EMBLEMATIC LODGE, No. 1321.

AN ordinary meeting of the above Lodge was held on Thursday, the 15th inst., at the Horns Tavern, Kennington Park, when there were present Bro. Walter John Forrest W.M., who presided, supported by the following:—Bros. W. B. Fendick S.W., H. S. Hunter J.W., P. T. Brearey P.G. Steward P.M. Treasurer, G. F. Swan P.M. Secretary, G. F. Meads S.D., W. Englefield J.D., B. A. Kirkaldy I.G., H. Esling Steward, G. Willson I.P.M., C. A. Cottebrune P.G.P. P.M., F. T. Edgington P.M., W. Salisbury, S. H. Barrow, J. H. S. Palmer, S. Bannell, J. W. Edwards, W. Monks. Visitor—Bro. A. G. W. Richman S.W. Rose of Denmark Lodge, No. 975. After the minutes of last meeting had been read and confirmed, Bros. Jas. H. S. Palmer and S. Bannell were passed to the degree of Fellow Craft, and the third degree was conferred on Brother Samuel Harry Barrow. After some routine work, Lodge was closed. Previous to the banquet, and while the Secretary was arranging his papers, the brethren re-entered the Lodge room, headed by Brother P. T. Brearey P.M., who acted as spokesman for the occasion. Bro. Brearey stated that their worthy Secretary doubtless anticipated that the members of the Lodge had finished with him for that evening. But he (Bro. Brearey) was pleased to say there was something more to be done; and a gratifying duty had been entrusted to him. He would therefore ask Bro. Swan to accept, in testimony of the esteem in which he is held by the members, an illuminated vellum, the inscription upon which he would read, as follows:—

EMBLEMATIC LODGE OF ANTIENT FREE AND ACCEPTED MASONS, ENGLAND, No. 1321.

This Testimonial was presented to
BRO. GEORGE FREDERICK SWAN,
Past Master, Secretary and Founder of the above Lodge, on the 15th March 1883,

as a record of the great esteem and regard in which he is held by the members; as a testimony to his unvarying urbanity and integrity, and in appreciation of his assiduous attention to his various Masonic duties.

WALTER JOHN FORREST W.M.
WILLIAM BARNES FENDICK S.W.
HENRY SAMUEL HUNTER J.W.

On hearing this inscription read, and receiving at the hands of Bro. Brearey the elegant Testimonial, Bro. Swan, who appeared completely taken by surprise, was about to speak, when Bro. Brearey said, he would crave his attention a little longer. The brethren who desired to do honour to their zealous and energetic Secretary, had likewise commissioned him to ask Bro. Swan to accept a purse, and he was authorised to say that the amount it contained had been subscribed privately; not a penny had been taken from their Lodge Funds. In handing it over, he begged Bro. Swan to accept it in the spirit in which it was offered,—as a slight recognition of many and invaluable services rendered by him during the thirteen years he had been associated with the Lodge. After this graceful compliment had been fervently, but in brief terms, acknowledged by Bro. Swan, the brethren partook of a capital banquet, where the after proceedings were of an exceptionally agreeable character. We may add that Bro. Swan was the first W.M. of the Emblematic Lodge, and on leaving the chair was appointed Secretary, which post he has filled ever since.

VICTORIA LODGE, No. 1040.

THE annual election meeting of this Lodge was held on Wednesday evening last, at the Guildhall Tavern, Gresham-street, when there was a goodly attendance, under the presidency of Bro. James Boulton W.M. There was an abundance of work on the agenda paper, and the various items having been satisfactorily disposed of, the brethren proceeded to the election of a Worshipful Master for the ensuing year, their choice falling unanimously on Bro. Frank Herold, who has acted efficiently as Senior Warden during the past year. The Treasurer was re-elected, and a Tyler was appointed; after the transaction of some other business, the brethren and Visitors partook of a banquet, at which the usual Loyal and Craft toasts were honoured, and the proceedings agreeably interspersed with music.

FREEMAN'S CHLORODYNE.

The Original and only true.

HUNDREDS of Medical Practitioners testify to its marvellous efficacy in immediately relieving and rapidly curing Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Neuralgia, Spasms, Colic, Whooping Cough, and all Nerve Pains. It acts like a charm in Diarrhœa, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery. It rapidly relieves pain, from whatever cause, soothes and strengthens the system under exhausting diseases, and gives quiet and refreshing sleep.

Lord Chancellor Selborne, Lord Justice James, Lord Justice Mellish decided in favour of FREEMAN'S ORIGINAL CHLORODYNE, and against Brown and Davenport, compelling them to pay all costs in the suits. See Times of July 24th, 1873. Bottles 1s 1½d, 2s 9d, 4s 6d, 11s, and 20s. Sold by all Chemists.

TESTIMONIALS.—Head Quarter Staff, Cabul, May 31st, 1880. Mr. R. Freeman, Dear Sir,—It is with much pleasure I am able to state that your Chlorodyne has been of special service to me in alleviating the wearisome spasms of Arthma, which is here existent in an aggravated form. Many of my patients now come and beg me to give them that medicine which always relieves them, and which I need hardly say is your Chlorodyne. Yours faithfully, CHARLES W. OWEN, L.R.C.P. Lon., M.R.C.S. Eng., the Divisional Head Quarter Staff and Civil Surgeon, Cabul.

The Times, August 13th, 1877. From our own Correspondent with the Russian Army. Okoum, July 25th, 1877. The want of sanitary arrangements in the Russian Camp was dreadful, and had we remained there a few weeks longer, dysentery and typhoid fever would have played more havoc in our ranks than the bombs of the Turks. I myself acquired an unenviable reputation as a doctor, owing to my being provided with a small bottle of CHLORODYNE, with which I effected miraculous cures.

Freemason's Chronicle;

A WEEKLY RECORD OF MASONIC INTELLIGENCE.

SANCTIONED BY THE GRAND LODGE OF ENGLAND.

Registered at the G.P.O. as a Newspaper.

VOL. XVII.—No. 430. SATURDAY, 7th APRIL 1883. [PRICE THREEPENCE. 13s 6d per annum, post free.

AN INTERESTING CEREMONY.

AN event of some interest to the Craft is announced for Monday next, when Bro. His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught, Past Grand Warden of England, will lay the foundation stone of St. Anne's Church, near Bagshot, with Masonic ceremonies. Another instance will thus be afforded of the ready aid which Freemasons in all times have manifested themselves willing to lend in matters of public concern, calculated to advance the moral and spiritual good of their fellow creatures. We have not before us any further details of the event, but the fact that one of the Princes of the Blood has generously undertaken a prominent part in it, and that the Province of Surrey, under its esteemed Prov. Grand Master the Right Worshipful Bro. General Studholme Brownrigg, C.B., will be represented in full strength on the occasion, invests the matter with sufficient importance to call for special notice in these columns. A train leaves Waterloo Station at a quarter past twelve, arriving at Bagshot, via Woking, about two, and immediately after its arrival there, the Provincial Grand Lodge will be opened, at the Vicarage, where a procession will be formed, and the brethren will repair to the site of the day's ceremonial. We are requested to state that the brethren of the Province are desirous of inviting Masons outside their own immediate circle to participate in the proceedings, which will unquestionably be of a very interesting description, and there can be little doubt, if the weather remains as summer-like as it has been during the past few days, a large number will take advantage of so pleasant a trip into the country. It need only be remarked that in all such cases the members of the Masonic Craft are pleased to assist in works of charity and brotherly love, and whether for the advancement of social or material progress, they are at all times not only willing, but desirous of lending a hand, both by their countenance and of their substance. We have frequently, in times past, been called upon to make pleasant records of the efforts that have been put forth by the Craft to ameliorate the condition of the suffering and distressed in all parts of the world; to aid in the promotion of means of saving life at sea, and the prosecution of all works of social improvement and progress. The event referred to is pre-eminently one in which Freemasonry may participate in with the consciousness that the work has the approval of the G.A.O.T.U., and of good men and true who desire the spread of refining and elevating influences everywhere around us. There can be no greater incentive to works of this character than the principles inculcated by the Craft to which we have the privilege to belong, viz. that of rendering ourselves more extensively useful to our fellow-creatures; and, apart from all other questions, this will stimulate many of our brethren to accept the invitation which is thus generously extended to them by the Provincial Grand Lodge of Surrey. We hope to have the pleasure of meeting a goodly muster of brethren present on the occasion, so that our illustrious brother who has so kindly lent his august countenance to the event may be convinced of the deep-rooted affection in which he is held by every member of the Order, and that he may be encouraged in the noble actions which have made him so popular amongst all classes of his fellow-countrymen. It will also be the means of lending additional zest and gratification to the members of the Prov. G.L. of Surrey, who are proverbially glad to receive the co-operation of brethren in any useful movement in which they may engage; and, for this reason alone, we trust there may be a thorough rallying around them of as many Masons of that and the adjoining Provinces as can make it convenient to spare a few hours to devote to a very laudable and beneficent design. With such weather as we are now enjoying, the excursion into one of the prettiest parts of the county of Surrey will not be without its agreeable accompaniments, and it will be much to our surprise if the assemblage is not one of a very numerous and distinguished character.

QUALIFICATIONS FOR THE CHARITIES.

THE question that has again been revived in our columns as to the eligibility or otherwise of candidates for one or other of the Masonic Schools, who may be possessed of property, or entitled to some on their coming of age, does not merely affect the individuals now particularly referred to, but is one that may have considerable weight in determining the future of the Institutions themselves. We do not think it necessary, in again writing on this subject, to do more than refer our readers to our article of last week, under the heading "Unworthy Claimants for the benefits of our Charities;" to the one under the same title which preceded it, two and a-half years since (should they be in a position to do so); and to the letters which, this week, and in the past, have appeared in our correspondence columns in connection with this subject. Having done this, we feel we shall have placed them in possession of sufficient particulars to enable them to understand the purport of our present remarks.

The question at issue—whether a candidate for the benefits of one of the Masonic Institutions who may be in possession of property is entitled to charitable relief—is a difficult one to deal with. Our opinion on the question is well known to our readers; but, whether it is the correct one or not, we do not undertake to decide, although past experiences would seem to prove that it is the popular one. We consider that any one whose property or prospects are sufficient to provide them with a fair education—we will say, for purpose of argument, such an education as is given in the Masonic Schools—and pay for the necessaries of life, is not entitled to a place in either of the Schools connected with the Order; even though their exclusion may necessitate the spending of the whole of their possessions; leaving them, at the age of twenty-one, with nothing to show for the property left them by their parents or relations but their education and maintenance in the past. In support of this view we would refer to the oft-repeated appeals of those who seek for subscriptions to the Schools; that they are made in order to help those who are not able to help themselves; and, as a further argument in support of our opinion, that all in possession of property should be excluded, we argue that by far the larger part of the money annually subscribed to the Institutions is given by those who are not in a position to endow their own children with £500, £600, £1,000 or more, on their attaining the age of twenty-one years, or being married, should either of those events occur during the lifetime of the parents. The question really hinges on the soundness or otherwise of this proposition. If it be correct, then there can be no doubt but that children possessed of means should be excluded; while, on the other hand, if it is incorrect, then the possession of property should not be a bar to the admission of a candidate. We are afraid there is not much hope of discovering, with any degree of certainty, the actual social position of all, or even a majority of those who give; but from our experience, and bearing in mind, among other features, the fact that a very large amount is annually raised, in connection with the various Charity Associations,—now established in all parts,—by means of weekly subscriptions of sixpence and upwards, we should say there can be no question as to its soundness. It is of course true that very many subscribers to our Schools are in good positions; able to give their children as much, and more, than the amounts possessed by the children we have particularly mentioned; but the question then arises—for whom do they subscribe their money? Do they give it with the view of assisting children of their own position in life, or do they give it in order to aid only those who have been left really destitute, and much beneath them as regards social position. This is an argument that could only be answered by the individuals themselves, and even then it would depend on the particular views of the several donors. Speaking strictly from a Masonic point of view, we think that that portion of our ritual in the first degree where reference is made to the subject of Charity, should form the basis on which our decision should be formed; there are many ranged under the banner of Freemasonry who, from unforeseen calamity or misfortune, are reduced to the lowest ebb of poverty and distress, and it is on behalf of those that an appeal is made, and that too in the face of the assertion that there are also many of rank and opulence connected with the Order.

EPPS'S (GRATEFUL COMFORTING) COCOA.

Digitized by Google

Our correspondence columns this week contain several letters from brethren on this subject, and in them are contained some of the most opposite views that can be formed in reference to it. "A Northern Subscriber," who, we may mention, is a brother well known in connection with our Institutions, and conspicuous in the past for his advocacy of the claims of all cases of distress which came under his notice, takes up the cause against us editorially. We do not object to his doing so; and, with our usual desire to give both sides a fair hearing, and also to elicit, as far as possible, every argument that can be adduced, we shall devote some attention to him. Our brother repeats the argument that our Schools are not intended for paupers only, a statement we, in some measure, endorse. We say we "in some measure endorse" this, because, obnoxious as the term "pauper" may appear, we fail to see much distinction between it and that of an inmate of either of the Schools. The children who are now enjoying the benefits of those Institutions receive food, clothing, education, and, indeed, everything needed for their welfare, at the hands of strangers, who most certainly have only the claims of sympathy to induce them to subscribe from their own means for the benefit of others. These gifts being voluntary, the children are therefore described as being brought up on charity, while, in the case of pauper children, we suppose the distinction is, that the subscriptions of strangers is compulsory, in the form of rates. Truly a very fine point on which to base an argument, and one which we think does not make much material difference in the actual result. The definition varies, but that is about all that is different, except perhaps that Masonic "Charity" children are better cared for than the majority of "pauper" children. Our correspondent next repeats the often-expressed opinion that a lad, even though he has some little property, may be as poor, comparatively speaking, as those without any provision. This may be the case in theory, but we cannot believe it to be so in practice. At the present time we venture to assert there are very many lads on the list of candidates for the benefits of the Boys' School who, if they do not actually know what it is frequently to want a meal, are yet so far destitute as to be without very many of what may truly be described as the necessaries of life. This being the case, we think that every lad who it can be shown is in a position to enable him to pay for his education should be excluded until such time as no other of the more necessitous class come forward. We are aware that by adopting this course we may almost fill our Schools with members of the lower middle class, but, on the other hand, there are many families who were once in a tolerably good position who are now reduced to the greatest straits. Surely their claims are stronger than those of a similar family who are even now tolerably well provided for. The argument that "families who have always lived in a higher sphere feel just as much the coming down to a lower one as those in an inferior do having to make shift lower still," is only true in sentiment. The former lose caste only, the latter may lose their supply of clothing, aye, even of food. Surely the pangs of hunger are stronger than any feeling which can follow a loss of position. This and other considerations in connection with the subject are really matters upon which there will always be a difference of opinion, and it is only by the minority acquiescing in the decisions of the majority that anything approaching harmony can prevail.

There is one point bearing on this subject on which we would urge the strictest caution; we allude to the publication of rumours, unsupported by reliable information. If brethren take upon themselves to give publicity to any particulars they may become possessed of, they should first of all take the trouble to ascertain whether their information is correct, otherwise they will not only themselves run a great risk, but may be the means of doing irreparable mischief to the individuals more particularly concerned, and permanent injury to the cause they wish to befriend. We make these remarks on the present occasion in consequence of an expression contained in a letter we have received from a well-known brother in reference to another lad on the list of candidates. The expression we object to is one in which there is a doubt implied, the writer himself qualifying his statement by the use of the little word "if." Once having raised a prejudice against a case, it is next to impossible to entirely remove it; we therefore consider that no one has a right to publish anything detrimental to a candidate unless he can prove, beyond question, that his statements are correct. We have been very particular in this respect in the past; if we had not, we might have questioned the eligibility of many a candidate who has been put forward during the past few years; but, as we were unable to satisfy ourselves that the rumours were well founded, we did not try to influence our readers by the publication of what might or might not have been correct. For the sake of the cause we are endeavouring to serve, we trust others will be equally careful.

FREEMASONRY IN THE CITY.

THE present Lord Mayor of London (Bro. Alderman Knight) is well emulating the example set him by many of his predecessors in office, by mingling freely with the brethren of the City Lodges, who seem to vie with each other in securing his Lordship's genial society for an evening now and then. Since his accession to the Mayoralty, Bro. Knight has been a visitor to as many Lodges as the multifarious engagements of the Civic chair will admit, and we can readily understand how perplexed he occasionally must be when inundated with the invitations of the brethren, at whose festivities he would be a welcome and an honoured guest. On the last occasion of his appearance in a Masonic capacity, at a complimentary banquet given by the "Good old Neptune Lodge," his Lordship, in a very happy vein, alluded to the guiding principles of the Craft, and impressed upon the Masters of Lodges the desirableness of doing their work in a thorough and complete manner. Very happy was his allusion to the kind of triple alliance which existed between himself and his two Sheriffs, who by an almost "unique" coincidence are also members of our Order, although Bro. Savory is as yet "but a fledgeling." The Lord Mayor in his allusion to this happy trio, dwelt urbanely upon the mutual sympathy which pervades the brethren of the Craft, not merely in the performance of their Masonic duties, but in all the other relations of life, and observed that when they felt the brethren with whom they were associated were deserving of their sympathy it increased the zest with which they set about their work, and tightened the bonds by which they were held together in the great Brotherhood of Freemasonry. His allusion to the strong Masonic affinities amongst the Hebrew section of the community was but the natural outcome of his recent experiences in that quarter of the city where Jews "most do congregate," and the impressions left upon his mind appear to have been of the most favourable and satisfactory kind. The many pithy little points included in his address to the Neptunians were listened to with evident pleasure, and will no doubt be profitably remembered by those who were fortunate enough to be present. It must be admitted that the réunion was a great success, and reflected the highest credit upon Bro. Povey the Worshipful Master and his Officers. Never for a moment were the pleasantries of the occasion allowed to flag, and the presiding genius of the feast was enabled to show his ability at least in one important branch of his duties, and it must be admitted he performed that duty excellently well. It is gratifying to find that the Civic dignitaries are so alive to the desirability of cultivating the amenities of their brethren of the Craft, for it unquestionably produces a most salutary effect, in many ways. It not only brings the citizens on terms of agreeable intimacy with the chief Officers of the local government of the City, but increases the means of social intercourse amongst the brethren of our Lodges, and infuses more than ordinary zest and interest into their proceedings. It has been the custom with one or two recent Lord Mayors to give Freemasonry prominent representation within the precincts of the Mansion House, and we do not doubt that Bro. Alderman Knight, in the carrying out of the duties of his office—which he is doing without undue ostentation, but in a manner that has been eminently satisfactory to the City—will consider it part of his programme to welcome the representatives of our metropolitan Lodges "at home." We may expect from the sample he has already given us of his urbanity and deep active interest in the Craft that he will excel in sagacity and consideration some of the Lord Mayors, at least, who either through lack of thought, or by ill-advice, have made the Masonic banquets at the Mansion House anything but of a representative character. Such a gathering without the presence of a single representative of the City Lodges, forcibly reminds us of the rather hackneyed allusion to the play of Hamlet minus the Prince of Denmark; but we are reminded that no little comment was excited some time ago when an occurrence of that kind amused so many, and annoyed not a few of our City brethren. In congratulating his Lordship and his Sheriffs upon the lively interest they have taken during their term of office in the promotion of amenity, and the interchange of friendly feeling amongst the members of our various Lodges, there can be little question that when Grand honours are distributed this agreeable fact will not be overlooked.

GERMANY.

HAMBURG, 29TH MARCH 1883.

YOUR readers will perhaps be pleased to hear something about Masonry in this country, and in my first letter to you on this subject I shall have to dwell upon a rare Masonic festival which took place in Frankfort-on-the-Maine on the 18th of March. On that day one hundred years ago the Eclectic Order of Freemasons was called into existence in that city by the publication of the circular issued by the Directorial Lodge at Wetzlar and Provincial Grand Lodge at Frankfort, and which may be considered as the document of foundation of Eclectic Masonry.

The festival was arranged in the large hall of the Frankfort Saalban, as none of the Lodge rooms were large enough to hold all the participants. At noon precisely the Wor. Masters of the fourteen Eclectic Lodges were ushered in by the Stewards, and took their seats in the East, after which all the brethren were ushered in. When all had taken their places, the M.W.G.M. Bro. Van der Heyden opened Lodge, and the deputations of other Grand Lodges entered in solemn procession, and also took seats in the East behind the Wor. Masters. The celebration was opened by a festival cantata—"Des Schiffleins Fahrt"—written by Bro. V. Valentin, and composed by Bro. Klahre expressly for this occasion. At its conclusion, M.W.P.G.M. Brother Dr. K. Oppel rose and gave a highly interesting retrospective review over the past century of the Eclectic Order of Freemasons. The M.W.G.M. then called upon the fourteen W.M.'s of the Eclectic Lodges, and the M.W.P.G.M. to form the chain with him around the altar, and twelve strokes of the clock, and the gradual extinction of the lights in the hall, represented in a sensible manner the departing of the first century, in the same manner as the chiming of church bells and the gradual return of light into the hall represented the dawn of the new century. Now resounded the second festival cantata—"Der Tempelbau"—written likewise by Bro. Valentin, and composed by Bro. Jul. Sachs, expressly for this occasion. The musicians and their instruments, as well as the singers, &c. were arranged, so as to be invisible to the brethren, in the East, behind a large green screen and a large group of plants, by means of which the impression on the participants was all the more edifying. The Grand Orator then rose for his festival oration, his theme consisting of the poet's words: "Wie schön, o Mensch mit deinem Palmenzweige, stehst Du an des Jahrhunderts Neige." 500 to 600 brethren followed the deductions of the orator with the greatest interest, although all were apparently suffering from the excessive heat of the hall. Two W.M.'s—Bro. Barthelmess jun., from Nuremberg, and Bro. Corens, of Hamburg, then spoke, in the name of the Eclectic Lodges. Brother Corens, as the head of a deputation from the two Eclectic Lodges of Hamburg, was the bearer of a gift from the said two Lodges, consisting of a costly Bible, bound in velvet, and silver mounted, for the altar of the Grand Lodge. Then followed a number of addresses on the part of the Grand Lodges represented on this occasion by their deputations; among these was one from the Grand Orient de Belgique, and of the Supreme Conseil de Belgique, from Brussels, whose speaker was the M.W.G.M. Brother K. A. Couvreur.

Numerous letters and congratulatory telegrams were received from all countries of Europe and abroad, but they could not be read to the assembled brethren because of the great number. Only a telegram from H.M. the Emperor, and a congratulatory letter of H.I.H. the Crown Prince of Germany, both of whom had been invited to participate in this festival, were read. The announcement of the M.W. G.M. that Grand Lodge had resolved to proclaim H.M. the Emperor and H.I H. the Crown Prince of the German Empire honorary members of Grand Lodge, and that said honorary membership had been most graciously accepted, created among the brethren the most profound joy. A telegram conveying thanks, and expressing the loyalty of the brethren to the two Most Worshipful and Illustrious Protectors of our Order, was formulated and read by the M.W.G.M., and at once despatched. It may be remarked here that on this occasion the great Masonic merits of the M.W.G.M., Bro Von der Heyden, were acknowledged by his being appointed to no less than seven honorary memberships, by several Grand Lodges and Private Lodges.

At five o'clock Lodge was closed in form, and at six o'clock the brethren reassembled to partake of a sumptuous repast, which having been thoroughly enjoyed, rhetorical and musical performances contributed to bring to a worthy conclusion a notable day, that will long be remembered by those who took an active part in it.

Three publications appeared on this occasion, viz.:—

1. Annals of the Eclectic Order of Freemasonry, comprising the time from 1766 to 1883. By Bro. Karl Paul, Grand Secretary. 270 pages.
2. Festschrift. By Bro. Dr. K. Oppel, M.W.P.G.M.
3. Festival Number of the Masonic Organ, "Die Bruderkette," published by the Hamburg Lodge, "Zur Bruderkette."

A convocation of the St. Martin's-le-Grand Chapter, No. 1538, was held on Tuesday evening, at the Guildhall Tavern, Gresham Street, E.C. There was only a small attendance, and the work on the agenda paper being light, the brethren adjourned early to the banquet, over which Comp. Major W. E. Williams, Treasurer, presided. The customary Loyal and Royal Arch toasts were duly honoured, and a very agreeable evening was passed.

The annual supper of the members of the Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction, No. 860, will take place on Friday, the 20th inst., at the Sisters' Tavern, Pownall Road, Dalston. These réunions at Bro. Smyth's are always of an agreeable character; we are sure to meet many old friends, and mine host spares no pains to make his guests comfortable. Bro. Wallington will preside.

THE CHILDREN OF THE LATE BROTHER WOODWARD.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—In your last, you mention the fact of Thomas Woodward having been withdrawn from the list of candidates for the Boys' School. You will, perhaps, allow me to state that Minnie Woodward, a sister of the above, is a candidate for the Girls' School.

Their father, the late William Woodward, attained the rank of Serjeant-Major in the 31st Regiment, with which corps he served throughout the Crimean and the North China Campaigns. He was initiated in 1858, and in the same year assisted in founding the Meridian Lodge, No. 743 (31st Regiment), of which he remained a subscribing member until his death in 1881.

The children of deceased military brethren being placed at some disadvantage as regards their candidature for our Schools, I shall be glad if this brief tribute to the worth of a gallant old soldier is successful in attracting even a slight measure of attention to a most deserving case.

Regimental Lodges, though neither Provincial or Metropolitan, have claims upon the entire Craft, and in the absence of direct assistance from Local Associations, I hope that many stray votes may be cast in favour of Minnie Woodward, who is one of a family of six children, left dependent upon a widowed mother.

Yours fraternally,

R. F. GOULD, P.M. No. 743.

THE APPROACHING ELECTIONS.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER, — You, Bro. Editor, have done well in exposing the case of No. 55, Herring; and I should hope his friends will be wise enough to withdraw his name, to prevent the unpleasant task of repeating the Collingwood episode. Annexed you will find a table analysing the London and Provincial cases for the Boys' and Girls' Elections in April, and Aged Freemasons and their Widows' in May next.

At the election of the latter, there are fifty male applicants and seventy female; the average age of the former is 68 years 4 months, and of the latter 65 years 7 months, or a general average of 67 less half a month. Our distressed brethren have subscribed on the average 23 years 6 months, the late husbands of the widows 15 years and a fraction, making a general average of 19½ years or thereabouts, forming a favourable contrast to the fathers of the children, whose average is a trifle over 9 years 9 months. However, this is easily accounted for, seeing that out of the ninety-one children candidates, only eight have the principal breadwinner left to them. Hoping these few statistics will be of interest and benefit to your readers,

I remain, yours fraternally,

P.M. 1607.

MISAPPLIED CHARITY.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—It is only natural, when we consider the vast number of applications that are made upon the Masonic Charities, that the utmost care should be taken in discriminating as to who are the real, and who the undeserving objects of our solicitude and help. The Craft will have to thank you, Sir, and others whose duty it is to consider these matters, for pointing out any cases in which there shall be the slightest grounds for believing the applications made were not of the most genuine and bona fide kind. How frequently it is our lot to listen to the unpleasant facts related by the executive of our various Institutions, when the number of candidates for their benefits are so numerous, and the vacancies so few, that to meet one-half of them is an utterly hopeless task. And yet, in looking over the lists of names before us prior to each election, it is most difficult to say which is the most deserving our sympathy, or whose case is really the most urgent. Without inquiry into the private lives of the applicants and their families, the circumstances of which are certainly not presented in too rosy colours when applying for such benefits, it is very difficult to arrive at a perfectly satisfactory conclusion upon the point, and the friends who espouse the particular cases are careful to put them in as plausible and unfavourable a light as possible. The fact, however, remains, that whereas all, or with very few exceptions, such applications are impelled by urgent need, there are occasionally, as you have indicated from time to time, cases which creep in, and in which palpable "jockeying"—it can be designated by no other term—is resorted to, by which candidates who are by no means eligible, according to the rules of the Institution, for relief, are elected over the heads of others who are really deserving all the sympathy and help which can be extended to them. The cases you name demand the strictest investigation, and unless it is made there will be a vast amount of dissatisfaction aroused amongst those who are now willing subscribers to the funds. To say nothing of the unscrupulous endeavours of some people to steal a march upon our Charity, and to grasp at advantages of which they do not stand in immediate need, it is the duty of the promoters of our Institutions to guard carefully their own interests, and the interests of their consistent supporters, and to see that, as I have hinted at the head of this letter, their well-intentioned Charity is not misapplied.

I am, Dear Sir,

Yours fraternally,

CAUTION.

"UNWORTHY CLAIMANTS FOR THE BENEFITS OF OUR CHARITIES."

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I see, by the article in your last issue with the above heading, that you have been more successful than I in unravelling the mystery which is attached to one of the candidates for admission to the Boys' School at the Election to take place this month. I may tell you I am about among Freemasons a great deal, and some short time since heard it mentioned, as you say, that one of the candidates for the Boys' School was entitled to a small fortune should he reach the age of 21. I asked the boy's name, but my friend replied he did not want to be the one to make a bother, and although I afterwards mentioned the matter to several others, some of whom, I think, knew the name, I had been unable to find anything out until I read your article, when I had no doubt but that the case there mentioned was the same. I see you have had a similar experience once before, and so I presume you know how to go to work, but some one must have told you the name of the boy, and I think that brother is equally, with you, deserving of thanks.

For myself, I cannot express the surprise I feel at reading your remarks; to think that a case like that to which you refer as having occurred two and a half years ago should have come to the knowledge of the governing body, and yet no steps have been taken to prevent what has now taken place—a repetition. What are the Committees thinking of? do they ask me to subscribe my ten guineas for this purpose? because if so, I shall most decidedly stop, once and for all, my advocacy of the Masonic Institutions. I may say, lest any brother should doubt my having already done something, that I have served two Stewardships, and had an idea of offering my services again, but I do not think I shall do so unless I see that the money, I and others collect, is spent more carefully. I feel sure my friends would not support me unless I could convince them that such persons as the Herring family are in future to be excluded from the benefits of the Schools.

I shall most anxiously look for your future numbers, in which I hope some further reference to this subject will be made. Meanwhile,

I remain,

Yours fraternally,

A LIFE GOVERNOR.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Your remarks on the position of a boy candidate for our April Election, which appear in your issue of 31st March, under the heading "Unworthy Claimants for the benefits of our Charities," again seek to place our Schools before the Craft in a false character. As you have referred to what was done some time since, in the case of the lad Collingwood, I also will refer to it. The view you now take may at that time "have appeared" to be the popular one, as the rejection of the case took place, but I much question if it was really the desire of the general body that the boy should be turned out. You will, perhaps, remember what were the arguments used at that time; they were, among others, that the Schools were not intended for paupers only, that they were as free to one member of the Craft as another; and it was pointed out that a lad, even though he had some little property, might be as poor, comparatively speaking, as some of those without any provision. Families who have always lived in a higher sphere feel just as much the coming down to a lower one, as those in an inferior do having to make shift lower still, and for that reason an Institution, to be worthy the name of a Masonic Charity, should do as much for one as for the other. I hope your advice will not be acted upon so far as the case of the boy Herring is concerned. The lad should be allowed to go to the poll, and, if he can get enough votes, he should be admitted to the School. His father was a Mason, and as such has a claim on the Institutions; why should his boy be shut out because he has some money to take some eleven years hence? he cannot live all that time on the expectation of getting it, and I expect he cannot touch it before. No, Brother Editor, the Schools are intended for the children of Masons, and those who can get enough friends to support them should be admitted; at least, that is my opinion; and I think you will find it will be the opinion of the Committee, who were perhaps carried away by the excitement of the moment when they decided that young Collingwood should be excluded. As for you, for whom I usually have the greatest respect, I feel on this occasion you have let your energy get the better of your judgment, and I hope, on reflection, you will see fit to modify your advice.

Digitized by Google

I remain,

Yours fraternally,

A NORTHERN SUBSCRIBER.

[So far from modifying our advice, "on reflection," we feel more strongly than ever on the point. We have had two and a half years to think the matter over since the Collingwood affair, and have spoken of it many times, with the result that on each occasion we have been more and more convinced the action taken was the right one.—ED. F.C.]

THE LATE ELECTION OF GRAND TREASURER.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Since my last appeared in your columns my attention has been called to the fact that the statement as to the Grand Treasurer elect "having served the Craft for nearly forty years" appeared in the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE, and in the Freemason of the 3d March.

Therefore the proposer is not solely responsible for this misstatement, which was widely circulated previous to the meeting of Grand Lodge on the 7th ultimo.

Yours fraternally,

ROYAL ARCH.

OLD KING'S ARMS CHAPTER, No. 28.

THE annual meeting of this old established Chapter was held at Freemasons' Tavern, Great Queen-street, on Monday, 2nd inst. Comps. J. A. Farnfield M.E.Z., T. J. Thomas H., Watson Thomas J., E. Mooney P.S. (in whose unavoidable absence Comp. Jackson P.S. Polish National Chapter made a most efficient substitute), Paas S.E., Ebner and Coles P.Z.'s. Visitors—Comps. Jackson and Jagielski Polish National. Bro. Miller Old King's Arms Lodge, was exalted into Royal Arch Masonry, the ceremony being admirably performed by the M.E.Z. All business being finished, Chapter was closed in due form, and the brethren adjourned to the banquet-room. After the usual Loyal and Royal Arch toasts had been given Comp. Coles proposed the health of the M.E.Z. Comp. Farnfield had always performed his duties most excellently, and had added much to the popularity of the Chapter by always being genial and kind. Companion Farnfield responded in an appropriate manner, and then proposed the health of the exaltee, Comp. Miller, who was a well-known and important member of the Common Council; he hoped they would have him many years among them. Comp. Miller, in responding, stated that it reminded him most forcibly of the night of his initiation; he had been very much astonished at all that he had gone through, and hoped he might be spared for many years to come to meet around so festive a board. The M.E.Z. then proposed the health of the Visitors, Comps. Dr. Corrie Jackson and Dr. Victor Jagielski, both of the Polish National Chapter, alluding, in felicitous terms, to the way in which the Companions who acted as M.E.Z. and P.S. had performed their duties. These Companions having replied, he proposed the health of P.Z.'s Paas, Coles and Ebner, alluding repeatedly to the pleasure it gave the brethren to see the last-named again restored to them after his severe illness. Comp. Thomas also had been very ill, and they were all very pleased to see him again amongst them. Comp. Paas replied for the P.Z.'s; he was very pleased to see his friend Comp. Miller joining them, and to see Comps. Ebner and Thomas again restored to health. He also congratulated Comp. Griffiths on the way he had performed the duties of M.E.Z., and Comp. Jackson that of P.S. Comp. Ebner said that he could not allow the Comps. to separate without thanking them for their congratulations on his restoration to health; he hoped he should continue well. The Companions then separated, after having spent a very pleasant evening.

NEPTUNE LODGE, No. 22.

COMPLIMENTARY BANQUET TO THE LORD MAYOR AND SHERIFFS OF LONDON AND MIDDLESEX.

THURSDAY evening, last week, was one long to be remembered in the annals of the Neptune Lodge, when a grand complimentary banquet was given to the Lord Mayor (Ald. H. E. Knight) and the Sheriffs (Bros. Ald. De Keyser and Joseph Savory). The event had been looked forward to with a considerable amount of pleasurable interest not only by the brethren of this Lodge, but also by many others who had received invitations to be present, and the success which attended the affair must have been most gratifying to Brother E. F. Storr P.M., to whose instrumentality this was mainly due. Amongst the Visitors who graced the festive board were the Grand Treasurer elect (Bro. J. Derby Allcroft), Sir John Bennett, and other prominent Freemasons. Five o'clock was the hour named for the assembling of the brethren, at the Guildhall Tavern, and soon after that time Lodge was opened. There was no business on the agenda, and the brethren adjourned at an early hour to the banqnetting room, which was elegantly decorated for the occasion. Bro. Henry Povey the W.M. presided; he was supported on the right by the Lord Mayor, the Grand Treasurer elect, Sheriff Savory, Sir John Bennett, and many others, amongst whom we may mention Bros. Hamer P.M. 1426, Swanborough P.M. 1319, Gabb P.M. 902, Vane, Brooke, Levy P.M. 188, Webb 235, Müller 73, Cook 1530, Bawtry 1445, Stillwell 1, Richardson late 22, Light (Star of India), Rose (Whittington), Hunt 1807, Creamer, &c. The Officers and members of the Lodge present included Bros. Harper, Ph. D., I.P.M., Wilcox P.M. (late Treasurer), Gray P.M., Holden P.M., Lawrence, Hopper, Charles, King, Vane, Roberts, Macgregor, Taylor, Jolliffe, Brooks, Peart, Walker, Frost, Roberts, Cartice, Murray, Emil Hollandt, Parkinson (Tyler), and others. After an admirably served repast, the W.M. read letters of apology for unavoidable non-attendance from Bros. Alderman and Sheriff De Keyser, Sir John B. Monckton, Town Clerk, President of the Board of General Purposes, Alderman Whitehead, and H. G. Buss Assistant Grand Secretary. The W.M. in proposing the Queen and the Craft, said loyalty to the Throne, obedience to law, support of order, and detestation of revolution, were, and always would be, amongst the distinguishing characteristics of Freemasonry. The toast was loyally received, and was followed by the National Anthem, sung by Bro. Britton. The health of the Most Worshipful Grand Master, and the other Grand Officers Present and Past were given with due reference to their ability in governing and directing the affairs of the Craft. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the evening, the Health of the Right Hon. the Lord Mayor and the Sheriffs of London and Middlesex. In the course of his observations he said he was sure the brethren would agree with him that it was an act of great kindness on the part of his Lordship and Bro. Savory to come to their festivities on that occasion. When they considered that the Lord Mayor of London was looked upon as the representative of the commerce and industry of this great City, they ought to feel themselves highly honoured by his presence. The Lord Mayor for the time being occupied the chair of Walworth, Whittington, and Gresham, and Bro. Alderman Knight possessed all the qualifications which made him a worthy successor to those historic celebrities. Considering the number of engagements which necessarily occupied his Lordship's attention, it was a great condescension on his part to honour this meeting of the good old Neptune Lodge. The Sheriff also represented a very ancient and time-honoured office, though, as far as Masonry was concerned, he was only as yet a fledgeling; but in the name of the Lodge he congratulated Bro. Savory upon having been admitted a member of their ancient and honourable institution. He trusted the day might not be far distant when he might occupy in his own Lodge the proud position which he (the speaker) now held, through the kindness of the brethren. The toast was received with a thorough Neptune fire. Bro. the Lord Mayor, in a lengthy and exceedingly happy speech, thanked the brethren for the very happy reception they had given to the toast. He was especially indebted for the pleasure of being present that evening to his friend, Bro. Storr, who had been unremitting in his determination to keep him posted up in the meetings of the Lodge, so that he should not lose sight of his promise to attend one of its banquets. Bro. Storr had been most kind and courteous, bearing with him in his many engagements, until at last he found an opportunity of coming amongst them. He regretted that another engagement the same evening had prevented his taking part in the work of the Lodge, and proceeded to say that the post he had the honour to fill as Lord Mayor had frequently been occupied by brethren of the Craft, but there was something unique in the present year, for he did not recollect it had occurred before that the Lord Mayor and his Sheriffs had the honour of belonging to the Order of Freemasons. They were a trio, working together in a most friendly and amicable manner, and they found delight in supporting each other. There was a deep and hearty sympathy between brethren of the Craft, and when they felt that brethren were worthy of this sympathy, it increased their zest in working with men with whom they were associated in other relations in life, and with whom they were bound by strong ties in the great brotherhood of Freemasonry. He had been a Mason for nearly twenty years, and when he filled the chair in his Lodge he worked the three degrees, and gave the traditional history, which they would admit was no light duty. But he entered into Masonry as was his custom with all else that he undertook, and considered if a thing was worth doing at all it was worth doing well. That was a principle which should always guide Freemasons. Although they should never make it obtrusive, or force it before the world, so as to lower the Order in the estimation of others, and although they were forbidden to induce men to join the Craft, still the principles which actuated the brethren must necessarily make them good men and true friends. He referred to the salutary influences which Masonry brought to bear in the various relations of life, and said this was strikingly illustrated in the recent Aldermanic election in the City, when he presided over a wardmote for the election of a successor to their late esteemed colleague Bro. Alderman Sir Thomas White. He should not soon forget the extent to which Freemasonry seemed to be cultivated, and the manner in which it was carried out amongst the Jews. He had always understood that a great number of Jews were Freemasons, but he was not aware it existed to so large an extent as was evident to him in the ward of Portsoken. He looked upon Masonry as affording him some of the happiest hours of his life. He must say that amongst the hospitalities he had received from all classes of his fellow-citizens, none had exceeded those which had been offered him by the fraternity to which they all rejoiced to belong. Night after night, almost, he might be a welcome—and he believed an honoured—guest at any of the Lodges. They had come to him from all parts, and his only grief was that he had been unable to accept the kind invitations as frequently as he should have liked. He looked upon Freemasonry as an institution which had for its object the benefit of, and the promotion of happiness, amongst mankind. An institution which had this for its object was worthy of all admiration and support, and he should do all he could in the position he held to advance the means of doing good to his fellow-men. He wished this Lodge every prosperity, and might it continue to flourish to the very end. Bro. Sheriff Savory claimed the indulgence of the brethren, in responding to the toast, for two reasons, first because he was a "fledgeling" in Masonry, though he hoped in time he might become a full-grown bird, and it should be his endeavour to do his utmost for the cause of Freemasonry. In the second place, this toast was so often proposed, that he found it difficult to find suitable terms in which to acknowledge it. He was struck with the pertinent remarks which had fallen from the Worshipful Master, bearing upon the principles of the Craft, amongst which he said law and order were engrained in the heart of every Freemason. He regretted the absence of his colleague, Bro. Alderman De Keyser, who was spending a short holiday in Belgium; but they both esteemed it a privilege to rank with the Lord Mayor in the cause of Freemasonry. Bro. J. Harper, Immediate Past Master, in proposing the health of the Worshipful Master, referred to the admirable manner in which Brother Povey discharged the duties of the chair, and as the Lord Mayor had referred to the traditional history, which was ignored in many of the Lodges, he might be allowed to say that was a point on which the brethren of the Neptune prided themselves upon having done thoroughly. It took time to make themselves proficient in the ritual, but their predecessors had done it, and Bro. Povey had proved himself as able in this as in all the other branches of his work. The W.M. thanked the brethren for the kind response they had made to his appeal on behalf of the Institution for Girls, and said through their instrumentality he should be able to take up a list in every way worthy of the good old Neptune Lodge. With respect to himself, his whole heart was in the working of the three degrees, and he should feel it no honour to be Master of a Lodge unless he did the work. Two gentlemen had been nominated as candidates for their next meeting, and nothing would give him greater pleasure than to initiate them. In conclusion, he proposed the Visitors, the toast being most cordially received. Bro. Allcroft, after acknowledging the hospitality extended to the guests, said he should have been pleased to witness some working by the Officers and brethren. The reputation of the Neptune for hospitality had been maintained to a high degree. If the old original Neptune treated everybody as well as did the Lodge bearing his name, Sir Edward Watkin would have little need of boring a tunnel underneath the English Channel. Bro. Sir John Bennett, after some humorous prefatory remarks, said it was delightful to follow so high an authority in the Craft as Bro. John Derby Allcroft. Though, unfortunately, it had never been his privilege or good fortune to take a leading part in Masonry, yet from his early days his friends had been in the midst of it, and he had been full of the purposes and the traditions of the Craft, which came home to him as historical matters of the most momentous character. For thirty years, though persistently declining office, he had regarded with interest and respect the marvellous current of Freemasonry. Within the last 3000 years everything had been in revolution, and nothing maintained its unaltered supremacy like the Craft. Through evil and good report, it had passed through the dark ages, and though dynasties had risen and fallen, and even though forms of theology had come and passed away, still the steady march of the Craft advanced unchanged, through all the vicissitudes of surrounding Institutions. Freemasonry now, as ever, was hearty and vigorous in the performance of its beneficial designs. Its aim was to better the condition of suffering humanity; its motto was that of Christianity itself—namely, liberty, equality and fraternity. Its highest honours were given to its most devoted members on the true ground of merit, without regard for the man's position, or the want of position, in the outer world. Wherever the Masonic body could gather up the elements of progress and improvement, they gave a hearty concurrence, and strove to make them available for the good of human civilisation. Their past history showed this, and for the future they were as determined to add to those forces from time to time, most conducive to the freedom and welfare of the greatest number, in mind body, and estate. For this the world had ever been grateful to the Craft, and had ever appreciated, though it could not fully comprehend, the great principles which lay at the very root of humanity. They might be thankful to the G.A.O.T.U. that Freemasonry knew none of the creeds and disputations by which the world had been racked in the past centuries of its history; no political party spirit, no theological creed entered into the Craft itself; and its sole object was to make the world live better to-morrow than it did to-day. He was glad to congratulate this Lodge upon its vitality, and wished for it a long career of future prosperity. The Worshipful Master then proposed the health of the Past Masters, with which toast he associated the name of Bro. Isaac Wilcox, who had ably officiated as Treasurer of the Lodge for twenty-seven years. Bro. Wilcox P.M., said nothing could be more gratifying to the Past Masters than to find the brethren of the Lodge emulating the example of their predecessors, and striving after the position which their Worshipful Master well occupied to-night. He (the speaker) had been a member of this Lodge thirty-three years, and he was now its senior member. It was a great source of satisfaction to him to know he enjoyed the esteem of the brethren. He had endeavoured, during the twenty-seven years he acted as Treasurer, to keep them in a good sailing condition, and during the whole of that period they had never been indebted to the tavern for a shilling, and had never sat down to a dinner without its liabilities being discharged. He looked upon that with some satisfaction, because he felt they were independent of the proprietor under whose roof they were entertained, and they commanded more respect than if they were £200 or £300 in debt. Economy, prudence and caution were as necessary in Masonry as in commercial matters; and it was a pleasure to know that the Lodge had risen by prudence, care and economy to its present high position in the Craft. The brethren did him honour, in January last, when he retired from office, to present him with an acknowledgment of his humble services, and he regarded it as the highest honour any Lodge could possible bestow upon a brother connected with it. He was sure in his nomination of Brother Storr as his successor he was quite justified, for that brother was remarkable for his punctuality and regularity of attendance. He held it as one of the greatest requisites that the brother who held the office of Treasurer should be regular in attendance, and for this Bro. Storr was proverbial; therefore it was with pleasure he recommended him, and he was sure the Lodge would never regret having received him. The Worshipful Master next proposed the health of the Treasurer and Secretary, and spoke in highly complimentary terms of the manner in which the duties of these offices were discharged by Bro. E. F. Storr P.M. and Brother George Britton P.M. Brother Storr thanked the brethren for the hearty reception they had given to the toast, and expressed his gratification at the success of their gathering, and the attendance of their illustrious visitors. He was rejoiced to meet the Grand Treasurer elect, and said the blue collar should not be held in perpetuity by any brother, however worthy. Brother Colonel Creaton deserved well of the Craft for his services as Grand Treasurer, but there were many men equally worthy of the honour, as there were many coming on equally as distinguished as Brother John Derby Allcroft. He trusted the office would be handed down year by year to those who had done service to Masonry in their day and generation. His love for Masonry was innate, and charity was a touchstone to him. He thanked them for sending him to the Benevolent Institution with such a noble list, and now he asked them for all the Boys' and Girls' votes they could spare for deserving cases. He was pleased that Bro. Wilcox's mantle had fallen upon him, and he should strive to discharge the duties of his office to their satisfaction. Bro. Britton was exceedingly delighted at the success of the evening, and thanked their Treasurer for the energy he had displayed in bringing about this much-to-be-desired visit of such distinguished personages as the Lord Mayor and Sheriff of London, the Grand Treasurer elect, and other Officers of Grand Lodge. The good fellowship and intercourse of Freemasonry had been well exemplified on that occasion, and he should be glad to use every effort to promote the interests of the Lodge. The W.M. then proposed the Officers of the Lodge, with thanks for the ability with which they supported him in carrying on his duties. Bro. J. J. Slater, in returning thanks, said this evening had been a proud one for the Lodge, and he was rejoiced at meeting so many distinguished visitors. He and all the other Officers were united in furthering the best interests of the Neptune Lodge, and in maintaining the high position it had attained in the Craft. The proceedings were shortly afterwards closed with the Tyler's toast. There was an abundance of excellent music and singing, to which contributions were made by Bros. Britton, Hopper, Fitzgerald, Taylor, McGregor, Charles, Light, and Vane.

Percy Lodge of Instruction, No. 198.—At the meeting at the Jolly Farmers, Southgate-road, Islington, on Saturday, the 31st March, there were present—Bros. Weeden W.M., Dixie S.W., Marks J.W., Ashton S.D., Woolf J.D., Birch I.G., Pearcy Preceptor, Lorkin Treasurer, Galer Secretary; also Bros. Spencer, Houghton, Hatch, Brasted, Moss, Wright, Fenner, Glass, Bevan, and Manger. Lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed. Lodge was opened in the second degree, and Brother Brasted offered himself as candidate for raising; he was examined and entrusted. Lodge opened in the third degree, and the ceremony of raising was rehearsed, the Worshipful Master giving the traditional history. Lodge was resumed, and the ceremony of passing rehearsed, Brother Lorkin candidate. Brother Dixie was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing week. Lodge was then closed and adjourned. The members of the above Lodge have accepted invitations to work the Fifteen Sections at the Royal Standard Lodge of Instruction, on the 27th instant, and at the Upton Lodge of Instruction, on the second Thursday in May.

Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction, No. 860.—Held at Bro. Smyth's, Sisters' Tavern, Pownall-road, Dalston, on Tuesday, 3rd inst. Bros. Young W.M., Cushing S.W., Wardell J.W., Christian S.D., Bunker J.D., Gray I.G., F. Carr Secretary, Brasted acting Preceptor; also Bros. Allen, Smyth, Wallington, Ames, &c. Lodge was opened in due form, and minutes of previous meeting were read and confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Brother Smyth candidate. Bro. Christian worked the first, second and third sections of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Cushing was elected W.M. for the ensuing week, and appointed his Officers in rotation. Lodge was then closed, and adjourned.

EBORACUM LODGE, No. 1611.

A NUMEROUSLY attended special meeting of the members of this Lodge, with several visitors, took place on Monday night, at the Masonic Rooms, Queen Hotel, York, the W.M. Bro. M. Millington presiding. The Lodge was called off for the purpose of presenting to Bro. Churchill an address, beautifully illuminated on vellum, by Mr. J. E. Morton, of this city, on the occasion of his relinquishing the management of the hotel, where he has catered for the brethren since the consecration of the Lodge in 1876. The presentation was made by the Worshipful Master with suitable remarks, which were endorsed by Bros. Whytehead P.M., Blenkin S.W., Padel P.M., Balmford Treasurer, and others. The address was as follows:—At a special meeting of the Eboracum Lodge of Freemasons, held at the Masonic Rooms, Queen's Hotel, York, on Monday, the 2nd April 1883, it was moved by the W.M., and seconded by Bro. Whytehead, and unanimously resolved "That the cordial thanks of the members of the Lodge be given to Bro. H. Churchill for his kind and fraternal conduct for a period of over six years, during which the Eboracum Lodge has held its meetings under his roof, together with their heartfelt wish that he may long be spared to continue a worthy Craftsman in their ancient Order." Signed for the members, M. Millington W.M., G. Simpson I.P.M., J. Blenkin S.W., A. T. B. Turner J.W., T. B. Whytehead P.M., J. S. Cumberland P.M., C. G. Padel P.M., J. T. Seller P.M., G. Balmford Treasurer. Bro. Churchill responded in appropriate terms, thanking the brethren for their kind consideration to him during the six years he had catered for the Lodge, and also for the splendid presentation they had just made him. He would still continue to take a deep interest in the welfare of the Eboracum Lodge. The brethren afterwards partook of supper, after which a lengthy toast list was submitted, including the health and future prosperity of Bro. Churchill, which was received with enthusiasm. Various songs and glees were contributed by Bros. Wilkinson, Child, Cumberland, Humphries, and others.

Rothesay Lodge, No. 1687.—A regular meeting of the above Lodge was held on the 4th instant, at the Inns of Court Hotel, Lincoln's-inn-fields. Bros. W. C. Parsons W.M., E. Duret S.W., F. Green J.W., L. Beck P.P.G.O. Middlesex Treasurer, J. B. Docker Secretary, G. Valeriani S.D., F. V. Green J.D., H. M. Levy P.M. 188 as I.G.; and Bros. Shaw and H. Gros. Lodge was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. Bro. Baptiste Barroni, having answered the necessary questions in a very satisfactory manner, was passed to the second degree, in the perfect way that the W.M. has invariably performed his duties in both this and another Lodge, No. 180, wherein he filled the chair, to the satisfaction of all the members. The bye-laws were read. This being the night for the election of a Worshipful Master for the ensuing year, the choice of the brethren was unanimously in favour of Bro. E. Duret, the announcement of whose election was warmly received by the brethren, and endorsed by the W.M., who stated Bro. Duret was the first initiate. Bro. Duret, in very appropriate terms, thanked the members for the honour they had shown him. Bro. L. Beck was unanimously re-elected Treasurer. Bros. Gros, Hawkins, and Shaw were appointed Auditors. The resignation of a brother was announced, and accepted with regret. Bro. L. Beck then proposed that the usual Lodge jewel be presented to the retiring W.M. for the able manner in which he had, in every way, conducted the duties of the chair, to their entire satisfaction. This was seconded by the S.W., and carried unanimously. Lodge was then closed until October. There being no banquet the brethren seperated.

The M.W. the Grand Master H.R.H. the Prince of Wales has granted a warrant for a new Lodge, to be called the Priory Lodge of Acton, No. 1996, and to meet at the Royal Oak Assembly Rooms, High Street, Acton, W. Brother W. Roebuck, P.G.Steward, P.M. No. 29, P.Prov. G.S.W. Middlesex, is to be the first W.M.; Bro. C. E. Botley, 780, S.W.; and Bro. George Wright, 452, J.W. The consecration will take place early in May. Bro. C. E. Botley is acting as Secretary pro tem.

We congratulate Brother Magnus Ohren, P.G.A.D.C., on the recognition made by the Shareholders at the Ordinary Half-Yearly General Meeting of the Crystal Palace District Gas Company, which was held at the Albion Tavern, Aldersgate-street, E.C., on Friday, the 16th ultimo, Bro. Erasmus Wilson, LL.D., F.R.S., in the chair. It is always a pleasant thing to realise the fact that one's efforts are appreciated by those we serve, and the substantial increment made to our esteemed brother's salary on this occasion fully confirmed, in his case, this fact.

Last week we formally announced the removal of Thomas Woodward, No. 32 on the list, from those who would compete at the coming election for the Boys' School. At that time we were unable to state the reason for this step, but a letter from Bro. R. F. Gould, which we publish in another column, supported by private information we have received, enables us now to explain the matter. It appears that a sister of the lad Woodward has been nominated as a candidate for the Girls' School (No. 10 on the list), and the friends feeling it was impossible to carry the boy's case—as the next would have been his last chance—and finding that the fact of his being a candidate interfered with his friends procuring votes for his sister,—in consequence of the objections many brethren entertain of allowing two members of a family to benefit by the Schools,—wisely determined on withdrawing this lad's application, thereby proving they only desired the benefits of the Masonic Schools for one member of the family. We trust this explanation will satisfy any who were prejudiced in this case, and that the efforts of Bro. Gould and others who are working on behalf of the girl may prove successful. The letter we already referred to gives some further details in reference to the father of the children than have hitherto been presented to the Craft, and its perusal may perhaps secure a few stray votes.

We must not omit to remind subscribers that we shall, as usual, be pleased to receive any proxies they may have at their disposal, and assure them we shall do our best to have them judiciously distributed among the most deserving cases.

THE LATE BRO. W. H. JONES.

A very successful meeting was held at St. James's Hall, on Wednesday evening, in view to organising a Memorial Fund for the family of the late lessee of the Alexandra Palace. Upwards of £250 was subscribed in the room, and an Executive Committee was appointed, with Bro. Wm. Tinsley, of Catherine-street, as Treasurer, and Bro. H. T. Thompson, of Clapton, as Hon. Secretary. The Committee Room is at 31 Villiers-street, Strand.

THE HISTORY OF FREEMASONRY.

HAVING traced the rise of the Craft Guilds, we turn our attention more particularly to the Stonemasons, who in many things resembled the other Craft Guilds, while at the same time, in matters prescribed by the exigencies of the trade, they differed from them all. The fraternity of builders, whose first authentic charter dates from the 13th century, had no doubt an earlier existence, and Bro. Gould considers it not improbable that skilled masons of the convent builders left the employ of their masters, the monks, "in the twelfth century or thereabouts," and "amalgamated with the Craft builders in the towns," and that "the two together formed the society afterwards known throughout Germany as the Steinmetzen." Certain it is, he says, that in the twelfth century we "do hear of the stonemasons as a distinct fraternity, occupied in the construction of large edifices, chiefly cathedrals and churches." These Steinmetzen were a branch of the Spinnewetter, who at first included all the building trades, but afterwards, following the example of other Crafts, resolved themselves into their component parts.

Bro. Gould contents himself by referring at some length to the "Constitutions" of the Steinmetzen of the year 1459. They have been reprinted oftentimes, and those who are curious in such matters will find them at p 660 and following pages of Findel's "History of Freemasonry." These were confirmed on 9th April 1464, and fresh signatures were attached as late as 1472. They appear to have been revised in 1563, on St. Michael's Day, at Strassburg, and as no English translation of the new code has heretofore been published, it is re-produced in these pages in its entirety. The preamble is to the following effect: "His Imperial Roman Majesty, our most gracious Lord, having in this one thousand five hundred and sixty-third year most graciously renewed, confirmed, and approved to the general fellowship and brotherhood of the Stonemasons in German Lands their regulations and duties; and whereas for some time past many irregularities and bad habits have arisen and obtained in the craft of masonry, therefore have many masters and fellows of aforesaid craft and fraternity, as they are named hereafter, met together in the aforesaid sixty-third year at Bâle on St. Bartholomew's, and at Strassburg on St. Michael's Day, in order to elucidate and better aforesaid Ordinances and Articles of the Craft and Brotherhood, and the aforesaid have elucidated and bettered said Ordinances, and settled that they shall be held as hereafter follows; and no one who is of this guild shall do or act contrary thereto."

It is no part of our duty to reproduce these articles, but some among them may be quoted or described. Thus Article II., which treats "Of the Duties of those who are of this Guild" declares that: "Whoso comes into this guild of his own good will, as hereafter stands written in this book, he shall promise to keep every point and article if he be of our craft of Masonry. Those shall be masters who can erect costly edifices and such like work, for the which they are authorised, and serve no other craft unless they choose so to do. And be it masters or fellows, they shall and must conduct themselves honourably, and none shall be wronged by them; therefore have we taken power in these Ordinances to punish them on the occasion of every such act." Article XI., in laying down the law as to "Who thrusts another from out a Work," says: "Whoever it be, either master or fellow, who shall oust from his work another master who is of this guild of craftsmen, or shall apply, be it in secret or openly, without his knowledge and consent, for the work that he possesses, be it large or small, the same shall be brought to task; and no master or fellow shall have any communion with him. And no fellow who is of this guild shall enter into his employ so long as he possesses the work which he has dishonourably obtained; nor until he shall have made restitution and given satisfaction to him who was thus dispossessed of the work; and also until he shall have been punished by the masters who are enjoined so to do by the guild." The meaning of this is obvious enough, notwithstanding that the pronouns "he" and "his" refer sometimes to the one dispossessed, and sometimes to the dispossessor, and it will be accepted as a very useful and proper regulation, which might be enjoined not without advantage at the present day among the members of some trades or callings. Rule XIV. ordains that "No Master shall teach a Fellow anything for Money," and Rule XV. regulates the number of Apprentices a Master may have. Rule XIX. relates to hearing, judging, and conducting conplaints, and is to the following effect: "And if a master have a complaint against another master for having violated the regulations of the craftsmen, or in the same way a master against a fellow, or a fellow against another fellow, whatever master or fellow is concerned therein shall give notice thereof to the masters who hold these books of the regulations. And the masters who are informed thereof shall hear both parties, and set a day when they will hear the cause. And meanwhile, before the fixed or appointed day no fellow shall avoid the master, nor master the fellow, but render services mutually until the hour when the matter is to be heard and settled. And this shall be done according to the judgment of the Craftsmen, and what is adjudged shall be observed accordingly. And, moreover, where the case arose there shall it be tried, by the nearest masters who hold the book of these regulations, and in whose district it occurred." Rule XX. "concerning driving away," may be said to follow naturally, and reads thus: "It is also further decided as regards the driving away: if it happen that anything be reported of a Master or Fellow, a matter of hearsay, repeated from one to the other, so long as it is not certain, and the aforesaid not righteously convicted thereof, he shall be avoided of or driven away by no one, but pursue his work until such time as it shall really be brought home to him, and he be righteously convicted. Unless it be that he will not yield obedience to the laws of the craft, such a one shall go idle according to our aforesaid Ordinances. Rule XXI., headed "Not to Appeal," may likewise be quoted: "It is also decided, where a matter begins and takes its rise, there shall it be settled, or in the nearest lodge where a book lies. And neither party shall appeal until plaint and answer take place and are heard, nor carry the matter further than aforesaid, unless it be rejected there." The Rule that follows determines "What Master has power to hear Complaints."

Rule XXIV. provides for "a collection for the Poor and Sick Brothers" in places where there is a Book, the sum thus collected from the fellows being a penny per week, to be put into a common box, the Master having a box, sending "a bohemian," a coin of trifling value, "every year at Michaelmas to the chief Lodge at Strassburg, with a ticket whence it comes, as a sign of obedience and brotherly love." Rule XXV. enumerates the places "which, having Books, are subject to the Chief Lodge at Strassburg."

Rule XXIX. treats of Punishments entailing expulsion from the Craft:—"If a complaint be laid before a master, such as would entail the greater punishment; for instance, if any one is to be forbidden the craft, that shall the master of a district not hear or judge of alone, but call to his aid the two nearest masters, who also possess a book and power according to these ordinances, that there may be three of them, and also the fellows that are in the employ where the complaint arose, and that which these three, together with the fellows, unanimously or by a majority, shall then decide on their oath and to the best of their judgment, that shall thereafter be maintained by the whole body of craftsmen." Rule XXX. relates to cases "where Quarrels arise, not concerning Masonry," and lays it down that "Should it be that two or more masters who are of this guild be at variance or discord about matters which do not concern masonry, they shall not on account of this difference, summon one another anywhere but before the craft and brotherhood; and they shall judge and reconcile them to the best of their ability, but so that the matter be settled without prejudice to the rights of those Lords or cities where the matter arose."

The following rule provides that a master, on admission, "pay one florin, and every year thereafter two bohemians or blapperts into the Craft box," a fellow paying five bohemians, and an apprentice, "when he has served his time," the like amount. Rule XXXIII. meets the case of an apprentice who considers his master does not fulfil his duty towards him, and who is allowed to bring the matter before the Masters and Craftsmen residing in the neighbourhood. Rule XXXIV. is headed, "Should any be sick in this Brotherhood, what is then to be done," and provides that "Should a master or a fellow fall sick, or a fellow of this guild who has in his time lived uprightly in masonry, and lay so long sick that it fail him in sustenance and the necessities of existence, the master who has the box of the guild in his charge shall help and assist him with a loan from the box, if he otherwise can, until he recover from his sickness; and he shall vow and promise to restitute the money lent into the box. But if he die in his days of sickness, then shall so much be retained from what he leaves after death, be it clothing or otherwise, till that is again made good which had been lent him, if so much there be." It appears to have escaped the framers of these Ordinances that a man who fails "in sustenance and the necessities of existence," and receives a loan from the box, if he die during illness, is not likely to leave behind him the wherewith to make restitution, nor does the Rule strike us as being liberally contrived, though it is calculated to inoculate those for whom it is intended with habits of thrift.

By Rule XXXV. a master or fellow making any disbursement out of his own pocket on behalf of the Brotherhood shall have it returned to him out of the guild. Or, if any one "Come to grief with justice or other things touching this guild," the fellows are enjoined to render him help, but no one of his own accord "without the advice of other masters or fellows" is to put the Craft to any expense. The Rule that follows provides for the punishment of the disobedient, and that, in the extreme case of any master or fellow refusing to pay the penalty adjudged against him, "then shall be be allowed to go idle, and no stonemason shall stand by him till he become obedient." The ordinances that follow as to the Judges and the Districts into which the Craft is divided may be passed over, so also may the earlier Rules affecting Wardens and Fellows excepting Rule L. against "Leagues," or as we should say "Strikes," which reads thus: "Likewise the fellows shall in the future make no more mutinies or conspiracies to leave any employ collectively, and thus delay a building; for up to the present the profits of our brotherhood have come from the Lords and cities almost entirely; but should a master behave otherwise than right in any case, he shall be summoned before the craft, and submit to its judgment. And in case of a pending judgment no such master shall be avoided of his fellows until the matter be adjudged, unless it be that such a one be disobedient to the judgment; in that case he may well be left to go idle." It were well perhaps if, having regard to the Strikes by which Masters are so frequently damaged, and the "Lock-outs" which Masters occasionally put in force against their men, some tribunal could be established that should decide all questions in dispute between employers and the employed. This, however, is merely a remark in passing and concerns not these regulations as they interest the Freemason.

Rule LIV. prescribes the vow that an apprentice is to take when he has served his time and is made free, and is to the following effect:

"In the first place, every apprentice when he has served his time, and is declared free, shall promise the craft, on his truth and honour, in lieu of oath, under pain of losing his right to practise masonry, that he will disclose or communicate the mason's greeting and grip to no one, except to him to whom he may justly communicate it; and also that he will write nothing thereof.

"Secondly, He shall promise as aforesaid, to be obedient to the craft of masonry in all things concerning the craft, and if he should be sentenced by the craft he shall conform wholly to such sentence, and yield obedience thereto.

"Thirdly, He shall promise not to weaken but to strengthen the craft, so far as his means may extend.

"Fourthly, No one shall stand by another to hew stones who is not honestly of the craft; and no master shall employ any one to hew stones who is not a true stonemason, unless it be permitted to him of a whole craft," the probable explanation of which curious expression is stated in a foot-note to be "Of all the members of the craft in his neighbourhood."

Rule LV. declares that he must not "of his own will and power" alter his mark "which has been granted and lent him by a craft"—that is, as suggested by a meeting of the craft—"but if he ever desire to alter it he shall only do it with the knowledge, will, and approval of a whole craft." By Nos. LVII. and LVIII. an apprentice is not to be made a warden either during his apprenticeship or even when he has served his term until he has "also travelled for one year." The ordinances that follow to the end of the Code all relate to Apprentices and, though interesting, need not to be described or quoted. Last of all, come the signatures attached, namely those of the "Masters and Fellows" as well as of "the Fellows," who subscribe their adhesion to the Ordinances.

Having compared this Code with that of 1459 and pointed out in what respects they agree and in what they differ, Bro. Gould gives the "Torgau Ordinances of 1462, Concerning the worshipful Masters of Stonemasons of the Craft, the Wardens, and the Fellows of the Craft," which are here for the first time translated into English. These he also describes and comments upon at length, subsequently sketching the character of a journeyman fraternity, all which should be carefully studied by the reader. Indeed the whole of the remaining part of the chapter is calculated to excite the interest of the curious. But as we have dwelt so long on the subject, and especially on the Ordinances of 1563, in the belief that a compact survey of that one code would be preferable to a less connected sketch of the 1563 and 1462 codes and the matter that follows, we must content ourselves with noting the most important conclusions which Bro. Gould has formulated as the result of his most searching inquiries. They will be found at length at p 177, but the following strike us as being pre-eminently noteworthy. He holds, as we have remarked before, that the Stonemasons had their origin "in the craft guilds in the cities;" that "about the twelfth century the convent and the craft builders imperceptibly amalgamated and formed the guilds of the Steinmetzen;" that "in 1459, they constituted themselves into one all-embracing fraternity, with its perpetual head at Strassburg;" that they had "a secret method of communication, consisting of a form of greeting;" possibly a peculiar "grip;" but no word; while the existence of a "sign" is doubtful; "no initiation ceremony," but perhaps one "at affiliation;" no "speculative science," while "the admission of honorary members is very doubtful;" and that Freemasonry, when introduced into Germany from England, "was not recognised as having any connection with them."

ANNUAL ITALIAN BALL.

THE Fifth Annual Evening and Fancy Dress Ball was held on the 4th inst., at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen Street, W.C., under the patronage of Bro. H. Burnley Heath, Consul General of His Majesty the King of Italy. The proceeds are to be devoted to the French Hospital and Italian Benevolent Society, of which Brother Ernesto Zuccani is the Treasurer. Bro. Perelli-Rocco and a large body of Stewards conducted the proceedings. The room was artistically arranged, with the National Colours, and the dresses were in every way artistic in style. A very excellent band, under the superintendence of Signor Curti had been engaged. Bro. J. Arnold acted as M.C. Three rooms were occupied by the company for supper, the principal being the Crown Room, where several toasts were proposed by the Chairman, Bro. Ernesto Zuccani, who was received with loud and enthusiastic cheers. Amongst the toasts were those Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales, their Majesties the King and Queen of Italy, the Prince of Naples, and the rest of his Royal Family; the French Hospital and the Italian Benevolent Society; and that of the Ladies, present and absent. Mr. Hewling in eloquent terms proposed the health of the Chairman, who in reply said, no matter what denomination—whether Italian, French, or of the Jewish persuasion—he would always be proud to assist in the cause of charity. He was pleased to say that this year above £400 would be given to the two Institutions they were assembled together to assist. Dancing was then resumed. Owing to the exertions of Bros. Rocco, Baroni, and others, this Ball was an undoubted success. The President, Bro. Zuccani, paid every attention to the enjoyment of those present.

FERNS ROUND LONDON.—Messrs. Sampson Low, Marston and Co. are about to issue a new and cheaper edition of Mr. F. G. Heath's little volume "Where to Find Ferns," with a list of fern localities round London.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—Though it is impossible, in this climate of changing temperature, to prevent ill-health altogether, yet its form and frequency may be much mitigated by the early adoption of remedical measures. When hoarseness, cough, thick breathing, and the attendant slight fever indicate irritation of the throat or chest, Holloway's Ointment should be rubbed upon these parts without delay, and his Pills taken in appropriate doses, to promote its curative action. No catarrhs or sore throats can resist these remedies. Printed directions envelop every package of Holloway's medicaments, which are suited to all ages and conditions, and to every ordinary disease to which humanity is liable.

MASONIC TIDBITS.

Lazy Masons.—The next little tidbit picked up in my path, is a reference to lazy Masons, by some observing Grand Master. His hit at lazy Masons is so piquant and pointed, and so well deserved, that I cannot resist the temptation to place it before the readers of the Voice of Masonry, for every Mason should read it, and see if his portrait is properly reflected from it. The Grand Master says: My experience is, that a lazy Mason will soon become so lazy that he will not attend his Lodge if it were within fifty steps of his door, while the zealous live Mason will go, no matter if he should have to ride ten miles. Lazy Masons are just about of as much use to the Lodge as lazy Christians are to the church. They help to swell the count of membership, are always ready to avail themselves of its benefits, but don't like to shoulder any of its burdens." This is concentrated truth. Every Mason should look in the mirror, and see if he can discover the original of the picture. I beg pardon, if need be, for the liberty I have taken in furnishing the mirror.

Under Age.—In a copy of a Report to some Grand Lodge, I find several references to the act of the Grand Master of Pennsylvania, in giving permission to a constituent Lodge to initiate a man under age. I am not a special advocate of some of the usages of Masonry as practised in that State, but every accused person should be heard before he is condemned, and I beg to offer some suggestions that may at least modify the terrible violation of Masonic law and usage, with which the Grand Master in question is charged. Is there no excuse for this venial sin—this seeming transgression? We should not hastily condemn age, and the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania is the oldest in America. Aged persons generally have a good excuse for their peculiar opinions and idiosyncracies, and so have old Grand Lodges—especially the one referred to. Let us examine this question before we condemn.

"Under age." Under what age—eighteen, twenty-one or twenty-five? The Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania was born of other parentage than more modern Grand Lodges. More than a century and a half ago there was a schism in the Grand Lodge of England, and a new Grand Lodge was organised. The Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania owes its nativity to that Grand Lodge, and Dermott's Ahiman Rezon was adopted as the elementary statutes for that jurisdiction, and is retained as such to the present time. I have not a copy of that work at hand, but I think it says the candidate must be of "mature and discreet age." Anderson's Constitutions of 1723 fixes the standard as "mature and discreet age," and that work is accepted as the elementary law in most, if not all modern Grand Lodges to the present day. The Grand Lodge of England, the oldest and largest in the world, and "the mother of us all," still retains as the standard, "mature and discreet age, and in many cases the Lodges in that jurisdiction initiates candidates at eighteen years of age. Why don't our rigid constructionists complain of the Grand Lodge of England, as well as that of Pennsylvania?

Now what is meant by "age" under those old laws? To-day in most American Grand Lodges it means twenty-one years,—a kind of procrustean standard from which no departure is permitted, but it was not always so, nor is it now in the old organisations. Many young men are as "mature and discreet at eighteen" as others are at twenty-five. Do our critics remember that General Washington was made a Mason while yet under twenty-one years of age? Twenty-five was at one time the standard, then eighteen and twenty-one, but "mature and discreet" is a safe rule in emergencies, though I am in favour of twenty-one years as a general standard. Did any one ever consider the initiation of Washington, while yet under twenty-one years of age, as a violation of Masonic law? He was of "mature and discreet age." At sixteen he had completed his education in mathematics, and soon after executed important trusts under Lord Fairfax. At seventeen he was commissioned as a public surveyor, an office at the time of high responsibility. At nineteen he was in command of one of the military districts as Adjutant-General, with the rank of Major, and was about to depart by authority of the Governor to communicate with the French commander on the Ohio on matters of great national importance. He was not twenty-one, but he was regarded as of "mature and discreet age," and was initiated before he left on his perilous journey. He was already a man, with all the elements of a fully developed manhood, and the morning star of that glorious era which gave Freedom to a continent and secured rational Liberty to uncounted millions of our race.

There is another case of similar kind. General Warren who became Grand Master, and afterwards fell on Bunker Hill as the proto-martyr of the Revolution, was less than twenty-one years of age when he was initiated. He became as distinguished for his zeal and labours for Masonry as for his devotion to his country's welfare. Though so young, he was of "mature and discreet age," as much so as some other men at thirty.

And yet another instance of "under age" just now occurs to my memory. At the commencement of the late rebellion, a young man in Michigan moved by love of country, entered the army as a private soldier. His activity and bravery won him friends, and he fought his way up to a Lieutenantcy. He then came home on a furlough, and greatly desired to become a Freemason before he rejoined his regiment at the front. But he was yet "under age" and was informed he could not be initiated until he had attained his legal majority. An aged brother by the name of Moore was then Grand Master of Michigan, and on application to him, with a statement of the facts, he issued a dispensation to the Lodge authorising the initiation of the young man, if found worthy otherwise; and he was admitted. The Grand Master reported his action to the Grand Lodge, and gave as a reason for it that the young man already held a commission as an officer in the army of his country, which he had won on many a bloody field, and that he therefore merited the privilege of being made a Mason a few months "under age." If he was old enough to stand in the front a commissioned officer, and breast the storm of war to save his country, he was old enough to become a Freemason, especially under the old and fundamental rule of "mature and discreet age," and his Grand Lodge approved the act. I am not a special defender of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania, but I fail to see the necessity for this procrustean standard. There are many other things done in other jurisdictions which, to me, are more objectionable than making a Mason of a young man who lacks a few months of being twenty-one years of age. Still, let each one have his own opinion, but avoid harsh language and provoking denunciations of others for doing what they deem is right, and at best is but a slight departure from general usage, especially when they follow the example and practice of the Grand Lodge of England—the oldest—the mother Grand Lodge of the world. I believe in the general standard of twenty-one years—the age recognised as legal by the laws of the country, but think there may be occasions when a departure from the rule is justifiable, as in the case of Washington, and Warren, and the young patriot in Michigan. We should not forget that the old rule, and which is still recognised as of binding force, is yet regarded as law in almost every Grand Jurrisdiction, and only requires "mature and discreet age," whether that was reached at eighteen, twenty-one, or twenty-five years. It is not pleasant for me to differ, even in opinion from eminent brethren, but in some Masonic labours we can all agree.

Hanselmann Commandery.—I was reading the other day about the proceedings of Hanselmann Commandery, Knights Templars, of Cincinnati, Ohio, and I cannot help referring to them. It was good work, square work, and just such work as God and men will approve.

There is in that musical city an Institution known as the Childrens' Home. Little homeless orphans are gathered into it and cared for by kind ladies. It lives on the benevolence of good men and women. It is the practice of some Masonic bodies in that city to make an annual donation to that and kindred Institutions, and Hanselmann Commandery does its part nobly. The members of that Body, moved by the impulses of their great Masonic hearts, decided to make a call at the Home on the first day of the present year. They made all the needed preparations, and then, in a body, "made a pilgrimage" to the Home. They were warmly welcomed by the kind ladies in charge, and by the gentlemanly President as well, and by none more so than by the little orphans. About the time the welcomes and greetings, together with the songs and recitations of the children were over, two wagons drove to the door, loaded with a substantial New Year's gift from the Commandery, —clothing, dry goods, shoes and stockings, groceries and general provisions. These were unloaded and were carried in by the Knightly visitors. The whole formed a huge pile, and cost over three hundred dollars. The children were in high glee when they saw the grand New Year's gift. Their eyes sparkled "like stars in the sky," and there little faces were wreathed in gladness and gratitude. The children were happy, the kind ladies were happy, and the knightly donors were the happiest of all.

How grandly this act of Hanselmann Commandery looms up in the current Masonic history of the times, and the record will grow brighter as the years pass on! How much better, and how much more in harmony with the spirit of Masonry than the usual fashionable New Year's calls, or the dancing parties, expensive receptions, with big suppers and gorgeous displays!

My heart says, God bless Hanselmann Commandery! I wish every other Masonic organization would imitate the example of the Templars referred to; then there would be more and better exemplications of the genuine old Masonic work, without the need of Grand Lecturers. How happy would be the widows and the orphans, as well as the poor, the aged and the infirm! "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, ye have done it unto me." A heavenly commendation that would be a fitting motto to be inscribed upon the banners of Masonry everywhere!

We have received the Second Volume of Bro. R. F. Gould's "History of Freemasonry," and congratulate both author and publisher on the appearance of the work.

FREEMAN'S CHLORODYNE.

The Original and only true.

HUNDREDS of Medical Practitioners testify to its marvellous efficacy in immediately relieving and rapidly curing Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Neuralgia, Spasms, Colic, Whooping Cough, and all Nerve Pains. It acts like a charm in Diarrhœa, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery. It rapidly relieves pain, from whatever cause, soothes and strengthens the system under exhausting diseases, and gives quiet and refreshing sleep.

Lord Chancellor Selborne, Lord Justice James, Lord Justice Mellish decided in favour of FREEMAN'S ORIGINAL CHLORODYNE, and against Brown and Davenport, compelling them to pay all costs in the suits. See Times of July 24th, 1873. Bottles 1s 1½d, 2s 9d, 4s 6d, 11s, and 20s. Sold by all Chemists.

Testimonials.—Head Quarter Staff, Cabul, May 31st, 1880. Mr. R. Freeman, Dear Sir,—It is with much pleasure I am able to state that your Chlorodyne has been of special service to me in alleviating the wearisome spasms of Asthma, which is here existent in an aggravated form. Many of my patients now come and beg me to give them that medicine which always relieves them, and which I need hardly say is your Chlorodyne. Yours faithfully, Charles W. Owen, L.R.C.P. Lon., M.R.C.S. Eng., the Divisional Head Quarter Staff and Civil Surgeon, Cabul.

The Times, August 13th, 1877. From our own Correspondent with the Russian Army. Okoum, July 25th, 1877. The want of sanitary arrangements in the Russian Camp was dreadful, and had we remained there a few weeks longer, dysentery and typhoid fever would have played more havoc in our ranks than the bombs of the Turks. I myself acquired an unenviable reputation as a doctor, owing to my being provided with a small bottle of CHLORODYNE, with which I effected miraculous cures.

GIBRALTAR.

LODGE OF FRIENDSHIP, No. 278.

THE rejoicings of the Easter Week worthily commenced here on 28th March with a grand Masonic Ball, given by the members of this Lodge at the Theatre Royal. To say that it was a success would scarcely do justice to the great care and forethought which had been bestowed on all the arrangements, of which the result was most satisfactory. Masonic Balls seem to have no exception as to success, though as they occur in their turn, each one in some respect excels the last. The one given on Easter Monday will hold a high place on the list, in fact, perhaps the highest, and the pleasant memories of the great trouble taken by the brethren of the Craft on that occasion to so worthily entertain their numerous guests, will not be lost sight of for many a long day. What made the entertainment particularly noticeable was the care with which even the minutest details had been thought of and provided for, and the transformation of the interior of the theatre is hardly capable of description—all was clean, bright, and glittering—blue and white were the prevailing colours, which were delightfully blended with emblems of the Craft, the happy introduction of flowers, mirrors and evergreens, most judiciously disposed, adding to the general effect, the result being a charming tout ensemble. The stage was for the time transformed into an Oriental Tented Pavilion, beautifully got up, and at the East end a trophy of thrones of the Craft, Mark and Royal Arch degrees were erected, while the background (specially painted by Mr. Caretto, scenic artist) was certainly a work of art. Above the dais of the Friendship Lodge the words "welcome" in gas jets was fixed, this, together with countless waxlights, illuminated the whole with charming effect, and was the object of admiration during the evening. The entrance, staircases, and boxes were carefully draped and carpeted, and large mirrors liberally placed in suitable position gave light and brightness to the whole scene. In the centre of the Theatre directly beneath the large sunlight, was placed a picturesque rustic fountain (designed and fixed by Mr. Stewart, of Gunners'-lane), which was in full play all the evening, being supplied with perfumed waters from some unseen source, producing a charmingly cool and refreshing effect. Mr. Peso, Upholsterer, of Waterport-street, had charge of the furnishing department, which left nothing to be desired. By half-past nine o'clock the boxes were well filled with a large number of guests, the body of the Theatre being kept clear for the procession. Punctually at the time appointed His Excellency the Governor, with Lady Adye and party, arrived, and were met at the entrance by Bros. Roberts W.M., Healy S.W., Bryant J.W., and conducted to the Royal box by the Honorary Secretary Past Master Brother Cottrell and the two Deacons Bros. Culatto and W. Thornton. After the strains of the "National Anthem" had died away, "God Bless the Prince of Wales" was played in honour of H.R.H. the Grand Master, when the curtain was raised and the Masonic procession commenced, the brethren in their brightest jewels and regalia appearing in full force which made a dazzling display, as they advanced in four lines and then marched round the theatre, ultimately forming two lines facing inwards, culminating in the east with the arch of steel. His Excellency the Governor was conducted through the double line of brethren by the D.D.G.M. Bro. Lieut.-Colonel Gilbard, and welcomed in the name of the brethren by the W.M. Bro. Roberts, who presented the D.G.M. Bro. Cornwell as the representative of the Grand Lodge of England. The lines then broke up, and dancing commenced, which was continued with the greatest spirit till four o'clock in the morning, to an excellent programme by the band of the 2nd Batt. Durham Light Infantry (106th), ably conducted by Mr. Davis, the band-master. Supper was served at twelve o'clock, in the large saloon of the theatre, and it is needless to say it was plentiful and of the very best, the Caterer being Bro. J. Canovas, the display and excellence of the viands leaving nothing to be desired. We have all heard that hospitality and good feeling are Masonic virtues, this was fully exemplified on this occasion by the courteous attention of the Stewards and Committee. The guests at this most successful and enjoyable Ball numbered nearly three hundred, among them being His Excellency the Governor, Lady Adye and party, Maj.-Gen. and Mrs. Adams, the Chief Justice, Lady Burford-Hancock and party, Captain Hon. Fremantle and Mrs. Fremantle and party, Lord and Lady Gifford, Surgeon General Smith, C.B., R.E., and party, Colonel and Mrs. Markham, Mr. Sheriff, Mr. and Mrs. Cornwell, Colonel Gilbard, Mr. Melfort Campbell, the D. O., General and Mrs. Healy, and the elite of the city and garrison. The arrangements, which we have had much pleasure in so deservedly praising, were carried out by an excellent Committee composed as follows:—Bros. Roberts W.M. President, P.M. Cottrell Hon. Secretary, Speed Treasurer, Healy S.W., Bryant J.W., T. J. Haynes, Gomez, J. H. Haynes, Henry, Culatto, and Dobranich, to whom every credit is due for the admirable arrangements which prevailed throughout, and made the ball such an unqualified success.—Gibraltar Chronicle.

At the last regular meeting of the St. John of Wapping Lodge, No. 1306, held at the Moorgate Tavern, Moorgate Street, E.C, Bro. T. J. Tyer was elected W.M. for the ensuing year. The Lodge has since adopted a new name, and will henceforth be known as the Lodge of St. John, 1306. In addition, the Lodge has removed to more commodious premises, viz., the City Arms Tavern, St. Mary Axe, where the installation ceremony will take place on the 11th inst. We trust these changes may pave the way for a prosperous future for the Lodge.

THE EMPIRE LAMP.

(RIPPINGILLE'S PATENT.)

THE MOST BRILLIANT AND ECONOMICAL DOMESTIC LIGHT EXTANT.

It equals Gas for Simplicity, but surpasses it for Illuminating Power.

IT burns without a chimney, a pine-shaped globe only being required, which has never been known to break from the heat of the flame. It will give more light than any other lamp with a wick of equal size. The combustion is so perfect that it deodorises the oil, and burns absolutely without smell, giving an intense pure white and beautiful light. It is unrivalled for simplicity in lighting, cleaning, and trimming, and is, in fact, the perfection of artificial light. Suitable for Cottage or Mansion, Churches, Chapels, &c.

LAZY MASONS.

AMONG the "Masonic Tidbits" which we have recently extracted from our American contemporary, the Voice of Masonry, is one under the above heading, which is given as the expression of "some observing Grand Master," and is to the following effect:—"My experience is, that a lazy Mason will soon become so lazy that he will not attend his Lodge if it were within fifty steps of his door, while the zealous live Mason will go, no matter if he should have to ride ten miles. Lazy Masons are just about of as much use to the Lodge as lazy Christians are to the church. They help to swell the count of membership, are always ready to avail themselves of its benefits, but don't like to shoulder any of its burdens." This hit, says the editor of our contemporary, is so piquant and pointed, and so well deserved, that I cannot resist the temptation to place it before my readers. We cordially endorse the opinion of our American brother in his condemnation of Lazy Masons, and feel that a few words further on the subject may not be considered out of place.

Nothing can be more disheartening to the Master of a Lodge than to find, at the time that his Lodge should be opened, that he, and perhaps two or three others, are the only members present, and when, after making inquiry, he finds that the absence of many of the brethren at the time fixed in the summons was due to laziness, rather than to any inability to attend at the proper time, annoyance follows as a natural course; and, not unfrequently, an inclination to neglect the work in the future is the consequence. If brethren would remember that punctuality among members of Lodges is one of the most desirable characteristics, they would perhaps exert themselves to secure it wherever possible. By so doing they would not only add to their own comfort, but would materially increase that of others. How often has the business of a Lodge had to be rushed through, the banquet hurried, and the speeches cut short, in consequence of want of punctuality at the start, and all caused by brethren who were really too lazy to attend the meeting at the proper time, thereby necessitating delay in the opening of the Lodge, or the appointment of a brother who, maybe, was not thoroughly acquainted with such portions of the work as he might be called upon to undertake, while filling the place of an absent officer. In writing in these terms of absentees at the opening of a Lodge, it would not be fair to say that all who are not punctual in their attendance are defaulters through laziness. There are, of course, many causes which either detain or keep a brother away from his Lodge, but in all such cases, especially when the brother holds office, the Worshipful Master should be previously informed, so as to prevent his waiting unnecessarily. There is one other class of Mason—if we may so term him—to whom our strictures as to laziness most particularly refer. We allude to the brother to be initiated. We have frequently been present at Lodge meetings when the whole proceedings have been brought to a standstill by the non-appearance of the candidate for initiation at the time appointed. In these cases we have thought that the proposer and seconder were to blame;—indeed, they are personally answerable for the doings of the candidate, so far as Freemasonry is concerned, until he has taken upon himself the responsibilities of membership, and been admitted to a participation in the secrets of the Order. We are of opinion that the Worshipful Master would do well in politely, but firmly, refusing to initiate any one who was not present at the time at which he was summoned, or at least within a reasonable period afterwards. First impressions are the strongest that can be made, and if a brother were taught that punctuality was a feature in Freemasonry, it would not only benefit him, from a Masonic point of view, but perhaps prove of far greater service to him in after life than some of the more popular teachings of Freemasonry. In this respect we must bear in mind that Freemasonry aims at the improvement of ourselves and our fellow men. It is true that inconvenience might follow a postponement, but the sufferer would be the candidate himself, who, it should be remembered, was also the cause of the inconvenience. The nearer the man may be to the place of meeting the more likely is he to be late,—if at all inclined to laziness. When the meeting takes place at a distance, it is necessary to lay out a programme, and work to it, in order to attend the Lodge at all; but when it is within "fifty steps of our door," comparatively speaking, no such preparation is needed, and, as a consequence, unpunctuality is more likely to take place. This may, in a measure, account for the delay in opening some Lodges, especially noticeable in large towns, although, on the other hand, the engagements of members so situated are often more binding, and less amenable to Masonic claims than those of Provincial brethren.

That Lazy Masons are always ready to avail themselves of the benefits of Freemasonry is as true, we admit, in this country as it is in America. Our experience leads us to the belief that members of the "lazy" class are among the foremost of those who apply for assistance, from one source or another, of Masonic relief; indeed, there are so many of this class of applicants about in our midst as to bring down the condemnation of some brethren on Masonic charity generally, and, as a consequence, many truly deserving individuals suffer. It would be hard, indeed, to measure a brother, or the eligibility of a brother's family for assistance, by what such a man had done in the past, but we cannot help taking such subjects into consideration when weighing the claims that are made upon the Order, as, more frequently than otherwise, we find those who do the least are among the loudest in their demands. To what is this lack of past service due? Laziness, and to laziness alone. There are many brethren who could, if they so desired, do much to extend the benefits of Freemasonry during their lifetime, by working on its behalf among their friends. Personally they may be able to do little, but their associations may be such as to bring them in contact with large numbers of those who can; yet, from a want of energy, they do nothing. Should a day of adversity overtake them or their families, they are usually the first to apply for the benefits of the Order. How can we prevent this? We cannot measure out relief in proportion to what a brother has done; nor can we compel brethren to work if they do not feel disposed to do so; but we may urge on all to do something, assuring them that in advancing the welfare of Freemasonry they will run little chance of doing injury to themselves.

Our contemporary, after having, as he terms it, furnished the mirror by his remarks on this subject, asks every Mason to look in it, and see if he can discover the original. Such a step, generally undertaken, would doubtless lead to good results. There are many men who only require to have their attention drawn to a defect to at once set about remedying it; while others, who are perhaps only lukewarm on a subject, are urged, by a similar course, to increased efforts, with the result that a great improvement follows. If any of our readers are stimulated to greater efforts on behalf of Freemasonry; or if any who have previously remained in the background are induced to undertake some kind of work on behalf of our Order, by reason of our remarks, we shall be highly gratified; as will, we are convinced, the brother to whom we are indebted for the "Tidbit" upon which we have based these comments.

THE TILER'S CLUB.

FROM THE VOICE OF MASONRY.

FROM time immemorial, it has been the custom for the brethren to meet in the Tiler's-room before Lodge hours and discuss matters of general and Masonic interest. Indeed, these assemblies had been a sort of committee of the whole, and whatever decision the Tiler's-room conclave arrived at was quite certain to be the decision of the Lodge. In course of time these meetings were styled the Tiler's club, and the Tiler's club it still is termed. Had the room been less comfortable or less attractive, perhaps no Tiler's club would ever have "growed," for, like Topsey, it never was born, but simply grew. The central figure, and ex-officio chairman of the club, was the old Tiler, whose white locks and beaming countenance had been familiar to even the veterans for many years, and every one acted as if he held a life tenure to the office he had filled so long and so acceptably. The old gentleman was somewhat of an oracle in Masonic affairs, had been a zealous worker in his day, and was still regarded as authority on "phraseology." Although he had handled none of the tools except the implement of his office for many years, he was by no means rusty, and few of the younger craftsmen had been taught how to use their working tools by any other teacher. Pleasure and profit were combined in his instructions, for the old brother was continually exhibiting some "testimonials" from his students.

The room was well lighted, heated and ventilated, and at one side was the Tiler's book shelves, containing the companions of his long hours of watching while the Craft was at labour. These he valued highly, and the brother was honoured who secured the privilege of carrying one home with him. The chair of state was a huge hickory splint, and the sceptre the long pipe-stem of the occupant.

Sometimes the deliberations of the club transgressed on the hours of labour of the Lodge, and even the Worshipful Master, who never forgot to imitate the great luminary of nature in the regularity with which he should open and enlighten his Lodge, would indulge the members with an extra ten minutes.

One evening the Tiler was recounting some of his experiences in the army in Mexico, and had exhibited the marks of a bullet wound received at Palo Alto, when some one inquired whether the ugly scar on his hand was received in battle. The veteran reached for his sword, and holding it aloft remarked that they two formed an acquaintance at Buena Vista, and that he had secured the relic of his difigurement only after a well-directed pistol shot at its lawful owner.

The Worshipful Master interrupted to say that, on account of the Tiler's attachment to the sword, he had been permitted to use the one in his hand, in preference to the proper Masonic implement of his office.

A young Craftsman thereupon inquired whether Freemasonry had a form of sword different from any other, and whether the use of a common sword or sabre was improper. To this the W.M. rejoined: "In this respect also, is our Fraternity unique; in Genesis we read that when the LORD drove our first parents from the Garden of Eden, 'He placed at the east of the Garden, cherubim, and a flaming sword which turned every way.' The old form of the Tiler's sword was in imitation of this flaming sword, sort of spiral or wavy in shape, and as such a sword could not be sheathed, it was to indicate that it was ever drawn and in readiness to defend the Lodge against the approach of cowans or eavesdroppers.

The Tiler added, "When I was made a Mason, over forty years ago, we gave more attention to the little details that now fail to mark the Masonic Lodge as distinct in all respects from that of any other Society. There are now so many of the so-called secret societies, and so many Masons join them, that we have gradually lost some of our time-honoured practices. Freemasonry is nothing without its symbolism, and the twisted sword, or as the heralds style it, the flaming sword, is the only proper one for Masons to place in the hands of the Tiler. But I should regret to have you separate me and my relic."

Brother Junior Warden then asked whether our ancient Operative predecessors were tiled in a Masonic manner, or whether the Tiler was simply the outgrowth of a necessity to prevent intrusion at the meetings of the modern Speculative Craft.

Every one glanced at the Tiler, for, aside from his oracular authority, there was an implied doubt in the inquiry that his office was an ancient one, and all were interested in learning how the old sentinel would regard it. Taking the pipe from his mouth, he arose, and selecting a volume of Fort's Early History and Antiquities of Freemasonry, said: "The enquiry can be answered both affirmatively and negatively. I do not think our ancient brethren were tiled according to the present system, but they were tiled all the same. Now this is what an erudite Masonic scholar has said on this subject: 'The earliest authoritative documents indicate that, as far back as the eleventh century, the Craftsmen were regularly organised while at labour. * * * In there earliest workmanship, the Apprentices no doubt performed the more unimportant parts of labour, as for example, familiarising themselves with the use of Masonic tools, by pounding off the angles and corners of rough stones with a stroke-hammer, and using the gauge or measuring board to shape the edges into true and perfect lines. I think it more in harmony with the dictates of sound reason to presume that the fullest instruction in all the details of art was vouchsafed the Apprentice, in an exact proportion as he evinced his aptitude to acquire the rudiments of a strict science. No doubt a secret meaning was attached to many things which he beheld, but the precise signification of which was only comprehended when he had mastered the theory upon which the practice was grounded—the occasional gleam of light that flashed before his inquiring eye conveyed no fixed idea to a mind untaught, as yet, to interpret the mystic symbolism of its brightness. * * * It is not to be supposed for a moment that this class of artificers, during the continuance of their long term of service, was simply burdened with the mere drudgery of hammering rude and jagged stones, or wielding the gauge with no higher ambition than to make straight and perfect corners. His teacher was his Master, and as such practically progressive, and all the instruction essential to render the Apprentice a thorough and proficient workman was bestowed upon him during this tutelage. And in the pursuance of this purpose he advanced gradually, with a greater or lesser degree of proficiency, to a high standard of mechanical skill, so that at the time the grade of Fellow was conferred on him, he was in full possession already of the necessary knowledge which made him a master of the details of architectural art. * * * He could work out with exquisite elaborateness a floriated capital, and chisel into natural semblance the niched figures with which the church Militant was delineated upon airy towers and cathedral walls; he could dress, with accuracy, the polished stones suitable for elegant pilasters, and contributed his share of arches upon which the superstructure was raised, with infinite skill—all this he had acquired during his Apprenticeship, but the key by which these multitudinous and detached portions were conjoined, the combination by which foundation stones, pilasters and columns, shining walls, chapiters gracefully wreathed with flowers, arches and mullions, canopies and ribbed tracery, flying buttresses and rosette finials, were put together to form the cathedral, was one of the secrets which he obtained in being admitted to the degree of Fellow-Craft.' It is obvious that the Operative Craft worked in secret, that is, they did not permit persons to lounge among the workmen, and they must have had some sort of police duty performed by some one of their number. Under the speculative system of Freemasonry, some one brother can and does discharge the duty of tiling the Lodge against interruptions or intrusions.

Brother Senior Deacon remarked, as the old man closed his book and replaced it on the shelf, "You have used the word tile, and you are called Tiler, what do they mean and how did they originate as Masonic terms?"

PRESENTATION TO BRO. SAMUEL CARRINGTON.

A COMPLIMENTARY Dinner took place on the 10th inst., at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, to Bro. Samuel Carrington P.M., Chairman of the Licensed Victuallers' Association, when opportunity was afforded of making him a Presentation Testimonial in commemoration of his having filled the chair of the Licensed Victuallers' Asylum. The following is a copy of the inscription:—

THIS SILVER, consisting of
SALVER, TEA AND COFFEE SERVICE, AND LIQUEUR STAND, and likewise
GOLD WATCH, was presented by the members of the Board of Management and other friends of the LICENSED VICTUALLERS' ASYLUM,
to
BRO. SAMUEL CARRINGTON,
Chairman of the Institution for the Year 1882,
At a Dinner held at the FREEMASONS' TAVERN, LONDON,
On Tuesday, 10th April 1883,
In testimony of their high appreciation of the integrity he displayed in the discharge of the onerous duties attached to such position; for his energy in procuring funds for the Institution, and especially during the period of his chairmanship, when the subscriptions and donations obtained by him, in conjunction with his colleagues and other supporters of the Society, amounted to £7,949 8s 6d; for the courtesy he evinced towards the members of the Board, and to the subscribers generally; as also for his solicitous care of the inmates of the Institution.

At the same time a suite of jewelry (consisting of a diamond locket and necklet, brooch and earrings), was presented to Mrs. Carrington, as a memento of her husband's chairmanship. The proceedings terminated with a ball. Bro. S. Fryett was in the chair, and there was a numerous attendance.

"UNWORTHY CLAIMANTS FOR THE BENEFITS OF OUR CHARITIES."

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Your correspondent, "A NORTHERN SUBSCRIBER," has the courage of his opinions, but I very much question if they will find favour with the subscribers to the Boys' or Girls' Schools, on whose contributions those Institutions rely for their funds. These Schools are intended for the children of deceased and distressed brethren, and it is ridiculous to say that those of a deceased brother whose will was sworn at £9,000 come under this description. The case you have shown up of the boy Herring is by no means so flagrant, but he, I hold, comes not justly within the class of children for whom the Boys' School is intended. I believe he is one of three children who are entitled, on coming of age, each to a one-third share of some £1,600, and though, as your correspondent suggests, the money may not be available now, there ought not to be much difficulty in obtaining the sanction of those whom it concerns to some plan for providing for the child's requirements till he attains his majority. Would it not be possible to purchase for him an admission into the School? the price being, I believe, £170 10s. That would leave intact over £300, and on leaving School he ought to be able to earn his own living. But, in any circumstances, I should like it to be ascertained how many among the remaining candidates have a third of £1,600 payable to them when twenty-one years of age, so that those who have not this prospective advantage may have a prior chance of being elected.

I perfectly well remember the arguments used at the time of Collingwood's election and subsequent rejection. I remember, likewise, that a very active supporter of the School remarked, that if young Collingwood were admitted, he should consider he was fully justified in bringing forward one of his children as a candidate. I know also, it was said the School was not intended for paupers; but pauper, which is a harsh word, may be used to describe an absolute fact or one that is only so relatively. The son or daughter of a gentleman who has possessed a good salary, and moved among people of position and culture, is a pauper if he is left with no more than £30 or £40 a year to support and educate him, so that he may in time be fitted to enter on some respectable occupation, but the son or daughter of a small tradesman possessing the same annual means would be well off. The former might justly be approved as a candidate for one or other of the Schools, the latter not. I quite agree with "A NORTHERN SUBSCRIBER" that "families who have always lived in a higher sphere feel just as much the coming down to a lower one, as those in an inferior do having to make shift lower still;" but surely he must be laughing in his sleeve when he suggests that the son of an affluent brother who bequeathed £9,000 to his family moved in a higher sphere. I hope it will be understood that I intend nothing disrespectful to the memory of the late Bro. Collingwood, who, I have no doubt was an honest and honourable tradesman, and worthy man and brother, but the "sphere" in which he lived was not a superior, nor did it entail any lavish expenditure on the maintenance of himself and his family. He was a "gentleman" only in the same conventional sense as that in which the word "lady" is used when applied to a barmaid. He probably lived far more luxuriously than a vast number of those who are professionally or by birth gentlemen, but he did not belong to the same category with them, and his friends and supporters have no right to speak of his children as belonging to any other sphere than that which includes butchers, bakers, grocers, and the like.

I am very glad you hold fast "on reflection" to the opinion you expressed in the Collingwood case, and that you have made public the facts in the Herring case. I also trust that until those on the list of candidates who are less well off than Herring have been elected into the School, his appeal to the governors will not be responded to.

Fraternally and respectfully yours,

London, 10th April 1883. Q.

THE APPROACHING ELECTIONS.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Herewith please find a tabulated statement, as to the present recipients from the Masonic Institutions. These tables do not include the widows receiving half their late husband's pension, to which they are entitled for three years after such deaths. The number of these is constantly changing, but at the present time is about 17 or 18.

PRESENT RECIPIENTS FROM THE THREE MASONIC INSTITUTIONS.

In this table, as in the one describing the candidates for the coming elections, you will perceive that the Provincial candidates are nearly three times, and the recipients more than twice, as many as those of London, and as the population of England and Wales and the Channel Islands is 27,000,000, of which the London Masonic District is about 6,000,000, the proportion is not so great as might have been expected, but on the other hand the number of votes belonging to the London District is nearly, if not quite, equal to all the other Provinces put together.

I remain, yours fraternally,

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS are the medicine most in repute for curing the multifarious maladies which attack humanity when wet and cold weather gives place to more genial temperatures. In short, these Pills never fail to afford relief in all disturbances of circulation, digestion, and nervous energy, which at times oppress a vast portion of the population. Under the wholesome, purifying, and strengthening powers exerted by these excellent Pills the tongue becomes clean, the appetite improves, digestion is quickened, and assimilation rendered perfect. Holloway's medicine possesses the highly estimable property of cleansing the whole mass of blood, which in its renovated condition carries purity, strength and vigour to every tissue of the body.

GRAND MASONIC GATHERING AT BAGSHOT.

AMIDST a considerable amount of pleasurable interest and excitement, the foundation-stone of the new church of St. Anne's, Bagshot, was laid on Monday afternoon by the R.W. Brother His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught, K.G., Past Grand Warden of England, in the presence of a vast concourse of spectators. The weather, when once clear of the fog which hung over London nearly the whole day, was delightfully bright and Spring-like; and, tempted by the brilliancy of out-door appearances, the occasion was made the most of by the brethren of the Prov. Grand Lodge of Surrey, to add "pomp and circumstance" to an event which proved to be more than of local interest. From all parts of the county, and by train from London, visitors came into the secluded town, the streets of which bore an aspect of unwonted animation during the afternoon. Leaving Waterloo at a little after mid-day, the City contingent mustered well, and picked up accessions to their strength at the intermediate stations of Clapham Junction, Surbiton, Weybridge, Woking, Brookwood and Frimley, arriving at Bagshot shortly after two o'clock. The sun shone with the fervency of July, albeit there was a fresh breeze astir, which modulated the otherwise oppressive heat into a refreshing temperature; but the roads were unpleasantly dusty, and the brethren arrived at their trysting place—the Mechanics' Institute—"like a lot of millers." As the crowd of visitors, with whom mingled several brethren in uniform, from the military Lodges at Aldershot, Farnham and elsewhere arrived, the inhabitants flocked to the doors and windows of their houses in pleased surprise at so great influx of friends from all the country round. Admirable preparations had been made for the ceremonial, though the dimensions of the hall were not anything like adequate to the accommodation of so numerous and distinguished a gathering. As something must be said upon the main object of the assembly, we may state that the old church, which was built in the year 1820, had fallen into a state of dilapidation, and the estimated cost of placing it in proper repair was found to be so great that it was very wisely decided to take steps for the erection of a perfectly new edifice, sufficient for the requirements of the parishoners, and in which Divine worship might be carried on "decently and in order." Accordingly, the respected Vicar, the Rev. F. A. P. Lory, issued an appeal for help, to which a generous response was made, the ladies of the district with their friends arranging a bazaar of useful and fancy goods, which realised £1,630. To this Her Most Gracious Majesty added £100, the Duke and Duchess of Connaught £300, the Commissioners of Woods and Forests (from whom the site for the new building was secured) £400, Mr. H. P. Leschalles 100 guineas, Mrs. Michael Waterer (for bells) £400, and other amounts, reaching to a total of £1,500. With this aid the Vicar was enabled to invite designs, those of Mr. Henry A. Cheers, architect, of London and Bagshot, being accepted, and the contract was entrusted to Mr. Joseph Higgs, builder, of Dorset-square, London. The building, which will form an ornament to the locality, will be of the early English style of architecture, to consist of a nave, transepts, north and south aisles, and a chancel, with a tower at the west end, surmounted by a spire, 120 feet in height, and will accommodate 450 adults. The building will be of brick, faced externally with Bath stone, whilst the interior will be plastered, with open roof of pitched pine, the seats being of the newest design in open stained wood, and the floor tesselated. The estimated cost, with boundary walls and neat iron palisading, is £5,000, towards which nearly £3,000 has been raised, irrespective of the amount collected on Monday. Immediately on their arrival, the brethren repaired to the Institute, and clothed, when Provincial Grand Lodge was opened in form by the R.Wor. Bro. General Studholme Brownrigg, C.B., Provincial Grand Master; Bros. Rev. C. W. Arnold P.G.C. Deputy Prov. Grand Master, Chas. Greenwood P.G.S.B. Senior Warden, W. C. The clergy and choir, in their surplices, had met at the Vicarage, and included His Grace the Lord Bishop of Winchester (who with Mrs. Harold Browne and the Rev. Robert Browne, his lordship's Chaplain, had been the guest of their Royal Highnesses, at Bagshot Park), the Rev. F. M. Middleton Rural Dean and Vicar of York Town, the Vicar the Rev. F. A. P. Lory, and his Curate the Rev. E. M. Salmon, the Bishop of Ballarat, the Revs. J. M. Freshfield, Vicar of Windlesham; R. Flint, Vicar of Sunningdale; Newton Spencer, Vicar of Emly and Rural Dean; W. Basset, Rector of Frimley; A. Kinch, Rector of Farnborough; W. Suthey Curate of Farnborough; C. B. Fendall, of Windlesham, and others. The Bishop of the Diocese took his seat at the table in front of the stone, the clergy and choir occupying the platform in rear, whilst the brethren were ranged around, in accordance with rank, the Provincial Grand Officers being in the centre. The Duke and Duchess on their arrival were received with respectful salutations, which they graciously acknowledged, and her Royal Highness was escorted to her seat by General Brownrigg, who sat between her and her Royal husband, on the left of the Bishop. Accompanying the Royal party were Colonel Sir H. Elphinstone and Lady Elphinstone, General Sir D. Lysons and Lady Lysons; the infant Princess Margaret, Mr. Miles, Treasurer of the building fund; Colonel Lempriere, R.E.; General Smythe, C.B., and a large gathering of the resident gentry of the district. When the assemblage was seated, the scene within the half-raised walls of the building was exceedingly picturesque, the sun shining brightly over all, and with beams as fervent as on an ordinary July day. The necessary preliminaries having been arranged, the opening sentences of the service were said by the Bishop, the responses being given by the Rev. E. M. Salmon. Then followed Psalm lxxxiv.—"O how amiable"—by the choir, ably led by Mr. G. P. More, who presided ably at the harmonium, the lesson for the day (Ezra iii. 10, 11) being read by the Rural Dean, the Rev. F. M. Middleton. Prayers were then offered for a blessing on the work undertaken, and the preservation of all those who were engaged in it; after which Psalm cxxvii.—"Except the Lord build the house"—was sung. The Prov. Grand Master then advanced to the stone, and addressing His Royal Highness, said: Knowing the deep interest which you and Her Royal Highness take in the laying of the foundation stone, and the building of the edifice which we have come here to complete, I beg, on my part, and on behalf of the Freemasons of Surrey, that you will do us the honour of performing the ceremony of laying this stone, with the test of the plumb, the level, and the square. We trust that you will find it well and truly laid, for which purpose I have the honour to place this trowel in your hands. He then handed to the Duke a magnificent silver trowel, suitably inscribed in commemoration of the event. The R.W. Bro. his Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught, K.G., P.G.W., in reply, said: My Lord Bishop and Brethren,—Be it known unto you that we be lawful Masons, true and honourable to the laws of our country. Although not ourselves Operative Masons, yet we have, from time immemorial, been associated with the erection of buildings, to be raised for the benefit of mankind, the adornment of the world, and the glory of the Great Architect of the Universe. We have amongst us, unseen from the eyes of all men, secrets that may not be revealed, and which no man has discovered; but these secrets are lawful and honourable, and not repugnant to the laws of either God or man. They were entrusted to the Masons of ancient days, and they have been faithfully transmitted to us; and it is our duty to convey them unimpaired to our latest posterity. Unless our Order had been honourable, and our calling just, it would not have lasted all these centuries, nor should we have had so many illustrious brothers in our Order, ready to promote our laws and to further our interests. We are assembled to-day, in the midst of all you here present, for the erection of a house to the glory and the worship of the Most High, which we pray God may bless and prosper as it seems good to Him. (So mote it be.) As it is the duty of all Masons in any undertaking to invoke the blessing of the Great Architect of the Universe, I will call upon you to unite with our Grand Chaplain in an address to the Throne of Grace. The Prov. Grand Chaplain having offered prayer, H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught said, It is my will and pleasure that the foundation-stone of this church be laid, and Brother the Provincial Grand Secretary will read the inscription on the plate. Brother Charles Greenwood jun., the Provincial Grand Secretary, then read:—"This foundation-stone was laid by their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess of Connaught, with Masonic honours, A.D. 1883. Henry A. Cheers, architect." The Prov. Grand Treasurer deposited coins of the realm and other articles in the cavity of the stone, after which mortar was spread, and the stone lowered to its resting place. His Royal Highness having tested it with the plumb-rule said, "I find this stone to be plumb, and the Craftsmen have prepared it true and trusty." Applying the level, he said, "I find this stone to be level, and the Craftsmen have laboured skilfully." Trying it with the square, he said, "I find this stone to be plumb, level and square, and I declare it to be truly prepared and duly laid, and that the Craftsmen have done their work well." He then gave three knocks with the maul, and declared the stone truly laid. Corn, wine and oil were placed on the stone, emblematical of plenty and abundance, joy and peace and unanimity. Might peace, prosperity, happiness and goodwill ever prevail amongst those who should minister in that place, to the glory of the Most High, till time should be no more. (So mote it be.) The Bishop then prayed that true faith, the fear of God, and brotherly love might always abide, and that the place might remain ever consecrated to prayer and the praise of His Holy Name. As the offertory was being taken, the choir and congregation sang the hymn, "Christ is our Corner stone." A pleasing incident here occurred, her Royal Highness the Duchess receiving at the hands of several children, some of whom were very diminutive, and appeared timid and abashed in the presence of royalty, purses containing sums collected towards the building fund. The first to place a purse upon the stone was the rosy-faced little infant Princess Margaret, only a few months old, and who appeared charmingly oblivious of the prominent part she was taking in the ceremony. Her father, the Duke, patted her lovingly on the cheek as she was being taken up to the stone in the arms of her nurse. The anthem, "How dreadful is the place!" and Psalm lxxxvii., "His foundations are upon the holy hills," were sung, and the concluding prayers were said by the Vicar, the Bishop pronouncing the Benediction. Soon afterwards the company dispersed, the Royal party, accompanied by the Bishop of Winchester and Mrs. Harold Browne, and the Bishop's Chaplain, driving home to Bagshot Park. The clergy and other friends were entertained at the Vicarage, and the brethren having re-assembled in Provincial Grand Lodge, were thanked for their attendance in such numbers, and dismissed, returning by the 4·30 train for home.

The monthly meeting of the General Committee of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys was held on Saturday, the 7th instant, at Freemasons' Hall, when there were present Bros. Edgar Bowyer (in the chair), Joyce Murray, J. L. Mather, L. Ruff, Arthur E. Gladwell, Rev. Richard Morris, D.D. (Head Master), Donald M. Dewar, H. Massey, Raynham W. Stewart, W. Maple, Alfred Williams, E. Baxter, George Cooper, F. Adlard, John Palmer, Thomas Cubitt, G. P. Festa, C. F. Hogard, and F. Binckes (Secretary). The sum of £10 was voted for educating a boy out of the School for six months on account of his ill health; and £2000 was ordered to be invested in India 4 per cents. The Secretary reported that £500 having been left by a testator to "The Freemasons' Boys' School," application was made to the Chancery Division to decide whether The Royal Masonic Institution for Boys was the object of the testator's bounty. The Chief Clerk decided that it was, and the £500, free of legacy duty, had been received. Petitions for placing two boys on the list for the election in October were passed, as was also the qualification of a presentation boy. Outfits of £5 each were granted to three former pupils of the Institution, now in situations. In consequence of withdrawals the number of candidates for next Monday's election was reduced to 62. Brother W. Roebuck gave notice of a motion for the Quarterly Court of next Monday, after which the Committee adjourned.

PRUDENT BRETHREN CHAPTER, No. 145.

THE regular April meeting of this excellent working Chapter was held on the 10th instant, at the Freemasons' Tavern. Comps. Braine M.E.Z., Headon H., Leggott J., Venn P.Z. S.E., Bull P.Z. Treasurer, Moon Provincial Soj.; P.Z.'s Comps. Haslett, Thiellay, and Moody. Visitors—J. Stevens P.Z. 720, J. A. Barking Young P.Z., W. Smallpeice 1201, C. A. Wood 1512, Sprake 813, Stohwasser Z. 21, H. M. Levy P.Z. 188. Chapter was formally opened by the Principals. The minutes of last convocation were confirmed. Bro. F. T. C. Keeble W.M. elect 1426 was exalted into Royal Arch Masonry, the working being most efficiently carried out. The election of M.E.Z. and Principals then took place; Comp. Headon was elected M.E.Z., Leggott H., Elsley J., Bull P.Z. Treasurer, Venn P.Z. S.E., Reinhardt Janitor. A jewel was voted to the retiring Z., Companion Braine, for his excellent working. The Chapter was then closed until December. A capital banquet followed, superintended by Companion Dawkins. Comp. Braine proposed the usual Loyal and Royal Arch toasts. Comp. Haslett proposed the toast of the M.E.Z., and complimented him on his excellent working; indeed, he had never heard it more perfectly rendered. The M.E.Z. in reply thanked Companion Haslett for his kind expressions; what he had done he hoped was for the benefit of the Chapter. It would be his great pleasure to follow in the footsteps of his predecessor. The toast of the M.E.Z. Elect was then given. Comp. Headon's working in Craft Masonry was well known, and it was a great pleasure to have such a good working R.A. Mason to fill the chair of this Chapter, which, if it was to be second to none, the M.E.Z. elect would be the one to carry this out. In Comp. Leggott no better working Mason could be found, more particularly for the Charities. The toast of the Exaltee, Comp. Keeble came next on the list, and it was in very able terms responded to. Comps. Stohwasser Z. 21, and J. Stevens P.Z. 720, responded for the Visitors. The health of the Treasurer Comp. Bull, and of Comp. Haslett P.Z. S.E. was then given, the M.E.Z. stating no Companions could be found who knew their duties better; no Chapter could consider itself efficient without it had capable Officers. This toast having been responded to, the Junior Officers and Janitor's followed. Comps. Stevens, Moody, Haslett, and Levy contributed to the harmony.

JOPPA CHAPTER, No. 188.

