evidenced this course of procedure was no longer requisite. The next toast, the health of the W.M., was entrusted to P.M. Bro. Penton, who, as Secretary of the Lodge, had worked under several Masters. Bro. Underdown brought with him many qualifications, and all who had listened to the remarks he gave utterance to when investing his Officers that day might rest assured he was thoroughly impressed with the knowledge and requirements necessary to the ruler of a Lodge. He (Bro. Penton) had great pleasure in submitting the toast. The W.M., in reply, thanked the members for the heartiness they had accorded to the sentiments expressed by Bro. Past Master Penton; he was compelled by the exigencies of the train service, on which many of their Visitors were dependent, to curtail his remarks. Before sitting down, he would give the toast of the Visitors, to whom, on behalf of the Lodge, he tendered a cordial welcome. With the toast he would associate the name of Bro. Poole P.M. The remaining toasts comprised the Past Masters, given by Bro. Drake, and responded to by Bro. Bathurst; the Installing Master, given by Bro. Gange; the Wardens; the Junior Officers, the latter ably responded to by Bro. E. J. Acworth. With the toast of the Press was associated the name of Bro. W. W. Morgan, who gave some statistics of the amounts contributed by the several Provinces to our Masonic Institutions, and who drew attention to the fact that in respect of contributions during the last seven years to the Benevolent Institution, Kent stood No. 3 on the List, as regards the amount taken up by its several Stewards. The proceedings throughout were of a most agreeable character, and the W.M. and brethren of the Harmony Lodge may be congratulated on the success of this their annual gathering. During the evening some capital songs and recitations were given.

SELWYN LODGE, No. 1901.

AN Emergency meeting of this newly-consecrated Lodge was held on Thursday, 5th instant, at the East Dulwich Hotel, East Dulwich, for the purpose of formally accepting the joining members and initiates who were proposed at the first meeting, and for the transaction of other business. The Lodge was opened by the W.M., Bro. W. H. Hook, who was supported by Bros. Linscott S.W., Dr. Nicod J.W., Barnett S.D., Powles J.D., Marcus I.G., Bellis as Sec., and Bro. Brooke P.M. 1839, as P.M., &c. The summons convening the meeting having being read, the Bye-laws were brought forward and agreed to, after which the ballot was taken for Bros. Bellis 1297, Forge 619, Mussered 188, Ball 431, Winter 177, Batchelor 147, Le Quesne 877, 958, P.P.G.D.C. Jersey, Sayer 1475, Gauntlett 1853, Davies 177, Gurney 1475, Campbell 1329, and Bullimore 840, as joining members, and resulted in their favour in each case. The names of five gentlemen proposed for initiation were then submitted, viz., Messrs. R. E Anderson, A. F. Grainger, W. Bosher, G. T. Acock, and C. W. Acock, and here also the ballot was unanimous in favour of their reception. They were each in turn initiated, the W.M. performing the ceremony in a most satisfactory manner, and making, we think, a lasting impression on the newly-admitted brethren. Bro. Brooke was proposed as an honorary member of the Lodge and accepted; after which the W.M. appointed Bro. Bellis as Secretary, Bros. Mussered and Bullimore as Stewards, and Bro. Grainger as Organist. The choice of the brethren in the matter of Treasurer fell on Bro. Forge, who after being invested, expressed the pleasure he felt in being thus honoured by the members of the Lodge. The names of some candidates were handed in, and then Lodge was closed, the brethren afterwards enjoying refreshment, under the presidency of the W.M. The customary toasts followed. The W.M., in giving the health of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, said he had had the pleasure of seeing the Grand Master in Grand Lodge, and the way in which he there performed the duties of his office convinced him that he was a good Mason and a man of whom they could but be proud. Bro. Smith proposed the toast of the Worshipful Master. He considered himself as being in somewhat of an anomalous position, not really being a member of the Lodge, he had to propose the health of the Master. He had felt a great pleasure, and taken a great interest in the formation of the Selwyn Lodge, and therefore felt, in a measure, capable of proposing the toast. As they had been told by brethren high in position in the Craft, they ought to be proud of having such a Mason as Bro. Hook at the head of the Lodge. It required a man of ability and a man of some tact to carry out successfully the work of forming a Lodge in the metropolis at the present time. Bro. Hook was admirably suited for the work. The way in which the proceedings had so far progressed was ample evidence, if any was required, of this. He was confident that at the termination of his year of office Bro. Hook would leave the Lodge in a far better position than some were that had been many years in existence. Bro. Hook tendered his thanks. He hoped he should deserve all the good things that had been said of him. He had felt it a great pleasure and a great honour to be associated in the foundation of the Selwyn Lodge. As regarded the amount of work in connection with it, he looked upon all he had done as amply repaid when he saw what a successful start theirs had been. He had pleasure in working for the Lodge, particularly as he was sure that all who were associated with it had determined to make it a success. That evening had indeed been a proud one for them all—to make five new members, and accept thirteen joining members, was indeed a satisfactory record for their first meeting, and now that the Lodge had made so good a start he could only hope that it would continue to prosper. He then proposed the health of the Initiates. They had that night enlisted into their crew five gentlemen—who if not exactly able bodied seamen, were most certainly able minded Masons. He was quite sure they were men of the right sort, and members of whom any Lodge might be proud. The class of men who were wanted as initiates for Freemasonry were men of integrity and uprightness, and men of true heart; whenever they were about to admit new members they should bear those facts in mind, and act accordingly. He hoped the lesson the initiates had heard that night had been of benefit to them, and trusted their reception into Freemasonry had been such as to make a lasting impression on their minds. Each of the new members responded. Bro. Anderson expressed his pleasure at joining. The way in which he had that night been received had made a lasting impression on his mind, one that was not likely to fade until the day of his death. He had thoroughly enjoyed the proceedings, and hoped he would ever be a credit to the Lodge. Bro. Grainger also expressed his pleasure. He was doubly honoured at receiving from the hands of the Master his appointment as Organist of the Lodge. He hoped to do honour to the position. Bro. Bosher considered it truly a red letter day of his life. He heartily thanked the brethren for receiving him. He should always do all that lay in his power for Freemasonry, and hoped to be a good member among them for many years to come. He was truly gratified at having selected the Selwyn Lodge in which to join the Craft. Bro. G. T. Acock hoped he might long remain a member of the Lodge and be a credit to the Craft, which he had long wished to join. Bro. C. W. Acock followed in similar terms. He had little idea that the initiation ceremony was anything so solemn as that he had gone through that night. He should at all times do anything he could to support the Lodge. The W.M. now proposed the health of the Visitors. This was a toast he hoped would always be proposed in the Selwyn Lodge in the heartiest way. He trusted the members would always extend the right hand of fellowship, and that on all future occasions they would offer a hearty welcome to visitors. Each of the guests responded, after which a compliment was paid to the Officers—the health of the Treasurer and Secretary being united with the toast. Bros. S.W., Treasurer, and Secretary, replied, and the proceedings terminated.

We have been asked to publish the Oration given by Bro. the Rev. Ambrose W. Hall at the Consecration of this Lodge, and have much pleasure in complying with the request. Bro. Hall said:—

On laying the foundation stone of any building, or at the formation of any new society, it was customary to ask some one present to say a few words bearing upon the uses to which if a building it was to be applied, or if a new society, on its nature or principles, and the qualification generally of its members. He was asked that day to address a new Lodge upon the nature and principles of Freemasonry, and he thought it a time most suitable because as with the young the mind was more impressible and more easily received knowledge, and the inculcation of wisdom or the opposite. It was in youth that the mental soil was more qualified to receive the seed, and was, so to speak, more pure. So with a new Lodge; and it was well to take advantage of its early life to impress upon its officers, founders, and members the great responsibility that they were about to take upon themselves, as well as the onerous duties that they would be called upon to fulfil. He would draw their attention to what King David said to his son Solomon shortly before his death, because, he thought, it would be applicable to a new Lodge, and would help the brethren on with their task, and render that task more easy, as well as render the Lodge as a body, and each member as a component part of that body, more bright and shining lights in the expanse of their great Order. King David said: "Solomon, my son, know thou the God of thy fathers, and serve Him with a perfect heart and with a willing mind, for the Lord shearcth all hearts, and understandeth every imagination of the thought. If thou seek Him He will be found of thee, but if thou forsake Him He will cast thee off for ever." So it was well to say to a new Lodge, or a new society, especially at the present day, in times of infidelity, when many of the brethren in a sister land had fallen from their first estate, and disregarded and cast away the presence of the Great Architect of the Universe from their rites and ceremonies, "In all you do, in all your working, know the God of your fathers; and in all this serve him with a perfect heart and with a willing mind;" because, as they were told in the third degree of Freemasonry, "the Lord searcheth all hearts and understandeth every imagination of the thoughts;" in other words—all their words and all their actions were known and recorded by the Most High, to whom they must one day give account of their conduct in life. And in their beautiful rites and ceremonies, and in the teachings that they symbolised, they should serve Him with a perfect heart, and be assured that if in those rites and ceremonies they thought of Him, acknowledged Him, felt His presence, He would be with them. But if they did not feel that His eye was upon them, and that He was never with them, if, so to speak, they forsook Him, He would forsake them and their house—their new Lodge would be left desolate. A word or two upon the nature and principles of Freemasonry. It was as they well knew, not restricted to any particular sect or party; it was wide as the universe and lasting as eternity; its branches were spread over the four quarters of the world—a community of human sympathies and human regard. Then it embraced myriads of men of every clime and of every country. They had the experience of 3000 years to tell them that charity and goodwill were the distinguishing characteristics of their noble Order. And to the brethren assembled, a sacred band, these virtues and teachings and mysteries were to be confided that day; and if they would use them as they ought, if they would preserve them in their entirety, there must be a perfect feeling of unanimity among them as members. When he saw the members, the founders, the Officers of this Lodge, and knew how eminent they were in Masonry, he felt sure that there was a happy future before the Selwyn Lodge, and that it would take a foremost place in the annals of Freemasonry, and as time went on there would be many choosing to range themselves under their banner, either as joining members or as candidates for initiation. Let them take advice of one who had some large experience in that matter—be not too hurried in making a member, but seek him out. If a joining member seek him out at his residence, search into his moral and social position; if a candidate for initiation seek him out likewise, ask his friends and neighbours who knew him well, and see whether from his general qualities as a man he was likely to become a good Mason, an ornament to the Lodge, with whom they could work in that love and harmony which always should characterise members of the Order. As regarded the principles of the Order, he would urge the brethren, even at this very early day, to cultivate that brotherly love which thought no evil, which rejoiced with those that rejoice, and wept with those who wept. Likewise let them put forward that relief which helped them to relieve a brother's wants and succour his infirmities—in other words, that charity which would bring them forward in every good deed towards their fellow-men. And whilst upon charity he would call their attention as a new Lodge to this subject, to do all they could; he trusted they would, both by their money and their time, help in promoting the noble Charities of the Order, which well deserved all they could receive at their hands. He had been asked not to detain them very long; so, although he could dwell much upon these principles, yet there was one he had not mentioned, but which he would mention, and that was truth. Let them cultivate Masonic truth, for it was the object of research of every good and worthy Mason. Cultivate it as the opposite of falsehood, as the feeling of the heart coming from the mouth—that good walk through life which all of them should aim at—purity, faithfulness, and honesty. He would now simply thank them for the attention they had paid to the few words he had been permitted to address to them. Be assured that the Selwyn Lodge, its founders, officers, and members, had his best wishes that they might work together many years in happiness and harmony, and if that day one word of his should have fallen upon good ground, and like the bread cast upon the waters, after many days return with good effect to any brother there; if aught that he had said might confirm one doubting brother in the conviction that Masonry was a living, not a dead power, his visit to them that day had not been in vain, and to the Great Architect of the Universe be all the honour and all the glory. If in that short address he had said too much he asked their leniency, because he was assured that when he went home and meditated upon the meeting they had had he should be cheered by the feeling that he took with him the goodwill of every one of them. And now let him commend them to their work. Work as good Masons, trust in the Great Architect of the Universe, and pray to Him that his light might be shed upon them, and pour into their hearts all that was good and true. Work, and trust, and pray, for if they would bear the conqueror's crown to the Grand Lodge above they must cherish Masonic truth, cherish it for its own sake, and then when death's calm sleep was o'er, in heaven they would wake.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS combine both curative and sanative powers in a high degree—by the former term is understood their ability to preserve health, by the latter, their capability to restore health. With these remedies at hand, no invalid need be at fault to guide himself or herself safely through the many trials to which every one is subjected during our long and oftimes inclement winters. Coughs, colds, ulcerated throats, whooping cough, can be successfully treated by well rubbing this Ointment upon the chest, and by taking the Pills. During damp, foggy weather, asthmatical sufferers will experience the utmost possible relief from the unction of the Ointment, and all tender chested persons will save endless misery by adopting this treatment

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

Joppa Lodge, No. 188.—The last meeting prior to the customary vacation was held on Monday, the 2nd instant, at the Albion, Aldersgate-street, under the able presidency of the W.M., Bro. R. Baker, supported by Bros. L. M. Myers S.W., Benjamin J.W., E. P. Albert P.G.P. Secretary, J. S. Lyon Treasurer, A. J. Dodson P.M. D.C., G. Bean Assist. D.C., L. Wall Steward, P. E. Van Noorden Organist; Past Masters L. Alexander, S. L. Hickman, Lazarus, H. Hymans, H. M. Levy, M. Alexander. Visitors—Bros. Brady 1158, Argent Jutsum 382, H. W. Homan 59, A. Henochsberg P.M. 1502, L. A. Lazarus 1017, A. Avenal 1017, S. Marks late 188, A. Bignold 1624, C. P. Bellerby 1612, Lewis 493, S. M. Lazarus P.P.G.W. Wilts. After the Lodge had been formally opened, and the minutes of last meeting read and confirmed, Messrs. Coombes and G. M. Lion were duly initiated into the Order. The latter gentleman, by the courtesy of the Worshipful Master, was initiated by Bro. Hymans I.P.M. Bro. Avenal, of Lodge 1017, was passed to the second degree, and Bros. H. Lion, S. Lion, Vicary, and McKinlay were raised to the third degree. The entire proceedings reflected great credit on the Worshipful Master, whose rendering of the ceremonies was most perfect. The traditional history was given. Bro. H. M. Levy proposed, and Bro. L. M. Myers seconded—That a letter of condolence be sent to Bro. Israel Abrahams P.M., P.G.S., on his recent domestic affliction. This was carried unanimously. A letter was read from Bro. Dodson, stating that a Lodge of Instruction would meet every Thursday evening at seven o'clock, under the sanction of the parent Lodge, to be called the Joppa Lodge of Instruction, to be held at the Champion Hotel, Aldersgate-street, and stating that the thanks of the Founders were due to the Worshipful Master for his hearty co-operation. This letter was ordered to be entered on the minutes. The Lodge was then closed until October. The brethren adjourned to slight refreshment, this being one of the so-called bread and cheese nights. The Worshipful Master, in his usual genial manner, proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts. Past Master E. P. Albert Prov. Grand Pursuivant responding for the Grand Officers. Bro. L. Alexander P.M. returned thanks for the toast of the Benevolent Fund, and announced that the sum in hand was nearly £1000. The newly initiated brethren gave 21s each to this fund. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the Initiates, who came to them well and worthily recommended; he was sure they would prove a credit to the Order. Bros. Lion and Coombs severally returned thanks. Bro. Hymans I.P.M., in proposing the health of the W.M., could with pleasure say it was the toast of the evening; he had seen many Masters occupy the chair; the W.M. might be equalled, but could not be excelled. His capacity for presiding, like his capacity for working, was perfect, and he hoped the members would give the toast a hearty reception. The W.M. in reply said he could hardly find words to return thanks for their kind reception of the toast. His working had been referred to; if it had met with their approbation it was sufficient gratification to him, and would be an incentive to him to work still more diligently in their cause. The brethren were now about to separate until October, he then hoped to see them one and all, and to meet them in health and prosperity. The toast of the Visitors was next given, and Bro. S. M. Lazarus responded. This was his 82nd birthday, he felt a great pleasure as an old Mason to hear such good accounts of the working of the W.M. He had felt great interest in reading, in the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE, a very faithful history of the proceedings of this old and influential Lodge. A history which must prove interesting, not only to the old, but also to the young members. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the Past Masters, and Bro. H. Hymans I.P.M. responded. The toasts of the Treasurer, Secretary, Wardens, and Junior Officers were given in due couse, and the Tyler's finally closed the proceedings. Bros. Dodson P.M., Jutsum, and Phillips contributed to the Harmony.

Islington Lodge of Instruction, No. 1471.—A meeting was held on Tuesday, the 26th instant, at the Moorgate Tavern, Finsbury-pavement. Present:—Bros. Holness W.M., Orme S.W., Pitt J.W., J. L. Mather Preceptor, C. G. Sparrow Secretary, Hepburn S.D., Redding I.G., and others. Lodge was opened, and the minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Whale candidate. Lodge opened in the second and third degrees, and the ceremony of raising was rehearsed, Bro. Shipley candidate. Bro. Sparrow Hon. Secretary was elected W.M. for the ensuing week. Lodge closed, and adjourned till Tuesday next.

King's Cross Lodge of Instruction, No. 1732.—The regular meeting of this excellent Lodge of Instruction was held on the 1st inst., at Bro. Devine's, the Blue Posts, Charlotte-street, Fitzroy-square. Bros. Jutsum W.M., J. Snowdin S.W., Kauffmann J.W., Devine Treasurer, L. Solomon Hon. Sec., Burgess I.G., Hemming Preceptor. The Lodge of Instruction was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. The first, second, third and fourth sections of the first lecture were worked. The ceremony of initiation was then rehearsed, Bro. Silvester acting as candidate. A special vote of thanks was accorded to Bro. Jutsum for the excellent manner he had performed the ceremony, for the first time. Bro. Snodin was elected W.M. for the ensuing week. The Lodge of Instruction was then adjourned until the following week.

Landport Lodge, No. 1776.—The regular meeting was held in the handsome Lodge-room of the Portsmouth Freemasons' Hall and Club Company Limited, 79 Commercial-road, Landport, on Thursday, the 21st instant. The chair, in the unavoidable absence of the W.M., was taken by Bro. G. A. Green P.M., who with his customary ability performed the ceremonies of passing and raising. At the conclusion of the ritual, several propositions were made for candidates for initiation and joining. Resolutions were passed, one of sympathy with the W.M., he having met with a severe accident, which has incapacitated him from following his professional duties for some weeks; and one to Bro. E. S. Main P.M., for his donation of ten guineas to the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, in the name of the Landport Lodge. The brethren pledged themselves to support his Stewardship for that Institution at the next Annual Festival After the Lodge was closed, the brethren adjourned to the large dining hall, and partook of supper. The usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were afterwards duly honoured.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood, and a properly nourished frame."

"We have companies for all sorts of things: why do not some philanthropic gentlemen start an association for lending money to embarrassed traders and housekeepers at ten per cent. interest? There are a number of people now getting three per cent. for their money in Consols who would be glad to invest it in an enterprise in which, if properly managed, there would be no risk whatever, and a certainty of earning eight or nine per cent. profit. Properly managed, such an association, worked on a large scale, would be an immense boon to people struggling with temporary difficulties, and would pay a handsome return to those who invested their money in Shares."

THE ELECTION OF FRIDAY NEXT, THE R.M.B.I.

FRIDAY next, the 20th instant, is the day fixed for the Annual Special Meeting of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution. The number of candidates is a formidable one, especially in the case of the old ladies, while the number of vacancies is unfortunately smaller than we have had for some time past. For the Male Fund there are thirty-seven candidates for thirteen vacancies, while for the Female Fund there are but seven vacancies and as many as sixty-one candidates. As will be seen, however, from the Report we publish elsewhere of the meeting of the Committee, it has been resolved that the number to be elected shall be increased, so that, though there will be several disappointed at the result of Friday's poll, there will be, at all events, fewer than otherwise would have been the case had the Committee not found it possible to enlarge the list of the annuitants. So satisfactory a measure must, of course, be traced to the brilliant result of the Festival in February last, and West Yorkshire in particular, and all who take an interest in the Institution cannot be otherwise than intensely gratified at finding their efforts have been so immediately productive of good.

For the Male Fund there are, as we have said, thirty-seven candidates and thirteen vacancies; eight of them hailing from the Metropolitan district, and twenty-nine from the Provinces. Taking the London first, we find that No. 9, H. Hart Spratt, was initiated in September 1860, in the New Concord, No. 813, and remained a subscribing member for eighteen years. He is a Life Governor of the Benevolent and Girls' School, but, owing to almost total loss of sight, he is unable to follow any occupation, and is wholly dependent for support on his friends. The case would seem to be a strong one, and will doubtless receive the support it merits. No. 10, Solomon Marks, sixty-one years of age, was initiated in the Joppa Lodge, No. 188, as far back as the 2nd February 1852, and has continued a subscribing member for eleven years and a quarter. Through disasters in business, he became very much reduced in circumstances, and not having capital enough to make a fresh start in life, he now finds it necessary to seek the assistance of the Benevolent Fund. Charles James Woods, who stands sixteenth on the list, was initiated in Albion Lodge, No. 9, on the 1st October 1850, and has subscribed for twenty-one and a half years. He is in the sixty-second year of his age, and, "owing to the total decay and destruction of his business, is incapable of obtaining employment in any other occupation." No. 24, Robert Armstrong, was initiated in October 1865, and continued a subscribing member till March of last year. He is imbecile and totally incapable of earning a livelihood, and as he has served the office of Steward for, and is a Life Governor of, the Institution, no doubt he will secure a liberal share of support in his extremity. No. 26, Matthew Cooke, aged fifty-nine years, has been a member of several Lodges, having been initiated in Lodge No. 657, on 18th June 1857, and having subscribed to one or more of them during a period of thirty-five and a half years. He is permanently incapacitated from work, and has no visible means of support. No. 29, Thomas Riley, who is in the eighty-fourth year of his age, having been born in January 1798, was initiated in Lodge No. 193, in December 1845, and subscribed for seven years. He enjoys a pension of fifteen pence per day from the War Office, but he is unable to add anything to his scanty means as he is afflicted with chronic rheumatism and gout, and also with severe ulcerations of both legs. No. 32, Thomas Maxwell, who will be sixty-two on Monday, was initiated in September 1856, in Lodge No. 488, St. Helena, joined No. 508, Singapore, in 1858, and No. 206, London, in 1860, remaining a subscriber for over six years, and having been an active member of some Lodge for ten years altogether. His age and ill-health have incapacitated him from following any occupation, and consequently he has been obliged to seek the assistance of our Benevolent Fund. No. 36, Charles James Hogg, was born on 28th June 1805, and is, therefore, only a few weeks short of completing his seventy-sixth year. He was initiated in the Felicity, No. 58, in June 1857, and continued a subscribing member till the 9th March 1880. He had also been a subscribing member of No. 1275, New Cross, for eight years and a half. He is a Past Grand Steward, and has served the office of Steward for, and is a Life Governor of, the Benevolent Fund. He has no means of obtaining a livelihood, and even if he had he would be unable to follow it owing to his age and bodily infirmities.

Of the twenty-nine Provincial candidates, West Lancashire and West Yorkshire each sends up five. Three hail from Durham; Cheshire, Cornwall, Northumberland, and Kent contribute each two candidates; while Berks and Bucks, Suffolk, Sussex, Essex, Monmouthshire, N. and E. Yorkshire, Warwickshire and Jersey send up one each. First on the list, Joseph Crisp, was a candidate for the first time last year, but only succeeded in scoring 35 votes. He belongs to Durham, having been initiated in 1861, in a Sunderland Lodge, No. 97, and remained a subscribing member for eighteen years. He is in his sixty-sixth year, is unable to follow any occupation, through sunstroke, and has no one to assist him. No. 2, George Ensell, from Warwickshire, has nine votes to his credit from last May. He first saw light in Lodge No. 43, Birmingham, and was a joining member of Lodge No. 739 of the same town, having paid his subscriptions for ten years and three quarters. He is in very indigent circumstances. Some years ago "he was in trade at Birmingham, but his mind becoming affected," he "was compelled to give up, and at present is permanently incapacitated, and without means of support." The third in order, a West Yorkshire candidate, who brings forward 157 votes, is in his sixty-fifth year, was initiated in No. 204, of Manchester, but resides at Leeds. For the last ten years he has been paralysed in his lower extremities, and thus permanently incapacitated for work, as he cannot move without assistance. John Docchar, who stands next, and obtained seven votes in 1880, is in his seventy-seventh year. He was initiated in No. 240, South Shields, in December 1856, and continued a subscribing member for twenty years. Failing health and infirmities compelled him to relinquish his trade, and he has no means of subsistence. No. 5, Thomas William Beale is a few months short of seventy-six. He was initiated on 1st May 1865, in Lodge No. 977, Fowey, Cornwall, and subscribed for over thirteen years, but is now incapacitated by age and infirmity, and though he has children, they are not in a position to render him any assistance in this the period of his adversity. This is his first attempt at obtaining the benefits of the Institution, as indeed is the case with all but the four candidates at the head of the list. No. 6, William Ford, of Slough, in Bucks, was formerly a farmer and innkeeper, and was initiated in No. 77, Windsor, on 9th February 1864, and subscribed for fifteen years. He has just completed his seventy-first year, and "in consequence of physical inability and infirmity is totally destitude and incapable of following any occupation." No. 7, Jesse Banning, of Cheshire, in his seventy-fourth year, was initiated in No. 343, Preston, in 1865, and remained a subscriber for five years and a half. He joined a Carlisle Lodge in 1869, and continued subscribing to it for nine years, and for three years belonged to a Liverpool Lodge, No. 823. He is a Past Provincial Grand Organist of Cumberland and Westmoreland, but owing to railway accidents, decline of business, and bad health, his general means of livelihood are very precarious. No. 8, Edward Reed, of Morpeth, in Northumberland, was initiated in No. 431, North Shields, in June 1842, and continued a subscribing member for two years and a quarter. In 1859 he joined the Lodge No. 636, Morpeth, and remained a subscribing member till 1879. Though formerly in good circumstances, he is now entirely destitute, besides being very feeble, and suffering from long-continued illness. He is in his seventieth year. No. 11, Alexander Douglas Ross, of Gravesend, was initiated in Lodge No. 77, in that town, in 1854, and the year following joined No. 483, the period during which he subscribed to these two Lodges being altogether forty-seven and a half years. He has been a subscriber to the Benevolent for many years, and is a Life-Governor of the Boys' School. He is now so enfeebled by paralysis as to be unable to follow his occupation. No. 12, Charles Lomax, Cheshire, was initiated in No. 322, Stockport, in 1864, and continued a subscribing member for eleven years and three quarters. He has been a journalist, but is now a complete invalid, unable to maintain himself, and wholly dependent for support on his friends. No. 13 hails from the Province of West Yorkshire, Bro. Abraham Roberts, who is in the eighty-first year of his age. He was initiated in August 1860, and subscribed to his Lodge for nineteen years and a half. He has no means of support, and is quite dependent on charity. Thomas Lampen, No. 14, from Cornwall, was initiated in No. 450, Hayle, in 1859, and remained a subscriber till 31st December 1879. "From advanced age and failing sight," he is unable to follow his occupation, and what makes his circumstances still more painful is, that "his wife is invalided by paralysis." No. 15, Thomas Halliday, of Sunderland, completes the trio of Durham candidates. He has been a member of No. 97, in which he was initiated, and No. 94, of which he became a joining member in 1860, for over twenty-three years, but his health is such that he cannot follow his occupation of a printer any longer, and he is compelled to trust for support to the bounty of his friends. No. 17, William Roberts, a West Yorkshire candidate, is in his seventy-fifth year. He was initiated in 1858, and has remained a subscribing Mason nearly ever since. He is unable to work, having had a paralytic stroke, and is dependent on his daughter for support. John Lockwood, formerly an hotel keeper and farmer, belongs to Suffolk, in which Province he was initiated in 1845. He subscribed for sixteen years and a half, but he cannot procure his own livelihood, owing to failure of sight. Alfred Smith, of Huddersfield, West Yorkshire, was initiated in 1849, and remained an active member of his Lodge for thirty years. Owing to failure of business, he is now in very reduced circumstances, occasional watch repairing being his only means of earning money. James Munn, Kent, was initiated in Dartford, in 1847, and subscribed to his Lodge for sixteen years and a half. He is a Past Grand Deacon of Kent, and is described as "utterly destitute," being unable, from failing health, to maintain himself. John Patterson was initiated in No. 393, Berwick-on-Tweed, and remained a member for twenty-eight years. He is very infirm from rheumatism, and his only means of support is a pension of £6 16s from the Aged Seaman's Fund. Joseph Ward, East Lancashire, is a Mason of over two-and-twenty years' standing, having been initiated in No. 442, Peterborough, in June, 1857. In the course of his occupation as a locomotive engine driver, he met with an accident to his leg, and is now permanently incapacitated from work. Thomas Higson, another East Lancashire candidate, in his sixty-seventh year, is incapable of doing any manual labour, "being afflicted with rheumatism and the infirmities of old age." He was initiated in No. 348, Bolton, in 1853, and remained a subscribing member till December 1879. John Oatley, of St. Heliers, Jersey, was formerly a ship owner. He was initiated in No. 590, in 1863, and a few months later joined No. 958, his subscriptions, taking the two together, extending over a period of thirty-five years. He has been reduced to a state of great necessity by the severe depression in the shipping trade, "having had everything taken for the benefit of creditors." He is a Past Grand Senior Warden of his Province. Charles Sutcliffe, East Lancashire, formerly a cotton spinner, was initiated in No. 126, Burnley, in 1852, and joined afterwards Lodge No. 1064, the years he was a subscribing member to the two amounting to forty-one and three-quarters. By two disastrous fires, and a long period of unprofitable trade, he has been "reduced from a state of affluence to one of urgent need of assistance." Jas. Hayter, formerly Hotel keeper of Hastings, was initiated in 1858, and continued a subscriber till December 1879. He was formerly in good circumstances, but now has no means of employment, and is entirely dependent on Charity. George Worley, described as a gentleman, was initiated in Lodge No. 360, Northampton, in 1841, as a minor, and paid his subscription till December 1863. He is a Provincial G. Senior Warden of Norths and Hunts, and a Life Governor of all our Institutions. Through serious losses in house property and shares, he has become much reduced, while gout prevents him from following any occupation. Harry A. Darby, in his eighty-second year, was initiated in 1855, in Lodge No. 643, and subscribed to it for fifteen years. He "has no means of keeping himself, none of his family are in a position to assist him, and his advanced age renders him helpless." James Jackson, East Lancashire, was initiated in Lodge No. 816, Wardle, in 1865, and paid fifteen years. He suffers from a paralytic affection, and is permanently incapacitated from earning a livelihood. No. 34 is a West Yorkshire man, William Smith, of Batley, formerly a woollen manufacturer. He was initiated in Lodge No. 380, Morley, in 1850, and has been a subscriber thirty years. He has lost all his money in trade, and his only means of support is by trying to do a little work on commission. He has subscibed annually to the Benevolent Institution ever since he joined the Fraternity. Joseph Burton, Ashton-under-Lyne, who in a few weeks will complete his sixty-ninth year, was initiated in 1861, and subscribed for over eighteen years. He is unable to follow any employment through increasing age and infirmity, and his wife is an invalid. John Middleton, who stands last on the list, hails from Newport, Monmouthshire. He was initiated in No. 297, Lincoln, in 1842, and joined No. 147 of Newport, in 1854, and taking one Lodge with another has been a subscribing member for some forty years. He is a Past Prov. G.D. Lincolnshire, and a Past Prov. G. Warden of Monmouthshire. His only resources consist of a sum of £10 per annum from the Isca Lodge, and some assistance from his daughters, who can ill-afford to help him. He is in his seventy-third year, and is not only poor, but in failing health. This completes the list of the candidates for the Male Fund.

On the Female Fund list, there are sixty-one names, of whom one has been before the subscribers as a candidate at eight previous elections. One is an applicant for the fifth time, six have made three previous attempts, five others have stood twice before, while seven were approved and placed on the roll for ballot in May 1880. The other forty-one are new candidates, having had no previous opportunity. As distributed among the provinces, we find that there are twenty-one from the metropolis, Essex sends five, Devon four, Sussex, Kent, East Lancashire, and Hants and Isle of Wight three each; Warwickshire, Berks and Bucks, and Surrey, two each, and there is one applicant from each of the following:—namely, Durham, North and East Yorkshire, Northumberland, Hereford, Norfolk, Lincolnshire, Somersetshire, Middlesex, Dorsetshire, West Yorkshire, West Lancashire, and Cheshire. No. 1 on the list is Mrs. Elliott, who has standing to her credit from her previous contests, 454 votes. She is in her seventy-eighth year, and has no means of support, being entirely dependent on a son-in-law. She has been a widow nearly one-and-twenty years, her late husband, an auctioneer, of Darlington, in the county of Durham, having subscribed to his Lodge for ten years. Mrs. Wakefield, with 70 votes from four previous ballots, will make her fifth attempt on Friday next. She is in her sixty-fifth year, and is entirely dependent on her children. Her husband, who, was initiated in No. 362, Grantham, having been a subscribing Mason for over thirty-five years. Mrs. Child, who like the preceding applicant, lives in the metropolitan district, is close on sixty-five years of age, her late husband having been initiated in a London Lodge, No. 179, on 18th June 1835. She is both infirm and destitute, and her family are unable to assist her. She has 62 votes to the good from previous elections.

Mrs. George, Manchester, was left, at her husband's death, in 1875, without any means of support. Old age prevents her doing anything for her own maintenance, and she is dependent on a son who is a letter-carrier, an occupation which our readers are well aware is not considered a very remunerative one. There are twenty-one votes to her credit. Mrs. Gambell, of Plymouth, the widow of a sail-maker, in good circumstances, whose means, however, at the time of his death, had been nearly exhausted by losses and failing health, has 83 votes to her credit. Her only means of support is a yearly income of £20, and her husband, who was a Past Prov. Assist. Director of Ceremonies, Devon, subscribed for twenty-four years. Mrs. Francis, of Brightlingsea, Essex, who is in her seventy-third year, and whose husband was a Past Provincial G.S.B. Essex, has been dependent on the charity of friends for help during the whole of her widowhood. She has 157 votes to the good, while the next in order, Mrs. Eade, is still more fortunate, and has to her credit 503 votes. Her late husband, who died in January 1865, was initiated in No. 407, Malta, in 1852, and three years later joined Sincerity Lodge, No. 174. She can do nothing for her own support, as she is afflicted with rheumatism, and is dependent on her eldest daughter, who is a dressmaker. Mrs. Allen is widow of a deceased annuitant, and as such became entitled at her husband's death to a moiety of his annuity. This, however, has now ceased, in accordance with the laws of the Benevolent. Mrs. Allen has 430 votes to her credit. Mrs. Rowell, an applicant for the third time, is also the widow of an annuitant, who died on 1st of April 1878, so that she has the one-half of his annuity, while she also enjoys a small pension of £12 from the Gardeners' Royal Benevolent Institution. Her votes are 134 from last May. Mrs. Isherwood of Middlesborough, with 377 votes, at present holds the situation of housekeeper, but owing to old age and increasing infirmities she will be compelled to resign, and will then be resourceless. Mrs. Winter, widow of an Inspector to the Local Board of Health, Hastings, has for her support a weekly allowance by that Board of eight shillings, not a very large sum for the support of one who must have had many comforts, if not many luxuries, in her time. Mrs. Bentley, a London case, and the widow of an annuitant, has, of course, her £20 per annum for a time, and also £10 10s a year, but her husband died in July 1878, and the allowance will therefore soon cease, if in the meantime she is unsuccessful in getting on to the Fund. Moreover she is in her seventy-ninth year, so that though she has only 43 votes to her credit from previous elections, her friends may rally round her and carry the day. Mrs. Maddick, who is also seventy-eight years of age has but eleven votes to bring forward, and is widow of an annuitant who was initiated in Plymouth in 1845, and paid his subscription for twenty-three and a-half years. Mrs. Martin, the first in order of the second application cases is a London case. Her husband was a gas fitter, but since his death, which occurred in January 1873, she has followed the calling of a domestic servant, but she can do so no longer, owing to age and infirmities. She has standing to her credit 479 votes. Mrs. Gregory, Devonshire, with 22 votes, is unable to follow any occupation, through "chronic inflammation of the eyes having produced cataracts;" so that she is entirely dependent on her friends. Mrs. Miller, London, lost her husband, who was an annuitant, in 1879, and for the present is in receipt of half his annuity. He had been a member of the Royal Athelstan, No. 19, for thirty-four years. Mrs. Mongar, another London case, and the wife of another annuitant, has 454 votes—Mrs. Miller has 415; Mrs. Laffittau has 404 votes to bring forward, which is satisfactory, as from the particulars given it is evident she needs help. She is without means of support, and has a daughter dependent on her. Mrs. Wright, with 536 votes, whose husband died twelve years ago, is unprovided for, having only her friends to look to for help. Mrs. Chrisp, who is in her seventy-sixth year, brings forward 127 votes. Her husband was a subscribing member for twenty-nine years, a Past Provincial Grand Registrar Hants and Isle of Wight, and a Life-Governor of the Girls' School. She is dependent on a son, who cannot afford to support her. No. 21 on the list, Mrs. Cherrill, hailing from Berks and Bucks, through rheumatism is unable to work for her maintenance, and has four children dependent on her. Mrs. Coates, Warwickshire, is entirely dependent on her friends. Mrs. Greathead, whose husband, an annuitant, died in January 1880, has of course a moiety of his annuity towards her support. Mrs. Smith, Hants and Isle of Wight, is incapacitated from work through an affection of the chest, and is totally unprovided for, with three children depending on her. Mrs. Geary, widow of Bro. Geary, an annuitant, has of course half his annuity. She is, by proof, seventy-five years of age, and has the customary £20 per annum for the present Mrs. Fenning, born March 1806, can do nothing for her living, and is entirely dependent on friends. Mrs. Exley lost her husband in 1879, and found herself with insufficient means of support, and her family unable to help her. Mrs. Copeland, Lincolnshire, is in delicate health, with one daughter dependent on her. Mrs. Pearson, Kent, is dependent on her children. Mrs. Laing has no "means of livelihood," and looks to friends for support. Mrs. Pelton, Kent, has the half of her late husband's annuity, he having died on 15th January 1850. Mrs. Appleby, after realising the effects of her late husband and paying his debts, was left absolutely without means of support. Her husband was a Past Provincial Grand Pursuivant Somersetshire. Mrs. Rigarlsford lost her husband, who had been an invalid for many years, in 1881, and has no means of support. Mrs. Hill, Essex, cannot obtain employment on account of the delicacy of her health. Her husband was initiated in a Southampton Lodge, and joined No. 251, Barnstaple, having been a subscribing Mason for nearly one-and-twenty years. Mrs. Grant's husband was an annuitant, and died 18th March 1880, while Mrs. Kidd, whose husband was likewise an annuitant, is no longer in receipt of his half annuity, as he died in July 1877. Mrs. Biles lost her husband as far back as 1860, and cannot obtain a scanty subsistence except by needlework. Mrs. Madeley was left, at the death of her husband in 1865, with a large family, and but little means of support, and with no friends able to assist her. Mrs. Fead-Lamert was left by her husband, late Paymaster 60th Rifles, totally unprovided for, but she has gallantly striven to make a living by teaching. Mrs. Perkin makes what she can in the way of income by letting lodgings. Mrs. Moorhouse is dependent on a delicate daughter for the necessaries of life. Mrs. Hambly has kept herself and her children by teaching, friends also rendering her some assistance, but her health has failed and she can work no longer Mrs. Rumsey, whose husband was a subscribing Mason for thirty-eight years, depends on the rent of two small houses, amounting to seven shillings a week all told. Mrs. Greig depends on her daughter's scanty earnings from a small school. Mrs. Emmerson has no means of support, and is unable to gain a livelihood. Mrs. Thomas is totally unprovided for, while Mrs. Bisco, during her widowhood, has obtained a living by nursing, but her health is now so precarious that she is unable to continue it. Mrs. Cogan receives half her late husband's annuity, and will contine to do so for the present at all events, unless, in the meantime, she should have the good fortune to be elected on the Fund. Mrs. Stubington is unable to work, on account of age, and has no means of support. Mrs. Greenwood has half of the late Bro. Greenwood's annuity. Mrs. Roberts is wholly dependent on two married sons, who allow her each five shillings a week. Mrs. Wilkinson is, owing to age and a delicate constitution, unable to maintain herself. Mrs. Nowlan is dependent on friends. Mrs. Rodgers, aged eighty-two, has no means, and depends for support on her son, who, however, is not in a position to assist her. Mrs. Muruss, in her eightieth year, is unable to work, and her only means of support are three shillings a week from the Hotel Keepers' Institution, and what is left of a grant from the Lodge of Benevolence. Mrs. Wood, since her husband's death, has been eking out a living by tuition, but the establishment of Government schools have interfered with her ability to do so with success. Mrs. Chapple was left destitute at the death of her husband, and is dependent on her two eldest sons, whose circumstances, however, are far from flourishing. Mrs. Buckley is dependent on a son. Mrs. Dover has not even that consolation, as she is totally without means. The position of Mrs. Booth is a similar one, while Mrs. Diver, whose husband, a physician, was Past Deputy District Grand Master of Bombay, and a Life Governor of the Benevolent and Girls' School, through breaking her leg and collar-bone, is incapacited from work, and entirely dependent on charity. This completes the list, the details of which are necessarily painful. We trust the General Meeting of Friday will find it possible to increase the number to an appreciable extent, so that the number of the disappointed will be reduced very considerably.

MASONIC HISTORY AND HISTORIANS.

By Bro. Jacob Norton.

IT is gratifying to perceive that our leading English Masonic writers have at last agreed that the histories of Anderson, Preston, Dermott and Co. are faulty and unreliable. The Freemason of March 5th, 26th, April 9th, &c., contains articles on the above subject from the pens of Bros. Hughan, Gould, Masonic Student, and Whytehead. But, while they agree in the necessity of a new history of Freemasonry, they still differ about the value of Masonic traditions. Bros. Hughan and Gould are inclined to reject all traditions which are unsupported by reliable testimony, and Bros. Masonic Student and Whytehead show a decided hankering after the leeks, onions, and garlic of Egypt.

"In dealing with traditions (says Masonic Student), qua traditions, we must be careful and reverential in the handling of them. It is not a case of 'sequitor,' remember, at all, that because traditions are incorrect, therefore they are untrustworthy. It was pointed out years ago, by one of the greatest experts in MSS., that we must bear in mind that there was a 'substratum' of truth in all traditions, if we could find it, and that as all traditions, become incorrect through the lapse of time, or the repetition of men, so while we were not slavishly to accept them, we were not equally as slavishly to reject them in toto."

With all due respect to Masonic Student, and to his "experts of MSS.," I cannot believe that there is "a substratum of truth to all traditions;" for instance, there is an Irish tradition that St. Patrick swam across the Shannon, carrying his head in his mouth. Now, suppose Masonic Student does not believe that the saint carried his whole head in his mouth, does he imagine that he carried a half, a quarter, or even a tenth part of his head in his own mouth? Where is the substratum of truth in the said Irish tradition?

"The Reader's Hand Book," by the Rev. E. C. Brewer, contains several versions of the story about the "Wandering Jew." Now, can Bro. Masonic Student say that he believes in either of those versions? or can he point out any substratum of truth in the whole, or in either of them?

A discussion took place in Rome, a few years ago, between really learned and eminent Catholic and Protestant Divines, as to whether St. Peter was ever Bishop of Rome. The Catholic party rested their arguments on a tradition to that effect, that St. Peter was Bishop of Rome, and was crucified there, &c. But the Protestants maintained that whereas the said tradition was not mentioned till about a century after the supposed event, they could therefore neither believe that St. Peter was Bishop of Rome, or that he had ever been in Rome.

Owing to the power claimed by the Pope on account of his supposed succession to St. Peter, Protestants have no hesitation in disputing St. Peter's Roman Bishopship. Now, the truth is, the story of St. John the Evangelist having been Bishop of Ephesus, &c., rests upon no better foundation than that of the St. Peter Roman tradition, and had the Bishop of Ephesus claimed homage of all Christians on account of his succession to St. John, those that would refuse his claimed homage could make as good an argument against the St. John Ephesus legend as the others did against the St. Peter Roman legend. But as there is no Bishop of Ephesus to claim superiority, the St. John's legend is tolerated and even defended by the orthodox party. The more advanced ecclesiastical critics, however, reject both legends alike.

Now, upon this Ephesus St. John legend, Masons have erected St. John Masonic legends—viz., how the Evangelist became Grand Master when he was upwards of ninety years of age, and how Lodges were first dedicated to King Solomon, afterwards to Zerubbabel, and last to the St. Johns, because the Baptist was also a Grand Master. And in the April number of the Masonic Magazine, 1879 (p 465), there is a tradition about St. John, while still in the old faith, having joined the Eleusinian's mysteries; and how, when the Saint was banished to the Isle of Patmos, the Eleusinian brethren on the island helped him somehow to get back to Ephesus. There is also related a miracle—viz., that the Emperor or Domitian ordered the saint to be thrown into a cauldron of boiling oil, and how the oil would not cook the saint, &c. Now, it is really needless to waste time, ink, and paper to prove the absurdity of all these legends. There is not a particle of truth in either of them; and it is high time for Masons to stop talking about handling these Masonic so-called traditions reverentially; and the same may be said of all other Masonic traditions, and all of the English pre-1717 Grand Masters, so ludicrously reprinted year after year in the English Masonic Calendars.

Bro. Whytehead, I am sorry to say, is strongly afflicted with the High Degree mania, and believes without doubt that Christian Degrees, Rosicrucianism, &c., were in full blast in 1717, and before; and hence, in a book called "Long Livers," published about 1726, his distorted vision can make out evidence of the existence at that time of some kind of mystic Christian degrees, and what not; but before I analyse his reasoning, I shall call attention to the following article from Chambers' Cyclopædia, about the origin of Rosicrucianism, &c.:—

"The beginning of the 17th century was a period which manifested an extraordinary tendency to mysticism in science as well as in religion; alchemy, astrology, and divination, divided the public interest with Pietism in the Protestant world, and the Convulsionist mania in the Catholic community. A remarkable impulse was given to this tendency by the simultaneous appearance of two anonymous books, printed at Cassel in 1614, in German, entitled Universal and General Reformation of the whole wide world, together with the Fama Fraternitatis or Brotherhood of the Illustrious Order of the Rosy Cross; to the Rulers, States, and Learned of Europe. Printed at Cassel, by William Wessel."

The first of these books is a kind of mystic allegory [and the story runs thus.] In the reign of Justinian, Apollo, finding the world full of every kind of corruption, resolved on effecting a reformation, and with this view, calls up the seven wise men of Greece, and three Roman philosophers, of whom Cato and Seneca are the chief advisers. Their deliberation forms the subject of the book, which is a satire at once on the philosophy and the political systems and governments of the age.

The Fama Fraternitatis is the story of a certain holy and reverend Brother Christian Rosenkreuz (i.e., Rosy Cross), who is represented as living in the fourteenth century. This father, a German of noble birth, having been educated in a monastery, conceives a design for the reformation of the world; and after learning, at Jerusalem and Damascus, all the sciences of the Arabians, spends three years at Fez, in Morocco, in the study of the magical science of the Moors, and returns to Germany, where he establishes in a house—under the title Sancti Spiritus, with the aid of seven monks from the convent where he had been educated—a fraternity, which is the original brotherhood of the Rosy Cross. These adepts having formed a system, with secret symbols, and committed it to paper, sent forth Father Rosenkreuz to propagate the brotherhood, which was to be kept secret for a hundred years, the members, however, meeting once each year in the mother house of Sancti Spiritus. Rosenkreuz died at the age of 106, and the place of his burial was held secret by the adepts; but he ordered that an inscription should be placed on one of the doors of Sancti Spiritus. "Post cxx. annos patebo."

"In the following year—1615—a third tract appeared, also in German, called Confession of the Society and Brotherhood Rosy Cross, which purports to be a defence of the Brotherhood, by Johann Valentine Andrea."

Without tracing the subject further, it is generally conceded by all impartial investigators that there is about as much truth in the several Rosicrusian narratives as there is in More's Utopia, Swift's "Gulliver's Travels," and thousands of other kindred works. No Rosicrucian organisation existed anywhere in the seventeenth century, and no such Society existed in the eighteenth century before the Ramsays, Cagliostros, Weishaups, &c., began manufacturing Christian, Egyptian, and other High Degrees.

"The Long Livers," above referred to, cannot be better described than in Bro. Whytehead's own words, viz.—"That it is a history of persons who have lived to a great age, and who have grown young again," and that the pamphlet is filled with receipts for rejuvenising old people. The writer of that pamphlet was evidently a Master Mason, and therefore dedicated his book to the Grand Master, Masters, Wardens, &c., of England and Ireland. He does not claim to have been a Rosicrusian or a member of any other Society combining Christianity, philosophy, with mysticism. Indeed, we may infer that if he had been a member of such a Society, he would have dedicated his book, not to Masons, but to the Society connected with his notions. Now, here are the extracts from which our High Graders have derived comfort, and to which Bro. Whytehead calls special attention.

"By what I here say, those of you who are not far illuminated, who stand in the outward place, and are not worthy to look behind the vail, may find no disagreeable or unprofitable entertainment, and those who are so happy as to have greater light will discover," &c.

I am very sorry that Bro. Whytehead stopped short in the middle of a sentence, and did not enlighten us about what they "will discover."

The second quotation from "Long Livers" is:—"And now, my brethren, you of the Higher Class." And the third quotation is:—"The Spiritual Celestial Cube," which phrase occurs in a ritual of one of the Christian High Degrees. Furthermore, Bro. Whytehead informs us that while the author of "Long Livers" cautions Masons against introducing religion and politics into Masonry, he himself repeatedly eulogises Christianity: hence he infers that he may have belonged to the Christian Degrees. These are all the arguments derived from the testimony of "The Long Livers" as to the existence at that time of higher Masonic or other degrees.

"A drowning man catches at a straw." Our American profound Dr. Mackay was the first High Grader who attempted to catch at the "Long Livers'" straw, and now Bros. Whytehead and Masonic Student are trying to catch the same straw; but the fact is, it is not a straw at all they are after, but a mere shadow of a straw. I admit that, as a rule, High Graders are very apt to pretend here that Masonry is cosmopolitan, and there that is Christian. But this Masonic inconsistency is not altogether monopolised by High Graders, of which many instances can be shown. Nay, it existed before the High Graders were thought of. The earliest ritual referred to Christ on the top of the Temple, St. John, &c. The author of "Long Livers" was, therefore, no more inconsistent than the then ritual.

With regard to the quotations above given, be it remembered that the 1721 Constitution allowed Fellow Crafts to hold the offices of Warden, Master, and even Grand Master; that up to 25th November 1725, the F.C. and M.M. degrees could be obtained only in the Grand Lodge. That even as late as 1730, not one in a hundred Masons took the third degree. (This fact was pointed out to me in an original printed document of 1730, by a member of your staff when I was in London, a few weeks ago.) We may therefore infer that in 1726, when "Long Livers" was printed, the mass of the brotherhood were mere Entered Apprentices; a few took the second degree; and still fewer took the third degree. With these facts before us, the references made by the author of "Long Livers," "to those who are not far illuminated, who stand in the outward place, and you of the higher class," simply refers to those who have taken only one degree, and to those who have been illumined with the second and third degrees.

With regard to the phrase "Spiritual Celestial Cube," mentioned by the author of "Long Livers," which phrase is used in one of the High Christian Degrees. I beg to call the attention of Bro. Whytehead to a phrase taken from Milton, in the English Crift Ritual, viz.—

"Grace in her footstep, and heaven in her eye."

This passage does not prove that Milton was a Mason, but that

Dr. Hemming, in 1814, inserted the said paragraph from Milton into the ritual; and in a like manner we may infer that the ritual maker of a Christian degree, took the phrase "Spiritual and Celestial Cube," either out of "Long Livers," or from another similar book, and inserted it into his ritual.

As Bro. Masonic Student quoted the opinion of a great expert in MSS., about there being a substratum of truth in all traditions, I will here submit the opinion of the author of two quarto volumes—viz., "The Lives of the Popes"—I think the author's name was Bowers, and I give the quotation from memory; he opened the book thus—

"Tradition is a convicted liar, but as a liar may sometimes tell truth, it is proper that we should listen to what tradition has to say. But we should never believe a word of it, unless it is supported by trustworthy and reliable evidence.

MASONIC NAMES FOR GOD.

FROM THE MASONIC REVIEW.

IT may be truly said that the recognition of the Divine Being is the corner-stone of Freemasonry. Take that away, and Masonry, which is the building of a Mystic Temple, loses all its meaning, and is perverted from the worship of a Supreme Being to the self worship by man of himself. The atheistic Mason (if such an abnormity is conceivable) is one who is building a temple to his own glory, or that of his fellow men—to Humanity, in the abstract.

But Masonry was founded in a reverent belief of the Supreme Being, and no one can enter the Brotherhood without that belief. If any atheist enters he is an impostor: if any Mason becomes an atheist after he enters, he is bound in honour to retire from a body with which he no longer has true sympathy.

The names by which this time-honoured Fraternity has especially recognized and honoured the Deity are worthy of note. It is true it is often said that names are unimportant, that ideas are everything; that as Shakspeare says: "A rose by any other name would smell as sweet:" and Pope's lines are often quoted:

> Father of all, in every age,
> In every clime adored,
> By Saint, by Savage, or by Sage,
> Jehovah, Jove, or Lord!

There is a vein of truth running through this. It matters little what word you use, if you only have a true conception of the Deity.

But yet we feel that words have a good deal in them. They are signs of ideas; and as we attach true ideas to some words, and false ideas to others, they do become important from these associations. For example, for a Chaplain in a Masonic Lodge to address the Deity as Jupiter would be revolting, because we associate with the name Jupiter a set of ideas very opposite to those which we associate with the name of God.

In truth, the conceptions of Deity entertained by different peoples can be clearly seen in the very names they use for God, or for the gods. In classic mythology, the names of the gods Jupiter, Hercules, Venus, Apollo, Ceres, Juno, Belus, Baal, and Moloch, denoted either humanitarian worship, the worship of heroes, or the worship of nature under the poetic names of men and women, and the old mythological religions of Greece and Rome never rose above the worship of heroes and of nature. It was therefore not a lifting religion, for men had no ideas above themselves.

The names of Zeus and Jove had a much higher significance, and can only be regarded as relics of that purer faith which men inherited from Noah and his immediate descendants. Zeus is to be identified with the Sanscrit Dyaus, meaning the sky, as we often speak of God as being Heaven, using the over-arching vault of Heaven as his symbol. No doubt it was the degeneration of this idea which we see in the fire and sun worship of ancient Assyria, and in less ancient Persia.

The name of Jove, too, may be a relic of a purer faith, and to be identified with Jehovah, the living God, in opposition to the false deities worshipped by the heathen, which have no existence, but are purely mythical. But we shall speak of this a little further on.

The Hebrews always denoted the Supreme Being by some worthy title; a fact which indicates the purity of their knowledge of His unity and His character. Their names were El or Elohim—the singular and plural of the same noun—meaning the Eternal, Ever-living God. Sometimes it was conjoined to other words, as El Shaddai, the Almighty God. The word Adonai, the Lord, is often employed by the Hebrews, as with Christians, to designate the Divine Being.

The word Theos, the Greek word for God, and Deus, the Latin word, are probably identical in meaning, and are derived from the verb to see. Theos is He who sees, and corresponds with the All-seeing Eye of Masonry, a symbolical name for the Divine Being. These words Theos and Deus run through ancient and modern Greek, as well as the Latin, and are found in modified forms in the French Dieu, the Spanish Dios, the Catalan Deu, the Portuguese Deos, the Italian Iddio, the Welsh Duw, the Gaelic Dia, the Breton Doue, and in many other minor languages. Indeed, there are no words for God which are more universally used than these root words Theos and Deos, the Seeing One.

Our own English word God is a contraction for Good, or the Good. It is confined to the Teutonic languages, being seen in the German Gott, the Dutch God, the Danish and Swedish Gud. It is a very worthy designation of the Deity, and though not especially Masonic, it is constantly employed as a familiar and appropriate descriptive.

The Hebrew name Jehovah is greatly honoured by Masonry as a mystic and grand descriptive of the Supreme Being. It was the revelation to Moses at the burning bush, and that peculiarly sacred name which the Jews would never pronounce; for always in reading the Holy Scriptures they were accustomed to substitute the word Adonai for it. This mystic and majestic name signifies the Eternal Being; Him who was, and is, and is to come. There is also a considerable number of Christian scholars who claim that Jahveh is the true reading, not Jehovah, and that Jahveh means the Coming One, the Messiah, and that therefore wherever the name occurs it has reference to the Messiah promised to Israel. Of all the names by which Freemasonry recognises the Almighty, Jehovah, or Jahveh, is the most solemn and impressive. A great deal of the mystic grandeur and sublimity of Freemasonry gathers about it.

But the most peculiar Masonic name for the Deity is that of the G.A. and the G.G. These are closely allied; the one relating to design, the other to execution. It is a striking thought, that all the names of Deity which have been employed in past or present ages relate exclusively to his existence or to his attributes, and not one to him as the Great Builder of Heaven and earth. God has been known as the Eternal One, as the Seeing One, as the Good One, as the Supreme One, among past and present nations. But Freemasonry adds the expressive and majestic idea that he is the Maker of all: the G.A. and the G.G., and this we regard as the most characteristic of all the Masonic names for God; the most closely allied with the mystic character of the Royal Art. Every Mason, from his very calling and profession as a Temple Builder, should revere him who is the Builder of all, and he should also be a diligent student of His works. The second degree is full of instruction and meaning in this respect, as inciting to a diligent and reverential study of the works of Him who is the G.G. and the G.A.O.T.U.

The arrangements in connection with the constitution of the new Masonic Lodge—Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar, No. 1903—which is to take place in the Lecture Hall, Portsmouth, on Wednesday, the 25th instant, are now nearly completed. There will, it is anticipated, be a very large gathering of members of the Craft to witness the inauguration of the new Lodge by the Right Worshipful the Provincial Grand Master of Hampshire and the Isle of Wight, Bro. W. W. B. Beach, M.P. Admission is to be by tickets, with which brethren can be supplied through their respective Lodges, but Masons who do not belong to local Lodges may obtain them on application to the Committee. His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught has intimated his intention to be present, as have also the Earl of March, M.P., Senior Grand Warden of England, and other distinguished members of the Craft. The company at the banquet, which is to be held at the Volunteer Artillery Headquarters, will, it is thought, number about two hundred. Lord Charles Beresford, W.M. of the new Lodge, will preside. The catering has been entrusted to Bro. W. Maybour, of Butcher-street, Portsea, who will have the assistance of a number of the members of the Lodge as Stewards.—Portsmouth Times.

We beg to acknowledge, with many thanks, the receipt, from Mr. George Pickworth, of 6 Queen Anne's Gate, Westminster, S.W., of copy of a portrait of Bro. Magnus Ohren P.G.A.D. of C. It is an admirable likeness of our worthy brother, being very life-like, and artistically executed into the bargain. Evidently the greatest possible care has been bestowed on its production, and it must be indeed gratifying to the large circle of Bro. Ohren's friends and admirers to know that so excellent a portrait of him has been published. We very heartily congratulate the artist on the great success of his labours, and Bro. Ohren on having had his features delineated by one so able as Mr. George Pickworth.

In reference to the worthy brother named above, we are reminded of an omission that occurred in our Report of the proceedings of Grand Chapter. Comp. Magnus Ohren was in attendance, both before and in Chapter, and in fulfilment of his duties as Director of the Ceremonies introduced the new Officers to the Grand Scribe E., and afterwards conducted them to their respective places in Grand Chapter. To those of our readers who are acquainted with Comp. Magnus Ohren, and recognise the zeal he always displays in fulfilling any official duties that may devolve on him, these remarks may perhaps be deemed unnecessary, but we hear it so frequently urged that all that is cared for is the honour of appointment, and that regard is seldom paid to what such appointment necessitates, that we thus notify the omission made by us last week.

WASHINGTON AS A MASON.

(REPRINTED FROM THE KEYSTONE.)

WORSHIPFUL MASTER AND BRETHREN OF ST. JOHN'S LODGE, No. 1: Your Lodge, standing at the head of the Roll in this jurisdiction and made venerable by its one hundred and twenty years of history,* has indeed proved faithful to its trust as a Masonic custodian of the memory of Washington. While he still lived and—as we have reason to believe—before any other body of men had instituted this commemoration, your Lodge kept his birthday on the twenty-second of February 1792; and on February twenty-second 1800 it was determined by the Lodge that the 22*d of February* should be for ever observed "for the purpose of solemnizing so great an event as the death of that great and good man." More than fourscore years have passed away, and we are here to keep the letter and the spirit of that resolution.

As we stand to-night in a period nearly three generations removed from the time at which this annual observance originated, there are strong inducements to bring into contrast the two epochs of Masonic history—THEN, and NOW. Then there were in the State of New Jersey nine Lodges and a few hundred Masons; Now there are one hundred and forty-seven Lodges in active existence, with a membership of some thirteen thousand. Then, there was one Lodge in Newark—St. John's; Now, there are seventeen Lodges, with a membership of nearly twenty-two hundred. To this brief Masonic retrospect—which I deem a fitting introduction to the chief themes of the evening—permit me to add a few words from the Address of Grand Master Beatty, delivered to the Grand Lodge of New Jersey in 1792,† in which, after enumerating his official visits, he says that he "found the Brethren of St. John's Lodge numerous and respectable, its officers intelligent and active, and the members zealously attached to the principles of Masonry. He mentions with particular pleasure the growing state, good order, and symmetry of this Lodge."

Such was Masonry in Newark, and such was St. John's Lodge in the year 1792. I am not here, however, to rehearse the history of this venerable mother of Lodges, or to remind you how its records link together the Masonic life of pre-revolutionary and post-revolutionary times. My work, to night, lies not among the illustrious names upon your Roll of those who have held high social, civil or religious position, and at the same time have shared in the labours or ruled in our ancient Craft; or among names equally worthy of reverence, representing as they do the less conspicuous but not less useful parts of our Mystic Temple.

It is not within the lines marked out for me this evening, to tell of the wondrous growth of this City, of the Commonwealth, and of the Republic: of the wondrous revelations of science, the progress of human thought, and the marvellous triumphs of mechanical skill and industrial art; or of the temporary eclipse of our Institution; and the baptism of blood which sealed our Nation's unity; in these fourscore-and-ten years of life and of commemoration. These wonderful things of the century, are the structures which the hand of man—guided, strengthened and blessed by the great Artificer of the Universe—has reared. These great achievements and great thoughts are the outgrowth of germs planted and fostered into growth under the Mind of God. Our theme to-night is a human illustration of what may grow out of such germs of thought, and life, and truth, as those from whence came, under God, all the wonders of the century that now is.

The first commemoration of Washington by this Lodge had reference to the date of his birth; the subsequent commemorations on the same date were to have reference, as the Resolution shows, to the event of his death; but the real thing to be remembered, was that which lay between these two—a useful, elevated, heroic, noble, and symmetrical life. It was not only the Man—hero, patriot, and in the proper sense of the word gentleman, though he was—but the Craftsman, a Brother not ashamed of the Mystic Tie, that your Masonic and patriotic fathers would have the men of their day and the men of our day to honour and reverence. It is with his Masonic history, therefore, that we have principally to do on this occasion; a part of his life no less authentically attested by undeniable proofs than the better known features, but too frequently ignored by his biographers. The graceful pen of Irving, and the strong hand of Chief Justice Marshall, himself a distinguished Craftsman, have invested the public and private life of Washington with all the interest of romance; the records of the Nation have kept his Civic and Military services from oblivion; and the chief events of his Masonic history are written in the scattered, though sacredly preserved records and archives of many Grand and Subordinate Lodges.

George Washington, I need scarcely remind you, was born in Virginia, in the year 1732. We need not dwell upon the early events and legends of his youth, so well known to every American schoolboy, but may proceed at once to review his Masonic record.

"Before Washington came to manhood," says Brother Sydney Hayden, "a Lodge had been organized in Fredericksburg, under authority from Thomas Oxnard, Provincial Grand Master of Boston, whose authority also extended over all the English Colonies in America; and in 1752, when Washington sought admission to this Lodge, its officers were Daniel Campbell, Master; John Neilson, Senior Warden; and Dr. Robert Halkerson, Junior Warden." * *

"The records of Fredericksburg Lodge show the presence of Washington, for the first time in the Lodge, on the 4th November 5752, leaving no doubt that he was initiated on that day, as on the sixth of November the record continues:

"'Received of Mr. George Washington for his entrance £2: 3.'

"'March 3d, 5753.—George Washington passed Fellow Craft.'

"'August 4th, 5753.—George Washington raised Master Mason.'"‡

You will notice that he was not quite twenty-one years of age when he was initiated; a departure from the general custom, permitted in special cases by the English Law under which he was made a Mason.†

"The old record book of the Lodge is still preserved [or was up to the time of the late war], also the Bible on which he was obligated, and the Seal of the Lodge. The Bible is a small quarto volume and bears date 'Cambridge:' printed by John Field, Printer to the University, 1688," ‖ a year memorable in the history of Civil and Religious Liberty in England.

Passing over a period of thirty-six years—a period not without its records and traditions of Masonic interest, but one more especially filled with heroic deeds on the field of battle, and with self-sacrificing labours for the founding of a free Republic—we come down to the year 1788. On the 28th of April in this year, a Warrant was granted by the Grand Lodge of Virginia to Alexandria Lodge, No. 22 (formerly known as No. 39, on the Registry of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania), with—to use the language of Edmund Randolph, Esq., Grand Master, who issued the Warrant—"Our illustrious and well beloved Brother George Washington, Esquire, late General and Commander-in-Chief of the Forces of the United States of America, and our worthy Brethren Robert McCrea, William Hunter, Jr.," &c., &c., as the first Master and Wardens. On the old records of Alexandria Lodge, which subsequently, by consent of the Grand Lodge, changed its name to "Alexandria Washington Lodge," was the following entry, under date of December 20, 1788: "His Excellency General Washington unanimously elected Master; Robert McCrea, Senior Warden; Wm Hunter, Jr., Junior Warden; Wm. Hodgson, Treasurer; Joseph Greenway, Secretary, &c." § The old Lodge in Alexandria, though unfortunate of late years in the loss of many valuable Masonic Relics, was long the custodian of abundant proofs of the intimate relations of Washington with our Brotherhood.¶

From the long-sought retirement of private life, Washington was called by the Electoral College, echoing the will of the people, to the highest office in the people's gift. His inauguration as the first President of the United States took place in the City of New York, on the 30th April 1789. General Jacob Morton who acted as Chief Marshal on the occasion, and who was Grand Secretary of the Grand Lodge of New York, and also Worshipful Master of St. John's Lodge, No. 1, of New York City, brought the Bible from the altar of his Lodge to the place where the oath was to be taken, and upon it the President was obligated to discharge the high and responsible trust committed to him as the Chief Magistrate of a Nation whose independence had been largely achieved by himself. "A memorial leaf," says Bro. Hayden, "was then folded at the page on which Washington had devoutly impressed his lips; and the volume was returned to St. John's Lodge, and placed again upon its sacred altar. A few years later it was again taken from its resting-place and borne in a solemn procession by the Masonic Brethren of New York City, who met to pay funeral honors to the memory of Washington. It is still in possession of St. John's Lodge, No. 1, who value it highly as a sacred memento."†

The opinion which Washington entertained of Freemasonry may be determined from a letter written by him to the Master, Wardens, and Brethren of King David's Lodge, Newport, Rhode Island. This was in reply to one from them, dated 17th August 1790. He says:—"Being persuaded that a just application of the principles on which the Masonic Fraternity is founded must be productive of private virtue and public prosperity, I shall always be happy to advance the interests of the Society, and to be considered by them as a deserving Brother." In similar terms he replied to an address, dated 2nd May

* The origin of St. John's Lodge is thus given by M.W. Wm. Silas Whitehead, P.G.M., in his Preface to the reprint of Proceedings of the Grand Lodge of New Jersey: "On the 13th day of May A.D. 1761, a constitutional number of Master Masons, residing in the town of Newark, made application for, and received from, the hands of M.W. George Harrison, Provincial Grand Master of the State of New York, a Warrant, empowering them to enter, pass, and raise candidates for the mysteries of Freemasonry, according to the ancient Constitutions of the Order, the customs and usages of the Craft, and the rules and regulations of the Grand Master, as set forth in his warrant of Dispensation. William Tukey, Esq., was appointed Master; David Jamison, Esq., Senior Warden; James Banks, Esq., Junior Warden; and Lewis Ogden, Secretary. The place first selected for meeting was the Rising Sun Tavern, but it was finally changed to the private residence of the members; the first change being to the house of John Robinson. The original minutes of the Lodge, for three years from its institution, are still in existence in the archives of St. John's Lodge."