A CONVOCATION of this Chapter was held on Monday (in lieu of the regular meeting of the 2nd instant, that date being Bank Holiday), at the Albion Tavern, Aldersgate-street. Comps. H. P. Isaac M.E.Z., I. P. Cohen H., A. Henochsberg J., M. J. Emanuel P.Z. S.E. and Treasurer, J. Dewsnap S.N., L. Lazarus P.Z. as P.S.; P.Z.'s S. M. Lazarus, L. Lazarus, H. M. Levy, W. Littaur; Visitors—Comps. W. Vincent P.Z., A. Abrahams late 188, J. A. Gartley 142, G. Smith jun., C. Killick H. 228, Round. Chapter was opened, and the minutes of last meeting were confirmed. Ballots were taken for the admission of Bro. J. B. Mesquito 205 and H. C. Lonsdale, which being in favour of the candidates, they were duly exalted into R.A. Masonry. The working of the M.E.Z., Principals, and Officers was perfect. The resignation of Comp. Boekbinder was accepted with regret. The sum of two guineas was voted from the Chapter, to be placed on the list of Comp. L. Lazarus P.Z., who will serve as a Steward at the next Anniversary Festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, on the 9th of May. The Chapter was then closed till the last Monday in May, and the Companions sat down to an excellent banquet provided by Comp. Jennings, and superintended by Comp. M. Silver. The M.E.Z., in eloquent terms, proposed the Loyal and R.A. toasts. Comp. W. Littaur P.Z. proposed the toast of the Z. This was a pleasing duty for him to perform, as Comp. Isaac was a good Craftsman and R.A. Mason. He (Comp. Littaur) had exalted him; he had filled every chair to the satisfaction of the Companions. The M.E.Z., in reply, thanked the Companions for their good wishes. He would strive to advance the prosperity of the Chapter, and his great aim would be to promote its success. In speaking to the toast of the Exaltees, the M.E.Z. said, by the attention they had paid to the ceremony, he felt assured they would become creditable Royal Arch Masons. All were gratified they had selected this Chapter to be exalted in. Comp. Mesquito eloquently responded, and he was followed by Comp. Lonsdale, who although but a young Mason, had heard so much of the Joppa Chapter wherever he went, that he thought he could not do better than join it. The M.E.Z. then proposed the toast of the Visitors. He thought the Chapter might boast of two attributes—cordiality amongst its members, and hospitality to its guests. In the name of the Chapter, he would extend to them a hearty welcome. Comp. Killick responded; he had experienced an intellectual treat that evening. The Chapter might be congratulated on the ability of its Z., and the excellent working of its Officers. Comps. Gartley and Vincent followed, acknowledging the extreme pleasure they had experienced in the excellent working. The toast of the P.Z.'s came next. Comp. M. J. Emanuel P.Z. and S.E. responded. The H. and J. were next complimented, and after response had been made, the Janitor gave the parting toast.

The Camden Chapter, No. 704, was consecrated on Friday, 6th inst., at Anderton's Hotel, by Comp. James Terry, who was assisted by Comps. J. D. Collier and E. C. Daines. Comps. E. Dimsdale and G. S. Graham assisted with the music.

PROVINCIAL GRAND CHAPTER OF EAST LANCASHIRE.

THE annual meeting of the Provincial Grand Chapter of East Lancashire was held on Thursday, the 29th ultimo, at the Baths Assembly Rooms, Bolton, on which occasion the Provincial Grand Superintendent, Companion Le Gendre N. Starkie, presided, and was supported by Comps. Beswicke-Royds Provincial Grand H., Franklin Thomas Provincial Grand J., G. P. Brockbank Provincial Grand N., J. Chadwick Prov. Grand E., E. Ashworth P.P.G.N., J. Newton P.P.G.N., J. T. Peel Prov. P.S., Blacka Prov. 1st A.S., J. Holmes Prov. Grand Treasurer, J. T. Hooper P.P.G. Treasurer, J. H. Sillitoe P.P.A. Soj., Hargreaves P.P.A. Soj., and many other Past Provincial Grand Officers; M.E.Z.'s Comps. Nicholl 317, Greenhalgh 221, Waterson 126, M. Hardman 344, Halliwell 42, Taylor 286, Godley 325, Loftos 128, Walker Z. elect 37; P.Z.'s Comps. Dawson 317, Jaffrey 152, Rutter 221, Richardson 221, Morris 221, Brown 37, S. Horrocks 128, Porritt 283, Horrocks 348, J. Harwood 348, Higson 348, Whittaker 350; also Comp. E. G. Harwood 221 Mayor of Bolton, and about 50 other Companions. The Provincial Grand Chapter having been opened in form, the minutes of the last P.G. Chapter were read and confirmed. The roll of Chapters was called over, and four of the number, being unrepresented, were fined in accordance with the Bye-laws. The Provincial Grand Treasurer, Companion Holmes, of Ashton, presented the accounts of the past year, duly audited by Comps. Dawson and Jaffrey. The same being satisfactory, were passed, and a vote of thanks accorded to the Auditors, and the retiring Treasurer. Comp. J. H. Greenhalgh Z. 221 was unanimously elected Provincial Grand Treasurer for the ensuing year. The following Companions were then invested as Officers for the year 1883-4:—

Comp.	Capt. Beswicke-Royds	P.G.H.
	J. H. Sillitoe P.Z. 645	P.G.J.
	John Chadwick P.Z. 152	P.G.E.
	Thomas Mason P.Z. 116	P.G.N.
	R. L. Mestayer P.Z. 204	P.G. Sojourner
	J. Walsh P.Z. 345	P.G. 1st A. Soj.
	James Horrocks P.Z. 345	P.G. 2nd A. Soj.
	J. H. Greenhalgh P.Z. 221	P.G. Treasurer
	J. M. Rutter P.Z. 221	P.G. Registrar
	John Bollard H. 116	P.G. Sword Bearer
	James Walker Z. 37	P.G. St. Bearer
	Samuel Porritt P.Z. 283	P.G.D.C.
	J. Dearnally 300	P.G. Organist
	J. Barrett 221	P.G. Stewards
	S. Crowther 37	P.G. Stewards
	John Harwood 348	P.G. Stewards
	Thomas Mitchell	P.G. Janitor

On the motion of Comp. G. P. Brockbank P.Prov.G.S.N., the sum of £10 was voted to the East Lancashire Systematic Masonic Educational and Benevolent Institution. Companions Richardson and Alcock were elected Auditors of the Treasurer's accounts. The Provincial Grand Chapter having been closed in due form, the Companions adjourned to banquet, at the Swan Hotel, the meeting place of Concord Chapter, No. 37, where the Provincial G. Superintendent presided, supported by several of the Provincial and Past Provincial Grand Officers who had been present at the Chapter. The customary loyal toasts having been duly honoured, Companion Phillips proposed the Grand Officers of England, coupled with the name of Companion Royds Provincial G.H., and one of the Grand Officers of the year. Companion Royds replied, expressing his determination to do his duty, both in the Province and Grand Chapter, without fear or favour. Companion Brockbank proposed the health of the Provincial Grand Superintendent Colonel Starkie, referring to his position as one of the leading landowners in the district, and the esteem he was held in by Masons throughout the whole of East Lancashire, especially noticing his fairness in distributing the honours of his Provincial Grand Lodge and Chapter to brethren and Companions who had duly earned their promotion by assiduity to Lodge labours and the practice of Masonic Charity. The Most Excellent Superintendent, in reply, thanked the proposer of the toast for the kindly way he had spoken of him, and eulogised the brethren of Bolton for the way in which they always catered for the material comforts of the brethren when called upon to provide accommodation for the meetings of Provincial Grand Lodge and Chapter; he also referred in terms of great commendation to the admirable manner in which the members of the Anchor and Hope Lodge, No. 37, had entertained the members of the Grand Lodge who attended at the Sesqui-centennial celebration of the Lodge in October last. The toast of the Prov. Grand H. Comp. Royds, and the Prov. Grand J. was duly honoured, and replied to in a characteristic speech by Comp. Sillitoe Prov. Grand J. A silent tribute of respect was paid to the memory of Comp. Thomas Entwisle P. Prov. Grand S.N., who died in harness as Z. of Chapter of Concord, the oldest Chapter in the North of England, and which has been in active working condition from the year 1768. The Prov. G. Superintendent proposed The Mayor of Bolton, speaking highly of his personal character, and of the pleasure it afforded him to meet the Chief Magistrate of Bolton again at a Masonic meeting in a locality where Masonry was practically carried out in all its fulness. The Mayor (Comp. E. G. Harwood) briefly responded, and thanked the Prov. Grand Superintendent for his complimentary remarks, and stated that, although only a young Mason, it was his earnest wish to progress in the science, and expressed his great gratification at being able to welcome so distingnished a Mason as Col. Starkie at a Provincial meeting in Bolton during his tenure of office. The Masonic Charities was proposed by Comp. Sillitoe, who expatiated on the merits of these Institutions, and made an earnest appeal for increased contributions to their funds. The Bolton Chapters was proposed by Comp. Ashworth Past Prov. S.N., and responded to by Comps. Richardson P.Z. Chapter 221, and J. Greenhalgh Prov. Grand Treasurer. The toast To all Poor and Distressed Arch Masons, proposed by Comp. Brockbank, as the oldest Arch Mason present, brought the proceedings of a highly successful meeting to a close.

We understand that E. Comp. Fred. A. Philbrick, Q.C., Deputy P.G.M. for Essex, and Recorder of Colchester, has been appointed by H.R.H. the Grand Z. to the post of Grand Superintendent of the Province of Essex; and that Comp. Philbrick will be installed at Chelmsford, on Wednesday, the 16th May, by E. Comp. Lord Lathom G.H. of England.

INSTALLATION MEETINGS, &c.

—:o:—

EARL OF LATHOM LODGE, No. 1922.

ON Monday last, the members of this young suburban Lodge, which has rapidly risen into popularity amongst the brethren in the South of London, assembled in force at the Greyhound Hotel, Streatham Common, the occasion being the installation of Bro. R. J. Taylor as Worshipful Master, in succession to Bro. Anthony Runacres. The weather outside London was delightfully fine and genial, and a numerous party of the members and visitors made the event an opportunity of enjoying a day in the open country, which is just now assuming a Spring-like brightness. Soon after two o'clock the meeting took place at the Greyhound, when the retiring Worshipful Master presided, supported by Bro. R. J. Taylor S.W. and W.M. elect, J. Turle Lee J.W., G. W. Evans S.D., Charles Evans I.G., E. Witts P.M. Secretary, and Boyton; Bros. Clarke, Jones, Dawe, Warne, Spencer, Sims, Cannon, Hill, Mason, O'Donnell, Hayboe, Robins, Thomson, Hunts, Firkins, Vane, and Stow M.C. Visitors: Bros. Taylor W.M. 1558, P.M.'s Gallant 25, Dairy 141, Dickson 860, Barker 1632, Burleton 1681, Hawkins 1693, Barham I.P.M. 144, Stokoe J.D. 1963, Albert 43, Harnett 813, Edgeley 1446, Anderson 1672. The minutes of the last Lodge meeting, and the emergencies of 30th October and 12th February having been read and confirmed, Bro. I. G. Albert, L.D.S., of St. Paul's Lodge, No. 43, proposed by Bro. Chapman, and seconded by the Worshipful Master elect; and Bro. W. Blount, of the Domatic Lodge, No. 177, proposed by Bro. Evans, and seconded by the W.M., were unanimously accepted as joining members. The report of the Audit Committee, which showed the Lodge to be in a sound and healthy condition financially, was received and adopted, and a cordial vote of thanks was accorded to the Committee for their services. Lodge was then advanced, and Bros. Francis John Dawe and Henry Thomas Warne were raised to the sublime degree by the Worshipful Master, assisted by his Officers, who acquitted themselves in a highly creditable manner, and to the satisfaction of all present. Lodge was resumed, and Bros. Henry Alexander Thomson, Charles N. Robins, and Edward Hayboe were severally passed to the degree of Fellow Craft, the working in this degree being equally well performed. After some other business, Bro. Taylor was presented as the Worshipful Master for the ensuing year, and having assented to the ordinary interrogatories, a Board of Installed Masters was formed, and Bro. Taylor was solemnly installed into the chair, the ritual being impressively rendered by the outgoing Worshipful Master, who officiated as the Installing Officer. On the re-admission of the brethren, the newly-installed Worshipful Master was greeted with the customary honours, and received the hearty congratulations of the brethren, with whom he is deservedly popular. He invested his Officers, the collars being thus bestowed:—Bros. Anthony Runacres I.P.M. and Treasurer, J. W. T. Chapman S.W, G. W. Evans J.W., Edward Witts P.M. Secretary, J. Turle Lee S.D., Charles Evans J.D., J. S. Clarke I.G., Connell Wine Steward, and O'Donnell Assistant Wine Steward. The Worshipful Master, in the name of the brethren of the Lodge, presented to Brother Runacres a magnificent Past Master's jewel, having a diamond centre, and the Earl of Lathom's crest and the name of the Lodge embossed on the border. On the reverse side was the following inscription:—

BROTHER ANTHONY RUNACRES, by the brethren of
THE EARL OF LATHOM LODGE, No. 1922,
As a mark of esteem and regard, and in recognition of the zeal and ability with which he discharged his duties as WORSHIPFUL MASTER,
during the year 1882-3. 9th April 1883.

After affixing it to Bro. Runacres's breast, the Worshipful Master alluded to the zealous and admirable manner in which he had performed the task entrusted to him as ruler of the Lodge, and said their excellent Immediate Past Master had had wisdom to discern, and ability to execute all that could conduce to the well-being and prosperity of the Earl of Lathom Lodge. In private he was admired and esteemed by all with whom he came into contact, whilst in his capacity as a Mason and a Master of this Lodge he had gained for himself universal affection. This jewel was but a slight tribute of their appreciation of services well and worthily rendered to the Lodge, and he expressed the hope that Bro. Runacres might live for many years to continue those services, and to live in the esteem and good opinion of the brethren, which he now so deservedly enjoyed. Bro. Runacres could scarcely find words adequately to express his deep sense of the honours which had been conferred upon him, and of the kindly sentiments which had fallen from the lips of the Worshipful Master. He could only say he should endeavour to deserve all that had been so generously said of him, by straining every nerve to advance the best interests of the Earl of Lathom Lodge. He felt a deep interest in Masonry, and anything he could do to promote the welfare of the Craft in general, and this Lodge in particular, would be to him a pleasure as well as a duty. Lodge having been closed in form, the brethren and visitors sat down to an excellent banquet, when the customary Loyal and Masonic toasts were honoured. The Immediate Past Master, in proposing the toast of the evening, alluded in felicitous terms to the energy, zeal, and ability displayed by Bro. Taylor, whilst filling the Senior Warden's chair during the past year, and to his assiduity in promoting harmony and good fellowship amongst the brethren. From the admirable working they had witnessed in Lodge, and the genial way in which he had presided over the amenities of the festive board, they might rest satisfied that Bro. Taylor would make a most efficient Master, and he congratulated the brethren upon the judicious selection they had made. He wished for their newly-installed Worshipful Master a happy and prosperous year of office, and assured him the Officers and brethren would assist him to the utmost of their power in contributing to that result. The Worshipful Master, who was most cordially received, said he was deeply sensible of the proud and honourable distinction which had been conferred upon him by the brethren of the Lodge in placing him in the chair, and it should be his earnest endeavour during the coming year to justify their selection by strict attention to duty. He should leave no stone unturned to promote the best interests of the Craft in general, and his Lodge in particular, in which he had felt so deep and genuine an interest ever since it was established. He trusted he might have the assistance of his Immediate Past Master, and the cordial co-operation of the Officers and brethren generally, and he had no fear, if this was extended to him, the year's work would be both pleasant and advantageous to them all. He should try and emulate the excellent example set him by his predecessor, and hoped that when the tenure of his office expired he should have acquitted himself with credit and with satisfaction to the Lodge. He then resumed his seat amidst loud acclamations. In rising again to propose the health of the Immediate Past Master and Installing Officer, the W.M. spoke of the constant and unwearied exertions made by Bro. Runacres to forward the best interests of the Lodge. He had been unremitting in his attention to the duties of his office, and had shown a happy ability in the promotion of harmony and goodwill amongst the body of members. He trusted that Bro. Runacres might be spared for a long time yet to assist in the governance of the Lodge, and to accord to it the benefit of his intelligent administration and experienced and valuable counsel. The Immediate Past Master, in response, said, After the remarks he had uttered in the Lodge-room very little was needed for him to convey to the brethren his deep sense of the compliment they had paid to him. It would be his endeavour, in the future, as it had been in the past, to assist by every means in his power to sustain and uphold the interests of the Earl of Lathom Lodge, and to render what assistance he could to their excellent Worshipful Master and the brethren generally. The work of the Lodge was a labour of love to him, and he rejoiced to see the unanimity and sound brotherly feeling which animated all the members of the Lodge. Might that harmony of sentiment and action long continue, to their common and mutual happiness and advantage. He should prize the magnificent jewel which now glistened on his breast, for its intrinsic value, but very much more for the kindly and brotherly sentiments by which it had been prompted. Their generous expressions towards him that day would never cease to be remembered, and would form a source of happy reflection, he hoped, for many years to come. The health of the Past Masters was then given, and duly acknowledged; and Brother Mason, in responding for the Charities, delivered an earnest appeal for continued help towards the great Benevolent Institutions, which are the pride and boast of the Craft. The toast of the Officers of the Lodge was suitably acknowledged by the Wardens, and the Tyler then closed the proceedings, which were throughout of a very happy and enjoyable description. An abundance of good music and singing tended materially to enhance the pleasures of the evening, and the brethren separated at an early hour, highly delighted with the success which had attended their gathering.

Kent Lodge of Instruction, No. 15.—Held at Bro. Serjeant's, the King and Queen, Norton Folgate, E.C., on Wednesday last. Present—Bros. Millington W.M., Serjeant S.W., Little J.W., Pinder Preceptor, A. Clark S.D., Black I.G.; also Bros. Rowe, Patrick, Turberfield, Gieseke, Kraum. After preliminaries, the ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Kraum candidate. Bro. Turberfield answered the questions leading to the second degree, was entrusted, and the ceremony of passing was rehearsed. Brother Serjeant was elected W.M. for the ensuing week.

A regular meeting of the St. Michael's Lodge, No. 211, was held on Tuesday, at the Albion, under the presidency of the W.M. Brother Frederick J. Hentsch. There was no ceremonial work on the agenda, occasion was therefore taken by the members to invite Bro. W. W. Morgan, the Senior Warden, to deliver one of his Lectures. Bro. Morgan selected "The Masonic Institutions; their Establishment and Development," for his text, and his discourse was listened to with the greatest interest. At the conclusion of the lecture a hearty vote of thanks to Bro. Morgan was passed, and ordered to be recorded on the minutes. In acknowledging the compliment Bro. Morgan expressed his gratification that his efforts had met with approval, and threw out a suggestion that other of the members should follow the precedent he had inaugurated; the so-called "off-nights" would then prove instructive to the younger members of the Lodge, and sustain the interest of the elder brethren.

The General Committee of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution met at Freemasons' Hall on Wednesday, Colonel Creaton presiding. There were also present Bros. Raynham W. Stewart, C. G. Dilley, G. Bolton, C. A. Cottebrune, Louis Stein, John Bulmer, C. J. Perceval, C. Lacey, J. M. Case, A. A. Richards, W. Hilton, J. J. Berry, A. H. Tattershall, T. W. C. Bush, T. Cubitt, James Garner, C. H. Webb, James Willing jun., and E. C. Massey. After the reading of the minutes of the last meeting, the Secretary reported that four deaths had occurred since last meeting, viz., two male annuitants, and one male and one female candidate, thus making the vacancies to be filled at next election, 25 male and 15 female annuitants. The Report of the Finance Committee, verifying the accounts to 31st March, was read and adopted, and ordered to be entered on the minutes; and the recommendation of the Finance Committee for the investment of £1,000 in India Four per Cents., in the names of the Trustees of the Male and Female Funds respectively, and that £2,000 should be placed on deposit account, was ordered to be carried out. Bros. Creaton, Farnfield, and Lacey were appointed a Committee to draw up the Annual Report, to be submitted to the meeting in May next. A moiety of the annuity of a brother whose death was reported at last meeting was granted to his widow. A vote of thanks to the chairman concluded the proceedings.

The R.W. the Pro Grand Master the Earl of Carnarvon presided, on Wednesday evening, at the Anniversary Festival of the Railway Officers' and Servants' Benevolent Institution, held at the Cannon-street Hotel, when there was a large and distinguished company supporting the noble Earl in the chair. Amongst them may be mentioned Lord Suffield Prov. G.M. of Norfolk, Baron de Ferrieres, M.P., the Mayors of Canterbury and Dover, Mr. H. E. Frances, General Sir J. Linton Simmons, Alderman Hadley Treasurer, Mr. Dixon-Hartland, M.P., Mr. Sheriff Savory, and many other prominent Freemasons. The Lord Mayor was unavoidably prevented from attending, that evening being devoted to a banquet at the Mansion House to Bros. Lord Wolseley and Lord Alcester, who had during the day been presented with the freedom of the City of London. Earl Carnarvon delivered an earnest appeal on behalf of the Institution whose anniversary was being celebrated, and whose object is to provide annuities for the aged and decayed officers and servants of the various railway companies throughout the United Kingdom, to relieve them in times of sickness and distress, and to provide for their orphans. The Secretary (M. James Salmon) was enabled, during the evening, to announce that the combined efforts of the Stewards on the occasion had resulted in an aggregate of donations and subscriptions, amounting to £2,700 towards which our esteemed Pro Grand Master contributed the handsome sum of five hundred guineas. The intimation was received with loud and prolonged cheering.

The Lord Mayor of London and the Sheriffs, with other brethren, who are members of the John Carpenter Club, which consists of old City of London School boys, and is named after the Founder of the School, have been granted a Warrant for a new Lodge, to be called the John Carpenter Lodge, No. 1997, which will meet at the Albion, Aldersgate-street. The Lord Mayor, who by the way, we think is the first City of London School boy who has attained the highest Civic dignity, is the W.M. designate, and Bro. Savory has been appointed Treasurer pro tem. The Consecration will take place on the 11th proximo, and the Grand Secretary, Bro. Colonel H. Clerke will be the Consecrating Officer. Colonel Clerke will be assisted by Bro. Sir John B. Monckton, President of the Board of General Purposes, and other distinguished Grand Officers.

A movable Grand Lodge of Mark Master Masons will be held at Nottingham, on Thursday, the 26th inst., under the auspices of the Newstead Lodge (T.I.), at the Masonic Hall, at three p.m. Lord Henniker G.M.M.M. will preside. Nottinghamshire will be constituted a Mark Province on this occasion, and Bro. John Watson will be appointed and invested as Prov. Grand Master.

The installation meeting of the St. Marylebone Lodge, No. 1305, took place on Wednesday evening. A full report shall appear in our next.

THE HISTORY OF FREEMASONRY.

FROM the Stonemasons of Germany Bro. Gould transfers his attention to the Craft Guilds—Corps d'Etat—of France, which existed from the earliest times down to the period of the French Revolution, when the National Assembly in 1793 decreed their abolition. At the outset he notes the remarkable fact that the French Masonic writers, unlike their German brethren, have not looked for the origin of Freemasonry in the past history of their country or its traditions and usages. This, he observes, is all the more remarkable because, "by a judicious combination of the history of the French trade guilds with that of the Companionage, a much better case might be made out than the Steinmetz theory, requiring for its complete establishment no deliberate falsification of history, as in the former instance, but only a slight amount of faith in some very plausible conclusions, and natural deductions from undoubted facts." He quotes, however, sundry passages which show that some French writers had a certain glimmering of the possibility of a connection between the Craft Guilds and modern Freemasonry. Thus the writer of an anonymous pamphlet, which appeared in 1848, speaks of the "community of origin which unites the societies of the Companionage with that of the Freemasons." M. Simon says, "The moment we begin to reflect, we are quickly led in studying the facts to the conclusion that the Companionage and Freemasonry have one common origin." Thory gives a slight sketch of the Companionage, and remarks, "Some authors have maintained that the coteries of working masons gave rise to the Order of Freemasons," while Besuchet, in his "Précis Historique de l'Ordre de la Franc-Maçonnerie," observes that in 1729 the prevailing opinion in France was that "England only restored to her what she had already borrowed, inasmuch as it is probable, according to a mass of authorities and traditions, that Freemasonry, in its three first or symbolic degrees, is of French origin."

In tracing the rise and progress of these Guilds, Brother Gould invites his readers to bear in mind that France was not, until comparatively recent times, a homogeneous state. Julius Cæsar found it in three divisions, which he specifies: the Belgæ, inhabiting one, being Teutons; and the Aquitani, who inhabited another, being, it is supposed, of African origin; while Gaul Proper, or Celtic Gaul, was inhabited by the Celts, or Gauls as the Romans called them; these last being subsequently subdivided into three classes. But though the manners and customs of the three races differed from each other very widely, Roman civilisation, though it failed to affect them all to an equal degree, obtained a deep and lasting hold on all classes, as is shown by the fact that in spite of the ultimate subjugation of the whole country by the German tribes, all the dialects and languages known and used at different times "have merged in a derivative of the Latin tongue." Moreover, this same civilisation, which had obtained a firm footing in the country long before the first invasions of the barbarians, was not destroyed by the invaders. The Alans, Suevians, Vandals, and Burgundians, who crossed the Rhine at the close of 405 A.D., and passing through France into Spain, left many of their number behind, who settled in Gaul, and pillaged the cities, but did not destroy them. These settlers soon became allies of the Romans, though retaining their own usages and customs. Then the Franks and Visigoths successively effected settlements in the country, and the former, who occupied principally the north central provinces, grew in strength as the Roman empire grew weaker, and succeeded finally in getting rid of the Roman domination, but not of its civilisation. "The conquerors," says Bro. Gould, "had for three generations"—406-486—"been neighbours and allies of Rome, although they had probably not conformed to any great extent with the Roman customs. They already looked upon the country as their home; many warriors must have been natives of it, and there would be no desire to utterly devastate it. The war was not one of ruthless extermination. The legions were driven out, but the cities remained. They were repeatedly pillaged by the victors, but they were not destroyed; the citizens were harassed, and doubtless many of them killed, but the basis of civilised life was untouched; the Teutons, true to their nature, retired to the country districts, leaving the cities to recover from their losses, and to accumulate fresh hoards which might serve as the spoil of some future foray." Having got rid of the Roman governors, the Franks gradually established their authority over the other tribes settled in Gaul, and before the end of the Merovingian dynasty in 752, Gaul had practically become the country of the Franks, or France, the inhabitants remaining, however, composed of representatives of all the tribes that had settled in the country. "In the cities the inhabitants had probably changed very little, and preserved their manners, customs, and language," the Germans avoiding the towns, even Paris, the capital, being seldom inhabited by them. Thus, on the departure of the Roman governors, the cities set about organising themselves afresh, and would appear "to have immediately formed a species of republican government." The executive authority was placed in the hands of the lieutenants who had already exercised it on behalf of the old governors. "The priests and bishops naturally took a prominent part in this new system, which was probably based on the trade organisation of the Romans. Those Colleges, which consisted of more than one trade, appear to have split up into their several component parts, and their elected officers to have formed, together with the heads of the clergy, a municipal council. As they already exercised the petty police of the towns, they now added to their duties magisterial functions, and the imperial prerogative of levying taxes," And, in order to prove that "the cities of France, up to the time of Charlemagne, were veritable republics; and also that the divisions into craft guilds existed from very early times," Bro. Gould adduces "a few quotations from careful writers and authentic documents," the testimony itself on these points being most ample. Very many of these quotations may with advantage be reproduced.

Thus Levasseur, in his "Histoire des Classes Ouvrières en France," says—"It was more especially in the south and in the cities that the traditions of the past were perpetuated. The country districts had been invaded by the men and usages of Germany, but the cities, a sojourn in which was avoided by the barbarians, preserved their Roman populations, and even a portion of their ancient civil and political institutions. In 462 the games in the circus were still celebrated at Arles." In Vol. iii. of "Le Moyen Age et la Renaissance," article, "A.A. Monteil, Corporation des Métiers," is a passage to the effect that "in the fifth century the history of the holy hermit Ampelius, who lived at Cimeez, mentions the consul or chief of the locksmiths." The following are from Levasseur: "In the year 585 Gontran visited Orleans; all the inhabitants came out to meet him, bearing their flags and banners;" and "In 629 Dagobert established a fair in Paris for the merchants, foreigners as well as natives. It took place yearly on the 9th October, and lasted four weeks." Ouin-Lacroix, in his "Histoire des Anciennes Corporations d'Arts et Métiers" states that "a capitulary of Charlemagne decrees that the corporation of bakers shall be maintained in full efficiency in the provinces, and an edict of 864 mentions the gild of goldsmiths." Thierry remarks, "The inhabitants of Rheims preserved in the twelfth century the recollection of the Roman origin of their municipal council. The citizens of Metz prided themselves on having exercised civil rights before the Duchy of Lorraine existed; they used to say, 'Lorraine is young and Metz old.' At Lyons, Bourges, and Boulogne, the citizens maintained that there had existed for those cities a right of free justice and administration before France became a kingdom. Arles, Marseilles, Perigueux, Angoulême, and even smaller cities in the south that had been mere castles under the Roman Empire, believed their semi-republican organisation to be anterior to the Frankish conquest, and to all the feudal boldings of the Middle Ages. Toulouse gave itself a capitol after the manner of Rome." Levasseur again says: "The true origin of the corporation is found in the social life of the Romans, and amongst the vanquished Gauls, who always formed the principal population in the cities, and faithfully preserved under their new masters the remembrances and traces of their ancient organisations;" and also: "In the majority of cities the organisation of the craft guilds preceded that of the commune; the proof of it is, that in almost all the communes the political system and the election of magistrates were based on the division of the citizens into trade corporations." The following from MM. Renouvier and Ricard is also to the same purport: "In the south the trade guilds followed the same development as the communes; although only recognised feudally in the twelfth and thirteenth centuries, they existed from time immemorial. Survivals of the old Roman organisation, the corporations sought refuge in the church, and attained to public life and independence at that period when order commenced to be established in the relations between the commune, the feudal lord, and the Church." In the preface to Monteil's "Histoire de l'Industrie Françai e," it is stated that "Roman civil architecture, industry, art—in one word, the whole Roman tradition was perpetuated in France till the tenth century. Even the German conquerors, whilst preserving their own national laws, customs, and usages, accepted the Gallic industry much as they found it." And again, "The Middle Ages invented nothing, but they gathered together from the preceding Civilisation its traditions, of which they carefully preserved the memory; and in the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries the industries still flourished which had created the opulence of Roman Gaul, generally in the very districts which had given them birth." The facts adduced from these quotations, in Brother Gould's opinion, "go far to show the great probability of a virtual and direct descent from the Roman colleges and municipalities to the French trade guilds and communes of the early Middle Ages;" and later on, while admitting that "there is no direct proof obtainable that these corporations were the descendants, in unbroken continuity, of the Roman colleges," he considers that "the balance of probability seems to affirm it."

In the changes that were introduced under the Carlovingian dynasty, when the country was reduced to a state of greater dependence on the central authority, "the trade guilds retained the greater part of their previous importance, and were deftly woven into the new fabric." Under the feudal system, the cities became subject to the bishop or lord paramount, and then followed struggles on the part of the municipalities to recover their independence. In the reign of Philip the Fair, the cities were possessed of their ancient privileges, and about the same period the Craft guilds were able "to produce documents confirming and settling their ancient privileges," and the fees and fine previously paid to the feudal lord were payable to the King. "In Paris," we are further told, "the rise of the municipality is characterised by a singular feature—the government of the city being vested, not in the delegates of all the guilds, but in the officers of one huge guild only, that of the Hanse," the progress of which is described, after which he directs his attention to the trade guilds and their regulations, the first attempt to introduce order and uniformity among them having been made in the latter half of the thirteenth century by Etienne Boileau, provost of Paris. Of course, it is not surprising that the regulations should contain much that is curious; as, for instance, in the case of the baker's guild on the reception of a new master. Of the ceremony on this occasion we have the following: "On the day agreed upon, the candidate leaves his house followed by all the bakers of the city, and coming to the master of the bakers, presents to him a new jar full of nuts, saying, 'Master I have done and accomplished my four years; behold my pot full of nuts.' Then the master of the bakers, turning to the secretary (clerc écrivain) of the craft, demands to know if that is truly so. Upon receiving a reply in the affirmative, the master of the bakers returns the jar to the candidate, who smashes it against the wall, and—behold him master." In the case of the millstone makers, who belong to the same category as the stonemasons, we read: "A banqueting hall was prepared, and above that a loft, whither, whilst the masters were partaking of good cheer below, the youngest accepted master, with a broomstick stuck into his belt in lieu of a sword, conducted the candidate. Shortly after, there issued therefrom cries which never ceased, as though he were being cudgelled to death."

We next come to the fraternity, which was closely allied to the craft guilds. Indeed, says Bro. Gould, "every craft guild belonged, as a body, to some fraternity, maintained an altar in some neighbouring church, and decorated it with candles, to supply which it levied on its members fines and fees to be paid in wax. From this wax candle the fraternity was sometimes spoken of simply as le cierge, 'the candle.'" This fraternity, which, though composed of the same members as the Craft, and for that reason often difficult of distinction from it, "was always a distinct entity, and was often legislated for separately," we are told, "provided for the assembly of the brethren at stated periods, for religious exercises and social pleasures; those of the table occupying a large share," and as "the newly received Master was expected to provide the members of the fraternity with a banquet," it is not surprising to read that "it was the excess to which the feasting was carried which eventually formed one of the great hindrances to becoming a master." Again, "Provision was made for a due attendance of members at the nuptials and obsequies of one of their number, and it afforded a convenient meeting-place for secret political purposes, and for maturing further restrictions in favour of the existing masters." But "their most useful sphere of action was the sustenance and relief of aged and poor masters, their widows, and children, the assistance rendered to members in cases of illness, and to companions on their travels. The members appear to have belonged solely to the body of masters, although apprentices entering on their indentures, and companions working in the city, were required to contribute to the funds. In return, they were assisted from the treasury, and shared the benefit of the religious services." It is also noteworthy that "there were sometimes several fraternities in one craft, at other times several crafts united to form a fraternity." The earliest documentary evidence we have of these "craft fraternities" (not guilds) relate to "the Hanse"—already mentioned—"1170, the Clothworkers of Paris, 1188, the barber surgeons, 1270, and the notaries, 1300;" and Bro. Gould quotes the "Statutes regulating the Fraternity (cierge, candle) of the masons' trade (du Mestier de Machonnerie) of Amiens, bearing" date 15th June 1407, which is preserved in the archives of that city.

As to the building trades, Bro. Gould remarks that "the oldest code which has been preserved is probably that of Boileau (about 1260). In it we find them already subdivided into many branches, which of itself presupposes a much earlier existence, as the division of labour always marks a considerable development of a trade. This code unites, under the Banner of St. Blaise, the masons, stonemasons, plasterers (both makers and users), and the mortarers (both makers and users of mortar). From other sources we know that the quarry-workers and the tylers (but not the tyle-makers) owed allegiance to the same banner, and also the millstone-makers." Of the twenty-four articles contained in the code, those of interest to the brethren are quoted and commented upon, where necessary. He also gives evidence of the corporate existence at an early date of the building trades. Thus at Amiens the Masons took part in the municipal elections for the first time in 1348, and in 1387 the municipality had a city architect. In 1244 "Paul Olivier, maistre de peira (Master Mason)," is mentioned in the archives of Montpellier. "The statutes of the probes hommes of Avignon regulate, in 1423, the pay of the stone masons." Then, "in 1208, Ingelram was architect of Rouen Cathedral; in 1280 Jehan Davi constructed the south porch;" while, later, we are told that "in 1389 Jehan de Boyeaux was appointed master mason of the city of Rouen. His title was 'master of the works of masonry,' his salary 10 livres a-year; he had a seat at the municipal board, and wore a distinctive dress almost like that of the échevins of the city. The salary, however, rapidly increased. In 1562, Pierre de Marromme received 75 livres, and in 1692 Nicolas de Carpentier 1500 livres, besides other emoluments. This title and office of master of the works still existed in 1777, Fontaine being then the architect." Last of all, we have a translation of a charter of the French builders, "preserved in a volume of manuscripts in the library of the Bishop of Mirepoix," and dated 1586. These are described as the "Statutes and Ordinances made by the Masters-Mason Architects of the City of Montpellier, According to their ancient privileges, which have been lost and destroyed during the troubles and wars which have been in this country, and now re-enacted under the good pleasure of our Sire the King, and of Monsieur the governor of the said city," and were ratified by the King in Council. In addition to the ratification, there are twenty-two articles, No. 7 of which provides for the appointment of two consuls and provosts of the Craft, "who shall keep the box and collect the pence, ordained as well to sustain and assist poor masters and suffering companions, as for defraying the cost which it may be proper to incur for the maintenance of the guild." The key of this box is placed in the charge of one of the oldest masters "who will keep it, together with the first, provost during the said year," the provosts keeping an account of what they distribute and the expenses incurred and rendering it to their successors. Nos. 8 and 9 regulate the amount to be contributed by the masters, fellows, and apprentices. No. 10 provides for the masters attending the funeral of one of their body, and No. 13, for the weekly inspection by the provosts of "the masonry and work in course of erection." No. 15 lays it down that "No mason who is not a sworn master may undertake a new edifice in ashlar work, from the foundations upwards, the sworn masters of other sworn towns of this kingdom excepted;" though "proprietors may employ fellows" for certain purposes. No. 18 provides for the settlement of differences between masters and fellows "on account of the craft," and No. 19 against any wrongdoing on the part of a servant or fellow, while No. 20 ordains that the statutes shall be read "once a year on the day of their assembly and election of consuls and provosts," so that masters may not plead ignorance of them.

The rest of the chapter is interesting, but it is not necessary we should go further into the subject of the French Craft Guilds, to which the fourth chapter of Bro. Gould's work is devoted.

DIARY FOR THE WEEK.

We shall be obliged if the Secretaries of the various Lodges throughout the Kingdom will favour us with a list of their Days of Meetings, &c., as we have decided to insert only those that are verified by the Officers of the several Lodges.

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

JOPPA LODGE, No. 188.

THE members held a regular meeting on the 2nd inst., at Freemasons' Tavern, Great Queen-street. Bros. J. Benjamin W.M., Martin S.W., Bean J.W., E. P. Albert P.G.P. Secretary, J. S. Lyon Treasurer, H. A. Botibol S.D., L. Wall J.D., J. Dewsnap I.G., A. G. Dodson P.M. M.C., J. Wyuman and G. M. Lion Stewards, P. E. Van Noorden Organist; P.M.'s L. Lazarus, L. M. Myers I.P.M., R. Baker, L. Alexander. Visitors—T. H. Newell 1538, Siemens 1502, J. C. Loring 1744, W. G. Jennings 1681. Lodge was opened, and after the minutes had been confirmed, Messrs. H. Davis and Maurice Jackson were proposed as candidates for initiation. The ballot was in their favour, and they were duly initiated into the Order by the W.M., whose working was worthy of the prestige this old Lodge has secured. A candidate was proposed for initiation at the next meeting, and the resignation of Bro. S. B. Alexander, Steward, was tendered and accepted. Bro. L. M. Myers P.M. said they had experienced a loss by the death of Bro. E. Moss, one of the oldest members of the Lodge. He proposed that a letter of condolence be sent to the widow and family. This was carried unanimously. Bro. Lewis Lazarus P.M. announced that it was his intention to serve as a Steward at the next Anniversary Festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls; and Bro. H. M. Levy proposed, and Bro. H. Botibol seconded, that the sum of ten guineas be placed on his list. Bro. L. Alexander P.M., in supporting the motion, said the Lodge had not done so much for the Charities as the members could have wished, but he hoped they would do more in the future. Lodge was then closed, and the brethren sat down to a very excellent supper, provided by Messrs. Spiers and Pond (Limited), and superintended by Bro. Dawkins. The W.M. proposed the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts. Bro. E. P. Albert P.G.P. eloquently responded for the Grand Officers. In speaking to the toast of the Benevolent Fund the W.M. informed the brethren that the two initiates had given the sum of 21s each. He would couple with the toast the name of Bro. L. Alexander Past President, who, in responding, stated that the sum now at the disposal of the Lodge was nearly £1,000. The W.M. gave the toast of the newly initiated brethren, and this having been responded to, Bro. L. M. Myers I.P.M. rose to propose the health of the W.M.; he was sure that when work was to be done they could see the W.M. was able to do it. He urged all to co-operate, and he felt assured this would be a successful year for the Lodge. The W.M., in reply, returned his sincere thanks for the manner the toast had been received. To be the W.M. of the Lodge had been the aim of his life. He hoped that while under his direction the Lodge would retain its ancient prestige, and in every respect be second to none. Bro. W. G. Jennings acknowledged the honour conferred upon him by having his name associated with the toast of the Visitors. He hoped to keep up his long acquaintanceship with the members, and be present at many of their festive gatherings. Bros. L. M. Myers I.P.M. responding in a very eloquent speech for the Past Masters, and then the toasts of the Wardens and Junior Officers were given, and acknowledged. Bros. Siemens, the W.M., R. Baker, H. L. Phillips, Thomas, and Dodson contributed to the harmony.

Loughborough Lodge of Instruction, No. 22. — A meeting was held on Monday evening last, at the Cambria Tavern, Cambria-road, Loughborough Junction. Bros. Westley W.M., Cormack S.W., Sherring J.W., Warren S.D., Littler J.D., Wood I.G., Brown Tyler. After preliminaries, Bro. Pardon worked the first section of the second lecture. Lodge resumed to first, when Bro. Brown answered the questions previous to being passed. Lodge was again resumed, and the ceremony of passing was rehearsed, with Bro. Brown as candidate. The W.M. afterwards worked the second section of the first lecture, and Bro. Sherring the third.

Percy Lodge of Instruction, No. 198.—At the Jolly Farmers, Southgate-road, Islington, on 7th instant. Bros. Dixie W.M., Marks S.W., Ashton J.W., Woolf S.D., Weeden J.D., Gribbell I.G., Pearcy Preceptor, Lorkin Treasurer, and Galer Secretary; also Bros. Hatch, Richardson, Manger, Stoughton, Lone, Hirst, and Carr. After preliminaries, the ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Bro. Hatch candidate. Bro. Pearcy worked the first section, assisted by Bro. Ashton; also the second, assisted by Bro. Woolf. Lodge was opened in the second degree, and Bro. Lorkin worked the second and third sections, assisted by Bros. Gribbell and Weeden. Lodge was closed in the second degree, and Bro. Marks was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing week. A cordial vote of thanks was accorded to the W.M. for his efficient working. All Masonic business being ended, Lodge was closed. The Percy is one of the oldest Lodges of Instruction in London, and for a number of years has been under the Preceptorship of Bro. R. Pearcy P.M. 228. Brethren seeking Masonic knowledge will be amply repaid by paying a visit here. Lodge meets at eight o'clock every Saturday evening.

Polish National Lodge, No. 584.—The Audit Committee of this Lodge held their annual meeting at the Café Royal, Regent-street, on Thursday, 5th inst. After a thorough examination of the accounts there was found to be a substantial balance in favour of the Lodge. The following were present—Bros. Lancaster W.M., Jackson I.P.M., E. T. Smith W.M. elect; P.M.'s Szulczowski, Jagielski, S. Nowakowski Treasurer, Dicey, Rath, Pass Secretary, Ebner: Bros. Culverhouse and J. Nowakowski.

Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction, No. 860.—Held at Bro. Smyth's, Sisters' Tavern, Pownall-road, Dalston, on Tuesday, 10th inst. Bros. Wardell W.M., Christian S.W., Bunker J.W., Glass S.D., Smyth J.D., Watkinson I.G., Wallington P.M. Preceptor, F. Carr Secretary; also Bros. Allen, &c. Lodge was opened in due form, and minutes of previous meeting were read and confirmed. Bro. Carr offered himself as candidate for passing, and was interrogated and entrusted. Lodge was opened in the second degree, and the ceremony was rehearsed. Lodge was called off, and resumed its Masonic duties by Bro Allen working the first section of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Christian worked the third and fourth sections of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Cushing was elected W.M. for the ensuing week. Lodge was then closed, and adjourned. The Annual Supper will take place on Friday, 20th April.

ROYAL ALFRED LODGE, No. 780.

THE brethren of this Lodge held an emergency meeting at the Star and Garter Hotel, Kew Bridge, on Friday, 6th inst., at three o'clock p.m., under the presidency of Bro. Rudolph Franckel W. Master. Amongst those present were Bros. Past Masters Blasby acting as I.P.M., W. Gomm Treasurer, Hilton Secretary, Littlewood as S.W., Walter Goss, C. F. May, Henry Potter; W. Beckett J.W., R. Gifford J.D., C. Maton I.G., James Tarling M.C. Visitors—H. Cammell I.G. 15, E. H. Sugg P.M. 452, W. Williams 857, Thomas Winter 198, Montague Flint 1612, Arthur Turner Secretary 1818, J. L. Lyon Treasurer 188, R. Andrews 35, H. Tucker W.M. 1612, Lewis Honig 1319, W. W. Morgan S.W. 211. After the Lodge had been regularly opened, Bro. Henry Spencer James Flint was raised to the sublime degree. The ballot was then taken for Mr. Edwin Littlejohns, who was proposed by Bro. May P.M. and seconded by Bro. Hilton P.M. The result was in favour of the candidate, who was regularly initiated by the W.M., who proved himself a competent worker. After other business had been carried out, Lodge was closed. We may here refer to a pleasing incident that lately took place in connection with this Lodge, Brother Costelow, the Immediate Past Master of the Royal Alfred, from a variety of causes, was unable, during his year of office, to pay that strict attention to his duties so necessary in a Lodge having so large a list of members. He had, however, a worthy and considerate helpmate in Brother B. E. Blasby, his predecessor, who was unceasing in his endeavours to advance the interests of the Lodge. The members seem fully to have realised and appreciated this, and it is our duty to announce that after resolution had been duly proposed, seconded, and carried, an elegantly illuminated address was prepared and presented to Brother Blasby, bearing the following inscription:—

Presented to
BROTHER B. E. BLASBY I.P.M. of the ROYAL ALFRED LODGE OF FREEMASONS, for the very able manner in which he carried out the duties of the Lodge in the absence of the W.M.

(Signed) L. FRANCKEL W.M.
W. GOSS P.M. S.W.
W. BECKETT J.W.
W. GOMM P.M. Treasurer.
W. HILTON P.M. Secretary.

We sincerely congratulate Brother Blasby on his being the recipient of such a testimonial, and we also bear testimony to the zeal he has so prominently displayed. May his associations with the members of 780 ever be as pleasant as now they are. The usual banquet was served in the Dining Hall of the Star and Garter, and was ably superintended by Brother John Brill. Brother James Tarling, as usual, spared no effort in carrying out his duties as Steward. The toasts customary on these occasions were given.

ST. LEONARD LODGE, No. 1766.

THE meeting prior to the vacation was held at the Town Hall, Shoreditch, on Wednesday, 4th inst, when the proceedings were of a very interesting character. Bro. J. A. Jones W.M. presided, there being also present Bros. L. Stean P.M., G. T. Barr P.M., C. F. Barham P.M., E. Benjamin I.P.M., A. A. Clement S.W., J. Funston J.W., D. King Treasurer, J. Cox Secretary, E. Walker S.D., F. Matthews J.D., R. Drysdale I.G., H. J. Thrower M.C., G. C. Young Organist, L. Harrison and E. T. Clark Stewards; also Bros. C. Short, H. Waynforth, W. Strickland, J. Tidball, J. James, G. Lookyer, T. Douglass, R. Boyce P.M. 813, Dr. W. Holt, E. J. Rose, E. A. Beckett, W. H. Brand, and E. T. Henman jun. Visitors—Bros. J. Woodham 101, R. W. Byott 861, J. Little 1607, H. Morell 1889 and G. H. Stephens J.W. 1623. Lodge was opened in ancient form; the business included the raising of Bros. G. Colls, L. Fraser, T. Weatherly, and the passing of J. W. Griffiths. The W.M., in graceful terms, presented a handsomely illuminated vellum, in massive gilt frame, to Bro. Charles Stevens, for his services as Treasurer since the consecration of the Lodge in 1873 up to December last. Bro. Stevens feelingly acknowledged the kindness of the Lodge, and although only slowly recovering from severe indisposition, expressed his pleasure at being present on the occasion. Lodge having been closed, the brethren adjourned to refreshment, and in the after proceedings the speeches were more than ordinarily interesting. In giving the toast of the W.M., Bro. Benjamin referred to the excellent working and prosperity of the Lodge under Bro. Jones's Mastership—a compliment which was duly acknowledged, and the Past Masters in their turn expressed their great interest in the Lodge's welfare, and readiness at all times to place their knowledge and experience at the service of the W.M. and his Officers. Bro. Barr intimated a desire to go up as Steward for the Girls' School, and asked the support of the brethren. The toasts of the Visitors and Officers were warmly honoured and appropriately responded to. Bros. Douglass, Strickland, Barham, Harrison, Little, and others, contributed some excellent harmony, accompanied by the Organist.

THE APPROACHING FESTIVAL OF THE GIRLS' SCHOOL.

THE next event of importance that calls for attention in the Masonic Charity world is the Ninety-fifth Anniversary Festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, which will take place on Wednesday, the 9th prox., at Freemasons' Tavern, London, under the presidency of the R.W. Provincial Grand Master for Hampshire and the Isle of Wight—Brother W. Wither B. Beach, M.P. As was stated in a recent issue, the number of Stewards is, so far, below the number enrolled last year at a similar date, but it does not necessarily follow that the final number will be lower than in 1882, nor that the total collected may be less satisfactory than was the case then. We trust, both as regards number of Stewards and amount collected, that this year's Festival will compare favourably with the gatherings of the past.

It has been somewhat extensively reported that the Girls' School is not urgently in need of funds, and many of those brethren who have accepted this view of affairs have pointed, as proof of the truth of their argument, to the small number of candidates seeking election, in the case of the Girls' School compared to those in that of the Boys'. Unfortunately, the facts are different; the Girls' School is in want of increased, rather than diminished support; and the very feature which has been referred to as shewing the opposite is one of the principal reasons which can be brought forward why increased support should be accorded to this Institution. How is it that the lists of candidates have recently been, comparatively speaking, so small? It is because the Committee of the Girls' School have largely increased the number of those to be received into their School during the last year or two, and have thus afforded an opportunity of clearing off all the outstanding cases. They have taken in all the candidates that presented themselves, obviating the necessity of elections, and, as a result, they have diminished the number of applicants now seeking admission far below what it could have been if very large additions had not been made. At the same time, they have burdened themselves with a much larger family to keep, and necessarily they want considerably more money to maintain the School than was the case before these large increases. It is very gratifying to be able to open the doors of the Institution to all who are deemed eligible, but once having been received, there is no removing a candidate because the subscriptions fall short, nor would it be good policy to lessen the number of inmates by neglecting to fill up any vacancies which might occur previous to one of the Half-yearly Elections. The only course which will be tolerated is, to keep up the numbers, and, as far as possible, keep the subscriptions up to the amount required.

Bro. Beach, the Chairman of this year's Festival, is a Mason who is well known in the district in which he presides, and also in Grand Lodge. In both he is highly respected; indeed, a more conscientious exponent of Freemasonry could not be desired than is to be found in Bro. Beach. These circumstances will, we think, have no little influence on the total receipts of the Festival which will take place under his presidency, and it is nothing but right that they should do so. Bro. Beach is one of the most frequent attendants at Grand Lodge, and is seldom present there but his services are called into requisition in connection with one or other of the higher offices. Under such circumstances, he has a claim on the regular attendants of Grand Lodge, who will thus be able to show their appreciation of the attention he gives to them on such occasions. He frequently devotes several hours to Freemasonry, when, as Acting Grand Master, he presides at the Quarterly Communications, and would doubtless feel highly gratified if he saw around him, at the Festival in May next, all those he is accustomed to meet in Grand Lodge. He presides there for the benefit and comfort of the Craft at large, and let us hope the brethren will come forward and support him when it lies in their power, and show they appreciate what is done for them.

The Girls' School has this year one great "counter attraction" to contend against, which may make an appreciable difference in the final returns. We allude to the action of the Boys' School authorities, who are offering double votes to those usually given for all subscriptions on behalf of the "Preparatory School Special Building Fund." This inducement will, it is true, also affect the Boys' School "general total," although not to so marked an extent, as, before the "Special" Fund advantages are available, a donor must have qualified by making a donation to the General Fund. At the same time there can be no doubt that the special advantages offered by the Boys' School will attract to that Institution a large amount of support which in the ordinary course would have been divided between the other two Institutions. Another advantage which we consider the Boys' School has over that of the Girls' is, the fact that its Festival comes later in the year, at a time when a day in the country can be enjoyed, and this has been taken advantage of by the Stewards on the last few occasions, who have held the Festivals at Brighton and elsewhere. This course enables greater inducements to be offered for the attendance of ladies, and we believe that no small amount of support has been given to these Festivals in consequence. The more these meetings get known, the more popular will they become, as they really afford the principal opportunity of allowing the ladies to enjoy with their husbands a day's Freemasonry. The suggestion may perhaps be opposed—on the plea that it is looking too far a-head—but we have heard that brethren excuse themselves from undertaking the office of Steward for the Girl's School this year as they wish to wait until the Centennial Anniversary, which will be in 1888, believing that something special will then be offered to induce a hearty response to the call for Stewards; but to such we would say—Let the future take care of itself. If this plea is to be urged now, how will it fare with the years that intervene before the Centennial really comes? We shall have the Centennial, but not the Institution; or at least not such an Institution as to-day we can point to; besides, even if a brother does serve now, there is nothing to prevent his doing so again five years hence, when if any special inducements are offered to Stewards they will be quite as beneficial for those who have acted before as they will be for new ones. We trust this excuse will not be urged by any who really desire to promote the welfare of the School.

In conclusion, we can but refer to our oft-repeated wish, —that all who are able will undertake the office of Steward for one or other of our Charities. As the Girls' Festival is the next to take place, we naturally direct especial attention to it. The interval before us is now short, but it is quite sufficient for any brother to make a fair list if he only devotes a little extra energy to the task than perhaps he would have done had he a few more weeks at disposal. We trust that some few, at least, of our readers will see the force of this argument, and, by immediately and energetically undertaking the office of Steward, enforce the truth of it.

QUARTERLY COURT OF THE GIRLS' SCHOOL.

THE Quarterly Court of Subscribers to the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls was held on Saturday last, at Freemasons' Tavern, Colonel Creaton, Grand Treasurer, presiding. After the minutes of last Quarterly Court had been read and confirmed, Colonel Creaton was proposed as Treasurer of the Institution by Bro. Henry Smith Prov. Representative West Yorkshire. Colonel Creaton had served the Institution well and faithfully; he took a deep interest in it, and ought to be unanimously re-elected. Bro. W. Roebuck Past Grand Steward, seconded the motion, which received unanimous assent. After Col. Creaton had acknowledged the honour conferred upon him, Bro. Henry Smith made a suggestion that there should be agents for the Institution in different parts of the kingdom, who might receive a commission for their collection of subscriptions, and he recouped any expense hey might be put to for printing and postage, a course which would only involve the outlay of a few shillings or a couple of pounds, instead of £5 or £6, which it cost the Institutions for the Secretaries to attend and receive what was subscribed. Colonel Creaton remarked that the suggestion was doubtless a good one, but he pointed out that there was a law of the Institution which gave power to appoint a paid agent in every large town or centre. He did not think much had been done upon it up to the present time, but he was sure the Institution would reimburse any expenses a brother was put to in increasing the funds. The law of the Institution was that an agent might be appointed by the General Committee in every large town, or for certain districts or centres that might be determined, whose duty should be to collect subscriptions for the Institution, and such agent should be paid a commission, on such a scale as the Committee should see fit. Bro. Henry Smith said he had entirely overlooked that rule; but Bro. J. R. Hine, of Manchester, said the rule had been in force several years. Bros. J. W. Berrie, J. F. Corben, W. Dodd, A. Moore, E. C. Massey, H. Massey, J. J. Caney, W. Dickenson, C. Pugsley, French, and Herbert Wright were elected on the General Committee of Annual or Life Subscribers for the year. The election of twenty-two girls out of an approved list of twenty-eight candidates was then proceeded with. The result list will be found in our Advertisement columns; we give here, however, the List of Unsuccessful Candidates, with the number of votes each obtained. The London brethren succeeded with seven candidates, Durham one, Kent two, Cheshire one, Madras one, Somerset one, Hants and the Isle of Wight one, Middlesex two, Oxford one, West Yorkshire one, West Lancashire one, Cumberland and Westmoreland two, and Leicestershire one. The highest number of votes was 2,485, made on a first application, and the lowest 878. There were 390 votes difference between the lowest and second lowest, and 1607 between the highest and the lowest.

QUARTERLY COURT OF THE BOYS' SCHOOL.

THE Quarterly Court of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys was held on Monday, at the Freemasons' Tavern, Col. Creaton again taking the chair. After the reading of the minutes, which were duly confirmed, Bro. Binckes stated that £2,000 was about to be invested, making £5,000 on account of £8,000, on the obtaining of which the Preparatory School was to be commenced. Col. Creaton proposed the re-election of Brother George Plucknett as Treasurer of the Institution, and spoke in praise of Bro. Plucknett's performance of his duties. The proposition was seconded by Bro. Raynham W. Stewart P.G.D., and carried unanimously. The General Committee of Life and Annual Subscribers who served for last year were re-elected without a dissentient voice. In the case of Hipley, No. 41 on the list, it was agreed that the lad should be admitted by purchase; Bro. Roebuck P.G.S. proposed the resolution, and Bro. E. F. Storr P.M. 22 seconded it. The case of George W. King Hill, No. 3 on the list, was then discussed, Bro. Binckes desired to bring it forward because a report had got abroad that the mother of the boy had been left by her late husband in comfortable circumstances. Brother Gladwell P.M. 172 was immensely pleased that Bro. Binckes had mentioned the case; he assured the brethren that having made full inquiry into the case, the assertion was incorrect. The case of Frank Alexander Herring, No. 55, was also brought before the Court, the remarks anent this case that have appeared in this journal having directed the attention of the subscribers to it. Considerable discussion ensued; Bros. Alpass G. Standard Bearer, Godtschalk, Raynham W. Stewart P.G.D., and others taking part. A motion was at length made, that the case be struck out, but it was negatived by 28 votes against 24. Bro. W. Roebuck's motion to add to Law 65 the words "The two Householders signing the bond, shall also undertake to remove the boy from the School at their own expense during the holidays sanctioned by the House Committee, in the event of the parents or relatives refusing to do so," was withdrawn.

The Election was then proceeded with, the number of declared vacancies being thirteen. The names of Successful candidates will be found on another page, here we content ourselves by supplying the number of votes polled by the candidates unsuccessful on this occasion.

The proceedings closed with the customary votes of thanks to Scrutineers and Chairman.

The monthly meeting of the Lodge of Benevolence was held on Wednesday, at Freemasons' Hall, when Brother Joshua Nunn presided; Bros. James Brett S.V.P. and Charles Atkins J.V.P. occupying their respective chairs. There were also present Bros. T. Cubitt, W. Mann, H. Garrod, J. H. Matthews, G. P. Britten, Charles Dairy, C. B. Hogard, J. D. Collier, F. Spaull, W. P. Brown, A. Spaull, W. Holloway, G. E. Fairchild, Capt. A. Nicols, George Cordwell, T. C. Walls, J. Dawkins, John Maclean, John Jervis, T. Harper, C. Marvin, W. Hopekirk, Edgar Bowyer, and E. C. Massey. The brethren first confirmed the sums, amounting to £305, recommended at last meeting to be granted by the M.W. Grand Master. The list of new cases was then considered. It contained thirty, of which two were dismissed, six were deferred, and the other twenty-two were relieved with an aggregate sum of £645, which consisted of one grant of £100 (£100), two of £50 (£100), three of £40 (£120), six of £30 (£180), two of £25 (£50), two of £20 (£40), one of £15 (£15), three of £10 (£30), and two of £5 (£10). The Lodge was then closed, at nine o'clock.

"JOHN BULL" ON FREEMASONRY.

"N. E. K." writes to us to vindicate the Masonic organization known as the Grand Orient of France from the "sweeping charge of Infidelity." He supports his view by a long quotation from an address which occurs, or, at any rate, once occurred, in the initiatory rite of the Grand Orient, and in which the Name of God is mentioned. We think our esteemed correspondent must be unaware that, only a few years ago, the Grand Orient expunged the Name of God from its proceedings. That is simply a matter of fact beyond dispute, and indeed admitted on all hands. What we intended to point out last week was, that this avowedly Atheistic Rite is not "spurious," but a perfectly genuine Masonic organisation; and our object was to draw an inference hostile to all Freemasonry. Our view is, that the English Freemasons who objurgate the Grand Orient cannot really dissociate themselves either from that or from any other Masonic sect, without abandoning the pretensions of Freemasonry to world-wide universality—a course which would be fatal to their own claims to be included in the Masonic brotherhood. Our correspondent has also favoured us with an account of the "Origin of all the known Masonic Rites," a part of which is amusingly mythical; as, for instance, the assertion that one Rite was "purified" by an Alexandrian disciple of St. Mark—a process which seems to have lacked the element of stability.

The true origin of Freemasonry has long been discussed. The various Lodges included within it are certainly modern in their origin; but the Craft itself is unquestionably ancient, and the general course of its history not difficult to trace. It is, indeed, the offspring of that vast movement which, ever since the foundation of Christianity, has flowed on side by side with it as a hostile rival. The doctrines borrowed from Eastern philosophy by the Gnostics and Manichees, who mingled them with those of Christianity, were the direct source of all the ancient heresies, such as the Arian, Nestorian, and Eutychian. Gnosticism itself continued to live on, and the movements of its votaries can be distinctly traced during the Middle Ages. The Albigenses, for instance, as is evident to any one who carefully studies their doctrines and history, were certainly of Gnostic origin; and the same is true of various other religious sects down to the present day. By what process it was that the mediæval military Orders, such as that of the Knights Templars, imbibed Gnosticism, it may be difficult to determine. The fact of their having done so seems at any rate to be established. It is through Gnosticism and the mediæval Secret Societies, especially the Military Orders, that the pedigree of Freemasonry is, we believe, to be traced. The historical method of inquiry and the weight of internal evidence alike point to this conclusion.

Such an account of the origin of Freemasonry is, we fear, calculated to shock the sensibilities of the vast majority of English Freemasons, who have no sympathy whatever with Revolutionary or anti-Christian doctrine, and who, in becoming members of the Craft, innocently supposed that they were simply joining a vast mutual benefit society extending itself throughout the world. As we remarked last week, the English Freemasons of the present day are for the most part unaware of the true history and character of the Masonic organisation. But this is an ignorance which is soon dispelled by anything approaching to a careful study of what may be called the inner political history of Europe during the last hundred and fifty years.

For instance, it can be shown that the great French Revolution, both in its origin and in its progress, was directly the handiwork of the Freemasons. Earlier in the century Voltaire and Rousseau—both of them Freemasons—had propagated the teaching which the Revolution put into practice. The actual outbreak of the Revolution was preceded by two great Masonic Conventions, held a few years before, at which the Revolutionary programme was settled. The lists of names of Freemasons who attended these Conventions include those of every single Revolutionist of note, such as Philippe Egalité, Siéyès, Robespierre, Danton, Marat, Condorcet, and a host of others. The very motto of Liberté, égalité, fraternité is Masonic; and it has been noticed that the unhappy Louis XVI., on being brought back in triumph to the Hotel de Ville, was received with distinctively Masonic honours. Since then every Revolutionary outburst in Europe has invariably been preceded by a Masonic Convention. This was notably the case with the troubles of 1848, the war between France and Austria in 1859, the subsequent Italian Revolution, and the last French Revolution of 1870. Lord Beaconsfield said that the two greatest forces in Europe are the Church and the Secret Societies—the Secret Societies being, as we have said before, Masonic to the core.

The narration of these facts is not uncommonly received in England with incredulity on the part of the general public, and of course with indignation on the part of the Freemasons. But facts they remain, nevertheless—facts which are not only provable, but which, on the Continent, are perfectly notorious and universally recognised.

Freemasonry, taken at its best, is a secret organisation, the essential and primary condition of membership in which is, that the candidate should pledge himself by an oath to obey certain rules, before he knows what the rules are. That is the broad principle upon which all Freemasonry rests—a fact which no Freemason will presume to deny. Our contention is, that that principle is altogether contrary to the most elementary laws of morals. To vow obedience to any merely human command, the nature of which is unknown until obedience to it has been promised, is, it seems to us, perfectly indefensible on any moral grounds whatever.

But Freemasonry, viewed as it really is, and in its actual working, is the backbone of the Cosmopolitan Revolution—Socialist and Atheistic. This is not the result of merely accidental causes. In playing this rôle Masonry is true to its anti-Christian parentage. Side by side for centuries there have flowed on as it were two great streams, the Christian and the anti-Christian. The rival organisations are each of them universal in extent, and each of them has its laws, its hierarchy, its ritual. They instinctively know each other when they meet; between them no truce can ever be possible; the struggle is a death struggle, the issue of which, though it may seem to the bystanders to be uncertain, is in no way doubtful.

RECIPIENTS OF THE BENEFITS OF THE INSTITUTIONS.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I willingly acknowledge my error to Bro. Henry Smith, and am sorry my geography was so incorrect. His reminder has made me look into the matter, and I herewith append the correction, which I believe to be as follows:—

	Males	Females
Lancashire (W.)	2	1	= 3
Lancashire (E.)	2	3	= 5
Lincolnshire	3	0	= 3
Yorkshire (W.)	3	3	= 6
Yorkshire (N. & E.)	1	2	= 3

I remain, yours fraternally,

P.M. 1607.

THE GRAND TREASURER ELECT.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I heartily thank you for inserting my late letters on the above subject. They have however failed to elicit any reply, and I am therefore driven to the conclusion that my assertion that our worthy Bro. J. D. Allcroft has rendered "Masonic service" properly so called for a period of nine years, and not "nearly forty years," is unanswerable, and that it is not "Masonic service," but some other qualification which has led to his being selected for the intended honour. Although it was on the former ground his proposer urged his claim, any other conclusion would lead to the inference that Grand Lodge was imposed upon. I now dismiss the subject, and, again thanking you, remain,

Yours fraternally,

"ON THE SQUARE."

RESTORATION OF THE PARISH CHURCH OF KIDDERMINSTER.

IT may well be said the active members of our Order have many parts to play. Last week it was our pleasant duty to chronicle the laying of the Foundation Stone of a new Church at Bagshot, wherein members of the Craft took an active share in the labours of the day; this week we refer to an equally pleasant gathering, but the scene on this occasion lies further away, and we must ask our readers to accompany us, in thought at least, to the Province of Worcestershire. It appears that for a long period the tower of the Parish Church of Kidderminster has been in a dangerous state, and the bell-ringers have from time to time called attention to this. No definite steps, however, were taken until at a vestry meeting, on 2nd March 1882, at which the Vicar presided, it was resolved to try and raise £1000 for repairing the tower and re-hanging the bells. On the same day the present Mayor—G. W. Grosvenor Esq.—was, at a meeting of Freemasons, elected Worshipful Master of the Lechmere Lodge, No. 1874. The connection between these events will be more apparent when it is stated that the worthy Mayor has since been the originator of a movement which has led to the Freemasons of the district presenting the church with a valuable set of chimes. The question having arisen as to whether the pinnacles, which are of a modern and very debased style of architecture, should be refixed or a proper restoration made, Mr. Hopkins, diocesan architect, was consulted on this point, and he advised that until a complete restoration of the tower be undertaken, it would be better to re-instate the present pinnacles, and this advice has been followed. In addition to the above works, new floors under the bells and for the clock chamber have been inserted, and the stone steps to the turret staircase thoroughly repaired, all of which works have been carried out in a most satisfactory manner. The old peal of eight bells has been re-hung in a strong oak frame, with entirely new fixings, and three new bells have been added for the chimes. The clock has been repaired and refixed, with new copper dial, on south front, and the old wooden one on west front. A set of carrillon chimes have been presented by the Freemasons of the town, which will play at every third hour, and are set upon the eleven bells, having a change of three barrels, two of which contain fourteen secular tunes and the third seven sacred tunes. The old ting-tang quarters have been replaced by the Westminster chimes, and there is also a barrel for chiming 182 changes and rounds on the eight old bells. The whole of this work has been satisfactorily carried out. The cost of repairs to the tower and re-hanging the bells and the work to the clock is about £960, and that of the chimes (which is borne by the Freemasons) about £250. Other improvements, such as the drainage round the church (which was in a deplorable condition), the gravelling of walks, and the erection of a screen to the south door to chancel have been carried out by the churchwardens at a further cost of about £50. Our esteemed brother the Mayor determined to signalise the occasion by giving a banquet to the members of the Corporation and other public officials, and to the Freemasons, on Wednesday, the 11th inst. Invitations were sent to 280 guests, and about 260 signified their acceptance of his Worship's hospitality. Whilst doing this the Mayor, with that kind thoughtfulness which is a marked trait in his character, decided that other officials of perhaps not quite such high social standing should also be provided for, and commissioned Mr. D. Lane to cater for them in the Corn Exchange, at the same time that the banquet proper was in progress in the adjoining hall. A portion of the Corn Exchange was partitioned off and furnished as a drawing-room. The room was first covered with a red cloth, and upon this were laid handsome carpets. The walls had their unsightliness disguised by rich tapestry hangings, and chairs, couches, mirrors, &c., helped to furnish the apartment and give it a cheerful and bright appearance. The Mayor, wearing his robe and other insignia of office, stood here and received the members of the Corporation and other burgesses in the most frank and cordial manner. Whilst there was no stiffness in the affair, there was just that amount of ceremony which all Englishmen like on State occasions. When the proper time arrived, a procession was arranged, and started from the Parish Church, and some flags and banners that were suspended from different places assisted in enlivening the scene. Admission to the church could only be obtained by ticket, and it is hardly necessary to say that the whole of the interior of the sacred building, with the exception of that reserved for those who walked in the procession was filled long before the time announced for the service. On arriving at the gates leading to the churchyard, the procession was met by the Bishop of St. Albans, the Dean of Salisbury, and a large number of the local clergy, and the choristers, who preceded them into the Church. The interior of the building had been beautifully decorated for the occasion, and presented a most attractive appearance. The prayers were read by the Rev. C. Stockdale; the first lesson by the Rev. Canon Melville, and the second by the Very Rev. the Dean of Salisbury. The singing of the Te Deum, the Anthem, &c., by the choir was exquisite, and spoke volumes for the careful training they had received from their excellent choir-master, Mr. W. Taylor, Mus. Bac. Oxon. The sermon was preached by the Lord Bishop of St. Albans, who took for his text the 10th verse of the 18th chapter of the Book of Proverbs, "The name of the Lord is a strong tower; the righteous runneth into it and is safe." He described in graphic language the ancient use of bells and church towers, and said they were very serviceable in ancient times in calling worshippers to the churches from a distance, and that even in these modern days, amongst the clang of machinery and the discordant noises that arose from our crowded busy cities they performed a similar office and bade men to remember that there was something beyond this life. Settlers in distant lands like Australia and Africa were said frequently as they were going to worship to fancy they heard the bells of their parish church ring out the summons that they had listened to so many times before they left their homes, and the thought brought back to the scenes of their childhood, the faces of their parents, brethren, and neighbours, or even of those who were no more, and would exercise upon them a peaceful and benign influence. His hearers had been accustomed to hear church bells and to see church towers from their childhood, and consequently took little notice of them. Some two or three years ago he (the preacher) was going to consecrate a church, and as he passed through the different villages, each with its church peeping out from amidst the surrounding houses, he had one by his side upon whom it made a deep impression. He was a Bishop from the wilds of North America, where one might go for miles and miles without seeing a House of God, and he spoke of this land as being blessed beyond measure, and said that the people under such happy influences must be living in bonds of peace, love, and unity together. Many of those who were lying on their beds of sickness would hear the pleasant chimes ringing from the old church tower, and would call upon the Lord who was their helper. He assured those present that whatever they did for God's house would not return unto them void. The prayers they offered up there would be heard, answered, and the gifts they gave would find acceptance on God's altar. He asked them, as he had often asked them in times past, and seldom or never in vain, not to let the burden of debt lie on the work they dedicated to God that day. Let them remember as they cast their gifts into the plates in whose name the gifts were asked; that it was not to exalt or magnify themselves in any way; not to minister to their own use or to add to their pride or satisfaction, but simply to repair the breaches which time had made in the holy and beautiful house which their forefathers built for them. As those present were leaving the church, the National Anthem was played on the bells. At two o'clock the guests assembled in the reception room for the banquet, and the ladies were formally presented to the Mayor. After a time they marched into the Town Hall, which had been elegantly decorated with plants and evergreens, and which, with the array of tables ornamented with beautiful plants and covered with various coloured glasses, presented a decidedly inviting appearance. Whilst the guests were taking their seats, Mr. Taylor gave an organ solo. The Kidderminster Glee Union then sang "For these and all Thy Mercies." The viands were well cooked and served up in the best possible manner, and Mr. D. Lane is to be congratulated on the skill and ability with which he catered for so large a number. After the cloth had been removed, the Mayor said the first toast was one which was always drunk in an assembly of Englishmen. It was that of our Gracious Sovereign. The National Anthem was sung. The Mayor next gave his Royal Highness the Prince and Princess of Wales and the rest of the Royal Family. They performed the duties pertaining to their exalted station in a manner which entitled them to the esteem of all Englishmen. This was especially the case with his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, who on that occasion he must speak of not only as the heir to the throne, but as the chief officer of the Order of Freemasons in the United Kingdom. He had performed most admirably all the social duties involved by his station; and he performed the duties of Grand Master of the Freemasons in a way that endeared him to the members of the Craft. He begged to give them the health of the Prince and Princess of Wales and the rest of the Royal Family. Song—"God bless the Prince of Wales." Mr. J. Brinton, M.P., proposed the Lord Bishop and Clergy of the Diocese, and the Rev. D. Robertson Rural Dean and Rector of Hartlebury, returned thanks. The Mayor said he would now proceed to the pleasing duty which devolved upon him. But before doing so he wished to mention that he had received letters of regret from several whom they should have been pleased to see there. The last name he would mention was that of Sir Edmund Lechmere. He (the Mayor) hoped that he, as the head of the Masonic Order in Worcestershire, would have made it convenient to be present. He had however, received a letter from him on the previous day saying it would be impossible for him to do so. Sir Edmund had been put on a Private Bill Committee in the House of Commons, and there was no escape from his duties. He hoped the Mayor would express his very great regret to the brethren of his Province that he could not assist in the last stage of this work, which he felt had reflected so much credit on the Province, and of which he cordially and sincerely approved. The Mayor then went on to say that the formal presentation of the chimes was an illuminated document, which he trusted the Church authorities would kindly hang in their vestry as a memento of that occasion. He then read it as follows:—

The Freemasons of Kidderminster, as their special contribution to the work of restoring and beautifying the Parish Church of St. Mary and All Saints, have caused the chiming apparatus to be erected in the tower at their sole charge and expense, and with the sincerest goodwill they hereby dedicate and give it to the perpetual service and pleasure of their fellow-townsmen, committing it to the care and keeping of the vicar and churchwardens, this eleventh day of April, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three.

GEORGE W. GROSVENOR,
Provincial Grand Warden, and Chairman of the Chimes Committee.

The Mayor said in making the presentation he felt he ought to take the liberty of alluding to Freemasonry and the interest taken by Freemasons in ecclesiastical art and architecture. Freemasons did not often come before the public in their corporate capacity, and the aims and principles of the Order were only but imperfectly understood and appreciated by the outside world. He knew the general opinion entertained of Freemasonry, especially by ladies,—he had no reason to think so himself,—they were looked upon as harmless lunatics, who took a delight in ribbons and gems, and in occasionally meeting together in quiet conviviality. He hoped that when those who took that view thought for a moment of the considerable work Freemasonry found in acts of charity, their opinion might be modified. Public buildings—Masonic Schools and Institutions—were supported entirely by the voluntary contributions of the members of the Craft, having a total income of not less than between £40,000 and £50,000 per annum. Of that sum no less than £2,100 had been contributed by

Worcestershire during the last four years. Of that £2,100, one-fifth, or £420, had been raised in Kidderminster. Freemasonry was not a philanthropic institution. It possessed great and valuable privileges, but he must not excite a curiosity which he could not gratify. They, indeed, possessed secrets—secrets concealed from those who were not Masons—but, as the Prince of Wales observed, those secrets were loyal and honourable, and not opposed to the laws of God or to the interests of the realm. They had been entrusted to Masons in ancient times, and ever since had been religiously guarded by successive generations of members of the Craft. These hidden acts and secret mysteries in the early ages of the Christian era were preserved and handed down through the guilds and monastic institutions, to whom they were indebted for the stately cathedrals which adorned our land. It was the pride of Freemasons to encourage and take a lively interest in the preservation and restoration and adornment of those undying memorials of the skill and ingennity of their ancient brethren. It might be interesting to some of them to know that amongst the Freemasons of former times was the great architect Sir Christopher Wren, and that the mallet he used in laying the foundation stone of St. Paul's Cathedral was still preserved in one of the London Masonic Lodges. To come to later times, the first stone of the magnificent Cathedral at Truro was laid by the Prince of Wales as Grand Master of the Order. That imposing ceremony took place in the presence of a vast assemblage of Freemasons from all parts of the kingdom. In our own county the Masonic Fraternity had had the privilege of taking part in the restoration of the Cathedral at Worcester, and had contributed at their own expense a fine window in the north transept of the Cathedral. The neighbouring Abbey of Tewkesbury had of late been enriched, by the restoration and adornment, by one of the Freemasons, of one of its chapels. Considering the interest of the Craft in such labours, it need not be a matter of surprise to them that the local Masons quietly seized the opportunity of taking a share in the restoration and enrichment of our own fine old parish church. It happened in March last year that there was a large and important gathering of Masons on the same evening as that convened by the Vicar for initiating a movement for the repair of the tower and the rehanging of the bells. As he (the Mayor) presided at the meeting, the happy thought occurred to him that it would be a suitable action if the Freemasons as a body would undertake to provide the chiming machinery for the church. The idea was taken up most enthusiastically by the brethren present, and in a very few days the requisite funds were subscribed. He knew that the sound of the bells did not please everybody. There were unfortunate mortals who had no music in their souls, who took no delight in the mellow cadences of chiming bells, and the melody caused in the breasts of some persons' feelings similar to those experienced by the American poet on listening to the grinding of a barrel organ. He expressed those feelings in the following terms:—

"Thank heaven, the air again is still,
The music all his ground,
And silence, like a poultice, comes
To heal the blows of sound."

On behalf of the Freemasons of Kidderminster he would now hand over, through his Lordship, to the Vicar and Churchwardens of Kidderminster, the chiming apparatus at the present time in St. Mary's Church. The Bishop of St. Albans said, if he might be allowed, in a sort of semi-official capacity that day, on behalf of his son, to accept the kind and generous and most appropriate gift of the Freemasons, he should have great pleasure in doing so, and would hand over that record of their proceedings—(this was the illuminated and framed parchment that had been read by the Mayor)—to the proper authorities to be kept in the vestry. It was a singular coincidence that in a very short time he would probably have to acknowledge a gift somewhat similar, although not quite the same, from the Freemasons in his own cathedral church of St. Albans. Later on Mr. T. Lea, M.P., rose to propose a toast; it was one they would receive with a due amount of cordiality. It was that of the Freemasons, and he should couple with it the name of Bro. Godson, who held at the present time the office of Deputy Provincial Grand Master for Worcestershire. He felt it would have been much better had that toast been entrusted to some one who knew more of the works and the acts of Freemasonry than he did. They had heard something of them that day in the Mayor's speech, and they had heard something more in those chimes. They knew, also, that the Freemasons had established excellent Institutions for the care of aged Freemasons and also for orphan children. There was also a feature of Freemasonry that had not been mentioned, and it was that no Freemason came to want. It was their duty to support the Government in endeavouring to root out mischief, whether at home or abroad. He desired that in that spirit Freemasonry should exist throughout our country. If every man in it were a Freemason they should have no fear of dynamite. They were grateful to the Freemasons for their kindly charity; and for those chimes which, he regretted to say, he had not heard, but which he hoped to hear. He felt sure that the people of Kidderminster would deeply appreciate the kindness of the Freemasons. Bro. A. Godson responded, and said he hoped that when they came to worship within the sound of those chimes, they would always find their labours began and ended in peace. That was a Masonic sentiment. He hoped that if ever they came to meet in the future, happy would they meet and happy part again.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—Influenza, sore throat, quinsey, mumps, and similar complaints always abound in unsettled weather, and are most safely and effectually subdued by rubbing Holloway's Ointment at least twice a day upon the chest and glands of the throat. The Ointment penetrates the skin, reduces inflammation, and heals ulcerations. This treatment is sufficient for curing the most serious and complicated throat affections, provided Holloway's Pills be taken at the same time. When swallowing gives pain, the Ointment may be relied on till improving symptoms admit of painless deglutition. In asthma, bronchitis, pneumonia, pleurisy whooping cough, incipient consumption, scarlet fever and measles Holloway's medicines are not less valuable in mitigating the most troublesome features than they are certain in ultimately curing.

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

Tranquillity Lodge, No. 185.—The last meeting of the session of this excellent Lodge was held at the Guildhall Tavern, Gresham-street, E.C., on Monday, the 16th inst. Bro. A. Staley P.M. and W.M. presided, and with marked ability performed an abnormal amount of work, without apparent discomfort to himself. He was well seconded by Bros. S. Barnett and L. Boaz Senior and Junior Wardens, and, as may be well understood, the Deacons, Bros. Peartree and Marks, showed a proper appreciation of the responsibilities which under the circumstances devolved upon them. There were no less than three raisings; two candidates were passed, and the following four gentlemen were initiated, viz., Messrs. Mark Emanuel, James Henry Reeves, Sigmond Birne, and Michael Cohen. Several sums were voted to relieve immediate cases of distress; two with amounts of half-a-guinea each; two with three guineas. One of these brethren required five guineas, but the W.M. had power only to grant three, without notice of motion. However, the brethren immediately subscribed the balance; indeed, an amount considerably beyond what the applicant applied for. Ten guineas was voted on the list of the W.M., who acts as Steward for the Benevolent Institution. The W.M. also announced his intention to represent the Lodge at the coming Festival of the Girls' School. Ample refreshment followed, after which, the hour being advanced, the W.M. gave "Loyalty to the Throne and Devotion to the Craft," which sentiment is presumed to embody the three principal toasts. The health of the Initiates was proposed by the W.M., who remarked, that besides the close attention the new brethren had evinced in the ceremonies, they had shown they possessed the qualities of the true Masonic spirit by the way in which they responded to the call for the Benevolent Fund of the Lodge. Bro. Emanuel, in responding, said that as a matter of course he conceived that on such an occasion he should probably be called upon to say something in reply to a toast; he therefore arranged a rather elaborate speech, which he repeated to himself over and over again, and was sure of making a sensation; but now the time had arrived for giving vent to his eloquence, the whole had evaporated, and he did not remember a single word. Bro. Bush I.P.M. gave the health of the W.M., which toast was most enthusiastically received. The Worshipful Master, replying, said, that whatever his shortcomings, he was certain of the fraternal feeling of the Lodge—there was not an unpleasant face among the brethren. He was sure there was not another Lodge in which the absence of bickering or ill-feeling was more conspicuous. Digressing from that subject, he would assert that even Visitors were received with the same heartiness as was accorded to him; the consequence was, that brethren who hail from the Tranquillity Lodge were sure of a cordial reception wherever they visited. He could scarcely find words adequate to represent his feelings of gratitude, but would assure the members of his zeal which would always be exercised for the benefit of the Lodge. Bro. McDowell, of the Rifle Brigade Lodge, replying for the Visitors, bore testimony to the excellent working of the Lodge. Bro. Staley, a brother of the W.M., also spoke; while Bro. Lyons, Treasurer of the Joppa Lodge, was so well pleased with the Institution, that he not only was a frequent visitor, but by his influence his son became a member. The Worshipful Master, in giving the toast of the Past Masters, dwelt upon the assistance those who had passed the chair rendered the Masters. Bro. Bush as the I.P.M. having said a few words, Bro. Bloomfield was called upon to take the place of Bro. N. Moss, who the W.M. had named to respond. Brother Bloomfield said, it was rather unfair to him to be called upon to speak for another, when he did not know that he had anything to say for himself. With all due respect to the Worshipful Master, and craving his forgiveness, he would assert that to praise the Past Masters for their assistance was misleading and a sham. He was sorry to say, some people might urge he ought to be glad that he was nearly the senior Past Master; but during all the years he had occupied that position he had never been called upon to render any assistance. The position was a sinecure. He was sure the majority of the brethren had never heard his voice, as far as work was concerned. The fact was, the Worshipful Masters, one after another, were so well up in their duties that the P.M.'s were superfluous. He had, however, no doubt that should opportunity present itself the P.M.'s, one and all, would be found ready and willing to give the best assistance in their power to help; indeed, would deem themselves under strong obligations to the W.M. who would make use of them. Bro. J. D. Barnett, P.M. and Organist, assisted at the piano, while Bros. Mitchell, Ross, Tipper, and Laurie contributed, by their vocal efforts, to the pleasure of the evening. The Visitors were Bros. McDowell W.M. 1962, Lyon P.M. Treasurer 188, Mickley P.M. 449, Codd W.M. 1728, A. Jacob 487, J. Benjamin P.M. Victoria, S. Australia, Ramas 360, Staley 1597; and others. The P.M.'s were Bros. Bush, Croker, Ross, N. Moss, D. Barnett, R. Z. Bloomfield, E. Gottheil.

Grey Friars Lodge, No. 1101.—A regular meeting of this prosperous Lodge was held at the Masonic Hall, Reading, on Wednesday, the 11th instant. Present—Bros. R. Dowsett W.M., Blackwell I.P.M., Ridley S.W., Hawkes J.W., Prickett S.D., Ravenscroft J.D., Cordery M.C., Hickie Organist, Creed acting Secretary, Ivey P.M. Secretary acting I.G., Hemmings Tyler; P.M.'s Pulley, E. Margrett; Bros. Weatherhead, Knight, Slaughter, Sparrow, Vowles, Collins, Greenaway, Bailey, Bennett, W. Margrett, T. Margrett. Visitors—Bros. Harrison 1895, Dallcar 1466, Tarrant 1158, Gadd 1217. Lodge was opened, and the minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed. Bro. Bennett, a candidate for raising, gave satisfactory proof of his efficiency, was entrusted, and retired. Lodge was opened in the third degree, and Bro. Bennett was re-admitted and raised to the sublime degree of M.M., the ceremony was admirably performed by the W.M., while the effect was considerably heightened by vocal and instrumental music under the direction of Bro. Hickie

Organist. The W.M. gave the traditional history in a most correct and perfect manner. Lodge was resumed. The Worshipful Master proposed that the Treasurer's accounts, as audited by the Permanent Committee (an abstract of which had been sent to each member), be passed, and that a vote of thanks to the Treasurer be recorded on the minutes; this was seconded by the I.P.M. and carried. The I.P.M., in accordance with a notice of motion which appeared on the agenda paper, now moved that the sum of ten guineas from the funds of the Lodge be voted to the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, and that the same be added to the list of the W.M. who would, in the capacity of Steward, represent the Lodge at the forthcoming Festival of that Institution. This was seconded by Bro. Ridley S.W., and carried. The Worshipful Master expressed his sincere thanks for the grant, and hoped to have the personal assistance of the members, so that his list might compare favourably with those of his predecessors. Brother Sparrow, who had lately come to this country from New Zealand, desired to present to the Lodge two ebonised columns, surmounted by a pair of globes (presented to the Lodge in 1869 by Brother Pulley Past Master). This splendid present, placed at the foot of the winding staircase, was much admired, and gave a finishing touch to this elegantly furnished hall. The Worshipful Master, on behalf of the Lodge, returned his sincere thanks to Brother Sparrow for his magnificent present, and moved that a cordial vote of thanks be recorded on the minutes to that brother; this was seconded by the I.P.M. and carried with acclamation. Past Master Pulley desired to call the attention of the Lodge to the decease of two brethren, one of whom was a subscribing member, and the other had been initiated in this Lodge. One of them leaves a widow and three children in destitute circumstances, two of the children being twins and in ill health. The other, he feared, was somewhat similarly circumstanced, but not in such destitution; he hoped the Permanent Committee would investigate, and take the matters into consideration. The Worshipful Master expressed the hope that the death of these brothers would make a lasting impression on the minds of the members. He suggested that a letter of sympathy be sent to the widow of each brother, signed by himself and the Secretary; also that the Permanent Committee be empowered to aid the destitute widow with temporary relief; this was seconded by Brother Margrett P.M. and supported by Brother Ridley S.W., who suggested that the Lodge, of which one of these brethren was connected previous to his coming to Reading, be communicated with, and be asked to co-operate with the Grey Friars in endeavouring to obtain assistance from the Fund of Benevolence;—carried. After the proposal of a candidate for initiation, and the customary routine work, Lodge was closed according to ancient form, and adjourned.

DUKE OF CONNAUGHT LODGE, No. 1558.

A REGULAR meeting of the above Lodge was held on the 12th inst., at the Surrey Masonic Hall, Camberwell. Bros. Taylor W.M., Sims S.W., Smith J.W., Power P.M. Treasurer, Mitchell P.M. Secretary, Stokes S.W., Nettlefold J.W., Briscoe I.G., Walker Wine Steward, Plummer Assistant Wine Steward, Crossley Organist, Thomas Tyler; Past Master Brother Runacres. Amongst the Visitors were Bros. Eykyn 1585, Tompson 594, Austin 1275, Griffin 975, Hill 1658, Swallow P.P.G.J.D. Middlesex, H. M. Levy P.M. 188. Lodge was formally opened, and after the confirmation of the minutes, Bros. Hargroves, Mullet, Backlog, Mitcham, and Back were raised to the sublime degree of Master Mason. A ballot was taken for the admission of Mr. H. Stevens, who was duly initiated into the Order. Both the ceremonies were impressively rendered. After a candidate had been proposed for initiation, and other business transacted, Lodge was closed. After an excellent supper, the Worshipful Master, in very eloquent terms, proposed the Loyal and Masonic toasts. Bro. Power P.M. proposed the toast of the W.M. They had seen how ably Bro. Smith had fulfilled his duties; he had had five brethren to raise, and one candidate to initiate; they could appreciate such a worker, who filled the chair in every way to their satisfaction. The W.M. in reply thanked Bro. Power for his kind expressions, and the brethren for their cordial acceptation of the toast. If he had given them satisfaction by his working he was amply repaid for any trouble he had taken to perfect himself. In speaking to the toast of the initiate, the W.M. said they were pleased to see Bro. Stevens among them. There were two candidates on the agenda paper, but one was unable to be present; he hoped the brethren would give the toast a hearty reception. Bro. Stevens briefly, but appropriately responded. Bro. H. M. Levy replied for the Visitors, and paid a just compliment to the W.M. for the excellence of his working. The W.M. in proposing the toast of the Past Masters said the duty was a very pleasing one. They had three of their Past Masters present, and he could say no better could be found; their services in the cause of Freemasonry could not be surpassed. Bro. Power in responding said, it was the duty of the Past Masters to assist the Worshipful Master; this he was ever ready to do, and he felt he could say as much for the others. Bro. Smith next paid a graceful compliment to his Officers, and thanked them for the manner in which they assisted him. In response Bro. Simms S.W. made an excellent speech; Bro. Wilkins J.W. followed, and he was succeeded by the Treasurer, who with pride stated the Lodge was in a flourishing condition; they had discharged all liabilities; this he thought was a great thing for so young a Lodge. Bro. Mitchell, one of the founders, P.M. and Secretary, said his services were always at command. Several of the junior Officers having also spoken, the W.M. summoned the Tyler. Bros. Hardy, Rouse, Back, W. Mitchell, Runacres and Briscoe contributed to the harmony.

The members of the Percy Lodge of Instruction, "by invite" will work the Fifteen Sections at the Royal Standard Lodge of Instruction, held at Bro. Meekham's, the Alwyne Castle, St. Paul's Road, Highbury, on Friday, the 27th inst. Brethren are cordially invited on that occasion.

DUKE OF CORNWALL LODGE, No. 1839.

THERE was a well-attended meeting of the members, with many distinguished visitors, at the Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, on the 14th instant. The chair was occupied by Bros. G. F. Smith jun. W.M., A. Stokes S.W., Wilkins J.W., Dewsnap Treasurer, J. W. Brooke P.M. Sec., G. F. Smith sen. J.D., Williams I.G., Cattermole M.C., J. Da Silva Organist; Past Masters Corpe and Maloney. Visitors—Bros. Philbrick Deputy Provincial Grand Master Essex, Kuhn 298, Sheffield 901, Halsey P.M. 134, Clowes W.M. 650, Edmonds S.W. 913, Halestrap 1471, Braham 1471, Smith 1438, Hastelow P.M. 101, Carter 382, Crate P.P.G.C. P.M. 697, Johnston 1777, Hodges, Da Silva P.M. 205, Max Mendelsohn 212, Smith 1706, Robertson 1538, Malster 1706, Wood 1901, Watson 1706, Thomas 1818, Ganz P.G.O., Legge 15, Hook P.M. 185, Allen 51, Watson, and H. M. Levy P.M. 188. After due observance of preliminaries, Brother Heinekey was raised to the third degree, and Bro. Blake was passed. The election of W.M. resulted unanimously in favour of Bro. Stokes. Bro. Corpe was elected Treasurer, in consequence of Bro. Dewsnap having retired, and Bro. Bowler was appointed Tyler. Bro. Stokes thanked the brethren for having elected him W.M. of this flourishing Lodge; he hoped to follow in the footsteps of his predecessors. Bros. Ayres, Ensworth, and Barstow were elected Auditors. The W.M. proposed, and it was carried unanimously, that a jewel be presented to Bro. Dewsnap, on his retiring from the office of Treasurer, for the efficient manner he had carried out his duties. A. P.M.'s jewel was voted to the retiring Master for the manner he had discharged his functions, and a sum of £10 10s was voted, to be placed on the list of the W.M., who is a Steward for the next Anniversary Festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys. Brother Fielding presented the Lodge with a very elegant casket for the use of the Benevolent Fund, and a vote of thanks was accorded to him and entered on the minutes. A similar vote was given to Bros. Monday and Da Silva for having invested the sum of £100 for the benefit of the Lodge without making any charge. Lodge was then closed, and the brethren (seventy-one in number) sat down in the Crown room, where a very sumptuous and récherché banquet was provided by Messrs. Spiers and Pond (Limited), superintended by Bro. Dawkins. Grace having been sung, the W.M., in felicitous terms, proposed the toast of the Queen and the Craft. The National Anthem was given, Miss Hoare singing the solo pleasingly. In speaking to the toast of H.R.H. the M.W. the Grand Master; the R.W. the Earl of Carnarvon Pro Grand Master; and the R.W. the Earl of Lathom D.G.M.; and the rest of the Grand Officers, the W.M. said they were honoured that evening by the presence of distinguished brethren. The Rev. Bro. J. Studholme Brownrigg D.P.G.M. Berks and Bucks. Bro. Philbrick D.P.G.M. for Essex, Bro. Wilhelm Ganz, and others. The members were pleased to see such distinguished brethren at a Lodge so young in the Craft. Bro. Brownrigg eloquently responded, and in the course of his remarks expressed the pleasure he felt at the progress made by the Lodge. He could go back to the country, and say what he had seen that night had been well done. There was no fault to be found with the Lodge. He had predicted this on the night of its consecration, when he had the gratification of being present. Here Bros. Winn, Carter, Hodges and Hanson sang a glee that was deservedly applauded. The W.M. on again rising said he had now the great pleasure to propose the toast of the Brethren from the Province of Essex. There were three present, but he would call on their esteemed Bro. Philbrick to respond. Bro. Philbrick in a very eloquent speech replied, and then Bro. Wilhelm Ganz played a solo on the pianoforte. Bro. Rev. J. Studholme Brownrigg said he felt a great deal of pleasure in proposing the next toast, which usually falls to the lot of the Immediate Past Master; it was the health of the W.M. Bro. Taylor knew his work, and had introduced and initiated nineteen gentlemen into the Order. He (Bro. Brownrigg) knew that when the Duke of Connaught brethren undertook any work, they did it well; that had been fully exemplified by the W.M. After a song by Miss Cater—"Beauty, sleep"—the W.M. replied; he was at all times anxious to keep up the reputation of the Lodge. Its having invested £100 in Consols was a very good beginning; their Benevolent Fund possessed over £25, and with that night's addition would realise about £30; he was sorry to leave the chair, but there were other brethren equally deserving to fill it. He thanked all very heartily for their reception of the toast. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the Visitors, coupled with the names of Bro. Rev. C. H. Crate P.P.G.C. and T. J. Ralling P.M. P.P.G.S., both of Essex; and Bros. Edmonds, Hook, and Roberts. Bro. Carter here sang, with exquisite taste, "Tell me, Mary, how to woo thee." Bro. Crate in responding said he and Bro. Ralling had received a very excellent lesson in the working of the Lodge, and felt it a great pleasure to note its financial position. They should carry away pleasing recollections of the hospitality they had enjoyed, and hoped to be present, and see the future prosperity of the Lodge. Bros. Edmonds, Roberts, and Hook P.M. likewise responded. The latter said he had initiated the W.M., in a Lodge in which he had the honour of being a P.M. Miss Heath here sang "The Lost Chord," most artistically, and received loud and well-deserved applause. The W.M. next proposed the toast of the Past Masters. Each of them in the Lodge well knew his work. Bro. Mitchell is a good Secretary, and Brother Corpe would make a careful Treasurer. Bro. Maloney is not a P.M. of the Lodge, but they were pleased to see him among them. Bro. Brooke was the first to respond; he regretted the absence of Bro. Bott, who, from some unforeseen circumstances, had not been able to be present. When the W.M. went into office he promised to fulfil certain duties, and carry them out to the best of his ability. He had done so, to their satisfaction; and thanks were due to him. They should be pleased to receive him among the Past Masters. Bro. Corpe followed, expressing his appreciation of the compliment paid him in a very humorous speech. Miss Hoare and Miss Helen Heath sang "I know a Maiden." In proposing the toast of the Masonic Charities, the W.M. said they were pleased to see the Worthy Secretary of the Boys' School, Brother Binckes P.G.S.; he hoped the brethren would support the noble Institutions of the Craft. They had sent up three Stewards to the Charities each year, although the Lodge had only been four years in existence. This they were proud of. He would couple the name of Bro. Binckes with the toast; they all knew his great energies were devoted to the cause of the noble Institutions, which were fully deserving of their support. Bro. Hanson then sang the "Last Watch." Brother Binckes in responding said, that day they had elected 22 girls out of 26 candidates; but on Monday there were 13 boys to be elected out of 62 candidates. As the W.M. had urged, great credit is due this Lodge for its exertions; in the four years of its existence it had well supported the Masonic Charities. This was the first time he had been present at the Lodge; he was pleased to visit them, and hoped that the three Institutions would be supported. There were 238 girls, and 215 boys, children of Masons, being maintained and educated in the Schools. In addition, the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution granted annuities to about 330 distressed Masons and their widows. He would urge on every brother to give a small amount annually to the Institutions; they would then prosper, and be prepared to meet all claims made upon their resources. The Worshipful Master next had a very pleasing toast to propose,—the Masonic Press. He might say there were two recognised organs,—the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE and the Freemason; he had great pleasure in proposing the toast, and would couple with it the name of Brother H. M. Levy P.M. 188. Brother Levy said, after the eloquent speech of Brother Binckes, but few words need emanate from him. He had been connected with the Press for twenty years, and to him it was a pleasing duty to respond for the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE, which journal gave truthful reports, if not lengthy ones. The promoters of the CHRONICLE had always advocated the claims of the Institutions, and he was gratified to know their efforts were appreciated. He thanked the brethren for their reception of the toast. After Miss Margaret Hoare had delighted the brethren with another charming song; the toast of the Officers was given, and responded to by Bros. Stokes and Dewsnap. The Worshipful Master proposed a special toast for the Musical Brethren, who with the Ladies, had contributed so much to the entertainment. This having been acknowledged, the Worshipful Master gave the Tyler's toast, and the proceedings closed.

Percy Lodge of Instruction, No. 198.—Held at the Jolly Farmers, Southgate-road, Islington, on 14th inst. Bros. Weeden W.M., Ashton S.W., Woolf J.W., Rhodes S.D., Archer J.D., Gibbs I.G., Brasted acting Preceptor, and Galer Secretary; also Bros. Houghton, Venning, Bevan, Recknall, Mallett, Richardson, Marks, Lone, and Manger. Lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed. Bro. Manger offered himself as candidate, and the ceremony of initiation was rehearsed. The ceremony of the second degree was next rehearsed, Bro. Lone candidate, and Bro. Marks performed the work, the W.M. vacating the chair in his favour. Bro. Brasted worked the first section of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. Lodge was resumed to the first degree, and Bro. Weeden worked the first section, assisted by Bro. Ashton. Bro. Recknall, P.M. of the Euphrates Lodge, 212, was elected a member, and Bro. Ashton was appointed W.M. for the ensuing week. Masonic business being ended, Lodge was closed.

Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction, No. 860.—Held at Bro. Smyth's, Sisters' Tavern, Pownall-road, Dalston, on Tuesday, 17th inst. Present—Bros. Christian W.M., Bunker S.W., Smyth J.W., Carr Sec, Robinson S.D., Clarke J.D., Ames I.G.; P.M. Wallington Preceptor; Brasted, Marks, and Allen. After preliminaries, the ceremony of raising was rehearsed, the W.M. giving the traditional history. Lodge was called off and resumed its Masonic duties by Bro. Allen working the first and third sections of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. Lodge was resumed to the first degree, and Bro. Bunker was elected W.M. for the ensuing week. He appointed his Officers in rotation. Lodge was then closed and adjourned.

Eboracum Lodge, No. 1611.—The regular monthly meeting of this Lodge was held on Monday the 11th inst. Present—Bros. M. Millington W.M., T. B. Whytehead P.M., C. G. Padel P.M., G. Balmford P.M., J. Blenkin S.W., A. T. B. Turner J.W., W. B. Dyson S.D., W. Lackenby as J.D., G. Chapman I.G., and several other members and visitors. Having raised the Lodge to the third degree the W.M. proceeded to put Bros. Irving and Nance through the ceremonies, the traditional history and concluding addresses being given by Bro. T. B. Whytehead P.M., and Bro. C. G. Padel P.M. presided at the harmonium. Before the Lodge was closed, Bro. Ware presented to the Lodge a bound volume of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE, and Bro. Whytehead two old editions of the Constitutions and a bound volume of the Voice of Masonry, for which votes of thanks were passed. Brother Whytehead also announced that Bro. the Hon. W. T. Orde-Powlett had presented to the Lodge a copy of Bartolozzi's valuable engraving of Stothart's picture of the Festival of the Girls' School. He was having the engraving cleaned and mounted, and should then present it formally for Brother Orde-Powlett. It was stated that the sum raised amongst the brethren for the purchase of the Mechanics' Institute now amounted to over £1,000.

MOUNT MORIAH LODGE, No. 34.

THE Centenary Ball of this ancient and flourishing Lodge was held on the 18th instant, at the Freemasons' Tavern, under the presidency of the W.M., Bro. W. D. Lyon, and an efficient Board of Stewards, including Brothers Artus, Postans, Butler, Perkins, Waylett, Jenkins, Gibbs, Greenfield, Parker, Gribbon, Meyer, Hales, De Lacy, Hughes, Bean, Rixon, A. C. Thorpe, Wainwright, E. J. Thorpe, Wells, and Wood. Bros. Jenkins and Rixon efficiently acted as M.C.'s. A very distinguished company assembled. The St. George's Rifles String Band discoursed sweet music, under the direction of Mr. Fleet. A very sumptuous and récherché supper was provided, under the superintendence of Bro. Dawkins. The W.M. proposed the toasts—the Queen and the Craft, and the M.W. Grand Master H.R.H. the Prince of Wales and the rest of the Royal Family. Bro. Artus, in rising to propose the health of the W.M., said it was a great pleasure for him, as senior P.M. and Secretary, to descant on the merits of the W.M.; he wished to impress upon those present that the members of this Lodge were a happy family, and where that good feeling existed, a Lodge was sure to prosper. Might he live long to see it so continue. Their W.M. was one they could look up to, and the members were proud to have him in that position. The W.M. in reply thanked Bro. Artus for his kindness. It was a great pleasure to be Master of such a Lodge, more especially so on the occasion of its Centenary Ball. He hoped that every one present had enjoyed the entertainment. Bro. Meyer, in a happily conceived speech, proposed the toast of the Ladies, and Bro. J. Thorpe as ably responded. Dancing was then resumed. Before leaving, the Ladies and brethren expressed to the W.M. and Bro. Artus their appreciation of the exertions made for their enjoyment.

Eboracum Chapter, No. 1611.—An emergency meeting of this Chapter was held on Tuesday week last. The following members were present: Comps. C. G. Padel Z., T. B. Whytehead P.Z. as H., G. Simpson J., James Key S.E., G. Balmford P.Z. as S.N., M. Millington as P.S., E. J. de Salis and H. Chapman, as Assistants; W. Lackenby, R. Ware, and others. Bros. S. J. Dalton, Eboracum Lodge, 1611, and Sergt.-Major Morgan, 5th Dragoon Guards Lodge, were exalted to the degree. After the close of the Chapter the Companions met at supper, at which the M.E.Z. presided.

THE A. AND A. SCOTTISH RITE.

WE are continually in receipt of copies of communications which are being sent to the Secretaries, Deputies and Commanders of the several organisations known as the "Cerneau Supreme Council," wherein the writers, with more or less forcible language, give their reasons for withdrawing their connection from these irregular Bodies, the dissolution of which has been progressing for some time past, and hence the scamper from the sinking squadron of Cerneau Supreme Councils, of which we are informed there are three or four in antagonism in this city.

The following communication addressed to one of the Deputies, which was signed by seventeen Masons, is the most courteous. We have three others before us:

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—We, the undersigned, desire to withdraw from the Cerneau Bodies.

You will please advise us of the amounts we owe to the several Bodies, and upon such advice reaching us we will at once remit; after which, please drop our names from the tablets.

Our reasons for preferring the above request can be stated in a few words.

We are thoroughly convinced that your Body is in possession of nothing on which to establish a claim of legitimacy, and that all the time and money we have given have been expended foolishly and in vain.

Although we notify you officially of our withdrawal, we wish you to understand that we have nothing but respect and brotherly love to offer you personally.

Yours respectfully.

THE annual meeting of this old established and flourishing Lodge took place at the Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen Street, on Thursday, 12th inst. Lodge was opened punctually at five o'clock by Bro. Lancaster, who was supported by Bros. E. T. Smith S.W. W.M. elect, J. J. Rantz J.W., Bieling S.D., Oliver Bryant J.D., Tongue I.G., Hayday M.C., and the following Past Masters:—Dr. Jackson I.P.M., Dr. Jagielski, Rath, Ebner, Nowakowski Treasurer, Pass Secretary. All preliminaries being duly observed, Brother Stanislaus John Nowakowski was raised to the third degree, and Bros. Edrupt, Simpson, Dunn, and Lincoln were passed; both ceremonies being accurately rendered. The next business was the ceremony of installing Bro. Smith to the chair of K.S. by the W.M., who performed this duty in a manner that gave the highest satisfaction and enjoyment to the large number of members and guests who were present. Bro. Smith chose the following Officers for the ensuing year:—Bros. Lancaster I.P.M., Rantz S.W., Bieling J.W., Bryant S.D., Tongue J.D., Gordon I.G., Apsey M.C., and Banks Tyler. The W.M. presented, in the name of the Lodge, the handsome P.M.'s jewel, which had been voted at last meeting, hoping that Bro. Lancaster would live many years to wear it. Bro. Lancaster in reply thanked the brethren for their kindness to him during his year of office, and assured them he would always do everything he possibly could for the advancement of the Lodge. Ballot was then taken for Mr. George Edward Davenport, aged 37, public accountant, 8 Warwick Street, Regent Street. This proved to be unanimous in his favour, and he was initiated into the mysteries of Freemasonry by the W.M., in a most creditable manner. After hearty good wishes had been given to the new W.M., at the satisfactory report of the Audit Committee read, and other business transacted, Lodge was closed in due form, and the brethren retired to the banqueting hall. When grace had been said, and the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts disposed of, the I.P.M. rose and proposed the health of Bro. Smith, their new W.M., stating that he had been known to them all for years as an able and energetic worker in the Lodge. Personally he wished Bro. Smith a prosperous year of office, and hoped he would have the support of the brethren, and terminate his year with even a larger balance than the one already in hand. The W.M. in the course of his reply said, if the enthusiastic manner of the brethren receiving his name had anything to do with their feelings, it showed he had the sympathy of the brethren in starting on his year of office. He was happy to say they were strong in numbers as well as in exchequer, and he hoped to be able to pass the Lodge to his successor in the same healthy condition in which he received it from the I.P.M., who had that evening performed such good work, namely, one raising, four passings, and the ceremony of installation, all of which had been performed in a most able manner. Bro. Lancaster deserved the highest thanks of the Lodge for the way in which he had done the work. The candidates he had introduced, and the manner in which he had represented the Lodge at the various Charitable Institutions. The Immediate Past Master, who on rising was greeted with long and continued applause, stated that he considered it a very great honour and pleasure to have presided over the Lodge during the past year; he had received from all the greatest kindness and assistance. He congratulated the Lodge on its having so goodly a balance. He could not finish his remarks without thanking the Officers for the regularity and punctuality of their attendance; not only at the regular, but also at the weekly meetings, where they had attained so high a standard of efficiency as workers. He reminded the brethren that he was again going up as Steward, and would be pleased to receive any assistance from them, however small. The W.M. then proposed the health of the Initiate. Bro. Davenport was well known to a large circle of Masons as a most conscientious man; he would prove to be a happy addition to their Lodge. This brother, in reply, stated that it gave him much pleasure to belong to the Polish National; he could only thank them most heartily for the very kind manner in which they had received the toast of his health. The W.M. next gave the Visitors, which toast was replied to by Bro. Saegart and Crombie. Bro. Saegart stated he was very much obliged to the brethren for the hospitality he always received at the Polish Lodge; he thought one little matter ought not to be overlooked: that was to give honour to whom honour was due. He had been highly pleased with the manner in which the brethren had received the name of Bro. Lancaster, who had worked so hard, and discharged his duties in such a way as will lay up for him a crown of joy and rejoicing. Bro. Saegart next alluded to the W.M., Bro. Smith, who had already proved he was able to perform his duties as Master; he felt sure that the brethren will have no cause to regret the choice they made. Bro. Crombie thanked the brethren for the manner in which they had honoured the mention of his name. He was very pleased with the way in which all the duties had been performed, and as an old Mason desired to give a little piece of advice to his younger brethren. That was, to pay every attention to their Masonic education, and carry out the principles of Masonry. No good Mason could possibly be a bad man. It was the first time he had the pleasure of visiting them, but hoped soon to renew his acquaintance with the members. The toast of the P.M.'s was fluently responded to by Bro. Jagielski. The following is a list of the Visitors:—Bros. Stanbrown, Buckingham and Chandos, 1050, Inglis Strawberry Hill 946, Hickman P.M. United Strength 228, Alford W.M. United Strength 228, Boulton W.M. Victoria 1056, Hopgood Bagshawe 1457, Carter P.M. Faith 141, Nicholls St. John the Baptist 475, Saegart P.M. Wellington 548, Slack P.M. Ranelagh 834, Kelsey Great Northern 1287, Latreille W.M. Old King's Arms 28, Buck P.M. Suburban 1702, Bell P.M. Perfect Ashlar 1178, Browne Royal Alfred 780, Taylor S.W. Eccleston 1624, Roberts Eccleston 1624, Shrimpton Skelmersdale 1658, Larkins P.M. Belgrade 749, Weston J.W. Kingsland 1693, Hoone Crusaders 1677, Berry Fitzroy 569, Cross P.M. Villiers 1194, Crombie P.M. Old King's Arms 28, Lucas Royal Leopold 669.

JOHN HERVEY LODGE, No. 1260.

THE installation meeting of this Lodge was held at Freemasons' Hall, on Wednesday, 11th inst. After the routine business had been got through, the W.M., Bro. Henry Evans, vacated the chair in favour of the I.P.M. Bro. Orlando Latreille, who had undertaken to work the installation ceremony. Brother Captain Heaton, Senior Warden and Worshipful Master elect, was presented and obligated in due form. A Board of Installed Masters was convened, and Bro. Heaton was duly installed into the chair of K.S. The brethren under the degree of I.M. having been re-admitted, the Worshipful Master was proclaimed and saluted according to ancient custom. Brother Heaton then proceeded to appoint his Officers, as follow:—Bros. Salmon S.W., Sorrell P.M. 176 J.W., Baker S.D., Tayler J.D., Frost I.G. Bro. Jabez Hogg P.G.D. and P.M., who had been re-elected Treasurer, was, we regret to say, unable to attend for investment, he having been confined to his house for some weeks past by a severe attack of bronchitis. Bro. Chas. Atkins Past Master was re-appointed Secretary. The Worshipful Master, in appointing the Officers, instructed each one in the duties attached to the position. The appointment of Officers being concluded, Bro. Latreille addressed the W.M., Wardens, and Brethren with an eloquence that elicited the applause of every brother who had the advantage of being present. The Worshipful Master subsequently proceeded to initiate Mr. Wm. Henry. The work, considering the Officers were new to it, was admirably performed by those engaged. We are pleased to notice that this Lodge has a balance of £233 4s 10d to credit of its Benevolent Fund, established in 1878. Visitors—Col. Shadwell H. Clerke Grand Secretary, C. A. Grammer W.M. 27, A. Tisley W.M. 1589, J. Willing W.M. 1987, J. Pigott P M. 1288, C. Phillips P.M 820, W. Manger P.M. 1314, J. Green P.M. 27, C. W. G. Pinero Past Master 257, &c. Lodge being closed, the brethren adjourned to banquet at Freemasons' Tavern. The Grand Secretary, in responding to the toast of the Grand Officers, expressed his regret at the absence of his esteemed friend and colleague in Grand Lodge, Bro. Jabez Hogg P.G.D., and his pleasure in attending the John Hervey Lodge, seeing it bore and would perpetuate the name of his predecessor in the office of Grand Secretary. That distinguished brother having associated himself with, and taken an interest in the Lodge, it was very gratifying to him (Colonel Clerke) to find the work carried on in such an admirable manner. The Installing Master had performed the ceremony with eloquence and ability, whilst the new W.M. had proved his capacity by his excellent working at the initition of the brother on his right. The toast of the Visitors was associated with the names of Bro. Grammer W.M. 27, and Bro. Tisley W.M. 1589, who, together with several other visiting brethren, acknowledged the compliment. The Tyler's toast having been duly honoured, the brethren separated after a most successful and enjoyable evening.

ST. MARYLEBONE LODGE, No. 1507.