To an address from the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts, dated 29th December 1792, he wrote a reply, in which he said:—"To enlarge the sphere of social happiness is worthy the benevolent design of the Masonic Institution, and it is most fervently to be wished that the conduct of every member of the Fraternity, as well as those publications that discover the principles which actuate them, may tend to convince mankind that the grand object of Masonry is to promote the happiness of the human race.

Up to the time of going to press, Bro. Hedges has succeeded in obtaining the services of 254 brethren as Stewards for Wednesday the 18th instant, at the ninety-third anniversary festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls. This, with the exception of the Festival at which His Royal Highness Prince Leopold presided, is the largest Board of Stewards which has ever acted on behalf of this Charity, and we trust this circumstance, as well as that Sir M. Hicks Beach, Bart., M.P., really makes his début on the occasion in his new capacity as Prov. Grand Master of Gloucestershire, will have the desired effect of bringing in a grand total for our Battersea little ones.

We are informed that the consecration of the Shadwell Clerke Lodge, No. 1910, which was to have taken place at Ladbroke Hall, Notting Hill, on Monday next, the 16th instant, has been postponed till the 10th June, owing to the absence from London of His Royal Highness the Most Worshipful Grand Master.

On Friday afternoon, 6th instant, the annual installation meeting of the Royal Lennox Chapter, No. 271, took place in the Masonic Room, at the Royal Pavilion, Brighton. Companion Thomas Byass was installed as M.E.Z. Other Officers having been selected, the brethren dined together, the banquet being supplied by Mr. D. Mutton, of King's-road.

Bro. George Weige, P.M. 860, with whom will be associated Mr. Eltrincham Kendall, announces a Grand Concert, to be given at the Morley Hall, Hackney, on 23rd inst. A talented body of artistes will assist, and it is anticipated a very agreeable evening's entertainment will result.

COMMITTEE MEETING OF THE BOYS' SCHOOL.

THE monthly meeting of the General Committee of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys was held on Saturday last, at Freemasons' Hall. The brethren present were Raynham W. Stewart P.G.D. (in the chair), F. W. Ramsay, S. Rosenthal, R. B. Webster, John J. Berry, J. Joyce Murray, Richard Morris, D.D., H. Massey, Don. M. Dewar, Abner Torkington, Henry Venn, Herbert Dicketts, C. F. Matier, F. Adlard, Alfred Williams, Richard Tyrrell, W. Maple, L. Ruff, George Plucknett, George J. Gillard, J. B. Lemaitre, W. H. Perryman, John Palmer, George Motion, W. Pass, S. V. Cooper, H. S. Goodhall, and F. Binckes Secretary. After the reading and confirmation of the minutes the report of the Audit Committee was read and received. The Secretary stated that advertisements with reference to the scheme for a Preparatory School had been prepared. One petition for placing a boy on the list of candidates for election was received, and an outfit of £5 was granted to a former pupil. It was also resolved to petition Parliament against the Lord Chancellor's Charitable Trusts Acts Amendment Bill, which is designed to vest the control of all charities in the Charity Commissioners, and, as it was stated, give them a power, without appeal, over at least £100,000,000. Bro. Binckes afterwards read the new questions he had drafted, in accordance with the wish of the Committee, to be answered by petitioners for placing boys on the list of candidates for the Institution. The Committee approved of these questions, and also of the brethren nominated for the House and Audit Committees for the ensuing year. The Committee then adjourned.

COMMITTEE MEETING OF THE BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION.

THE monthly meeting of the Committee of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution was held on Wednesday, at Freemasons' Hall, when there were present—Bros. Colonel Creaton (in the chair), C. A. Cottebrune, S. Rawson, G. Bolton, W. Clarke, J. Brett, G. Penn, Thomas Cubitt, F. Adlard, Thomas Goode, Rev. A. F. A. Woodford, J. A. Farnfield, John G. Stevens, Edgar Bowyer, Raynham W. Stewart, Jabez Hogg, Henry G. Warren, A. H. Tattershall, L. Stean, H. J. Strong, M.D., and James Terry Secretary. The minutes of 13th April were verified. The Secretary reported the death of two annuitants. The Warden's Report for the past month was read, and the Chairman was authorised to sign cheques for the ensuing quarter. A draft Report of the progress of the Institution was submitted for the Annual General Meeting and approved. A list of attendances of the Committee of Management for the past year was examined, and the three brethren who have to retire by rotation were nominated for re-election. A plan for the proposed enlargement of the Hall at the Institution, Croydon, was submitted, and after considerable discussion was carried unanimously. A petition against the Charitable Trust Bill was read, and directed to be presented to the House of Lords. It was also decided to take on additional annuitants at the election of next Friday. The Committee then adjourned.

CITY OF LONDON ORCHESTRAL UNION.

IN accordance with announcement made last week, the second Grand Evening Concert of the season 1880-81 was given in the Albion Hall, London Wall, E.C., on Wednesday last. The orchestra of 40 performers, under the conductorship of Bro. G. T. H. Seddon, played the following Selections: 1. Overture—"Don Giovanni"—Mozart; 2. Entr' Actes—No. 1, B minor, No. 2, B flat major, "Rosamunde"—Schubert; 3. Andante—"Symphony in A" (Italian), Pilgrim's March—Mendelssohn; 4. Grand Selection—"Martha"—with solos for flute, oboe, clarinet, bassoon, horn, cornet, euphonion and trombone. Each of these pieces was well rendered, No. 2 deserving especial praise. No. 4 brought forth the entire strength of the Orchestra. The Selection commences with the opening movement of the Overture, 3-4, introducing, by a short oboe cadenza, the second movement, 9-8; which contains some beautiful 4th string passages for the violins. Still following the overture, the third movement is given out by the brass, interrupted by an elaborate flute cadenza, the subject being afterwards repeated by the full Orchestra. A second oboe cadenza leads up to "The Last Rose of Summer," assigned to the oboe, which is followed by a third cadenza, leading to a "fanfare" movement ending with a florid cadenza for clarinet. A beautiful introduction of 12 bars for flutes, oboes, clarinets, bassoons and horns precedes the cornet solo, "M'Appari," and a vigorous 6-8 passage follows, after which the famous "Beer Song," is given by euphonion and trombone. A recurrence to "The Last Rose of Summer," this time by full Orchestra, concludes the selection. The respective solo portions were entrusted to Messrs. Toussaint (flute), Shuckard (oboe), Hunter (clarinet), Snell (bassoon), R. Johnson (horn), Pringuer (cornet), J. Johnson (euphonion), and Kennedy (trombone). The care and precision with which this selection was interpreted, by all engaged, speaks volumes for the good feeling displayed and the energy thrown into their work by the members of this distinguished Amateur Musical Society. The Second Part comprised: 5. Overture—"Si j'etais Roi"—Adolphe Adam; 6. Bolero Espagnole—"Cadiz"—Bosisio, with flute, clarinet and cornet obbligati by Messrs Toussaint, Hunter and Pringuer; 7. Waltz—"Chantilly"—E. Waldteufel; 8. Marche du Sacre—"Le Prophete"—Meyerbeer. The band well sustained the applause they had elicited by their former efforts, and the audience were gratified by the repetition in two or three cases of the final passages. The Vocalists of the evening:—Madame Blanche Owen, who contributed: Song—"In the Gloaming"—Lady A. Hill; Canzonetta—"Through the Wood"—C. E. Horn; Song—"Never Parted"—Langton Williams; Ballad—"Twickenham Ferry"—Marzials; and Bro. George Weige, who sang "Speed on my Bark," and the German Student's drinking song—"In Cellar Cool"—must have been intensely gratified at the reception accorded them. We regret to add, however, that the state of health of our Bro. Weige is not quite what his many friends would like to see him in the enjoyment of.

ANNUAL SUPPER OF THE YARBOROUGH LODGE OF INSTRUCTION, No. 554.

THIS anniversary festival was celebrated at Bro. Walter's, Green Dragon, Stepney, on the 3rd inst. Bro. G. W. Walter W.M. 554 presided, and was assisted by Bro. W. Cross (in the vice-chair) Hon. Secretary of the Lodge of Instruction. Ample justice having been done the excellent fare provided by the host, the usual Loyal and Craft toasts were introduced, among others being the neighbouring Lodges, the Mother Lodge, the Officers, the Masonic Press, &c. The proceedings were most harmonious and enjoyable, and many capital songs were given. Bro. Lineker S.D. 554 favoured the company with a capital rendering of "The Charge of the Light Brigade," and Bro. Stephens a popular ballad, "Told to the Missionary," both of which gave great satisfaction. After spending a most successful evening, the brethren separated at a reasonable hour.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—With the changing season it is prudent for all to rectify any ailment afflicting them; but it is incumbent on the aged suffering under ulceration and similar debilitating causes, to have them removed, or worse consequences will follow. This Ointment is their remedy; on its powers all may confidently rely; it not simply puts their sores out of sight, but extirpates the source of mischief, extracts the corroding poison, and stimulates nature to fill up the ulcer with sound, healthy granulation, that will abide through life. Under this treatment bad legs soon become sound, scorbutic skins cast off their scales, and scrofulous sores cease to annoy. Such hope for the diseased was unknown in former days.

NORTHERN COUNTIES LODGE, No. 406.

THE fiftieth anniversary and installation festival of this Lodge was celebrated on the 25th April, at the Masonic Hall, Maple-street, Newcastle-on-Tyne. The Officers of the Provincial Grand Lodge had been invited to attend the festival, and a great many of them honoured the Lodge meeting with their presence. Lodge was opened at three o'clock p.m. by Bro. R. G. Salmon P.G.A.D.C. W.M., assisted by the following Officers:—Bros. John Page I.P.M., R. W. Sisson as S.W., S. M. Harris J.W., John Ridsdale P.M. Treasurer, G. Dunford Secretary, J. S. B. Bell S.D., A. Hume J.D., R. G. Sisson I.G., Bilbie Steward, and G. S. Sims Tyler. There was also a large array of Past Masters and Visitors. The minutes of the last meeting having been read and confirmed, and the report of the Finance Committee read and adopted, the I.P.M., Bro. Page, assumed the chair, when Bro. T. Anderson P.G. Treasurer presented Bro. R. G. Salmon P.M. W.M. elect for the benefit of re-installation. This ceremony was performed in the most perfect and correct manner by Bro. Page. The customary formalities having been gone through, the new W.M. appointed and invested the following Officers for the ensuing year:—Bros. John Page I.P.M. D.C., S. M. Harris S.W., G. Dunford J.W., John Ridsdale P.M. Treasurer, J. S. B. Bell Secretary, R. G. Sisson S.D., R. W. Sisson J.D., Bilbie I.G., Duncan McDonald S.S., William Mare Lion J.S., and G. S. Sims Tyler. The customary addresses were impressively delivered by the Installing Master, and the Lodge was then closed. The brethren, about fifty in number, adjourned to the Royal Turk's Head Hotel, where they sat down to a sumptuous banquet, well served, and complete in every appointment. Full justice having been done to the many good things which were placed before the brethren, and grace said, the W.M. rose to submit the first toast, one that was always well received amongst Masons. The Queen having been duly honoured, the W.M. gave the Most Worshipful Grand Master the Prince of Wales. He had filled the high office he held with credit to himself and entire satisfaction to the Craft. He called on the brethren to drink the health of the Prince and the rest of the Officers of Grand Lodge. In proposing the health of the Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master Earl Percy, and Officers of the Provincial Grand Lodge, the Worshipful Master said that this toast came a little nearer home; for their Provincial Grand Master they had a nobleman second to none in the country, and when he mentioned his Deputy, and looked around on all the Provincial Grand Officers, he (the W.M.) was sure they had cause to be proud. With this toast the W.M. coupled the names of Bros. Cooper P.G.J.W. and Nichol Provincial Grand Chaplain. Bro. Cooper suitably replied, and Bro. Nichol expressed the pleasure it gave the Provincial Grand Officers to visit the Lodge on that occasion, it being, as they were all aware, the jubilee of that time-honoured Lodge. Bro. T. J. Armstrong proposed the next toast—The Marquis of Londonderry Provincial Grand Master of Durham and the Grand Officers of that Province. In doing so he regretted their noble Brother was not present at the Lodge meeting. With this toast he would couple the name of a brother who had been his father in Masonry, and who had gained the esteem and respect—he might say affection—of all who had the privilege of knowing him; he meant Bro. E. Davis P.P.G.S.W. It was only necessary to ask him for advice on any point, and he would freely give it, and those who did not follow such advice would be sure in the end to find themselves in the wrong. The toast was drunk amid loud applause. Bro. Davis thanked the brethren for the compliment they had paid the Province of Durham, and dwelt on the unanimity that existed between the two Provinces. It was now forty years since he first visited the Northern Counties Lodge. Comparing that visit with the present one, it was a pleasure to him to witness the difference. Bro. Page I.P.M. then assumed the gavel, and brought the health of the W.M. under notice, complimenting Bro. Anderson on his worthiness for the post; he hoped that he might have a prosperous year, and preside over a contented and united Lodge. In reply, the W.M. thanked the brethren for the manner in which his health had been received. Many able Masters had presided over them, and he felt it an honour to be one on the list. Before sitting down he would ask the brethren to fill their glasses and drink the health of the I.P.M. and Installing Master Bro. John Page. This toast having been suitably responded to, the W.M. then submitted the names of the Past Masters of the Lodge, calling on Bro. John Ridsdale P.M. Treasurer, and Bro. R. L. Armstrong P.M. P.G.R. to respond. Brother Ridsdale expressed the pleasure they had had in seeing the installation ceremony so perfectly worked. Brother Armstrong hoped the W.M. would hand the warrant of the Lodge down to his successor in the same manner he now received it. The next toast on the list was that of the Visitors; this was responded to by Brother G. J. Charlton P.M. 1664, and Brother J. G. Taylor P.M. The Past and Present Officers received their meed of praise, which was acknowledged by Brother S. M. Harris S.W., who joined in the hope that the ensuing year would be one of prosperity and harmony for the Lodge. The Masonic Charities found an excellent pleader in Bro. R. L. Armstrong, and Bro. E. D. Davis responded. In course of some well directed remarks on Charity he said he was not pleading for himself, but on behalf of the oppressed, the helpless, and the destitute. The Tyler's toast brought to a close a pleasant evening, enlivened by songs and recitations, rendered by Bros. Fergerson, G. S. Dean, Dunford, J. Page and S. M. Harris. Amongst the visitors present were Brothers E. D. Davis P.P.G.S.W., T. Anderson P.G. Treasurer, J. Cook P.P.G.S.W., H. Hotham P.P.G.S.W., Rev. T. B. Nichol P.G. Chaplain, R. L. Armstrong P.G.R., G. LOYAL WYE LODGE, No. 1807.

THE annual meeting of the members of this Lodge was held at the Masonic Rooms, Builth, on the 5th instant, when Bro. William Williams was installed into the chair of K.S. There was a large attendance of members. The Officers present were Bros. H. C. Rich W.M. and P.M. 651, J. W. Coulthard S.W., Wm. Williams J.W., Wm. Gordon Williams Chaplain, B. Davies Treas., J. A. Whittle W.M. 65 Secretary, Wm. Price S.D., H. V. Thomas J.D., and A. Truscott I.G. The following brethren were also present—Marmaduke Tennant D.P.G.M. for South Wales Eastern Division, J. E. Prothero Past P.G.C. for South Wales Western Division, John Jones Prov. G. Secretary, Geo. Allen W.M. 1323, T. L. Lewis 651, J. G. Hall Past P.S.G.W., Rowland Thomas 364, H. M. Bradford 1323, H. C. Rich jun. 651, E. H. Teale 651, and E. T. Edwards 651. The installation ceremony was performed by Bro. Marmaduke Tennant, in his usual efficient manner. The newly-installed Master invested his Officers as follow:—Bros. H. C. Rich I.P.M., Wm. Price S.W., H. V. Thomas J.W., Wm. Gordon Williams Chaplain, B. Davies Treasurer, J. W. Coulthard Secretary, B. Davies S.D., G. J. Woods J.D., Jno. Phillips Organist, A. Truscott I.G., A. Gwynne Vaughan and Hugh Bennett Stewards, and John Jones Tyler. On the motion of the W.M. it was resolved to minute a vote of thanks to Bros. H. C. Rich I.P.M. and J. A. Whittle, for the services they had rendered to the Lodge since its consecration two years ago, and that a Past Master's jewel be presented to Bro. H. C. Rich, and that both these brethren be appointed honorary members of the Lodge. The Lodge having been closed the brethren adjourned to the Lion Hotel, where a sumptuous banquet had been prepared by Brother James. The usual Masonic toasts were given and responded to. Bro. T. Lawrence Lewis 651 presided at the organ. The organ, which is a valuable one, is the gift of Bro. Geo. John Woods, who has also presented to the Lodge a set of new furniture.

PANMURE CHAPTER, No. 780.

THE installation meeting of this Chapter was held at the Horns Tavern, Kennington, S.E., on Monday, the 9th inst., when, there being no other business before the Chapter, the newly-appointed Principals were installed into their respective chairs with full ceremonial, and addresses by Ex. Comp. James Stevens P.Z. and Scribe E. The Principals for the year are Ex. Comps. Richard Noliss Field M.E.Z., Samuel Poynter H., and Thomas Meggy J. On the completion of the installation ceremony the Officers were invested, viz.:—Ex. Comp. James Stevens P.Z. Scribe E., Comps. B. R. Bryant Scribe N., J. W. Watts P.S., J. S. Terry 1st A.S., H. Baldwin 2nd A.S. Ex. Comp. Henry Smith was invested as Treasurer, and Comp. John Gilbert as Janitor. A vote of congratulation to Ex. Comp. H. C. Levander Grand Sword Bearer (one of the oldest members of the Chapter), on his promotion to Grand Chapter honours, was cordially passed, and suitably acknowledged by that distinguished Companion. The thanks of the Chapter were also voted to the Installing Principal, Comp. Stevens, for his able and effective rendering of the entire ceremony. The Auditor's report and balance sheet were favourably received and adopted. Two members of the Burgoyne Lodge, No. 902, were proposed for exaltation at the ensuing meeting, and, nothing further offering, the Chapter was closed, and the Companions adjourned to banquet. The evening's proceedings were greatly enlivened by the vocal services of Comps. Wilkins, Arnold, Baldwin, Stevens, and Meggy, and the usual harmonious good-fellowship which characterises this Chapter was fully maintained. Amongst the P.Z.'s present were Ex. Comps. R. H. Harvey and Mark S. Larlham. Comp. Edward Harrison, of the Lewes Chapter, No. 1186, responded to the toast of the Visitors. After a most agreeable evening the Companions separated, well satisfied with the business of the day and the future prospects of the Chapter.

Yarborough Lodge of Instruction, No. 554.—At the meeting, at the Green Dragon, Stepney, E., on the 10th inst. Bros. J. Taylor W.M., A. Wood S.W., J. R. Shingfield J.W., G. H. Stephens Deacon, Smith I.G., T. J. Barnes P.M. Preceptor, W. Cross, Honorary Secretary, &c. Lodge having been duly opened, Bro. Cross answered all necessary questions; Lodge was advanced, and the ceremony of passing was ably rendered. The brethren availed themselves of the presence of Bro. Barnes to ascertain the meaning and bearing of many points of the ritual, a course, we think, far more advantageous than simply to hurry through the ceremony. Lodge was closed in the second degree and the W.M. worked the third and fourth sections of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. Bro. A. Wood was elected W.M. for the ensuing meeting.

Grey Friars Lodge, No. 1101.—A meeting was held on Wednesday, 11th May, at the Masonic Hall, Reading. Bros. W. Ferguson W.M., J. Early Danks I.P.M., E. J. Blackwell S.W., R. Dowsett J.W., J. T. Stransom Treasurer, W. P. Ivey P.M. Secretary, Rev. C. R. Honey S.D., J. H. Hawkes J.D., W. J. Browne D.C., W. Ravenscroft Steward, R. C. Prickett I.G., W. Hemmings Tyler; P.M.'s Bros. Pulley, Brown, Margrett, Welch; Bros. Whitfield, Weatherhead, Coates, Vowles, Wort, H. Ferguson, James Greenaway, Parkes, Rhind, Goff; Visitors—Bros. Fisher Alfred 340 and St. Hilda 1887 Secretary, Sherwood 414, Tarrant 1158, Rayner 414, Evans 526, Bluett 261 P.P.J.G.W. Somerset, &c. The Lodge was opened, and the minutes of last regular meeting were read and confirmed. After Lodge had been advanced, Bros. Parkes and Coates, candidates for the third degree, replied satisfactorily to the usual questions, and were entrusted. After these brethren had retired, Lodge was opened in the third degree. Bros. Parkes and Coates were re-admitted and raised to the sublime degree of M.M. On resuming to first degree, the I.P.M. called the attention of the brethren to the Stewardship of the W.M. at the approaching Festival of the R.M.I.B., and expressed a hope that he might be well supported by contributions, and that his list would bear a favourable comparison with that of his predecessors in the chair. The W.M. informed the members that it required only five guineas to make the Master of the Lodge a Vice President; he thought that by placing the P.G.L. vote of five guineas in the name of the Master, the Lodge vote of ten guineas might be placed in the name of the J.W., as the S.W. was already a Life Governor. The consideration of the subject will be renewed at the next Lodge. After the customary salutations and formalities Lodge was closed.

Beacontree Lodge, No. 1228.—A meeting of the above Lodge took place on Wednesday, 11th May, at 5 p.m., at the Red Lion Rooms, in the pretty suburban village of Leytonstone, with Bro. Pigé in the chair. J. Allinson S.W., C. Vile Treasurer, J. Gullichon J.W., J. Reed S.D., W. Helmor I.G., P.M.'s Richards, Dobbs, Thark, Alcock, Angel and Turner. Minutes were read and confirmed. Proposed and carried unanimously that the Lodge should meet in the winter instead of the summer, and that a Committee be formed to revise the Bye-Laws. Lodge closed at 6 p.m., when the brethren retired to a sumptuous banquet, prepared for them by Bro. Barford P.M., to which they did full justice. Visitors—Bros. Dr. Corrie Jackson W.M. 534 Polish National, Edenger P.M. Eastern Star, A. Meads S.D. Good Fellowship, J. Britton Yarborough. Bro. Alcock P.M. said he thought it wise to make this a winter, instead of a summer Lodge, and that he and the other P.M.'s would always be most happy to afford instruction to any of the junior members.

Friars Lodge of Instruction, No. 1339.—Held at Brother Pavitt's, the Liverpool Arms, Canning Town, on Tuesday last. Bros. Pavitt W.M., Smith S.W., Barker J.W., Peterken S.D., Ives J.D., Browne I.G., Worsley Secretary, P.M. Musto Preceptor; Bros. McGeorge, Brownsom, MacGregor, Watkins, Bailey, Roddam, Wyles, Tabor, P.M. Myers, &c. Lodge was opened in due form and minutes were read. Bro. Tabor answered the necessary questions, and the Lodge opened in the second degree, when the ceremony of passing was rehearsed. Bro. Worsley worked the first, second, third, and fourth sections of the Lecture. Bro. Tabor of Prosperity Lodge, No. 65, was elected a member. Bro. Smith W.M. 860, will occupy the chair on Tuesday next, and will rehearse the third ceremony. The installation ceremony will be rehearsed here on Tuesday, 31st inst., by the well-known P.M. and Preceptor Bro. Myers. We would recommend a visit on this evening. This Lodge of Instruction is now increasing in numbers every week, a result of the excellent working of those associated in its management. Those brethren who require instruction will find the Preceptor ever ready to impart the same to any member of the Craft desirous of getting on.

Old England Lodge, No. 1790.—At the monthly meeting of this Lodge, held at the Masonic Hall, Thornton Heath, on Monday, the 9th inst., Bros. Foulsham I.P.M. P.P.G. J.W. Northumberland officiated as W.M., in the absence of Bro. Buckworth; Harland S.W., Pascall J.W., Whittaker S.D., Shonfeld J.D., Baber Secretary, Sargeant I.G., Bavin Tyler, Daniel P.M., Fleming, Clarke, White, Ranson, Legg, Ridpath, Sparrow, Haskins, and Tutton; Visitor Bro. Ridge J.W. 463. After preliminaries, Messrs. James Burnham and W. Hinson were balloted for, elected, and presented for initiation; the ceremony was performed by the W.M. Bro. Haskins was then questioned, and passed to the degree of F.C. Bro. Tutton answered the questions, and was raised to the sublime degree of M.M. The Lodge having been closed to the first degree, the byelaws were read by the Secretary, and it was announced that five brethren were eligible for the office of W.M. for the ensuing year; the election, however, was unanimous in favour of Bro. Harland S.W. Bro. Foulsham was re-elected Treasurer, and Bro. Bavin Tyler for the ensuing year. Bro. Harland, in thanking the brethren for their unanimous vote, said that, as a young Mason, he would use his best endeavours to deserve the trust they had reposed in him. He would be as constant in his attendance as it was possible, and hoped during his year of office, with the assistance of the Officers, to give satisfaction. Bro. Foulsham, as one of the founders of the Lodge with Bro. Harland, could not keep silent on this occasion; he was sure that when Bro. Harland was installed as W.M. of Old England Lodge, he would give satisfaction, and perform his duties in accordance with the wishes of the brethren, who must know something of his working, or they would not be so happy in their unity. Personally he would give Bro. Harland all the assistance in his power. The Lodge being one of his creation, he did not mind what labour he might be called upon to do to further the interests of a Lodge of which he was so proud. The Audit Committee was appointed, and a gentleman proposed for initiation. After hearty good wishes had been expressed by Bros. Daniel and Ridge, Lodge was closed in due form.

Northern Counties Lodge No. 406.—The first meeting since the installation took place on the 4th ult., at the Masonic Hall, Maple-street, Newcastle-on-Tyne. The Lodge was opened by the W.M. Bro. R. G. Salmon P.G.A.D.C., assisted by the following Officers—John Page I.P.M., S. M. Harris S.W., G. Dunford J.W., John Ridsdale P.M. Treasurer, J. S. B. Bell Secretary, R. W. Sisson S.D., G. W. Sisson, J.D., Duncan McDonald as I.G., W. M. Lion J.S., and G. Sims Tyler. There being no business of any importance the Lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to refreshment.

FREEMASONRY IN PHILADELPHIA..

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I have been favoured with a letter from Bro. Jacob Norton, in which he very kindly encloses transcript of one of the many so-called exposures of Masonry which have, from time to time, been published. This particular exposure appeared in the Pennsylvania Gazette, 8th December 1730, and the introduction gives one the idea that the body of the document must be one and the same with that which was described some time last year by Bro. A. in the columns of your contemporary the Freemason. It reads thus:—

"By the death of a gentleman who was one of the Brotherhood of Free-masons, there has lately happened a discovery of abundance of their secret signes and wonders with the mystic fraternity. The following is a true copy of a manuscript which the deceased had written for the benefit of his own private remembrance, and which was found concealed among his choicest papers in the most hidden part of his cabinet. The world had long admired that in such numerous company, many of them not remarkable for taciturnity, there had been not one found that in his cups or in any other circumstance would discover their mysteries; but the whole appears so childish and ridiculous that this is probably the case,—their grand secret is, that they have no secret at all; and once a man is enter'd, he finds himself obliged to be its defender to carry on the jest with as solemn a face as the rest. We shall not use many words to persuade the public that the following piece is genuine; it carries all the marks of truth in itself. We would only refer the reader to the conduct of the Brotherhood upon occasions; if they ridicule it, or look grave upon it, he may be satisfied it is the real truth."

Bro. Norton writes, "The above is a transcript of Franklin's introduction to the document discovered" by Bro. A. "in the Guildhall Library, and on comparing with the preface in the original you must become convinced that Franklin was not a Mason in December 1730. I hope, therefore, that Bro. PHILADELPHOS will do me justice by acknowledging publicly that when all things are taken into consideration, there is not a particle of evidence in existence to prove the legality of Pennsylvanian Masonry before 1749."

I am sure Bro. Norton will give me credit for not being so bigoted to my own opinions as to refuse to accept anything in the shape of evidence, even though it should go towards negatising the views I take. But will Bro. Norton have the kindness to point out how the fact of Franklin not being a Mason in December 1730 destroys "the legality of Pennsylvanian Masonry before 1749?" Does it disprove—

(1) The authenticity of the Coxe Deputation in 1730;

(2) That Coxe was present in the Grand Lodge, London, in 1731, and was described as Prov. G. Master of North America;

(3) The accuracy of the announcement in the Pennsylvania Gazette, of 1732, as to the meeting of brethren in Philadelphia on one or more occasions in that year.

It is very possible, and, I am willing to add, very far from being improbable, that Franklin was not a Mason when he sanctioned the publication, in his own paper, of the exposure to which the above note was meant as an introduction; but, speaking for the moment from memory, I believe he was said, according to the very same Pennsylvania Gazette, to have been appointed S.W. in January 1732. Moreover, on the same assumption as before, that Franklin was not a Mason in December 1730, the very same number of the said gazette in which the exposure appeared contained notices that certain Lodges occasionally met in Philadelphia in 1730. There is, too, the further probability that it was because there were Masonic meetings in that year in Philadelphia that Franklin allowed the publication of the exposure—if he were not a Mason—for the purpose of holding it up to ridicule; or, if he were a Mason, to direct the natural curiosity of the Philadelphia public into a wrong channel. The public and the Masons must have enjoyed the joke hugely, and no one of the former could have been a bit the wiser in reality. I must also ask Bro. Norton to concede thus much. Franklin, we will say, not being a Mason in December 1730, sanctioned the publication of this burlesque on Masonry. Would he have sanctioned the announcement in June 1732 of his appointment as Senior Warden had he not been a Mason and so appointed.

There is necessarily much obscurity about the early doings of Freemasonry everywhere, but before I can reject Pennsylvanian Freemasonry before 1749, I must have some further evidence than the not unlikely argument that Franklin when he published this Masonic Burlesque in December 1730 was not a Mason.

Fraternally yours,

PHILADELPHOS.

A MYSTERIOUS MURDER.

FROM THE MASONIC REVIEW, APRIL 1881.

THE Daily Press contains the following account of a singular murder in Iowa, which may or may not have some connection with the Morgan affair:

The mysterious murder in Iowa of a son of Judge Gillis—so well known to many Philadelphians and Pennsylvanians—brings to mind recollections of a once famous character, and of the famous anti-Masonic excitement, and even gives colour to the suspicion that the death of Morgan is being avenged even at this late day.

As far back as 1820 the attention of Philadelphia capitalists was drawn to the great lumber regions of the north-western part of the State, and among the number was John J. Ridgway, a leading banker of this city. They purchased large tracts of land in what is now Elk county, and held them for many years. At this day Elk county borders on the oil regions, produces large quantities of lumber and coal, contains the largest tanneries in the world, the biggest trout and the most deer and game east of the Rocky Mountains. Philadelphia capital is still largely interested in the products of the county and in the development of its natural resources Philadelphians have made much money. As far back as 1823, when the whole section of the country was an empire of woodland, it sometimes happened that Philadelphia gentlemen spent the summer in travelling over their estates in the backwoods. On these occasions they met a typical frontiersman, who went with them on fishing and hunting excursions. He was an energetic, pushing young fellow of thirty-five, quite well to do in the world, a tanner by trade, and a soldier of the war of 1812, who had suffered in British prisons. He had lived in Western New York and Pennsylvania, knew every foot of ground in the tremendous expanse of forest, and was a shrewd intelligent man. His name was James L. Gillis, and he afterward became a County Judge, a member of the House and Senate at Harrisburg, and finally a member of Congress. In the last generation he was as well known as any man in the State, and he had friends in every part of the Union. After serving in Congress, and acting for two years as Indian Agent for the Pawnee Tribe, Judge Gillis removed to Mt Pleasant, Iowa, where he now resides, nearly one hundred years old.

In 1826 William Morgan was a good for nothing tailor in the town of Batavia, Western New York. He had belonged to the Order of Freemasons, and it became known that, with the assistance of a country editor, he was preparing an exposé of the secrets of the Order. Morgan suddenly disappeared, and it was said was drowned in Lake Ontario. The people of this day can have but little idea of the excitment this case caused. There was almost a rebellion in New York, and the affair gave rise to the formation of the anti-Masonic party, which polled 33,000 votes in New York State in 1828, 70,000 votes in 1829, and 128,000 in 1830. The Presidential candidate of the party carried Vermont in 1832, and defeated the Clay ticket in Ohio and New Jersey. In this State the party almost elected David Ritner Governor in 1832, and did elect him in 1835. At the time of the Morgan excitement James L. Gillis was a prominent Freemason in Western New York, and, with others, was charged with the murder of Morgan. He was tried for the crime but was acquitted.

Judge Gillis had almost forgotten the prominence that was given him in the Morgan matter, when a few years ago one of his sons, Ridgway Gillis, was called to the door of his father's Iowa residence and assassinated. No clue could be found to the perpetrator of the deed, nor could any reason whatever be given for its commission, and it has ever since remained an unfathomable mystery. Now an exactly similar fate has met Judge Gillis' other son, Charles. One evening last week father and son were seated in the parlour of their Mt Pleasant home, when a low knock was heard at the door. Charles Gillis got up and opened the door. The Judge heard a few words of low conversation, and then a ringing pistol shot, a cry of pain from his son, and a heavy fall. Sick and trembling, Judge Gillis rose to his feet, and staggering into the hall, saw his son lying bleeding on the floor, shot through the heart. He cried for help, and that moment his son's wife, who had been out a few minutes on an errand, ran into the house and stumbled over the dead body of her husband. The assassin was gone, and there is little possibility of discovering him.

The murdered man was not known to have any enemies. As in his brother's case, there was no apparent motive for the crime, and the murderer did his work with the same deadly certainty and escaped. There must have been some terrible incentive for these two brutal murders, and many of Judge Gillis' friends in the East firmly believe the tragedies have a connection with the celebrated Morgan murder or abduction of fifty-five years ago. Many believe the friends of Morgan are visiting vengeance on the head of the venerable Judge Gillis, half a century after his supposed connection with that affair, by murdering his sons.

FREEMAN'S CHLORODYNE.

The Original and only true.

HUNDREDS of Medical Practitioners testify to its marvellous efficacy in immediately relieving and rapidly curing Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Neuralgia, Spasms, Colic, Whooping Cough, and all Nerve Pains. It acts like a charm in Diarrhœa, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery. It rapidly relieves pain, from whatever cause, soothes and strengthens the system under exhausting diseases, and gives quiet and refreshing sleep.

Lord Chancellor Selborne, Lord Justice James, Lord Justice Mellish decided in favour of FREEMAN'S ORIGINAL CHLORODYNE, and against Brown and Davenport, compelling them to pay all costs in the suits. See Times of July 24th, 1873. Bottles 1s 1½d, 2s 9d, 4s 6d, 11s, and 20s. Sold by all Chemists.

TESTIMONIALS.—Head Quarter Staff, Cabul, May 31st, 1880. Mr. R. Freeman, Dear Sir,—It is with much pleasure I am able to state that your Chlorodyne has been of special service to me in alleviating the wearisome spasms of Asthma, which is here existent in an aggravated form. Many of my patients now come and beg me to give them that medicine which always relieves them, and which I need hardly say is your Chlorodyne. Yours faithfully, CHARLES W. OWEN, L.R.C.P. Lon., M.R.C.S. Eng., the Divisional Head Quarter Staff and Civil Surgeon, Cabul.

The Times, August 19th, 1877. From our own Correspondent with the Russian Army. Osoum, July 25th, 1877. The want of sanitary arrangements in the Russian Camp was dreadful, and had we remained there a few weeks longer, dysentery and typhoid fever would have played more havoc in our ranks than the bombs of the Turks. I myself acquired an unenviable reputation as a doctor, owing to my being provided with a small bottle of CHLORODYNE, with which I effected miraculous cures.

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

Acacia Lodge, No. 1314.—The regular meeting of this flourishing Lodge was held on the 10th inst., at the Bell Hotel, Bromley, under the presidency of Bro. S. Carrington W.M. Bros. J. Harvey S.W., J. Wyer P.M. as J.W., A. Avery P.P.G.R. Kent Treasurer, E. Coste P.M. P.P.G.D.C. Secretary, W. Carrington S.D., Bond J.D., E. Harvey I.G., Kift Organist, Keyse A.D.C. P.M.'s Bros. Seaman P.G.S., J. Wyer. Visitors—Bros. D. H. Jacobs P.M. 27, Jones 27, R. Fowler 754, C. Nott P.M. 87, J. H. Tustin 1627, H. Sharpe 1669, Anley 177, J. Swinyard 1697, H. M. Levy P.M. 188, Hawes, and Hartshorn. Lodge was opened, and the minutes were read and confirmed. Mr. A. G. Winson was balloted for, and duly initiated into the Order. Bro. R. Carrington answered the questions satisfactorily and was raised to the third degree. Both ceremonies were perfectly rendered by the W.M. Bro. Harvey S.W. was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing year, Bro. E. Coste P.P.G.D.C. Kent was re-elected Treasurer, and Bro. Bavin Tyler. The W.M. elect, in an able speech, returned thanks for the honour conferred on him. Some appropriate remarks followed from Bro. A. Avery P.P.G.R. Kent. Bro. Wyer P.M. proposed that a P.M.'s jewel be presented to the retiring W.M., for the able and efficient manner he had upheld the dignity of the Lodge. This was seconded by Bro. Seaman P.M., and carried unanimously. Lodge was then closed until the second Tuesday in July. The brethren sat down to a very excellent banquet and dessert, provided by Bro. Sutton. A loving cup was passed round. The same was presented by Bro. S. Carrington W.M. on his installation. The W.M. proposed the usual toasts. In speaking to the toast of the R.W. Viscount Holmesdale P.G.M. of Kent, he said, that as this Lodge was in his province, he hoped to see that distinguished nobleman honour the brethren with his presence. (A Kentish fire was given). The toast of the R.W. D.P.G.M. Bro. Eastes and the rest of the Grand Officers was the next on the list. The W.M. felt it was a great honour to be able to say the Lodge had now had three Provincial Grand Officers belonging to it—Bros. E. Coste, A. Avery, and Seaman. Each of these brethren the members were proud of. Bro. A. Avery responded to the toast. In the course of his remarks, he announced that he was again about to act as Steward for the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, the Anniversary Festival of which Institution would take place on the 18th of May. He hoped he should have the support of the brethren. Bro. Seaman P.M. said it was some time since he was the I.P.M. However, that night he felt a great pleasure in proposing the toast of the W.M. He would repeat the words he had often uttered, Wait and work, and work and wait. That night Bro. Carrington presided over them for the last time. Personally, he (Bro. Seaman) was pleased with him. As one of the Founders of the Lodge he had seen the progress it had made during the last two or three years, and he felt greatly pleased to see the way in which Bro. Carrington had worked the third degree. He would call on the brethren to give a hearty reception to the toast. The P.M.'s, on his retirement, would be pleased to welcome him into their ranks. The W.M., in response, thanked Bro. Seaman for his kind expressions, and expressed himself much gratified at the hearty reception given him by the brethren. He always had an ardent wish to occupy the chair, and when he had secured that position his principal aim was to gain the members' satisfaction. He felt it a great honour to learn that they had proposed that a jewel should be presented him; he would wear it with great pride, as evidencing his having been associated with this Lodge. The words of Bro. Seaman, that the Past Masters would be pleased to welcome him among them, he felt as an additional honour; he would reciprocate by saying, he trusted to be among them for many years. The health of the newly initiated Bro. Winson came next on the list. The W.M. said the toast was a very pleasing one for him to offer; he trusted the step their new brother had taken would never be regretted. Personally he had known Brother Winson for a lengthened period, and he was convinced he would become a credit to the Order. Bro. Winson briefly returned thanks; he had often wished to be made a Mason, and now his wish was realised he hoped he might become a credit to the Acacia Lodge, and indeed to the Craft in general. The next one complimented was the W.M. elect. Bro. Carrington was sure he would fill the chair so as to sustain the credit of the Lodge. He would find the Past Masters would support him. This toast was ably responded to by Bro. Harvey. With the toast of the Visitors was coupled the name of Bro. D. D. Jacobs P.M. 27, who eloquently returned thanks. The toast of the Past Masters followed; the W.M. had spoken of them in a general way, but he now referred to them individually. No better could be found. The brethren had seen how they had assisted him, and they had done the like for his predecessor, and would be ready to do so again. On Bro. Wyer devolved the duty of responding. In the name of the Past Masters, he could say their services would always be at command; they were ready and willing to assist the W.M. to promote the welfare of the Lodge. In speaking of the Officers of the Acacia Lodge, the W.M. made special reference to Bros. Avery Treasurer, and E. Coste P.M. Secretary, whose good qualities were well known. The Wardens and Junior Officers had likewise done their duty ably. Personally, he had to thank them for their kind assistance to him. After Bros. Coste and Harvey had responded, the Tyler's toast was given. In the course of the proceedings some excellent harmony was contributed by Bros. Kift, D. H. Jacobs, and Tremaire. Bros. A. Avery P.M. and Keyes diligently looked after the comforts of the brethren.

Lodge was opened and closed in the third degree, when Bro. Daniell was re-admitted. Lodge was closed in the second degree. Bro. Tucker was unanimously elected to fill the chair of K.S. on 13th inst. "We have companies for all sorts of things: why do not some philanthropic gentlemen start an association for lending money to embarrassed traders and housekeepers at ten per cent. interest? There are a number of people now getting three per cent. for their money in Consols who would be glad to invest it in an enterprise in which, if properly managed, there would be no risk whatever, and a certainty of earning eight or nine per cent. profit. Properly managed, such an association, worked on a large scale, would be an immense boon to people struggling with temporary difficulties, and would pay a handsome return to those who invested their money in Shares."

THE FESTIVAL OF THE MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS.

THE Ninety-third Anniversary Festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls was held at the Great Hall of the Freemasons' Tavern, on Wednesday evening. Sir M. Hicks-Beach, Bart., M.P., Provincial Grand Master of Gloucestershire, occupied the chair, and was supported right and left by Colonel Sir Francis Burdett, Bart., Provincial Grand Master Middlesex, and Sir Henry Edwards, Bart., Provincial Grand Master West Yorkshire, with other influential brethren. The number of those present, irrespective of the ladies, may be reckoned at 400. The banquet was of the usual character, and, as invariably happens with those which are served at Bro. Best's well-known hostelry, under the able direction of Bro. Dawkins, gave the greatest satisfaction. The Band of the Boys' School did their best to enliven the proceedings during dinner, and there was the customary Concert in the Temple afterwards, under the direction of Madame Thaddeus Wells. These matters, however, are sufficiently described in the report we give of the whole proceedings in another column; so that we shall not be at the trouble of more than recapitulating them here. Neither shall we attempt anything like our regular Analysis of the Subscription List, having regard to the lateness at which it of necessity reaches us. We shall content ourselves with a few comments of a general character.

It must be allowed that the Festival which is just past has proved a greater success than very many were led to expect, and on this ground, if on no other, we should feel it our duty to congratulate the Chairman, the Board of Stewards, and the Secretary, Bro. Hedges, on the result of their joint efforts. We have already said that the appearance of Sir M. Hicks-Beach, in the character of Chairman on this occasion, would have to be regarded as his maiden effort as a chosen leader among Craftsmen, and we are glad it is in our power to record that this effort has proved of such advantage to the Girls' School. The Board of Stewards mustered exactly 260 strong, a number which, albeit inferior to that of last year, is, as we remarked last week, greater than it has ever been at any previous Festival. The fact that the total of the subscriptions, as announced by Bro. Hedges, was as nearly as possible £11,500, shows how well and worthily the brethren who gave their services on this Board must have exerted themselves, in order to have realised so capital a sum, while Bro. Hedges cannot be otherwise than satisfied that, at the three Festivals which have occurred since his appointment to the post of Secretary, he has been able to announce results amounting in the aggregate to over £36,800, or rather more than an average of £12,266 per Festival. We do not always agree with our worthy brother's policy. There are those who think he would do better to follow the example which has been pursued so successfully by his brother Secretaries. But we should act most unjustly if we thought for one moment of withholding from him the great praise to which he is so justly entitled. If we are to judge, as is done in other cases, of Bro. Hedges's pudding by the eating, it cannot be denied it is a most excellent composition. That he should have scored, as he has, within a few months of Bro. Terry's great achievement, and maintained his reputation so well as to be almost level with the result of his first Festival, and, all circumstances considered, so close up to what it was last year, when Prince Leopold presided, is very greatly to his credit. We trust he will always have as excellent a record to point to.

We have said we have no intention in the present instance of attempting anything like an analysis of the List. We cannot, however, allow this opportunity to pass without offering our special congratulations to the Province of Gloucestershire. We have pointed out that it is but a modest Province—modest, that is to say, as to the number of its Lodges, and the extent of its membership. It has but fourteen Lodges, and its subscribing members, all told, are but 578, but it commissioned no less than twenty-four Stewards, and these among them made up a total of £1,000. From the Report we publish of the Installation of Sir M. Hicks-Beach, it will be seen that the amount it was said the Province had raised was over £700, and on the motion of the new Deputy Prov. Grand Master, the further sum of £35 was voted out of the Grand Lodge funds. It was resolved this should be still further increased, and ultimately the amount we have stated was made up. This may be justly set down as about the grandest Provincial effort on record. Fourteen Lodges—twenty-four Stewards—£1,000. Nothing more than this need be said, at all events in this number. London has done well, with its one hundred and fourteen Stewards, and its contribution of £5,374 7s 6d, while the Provinces, omitting Gloucestershire, have sent up £4,884 17 4d, these amounts making up the sum we announced at first, namely, not so very far short of £11,500. We may as well note, however, that for all its brilliant efforts in February, West Yorkshire is well up to the mark, with a list of subscriptions amounting in all to £500. But we are forgetting our determination not to attempt anything analytical, and if we continue in this strain we shall find ourselves launched upon a full-length sketch, to which, at so short a notice, and with so little time for preparation, we are hardly likely to do justice. We repeat, that we are well satisfied with the result of Wednesday's proceedings, and we renew our congratulations to all who have had a share in producing so excellent a result.

THE REPORT OF THE ROYAL MASONIC BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION.

WE publish in another part of our columns the report which was yesterday submitted to and approved by the General Committee of the Governors and Subscribers of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution. The salient features are worth noting. The total amount of the subscriptions at the Festival in February, when R.W. Bro. Sir H. Edwards, Bart., P.G.M. West Yorkshire, occupied the chair, is stated as £14,360. The number of annuitants during the past year was 150 males and 155 females, and it has been agreed to increase these to 155 males and 160 females, or together, 315; while there are likewise fourteen widows in receipt each of the half of her late husband's annuity, so that the outlay on this account to which the Institution is committed now amounts to £11,600. The number of vacancies originally to be balloted for at yesterday's election was thirteen men and seven widows, and the number of approved candidates was thirty-seven men and sixty-one women. Seven men and three widows have died in the interim, so that with the additional five men and five women agreed to be elected, the number to be balloted for were twenty-five men by thirty-seven candidates, and fifteen widows by sixty-one candidates. The result of the contest will be found elsewhere in the present number.

The accounts speak for themselves. The total Receipts Male Fund, including a Balance forward of £4,023 1s, amount to £15,576 12s 5d. The Disbursements, including £2,000 "Placed at Call," and for purchase of stock £1,976 5s, reach £10,841 17s 5d, leaving a balance to the good of £4,734 15s. On the Widows' Fund the Receipts, with Balance forward of £2,035 3s 8d included, amount to £10,588 3s 11d, while the Disbursements, among which will be found £1,000 "Placed at Call," are £7,244 17s 10d, so that the Balance in hand is £3,343 6s 1d. If to these be added the Balance of £34 16s 4d on the Sustentation Fund, the Total Balance will be found to be no less than £8,112 17s 5d. The total Stock to the credit of the Institution is £60,525, the interest on which is £2,722 19s 11d. These sums are thus distributed—Male Fund, Stock £36,950, interest £1,681 18s; Widows' Fund, Stock £22,575, interest £1,011 1s 11d; Sustentation Fund Stock £1,000, interest £30. More satisfactory evidence than this it is impossible to wish for, in order to show the progress made by an Institution which even now has not been in existence more than thirty-nine years. We have no doubt that with the skilful management which has been shown during the last few years, this prosperous state of things will continue.

GRAND MARK LODGE.

ON Tuesday, 31st instant, will be held the Summer Half-yearly Communication of the Grand Lodge of Mark Master Masons of England and Wales and the Colonies and Dependencies of the British Crown. It is expected the meeting will be an unusually brilliant one, not only from the distinguished brethren of the Degree, who, in all probability, will be present and take part in the proceedings, but likewise because it is now just five-and-twenty years since the Grand Mark Lodge, with Lord Leigh as its first Grand Master, was established. Every one of the brethren who has since occupied the Mark throne, has been also a distinguished Craft Mason. Lord Leigh, it must be remembered, was chosen Grand Mark Master Mason as being a staunch Constitutional Mason, and was, as he is still, Provincial Grand Master of Warwickshire. His several successors, who all happily remain among us in full bodily and Masonic vigour, include among Craft celebrities, Bros. Viscount Holmesdale Prov. Grand Master Kent, W. W. B. Beach, M.P., Prov. Grand Master Hants and Isle of Wight, the Rev. G. Raymond Portal, the Earl of Carnarvon Pro Grand Master and Prov. Grand Master Somersetshire, the Earl Percy, M.P., Prov. Grand Master Northumberland, the Earl of Limerick Prov. Grand Master Bristol, and the Earl of Lathom Prov. Grand Master of West Lancashire. That under the auspices of these successive distinguished chiefs the Degree has flourished, even, perhaps, beyond the most sanguine expectations of its supporters and well-wishers, must be manifest when we bear in mind that there are over 250 Lodges on the roll of Grand Lodge, with a total subscribing membership of in round figures 12,000. It has its own Benevolent Fund, the annual festival of which may be expected to bring in an ever-increasing amount, which will, at least, not fall short of the proceeds of last year's gathering, when over £560 was subscribed. New Lodges are being occasionally consecrated, several new Provinces have been organised, and there is every reason to expect that its popularity will become greater year by year. Thus, the meeting of the 31st instant will, for the reasons we have specified, be looked forward to with much interest, an interest which will be intensified when we announce to our Mark friends, as we are in a position to do, that not only will the Earl of Lathom Grand Mark Master Mason preside and instal his successor, Lord Henniker Grand Mark Master Mason elect, but it is understood and expected that Lord Holmesdale, Lord Leigh, Bro. W. W. B. Beach, M.P., and Bro. Rev. G. R. Portal—all Past Grand Masters—will be present, together with the Earl of Kintore, Lord Arthur Hill, M.P., and other influential members of the Order. Of course, the installation of a New Grand Master is an event, which, happening as it does only once in three years, is sure to attract a more than usually strong concourse of brethren. Then the appointment and investiture of Grand Officers lends an additional excitement to those present, and the fact of the outgoing Grand Master being our respected Brother the Earl of Lathom, while the new G. Master elect is the justly popular Lord Henniker, will commensurately increase the importance of Tuesday week's Communication. But above and beyond the different points we have enumerated as being certain to enlist the sympathies of all good Constitutional and Mark Masons, we trust the meeting will be a brilliant success for the sake of Mark Masonry itself, which, if not included as an integral part of Ancient and Accepted Masonry, as defined by the Constitutions of the Craft Grand Lodge of England, is, nevertheless, a worthy and in every respect a reputable degree in Masonry.

THE ANNUAL FETE OF THE MASONIC ORPHAN SCHOOLS, DUBLIN.

WE publish elsewhere a full account of the annual gathering in connection with the Masonic Orphan Schools, Dublin, on Thursday, the 12th instant. His Grace the Duke of Abercorn, Most Worshipful Grand Master, was unavoidably absent, and consequently his place was taken by Bro. R. W. Shekleton, Q.C., Deputy Grand Master, who was numerously supported by the Grand Officers, Masters, and Past Masters, &c., of the Craft, as well as a strong muster of the fair sex, who evinced, as usual, the deepest interest in the proceedings. Moreover, there was the additional attraction that the Countess Cowper, wife of Bro. the Earl of Cowper, the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, had graciously arranged to distribute the prizes, and her presence lent an additional charm to the occasion. The proceedings were of a more than usually interesting character. A new building is in course of erection, and we can sincerely congratulate our Irish brethren on the success which has attended their efforts. It is less than a year since the foundation-stone was laid by the Grand Master, in the presence of their Excellencies the Earl and Countess Cowper, yet such is the progress that has been made, that it is confidently anticipated the building will be completed and ready for occupation early in 1882. The greatest care would seem to have been taken so as to incur no unnecessary or avoidable expense, and it is believed that when the premises are complete, the cost will not be found to have exceeded the original estimate of £12,000. In order to meet this outlay, the greatest exertions have been made to secure the amount, and up to the 4th instant there were promised subscriptions amounting in the aggregate to £10,553 5s, of which £7,353 7s 8d had actually been paid. But when the estimated amount has been received, and the building completed, a further £2000 will be necessary in order to make the latter habitable. Thus the Governors, who have resolved on carrying out the work without trenching upon the invested capital, have their work before them, and it may be as well if they take especial notice of a point noticed by Bro. C. Macnamara, LL.D., the Hon. Secretary of the Fund, namely, that "though the amount already given is so large, the number of individual donors is comparatively very small; and although the orphans of Provincial brethren who are received into the School far outnumber those from Dublin, the subscriptions from the country, especially from the North of Ireland, are not in due proportion to the sums received from the Dublin members of the Order." There is nothing unusual, we regret to say, about this. It happens here, as in the Emerald Isle, that those who seek the largest share of benefits, are often the least forward in subscribing. Possibly, however, our Provincial Irish brethren will show a laudable desire to disturb this unequal arrangement, and that they will bring their subscriptions more nearly on a level with the benefits they do not hesitate to receive from the Institution. It would be as well also if the Craft generally bore in mind this further statement in Bro. Macnamara's report, namely, that "the number of subscribing brethren in Ireland is so large, that if all, or even a majority, could be induced to subscribe a small sum each, an ample endowment for the Schools would be obtained." This is, in effect, what we have again and again said in reference to our own Institutions, that if each subscribing Mason would only give five shillings annually to each of them, there would be ample to support them, and even to extend their sphere of operations. We must not omit to mention that, with a view to increasing the amount necessary to fit and furnish the new building, it is proposed to hold a Fancy Fair and Bazaar in the early part of the ensuing year, and we doubt not the fair ladies of Erin will be only too happy to contribute of their skill and by their presence in order to ensure its success.

As to the distribution of prizes by the Countess Cowper, we give the names of the fortunate recipients in our report, and we need only remark that the kindly office was most ably fulfilled by Her Excellency. At the same time it is but fair to the girl pupils who were called upon to give a display of their musical training to say, that they acquitted themselves in a manner which secured for them the well-merited appreciation of all present. Everything passed off most satisfactorily, and what with the ladies and their bright costumes, and the brethren with their splendid jewels and badges, it is difficult to picture a scene that could well have been more brilliant or more animated. The only drawback on the general enjoyment was the announcement that owing to the falling off in the subscriptions, there had been an excess of expenditure over income to the extent of over £600. We trust this shortcoming will be remedied by a larger and more liberal influx of subscriptions and donations in the course of this year.

THE LATE PUPILS' ASSISTANCE FUND.

WE have to announce that the project for establishing a Fund, to be known as the Royal Masonic Pupils' Assistance Fund, has been abandoned. We do so with regret; but at the same time we are unable to say we are very far from being surprised that the duty of making this announcement should at length have devolved upon us. At the outset, we cordially supported the idea, which, as our readers are well aware, was enunciated by the Earl of Rosslyn when he presided at the Festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys in 1879. His Lordship expressed an opinion to the effect that, admirable as were the arrangements made for the education of our orphan children, there was still a something wanting in order to make those arrangements complete. That something was a fund for providing worthy pupils on leaving school who needed help and some little assistance in making their start in life. The idea found favour in influential quarters, and well-nigh all our illustrious and most distinguished Craftsmen readily promised it their support. Everything within reason was done to secure the success of the project, and in the summer of last year a grand Fancy Fair and Bazaar was held for the purpose of still further increasing the Fund. This Bazaar was opened by the Earl of Lathom D.G.M., who was supported by the Earl of Rosslyn, Lord Brooke, M.P., and other brethren of influence. Almost every variety of entertainment was provided, and, to all appearances, there was a considerable amount of success attending the festive gathering. But, from the close of the Bazaar, for reasons which we do not know, and into the merits of which it is no business of ours to inquire, a change would seem to have come o'er the spirit of the dream of those interested. The very praiseworthy zeal exhibited in starting the Fund was, as it were by magic, converted into a complete apathy in supporting it. We believe the Bazaar Committee met and ordered a settlement of accounts. We are under the impression that some kind of statement of accounts has, at some time or other, been furnished; at least, we have heard that the proceeds of the Fair and Bazaar were just sufficient to pay the expenses of organising the Fund. Some time since, the surplus articles of the Bazaar were balloted for, and on Wednesday, the 11th instant, a final meeting of the Committee was held, when it was agreed that the project which had once looked so very promising should be abandoned. We naturally regret this result, and the more so because we so steadily and consistently advocated the establishment of the Fund. We content ourselves, however, with recording the above facts; others must endeavour to find out to what cause they are assignable.

It is an ill wind that blows nobody any good; and although the proposal originated by the Earl of Rosslyn has fallen through, the main idea has not been lost sight of by the authorities of our Schools. Till recently the utmost which it was in the power of the Executive of either of these Institutions to award to even the most necessitous and deserving case was a sum of £20. However, since the Pupils' Fund was proposed, the law has been altered, and in case of extreme merit, the sum of £40 can be voted to a single pupil, Boy or Girl, on leaving School; and for this much, at all events, we are indebted, in the first instance, to the Earl of Rosslyn for suggesting an Assistance Fund, and in the next, to those who so actively and zealously assisted his Lordship.

It remains for the Committee to ascertain the wishes of the subscribers as to what shall be done with their several contributions. If they wish them returned, our respected Brother the Rev. C. J. Martyn (Deputy Provincial Grand Master Suffolk, Past Grand Chaplain), Honorary Treasurer, will refund them. If they wish them to be handed over to either of our existing Masonic Charities, they have but to indicate the Institution to which they would have them devoted, and effect will be given to their wishes; while, if they are content to leave the moneys where they are, then in due course they will be distributed among deserving pupils, who are on the point of leaving School. All letters to this effect will receive the attention they deserve. And thus is determined a most worthy project, which, at one time, bid fair to prove a magnificent success.

CONSTITUTION OF THE NEW MASONIC LODGE AT PORTSMOUTH.

THE arrangements for the constitution of the Prince Edward of Saxe Weimar Lodge, No. 1903, of the Ancient, Free, and Accepted Masons of England, have now been completed. The ceremonies of constitution and installation will be conducted by the R.W. Bro. W. W. B. Beach, M.P., P.G.M. of Hampshire and the Isle of Wight, assisted by V.W. Bro. W. Hickman D.P.G.M., and the Grand Officers of the Province, in the Lecture Hall, Penny-street, on Wednesday, 25th inst. A special fast train from Waterloo, only stopping at Woking to pick up the Duke of Connaught and his equerry, will reach the Town Railway Station at 11.30 a.m., and His Royal Highness will be received by Commander Lord Charles Beresford W.M. designate, and four Officers of the Lodge. The party will drive to the Officers' house entrance on the Grand Parade, and on their entering the Lecture Hall the ceremonies will at once commence. A choir, under the leadership of Mr. J. Winterbottom, will perform the musical part of the ceremony, Bro. G. Jones P.G.O. accompanying on the harmonium. Master Masons are to enter the hall from Penny-street; Past Masters, Worshipful Masters, and Wardens from the High-street; and Present and Past Provincial Officers from the entrance on the Grand Parade. All brethren are to appear in evening dress. The Officers of the Lodge will be installed as follows:—Bros. Lord Chas. Beresford W.M., H. Townsend I.P.M., T. Page S.W., S. H. Carden, R.N., J.W., H. Threadingham Treasurer, A. Leon Emanuel Hon. Secretary, Rev. P. H. Good Chaplain, Knowles, R.N., S.D., Martyr J.D., Winterbottom Organist, Lind D.C., McLeod, R.E., I.G., H. Long and S. Knight Stewards, Mansell, R.N., and Carter Tylers. The ceremony, it is thought, will last until two o'clock, when the company will adjourn to the Drill Shed, Governor's Green, where a banquet will take place, under the presidency of Lord Charles Beresford, who will be supported by H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught and H.S.H. Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar. The company will, it is expected, include the Duke of St. Albans, Earl Mount-Edgcumbe, the Earl of March, Lord Tenderden, Admiral-Superintendent the Hon. F. A. C. Foley, Colonel Reilly, R.H.A., Captains Lord Albert Seymour and the Honourable C. G. Byng, and other Officers of the Grand Lodge of England. The Duke of Connaught will leave at five o'clock, by special train, to enable His Royal Highness to attend the State Ball. The entrance to the Lodge will be guarded by a force of police, and that to the Drill Shed by the military authorities. The band of the Royal Marine Artillery will play selections on Governor's Green. The banquetting room will be decorated with bunting, and the tables with choice cut flowers and potted plants, some of which will, through the kindness of Major General Sir Frederick Fitz Wygram, Bart., come from Leigh Park. A considerable number of brethren have, we understand, already given in their names as joining members of the Lodge, and numerous gentlemen are likewise nominated for initiations. Up to the present time gifts of the value of over £300 have been made to the Lodge by various members. The W.M. designate has presented colours, jewels, and gauntlets of superior workmanship, and the working tools to match have come from the officers and members. Already 400 tickets have been issued to the various Lodges in the Province for the ceremony of constitution, and by the time the returns have been received by the Honorary Secretary, the number will, it is expected, reach 800. It may be stated that Masons not belonging to a local Lodge can obtain tickets either for the constitution or the banquet on application to the Hon. Secretary (Bro. A. L. Emanuel, Ordnance-row, Portsea), or Bro. Townsend, the Naval Hotel, Portsea.—Portsmouth Times.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—Rheumatism and rheumatic gout are the most dreaded of all diseases, because their victims know that they are safe at no season and at no age secure. Holloway's Ointment, after fomentation of the painful parts, gives greater relief than any other application; but it must be diligently used to obtain this desirable result. It has been highly commended by rheumatic subjects of all ages and of both sexes for rendering their attacks less frequent and less vigorous, and for repressing the sour perspirations and soothing the nerves. In many cases, Holloway's Ointment and Pills have proved the greatest blessings in removing rheumatism and rheumatic gout which had assailed persons previously and at the prime of life.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE, GLOUCESTER.

INSTALLATION OF SIR MICHAEL HICKS-BEACH, BART., M.P.

THURSDAY was a "red letter day" in the annals of Freemasonry in Gloucestershire, and, indeed, in this part of the country. It is rarely that the installation of a Provincial Grand Master is witnessed, the appointment being permanent. So far as Gloucestershire is concerned, no such event has been witnessed during the past quarter of a century, or, indeed, since the charter for the county was issued. In 1856, in the month of May, if we mistake not, Gloucestershire became a Masonic Province under the Right Worshipful Brother the Right Hon. Lord Sherborne, who appointed Bro. George Frederick Newmarch his Very Worshipful Deputy, and under his guidance the Province has flourished until the present time. We announced some few months since that Lord Sherborne, from increasing age, and a desire for rest, had announced his intention of resigning his high office, and his determination was speedily followed by the resignation of his Deputy, Bro. Newmarch. On Thursday the Brethren assembled in great force at the Shirehall to witness the installation of, and to do honour to, their new chief, the Right Hon. Sir Michael E. Hicks-Beach, M.P. The assembly was a most brilliant one, and numbered from 600 to 700 brethren. They all wore the various insignia of the Craft. The installing Master, R.W. Brother the Earl of Lathom, Deputy Grand Master, was unable to attend in consequence of family bereavement, and his place was taken by the R.W.G.M. for Hants and the Isle of Wight, Brother W. W. B. Beach, M.P., who initiated Sir Michael 25 years ago, and who, attended by the Grand Officers and Provincial Grand Officers, entered the hall in procession and opened the Provincial Grand Lodge, the Installing Master being saluted according to ancient form. The following was the order of procession :—

The Provincial Grand Lodge of Bristol.
The Provincial Grand Lodge of Herefordshire.
The Provincial Grand Lodge of Monmouthshire.
The Provincial Grand Lodge of Wiltshire.
The Provincial Grand Lodge of Worcestershire.
Provincial Grand Lodge Officers of other Provinces.
Officers of Grand Lodge, and of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Gloucestershire :—
Past Provincial Grand Pursuivants, Organists, Sword Bearers, Directors of Ceremonies, Superintendents of Works, Grand Deacons, Secretary, Treasurer, Registrars, Chaplains, Wardens.
Past Deputy Provincial Grand Master.
Grand Sword Bearer.
The Deputy Grand Master.
The Installing Master.
Grand Deacon.