THE installation meeting was held on the 11th inst., at the Langham Hotel, Portland-place, where there was a large attendance of members and visitors. Lodge was opened by Brother Benjamin Phillips W.M., who was supported by Bros. White P.M. 177 S.W. and W.M. elect, Mouflet J.W., Chaplin Treasurer, Baker P.M. Secretary, Hill S.D., Halliday J.D., Smith I.G., Kift Organist. P.M.'s Bros. Timewell, Draper, Ashwell, Foxall P.G.P. Visitors—Bros. L. Ascot P.M. 783, Beckley P.M. 507, Dr. Stirling 174, G. Fredericks late 118, Mussared 1901 and 188, H. M. Levy P.M. 188. After the minutes had been read and confirmed, Bros. Curtis, Barr, and Ashdown were raised to the sublime degree, and Bros. P. Rocco, C. Woolf, Artand, and Billing were passed. Both ceremonies were excellently worked by the W.M., while each Officer was equally perfect. Bro. White P.M. 177, 1563, S.W. and W.M. elect, was presented to the Lodge and duly installed into the chair by the retiring W.M. Bro. Phillips, who conducted the ceremony in a very excellent manner; Bro. Ascot efficiently acted as M.C. By special request the W.M. gave the concluding address, which he delivered most impressively. The newly-installed Master then, in appropriate terms, appointed and invested his Officers. Bros. B. Phillips I.P.M., F. C. Mouflet S.W., Hill J W., J. Chaplin Treas. re-elected, J. L. Baker P.M. Sec., Halliday S.D., F. Smith J.D., Durand I G., G. Spurgin M.C., J. Kift Organist, Daly Tyler. The Auditors' report was read and adopted, and then Lodge was closed until the second Wednesday in June. The brethren sat down to a very sumptuous and récherché banquet and dessert, provided by Captain Gordon. The W.M., in very eloquent terms, proposed the preliminary loyal toasts, the Queen and the Craft and H.R.H. the M.W.G.M. In speaking of the Grand Officers the W.M. said those who attend Grand Lodge see how ably they do their duty. He called on all to give the toast the reception it merited. Mr. Armand Semple, M.D., a friend of Bro. Dr. Spurgin, here delighted the brethren with a song entitled "Golden Love." Bro. Phillips I.P.M. then rose. It was with great pleasure he had to propose the health of the W.M., who had been associated with him for many years. Brother White was well calculated to preside over them, and would prove himself as good a Master as ever had been elected in the Lodge. He would promote harmony, and his year of office was sure to be a successful one. Bro. Stirling, previous to the W.M.'s reply, played a solo on the violin. Bro. White then thanked Brother Phillips for the way he had spoken of him. He hoped the same love and harmony that now existed would continue, Every member of the Lodge, he was sure, wished it to go on and prosper. Personally he could hardly express his gratitude for the kind manner in which the toast had been received. In speaking to the toast of the Visitors, the W.M. said the Lodge was indebted to Bro. Ascot for his assistance in the ceremony; on behalf of the members he thanked him. He could also say they were very pleased to see the visiting brethren present. The St. Marylebone Lodge is at all times pleased to see them. Bro. Ascot in eloquent terms responded; he was present at the consecration of the Lodge, thirteen years ago, and was gratified to see the progress it had made. Bro. Alderman sang in excellent style "The Vagabond." In speaking to the next toast the W.M. said it was not an ordinary one. Bro. Phillips, the I.P.M. and Installing Master of the day, had passed and raised seven brethren. He had likewise installed him; and he (the W.M.) was sure the brethren had appreciated the valuable services thus rendered. In due course, he hoped to instal his successor. However, that was an event for the future. He asked for the toast a hearty reception; but before Bro. Philips responded, he desired to say the brethren had voted him a jewel, for the manner in which he had carried out the duties of the chair. It had been voted unanimously, and he hoped Bro. Phillips might be spared for many years to wear it, in recollection of his association with their Lodge. Bro. Phillips in reply could scarcely find words to say how gratified he was to hear the kind words of Bro. White. He appreciated the good feeling of his many friends. Ten years since he was initiated, by Bro. Stringer. He had been successful in his Masonic career, inasmuch as he was a P.M. of the City of Westminster, as well as of the St. Marylebone. In both Lodges he had received many kindnesses, which he trusted he might never forget. He thanked the members for the elegant jewel just presented; this was the second one voted him, and he hoped to be spared to wear it among them for many years. The W.M., in proposing the toast of the P.M.'s, said he hoped they would support him during his year of office; indeed, he was sure they would do so. Brother Semple again delighted the brethren with one of his splendid songs, and then Bro. Timewell, on behalf of the P.M.'s, responded. He regretted being absent during Bro. Phillips's year; he could assure them it was out of no disrespect to him; he thought no better Mason existed. He hoped in future to be a more regular attendant. Brothers Foxall and Draper followed. The toast of the Treasurer and Secretary came next; to both of these Officers hearty thanks were due. The Worshipful Master generally has all the credit; but it is generally due to the efforts of the Treasurer and Secretary that a Lodge owes its prosperity. Here both Officers had done their duty well. After Bro. Stirling had played a solo on the pianoforte, Bro. Chaplin (Treasurer) responded. Bro. Baker followed; while he was Secretary, he hoped not only to give satisfaction to the W.M., but to every brother in the Lodge. Bro. Phillips had had a successful year of office, and he (Bro. Baker) hoped Bro. White would have a still more successful one; this he was sure would be satisfactory to all. In speaking to his Officers the W.M. fully impressed on them the necessity of their attending Lodges of Instruction; he would ever readily give them his assistance; he knew their working qualifications, and had every confidence in them. To Bro. Dr. Spurgin he and the Lodge were specially grateful; the musical treat he had provided them was much appreciated. Bro. Spurgin had induced some of his private friends who possessed high intellectual attainments and splendid voices to render him assistance, and the result had been eminently satisfactory. Bros. Mouflet S.W. and Dr. Spurgin acknowledged the compliment. Bro. Seager Hunt, in replying to the next toast said, the Lay Members, he felt assured, would strive to advance the welfare of the Lodge. Shortly afterwards the Tyler's toast was given. We cannot conclude this notice without a word for Dr. Spurgin; he and his friends deserve great praise for the excellent musical entertainment they provided; this greatly added to the enjoyment of the evening.

ST. JOHN LODGE, No. 1306.

THE annual installation meeting of this prosperous Lodge was held at the City Arms Tavern, St. Mary-Axe, E.C., on Wednesday, the 11th instant, when there was a large attendance of brethren and visitors, under the presidency of the retiring W.M., Bro. T. Wooding, who was supported by I.P.M. T. Magrath and P.M.'s W. H. Hayward, W. Poore, C. Veal, and W. Beck Treasurer; T. J. Tyer J.W. and W.M. elect, A. G. Clements Secretary, I. P. Couture S.D., G. T. Holdom J.D., J. Somners M.C., W. Sherwin Organist, I. G. Twinn I.G., J. Loftus Steward; also Bros. S. M. Pipe, G. Wise, T. J. Barnes jun., C. Stephenson, A. W. Flack, J. Oxley, W. T. Hardy, T. Phillips, J. L. Green, A. Lloyd, C. Hausmann, T. J. Tarling, T. Willetts, W. McCreddie, E. Oppenheim, T. J. Morris, H. Harbord 901, H. Forss 917, P. Jackman 1805, R. Hayward 1306, A. Meyers W.M. 1421, H. McClelland 901, W. H. Myers P.M. 820, P. K. Job P.M. 1076, R. Hirst 1421, C. H. Bardolean 1421, G. Clarke 554, T. Loane 1421. Lodge was opened in accordance with antient rites soon after four o'clock, and the minutes of last regular and emergency meetings were read and confirmed. The Auditors' Report was most unanimously received and adopted. This showed the Lodge to be in a most satisfactory financial position. Bro. Tyer was then presented as W.M. for the ensuing year, and duly installed into the chair, the impressive ceremony being carried out most ably by the retiring Master. After the customary salutations, Bro. Tyer (the new Master) invested his Officers for the year, as follow:—Bros. Wooding I.P.M., Couture S.W., Clements J.W., Holdom S.D., Twinn J.D., Pipe Secretary, Beck Treasurer, Hardy I.G., Hayward M.C., Loftus Asst. M.C., Barnes W.S., Wise and Norris Stewards, Longstaff Tyler. Reference was made to the new home and new title of the Lodge (which had received the assent of Grand Lodge), and mutual congratulations were exchanged by all as to the conspicuous foundation for the future prosperity of the Lodge. A unanimous vote of thanks was then passed in favour of Bro. Hayward for his able services in contributing to this issue, the same to be recorded on the minutes of the Lodge. At the conclusion of other business, the brethren and Visitors adjourned to the banquetting room, where the new W.M. presided in a very able and congenial manner. The Loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to, while the toast of the Visitors received all honours. In due course, the brethren separated, after having been favoured with songs by several of those present, and an excellent recitation by Bro. Oxley.

Islington Lodge of Instruction, No. 1471.—A meeting was held on Tuesday, 17th April, at the Crown and Cushion, London Wall. Bros. Medwin W.M., Tyler S.W., Ford J.W., Millar Sec., Hawksley S.D., Mather Preceptor, Conohman I.G.; Bros. Goldney, Hepburn, Hunter, Blay, Stockdale, Draper jun., Benison, Laroom, Mitchell. Lodge was opened in due form, and minutes were read and confirmed. The ceremony of passing was rehearsed, Bro. Goldney candidate. Lodge opened in the third degree, and the ceremony of raising was rehearsed, Bro. Benison candidate. Bro. Mather worked this ceremony. Lodge was closed, and the brethren separated after a very instructive evening.

SELWYN LODGE, No. 1901.

THE annual meeting of the above Lodge was held at the New Masonic Hall, East Dulwich Hotel, East Dulwich Green, near Champion Hill Station, on Thursday, the 19th instant. After the Lodge had been formally opened, the minutes of the regular meeting held on Thursday, 15th March, and the emergency meeting, held Wednesday, 4th April, were read and confirmed. The report of the Audit Committee was received and adopted. Three Master Masons with the Treasurer and Secretary of the Lodge were appointed a Committee to manage the Benevolent Fund. Brother George Frederic Barton, La Tolerance Lodge, No. 538, was proposed as a candidate for joining by Bro. Bellis S.W., and seconded by Brother E. Eagle. Bro. Bellis did a similar honour in favour of Bro. William Edward Constable (F.C.), Southwark Lodge, No. 379; in this case Brother Marcus J.D. seconded the proposition. Both were accepted. There were two candidates for initiation—Mr. Joseph Searby, who was proposed by Bro. Bellis S.W., and seconded by Bro. Marcus J.D., and Mr. Isaac Dadd, who had for his sponsors Bros. Phillips and Davies. Here again the ballot was unanimous, and both gentlemen were introduced and initiated. The W.M. elect, Bro. A. J. Bellis, was now presented, and Bro. Nicod proceeded to instal him into the chair of the Lodge. This our zealous brother did in a most satisfactory way; indeed, the whole work of the year has been conducted by him in a perfect and painstaking way. We may state here Bro. Nicod's duties have not been of a mere perfunctory character; he has initiated seven candidates, passed five, and raised five; when to this is added that he undertook the duties of Installing Master, and, as we have said, ably fulfilled them, we think he deserves the praise that was lavishly bestowed on him. The Officers for the ensuing year were appointed and invested as follow:—Bros. L. C. N. Nicod Immediate Past Master, W. R. Burnett S.W., A. R. W. Powles J.W., E. Eagle Treasurer, W. H. Hook P.M. Secretary, W. B. Marcus S.D., W. J. Bullimore J.D., R. E. Anderson I.G., R. P. Forge P.M. M.C., W. Bosher W.S., L. E. Eagle, Assist. W.S. The addresses were then delivered, and after routine work, hearty good wishes were tendered, and Lodge was closed. In addition to nearly the whole of the members, the following Visitors were present:—E. C. Malet de Cartaret P.G.M. Jersey, Charles Naylor P.M. 958 P.D.C. Jersey, R. E. H. Goffin J.W. 1573, Thomas Wallis 1901, James Watsey P.M. 1310, John Osborn P.M. 1602, E. Woodman J.W. 1950, T. Perrin W.M. 1297, John Rhodes 1524, R. Pierpoint J.W. 177, W. J. Garland 1728, R. W. Moss 548, C. Clifton S.W. 944 P.D.G. Org. Bombay, D. Keyse S.D. 1314, J. J. Taffs W.M. 186, W. S. Whitaker P.M. 1572, J. Mount Sperring W.S. 186, J. G. Caston 40, J. Tickle P.M. 1196 Past Provincial Grand Registrar Middlesex, John Page 1572, E. C. Massey P.M. 1296, R. Applegarth 1415, Reginald Bridger 72, W. W. Morgan Senior Warden 211, &c. The banquet was most liberally supplied by Bro. Gurney, and the viands and wines were of excellent quality. The speeches were brief and to the point. The I.P.M.'s services were dilated on, and an elegant jewel was presented to him, which bore the following inscription:—

"Presented to
Brother S. C. N. Nicod P.M.
by the brethren of the Selwyn Lodge, No. 1901,
19th April 1883,
as a mark of esteem, and in recognition of the able and courteous manner in which he discharged the duties of W.M. during his year of office—1882-83."

Bro. Bellis must be congratulated on entering upon his duties as Master under such favourable circumstances. A word for our esteemed Bro. Hook; he exerted himself most successfully to make this meeting go off happily, and his "Masonic Surprise" was indeed a happy thought. Long may he live to see the Lodge he has taken so much interest in flourish and extend its influence. A capital musical entertainment was provided, under the direction of Bro. A. F. Grainger Organist. We append the programme. Song and Chorus, "God save the Queen;" Solo and Chorus, "God bless the Prince of Wales;" Song, "Tell her I love her so," Bro. C. A. White; Song, "Good Night Beloved," Bro. Wallis; Solo (clarionette), "Luisa di Montfort," Bro. L. E. Eagle; Song, "The Gipsies' Life," Bro. Hook; Song, "Sailing," Bro. A. F. Grainger; Song, "The old and young Marie," Bro. C. A. White; Duett, "The Moon has raised her Lamp," Bros. Wallis and Hook; Solo (pianoforte) "Gavotte," Bro. A. F. Grainger; Song, "Good-bye Sweetheart," Bro. C. A. White.

THE meeting of the Press Lodge, last Saturday, was one of the most successful the Lodge has had since its commencement. The W.M. Bro. H. F. Bussey, performed his work in admirable style, and he was most ably supported by his Officers. Mr. Joseph Capp and Mr. Frederick Saunders were initiated, and Bros. Brine, Baines, and Seabrook were elected on the Benevolent Fund Committee. A Founder's and Past Secretary's jewel was presented to the late Secretary, Bro. Basil Cooke, and the Lodge resolved to join with the West Kent and Orpheus Lodges in erecting a headstone at the grave of Past Master John Allen, in Nunhead Cemetery. Bros. Macartney, M.P., and Hyde Clarke were among the visitors to the Lodge, and expressed their pleasure with the way in which the working was done. Bro. Hyde Clarke, in addressing the brethren in response to the toast of the Grand Officers, after supper, contrasted the style of the Gallery Lodge with that of others, and predicted for it a glorious future. The Benevolent Fund he looked upon as a great feature; it would enable the brethren to do an immense amount of real good.

We have received from Bro. T. Francis, of Havant, a copy of his recently published History of Freemasonry in the Province of Sussex. Bro. Francis seems to have bestowed much care upon the production of his work, which we will take an early opportunity of perusing.

MASONIC HALLS.

NEXT to ability in the Officers to render the Ritual with force, beauty and propriety, nothing is so important to the dignity and prosperity of Freemasonry as a Hall, handsomely fitted up with proper appointments to give adequate expression to the beautiful degrees of the system. If we go into a town, and find an elegant Masonic hall, with handsome equipments, furniture and apparatus, we do not need to ask what kind of Masons meet there; the fact speaks for itself. But if we find a miserable hall, with bare floors, dilapidated furniture, dirty walls and windows, we do not need to ask anything here about Masonry; we know it is in the last stages of dissolution, if it ever had any healthy existence at any time. We were once in an Ohio town of say 1000 inhabitants, and, as we usually do, we asked some of the brethren to show us their hall. We noticed some evident reluctance and trouble to find the key; but at length the key was found, and as we ascended the dirty staircase, the brother conducting us began to apologise for the condition of the hall. When we were ushered into it, we found a large room, with bare floor, white-washed walls defiled by tobacco juice that had been squirted against them, and had run down in rivulets upon them. The stations, east, west and south, were unpainted boxes, the chairs around the walls were rush-bottomed chairs in every stage of degeneracy! We beat a hasty retreat, and thought to ourself, as we descended the staircase, that if we had lived in that town when a profane, the Masonic Institution would have been the very last Institution we should have wanted to unite with.

And so, feeling the importance of the subject, as Masonic halls are being continually built and renovated, we purpose to give a few words as to the proper construction and equipment of a suitable Masonic hall. If you are about to build, or refit your hall, by all means give heed to some recommendations like the following:

1. Give yourselves plenty of room. Do not get into a little eight by ten affair, where your enthusiasm will all be burnt out by bad air and asphyxia. Be sure and give yourselves room to breathe and to work. It is true that a few brethren in a business meeting look almost lost in a large room, and it is very well, if you can, to have a smaller room also, where you can occasionally meet, but most Lodges can only afford one main room, and it is much better to have the brethren in a small meeting look like a mouse under an umbrella, if thereby you have room to render your work well, than to have a small room where you will be smothered and have no floor space for a suitable rendering of the Ritual.

2. If possible have a stage with shifting side and back scenes in your East. All of our best Masonic halls are now being constructed with these stages and scenery, the idea being borrowed, we think, mainly from the Scottish Rite Cathedral in Cincinnati. Since that Cathedral was constructed, some fifteen or twenty years ago, Chicago, Indianapolis, Columbus, Dayton, and other places have followed suit, and the fashion ought to be general. Those who want to see to how many uses a stage with scenic accompaniments can be put should go to the Scottish Rite apartments at Chicago, where with not half the amount of room that we have at Cincinnati the very dramatic Ritual of the Scottish Rite is elaborately and handsomely rendered, very largely by the use of the stage alone. Almost everything in Masonic work in the degrees of the York and the Scottish Rite (which together constitute everything that is legitimate in Freemasonry) can be exhibited and worked out in a single room, if necessary, fitted up with a stage and proper accompaniments; and as Masonic work is so largely dramatic in its character, a stage is almost a necessity in properly exhibiting it.

3. In fitting up a Masonic hall there should be a gallery or passage way around part of it, and if possible a large part of it. Every Mason knows that Masonic work requires "travelling," and passage ways around the Lodge-room are very desirable, if not absolutely necessary. We will undertake to render every degree in the York and Scottish systems by the aid of these three things we have mentioned: a large, well-furnished hall, a stage with scenic accompaniments, and a wide gallery or passage way around a good part of the Lodge-room.

4. Of course, there must be at least two ante-rooms: a preparation room and a visitors' waiting-room. These are absolutely necessary to all Masonic work; and no Lodge should have a charter unless provided with these; other rooms are useful as property rooms, but two ante-rooms must always be connected with every Lodge-room.

5. The lighting apparatus is also quite important in fitting up a Masonic hall. The best arrangement is to have a central reflecting light, big enough to light up the whole room, with a ventilating arrangement in connection with it. If you have gas in your town, of course you will use it in your Lodge, and by a "cut-off" you can easily regulate the amount of light to suit the dramatic demands of the work you are engaged in, giving "more light" or "less light" just as you please. If you have no gas, it will not be so easy to regulate the light, but by the aid of curtains, movable by a Master of Ceremonies, you can produce tolerably good effects, and, talking about lights, a Lodge that can afford a stereopticon will find it a valuable auxiliary both in rendering the Ritual, and in entertaining the members and their families when gathered socially.

6. We need add nothing as to dresses, regalia, furniture, and other properties. The more beautiful and extensive these can be furnished, the more impressive will the Ritual be. But these things must be regulated by the funds of the Lodge.—Masonic Review.

THE TILER'S CLUB.

From The Voice of Masonry.

The old Tiler resumed his seat and pipe, and replied with a smile and pointing to the W.M., "There is your Master, ask him." That brother rejoined that it was the Tiler's club that was then in session, not the Lodge, and that the inquiry had been made of the Tiler, not the Master. This sally provoked a laugh, when Brother Senior Warden remarked that he had seen it argued by an English writer, that the word was derived from a Roman word, Teilor, signifying "weapon man," or the man with a drawn sword, and that in the Greek mysteries the man who admitted the candidates was so styled. Further, that he had recently been reading some old Masonic Magazines, and had noticed that in March 1857, a Rev. Brother delivered a lecture before Victoria Lodge, Dublin, Ireland, in which he proposed a new etymology for the word Mason, that was relevant to the question propounded by brother Senior Deacon. This brother stated that as every Lodge is guarded, it is supposed the guard is armed; formerly the weapon was a club, the Latin for which is maca, from this the mace of authority is derived, and as the early craftsmen worked with closed or guarded doors—guarded by a maca—the Institution in time was called Masonry and its members Masons."

The Tiler smiled complacently while listening to this ingenious theory, and remarked that the authority he had just quoted had stated that the derivation of the word was encompassed with much difficulty and uncertainty. Krause had translated it Ziegeldecker, or tile coverer, but in the opinion of Bro. Fort, the most satisfactory explanation was found in the corruption of Tailleur de pierre, which to ears ignorant of its significance, would sound like Tiler de per. The two methods of spelling the word, Tiler and Tyler, had some bearing, perhaps in the derivation. Operative Freemasonry was, in the opinion of the old Tiler, something more than a tiling assembly of mechanics, the master-pieces of architecture they have left behind them prove that they were acquainted with the principles of science, artists in the truest sense, and endowed with intellectual powers far in advance of their contemporaries. To admit that the word was derived from the old occupation of tiling a roof were to admit that that class of labour was intellectual, and was equivalent to saying that a hod-carrier was a brick-layer.

Bro. Junior Deacon asked whether the word Tiler had not some connection with the Masonic word hele.

The W.M. said he was sorry he would have to disagree with the old Tiler in his conclusions, neither did he know that he would enlighten the brethren much, for after all the researches of skilled Craftsmen, the derivation of the word seems to be as obscure as ever. The Tiler had referred to the inferior position of the tilers, or tile-coverers; whatever may have been their standing, they were of sufficient importance to be formed into a guild by themselves, and in the statute of King Edward II. in 1350, their wages are fixed. The titles and implements of Speculative Freemasonry are derived from the operative Craftsmen, and it is to them we should refer for information on this disputed point. It was a part of the Masons' business to make the pavements in their cathedrals, as well as to roof them, and this derivation has been most acceptable among Masonic scholars. The signification attached to it is that, as the tiler, when the building is erected, finishes and covers it with a roof of tile, so the Tiler of the Lodge closes the door and covers the sacred precincts from all intrusion.

The Tiler admitted the force of the Wor. Master's remarks, and said he had read some years ago of another kind of Tiler. A brother travelling in the west of England had visited a Lodge where he found a woman officiating at the outer door. His surprise was to some extent subdued when the brethren informed him she was the widow of the late Tiler, and was continued in the office as a matter of charity.

The Senior Warden remarked that one interesting peculiarity of the Tiler's office had not been mentioned, which was that some of its functions were like those of the old parish beadle. This local functionary was formerly dressed in a manner becoming his distinguished (!) rank, and our ancient brethren appeared to have dressed the Tiler in a similar manner. In a schedule of the regalia, records &c., belonging to the Grand Lodge of all England, taken at a Committee held 15th September 1779, is the entry, "A blue cloth coat with a red collar, for the Tiler."

The young Craftsman who had provoked the discussion, had been examining some old magazines lying on the shelf, and at this point said he had discovered a few verses that suited the old brother before them, and handed them to the Senior Deacon, who read as follows:

THE OLD TILER.

God bless the old Tiler! how long he has trudged
Through sunshine and storm, with his summonses due;
No pain nor fatigue has he ever begrudged,
To serve the Fraternity, Freemasons and you.

God bless the old Tiler! how oft he has led
The funeral procession from Lodge door to grave;
How grandly his weapon has guarded the dead
To their last quiet home, where the acacia boughs wave.

God bless the old Tiler! how oft he has knocked
When vigilant stranger craved welcome and rest;
How widely your portals, though guarded and locked,
Have swung to the signal the Tiler knows best.

There's a Lodge where the door is not guarded nor tiled;
There's a land without graves, without mourning or sin;
There's a Master most gracious, paternal and wise,
And he waits the old Tiler, and bids him "Come in."

And there the old Tiler, no longer outside,
No longer with weapon of war in his hand;
A glorified spirit shall grandly abide,
And, close by the Master, high honoured shall stand.

At the conclusion of the reading, the W. Master announced the hour for labour, and the Tiler's club was adjourned.

"Forestry."—With the commencement, in May, of its next volume, The Journal of Forestry, still conducted by Mr. F. G. Heath, Author of "Autumnal Leaves" and Editor of Gilpin's "Forest Scenery," will take a "new departure." Under the altered title of "Forestry: a magazine for the country," it will be enlarged in size and still further popularised. The May part will include a descriptive article by Mr. Richard Jefferies entitled "The Contents of Ten Acres," and "A Forgotten President of Agriculture," by Mr. R. A. Kinglake.

FREEMAN'S CHLORODYNE.

The Original and only true.

HUNDREDS of Medical Practitioners testify to its marvellous efficacy in immediately relieving and rapidly curing Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Neuralgia, Spasms, Colic, Whooping Cough, and all Nerve Pains. It acts like a charm in Diarrhœa, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery. It rapidly relieves pain, from whatever cause, soothes and strengthens the system under exhausting diseases, and gives quiet and refreshing sleep.

Lord Chancellor Selborne, Lord Justice James, Lord Justice Mellish decided in favour of FREEMAN'S ORIGINAL CHLORODYNE, and against Brown and Davenport, compelling them to pay all costs in the suits. See Times of July 24th, 1873. Bottles 1s 1½d, 2s 9d, 4s 6d, 11s, and 20s. Sold by all Chemists.

Testimonials.—Head Quarter Staff, Cabul, May 31st, 1880. Mr. R. Freeman, Dear Sir,—It is with much pleasure I am able to state that your Chlorodyne has been of special service to me in alleviating the wearisome spasms of Asthma, which is here existent in an aggravated form. Many of my patients now come and beg me to give them that medicine which always relieves them, and which I need hardly say is your Chlorodyne. Yours faithfully, Charles W. Owen, L.R.C.P. Lon., M.R.C.S. Eng., the Divisional Head Quarter Staff and Civil Surgeon, Cabul.

The Times, August 13th, 1877. From our own Correspondent with the Russian Army. Okoum, July 25th, 1877. The want of sanitary arrangements in the Russian Camp was dreadful, and had we remain d there a few weeks longer, dysentery and typhoid fever would have played more havoc in our ranks than the bombs of the Turks. I myself acquired an unenviable reputation as a doctor, owing to my being provided with a small bottle of CHLORODYNE, with which I effected miraculous cures.

THE

Freemason's Chronicle;

A WEEKLY RECORD OF MASONIC INTELLIGENCE.

SANCTIONED BY THE GRAND LODGE OF ENGLAND.

Registered at the G.P.O. as a Newspaper.

VOL. XVII.—No. 433. SATURDAY, 28th APRIL 1883. [PRICE THREEPENCE. 13s 6d per annum, post free.

LODGES OF INSTRUCTION;

THEIR RELATIONSHIP TO THE MOTHER LODGE.

IN introducing to our readers the subject we have chosen for our present article, we consider it first necessary to glance at one or two of the more prominent forms in which we find the Lodges of Instruction circumstanced. In London and a few other large centres of Freemasonry Lodges of Instruction are scattered about, if not as thickly, at least as widely, as are regular Lodges; while in small, and even medium-sized Provincial towns, the brethren of the entire district frequently assemble at one general Lodge of Instruction, even though there may be two, three, or more regular Lodges in the place. It will therefore be necessary to bear in mind the varieties which exist, as there will doubtless be features in our remarks which will not apply equally to all, though we shall endeavour to shape them in as general a manner as can be.

Before it is possible to establish a Lodge of Instruction the sanction or permit of some regular Lodge must be obtained, and it is usual for some energetic member or members to take the initiative, and apply for sanction to start the Lodge of Instruction. This sanction is, under such circumstances, usually granted; the brother or brethren applying for it being held personally responsible to the Mother Lodge for the good behaviour of all who may assemble and work under the permission given. So long as the brethren who first applied for the privilege remain members of the Mother Lodge, and continue their attendance at the Lodge of Instruction, it is customary for some amount of interest in each other's welfare to exist; but in course of time death, and other causes combined remove the founders of the Lodge of Instruction, and, later on, the Lodge and its offshoot become virtually unknown to each other. True, the Lodge of Instruction may be reminded that it is in a measure connected with the Mother Lodge—by the continual production of its warrant or permit, which should always be shown at the meetings, in the same way as is the warrant from Grand Lodge in the case of an ordinary one, but the members of the Mother Lodge have no such reminder constantly before them, and in time they may actually forget they ever gave permission for a Lodge of Instruction, much less know of its present doings. That we are not going too far in assuming such a want of knowledge amongst the members of a Lodge can be proved by what has actually taken place. We heard lately of a case where certain brethren wished to establish a Lodge of Instruction in connection with their Lodge, but, just as permission was about to be granted, it was found that a similar concession had been made, many years back, and that weekly meetings were being held under such authority; at the same time, in consequence of changes that had occurred, by removals at one time or another, the meetings of the two bodies were held widely apart. In this case it was not deemed desirable to issue a second permit, and, those interested not pressing the matter, the subject was allowed to drop, a "club" for instruction being afterwards formed. We have pointed out this extreme view of the case to show that a Lodge, and its Lodge of Instruction, may become practically unknown to each other; but in how many cases do they become theoretically so? We think we may assert in a very great many; and we feel justified in saying that when such an event does occur, both the Lodge and its Lodge of Instruction sustain a great loss. The Lodge of Instruction should be a help to the Mother Lodge, while the latter should act as a guardian to the former. The Lodge of Instruction may be of service to the Mother Lodge in many ways. In it it should be possible for the Officers of the parent Lodge to rehearse the parts they would be called upon to enact in their own Lodge, and for this reason we strongly recommend the holding of "Officers'" nights in all Lodges of Instruction; that is to say, nights periodically set apart, on which the Officers of the year are invited to attend and take the same positions they hold in the Mother Lodge. When this becomes a custom, the brethren know where they can meet other members of their Lodge, and it is possible to discuss questions which are likely to arise at the next regular meeting before the day of holding the Lodge arrives, whereby time is saved, and petty annoyances are frequently avoided. As a consequence the Lodge of Instruction benefits; a large number of brethren are attracted who would not otherwise attend; further than this, a variety in the programme is created on these so-called "Officers'" nights, which is frequently much appreciated. Again, there is the advantage of the Lodge and its Lodge of Instruction being, as it were, one united body, rather than two distinct undertakings, known to be connected with each other only because the name of each is the same.

We are likewise advocates for the holding of annual suppers at our Lodges of Instruction. At such times the regular routine of work should be set aside, and a few hours devoted to social intercourse. On these occasions most brethren delight in looking back on the events of the past, calling to mind what was said and done at previous annual gatherings, and renewing acquaintanceships which but for such meetings would die out. Here there is not so much formality as is usual on installation nights in ordinary Lodges: the brethren feel more at home; and a general free-and-easy air—if we may use the expression—pervades the meeting. As a consequence, those present usually enjoy themselves. Again, these annual suppers afford the most ready means of cementing the friendly feeling which should exist between the Mother Lodge and its Lodge of Instruction, and in many cases they are made to serve that purpose. We know of several Lodges in which the annual festival of the Lodge of Instruction is looked forward to with as much interest as is the installation meeting of the Lodge itself, while in others it is noted as being the occasion on which a general muster of the Masons of the district will take place, and all the Masonic affairs of the neighbourhood will be discussed. In some of the Provincial towns this is particularly the case. The annual meeting of the Lodge of Instruction is presided over by the W.M. of the oldest Lodge, with the W.M. of a younger Lodge filling the position of vice chairman, and, as each appears to try and get the largest number of his fellow members to support him, a goodly attendance from each Lodge usually assembles; this gives a large meeting for the Lodge of Instruction, and when it is explained what is done at the weekly meetings, many of those who have hitherto stayed away decide upon attending in the future, with the result that the Lodge of Instruction is permanently benefitted. In other Lodges of Instruction it is customary to invite the W.M. or W.M. elect of the mother Lodge to take the chair at the annual supper, and as that is usually arranged to take place immediately before or after the installation of the mother Lodge, it forms a first-rate practice night for the Chairman, besides giving him an insight into the working of the Lodge of Instruction meeting under the authority of his Lodge. It may doubtless come strange to some of the brethren who are called upon to preside on such occasions, to find themselves at the head of some twenty or more brethren whom they now meet for the first time, while, on the other hand, the brethren themselves may feel awkward at being presided over by a brother strange to them all; still, with that good feeling which usually pervades such meetings, these drawbacks, if they may so be called, are easily surmounted, and with a good Preceptor, or other permanent official of the Lodge of Instruction to support him, the chairman of the meeting should have no difficulty in scoring a success. In the majority of these cases the Worshipful Master of the parent Lodge, at its next meeting, is likely to refer to what took place at the Lodge of Instruction; here again new interest is likely to be awakened. Among the members present may be one or more initiates, or others comparatively new to the Order, who may thus hear of Lodges of Instruction for the first time, and with that desire for knowledge which pervades every true brother, they immediately set to work to test for themselves the advantages of attending these instruction meetings. Once having made such a resolve, what better place of resort presents itself than the one which bears the name, and works under the sanction, of that Lodge wherein they first received the benefits of Masonic light.

THE GRAND FESTIVAL.

WHAT we have described in former years as the Annual Communication of the United Grand Lodge of England took place on Wednesday last, at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, London. The Earl of Lathom Deputy Grand Master presided, supported by the Earl of Mar and Kellie Grand Master of Scotland, General Laurie Grand Master of Nova Scotia, Sir Francis Burdett as Deputy Grand Master, the Earl of Carrington Grand Senior Warden, Sir J. W. Ellis Grand Junior Warden, Sir Albert Woods (Garter) Grand Director of Ceremonies, J. Derby Allcroft Grand Treasurer, Colonel Shadwell H. Clerke Grand Secretary, Æ. J. Lavers and Alfred Withers P.M.'s 211, W. Radcliffe P.M. and Sec. 211, W. W. Morgan S.W. 211, &c. After the formal opening of Grand Lodge, the minutes were read and confirmed, and the Prince of Wales was declared duly re-installed as Most Worshipful Grand Master. The Earl of Carnarvon was again appointed by His Royal Highness as Pro Grand Master, and the Earl of Lathom as Deputy Grand Master. The Earl of Lathom then announced that he had received a letter from the Earl of Carnarvon, apologising for his absence, on the ground of ill-health. The Earl of Lathom afterwards said he had a duty to perform which would give him and all the brethren in Grand Lodge pleasure. In consideration of the long and valuable services, as Grand Registrar, rendered to the Order by Bro. Æ. McIntyre, Q.C., M.P., for a period of twenty-one years, the Grand Master had been pleased to confer upon him the rank of a Past Grand Warden, and he (the Earl of Lathom) now asked Grand Lodge to authorise him, in the name of the Grand Master, and on his behalf to invest Bro. McIntyre with the collar and jewel of a Past Grand Warden. The jewel bore the following inscription:—

From the Grand Lodge of England, to the Right Worshipful Bro. ÆNEAS JOHN MCINTYRE, Q.C., M.P., Grand Registrar,
on his appointment as Past Grand Warden, in recognition of years of faithful, able and zealous service as Grand Registrar,
25th April 1883.

Bro. McIntyre was formally invested.

The following were then appointed and invested as the Grand Officers for the year:—

Bro. The Earl of Milltown	Senior Grand Warden
The Right Hon. Col. Stanley	Junior Grand Warden
John Derby Allcroft	Grand Treasurer
Æneas J. McIntyre, Q.C., M.P.	Grand Registrar
Colonel Shadwell H. Clerke	Grand Secretary
E. E. Wendt, D.C.L.	Sec. German Correspondence
Sir Albert W. Woods (Garter)	Grand Director of Ceremonies
The Rev. H. G. Morse, M.A.	Grand Chaplains
Rev. W. O. Thompson, M.A.	Grand Chaplains
Thomas William Tew	Senior Grand Deacons
Dr. Ralph Gooding	Senior Grand Deacons
Frank Green	Junior Grand Deacons
T. H. Devonshire	Junior Grand Deacons
Lieut. Colonel James Peters	Grand Sword Bearer
Horace Jones	G. Superintendent of Works
Thomas Dolling Bolton	Deputy Grand Dir. of Cer.
Raymond Henry Thrupp	Assistant Grand Dir. of Cer.
Lieut. Colonel Gough	Grand Standard Bearers
Edgar Bowyer	Grand Standard Bearers
W. Cusins	Grand Organist
H. G. Buss	Assistant Grand Secretary
L. F. Littell	Grand Pursuivant
W. Stephens	Assistant do.
H. Sadler	Grand Tyler

The following brethren will be the Grand Stewards for the new year:—

Brothers John William Fuller 1, Walter Jarvis 14, George Acland Ames 2, William Tickle Whitmore 4, John William Jones 5, James Robert Fitzjames Claridge 6, Thomas Skewes Cox 8, Thomas Francis Peacock 21, Harry Nicholas Mills 23, Edward Milner 26, John David McKenzie Von Dadelszen 29, Charles Gervaise Boxall 46, Savile Arundel Tucker 58, A. Torkington 60, Benjamin Bull 91, Henry Trueman Wood 99, Edward Henry Burnell 197, and Herbert Addington Rigg 259.

Shortly afterwards Grand Lodge was closed.

The banquet took place as usual in the Large Hall of the Freemasons' Tavern, and the result was most creditable to the Grand Stewards, on whom devolves the responsibility of catering. The chair was taken by the R.W. Prov. Grand Master of Hampshire and the Isle of Wight, Bro. W. Wither B. Beach, M.P., who, in speaking to the first toast said, we are commanded by the precepts of our Order to honour our Sovereign, and as loyal subjects and good Freemasons he would ask the brethren to drink to the Queen and the Craft. This request having been responded to, the second toast was the Prince and Princess of Wales and the other members of the Royal Family. The Princess of Wales, ever since her first appearance in this country had endeared herself to the hearts of the people. Few days elapse without the Prince of Wales, or other member of the Royal Family, appear in some public duty, and as a rule the duty is associated with the promotion of Charity. Such services they invariably perform with ability. After the glee, "By Celia's Arbour," the Grand Master in the chair rose for the next toast: We must congratulate ourselves that amongst the multifarious duties which fall to the lot of the Prince of Wales, he has consented to take the Presidency of the Order of Freemasons. His Royal Highness never fails to transact the business connected with that high position, and as he has taken part in several Masonic ceremonies in the country, we may express the fervent wish that the time may not be far distant when he may do the same in London, where undoubtedly he will receive the most enthusiastic support. The next toast on the list was the Grand Lodges of Scotland and Ireland, and Sister Lodges, and with it was associated the names of the Earl of Mar and Kellie G.M. Scotland, and General Laurie G.M. of Nova Scotia, both of whom responded. In introducing the toast of the M.W. the Pro Grand Master, Bro. Beach said, it had been the intention of the Pro Grand Master, the Earl of Carnarvon, to be present to preside over the Grand Lodge, and to have occupied the position of Chairman at this Festival; but, unfortunately, he had been precluded by illness from attending. He felt sure they would sympathise with him in the cause of his absence, and wish him a speedy recovery to health. The Deputy G.M. was present at Grand Lodge, but in consequence of another engagement, it had been impossible for him to be here. The Rev. J. Edmund Cox, D.D., Past Grand Chaplain, in replying, congratulated the brethren on having such a man as the Earl of Carnarvon to preside over them. The Earl of Carnarvon had done good suit and service during the time he had been Pro Grand Master, and is known and respected by all. So far as the Deputy Grand Master is concerned, we all have a warm affection and regard for him. He is ever ready to be present to fulfil his task, with zeal and with discretion, and is always at the right hand of the M.W.G.M. to succour and assist him in the various duties he has to fulfil. Sir John B. Monckton P.G.D., President of the Board of General Purposes, in proposing the R.W. Prov. Grand Masters, said they were brethren who were known and esteemed among us. The M.W.G.M. in the chair is the senior of the English Grand Masters; he (Bro. Monckton) only obeyed orders when he placed this toast before the brethren. He passed over Bro. Sandeman, a District Grand Master, hailing from the other side of the world (Bengal), but very highly esteemed, in order that he might come nearer home and connect this toast with the much loved name of Bro. Sir Francis Burdett. Bro. Sir Francis Burdett thanked the brethren for the kind and enthusiastic manner in which they had received the toast. He was deputed to represent a very large body of brethren—a body that presides over the greater part of this country. The country is divided into large districts, and those districts were presided over by Prov. Grand Masters and Deputy Prov. Grand Masters. We can include among the Prov. Grand Masters the highest members of the Craft. The Earls of Carnarvon and Lathom come among us, and do their duties satisfactorily to all the brethren in their Provinces. There are very few of the Order who are not in some way or other associated or connected with the Prov. Grand Masters, and he felt very much gratified in having now the opportunity of thanking all for the kind support they gave to their Prov. G. Masters. Bro. H. D. Sandeman, District Grand Master of Bengal, proposed the next toast, the health of the Worshipful Brother who had presided. Bro. Beach was well known to all here; he was well known as an active supperter of their Charities, and he was well known as one who had frequently presided at their meetings; but he was even more known in his own Province of Hampshire and the Isle of Wight. In reply, the Grand Master in the chair, Bro. Beach, said it was at a moment's notice that he was called upon to take the chair. He had little thought of doing so when he entered Grand Lodge, but being called upon to perform the duty, he could not refuse. He was much gratified at the many kind things that had been said as to the discharge of his duties as chairman. In introducing the toast of the Visitors, the Grand Master in the chair said they had had the pleasure of drinking the health of the representatives of other Grand Lodges; but there were other visitors, and all would be glad to show they appreciated their presence there. Bro. Macnamara, in reply, said there were two subjects connected with this toast which demanded the attention of Masons; he was happy in his own person to be able to return his most sincere thanks for the two in combination—one is, that of hospitality; he thanked them exceedingly for the noble display and kind manner to himself individually, and to his country, in which they had received him. Masonry is one of the best Institutions in the world; is one of the greatest Institutions that existed in Ireland, one of the Institutions that claim loyalty to the Crown as one of its greatest aims. There is not throughout the length and breadth of that great land a single man who is a Mason who is not a loyal supporter of the Crown and a devoted adherent of his Royal Highness and the distinguished lady who had once honoured them with her presence; who are loved throughout the length and breadth of the land. The other subject is, the splendid Masonic Charities of this country; he had the distinguished honour to be received at the Girls' School last Thursday, and if ever conceit was knocked out of any man completely and entirely, it was the conceit that they could do anything in Ireland like that. When he perceived the noble Institution which their generosity had instituted and carried out, and the children they had there, he asked them to allow him to compliment them upon every measure connected with it; whether it were the generous and courteously kind way in which they receive any one who visit, the nice pleasant affectionate looking girls that they saw there, or the admirable way the governesses go through and discharge their duties. He never spent a happier day than he did last Thursday when he visited the Girls' School. Professor Galbraith said it was a common thing for speakers to say they were taken by surprise when called upon to address a meeting, but he might say on that occasion that he was so taken by surprise, because all that could be said, and well said by men coming from his country, had been already uttered by Bro. Macnamara. He had nothing to add, except to say that his heart overflowed with gratitude for the reception they had met with at the hands of our English brethren. The toast of the Grand Stewards was replied to by Bro. G. Martin, No. 1, President. A Concert was afterwards given in the Temple, under the direction of the Grand Organist.

The General Committee of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls met on Thursday, at Freemasons' Hall, when there were present Brother Colonel Creaton in the chair, and the following brethren: Bros. J. H. Matthews, Frank Richardson, John A. Rucker, Robert Grey, A. H. Tattershall, Henry Venn, E. Letchworth, E. M. Money, W. G. Kentish, Peter de L. Long, Edgar Bowyer, J. J. Caney, Joseph Cleaver, James Peters, Samuel H. Parkhouse, John French, H. A. Dubois, C. Hammerton, C. H. Webb, E. C. Massey. The minutes of this Committee's meeting of 29th March were read and verified, and those of the Quarterly Court on 14th April, of the House Committee on 19th April, and of the Audit Committee on 24th April were read for information. Four petitions were considered, and approved, and the names added to the list of candidates. These included one on behalf of the daughter of the late Brother Weber, formerly senior clerk in the office of the Secretary of the Instruction. The following brethren were nominated for election on the House and Audit Committees:

HOUSE COMMITTEE:—By Brother Matier, Brother James Moore; by Brother Grey, Brother Edgar Bowyer; by Brother Samuel Glover, Bros. Ralph Clutton and Raymond H. Thrupp; by Brother Colonel Creaton, Brother A. H. Tattershall; by Brother J. J. Caney, Brother Joseph Cleaver; by Brother J. M. Case, Bros. Edgar Bowyer, Dubois, Grey, Hammerton, Letchworth, Long, Mather, Matthews, Nunn, Col. Peters, Richardson, Rucker.

AUDIT COMMITTEE:—Brother R. Grey nominates Brother G. Drysdale; Brother Venn nominates E. C. Davies; Brother Parkhouse nominates Brother W. J. Murlis; Brother Tattershall nominates Brother George Brown; Brother F. Richardson nominates Brothers W. Bailey, J. G. Chancellor, J. Cutbush, Herbert Dicketts, Thomas Kingston, H. C. Levander, William Roebuck, Henry Venn.

Bros. Earny, Newton, Stevens and Tyerman were appointed Scrutineers.

MASONRY IN GERMANY.

HAMBURG, 18TH APRIL 1883.

IN my first letter I gave you a short account of the Festival of the Grand Lodge in Frankfort, and if my time had not been so very limited then I should have accompanied said account with a few remarks on Masonry in general which might have come, perhaps, not quite mal a propos on that occasion. However, better late than never. It is generally admitted that a reform of our Lodge life is essential, and it seems to me that as a first step in this direction it would be advisable for Lodges to become more scrupulous in the admission of candidates; we should not count our members, but weigh them. If the following remarks, which occurred to me after a conversation on the subject of Masonry with a conspicuous brother in this city, are the means of reminding one or other of the lukewarm or lazy brethren of their duty towards their Lodge, I shall be well paid for my trouble.

It lies in the nature—in the true and so often questioned, so often misunderstood, so often disputed nature—of Masonry that the best she is striving for, the best she is able to accomplish, and really does accomplish, withdraws itself not only from the perception of the profane, but often enough also of the initiated. To him, however, who only pays attention to self, and to his brethren, it must have become clear that the living, simple word, coming from and going to the heart, produces in the soul manifold emotions which will gain a certain influence on the activity of thought and on the will. All impurity suppressed here, and all the room gained for noble exertions, is the cause of many a return from the wrong, and of many an earnest resolve to remain in the right way after this has once been gained. Not the phrase and not the ceremonies can produce such an influence on our mind; it is the holiness of the place, the symbol, and above all, a single tone of speech that comes from the heart; that takes and prepares our heart and mind for good deeds. But such deeds as Masonry can boast of cannot be registered, they cannot be expressed in numbers, measure, or weight; they are invisible. They are the best Freemasonry accomplishes, and they hide the precious treasure of the real Masonic secret. No traitor could ever yet betray that. If Masonry aims at the mental and moral perfection of mankind, if she strives to equalise the existing contrasts, then the question whether Freemasonry is still in accordance with the spirit of the age appears to be almost a mockery, for in our days those ideal treasures of mankind are endangered the preservation and furtherance of which is the aim and striving of Masonry.

And what does the Order accomplish in this respect? We cannot, and ought not, to deceive ourselves; the present requires more at our hands than we have accomplished heretofore, for only as in the measure we meet these greater requirements the Order will gain authority and credit; or, what is better still, will be better able to serve the great aims of Freemasonry.

The proposals which may be made to us to bring Lodge life more in accordance with the spirit of the age should not be spurned because something altogether new is proposed, or an old and even endeared custom is to be abolished or to be replaced by another one; by no means, the merits and demerits of such proposals should be well examined into and the best selected. But every brother Freemason should participate in such examination, at least all those who have an earnest and devout perception of their duty. His first duty is a regular attendance at the workings of his Lodge. Whoever cannot, and will not, make a sacrifice to his Lodge of a part of his time, otherwise devoted to pleasure, or of a certain part of personal labour, he is in my opinion no real Freemason. The good and able men amongst us do not see themselves, because the lukewarm and indifferent ones stand between them. May the number become smaller if we only increase in power within. Either the combined endeavours will succeed (only the will is to be doubted, not the possibility) in intellectually raising the Lodge to a more prominent position, till she becomes a power which, through intelligence and moral efficiency, gains a powerful influence on the profane world, or she will more and more become a friendly alliance, thereby deviating from her great and noble aims. The Lodge will become a power if men of great moral character and intelligence of the profane world, who are Freemasons without belonging to the Order, come to our temples for admittance, and become working members; a power, not in the usual sense of the word, not visible and loud, but a power deliberating in modest secrecy, whose champions, ever strengthened by the feeling of unity, and armed with the consciousness of a widely spread confederation, will courageously struggle for light and truth.

"Remember thy duty towards Freemasonry, and thou art standing in the service of the moral invariable laws of nature which you believe."

LODGE ATTENDANCE.

FROM THE FREEMASON'S ADVOCATE.

WHILE in conversation with the W.M. of one of our Lodges, a short time since, he asked this question: "What can I do to increase the attendance at the communications of my Lodge?" The question asked is a very important one, and it made a deep impression on my mind—knowing that he was not the only one that was racking his brain to devise some means whereby he could increase the attendance at the communications of his Lodge. The question has been often asked, and probably will be in the future, and I, for one, do not know that it has been ever satisfactorily answered, either in practice or in theory. I am well aware that any one can theorise; but to put each theory into practice is entirely another affair. It is a serious question how a Master that has the welfare of Masonry, and his own Lodge in particular at heart, can put new life into the sluggish blood of his brethren? He often asks himself, What can he do to cause a revival amongst Masons? Theoretically, we all have our ideas how it can be done; but theory and practice do not always go hand in hand. Practice fails where theory has made it perfectly plain. At the first thought one would naturally suppose that the brethren alone were wholly to blame, and that no responsibility rests upon the Officers—especially the Master—for the non-attendance at Lodge communications. In many of our Lodges the Masters act as if they were mere figure-heads (such as is too often the case) who think when the hours of labour close their labours cease; and when the Lodge is at refreshment they put a literal construction upon refreshments as far as the affairs of their Lodges are concerned. Now, let us take the unpopular view of the question and attempt to show that the brethren at large are not wholly to blame; but that the responsibility rests, in a great measure, upon the Officers themselves, more especially upon the W.M. He may do it theoretically, but practically, at any rate, a little scolding to some of our Officers may not do them any harm.

Now, I claim that the attendance of a Lodge depends a great deal upon what kind of a Master presides over that Lodge. If he be a man of an easy, careless, don't-like-to-exert-himself temperament, he will conduct the affairs of his Lodge in about the same manner that he does his own affairs; if he does not like to exert himself in them, he will not be very apt to exert himself in the affairs of his Lodge, and that Masonic business is the last and least of his troubles. After a good deal of physical effort, on his part, he succeeds in getting to his Lodge-room, on the evening appointed for the meetings. After he does once get there, and if there should not happen to be enough present to commence business, he sits down in the easiest position he can find, and languidly wonders why the brethren do not turn out; or, perhaps, he elevates his heels to an angle of forty-five degrees—Yankee fashion—and entertains his hearer or hearers (if he has any) with choice bits of slang and scandal. The moments pass away, until he finally concludes to go to work, and he does it in just about as easy, indifferent a way as he does everything else. Well, he blunderingly opens his Lodge, transacts the usual routine business, closes it, turns out the lights and goes home—or somewhere else. "Out of sight out of mind." Out of his Lodge-room, no thought or care, unless he is to assist in the eating degree—and he does not forget that, I assure you. Oh no! That is the best part of Masonry to him. Such a Master as that is not long in bringing his Lodge into the same way of thinking, and they, as well as he, lose all interest and care of the real work of Masonry. No life, no energy—unless there happens to be a banquet, then:

"Alas! what a change—
What once was dead
Is dead no more."

There is life enough then; no laggards or drones then, I can assure you.

The members, after a time, begin to ask themselves the question, that if the man they have appointed to preside over them does not manifest any interest in the Lodge, why should they?—forgetting that if he does not they should. The influence of such a Master is greater than one would imagine. In a few years, at the most, that Lodge is numbered amongst "the things that were," its influence gone, its mission unfulfilled, and Masonry a bye-word and reproach. Now, what is the remedy? In the first place, when the brethren find they have erred in their judgment, and that their Master is one of that kind of men, and that the Lodge interests are to suffer by his hands, let each one of the workers (no use talking of the drones) put their shoulder to the wheel and do their best to counteract the influence of the Master. Let them exert every nerve, and put forth every energy to keep up their Lodge, even if then they may be accused of doing the work of the Master, remembering that it is for the good of Masonry that they are engaged in, not for the personal good of any one member or any particular class of members. Let this thought buoy them up, that the time is coming when a new Master is to be elected, and then let them do their duty and elect a working man to preside over them. Have a care that he has some life in him. If he does commit a few trifling mistakes, better put up with them than have a Lodge of drones, or the influence of that Lodge destroyed by laxity. Let him be a fair ritualist—do not ask him to be perfect, for that is an impossibility. Ritualism is good in its place; but it is but a small part of Masonry. Let him be one who is familiar with the Bye-laws of his own Lodge and of his Grand Lodge; besides that, a general knowledge of Masonic Jurisprudence and custom. But, above all, have him a man that is not afraid to take off his coat, roll up his sleeves and go to work with a vim; not one of your dilly-dally, white-gloved fellows, who thinks more of parting his hair in the middle and the perfect faultlessness of his attire than he does of real Masonry; but have him a worker—a real live worker—one who views Masonry as it is, and as founders designed that it should be. If he has a lifeless Lodge to preside over, let him go to each one of his members, personally, and plead, beg—coax, and even throw in a few mild threats—for them to assist him in bringing his Lodge back to its original standing. He will get many a sharp rebuff, and, no doubt, will get discouraged; but keep digging, keep at work—put up with everything if you can only accomplish good by it. After he has pursued this course, he will find them straggling in one by one. He will find that he has infused some of his own life into them, and they will be as anxious as he is himself. Let him despatch the business of his Lodge as if it was his own business; but let him fully realise that to be a good Master is no boy's play. Do not let the routine affairs drag along as if you were fighting against time, but do it promptly, quickly, and to the point. Do not wear a long-faced, solemn visage, as if you were the chief mourner at a funeral, or that the responsibility of the welfare of the whole Fraternity rested upon your shoulders. When you are in your station, do your duty as a man and a Mason; but when you leave it, unbend and be a brother amongst them. If a question should arise which is detrimental to the best interests of Masonry, and in confliction to law and usage, squelch it. If you are in doubt, let it rest until your doubts are removed, and then decide it; it will not spoil by delay. When you are performing the opening ceremonies, it is not necessary that you should repeat from the Alpha to the Omega of the ritualistic lectures, but cut it short where it can be done without marring any of the beauty of the ceremony; not too terse—but, at the same time, not long enough to weary your brethren, for when one is tired he loses interest,—as it may be as familiar to them as it is to you. When you get to the real, solid work of the Lodge-room' then take off your coat, infuse life into your actions; do not stand like a stock of wood, but have some animation about. Do not go through the ritualistic work as if you were a parrot, and could only say "pretty Polly," but put some force into it—emphasise it when necessary—do it with your voice, though, not with your hands and feet. Above all else, use every effort to impress upon the minds of seekers after light that there is something in our beautiful ritual besides a schoolboy declamation. Study it. Find out for yourself its beautiful points, and then impress them upon the minds of all. Act and speak as if you meant every word you said, and knew just what you were about—that you knew your duty and place, and meant to do it. If any Lodge or Master has not tried that course, let them try it and see if the result will not be beneficial. Mark the difference between the wide-awake, active Master, and the good-natured, easy, indifferent one. The work of both prove for themselves.

If that course does not improve the attendance of the Lodge, try some other. In the majority of cases it will be found that as the Master of the Lodge. Brethren do not like to come from a distance to simply see the opening and closing ceremonies, and the usual details spun out to the very end of tediousness, nor will they do it many times, for they soon lose all interest in Masonry, until, finally, they give it up altogether, when, had the Officers, especially the Master, been faithful to their trust, the result might have been different. There are other reasons, perhaps, why the Lodge attendance is not increased; but whatever they may be, it must be admitted, in both theory and practice, that upon the Master, in a great measure, depends the prosperity of the Lodge. Let the Master look well to the East, and, as the sun governs the day with regularity, so must he be as regular in governing his Lodge. Let wisdom, strength and beauty be combined; each, when separate, fully able to support the other. Let them who bear the rods be well versed in their parts, and who bespeak for that Lodge prosperity and plenty. Infuse life into the Lodge by means of its Officers, and right nobly will the mission of that Lodge be accomplished. Put theory into practice, and no fear of the result. Sit down and idly dream over it, and the result is just as plain,—on the one hand, prosperity; but, on the other, indifference and ultimate destruction.

THE MAY ELECTION.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—At the forthcoming Election of Aged Freemasons and Widows of Freemasons, there are no less than 120 candidates, and, accordingly, the same number of sets of papers to be sorted and counted. In order, therefore, to lighten and expedite the work of the Scrutineers, I would venture to suggest to those brethren who are working the respective cases, to place their votes together, in packets of fifties, hundreds, or more, and not in single papers; also if there is time, and they could place the papers of the same value together, it would greatly assist the enumeration.

Yours faithfully and fraternally,

A PAST SCRUTINEER.

THE FREEMASON'S SECRET.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—A Scotch Brother, on the Cunard Steam Ship Batavia, gave me a slip of a Scotch paper to read, containing the enclosed original poem, recited at the consecration of a Lodge at which the said brother was present. I can only say, its humour amused me greatly. I believe it deserves a corner in your journal, so here is a copy of it, and if your opinion and mine coincide, why, print it.

I remain,

Fraternally yours,

JACOB NORTON.

Boston, U.S., 13th April 1883.

BY BRO. R. HUNTER.

In an auld burgh toon that I daurna weel name,
That boasts of its hicht in the annals o' fame,
There lived at the time of this short rhyming tale,
A canty old couple baith hearty and hale.
Fu' lang had they travelled thegether through life,
Wi' a routh of its joys, and but little o' strife;
For the worthy guidman, sae the neebors wad say,
In settlin' disputes had a pauky auld way,
And when oucht wad arise to annoy and harass,
He wad quietly say, "There noo, Jenny, my lass,
Since for weel or for wae we are tied to ae tether,
Let's look ower ithers fauts and pu' cheerful thegether."
And sae, with a kindly bit word and a smile,
The auld wifie's anger he aft wad beguile.
But the best o' us all are but mortals, I wot,
And the auld proverb's true "There's a crook in ilk lot,"
And sae no to gie ye a lengthy narration,
A crook Jenny had—her guidman was a Mason.
No a mason by trade, but a Freemason grand,
Wi' his secrets, his signs, and his grips of the hand;
And, oh! but it troubled the auld body sair,
To think he had secrets that she couldna' share,
And for week after week, aye, and year after year,
Baith early and late the same questions she'd spier.
She had wrocht roon' his heart, and she'd wrocht roon' his fears,
She had tried him wi' fleeching, wi' flyting, wi' tears,
But it a' wadna do, for by nicht or by day,
He only wad answer her, "Nay, Jenny, nay."
But the hardest of stanes aye maun yield to the stroke,
As the constant drap drapping 'll wear out the rock.
Sae as cauld winter's nicht when he'd come frae the meeting,
And Jenny began wi' her fleeching and greeting,
He rose frae his seat in the deepest vexation,
Saying, "Weel, weel, at last I shall mak' ye a Mason;
Gae bar ilka door, and mak' a' thing fu' ticht,
For awfu's the gait ye maun travel this nicht,
'Mid rapping and chapping, 'mid darkness and gloom,
And a' sorts of horrors on this side the tomb.
Sae mak up ye'r mind e'er I tak ye awa far,
Daur ye gang through the secret?" quo' Jenny "I daur."
"But," quo' the guidman, "I had almost forgot,
Whate'er shall we dae for want o' a goat?
Gae bring the big stool frae the ben ingle neuk,
And bring me the poker, sand glass, and Buik;
Syne tak ye your seat wi' your een steckit ticht,
And ne'er speak a word while I screw doon the licht.
Noo, tak ye this sand glass, an emblem of death,
And ower the guid Book swear a terrible aith,
That ye'll never reveal what this nicht ye may hear,
Nor at yer guidman ony mair questions speir,
But wi' Masons and Masonry leave me alane;"
To whilk she responded wi' solemn "Amen."
"Noo, tak ye the poker, come, ne'er think to fret," Quo' Jenny, "My faith, but ye have made it richt het,
The goodness be wi' us, but this is nae fun,"
But he stampit his fit like the crack o' a gun.
"I daur ye to whisper, far less thus to cry,"
To whilk a sair sich was the only reply;
Syne he bent ower her shoulder fu' solemn and queer,
While Jenny sat gunking and tremlin' wi' fear,
And he whispered fu' low, sae that nae ane micht hear,
"Will ye promise again nae mair questions to speir?
But can ye keep secret? speak low in reply;"
Quo' Jenny "I can;" then quo' Tam, "So can I!"
And frae that day till this he can gang to the meeting,
Without either fleeching or flyting or greeting.

At the Jerusalem Chapter, No. 185, Comp. Nathan Moss M.E.Z. was presented with an elegant P.Z.'s jewel, as an acknowledgment of the high esteem in which he is held by the Companions, and in token of their appreciation of the services rendered by him during his year of office.

Fawcett Skelton J.W. 146, C. A. Pontefract 337, G. W. Dyson 348, W. Crankshaw W.M. 348, Thomas Higson P.M. 348, J. Lee Wood S.W. 350, F. H. Cheesewright 907, John Marsden 381, Peter Lowe 381, and F. M. Bentley, Mus. Doc., Org. 37. Lodge having been opened in the first degree, the minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed; it forthwith proceeded to the second degree, when the W.M. elect—Bro. Robert Latham—was presented by Bro. Job H. Greenhalgh P.M. to a Board of Installed Masters, under the presidency of Bro. G. P. Brockbank W.M. of the Anchor and Hope Lodge, No. 37, and Senior Past Master of this Lodge, and duly obligated as regards the government of the Lodge, the St. George's Lodge choir singing the anthem, "I will lift up mine eyes," by Whitfield, and on saluting they also chanted "Keep thy tongue from evil, and thy lips that they speak no guile." The Lodge having been opened in the third degree, Bro. Latham was duly installed as Worshipful Master by Bro. Brockbank, the usual proclamation made by Bro. N. Nicholson, and saluted in ancient form by the brethren, under the direction of Bro. J. W. Taylor Past Provincial Grand Organist, Master of Ceremonies. The Auditors presented the balance sheet of the Treasurer, which they certified as correct, and thereupon Bro. Ferguson was re-elected Treasurer for the ensuing year. Bro. Roiley was re-elected Tyler. The following brethren were appointed by the W.M. as his Officers for the ensuing year, and they, along with the Treasurer and Tyler, were duly invested with the collar and jewel of their respective offices, the usual explanation of the duties being rendered by Bro. Nicholson:—Bros. John Barrett (Chairman of the Board of Guardians, Bolton Union) S.W., E. G. Harwood (Mayor of Bolton) J.W., N. Nicholson P.M. Secretary, A. Cosgrave S.D., T. B. Tong J.D., J. W. Taylor P.M. M.C., E. Smith Organist, W. E. Bardsley I.G., Derham and Naylor Stewards. The customary charges to the W.M., Wardens, and Brethren were delivered by Bro. Brockbank. Anthem—"Send out thy Light," Gounod. A gentleman was proposed for initiation. Bro. Brockbank announced that the W.M. had given him the necessary sum to qualify as a Life Governor for the Boys' School, and also for the Girls' School; also to serve as Steward for those Charities at the forthcoming Festivals. The announcement created the liveliest feeling of satisfaction amongst the brethren present. It was also stated that the Provincial Grand Master, Colonel Starkie, intended to lay the foundation stone of a new church, adjoining his estates at Tong Moor, near Bolton, in the month of May, and that a Masonic ceremony was contemplated for the occasion. The brethren expressed their desire to give support to the Prov. Grand Master at that time, and to make a good muster to meet him. A portion of the Ancient Rules and Charges having been read by the Senior Warden, the Lodge was closed in form, and with prayer, at six o'clock.

ANNUAL SUPPER OF THE DALHOUSIE LODGE OF INSTRUCTION, No. 860.

THE brethren of this Lodge of Instruction held their annual supper on Friday, 20th instant, at Bro. Smyth's, Sisters' Tavern, Pownall-road, Dalston, under the presidedcy of the worthy Preceptor, Bro. Wallington, who was supported by Bros. Christian and Clark as S.W. and J.W., while among the other brethren present were Bros. Barker (the W.M. of the mother Lodge), Barham, Carr, Smyth, Young, Brasted, &c. After the brethren had enjoyed the good things provided by the worthy host, Bro. Wallington proceeded to give the few toasts customary on such occasions. The first—Her Majesty the Queen and the Craft—was proposed in a few well-chosen words, and heartily acknowledged. "Prosperity to the Lodge of Instruction" followed. Bro. Wallington, in proposing it, said the Lodge had had a varied and chequered career, like most Lodges of Instruction; but on the average it would compare well with any other, no matter where they were situated. Lately, the attendances had somewhat fallen off, but he heard that the Dalhousie was not alone in that respect. Of one thing they could boast—they had a large number of old friends, who came week by week to keep up the work of the Lodge, and he, as Preceptor, felt some amount of honour was done him by their so doing. He was very pleased to continue in the office of Preceptor of the Lodge, and hoped he might live for many years to be present at the weekly meetings of the Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction. Many brethren who had recently passed the chair of their Lodge, as well as many present Wardens, had obtained their knowledge of the Ritual in the Dalhousie Lodge. It was very gratifying to find so many of the pupils going through the work to the satisfaction of their respective Lodges. He was quite sure that those who attended week by week enjoyed the meetings as much as he did, and hoped with him that the Lodge might long continue in the path of prosperity, the number of its members increasing week by week. Brother Carr, the Secretary, acknowledged the toast. No one could wish the Lodge more success than he did. Although the attendances during the past twelve months had not been quite so good as in previous years, they were yet able to boast of 615 attendances during the year, giving an average of over 12 for each of the fifty nights on which meetings had been held. The fact that they had held meetings on fifty of the fifty-two Tuesdays in the year was something for them to be proud of. In conclusion, he could but hope that all the old members would rally round the Lodge, and one and all endeavour to secure their friends as members. They could not do better than attend the Dalhousie. The Fifteen Sections had been worked once during the past year, on which occasion Bro. Musto occupied the chair, and it was hoped that he would again undertake the task ere long, when doubtless there would be a good muster of brethren to support him. The President next proposed the health of the Worshipful Master of the Mother Lodge, who was that night present as a guest. Brother Barker was one who they were all pleased to see. It had been the custom for many years past for the Worshipful Master of the Mother Lodge to preside at the Instruction supper, but, in consequence of some little dissatisfaction having been expressed by some of the members, who seemed to look upon the W.M. as a stranger, Brother Barker had been informed of the state of affairs and agreed the proper thing to do was to make an alteration; accordingly, they that night had their Preceptor in the chair, and the Worshipful Master of the Mother Lodge as a guest. Brother Barker had doubtless met many of those present at one or other of the Lodges of Instruction they were in the habit of attending. Personally he (Bro. Wallington) could refer to him as one of his best pupils, one of whom he was very proud. He had but recently been installed as Master and gave every promise of a successful presidency. Brother Barker tendered his thanks for the cordial reception accorded him. He considered he had virtually been born in the Dalhousie Lodge of Instruction. It was there that he had learned the ritual of Freemasonry, and to it and the careful tuition of Brother Wallington he was indebted for what he knew. His ability to perform the duties required of him now that he was Worshipful Master of his Lodge was entirely owing to the care their Preceptor had taken in teaching him the several points. Brother Christian Senior Warden gave the toast of the health of the Preceptor of the Lodge, the President of the evening. A better friend or Freemason, or a more worthy Preceptor, could not be found. Many of those around the table owed all they knew in Freemasonry to him, and he therefore felt no further comments were necessary. He would conclude by wishing Bro. Wallington long life and good health. Bro. Wallington could but assure the brethren that he was delighted to be present that evening and preside over so large a gathering of the Lodge. He recognised many old faces, and thanked them for their attendance; he could but feel gratified to see around him several new faces; he hoped all would continue their support. The health of Bro. Carr, Secretary of the Lodge, was next given, Bro. Wallington referring to the great interest he took in the Lodge, and thanking him, on behalf of the members, for his services in the past. Bro. Carr having replied, the toasts of the Senior and Junior Wardens, the Press, the Organist, the Host, &c. were given, and each was responded to. The proceedings were interspersed with songs and recitations; a most enjoyable meeting being brought to a conclusion just before midnight.

Obituary.

CAPTAIN JOHN WORDSWORTH.

IT is with extreme regret that we announce the death of Brother Captain John Wordsworth, Past Grand Steward, Past Provincial Grand Junior Warden West Yorkshire, and Provincial Grand Mark Master Mason of West Yorkshire, which sad event occurred on Friday, 20th instant, at his residence, Blenheim House, Manningham, Bradford. Up to within the last year or two Captain Wordsworth was a constant attendant at the Elections for the Masonic Institutions, and was as well known at these meetings as any of the London brethren. He was a consistent supporter of the Charities, and an earnest worker. A full account of his Masonic career will be found in the Second Series of our Masonic Portraits, wherein he is designated "A Grand Steward."

A meeting of the North London Chapter of Improvememt was held at the Canonbury Tavern, St. Mary's-road, Islington, on Thursday, 19th inst. Comps. Dean Prov. Grand Registrar occupied the chair of Z., Gregory H., R. Bird (member of the Royal Geographical Society) J., Hunter S.N., Hubbard P.S. The ceremony was conducted throughout in an admirable manner. Comp. Faulckner, of the Era Chapter, joined this Chapter of Improvement, and Captain A. Nicols was present as a visitor. This Chapter of Improvement is rapidly progressing, and is turning out some first class workers, who will do honour in the future to Royal Arch Masonry.

MARK MASONRY.

HENNIKER LODGE, No. 315.

THIS Lodge was consecrated on Saturday last, the 21st inst., at the Hall of Grand Mark Lodge, Red Lion-square. The Right Hon. Lord Henniker, Most Worshipful Grand Master of the degree, conducted the ceremony; he was supported by Bros. Captain N. G. Philips, Colonel Shadwell H. Clerke, Frank Richardson, Philbrick, Q.C., and several others. His Lordship, in opening the proceedings, reminded the brethren of the great interest he took in the Order; he was pleased to give his sanction to the Lodge being named after him. He added his hope that when his term of office had expired, his name would be handed down as one amongst the Past Grand Masters whose interest in the Mark Degree had not been the least. Brother Frederick Binckes, the Grand Mark Secretary, afterwards installed Brother Edgar Bowyer as the Worshipful Master of the Lodge. Lord Henniker and the Officers who assisted at the consecration were elected honorary members of the Lodge, and Brother Bowyer undertook a Stewardship on behalf of the Lodge for the next Festival of the Mark Benevolent Fund.

A new Chapter of Instruction has recently been established, entitled the Camden, and the members meet at the "Boston," Junction Road, Holloway, on Wednesday evenings, at half-past eight. Comp. J. D. Collier P.M. P.Z. is the Preceptor, and Comp. H. Slyman H. is the Scribe E.

On Monday afternoon Lord Wolseley was advanced to the degree of a Mark Master Mason at an emergency meeting of the Old Kent (Time Immemorial) Lodge of Mark Master Masons, 8A Red Lion-square. The brethren present on the occasion were Bros. the Rt. Hon. Lord Henniker M.W.G.M., Sir Norman Pringle, Bart., James Moon P.M. as W.M., J. L. Mather S.W., John Ramsey J.W., Thos. Keen M.O., Henry Venn P.M. as S.O., Charles E. Soppet J.O., E. C. Mather P.M. Treasurer, J. E. Pinder R. of M., D. M. Dewar Past Master Secretary, W. H. Gimingham Senior Deacon, R. Leman Junior Deacon, J. E. Anderson I.G., E. M. Money Director of Ceremonies, George Graveley Steward, Rawles Tyler; P.M.'s Frederick Binckes, H. Dicketts, William Roebuck. Bros. Frederick Davidson, G. H. Hunter, C. E. Ferry, R. H. Halford, F. J. Tyler, A. J. H. Goldney, E. F. Storr, Hatch, C. F. Matier, George Ward Verry, Gilles, Gilliam, James Terry, Edgar Bowyer, Kingston, John Webb, T. C. Walls, and E. Mills. Lodge was opened, and a ballot was taken for Bro. General Lord Wolseley, of Cairo, as a candidate for advancement. Lord Wolseley was proposed by Lord Henniker and seconded by Bro. Dewar. The ballot having proved unanimous, Bro. Lord Wolseley was regularly advanced. A ballot was taken for the Hon. A. H. Henniker, Royal Arch Chapter, No. 33, I.C., as a joining member; this candidate was proposed by the M.W. Grand Master, and seconded by Bro. Dewar. The result was unanimously in his favour. Bro. Dewar proposed a cordial and hearty vote of thanks to the M.W. Grand Master for honouring the Old Kent Lodge with his presence. This was carried by acclamation, and his lordship was unanimously elected an honorary member of this ancient Lodge. Bro. Binckes proposed a vote of thanks to Bro. General Lord Wolseley, for honouring the Old Kent by becoming a member, to which his Lordship replied. The Lodge was then closed in ancient form.

The First annual Ball of the Montefiore Cyclists' Club will be held on the 16th of May, at St. James's Hall, Piccadilly, under the patronage of Bro. Leopold De Rothschild, Arthur Cohen, Q.C., M.P., Israel Abrahams F.R.S. F.R.G.S. P.M. 188, and an efficient body of Stewards. Lady's tickets 2s 6d; Gentlemen's 3s 6d; double tickets 5s; may be obtained from Miss E. P. Valentine, 9 Huntley-street, W.C., Hon. Sec., S.J. Weingott jun., 72 Fleet-street, E.C., H. T. Marks Enfield-road, N., and I. A. Levy, Resident Sec., 32 Tavistock-place, W.C. It is anticipated there will be a numerous attendance of the members and their friends.

"HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—Outward infirmities.—Before the discovery of these remedies, many cases of sores, ulcers, &c., were pronounced to be hopelessly incurable, because the treatment pursued tended to destroy the strength it was incompetent to preserve, and to exasperate the symptoms it was inadequate to remove. Holloway's Pills exert the most wholesome powers over the unhealthy flesh and skin, without debarring the patient from fresh air and exercise, and thus the constitutional vigour is husbanded, while the most malignant ulcers, abscesses, and skin diseases are in process of cure. Both Ointment and Pills make the blood richer and purer, instead of permitting it to fall into that poor and watery state so fatal to many labouring under chronic ulcerations.

The annual meeting of the Provincial Grand Mark Lodge of Leicester, Northampton, and Derby will be held on the 8th of May, at Freemasons' Hall, Northampton, under the banner of the Simon de St. Liz Lodge, No. 245, when the Provincial Grand Master will be installed and the Deputy Provincial Grand Master, and the rest of the Provincial Grand Officers appointed.

THE LONDON COTTAGE MISSION HALL, Salmon's Lane, Limehouse, was filled on Wednesday evening with an eager crowd of children, to whom a substantial tea of bread and butter, cake, &c., was given; after which they were entertained with dissolving views, songs, and recitations. Many of these were sung and delivered by the children themselves, and right cleverly done too. One could not help being struck by the change in the little folks; their ragged clothes showed that needle and thread had been at work, and their faces shone again with a liberal supply of soap and water—the result of the teaching their mothers had received at the Mothers' Meetings of the Mission, at which Miss Napton, the Lady Superintendent's lessons of cleanliness and thrift had evidently taken effect. Funds did not allow of the usual Irish stew dinner being given on Wednesday, hence the "tea" but it is earnestly hoped that sufficient will be received in contributions before next week to enable these poor little people to have at least one more Irish stew dinner ere the season is over. Donations and subscriptions will be gladly received, either by Miss Napton, 304 Burdett-road Limehouse, E., or by the Director of the Mission, Mr Walter Austin, 44 Finsbury Pavement, E.C.

FREEMAN'S CHLORODYNE.

The Original and only true.

HUNDREDS of Medical Practitioners testify to its marvellous efficacy in immediately relieving and rapidly curing Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Neuralgia, Spasms, Colic, Whooping Cough, and all Nerve Pains. It acts like a charm in Diarrhœa, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery. It rapidly relieves pain, from whatever cause, soothes and strengthens the system under exhausting diseases, and gives quiet and refreshing sleep.

Lord Chancellor Selborne, Lord Justice James, Lord Justice Mellish decided in favour of FREEMAN'S ORIGINAL CHLORODYNE, and against Brown and Davenport, compelling them to pay all costs in the suits. See Times of July 24th, 1873. Bottles 1s 1½d, 2s 9d, 4s 6d, 11s, and 20s. Sold by all Chemists.

TESTIMONIALS.—Head Quarter Staff, Cabul, May 31st, 1880. Mr. R. Freeman, Dear Sir,—It is with much pleasure I am able to state that your Chlorodyne has been of special service to me in alleviating the wearisome spasms of Asthma, which is here existent in an aggravated form. Many of my patients now come and beg me to give them that medicine which always relieves them, and which I need hardly say is your Chlorodyne. Yours faithfully, CHARLES W. OWEN, L.R.C.P. Lon., M.R.C.S. Eng., the Divisional Head Quarter Staff and Civil Surgeon, Cabul.

The Times, August 13th, 1877. From our own Correspondent with the Russian Army. Okoum, July 25th, 1877. The want of sanitary arrangements in the Russian Camp was dreadful, and had we remained there a few weeks longer, dysentery and typhoid fever would have played more havoc in our ranks than the bombs of the Turks. I myself acquired an unenviable reputation as a doctor, owing to my being provided with a small bottle of CHLORODYNE, with which I effected miraculous cures.

SUPREME GRAND CHAPTER OF ROYAL ARCH MASONS.

A QUARTERLY Convocation of the Supreme Grand Chapter will be held at Freemasons' Hall, London, on Wednesday, the 2nd of May next, at six o'clock in the evening.

The Regulations for the Government of the Supreme Grand Chapter during the time of public business to be read.

The Minutes of the last Quarterly Convocation to be read for confirmation.

Installation of Principals, and appointment and investiture of Officers for the ensuing year.

The report of the Committee of General Purposes (as follows)

Digitized by Google

will be submitted to the Supreme Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons of England.

The Committee of General Purposes beg to report that they have examined the accounts from the 17th January to the 17th April 1883, both inclusive, which they find to be as follows:—

Balance Grand Chapter - -	681	0	7	Disbursements during the quarter -	223	19	11
„ Unappropriated Account -	232	14	5	Balance - -	912	14	5
Subsequent Receipts -	432	6	8	„ in Unappropriated Account -	209	7	4
	£1,346	1	8		£1,346	1	8

which balances are in the Bank of England, Western Branch.

The Committee have likewise to report that they have received the following Petitions:—

1st. From Companions John Derby Allcroft as Z., the Rev. Philip Honoré Ernest Brette as H., Alfred Brookman as J., and ten others for a Chapter to be attached to the Aldersgate Lodge, No. 1657, London, to be called The Aldersgate Chapter, and to meet at the Castle and Falcon Hotel, Aldersgate Street, in the City of London.

2nd. From Companions Frederick Howell as Z., Edwin Farley as H., James Gladwell as J., and seven others for a Chapter to be attached to the Chiltern Lodge, No. 1470, Dunstable, to be called The Chiltern Chapter, and to meet at the Sugar Loaf Hotel, Dunstable, Bedfordshire.

3rd. From Companions Walter Goddard Rogers as Z., William Robert Woodman, M.D., as H., Mark Farrant as J., and six others for a Chapter to be attached to the Lodge of Union, No. 444, Starcross, to be called The Chapter of Union, and to meet at the Courtenay Arms Hotel, Starcross, in the County of Devon.

4th. From Companions the Rev. Hayman Alfred James Cummings as Z., the Rev. Robert Jamblin as H., Henry Taff as J., and ten others for a Chapter to be attached to the Lullingstone Lodge, No. 1837, Farningham, to be called The Lullingstone Chapter, and to meet at the Lullingstone Masonic Hall, Hawley, in the County of Kent.

5th. From Companions Arthur Edwin Taylor as Z., William Howard Paddle as H., George William Saul as J., and six others for a Chapter to be attached to the Ewell Lodge, No. 1851, Kingston, to be called The Ewell Chapter, and to meet at the Sun Hotel, Kingston, in the County of Surrey.

The foregoing Petitions being in all respects regular, the Committee recommend that the prayers thereof be respectively granted.

The Committee have further to report that they have received a Memorial from the Companions of the Cana Chapter, No. 116, Colne, in the Eastern Division of Lancashire, praying for Charter authorizing them to wear a Centenary Jewel, in accordance with the resolution passed by the Supreme Grand Chapter on the 1st February 1882.

This Memorial being in form and the Chapter having proved an uninterrupted existence of one hundred years, the Committe recommend that the prayer thereof be granted.

The Committee have also to report that they have recently had before them several cases, where through neglect of the Law as contained in Article 67, page 22 of the Royal Arch Regulations (Edition 1879), Candidates have been exalted at a less period than twelve calendar months from the date of becoming Master Masons—one case in particular having occurred 20 years ago, though having only now come to light. The Committee have in each case admonished the Chapters to be more observant of the Law, in the future, and have ordered the Candidates, in question, to be re-obligated. They now call attention to this serious irregularity with a view to greater care being taken in future, that the "satisfactory proof" required by the above quoted regulation be previously obtained in every instance.

(Signed) JOHN CREATON, P.G.Pr. Soj.
Past Grand Treasurer,
President.

ELECTION OF THE COMMITTEE OF GENERAL PURPOSES FOR THE ENSUING TWELVE MONTHS.

The Revised Book of Constitutions; Critically Considered, and Compared with the Old Edition. London: Simpkin, Marshall & Co., 4 Stationers' Hall Court, E.C. Sent on receipt of stamps. One Shilling, by W. W. Morgan, Freemason's Chronicle Office, Belvidere Works, Hermes Hill, Pentonville, London, N.—(ADVT).

AN AFRICAN BROTHERHOOD.—The Purrah is a strong brotherhood, in Africa, in the country back of Sierra Leone. Its definite object has not been promulgated. The ceremonies are sealed to the uninitiated, and are only discovered to be in progress by the fearful howls and shrieks heard from the the depths of the forest-recesses at midnight, and by occasional flashes of torches. When they are in progress the curious profane understands that death would follow intrusion. Whole nations own the power of the Purrah, and tremble at the mere name. When its members visit a village, which is always in the hours of darkness, the inhabitants hide themselves, in order to escape death or slavery. Another secret Order is entitled the Samo, similar in principle. Another, styled the Bundoo, admits females to membership, or is perhaps exclusively a sisterhood. Those of the sex who are initiated are sold into bondage if they contravene its laws or disobey the chief officer, called the Bundoo woman, whose chief business it is to detect and punish witchcraft.—Masonic Review.

The Freemasons' Calendar and Directory for the Province of Leicestershire and Rutland, 1883. Eleventh year of publication. Compiled by Bro. Samuel S. Partridge P.M. P.Z. P.P.S.G.W. Provincial Grand Secretary.

The Freemasons' Calendar and Directory for the Province of Oxfordshire and Neighbourhood, 1883. Oxford: Bro. W. B. Bowden, 59 High-street.

The Freemasons' Calendar and Directory for the Province of Gloucester, 1883. Compiled by Brother R. Vassar Smith. Gloucester: Printed by John Bellows, 1883.

Official Directory for the Provincial Grand Lodge of Cornwall. Twelfth year of Publication. With an Appendix, containing a Masonic Sermon, by the Rev. Philip H. Newnham, M.A., P.P.G. Chaplain of Cornwall, &c. Edited by Brother William James Hughan, Past Senior Grand Deacon of England, &c. 1883.

WE are glad to see the Provinces are bestirring themselves in the matter of Calendars, and that each new year sees additions to, or improvements in, the contents of previous issues. The four before us are admirable specimens of the Provincial Calendar. They are well arranged, well printed, and well got up. Great pains appears to have been bestowed on each of them. In each there is a table of contents, so that no difficulty will be experienced in seeking for information that may be required in reference to any Masonic body belonging to the district. Each contains a list of the Grand Officers of England and the Grand Officers of the Provinces as well as of the Officers and Past Masters, or Principals as the case may be, of Lodges, Chapters, &c. The Leicestershire and Rutland Calendar also gives a list of the Lodges, Chapters, &c. in the adjoining Provinces, arranged alphabetically as regards the towns in which they meet, and particulars of the three great central Masonic Charities and the Leicestershire and Rutland Masonic Association, its rules, a list of members, and a tabular statement showing its voting strength for the central Institutions. The Oxfordshire Calendar contains, in addition to its local information as to Lodges, &c., particulars respecting the Province of Berks and Bucks, the Mark Provinces of Berks and Oxon and Bucks, and Lodges, like the Westminster and Keystone, the Isaac Newton, University, &c. which have some association with the Apollo University Lodge. It likewise furnishes particulars as to the three great Charities and the Mark Benevolent Fund. The Gloucestershire Calendar adds particulars as to the Lodges in the Provinces of Bristol, Berkshire, Herefordshire, Monmouth, Oxfordshire, Somersetshire, Warwickshire, Wiltshire, and Worcestershire, as well as respecting the Masonic Charities, and the Masonic Charity Association of Gloucestershire, its rules, and constituent members. With respect to the Calendar compiled by Bro. Hughan, it goes almost without saying that great care has been exercised in its production. Bro. Hughan never does anything by halves. The present issue contains the Revised Rules for the Management and Regulation of the Cornwall Annuity and Benevolent Fund, and by way of Appendix an excellent Sermon, preached in the Prov. Cathedral, Truro, before the Right Hon. the Earl of Mount Edgcumbe, R.W. Prov. G. Master and the Officers and members of Prov. G. Lodge; in addition to many other interesting items. We congratulate the editors and publishers of these useful works of reference on the able manner in which they have fulfilled their respective duties.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR.

CALPE PRECEPTORY, GIBRALTAR.

THE regular Convocation of the above Preceptory was held on Saturday, 14th April, at the Masonic Hall, Horse Barrack-lane. Amongst those present Sir Knights Moore-Keys E.P., Cottrell P.E.P. Treasurer, Sir Henry Burford Burford-Hancock Acting Prelate, Thomas Haynes P.E.P. Acting Constable, Trenery, Marshal, Langdon Sub Marshal, Cullato Captain of the Lines, Sir Knights Gilbard Prov. Sub Prior, and Ashton Registrar, were unable to attend, owing to severe indisposition. There were also present Sir Knights Henry P.E.P., Dobranich, J. H. Bryant, and several Visitors. The minutes of the last regular Convocation having been read and confirmed, the ceremony of installing the Eminent Preceptor Elect for the ensuing year (Sir Knight Sir Henry Burford Burford-Hancock) by Sir Knight C. W. Moore-Keys E.P. the Installing Officer, was proceeded with, the work being extremely well and impressively performed. The E.P. then appointed and invested his Officers, as follow:—Sir Knights Moore-Keys P.E.P. Prelate, Gilbard P.S.P. Constable, Langdon Marshal, Culatto Sub Marshal, Cottrell P.E.P. Treasurer, Ashton P.E.P. Registrar, Haynes P.E.P. Herald, Dobranich Almoner, Bryant Captain of the Lines, and Peterkin (serving brother) Equerry without. The Preceptory was then closed, and the Sir Knights retired for a few moments, while the rooms were re-arranged and prepared for the Knights of Malta. On resuming business, Sir Knight J. H. Bryant received this degree in due form, and the ceremony of installation took place, when our esteemed Sir Knight Sir Henry Burford Burford-Hancock was duly installed, and received the O.B. of E.P. Officers for the ensuing year were appointed and invested; the Priory was then closed in the usual manner, with solemn prayer. The entire evening proved to be a real Masonic treat, and augurs well for the future of this old-established and prosperous Preceptory.

INSTALLATION MEETINGS, &c.

GROVE LODGE, No. 410.

THE first regular meeting of this Lodge was held at the Sun Hotel, Kingston-on-Thames, on the 21st instant. Present—Bros. C. Greenwood jun. Provincial Grand Secretary P.P.G. Registrar W.M., H. J. P. Dumas P.G.D. P.M. acting S.W., Lister J.W., Charles Greenwood P.G.S.B. Prov. G.S.W. P.M. Treas., Jepps P.M. S.D., T. Moreton J.D., and others. Lodge was opened, and the minutes confirmed. Brother Lister was elected Worshipful Master for the ensuing year. Lodge was then opened in the second and third degrees, and Brother T. Eustace Smith was raised to the sublime degree of Master Mason, the ceremony being ably performed by the W.M. and his Officers. Upon the Lodge being resumed to the first degree, the Worshipful Master proposed Dr. Francis Ferratia Glanville as an initiate, and gave notice that the candidate would be ballotted for, and, if approved, initiated at the next meeting. The Worshipful Master then addressed the brethren, saying it was his painful duty to announce that since the last meeting, a dear and most esteemed brother had been summoned from amongst them. Brother Alfred Greenland jun., after a comparatively short illness, and at the early age of 26, had joined those who had gone before, and who constituted the Grand Lodge above. To him (the W.M.) their departed brother was not only a brother in Masonry, but a bosom friend and old schoolmate, so that the brethren could judge for themselves how impossible it was to express the deep grief with which he made this sad announcement. Brother Greenland had, during his short sojourn amongst them, shewn himself a zealous and efficient worker, he had filled the post of Inner Guard with credit, and had it pleased the Great Architect of the Universe to spare him, he would doubtless have continued a bright ornament to the Craft and to the society in which he moved. He had left behind him, not only brother Masons, but sorrowing parents and relations who mourned the irreparable loss of a dutiful son and an affectionate brother. By them some mark of the appreciation in which he was held by the members of the Lodge would be regarded as a graceful tribute of respect. The W.M. concluded by proposing that the Secretary should be requested to write to the father of their late brother, expressing the deep grief of the members of the Grove Lodge at the sad news of his son's death, and offering their sympathy and condolence. This was duly seconded by Brother Thurston, and carried unanimously. Lodge was then closed, and the meeting adjourned until 19th prox. The brethren subsequently partook of a banquet in the Hotel, which was served in Brother Bond's best style, and gave the utmost satisfaction to all present.

LODGE OF UNION, No. 414.

CENTENARY OF FREEMASONRY IN READING, AND JUBILEE OF THE LODGE.

ON Tuesday, 17th April, a regular meeting was held at the Masonic Hall, Reading, when a brilliant assemblage of the members of the two Reading Lodges, with visitors from various parts of the Province, attended to do honour to this special occasion. The Officers consisted of Bros. Ferguson W.M., Mount I.P.M. and Treasurer, Wheeler S.W., Withers J.W., Rev. N. T. Garry Chaplain, Parry Secretary, Witherington S.D., Blackwell J.D., Martin M.C., Tirbut Organist, Butler I.G., Webb Steward, Hemmings Tyler; Past Masters Stephens, Blowers, Hounslow, Bradley, Oades, Morris, Long 663; also Bros. Stubington, Bracher, Higgs, Sydenham, Sherwood, Rayner, Albury, Tubbs, Hawkes, George Miller, Wellman. Visitors—Bros. Ivey P.M. and Sec. 1101, Pulley P.M. 340 and 1101, Weatherhead 1101, Rev. R. P. Bent P. Grand Chaplain of England I.P.M. Herschel Lodge 1894, Petty 414, Whitfield 1101, Tegg 1101, Sparrow 1101, Slaughter 1101, Hurley P.M. 1101, Coates 1101, Creed 1101, Ferguson P.M. 1101, Welsh P.M. 1101, Bulley P.M. 414 Hon. Member 1101, Bennett 1101, Dowsett W.M. 1101, Blackwell I.P.M. 1101, Greenaway 1101, Margrett P.M. 1101, Ridley S.W. 1101, Ravensoroft J.D. 1101, Horne I.P.M. 1887, Fisher M.C. 1887, &c. Lodge was opened, and the minutes of last regular Lodge and Lodge of Emergency were read and confirmed. The ballot was taken for Mr. Louis de L. Simonds, and for Mr. Arthur Simonds, both of whom were approved and proposed for initiation. The ballot was also taken for Mr. Milton Welling, who was approved. Messrs. L. de L. and Arthur Simonds were admitted and initiated into the mysteries and privileges of ancient Freemasonry. The ceremony was admirably performed by the W.M.; the musical part, under the direction of Bro. Tirbut, considerably added to the effect; the vocal parts being taken by Bros. Hounslow, Bradley, and Martin. The charge of the first degree was delivered by the I.P.M. Bro. Mount, with his usual correctness and precision. At the conclusion of the ceremonies the W.M. read a most interesting account of the introduction of Freemasonry into Reading in the year 1783, and of its revival in 1833, by the warrant of the Lodge of Union. Since which time there had been a gradual progress of numbers and influence, till two full blown Lodges have appeared, both now in the full tide of prosperity. Allusion was also made to the great necessity of enlarging the reception rooms; this will shortly take place, and add materially to the comfort and convenience of the members and their friends. After the customary ceremonies Lodge was closed according to ancient form, and the brethren adjourned for refreshment to the Great Western Hotel, where an excellent supper was provided by Bro. Flanagan, whose catering invariably gives unqualified satisfaction. Between sixty and seventy Craftsmen sat down; the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were given, and responded to. That of the Initiates met with a cordial reception, and was appropriately responded to by the Brothers Simonds. Bro. R. Dowsett proposed, in a feeling speech, the health of the W.M., who suitably returned thanks, and alluded to the loss of two members of the Grey Friars Lodge, one of whom left a widow and three children in destitute circumstances. He thought this a good opportunity to pass the broken column round for their relief. This resulted in the sum of five pounds being contributed, which sum was at once forwarded to the widow. During the evening some excellent singing was contributed by the brethren, particularly we may mention the song by Bro. W. G. Millar, who gave "Tom Bowling" in a masterly style. After spending a very pleasant evening the brethren separated at an early hour.

New Concord Lodge of Instruction, No. 813.—The weekly meeting of this successful Lodge of Instruction was held on Wednesday last, at the Jolly Farmers' Tavern, Southgate-road, the chair being occupied by Bro. Western, who was supported by Bros. Ashton S.W., Marks J.W., P.M. Cusworth Preceptor, F. Perl Sec., Weeden S.D., Pullen J.D., Chubb I.G.; also Bros. W. Potter, P.M. Haslip, Bolton, Allsopp, Gadsby, Read, James, Manger, Lone, Ockelford, Dewersby, and others. The customary formalities having been observed in opening the Lodge, the ceremony of initiation was proceeded with, Bro. Lone acting as candidate. Bros. Allsopp and Gadsby then proved themselves qualified to be passed, but were not entrusted, they not having gone beyond the degree of E. Apprentice. After the Lodge had been called off and on, the W.M. rose, and Bros. Allsopp, Gadsby, Read, and James were unanimously elected members. Bro. Ashton was elected to fill the position of W.M. at the ensuing meeting, and the brethren then dispersed, after having spent a pleasant and instructive evening. Brethren are cordially invited to attend this Lodge, and qualify themselves for any position in their parent Lodge.

STOCKWELL LODGE, No. 1339.

THE installation meeting of the above Lodge was held on the 17th inst., at the Masonic Hall, Camberwell, when a large concourse of members and visitors was present. The W.M. had wisely called a previous Lodge of Emergency, to initiate, pass, and raise, so that nothing was left but the ceremony of installation, one always interesting, and which often sacrifices its solemnity by following or preceding other long ceremonies on the same evening. Lodge was opened at five p.m. punctually, when there were present:—Bros. Sawyer P.M. as W.M. (the W.M. Bro. Cocks being absent through illness), W. F. Masters S.W. W.M. elect, McKay J.W., Templeman S.D., Salmon J.D., Moss I.G.; P.M.'s Pain, Klenck, Bassett, Frances P.P.G.D. Secretary; also Bros. C. L. Bowsell, London, Pollard, W. J. Pain, Horsey, Rogers, Woodrow, Hersee, Dresser, Myers, Fletcher, Harvey, J. R. Parkinson (Initiate). Among the Visitors were Bros. Baron De Ferrieres, M.P., P.G.S., Smallpeice W.M. 960, E. Ayling W.M. 975, Sherring 1673, Hollington P.M. 933, Woods P.M. 145, Buck 153 P.G.S.W. Essex, Martin P.M. 453, De Lacey 1706 P.P.G.D. Essex, Green P.M. 27, F. Pinnett 1686, Mills 548, Youlden P.M. 1658 P.P.G.D. Surrey, Schartau 1549, Ball P.M. 145, Coote 1381. After the Lodge had been opened, the minutes read, and a very satisfactory audit report passed, the chair was taken by Bro. Frances Secretary. Bro. Masters having been presented, was duly installed into the chair of K.S., the ceremony being performed in Bro. Frances's usual able and impressive manner. Bro. Masters appointed and invested his Officers as follow:—Bros. McKay S.W., Templeman J.W., Hammerton P.M. (by proxy) Treasurer, Frances P.M. Secretary, J. Salmon S.D., Moss J.D., H. J. Pain I.G. The appointments gave the utmost satisfaction to the members of the Lodge, there being but one course pursued in this Lodge from its foundation, viz., giving the members rank according to seniority, that is, on proof of their efficiency. Bro. Masters, following the custom, presented the Lodge with a handsome banner, and received a vote of thanks. After the closing, the brethren adjourned to banquet. The usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were given, the Worshipful Master being received with every token of appreciation, for Bro. Masters has made himself much respected by the Lodge. The Installing Master, Bro. Frances, was enthusiastically received, and in reply that Brother testified to the particular pleasure he had had that evening in placing one of his most honoured friends in the chair of the Lodge, whose name was known not only in the Order to which it was their privilege to belong, but outside it. In many an Institution formed for the amelioration of the miseries of their fellow creatures, in the lists of many a Charity, his name could be found. In all stations of life, from the palace to the hovel. A wise and good Providence had placed men who, unaffected by their surroundings, acted kindly and nobly to their fellow men, not in obedience to any educational teaching, but from the innate sense of kindness and beneficence within them; he was sure many there that evening could testify that Bro. Masters was deserving of all the honours they could bestow. Bro. Frances hoped the brethren would pardon this digression from the toast of his health, which he heartily thanked them for so cordially receiving. W. Baron de Ferrieres, in replying for the Visitors, complimented the Lodge on the excellency of its work, particularly on the ceremony of the evening, and thought the Lodge fortunate in possessing so able a Mason as Bro. Frances; while the home they met in, the splendid repast, and the hearty welcome, would be something to tell the Gloucester Masons. Some very beautiful singing between the toasts made the evening's entertainment still more enjoyable, the music being under the direction of Bro. De Lacey, who, with Bro. Schartau, and one or two lady singers, was much appreciated.

HALSEY LODGE, No. 1479.

THE installation meeting of this popular Lodge took place at the Town Hall, St. Albans, on Tuesday, 24th inst., when the members were honoured by a visit from the Provincial Grand Master R.W. Bro. T. F. Halsey, M.P. Lodge was opened at four o'clock, by Bro. C. W. Reynolds W.M. Past Prov. Grand Assist. Pursuivant, who was assisted by Bros. C. Miskin S.W., O. R. Ilatt J.W., Thomas R. Webster P.M. Treasurer, John Purrott P.M. Secretary, W. Masters P.M. 428 S.D., T. B. Nichols J.D., Thomas Kent M.C., Horace Slade I.G., G. Barnes Steward; Past Masters I. N. Edwards, Debenham, Marks, &c. Visitors—A. Atkins W.M. 478, W. G. Atkins P.M. 887, J. D. Collier P.M. 1866, W. F. Neave 188, G. R. Park 181, H. Campkin P.M. 403 P.P.G.S.D., W. P. Willson 403, S. Monckton White 199, George Young W.M. 1757, C. W. Allen W.M. 1385, J. G. Yolland I.P.M. 1385, J. Brittain J.W. 1385, W. Reynolds, Selwyn, Graham 1920, Amos T. Ewen S.W. 475, W. W. Morgan S.W. 211, &c. After the minutes of last meeting had been read and confirmed, Bro. George J. Nettleton was examined and entrusted; Lodge was then opened in the second, and Bro. Nettleton was passed to the degree of Fellow Craft. Bro. Christopher Miskin, one of the earliest initiates of the Lodge, was then presented as the W.M. elect, and Brother Reynolds commenced the duty of installing him into the chair of the Lodge. Bro. Miskin having given his assent to the ancient charges, was duly obligated. At this stage of the proceedings the Provincial Grand Master was announced, and was received with full honours. The ceremony was then proceeded with; a Board of Installed Masters was opened, and Brother Miskin was regularly placed in the chair for the ensuing twelve months. On the re-admission of the brethren below the degree of I.M., the W.M. was saluted, and the Officers were appointed and invested, as follow:—Bros. Ilatt S.W., Masters J.W., Webster P.M. Treasurer, Purrott P.M. Secretary, Wilcox Chaplain, Nichols S.D., Slade J.D., Deedes I.G., Gaff Org., Kent P.M. M.C., Barnes and Miles Stewards, Everett Tyler. Bro. Reynolds then gave the addresses in a most impressive manner. Indeed, the work of the day was excellently done, and Brother Reynolds was heartily congratulated on the zeal he had displayed. The report of the Audit Committee was next presented; this showed the Lodge to be in a sound financial position, and—taking into account the modest amount of the annual subscription—had a substantial balance in the hands of the Treasurer. The report was unanimously received and adopted. Bro. Webster P.M. and Treasurer was appointed Lodge representative to serve on the Provincial Audit Committee, and the sum of £2 2s was voted to the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, the same amount having already been voted this year to the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, and to the Benevolent Institution. A Past Master's jewel had been subscribed for by the members, to be presented to Bro. C. W. Reynolds on his vacating the chair. Bro. Miskin had now the pleasurable duty of placing it on his breast; he complimented Bro. Reynolds on the admirable way in which he had carried out his duties, and expressed a fervent hope that an improvement might take place in his health, which had not been so favourable during the past twelvemonths as Bro. Reynolds's friends could wish. It was the desire of all that the I.P.M. should have the opportunity of wearing the jewel, not only in this Lodge, but elsewhere, for many, many years to come. This compliment was briefly, but gracefully acknowledged. Bro. Reynolds said he had had every consideration shown him by the Lodge, and he fully appreciated the kindness of the brethren. He reciprocated the wish that he might be with them for many years. Routine work followed; hearty good wishes were tendered, and Lodge was closed. A capital banquet was supplied by Bro. W. Marks, of the "Peahen." The tables were elegantly decorated, and a "buttonhole" was provided for each guest. Brother Marks personally superintended the service, and his exertions resulted most satisfactorily. On the removal of the cloth the W.M. introduced in brief terms the toasts customary on these occasions. The proceedings throughout were of a most harmonious character, and altogether a most agreeable day was spent by those who attended.

MONTAGUE GUEST LODGE, No. 1900.

THE meeting of this Lodge, on Wednesday, the 11th instant, at the Inns of Court Hotel, Lincoln's-inn-Fields, was a very interesting one, and though a record of the event in these columns comes rather later than is our custom, still we feel our readers will pardon us the unavoidable delay. The W.M.—Bro. G. P. Festa—was supported by Bros. W. H. Dean I.P.M., F. R. W. Hedges S.W., Hubert J. Capon J.W., Montague Guest, M.P., Prov. Grand Master of Dorset P.M., J. D. Collier P.M. Secretary, H. Slyman S.D., W. H. Gardener J.D., John M. Doble M.C., Samuel Brooks P.M. I.G., Charles M. Tate Steward, Banks Tyler. Amongst the Visitors were Bros. Sir Francis Burdett Prov. Grand Master Middlesex, Frank Richardson P.G.D., H. G. Buss Assist. Grand Sec., J. Crassans 1366 P.G.S.W. Herts, J. Goddard W.M. 771 P.G. Steward Berks and Bucks, Edwin Moss W.M. 1929, T. Walford 771, W. J. Arnold 780, P. T. Webster M.C. 27, Edward Wharton 1716, W. S. Cantrell W.M. 1871, and H. Massey P.M. 619 and 1928. After the reading and confirmation of the minutes, Bro. George de Bassompierre was raised to the third degree. The W.M. afterwards initiated Mr. W. W. Goodman. The election of Worshipful Master resulted in favour of Bro. F. R. W. Hedges, Secretary Royal Masonic Institution for Girls, and Bro. W. H. Dean P.M. was re-elected Treasurer. Bros. Pratt, Shelton, and Stacey were appointed Auditors. A Past Master's jewel and a collar and jewel were voted to Brother Festa in recognition of his services to the Lodge during his year of office. The brethren afterwards partook of a capital banquet, served under the superintendence of Bro. Walter Gosden. The W.M. gave the loyal toasts, which were most heartily received, and then proposed the health of the Pro Grand Master, the Deputy Grand Master; and the rest of the Grand Officers, and coupled with it the name of Sir Francis Burdett Prov. Grand Master Middlesex, who, in the course of his reply, said those whom they might call permanent G. Officers, like the G. Master and the Pro and Deputy Grand Masters, might hold their respective positions for years to come. Still, at the same time, Grand Lodge was rather a changeable Parliament, for every year they had a change of Officers, but he believed those who had already been before the brethren had done their duty to the satisfaction of the entire Craft. Grand Lodge was now passing on to another change, and he felt confident that the brethren who would be appointed to replace those in office would do their duty as far as lay in their power, and as much to the satisfaction of the Craft as those who had gone before. The W.M. had been kind enough to allude to the Province of Middlesex, and had said it was the best of all the Provinces. He (Sir Francis Burdett) would be very well satisfied if they were as good as any other Province under the Grand Master. They had done what they could to bring the Province of Middlesex to a high position, and he believed it stood well in the estimation of the Craft. It had been ably supported, and there were a few brethren, like Bro. Buss, the Prov. Grand Treasurer, who had assisted it in every possible way. As long as he had the support he now received, he doubted not it would retain its present high standard. In proposing the health of the Worshipful Master, Bro. Dean I.P.M. said, Bro. Festa had done his work exceedingly well, both in Lodge and at the banquet table. The Lodge was started under most favourable auspices, and it was carried on for the first year to the satisfaction of all. During the past year the W.M. had sustained its prestige in every particular, and the Lodge was prospering under his rule. The Worshipful Master had set an example to the members of the Lodge, both as a ruler and as a supporter of the Institutions. He had been most assiduous and diligent in promoting the cause of charity, and had worked most enthusiastically; in fact he could not say too much of what Brother Festa had done. It was a noble thing to support the Charities. The W.M. would carry with him the honour and love of the brethren for the manner in which he had kept up the prestige of the Lodge, and the brethren would give him their best thanks for what he had done. The Worshipful Master in reply said he wished the compliments so lavishly bestowed on him by Brother Dean were more thoroughly deserved; however, he had done the best his skill and ability could effect. He always held that what was worth doing at all was worth doing well. He differed rather from Bro. Dean about the last year, it had not been so successful as that of Bro. Dean's Mastership. The progress of the Lodge had not been so great as in the first year, there had not been so large an accession of members. But then it must be remembered that brethren who wish to join this Lodge must be well recommended. The Lodge was not so anxious to have members as to have them of the right sort. If they were fit and proper persons to join the Order, this Lodge would accept them, but not otherwise. Lately there had not been that rushing into Freemasonry there was five or six years since; the brethren had become more cautious in their acceptance of new members. With regard to the working of the Lodge he could only say he hoped the brethren had understood his interpretation of the English language; as a foreigner he had done the best in his power. With regard to the Charities that was another matter. On the night of his installation he had remarked that charity was the sole object of Freemasonry, and if a brother was not anxious for the Charities of the Order he was not fit to be among them. In their happiest moments they must think of what they were taught at their initiation. He had done all that lay in his power for Charity, and he hoped before the year was over he would be able to contribute in proportion to what he had already done to make him worthy of the work and power of Masonry. The W.M. then proposed the W.M. elect. Some five years ago he became acquainted with Bro. Hedges, and was struck with his gentlemanly manner, and the nice way in which he conducted the duties of Secretary to the Girls' School. He (the W.M.) was anxious to make his way in Masonry, and Bro. Hedges was also anxious in the same direction. Bro. Hedges tried to do him a turn, and he desired to return the compliment. The greatest pleasure of his Masonic career would be to instal him as W.M. The brethren had elected the right man for the office. He would follow up the true principles of Masonry, and carry with him all the members of the Lodge. Lodges were not often so fortunate; he envied Bro. Hedges the high character he had won for himself, and in wishing him good health, hoped he would occupy the position with credit to himself, and to the satisfaction of the brethren of the Lodge. Bro. Hedges, in reply, said he really did not know how to find words sufficient to thank the brethren for the very high honour they had paid him by electing him as their W.M. for the coming year; he could only say he thanked them most sincerely and heartily, and he appreciated the honour as fully as any one could. He promised he would exert himself to the best of his ability to follow in the footsteps of those who had gone before him; but he must say, when he looked back at the way in which his predecessors had occupied the chair, that he looked forward to his year of office with some misgivings; he did not think he could come up to them. Nevertheless, he promised the brethren they should not find him wanting in trying worthily to follow them. Bro. Festa had referred to the fact that it was he who had first introduced him to the promoters of the Montagne Guest Lodge. He certainly did, and ever since then he had had every reason to be very, very grateful to Bro. Festa for it. He was glad to have this opportunity of thanking him for that kindness. Bro. Festa had been a good friend to him, and to the Institution which was very dear to him, and he was very glad to have the present opportunity of thanking him also for that. Bro. Goodman in replying to the toast of the Initiate said, if he ever felt proud in his life, he did so at the present time; he thanked the brethren for the cordial way in which they had accepted him as a Mason. It was a proud thing for any young man to be initiated, and he should never forget the occasion. As the Worshipful Master had said, what was worth doing at all was worth doing well; he trusted he should be able to do Masonry well. He should not be satisfied until, by paying strict attention, and studying the work, he should make himself competent to be Master of a Lodge. Bros. Goddard, Cussans and Cantrell responded for the Visitors, after which the W.M. proposed the health of the Immediate Past Master and Treasurer, Bro. Dean, and the Secretary, Bro. Collier; of these Officers he spoke in the highest terms of praise as to the way in which they performed their duties. Bro. Dean in reply said it was scarcely worth while to recapitulate the kind expressions of the W.M. He was delighted to see Bro. Frank Richardson present; he acted as M.C. at the consecration of the Lodge, and fully entered into the spirit of the ceremonies of the day. The Lodge had gone on harmoniously, and though the W.M. had said it had not been so successful in his year as in the first, inasmuch as it had not had so many initiates, he might urge the Lodge looked for quality rather than quantity. Plenty of brethren would join a Lodge in its first year. They did not wish their Lodge to be a large, but a leading one. They had exercised discretion; they had not had an influx of members, but he felt everything would turn out well. The members would rally round Brother Hedges, and he was sure his would be a successful year of office. Bro. Collier also replied. Bro. Festa, in proposing the next toast—the Charities—coupled with it the name of Bro. Richardson; he believed that brother was one of the staunchest supporters of the Secretary of the Girls' School. He did not know how Bro. Richardson found time to attend to the Charities as he did. Last year the Girls had a very successful Festival; it could hardly be expected that that of the present would be so satisfactory. He always felt proud when he went to the Girls' School, and hoped all the brethren would go and see it, and when they returned to their homes if they found any spare cash in their pockets they should give it to that Institution. Bro. Frank Richardson, in responding said, the toast was indeed an important one for any brother to undertake to reply to. Although he gave way to no one in the interest he felt in the Charities, still he wished some other brother had been called on to reply. The W.M. had impressed on the initiate that charity was the first thing in Masonry, and although there were many brethren of rank and opulence among the Order, there were others who were in distress; he also taught him that charity blessed him that gave as well as he who received; therefore, it ought to be a source of gratification to Masons that they helped to relieve not only those who had borne the heat and burden of the day, but also those of their children who required education, and they turned them out good and useful members of society, capable of earning their own livelihood. Many years ago as a child he was taught the line—

"One thing at a time and that done well;"

he should like to take an active part in all the Charities, but time would not permit. He therefore devoted himself to one well, rather than to three badly. He wished that Lodges would follow the example of the Montagne Guest, and subscribe liberally to all the Charities. There was really something wanting when they considered the number of Masons there were, and the comparatively small collections they made. The majority of the subscriptions came from the old Lodges, but why was it that so many of the Lodges that had been formed in the past few years had subscribed so little, or nothing? It was only few amongst the many which subscribed. He thought it should be in some measure compulsory, like the quarterage to the Fund of Benevolence. There would then be no need of elections, for the funds would be large enough to take in all candidates. As a member of the Girls' School Committee he hoped Bro. Hedges, for whom he had the highest respect, would have a good Festival. He knew that royalty drew, and last year they did so well that they could not expect to do a great deal this year. He was quite satisfied of one thing, that if all the members of the Craft had the opportunity which he had, as a member of the House Committee, of going to the Girls' School and seeing the children there, he was sure there would be more Stewards. Nothing gave him so much pleasure as to be at the Institution. From Miss Jarwood, who had been 66 years in the Institution, down to the youngest child, they were one happy family; there was a kindly, friendly tone between matron, governesses, and children. He had made the acquaintance of them all, and he felt he had got 239 friends there. Whenever he went down he had a lot of the children to talk to him, and he was satisfied, if there was anything wrong in the School—any tyranny or any pain—the Committee would know it from the children. It would be impossible to get a better staff, and the system had been carried on very well. All the staff had been made up from those educated in the School, and all the children knew they had a chance of being taken on the staff. If any of the brethren would like to go down to see the School, he should be most happy to receive them and conduct them over it. We congratulate Bro. Hedges on his election to the chair of this Lodge. We feel assured the Past Masters and members will render him every assistance during his period of Mastership.

Loughborough Lodge of Instruction, No. 22.—A meeting was held on Monday evening, 16th April, at Brother McDiarmaid's, Cambria Tavern, Cambria-road, Loughborough Junction. Present—Bros. Cornock W.M., Perkins S.W., Rush J.W., McKinley Secretary, Warren S.D., Stafford J.W., Johnson Preceptor, Hampton I.G.; also Bros. Brown, Martin, Sherring, Westley, Bellis, and Banks. Lodge was opened in due form, when the minutes were read and confirmed. Brothers Westley and Bellis worked the second and third sections of the lecture, respectively. A hearty vote of thanks was passed to Brother Cornock for his most satisfactory rehearsal of the ceremony, this being his first appearance in the chair. On Monday next, the 30th inst., Brother Stevens will deliver his lecture on the Rituals and Ceremonies of the First Degree.

Percy Lodge of Instruction, No. 198.—Held at the Jolly Farmers, Southgate-road, on Saturday 21st inst. Present—Bros. Hirst W.M., Weeden S.W., Spencer J.W., Gribbell S.D., Dixie J.D., Ashton I.G., Pearcy Preceptor, and Galer Secretary; also Bros. Recknall, Bleakley, and Houghton. Lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed. Bro. Bleakley offered himself as a candidate for raising and was examined and entrusted. Lodge was opened in the third degree, and the ceremony of raising rehearsed. Bro. Pearcy worked the second section of the lecture, assisted by Bro. Dixie; and the third section, assisted by Bro. Galer. Lodge was then resumed to the second degree and Bro. Pearcy worked the first section, assisted by Bro. Gribbell, Lodge was closed in the second degree and Bro. Galer proposed, and Bro. Pearcy seconded, that Bro. Bleakley of the Great Northern Lodge, No. 1287, be elected a member, and this was carried unanimously. Bro. Weeden was appointed W.M. for the ensuing week. All Masonic business being ended, Lodge was closed, and adjourned.

Kingsland Lodge of Instruction, No. 1693.—At the Canonbury Tavern, St. Mary's-road, on the 23rd inst. Present—Bros. Killick jun. W.M., Western S.W., Woolf J.W., Snook S.D., Marks J.D., Jones I.G., Trewinnard Preceptor, Killick sen. acting Secretary, and a large number of members. After preliminaries, the ceremony of installation was rehearsed. Brother Collingridge was elected Secretary. Brother Trewinnard will occupy the chair on Monday next. Lodge opens at 8.30.

FIRE AT FREEMASONS' HALL.

TOTAL DESTRUCTION OF "THE TEMPLE."

ON Thursday, shortly before midnight, a fire was discovered at the Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, London, and by the time the fire engines arrived, the elegant hall known to Craftsmen as "the Temple" was completely destroyed. Fortunately the fire was confined to the room where the Quarterly Communications of the United Grand Lodge of England are usually held. We regret to say all the valuable portraits with which this apartment was adorned are completely destroyed, the roof having fallen in, and nothing but the bare walls are left standing. The room had not been used for some days, and the origin of the fire is a mystery. The "Temple" now destroyed was built in 1775, when the adjoining Freemasons' Tavern was a coffee-house. The pictures to which we have already referred were portraits; with the single exception of Lord Ripon, of all the Past Grand Masters of the Order, consequently, from a monetary point of view, no estimate can be formed of the damage done. Most of the loss is irreparable.

We paid a visit to the scene this (Friday) morning, and from the apparent lack of public interest the catastrophe seemed to evoke we were for the moment led to hope the first accounts had been grossly exaggerated. Unfortunately, however, inside the building the extent of the damage is too palpable. While the offices and business parts of Freemasons' Hall have escaped the ravages of the fire, the elegant Temple has been totally destroyed.

THE HISTORY OF FREEMASONRY.

THE fifth and concluding chapter of the first volume of Bro. Gould's History of Freemasonry treats of "The Companionage, or Les Compagnons du Tour de France;" and is by no means the least interesting section of the work, so far as it has been published. We frankly confess that until we read this chapter, our knowledge of the subject it treats of was very limited, and as it is not unreasonable to suppose that many other brethren, with fewer opportunities than necessarily fall to our lot of studying the history of Freemasonry and kindred associations, are as indifferently informed as we were till lately of an institution which has flourished for ages, and still flourishes in France, it may be we shall deal with it at even greater length than usual.

Broadly stated, says Bro. Gould, "the 'Companionage' (Compagnonnage) means the associations formed by the journeymen of France for mutual support and assistance during their travels." Though many of its regulations will "compare with those of the German fraternities," in others "the difference is strongly marked." Among these points of difference Bro. Gould notes, that while "in Germany each craft was a separate entity, and in many cases the members of a trade in one town had no bond of union connecting them with a similar Bruderschaft of another town, beyond the ordinary results following the exercise of a common employment," the Companionage comprised "three great divisions; to one of these each trade belonged, whilst in these handicrafts some members belonged to one division and some to another; and these three divisions were extended throughout France." Again, "the French fraternities practised a veritable initiation—a mystic reception—and treasured venerable legends;" whilst "the affiliation of the German craftsmen was a simple burlesque ceremony, enriched by a certain amount of symbolism." But what is more especially noteworthy is, that it not only has these points in common with Freemasonry, but also others. Thus, "its existence was patent to all, and readily acknowledged; with its works of charity and festivals the public were familiar, but its legends, its ceremonies, its signs and tokens, were shrouded in mystery, and even a bare allusion to them was considered highly culpable. Although latterly, by enlightened members of this fraternity it has not been considered improper to partially unveil its legendary lore, yet to this day no revelation of its more important secrets has been made." Yet Masonic writers, remarks Bro. Gould, have treated the institution with indifference, and, more remarkable still, in spite of the frequently recurring feuds between the different corps and the bloodshed they entailed, the public has manifested towards it the same feeling.

It was not till 1841 that any one came forward to throw a light on the subject, and then Agricol Perdiguier, himself a Companion of more than ordinary intelligence, published his "Livre du Compagnonnage," his object being to put an end, if possible, to the fratricidal strife which had prevailed among the various factions of the Companionage. The work caused a profound sensation in France, and the late George Sand invited Perdiguier to visit her, and furnished him with funds to make afresh the tour of the country, and "preach his new Gospel to his fellows." She further helped to extend the knowledge of the subject among the French people, by publishing the same year her novel, "Le Compagnon du Tour de France," and her example induced others, many of whom were themselves Companions, to follow Perdiguier's and her footsteps. Having reiterated his surprise that our Masonic writers should have concerned themselves so little about the subject, on the ground that "its ceremonies and legends are so interesting of themselves, its resemblance to our present system of Freemasonry so obvious," Bro. Gould goes on to describe the Institution as it was in 1841, the date of Perdiguier's work already referred to. Since then it has undergone many changes, though "in one form or another it still exists." "Railway travelling has done much to modify it; the journeyman no longer tramps from one town to another, nor does he usually live so absolutely from hand to mouth; many of its regulations have consequently fallen into disuse: its old enmities and feuds are especially out of date."

As has already been said, the Companionage comprised "three great divisions," each of which, we are told, "revered and claimed origin from a traditionary chief, the hero of a legend, who was supposed to have conferred a charge (devoir, i.e. duty) on his followers. The Companions called themselves the Sons (enfants, children) of this chief: hence the three classes were denominated the Sons of Solomon, the Sons of Maître Jacques, and the Sons of Maître Soubise." The most ancient of these were the Sons of Solomon, originally Stonemasons only, but who subsequently admitted the joiners and locksmiths to a participation of their charge; while some seceders from the carpenters, Sons of M. Soubise, claim to be a fourth corps under the same banner, but are not recognised as such by the other three. Next in point of origin are the Sons of Maître Jacques, also stonemasons, who likewise subsequently admitted the joiners and the locksmiths, and, still later, the members of nearly every other Craft. The youngest class are the Sons of Maître Soubise, who were originally confined to the carpenters, but afterwards admitted the plasterers and tylers. Thus the oldest and youngest classes only consist of three trades each—all belonging to the building crafts, while the intermediate one numbers in its ranks most of the known handicrafts, as "the joiners began by conferring their charge on the turners and glaziers, and one by one every trade has either been admitted, or has managed to acquire possession of a charge, and to enforce acknowledgment of its claims. Without the possession of a charge no claim can hold good." Of the few Crafts that have never belonged to the Companionage the most conspicuous are "the Masons (not to be confounded with the stonemasons), the apothecaries, clothworkers, furriers, printers, watchmakers, goldsmiths, wigmakers, bookbinders, and perfumers." We may state that a table is given at page 215, which shows at a glance the organisation of the Companionage, its subdivisions, chiefs, distinctive grades and marks, &c. This will be found of great use in studying the subject It is further to be remarked that "in whatever town of France a charge "(devoir)—which Perdiguier defines as "a code—the entirety of the laws and regulations which govern a society "—"was deposited, there the Craftsman found a house of call devoted to his purposes, and a branch of the society." These towns, known as the "villes du devoir, or du tour de France, were Lyons, Avignon, Marseilles, Nîmes, Montpellier, Toulouse, Bordeaux, Nantes, and Paris," to which Simon has added "Auxerres, Châlons-sur-Saone, Clermont-Fevram, Béziers, La Rochelle, Angouléme, Angers, Saumur, Tours, Orleans, and later Algiers." As regards these, Bro. Gould notes, as a curious coincidence, that they are chiefly situated in the south, where the Roman traditions were longest preserved. In towns where there was no charge lodged—and which were known as "bastard towns," the itinerant Companion "was still able to profit by the society in a minor degree, provided that he continued his subscription to the nearest branch."

Our attention is next drawn to the traditions connected with the several classes. As to Solomon's position towards the Companions, but little has been said by Perdiguier; and Bro. Gould suggests the cause of this reticence to have been, that "perhaps he had little to communicate, beyond a biographical record of the wise king, which he has admittedly taken from the Holy writings. Perdiguier, it seems, has merely added to this record that "The Sons of Solomon claim that this King gave them a charge, and incorporated them fraternally within the precincts of the Temple;" and, also, that "The stonemasons" (of this fraternity, S. of S.) "are accounted the most ancient of the Companions. An ancient fable has obtained currency amongst them, relating, according to some, to Hiram, according to others, to Adonhiram, wherein are represented crimes and punishments; but I leave this fable for what it is worth."

As to the "Legend of Maître Jacques," it is reproduced from the pages of Perdiguier, who, we are informed, remarks, "Maître Jacques is a personage about whom very little is known, and each of the societies has invented a more or less probable story concerning him; nevertheless, there is one which enjoys an extended acceptance with very many Companions du Devoir; it is from this that I extract, without changing a single word, the following details." In a footnote, Bro. Gould writes, "The italics are mine. The legend which follows is fragmentary, and I think it not improbable that the portions omitted would, if supplied, furnish a clue to the secret ceremonies and other undisclosed features of the institution. It must not be forgotten that Perdiguier was far too honourable to divulge anything of vital importance. He wrote for his fellows, and the public; the former would be able to supply every hiatus; the latter would only learn what was considered sufficient for their enlightenment. He wrote as a conscientious Freemason would discuss Freemasonry; nevertheless, it is possible that a Freemason can read more easily between his lines than any one else besides a Compagnon." The legend is to the following effect: "Maître Jacques, one of the first masters of Solomon, and a colleague of Hiram, was born in a small town called Carte, now St. Romili" —which, as is said in a footnote, is "as purely traditionary as the master himself"—"in the South of Gaul; he was the son of Jacquin "—possibly, as is suggested, "Jachin "—"a celebrated architect, and devoted himself to stone-cutting. At the age of fifteen he left his family and travelled into Greece, then the centre of the fine arts, where he entered into a close alliance with * * * "—Bro. Gould suggests that the stars may stand for "Pythagoras," only that philosopher flourished much later than Solomon—"a philosopher of the highest genius, who taught him sculpture and architecture. He soon became celebrated in both these arts." Here he learns that "Solomon had summoned to himself all famous men," and accordingly, "he passed into Egypt, and thence to Jerusalem," where, however, "he did not at first gain much distinction among the workmen; but, at last, having received an order from the chief master to construct two columns, he sculptured them with such art and taste that he was accepted a master." M. Jacques was six and twenty years of age when he arrived at Jerusalem, but he did not remain there long, and left not long after the construction of the Temple. He made his way back to Gaul in company with Maître Soubise. "They had sworn never to part; but before long M. Soubise, a man of violent character, becoming jealous of the ascendency which M. Jacques had acquired over their disciples, and of the love which they bore him, separated from his friend and chose other disciples. M. Jacques landed at Marseilles, and M. Soubise at Bordeaux. Before commencing his travels, M. Jacques chose thirteen Companions (Compagnons) and forty disciples; being deserted by one of them he chose another. He travelled for three years, leaving everywhere the memory of his talents and virtues. One day, being at some distance from his disciples, he was assailed by ten of the followers of M. Soubise, who attempted to assassinate him. In order to save himself he plunged into a swamp, the canes (or reeds, in French 'joncs') of which not only supported him, but afforded a refuge from the blows of his assailants. Whilst these cowards were seeking some means of reaching him, his disciples arrived and effected his rescue." After this he withdrew to St. Beaume, where a second attempt on his life was, unfortunately, more successful. "One of his disciples, called by some Jéron, and by others Jamais, betrayed him to the disciples of M. Soubise. One day, before sunrise, M. Jacques being alone and engaged in prayer in his accustomed spot, the traitor arrived, accompanied by the executioners, and gave as usual the kiss of peace, which was the preconcerted death signal. Five villains at once fell upon and killed him with five dagger wounds." However, his disciples, though they arrived too late to prevent his murder, were in time to "receive his last farewell. 'I die,' said he, 'God has willed it so; I forgive my assassins, and forbid you to follow them; they are already miserable enough; some day they will repent. I deliver my soul to God, my Creator; and you, my friends, receive from me the last kiss of peace. When I shall have rejoined the Supreme Being, I shall still watch over you. I desire that the last kiss which I give you be imparted always to the Companions whom you may make, as coming from their Father; they will transmit it to those whom they make; I will watch over them as over you; tell them I shall follow them everywhere so long as they remain faithful to God and to their charge (devoir), and never forget . . . . . " which hiatus, Brother Gould very pertinently suggests, is "possibly of the utmost importance to Companions." After this, M. Jacques "pronounced a few more words, which they were unable to understand, and crossing his arms over his breast, expired in his forty-seventh year, four years and nine days after his leaving Jerusalem, and 989 years before Christ." Then "the Companions having disrobed him, found a small piece of cane, which he wore in memory of the canes that had saved his life when he fell into the swamp." After this we learn, without surprise, that "since then the Companions have adopted the cane." As for Maître Soubise, and whether he was the instigator of his old friend's death, we read, "the tears which he shed over his tomb, and the pursuit of the assassins which he ordered, contributed to weaken in great measure the suspicions that were entertained. As for the traitor, he very soon repented of his crime, and, driven to despair by his poignant regrets, he threw himself into a pit, which the companions filled up with stones." Then "the Companions constructed a bier and carried him into the desert of Cabra, now called St. Magdalen." Then follows a brief summary respecting "the embalming of M. Jacques, and the funeral ceremonies, which lasted three days; the procession encountered a terrible storm, crossed forests and mountains, made stations in a place now called Caverne St. Evreux, and by others named St. Maximin, Cabane St. Zozime, &c. The procession at length arrived at the final resting place. The rest of the legend is in full, and "describes how," before lowering the body into the tomb, the elder gave it the kiss of peace; every one followed his example, after which having removed the pilgrim's staff, the body was replaced in the bier and lowered into the grave. The elder descended beside it, the Companions covering both with the pall, and after the former had given the Guilbrette, he caused them to hand him some bread, wine, and meat, which he deposited in the grave, and then returned to the surface. The Companions covered the grave with large stones, and sealed it with heavy bars of iron; after which they made a great fire, and threw into it their torches and all that had been used during the obsequies of their master." As to his raiment, it was preserved in a chest. At the destruction of the temples, the sons of M. Jacques separated and divided amongst them his clothing, which was thus described:

"His hat to the hatters.
His tunic to the stonemasons.
His sandals to the locksmiths.
His cloak to the joiners.
His belt to the carpenters.
His staff (bourdon) to the wagonmakers."

Perdiguier adds: "After the division of the articles belonging to M. Jacques, the act of faith was found which was pronounced by him on the day of his reception [as master, probably] before Solomon, Hiram, the high Priest, and all the Masters. This act of faith, or rather this prayer, is very beautiful."

As for Maître Soubise, we are vouchsafed less information in his case than respecting Solomon, Perdiguier having been unable to find any document relating to him.

THE OLD ANTI-MASONIC CONSPIRATORS.

By Bro. Jacob Norton.

In the number of the Freemason's Chronicle of 27th of January last, I gave a sketch of several stories about Morgan, and pointed out the utter unscrupulousness of our American office hunters. Weed's success in New York fired the hopes of the office-seeking crew in Vermont, where an anti-Masonic party, with a party paper, were established. For a time, the Morgan story sufficed to keep alive the agitation, but the said story finally became stale; new Masonic outrages had to be invented to keep alive the party. Well, it happened that on the 15th October 1826, Joseph Burnham, a convict in the Vermont State Prison, died, and on the 17th the body was buried by the relatives of the deceased. In 1828 or 1829 a rumour was spread in the anti-Masonic papers that Burnham was alive in New York, and was known by the name of Patrick Dolon, and his escape from prison was due to Masonic influence. The Antis were in possession of two affidavits of residents of New York as proof of their assertion. In 1829 the Antis were emboldened to petition the Vermont Legislature for an investigation of the new Masonic outrage. The Governor thereupon appointed a commission, with full powers to investigate the case. The Antis produced an affidavit from Lyman Mower (an appropriate name), alias Cobb, and one from Aaron B. Cutler, that Burnham was alive in the City of New York, &c. And on the other hand, the prison officers swore that Burnham was dead when his relatives took away his body on the 17th October 1826. To make things sure, one of the Commissioners went to New York, and hunted up Mower, who repeated his old story with extra details, viz., that while he was confined for debt in a New York prison, Burnham, whom he knew in Woodstock, Vermont, was brought into the same prison (also for debt) on the 17th of October 1826, on which day he (Mower) was released, and he furnished evidence that he was discharged from prison on the said day. The Commissioner then offered Mower a reward of five hundred dollars, and a pardon for Burnham, if he produced Burnham alive. After a while, Dolon was found. This Patrick Dolon was a genuine Irishman, had lived in New York some six or seven years, and it was proved that the said Dolon "had wrought for Mower on a building in New York in the spring of the year 1826." [Thereupon Mower said that] "he had forgotten" [all about it] "until this morning, but then he distinctly recollected it." Mower then made an affidavit that Dolon was not Burnham. The character of the Cutler was too bad for his evidence to have any weight whatever with the Commissioners. Besides which, "Two gentlemen residing in New York city, who were well acquainted with Burnham in Woodstock, saw the said Dolon, and certified that he was not Joseph Burnham." The Burnham story thus brought grief to the Vermont Antis. I shall only add that the paragraphs placed between quotation marks I copied from the printed Proceedings of the Vermont Legislature for 1829.

In 1832 a play in five acts, by Timothy Tickle, Esq., was printed in Woodstock, Vermont, called, "The doleful Tragedy of the raising of Jo Burnham, or the cat let out of the bag." The names of the characters in the play indicate their professions, &c.; thus, we have Sir Rodrick Makefuss, Elder Lovely, Parson Rawlimbs, Major Hardface, Lawyer Longjaw, &c.

The play opens with the following soliloquy, by Rodrick Makefuss, while sitting in his office:—

"'Tis even so—this is my last resource
To raise the wind, and make my own good fortune.
There's something which, if cunningly conducted,
Will seem a monster in the public vision—
A very vampire. Sucking the vitals
Of this our great and glorious Commonwealth.
Vermonters are exceedingly tenacious
Of equal rights, good laws, and living freedom.
And if we can, by any hocus-pocus,
Impress them with the notion that a tyrant,
Enthroned in secret, reckless of all justice,
Besmeared with blood, and panting for fresh victims,
Is stalking through the land, bidding defiance
To the strong arm of retributive justice:
With power, too, to crush the mightiest efforts;
Screening his subjects from deserved chastisement,
And buckling to their backs the long account
Of office, honours, and emoluments—
Usurping all the places in the land,
For the exclusive vantage of his votaries;
If we can make the credulous million think
That these are facts, (no matter how we do it).
* * * * *
Now, I am but a cypher 'midst my townsmen;
Derided, laughed at as the veriest ninny.
I've studied hard, searched every nook and crevice
By which to squeeze into their good opinion;
But all in vain,—neglect is all I've compassed,
And all I shall acquire, unless this bugbear
Shall urge me up a steep where merit cannot.
But if the people can but be bamboozled
With this new scheme, hatched up to help poor devils,
Should they but swallow the alluring pill,
Which shall be fashioned for their rusty palates,
They will join a crusade to put down the Masons.
* * * * *
There is Elder L——, how his long face brightened
When first I told him of the saintless scheme.
He once stood fair in public estimation,
And even triumphed at the fall elections;
But now he is flat, and always must remain so,
Unless he rises by this new fledged project.
* * * * *
And, then, there is R. (Parson Raw-limbs), with religious mask on,
Veiling a heart which stops not at mere trifles;
He's anxious to enlist in this campaign,
To gull the people, and put down the Masons.
The devil himself would hesitate as soon
To take foul means to gain a favourite object
As he to use his sanctimonious face
To bear the public and fill up his pockets.

Other office seekers are portrayed by Makefuss after the same fashion, but I must hurry on to the next scene where Landlord Slatestone, Rodrick Makefuss, Squire Deal-he-knows, Old Greedy, Parson Raw-limbs, Farmer Dobbin, and others, meet. The conversation between the various individuals is frank, viz., they all want offices, and neither of them care about the means of getting the said offices. Sir Makefuss, however, advises the assembled party for each to bind himself by a solemn oath to be true to the new organisation, and here is his proposed oath:—

OBLIGATION OF A TRUE AND ACCEPTED ANTI-MASON.

"We, the undersigned, of our own free-will and accord, not having the fear of God before our eyes, but being moved and instigated by a view to our own selfish purposes and the hopes of political advancement, do each most solemnly and sincerely promise and swear:—

"That we will for ever conceal from all mankind, except from a true and fully initiated anti-Mason, all the secrets of that party that may have been, are now, or shall at any future period, be communicated to us as such.

"That above all things, we will keep the mass of the ignorant and honest antis in their present state of ignorance with regard to our true designs—that although we may believe Freemasonry to be a harmless, charitable, and social Institution, we will unceasingly represent it as a most dangerous foe to the religion and liberties of our country.

"That where the fears of individuals, or societies, can best be excited by representing it as anti-christian and impious, we will never fail so to represent it; and when, on the other hand, we may have Liberals and Free-thinkers to deal with, we will represent the "Handmaid" as being yoked with the Orthodox, to promote the union of Church and State, to trample the liberties of the people under their feet.

"We furthermore swear, that although on all occasions we shall denounce every Mason as a traitor, murderer, and blasphemer; yet whenever any contingency shall arise, in which the interests of the Anti-Masonic party may require the election of a Royal Arch or a Templar Mason, we wil promote such election to the utmost in our power.

"Each and all of us do furthermore swear, that from this time forward, we will hold ourselves devoted, soul and body, and estate, to the interest of the Anti-Masonic party—that we will postpone to it all considerations of religion, patriotism, and common sense: and will receive as our reward, such honours and emoluments as it may be in the power of the party to bestow.

"To each and all of which, we hereby severally bind ourselves most solemnly, by subscribing our names."

The first scene of the second act is a farmhouse, where farmer Credulous and his wife Judy and Aunt Debby on one side, and Hawk Eye on the other, discuss the Morgan murder, the resurrection of Burnham, &c. Credulous and the two ladies of course stick to their belief, in spite of the arguments of Hawk Eye. There is also a scene in a court-house, where lawyer Long-jaw lays down points of law with all the acumen of the Lord Chancellor in Iolanthe. I must, however, proceed with the anti-Masonic plotters. Well, then, after full discussion, the above oath was signed by all present; the assembly was called "The Secret Divan," with a Wor. Master, Grand High Priest, Scribe, &c. as Officers. The establishment of a party paper, with Parson Rawlimbs as editor, was agreed to. The Burnham plot was discussed and approved of; numerous other Masonic outrages were invented, and for a while things went on swimmingly. The party, however, afterwards received two checks, which threatened its immediate extinction: First—In the words of Sir Rodrick—

> Friend Rawlimbs has done very well since he began,
> Has spared no pains, and made a wide impression,
> But the revival of some old affairs,
> By some young scoundrels, through that d—d Observer
> Who made some thrusts that Rawlimbs could not parry,
> Has dulled the edge of his reforming scythe,
> And palsied half the power of his arm.
> At first they said he was a vagabond,
> Expelled from the Church, by honest men detested,
> And said, boldly, in public meeting.
> He tried to gain redress, but who would think of it?
> They charged him boldly, in the public prints,
> With 'smoke-house' feats of most unseemly odour,
> And sundry capers of his earlier days,
> Which grated harshly on the public ear.
> There was a slight foundation for a part,
> So that he could not court investigation.

Rawlimbs had to be thrown overboard, and Master Slender was induced to conduct the paper. It was also deemed necessary to change the location of the paper to where the lying character of the party was less known. The second check was the report of the Legislative Committee on the Burnham resurrection. This was remedied by all agreeing to swear that the Lodge-money bribed Mower to unsay what he said and swore before. It seems to have answered their purpose—the party carried the election, and the offices were divided among those worthies. After which, defections from the party began to take place; the next election, when it drew near, seemed doubtful; new recruits for the "Divan" had to be sought after; hence, at one of the Divan's meetings, Master Slender announced that Lord Mansfield, one of the Vermont judges, would join the Divan,* but his ambition soared for a Senatorship.

> Sir Rodrick—That is good, by George—if we could catch the old one,
> The Lord Sage Mansfield, it would be a grand one.
> Suppose you send him your whole collection
> Of tracts and pamphlets for examination.
> Slender—I've had him under diet several weeks,
> Reading Bernard, Slade, Ward, and Rush, and Allyn;
> He feels quite sore about the last fall's defeat,
> And does expect that Masonry produced it.

In the next scene Lord Mansfield is introduced to the members of the Divan. In the course of conversation Lord Mansfield says:

> The termination of the late election
> Was one of those which caused my first suspicions.
> I could not for a moment doubt that something
> Unseen, but potent, ruled that fatal day.
> Six years before I was a candidate
> For the same office, and my friends assured me
> That nothing could prevent or check my triumph.
> I really thought the appointed time had come,
> When all my hopes and fond anticipations
> Would be resolved in unalloyed fruition.
> The day arrived, with all its high excitements;
> My friends were busy—I was all on tiptoe;
> But maugre all I had been told or dreamed of,
> My rival left me at a sightless distance.
> • • • • • •
> At length the period hastened to its end,
> And a new Senator must be elected.
> In the meantime I had made up some losses
> Of popularity beneath the ermine;
> In loud professions of devotedness
> To a protective tariff, none excelled me.
> I had been studious of the public whims,
> Watched each pulsation, noted every change,
> And had my creed adapted nicely to them."

It is only necessary to say that Lord Mansfield was convinced that his defeats were due to the secret influence of the "Handmaid," hence he was willing even to take the anti-Mason's oath, and to work for the party with all his might. The result was, the Antis triumphed at the next election. Landlord Slatestone invited the Divan to a grand feast, where a jolly time was anticipated by the party. Unfortunately, in order to ensure success, it was deemed expedient by the Antis to suffer the election of a few Masons for some offices. This, however, gave mortal offence to Old Mordacious, (a member of the Divan). They tried to pacify him, they bore his insulting taunts with great patience, they even coaxed him to join them in the banquet room, which he finally did, but this did not mollify him. Well, liquor was abundantly served, each in his turn gave his toast, which toasts were received with three cheers. As the party warmed up, six cheers, with the help of a bumper, were given. When it came to the turn of Mordacious he gave for his toast, "Starving office seekers, our ranks are overrun with them;" which was received with "a dead silence." Again and again the toasts went round, but when it came to Mordacious's turn, he proposed, "Deacon Lovely and Makefuss, a brace of d——d detested hypocrites and office seekers, that ever went unhung;" thereupon Makefuss returned the compliment, and the party began to become noisy. The next toast of Mordacious capped the climax; it was, "Master Slender, a d—d slender concern, the mere jackal of hypocrites and scoundrels." Slender thereupon became terribly excited, and began to threaten chastisement. Toasts, however, continued to go round, and the next toast of Mordacious was, "Makefuss and his man 'Friday.' One wants to go to Congress; may both go to the devil." Slender then jumped up to fight Mordacious; the others tried to interfere, but were too drunk to stand long on their feet; the fight then became general, and amidst the noise, uproar, and confusion, the curtain dropped.

Charters were granted for new Chapters to be attached to the several Lodges particularised by us last week, while the Companions of the Cana Chapter, No. 116, Colne, Lancashire, were authorised to wear a centenary jewel, this Chapter having worked continuously for upwards of 100 years. Comps. Colonel Creaton, Robert Grey, and Duff-Filer were appointed by the Prince of Wales members of the Committee of General Purposes, and Grand Chapter elected Comps. George Lambert, James L. Thomas, E. Letchworth, J. Sampson Peirce, R. H. Thrupp, and J. H. Matthews members of the Committee.

POLISH NATIONAL CHAPTER, No. 534.

THE installation meeting of this old established and rapidly improving Chapter took place at the Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, on Thursday, the 29th April. The business was commenced at six o'clock p.m., under the presidency of Comp. Palmer P.Z. M.E.Z., Comp. Hyde Clarke P.Z. H., Comp. Nowakowski P.Z. J. Comp. Palmer performed the ceremony of exalting three candidates—Bros. Geflowski, Morley and Hayo—in a manner which seemed to deeply impress those brethren. All Comps. below the rank of Principal, were then called upon to retire, and the ceremony of installing Comp. Pass as M.E.Z. was performed. Comp. Hyde Clarke being H. and Comp. Lowden J. The M.E.Z. selected the following as his Officers:—Comps. Palmer S.E., Dr. Jagielski S.N., Dr. Jackson P.S. (who selected Comps. Kelsey and Kelsey 1st and 2nd Assistant Sojourners), Nowakowski Treasurer and Banks Janitor. The name of Bro. A. Bell, Organist of the Polish National Lodge, having been proposed as a candidate for exaltation at the next meeting, and other business being completed, the Chapter was closed in due form. The Companions then adjourned to the banquet-room. After the usual Loyal and R.A. toasts had been disposed of, Comp. Palmer P.Z. proposed the health of the M.E.Z. Comp. Pass, alluding to the fact of his being so well known in Freemasonry, and to the efforts he had made to bring the Polish National Lodge up to the high standard it had reached; all hoped Comp. Pass would be equally successful in regard to the Polish National Chapter. Comp. Pass proposed the health of Comps. Hyde Clarke and Lowden, as H. and J., referring especially to the manner in which Comp. Hyde Clarke had adhered to the fortunes of the Chapter. For his own part, no effort should be spared if he could advance the condition of the Chapter. Comp. Clarke, in returning thanks, stated he had been many years a member of the Chapter; he was glad to feel that after half a century in Freemasonry he was again amongst Poles; for whom he would always do all he could for their advantage. Comp. Lowden replied in a few appropriate remarks. The M.E.Z. next proposed the health of the Exaltees, calling upon Comp. Geflowski to reply. This Companion stated that it was more than an ordinary pleasure for him to be present that evening; he, being a Pole, had been delighted with the ceremony, the sympathy he had received, the sentiments he had heard, and the manner in which the M.E.Z. had conducted his part. The P.S. was also deserving of equal praise; he only hoped he should be spared to be with them for many years. The next toast was that of the Past Principals. Comp. Palmer had acted well as M.E.Z., and Comp. Nowakowski, who was Treasrer, had kept the Chapter afloat by funds supplied from his own specket. Comp. Palmer, in returning thanks, said he was pleased to see the Chapter supported by the mother Lodge; at any time his services were at the command of the Companions. The M.E.Z., in proposing the Officers, alluded to the manner in which the P.S. and S.N. had performed their duties. The Janitor's toast brought to a close a most agreeable evening.

THE HUMBER INSTALLED MASTERS' LODGE OF INSTRUCTION.

A SPECIAL Meeting of the Humber Installed Masters' Lodge of Instruction was held at the Freemasons' Hall, Osborn-street, Hull, on Friday, the 27th instant, for the purpose of hearing Bro. James Stevens P.M. P.Z. give his lecture on the rituals and ceremony of the first degree. The W.D.P.G.M., J. P. Bell Esq., J.P., M.D., occupied the W.M.'s chair. The Rev. H. W. Kemp, M.A., acted as S.W., and Bro. Forder W.M. 1010 as J.W. There were also present the following Masters and Past Masters:—Bros. A. King 57, R. Beevers 57, W. E. Hay, M.D., P.P.G.S.D., George Wilson P.P.G.J.D., M. Haberland Prov. G.J.D., George D. Shackles 1511 Prov. G.S.D., Thomas Hewson P.P.G.T., W. D. Keyworth P.P.G.S. Works, A. Ansell P.P.G.S.B., F. A. Hopwood P.P.G.D.C. 1010, H. Preston P.P.G.D., Thomas Sissons 1010 P.P.G. Reg., M. C. Peck Prov. Grand Secretary, George Hardy 250 P.P.G.S.D., R. E. Harrison P.P.G. Org., W. Cheeseman 1611 P.P.G. Org., J. R. Ansdale 1611 Prov. G.S.B., W. Gillett 1611; Bros. D. J. O'Donoghue, J. W. Holmes, George Storey Prov. Grand Organist, Cockin, Dindsale, Hall, Kemp, Feltam, Pexton, Norris, Ganderton, Rutter, Thyer, Dyson, Wildbore, Shaw, Oates, Masterman, Batty, Gray, Foster, Brown, Linwood, Fletcher, Voght, Logan J.W. 1010, Bennett S.W. 1611, Davis, Fowler-Sutton, Shearsmith, Towler, Westerman, Whiteside, Welton 1511, Wilson 1511, Harrison, Whitfield, Clayton, Longley, Moll, Hogg, Highmoor, and others. The Lodge having been opened in the first degree, Bro. Dr. Bell, in briefly introducing Brother Stevens, stated that his lecture had been given in various Lodges in the South and neighbourhood of London with great success, and he was very glad that the honour of first introducing Brother Stevens to the North, for the purpose of giving this lecture, had been achieved by this Past Masters' Lodge of Instruction; he considered that by such a course a Lodge of Instruction, as the one in question, was taking its proper position in inquiring into, ascertaining, and correcting divergences of ritual, if by so doing no alterations were made in the established landmarks of the Order. Bro. Stevens then proceeded with his lecture, prefacing it with a few remarks to the effect that the observations he was about to make were his individual opinions alone, and as he claimed a certain latitude of opinion for himself, so he could not but allow a similar latitude to others. The lecture, which occupied upwards of two hours, was listened to with great attention, some of the remarks eliciting a considerable amount of applause and approval. At the conclusion, after discussing a few points of divergence of ritual, W. Bro. Dr. Bell, in moving a vote of thanks to Brother Stevens, said that every one present must have been struck with, and he hoped would carry away with him, some portion of the lecture to meditate on and digest; and if by that means a few of the inaccuracies in the working of the different Lodges in the Province, one of the aims and wishes of the Founders of the Installed Masters' Lodge of Instruction, under whose auspices the lecture had been given, would be accomplished. W. Bro. Rev. H. W. Kemp, M.A., S.W., having briefly responded, Lodge was closed, and the brethren retired, well satisfied at having spent such an enjoyable evening.

At the first meeting of the brethren who have undertaken to serve as Stewards at the approaching Festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, at Freemasons' Hall, on Monday last, there were present:—Bros. James Smith Eastes, Horace B. Marshall, Edgar Bowyer, John P. Hale P.M., John L. Mather, George Cooper, T. W. Ramsay, M.D., W. W. Morgan, W. E. Whadcoat, G. P. Festa, C. Dearing, F. R. Spaull, George Drysdale, George Brown, G. A. Ames, Louis A. Leins, Richard Barham, P. J. Taylor, B. Bird, W. W. Nevill, W. Lake, T. A. Logan, S. H. Goldschmidt, F. Ernest Pocock, M.D., George Page, Charles Belton, J. Child, J. Gresman Chillingworth, Hugh M. Gordon, Arthur C. Tanqueray, Jermyn Boyd, F. J. Stohwasser, Ralph Gooding, M.D., Captain F. Butterworth, Richard Clowes, J. G. Henning, C. B. Cousens, Thomas Wallis, Patrick McCarthy, W. Maple, H. W. Homann, E G. Lewis, W. H. Hooper, W. Mann, W. P. Webb, F. Foxley, J. Cutbush, E. Good, H. Faija, R. A. Meyer, J. H. Hawkins, C. Hawksley, T. White, C. E. Steel. It was announced that the Board of Stewards now numbered 308. Col. Le Gendre N. Starkie was appointed President, with Sir Henry Edwards, Bart., Col. Malet de Carteret, T. W. Tew, and the Rev. A. F. A. Woodford as Honorary Presidents. Bro. James Smith Eastes D.P.G.M. Kent (for which Province Viscount Holmesdale, the Chairman of the Festival, is the Right Worshipful Grand Master) and Bro. Edgar Bowyer Grand Standard Bearer acting Presidents. Bro. Horace Brooks Marshall, C.C., was appointed Honorary Treasurer, and Bro. Frederick Binckes Honorary Secretary. Considerable discussion took place as to where the Festival should take place, and a decision on this question will not be come to until the next meeting of the Board of Stewards, which will take place on the 17th inst.

FESTIVAL OF THE GIRLS' SCHOOL.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—We are pleased to be able to inform you that notwithstanding the lamentable Fire at Freemasons' Hall, the Festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls will not be postponed; but as the accommodation will necessarily be somewhat contracted, we feel confident we may rely upon the co-operation of all those who are taking part in its celebration to make the best of any little inconvenience which may unavoidably arise.

We are, Dear Sir and Brother,

Yours faithfully and fraternally,

President of the Board of Stewards.

OLD KENT LODGE OF MARK MASTER MASONS,

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—In your report of the proceedings on the occasion of the introduction to the above Lodge of Lord Wolseley of Cairo you have, doubtless unwittingly, done gross injustice to such poor modicum of common sense as I may claim to possess. In the few earnest words I addressed to the brethren assembled—with the consent and at the request of the W.M. in the chair—I said no more than I should have said had the opportunity been afforded me while presiding at the customary banquet—(on the occasion in question refreshment did not follow labour)—to propose the toast of "The Newly-Advanced Candidate."

I recognised the position and services of our distinguished brother, but, with all the respect I feel for men of light and leading, whose adhesion to our ranks must always be matter for congratulation, I appreciate and value the privileges of our Order far too highly to think of proposing a "vote of thanks" to any one who may offer himself to participation therein.

I am, Dear Sir and Brother,

Yours faithfully and fraternally,

FREDERICK BINCKES.

Obituary.

—:o:—

BROTHER W. H. LUCIA.

WE regret to have to record the death of Bro. William H. Lucia, Provincial Grand Secretary Suffolk, which sad event took place on Tuesday morning, at his residence, Bury St. Edmunds. The deceased gentleman, who was 63 years of age, had been ill for some time, and by his death Freemasonry in West Suffolk loses one of its most energetic supporters. Bro. Lucia's connection with the Order extended over a number of years. He was the founder of the Royal St. Edmunds Lodge, No. 1008, and the Abbey Lodge, No. 1592, both of Bury; he took a very active part in the establishment of the White Rose Chapter, Bury, and was Past Master of four Lodges, and P.Z. of the White Rose Chapter. He held the offices of Prov. Grand Secretary of Suffolk, and Grand Scribe E. in the Provincial Chapter. He was also a P.P.G.S.W., and a few years ago was elected by the Grand Master to the office of Grand Sword Bearer of England. The funeral will take place this day (Saturday).

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—Any dyspeptic sufferer, aware of the purifying, regulating, and gently aperient powers of these Pills, should permit no one to cloud his judgment or to warp his course. With a box of Holloway's Pills, and attention to its accompanying directions, he may feel thoroughly satisfied that he can safely and effectually release himself from his miseries without impairing his appetite, or weakening his digestion. This most excellent medicine acts as a nervine and bodily tonic by aiding nutrition, and banishes a thousand annoying forms of nervous complaints. An occasional resort to Holloway's remedy will prove highly salutary to all persons, whether well or ill, whose digestion is slow or imperfect, a condition usually evidenced by weariness, languor, listlessness, and despondency.

THE NEW RESTAURANT MONICO.

THE dinner given on the occasion of the opening of the new Restaurant Monico took place on the 30th ult., when a select and distinguished company of the friends of the proprietors met to celebrate the event. The chair was occupied by Brother Willis, and the vice-chair by Brother Gros, of the firm of Han and Co. About eighty guests were present. The chairman proposed the toast of the Queen, and Signor Tito Mattei delighted the company with a performance on the piano, which secured for the talented performer a perfect furore of applause. The toast of their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales was next given, and was fully honoured. Signor Ria then sang "Non e Ver," accompanied by the composer; the company fully appreciated this musical treat. Bro. Hudson in an eloquent speech responded to the toast of the Naval Forces, and Mr. Simpson played a very excellent solo on the violincello. The chairman proposed the toast of the evening, the health of the Brothers Monico. In the course of his remarks he said they were assembled together to celebrate the re-opening of this restaurant. The building was closed some few months since for the purpose of making great and necessary alterations. As those present could see, it had been beautifully re-decorated; as likewise had the Grand Hall, which he could recommend to their inspection. The Bros. Monico had zealously gone to work, and completed the vast improvements now visible. In incurring the great outlay these alterations had entailed, they relied on the continued and increased support of the public, to whom already they were so much indebted. They would continue to supply the best viands and wines that could be procured. He (the chairman) knew all present wished them success, and would do full honour to the toast, which without further remarks he would now offer for acceptance. This compliment was acknowledged by Bro. M. Davis, who was entrusted by the Brothers Monico to express their gratification at the way in which the toast had been proposed and received. To Bro. Gros was entrusted the next toast, the health of the Chairman—Brother Willis—whom he had hitherto only known in his official capacity. He, however, was well known in the City of London, and the genial manner in which he had presided over them entitled him to their respect. The President, in reply, said his object in taking the chair was to render a service to the worthy proprietors, who he thought deserved every success. He was sure all the guests had enjoyed themselves, and hoped such social gatherings would frequently take place. He thanked Bro. Gros for so kindly introducing the toast. To Signor Mattei and the gentlemen who assisted by their vocal efforts great praise is due.

The installation meeting of the Lily of Richmond Lodge, No. 820, will take place on Wednesday next, the 9th inst., at the Greyhound Hotel, Richmond. Brother Charles Hubbard, who has already twice filled the chair of this Lodge, viz. in 1878 and 1879, was, at the last meeting, unanimously elected Master. The proceedings commence at 3 o'clock p.m.

WHITSUNTIDE HOLIDAYS.—The London and North Western Railway Company announce that the ticket offices at Euston, Broad Street, Kensington, and Willesden Junction will be open throughout the day from Monday, 7th May, until Monday, 14th (inclusive), so that passengers wishing to obtain tickets for any destination on the London and North Western Railway can do so at any time of the day, prior to the starting of the trains. The tickets will be dated to suit the convenience of passengers. Tickets can also be obtained for the principal stations on the London and North Western system and its connections (Sunday and Bank Holidays excepted) at the following town receiving offices of the Company:—Swan with two Necks, Golden Cross, Charing Cross; Spread Eagle, Piccadilly Circus; 70 St. Martin's Lane; 16 Holborn; George and Blue Boar, Holborn; Spread Eagle, Gracechurch Street; Bolt-in-Tun, Fleet Street; 34 Albert Gate; Griffin, Green Man, and Still, 241 Oxford-street, and 33 High-street, Kensington. On Saturday, 12th May, the express train leaving London (Euston) at 3.0 p.m., Birmingham (New-street) at 5.30 p.m., Liverpool (Lime-street) at 7.35 p.m., and Manchester (Victoria) at 7.30 p.m. will be extended to Windermere. On the same date a special express, 1st, 2nd, and 3rd class, will leave London (Euston Station) at 3.45 p.m. for Birmingham, calling at Willesden Junction, Rugby, and Coventry only, and reaching Birmingham (New-street) at 6.20 p.m. The express trains to and from the City, St. Albans, Watford, and Kensington will not run on Whit Monday. Cheap Excursion Trains will run from London, for three and six days, to Carlisle, the Lake District, North, South, and Central Wales, the North of England, the Potteries, Birmingham, and the Midland Counties, &c. Full particulars of which can be obtained at any of the above Offices, or at the Railway Stations.

A movement is on foot among the Masons of Philadelphia to establish in that city a Home for aged and indigent Freemasons. Meetings have been held and an effort is being made to secure the co-operation of all the Lodges in the city for this laudable purpose. An institution of this sort would be a greater honour to Masonry in Philadelphia than it now enjoys in having the finest Masonic Temple in the world. Philadelphia claims priority in Masonic organizations in this country. She can attain to higher honour by being the first to establish a Home for worthy brethren who may have been unfortunate in business, or from any cause have no home of their own as old age comes creeping on and they are unable to provide for themselves. We bid our Fraters Godspeed in their noble work.—Masonic Advocate.

TIGERHOOD AND SPIDERHOOD.

FROM THE KEYSTONE.

HE who knows but little of the world knows that it is selfish, very selfish, while he who knows much of it realizes that all the bulls and bears are not at large in the fields and on the mountains, nor even along "the Barbary coast," but that there is often too much of the wild animal found in unregenerate and profane man everywhere. Sometimes he springs as a tiger, sometimes he spins as a spider, but always he is dangerous—watch him. We do not say what this is owing to; we do not blame it on old Adam, or anybody, except perhaps the individual himself. When we see a tiger, whether in a cage or at large, whether walking on all fours or looking very human, we get out of his way. When we see a spider, whether fairy-like and harmless-looking on his aerial web, or robust and afoot, treading the earth like a man, we avoid him. A tiger is a tiger, and a spider a spider, no matter what his form. Men are sometimes spiders and sometimes tigers. Look out for them. They are impostors. Their apparent manhood is real tigerhood or spiderhood. Whatever was the origin of Freemasonry, and its primary purpose, its principles, and precepts to-day operate to overcome, eliminate and expel from the breasts of its initiates any tendency towards animalism. It says, stand upright, look up, peer beyond, demean yourself well here, and have a care for the hereafter. The Grand Architect of the Universe is your father—worship Him; every member of every Masonic Lodge is your brother—love him. Brotherly Love is the key-note of Masonry. It introduces to the harmony of the Lodge, where Brethren "harmonize in the light." It bids you, fraternally grasp by the hand and take to your heart every worthy Brother. Do not spring upon him like a tiger, nor deceive him like a spider. Do not seclude yourself from your kind, but go forth blessing and to bless, enjoying yourself socially and convivially, while you are ministering enjoyment to others. There are those who "Sit close and silently within,

And their own web from their own entrails spin,"

but no Freemason should go into such a manufacturing business; the product does not warrant it. The goods are poor, and there is no demand for them. Ascetics and hermits are out of date, and ascetism and hermitism far below par. Freemasonry instructs its votaries to be the reverse of all this. It teaches one to remember his kind, to be sympathetic, to be helpful, to be charitable, not—to go outside of his web—but to have no web—to be a man, not a spider, and to exemplify in his conduct manhood, not spiderhood.

It may do at a time when the blasts of war blow in our ears, "to imitate the tiger," but not in times of peace, not in the bosom of the Fraternity, not towards a Brother Mason. It is never justifiable to set the spider or the tiger to a Brother. We are protectors not destroyers, friends not foes. The profane may act brutishly, not we. Let anti-Masons cheat and deceive, set their webs to catch the thoughtless and ignorant—it is their nature, but we are bred in a different school, and amenable to a higher law. We have been "brought to Light," the light of truth, unity and concord, while they are in the midst of a darkness which may be felt.

It may be that there are those who now and then have observed traces of the presence of a spider-like or tiger-like man in the Fraternity. It is too much to expect that we should be entirely successful in excluding from the Craft every such person. We aim to be successful, and all of our regulations are framed to that end. But the strictest rules, and the most careful observance of them, occasionally fail to exclude the unworthy. The hypocrite sometimes makes himself at home in the most exclusive circles. Applicants may declare that they are unbiassed by improper considerations, and uninfluenced by mercenary motives, but when, after they have been received, after a proper examination, they immediately begin to seek to prey upon the Fraternity, or individual members of it, watch them, look out for them. They are spiders or tigers in disguise. They are, in the largest sense of the word, impostors. All of their Masonry is on their tongues, and none of it in their hearts. Young Masons, especially, should be on their guard against these deceivers. They borrow and pay not again; they wear their Masonry as a cloak to hide their guilty purposes; their service is eye-service, and if employed they must be closely looked after. The only proper course when they are detected in their unfraternal and un-Masonic conduct, is to suspend or expel them. They are blots on the Craft, that should be removed as soon as discovered.

The gospel that Freemasonry teaches is the gospel of manhood, embracing truth, justice, honesty, temperance, brotherly love. Against these there is no law. But the crafty deceits of the spider, and the open ferocity of the tiger, let them never be named among us, save to condemn and to punish.

THE W. H. JONES MEMORIAL FUND.

THE Executive Committee of the W. H. Jones Memorial Fund have published a lengthy list of contributors, in which Common Law, Literature, Music, the Drama, and private philanthropy, are all, more or less, represented. A noticeable feature, however, is the absence of names connected with the Railway interest, to which Bro. Jones long rendered good service. It has been suggested that an energetic appeal in this direction could scarcely fail to meet with due recognition.

The Second of the Annual Festivals—that in connection with the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls—will be held on Wednesday next, the 9th instant. The visit of the Stewards to the School, and distribution of Prizes, has been fixed for Tuesday, when Bro. W. W. Beach, M.P., Prov. Grand Master Hants and the Isle of Wight will attend for the purpose.

The numerous friends of our worthy Brother T. J. Barnes will regret to hear the critical state of his health is causing his family much concern. We sincerely trust that the change in the weather we may now look forward to will have a beneficial effect, and that our dear old friend will again be able to regain strength, and take an active share in the labours he has hitherto so ably fulfilled.

The installation of Brother E. J. Acworth as Master of the Lodge of Harmony, No. 133, will take place on Monday, at the Minor Hall of the Faversham Institute. A banquet will afterwards be given at the Ship Hotel, Faversham. Viscount Holmesdale has promised to pay the brethren a visit on this occasion.

CHEAP GAS LIGHT.—Very few know that the light given by an ordinary gas burner can be greatly increased by simply turning the burner over sideways until it slopes slightly downwards. The flame is thrown out as a horizontal sheet formed into a saucer-shape by the natural curling up of the edges. Mr. Fletcher, of Warrington, who is evidently imbued with the idea that he will not only save trouble by utilizing gas as a fuel, but also is never content without a very large six-pennyworth of work for his sixpence, has been testing the difference in duty obtained by an average upright and a horizontal saucer-shaped flame, and finds it averages by photometer about 10 per cent. in favour of the latter, but owing to the fact that with his position of flame the light is thrown downwards, and is perfectly free from shadow, the actual results in his own works and offices have proved that a burner consuming five cubic feet per hour with a horizontal flame gives a better light, and is better for work, than an upright flame consuming six cubic feet per hour. It is, in fact, somewhat of an approach to the principle of Siemen's regenerative burner with the advantage of costing nothing. This is not new to experts, but it is a bit of useful information to the public, who may by this means either increase their light or reduce their gas bills without any expense. It is something to make a little profit or effect a little economy now-a-days without having first to put one's hand in one's pocket. Our better halves will probably still adhere to the wasted glass globe and upright flame, which make our living rooms so unpleasantly close; but there are millions of burners in offices and works which can be simply turned over to the advantage and profit of the users. The improvement is easy to demonstrate without any cost whatever, and no doubt thousands will profit by the hint. No advantage is gained over a large and perfect upright flame regulated to very low pressure, the real action of the change of position being that the excessive pressure invariably given in the mains is neutralised by turning the flame downwards, and the rush of air causing the gas to be over-burnt is prevented.—Mechanical World.

FREEMASONRY IN NOTTINGHAMSHIRE.

FROM THE NOTTINGHAM DAILY GUARDIAN.

THE Freemasons find a congenial home in the county of Nottingham, and as the principles of the Order become more extensively disseminated they increase in numbers and influence. The Provincial Grand Lodge of Nottingham, claims for its Grand Master his Grace the Duke of St. Albans, for its Deputy Prov. Grand Master Bro. John Watson, for its Senior Warden Bro. Sir Henry Bromley Bart, and for its Junior Warden Bro. C. B. Trueman. The oldest Lodge in the Grand Lodge records is Newstead (No. 47), which is often referred to as having its origin in "time immemorial," but the first warrant pertaining to it is dated 1735. It has for its Worshipful Master Bro. Geo. Chapman, for its Senior Warden Bro. E. C. Patchitt, and for its J.W. Bro. H. Vickers. The Lodge meets at the Masonic Hall on the first Tuesday in each month. The Royal Sussex Lodge (No. 402) was founded in 1829, and has its headquarters at the George Hotel, where it meets four times a year. It has for its Worshipful Master Bro. Herbert Owen Taylor, for its Senior Warden the Rev. A. J. L. Dobbin, and for its Junior Warden Dr. Seaton. The Commercial Lodge was founded on the 16th April 1832, meets at the Masonic Hall on the second Monday in the month, and has for its Worshipful Master Bro. William Hickling, for its Senior Warden Bro. S. Walker, and for its Junior Warden Bro. R. Halford. The next Lodge in point of rank is the Pelham Lodge, No. 939, which was founded in the year 1862, and meets at the Corn Exchange, Worksop, on the third Thursday in the month. It has for its Worshipful Master Bro. Robert T. Matterson, its Senior Warden Bro. Joseph Pickering, and its Junior Warden Bro. Charles Butler. The Southwell Lodge, No. 1405, was established in May 1872, and meets at the Masonic Hall on the first Friday in each month, except May and June. It has for its Worshipful Master, Bro. William Hirst, for its Senior Warden Bro. F. Hind, and for its Junior Warden Bro. J. S. Hardy. The Nottinghamshire Lodge, No. 1434, was founded in April 1873, meets at the Masonic Hall on the first Monday in the month from September to April, and has for its Worshipful Master Bro. J. T. McCraith, for its Senior Warden Bro. Arthur James Page, and for its Junior Warden Bro. Arthur Kirby. The Annesley Lodge, No. 1435, was founded on the same date as the Nottinghamshire Lodge, meets at the Masonic Hall, and has for its Worshipful Master Bro. William Clarke, for its Senior Warden Bro. G. T. Alenson, and for its Junior Warden Bro. J. Thornley. The Robin Hood Lodge, 1495, founded in June 1874, meets at the Mechanics' Hall, Eastwood, on the Wednesday on or before the full moon, and has for its Worshipful Master Bro. W. H. Barton, for its Senior Warden Bro. H. Saxton, and for its Junior Warden Bro. James Gall. The Newton Lodge, No. 1661, was founded in May 1887, meets at the Savings Bank, Lombard-street, Newark, on the second Friday in the month, and has for its Worshipful Master Bro. F. H. A. Appleby, for its Senior Warden Bro. Walton, and for its Junior Warden Bro. H. George. The De Vere Lodge, No. 1791, was founded in December 1878, and meets at the Masonic Hall. The Vernon Lodge, No. 1802, was founded on the 1st of January 1879, and meets at the Exchange Buildings, East Retford. The Forest Lodge, No. 1852, was established in November 1879, and has its headquarters at the Swan Hotel, Mansfield. The Carnarvon Lodge was founded on the 22nd April 1881, and meets at the Masonic Hall. The Royal Arch Masons have also a moderately numerous contingent within the county. The first Provincial Grand Chapter of Nottinghamshire has Sir Henry Bromley, Bart. for its Provincial Grand Superintendent, and Companion John Watson for its Provincial Grand H. The Abbey Royal Arch Chapter, No. 47, meets four times a year at the Masonic Hall, and has for its Z. Companion A. Lawson. The Royal Sussex Royal Arch Chapter, No. 402, was established in 1881, meets at the Masonic Hall, and has for its Z. Companion Sir H. Bromley, Bart. The Commercial Royal Arch Chapter was also founded in May 1881, meets at the Masonic Hall, and has for its Z. Companion C. G. Wragg. The Alexander Royal Arch Chapter was established in August 1881, meets at the Savings Bank, Newark, and has for its Z. Comp. W. Newton. There are also held at the Masonic Hall, in connection with the Knights Templars, the Abbey Chapter Encampment, the Nottingham Chapter, No. 17, and the Rose Croix Chapter. The proceedings which took place at Nottingham on Thursday, the 26th ult., were in connection with the Order of Mark Master Masons. This is believed to be of greater antiquity than the more popular branch of Freemasonry, and has made rapid strides in public favour during recent years. The origin of the Newstead Mark Lodge, like its namesake, is said to be of "time immemorial," though its minutes only date from the year 1802. It meets at the Masonic Hall four times a year, and has for its W.M. Bro. C. B. Truman, for its Senior Warden Bro. E. C. Patchitt, and for its Junior Warden Bro. H. J. Norris. The Fleming Mark Lodge, No. 265, is held at the Savings Bank, Newark, four times a-year, and has for its Worshipful Master Bro. J. M. Davis, for its Senior Warden Bro. H. Walton, and for its Junior Warden Bro. J. McLeod. It was thought that there should be a Grand Mark Lodge for Nottinghamshire, and the highly interesting proceedings at the Masonic Hall were instituted for the purpose of establishing such a Lodge, and appointing its first Grand Officers. There was a large number of Mark Masons present from London, Birmingham, Derby, Leicester, Sheffield, Leeds, Bradford, Hartlepool, and other Midland and Northern towns. The members of the Newstead Mark Lodge, of whom Bro. Joseph Ward is the Secretary, attended at the Masonic Hall at eleven in the forenoon, to receive the brethren from a distance, to supply them with information, and to conduct them to the principal places of interest in the town and neighbourhood. The Visitors were received at the entrance by Bros. J. Ward Secretary, Dr. Hatherly, Thornley, J. Wigglesworth, Wills, and Councillor Vickers. The following were amongst the places visited:—The Castle Museum, the University Buildings, the lace-dressing works of his worship the Mayor (Bro. Alderman Lindley), the lace manufactory of Bro. Sir James Oldknow, the lace curtain manufactory of Bro. Doughtey, the leather works of Bro. Alderman Turney, the machine-building works of Bros. Blackburn and Attenborough, and the hosiery manufactories of Messrs. I. and R. Morley. At two o'clock a Lodge of Emergency of the Newstead Mark Lodge was opened by the Worshipful Master, Bro. Charles B. Truman, the choir singing the opening hymn, commencing—

Hail Eternal, by whose aid
All created things were made.

Amongst those present were the following:—Grand Officers—Bros Lord Henniker M.W.G M., Lord Kintore R.W.D.G.M., C. F. Matier P.G.W. acting as G.J.W., F. Davison D.P.G.M., G. Foljambe G.S.D., F. Binckes Grand Secretary, D. M. Dewar Assistant Grand Sec., R. Berridge G.D. of C., W. Watson G. Assistant D. of C., F. Lang G.S.B., G. Carter G.S., G. Powell G.C. Provincial Grand Masters—Bros. Pryn Pryn Province of South Wales, W. Kelly Secretary Leicester, Notts, and Derbyshire Province, J. W. Woodhall N. and E Yorks Province, J. Watson Notts Province. Past Grand Officers—C. T. Lane P.G.D., W. Roebuck P.G.M.O., A. F. Godson D.D.G.M., T. B. Whytehead P G.M.O., T. J. Pulley P.G.S.D., C. F. Matier P.G.W., and J. Arbitt P.G.S.D. Bro. the Earl of Limerick was expected to be present, but his duties in the House of Lords prevented him leaving London. After some preliminary Lodge business had been transacted, Bro. Truman appointed a deputation to receive the M.W.G.M. Lord Henniker and the Officers of the Grand Lodge. The brethren stood to order, and the Organist having played a voluntary, Brother Lord Henniker assumed the throne, and was saluted with Grand honours. His Lordship then opened the Grand Lodge, and the choir sang the ode beginning—

Hail, Masonry divine.

Bro. Binckes, the Grand Secretary, then read the summons convening the meeting, after which the Most Worshipful Grand Master Lord Henniker was informed that the R.W. Provincial Grand Master Designate, Bro. John Watson, was without, and requested to be installed. Brother Lord Henniker directed that Brother Watson should be introduced in proper form. Brother Robert Berridge, the Grand Director of Ceremonies, together with several other Grand Officers and a number of Provincial Grand Officers, retired, formed into processional order, introduced Brother Watson, and conducted him to the front of the pedestal in the east. Brother Binckes Grand Secretary then read the patent of appointment, after which the Rev. Bro. Bagshawe Past Grand Chaplain offered a prayer, and the choir sang the ode, "Supreme Grand Master, God of Power." Bro. Lord Henniker then addressed Bro. Watson on the nature of his duties and the qualifications for the office of Provincial Grand Master. At this point, Bro. Berridge, in his capacity of Grand Director of Ceremonies, proclaimed "The county of Nottinghamshire is now and henceforth constituted a Mark Province." Brother Watson then undertook the necessary obligations pertaining to his appointment, and was conducted to the right of Bro. Lord Henniker, who invested him and inducted him to the chair. Brother Watson was officially proclaimed as the Provincial Grand Master for Nottinghamshire, and was saluted with grand honours. The choir sang the anthem, "That which has gone out of thy lips," after which the other Provincial Grand Officers were appointed, as follow:—Bros. W. Newton (coroner of Newark) D.P.G.M., R. Fitzhugh S.W., C. G. Wragg J.W., Joseph Ward S.D., Thomas Thorpe (Newark) J.D., M. Mann M.O., J. M. Davis (Newark) S.O., H. Walton (Newark) J.O., C. B. Truman Treasurer, E. C. Patchitt Registrar of Marks, H. R. Hatherly Secretary, H. J. Norris and the Rev. A. Wood (Newark) Stewards, H. George Director of Ceremonies, Rev. F. V. Bussell Chaplain, W. Wright Organist, Appleby (Newark) I.G., Bro. Glover Tyler. After votes of thanks had been proposed, and other business transacted, Bro. Lord Henniker resumed his position on the throne, and the choir sang the closing ode,

Now the evening shadows closing,
Warn from toil to peaceful rest.

The Rev. Bro. Bagshawe, Past Grand Chaplain, again offered up prayer, and Grand Lodge having been duly closed, the brethren retired to the banquet-room. The banquet took place in the lower room of the Masonic Hall, and was presided over by Bro. Lord Henniker Right Worshipful Grand Mark Master Mason of England, who was supported by most of those present at the meeting of Grand Lodge. After the repast, Bro. Lord Henniker proposed the Queen and Mark Masonry. His Lordship said this toast was always received with enthusiasm by all classes, and particularly amongst Masons, and not less amongst any other body than by the Mark Masons. Her Majesty the Queen was the Patron of the Order, the Prince of Wales was the Grand Master of England, and the Duke of Albany was one of the Grand Masters of Mark Masonry. He was sure they would all join with him on that occasion, not only in drinking Her Majesty's health with the usual cordiality, but also in the sincere wish that the Queen might be restored to her usual health with the utmost possible speed. This toast was received with Masonic honours. Bro. Watson proposed the M.W. Grand Master the Right Hon. Lord Henniker. He said Mark Masonry was progressing and extending, and he believed a great deal of its success was due to the popularity of its Grand Master. Bro. Lord Henniker, in reply, said he thanked them very much for the cordial reception they had given him. He prized their good feeling very highly, and if he was at all popular amongst the brethren, it was perhaps because he tried to the best of his ability to do his duty to Mark Masonry. During the two years he had held office he had been very fortunate in having good Officers around him to back him up, to help him, and to do their duty as he had endeavoured to do his. He was sorry he was obliged to return to London early in the evening, but he had other duties besides those pertaining to Mark Masonry; and if he got back that night he would have the whole of the following day before him, whereas if he delayed his return until the following morning, he should lose the best part of the day. He wished to thank the Provincial Grand Master, and the whole of the members of the Provincial Grand Lodge for the magnificent reception they had given them, and for the trouble they had taken to make all the arrangements pleasant and comfortable. It was quite true that Mark Masonry was flourishing everywhere. Even the best of things required a little pushing sometimes; but when he saw the enthusiasm displayed at every meeting of Mark Masonry which he attended, he did not think there was much pushing required. It was not at Nottingham alone where they had met with an enthusiastic reception. They had certainly had a most interesting ceremony in a splendid Masonic Hall. Craft Masonry was most flourishing in the Province of Nottingham, and he believed that very soon Mark Masonry would be as flourishing. They met with great enthusiasm wherever they went, and if the Grand Officers, the Officers of Lodges, and brethren carried on the business of Mark Masonry with the same spirit, having duty as their watchword, and the same desire to promote the welfare of the Order, he was sure they would go on from year to year increasing in strength, in numbers, in influence, and in usefulness. Their meeting that day had been of a most pleasing character, and he should carry away reminiscences of it which he should not easily forget. There was one thing which had cast a cloud over their meeting, and that was the death of Brother Vowles, who had taken a most active interest in that Province, both in Mark and in Craft Masonry. He had heard of Bro. Vowles's death with deep regret. He had to apologise to them for the absence from that banquet of the Deputy Grand Master, the Earl of Kintore, who had had great pleasure in attending the meeting of the Grand Lodge, but had been obliged to return to London as soon as it was over, in consequence of the illness of his children. Before sitting down, he wished to propose to them the health of Bro. John Watson, the Prov. Grand Master, to whom was entrusted the most important duty of governing that Province in Mark Masonry. He was sure that in appointing Brother Watson as their Prov. Grand Officer they had taken the best possible course for the promotion of Mark Masonry in Nottinghamshire. Brothers Lord Henniker, Binckes, Dewar, and other Grand Officers here left the room in order to catch the train for London. Brother Watson, in acknowledging the toast, said if the Grand Master felt a responsibility in the establishment of the Province, how much greater responsibility did he (Bro. Watson) feel in undertaking the office of G.M. for Nottinghamshire. Of one thing he was certain, and that was, that if any great measure of success attended their efforts, it would be due to the assistance which his Officers would be able to render him. He could himself do something, doubtless, but his Officers could do a great deal more. Many of them had perhaps not had honours showered upon them as he had, but they had had a much greater experience in the working of the Craft, and it was to their help he looked for the effectual working and the arrangement of the Province. He did not believe that any Provincial Grand Master was surrounded by a better set of Officers, and he would do his best to carry out the principles of the Order in a satisfactory way. When it was first designed to form a Province, they put themselves in communication with the authorities in London, and from that day to this they had met with nothing but kindness and assistance. In conclusion, he proposed the Most Worshipful Past Grand Masters, the Right Worshipful the Deputy Grand Master (the Earl of Kintore), and the Grand Officers, Present and Past, and with the toast he associated the name of Bro. Kelly, Provincial Grand Master for Leicestershire. Bro. Kelly responded, and thanked the company on behalf of the Grand Officers. He said he had known Bro. Watson for many years, and had always found him kind and courteous. He (Bro. Kelly) was the oldest Provincial Grand Officer in England, and Bro. Watson was now the youngest. He had a pleasant recollection of Mark Masonry in Nottingham many years ago, for he came to join that Order about twenty-five years since, and he was devotedly attached to it from that time onward. Brother the Rev. Bro. Bagshawe, of Derbyshire, also responded on behalf of the Grand Officers, and said he felt highly honoured, first of all, in having been appointed a Grand Chaplain in the County Palatine, and also, through Lord Lathom's kindness, in being chosen a Grand Chaplain of Mark Masonry in England. His certificate was allowed by Bro. Binckes to be perfectly regular and correct, and nobody could be more generous in their treatment of him than the Grand Mark Lodge of England had been. He trusted there would be perfect harmony throughout the county, and that Mark Masonry would make rapid progress. Bro. Watson afterwards proposed the Worshipful Deputy Provincial Grand Master of Notts, Bro. W. Newton, and the Officers of the Provincial Grand Lodge. He referred particularly to the services of Bros. Newton and George, and said the Province had much reason to be grateful for the services they had rendered. Bro. Newton, in acknowledging the compliment, said it was necessary to sink small differences in order to gain great objects, and he felt that had been done in establishing this Provincial Grand Lodge. He extremely regretted the death of Bro. Vowles, who had rendered such great service to the Order, and whose genial countenance they remembered so well; but he was perfectly certain that their deceased brother was prepared to take office under the Great Overseer in the Lodge above. He also referred to the large family which Bro. Vowles had left behind, and made some practical suggestions with regard to their future career. He referred to the valuable services which Brother Russell had rendered to Craft and Mark Masonry, and congratulated this newly-formed Lodge on the success which had attended its efforts. Brother Watson proposed the Worshipful Master and Officers and members of the Newstead Lodge (Time Immemorial), to which toast Bro. C. Truman suitably responded. The other toasts included Success to the Mark Benevolent Fund, the Visitors, &c. In the course of the proceedings, songs were rendered by Bro. R. De Lacy, Mr. A. Castings, Mr. Dunkerton, and Mr. Orange.

Digitized by Google

MASONIC ANTIQUITY—LIMERICK.

AS a point of general intrest bearing upon the theory that Freemasonry was first invented at the beginning of the eighteenth century only, we are induced to describe a small square now in the rooms of Lodge 13, in Limerick.

In 1830 the Corporation of Limerick decided upon taking down an old bridge, called Baal's Bridge, which connects the island upon which the old town of Limerick is built with the mainland. This old bridge consisted of four small arches, and had a row of ten houses along one side, the back walls of which were a continuation of the parapet, and the front wall and other parapet formed a narrow street, as in several old bridges in England and other countries. This old bridge of small arches was found inconvenient, and tending to prevent the flow of water and, as it was to be replaced by a bridge consisting of one single arch only, the foundations of the old piers had to be entirely removed and the bed of the river deepened. This required the entire removal of all the foundations of the old piers in the centre of the river; and when taking up the lower course of the centre pier a little cavity was found which contained the following article, viz.:—

A small brass "square," similar in size to that now worn by the Worshipful Masters of all the Craft Lodges in the world, four inches and a half from the outside angle to each end, and about two inches and three quarters from the inside angle to the inside end of the square, the ends being sloped from inside to outside edge, with a wave pattern, not a straight edge. The square is made of a plate of brass five-sixths of an inch broad by about one-tenth of an inch thick.

The square is a little different from the present jewel worn by a W.M., inasmuch as it has two holes, one at each end, at the inner edge, instead of one single hole at the angle, so that if it was hung round the neck by a ribbon or chain it would hang with the angle instead of the ends down as in modern days.

Any body reading thus far would conclude it was only an ornament used by operative Masons, but we now come to the remarkable engraving upon it:—

At the angle of each side where the hole of the modern jewel is situated is engraved a heart, with its lower point to the inner angle and the top indentation to the outside angle.

On the sides of the square is the following inscription in capital letters, a line on each arm:—

I · WILL · STRIUE · TO · LIUE
1517
WITH · LOUE · & · CARE
UPON · Y$_e$ · LEUL
BY · Y$_e$ · SQUARE

The first two of the above lines with the date are upon one side of the jewel, the latter two upon the other side.

This is a most remarkable article, about the antiquity and genuineness of which there is not the least possible doubt. The two hearts and inscription are quite plain to be seen, and the only doubt which can possibly be raised is to one figure in the date which might possibly have been 1317, the second figure could not have been either 0, 1, 2, 4, or 6, and it could not have been either 7 or 8, nor could in reality have the second figure been any other but a figure of 3 or 5. The top and bottom of the figure are perfect, but the intermediate stroke is partly defaced, and this stroke it is which makes a difference of two hundred years in figures of those dates, as in the case of a 5 this stroke runs from the left of the top line to the left of the semicircle, and in a 3 from the right of the top stroke to the same place at the bottom as in the former figure.

How this square came to be placed in the position it was found is a difficulty, as there is no historical account of the building of this bridge either in 1317 or 1517, and the structure must have been in existence long before 1317, as it formed the only entrance to the island upon which the old city of Limerick was built. It is therefore supposed that in the numerous battles which took place upon this bridge, or by a flood, it may have been injured, the current being strong in that place, and some portion of the structure renewed at the time the square was placed in position where it was found in 1830.—The Kneph.

Bro. Signor Ria (Fidelity Lodge, No. 3) announces a Grand Morning Concert, which will take place on the 7th June, at the Marlborough Rooms, 307 Regent-street. NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

—:o:—

ST. GEORGE'S LODGE, No. 1723, BOLTON.

WE, last week, gave an account of the installation meeting of this Lodge, so far as regards the earlier events of the day. The after-dinner proceedings were of an essentially harmonious character, and we feel assured the subjoined particulars will be acceptable to our readers:—

The brethren assembled for banquet shortly after the close of business. Mrs. Priestly of the "Commercial," having put forth her best efforts to cater to the wants of the brethren, was rewarded by a thorough appreciation of one of the most successful meetings of the brethren in Bolton; the arrangements were simply perfect, and the viands all that the keenest epicure could desire. The St. George's Lodge choir, recently established, contributed largely to the enjoyment of the brethren, and sang their glees and songs in such a manner as to entrance the audience. They were heartily thanked for their contribution to the harmony and enjoyment of the meeting. The usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were proposed, and received full recognition from those assembled. In proposing the health of the Provincial Grand Officers the S.W., Bro. Barrett, spoke highly of those brethren, and stated that it should be a matter of pride that Bolton contributed some of the most valued members of that body. The toast was briefly responded to by Brother Henry Greenwood P.Prov. G.P., who said that he was proud of his position as a Past Prov. Grand Officer, and that he would always endeavour to sustain the dignity of the office. The health of the W.M. (Bro. Latham) was proposed by Bro. Brookbank, the senior P.M., who expressed his great gratification at being asked to instal to the office the seventh Master of St. George's Lodge, who had proved himself so worthy of the distinction the brethren had bestowed upon him. His contributions that day shewed clearly that he thoroughly appreciated the axiom that office brought responsibilities as well as honours along with it. Bro. Dr. Bentley, composer of "Here's to his health in a song," favoured the brethren by a vocal display, which elicited the warm plaudits of the brethren. Bro. Pennington proposed the Installing Master, Bro. Brookbank, and spoke in very flattering terms of the long Masonic services of that brother, intimating that the pleasure he had in visiting the Lodge that evening was considerably enhanced by hearing the Master of his own Lodge conduct the ceremony of the day, and, as Master of the oldest Lodge in the town, instal the Master of the youngest Lodge into office. Brother Brookbank, in reply, alluded to the fact that this Lodge, of which he had the honour of being the first Master, had in a short time become so marvellous a success, this showed that brethren of good social position peaceably and quietly agreed to accept their Masonic rank without any desire to obtain precedence, which some brethren might think them entitled to; for instance, the S.W. was Chairman of the Board of Guardians of the Bolton Poor Law Union, and the J.W. held the honourable position of Mayor of Bolton, while other members of the bodies over which these brethren respectively presided occupied various offices in the Lodge. He was proud of its success, and trusted to be spared to continue to render it any service in his power. The Mother Lodge, 221, was proposed by the Mayor, and responded to by Bro. John Isherwood, W.M. of the Lodge. The Mayor spoke in the most kindly way of the "Mater," and the services the old Lodge had rendered to Freemasonry, and of the very excellent Masons who had been trained under its banner, heartily wishing it every success. The Past Masters were duly honoured, and the toast replied to by Bro. Court, who acknowledged the services which had been rendered to him during his year of office by the Past Masters and also the Officers of the Lodge. The Visitors, proposed by Bro Barratt S.W., was responded to by Bro. Brierley, W.M. Lodge Relief, No. 42, Bury, who expressed his great gratification at visiting Bolton Lodges, as his Lodge was consecrated, now nearly 150 years ago, by the first Master of the Anchor and Hope Lodge of Bolton; he stated that the Sesqui-Centennial of his Lodge would be celebrated in the month of July, and he hoped to be well supported by Bolton Masons. The Charities were next proposed and honoured. The services of the Officers of the Lodge were fully recognised and the compliment paid them was gracefully acknowledged. The toast, proposed by Bro. John Morris P.M.—Poor and Distressed Masons—concluded the programme. The musical arrangements and general direction of the proceedings were entrusted to the able hands and experienced judgment of Bro. Taylor, Past Provincial Grand Organist, and gave general satisfaction. The following brethren formed the choir whose services were so highly appreciated:—Bros. J. M. Bentley, Mus. Doc., J. B. Goulborn, Cheesewright, J. T. Smith, J. W. Taylor, and Tom Collins. The following is a list of the glees, &c. sung:—"National Anthem," choir; "God bless the Prince of Wales," choir; "Ye Shepherds," Dr. Bentley; "Let us have harmony," choir; "Good Company," Bro. Walker; "Red Cross Knight," choir; "Polly," Cheesewright; "Glorious Apollo," choir; "The Poacher," Bro. Pennington; "Friendship, Love and Truth," Bro. Higson; "Mother Hubbard," The Chanlain; "Here's to his health," Dr. Bentley; "Fill to him," Bro. Nicholson; "Stranded," Bro. Goulburn; "When Evening's Twilight," choir; "The Collier Lad," Bro. J. H. Greenhalgh; "Should Auld Acquaintance," Dr. Bensey; "Powder Monkey," Bro. Cheesewright.

Percy Lodge of Instruction. No. 198.—Meeting at the Jolly Farmers, Southgate-road, Islington, N., on 28th April. Present—Bros. Weeden W.M., Ashton S.W., Capstick J.W., Venning S.D., Woolf J.D., Snook I.G., Fenner acting Preceptor, Galer Secretary; also Bros. Houghton, Manger, Richardson, and Dixie. Lodge was opened in due form with prayer, and the minutes of last Lodge meeting were read and confirmed. After preliminaries, Brother Manger (a F.C.) answered the questions leading to the third degree. The ceremony of passing was afterwards rehearsed, Brother Manger candidate. Lodge was resumed, and Bro. Ashton was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing week. Bro. Capstick, of the Industry Lodge, No. 186, was elected a member. The Fifteen Sections will be worked in the Upton Lodge of Instruction, held at the Swan Tavern, Bethnal Green-road, by members of the Percy, on Thursday, the 10th May, under the presidency of Bros. I. P. Cohen W.M., H. G. Gush S.W., A. Trewinnard J.W., and A. W. Fenner I.P.M. Brethren are cordially invited.

Loughborough Lodge of Instruction, No. 22.—At the weekly meeting, held at the Cambria Tavern, Cambria-road, Loughborough, S.E., on Monday evening last, Brother James Stevens P.M. P.Z. &c. paid his long-promised visit to this flourishing Lodge, and gave his lecture on the first degree. Amongst the members present we noticed Bro. J. R. Johnson Preceptor, and Bros. Donald, Baldwin, Philips, Richardson, Harvey, Westly, Banks, Rush, Wood, Allison, Snelling, Leigh, Perkins, Sherring, Haines, Poore. The Lodge was opened, Bro. J. R. Johnson occupying the chair, assisted by Bros. Allison and J. Saddler Wood as Senior and Junior Wardens, Bros. Banks S.D., Harvey J.D., and Westley I.G. After the confirmation of the minutes Bro. James Stevens proceeded with his lecture, which was listened to with marked attention by the brethren, and as time did not permit of it being concluded, Bro. Stevens consented to attend at an early date, at the request of the brethren, to deliver the second portion of his lecture. Three members were elected, and a unanimous vote of thanks was passed to Brother Stevens for the part of his interesting lecture he had delivered, and as a small token of respect he was elected an honorary member of the Lodge. He in reply to the vote accepted it in the fraternal spirit of the intentions of the brethren. The Lodge was then closed in ancient form, and it was the unanimously expressed view of the brethren present that they had received considerable instruction from what Brother Stevens had so kindly imparted to them in his lecture.

United Pilgrims Lodge of Instruction, No. 507—The usual weekly meeting was held at the Surrey Masonic Hall, Camberwell, on Friday evening, the 27th ultimo, when there was a large attendance of brethren. The Worshipful Master, Bro. E. A. Francis was supported by the following Officers:—Bros. H. Baldwin S.W., Serjeant J.W., Poore Secretary, Phillips S.D., Jones J.D., Hakini P.M. I.G., Williams Organist, Knight Master of Ceremonies, there were also present Bros. Richardson, Bye jun., Bate, Stokes, Albert, Banks, Styles, Pooler, and others. After preliminaries, Lodge was advanced to the second degree, and, in accordance with previous arrangements, the W.M. (Brother Francis) proceeded to rehearse the installation ceremony (omitting that portion relating to the board of Installed Masters). Brother S. Richardson having assumed the chair of K.S., the Officers of the evening, as above, were duly invested, and the remainder of the ceremony was proceeded with, and concluded. Lodge being closed to the first degree, a hearty vote of thanks was unanimously passed to Brother Francis for the admirable manner in which he had worked the ceremonies, to the great pleasure and profit of the brethren. The resolution was ordered to be inserted on the minutes. Brother Francis thanked the Lodge for their kind vote, which was a sufficient reward for his exertions. Brother G. H. Knight rendered efficient service as Master of Ceremonies, as also did Brother Williams as Organist; he gave the musical portions with great taste and effect. Bro. Baldwin was elected Worshipful Master for the ensuing week. Brother S. Richardson was elected a member. The usual routine business being duly completed, and hearty good wishes expressed by the brethren, Lodge was closed.

Royal Alfred Lodge of Instruction, No. 780.—A meeting was held at the Star and Garter Hotel, Kew Bridge, on Friday, 27th April, at 8 o'clock p.m. Present—Bros. C. E. Botley W.M., F. Botley S.W., Gomm J.W., Cammell S.D., Monson J.D., Tucker W.M. 1612 Treasurer, Sperring I.G., Andrews P.M. Preceptor; also Maton, &c. Lodge was opened in the first degree, and the minutes of last meeting were read confirmed and signed. Lodge was opened in the second and third degrees, and the ceremony of raising rehearsed, Bro. Preceptor acting as candidate. Lodge was closed in the third and second degrees. The W.M. and the brethren then worked the first and fourth sections of the lecture. Brother Botley was elected W.M. for next Friday.

New Concord Lodge of Instruction, No. 813.—A meeting was held on Wednesday last, at the Jolly Farmers' Tavern, Southgate-road. Present—F. Ashton W.M., Gush S.W., W. Potter J.W., F. Perl Secretary, Jupp S.D., Delvalle J.D., Halford I.G.; P.M.'s Cusworth Preceptor, Killick. Visitors—Allsopp, Gadsby, Ockelford, Read, Lone, Weeden, Dixie, Langdale. The customary formalities having been observed in opening the Lodge, and the minutes read and confirmed, the W.M. proceeded to rehearse the ceremony of initiation, Bro. Dixie candidate. Bro. Gush, assisted by the brethren, worked the first and second sections of the first lecture. Bro. Langdale, of the St. Andrew's Lodge, No. 401, was elected a member. Bro. Gush was appointed W.M. for the ensuing meeting. Hearty good wishes having been offered, the meeting adjourned until Wednesday next, at the hour of eight precisely. The brethren then indulged in harmony, which is the practice here after Lodge business is over.

Tredegar Lodge of Instruction, No. 1625.—Held at the Royal Hotel, Mile End-road, on the 30th April. Present—Bros. Hubbert W.M., Austen S.W., Oxley J.W., West S.D., Job J.D., Scheerboom I.G., I. P. Cohen P.M. 205 acting as Preceptor, B. Stewart Hon. Sec.; also Bros. Clements, C. Kendall, Pringle, and Pugh. Lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes of previous meeting were read and confirmed. Bro. Pugh answered the questions leading from first to second degree. Lodge was advanced, and Bro. Clements, as candidate to be raised to the third degree, answered the questions, and was duly entrusted. Lodge was opened in the third degree, and the ceremony of raising rehearsed, Bro. Clements candidate. Bro. George Kennett Pugh, of Old England Lodge 1790, was unanimously elected a member. Bro. Austen was appointed W.M. for the meeting on 14th May. The Fifteen Sections will be worked in this Lodge on 7th May, on which occasion Bro. Stewart 1278 will preside.

Brixton Lodge of Instruction, No 1949.—The usual weekly meeting was held on Tuesday evening last, the 1st instant, at Bro. Monk's, the Prince Regent, Dulwich-road, East Brixton, when there was a good attendance of brethren. The W.M. Brother A. E. Albert being supported by the following:—Richardson S.W., Hakini J.W., Francis Preceptor, Phillips Treasurer, Williams Secretary, Poore S.D., Banks J.D., Baldwin I.G.; also Bros. Harling P.M., Knight, Hooper, Letchfield, Pooler, Croucher, Hudepohl, Monk, Danks, Hill, Millen. Lodge being opened in due form, the Secretary read the minutes of the previous meeting, which were unanimously confirmed. The W.M. rehearsed the ceremony of initiation, Bro. Knight candidate. The W.M. rehearsed the ceremony of passing, Bro. Hill candidate. Lodge was closed to the first degree, and a hearty vote of thanks accorded to the W.M. for the excellent manner in which he had conducted the duties of the chair, for the first time in his Masonic career. Bro. Richardson was elected W.M. for the ensuing week. Lodge was closed in due form in peace and harmony, and adjourned until Tuesday next, at 8 p.m. The anniversary meeting of the Lodge will be held on Tuesday, 12th June, when the worthy Preceptor, Bro. Francis, will preside, and work the ceremony of installation. After the Lodge of Instruction closed, the monthly meeting of the Brixton Lodge of Instruction Benevolent Association was held, Bro. Francis, the President, being in the chair. The Secretary, Bro. Hooper, read the minutes of the previous meeting, which were confirmed. The Treasurer, Brother Richardson, announced that he had over £10 10s in hand, and it was resolved that there should be two ballots, of £5 5s each, in accordance with the rules. Bro. Harling P.M. and Miss Hammond proved to be the fortunate recipients. The Society now numbers forty members, who pay a subscription of 1s per week. Twenty-five guineas have already been paid over to the Charities. This augurs well for the success of the Society in the future, and our Masonic Charities will benefit accordingly. Members are admitted any week after the Instruction Lodge is closed, and at the monthly meeting, on the first Tuesday in each month. Ballots are taken if funds allow; there will, however, always be one or two each monthly meeting, and shortly, it is hoped, even more. A vote of thanks to the chairman concluded the proceedings at a somewhat late hour.

THE EMPIRE LAMP.
(RIPPINGILLE'S PATENT.)
THE MOST BRILLIANT AND ECONOMICAL DOMESTIC LIGHT EXTANT.
It equals Gas for Simplicity, but surpasses it for Illuminating Power.
IT burns without a chimney, a pine-shaped globe only being required, which has never been known to break from the heat of the flame. It will give more light than any other lamp with a wick of equal size. The combustion is so perfect that it deodorises the oil, and burns absolutely without smell, giving an intense pure white and beautiful light. It is unrivalled for simplicity in lighting, cleaning, and trimming, and is, in fact, the perfection of artificial light. Suitable for Cottage or Mansion, Churches, Chapels, &c.

Freemason's Chronicle;

A WEEKLY RECORD OF MASONIC INTELLIGENCE.

SANCTIONED BY THE GRAND LODGE OF ENGLAND.

VOL. XVII.—No. 435. SATURDAY, 12th MAY 1883. [PRICE THREEPENCE. 13s 6d per annum, post free.

THE CANDIDATES FOR THE BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION.

IN presenting to our readers a brief outline of the particulars furnished in reference to the circumstances of the several candidates offering themselves for election at the contest on the 18th inst., we can but again express the hope that those most deserving of support may ultimately be found at the head of the poll. There are, unfortunately, a very much larger number of applicants than vacancies, and it is to be regretted that there is little chance that the number of the latter will be materially increased unless many of those already on the funds of the Institution are removed by the hand of death. Much as we and others would like to see many more of the "Old People" now seeking election admitted at this year's contest than is at present proposed, we hardly think any one will really wish it when we consider the only condition by which such increase is possible. The Institution is kept up for the purpose of lessening the troubles and toil of declining years, and we feel sure that all who subscribe to it do so with the desire that each of the annuitants may live for many years to enjoy the provision thus made for them.

It is very difficult to estimate the particular degree of suffering endured by those in distress—as some of our recent correspondents and others have argued; and it is not our present purpose to attempt to determine who is the worst off—the man who, formerly in affluent circumstances, has an income now reduced to "very moderate" dimensions, or he who, never having had much more than "very moderate" means, now finds himself deprived of even these. We have before us a list of one hundred and twenty old people who seek election to the benefits of the R.M. Benevolent Institution, and of these only thirty-eight can, as at present arranged, be relieved. Which then shall be the fortunate thirty-eight? All have claims on us, but all are not similarly circumstanced as regards number or ability of friends, and it is only those who can secure a large number of votes who have a chance of succeeding. Of the one hundred and twenty candidates, fifty are aged brethren competing for twenty-three annuities, and to these we shall first direct our attention. Of this total, nineteen were initiated in London Lodges, twenty-nine in Country, and two in Foreign. The Provinces which are represented are:—Hampshire and the Isle of Wight, Lancashire (East), Northumberland, and Yorkshire (West), each with three candidates; Cheshire, Devonshire, and Kent, each with two; and Dorsetshire, Essex, Lancashire (West), Middlesex, Norfolk, Suffolk, Somersetshire, Sussex, Warwickshire, Worcestershire, and Yorkshire (North and East), each with one. The Foreign cases come respectively from Gibraltar and Hong Kong Lodges, while the London candidates were initiated respectively in Lodges Nos. 7, 25, 27 (two candidates), 45, 87 (two candidates), 177 (two candidates), 180, 181, 185, 188, 211, 554, 733, 834, 871, and 1185.

We will take the London cases first. No. 22, John Martin Baab, was initiated in Royal York of Perseverance Lodge, No. 7, in 1836, and paid thereto for 32¼ years. He is now, at the age of nearly 80 years, compelled to seek aid from the Institution, for which he has been a Steward, and is a Life Governor. Few, we imagine, are more worthy to receive an annuity; the present is his first application. No. 47, Richard Churchill, was initiated in the Robert Burns Lodge, No. 25, in June 1843, but only remained a member of it for six months. For fifteen years after he seems to have taken no interest in Freemasonry, for it is not until 1859 that he again appears as a subscribing member, he having joined No. 157 in March of that year; from that date until 1877 he has remained on the books of Grand Lodge—since 1863 as a member of No. 969, of which he was one of the founders—and shows a total of twenty years' subscription. He was formerly in good circumstances, but is now compelled to seek aid from others; speculation having reduced him to penury. He is afflicted with rheumatism, and has a helpless sister dependent upon him. No. 30, James Shepherd, and No. 50, John Thomas Jones, each received Masonic light in the Egyptian Lodge, No. 27, the former in 1852, and the latter in 1868. Bro. Shepherd continued his subscription as a "mummy" for 6¼ years, and then, after a short interval, joined No. 201, to which he subscribed for 11¼ years, giving him a total of 17¾ years' subscription. Loss of business compels him now to seek the assistance of the Benevolent Institution, of which he is a Governor. Bro. Jones continued his allegiance to his mother Lodge until his retirement from active Masonic life, which took place in 1879, after a membership of 11¼ years. He now finds himself, at the age of 74, unable to follow his business, and therefore appeals to his brethren of the Craft. The members of the "old Egyptian" will not let him long remain out in the cold, unless there is some reason for their not helping him. No. 6, G. H. T. Dyer, initiated in the Strong Man Lodge, No. 45, in 1853, continued his subscription thereto for 26¼ years. He is now partially paralyzed, and comes forward with 367 votes to his credit from last election. The Vitruvian Lodge, No. 87—that most zealous of patronisers of the Benevolent Institution—is accredited with the initiation of two of this year's candidates, No. 9, Joseph Lewis, and No. 29, James Goodchild. Bro. Lewis was initiated in 1862, and continued his subscription until 1880. Ill-health and infirmity prevents his following his employment. He brings forward 536 votes from last election. Brother Goodchild is a younger Mason, having been initiated in 1872; he continued his subscription until 1881, a total of 9½ years. Indigent circumstances and paralysis are the claims he now puts forward in support of his application. The Domatic Lodge, No. 177, is also represented by two of its children, viz., No. 42, William M. Ford, and No. 46, Christopher Wilcox. Bro. Ford was initiated in 1856, and then subscribed for three years; he re-joined the Lodge in 1871, and continued on its roll until December 1878, a total of eleven years. Bro. Wilcox was initiated in 1858, and paid until 1873; since then he has taken part in the foundation of Lodge, No. 975, at Richmond, and joined No. 780, at Kew Bridge. Ill-health renders him incapable of following his occupation. No. 16, W. Harrison, initiated in St. James's Union Lodge, No. 180, in 1854, has paid Grand Lodge dues for 14 years, five from his mother Lodge, and nine from No. 733, London. Reduced circumstances, old age, and infirmities are pleaded on his behalf. He was only able to poll 11 votes at last year's election. No. 34, B. Banks, initiated in Universal Lodge, No. 181, in March 1829, has a record of 35¼ years membership, made up in his mother Lodge and in Nos. 186, 619, and 534. The recent death of his mother-in-law leaves him quite unprovided for. No. 39, Ralph M. Smith, a P.G. Steward, has had a varied connection with Freemasonry, stated at 26¼ years. Initiated in Tranquillity Lodge, No. 185, in 1856, he paid to that Lodge for three quarters of a year. He then joined No. 145, and paid one year. About the same time he joined No. 23, and paid to it for a matter of 12 years; No. 619, to which he subscribed for two years, and No. 742, to which he paid 7½ years. The Grand Stewards' Lodge received him in 1860, and again in 1868, his payments on the first occasion being for 1½ years, and on the second 3 years. He has served the office of Steward, and is a Life Governor of the Benevolent, and also of the Girls' School; the abolition of his office in the Bankruptcy Court is stated to have deprived him of the means of livleihood. No. 15, James L. Langley, initiated in the Joppa Lodge, No. 188, in 1856, paid until 1878. Losses in business, coupled with old age, have compelled him to seek the benefits of the Institution. He has already had 509 votes polled in his behalf. No. 17, Francis Harper, owes his initiation to the St. Michael's Lodge, No. 211, to which he belonged from 1856 to 1875. He joined No. 382 in 1868, and continued a member thereof for three years. He suffers from severe disease of the eyes. No. 41, William Brafield, an initiate of the Yarborough Lodge, No. 554, in 1862, shows eleven years' membership to his mother Lodge. Loss of trade, old age, and sickness of self and wife have placed him in destitute circumstances. He subscribed to the Institution for ten years, a fact which should get him some little support. No. 35, Hannibal Gardner, was initiated in the Westbourne Lodge, No. 733, in 1858, and paid thereto until 1881. He joined No. 27 in 1861, and remained on its roll until 1877. His only means of support for some time past has been the engrossing of Warrants and Patents of appointment for Grand Lodge. His age is nearly 74. No. 28, Charles Fitzwater, initiated in Ranelagh Lodge, No. 834, in 1861, paid until 1869, and again from 1873 to 1878, a total of 15 years. Failure in business has rendered him unable to support himself and family. He has been a Steward for the Benevolent, and is a Life Governor thereof. No. 26, Robert West, an initiate of Royal Oak Lodge, No. 871, subscribed thereto for 17½ years. He is a Governor of the Benevolent and Girls' School, has lost all his property, and is unable to gain employment in consequence of extreme deafness. No. 49, William F. Tubby, concludes the London list. He was initiated in Lewis Lodge, No. 1185, in 1868, subscribing until 1880. He was also a member of No. 11 from 1871 to 1880. He is now suffering from diseased brain, and is permanently incapacitated from following his occupation.

Hampshire and the Isle of Wight comes first on our list of Provincials, and sends No. 7, Charles Sarl; No. 13, Alexander Reid; and No. 43, Thomas R. Weston. Bro. Sarl was initiated in 1863 in Lodge No. 35, Cowes, and paid thereto until 1879; he joined No. 551, Ventnor, in 1876, and paid to it for five years. He is now without employment. Has thirty votes forward from last year. Bro. Reid was initiated in Southampton (No. 359) in 1863, paying to his mother Lodge until 1876; he afterwards joined No. 195, Bournemouth, and paid until 1878. He has twenty-one votes in hand; is without any means of support. Bro. Weston appears now for first time. He was initiated in No. 487, Portsmouth, in 1853, paying thereto until 1868. Is now much reduced in circumstances. Receives pension of 8s 6d per week from Incorporated Society of Licensed Victuallers.

Lancashire (East) initiated No. 25, Andrew Wade; No. 33, Thomas Nuttall; and No. 45, Richard Wild. The former was received into No. 381, Over Darwen, in 1837, and paid thereto for 24¼ years. He joined No. 1476, Blackpool, in 1874, and paid six years. He suffers from chronic rheumatism, and is too infirm to follow his occupation. Bro. Nuttall, for thirty-six years (from 1842) a member of his mother Lodge, No. 215, Haslingden, is unable to earn anything, in consequence of ill health. Bro. Wild can also show long adhesion to his mother Lodge, though in his case the term is reduced to twenty-seven years. He was initiated in 1855 in No. 226, Littleborough, and is now, through paralysis and old age, dependent on his children.

Northumberland is responsible for No. 2, John Patterson; No. 37, Joseph Robertson; and No. 38, Noach S. Lotinga. Bro. Patterson was admitted to Freemasonry in No. 393, Berwick, in 1852, and paid for twenty-eight years. He is now incapable, and has only £6 16s a year coming in—a pension from the Aged Seamen's Fund. He polled 158 votes last election. Bros. Robertson and Lotinga were both initiated in No. 431, North Shields, the former in 1857, and the latter in 1846. Bro. Robertson paid to his mother Lodge for 24¾ years, and to No. 991, Wellington Quay, for 18 years Bad health and an accident render him unable to support his wife and family, his receipts as Tyler of two Lodges being his only income. Bro. Lotinga rejoined his mother Lodge in 1851, and paid for thirty-one years. He also subscribed to No. 424, Gateshead, for six years. He has been a Steward for the Benevolent, is Life Governor of that and the Girls' School, and Life Subscriber of the Boys. Losses in business and failing health has placed him in great poverty.

Yorkshire (West) has No. 31, Ben Exley, No. 32, Thomas Collins, and No. 44, William Stork, accredited to it. Bro. Exley saw the light of Masonry in No. 208, Dewsbury in 1842, and continued a member of that Lodge until December 1881. A severe accident, coupled with losses in business and bad trade render him unable to support himself and family. Bro. Collins was initiated in No. 290, Huddersfield, in 1830, and paid until 1836; he joined Lodge 275 in 1837, and remained a member until 1882. The failure of a bank ruined him, and his great age, upwards of eighty years, renders him unfit to return to his occupation. Bro. Stork, initiated in (late) No. 681, Ripon, in 1848, joined No. 837 in 1860, and paid for 21¼ years. Age and failing health render him unfit for work, and his savings only amount to a small sum.

Cheshire is represented by No. 21, Michael Coffey, and No. 36, William Radford. The former was initiated in No. 89, Dukinfield, in 1864, and paid until 1880. He is incapacitated, through an accident, has no means of support, and is in great poverty and want. The latter was initiated in (late) No. 651, Chester, in 1847, and subscribed until end of 1852. He joined No. 765, London, in 1863, and paid to it for 3¼ years. A severe accident and paralysis have permanently incapacited him from earning a living.

Devonshire sends No. 5, George Cole, and No. 24, John L. Towning. Bro. Cole subscribed to his mother Lodge (No. 248), Brixham, for 17½ years; he is now incapacitated, through chronic rheumatism and defective sight; he has a pension of £3 8s a-year from the Merchant Seamen's Fund. He brings forward 13 votes from last year. Bro. Towning was initiated in 1870, in Lodge No. 372, Budleigh Salterton, and subscribed to it for 12 years. Infirmity and failing sight renders him unfit to follow his trade.

Kent has also two cases—No. 11, Charles Benjamin Bennett, and No. 12, Frederick John Knott; both took part in last year's election, and then secured 509 and 508 votes respectively. Bro. Bennett was initiated in No. 77, Gravesend, in 1853, and paid until June 1856. He joined No. 1382, London, in 1871, and paid to March 1881. He is dependent on a small commission, which is insufficient to support him. Bro. Knott, initiated in and for 17¼ years a member of No. 429, Ramsgate, is, through rheumatic gout, quite unable to follow his occupation.

The remaining cases are each from separate districts; we take them in the order they appear on the list, except that we shall leave the two candidates who were initiated abroad until last. No. 1, George Ensell, a Birmingham brother, was initiated in No. 43, in 1856, and paid to June 1867. He also joined No. 739 in 1858. He is permanently incapacitated, and without means of support. The present is his fourth application, and he comes forward with 238 votes to his credit. No. 3, James Hayter, for 21¼ years a member of No. 40, Hastings (1858—1879) was formerly in good circumstances, but is now entirely dependent on charity. He brings forward 283 votes from two previous elections. No. 10, Francis Joseph Wirtzfeld, was initiated in No. 382, in 1863, and remained on its roll until 1870. Chronic rheumatism and contraction of the spine has rendered him unfit to follow his occupation. He brings forward 346 votes from last year. No. 14, Daniel Heigho, for 20½ years a member of the Province of Essex, is permanently incapacitated, through a fractured thigh. He secured 43 votes last election. No. 18, John Kingsbury, initiated in No. 261, Taunton, in 1843, paid for 21¼ years; misfortune and loss in business have rendered him entirely destitute. No. 19, William Norman, was initiated at Harleston, in No. 85, in 1854, and paid to that Lodge for 11½ years, he then joined No. 959, Ipswich, and paid to June 1880. Ill health and old age have caused the loss of his business, and he has no friends to help him. No. 20, Thomas Sansom, shows a total of 32½ years payments to G. Lodge; 15½ years as a member of No. 170, Weymouth (his mother Lodge, wherein he was initiated in 1852), and 17 years as a member of No. 1037, Portland. Decline of business, and bad health compel him to seek aid from the Institution. No. 23, John Musham, an initiate of No. 200, Scarborough, in 1871, subscribed for 5½ years. Business misfortunes and paralysis are given as the reasons for his present appeal. No. 27, Frederick Allies, initiated in No. 529, Worcester, in 1847, continued his subscriptions until 1853—thirty years ago. He is in very straightened circumstances, and is paralysed. No. 40, Thomas Ashmore, was for 18¼ years connected with No. 823, Liverpool, he having been initiated there in 1863. His only income for himself and wife is £20 a-year from the "Hamer Masonic Benevolent Fund, West Lancashire." No. 48, Jonathan Wright, shows a total of 34 years dues having been paid. He was initiated in No. 555, Framlingham, in 1848, and paid there until June 1858. He joined No. 71, Lowestoft, in 1852, and again in 1859. Through depression of trade, and old age, he is unable to obtain employment.

From abroad we have No. 4, John Inwood, and No. 8, Thomas William Sewell, both of whom now make a second application. The former was initiated in No. 153, Gibraltar, in 1868, and paid thereto until 1873. He joined No. 697, Colchester, in 1874, and paid for one year. Age, infirmity, and a most painful disease combine to render him incapable of earning a living. He has a pension of 1s 6d a day. He brings forward 158 votes. Bro. Sewell first saw Masonic light in Lodge No. 1026, Hong Kong, in 1873. He is totally blind, and without any means of support, a distant relative upon whom he was formerly dependent being now unable to maintain him. This, the last case of the fifty on the list of Old Men candidates for the 18th instant is certainly, to all appearances, one of the most deserving, even if it is not the one that should have first attention.

We have so far only devoted ourselves to the Male list; there yet remains seventy Widows, each of whom is entitled to some notice at our hands, but we regret it is not in our power to consider their claims as fully as we have done in the case of the men. Our aged brethren have in a measure the first claim on our attention, and such being the case, we have referred to each one individually, with the result that we have already outrun the space at our disposal. We must therefore be very brief in our remarks respecting the widows, although it must not be assumed that by such action we consider the widows the less deserving of relief at the hands of the Craft.

London is responsible for twenty-two of the seventy candidates for the Widow Annuities, that is to say, the husbands in twenty-two of the cases were initiated in London Lodges. Of the remainder, forty-five come from Provincial initiates, one from a Jersey Mason, one from a Military Lodge, and the other from New Zealand. Glancing first at the London cases, we find the following Lodges to be represented, viz.:—Nos. 1, 7, 8, 11, 22, 25 (two applicants), 73, 79, 87, 142, 147, 169, 173, 179 (three applicants), 186, 188, 206, 554, and 780. No. 28, M. M. Rodgers, is a widow whose husband was initiated in No. 1 Lodge, he subscribed to it for 11¾ years. The present is her third application, and she brings forward 66 votes. No. 30, A. T. H. Wood, Lodge 7, shews 20 years payment by her husband to his Mother Lodge. She has 512 votes in hand from two previous contests. No. 53, S. A. Mardon, is a first application. Her husband was initiated in and paid to No. 8 for 14 years. No. 12, Mary Geary, third application, has 243 votes in hand. Her husband paid for 34¼ years; as a member of Lodges Nos. 11, 19, and 120. No. 33, E. Haynes, whose husband paid for 18 years, in Lodges 22 and 27, brings forward on this her second application 522 votes. The two candidates from Robert Burns Lodge, No. 25, are 29, C. Murnss, and 67, H. Rebbeck. The former's husband paid to his mother Lodge from 1840 to 1850, and to No. 503, Maidstone, from 1844 to 1859. This is her third application, and she brings forward 594 votes. The latter (Rebbeck) can only show 5¼ years payments from her husband, 1¼ to his mother Lodge and 4 to No. 43, London. No. 54, S. Timms, first application, records 10¼ years payment by her husband, as a member (and initiate) of No. 73. No. 59, R. Perridge, is the representative of No. 79, to which Lodge her husband paid from 1863 to 1878. He also joined Nos. 1320 and 140, his total years payments being 25¼. The Vitruvian Lodge, No. 87, puts forward No. 56, M. Heppel, the husband of whom paid to that Lodge for 14¼ years. No. 49, J. Polkinghorne's husband shows a Masonic life of 27 years, 3 years of which was in his mother Lodge, No. 142, and the remainder in No. 121, Penzance. No. 26, A. Roberts, brings forward 924 votes from two previous trials. Her husband was initiated in No. 147, and remained a member for 10 years. The next case, No. 27, M. Nowlan is the representative, of No. 169, also a Deptford Lodge, her husband was initiated in 1857, and paid for 14 years. Lodge No. 173 is represented by No. 8, E. Lafittau, widow of an initiate of 1866, who paid for one year; he afterwards joined No. 91, in 1871, and subscribed to the time of his death in 1879. The Manchester, No. 179, appears as the mother Lodge of three of the applicants' husbands, viz.:—Nos. 3, 21, and 45. No. 3, E. M. A. Child, now makes a sixth application, with only 430 votes in hand. The husband appears to have left the Manchester Lodge immediately after his initiation, and joined No. 177, to which he subscribed from 1836 to 1859. No. 21, L. Greig's husband, was initiated in 1851, and subscribed for 17½ years. She has been more successful as regards votes, having secured 942 at the last two contests. No. 45, H. Evans, brings forward 252 votes from last year. Her husband remained a member of the Manchester Lodge for 19¼ years (1838-1857), and then joined the Vitruvian, No. 87, to which he paid for 8 years (1857-1865). No. 40, E. Bowen, makes a second application, and brings forward 275 votes. Her husband, an initiate of No. 186, paid for 13½ years, 12½ to his mother Lodge, and one to 1223, Westerham. The Joppa, No. 188, has a representative in No. 66, F. Isaac, whose husband, initiated in 1855, subscribed for 15¼ years. No. 20, P. A. Rumsey, brings forward 594 votes from two previous elections, her husband was initiated in No. 206, in 1841, and remained on its roll until the time of his death in 1879, a term of thirty-eight years. Brethren of the Friendship Lodge, is 594 votes the most you can collect for the widow of this old member in two years? surely 38 years "Friendship" should do more. The Yarborough, No. 554, initiated Brother Morrison, the husband of E. Morrison, No. 36 on the present list, and he continued a member until his death 11½ years after. The widow had 1342 votes polled on her behalf last year, another instance of the way in which this pattern East End Lodge helps its old members. This is in striking contrast with the last case. No. 17, S. Rigarlsford, brings to an end the list of London representatives. Her husband saw the light of Freemasonry in the Royal Alfred Lodge, No. 780, in 1864, and continued a member thereof for 12¼ years. She comes forward for the third time, with six votes. Brethren of the Royal Alfred, this is not as it should be; we hope you have an answer to the charge of neglect which appears justifiable here.

Hampshire and Isle of Wight has five representatives. No. 11, Mary Smith—husband initiated in No. 30, Southampton, in 1839, and afterwards joined No. 359, Southampton, paying two years to the former, and twelve to the latter. She brings forward 172 votes from two previous contests. No. 18, E. Hill, is also a Southampton case. The husband was initiated in No. 421 in 1851, and continued his membership thereof until 1856. He joined No. 251, Barnstaple, in 1863, and paid there until 1879, total 20½ years. The widow has 273 votes forward from two elections. No. 19, H. M. Madeley, comes forward for the third time, with six votes to her credit. Her husband was initiated in No. 342, Portsea, in 1851, and paid to that Lodge until his death in 1865. He joined No. 903, Gosport, in 1862, and also paid there until his death. No. 42, M. Russell, is a second application, and she has 263 votes to her credit; the husband was an initiate of No. 132, Ringwood, and subscribed to that Lodge for 13¼ years (1844-1857). No. 55, L. Lovelock, is another Southampton case; her husband was initiated in No. 359, and remained a member thereof for twenty years, until his death in 1876.

Kent is also represented by five widows, whose husbands were initiated in Kentish Lodges. No. 15, E. Pearson, has 1279 votes brought forward, she having already stood two elections; her husband was initiated in No. 503, Maidstone, in 1847, and continued a member for 25½ years. No. 16, M. Pelton, has had similar experience as regards number of elections, but it is evident her turn for Provincial support has not yet come, as she has only received ninety-four votes so far. Her husband was an initiate of No. 299, Dartford, and remained a member of his mother Lodge for thirty-six years. No. 22, Z. Emmerson, is another third application case, and she has secured 678 votes. The husband was initiated in No. 429, Ramsgate, and was on the list of members of that Lodge for ten years from 1837, so that it is something over thirty-five years since he last subscribed. No. 61, J. M. Townsend, is the widow of an initiate of No. 158, Sheerness, who paid to that Lodge for thirty-six years. The present is her first application. No. 69, E. L. Cooley, shows a total of thirty years membership for her husband. He was initiated in No. 184, Old Brompton, in 1855, and remained a member until 1863. He joined No. 20, Chatham, and subscribed from 1857 to 1867. Was first W.M. of No. 972, Canterbury, in 1863, and remained on its roll till 1866, and joined No. 1449, Canterbury, in 1873, and continued as a member until 1881.

Lancashire (East) provides four of the seventy. No. 25, J. Greenwood, now makes her third application, with six votes in hand; a small number it is true, but not necessarily an indication of want of sympathy on the part of the Lancashire brethren. The votes of the Province are well organised, and doubtless Mrs. Greenwood's time for attention is not far distant. Her husband was initiated in No. 308, Todmorden, in 1832, and paid almost up to the time of his death, his payments being given as extending over forty-six years. The other three cases are all fresh ones—Nos. 62, 63 and 64. The former, M. A. Petty, is the widow of an initiate of No. 204, Manchester, who paid to that Lodge for 25¼ years, from 1850. He joined No. 1009, also of Manchester, in 1864, and paid there for 14 years. No. 63, E. Greenwood, gives her husband's initiation as far back as 1827, when he was admitted to No. 26, Burnley. He remained on the roll there for 18¾ years. No. 64, A. Hargreaves, gives 16¼ years as her husband's membership, all of which were spent in his mother Lodge, No. 369, Clitheroe.

Devonshire, Durham, Lincolnshire and Suffolk are each represented by three cases. The first on the list from Devonshire is No. 7, J. Maddick, who, with 13 votes in hand, now comes forward for the fifth time. Her husband was initiated in No. 156, Plymouth, in 1845, and continued a member of that Lodge for 23½ years, until 1869. No. 23, E. M. Thomas—third application—has 571 votes in hand. She is the widow of an initiate of No. 1125, Tiverton, who was a member of that Lodge for 11 years (1866-1877). No. 31, E. Chapple, is also a Plymouth initiate's case. Her husband was "made" in No. 159, in 1855, and paid thereto until 1867. He joined No. 954, Devonport, in 1863, and continued on its roll until 1877. He also paid to No. 1099, Stoke Damerel, from 1866 to 1877.

Durham puts forward No. 1 on the list, J. Elliott, an old lady of 80 years of age, who now makes her tenth application, with a total of 764 votes brought forward. Her husband died in 1860, so that the brethren of the Province have had time to forget any grievance—if they had any—against him, and therefore have no excuse for neglecting his widow. Surely it would be better to make an effort to get this old lady elected, if she is deserving, or get her name removed from the list if she is not. Her husband was initiated in No. 124, Durham. No. 5, S. A. Allen, sixth application, has only 439 votes on hand, so that it would appear Durham is not a very sympathetic Province for a deceased brother's widow. Her husband was initiated in No. 531, Hartlepool, in 1857, and paid until 1868. No. 44, M. Crisp, secured but 8 votes at last election. Her husband was initiated in No. 97, Sunderland, in 1861, and paid for 20 years.

Lincolnshire takes the next oldest candidate on the list, but there is three years difference between her and Mrs. Elliott, just referred to. No. 2, A. Wakefield, has 919 votes in hand with which to commence her seventh application. Her husband was initiated in 1840, in No. 362, Grantham, and paid for 35¼ years, or up to within a few months of his death, which occurred in 1875. No. 14, C. Copeland, brings forward four votes from the last two elections. Her husband paid for 18 years to his mother Lodge, No. 588, Sleaford. No. 38, A. Parker, is widow of another Sleaford initiate, her husband being admitted a member of No. 588, in 1860, and remaining on the roll for twelve years.

Suffolk has two second application cases and one first. No. 43, A. W. Davis, is the widow of an initiate of No. 959, Ipswich, who remained on the roll there from 1867 to 1874. He subscribed to No. 1278, London, from 1874 to 1879; and to No. 1677, London, during 1877 and 1878; a total in the three Lodges of 13 years. No. 47, C. Golding; her husband was initiated in No. 332, Hadleigh, in 1838, and paid until 1841. He rejoined in 1854, and paid up to 1880. He was also a member of No. 5, London, from 1856 to 1861. No. 68, E. A. Cook, is another Ipswich case; her husband being initiated in No. 376, in 1834, and remaining a member until 1840. He joined No. 959, also of Ipswich, and paid from 1863 to 1868.

Essex has two cases. No. 13, S. Fenning, whose husband was initiated in No. 51, Colchester, and No. 58, M. Jager, whose husband saw "light" in No. 453, Chingford. The former's husband was admitted in 1839, and paid for 36 years; the latter's in 1859, and he continued his subscription until 1880.

Yorkshire (North and East) has two cases, as likewise has the Western Division of the same county. No. 6, M. Rowell, now makes a fifth application, bringing forward 368 votes. Her husband was initiated in Lodge 543, Stokesley, in 1851, and paid to his mother Lodge until 1866, a total of 16½ years. No. 10, S. Greathead, is a third application, the number of votes brought forward being 363. Her husband was for 33 years a member of Lodge 123, Richmond, in which he was initiated in 1841.

Yorkshire (West) puts forward two first applicants, No. 50, E. A. Barras is widow of a brother who was initiated in, and for 19 years subscribed to, No. 131, Sheffield, while No. 51, M. Matthews, is the widow of another member of the same Lodge, who joined in 1864 and paid up to December 1870.

We have now come to the end of the Provinces from which more than one case originates, and in view of the great amount of space already devoted to this review, and also with the feeling that where only one case occurs, no comparison is needed, we shall content ourselves with merely giving the heads of the remaining Provincial cases, as follows:—

Province.	No. on list.	Name.	Husband's Lodge of initiation.	Total Years' subscribed.
Berks and Bucks	65	J Leaver	414	33½
Cheshire	70	M Harbord	477	14½
Cornwall	34	J Penman	589	24
Lancashire (West)	4	N Gambell	241	24½
Monmouthshire	41	L Cathcart	471	16½
Northumberland	48	E G Beattie (late)	138	24½
Nottingham	32	C C H V Buckley	402	11½
North Wales	46	E Potter	384	24½
Oxford	52	E Hobbs	340	28½
Somersetshire	35	C S L Pratt	446	11
Sussex	24	F Stubington	38	12½
Warwickshire	9	S Coates	468	13½
Worcestershire	39	H Caswell	377	11½

The Jersey case is No. 60, S. Croad, widow of an initiate of No. 590, who from 1859 to 1876 continued a subscribing member of his mother Lodge.

No. 37, M. A. Watson, represents the military element, her husband having been initiated in (late) No. 633, H.M. 89th Regiment in 1829. He remained a member of his mother Lodge until 1836. In 1844, another Lodge was started in the same regiment, and Bro. Watson was enrolled on the list of founders—to this he subscribed for ten years.

Last, but, as in the case of the old men, not the least worthy of support, comes No. 57, J. Tribe, who gives a total of thirteen years as her late husband's Masonic career. He was initiated in No. 604, Lyttelton, N.Z., in 1853; he joined No. 609, Canterbury, N.Z., in 1860, and became first W.M. of No. 1241, Totara, N.Z., in 1866. There are doubtless many brethren who have votes at their disposal, whose connection with New Zealand in years gone by will induce them to lend a helping hand to one of that colony's Masonic daughters. Let us hope that Mrs. Tribe will secure a place among the successful.

We feel that no apology is needed for any omissions we have made in the foregoing list. All we have done is to endeavour to show, in as plain a manner as possible, the claims which are being made upon the Benevolent Institution by the various divisions of English Freemasonry, and to give brethren an opportunity of finding out those candidates which may be of most interest to them without wading through the whole of the one hundred and twenty cases, a task which only needs to be done once to prove the utter impossibility of remembering the details of any particular class.

MASONIC BLUNDERERS.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—There is a fable about an unfortunate ostrich which tried to cross a treacherous swamp; the poor bird sank into it and could not extricate itself. As its puny wings were of no use, it tried to get its legs out by sticking its head into the mud. But when, for obvious reasons, it endeavoured to pull its head out of the mire, it was forced to sink its legs again into the mud. Our Masonic writers seem to be in a similar predicament—they get into a swamp and cannot, or will not, wholly get out of it. As soon as one Masonic fallacy is exploded, they somehow manage to hatch another, or revive the old one.

It has been demonstrated again and again that so-called Speculative Masonry originated after 1717. It is certain that neither the pre-1717 Alnwick, nor Scotch Lodge records, or the "Old Charges" give any imitation of Speculative Masonry in those days. True, the Masons' coat of arms was decorated with a square and compass. But coats of arms of all other old guilds were also decorated with some kind of pictures to symbolise their respective trades. No one, however, pretends that, for instance, wheelwrights, coppersmiths, weavers, &c., amused themselves at their gatherings with puzzling out the symbolic moral teachings of the pictures on their banners. What reason, then, have we to suppose that Masons, and Masons alone, indulged in such speculations?

The recent numbers of the Freemason contain letters filled with new discoveries about the antiquity of Speculative Masonry. The writers do not pretend to trace Speculative Masonry to the days of Adam, or even those of King Solomon. Oh, no! They are out of the swamp as far as that kind of antiquity is concerned. But still, they are not satisfied with the antiquity of 1717, and must therefore try to make it even ever so little older; and therefore they reason after the following fashion: Elias Ashmole was initiated in Warrington in a Masons' Lodge in 1646. Therefore, says Bro. Kenning's Cyclopædia, Ashmole, "is so far the first Speculative English Mason of whom we have distinct evidence." But recently a writer discovered that in 1603 a non-operative was admitted into the Masonic Brotherhood; the worthy editor of the Freemason, therefore, shifted the beginning of Speculative Masonry to 1603. But another writer calls attention that in 1600 some gentleman was received into Lodge membership in Scotland, which discovery caused additional rejoicing to the antiquity yearners. The beginning of Speculative Masonry is now traced to the year 1600.

But, with all due respect to the respectability and learning of the said writers, I would like them to inform me what reason or authority they have for nicknaming Ashmole and other pre-1717 non-operative members of the Masonic Brotherhood as Speculatives or "Speculative Masons." Surely the Masonic Fraternity in those days was not the only guild or Operative Fraternity which admitted non-operatives into its ranks; but, on the contrary, it was a common practice in the seventeenth century, at least, for guilds to admit gentlemen, noblemen, or even a King into their societies. Each guild, indeed, claims the patronage of such non-operative members. One illustration will however suffice at present.

In the fourth volume of the Freemason, page 332, I furnished information, drawn from a work called "Progresses, Processions," &c. of James I., by J. B. Nicols; that in the year 1607, King James I. and his son Henry, and a host of courtiers, feasted with the "tailors and drapers," when Prince Henry and the courtiers were admitted to membership of the Tailors' and Drapers' Guild. King James was also invited to become a tailor, which invitation he declined, because he was already a cordwainer. Now, surely, no one ever presumed to call Prince Henry and the courtiers speculative tailors, nor did any one ever style King James a speculative cordwainer. The mere fact of non-operatives being admitted to membership of an operative guild did nowhere turn them into speculatives; why, then, do our Masonic writers insist on applying the phrase "speculative" to Masons, and Masons only?

The fact, is "Speculative Mason," when applied to Ashmole and other gentlemen who joined the Masonic Brotherhood in the 16th or 17th century, is simply a misnomer; the very phrase "Speculative Mason" was unknown in the days of Ashmole, and the application of that phrase to those old non-operative Masons is but a very recent invention, probably not eighteen years old. But having succeeded in fastening the name (speculative) upon Bro. Ashmole, they most absurdly come to the conclusion that Ashmole speculated, and hence they made him the founder of Speculative Masonry. But since it has been found that gentlemen, or non-operatives, were members of Masons' Lodges before Ashmole's time, they are now ready to swear that Speculative Masonry dates back even to an older period,—the Lord alone knows when.

Briefly then, if our hankerers for "speculative" antiquity cannot furnish reasonable proof that Speculative Masonry, as explained in our Ritual, was practised in Masonic Lodges in the 17th century, it is high time to cease misapplying the word "speculative" to Elias Ashmole and other non-operative Masonic worthies of the 17th century.

Fraternally yours,

JACOB NORTON.