The Grand Lodge was constituted as follows :—Bros. W. H. Gwinnett P.M. P.P.S.G.W. S.W., T. Nelson Foster P.M. P.P.S.G.W. J.W., H. Godfrey P.M. P.P.S.G.W. S.D., W. P. Want P.M. P.P.J.G.W. J.D., H. Kynaston P.P.G.C. Chaplain, Russell J. Kerr P.M. P.P.S.G.W. Director of Ceremonies, E. H. Edgell P.M. P.P.G.J.D. Assist. Director of Ceremonies, John Bryan P.M. P.P.G.J.D., E. D. Worsley P.M. P.P.G. Super. of W., C. Tudway P.M. P.P.G.D.C., J. S. Olver P.M. P.P.G.S.B., C. Harford Lloyd P.P.G.O. Organist, T. Cadle P.M. P.P.G.P. Pursuivant. The minutes of the last Provincial Grand Lodge were read and confirmed, and the Installing Master addressed the Lodge, stating the object of the meeting. The Provincial Grand Pursuivant (Bro. T. Cadle) then announced the arrival of the R.W. the Provincial Grand Master Designate (Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, M.P.). The Right Hon. Baronet was introduced by a deputation of Masters and Past Masters. The P.G. Sec. (Bro. E. Trinder) read the Patent, and the Acting Provincial Grand Chaplain (Bro. the Rev. H. Kynaston) offered prayer. The R.W. Provincial Grand Master was then installed in due form, and proclaimed by the Director of Ceremonies. The W. Bro. J. Brook-Smith was appointed D.P.G.M. The other Officers of the Lodge were then appointed, and the business of the Grand Lodge was transacted. A banquet was subsequently held at the Corn Exchange, and was attended by between three and four hundred of the brethren. The repast was provided by Mr. and Mrs. Allen, of the Bell Hotel, and the catering gave general satisfaction. The R.W. the Prov. Grand Master, the Right Hon. Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, Bart., M.P., presided, and he was supported on his right by Bros. J. Brook-Smith, G. F. Newmarch, J. Walker, Baron de Ferrieres, M.P., Colonel Shadwell H. Clerke, Colonel Basevi, W. H. Gwinnett, S. G. Homfray, T. Nelson Foster, H. C. Tombs, and L. White; and on his left by Bros. W. W. B. Beach, M.P., Canon Millar, Lord Henry Thynne, M.P., J. E. Dorington, C. Raikes Davy, W. Godfrey, Rev. C. J. Martyn, Rev. W. E. Haddow, Rev. H. Kynaston, Rev. H. G. Layton, Rev. A. Williams, &c. The R.W. Provincial Grand Master said the first toast in all assemblies of Englishmen was that of The Queen. As loyal subjects they would always drink the health of her Majesty with great pleasure, but as Masons they were doubly glad to do so, and to couple with the toast that of the Craft. They remembered that in her Majesty they had not only a Constitutional Sovereign—one of the best, if not the best, that had ever occupied the Throne of these realms—but also a bright example of those virtues and sympathy for charity which as Masons they professed to admire. The Prov. Grand Master next proposed The Health of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, the Most Worshipful Grand Master. He said it was a bright day for the Craft when his Royal Highness consented to add to his other numerous avocations the duty of the office of Grand Master of the Freemasons of England. And worthily he filled that high and important office, and he was confident that the great interest he felt in the Craft was by no means diminished by lapse of time. He was sure that under his rule the Craft would be as prosperous in the future as it had been in the past. The Prov. Grand Master then proposed the Right Hon. the Earl of Carnarvon I'ro Grand Master, the Right Hon. the Earl of Lathom Deputy Grand Master, and the Officers of Grand Lodge Past and Present. Lord Carnarvon, he said, was an old and valued friend of his, and he believed he was known to them all as a Prov. Grand Master, as a man of genius, of great eloquence, and of singular tact in the management of the difficult business which often came before Grand Lodge. He had hoped that Lord Lathom might have been amongst them that day, and nothing but recent domestic affliction kept him away. He was sure they all recognised in him a man whose geniality and amiable character made him the type of one who should occupy a distinguished place amongst Freemasons. He was glad to find that there were no less than eleven Past Officers of the Grand Lodge of England present, and he was sure they would give them a real Gloucestershire welcome, so that they might carry away agreeable recollections of their visit. Bro. C. R. Davy was not only an old Officer, but he was one of themselves; he was a resident amongst them, and was a constant attendant at Grand Lodge. Bro. Shadwell Clerke was also a most able and efficient Officer, and discharged his high and important office admirably. Bro. Rev. C. R. Davy, whose name was coupled with the toast, responded, and said the Grand Lodge had never done its duty better than by appointing Sir Michael Hicks-Beach as Right Worshipful Prov. Grand Master. Bro. Colonel Shadwell Clerke also responded, and said they could not have entrusted the Mastership to more genial or abler hands. Bro. G. F. Newmarch said of course they would anticipate the next toast, which was that of the Right Hon. Sir Michael E. Hicks-Beach, Bart., M.P., the Right Worshipful the Provincial Grand Master, their friend and neighbour. No words of his were required to recommend him to them, and he would not attempt any eulogy. When Lord Sherborne intimated his intention to retire from the duties of his high office, the eyes of all of them, without exception, turned to one man, and that man was Sir Michael Hicks-Beach. He might frankly say that, as a Gloucestershire man, they were proud of him. He was one of them; he was essentially a Gloucestershire man, as was Lord Sherborne before him; he was not only respected in his own county, but he had made a name in the country of which they were all proud. He was glad that he had selected a man to assist him in the office, than whom a more zealous Mason could not be found, namely, Bro. Brooke-Smith. He was sure that, whatever success Masonry might have had in Gloucestershire in the past, it would continue to flourish under the guidance of Sir Michael Hicks-Beach. The Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master, on rising to respond, was received with enthusiastic cheering. He said it was impossible for him to thank them too warmly for their reception of him on this the first occasion of his appearing amongst them as Provincial Grand Master. He thanked Bro. Newmarch for the kind way in which he had spoken of him, and the brethren for the applause with which they had greeted what he had been pleased to say about him; but, in addition, he desired to thank them all for the numbers in which they had attended that day—numbers that he believed he was justified in saying far exceeded those of any previous Masonic gathering at Gloucester. He would frankly tell them, what was already known to some in that room. When Lord Sherborne intimated his desire to retire from the office which he so well filled for so many years, some brethren, friends of his (Sir Michael's), were good enough to suggest to him that he might hope to be his successor. He confessed he shrank from it, and did not consider himself likely to be appointed to the office. He felt that he had other public avocations, to which he ought not there further to allude, which would take up much of his time—time which a Provincial Grand Master ought to devote to the interests of his Province. He felt also, what he did not say, that for some years he had been amongst them as an active member of a political party, that he had been accustomed to speak his mind, and that possibly under those circumstances he might not be acceptable to all. He felt that possibly it might not tend to the harmony and progress of Freemasonry if a person actively engaged in that kind of warfare were chosen as the head of this Province. Those were his feelings, and he stated them frankly now. But when he told them that from all quarters and from all persons—from those he could not have suspected of entertaining friendly feelings towards him, from those to whom he was opposed in political and private opinion—there came to him kindly, friendly, and fraternal welcome, if it should please the Grand Lodge to appoint him, he felt no hesitation, when he told them that, he perhaps need hardly add that he felt when the office was offered to him, that it was his bounden duty to accept it, and so far as his poor abilities enabled him, to perform the duties. He felt sure that he could rely on the aid of the brethren to promote the interests of Freemasonry in the Province. He had his part to do, and that part had been ably put before him by his friend and relative on his right hand. He did not want to promise what he would not perform. He hoped during this and the following year to be able to visit every Lodge in the Province, and the first would be Dursley, the Royal Lebanon, and the Chipping Sodbury Lodges. He hoped that they would all work in harmony, and that, knowing one another better, they would respect each other more. At all events, he hoped that his appointment would not tend to lessen their interest in Freemasonry, and if he was as successful as Lord Sherborne had been, he should be able to look back upon his term of office with satisfaction. The other toasts included the Installing Master Bro. W. W. B. Beach, M.P., Right Worshipful Prov. G. Master of Hants, the Right Hon. Lord Sherborne Right Worshipful Past Provincial Grand Master, the W. Bro. J. Brooke-Smith Deputy Provincial Grand Master, and the Officers of the Provincial Grand Lodge Past and Present, the Visitors, and the Lodges of the Provinces. Before the Lodge was closed a formal presentation of an original copy of the Book of Constitutions, re-bound in morocco, garter blue and gold, and enclosed in a case of walnut wood, lined with purple velvet, was made by Bro. Henry Jeffs to the Provincial Grand Master, which Sir Michael Hicks-Beach was pleased to accept. The Book is scarce, and to bibliophilists valuable, being Anderson's and Désaguliers edition of 1723, and of the first official issue sanctioned by warrant of Grand Lodge. There was in 1722 an informal issue of the Old Regulations in a copy of a MS. Constitution. The book presented to the Provincial G. Master contained the following, printed in Old English on a fly-leaf :—"Presented, with respectful and fraternal regards of Bro. Henry Jeffs, Past Master No. 1005, to Bro. the Right Honourable Sir Michael E. Hicks-Beach, Bart., M.P., on his installation as the Right Worshipful the Provincial Grand Master for Gloucestershire, 1881." The arrangements at the Shirehall were made by Mr. Russell Kerr and Mr. Edw. Trinder, and were perfect; and all the arrangements in the banqueting room were admirably carried out by Mr. R. Vassar Smith.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION.

THE annual meeting of the Subscribers to the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution was held yesterday, at Freemasons' Tavern, Col. Creaton Grand Treasurer in the chair. There were also present Bros. Henry Smith Provincial Grand Secretary West Yorkshire, J. L. Hine, Alfred W. Stanfield, J. Wordsworth, John Simpson, Robert Wylie, Charles Godtschalk, John Constable, Charles John Perceval, S. Rawson, Louis Stean, William Clarke, Raynham W. Stewart, Edw. Davies, H. S. Alpass, James A Burch, John Chadwick, A. F. A. Woodford, James Butting, Frederick Davison, Frod. Adlard, W. S. Perryman, Edgar Bowyer, Robert D. Cummings, S. P. Norris, Thomas Cubitt, George Wyatt, William Hale, John Diprose, T. W. Lew, Henry Bartlett, J. R. Gallant, Thomas Meggy, Brackstone Baker, and James Terry (Secretary).

The minutes of last meeting having been approved, the Annual Report and Balance Sheet were read, as follows, by Bro. Terry:—

REPORT.

The Committee have much pleasure in bringing to the notice of the Governors and Subscribers the progress the Institution has made during the past twelve months.

The Annual Festival was directed to be held by the Patron, H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, K.G., &c., &c., on Wednesday, the 23rd February last, and the Committee were exceedingly fortunate in obtaining the consent of Lieut.-Colonel Sir Henry Edwards, Bart., J.P. and D.L., R.W. Provincial Grand Master for West Yorkshire, to preside upon the occasion. He was very nobly supported by the members of his Province, as well as by brethren from London and other parts of the country—no less than 399 Stewards acting upon the occasion—their exertions resulted in the handsome sum of £14,360 being raised to benefit the Fund—and, looking both at the number of Stewards as well as the amount, it is with feelings of gratitude that the Committee tender their heartiest thanks to all concerned. Taking into consideration the great depression there has been during the last year throughout the country, in every branch of trade, profession, and business, they hardly dared to hope for such a success.

After the last election, there were 150 males and 155 widows upon the Fund, being an addition of 15 annuitants over any previous year, while to-day awaiting election there is, unfortunately, the large number of 98 candidates.

During the year, 20 annuitants have died—13 men and 7 widows—and the Committee, at their meeting in February last, decided that the vacancies thus created should be filled up; and, bearing in mind the large number of candidates and the success of the recent Festival, they have determined to place 5 additional men and 5 additional widows upon the Funds—a step which they feel convinced will have the warmest sympathy and support of the Governors and Subscribers. Since the proxies have been issued, 7 men and 3 widows have died, and, according to the Laws, these vacancies will also be filled up—so that the total number to be elected to-day will be 25 men and 15 widows.

There are, in addition, 14 widows receiving £20 each, being half their late husband's annuity, and which is accorded to them for three years—unless they are elected to the full sum before that time expires.

The various payments thus being made will then amount to £11,600 for annuities only, excluding all working and other incidental expenses in the management of the Institution.

The Committee, however, confidently rely upon the generous support of the Craft to sustain the Institution in every way that is possible, and which has never been more practically exemplied than in its contributions at the last Festival.

The Committee again renew their thanks to Grand Lodge, for its grant of £70 to provide the residents of the Institution at Croydon with coals, and its value was never more appreciated by them than during the inclemency of the past winter.

The Committee also tender their thanks to the Honorary Surgeons, Henry John Strong, Esq., M.D., and R. Percy Middlemist, Esq., for their unremitting attention and kindness to those under their care.

The Institution is now undergoing reparation rendered necessary by the usual wear and tear inseparable from the structural decay of the Building. It is also being enlarged to meet the requirements of the present day, and the Committee are certain that when completed, it will add much to the comfort of the Residents, Visitors, and others, when visiting the same.

During the year the Committee have had the pleasure of receiving a Legacy of £100 free of duty, and in recording this fact would wish to impress upon those Brethren blessed with means the desirability of following so good an example.

Subjoined is a statement of the receipts and expenditure during the year ending the 31st March 1881, together with the particulars of the permanent income of the Institution:—

CORRESPONDENCE.

—:o:—

A VAGRANT MASON.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I take an early opportunity of warning almoners and benevolent Masons in general against an individual who is unworthy of recognition. He has a clearance certificate from the St. George's Lodge, No. 190, Aberdeen. He was in the vicinity of Portsmouth about the 12th instant, and is, I fancy, going westward.

Yours faithfully and fraternally,

THE SECRETARY 804.

THE APPROACH OF THE HOLIDAY SEASON.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I am glad you have re-ventilated the subject of summer excursions, and the expense of attending them. I am neither very affluent nor very much the reverse, yet I like to enjoy myself, and am always glad when an opportunity presents itself that I can take my wife and daughters with me. Last year I might have attended the summer banquet of a London Lodge which, for obvious reasons, must be nameless, but I found it would have involved an initial expenditure of £5 for the four of us, to say nothing of the et ceteras which the woman folk generally deem necessary, and cabs or the train to or from the general rendezvous. This was a little too much for my purse, and as we had made up our minds that a day's trip into the country must be taken, we selected a very quiet little but familiar country place, not twenty miles from Charing-cross, and thoroughly enjoyed ourselves for about half the money, and that without any kind of stint in any respect. Would it not be as well if those who had the arranging of these summer banquets made note of the fact that a heavy outlay is not indispensable to a day's pleasure, and that, with the exercise of a little management, from ten to fifteen shillings may be made to go as far as from twenty-five to thirty shillings? Where people have plenty of money at command it would be a sin not to spend it, but that is no reason why it should be expended wastefully or ostentatiously.

I am, faithfully and fraternally,

HOLD, ENOUGH.

MARK MASONRY.

SS. PETER AND PAUL'S LODGE, No. 163.

A MEETING of this Lodge was held at the Swan Hotel, Newport Pagnell, on Monday, 9th May. Present—Bros. T. Taylor W.M., J. R. Wiliner I.P.M., L. Cooper S.W., J. M. Cuthbert J.W., E. J. Saunders S.O., B. Wilford J.O., E. Carr Treasurer and Organist; V.W. Bro. J. S. Brownrigg P.G.M.C. Secretary, C. Terry S.D., E. Revill I.G., and several other brethren. The Lodge having been opened, and the minutes read and confirmed, a ballot was taken for Bros. R. King P.M., — Valentine P.M., Lieut. Craster, and H. H. Booth. The candidates were then introduced and duly advanced to the degree of M.M.M. The ceremony was for the first time in the history of this Lodge performed with full musical accompaniment, under the direction of Bro. Carr, this addition to the beautiful ritual of the Mark degree being much appreciated by the brethren. Before closing the Lodge, the W.M. alluded to the loss the Lodge had sustained since the last meeting by the death of their Chaplain, the Rev. Dr. Margoliouth, and the Secretary was requested to convey the sympathy of the brethren to Mrs. Margoliouth. The Lodge was then closed in due form, and the brethren adjourned to the supper room. After the banquet the usual toasts were given, that of the Grand Mark Officers being responded to by V.W. Bro. Brownrigg P.G.M.C., who said that the Lodge was particularly well represented at Grand Lodge, four of the members being Past Grand Officers. The W.M., in responding to the toast of his health said, that he might congratulate both himself and the Lodge on a very successful year of office, having up to the present time advanced twelve brethren to this honourable degree.

DUKE OF CONNAUGHT MARK LODGE, No. 199.

THE Installation Meeting of this Lodge was held on Thursday, 5th May, at the Masonic Rooms, 77½ Bishopsgate-street-within, and was very well attended, the brethren present including Bros. W. J. Meek W.M., H. Meyer S.W. and W.M. elect, W. Beasley J.W., B. Meyer P.M. Treasurer, D. M. Dewar Asst. Grand Secretary, T. Poore P.G.I.G., J. J. Gould S.O., R. Marshall J.O., J. Hill Secretary, G. Andrews S.D., A. P. Little Reg. of Marks, J. H. Peach Org.; Bros. Southwood, Greenhill, Westfield, Birkin. Lodge having been opened, and the preliminary business disposed of, the W.M. vacated the chair in favour of Bro. T. Poore, who, with his wonted kindness, had consented to assist in the important ceremony of the evening. Bro. H. Meyer was then presented to the Installing Officer by Bro. B. Meyer P.M. to receive at his hands the benefit of installation, and was placed in the chair of A., according to ancient custom. The newly-installed W.M. then proceeded to appoint and invest his Officers as follow:—Bros. W. Beasley S.W., H. Stephens J.W., J. J. Gould M.O., W. H. Edwards S.O., W. J. Westfield J.O., B. Meyer P.M. Treasurer, James Hill Secretary, J. E. Greenhill S.D., R. Marshall J.D., J. D. Burkin I.G., W. J. Meek I.P.M. Dir. of Cer., and J. H. Peach Org. After the customary greetings Lodge was closed and adjourned. A Lodge of Royal Ark Mariners was opened, Bro. T. Poore occupying the chair of W.C.N., Bro. Dewar that of J., and Bro. Meek that of S. Fifteen brethren were then exalted to the degree of R.A.M. The consecration of the new Lodge followed, the ceremony being impressively performed by Bro. D. M. Dewar, assisted by Bros T. Poore and W. J. Meek. Bro. Meek was subsequently enthroned as W.C.N., and appointed his Officers:—Bros. H. Meyer J., B. Meyer S., H. Stephens S.D., Westfield J.D., Burkin Guardian, J. Hill Sec., Peach Org. After the usual inquiry, and resultant hearty good wishes, Lodge was closed, and the brethren retired to the ante-room, where a collation awaited them, to which ample justice was done. The Loyal and Mark toasts having been duly honoured, the W.M. proposed the health of the Installing Master, Bro. T. Poore, to whom he expressed the obligations of the Lodge for his valuable services on this and many other occasions. In reply, Bro. Poore declared the deep satisfaction and pleasure he always felt in doing anything in his power for the welfare and furtherance of Mark Masonry, and the more so on this occasion, as it gave him the opportunity of offering some slight service in acknowledgment of the kind reception he had at all times received from the brethren of the Duke of Connaught Lodge. The W.M., having resigned the gavel to W.C.N. Brother Meek, proposed the health of the Consecrating Officer V.W. Bro. D. M. Dewar, whose ready help and friendly counsel was available in all emergencies, and as gratefully received as it was heartily given. Bro. Dewar responded in cordial terms, acknowledging the hearty reception always accorded him by the brethren, and expressing his gratification at the continued prosperity of the Lodge, and congratulating the members on the comfort and convenience of their new suite of rooms. After the toast of the "Officers" the W.M. announced that he had received a communication from Bro. Brighten Prov. G.S., to the effect that the Lodge would have the distinguished privilege this year of sending a Brother to Grand Lodge, and one also to Prov. Grand Lodge, and, with the consent of the brethren, he proposed recommending the I.P.M. Bro. Meek for Grand Lodge, and Bro. Hill the Secretary for Prov. Grand Lodge—a proposition heartily adopted by the brethren.

We must remind our readers that the General Committee Meeting of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls will be held at Freemasons' Hall, on Thursday next, 26th instant, between the hours of 4 and 5 p.m. On this occasion it will be the duty of those present to elect the House Committee for the ensuing year; and we may state, for the information of those interested, that all the members of the present House Committee have been re-nominated, while Brother J. E. Shand, W.M. 1563, has also been nominated for election.

MEETING OF LODGE OF BENEVOLENCE.

THE Lodge of Benevolence held its meeting for May on Wednesday evening, at Freemasons' Hall. Bros. J. M. Clabon, Jos. Nunn, and James Brett occupied the chairs of President, and Senior and Junior Vice-Presidents. The Board of Masters had the agenda paper for next Grand Lodge, 1st of June, read to them. The Lodge of Benevolence confirmed the recommendations of Grants made at last meeting to the amount of £365. They considered the new cases, of which there were thirty on the list. Three of these in the course of the evening were deferred, the remaining twenty-seven were relieved with a total amount of £760. The Lodge was then closed.

St. John's Lodge, No. 795, Maidenhead.—The first meeting of this summer Lodge was held on Wednesday, 18th inst., at Bro. Deacon's, the Raymead Hotel, Maidenhead. Present—Bros. Capt. John Finch W.M. 173 and 180, H. H. Hodges P.M. Secretary, T. B. Linscott J.D., John Greenfield 1602 D.C., C. Nowell Tyler, and numerous visitors, principally from the Phœnix Lodge. The minutes of the last meeting, in October, having been read and confirmed, a ballot was taken for Bro. Edw. William Allen P.M. 173, as a joining member, and declared unanimous. The ceremony of raising Bro. John Napier Fulton, of the Royal Savoy Lodge 1744, to the sublime degree of M.M., was then most ably and impressively performed by the W.M., Bro. John Greenfield acting as S.D. Letters of apology from P.M.'s Sharpe and Foulger having been read, for the absence of the former through serious indisposition, and for the latter through other causes, the Lodge was closed in solemn form, and adjourned until next month. We are glad to state that, as predicted by us in October last, a number of brethren, visitors from the Phœnix Lodge, were proposed as joining members; at the same time it is very unsatisfactory to find so many Officers absent when important work has to be done. A large number of the brethren and visitors made a trip of 24 miles by drag to Hughenden Manor in the morning, and we need hardly state that ample justice was done to a plain dinner, provided with his usual taste by Bro. Deacon.

New Sadler's Wells.—During the present week Mr. H. J. Byron's popular drama Blow for Blow has been played, and with very great success. A noticeable feature about the performance is the evenness of the cast, there not being a single character which was not adequately interpreted, while, in several instances, the artistes exhibited a thorough appreciation of the parts severally assigned to them. Thus Mr. E. Lyons played Charley Spraggs, one of the finest of the late Mr. George Honey's delineations. Kitty Wobbler, in which Miss E. Weathersby made such an impression, was interpreted by Miss Laura Lindon, while Mildred Craddock in the Prologue, and Alice Petherick in the drama were played most ably by Miss Isabel Bateman, whose impersonation of the twin parts elicited the warmest applause.

We are compelled to hold over the Account of the Dublin Masonic School, to which reference is made in another column.

EPPS'S COCOA.
GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.
"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood, and a properly nourished frame."

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS.

STEWARDS' VISIT.

A VISIT by the Stewards to either the Girls' or Boys' Schools has, for some time past, been looked upon as one of the features in connection with the Anniversary Festivals of our Educational Institutions, and from the ever increasing interest which attaches to these periodical gatherings we think there is little chance of the custom being discontinued. On Tuesday the Stewards for the Girls' School were entertained at Battersea, the Chairman of the Festival, Sir Michael E. Hicks Beach, Bart., M.P., presiding, and in due course presenting the various prizes. The first part of the entertainment, comprised a selection of music, &c., by the scholars, of which the following is the programme :—

Chant—Psalm xix.
Duett—"The Heavens are telling——Haydn—24 hands (6 pianos).
Recitation—"A B C"—Eliza Cook—Eveline E. Pelham.
Trio (Little Girls)—Frühlings Einzug—Oesten—36 hands (6 pianos).
Duett (Little Girls)—"Zauberflöte—Mozart—24 hands.

Having completed the presentations, the Chairman proceeded to address a few words to the pupils, and the company assembled. He was sure all the visitors present would wish him to express their acknowledgments to the managers of the School for the entertainment given by the pupils. He expressed great satisfaction at what he had heard and seen; both had given him a great amount of pleasure; he thought from the way in which the audience had welcomed the several selections that they also were satisfied. He was much struck with the quiet modesty and good taste displayed by the children who had given the recitations, and was especially pleased that one of the prize winners for elocution came from his own Province of Gloucestershire. As regarded the children themselves—to those who had won prizes he would give a caution, not to be led thereby to think by this success the chief object in life was already gained. That was not so; life was still before them, and they had still to press on, and must only look at this success, as an encouragement for further effort. The unsuccessful would learn from their failure that there were ups and downs in life, and must still persevere, remembering the maxim that patience and perseverance conquer all things. After a vote of thanks to the Chairman, the company proceeded to the refreshment rooms, where tea awaited them, which concluded, another move was made to the large school room, where the pupils went through their calisthenic exercise in the usual admirable manner which characterises this part of the day's programme. The singing of the National Anthem brought the programme to a conclusion, the pupils and visitors passing the remainder of the evening in dancing.

THE FESTIVAL.

THE Ninety-Third Anniversary Festival in connection with the Girls' School was held on Wednesday, at Freemasons' Tavern, London, under the Presidency of the Right Hon. Sir Michael E. Hicks-Beach, Bart., M.P., Provincial Grand Master for Gloucestershire. The meeting was very well attended, and, as will be seen from the figures given below, may be pronounced a grand success. The banquet was well served by Bro. A. Best, proprietor of the tavern, who personally superintended, assisted by Bro. E. Dawkins. At the conclusion of the banquet, and after grace had been sung, the Chairman gave the usual toasts. In proposing that of the Queen, he said nothing could be more unmasonic than for brethren to arrogate to themselves the exclusive possession of any virtue, but he would venture to say that among all the inhabitants of Her Majesty's dominions there were no more loyal subjects than the members of our Order. We revere the Queen, as the best of constitutional Sovereigns; we admire the purity of her life, as a wife and a mother; but, above all, on such an occasion as this, when we have met to advocate the claims of one of our great Charities, do we remember that which is Her Majesty's distinguishing characteristic—viz., her true womanly sympathy with all that is poorest in her realms. The toast was well received, and honoured in the usual form. The health of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, the Princess of Wales, and the rest of the Royal Family was next given. The chairman felt that the geniality of the Prince of Wales added not a little to the warmth of the loyalty with which Freemasons would naturally regard the Heir to the Throne and the Grand Master of their Order. The grace of the Princess of Wales was proverbial, nor must they forget the kindness of both their Royal Highnesses, nor the interest which they had shewn in the Institution honoured that evening. Part of the building had, by permission of Her Royal Highness, been named the Alexandra Wing, and he felt that was but a proof of the interest which she took in its welfare. With regard to other members of the Royal Family, no one in the room was likely to forget the efficient and able manner in which Prince Leopold, only a year ago, was good enough to plead for the Institution. The result was a success, perhaps far beyond what the best friends of the School could have anticipated, and it would be long before they could forget the action of his Royal Highness. The next toast—that of the Pro G.M., the Deputy G.M., and the rest of the Grand Officers present and past—was, the Chairman said, of a very comprehensive character. He was sure that in the presence of so many brethren who had experienced the advantage which the Craft had derived from the wise counsels and high abilities of the Earl of Carnarvon, he need say nothing to recommend the Pro Grand Master. Lord Lathom, the Deputy Grand Master, is popular in his great Province, the home of so many members of the Craft, and popular wherever his genial presence was known throughout the country. As to the rest of the Officers of Grand Lodge, he need say little. It was but a few days since he had had to express his warm personal thanks to no small number of them for the enthusiasm in Freemasonry which prompted their presence at his installation, at a considerable distance from the ordinary scenes of their labours. But their conduct then was but an example of their ordinary work, and he was quite sure that if the interests of Freemasonry demanded it, the Officers of Grand Lodge would be found ready, as in that case, to do their duty. Sir Francis Burdett, Prov. G.M. Middlesex, replied. As the Chairman had said, the toast was a most comprehensive one. The Grand Officers, from the highest to the lowest, had exerted themselves to the utmost of their power for many years past, and he believed had done so to the satisfaction of every member of the Order. He was only too happy to reply for the Grand Officers, because he saw himself surrounded by Grand Officers of England and Ireland. Speaking of the Provincial Grand Officers, he felt they were all doing their duty. Most of them were Past Grand Wardens, and, therefore, were thoroughly efficient in every possible way. The work they maintained was, under their superintendence, carried out in a most satisfactory manner; to the brethren in London especially. Sometimes the latter brethren were apt to think that the work in the country was performed in a slovenly manner; but he might say that the ceremonies as performed in London were now spreading throughout the Provinces, and he felt that with the Prov. G. Masters and Grand Officers they now had, they would ultimately see a system of working throughout the country which would be satisfactory to all brethren. Sir Henry Edwards, Bart., Prov. G.M. West Yorks, proposed the health of the Chairman. He rose with some diffidence to propose this toast, which, however, he was sure would be acceptable, most acceptable, to every brother present. The Chairman was a man well known throughout the kingdom, not only in his public capacity, but in private life; and more particularly so in his own home, where for years and years he had been held up as a pattern for every man to follow. He had had the honour of his acquaintance for a considerable time—he thought since 1864, when he believed they first met in the House of Commons. From that time up to the present moment, the kindest feelings had, he believed, existed between them; and he had every reason to be thankful that he had known him so intimately. It was a credit to know a person who had great distinctions. He had long been a public servant. As they were all aware, he had for many years filled the highest position in Ireland—that of Chief Secretary—the duties of which position he administered to the satisfaction of all. After that he was Secretary to the Colonies for many years, and therefore his experience as a public man was very great indeed. They ought to consider it a great honour that he should have come among them to preside on this occasion. He referred to the large attendance of West Yorkshire brethren, and had no doubt but that they would always vie with Gloucestershire as to who should do the most for Freemasonry. The Chairman, in returning thanks, expressed the gratitude he experienced at the manner in which his health had been proposed, and the kindly welcome which had been extended towards him by all present. Sir H. Edwards had spoken in terms far too flattering of his conduct in other Services, but he begged to remind them and him, that they had met that evening, not as Politicians, but as Masons. It was as a Mason he had accepted the invitation to preside, and he had done so in the belief that of all the many good qualities by which the Craft was distinguished, not one was better or more acceptable than the encouragement of Charity. He could not feel otherwise than flattered at the number of brethren present, remembering, as he did, that His Royal Highness Prince Leopold had occupied the chair last year. He was afraid that under his humbler presidency there might have been a falling off in the attendance. He was glad, therefore, to find that he had the moral support of so many, and he felt sure, before the evening was over, it would be found he had received likewise their material support. Having also especially expressed his thanks to his Gloucestershire brethren—his own dear friends and neighbours—for having met him in such numbers, and for the liberal subscriptions which would be announced later on behalf of his Province, the Right Honourable and Right Worshipful Chairman passed on to plead the cause of the Institution. It occurred to him that it would have been better, perhaps, had the toast of his health been deferred till after he had fulfilled this important duty. Be that as it might, however, he would at once, but briefly, claim their attention while he spoke to the toast of "Prosperity to the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls." It was, he pointed out, an ancient Charity, to this extent at least—that in a very few years it would be celebrating its Hundredth Anniversary. During the period of its existence it had grown to be one of the brightest ornaments of the Craft. It had educated no less than 1,254 children of members of the Craft, and there were at the present moment 228 girls in receipt of its benefits. It did not need much argument to show that such an Institution deserved to be supported. It would be as well, however, if he reminded them of the uncertainties of life, and the accidents to which all of them were liable. A mere glance at the records of the School would show the position which some of those brethren once held whose children had received, or were receiving, the benefits of this School, and among those present there was not one who could be certain that in the time to come he might not, if he should have children, or his descendants, have good reason to be thankful for the existence of, and that he had contributed some aid towards this Charity. He then spoke of his experience of Tuesday, when he had presided at the presentation of prizes, and he felt there was not a School in the whole of England where a more religious or useful education was given. No one could visit it without being struck with the general tone and character, the modest and cheerful deportment, and the ability of the pupils. Their training was shown by the successes achieved in the Cambridge Examinations, while the School Executive had taken care that the system adopted should be made to include the useful domestic, as well as the more ornamental branches of female education. He had noticed particularly that one of the best cooks in the School was also one of its best musicians; but what had struck him more than anything else was the cheerfulness of the girls, and this he could only attribute to the loving care evinced in their welfare by the governesses and teachers. It might be, added the Chairman, that the present were hard times to all of them, and that men had not so much means at their disposal as they had ten years ago. But of this he was certain, that no money given in Charity was ever wasted, and he felt confident they could not show respect for their Masonic obligations better than by contributing largely to the Masonic Institutions. With these remarks he begged to give them "Success to the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls." Bro. Lieut.-Col. Creaton Grand Treasurer desired to thank the Chairman very sincerely for the kind way in which he had proposed the toast. The prosperity of the Institution would, he trusted, be continued in the future as it had been in the past. Two things were requisite; money—which the large-hearted brethren came forward with, and management,—which he was happy to say was there everything that could be desired. Bro. F. R. W. Hedges, Secretary of the Institution, then announced that the sum of £11,454 represented the result of the efforts of the Stewards, of whom there were 260. (Full particulars are given on another page). Bro. Maxwell Close proposed Success to the other Masonic Charities; he felt he should be wanting in his appreciation of the principles of the Craft, and form a very low estimate of the Masonic principles, and the benevolence of the brethren assembled, if he deemed it necessary to read any lecture upon the necessity of supporting Masonic Institutions. It was not his mission to draw invidious comparisons between any of the Masonic Charities, he believed that the Craft, true to its principles and its charity, were giving an equal and energetic support to all. Bro. Frederick Binckes replied. He assured the brethren it was a very high honour to stand there once more at so successful a gathering, on behalf of one of the great Masonic Institutions, to return thanks for wishes so kindly expressed towards the other Institutions; he congratulated those connected with the Girls' School on the result of the Festival. He wished it to be distinctly understood that there ought not to be, was not, nor could be, anything in the shape of hostile feeling of one Institution towards another as regarded the success of either one of the great Annual Celebrations. They were all doing the best they could, and always, he hoped, would continue to act as they had in the past,—for the promotion of the welfare of the Institutions. At the same time, he hoped all had hearts large enough to indulge in the most cordial feelings of congratulation on the success attending each or all of them as they came round year by year. With reference to the Festival of the Boys' School, it was pretty well known that a few years ago they had departed from the ordinary course of celebration, and went a little way into the country, for the purpose of affording ladies an opportunity of partaking of the Festivals at the same tables with the brethren, and that course had been pursued for the last six years. He was violating no confidence—in fact, he wished to make known as widely as possible—that they were about to make a startling piece of innovation on the way of inroad. They had taken the Festival some seven miles to the North of London, and occasionally seven miles to the South; they now proposed to go, on the 29th of June, fifty miles Southward,—to the healthy shores of Brighton. The hope was that arrangements would be made there, of a very satisfactory nature, that would add to the enjoyment, at an expense not exceeding previous years. He did not fail to express the very warm and sanguine hope that the Institution would then derive a large amount of that pecuniary support it so much needed, and so eminently deserved. Bro. Rev. C. J. Martyn gave "The Stewards of the Day," to which Bro. Frank Richardson replied. "The Ladies" was proposed by Bro. Rev. C. W. Spencer Stanhope, and acknowledged by Bro. Baron de Ferrieres. This concluded the toast list of the evening, and the brethren repaired to the Temple, where the customary Concert was in progress. We may add that the Boys' Band of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys played a selection during the banquet; the other musical arrangements were under the direction of Madame Thaddeus Wells.

PAXTON LODGE, No. 1686.

THIS Lodge—which has hitherto held its meetings at the Crystal Palace, and has now, by consent of the Most Worshipful Grand Master, been removed to the Masonic Hall, Camberwell, the former place having been found very inconvenient for the members—held its installation meeting on Saturday, the 14th instant. The brethren present were Bros. F. J. Sawyer W.M., W. H. Boswell S.W. (W.M. elect), J. M. Klenck P.M. Treasurer, H. E. Frances P.P.G.D. Honorary Secretary, Rev. R. J. Simpson P.G.C. Moore, M.A., rose, and stated that he had no desire to oppose the introduction of Mr. Hanington into the Lodge, but he would like his proposer to state his knowledge of the intended member. Bro. Partridge, as proposer, gave a very satisfactory reply, and Bro. Frances, as seconder of the proposition, said he felt sure no member of the Lodge would introduce a candidate he thought unworthy of the privilege of being made a Mason. The Rev. R. J. Simpson complimented the Lodge on the evident care the brethren took in the selection of members, and thought it worthy of imitation in all Lodges. The ballot proved unanimous in favour of Mr. Hanington, who was then introduced and ably inducted into the first mysteries of the Craft by Brother Sawyer. On the retirement of Bro. Hanington. Lodge was opened in the second degree, and Bro. Boswell was presented and duly installed into the chair of K S. by the W.M. The Officers were appointed as follow :—Bros. Basnett S.W., Dodd J.W., J. Paton, of Israel Lodge No. 205, was unanimously elected a member. It was agreed that the Annual Banquet should take place on the first Thursday in September. Bro. A. Jones was elected W.M. for the next meeting, and then Lodge was closed in due form.

Islington Lodge of Instruction, No. 1741.—Tuesday, 17th instant, at the Moorgate Tavern, Finsbury-pavement. Present—Bros. Cuthbertson W.M., Redding S.W., Blinkhorn J.W., J. L. Mather Preceptor, C. G. Sparrow Secretary, Kern S.D., Pitt I.G. After preliminaries, the ceremonies of initiation and passing were rehearsed, Bros. Hepburn and Hall candidates respectively. Lodge was opened in the third, and closed to the first degree, when Bro. Buch was elected W.M. for the ensuing week.

Lodge of Loyalty, No. 1607.—The brethren of this Lodge held their second meeting for the year, at the Alexandra Palace, on Saturday, 14th inst. There were present Bros. E. Legge (P.M. of the Urban Lodge) W.M., C. J. Perceval I.P.M., E. Bedell S.W., Jones J.W., Carr S.D., Roberts J.D., W. Giller I.G., J. Newton P.M. Sec., F. Brown P.M. Treas., Webb P.M.; also Bros. C. Hill (Honorary Member), A. Perceval, Cushing, Clark, Houldsworth, Little, &c. Lodge was opened in the usual form, and the minutes of previous meeting read and verified, after which the five last named brethren were asked the questions for the second degree, and were entrusted. All of them then retired, and on re-admission were duly passed to the second degree, the charge and the lecture on the second tracing board was delivered to them by the I.P.M. Bro. C. J. Perceval. A petition was signed on behalf of the widow of a deceased brother. All Masonic business being ended, Lodge was closed according to ancient custom. After a short interval the brethren sat down to a récherché banquet, admirably placed on the table by the enterprising managers, Messrs. Jones and Barber. The usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were given, and the evening was enlivened by vocal harmony, ably rendered by several of the members. The brethren broke up at an early hour, on their way to the Station passing through the Large Hall of the Alexandra Palace, which was rendered more than ordinarily attractive by a beautiful show of flowers.

Friars Lodge of Instruction, No. 1349.—At Bro. Pavitt's, Liverpool Arms, Canning Town, on Tuesday, 17th instant. Bros. Smith W.M., Ives S.W., Myers J.W., Pavitt I.G., Worsley Secretary, P.M. Musto Preceptor; also Bros. McGeorge, Day, Keable, Rawe, and Peterken. The Lodge opened, and after the minutes had been read, was advanced to the second degree. Bro. McGeorge answered the necessary questions, and the Lodge opened in the third, when the ceremony of raising was rehearsed, the Preceptor undertaking the Deacon's work, thus giving a practical lesson to the younger Masons present. Bro. Worsley worked the first section of the lecture. The Lodge closed to the first, when Bro. Worsley was elected W.M. for the ensuing week, on which occasion sections only will be worked. Business to commence at seven precisely. As this is the first time the Secretary has undertaken to occupy the chair this year, we trust his friends will rally round him. He will be ably assisted by P.M. Myers as S.W.

Eboracum Lodge, No. 1611.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held on the 9th inst., at York. Bro. J. T. Seller in the chair; and there were also present Bros. C. G. Padel I.P.M., T. B. Whytehead P.M., J. S. Cumberland P.M., G. Balmford P.M., G. Simpson S.W., Jas. Kay Secretary, T. Humphries Assistant Secretary, A. T. B. Turner and J. Blenkin Deacons, R. Ware, J. R. Jackson, and many other brethren. The business consisted of the raising of Bro. Lamb to the third degree, which was performed by the W.M., who also gave the traditional history, tracing board and working tools. Several volumes of books were presented to the Lodge library, and votes of thanks passed to the donors. Bro. J. S. Cumberland, Provincial Charity Steward, announced that he should be present at the forthcoming Festival for the Girls, and several subscriptions were added to his list. After the close of the Lodge a couple of hours were spent in social conversation and refreshment.

Kings Cross Lodge of Instruction, No. 1732.—The regular meeting was held on the 15th instant, at Bro. Devine's, the Blue Posts, Charlotte-street, Fitzroy-square. Bros. Kauffmann W.M., Davis S.W., E. Harvey J.W., Devine Treasurer, L. Solomon Sec., J. Harvey S.D., N. Vallentine J.D., H. Phillips I.G., J. Hemming Preceptor. In all thirty-one brethren were present. The Lodge of Instruction was opened, and minutes of last meeting were confirmed. The first and fourth sections of the first lecture were worked. The ceremonies of passing and initiation were then rehearsed. Bros. Wood, W. C. Smith, Harrison, and Avenal were elected members. As Bro. Devine's premises are about to be rebuilt, it was necessary that the members should make arrangements to continue their Lodge of Instruction somewhere in the immediate neighbourhood. It was therefore proposed and carried that so soon as it became necessary to remove, of which due notice will be given, the meetings be held temporarily at Bro. Copelin's, Adam's Arms, Hampstead-street, Fitzroy-square. Bro. Davis was elected W.M. for the ensuing week, and the meeting was adjourned.

"We have companies for all sorts of things: why do not some philanthropic gentlemen start an association for lending money to embarrassed traders and housekeepers at ten per cent. interest? There are a number of people now getting three per cent. for their money in Consols who would be glad to invest it in an enterprise in which, if properly managed, there would be no risk whatever, and a certainty of earning eight or nine per cent. profit. Properly managed, such an association, worked on a large scale, would be an immense boon to people struggling with temporary difficulties, and would pay a handsome return to those who invested their money in Shares."

MEETING OF GRAND LODGE.

THE regular Quarterly Communication of the United Grand Lodge of England will be held on Wednesday next, 1st June, and, as will be seen from the notice we publish elsewhere, the amount of important business that is set down for consideration is far in excess of the average. Taking the salient features of the agenda paper in the order of their arrangement, we come, in the first place, on certain propositions for a permanent increase in the number of Grand Officers and the Grand Officers of Provinces of a certain strength. As stated in the Report of the Board of General Purposes, twenty years have elapsed since any permanent addition was made to the number of Grand Officers, and having regard to the fact that in the course of that period many new Lodges have been consecrated, involving, as of course, a very large increase in the number of Freemasons, it recommends that an addition be made in the shape of two Standard Bearers and a Deputy Director of Ceremonies, such addition to take effect on and after the Grand Festival of 1882 Now, at first sight this may seem to be a matter of but little consequence. But with the increased numerical strength of the Fraternity, it must follow that there is something like a commensurate increase in the number of those who are deserving of Grand Lodge honours. The Grand Offices, to which, in accordance with law or usage, it is in the power of the Grand Master to appoint brethren are about twelve in all. Grand Treasurer is elected by the members of Grand Lodge. Grand Registrar is appointed annually, but as a knowledge of Masonic law and usage is not acquired in a day, it has been usual to re-appoint from year to year the same Brother to this important office, so that on all questions of importance there may be some one capable of offering a sound and respectable opinion. Grand Secretary, once appointed by the Grand Master, may be looked upon as a life tenant of the office, or, at all events, as is the case with our judges, as tenant during good behaviour. The Grand Superintendency of Works and the Grand Directorship of Ceremonies must be set down in the same category with the Grand Secretaryship, as being offices held for life or during good behaviour. A Grand Assistant Secretary is only occasionally appointed, and then, as in the case of the late Bro. Farnfield, and our present respected Bro. Buss, as a reward of merit for the unusually able performance of important functions in the office of Grand Secretary. A G. Secretary for German Correspondence is a necessary as well as an ornamental addition to the roll of G. Officers, but as the office entails a certain amount of work and corresponding quantum of responsibility, a change in the person holding it is not likely to occur often. Then the Grand and Assistant Grand Pursuivancies by usage entail only a single appointment annually, as the Assistant Grand Pursuivant of one year is customarily, and rightly in our opinion, promoted to Grand Pursuivant of the next. There are thus for appointment annually only the two Grand Wardens, two Grand Chaplains, four Grand Deacons, Assistant Grand Director of Ceremonies, Grand Sword Bearer, Grand Organist, and the Assistant Grand Pursuivant, while as regards the Grand Chaplains, and G. Organist, the number of brethren eligible, from whom the Grand Master must make his selection, is of necessity very limited. However, setting this point aside, it is clear that of the very many deserving brethren whose services it would only be too gratifying to the Grand Master to recognise, it is in his power to requite those of only twelve. A proposal to increase their number to fifteen, that is by twenty-five per cent., is an eminently judicious one, and we hope, will find acceptance with Grand Lodge. The same remarks apply to the further proposition that in Provinces—and are we justified in including Districts likewise?—in which there are forty Lodges and upwards, the Prov. Grand Masters shall be empowered to appoint annually four Grand Deacons instead of two, and a Provincial Grand Deputy Director of Ceremonies. If this proposition be carried, the rule will apply to East Lancashire, West Lancashire. West Yorkshire, Kent, and Devonshire, and if Districts abroad be included, to those of Victoria and New South Wales.

The next matter of consequence which will be submitted will be the report of the Board of General Purposes on the motion referred to it by Grand Lodge in connection with the Voigt-Tudor difference. It will be in the recollection of our readers that last year Bro. Voigt brought an action for libel against Bro. Tudor and others, and was successful in obtaining a verdict, but with the nominal damages of one farthing only, and each party to the suit had to pay his own costs. This latter point placed Bro. Tudor in a dilemma, and accordingly, at the March Communication, he submitted a motion to the effect that a grant of £150 should be made to him from the Fund of General Purposes towards defraying the £169 4s 11d costs incurred by him. The Board, having duly discussed the matter in all its bearings, report that the principle of Grand Lodge devoting any portion of its funds towards defraying the cost of legal proceedings not incurred by its authority or on its behalf by the Board of General Purposes would be "an innovation constituting a very inconvenient precedent, and leading to most undesirable results;" and further, that there is nothing in the case submitted to them to justify a departure from the principle aforesaid. For ourselves, we have already so distinctly and emphatically expressed our opinion on the matter, that we need hardly be at the pains of repeating ourselves in the present article. It may be as well, however, if we take note of certain of the reasons urged by the Grand Registrar in March against the acceptance by Grand Lodge of Bro. Tudor's motion. Said our learned Brother:—"This Brother, I regret to say, is an unsuccessful defendant, who has been proved by the verdict of a jury to have improperly, and without foundation, assailed the character of a Brother, and he comes and asks Grand Lodge to pay costs, the greater part of which have been occasioned by his own act in forcing the brother to proceed with his action. Whatever the costs were up to that time, he would have none to pay, except his own Solicitor, but he tried to force the plaintiff in the action to pay those costs, against the advice of the learned Judge, who, by the way, is a Mason and a member of the Middlesex Lodge, and who was extremely desirous this should not go on; and we should never have heard of this stale matter, which occurred in 1877, if it had not been for Bro. Trevor, who is your supplicant now, moving the Court to compel Bro. Voigt to go on with his action or to pay his costs, which he had incurred in defending the statements in this summons, which the jury have found to be without justification." It should be added that Bro. McIntyre, in the course of his remarks, pointed out that, though the Provincial Grand Master—of North and East Yorkshire—did not, as he might have done, reinstate Brother Voigt and his companions in misfortune—presumably on the ground that to have done so would not have tended to increase the harmony of the Lodge—his Lordship had further said, "that unless the Lodge went on more properly than it had done, it would be a grave matter for consideration with him whether the Lodge itself should not be suspended." Brother Philbrick, who, like the Grand Registrar, is a Q.C., though not entirely concurring in the comments of his learned brother, agreed with him that Grand Lodge would be acting without precedent, and also entirely outside the principles of the Order, if it acceded to Bro. Tudor's motion. Bro. Shackles, Worshipful Master of Lodge 1511, in which occurred the unfortunate difference which resulted in the lawsuit and Bro. Trevor's motion, then rose, and moved that Grand Lodge should proceed to further business, and Bro. Curteis, of Devon, in seconding the amendment, expressed his opinion that no more monstrous attempt to foist legal expenses on Grand Lodge could ever have been made, and that Bro. Trevor, so far from having upheld the principles of the Craft, had, in violating the secrecy of the ballot, himself ignored one of those great principles. The amendment was carried, but when the Most Worshipful Grand Master was about to put the original motion, it was agreed to relegate the matter to the Board of General Purposes, and defer dealing with the motion till the report had been received; Bro. Gould, in the meantime, very sensibly pointing out that if Grand Lodge paid the costs incurred by the unsuccessful litigant, it ought most certainly, in common justice, to pay those of the successful one. We trust, after the report of the Board, of which we have given particulars, we shall hear no more of Bro. Trevor and his costs.

There is, in addition, a motion of which notice has been given by Bro. Major Edwin Bond, of Lodge No. 887, Birmingham, and which will accordingly come under discussion on Wednesday. It reads to this effect:—"That the Fund of Benevolence be decentralised so far as the Provinces are concerned, and that a moiety of the subscriptions now transmitted to Grand Lodge by the country Lodges be paid direct into the several Provincial Grand Lodges for the purpose of meeting the numerous local claims for immediate relief which are now so constantly made to those Bodies." We shall take an opportunity of dealing with this more fully on some future occasion, but a few remarks just now will be pertinent. We consider the motion exceedingly ill-advised, and as calculated to prove injurious rather than of service to our brethren in the Provinces. We would point out to Bro. Major Bond that the Constitutions provide for the establishment of Provincial Funds of Benevolence, so that ordinary cases of local distress may be dealt with on the spot, while in extraordinary cases relief can be given both out of the Local Fund, and the great Central Fund, or Lodge of Benevolence. If Bro. Major Bond will turn to page 53 of the Constitutions, he will find the following: "Great advantage having been experienced from the establishment of a Local Fund for charitable and other Masonic purposes, each Provincial Grand Lodge may direct payments to be made by the Provincial Grand Officers and the Lodges in the Province for this desirable purpose (exclusive of the contributions payable to the Grand Lodge). The payments by Lodges shall not exceed the following sums, viz., sixpence per quarter for every contributing member of a Lodge, five shillings for every person who has been initiated, and one shilling for every member who has joined any Lodge since the last payment. This fund cannot be established without the concurrence of at least two-thirds of the members present in Provincial Grand Lodge, nor unless each Lodge in the Province shall have had due notice of the meeting, and of the intention to propose the establishment of such fund, nor until the decision shall have been confirmed at a subsequent meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge, of which due notice shall also be given. If this fund be established, the mode of contribution by Lodges shall on no pretence be departed from, though the Provincial Grand Lodge may diminish any of the payments, or exact only part of them at their discretion. Thus country Lodges can, in no case, be subject to fees exceeding those paid by every Lodge within the London district, while their members will have the advantage of a local fund as well as of the general fund of Charity in London. The Provincial Grand Lodge may make such regulations as they may deem necessary for the application of this fund." It will be seen from this, that in those Provinces where such funds are established, brethren who may be so unfortunate as to need assistance have two funds to which they can apply, the local Fund and the central Fund. In this respect they have the advantage over brethren similarly circumstanced, who reside in the Metropolitan district. It must be a great boon to a brother who may need, or be thought worthy of, only a small amount of help, to know that he can obtain it, so to speak, on the spot; while as regards the large and important cases, the prompt assistance from the local fund will doubtless suffice to carry them on till their petitions to the Central Fund have been adjudicated upon, and such grants as may be made are forthcoming. On the other hand, if a portion of the subscriptions directed to be paid to the Fund of Benevolence is handed over to the Provincial Fund, the efficiency of the former will be impaired without any commensurate benefit accruing to the latter. Last year, for instance, the account of the Fund of Benevolence, as stated by Bro. Harding, the Auditor, began the year with a balance due to the Fund of General Purposes of £701 15s. Its Receipts amounted to £9,270 3s, and its Disbursements to £10,109 5s, so that the year closed with a balance, namely, amount overdrawn, taken from Fund for General Purposes, of £1,540 17s. It will be said, of course, that if a moiety of the Provincial Lodge contributions is withheld from the Central Fund and diverted into specially-established Provincial Funds, there will be a diminished number of petitions to the former. We have very serious doubts on this point. If a large central fund is unable, through pressure of applications, to make both sides of its account square, we cannot see how a number of small funds scattered throughout the country will fare better. For instance, a Province is now under an obligation to transmit subscriptions amounting, we will assume, in the aggregate to £60. This added to a number of other sums of smaller or greater amount, together with the contributions of the London Lodges, yield, say, some £7,600 a year. But give one £30 to the Central Fund, and the other £30 to the Provincial Fund, and we should like to know how long it will take the latter to raise a sufficiently large sum so as to administer substantial relief to the extent of £100, £150, and even occasionally to a higher figure. A case in point, by way of illustration, will be found in the Report of the Lodge of Benevolence, which will be submitted on Wednesday next. The Lodge has recommended a grant of £200 to a distressed brother of Lodge No. 945, Abingdon. Now, if we assume that in Berks and Bucks the receipts annually of its provincial Fund of Benevolence reached even the considerable sum of £100—considerable, that is to say, as regards the number of its subscribing members—how would it be possible for it to vote a sum of £200, as has been recommended to be done in the case noted? A large fund with over £50,000 Government Stock to its credit may venture to give largely, when large gifts are held to be desirable or necessary; but a number of small funds could only give in proportion to their modest annual receipts, and, it might be, equally modest investments. No, our Constitutions have wisely provided that for administrative purposes there shall be, where desirable, Provincial Grand Lodges, seeing that they are better able to cope with matters of local interest, while in respect of important questions vitally affecting the well-being of the Fraternity, there is a final appeal to Grand Lodge, our central Masonic Diet or Parliament. But it has also been as wisely ordered that in matters of Benevolence, while the Constitutions, as we have shown, sanction, and indeed encourage the establishment of Provincial Charity Funds, they insist on there being one Grand Central Fund of Benevolence, to which all worthy, indigent Masons, be they Metropolitan or Provincial, English, Scotch, Irish, or foreign, may apply for help in the time of their distress.

We beg to remind our readers, and especially those of the Degree in question, that the Summer Half-yearly Communication of the Mark Grand Lodge of England and Wales will be held at the Criterion, Piccadilly, on Tuesday next, 31st instant. The meeting will be especially attractive, as the Earl of Lathom M.W. G.M.M.M. will instal his successor, Lord Henniker, and the latter will then appoint his Officers for the year.

The Provincial Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons, Surrey, will meet on Tuesday next, the 31st instant, at the Masonic Hall, 105 High-street, Croydon, under the banner of the Frederick of Unity Chapter, No. 452. Most Excellent Companion General Studholme Brownrigg, C.B., Provincial Grand Superintendent, will preside, and a strong muster of the Companions may be anticipated.

THE NEW LODGE AT PORTSMOUTH.

VISIT OF H.R.H. THE DUKE OF CONNAUGHT.

THE brethren of the Province of Hampshire and the Isle of Wight have reason to be extremely proud of the recent addition that has been made to the Lodges of their district, and are to be congratulated on the splendid success which attended the inauguration of their new Lodge—the Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar, No. 1903. We only hope that an existence begun under such auspices as attended the Consecration may be continued for many years to come, and that the same degree of success may ever attend the new Lodge as was manifest at its first meeting. The R.W. Provincial Grand Master, Bro. W. W. B. Beach, Esq., M.P., acted as Consecrating and Installing Officer, and he fulfilled the duties of those important offices in a most satisfactory manner. The meeting was held on Wednesday, 25th inst., in the Lecture Hall, Penny-street, Portsmouth, which had been most tastefully decorated, with flowers, banners, &c., and when filled by the brethren, as it was in every part during the ceremony, presented a most pleasing spectacle. A special train from London brought H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught and several influential members of Grand Lodge. They were received at the railway station by Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar, who was accompanied by his Staff and Lord Charles Beresford, Commander of the Royal Yacht Osborne, the W.M. designate of the new Lodge, and proceeded direct to the place of meeting. On the entrance of His Royal Highness into the Lodge, the march, "Hail to our Prince," composed by Bro. Winterbottom, Bandmaster of the Royal Artillery, was played by Bro. G. Jones, Prov. G. Organist, and he and the other Grand and Provincial Grand Officers took their seats amid the heartiest applause of the brethren assembled. Bro. Beach assumed the chair, and was supported on the dais by H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught, the Right Hon. Lord Tenterden Prov. G.M. Essex, Bro. Montague Guest, M.P., Prov. G.M. Dorset, Bro. Samuel Rawson P.D.G.M. China, Lieut.-Col. H. S. Somerville Burney, Rev. C. J. Martyn and Rev. C. W. Arnold P.G. Chaplains England, W. Hickman P.A.G.D. of C. Deputy Prov. G. Master, &c. The Lodge was then opened in the three degrees, and the brethren having saluted the Grand and Provincial Grand Officers, the ceremony of consecration was proceeded with, the Lodge being in due course formally constituted by the Provincial Grand Master. The installation of Lord Charles Beresford then took place, and he, having appointed his Officers, proceeded to close the Lodge, first tendering a vote of thanks to the Provincial Grand Master, and proposing that H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught, and the Provincial Grand Master should be elected honorary members of the new Lodge. Bro. Townsend, who was appointed P.M. of the Lodge, said he had been requested by his brother Founders, to tender to the newly installed Worshipful Master their sincere thanks for the great consideration he had shown in undertaking the first Mastership of the Lodge, and to present to him a Founder's jewel, which they hoped he would accept as a pleasing memento of this most auspicious occasion. Lord Beresford suitably responded, and proposed a vote of thanks to His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught for having done them the honour of attending. He had done so at great personal inconvenience, and the Worshipful Master felt that the presence of His Royal Highness had added greatly to the success of what he deemed a most important meeting. The Duke of Connaught cordially expressed his thanks for the reception that had been accorded him. He had attended with the greatest pleasure the proceedings of the day, and looked upon the ceremony as the most imposing he had ever witnessed in connection with Freemasonry, alone excepting the Installation of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales as Grand Master, at the Albert Hall. Hearty good wishes having been tendered by the visiting brethren, the proceedings were brought to a conclusion, about 250 of the brethren afterwards partaking of a banquet at the Headquarters of the Artillery Volunteers, under the presidency of Lord Charles Beresford. In addition to those already named, the Worshipful Master was supported by Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar, and many other distinguished personages.

As we have already said, the greatest credit is due to all who have taken a part in the establishment of this new Lodge, which undoubtedly has started under more favourable auspices than any other of the many now in existence. The petition to the Grand Master bore the names of upwards of sixty brethren, so that the Lodge really started with a membership far in advance of that enjoyed by the majority of English Lodges; we only hope that this prosperity at starting may continue, and that for all time the Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar Lodge may stand out as a grand illustration of the principles of Freemasonry. It is our intention to give a full report of the day's proceedings in our next issue.

We publish elsewhere in our columns a pretty full account of the proceedings of the annual distribution of prizes to the pupils of the Masonic Female Orphan School, Dublin, with reference to which we took occasion to offer a few remarks in our last week's issue. We have since been favoured with, and acknowledge with sincere thanks, receipt of copy of the full "Report presented by the Governors of the Masonic Female Orphan School to the Grand Lodge of Ireland" on 5th May current. We stated then that the amount of subscriptions promised to 4th May was £10,523, of which £7,353 had actually been paid. It seems, however, that a Dublin Lodge and Chapter, to wit the Shakespeare, No. 143, has promised a further £600, conditionally on its having accorded to it the right of nominating one pupil from time to time for thirty years, but as yet there has been no time to submit the proposal to the Governors. If, as is most probable, the Governors accept the offer, then the subscriptions will reach £11,123, or within rather less than £900 of the total sum required, namely, £12,000. Of the amount promised, Dublin Lodges, Chapters, and Preceptories figure for a fraction over £8,200, and the Provinces for £1,953, while, in the shape of miscellaneous subscriptions, that is, from Grand Lodge and Grand Chapter, Great Priory Ireland, Grand Council 33° England, &c., &c., there is a further sum of over £968, the total from these three sources being, as we have said, £11,123. In addition are contributions for special purposes, namely, 250 guineas, by Speedy Memorial Fund, for Infirmary; and £100, by Earl of Pembroke, for Railings; while Bro. John McCurdy, C.E., has promised to defray cost of additional piers for Entrance Gates. This bears out fully the statement that the Provinces, which receive the greater share of the benefits of the Institution, do not give as much help as might justly be expected of them. One excellent idea, which seems to have been acted upon with considerable advantage, should find favour with us about this time—that is, for some weeks before our Charity Festivals. It is thus noted in the report:—"During the past year a suggestion to devote the COLLECTIONS at Masonic meetings to the Funds of the ORPHAN SCHOOLS has been largely acted upon, and a very considerable sum, contributed in separate donations of small amount, has thus been realised." And it is added, "If, in this and other ways, every member of the Order could be induced to make some contribution, however small, in each year to the Schools, they might be maintained in their fullest efficiency—at a cost which, being freely shared by all, could be felt by none." We referred to this last week, but it will bear reiteration.

The concert at the Morley Hall, under the direction of Bro. George Weige, took place, according to announcement, on Monday evening last. There was a very good attendance, and the efforts of the musical artistes gave unqualified satisfaction. We congratulate Bro. Weige and those associated with him on the result.

We have great pleasure in announcing that, on the occasion of Her Majesty's birthday, the Queen has directed letters patent to be issued, conferring on His Royal Highness Prince Leopold, K.G., &c., the style and titles of Duke of Albany, Earl of Clarence, and Baron Arklow.

The consecration of the Montague Guest Lodge, No. 1900, will take place the beginning of July next, at the Inns of Court Hotel, Lincoln's Inn Fields.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—There is nothing in the whole "Materia Medica" like these Medicaments for the certainty of their action in lumbago, sciatica, tic doloreux and all flying or settled pains in the nerves and muscles. Diseases of this nature originate in bad blood and depraved humours, and until these are corrected there can be no permanent cure. The ordinary remedies afford but temporary relief, and in the end always disappoint the sufferer. Holloway's Ointment penetrates the human system as salt penetrates meat, and the Pills greatly assist and accelerate its operation by clearing away all obstructions, and giving tone to the system generally. The prophylactic virtues of Holloway's remedies stand unrivalled.

MASONIC ORPHAN SCHOOLS, DUBLIN.

ANNUAL DISTRIBUTION OF PRIZES.

IF an illustration were wanted of the strength and influence of the Masonic Order in Dublin, that illustration was forthcoming in the Exhibition Palace on Thursday evening, 12th inst., on the occasion of the distribution of prizes to the pupils of the Masonic Schools. The magnificent building in Earlsfort-terrace has been consecrated "many a time and oft" to brilliant assemblages, but seldom, if ever, before has it contained within its walls a gathering so splendid, so picturesque, so representative of the beauty, the culture, and the wealth of the metropolis, as on this last occasion. In the absence of the Grand Master, His Grace the Duke of Abercorn, the chair was taken by R.W. Bro. R.W. Shackleton, Q.C., D.G.M. who was well supported by Grand Officers, Past Masters, and other Brethren. In opening the proceedings the Chairman said, he regretted the absence of the Grand Master, who was obliged to be away from Ireland. He read a letter from his Grace, expressing regret at not being able to be in his place at the ceremony, and also tendering his thanks to Her Excellency the Countess Cowper for her promise to be present, to give away the prizes. He also hoped to be more fortunate in future, and trusted he should be in his place another year at their great Masonic assembly. The Chairman also referred to the absence of the S.G. Chaplain, who he said had never once before deserted his post since the institution of these assemblies; illness however now prevented his attendance. The J.G. Warden, Lord Arthur Hill, had telegraphed that it would be impossible for him to leave London, special and important business detaining him. Before proceeding to the business of the evening, the Chairman said:—I am going to impart a few secrets, as I know the ladies who hear me will be very anxious to hear something of the secrets of our Order. The secret is that we have no secret at all. We have certain principles which are inculcated amongst us, and these principles are known to the world. These are the principles that guide us Masons, and those principles are in print, and any one can see them. But there are two of those principles that I think it well to be alluded to. In these days, when materialism is openly announced, when infidelity is avowedly entertained by men of high position, I think we Masons ought, without the slightest hesitation, to avow our utter abhorrence of these things. When we look around and gaze on the heavens, studded with myriad lights; when we look at the earth, carpeted with flowers of every hue, and giving forth the most beautiful perfumes; and when we regard man, the greatest work of all, with all his heavenward aspirations, and are told, as some of these wise men tell us, that these things are not the production of the great Creator of the Universe, but are, in their technical language, the mere fortuitous conglomeration of atoms—atomical attraction—are we to hear such things and remain silent? We Masons never enquire into a man's creed; we ask no man what his religious belief is; we do not ask to know how he worships his God—the only thing we ask is that he shall believe in a Supreme Being. Another of our universal principles is charity. The charity we inculcate, and the earliest lessons we inculcate to our brethren, are universal benevolence and goodwill to all men, and more especially to our Brother Masons. We are assembled here to-night in celebration of one act of charity, and I am sure, when we look around, we are glad to see so many of our friends coming, year after year, to celebrate this our annual gathering. As you are aware, our Female School was founded for a small number of inmates, and it was determined to build a new school-house. Last year the corner-stone of that building was laid by the Grand Master, and on that occasion also we were honored by the presence of her Excellency the Countess Cowper. To-night our gathering is again graced by her presence, and you will hear from some of the Brethren who will follow me the progress that has been made in the building since this time twelvemonths. We Governors had determined not to infringe on the funds of the School for the purpose of completing the edifice, and I am proud to say we have been able to go on without doing so. But if the School is complete, there is another thing to be done, and that is to furnish it. Now, I know that amongst the fairer portion of my audience there is in every heart a soft tender spot, which, if I only had the magician's art, I might be able to touch; but I can appeal to them and ask them to assist us. It is the intention of the Governors, early in the ensuing year, to hold a bazaar or fancy fair, and we hope from the proceeds of that to be able to furnish the School. Now, on this occasion we wish to enlist the sympathies and call upon the industrious fingers of our lady friends to assist us and help us in every way they can. I know they will not refuse their consent. I ask them not to do so, and I will take their silence now as consent. Before sitting down, I wish to mention that during the last year several of the older girls have left the School, so that on this occasion we have comparatively few but young children, and, as some of them are going to perform on the piano, I would on their behalf bespeak, if necessary, the kind sympathy and indulgence of the audience here.

Bro. Capel Macnamara, LL.D., Honorary Secretary, then read the annual report, of which the following is an extract:—The anticipations expressed in the last report as to the new School have been fully realised. The foundation stone of the building was laid with full Masonic ceremonial on the 24th of June (St. John's Day) 1880, by the M.W. the G.M., in the presence of their Excellencies the Lord Lieutenant and the Countess Cowper. The works have since been vigorously carried on, and at the date of this report the main building has been roofed, the out offices have been commenced, the boundary walls, railings, and gates are in process of erection, and it is confidently expected that the buildings will be completed and ready for occupation early in the year 1882. The contractors have hitherto given full satisfaction to the Building Committee. Great care has been taken to incur no extra expense which could be avoided, and there is no reason to apprehend that the cost of the buildings, complete in all their essential parts, will exceed the estimated sum of £12,000. Special contributions which were given to meet certain additional expenses, such as the cost of handsome railings and suitable gates, and the Speedy Memorial Fund, which was devoted by the donors towards the cost of the infirmary, are not included in this sum. The most conspicuous liberality has been manifested by the members of the Order in support of this great undertaking. The subscriptions promised up to 4th May 1881 amounted to £10,523 5s, of which £7,353 7s 8d was actually paid. If the Building Fund up to 1st of March 1881 be included, the amount contributed to the Masonic Female Orphan School during the period of this report far exceeds the receipts during any corresponding period in the history of the Institution—a result which, having regard to the circumstances of the time, affords the deepest gratification to the Governors. The Governors having, with the approval of the Grand Lodge and Grand Chapter of Ireland, resolved to raise the funds required for the completion of the new School without drawing upon the invested capital, it is still necessary to collect a sum of about £2,000. Though the amount already given is so large, the number of individual donors is comparatively very small, and although the Orphans of provincial brethren who are received into the School far outnumber those from Dublin, the subscriptions from the country, and especially from the North of Ireland, are not in due proportion to the sums received from the Dublin members of the Order. The Governors earnestly desire and confidently hope that, by increased exertions, especially on the part of the friends of the Institution in the provinces, the Building Fund may very speedily be completed. The general income for the year 1880 was £1,990 10s 10d, and the expenditure (including a balance of £37 9s 5d due from 1879) was £2,591 17s 5d. There was, therefore, a deficit at the close of the year of £638 16s, which, but for the amount received for the Building Fund, would have caused the greatest anxiety. The Governors observe with regret that the decline in the receipts has now been progressive for several years. When the School is removed, it is expected that the annual cost of maintaining the same number of children will not be greater than in the existing house, but it would be a melancholy disappointment if the Governors were precluded, by want of funds, from making the enlarged accommodation available for the admission of a greater number of pupils as rapidly as really eligible candidates came forward. It may be calculated that an increase of £40 per annum will be required for the maintenance of each additional girl. It is, therefore, essential to increase the amount of the permanent income, and the Governors believe that this can be best done by increasing the number of Annual Governors, and by inducing those who have already given larger sums not to discontinue the yearly subscriptions, on which the School must chiefly depend for its permanent stability. The number of subscribing brethren in Ireland is so large, that if all, or even a majority, could be induced to subscribe a small sum each, an ample endowment for both Schools would be obtained. The Governors feel that no more convenient mode could be adopted of multiplying small contributions than by extending the custom of making collections at the meetings and devoting them to the Schools. During the year ten pupils have left the School. The inadequacy of the existing School to meet the demands upon it was painfully demonstrated during the year. Only six pupils could be admitted, though eighteen candidates presented themselves in June, and seventeen in December. Seven were struck off the lists, having reached the limit of age without obtaining admission. The number of pupils in the School on 31st December 1880 was thirty-five. Bro. Dr. Webb, Q.C., proposed that the report should be widely circulated, and that the best thanks of the meeting be presented to the Officers of the Institution, and especially to its medical officers, for the disinterested and devoted attention which they have bestowed upon its interests, and for the unbounded interest and sympathy which they have manifested throughout for its prosperity and progress. He proceeded: I must say that there is not a lady present, or, for that matter, not an un-Masonic gentleman present, whose curiosity has not been aroused as to what may be the symbolic significance of the curious devices and the mysterious badges by which the brethren are adorned. I may venture to follow your example, sir. I will venture to take this great meeting into my confidence, and to reveal a secret—a secret which was revealed by you, and which was no secret whatsoever—a secret which is no secret I presume—which requires merely to be mentioned in order that you may be reminded of what is in reality a mere fact, and that is this, that the true jewels and badges of this illustrious Order are not those which are worn upon the shoulder and displayed upon the breast. If I may use the language, the familiar language of the mother of the Gracchi, "These are my jewels," pointing to her children. I say that these young girls, whom we are educating in the paths of virtue, are our jewels. That these young boys, whom we are educating in the paths of virtue, are the real badges of the Order. It is not, however, my duty to-night to glorify the Order. The resolution which I have the honour to propose is that the report be widely circulated, and the more widely it is circulated, the more it will redound to the honour of the Brotherhood. What does that report exhibit? It shows that in this disastrous year, in this year of universal distress, there have been in the Masonic body strong, determined and adventurous spirits, who have resolved to take this year above all others to characterise a new departure in Masonry, and to symbolise it by the erection of a building which all future generations, or at least to many generations to come, will be a standing memorial of the liberality and munificence of the contemporary Order. The years of grace 1880 and 1881 have been marked by the private munificence of the Brotherhood in the accumulation of so large a sum as £10,500. Though this has been the case, there remain those who have not yet performed their duty in this respect, and I am ashamed to confess I am one of the number. It is not right that the new Masonic building should be allowed to commence its career of usefulness in debt, and the report says there is a sum of £2,000 still requiring to be subscribed before it can be relieved from that incubus. Now, I honestly confess my error, and I will promise amendment—if there is any Mason present who has fallen into a similar oblivion of his duty

I hope he will be animated by the feeling of compunction that now animates me, and will follow my poor example and remember his sin. There is another point to which you, sir, have referred, and to which I will merely allude in the most transitory and transient manner, that is—that when this building will be completed it will require to be furnished, and one of the most useful portions of furniture—without which, in fact, it would be entirely deficient—is a library for the School. It is to the ladies who sympathize with the Masonic Order that we look for assistance in carrying this out—in accomplishing that particular work. Therefore we look forward to the proposed Masonic Bazaar and Fancy Fair as one which will elicit and exhibit the sympathy which the ladies of Dublin have in the benevolent objects of this great body. One word—and I have already occupied your time too long—they say there is no gratitude like gratitude for future favours. Gratitude for future favours will be measured in this case by gratitude for the past. I am sure I would be omitting to express the feelings of the Order if I failed to allude to the obligations under which every member of it feels to the noble lady who has honoured us with her presence here this evening, as well as on the occasion of the laying of the foundation stone of our new building, when she was not deterred by circumstances which would have deterred many other ladies from performing the duty, and lent on the occasion the grace and charm of her presence. I sincerely trust that when this great Masonic Bazaar is opened and this Fancy Fair is in full swing that it will not be wanting in the only thing needful to make it a triumphant success, and that is the presence of Countess Cowper. Bro. the Rev. F. F. Carmichael, LL.D., in seconding the motion, said, the time had been, in this very hall, when speakers on this platform had deemed it necessary to defend the cause of Masonry from unjust accusations. That day had undoubtedly gone by, and gone, perhaps, for ever, because as a body we are able to appeal to great and decisive results. In this world judgment always goes in favour of great results. "By their fruits shall ye know them," is a maxim that has the very highest sanction, and the common sense of mankind has verified the truth of that Divine maxim. We are not ashamed to be known by our fruits. We now appeal to these great Schools, and the wonderful success that has been achieved in relation to them, and we can boldly put our cause before the public, and ask for its support. The Masonic body in Dublin has increased, in the course of years, in a most wonderful degree, from the time when it met in a small and almost unknown place to this time, when it has a grand hall of its own; and now a noble building rears itself against the range of beautiful mountains that lie to the south of this city, a most conspicuous object in the landscape. That is due to the generosity of the Masonic Brotherhood, and is in itself a real increase of the work that is done by our body. In the minds of some people Masonry is entirely connected with festive gatherings and good eating and drinking. Now, I do not see why reasonable people should object to the social aspect of Masonry at all. I must confess that I am on the side of the Socialists. I think we never get on so well, carrying out any great general purpose, as when we meet at the social board. It is wonderful how you change your opinions about any man when you dine with him. Well, believing that to be the case, I believe that the social aspect of Masonry is a thing that ought to be supported and sustained. The modern breakfast, introduced mainly by the religious societies, is a decided move in the wrong direction. There is a conspiracy between the modern breakfast and the afternoon tea to abolish the time-honoured dinner party, and society and humanity will be the losers most undoubtedly by the change. By all means let us support the social aspect of Masonry, as well as her charitable and benevolent aspects. An Institution that intends or tries to deal with a great human purpose should adapt itself as far as possible to the many-sided aspects of men. You cannot deal with man as a mere emotional creature, or as a mere intellectual creature, or take him out of the great body of his kind, or separate him from the genial influences that spread between man and man, when face looks upon face, when hand touches hand. That is the great secret of Masonry—the Brotherhood that lies at the root of it—the fact that we recognise the great human Brotherhood, and that, although we do deem ourselves in some respects as elect amongst the many, and as those at the head of the great mass in recognising the profound duties that lie at the root of Brotherhood, it is not with the design of standing apart from our kind, but in endeavouring in every way to spread abroad amongst mankind the great principles that we reverence and endeavour to carry out. Therefore, with great confidence and joy we draw attention to the results of this great Charity, as testified to the satisfaction of all. We rely upon these results as evidence of the nobility of the motives that influence us and the object that we are undoubtedly effecting; and the certainty that as time goes on and the great principles of the Brotherhood spread amongst mankind, the Masonic Body will be regarded as one of the greatest pioneers in the great advance. Bro. James Spaight Acting Provincial Grand Secretary had much pleasure in moving—"That, whilst acknowledging with gratitude the liberal support and assistance with which the Institution has hitherto been favoured, the Governors would earnestly invite the co-operation of the brethren, in order still further to extend its usefulness." Bro. Dr. Banks, Worshipful Grand Steward, in seconding the proposition, which was eventually carried, said—We wish to return our heartiest thanks to those who have come forward to assist us in the arduous work we undertook. There were very many who thought that this undertaking would be a failure, but I confess I was one of those who never thought of failure. I had reliance on the charity of the Masonic Order, a charity that never failed, and I believed that the work, once commenced, would go on to a favourable termination. In that belief and expectation I have not been deceived. Now it is our duty to return our most greatful thanks to the members of the Order who supported us. If my duty ended here it would be one of unmingled pleasure; but I have now to appeal to the members of the Order who have held back, and who have not as yet lent us a hand. I believe many have been prevented in this unpropitious year from helping us, and have been unable to give us as much as they would like to give. I would say to those who are not so richly endowed with this world's goods, "Give as much as your means will admit of;" and if a number of small subscriptions come in they will at once remove the debt. With respect to the munificence of the Lodges, I may mention that two have given more than a thousand pounds; but it is a subject of regret that the country has not been as generous as the city, and that one part of Ireland, which is the richest, has not come forward in a way that might fairly be expected. I am sure, however, that the appeal that has been made to-night will be followed by good results. The procession was then reformed, and all proceeded to a dais erected in the transept, where her Excellency distributed the prizes to the successful pupils, as follow:—

The Ffennell Prize, for the best answering in Scripture, Geography, Grammar, and English History, was awarded to Catherine A. Johnston.