THE ROYAL MASONIC BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION ELECTION FOR WIDOWS.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—In reference to the case of Mrs. Jane Tribe, No. 57 on the List. The late Bro. G. H. Tribe I knew intimately for many years after his arrival in New Zealand. He, like many other of the pioneers, suffered from the reverses of adverse fortune, as well as enjoyed the advantages of success. He was always an energetic Mason, in act as well as in word; and his wife, the lady now seeking relief at our hands, was highly respected. After losing her breadwinner, she followed the example set by her late husband, and energetically went to work to maintain herself by keeping a school. Deafness, however, set in, and she was obliged to relinquish that occupation, and tried the letting of lodgings; but her hearing getting worse and worse, that source of subsistence failed her also. Gradually all her valuables were parted with, until she was compelled to seek relief from the Board of Benevolence. What she obtained from that source gave her temporary relief, and she now seeks at the hands of Freemasons under the English Constitution,—Brethren, yet strangers,—a place of rest for her declining years. The late Bro. Tribe having spent nearly the whole of his life in the Colonies, it comes particularly hard for Mrs. Tribe to solicit interest on her own behalf, as her late husband was quite unknown to the English Brotherhood. She has, therefore, only his reputation and the merits of her own case to depend upon; and what are his merits? He was initiated in the Lodge of Unanimity 604, Lyttelton, New Zealand, 1858; he was member of the St. Augustine Lodge 609, Christchurch, N.Z. in 1862; W.M. of the Totara Lodge 1241, Ross, Westland, N.Z., 1870; Dist. G.O., Westland, 1871; District Grand Treasurer, North Island, N.Z., 1876, and died the following year, having been an exemplary Mason for nineteen years. I now confidently appeal to the Craft in general, and the Colonials in particular, to come forward and help the candidature of Mrs. Tribe up to, and through, her election.

Yours fraternally,

C. J. PERCEVAL (V.P.) P.M. 1607, formerly of No. 609.

A BEGGING MASON.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Almoners and others in the southern counties should keep a sharp look out for an individual styling himself James Donovan, St. Patrick's Lodge, No. 4, Johnstown, New York State, whose statements to me I have proved to be totally untrue. He was at Chichester on Thursday, the 3rd instant, and the brethren of the Lodge impounded his documents, waiting information from Johnstown. He is about 5 feet 10 inches in height, with a thick brown moustache, and looks as if he had not suffered much for want of food and shelter; has a slight impediment in his speech when talking fast.

Yours fraternally,

THOMAS FRANCIS.

The General Committtee of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys met on Saturday, the 5th inst., at Freemasons' Hall, when there were present Bros. Roebuck (in the chair), Mather, Webb, Cubitt, Raynham W. Stewart, Edgar Bowyer, Dr. Ramsay, Don. M. Dewar, W. Maple, Rev. Richard Morris, D.D. (Head Master), J. Joyce Murray, H. Massey, E. Johnson, C. E. Soppet, Joseph Cleaver, John J. Berry, L. Ruff, A. H. Tattershall, Alfred Williams, Berridge, Baxter, Gillard, Festa, Adlard, Paas, Venn, Herbert Dicketts, Moon, Goodall, Stedwell, Motion, Skeggs, Godson, Saunders, and F. Binckes (Secretary). The Secretary reported the investment of £2,067 10s. Eight candidates were placed on the list for the October election, and four grants were made to former late pupils of the Institution. Bros. R. W. Stewart, J. L. Mather, Edgar Bowyer, Dr. Ramsay, Saunders, Joyce Murray, Roebuck, Hunt, Paas, Moore, Dudley Rolls, and Godson were nominated for the House Committee; and Bros. Matier, Cubitt, Goodall, Hogard, Soppet, Venn, Maple, and Berridge for the Audit and Finance Committee, after which the meeting adjourned.

The installation meeting of the Lily Lodge of Richmond, No. 820, took place on Wednesday. Full report in our next.

The Installation Meeting of the Panmure Royal Arch Chapter, No. 720, will be held at the Horns Tavern, Kennington, on Monday next, when Comps. Bryant, Levy, and Watts will be severally installed as Z., H., and J., by Ex. Comp. James Stevens P.Z. and Scribe E. of the Chapter.

ANNUAL FESTIVAL OF THE ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS.

THIS important event took place on Wednesday evening last, at the Freemasons' Tavern, Great Queen-street, W.C. The R.W. Prov. Grand Master for Hampshire and the Isle of Wight, Bro. W. Wither B. Beach, M.P., presided, and was supported by Sir Francis Burdett, Bart., P.G.M. Middlesex, Sir E. H. Lechmere, Bart., M.P., P.G.M. Worcestershire, Viscount Ranelagh, K.C.B., Captain S. G. Homfray Deputy G.M. Monmouthshire, Captain Hunter P.P.G.M. Aberdeenshire, Colonel Shadwell H. Clerke Grand Secretary, Ralph Gooding G.S.D., Colonel Peters Grand Sword Bearer, Edgar Bowyer Grand Standard Bearer, Rev. H. A. Pickard P.G.C.; Robert Grey (Chairman of Stewards), Frank Richardson, Peter de Lande Long and J. A. Rucker Past Grand Deacons; J. Messent P.G.S.B., C. Greenwood P.G.S.B., H. G. Buss Assistant Grand Secretory, H. Smith P.G. Sec. West Yorks, J. Terry Secretary R.M.B.I., J. E. Le Feuvre Past Grand Secretary Hampshire and Isle of Wight, Richard Eve P.G.W. Hampshire, H. A. Dubois Chairman Ladies' Stewards, C. Greenwood jun. P.G. Secretary Surrey, Dr. Morris, &c. &c. Over 300 guests assembled.

The Chairman in proposing the toast of the evening said he yesterday had the pleasure of attending at the distribution of prizes, and was glad to be able to announce that the School was in a most satisfactory and efficient state. It was gratifying to all to see the manner in which the girls went through their various performances; it showed that the education at the School had been carefully attended to. The domestic and useful arts had been laid great store by, at the same time the cultivation of accomplishments had been carefully watched; in fact the girls had done great honour to themselves in the way they had distinguished themselves in their various avocations. In the Cambridge Local Examinations fifteen girls went up, and of them fourteen passed, three with honours, and two of them achieved honour for religious subjects. This was most gratifying, because it showed that where an amount of talent existed it was cultivated and made the most of. The satisfactory state of health which prevails at the present time does great credit to the doctor who looks after them. They had the satisfaction to know also that the mistresses, with the exception of Miss Davis—who at present was suffering from illness—had been pupils in the School. One of the assistant mistresses had recently been appointed head of the Masonic School in Dublin, and another girl had been appointed to the Bristol Asylum. That evidenced that those who were appointed to teach in the School were worthy of the confidence reposed in them. During the last ten years the School had increased its pupils from 112 to 230. This involved great additional expenditure, and additional responsibilities. The Committee never found themselves justified in spending every penny they received; they thought it prudent exercise of their responsibility to build up for themselves a certain amount of capital; but at the same time that prudent considerations guided them, it was well to remember their capital formed a very small portion of the sum necessary to conduct the School; and unless the liberality of Masons was exercised to a considerable extent the School must fail to carry out the great ends it at present was doing. In firm reliance on the liberality of the brethren the additional expenditure had been incurred.

Shortly afterwards the following list of subscriptions was announced:—

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

—:o:—

Loughborough Lodge of Instruction, No. 22.—On Monday evening last, at the Cambria Tavern, Cambria-road, Loughborough Junction. Bros. Barclay Perkins W.M., Warren S.W., Littlewood J.W., McDiarmaid Treasurer, McKinley Secretary, Banks S.D., Westley J.D., Johnson Preceptor, Wood I.G.; Chambers, Allison, &c. After the minutes of last Lodge had been read and confirmed, Bro. Alliston worked the first and Bro. Westley the second sections of the lecture. The ceremony of initiation was then rehearsed, with Bro. Chambers as candidate. After other business, Lodge was closed in ancient form, and adjourned till Monday, the 21st inst., on which evening Brother James Stevens will give the second part of his lecture on the rituals and ceremony of the first degree.

Percy Lodge of Instruction, No. 198.—Held at the Jolly Farmers, Southgate-road, Islington, N., on Saturday, 5th inst. Present—Bros. Ashton W.M., Capstick S.W., Venning J.W., Woolf S.D., Weeden J.D., Hatch I.G., I. P. Cohen as Preceptor, Fenner as Secretary, Lorkin Treas.; also Bros. Houghton, Lowe, Manger, and Galer. Lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed. Bro. Lowe offered himself as candidate, and the ceremony of initiation was rehearsed. Brother Cohen worked the first and second sections of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Capstick was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing week. After sundry communications had been read by the Secretary, Lodge was closed in ancient form, and adjourned to Saturday the 12th inst., at eight o'clock.

United Pilgrims Lodge of Instruction, No. 507.—The usual weekly meeting was held at the Surrey Masonic Hall, Camberwell, on Friday evening, the 4th inst., Bro. Henry Baldwin W.M. There were present among others Bros. Serjeant S.W., Phillips J.W., Poore Secretary, James Stevens P.M. and Preceptor, Jones S.D., J. N. Bate J.D., Wiltshire I.G., M. Francis, Stokes, &c. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, and Bro. Serjeant delivered the charge. The first and fourth sections were worked by the brethren, assisted by Bro. Francis. Lodge was called off for entry drill, Bro. Poore very effectively acting as drill master. Lodge was called on, and Bro. Serjeant having been elected W.M. for the ensuing week, Lodge was closed in perfect harmony, and adjourned.

Southgate Lodge, 1950.—This Lodge held its first meeting under the new Master, Bro. Tibbitts, on the 3rd inst., when two brethren were raised, one passed, and Mr. Tryon was initiated. Bro. Forge I.P.M. called the attention of the brethren to the lamentable loss of life in the North Sea amongst the fishing fleet during the severe gale of the 6th of March. He stated there were about 150 lives lost, while 60 widows and 362 orphans were left in deep distress. The S.W., Bro. Hancock, proposed that the sum of £2 2s be voted from the Lodge funds, and in the course of his remarks Bro. Hancock alluded to the niggardly way in which the public had subscribed to this fearful disaster, affecting British subjects; he always found that when anything of the kind happened in a foreign country it was taken up with more spirit by the British public than any home disaster. The whole of the brethren subscribed to Bro. Forge's list, and this has enabled him to send a cheque of £7 7s to the Lord Mayor as the subscription of the Southgate Lodge.

There was a meeting of the General Committee of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, at Freemasons' Hall, on Wednesday last, at which Bro. C. J. Perceval presided, and there were also present Bros. Clarke, Cottebrune, Brett, Bolton, Belton, Louis Stein, Adlard, McPherson, Smith, Goodall, John Bulmer, Dilley, Case, Farnfield, Murlis, Charles Lacey, Moore, Bush, and Massey. Brother Terry, the Secretary, read the minutes of previous meeting, which were confirmed. He also read the Warden's report. Brother Terry reported the death, since last meeting, of one male and four female annuitants, and a moiety of her late husband's annuity was granted to the widow of the first mentioned. Brother Terry also reported that since last meeting the Committee had lost three of its members by death, viz.:—Brothers W. Hale, J. R Gallant, and A. J. Duff-Filer. Brother Terry was instructed to write letters of condolence on behalf of the Committee to their widows respectively. Bro. Terry read a draft of the Annual Report, for the information of the Committee. He also read the statement of the number of attendances of members of the Committee to be presented to Grand Lodge, and as it appeared that three of the number were disqualified, three others were nominated for election.

THE FIRE AT FREEMASONS' HALL.

WE have very little in the way of additional particulars to add to the account given last week in this journal. As we then stated, the fire, which broke out shortly before midnight, resulted in the total destruction of the Temple. The cause of the catastrophe has been proved to be through a beam which was in too close proximity with the passage of a flue from the adjoining Tavern, and the only wonder now is that the sad event did not occur sooner than has been the case.

We are indebted to a correspondent for the following particulars:—

On Thursday night, at 11.45 o'clock, the Grand Tyler of the Hall communicated to Bro. Dawkins, the manager of the Tavern, his suspicions that something was smouldering, and these two officials proceeded to examine the various rooms, when it was seen that smoke issued from the roof over the room known as "The Temple," and some of the Tavern staff were at once ordered to connect fire hose to the second floor hydrant in the Tavern, and play upon the point of assumed danger, with the result that a powerful stream of water poured upon the roof in less than two minutes after the order was given. Further examination revealed the fact that a serious fire was raging in the south end of the Temple, and Bro. Dawkins deemed it necessary to enter that room by the vestibule connecting the two blocks, but, on being prohibited by the Grand Tyler, he caused the pair of iron doors in the banqueting room to be opened, and found the second pair of similar doors, which were distanced 19 inches from the first pair, and closed a passage through the wall separating the Grand banqueting room from the Temple, glowing hot, and so distorted that they had to be forced open, and then was the seat of mischief made apparent. A second hydrant on the first floor was now made use of, and another line of hose taken through the banqueting room, from which a stream of water was dexterously directed into the body of fire which had already begun to threaten to extend to the Tavern portion of the building, but was now attacked in a manner which held the flames so well in check that when the Fire Brigade arrived, some fifteen minutes later, the work of extinguishment was much easier than would have been the case had not Messrs. Spiers and Pond taken timely precaution to furnish the Tavern, in September last, with Messrs. Merryweather and Son's system of Fire hydrants and hose.

It appears most marvellous that the destruction of property was so limited, as it is impossible to say what proportions the flames would have assumed but for the promptitude with which they were attacked, and the praiseworthy measures taken to confine them. The Tavern has sustained but a few pounds value of damage, while the whole of the rooms of the Hall, other than the Temple, remain intact.

The following is an epitome of the damage done:—

The South end of the flooring consumed and fallen into the wine cellar beneath; rest of flooring and carpet slightly damaged with water.

The handsome fluted pilasters, ornamental skirting and wainscoting, with the beautiful ceiling and roof consumed, as far as concerns the south end, and remainder damaged by heated smoke.

The handsome marble statue of the late Duke of Sussex blackened with smoke, a "bow" broken off the shoe of one of the feet, and the linen covering consumed.

The front case of organ charred, a few pipes damaged, and the ivory keys destroyed.

The Grand Officers' seats partly consumed and otherwise damaged. The ten valuable paintings of Past and Present Grand Masters completely charred, and the features of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales are alone distinguishable, while the gilt frames for the most part remain intact; thus showing the rapidity with which painted canvas is ruined when subjected to highly heated smoke, because actual fire did not reach any of the pictures. The Deacon's chairs are greatly damaged, but the Grand Masters' and two Grand Wardens' chairs are untouched. The preservation of the main portion of the two blocks of buildings is due alone to Merryweather's fire extinguishing appliances, and the creditable application of them by the Tavern employés.

In reference to this subject an article appeared in the Daily Telegraph of Saturday last, which we take the opportunity of reproducing:—

Free and Accepted Masons in every part of the United Kingdom—and, indeed, all the world over—will regret the burning of the "Temple" attached to the Freemasons' Tavern in Great Queen-street, Lincoln's Inn Fields. This magnificent hall—architecturally one of the handsomest rooms in England—was the headquarters of the influential Craft presided over by His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales; it was the meeting-place of Grand Lodge, whence the entire English Masonic system is ruled and regulated. Fortunately, the valuable regalia and the "throne" have been saved intact, and but little damage has been inflicted on the beautiful white marble statue of the late Duke of Sussex, the work of the eminent sculptor Bailey—a great artist and a good Mason. For the rest, this splendid apartment, decorated at immense cost and in perfect harmony with the purpose to which it has been applied, is a mass of wreck and ruin. The full-length portraits of a long series of Past Grand Masters—all save a likeness of the late Duke of Kent—are burned out of their frames in the wainscot, blistered and peeled beyond recognition or revival, or rent into shreds by the action of the flames. In parts the flat gilded woodwork is entirely consumed, showing the brick wall behind, in parts it is charred and splintered. Galleries, cornices, fluted columns have given way and tumbled down, a confused mass of blackened rubbish. Scarcely anything remains of the mystical and wonderful roof with its splendid sun in burnished gold, and its exquisitely wrought signs of the Zodiac. All that the loving pains of William Cox designed to be the masterpiece of his art has perished in a few hours. The gilded seats of the Officers of Grand Lodge, of the Master, Wardens and Deacons, are partly burned partly smashed to pieces, and what were the pedestals have entirely disappeared. Strangely enough the vast carpetted flooring, though strewed with debris and soaked with water appears to be intact everywhere, except in one corner in close contignity to a pair of iron doors which shut off Grand Lodge from the large banqueting hall of the Freemasons' Tavern. The party wall stood the test of the flames wonderfully well, for while the "Temple" is completely gutted, the great room on the other side of the brickwork remains untouched by fire, and apparently free from damage. This nobly proportioned and elegantly and elaborately ornamented chamber was ninety-two feet long, forty-three broad, and more than sixty feet high. Although it is not deemed discreet to disclose even the minor details connected with the ancient secret and impressive Ritual of Freemasonry, there is no harm in saying that the Craft will feel keenly a misfortune which deprives them of a resort associated with the best work, and dedicated to virtue, universal charity, and benevolence. The loss is the more to be regretted because the "Temple" was the first home which English Freemasons could call their own.

The origin of the Craft is shrouded in mystery; and what learned Masons know of its foundation they do not disclose to the uninitiated. Just enough to tantalise inquisitiveness and not sufficient to satisfy the thirst for knowledge is as much as they will confide to the outer world. Here, again, there is no offence in revealing the fact that the Brotherhood is devoted to charitable works, and to say that its members cannot be bad men and good Masons at one and the same time. They who know nothing whatever of the Craft pretend that there is no secret, otherwise it would long ago have leaked out. Freemasons, however, do not resent, or even regard, that kind of criticism. They know what they know, and, while leading the lives of worthy and respectable citizens, and attending to their work, suffer rancour to say its worst. Enough for them that the Craft speaks all languages, and is united in a common brotherhood on sea and shore, in every country and clime. One most learned and accomplished Mason dates its history from the creation of the world. Others are satisfied to come nearer our own time, and do not pretend to find the Masonic family tree planted in the Garden of Eden. Of course the Temple of King Solomon was built by the brethren on the top of Mount Moriah, over against Mount Olivet; and all the Freemasons employed on the work, exclusive of the two G. Wardens, amounted to one hundred and thirteen thousand. Pythagoras belonged to the Craft; but whether he learned what he knew in Egypt and India, or elsewhere, is not quite certain. No one needs to doubt that the professors of Thebes and Memphis, and the priests of Brahma, and the Magi with whom the Wise Man of Samos was on the most friendly terms, were competent to enlarge his Masonic researches. It is an historical fact that he studied under Pherecydes, of Syrus, a strict believer in the immortality of the soul. Whether Pythagoras intended his Freemasonry to be a political protest against the tyranny of Polycrates, tyrant of Samos, and to what extent he meant it as a bond of contented and refined Communism, is open to dispute; but what he taught at Crotona remains the foundation of a great deal of our modern Liberty, Equality, and Fraternity. How much English Freemasonry retains of India, Egypt, Judea, Greece, and Rome is a matter for Masons, if they can do so, to decide among themselves. It will be enough for those who are not of the Craft to recognise that the Institution in England is associated with several noble and most praiseworthy Charities.

Freemasonry has been of two kinds, Operative and Speculative. Formerly, at least in this country, the vast majority of the brethren were more or less connected with the building trades, either as patrons, as designers, or as handicraftsmen. The Ancient Britons, the Romans, and the Saxons had among them initiated persons; and in later times all our grat historical structures, ecclesiastical or lay, were built by members of the Order. Henry VI. took a lively interest in the Craft; "Bluff King Hal" was Master of a Lodge, as was also the "Merry Monarch." It is an indisputable fact that St. Paul's Cathedral is tinctured with the science from the foundation-stone to the top of the golden cross. Not only was Sir Christopher Wren the father of Modern Masonry, but from the time when he flourished may be dated its present peculiarly speculative character. When the famous architect grew old and weary, the Lodge of St. Paul, over which he presided, fell off in numbers and influence; and it was agreed among the few remaining members that the Order, its privileges and mysteries, should be thrown open to men of other professions. Prior to the reign of Queen Anne, a few non-practical Masons were initiated, but "speculative" brethren were rarely to be met with. Then, and for a long time afterwards, the Craft were without headquarters. A Lodge used to meet at the Goose and Gridiron, in St. Paul's Churchyard, the second part of which sign may possibly have suggested the ridiculous notion that a certain humble piece of ironmongery is associated with the ceremony of initiation. Another Lodge met at the sign of the Crown, in Parker's-lane, Drury-lane, another at the Rummer and Grapes, in Channel-row, Westminster, and a fourth at the Apple Tree Tavern, Charles-street, Covent-garden. It was at the Apple Tree that a few old Masons constituted themselves a Grand Lodge in the year 1717. From that date English Masonry has grown and flourished; and, though it has had its troubles and its schisms, is now more than ever powerful and useful. Based on the principle of equality of man, it owes not a little of its prestige to the friendliness and companionship of Royal and noble personages. Continuing to extend the sphere of its influence, the Craft gradually amassed property, and in the year 1771 the Honourable Charles Dillon, Deputy Grand Master, introduced a bill in the House of Commons to incorporate the Society by Act of Parliament. The measure was opposed, and at the desire of many of the brethren was withdrawn on the second reading. Freemasonry, however, having made for itself a recognised name, was no longer content to date from a tavern, and the members of Grand Lodge, held at the Crown and Anchor, in the Strand, sought for themselves a local habitation. In the year 1772, Lord Petre being at that time Grand Master, a large sum was subscribed for the purpose of building a suitable hall; and, two years later, they purchased a plot of ground, consisting of a couple of fine houses and a large garden, the site of Thursday's fire. Afterwards a further sum of money was raised by tontine. The building progressed quickly, and on the 23rd of May 1776, the Grand Lodge of England, which used to meet in inns and in the halls of the City Companies, was first installed in that beautiful home which is now no more. Although it is morally certain that a "Temple" as fine or if not finer than the building which has perished so suddenly will in due time rise from its ashes, yet Freemasons as a body will lament the loss of their first, and heretofore their grandest and best-beloved shrine, associated for more than a century with countless noble and glorious memories that cannot die.

According to the Keystone, the Oriental Hall, Masonic Temple, Philadelphia, was crowded with brethren at the last meeting of Montgomery Lodge, No. 10, on Thursday evening, 5th April, to listen to a eulogy delivered by Bro. William A. Sinn P.M. Grand Tyler of the Grand Lodge, on the death of Bro. James Reynolds P.M. Bro. Sinn, from his long personal acquaintance with the deceased, and his close connection with him during his Masonic career, was eminently fitted for the task which he assumed. As Bro. Sinn arose, his stalwart form, and his sympathetic, and yet clear and distinct enunciation, claimed the profound attention of all present. His reference to the Past Masters was very effective, and the Grand Tyler surprised his friends by his eloquent and masterly address. The resolutions attached were unanimously adopted, and a copy of the proceedings will be sent to the family of the deceased.

National Anthem.

A vote of thanks to the Chairman was proposed by Bro. Peter de Lande Long, and Brother Beach in reply expressed the gratification he had experienced in attending. He had visited the School some years back, but since that time it had increased in numbers, and he was pleased to find that efficiency had kept pace with that increase. The calisthenic display would have done credit to a body of well disciplined soldiers. Brother Beach remarked that all would regret the enforced absence of Miss Davis, through illness, but all felt they were much indebted to her for the trouble she had taken in her conduct of the School. After referring to the long services of Miss Jarwood, and recognising the indebtedness of the Institution to Dr. Howell for his care of the children, Brother Beach concluded by saying of the pupils they might be called upon to join in various vocations, but he trusted they would be incited by the successes that had attended their efforts that day to regard those successes as stepping-stones to future achievements in building up a further scheme of knowledge to that which they had acquired. He trusted it would always be a characteristic of the Freemasons' girls that they would remember and love those who possibly might never leave the Institution, and in after life would look back to the associations which they had formed, and reflect upon the happy hours they had spent within those wards. After refreshments had been partaken of by the Visitors, a second calisthenic display was given, and then dancing was indulged in until an advanced hour.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—Rheumatism and Rheumatic gout are the most dreaded of all diseases, because their victims know that they are safe at no season, and at no age secure. Holloway's Ointment, after fomentation of the painful parts, gives greater relief than any other application; but it must be diligently used to obtain this desirable result. It has been highly commended by rheumatic subjects of all ages and of both sexes, for rendering their attack less frequent and less vigorous, and for repressing the sour perspirations and soothing the nerves. In many cases, Holloway's Ointment and Pills have proved the greatest blessings in removing rheumatism and rheumatic gout which has assailed persons previously and at the prime of life.

On Monday, the 21st inst., the Yonell Mark Masters' Lodge, No. 317, at Gorleston, near Great Yarmouth, will be Consecrated by the Right Hon. Lord Henniker M.W. Grand Mark Master, and the Worshipful Master installed by Bro. Frederick Binckes, Grand Secretary. The Province of East Anglia, consisting of Norfolk, Suffolk, Essex, and Cambridgeshire will then be constituted, and the M.W. Grand Master having consented to take charge of the Province will be installed, as Provincial Grand Mark Master, by M.W. Brother W. W. B. Beach, M.P., Past Grand Mark Master.

FREEMAN'S CHLORODYNE.

The Original and only true.

HUNDREDS of Medical Practitioners testify to its marvellous efficacy in immediately relieving and rapidly curing Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Neuralgia, Spasms, Colic, Whooping Cough, and all Nerve Pains. It acts like a charm in Diarrhœa, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery. It rapidly relieves pain, from whatever cause, soothes and strengthens the system under exhausting diseases, and gives quiet and refreshing sleep.

Lord Chancellor Selborne, Lord Justice James, Lord Justice Mellish decided in favour of FREEMAN'S ORIGINAL CHLORODYNE, and against Brown and Davenport, compelling them to pay all costs in the suits. See Times of July 24th, 1873. Bottles 1s 1½d, 2s 9d, 4s 6d, 11s, and 20s. Sold by all Chemists.

TESTIMONIALS.—Head Quarter Staff, Cabul, May 31st, 1880. Mr. R. Freeman, Dear Sir,—It is with much pleasure I am able to state that your Chlorodyne has been of special service to me in allaying the wearisome spasms of Asthma, which is here existent in an aggravated form. Many of my patients now come and beg me to give them that medicine which always relieves them, and which I need hardly say is your Chlorodyne. Yours faithfully, CHARLES W. OWEN, L.R.C.P. Lon., M.R.C.S. Eng., the Divisional Head Quarter Staff and Civil Surgeon, Cabul.

The Times, August 13th, 1877. From our own Correspondent with the Russian Army. Okoum, July 25th, 1877. The want of sanitary arrangements in the Russian Camp was dreadful, and had we remained there a few weeks longer, dysentery and typhoid fever would have played more havoc in our ranks than the bombs of the Turks. I myself acquired an unenviable reputation as a doctor, owing to my being provided with a small bottle of CHLORODYNE, with which I effected miraculous cures.

After the minutes of last meeting had been read and confirmed, the Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master was announced. A deputation was formed, and he was escorted into the Lodge room, and saluted with the usual honours. Brother Acworth was then presented and duly obligated by Brother Payn. Lodge was opened in the third degree, and those brethren who as yet are not entitled to don the levels were requested to retire. A Board of Installed Masters was opened under the presidency of Brother P.M. Longhurst, who placed Brother Acworth in the chair of the Lodge with the customary ceremonies. On the readmission of the brethren, the new Worshipful Master was saluted in the three degrees, and the Officers were appointed and invested, as follow:—A. Greey S.W., F. F. Giraud P.M. J.W., Genge P.M. Treasurer, Underdown P.M. Secretary, Griggs P.M. S.D., Fuller J.D., Longhurst P.M. I.G. Brother Longhurst then gave the addresses to Master, Wardens, and Brethren, and thus completed in admirable style his share of the business proceedings of the day. Brother Past Master Penton was elected Charities representative for the Lodge, and an announcement was made that the members were interested in the candidature of a lad who sought the benefits of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, but who had not, as yet, secured the support of the Provincial Charities Organisation. A notice of motion for next meeting was handed in to consider the advisability of altering the Bye-Laws so far as they refer to the day of meeting. It has been considered by a majority of the brethren that the second Monday in the month, in lieu of the first Monday, would be more acceptable; but this will, later on, receive full consideration, when any advantages that may be likely to accrue from the projected change will be fully detailed. After a candidate had been proposed for initiation at the next meeting, a vote of thanks—to be recorded on the minutes—was unanimously agreed to be passed to Bro. Longhurst for the way he had conducted the ceremony of the day. After routine work, hearty good wishes were tendered, and Lodge was closed. The brethren then adjourned to the Ship Hotel, where a capital banquet was served. The menu had been carefully considered, and great credit is due to the worthy proprietors of this old-established hostelry for the way they carried out their engagement. On the removal of the cloth, the W.M., with due regard to brevity, spoke to the several toasts. After that of the Queen and the Craft, the National Anthem was sung. Speaking of the Prince of Wales Bro. Acworth said all recognised the fact that the Most Wor. Grand Master had many duties to perform, but the interest he evinced in Masonic matters led to his being unanimously esteemed by Craftsmen throughout the length and breadth of the land. In speaking to the third toast—the Right Worshipful Pro Grand Master the Earl of Carnarvon, the Right Worshipful Deputy Grand Master the Earl of Lathom, and the rest of the Grand Officers Past and Present, Bro. Acworth said it might be urged in regard to this, that they "bear their blushing honours thick upon them." He had great pleasure in calling upon the brethren to drink to the toast. In proposing the health of the Right Worshipful Prov. Grand Master of Kent, Viscount Holmesdale—"our very noble and approved good Master,"—the W.M. said his powers of speech were scarcely equal to the task of recounting the many services rendered to Freemasonry by Viscount Holmesdale. However, these were fully recognised by the Freemasons of Kent, and he could confidently leave the toast in the hands of the brethren to do it justice. In the course of his reply, the R.W. Provincial Grand Master, after expressing his gratification at the way in which the toast had been received, made reference to the Revision of the Book of Constitutions now being undertaken. The proposed changes had received attention at his hands, and he was not unmindful of the vast interests involved in their consideration. With respect to what the Worshipful Master had said as to the lapse of time since he had visited the Lodge of Harmony, he might urge that he had very many and heavy duties to perform. Whenever he received an invitation from the Lodges in his Province, he gave the matter consideration, and, in this case, finding he had a day clear, he gladly availed himself of the opportunity to join the members, and was much gratified with the result of his visit. The next toast—the Very Worshipful Deputy Provincial Grand Master, Bro. Eastes, and the rest of the Provincial Grand Officers, Past and Present—was proposed by Bro. Past Master Longhurst. The zeal evinced in the Masonic business of the Province by Brother Eastes was eloquently dilated on by Bro. Longhurst, who regretted the inability of the Deputy Provincial Grand Master to attend. With the toast was identified the name of Brother Thorpe, the P.G. Treasurer, who gracefully acknowledged the compliment paid him and the other Grand Officers. The health of the W.M. was proposed by the Right Worshipful Prov. Grand Master, who congratulated Bro. Acworth on his accession to the chair of a Lodge which had hitherto so worthily sustained its reputation. He trusted he might have a prosperous year. It was satisfactory to know that the Officers he would have to assist him in the conduct of the business brought to bear upon their work experience gained already. He might be pardoned for making a digression, but it was sometimes urged that certain offices were mere sinecures. He could not agree with this. He did not look upon any office in the Provincial Grand Lodge as a sinecure. He expected every Prov. Grand Officer to help him and his Deputy to sustain the prestige of the Craft. He was always much exercised when it came to the consideration of how the honours were to be distributed. In some Provinces, where there were only about eight or ten Lodges, it was not such a difficult feature as in one were there were as many as fifty Lodges. The W.M. briefly, but graciously, acknowledged the honour done him. The remaining toasts were rapidly pushed forward; they comprised the Installing Master, the Past Masters, the Visitors, the Wardens, the Press, the Junior Officers, and that of the Tyler. The speeches throughout were ably conceived and well to the point, while the day was enlivened by some capital songs and recitations.

PRINCE EDWARD OF SAXE-WEIMAR LODGE, No. 1903.

THERE was a good attendance of members and visiting brethren at the annual meeting of the Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar Lodge, No. 1903, which was held on Wednesday, the 2nd instant, in the Masonic Hall, Highbury Street, Portsmouth. Brother Thomas Page, the retiring Worshipful Master, having been unanimously re-elected, was installed by the acting I.P.M. (Bro. H. W. Townsend), to whom a hearty vote of thanks was accorded for the able and efficient manner in which he had performed the ceremony. The Worshipful Master, in returning thanks for his re-election, said, that but for the sudden and serious illness of Brother Colonel Bray, the Senior Warden, he should not have been again in that position; but he promised that he would do his best to give them satisfaction. The Secretary (Brother A. Leon Emanuel) read a telegram from Lord Charles Beresford, the Immediate Past Master of the Lodge, expressing regret that he could not attend, and conveying his kindest wishes to the Worshipful Master and Brethren. A letter was read from Mrs. Bray, acknowledging a letter of sympathy from the Lodge. The Secretary added that he had the pleasure of seeing Colonel Bray on the previous day, and he undertook to convey his sincere thanks to the Lodge for the kindness which had been shown him. The Treasurer (Brother H. Threadingham) claimed the indulgence of the brethren while he attempted to discharge a duty which had been pressed upon him owing to the unavoidable absence of the I.P.M. They all knew of the circumstances which had led to the taking of the chair for the second time by Bro. Page, and it was only necessary for him to remark that the lamentable fact that Bro. Colonel Bray being stricken down by the stern hand of affliction, just about the time that he would have been elected to fill the chair, threw them into a dilemma, from which they were relieved by Bro. Page. Not only had he done this, but he was given to understand that he had added twenty guineas to the sum voted by the Lodge in order to swell the funds of the Institution for Girls. Many of them had on several occasions listened with no small degree of pleasure and delight to the excellent and efficient manner in which the general business of the Lodge had been conducted, and the ritual of the various degrees performed by Bro. Page, and because he had thus added materially to their Masonic edification they had thought the termination of his first year of office a fitting opportunity to present him with some tangible mark of their appreciation. In asking Brother Page to except the beautiful jewel which he held in his hand, he was sure he only expressed the feelings of all present when he trusted that the Great Architect of the Universe would be pleased to spare him for very many years to enjoy his well-earned popularity. After a few other remarks, Bro. Threadingham, amid the hearty plaudits of the brethren, affixed the jewel to the breast of the W.M. The jewel bore the following inscription:—"Presented by the members of the Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar Lodge, No. 1903, to Bro. T. Page, on his second installation as W.M., as a token of their sense of his Masonic attainments, genial character, and able conduct in presiding over them—1882-1883." The W.M., who was loudly cheered, returned his hearty and sincere thanks for the beautiful jewel. Words failed him to express his feelings, or to convey in such terms as he could wish his high appreciation of their great kindness during the last twelve months. He could say, without fear of contradiction, that he had at all times received at their hands every consideration and assistance, and that his duties had been thereby very much lightened. In undertaking for another year the office of W.M., he assured them that every effort would be made by him to support the honour of the Lodge and to maintain its present high position. The W.M., on being re-installed, appointed his Officers as follows:—Bros. Lord C. Beresford I.P.M., W. Lathom Cox S.W., H. Long J.W., Rev. P. H. Good Chaplain, H. Threadingham Treasurer, A. L. Emanuel Secretary, W. Royston Pike S.D., G Nelder Junior Deacon, S. Knight Master of Ceremonies, G. Sylvester Organist, A. E. Elmes I.G., J. G. Livesay and Pigott Stewards. At the installation banquet the W.W. was supported, among others, by Brothers Sir H. Drummond Wolff, M.P., and General Hodgson P.P.G.W. of Madras. The catering of Bro. W. Mayhew, of Portsea, gave great satisfaction, and the wines were of excellent quality. The Queen and the Craft and the other introductory toasts having been given from the chair, Brother Sir H. D. Wolff, who on rising was received with loud applause, said the next toast had been confided to him, and it was a great pleasure to bring it under their notice, because it referred not only to a distinguished Mason, who was connected with them in that province, but to one who was the representative of a portion of that county in Parliament, and whatever opinions might be entertained of his political views, he was certain that everything he did was entitled to the respect that was due to one who acted conscientiously. He recollected that about two years ago, when this Lodge was inaugurated, how they were all struck with the great ability with which Bro. Beach discharged the duties of his office, because not only did he go through the ceremonies which were time-honoured among Masons, but he added reflections of his own, and gave an historical retrospect of many matters connected with the Craft, which was quite original, and struck them all as most interesting. He could easily understand that Brother Beach liked sometimes to get away from the struggles of political life to the calmer and more harmonious atmosphere of Masonic existence. He recollected that many years ago the late Lord Beaconsfield, in a speech at the Literary Fund dinner, which took place during a great political conflict, said he felt as one who had come away from the heat of battle to drink the water of some pellucid stream. And coming from a place where all was not harmonious, and where the proceedings occasionally gave rise to a bitterness which those at a distance would scarcely believe possible, he confessed that when he witnessed the harmony and good feeling that reigned in a Masonic community, he felt the contrast as one of the highest possible advantage. It was for this reason, among others, that he thought Bro. Beach attended so much to his Masonic duties, in order to develope the good of which Masonry was capable in the county to which he belonged, and as long as he reigned over them, as the head of their Masonic Institution in Hampshire, he was certain they would all drink to his health, whether present or absent, with enthusiasm and good fellowship. He therefore proposed the Right Wor. Provincial Grand Master Bro. W. W. B. Beach, M.P. Bro. W. Royston Pike gave the R.W. Deputy Grand Master, Bro. Hickman, and Officers of Prov. Grand Lodge, and the Prov. Grand Treasurer, Bro. Rastrick, responded. Bro. Townsend, in proposing the Worshipful Master, said that during the past twelve months Bro. Page had thoroughly carried out what he (the speaker) had said he would, and had merited their approval, as was shown by the presentation of a handsome testimonial. The W.M., who was received with great enthusiasm, suitably responded. Bro. Lieutenant Bourke, R.N., in giving the Installing Master, described Bro. Townsend as the Father of the Lodge, and said it was owing to his energy and perseverance that they had surmounted difficulties and troubles that would have disheartened many another man, and that the Lodge had attained its present proportions. He had in other respects shown himself a thorough good Mason, and a right good man. Bro. Townsend, in responding, referred to the fact that the Lodge had over a hundred members, and a good balance in hand. Bro. Threadingham, in proposing the W.M.'s and Representatives of Neighbouring Lodges, referred to the fact that Sir Henry Wolff had been Master of a foreign Lodge, and knew somewhat of the working of Masonry in different parts of the world. They found him stealing a few hours from Parliamentary life and struggles to associate with his brethren in the Craft. Bro. Ontridge W.M. No. 487 responded, and was followed by Bro. W. E. Atkins W.M. No. 1069, who referred to the fact that £50,000 a year was expended by the Craft in charity. Bro. Grant W.M. No. 1705 and Bro. T. H. Williams W.M. No. 1776 also responded, the latter making an appeal on behalf of the Boys' School, mentioning that, in his capacity of Steward at the approaching Festival, he had received upwards of £250, and expressing a hope that he should be able to make it up to £300. The Worshipful Master, who subsequently made an appeal on behalf of the Girls' School, for which he had accepted the office of Steward, said he felt highly honoured that Bro. Sir H. D. Wolff had come so many miles to be present on that occasion, and he proposed his health, which was received with great enthusiasm. Bro. Sir H. D. Wolff, in response, said it must always be gratifying to him, connected as he was with the borough, to have his health received so kindly as it had been that evening. No doubt there were present brethren holding different views, and Lord Palmerston once said it was very safe, in a mixed society, to drink the health of a politician, because those who sympathised with him wished him health to continue his functions, while those who did not sympathise with him thought his health might be improved by assisting him to retire. He much regretted last year not being able to come down to the installation of the Worshipful Master, for having been present at the installation of the first Master he had hoped to be able to be there several years in succession. A worthy brother had alluded to his being Master of a Lodge abroad. Certainly he had been so, he was sorry to say a great many years ago. But although it was in a foreign place—Corfu—the Lodge was working under the English Constitution. He then had the satisfaction of making many friendships among members of the two Services who were so warmly welcomed and so much beloved in Portsmouth, and he was hardly able to come to Portsmouth without meeting some friend whom he had met in a distant country. He had, therefore, conceived a higher idea of Freemasonry than he had before, because he had found that through it brethren had obtained society and a home when perhaps otherwise they would have been deprived of it. The Lodge was enabled more than once to be of assistance to brethren who, owing to adverse circumstances, had fallen into distress, and was enabled to render aid without that humiliation which sometimes came when it was received from private sources. Perhaps they would allow him to propose another toast—The Immediate Past Master, the Right Hon. Lord C. Beresford. It struck him as peculiarly appropriate that Lord Charles Beresford should have been the first Master of the Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar Lodge because, as a naval man, he was Master of a Lodge which bore the name of a beloved military officer. He thought Prince Edward must feel highly pleased that his name should be associated, as it would be for many generations, with that Lodge, for it was one proof of the great popularity which he and his admirable Princess had gained in this town. They knew that since the inauguration of the Lodge and the installation of Lord Charles Beresford, he had gone through a great many vicissitudes, and, without speaking in terms too flattering of him, he could say that from all they had heard—and he had seen many who met him during his distinguished service in Egypt—his genial qualities, his merry good nature, and his friendliness to all were no less conspicuous than his gallantry. The remaining toasts were the Visitors, and the Officers of the Lodge. Brother Sylvester, the Organist of the Lodge, rendered valuable assistance, both vocally and instrumentally, and other brethren also aided in promoting harmony.

BRO. A. J. DUFF-FILER.

Owing to the crowded state of our columns we have space merely to record the death of this worthy Mason. The sad event took place on Saturday last. A sketch of Bro. Duff-Filer's Masonic career shall appear in next issue.

FUNERAL OF THE LATE BRO. W. H. LUCIA.

FROM THE EAST ANGLIAN DAILY TIMES.

ON Saturday afternoon the funeral of the late Bro. W. H. Lucia, the Provincial Grand Secretary of Suffolk, took place at Bury St. Edmunds, the obsequies partaking somewhat of a public character, as the Masonic body attended to pay their last tribute of respect to the deceased. The Provincial Grand Lodge of Emergency was opened at the Angel Hotel, and in the unavoidable absence of the Provincial Grand Master, through illness, and the Deputy Provincial Grand Master, who was in Lancashire, the chair was occupied by Brother Frederick Long, the Provincial Grand Senior Warden, who was supported by Bros. Rev. R. N. Sanderson P.P.G. Chaplain, N. Tracy P.P.G.J.W., T. J. Huddleston P.P.G.J.W., Rev. E. J. Griffiths Provincial Grand Chaplain, William Clarke P.G.D. of C., W. Armstrong P.P.G.J.D., G. J. Paine P.G.S., J. R. Thompson P.P.G.S.D., Fred. Wheeler P.P.G. Registrar, W. W. Walesby P.P.G.W., C. Cooke P.P.G.J.D., W. Chapman P.G.S., G. H. Grimwood P.P.G.S.W., G. Thompson P.M., Joseph F. Hills P.P.G.J.W., Horace Lucia P.G. Steward, B. W. Syer P.G. Tyler, J. Neal York P.P.G.S.W. Cambs., T. J. Ralling Provincial Grand Secretary Essex, and about 40 or 50 brethren of various Lodges in the Province. The acting Provincial Grand Master read a communication from Bro. Lord Waveney stating that in unison with the wishes of the family the Lodge meeting was to be held as a token of respect for Brother Lucia's services and character, offered with deep sympathy, and in the desire to lighten as much as may be the burden of the family's sorrow. Bro. Long continued—Brethren, from time immemorial it has been an established custom among the members of our Craft, when requested by the family of a deceased brother, to accompany his corpse to the place of interment, and there to deposit his remains with the usual formalities. In conformity with this laudable usage, and at the special request of the family of the deceased brother whose memory we revere, and whose loss we now deplore, we are here assembled in the form and character of Masons to accompany his remains to the grave, and there to resign his body to the earth from whence it came, and to offer the last tribute of our fraternal affection and regard to his memory, thereby demonstrating to the world the sincerity of our past esteem and our steady attachment to the principles of our honourable Order. Bro. the Rev. R. N. Sanderson proposed that a letter of condolence in the following terms be forwarded to Mrs. Lucia, and that the same be entered upon the minutes:—

Madam,—Permit us, the brethren of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Suffolk, here assembled, to pay the last office of respect to your departed husband, to assure you and your family of our deep sympathy with you in the sad bereavement with which it has pleased the Most High to visit you. Within the sacred circle of your private grief we do not presume to intrude; but it is at once a brotherly duty and a mournful satisfaction to take this opportunity of showing our sense of the loss which we have sustained, corporately and individually, in the removal of our honoured brother, and our grateful remembrance of his long services to the Order of Freemasonry in our Province.

Most respectfully we express our hope that this testimony of our fraternal regard for him whom we shall meet no more on earth may yield you some small solace, though we are well aware that all effectual consolation must come from a Mightier Love and a Higher Power. To Him, therefore, who calls Himself the Father of the fatherless and the God of the widow we commend you and yours, humbly hoping that this separation may end in an eternal and blessed reunion.

The proposition was seconded by Bro. Paine, and carried in solemn silence. Apologies and letters of regret were received from brethren in London and all parts of the province. The Lodge was then closed in due form, and the brethren proceeded to St. Mary's Church, where the first portion of the Burial Service was read, and where were also gathered a large number of friends of the deceased gentleman. At the door of the church were stationed the choir and the following clergy:—The Rev. R. N. Sanderson, the Rev. V. F. Willson, the Rev. C. H. C. Baker, the Rev. E. J. Griffiths, the Rev. H. C. Crossley, and the Rev. J. D. Paton. As the coffin was borne into the church it was preceded up the aisle by the choir and clergy, the Rev. R. N. Sanderson reading the opening sentences of the Burial Service. The coffin was placed in the centre of the aisle at the entrance of the chancel, and one of the psalms appointed for the burial of the dead was then sung by the choir. The Rev. V. F. Wilson read the special lesson, after which Hymn 299 (Ancient and Modern) was sung. The "Dead March" was played by Mr. Richardson (the Organist of St. Mary's), during which the corpse was borne back to the hearse, and the funeral cortège, headed by the deceased's brother Masons, and accompanied by a large number of the public, proceeded to the cemetery, where many friends were waiting. The service at the graveside was read by Bro. the Rev. E. J. Griffiths Prov. Grand Chaplain, who also delivered a short address in accordance with ancient custom. In conclusion, the rev. gentleman said: Let us embrace the happy moment while time and opportunity may offer in providing with care against that great change, when the transitory pleasures of the world can no longer delight us, and the reflection of a life spent in the exercise of piety and virtue yield the only comfort and consolation. While we drop the sympathetic tear over the grave of our deceased brother, let Charity induce us to throw a veil over his foibles, whatever they may have been, and let us not withhold from his memory the praise that his virtues may have claimed. His meritorious actions let us imitate. Let us support with propriety the character of our profession on every occasion, and supplicate the Divine grace to enable us to pursue with unwearied assiduity the sacred tenets of our Order. Then we shall secure the favour of that eternal Being whose goodness and whose power can know no bound, and prosecute our journey, without dread or apprehension to a far distant country from which no traveller returns. By the light of the Divine countenance, we shall pass without trembling through those gloomy mansions where all things are forgotten, and at that great and tremendous day, when arraigned at the bar of Divine justice, judgment shall be pronounced in our favour. We shall receive the reward of our virtue by acquiring the possession of our immortal inheritance, where joy flows in one continued stream, and no mound can check its course. Unto the grave we have resigned the body of our loving friend and brother, there to remain until the general resurrection; and we earnestly pray Almighty God of His infinite goodness at the grand tribunal of unbiassed justice to extend his mercy towards him and all of us, and to crown our felicity with everlasting bliss in the expanded realms of a boundless eternity. The mourners and brethren afterwards gave a farewell look at the coffin, which was covered with choice wreaths and sprigs of acacia, and the funeral obsequies were brought to a close. Brother N. Tracy P.P.G.J.W. efficiently acted as Provincial Grand Secretary, at the request of the R.W. Provincial Grand Master Brother Lord Waveney.

FREEMASONS' HALL.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

SIR,—The Freemasons have lost their fine hall in Queen Street. We all regret the destruction of so noble an assembly-room. But now is the time to get a better. The Embankment is open to us, and there is the site for the Central Temple of the Masons of Great Britain. H.R.H. the Prince of Wales has a fine opportunity of justifying his position. Let him summons the leaders of the Craft to a meeting in the Albert Hall, and there and then would be handed in a list of subscribers that could within a year establish a building on the finest site, and of the grandest architectural elevation. The opportunity is so palpable that the thing may be done, and funds on the grandest scale be secured within a month. The architect would complete a building that would be a monument of honour and power to the wealthy and weighty body of English Freemasons.

Yours faithfully,

JOHN BENNETT.

THE EMPIRE LAMP.
(RIPPINGILLE'S PATENT.)
THE MOST BRILLIANT AND ECONOMICAL DOMESTIC LIGHT EXTANT.
It equals Gas for Simplicity, but surpasses it for Illuminating Power.
IT burns without a chimney, a pine-shaped globe only being required, which has never been known to break from the heat of the flame. It will give more light than any other lamp with a wick of equal size. The combustion is so perfect that it deodorises the oil, and burns absolutely without smell, giving an intense pure white and beautiful light. It is unrivalled for simplicity in lighting, cleaning, and trimming, and is, in fact, the perfection of artificial light. Suitable for Cottage or Mansion, Churches, Chapels, &c.

ADVANCE OF THE MARK DEGREE.

THE most speculative and sanguine adherents of the Mark cannot but be satisfied with the rapid strides the Degree is making at the time present. In February last we had the satisfaction of reporting progress as to the doings of the Mark Masters in Norfolk, and this week we have again to announce the projected opening of a new Lodge in the same district. The Yonell Lodge of Mark Masters will be consecrated on Monday next, the 21st inst., at the St. Andrew's Hall, Gorleston; the interesting ceremony will be performed by the Most Worshipful Brother the Right Hon. Lord Henniker, who will be assisted by several of his present and past Officers. The Installation ceremony will be undertaken by the Grand Mark Secretary Bro. Frederick Binckes, Bro. Edward P. Yonell, of the Walpole Mark Lodge, No. 92, is the W.M. designate, while Bros. William Dods, Albert Victor Lodge, No. 70, and James Bond, Constantine, No. 145, have been nominated as the Senior and Junior Wardens. Amongst those who have intimated their intention of seeking advancement to the Degree in connection with this Lodge are the following brethren :—

Charles Diver	United Friends	313	P.M.
George Arthur Ward	St. Andrew's	1631
Herbert Willoughby Yonell	Ditto	1631
Hugh H. W. Elwes	St. Margaret's	1452
George Bush	Ditto	1452
Benj. M. Bradbeer	Ditto	1452
James J. Owles	United Friends	313	J.W.
George Francis Crane	St. Andrew's	1631	P.M.
Henry Harvey-George	Ditto	1631
Richard Martins	Friendship	100	P.M.
Herbert F. Brooks	Ditto	100
Henry Owles	Ditto	100	S.W.
Charles W. Chaston	St. Margaret's	1452
Joseph Hudspith	St. Andrew's	1631
William Sayer	Ditto	1631	P.M.
Alexander Mitchell	Friendship	100
John Hammond	St. Andrew's	1631

A second prominent event in connection with this meeting will be the formation of the Grand Lodge of East Anglia, and the Installation of the Most Worshipful Grand Mark Master Designate, the Right Hon. Lord Henniker G.M.M.M. The Most Worshipful Brother W. W. B. Beach, M.P., P.G.M.M.M. has undertaken the duties of Installing Master, and we feel confident this feature will not be the least interesting in the proceedings of the day. As a natural sequence a banquet will take place, when Bro. the Right Hon. Lord Henniker has kindly consented to preside.

MARK MASONRY AT BRADFORD.

ON Tuesday evening, the 1st May, there was a gathering of Masons at the Masonic Hall, Bradford, the meeting being called by invitation of the W.M. of the Old York Mark Lodge (T. I.), Bro. James Wright, for the purpose of hearing a lecture by Bro. T. B. Whytehead, of York, Past Grand Mark Master Overseer, on Mark Masonry. There were about eighty brethren present, the bulk of whom were not members of the Mark Degree, and the meeting was held in the banquetting hall. The lecturer was introduced by Bro. J. Wright W.M. in a few appropriate words. Bro. Whytehead then said :—

BRETHREN,—I must confess that I feel in a rather peculiar position to-night in standing up as a Mark Mason to address an assemblage of brethren, many of whom, I understand, have not entered the Order; and under the circumstances it seems desirable that I should in the first instance place myself in a fair position in this matter. I do not come before you in any sense either as the apologist for Mark Masonry or as its proselytising apostle. The Order needs no such adventitious assistance. There may have been a time, but that era in its history has long passed away, when possibly it was desirable to call in artificial assistance to further the cause of its progress; but the position Mark Masonry has now attained in the Masonic world not only would render any such movement or attempt ridiculous in the extreme, but would fairly subject the agent of such a scheme to the charge of deliberate impertinence. An Order that has a register of over three hundred prosperous Lodges, that has enrolled on its list of Past Grand Masters a Royal Duke and several members of the Peerage, that is now ruled by a Mason so eminent as Baron Henniker, and many of whose Grand and Past Grand Officers are also Officers and Past Officers of the Grand Lodge of England, stands in a position so strong as to afford to smile at carpers and cavillers, and to continue its career of usefulness regardless of the opinions of those who do not care to range themselves under its banners.

At the same time I do not wish you to mistake my meaning. I am one of those who think that absolute freedom is the prerogative of every Mason. I consider that every brother has a perfect right to judge for himself as to what Orders and Degrees based on Masonry he shall join, and what he shall avoid, and so long as any Order is conducted in a Masonic manner and within the usually accepted lines laid down in the Masonic lex non scripta, I say that a brother has an equal right to ally himself with it, or to refrain from all connection with it. There do exist Orders and Degrees that I shall not mention, doubtless many of you know to which I allude, which do not possess what may be called a good Masonic standing. They are or have been guilty of un-Masonic practices, they are not in accord with other bodies of Masonic repute, and they are and are likely to remain ostracised by Masons of weight and influence. But of this I shall say no more. I have come here to speak of Mark Masonry, an Order than which none save the Craft takes a better stand, and to which any brother may be glad and proud to belong.

I am here by invitation of your W. Master and of Bro. J. L. Atherton, brethren whom I believe you all know as honest workers in the Craft and genial Masons, and, as I understand them, their desire is that I should say something to you as to the History of Mark Masonry. This, you must understand is quite distinct, in one sense, from the history of Masonic Marks. On the latter subject numbers of archæologists have written. It is of the deepest interest and value, and assists in forming a powerful and valuable aid in the elucidation of architectural problems. Mr. George Godwin, M. Didron, Mr. P. Chalmers, Mr. Fitzgerald, Mr. Papworth, Sir W. Ouseley, and many other authors and architects have published papers, and alluded in their works to this subject, and within the last few weeks Bro. R. F. Gould, in the second volume of his magnificent work on Freemasonry, has devoted one of his most interesting chapters to the subject of Masons' Marks, and given numbers of illustrations of their infinite varieties. From the most remote times of antiquity Operative Masons appear to have observed the strict practice of making the selection of a mark a special feature of their organisations. Amongst the most ancient ruins are found the marks of those Craftsmen by whom the edifices were originally erected. Many investigators have argued and striven to prove that these marks possessed more signification than a mere identification of individual work. They have asserted that they bore a mystical meaning, a hidden language, and that much religious symbolism was concealed beneath their deeply indented outlines. Whether this be so or not is, however, quite uncertain, and is likely yet to remain an enigma. Yet the selection of similar marks tends to show that the building sodalities of all ages have had more or less intercommunication; that Masonic Operative Societies have borrowed from one another, even if they have not been lineally descended, and that kindred ideas and teachings have led to the choice of the same symbolic marks wherever the stonehewer's art has been practised and cherished in a systematic manner. Many of those present will be aware that in the far east, equally with the distant west, are to be found the individual and distinctive marks of the skilful Masons whose hands cut and placed the stones that now stand records of their ability. From the foundations of the Temple of Solomon, from the Round Towers of Ireland, from the classical ruins of Italy, and from the wrecked temples of Central America; from the remains of the cities of Northern Africa, and from the glorious monastic ruins of the British Islands, have been gathered thousands of Masons' marks, multitudes of them exhibiting analogous features, and speaking to us in silent language of the achievements of those marvellous artists whose names and histories have for centuries been lost in the efflux of time. Yet even in the days in which we live the Operative Masons carry out the very same practices and in their work of to-day may be seen the very identical usages that characterised their predecessors who wrought with mallet and chisel upon the palaces and temples of prehistoric times. Bro. Cumberland, of York, some few years ago drew my attention to the fact that in the restoration works of the Cathedral of York the Masons were making use of marks many of which were of a character and class well known in Speculative Masonry, and in his company I visited the workshop (alias "Lodge") where the stone cutting was in progress. Here we found the Overseer superintending his Craftsmen. The drawing or tracing board, bearing the design for the intended structure, was placed upon the table. Each stone was thereon distinctly marked out to scale, and each section bore the mark of the Craftsman to whose hands was entrusted the duty of its execution. Thus, a glance at the tracing board was sufficient to indicate to each Craftsman his work, the rule being that upon the completion of a stone the executant's mark was placed thereon as his sign manual in proof of his claim to payment.

The resemblance between the marks of the Operative Masons of the present day, those of the mediæval periods, and those of the very far distant past are most curious, and must be more than merely accidental. Marks, for instance, have been found done in red ochre in portions of the Great Pyramid identical with others now to be seen on the stones of some of our English churches. On the very foundation stones of Solomon's Temple are marks again, facsimiles of which in miniature are found in several of our English Cathedrals. Many persons have devoted much time and pains to the collection and comparison of Masons' marks, and these often seem to agree that the marks had a significance more than mere identification of work; and it is not only possible, but perfectly probable, that the moral lessons conveyed to the Craftsmen in the secret recesses of their Lodges or guild houses found perpetuation, and were darkly shadowed forth by the chisel's edge on the surface of their work. The Rev. R. M. Musgrave, who investigated the different varieties of marks on St. Nicholas Church, at Yarmouth, expressed an opinion that the different grades of Masons could be distinguished by the marks, and that the strictly Masonic marks were probably those of the artists of advanced skill. This is not an unlikely supposition, and somewhat coincides with the present legends of the Mark Degree, as well as the experiences of practical builders who have exercised their powers of observation.

Mr. George Godwin tells us that in the books of the Bricklayers' and Tylers' Company, circa 1580, those who signed the book were in the habit of using a mark, the name being written on the side of it, and the marks selected being of a Masonic character.

As a sample of how the same mark occurs at different places and dates, Mr. Godwin tells us that he found the hourglass mark on the stones on the site of Ancient Carthage, Hastings Castle, the Cathedral at Geneva, Lausanne Cathedral, on Turkish ruins in Lycia, Kirkstall, and Roche Abbeys, Furnace Abbey, Gloucester Cathedral, Malmesbury Abbey, Setubal (Portugal), Santarem (Portugal), Lincoln and York Cathedrals, Kenilworth Gateway, Salamanca (Spain), Canterbury Cathedral; and I may add that it is common upon the foundation stones of St. Mary's Abbey, York, and on the Walls of Fountains Abbey.

Again, the Pentalpha, or Solomon's Seal, be found in the Holy Land, Malmesbury and Furness Abbeys, Dunstable Church, Steyning Church, in Suffolk; Geneva and Gloucester Cathedrals, Lincoln Cathedral, and St. Mary's Abbey, York; York Chapter House, Fountains Abbey, Strasburg Cathedral, York and Glasgow Cathedrals, in several Spanish Cathedrals. This mark I have noticed on almost every building where marks remain, and both these marks, the Hourglass and Pentalpha, are now in use amongst the Operative Masons employed on York Cathedral.

In Mr. Street's account of Gothic architecture in Spain will be found a good deal of information respecting Masons' Marks, and the deductions the author makes respecting the numbers of workmen employed are interesting. In the present day, as in the past, the man who works the stone is not usually the man who places it in the building, and the cutter consequently places his mark on the inside, so that it is lost when the stone is cemented into the structure, the builder placing his mark on the outside afterwards. There can be little doubt that the similarity of these signs from the very earliest times points to a continuity of Masonic teaching and guild organisation from age to age. As to the varieties of the marks represented, these ancient builders seem to have laid under contribution many sources. Not only did they select figures representing implements of their trade, natural objects, weapons, and tools conveying lessons of moral teaching, but the alphabets of many languages were also requisitioned to furnish designs for their marks.

Possibly you may say that this is all very well, very true, and very interesting; but what has it to do with the Speculative Mark Masonry of the present day? I reply that it has as much connection with it as the Craft Operative Masonry of the Middle Ages has to do with our Speculative working of the nineteenth century. That Masons' marks were adopted by the earliest speculative Masons of which we have any record, no one will deny who has any pretensions to Masonic knowledge. It is in the old Lodge records of Scotland, at a time when Operative and Speculative Masonry appear to have been in process of merging, that we find the selection of marks to have been an invariable practice amongst those candidates who were admitted into the Order. The Lodge in Aberdeen working in 1670 kept very careful registers of its members, and in these we find a long series of names of brethren to each of which is appended his mark. These have been extracted by Bro. W. J. Hughan, of Truro, and are given in Gould's History. Amongst them we find noblemen, professional men, tradesmen, and a few Operative Masons, showing that even at that date the Lodges were both Operative and Speculative. In some of the older Lodge records in England we find marks appended to the names of members, and in the records of the Grand Lodge at York the Mark cypher occasionally occurs. The Grand Royal Arch Chapter of Scotland has officially declared that—"In this country, from Time Immemorial, and long before the institution of the Grand Lodge of Scotland (which was in 1736) what is now known as the Mark Master's Degree was wrought by the Operative Lodges of St. John's Masonry."

Mark Masonry, in some form, was worked during the later portion, at any rate, of last century in many Craft Lodges in England. In those days it was a generally accepted doctrine that any degree could be legitimately worked in any Blue Lodge under the authority of the Craft Warrant, and it is quite manifest that at the Union of the Athol and Modern Lodges in 1813 there must have been many sticklers for such license, since the Second Article of Union, after declaring that pure Ancient Masonry consists of three degrees and no more, including the Royal Arch, says "this Article is not intended to prevent any Lodge or Chapter from holding a meeting in any of the degrees of the Orders of Chivalry, according to the Constitutions of the said Orders." In many Lodge records we find that Craft Lodges were opened in the second degree and that brethren were made "Mark Men." Again, we find them opened in the third degree and brethren made "Mark Masters." This was the case in Hull, in London, in Lancashire, Cumberland, and in West Yorkshire.

Before an assembly of brethren, some of whom are not Mark Masons, it will be readily understood that the question of the Mark Ritual is one upon which it would be improper for me to enter, and on this account I am obliged to restrict my observations within much narrower limits than I could have desired. I may, however, say that the rituals of the degree have been almost legion. I possess copies of several of the old workings, some of which are curious and seem to be associated with, or derived from, degrees that are now worked on an entirely separate basis. But in this respect Mark Masonry does not differ from other degrees, or even from the Craft itself. You are doubtless aware that the present usually accepted Craft working is very different to that which prevailed during last century, and during the early part of the XVIIIth century it is extremely doubtful what ritual, if any, existed. It is quite probable that the present German system then usually obtained, i.e., that the Master of the Lodge exemplified the working according to his own ideas and in his own language, keeping within certain due bounds laid down by elementary landmarks.

As late as 1855 the Mark Degree had a narrow escape of being embodied in the working of Craft Masonry by the deliberate action of the Grand Lodge of England. The Grand Chapter of England, becoming aware that the Grand Chapter of Scotland accepted the Mark Degree as part of its system, considered whether or not it should follow the example of its northern neighbour, but upon a close investigation of the working of the Degree, the Grand Chapter decided that the Mark was in point of fact an integral portion of the Fellow Craft working, and recommended Grand Lodge to accept the responsibility; and this Grand Lodge actually decided to do. When, however, the matter came up for confirmation, it was resolved not to carry out the resolve, and perhaps wisely, for although I quite think that any unprejudiced person would agree in the original conclusion of Grand Lodge as to the Mark being an integral portion of Craft working and teaching, yet there is such a thing as precedent, and there is another such thing as the thin end of a wedge, and perhaps if the door of change had once been opened, were it ever so little, there might have been some difficulty in keeping it closed against other degrees that might have claimed admission. Those of my hearers who are acquainted with Mark working are well aware that it dovetails into a certain place in Craft working with remarkable exactitude, and forms a most valuable connecting link in the completion of the Masonic Traditional History. Some Masons are of opinion that the Royal Arch originally was, in some form, actual portion of the Master Masons' Degree, and this theory is in some measure justified by certain words and symbols found on tracing boards depicted in the oldest Masonic works extant. In the same way there are those who believe that the Mark Degree was at some period lopped off from the second degree, and it is possible that this may have also been the case, for the Grand Lodge of England declared in 1856 that the Mark Degree was "not positively essential, but a graceful appendage to the Degree of Fellow Craft." This is especially worthy of note, because it is a record of the deliberate opinion of the highest and most reliable leaders in Craft Masonry of our own day; not that the verdict is absolutely correct, for it is more correct to say that the degree of Mark Man would be a suitable appendage to the Fellow Craft, and that of Mark Master to the Masters' Degree. But of these details it is rather difficult to speak on the present occasion.

The formation of the present Grand Lodge of Mark Master Masons of England was perfectly Constitutional. No one can now tell how long previous to 1855 or 1856 Mark Lodges had been working in this country, but just as in 1717 it was felt that without some governing body and some central organisation Masonry ran a great risk of being lost altogether or becoming corrupted, so in one of the former years some of the more influential of English Mark Masons made up their minds that something must be done to preserve and consolidate an order which possessed such good teachings and had so many worthy disciples. It was found that for lack of a supreme authority, members of the Order were applying to Scotland for warrants, and that no control existed over any part of the working or admission of members. There were excellent and sufficient reasons for the formation, under Lord Leigh, of the Grand Mark Lodge of England, and the very fact that most of the influential Lodges gave in their adhesion at once proves how general was the consensus of opinion that the step was wise and necessary. It was unavoidable and to be expected that there should be some dissentients. No one ever heard of any movement, either inside or outside of Masonry, that did not find an opponent. It is true that some strong Lodges did not join the Grand Lodge for several years, and indeed it is within a very brief period indeed that that one old Lodge at Nottingham has given in its adhesion. But the fact that the Grand Lodge now practically commands the allegiance of the whole of the Mark Lodges and Mark Masons in England, is sufficient to remove the necessity for any further argument as to the legality of its origin. Moreover, it is now recognised, and in friendly relations with every Masonic body of good repute in the world.

It has been objected by some brethren that the Mark Degree, like others beyond the Three Degrees, involves a waste of Masonic energy, and militates against the Masonic Charities. I am not of that opinion. I have always noticed that it is those who give most to the Masonic Charities who are the best Masonic workers in other degrees beyond the Craft, and that those who say unkind things of the "Fancy Degrees" are not, as a rule, distinguished by their support of any of our Institutions. But the brethren of the Mark have shown their true desire to promote Charity by their foundation of a separate Benevolent Fund of their own, as well as a distinct Educational Fund, both of which have made great progress, and have done very good and practical service, and I am myself well aware that it is no infrequent thing for a Mark Lodge to contribute to the annual collections for the great Craft Charities.

Mark Masonry, like every other branch of the Speculative Art, depends, however, very much upon its rulers and guides. Every one knows the enormous strides made by the Craft within the past few years, and this is no doubt very largely owing to the fact of our future King filling the post of Grand Master. It is of the utmost importance to have men not only of light and leading, but of social weight and influence, to occupy the chief places in any Masonic Order, if that Order is to advance or become popular; for although our maxim is right—that we prefer honour and virtue above the external advantages of rank and fortune, yet in this country it is happily true that honour and rank, virtue and fortune, may not at all unfrequently be found combined in the person of one individual, and that one a Mason.

In Craft Masonry you, in West Yorkshire, have made, and are making, great progress, but from what I hear this has not been the case in Mark Masonry. This is, I think, much to be regretted, and the matter is to me somewhat unaccountable. It seems strange that a district intimately associated with the degree in its earlier and more obscure days should not appear to look upon it kindly now in its days of fortune. I think that as far as outsiders are concerned their shyness of the degree must arise more from want of knowledge of its value than anything else, and if anything I may have said shall have had the effect of exciting any interest in an Order and a working that for me possesses very great attractions, I shall feel that the little effort made in the preparation of this paper has not been wasted.

Bro. J. S. Cumberland made some interesting remarks upon the customs of the Operative Masons of the present day, and also exhibited a number of curious marks extracted from the old minutes of the Newstead Mark Lodge at Nottingham, and other old documents. Votes of thanks to Bros. Whytehead and Cumberland were moved by Bro. C. J. Banister 33°, and were seconded and carried, and after several leading brethren present had made remarks bearing upon the subject, the meeting separated, with expressions of gratification.

ROYAL MASONIC BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION.

THE annual meeting of the supporters of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution was held on Friday, the 18th instant, in the Large Hall of Freemasons' Tavern. Brother Colonel Creaton, Past Grand Treasurer, presided. The following report, which was read by Brother James Terry, Secretary, was, on the motion of Brother W. Clarke P.G.P., seconded by Brother F. Adlard P.M. No. 7, adopted, and ordered to be received and entered on the minutes:—

REPORT.

In submitting to the notice of the Governors and Subscribers the position of the Institution, the Committee consider that it will be eminently satisfactory to all interested in its welfare.

His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, K.G., &c., &c., the Patron and President, appointed the Annual Festival to take place upon the 28th February last, and the Committee were fortunate in securing as its President General Brownrigg, C.B., the R.W. Provincial Grand Master for Surrey; a numerous and influential Board of Stewards was formed—276 in number—who, with united and untiring energy, raised a sum of £13,250, and to them the Committee tender their thanks for their able and zealous services in realizing so large an amount.

At the last election there were upon the funds 315 Annuitants, since reduced by the decease of 12 men and 5 widows. The Committee, appreciating the efforts made at the recent Festival, have determined, in view of the large list of candidates (120), not only to fill up the vacancies thus created, but also to place upon the list of Annuitants 8 men and 7 widows in addition to those previously elected, so that the total number of recipients will now be 330, exclusive of the 19 widows in receipt of half their late husband's annuity.

The alteration effected in the Laws, whereby six Annuitants were placed upon a deferred list, to fill vacancies occurring during the year has been of the most beneficial character, and only to be appreciated to its fullest extent by those who have been enabled to derive the benefit accruing from having the annuity paid them so soon as a vacancy occurred, instead of having to wait until this Election, with the attendant anxiety of the ballot.

The amount required annually to meet these demands will be £12,236, without making any allowance for the usual and necessary working expenses.

The liberality of Grand Lodge in having increased its Annual Grant to £1,600, the Committee gracefully acknowledge, as it materially assists them in endeavouring to cope with the daily needs of the Institution. They also tender their thanks for the grant of £70 for providing the residents of the Institution with coals during the winter season.

To the honorary surgeons they again tender their fraternal thanks; to Henry John Strong, Esq., M.D., for the more than solicitous interest displayed by him for the comfort of the residents at Croydon, and to R. Percy Middlemist, Esq., for his kindness in administering to the wants and ailments of those resident in London.

The Committee are pleased to say that the repairs and alterations of the building at Croydon are nearly completed, and that the various dwellings are in a thorough and sound condition.

Whilst thanking and congratulating those brethren who, by their donations and subscriptions, have so materially assisted the Committee from time to time in the heavy responsibility under which they labour in carrying on the Institution, they would desire to impress upon those who have not yet accorded it their support the great desirability of their so doing, as it is only by combined efforts that the work which has been carried on for over forty years can be gradually extended, so that the fullest advantages may be conferred upon the ever increasing list of applicants of both sexes.

Subjoined is a statement of the receipts and expenditure during the year ending the 31st March 1883, together with the particulars of the permanent income of the Institution.

Signed J. CREATON, Past Grand Treasurer, Vice-Patron, Chairman.

Freemasons' Hall, London, W.C.
18th May 1883.

Brother H. G. Warren P.M. 173 called the attention of the brethren to the necessity of having some limit placed on the amount to be invested. He thought they were now laying up too much for posterity. Already there was over £60,000 invested, and this had been accumulated in the space of only 25 years. The whole matter, he thought, should be laid before the Committee, to see if a portion of the money could not be utilised for the present generation. There might be a sum invested of £40,000 for the men, and £30,000 or £35,000 for the women. Colonel Creaton felt quite sure that Brother Warren's remarks would have the best attention of the Committee. Brother C. J. Perceval moved to add the following words to Rule 25:—

"Every Vice-Patron, upon completion of a further donation of one hundred guineas to either Fund, or partly to each Fund, in one sum, or in sums of not less than ten guineas each, shall become a Patron of the Institution, with twelve votes for every ten guineas subscribed."

Bro. W. Clarke P.G.P. seconded the motion. Bro. Chas. Lacey P.M. 174, while thinking the proposition a good one, thought the scheme not perfect, and moved that it be referred back to the Committee. Bro. E. F. Storr P.M. and Treasurer No. 22 seconded the amendment. The amendment, on being put to the meeting, was lost, and the motion was carried. Bro. H. Smith Prov. Grand Secretary West Yorkshire, asked whether this was to apply to Lodges, Chapters, and Societies? Bro. Perceval said it was only to apply to individuals. Bro. H. Smith thought it ought to apply to these bodies as well. Col. Creaton said that as the meeting had decided to make the classes named Patrons of the Institution, Her Majesty the Queen and Prince of Wales being already Patroness and Patron, he thought the title of these Royal personages should be Grand Patroness and Grand Patron, and he moved accordingly. Brother Edgar Bowyer seconded this motion. Bros. A. H. Tattershall, J. J. Berry, and John Newton were elected Auditors, and the brethren then proceeded to elect candidates to the annuities of the Institution. Bro. R. R. Davis P.M. 256, Hon. Sec. of the John Hervey Memorial Fund, attended, and handed the amount of dividends received (£26 7s 6d) in four cheques, as follows: £6 13s 9d to each of the highest unsuccessful candidates (male and female), and £6 10s to each of the second highest unsuccessful candidates (male and female).

The result of the Election will be found in our advertisement columns.

The customary votes of thanks to the Scrutineers and Chairman closed the proceedings.

Signor Tito Mattei's concert was given on the 12th inst. at St. James's Hall, when this popular pianist and talented composer secured a distinguished and fashionable audience. The artistes comprised many celebrities of the day, including Mesdames Trebelli, Patey, Miramon and Miss Santley. Messrs. Edward Lloyd, Bonhy, Zoboli and Ernesto Palmero, a new tenor, who at short notice supplied the place of Signor Runcio, who did not arrive from the Continent in time. M. Pepani (violin), Albert (violoncello), La Calsi and Pinsuti (conductors). The beneficiaire in splendid style played a selection from I Puritani. The feature of the evening was a septett from a MS. opera, composed by Signor Mattei. The concert was a success in every respect.

BROTHER JAMES ROBINS.

BROTHER James Robins, who died suddenly in a train between Ludgate and Loughborough Junction, on the 8th instant, was an old Mason, and for many years had held the office of Treasurer of the Frederick of Unity Lodge, No. 452. He was the son of the late George Robins, "of auction renown," whose flowery descriptions of properties he had for sale were the amusement and astonishment of readers of the first half of the present century. Brother James Robins followed the same profession as his father, and was well known and appreciated by a large circle with whom he had business dealings. The funeral took place at Nunhead Cemetery, on Wednesday last, when several members of the Craft attended to pay a last tribute of respect.

THE LATE BRO. A. J. DUFF-FILER.

THIS worthy Craftsman, whose services to Freemasonry extended over a period of close on forty years, was initiated in the Ionic Lodge, No. 227, on the 5th October 1843, and served the office of W.M. in 1846. He joined the Old Kings Arms Lodge, No. 28, on the 28th April 1851, and was elected W.M. in 1852. He was a Founder and the first Master of the Canonbury Lodge, No. 657, which was consecrated in 1855; at the time of his death he held the office of Treasurer. Bro. Filer served on the Board of General Purposes for three years, viz., from 1854 to 1856-7. Another Lodge in which our energetic brother took an active part in establishing was the Evening Star, No. 1719, well known now as a "class" Lodge, and strictly confined to Craftsmen who are connected with Gas and Gas Companies. Here again he was first Master, in 1877, and filled the post of Secretary at the time of his decease. Bro. Filer was exalted in Royal Arch Masonry in the Old Kings Arms Chapter, No. 28, 2nd June 1845, and herein filled the office of M.E.Z. He joined the Prince of Wales Chapter, No. 259, 7th June 1872; and, to sum up the record of his many services, he was made Grand Sword Bearer of Grand Lodge and Grand Chapter in 1872.

A meeting of the brethren who have undertaken Stewardships for the approaching Festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys took place on Thursday afternoon, at Freemasons' Hall, under the presidency of the Worshipful Brother James Smith Eastes, Deputy Provincial Grand Master of Kent. Amongst those present were Bros. Henry Smith, F. R. Spaull, John P. Hale, George Page, Charles Drawbridge, John L. Mather, Charles Fitzgerald Matier, A. F. Godson, Horace B. Marshall, Edgar Bowyer, F. Harrison, J. A. Farnfield, W. F. Smithson, W. H. Hooper, E. G. Lewis, A. P. Catterson, G. P. Festa, James Salmon, F. Foxley, Thomas Cubitt, H. A. Bennett, Webster Glynes, W. W. Morgan, Joseph Clever, F. E. Pocock, M.D., A. Le Grand, W. P. Webb, F. Hughes Hallett, George Smith jun., G. A. Ames, C. F. Hogard, J. Giesman Chillingworth, R. F. Williams, E. Good, C. Dearing, Henry Faija, Thomas Schofield, D. P. Cama, R. Barham, E. Valeriani, H. Mason, T. E. Tallent. Considerable discussion arose as to the locality where the Festival should be held, but it was at length arranged for the Crystal Palace, Sydenham, on the 20th June This will be a week earlier than it was anticipated the Festival should take place, but previous engagements having been entered into for the 27th June, it was found impracticable to provide the requisite accommodation on the later date. For those who are musically inclined, we may mention that the day fixed upon is one of those set apart for the Handel Festival, and tickets will entitle the holders to take part in the musical entertainment of the day. We trust this further inducement will have a tendency to make this Festival one of the most successful ever celebrated by the Institution.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—The changes of temperature and weather frequently upset persons who are most cautious of their health, and most particular in their diets. These corrective, purifying, and gentle aperient Pills are the best remedy for all defective actions of the digestive organs, they augment the appetite, strengthen the stomach, correct biliousness, and carry off all that is noxious from the system. Holloway's Pills are composed of rare balsams, unmixed with baser matter, and on that account are peculiarly well adapted for the young, delicate, and aged. As this peerless medicine has gained fame in the past, so will it preserve it in the future by its renovating and invigorating qualities, and its incapacity of doing harm.

MARK MASONRY.

—:o:—

CONSECRATION OF A NEW LODGE.

A SPECIAL Provincial Grand Lodge of Mark Master Masons was held at the Masonic Hall, Park-street, Torquay, on Tuesday, 8th instant, for the purpose of consecrating the new Jordan Lodge, 319. The history of the new Lodge is briefly this. Several of the members of Jordan Lodge, 1402, in order to become Mark Masons, had joined the Mark Lodge Devon, 215, Newton Abbott, but as these brethren were enthusiastic Masons, they were wishful that a Mark Lodge should be attached to their own at Torquay. Keeping this object steadily in view, Bros. John Lane, A. T. Blamey, and W. Bradnee increased their efforts, and yesterday's ceremony crowned the movement with success sooner than they anticipated. The first sign of the meeting in Torquay yesterday was small detached parties of Masons, who wended their way to the Imperial Hotel, where they were photographed in a group by Bro. Bradnee's artists. A copy of this photograph will be given by Bro. Bradnee to each of the sitters as a memento of the pleasant meeting. After refreshments, a Mark Lodge was formed at the Lodge rooms, when eight brethren were advanced to the degree of M.M., Bros. H. Martin P.P.G.R. I.P.M. 215 presiding, C. Pope P.G.S. Bearer acting as S.W., W. Harris P.P.G.J.D. as J.W, S. Lorden 315 as M.O., Charles Stevens P.P.S.B. as S.O., H. A. Schanks 315 as J.O., A. T. Blamey 215 S.D., and W. E. Taylor 215 J.D., the working being rendered in excellent form. At half-past two the Provincial Grand Lodge was formed, R.W. Bro. Lieut.-Col. J. Tanner Davy, J.P., P.G.M.M. presiding, supported on the one hand by V.W. Bro. Charles Spence Bate, F.R.S., D.P.G.M.M., and on the other by V.W. Bro. Frederick Binckes P.G.S.W., G. Mark Secretary of England, V.G. Bro. W. Vicary as S.W., and V.W. Bro. Vincent Bird as J.W. pro tem. The ceremony of consecration was proceeded with. Bro. G. F. Gratwicke P.P.G.A.S. P.G. Secretary, read various matters, including an announcement that a certain sum of money having been paid to the Masonic Charities, the Prov. Grand Master thereby became a Life Governor. This was warmly applauded. A communication from the Grand Lodge, confirming the appointment of Brother Lieut.-Col. J. Tanner Davy as P.G.M.M., was also read. The Prov. Grand Master acknowledged the honour which had been conferred upon him, pointing out that Devon was not only the senior, but also the largest Province of Mark Masonry in England, and that Mark Masonry was still growing was amply shown in the fact that a week or two since Lodge 315 was consecrated in Teignmouth, whilst they were met to-day to consecrate Lodge 310, in Torquay. The Prov. Grand Secretary having announced to the Prov. Grand Master that the members of the Jordan Mark Lodge desired to be constituted and consecrated the founders of the new Lodge were arranged in order, and the warrant was read. The assent of the members and Master having been given to warrant, laws, and constitution, the Prov. Grand Master declared the Lodge constituted. The consecration ceremony was performed by Bro. C. Spence Bate D.P.G.M.M., W. Vicary P.P.G.T., and Vincent Bird P.G.S.W., who, in turn, poured out the corn, wine, oil, and salt upon the pedestal. The P. Grand Master and P.G. Chaplain, Bro. T. W. Lemon, having rendered their part of the ceremony, the installation of the W.M. Bro. John Lane took place, who subsequently appointed the following as his Officers:—A. T. Blamey S.W., W. Bradnee J.W., J. Dodge M.O., G. J. Pepperell S.O., B. Knight J.O., W. E. Taylor Registrar of Marks, S. Sanderson Secretary, M. B. Wicks S.D., G. Rowland J.D., R. Letherell I.G., W. Hill Organist, J. E. Newton Tyler. The P.G. Master then addressed the Lodge, alluding to the high honour of having Bro. Binckes, the Grand Secretary of England, with them. Bros. Lane and Spence-Bate having supported these remarks, Bro. Binckes said he was somewhat taken by surprise at his cordial reception. He had been, as all should be, anxious to do his duty, and it was a great pleasure to him to come amongst the brethren. This was his first visit to Torquay, and its beautiful scenery; he should always have in mind the enjoyable day he was now passing amongst the Devonshire brethren. He had the pleasure, in 1872, of installing the Prov. Grand Master Colonel Davy, and it was a further pleasure now to congratulate him upon him the spirit and prosperity of the Order. Bro. Henry Stocker P.P.G.D.C. W.M. 15 read a resolution passed at his Lodge St. George 15:—"That the Provincial Grand Master be requested to invite the Grand Lodge to hold their next movable meeting in Devonshire, under the banner of St. George's Lodge 15, and that the Provincial Lodges promise to give the Grand Lodge a most hearty reception." Bro. Stocker having spoken to his resolution, it was seconded by Bro. E. J. Fulford P.P.G.M.O. P.G.S. England. Bro. Binckes said the Grand Lodge was committed to Lancashire for their October meeting; however, it was possible that Devonshire might be visited in the autumn of 1884, and that the resolution should have, he could promise them, not only consideration, but the kindly consideration of the Grand Lodge. The Lodge was shortly after closed, and a banquet was held at the Royal Hotel, at which the Provincial Grand Master presided. It should be added that the musical part of the ceremony was capitally rendered, the Torquay Lodge room possessing an excellent organ.—Western Daily Mercury.

MINERVA LODGE, No, 12.

A MEETING of the Minerva Lodge of Mark Masters was held at the Masonic Hall, Dagger-lane, Hull, on the evening of Monday, the 7th inst. Present—Bros. James Pyburn, M.D., W.M., Ansell I.P.M., George L. Shackles S.W., Balchin J.W., George Hardy P.M. Treasurer, Walter Reynolds P.M. Secretary, Rev. Canon Chap., W. Holder as M.O., Wm. England S.O., W. H. Wellstead J.O., A. Johnson Reg., J. Linwood S.D., Thornton J.D., H. Vise as M.C., V. King Organist, R. Toogood Steward, F. Fullerton I.G., and Clayton Tyler; P.M.'s Bros. Lissons, Sherling, and Smith; also Bros. Pyburn, Logan, Sutton, Pudsey, Firth, Whitesides, Blackburn, White, Bryan, and Johnston. Visitor—Bro. A. H. Robinson, of the Humber Lodge of M.M. Lodge having been opened in form, the minutes of the previous meeting were read, confirmed, and signed. The ballot was then prepared for Bros. Rev. H. W. Kemp, M.A., Thomas Wetherill, J. R. Shearsmith, Edward Piper, E. G. Hewerdine, George Hansell, and J. H. Peters as candidates for advancement; and for Bro. George Spink, of the St. George's Lodge, No. 15, Exeter, as a joining member, all of whom were accepted. Bros. Rev. H. W. Kemp, Wetherill, Shearsmith, Piper, Hewerdine, Hansell, and Peters being in attendance, were regularly advanced to the honourable degree of Mark Master Masons. The ceremony was impressively performed by Bro. Dr. Pyburn W.M., assisted by Bros. J. N. Selurling P.M. and R. G. Smith P.M. Labour being ended, hearty good wishes were expressed, and the Lodge was closed according to ancient custom. The brethren then adjourned to refreshment, and full justice having been done to an ample supply of viands, the W.M. proceeded to give the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts. During the evening the health of the Initiate was proposed and enthusiastically received. Bro. Rev. H. W. Kemp, in responding, stated he that evening had had a recurrence of an old and pleasant feeling, namely, that of being received as a newly initiated brother. It was nearly twenty-five years ago since he first had the honour of replying to a similar toast in the Craft degree, and who amongst the brethren present would not, if he could, go back such a period, coupled with his present experience; as, however, the Great Architect of the Universe had decreed this could not be, it behoved them one and all to make the best use of the remainder of their allotted lives. In making such a retrospect, however, he could not help remembering many great and important works that he had the honour of assisting at in connection with their W.M. for the benefit of art, industries, and the welfare of their good old town of Hull, and the ceremony he had gone through that evening would certainly be an incentive to him to continue in the path he had years ago laid down for his guidance, and he hoped that his example would be followed by the younger brethren; they should, however, remember that for such a course there should be no "keystone," and that no one then present was not able to assist his brethren and fellow beings in this world in some manner, however slight, and for all they could that "keystone might become the head of the corner." Bro. George L. Shackles, the S.W., being placed in possession of the gavel, proposed the health of the Visiting Brother, and in doing so apologised for the absence of the W.M. of the sister Mark Lodge; many members of that Lodge would have honoured them with their presence that evening, had it unfortunately not been the anniversary festival of the Humber Craft Lodge. Brother Dr. Robinson responded in suitable terms. Brother Rev. H. W. Kemp then asked the brethren to give him their attention, as he had a toast to propose he was certain they would receive in a most enthusiastic manner, namely, that of their W.M. He had had the honour of the personal friendship of Brother Pyburn for many years, who by his uniform urbanity and kindness had endeared himself to a large circle of brethren and friends. It had been gratifying to him to be advanced that evening to the degree of a Mark Master Mason by such an old an esteemed friend. The toast was received with the utmost cordiality, and Brother Pyburn, in responding, disclaimed any merit of his own in the work done that evening; he thanked the Past Masters and Officers who had assisted him in the work within the Lodge. The parting toast having been given, the brethren dispersed after having spent a most enjoyable evening.

ROYAL ARCH.

PANMURE CHAPTER, No. 720.

THE nineteenth installation meeting of this Chapter was held at the Horns Tavern, Kennington, on Whit Monday. The holiday interfered to some extent with the customary attendance on such occasions, and apologies for enforced absence were numerous. Amongst those present were Ex. Companions B. R. Bryant M.E.Z. elect, J. S. Terry J., James Stevens P.Z. and Scribe E., T. Poore, M. S. Larlham, Watts, H. Baldwin, Arnold, Harrison, and others. Visitors—Companions Bradley M.E.Z. 1216, B. Lyon M.E.Z. 1329, W. Halsey P.Z. 507, H. Bickerstaff P.Z. 13, Voisey H. 1329, Jonas Duckett, and H. Forbes of 1329. Chapter having been opened, Companion James Stevens proceeded to instal the Principals elect, viz.:—Companions B. R. Bryant as Z., J. S. Terry as H., and J. W. Watts as J. The ceremonies were very impressively rendered throughout. The newly installed Principals immediately commenced work, and the usual ballot having been found clear, exalted into Royal Arch Masonry Brother W. H. Beckley of Lodge No. 507. The admirable manner in which the exaltation ceremony was conducted, and the Principals' addresses given, was the subject of much subsequent laudation from the Visitors. On the termination of the business of exaltation, a notice of motion by the M.E.Z. was unanimously carried, to the effect, "That in recognition of the earnest services to the Chapter, as founder, and Scribe E. for fourteen years, of Comp. Jas. Stevens P.Z., a Past Scribe's jewel be presented to him; and that honorary membership of the Chapter should also be conferred on him." The M.E.Z. stated that in full assurance of the unanimity with which the motion would be carried he had had the jewel prepared. Companion Stevens briefly but forcibly expressed his grateful sense of the further honour conferred on him by the members of the Chapter. The design of the jewel is such as to denote the occupation of the three Principal chairs; the Past Principal's emblem is surmounted by cross pens, and the inscription sets forth the nature of the services rendered; made of solid gold and exquisitely finished, it was much admired by the Companions, who warmly congratulated the fortunate recipient. The Officers for the ensuing year were then invested, Bro. Thomas Poore, the newly-elected Scribe E., at once entering upon the duties of the office which Bro. Stevens had vacated; and Bro. H. Baldwin being invested as N. The report of the Audit Committee, with a balance sheet, which was of a favourable character, was received and adopted. Candidates for exaltation and joining were proposed, and after the acceptance of two resignations, with regret, the Chapter was closed, and the Companions adjourned to banquet. This was well prepared, and served by Bro. Buxton, the new host of the Horns Tavern, and gave great satisfaction. After the cloth was cleared, the customary Loyal and Masonic toasts were duly honoured, and those of the M.E.Z., the Exaltee, the Visitors, and the P.Z.'s met with appropriate responses. The social gathering was enlivened by the vocal efforts of Comps. Voisey, Halsey, Baldwin, Beckley, and Bickerstaff, and recitations by Companions Stevens and Forbes, and well before the midnight hour the Companions separated, pleased with the successful issue of their nineteenth anniversary.

Royal Arch Masonry is making rapid progress in the metropolis, and no recently formed Chapter has done more to help forward the movement than the Metropolitan, No. 1507, which has been, and is being, largely recruited from the Savoy Lodge. The popularity of the Metropolitan Chapter is due undoubtedly to the great discrimination shown in the selection of the Principals, and certainly few Masonic bodies have been so successful in the election of their Officers. In succession to Companions James Willing, Stacey, Fergusson, William Mason Stiles, and Hudson, Companion. H. Stiles (Master of the Metropolitan Lodge) has been called upon to rule the destinies of the Chapter, and he may safely be trusted to exercise the duties of the exalted position of first Principal with credit to himself and honour to the Companions. Comps. James Willling, Side, and T. C. Edmonds have been elected to important offices in the Chapter.—Evening News.

THE FIRE AT FREEMASONS' HALL.

We have seen some capital photographs of the "Temple," taken immediately after the fire. In these Mr. G. W. Parker, of Warwick-court, Holborn, has to our mind been the most successful; the destructive effects of the conflagration are vividly displayed in the several views he has just published. Bro. Bedford Lemere, of 147 Strand, has also produced some most artistic pictures. As the cost at which these photographs can be secured is but trifling, we hope to see them at many of the Lodge meeting places of our Metropolitan and Provincial brethren.

Spiers and Pond (Limited) have asked the Chancery Division of the High Court of Justice for an injunction against Messrs. Chubb and Sons, lock and safe manufacturers, to restrain them from advertising copies of a letter from the Freemasons' Tavern, signed "Spiers and Pond and Co., per E. Dawkins, Manager," attributing the fact that the Freemasons' Tavern had not been burned down to the valuable services of some iron doors between the two buildings, which were supplied by Messrs. Chubb. Having got a letter from Mr. Dawkins, the defendants had advertised it far and wide. The plaintiff company thought the defendant company had no right to publish the letter; and, being determined to try the question, asked for an interim injunction over next Monday. The matter came before the Division on Thursday. His lordship said his difficulty was in granting an injunction ex parte when there was no evidence of injury to the plaintiffs being done. Mr. Napier Higgins said the plaintiff company had a property in the letter, and Mr. Dawkins had no authority to write it. If his lordship did not see his way to granting an injunction ex parte, he asked for liberty to serve short notice of motion for the following day. His lordship gave leave, but said he would not undertake to hear it then.—City Press.

The lamentable destruction of our historic hall, following as it does in the train of an unparalleled sequence of similar disasters, should stir the public from their supine attitude as regards the risks of fire which they and their buildings daily run. Science has done its part. Effective preventives are to be had, and it remains for us—especially those of us who are responsible for the safety of important structures—to avail ourselves of them. One remarkable invention in particular—Asbestos Fireproof Paint—the efficacy of which in resisting fire has been repeatedly proved by the public experiments of the United Asbestos Company, of Queen Victoria Street, is well worth the notice of those interested in the construction and preservation of large buildings. Its efficacy has been placed beyond all doubt, and its general adoption cannot be too strongly urged in the interests of public safety. It would be well if the authorities were to inquire into the virtues of this remarkable substance. The buildings of the great International Fisheries Exhibition have just been made fireproof by its aid, and it might probably be adopted with considerable advantage in the reconstruction of Freemasons' Hall.

Brother James Stevens P.M. P.Z., will continue his lecture, Explanatory of the Rituals and Ceremonies of the First Degree, in the Loughborough Lodge of Instruction, at the Cambria Arms Tavern, Cambria Road, Loughborough Junction, S.E., on Monday next, the 21st instant, at 8 o'clock precisely.

Brother V. Benoist, of 67 Wigmore-street, W., announces that he has purchased the well known business of Mr. Dumas, French Confectioner and Caterer (Charcuterie Francaise), 19 Wardour-street (late Princes-street). Brother Benoist has gained a large experience, both in London and in the principal Paris houses, and brethren arranging masonic, picnic, boating, racing, shooting, and cricket parties, might consult him with advantage.

PRACTICAL MASONRY.

FROM THE FREEMASONS' REPOSITORY

IT is often said that Masonry is not sufficently practical. We hear a criticism frequently made to this effect; that the Masonic Institution, with all its prestige of age and rank, its large and varied resources, fails to be an effective working power in the world, and to accomplish the actual good that might be expected of such an organization. Not from outsiders alone does the charge come that Masonry is lacking in practical ministries, but many earnest Brethren give emphasis to such a complaint, while they urge greater zeal and activity on the part of the Craft in discharging the duties of a generous philanthropy.

This age is intensely practical. The world of to-day gives but little attention to matters that are merely speculative and fanciful. Something tangible is demanded to signify the worth of ideas and systems. Character rather than profession, works instead of mere words, the actual rendering of some service in the way of helping men to better conditions—these are the special requirements of our advanced civilization and moral state. In this practical age Masonry must show its practical side. It must keep pace with human progress and needs. It must adapt itself to existing conditions—must express its genius and power in the rendering of a positive service of helpfulness to those whom it is able to reach and bless.

There can be no question that a practical Masonry is called for in this matter of fact and progressive age. While in one sense no change is possible, our Institution being established on certain abiding principles, it is nevertheless eminently proper that the Craft should be attentive to the signs of the times—that they should give heed to those moral demands now generally recognized, and seek to make their organization preeminently useful in obedience to such requirements. Failing to perform this benign ministry, Masonry cannot justify its continued existence. It can only prove its right to live and flourish by responding to the large demands of human need, and doing a work of actual good according to what are its means and its opportunities.

There is danger, however, of limiting unduly the definition of practical Masonry. This word practical is sometimes strangely narrowed in its rendering. It is made to signify a single line of endeavour or accomplishment, rather than a broad sweep of effort in the way of desired good. Thus reference is made to practical business, when only some exceedingly limited methods or plans are held in view, and that which is set aside in the material undertaking is of vastly more importance. Some people talk about practical education, having in mind merely a limited and imperfect training for one kind of business or occupation. All other instruction seems to them unpractical and without value. How different the broad definition of education given by John Milton! "I hold a complete and generous education to be that which fits a man to perform justly, skilfully and magnanimously all the offices, both private and public, of peace and war." And this large definition of education is altogether of practical import, for it points to a training calculated to give an adequate preparation for the performance of all required duties, while it includes the discipline and use of all the varied faculties of man.

Practical Masonry does not begin and end with almsgiving, or with benevolent effort of whatever sort it may be. The ministry of usefulness which our Institution has to perform is not limited to a single department of effort, nor does such a ministry depend upon the constraining of its influence within two narrow bounds. Masonry, like religion, meets life at all points. It recognizes the many-sidedness of human nature. It has precepts and offerings appropriate to the heart, the mind, and the soul of man. It seeks to provide a ministry for the social as well as the ethical nature—to nourish the affections as well as to supply the intellect—and to develop symmetrical characters on which true manliness shall be stamped. It points its disciples to the fulfilment of various obligations, and binds them closely to the practice of many social and moral virtues. In its organic life it takes hold of the work which a true regard for the benefit of others prompts, and makes expression of itself by blessed services of love and benevolence. It does something to lessen human suffering, ignorance and vice, and it contributes some help to the moral stock of the world.

All this is practical Masonry, according to what is its broad and expansive genius of good. We are not to pick out certain lines of its teaching and work, calling these practical, and regarding all else as unworthy of attention. We shall make a grievous mistake if we conclude that there is no practical element in Masonry except that which is witnessed in its charities. If it addresses men on the intellectual sides of their natures, and incites them to earnest thinking, or if it brings to them the suggestions of profitable instruction, it is unquestionably practical in such communications. If it ministers to the social side of human nature, making its power felt in bringing men out of selfish isolation into true fellowship, and by providing means and occasions to augment the zest of life, it may well count its offices in this direction to be of a practical character. Masonry is practical in all the influence it exerts, all the work it does, to develop individual character and give instruction in the way of upright personal living. It fulfils no small part of its most serviceable mission as it disposes men to make the most and the best of life, to recognise their relations to each other and to God, and to be faithful, generous and true, wherever they may be placed, and whatever may be the special call to usefulness.

THE REBUILDING OF THE TEMPLE.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—The destruction of Grand Lodge Temple recorded in your last issue is no doubt a great loss to the Craft from many points of view, but I cannot help feeling that it may ultimately prove beneficial to the general body of English Freemasons. There is little doubt but that arrangements will speedily be made for the rebuilding; but before that is commenced, I hope the Committee to whom will be entrusted the making of arrangements will do what they can to provide a building more suited to the requirements of the Craft of the present day than the old one was. A hall capable of holding twice, or even three times, the number of brethren would not be too large. However, my real object in writing to you is to make a suggestion.

I think it would be generally appreciated by Master Masons if some accommodation could be provided for them, something to correspond with the Strangers' Gallery of the House of Commons, where a few at least of the brethren ineligible for attendance at Grand Lodge might watch and hear the proceedings of the Quarterly Communications. If a gallery were erected no difficulty would arise as to voting or discussion on any topic, as it would be known that those upstairs were merely spectators. If such accommodation were decided upon before the plans for the new building are prepared, there need be no trouble in providing all that would be needed, and as I have already said, I think that Master Masons generally would appreciate the concession.

Yours fraternally,

J. W.

FREEMASONS' HALL.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—The subject matter of Sir John Bennett's communication in your issue of Saturday last is not a novelty to Masons, but has been well considered by brethren of high position in London and the Provinces. On Saturday last it was already discussed in City Masonic circles that a meeting should be convened with a view of waiting upon His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales to allow the Craft to raise a sum of money for the purpose of purchasing land on the Thames Embankment, and erecting a hall, with Lodge rooms and club attached, such as would be worthy of the great and important body of Freemasons. A subscription of £1 each would in a short time realise the sum required—it would be wise to limit it to £1. Though I do not propose to take up the space of your columns with the details of the scheme, yet I have no doubt that the suggestion would meet with a hearty response from Masons throughout the country. I shall be glad to receive the names of Masons who are willing to subscribe, that a petition might be presented to His Royal Highness in reference thereto.

I am, &c.

JAMES GODWIN,
P.M. 1343, Z. 749, P.P.G.A.D.C. Essex.

16 and 17 Grand-avenue, Leadenhall.

THE GRAND LODGE SOLICITOR.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—May I ask whether it be a fact that a member of the Board of General Purposes acts as Solicitor to Grand Lodge and Grand Chapter, and receives the fees? And, if so, is it not very unusual, it being a generally understood custom that members of committees are prohibited from receiving payment for services rendered to that body?

Now that it seems probable that not only the Grand Treasurership, but other offices, are likely to be subject to annual election, might it not be wise to get rid of this irregularity by the election of some gentleman not on the Board to fill the office?

There must be many capable solicitors not on the Board of General Purposes, and not connected, as the present holder is, with the worthy President, who no doubt feels the anomaly of his position.

I am, Dear Sir and Brother,

Yours fraternally,

"ON THE SQUARE."

The next Quarterly Communication of United Grand Lodge, on the 6th of June, will be held in the large hall of Freemasons' Tavern, and on that occasion the brethren will have laid before them proposals for erecting a new Temple in place of the old Temple, which was destroyed by fire on the 3rd instant. It is not at all likely that the scheme proposed by Sir John Bennett or any other brethren who are anxious to have a hall on the Thames Embankment will be among the proposals, as Grand Lodge has land and to spare in Great Queen Street for the erection of a building fully commensurate with the wants of the Craft. The whole block of buildings, comprising Freemasons' Hall, Freemasons' Tavern, and Bacon's Hotel, belong to Grand Lodge, besides some houses and a yard to the West of the Hall. The wants of the Craft are now well known, and if the architect selected is a Freemason, which was not the case when the late Mr. F. P. Cockerell planned the buildings, of which the first stone was laid in 1764, the best use will be made of the space at command. The cost of obtaining land on the Embankment would be extravagant; and, moreover, it would hardly be advisable to remove the very centre of all English Freemasonry from a spot which may be said to be almost hallowed by old associations and history. Furthermore, there is a certain amount of privacy in the present antiquated neighbourhood, which would not be obtained on the Embankment; and if Grand Lodge buildings were sold they would not fetch a large sum, as they could not be utilised for any business, and land in Great Queen-street is not at a premium. The brethren will be prepared to hear any number of suggestions, but their accustomed good sense may be relied upon to come to a correct decision.—Evening News.

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

CONSECRATION OF THE PRIORY LODGE OF ACTON.

THE Priory Lodge of Acton, No. 1996, was consecrated on Thursday, the 3rd inst., at the Royal Oak Assembly Rooms, High-street, Acton. The Consecrating Officer was Bro. Col. Shadwell H. Clerke Grand Secretary, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Cox, D.D., P.G.C., Dr. Piggott, D.C.L., P.G.A.D.C., J. M. Case P.G.D., Frank Richardson P.G.D., and Raynham H. Stuart, P.G.D. The Grand Secretary having opened the Lodge in due form, addressed the brethren. He urged them to be satisfied as to the character of any one introduced into their Lodge. The ceremony of consecration was then proceeded with, the Rev. Bro. Dr. Cox delivering an oration. The musical portion of the service was conducted by Bro. E. H. Sugg P.P.G.O. Surrey, who presided at the organ, and was assisted by a choir consisting of Bros. Walter Goss P.M., C. E. Botley, J. J. Gunner, F. Botley, E. Monson jun, and J. A. Cammell. Two new and original anthems, composed expressly by Bro. Sugg, namely, "The Lord is in His Holy Temple," &c.; and "Glory be to God on High," &c., being most effectively rendered; the solo in the first being sung by Bro. C. E. Botley. The consecration being ended, the installation ceremony was proceeded with, the Officers named in the Warrant being duly placed as follows:—Bros. Roebuck P.M. 29 463 P.G.S. P.P.G.S.W. Middlesex, P.P.G.S.B. Surrey, as first W.M., C. E Botley S.W., and George Wright J.W. The W.M. then invested his other Officers, as follow: Bros. E. F. Earl Treasurer, E. H. Sugg P.M. Secretary, F. Botley S.D., E. Monson jun. J.D., J. A. Cammell I.G., Arthur Turner M.C., and Harrison Tyler. The installation ceremony was ably carried out by Bro. Col. Shadwell H. Clerke, and hearty good wishes and congratulations having been offered by the visiting brethren, the Lodge was closed in due form, and adjourned. The Lodge-room is most suitable for the purpose, and that and the staircase and entrance hall were decorated with some beautiful plants and flowers, kindly lent by Bros. W. Roebuck, G. Wright, and Cammell.

THE JOHN CARPENTER LODGE.

AN important civic Masonic Lodge was consecrated on Friday evening, the Right Hon. H. E. Knight, Lord Mayor, being the first Worshipful Master. The place of meeting of the Lodge is the Albion, Aldersgate-street. The Grand Secretary of England, Col. S. H. Clerke the consecrating officer appointed by the Grand Master the Prince of Wales, performed the ceremony, assisted by Brothers Sir J. B. Monckton, Town Clerk, President of the Board of General Purposes, as Senior Warden, Captain N. G. Philips P.G.D. as Junior Warden, the Rev. C. J. Martyn P.G.C. as Chaplain, and F. Richardson P.G.D. as Director of Ceremonies. From its name it will be perceived that there is a connection between this Lodge and the John Carpenter Club, and primarily with the City of London School, of which John Carpenter, Town Clerk to the Corporation, was the founder, early in the fifteenth century. In the course of his address, Colonel Clerke remarked upon the appropriateness of the circumstance that Sir J. B. Monckton, the present Town Clerk, was assisting him in constituting the John Carpenter Lodge. Among the founders of the Lodge are Brothers Alderman and Sheriff De Keyser, Sheriff Savory, and Ex-Sheriff Hutton. There was a large number of distinguished Masons present, including General Laurie, Grand Master of Nova Scotia.—City Press.

GREY FRIARS LODGE, No. 1101.

A REGULAR meeting was held at the Masonic Hall, Reading, on Wednesday, 9th inst. Present—Bros. E. J. Blackwell I.P.M. acting W.M., W. Ridley S.W., J. H. Hawkes J.W., J. T. Stransom Treasurer, W. P. Ivey P.M. Secretary, Prickett S.D., Creed acting J.D., Cordery D.C., Vowles acting I.G.; also Bros. James, Greenaway, Bennett, Knight, Hemmings Tyler. After preliminaries, the ballot was taken for Mr. Oliver Egginton, who had been proposed at the last regular Lodge, and who was now unanimously approved. Towards the close of the ceremonies the acting W.M. addressed the Lodge. The brethren, he urged, ought not to separate without giving some expression to the deep feelings of regret which he was sure they shared, in common with all the Masons of Reading, on the recent decease of Brother Past Master Bulley. Brother Bulley's connection with the Craft had extended over such a long period of time that few now living could call to mind his first entrance into Masonry, at a time perhaps when it was at a comparatively low ebb; he felt sure he was not wrong in stating that in his younger days there were few of the brethren who were more regular in their attendance at Lodge, more attentive to their duties in office, or more ready to lend a helping hand in any case of Charity or Benevolence than Bro. Bulley; he had lived to see the Craft progress and prosper and extend its branches in an ever widening circle, and perhaps a noteworthy instance of Bro. Bulley's interest in Masonry having been sustained to the last, was the fact of his having revisited his old Lodge on the occasion of the celebration of the Centenary of Masonry in Reading, only a very few days before his death. We of the Grey Friars Lodge should also have a lasting memorial of Bro. Bulley, in the kind present which he made to the Lodge, a few years since, and which we see before us occupying a prominent position in the Lodge-room. It is only due, therefore, to one who was held in such esteem and regard by the Masons of Reading that a record of the deep regret felt at his loss should be placed upon the minutes of the Lodge. The S.W. moved, that a letter of condolence, embodying the sentiments of the I.P.M., and which he felt sure would be heartily endorsed by the Lodge, should be sent to the widow of Bro. Bulley. This was seconded by the J.W., and carried unanimously. The report of the Permanent Committee was received; they recommended that the sum of ten guineas from the funds of the Lodge be applied to the assistance of the widow and family of a deceased Brother who were in destitute circumstances; this was proposed by the acting W.M. and seconded by the S.W. The Treasurer, in the absence of P.M. Ferguson, proposed a candidate for initiation, the S.W. seconded the proposal. After the customary ceremonies, Lodge was closed according to ancient form, and adjourned.

Percy Lodge of Instruction, No. 198.—Held at the Jolly Farmers, Southgate-road, N., Saturday, 12th instant. Bros. Lorkin W.M., Wolf S.W., Weeden J.W., Ferrar S.D., Marks J.D., Fenner Acting Preceptor, and Galer Secretary; also Bros. Cohen, Brock, Houghton, Snook, Bleakley, Jones, Manger, and Lone. Lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed. Bro. Brock was examined and entrusted; Lodge was opened in the second degree, and the ceremony of passing rehearsed, the W.M. explaining the working tools at length, and giving the lecture on the second tracing board. Bro. Manger answered the questions leading to the third degree and was entrusted. Lodge was closed in the second degree, and Bro. Wolf was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing week. Nothing further having offered for the good of Freemasonry, Lodge was closed in due form.

Royal Alfred Lodge of Instruction, No. 780.—On Friday, 11th instant, at the Star and Garter Hotel, Kew Bridge, Bros. F. Botley W.M., E. Monson jun. S.W., Gunner J.W., Tucker Treasurer, C. E. Botley S.D., J. A. Cammell J.D., A. Turner I.G., Andrews Preceptor. After preliminaries, the ceremony of passing was rehearsed, Bro. Turner candidate. Lodge was called off, and then resumed to first degree, when the fifth section of the lecture was worked. Bro. Monson was elected W.M. for 1st June. Lodge closed and adjourned until 18th May, which will be Officers' night.

LODGE OF SINCERITY, No. 174.

A MEETING of this Lodge was held at the Guildhall Hotel, Gresham-street, City, on Wednesday last. Lodge was opened punctually at six o'clock by the W.M. Brother James Fraser, who was supported by Past Masters Bros. Charles Lacey (Treasurer), John Newton (Secretary), G. Jones, G. T. H. Seddon, C. H. Webb, F. Brown, E. J. Moore, W. Barlow; A. H. Brown S.W., Thomas F. Harvey J.W., W. Fraser S.D., F. J. Dellow J.D., H. J. Cant I.G., Charles Blain M.C., and J. Very Tyler. Visitors—Bros. Hugh M. Hobbs 1790, J. Knight S.W. 1185, G. F. Dix P.M. 1421, Robert Gifford J.D. 780, H. Horner 554, Thomas Moody 1507, John M. Knight 95, R. S. Cushing 1607, W. W. Morgan S.W. 211, A. Prevost 1421, H. Cushen 933, E. Prosser 860, &c. The agenda paper did not contain any reference to ceremonial work, consequently those brethren present who were not aware that anything special was to take place, expressed surprise at there being so large an attendance. After the minutes of last meeting had been read and confirmed, an announcement was made that Bro. Past Master Webb had undertaken the duties of Steward at the approaching Festival of the Boys' School, and £10 10s was voted from Lodge Funds to head his list. An application was received from the daughter of a late member of the Lodge, who required some assistance, for a special purpose. Some discussion arose as to the merits of the case, and some sensible remarks were elicited as to the false impression many folks entertained that Freemasons were ever ready to assist those who were associated, in however remote a degree, with the Order. In the end it was agreed that the application should not be entertained. Reference was made to the recent decease of Bro. J. Greenway, an esteemed member of the Lodge; and it was resolved that a letter of condolence be sent to the members of his family, and that the same be recorded on the minutes. Shortly afterwards, Lodge was closed. A capital banquet was served under the superintendence of Bro. Mills. On the removal of the cloth the Worshipful Master in brief terms proposed the Loyal and Masonic toasts. The health of the W.M. was proposed by Bro. F. Brown, who referred to the amiability of heart he displayed. Brother Fraser was proud of the position he held amongst the brethren, and he (Brother Brown) knew the members were proud of their Worshipful Master. In reply the W.M. thanked Brother Brown for the way in which he had introduced the toast. He regretted his limited acquaintanceship with rhetoric precluded his expressing himself as effectively as he could desire; but he realised the responsibility of his position, and would earnestly strive to fulfil the duties which devolved upon him. For the toast of the Visitors, Bros. J. M. Knight, G. F. Dix, Cushen, and Morgan replied. The Worshipful Master, on again rising, remarked that a very pleasant duty now devolved upon him. In all well regulated Lodges it was a custom to select a discreet and courteous brother to fulfil the duties of Wine Steward. The Lodge of Sincerity had been singularly fortunate in having appointed to this office a brother who possessed tact and discretion in a prominent degree. Moreover, in the case of their Wine Steward, Brother John Miller, who had carried out the duties for the last eleven years, it might be said, that he and the Treasurer were in perfect accord. The brethren were so satisfied with Bro. Miller's exertions to minister to their comforts that they had deputed him (the W.M.) to present an illuminated testimonial and a loving cup, which in their behalf he had now the pleasure of doing formally. The following is a copy:—

This Testimonial, together with a Silver Cup, was presented by the Brethren of the

to
BROTHER JOHN MILLER,
As a token of their esteem, and in appreciation of his cheerfully rendered services, as Steward during the past eleven years.

Signed on behalf of the members,

The Loving Cup, which is of massive silver, and of elegant design, was inscribed as under:—

Presented by the members of the LODGE OF SINCERITY, No. 174,
to
BROTHER JOHN MILLER,
As a token of their high esteem, and in appreciation of cheerfully rendered services, as Wine Steward for the past Eleven years.
16th May 1883.

Bro. John Miller, who on rising, seemed to have lost his customary volubility, said he almost feared he should break down in the few remarks he would desire to offer to the brethren. He found the present undertaking he was engaged in, that of a speechmaker, much more arduous than were the duties of Wine Steward. However, the knowledge that he possessed the esteem and good wishes of the brethren were more to him than the intrinsic value of their gift. He felt sure that in his last hour the knowledge that he had gained their goodwill would soothe and cheer him. He should prize the handsome and liberal mark of their good opinion, and hoped it would be handed down from generation to generation. He was not a young man now, but he hoped yet to be with them for several years. It was an ardent wish of his that his son might be made a Mason in the Sincerity Lodge; at the same time he did not deem it advisable that young men should join our ranks at too early a stage of their career. Bro. Miller then gave some excellent advice on this feature, and concluded by saying that he trusted the happy event of the introduction of his son to Freemasonry would be within the compass of his lifetime. Several other toasts followed in rapid succession, and able replies were elicited. Bro. Webb fully recounted what was being done by, and for, our Charitable Institutions.

JOPPA LODGE, No. 188.

A REGULAR meeting of this Lodge was held on the 7th instant, at the Freemasons' Tavern, Great Queen-street. Bros. Benjamin W.M., Martin S.W., Bean J.W., Albert P.G.P. Sec., Lyon Treas., Botibol S.D., Wall J.D., Dawsnap I.G., Dodson P.M. M.C., Wyman Steward, Van Noorden Organist. Past Masters Myers, Hickman, Lazarus, H. M. Levy, L. Alexander, H. Hymans, O. Roberts. Visitors—Bros. Lambert P.G.S B., Foord 593, Vallentine 1017, Phillips 205, Kemp 1776, Levy 1017, Chambers J.W. 749, Anidjah 185, Graham P.P.G.O. Middlesex. Lodge was opened, and the minutes confirmed. A ballot was taken for the admission of Mr. Hartog Van Stavern, who was duly initiated into the Order. Bros. Davis and Jackson answered the necessary questions satisfactorily, and were passed to the second degree, the ceremonies being perfectly and impressively rendered. A distressed brother was relieved from the funds of the Lodge. It was agreed that in future an audit meeting take place twice a year. Lodge was then closed, and the brethren sat down to a very sumptuous and récherché banquet and dessert, provided by Messrs. Spiers and Pond, and superintended by M. Silver. The W.M. very ably presided, and the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were given. The W.M. in proposing the toast of the Pro Grand Master, the Deputy Grand Master, and the rest of the Grand Officers, said these brethren were all known for their capabilities; he was pleased to see a distinguished member of Grand Lodge present; one to whom the Craft was indebted. Brother G. Lambert P.G.S B. in responding, said it was a great pleasure to respond to the toast. This was the first time he had visited it, but the Lodge was well known and recognised for its hospitality. Brother L. Alexander Past President of the Benevolent Institution gave an account of the Fund, which at one time had reached £1,509. However, they had given sums of £100 to distressed brethren. The Fund had now nearly £900 in hand. The newly initiated brother—Van Stavern—had given 21s, and his brother 10s 6d. The W.M. then proposed the toast of the Initiate, Bro. Hartog Van Stavern, whose brother is a very old and valued member of this Lodge; he was sure he would be a credit to it. The initiate having briefly responded, Brother L. M. Myers proposed the health of the W M., whose working in the Lodge had been most satisfactory. The W.M. in reply thanked Brother Myers for the manner he had spoken of him. The work to him was one of love; the Joppa is held in the highest estimation by Lodges wherever he had visited, and it is an honour for any man to have to preside over such a Lodge. With the toast of the Visitors was coupled the name of Bro. H. Phillipps P.M. 205, who in reply acknowledged how ably the W.M. had conducted the duties of the chair. Bro. H. M. Levy responded to the toast of the Past Masters. The Officers of the Lodge came in for their share of praise, and in due course the Tyler gave the parting toast. The W.M. deserves great credit for the musical entertainment he had provided, under the superintendence of Bro. P. E. Van Noorden Organist. Madame Frances Brooke, Miss Clara Wollaston, and Bros. Arthur Thomas, Henry Prenton, and G. S. Graham P.P.G.O. Middlesex entertained the brethren.