The Astley Prizes. First division for English, comprising Spelling, Reading, Writing, and Arithmetic, First Prize, Catherine A. Johnston; Second, Eleanor E. Burton. Second division, for French, Lilian Hay and Mabel Barnwell.

The Oldham Good Conduct Medals were awarded by the boys themselves to Alfred H. Berney (silver), and Henry Rountree (bronze).

This concluded the proceedings, and the Countess Cowper was escorted to her carriage by the Deputy Grand Master and the other Grand Officers.

It should be mentioned that during the evening several of the girls played musical selections on the pianoforte with very great precision and skill.—Dublin Daily Express.

CORRESPONDENCE.

—:o:—

"MASONIC NAMES FOR GOD."

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

Wilson-street, and Endell-street, Long Acre,
London, W.C., 15th May 1881.

To heavenly themes, sublimer strains belong.—Milton.

DEAR SIR,—Pardon my offering a suggestion to men who are probably better informed than myself; but in the article about the "Masonic Names for God" (page 325) you seem to have omitted to notice that the J is really Hi and Y, which alters the pronunciation; for instance, it should be Hi-eruslum instead of Ge-rualum. My idea is taken from my old pastor and master, the Rev. Dr. Cumming, whose teaching I accepted and appreciated, even as a child, for very many years. He used to say "Hierhova" or "Yehova;" it sounds far softer.

I am, Sir, yours obediently,

J. MORTIMER BURROWS.

[We must respectfully point out to Bro. Burrows that the article "Masonic Names for God," which appeared in our issue of the 14th inst., was quoted from the Masonic Review. We are, therefore, not responsible for any apparent errors of omission. We can also endorse our correspondent's statement as to the proper pronunciation of Jehovah being Yehovah, while the Greek word for our Jerusalem, written in the English character, is "Hierousaleem."—ED. F.C.]

TRAFFICKING IN VOTES.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

SIR,—There is a saying, "Once bitten, twice shy." It is also written, "Put not your faith in princes." The former expression I apply to myself, the second I suggest to those misguided individuals, who venture to trust the "London Masonic Charity Association" for the due performance of their engagements, and I will try to explain the reason why I have arrived at this conclusion. Why! Sir, I was nearly "landed" with the whole of my men's votes at the close of yesterday's election. Others with myself were interested in procuring the due election of a widow, and I was distinctly promised an exchange of widows' votes for all my men's votes. I was ready to fulfil my part of the engagement or contract, but as a matter of fact I could not procure a single widow's vote in exchange from the Association, for they evidently had none, and what I complain of most is, that the Secretary did not even hint his inability to complete his portion of the contract. If, in the natural course of business, men neglect to fulfil their engagements regularly entered into, the result, as a rule, is sometimes awkward to those who do. Not only did I fail to receive the votes so promised, but the Association could not take up their IOU for votes I had exchanged with them at the last election for Boys and Girls. They appeared to be doing a roaring trade yesterday, in exchanging for future delivery, but their system of doing business must be extremely complicated if, when the time arrives for them to redeem their IOU's, they have nothing to pay them with. All I know is this, if others, on the next occasion, are to be served as I have been, it is just as well they should be warned of this apparently happy-go-lucky style of doing business beforehand. The widow appearing in their printed list or circular that was successful, got in more by luck than judgment, if the Association was instrumental in her case. For the cause I was interested in, they did not, for they could not, provide a single vote. It appears to me that they "ran" for the men alone, leaving the widows out in the cold altogether. I ask you, Sir, to insert this letter, in order that future investors in the Association may know what their investments are worth; it seems to me the Committee enter into wild engagements with those foolish enough to trust them, without the slightest chance of fulfilling them.

Yours fraternally,

PAST MASTER.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF NORTH WALES AND SHROPSHIRE.

CONSECRATION OF AUDLEY LODGE, No. 1896

ON Friday 20th inst., favoured by the fineness of the weather, the Provincial Grand Lodge assembled in great force to do honour to the Consecration of the Audley Lodge, as well as to dispose of its own business. Sir Watkin W. Wynn was, we understand, the guest of J. C. Burton Borough, Esq., at Chotwynd Park, on Thursday night.

The Provincial Grand Lodge was opened at the Town Hall at one o'clock. Among those present were Sir W. W. Wynn, Bart., P.G.M., Bulkeley Hughes D.P.G.M., the P.G.M. of Staffordshire G. S. Tudor, the Marquis of Londonderry P.G.M. of Durham, and upwards of 100 brethren. After the other business, the Consecration of Audley Lodge took place; and when the Provincial Grand Lodge was closed, the Installation of the Master of the Audley Lodge (J. Bodenham) was efficiently performed by E. H. Spaull, of London. The Master then invested his Officers as follow:—Lieut.-Col. Masefield S.W., Dr. Gordon J.W., Rev. Robert Jackson S.D., Thos. James J.D., Rev. B. Rising Chaplain, W. Harrison I.G., James Cartwright Tyler. Eight candidates were duly proposed for membership.

We should say that the Audley Lodge's place of meeting is the Town Hall. From the Town Hall the Provincial Grand Lodge—including of course the Lodge just consecrated—formed, and marched in procession to church, a large number of spectators lining the route. The gathering was quite as effective as we had been led to expect, and quite as large. The scarves and aprons (with jewels added in many cases), the swords and staves of office, and the Grand Master's banner were all picturesque, while the four boys (Mason's sons)—Archie Bennion, James Thompson, Clarence, and James Smart—bearing the open Bible, were objects of great interest to the crowd through which they passed. The procession moved down street to the Grammar School, and entering the churchyard by the north gate, passed into the church. Mr. Smart presided at the organ, and played a voluntary while the congregation were seating.

The service was choral—the prayers being intoned by the Rev. R. Jackson in a very clear voice, and a strong choir giving the psalms and hymns with full effect. The anthem "O thou that tellest" is a more florid composition than is often sung in public worship, and the congregation seemed hardly to know what to make of it. The first lesson was read by the Rev. B. Rising, who (as well as Bro. Jackson, and afterwards Dr. Gordon) appeared in Masonic attire. The Rector of Newport read the second lesson. Dr. Gordon's sermon was lofty in conception, and very eloquent in expression. The text was from St. Matthew's Gospel, xx. 26-28: "But it shall not be so among you; but whosoever will be great among you, let him be your minister; and whosoever will be chief among you, let him be your servant: even as the Son of Man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give His life a ransom for many." The first part of it was a highly eulogistic commendation of Masonry as founded on the principle that service to mankind is the truest and noblest title to honour. The last part was a magnificent statement of the glory of Him "Who took upon Him the form of a servant," and reached the throne, far above all principalities and powers, by the service of toil and suffering. The Doctor commenced by saying the aim of Masonic association was to carry out the principle of the text in practical religion, brotherhood and philanthrophy. He insisted strongly on the fact that it is service which deserves honour; and that it is eminent service which the world recognizes as greatness. This, he said, was the claim of the Masonic Brotherhood to honour, and he asserted that for nobility of conception and unbounded charity none could exceed it. In illustration of the truth that self-denying service is the secret of all nobleness, he referred to the honours conferred on the patriot statesman, the scientific discoverer, and the soldier hero. Their glory was the outcome of service—self denying even to the hazard of their lives. This was the secret of the honour their Brotherhood had won. They bound themselves by the strongest religious bond to do good—especially to their Brethren. This explained the mighty impetus the Masonic society had received of late years. It flourished, not because a Prince of the blood royal was at its head, and nobles were numbered among its members, but because this spirit animated the thousands of good men and true who composed it; because its Brotherhood was the largest factor of practical beneficence in the world—Christianity alone excepted; because they were helpful to each other and the servants of the commonwealth. Turning then, with a great change of manner, to the example of Divine service in the text, the preacher briefly referred with wonderful vividness to the glory of Christ the Lord, and with great pathos to the sufferings and sacrifices by which it was won; and concluded by appealing on behalf of the Masonic Charities of the Province, for His sake "Who gave Himself for men." The collection amounted to £14 10s 2½d.

At the close of the service the procession re-formed and marched back to the Town Hall, where Mr. Ensor, of the Royal Victoria Hotel, had prepared a banquet. This was, as we are informed by one who should know, of a first class character in every respect; and such as the caterer may be well congratulated on. The P.G.M., Sir W. W. Wynn, presided, and seemed to be, we are happy to say, in renewed health and good spirits. The toasts were as follow:—

The Queen and the Craft; H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, G.M.; the Earl of Carnarvon, Pro G.M., the Earl of Lathom, D.G.M., and the rest of the Grand Officers present and past. These were all given from the chair, and well received, with full Masonic honours. Sir Watkin's health was proposed by W.M. Bodenham, who spoke in complimentary terms of the P.G.M., and his connection with the progress of Masonry in North Wales and Shropshire. He hoped he might be spared to them for many years, and again hold his P.G. Lodge in Newport.

Sir W. W. Wynn, in replying, thanked all the members of the Audley Lodge for their kindness to him. He was sorry to have inconvenienced them by postponing the meeting on account of the funeral of Earl Beaconsfield. Though Masonry included all shades of religious and political opinion, he was sure the great majority would approve the course he took.

The Visiting P.G. Masters was proposed by Sir Watkin Wynn, and responded to by the P.G.M. of Staffordshire. The D.P.G. Master, and the Officers of the P.G. Lodge present and past, was proposed by Bro. Tudor P.G.M. Staffordshire, and responded to by P.G.J.W. Davies. The W.M. and Success to the "Audley Lodge" was proposed by the Chairman, and responded to by the W.M., in a most happy speech. The Visiting Brethren was proposed by W.M. Bodenham, and responded to by Bro. Matthews, of Wolverhampton. The Consecrating Officer was proposed by Bro. Gordon Warren, and responded to by Bro. Spaull P.G.S., Oswestry. The Installing Master was proposed by Bro. Davies P.G.J.W., and Bro. E. H. Spaull responded. W.M. Bodenham proposed the Officers of the Audley Lodge, and Dr. Gordon responded. The Masonic Charities were also proposed by W.M. Bodenham, and the P.G.S. responded for them.

The evening closed with the Tyler's toast We should add that a very excellent glee party from Birmingham enlivened the proceedings with much pleasant harmony.—Newport and Market Drayton Advertiser.

METROPOLITAN CHAPTER OF IMPROVEMENT.

AS the gatherings of this eminent Chapter of Improvement for the season are drawing to a close, the concluding meetings are more numerously attended—and by some of the most skilful Royal Arch Masons to be found in the Metropolitan district. This was particularly the case on Tuesday evening last, when the assembly at the Jamaica Tavern, St. Michael's-alley, Cornhill, was more numerous than usual; attributable, doubtless, to the double attraction which had been previously announced, commencing, in the first instance, with a rehearsal of the ceremony of installation of the three Principals, by Comp. Turquand, to be followed, as usual, by the ceremony of Exaltation. As the formal induction of the three Principals is seldom witnessed in a Chapter of Instruction, this event was looked forward to with more than ordinary interest. The Chapter having been formally opened, Comp. Turquand assumed his position as M.E.Z., and in a most able and painstaking manner installed Comp. Field, the newly-installed M.E.Z. of the Panmure Chapter, into the first chair; and the beautiful ritual of this degree was rendered in a manner that elicited the warmest commendations, for seldom is it seen performed so well. The next part of the business was the installation of Comp. Storr into the chair of H., which was followed by the placing of Comp. Catterson into the chair of J.; each of these latter ceremonies being equally well performed. The Convocation of Installed Principals being closed, the Companions below the chair were admitted, and the ordinary business of Exaltation was proceeded with. The Officers present were Comps. R. Payne Z., J. Payne H., Chicken J., Maidwell S.N., M'Dowell P.S., F. Brown S.E. and Preceptor; also Comps. Kirke, Turquand, Massa, Storr, Field, H. Thompson, W. Fraser, Taylor, C. Pulman, Lardner, Tusser, Goodenough, King, Veal, Catterson, Edmonds, J. S. Fraser, &c. The ceremony of Exaltation was then rehearsed, Comp. Storr candidate. The whole of the Principals were well up to their duties. A vote of thanks was unanimously passed, and ordered to be entered on the minutes, to Comp. Turquand for the very able manner in which he had performed the ceremony of Exaltation of the Principals—which is one seldom to be witnessed outside a regular Chapter. This that worthy Companion acknowledged. The following Officers were then elected for the ensuing fortnight, when the season will be brought to a close:—Comps. Massa Z., J. Payne H., Maidwell J., R. Payne S.N., Goodenough P.S. Chapter was then closed, and the convocation adjourned until the 24th instant.

Northumberland and Berwick Lodge of Mark Master Masons T.I.—The last regular meeting of this Lodge, before adjourning for the summer months, took place on Wednesday, the 27th ult., at the Freemasons' Hall, Maple-street, Newcastle-on-Tyne. There were present Bros. T. J. Armstrong W.M, John Ridsdale P.M., R. L. Armstrong S.W., R. G. Salmon J.W., J. Wood M.O., J. S. B. Bell S., S. M. Harris J.O., R. Lock Treasurer, I. G. Place Secretary, C. B. Ford S.D., W. M. Lion as J.D., Masters I.G., and G. S. Sims Tyler. The Lodge was opened and minutes of last meeting confirmed The ballot was taken for two brethren for advancement, which proved successful in each case, but the candidates not being in attendance, there was no work. The Lodge being closed the brethren adjourned to the banqueting-room and sat down to a capital supper, after which the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts with several complimentary ones, were given and duly honoured.

On Tuesday, 31st May, will be rehearsed, by Bro. W. S. Daniel, W.M. of the Alexandra Palace Lodge, No. 1541, the ceremony of installation, at the Kennington Lodge of Instruction, No. 1381, at the Horns Tavern, Kennington. On this occasion the Lodge will be under the Preceptorship of Bro. J. R. Stacey.

With the March number was completed the first volume of Moore's Masonic Messenger, a very useful organ of the Craft, published in Detroit, Michigan. Bro. Moore has had a long experience in connection with Masonic journalism, and we trust we shall long continue to number him among the learned of our fraternity.

BRITANNIC LODGE, No. 33.

AT the annual installation meeting of this Lodge, which was held at Freemasons' Tavern, on Friday, 13th instant, Bro. Major J. S. Peirce G.D. P.G.S., and the oldest P.M. of this Lodge, and an active member for the last 23 years, was presented by I.P.M. Bro. Walter Webb, on behalf of the brethren, with a testimonial, consisting of a handsome silver centre piece plateau and flower vases, bearing the following inscription:—

"Presented to Bro. John Sampson Peirce G.D. P.G.S. P.M. 2 P.M. 33, as a token of fraternal esteem and high appreciation of his zealous and valuable services to the Lodge, not only as a Past Master, but also as its Director of Ceremonies.—13th May 1881."

together with a complete set of Grand Lodge clothing. The presentation was made after the Lodge meeting, at an elegant banquet, when about 100 brethren sat down.

Union Lodge. No. 38.—In consequence of the Earl of March, M.P., who is S.W. of this Lodge, having recently been appointed Senior Warden of England, the brethren, at their ordinary monthly meeting, passed, on the proposition of Bro. G. Smith P.M. P.P.G.D., seconded by Bro. Molesworth P.M. P.P.G.D., the following resolution:—That the brethren of the Lodge of Union, No. 38, of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons, in open Lodge assembled, desire to offer their sincere and hearty congratulations to R.W. Bro. the Earl of March, M.P., on his recent appointment by the W.M. Grand Master H.R.H. the Prince of Wales to the high and distinguished position of Senior Grand Warden of England." The resolution, which has been forwarded to the noble Lord, was signed by the W.M. Bro. R. G. Raper P.P.J.G.W., and by Bro. C. H. R. Ballard Secretary.

West Smithfield Lodge, No. 1623.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, W.C., on Thursday, the 19th instant. Bro. William Pennefather W.M. opened the Lodge, and was supported during the evening by Bros. W. Malthouse S.W., McButt J.W., H. J. Lardner S.D., G. H. Stephens J.D., J. J. Howes I.G., W. Snow D.C., R. B. Greenwood A.D.C., W. Butt W.S., Past Masters E. Mallott Secretary, G. S. Elliott, T. W. Adams, T. Butt 907, Silver J. King, Brickdale, Thornton, Brasher, Milton, Gaskin, Wilkinson, Smith, Wareham, Chambers, Mackay, &c. The Visitors were Bros. Van Raalte W.M. 917, Stafford 1366, Lazarus 1017, &c. The minutes of last meeting having been read and confirmed, Lodge was opened, and Bros. Brasher and Thornton, having satisfactorily answered the usual questions, were raised to the third degree, the ceremony in each case being performed, in an admirable manner, by Bro. Pennefather. The ballot was taken for the admission of Mr. Henry Wareham, and proving favourable, he, together with Mr. Chambers, who had previously been balloted for, were initiated into the Order. After several matters had been discussed, Lodge was closed, and the brethren sat down to a banquet, served under the able superintendence of Bro. Dawkins. On the removal of the cloth, the usual toast list was gone through, each meeting with a hearty reception. After spending a most harmonious evening, the brethren separated at an early hour.

FREEMAN'S CHLORODYNE.

The Original and only true.

HUNDREDS of Medical Practitioners testify to its marvellous efficacy in immediately relieving and rapidly curing Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Neuralgia, Spasms, Colic, Whooping Cough, and all Nerve Pains. It acts like a charm in Diarrhœa, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery. It rapidly relieves pain, from whatever cause, soothes and strengthens the system under exhausting diseases, and gives quiet and refreshing sleep.

Lord Chancellor Selborne, Lord Justice James, Lord Justice Mellish decided in favour of FREEMAN'S ORIGINAL CHLORODYNE, and against Brown and Davenport, compelling them to pay all costs in the suits. See Times of July 24th, 1873. Bottles 1s 1½d, 2s 9d, 4s 6d, 11s, and 20s. Sold by all Chemists.

TESTIMONIALS.—Head Quarter Staff, Cabul, May 31st, 1880. Mr. R. Freeman, Dear Sir,—It is with much pleasure I am able to state that your Chlorodyne has been of special service to me in alleviating the wearisome spasms of Asthma, which is here existent in an aggravated form. Many of my patients now come and beg me to give them that medicine which always relieves them, and which I need hardly say is your Chlorodyne. Yours faithfully, CHARLES W. OWEN, L.R.C.P. Lon., M.R.C.S. Eng., the Divisional Head Quarter Staff and Civil Surgeon, Cabul.

The Times, August 13th, 1877. From our own Correspondent with the Russian Army. Okoum, July 25th, 1877. The want of sanitary arrangements in the Russian Camp was dreadful, and had we remained there a few weeks longer, dysentery and typhoid fever would have played more havoc in our ranks than the bombs of the Turks. I myself acquired an unenviable reputation as a doctor, owing to my being provided with a small bottle of CHLORODYNE, with which I effected miraculous cures.

7. REPORT OF THE BOARD OF GENERAL PURPOSES.

To the United Grand Lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons of England.

The Board of General Purposes beg to report as follows:—

1st.—Twenty years having elapsed since a permanent addition was made to the number of Grand Officers, during which period a very large increase has taken place, both in number of the Lodges and members of the Order under the Grand Lodge of England, the Board are of opinion that the time has arrived when some addition may be properly and advantageously made to the list of Grand Officers annually appointed by the M.W. the Grand Master.

2. The Board therefore recommend that an addition be made accordingly, that such addition take the form of the appointment annually of two Standard Bearers and a Deputy Director of Ceremonies, and that the same take effect on and after the Grand Festival of 1882.

3rd.—The Board also recommend that in Provinces numbering forty Lodges and upwards the Provincial Grand Masters shall be empowered to appoint annually four Deacons, instead of two as at present, and also a Deputy Director of Ceremonies.

4th.—The Board have to report further that their Premises Committee have laid before them a statement that an opportunity occurs of acquiring a freehold stable and premises in New Yard, adjoining the property of Grand Lodge; that £1000 has been asked for these premises, which the Committee consider far in excess of its value, but, after careful consideration, are of opinion that for the sum of £600 the premises in question would be a useful acquisition to Grand Lodge, and the Board agreeing with the Premises Committee in their opinion recommend Grand Lodge to authorise the purchase of the said freehold premises (containing some 450 feet superficial) at a price not exceeding £600.

5th.—The President will move accordingly.

The Board of General Purposes, to whom it was on the 2nd day of March last referred to investigate the appeal involved in the following Motion proposed to Grand Lodge by Bro. Tudor Trevor and to report thereon to the next meeting of Grand Lodge:—

> That in consideration of the very exceptional circumstances of his application for pecuniary assistance, and that he has been much embarrassed by the un-Masonic litigation which ensued in defiance of the Principles of the Craft, and especially of No. 6 of Antient Charges and Regulations, consequent on the part he took in the exclusion from his Lodge, No. 1511, of an offending brother (which exclusion was approved by the Provincial Grand Master), this Grand Lodge is pleased as a Special Case to direct the grant of £150 from the Fund of General Purposes, to Bro. Tudor Trevor P.M., &c. in aid of his costs in defending the action "Bro. Voigt versus Bros. Carr, Laking and Trevor," tried at Leeds in August last, and in respect of which costs Bro. Trevor affirms that he has already paid £169 4s 11d, and that he has been greatly impoverished thereby, beg to report thereon as follows:—

1. At the request, and for the better convenience of Bro. Tudor Trevor, who represented his inability to appear in London on the ordinary days of meeting, the Board held a Special Meeting on a day selected by him, for the purpose of considering the reference on the 6th day of May instant, at which were present the following members:—

Bro. Sir JOHN B. MONCKTON, President	Bro. THOMAS FENN
F. GREEN, Vice-President	PETER DE LANDE LONG
Sir A. W. WOODS, Garter	JOHN MESSENT
HENRY C. LEVANDER	CHARLES W. THOMPSON
ROBERT F. GOULD	CHARLES ATKINS
FRANK RICHARDSON	Lt.-Col. FRANCIS C. WEMYSS
Lt.-Col. HUGH S. SOMERVILLE BURNEY	ALFRED MEADOWS, M.D.
FREDR. A. PHILBRICK, Q.C.	EDWARD B. GRABHAM
JOHN A. RUCKER	HENRY BISHOP
	JOHN G. STEVENS.

2. Bro. Tudor Trevor, Bro. Voigt, and also the W. Master of the Alexandra Lodge, No. 1511, Hornsea, all received an intimation of the meeting, and all availed themselves of the opportunity of being present.

3. Brother Tudor and Brother Voigt were heard at length, and the W. Master of the Alexandra Lodge was also heard in reply to several questions it was thought necessary to put to him.

4. After a careful investigation of the matter referred, the following Resolutions were unanimously agreed to:—

> I.—That the principle of Grand Lodge devoting any portion of its Funds towards defraying the cost of legal proceedings, not incurred by its authority or by that of the Board of General Purposes (as its executive Board), would be an innovation constituting a very inconvenient precedent, and leading to most undesirable results.
> II.—That there does not appear to be any sufficient ground or reason why the case now under investigation should be specially excepted from the operation of the principle laid down in the preceding Resolution.

5.—And the above Resolutions are recommended by the Board for the adoption of Grand Lodge accordingly.

(Signed) JOHN B. MONCKTON,
President.

FREEMASONS' HALL, LONDON, W.C.
17*th May* 1881.

At the meeting of the Board held on Tuesday, 17th of May, after the ordinary business had been disposed of, the following resolution was passed, viz.:—

> The members of the Board unanimously desire to express their sense of the ability and courtesy uniformly displayed on all occasions by the V.W. Brother Sir John B. Monckton, as President of the Board of General Purposes.

(Signed) FRANK GREEN,
Vice-President.

To the Report is subjoined a statement of the Grand Lodge Accounts at the last Meeting of the Finance Committee, held on Friday the 13th May instant, shewing a Balance in the Bank of England of 5.766 12s 5d, and in the hands of the Grand Secretary, for Petty Cash £75, and for Servants' Wages £96 15s.

APPEAL.

Appeal by Brother Charles Edward Torrance, P.M. of the St. George's Lodge, No. 440, Montreal, against a sentence of exclusion passed on him by the Lodge for non-payment of dues, and which Appeal the District Grand Master of Montreal had declined to entertain.

N.B.—The papers relating to this Appeal will be in the Grand Secretary's Office till the meeting of Grand Lodge, and open for the inspection of the Brethren during Office hours.

PROPOSED MOTIONS.

1. Further consideration of Motion by Brother Tudor Trevor, P.M. No. 944, Bombay, now of No. 41, Bath, and late of No. 1511, Hornsea; referred at last Grand Lodge, on 2nd March, for investigation and report by the Board of General Purposes:—

Tudor Trevor, P.M., &c., in aid of his costs in defending the action 'Brother Voigt versus Brothers Carr, Laking, and Trevor,' tried at Leeds in August last, and in respect of which costs Brother Trevor affirms that he has already paid £169 4s 11d, and that he has been greatly impoverished thereby."

2. By V. W. Brother Lieut-Col. JOHN CREATON, Grand Treasurer—
> "That the sum of £70 be given from the Fund of General Purposes; that the money be placed in the hands of the Secretary of the "Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for Aged Freemasons and Widows of Freemasons," to supply the Residents of the Institution at Croydon with Coals during the winter months.

3. By Brother Major EDWIN BOND, J.W. No. 887, Birmingham—
> "That the Fund of Benevolence be decentralized so far as the Provinces are concerned, and that a moiety of the subscriptions now transmitted to Grand Lodge by the Country Lodges be paid direct into the several Provincial Grand Lodges for the purpose of meeting the numerous local claims for immediate relief which are now so constantly made to those Bodies."

MASONIC C.C. v. WOOD GREEN C.C. SECOND ELEVEN.

PLAYED in lovely weather, on Saturday, 21st May, on a fairly good wicket, and after an extremely well contested game resulted in a victory for the Masonics by 3 wickets and three runs. The M.C.C. having won the toss, put their opponents in, who sent in Lewis and Thomas. The wickets fell very rapidly, owing to the capital bowling of E. V. Gardner and P. James. With the exception of Conolly and Bidwell, who made 16 and 7 respectively, no heavy scoring was shown by Wood Green. The last wicket fell for 44. After the usual interval, the M.C.C. went in. The first 2 wickets fell for 12. E. V. Gardner, after a very steady innings, was unfortunately bowled for 8. The rest followed in and out rapidly, and the innings ended for 23. Wood Green in their second innings were easily disposed of, E. V. Gardner and P. James only succeeding in adding 15 to the total. This left the M.C.C. 37 in order to win—a task they completed, thanks to the fine batting of W. A. Stansfield, who made 27 (not out). The Masonic Band played, at intervals, a choice selection of music, which highly pleased the spectators, and made the game very pleasant. The following is the full score :—

ANNUAL SUPPER OF THE BURDETT COUTTS LODGE OF INSTRUCTION, No. 1278.

THE anniversary meeting of this Lodge was celebrated on the 4th inst., at the Lamb Tavern, Wilmot-street, Bethnal-green-road, where it is now comfortably established, and gives every promise of again becoming a most successful working Lodge. The W.M. of the parent Lodge, Bro. Dr. Defriez, having kindly consented to preside, Lodge was opened in due form in a room adjoining the usual Lodge room, and the W.M. was assisted by the following brethren :—Bros. T. J. Barnes P.M. as S.W., Clark J.W., Abrahams S.D., Ward J.D., Hammond I.G., Hand Hon. Secretary. There were also present Bros. Huxley, Jones, Smith, Christian, Glass, Brittain, Frichtenicht, Swan, Stewart, Anderson, Quay, Gray, Chitson, Venner, Fisher, E. Venner, Clements, Holdom, G. H. Stephens, &c. After the minutes of the previous Lodge meeting had been read and confirmed, Lodge was advanced, and Bro. Barnes S.W. worked the first section of the lecture with the assistance of the brethren. Lodge was closed to the first degree, when the following brethren were admitted members, viz., Bros. Glass 453, E. Venner 901, and Frichtenicht 217, each of whom expressed thanks for the honour conferred upon him. Lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to the usual Lodge room, which, under the skilful direction of Bro. J. B. D'Ardenne, had undergone a complete transformation, and been made to serve as a spacious and handsome salle à manger, the tables being ornamented with flowers, in excellent taste. When comfortably seated, to the number of about three dozen, grace was said, and an excellent repast was done justice to. It has seldom fallen to our lot to have been present at so successful and harmonious a meeting, all present enjoying themselves most heartily. That excellent aid to the digestive organs a good toast list, was next discussed. Bro. Defriez having given Loyalty to the Throne and Prosperity to the Masonic Institutions, and the Best Interests of the Craft, the sentiment was heartily received, and Bro. Sturtevant (S.W. of the mother Lodge, who acted throughout the evening as I.P.M.) sang "God save the Queen," the brethren assisting. The next toast, the W.M. said, was the toast of the evening. In proposing prosperity to the Burdett Coutts Lodge of Instruction, he felt quite certain, if the brethren would attend, they would find out its great value. It was years since he joined, and he felt greatly indebted to the Burdett Coutts Lodge of Instruction. He would associate the name of Bro. Barnes, who was well known, with this toast, from whom the W. Master owned to have received considerable instruction. Bro. Barnes, in response, said he was one of the founders of the Lodge, and for a long time took great interest in it, being a frequent attendant at its meetings. He wished it all prosperity and success. Although of late not able to be with them often, he was with them in the spirit if not in the flesh. He thanked the W.M. for coupling his name with the toast. The health of the W.M. was proposed by Bro. Sturtevant. Bro. Defriez was, he said, the W.M. of the Burdett Coutts Lodge, and it was very kind of him to come and assist them by taking the chair on this occasion. They all wished to make the Lodge of Instruction a success, and although it had sometimes fallen into disuse, it now was going on most prosperously. It was conveniently located, so that brethren could reach it by rail, and they were fortunate in having a good host (Bro. D'Ardenne). He would ask them to drink the health of the W.M., whose assistance had rendered the present meeting a success. After a song from Bro. Hammond, Bro. Defriez said he was very much obliged to Bro. Sturtevant and to the brethren for proposing and responding to the toast. He felt very much indebted to the Burdett Coutts Lodge for instruction which had enabled him to fill the chair in the mother Lodge. In proposing the Officers, the W.M., after accounting for the unavoidable absence of Bro. W. Hogg P.M. the Preceptor, said no Lodge could succeed unless it had a good Preceptor. The brethren in coming for instruction had to pay; this necessitated having a Treasurer to take care of the money, and a Secretary to keep the accounts. He asked them to drink the health of those excellent Officers. After a capital song from Bro. A. Abrahams, Bros. Hand Secretary, and D'Ardenne Treasurer, returned thanks. The Mother Lodge was next honoured, and Bro. Sturtevant, who was called upon to respond, after a few remarks, said the mother Lodge took its title from a lady whose name is closely associated with charity, and what, he would ask, was Masonry but charity? The meeting gave him great pleasure, and he could say, might the Lodge continue its present prosperity, in which wish he was sure every member of the mother Lodge would join. The next toast the W.M. said was a most important one. He asked them to drink to the Sister Lodges of Instruction in the neighbourhood. They had received assistance from all, and felt much obliged to them, especially on the occasion of working the Fifteen Sections. There was Bro. Barnes, who was a host in himself; Bro. B. Stewart Secretary of the Trelegar 1623, G. H. Stephens Secretary of the Israel No. 205, Christian of the Dalhousie 860, and others. This was received with great cordiality, and several of the brethren responded. The toasts of the Masonic Press, replied to by Bro. G. H. Stephens; the Visitors, replied to by Bros. Fisher S.D. Abbey Lodge 1184, Gray P.M. Camden Lodge 704, and Limbe of the Corinthian; the Hosts, responded to by Bros. Huxley and D'Ardenne, with the alternation of some good singing, and a capital recitation by Bro. Stephens, occupied the remainder of this most pleasant evening. Great praise is due to Bro. Hand Hon. Sec. for so ably organising the meeting, and to Bro. D'Ardenne for so efficiently placing the resources of his establishment at the disposal of the brethren in so handsome and creditable a manner.

Among the Volunteer Officers on whom Her Majesty has conferred the honour of Aide-de-Camp, is the Right Worshipful Bro. Sir W. W. Wynn, Bart., M.P., Provincial Grand Master of North Wales and Salop.

THE installation meeting of this Lodge was held at the Lodge Rooms, at Headquarters of the First Surrey Volunteer Rifles, at Camberwell, on Thursday, the 12th inst., when a large attendance of members and visitors testified to the interest taken in the continued progress of the Macdonald. Amongst those present were Bros. W. C. Hale W.M., D. A. Ross S.W. and W.M. elect, T. A. Hooper J.W., A. Styan Treasurer, W. J. Messenger P.M. Secretary, C. H. Nevill S.D., A. C. Bradley J.D., A. J. Style A.D.C., Alfred Youngman I.G., A. Woodcock C.S.; Past Masters Charles Fountain I.P.M., James Stevens, Newington Bridges D.C., H. Hammond, M. S. Larlham, and T. W. Cornell; also Bros. A. G. White, H. A. Price, H. Cuff, J. Curtis, A. H. Gogge, E. W. Dubois, W. S. Harvey, A. H. Mann, H. Ward, V. H. D'Avaux, R. Sandell, A. R. Cranch, T. P. Staley, T. V. Turner, F. P. Baxter, P. Yonge, F. Hutchins. Visitors—Bros. G. W. J. King W.M. 905, Thomas Preston, H. Goodman, H. J. M. Williams, and W. S. R. Payne, all of the Royal Leopold Lodge, No. 1669; H. J. Thorne D.C. 1818, F. C. Rossignol 1672, A. F. Lowrie 1556, James Tulloch 142, John Probert P.M. British, A. Bertram of The Great City, and Burcham Cooper of the Ivy 1411. After the confirmation of minutes, and the passing to the F.C. degree of the initiates in attendance, Bro. D. A. Ross the W.M. elect was presented to the W.M., Bro. W. C. Hale, for installation, and in due course was placed in the chair of K.S. by his immediate predecessor. The newly installed Master appointed his Officers in rotation, and Bro. Past Master Bridges having delivered the customary addresses, the proceedings connected with the installation ceremony were completed. The Auditors' report met with a favourable reception, the balance in favour of the Lodge being considered most satisfactory. After the despatch of some routine business, the W.M. announced to the brethren that he had made arrangements for the banquet to take place at the Bridge House Hotel, instead of the large Mess-room attached to Headquarters, and he fully explained his reasons for this departure from former custom, and satisfied his hearers that his reasons were good and sufficient. Consequently, on the closing of the Lodge, each brother present declared his agreement with the Worshipful Master by accepting the accommodation provided in the conveyances then in waiting, and by means of which they speedily reached the banquet-room, prepared for them by Messrs. Roberts. We must candidly admit that, notwithstanding the hitherto good repute in which the festive gatherings of the Macdonald in their "Mess-room" have always been held, the contrast on this occasion, having regard to display and service, was greatly in favour of the view taken by the new W.M. that change was necessary. At all events, a more elaborate menu, with excellent wines and liberal attendance, could not have been desired, and the proprietors of the Hotel deserved the expressions of satisfaction which their efforts to please called forth. After clearance of the cloth, the W.M. gave the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts, his remarks being greatly assisted by the appropriate Shakspearian quotations with which the menu card was liberally besprinkled. These were not of the usual character, but appeared to be a perfectly new series, and the result of much research on the part of the compiler, who, it was whispered, was the Worshipful Master himself. Whether that be so or not, the work was very creditable. The toast of the Worshipful Master was enthusiastically received, and in a manner which testified to his popularity. In reply, the Worshipful Master again referred to the departure from former usage in leaving the Lodge rooms for a distant hotel, and his remarks called forth a further endorsement of the policy he had adopted. The Visitors, in responding for the compliment paid to them, also expressed their conviction that the best interests of the Lodge would be advanced by the new arrangement. The customary acknowledgments of services of Past Masters and Officers were made, and duly responded to. The proceedings of a delightful evening were interspersed by excellent singing and recitals, amongst which may be particularly noticed the recitation by Past Master James Stevens (the originator of the Lodge) of the admirable Masonic poem "Masons' Vows," which he appears to have made quite his own. With the Tyler's toast this most enjoyable gathering came to a conclusion at a reasonable hour.

PRIORY CHAPTER, No. 1000.

THE installation meeting of this very flourishing Chapter was held at the Terminus Hotel, Southend-on-Sea, on Wednesday, the 18th inst. Excellent Companion Rev. H. J. Hatch M.E.Z. presided at the opening of the Chapter. The preliminary business being completed, Bro. Dr. Thomas King, M.D., P.M. 160 P.P.G.P. Essex, was duly exalted to the supreme degree. After the delivery of the three lectures, Excellent Companion James Terry P.Z. 174 P.G.D.C. Herts proceeded to instal the Principals for the ensuing year, viz.:—Companions W. Pissey M.E.Z., E. Judd H., Dr. J. F. Jones J. At the conclusion a hearty vote of thanks was accorded to Bro. Terry for his able and impressive rendering of the ceremonies. Brighten P.Z. 72 and 1339. A banquet followed, after which the usual toasts were given. A handsome P.Z.'s jewel was presented to Comp. Rev. H. J. Hatch, in recognition of his able services during the past year. The Janitor's toast concluded a very enjoyable evening.

GORDON LODGE, No. 1726.

THE installation meeting was held on Tuesday, at the Assembly Rooms, Bognor, when the retiring W.M. Bro. R. Talmy Turner installed, as his successor in the chair, Bro. Arthur Smith Prov. G. Steward. Bro. A. Smith, who is an enthusiastic and efficient Mason, served last year, with much distinction, as W.M. of the Union Lodge, No. 38, Chichester. Having returned thanks for the election to the chief office in Masonry in his native town, he proceeded to invest his Officers for the ensuing year, among them being Bro. A. G. Harvie S.W., Bro. H. N. Travers J.W., Bro. Swansborne Treasurer, and Bro. A. T. Long Secretary. The usual banquet took place in the evening, at the Norfolk Hotel, when there was a good attendance of brethren. The newly-installed W.M. presided, and the gathering was invested with additional interest by the presence of the R.W. Prov. Grand Master Bro. Sir W. W. Burrell, Bart., M.P. Among the other Visitors were the W.M. of the Union Lodge, No. 38, Bro. R. G. Raper, Bros. St. Clair P.M. 38 P.M. 1726, A. J. Wright P.M. 38, W. H. Barrett Senior Deacon 38, W. Dean Junior Deacon 38, O. Lloyd 38, G. Kemp 38, Wyndham Burrell 38 and 1495, the W. Master of the Worthing Lodge of Friendship 851 Skindle, and Visitors from the Lodges Hova Ecclesiæ 1466, and St. Cecilia 1636. The usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were duly honoured, and a pleasant evening spent, Bro. A. Kenningham, of St. Paul's Cathedral Choir, delighting the company by his splendid singing.

Montefiore Lodge, No. 1017.—The regular meeting of this flourishing Lodge was held on the 25th inst., at the Café Royal, Air-street, Regent-street. Bros. S. N. Abrahams W.M., M. Levy S.W., J. Syer J.W., L. Jacobs Treasurer, E. P. Albert P.G.P. Secretary, G. T. Mann S.D., N. H. Benjamin J.D., M. H. Leverton I.G., W. H. Gulliford P.M. D.C., D. M. Davis Organist, L. Lazarus Steward, P.M.'s L. J. Salomons, Chevalier S. Pollitzer, Grunbaum. Visitors—G. Reynolds 749, N. Bonson 180, L. Jacobs S.D. 1732, M. Swersee 185, Godden P.M. 862, P. E. Van Noorden Org. 188, J. Abrahams P.M. 188, Goldberger late 1017, Hoyes 123, H. M. Levy P.M. 188. Lodge was opened and the minutes were confirmed. Bro. A. Solomon was passed to the second degree, and Bros. Lindsay Sloper, J. Levi, S. Swersee, No. 185, were raised to the sublime degree (the latter by the courtesy of the W.M.) It was a pleasure to listen to the working of the W.M., whose perfect and impressive rendering of the ceremonies has rarely been excelled; the traditional history was given in full. The resignation of Bro. Nathan was accepted, with regret. Lodge was then closed until October. The brethren sat down to a sumptuous banquet and dessert, provided by Bro. Nicols, and superintended by Bro. Silver. The W.M., in proposing the toast of Her Most Gracious Majesty, alluded to her having attained her 62nd birthday, and hoped that she might continue to reign for many years. The National Anthem was sung. In proposing the toast of the D.G.M. and the rest of the Grand Officers of the Grand Lodge of England, the W.M. spoke of the honour conferred upon Bro. Prince Leopold in creating him Duke of Albany; he must not forget, however, that they had a Grand Officer present, Bro. E. P. Albert Past Grand Pursuivant, in whom this Lodge is honoured, in having him for one of its Officers. After a response from Bro. E. P. Albert, the W.M. proposed the toast of the Visiting Brethren. There were many present, and he would be pleased to hear any remarks each or any might make. In responding, several of the guests paid great compliments to the W.M. for the able manner in which the ceremonies had been performed, and the genial presidency he displayed; while the efficient manner in which the Officers carried out the business of the Lodge left nothing to be desired. Bro. L. J. Salomons I.P.M. then rose to propose the health of the W.M. The expressions given utterance to by the visiting brethren had taken the words out of his mouth. However, the P.M.'s felt they all owed him a debt of gratitude for the way he had filled the chair. One and all were proud of him. The W.M. said he felt gratified to hear the compliments paid him; he hoped he had done some service for the brethren; this assurance would be a sufficient incentive to him to do anything for the Lodge and for the Craft in general. The Lodge would not meet again until October, when he hoped the brethren would assemble in health and prosperity. The Past Masters was next given; they had been tried, and never been found wanting. Bro. L. J. Salomons is one who has gained the good will and the approbation of the Lodge. Bro. Albert held three positions; he is a P.G.P., a P.M. of the Lodge, and its Sec., and the members owe him a debt of gratitude. Bros. Grunbaum, Chevalier S. Pollitzer, and Gulliford, had all done their duty. Bro. L. J. Salomons I.P.M. responded; he could hardly find language to speak after the kind words of the W.M. The services of the Past Masters were always at command. Bro. Gulliford followed. The W.M. had spoken of the excellent working of the King's Cross Lodge of Instruction; he might add it stood second to none in the Craft. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the Wardens, Secretary, Treasurer, and the Junior Officers, and made especial reference to the valuable services rendered by Bro. P. E. Van Noorden. Bro. Syer S.W. in brief and eloquent terms responded, and then the Tyler's toast was given, concluding a very agreeable and harmonious evening. The W.M. provided an excellent musical melange, under the direction of Bro. P. E. Van Noorden. Miss Florence Dysart and Bro. P. E. Van Noorden sang a very effective duet. Bros. Lindsay Sloper, Dr. Chandler, and Davis contributed to the harmony. Bro. W. H. Gulliford displayed great care and attention for the comforts of the brethren.

At the Leeds Town Hall no less than 10,000 persons attended the three successive recitals on the grand organ, "In memoriam, the Earl of Beaconsfield," by the Corporation organist, Dr. Spark, who also produced a new and effective funeral march for the occasion, which has just been published and appropriately dedicated to Mrs. Blagden, wife of the Vicar of Hughenden. This lady, it will be remembered, played the music at the funeral service of the late Earl.

Upton Lodge, No. 1227.—The usual assembly of this prosperous Lodge was held at the ordinary place of meeting, the Spotted Dog, Upton, on 18th inst. The W.M., Bro. A. W. Fenner, occupied the chair of K.S., and, his Officers being present, opened the Lodge in due form promptly and at the time announced in the summons. There was a large attendance of the members and Past Masters. Among the latter were Bros. G. Brown, Andrews, John Bellamy Grand Steward and first Master of the Lodge. The Visitors included Bros. A. H. Hickman S.W. United Strength 228, J. Myers 405 (Scotland), W. Wright Duke of Connaught 1524, W. G. Kent Past S.W. West Kent 1297. Lodge having been opened in the second degree, Bros. Turlefield and Morris were examined, and duly made Master Masons. Having resumed, a ballot was taken for Mr. W. H. Sneth, Licensed Victualler, 14 Artillery-lane, Bishopsgate, and for Mr. Amandus Hartman, Grosvenor Hotel, Pimlico. The brethren were unanimously in favour of each. Mr. H. D. Allison also, who had been previously ballotted for, being present, the three candidates were severally initiated in excellent form. The ceremonies were most admirably worked, the various Officers being, one and all, well up in the ritual. Bro. Sherwin the Organist added considerably to the impressiveness by the excellent manner in which he discharged his duties. The Worshipful Master and his Officers were appointed a Committee to make arrangements for the Summer Banquet, and the proceedings terminated in the usual manner.

St. John of Wapping Lodge, No. 1306.—The brethren of this flourishing Lodge met on 11th instant, at the Moorgate Tavern, Moorgate-street, Finsbury-pavement, E.C. Being the first night of the W.M.'s year, and the last of the season, a good muster of the brethren assembled, the manner in which the work was carried out giving much satisfaction. There were present Bros. J Magrath W.M., T. Wooding S.W., J. Horsley J.W., W. Peck P.M. Treas., A. G. Clements Secretary, T. J. Tyer S.D., J. Couture J.D., J. G. Twinn D.C., G. T. Holdom I.G., J. Sommers and J. Loftus Stewards, P.M.'s C. Veal and J. W. Dawson, J. Carrociero, O. N. Stanger, H. Parsons, Frank Crawley, W. McCreddie, W. Bate, T. F. Tarling, W. L. Hodgson, George Wise, Francis Slater, and R. G. Ricketts. Visitor—Bro. G. H. Stephens J.D. 1623. Lodge having been formally opened, the ballot was taken for the admission of Messrs. G. Wise and F. Slater, and those gentlemen were initiated into the mysteries of the Order, Bro. Magrath working carefully and well. Bro. O. N. Stanger was next tested as to his proficiency; it proving satisfactory, he was entrusted. Lodge was advanced, and the ceremony of passing Bro. Stanger to the second degree was well performed. No other business presenting itself, after discussing several appeals for charity, the Charity Box was circulated, and its contents were agreed to be given to the widow of a deceased brother, whose application to the Board of Benevolence was also entertained and supported by the Lodge. The I.P.M. Bro. Veal gave notice of motion to increase both the initiation fee and the annual subscription. Hearty good wishes were expressed to the W.M. Lodge was closed, and adjourned until October.

Lodge of Israel, No. 1502.—The usual monthly meeting of the members of this flourishing Lodge (and the last previous to the annual vacation) took place at the Masonic Hall, Hope-street, Liverpool, on the 16th instant, when there was a numerous and influential gathering of members and visitors. Bro. S. J. Henochsberg the popular W.M. was in his place, and most admirably performed the duties of his office, his chief work being that of raising Bro. Hosker to the degree of M.M. Amongst those at the Lodge were Bros. H. A. Tobias I.P.M., A. J. Henochsberg P.M., S. Schonstadt P.M., A. Levy P.M. P.G. Treasurer, R. Robinson P.P.G. Registrar, M. Aronsberg S.W., M. P. Tuski J.W., M. Hart P.M. Treasurer, J. Saber Secretary, D. Gabrielsen S.D., H. M. Silver I.G., B. Levy M.C., M. Baum and P. S. Levy Stewards; Bros. H. Gibbs, H. Gabriel, A. Lyons, R. Abrahams, H. S. Alpass P.G. Secretary, &c. Bro. A. Lyons, Treasurer of the Ball Committee, presented a balance sheet, from which it appeared that the sum of £50 7s 9d was the amount which had been netted from the annual merry meeting of the Lodge, and this sum was handed over to the Benevolent Fund connected with the Lodge, which has now upwards of £300 to its credit. The sum of ten guineas was voted in aid of the Boys' Schools, London, and Bro. Maurice Hart P.M. Treasurer, who will attend the approaching festival as a Steward, notified that he would be glad to receive the individual subscriptions of the brethren, so that this sum might be further augmented. The brethren subsequently banqueted under the presidency of Bro. S. J. Henochsberg W.M., and an exceedingly pleasant evening was spent. Bro. H. A. Tobias I.P.M., in proposing the health of the W.M., spoke of him in high terms, and wished him the greatest happiness in connection with his marriage in August next. The W.M. replied in suitable terms. It may be stated that it appeared from the minutes that the brethren have voted a substantial sum for the purpose of presenting Bro. Henochsberg with a marriage gift, and the vote will be supplemented by individual subscriptions from the brethren. Bros. Windsor P.M., Maurice Hart P.M., and A. Henochsberg P.M. contributed to the harmony, the latter brother giving a very excellent recitation.

West Middlesex Lodge of Instruction, No. 1612.—A meeting was held on Thursday, 19th May, at the Feathers' Hotel, Ealing, W. Present:—Bros. Alexander Jones W.M., H. E. Tucker S.W., G. Coop J.W., J. Wells S.D., G. S. Wright J.D., H. Kasner P.M. I.G.; Past Masters Bros. F. Smith, C. Bellerby, and H. Stephens. The work comprised the rehearsal of the ceremony of initiation, Bro. J. Wells candidate. Bro. H. E. Tucker was unanimously elected W.M. for the next meeting, and Lodge was closed.

THE BANN WHISKEY.—In spite of all that has been said and written in favour of teetotalism, there can be no doubt but the moderate and judicious use of alcohol is not only not injurious, but actually beneficial. It is not the use, but the abuse that does harm, and many of the ill effects of the use of spirits we daily see around us is greatly aggravated by the fact that much of the spirit consumed is of very inferior and even deleterious quality. Of all spirituous liquors whiskey is pronounced by the majority of medical men to be the best, but this verdict is given on the assumption that the whiskey is of good quality, and well matured by age. New whiskey is largely impregnated with fusil oil, and is perfectly maddening in its effects on those who partake of it. Old whiskey, on the contrary, is the purest and most wholesome spirit that can be drank, and is much to be preferred to the finest brandy. No artificial means that have hitherto been used have succeeded in separating the fusil oil from the whiskey, or destroying its injurious effects, though some of them have to a great extent disguised its presence. Age, and age alone, can effectually dispel the pernicious properties of this subtle poison, for it is nothing less than poison. It is quite possible to flavour and disguise new whiskey, and give it the appearance of old spirit, but still the baneful presence of the fusil is there. One of the best guarantees, indeed the very best, that a purchaser can have of the real age of the whiskey he is buying is the Customs' Certificate of date on that which is bottled in the Bonded Stores of Her Majesty's Customs. Messrs. James Wilson and Son, of Belfast, having a large stock of six years old whiskey have adopted the plan of bottling in the Customs' Stores, and their Bann Whiskey can be purchased with the most perfect confidence that its age is really what is represented. Age, however, is not everything in whiskey, and unless the spirit is pure when first distilled, and made from first quality material, no age—not even half a century—will make bad whiskey good. The Bann Whiskey, supplied by Messrs. James Wilson and Son, through their numerous agents, possesses the combined desiderata of quality and age to an unusual degree; and hence its excellence is such that all who use it once continue to do so. Those who have never yet tried it have a treat in store, and should lose no time in procuring it.

"We have companies for all sorts of things: why do not some philanthropic gentlemen start an association for lending money to embarrassed traders and housekeepers at ten per cent. interest? There are a number of people now getting three per cent. for their money in Consols who would be glad to invest it in an enterprise in which, if properly managed, there would be no risk whatever, and a certainty of earning eight or nine per cent. profit. Properly managed, such an association, worked on a large scale, would be an immense boon to people struggling with temporary difficulties, and would pay a handsome return to those who invested their money in Shares."

THE APPROACHING FESTIVAL OF THE MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS.

THE time is now fast approaching when the third and last of the Anniversary Festivals of our Charitable Institutions will be held. Those of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution and Royal Masonic Institution for Girls have already taken place, the former in February, when Sir Henry Edwards, Bart., P.G.M. West Yorkshire, occupied the chair, and a total of subscriptions amounting to £14,370 was realised; the latter, on the 18th May, under the presidency of Sir M. E. Hicks-Beach, Bart., M.P., the newly-elected Prov. G. Master of Gloucestershire, when the handsome total of but a little short of £11,500 was contributed. The eighty-third Festival of the Royal Institution for Boys will be celebrated on Wednesday, the 29th instant, at the Royal Pavilion, Brighton, when the chair will be taken by the most noble the Marquis of Londonderry, K.T., the newly-appointed Prov. Grand Master of Durham. The Board of Stewards, which already numbers some 230 brethren, includes Sir H. Edwards, Bart., P.G.M. West Yorkshire, as President; Bros. Rev. C. J. Martyn P.G. Chaplain D.P.G. Master Suffolk, George Lambert G.S.B., and A. Duff-Filer P.G.S.B. as Vice Presidents, W. Roebuck G.S. Hon. Treasurer, and Bro. F. Binckes P.G.S. and Secretary of the Institution as Honorary Secretary. There is then every reason to anticipate that under such influential auspices, and with such a strong array of Stewards, which will doubtless be very much more strong by the day appointed, the Festival of the Boys' School will be in every respect worthy of taking its place among the greatest of the many successes achieved of late years by our worthy and Wor. Bro. Binckes. He it was, it must be remembered, who had the satisfaction of being first able to announce a total list of subscriptions and donations in excess of £10,000. It was he who, at his last year's Festival, was in a position to announce a sum of £14,000, as the result of the combined efforts of the Chairman (the Earl of Lathom), the Board of Stewards, and himself; and though by many it may be regarded as somewhat of a misfortune to come last in order of the Festivals, still Bro. Binckes has so often shown us that the last in order is very far from being the least productive, that we do not hesitate to repeat those anticipations of great success on the present occasion which we have already formulated.

There are special circumstances about the Boys' Festival for the present which justify our drawing attention to it somewhat earlier than usual, and there are special reasons why we should go a little out of our way, perhaps, to commend it to the notice of the Craft generally. Let us note these latter first. The School, as our readers are well aware, has been very largely increased in numbers within the last few years. There are 215 pupils now, when, till very recently, there were but from 150 to 160; yet, in spite of these additions to the numerical strength of the establishment, the number of candidates who present themselves and are approved is always very largely in excess of the vacancies. To take the last election in April for purposes of illustration. There were seventy-two candidates for twenty vacancies, and after deducting those unsuccessful boys whose names have been removed from the list on the score of their being over age, there still remain no less than forty-seven who will have an opportunity of competing again in October next; in fact, we may venture on reckoning that there will be an even greater difference in the ratio of candidates to appointments from what there was in the spring. In the case of the Girls' School this proportion of candidates to vacancies is far less unequal. There were in April last twenty-eight candidates for fifteen vacancies, and there remain over for further trial or trials eleven girls who are still eligible in respect of age. No doubt this is owing to the still more recent purchase of Lyncombe House, and the additional twenty-five pupils it was found possible, in consequence, to receive into the Institution. Yet, whatever may be the explanation that is forthcoming, there remains the fact that the number of candidates eligible for election into the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys is forty-seven; that the total number approved will be about seventy; and that the vacancies for which they will compete will be only some eight or nine in number. This is a reason which, while by itself it is sufficient to fully justify a special and early appeal to the Masonic public, is also one which makes it imperative there should be a hearty and liberal response to the energetic appeals of the Stewards.

A further and equally pleasing reason why we should press the claims of Our Boys on the notice of the Craft will be found in the fact that while the Benevolent Institution has a total of invested moneys amounting to over £60,000, and the Girls' School some £45,000 in Government Stock, the Boys' School can only boast of investments amounting to £15,000, of which one-third or £5,000 was purchased as the result of last year's Festival. Thus against a rainy day, the Boys' School is about one-third as well off as the Girls', and one-fourth as well off as the Benevolent, while the last-mentioned enjoys the inestimable advantage over both its sister Institutions of receiving from Grand Lodge and Grand Chapter together no less than £950 as against a little over £160 subscribed by those two Grand Bodies to each of the Schools. From this it follows that the Benevolent has a permanent income of over £3,070, the Girls' about (say) £1,500, and the Boys' about £750—a very startling disproportion as between the Schools, especially considering the number of pupils in the two is so nearly equal, while the expense per head on education and maintenance is greater in the case of the Boys than in that of the Girls. The Benevolent in a measure stands by itself, as it is under an obligation to find £11,600 a year in annuities alone, to say nothing of the expenses of management, which cannot be less than £2000. It is hardly possible under the circumstances to attempt anything like a comparison between the R.M.B.I. and the R.M.I.B.

Nor must we pass over the excellence of the system of education adopted in the School, as shown by the splendid series of successes achieved at the Cambridge Middle Class examinations. These are irrefragable testimony to the pains bestowed by Dr. Morris and his staff, and prove that the money that is subscribed for the maintenance and education of our orphan Boys is expended both wisely and well. We judge of the excellence of a tree by the quality of the fruit it bears, and here we have the tree of knowledge that is implanted in the mind of each pupil of our Boys' School bearing, not only sound, but useful and nutritious fruit, so that those who partake of it become strong and better able to cope with the difficulties by which, on their entrance into, and career through, life, they will be surrounded. Were it otherwise, were the boys that are turned out year after year found to be below the average of those of their own age in respect of educational attainments; were a lax system of discipline maintained, so that the boys were unruly in school and likely, therefore, to resist authority when placed in some clerical or other office of a similar character, it is presumably very certain that many subscriptions which are now annually forthcoming would be withheld. But the discipline, like the education, is most creditable to all who have a part in the direction of the Institution, and no one, therefore, is likely to run away with the impression that the moneys contributed to the Boys' School are wastefully or improperly expended. It is unnecessary to say more in this connection, as our American cousins are apt to phrase it. It is certain the money raised will be well and worthily appropriated and will enable our poor orphan youngsters to acquire an amount of knowledge which cannot fail to be of incalculable benefit to them in after life.

There is yet another reason to which we wish to draw the attention of our readers. We have said the increase in the number of the pupils and consequent outlay had been very considerable in the course of the last few years. In April 1876, there were in the School 158 pupils, or, including those admitted by purchase and presentation, 178. There are now 215, showing an increase in the last quinquennial period of some twenty per cent. Not only does this entail an increased outlay of about £1,500, but in order to provide the increased accommodation for these further pupils, a large outlay has been necessarily incurred in respect of building and furnishing. Yet in spite of this increase, the number of candidates is out of all proportion to the number of vacancies, and it is in contemplation to erect a Preparatory School, which shall be sufficiently large to accommodate only in the first instance 50, but ultimately 150 additional boys. Plans and estimates for the requisite buildings are in course of being advertised for, and as soon as the Executive see their way to commencing operations, they will make a start; that is, they will commit the Institution to an expenditure greatly in excess of what is already undertaken. To put the matter still more clearly, when the new premises have been built and furnished for occupation, 50 new boys will be taken into the School, entailing an additional drain on the resources of the Institution, of (say somewhere about £2,000 per annum. Thus last year's expenditure was in round figures £10,500; a year or two hence the outlay will amount to £12,500.

We have overlooked one point. The Royal Masonic Institution for Boys is the only one of the Charities which sustained a loss by the failure of the firm with which it banked, the loss amounting to between £800 and £900. This loss has been made good by what is known as the Bank Loss Restoration Fund, to the extent only of 104 guineas, so that there is even now a deficiency of between £700 and £800. We trust this will be borne in mind by the Craft when the question of contributing to the funds of this Charity, at the Festival of the 29th instant, is submitted to their notice. It is one of those reasons which ought to have some influence in extracting moneys from the pockets of the benevolent. To sum up this part of our case:—the great excess of candidates over vacancies; the limited amount of invested moneys, and the consequent smallness of the permanent income; the excellence of the education and the moral training afforded; the proposed increase in the number of pupils; and the loss sustained some time since,—these are the reasons we bring forward why it is incumbent on our brethren to extend a hearty and liberal support towards the Institution with which the name of Bro. Binckes has been so intimately and so gloriously associated for the past twenty years.

Having recapitulated the reasons which have induced us to lay the case of the Boys' Festival before the Craft at so early a date, and which, to our mind, render the warm co-operation of London and the Provinces so indispensible, let us pass briefly in review the special circumstances connected with the Anniversary. We must first of all note that the chair will be occupied by the Marquis of Londonderry Provincial Grand Master of Durham. As with the Provincial Grand Master of Gloucestershire, at the Girls' School, so with his Lordship, this may be looked upon as his first public act in Masonry since his appointment as Provincial Grand Master, and, therefore, we look forward with confidence to the support of the Lodges over whose welfare he has so recently been called upon to preside. Durham, though it cannot boast of a numerical strength like that of the two Lancashires, West Yorkshire, Devonshire, and Hants and the Isle of Wight, is, nevertheless, a Province of considerable weight. It has on its roll twenty-six Lodges, an unusual proportion of which stand high on the list of Grand Lodge, while five of these have had the honour of a Centenary Warrant conferred upon them. Durham, therefore, may be rightly looked upon as a stronghold of the Craft. It has, too, a reputation for being constant in its support of the Boys' School, having sent up Stewards at every one of its Festivals we have had the pleasure of chronicling in our columns. Sunderland, which we all know, is a port of great importance, has four Lodges; Stockton three, Hartlepool three, and Chester-le-Street, Darlington, Durham, and Gateshead two each. Under these circumstances we are quite justified in anticipating that, as well from its strength and influence, as from its very natural anxiety to support loyally its lately-appointed Chief, Durham will exert itself strenuously at the approaching Festival. Then the adjacent Province of Northumberland is not only intimately connected with it industrially, but two of its towns—Newcastle, with ten Lodges, and North Shields, with one, may be looked upon as being as closely allied with Durham, as Southwark and London, Lambeth and Westminster, are in the Metropolis. We shall look forward, therefore, to there being a cordial amount of support from Northumberland, not very much behind that of Durham itself. Contiguous Provinces cannot be otherwise than animated by a warm, neighbourly feeling towards each other.

But a marked feature in connection with the Boys' Festival is, that so far as we are aware it will be the first time in the annals of our Charitable celebrations that the anniversary of any one of our Institutions has been held onside the area of the Metropolitan District. The Girls' and Benevolent Festivals have invariably taken place at Freemasons' Tavern, but of late years that of the Boys' School has been held, now at the Alexandra, now at the Crystal Palace. This year the locality chosen is the Royal Pavilion at Brighton. As the sea-side resort is known familiarly as London-Super-Mare, the change may not at first strike one as being so great, but there is no doubt it will be looked upon as a startling innovation. Yet is it one as to which there can be no doubt about its being reasonable. The Provinces are very liberal in their support of our Central Institutions. At all events, one thing is very certain, whenever a Province is thus honoured there is no doubt its sympathies will be enlisted with the particular Institution whose Anniversary is held within its limits. Sussex, we know, requires but little, if any, incentive to do its duty; yet Brighton, primarily and particularly, and the Province generally, cannot be otherwise than greatly gratified it should have been chosen as the scene of this first great departure from the usual order of proceedings. Brighton has seven Lodges of its own, while there are a round two dozen on the roll of the Province; and no doubt these will make an effort beyond what is usual, if only to show their sense of the compliment that has been paid them. Indeed, we have been told that Bro. V. P. Freeman, Provincial Grand Secretary, who will act as Steward for the whole Province, has already secured a list of subscriptions amounting to £700, and it is hoped that before the day arrives this will be increased to £1,000.

As to the arrangements, they, as far as we can see, leave nothing to be desired. A special train will leave London Bridge at 11.30 a.m., calling at East Croydon at 11.50 a.m., in order to take up passengers from Victoria. The Stewards' fees will be as usual, and the dinner tickets, railway fares included, will be about the ordinary price, while the arrangements for the convenience of the guests are of the most complete character possible. We may add that ladies will, as usual, be present at the banquet, while the brethren will, also as usual, wear no Masonic clothing. It remains for us to add, that we trust, under these circumstances, the Boys' Festival of 1881 will be a success in keeping with those which Bro. Binckes has achieved during the past six years.

The Directors of the Kingston Masonic Benefit Association in their report for the year ending February, have expressed, says the Canadian Craftsman, their assurance of its healthiness and stability. Of twenty-one applications for membership made during the year, nineteen were accepted, while but seven members had died, to whose legal representatives in each case the sum of 200 dollars had been paid. There are now 202 members, of whom 82 are resident in Kingston, while the remaining 120 are scattered about from Portland, Maine, to San Francisco, and between Montreal and Winnipeg.

THE SUBSCRIPTION LISTS OF THE GIRLS' SCHOOL FESTIVAL.

HAVING in a late issue referred at some length to the actual result attained by the 260 brethren who acted as Stewards in connection with the Ninety-third Anniversary Festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, we hardly think it necessary on the present occasion to say more than that the Festival of 1881 must be looked back upon as a grand success, more particularly when we take into consideration the great depression which at the present time exists in all branches of business throughout the country. A total subscription to one of our Institutions of close on £11,500 is at once a practical demonstration of the charitable feature of Freemasonry and a splendid testimony of the hearty way in which the Stewards must have devoted themselves to their task. We cannot but congratulate the Chairman, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, and we feel sure he must be proud of the result which attended his first presidency on behalf of one of the Masonic Institutions, especially when the action of his own Province is taken into consideration. But to proceed to our task of reviewing the work of the respective districts.

London, which according to our published list had 112 Stewards, and had sent up £5,561 7s 6d, is slightly behind the Provinces as regards its total, the latter being represented by 148 Stewards, who together collected £5,884 17s 4d. Of the London Lodges, first as regards amount is the Earl of Carnarvon, No. 1642, which was represented by three Stewards, the total of their lists being £300; a grand result for any Lodge to achieve, but particularly gratifying when we bear in mind that last year the same contributed £400 to the Benevolent Festival. No words are needed from us to secure for the brethren of this Lodge the highest opinion of their fellows for this further grand display of their benevolence. The Prosperity Lodge, No. 65, follows closely, having sent up £246 15s, which, with £106 1s, its contribution to the Benevolent Institution in February last, makes a total of £352 16s contributed by its members during the current year; such figures as these reflect the highest credit on all who assist in the charitable work of the Lodge. The Grand Stewards' Lodge, at the hands of Bro. Frank Richardson, who was President of the Board of Stewards, contributed £150 9s, this being the first of the Festivals of 1881 it has taken part in. Last year it supported both our Educational Institutions, sending £23 2s to the Girls, and £140 3s to the Boys. No. 1383, Friends in Council Lodge, comes next, with £140 14s, being an advance of £7 7s on its contribution to the Benevolent Festival in February last. This Lodge has for some time past been a persistent supporter of the Masonic Institutions, and the splendid results its Stewards are enabled to produce is an example which might be followed by many other Lodges which are equally able to show as well, but who, from one cause or other, do not do so. The total of its contributions last year—when it was represented at all three of the Festivals—was no less than £473 4s. The Canonbury, No. 657, is another Lodge which does well. On the present occasion its Steward figures for £136 10s—a proud total, following so closely on the list of Bro. Buss, who in February last took up £315 from the same Lodge on behalf of the Old People. There are six other London Lodges with three figure totals, viz., The City of Westminster, No. 1563, which contributed £119 14s. The St Leonard, No. 1766, represented by three Stewards, £110 10s; No. 1608, the Kilburn, £108 19s; No. 1719, the Evening Star, £105; No. 862, the Whittington, £103 19s; and the St. John (Hampstead), No. 167, which figures for £100 16s. To those under a £100 it is not our custom to refer individually, but a glance at the figures themselves will show how many others there are which are entitled to words of commendation.

Now, as regards the Provinces, we are very pleased to see so many of them represented, and in most instances in such a manner as to reflect great credit on those who have devoted themselves to the cause. At the same time the number of absentees is greater than was the case last year, for while then there were thirty-five Provinces represented, this year the number is but thirty-one, a falling off which can ill be afforded by either of the Masonic Institutions. Of the absent Districts of last year one alone—the Western Division of South Wales—is represented on this occasion, with a total of £300, which is a similar amount to what it contributed to the Boys in July last. The absentees at both this and the last Girls' Festival—are Cambridgeshire, Cornwall, Herefordshire, Northamptonshire and Huntingdonshire, and Northumberland; while Bedfordshire, Bristol, Cumberland and Westmoreland, Lincolnshire, and Nottinghamshire make up the total of ten unrepresented Provinces on the present occasion. First, as regards those which did appear, is Gloucestershire, with a total of £1,000 from twenty-four Stewards. As we recently said, this District is entitled to the credit of having made about the grandest Provincial effort on record, but even that hardly does sufficient credit to the generosity of the Gloucestershire brethren, who, it must be remembered, are comparatively few in number—the total on the register of the Province being but 578—this would give an average of about thirty-five shillings from each member of the Province. West Yorkshire comes next with £500, which amount, added to its donation of £3,500 to the Benevolent Institution, makes up £4,000 from its members during the current year. Kent, represented by ten Stewards, supplies £340 13s 6d as its quota, that being a few pounds short of its total of February, which was £358 14s 6d. Middlesex follows with £307 3s 3d, contributed by nine Stewards, among whom we may mention the name of Bro. H. B. Marshall with a donation of one hundred guineas. The total from the Western Division of South Wales (£300) we have already referred to. West Lancashire sends up £276 3s, divided among eleven Stewards, a fair amount when we take into consideration the way in which they supported their Provincial Grand Master, who acted as chairman for the Boys last year. The total from the Province was then £2,664 18s 6d, so that the brethren of the district may be said to possess good laurels—and of recent procuring—to rest upon for a short time at least. The little Province of Leicestershire and Rutland, consisting of ten Lodges, stands out well with a total of £228 6s, but then it is a frequent attendant at the Festivals, and it would almost seem that those who give the most frequently are able to figure the best—we imagine from the fact that the claims of the Charities are being constantly urged in its Lodges. Essex at the hands of four Stewards sends up £221 3s of which sum Bro. E. Shedd, of the Rosslyn Lodge, contributes £127 1s. Devonshire with three Stewards manages to get just over two hundred pounds, its total being £201 7s 8d, the Steward of the Union Lodge, No. 444, taking to himself no less than £125 15s 8d of that sum. The Provinces contributing three figure totals under two hundred pounds are 14 in number, of which the Eastern Division of Lancashire with £197 18s 6d stands first. It was represented by five Stewards. The result of their efforts cannot but be described as satisfactory, still we must express the hope that the day is not far distant when the Province will make another supreme effort for the benefit of one or other of the Institutions, and send up an amount which will place it at the top of the list, where it stood at the earliest Festival of 1879. £182 6s from Hampshire and the Isle of Wight places that Province next in order, four Stewards having been engaged in the collection of that contribution. £181 13s from Somersetshire, at the hands of one Steward, is a close follower. In each case the support thus given is but a continuation of many previous good totals, and each of these Provinces may claim to be recorded as persistent supporters of the three Institutions. Surrey sends £174 5s at the hands of seven Stewards, one of whom, Bro. T. C. Eager, secured £102 7s as the representative of the Wey Side Lodge, No. 1395. Staffordshire sends £157 10s, by one Steward, who is accredited as acting for the whole Province, including his own Lodge, No. 726, the Staffordshire Knot. North and East Yorkshire comes next with £134 8s, of which sum all but thirteen guineas comes from the City of York, £63 being the contribution of the York Lodge, and £57 15s the total of the list of the Steward from the Eboracum. This latter is a splendid illustration of what can be done by zealous workers in a new Lodge. There is scarcely a Festival that has occurred since its foundation but something has been done, for one or other of the Charities, and we cannot but help thinking that to it must be given the credit of having started in the breasts of the brethren of the district a desire to support the Charities of the Order. Cheshire figures for £129 3s 11d, six Stewards having among them collected that amount, and thereby maintained the good reputation enjoyed by the Province. Berks and Bucks and Dorsetshire run close for next place, the former contributing £122 19s, and the latter £122 17s. Six Stewards represented Berks and Bucks, the usual order of things being on this occasion reversed, as Bucks claims four of the Stewards, and £67 12s of the contributions. We are heartily glad to see this innovation, and trust it will be of long continuance. All but ten guineas of the Dorsetshire total is contributed by Bro. J. M. P. Montagu, who, we understand, acted as representative of St. Mary's Lodge, No. 707, Bridport. Durham again follows closely, with £121 15s 6d, a fine effort on the part of this northern Province. We must not forget that its Provincial Grand Master will preside for the Boys on the 29th inst., when, taking the total before us as a criterion, a splendid result may be anticipated. The Eastern Division of South Wales is down for £120, brought up by Bro. Thomas Rowland, and is followed by Norfolk with £111 6s, the joint contribution of two Stewards. Suffolk and Sussex bring to a close this portion of our remarks, the one contributes £107 2s, and the other £105, each being represented by one Steward. The remaining eight Provinces have sent up totals ranging from £99 11s downwards. Taking into consideration the length to which our remarks extended on the last occasion we were engaged on a similar task, we deem it unnecessary to refer at greater length to any of these. We may express our satisfaction to each and all, feeling assured that in every case the Stewards and brethren generally have done their best. We must also express a hope that if any Steward has been overlooked in these short remarks, he will consider the omission an error, rather than a desire on our part to offer any slight to him.

THE MONT DORE, BOURNEMOUTH, AND H.M. THE G.M. OF SWEDEN.

ENGLISH Freemasons must necessarily take a deep interest in all that personally concerns His Majesty Oscar II., of Sweden. In the first place, he is Grand Master of the Craft in that country. In the next place, His Royal Highness the M.W.G.M. of our United Grand Lodge was initiated into the mysteries of Freemasonry by the late King of Sweden, and to this fact, of course, we owe it that for the last six years our Fraternity has been making such splendid progress in this country. If there are now 10,000 initiates annually in place of the 2000 who presented themselves ten years ago, we are justified in ascribing this great popularity of the Brotherhood to the wise and genial influence which the late King of Sweden was fortunately in a position to exercise on the mind of our present Chief. For these reasons, then, we have thought that more than a passing sketch of the recent doings at Bournemouth, where the King of Sweden laid the first stone of the "Mont Dore," will be unusually interesting to our readers. It is, indeed, on the cards that but for the concurrence of this event with the consecration at Portsmouth of the Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar Lodge on Wednesday, the 25th ult., the ceremony at Bournemouth, in which the King of Sweden figured as the central personage, might have been carried out with full Masonic honours; but, unlike the late Sir Boyle Roche's bird, the Provincial Grand Lodge of Hants and the Isle-of-Wight is not ubiquitous; in other words, it cannot be in two places at one or the same time. Had the consecration of this Lodge been fixed for any other day than the particular Wednesday we have referred to, there is good reason for believing that the King of Sweden would have had the loyal support of his worthy brethren of Hampshire and the adjacent island in the good work so ably inaugurated on the occasion referred to. Be this as it may, there can be no question the Institution, of which His Majesty so recently laid the first stone, is one that is calculated to be of the greatest possible service to a numerous and influential class of people in this country. We may add, too, that it would hardly have been possible to select a better locality than the familiar Hampshire sea-side resort, where healthy people are in the habit of seeking a temporary refuge from the carking cares of life, while invalids go thither in numbers in order to acquire or renew the strength they are so sorely in need of. Hitherto, so far as we are aware, we have had in this country no such kind of establishment as that which is so well known on the Continent as the "Mont Dore." Travelled people are well aware that this is a peculiar, yet, at the same time, a most useful institution. It combines the advantages of a summer and winter residence for those who prefer the Residential Club system to troubling themselves about the cares of household management, or who may be desirous of living "en pension" for a longer or shorter period of time, with all the special conveniences and arrangements for the reception of invalids and persons in delicate health. Such an establishment cannot, we feel well assured, prove otherwise than an immense boon to the public. Moreover, Bournemouth, it is well known, is one of the healthiest sea-side resorts in England. It has a dry soil, is free from fogs and decaying vegetation, and is sheltered from cold winds. It is equally well adapted, as a residence, both for summer and winter, and, what is of the very greatest importance, it is accessible from all parts of the Kingdom. In short, nothing could possibly have been better than the selection of this favourite spot for the erection of so useful an Institution. As to the "Mont Dore" itself, it will be in all respects the exact counterpart of the Establishment in Auvergne, from which it takes its name, and there are satisfactory reasons for believing that it will be an even greater success. In Auvergne the season lasts only from June to September; at Bournemouth it will continue the whole year through. The building itself will accommodate 150 residents. The utmost care will be taken that it shall be well ventilated and warmed. It will be furnished and appointed with everything possible in the way of comfort and luxury in a manner to gratify the most exacting. There will be private sitting-rooms, as well as those intended for residents in common; a handsome Recreation Room for concerts and private entertainments; and in the private gardens attached grounds will be laid out for Bowling, Croquet, Lawn Tennis, and other outdoor recreations of a similar character. A special feature in connection with the "Mont Dore" will be the several kinds of baths so necessary for invalids — the Turkish, Douche, Needle, Plunge, and Pine Baths—the efficacy of which, in cases of rheumatism, or where the lungs or respiratory organs are affected, is so generally admitted by the medical profession. As regards this feature, the Directors of the proposed Establishment have, with a wisdom which does them infinite credit, adopted the recommendations contained in Dr. Dobell's Pamphlet on the "Mont Dore Cure" system, so that they will be in a position to carry it out in the completest possible manner. This, then, in outline, is the Establishment which was started so successfully on Wednesday, the 25th May, under the genial auspices of the King of Sweden.

A few words as to the ceremony of laying the stone must follow as a matter of course. Before adding these, however, we may state that the arrangements in connection with the day's proceedings were of the most satisfactory character. This is the more worthy of special note from the fact that on the Wednesday preceding not one single step in the way of preparation for the ceremony had, or, for sufficient reasons, could have been taken. It was on the spur of the moment, and as it were by inspiration, that the Directors of the proposed Mont Dore bethought themselves of enlisting the sympathy and support of their royal visitors in the good work they had resolved upon. The application to His Majesty was no sooner made than it was entertained. Both the King and his Consort had personally derived the greatest possible benefit from their sojourn at this Hampshire watering-place, whither, indeed, they had tended their steps in the days of their suffering, and with such satisfactory results. In spite, however, of the short time at their disposal, the Committee charged with the arrangements worked so manfully and loyally, that when the eventful day arrived everything was in complete readiness. Bournemouth, too, had made up its mind that the illustrious guests who had honoured them with so lengthened a residence should receive a hearty welcome from all classes. In accordance with this determination, everything was done that could possibly give éclat to the occasion. The town was gaily decorated with all kinds of flags and banners, and floral designs. Committees were formed in order to give proper effect to the wishes of the authorities and their fellow-townspeople, and thanks to the energy shown, the fête, as we have said, proved an unexampled success. On the day itself, the Town Commissioners, the Yeomanry, and the Rifle Volunteers, turned out for the purpose of doing honour to their Majesties. The first formality was, as a matter of course, the presentation of the inevitable address, which, it is needless to say, was most graciously received. The King, in person, briefly acknowledged the kindly wishes it contained. The Queen, too, was even more gracious still in her acceptance of a handsome bouquet presented to her by the youthful daughter of Mr. E. Jennings, Chairman of the Commissioners, and these slight but pretty and effective formalities having been observed with all reverence and respect, the procession, headed by the Artillery, marched to the site where the ceremony of the day was to take place, the Yeomanry acting as a Guard of Honour, while the Rifles and the Fire Brigade brought up the rear. In due course the important operation of laying the corner stone was carried out most effectively in a manner that well become the dignity of so Royal and worthy a Mason. The stone was declared to be "well and truly laid," and the band struck up the Swedish National Anthem. A prayer was offered up by Bishop Ryan, and Mr. Bedborough, the Architect, of 18 Abingdon-street, Westminster, having handed to His Majesty for inspection the plans of the proposed building, the ceremony was brought to an end, and the procession moved off to the Town Hall, where their Majesties were entertained at a banquet, supplied in excellent style by Mr. Dartnell, of Southampton, the Hall being most tastefully decorated with floral and other devices, and at the dais end with four gold and silver Masonic emblems. During refreshment the Royal Italian Band played a choice selection of music, and when the cloth was removed, there followed necessarily the array of toasts usual on such occasions. On Dr. Alfred Meadows, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Mont Dore Company, who, in that capacity presided at the fête, devolved the very agreeable duty of proposing the health of His Majesty the King of Sweden and Norway and of his Royal Consort, and this the learned Doctor did most gracefully and efficiently. When the applause which followed had subsided, His Majesty, who spoke our language most fluently, rose and returned thanks in the following terms :—

Ladies and Gentlemen,—I to beg express my most sincere and deeply felt thanks for the toast which you have so kindly proposed for me, the Queen, and my family; and in return I beg to propose a toast, "the Welfare of Bournemouth." Ladies and Gentlemen, long before I came here amongst you, I heard that Bournemouth was considered to be a comparatively new place, but from what I know now I see that it is a rising place. When the Queen came here in the month of January, in the midst of a winter which was, as you all know, everywhere exceptionally hard, she came in order to recover strength after long years of severe suffering, and she was immediately struck with the charm of this place. She found here not only a quiet and comfortable home, but she found the softness of the air and the mildness of the climate with few exceptions, the dryness of the soil, and that charming evergreen which to northern eyes has so great a value. When she returned with me a few months later, we both had occasion to appreciate in a still higher degree the merits of this place which she already had found. It was now spring time, and the sun stood higher in a pure sky and shone glittering on the waves, casting its light on the cliffs of the Isle of Wight, and on this place behind the high cliffs of which there were gardens with rich flowering rhododendrons, and other flowers spreading their blossom. We found there just what we wished for and desired, and we spent a quiet and happy time. We found also, what we scarcely had dared to hope—kindness and greeting from every one since the first day we came amongst you. For this we feel very grateful. It is not only the reception to-day which has touched the Queen and myself, but the kindness which has been shown to us from the first moment we came amongst you. Certainly we shall never forget this place, but ever will we with the greatest interest hear of its prosperity and welfare. Ladies and Gentleman, pray accept the toast which I propose, "the Welfare of Bournemouth."

Other toasts followed, among them being those of the Ladies, the Clergy, the Chairman, Dr. Meadows, &c., and the last mentioned having been duly acknowledged the company rose and dispersed, His Majesty the King being loudly cheered as he left the Hall.

We must not omit to add that the scheme which has thus been set on foot so satisfactorily, has already secured the very best wishes of a large number of the ablest medical practitioners in England, who all anticipate from it a most brilliant success. Those desirous of learning the particulars of this testimony, and other details connected with the Bournemouth Mont Dore and the Company of which it is the property, should apply to Mr. T. C. Pocock, the Secretary, at the Offices, 18 Abingdon Street, Westminster. This gentleman has laboured most enthusiastically in the cause, and it is not too much to say that a very great part of the success which attended the ceremony we have described was entirely due to his exertions.

COMMITTEE MEETING OF THE GIRLS' SCHOOL.

THE monthly meeting of the General Committee of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls was held on 26th ultimo, at Freemasons' Hall. Col. Creaton, Grand Treasurer, presided. At the opening of the proceedings, the Rev. A. F. A. Woodford P.G.C. wished to ask the opinion of the Chairman on the subject of a circular sent out by Bro. Thomas Massa, the concluding paragraph of which reflected on the late Grand Treasurer, who was also Treasurer of the Institution. The late Grand Treasurer died before the disputes arose between the House Committee and Bro. Massa, and therefore he could have no connection with them. Was it decent or Masonic that these references to the deceased brother should be constantly made, printed in circulars, and sent round to the whole of the Craft? The subject was a very painful one, but he (Brother Woodford) felt bound to refer to it, and he again asked the Chairman whether, in his opinion, it was decent or Masonic on the part of the Brother to make these disparaging references to the late Grand Treasurer. The Chairman said, as his opinion had been asked, he must say it was not only indecent and un-Masonic, but it was blackguardly. The word was a strong one, but it was not too strong under the circumstances. Bro. Massa rose to make some observations, but the Chairman directed the business on the agenda paper to be proceeded with. After the examination of some petitions for the October Quarterly Court, the election of the House Committee was proceeded with. Late in the evening the following brethren were declared to have been duly elected:—Long 140 votes, Mather 140, Nunn 140, Rucker 139, Peters 138, Smith 138, Hammerton 137, Richardson 137, Tattershall 137, Letchworth 136, Hope 135, and Dubois 134.

THE TWO SCHOOLS.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Some words of mine in the response I made at the recent Anniversary Festival have not escaped the mildly disparaging notice of the Editor of the—whether duly accredited, or self-constituted, at all events recognised—organ of the Girls' School. In the columns of that admirably-conducted and influential periodical, week by week for a very long time past, have appeared notices of the sister Institution, in which, in eulogising the Committee, Executive, Management, Results, &c., the vocabulary of superlatives has been well nigh exhausted, until laudation culminated lately in describing it as "unique." There is but one Institution, and I am its Prophet. Now, on what grounds a devotee, worshipping the god of his idolatry with an intensity verging on the loss of self-consciousness, can find fault with a reasoning and reasonable homage to a shrine other than that to which his orisons are addressed, is what I cannot understand, and in this instance I certainly shall not take the trouble to inquire, though I have little doubt the solution could easily be found. I am quite prepared to admit that "Bro. Binckes was" (and is) "pleased to describe the Boys' School as the most deserving of the Masonic Institutions," but I am not so foolish as to believe that he will win universal assent to his views, nor am I egotistical or ungenerous enough to find fault with brethren who differ from them. If those who assume to themselves the position of "men of light and leading" manifest their unwisdom in lauding to the skies the peculiar object of their blind partiality, and in censuring that which others equally value, or in ignoring—it may be passing over in contemptuous indifference—merits they are unable to recognise, but which are highly appreciated by many whose powers of discrimination are at least on a par with their own, can they wonder if utterances are provoked which, in their narrow-minded view, are impertinent and unseemly. It is the last straw which breaks the back of the much-enduring beast of burden, and there are amongst us many who have borne cheerfully and long the beat and burden of the day who are not prepared to regard with equanimity the weakly sentimentalities with which the reading portion of the Masonic world is rapidly becoming nauseated.

A vigorous, manly tone of honest criticism or comparison no one can object to, but I do hope to see an end of the æsthetic effeminacy into which, as it appears to me, there is a tendency in some quarters to drift. Asking for extended sympathy and practical support in behalf of the ensuing Festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys,

I am, Dear Sir and Brother,

Yours faithfully and fraternally,

FREDERICK BINCKES.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS are the medicine most in repute for curing the multifarious maladies which attack humanity, when wet and cold weather gives place to more genial temperatures. In short, these Pills afford relief, if they fail of being an absolute remedy in all the disturbances of circulation, digestion, and nervous energy, which at times oppress a vast portion of the population. Under the wholesome, purifying, and strengthening powers exerted by these excellent Pills, the tongue becomes clean, the appetite improves, digestion is quickened, and assimilation rendered perfect. Holloway's medicine possesses the highly estimable property of cleansing the whole mass of blood, which, in its renovated condition, carries purity, strength, and vigour to every tissue of the body.

TA ΣΙΓΗΤΑ.

MOST EXCELLENT,

EXCELLENT COMPANIONS, AND

COMPANIONS,

I commence this evening by handing round a large octavo sketch-book containing three water coloured drawings, or illustrations; two partly taken from English designs, and one, like the first of the series, symbolical, but wholly original. All have "mottoes," or "texts" (illustrative quotations) which I have carefully selected; and these being in Greek, Latin, Hebrew, Arabic, and other languages, are designed to mystify the beholder, and duly impress on his mind my egotism, learning, and so forth; but I intend to translate them as I go on for your edification.

Without any further preface, therefore, the Latin on the first Picture or Illustration—the one commencing * "Ecce mysterium vobis dico; in momento, in ictu oculi"—simply means:—"Behold I show you a mystery,"—"In a moment"—"In the twinkling of an eye." The drawing roughly, but aptly, illustrates or represents the ruins of an ancient temple, or of some such magnificent building, in a great city;—you may perceive the broken columns, and the fallen capitals of a series of beautiful pillars. Nearly in the centre is an open cavity, from which three key or cope-stones—which are lying beside the opening—appear to have been drawn. You will perceive also a life line, and the working tools of a Royal Arch Mason lying near. The three keystones—the Law and the Prophets, and T.S.W. The working tools and life-line are lively images to recall to your minds how that S.W. is said to have been recovered. In the lower half of the picture is a section showing, beneath the surface of the earth, as you may observe, the semblance of a groined cavern geometrically constructed; a Royal Arch—a hollowed vaulted recess, built in the solid rock. This is clearly shown in the right and left foreground of the drawings. The flooring is evidently formed of mystic squares of black and white marble. In the centre of a double circle, containing the twelve signs of the Zodiac;—with a double equilateral triangle; and in front of a scroll (not shown) stands an altar of incense—a double cube—closely veiled with a blue covering. All these I will illustrate in detail hereafter, if time will permit of it. It is only essential I should now observe that the rays from Heaven fall with their benign influence through the aperture, shedding Divine light on the surface of the altar and the Sacred Scroll. The height of the sun on that memorable day—supposed to be here figuratively or emblematically recorded—is said to have been 58° in the heavens, which formed an angle of the same dimensions with the horizon of that latitude, and by this representation in our chapters we are enabled to convey a more lasting impression to the minds of our candidates of certain discoveries we have made in this, our R.A. With such emblems around us it seems impossible to forget the moral lessons they are intended to convey. Do they not complete the lesson taught at our first introduction into Masonry; veneration for the Deity, kindness, respect, and assistance to the brethren; and regard to the four cardinal virtues in our own persons? Practising these duties with fidelity we shall be blessed; be truly R.A.M., heirs to an immortal heritage into possession of which the great I AM, THAT I AM, will bid us enter; as into a celestial mansion veiled from mortal eyes; where peace, and order, and harmony, eternally preside.

Most Excellent and Companions,—Let me solicit your kind forbearance, patience, and lenient judgment. Turn over to the next illustration. The Four Hebrew letters on the top are: M.C.B.I.—Mi, Camoka, Baelim, Jehova?—"Who among the gods is like unto thee, O Jehovah?"—the Initial Letters of which celebrated sentence are said to have been engraven on the Standard of the "Machabees"—from which they derived their glorious name. Below the Four Hebrew letters by which the brave Asmonean Princes so proclaimed the unapproachable Majesty of God, are the Letters Alpha and Omega—the first and last letters of the Greek alphabet—expressing figuratively the measureless Eternity of the Supreme Being.

Between the Alpha and Omega, and on either side below those Mystical Letters, runs a Text in the Latin Language—descriptive of the Four Leading or Principal Standards of Israel (shown in the sketch beneath), each one under a Special Heavenly Protection around the Throne of God, as repeatedly referred to in the Sacred Books: "And the First Animal was like a Lion (Judah), and the Second Animal was like a Young Bullock (Ephraim), and the Third Animal had the Face of a Man (Reuben),† and the Fourth Animal was like a Flying Eagle (Dan)."‡ Between the Four Leading Standards is the Banner of the Supreme, of White and Gold; having thereon the Triple Tau in the Triangle enclosed in a Circle—surmounted by a celestial Crown, and rising out of a Crown over that Tabernacle in which we and our Fathers have worked and worshipped. In the upper corners of the Illustration are two opposite Texts: one (to the left) in Greek, and one (to the right) in Latin. The Greek Text is as follows: "This is a very great mystery, but as we delivered it to you, so we received it from our Fathers, and we know that their testimony is true." The Latin Text is as follows: "I know thy works. Lo, I have set before thee an open door, which no man can shut. Because thou hast a little virtue, and hast kept My Word, and hast not denied My Name. But I have somewhat against thee."

In the frame (as it were) of the sketch is (also in Latin) this significant injunction, and most seasonable warning:—"Arise and measure the Temple of God, and the Altar, and those that worship thereat; but of the Court-yard which is outside of the Temple make no special reckoning, for it is given up to the Gentiles"—to those outsiders whom it is not for us to judge.

And along the arch of the Picture is yet another text, in the Latin Tongue: "The Lion of Judah, the Root of David Conquers; open the Book, and Let them go free!" At the base of the whole of this picture—in the central portion of which the sacred mysteries of the Royal Arch are symbolically portrayed—are these words, in the Greek language:—"Ginōskeis anagiuōskeis?" "Dost thou understand what thou readest?" This, it will be remembered, was the punning, epigrammatical question put by Philip to the Ethiopian, when he found him reading the Book of the Prophet Isaiah. These mysteries are so profound and exalted, that they can be comprehended only by those who are enlightened. I shall not therefore attempt to speak of what is most admirable in them; remembering that a perfect knowledge of this degree can only be obtained by passing through the chairs of J., H., and Z.; the secrets of which are kept separate and distinct, but accessible to every worthy Companion who has ever been Master of a Lodge—the laudable object of ambition of every worthy Mason. The symbols and ornaments which are displayed are as nearly as possible a bird's-eye view of this august Sanhedrim—now sitting—with this exception, that the Companions are not represented therein, otherwise than by the banners. This is done the better to show the arrangement and form of the H.R. Arch. These symbols and ornaments, together with our present forms and ceremonies, trace their origin as far back as the Building of the Second Temple. The Grand Lodge of Scotland assert that the H.R.A. (this degree) is not part of Ancient Freemasonry. But the English book of Constitutions [edit. 1873, page 16, and former eds.] still expressly recognizes it as part of the third degree, "which includes the Royal Arch," and as did the Lodge of Reconciliation in 1813; and certainly as early as 1744 it was in existence, but conferred only on Masters of Lodges. The Chapter is it seems approached by seven steps, apparently the 7 steps of a M.M. The form of a R.A.C. is oblong, eastern end curved to represent an arch (a catenarian arch* in this degree) in which the thrones of the 3 principals represent the cope or key-stones to preserve a memory of the vaulted shrine in which K.S. deposited the S.W. The H.R.A. is intended to impress on our minds the providential means by which a knowledge of the truth (without fresh revelations) was restored by a series of important discoveries, after all traces of V.S.L. had been swept away by Nebuchadnezzar, at the destruction of Jerusalem, six hundred years before the Christian era. The knowledge of the law and worship of I AM having been retained by tradition only among the remnant of God's ancient people—exiles and captives—in the midst of an idolatrous nation, practising a splendid superstition (with all the adjuncts which despotism could devise to render it impressing and attractive) and in the ceremonials of which God's chosen race were compelled to join. But under all these distressing, depressing circumstances (a sect among a few) Masonry retained the memory of the True and Living God Most High and orally transmitted the substituted secrets of a M.M. to their children's children till time and circumstances (in manner now revealed) restored the genuine ones. The flooring of a R.A.C. is variegated or chequered black and white. Black, the colour of affliction, in allusion to their annihilation as a nation—their captivity and their slavery; and White, the colour of innocence, the symbol of absolute truth, denoting their purity, inspiring hope and joy. This flooring is surrounded by a tessalated border, and further symbolizes the antagonism of life and death in the spiritual and material states. The next thing that attracts our attention is V.S.L. open on a crimson cushion with gold tassels. Without a full acknowledgment of the truths contained in that Holy and S.V. no one can penetrate the veil within the sanctuary. On the left hand, or N. side, you will observe the square and compasses. The uses of the Bible, Square and Compasses are sufficiently explained in the previous degrees, and at our instruction meetings. On the right, S. side, you will observe the sword and the trowel in Saltier in form of letter X. A Saltier in heraldry is a cross with two feet (as if in the act of leaping). The energy of the application of the term is very expressive; the sword and trowel having been adopted by R.A.M. to commemorate the valour of those worthy brethren who carried on the building of the Second Temple A.L. 3469, with a trowel in their hand and a sword by their side, that they might be ever ready to defend the holy sanctuary against any attacks of its enemies:—whence we derive this moral—that, next to a cheerful obedience to all lawfully constituted authorities, is a manly resistance to all lawless violence. Hence, by a determined adherence to this great social duty in R.A.M., we preserve our constitutional landmarks from the floods of tyranny and official despotism. Proceeding eastward you may observe the tools of a R.A.M.; certain tools of manual labour; and a scroll. These are the Pickaxe; the Crowbar; and the Shovel; with the Roll, or Scroll, supposed to be written in an ancient language, and to contain the Sacred Law (or Bible). As mechanical instruments, the pickaxe is used to loosen the earth; the crowbar is to make purchases; and the shovel is to clear away the loosened earth and rubbish. These we spiritualise as follows: The sound of the stroke of the pickaxe reminds us of the sound of the last trumpet, when the graves shall be shaken open—shall be loosened and shall deliver up their dead. The crow being the emblem of uprightness alludes to the erect manner in which the spirit will arise on that awful day to meet its Divine Judge, its great and terrible Maker; the great tremendous, and merciful I AM. The shovel reminds us of the manner in which the remains of our mortal bodies are put away from sight when properly disposed of in the grave; which incites an involuntary hope that the spirit may thence arise with firm but humble faith of being (through His mercy) endowed with everlasting bliss. The scroll of sacred law reminds us of the tradition which we have preserved from time immemorial that the sacred ark—the book of the law and the prophets, involving certain facts unknown to the world, was removed from the most Holy Place, under Masonic direction, and so deposited as to escape that overwhelming destruction which swept away the whole land of Judea. It was deposited in a place of security at the building of K.S.T., and supposed to be irrecoverably lost at the destruction of that Temple, together with the Sacred Name of God Himself, when the veil of the Temple was rent, when darkness covered the earth; when consternation reigned; when the stars disappeared; when the implements of Masonry were lost; the lamp of day darkened; the cubical stone sweated blood and water; and in the dim night of dark despair only phantoms appeared. Then was the Sacred and Mysterious Word lost; and it remained so until time and circumstances, during the Babylonish Captivity, caused them to be (accidentally as some have thought) discovered, at the building of the second Temple. From these traditions we learn where, and under what circumstances, these secrets, with the Sacred Word, and the Book of the Sacred Law, were found. The very name of Holy Royal Arch has a significant allusion (well understood by every Companion in this august Sanhedrim now sitting). The very foundation of the degrees rest on these facts. Some say that when the idolatrous Manassah ascended the throne of Judah the Sacred Writings were hidden away; to preserve the Book from the rude hands of infidelity and violence, and remained in its place of security until found by Hilkiah. And then again that towards the close of the reign of Josiah; he foreseeing the wickedness and idolatry of his son (and successor), again hid away in a place of security the V.S.L., through the hands and instrumentality of Huldah the prophetess. But all agree that it was lost before the destruction of the Temple, and discovered by Ezra, Zerubbabel, and their associated brethren in the removal of the ruins of the Old Temple preparatory to the creation of the New.

Beyond these symbols, and on the centre of the raised circle, which is double, we observe two intersecting equilateral triangles. A symbol which excites awe and astonishment to the contemplating and inquiring mind of the noviciate. A double circle, with an embossed border enclosing a double equilateral triangle, is an emblem of vast significance; and may be traced amongst all religions in the known world. This emblem has been found in the caves of Elephanta, on the great image of the Deity; at Ghuznee, in the wall of the Temple; in Normandy, and in Brittany, on medallions; on the breasts of ancient Knight Templars, as they lie in recumbent attitudes in their Priories; in Christian Cathedrals; on the gates of Somnauth; in the Moorish Harem, in Western Barbary; in the Jewish Synagogue; and in innumerable monuments of bygone ages. A brass frame, in the shape of two intersecting triangles, has been found, used as a chandelier, in the palace of an Eastern Moslem; and it is said to represent the seal of King Solomon; as well amongst many ancient Eastern nations; as in many temples of Hebrew worshippers, in which may be seen, in front of a recess, where the sacred roll is to be deposited; a gigantic lamp or glass tumbler—a glory; in the centre of a brazen frame; a double triangle; Solomon's seal. With the Jew it referred to the Sephiroth; with the Moslem to the Deity and his Prophet, with the Christian to the Creator as Mediator working out the redemption of mankind, and was typical of his two natures, human and divine. It was found in all permanent Christian works in the early ages; and still exists in the pain ed windows of Collegiate and Christian Churches in England, and in Continental edifices, and in the paintings of Egypt—there signifying the known and the unknown; the apparent and the hidden mysteries; the initiated and uninitiated of Osiris. It was to the Pythagorean the symbol of health, the emblem of the elements—of fire and water; of prayer and of remission; of petition and blessing; of creation and redemption; of life and death; of resurrection and judgment. On the circumference of the circle are placed three brass candlesticks; three great luminaries in a triangular form, and, at the intersections of the triangles, three lesser ones. The three large lights refer to the sacred Logos, and are expressive of triune essence: of His creating, preserving and destroying power, as the Creator, Redeemer, and Judge of mankind. In the three lesser we symbolise three Masonic virtues—Virtue, Honour and Mercy—three divine attributes; and the lights of the law and the prophets; the patriarchal, mosaical and prophetical dispensations; as each of the lesser intersect the lines formed by two of the greater triangle they geometrically divide the greater triangle, in the centre, into three lesser triangles at their extremities; and, by their union, form a fourth triangle in the centre—within which is the altar of incense—in the form of a double cube of pure virgin marble. The cube is the symbol of human wisdom and moral perfection. The New Jerusalem (promised in the Apocalypse) is equal in height, length and breadth. The double cube is an emblem of divine wisdom. Its face is veiled from observation by a white veil, emblematical of that purity of heart and rectitude of conduct which should guard our secrets from profanation, and which is essential to obtain admission to the sacred secrets of the Sanctum Sanctorum, but certain mystic characters are visible on its plinth, and as we progress in knowledge we hope to penetrate the mysteries of that veil. Further east, we see a throne elevated on a dais with three steps; having a superb and royal canopy, composed of three Masonic colours; the purple implies awe and reverence; the blue, truth and constancy; the crimson, justice tempered with mercy. The inferences to be drawn therefrom are too obvious now to be dilated on. Blue, purple, and crimson are the colours of this royal canopy. Symbolism distinguishes three blue colours, one of which emanates from red; another from white; and the third is allied to black. Blue is frequently distinguished by different gradations of colour, and sometimes confounded in one alone. Blue, says a Chinese commentator, is a colour formed of black and red mixed together. The colour of Heaven is blue. It is the ju and the jang re-united in one. The active and passive principle; the male and the female; the obscure and the brilliant. Pauthier, in the Tao Te King, Philosophy of the Hindoos, says, "All corporeal beings and things are produced by incomprehensible nature, emanating from Tao (blue), and Blue is the origin of all subtile natures. Blue, emanating from red, represents the ethereal fire. It signifies the celestial love of truth. In the mysteries it relates to the baptism of fire. The Blue, emanating from white, indicates the truth of faith, the living waters of the Bible, the baptism of the spirit. And Blue, allied to black, conducts us back to cosmogony. To the spirit of God moving on the surface of the waters. To chaos. To natural baptism. Blue is an emblem of friendship and benevolence, and teaches us that, in the mind of a R.A. Mason, those virtues should be as expansive as the blue arch of heaven itself. These three aspects of the same colour correspond with the three principal degrees of antient initiation, and it (blue) is the characteristic colour of our present symbolic degrees, which are commonly designated as blue Masonry. Purple is produced by a due mixture of blue and scarlet. It teaches us to cultivate and improve that spirit of harmony between Craft Masons and the Companions of this Holy and Sublime Degree which should ever distinguish the members of a society founded on the principles of everlasting truth and universal philanthropy. Crimson, or more properly speaking scarlet (twice dyed, in the blood of the Murex, a fossil genus of shells), is emblematical of fervency and zeal; and is the appropriate colour of the Royal Arch Degree. It admonishes us to be fervent in our devotions to God, and zealous in our endeavours to promote the happiness of men. This canopy is fringed and tasselled with gold, and surmounted by a crown, out of which springs the staff of a white banner charged with a triangle within a circle including |T|. As you were told, when exalted to this holy and sublime degree, in the days of Pythagoras the triangle was esteemed the most sacred of emblems, and when an obligation of more than usual importance was administered it was universally given in a triangle; and when so taken none were ever known to violate it. The Egyptians termed it the sacred number, or number of perfection; and so highly did the antients esteem the figure that it became among them an object of worship as the great principle of animated existence. They gave it the name of God, and affirmed that it represented the animal, vegetable and mineral creation. The |T| forms 2 right angles, on each of the exterior lines, and another at the centre by their union; for the three angles of each triangle are equal to 2 right angles. I have endeavoured to avoid in this paper repeating any parts of the ceremonial, but these two allusions are perhaps unavoidable. Beneath the canopy in the illustration are 3 sceptres arranged in a triangular form. 1 sceptre is surmounted by a crown; 1 by a mitre; 1 by the All-seeing Eye, alluding to the regal, prophetical and sacerdotal offices. These sceptres are worn in our Chapters by the 3 Principals Z., H., J., who sit in the three thrones on the dais under the royal canopy, the secrets of all of which chairs were, are, and ever ought to be, conferred in a peculiar manner appropriate to each. On each side of the floorcloth are a series of banners, which I will more particularly explain. The designs blazoned on these banners (mounted on staves) formed the distinctive bearings of the 12 tribes of Israel, figurative of the peculiar blessings bequeathed to each by the Patriarch Jacob, who assembled them together for that purpose when he was dying. When Moses was ordered to go down to Egypt to deliver his brethren, he asked for a sign, and was ordered to cast down his rod, or staff, which immediately became a serpent, and Moses fled from it. By divine command, however, he put forth his hand, picked it up, and it resumed its form. This is said by some to be the origin of our R.A. staves and it is a favourite sign among R.A.M.'s of Ireland; and America too, for that matter. They are very fond of testing a brother by throwing down a walking (or other) stick, and observing how he will pick it up. It is also a password and sign with the veils, which, however, have been abolished in English Chapters for 55 years. On the top of these staves are the banners of the 12 tribes, which we use for many purposes, especially to commemorate the great wonders wrought for the children of Israel during their travels in the wilderness where they were first set up as standards around their encampment, about which each tribe assembled in due form. The devices on the banners are emblematical of what should and would (in their future ages) happen to the posterity of each tribe. I will come back to them directly. In the extreme E., and on either side of the white one, are four other principal standards (or banners), every one of which has its particular motto, or distinct sign described on it. When the Israelites marched through the wilderness we find that the 12 tribes had between them these 4 banners or standards. They encamped round about the tabernacle. On the E. side were three tribes under the standard of Judah; on the W. were three tribes, under the standard of Ephraim; on the S. were three tribes, under the standard of Reuben; and on the N. were three tribes, under the standard of Dan. The standard of Judah was a lion; the standard of Reuben a man; of Ephraim an ox; of Dan an eagle. These devices gave an origin to the hieroglyphics of the Cherubim and Seraphim, unitedly representing the Children of Israel. Each tribe was distinguished by a banner charged with a device. Each standard was of a different colour, according to that of the precious stone on which the name of it was engraven, that was placed in the breast-plate of the high priest, and on each standard their symbol was placed, therefore paintings were evidently not forbidden in those days. In the Holy Temple K.S. made 12 oxen under the brazen sea, and in his own house or palace K.S. placed 12 carved lions on the steps of his splendid throne. The standard was the common banner under which every three of the 12 tribes were united; besides which (as I have before reminded you) each of the 12 tribes had its own separate ensign or banner, as depicted on this tracing board, and as you see around these walls disposed in their order by notation in Arabic. The distance of the camp of Israel from the tabernacle was 2,000 cubits. In this space the priests, or Levites, pitched their tents, as a protection to the tabernacle. I should like here to read to you the 49th chapter of Genesis. More sublime language there is not in that Holy Book, even in Isaiah or any of the Prophets. Those who appreciate sublime language can read it at home. I will here content myself with alluding to the fact that the Patriarch Jacob, in blessing his sons, and describing the future habits of the people, and communicating to them that series of predictions, said he had read in the heavens the destiny of their posterity, which gave rise to Albertus Magnus and his followers calling the heavens "The Universal Book," full of information by the various configurations of the stars; and to their implicit belief that there might be distinctly foreseen the secret fortunes of individuals whose time of birth had been correctly registered. This secret belief is not really yet extinguished universally; but men do not now so openly acknowledge it. There were astrologers in those days. These four superior banners bore the component parts of the cherubic symbol of the Deity, who accompanied and afforded protection to the host, in the sacred pillar of cloud and of fire. Under each of these great banners the four principal divisions were managed; the standard of Judah was borne by Nahshon, its Prince. It was charged with a lion couchant, surmounted by a golden crown and sceptre; because from this tribe the Messiah—the King of Kings, the Prince of Peace, the Lion of the tribe of Judah was destined to spring. The colour of this banner was crimson or scarlet. To the tribe of Judah was assigned the most honourable station in the camp, viz., in the E. According to the ancient belief of the Jews the East was the front, or forepart of the world; and hence standing in the East they worship God by praying with their faces towards the West. Christian priests do so now. Under the standard of Judah in the E., before the entrance of the tabernacle, the tribes of Issachar and Zebulon pitched their tents, because they were all the children of Leah; and, consequently, united in a mutual bond of consanguinity. The banner of Issachar was borne by the standard bearer of Prince Nathaniel. It was sky blue, and (according to best authorities) was charged with a strong ass crouching between two burdens. The ass is a patient animal, and a proper symbol of labour. Accordingly the posterity of Issachar sat down quietly on the land allotted to them, and cultivated with diligence and assiduity. Instead of employing themselves in war or mercantile pursuits, they were lovers of peace and quietness. The act of the ass crouching between its burdens was an apposite symbol of the indolent character of this tribe; who preferred submission to every species of tyranny and oppression rather than the trouble of asserting their natural civil and social rights in the field of battle. Just like the true quadruped ass, which though a sturdy, strong, and hardy animal, sinks tamely under heavy burdens; though it could easily, by the exercise of its bodily strength shake off and get free from them. The geographical position of the territory taken up by this tribe in the Land of Promise was also perhaps hereby alluded to. According to some authorities, however, the banner of Issachar was charged with a sun and a moon, and several ancient Rabbins are inclined to patronise this opinion. Prince Elish erected the banner of Zebulon. It was purple, and bore for its characteristic a ship. Thus the principal quarter of the camp was marked by the standard of the three royal colours, blue, purple, and crimson.

The south side of the camp (being the next honourable post) was occupied by the tribes of Reuben, Simeon, and Gad, who were brothers (by Leah and Zilpah her handmaiden). The device on the great banner of this division, which was borne by Prince Eleizus, was another of the cherubic forms—namely—a man, because Reuben was the firstborn of his father. The excellency of his "dignity and power;" the prerogatives of the first born, which Reuben would certainly have enjoyed, according to his just claim, if he had not forfeited them by his offences. Jacob prophesied that he should not excel by reason of his instability. He predicted of him, "unstable as water, thou shalt not excel;" that, as water, by a natural propensity, inherent in its substance, flows from its source, in an elevated situation, to a place that is lower than itself, so should Reuben fall from his birthright, and subside into an inferior situation among the tribes. And this prophecy was remarkably verified; for nothing great or praiseworthy has been recorded respecting the posterity of Reuben. They were inferior in numerical strength to the other tribes; and yet the pre-eminent leadership was given to Judah, and because nothing great or honourable is recorded of his tribe, some think that the device upon his banner was the mandrake (mán. drá. go. rá.) a narcotic plant, the subject of many fables. The tribe of Levi was separated from the congregation of Israel to be devoted exclusively to the service of the altar (Numbers viii. 6.34.) They had a maintenance assigned to them out of the public stock. They had no settled inheritance, even in the Land of Canaan; they were exempted from taxes, tribute, war, and all public duties; they were not even numbered among the people. They were set apart entirely for a particular and peculiar duty of greater honour and sanctity. There were three degrees to be taken before they could be allowed to perform the services of the tabernacle. The first was initiation; the second, consecration; the third, admission to duty. At fifty years of age their labours were to cease, and their declining years were spent in instructing the younger Levites. That the colour of the banner of this division should have been red, is a matter of surprise to many; because Reuben was not a warlike tribe, and in the popular language of every nation, red (the colour of blood) was the emblem of combat. Prince Shelumiel, as the leader of the tribe of Simeon, bore a yellow banner, emblazoned with a city, as some assert; others say a tower, in reference to the tower of Shechem, but more generally accepted authorities are in favour of the sword, the implement used by the progenitor of the tribe in the barbarous slaughter of the Shechemites. In this tracing board Simeon and Levi are represented on the banner. The former by the sword, the latter by the dagger—as instruments of warfare used by them. The dying Patriarch expressed his abhorrence of the numerous murders committed by them under the assurance of kindness and good faith; and he lamented the violent passions of these two of his sons, formally denouncing them in these words—"accursed be their anger, for it was fierce; and their wrath, for it was cruel. I will divide them in Jacob, and scatter them in Israel." The tribe of Levi was entirely lost among the other tribes, and the tribe of Simeon had little or no possessions in the Promised Land, but dwelt in the midst of Judah. Some of them wandered as far as Mount Leir, and the deserts of Gideon. Having been associated in wickedness, supreme providence ordained that their posterity should be disunited, that no opportunity should be afforded them of working evil upon the brethren, as did their progenitors. The banner of the tribe of Gad was under the charge of Prince Eliasaph. Gad signifies a troop. Jacob foretold the difficulties that would oppose the progress of Gad's posterity, and the hostility of their neighbours; but that, though doomed to be sometimes overcome, yet, in the end, they would overcome all difficulties. This prediction was also amply verified. They established themselves firmly and peaceably in the portion allotted to them (a country beyond Jordan); and although for some time they were necessarily exposed to the incursions of the Ammonites and suffered severely, yet ultimately they overcame them through the military talents of the renowned Gileaditish general Jephtha, who also afterwards defeated the Ephraimites, and furnished us with the password of the second degree. The banner is white, and charged with a troop of horsemen, according to the best authorities. But, again, they vary. De Loutherbourg, in his famous picture of the Twelve Standards of Israel, has charged it with a field semée of stars, whilst the title-page frontispiece to Barker's Bible, printed in 1634, or 243 years ago, represents it by a flag. The third side of the camp was occupied by the half-tribe of Ephraim, united with those of Manasseh and Benjamin, all of whom were descended from Rachel; Ephraim and Manasseh, though only grandchildren of Jacob, taking the precedence of his own children, in consequence of the blessing of the dying Patriarch. Ephraim stepped into the inheritance of his father Joseph, and was elevated into one of the leading tribes of Israel. The ancients said Joseph is a fruitful bough, growing by a well-watered soil, and shooting forth two luxuriant branches; thus referring us to the banner of the tribes of Ephraim and Manasseh, and the predictions fulfilled in their pre-eminence. Of Joseph it was said, "the archers sorely grieved him, and shot at him, and hated him" (in reference to the persecutions of his brethren, who afterwards sold him into Egypt, and to the false accusation by which he was thrown into prison). He has been represented as armed with a bow; his abode being in strength, and the arms of his hands made strong by the mighty God. He triumphed over all his enemies, and rose to the highest state of worldly prosperity. Ephraim stepped into the inheritance of his father Joseph, and was elevated into one of the leading tribes of Israel. His banner (green) was borne by Prince Elishua, and consecrated with the figure of a cherubic emblem of the Deity (an ox), which denotes patience, industry, strength. In Tyre an ox was the symbol of the city. In Egypt the soul of Osiris was believed to have migrated into a bull; and the sacred Apis was considered as a beautiful representation of the soul of the Deity. The figure of a bull, as a symbol of vigour, watchfulness, and fidelity, was frequently employed by the ancients in the construction of their mystical emblems. The fable of Jason's golden fleece guarded by brazen-footed bulls was grounded on a tradition of the cherubim, which, with flaming swords, were placed at the eastern gates of Paradise, (Psalm lx. 7.) "Ephraim is the strength of my head," said Jehovah in the Psalms.

Prince Gamaliel led the tribe of Manasseh. Their tents were pitched under a flesh-coloured banner, which was charged with a luxuriant vine, planted by the side of a wall which its tendrils overhung. But again we notice a variation in the description of ancient authorities, some describing this banner as charged with a unicorn, and others as with a palm-tree depicted thereon. The reasons are not very obvious, and I need not delay to point them out. Abidan the Prince bore the banner of the tribe of Benjamin, of that there is no dispute; it was a green banner, emblazoned with a wolf. The tribe of Benjamin were ever a fierce and warlike people—a bellicose and cruel sept; giving battle, single handed, to all the other tribes, and even overcoming them in battle. Saul (who possessed great military talents) sprang from this tribe, and both he and his sons were slain in battle. You may recollect that Jacob was ever notoriously fond of his younger son Benjamin; indeed, he was his pet and favourite; yet, in his patriarchal dispensation of blessings under Divine inspiration, Jacob neither secured nor conferred any peculiar blessings for or upon Benjamin or his posterity, he merely describes him and his descendants as fierce and warlike.

The fourth and last quarter of the camp was assigned to Dan. Dan was the largest tribe next to Judah, and it was for this reason probably that it was placed in the rear: so that the most numerous portions of the host formed the front and rear guards (as they may be termed) of the allied army; for, as in the present day—however bitter and warlike amongst themselves—the Jews unite, as allies, against all foreign interests. With Dan were associated the two remaining tribes Asher and Napthali (the sons of the two concubines, Bilhah and Zilpah). The great banner was borne by Prince Ahiezer.

It was of bright green, and charged with a golden eagle; a component part of the cherubim, denoting wisdom and sublimity; which emblem was afterwards adopted as the insignia of Egypt, of Rome, France, Prussia, Russia, and other European nations, and I think we have heard of one or two in America. There is no doubt that this device was the proper and appropriate decoration of the standard of the 4th grand division. The word Dan signifies judging, "Dan shall judge his people;" but whether it was the special banner of Dan admits of some dispute. Universal history (from Reyberus) attributes to Dan a banner with an eagle bearing a serpent in his talons. Some of the Rabbins give Dan a serpent only—"Dan shall be a serpent in the way." The tribe of Dan were remarkable for defeating their enemies by policy rather than by force, of which there are many instances in the Bible, and some give Dan a serpent only as emblematical of their way. A serpent accursed of God. De Loutherbourg gives Dan a serpent only in his Banners of the Tribes. And so it is depicted on the title page of Barker's Bible, which, I mentioned before, is nearly two centuries and a half old (1634). The prophet Ezekiel indicates an eagle (but people ignore the prophets in these latter days). The Rev. David Jodd thinks that Dan's standard was a lion's whelp, "Dan is a lion's whelp," "he shall leap from Bashan." And the learned Rabbi (who firmly believes that the Ethiopians are the descendants of Dan), noticed in Africa, among the emblems of the tribes, on their breast plates, forehead pieces, instruments of music and banners—a lion's whelp. Others again (and this angust Chapter too, apparently) adopt the device of a serpent, biting the heels of a horse; because Jacob prophesied "Dan shall be a serpent by the way," "an adder in the path," that biteth the horse's heels; so that the rider "shall fall backward." I am afraid that this is a forced misappropriation of Holy Writ. The balance of testimony seems to me to be in favour of the eagle. As this tribe were the ringleaders of idolatry—the first who apostatised from God (soon after the death of Joshua);—the Romans (those latitudinarian idolaters), who worshipped the gods of all nations, in their teeming Pantheon, at once appropriated the puissant Eagle of Dan, and planted his symbol (abominable in the sight of God) on the holy porch of the temple of Jerusalem.

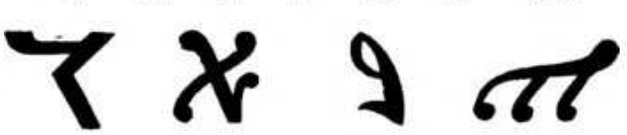
Prince Pagiel unfurled the purple banner of Asher, which bore a tree or a cup (according to Barker's Bible). The banner of the Prince of Ahira of the tribe of Napthali was blue, and designated by a hind: a hind let loose. The tribe of Asher were fruitful and prolific, and inherited a tract in the Holy Land, which produced the necessaries of life in abundance, also the choicest fruits, viz., Mount Carmel.

The tribe of Napthali were a spirited and free people, fruitful, and had a prodigious increase; for, from the four sons of Napthali, whom he took down into Egypt, proceeded upwards of 50,000 descendants, when they were emancipated. Their portion was in Upper Galilee.

At this late hour I shall only very briefly draw your attention to the mystical symbols and inscriptions of the third illustration; prominently showing a magnificent ancient stone archway, the entrance into the sacred mysteries of Masonry, in its greatest and widest acceptation—the Rites of those who are proficients in the Mystical Teaching of True Christianity. The higher the neophyte rises, the greater will be the degree of light which he may hope to obtain. This Picture appears to me to be designed to set forth (symbolically and historically) some of the aspects presented in the higher developments of Masonry; and especially the close and influential relation of the two Great Orders of The Temple and of St. John, both to Masonry, and to outside Christianity. It cannot be necessary to point out to the advanced Masonic student that even in the Royal Arch there are significant traces of Christianity, pure and simple, in some of the passwords and symbols; such as palpably refute those libellous imputations of Infidelity so offensively thrown out against us by some of the Roman Chemarim. As to such unjust imputations, I shall say no more than this—Ejice foras—"Set them aside." They should "all pass by us as the idle wind, which we regard not." At the top of all in this Picture, over the Crown, is the sacred word ΦΩΣ—a Greek word signifying Light; the apt emblem of Purity and Life, representing the Beauty, the Power, and the Wisdom of Almighty God. Below it, appropriately resting upon the sceptre and the sword, stands the Imperial (Cross-surmounted Crown) with this Latin text—at once words of warning and of encouragement: "Tene quod habes, ut nemo accipiat coronam tuam."—"Hold fast what you have, that no man may take your crown." In the corner of the picture, to the left, is a sealed or locked book (the S.V.), and over it are these letters: Q.E.D.A.L.E.S.S.E.?—that is (from Revelations no doubt) "Quis est dignus aperire librum, et solvere signacula ejus?" "Who is worthy to open this Book, and to undo its fastenings, or seals?" A pregnant and weighty question, M.E., E.C., and C.; a covert rebuke to many rash and ignorant persons—ever ready to meddle with what they can neither understand nor appreciate. Below the S.V. are the words of St. John—"Sed ego flebam multum,"—"But I wept much" (to think the Book should remain sealed); and that is the humble state of mind which is always sure to be rewarded, for to him (St. John) we are told the knowledge of that Sealed Book was then immediately revealed. The singular position of the Two Great Orders, of the Temple and of St. John—as claimed and exercised according to the ancient theories of Masonry, in that church-like system, to which the H.R.A. was, of old, unquestionably the magnificent entrance—is emphatically typified by two antique golden keys crossed; the Latin text being: "We open, and no man shuts; We shut, and no man opens." Below the S.V. are two swords (the Temple and the O.S.J.) now broken to pieces; although once the Great Master of Both might Himself have said—as He did of two other swords when they were shown to Him—"They are enough."

Above these broken swords—significantly portraying the weak, disunited, and shattered condition of the two (once sovereign) Orders at the present day—is the motto, "Olim fortiores"—"They were stronger once." And below the broken swords is the record of a regretful cry over such separation and disunion—"Usque quo Domine Deus?"—O Lord God, how long?" On the opposite side, or right hand of the picture, is a curtain drawn: typical of the veiled truths of Red Masonry. And on this curtain are the letters W.I.D.H.D.S.S.V.—"Was ist, dass hinter diesen Schleier sich verbirgt?"*—"What is it that lies hid behind the veil?" The answer is glanced at by the emblem of the Fish upon the curtain, ιχθυς:—Ιησους Χριστος Θεου Υιος Σωτηρ.

The designer of the sketch has (below the crown already mentioned) introduced a hand pointing downwards—the hand being, as you are aware, an old emblem of the Deity†—designating these words, Ιδου αλλο σημειον—"Behold, another Sign." What is that sign? The Great Arch to Masonry broken and in danger of falling, because two of its great Keystones have fallen. The safety of the Arch is obviously imperilled, and its strength and symmetrical beauty destroyed; it is, you will observe, only kept from tumbling into utter ruin by a clumsy and un-Masonic contrivance, or substitute for the two joint K.S. which should properly surmount the Royal Arch. The very door can now hardly be kept closed. It has been forced open, and is only kept at all in its place by the Chains of Obligation. The lamentable and unexpected fall of the Glorious O.T.S. has, you see, broken up the solid stone door-step to the Grand Masonic Edifice; and lying near that more palpable fracture is the other dislodged K.S., representing the renowned Order of St. John of Jerusalem, resting still, however, as it has fallen, upon the Infeel—the Gospel of the New Testament. On the K.S. of the Temple is a mark known to the Initiated; and on the K.S. of St. John is the gracious Word JOHN in Arabic—the language of learning and science in the Ages of Darkness, now happily passed away. Bear with me, M.E., E.C., and C., for a very little longer, and I have done. At the base of the Picture, below the Mystic Archway, is a text by which the designer has (as I conceive) earnestly but indirectly declared his strong conviction of the desirability of raising once more the two K.S. to their original position of utility and importance; providing so that every portion of the edifice may stand firm; compactly fitted, and joined together in knowledge, strength, and love—in fine, that the whole system of Masonry may be re-established upon its ancient basis. For the Temple and its Great Sister Order of Jerusalem were (as every Student of History and of Masonry knows) closely and inseparably connected with Saint John. This text at the basement is in Arabic, and it presents to us the fifth and sixth verses of the first chapter of the Fourth Gospel: "And the Light shineth in Darkness, and the Darkness comprehended it not. There was a man sent from God whose name was JOHN."



The last text I have to mention will be found in the centre of the Picture, below the rude wooden beam, clumsily supporting the Broken Arch. It is (as you will observe) in Greek. It runs as follows—and with it I will end my Lecture:—

"And this is the Testimony of the Holy One and the True."

GRAND LODGE OF MARK MASTERS.

THE occasion of the Half-yearly Communication of this Grand Lodge, on Tuesday, the 31st ult., was made exceptionably brilliant as celebrating the Twenty-fifth Anniversary of its Constitution, and the peculiar interest taken in the progress of the Order was manifested by the gathering of by far the greatest number of distinguished Officers and Brethren ever yet congregated under the auspices of this Grand Lodge. The spacious accommodation afforded by the suite of Masonic, Dining and Concert Rooms of the Criterion, Piccadilly, was secured for the purposes of the ordinary business of Grand Lodge and the banquets subsequently given to the Brethren and their Ladies. The Right Hon. the Earl of Lathom, Most Worshipful Grand Mark Master Mason, presided.

The minutes of the previous half-yearly Communication having been confirmed, the Grand Master announced, amidst general acclamation, that His Royal Highness Prince Leopold, Duke of Albany, had consented to receive the appointment of Past Grand Master of the Mark degree, and His Royal Highness was accordingly saluted in due form.

The following is the—

CUMBERLAND AND WESTMORELAND.—The loss by death of the valuable services of R.W. Bro. Col. John Whitwell P.G.W. Deputy Prov. Grand Master.

CORNWALL.—The appointment of R.W. Bro. Sir Charles Brune Graves Sawle, Bart., as Prov. Grand Master, in succession to the late R.W. Bro. Col. Peard.

SOMERSET.—The appointment of R.W. Bro. Richard Charles Else as Prov. Grand Master in succession to General H. E. Doherty, whose regretted continued ill-health prevented his fulfilling the duties of his office.

SUSSEX.—The appointment of R.W. Bro. Thos. Trollope, M.D., as Prov. Grand Master, in succession to the late R.W. Bro. Thomas Cunningham, M.D.

NEW ZEALAND (South Island.)—The Constitution of a new Province and the appointment of R.W. Bro. Thomas Sherlock Graham as the first Prov. Grand Master.

The M.W. Grand Master being desirous to mark his sense of the benefits conferred on Mark Masonry by the distinguished literary labours of W. Bro. Thomas B. Whytehead P.M., power is asked from Grand Lodge to confer on him Past Rank as Grand Master Overseer; and to confirm in their rank and privileges as Past Masters, W. Bro. William Henry Alexander Mackinnon, No. 248, Malta, who completed six months only as Wor. Master, owing to the exigencies of the Service to which he is attached as Surgeon-Major, and

W. Bro. Wesley Francis, No. 252, Natalia, compelled to leave the Colony before completing his year of office.

Acting under the powers conferred upon them by Grand Lodge at the Meeting in November last, the Board have acquired and entered on possession of new and commodious Offices at No. 8a, Red Lion Square, on a lease of 29 years from 25th March 1881, at an annual rental of £140 for 21 years, and of £150 for the remaining 8 years.

The fitting and furnishing of the Offices has been completed under the supervision of the Board, but it has been considered advisable to defer the requisite works for the decoration and adaptation of the spacious and convenient Hall (included in the tenancy) for ceremonial and other purposes for the sanction of Grand Lodge.

The Board ask for the authority of Grand Lodge for this necessary expenditure on an estimate to be approved by Bros. Edis and Driver, Past G.S.W.

The Board cannot permit this Annual Commemoration of Grand Lodge to pass without drawing special attention to the exceptionally interesting and important circumstances under which it is assembled as the TWENTY-FIFTH ANNIVERSARY of the foundation of this Grand Lodge.

The unprecedented progress that has been made during this period in the development of the Mark Degree, affords gratifying evidence of the important position which Mark Masonry holds in the Universal Masonic Brotherhood.

On Wednesday, 6th July next, the "Annual Festival of the Mark Benevolent Fund" will be held, under the presidency of the newly-installed Grand Master, Right Hon. Lord Henniker, and at this special period in the History of Grand Lodge, the Board cannot entertain any mistrust as to the result of the labours of the Stewards and their friends who will support the Chairman on that occasion.

The Board recommend the following grants from the Benevolent Fund, viz:—£10 to W.L., of Lodge No. 101; £20 to S.G., widow of W.G., of Lodge No. 152; and they have relieved Bro. J.E.R., of the Northumberland and Berwick Lodge, to the extent of £5.

The Board also recommend £21 to be granted from the General Fund on account of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls.

The papers in connection with the question at issue between the Provincial Grand Master of Bristol, and Brother G. Rennie Powell, and the appeal to Grand Lodge by the latter against the decision of the General Board, are in the office for inspection by any Brother desirous of referring to their contents.

The Board acknowledge with thanks Reports of the Proceedings of the following Grand Royal Arch Chapters:—

21st April 1881. G. R. PORTAL, Past G.M.M., President.

The Report and Accounts having been received and adopted, Bro. Thomas B. Whytehead was invested as Past Grand Master Overseer, and the rank of Past Master was also conferred on Bro. Mackinnon and Bro. Francis respectively. On the recommendation of the Rev. G. R. The Grand Master, in an able and effective speech, expressed his thanks to the brethren for the honour conferred upon him, and stated his intention to continue his utmost exertions to promote the further prosperity of the Order. The Right Hon. the Earl of Lathom was then invested with the jewel of Past Grand Master, presented by Grand Lodge, in acknowledging the receipt of which his Lordship referred to the pleasure which he had experienced during his term of office in promoting the prosperity of the Degree, and his hope that its present rate of progress would continue under the rule of his successor.

The Grand Secretary mentioned the receipt of letters of apology for non attendance from Bro. the Right Hon. Lord Holmesdale P.G.M. and several Provincial Grand Masters and other brethren.

Bro. Renney, of the Britania Mark Lodge, Sheffield, on behalf of the Mark Degree in that District, expressed their desire that a Moveable Grand Mark Lodge might at an early date be held at Sheffield, and the M.W.G.M.M. promised that the invitation should be submitted to the Board of General Purposes.

The proceedings of the meeting were then terminated, and Grand Mark Lodge having been closed in due form, the Brethren proceeded to banquet in the spacious Dining-room of the Hotel, their Ladies being at the same time entertained, under the management of a Board of Stewards selected for that purpose. Subsequently a capital selection of Vocal and Instrumental Music was given by professional and amateur friends, and a most delightful and agreeable evening was enjoyed by all.

CONSECRATION OF PRINCE EDWARD OF SAXE-WEIMAR LODGE, No. 1903.

THERE was a very large gathering of Freemasons on Wednesday, 25th May, to welcome His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught, who, as a Past Officer of the Grand Lodge of England, had accepted an invitation to be present at Portsmouth. His Royal Highness was received by General H.S.H. Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar, K.C.B., commanding the Southern military district, who was accompanied by Lord Albert Seymour and Capt. the Hon. C. G. Byng, A.D.C.'s, Bro. Lord Charles Beresford, and Bros. H. W. Townsend, T. Page, A. L. Emanuel, H. Threadingham, and Sam. Knight, as representatives of the new Lodge. On reaching the Officers' house on the Grand Parade, Portsmouth, the Duke was received by the R.W. the Provincial Grand Master of Hampshire and the Isle of Wight, Bro. W. W. Bramston Beach, M.P.), the V.W. the Deputy Provincial Grand Master (Bro. W. Hickman), and a number of the Provincial Officers present and past.

The Lecture Hall, Penny Street, had been fitted up as a Lodge, and the decorations here, and also at the headquarters of the Artillery Volunteers (lent for the occasion by Colonel Lanyon Owen) were tasteful and appropriate. Many of the decorations, including some thousands of yards of red, white, blue and green bunting, with which both halls were covered, were kindly lent by Bro. J. P. Knight, the general manager of the London, Brighton and South Coast Railway Company, who sent a telegram during the day to state that he was detained in London by a meeting of the Directors, otherwise he would have been present at the proceedings.

Among the visitors were Bros. Lord Tenterden P.G.M. of Essex; Montague Guest, M.P., P.G.M. for Dorset; Lieut. Col. H. Somerville Burney P.G.D. of England; Rev. Charles J. Martyn P.G.C. of England and D.P.G.M. of Suffolk; Rev. C. W. Arnold P.G.C. of England and D.P.G.M. for Surrey; Robert Grey P.G.D. of England; J. W. Case P.G.D. of England; S. Rawson P.D.G.M. for China; Sir Henry Drummond Wolff, M.P., G.C.M.G.; Baron Henry de Worms, M.P.; Admiral of the Fleet Sir Harry Keppel, M.P.; Colonel Bray, A.A.G., &c.