YORK LODGE, No. 236.

AN emergency meeting of this Lodge was held at the Masonic Hall Duncombe-place, on Monday, the 7th inst. Bro. George Kirby W.M. presided, and there were present Bros. Garbutt S.W., Dr. Draper J.W., J Sykes Rymer (Sheriff of York) I.P.M., P.M.'s Mark Rooke, A. Buckle, M.A., Joseph Todd Treasurer, W. Smith Secretary, Alderman Terry, and numerous other brethren. The first business was the initiation of Mr. J. Holiday Smith, the ceremony being performed by the W.M. The tools were given by the Secretary, Bro. W. Smith, and the charge was delivered by Brother M. Rooke P M. M.C. Then followed the passing of Brother T. W. Denison, Brother Rooke performing this ceremony. Subsequently the Worshipful Master called attention to two melancholy events which had happened since the last meeting of the Lodge, one more immediately concerning the York Lodge, and the other a matter of sorrow for Free and Accepted Masons throughout the world. The former was the death of Bro. John Young, who had been connected with this Lodge for a number of years, and to whose highmindedness, geniality, and ability, not only Masonically, but commercially and socially, the W.M. testified, from over twenty years' experience of their lamented brother. The W.M. proposed, and Bro. Buckle, B.A., P.M. seconded, a resolution of condolence with the widow and family of the deceased in their bereavement, and this was unanimously adopted. The second matter of remark was the disastrous fire at the "Temple" in London, and profound regret was expressed at this calamity, which had deprived Masonry of some of its most valuable commemorators of past glories of the Craft. Much pleasure was expressed at the following announcement which appeared in the York Daily Herald:—"The Earl of Zetland, Provincial Grand Master of Freemasons of North and East Yorkshire, has received a communication from Colonel Knollys, stating that the Prince of Wales, Grand Master of English Freemasons, will be pleased to lay the foundation stone of the new Institute to be erected in York with Masonic honours. The invitation to His Royal Highness to act in his Masonic capacity has been sent by the Prov. Grand Lodge of North and East Yorkshire. The ceremony will take place during the Royal Show week."

LILY LODGE OF RICHMOND, No. 820.

THE brethren assembled on Wednesday, the 9th inst., under the presidency of the W.M. Brother William Forster Reynolds, in the Masonic Hall at the Greyhound Hotel. Amongst those present were Bros. Charles Hubbard P.M. and W.M. elect, Past Masters F. W. Koch, G. W. Young, C. Phillips, Weaver, and E. Townsend. Visitors—Bros. E. D. Hatch P.M. 357, N. L. Western J.W. 1693, Thomas J. Cusworth P.M. 813, George R. Soper P.M. 1385, G. T. Salmon Senior Warden 1260, W. W. Morgan Senior Warden 211. After the minutes of last regular Lodge meeting had been read and confirmed, the ballot was taken for Mr. Henry Alfred Ward, who was proposed by Bro. Myers P.M., and seconded by Bro. Hubbard P.M. The result was in favour of the candidate, who was initiated into the mysteries and privileges of Freemasonry. The event of the day was now brought forward, the reinstallation of Brother Charles Hubbard, who a few years back for two years in succession filled the chair of this Lodge. Brother Past Master Myers took the chair, and in his customary perfect manner conducted the ceremony throughout. On the readmission of those below the degree of Installed Master, the Officers were appointed, as follows:—Young P.M. S.W., C. Phillips P.M. J.W., Giles P.M. Treasurer, W. H. Myers P.M. Sec., Fenwick S.D., Wrighton (named as) J.D., Slaymaker M.C., Ward I.G., Gilbert Tyler. Brother Hubbard was very happy in the few remarks he addressed to each of the brethren whom he invested, and fully explained what each was expected to carry out. The addresses were eloquently delivered by Brother Myers, who was congratulated by all present for the way he had performed the ceremony. The retiring Master was next presented with the jewel of the Lodge, in appreciation of the services he had rendered. This compliment having been acknowledged, Bros. Johns, Pye, Hammond, Biggar, and Slaymaker were appointed on the Committee for the management of the Benevolent Fund. In regard to this Fund, we may state here that the members have a sum of £100 invested, but it is desirable that a change should be made in the trustees in whose names the investment now stands. Some considerable discussion arose as to the simplest manner in which this could be brought about, and we doubt not but that this will be amicably arranged at an early date. Routine work followed, several letters were read, and after hearty good wishes had been tendered, Lodge was closed. A capital banquet was then served by Brother Moufiet, mine host of the Greyhound, and after the cloth was cleared the customary toasts were briefly introduced by Brother Hubbard. The duty of proposing the health of the Worshipful Master fell to the lot of Bro. Reynolds, who expressed his regret that an abler speaker had not been allotted the task. Their Worshipful Master's qualities, however, were known to, and appreciated by, all the members, and all would exert themselves to make his year of office a most pleasant and agreeable one to the Lodge. Bro. Hubbard in reply said, he could but feel gratified on finding himself in his present capacity. He could assure the brethren who had elected him for the ensuing year that no exertion on his part should be wanting to make it prosperous. In selecting his Officers he placed every reliance on the brethren he asked to assist him. At present the Lodge was not numerically so strong as he could wish, but though much as he could desire an accession of members he did not think it advisable to encourage any aspirant unless they could be assured he was of good quality. Throughout the evening he had advocated short speeches, and would conclude by thanking all present for the reception they had given the toast. In proposing the health of the Visitors, Brother Hubbard expressed the pleasure the members felt in having with them a distinguished brother from Nicaragua. They had likewise an excellent representative Mason in Brother T. J. Cusworth, who was a Past Master of the New Concord, No. 813, a Lodge which was celebrated as having some of the most competent workers in the Craft amongst its members. This toast having been acknowledged, the Past Masters, the Initiate, and the Officers of the Lodge were severally introduced, but with commendable brevity, as full advantage was taken of the musical talent that was developed by those present. The toast of the Charities, with which was incorporated the Press, was ably responded to by Brother Morgan, whose appeal for the Institutions resulted in the Worshipful Master tendering his services as a Steward for the Girls' School, while substantial additions were made to the speaker's own list for the Boys. Altogether this was one of the most agreeable and harmonious meetings we have taken part in. Some capital songs and musical selections enlivened the proceedings, and the ability displayed by Miss Thomas, A.R.A., in the latter regard, was much enjoyed and highly appreciated. We look forward with every satisfaction to the future of the Lodge under Bro. Hubbard's Mastership.

Panmure Lodge of Instruction, No. 720.—A meeting was held at the Balham Hotel, Balham, on Wednesday, the 9th inst. Present—Bros. Stafford W.M., Job S.W., Wood J.W., Culpin S.D., Elliott J.D., Arnold I.G., P.M. Poore Preceptor, Graham P.G.O. Organist, Dunkley Secretary; also Bros. Lambert, Allen, Dawson, Matthew, Warren, Malins, Garrow, and Jones. Lodge was opened in the first degree, and the minutes read and confirmed. Brother Mallins offering as candidate, the ceremony of initiation was rehearsed; likewise that of passing—Brother Lambert candidate. The eighth and ninth sections were then worked. Lodge was closed in the second degree. It was proposed and seconded that Brother Lambert be W.M. for the ensuing week, and that on the following Wednesday Brother Everest should be duly installed. The Lodge was then closed and adjourned.

The Lord Mayor of York will be initiated at an emergency meeting of the Eboracum Lodge, No. 1611, on Monday evening next.

At a banquet which followed the meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Somerset, held on Thursday, the 17th instant, at Glastonbury, the Earl of Carnarvon Pro Grand Master, in proposing the health of the Prince of Wales, said it had been his lot to have intimately known three Grand Masters—Lord Zetland, Lord Ripon, and the Prince of Wales—and without exaggeration he might say that His Royal Highness was the best Grand Master the Order of Masons ever had. His opinion was that they owed a great deal to His Royal Highness, who had given greater depth and breath to the foundations of English Freemasonry, and had introduced into it many suitable elements, which he could not say it wanted, but which had contributed very greatly to its honour, spirit, and strength.

The annual ball of the Montefiore Cyclists Club was held on the 16th inst. at St. James's Hall. T. W. Richardson was the Vice-President, and an efficient body of Stewards did duty. Messrs. E. P. Vallentine, H. T. Marks and S. J. Weingott ably acted as M.C.'s. The feature of the evening was a new Valse, composed by Mr. H. T. Marks. A récherché supper was provided by Bros. H. and J. Roberts, and Mr. Herman's band played a most admirable selection of music. Dancing was kept up until the small hours were on the wane.

An immense bed of superior red marl, 64 yards deep, has been recently discovered at Ruabon, and, we believe, secured by the firm of Messrs. Monk and Newell, Liverpool, who commence the manufacture of terra cotta, &c., upon a large scale forthwith. We also learn this firm has taken into partnership the well-known manager of the Penybout Works, "the originator of Ruabon (deep red) terra cotta," who undertakes the practical management of the business. We are assured the works will prove a great boon to the country generally.

FREEMAN'S CHLORODYNE.

The Original and only true.

HUNDREDS of Medical Practitioners testify to its marvellous efficacy in immediately relieving and rapidly curing Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Neuralgia, Spasms, Colic, Whooping Cough, and all Nerve Pains. It acts like a charm in Diarrhœa, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery. It rapidly relieves pain, from whatever cause, soothes and strengthens the system under exhausting diseases, and gives quiet and refreshing sleep.

Lord Chancellor Selborne, Lord Justice James, Lord Justice Mellish decided in favour of FREEMAN'S ORIGINAL CHLORODYNE, and against Brown and Davenport, compelling them to pay all costs in the suits. See Times of July 24th, 1873. Bottles 1s 1½d, 2s 9d, 4s 6d, 11s, and 20s. Sold by all Chemists.

TESTIMONIALS.—Head Quarter Staff, Cabul, May 31st, 1880. Mr. R. Freeman, Dear Sir,—It is with much pleasure I am able to state that your Chlorodyne has been of special service to me in alleviating the wearisome spasms of Asthma, which is here existent in an aggravated form. Many of my patients now come and beg me to give them that medicine which always relieves them, and which I need hardly say is your Chlorodyne. Yours faithfully, CHARLES W. OWEN, L.R.C.P. Lon., M.R.C.S. Eng., the Divisional Head Quarter Staff and Civil Surgeon, Cabul.

The Times, August 13th, 1877. From our own Correspondent with the Russian Army. Okoum, July 25th, 1877. The want of sanitary arrangements in the Russian Camp was dreadful, and had we remained there a few weeks longer, dysentery and typhoid fever would have played more havoc in our ranks than the bombs of the Turks. I myself acquired an unenviable reputation as a doctor, owing to my being provided with a small bottle of CHLORODYNE, with which I effected miraculous cures.

MALTA.

TESTIMONIAL TO R.W. BRO. W. KINGSTON, DISTRICT GRAND MASTER OF MALTA.

AT a large and brilliant meeting of the District Grand Lodge of Malta, which was held on Saturday, 21st April, an extremely interesting and important ceremony was performed. This was the presentation of an address, and a testimonial to Bro. W. Kingston, District Grand Master of Malta.

The testimonial is a very handsome and valuable one, consisting of a variety of articles in silver, manufactured by Mappin Brothers. The several articles evince great artistic skill and excellence of workmanship, a skill and excellence which accord well with the Masonic skill and excellence of the distinguished recipient.

The Address was read and presented by the Dep. Dist. G. Master, assisted by the W.M.'s of the five Lodges, E.C., in Malta.

"To Right Worshipful Brother WILLIAM KINGSTON,
District Grand Master of Malta, &c. &c. &c.

"Right Worshipful Sir and Brother,—The various Masonic bodies working under your rule, as well as many individual members of the Masonic confraternity connected with Malta, are desirous of marking in some manner (however inadequate), the high sense they entertain of the invaluable assistance you have rendered to Freemasonry in this district, as well as to the Craft at large, during your term of office as District Grand Master.

It would be difficult to set out, or even to allude to, within the narrow limits of an Address, the various important Masonic events which will, in the future, render memorable your prolonged and successful administration. They cannot, however, refrain from placing on record the fact that the existence of a local Benevolent Fund is attributable entirely to your zeal and initiative; that it was under your sway the limits of the district were extended to the continent of North Africa; that the number of Lodges in the island itself was successfully increased, and that the Craft has attained a degree of strength, importance, and prosperity, wholly unprecedented in the history of Freemasonry in Malta.

With a view of commemorating these distinguished services, they venture to present you with this Address, together with a Salver and other articles of plate, which they hope will be a lasting memorial of the esteem and affection of your Masonic Brethren.

At the same time they trust that the G.A.O.T.U. will be pleased to long preserve you to rule over this district, with which the memory of your great Masonic work will be for ever associated.

This address, after being numerously signed, will be illuminated and framed. It was listened to with evident signs of approbation and followed by long and hearty applause. The R.W. District Grand Master responded in a speech replete with good counsel, kind feeling and pathos. He thanked the members of the District, most sincerely and gratefully, for the very complimentary sentiments and good wishes so eloquently expressed in the Address, and also for their very handsome and valuable present. He could assure them that, during his prolonged tenure of office, as D.G.M., it had always been his study and earnest wish to rule the district with impartiality, justice, and equity, and it had been his constant endeavour to advance, to the utmost of his power, the best interests of the Order, to carry out its important principles, and promote its benevolent purposes. In these efforts, it was highly gratifying to say he had succeeded in securing the goodwill, hearty co-operation and assistance of the members of his district. As a natural sequence, his rule, he ventured to say, had been a pleasant, harmonious, and successful one. In these respects he hoped the future would be equal to the past. He again thanked them with a sincere heart for their kindness, and he could assure them that he and his family would preserve and treasure up, most carefully, the beautiful, artistic and useful objects forming the presentation, and they would ever look on, and exhibit them with pleasure and pride. He would estimate and appreciate them, not merely according to their intrinsic value, but as the expression, or outcome, of the generous sentiments and approval of those over whom he had the pleasure, privilege, and honour to rule; and as cogent, tangible, and lasting mementoes of their kindness, affection, and esteem. A vote of thanks was then proposed, and passed unanimously to the D.D.G.M., Bro. W. Watson, for the manner in which he had made the presentation. District Grand Lodge was then closed in due form, and the brethren repaired to the refreshment hall, where a sumptuous banquet awaited them; some excellent speeches, songs, and recitations brought to a close a very pleasant and memorable evening.

THE EMPIRE LAMP.
(RIPPINGILLE'S PATENT.)
THE MOST BRILLIANT AND ECONOMICAL DOMESTIC LIGHT EXTANT.
It equals Gas for Simplicity, but surpasses it for Illuminating Power.
IT burns without a chimney, a pice-shaped globe only being required, which has never been known to break from the heat of the flame. It will give more light than any other lamp with a wick of equal size. The combustion is so perfect that it deodorises the oil, and burns absolutely without smell, giving an intense pure white and beautiful light. It is unrivalled for simplicity in lighting, cleaning, and trimming, and is, in fact, the perfection of artificial light. Suitable for Cottage or Mansion, Churches, Chapels, &c.

NINETY-FIFTH ANNIVERSARY FESTIVAL OF THE GIRLS' SCHOOL.

THE result of this year's Festival of the Girls' School, although the lowest of the last five years, must be considered as satisfactory. As we stated in our analysis of the subscriptions announced at the Benevolent Festival, in our issue of the 10th of March last, there are many causes at the present time which tend to keep down the totals of amounts subscribed to the Charitable Institutions. The country is, and has been for some time past, in a state of commercial depression, and bearing in mind that whatever is announced at one or other of our Charity Festivals represents the free offerings of the brethren, it naturally follows that the total very much depends on the prosperity or otherwise of the country generally, for it is impossible for either as many, or as large amounts, to be spared in bad times as in days of great activity. The result, however, of the present year's Festival—according to the figures supplied us from the Office of the Institution, and published in a recent issue—totals up to no less than £10,590 17s 3d, and is a sum of which we, as Freemasons, may justly be proud. As usual, this amount does not represent the full result of the Festival; it is made up without the returns of eight Stewards who had not reported the extent of their lists at the time the details were supplied, and further there will doubtless be a few additions made to the totals that have already been sent in, so that we may look for £10,750, or more, as the total of promised subscriptions to the Girls' School for the year 1883. This amount of £10,590 17s 3d is, as we have said, the lowest that has been announced at any of the last five Festivals, and is some £2,641 odd below that of last year, £854 below that of 1881, £2,917 below that of 1880, and £1,122 odd less than was announced at the Festival of 1879. Yet we are among those who are satisfied with the result; satisfied, from the fact that in many quarters it was considered doubtful whether this year's Festival would realise a total of five figures. Anything below £10,000 would, no doubt, be now looked upon as a poor result of one of the great Masonic Festivals, but there were many of the best friends of the Girls' School who thought it next to impossible that that sum could be reached this year. It has, however, been reached, and exceeded by a little short of £600; the Stewards, and all who have assisted in the result are, therefore, entitled to our warmest congratulations, and to the thanks of all interested in the welfare of our Charities.

The Chairman who presided at this year's Festival—Bro. the R.W. W. W. B. Beach, M.P., Provincial G. Master for Hampshire and the Isle of Wight—is, as we have previously observed, a man highly respected by his brother Masons; respected in the Province of which he is the ruler, respected in Grand Lodge, and respected throughout the country, wherever he is known. That the Girls' School benefited from the fact of his presidency we think undoubtedly a fact, the regret is that he should have acted as chairman at a time when the general state of the country all but prevented a total being reached above those which has gone before. The present is not his first experience as Chairman at our Masonic Festivals. In 1877 he presided at the annual gathering on behalf of the Boys' School, when a total of subscriptions was announced higher than anything then known; the actual result at the time of the Festival having been £13,160 15s, increased a few days afterwards to £13,312 2s. This year's total, on behalf of the Girls' School, represents the work of 250 Stewards, distributed as follows:—London (including eight members of the House Committee) 112, the Provinces (including the Chairman) 137, and Foreign 1, The 112 London Stewards collected among them nearly one-half of the total sum, namely, £5,222 5s 9d; while the 137 Provincials sent £5,358 1s 6d, and the Foreigner £10 10s; the average per Steward is about £46 12s 6½d in the case of the Londoners, £39 2s 2½d in that of the Provincials, and £42 7s 3d in that of the whole body; sums which will favourably compare with the averages of past Festivals.

London, represented by 112 Stewards, contributes £5,222 5s 9d. Of this sum £4,454 2s 9d comes from 91 Stewards acting on behalf of 91 of the Lodges, and one of the Chapters of the Metropolis; £394 17s represents the total collected by the eight members of the House Committee, while the balance, £373 6s, was collected by 13 "unattached" brethren. Bro. Lieut.-Col. James Peters heads the House Committee list, with one hundred guineas. Bro. Peter de Lande Long following with eighty, Bro. Joshua Nunn with £54 12s, and the others with sums ranging from £46 5s to £25. The place of honour among the "unattached" is occupied by Bro. Edgar Bowyer, whose list of £94 is one of which he may well feel proud; he is followed by Bro. T. W. C. Bush, with £68 5s, and then by Bro. W. H. Farnfield, who collected £57 15s. The other lists in this section range from £23 2s down to £10 10s. In the general body of London Stewards, Bro. Robert Grey comes first in point of amount collected, with a list totalling up to £199 10s; this, from a representative of the St. Andrew's Lodge, No. 222, a Lodge which appeared in last year's Girls' Festival list with a total of £65 2s, proves that the older Lodges—those which have been in existence longer even than either of the Masonic Charities—are to the fore in support of the Institutions, while the totals of some of the younger ones, which will be referred to hereafter show that they also are mindful of the wants of our less fortunate members. Lodge No. 1383, the Friends in Council, is ably represented on the present list, its Steward (Bro. M. P. F. Caulfield) having collected the next highest amount, £149 2s, while he, in turn, is followed by the representative of one of our youngest Lodges—the Montagu Guest, No. 1900, for which Bro. G. P. Festa once more takes the office of Steward. His efforts on this occasion have again proved his worth as a supporter of the Institutions, his list figuring up to no less a sum than £147. Bro. J. F. Porter, M.D., the Steward representing another young Lodge, the Evening Star, No. 1719—follows close on Bro. Festa, with £144 18s, while Bro. J. Neilson, of the Creaton Lodge, No. 1791, puts another "youngster" to the front with a list of £130. The Athenæum Lodge, No. 1491, comes next on the list, its representative, Bro. P. H. Waterlow, having secured £116 11s towards the general total. He, in turn, is close pressed by Bro. Walter Wood, of Confidence Lodge, No. 193, whose list of £115 10s is a creditable production for even so well supported a Lodge as the "Confidence." No. 834, Ranelagh, contributes £108 11s at the hands of Bro. A. C. Bean, while No. 1287, Great Northern, is well represented by a list of £106 1s, collected by its representative Steward, Bro. W. Cleghorn. Other Lodges sending up lists of, and exceeding £100, are Nos. 1657, Aldersgate, and No. 1949, Brixton, each of which figures for £105, taken up by Bros. S. Benton, M.D, and H. B. Marshall, C.C., respectively; No. 1056, Victoria, whose Steward, Bro. J. Boulton, collected £101 17s 6d, and No. 1963, Duke of Albany, which sent £100 by its representative, Bro. R. J. Vincent. The other London Stewards have each, we have no doubt, done their best, and there are doubtless many who deserve separate mention, but the space at our disposal does not admit of our specially referring to lists under £100, although the part they play in the general success of a Festival renders them of no small importance. We hope that the sparseness of the comments usually accorded to minor lists will not deter brethren who are unable to manage large ones from trying their hands, it is not possible for all to excel, and if a brother has done all that lay in his power, he has done as much, may be more, than he whose total heads the list.

Berks and Bucks is the first, in alphabetical order, of the Provinces which appear in this year's list. It is represented by six Stewards, who between them have brought up £183 11s; Bro. Richard Dowsett, of Grey Friars Lodge, No. 1101, collecting the largest amount (£60) from this district. The Province was represented at the Benevolent Festival of the current year by four Stewards, with a total of £109 12s 6d. It has not been absent from one of the Girls' School Festivals which have taken place since the starting of THE FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE (1875), the total contributed from its members to the nine Festivals we have recorded being £1,632 7s.

Cambridgeshire presents a glorious change at this Festival compared with its past record of services rendered to the Institutions; its total contributions to the Festivals held from February 1875 to February 1883—twenty-five in number—having been but £46, viz., £25 to the Benevolent in 1875, £5 5s to the Girls' in 1878, and £15 15s to the Boys' the same year. It now appears on the list of contributing Provinces with an amount of £128 2s collected by its Steward, Bro. N. J. York; and right glad are we to chronicle the fact. We trust the brethren of Cambridgeshire may find it within their power to continue the good work thus begun, and that having now won a high place in the list of contributing Provinces, it will act in such a manner as to maintain, if not improve, such position.

Cheshire, represented by three Stewards, sends £85 12s; this is its second donation to the London Charities this year, its total to the Benevolent in February being £37 16s. It is seldom absent from the three central Institution Festivals, and also finds funds to support a home Charity. Cheshire might be adopted as a pattern by many of the other Provinces.

Cornwall, which also put in an appearance at the February Festival of the current year, now contributes £73 10s, at the hands of two Stewards. It was represented at last year's Festival of this Institution, when £32 11s was sent up. Previous to that it had only contributed to one of the seven Girls' School Festivals which we have noticed, viz., that of 1879, when its contributions reached the sum of £378. We are glad to see it among the contributors two years running, and hope that the old system of long breaks will now be abolished.

Cumberland and Westmoreland opens the ball this year with a contribution of £26 5s to the Girls' Festival. Its last donation to this Institution was in 1880, when H.R.H. Prince Leopold undertook the office of Chairman, and then it figured for £375 7s. We notice that Bro. McKay, the Steward from this district, describes himself as "unattached," a distinction which, we trust, does not arise in consequence of any disinclination of the Lodges of the Province to be represented. We should have liked Bro. McKay to have been accredited to "the Province," in which case, perhaps, his list might have amounted to something more than is now the case.

Derbyshire, at the hands of Bro. John Stanley, of Lodge No. 1235, sends up £70 7s. This Province was represented at the first Festival of the current year, £50 being then contributed, and is to be found among those present at most of the gatherings of the last eight years.

Devonshire is now represented by four Stewards, three of whom contribute £203 3s, while the fourth is yet to declare the amount of his list. The Province sent up £74 11s to this year's Benevolent, and is, as we stated when reviewing the donations at that Festival, among the most consistent supporters of the central Charities. It has also a local fund, which calls for assistance at the hands of its members.

Dorsetshire is on the list of represented Provinces, but its Steward, Bro. R. N. Howard, of No. 1027, had not, at the time the list was supplied us, given in the amount he had secured for the Institution. At the Benevolent in February the same brother took up a list of £100, a total which we hope will be at least equalled for the Girls.

Durham supplements its donation of £63 11s to last February's Festival, by one of £86 2s 6d to the one now under notice, and thus keeps up the regularity of the "representations" it has now made at the three Festivals for some years past.

Essex is another regular attendant at the Festivals, and now comes forward with £97 2s towards the general total. This sum was collected by three brethren, representing respectively Nos. 276, 1000, and 1545. This district, as we said in our issue of 10th March last, has only missed being represented at three out of the last twenty-six Festivals.

Gloucestershire, a contributor of £213 3s in February last, and one of the strongest supporters of the three Institutions during the preceding eight years, now continues the good work, with a contribution of £36 15s from its two Stewards.

Hampshire and the Isle of Wight—the Province of which the Chairman is the head—supported its ruler by sending up eighteen Stewards, who between them collected £1,254 13s, which, with a donation of fifty guineas from the Chairman himself, gives £1,307 3s as the contribution of Hampshire to the Girls' Festival of 1883. It figured in February last for £149 16s, and, as was then stated, had contributed upwards of £4,596 during the previous eight years to the three Institutions, so that its total donations since 1875 now reach £6,053 4s 6d.

Hertfordshire continues on the good course which has marked this Province for many years past. It was represented by four Stewards on the occasion of this year's Girls' School Festival, and between these four brethren a total of £158 11s 6d has been raised, the representative of the King Harold Lodge, No. 1327, being accredited with £96 12s of the total. It was represented in February last, when £233 4s was collected for the Benevolent.

Kent now sends £238 8s as the result of five of its six Stewards' exertions. We must wait until the Boys' Festival is over, in June next, before we can say anything as to this year's contributions from this district, as the Provincial Grand Master—Viscount Holmesdale—will then preside, and will no doubt be well supported. Its lists in February last, or rather three out of four of them, totalled up to £148 5s.

Lancashire is represented by eight Stewards from the Eastern Division and ten from the Western, the amounts sent up being £89 5s in the case of the former, and £244 13s in that of the latter. Each was represented in February last, and each has played a conspicuous part in the maintenance of the three Institutions in the past. The day is not far distant when another "magnificent" total—such as was forthcoming from this county in 1876 and 1880—may be looked for. If either of its Provincial Grand Masters could be induced to take the chair, we feel sure the whole county would rally round.

Middlesex follows its donations of £356 8s 6d to the Benevolent in February last by a total of £117 13s to the Girls on the present occasion. It is represented by four Stewards, Rev. Dr. P. H. E. Brette, as representtaive of No. 1460, being accredited with £44 2s of the Provincial total.

Monmouthshire, absent from the Benevolent in February last, appears here with £236 5s, collected by one Steward. It has done well in the past, and may be considered as one of the regular supporters of the Charities.

North Wales and Salop has four representatives, and these have secured, between them, a total of £64 1s as a follower to the £52 6s for which the Province figured in February last. For some time past this district has done well, its donations to the Girls School last year (£352 10s) being specially noticeable.

Oxfordshire continues the regularity of its support to the Charities, which has marked the 8½ years we have been in existence. It has not missed one of the twenty-six Festivals we have recorded. It now contributes £85 12s 6d at the hands of four Stewards.

Somersetshire, with one Steward to represent it, sends up £44 2s for the second Festival of 1883. It contributed fifty guineas to the Benevolent in February, and so keeps up the continuity of its attendances.

South Wales (Eastern Division) shows a very good list from Bro. G. H. Noel, amounting to £217 7s. There is another Steward from this district to report himself, so that the total may be materially increased. The Province was not represented at the Benevolent Festival in February last, but has done fairly well for the Educational Institutions in the past.

Staffordshire, with four Stewards (one of whom is not yet accredited with any amount), has contributed £272 6s towards this year's Girls' Festival, which amount was preceded in February last by £57 15s contributed to the Benevolent, and by upwards of £3,700 subscribed during the eight years 1875-1882 to the three Institutions.

Suffolk continues to do well for our Charities. Up to February last, including donations of £166 2s 6d at the Festival held that month, the total subscribed by its members since 1875 was close on £2,480, now it increases that total by £136 10s brought up by Bro. N. Tracy, the Steward representing the Province.

Surrey, with five Stewards, adds to its past gifts by contributions of £109 10s on behalf of the Girls' Festival of 1883. It will be remembered, that the Benevolent Festival of the current year was presided over by the esteemed Grand Master of this Province, and that the subscriptions then amounted to £905 14s, so that this year promises well to sustain the reputation of Surrey.

Sussex again comes out well. It sent £210 to the Benevolent in February, and now furnishes four Stewards, with lists amounting in the aggregate to £363 6s. It has long taken an active interest in the Masonic Charities, and has been represented at nearly all of the Festivals which have been celebrated during the last nine years.

Warwickshire had five representatives on the Board of Stewards at this month's Festival, and between them they collected £59 17s. The Province was also represented in February last, when £57 15s was subscribed; she did exceedingly well last year, and has done so in the past generally.

Worcestershire sends up nine of the Provincial Stewards, who between them secured £217 7s for "Our Girls." The Province did equally well for the Benevolent in February, contributing £218 13s on that occasion. Having started so well, we can only hope the brethren of the district will finish up the year with a similar amount for the Boys' School.

Yorkshire (North and East) had one Steward, who brought up £15 15s, while the Western Division of the same county was represented by twenty brethren and a list of subscriptions amounting to £400. Each of these Divisions appeared in the last returns of the Benevolent Institution, the one for £29 13s, and the other for £450, and representatives of each have come to be recognised as constant attendants at the regularly recurring Festivals. We trust it may be many years before either are omitted from the lists.

Having now come to the end of the Provincial contributions, we have only to record the donation, by Bro. H. De Tatham, M.D., of £10 10s from abroad, and our task is at an end. In conclusion, we can but reassert the opinion we gave in the opening passages of our remarks;—the Girls' School Festival of 1883 has resulted most satisfactorily, and express a fervent hope that as years roll on each succeeding Festival may prove as good, if not better, than the one of which we have just analysed the subscriptions.

The monthly meeting of the Lodge of Benevolence was held on Wednesday evening at Freemasons' Hall. Bros. Joshua Nunn President, Brett and Atkins Vice Presidents, occupied their respective chairs. There was a very large attendance of brethren. The Board of Masters was first held, at which the agenda paper of the Quarterly Communication of 6th June was read. The scrutineers for the porch, and for the ballot for the Board of General Purposes and Colonial Board were appointed, and the Lodge of Benevolence was then opened. The brethren first confirmed the recommendations of grants to the amount of £350 made at last meeting, and then proceeded with the new list, which contained thirty-eight cases. Five of these were deferred. The remainder were relieved as follows:—One £150, one £100, two £50, three £40, four £30, one £25, five £20, four £15, nine £10, and three £5, or a total of £880.

THE LATE ELECTION.—R.M.B.I.

WE have little to add to the particulars we furnished last week in regard to the election which took place on Friday last. The death of one of the candidates —Francis Joseph Wirtzfeld—occurred about the time the Poll was declared. This applicant was returned as No. 15 on the List of Successful Candidates. This will at once create a vacancy for the brother who stands highest on the deferred list. We append the names of Unsuccessful Candidates, with particulars of the votes polled for each. These, of course, will be carried forward for next election.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—Bilious complaints and irregularities of the system, produced by redundancy of vitiated bile, can always be corrected by a few doses of these inestimable Pills, which are everywhere admired for their rare combination of mildness and power; for, though they conquer with ease and rapidity the most obstinate disease, they never weaken the stomach or necessitate any interruption of ordinary duties or amusements. On the contrary, they increase the appetite, strengthen the organs of digestion, give increased energy and life to all the animal functions, and fit both hand and brain for fresh exertions. The sick and enfeebled may, by a single trial, speedily discover what a happy revolution these Pills have the power to effect in the human system.

INITIATION OF A MAGI.

FROM THE FRENCH OF M. HENRI DELAAGE.

IN Egypt, for four thousand years, the Pyramids have revealed, by their form, to the generations which have passed away, the eternal, immutable doctrine of the Holy Trinity. Ancient temples of the initiation, they have been traversed by all the great geniuses of ancient times; they have given lawmakers and promoters of civilisation, as their traditions devoutly attest; they have seen, without trembling, the convulsions of empires; they have remained standing in the majestic attitude of eternal truth; also those consciences which suffered from the scepticism of the century would go back with happiness to the times of the earnest faith, when the founders of religion came to drink of the living waters of the eternal truth; for, following the remark of St. Augustine, "Moses was versed in all the sciences, and mysteries of the initiation of the Egyptians."

We will consider these mysteries from their truthful point of view, viz., "the regeneration of the mind;" also to learn in what manner the man was placed in a state to enter into immediate communication with his God.

When a man felt in his mind an ardent thirst for the truth, and in his heart the necessary courage to brave the terrible ordeals of the initiation, he climbed up to the seventh course of the Grand Pyramid, where he found a window cut in the granite, which remained open day and night. This opening, of about "three feet square," the only entrance to the temple of the initiation, was situated towards the north, that being the side from whence comes the cold, darkness, and ignorance. There the aspirant would find before him a corridor—cold, damp, low-pitched, and arched like a tomb. Here he would find a hand-lamp. So low was the roof, that he was compelled to commence his forward progress in a crawling position. This consisted of a circuitous road, at the end of which was a pit with a large mouth; its edges and sides covered with a dark asphalte, as smooth as ice. The mouth of this gulf emitted a thick black smoke, and seemed to be one of the vent-holes of the infernal regions. Often, in the presence of this unfathomable pit, the heart of the aspirant failed. Some would slip backwards on their belly from this new obstacle, retrace their steps, and renounce their perilous enterprise. On the contrary, the man who had the courage to persevere, saw the initiated who accompanied him place over his head the lamp, then disappear down the dark precipice by the aid of a ladder placed in the interior; the profound obscurity concealing the iron steps of which it was composed. The candidate would follow him in silence.

After having descended about sixty steps, he arrived at an opening cut in the rock, which served for the entrance to a road; he would enter this aperture, and continue his descent in a spiral direction for about fifty yards. At the end of this road was a double swinging door, made of brass, which opened by itself at his approach, without effort or noise, but when it closed after him, produced such a crash that the echoes, reverberating through the deep subterranean passages, warned the priests that a profane was coming to pledge himself in the gallery which led to the place of trial.

At this moment, the initiated, who had accompanied the aspirant, would tell him that he was not able to go with him any further, but before leaving him he made him write his "will;" and informed him that Death was probable in the perilous trials which he had undertaken; in fact, that it was necessary to have a bold heart to enable him to persevere in his perilous enterprise. The aspirant who desired to continue his route came next to the new gallery. Both sides of this gallery disclosed to him some deep recesses, or caves, in which were placed statues made of basalt. These fantastic images were disposed in such a manner that the vacillating light projected from the lamp of the aspirant, falling on them, made him believe that he was surrounded by the shades of the dead, gathered together to contemplate the strange sight of a mortal descending alive into the infernal regions.

At the end of this gallery was a door guarded by three men armed with swords, wearing helmets or head-dresses, made in the form of the head of the jackal. These guardians — called in mythology Cerberus — at his approach advanced quickly towards him, one of them grasping him by the throat, at the same time saying—"Pass if thou darest, but take care not to retreat, for we watch at this door day and night to oppose the retreat of those who have passed its threshold, and to keep them shut up for ever in these subterranean places." If these words did not shake the resolution of the aspirant, the guards stepped aside and allowed him to pass. He would scarcely have proceeded fifty yards when he would see before him a very vivid light, by the aid of which he was enabled to perceive that he was in a vaulted chamber, about one hundred yards square. On the right and the left were raised two funereal piles, formed of branches of the Arabian balsam tree, the Egyptian thorn, and the tamarind tree; three kind of wood, supple and sweet scented, but very inflammable. It was necessary that the aspirant should pass these two furnaces, and as he did so the flames united and formed a flaming bower over his head. Scarcely had he passed this scorching fiery furnace than he saw that he was in the presence of a torrent fed by the River Nile, which barred his further progress. The aspirant would strip himself naked, roll up his clothes into a bundle, attach them firmly to his head, taking care to fix above them his lamp, whose clear light pierced the blank darkness which enveloped him, and enabled him to guide his course to the opposite side of the river.

As soon as he gained the opposite side he saw before him an inclining arcade; which led to a landing stage six feet square, whose flooring concealed from his sight the mechanism on which it rested. Before him was a door, made of ivory, and garnished with two fillets of gold, which indicated that it opened from the interior. Vainly would the aspirant try to force this door and thus find a road; it resisted all his efforts. Suddenly, two rings, very highly polished, appeared before him, which he grasped with his hands; but hardly had he done so than the flooring on which he stood was gradually drawn away, leaving him suspended by the rings over an abyss, out of which rushed a blast of wind which extinguished his lamp. Deafened by the noise, frozen by the cold, tossed about by the wind, he remained in this cruel suspense about a minute. Little by little, however, the rings would descend, and the aspirant again felt the landing stage under his feet, the ivory door would open, and he would find himself in a Temple, brilliantly illuminated.

These trials were not only for the purpose of ascertaining the courage of the aspirant, but to show him, by a frightful symbolism, that the man of this life who aspired to possess the "eternal truth," ought to commence by becoming dead to this world, descending alive into the grave, sojourning long enough in the bowels of the earth to divest himself of his mortal body, and not to return until converted and regenerated, and born again unto a new life, after having triumphed over the "four elements of nature," of which, by original sin, he had become the slave. The ideas which the nations of antiquity formed of the initiation were so grand, that we see the Epic poets make their heroes descend into the infernal regions, those who had not previously taken their part in the initiation of the revelation of the mysteries of the Goddess "Isis." We have seen the aspirant victorious in his struggle with nature; we shall now see him fighting a desperate dual between his soul and his body; in order that the "child of darkness" may become a "child of light," or demigod. Those heroes of antiquity who were of the initiated were indicated by the word "Love." They would have the soul kindle, not with the limited love of a woman, but with the infinite love of the Divinity, and humanity, which creates on earth heroes and saints.

The door by which the aspirant entered into the sanctuary was situated in the pedestal of the triple statue of Iris, Osiris, and Orus, sacred trinity, image of the three manifestations of the "creative God of the universe." There the neophyte was received by the priests, ranged in two lines, like rich costly ornaments. Above them the aspirant discerned a triangle beaming with light; in the middle was a sparking diamond, in the form of an "eye," indicating that they were priests of Osiris, whose name signified the "Eye of God." At their head was the torch-bearer, holding in his hand a gold vase in the form of a boat, named "Baris," from which issued a brilliant light, symbol of the increated light. A second held the mystic "Fan;"* all carried in their hands some symbol, either of purification, power, or of virtue. The hierophant, after embracing him three times, made him fall on his knees before the triple statue, and invited him to unite with them in heart in the following prayer which he delivered in a loud voice:—

"O great goddess Isis, enlighten with thy knowledge this mortal, who has overcome many perils, and accomplished much work; make him again triumphant in the trials of the mind, so that he may be made worthy to be initiated into thy mysteries."

When all the priests had repeated this prayer, they struck their breasts, in token of fidelity. The chief priest then took him by the hand to assist his rising, and conducted him to a door which opened at the farther end of the first temple. Arrived before this door, he invited the aspirant to knock "three times," in response to which a stern voice from the interior demanded of the profane "What he wanted?"

Following the advice of the priests he answered, "That he was a penitent descended alive into the bowels of the earth, there to confess his sins, for them to make atonement, and to obtain the light." Then the aspirant heard a terrible rattling of chains, and the door slowly opened on its hinges. Entering he found himself in a place dimly lighted, in the presence of a tribunal composed of three priests, whose white robes of initiation were covered with a large tunic of bright red.

To these priests the aspirant would have to declare not only the guilty actions which he had committed, but the circumstances which had led him to commit them, finally ending by an exact account of his good or bad inclinations.

When he had finished his confession, the priests conducted him into a waiting room, and examined if his confession coincided with the knowledge gained in advance, and confirmed by the phrenological configuration of his skull, the look of his face, and the play of his countenance. When the judges—whose power of perception enabled them to dive into the innermost recesses of his conscience—had found him sincere, they admitted him to the benefits of their initiation, but before he underwent these new and formidable trials, they presented him with a cup containing the beverage of "oblivion." After he had drank from the first cup, they offered him a second, containing the beverage of the "memory," emblematical that he ought to forget the "errors" of the world, and only to remember the "Eternal Truths," which he would learn at his initiation.

The sides of the cup of oblivion were covered with honey, but the wine which it contained was as bitter as gall; whilst the sides of the cup of memory were coated with gall, but it contained the most exquisite nectar; a profound symbol of the "Eternal Truth."

MASONIC BLUNDERERS ONCE MORE.

By Bro. Jacob Norton.

THE 125th anniversary of a Royal Arch Chapter in Pennsylvania was recently celebrated in Philadelphia. The Chapter's record is not quite as old, but as the Philadelphia Lodge charter, derived from the so-called "Ancients," arrived about 1764, it is not impossible for the disciples of Dermott to have begun to work both Craft and Chapter Masonry six years or so before they received a charter. Two orations were delivered upon that important occasion. I shall however confine my remarks to the historical oration by my friend Brother Charles E. Meyers, who, after giving a few rhetorical flourishes about Solomon's Temple, the Obelisks, Pyramids, Ancient Temples, &c. proceeded thus:—

"Listen to the story of the past. The operative Masons who annually assembled at York, prior to the forming of private Lodges, increased to such an extent that the attention of the learned men of the day was attracted to their mysterious meetings. Such influence was brought to bear upon the operative Masons that they were induced in time to admit such as had not worked with the implements of labour, but who had delved in nature's mysteries, and had made themselves Masters of science and art."

With due respect to the Philadelphia orator, I must inform him that the above paragraph is a mere tissue of blunders. Who knows the history of the operative Masons at York? When did Masons meet without having private Lodges? When, where, and who, were the learned men, "the Masters of science and art," whom the Masons' mysteries attracted to York? In the 17th century, and perhaps earlier, non-operatives used to join the operative guilds. I have already called attention, in my previous paper, that in 1607 James I. of England was a Cordwainer, and his son Prince Henry and a host of courtiers joined the Tailors' guild. I have no doubt the Goldsmiths' guild, the Fishmongers' guild, &c., also had gentlemen as honorary members, and the Masons, though they cannot boast of having received into membership Kings and Princes in those days, undoubtedly now and then received into their ranks a private gentleman or may be a nobleman; but which of the said non-operative Masons were "masters of science and art?" Again says Brother Meyer:—

"Masonry prior to 1717 consisted of one degree, that of the Apprentice, which differed greatly from our present degree of that name, inasmuch as it contained the elements of all of the degrees of Masonry."

Now, what did the orator mean by the word "all," which he so carefully italicised? Bro. Meyers is probably Master of from a hundred and fifty to two hundred degrees, or even more; but these are not all the Masonic degrees Masons believe in. Brother Meyers has received three degrees in the Blue Lodge; four in the Royal Arch; three in the Templar; three, or so, in the Cryptic Rite; thirty in the Scotch Rite (omitting the Craft degree); he may have received ninety-three degrees in the Rite of Memphis, and ninety in the Rite of Mizraim. Our brother is a Rosicrucian, a Red Cross Knight of Constantine, and a something in the Royal Order of Scotland. Dr. Oliver enumerates the following degrees:—"The Ark, Mark, Link, Wrestle, Babylonish Pass, Intendent, Noachites, Sublime Scotch Masonry, Excellent, Prussian Blue, the various elected Architectural, Priestly, and Crucible degrees, Red, White, and Black; the Knightly Orders and Mediterranean Pass, the Kadosh, Provost and Judge, Black Mark, Order of Death, Perfection, and innumerable others." In all, says Dr. Oliver, somewhere, there were about two thousand degrees afloat during the last century. Bro. Woodford, in "Kenning's Cyclopædia," enumerates a hundred and fifty or more Knighthoods, and nearly all were Masonic. I would, therefore, like to learn where Bro. Meyers had seen a pre-1717 Ritual which contained the elements of "all" the Masonic degrees.

Supposing, however, by "all," our brother meant only the three Craft degrees; if even so I am sorry to say he still blundered. I presume that I have read as many pre-1717 rituals as Bro. Meyers has; thus, the oldest Masonic ritual is contained in the Halliwell Poem, and in that ritual neither King Solomon nor his Temple is referred to. That poem was written after the year 1407, probably near 1430. Matthew Cook's MS. was written about a century later, and the MSS. published by Bro. Hughan and others, about thirty or more in all, of the 17th century, are mere abridgments of the Cooke MS. Now all the said rituals mention King Solomon and King Hiram, but ignore the architect. So we see that the principal personage of the third degree was not mentioned in the pre-1717 rituals. In short, the said rituals were minus the elements of the third degree at least. Now for the next:—

"Secession and expulsion (says Bro. M.) marked the period from 1738 to 1760, when another Grand Lodge was formed composed of the seceding brethren, who, acting under the example set them by the old Grand Lodge, in dividing the first degree, and forming the second and third; in turn divided the third degree, and from the latter part of that degree formed a fourth degree, styled the Holy Royal Arch; it is supposed this was done about 1740 to 1744."

The above implies that the Masters' degree of 1738 or so contained the elements of the Royal Arch degree, which elements or element was then separated from the parent trunk, and planted by itself under the name of "Royal Arch Masonry." Now, I happen to possess a Master Mason's ritual older than 1738, and the latter part thereof does not differ from the present ritual. Indeed, the Masters' ritual never contained the slightest allusion to the second Temple, nor the personages who figured at its building. I cannot very well furnish proof in the Freemason's Chronicle, but I could convince even Bro. Meyers, in ten minutes, that neither the Ancients nor Moderns ever clipped off anything from the third degree to form the Royal Arch. Brother Meyers quotes from Bro. Hughan's "Masonic Memorials," viz., 1st, "It will thus be seen that the special object of the seceders from 1740 or earlier, was the promotion of Royal Arch Masonry." And 2nd, "The chief feature of the new ritual consisted in a division of the third degree into two sections." Now, the "Masonic Memorials" was published in 1874. Bro. Hughan's opinion of then and now may differ. But whatever may be Bro. Hughan's opinion, it cannot outweigh facts; if he has not already changed his opinion, he will have to change it upon due reflection.

I shall not attempt to follow Bro. Meyers' earlier history of Masonry in Pennsylvania; the question about Daniel Coxe's connection with the Pennsylvania Masonry of 1782 has been discussed again and again in English and American papers; the Philadelphians have since then brought forward no new demonstrations, and have most singularly dropped the "Henry Bell" letter of 1754 from their proofs and demonstrations. The said letter was never alluded to by their orators at their celebration in 1882, nor did the orators of the Chapter celebration mention it. But the mere assertion and reassertion of the Philadelphia Masonic creed by Bro. Meyers—and a dozen other orators—even Bro. Hughan's opinion in the bargain—cannot change my belief that the theory of Daniel Coxe's connection with the Philadelphia Masonry of 1732 is a mere assumption and blunder. Again:—

"The Old Grand Lodge (says Bro. M.) changed the mode of recognition in order to detect the members of the seceding Lodges. For thus violating the landmarks they were styled by their adversaries as 'Moderns;' they (the seceders) claiming for themselves the title of 'Ancients.'"

This notion, that the Grand Lodge of England changed something in the mode of recognition, in order to keep out the seceders from its Lodges, originated with Preston in 1772. Previous to that time no one mentioned it; even Dermott's editions of the Ahiman Rezon of 1756 and 1764 make no mention of it. Preston's account of the origin of the Ancients is obscure and unmethodical. The first informs us, that during the Grand Mastership of the Earl of Crawford (that is between 30th March 1734 and the 24th February 1735) "A few resolutions also passed respecting illegal conventions of Masons, at which it was reported many persons had been initiated into Masonry on small and unworthy considerations."* As we have no evidence of the appearance of the Royal Arch before 1740, the irregularities above given, could not (as Bro. Hughan claims) have been due to "the promotion of Royal Arch Masonry" in 1734 or 1735.

The next trouble about irregular Lodges, Preston places in 1738. He says: "A number of dissatisfied brethren withdrew themselves from their Lodges and held meetings in different places for the initiation of persons into Masonry * * * In consequence of the breach which had been made in the friendly intercourse between the Grand Lodges of London and York (he ought to have said, "in consequence of the Grand Lodge of York having been dormant since 1730") these disaffected brethren * * * assumed, without any legal authority, the character of York Masons. Certain measures being adopted to check their progress. They made no considerable addition to their numbers, till, taking advantage of a murmur * * * among the Lodges in London, on account of some innovations that had lately been introduced * * * This imprudent measure of the regular Lodges offended many old Masons; but through the mediation of John Ward, Esq. * * * matters were in some measure accommodated." Again:—

In 1739. "Brethren again met in unwarranted Lodges, and initiated persons into Masonry on small and unworthy considerations. To disappoint the views of these irregular Masons, and to distinguish the persons thus received into Masonry, the Grand Lodge silently acquiesced in the imprudent measures which even the urgency of the case could not warrant. This had the intended effect, but gave rise to a new subterfuge. The brethren who seceded * * * immediately announced independency, and assuming the appellation of Ancient Masons, propagated an opinion that the ancient tenets and practices were preserved by them, while the regular Lodges had adopted new plans, and being composed of modern Masons, to counteract the resolutions of the Grand Lodge, a new Grand Lodge was instituted in London. * * * A civil rebellion ensued, and under the feigned name of the Ancient York Constitutions its Lodges daily increased * * * and under the false appellation of the York banner, they gained the countenance of the Scotch and Irish Masons, who readily joined in condemning the measures of the Lodges in London, which, they insisted, tended * * * to introduce novelties and to subvert the original plan of the society."

From Preston's history, one would infer that the secession, the declaration of independence, and the formation of the Antients' Grand Lodge, took place simultaneously in 1739 or 1740; the truth is, the first formation of the said Grand Lodge was in 1751; whether the original six Lodges, or even part of them survived since 1739, is, to say the least, doubtful. It is my opinion that from the very start of Masonry, there was a succession of unscrupulous Masons who conferred Masonry for small sums of money. Dermott, in 1756, complained that somebody then conferred the Royal Arch degree. Within my recollection, in Boston attempts have been made two or more times to establish such illegal Lodges. They failed in their attempts, because the Mason makers were neither men of position, means, nor talent, and such may have been the case in England with the old Mason makers. Even the concern of 1751 would have melted away, if Dermott, quite a genius in his way, had not placed himself at the head of it. In the earlier charters granted by Dermott he styled his concern "The Grand Lodge of the most Ancient and Honourable Fraternity of Free and Accepted York Masons." This he could do with impunity, because there was no Grand Lodge at York from 1730 to 1761. But in the Charters he granted after 1761 he styled his concern "The G.L., &c., of Free and Accepted (not York Masons, but) Masons according to the old Constitution granted by His Royal Highness Prince Edwin of York." Now Dermott undoubtedly changed the mode of recognition in every degree of Craft Masonry. About the Masters' degree he says:—

"About the year 1717 some joyous companions who had passed the degree of a craft (though very rusty) resolved to form a Lodge for themselves, in order to recollect what had formerly been dictated to them, or if that should be impracticable, to substitute something new * * * At this meeting the question was asked, whether any person in the assembly knew the Masters' part? and being answered in the negative, it resolved nem con that the deficiency should be made up with a new composition." This accounts as to why the Masters' part differed in the two Grand Lodges. But even Dermott furnishes no hint as to why they differed in the first and second degrees, nor did he even allude to the existence of any difference in the two first degrees. That Dermott's statements are a tissue of falsehoods, Bro. Meyers himself conceded, by admitting that there was only one degree before 1717, &c. The establishment and perpetuation of the 1751 Grand Lodge was therefore entirely due to the talent and cheek of Dermott.

But I must now recall to mind Bro. Preston's account of the origin of the Ancients; he says, that in 1738 the English Masons, in order to keep out of their Lodges the irregulars, changed something in their ritual (which is understood to mean their mode of recognition), and that in 1739 the Grand Lodge silently acquiesced in the change; and this change gave great offence to the Scotch and Irish Masons, &c., all which, for obvious reasons, he gave us in very obscure language, which I shall, however, endeavour to make a little more clear.

Modes of recognition consist of signs or words, or both. Let us now suppose that before 1738, when an Apprentice wanted to make himself known to a Brother Mason, he gave the brother a slap on the back, and the word was "Tweedledee;" and a Fellow Craft to make himself known as such gave two slaps on the back of the brother and gave the word "Tweedledum." Whether Preston's alleged change meant the introduction of entire new signs and words, or whether the mode of recognition of the Apprentice was changed into the former mode of recognition of the Fellow Craft, and vice versâ, I know not. But be that as it may, his account about the offence the Scotch and Irish brethren took thereat is clear enough. But here comes the question. There is no doubt that both in Scotland and in Ireland Masons give the same signs and words in the first two degrees, as is given by English Masons. Hence, at some period subsequent to 1738, the Scotch and Irish brethren must have conformed their modes of recognition to that of the Grand Lodge of England. The question then comes, where, when, and why have our Scotch and Irish brethren adopted the said change which their predecessors of the last century condemned as innovations and novelties?

The fact is, the statements of Preston with regard to the origin of the Ancients are on a par with his compact of 1721, with his narrative about the Grand Lodge of York, and other historical blunders. The ritual of 1730, discovered a few years ago by Bro. Abbott, is sufficient to upset the notion that any change was made since then by English Masons in the first two degrees.

Now for another Masonic blunderer. In the preface to "Hutchinson's Spirit of Masonry," Dr. Oliver gives an account of the Grand Lodge procession of 1742, and of the counter procession of the "Scald and miserable Masons," who met the G.L. procession in front of the old Somerset House, and the picture thereof, called "Geometrical view of the Grand procession of the scald miserable Masons," &c. To which Dr. Oliver adds:

"Anderson thus notices the circumstance: Some unfaithful brethren, disappointed in their expectations of the high offices and honours of the society, had joined a number of the buffoons of the day, in a scheme to exhibit a mockery of the public procession to the Grand Feast. This, as may well be supposed, furnished mirth to the gaping crowd, and disgust to the fraternity, who, wisely recollecting themselves, determined in future to confine their operations within the limits of their own assembly."

The whole of the above paragraph appeared in the said work, between quotation marks, as the writing of Dr. Anderson. The truth however is, I could find no such paragraph in Anderson's writings. Nor could Anderson have written remarks of events which took place in 1742, about three years after he was dead and buried, for he died in May 1739.

I sincerely hope that Bro. Gould's History will be free from blunders. I trust that he is endowed with sufficient courage to tread upon the toes of those who deserve it, and that he will discard the notion of "Masonic Courtesy" when dealing with Masonic misleaders. I would also respectfully suggest, that when his History is finished he should render a great service to the Craft by following it up with "Anecdotes of Masonic Blunderers." For the collection of materials for such a work there will be no need to sneeze over old musty folios, or to spend years hunting in libraries. The said materials are scattered everywhere, and ready for gathering. For instance begin with the old MSS., Anderson, Hutchinson, Preston, Oliver, in short the English and American Masonic literature in general. Volumes of anecdotes of Masonic blunderers might be collected from those sources, and when these are exhausted he would find a wealthy mine of blunders in the legends and writings of the high degrees, for the higher Masons mount the more blunders they make. Such a work might be issued in volumes, or in monthly or weekly parts, I think it would be more remunerative, as far as pounds, shillings and pence is concerned, than the History. The said work would find its way into every public and private library, and even Masons, who as a rule do not relish serious reading, and do not care about history, as they are by no means averse to fun and humour, 99 out of every 100 brethren would readily subscribe to the "Anecdotes," where scarcely one would invest in a history. But the really great service the work would render the Craft would be, the driving away from the Masonic press of all kinds of pretenders, dreamers, and blunderers, be they scribblers or orators.

INSTALLATION MEETINGS, &c.

—:o:—

UNITED LODGE, No. 697.

THE installation festival of this Lodge was held at Colchester on Wednesday, May 16th, and passed off most successfully. The Lodge was opened at 3 p.m. by Bro. Thomas G. Mills W.M., when two brethren were raised. Bro. G. A. Eustace (W.M. elect) S.W. was then introduced and duly installed as W.M. for the ensuing year, the ceremony being performed by Bro. Col. Somerville Burney P.G.D. P.M. and also one of the Founders of the Lodge. At its conclusion, the new W.M. appointed and invested his Officers for the ensuing year as follows:—Bros. C. D. Marshall S.W., Robert Smith J.W., Rev. W. Morgan Jones Chaplain, Thomas Eustace P.M. P.P.G.S.B. Treasurer, Thomas Rix P.M. P.P.G.S.B. Secretary, S. H. Ellis S.D., A. S. B. Sparling J.D., R. Clowes W.M. 650 M.C., J. T. Bailey I.G., Simon Munson Tyler, G. P. Hazell and J. G. Renshaw Stewards. A vote of thanks was unanimously passed to Bro. Col. Burney, for his kindness in attending and performing the ceremony of the day. The sum of five guineas was voted towards the Brightlingsea Relief Fund. The annual banquet followed at the George Hotel, when an excellent repast was served à la Russe by Mrs. Guiver. At its conclusion the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were given and responded to, and Bros. C. Osmond, A. F. Amos, A. S. B. Sparling, C. D. Marshall, &c., kindly contributed some capital vocal music between the toasts. Among those present either in Lodge, or at the festive board, were Bros. H. S. Somerville-Barney P.G.D., Thomas J. Ralling P.M. 51 P.G. Sec., Rev. E. H. Crate P.M. 697 P.P.G.C., Thomas Rix P.M. Secretary 697 P.P.G.S.B., Thomas Eustace P.M. Treasurer 697 P.P.G.S.B., R. Clowes W.M. 650, W. Sowman W.M. 51, A. Gosling P.M. 697, Rev. A. Pertwee W.M. 433 P.P.G.C., J. J. Cavil W.M. 1312, J. E. Wiseman P.M. and Secretary 433 P.P.G.A.D.C., C. Osmond J.W. 51 been passed in 1734. Anderson does not mention such a resolution. In 1735 Anderson mentions a resolution condemning a book called "Freemason's Vade Mecum." The question is, where did Preston get hold of his statements about 1734?

LODGE OF FINSBURY, No. 861.

THE installation meeting of this Lodge was held on Thursday, the 24th instant, at "The London," Fenchurch-street. Lodge was opened at four o'clock, by the Immediate Past Master, Bro. W. G. Hallows, who was supported by Past Masters George Leach, Meanwell Treasurer, G. W. Preston Secretary, A. Finch, W. Mackey, R. S. Hart; E. W. Parkes (W.M. elect) S.W., Fred. Hallows J.W., &c. &c. Amongst the Visitors were Bros. G. W. Hodges 1310, E. Isaacs 1816, H. Pritchard I.G. 1415, A. Ross J.D. 435, Henry T. Gordon W.M. 907, Henry G. Genton S.D. 1228, G. C. Peacock P.M. 201, W. J. Ferguson P.M. 177, J. Carty 700, E. Davey P.M. 861, H. E. Inman I.G. 1662, W. E. Williams 18, H. Baker 1669, R. P. Hewey 1687, A. H. Clements, W. Seckham Witherington 907, J. Seigenberg 212, A. Benabo 212, H. J. Amphlett 1511, Obed Roberts P.M. 188, F. W. Wenborn 813, W. Hicklin S.W. 1261, W. Garrett 173, H. Shepherd 754, J. L. Cogan P.M. 1365, W. France 860, W. W. Morgan S.W. 211. After the minutes of last meeting had been read and confirmed, Lodge was advanced, and, with due regard to proficiency being displayed by the candidates, Bros. Ernest Francis Brown, and Hewey of the, Crusaders' Lodge, No. 1677 (by request of the W.M. of that Lodge) were raised to the sublime degree. This ceremony was ably conducted by the acting Worshipful Master. For the ceremony of installing Bro. Edward William Parkes the Master Elect, Bro. A. Finch took the chair, and carried out the work in a most careful and impressive manner. Bro. Finch gave the explanation of the working tools in full, and his exhortations and addresses were listened to with rapt attention. He well deserved the applause he received at the conclusion of his labours. The Officers were invested as follows:—F. Hallows P.M. S.W., J. B. Edwards J.W., W. Meanwell P.M. Treasurer, G. W. Preston P.M. Secretary, Guyer S D., Byatt J.D., D. Ayling I.G., W. Groom P.M. M.C., Shepherd W.S., Thomas Tyler. The report of the Auditors, with a full balance sheet (which had been printed and sent to the members), having been presented and adopted, Bro. Groom announced that, thanks to the help he had received from members and friends of the Lodge, he had been enabled to secure the return of the candidate in whose election they were interested on Friday last; but, he regretted to say that Brother Wirtzfeld, to whom he referred, died about half an hour before the result of the poll was declared. A candidate was proposed for initiation at the next meeting, and routine work having received attention, Lodge was closed. A capital banquet was supplied, the viands and wines being of excellent quality. On the removal of the cloth, the W.M. gave the customary toasts in brief but pertinent phrase. In speaking of Her Majesty he regarded her as the Imperial mother of three energetic Craftsmen. He thought the brethren might, with more than customary enthusiasm, drink the health of Her Majesty on this her sixty-fourth birthday. In speaking to the toast of the Most Worshipful Grand Master the Prince of Wales, the Worshipful Master referred to the recent testimony of the Earl of Carnarvon as to the zeal displayed by the present Grand Master; this testimony he was sure all present would endorse. After the Pro Grand Master, the Deputy Grand Master, and the rest of the Grand Officers had been toasted, Brother W. G. Hallows proposed the health of the Worshipful Master. He undertook the duty with much pleasure. The shadow of Death had been hovering over the Lodge for the past two years, and had made sad havoc in their ranks, but he trusted that some considerable interval might elapse ere they again had to acknowledge its presence. The brother who had been elected to preside over the destinies of the Lodge was highly respected, not only in Lodge, but by a large circle of friends who were associated with him in the business walks of life. In proposing the toast of health and happiness to the Worshipful Master, he could but wish Brother Parkes might have energy and strength to carry out his duties. The Worshipful Master in reply thanked Brother Hallows for the kind way in which he had introduced the toast, and the brethren for the reception they had given it. When he considered the able Masters who had preceded him, he felt fully the responsibilities he had undertaken. However, he should strive to his uttermost, and if he could only emulate the worthy Masons who heretofore had ruled the Lodge, he should be well satisfied. The Past Masters was the next toast offered by the W.M. He had around him both young and old Past Masters, and each had rendered good service to the Lodge. The W.M. referred to the able and efficient way in which Bro. Hallows performed the ceremony in the early part of the evening, while all present recognised the ability of the Installing Master. Bro. Parkes next made reference to the recent death of Bro. Willson, and to the memorial which had been exhibited in Lodge. For the other P.M.'s, he had among them some old and sincere friends. He would not take up their time, but would at once offer the toast for acceptance. In reply Brother Hallows expressed his thanks to the W.M. for his kind reference to what little service he had been able to render. If he had done the work to the satisfaction of the members he could but be gratified. Brother Finch endorsed what had been said by Brother Hallows. He had had great pleasure in installing Brother Parkes, who was a true hearted man, and would do credit to the Lodge. Bro. Finch then alluded to the loss the Lodge had sustained through the death of Bro. Willson, who, had he been permitted, would certainly have installed his successor. Bros. Leach, Hart, and Groom also addressed a few words to the brethren. The W.M. next rose to propose a toast always welcome to the brethren of the Finsbury Lodge, He referred to their Visitors. With the toast he would associate the name of Bros. Ferguson and Gordon. These brethren responded with commendable brevity, and they were followed by several other of the Visitors. The health of the Treasurer and Secretary was the next toast introduced by the W.M., who enlarged on the zeal each of his Officers displayed in the fulfilment of their respective duties. Bros. Meanwell (Treasurer), and Preston (Secretary) acknowledged the compliment. For the other Officers the S.W. and others replied, and soon afterwards the Tyler gave the parting toast. The memorial, to be sent to the family of the late Bro. Willson, who died during the year of his Mastership, and to which reference has already been made, had been most artistically illuminated, and is worded as follows:—

LODGE OF FINSBURY, No. 861.

At a meeting of the above Lodge, held at the "LONDON TAVERN," FENCHURCH STREET, 26TH APRIL 1883,
Bro. W. G. HALLOWS P.M. presiding,

It was unanimously resolved: To record on the minutes of the Lodge the expression of universal regret of the members on the death of their most esteemed Worshipful Master,

Bro. PHILIP H. WILLSON,

Who had been initiated in, and a constant attendant at, the Lodge, since February 1865. His earnest personal advocacy and generous contributions to Charity, and his amiable and courteous manner endeared him to all, and calls for the warmest gratitude and admiration.

The members of the Lodge also desire to express their sympathy and condole with the Mother, Sister, and Brother, upon the irreparable bereavement they have sustained.

Here follow several signatures.

The following programme of music was performed under the direction of Bro. Herbert Schartau, assisted by Bros. Edward Dalzell, Charles Beckett, and Franklin Clive. Grace, "For these and all Thy Mercies;" National Anthem; Madrigal, "The pleasant month of May," Beale; Song, "Ehren on the Rhine," Hutchinson; Part Song, "Summer Eve," Hatton; Humorous Song, "He did and he didn't know why," Grain; Ballad, "Is she not fair?" Pilati; Song, "I never can forget," Milton; Glee, "As the moments roll," Webbe. The music was thoroughly enjoyed by all present, and Bros. Shartau and Franklin Clive added each a song to those set down for them; the former singing "The Three Pigs," while Bro. Clive, by request, gave "In cellar cool."

Percy Lodge of Instruction, No. 198.—Held at the Jolly Farmers', Southgate-road, on Saturday, 19th instant. Bros. Wolf W.M., Marks S.W., Cook J.W., Gibbs S.D., Brock J.D., Venning I.G., Lorkin Acting Preceptor, and Galer Secretary; also Bros. Ferrer, Weeden, Houghton, Fenner, Lone, Manger, Ashton, Langdale, Allardyce, Spencer, and Von Jail. Lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed. Lodge was opened in the second degree; Bro. Weeden offered himself a candidate, was examined and entrusted. Lodge was opened in the third degree, and Brother Wolf vacated the chair in favour of Bro. Ferrar, who rehearsed the ceremony of raising, giving the traditional history. The Lodge was closed in the third degree, and Bro. Fenner worked the first section of the second lecture, assisted by the brethren. Lodge was closed in the second degree, and Bro. Langdale, of the St. Andrews in the East Lodge, No. 401 (Scottish), and Bro. Von Jail, of the Leigh Lodge, No. 957, were unanimously elected members. Bro. Marks was elected W.M. for the ensuing week. Nothing further having offered for the good of Freemasonry, the Lodge was closed in ancient form, and adjourned to Saturday, 26th of May.

Combermere Lodge, No. 605.—At the usual monthly meeting of the members of this Lodge, held at the Queen's Hotel, Birkenhead, on the 17th instant, Bro. Alfred Judd S.S. proposed, and Bro. A. Moore S.D. seconded, "That the annual subscription of the Combermere Lodge to the Boys' Educational Institution and the Girls' Educational Institution be two guineas per annum respectively." After considerable discussion, Bro. J. Sillitoe P.M. and Treasurer, and A. Coveney P.M. opposing the motion, it was put to the meeting by the W.M. (Bro. Simm) and lost by one vote.

Royal Alfred Lodge of Instruction, No. 780.—On Friday, 18th inst., at the Star and Garter, Kew Bridge. Bros. Gunner W.M., Maton S.W., Sperring J.W., C. E. Botley Sec., F. Botley S.D., A. Turner J.D., Cammell I.G., Gomm P.M.; Hirst, Weeden, &c. After the minutes had been read and confirmed, the ceremony of raising was rehearsed, Bro. Turner candidate. Lodge was closed in third and second degrees, when the first section of first lecture was worked by Bro. Secretary and Preceptor.

MARK MASONRY.

—:o:—

CONSECRATION OF THE GORLESTON LODGE, No. 317.

CONSTITUTION OF THE PROVINCE OF EAST ANGLIA.

FAVOURED, on Monday last, as the Mark Master Masons of Suffolk and the adjoining counties were as regards the weather, and taking into consideration the interest which attaches itself to the doings of all degrees of Freemasonry in the Province of Suffolk, we were not surprised that a large gathering of Craftsmen assembled to take part in the consecration of this new Mark Masters' Lodge and the formation of the Province of East Anglia. The representative men of Gorleston—if we may be allowed so to designate them—Bro. E. P. Youell and Bro. Major Dods, had striven to their uttermost to the end that the meeting should turn out a successful one; and each vied in a spirit of honourable rivalry in offering a cordial welcome to the many visitors, with a result eminently satisfactory to all who participated in their hospitality. It has been said that Suffolk is fortunate in the number and position of its representatives in the various degrees in Freemasonry, and unquestionably she is securing for herself a position in the Masonic world. During the past few years great strides have been made in the Craft and Royal Arch degrees, which have respectively their Provincial Grand Lodge and Provincial Grand Chapter, both of them are well represented, and constantly increasing in numbers of membership. The Mark degree until Monday had but two Lodges in the county—one at Ipswich and the other at Bury St. Edmunds; on that day, however, the little corner of Suffolk—Gorleston—aspired to the possession of its Mark Lodge, following its earlier aspirations of a Royal Arch; and a large gathering of Mark Masters, and candidates for advancement, attended at St. Andrew's Hall. "The Youell" is the title under which this new Lodge will work, and is the sixth in the now-established Province working under the Mark Masters' Constitution, the other five Lodges being named—Albert Victor 70, Ipswich; Walpole 92, Norwich; Freeman 105, Bury St. Edmunds; Isaac Newton 112, Cambridge University; and Constantine 145, Colchester. Amongst those present were the Right Hon. Lord Henniker G.M.M.M., W. W. B. Beach, M.P., P.G.M.M.M., Rev. C. J. Martyn, Frederick Binckes Grand Sec. P.G.J.W., D. M. Dewar (Past G.O.) Assistant Grand Secretary, Giovanni P. Festa M.O., T. Cubitt (St. Marks) P.G.S.O., Fred. Long P.M. Freeman 105 P.G.D.C. G.S.B. England, Dods (S.W. designate) Albert Victor 70, C. Walpole 92, George Abbott Albert Victor 70, H. A. Smith Constantine 145, S. R. Anness S.W. Albert Victor 70, A. Hanlon Walpole 92, Thos. Rix P.M. Constantine 145, John W. French Constantine 145, Alfred Cubitt Constantine 145, G. B. Mickleburgh Sydney N.S.W., W. Armstrong S.W. Freeman 105, J. P. Lewin W.M. Constantine 145, James M. Harvey J.W. Albert Victor 70, A. Langton S.O. Freeman 105, Thos. J. Ralling P.M. and Sec. Constantine 145, Joseph Tomlinson (Francis Burdett) P.G.S.E., Edward Armitage J.D. Isaac Newton 112, Cambridge University, John R. Bridgman J.W. Walpole 92, James Dunsford J.O. Walpole 92, Charles F. Bond Walpole 92, E. Baldwin M.O. Walpole 92, George Baxter Secretary Walpole 92, S. Maude (Grosvenor) Prov. G. Chap. Middx. and Surrey, Hy. George Fleming P.M., John B. Pearce Reg. Walpole 92, H. G. Barwell W.M. Walpole 92, and about twenty brethren who sought advancement.

Lodge having been opened with Bro. Dewar as W.M., Bro. N. Tracy as S.W., and Bro. T. Cubitt as J.W., the following candidates were advanced to the degree of Mark Master Mason:—Bros. Charles Diver, Yarmouth; G. A. Ward, Newcastle; H. W. Youell, Gorleston; H. H. W. Elwes, Lowestoft; Geo. Bush, Lowestoft; B. M. Bradbeer, Lowestoft; J. J. Owles, Yarmouth; H. H. George, Gorleston; R. Martins, Yarmouth; H. F. Brooks, Yarmouth; Joseph Hudspith Southtown; William Sayer, Yarmouth; Alexander Mitchell, Yarmouth; John Hammond, Gorleston; C. L. Chipperfield, Southtown; F. W. Rolfe, Yarmouth; C. P. W. Laing, Southtown; T. R. Elkington, Ipswich; and W. W. Morgan, London.

At this stage of the proceedings it was announced that the M.W. Brother the Right Hon. Lord Henniker Grand Mark Master Mason of England and Wales and the Colonies and Dependencies of the British Crown, attended by several of his Grand Officers, was in waiting and sought admission. A deputation was formed, and the Most Worshipful Grand Master was received in the usual form, and with honours. On taking the chair, Lord Henniker expressed the great pleasure it gave him to witness the growth of Mark Masonry as evidenced by the increasing labour it entailed. He was especially proud of the duty that now devolved upon him in consecrating a new Lodge in his own county, particularly as in connection with the day's proceedings a Province was to be constituted. He complimented the members of the Lodge upon the excellent start it had made, and thought this might be accepted as a happy augury for its future. The founders of the new Lodge were then arranged in order, and the Petition and Warrant read. The brethren having signified their approval of the Officers named in the warrant, the Most Worshipful Grand Master proceeded to constitute the Lodge, with the customary formalities. The V.W. Brother Frederick Binckes, Grand Mark Secretary, took the chair as Installing Master, and Brother Edward P. Yonell, of the Walpole Lodge, No. 92, was installed as the first Mark Master of Lodge No. 317. The Officers appointed and invested were Bros. Major Dods S.W., J. Bond J.W., J. W. French M.O., J. Hall S.O., H. Elwes J.O., C. Diver Treasurer, H. F. Brooks Secretary, C. Buckland Senior Deacon, C. Bush J.D., H. H. Smith I.G., F. W. Rolfe Org., C. P. Laing Tyler. The addresses were delivered in splendid style by Brother Binckes, who thus completed his share in the labours of the day.

The next feature of the day's proceedings was the formation of the Provincial Grand Lodge of East Anglia, and to conduct this ceremony the Most Worshipful Brother W. Wither B. Beach, M.P., P.G.M.M.M. had kindly consented to preside. The hymns for the occasion had been arranged by the Rev. R. N. Sanderson, and as we consider they were of more than ordinary merit, we give them in full.

OPENING HYMN.

The Sun and Moon, Eternal Lord,
Attend Thy sovereign call;
They run, obedient to Thy Word,
Whose laws are concord all.

In storm or sunshine, on the way
By Thee assigned they go;
The Lights that rule the night and day
Their Maker's guidance know.

Teach us, like them, where'er we be,
To do the Craftsman's part,
To work the work assigned by Thee,
True Master of our Art.

So let the sky be dark or bright,
And rough or smooth our way,
The day, though long, shall bring the night,
The night, though dark, the day.

Eternal Wisdom, Beauty, Power,
To Thee be glory given:
The Name we praise in life's short hour
We hope to praise in Heaven.
So mote it be.

The Worshipful Master of the Yonell Lodge was now informed that Most Worshipful Brother W. W. B. Beach was without, and a deputation was appointed to receive the Past Grand Master and the Officers of Grand Lodge. Brother Beach having assumed the throne, Provincial Grand Lodge was opened, and the acting Grand Master was saluted. The following Ode was then sung—

Great Overseer of All,
On Thee for aid we call,
Sons of the Craft:
Steep is the bank to land;
Lend Thou the helping hand;
Safe on the shore to stand,
Raised on the raft.

Where'er our work be found,
Wood, hill, or casting-ground,
Thine aid we ask:
Grant in the noontide heat
Hour for refreshment sweet;
Call back to work when meet;
Speed thou the task.

Then when the shadows fall,
When labour ends for all,
Our wages tell:
Shew Thou the Master's choice;
Bid all our hearts rejoice;
Speak with approving voice,
"All have marked well."

The Grand Secretary having read the summons convening the meeting it was intimated that the M.W. Prov. G.M. designate, the Right Hon. Lord Henniker was without, and requested to be installed, the Grand Director of Ceremonies, with several Grand and Provincial Grand Officers, then formally introduced the Prov. G.M. designate and conducted him to the front of the pedestal. The Grand Secretary read the memorial from the brethren of the proposed Province, and the Grand Master's assent thereto. After a prayer by the Grand Chaplain, the following Ode was sung by the musical brethren:—

Eternal Wisdom, whose decree
Made light to dawn, and darkness flee,
Illumine Thou our earthly sight,
Make us indeed the Sons of Light.

Eternal Strength, whose mighty hand
Hath framed the sky, the sea, the land,
Without Thee vain were mortal skill;
Make strong our hearts to work Thy will.

Eternal Beauty, who hast blessed
The works Thy hands in order dressed,
Make us Thy loveliness to know,
And bear Thy Image here below.

Proclamation was then made that "East Anglia is now and henceforth constituted a Mark Province;" the P.G.M. was invested, and inducted into the chair, the M.W.P.G.M. taking the chair on the left. The Prov. Grand Master was then proclaimed and saluted with full honours. Lord Henniker appointed Brother the Rev. C. J. Martyn as his Deputy, and nominated and invested his Officers as follow:—

Bro. Frederick Long	G. Senior Warden
E. P. Yonell	G. Junior Warden
H. Barwell	G. Master Overseer
T. J. Ralling	G. Senior Overseer
H. C. Casley	G. Junior Overseer
Rev. R. N. Sanderson	G. Chaplains
Rev. Dennis Hall	G. Chaplains
Colonel Bignold (elected)	G. Treasurer
Rev. S. Maude	G. Registrar
N. Tracy	G. Secretary
J. Lewin	G. Senior Deacon
W. Armstrong	G. Junior Deacon
J. B. Pearce	G. Sup. of Works
J. B. Bridgman	G. Director of Ceremonies
George Abbott	G. Asst. Dir. of Cer.
Major W. Dods	G. Sword Bearer
T. Rix	G. Standard Bearer
J. Buckland	G. Organist
J. Bond	G. Inner Guard
S. R. Annees	G. Stewards
J. Dunsford	G. Stewards
C. H. Woods	G. Stewards
— Hollidge	G. Tyler

After the Provincial Grand Officers had been invested, Lord Henniker proposed a vote of thanks to the Most Worshipful Past Grand M.M.M. for his kindness in attending. Bro. W. W. B. Beach was an excellent Mason, always ready to assist, no matter in what part of the country. He (Lord Henniker) was very glad to see him in Suffolk on the present occasion. The proposition was seconded by the Dep. Prov. Grand Master, Rev. C. J. Martyn, and carried with acclamation. In acknowledging the compliment, Bro. Beach wished the new Province every success in the future, and assured the brethren he appreciated the kind remarks of Lord Henniker. Amongst other matters that received attention was the appointment of a Committee to consider and prepare a code of Bye-laws, and after thanks had been tendered to the Grand Officers for the assistance they had rendered, hearty good wishes were given, and Prov. Grand Lodge was closed, after a very heavy day's work, which had much exceeded the time allotted for its transaction.

The Banquet took place at the Victoria Hotel, Great Yarmouth. The Most Worshipful the Right Lord Henniker presided in the first part of the evening, but in consequence of an important engagement he was compelled to leave early, and even then, as we were informed, had to post a distance of twenty-seven miles. The dinner gave great satisfaction, and on the removal of the cloth the Loyal and Mark toasts received full attention. Bro. the Rev. C. J. Martyn, who now occupied the chair, on rising to propose the toast of the Right Hon. Lord Henniker, Most Worshipful Grand Master, and the Past Grand Masters of the Mark Degree, remarked that all must regret Lord Henniker had been compelled to leave. Their Grand Master had entered thoroughly into the duties of his office, and spared no exertion to promote the welfare of Mark Masonry. With respect to the Past Grand Mark Masters, they all were equally zealous: in fact, it might be asserted that the degree had never had a bad Grand Master. With the toast he would associate the name of one whom he considered the Past Grand Mark Master Mason par excellence; he referred to Brother Beach, to whom he was personally much indebted, inasmuch as it was he who initiated him; he was certainly one of the most hard working Masons we ever had; his services were always readily dispensed, and as warmly appreciated. This, perhaps, was his first visit to the Eastern part of the kingdom, and he (Bro. Martyn) thought he expressed the sentiments of all present when he trusted it might not be the last. In the course of his reply, Brother Beach said he hoped the brethren would accept his best thanks for the hearty reception they had given him. He had been associated with Bro. C. J. Martyn for many years, and in this regard it was pleasant to recal the memories of the past. He appreciated many lasting friendships that he had made through the medium of Freemasonry. He could but regret, in common with them all, the absence of Lord Henniker, but was gratified to note the advance the degree was making under his Grand Mastership. They were all indebted to the Rev. Canon Portal, their first Grand Mark Master, who had always taken a warm interest in the advancement of the Degree. The next toast that was brought under notice was the health of the Right Hon. the Earl of Kintore, Right Worshipful Deputy Grand Master, and the rest of the Mark Grand Officers; the speaker commenting on the care exercised in the selection of brethren for the several parts, and recognising the zeal each brought to bear in the fulfilment of his duties. Bros. Davison, Tomlinson, and Cubitt responded. The latter touched upon some interesting episodes in connection with similar gatherings to that he was now taking part in, and drew a most satisfactory picture of the day's work as compared with other of his experiences. The health of the Deputy Provincial Grand Mark Master was proposed by Bro. Beach, and Bro. Martyn in responding remarked that he felt almost as proud as a peacock at the recognition his efforts were receiving. He had recently had a Lodge in Suffolk named after him, and he was now again prominently brought under notice in connection with the formation of this new Province of East Anglia. In responding to the toast of the Worshipful Master and Brethren of the Yonell Lodge, Brother Yonell referred to the establishment, seven years ago, of the St. Andrew's Lodge, and the sustained interest taken in Freemasonry by the brethren at Gorleston. A Royal Arch Chapter had since been firmly established, and that day they had taken part in the formation of a Mark Lodge. It was not to be expected they would stop where they now where, and he anticipated the more advanced degrees would be sought after by the Gorleston Masons. For himself he greatly appreciated the honour conferred on his Lodge, through him, by his having been selected for the collar of Provincial Grand Junior Warden. The next toast was the health of the Installing Master. The Rev. C. J. Martyn spoke in most eloquent terms of the services Brother Binckes, who had so well sustained his part that day, had rendered to Freemasonry in general and the Boys' School in particular. In acknowledging the compliment Brother Binckes said he felt somewhat awed by the too eulogistic way in which his poor services had been referred to. As regards the progress of Mark Masonry throughout the country, it unquestionably had had its ebb and flow, but it was now fairly established in this new Province. He had had the honour of consecrating the Walpole Mark Lodge, No. 92, and he was much gratified at the share he had taken in the events of the day they were now celebrating. He felt he might truthfully say all had striven to make it go off pleasantly. The degree, whatever might have been its vicissitudes, was now generally recognised, and received sympathy and support from all classes. Its financial position was a sound one; G. Mark Lodge had £5300 invested, and they were educating ten or twelve children. Bro. Binckes next referred to the connection of the Mark with Ancient Freemasonry, and recommended all to study its archæology. At that late hour of the evening he feared he should be wearying them, but as regards Mark Masonry, its early history was soundly authenticated, and 1670 might be named as the date when Operative ended, and Speculative began. Bro. Binckes concluded an excellent speech by thanking the brethren for the reception they had given him. There were several other toasts proposed, and the replies to each were brief, but well to the purpose. It was a late hour when the brethren separated. The musical arrangements of the day were conducted by Bro. Charles Buckland, who was ably assisted by Bros. Rolfe and George Abbott.

The next meeting of the Walpole Lodge of Mark Master Masons, No. 92, will be held at 23 St. Giles' Street, Norwich, on Monday, the 28th inst., at 6.45 p.m., when the following candidates will offer themseves for membership:—

Bros. Everett Howell M.M. Walpole Lodge, 1500, William Robert Tidman M.M. Walpole Lodge, 1500, proposed by Brother Jas. Hobrough, seconded by Brother M. J. Bailey; Brother the Right Hon. Lord Suffield Provincial Grand Master, proposed by Brother Barwell W.M., seconded by Brother Colonel Bignold S.W.; Bros. W. H. Doughty W.M. Sondes Lodge, 996, W. J. Butler J.W. Perseverance Lodge, 213, proposed by Brother F. Long, seconded by Bro. J. B. Bridgman; Bros. W. H. Stevens jun., Walpole Lodge, 1500. Charles Sexton, W.M. Perseverance Lodge, 213, proposed by Brother J. B. Bridgman, seconded by Brother George Baxter; Brother Fred. Morgan, Walpole Lodge, 1500, proposed by Brother George Baxter, seconded by Brother J. B. Bridgman; Brother Edward Arthur Ernescliffe, Cabbell Lodge, 807, proposed by Bro. W. F. Stratford, seconded by Bro. J. B. Bridgman. Bros. George Green, J. W. Browne, T. C. R. King, R. Woodward, H. Rosling, E. Pankhurst, G. F. Crane, W. H. Preston, W. Gaze, J. E. Short, and G. H. Ladyman, if present, will be advanced; the ballot already having been recorded in their favour.

Grand Mark Lodge will be held at Freemasons' Tavern on the 5th of June, at 5 p.m., when Lord Henniker will be again installed as Grand Master. The great progress of the Mark Degree is observable from the report of the General Board, which states that in the six months ending 31st of March last 738 certificates had been issued, the total number of registered Mark Master Masons being now 17,471. During the same period eleven warrants for new Mark Lodges were granted, seven for England and four for the Colonies. In the Degree of Royal Ark Mariners 100 certificates were issued, and two warrants for new Lodges, both for England. New Provinces were constituted at Montreal and Tasmania. The appointment of two additional Grand Officers is recommended, a Second Director of Ceremonies and a Second Standard Bearer; and donations of fifty guineas to the "Preparatory School Building Fund" of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, and £25 to the sufferers by the recent fire in Jamaica are also recommended.—Evening News.

MASONIC REQUITAL.

WE extract the following from a recent number of the Masonic Advocate:—

In all the vocations of life man hopes to receive a just reward for his labour. That it should be commensurate with the work performed, and yield proper compensation to enable him to support himself and family, he has a right to expect while he faithfully employs such talent and strength as he may possess. Not only this, but while in the vigour of manhood he may reasonably expect to accumulate something more, so that, when he has passed the meridian of life, and in the weakness of declining years is no longer able to go forth to his accustomed task, he may enjoy the fruits of his labour and know that he is not dependent upon others for a home while life shall last, nor upon charity for a decent burial when his days are ended. But, alas! there are many, who, after long years of honest toil and self denial, find at last that their expectations are not thus realised. More than a bare subsistence, as the years roll by, they have nothing to shew in return for the great work they have done. What little strength that remains must still be constantly employed in providing the necessaries of life so long as it shall last. Can it be that such a requital is all that is deserved?

The last number of the Voice of Masonry contains an urgent appeal in behalf of an aged brother—now in his seventy-seventh year—who has spent nearly his whole life in the interest of Masonry. He began his work long before most of the Masons of the present day became members of the great Brotherhood, and has laboured without intermission in disseminating light and knowledge for the benefit of the Craft. And now, verging to nearly fourscore years, the veteran must still keep his pen going to provide his daily bread. This aged Mason, now in need of assistance, is none other than Bro. Cornelius Moore, for thirty years the editor of the Masonic Review at Cincinnati. His present address is Box 518 Windsor, Ontario, where he now resides. We most heartily join with the Voice in its appeal to the Masonic fraternity in behalf of this worthy brother in distress.

There are a few thoughts that arise in connection with the case here presented that we deem worthy of consideration. Is there anything in Freemasonry, aside from its ceremonial work, that is worth knowing? If so, then why is it that so few Masons appreciate the fact and avail themselves of this knowledge? From what source can these benefits be obtained? What requital may a Mason expect for time and money spent for the good of Masonry?

To one who has informed himself in regard to the Institution, it is apparent that no man of fair intelligence can pass through the initiatory ceremonies of being made a Mason without failing to discover that they are only the key that opens the door to the sublime principles, upon which it is founded. To enter in and receive a knowledge of the great truths that will be unfolded to him is now his privilege. Strange as it may appear, a very large proportion of initiates seem to be satisfied when they have reached this point. Why such is the case can be explained only upon the hypothesis that curiosity prompted them to seek admission, and having satisfied that they have no higher interest in Masonry. To still satisfy their curiosity they can spend hundreds of dollars in taking more degrees, but when asked to invest a few dollars in a valuable Masonic book, from which they could derive a more correct knowledge of Masonry, or to subscribe for a Masonic journal that would keep them posted in the work of the Order, they have no money to spare for that purpose, nor time to devote to it. From the best information we have been able to gather, not more than six per cent. of the Masons in this country own a Masonic book of the value of one dollar, and few to exceed that number are now subscribers to a Masonic journal. Many eminent and learned Masons, in the last fifty years, have tried to establish Masonic publications, but they have generally soon abandoned them for want of proper support. Not only Bro. Moore, whose case we have presented, but also Bros. Mackey, Morris, Mitchell, Charles W. Moore, Gouley, Wheeler, Guilbert, and others, go to make a long list of bright lights in Masonry, whose efforts in that direction were not appreciated to the extent of a proper requital for their labours. We are stating facts as we find them, not expecting to accomplish any particular good by so doing, but as matter of information to our readers. If any have thought otherwise, we have perhaps convinced them that a Mason is not necessarily a millionaire because he is engaged in publishing a Masonic journal.

THE FIVE POINTS OF FELLOWSHIP.

WHEN need or distress, when misfortune or sorrow,
O'ertake or encompass thy brother around,
Go, serve and assist him, nor wait for the morrow,
On foot, e'en though out of thy way it be found.

Ah, yes, there is help in fraternal devotion,
A solace in sorrow, and aid in distress,
Which fills the sad heart with soft thrilling emotion,
When true to the First on love's pathway we press.

When faint thro' the darkness the vesper is pealing,
When clear on the morn rings the matin's sweet tone,
With heart and with voice, on the closet floor kneeling,
Remember a brother's welfare as thine own.

Thank Him for His grace and His love; ask His blessing
On thee, and thy home, on thine own, loved and dear,
Then think of the Second, and when Him addressing,
Let brotherly love plead in language sincere.

Preserve in thy breast what a brother, confiding,
Commends to thy keeping, when honest and just,
Inviolate hale it, and hold it in hiding,
And, strong in thy honour, betray not the trust.

Forget not the Builder beset and in danger,
E'en death from his bosom extorted no WORD,
So keep thou the Third, though it come from a stranger,
Enough that a brother the trust has conferred.

Aye, stretch forth thy hand if a brother be falling,
Support him, and aid him his feet to regain,
Await not the summons, the sign or the calling,
But fly to his succour from danger and pain.

If slander's foul tongue his fair name is assailing,
Though absent or present, his virtue defend;
And prove that the Fourth shall be ever availing,
To rescue the fame of a brother and friend.

To err is but human, a brother, forgiving,
Performs but a duty, a labour of love;
And he who demurs in his heart is not living
The life shown and taught by the Master above.

Nay, more, in the ear of the wayward and erring,
Reproof should admonish, and counsel should aid
In self-reformation; thus nobly conferring
The Fifth in its fullness, its light and its shade.

ROYAL ARCH.

—:o:—

CONSTITUTION OF A NEW PROVINCE.

WEDNESDAY, 16th May, was a red letter day among the Royal Arch Masons of Essex, when the four Chapters working therein were constituted into a Provincial Grand Chapter, with the popular D.P.G.M. of the Craft Lodges—M.E. Comp. Frederick A. Philbrick, Q.C., P.G. Soj.—as Provincial Grand Superintendent. The needful ceremonial of installation, which was held at the Shire Hall, Chelmsford, was most kindly undertaken by M.E. Comp. the Lord Lathom, Grand H. of England, and was performed, it need hardly be added, in a most impressive manner. The other acting Officers were—E. Comps. Colonel Shadwell Clerke G.S.E. as H., the Rev. C. W. Arnold as J., T. J. Ralling Z. 51 as S.E., Frank Richardson P.G.A.S. as D.C. P.G. Chapter having been duly opened, the Grand Supt. designate was introduced by the following Comps:—the Rev. E. H. Crate P.Z. 51, W. W. Brown Z. 214, F. Adlard P.Z. 214, Vero W. Taylor Z. 276, E. Judd Z. 1000, and A. Lucking P.Z 1000. The ceremony of installation was then proceeded with, and at its conclusion the Grand Superintendent appointed E. Comp. the Rev. F. B. Shepherd, P.Z. and S.E. Essex Chapter, No. 276, and E. Comp. George Cooper, P.Z. and S.E. Hope and Unity Chapter, No. 214, to the Chairs of H. and J. respectively. The other Officers were then invested as follows:

Comp. T. J. Ralling Z. 51	P.G.S.E.
Rev. E. H. Crate P.Z. 51	P.G.S.N.
A. Goodchild P.Z. 276	P.G.P. Soj.
E. E. Phillips P.Z. 1000	P.G. 1st Assist. Soj.
E. Judd Z. 1000	P.G. 2nd Assist. Soj.
E. B. Florence P.Z.	P.G. Registrar
W. Pissey P.Z. 1000.	P.G. Sword Bearer
J. E. Wiseman P.Z. 51	P.G. Standard Bearer
A. Lucking P.Z. 1000	P.G. Dir. of Cer.
W. W. Brown Z. 3214	P.G. Organist
— Martin	P.G. Janitor

On the motion of E. Comp. the Rev. F. B. Shepherd P.G.H., seconded by E. Comp. E. E. Phillips P.Z. 1000, E. Comp. Andrew Durrant P.Z. and Treasurer 276 was unanimously elected Prov. Grand Treasurer. The following were appointed a Committee to frame Bye-laws:—E. Comps. Rev. F. B. Shepherd P.G.H., George Cooper P.G.J., T. J. Ralling P.G.S.E., Rev. E. H. Crate P.G.S.N., Andrew Durrant Prov. Grand Treasurer, and Vero W. Taylor Z. 276. On the motion of the Grand Superintendent, seconded by the Provincial Grand H., a hearty vote of thanks was passed to M.E.Z. Comp. Lord Lathom, for his kindness in attending and performing the ceremony of the day. The Grand H., in responding, congratulated the Province of Essex upon meeting, for the first time, as a P.G. Chapter, and expressed a hope that from so auspicious a beginning they might grow and prosper. He was pleased to have been present that day to instal so worthy and distinguished a Comp. as the Grand Superintendent. Thanks were also voted to the acting Officers for the day; and to the County Magistrates for the use of the Shire Hall. The Grand Superintendent said, as a momento of the day's proceedings, he would ask the Grand Chapter to accept as a present from himself the collars and jewels which had been used to invest the Officers. He thanked the Companions for attending to greet him on his installation, and expressed a hope that Royal Arch Masonry would flourish in the Province. A hearty vote of thanks having been accorded to M.E. Comp. Philbrick for his munificent gift, the interesting proceedings closed. Between forty and fifty Companions afterwards dined together at the White Hart Hotel, a sumptuous repast being served by Brother Haxell, the host. The newly-installed Grand Superintendent presided, and was supported by the Grand H. of England, the Grand Superintendent of Suffolk, and other distinguished members of the Grand Chapter. After dinner, the usual Royal Arch toasts were given, and success to the Prov. Grand Chapter of Essex was enthusiastically drank. The musical arrangements were efficiently carried out by Companions G. F. Smith, G. F. Smith jun., T. Lawler, and G. T. Carter. Among those present during the day, in addition to those already mentioned, were Companions the Rev. C. J. Martyn Grand Superintendent Suffolk, E. J. Barron P.G.S.B. P.Z. and Treasurer 214, Thomas Fenn P.G.S.B., Nathaniel George Philips P.G.S.N., W. H. Saunders, Frederick Adlard P.Z. 214, W. Gosling P.G.S. Bengal, Edgar Bowyer Grand Standard Bearer, Joshua Nunn P.G.D.C., H. H. Locke P.Z. 109, &c., James Gosling 1000, R. Clowes 1st Assistant Sojourner 51, B. S. Barnes H. 276, D. M. B. Wheeler 276, K. Wilson P.Z. 276, E. Shedd J. 276, G. Wallace, 214, M. J. O'Connor P.P.S. 214, F. Whitmore P.Z. 276, A. C. Veley P.Z. 276, E. H. Carter P.Z. 276, Alf. Williams 8, G. F. Smith jun. J. 1839, G. F. Smith 1839, G. T. Carter 145, T. Lawler 92, J. H. Matthews 9, Joshua Street P.Z. 389, J. P. Lewin P.S. 276, G. W. Pascall 276, James S. Brown 276, Frederick A. Cole P.Z. 51, J. Terry Z. 1471 P.G.J., W. Sowman P.S. 51, James Nicholls P.Z. 276, A. Mead 276, &c.—Essex Standard.

A meeting of the members of the North London Chapter of Instruction was held at the Canonbury Tavern, St. Mary's Road, Islington, on Thursday, the 24th inst. Comps. Dean occupied the chair of Z., Sheffield H., Higgins J., Fraser S.N., Hunter P.S. The weather was warm, yet there was a good muster. It being Her Most Gracious Majesty's birthday, the Companions, before seperating, drank to her health.

PANTOMIME—"HARLEQUIN FREEMASON."

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—In January 1880, Bro. Parker, Superintendent of the Boston Masonic Temple, showed me a Diary by a New England Royalist refugee, while residing in London, containing an account of a Pantomime of the above name, acted at Covent Garden Theatre, 9th March 1791, which account appeared in the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE. Soon after this, I discovered the printed Pantomime itself (which I brought with me to London), and it was reprinted in the same paper in the latter part of February or beginning of March 1880. During my late visit to Europe, the same Bro. Parker found, in the Worcester Library, a Boston paper of 1802, containing the enclosed advertisement. There seems to be a mistake about its being acted in London in 1783. The arrangement differs from the original. It is not impossible, therefore, that another pantomime of that name may have appeared in London in 1783. The Boston papers contained no editorials in those days about theatrical performances, and I could not find in the papers that the said pantomime was ever performed here before, or after 5th May 1802. I think it would be worth while to look over the London papers of 1781 and of 1783, to learn what notice (if any) was taken of that performance. But any how, the enclosed advertisement will be new, both to English and American Masons, and there can be no harm in reprinting it in the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

Yours fraternally,

JACOB NORTON.

Boston, U.S., 7th May 1883.

FEDERAL-STREET THEATRE.

Mrs. Bates' Benefit.

This evening, May 5th, will be presented (by desire) Shakespeare's favorite play of Henry the Fourth, with the humours of Falstaff.

Sir John Falstaff, Mr. Bates; King Henry, Mr. Kenny; Prince John of Lancaster, Mr. Bignall; Hotspur, Mr. Rutly; Mistress Quickly, Mrs. Bates; other characters in bills.

End of the third act (for this night only) a Hornpipe, by a Young Gentleman. End of the Play, a Fancy Dance, in Scotch character, by the Young Gentleman and Miss Bates.

To which will be added, for the last time this season, a new Grand Pantomime Entertainment, in 2 acts, called, or, Friendship and Love.

HARLEQUIN FREEMASON,

As originally performed at Convent Garden Theatre in the year 1783, with the sanction and approbation of the Grand Master, and the principal Lodges of London. Hiram Abbiff, Mr. Harper; Harlequin, Mr. Bates; Pierot, Mr. Dickinson; Columbine, Miss Bates; other Characters in bills. By desire, the Song "Tally Ho," by Mrs. Graupner.

In the course of the Pantomime, the following incidents, scenery, &c.—To commence with a view of Hiram's Garden, and Recluse by Moonlight, in which Masonic Emblems change to Harlequin—A Fashionable Head-Dress inclosed in a Magical Band-box—A Clock just in time, and a New Constructed Toilette—A Dog Kennel changed to a Pigeon House, with an Old Woman Enraged, or the Clown in the Wrong Basket.

Act 2nd—A Collection of Animated Pictures, or the Portrait turned Painter—A Magic Cabinet, Organized—the Exaltation, or the Hanging of Harlequin, who drops Limb from Limb, and is instantaneously reanimated. To conclude with a Display of the Regions of Friendship, with Masonic Emblems, personifying Wisdom, Strength, and Beauty, with Faith, Hope, and Charity.

The whole arranged and got up under the direction of Mr. Bates, who respectfully assures the public he has dedicated a great deal of time and expense in its preparation, and humbly hopes it may be found deserving their approbation and patronage.

Doors open at 6. Curtain rises at 7. Conclude by 11.

Columbian Centinel, May 5, 1802.

The Fifteenth Anniversary Festival in aid of the Mark Benevolent Fund is appointed for Wednesday, 25th July, at the Crystal Palace, when Sir Pryse Pryse, Provincial Grand Mark Master of South Wales, will preside. The Festival is generally considered to be one of the most enjoyable of the year.

DANCING.—To Those Who Have Never Learnt to Dance.—Bro. and Mrs. JACQUES WYNMANN receive daily, and undertake to teach ladies and gentlemen, who have never had the slightest previous knowledge or instruction, to go through every fashionable ball-dance in a few easy lessons. THE

Freemason's Chronicle;

A WEEKLY RECORD OF MASONIC INTELLIGENCE.

SANCTIONED BY THE GRAND LODGE OF ENGLAND.

Registered at the G.P.O. as a Newspaper.

VOL. XVII.—No. 438. SATURDAY, 2nd JUNE 1883. [PRICE THREEPENCE. 13s 6d per annum, post free.

THE QUARTERLY COMMUNICATION OF GRAND LODGE.

THE business to be transacted in Grand Lodge, at its Quarterly Communication, to be held on Wednesday next, the 6th inst, is of the most formal character excepting the one item which has reference to the reconstruction of our Masonic Temple. This one exception will render next week's gathering one of the most important in the annals of the Craft in the present day, and it will doubtless call forth many proposals, counter-proposals, suggestions and lengthy discussions. The main proposition on the subject to be considered by Grand Lodge next week will be submitted by the President of the Board of General Purposes, and is based on a report presented by the Premises Committee. This proposal, to which we refer at length below is, we think, the best that can be made, and if properly carried out, should meet the approval of brethren generally, as its adoption would be the means of providing something like double the accommodation to which we have been accustomed, and that, too, without materially interfering with existing arrangements as regards private Lodge-rooms, offices, and other adjuncts to Grand Lodge, the Freemasons' Tavern, &c.

Taking the items on Wednesday's agenda in the order in which they there appear, we have first the submission of the minutes of the last Quarterly Communication, and of the Grand Festival, for approval. Next will come the election of members of the Board of General Purposes. For the fourteen vacancies on the Board which have to be filled by the vote of Grand Lodge, there are thirty-two nominations; but as one brother is nominated twice and two others three times each, there are but twenty-seven brethren actually before Grand Lodge. What does this double nomination mean? Does it not imply that the brother thus honoured (?) has never been consulted as to his willingness to contest the position—for surely no one who was asked would allow two brethren to divide the privilege of naming him for so important a post in the Craft? There is one point in connection with this plurality of nomination we think it desirable to mention here. It has never struck us before, although, doubtless, similar instances have frequently occurred. Will the names on the ballot papers be the same as those which appear on the Grand Lodge agenda, because if such is the case it will be possible for any brother so entitled to give two votes to Bro. Smallpeice (the brother twice nominated) and three each to Bros. Bristow and Escott (who each appear three times on the list). In such a case would the votes be added together, or each nomination stand on its own basis? The former course would be manifestly unfair to the other nominees, while the latter might seriously affect the pluralists themselves.

Having disposed of the election for the Board of General Purposes, that of the Members of the Colonial Board will follow, but as in this case the number of brethren nominated exactly corresponds with the number to be elected by Grand Lodge, no poll will be needed, the declaration of election being only a matter of formality. In the case of the members for the Committee of Management of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, the case is different, as there are eleven nominations for the ten vacancies; a poll will, therefore, be necessary.

The sixth item on the list is the Report of the Lodge of Benevolence for the last quarter. The grants which will come before Grand Lodge for approval at its next meeting are much smaller in number than has been the average of late, there being but seven recommendations—four of £50 each, two of £100 each, and one of £150. The Report of the Board of General Purposes comes next. After formally recording the fire which occurred at Freemasons' Hall on the 3rd ult., and which is described as having caused considerable damage to the premises, the Board acknowledge the receipt of a report thereon from their Premises Committee, which they say they have carefully considered, and, believing the recommendations therein to be for the welfare and convenience of the Craft, they submit them for the favourable consideration of Grand Lodge. The Board also report that a fresh Catalogue of the Library and Museum of Grand Lodge is about to be prepared, and solicits donations of Masonic works, &c. on behalf of the Library Committee.

The Report of the Premises Committee, to which reference has already been made, deals entirely with the question of the reconstruction of the Masonic Temple. The fire, says the report, resulted in the almost entire destruction of the time-honoured "Temple," in which the meetings of Grand Lodge have taken place for over a hundred years—together with the valuable pictures of Past Grand Masters contained therein, as also a great part of the furniture and other fittings. The Hall thus destroyed was formally dedicated to Masonry on the 23rd May 1776, by the Right Hon. Lord Petrie, then Grand Master, who had, in the year preceding, laid the foundation stone. Since that time Grand Lodge has, uninterruptedly, held its meetings there. The premises were fully insured, the only loss to the Craft being the many articles which cannot be replaced, such as the pictures already referred to, the "Ark of the Covenant" (wherein were deposited the Articles of Union between the two Grand Lodges on the occasion of their being united in 1813), and other "Antiquities."

The Committee, after careful consideration, have come to the conclusion that the removal of Grand Lodge premises to the Thames Embankment (a proposition long since mooted) is impracticable, as not only is involved the question of constructing, at an immense cost, a building suited to the requirements of the Craft, but also the almost equally prominent question of the Freemasons' Tavern, the goodwill, of which, of course, depends on the close proximity of the Hall. The G. Superintendent of Works having therefore been called upon for his opinion as to the best possible plan for carrying out such works of renovation and enlargement as will afford accommodation for the attendance in Grand Lodge of at least 1,500 brethren (double the number provided for in the old Hall) states, that to renew the premises destroyed, on the old lines, would be a simple matter, and, looking at the insurance, of little expense to the Craft; but he submits the following scheme for doubling the present accommodation, viz., to add to the area occupied by the Hall just destroyed, the present great Dining Hall of Freemasons' Tavern (the two now running side by side), and that by due and equitable arrangements with Messrs Spiers and Pond (Limited), the lessees of the Tavern, and with Mr. Bacon, the lessee of Bacon's Hotel, adjoining the Tavern, the necessary substituted accommodation for a new Dining Hall, and for improved kitchen accommodation for the Tavern, should be provided on the site of the Hotel. He further points out that at the present stage it is impracticable to submit any accurate estimate of the cost of this scheme; but is of opinion that the total expense would probably not exceed from £30,000 to £35,000 beyond what would be received from the Insurance Companies, and from Messrs. Spiers and Pond, as a contribution for improvements especially affecting their premises.

The Premises Committee refer to the funds to credit of Grand Lodge, and intimate that any balance required could be raised without difficulty, and conclude by recommending the scheme, fully believing that should it be adopted by Grand Lodge, it will give to the Craft premises worthy of the present flourishing state of Freemasonry in England. Little need be said in reference to this proposition, it seems to us the best that could be made. It would be a pity to sacrifice the portions of the premises still uninjured, and give up the old Masonic associations which are inseparable from Great Queen Street, for the purpose of erecting a showy Temple on the Thames Embankment, or other public thoroughfare, which, to many, would be looked upon as only a huge advertisement of the greatness of Freemasonry. In addition, there is the question affecting the income derived from the Freemasons' Tavern, which would no doubt be affected by any removal of the Lodge accommodation, as well as many other matters which will doubtless strike our readers.

The Report of the Board of Benevolence is followed by a resolution of the members; expressive of their sense of the ability and courtesy of the President, and by a statement of Grand Lodge Accounts at the last meeting of the Finance Committee (held on the 18th ult.) Then comes the consideration of the Annual Report of the Benevolent Institution; an appeal against sentence of expulsion; and three notices of motion.

The first of these latter refers to the rebuilding of the Temple, the second to the reconsideration of the Revised Book of Constitutions, and the third is a proposal that the usual annual grant for coals for the old people at Croydon shall be made from the funds of Grand Lodge. We can but express a hope that the meeting will be numerously attended, and that whatever decisions may be arrived at they may ultimately prove of benefit to the Craft at large.

THE APPROACHING FESTIVAL OF THE BOYS' SCHOOL.

THIS years' Festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys promises to be the most important gathering ever held in connection with either of our Masonic Institutions, as no doubt this year's total of subscriptions will prove to be the largest ever collected. The Committee of the Boys' School, we believe, by the all but unanimous opinion of the subscribers, decided conditionally on an enlargement of the School buildings at Wood Green by the erection of a Preparatory School, a course which will enable them to take on an additional number of pupils, and thus relieve the pressing wants of some of the many candidates who periodically present themselves at the half-yearly elections of the School. It having been determined that a special Fund should be raised to meet the cost of building this proposed Preparatory School, especial advantages, in the way of extra votes, were offered, to induce old supporters of the Institution to come forward and contribute towards the enlargement, and this plan has met with such a hearty response as will lead to the collection of—it is said—as much as £20,000 during the year, a very large portion of which will, as we have explained, be specially contributed for the purpose of enlarging the premises at Wood Green. That such a result should even be anticipated goes far to prove the popularity of the proposed enlargement. It cannot be said that all of this extra support is given because additional votes are offered; that might influence some few, but, on the other hand, it must be borne in mind that unless a brother sympathised with the Institution, no amount of enticement, in the form of extra votes, would induce him to subscribe. We may, therefore, safely assume that the Boys' School is in favour with a very large majority of English Craftsmen.

It has fallen to our lot on many occasions in the past to lament the inability of the Committee to take on a larger proportion of the lads deemed eligible for the benefits of the School, and there is very little doubt but that the great number of boys who have had to be returned as unsuccessful after the various elections has made an impression on the minds of many who have come forward during the present year to assist in providing more accommodation at the School. We only hope they may live to see the fruits of their generosity; and that the lads who will be taken on in consequence of the extra exertions now being made will appreciate the help afforded them, and, should opportunity occur, will do their best to maintain those who, in years to come, may seek the benefits they in their youth secured.

So far we have only spoken of the support it is anticipated will be given to the School itself, during the present year; no mention has yet been made of the men who are working to bring about the grand result expected. The Stewards of the year seem to us to deserve especial consideration on the present occasion. They are entrusted with a work which will remain, not merely for a year or two, but as long as the School exists; they are called upon to demonstrate the practicability, or otherwise, of maintaining the enlargement that has been agreed upon, and in proportion to the success they achieve may be reckoned the success which will attend the first few years, at least, of the Preparatory School. If, as we believe will be the case, the Stewards are this year enabled to collect sufficient to pay the extreme cost of the addition, it will ever remain a monument to their exertions, and will stand as an example for future generations to follow.

At the present time there are something over 360 brethren enrolled on the list of Stewards, and from these some enthusiastic Craftsmen say no less a sum than £20,000 is to be received! A large amount, it must be admitted, but one which it is possible for them to raise under the special circumstances which can be associated with this year's appeal. The holding of the Festival at the Crystal Palace on one of the days set apart for the Handel Celebration, may influence some few at least to assist who would not otherwise do so, and if strangers to our Charities can be induced to attend these meetings, it usually happens that a donation follows, if not at once, at least some short time afterwards.

The Right Hon. Viscount Holmesdale has a good Province at his back, and we look forward to seeing him and the Craftsmen of Kent heading the list, so far as the Provinces are concerned, with a total which will do credit, not only to the county from which it emanates, the worthy brother at its head, the Institution for which it is subscribed, but to Freemasonry in general.

In conclusion, we can but tender our best wishes for success to all who are associated with the Festival, and express a fervent hope it may realise as grand a total as Brother Binckes, the energetic Secretary—to whom much of the credit of the work is due—and other friends desire. In any case we feel sure that the donations will prove beyond a doubt that the Boys' School has the sympathy of the entire English Brotherhood.

FREEMASONRY IN RUSSIA.

IT was the Grand Lodge of London that established the first Lodge at Moscow in 1731, under the reign of the Empress Anna Ivanowa, and for the purpose of constituting others in the country, patented John Phillips as Provincial Grand Master. Freemasonry made but very little progress in Russia, and it was not until the year 1771 that the first Lodge was organised at St. Petersburg. In 1772 the Grand Lodge of London delivered to John Yelaguine, a Senator and Privy Councillor, a patent constituting him Provincial Grand Master for Russia. After his death he was succeeded by the Count Roman Woronsow. At this time the Lodges increased to a greater extent in St. Petersburg than in any other portion of the empire, the membership belonging in great part to the nobility. Under the reign of Catherine II. it would have been difficult to find in St. Petersburg a noble who was not a Freemason. It is true that the Empress often manifested some chagrin when, after finding but a single chamberlain in attendance upon her, she inquired for such and such a one as she missed, and was told that he had gone to the Lodge; but, nevertheless, she was well enough disposed towards the Fraternity to have her son, Paul I., initiated immediately upon his coming of age. The high degrees, and, above all, those of the system of Strict Observance, invaded the territory of Russia about the year 1775, and it lacked nothing of creating the same disorders it had everywhere caused. Many of the Lodges, professing only the English Rite, had no desire to accept this Templar parady, which was principally the cause of the interdiction of Freemasonry in 1790.

The system of Strict Observance, under the patronage and Grand Mastership of the Duke of Brunswick, had organised at St. Petersburg a power, under the title of Grand Lodge of the Order of Vladimir, which assumed to direct all the Lodges of Russia, and thus came in conflict with a great many operative Lodges which practised only the English Rite. In few countries did Masonry rise to the splendour it attained under Catherine II., for the Masonic temples at St. Petersburg were indeed palaces. Many beneficial establishments were also founded by her directions and under her patronage. During the sojourn of the King of Sweden, Gustavus III., in St. Petersburg, who in his own country was Grand Master of the Templar Lodges (which is virtually the same as Strict Observance), the Lodges of this system gave him the most superb feasts, at which he assisted with his whole suite, composed entirely of Freemasons.

Notwithstanding these brilliant appearances, the true Freemasonry, so far from making corresponding progress in Russia, had, on the contrary, degenerated to such a point that the Empress Catherine not only openly expressed her discontent thereat to the gentlemen of her court, in respect to the abuses which were being introduced, but published a pamphlet very severe in its strictures against Freemasons. It has been translated into French and German, a copy of which we have seen in London. Such was the situation of Masonry in Russia upon the accession of Paul I. to the throne in 1796. Although he had been initiated, this prince had allowed himself to be prevailed upon by intriguants, who obtained of him an interdiction of Masonic assemblies, as well as those of all other secret societies, under the most severe penalties. Subsequently, regarding the Order of the Knights Templar as the true possessors of Masonic science, he desired to re-establish that Order, and, in fact, to bring about this pretended regeneration of Masonry, he had, on 16th December 1798, taken the title of Grand Master of the Order of Malta, as a means of more effectually accomplishing his purpose. Afterwards, however, he renounced the project, which was, in fact, impracticable.

To Paul I., assassinated 23rd March 1801, succeeded Alexander I. At once he confirmed the interdiction pronounced by his predeceesor against Freemasonry, but in 1803, consequent upon a circumstantial report which he ordered to be made upon the subject and principles of Freemasonry, he revoked it, and was himself initiated. We have been unable to ascertain the exact date of the ceremony, the place or the Lodge in which it occurred, nor can we assert that he ever took part in the labours of the Fraternity; no record can be found. It is pretty well known, however, that he always exhibited a certain degree of mistrust in the Institution. Russian-like.

The Grand Lodge Vladimir, which, with the Operative Lodges under its jurisdiction, was suspended by the interdiction pronounced by Paul I., after 1803 awoke to renewed activity. From that time the struggle recommenced. The Lodges of the English system established a new Masonic code for all the Lodges of Russia; but not wishing to recognise certain privileges that the Grand Lodge Vladimir revindicated, and to withdraw for ever from the systematic domination of it, he founded, in 1815, another Grand Lodge, under the title of "Astrea," of which the rules and regulations were approved by the government, and which from that time directed all the Lodges in Russia. Though Freemasonry has not greatly extended, it appears that it afforded some unquiet to the Emperor Alexander; for, by an ukase, dated 21st August 1821, he interdicted anew all Masonic assemblies, and in the autograph rescript that he addressed to his minister charged with the execution of this ukase, he based his promulgation upon the assertion that the Lodges occupied themselves with the discussion of political subjects. None of the successors of Alexander have revoked this prohibition. Further comment upon Masonry in Russia would be superfluous. Masonry remains under a ban of this interdiction, and in the present condition of its political affairs, we are very much inclined to think that it will continue so to remain, until, by some stupendous power, the light of humanity will be permitted to shine in their hearts, or as we should say, of their government.—Hebrew Leader.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS.

A MEETING of the General Committee was held on Thursday, when Col. Creaton was elected chairman. There were several hundred brethren present on the occasion, this being the day for the election of the House Committee, as to which a keen contest was expected. The arrangements for the proper distribution of the voting papers were utterly inadequate for the occasion, although the Committee sat in the Zetland, and the papers were distributed in the ante room.

Before proceeding with the business on the agenda paper the chairman announced that Bros. Moon, Clutton and Thrupp had withdrawn their names from the list of candidates for election on the House Committee. He added that the poll would remain open till 5 p.m., and that all Governors in the room at that hour (when the door would be shut) would be entitled to receive their voting papers.

The minutes of the General Committee, of the Quarterly Court April, were read and verified, and those of the House Committee were read for information. The following votes, recommended by the House Committee, were then agreed to:—£11 for a new skylight, £150 for additional fire mains and hydrants, and £20 for providing extra instruction to qualify Selina Sharp for a superior position. The chairman was authorised to sign cheques for the quarter's salaries and wages. Nine petitions were submitted, one of which was deferred consideration till next meeting.

The following is the result of the polling for the successful candidates for election on the House and Audit Committees:—

HOUSE COMMITTEE.

Joshua Nunn	254
F. Richardson	253
J. H. Matthews...	251
E. C. Mather	250
H. A. Dubois	249
Lt.-Col. J. Peters	249
Peter de Lande Long	248
E. Letchworth	246
J. A. Rucker	246
Robert Grey	245
Charles Hammerton	244
Edgar Bowyer	236

AUDIT COMMITTEE.

H. Dicketts	255
H. C. Levander	255
W. Roebuck	247
H. Venn	244
J. C. Chancellor	234
Jas. Cutbush	229
W. Bailey	224
T. Kingston	221
E. C. Davies	125

Bro. Tattersball thanked the brethren who had given him their support, and regretted that they had not been strong enough to secure his election.

Votes of thanks to the scrutineers and the chairman closed the proceedings.

A meeting of the North London Chapter of Improvement was held on the 31st May, at the Canonbury Tavern, St. Mary's Road, Islington. Comps. Gregory Z., Higgins H., Sheffield (Scribe E.) J., Brasted S.N., George P.S. At the next convocation the sum of £5 5s will be ballotted for as a Life Subscription to one of the Masonic Institutions. Companion T. C. Edmonds ably fulfils the duties of Preceptor.

We have been requested to announce that in future the members of the William Preston Lodge of Instruction will hold their weekly meetings at the St. Andrew's Tavern, George Street, Baker Street, W. Brother G. Coop acts as Preceptor, and the meetings are held every Friday evening, at eight o'clock.

INTERESTING MASONRY.

FROM THE KEYSTONE.

MASONRY ought to be interesting, deeply interesting, and if it isn't it is somebody's fault. Primarily, we mean interesting to its members; but it ought also to have certain elements of interest for every thoughtful, cultured man. Let us observe what these elements are, and how they present themselves.

If any organisation in the world possesses a raison d'etre, Freemasonry does. It is founded upon a rock—the rock of ideas. It owes its glory not to its originator, for historically he is unknown, although traditionally King Solomon is credited with the Craft's origin. No man can claim, or has truly claimed, to be the father of Freemasonry. Like Melchisedeck, it is without father, having neither beginning of days, nor end of life. All that we know about it in this respect is, that it was, it is, and it shall be. That is sufficient. We cannot peer through the mists of the past, we cannot divine the far off future. The present only is ours, and it is with reference to it that we shall now speak. We assert and maintain that Masonry now is, and should be intensely interesting to the average man and Freemason. We will give our reasons.

Freemasonry engages, enlarges, and elevates the human mind. The ideas upon which it is founded are large ideas. It is the teacher of truth, and of truth of momentous importance. This truth is threefold—Faith in God, Hope in Immortality, and Charity to the Craft, aye, and to the world. Where can you find nobler or farther reaching ideas than these? They reach back to the Grand Architect of the Universe—they cover our present relations with our fellows, and they reach forward to the infinite hereafter. Who can find, or imagine, nobler, purer ideas? They fill the mind, purify the morals, and elevate the soul. Therein, certainly, Freemasonry is interesting. But there are other relations in which the Craft comes home to us.

Freemasonry gratifies the heaven-implanted instinct of man for social and convivial enjoyment. While it lifts him up to the high level of divine truth, it does not continuously keep him breathing the rarified atmosphere of that region, but it lowers him again to his natural level, and then generously stoops to him, and comes in and sups with him. While the Craft is at Labour it is dispensing the truth, lifting up the brethren to the high level of the triune virtues of Faith, Hope, and Charity; but when the Craft is at refreshment, it condescendingly stoops to our every-day life, shares our joys with us, and heightens them by lending them a charm that we do not hesitate to say cannot be duplicated outside of Freemasonry. There is more intense satisfaction and pleasure to be derived from association with our brethren around the festive board, than in any other association known among men. It is innocent, it is recreative, it is enlivening It is intensely interesting. And yet, in spite of these facts—for they are facts—some brethren fail to continuously take an interest in Freemasonry. Somehow or other their Lodge cannot hold their attention. For a certain percentage of absentees one can readily account—old age, illness, absence from home, and permanent removal, will together account for, say one-eighth of the members being absent from their places. But where are the other seven-eighths? If the truth were known, we are inclined to think that fully one-half of these, for some cause or other, failed to find the Lodge and its proceedings interesting. Men will go where they are interested, and ordinarily they will not go where dullness reigns supreme; and they are not greatly to be blamed. What if Freemasonry does theoretically teach inspiring ideas, if it practically teaches nothing, in consequence of there being no work? How can dullness be interesting? The Lodge without work is in a deplorable plight, and somebody is to blame. Primarily, its members are to blame. Their inaction has produced the complete stagnation that is so appalling. When even the few that are diligent in their attendance fulfil their duty to the Lodge, it cannot fail to improve in all of its interests, and thereby prove interesting to its members generally, who will soon learn of the revival in their Lodge.

A Grand Visitation to a Lodge by the Grand Officers is an unfailing source of interest to a very large number of members and visitors, and on this account that Grand Master who makes the largest number of Grand Visitations, is doing what in the nature of things is the best that can be done by him for the prosperity of the Craft. It is a mistake to suppose that those brethren who are drawn out by these special occasions fail afterwards to appear again until a similar inducement attracts them. A certain percentage are continuous in their attendance from the time that they awaken out of their lethargy. Whatever therefore tends legitimately to fill the Lodge-room with brethren, contributes to the welfare of the Brotherhood. Freemasonry in action is always interesting. Of course if there be but a score, or a dozen, in the Lodge-room, and no work and nothing to supply its place, it is dull, supremely dull. Such things ought not to be. In itself Freemasonry possesses elements of the deepest interest, and if it fails to be interesting to the brethren, it is because those very brethren have failed themselves in the performance of their duty to their Lodge. We trust the time will come when there shall be no indifferent Masons, and no idle Lodges, and right sure we are that then there will be no body of the Craft in which the exemplification of Freemasonry will not be interesting.

The members of the Loughborough Lodge of Instruction intend, at their meeting on Monday evening next, at the Cambria Tavern, Cambria Road, Loughborough Junction, S.W., to discuss several points of Brother James Stevens's Lecture on the Ritual and Working of the First Degree. Brethren from other Lodges will be welcomed. Bro. Stevens has promised to attend on the occasion.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF STAFFORDSHIRE.

THE annual meeting of the above Lodge was held, for the first time at Burton-on-Trent, on Tuesday, the 22nd ult., and was attended by upwards of two hundred members of the Craft, a number which has not hitherto been exceeded at more than three or four gatherings of Masons in Staffordshire. The preparations for the meeting were made by Bro. Capt. J. A. Bindley W.M., and the Officers of the Abbey Lodge, No. 624, whose ordinary place of meeting is the Masonic Hall, Union-street, Burton; but on this occasion the gathering was so large that it was found necessary to assemble at St. Paul's Institute, where the business of the Provincial Grand Lodge was transacted, and the banquet was held. The arrangements throughout reflected the greatest possible credit on Bro. J. A. Bindley W.M. whose efforts were admirably seconded by Bro. Bailey P.M., the zealous corresponding Steward, as well as by the other Stewards, Bros. Dr. Lowe and Martin Past Masters, W. Swinnerton, J. Toon and G. Lathbury. Nothing could exceed the courtesy and kindness of the Burton brethren towards their numerous visitors. The Abbey Lodge was opened by Bro. Bindley at 12·30, when the following, with about forty other members, were present:—W. Walters I.P.M. and P.G.W. Derbyshire, W. J. Gothard P.P.G.S.W., P.M.'s Dr. W. G. Lowe, Thomas Martin, R. Auty, J. H. Meredith P.P.G.R., C. Graham P.P.S.G.W., S. Briggs P.P.G.S.D., E. Starey P.P.J.G.W., R. B. Robinson P.P.S.G.D., Alfred Hooper, S.D., Percy Evershed J.W., the Rev. W. F. Drury Chaplain, W. H. Bailey P.M. Secretary, M. L. Nicholas J.D., John Wood I.G., R. Harrison Organist, R. Lane and F. Carter Tylers, Bro. Stirk acting as S.D.

Soon after the opening of the Abbey Lodge brethren from all parts of the Province began to arrive. Bro. Major G. S. Tudor R.W.P.G.M., accompanied by Bro. Col. Foster Gough S.B. of Grand Lodge and D.P.G.M., Bro. Frank James P.D.G.M., and other Officers and members of the P.G. Lodge were admitted, Bro. Tudor taking the chair. Amongst those who signed the Tyler's book besides the brethren named above were the following Officers of the Provincial Grand Lodge:—Bros. A. L. Broad J.W., J. Bodenham Treasurer, W. Cartwright Secretary, John Fowler S.D., C. Bunting J.D., T. E. Fowke D.C., C. W. Graham A.D.C., F. Mountford Organist, J. W. H. Mackenzie Pursuivant, E. Piddock Sword Bearer, Thomas H. Bathbone Standard Bearer, W. H. Bailey, T. Martin, W. G. Lowe, W. Swinnerton and G. Lathbury Stewards, H. Bagguley Tyler, and a large number of Past Officers, members, and visitors.

Bro. Cartwright, the Provincial Grand Secretary, having read the notice convening the present meeting, and the minutes of meetings previously held at Rugeley and Stafford, and the latter having been confirmed, the Provincial Grand Master and his Deputy were saluted in Masonic form. It was explained by Bro. Cartwright that the committee appointed at the Stafford meeting had taken into consideration the resolutions of the various Lodges with regard to the proposed Revision of the Book of Constitutions, and the same had been forwarded to the Grand Lodge of England. Bro. Tudor mentioned that Lord Holmesdale, P.G.M. Kent, had invited him to a meeting of Provincial Grand Masters, which was to be held on the 30th instant, to consider the subject, and he should endeavour to attend. Letters of apology were announced from Bro. Sir A. Bass, M.P., Bro. Allsopp, and others, who were absent from various causes. The roll having been called over, showing that every Lodge in the Province was represented, Bro. Bodenham produced the Treasurer's account, from which it appeared that the expenditure during the past year had been £165 1s 10d, and that there was a balance in hand of £107 13s 8d. The statement of the Treasurer was adopted. Bro. Bodenham expressed his desire to resign his position as Treasurer, and proposed as his successor Bro. Thomas Wood, Staffordshire Knot Lodge, No. 726, which was seconded by Bro. Cartwright and carried. Bro. James Senior, P.M. Staffordshire Knot Lodge, thanked the brethren for the honour conferred on Bro. Wood, who was unable, through illness, to be present that day. Bro. Tudor said he was sure they would all regret that Bro. Bodenham had retired, and he proposed a vote of thanks to him for the admirable manner in which he had for many years discharged the duties of Treasurer. Bro. Gough, who seconded the proposition, also testified to the zeal and fidelity of Bro. Bodenham, the Provincial Grand Treasurer. The motion was very heartily and unanimously approved, and Bro. Bodenham acknowledged the compliment paid him. He observed that he had felt lately that he had not been able to exercise that energy in the office which he did in the earlier flush of his zeal, but this arose from want of time and not from any disinclination to serve the Province in the best way he could. He had completed a register of the members of the Province, which he hoped would be kept up every year. In Staffordshire much work had been divided between the Treasurer and Secretary. The arrangements which had been made had answered well, and, with such an excellent Secretary as Bro. Cartwright, would work satisfactorily and save the Province the cost of a paid Secretary. He (Bro. Bodenham) hoped he might see his successor improve the position of the Provincial Grand Lodge financially. The R.W. Prov. Grand Master then referred to the recent appointment of Bro. Gough as Grand Standard Bearer of England, which he said was an honour conferred not only on Bro. Gough, but on the Province of Staffordshire. He had long been anxious to see Bro. Gough in office in the Grand Lodge, and if the Prince of Wales should always make such a good selection when appointing his Officers he could not but give great satisfaction to the Craft. He (Bro. Tudor) acknowledged the great assistance he had received from Bro. Gough since he had been a Mason. The R.W. P.G.M. then made the following appointments to office in the Provincial Grand Lodge for the ensuing year:—

Bro. Capt. J. A. Bindley	...	624	G. Senior Warden
J. H. Parkes	...	482	G. Junior Warden
Thomas Ashworth	...	418	G. Registrar
Rev. J. Seddons	...	526	G. Chaplains
Rev. W. F. Drury	...	624

William Cartwright ...	460	G. Secretary
James Senior	726	G. Senior Deacon
E. Roberts	637	G. Junior Deacon
S. Clapp	662	G. Sup. of Works
T. E. Fowke	726	G. Director of Cerem.
W. H. Bucknall	460	G. Asst. Dir. of Cer.
William Ormson	1520	G. Sword Bearer
F. Mountford	460	G. Organist
F. M. Julian	451	G. Pursuivant
G. Sharpe	696	G. Standard Bearer

Brother Henry Baggnley, 460, was re-elected Tyler.

Brother Cartwright considered that in consequence of the great increase of Lodges and Provincial Grand Lodge business it was desirable to appoint an Assistant Tyler for the Province. He proposed the appointment of Bro. R. Tomlinson, 627, as Assistant Tyler. This was seconded by Bro. Bodenham and carried.

The Stewards appointed were Bros. W. H. Bailey, Dr. Lowe, T. C. Martin, J. Tong, W. Swinnerton, and G. Lathbury.

The P.G. Lodge then adjourned for Divine service at St. Paul's Church, on the opposite side of the road, a procession being marshalled by Bro. Fowke, which included four youths, who were sons of Masons, carrying the volume of the Sacred Law. Prayers were read by the Rev. J. Addenbrooke, who is not a member of the Fraternity; the first lesson by the Rev. W. F. Drury P.G. Chaplain, and the second lesson by the Rev. W. Randall P.P.G. Chaplain. Bro. the Rev. J. Seddon, P.G. Chaplain, preached an appropriate sermon from Psalm viii. 3 and 4—"When I consider Thy heavens, the work of Thy fingers, the moon and the stars, which Thou hast ordained; what is man, that Thou art mindful of him; and the son of man, that Thou visiteth him?" The service was earnest and impressive, and included the singing of an anthem, "God is the Spirit" (Dr. Bennett) by the church choir. On the return of the brethren to the Lodge, business was resumed. Bro. Gough moved a vote of thanks to Rev. J. Seddons, the esteemed Chaplain, for the excellent discourse with which he had favoured them that afternoon. One of the first principles of Masonry was to be mindful of the wants of others, and, in accordance with the invariable custom of the P. Grand Lodge, he should propose that from the collection in the church (which on that occasion was something over £12) £5 5s should be contributed towards the debt in connection with their Chaplain's church and £5 5s to the Vicar of St. Paul's, who had allowed the use of his beautiful church for Divine service. Bro. the Rev. W. Randall seconded the proposition, remarking that Bro. Seddon's excellent discourse furnished abundant matter for the most soaring Mason to exercise his faculties upon. The Vicar of St. Paul's, who was not a Mason, had kindly allowed them the use of his church, and in dedicating the receipts of that day in the manner proposed by Bro. Gough they were carrying out the practice and principles of Freemasonry. The proposition having been carried, Bro. Cartwright said they had all heard, with regret, of the resignation of the P.G. Treasurer, and he certainly thought the duties Bro. Bodenham had performed entitled him to some mark of their esteem. He (Bro. Cartwright) begged to propose that as Bro. Bodenham was a Past Senior Warden and Past Treasurer of the Province of Staffordshire, a jewel combining the representation of those two offices be presented to him out of the funds of the Province. This was seconded by Bro. Gough, and carried. Bro. Bodenham having acknowledged the compliment conveyed in the resolution, the P. G. Lodge was closed by Bro. Tudor, and the Abbey Lodge by Bro. Bindley.

At the banquet which followed, which was of an excellent description, and was attended by most of the brethren who had been at Lodge, Bro. Tudor R.W.P.G.M. presided, the Wardens' chairs being occupied by Bros. Bindley and Parkes. The loyal toasts were followed by that of the M.W. Pro G.M. (the Earl of Carnarvon), the V.W.D.G.M. (the Earl of Lathom), and the Officers of Grand Lodge Past and Present. Bro. Tudor, in proposing the latter (which was received with applause), said that was the first time since he had been connected with Masonry that any Staffordshire brother had been called upon to respond as Officer of the Grand Lodge of England. Bro. Gough, in acknowledging the toast, said he highly appreciated the honour which had been recently conferred upon the Province of Staffordshire by the appointment which the Prince of Wales as Grand Master had thought fit to make. He received the appointment of G.S.B. as an honour which he had done for the Province. He did not wish to arrogate to himself any personal merits which had brought that honour upon the Province, and he acknowledged with gratitude the kind, generous, and unsolicited aid which he had received from the R.W.P.G.M. He assured them that the toast was no mere formal one. In P.G. Lodge an appointment entailed duties rather in posse than in esse; but in the Grand Lodge there was real hard work to be done, and the Officers had no sinecure. He had received within the last three days four summonses to attend meetings with regard to the government of the Craft to be held in London during the next few weeks. He next pointed out the chief characteristics of the principal Officers of the Grand Lodge, and said those who served under them were actuated by the same spirit of zeal for the interests of Freemasonry. Bro. Bindley, in proposing the health of the Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master, said he considered a very great honour had been conferred upon Burton and upon the Abbey Lodge by the visit of the Provincial Grand Lodge. The Burton brethren entertained the most hearty good wishes towards the Visitors, and would have made even more ample provision for their comfort if they had known that there would have been such a large gathering. He was sure that the Prov. Grand Master had won the gratitude of all Masons who had served under him. They were quite aware of the sacrifices which Bro. Tudor made, both with regard to his health, and those comforts and conveniences which conduced to health, rather than forego anything which was calculated to give satisfaction to the Lodges under his rule. He (Bro. Bindley) was grateful for the honour which had been conferred on the Abbey Lodge by appointing as Prov. Grand Chaplain one of the finest men in Burton, whether considered as a Churchman, as a Volunteer, or as one who was ever ready to assist and comfort the distressed—namely, Bro. Drury, the worthy Chaplain of the Abbey Lodge. The toast was drank with great cordiality. The R.W. Prov. Grand Master acknowledged the toast, and urged the necessity of doing all they could to promote an increase of funds to the Masonic Charities. Since the Prince of Wales took the office of Grand Master of English Freemasons there had been an increase of five hundred Lodges, and it required more votes now to get a candidate into a Masonic Institution than it did formerly. Twelve years ago Staffordshire Masons sent £500 to the Masonic Charities in London, but that was nothing like what would have been sent if all the brethren had done their best. If the brethren all knew what good was being done by those Masonic Charities, there would be more money raised for them than there was at the present time. He reminded them that votes acquired by individual members died with them, but votes of Lodges were held in perpetuity, and he urged that it was important to support the Staffordshire Charitable Association as a means of increasing the voting power of the Province. Some years ago it only took 1000 or 1200 votes to secure the election of a candidate for one of the Charitable Institutions; but now it required between 2000 and 3000. He (Brother Tudor) then proposed the health of Bro. Foster Gough as D.P.G.M., and the other Provincial Officers Past and Present. Bro. Gough in responding spoke of the great harmony prevailing in the Lodges in the Province, and offered a few words of advice to Masters of Lodges past and present. Bro. Parkes also responded. Bro. Bodenham, in an appropriate speech, proposed the toast of the R.W.P.G. Masters of Adjoining Provinces and the Officers of their respective P.G. Lodges, for whom Bro. Coulson, P.G.S.W. Derbyshire, responded. At this stage of the proceedings the exigencies of the railway service rendered it necessary for a large number of the brethren, including the P.G.M., to leave, and for the remainder of the evening Bro. Bindley presided. Bro. the Rev. W. F. Drury proposed the Worshipful Masters of the Lodges in the Province. Bro. Bindley, in a neat and appropriate address, acknowledged the toast, mentioning, in the course of his remarks, that no body of men could be more loyal than were the members of the Abbey Lodge to their W. Master. Bro. the Rev. W. Randall submitted the toast of the Visitors, for whom Bro. A. O. Worthington responded. Bro. Bindley, in presenting the toast of the Masonic Charities, acknowledged with a feeling of pleasure the support which he received, not only from his own Lodge, but from the Province, when he went as a Steward to the Masonic School for Girls. He thanked those brethren who had supported him, and reminded them that there was another charity which needed all the help it could get, and nothing would give him more pleasure than to subscribe £5 5s this year towards the fund which would be raised at the forthcoming Festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys. Brother Frederick Binckes, the Secretary, who had arrived but a short time previously from Yarmouth, where he had been attending a Masonic meeting on Monday night, responded to the toast. He thanked them for the cordiality with which he had been received. He said he had a peculiar affection for Staffordshire. He had known and visited that Province while it was under Colonel Vernon, than whom a more able Grand Master never presided over any Lodge, also while it was under Bro. Harvey, again under that excellent brother the Earl of Shrewsbury, who was prematurely cut off from amongst them, and now they had as Prov. Grand Master one of the most sincere and hearty Masons in the world. He (Bro. Binckes) was one of those who, having laboured in the Masonic vineyard, did not like to lose old associations. He mentioned that the probationary School in connection with the Institution for Boys had been inaugurated, and, having acknowledged the generous aid rendered by Staffordshire to the Masonic Charities, he appealed to the members of the Craft present not to relax their efforts on behalf of those excellent Institutions; his remarks being well received. The Prov. Grand Stewards, and the Tyler's toast were the last on the list. The speeches were interspersed with some capital glee singing by members of the choir of St. Paul's Church.

It is always a gratifying duty for us to refer to any recognition of courtesy and zeal in the fulfilment of the every-day duties of life by those who minister to our comforts. We have frequently had occasion to speak of the unwearying attention displayed by Bro. John Baker, the manager of the Cock Tavern, at Highbury Corner. On Friday next, a presentation will be made, at a complimentary dinner which will be given, under the presidency of Alfred W. Strond, Esq., a gentlemen well known to Islingtonians. Bros. E. Woodman (Secretary) and R. P. Forge (Treasurer), of the Testimonial Committee, have exerted themselves most strenuously to carry out the wishes of the many friends of both Mr. and Mrs. John Baker, and we anticipate the meeting of Friday next will be one of the most successful ever celebrated at this popular establishment.

A literary outcome of the International Fisheries Exhibition is the appearance of The Fish Trade Gazette and National Fisheries Record, conducted and written by practical men, and intended to be the representative of the innumerable industrial and manufacturing interests connected with fishing and fisheries all over the world.

LODGE OF UNION, No. 414.

AN emergency meeting was held at the Masonic Hall, Reading, on Tuesday, 29th May, when there were present Bros. Ferguson W.M., Mount I.P.M. and Treasurer, Wheeler jun. S.W., Withers J.W., Parry Secretary, Witherington S.D., Webb Steward acting as J.D., Martin M.C., Tirbutt Organist, Butler I.G., Hemmings Tyler. P.M.'s Bros. Stephens, Bradley, Hounslow; also Bros. Stubington, Dodd, Tubbs, Sydenham, Sherwood, Hawkes, Walters, Wellman, Hayward, Millar, Rayner, George. Visitors—Bros. Ridley S.W. 414, Featherstone 591, &c. Lodge was opened in the first degree. Mr. Joseph Milton was initiated into Freemasonry. Bros. Wellman and Millar, candidates for passing to the second degree, were examined and entrusted; they then retired. Lodge was opened in the second degree, and Bros. Wellman and Millar were re-admitted and passed by the W.M. to the degree of Fellow Craft; both the ceremonies were correctly performed. Bro. Tubbs, a candidate for raising to the third degree, proved his proficiency in the former degrees, and was entrusted. Lodge was opened in the third degree, and Bro. Tubbs on re-admission was raised to the sublime degree of M.M. The ceremony was performed by the I.P.M., Bro. Mount, in his usual correct and impressive manner; the effect was considerably heightened by the instrumental and vocal accompaniment, under the able direction of Bro. Tirbutt Organist. The W.M. resumed the chair, and closed to the first degree, when, the business being ended, Lodge was closed, and adjourned till October next.

EWELL LODGE, No. 1851.

THE installation meeting of this Lodge was held at the Sun Hotel, Kingston-on-Thames, on Saturday, 26th May, when a large gathering of visitors and members assembled. The Lodge being opened in due form, Mr. J. O'Connell was initiated into Ancient Free and Accepted Masonry in an impressive manner by Bro. W. H. Paddle W.M., who was ably supported by his Officers. Bro. Paddle then installed his successor, Brother George Moss P.M. 1201 into the chair of K.S., the work being carried out perfectly. The W.M. then proceeded to invest his Officers, as follow:—Bros. Paddle I.P.M., Dunkley S.W., Room J.W., Baber P.P.G.D. Surrey Treasurer, Saul P.M. 1201 Secretary, Davis P.M. S.D., Sibley J.D., Rush I.G., Youens M.C., Dupree and Wedgwood Stewards. Bro. Bowler was again invested as Tyler. After the installation, the W.M. presented to Brother Paddle, in the name of the Lodge, a jewel set with brilliants, as a mark of esteem for the unwearying kindness and energy displayed by him during two successive years of office as W.M. An enjoyable dinner was afterwards served in the Hotel, by Bros. Bond and Frayling, the energetic hosts, and the evening was enlivened by some good vocal and instrumental music, to which the visitors materially contributed. In responding to the toast of the health of the Provincial Grand Officers for Surrey, Bro. Chas. Greenwood P.G.S.B. Prov. G.S.W., testified to the pleasure he felt at the prosperity of the Ewell Lodge, at the consecration of which he had assisted, and referred to the members of the Lodge (Bros. Taylor and Paddle) who held Provincial Grand rank, as a proof of the discrimination of the Prov. Grand Master in recognising merit in the various brethren under his jurisdiction; this he (Bro. Greenwood) stated to be no easy matter for decision among so many good Masons in the Province. It was stated during the meeting that a warrant had been granted for a Chapter in connection with the Ewell Lodge, and that the same would shortly be consecrated. Among the visitors were Bros. Lloyd W.M. 1201, Bigley P.M. 1298, Cooper J.W. 1298, Walker 858, Mayfield 1298, Davieson 1541, Foreman 1201, Potter P.M. 11, Mills P.M. 49, Williams 1261, Haras 1694, Cooke 1694, Bygrave 1658, Rush 1201, Poore 1949. The members present were Bros. Paddle, Moss, Taylor, Baber, Saul, Dunkley, Room, Parker, Sibley, Rush, Youens, Greenwood P.G.S.B. Prov. G.S.W., Ackerman, Dupree, Wedgwood, Cooke, O'Connell, Poore, and Pochin.

New Concord Lodge of Instruction, No 813.—The usual meeting of this successful Lodge was held on Wednesday last, at the Jolly Farmer's, Southgate-road. The chair was occupied by Bro. Dixie, who was supported by Bros. Weeden S.W., Jones J.W., P.M. Cusworth Preceptor, Perl Secretary, Lone S.D., Gadsby J.D., Smith I.G., Mauger, Ockelford, Schuler, Allsopp, Laughton, Flack, Powell, Killick, Ashton, and others. The previous minutes having been read and confirmed, the W.M. proceeded to work the initiation ceremony, Bro. Powell acting as candidate. Bro. Flack having proved himself efficient to be passed, the Lodge was opened in the second degree, and ceremony of passing rehearsed, Bro. Flack acting as candidate. Lodge was closed in the second degree. The W.M. having risen for the necessary number of times, and Bro. Weeden having been elected to occupy the position of W.M. at the ensuing meeting, Lodge was closed and adjourned until Wednesday, 6th June, when Bro. P.M. Cusworth will work the ceremony of installation. Brethren are cordially invited to attend, at eight p.m. precisely. After Lodge was closed, a little harmony was indulged in by the brethren, who afterwards separated, having spent an instructive and pleasant evening.

Brixton Lodge of Instruction, No 1949.—A meeting was held on Tuesday evening, the 22nd inst., at Bro. Mock's, Prince Regent, Dulwich-road, East Brixton. Bros. Thomas Edmondston P.M. 1658 and 1669 as W.M., Richard Poore S.W., Hakin P.M. J.W., E. A. Francis Preceptor, C. H. Phillips Treasurer, Hy. M. Williams Secretary, J. Jones S.D., H. Hooper I.G., J. Harling P.M., George Moss P.M., W. H. Williams P.M., I. G. Norrington, R. R. Johnstone, G. Monk, Croucher, Pooler, Hudepohl, Routledge. After preliminaries, Lodge was advanced to the third degree, and the ceremony of raising was rehearsed, with Bro. Richardson as candidate. Lodge was regularly closed to the first degree. The Audit Committee (Bros. Knight, Poore and Richardson, appointed at the previous meeting), brought up their accounts for the past year, which show a small balance in the hands of the Treasurer. The books and accounts had been most carefully and accurately kept by the Secretary, Bro. Williams, while every voucher required by the Auditors had been produced by the Treasurer, Bro. Phillips. The Audit Committee considered that the best thanks of the Lodge were due to those brethren for their zeal and ability in conducting the financial business of the Lodge. Resolutions were unanimously carried, conveying the thanks of the Lodge, for their very efficient and valuable services since the formation of the Lodge, and re-electing them in their several offices for the ensuing year. To the following brethren:—Bros. E. A. Francis and Thomas Poore P.M., &c. as Joint Preceptors, Bro. C. A. Phillips as Treasurer, and to Bro. Hy. M. Williams as Secretary. It was duly proposed, seconded and resolved unanimously—"That Bro. C. H. Phillips Treasurer, and Bro. Hy. M. Williams Secretary, having rendered essential service to the Lodge, first as Founders, and secondly as Treasurer and Secretary respectively, be and are hereby (in accordance with Bye-law No. 13) elected Honorary Members of the Lodge, with all privileges." Further resolutions were passed thanking the Auditors for their services; to the host, Bro. Monk, for providing every necessary for the comfort of the Lodge, for the care of the Lodge furniture, and his help at the musical portions of the meetings. On the motion of the W.M., and seconded by Brother Williams Secretary, Bro. George Norrington, Royal Leopold Lodge, No. 1669, was unanimously elected a member. Hearty good wishes having been expressed, Lodge was closed in due form, in peace and harmony, and adjourned. The brethren subsequently met for refreshment, when the usual Loyal and Masonic toasts were eloquently given from the chair, and enthusiastically received by the brethren. Bros. Johnstone, Monk, and Williams contributed to the excellent musical programme of the evening.

ROSICRUCIAN SOCIETY.

York College.—On Wednesday, the 23rd ult., the summer meeting of this College was held in the Masonic Hall, Great George Street, Leeds. There were present R.W. Fras. T. B. Whytehead Chief Adept of the Province, W. Rowley acting Suffragan, T. W. Holmes Prov. G. Secretary, C. L. Mason Celebrant, J. Moocks as P.A., J. L. Atherton as S.A., R. W. Moore T.A., C. Pallister Q.A., T. Trevor C. of N., G. Ayre as G.T., and Rev. W.C. Lukis as Deputy. The M.C. having having been formed, a ballot was taken for a number of candidates, and the following, who were in attendance were accepted and received: Bros. C. D. H. Drury, M.D., P.M. 1379, Monckman P.M. 1018, Brown 1611, Craig P.M. 304, Tomlinson P.M. 304, and Waddington 304. The ceremony having been completed, the Celebrant called upon Fra. Moore, who delivered a most interesting address upon the old Templar Preceptory, of Temple Hirst, near Selby. Going into minute details as to the Order, and especially with reference to the condition of the Temple Hirst Preceptory at the time of its suppression. A vote of thanks was passed to Fra. Moore, and the paper was ordered to be printed. Fra. Rev. W. C. Lukis made some interesting remarks respecting an ancient Templar seal lately found near Temple Hirst, and in the possession of Bro. T. W. Tew D.P.G.M. West Yorkshire; and he acceded to the request of the meeting that his remarks should be embodied in the publication of Fra. Moore's paper. The report of the Bye-laws' Committee was read and adopted. It was arranged that, if possible, the next meeting should be held at Rievault Abbey, on the Saturday in the third week in August. Several proposals of candidates were made, and the M.C. was dissolved. The fratres subsequently met at tea, under the presidency of the Celebrant, and a very pleasant evening was spent in the discussion of various subjects connected with Masonry in its varied branches.

A YEAR OF LIFEBOAT WORK.

EVERY year brings a fresh list of terrible shipwrecks and disastrous collisions, resulting too frequently in a fearful loss of life; but, while deploring that such is the case, we can turn with satisfaction to the splendid and successful efforts made for rescuing the shipwrecked sailor from a watery grave on our dangerous shores. First and foremost in this noble work is the Royal National Lifeboat Institution, which last year saved, by means of its boats, no less than 884 poor fellows, who otherwise would most probably have perished. In addition to this the Board of Trade and the Coastguard have, by the use of the rocket apparatus, rescued a number of lives. It is remarked in the Report of the Institution just published, that it might have been hoped that increased skill in navigation, the substitution of steam colliers for the sailing craft of former years, and increased sobriety among our merchant seamen, would have greatly diminished the number of wrecks and of lives lost, at least on our own coasts. But, whilst those changes may have occasioned some diminution, the increase of collisions on our crowded sea thoroughfares and other causes, have made up the average amount, and the courage and capacity of our Lifeboat men have been called into requisition as often, if not more frequently, than in previous years.

During the past year, at the suggestion of the Chairman, Edward Birkbeck, Esq., M.P., the Committee made an exception to their general rule to confine their attention exclusively to the work of the Institution, hoping to diminish the loss of life amongst that industrious and invaluable class of the population, our coast fishermen, on whom the Institution is often dependent to man its Lifeboats.

Some twelve years ago, the Institution was mainly instrumental in the introduction of decked fishing-boats on the east coast of Scotland, which improvement has undoubtedly been the means of saving many lives. And now again the Committee, hoping to be indirectly the means of saving many more, are trying to induce all fishermen whose vocation is prosecuted at long distances from the land, to provide themselves with reliable Aneroid Barometers, which when far at sea, beyond sight of land, shall forewarn them of the approaching storm, and enable them to run for shelter ere overtaken by it.

Through the liberality of the manufacturers of these valuable instruments, who provide them for this special object at greatly reduced price, the Institution, by offering them to owners or masters of fishing vessels at only half that amount, has already—through the kind exertions of its honorary Secretaries—induced the large number of 1050 to purchase them, so that there is great reason to hope they may in future be looked on as an indispensable article of equipment for every long-distance fishing boat.

Since the last Annual Report nine new Lifeboats have been provided, for the following stations:—England and Wales—Lincolnshire, Mablethorpe; Norfolk, Mundesley; Sussex, Winchelsea; Cornwall, Looe and Porthleven; Somersetshire, Weston-super-mare; Glamorganshire, Swansea; Carnarvonshire, Llanaelhaiarn. Ireland—Donegal, Aranmore Island.

The number of Lifeboats now under the management of the Institution is Two hundred and seventy-three, and their services during each month of the past year were as follows:—January, 13 launches, 15 lives and 1 vessel saved; February, 12 launches, 15 lives; March, 26 launches, 100 lives and 3 vessels; April, 26 launches, 77 lives and 3 vessels; May, June and July, 10 launches, 33 lives and 4 vessels; August, 15 launches, 54 lives and 1 vessel; September, 9 launches, 57 lives and 1 vessel; October, 19 launches, 75 lives and 3 vessels; November, 47 launches, 171 lives and 3 vessels; December, 54 launches, 144 lives and 4 vessels. Total number of Lifeboat launches during the year, 231; lives saved, 741; and vessels saved, 28.

In addition to these services, 143 lives were saved from shipwreck by shore-boats and other means, which had received rewards from the Institution, making the total of 884 lives rescued last year. The number of lives saved during the fifty-nine years from the establishment of the Institution, to the end of the year 1882, either by its Lifeboats or by special exertions for which it has granted rewards, is 29,608.

Every one must feel that the saving of so many thousand lives from drowning shows the absolute necessity of maintaining and extending the benevolent work of the National Lifeboat Institution, which has thus been productive of such noble results.

Unfortunately the brave services of the Lifeboat crews during the past year have not been performed without some loss of life, as if to remind their countrymen of the dangerous character of the Lifeboat work, three fatal accidents having occurred to the boats in that period, resulting in the loss altogether of six lives. In each of these cases the poor men left a widow and children unprovided for, but the Committee granted to each widow the sum of £200, or £1200 in all towards the local subscriptions raised on behalf of the widows and orphans.

Last year 11 Silver Medals and Clasps, 19 Votes of Thanks inscribed on vellum, and £3,144 were granted as rewards for saving lives. Since the establishment of the Institution it has voted 96 Gold Medals, 962 Silver Medals, and £74,800 in pecuniary rewards for saving life from shipwreck.

During the year 1882 the receipts of the Institution, in donations, subscriptions, and dividends, amounted to £43,117, while the expenditure was £36,746. As usual the items of receipt and expenditure are fully detailed in the financial statement, which has been audited by Mr. Lovelock, public accountant.

The valuable and earnest co-operation afforded by the Local Branch Committees, and their Honorary Secretaries is suitably acknowledged, and so are several munificent contributions to the Institution.

Since the Report was read to the Annual Meeting, the Committee have had regretfully to record the death of their late Secretary, Mr. Richard Lewis, who had held that importaht office, to the great advantage of the Institution, for the long period of thirty-three years.

After rendering a faithful account of the great trust the public has for nearly sixty years confided to them, the Committee refer with pardonable satisfaction to the fact that the organisation of the Institution was never more complete and active than at the present time, which has prompted them afresh, and with unshaken confidence, to appeal for continued and increasing support to an Institution which, with God's blessing, has been, and is productive of such manifestly gratifying results in the cause of humanity.

We trust that appeal will meet with a hearty and liberal response, and we will only add that contributions are received for the Lifeboat Institution by all the London and country bankers, and by the Secretary, Charles Dibdin, Esq., F.R.G.S., 14 John Street, Adelphi, London.

7. REPORT OF THE BOARD OF GENERAL PURPOSES.

To the United Grand Lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons of England.

The Board of General Purposes have to report as follows:—

A fire having unfortunately occurred at Freemasons' Hall on the 3rd May, causing considerable damage to the premises, the Board have received the subjoined Report thereon from their Premises Committee, which they have carefully considered, and believing the recommendations therein to be for the welfare and convenience of the Craft, they submit them for the favourable consideration of Grand Lodge.

REPORT OF PREMISES COMMITTEE TO BOARD OF GENERAL PURPOSES, dated 22nd May 1883:—

The Committee deeply regret to have to report that a disastrous fire occurred at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen Street, on the night of Thursday the 3rd instant, resulting in the almost entire destruction of the time-honoured "Temple" in which the meetings of Grand Lodge have taken place for over a hundred years—together with the valuable pictures of Past Grand Masters contained therein, as also a great part of the furniture and other fittings; the statue of His late Royal Highness the Duke of Sussex being likewise greatly damaged by fire and smoke.

The old Hall now destroyed was commenced in the year 1775, its foundation stone being laid on the 1st May in that year by the Right Hon. Lord Petre—then Grand Master, and the Hall being formally dedicated to Masonry on the 23rd May on the following year by the same Grand Master, since which time Grand Lodge has uninterruptedly held its meetings within its walls.

The premises were, as a matter of course, fully insured, but the Craft have to deplore the loss of many articles which cannot be replaced, amongst them the "Ark of the Covenant" wherein were deposited the Articles of Union between the two Grand Lodges on the occasion of their being united on the 27th of December 1813, the documents themselves being, however, fortunately preserved in another part of the Building.

The Committee are glad to be able to report that by great exertions the fire was confined to the Temple itself, and that the other portions of the building containing the Archives, Offices, Lodge and Board Rooms, &c., are entirely uninjured.

The Committee have lost no time in directing their most serious consideration to the steps necessary to be forthwith taken for the reconstruction of the Hall and for taking advantage of the opportunity thus offering for considerably enlarging the accommodation for the meetings of Grand Lodge, which has of late years been quite insufficient, owing to the great increase in the number of members.

The Committee have, in the first place, given careful attention to suggestions already made for the removal of Grand Lodge premises to the Thames Embankment, and in result they are of opinion that many financial and other reasons render such a step impracticable, as not only is involved the question of constructing, at an immense cost, a building sufficiently large to contain a Grand Hall, Ante Rooms, Board Rooms, Offices for the Executive, Lodge Rooms for Private Lodges, &c., &c., and this on one of the most expensive sites in London, where the difficulty as to obtaining foundations is unusually great, and where a freehold is unobtainable except at a price far beyond the resources of Grand Lodge, but also the almost equally prominent question of the Freemasons' Tavern, the goodwill of which is, of course, dependent mainly on the continued existence of the Hall on its present site—while, on the suggested situation no accommodation would exist for dining purposes at Grand Festivals and for Private Lodge Meetings.

The Committee consequently requested the Grand Superintendent of Works to consider and report to them his opinion as to the best possible plan of carrying out such works of renovation and enlargement as will afford accommodation for the attendance in Grand Lodge of at least 1,500 brethren, being about double the number now able to be present therein.

The Grand Superintendent of Works, in his report thereon, states that to renew the premises destroyed, on the old lines, would be a simple matter, and, looking at the insurance, of little expense to the Craft; but he submits the following scheme for doubling the present accommodation, viz., to add to the area occupied by the Hall just destroyed, the present great Dining Hall of Freemasons' Tavern (the two now running side by side), and that by due and equitable arrangements with Messrs. Spiers and Pond Limited, the lessees of the Tavern, and with Mr. Bacon, the lessee of Bacon's Hotel, adjoining the Tavern, the necessary substituted accommodation for a new Dining Hall, and for improved kitchen accommodation for the Tavern, should be provided on the site of the Hotel.

The Grand Superintendent of Works points out that at the present stage it is impracticable to submit any accurate estimate of the cost of the above-mentioned scheme; but he is of opinion that the total expense would probably not exceed from £30,000 to £35,000 beyond what would be received from the Insurance Companies and from

Messrs. Spiers and Pond as a contribution for improvements especially affecting their premises.

The Committee may here mention that at the present moment Grand Lodge possesses some £21,000 in the Funds, and that its nett average income, as shown in the Report of a Special Committee to Grand Lodge on the 7th June last was, to that date, about £4,000 a year, since which time £800 a year has been alienated as a permanent grant from Grand Lodge to the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, which, with the interest on the £21,000 (on its expenditure for the rebuilding) would henceforth have to be deducted, leaving a future nett average income of some £2,500 a year.

The balance of from £10,000 to £15,000 required to carry out the scheme now submitted, could no doubt be raised without difficulty, and the Committee have therefore no hesitation in submitting the scheme for the favourable consideration of the Board, fully believing that should it be adopted by Grand Lodge, it will possess premises worthy of the present flourishing state of the Craft in England.

The Board have also to report that, a fresh catalogue of the Library and Museum of Grand Lodge being shortly about to be prepared, donations of Masonic Works, &c., will be gladly received by the Library Committee.

(Signed) JOHN B. MONCKTON,
President.

FREEMASONS' HALL, LONDON, W.C.
22nd May 1883.

At the meeting of the Board held on Tuesday, the 22nd of May, after the ordinary business had been disposed of, the following resolution was passed, viz.:—

> The members of the Board unanimously desire to express their sense of the ability and courtesy uniformly displayed on all occasions by the V.W. Brother Sir John B. Monckton, as President of the Board of General Purposes.

(Signed) FRANK GREEN, J.G.D.,
Vice President.

To the Report is subjoined a statement of the Grand Lodge Accounts at the last Meeting of the Finance Committee, held on Friday, the 18th May last, shewing a Balance in the Bank of England of £4,444 16s 5d, and in the hands of the Grand Secretary for Petty Cash £75, and for Servants' Wages £100.

The President will move—

1st. That the report be received and entered on the minutes.

2nd. That the recommendations of the Board of General Purposes with reference to the suggestion of the reconstruction and enlargement of the Premises at Freemasons' Hall be referred back to the Board for execution, under the direction of the Grand Superintendent of Works.

8. The Annual Report of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for Aged Freemasons and Widows of Freemasons, dated the 18th of May 1883, including an alteration and addition to Rule 25, will be laid before Grand Lodge.

9. Appeal of Brother Alexander Dimant, P.M. New Zealand Pacific Lodge, No. 517, Wellington, New Zealand, against sentence of expulsion from Masonry, passed on him by the District Grand Lodge of Wellington, North Island, New Zealand, on 21st December 1882.

N.B.—The papers relating to these appeals will be in the Grand Secretary's office till the meeting of Grand Lodge, and open for the inspection of the Brethren during office hours.

10. NOTICES OF MOTION.

(1) By W. Brother RAYNHAM W. STUART P.G.D.:—

> "Having regard to the recent destruction of the Temple by fire, and the great increase of Masons, that it be referred to a Committee in conjunction with Members of the Board of General Purposes to consider the advisability of rebuilding the Temple, or of acquiring a site to erect thereon a Hall capable of meeting the wants of the Order."

(2) By W. Brother CHARLES JOHN PERCEVAL P.M. No. 1607:—

> "That it is of very great importance for the wellbeing of our honourable Order that the reconsideration of the Revision of the Book of Constitutions as presented to Grand Lodge in September last, together with the amendments and alterations suggested by the various Provinces, Lodges and Brethren, should be submitted to Grand Lodge at the Quarterly Communication in September next, or at such earlier date as it may please the Most Worshipful the Grand Master to appoint a Special Grand Lodge for that purpose."

(3) By V.W. Brother Lieut.-Col. JOHN CREATON, Past Grand Treasurer:—

> "That the sum of £70 be given from the Fund of General Purposes; that the money be placed in the hands of the Secretary of the 'Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution for Aged Freemasons and Widows of Freemasons,' to supply the residents of the Institution at Croydon with coals during the winter season."

The Revised Book of Constitutions: Critically Considered, and Compared with the Old Edition. London: Simpkin, Marshall & Co., 4 Stationers' Hall Court, E.C. Sent on receipt of stamps. One Shilling, by W. W. Morgan, Freemason's Chronicle Office, Belvidere Works, Hermes Hill, Pentonville, London, N.—(ADVT).

The oldest Freemason is constantly turning up, and he is each time a different person. There seems to have been some difficulty in establishing the title of the latest claimant, but still it has been done. Mr. John Armstrong, the clerk of St. James's Church, Guernsey, who is now in his ninety-third year, was made a Freemason in Guernsey in the early part of the year 1815. Somehow or other, however, his name was never registered in the Register of the Grand Lodge of England. Perhaps this arose from some confusion which existed at that time, scarcely two years after the Union of the Ancients and Moderns which made the United Grand Lodge of England. Mr. Armstrong consequently has enjoyed the privileges of local membership for nearly seventy years, without being the possessor of the customary Grand Lodge certificate. But this omission has at length been rectified through the energetic action of Mr. William De Jersey, who has had a lengthened correspondence with Grand Secretary on the subject. Clear proof of the initiation, &c., having been furnished, the certificate was granted, and was handed to Mr. Armstrong the week before last. Is there any older Freemason?—Evening News.

REBUILDING OF THE TEMPLE.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Allow me to say a few words on the above-named subject.

I see by the agenda paper for the business of Grand Lodge to be holden on the 6th June, a scheme will be presented for the rebuilding and enlargement of the Temple.

Without going fully into the question at this early stage, I can venture an opinion that no scheme will be satisfactory to members of the Craft in London, as well as in the Provinces, which does not embrace ample accommodation for those who have to transact Masonic business with the Executive of Grand Lodge, or with the Secretaries of our valued and increasing Charitable Institutions, whose offices are under the same roof, more particularly about the election times.

At present, there is not a room, not even a desk, where a Mason can write a letter, or a room in which to wait the arrival of any person you may have appointed to meet.

I will add an opinion that the so-called "strong room," in which our valuable books and documents are kept, is little better than a sham—and that everything in it would be destroyed if a serious fire occurred.

Trusting that ample opportunity will be given for the consideration of these very important matters, and necessarily large expenditure,

I am, Sir,

Yours fraternally,

HENRY SMITH P.M.

St. John's, Wakefield, 29th May 1883.

REVISION OF THE BOOK OF CONSTITUTIONS.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—There appears to be a disposition in some places to run counter to the old proverb, "Leave well alone," and to revolutionise old customs. Not long since we had a new Grand Treasurer elected, as was said at the time that Grand Lodge might bestow the Purple on a worthy brother of forty year's Masonic service, and I am told that it is intended to fill this office annually in future.

Now, may I ask, is there any reason why other offices hitherto looked upon as permanent should not share the same fate if these changes be for the good of Freemasonry in general and Grand Lodge in particular? The following offices have been held by the same worthy brethren from the dates I annex to the present time—and the two former have received the additional honour of the rank of Past Grand Warden.

Grand Director of Ceremonies	1860
Grand Registrar	1862
President Board of General Purposes	1874

Now that it is in contemplation to revise the Book of Constitutions, a fitting opportunity is afforded to lay down the law that these offices be held for a period of, say, three or five years at most.

I am, Dear Sir and Brother,

Yours fraternally.

HIRAM.

ELECTION FOR COMMITTEE OF MANAGEMENT.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I see, by the agenda paper for the next Quarterly Communication, that an election will take place for a portion of the R.M.B.I. Committee of Management, by the nomination of a brother who, whilst a member of it, some time since, rarely attended any of its meetings, and who, being a member of the Finance Committee also, did not attend once during the year. Strange to say, the brother nominating this apathatic brother is not even a subscriber of 5s a year to the Institution. Again, the nominee is about to change his residence from London to Bournemouth; this would still further militate against his chance of attendance. Now, the brethren who have been in during the year have attended very punctually, and are nominated for re-election. May I therefore ask the Craft to vote for those nominated by Bro. Perceval, and to leave the aforesaid brother where he left the business of the R.M.B.I., when he had the honour of election,—alone.

Yours fraternally,

P.M.

30th May 1883.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—Those who have given these remedies a fair trial freely admit that they inherently possess every property suitable for healing and removing eruptions, ulcerations, fistulas, abscesses, sores, bad legs, gathered breasts, and all disorders of the glandular system. When carefully rubbed in the Ointment relaxes the swollen muscles, diminishes inflammation, assuages pain, and even alleviates dangerous maladies which may have lasted for months, or even years. Holloway's excellent preparations are effective singly, resistless in combination, and have been recommended by grateful patients to be resorted to as alteratives when all other means of regaining health has failed. Their action is temperate, not violent or reducing.

MARK MASONRY.

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF MALTA.

THE annual meeting of this Provincial Grand Lodge was held at the Masonic Hall, Tunis, on the 26th ult. The Kingston Lodge, No. 222, was opened by its W.M. R.W. Bro. A. Broadley P.D.G.M.M. of the Mediterranean, with a satisfactory attendance of Officers and brethren, and two candidates were duly advanced to the M.M.M. Degree. Prov. Grand Lodge was then opened by R.W. Bro. T. F. Reade, Her Britannic Majesty's Consul General at Tunis, P.G.M. of North Africa, assisted by several of his Grand Officers and his D.P.G.M. Dr. A. Perini. The P.G.M., in a short address, congratulated the brethren on the continued and increased prosperity of the Mark Degree in North Africa. He attributed this mainly to the untiring zeal of his friend and predecessor, Bro. Broadley, who always found time amidst his private pursuits, however pressing (and they knew how hard worked he was), to fulfil his duties to the Craft. Since Provincial Grand Lodge last met Brother Broadley had twice visited Egypt, and the flourishing Lodge of Egypt, No. 311, at Cairo, was a memorial of his handiwork. The zeal of the Egyptian brethren was beyond all praise, and he was pleased that the M.W.G.M. had conferred distinguished honours on his old friend, Bro. Borg, M.W.G.M. of Egypt, and on Captain Williams-Freeman, who had worked the Lodge since its opening. He hoped soon to see a prosperous Lodge in Alexandria. He felt bound before sitting down to publicly thank Bro. Broadley for his invaluable assistance, and he trusted that when his term of office ended, that brother might be induced to succeed him and carry out in the new Province of North Africa the same work as would ever render memorable his administration as head of the old Province of Tunis and Malta.

The following Provincial Grand Officers were then appointed:—

Bro. Captain Williams-Freeman 311	Deputy G.M.
Col. Sir W. N. D. Pringle, Bart., 311	G. Senior Warden
Jules Emile Geissel 222	G. Junior Warden
E. T. Rogers Bey 311	G. Master Overseer
E. A. Perkins 254	G. Senior Overseer
J. Wilson Bey 311	G. Junior Overseer
The Hon. M. Napier 311	G. Registrar
A. Andrey 222	G. Secretary
Captain Pemmington 311	G. Asst. Secretary
Commandant Coyne 222	G. D. of C.
R. C. Waller Bey 311	G. Sup. of Works
N. D'Amico 254	G. Senior Deacon
Quartermaster H. McKinnon 311	G. Junior Deacon
Michel 222	G. Standard Bearer
Prince 311	G. Sword Bearer
Commander W. M. Bridger, R.N., 222	G. Organist
Flak 222	G. Inner Guard
Audemar, Goodall, Angelica	G. Stewards
A. Villareale 222	G. Tyler.

Bro. Broadley briefly acknowledged the complimentary remarks of Bro. Reade, who then closed the Provincial Grand Lodge, and retired. The Kingston Lodge was then closed in ancient form.

The Summer Half-Yearly Communication of the Grand Lodge of Mark Master Masons of England and Wales and the Colonies and Dependencies of the British Crown will be held at Freemasons' Tavern, Great Queen Street, on Tuesday next, the 5th inst., under the presidency of the Right Hon. Lord Henniker, Most Worshipful Grand Mark Master.

A very satisfactory meeting of the Walpole M.M.M. Lodge, No. 92, was held at Norwich, on Monday last; twelve candidates were advanced to the degree on this occasion.

Among the brethren nominated for election to the Board of General Purposes, on Wednesday next, is Bro. G. P. Festa, W.M. No. 1900, who we trust will receive such support as will secure for him a place on the Board. During the short time the Montagu Guest Lodge (the one of which Bro. Festa is now W. Master) has been in existence, he has made for it a reputation for charitable proclivities which doubtless will continue as long as it exists. One of the youngest on the list of London Lodges, it has achieved such distinction as will justify the members of Grand Lodge in conferring the honour of membership of the Board of General Purposes on one of its number, and should Bro. Festa's candidature prove successful, it will hold out an inducement to other young Masons to endeavour to obtain similar distinction. We are among those who consider the few offices in the gift of the brethren of Grand Lodge should be conferred on those who distinguish themselves in the advancement of the Order, and under such circumstances Bro. Festa is justly entitled to some recognition at the hands of his fellows.

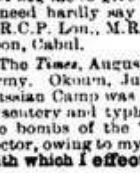
JOPPA CHAPTER, No. 188.

THE regular convocation of this excellent working Chapter was held on the 28th ult., at the Albion Tavern, Aldergate-street. Companions H. P. Isaac M.E.Z., E. P. Albert as H., A. Henochsberg J., M. J. Emanuel P.Z. S.E., J. Lazarus P.Z. Treasurer, J. W. Dewsnap S.N., P.Z.'s M. Lazarus, L. Lazarus, W. Littaur, H. M. Levy, P. Dickinson. Visitor—B. Lyon 1055. The Chapter was opened, and the minutes were confirmed. A letter was read from Comp. I. P. Cohen H., stating that through ill health he should not be able if elected, to fill the chair; he begged therefore most respectfully to resign it. The election for Principals then took place, and Comp. L. Lazarus P.Z. of this Chapter was elected M.E.Z., A. Henochsberg H., W. Littaur P.Z. J.; Comp. J. Lazarus P.Z. was re-elected Treasurer, Emanuel P.Z. S.E., Da Silva S.N., Dewsnap P.S., Goddard Janitor. Comp. Levy proposed, and L. Lazarus seconded, that a sum of two guineas be given from the funds of the Chapter for the purpose of presenting the retiring Z. with a testimonial for his excellent working, not only as M.E.Z., but in every office he has filled. Comp. Lazarus proposed that honorary membership be accorded to Comp. Littaur, who had on three occasions filled the chair of M.E.Z. This was seconded by Comp. L. Lazarus, and the M.E.Z. supplemented their remarks by a suggestion that this compliment should be paid Comp. Littaur so that every privilege the Chapter could confer should be given, a record of this resolution to be inscribed on vellum, and presented to him by the Chapter as a birthday gift. Comp. Levy proposed, and Comp. Albert seconded, that a letter of condolence be sent to Comp. Baum on a recent bereavement—the death of his respected father. The Chapter was then closed until the last Monday in November, and the Companions sat down to a simple and récherché banquet, provided by Comp. Jennings, and superintended by Comp. M. Silver. The M.E.Z. proposed the usual Loyal and R.A. toasts. Companion Lazarus said it was with great pleasure he had to propose the toast of the M.E.Z., whose excellent working had given them every satisfaction. The toast having been ably responded to, Comp Lyon replied as a Visitor. With the toast of the P.Z.'s was coupled the name of Comp. L. Lazarus P.Z. and M.E.Z. elect who, in response, said it was a great pleasure to him to be re-elected to the chair again. It was an honour he was unprepared for, but having done his duty in the past, he hoped to their satisfaction, he would strive to do so in the future. The toast of the H. and J. was given, and regret expressed at the resignation of Comp. I. P. Cohen H. Comp. Henochsberg responded. The Z., in proposing the toast of the Treasurer, Comp. J. Lazarus, and the S.E., Comp. M. J. Emanuel P.Z., paid a just compliment to their exertions for the Chapter; he was pleased to see the former Companion had returned to his native land. Comp. Dewsnap, in a very able speech, returned thanks for the Junior Officers. The Janitor's toast was then given. Comps. Henochsberg, Dickinson, Isaac, and Hobinstock contributed to the harmony.

Loughborough Lodge of Instruction, No. 22.—On Monday evening, 28th May, at the Cambria Tavern, Cambria Road, Loughborough Junction. Present—Bros. Bellis W.M., Littlewood S.W., Westley J.W., McDiarmaid Treasurer, McKinley Secretary, Banks S.D., McKinley J.D., Johnson Preceptor, Hampton I.G. P.M.'s Bros. Stevens, Sherring, Perkins, Powell, Reid. After preliminaries, the three ceremonies were rehearsed. Bro. Littlewood was elected to the chair for Monday next. One ceremony only will be rehearsed, afterwards a general discussion will ensue on the merits of Brother Stevens's Lecture, as delivered on 30th April and 21st May. Masons are warmly invited to take part in this discussion.



Percy Lodge of Instruction, No. 198.—Held at Bro Langdale's, Jolly Farmers', Southgate-road, N., Saturday, 26th May. Bros. Dixie W.M., Gribbell S.W., Venning J.W., Weeden S.D., Wolf J.D., Jones I.G., Lorkin Preceptor, and Galer Secretary; also Bros. Brasted, Houghton, Manger, Lone, and Liedman. Lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. Bro. Brasted offered himself as candidate, and the ceremony of passing was rehearsed. Brother Manger answered the questions leading to the third degree, but was not entrusted. Lodge was opened in the third, and the ceremony of raising was rehearsed, with the traditional history, Bro. Lowe being the candidate. The W.M. worked the second section of the lecture, assisted by Bro. Gribbell. Lodge was resumed, and Bro. Liedman, of the Urban Lodge, No. 1196, was unanimously elected a member. Bro. Gribbell was elected W.M. for the ensuing fortnight. All Masonic business being ended, the Lodge was closed in ancient form and adjourned to Saturday, the 2nd of June, when the members of the Strong Man Lodge of Instruction will work the Fifteen Sections. We trust that the brethren will muster numerously, so as to give the Visitors a hearty reception.

Eboracum Lodge, No. 1611.—An emergency meeting of this Lodge was held on Monday, the 21st ult., at the Queen's Hotel, York, when there was a very large muster, upwards of forty brethren being present. The object of the meeting was the initiation into Masonry of the Lord Mayor of York (Alderman Thomas Varry), who had been proposed in emergency by letter in view of the visit of the Grand Master to York in July, when the foundation-stone of the new Institute will be laid by him with Masonic honours. The W.M. Bro. Millington presided, and was supported by P.M.'s Bros. T. B. Whytehead, J. S. Cumberland, C. G. Padel, J. T. Seller, G. Simpson, George Balmford, J. Blenkin S.W., and most of the other Officers. Several visiting brethren were also present from 236, 1991, and from other parts of the Province. The ballot having been taken, the candidate was introduced and duly initiated, Bros. T. B. Whytehead acting as W.M. and J. S. Cumberland as conducting Deacon, and also giving the Charge. After the close of Lodge, the brethren and their guests met at supper, after which the usual toast list was duly honoured. In responding to the toast of his health the Lord Mayor said he was pleased to have become a member of an Order so ancient and of such high standing, and he should be very glad to place the Guildhall and Mansion House at the service of the Order on the occasion of the visit of the Grand Master. A most harmonious evening was spent, enlivened by songs and glees.

Kingsland Lodge of Instruction, No. 1693.—A meeting of this Lodge was held at the Canonbury Tavern, on Monday last, when the following brethren were present:—Marks W.M., Galer S.W., Brock J.W., Killick jun. Treasurer, Collingridge Sec., Dixie S.D., Jones J.D., Wolf I.G., Kidder acting Preceptor; also Bros. Osborn, Western, Bevan, Killick sen., and Clark. Lodge was opened in the first degree, and the minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed. The ceremony of initiation was rehearsed, Brother Bevan acting as candidate. Bro. Clark, a candidate for passing, was examined and entrusted. Lodge was opened in the second degree, and the ceremony rehearsed. Lodge was opened in the third degree, and closed in the third and second degrees. Bro. Galer will preside on Monday, 4th June.

FREEMAN'S CHLORODYNE.

The Original and only true.

HUNDREDS of Medical Practitioners testify to its marvellous efficacy in immediately relieving and rapidly curing Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Neuralgia, Spasms, Colic, Whooping Cough, and all Nerve Pains. It acts like a charm in Diarrhœa, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery. It rapidly relieves pain, from whatever cause, soothes and strengthens the system under exhausting diseases, and gives quiet and refreshing sleep.

Lord Chancellor Selborne, Lord Justice James, Lord Justice Mellish decided in favour of FREEMAN'S ORIGINAL CHLORODYNE, and against Brown and Davenport, compelling them to pay all costs in the suits. See Times of July 24th, 1873. Bottles 1s 1½d, 2s 9d, 4s 6d, 11s, and 20s. Sold by all Chemists.

TESTIMONIALS.—Head Quarter Staff, Cabul, May 31st, 1880. Mr. R. Freeman, Dear Sir,—It is with much pleasure I am able to state that your Chlorodyne has been of special service to me in alleviating the wearisome spasms of Asthma, which is here existent in an aggravated form. Many of my patients now come and beg me to give them that medicine which always relieves them, and which I need hardly say is your Chlorodyne. Yours faithfully, CHARLES W. OWEN, L.R.C.P. Lon., M.R.C.S. Eng., the Divisional Head Quarter Staff and Civil Surgeon, Cabul.

The Times, August 13th, 1877. From our own Correspondent with the Russian Army. Okoum, July 25th, 1877. The want of sanitary arrangements in the Russian Camp was dreadful, and had we remained there a few weeks longer, dysentery and typhoid fever would have played more havoc in our ranks than the bombs of the Turks. I myself acquired an unenviable reputation as a doctor, owing to my being provided with a small bottle of CHLORODYNE, with which I effected miraculous cures.

UNITED GRAND LODGE.

THE Quarterly Communication of Wednesday last was held in the large Hall of the Freemasons' Tavern, under the presidency of the Right Hon. the Earl of Carnarvon Pro Grand Master, who was supported by a large assembly of the Present and Past Grand Officers, and representatives of various Lodges; altogether there being nearly 700 brethren present. After Grand Lodge had been opened, Col. Shadwell H. Clerke, Grand Secretary, read the minutes of last Quarterly Communication, which were confirmed. After the minutes referring to the Grand Festival of the 25th April had been read, a question was raised by Bro. Hugh D. Sandeman, Past Grand Master of Bengal, as to the precedence of brethren appointed as Grand Officers on that occasion. Brother Sandeman pointed out what he conceived to be an important error in the printed Proceedings of Grand Lodge. If this error arose unintentionally, he had nothing more to say on the matter; but if otherwise, he thought an encroachment on the powers and privileges of Grand Lodge was involved. He alluded to page 37 of the printed Proceedings of United Grand Lodge, where the sequence of appointments for the year does not follow that laid down in the Book of Constitutions as regards the degree of rank. He would therefore ask that the record be so arranged as to name the Grand Officers according to the rank assigned to them under the Constitutional law, which having been passed by Grand Lodge can be modified or altered by Grand Lodge only.

Brother Æneas J. McIntyre, Q.C., Grand Registrar, said, that the only question before Grand Lodge was whether the printed minutes recorded accurately what took place in Grand Lodge at Grand Festival on the 25th of April, and it was perfectly clear that the minutes did correctly state what took place. The order in which the Most Worshipful Grand Master appointed the Grand Officers for the year was without doubt within the exercise of his prerogative. He could appoint his Officers, and give rank as he pleased; that had been acted upon again and again by former Grand Masters. It was acted upon before the Union; it had been acted upon since the Union; and the various positions and distinctions of Officers have varied from time to time at the will of the Grand Master for the time being; instead, therefore, of its being an encroachment upon the powers of Grand Lodge, to oppose such actions would be an attempt to encroach upon the rights, privileges, and prerogative of the Grand Master. Bro. McIntyre then gave some very lengthy illustrations in support of the views he had enunciated, and respectfully submitted to, and asked the M.W. Grand Master in the chair to rule that, inasmuch as the Grand Master, the fountain of honour, had the bestowal of the offices, and the appointment of the officers, he also had the right to put them in that position and in that rank which he thought proper. Bro. McIntyre ventured to represent that as the only question that could be raised in Grand Lodge was whether the printed report of what took place upon the last occasion represented what was done by the authority and order of the Grand Master, and that inasmuch as what was done was correctly represented by the minutes, and was within the Grand Master's province, they had no power to interfere.

These views were strongly opposed by W. Bro. H. H. Locke, who said that though his work in Masonry had been done many thousand miles away, and though he was but a stranger amongst them, he could but raise his voice, with all earnestness, in emphatic protest against the astounding doctrine just laid down by the Grand Registrar—a doctrine as he conceived not only unsound and dangerous in itself, but contrary to our Constitutions, and such as would be as distasteful to the Grand Master himself as to the brethren at large when they hear of it.

After some remarks from Bros. James Stevens and the Rev. R. J. Simpson, the Most Worshipful Grand Master in the Chair said he had purposely allowed this discussion upon a point of order to run on, being anxious that a question on which Grand Lodge felt strongly should not seem to be in any way curtailed by any act from the chair; before, however, he gave his ruling on the subject, he wished to say a word with regard to the remarks that fell from the worthy brother who spoke last but one. He always deprecated—in Grand Lodge especially—the introduction of anything like personal feeling, which diminishes from the fairness and harmony with which all their questions ought to be discussed, and which imparts a personal and acrid tone into our debates. He thought it his duty to notice that that brother went far beyond his province when he suggested there was any intention to make use of the Grand Master in order to stifle debate or to bring forward the name of the prerogative in order to diminish the just rights and liberties of Grand Lodge. Such a course of proceeding could only proceed from, or at least through, the brethren who sit in the chair which he now occupied. It had been his good fortune often during the last two years to sit in that chair, and he thought no brother in Grand Lodge could say that he had ever been guilty of wishing to curtail the liberties of Grand Lodge, or even by word, hint or innuendo to bias unfairly the course of discussion. That was a charge lightly and not very discreetly thrown out, therefore he would say no more on the subject. The question which he had to consider, or which rather he had had to consider within the last five minutes, was this—what is the question which has been raised in this way, and on which a decision is needed? The worthy brother who raised it did not justify or formulate it in any way. It was, as he gathered it, a general and uneasy feeling in G. Lodge that something had been done which in some degree militated against their ancient rights. Now, if that be so, he was the last man living who would wish to prevent the full and free discussion of it; but it must not be discussed hastily, by a side wind, in an indirect manner, and without full knowledge on the part of all who attend that discussion of what they have to discuss. Therefore, if it rested on that ground alone, he should feel it incumbent on him, not only for the sake of Grand Lodge, whose interests are as dear to him as they are to any person in the room, but for the sake of the Grand Master, whose chair he had the honour to fill, and whose position and prerogative he was bound to guard as far as they were to be guarded, he should feel it incumbent to prevent discussion arising hastily or indirectly on an important question. If there be such a feeling in Grand Lodge as that he had indicated, and if a fair case could be made out, let it be discussed fully and fairly at the first convenient opportunity. There were two questions, as he gathered. First of all the question of precedence itself, whether the precedence adopted upon the last occasion was right or wrong? secondly, who has the right to authorise the precedence and to vary it? Those, as he understood, were the two questions which had been indirectly raised. It would be for Grand Lodge, on a future day, if it thought well, to consider them. Meanwhile, he considered it right to rule that the only question before him was whether the Proceedings of the last Grand Lodge had been correctly reported; and, believing that they were correctly reported, and, having heard nothing to the contrary, he must for the present put aside the question, leaving it to be discussed at some future day. The question, therefore, is that the minutes of the Grand Festival of the 25th April be confirmed. The motion was then carried nem con.

The next business, the Election of Members on the Board of General Purposes, resulted as follows:—

	No. of Votes
John Laurence Mather, 1471	294
Ralph Clutton, 631	231
Giovanni Paulo Festa, 1900	222
Albert Escott, 1593	219
Charles Atkins, 27	217
William Smallpiece, 1895	190
George Pitt-Lewis, 46	189
Alfred Meadows, M.D., 4	183
William Bristow, G.S.L.	182
Thomas Hastings Miller, 907	177
Sharon Grote Turner, 2	154
William H Dean, 417	153
George Henry Hopkinson, 14	152
Henry Richard Cooper Smith, 1731	143

The undermentioned were nominated by the G. Master: Bros. Sir John B. Monckton, F.S.A., President, Sir Albert W. Woods (Garter), Æneas J. McIntyre, Q.C., Ralph Gooding, M.D., Frank Green, James E. Saunders, Fred. A. Philbrick, Q.C., John A. Rucker, Thomas Fenn, Robert Freke Gould, and Raymond Henry Thrupp.

The following brethren will form the Colonial Board:—James Brett P.M. 177, William George Lemon P.M. 1601, Edward Letchworth P.M. 197, James Henry Matthews P.M. 143, Thomas Hastings Miller P.M. 907, Griffiths Smith P.M. 21, William Stephens P.M. 1489.

Nominated by the Grand Master: Bros. John Anthony Rucker President, Hugh D. Sandeman, and Brackstone Baker.

148 votes were recorded for Bro. James Garner P.M. 975, but as not more than seven Past Masters could be elected, a brother on the list of Masters was returned with a less number of votes.

Nominated by the Grand Master: Bros. Rev. A. F. A. Woodford, Colonel Shadwell H. Clerke, R. H. Giraud, Jabez Hogg, Captain N. G. Philips, R. T. Ryott, D.C.L., J. S. Peirce, W. F. Nettleship, James Brett, and James Kench.

The recommendations of the Lodge of Benevolence, as regards grants, as printed by us last week, were, on the motion of Bro. James Brett P.G.P., seconded by Bro. G. P. Britten, confirmed.

The Report of the Board of General Purposes was next taken as read, received, and ordered to be recorded on the minutes.

Bro. Sir J. B. Monckton then rose to move—

> That the recommendations of the Board of General Purposes with reference to the suggestion of the reconstruction and enlargement of the Premises at Freemasons' Hall be referred back to the Board for execution, under the direction of the Grand Superintendent of Works.

The particulars of the fire that took place recently in the Temple were well known to the brethren, and doubtless were lamented by them as much as by the Board of General Purposes. After referring to the various suggestions that had been made in the columns of the public press, as to the reconstruction of the Temple, he stated that the Board of General Purposes felt it their duty to lose no time in giving their close and careful attention to the whole position, in order that it might be brought preliminarily before Grand Lodge with all possible speed. He need scarcely say that having no sort of power or authority to take any actual step in the direction of reconstruction, they thought they should be bad men of business if they did not make some inquiries of a general character as to what would be for the benefit of the Craft if carried out. Those matters and the result of those inquiries are referred to in the somewhat lengthy Report now in the hands of the brethren. In briefly considering the propriety, or rather the expediency, of removing our time-honoured position to another site, we had many points before us, but more especially those affecting the personal convenience of brethren; secondly, the interests of the Craft in a pecuniary and financial sense. We recollected that our property is situated where we now stand, and we remembered that if it were thought in all other respects desirable that our Temple should be removed we should leave behind us a very important part of our property in the shape of Freemasons' Tavern and the premises adjacent to it; and it needed no skilled advice to assure us that we should very considerably have injured, and irremediably destroyed that property if such a step were recommended and afterwards taken. The only spot which has anything to recommend it other than our own location is the Thames Embankment. There is no doubt a certain amount of convenience connected with the railways on the Thames Embankment, but we found that the consideration would be attended by such enormous financial cost as to be practically impossible. It had been suggested by enthusiastic brethren that the moment a notice went out to the Craft for a whip of £1 a head it would be responded to. Of course that was hardly likely to be adopted; indeed, it would not be a dignified thing for the Craft to do under the circumstances. After giving some sound and practical reasons for the decision he and his colleagues had arrived at Bro. Monckton moved the resolution as given above.

Bro. Raynham W. Stewart P.G.D., while agreeing with the report of the Board in many points, and lamenting the destruction of the Temple, thought they should erect in its place a building capable of meeting the wants of the brethren. They needed a Hall which would accommodate 1500 persons. What he wanted was a Committee to act with the Board of General Purposes. He therefore moved that,

> "Having regard to the recent destruction of the Temple by fire, and the great increase of Masons, that it be referred to a Committee, in conjunction with Members of the Board of General Purposes, to consider the advisability of rebuilding the Temple, or of acquiring a site to erect thereon a Hall capable of meeting the wants of the Order."

Brother Havers said that it was only the strongest sense of duty, as well as a strong love for an Institution which he had served for so many years, that had brought him there on that occasion. He felt he should be doing wrong to himself and to the brethren if he did not venture to trespass on their attention with a few remarks. When that Hall was built Grand Lodge elected him chairman of the Building Committee. He might therefore be presumed to have some knowledge of the building, what was done, and what was the best way of doing it. He had been utterly amazed with the proposal now placed before Grand Lodge. Giving credit to the Board for all good intentions, let them ask themselves what was the proposal. It was that Grand Lodge should grant a sum of £30,000 or £35,000, plus the money received on the insurance, and from Messrs. Spiers and Pond, to erect a building which was not even yet conceived. He asked himself, would they build a labourer's cottage, costing even a couple of hundred pounds, without first seeing plans of what was to be built? certainly not. He would therefore call the attention of Grand Lodge to what was done on the occasion to which he had referred. The matter was offered to public competition, and they got a number of valuable designs, which were placed in St. Martin's Hall for a month, and brethren invited to go and see them. Amongst the plans sent in was one with which they were all delighted; there was a grand middle hall, but with entrances all round it quite compatible with the purposes of such a hall. The building had to be constructed under peculiar circumstances; they were bound to consider the requirements of Grand Lodge for its Quarterly Communications, and they were bound not to stop the business of the Tavern; the Hall had, therefore, been constructed at three different periods. As erected, the Hall was not built from a single design, but was the combined work of several. Brother Havers earnestly asked Grand Lodge to refer the matter back to the Board of General Purposes, with instructions to them to obtain plans, and submit them to the brethren for their opinion. The building could not be completed for two years, and he thought the Board was not the right party to deal with the matter—a Committee of six or seven would be more efficient; and, for the reason that there was nothing to be gained by hurry, nothing would be lost by waiting a couple of months inviting plans for consideration. It was most desirable that the brethren who came to Grand Lodge should hear and take part in the proceedings. It would be necessary to make a building capable of containing 1500 brethren, with due regard to acoustic properties.

Bro. Beach thought the brethren might congratulate themselves upon having Bro. Havers amongst them again, to advise them on a subject upon which his information and opinion must be worthy of the greatest respect; he thought it desirable there should be no great difference of opinion, and suggested that the Board of General Purposes should endeavour to fall in with the views of the brethren.

Bro. Frank Green argued that Bro. Havers had answered Bro. Stewart's proposition. He thought it would be a great mistake to bring a large number of brethren to the consideration of the subject, and considered that the Board of General Purposes was quite competent to decide what plans should be submitted for inspection. Bro. Brackstone Baker supported Bro. Havers' motion that the Board of General Purposes should nominate a consultative Committee. Bro. R. Stewart said he did not propose to elect a large committee; he proposed a committee of six, to act with the Board of General Purposes. Bro. Henry Hacker objected to Sir J. B. Monckton's proposition, as extremely crude. Without giving details as to how the result was arrived at, he had stated generally that the expense of erecting a larger hall would only be £500 a year more than at present. Another brother said the Board had had before it fullest information, and was better able to judge than any outside person as to the removal or not from the present site. He would impress upon the Board or Committee that might be appointed to avail themselves of the opportunity of perfecting the mode of exit from the Temple. The thought had occurred to him at various times as to the terrible results that would ensue should the brethren from any cause be thrown into a state of panic. Bro. Monckton said that perhaps he might be allowed to end the discussion in a manner agreeable to all. First, the Board never had entertained the insane policy of having plans which would be adopted without being first submitted to Grand Lodge. Secondly, he had meant to say that the increase of £500 a-year in the cost was after making every allowance. He asked Grand Lodge to ignore the Board altogether; let there be a Committee of seven, ten, or any number Grand Lodge pleased, but let half be elected by Grand Lodge, and half by the Board of General Purposes. The Committee would be a permanent body, and everything would be brought before Grand Lodge. Brother Holden considered this a matter of great importance, which would be best dealt with by referring it back to the Board of General Purposes. The functions of the Board were the dealing with the working out of Masonry, but if he wanted a building erected he should not think them the most suitable body to be entrusted with the work. Bro. Havers thought the proposal of the Board a very proper one. He suggested that Grand Lodge should select four brethren, and that the Board should also select four; on this basis he recommended them to accept Brother Monckton's proposal, and withdrew his own. Brother Æneas McIntyre said, as the Board of General Purposes was a very large, as well as a changeable body, it would not be a convenient course to constitute them a Building Committee. A smaller permanent Committee would be preferable, and he proposed as an amendment, "That this matter be referred to a Committee consisting of eight members, four being nominated and appointed by Grand Lodge, and four by the Board; the Chairman to have a casting vote."

Brother Binckes suggested that Brother Havers should be asked to assist. He strongly objected to the course adopted by the Board of General Purposes as expressed in motion No. 2, which suggested that the scheme of reconstruction should be referred back to the Board "for execution under the direction of the Grand Superintendent of Works," which manifestly meant that Grand Lodge was to leave the matter entirely to the Board. He begged Grand Lodge not to give up their power altogether, but adopt Brother Havers' suggestion for the appointment of a Committee to take evidence.

The Most Worshipful Pro Grand Master said that the advantage of this discussion had been at least this—that it had sifted the opinion of Grand Lodge, and it gave him an opportunity of saying with how much personal gratification he had listened once more to his most excellent Bro. Havers. His voice had been very often heard in their councils, and there was no man who could give them better advice at a juncture like the present. He thought the discussion had brought matters to a harmonious point. There was now no question whatever as the proposal of the Board of General Purposes. Brother Monckton had explained that it never was the intention to act without further consulting Grand Lodge. Grand Lodge, it was clear, must be consulted, and in order that this might be done Grand Lodge must pledge its power to some one Committee. There was a concurrence of opinion that there should be a Committee, and that part of that Committee should be named by Grand Lodge. It remained to consider whether the whole or a part should be so named. They were bound to bear in mind two things—first of all, that the Board of General Purposes was selected by Grand Lodge every year, out of the best of their members, to consider and carry on many important matters that arise during the year. He was quite sure it was not the wish of Grand Lodge to cast a slight on the judgment of those whom they had placed in that important position, therefore it seemed to him to be a fair compromise between two conflicting opinions that the Grand Lodge should nominate half and the Board of General Purposes should choose the other half. All such matters were matters of compromise. It was an essential condition that there should be give and take; and he thought himself, though he did not wish to press it upon Grand Lodge for more than it was worth, that it was a fair and reasonable compromise, suggested in a conciliatory spirit. As such he should be glad to see it adopted, and what was more important, he thought Grand Lodge might adopt it with perfect safety and prudence as regarded the result. He thought it his duty not to withhold his opinion on the point; he should wish to avoid all questions of detail, because these must be considered by the Committee to be appointed, and must afterwards come back for confirmation and ratification by Grand Lodge. But he would venture to urge strongly upon those who considered the matter, that whilst they looked to increased accommodation, they must on the other hand remember that the place in which they met was for the conducting of business, and that if built too large and without reference to acoustic principles, the inconvenience they would all suffer at ninety-nine out of every hundred of their meetings would be a most serious and irremediable consideration. It would now be his duty to submit to Grand Lodge the proposal that this question be referred to a Committee of eight, of whom four are to be appointed by Grand Lodge, and four by the Board of General Purposes. For the sake of convenience the vote was put in a slightly altered form, viz., that this question be referred to a Committee of eight, of whom four are to be appointed by the Board of General Purposes. That having been carried, it was proposed that the other four should be appointed by Grand Lodge, which was also carried. The motion was then put as a whole, and carried.

Bro. Havers next proposed that the matter to be referred should next be fixed; and that the Committee is to obtain evidence. This having been seconded by Bro. Baker, the Chairman explained that such Committee was to be instructed to obtain and submit to Grand Lodge evidence and estimates for the rebuilding of Freemasons' Hall, and to deposit them in Grand Secretary's office, or in some other place, for the inspection of the Craft in general.

Several brethren were then nominated, and a show of hands taken; the acting Grand Master declaring the result to be in favour of Bros. Gibson, R. Stewart, Burt and Lewis-Thomas.

The appeal from a decision of the District Grand Lodge of New Zealand was heard and dismissed; and shortly afterwards Grand Lodge was closed.

The R.W. Sir Francis Burdett has fixed Saturday, the 30th inst., for the next meeting of his Provincial G. Lodge. The members of the Province will assemble at Hampton Court, at the New Rooms of the Mitre Hotel, at half-past two o'clock.

ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR BOYS.

THERE was a meeting of the General Committee at Great Queen-street, on Saturday last, when Bro. Horace Brooks Marshall, V.P., was elected Chairman. The following brethren were also present:—John L. Mather, C. F. Matier, E. B. Harding, Alfred Williams, Donald M. Dewar, C. H. Webb, Dr. Morris, E. M. Money, A. F. Edson, Charles Belton, Thomas Cubitt, Frederick Adlard, W. Maple, Dr. Ramsay, George Cooper, George P. Gillard, W. Paas, W. Mann, Raynham W. Stewart, E. C. Massey, Edgar Bowyer, W. W. Morgan, and F. Binckes Secretary.

The minutes of the last General Committee were read and verified, and those of the House Committee were read for information. Arising out of the circumstance that the death of Bro. Wordsworth was recorded on the minutes of the House Committee, Bro. Binckes said that the matter would come before the next meeting of the General Court, when he should no doubt be instructed to address a letter of condolence to Bro. Wordsworth's widow, in addition to which he had written at the instance of the House Committee.

The Chairman announced that one of the brethren nominated for election to serve on the House Committee for the coming year had withdrawn his name, and that the number of nominations for the two Committees and the number to be elected being equal, he had only to declare that the following brethren had been duly elected.—

HOUSE COMMITTEE.

Edgar Bowyer V. Pat.
Henry Wallis Hunt V.P.
J. L. Mather V.P.
James Moon V.P.
A. F. Godson V.P.
J. Joyce Murray V. Pat.
William Paas V.P.
F. W. Ramsay, M.D.
W. Roebuck V. Pat.
Dudley Rolls V.P.
Charles Sanders, M.D.
R. W. Stewart V.P.

AUDIT COMMITTEE.

Thomas Cubitt V.P.
H. S. Goodall.
C. F. Hogard.
W. Maple.
C. F. Matier.
W. Mann V. Pat.
Charles E. Soppet.
Henry Venn.

Four petitions were received. Three of the names were at once placed on the list, the other being accepted conditionally.

An application for an outfit vote was read from George Meacock, a former pupil, and a sum of £5 was voted to him.

Bro. Binckes reported that, acting on the qualified sanction he received on the 30th May, a further £1,000 had been invested on behalf of the building fund, which now amounted to £6,000.

A vote of thanks to the Chairman closed the proceedings.

The Provincial Grand Chapter of Surrey, under the presidency of the R.W. Companion General J. Studholme Brownrigg, C.B., Provincial Grand Superintendent, will be held this day (Saturday), at the Sun Hotel, Kingston, at half-past three o'clock in the afternoon precisely. Amongst other items of business before the Provincial Grand Chapter will be the consecration of the Ewell Chapter, No. 1851. Comp. Arthur Edwin Taylor P.M. 1201, 1851, P.Z. 1201, is the M.E.Z. designate, while Comps. W. Howard Paddle P.M. 1851, and George William Saul P.M. 1201, will respectively be installed into the second and third Principal's chairs.

NORTHAMPTON CHAPTER, No 360.

THERE was a large attendance of Companions at the Masonic Hall, Northampton, on Thursday, 31st ult, many no doubt attending specially to take part in the presentation of a testimonial to Comp. M. Boémé P.Z., &c. Comp. H. J. Atkins M.E.Z. presided. Amongst other business Bro. H. Manfield 1764 was duly exalted, the M.E.Z. ably performing the ceremony, and being efficiently supported by Comps. Rev. S. J. W. Sanders H., John Bingley J., George Ellard Principal Sojourner. Amongst the P.Z.'s present were M. A. Boémé, Butler Wilkins D.P.G.M., John Kellett N. pro tem, George Robinson E., J. U. Stanton Treasurer, J. T. Green, Geo. Cotton, &c. At the conclusion of the Chapter proceedings, the Companions adjourned to the banquet room, which was thrown open to all Craft Masons. A most excellent repast was served by Mrs. Forth, of the Peacock Hotel. There was an unusually large muster of the brethren from the local Lodges, and other Lodges in the Province were also represented. The Deputy Prov. G.M. Bro. Butler Wilkins presided. Bros. J. Kellett P.Z. and P.M. and George Cotton P.M. and P.Z. occupied the vice chairs. Bro. George Ellard P.M. Prov. G.D.C. officiated as Director of Ceremonies. The Queen and Craft, the Prince of Wales and the other Officers of Grand Lodge having been duly honoured, Bro. T. Wetherell, in an appropriate speech, gave the Prov. G.M. the Duke of Manchester, the Deputy Prov. G.M. Bro. Butler Wilkins, and the Provincial Grand Officers Present and Past, to which Bro. J. U. Stanton Prov. Grand Treasurer suitably responded, remarking that the brethren would be pleased to hear that the Duke of Manchester had arranged to be present at the Prov. Grand Lodge at Peterborough on Thursday next. The Dep. Prov. G.M. then proceeded to the special business of the evening, the presentation of the testimonial to Bro. Boémé. In graceful and felicitous terms, he referred to the valuable work Bro. Boémé had done for Masonry in Northampton for many years; there were few men who had separated from the scene of their labours after so many years of toil who had left behind them so many friends or fewer enemies than the distinguished friend and brother whom they had that night met to honour. The precepts of Masonry had been practised by him in his life, and had won for him not only the affectionate goodwill of all with whom he had been brought in contact, but the honour and respect of those who had worked with him in Masonry, and although in the last few years he had not taken the active part he had formerly done, his example had great influence in the working and harmony of the Lodge, being rather felt than seen. The testimonial took a twofold form—duplicate portraits in oils. The one was to remind their brother of very many happy meetings in Norths and Hunts; also to remind him and his family of the high esteem in which he was held by his brethren in Masonry. The other, suspended in their own hall, would remind them that, though he was absent in the body, his example was before them to inspire them in the cause of Masonry, and to influence them in years to come in all their work. On behalf of the brethren, he asked Brother Boémé to accept the portrait with the fervent prayer that he might enjoy many years of health and happiness in his retirement from business life. The toast was drunk with Masonic honours. The portrait, which had been painted in duplicate, is an excellent likeness. Bro. Everest, of Worthing, is the artist. Each picture has a rich massive gold frame, supplied by Bro. Atkins, of Abington-street, Northampton, and has suitable inscriptions. Bro. Boémé, in responding, said it was a moment of great gratification to him. He did not know that he deserved their kindness. It was twenty-four years last December that he received from his brethren a presentation of plate in acknowledgment of the services they were good enough to consider he had rendered Masonry. That presentation was made by the late Brother William Roberts, then Mayor of the town. He should greatly appreciate the portrait they had so kindly presented to him, and he thanked them on behalf of his family as well as for himself. Having given a brief retrospect of the past history of Masonry in Northampton, he expressed his pride and pleasure that the local Lodges had arrived at a position inferior to none in the kingdom. Bro. J. T. Green, in a practical speech, gave the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institutions, to which Bro. Kingston eloquently responded, giving a most interesting account of his visit to and experience of the various Masonic Institutions, and strongly urging the brethren present to assist those Institutions as far as they were able. Bro. the Rev. S. J. W. Sanders, with his usual humour, proposed the Visiting Brethren, for whom Bro. Stringer 1418 replied. The concluding toast was humorously given by Bro. J. Haviland, the M.E.Z. and the P.Z.'s of the Chapter, and the W.M.'s and P.M.'s of the various Lodges, and Comp. H. J. Atkins 360, Bros. F. J. Airs 360, and Rev. S. W. Wigg 1911, severally acknowledged the toast. The enjoyment of the evening was greatly enhanced by harmony contributed by Bros. Hart, Atkins, Gough, Timson, Butcher, Emery, N. T. Hewens; Bros. Brook, Sampson, and R. Croft accompanying. In addition to those already mentioned there were also present—Bros. P.M.'s G. Robinson, John Bingley, John Watkin, N. T. Hewens, H. Brown; Bros. R. J. Johnston, F. T. Airs W.M. 360, H. Hill W.M. 1764, Rev. S. W. Wigg W.M. 1911, E. Roberts, F. J. Dufty, J. Clayson, H. W. Todd, A. Jones, W. Goldney, T. Emery, J. Jeffery, E. C. Ashford, S. S. Campion, J. Carrall, T. P. Dorman, A. Cockerill, T. Franks, W. J. Howe, H. Spoor, E. James, Eli Morris, R. Taylor, G. W. Butcher, G. H. Percival, H. Manfield, and E. B. Fletcher. The room was beautifully decorated, under the superintendence of Bros. H. J. Atkins and T. Emery.

The Fifteenth Anniversary Festival in aid of the Mark Benevolent Fund is appointed to take place on Wednesday, 25th July, when the R.W. Bro. Sir Pryse Pryse, Bart. Provincial Grand Mark Master of S. Wales, has kindly consented to preside.

LODGE DUES.

FROM THE VOICE OF MASONRY.

PROBABLY there is no question involved in what may be termed the domestic or internal economy of Lodges which is more perplexing, and in its tendencies exercises a greater influence for prosperity on the one hand, and for apathy, dissatisfaction, non-affiliation or its more advanced condition, suspension, on the other, than non-payment or non-collection of dues. I use the two terms in this connection because the fact or existence of the first is largely due to the un-business-like performance of the latter. Laxity on the part of the Secretary in attending to the collection of Lodge dues, as he would do in any private business affairs, begets a corresponding looseness and carelessness on the part of the membership, who, in this respect, fail to perform their duties with the same constant regularity with which other obligations, less important, are performed.

A majority of Secretaries unfortunately conceive that they are fulfilling their duties in posting up their ledgers at the end of the year, and having their books in readiness for settlement when the brethren present themselves for payment. It is one of the peculiarities in human nature that a portion of the human family require to be reminded of pecuniary obligations before they will make any effort to discharge them, and it is also true that a large number of this class will respond when properly called upon.

With this class, therefore, the failure may be properly charged, not as non-payment of dues, but the debit should appear in the Secretary's account, as non-collection of dues, if reasonable diligence and energy is not exercised in the effort to collect them. Secretaries, as a rule, are like other men and Masons, solicitous to avoid wounding the feelings of delinquent brethren by plainly asking them to pay their dues; and, as they are held responsible only for what they receive, and, though they may realise the desirability or even necessity of securing payment, they still feel a delicacy, and in many cases a repugnance, to presenting a statement of account to delinquents. It is safe to assume that a majority of those who, under this system, settle up at intervals of two, three or more years, are brethren who are best able to meet their dues, who could pay them at any time, but who allow the debt to accumulate simply because their attention is not called to it. After a time it amounts to a sum which is not so easily paid, and, finally, the debtor will reach a mental conclusion something like this: "I justly owe the Lodge this sum of money, but just at this time I need it in my business, and can't well afford to pay it. If the Secretary had only called my attention to it annually, I could have paid it without feeling it, but just now I'll wait until I am a little easier in money matters." So it keeps accumulating, until, finally, under an order of the Lodge, for there are but few Masters who will assume the responsibility, citations or summonses are issued requiring perhaps a dozen members to appear at some fixed time, and show cause why they should not be disciplined for non-payment of dues. Minds are differently affected by this procedure. Those who have merely been careless, and have failed to pay because they have not been requested to do so, resent it as unbusiness-like, and unfraternal, and feel wounded that such extreme measures have been resorted to. As a rule, this class hasten to settle their dues before the time set, but, probably, they would have done so just as promptly and with far better grace had they been presented with a statement of account and fraternal request for payment within a month after the close of the Masonic year. There are some, too, who affect an indignance and wounded pride, who really deceive themselves into the belief that the procedure is extreme, and a breach of fraternal courtesy, and so justify a failure either to pay dues or to appear and show cause; permit themselves to be suspended, and then regard themselves as good Masons at heart, but the victims of unfraternal action on the part of the Lodge. These men all have personal friends in the Lodge, who greatly regret the necessity of the action which is taken, and in some instances disapprove of and condemn it; thus superadding another element of weakness or discord to the weight already existing. I might refer to many more conditions and phases of this question, and to its disastrous effects on Lodges, but every brother must have noticed them, for they exist in many Lodges; and, these premises admitted, the question naturally reverts to the remedy. I think it is easy to define; it is prophylactic, not curative. It is the "ounce of prevention, not the pound of cure."

Let the Secretary understand that it is his duty not only to receive all monies from the hands of the brethren, but to collect all monies due the Lodge, or to make a reasonable business effort to do so. But how and in what manner is this duty to be enjoined upon him, and how can he do so without being deemed over-zealous if not discourteous, and thus become the object of personal dislike or resentment, especially if his predecessor in office has been one of the easy-going kind?

Again, I would prescribe the ounce of preventive. Amend if necessary your bye-laws. Make it the duty of the Secretary, first to show in his annual balance sheet the amount due the Lodge, as dues, without mentioning names of debtors. If they attend the Lodge, it may serve to jog their memories. Second, let it be his duty within thirty days after the expiration of the Masonic year, to send a statement of account to every brother who is one year or more in arrears. If this be unheeded for thirty days, another statement should be sent, and in a large majority of cases the second statement will be found unnecessary. Then, thirty days after the second statement, it should be his duty to send a citation to all who are two years or more in arrears, to appear at a stated time, and show cause why charges should not be preferred for non-payment of dues; or such action had thereon as may be prescribed by the regulations of the Grand Lodge in such case.

If this be done there will be no heavy delinquent accounts, as only two years' dues will be permitted to accumulate, and the probabilities of collection will be correspondingly enhanced. There is a natural feeling of repugnance to pleading actual inability or poverty in bar of payment, but the feeling is, though natural, un-Masonic, because no brother should hesitate to avow the fact when called upon, and the Lodge generally will be able to judge intelligently as to the correctness thereof, and will take pleasure in relieving the mind of the brother by remitting his dues, and placing him in good standing in his feelings as well as in the Lodge. After an experience of over a quarter of a century, I can assert that I have never known a brother to be suspended or disciplined for non-payment of dues when it was shown that he was unable to pay.

But why incorporate these provisions in the by-laws? I might answer by asking, why not? But as my object is what might be termed ex parte argument, and not controversy, I will endeavour briefly to answer it. First, because in addition to the usual requirements, that every brother shall pay a certain amount annually, as dues, it does not leave the matter entirely at the discretion or pleasure of the member, but defines the time when it shall be paid, the means to be employed in collecting it, and the officer on whom the duty devolves. Second, the duty of the Secretary is not only clearly defined, but the members know what to expect, and will govern themselves accordingly. Third, it relieves the Secretary from any feeling of delicacy or embarrassment, and protects him against any dissatisfaction on the part of delinquents, who realise that he is simply obeying the bye-laws, and faithfully performing the duties of the office to which they have elected him. Thus he has no discretionary power, is above the reproach of overzeal or favouritism, and the financial machinery of the Lodge works along smoothly and satisfactorily. The different regulations of different Grand Lodges might necessitate some slight modifications of the system indicated, but the essential features can easily be incorporated into the by-laws and practice of every Lodge, and a vast amount of delinquency, with all its demoralising adjuncts, obviated or prevented. I have seen it tested in Lodges where, at its introduction, the books and finances were in a very unsatisfactory condition, and under its operation, fraternally executed, two years' experience proved the value of the system, cleared the books of delinquent accounts, and placed the finances of the Lodge in a healthy condition.

True, it may become necessary to suspend some delinquent, who may be what the world thinks a good fellow, but if such things must be, the sooner it is done the better for Masonry, for the example will prove a two-edged sword, removing bad examples from those who might either imitate them or plead them in bar for their own delinquencies, and, on the other edge, indicating that such things will not be tolerated, but will be regulated, when necessary. Nor will Masonry suffer from the loss of such members. Better a healthy tree, whose branches, though few, are sound, and whose fruit is vigorous, than one more lofty and wide spreading, whose half-decaying boughs draw and exhaust the sap contributed by the healthier roots, and thus rob the fruit of nourishment, and dwarf its fruition.

I might also add, that suspension in such cases is not to be regarded abstractly as a punishment for non-fulfilment of duties, because the recipient invites it and aids in accomplishing it; and can at his pleasure relieve himself from its operation and restore himself to good standing. Hence it is not punitive, but disciplinary, and, in nearly all cases, is of his own freewill and accord, by providing the means which must produce this result.

This article has been penned at the suggestion of a Worshipful Master, whose Lodge has been loaded with an incubus of unpaid dues, with all the attendant evils which that condition engenders; and, having strong faith in this preventive treatment, I offer the prescription gratuitously to the Voice of Masonry, for the consideration of the Craft.

GREAT WESTERN RAILWAY LITERARY SOCIETY.

THE Great Western Railway Literary Society has just issued its thirty-first Annual Report, which describes the Society as having attained a very satisfactory position. This Society was instituted for the benefit of the officers and clerks of the Great Western Railway Company and its immediate connections, and possesses a well-selected library of upwards of ten thousand volumes, and the tables of the reading-room are furnished with the leading morning, evening, and weekly papers, and the principal reviews, magazines, &c. The number of members now on the Society's register is 603. During the past year 517 volumes have been added to the library for circulation, exclusive of 107 works necessarily renewed, and 74 withdrawn from circulation, making a total of 10,106 in the possession of the Society. The average monthly circulation continues at about 3,200 volumes. Extra copies of the most popular works have been purchased, and nearly 500 volumes have been rebound. A Chess Club in connection with the Society was established in 1856, and this has, to no inconsiderable extent, assisted in keeping alive among the members a deep and continued interest in the game.

The members of the City of London Orchestral Union announce a Grand Evening Concert in celebration of the Sixteenth Anniversary of their establishment, which will take place at the Albion Hall, London Wall, on Wednesday evening next, the 13th inst. Bro. G. T. H. Seddon, P.M. 177, the conductor of this popular Orchestra, will doubtless display his usual care in the selection of a programme for the occasion, and we anticipate a repetition of the many successful meetings we already have had to chronicle in respect of this prosperous society.

INSTALLATION MEETINGS, &c.

—:o:—

CRYSTAL PALACE LODGE, No. 742.

THE twenty-fifth anniversary meeting of the Crystal Palace Lodge, held on Thursday, 7th inst., was shorn of some of the pleasures which usually attend the installation gatherings of this Lodge from the fact that the weather had changed from the bright sunshine we have been accustomed to of late, to a cold and damp atmosphere, reminding one of the return of winter. Held in one of the finest—if not the finest—of our public places of amusement, a bright sunshine adds considerably to the attractions of a Crystal Palace Lodge meeting, but as sunshine is only one of many attractions relied upon by the members, a visit to the Lodge—even in the most inclement weather—is always attended with gratification. Such was the case on Thursday, all present seemed to enjoy themselves, and the meeting may certainly be described as one of the most successful ever held. Lodge was summoned for 3 p.m., and was presided over by Bro. G. Cole, the W.M. for the past year, who was supported by the following Officers:—Edward Ayres S.W. (W.M. elect), F. A. Pullen J.W., T. Foxall P.M. Treasurer, Willam Land P.M. Secretary, J. Kay J.D., W. H. Toten I.G., B. Fulwood M.C., and J. W. Lassam Steward; P.M.'s J. Blundell, Dick Radcliffe, C. Hume, H. T. Thompson, W. W. Baxter, S. P. Acton, George Weeks, Robert Roberts. Among the Visitors who attended the Lodge were Bros. W. Land 213, T. Slatter 610, W. Burgess 511, T. C. Pratt P.M. 957, John Saffery P.M. 1089, C. Donaldson 1963, W. Bidgood 700, F. G. Baker P.M. 753, F. Purkiss 720, W. C. Smith J.D. 1563, R. Blum 511, A. Symes M.C. 554, A. J. Manning P.M. 1637 P.P.G.D. Essex, H. A. Tobias P.P.G. Supt. of Works West Lancashire P.M. 1502, &c., Henry Glum 19, J. Coppen 1719, J. S. Lewis 493, C. C. Gibby 1658, Michael Levenston 27 (S.C.), C. W. Cunningham 1612, W. W. Morgan jun. J.W. 1107, Charles Wolff, No. 8, New York, R. Whitley P.M. 944 P.P.G.D.C. Middlesex, E. West P.M. 1327 Past Provincial Grand Senior Deacon Herts, A. Simner J.D. 177, George Lewis Junior Warden Mizpah 1671. After the formal opening of the Lodge, the business of the day was proceeded with; this comprised, among other items, the raising of Bro. Adolphus Levy, the installation of W.M., the appointment and investiture of Officers, and the initiation of two gentlemen into the mysteries of Freemasonry. The installation ceremony was worked by Bro. Foxall, and right well did he perform the duty, eliciting the thanks of the new W.M., and the approval of the brethren generally. In due course the W.M. appointed the following brethren as his Officers, and in presenting the various collars addressed a few appropriate words to each of the brethren concerned:—Bro. Pullen S.W., Kay J.W., Toten S.D., F. Abraham J.D., F. Wright I.G., B. Fullwood P.M. M.C., Lassam Steward, J. T. Woodstock P.M. Tyler. The ceremony of installation having been completed, the new W.M. proceeded to confer the first degree on Messrs. Charles J. Grove and Oliver Barnett, working the ceremony in really first-rate form. The Lodge was shortly afterwards closed, and the brethren adjourned to the banquet hall, where the W.M. presided over a very pleasant assembly. At the conclusion of the banquet, the W.M. proceeded with the toasts of the evening. The first on the list was that of the Queen and the Craft. So much had been said in Masonic Lodges, and indeed in every kind of assembly among Englishmen, in praise of her Majesty, that it was difficult to say anything fresh. He felt sure all who were present would unite in drinking to the health of the Queen, and with it couple Success to the Craft. The National Anthem followed the toast, and then the W.M. gave that of his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales M.W.G.M. In this case also it was impossible to say anything new, even if it were needed, in introducing the toast. It was really out of the question to show the M.W.G.M. in brighter colours than those in which he already shone. No words, the W.M. felt, could add to the lustre which was attached to the Grand Master. The W.M., in proposing the next toast, regretted the absence of Grand Officers from their meeting, but felt sure the brethren would drink to their health none the less heartily on that account. As Worshipful Master of the Crystal Palace Lodge, he should be pleased to see any of the members of Grand Lodge who might honour his Lodge with a visit. Bro. W. Morrow here gave a cornet solo, which was most enthusiastically received. The W.M. next proposed the toast of the Initiates. The toast was one which he offered with a very great deal of pleasure, and with the hope that those initiated that night might become true Freemasons, and eventually rise to the proud position he then occupied. He had determined that those he might introduce to the Lodge should be good men and true, and he felt that the two just received, whom he had known for years, fully answered those requirements. Brother Grove was the first to reply. It was impossible for him to find words to express the pleasure he felt at being admitted a member of the Masonic Order. He hoped he might live long to prove himself a good Mason, and justify the confidence the brethren had placed in him that evening. Bro. Barnett endorsed the remarks of his brother initiate. He should try and deserve the eulogiums passed on him by the W.M., and become a worthy member of the Crystal Palace Lodge. He desired also to thank the brethren for the kindly reception accorded to him and his fellow initiate. The W.M. considered the next toast hardly of secondary importance to that just disposed of. It was indeed quite equal to it, even if it were not worthy of precedence. It was one particularly appreciated by the members of the Crystal Palace Lodge—it was the Visitors. The W.M. was pleased to see such a numerous array of guests around him, [numerous not only in quantity, but also in merit. With the toast the W.M. coupled the names of Bros. West, Manning, Tobias, Coppen, and Whitley. Bro. West had great pleasure in being present, as he felt sure all the other visitors had. He had known the W.M. for many years, and congratulated the Crystal Palace Lodge on having secured him as Master. He was sure they had installed a Master who would reflect credit both on the Lodge itself, and Freemasonry generally. Brother Manning was also a personal friend of the W.M. He had had the pleasure of being present at the initiation of Bro. Ayres, and had frequently attended the Lodge meetings since then. The W.M. had ever striven to attain the position he had just been appointed to, and would without doubt prove an acquisition to the Lodge. Bro. Coppen felt it very difficult to follow such brethren as had just spoken. He had been a visitor to the Crystal Palace Lodge on two or three previous occasions, and so much had he enjoyed himself, that he was desirous of offering himself as a joining member of the Lodge. He trusted the members would honour him by electing him, and thus give him an opportunity of enjoying more frequently the pleasures of the regular meetings of the Lodge. Bro. Tobias desired to raise his voice in a different style to that in which those who had preceded him had done. He was thankful, however, that an opportunity had been afforded him of saying a few words, although, like their brother initiate, he should have liked to have known beforehand what was expected of him. He was present that night as a total stranger, that was to say, he had been a stranger to all but two when he entered the Lodge, but now he felt he might really say he knew every brother present, so hearty had been the reception accorded him. It was very frequently remarked in West Lancashire that the work of Freemasonry was slurred over in the London Lodges, and that the Provincial brethren would have no pleasure in attending a London meeting. He had found the contrary to be the case. He did not believe in indiscriminate praise, but he conscientiously said that he had never seen work better done than that he had witnessed in the Crystal Palace Lodge that day. He felt very strongly on the point, as he considered that slander did much to injure Freemasonry. He did not know which was the worst, slander from inside or the slander of strangers. In the case in point he had proved the incorrectness of the opinion formed of London working, and should make it his duty to try and convince his brethren, as he felt all who had proved the fallacy of injurious statements should do. He had made these lengthy remarks more particularly for the benefit of the younger members of the Order, whom he warned not to heed too much what they heard, either in Freemasonry or the ordinary walks of life. It was always better to wait before forming an adverse opinion, and, if possible find out for oneself the correctness, or otherwise, of what was told them. Bro. Whitley followed. He hoped the present would not be his last attendance at the Crystal Palace Lodge; he had thoroughly enjoyed his visit that day. He desired particularly to compliment the Worshipful Master for the way in which he had invested and addressed his Officers, and the Treasurer for the way in which he had worked the ceremony of installation. Bro. Cole next assumed the gavel, and proposed the health of the W.M. So much had been said in praise of Bro. Ayres that he felt it only necessary to formally introduce the toast to ensure for it a most fraternal welcome. The Worshipful Master felt that when any one had to speak for himself, or to say something to ensure a proper acknowledgment of some honour conferred, a very difficult task presented itself. He did not know how to express the pleasure he felt in being placed in the honourable position of W.M. of the Lodge. He thanked the brethren most heartily, and would endeavour to show that he deserved the compliment they had paid him. It had been his desire ever since he was initiated into Freemasonry to reach the position he now filled; having attained his desire, he should endeavour to carry out the duties attached to the office in a creditable manner. He thanked the brethren for their kind assistance in the past, and hoped to enjoy their company on many future occasions. In proposing the next toast—the Immediate Past Master—the W.M. had a duty to perform, a duty which had been fulfilled in years gone by with the greatest of pleasure, and it was with such feelings that he now undertook it. It was the presentation to their Immediate Past Master of a jewel, and in placing it on the breast of Bro. Cole he hoped that brother would live to be among them on many future occasions; at all times enjoying the same hearty good will of his brother Masons as they then felt towards him. Bro. Cole tendered his thanks for the reception at all times accorded him; for the support he had received during his year of office, and for the handsome jewel presented to him. The toast of the Past Masters was next on the list. With this the W.M. coupled that of the Treasurer and Secretary, as the time at his disposal was not sufficient to do honour to them alone. The qualities possessed by the Past Masters of the Crystal Palace Lodge were such as any Lodge might be proud of. They were brethren who shone out as really true Masons, ever ready to lend themselves for the advancement of the Lodge. He was particularly grateful to Bro. Foxall, who had performed the installation ceremony on his behalf in such a manner as to make a great impression on him, and with that brother's name he desired to couple the toast. Bro. Foxall thanked those assembled on behalf of the Past Masters of the Lodge. He thanked the Worshipful Master most sincerely for the way in which the toast had been given, and for the kindly expressions which had fallen from the chair. He also considered that the Past Masters of the Crystal Palace Lodge shone far in advance of those of many other Lodges. Personally, he thanked the Master for his reference to himself as Installing Officer. As Treasurer, he considered he had two duties to perform—first his duty to the Lodge, and secondly his duties to the Charities of the Order. He thought the Crystal Palace Lodge shone out for its support of the Charities during the past ten or twelve years in a manner that must be most gratifying to all concerned. Bro. Land, the Secretary, followed. He had taken some little pains to analyse the finances of the Lodge in the past. He found that in the first ten years of its existence something like £2,500 had been received, and of this amount about £31 had been given to the Charities. The Lodge had also left off at the end of that period some £24 odd in debt. During the last ten years—the time that he and Bro. Foxall had held the offices they had again been honoured with that night—the receipts were something like £1,000 less. They had, however, given some £200 to the Charities, and could boast of a credit balance of something like £60. He considered that a Lodge which devoted a part of its funds to benevolence must prosper, as Masonic Charity and prosperity went hand in hand. The Officers of the Lodge were next toasted, and to the honour thus paid them the S.W., J.W., S.D., and Steward severally responded. The Tyler's toast followed, and then the proceedings terminated.

Percy Lodge of Instruction, No. 198.—Held at Bro. Langdale's, Jolly Farmers', Southgate-road, N., Saturday, 2nd inst. Present—Bros. Fox W.M., Larchin S.W., Cohen J.W., Lorkin S.D., Powell J.D., Gribbell I.G., Gush Preceptor, and Galer Secretary; also Bros. Lone, Bleakley, Fenner, Goodall, Linfield, Fitzpatrick, Ball, Venning, Killick jun., Manger, Ferrer, Wolf, Brock, Gaskin, Bullock, Appleton, Long, Killick sen., Liebman, Gellan, Payne, Morris, Ball, Brown, Moss, Wright, Hirst, Smith, Weeden, Richardson, Snook, Calmady-Richardson, Hall, Bevan, and Chipperfield. Lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes of last Lodge meeting were read and confirmed. Lodge was opened in the second and third, and resumed to the first degree. The W.M. at once proceeded to work the Fifteen Sections, by calling upon Bro. Gush to assist him and work the first, Bro. Fitzpatrick the second, Bro. Ball the third, Bro. Fenner the fourth, Bro. Lorkin the fifth, Bro. Larchin the sixth, and Bro. Powell the seventh. Lodge was resumed to the second degree, and the W.M. called upon Bro. Cohen to assist to work the first section of that lecture, Bro. Gush the second, Bro. Morris the third, Bro. Fox the fourth, and Bro. Brown the fifth. Lodge was resumed to the third degree, and the W.M. called upon Bro. Appleton to assist him to work the first section of the lecture, Bro. Gribbell the second, and Bro. Moss the third. Lodge was resumed to the first degree, and Bro. Smith, of the Doric Lodge, No. 938, and Bro. Calmady-Richardson, of the Crichton Lodge, No. 1641, were unanimously elected members. A cordial vote of thanks to the brethren who had assisted in working the sections, and that honorary membership of the Lodge be conferred upon Bro. Fox, was proposed by Bro. Lorkin, seconded by Bro. Killick jun., and carried unanimously. All Masonic business being ended, the Lodge was closed in ancient form, and adjourned to Saturday, 9th June, at 8 o'clock.

Metropolitan Lodge of Instruction, No. 1507.—A meeting was held on Monday last, at the Crown and Cushion, London Wall, when there were present Bros. Barrett-Kidder W.M., C. J. Scales S.W., Blake J.W., J. C. Smith Sec. (pro tem), Railey S.D., J. B. Smith J.D., Knight I.G., Stiles P.M. Preceptor. After preliminaries, the W.M. rehearsed the ceremony of the third degree, with Bro. Fraser as candidate. Lodge was then resumed in the first degree, and the second and fourth sections of the first lecture were worked. Two new members were elected, and Bro. Scales was appointed W.M. for Monday evening next. Notwithstanding the summer weather, which offers many inducements for outdoor recreation, the attendances at this popular Lodge of Instruction are well sustained. The members offer a cordial greeting to Craftsmen who may pay them a visit.

Tredegar Lodge of Instruction, No. 1625.—Held at the Royal Hotel, Mile End-road, on Monday, 4th inst. Present—Bros. Glass W.M., Phillips S.W., Oxley J.W., Clements S.D., M. Isaacs I.G., West J.D.; Bro. Stewart acting as Preceptor. After preliminaries, the W.M. rehearsed the ceremony of initiation, Bro. West as candidate. Bro. West worked the first and second sections of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. Bro. Phillips was unanimously elected W.M. for the next meeting. Bro. Stewart proposed, and Bro. Oxley seconded, that a vote of thanks be recorded on the minutes, for the able manner in which Bro. Glass had rehearsed the ceremony, for the first time, in this Lodge. Lodge was closed in due form.

Kingsland Lodge of Instruction, No. 1693.—A meeting was held on Monday, 4th inst., at the Canonbury Tavern, St. Mary's road, N. Bros. Crosbie W.M., Galer S.W., Brock J.W., Killick jun. Treasurer, Collingridge Sec., Western S.D., Jones J.D., Thompson I.G., Trewinnard Preceptor; also Bros. Wolf, Dixie, Goddard, Humphreys, Killick sen. After preliminaries, the ceremony of raising was rehearsed, Bro. Wolf acting as candidate. Lodge was closed in third degree, and resumed to the first degree. It was proposed by Bro. Western S.D., and seconded by Bro. Dixie, that the Secretary send notice to members for a special meeting on the 25th of June (which will be Preceptor's night), to arrange for the formation of a ballot in connection with this Lodge for the various Masonic Institutions. Nothing further being offered for the good of Freemasonry, or of this Lodge in particular, it was closed in due form, and adjourned till Monday, 12th June, at 8·30 p.m., upon which occasion Bro. Galer will occupy the chair.

The installation meeting of the Sub-Urban Lodge, No. 1702, will take place at the Abercorn Hotel, Great Stanmore, this day (Friday), when Bro. Charles Hawksley the W.M. will instal his successor, Bro. John Frankland Hepburn. We hope to be able to supply a full report next week.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT offer to suffering mankind the most effectual cure for gout and rheumatism.—An unhealthy state of the blood, attended with bad digestion, lassitude, and great debility, conduces to these diseases, showing the want of a proper circulation of the fluid, and that impurity of the blood greatly aggravates these disorders. Holloway's Pills are of so purifying a nature that a few doses taken in time are an effectual preventive against gout and rheumatism, but any one that has an attack of either should use Holloway's Ointment also, the powerful properties of which, combined with the effects of the Pills, ensure rapid relief. The Ointment should be thoroughly rubbed into the parts affected at least twice a day, after they have been sufficiently fomented with warm flannels to open the pores in order to facilitate the absorption of the Ointment.

ELECTION MEETING OF THE ROYAL MASONIC INSTITUTION FOR GIRLS.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—In referring to the late meeting in your issue of Saturday last you make the remark: "The arrangements for the proper distribution of the voting papers were utterly inadequate for the occasion, although the Committee sat in the Zetland, and the papers were distributed in the ante-room."

This little escapade, if I may so term it, brings up once more the vexed question of personal voting. When there is very little opposition, the time allowed for the business to be transacted is doubtless sufficient; but when, as on the day in question, a sharp fight is made to secure the suffrages of the brethren, an hour—the time allowed—is not ample to allow of the papers being properly distributed, filled in, and deposited in the ballot box. By comparison with previous meetings, the arrangements made to compete with the demand on the 26th ult., I am assured, were of a most ample character, yet, undoubtedly, the result was far from satisfactory. Why cannot it be arranged that the voting papers should be distributed earlier, and a change made that proxy voting should be accepted? This plan of procedure has been found to work beneficially in other Institutions, and I believe I am correct in stating was adopted at the last election of Secretary for this very Institution, when Bro. Hedges was elected. Perhaps some of your correspondents may be induced to write a few words on this question, and thus be a means of bringing about a change that may be advantageous to all.