The Provincial Grand Officers in attendance were:—Bros. Captain T. H. M. Martin, R.N., S.G.W.; H. F. Brouncker J.G.W.; Rev. A.G. Barker G.C.; Rev. A. A. Headley G.C.; T. Lamb G. Reg.; Mark E. Frost G. Treas.; C. J. Miller G. Sec.; A. L. Emannel J.G.D., Tasker G. Supt. of Works; R. Barnes G.D.C.; Bowyer A.G.D.C; Quartermaster G. Douglas G. Sword Bearer; Harle G. Purs.; J. G. Jones G. Org.; A. H. Joliffe, J. J. Pulley, H. C. Liddell, and J. Parkinson, G. Stewards; Biggs and Exell G. Tylers.

At noon there was a procession from the Officers' house into the Lodge, and the Duke of Connaught, on making his appearance, was received with great enthusiasm by the Brethren; Bro Jones P.G.O., who presided at the harmonium, playing Bro. Winterbottom's March, "Hail to our Prince," the cheering being renewed as His Royal Highness accompanied the Provincial Grand Master to the dais. The interesting and impressive ceremony was at once proceeded with according to the ancient ritual, to which full justice was done by the Prov. G.M., the Wardens' chairs being occupied pro tem by Bros. Captain T. H. Martin, R.N., Prov. G.S.W., and Bro. H. F. Brouncker, Prov. G.J.W. After the prescribed preliminaries had been completed, the D.G.M. addressed the G.M., proffering a request that he would constitute the new Lodge. The Provincial Grand Master said it was with great pleasure that he acceded to the request which had been made on the part of the Brethren of the new Lodge, and he was glad it was to be launched under such favourable circumstances. The large attendance of Brethren showed the very great interest which was taken, not only in the welfare of the Craft but in the prosperity of this particular Lodge. And it was, indeed, an interesting event in Freemasonry when they called into existence a new Lodge, to promulgate those principles which were the very germs of their Order. Directing their attention for a few moments to the purpose for which they had met, and the object they had in view, he said the study of Freemasonry was no doubt a great work. It carried their minds back to a very remote period, to the constitution of their Order. They must look for its Origin to the East, the birthplace of the arts and sciences, the very cradle of the human race. And it was worthy of remark that in whatever country the lamp of knowledge had burnt most brightly, there Masonry had existed and had been preserved, because it was intimately associated with the study of geometry, and the various arts and sciences which had contributed to the elevation and instruction of the human race. It found a home in Greece, amongst her ancient philosophers; it was taken to Egypt, where it flourished to a very great extent; and after having existed on through the middle ages and produced many splendid monuments of architecture, it at last was carried into England and other parts of the Continent of Europe. How did it come there? Ancient legends told them it was transmitted by a man named Peter Gower, and this caused some difficulty, because no one could understand who Peter Gower was. But after some investigation it was found that Peter Gower was no one else but Pythagoras; and though at first sight it did not seem that there was much connection between the names, when they reflected that it came through the French, who made Pythagoras into Peter Gower, it no longer seemed quite a marvel. In England the first great working Mason was good Prince Edwyn, the king's brother, who studied geometry, and procured a Charter for the propagation of Masonry and the establishments of Lodges, and from that day to this Masonry had existed, and had more or less thrived and flourished. Sometimes it had met with discouragement, but it was worthy of remark that whenever discouragement was attempted to be thrown upon it, it had risen superior to such efforts. And what had caused it to flourish and exist at the present time in unexampled prosperity? Adherence to the principles on which it was originally founded. Masons had never swerved from their first allegiance, from those grand principles which formed the stability of their Order, and contributed to render it such a permanent institution; and so long as they held fast to their traditions, so long as they continued to act in conformity with the lessons they had received, and to those grand and sublime principles of the Craft, so long as they strove to do justice, practised charity, acted with prudence, and maintained harmony and brotherly love, so long would Masonry flourish in the world, a grand institution, powerful for good, and tend to be of the greatest benefit to the human race. The Brethren of the new Lodge would have a mission to perform in endeavouring to extend those principles to the best of their ability. He believed that many of those who would be brought first to see the light of Freemasonry in that Lodge, would be called upon to go to other portions of the globe, and have an opportunity of transmitting the lessons which they received here to Masons there. Might they ever have it in their minds to show that the lessons which they had received in the Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar Lodge were in conformity with the purity of the Craft, and calculated to extend its benefits to every portion of the earth.

The P.G. Chaplains (Bros. the Rev. A. G. Barker and A. A. Headley) officiated in turn, the oration being delivered by Bro. Barker, as follows:—

Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master and Brethren, It is only one short year since I was duly installed and appointed as Chaplain of the Province, and yet this is the third new Lodge at the opening of which I have been called upon to officiate. Can any words of mine speak so eloquently as this one fact, on the uses of Masonry? No! This fact tells us in a manner none can gainsay, or contradict, that Masonry, like a mighty solemn wave, rolling for centuries from the East, gathers into its great heart ever greater and greater numbers of the highest, and most intellectual, the most Philanthropic in our land. And I cannot look around upon this assembly to-day without feeling that we have as a Fraternity in no whit degenerated from the times when eastern kings, princes, and sages enrolled themselves into one great brotherhood for the advancement of the good of mankind, and the building up of the great spiritual temple of temperance, justice and truth. Since last I addressed your Right Worshipful G. Master and this Province on this subject, I have visited the home and cradle of our Order—Egypt, Syria, and Asia Minor; and often as I stood among their wondrous temples, the Grand rhythm of the Prophet Ezekiel's words (as he, too, stood in vision in the midst of the great typical temple of Jerusalem) echoed in my ears, "Behold the glory of the God of Israel came from the way of the East." And many direct traces of our Craft did I notice. Upon the sculptured walls of the Egyptian temples stood conspicuous many of our most sacred typical figures and allegorical emblems, and I proudly reflected that amongst much in that picture-writing that spoke of cruelty, lust, and intemperance, none have been consecrated to the use of our society but those having a moral tendency and seeming to inculcate the practice of virtue. The peasants of the Lebanon, at the present day, all unknowing perhaps of its deep meaning, weave their embroideries into designs of compass and triangle, and the double triangles on the ruined mosques show that Masonry once had an ennobling influence even on the wild heart of early Islamism. And another Masonic lesson was taught me by the mighty ruins of Baalbeck. Just above the foundations of a Cyclopian wall lies a course of gigantic stones, three in number, each measuring 64ft. long, 13 high, and 13 wide—weighing, I am told, 300 tons. One looks at the enormous blocks, which have lain there, unmoved by earthquake, unscathed by storms, for countless centuries, and one asks, Where among the Masons of to-day should we find the patience, the passionate determination to overcome all difficulties which must have animated the craftsmen of the old, old days, in their resolution to hew and move these stony mountains? Yet, surely, we to-day have mountains of labour as hard to climb, unhewn stones of passion and evil custom, requiring years of toil to frame before they can be made fit for the building of the Temple of God. Yet, it must be done; for God requires this at every man's hand, to bring something to the building of His House, according to his power. But they sometimes failed. These giants of old failed, as we fail at times to-day; and as their finished work is but as an example, so must their failure be unto us a warning. In this case the failure and the success are close together, for not half a mile away in the quarry lies a stone hewn into shape and ready for the wall, larger by some feet than those which I have already spoken of. Why does not it, too, adorn the Temple? Did disunion creep in among the workmen? Did sloth lay her heavy hand upon them? Did giant despair hold them in his grasp? We know not; we only know that the mighty mass lies useless among the sand, instead of adding a further glory to the Temple wall. But this we know full well, that disunion, sloth, and despair to-day mar many a fair promise of work to be done for the Temple, and so we must up and fight them, for so only shall we truly keep in view the three great tenets of our society—brotherhood, active work, and hopeful charity; and so only will the squared blocks of individual virtues be raised with the great spiritual temple, instead of lying a confused heap of stones in the quarry, half smothered with the sand of time. The choir, under the direction of Bro. J. Winterbottom, rendered the musical portion of the service with marked effect. On the R.W. Prov. G.M. announcing that the Lodge had been duly constituted, the bells of the parish church rang out a merry peal for an hour. Lord Charles Beresford, who is a P.M. of the Meham Lodge, Devonport, was installed by the P.G.M., amid rounds of hearty cheers from the brethren. The P.G.M. remarked that it had been very gratifying to him to attend and see the great interest which was taken in the future prosperity of the Lodge, and he could only congratulate the members on the auspices under which the Lodge was founded, and on the great probability of success under the able Master whom he had had the pleasure of placing in the chair that day. The Officers were appointed as follows:—Bros. H. W. Townsend I.P.M., T. Page S.W., Lt. Sackville H. Carden, R.N., J.W., H. Threadingham Treasurer, A. L. Emanuel Hon. Secretary, Rev. P. H. Good Chaplain, Lieut. F. S. Knowles, R.N., S.D., Martyr J.D., Winterbottom Organist, Lind D.C., McLeod, R.E., I.G., H. Long and S. Knight Stewards, Mansell, R.N., and Carter Tylers. As Bro. Carden was unavoidably absent, being on duty at sea, Br. Lieut. Southwell G. T. Bourke, R.N. acted for him. The nominations, as honorary members, of the Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar Lodge, of the Prince of Wales, the Duke of Connaught, and the P.G.M., were hailed with the greatest enthusiasm. Bro. Townsend said he had been requested by the brethren who were Founders to perform a most pleasing duty, to thank Lord Charles Beresford most cordially for having graciously consented to become the first Master of the new Lodge, and to ask his acceptance of a jewel, bearing the following inscription:—"Presented to Bro. Past Master the Right Honourable Lord Charles William de la Poer Beresford, by the Founders of the Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar Lodge, No. 1903, as a token of respect and esteem, and to mark their sense of the high honour conferred on them by accepting the office of First Worshipful Master." He ventured to express a hope that the Lodge would prove not to have been formed in vain, and that in due time it would take a prominent place among the many Lodges already existing in the Province. He did not ask their W.M. to appreciate the jewel for its intrinsic worth, so much as because it conveyed the knowledge that the brethren of the new Lodge were not unmindful of the high honour which his lordship had conferred upon them, or of the many sacrifices of time which he would be called upon to make in order to carry out the many duties which he would be called upon to perform during his year of office. Bro. Townsend then pinned the jewel (which consisted of twenty-seven stones, the compass being formed of five diamonds, and the crown of diamonds and rubies) on Lord Charles Beresford's breast, expressing his sincere hope, and that of the Founders of the Lodge, that he might live long to wear it as a slight recognition of their appreciation of the valuable services rendered by him in forming the Lodge, and in cheerful remembrance of this great Masonic success. The W.M., Lord Charles Beresford, who was received with much cheering, said he hardly knew how to express himself in adequate terms in thanking the founders for the extremely handsome present they had thought fit to make him. As far as the founding of the Lodge was concerned, the little he had done to bring it forward he had very gladly done, but to the Founders and the brethren who had kindly accepted office under him, belonged the whole of the credit. He did not believe there were many Masons in the Lodge who had ever seen such a splendid gathering, either in a Lodge or at the constitution of a Lodge. He must take the opportunity to thank the brethren of his own Lodge for the extreme courtesy and kindness they had shown him in helping him to do the little he had done, and he thought all would agree with him that they were most flattered and honoured by the presence of the Duke of Connaught, who, at great trouble and inconvenience, was with them. He did not know how many hours yesterday he was engaged in a field day at Aldershot, and to-day he had social duties to perform at Her Majesty's ball. He proposed a vote of thanks to his Royal Highness, which was seconded by Bro. Bourke, and carried by acclamation. The Duke of Connaught, who was greeted with loud cheers, said: Worshipful Master and Brethren, I beg to thank you most cordially for the kind welcome you have given me on this occasion. I can assure you I have been present at this magnificent ceremony with the greatest pleasure, and it is one which we shall look back to with interest. I do not think, except on the occasion of the installation of our Most Worshipful Grand Master, the Prince of Wales, we have ever seen a finer ceremony in any Lodge. I beg to thank you, Worshipful Master, and you, Brethren here present, for the honour you have done me this day. The W.M. proposed a vote of thanks to the Grand Master of Hampshire for the very able and masterly way in which he had constituted the Lodge. The I.P.M. seconded the proposition, which was accepted with great cordiality and duly acknowledged, after which Lodge was closed in Masonic form.

The following is a list of presents to the Lodge:—

W.M. Lord Charles Beresford—Collars and gauntlets with silver jewels, for every Officer in the Lodge. The gauntlets, are not embroidered with the name of the Lodge and office, but stamped out in solid silver

On the conclusion of the ceremony of constitution, an adjournment took place to the headquarters of the Hants Artillery Volunteers, where, under the presidency of Lord Charles Beresford, a banquet was served: The company numbered about 250, the noble Chairman having on his right the Duke of Connaught, and on his left His Serene Highness Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar, and, besides distinguished visitors, whose names appear above, there were present Lord A. Seymour, Capt. the Hon. Byng, Capt. Creagh A.A.G., Capt. Egerton Equerry to the Duke of Connaught, Capt. Parke, Colonel Shiffner 54th Regt., the Mayor of Portsmouth (Alderman W. Pink, J.P), &c.

The Chairman proposed the toast of the Queen and the Craft, and said that the two were here well connected, for in Her Majesty were embodied many of the grand principles of the Order—kindness to the poor, and sympathy for every one in distress, whether rich or poor, whether single individuals or public servants; in fact, whoever was in distress, had the sympathy of her Majesty. Her Majesty, governing as a constitutional Sovereign, sought to do what was right for the people of this country, and for all who were immediately connected with her, and the result was that she had observed a strict and honest loyalty to the Constitution as long as she had been Queen of England. With regard to the Craft, he would not enlarge upon it, because there were present some gentlemen who were not Masons, but he hoped they would soon become so. He did not wish to let out any secrets, but there were appearances in Masonry which anybody could see, and these were shown in good fellowship and kindness, which all Masons had for one another, no matter what rank in life a Brother might be. When a Mason met a Brother Mason there was always a bond of sympathy between them which benefitted the human race. More particularly was this seen in their Charities and Benevolent Institutions, which were kept up entirely by funds from Masons' pockets. The toast was drunk with enthusiasm.

The Chairman next gave the health of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales M.W. Grand Master, observing that his Royal Highness had occupied his present position among Masons for some years and performed a great deal of arduous work on behalf of the Craft. They all knew His Royal Highness's connection with the Grand Lodge, and they would all agree that, whatever the Prince of Wales undertook to do, he did personally, and did it well. He asked them to look at the varied character of the Prince's work in his position as the representative of the country, and, referring to the visit to India, observed that it had all the appearance of a pleasure excursion, but while there was a great deal of pleasure, there was also a great deal of work, and most of it devolved upon the Prince, who organised everything, even to the details of dress. He so pleased everybody in India that he (the noble speaker) had heard a great number of experienced men, who had spent a long time in India, say that the Prince of Wales's visit to India saved this country a great deal of trouble at the time of the Afghan rebellion. There was a very nice gentleman—a Bengal babboo, he was called—who told him that he had never seen an Englishman before, and that he did not believe there was another besides the Prince of Wales. He (the Chairman) did not know whether it was intended as a compliment for himself, but it certainly was one for the Prince of Wales. There was a Parsee gentleman who was extremely pleased with the way in which His Royal Highness went through his duties and ceremonies in India, and he committed his ideas to rhyme. He only remembered one verse, but from it one could judge what this Parsee gentleman's opinion was, not only of the Prince of Wales's powers in undertaking public ceremonies, but at shooting tigers. The verse was—

> Many a rich tiger brute;
> Lying on their backs they'll die,
> Shot in the apple of the eye.

The Prince of Wales was the success of the Paris Exhibition. They all knew what he did for the English and the Colonial exhibitors—they were delighted with him; and everybody was satisfied by his courtesy and amiability of manner. Frenchmen were also delighted with him, and if the Throne of France were to be competed for at a general election the Prince of Wales would head the poll without the slightest difficulty. When the Prince left Paris everything was a la Prince of Wales—sticks, boots, shoes, shirts, hats, everything, and he was credibly informed that there were articles of feminine attire a la Prince of Wales. It sounded curious, but he showed how popular he was in Paris. As Grand Master of England, it was impossible to find a man more thoroughly all that a Grand Master should be, putting aside his great social position. He had a charming character, amiable temper, and a ready wish to do everybody a good turn, and he asked them to join in drinking His Royal Highness's health.

The Chairman next proposed "The Right Hon. the Earl of Carnarvon, Pro Grand Master of England," who had been a Mason for 25 years, and who had spent a great deal of his valuable time in furthering the interests of Masonry.

The Chairman gave the health of the Earl of Lathom, D.G.M., and Grand Officers present and past. One great feature of the work of the Earl of Carnarvon, the Earl of Lathom, and the other Grand Officers was that it had to be performed every month, and would not stand over, and that made it the more irksome. While proposing the toast he took the opportunity of thanking the Grand Officers who had come down to honour the new Lodge, for they had made the ceremony the great success they had witnessed. He would also particularly thank H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught, who had come down at great personal inconvenience, sacrificing his own time, upon which there were many demands for the benefit of other people. He could only say that it was an instance of the remark he made at an earlier stage of the proceedings as to the sympathy, kind heartedness, and general wish to do what was right to one another, and which existed among Masons of all sorts and grades.

The Duke of Connaught, whose name was associated with the toast, replied as follows:—Worshipful Master, your Serene Highness, my Lords, and Gentlemen,—I feel flattered at my name being connected with the toast you have just drunk with so much enthusiasm. There are many Grand Officers far senior to myself who should have returned thanks for this toast; therefore, I feel the more honoured that it has devolved upon me. I can assure you, gentlemen, that, speaking collectively, we have all had the greatest pleasure and the greatest satisfaction in taking part in the interesting ceremony of this meeting. Although I have taken part in different ceremonies as a Freemason, I may frankly say that I have seldom taken part in a ceremony that has given me greater satisfaction than the one which has just taken place. Speaking personally, it has been a great pleasure for me to come here to-day. It is only fair that you should know that the Prince of Wales expressed a very strong wish that one of the family should come here, and I was glad to come has his representative, and to represent all those Members of the Royal Family who are Freemasons. A good many of the Royal Family have been Freemasons, and some of them Grand Masters, but we all take the deepest interest in all that concerns the welfare and good-fellowship of the Craft. I most entirely agree with the sentiment expressed by our Worshipful Master in saying that we, among all others, feel that our great safeguard and great watchword is charity and good-fellowship, and it is in that sense that we, as the Grand Officers past and present, attended to-day. We see this in the new Lodge springing up, we wish to show the interest we have in it, and we wish most sincerely for its happiness and prosperity.

Sir H. Drummond Wolff, M.P., gave the health of the R.W. Prov. G.M. (Bro. W. W. B. Beach, M.P.), and in doing so said they all knew the labour and attention Bro. Beach applied to the discharge of the functions of his Office. He was brought up in one of the best schools of Masonry, the Apollo Lodge of Oxford, and they had seen from the manner in which he had discharged his duties that day how apt a pupil he had been in the Craft. He certainly had never discharged a duty with greater pleasure to himself than opening a new Lodge in Portsmouth with Lord Charles Beresford as its Master, and dedicated to Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar. He believed that the great extension of Masonry which was just now so noticeable was owing to this, that so many who belonged to the great Services, of which they saw such distinguished representatives present, were Masons. There was no country in the world which made such demands on the Services as a scattered empire, and Great Britain must be always asking her soldiers and sailors to go abroad, to sacrifice friends and home. Then it was that they formed a family. Then it was that Masonry stepped in, providing them in foreign countries with a society, a family, and a home—and they were rejoiced in their lighter moments, during the tedium of an honourable and necessary exile. They welcomed the formation of this Lodge in Portsmouth, because it was characteristic of the town and charateristic of the Masonry of England, and if it had been graced by the presence of a Member of the Royal Family and by so many distinguished Members of the Craft, it was because loyalty to the Craft inspired loyalty to the Crown, and because they knew that a good Mason must be a good subject.

Bro. W. W. B. Beach, M.P., responded, and said that since he had held his present position of honour he had opened three new Lodges in Portsmouth. He congratulated them on the manner in which Masonry was progressing in the Old Town of Portsmouth and in the Province, and he believed it was flourishing in equal proportions in the country also. His sincere hope and wish was that the Lodge would be an honour not only to the Province but to the Craft in England.

Bro. Montague Guest, P.G.M. of Dorset, gave the health of the R.W. Deputy P.G.M., Bro. W. Hickman, and Officers of the P.G. Lodge present and past. He had not had the honour of the acquaintance of the Deputy Grand Master before that day, but he was convinced, from the admirable way in which the duties of the P.G.M. had been performed, the Officers of the Province who were present must be a fair representation of the working of the Province. He considered that one of the most important parts of Freemasonry consisted in their visiting one another, and, as Prov G.M. of an adjoining Province, he hoped he might have the pleasure and advantage of the presence of some of the Provincial Officers of this Province, not to show them how to do their work, but to compare one Province with another. The advantage would be mutual, and he hoped that they in Dorset would show that they were not unproficient in the working of the Province. He sincerely thanked the W.M. for giving him the opportunity of witnessing so interesting and admirably conducted a performance as he had witnessed that day.

Captain T. H. Martin, R.N., P.G.S.W., briefly responded, in the absence of Bro. Hickman.

The Duke of Connaught, in proposing the health of the Worshipful Master, said: My Lords and Gentlemen,—One of the most pleasing duties now devolves upon me, and it is one which, I may say, almost speaks for itself. I feel it requires but few words of mine to make you respond to the toast with the heartiest cordiality possible. It is the health of the Most Worshipful Master, Lord Charles Beresford. The applause which greets the mere mention of your Master's name shows me that I was not mistaken when I said that it was a toast that would be received with heartiness and cordiality. In the presence of people of whom you are speaking it is customary not to eulogise them too much, still I hope he will allow me to say that I feel great pleasure in proposing, this afternoon, his health. I have had the pleasure of his acquaintance for many years, and there are many present who know him, not only as a Mason, but in his professional capacity as an Officer in the Navy. Gentlemen, as an Officer in the Army it affords me all the greater pleasure in proposing the health of an Officer in the sister Service—the Navy. You all know his career, and how he has risen from the lowest rank to the rank he now holds, and the respect he is held in by all branches of the Navy, from the senior Officers down to the blue jackets and marines. I may say that the same good feeling, the same respect, and the same affection that is shown him in his own profession, will be shown him in the Craft. I am convinced that the Lodge Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar has a most excellent Master, and that he will do everything to keep up all that is creditable to the Craft and the Fellowship; and I hope that under his Mastership the Lodge which we inaugurate to-day will flourish and prosper, and when he comes to hand it over to his successor he may be able to look back upon his work with the greatest pleasure. I ask you to drink the health of the W.M., Lord Charles Beresford.

Lord Charles Beresford, who was received with great cheering, said: It is no hackneyed phrase to say I hardly know how to return thanks to you, Your Royal Highness, after the more than kind things you have said, and to you, Gentlemen, for the extremely gratifying and flattering way in which you have received what His Royal Highness said. He made one remark about my career in the Service. I think I have done what we all do in the Navy—our duty, and the best we can to help a shipmate as long as we can, and I hope that, as Master of the Prince Edward Lodge, I may fulfil my duty as I should. It is seldom a man has such honour paid him as I have had paid me to-day. I have been elected Master of the Lodge; there has been an immense, an enthusiastic gathering, not only of my own brethren, because every Mason is a brother, but brethren forming a most distinguished company have come down to see the Constitution of this Lodge. It is a day I shall never forget, and as far as I can I will do—as His Royal Highness put it—my duty in the Lodge as the Master of it, just as I have endeavoured to do it in the Service to which I am proud to belong.

Admiral of the Fleet Sir Harry Keppel proposed the health of the Visitors. Some of them talked about being old Masons of twenty years' standing, but he was a Mason forty years ago, and ten years before that he was invited to Kensington Palace in order to be initiated, but just as he was starting he was ordered to Portsmouth to join his ship, and therefore was unable to attend. He coupled with the toast the name of H.S.H. Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar. He would tell them a story. During the Crimea he was on duty taking a sheep to his friend Colin Campbell, afterwards Lord Clive, who was in camp, and going up the hill he met a young soldier leading a goat with one hand and in the other carrying a bucket of water. He had his shirt-sleeves tucked up, though the snow was on the ground. The soldier nodded to him. As he considered this unusual familiarity, he asked his friend Campbell who he was. "Don't you know?" was the reply, "Why, that is Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar."

Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar, who was cordially received, responded, and narrated his personal connection with the Lodge. Three or four months ago he received a letter from a gentleman in the Masonic body, and, who, he believed, thought he (His Serene Highness) was a Mason. He was informed that a new Lodge was about to be constituted, and that it was desired that it might be called after him. While feeling himself highly honoured, he replied that he was sensible of the honour paid him, but called attention to the fact that he was not a Mason. He received a reply stating that although it was a matter of regret that he was not a Mason, it was still the wish of the Founders that the Lodge should be called after him. He felt exceedingly flattered at the recognition of him and the desire to perpetuate his name in Portsmouth, and readily gave his consent. He mentioned this in order that strangers might know his connection with the Lodge. Referring to the incident mentioned by Sir H. Keppel, he said it was perfectly true. When he came back from the Crimea he dined with Lord Palmerston, and it was a curious fact that he mentioned the same incident, though how he knew it he could not tell. On behalf of the town, speaking for the Mayor as well as for himself, he expressed the gratification felt at the visit of H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught on this occasion.

Baron Henry de Worms, M.P., asked the company to drink the health of the Founders of the Lodge. Under ordinary circumstances that toast was merely the united expression of opinion and of appreciation of the services of one or more gentlemen. But on this occasion he thought that the Founders themselves must have experienced the liveliest satisfaction from the manner in which their services had been appreciated, and from the additional fact that they had conferred a great benefit on the Craft generally by the foundation of the new Lodge. They knew that the brethren combined in them a spirit of loyalty, and the inherent spirit of benevolence, good fellowship, and charity. But there was one other point having a particular bearing at the present moment, and that was that whereas throughout the world they heard of secret societies working only for the evil of the country in which they existed, they might proudly turn to this country and associate with it the name of their secret society which did good by stealth and blushed to find it fame.

Bro. H. W. Townsend I.P.M., in responding, said that he might justly claim to be the Founder of the Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar Lodge, and for that reason he was pleased to have the opportunity of thanking all those who had rendered such valuable assistance in bringing about in such a short time the large Masonic gathering which they had witnessed. Scarcely three months had passed since he announced his intention to make application for a warrant for a new Lodge, and although he felt certain that he would be successful, he little thought that his application would result in the formation of a Lodge honoured by the presence of so many brethren to witness the beautiful ceremony of Constitution so ably performed by the Provincial Grand Master, and in the presence of so many Officers holding high positions in the Craft. On behalf of the many brethren standing with him, he expressed their gratitude to Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar for his very kind letter giving consent that the Lodge might bear his name, and his expression of hope that the Lodge would prosper; secondly, to Bro. Lord Charles Beresford, who so kindly consented to accept the office of first W.M., thereby giving the Lodge an amount of prestige that it could not under other circumstances have obtained; and, thirdly, to the Prov. Grand Master, for his very cordial reception of Bro. Emanuel and himself on the occasion of the constitution of the Chine Lodge at Shanklin, before which ceremony he was pleased to allow them to present their petition, and to promise it his strongest recommendation. The Lodge being now started under such favourable circumstances it should be the earnest desire of each of the Founders, and more especially the Officers of the Lodge, to carry out their respective duties in an efficient manner. When the Lodge reached its Centenary he hoped those who might then be members would have no cause to regret its formation, but on the contrary be able to look back with pleasure on the records of the Lodge, and think kindly of those who took part in the proceedings of that day.

Bro. W. W. Beach proposed the Worshipful Masters of the Lodges in the Province, and Bro. G. A. Mursell W.M. of the Medina Lodge, No. 35, Isle of Wight, briefly responded.

The Chairman gave the Officers of the Lodge, and Bro. T. Page, as Senior Warden, returned thanks, observing that the Officers were determined to fully carry out their duties.

The company then separated.—Portsmouth Times.

QUARTERLY COMMUNICATION OF GRAND LODGE.

THE Quarterly Communication of Grand Lodge was held on Wednesday evening, at Freemasons' Hall. Bro. W. W. B. Beach, M.P., Provincial Grand Master for Hants and the Isle of Wight, presided, Sir Francis Burdett, Bart., Provincial Grand Master for Middlesex, acted as Deputy Grand Master, and Sir Michael Hicks Beach, M.P., as Past Grand Master, Capt. Platt P.G.W. acted as Senior Grand Warden, and the Rev. C. W. Arnold P.G.C., Deputy Provincial Grand Master for Surrey, as Junior Grand Warden. There was a very large attendance of the brethren, notwithstanding the fine weather. After the minutes had been read and confirmed, the Grand Master announced that Mr. Justice Cave, who had been appointed Junior Grand Warden, but who was not present at the Grand Festival in April, was now present, and would be invested as Junior Grand Warden. Bro. Cave then advanced, and was invested by Bro. Beach with the apron, collar, and jewel of his office. The Grand Master then made a similar announcement with respect to Sir James Ramsden, and that Worshipful Brother, who had been appointed Senior Grand Deacon, was also invested. Each Brother was saluted according to ancient form on taking his seat. The brethren then proceeded to elect the Board of General Purposes, and afterwards confirmed the recommendations of the Lodge of Benevolence for the last quarter. Sir John Monckton, in moving the recommendation that two Grand Standard Bearers and a Deputy Director of Ceremonies be added to the list of Grand Officers, stated that the idea had not emanated from the Board of General Purposes, but from the Prince of Wales, who found great difficulty, owing to the great increase in the Order, to find sufficient Grand Offices for the distinguished and worthy Masons who aspired to hold office in Grand Lodge. The matter had been referred to the Board by the Grand Master, and after carefully considering the case, and having the advice of the highest authority on such matters, who was a member of the Board, they came to the conclusion that two Standard Bearers and a Deputy Director of Ceremonies would satisfy the Craft. The motion was seconded by Bro. J. M. Case P.G.D. Bro. Thomas Massa moved as an amendment that there should be one Standard Bearer, a Grand Trumpeter, and an Assistant Superintendent of Works. Bro. H. E. Frances thought the Director of Ceremonies should be a permanent officer, and that there should be two Assistants. It was, however, explained by Sir Albert Woods that there might be a question of precedence between two Assistants in the absence of the Director of Ceremonies, which could not arise if there was a Deputy D.C. and an Assistant D.C. Bro. Massa's amendment was unanimously negatived, and Bro. Frances withdrawing his amendment, the original motion was carried. Brother Monckton next moved the addition of two Grand Deacons and a Deputy Director of Ceremonies for Provincial Grand Lodges where the Province consisted of forty Lodges and upwards. Bro. H. E. Frances proposed the addition of a Standard Bearer, and said such an office was recognised by some Provincial Grand Masters. Bro. McIntyre, who had had several Provinces in his charge, on the contrary, said, that there was no such office, and when the Province of Berks and Bucks was in his charge, he had to perform the very disagreeable duty of so declaring. A question was then raised as to when the new appointments could be made in the Provinces, and Bro. McIntyre informed the brethren that they could be made after the minutes of the present Grand Lodge were confirmed in September next. With reference to the proposed purchase of new premises adjacent to the Hall, on Bro. Monckton moving the recommendation that the Board be authorised to expend £600 for the purpose, the motion was altered by giving the Board power to purchase the premises at the best price they could obtain. Bro. Tudor Trevor's matter was then introduced, and Bro. Monckton explained the course taken by the Board. They had heard both Bro. Trevor, Bro. Voigt, and the Master of the Alexandra Lodge, and then every member of the Board was asked to express his opinion upon it. They came unanimously to the conclusion—

1. That the principle of Grand Lodge devoting any portion of its funds towards defraying the costs of legal proceedings, not incurred by its authority, or by that of the Board of General Purposes (as its Executive Board), would be an innovation constituting a very inconvenient precedent, and leading to most undesirable results.

2. That there does not appear to be any sufficient ground or reason why the case now under investigation should be specially excepted from the operation of the principle laid down in the preceding resolution.

The motion having been seconded by Bro. Frank Green, Bro. Trevor was again heard, and contended that it was because he could not get his case adjudicated upon by the Masonic authorities that he had gone to law. The Board of General Purposes had sheltered itself behind the ægis of there being no precedent for Grand Lodge to pay legal expenses incurred without its authority, but he submitted that, as he had been fighting their battle, they could make a precedent. He moved as an amendment :—

"That in consideration of the very exceptional circumstances of his application for pecuniary assistance, and that he has been much embarrassed by the un-Masonic litigation which ensued, in defiance of the Principles of the Craft, and especially of No. 6 of Ancient Charges and Regulations, consequent on the part he took in the exclusion from his Lodge, No. 1511, of an offending brother (which exclusion was approved by the Provincial Grand Master), this Grand Lodge is pleased as a Special Case to direct the grant of £150 from the Fund of General Purposes, to Bro. Tudor Trevor P.M., &c., in aid of his costs in defending the action 'Bro. Voigt v. Bros. Carr, Laking, and Trevor,' tried at Leeds in August last, and in respect of which cost Bro. Trevor affirms that he has already paid £169 4s 11d, and that he has been greatly impoverished thereby."

The amendment, however, was negatived, and the original motion put and carried. £70 was voted for coals for the Old People at Croydon. Col. Shadwell H. Clerke, Grand Secretary, informed the Grand Master that he had received a letter from Major Bond, to the effect that he should not be present to move his resolution—"That the Fund of Benevolence be decentralised so far as the Provinces are concerned, and that a moiety of the subscriptions now transmitted to Grand Lodge by the country Lodges be paid direct into the several Provincial Grand Lodges for the purpose of meeting the numerous local claims for immediate relief which are now so constantly made to those bodies." The appeal of Bro. Charles Edward Torrance, P.M. of the St. George's Lodge, No. 440, Montreal, was brought up and explained by Bro. McIntyre, who moved its dismissal. This was seconded by Bro. James Mason P.G.S.B., and carried. The result of the election for the Board of General Purposes was declared as follows, at the closing of Grand Lodge :—W. Masters: Bros. Dr. Brodie 162, C. Harding 153, W. C. Beaumont 151, J. R. Cassell 137, G. C. Andrew 123, J. W. Waldron 108, H. T. Steward 107. Past Masters. Frank Green 150, W. Stephens 140, Charles Atkins 131, H. Bishop 130, J. G. "We have companies for all sorts of things: why do not some philanthropic gentlemen start an association for lending money to embarrassed traders and housekeepers at ten per cent. interest? There are a number of people now getting three per cent. for their money in Consols who would be glad to invest it in an enterprise in which, if properly managed, there would be no risk whatever, and a certainty of earning eight or nine per cent. profit. Properly managed, such an association, worked on a large scale, would be an immense boon to people struggling with temporary difficulties, and would pay a handsome return to those who invested their money in Shares."

GRAND LODGE OF MASSACHUSETTS.

WE have received, and acknowledge fraternally, copy of Proceedings of G. L of Massachusetts at certain Special Communications held on 14th and 19th January respectively, and at the Quarterly Communication on 9th March. The meeting on 14th January was held in Winchester for the purpose of consecrating to Masonic purposes the new quarters of the William Parkman Lodge, and the subsequent installation of the newly-elected officers. That on the 19th of the same month was convened for the consecration of the new Masonic Hall of King David Lodge, at Taunton. Grand Master S. C. Lawrence presided on both occasions, and in both instances Grand Lodge was most hospitably entertained at t e end of the proceedings. At the regular Quarterly Communication on 9th March, Bro. S. C. Lawrence G.M. occupied the throne, and among the G. Officers who were present to support him were Bros. Edwin Wright D.G.M., F. Lyman Winship G. S. Warden, Nathan S. Kimball G.J. Warden, Tracy P. Cheever Recording Grand Secretary, George P. Sanger Corresponding G. Secretary, the D.D.G. Masters of the majority of the Districts, Rev. Joshua Young G. Chaplain, W. D. Coolidge, Charles C. Dame, W. S. Gardner, Sereno D. Nickerson, R. L. Everett, and C. A. Welch Past Grand Masters, and the representatives of ninety-nine Lodges. The special feature of the gathering was the reading of the Report on the late Past G. Master Heard which, it is needless to say, was couched in eulogistic language, but at the same time in language that was no more than justly complimentary. So highly, indeed, do we think of this Report that we give elsewhere some particulars of the account contained therein. The other business being purely of local interest it is unnecessary we should give particulars. Suffice it to say, that everything passed off in the most satisfactory manner possible, and Grand Lodge having been closed in ample form, the brethren dispersed, highly edified with all they had heard and seen at the Communication.

FREEMASONRY IN RHODE ISLAND.

THE Ninety-first Annual Communication of the Grand Lodge of Rhode Island was held at Masons' Hall, Providence, on Monday, the 16th May. Most Worshipful Brother E. L. Freeman Grand Master occupied the throne, and was supported by a very numerous gathering of Past and Present Grand Officers, and representatives of the Lodges in the jurisdiction, among them being Past Grand Masters Bros. Johnson, Hutchison, Van Slyck, and Cutler, while the principal absentee was Past Grand Master Doyle, who is still suffering from the effects of an accident he met with some months ago. The reports of the Grand Secretary, Grand Treasurer, and Finance Committee were presented and adopted, the last two being of the most satisfactory character, and showing that, as regards its finances, the Grand Lodge was in a most admirable condition. In the report of the Committee on Foreign Correspondence it was recommended that the so-called Grand Lodge of New South Wales should not be recognised as an independent organisation, and the recommendation was unhesitatingly adopted The report of the Library Committee was likewise presented and adopted, the sum of two hundred dollars being appropriated for the wants of the current year. We would remark, in passing, that, considering the limited area of the Masonic jurisdiction of Rhode Island, the grant of so considerable a sum as £40 towards the requirements of the Grand Lodge speaks volumes for the interest taken by our Rhode Island brethren in Craft literature, especially when we bear in mind the fact that the wealthy Grand Lodge of England, with its 1800 active Lodges, and 10,000 initiates per annum, has magnificently resolved on appropriating annually the enormous sum of £25 towards improving the resources of its library. The mother Grand Lodge of the world doles out £25 yearly in promoting Masonic literature! The Grand Lodge of the smallest of the United States of America spends £40 on the same beneficent object. Comment is unnecessary. The other business included the delivering of the customary addresses by the Grand Master, and the election of Grand Officers, the chief of whom included Bros. Thomas Vincent Most Worshipful Grand Master, George M. Carpenter jun. Deputy Grand Master, James M. Davis Grand Senior Warden, Robert S. Franklin Grand Junior Warden, Clinton D. Sellew Grand Treasurer, Edwin Baker Grand Secretary, Rev. H. Rugg Grand Chaplain, Benjamin A. Reynolds Grand Senior Deacon, and W. H. Perry Grand Junior Deacon. We may add that the Grand Secretary was requested to procure a Past Grand Master's jewel and apron, to be presented to the retiring Grand Master, Bro. Freeman, in recognition of the valuable services he had rendered to the Craft in Rhode Island during his tenure of the Grand Mastership. As to the Grand Master's address, it proved to be a most eloquent, and at the same time satisfactory, exposition of the work accomplished by Bro. Freeman during the period he had presided over the destinies of Freemasonry in his State. Such addresses are almost unknown in England, but they undoubtedly have a value, and those of our readers who would like to judge for themselves as to the character of the speeches will do well to consult the pages of the Freemasons' Repository, to which we are indebted for the above particulars.

THE LATE BRO. JOHN T. HEARD P.G. MASTER MASSACHUSETTS.

WE refer elsewhere to the Report of the Committee appointed last December by the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts to draw up a memorial sketch of the late Bro. John T. Heard P.G. Master of that jurisdiction; and considering the valuable services our deceased brother rendered to the cause of Freemasonry, we cannot do better than give a short summary of the particulars the Committee have succeeded in compiling. Bro. Heard was born in Boston in May 1809, and consequently at the time of his death in December 1880 had exceeded his seventy-first year. His maternal grandfather, John Perkins, a charter member of Columbian Lodge, Boston, was initiated into Freemasonry in St. John's Lodge, Boston, in 1766, and died in Waldoborough, Me., about the year 1824. Bro. Heard himself was initiated in Columbian Lodge, on 20th February 1825. In 1846 he filled the office of Junior Deacon, and from that time forward, with the exception of the years 1848 and 1849, until his retirement from the Grand Mastership, in December 1859, he was continually in office in his own, or in Grand Lodge. Thus, in 1851 and 1852 he was Grand Marshal, and in the same years Junior and Senior Warden respectively in Columbian Lodge. In 1854 and 1855 he presided as W.M., and raised as many as sixty-eight candidates.

During his Grand Senior Wardenship, in 1856, Bro. Heard obtained from a grandson of Henry Price a portrait of that distinguished Craftsman, the first Prov. Grand Master of Massachusetts, and by many regarded as the father of Freemasonry in the United States. This portrait was in a very dilapidated state when it passed into Bro. Heard's possession, but he had it restored and presented it to Grand Lodge, where it remained hanging until the disastrous fire of 5th April 1864, which destroyed Freemasons' Hall. In December of the same year, in consequence of the Grand Master Lewis declining to be re-elected, it became necessary for the brethren to make choice of a successor, and the result was that Bro. Heard was unanimously appointed to that office, which he held with the very greatest credit to himself and advantage to the Craft during the years 1857, 1858, and 1859. In 1857, he inaugurated with Masonic honours a marble statue of General Warren on the eighty-second anniversary of the battle of Bunker's Hill. On 2nd October 1858, he laid the foundation stone of Minot's Ledge Lighthouse, and the same year revived the annual feast on the celebration of St. John the Evangelist. In 1859 he laid the corner stone of the Plymouth Monument to the Pilgrim Fathers, and dedicated the apartments then about to be used as Freemasons' Hall. He was also instrumental in purchasing the Winthrop House Estate, on which the present Temple stands. In 1870 he exerted himself in procuring portraits of Grand Masters in the place of those which had been destroyed by fire in 1864, and also prepared and presented a most elaborate and exhaustive report on the Montague question. In 1875 he contributed a grand memorial notice, filling two hundred and fifty pages, of the late Past Grand Master Lewis, while in 1874 and 1875 he contributed to the pages of the New England Freemason the series of papers, severally entitled "Old London Taverns Identified with Freemasonry," "Presents to the Grand Lodge of England," and "Old Halls in London associated with Masonry." In fine, Bro. Heard was one of the ablest, most active, and most exemplary of Masons, and his loss must be deeply felt by all the Craftsmen in the jurisdiction with which he was connected for upwards of five-and-thirty years, and over which he presided so satisfactorily for a period of three years. Better, however, than all the dry details of his eventful life are the two following anecdotes, for which we are indebted to the memoir prepared by the Committee of Massachusetts Lodge. We reproduce them verbatim and without comment. The first manifests his liberality, the second the firmness, breadth, and grandeur of his character.

"Soon after he went out of office," says the Memorial Committee, "he met one of the Grand Lecturers, who had been very diligent and efficient in carrying out the work already referred to. Bro. Heard inquired particularly as to his plans and his prospects, and especially whether he had all the money he required to carry on his business. The brother replied that he had all he needed for the time being. 'Well,' said Brother Heard, 'if you find yourself in want of more at any time, come and see me.' Some time after, the Brother, proposing an enlargement of his business, called on Brother Heard, and reminded him of their conversation. He was referred to the president of the bank where Brother Heard kept his account, and there the astonished brother found a credit opened for him to the amount of ten thousand dollars. Of this he availed himself, to his great advantage, and in due time acquitted himself of the pecuniary obligations."

It is the general belief that no one beyond the persons immediately concerned knew anything of these circumstances until after Brother Heard's death. The other incident is, in a certain sense, an even greater testimony to the merit of our late brother.

"Soon after his first installation as Master an incident occurred which showed the character of the man. The Secretary of the Lodge (our late Grand Treasurer), who was an older Mason than Brother Heard, and had been for eight years in office, had procured a dispensation which was likely to be required, thinking thereby to facilitate the business of the Lodge and aid the new Master. When the name of the new candidate concerned came up, the Secretary informed the Master that there need be no delay in that case, as he had procured a dispensation from the Grand Master, which he presented. To this the Master replied that, while he had no doubt that the Secretary had acted from the best of motives and with the best intentions, it should be distinctly understood that it was the province of the Master to decide when the interposition of the Grand Master was required, and to ask for it when needed; and he requested the Secretary to remember that in future the Worshipful Master would discharge both of those duties. This was presenting the subject in a new light, and the Secretary was not only astonished, but indignant. With his usual impulsiveness and frankness, he replied that, as in his effort to forward the work of the Lodge, he had only succeeded in giving offence to the Worshipful Master, he believed he did not understand his business, and he begged leave to resign his office. To this Brother Heard answered, 'Not so, my brother. There is no offence, and you must not resign your office. You will continue to discharge its duties, as you have so acceptably for so many years, and in my station I will strive to emulate your fidelity. When I lay down my office I shall deem myself very fortunate and happy if I shall have proved as faithful and as useful in my station as you in yours." There the subject dropped. Master and Secretary worked together in perfect harmony for two years, and at the end of that time both went out of office, the Secretary after a service of ten years."

COMMITTEE MEETING OF THE BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION.

THE Committee of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution met on Wednesday, at Freemasons' Hall, when there were present Bros. Lieut.-Col. J. Creaton, Grand Treasurer (in the Chair), A. H. Tattershall, S. Rawson, A. F. A. Woodford, W. Hale, J. M. Case, Raynham W. Stewart, Charles Daniel, James Kench, William Stephens, James Brett, Charles G. Hill, Thomas W. C. Bush, J. A. Farnfield, W. Hilton, John G. Stevens, Charles Atkins, Charles John Perceval, James Willing jun., Thomas Cubitt, William Clarke, and James Terry (Secretary). Bro. Terry informed the Committee that the election of the Committee of Management of the Institution had taken place in Grand Lodge the previous Wednesday, and that, with the exception of Bro. C. F. Hogard, who requested to resign, and in whose place Bro. Bush was elected, the Committee were the same as last year. The Committee, therefore, stands as follows:—

ELECTED BY GRAND LODGE—Charles Atkins, James Brett, T. W. C. Bush, W. Clarke, C. A. Cottebrune, W. F. C. Montrie, G. Penn, A. H. Tattershall, H. G. Warren, and James Willing jun.

NOMINATED BY THE GRAND MASTER—S. Rawson, A. F. A. Woodford, Shadwell H. Clerke, H. S. S. Burney, R. H. Giraud, Jabez Hogg, E. J. Barron, N. G. Philips, W. F. Nettleship, and James Kench.

Bro. Terry reported the death of five annuitants, and read the Warden's Report for the last month. The List of Candidates elected on 20th May was taken as read, and authority was given to the Chairman to sign cheques. Bros. W. Hale, R. H. Giraud, and W. Stephens were re-elected on the Finance Committee; Bros. A. H. Tattershall and Charles Atkins were elected in place of Bros. C. F. Hogard and H. G. Warren, who wished to resign. Bros. J. A. Farnfield, Raynham W. Stewart, C. J. Perceval, T. Cubitt, and S. Rawson were re-elected on the House Committee. The widow of a deceased annuitant was granted half her late husband's annuity. On the application of Bro. Terry, the Committee granted the use of the Hall at the Institution at Croydon for the Summer Entertainment to the Old Folks, and voted the usual sum to aid the voluntary contributions of the brethren towards defraying the expenses of that entertainment. Four petitioners were then placed on the List of Candidates for the Election in May 1882. Bro. Terry read a communication he had received from Bro. J. Derby Allcroft, with respect to the Charitable Trusts' Bill now in Parliament. The letter stated that opposition was still required to the Bill, notwithstanding that some of its provisions had been modified. There were several objectionable features in it, one of which was a provision for transferring the funds and property of charitable institutions to official trustees. The opposition of this Institution was required to it. The Chairman stated that he had conferred with the Earl of Carnarvon and Lord Leigh on the subject, and he found they were quite alive to the objections to the Bill. Their Lordships had promised to do all in their power to get rid of the objectionable features of the measure. The Committee then adjourned.

COMMITTEE MEETING OF THE BOYS' SCHOOL.

THE General Committee of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys met on Saturday last, at Freemasons' Hall, when there were in attendance Bros. Raynham W. Stewart (in the Chair), S. Rosenthal, J. G. Stevens, G. J. Row, Donald M. Dewar, Arthur E. Gladwell, Leopold Ruff, George J. Palmer, Rev. Richard Morris, Alfred Williams, H. M. Taylor, H. Massey, Richard Tyrrell, C. H. Webb, Frederick Adlard, W. Paas, George Motion, and F. Binckes (Secretary). The minutes of the former meeting having been read and confirmed, petitions in favour of seven candidates for the October Election were examined. Outfits were granted to two former pupils of the Institution who had obtained situations. The House Committee and Audit Committee were declared elected, and £250 was ordered to be transferred to the Sustentation Fund from the General Fund. No further business was before the Committee.

CRYSTAL PALACE SUMMER SEASON.

VISITORS, both habitual and occasional, to the Crystal Palace have every reason to be gratified with the summer programme arranged for their entertainment and delectation. Indeed, they have already had a few opportunities in the course of the past and present months of judging whether or not the Directorate is likely to uphold the reputation for variety and excellence it has so deservedly obtained during the many years it has catered for the public, and with these to guide us, we are very much mistaken if, when the season is completed, the verdict is not enthusiastically in its favour. The series of Special Saturday Concerts have already been held, the fourth having taken place last Saturday, while for to-day will be given, by way of finale, a grand Rubinstein Concert. It is needless to say more respecting these than that among the vocalists figured the names of Madame Alwina Valleria, Mrs. Osgood, Miss Damian, Mr. Maas, Mr. Barton McGuckin, and Mr. F. King, and among the instrumentalists were Madame Sophie Menter, M. Carl Heymann, Mr. Franz Rummel. Saturday last was fixed for the Great Flower Show of the season, and on Thursday was opened the International Exhibition of Wool, Woollen Manufactures, Machinery, and Allied Industries. H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught, who was accompanied by his wife, presided, and, as a matter of course, there was a very good attendance. There is no doubt whatever that from the number of native and foreign exhibitors, as well as from the quality of their exhibits, this exhibition will prove a very great attraction. Among the prizes that will be offered for competition are several gold medals by the Clothworkers' and Drapers' Companies, which thus show how deep is the interest they take in fostering and encouraging this important branch of industry. Among other more prominent attractions must be enumerated a new Panorama of the Siege of Paris, painted especially for the Crystal Palace Company, by M. Philippoteaux, the artist who painted the celebrated Panorama in the Champs Elysées at Paris. There is also an Electric Railway, constructed after Siemen's patent. The seventeenth annual Dog Show of the Kennel Club, which opened on Friday, the 3rd inst., remained open—Sunday, of course, excepted—till Tuesday, the 7th inst. Whit Monday—6th June—of course had a special programme of its own, and so ordered as to meet the different tastes of the multitudes which throng the Palace on that and other popular holidays. Thursday was the Centenary Fête of George Stephenson, in aid of the funds of the Railway Servants' Orphanage, Derby. On Wednesday next there will be the usual Volunteer Band Contest; on the 28th, Licensed Victuallers' School Dinner; and 29th June, London Sunday School Fête. On 2nd July will be held the National Rose Society's Show of Roses, and the German Gymnastic Society's Annual Display. On 4th July there will be a great gathering in aid of the Order of Comical Fellows' Friendly Society, while two days later—6th July—will be given the annual Fête in aid of the funds of that most useful and well-managed Institution the Metropolitan and City Police Orphanage. There will be a grand Archery Fête on the 7th and 8th July; on the 16th the London School Board Fête, under the presidency of the Bishop of Manchester; and on the 20th July the annual Tonic Sol-fa Concert. In August, in addition to Bank Holiday, for which special arrangements will be made, must be mentioned the Foresters' Great Fête on the 23rd, and the Summer Fruit and Flower Show on the 29th, 30th, and 31st. These are among the remaining features announced for this season, but there will be in addition the usual theatrical performances, special Saturday Evening Concerts, from 9th July to 1st October inclusive; Balloon Ascents and Grand Displays of Fireworks, announcements of which will be advertised from time to time. It may be stated, in conclusion, as at the outset, that this Summer Programme will in all probability turn out a great success, and we trust the public will respond with alacrity to the many and liberal attractions offered them by the directors.

York College.—On Wednesday, the 25th ultimo, a meeting of this College was held in Selby, a pleasant little market town, a few miles from York, whither the members had been invited, and where the Master and brethren of the St. Germain Lodge, 566, had placed at their disposal their comfortable Masonic Rooms. There were present the following Fratres:—T. B. Whytehead IX. Chief Adept, T. W. Holme VI. Celebrant, T. J. Wilkinson VI. as P.A., E. Pearson Paterson VI. S.A., J. T. Atkinson I. as T.A., R. W. Moore I. as Q.A., J. Mosley V. C. of N., A. T. B. Turner II. Organist, J. Todd I., W. Bakewell I., and C. S. Lane I. A number of letters and telegrams were read, from J. S. Cumberland, C. L. Mason, and other members, explaining their non-attendance. A successful ballot was taken for Bro. C. R. Fry P.M., of Darlington. Frater J. T. Atkinson read a most interesting paper on Selby, a town which has many historical reminiscences, especially dwelling upon the history of its Abbey, formerly one of the wealthiest of the religious houses in the North of England. The Masonic associations of the Abbey and the town were not lost sight of, and a vote of thanks was recorded to the worthy Frater for his paper. The First and Second Order Certificates issued by the High Council of the Society were distributed, and it was arranged, if possible, to hold the August meeting at Ripon, to include a visit to Fountain's Abbey. The names of two candidates were submitted to the College. After the close of College, the party were conducted over the beautiful Abbey Church by Frater Atkinson, and its principal architectural features pointed out, the Organist of the Church performed a selection of sacred music. Subsequently the members met at the Londesborough Arms Hotel for tea, and departed for their respective homes at Leeds, York, Bradford, &c., at an early hour.

THOUGHTS ABOUT THE CRAFT.

REPRINTED FROM THE KEYSTONE.

FREEMASONRY is very old, but it is far from being a fossil. We even doubt whether it is yet in its prime. Neither is it a sort of "Wandering Jew," stalking down the centuries as a moving tombstone. Nor is it an animated mummy, or ghost of the past, having but a shadowy existence in the present. Freemasonry was never so powerful as it is to-day, never so highly esteemed, never so rich in means, men, and character. It is the thing to be a Mason—if you can. It associates you with the thinkers of the age, with the workers in the higher branches of mechanical, artistic and professional pursuits, with the men that make our laws, and the judges that construe them. Freemasons ably fill the most honourable stations in Church and State. The President in the White House, the Bishop in the Episcopal Chair, the Senator in Congress, the Justice on the Supreme Bench, the Governor of the Commonwealth, the Mayor of the Municipality—these are a few of the representative Freemasons of our time.

It may aptly be asked, what is it that suits Freemasonry to all latitudes, to all ages, to all conditions of men, from the king on his throne to the peasant in his cottage? Why is it that centuries expires while Freemasonry lives? our critics tell us that our Fraternity is antiquated, our traditions misty, our language dead, and our secret, exposed—and yet Freemasonry lives and flourishes. It is the liveliest corpse known to the centuries. If it has been galvanised into life, it has electrified the world.

Freemasonry satisfies two needs of man, one in the present and the other in the future. It gives him congenial fellowship here, and it reveals to him immortality hereafter. The Craft, in all ages and conditions, has possessed at least these two great features, without which it would have had neither origin, continuance, nor present existence. Trace it back to the remotest antiquity, through, if you please, the line of ascent of the ancient mysteries, and you invariably find these two principles characterizing it. Freemasonry exemplifies a rare combination of the practical and the theoretical; it provides for present enjoyment, while it stimulates hope for the future. Where is there such another human society?

But our critics say, it has its frauds and impostors. Probably true, but not at all astonishing. Whatever is valuable is counterfeited, from character down to money. Freemasons do not claim to be infallible, nor omniscient. They cannot certainly tell that every initiate is entirely what he professes to be, and his friends believe him to be, or that he will continue upright to the end of his life. Freemasonry necessarily has to assume some risks, and these risks sometimes result in losses—loss of character to individual Freemasons, and loss of honour to the Fraternity. But these things are of comparative insignificance, and unavoidable.

In referring to the past we are apt to say—there were giants in those days. So there were, and there are also giants now; but we are not ALL giants. Nevertheless, we are probably as good as our predecessors, and Freemasonry to-day is of as good report as it ever was at any epoch in its extended past.

A distinguished Freemason once said, "Freemasonry has been the friend of man, the longest tried, if not the best." Extravagant language, some may say. But let us see. We understand by the phrase, "the friend of man," the friend of the man who embraces its principles, and is initiated into its mysteries. It is the friend of its friends, and all may be its friends who are worthy of it. It is not a religion, and it does not profess to love its enemies. It pities them, but it does not necessarily love them. It is certainly "the longest tried friend of man." What existing institution, civil or religious, antedates Masonry, as it has come down to us in history and tradition? Freemasons belong emphatically to the first family, or society, of men. No other society claims so ancient a lineage. But is it "the best friend of man." This we do not insist upon. It is the friend, and the oldest friend, and it may be the best friend; that is enough.

Did it ever occur to you that Freemasonry has been the great Peace Society of all past time, and in its nature it must continue to be so throughout the future? Its mission is to spread brotherly love among men, and to congregate all its initiates into one family. Did the spirit of fraternity which it engenders universally prevail, the world would be on the eve of the millennium. Even in the smoke of battle, and amid the conflict of contending armies, Freemasonry asserts itself, and speaks peace to its Brethren. There is in the manual of arms of the Freemason a more powerful weapon than the two-edged sabre, the seven shooter, or the minie rifle.

Is it wonderful that Freemasons should grow eloquent and enthusiastic over such a Fraternity? and is it surprising that those who cannot, or will not, emulate its virtues, should misrepresent and vilify it? we may be sure of this: the good, the true, and the beautiful are destined to prevail, while the evil, the false and the monstrous are doomed to destruction. LET THEM DIE, AND LET THE PRINCIPLES OF FREEMASONRY LIVE FOR EVER.

The members of the Percy Lodge of Instruction have accepted an invitation from the members of the West Smithfield Lodge of Instruction to work the Fifteen Sections at the Cathedral Hotel, St. Pauls, E.C., on Monday, 27th June 1881.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—Weary of Life.—Derangement of the liver is one of the most efficient causes of dangerous diseases and the most prolific of those melancholy forebodings which are worse than death itself. A few doses of these noted Pills act materially in dispelling low spirits and repelling the overt attacks made on the nerves by intemperance, impure atmospheres, over-indulgence, or exhausting excitement. The most shattered constitution may derive benefit from Holloway's Pills, which will regulate disordered action, brace the nerves, increase the energy of the intellectual faculties, and revive the failing memory. By attentively studying the instructions for taking these Pills, and obediently putting them in practice, the most despondent will soon feel confident of a perfect recovery.

STATEMENT OF PROVINCIAL CONTRIBUTIONS TO THE ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS, FOR THE SEPTENNIAL PERIOD 1875-81.

FOLLOWING up the plan we adopted in respect of the last Anniversary Festival of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, we have compiled a similar statement of the Provincial Contributions to the Royal Benevolent Institution for Girls during the seven years 1875 to 1881, both inclusive. It will doubtless be noticed by our readers that Yorkshire heads the list in this case likewise as regards the aggregate of its contributions, Middlesex being a good second, with Gloucestershire next; then Kent, and then, pretty closely together, West Lancashire, Staffordshire, Berks and Bucks, and Wilts. The conspicuous absentee from all the Festivals of this Institution is Northumberland, which has, however, figured well at the Boys' Anniversaries, and which, we hope, will be still more brilliantly represented at the Festival on the 29th instant. It will be noticed also that very many of the Provinces, such as Berks and Bucks, Cheshire, Kent, the two Lancashires, Middlesex, North Wales and Salop, Oxford, Suffolk, Surrey, Sussex, Warwickshire, and West Yorkshire, make a point of being represented regularly. We shall merely add that the figures are taken from the official lists furnished to us by the Secretary of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls the morrow of each Festival, and are the same, therefore, as we have dealt with in our Analyses. We state further that the chair on the several occasions was taken by the following distinguished members of the Craft, namely:—In 1875, Lord Mayor David Stone Grand Junior Warden; in 1876, Sir H. Edwards, Bart., Provincial Grand Master West Yorkshire; in 1877, Lord Suffield Provincial Grand Master Norfolk; in 1878, Lord Carnarvon Pro Grand Master and Provincial Grand Master Somersetshire; in 1879, Colonel Creaton Grand Treasurer; in 1880, His Royal Highness Prince Leopold Provincial Grand Master Oxon; and in 1881, Sir M. E. Hicks-Beach, Bart., M.P., Provincial Grand Master Gloucestershire. The grand total is £33,396 5s 1d, and gives us as nearly as possible an average per Festival of £4,771.

We beg to remind those of our readers who take an interest in the establishment of the Mont Dore at Bournemouth that Monday next, the 13th instant, is the last day on which it will be possible for them to send in applications for shares; and as there seems to be every reason to anticipate that the scheme will turn out to be prosperous, they will do well not to let slip the opportunity of obtaining now, at par, what some time hence they may find it impossible to obtain except at a considerable premium. As we gave such full particulars of the project last week, we need not be at the pains of renewing our consideration of the subject. We may as well, however, point out, as is stated in our advertisement columns, that the establishment of the Mont Dore in question has been taken in hand by a limited company, with a proposed capital of £75,000, in 15,000 shares of £5 each. It is being organised under special medical authority. The Honorary Patron is Sir F. Wyatt Truscott, Past G.J. Warden of England. The Medical Council includes Bro. Alfred Meadows, M.D., Physician Accoucheur St. Mary's Hospital; Horace Dobell, Esq., M.D.; Barnard Holt, Esq., F.R.C.S.—the former being the late Senior Physician Royal Hospital for Diseases of the Chest, and the latter Consulting Surgeon of the Westminster Hospital—A. Ernest Sansom, Esq., M.D., Senior Physician N.E. Hospital for Children; and John C. Thorowgood, Esq., M.D., Physician City of London Hospital for Chest Diseases. The Managing Director we have already announced as Mr. Dacre Trevor-Roper, and the Secretary is Mr. T. C. Pocock, of whom all necessary information may be obtained, at the Offices, 18 Abingdon-street, Westminster, S.W. An important feature, as testifying to the undoubted interest taken in the scheme by the profession, will be found in the fact, more than half of the present shareholders are medical men: this shows their firm belief in its success. However, those who need more explicit information will obtain it at the headquarters of the Company, as stated.

INSTALLATION MEETINGS, &c.

UNITY LODGE, No 171.

THE installation meeting of the above flourishing Lodge was held on the 7th inst., at the Ship Hotel, Greenwich. Bros. E. Phillips W.M., W. H. Bateman P.M. 12 S.W., Goodinge J.W., C. Harcourt P.M. Treasurer, J. Clever jun. P.M. Sec., Fenn S.D. P.M.'s Bros. J. Clever and Whiteley. Visitors—Bros. W. Taylor P.M. 1503, W. J. Beedell J.W. 12, H. W. Davis 266, W. Kibble J.W. 1426, C. Stevens J.D. 1793, C. A. Betts 46, J. Glenn 19, and H. M. Levy P.M. 188. After the Lodge had been formally opened, and the minutes confirmed, ballots were taken for the admission of Messrs. N. H. Davis and W. T. Birmingham. The result being unanimously in their favour, both were duly initiated into the Order in a very excellent manner. The bye-laws were read, also the report of the Audit Committee, the latter showing the Lodge to be in flourishing condition; there being a balance of £111 8s 6d in favour of the Lodge, while the Charity Fund has £27 5s 7d in hand. A Board of Installed Masters was opened, and Bro. W. H. Bateman P.M. 12, S.W. and W.M. elect, was presented to the Lodge, and in due course inducted into the chair by Bro. J. Clever P.M. On the re-admission of the brethren, the W.M. was saluted according to ancient form and he in appropriate terms appointed and invested his Officers—Bros. E. Phillips I.P.M., Goodinge S.W., Fenn J.W., C. Harcourt P.M. Treas., J. Clever jun. P.M. Secretary, Wendover S.D., Loring J.D., Hildyard I.G. The addresses were perfectly and most impressively delivered. A sum of five guineas was awarded to Bro. W. Smith the Tyler, who retires on account of ill-health. Bro. Goddard P.M. was elected Tyler in his place. Bro. Clever proposed that at the next meeting Bro. Phillips I.P.M. be presented with a gold P.M.'s jewel, for the able manner in which he had conducted the duties of the chair, and as a token of the regard and esteem in which he is held by every member of the Lodge. This was seconded by Bro. Whiteley and carried unanimously. Hearty good wishes were tendered by the visiting brethren, and Lodge was closed until the first Tuesday in July. The brethren sat down to a very sumptuous and récherché banquet and dessert, provided by Bro. W. T. Ball. The banquet-room overlooked the river, and the weather having cleared up, the brethren appreciated the view that lay before them. Good feeling and harmony prevailed; the W.M., a P.M. of No. 12, knows his duties thoroughly, and makes a good president. Grace was sung by Miss Maud Longhurst, R.A.M., Mrs. Chas. Stevens, and Bros. Chas. Stevens and W. J. Beedell. The W.M. proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts. The National Anthem and "God Bless the Prince of Wales" was sung by Miss Maud Longhurst. Bro. Phillips P.M. proposed the toast of the W.M., which to him was a duty that gave great pleasure: the brethren had many of them seen the working of their W.M. in Masonry in another Lodge; he is likewise an ardent worker for the Charities, all knew how successful he had been on their behalf. The gathering of this evening, under his able presidency, augured a good future for the Lodge. The Worshipful Master in reply said it afforded him great pleasure to hold the position of Wor. Master of this Lodge; during his year of office he should make it a rule to give them very short speeches, but they might rely on having good harmony to make up the balance. If he fulfilled the duties of the chair in the same manner as the brother who had preceded him, he thought it would be a source of pleasure to the members; in any case, however, he hoped to give them satisfaction. Bro. Clever P.M. then (by permission of the W.M.) proposed the toast of the Initiates. He was pleased to do so, he having enrolled two members who he was sure would keep up the dignity of this great and noble Order. Bro. Davis, of Birmingham, in brief terms responded; and then the W.M. paid a compliment to the visitors. There were eight present. He would call on his old and valued friend, Bro. Davis No 266, to reply. This brother, in response, remarked how pleased he had been to see his son initiated in this Lodge, where he was sure he would find every tenet in Freemasonry carried out to its fullest extent. The W.M. then proposed the health of the Installing Master, Bro. J. Clever, who had ably performed that ceremony. One and all were grateful to him for his valuable assistance, not only on this but many former occasions. To is latter remark also applied to the Past Masters generally, who were always pleased to give their assistance. Bro. Clever said it had afforded him great pleasure to instal Bro. Bateman for the second time into the chair. He congratulated the Brethren on having such a respected Brother to rule over them; he felt it a great honour his having introduced their present Master as a joining member of the Lodge. The toast of the Treasurer and Secretary came next; the Lodge might be congratulated on having such brethren as Bros. Harcourt and Clever jun to fill the posts. The former brother responded. In speaking to the toast of the Masonic Charities, the W.M. regretted the absence of their esteemed friend, Bro. James Terry P.P.G.W. Herts., Secretary of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution. He is generally present at this annual meeting, and all are pleased to see him. The three Cities ought not to be forgotten on these occasions. He (the W.M.) had accepted a Steward-ship for the next Anniversary Festival. He would call on Bro. H. M. Levy to respond. Bro. Levy likewise regretted the absence of Bro. Terry, who would have given them statistical details of the Institutions, and the grand results of the Festivals that had already been held. Bro. Levy urged the brethren to support the notice of motion to have elections twice a year, the same as the two Scholastic Institutions, so that our poorer brethren and their widows might not have to wait the twelve weary months for a chance of admission into the Institution. He trusted Bro. Terry would be here on the next occasion. The toast of the Wardens and Officers of the Lodge came next, and then Bro. Phillips P.M. proposed the toast of the Ladies and Miss ex. Brethren, Miss Longhurst and Mr. Charles Stevens, Bros. C. Stevens and Bedwell, who had so ably conduced to the harmony of the evening. Bro. Stevens made a suitable response. The brethren then separated and returned to town, after passing a very delightful evening.

SIR HUGH MYDDELTON LODGE, No. 1602.

THE installation meeting of this young and prosperous Lodge was held at the Agricultural Hall, Islington, on Friday, 27th ultimo. There was a very strong muster of the Officers and members, the chair being occupied by Bro. John Weston W.M. There was also a very numerous gathering of visitors, among whom we noticed Bros. G. W. Gilham P.M. 1632, W. H. Rohrs W.M. 946, George H. Hunter P.M. 1298, T. J. Bird J.W. 1807, James Terry P. Prov. G.J.W. Herts, P.M. 228, J. G. Humphreys S.D. 167, James Kew P.M. 179, C. Daniel P.M. 65, Wm. Stephens P. Prov. G.D.C. Middlesex, R. H. Halford Prov. G.S.D. Herts, J. W. Hobbs P.M. 749, J. L. Cogan P.M. 1365, S. B. Haley P.M. 45, W. W. Morgan Secretary 211, Egbert Roberts Organist 1623, Dillon 1567, and R. Pearcy P.M. 228. The Lodge having been opened with the accustomed formalities, the minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed. The Report of the Audit Committee was next submitted and approved; it showed the Lodge, as regards its finances, was in a most flourishing condition. Brother H. Harris having been raised to the sublime degree of Master Mason in a most masterly and impressive manner, Bro. John Osborn S.W. and W.M. elect was formally presented to the Worshipful Master, in order to receive at his hands the benefit of installation, and having duly signified in the usual way his assent to the ancient charges of Freemasonry, and all below the grade of Past Master having withdrawn, a Board of Installed Masters was formed, and Bro. Osborn was installed by his immediate predecessor in the chair, Bro. Weston, who fulfilled his task in a manner which did him infinite credit. The brethren who had withdrawn having been re-admitted, and the customary salutations in the several degrees having been given, Bro. Osborn appointed and invested the following brethren as his Officers for the ensuing year, namely:—Bros. W. Morris S.W., W. Poulton J.W., C. Hollidge Treasurer (elected), R. Allison Secretary, J. Greenfield S.D., Oppenheim J.D., E. Payne I.G., Sarter D.C., Heyne W.S., R. G. Thomas Organist, and Steedman Tyler. The resignation of Bro. E. Percy having been accepted with regret, the remaining business was despatched, and the Lodge was closed. The brethren then adjourned to that famous hostelry, "Ye Cock at Highbury," where a sumptuous banquet was placed on the table by that worthiest of worthy hosts, Bro. Baker, to the excellence of whose bill of fare the best possible testimony was rendered by all present. On the removal of the cloth, the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were given by the Worshipful Master, a few appropriate remarks being offered in commendation of each. Bro. Weston I.P.M. then assumed the gavel with a view to proposing the health of Bro. Osborn. In fulfilling his task, Bro. Weston spoke in terms of warm but well-deserved praise of the admirable manner in which the Worshipful Master had comported himself in the various offices he had held in the Lodge. The zeal and ability he had displayed during his Masonic career, he considered, fully justified him in looking forward to a year of great prosperity for the Sir Hugh Myddelton, albeit they had every reason to be proud of what had been done during the five years of its existence. Still he felt convinced not only that Bro. Osborn would uphold the dignity of the chair, but would hand over the Lodge, at the conclusion of his year of office, to his successor in a highly efficient and prosperous state. He congratulated him on the attainment of the main object of his Masonic ambition. He had made a good selection of Officers, who, he knew, would do their work most loyally, and he trusted the members would show their appreciation of Bro. Osborn's merits by cordially supporting him on all occasions when the Lodge was wont to meet. Bro. Osborn, in acknowledging the toast, expressed his warmest thanks to Bro. Weston for the handsome manner in which he had spoken of his slight services to Freemasonry, and to the members and guests who had so cordially endorsed all that he (Bro. Weston) had said in his favour. He was afraid he could not accept in their entirety the very eulogistic terms in which his predecessor had spoken of him, but he claimed at all events to have done his best to discharge his duty in the different positions he had been called upon to fill. He should do his utmost to carry out the still more arduous duties he was now expected to discharge, and he sincerely trusted that when it fell to his lot to give an account of his stewardship, it would be found he had done his best in furthering the interests of the Lodge. He then expressed the very great pleasure he experienced in finding that his first duty of any moment was to present Bro. Weston with a Past Master's jewel, which had been unanimously voted him by the Lodge, as a slight recognition of his services in the chair. The I.P.M. had done his work most successfully, and he (the Worshipful Master) could only hope that his own year of office would be as successful. Bro. Weston having acknowledged the gift in suitable terms, and having later on responded to his health as Installing Master, the toast of the Visitors was given and drunk with acclamation, and several of their number expressed their hearty thanks for the very cordial welcome they had met with. The Past Masters, all of whom were present on the occasion, having been honoured, Bro. James Terry was called upon to respond for the Masonic Charities, and it is needless to say "A Zealous Officer" made a very effective speech in reply. He spoke of the success of the recent Festival of the Girls' School, and expressed a hope that the Anniversary of the Boys' School, which was about to be held at Brighton, would bring the charitable Masonic year to a brilliant close. The other toasts having been duly honoured, the brethren rose and dispersed homewards, after having spent a most enjoyable evening. We must not close our report without congratulating the brethren of the Sir Hugh Myddelton on the result of their installation meeting. Nothing appeared to have been omitted in order to give the necessary éclat to the gathering, and what with a splendid banquet, a strong master of jovial brethren, some excellent singing, and good speeches, it is not to be wondered at that everything should have passed off so well. The musical arrangements were in the hands of Bro. Thomas, who himself presided at the piano, while the vocal portions of the entertainment was entrusted to Miss Millie Austin and Bros. Moar Adams and Egbert Roberts, all of whom acquitted themselves famously. Nor, moreover, must it be supposed that the meeting passed off without some reference to the remarks of "Bro. E. Van Donop," which appeared some time since in our columns, and the remonstrances they evoked from Bro. Sims P.M. What was said, however, was said in the kindliest spirit, and most temperately, so that nothing whatever happened to jar on the general satisfaction. One special feature of the evening we had almost overlooked, this was the recital, by Bro. Edward G. Sim P.M., of an exceedingly telling, but rather lengthy, dramatic production—"One niche the higher." The company testified, by their applause, to the fervency and ability which our esteemed brother threw into the heavy task he had undertaken.

CRYSTAL PALACE LODGE, No. 742.

THE annual meeting of this Lodge was held at the Crystal Palace, Sydenham, on Thursday, 2nd instant, on which occasion Bro. John Blundell was installed into the chair of K.S. Bro. Dick Radclyffe the W.M. having opened the Lodge, the business of the day was proceeded with. This comprised, amongst other matters, the balloting for, as a joining member, of Bro. D. C. E. Lake, of the Earl of Zetland Lodge, No. 1364, and the passing of Bro. W. H. Toten to the second degree. The Reports of the Audit Committee, and of the Benevolent Fund Committee, were submitted and duly received. From the former, we learn that the Lodge has a considerable balance in hand, and that at the time of audit all liabilities of the Lodge had been duly met, nor were there any subscriptions or fees in arrear. This is not the first occasion on which the Secretary has successfully striven for a clean bill on the occasion of the annual meeting, and we think great credit is due to him for the praiseworthy efforts he makes to keep the accounts of the Lodge in so satisfactory a manner. The balance to the credit of the Benevolent Fund account is also considerable, and we are pleased to notice that some practical use has been made of it during the past year, although we trust it may be long ere another call has to be made upon its funds. The installation was in due course proceeded with, Bro. Blundell being placed in the chair according to ancient custom, and appointing the following as his Officers for the year:—Bros. F. Orme S.W., G. Cole J.W., T. Foxall P.M. Treasurer, W. Land P.M. Sec., E. Ayres S.D., F. A. Pullen J.D., J. Newcomb I.G., N. A. Starkey D.C., W. Seymour Smith Org., W. J. Lassam Steward, and J. Woodstock Tyler. The ceremony was then completed. Advantage was taken of the visit of H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught to the Crystal Palace—where he was engaged with the Duchess in opening an exhibition of woollen manufactures—to tender the fraternal greetings of the brethren, and accordingly the following letter was sent to H.R.H.:—

"The Worshipful Master, Past Masters, Wardens, and Brethren of the Crysal Palace Lodge of Freemasons, No. 742, now assembled in the Crystal Palace, have the honour to present fraternal greetings to the Right Worshipful His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught P.G.W. &c. &c. &c., and respectfully beg permission to pledge a special toast to their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess of Connaught.

"Crystal Palace, Sydenham, 2nd June 1881."

His Royal Highness was pleased to accede to this request, and in due course, after the banquet, the special toast was honoured most enthusiastically. A vote was made from the funds of the Lodge towards erecting a monument to the memory of one of the founders, and a handsome Past Master's jewel was presented to Bro. Radclyffe as a memento of his year of office in the Lodge. The W.M. then concluded the proceedings, and the brethren adjourned to the banquet, which was well served and enjoyed by all present. At its conclusion and after grace, the Worshipful Master gave the usual toasts. The first was that of the Queen and the Craft. The Queen, the W.M. said, was a great promoter of the benefits of Freemasonry, and had on many occasions showed her appreciation of the doings of the Craft. The next toast was that of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales Grand Master. The brethren all knew him as a very energetic Mason. The W.M. had no doubt but that His Royal Highness would attend much more to the duties of Freemasonry were it not that the Queen, having in a measure retired, he had to fulfil many duties that should naturally fall to the lot of Her Majesty. The health of the Rt. Hon. the Earl of Carnarvon, the Rt. Hon. the Earl of Lathom, and the rest of the Grand Officers followed, and with it was coupled the name of Bro. Cottebrune, who considered it a very distinguished honour to have the good fortune to be called upon to return thanks for so important a body. Many years ago he had had the pleasure of visiting the Crystal Palace Lodge, and since then had borne in mind the heartiness with which he had been received. As regarded the Grand Officers, for whom he had to respond, he would merely say that they one and all were happy to assist, and contribute so far as they were able to the well ruling of the whole Craft. The health of their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess of Connaught was proposed from the chair. The Duke had, the Worshipful Master said, been very active in respect to Freemasonry. But a few days since he was at Portsmouth, where he fulfilled a very important position in Freemasonry. This and many other matters he had undertaken only proved that he was a good Mason, although but a young one. He was sure that in the future he would occupy a prominent position, as did his brother the Prince of Wales. The W.M., in proposing the health of the Visitors, expressed the pleasure he felt at seeing so many guests around the table. He looked upon it as a flattering compliment to himself. Bro. Marks was the first to reply. He had experienced a great amount of pleasure at being present to witness the installation of his very old friend, Bro. Blundell, who, he was sure, would perform his duties to the credit of the Lodge. Bro. Cutbush followed. The present was not the first time he had had the pleasure of enjoying the hospitality of the Crystal Palace Lodge. He had never been received anywhere so kindly as he had been by the members. He expressed the pleasure he experienced in seeing his old friend Bro. Dick Radclyffe fulfilling the office of Master, and was gratified that he had risen so high in the Craft. Bros. Farwig, Chambers, and others followed. Bro. Dick Radclyffe I.P.M. proposed the health of the W.M. The present was not the first time he had had the pleasure of addressing the members of the Crystal Palace Lodge, but it was the first time, and he might say the only time, he would be able to address them under similar circumstances. The toast he had to propose he considered really the toast of the evening, it being that of the W.M. Any words he might say in praise of Bro. Blundell could but be looked upon as refining gold. This remark being looked upon as personal to the W.M. was withdrawn by Bro. Radclyffe, who in place attempted the phrase, paint the lily—which, however, was treated as being as much of a personal character as his other quotation, and he was obliged to proceed without the use of similies. Looking through the list of Visitors, he saw so many accredited to Bro. Blundell, that he almost thought the W.M. had invited all. This proof if any was needed, was an ample one that the brethren had made a wise choice in placing him in the chair. Bro. Radclyffe concluded by hoping that the Master might have a most successful year of office. The Worshipful Master tendered his acknowledgments. He was very grateful to the Past Maters and brethren of the Crystal Palace Lodge for the great assistance they had given him in the various offices he had passed. He should certainly endeavour to carry out his duties to the satisfaction and for the welfare of the Lodge, and he trusted that at the end of his term of office he should have the confidence and esteem of every one of its members. He then proposed the health of the I.P.M. He felt that the mere mention of Bro. Radclyffe's name was sufficient to ensure him a hearty welcome in the Crystal Palace Lodge. The way in which he had devoted himself to the interests of the Craft reflected great credit on his mother Lodge. The W.M. believed Bro. Radclyffe had done great good, and had laid the foundation of a work which would rise and prove a boon to those who were unable to help themselves. Although he had met a slight rebuff at the outset, he hoped he might live to see his desires fulfilled. Bro. Radclyffe briefly replied. The Crystal Palace Lodge was, and he trusted ever would be, very dear to him. As regarded his humble endeavours in connection with a Pupils' Assistance Fund, he did not consider he had in any way failed. What he had done had resulted in a great amount of good, for now both the Boys' and the Girls' Schools had taken up the main feature of what he had been working for, while the province which at first most opposed the scheme had itself started a fund, adopting a title similar to that which but a few months since they had condemned. If there was any matter in which he could serve the Crystal Palace Lodge, he should be most happy to do so. He looked upon that day, on which he had been presented with a P.M.'s jewel, as one of the proudest of his life. The health of the Past Masters followed, to which Bros. Hume and Thompson replied. That of the Treasurer and Secretary was next given, and this was most heartily drunk. The toast of the Officers concluded the programme. A most enjoyable musical entertainment was provided, under the direction of Bro. Seymour Smith, who was assisted by Bros. John Hodges, G. T. Carter, and Albert Hubbard; altogether the meeting was a great success.

Royal Alfred Lodge, No. 780.—The regular meeting was held on Friday, 27th May, at the Star and Garter, Kew Bridge, the following brethren being present:—B. E. Blasby W.M., C. S. Costelow S.W., L. Franckel J.W., Walter Goss P.M. Treasurer, W. Hilton P.M. Secretary, J. J. Gunner S.D., W. D. Becket J.D, J. G. Le Grys I.G., C. E. Botley D.C.; Past Masters W. Gomm and C. F. May. Visitors—Bros. F. Fletcher W.S. 1732, H. Hayes 1559, W. Munday 1532, W. Johnson P.M. 865, G. Phillips 1512, D. H. Sagg W.M. 452, J. Mountstephen P.M. 92, W. W. Morgan jun. Freemason's Chronicle. The business of the day comprised the raising of Bros. C. E. Daniell, Blasby, C. T. J. Hildersley, and J. M. Lucas; the passing of Bros. G. Jefferies, J. P. Flew, and Henry Bailey; and the initiation of Messrs. C. F. Emmott, E. Harrell, and G. E. Payne, all of which ceremonies were ably performed by the Worshipful Master. Bro. Goss, the Treasurer, signified his desire to relinquish the duties of that office at the close of the current year, in consequence of his time being so much occupied in the country. At the conclusion of the day's work the brethren adjourned to supper, when, under the presidency of Bro. Blasby, an enjoyable evening was spent, the usual toasts being given and acknowledged. Bro. Gomm proposed the health of the Worshipful Master. He considered the work performed during the evening was a credit to any Mason. He was very pleased to know they had a Master who displayed so much ability. In reply, the Worshipful Master tendered his thanks. The labours of the evening had been somewhat arduous, but he was only too pleased to fulfil the duties required of him. Since the day he joined Freemasonry he had been heart and soul in it. He had especially to thank the Past Masters for what they had done for him in the past, and then proceeded to propose their health. This having been acknowledged, the toast of the Initiates was given and duly acknowledged. Other toasts followed, the proceedings not being brought to a conclusion until a late hour.

Islington Lodge of Instruction, No. 1471.—A meeting was held on Tuesday, 24th May, at the Moorgate Tavern, Finsbury-pavement. Bros. Buck W.M., Blenkhorn S.W., Hepburn J.W., C. G. Sparrow Secretary, Pitt S.D., Hunter I.G., and others. After preliminaries the ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Cuthbertson candidate. Bro. Butler then offered himself as a candidate, and the ceremony of passing was rehearsed. Lodge opened in third, and closed to third and then second degrees. Bro. Blenkhorn was elected W.M. for the ensuing week, which will be the last meeting of the Lodge until September. Bros. Ruff and Tiffen of No. 95 were duly elected members. A vote of thanks was recorded on the minutes to Bro. Buck, it being the first time he had occupied the position of W.M. Lodge closed and adjourned.

Angel Lodge, No. 51.—At the monthly meeting of this old Lodge, at Colchester, on Thursday, 26th ult., the election of W.M. for the ensuing year took place, the unanimous choice of the brethren falling upon W. Bro. William Richey P.M. 700, who has been S.W. for the last twelve months. A special vote of thanks was passed to Bro. John J. C. Turner for the able manner in which he had carried out the duties of the chair during his period of office; and to mark his distinguished services it was unanimously decided to present him with a P.M.'s jewel.

Percy Lodge of Instruction, No. 198.—Held at Bro. Fysh's, Jolly Farmers, Southgate-road, on Saturday, the 4th instant. Present—Bros. R. Pearcy W.M., J. A. Powell S.W., R. M. Jones J.W. S. E. Moss Acting Preceptor, Fenner Secretary, Gilham S.D., Kent J.D., Wolf I.G.; also Bros. Weedon, A. Tuck, Clark, Carr, and others. Lodge being duly opened, the minutes were read and confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was ably rehearsed by the W.M., Bro. Tuck acting as candidate. Lodge was called off and on, when the W.M. worked the first three sections of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. Bro. C. Weedon, by the unanimous vote of the brethren, was elected W.M. for the ensuing week. Lodge was then closed. The ceremony of installation will be rehearsed, on the 25th inst., by Bro. Gilham P.M. 1632.

Prudence Lodge, No. 1550.—At the meeting held on Saturday, 4th June, at the Huyshe Masonic Temple, Plymouth, the W. Bro. Leonard J. Webber presiding, Bro. Morris C. Lakeman, the S.W., was unanimously elected the Master for the ensuing year; Bro. Charles Philo the Treasurer, and Bro. Phillips Tyler. The installation will take place on Saturday, the 25th inst., at six p.m., and it was decided that instead of the usual banquet there should be a picnic, the ladies being invited to join, and a committee was appointed to make the necessary arrangements—it will take place about the middle of July. The Treasurer, Wor. Richard G. Tippett, having resigned, a cordial vote of thanks was unanimously accorded him for his valuable services.

After preliminaries, the first section of the first lecture was worked by the brethren. The ceremony of raising was rehearsed by the W.M., Bro. B. Kauffmann acting as candidate. The ceremony of initiation was then rehearsed, Bro. Goyer acting as candidate. Great credit is due to the W.M. for his perfect and impressive working, in which he was ably assisted by the Officers. Bro. N. Vallentine was elected W.M. for the next meeting.

His Majesty Oscar II. King of Sweden, Grand Master of that country, accompanied by Count Piper, Swedish Ambassador, and the Royal suite, visited the works of the Henri Rifle Barrel Company on 30th ult., and inspected the machine guns there being manufactured. Luncheon was afterwards served in a marquee, to which a large party of noblemen, officers, and gentlemen sat down. As he was leaving the works His Majesty was loudly cheered by the men. On Tuesday His Majesty, together with his Queen, arrived at Dover by the midday mail. Before departing from the pier the King, who is very much improved in health, expressed himself as having been very favourably impressed by the reception he had met with in England.

Bro. G. W. Cowing, proprietor of the Barnet Press, Finchley News, and Edgware Chronicle, was lately compelled to defend an action for libel commenced against him by a local builder for having inserted in his paper a letter commenting on the materials, and on the construction of some houses at Finchley. We are pleased to say that the jury found for the defendant on all points.

In our report of the Consecration of the Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar Lodge, in our issue of last week, we gave a list of presents which had been made to the Lodge. We need hardly say that they were very much admired, and even apart from their intrinsic value, are a splendid memento of the good spirit which animated the Founders of the Lodge. The gifts were of first-rate workmanship, and we think a word of praise is due to Bro. H. T. Lamb, who supplied them.

THE MOTHER'S LULLABY.

A Cradle Song.

(For Music.)

Sleep, little baby;
Mother will sing,
An evening song,
As sweet bells ring;
Whilst two little arms
Around her cling.

Sleep, little darling.
Sleep and rest;
By no dark dreams,
Or fear oppress;
Only by mother
To be caressed.

Into the shadowland
Baby hies;
And smiles as an angel
Past him flies;
Closed at peace
Are the violet eyes.

Almighty Father,
Watch this night,
Over my little one's Slumbers light;
Teach us to worship
Thee aright.

What will the future
Bring to me?
Joy or sorrow,
Which will it be?
I pray to Thee, Father,
On bended knee.

Emra Holmes,
Author of Amabel Vaughan.

We understand that Bro. Emra Holmes's books Tales, Poems, and Masonic Papers, and Amabel Vaughan are now nearly out of print. A few copies of the latter may still be had, however, of Bro. G. Markham Tweddell, Stokesley, Yorkshire, for whose benefit the works were published. It is in contemplation to publish shortly a new volume of Bro. Holmes's poems, which have appeared during the past year or two in numerous newspapers and magazines in England, Ireland, Scotland, the United States, and Canada. A sketch of Bro. Holmes is about to appear in the Biograph.

We have been favoured with a letter from Bro. T. Massa, in which he expresses a wish that we should give publicity to a letter he forwarded to our contemporary, the Freemason, some short time since, but which the Editor of that journal, in the exercise of a very wise discretion, declined to make public. We feel it our duty to follow the very wise example of our near neighbour. We think with him that no possible good can result from the adoption of the wish expressed by Bro. Massa. We fully sympathise with him in respect of the difficulty in which he finds himself placed, but we think it would have the effect of making matters still more difficult of management, if we found a place in our columns for the letter in question.

NEW MASONIC HALL AT AUCKLAND.

IF the old saw, that "familiarity breeds contempt," may be accepted as a general truism, one can hardly question the legitimacy of the inference that the unfamiliarity or novelty of a thing will arrest attention, if, in all cases, it does not actually command respect and win approbation. The latter qualification, however, is not needed in speaking of the proceedings in connection with the laying of the foundation stone of this proposed Masonic Hall, and the hypothesis used will only partially explain the very large amount of interest displayed in the Masonic ceremonial, another and cogent reason being the wide-spread influence of the Order, and the power which it exerts in shaping and modifying social economy. Though pre-eminent among Friendly Societies in its traditions, history and associations, superior in sublimity of aims and impressiveness of ritual, practically limitless in its myriad ramifications, and immensely powerful through its cosmopolitan character, there is no organisation which favours less the pageantry of public display, and which so rarely has resort to the obtrusive exhibition of its symbols and rites. It does not cheapen its reputation by flaunting its pretensions in the public eye at periodical intervals, and on the rare occasions that it does make a visible demonstration all the constituents are present which conspire to render the event striking and the surroundings dignified and imposing. The knowledge that the brethren of the Auckland and neighbouring districts intended to signalise the event by a full representation of their strength therefore awakened the liveliest curiosity in the public mind, and directly led to the imparting of a gala character to the day. The brethren of Auckland will generally appreciate the conveniences which this building is intended to supply them with. They have been fain to content themselves with public-house parlours as meeting places, and many chose rather to deny themselves the privilege of frequent communication with their Lodges rather than incur the disrepute of seeming to give colourable approval to the practice of making the tavern place of resort for entertainment and sociability. This stigma will now be removed, and, given a place of their own, the confraternity should have no difficulty in regaining the assistance and support of quondam members, and in exhibiting its advantages to the public. The Hall will also serve to remind strange brethren from other shores that they are not among aliens, and that they have only to avow themselves in order to receive a gracious welcome.

The plans accepted and approved by the committee were prepared by Bro. W. H. Skinner, and the contract has been taken by Bro. T. Colebrook. A commencement was made about three weeks ago, but a slight delay in the progress of the building has taken place, in order to allow Bro. G. S. Graham, D.G.M. (E.C.), to take part in laying the foundation-stone. The building is being erected in Princes-street, on Masonic property, adjoining the Masonic Hotel, and the edifice, although not large, will have an imposing architectural appearance. It will be of brick, richly ornamented and faced with cement, in imitation of stone. The front is 36 feet 8 inches wide, and the total depth 77 feet. The front elevation from the base to the top of the balustrade is 40 feet. The whole front being of the Corinthian order, the front centre pediment projecting a foot from the main building.

The fact that the ceremony was to be conducted by the three District and Provincial Grand Masters, the representatives of the three Grand Lodges of England, Ireland, and Scotland, lent additional eclat to the proceedings. Every Mason recognising the fact that this might be the only occasion during a lifetime when such an occurrence might take place. Great praise is, says the local papers, due to Bro. H. G. Wade, the D.G. Secretary E.C., who prepared the programme. It was a most difficult task, requiring extreme tack and a thorough knowledge of Masonic usage. There was no ritual to guide him, and the programme had to be so prepared as to allot to each of the Grand Lodges a full share in the ceremonies. He acquitted himself as only such an experienced Mason could have done; and the fact that the long and trying ceremonial was carried through without a hitch is, they take it on themselves to say, entirely attributable to Bro. Wade's tact, knowledge and ability. The scene of the ceremonial was a centre of attraction during the forenoon. The grand stand and front were gaily decorated with flags, the entrance was through an evergreen arch, and the triangle over the foundation-stone was foliated in the form of a spreading New Zealand tree. The District Grand Lodge, E.C., was opened in the Choral Hall at 1 o'clock, by the V.W. Bro. Lodder D.D.G.M., at which time there was a very large attendance of brethren and a good choir, presided over by Bro. Gordon Gooch, Bro. Angelo Forrest presiding at the organ. The lodge having been duly opened, the D.G.M. Bro. Graham and his Officers entered, and were received, the Organist playing a march, and the brethren saluting with grand honours. The chorale, "Hail Eternal by whose aid," was impressively sung, after which the Grand Lodge was declared duly opened. Bro. Pierce P.G.M., I.C., and his Grand Lodge, and Bro. Whitaker P.G.M., S.C., and his Grand Lodge, were admitted, and saluted in the usual forms, and conducted to their places; and after further ceremonial, the D.G. Secretary, Bro. Wade, read the dispensation authorising the brethren to appear in regalia. The anthem, "Behold how good and joyful a thing it is," was chanted, and the D.G.M. sprinkled perfume. Bro. the V.W. E. T. Wildman, director of ceremonies, then called to his aid Bros. Cole and Hitchens, and marshalled the procession for the march to St. Paul's Cathedral. About 400 joining in the procession The Rev. C. M. Nelson D.G. Chaplain, assisted by the Revs. Dr. Kidd, Messrs. Gould and Tebbs conducted the service, the Rev. Dr. Kidd preaching an eloquent and impressive sermon from the last verse of the second lesson—"And now abideth faith, hope, charity, these three; but the greatest of these is charity." A collection was made in aid of the Parnell Orphan Home, amounting to £18 2s 9d.

The brethren having taken up their allotted places, and the District and Provincial Grand Masters having taken theirs at the east, north, and south sides of the stone, the ceremony was commenced by the choir singing the hymn, "Master Supreme, to thee this day our corner stone with praise we lay." Bro. Gould P.G. Chap. I.C. read the first three verses of the 1st chapter of Genesis, after which Bro. Nelson D.G. Chap. E.C. offered up prayer, the responses being given by the Grand Masters and the choir.

Mr. L. D. Nathan, Chairman of the trustees, then read a copy of the scroll, which was placed in the cavity under the foundation stone.

The D.G. Treasurer then placed the phial containing coins of the realm. Other documents, newspapers, &c., were placed in the cavity, and the cement was spread by the D.G.M., with the handsome silver trowel presented by the architect, Bro. Skinner. During the singing of the anthem, "Round the spot, Moriah's Hill," the stone was gradually lowered to its bed, after which the D.D.G.M. Bro. Lodder applied the square, the P.G. Senior Warden I.C., applied the level, and the P.G. Junior Warden S.C. applied the plumb, each reporting to his Grand Master, after which each Grand Master struck the stone three times with his gavel, and declared it well and truly laid. The D.G. Director of Ceremonies introduced the Architect, Bro. Skinner, who presented the plans for the inspection of the D.G.M. The anthem, "When Earth's foundation first was laid," was sung to the tune Adeste Fideles, after which the architect presented the working tools to the D.G.M. Bro. Gould, who read the lesson from the 8th chapter of first Kings. The D.G.M. E.C., scattered corn on the stone, and consecrated it to virtue, the P.G.M. I.C. poured wine on it, and consecrated the Hall to universal benevolence, and the P.G.M. S.C. dropped oil on the stone, and consecrated it to all the purposes of Masonery. During this impressive portion of the ceremonial, the choir sang the hymn, "Genius of Masonry descend," and each portion of the ceremony was greeted with grand honours.

Bro. the Hon. F. Whitaker, at this stage of the proceedings, delivered the following address:—

Right Worshipful Masters and Brethren,—We have arrived at that part of the ceremonial when it is the duty of one of the brethren to address you on the subject of Freemasonry. It is my privilege to be called upon to perform that duty. I do not presume to be able to teach the brethren; but this is a proper occasion to call to their memories certain facts worthy to be remembered, and especially to take a view of our present position. I may first observe, then, that Freemasonry is a very ancient institution. Its origin is lost in the mist of antiquity. Some date it as far back as the Patriarchs, while others look upon the building of King Solomon's temple at Jerusalem as the starting point. Whatever the date of its birth, there is no question that in some form it has lasted through a long series of years. The enquiry is interesting, but this is not a convenient occasion for prosecuting the enquiry. For our present purpose, it is sufficient to go back to the last century, as it was then that the organisation now existing was adopted, and the foundation of the present system laid. In the year 1717 the Grand Lodge of England was established. An eminent Mason, Anthony Sayer, was the first Grand Master. A number of eminent men have held the office since. The Prince of Wales now holds the office. A few years afterwards, viz., 1730, the Grand Lodge of Ireland was constituted. Viscount Kingston was the first Grand Master. The Duke of Leinster was one of his successors. I single him for mention, as he ruled the Craft the unprecedented time of 61 years. The Duke of Abercorn is the present Grand Master. The Freemasons of Scotland soon followed suit, and in 1736 a congress of Masons was held in Edinburgh and the Grand Lodge of Scotland was constituted. At that time the headship of the Scotch Freemasons was an hereditary office, established by King James II. of Scotland, and William St. Clair, of Rosslyn, held it in 1736—he surrendered the office, and was elected the first Grand Master of Scotland. The present Grand Master is Sir Michael Shaw. The constitution of Freemasonry in New Zealand comprises Provincial or District Grand Lodges, under whom there are a large number of subordinate Lodges. We thus see that the English is the oldest, the Irish second, and the Scotch third, and they are entitled to precedence in this order. But it must not be inferred that there is practically any sharp line of distinction between the brethren of the different Constitutions, indeed, so far from that, you will find in most of the Lodges, if not all, English, Irish, and Scotch Freemasons mix without distinction, all united in one brotherhood. Freemasonry found an early home in New Zealand. Nearly forty years ago, soon, indeed, after the foundation of the Colony, a Lodge was established in Auckland. I believe it is the senior Lodge in New Zealand—the Ara. It held its first meeting in a small room in the Exchange Hotel in Shortland-street. Since then a large number of Lodges have been constituted under the three Constitutions. So that the organisation of Freemasonry, so far as New Zealand is concerned, comprises the three several Grand Lodges, the three Provincial Grand Lodges, and a large number of subordinate Lodges. It may be a matter of surprise that in this town, the centre of Freemasonry in the North, and the home of three Provincial Grand Lodges, so much delay has taken place in providing a Masonic Hall, especially as many of the out-districts have done so. There may have been remissness, but it is not an unmixed evil, as we are now enabled to erect a building worthy of the Craft and an ornament to the town, which, where Masons were few in number and poor in pocket, could not have been done. It is somewhat remarkable that Freemasons' Halls—that is, buildings specially erected and set apart for Freemasonry—are of comparatively recent date. The first of which we have any record is a Hall erected in Philadelphia in 1754, the second at Marseilles in 1765, and the third in London in 1776. The last was pulled down in 1864, and the present handsome and commodious building erected in its place—a fitting home for Freemasonry. I look upon the erection of a hall in Auckland as a most important event in Freemasonry. It is highly objectionable that Lodge meetings should be held at places of public entertainment—it has been hitherto perhaps almost a necessity, but it has no doubt given rise to scandal, which should be carefully avoided. It may now be fairly asked for what object is there such an extensive organisation required, and what is there to justify the expenditure of so much time, trouble, and money? Let us consider what is Freemasonry. One of the greatest writers on Masonic Jurisprudence (Dr. Oliver) defines it to be "a system of morality veiled in allegory and illustrated by symbols," but we shall be better understood by what it does and what it teaches. I will first say a few words as to the admission of candidates. We are no propagandists. It is directly contrary to the principles and rules of Freemasonry that any man should be solicited to become a Mason, and before he is allowed to be proposed he has to sign a declaration that he is unbiassed by improper solicitation and uninfluenced by mercenary or unworthy motives, but freely and voluntarily offers himself to be initiated in the mysteries of the Craft. The qualifications required of a candidate are but few, but they are peremptory. He must be a believer in the Supreme God—the Father of all—the Great Architect of the Universe. No Atheist is admissible, but we inquire not into denominational religion. Mahommedans are eligible, and so are the Parsees of India—the latter, indeed, have a million Freemasons on their roll. It is true that in our Lodges we hold the Bible to be the corner stone. Our ceremonies are founded on this basis, and no Lodge can be properly held without it. Whenever a Lodge meets the Bible is laid open in the midst, and is only closed when the Lodge closes. Such, however, could not be the case with the Mahommedans and Parsees. On their consciences the Bible would not bind, but to them the Koran and the Veda take the place of our Bible. Whether it be so, the Bible has the place in our Lodges. A man must be a free man, well recommended and favourably vouched for. Politics are strictly prohibited. In every free country Freemasonry has been held in high esteem, and as convincing proof of the favour with which it is regarded by the Government of our country there is the remarkable fact that when Europe was convulsed, and laws passed to put down unlawful oaths and secret societies, a special exemption was made in favour of Freemasons, whose loyalty and obedience to the laws of the country have never been doubted. The oath administered to a Freemason is principally to bind him to do good and eschew evil. Now let us examine what are the objects of Freemasonry, and what does it teach? It teaches a code of morality and virtue, its object being to improve man's moral nature—to remind him from time to time of the duties that he owes to God and his fellow-men; it denounces vice and encourages virtue. What higher or better objects are compatible with any human institution. To the wives and families of Masons, Freemasonry should be especially acceptable. No doubt it is demanding a good deal for wives to acquiesce in an incommunicable secret, but, on the other hand, they must bear in mind, as a set-off, that Freemasonry impresses on its members their duty to their fellowmen, and especially impresses upon them the duty they owe to their families. Masonry demands that the Mason should not only provide for his family, but that, to the best of his ability, he should administer to their happiness, spending a due portion of his time amongst them, and that he should not waste his time and substance in taverns, or selfishly seek his own gratification. In short, if a man is a good Mason, he must be a good man, and especially a good husband, a good father. If Freemasons fall short of their duties, it is not the fault of the Institution, but of those who do not in practice conform to its precepts. Let us amend our faults, and seek, in practice, to act up to our professions, for the nearer we follow the requirements of Freemasonry, so shall we the better contribute to our own happiness and to that of others.

Offerings to the amount of £3 9s 5d were then placed upon the stone. The D.G. Chaplain said the concluding prayer. Bro. Graham D.G.M. E.C. then took the opportunity to address a few remarks to the assemblage. He said that the Lodges had contributed various amounts towards defraying the cost of erecting the Hall, but as these fell short of the sum required, the balance would have to be derived from subscriptions by the brethren. After having been made aware of the beneficent objects of Freemasonry, perhaps the ladies would not be disinclined to assist, and if they would therefore prepare and work for a Bazaar he would pledge himself that they should have a grand ball in return. The Masonic version of the National Anthem was then sung. After which the procession was reformed and marched back to the Choral Hall, where the Grand Lodge resumed its sitting. The offerings laid upon the stone were awarded to the workmen who were engaged upon the Hall, while a vote of thanks was passed to to the ladies and gentlemen of the choir. It was announced that towards the erection of the Hall, £1000 had been contributed by various Lodges, while £800 had been subscribed privately by the brethren, making a total so far of £1,800. Other lists have to come in from the country districts. The offer of one brother to give a portrait of De Burgh Adams, the first Prov. Grand Master of the North Island, was hailed with cheers. After the transaction of some routine business, the Grand Lodge was closed in due form, and the brethren dispersed. In the evening a quadrille party was held in the Lorne-street Hall.

ROYAL LODGE, No. 207, PROV. No. 1.

THE Installation Meeting of this Lodge, which is the oldest in the district, was held at Freemasons' Hall, Hanover-street, Kingston, on Monday, the 2nd May last, there being a large number of brethren present. The Past Masters included Right Worshipful A. D. Cordova D.D.G.M., Wor. R. Langley P.D.G.W., S. E. Pielévzy P.D.G.W., C. W. Tait P.D.G.W., B. Stines jun. D.G. Sec., L. C. Hollar P.D.G.S.B., G. J. Sargeant D.G.D., A. H. Jones D.G.O., G. W. Duff, G. P. Myers, E. Finzi, S. Hart, and W. Duff P.D.G. Stewards. The minutes of the April meeting having been read and confirmed, all ordinary business was suspended, and the W.M. Bro. G. W. Duff requested Bro. G. J. Sargeant (a P.M. of the Lodge) to occupy the chair, and perform the installation ceremony; at the proper time the W.M. presenting Bro. E. X. Leon, the Master Elect, who having assented to the ancient charges was duly installed W.M. for the ensuing year. Bro. Leon then appointed the following brethren as his Officers:—Wor. Bros. G. W. Duff I.P.M., T. H. Aquilar S.W., J. M. Simpson J.W., G. A. Campbell Treasurer, C. M. Sherlock Secretary, W. R. Ryder S.D., F. J. Fryer J.D., R. Simpson I.G., D. Stevenson and A. E. Langley Stewards, G. Magnus Tyler. It having been intimated in the course of the evening that Worshipful Bro. G. J. Sargeant would soon leave the island for his native place, England, a great deal of regret was expressed, and with permission of the Lodge, the W.M. appointed a Committee to prepare an affectionate farewell address, to be presented at the next ordinary meeting. Bro. Sergeant is one of the most popular members of the Royal Lodge, having served as Master, and had a most unprecedentedly successful year of office, as is testified by the records on the minutes, and the presentation of a valuable and beautiful P.M.'s jewel, subscribed for by the brethren of the Lodge. The labours of the evening being ended, the brethren were all invited to a banquet, at which a most enjoyable evening was spent.

HAMILTON LODGE, No. 1440, PROV. No. 6.

At the ordinary meeting of this Lodge, held in Spanish Town, on Thursday evening, 5th May last. Bro. W. Duncan Byles, W.M. Elect, was installed into the chair of K.S., Worshipful Bro. G. J. Sargeant P.G.D. acting as Installing Master, assisted by Worshipful Bro. W. T. Jamieson and several Past Masters. The administration for the ensuing year is as follows:—Worshipful Bro. W. D. Byles W.M., Bros. W. T. Jamieson I.P.M., J. H. Rickards S.W., C. M. L. Keer J.W., A. Clunie Treasurer, C. A. J. James Secretary, J. C. Bryant S.D., J. C. Bolton J.D., H. J. Mendes I.G., J. R. De Leon Tyler. The Lodge closed, the brethren adjourning to the banquet room, where they spent a pleasant evening.

With feelings of regret we have to announce the death of a very old and esteemed member of our Order, Brother Cameron P.M. and P.Z. 180. In his old and influential Lodge he was highly esteemed, and will be deeply regretted; his kind and genial manner had endeared him to every member. He died on Friday last. His funeral will take place this day (Saturday), at the Brompton Cemetery, when, doubtless, many private and Masonic friends of the St. James's Union will be present to pay the last tribute to Masonic worth.

Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar has accepted the office of President of the newly-formed Portsmouth centre of the St. John Ambulance Association.

The Prince of Wales has accepted the office of President of the City and Guilds of the London Institute for the Advancement of Technical Education, and has expressed his willingness to lay the foundation-stone of the Central Institution at South Kensington during the month of July next.

METROPOLITAN CHAPTER OF IMPROVEMENT.

THE last gathering of the members of the Metropolitan Chapter of Improvement for the Session took place on 31st ult., at the Jamaica Tavern, St. Michael's-alley, Cornhill. The attendance, however, was hardly up to the average. The Officers present were—Comps. Taylor Z., Payne H., Chicken J., F. Browne S.E. and Preceptor, Walker S.N., Goodchild P.S., together with the following Comps.:—Turquand, Goodenough, W. Fraser, J. Fraser, G. Brown, Edmonds, Thompson, Sheffield, and Warner. The ceremony of exaltation was rehearsed, Comp. J. Fraser candidate. The work was well done, more especially those parts assigned to the Principals. At the conclusion of the ceremony Comp. Brown, the esteemed Preceptor, said it was to him a pleasing duty to propose that a vote of thanks be inserted on the minutes to Comp. Taylor for the very able manner in which he had performed the duties of Z. that evening, for the first time, especially so as he felt sure when he entered the room that he had not the most distant idea that he should be called upon to fill that position and go through the arduous duties attached to it. He, therefore, felt sure that the Companions would agree in paying a compliment which Comp. Taylor well deserved. Comp. Walker S.N. seconded the motion, which was carried unanimously. Comp. Taylor, in acknowledging the vote of thanks, expressed the gratification he felt in receiving it. As Comp. Brown had stated, when he entered the room that night he had not the most distant idea of being called upon to fill the highest position in the Chapter. He thanked them most cordially for the honour they had conferred upon him on that his first occasion of taking the chair. By the time they again met he should be able to rub off a little of the nervousness he had felt that evening, and hoped better to deserve the thanks they had given him. He felt sure, before they separated for the season, the Companions would be most anxious to recognise the services of Companion Brown, their able, painstaking, and kind Preceptor, who was always at his post, and always ready to give instruction. He, therefore, proposed that the thanks of the Chapter be given to Companion Brown for his services, and for his readiness at all times to do anything that might be required of him. Companion Walker seconded the motion, which was unanimously agreed to. Companion Brown S.E., the esteemed Preceptor of the Chapter, thanked the Companions for the vote of thanks they had given him. The compliment was most pleasing to him, and he should gratefully remember it. He might say that the duties of Preceptor were not always of the most agreeable kind, for unlike in Craft Masonry, those who came there had gained a position in Freemasonry, and rightly considered they had acquired a dignity in the Craft, and to many of these it was not the most agreeable task to have to go to school again, but he generally found that those who came there were anxious to obtain the instruction that was there afforded them. He might inform the Companions that during the season of 1879 and 1880, during which he had acted as their Preceptor, they had had thirty-three meetings, at which 420 Companions attended; they had admitted thirty-one new members, and there had been one visitor, giving an average of thirteen to each meeting. In the season of 1880 and 1881 there had been again thirty-three meetings, 561 had attended, and, by a remarkable coincidence, thirty-one new members had been admitted, with three visitors, giving an average of eighteen to each meeting; he might also say that the funds were in a satisfactory condition. This state of affairs must be gratifying to the members, as it showed that the Chapter was flourishing, and a month or two after they again met he would ask them to devote a portion of the funds to the Masonic Charities, for one of which he intended to act as Steward. The following were the Officers elected for the next meeting:—Companions Taylor Z., J. Payne H., Chicken J., J. Fraser N., Goodchild P.S. The Chapter was then closed in due form, and adjourned till the first Tuesday in October.

Joppa Chapter, No. 188.—The regular Convocation was held on the 30th ultimo, at the Albion, Aldersgate-street. Present—Comps. L. Lazarus M.E.Z., W. H. Gulliford H., H. P. Isaac J., N. Baum S.E., J. Lazarus P.Z. Treasurer, I. P. Cohen P.S., Davis first Assistant; P.Z.'s S. M. Lazarus, H. M. Levy, M. J. Emanuel, and W. Littaur; Visitors—John Roper 1275, Gaskell 114, and S. Moss 141. Chapter was opened and the minutes were confirmed; Comp. C. W. Meiter, No. 1671, was elected a joining member. Bros. A. Haslett 657, R. Ede 1471, S. Jacobs P.M. 1327 P.G.P. Herts, F. H. Fearns 1321, and J. McNaught 1298, were balloted for, accepted, and duly exalted into R.A. Masonry; the working of the M.E.Z., Principals, and Officers was most perfect. The election of Principals for the ensuing twelve months was the next business. Comp. W. H. Gulliford was elected M.E.Z., H. P. Isaac H., I. P. Cohen J., J. Lazarus P.Z. Treas., M. Emanuel P.Z. S.E., J. Davis S.N., A. J. Henochsberg P.S., George T. Mann first Assistant, Brooke second Assistant. The resignation of a Companion was accepted with regret. On motion, regularly brought forward, it was carried unanimously, that in future the exaltation fee be £5 5s, and the joining fee £2 2s. Comp. Littaur P.Z. proposed, and Comp. H Gulliford seconded, that a sum of money be given from the funds of the Chapter for the purpose of presenting the M.E.Z. with a P.Z.'s jewel, for the able manner in which he had discharged his duties in the chair; this amount to form a nucleus, which he was sure the members would readily supplement, and so present him with a testimonial worthy his acceptance; likewise that a vote of thanks be recorded on the minutes. This was carried unanimously. The Chapter was closed until November. The brethren sat down to a sumptuous banquet, provided by Comp. W. G. Jennings, and superintended by Comp. W. Silver. The M.E.Z., in due course, proposed the Loyal and R.A. toast. In speaking to the toast of the new members the M.E.Z. had had great pleasure that evening in exalting five Companions—Bros. Jacobs, Fearns, McNaught, Haslett, and Ede. The recommendation they brought with them, and the attention they paid to the ceremony, augured they would prove a credit to the Order. Comp. Haslett, in eloquent terms, replied; he felt a great pleasure in being associated with this Chapter, and hoped, as he progressed in Royal Arch Masonry, to carry out every duty required of him. Comp. P. Dickinson P.Z. said one of the most important toasts at gatherings like this was that of the M.E.Z.; he regretted not being present that evening at the working, but he knew what it was, as the M.E.Z. was known to do well every duty required of him. Although he could not propose the presentation of a jewel to him, as it had been already done by another P.Z., he hoped they would honour the toast fervently. The M.E.Z. thanked the Companions for their kind expressions in the Chapter: when he accepted office, he determined to do his duty; he had now reached the summit of his ambition, and nothing more remained but to thank the Companions for the support they had given him on all occasions. The toast of the Visiting Companions was next on the list, and Comps. Gasklei and Moss severally responded. The M.E.Z. then proposed the health of the M.E.Z. elect; whatever office Comp. Gulliford had held, his duties has been fulfilled to the advantage of the Chapter. He (the M.E.Z.) was sure he would receive the cordial support of the Companions. Comp. Gulliford, in brief terms responded. The toast of the P.Z.'s was replied to by Comp. W. Littaur. The J., the Treasurer, the P.S., and the rest of the Officers were not overlooked, and after the Janitor's toast the Companions separated with earnest hopes that they might meet again after the recess in health and prosperity.

ESSEX CHAPTER, No. 276.

THE Installation meeting of the Essex Chapter, No. 276, was held on 30th ult., at the George Hotel, Chelmsford, when there was a large muster of Comps., including several visitors, the M.E.Z. having most kindly invited representatives from the three other Chapters in the Province, for the purpose of discussing the desirability of petitioning for a P.G. Chapter for the Province of Essex. The first business was the exaltation of a candidate, which having been ably done by E. Comp. F. B. Shepherd P.Z., the Installation ceremony was proceeded with. Principal J. (Comp. E. Shedd) was most impressively installed by E. Comp. Vero W. Taylor the M.E.Z. Elect, and the same Comp. was to have installed Principal H., but E. Comp. the Rev. B. S. Barnes, who had been elected to that Chair, was absent through ill health, and consequently the ceremony was postponed. E. Comp. Vero W. Taylor was then placed in the Chair of First Principal by the retiring M.E.Z. Comp. E. H. Carter, and E. Comps. F. B. Shepherd and Andrew Durrant were respectively invested Scribe E. and Treas. The subject of a Provincial Grand Chapter was then mooted, and, after considerable discussion, it was resolved, with the concurrence of the G. Master of the Province, the Lord Tenterden, K.C.B., to petition for a Grand Chapter. The Comps. afterwards dined together, the Banquet being served in Comp. Sarel's well-known first-class style, the quality of the wines calling forth special commendation. The usual R.A. toasts were duly honoured, and in drinking to the Rulers of R.A. Masonry a hope was expressed that by the time the Festival recurred they should be able to toast the G. Superintendant and Officers of the Provincial Grand Chapter of Essex.

PROVINCIAL GRAND CHAPTER OF DEVON.

AN important meeting was held on Saturday, at the Sincerity Chapter Room, St. George's Hall, Stonehouse. Owing to the long illness and subsequent death of the late P.Grand Superintendent, the Rev. J. Huyshe, there has been no meeting for transaction of business since 10th October 1877. Hence the more than usual interest. The M.E.Z. his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales having been pleased to appoint Excellent Companion the Viscount Ebrington P.G.M., &c., as the Superintendent, his installation was the most prominent feature of the proceedings. It had been arranged that the ceremony should be performed by Companion Shadwell H. Clerke, the Grand S.E. of England, but, from domestic affliction, he was unable to be present, and, at short notice, E. Companion L. P. Metham P.P.G.H. kindly undertook the duty, and it goes without saying that it was carefully and impressively done. The other Companions who took part in the ceremony were—E.C.'s Walter G. Rogers, W. E. Elphingstone-Stone, R. H. Rae, J. Edward Curteis, J. Brewer, George Evans, and Alfred Bodley, who acted as D.C. The Officers appointed for the ensuing year were—E. Comps. W. G. Rogers H., Rev. W. Whittley (who was prevented from attending by severe indisposition) J., J. Brewer 251 S.E., B. T. Hodge 106 S.N., Mark Farrant 112 P.S., W. H. Gillman 1099 1st A.S., J. S. Kersterman 303 2nd A.S., T. Wards How 189 Registrar, H. S. Gill 1125 1st S.B., W. B. Mayo 710 2nd S.B., D. Watson 328 D.C., Webb 288 A.D.C., J. D. Barker 70 Organist, P. Blanchard Jun., John Rogers A.J. The report of the Treasurer was read, showing a balance of about £70 in favour of the province. Comp. W. G. Rogers proposed that the sum of twenty guineas be given to each of the four London Charities and he pointed out that the Province was pledged to support these Charities, from which, through the exertions of Comp. Charles Godtschalk, the Devon candidates had received so many benefits. Companion S. Hyne proposed, as an amendment, that only fifteen guineas be given to the London Charities, and twenty to the Devon Masonic Educational Fund. This was seconded by Companion E. Aitken Davies, and was carried by a large majority. The amounts voted, therefore, are £21 to the Devon Masonic Educational Fund; £15 15s to the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, to be placed on the list of Companion J. E. Curteis as Steward for 1882; £15 15s to the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, £31 10s to the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for Aged Freemasons and Widows (half to each fund), these latter amounts to be placed on the list of Companion Godtschalk as Steward for these Charities. E. Companion J. Edward Curteis was unanimously elected the Treasurer of the province, and E. Companions T. S. Bayly and John Lynn the auditors. The Committee appointed to frame bye-laws for the province were E. Comps. W. G. Rogers, W. Whittley, and J. Brewer, and it was suggested by E. Comp. Gover that these laws should include all that was necessary, and that any resolutions of former Prov. Grand Chapters should be rescinded. Ex. Comp. L. P. Metham then said it was impossible for the P.G. Chapter to close without placing a record on the minutes of the great loss they had sustained by the lamented death of their late P.G. Superintendent, the Rev. J. Huyshe, and their deep sympathy with his relatives.—This was seconded by Lord Ebrington, who also spoke of the high estimation in which Comp. Huyshe had been held amongst all classes from highest to lowest. Letters regretting inability to attend were received from Comp. Admiral F. H. H. Glasse, C.B., and others.—Western Daily Mercury.

The annual meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Lincolnshire will be held on the 20th instant, at Gainsborough, in the Old Hall, at 11 a.m., on the invitation of Yarborough Lodge, No. 422. At noon the brethren will proceed to the site of the proposed new church, "St. John the Divine," where the foundation-stone will be laid, with Masonic honours, by the Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master, W. H. Smyth, Esq., J.P. A banquet will be held at 2 p.m., tickets for which may be obtained of Bro. T. E. Johnson, Secretary 422.

"We have companies for all sorts of things: why do not some philanthropic gentlemen start an association for lending money to embarrassed traders and housekeepers at ten per cent. interest? There are a number of people now getting three per cent. for their money in Consols who would be glad to invest it in an enterprise in which, if properly managed, there would be no risk whatever, and a certainty of earning eight or nine per cent. profit. Properly managed, such an association, worked on a large scale, would be an immense boon to people struggling with temporary difficulties, and would pay a handsome return to those who invested their money in Shares."

SECRETARY AND OFFICERS—T. C. POCOCK, Esq., 18 Abingdon Street, Westminster, S.W.

THE Directors have pleasure in announcing that the work of building is rapidly progressing, the FOUNDATION STONE having been laid by His Majesty OSCAR II. KING of SWEDEN and NORWAY, on the 25th May last, who then, as will be seen from the report on page 327, spoke in the highest terms of Bournemouth.

The whole of the first issue of shares, and part of the second, were allotted at par, prior to the acceptance of the successful tender for building.

In reply to numerous inquiries, the Directors have decided to offer the remainder for subscription at par, for a few days only. Applications at par will be received untill Monday, the 13th June, for town and country.

Any shares issued subsequently will be at a premium.

More than half the present Shareholders are Medical Men, and the Directors feel that this fact, coupled with the support accorded by the Profession generally, doubly assures the prosperity of the Company.

Forms of Application may be obtained at the Offices, 18 Abingdon Street, Westminster. S.W., or from the Bankers.

Application, BY LETTER, will be received, stating the number of Shares required, and enclosing the £1 per Share payable on Application.

Extracts from a large number of Medical Opinions.

"I have observed the best results in the cases of those of my patients, suffering from the most severe forms of disease of the lung, who have resided at Bournemouth . . . The addition of the advantages obtained under the 'Mont Dore' system will be a further attraction."

"I fully approve of the establishment, which when finished, I shall be glad to inspect. I have been in the habit of going to Harrogate every year, and sending my patients there, but the fault of that place is, that the summer season is short—only about four months in the year, the other eight are the best without a resort; therefore I wish your scheme every success."

"I think your scheme a most valuable one, and I feel confident that it will succeed, being started, as I judge from the Directorate, by men who have their names not for personal profit, but from a desire to spread [illegible] means of cure into England, not at present available because of the distance from the Auvergne."

"I regard such an establishment as a great boon to the public, proved as it will be with Baths and other Thermal Remedies. I may add that, owing to the climate of Bournemouth, with its beautiful surroundings, the undertaking cannot fail to be permanently successful."

"I do not thoroughly appreciate the climate of Bournemouth and neighbourhood for it has done me so much good, and I am sure it has been of the greatest benefit to many others. I think the scheme is a good one."

"I think it will supply a want long and very much required, as during my practice (upwards of forty years) several of my patients have sought the benefit of a sojourn in Nice, Cannes, Mentone, Biarritz and other Continental Sanatoria, and although in many instances a temporary residence there proved beneficial, still these were attended with drawbacks. FROM WHICH YOURS WILL BE FREE. the most prominent have been the very sudden changes of temperature between midday and night; prevalence of the 'mistral;' absence of English social and home comforts, distance from relatives, &c., and, in some instances, extravagant expenditure. I do think that your proposed Establishment ought to be a great success, and under Providence the means of prolonging very many valued and valuable lives."

"I express my perfect approval of the scheme as being most desirable, and the spot chosen for the operation could not possibly be a better or more suitable position in every respect. I wish you all success."

"The projected establishment at Bournemouth [an Institution resembling that of 'Mont Dore'] will prove a boon, not only to sufferers by humanity, but to the Medical faculty at large, who will be enabled to avail themselves of the opportunity of a system of treatment for their patients which is nowhere else to be obtained in the United Kingdom.

"Having myself visited the 'Mont Dore' (in Auvergne), I am in a position to express my approval."

SERMONISING IN FREEMASONRY.

WE are afraid there is a great deal said and written about Freemasonry which is fairly entitled to come under the definition of humbug. "Humbug," we know, is a very homely, yet a very expressive phrase; many, indeed, may consider it vulgar. But whatever it may be, or whatever people may be pleased to consider it, there is no doubt as to its existence. Nor is there any sufficient reason for imagining that Freemasonry, being, as it is, an institution that owes its origin to man, enjoys any special immunity from its influences. We hear and see this fact exemplified in the inner life of our Lodges and the pages of Masonic literature. There is no doubt the principles on which our Craft is based are most admirable, that those principles have been most successfully carried out in all ages and countries, and that they are capable of still further development in the future. But nothing is so calculated to mar the beauty of those principles as the attempts which are continually being made to associate every distinguished man that ever lived and every noteworthy event that has ever happened since the world was created with Freemasonry. We have seen it gravely stated that Adam was a Mason, though the native modesty of the writer induced him to refrain from any attempt at solving the knotty question whether our worthy first parent was initiated before or after he took to wearing an apron of figleaves. Noah, the first naval architect—not "arkitect," O waggish reader—of whom we read in history, has been set down as a Mason. The Patriarchs, we believe, are supposed to have been Craftsmen. The two Saints John were G.M.'s, though we have never heard any sufficient reason assigned for the supposition—perhaps the fact of one of them having been decapitated and the other having died in the Isle of Patmos will answer as well as any other reason that might be suggested. Euclid was a learned geometrician, and therefore he must have been a Freemason. Pythagoras, who is said to have been, in reality, the author of the famous forty-seventh proposition of the First Book of Euclid, was also one of us—very probably a Past Master of the Craft, as the figure of the said proposition plays a prominent part in the jewels of our Past Masters. Solomon, St. Alban, and a host of other celebrities of every age and race are claimed as members of our fraternity, the newest addition to the long and honourable list being the great reformer Martin Luther, who has lately been said to have been initiated into our mysteries a short time after he had burnt the Pope's Bull of Excommunication. The most worthy absentee from the roll of worthies is the great Julius Cæsar. We do not remember ever to have seen him described as a Brother by any trustworthy Mason. Perhaps his baldheadedness may have been ruled by the authorities of the Grand Lodge of Rome a sufficient imperfection to disqualify him from participating in the benefits of initiation. Some day this sad omission may be rectified, or perchance, in the lapse of time, some brother, more remarkable for his ambition to be enrolled among our Masonic historians than for the profundity of his wisdom and discretion, may seek to counteract it by the insertion of another distinguished personage, mythical or actual—say, for instance, Jonah or the Last of the Mohicans.

Passing from personages to events, we find the building of the Tower of Babel included as marking one of the earliest epochs in her history, but whether or not the first stone was laid with Masonic ceremonial we have never heard. In fact, we do not see how there could possibly be any evidence on this point, having regard, at least, to the confusion of tongues which history tells us resulted from that extremely ill-advised attempt to erect so vast and lofty a structure. The Temple of Diana at Ephesus, that of Minerva at Athens, the Coliseum at Rome, the Colossus of Rhodes—not the Brothers MacAdam of that ilk—the Pyramids, the leaning tower of Pisa, Strasburg Cathedral—we are mentioning these without regard to anything like chronological order—St. Paul's Cathedral, the Tower of London, the Monument, the Thames Tunnel, the Victoria and Albert Embankments, and the great Midland Railway Hotel at St. Pancras, all these are more or less associated with Freemasonry, or if not, it is high time they should be so associated forthwith. Now we do not doubt the good faith of those writers who have supposed these buildings are illustrative of the benefits conferred on man by Freemasonry. They show undoubtedly, what man has done and is capable of doing in the way of the edification of structures, but they have no connection whatever with the edification of morals, except by what the late Artemus Ward has described as a "circootious route"—a very "circootious route" indeed, and beyond all question. We must exclaim, however, against such a practice, on the ground that it is this association with Masonry of every one who has made a name for himself, and everything that has attracted admiration or created a sensation, which has involved us in so much ridicule. Who is there possessing even a small modicum of sense who must not be consumed with laughter when he hears a grave and reverend citizen, remarkable for almost every virtue that adorns mankind—sobriety included—calmly speaking of Adam and Noah as Grand Masters of Freemasonry, and the building of Babel as a great Masonic event? Happily, we are gradually becoming wiser in our generation, and brethren no longer make themselves conspicuous by such exhibitions of ignorance as we have been describing. Still, there is even now a great deal of what may be called "Sermonising" connected with the Craft. This is a proposition we have been induced to promulgate, after considerable experience, and from a tolerably wide acquaintance with our literature. Perhaps what we are about to say further will convince our readers that the statement is not without some justification. Be it well understood, however, that both in what has gone before and what follows we have no idea of speaking irreverently of any persons who have been mentioned by name. We are merely desirous of showing how Masonry is affected by the absurd lengths to which such writers go when they give way to their imagination.

It is doubtless within the experience of the majority of our readers that of the many orations which are delivered on particular occasions, a very considerable proportion treat of Masonry as a religion. The orators are not content to speak in terms of legitimate praise of the Craft. They quietly ignore the received definition of Masonry, to wit, that it is a system of morality, veiled in allegory, and illustrated by symbols, and describe it unhesitatingly as a kind of religious belief. That our principles have religion for their basis is true enough, but this is something widely different from the proposition so commonly advanced by well-meaning, but somewhat misguided members of the Craft. The beauty of Masonry lies in its absolute neutrality in respect of religions. It lays it down that all who seek admission into its ranks must have some kind of belief in a Supreme Being, but at the same time it strictly prohibits them, when they are assembled for Masonic purposes, from offering any opinions whatever on the respective merits of different religious faiths. Those who seek to associate Freemasonry with Christianity must of necessity offend brethren who are Jews or Mohammedans. They are, therefore, adopting a system of teaching which is entirely repugnant to the instincts of the Craft pure and simple. Masonry is good enough and strong enough to stand by itself without such adventitious aids as so many among us are anxious to render. Here, for instance, is a passage from an article in the Freemason's Repository, which, with all due respect for our estimable contemporary, is more than is called for in an exposition of certain points connected with the Royal Arch.

"The most important part of the breastplate was the twelve precious stones set in four rows, which indicated the twelve tribes of Israel and their order of rank. According to Josephus, as well as what seems to be the evidence of the Holy Writings bearing upon this point, it was these stones which constituted the Urim and Thummin, rather than the two images placed within a pocket under the plate, as has been claimed by some writers. So rich and curious an ornament as the breastplate carries with it the idea of spiritual glory. In the description of the New Jerusalem given in the Apocalypse, we find a glowing passage, which evidently refers to the precious stones in the breastplate. Not to the Jew alone, but also to the Gentile, may this ancient badge signify the light and glory of a grand spiritual exaltation—symbolizing such a moral rebuilding of the 'City of the Great King' as the prophet must have had in mind when, speaking in the Name of the Lord, he said, 'I will lay thy stones with fair colours, and I will lay thy foundations with sapphires, and I will make thy windows of agate, and thy gates of carbuncles, and all thy borders of pleasant stones.' Whoever wears the breastplate may well be affected and instructed by what this priestly ornament suggests, not only as respects its direct reference to the twelve tribes of Israel, but also the significance of 'those oracular gems' as referring to the Divine presence and illumination. Whatever obscurity there may be as to the Urim and Thummim so mysteriously connected with the breastplate of the Jewish priest, there need be no hesitancy in making the ornament as now used a special reminder of the truth that the Infinite One will give light and blessing to those that call upon the Name of the Lord and are obedient to His law."

This is unexceptionable of its kind, and would be most appropriate in a sermon, but we cannot help saying that it is entirely out of place in any Masonic exposition. For the present, as our remarks have run to unusual length, this one illustration must suffice. It serves the purpose of explaining our object in offering these remarks, the completion of which, under the circumstances, we must reserve for another article.

FREEMASONRY IN PENNSYLVANIA.

WE learn from the Keystone that the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania held its regular Quarterly Communication at the Masonic Temple, Philadelphia, on the 1st instant, under the presidency of M.W. Bro. S. B. Dick G.M. There was a large muster of brethren from all parts of the jurisdiction, besides four Past Grand Masters, and several visitors. The Reports of the several Committees were submitted and accepted, that of the Finance Committee being especially satisfactory, as it showed there was a balance in the treasury of Grand Lodge such as had not been known for a considerable number of years, namely, over 38,458 dollars, or not far short of £7,692. The Report of the Special Committee on the proposed Sesqui-Centennial Celebration was submitted by Bro. C. P. MacCalla, and the several resolutions unanimously adopted. We append them for the edification of our readers:

Resolved, That this Committee considers it not only expedient, but eminently advisable and proper, that an appropriate Masonic celebration be held in Philadelphia on St. John's Day, June 24th, A.L. 5882, to commemorate the Sesqui-Centennial of the first Annual Grand Communication of the R.W. Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania, and first election of a Grand Master for this jurisdiction.

Resolved, That the early introduction, rapid growth during the past one hundred and fifty years, and present flourishing condition of the Craft in Pennsylvania, call for special recognition in connection with this event.

Resolved, That the R.W. Grand Master be recommended to appoint a Committee of Twenty-one Brethren, to whom the elective Grand Officers shall be added, to have charge of said celebration, and make all fitting arrangements therefor.

The annual Conclave of the Grand Commandery of Knights Templar of Pennsylvania was opened in Scranton City, Pa., on Wednesday, the 1st instant. The following were elected Grand Officers for the ensuing year, namely, Sir Knights Geo. W. Kendrick jun., E.G. Commander; B. F. Breneman, Dep. G. Commander; C. W. Batchelor, G. Generalissimo; E. G. Martin, G. Captain General; A. V. C. Schenck, G. Prelate; Jos. Alexander jun. G.S.W.; G. S. Graham, G.J.W.; M. Richards Muckle, G. Treasurer; and Chas. E. Meyer, G. Recorder.

GRAND LODGE OF NEW BRUNSWICK.

THE fourteenth annual Communication of the Grand Lodge of New Brunswick, was held in St. John's on the 26th April. There was a fair attendance of Brethren, and the Grand Master, Bro. R. Marshall, presided. According to the report of Grand Secretary Bunting, the number of Masons in the jurisdiction at the close of 1880 was 2,059, or less by 258 than at the corresponding period in 1878. The receipts for the year were over 2,158 dollars, from thirty-four Lodges, while the assets of G. Lodge, according to Grand Treasurer Jas. McNichol jun.'s report, amounted to close on 4,876 dollars. The second and third degrees were "exemplified" during the session by certain Brethren, after which the Rev. D. Macrae, D.D., was elected honorary member of G. Lodge, with the rank of Past Grand Chaplain. A resolution of sympathy with the Grand Lodge of Novia Scotia at the loss it had sustained recently by the death of Bro. Allen H. Crowe, M.W.G.M., and with the family of the deceased, was submitted by the Board of General Purposes and unanimously agreed to, the late Bro. Crowe being described as a Grand Master "who gave years of earnest, zealous, and faithful work to the interests of the Fraternity, and whose amiable and excellent character earned for him the esteem and love, not only of the Freemasons, but of the people of his native province, and of many private friends in New Brunswick." Grand Master Marshall who had presided over the Craft for three years then installed his successor, Bro. Benjamin R. Stevenson, and the latter having been proclaimed and saluted, proceeded to appoint and invest as his Officers the following Brethren among others, namely:—R.W. Henry Duffell Deputy Grand Master; R.W. Henry A. White Sen. Grand Warden; V.W. Rev. S. C. Medley Grand Chaplain; V.W. James McNichol jun. Grand Treasurer; V.W. William F. Bunting Grand Secretary; W. William A. Park Senior Grand Deacon; W. David F. Merritt Junior Grand Deacon; W. Freeman W. Wisdom Grand Director of Ceremonies; W. William H. B. Sadlier Assistant Grand Director of Ceremonies; W. George Ackman Grand Sword Bearer; W. George F. De Vine Grand Organist; W. James Adam Grand Pursuivant; Dingee Scribner Grand Tyler. The Board of General Purposes and the several Committees having been appointed, Grand Lodge was closed in ample form and the Brethren separated. We are indebted for the foregoing particulars, which furnish a very interesting account of the Brethren in New Brunswick, to an American contemporary hailing from Boston, Massachusetts.

THE JURISDICTION QUESTION.

THE Craft in England has but a very limited experience in connection with the knotty questions which sometimes arise in respect of the jurisdiction of other Grand Lodges. It would never occur to our Masonic authorities to enter into arguments well nigh interminable as to whether a Lodge located in this or that Province owes allegiance to this or that Prov. G. Lodge or directly to our Grand Lodge. In the case of our Colonies no difficulty ever seems to arise on this question, though as neutral ground they are occupied by English, Irish and Scotch folk indifferently, and it is permissible, therefore, for Masonic Lodges to be established in them which are affiliated to the Grand Lodges of either of those countries. It is only in quite a recent number that we published an account of the consecration of a building to Masonic purposes in one of the British Colonies, in which the local English, Irish, and Scotch Grand Masters shared the honourable labours of the day among them. There was no feeling of jealousy exhibited by either towards his worthy colleagues, but on the contrary the representatives of the three jurisdictions set an example of harmonious collaboration, which was in the highest degree creditable to them and necessarily reflects a proportionate degree of credit upon the Craft in the United Kingdom. Difficulties of course must in the order of things occasionally arise, as was recently the case as between the Grand Lodges of Scotland and Quebec, a difference, by the way, which we rejoice to say, has passed away without leaving behind it any degree or kind of ill-feeling. But strange to say, in the United States, where almost every state or territory has its own independent Grand Lodge, a very considerable amount of jealousy is exhibited, whenever a question of jurisdiction is raised. This, after all, is not so very surprising when we bear in mind the amazing progress which is being made in populating new districts. To us who live in the old country, the rapidity with which a region, almost entirely uninhabited except by a sparse population of so-called Indians, is converted into a territory, and the territory is promoted to the rank of a state, is well nigh inconceivable. Of course, where the white man penetrates, there be quickly establishes something in the shape of a Masonic Lodge, and as in respect of Masonic jurisdiction, the newly occupied country is, as it were, a kind of "No man's land," in which it is lawful for any of the numerous independent Grand Lodges in the States to establish an offshoot—just as in New Zealand or South Africa it is open to the Grand Lodges of England, Scotland or Ireland to establish daughter Lodges—it is not surprising there should very speedily rise up in such newly occupied country several Masons' Lodges, but owing allegiance to different Grand Lodges. In time, as we have said, this new district becomes a territory, and, later on, it rises to the dignity of a State. Masonry has, in all probability, made corresponding progress, and the question of erecting an independent Grand Lodge at once appears on the carpet. In the ordinary course, the majority of the Lodges, no matter to whom they may previously have paid allegiance, recognise fully the propriety of combining together and constituting themselves an independent Grand Lodge. They meet, the severance of each Lodge from its parent Lodge is effected, and forthwith a new Grand Lodge is added to the roll of independent Masonic sovereignties. Sometimes, however, it happens—as it has happened with the daughter Lodges of England and Scotland—that a Lodge deliberately prefers remaining under the ægis of the body to which it owes its constitution, and it has been the invariable rule with us, in recognising the independence of the newly born Grand Lodge, to claim for any Lodges which may prefer such a course the right to remain under our banner. Thus there are the Grand Lodges of Canada and Quebec, but within the jurisdiction of those Grand Bodies are Lodges which have deliberately preferred to remain in their old allegiance to the Grand Lodge of England or Scotland, as the case may be. It is a recognised law that neither England nor Scotland shall issue warrants for new Lodges within the aforesaid or other similarly circumstanced jurisdictions; but the Lodges which prefer remaining as they were retain all their privileges and may accept new members, &c. This is so reasonable a view to take under the circumstances that we cannot refrain from commending it to the notice of the Grand Lodges of Missouri and New Mexico, who just now seem to be at daggers drawn over a somewhat similar case of this "Jurisdiction Question."

The Grand Lodge of Indiana did not meet, as under ordinary circumstances it would have done, on the fourth Monday in May this year. Instead of so doing, however, the Grand Treasurer, Grand Secretary, and Trustees of Grand Lodge, in accordance with an instruction passed by Grand Lodge at its annual Communication in 1880, submitted their reports to the Grand Master on the 24th ult. The accounts show a statement of receipts, including a balance brought forward from last year of over 15,202 dollars, amounting to a little in excess of 44,273 dollars, while the disbursements were over 41,864 dollars, leaving a balance in Grand Treasurer's hands of not far short of 2,409 dollars. The report of the Trustees showed that the Grand Lodge debt, which on 25th May 1880 stood at 94,333.34 dollars, had by payments during the year been reduced to 75,000 dollars, and the reduction would have been greater still, had all the Lodges met the requirements of the law, and paid their annual dues to the Grand Lodge at the time provided by law for their payment. But we are sorry to say there is nearly four thousand dollars outstanding on dues of 1880, notwithstanding the fact that the Worshipful Masters of the Lodges delinquent, whose duty it is to see that the dues are paid, have been requested to have the amounts due from their several Lodges forwarded to the Grand Secretary. We indulge in the hope that the Masters of the Lodges so delinquent will on receipt of this report promptly attend to this most important matter.

The Voice of Masonry considers our London contemporary is "obtuse," because it is unable to comprehend what the public installation of officers is. We sympathise with our contemporary, and must fain plead guilty to the soft impeachment of sharing its obtuseness. There is manifestly a vast difference between Freemasonry as it is understood in some of the States of the American Union and as it is understood here. In the former publicity would seem to be courted on every possible occasion and of every imaginable kind. Here the Fraternity jogs along the even tenour of its way as quietly and unostentatiously as possible. The ever memorable installation of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, M.W.G. Master, is a case in point. Though some 8,000 to 10,000 brethren flocked from all parts of England to the Royal Albert Hall, South Kensington, in order to be present at that magnificent ceremony, the outside world saw absolutely nothing of the insignia of Masonry. All the crowds that congregated in the vicinity of the building during the hour or two that preceded the arrival of the Prince could do was to surmise that the unusual number of gentlemen, dressed in quiet evening or quasi-evening costume, who were making their way to the Hall in every conceivable kind of vehicle or on foot, were the members of the Craft. In some of the States of America we occasionally hear of there would probably have been a grand procession, and every member of it would have arrayed himself gorgeously in apron, sash, and jewellery. There would have been bands of music and, not improbably, carriages for the conveyance of the Grand Officers. Here a Masonic procession in public is an event of the very rarest occurrence, as may be judged from the fact that the number of occasions since April 1875 on which G. Lodge has taken part in any public ceremonial—as, for instance, when the Prince of Wales laid the foundation stones of Truro Cathedral—might be reckoned on the fingers of one hand. The English Masonic press may be so quite too awfully obtuse as to know very little about the public processions of brethren in England, and absolutely nothing about the public installation of the Officers of Masonic Lodges. Nevertheless, it is a point with which the English Craft and its representative organs have every reason to be satisfied, for the very obvious reason that publicity in respect of any sort or kind of Lodge work is inconsistent with the spirit and genius of Freemasonry.

From a letter, signed "Anti-Cant" in the April number of the Canadian Craftsman, it seems that according to the statistics of the Grand Lodge of Quebec, the net loss of membership during the past year was 109, the number of initiations, &c., being 212, against withdrawals, deaths, and suspensions 321. The present membership is 2400.

According to the Australian Freemason, the Dist. G. Treasurer Bro. A. Rofe, of the Dist. G. Lodge of Australia, under the Scottish Constitutions, has given notice that at the next Quarterly Communication he will submit the following motion, namely, "That no brother below the rank of R.W. Master or Past Master shall be allowed to confer any of the established degrees of Freemasonry upon candidates."

Bro. Geo. H. West, Secretary of the Masonic Mutual Benefit Society of Indiana, states, in a letter to the Masonic Advocate of Indianopolis, that, including the benefits paid since last Communication, the Society from the period of its organisation has paid away no less than two millions, ninety-four thousand, two hundred and four dollars, and ninety-nine cents, that is, upwards of £418,800.

On the 22nd instant and two following days there is to be a celebration in Louisville, Kentucky, in aid of the funds of the Masonic Widows' and Orphans' Home. This celebration is to consist of a Templar parade, with competitive drills of Military Companies and Templar Commanderies. Prizes of the value of 1,000 dollars, 500 dollars, and 250 dollars respectively will be offered.

LORD CHARLES BERESFORD AT HOME.

(From the WORLD.)

BULLDOGS—that is to say, a brace of grand preserved heads of that peculiar breed nurtured by "Charley" Beresford—look askant at the visitors as he enters that pleasantest of houses situate and being No. 100 Eaton-square; but the aspect of these noble animals is all that he meets with of repellent in the cosy abode that the care of his wife has fashioned for the typical sailor of his family. Lord Charles himself is discovered in a morning-room furnished with that taste which pervades the entire establishment. It is not an æsthetic house. There is no pretension to artistic display, although real artistic feeling is displayed in every nook and corner of it. Huge Japanese bronzes face the master as he sits at his desk busied with matters Masonic,— for it is no secret that he is the Worshipful Master of the Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar Lodge. Lord Charles is an enthusiast in Freemasonry as in other things. He is no half-hearted brother, but a genuine worker in the Craft. He loves Freemasonry, "because, like hunting, it brings classes together." He is above all things, except his duty as a good officer, a popular man. He is a member of a family having prescriptive right to do things forbidden to other men—to say anything they like, to get into scrapes and fall out of them and upon their feet at last.

Lord Charles Beresford, although a young man, is qualified to account himself an old sailor, for he can reckon to his credit twenty-one years of service, nearly the whole of which has been spent afloat. It was in his early youth thought well to keep him always at sea. He had given a taste of his quality at old Mr. Reynean's school at Bayford, where he was the leading spirit of the young sprouts of aristocracy, among whom figured Lord Rosebery, Lord George Hamilton, Lord Worcester, Lord Newport, with Lord Waterford, and Lords William and Marcus Beresford, his brothers. From Bayford Lord Charles went to Stubbington, under the care of that eminent private tutor, Mr. Foster. In 1859, being then thirteen years old, he went to sea, and until his marriage lived entirely in and for the Service. He has been round the world again and again, has visited all the English possessions, and has sailed every sea except the Black Sea. On the wall of his morning-room hangs a chart showing his chief cruises, with the course actually followed from noon to noon each day by the Galatea, the Tribune, the Clio, the Sutlej, and the Serapis on the Prince of Wales's voyage to India, as well as his track ashore during that memorable visit. Little "Charley" Beresford came first under the command of Sir Housten Stewart in H.M.S. Marlborough, one of the "auxiliary" screw ships of the line. On board of the Marlborough and other of the Queen's ships he learned all the mysteries of "seamanship." He took kindly to the instruction readily vouchsafed to a willing pupil, and, thanks to his education afloat, is at this moment, perhaps, the handiest gentleman in London. Like the Whitehead torpedo, which he described in the House of Commons as being able to do everything but talk, it is difficult to set him a task beyond his powers. Breaking a horse and building a house are not twin occupations, but Lord Charles is at home in either. He can, of, course, build a boat, and as the greater includes the less, turn out a very creditable table or chair. He can sew exceedingly well, and is a dead hand at cutting out a "jumper" or a pair of trowers seamless on the outer side. With all the good-nature imaginable, he is ever ready to demonstrate the true principles on which a "jumper" or short working jacket should be constructed. With a sheet of paper or a pocket-handkerchief he shows every step by which the square piece of canvas or flannel grows into shape. He is also a turner, and has a regular workshop fitted up on the ground-floor of his house, as well as attending when ashore the Society of Ornamental Turners, who meet in the Adelphi.

From the Marlborough the young sailor cruised in the Defence ironclad, under Captain Phillimore, and the Clio, Captain Turner, and the Tribune, picking up his seamanship as he went, for he never was in a sailing-ship proper in his life. From Lord Gilford's ship he was transferred to the Sutlej, thence to the Research, under Captain Morrell, and again to the Royal yacht Victoria and Albert, commanded by Prince Leiningen. Then came the second cruise of the Galatea with the Duke of Edinburgh, a total run of 66,000 miles round the world, every detail of which can be easily followed on Lord Charles Beresford's chart. Then he was commander on the Goshawk, flag-lieutenant to that most kindly and delightful of good old salts, Sir Harry Keppel; and in the West Indies on board the Bellerophon with Captain Wells. After these various cruises six months on half-pay came not amiss, and the Indian trip in the Serapis as naval aide-de-camp to the Prince of Wales as a most agreeable diversion, however it may have been appreciated by Sir Bartle Frere and Canon Duckworth. Active service was resumed as commander of the famous ironclad Thunderer, under Captain Wilson. Then came more half-pay, a happy marriage, and the command of the Royal yacht Osborne.

Few of the Prince of Wales's friends have received more frequent and graceful tokens of his favour than Lord Charles Beresford. "The Prince is too generous," he will say; "he is always giving me things." The handsome clock on the dining-room mantelpiece, and another on board the Osborne, are gifts of the Prince; and when Lord Charles married the beautiful Miss Gardner the Princess of Wales gave him a superb gold tankard, and the bride the appropriate gift of a set of golden spoons of rare workmanship. The last-named treasures are in places of honour in the charmingly original drawing-room. There are, just now that the rage for decorative skill is at its height, maugre Mr. Du Maurier, Mr. Burnand, and Mr. Gilbert, many drawing-rooms in England remarkable for artistic feeling. They are Queen Anne, or Renaissance, or Oriental in style, as the taste of the châtelaine or the balance at her banker's may decide; but for quaint originality and prettiness none can compare with that of Lady Charles Beresford. It is a region of palms and Japanese umbrellas, in which one is always round the corner. Here is a veiled statue by Belzoni, there a bust of the master by Taylor, and of Lady Charles by Count Gleichen. Curious old silver lies scattered about, and among other curios is the jadestone bracelet worn by 'Tom Fat' until that fraudulent 'heathen Chinee' was detected. In the dim, but not severely religious, light of the hinder limb of this luxurious apartment one plumps upon blackamoors holding gigantic fans and screens, on inviting sofas draped in rich Moorish stuff, on tall Oriental vases and tid-bits of Dresden and Chelsea, on soothing settees and nooks which invite flirtation, on the brass of Benares and the filigree-work of Kashmir. In the evening the effect is delightful in its cunning carelessness and graceful oddity. The crowning charm of this wonderful drawing-room is that it never looks as though it were arranged. By day sofas and settees, armchairs and lounges, suggest that somebody who is very careless, very much in love, and very indifferent to the shins of elderly and purblind people who ought to be dead, has just got up and gone out. By night the rich stuffs from India, Mauritania, and Turkey are thrown into contrast with bright toilettes, among which that of the hostess is sure not to be lacking in taste and originality. Even in morning costume, so much more narrow in its margin than full dress, Lady Charles Beresford can find originality and richness. Without appearing in the least overdressed, she can go out at noon in a frock apparently made of molten gold.

Lady Charles is a skilled artist in making her home pretty, and never imagined a better thing than that balcony or verandah from which one looks over Eaton-square with arms comfortably imbedded and incushioned in the protective padding, thoughtfully placed on the balustrade. This outside drawing-room is useful for smokers, and after dinner it is the scene of many a merry gossip. For the hostess, who is not only imaginative, but conscientious, makes her guests very happy. What is astonishing is, that she is not happy herself—in one particular! Having designed with her own hand, painted, decorated, and arranged everything in the prettiest of all possible houses, she, like a new Alexander, languishes for other worlds to conquer—for other drawing-rooms to decorate. It is all done at No. 100 Eaton-square, and the artistic mind sighs over the fair fabric of exhausted achievement. It is not the possession of a beautiful home which affords pleasure. It is the organisation of it, the intellectual activity involved in its arrangement.

The master of the house, fond as he is of the pretty drawing-room, is, as becomes a host of his genial nature, nearly as much interested in his dining-room. His dining table is fearfully and wonderfully organised. Years ago there used to be gruesome combinations of silver and glass, which simulated a river or lake in the midst of a dinner table, with frosted silver swans and sham water lilies. They were a great success, as such ghastly shams usually are; and they died and passed away, were melted, and went with gold and silver and the like. Lord Charles Beresford, who has no love for the Unverocities, has the real thing—a genuine tank table or dinner table, the whole middle of which is occupied by a lake containing several rocky islands, and a quantity of gold and silver fish. Around the lake are broad banks of dark green lycopodium. From the islands spring ferns and palms and innumerable fountains and jets of water. There is just enough table surface left for the plates and wine glasses of the guests, the remainder being given up to miniature landscape gardening of the most tasteful kind. The grandes eaux are only turned on when the dinner party exceeds six in number. At other times dinner is served in a charming room on a level with the drawing-room, and one of the most seductive snuggeries, with its painted ceilings, stained glass windows and doors, and doorposts, window-sills, and all angular bodies covered with rich silk-plush of a dark fawn colour. On the staircase hang the portraits of all the ships in which Lord Charles Beresford has served, and some assegais and knobkerries brought home the other day by Lord William Beresford from Ulundi with the Victoria Cross so gallantly won. Beyond the ships lurks, if an object of such gigantic size can be said to lurk, an instrument which is viewed by various guests with mixed feelings. It is of the organ species, and is played during dinner as an accompaniment to the lights, the fountains and the gold fish, not to speak of the ancient music of knife and fork, and the still more delightful murmur of laughter rippling from red lips. The master is greatly attached to this organ-like construction, and, indeed, to music of any kind, from a penny whistle, on which he is a skilful performer, to a violin.

Most compact and convenient of town houses, from the portrait of Lord Marcus which hangs in the dressing-room aloft to the bulldogs' heads in the hall, No. 100 Eaton-square has also capital stables, containing a four-in-hand team of "tits" who "will spank" if they get the opportunity, the Snip and other carriage horses as well-known in Paris as in London, a smart pony or two, and some clever hunters. In fact, the hunters have to take their turn at the drag in a manner not common to that pampered class of animal. But Lord Charles Beresford, who knows a horse nearly as well as he does a ship, takes great pleasure in hunting his roadsters or driving his hunters, as the reader pleases. As becomes a thorough sailor, he likes an animal to be good "all round," as a man ought to be, a condition which Lord Charles himself certainly fulfils.

We have pleasure in announcing that the usual Summer Entertainment to the inmates of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, at Croydon, will take place on Wednesday next, on which occasion we hope a pleasant afternoon will be spent, both by the Old Folks and their visitors. As usual Bro. Terry, the Secretary of the Institution, has made every arrangement for the comfort of those concerned, and we feel sure it will not be his fault if all does not go well.

We are informed that the Consecration of the Shadwell Clerke Lodge, No. 1910, is again unavoidably postponed.

SUBURBAN LODGE, No. 1702.

THE Installation Meeting of this Lodge was held on Friday, 10th June, at the Abercorn Arms Hotel, Great Stanmore, and as usual on these annual occasions, attracted a large assemblage of visitors. The beautiful locality in which the Lodge is situate, with an enterprising and agreeable host, and brethren influenced only by the true principles of Freemasonry, left nothing to be desired. Bro. Radford, the W.M., presided, supported by his Officers, who were all in their proper places, and by the following array of Visitors:—Bros. H. C. Levander G.J.D. Provincial Grand Secretary Middlesex, P. Dickinson P.M. 1298, T. Vincent W.M. 1861, F. Eckstein W.M. 1196, R. Gifford D.C. 780, W. J. Foster P.M. 19, T. Dubois 142 P.P.G.W. Middlesex, H. G. Gush J.W. 1541, A. Buck J.W. 453, J. J. Bell W.M. 1178, H. T. Bailey 1711, E. C. Garnham 27, F. Turner 534, R. Larchin 1541, C. C. Lockitt 1421, H. J. Dutton 1702, J. W. Hanson 1706, H. Thompson P.M. 177 1158 1426, W. W. King 13, P. Balmo 1804, W. S. Whitaker P.M. 1572, George Kenning P.M. 1677, Nelson Read W.M. 1572, R. G. Webster P.M. 569, W. C. Maddever P.M. 504, E. C. Massey P.M. 1297, H. W. Ruff P.M. 95, E. C. B. Kidder S.W. 12, Mark Hubbard 22, George Watts P.M. 194, R. H. Pearson P.M. 1198, G. E. Miele 1196, Howard Ruff 95. The Lodge having been opened, and the usual preliminaries gone through, the following candidates were successively introduced and initiated into the mysteries of Freemasonry, viz., Mr. John Martin Draper, Mr. Nicholas Lawrence Tindell, and Mr. William John Child Rea. The W.M. then resigned the chair, which was taken by Bro. Tickle P.M. and Treasurer, and Bro. Buck S.W. and W.M. elect was presented to receive at his hands the benefit of installation. A Board of Installed Masters was formed, and Bro. Buck was duly installed into the chair of K.S. as W.M. for the ensuing year. He appointed his Officers as follow:—Bros. W. Radford I.P.M., J. F. Hepburn S.W., C. S. Buck J.W., J. Tickle Treasurer, C. Hawksley Secretary, G. H. Carter S.D., W. R. Strutt J.D., J. L. Roberts I.G., E. C. Kilsby W.S., C. Winstanley Steward. The W.M. said he had to inform the brethren that Bro. Tickle, whom he was glad to see once more among them, after his severe illness, had presented the Lodge with a beautiful Volume of the Sacred Law, which lay before them, and he moved that the thanks of the Lodge be given to Bro. Tickle for his appropriate gift, and that the vote be entered on the minutes. Bro. Roberts P.M. seconded the motion, which was put and unanimously agreed to. Some other business was disposed of, and Lodge was closed in due form. The brethren adjourned to a banquet, which reflected great credit on Bro. Veal, the worthy host of the Abercorn Hotel. The usual toasts were given, and a very pleasant evening was spent, which was enlivened by some excellent songs, by Bro. Hanson, of 1702, and other brethren. The Tyler's toast brought a most agreeable meeting to a close.

Tredegar Lodge, No. 1625.—The closing meeting of the season was held at Bro. A. Yates's, the Royal Hotel, Mile-end-road, E., on the 13th inst. Lodge was opened by Bro. C. Kendall W.M., with rather a scanty attendance—the brethren, however, mustering in goodly numbers later on. Bro. Kendall was assisted by Bros. J. Maud S.W., H. W. Clarke J.W., E. G. Anning P.M. Treasurer, R. T. Sly P.M. Secretary, C. Lacey P.M., A. Deason S.D., H. Coningham D.C., W. H. Hubbert I.G., G. W. Verry I.P.M., Huggett P.M.; also Bros. C. Henery, G. F. Thomas, W. Goddard, S. Warren, R. E. Jones, J. J. Berry P.M., J. Walker, G. Brooks, &c. Amongst the Visitors were Bros. S. Jenkins Jubilee 72, J. Taylor J.D. Yarborough 554, T. Loane W.S. and A. Furness Langthorne 1421, B. Hart Fidelity 3, A. S. Judd 1421, G. H. Stephens J.D. 1623, C. Brown Osborn 1804, &c. The minutes having been read and confirmed, Lodge was advanced, and Bro. R. E. Jones, who had attained the second degree, was tested as to his proficiency, and was entrusted. Lodge further advanced, and that Bro. was admitted to the degree of Master Mason. The ballot was taken for the admission of Mr. W. H. Stone, and was favourable. That gentleman was accordingly admitted to the mysteries of the Order, the W.M., who worked carefully, being assisted by a Visitor, J. Taylor J.D. 554, who acted as Deacon. After the transaction of several matters of interest, Lodge was closed and adjourned over the recess. The next regular meeting is to take place in September next, when we trust Bro. Kendall will continue to enjoy a continuance of the prosperity which has characterised the early portion of his year of office. After a long and tedious wait, the brethren, numbering nearly forty, sat down to a well-supplied supper, Bro. Yates giving his personal superintendence to the serving. After grace, Bro. C. Kendall, remarking upon the lateness of the hour and the great heat, gave the combined toast, Loyalty to the Throne and Prosperity to the Craft and its Rulers. Bro. Sly acting I.P.M. gave the toast of the W.M., which was cordially received, and after a humorous ditty from Bro. Henery, the W.M. returned thanks for the kind manner his toast had been honoured. He had endeavoured to discharge his duties as well as possible, and hoped when his term of office had expired to be spared many years to render any service the Lodge might require. The health of the Past Masters was next drank, and briefly responded to by Bros. C. Lacey and Huggett. In toasting the initiate Bro. W. H. Stone, the W.M. said they were very glad to see new blood, as they were also glad to have old faces among them, and he asked the brethren to tender their newly-initiated brother a hearty welcome. Bro. Berry here sang the "Entered Apprentice Song." Bro. Stone, in returning thanks, said he was very thankful for the manner in which he had been received, and hoped in time to become a good working brother among them—a sentiment which was heartily received. After a capital song ("Bell Ringer," by Wallace) from Bro. A. S. Judd, the W.M. toasted the Visitors, and the brethren of the Lodge accorded the toast a warm reception. Bro. Loane, W.S. 1421, thanked the W.M. and the brethren for proposing, and so heartily coupling his name with that of the Visitors. It was not the first time he had been amongst them; he always felt much pleasure in meeting among the members many dear and old friends. Bros. Judd, Warren and Brown also responded. There was, the W.M. said, another very pleasing toast to introduce. A Treasurer and Secretary no Lodge could do without, and they were fortunate in having very good brethren to discharge those important offices. Bro. E. G. Anning P.M. Treasurer said, on a former occasion the brethren had been pleased to pay him a high honour by electing him to be their W.M. They had been pleased since to confer a higher honour upon him in electing him as their Treasurer, the duties of which office he would endeavour to discharge to their satisfaction and to the interest of the Lodge. Bro. Anning further alluded to the arrangement he had agreed to in reference to paying off the Founder's fees. Bro. R. T. Sly sen. said the Secretary of any Institution should be the life and soul of it, and, as he had endeavoured, should perform his duties conscientiously. The Secretary, as a rule, had often to be a buffer—"This brother could not owe what the Secretary charged," &c., still he hoped the same good feeling which had hitherto existed would always continue between them. The Officers were next toasted, and Bros. W. H. Hubbert and Coningham responded. The latter brother's remarks caused considerable merriment. The Tyler's toast was given, and the brethren separated in good time, in peace and harmony.

ROYAL ARCH.

De Sussex Chapter, No. 406.—The regular convocation of this Chapter was held on Friday, the 10th inst., at the Masonic Hall, Maple-street, Newcastle-on-Tyne. There were present Comps. R. L. Armstrong M.E.Z., Dr. Luke Armstrong H., G. Cockburn J., Ralph Carr S.E., R. G. Salmon N., S. M. Harris P.S., G. S. Sims Janitor; P.Z.'s T. J. Armstrong, John Ridsdale, and Hotham Treas. The Visitors were Comps. John Wood H. 48, and R. Simons 481, &c. Chapter having been opened in solemn form, the minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. The ballot was then taken for five brethren, and in each case it proved successful. Bros. John Page, William Mure Lion, and Tate, being in attendance, were exalted into R.A. Masonry by the M.E.Z., the ceremony being worked by the Principals and Officers in a most perfect manner. The sum of £10 10s was unanimously voted to the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls. The M.E.Z. announced, with much sorrow, the death of the P.G. Superintendent, L. M. Cockcroft, and it was agreed that a letter of condolence be sent to his widow and family; also that the Chapter should go into mourning for three months. Other routine business having been gone through, the Chapter was closed with prayer, and the Companions adjourned to refreshment.

THE Best STYLE OF WINDOW GARDENING.—It cannot be said that Great Queen-street, Holborn, though from its long association with English Freemasonry—of which, indeed, it is the very centre—it will commend itself to the respect of all Freemasons, is a lively thoroughfare. For so small a street it has a very considerable traffic, and the block of buildings comprising Freemasons' Hall, Freemasons' Tavern, and Bacon's Hotel, if not very imposing, is nevertheless solid and substantial, as becomes the edifice that comprises the Headquarters of the Masonic Craft in England. But in spite of the undoubted respectability of its appearance, our Hall is somewhat dingy. No one, we should think, is likely to disobey the injunction, "Audi, Vide, Tace," inscribed over its entrance, for no one, we imagine, would ever be so rash as to boast of having seen its exterior; while, if we may judge from the lamps that are placed on either side of the porch, and the light they occasionally emit, we are greatly afraid the public will be led to form a poor idea of the "Light" that is acquired through a knowledge of Freemasonry, or the verity of two of our boasted attributes of "Wisdom, Strength, and Beauty." Be this as it may, however, the Hall is not an attractive building, except, perhaps, by comparison with the shops which line the two sides of the street. But the Tavern, on the contrary, is quite a lively looking structure, and it requires no great stretch of the imagination to suppose one may enjoy a good breakfast or dinner within its hospitable portals. And now that it has put on its summer garb, it is quite refreshing to spend an odd moment or two in admiring it under its latest—and shall we be held guilty of exaggeration if we add its Best?—aspect. Window gardening is one of the newest and most pleasant features of modern London, and here at Freemasons' Tavern for the last few days we have seen it in its newest development. There would undoubtedly be a better than this Best development, were there a few darker hues of colour mingled with the light and brilliant yellows and greens, &c., &c. A little more scarlet here and there, and some dark purple in the background, would give a richer appearance to these floral decorations, but this, after all, is merely a matter of taste. But, background or no background, we repeat that Freemasons' Tavern in its summer habiliments looks more than ever like a "gay and festive cuss" of a structure that, for the greater part of the year is mainly, if not entirely, devoted to feasting and merriment. No doubt the Editor of our contemporary, which a few weeks back migrated to Great Queen-street, and is situated almost exactly opposite the friendly hostelry of Bro. Best, will derive additional inspiration for his articles from the frequent glimpses he must obtain of the Tavern windows. By the way, the cowl which surmounts Freemasons' Hall is in severe contrast with Bro. Best's window gardens, and only needs a slight addition to be easily mistaken for a relic of old Tyburn in a state of extreme agitation.

FRANCE AND TUNIS.

France and Tunis. London: F. Chifferiel & Co., 31 to 37 Cursitor-street, and 38 Chancery-lane. 1881. Price Sixpence.

The Tunisian Question and Biserta. By Montague J. Guest, Esq., M.P. Illustrated with Maps and Lithographic Views by Vice-Admiral T. Spratt. London: F. Chifferiel & Co. Price One Shilling.

THE new relations between France and Tunis form part of a somewhat complicated political question, and it is very properly a law absolute among Freemasons, who are men of every shade of politics, as they are men of every kind of religion and of all nationalities, that political questions as such must not be discussed in our Lodges. It follows reasonably that, in the consideration of all such questions, it is the duty of a Masonic journal to observe the strictest neutrality. Still there is nothing, in this view of our duty, to prevent us saying that a book or pamphlet, albeit it may treat of matters political, contains, nevertheless, a considerable amount of such information as is calculated to throw light on the subject dealt with. This is undoubtedly the case with the pamphlet "France and Tunis," and the still more elaborate narrative by Brother Montague Guest, M.P. Both of them throw light on what is known as the Franco-Tunisian Question, while Bro. Guest's narrative enjoys the further advantage of being capitally illustrated by maps and lithographic views. To all who take an interest in the matter we can unhesitatingly commend the works under notice.

The following excerpt from the first-quoted pamphlet is well worth reading, and as it is merely descriptive there is no harm in quoting it; no departure from the well-known Masonic rule as to abstinence from politics, to which we have already referred, being involved:—

It is now more than a thousand years that Tunis has been subject to Moslem rule. Although Charles V. succeeded in establishing a Spanish protectorate in 1535, the European influence thus imposed was of a very brief duration. When the famous Kheiradine Pasha retook Tunis, he formally asserted the Sultan of Turkey's direct authority over the Tunisian Regency. The Beys were, from that time (and we have no concern whatever with any more remote period of Tunisian history) elected by the Imperial Divan and the Turkish Militia. The name of the Bey thus elected was at once submitted to the Sultan, who generally sent a commissioner with an Imperial rescript to perform the ceremony of investiture, and on this being completed the Bey obtained the title of Vezir (now changed to Mushir) as well as the rank and dignity of a Pasha.

About 160 years ago, Hussein Aly, a native of Crete, and Agha of the Turkish Militia, was elected Bey, and from that time to the present day, his descendants have been successively elected by the ulemas (members of the religious corporations) and the people, and proclaimed in the Great Mosque. The above mentioned procedure, as to confirmation and investiture by the Sultan, has been always scrupulously adhered to, and the present Bey, Muhamed Sadik, was so elected and invested in pursuance of ancient usage and custom. An Arab insurrection in 1869 rendered it advisable to place the relations existing between the Bey of Tunis and his suzerain, the Sublime Ottoman Porte, on the clearest possible basis, and it had no sooner terminated then the Bey sent General Kheiradine to Constantinople for that purpose, as well as to return thanks for the assistance given by the Turkish troops in quelling the revolt The Tunisian emissary obtained a Vizirial letter confirming the political status of the Regency, and declaring that His Majesty the Sultan accorded the right of hereditary succession to the Husseinite family on certain clearly specified conditions.

British Decorations. From the year 1348 to the present time, together with those given by allies. By Fred. Brine, Col. R.E. Sixth Edition. Showing the Afghan and South African War Ribbons. London: Edward Stanford, 55 Charing Cross, S.W., and Arthur Ackermann, 191 Regent-street, W.

The compilation of this chart of British Decorations reflects the greatest credit on Bro. Col. Brine, who, albeit the publication will appear so simple a matter, must have devoted much time and trouble in the collection of the materials. The ribbons of the different orders and medals are exact facsimiles of those worn by the fortunate recipients. The dates when founded, and the special services for which they were awarded, are likewise given, so that within the compass of a single sheet of paper, or card of moderate size, may be seen, at a glance, the orders and decorations which have been instituted or awarded from the days of the third Edward down to last year, when the Zulu and Afghan campaigns were brought to a satisfactory termination. The price, too, is another feature to be commended, a copy on paper being only two shillings, or on card half-a-crown.

Exhibition of Designs and Pictures for Christmas and New Year Cards.

It goes without saying that everything that tends to elevate the public taste in matters artistic is worth encouraging, and there can be no doubt that if this Exhibition of Designs and Pictures suitable for Christmas and New Year Cards is carried out in the manner contemplated by its promoters, Messrs. Hildesheimer and Faulkner, of 41 Jewin-street, E.C., it must have the effect of raising the tone and character of what is at present rather a branch of trade than what it undoubtedly should be—a branch of art. These gentlemen, in order to make this exhibition a success, have arranged to give prizes to the extent of three thousand five hundred pounds, to be awarded according to a graduated scale, to the best hundred sets of original Designs and Pictures for Christmas and New Year Cards. The following, which will be awarded by the judges, Messrs. W. P. Frith, R.A., J. E. Millais, R.A., and Marcus Stone, A.R.A., are the more important, namely:—One prize of two hundred pounds, one of one hundred and fifty pounds, two of one hundred pounds each, six of seventy-five pounds each, and twenty of fifty pounds each. These together make up £2000, and in addition will be given away twenty prizes of twenty-five pounds each, and fifty of twenty pounds each. It is confidently expected, however, that the number and character of designs sent in will be such as to enable them to give a number of commissions and make purchases to the extent of at least £1500, in which case, of course, the amount of Messrs. Hildesheimer and Faulkner's venture will be £5000. The Exhibition will take place at the Gallery of the Society of British Artists, Suffolk-street, Pall Mall East, and will be open to the public from the 8th to the 27th August, both days inclusive. All designs and pictures must be sent in on Tuesday, 26th July, between the hours of 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. For full particulars as to the conditions of competition, application should be made forthwith to Messrs. Hildesheimer and Faulkner. We may mention, however, that a set of designs may consist of "two, three, four, or six compositions, all of which must be of one size, and in keeping with each other in style and mode of treatment." The designs themselves may consist of Figures, Humorous Subjects, Landscapes, Animals, Birds, Flowers, Ornaments, Forms, or a combination of the foregoing, and these need not necessarily be appropriate to the Christmas season only. On the contrary, subjects suitable for Easter, Birthday, and Valentine cards will be received, and be eligible for prizes. Christmas or New Year sentiments may or may not appear on the designs, and no limit is assigned to the number of sets of designs which a single artist may contribute. The designs must be original and never before published, and may be painted in oils or water-colours, on paper, canvas, or cardboard. They may be of any shape, but within the limits of ten inches by seven, and five inches by three and a half. "First class pen and ink drawings and designs, in sepia and black and white, will be admitted to the competition." The hundred sets of designs to which prizes are awarded shall be delivered over to Messrs. Hildesheimer and Faulkner, with an assignment of copyright from each artist, and shall then become and remain the property of those gentlemen absolutely. They further reserve to themselves the right of purchasing any sets to which prizes are not awarded, at the prices named in the sealed envelopes accompanying, such prices in all cases to include copyright. All designs must be delivered at the Gallery aforesaid free of expense, and removed at the artist's charges within six days after the close of the Exhibition. Mr. Edward Freeman, of the Society of British Artists, has kindly undertaken the duties of management, so that with his experience and the liberal and enterprising spirit of the promoters, there is good reason to hope this novel exhibition will prove to be a great success.

Summer Tour in Scotland. Glasgow to the Highlands. "The Royal Route," vid Crinan and Caledonian Canals. With Lists of Sailings and Fares. By Daniel MacBrayne's Royal Mail Steamers "Columba," "Iona," &c. Official Guide.

WE have had the pleasure of noticing this Official Guide of Mr. MacBrayne's Service of Steamers in former years. We need do little more, therefore, than repeat the favourable opinion we have expressed, that intending tourists to the Highlands of Scotland who select this route will find that everything possible has been done by the enterprising owner of the Columba, Iona, and its sister vessels, in order to meet their convenience in respect of time, charges, and accommodation. The service is organised on the most liberal scale, the fares being moderate, and the facilities for visiting the various places of interest between Glasgow and the Western Highlands such as are afforded by few, if any, other Companies of a like character. The Guide Book itself has been compiled with the utmost pains. Though necessarily concise, the amount of information it contains is even more complete than could have been expected. There are several capital illustrations of places of exceptional interest, while tables have, to all appearance, been compiled with exemplary diligence and accuracy. Those who desire to have fuller information will obtain it on application to Mr. MacBrayne himself, at his Offices 119 Hope-street, Glasgow.

The Boys' World.—We have received the June part of this excellent periodical, which is one of the most readable publications of its kind with which we are acquainted. Among the most stirring of the serial stories is that of "Allan Fairfax, or the Days of Richard Cœur de Lion." There is, too, great variety of adventure in "The Three Orphans," and there is a great deal of wholesome fun in "Tom Takeitall's School-days," by Ralph Rollington. In addition will be found many good short stories, and several interesting papers of a serious or a useful nature. We like the character of this publication, and strongly recommend it to the patronage of our young readers. As the price is only fourpence for eighty pages of good, solid, and healthy matter, we trust The Boy's World has a long and prosperous future before it.

The Bulletin du Grand Orient de France contains the second list of sums subscribed in aid of the sufferers by the inundations in Belgium. The total is a fraction over 3,421 francs, which, added to that of the first list of over 2,442 francs, makes the very satisfactory aggregate of 5,863 francs, or rather more than £234. The particular amounts subscribed range from 200 francs to 5 francs. This is a worthy testimony to the benevolence of the Lodges holding under the Grand Orient of France.

THE LATE BRO. L. M. COCKCROFT.

IT is with much regret we have to announce the death of the R.W. Bro. L. M. Cockcroft, who for many years held the high office of Deputy Provincial Grand Master of Northumberland, as well as that of Provincial Grand Superintendent of the Royal Arch Chapter. His death occurred quite suddenly while on a visit at Dumfresne. His loss will be severely felt throughout the whole Craft. He was a stanneh supporter of our Charities, and in every sense of the word a hard-working Mason. The remains of Bro. L. M. Cockcroft, who was also for many years coroner for the Southern Division of Northumberland, were brought to his residence in Newcastle, and interred at the Jesmond Old Cemetery, on Saturday last. At the funeral all the town Lodges of the Masonic body, and most of the country Lodges, were represented, amongst those present being Bros. J. Ward Mustart, R. L. Armstrong, Milburn, J. Cook, J. Hotham, J. Straker Wilson, R. G. Salmon, C. Haswell, Dunkin, Anderson, B. Thompson, John Ridsdale, R. Eynon, Ralph Carr, W. M. Bell, T. Y. Strachan, J. J. Bentham, J. G. Youll, A. Watson, Addison Potter, J. S. Challoner, N. Mein, R. Smailes, Bolam, G. F. Charlton, H. S. Baird, R. H. B. Whickham, Rev. J. Reed, Rev. R. Cook, J. J. Annan, W. Scott, Robertson, J. Armstrong, S. T. Bell, S. M. Harris, G. Coates, F. Blencowe, W. Cummins, J. G. Taylor, R. Robson, R. J. Milburn, Place, — Featherstone, Wood, Dunford, C. H. Stanton John Atkinson, and John Robson. The cortege, which consisted of the hearse, three mourning coaches, and private carriages, accompanied by the Freemasons on foot, left the residence of the deceased gentleman in Victoria Square, Jesmond Road, shortly before mid-day. The funeral service was most impressively read by the Rev. C. Raines, Vicar of St. Peter's, with which church Bro. Cockcroft was for many years connected. The coffin, which was covered with flowers, bore the inscription, "Lonsdale Maving Cockcroft, aged 54, died June 6th, 1881." When the service was over, and as the grave was about to be filled in, each of the Masons present dropped a sprig of acacia on the coffin.

ERRATUM.—In our report of the Installation Meeting of No. 171 it should be the "Amity" Lodge, not the "Unity."

(REPRINTED FROM THE KEYSTONE.)

An Oration delivered before St. John's Lodge, No. 1, F. and A.M., Newark, New Jersey, on the occasion of the Eighty-ninth Annual Celebration by that Lodge of the Birthday of Washington, 22*nd February* 1801, by Bro. Marshall B. Smith, Past Grand Master of Masons, New Jersey.

The City founded as the Capital of the Nation had received the name of Washington, as the one of all others most appropriate at that period; and on the eighteenth of September 1793, in Masonic clothing and with Masonic Ceremonies, he laid the corner-stone of the Capitol. The Gavel used by him on that occasion became a treasured relic of Georgetown Lodge of the District of Columbia, which Lodge was represented at the ceremony by its officers and members. Thus, with representatives of the Grand Lodge around him, and holding the highest civic office on this Continent—may we not say on the globe—he wore the insignia of the Craft, and wrought in one of its most impressive acts of labour. He had laid the foundations of the Republic, and laid them on the enduring Masonic bases of Truth and Brotherhood; he now laid, with Masonic Rites, the corner-stone of a fabric which was to symbolize the power and dignity of law and order. A fabric which is to-day—notwithstanding the corruption that may be found, and perhaps always will be found within it—a witness to the Nations of the unity and the perpetuity of this Republic.

On the determination of Washington to retire finally from public life being made known, the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania, with the leading members of which he was personally acquainted, addressed him under date of 27th December 1796. I quote from the Reprint of their Proceedings a portion of their address: MOST RESPECTED SIR AND BROTHER: Having announced your intention to retire from Public Labour to that Refreshment to which your eminent services for near half a century have so justly entitled you, permit the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania at this last Feast of our Evangelic Master St. John, on which we can hope for an immediate communication with you, to join the grateful voice of our Country in acknowledging that you have carried forth the principles of the Lodge into every walk of your life, by your constant labours for the prosperity of that Country, by your unremitting endeavours to promote Order, Union, and Brotherly Affection amongst us, and lastly, by the vows of your farewell address to your brethren and fellow-citizens; an address which we trust our children and our children's children will ever look upon as a most invaluable legacy, from a Friend, a Benefactor, and a Father." *

The reply of Washington—which, in his own handwriting, is now in the Grand Secretary's office in the Masonic Temple Philadelphia—was as follows:—

"Fellow Citizens and Brothers of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania: I have received your address with all the feelings of Brotherly affection mingled with those sentiments for the Society which it was calculated to excite. To have been, in any degree, an instrument in the hands of Providence to promote Order and Union, and erect upon a solid foundation the true principles of Government, is only to have shared with many others in a labour the result of which, let us hope, will prove through all ages a sanctuary for Brothers, and a Lodge for the Virtues.

"Permit me to reciprocate your prayers for my temporal happiness, and to supplicate that we may all meet hereafter in that Eternal Temple whose builder is the Great Architect of the Universe."

The same lofty sentiments find expression in his replies to addresses, from the Grand Lodges of Massachusetts (12th June 1797), and Maryland (8th November 1798).

He was again summoned, in view of impending dangers, to take charge of the army; but his eventful life was now drawing to a close. "Into every walk of it," he had indeed, to use the language of the Pennsylvania address just quoted—"carried forth the principles of the Lodge;" yes, more, the principles of that First Great Light of Masonry, the inspired and infallible Word of God. It was well, doubtless, that a century so fraught with interest in the world's history should be rounded off by the completion of the earthly career of one whose life had constituted so large a part of its record. A short illness, from a seemingly trivial cause, and death came gently to one who had faced it without a tremor in many a scene of peril and privation and on many a field of battle. Surrounded by his household, with no blot upon his life record, in the confidence of faith,

> "He gave his honours to the world again,
> His blessed part to heaven, and slept in peace."

It was the fourteenth of December, seventeen hundred and ninety-nine. The century had well nigh gone, bearing with it ages of superstition, oppression and arrogance; leaving behind it a home for the oppressed and the wronged, the memory of heroic deeds, grand incentives to higher thoughts and a truer manhood; and opening a Future, whose wondrous things are our strength and enjoyment in the Present of to-day.

On the eighteenth of December 1799 the mortal remains of the "FATHER OF HIS COUNTRY" were laid to rest with the impressive ceremonial of Freemasonry. The symbolic evergreen, significant reminder of the soul's immortality, was deposited in the tomb, and the mission of the Fraternity was, in this respect, completed. It had entrusted its secrets to one who had nobly kept them; it had imparted its lessons to an apt scholar, whose life had been one of their highest exemplifications; it had rejoiced in the elevation of one who was never elated by promotion or corrupted by official surroundings; it laid him to rest when his works were ended, feeling nobler for having had such a life loaned to it by the Divine Life Giver.

The Grand Lodges of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York, and Massachusetts, successively took action in favour of a day of Commemoration; the latter of these selected the day chosen by your Lodge, while the Grand Lodge of New Jersey appointed 14th December, the day of Washington's death, as a day of Annual Observance.†

* For this address, in full, and the Proceedings connected with its presentation to Washington in person, by a committee, of which Rev. Bro. Wm. Smith, D.D., Provost of the University of Pennsylvania, was the Chairman, see Reprint G.L. Proceedings of Pennsylvania, Part II. pp 181-184.

† From the minutes of the Grand Lodge of New Jersey, under date of "8th January, 5800," I make the following extracts: "The Right Worshipful Grand Master [General Joseph Bloomfield] announced to

This latter date has long since ceased to be observed; but your commemoration continues, and the records of your Lodge present a long succession of Brethren who by their earnest words have kept alive the memory of this true man, faithful Craftsman, brave soldier unselfish patriot, incorruptible magistrate, and devout worshipper of God.

Worshipful Master and Brethren,—I have thus given an outline—for this is all that I have done— of the Masonic life of Washington. It may be that I have only told over again a familiar story, or followed the line of thought of those who have preceded me in this time-honoured and honourable service; a service which, from its history and associations, any Craftsman might be proud to render. So be it; such a history cannot suffer by rehearsal, nor can such lines of thought be overworn by repeated use. Such a life brings us face to face with the foundation principles of our Brotherhood; it makes life more worth living; it reveals something of that Divine power by which the truth is endued with might, and through which man becomes complete and god-like.

Washington stands forth, not simply as a signal example of rounded, developed, completed manhood, but also as a true exponent of the living principles of our Brotherhood. And a great Brotherhood it is, when its laws are obeyed and its tenets are transformed to living practice. A Society whose watchword is love; whose aim is peace; whose mission is to improve the minds, elevate the moral sense, and adorn the lives of its members, must possess—whatever be its defects—elements of vitality, of growth, and of expansion. In its normal condition, such an institution, containing such elements of life as we have been contemplating, obeys the laws of true physical, social, and intellectual being. It grows and strengthens with its growth. Like the Banian of the Indies, it sends forth, from its branches, shoots that may in turn become trees, and yet all be still united together. At once conservative and progressive—Constantia Mobilis, to use the expressive terseness of Bacon; preserving independence of action, conserving community of interests. A Brotherhood whose real work is CHARITY, in the highest sense of that word; not simply almsgiving—relief to the needy; but Love—kindness to the erring, sympathy with the suffering, protection to the widow and the fatherless. Of such an Institution any of us might say, with Washington, "I shall always be happy to advance the interests of the Society;" and it would be well if each member of it desired, with him, "to be considered a deserving brother."

Worshipful Master and Brethren,—To be members of such a Fraternity as ours, is to make a high Moral profession, and to assume great personal responsibilities. Men whom the world has delighted to honour, and men, who, in the Church, in the State, or in other walks of life, have been public and private benefactors, have upheld our Standard of Brotherly Love, Relief, and Truth, as alike consonant with patriotism and Christianity. The man whose memory we honour to-night was but one of many in the great company of those who have trod our tesselated floor and bowed at our sacred altar. Shall not the great principles which they prized be ever valued by us? Shall not their lives, charged with thoughts that live and with deeds that have left their impress upon the centuries, be to us as an inspiration, leading to nobler and higher longings after truest manhood?

Here, sacred memories and historic associations gather together. Your gavel has been sounded by strong, right hands that lifted the victor's sword on the battle-fields of the Revolution; the voice of authority has been uttered in your Lodge by lips that have moved men's minds and hearts in the court-room or in the Senate Chamber, with cogent reasoning or forensic eloquence; and some holding high place in civil authority have here held office. Beside your altar, on the 25th July, the noble Lafayette revived the associations of a third of a century before, when, with your furniture and jewels, amid the camp fires of the Revolution he was made a Mason.* Into your Lodge room, on the evening of 21st April 1852, in the presence of more than five hundred brethren, came the great Magyar and brother Mason, Kossuth, to learn from your words, sealed by a noble act of beneficence, that on the altar of old St. John's Lodge the fire of love burned so brightly as to flash its light even into the deep recesses and mountain fastnesses of Hungary. Your fathers and sons and brothers have gone forth to found other Masonic homes, and many of them to shed lustre upon the name of the venerable Lodge in which they first saw the light by which Masons work. Voices that have been heard in song at these annual commemorations have been silenced; lives, useful and honoured, have been ended; hands, whose brotherly grasp we have felt, have moulded to dust; eyes, that flashed upon us the light of intelligence and of love, are closed. The Acacia of eternal being, not rootless, but living and growing, tells of their immortality. We are here to-night. The Birthday, and the closing hour—in the usage of your Lodge—linked together; what, my brothers, shall the life be that lies between them? It may have its shadows, but let us learn that

> "Darkness in the pathway of man's life
> Is but the shadow of God's Providence,
> By the great Sun of Wisdom cast thereon;
> And what is dark below is light in heaven."

Shall it not be a life wrought out to full completeness by the power of HIM, the mystic symbol of whose name incites reverence and to reverential service. Earnest fellow-Craftsmen, whoever or whatever thou art, if this night one new desire or impulse toward better, higher, or holier things, has been kindled within thy soul, take the Great Light—the "Word"—in thy hand and in thy heart, and go forward. Wasting and decay may be around thee; failure and disappointment may seem to threaten thee; but the materials are not wanting from which lives like that of Washington were builded, and from fields that await the tilling and the sowing, rich harvests may yet be reaped. Receive, then the lesson which this Annual Commemoration teaches:

> "A charmed life old Goodness hath;
> The tares may perish—but the grain
> Is not for death."

As the Anniversary Festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys will not take place for some ten days—the exact date and place are Wednesday, the 29th inst., at the Royal Pavilion, Brighton, under the presidency of the R.W. Marquess of Londonderry, K.T., P.G.M. Durham—there is ample time yet for a very sensible increase in the number of brethren who may be willing to serve on the Board of Stewards. Hence, those of our readers who may be desirous of placing their services at the disposal of Bro. Binckes, should do so forthwith. Under the circumstances we have already described in these pages, there are substantial reasons why the approaching Festival should be a productive one. We trust the Craft generally will not be unmindful of those reasons, and the Festival of 1881 will not be the least of the many brilliant successes which Bro. Binckes has achieved during the latter years of his Secretaryship.

The annual distribution of prizes and visit of the Festival Stewards will take place, as usual, at the School, Wood Green, on Tuesday the 28th June, under the presidency of the Marquess of Londonderry, K.T., Chairman of the Festival.

The Grand Lodge of the Province of Surrey will be held on Saturday, the 25th inst., under the banner of the Surrey Lodge, No. 416, at the Public Hall, Reigate. The brethren are to assemble at one o'clock, and the customary banquet will be supplied at 3.30.

The Voice of Masonry for the current month contains a long and interesting account of the commemoration of the anniversary of the fiftieth birthday of Bro. Christopher Diehl, Grand Secretary of the Grand Lodge of Utah. The entertainment in honour of the occasion was held in the Masonic Hall, Salt Lake City, and there were present a large number of Masons (among whom were Bro. John S. Scott P.G. Master, and P. H. Emmerson Grand Master), with their wives and daughters. Grand Master Emmerson, after an appropriate and justly complimentary speech, handed to Bro. Diehl a package, which, on being opened, was found to contain a handsome and massive gold watch and chain, the former bearing the inscription, "Presented to R.W. Christopher Diehl Grand Secretary A.F. and A.M., on his fiftieth birthday, by his Masonic Friends at Utah, March 22, 1881." Bro. Diehl was deeply affected on making his acknowledgments.

the Brethren the death of our deceased Brother General GEORGE WASHINGTON, in the following address, to wit: I announce to you, Brethren, that it hath pleased the Divine Creator, on the 14th of December 5799, to remove our great and good Brother, George Washington, in the 68th year of his age, from the cares and troubles of this transitory existence TO A STATE OF ETERNAL DURATION. May his death remind us of our approaching fate, and incline us to be more strongly cemented in the ties of union and friendship, that by regulating our conduct here agreeably to the dictates of truth, wisdom and discretion, we may prosecute our journey, without dread or apprehension, to that far distant country from whose bourne no traveller returns—and that we may enjoy in our last moments that serene tranquillity of mind which ever flows from a good conscience void of offence towards God and man.'

"Brother John N. Cumming [Past Grand Master and Past Master of St. John's Lodge], proposed the following motion: that any of the Lodges under the jurisdiction of this Grand Lodge may make such funeral processions in honour of the late deceased Brother General Washington as to them may seem proper, they preserving established rules; and that the day of the first procession be on the 22d of February next, and ever after on the 14th of December, and that the several Lodges be hung in black and the members wear mourning for our deceased Brother until the Festival of next St. John's Day, which being seconded and the question being taken, whether the Lodge agree thereto, it was carried unanimously in the affirmative."—Hough's Reprint, pages 84-86.

* See "Historical Sketch of Montgomery Lodge, No. 19, at Philadelphia, by George Griscom, Esq., P.M.," pages 49-52. This was the Lodge—then a Military Lodge in the First Regiment of Pennsylvania Artillery, Col. Thomas Proctor, Worshipful Master—that borrowed the jewels of St. John's Lodge, No. 1, for use at Morristown, where they were encamped, and where they conferred the degrees upon the illustrious Lafayette.

EASTERN STAR.

From the VOICE OF MASONRY.

THE future of the Order, now so promising, can be made not only equal to, but to surpass its bright prospects, by proper attention to, and strengthening of its weakest points. We have a practical unity of action and uniformity of work. Our laws, which a few years ago were in an inchoate state, are being rapidly solidified, and made practical. The general principles upon which the laws in the several jurisdictions are based are now pretty well settled, and the structures built upon them promise to be both permanent and substantial. The various Grand Chapters, with possibly one or two exceptions, are in a very prosperous condition, while the Order is being extended and established, not with lightning-like rapidity, but as fast as a regard for its future will warrant, in states and territories where it has not heretofore been known in its organized form. It is pleasant to look on this picture, and, content with present happiness and satisfaction, to shut our eyes to any imperfections which may exist, but it is not wise. Mistakes incorporated into its being, though they may produce no serious results now, will surely, in the end, bring forth their legitimate fruits.

What, then, are some of the needful things? What does our Order lack? I might answer, in the language of a venerable brother, now gone to his rest, that "it needs more devotion to its principles," and that it will probably need as long as human nature is frail, and the principles are those which require more than human power to live up to in perfection, and though we may never hope to attain perfection—for that is a thing not attained upon earth—we can keep striving and pressing toward it, and endeavour to do our whole duty to our fellow men.

"Devotion to principle" covers the whole ground. If we give our lives to that, the future of the Order is safe. But that is general, and, as people go now-a-days, not practical. It is possible to discourse eloquently and fervently upon the needs of our Order, without attaining much, if any good, because the lessons are not specifically set forth.

Among the principles of our Order are Brotherly Love, Relief and Truth. To these we should be devoted. But what does that imply? That we must extend to our fellow creatures such help as they most need, and which it is within our power to bestow. Does the wail of sorrow go up from hearts oppressed with grief? We should, by kindly words of sympathy, and loving tenderness, endeavour to assuage the affliction. Does the cry of want sound in our ears? We should, with ready hand, minister to the requirements of those in need, remembering that it is more blessed to give than to receive: more pleasant really to minister, than to be ministered unto. Devotion to Truth, alas! is sadly needed in this world of infidelity, both as to Divine and human things. That command, thundered from Mount Sinai, "Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbour," and so gently and lovingly repeated and illustrated upon the hillside in Judea many years afterwards, "Whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do you even so to them." Judge not, that ye be not judged," needs heart as well as lip obedience, before we can hope to meet the approval of our inner consciousness, though by outward show we may obtain that of those around us. Such obedience every one can give. How many do?

One of the most crying needs of the practical exercise of this charity is in cases where differences of opinion may arise as to what is right or expedient in a given case. Too often they run into, or at least are the cause of personal differences, and ill-feeling, which, allowed to grow unrestrainedly, end in "envy, hatred, malice and all uncharitableness," and involve the friends of the two individuals who at first were separated by a narrow stream, which could easily have been stepped across, if either had been what they ought to have been, but which may now have grown to an almost unfathomable gulf. "It is hard for us to learn that the same right to hold and express honest convictions of truth which we so fondly claim for ourselves we are in duty bound to extend to others who may differ from us, however widely," and when we are to the best of our ability sustaining what we believe to be the truth, we should not allow ill-feelings to be engendered against those who may view the matter in a different and opposite light. This is one of the "hidden rocks" against which so many societies, both under church and state, are driven and dashed to pieces.

To be, in a worldly point of view, still more practical, by speaking of that which we can see with our eyes and feel with our hands; to secure permanency, our Order needs a broader financial basis than has been given it in any of our jurisdictions. Little if any practical good can be accomplished in this world at the present time without the use, directly or indirectly, of money, and an Order which undertakes to minister to the wants of not only their own members, but to a greater extent to the members of the Masonic family, and to a lesser extent to those who have no claim but that of a common humanity, should have the means of doing it without, as a rule, resorting to a "passing of the hat," or reliance upon entertainments of any nature. Not only would the Order be better able to discharge its duties, if both fees and dues were placed at a higher figure, but those who become members of the Order would appreciate it more, for, no matter how illogical and unreasonable it may appear, yet it is a fact, that in this day, generation, and country, things are valued by their almighty dollar standard. Again, by higher fees and dues the Order would command the membership and encouragement of those who now, knowing nothing of its internal worth, but, judging solely by the financial value placed upon it by itself, do not co-operate with us. I have many times and in various ways called attention to this crying need, and, I believe, with some little effect, but not to any extent in comparison to the necessities of the case. Therefore I urge deliberate consideration and thorough action on the part of those who have the true interests of the Order at heart, and the power, to a greater or less extent, of shaping its future.

BRO. MASSA AND THE LAST GENERAL COMMITTEE OF THE R.M.I.G.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I regret you thought it inexpedient to favour my wish to give publicity, in your independent and impartial journal, to the letter I forwarded some time ago to your contemporary The Freemason, stating the injury done me by the incorrect report given therein of the words used by the Chairman at the last General Committee of "the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls."

The Editor of your contemporary may, perhaps, have exercised a very wise discretion, by not allowing my complaint to appear, but is it not rather invidious to give inaccurate reports, and then deny insertion to letters correcting them from those affected!

The report in question, which appeared in his paper of 28th May, is so manipulated that my friends who have read it ask me—"Are you not taking too much notice of this affair?" But when informed that the words actually used by the Chairman—a Grand Officer and Ex-Officio Member of the House Committee, presiding at the contested election of his colleagues, against the nominator of other candidates—were "Indecent" and "Blackguard," the whole matter then appears to them in a very different light. I am sure it will be admitted by all that such language was not only incompatible with impartiality in the chair, and unbecoming a Grand Officer, but also an unwarrantable assault on a Brother Freemason, an unfair aspersion on the candidates nominated by him for the House Committee, and a very bad precedent.

I thank you for your fraternal sympathy with my "difficulty," but believe that when made known to the Craft it will not be found at all "difficult of management," being simply a question of the propriety of the conduct of the Grand Treasurer, in the chair, using the words "Indecent" and "Blackguard" in reference to a brother Mason.

I remain, Dear Sir and Brother,

Yours faithfully,

THOS. MASSA.

4 Dowgate Hill, E.C., 14th June 1881.

ROYAL MASONIC BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I am very glad the question of having half-yearly instead of yearly elections of Annuitants has been seriously mooted, and I trust the endeavours of those who advocate this change will prove successful. For example, in your Report of the meeting of the Committee of Management of the R.M.B.I., on Wednesday, the 8th instant, Bro. Terry announced that five annuitants had died since the May meeting. Yet eleven months must pass away ere it is possible to fill up these vacancies, and this is the more regrettable in the case of those people who are advanced in years. Again, the Committee, with commendable liberality, only four weeks since arranged to increase the number of annuitants by ten, five male and five female, but less than a month has passed, and one-half of its arrangements are rendered void and of none effect. Of course, the elections yearly will double the office work, in respect of preparing and sending out the voting papers, but I am sure this need prove no obstacle. The zeal of Bro. Terry and his staff is too well known to call for any special mention, and the liberality of the Committee in dealing with their Officers is equally well assured.

Faithfully and fraternally,

LIFE GOVERNOR.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—In the last week's issue of your excellent paper I find, in the report of No. 171, that Bro. H. M. Levy, in responding for the Masonic Charities, urged the brethren to support "the notice of motion, To have the election for the Aged Freemasons and their Widows twice a year, the same as the two other Institutions, so that our poor brethren and their widows might not have to wait twelve weary months for a chance of admission into the Institution." I hope such a notice of motion has been, or will be, given at the next meeting of the Committee. I have known many deserving cases that have been unsuccessful, and they have died before the next election. It is well known that brethren are not eligible until they are 60 years of age, and most of them are in distressed circumstances. Let us then do all we can to help those who, owing to increasing age and infirmities, become almost daily less and less able to help themselves.

I am, yours fraternally,

A PAST MASTER.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—For bad legs, bad breasts, scorbutic and scrofulous sores, this is a genuine specific. The grateful and earnest gratitude of thousands who have experienced its unrivalled power over these complaints, and who have been raised from prostrate helplessness and a condition loathsome to themselves and others, renders it quite unnecessary to enlarge in this place upon its extraordinary virtues. The parts affected should be bathed with lukewarm water, and when the pores are thereby opened, the Ointment should be well rubbed in, at least twice a day. It is always advisable to take Holloway's Pills in those disorders, as this much assists the Ointment's action. The Pills check the fever, purify the blood, and eject all morbid matter engendered by these diseases.

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

St. John's Lodge, No. 167.—The regular meeting of this excellent Lodge was held on Tuesday, the 14th instant, at the Holly Bush Tavern, Hampstead. Bros. G. Davis W.M., Dutton S.W., Dowsing J.W., Rowe P.M. Treasurer, J. R. Thompson Secretary, J. G. Humphreys S.D., E. Storr I.G.; Past Masters J. Eldridge, Hollis P.P.G.S.B. Herts, Yeomans I.P.M. Visitors—Bros. S. Smout W.M. 1642, James Terry P.P.G.W. Herts, H. M. Levy P.M. 188. After preliminaries, a letter was read from Bro. F. Adlard P.M., thanking the Worshipful Master and brethren for the honour they had conferred on him by electing him an honorary member. Bro. G. W. Hesse was passed to the second degree. It is needless to say the working of the Worshipful Master was perfect; the Officers also performed their duties most efficiently. The Worshipful Master impressively rendered the charge in the second degree. Hearty good wishes were given from the brethren and visitors. The Worshipful Master thanked the Lodge for its support at the last Festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, which had enabled him to place on his list £100. Lodge was then closed. The brethren partook of a very good and substantial dinner, provided by Bro. Froud. The Worshipful Master said this being a so-called off-night, he would be brief in his speeches, but he would, with all due honour, give the Loyal and Masonic toasts, which he did in appropriate terms. He proposed Success to the Masonic Charities; he was pleased to see Bro. Terry present. With his name he would couple that of Bro. Storr, who is a Steward for the next Anniversary Festival of the Boys. Bro. E. Storr, in responding, said he felt great pleasure in representing this Lodge at the next Festival; he hoped on a future occasion to serve as a Steward for the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution. He advocated the cause of the Boys' School, and especially thanked Bros. Hollis and Eldridge; he had now on his list £65 2s, which sum he hoped to augment. He felt it an honour to represent this Lodge. Bro. Terry spoke of the manner in which this Lodge supported the three Institutions. He referred to the success of the Festival of the Girls' School, and spoke of the honours that had been secured by the pupils of each of our scholastic Institutions. He recounted the advantages the Institution with which he was most closely associated was dispensing, and he trusted on an early occasion to again have a Steward from this Lodge. The toast of the Visitors was responded to by Bros. Smout W.M. 1642 and H. M. Levy P.M. 188. Bro. Thompson P.M. and Secretary then rose; it was a great privilege for him to propose the health of the Worshipful Master. This is the fourth time he had been in the chair; his capabilities are well known, and are a great credit for so young a Mason. He hoped they would drink the toast with the enthusiasm which it deserved. The Worshipful Master thanked Bro. Thompson for his kind remarks; he felt it a great honour to be Worshipful Master of this Lodge; he would do everything in his power to uphold the prestige of the Lodge, and his services were at their command. He had, by his exertions at the Lodges of Instruction with which he was associated, handed over £300 to the Charities, and he hoped before long to make it up to £500. He thanked them for their kind support to him while in the chair. The Tyler's toast was then given. Bros. Dowsing, Potter, Storr, and Terry contributed to the enjoyment of the meeting.

Lodge opened in the second, when Bro. Andrews was passed to the degree of Fellow Craft. Bro. Worsley worked the first, second, and third sections of the lecture. The Lodge closed to first degree, when Bro. Andrews P.M. of Lodge Peace and Harmony, No. 859, was elected a member. Bro. Rawe W.M. 781 was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing week, when he will rehearse the ceremony of the third degree.

Prince Leopold Lodge of Instruction, 1445.—At the Moorgate Tavern, Finsbury-pavement, every Wednesday, at 7 p.m., Bro. W. H. Myers P.M. Preceptor. On 8th June, the chair was taken by Bro. James Robson, supported by Bros. Partridge S.W., Kimbell, McDonald, C. Robson, McGregor, C. Smith, Ewen, Seymour-Clarke Secretary and others. Lodge being duly opened, and the minutes read, the ceremony of passing was ably rehearsed by the W.M., after which Bro. McDonald worked the first, second, and third sections of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. Lodge was closed in due form, after Bro. Partridge had been elected W.M. for next meeting. Brethren are cordially invited to attend.

Eboracum Lodge, No. 1611.—The regular meeting was held at York, on Monday evening. Bro. J. T. Seller W.M. opened the Lodge, there being present Bros. C. G. Padel I.P.M., R. W. Hollon P.M., T. B. Whytehead P.M., G. Balmford P.M., A. Buckle P.M. 236, G. Simpson S.W., M. Millington J.W., T. Humphries Assistant Sec., A. T. B. Turner S.D., J. Blenkin J.D., J. R. Jackson Assistant M.C., W. Girling I.G., and a full muster of members, together with several visiting brethren. A ballot was taken for V.W. Bro. Col. S. H. Clerke G.S. as an honorary member, which proved unanimous. Bro. T. B. Whytehead then gave an address on "Masonic Poets and Poetry," illustrated by copious quotations from the works of brethren from 1720 to the present time, and concluded by presenting some books to the Lodge library. Bro. W. W. Whytehead, M.A. (Cambridge) and Bac.Sc. (Paris), then read a paper on the "Science of Practical Geometry and the Mediæval Freemasons," and votes of thanks were passed to both brethren. A ballot was taken for a Life Membership in the Girls' School, the successful drawer being the I.P.M. Bro. C. G. Padel, who announced his intention of acting as Steward for the Lodge at one of the Festivals next year. On the motion of Bro. T. B. Whytehead, a committee was appointed to confer with a committee appointed by the York Lodge, No. 236, as to the feasibility of holding a Masonic gathering on the occasion of the visit of the British Association to York in the autumn. Power was given to the Standing Committee of the Lodge to arrange for a Picnic at an early date. Letters of explanation for absence were read from Bro. J. S. Cumberland P.M. Prov. G.J. Warden and other brethren, and the Lodge was closed. The brethren afterwards entertained their Visitors at supper, after which some of the principal toasts were drank, and a very pleasant evening was spent, enlightened by Masonic conversation.

The Burgoyne Lodge of Instruction, which has hitherto been held in the North of London, has removed to Bro. Gabb's, the Cock Tavern, Nos. 3 and 4, St. Martin's-court, Ludgate-hill. It is held every Thursday evening, from 6·30 to 8·30. We understand there is every probability of the attendance being good, as the brethren of the mother Lodge are strongly supporting the Lodge of Instruction. Moreover, the Burgoyne working is unsurpassed, and its name alone is a guarantee of accuracy for work.

"We have companies for all sorts of things: why do not some philanthropic gentlemen start an association for lending money to embarrassed traders and housekeepers at ten per cent. interest? There are a number of people now getting three per cent. for their money in Consols who would be glad to invest it in an enterprise in which, if properly managed, there would be no risk whatever, and a certainty of earning eight or nine per cent. profit. Properly managed, such an association, worked on a large scale, would be an immense boon to people struggling with temporary difficulties, and would pay a handsome return to those who invested their money in Shares."