Yours faithfully,

A SUBSCRIBER.

THE RE-BUILDING OF THE TEMPLE.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I am much pleased that our zealous Bro. Henry Smith has touched upon the questions of providing accommodation for those brethren who may have to attend the several Elections during the year. For my part, I have always received the greatest courtesy from each of the Secretaries, but I can assure you I have frequently felt that my trespassing on their time during an exceptionally heavy period of their labours was more than I could possibly expect to be allowed to do without some decided protest. Moreover, I am fully alive to the fact that up to within but a very short period of time, each of the Secretaries had but little available space for transacting their own business, much less to be able to provide accommodation for those who might have business engagements at their respective offices. Now that this question has been brought forward, I trust it will receive consideration at the hands of the powers that be, and that in future ample accommodation may be provided.

Yours fraternally,

A PROVINCIAL REPRESENTATIVE.

"A BEGGING MASON."

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—In your issue of 12th May, you published a letter from Bro. Francis, of Havant, warning almoners and others against one James Donovan, representing himself to be a member of St. Patrick's Lodge, Johnstown, New York State. Donovan applied to our Lodge for assistance on 3rd May, and produced a letter purporting to come from Bro. B. E. White, Secretary of St. Patrick's Lodge. I have since communicated with Bro. White, who has replied, denouncing the letter as a forgery. Donovan appears to have obtained possession of a genuine letter from Bro. White, written on paper bearing the Lodge stamp and note heading; but the original letter has been obliterated and a forgery substituted. This document is now in our possession, but as it is possible that a similar fraud may be attempted, I am desired to warn brethren against this impostor.

I am, Dear Sir and Brother,

Yours faithfully and fraternally,

J. H. HAWES,
Secretary No. 38.

P.S. Bro. Francis, in his letter, gave a good description of Donovan, which it would be well to repeat: "About 5 feet 10in. in height, thick brown moustache, no whiskers or beard; looks hearty and strong, and a bit sunburnt; has a very slight impediment in his speech."

Union Lodge, Chichester, 5th June.

Bro. Alderman and Sheriff de Keyser, who was initiated twenty-one years ago, a member of the Emulation Lodge, No. 21, has presented to that Lodge a magnificent set of working tools in silver and ivory, as a testimony of the good feeling of the Lodge towards him, at the same time requesting that they might be used to complete the initiation of Mr. Sheriff Savory in that Lodge.

Hone Goldney Old Kent, Loder 145, Smith 236, and Dann 256.

Before the formal business was commenced, Lord Henniker informed the brethren that the Prince of Wales was about to join Mark Masonry, but that His Royal Highness wished it to be distinctly understood that his doing so was in no way to be construed as a desire on his part to see the Grand Lodge of Mark Master Masons amalgamated with the Grand Lodge of the Craft, or an argument in favour of such amalgamation. Lord Henniker added that at next meeting he should propose that the rank of a Past Grand Master of the Order be conferred on His Royal Highness, and that his name be placed at the head of the list of the Past Grand Masters.

After the minutes of Grand Mark Lodge, held on the 5th December 1882, and of Moveable Grand Mark Lodge, on 26th April 1883, had been read and confirmed, the Report of the General Board, which had been printed and circulated amongst the members of Grand Lodge, was taken as read. The Report stated:—

"The number of Certificates issued in the sixth months ending 31st March 1883 was 738, the total of registered Advancements being 17,171.

During the same period 11 Warrants for new Lodges had been granted, viz.:—

No. 309	Save and Sele	Belvedere, Kent
310	South Melbourne ...	Emerald Hill, Victoria
311	Egypt	Cairo
312	Joppa	Delhi, Punjaub
313	Lawrence	Chorley, Lancashire
314	Henniker	Montreal
315	Henniker	London
316	Benevolent	Teignmouth, Devon
317	Youell	Gorleston, Suffolk
318	St. James's	Handsworth
319	Jordan	Torquay

"In the Degree of Royal Ark Mariners, 180 Certificates had been issued, making the total number of Elevations 1350, and two Warrants for new Lodges—Gosport attached to Gosport, No. 305, and Macdonald attached to Macdonald, No. 104.

"New Provinces have been constituted (1) at Montreal, Canada, under the Right Worshipful Bro. Hon. William Badgley, as Provincial Grand Master; (2) at Tasmania, with Right Worshipful Brother George Talmage as Provincial Grand Master.

"The Most Worshipful Grand Master presided at a meeting of the newly-formed Province of Warwickshire, held at Birmingham, on Wednesday, 14th March, and installed Bro. Lord Brooke, M.P., as Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master.

"A Moveable Grand Lodge, under the Presidency of the Most Worshipful Grand Master, was held at Nottingham on Thursday, 26th of April. A Provincial Grand Lodge of Notts was formally constituted, and Right Worshipful Bro. Watson (Deputy Provincial Grand Master of the Craft) was installed as Provincial Grand Master by the Most Worshipful Grand Mark Master, Bro. Lord Henniker. Bro. William Newton, of Newark, receiving the appointment of Deputy. The Grand Master was accompanied from London by the Right Worshipful Deputy Grand Master, Bro. the Earl of Kintore, and many Grand Officers, the meeting being numerously attended by brethren from various Provincial Districts, and by members of the Newstead Lodge, T.L., Nottingham, on whom devolved the supervision of the arrangements for the day, which were carried out in a manner affording unqualified satisfaction to all."

On the recommendation of the General Board, the rank of Past Master was conferred on Bros. Raphael Borg and Capt. Williams-Freeman, of the Lodge of Egypt, No. 311; the rules of the Eucational Branch were amended, so as to authorise the presentation of silver medals to such boys and girls as in the discretion of the Board may be found deserving of reward for proficiency and good conduct; the appointment of two additional Grand Officers was sanctioned, viz. a second Grand Assistant Director of Ceremonies, and a second Grand Standard Bearer. £52 10s was voted from the General Fund on account of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys' "Preparatory School Building Fund;" and £25 from the same source for the relief of sufferers by the recent fire at Jamaica.

The Report also stated that the following acknowledgment of reception of the Service of Plate presented to their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess of Albany on the occasion of their marriage had been received :—

"Claremont, 20th December 1882.

"Dear Sir,—I beg to inform you that the Mark Masters' Presentation Plate has been safely delivered here.

"The Duke and Duchess of Albany have been inspecting it to-day, and I am desired by their Royal Highnesses to tell you that they admire the pieces exceedingly, and they form a most valuable addition to their ornamental plate.

"Fraternally yours,

"(Signed) R. H. COLLINS.

"F. Binckes, Esq."

Grants from the Fund of Benevolence were recommended for, and received confirmation by, Grand Lodge, as follow :—

£30 to a Brother of the Cheltenham and Keystone Lodge, No. 10.
£10 to the Widow of a Brother of St. Martin's Lodge, No. 262.
£10 to the Widow of a Brother of Union Lodge, No. 46.
£15 to a Brother of the Southwark Lodge, No. 22.
£20 to the Widow of a Brother of Fowke Lodge, No. 19.

The Grand Treasurer's Accounts for the six months ending 31st March 1883 show the following results :—

General Fund—Balance from 30th September 1882, £4 14s 3d; Half-year's receipts £883 7s 9d, interest on investments £47 17s; making a total of £935 19s. The disbursements for the same period were—ordinary expenditure £460 13s 5d, extraordinary expenditure £71 13s 6d, leaving a balance at bankers of £403 12s 1d.

The Benevolent Fund shewed a balance from 30th September 1882 of £199 10s 6d; the half-year's receipts were £62 1s 6d, to which must be added for interest on investments £38 18s 6d, making a total of £300 10s 6d. Against this we have grants in relief £70, and expenses £1 3s 6d, leaving a balance at bankers of £229 7s.

The balance to the Education Fund brought forward from 30th September 1882 was £93 13s 2d, while interest on investments produced £17 3s 9d, giving a total of £110 16s 11d. Against this had been paid for educational fees £28 6s, shewing a balance of £82 10s 11d.

Educational Fund	800	0	0

The Board have directed that the following additional investments be made, viz. :—

On account of General Fund	£400	0	0
On account of Benevolent Fund	100	0	0
On account of Educational Fund	100	0	0

On the motion of the Rev. J. Randall, seconded by Sir Pryse Pyrse, the Report was adopted.

Brother W. W. B. Beach, M.P., P.G.M.M.M. on rising for the installation of Grand Master, said: Brethren, at the last meeting our Most Worshipful Grand Master, Lord Henniker, was unanimously re-elected to that office, and it is my pleasing duty on the present occasion to declare him Grand Master of Mark Master Masons for the ensuing year, but as he has been already placed in that chair it is unnecessary for me to re-instate him. I shall merely declare that he now occupies that chair for the ensuing year. And, brethren, it is also my pleasure to congratulate you and the Order generally upon the great services he has rendedred, and to say how fortunate we are in having a Grand Master who presides over the Order with such ability and zeal.

The M.W. G.M.M.M. having been saluted said: Most Worshipful Past Grand Master and Brethren,—I thank you very much for the honour you have done me once more in placing me in this chair. I can assure you that I feel it a very great honour, and I think I need hardly add that my desire is to be of service to the Order over which I have the honour to preside. You have been very kind to me during the last two years I have held office, and if the Order has been successful it has been a great deal owing to the work done before I took the position I now occupy. I also have to thank the other Officers and Past Grand Masters who have assisted me during my term of office. I assure you I feel the honour you have done me very greatly, and, brethren, if I have derived any popularity among Mark Master Masons, it is from the fact that I have come among you at a time of great prosperity, and because I had one idea before me—an idea I shall try to keep before me during my term of office, that is to do my best simply; and without more ostentation than necessary—to do my duty to the Order over which I have the honour to preside

Brother F. Davison was re-elected Grand Treasurer, and the other Grand Officers were invested as follow :—

MAGIC AND DIVINATION.

FROM THE FREEMASONS' REPOSITORY.

MAN is a wonder loving being. He is naturally attracted toward that which is strange and startling, and finds no small part of the zest of life in exercising his thought and imagination upon the marvels that are about him. That there is ample scope given for the use and development of the element of wonder in human nature will not be questioned. Shakespeare made Hamlet express only the truth when he said, "There are more things in Heaven and earth, Horatio, than are dreamt of in your philosophy." It is difficult to measure or limit the wonderful. All the time revelations are being made in the various departments of natural and scientific investigation, but none the less are there hidden principles of wisdom and occult forces of nature which prompt to earnest search.

The element of wonder rightly directed leads to important results. It quickens the mental vision, and being connected with a principle of rational curiosity brings into view manifold powers, principles, and phenomena, that are of benefit to the world. It is the beginning of all philosophy and the source of all knowledge and discovery. It is the impulsion to religion itself, the thought of devotion and adoration often adapting itself to the prayer of David, "Open Thou mine eyes that I may see wonderful things out of Thy law."

Like other faculties of human nature this element of wonder may be wrongly directed, or it may be given too much influence, thus detracting from the symmetry of individual character and becoming a hindrance to the world's progress. An undue love of the marvellous, joined to a disposition to clothe common events in the garments of mystery and to ascribe them to occult agencies, is quite likely to result in that credulity which prepares the way for all sorts of foolish practices and base superstitions.

In a rudimentary state men were disposed to ascribe almost everything to supernatural forces, and to accept the most fanciful theories of nature and life. They believed that they dwelt in a world subject to no settled order of rule and procedure, but rather an enchanted earth, hence they looked for signs and omens to determine their course and gave special attention to the rites of magic. The ancients of the Orient practised many curious arts in the way of incantations, charms and divinations, and were led captive by many foolish superstitions. The sorcerers and soothsayers of Egypt constituted an important class and exercised a large control over the people of that land in the days of the Pharaohs. These Egyptian magicians are described in the book of Genesis as wise men. They were doubtless well versed in the occult arts. The Bible records show how capable they were of producing wonderful phenomena, and how profoundly they ministered to the superstitious ideas of their countrymen. It is clearly shown by documents and inscriptions recently brought to light that the magicians of Egypt were a separate class, "scribes of the sacred house," or "scribes of occult writings," and that they were held in great respect. They were associated in a council or college, where they learned the magical formulæ which they practised, and where they observed the secret rites of their profession. That they knew many curious things and exercised a marvellous art is clearly evident.

In Persia, also, a like class of wise men lived and flourished. The Magi were those who had studied the mysteries of nature and life, and who had special knowledge of the secret arts. They represent a class vastly superior to the sorcerers of Egypt, for they were philosophers rather than magicians, being able by their greater knowledge to produce effects which were accounted supernatural by the common people. We are left very much to conjecture as to what was the bond of connection between the Magi and the special work to which they applied their art and learning; but this we know, that under the Medo-Persian sway the Magi formed a sacred caste or college which had great celebrity. According to Strabo the Magi were astrologers and astronomers, while they also practised different sorts of divination, assuming to have power to forecast the future and influence the present by secret rites and agencies. If in some things they ministered to superstition and imposed upon a credulous and imaginative people, it is yet certain that they did not degrade their art into a low and deceptive magic. The Magi were more than mere jugglers and charlatans.

In Hebrew and Christian civilizations magic and divination appear only in the background. It appears, however, that magical practices of many kinds prevailed among the ancient Israelites, for the prophets are especially severe in their condemnation of such arts. Thus Isaiah rebukes the people for consulting those "that have familiar spirits, and the wizards that chirp and mutter." Israel suffered in this respect by contact with idolatrous nations, and the beliefs and practices thus derived had a prevailing force for a long period. Even in the early Christian times magic and divination had hosts of followers. Simon Magus and Elymas were famous sorcerers, and according to the New Testament record they had great influence over the people. Among both Jews and Greeks there were many who were addicted to magic, though it had fallen into disrepute among the educated classes.

In the middle ages there was what seems to have been a reviving belief in magic, or things of kindred character, and many strange and absurd practices prevailed. Then magic was studied as a science, and was advocated as a grand and mysterious art by some distinguished names. It was thought possible by magical means to discover the secrets of nature and produce the most marvellous results. The transmutation of base metals into gold, the discovery of the elixir of life and the acquiring of power over the elemental forces of nature, were some of the objects to be secured by magical agency. With this end in view, societies were formed, having peculiar rites and ceremonies, and following a ritual which was a strange mixture of legendary lore and superstition. It is often charged that Freemasonry was the outgrowth of some of these mediæval organisations, or that it was in some way connected with a system of magic practised in the dark ages. There is no ground for such an allegation. The most that can be said is, that there are resemblances between the Masonic Institution and the Hermetic Brotherhood that then existed. Some of the symbols known to Masonry were made use of in the practice of the Hermetic art, the professors of which were bound together by secret ties and solemn pledges, and divided into grades, somewhat after the plan of the Masonic system. Those who called themselves the followers of the "Thrice greatest Hermes" had fellowship in a sort of mystic union, and were given the means of ready recognition among themselves. But whatever the Hermetic Brotherhood of the early or later period may have represented in its character and purposes, it was not Masonry. Its legends and its watchwords were not those that the Craft has been instructed in from the earliest period until now, and its rites and ceremonies, together with its practical expression, were vastly different from the observances known to Masonic Lodge rooms, and the services outside to which brethren have been called.

There is little use of building upon the "Hermetic Masonry" of the Middle Ages, or of attempting to show any direct alliance between the societies of alchemists and astrologists which then sprang into existence, and that brotherhood which assumed its present organic form about the beginning of the eighteenth century. What does it matter if Masonry cannot show its descent from some fanciful system of the distant past? Something of its form and spirit was in many of the old philosophies and societies, but we may not be overanxious to trace a too close connection between those ancient systems and the present life of our great Fraternity. Masonry practises no arts of magic or divination. It deals in no wonder workings, and attempts no control over the occult forces of nature. It but speaks the words of wisdom appealing to the understanding and the heart, and makes use of symbols and rites to impress moral lessons, and to bring men into the relations of mutual helpfulness. Its mission is to communicate a larger, freer, happier life to its followers.

IMPERIAL THEATRE.

MR. CHARLES DU VAL, who has deservedly acquired a reputation as a humourist; author of "With a Show through Southern Africa," and originator of the celebrated monologue entitled "Odds and Ends," has been engaged by Mr. Edgar Bruce to give a limited number of afternoon performances at the Imperial Theatre, Westminster. Mr. Du Val brings to bear an extended experience acquired during his late tour in the South African Colonies. In September last he started for Pretoria, visiting all the towns of Natal and the Transvaal en route. After a difficult and often dangerous journey Mr. Du Val arrived in Pretoria just in time to enjoy the privilege of sharing the fate of its inhabitants and enduring beleaguerment of some five months' duration, where, however, he seems to have turned the occasion to material advantage as Editor of The News of the Camp, a tri-weekly little journal published under canvas in the military lines defending Pretoria. Mr. Du Val appears also to have seen some active service in the fighting around the town, and has been honourably mentioned in the official despatches of Lieut.-Col. Gildea, the Commandant of the garrison, for special services in the various actions, having his horse shot under him at the "Red House Kraal." The lecturer has a very happy way of recounting his adventures, and we can cordially recommend our readers to pay him a visit at the Imperial Theatre, where the entertainment is given every afternoon at Three o'clock p.m.

ANECDOTES OF ROBERT BURNS.

BURNS loved praise, and loved it not the less when it came from the lips of an accomplished lady.

"Madame," said he to Mrs. McMurdoe, "your praise has ballooned me up to Parnassus." "My merit is not all my own," he said to Robert Aiken of Ayr, "for you have read me into reputation."

To one who was frugal of his wine at table, and who was standing holding up a fresh bottle, saying, "Do allow me to draw this one cork more; I ask it as a favour." "Sir," said Burns, "you hold the screw over the cork like Abraham holding the knife above his son Isaac. Make the sacrifice!"

Of the farm of Ellisland, when some one said it was good ground, Burns answered, "And so it is, save what is stones. It is not land; it is the riddlings of the Creation!"

While at Moffat once with Clarke, the composer, the poet called for a bumper of brandy.

"Oh, not a bumper," said the musician; "I prefer two small glasses!"

"Two glasses!" cried Burns. "Why, you are like the lass in Kyle, who said she would rather be kissed twice bareheaded than once with her bonnet on."

Even on his last bed Burns's wit still flashed out in the face of death. When he looked up and saw Dr. Maxwell at his bedside, "Alas!" he said, "what has brought you here? I am but a poor crow, and not worth plucking." He pointed to his pistols, took them in his hand, and gave them to Maxwell, saying, they could not be in worthier keeping, and he should never more have need of them. This relieved his proud heart from a sense of obligation.

Soon afterwards he saw Gibson, one of his brother volunteers, by his bedside, with tears in his eyes. He smiled, and said, "John, do not let the awkward squad fire over me!"—Keystone.

Bro. Scott, P.G.D. England, D.P.G.M. Sussex, was, on Saturday last, presented with a silver goblet and a purse of 700 guineas as a mark of appreciation for his Masonic services. The Provincial Grand Master for Sussex, Sir W. W. Burrell presided.

REMINISCENCES OF A SECRETARY.

IT is said of some French judge or prefect of police that when a great criminal was brought before him, or when a startling crime had been committed, that he always asked for the woman in the case. While it does not often occur that any harm comes to us through women, yet I recollect a period in the history of our Lodge when it came very near being wrecked by the indirect agency of a very interesting and bewitching "widdy." And it happened thusly:

Bro. Watson had suffered long and intensely from inflammatory rheumatism, and was sick in bed from the effects of this excruciating malady. We often called on him to console and cheer him, but this was a hard and thankless job. Whether Bro. Watson got soured and cranky from long suffering, or whether it came natural to him we could never determine, only we knew that every time any one called, no matter how much the sick brother had improved, the visitor was greeted with a volume of abuse for not calling oftener, and it got so, at last, that the members absolutely refused to visit this chronic growler at all, and it was left to the Master, Secretary and other Officers to call on him as a matter of duty, and of course they were obliged to listen to his growling as part of their official duty; and, besides all this, the man was never very popular in the Lodge, even when he did visit us before he was taken down, and, withal, he was a very disagreeable person; red, stubby hair, and a freckled face, raw-boned, and very "raw" otherwise—uncultured and coarse in manner and thought.

He had sailed "before the mast" at one period of his life, and had travelled a great deal, but his travels had not improved his mind as much as might have been expected. When he settled in New York he had some money saved, and with this he opened a sailors' boarding-house, and made money rapidly for some years. But misfortune overtook him; he got sick and laid up; then his wife, his mainstay, died from hard work and exhaustion, and soon after this he sold his boarding-house and lived privately on his money, and then began to look around for another wife, and we all marvelled at his success in this line, for his second "affinity" was an angel, especially as compared with her ugly and cranky husband, and not only was she very beautiful, but also very sweet-tempered, and never winced under the coarse and rude orders from her husband who was about twenty years her senior.

At first we had a standing committee to visit him; then a special committee was appointed; and lastly, as already stated, it devolved upon the Master and myself, with an occasional call from one of the Wardens or members.

The time of which I am now speaking was towards the latter end of poor decrepid old Watson, and we had to call oftener, as he was growing worse very fast, and sometimes had to sit up all night to afford his exhausted family the much-needed rest. Among those who most quietly served was a Brother Terwilliger, a widower, who said he did not mind Bro. Watson's growling, and often sat up with him nights.

In the absence of the Master, the Senior Warden attended to Lodge affairs, and among other things often waited upon old Bro. Watson; but the end was not far off, and exhausted nature came to the relief of the sufferer, who had lain on his bed of pain and torture for many weary years. We buried him with Masonic honours, and spread the broad mantle of Charity over his foibles and shortcomings, and in the sympathy with his long suffering we forgot his cross ways and growlings. After we had laid him away to his eternal rest, a Committee was appointed to look after the widow and aid her in securing her rights, and see that she obtained what was coming to her, for a hoard of hungry relatives began now to gather around the lone woman, to secure for themselves some of the wealth they supposed was left by old Bro. Watson; but this wealth had steadily decreased, until there was very little left for the poor widow.

Among the Committee so appointed were Bro. Terwilliger and the Senior Warden, both of whom were very assiduously working for the interest and welfare of the lone widow. There were some little balances left in some of the savings banks, all of which were in due time and through due process of law withdrawn and redeposited in Mrs. Watson's own name, and whenever a report was made to the Lodge it was that things were progressing nicely and Widow Watson was getting along very smoothly.

I never interested myself very much in this case, as I knew several of the brethren were attending to this matter faithfully, and I had enough to see to with other things, but gradually rumours began to be heard that Brothers Terwilliger and the acting Master were very attentive, and that a feeling was being developed which was more than ordinary Masonic interest or brotherly love; in short it was broadly intimated that both these brethren were seeking the hand of the fair Mrs. Watson, and if she showed more attention to one, the other would become jealous, and then a bitter feeling was aroused which would show itself in the Lodge by an opposition to every measure the one or the other would advocate. Slight and silly as this may seem, each of these gallant brethren had their friends and followers among the members, and all became quite interested in the vigorous courtship which was carried on by these two smitten men. Occasionally some mischievous brother would move to appoint a special Committee to visit Mrs. Watson and ascertain her wish or desire, but this was not entertained, as both the above brethren were ready to vouch that she wanted nothing from the Lodge, and was able to take care of herself, and she knew her own mind well enough, the latter usually with an emphasis which concealed some hidden meaning.

Now, Mrs. Watson was not a candidate for office in the Lodge, but the Senior Warden and Bro. Terwilliger were, and such bitter feeling existed between these two on account of this lady, that by the time we had an election, there was a very lively strife as to who should gain the ascendancy over the other. Many of the members ranged themselves on one side or the other, and the contest became very exciting, and when election came, and the ballots were counted, it was found that both the contestants were laid on the shelf.

The Senior Warden was satisfied with his first defeat (for Master), but Bro. Terwilliger insisted upon being a candidate for nearly every office in the Lodge, and was badly beaten for each. Most of the brethren were well pleased with the result, as it ended the contest between these two brethren, at least in the Lodge, and the Senior Warden soon after took his dimit. But after that the contest between these two was confined to the trial of obtaining control of Widow Watson's hand and heart, and it seemed that the election in the Lodge was a forecast of what was going to happen to these two silly knights, for Mrs. Watson slyly shelved them both, and gradually discouraged their visits. About three years after the death of her husband she married a very worthy man—a German grocer—who was not a Mason, but had a prosperous business, which he carried on at the corner of the street where Mrs. Watson lived. Bro. Terwilliger swore that he never seriously thought of marrying "that woman," only he was provoked to see our Senior Warden making a fool of himself, and especially to bring such silly things in the Lodge, and spreading foolish gossip among the brethren, then leaving the Lodge altogether, taking two or three personal friends out with him.—*N. THE COMING BOYS' FESTIVAL.

OUR readers are reminded that the Eighty-fifth Anniversary Festival in aid of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, at Wood Green, will be held on Wednesday, the 20th inst., at the Crystal Palace, under the presidency of Bro. the Right Hon. Viscount Holmesdale, R.W. Prov. Grand Master of Kent. This will be unquestionably the Festival of the year, and consequently no apology is needed for bringing it once more under the special notice of the brethren, seeing that we are on the eve of a gathering which is looked forward to with more than ordinary interest, not merely in London, but throughout the Provinces. It will be recollected that in consequence of the great demand upon the resources of the Institution, it was decided some time ago to inaugurate a Preparatory School, and this movement has been taken up by the Craft with a spirit such as could scarcely have been anticipated. But now, as the strain upon the executive of the Festival will be exceptionally severe, and to make everything as clear as possible, we may briefly recapitulate the instructions which have been issued to those whose intention it is to be present, and which, if followed out in the spirit which invariably characterises an assemblage of Masons, cannot fail to reduce the labour and anxiety of the executive to a minimum, but will tend materially to secure the thorough and complete enjoyment of all present. We are of opinion that the Board of Stewards displayed true wisdom in selecting the Crystal Palace for the great Festival of the year, in preference to the other localities suggested. There are many obvious reasons why the gathering should not take place at the Institution, at Wood Green, itself, inasmuch as many of the brethren would have to go considerably out of their way to reach the spot, and disadvantages respecting culinary and other arrangements presented which at once induced the Board to vote almost unanimously against the proposal. A much larger number of the Stewards were in favour of Brighton, though the unwisdom of holding what has always been a moveable Festival at the same place in three successive years, was apparent, and thus that proposal was also finally abandoned. The two other localities indicated were the Crystal Palace and St. James's Hall, and it was in the choice between these places that the greatest amount of contention arose. But although there may be much to be said in favour of the luxurious establishment in Piccadilly, it must be admitted that on a hot June evening, such as we have of late experienced, the idea of a banquet indoors is rather a serious one, and one might well be pardoned for expressing a preference for such semi-open air advantages as the Palace at Sydenham affords. So the Board evidently thought, for on the final voting 114 ruled in favour of the Crystal Palace against 86 for St. James's Hall. It has been mentioned that the large saloon, with the adjacent ante-rooms and corridors, will accommodate 680 persons, and we fully anticipate that there will be very few vacant chairs on the occasion. The grand saloons and summer dining rooms situated in the railway corridor, leading from the station of the London, Brighton, and South Coast Railway, with ladies' toilette and withdrawing rooms above, the whole overlooking the Palace grounds, will be exclusively reserved for the Festival, and every arrangement, down to the minutest detail, has been made to secure the thorough enjoyment and pleasure of those who shall be present. Ample regulations have been laid down for the guidance of Stewards and their friends, as to the tables at which they are to sit, so that there may be not the slightest chance of any hitch or confusion to mar the general comfort. The Stewards, ladies, and brethren will meet in the enclosed corridor and balcony adjoining, and on the arrival of the Chairman, he will be received by the Officers of the Board, Special Stewards, and members of the House Committee of the Institution, who will all enter the banquet room together, immediately the company have been seated by the Stewards to whom that duty has been entrusted. As this Festival is not in a strict sense a Masonic one—inasmuch as ladies and non-Masons will be privileged to attend—although ostensibly and in reality held for a Masonic purpose, it is specially commanded that no Masonic clothing nor jewel shall be worn, a regulation which will of course be rigidly obeyed. After the banquet light refreshments will be served throughout the evening, and with the attractions of the Handel Festival, combined with the ordinary means of recreation and enjoyment ever found in the Palace and its grounds, which are now in the height of their summer beauty, there will be an abundance of resources at hand for variety and spending a completely pleasant day. We need scarcely here remind our brethren of the vast claims which the Institution has upon the liberality of the Craft, for by this time a majority of the lists have been made up, and we trustfully anticipate that Brother Binckes will have the pleasurable duty of notifying the receipt of a substantial amount There are so many reasons that have been often descanted upon in these columns why a strenuous effort should be made this year to uphold the hands of the executive that we expect a wholesome spirit has been put on by the Stewards who will be in their places on Wednesday next, and we trust that in looking forward to a rich and abundant harvest of benevolence in favour of the Institution, nobody will be disappointed.

THE APPROACHING RECESS.

WHEN the "leafy month of June" sets in, and all those who have the time and means at their disposal are prone to quit for a season the oppressive City for the fresh fields and pastures new of the country, we look naturally for a corresponding cessation of the work in our Lodges, and visions rise up of summer banquets and cosy pic-nic parties in which the gentle sex are enabled to sip some of the "mysteries and privileges of the Order." Many of our Metropolitan Lodges have already been prorogued for the recess, and have thus early laid the foundation for their summer arrangements, cozened into activity, no doubt, by the brilliant weather we have experienced during the past few weeks. However assiduous and loyal to the cause upon which they have set their hearts our brethren may be, it is not in flesh and blood to submit to the oppressive and "stuffy" influences of an indoor meeting, in the tropical season of the year, when bright skies, luxuriant meadows and refreshing breezes put in their competitive charms; and it is no matter for surprise that on these delightful summer evenings the brethren are to be seen scampering off with their families and friends into the suburbs, or making use of road, river, and rail, in order to get as rapidly and as far away from the scenes of their every-day drudgery as they can. Nor are they in the least degree to blame. The jaded spirit rebels at the constant monotony of workaday routine, and naturally longs for an invigorating change; and unless this is by some means secured the whole machinery is thrown out of gear. And so it is from a Masonic sense, and the operation of our Lodges. There requires the tonic of an occasional respite from labour for the refreshment of both the physical and mental faculties, and unless this is obtained the chariot wheels of work drag heavily; the whole proceedings lack tone and verve; and so there is a break in the continuity of that cordial and hearty co-operation which it is so desirable should be maintained. When, at this period of the year, the Tyler packs up the implements of which he is the custodian, he seems to regard the brethren whose servant he is with a degree of paternal interest, just as the old family butler contemplates the packing of luggage prior to the annual Continental trip, or as a schoolmaster watches the joy of anticipation in the faces of his boys who are about to separate for the term. By the time Lodge resumes its labours he will have furbished up the pedestals, and columns, and working tools, and made everything decent and in order for carrying on the pursuit of the mystic art, and he will welcome back the brethren who may have bronzed their visages by the "sad sea waves," or swept away all physical and mental cobwebs by journeying across country, or by voyages upon the river and sea. There is a sort of renewal of the lease of energy and vigour in this recurring break in the ordinary duties of the Lodge-room which cannot fail to be attended by the most beneficial results. We all know that one is apt to turn giddy if the body is revolved rapidly for a long period in one direction, and it is necessary to reverse the motion in order to restore the normal equanimity. At the commencement of the season the Master and his brethren meet to renew those old acquaintanceships which they have learnt to appreciate so heartily in times gone by, to make their plans for the future, and to gauge the amount of work which might be in store for them during the session upon which they have just entered. Many and various are the reminiscences related of pleasant excursions to the seaside, or amongst the quiet by-ways of the country, where healthful relaxation and refreshing calm go hand in hand. Every man who is in "populous city pent"—chained, year in, year out, to the desk, and plunged in the "dem'd horrid grind" of life, as Mr. Mantelini would put it—is certainly bound to snatch from the coils of constant labour a period of recreation. The old axiom of "all work and no play" finds kaleidoscopic variation in all that sages have written and poets sung. "A little nonsense now and then is relished by the wisest men," is accepted as a truism equally with a saying of the old prose writer, who, when over-burdened with the anxieties of his profession, burst into verse, and sighed for the hour when he could "Lie on my back on the fresh greensward; With a straw in my mouth, and an open vest." And so it is all round. The wretched and unkempt denizens of our courts and alleys, so favourite a theme with modern writers, are glad to have afforded them the opportunity of a "day in the country," where they can look over unaccustomed fields, and glory amongst the wild flowers that revel in free profusion. The singing of the birds and the pure pellucid atmosphere are to them a source of infinite delight, and it is no matter for surprise that any one who has seen the genuine mirth of such an assembly should be anxious to lend a helping hand to those who assist in arranging for so much true happiness and pleasure. But a parallel is found in other strata of society; and perhaps it applies, though certainly in a somewhat different degree, to Freemasonry. All through the autumn and winter months the brethren have been wont to meet at their own and other Lodges, and have participated in the arduous duties, as well as the pleasures, which Masonry affords. There is a common saying, which to a microscopic extent, all must admit, that the gatherings of the Craft are of a somewhat selfish character, inasmuch as the sisters and spouses of the brethren are not permitted to gratify their curiosity as to the secrets of the Order—even if any sensible woman of modern times entertains such a foible as rendered Mrs. Caudle so perpetually unhappy and irritant. But when the skies are bright, and the annual question is put to Paterfamilias as, "Where shall we go for our summer holiday?" another phase of the Masonic character becomes apparent, and then comes in the apt and apposite couplet—

> No mortals can more the ladies adore
> Than a Free and an Accepted Mason.

Then it is, with a consciousness of having well and wisely got through the labours of the session, the brethren can lay down their tools and quit the scene of their ordinary labours, and fly off to their deserved pastures of recreation, without scruple and without diffidence, well knowing they are entitled to such respite as that of which they stand in need. Some who have roaming tendencies will visit those secluded spots with which the Continent abounds, whilst others of more modest means and fancies find equal enjoyment in occasional "outings" to quite as pretty nooks and corners, near home. In each and every case the enjoyment may be as great, providing the temperaments of those who participate in the holiday are in keeping with the peculiar situation. At any rate, they will all come home with some new source of fraternal greeting and information, and when work is resumed, there will be such an interchange of congratulation as always renders the re-opening of the Masonic Parliament most enjoyable. Already, as we have said, the brethren and their fair friends are on the qui vive of expectation of pleasant drives to some luxuriant lawn where luncheon may be enjoyed amongst the golden cups and daisies, and under the shade of umbrageous trees, or of cool refreshing voyages down the Thames, to some sequestered spot, of which there are so many within a score of miles of London. We can only say to those expectant ones, that we wish for them all the pleasure they can possibly extract from such arrangements as may be considerately made for them by the brethren who undertake the duty, and that, having passed the period of the recess, as we are sure they will do, "within the limits of becoming mirth," they will return with mental and physical energies refreshed for the busy toil which they will find it necessary to meet in the coming session.

THE FORTHCOMING VISIT OF THE M.W. GRAND MASTER TO YORK.

THE Masonic ceremonial of laying the memorial stone of the York Institute of Art, Science and Literature has been fixed for Wednesday, the 18th July next. York during that week will be in a condition of great excitement, for a series of events will take place of great importance. The meeting of the Royal Agricultural Society, which will be held on the Knavesmire (the race course), will be a gigantic affair, in addition to which there will be an important dog show, &c. The Grand Master of England will attend the show as the guest of Sir George Wombwell, Bart., and will stay in York for probably three days. Besides visiting the show his Royal Highness has promised to attend a gathering at the York Fine Art Exhibition, which is being prepared for his reception in the most lavish manner.

But the important day will be the one above mentioned, when the Prince has graciously consented to lay the memorial stone of the new Institute, now being erected in Clifford-street, with Masonic honours. For this event great preparations are being made. The enclosure within which the ceremony will take place will be arranged to accommodate between 2000 and 3000 persons, and will be roofed in with canvas, and the price of reserved seats for the general public will be one guinea. The temporary structure will be designed to represent a mediæval castellated building, and will present a most imposing aspect, and will be profusely garlanded and decorated.

As soon as the announcement was made of the intention of the Grand Master to lay the stone in his official Masonic capacity, the Prov. G. Master of North and East Yorkshire, and his Deputy, proceeded to nominate a Local Committee with a view to carrying out the necessary preliminary details. This Committee is as follows:—Bros. T. B. Whytehead (corresponding Chairman), M. C. Peck Prov. Grand Sec., M. T. Collingwood Prov. G.D.C., R. H. Peacock Prov. G.A.D.C., G. Kirby W.M. 236, M. Millington W.M. 1611, E. J. de Salis W.M. 1991, J. S. Rymer P.M. 236 (Sheriff of York), J. Todd P.M. 236, J. S. Cumberland P.M. 1611. The Committee has proceeded actively with its work, and the preparations are as forward as is possible. The York Assembly Rooms have been secured for the meeting of Prov. Grand Lodge, under the Earl of Zetland, and those who are acquainted with that beautiful structure, designed by the Earl of Burlington, will readily judge how admirably suited to the occasion is its classical style and elegance of adornment.

The Grand Lodge will be opened in the Guildhall, a noble old mediæval apartment, lighted through stained glass windows, and rich in historic memories. The procession will have about a quarter of a mile of streets to traverse, a distance that will be scarcely sufficient for the number of brethren whom we hear are likely to attend. The streets will be decorated in the most magnificent way, for the inhabitants of the ancient capital of the North are resolved on sparing nothing to do honour to their Royal guest.

After the ceremony and return of the procession to the Guildhall, Brother the Lord Mayor of York will give a luncheon to a hundred of the most distinguished Masons in the State Room of the Mansion House, which is now being specially redecorated for the occasion. The State Room is a very beautiful and stately apartment, and contains many portraits of Royal personages who have visited York at various times and partaken of civic hospitality. It will be as well for us to mention that no brother will under any circumstances be permitted within the enclosure to view the ceremony without a ticket. These tickets will be sold at 5/-, for the benefit of the Institution of Art, Science, and Literature, and we shall announce their issue as soon as they are offered for sale. The whole arrangements are of course in the hands of the Grand Secretary, Colonel Shadwell H. Clerke, and the Grand Director of Ceremonies, Sir Albert Woods (Garter), with whom the local Committee are in correspondence.

AIMS OF FREEMASONRY.

WHAT has been done is, perhaps, of less importance than that which remains to be accomplished. It is not enough that we have wrought a task in the quarries and brought up our work for inspection, agreeably to the designs laid down for us by those whom we have succeeded in the labour of building up the walls of our Masonic Temple, for having reached a stage of Masonic preferment when it has been allotted to us to design that others may execute, the Craft have a right to demand that the plans we shall conceive shall correspond in the grandeur and breadth of their conception, with the exalted honours which we enjoy. If the high dignities and sounding titles we possess be our only qualifications to enlighten the Craft and the world in respect to the aims and objects of Freemasonry, we shall merit the denunciation so justly pronounced against those who assume duties they are not qualified to perform. It is not given unto all of us to accomplish some great work, by which our names shall be perpetuated after we are dead, but there is no man so humble or so devoid of talents, that he may not accomplish something to make the world the better for his having lived in it, and to impress which even, although they may be effaced by the first rising of the tide, shall, while they remain, mark the path trod in the performance of duties rendered, not unwillingly and solely because they are duties, but because they tend to the accomplishment of a noble end, and some one, it may chance to be a stranger and an ingrate, is to be benefited thereby. It is said that a celebrated Egyptologist discovered a tomb of the god Apis which had never been opened. On entering, he says, for the first time, he beheld distinctly marked on the delicate bed of sand which covered the soil, the impression of the footprints of the workmen who, three thousand seven hundred years ago, had placed the image of the god on his couch, and then retired. As no one knows, or cares to know, the names of the workmen, who, nearly forty centuries ago, left this, the only record of their existence, so it may be that no one will know or care to know our names, but it is possible for us to accomplish, in the few years which are allotted to us to labour in the Lodge terrestrial, that which forty centuries hence, aye, for all eternity, will work for good or evil, and thus it happens that our deeds are of more importance to those who shall come after us than we ourselves are. Men seldom pause to inquire whose hand traced or whose brain inspired a statute which confers a benefit, or works an injury, but the consequences resulting from its enactment make the law itself the object of respect or denunciation. What we shall do here this year may be undone by those who shall stand in our places another year, but the consequence of our acts are for all time, and cannot be undone. Thus it becomes us to consider well the results which are to follow our acts and judgments, lest we inflict an injury where we intend conferring a benefit, or render a judgment which shall work an irreparable wrong where we design administering impartial and exact justice.

Viewed from the exterior, Freemasonry presents no marked excellencies which are not possessed in common with numerous other Associations. To the profane it is simply an organisation which proposes to practise virtues which all mankind are under like obligations to perform, but to those who have entered within the most secret apartments of the temple, and beheld the cherubim whose outstretched wings shield the ark of the covenant, and who have studied its symbols and read their hidden meaning, it exhibits peculiarities which distinguish it from all other human organisations, and to him who has been so fortunate as to receive the true spirit of the inspiration which it breathes in its every teaching, it must always remain without a peer in his affections. We speak this in no spirit of self-approbation or of vaunted superiority, for while it must ever retain to itself the peculiar field it occupies, it also imposes a greater and higher measure of duties upon its initiates. This is not an occasion which calls for an exposition of the nature or extent of those duties. You would not be here if you did not already understand and appreciate them, and you also know whether it is worth the expenditure of time and labour which is demanded by the effort, to make it the means of doing a greater and ever-increasing measure of good, not only to ourselves, but to all mankind.—The Canadian Craftsman.

ROYAL MASONIC BENEVOLENT INSTITUTION.

THE monthly meeting of the General Committee was held on Wednesday, at Freemasons' Hall. Bro. Colonel John Creaton presided, and the following brethren also were present:—Bros. James Brett, Frederick Adlard, G. Bolton, W. H. Goodall, Charles Belton, James Moon, Raynham W. Stewart, Edgar Bowyer, W. J. Murlis, Henry Moore, C. G. Dilley, L. Stean, W. J. Stephens, C. H. Webb, Charles Atkins, Thomas W. Bush, J. A. Farnfield, A. H. Tattershall, Charles Lacey, E. F. Dix, Julius Qnitmann, G. L. Moore, C. J. Perceval, Thomas Cubitt, Jabez Hogg, E. C. Massey, and James Terry Secretary. The minutes of the previous meeting having been read, Bro. Terry reported that since the last meeting four annuitants had died, viz., Bros. Mauer, Harrex, Matthew Cooke, and Mrs. Betty Moorhouse, and, according to the practice of the Committee, the vacancies were at once filled up. Bro. Terry also reported that Bro. Wirtzfeld, a successful candidate at the election on the 18th ult., had died on the afternoon of that day. Four cheques, amounting together to £26 7s 6d, were reported as having been received from the John Hervey Memorial Fund, and distributed to the two brethren and two widows standing highest on the poll of unsuccessful candidates. Certificates were read of Brother Griggs, architect, for the payment of £250 to the contractors for work done at the Institution, and for the payment of £5 to G. R. Smith for painting. Applications from the widows of Bros. Harrex and Matthew Cooke for a moiety of their late husband's annuities were granted. Bros. John Bulmer, T. W. C. Bush, W. J. Murlis, William Stephens, and Tattershall were elected to serve on the Finance and Audit Committee; and Bros. Bowyer, Cubitt, Farnfield, Perceval, and Stewart were re-elected as the House Committee. On the motion of Brother Stewart, it was resolved to give the usual summer treat to the annuitants resident at the Institution, and the House Committee were requested to give effect to the resolution. Brother James Terry reported having written letters of condolence to the widows of Bros. Duff-Filer, Gallant and Hale, and that he had received a letter of acknowledgment, written by Bro. Buss, on behalf of Mrs. Duff-Filer, which he read to the Committee. There were four petitions, which were considered and discussed at some length, but ultimately all were received, and the names of the candidates ordered to be added to the lists. The Secretary said, in reply to an inquiry from a brother who was not present when the matter was formally reported, that the whole of the money due from the two Stewards, who were reported to the Committee some time since, had now been received. He said that there were, however, two others who had not paid in the sums they had collected, and whose names he would have to report to the next meeting if their amounts then remained unpaid. The Committee authorised the Secretary to communicate on the subject with the Grand Masters of the Provinces to which the brethren belonged. A vote of thanks to the Chairman terminated the proceedings.

PROVINCIAL G.L. OF NORTHS AND HUNTS.

THE Annual Provincial Grand Lodge meeting of the several Lodges in the Province of Northe and Hunts, was held at St. Peter's College, Peterborough, under the banner of St. Peter's Lodge, 442, on Thursday, 7th June. The Provincial Grand Master his Grace the Duke of Manchester not having attended Provincial Grand Lodge for the last six years, it was hoped that he would have been present on this occasion, but, at the last moment, to the general regret and disappointment, his Grace was unfortunately prevented attending. His place was most efficiently filled by the Deputy Prov. Grand Master Brother Butler Wilkins. The Board of Benevolence and Charity Organisation Committee met at the College at 12 o'clock, where the usual business was transacted, and several grants made to the Masonic Charities and to brethren of the Province. Bro. T. M. Percival P.M. 445 was appointed Provincial Trustee in the place of Bro. R. Howes, after which Provincial Grand Lodge was opened in due form, the acting Prov. Grand Master being supported by Bro. John Marson as acting Deputy Provincial Grand Master. Bro. E. Vergette P.M. 442 filled the chair of S.W. temporarily, Bro. Henry Brown P.M. 1764 occupying his chair as Prov. Grand J.W. The attendance was smaller than usual (not more than eighty being present), owing no doubt in a great measure to the absence of the Prov. Grand Master. The Deputy Prov. Grand Master having expressed the regret of the Duke of Manchester at his inability to be present, the usual business of Grand Lodge was transacted, and the following brethren were duly invested as Officers for the ensuing year:—

Various questions concerning the Craft having been dealt with, the resignation of Bro. Griffin as Director of Ceremonies was referred to. A vote of thanks was accorded him for the efficiency with which he had discharged the duties of that office for several years, and great appreciation was expressed as to his assiduity and success in working for the Masonic Benevolent Institutions. The thanks of the Lodge were also given to Bro. the Rev. C. Daymond, for the use of the Collegiate buildings for the meeting. The Rev. C. Daymond, in reply, said their thanks were due to the College Committee, who very readily acceded to the application. They had not, he said, forgotten that the foundation stone of these buildings was laid by the Provincial Grand Master for that time. Bro. H. J. Atkins P.M. 1764, who had been appointed Provincial Grand Steward for the year for the Masonic Charities, thanked the Lodge for the handsome grant made towards a nucleus for the fund of the Province—Benevolent Institution twenty guineas, Boys' School thirty guineas, Girls' five guineas. He referred to the liberal contribution given to his predecessors in their Stewardships for the Aged and Decayed Institution, and trusted the brethren would rally round him, and enable him to carry up such a list as would be a credit to the Province and substantially useful to the Institutions. He hoped to visit the various Lodges during the year and lay the claims of the Charities before them. Bro. Pank, with the permission of the Acting Provincial Grand Master, brought before Grand Lodge the Peterborough Cathedral Restoration Fund, and gave notice that at the next annual meeting he would propose a sum be voted from the Provincial Grand Lodge towards the fund. The Acting Grand Master having stated that the Grand Master had appointed the next annual meeting to be held at Northampton, under the banner of the Eleanor Cross, and other business having been transacted, the Lodge was closed in due form. Subjoined is a list of the brethren present:—St. Peter's Lodge 442 (Peterborough):—Bros. W. Dixey W.M., John Wheeler S.W., Stephen Bamber J.W., H. Wathen Wigg W.M. Past Prov. Grand Chap. of Northe and Hunts, Leicester and Rutland, Rev. A. H. Cole Hamilton Prov. A.G.C. S.D., and Brook Sampson Sec. and Organist 1764. The visitors included Speechly W.M. Hope 350 S.C., East India, Alfred Hamson 469 I.P.M. P.P.G.S.W., W. H. Sampson York 236 W.M., C. Downall Dublin, E. L. Shelton 1366 P.M. Highgate, &c. The banquet was held at the Angel Hotel, when a récherché repast was served by Brother J. Clifton. The room was most tastefully decorated. The D.P.G.M. (Brother Butler Wilkins) occupied the chair, and was supported on his right by Brother E. Vergette sen. P.P.S.G.W., on his left by Brother J. U. Stanton Provincial Grand Treasurer, and by the principal G. Lodge Officers. The Queen and Craft, and the M.W. the Grand Master of England H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, K.G., were loyally honoured. The M.W. the Pro Grand Master of England (the Right Hon. the Earl of Carnarvon), the D.G.M. (the Earl of Lathom), and the Officers of Grand Lodge, having been given from the Chair, Brother F. G. Buckle gave the R.W. the Provincial Grand Master His Grace the Duke of Manchester, and the Deputy Prov. G.M. Brother Butler Wilkins. Referring to the Duke's regrettable absence, he said a man of his position had so many calls upon his time that it was extremely difficult for him to get to Prov. G. Lodge, and no doubt his Grace felt that his presence was not so essential on account of the vitality of the Lodges and the able services of his excellent Deputy. His Grace had been most happy in his choice of a Deputy. The D. Prov. G.M., in responding, said the cause of the Grand Master's absence was a pressing business engagement, which rendered it impossible to get down, at the last moment. Had his Grace been present he should have had the pleasure of representing to him the great progress which Masonry in the Province had made since he was last amongst them—some six years ago; that two new Lodges had been founded, and that the working of the Lodges had greatly improved. At the same time, he would have had to say that faces with which they had been familiar they regretfully missed from amongst them. The Grand Lodge Officers past and present having been honoured, Bro. Pank responded, making some practical observations, and also expressing the regret of many of the brethren at the absence of the Prov. Grand Master, and that it had been so long since his Grace had been amongst them. Bro. J. U. Stanton gave the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institutions, viz., the Girls' School, the Boys' School, and the Institution for Aged Freemasons and Widows of Freemasons. He knew how much they regretted that Bro. James Terry, the Secretary for the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution, was not amongst them that day, as he had been for some years past on similar occasions, and then proceeded to give an interesting sketch of the grand work these Institutions were doing, giving instances of the practical good that had come within his own personal knowledge. The small Province of Northamptonshire and Huntingdonshire had done nobly. The good they did was beyond their conception. Two years ago, when he had the honour of representing the Province as Steward, thanks to their liberality, he was fourth highest on the list, and the present year that amount was exceeded by Bro. R. H. Griffin, who acted as their Steward. They had attained such a position that any candidate supported by them was almost sure of success the first time. Bro. H. J. Atkins, in replying, expressed the hope that the Lodges would help him as liberally as they had done his predecessors; and he would do his best to secure as large, if not a larger sum, for the noble Institutions which were the outcome of Masonic benevolence. By these Charities they helped their aged brethren, the widow, and the orphan—not by pauperising them, but by maintaining their self-respect while helping them, and, in the case of the boys and girls, preparing them, by a sound education, for an honourable and useful career. Nothing could give them greater happiness than thus to contribute to the peace and comfort of the declining years of aged brethren, or to provide for deceased brothers' widows; or to the maintenance and education of the orphans they left behind them. "The Visiting Brethren" was ably responded to by Bro. E. L. Shelton P.M. 1366, who apologised for the absence of Bro. James Terry, and stated the pleasure it gave him to belong to a Lodge with which Bro. Terry was so closely connected. The acting Prov. Grand Master gave the W.M.'s and Brethren of the various Lodges in the Province, which was severally responded to by the W.M.'s and brethren present. Bro. J. T. Smith gave the Ladies, which was responded to by E. Crisp. The Tyler's toast concluded the business of the evening. The whole meeting passed off in a most satisfactory manner, its success being in a great measure attributable to the efficient manner it which Brother George Ellard performed his duties as Director of Ceremonies, being well assisted by Bro. J. T. Smith. The harmony of the evening was greatly enhanced by the excellent singing of Bros. W. J. Pilcher, H. J. Atkins, J. J. Hart, J. W. Ingram, Wheeler, J. Clifton, F. G. Buckle, George Ellard, J. U. Stanton, &c. Bros. Brook Sampson (piano), R. Croft (harmonium), J. T. Smith (cornet) accompanied, and also contributed solos.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—The changes of temperature and weather frequently upset persons who are most cautious of their health, and most particular in their diets. These corrective, purifying, and gentle aperient Pills are the best remedy for all defective actions of the digestive organs; they augment the appetite, strengthen the stomach, correct biliousness, and carry off all that is noxious from the system. Holloway's Pills are composed of rare balsams, unmixed with baser matter, and on that account are peculiarly well adapted for the young, delicate, and aged. As this peerless medicine has gained fame in the past, so will it preserve it in the future by its renovating and invigorating qualities, and its incapacity of doing harm.

OBSTRUCTION IN GRAND LODGE.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Our very worshipful and esteemed brother the Grand Registrar, M.P. for Worcester, brought with him an experience gained in the House of Commons—of which, by-the-bye, he proved himself an apt follower, by the perfunctory and deliberate manner in which he presented the appeal from a brother of New Zealand, the whole, or very nearly the whole of which case had, word for word, been before Grand Lodge a year ago. Our able and astute Registrar opened his case at 9·30, and he managed to spin the matter out for twenty-three minutes and a half. His action was then substantiated and approved by his reputed successor in office, who was stimulated without avail by the Grand Director of Ceremonies, with watch in hand, to continue speaking. The summing-up of the M.W.G.M. in the chair completed the time, viz., ten o'clock, after which no new matter can be introduced for consideration in Grand Lodge. Now, the Grand Registrar need not have given himself so much trouble, for the assembly having become smaller by degrees and beautifully less during his interesting discourse, I should never have thought for one moment of going on with my motion; but, with the permission of the chair, would have been content to defer it to the next meeting, and allow the annual motion of the Past Grand Treasurer for the winter coals for the residents at the R.M.B.I. to take precedence.

My motion, in order to make it clear to your readers, requires a concise preface. Some two years or more ago, the then Board of General Purposes undertook, unknown to the Craft generally, a very important and much required work, that of revising the Book of Constitutions, many of the laws having from time to time been changed, while others had become obsolete. In fact, an entire re-arrangement of the work had become necessary, so that a Worshipful Master might refer to the Constitutions with confidence when in doubt as to what course he ought to pursue. Between June and September of '82 the Craft were informed that they could see copies of the revision at the Grand Secretary's office in London, or at the Provincial Grand Secretaries' offices in the Provinces; this very limited and inconvenient opportunity did not suffice for the brethren, so, accordingly, when the Board of General Purposes asked Grand Lodge to accept the Revision, in September, the members very naturally declined to do so, and it was then and there decided that copies of the intended alterations should be sent to every Lodge, and any individual member might purchase a copy or copies at a cost not exceeding 2s each. Further, it was resolved, that amendments and alterations should be sent to the Grand Secretary's office not later than 31st of January 1883, and that some time in February the M.W.G.M. should be advised to summon a Special G.L. to take the matter into consideration. The fruit of the error that the Revise Committee had committed in not consulting the Craft, and asking for suggestions and amendments while they were engaged on their task, now displayed themselves, and the alterations which might have been considered during the first twelve months of the work now came in, to the number of some 800 or more. This precluded the calling of a Special Grand Lodge; and when the Quarterly Communication took place in March, the matter was referred back to the Board of General Purposes, to report upon at the meeting in June. Now, with the exception of my motion, there was not a word on the agenda paper of what progress, if any, had been made, and I have been informed that it was the intention to let the whole matter drop. I can hardly think that my informant could have been correct, or that the desire of Grand Lodge should be treated as a dead letter. At the same time, when I inquired at the Grand Secretary's office if my motion had been accepted? I was told, "Yes;—for what it was worth;" and, "Had I interest with the printers, as I wanted 800 amendments and alterations laid before Grand Lodge in September next?" which latter date must of necessity be postponed until the Quarterly Communication in December. I consider the subject, i.e. the Rules and Regulations by which our ever-increasing Order is to be governed, is of such importance that, in addition to the notice of motion now standing in my name (with the date changed), I shall move, following the example set by the Committee for the Rebuilding of the Temple, "That as the defined Rules and Regulations under which our Order is to be governed is a matter of the gravest importance to our well-being, and owing to the great delay that has hitherto taken place in bringing the matter to an issue, that a Committee should be formed, consisting of twelve members, six to be appointed by Grand Lodge, and six by the Board of General Purposes, to take in hand the reconsideration of the Revision of the Book of Constitutions, together with the suggested amendments and alterations, as soon as possible, and to lay the result thereof before Grand Lodge in December;—for acceptance." By these means both views of the case will be brought to bear; the purple and the blue; and the decision of the combined Committee should be final, only requiring the confirmation of Grand Lodge to become law.

With regard to the word confirmation; according to the ruling of the Pro G.M., the word "verification," or "that the minutes have been correctly entered," should certainly in some instances be substituted; for there can be no doubt that the feeling of Grand Lodge is very strong in the desire to know what are, and what are not, the prerogatives of the Most Worshipful Grand Master. I am entirely at issue with the Grand Registrar, that the Most Worshipful Grand Master can alter the law of precedence, or any other laws, except with the consent of Grand Lodge. He has the power of appointing whom he desires to the various offices; he can give his consent to, or place his veto on, new laws; but, per se, he cannot alter; and any person who has studied his Royal Highness and his actions, in or out of Freemasonry, must feel convinced in his own mind that the Grand Master is the last to suffer encroachments on his prerogative, or to infringe upon the privileges of others. The two or three cases of irregularity which the Grand Registrar brought forward, as having occurred in seventy years, only serve as exceptions to prove the rule; which not only the blue, but the purple, are called upon and are sworn to obey.

Yours fraternally,

C. J. PERCEVAL P.M. 1607,
AND V.P. OF THE THREE INSTITUTIONS.

ELECTION FOR COMMITTEE OF MANAGEMENT.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—In your issue of the 2nd inst., under the above heading, a brother signing himself "P.M." attacks me on a question of my fitness to serve on the Committee of the R.M.B.I., and speaks disparagingly of my nominator.

Permit me to say that my nominator was the respected W.M. of my mother Lodge—the Egyptian, No. 27—which is a Vice-Patron of the Institution, a position that few Lodges have attained to. It was impossible for me to have a better qualified nominator. The Egyptian Lodge has been one of the staunchest supporters of the Benevolent Institution, and "P.M.," by insulting its Master, is not, in my opinion, furthering the interests of the Institution.

When "P.M." ventured to recommend the Craft to oppose my election, he must have forgotten or been ignorant of the fact that in June last year I was at the head of the poll when Grand Lodge elected its members of the Board of General Purposes, and that I occupied the same proud position on the poll when in December there was an election in Grand Lodge of a Junior Vice President of the Lodge of Benevolence. I trust I may be pardoned for referring to these matters, but I feel proud of the honour Grand Lodge thought fit to confer on me.

Your correspondent "P.M.'s" appeal to the Craft to leave me "alone," has been answered in a way that he little expected. As regards his statement that when I had the honour of being a member of the Committee I "rarely attended," I beg to say he has been misinformed. I attended rather too often to please some brethren, and had I been less anxious to discharge my duty as one of the Representatives of Grand Lodge on that Committee, you would not have heard from "P.M.," nor have been troubled with this communication.

Yours fraternally,

CHARLES ATKINS,
P.M. 27 and 1260.

THE LATE ELECTION OF THE HOUSE COMMITTEE OF THE GIRLS' SCHOOL.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—There was a point in the Pro G.M.'s speech you have, I am sorry to say, overlooked. I allude to his strong condemnation of the system of canvassing for places by means of papers or cards. If Lord Carnarvon reprobated that course, what would he have said in reference to the scenes which occurred at the Girls' House Committee Election, where candidates, after resorting to the puff advertising method so largely circulated among the Craft generally, awaited the arrival of voters, and persuaded those who were too indolent, or too innocent, to allow them (the candidates) to fill up the papers for them. Talk about bribery and corruption, this leaves such practices quite in the shade. I do not know who most to condemn, those weak enough to hand over their privileges to others, or the candidates who were shameless enough to take such advantage. At the next meeting, if convenient for me to attend, I shall certainly propose an entire change, not only in the system of election, but that the polling shall take place under the supervision of Deacons specially appointed, and who should denounce any member attempting such an unfair act. I would add, in addition, that any candidate so acting should be disqualified for the place he is seeking to fill. What is the result of the Girls' Election? By set purpose an excellent, indefatigable, fearless Brother, who has worked diligently and unceasingly for over ten years, has been ousted; while, doubtless an equally worthy Brother, but one who has not attended for the last two years, and whose residence and occupation preclude him from the possibility of attending, has been retained on the Committee.

I am, Dear Sir and Brother,

Yours fraternally,

A V.P. OF THE INSTITUTION.

Brother James Stevens P.M. P.Z. has been elected by the members of the United Pilgrims Lodge of Instruction as Installing Master on the occasion of rehearsal of the ceremony of installation of Worshipful Master, at the Surrey Masonic Hall, Camberwell, on Friday, the 22nd instant.

INSTALLATION MEETINGS, &c.

—:o:—

SUBURBAN LODGE, No. 1702.

THE installation meeting of this flourishing Lodge took place on Friday, 8th instant, at that charming roadside hostelry, the Abercorn Arms Hotel, Great Stanmore, and was one of the most successful gatherings the Lodge can record. There were upwards of thirty visitors, beside whom the Lodge was honoured by the presence of the R.W.P.G.M. Colonel Sir Francis Burdett, Bart., whose attendance not only gave eclat to the occasion, but bore testimony to the appreciation of the Lodge and its members, he having paid a similar unofficial visit during the previous year. The attendance of brethren was unusually strong, for was it not known that the retiring W.M. intended to instal his successor. Lodge was opened in due form by the W.M. (Bro. Charles Hawksley), J. F. Hepburn S.W. (and W.M. elect), C. S. Buck J.D., J. Tickle P.M. P Z. P.P.G.R. Middlesex Treas., J. Hill Secretary Acting as Deacon, F. J. Tyler and G. H. Hunter, C. Winstanley I.G.; Bros. W. T. Buck P.M., R. Shutt, R. Watson, E. C. Kilsby, J. M. Draper, G. H. Carter, J. Tregaskis, W. Cropley, A. J. Oliver, Jno. Waddington jun., J. T. S. Roberts, Geo. Robinson, A. J. Hone Goldney, E. H. Southgate, William Urry, N. L. Tindell, L. M. Williams, J. Davenport, Thomas Charlton, H. S. Benison, E. Stockdale, Adolphe Sawer, Thomas Lee Roberts, J. Very Tyler. Visitors—Sir Francis Burdett, Bart., P.G.M Middlesex, F. Hastings Miller P.P.G.O. Middlesex, A. Buck P.G.S.W. Essex, Fountaine 45, H. Ruff 95, H. W. Ruff P.M. 95, G. W. Tiffin 95, G. B. Cutler 217, W. H. Tiper 474, W. Moore 645, W. J. Sperring 780, H. Wilkins W.M. 902, J. J. Bell P.M. 1178, Liebman 1196, F. Eckstein P.M. 1196, G. H. Hunter P.M. 1298, G. Buckland P.M. 1319, F. Clive 1319, T. Gates W.M. 1599, S. Brookes P.M. 1608, A. H. St. Leger 1777, P. Balme 1804, E. H. Parnell 1809, C. Brown 1814, W. H. Murfitt 1861, T. Vincent P.M. 1861, T. Boyes Langton, J. Best Cripplegate. The minutes of the previous meeting having been read and confirmed, as well as the Auditors' account of the Lodge funds, which was received and adopted, Lodge was opened in the second degree, and Bros. Davenport and Tregaskis, who were candidates for raising, were interrogated by the Worshipful Master, and entrusted. After which, Lodge being opened in the third degree, they were raised according to ancient custom, the ceremony being rendered in a most impressive manner by the Worshipful Master. Brother W. J. Buck Past Master having presented the Worshipful Master elect, the ceremony of installation had proceeded to the stage at which all below the rank of I.M. are requested to retire, when it was announced that the R.W. P.G.M. was without. A deputation having been sent to receive him, some little delay occurred, but when his entrance to the Lodge was announced, he was received and saluted with full Masonic honours, which were briefly but heartily acknowledged. A Board of Installed Masters having been constituted, the ceremony was then proceeded with, Brother Hepburn being duly installed into the chair of K.S. by his predecessor, to the satisfaction of a critical audience, comprising some 18 Past Masters. The Installed Masters' degree being closed, and the Worshipful Master congratulated, the brethren of the different ranks were called in, to whom it was duly announced and proclaimed, after which the Worshipful Master proceeded to appoint and invest his Officers, at the same time pointing out their duties in fit terms, and complimenting the Treasurer and Secretary on their reappointment. The following are the names of the brethren invested:—Bros. C. Buck S.W., G. H. Carter J.W., R. W. Shutt S.D., C. Winstanley J.D., R. Watson I.G., J. Waddington jun. Organist, W. T. Buck P.M. Wine Steward, E. C. Kilsby M.C., J. M. Draper Assistant Wine Steward, W. L. Tindell and E. Stockdale Stewards, J. Very Tyler. The Installing Master, Brother C. Hawksley, then delivered the addresses to the Master, Wardens and Brethren generally, in a masterly and impressive manner, which reflected great credit on himself and won the approbation of every one present. The usual routine business of the Lodge being despatched, it was closed in peace and harmony, and adjourned. Owing to the Lodge being held in the room in which the banquet was afterwards served, the interval during which the tables were being spread afforded the brethren an opportunity of a quiet stroll in the neighbourhood; this formed a very pleasant incident in the day's proceedings—lawn tennis, &c. being indulged in by those on "active pleasure bent." It was therefore close upon seven o'clock before the company sat down to the excellent repast provided for the occasion by the much esteemed host—Bro. C. Veal—and it goes without saying that ample justice was done to it by those present. Time, which waiteth not for a Worshipful Master, was now somewhat advanced, and after grace had been said, the W.M. proceeded to give the toasts in rapid succession—indeed, with such rapidity that it involved the curtailment to a large extent of the printed programme and book of songs which had been thoughtfully provided for the occasion. In responding to the toast of his health, the Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master Sir Francis Burdett again expressed the pleasure it afforded him to be present, not alone for the hospitality which he had enjoyed, but the opportunity of being present during the installation of the Worshipful Master. He referred to the manner in which the I.P.M. had performed the ceremony, in the most eulogistic terms, as well as to the other working in the Lodge, which he said convinced him that every member, from the Master downwards, was determined to discharge the duties in a satisfactory manner. The I.P.M. (Bro. Hawksley) in proposing the toast of the Worshipful Master, spoke in complimentary terms of the brother whom he had placed as his successor, and trusted that he would be supported by the Officers whom he had that day appointed. The W.M., in response, expressed his gratitude to the brethren for the manner in which the toast had been received, and trusted to be spared to preside over their meetings with satisfaction to all. The haste with which the toasts followed the removal of the cloth was productive of an omission, which was here sought to be remedied, viz., the passing round of the Charity box. For this occasion Bro. Hawksley had prepared for presentation to the Lodge a unique and altogether fitting receptacle for the offerings of the brethren, and which is well worthy the inspection of visitors. In form, a cube about 3½ inches square; it rests on bases of proportionate size, forming steps thereto. It was made of oak, said to be 800 years old, out of a building in which Masonry long found a home, and in which Brother Hawksley and two other founders of the Sub-Urban Lodge first saw "light." The top is mounted with the device of a square and compasses of sufficient size to allow the necessary aperture for coin. The front bears the name and number of the Lodge, with a pierced five-point star in centre, and on the reverse the following inscription:—"Presented by Bro. Charles Hawksley W.M., 8th June 1883, as a memento of the Charity Fund, established during his year of office, 1882-3." The presentation made, the box was immediately dedicated to its intended service. The W.M. then gave the toast of the Immediate Past Master, and referred in a feeling manner to his services, particularly during that day, and at the same time expressed the pleasure it afforded him to present the jewel which the Lodge had voted to him as the "fifth" Master; to which Bro. Hawksley briefly responded. Time pressing, only one of the numerous array of visitors was called upon to respond, and that devolved upon Bro. Hastings Miller, Past Prov. Grand Organist Middlesex, who expressed on their behalf the pleasure all had experienced in visiting the Lodge, and their appreciation of the manner in which the Master had been installed. The Tyler's toast brought the proceedings at the table to a close, but several brethren who were not compelled by the exigencies of rail service, which demanded catching one train in order to catch another, remained until it was time to catch the last. Thus ended a thoroughly enjoyable day, which will be looked back on by those who witnessed the ceremony with pleasurable recollections for many years to come. We understand Bro. Hawksley is representing the Lodge as Steward for the Boy's Festival. We heartily wish him a success equal to that of Friday last.

United Mariners Lodge of Instruction, No. 30.—The popularity attained by this young but exceedingly vigorous Lodge of Instruction, continues to increase, and the weekly meetings, at the Lugard Tavern, Lugard-road, Peckham, are always well attended. On Wednesday last Brother Thomas filled the chair as W.M., supported by Bros. Walter Martin Preceptor, Harvey S.W., Bartlett J.W., Wimble S.D., Lean J.D., Shorter I.G., Rotheroe Secretary, Brunker P.M., Ledger W.M. 1564, Bellis W.M. 1901, Leonard, Lampen, Pusey-Eedle, Morgan, Andrews, and many others. The ceremony of the second degree was rehearsed, after which the first section of the lecture was given by Brother Rotheroe and the second by Bro. Bellis. The working was executed in the most commendable manner, and afforded considerable pleasure and edification to the brethren present. The Lodge may be congratulated upon having secured the assistance of Bro. Martin as Preceptor, for although a young Mason, and not having yet passed the chair, he is gifted with much tact, intelligence and ability, and is perfect in the whole of the working. Thus the advance made by the regular attendants at the Lodge has been of a marked and gratifying character. The headquarters of the Lodge are very convenient of access, being within a few minutes walk of the Queens-road, Old Kent-road, and Nunhead railway stations, whilst the tramways from Blackfriars, Westminster, and other parts, almost pass the door. Every matter of detail that can in any way conduce to the comfort and convenience of the brethren has been considerately studied by Bro. Alfred Pusey, the proprietor of the hotel, and consequently the meetings are of a very enjoyable, as well as beneficial character. The Lodge meets every Wednesday evening, from 7.30 to 9.30, and visitors are always most cordially welcomed.

Percy Lodge of Instruction, No. 198.—Held at Bro. Langdale's, Jolly Farmers', Southgate-road, N., Saturday, 9th inst. Present—Bros. Gribbell W.M., Ferrar S.W., Dixie J.W., Forss S.D., Lone I.G., Lorkin Preceptor, Galer Secretary. Lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed. Bro. Galer offered himself as candidate, and was examined and entrusted. Lodge opened in the second degree, and the ceremony of passing was rehearsed. Bro. Forss worked the first and second sections of the lecture, assisted by the brethren; and the fifth, assisted by Bro. Dixie. Lodge was closed in the second degree, and Brother Ferrar was unanimously elected W.M. for the ensuing week. All business being ended, Lodge was closed in ancient form and adjourned to Saturday, 16th inst.

United Pilgrims Lodge of Instruction, No. 507.—At the usual meeting of this Lodge of Instruction at the Surrey Masonic Hall, Camberwell New Road, S.E., on Friday, the 8th inst., Brother E. A. Francis presided as Worshipful Master. Amongst others present were Bros. Sarjeant S.W., Johnson J.W., Jones S.D., Hooper J.D., Bate I.G., James Stevens P.M. and Preceptor, Poore Secretary, Richardson, &c. The ceremony of passing was rehearsed in Brother Francis's usual careful and efficient manner, and subsequently the second and third sections of the F.C. Lecture were worked by the brethren in good style. On the Lodge being lowered, Brother Sarjeant was elected Worshipful Master for the ensuing week, and his Officers were appointed in rotation. The ceremony of installation is to be rehearsed in this Lodge of Instruction on Friday, the 22nd instant, and the Preceptor, Brother James Stevens, has been elected Master and Installing Master for the occasion.

Phillips J.W., Williams Secretary, Banks S.D., Letchford J.D., Poore M.C., Jones I.G.; also Hooper, James Letchford, Routledge, Monk, Stokes, Mordey, and Stevens P.M. Lodge was opened in due form, and the minutes of previous meeting were read and confirmed. Lodge opened in second and third degrees, and the ceremony of installation (with the exception of that portion relating to the board of Installed Masters) was ably rehearsed by Brother Francis, with Brother Hooper as Worshipful Master elect. Lodge was regularly closed to the first degree. After the election of Worshipful Master for the ensuing week, and other formal business, Lodge was closed in due form in perfect harmony. Brother George Mordey 1986 was elected a member.

SIR FRANCIS BURDETT LODGE, No. 1503.

A REGULAR meeting of this Lodge was held on Wednesday evening last, at the Albany Hotel, Twickenham, when a goodly number of brethren and visitors assembled, under the presidency of Brother T. Walls P.M. P.P.G.S.B. of Middlesex and Surrey, in the unavoidable absence of the Worshipful Master of the Lodge, Brother W. Taylor. Lodge having been opened and the minutes of the previous meeting read and confirmed, it was advanced to the third, when Brother Henry Jenkins was raised to the sublime degree by the acting Worshipful Master, whose working was, as usual, excellent. Resuming in the second, Bros. Arthur Henry Bunn, and James Pateshall Bowden were passed to the degree of Fellow Craft, the ceremonies being most creditably performed. During the evening Bro. Saunders, the Treasurer, submitted a report as to the financial position of the Lodge, which was accepted as eminently satisfactory, a substantial balance remaining in hand in favour of the Lodge. A grant of five guineas was voted out of the Lodge funds in aid of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, and after the transaction of some other business Lodge was closed in form. The banquet was presided over by Brother Walls, who at the conclusion of an excellent repast proposed the customary loyal and Masonic toasts, which were cordially received. Bro. Saunders P.M. gave the health of the acting W.M., with thanks to him for having officiated in the absence of Bro. Taylor. He expressed regret at the circumstances which kept their excellent Worshipful Master from his wonted position, namely, the serious indisposition of his wife, whom he trusted would soon be restored to health and strength. Bro. Walls suitably replied, and several complimentary speeches followed. Bro. Saunders, as a special toast, proposed the health of Bro. T. R. Richnell, a member of this Lodge, but who had been kept away from its duties for some time, owing to a domestic bereavement. They were all delighted to see the genial face of that brother amongst them again, and once more participating in the duties and pleasures of the Lodge. Bro. Richnell briefly responded, expressing the gratification it afforded him to meet the brethren of his mother Lodge again, after so lengthened an absence, and he tendered his sincere thanks to the brethren for their feeling and kindly reception of his name. Several other toasts were honoured, and amidst an abundance of good music and singing a pleasant evening was passed.

PORTSMOUTH LODGE, No. 487.

AT the last regular meeting of the members of this Lodge, Bro. H. Threadingham P.M. presented, in the name of the members, to Bro. W. E. Atkins, a Past Secretary's jewel, containing a suitable inscription, in recognition of the valuable services rendered by him during the two years he filled the office of Secretary of the Lodge, and the duties of which he relinquished on election as W.M. of the United Brothers' Lodge at Southsea.

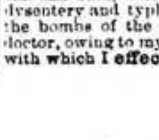
Eboracum Lodge, No. 1611.—The regular meeting of this Lodge was held on Monday, 11th inst., at the Masonic Rooms, Queen's Hotel, York. The W.M. Bro. M. Millington, was in his place, and was supported by his Wardens, Bros. J. Blenkin and A. T. B. Turner, and the following Past Masters, Bros. T. B. Whytehead, J. S. Cumberland, C. G. Padel, J. T. Seller, G. Balmford, and Major McGachen 1991, and by a number of brethren and visitors from the other York Lodges, and from Hull. A successful ballot was taken for a candidate. Bro. C. Tuff was passed to the second degree, and Bros. C. Stephenson and E. Thackeray were raised to the sublime degree of Master Mason, the whole of the work being done by the W.M. with great accuracy. Bro. T. B. Whytehead next presented to the library a series of Masonic works, also a book from Bro. W. J. Hughan, and a very beautiful and perfect copy of Bro. Bartolozzi's engraving of Bro. Stothard's painting of the Masonic Girls' School Festival. Votes of thanks were accorded for these gifts. Bros. Sir Frederick G. Milner, Bart. 478, T. Horsley 1001, and Ream 566, were proposed as joining members, and the names of two gentlemen were proposed as candidates for initiation. The W.M. announced that a summons had been issued for an emergency meeting for the following Monday, when Bro. the Lord Mayor would be passed to the second degree. Lodge having been closed, the brethren assembled for refreshment, and spent a pleasant hour.

A meeting of the Metropolitan Council, Time Immemorial, under the authority of the Grand Council of the Allied Masonic Degrees of England and Wales and the Colonies and Dependencies of the British Crown, will be held at the Masonic Hall, 8A Red Lion Square, on this day (Saturday), the 16th inst., at three o'clock p.m. The business to be transacted will comprise the reading and confirming the minutes of last meeting; to confer the degrees of St. Laurence the Martyr, Knight of Constantinople, Red Cross of Babylon, and Grand High Priest, on approved candidates.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR.

ANCIENT EBOR PRECEPTORY, No. 101.

THE regular summer meeting of this Preceptory was held at York on Tuesday, 12th June, under the command of the E. Preceptor Sir Knight M. Millington. The business was of a formal character, there being no candidates. The Registrar, Sir Knight T. B. Whytehead P.E.P. read a letter he had received from the Commander of the Apollo Commandery, No. 1, Chicago, stating that the members of that body who purposed visiting England this summer would have pleasure in making a stay in York, and witnessing the working of the Degree as practised in England. The Registrar also announced that since their last meeting Sir Knight J. S. Cumberland P.E.P. had received an appointment as an Aide-de-Camp of the Great Priory of England, and moved, "That this Preceptory has heard with great satisfaction of the appointment to Great Priory of so worthy a member of the Order, and hereby offers its congratulations to E. Sir Knight Cumberland." This was seconded by the E.P., and carried unanimously.



LAYING THE FOUNDATION STONE OF A NEW CHURCH.

ON Saturday afternoon last, 9th June, about 250 brethren assembled at Long Bolton, to take part in the ceremony of laying the corner-stone of a new church to be dedicated to S. Augustine. The stone was laid by Col. Legendre Starkie, R.W. Prov. G.M. East Lancashire, and Masonic formalities were observed throughout. A period of sixty years has elapsed since similar proceedings were observed in Bolton, and the consequence was that on Saturday the vicinity of the new church building was thronged with spectators, and the greatest interest to witness what transpired prevailed. A procession was formed, of musicians, firemen, working Masons, teachers, scholars, choirs, and clergy, the Masonic brethren, in Craft costume and insignia, bringing up the rear. The R.W. Prov. Grand Master was met at Firwood Hall, the residence of Mr. F. Hardcastle, one of the donors of the site, and he, accompanied by a select party, including the Mayor and ex-Mayor of Bolton, both members of the Brotherhood, and the Rev. Canon Powell, Rural Dean, was conducted to the site of the church. Here, the service was choral, as well as Masonic in character. Col. Starkie was presented with a costly trowel, bearing a suitable inscription, and a mallet made from bog oak, dug out of the foundations, was also given to him, after which he addressed the assembly, and then laid the corner-stone of the building. In the course of a stirring address the R.W. Prov. Grand Master said that although they were not Operative Masons they had, from time immemorial, been associated with the erection of buildings to be raised for the benefit of mankind, the adornment of the world, and the glory of the Great Architect of the Universe. They, Masons, had among them, unseen from the eyes of men, secrets that may not be unveiled, and which no man had discovered; but those secrets were lawful and honourable, and neither repugnant to the laws of God, nor the laws of man. They were entrusted to the Masons of ancient days, and they had been faithfully transmitted to the Masons of the present, whose duty it was to convey them to latest posterity. Unless their Order had been honourable, and their calling just, they would never have lasted all these centuries, nor would they have had, and still have, so many illustrious brothers in their Order, ready to promote their laws and further their interests. Subsequently the brethren sang "Prosper the Art," and the National Anthem (Masonic version). The brethren present, we may add, had lunched together ere they separated. All passed off with éclat, and the weather was glorious.

The Province of Essex will add another to its roll of Lodges on Wednesday next, when the consecration of the Blackwater Lodge, No. 1977, will be performed by the Prov. Grand Master the Right Hon. Lord Brooke, M.P. The W.M. designate, Bro. Thomas Eustace P.M. and Treasurer 697, will be installed by W. Bro. A. Lucking P.M. 160 P.G.D.C. Essex. The proceedings will take place at the Town Hall, Maldon, and will commence at Two o'clock.

FREEMAN'S CHLORODYNE.

The Original and only true.

HUNDREDS of Medical Practitioners testify to its marvellous efficacy in immediately relieving and rapidly curing Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Neuralgia, Spasms, Colic, Whooping Cough, and all Nerve Pains. It acts like a charm in Diarrhœa, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery. It rapidly relieves pain, from whatever cause, soothes and strengthens the system under exhausting diseases, and gives quiet and refreshing sleep.

Lord Chancellor Selborne, Lord Justice James, Lord Justice Mellish decided in favour of FREEMAN'S ORIGINAL CHLORODYNE, and against Brown and Davenport, compelling them to pay all costs in the suits. See Times of July 24th, 1873. Bottles 1s 1½d, 2s 9d, 4s 6d, 11s, and 20s. Sold by all Chemists.

TESTIMONIALS.—Head Quarter Staff, Cabul, May 31st, 1880. Mr. R. Freeman, Dear Sir,—It is with much pleasure I am able to state that your Chlorodyne has been of special service to me in alleviating the wearisome spasms of Asthma, which is here existent in an aggravated form. Many of my patients now come and beg me to give them that medicine which always relieves them, and which I need hardly say is your Chlorodyne. Yours faithfully, CHARLES W. OWEN, L.R.C.P. Lon., M.R.C.S. Eng., the Divisional Head Quarter Staff and Civil Surgeon, Cabul.

The Times, August 13th, 1877. From our own Correspondent with the Russian Army. Okoum, July 25th, 1877. The want of sanitary arrangements in the Russian Camp was dreadful, and had we remained there a few weeks longer, dysentery and typhoid fever would have played more havoc in our ranks than the bombs of the Turks. I myself acquired an unenviable reputation as a doctor, owing to my being provided with a small bottle of CHLORODYNE, with which I effected miraculous cures.

ROYAL ARCH.

—:o:—

PROVINCIAL GRAND CHAPTER OF SURREY.

THE Companions of the Royal Arch Degree assembled in considerable force on Saturday last, at the Sun Hotel, Kingston-on-Thames, for the double purpose of transacting the business consequent upon the Annual Meeting of their Provincial Grand Chapter, and to assist in the consecration of a new Chapter, which will raise the total on the roll of the Province to nine. The Grand Superintendent, the Right Worshipful Comp. J. Studholme Brownrigg, C.B., P.G.W., presided, and he was supported by the Rev. C. W. Arnold, M.A., P.G.C., who filled the chair of H., and the Rev. J. Studholme Brownrigg, P.G.C., who officiated as J. Amongst those who attended were Companions C. Greenwood P.G.D. of Cer. Prov. Grand Scribe E., Magnus Ohren P.G.A.D.C. Prov. Grand J., H. J. P. Dumas P.G.D., Charles Greenwood jun. Provincial Grand Secretary Surrey, Leigh. Bennett Prov. 1st Assistant Sojourner, H. E. Frances Prov. 2nd Assistant Sojourner, F. A. Manning Prov. Director of Ceremonies, Comps. Vincent, Boucher, W. W. Morgan, &c. &c. After Provincial Grand Chapter had been formally opened, the consecration of the new Chapter, the Ewell, No. 1851, was proceeded with, the Grand Superintendent, Right Worshipful Companion General Brownrigg officiating as Consecrating Officer, assisted by the Revs. C. W. Arnold and J. Studholme Brownrigg. After the presiding Officer had addressed the Companions on the nature of the meeting, the acting Scribe E. explained the steps that had been taken by those interested in the formation of the Chapter. The Consecrating Officer having signified his approval, gave the necessary directions that the ceremony should proceed, and the petition and charter were formally read. After inquiry had been duly made, and assent given that the Principals named in the charter were still approved, the acting J. was called on for an oration, which was delivered in the following terms:

COMPANIONS,—Masonry is a progressive science, and it is, therefore, a matter of extreme importance when any Lodge has so far proved its past efficiency as to entitle it to a Royal Arch Chapter. It is, I think, quite right and proper that the Provincial Grand Superintendent should not recommend, and that Grand Chapter should not grant a Warrant, unless there is the evidence of at least three years' good work; that there is such a capacity of progress as to entitle the Lodge to further opportunities of searching into the great science of Masonry. And this, Companions, brings me to the single point upon which I desire to claim your attention for a very few minutes to-day. What is progress? Literally, the word means "a going forward;" a going forward to something better and a something higher; a disinclination to rest satisfied with anything that is imperfect or incomplete; a desire to remove all that is evil. And is such, Companions, our aim? I think that, both in Masonry and in the world, we should remember that there is nothing so despicable as the man who does no good. Life is active, not passive. Unless, more or less, you are, in some measure, of practical utility to your fellow men, you are a contradiction to all that is grand, or noble, or holy in life. But, Companions, I have spoken thus strongly in the encouragement of all legitimate progress, in the pursuit of the great principles of Masonry, in order that I may, with special emphasis, insist upon what I believe to be at all times a very necessary caution. There is a true progress, there is a false progress, or rather there is a hideous phantom which veils itself under the fair garb of progress, and which is in reality a serious retrogression. Strip the mask from her face, peel off the untempered mortar from the wall, and what posed as the fair work of progress is in reality only inopportune and ill-considered change. We can change for the worse as well as for the better. I am afraid I am sadly behind the time. It is the fashion to change simply for the sake of changing; to think that there can be no progress without destruction; no improvement of the building without removing the foundations. It was not thus that our ancient brethren wrought. One generation laid the foundations, another reared the fabric, a third beautified it, and so the structure grew to be the thing of beauty and of art which we find it, because our ancient brethren knew that progress did not mean change of fundamental principles; but rather an orderly, but at the same time a living and energetic advancement in the steps which were none the worse because they were those of men who had gone before. We talk a great deal about the landmarks of our Order; I sometimes think there is a danger lest our much talking should make us careless. It is, I conceive, a duty incumbent upon every Mason to encourage true progress; to fight to the bitter end against all false progress; to cut away with unsparing hand all that is evil, to change where change is needful; but ever to remember that we dare touch nothing, alter nothing, unless we have some better reason than that restless and discontented spirit of the world which is ever meddling and marring, but never improving; which is hindering all true progress by its anxiety to scrawl its own ideas upon the plans of the Master Architect, instead of carrying out what has been laid down and approved by the wisdom and experience of the past. May this Chapter be ever full of life and true progress; a bulwark against all needless and undesirable change.

The consecration ceremony was then completed with full ceremonial, and the three Principals duly installed as follows:—Comps.

The Companions who had not yet attained the Principals' chairs were then re-admitted, and the remaining Officers were invested:—Comps. E. A. Baber Prov. Grand Sword Bearer S.E. and Treasurer, G. N. Pochin S.N., H. H. Room P.S., T. Bowler Janitor. After the customary recognition of the services of the consecrating Officer and his assistants had been tendered, accepted, and acknowledged, the business before Provincial Grand Chapter was proceeded with. The roll of Chapters in the Province was called, and each proved to be well represented. The report of the Finance and Audit Committee was received and adopted, and then came the election of Treasurer, this resulting in the re-appointment of the ever-popular Companion Price, who, however, was unavoidably absent. The Officers were then invested, as follow:—

Comp. Rev. C. W. Arnold, M.A., P.Z.		Prov. G.H.
H. J. P. Dumas P.Z. 410	...	Prov. G.J.
Charles Greenwood P.Z. 410		Prov. G. Scribe E.

W. W. Paddle H. 1851	...	Prov. G. Standard Bearer
J. H. Askham Z. 1564	...	Prov. G. Dir. of Ceremonies

In addressing the Companions the Grand Superintendent expressed his intense gratification at the progress Freemasonry was making in the county of Surrey. The whole of the twenty-seven Lodges were working in a satisfactory way, and the new Chapter inaugurated that day made up the total in the Province to nine. General Brownrigg acknowledged and fully recognised the zeal displayed by his assiduous Deputy, the Rev. C. W. Arnold, who spared no time or pains in carrying out the work of the Province. The services of Companion Greenwood were also gracefully alluded to by the Grand Superintendent, who next stated that it was with extreme reluctance he had to announce that in consequence of a long-standing engagement he should be compelled to leave, much as he could have desired to join them at the banquet table. The general business was then proceeded with, completed, and Provincial Grand Chapter closed. A capital dinner was supplied by the Bros. Bond, the proprietors of this old-established hostelry, and ample justice done to the good things provided. Companion Arnold presided, and the customary toasts received full attention.

GRAND LODGE OF MARK MASTER MASONS.

WE supplement our last week's Report of this interesting event with the following particulars of what occurred after the banquet, which, by the way, was capitally served by Messrs. Spiers and Pond (Limited), the present lessees of the Freemasons' Tavern:—

The toast list of the evening was commenced by the proposal, by the noble chairman, of The Queen, coupled with Mark Masonry. Brethren of the Mark degree were particularly noted for their loyalty, even among Freemasons. Bro. Else followed, proposing the health of the Most Worshipful Grand Mark Master Mason. The Mark Degree had been singularly fortunate, inasmuch as it had secured for itself the services of brethren as Grand Masters who were not only of high rank in the country, but who had been most energetic in advancing the interests of the Degree. The present Grand Master had ably followed in the footsteps of those who had preceded him, and he (Bro. Else) had great pleasure in calling upon the assembled company to do honour to the toast. The Most Worshipful Grand Mark Master thanked the W. Brother on his right for the kind way in which he had proposed the toast of his health, and the brethren for their reception of it. The honour which had been paid him that night was not exceptional, but was repeated wherever he went. It fully repaid him for any little time he might devote to Mark Masonry, but at the same time he felt he was only doing what every one should do who undertook office—perform his duty. He felt that in acting up to that precept, he had gained popularity among the brethren of the Mark Degree. It had been his custom, on each succeeding Grand Festival, to give a short résumé of the previous year's work. He considered he might describe Mark Masonry as being in a flourishing condition at the present time, and he made this remark after having looked into the matter very carefully. He had visited many parts of the country during his past year of office. From his experience, and from what he had heard, he was convinced that the proper spirit of emulation was to be found among Mark Masons, and so long as that spirit was associated with the Degree, it must go on successfully. The number of new Lodges warranted during the past year was nineteen, as compared with twenty-two the previous one; this number was not quite so large as usual, but was yet very satisfactory. Others were coming forward, and generally there was an appearance of increasing strength. Large numbers of brethren were continually being advanced, indeed, the number of new members during the past two years had been larger than had ever been known in the annals of Mark Masonry, the total being upwards of 3000—an average of 1500 a-year. The most that had been received before in a single year did not exceed some 1100 or 1200. As he had already mentioned, he had paid visits to many of the counties during the past year, and had assisted at the formation of three new Mark Provinces, of which there had been six established during the year. One that he had personally attended was the East Anglian. Being at heart an East Anglian, he naturally desired that Mark Masonry should flourish there during the term of his presidency. There were now two Mark Lodges in the district, both of which were in a flourishing condition. He had recently brought himself under his own jurisdiction by accepting office as a Provincial Grand Master. He had done it with the hope of advancing the interests of Mark Masonry, and with the assistance of his able friend Bro. Martyn, he hoped the ruling of the Province of East Anglia would be properly carried on. When the time came for electing another Grand Master, he would find no more loyal subject than the Provincial Master for East Anglia. Lord Henniker then proceeded to refer to the way in which the Grand Officers had been received in the various parts of the country they had officially visited, especially mentioning the reception they had met with at Birmingham, at Nottingham, and in East Anglia. He considered it right when brethren acted as those of the districts referred to had done that some notice should be taken of them. The cordiality he had met with had given him encouragement to endeavour to further advance the interests of Mark Masonry. He assured the brethren he should strive his utmost to do his duty during the remainder of his term of office, and hoped that when the time came for him to give up his position of Grand Master, he might do so with regret. He hoped he might hand over the Order in as flourishing a condition to his successor as that he received it in from the brother who had preceded him, and that it would continue to advance in numbers and usefulness. One word more, he trusted the brethren would allow him, when he should have attained the rank of Past Grand Master, to take an active part in the management of the affairs of Grand Lodge. He next proposed the toast of the Past Grand Mark Master Masons, referring more particularly to Bros. Beach and Portal. He was pretty well acquainted with all the Past Grand Masters, and frequently talked with them about the Mark Degree. He believed they all did their best for the advancement of the Order, and hoped they might be present at its meetings from time to time; as they got older, however, it was difficult to secure their presence. It had been their fortune during his year of office to receive one member of the Royal Family as Past Grand Master, and he hoped, as he had already told them in Lodge, they would soon see another member of the Royal Family similarly invested. He regretted there was no Past Grand Master present to reply (Bro. Portal's health compelled him to leave early, and Bro. Beach was also unable to stay), but their not being then represented would not prevent the toast being honoured. The toast of the Deputy Grand Master and the Grand Officers Present and Past was next given. Lord Henniker regretted the absence of his Deputy, as he always felt stronger when Lord Kintore was at his side. He thanked the P.G. Officers for their support, and hoped the present ones would have more work than their predecessors. He had invariably found the Grand Officers at his side wherever he had been. He specially thanked Bros. Binckes, Dewar and Davison, but must mention that all the Grand Officers had ably supported him. He could not thank the present Officers—or at least the new ones—for what they had already done, but would tell them they were expected to work hard for the benefit of the Order. Col. Bignold returned thanks. With the Grand Master, he regretted the absence of Lord Kintore, because of the loss of the admirable speech he would have been sure to have given them. He felt proud that the duty of replying to the toast had fallen to him. He loved Masonry—had always loved it, and did not love it less since he had joined the Mark Degree. The Grand Master had alluded to the Province of East Anglia; he considered the brethren thereof had acted wisely in selecting the Grand Master to rule over them. He felt that the true spirit of Freemasonry was not dead, but that the keystone of the Arch was still alive. Brother Randall, Past Grand Chaplain, proposed Success to the Mark Benevolent Fund. There was no single degree in Freemasonry into which benevolence did not enter, not a Lodge in which the principle was not received, not a brother who did not admit it as a duty. In some degrees it was inculcated upon each from the time he was admitted to diffuse the sublime principles of universal benevolence and to distribute alms to the poor, to clothe the naked, bind up the wounds of the afflicted. There was no institution in the kingdom, according to numbers, not even the Church of which he was a minister, nor any association existing, according to its numbers, that did so much in the way of benevolence as the Masonic Brotherhood. After some further remarks, he formally proposed the toast, coupling with it "the name of the man who had done more perhaps than any other to promote the success of Mark Masonry, and who, he was sure, had done more than any man to promote the success of the Mark Benevolent Fund"—Bro. Binckes. Bro. Binckes was afraid that the extreme approval his excellent friend Bro. Randall had bestowed upon him had deprived him of the power of replying to the toast. While he believed Brother Randall perfectly sincere in every word he had said, he was sure that every one present would believe him equally sincere when he said that it was enough for him to have achieved that great success which had been alluded to; he desired the glory to be shared by those with whom he had been associated in the Charities of Mark Masonry. It had been his duty for a number of years to interest brethren in the cause of charity, and to devote the best of those poor powers with which he had been gifted to that charity, which he believed to be the greatest ornament of the Order, and he thought he might say that he had not got an altogether unsuccessful answer. He believed that next year would bring his silver wedding with regard to Mark Masonry. From what a very small origin had great results been achieved. There were very few brethren who knew the difficulties Mark Masonry had had to contend with. The announcement made by the Grand Master that evening was, he thought, the crowning honour that could be conferred upon the Degree. He said this for the purpose of adding the remark, that he did not think any one better than himself could tell how much they owed to the Grand Master for the success of Mark Masonry. The Most Worshipful Grand Master would allow him to say that it was entirely attributable to his good offices that this honour had been brought to them. It gave them additional reasons for saying that since the formation of this Grand Lodge in 1855-56 they had never been presided over by any one who set up for himself a higher standard of duty for the advancement of the Order. In the cause of Charity, with which this toast had been associated, Lord Henniker had done all in his power. In reference to the Mark Benevolent Fund, they had always found Lord Henniker a staunch supporter. It could not fail to bring to their recollection those memorable words used by His Royal Highness when he was installed,—that the two great watchwords of Freemasonry were Loyalty and Charity. The G.M. had said that evening that no Englishmen were so loyal as Masons, and among Masons there were none so loyal as Mark Masons. He (Bro. Binckes) did not hesitate to say that they were the crême de la crême. He would claim for Mark Masonry that whether in reference to loyalty or charity they were always to the front. With regard to the Mark Benevolent Fund, he had to announce that the ensuing annual Festival would be presided over by Bro. Pryce Price, P.G.M. for South Wales, and might mention that at the present time ten Boys and two Girls were being educated out of its funds. Bro. Randall, in proposing this toast, had alluded to enjoyments of the table which he found prevalent; he would ask him whether his experience did not extend to this—that whenever a gathering took place in connection with the Church, to which he had referred, whether to lay a foundation stone, or to form a mission for the propagation of the gospel in foreign parts, something in the way of hospitality was always to be found. He knew that Freemasons spent an enormous amount of money on their own enjoyments, but it was through that means that their hearts were warmed to that extent to unloose the breeches pocket, or the purse within that pocket, to contribute to the Masonic Institutions. He might mention that the adhesion of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales was subject to the condition that it was not to be understood for a moment as justifying any attempt on the part of the Mark Masons to seek or claim recognition in the shape of amalgamation with the Grand Lodge of England. On this subject, he might distinctly say, Mark Masters no longer thought it desirable, even if it were possible, that there should be any such amalgamation. The health of the Visitors was proposed by Baron de Ferrieres, and was responded to Bro. Dalrymple Dunbar, who referred to the position which Mark Masonry held in Scotland in reference to Craft and Royal Arch Masonry.

The musical arrangements were under the direction of Bro. Edwin M. Lott, Past Grand Mark Organist, who was assisted by Brothers Egbert Roberts, Henry Guy, E. Moss, and Ashton. We append the programme, which was capitally rendered throughout:—Grace, "Non nobis Domine," Bird; "God Save the Queen," solo, Bro. Henry Guy; Glee, "Integer Vitæ," Fleming; Song, "Jack's Return," G. Marks; Glee, "The Mighty Conqueror," S. Webbe; Song, "We sing as on we go," Fesca; Part Song, "When Evening's Twilight," Hatton.

ST. JOHN'S DAY EVE.

Hail! mystic brethren; favoured Sons of Light,
Who come together on this festive night,
To worship the GRAND ARCHITECT of Heaven,
And ask that blessing may be freely given
To all who dwell upon this fleeting earth,
Whether in hovel, or in halls of mirth.
Thrice welcome all! On this proud natal day
St. John the Baptist guides us on our way,
While forms of beauty gather here to-night,
To cheer us on with smiles and glances bright.

Religion's handmaid—glorious Masonry!
Ennobling those who truly follow thee—
What notes can chant thy praises, or declare
The joys and virtues thy true followers share?

Behold the Mason as he first explores
The hidden depths within our mystic doors;
He leaves his helpless state, and from the night
Of darkness enters on a blaze of light.
Behold him, as with firm though bated breath—
His agonies resembling those of death—
He enters boldly on the task to prove
The wondrous merits of Masonic Love.
Here first he stands with opened eyes, to be
A model of true worth and secrecy;
Here is revealed to his astonished sight
The awful grandeur of "Let there be Light,"
And here he learns that in the Mason's school
The Holy Bible is the only rule.
The Square and Compasses are held to view,
As curbing his desires and passions too.
Clothed with the Lamb-skin as his sure defence,
Emblem of purity and innocence,
He in the North-East corner takes his place,
The youngest Mason, full of new-found grace.
Perfect and upright Mason, there he stands,
The gauge and gavel in his worthy hands,
While, over all, the starry blue expanse
Spreads, the anticipation to enhance,
Of that good time for which all Masons strive,
When in the Lodge above they shall arrive,
By Jacob's ladder, whose three rounds, so fair,
Faith, Hope and Charity, shall guide them there.
He learns to meet upon the Level too—
To act upon the Plumb as brother true—
And when his Lodge from labour doth repair
He learns to part with brethren on the Square;
His guiding rules, all handed from above,
Relief and Truth joined with a brother's Love—
Temperance, Fortitude and Prudence too,
With solid Justice, form his system true!

Behold him, further on, progressing still,
And climbing slowly the Masonic hill.
The Plumb, the Square, the Level still appear
As guides upon his mystical career.
Between the brazen pillars he attends,
And with his guide the winding stairs ascends
Into the chamber where fresh light is gained,
And where the liberal arts are all explained.
Here to the heights of science he can soar—
Set forth in language never heard before—
The sheaf of wheat—the waterford are taught—
Till his dazed eyes are opened wide to see
The hidden meaning of the letter G!

But the sublime for him is yet to dawn!
Behold him as he travels further on—
Sanctum Sanctorum he has gained at last—
And through the Temple—Builders' trials passed!
Faithful and true, with firm Masonic nerve,
Death fails to force him from his vows to swerve!
Rather the torture, rather dust to dust,
Than shirk his duty or betray his trust!
Here we behold the perfect man, imbued
With all the graces of our Brotherhood,
Triumphing over death; firm fixed is he
In hopes of glorious Immortality!
Such is our noble Brotherhood—and still
The sad events near Mount Moriah's hill,
And at the Temple Gates, must e'er remain
Impressed upon our hearts while Time shall reign.

What is the Mason's mission? 'Tis no less
Than to relieve a brother in distress;
To heal the widow's woes; to soothe her sigh,
And dry the tear from the poor orphan's eye;
To keep inviolate the holy vow
Of universal friendship, and to bow
Before the shrine of Him who gives us grace
To frame our hearts fit for His dwelling-place
Who watches o'er our work and deigns to be
Our Teacher, in all acts of purity.
Brethren, it is for this we meet and part,
And serve with hand to hand and heart to heart.
The world our Lodge, we seek ourselves to raise
To that grand sphere where reigns the King of Days,
And then, through an eternity of youth,
Drink from the fountain of JEHOVAH'S Truth!

Let us our mission ever keep in sight,
And as we leave this sacred house to-night,
Let us remember that great truth we teach
That we are surely travelling on to reach
"That undiscovered country from whose bourne
No traveller is e'er permitted to return,"—
And that our loved Acacia blooms, to prove
The endless ages of Almighty Love,—
Pointing us to those glorious realms on high
Where souls redeemed can never, never die.

The Provincial Grand Lodge of Berks and Bucks will be holden at the Albert Institute, Sheet-street, Windsor, on Monday next, the 18th inst., when the general business of the Province will be transacted. Special arrangements (as usual) have been made by the Great Western Railway Company, by which Return Tickets at single fares will be issued on production of the summons, at the Booking Offices at the following stations:—London, Reading, Oxford, Newbury, Abingdon, Swindon, Faringdon, Aylesbury, Wycombe, Marlow Road, and Maidenhead; and at all stations on the London, Wokingham, and Reading Railway between Waterloo Bridge and Windsor.

The West Lancashire Masonic Educational Institution proposes to increase its benefits. At the last meeting there were eighteen applications for education and advancement, which would cost about £100 a year, and the brethren resolved to recommend the cases to the next Court of Governors. The Committee to whom the question of increasing the benefits was referrred, reported that the time had arrived when these privileges should be extended, They recommended that children who had lost both parents should be elected and sent to approved schools, to be educated, clothed, and maintained, the outlay on that account not to exceed £400 a-year. Should this outlay cause the invested capital of the Institution at any time to go below £15,000, elections for increased benefits to be deferred until the funds increased. The Committee, however, had no doubt that with increased outlay increased means would come.—Evening News.

JOPPA LODGE OF INSTRUCTION, No. 188.

THE annual dinner in connection with this young but exceedingly successful Lodge of Instruction, was held on Tuesday, 5th inst., at the Champion Hotel, Aldersgate-street, where there was a gratifying attendance, under the presidency of Bro. A. G. Dodson P.M., the esteemed Preceptor. Bro. G. P. Nightingale occupied the vice-chair, and the company included Bros. E. P. Albert P.G. Purs., J. Benjamin W.M. of the Joppa Lodge, R. J. Chillingworth P.M. Treasurer, J. Pigé P.M., Isaac Botibol, W. J. Large, A. Botibol, L. Wall, J. W. Dewsnap, H. Kemp, W. J. Dodds Secretary, J. Hughes P.M., G. C. Dunlop, W. J. Gardiner, G. Midgley, J. Hicks, S. Pardoe, W. Mills Bailey, S. Botibol, J. G. Shaw, W. A. Collyer, Kleinmann, Minns, S. Pardoe sen., H. Davis, and others. A sumptuous repast was provided by Bro. Chillingworth, whose arrangements for the comfort and enjoyment of the party afforded every satisfaction. At its conclusion, the customary Loyal and Craft toasts were honoured, Bro. E. P. Albert responding for the Grand Officers present and past. In the course of his remarks he observed that within the past few weeks a new set of Grand Officers had been appointed, but they might rest assured that the lustre of Grand Lodge would not be lessened by the changes that had taken place. Bro. Dewsnap, in proposing the Mother Lodge of Joppa said, many of those present were members of that old Lodge, and were very proud of being so. Any brother who visited it was sure of meeting a cordial reception at the hands of the Lodge and of Bro. Benjamin the W.M., whose name he would associate with the toast. Bro. J. Benjamin, in responding, said he was especially thankful to the members of the Joppa Lodge for having placed him in the position he now occupied as their W.M. He felt sure the manner in which their Lodge of Instruction was conducted was such as afforded sound and useful aid to the brethren in their search after Masonic knowledge, and reflected great credit upon its founder and Preceptor, Bro. Dodson. Through his guidance he (the speaker) was enabled to take his position in the parent Lodge, and no doubt many members of this Lodge of Instruction would be able to follow in his footsteps, having received the benefit of the same able tuition. It was with great pleasure he referred to the substantial aid which this Lodge of Instruction had given to the cause of Charity. Although only about three years old, it had created four Life Governorships, which was a great credit to the members, and showed that, like the mother Lodge, they had Benevolence at heart. He concluded by congratulating the Preceptor and the members generally upon the excellent results of their work during the past year. Bro. Nightingale said it had devolved upon him to propose what he regarded as one of the most important toasts of the evening, Success to the Joppa Lodge of Instruction. He was one of its oldest members; he had spent many happy evenings there under the tuition of Bro. Dodson. He quite agreed with Bro. Benjamin in the opinion that all who attended their weekly meetings, and participated in the instruction imparted there, would certainly rise to position in the parent Lodge. Reference had been made to the exertions made by this young Lodge of Instruction in the cause of Charity, and he rejoiced to think that although established only three years ago, they already had had four ballots for Life Subscribers, which only showed what a prosperous Lodge they were. He hoped they might go on in the same manner in the future, and he coupled with the toast the name of Bro. Hicks. Bro. J. Hicks did not know why he should have been selected to respond for this important toast, which had been received with so much heartiness and cordiality. He could only say he knew of no Lodge he loved so much as this, and he derived the greatest help and pleasure from the gatherings, which took place here on every Tuesday evening throughout the year. They never missed an evening, and the members were not only glad to meet each other, but also brethren from other Lodges. It was at such meetings as these that they became perfect with the ritual, and more acquainted with the work of the Craft; and, above all, they tried to cultivate the virtues of harmony and goodwill, in which they were assisted most heartily and genially by their worthy Preceptor. He trusted that those who had joined them for the first time that evening would become members, and thus share in the advantages which all must admit belonged to this excellent Lodge of Instruction. Brother J. Hughes, in proposing the health of the President, observed that ever since the formation of this Lodge of Instruction he had reason to admire the work performed by Bro. Dodson. He understood very little of the practical work of Masonry when he joined this Lodge, and it seemed such a vast amount of uphill work to learn the whole of the ceremonies that he thought he must give up the attempt. But Brother Dodson, with his kindly, genial manner, insisted on his going forward, and very soon he took the various chairs, gaining confidence and experience on each successive occasion. That was the way in which he coached up and encouraged his pupils, for which they had great reason to thank him. If they attended the meetings regularly their worthy President would put them in such a position that they would not be ashamed to present themselves before the brethren, but would be able well to perform any duties that might devolve upon them. During the whole time he had attended this Lodge of Instruction he had noticed the vast amount of attention Bro. Dodson had paid to its duties, and he felt sure, from the esteem and regard in which he was held by the brethren, the toast of his health would be most heartily received. Bro. Dodson, who rose amidst renewed applause, to respond, said he returned his grateful thanks for the pleasing acceptance which had been given to the toast, and for the many kind compliments that had been paid to himself. He could only say he felt great pleasure in attending the meetings of this Lodge of Instruction every Tuesday evening. Indeed, he made it his "night out;" if he had given any satisfaction by the way in which he had presumed to teach them, it was to him a great pleasure. He should endeavour to do in the future as he had done in the past, and trusted they might continue to meet for years, to work with that love and harmony which were always characteristic of Freemasonry. He then proposed the health of their excellent Treasurer and Secretary, in doing which he spoke in felicitous terms of the manner in which both these Officers performed their duties. Bro. Chillingworth said it was a very pleasant office to be the Treasurer of this successful Lodge of Instruction, and if he had performed his duties in any way to their satisfaction he was exceedingly pleased, and should be happy to continue in the same way. Bro. W. J. Dodds also responded, as Secretary of the Lodge. Bro. J. Hicks next proposed the Visitors, in doing which he spoke of the love of hospitality as one of the virtues of Freemasonry, and said they were always glad to see as many Visitors as they could gather around them. The only way to cultivate that love and harmony of which Bro. Dodson had spoken, to spread it, and to make the principles of Freemasonry more a part of their inner lives, was to meet as many of their brethren as they could on all occasions, and thus it was that Masons were always pleased to see as many visitors at their festivities as could make it convenient to join them. The toast was cordially received, and acknowledged in suitable terms by Bros. W. Minns, J. Shaw, Bailey, S. Botibol, and W. A. Collyer. Bro. Gardiner proposed the Masonic press, acknowledging the care and accuracy with which the meetings of the brethren were reported, and the valuable information the journals of the Craft afforded on matters of interest to them. The toast was duly acknowledged. Several other toasts followed, interspersed with some capital songs, valuable aid being rendered by Bro. W. J. Large as accompanyist on the pianoforte. A thoroughly happy and harmonious meeting was enjoyed.

THE EMPIRE LAMP.
(RIPPINGILLE'S PATENT.)
THE MOST BRILLIANT AND ECONOMICAL DOMESTIC LIGHT EXTANT.
It equals Gas for Simplicity, but surpasses it for Illuminating Power.
IT burns without a chimney, a pine-shaped globe only being required, which has never been known to break from the heat of the flame. It will give more light than any other lamp with a wick of equal size. The combustion is so perfect that it deodorises the oil, and burns absolutely without smell, giving an intense pure white and beautiful light. It is unrivalled for simplicity in lighting, cleaning, and trimming, and is, in fact, the perfection of artificial light. Suitable for Cottage or Mansion, Churches, Chapels, &c.
Illustrated Catalogue, with full particulars, and giving valuable hints on Domestic Lighting and the Management of Lamps, free on application.

THE BOYS' SCHOOL.

THE Eighty-fifth Anniversary Festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys was held on Wednesday, at the Crystal Palace, Sydenham, under the presidency of the Right Hon. Viscount Holmesdale, Prov. G.M. for Kent. The result proved in excess of what even the most sanguine friends of the Institution had hoped for, and when we tell our readers that the amount realised was £22,444, we feel sure they will agree with us that every one should be satisfied. This total exceeds by some £4,500 the largest collection hitherto announced at a charity festival, and is one of which we, as Freemasons, can indeed be proud. The total which comes nearest to that of "Our Boys" was subscribed on behalf of the Commercial Travellers' Schools, at a time when the Committee of that Institution were making a somewhat similar appeal to that which is now before the Craft on behalf of the Boys' School,—Enlargement of Premises. If we take into consideration the great number of persons to whom an appeal on behalf of the Commercial Travellers' Schools could be made, the immense amount of organisation possessed by that class, and the number of subscriptions which would be sent in from large business firms and others, outside the body itself, we may be able to judge of the work which has been accomplished by Freemasons, who have not only equalled this supreme effort of the Commercials, but exceeded it by £4,500 odd, or 25 per cent., and that, too, at a time when the cry is—"Business is very bad."

The amount announced on Wednesday represents the work of 391 Stewards, for although there were 402 on the roll, eleven of them had omitted to send in their lists at the time the figures were totalled. This gives an average of over £57 a Steward, an amount much above that usually reached in connection with our charity Festivals.

The greater part of this year's total is sent up from the Provinces, the donations from which are more than double the amount of those received from London. The actual figures being:—London £7,273, Provinces £15,171.

It appears from a rough glance at the totals that the answer to the special appeal of the Institution is pretty general throughout the country, instead of being confined, as it might have been, to one particular centre, where a more active canvass was possible. This in itself shows the popularity of the scheme which is proposed, and, coupled with the splendid result achieved, proves that the brethren of England are conscious of the good work done in the School, and are desirous of extending it. Whether we go to the extreme north, the south, the east, or the west, we find Provinces figuring for sums far in excess of their average, and all vieing with each other for the place of honour. East Lancashire heads the list with £2,100. Kent—the Province of which the noble Chairman is the Grand Master—comes next, and although occupying a secondary position does so only by a very slight difference, its total being £2,000. We suppose it is unjust to ask for more, but we should very much have liked another hundred guineas from this district, and such a donation would have placed it at the head of the Provinces. West Yorkshire follows with a total of £1,500, and then we have Northumberland, and Westmoreland and Cumberland, each with four figure totals, the former answering for £1,230, and the latter for a level £1,000. We thus have a total of £7,830 from five provinces, an amount exceeding that contributed by London by upwards of £500, and being far in excess of what a few years since would have been looked upon as a splendid total from the whole of the country, London included. We can thus judge of the great advance which has been made in the support of our Institutions. Following the Provinces we have already enumerated comes that of North and East Yorkshire, with a donation of £879. We cannot express ourselves too strongly in admiration of this amount, a few years since, North and East Yorkshire was all but unknown at our Festivals, but now, thanks to the continued exertions of a few of its members, and the liberal support they have met with, the district bids fair to rival most of its neighbours in the amount of its subscriptions. Berks and Bucks sends £591, Leicestershire £490, Oxford £459, Rutland £405, Essex £365, Devon £317, West Lancashire £292, Derbyshire £239, and Cheshire £163. We shall not here attempt any comparison of these amounts, as it is our intention, next week, to analyse the lists, as we have done in former years.

The greatest share of the honour attached to this year's result should, of course, be given to the Stewards who have collected the total amount, for it must be known that, unless good pleaders had been about, the brethren generally would have been ignorant of the wants of the Institution, or, at least, would have known very much less about them than has been the case. The Board of Stewards this year numbered over 400, and was the largest ever known in connection with the Charity, exceeding by some 170 the average number of the past ten years. In order to show the increase in this particular branch of supporters of the Boys' School we give the numbers of the Stewards who have served at the past twenty-two Festivals, together with the amount paid each year as Steward's fee. From this latter it will be seen that serving a Stewardship a few years ago was a much more expensive undertaking than it is at the present time, £4 and £5 being the regular amount during the first ten years of the period.

The actual numbers are as follows:—

Year	No. of Stewards	Amount of Steward's Fee £ s d
1862	107	4 0 0
1863	115	4 0 0
1864	89	4 0 0
1865	80	5 0 0

1881	233	2 2 0
1882	269	2 2 0
1883	402	2 2 0

As regards the Festival itself—it was a great success;

Digitized by Google

not a hitch occurred to mar the proceedings, not even though the number of guests was close on 700. The arrangements were as near perfection as possible and were carried out in the most satisfactory manner, leaving the impression that the Stewards did quite right in selecting the Crystal Palace as their meeting place. We can only hope that many such gatherings will be celebrated in the future, and that each may prove as satisfactory as this has done.

We append a full List of the Stewards who served on this memorable occasion, with the amounts accredited to each up to the time of our going to press.

MARK MASONRY.

PRINCE LEOPOLD LODGE, No. 238.

AMONGST the many Mark Lodges of the Metropolis there are few that present features of more solid progress and stability than that which bears the name of the youngest son of the revered Patroness of the Craft. Tuesday of last week witnessed the annual installation gathering, when there was a goodly assemblage of the brethren and visitors, under the presidency of Bro. Thomas R. Richnell P.P.G.S.B. of Middlesex and Surrey, the esteemed Worshipful Master, who was supported by Bro. Sir Charles Palmer, Bart., Past Prov. G.S.O. Middlesex and Surrey S.W., J. H. Dodson J.W., and many other Officers and brethren. Lodge having been opened in accordance with ancient formalities, Bro. Sir Charles Palmer, who had discharged the duties of the Senior Warden's chair during the year with exemplary zeal, was presented as the Worshipful Master elect, and was duly installed by Bro. Colonel Wigginton P.P.G.S.O., assisted by Bros. T. Walls P.G.S.B. and Alfred Tisley P.G.S.O. The newly installed Master having been saluted with the customary honours, invested his Officers for the ensuing year, as follows:—Bros. T. R. Richnell I.P.M., J. H. Dodson S.W. and Treasurer, F. Farrington J.W., W. E. Farrington M.O., C. Brown S.O., T. O. Harding J.O., Colonel Wigginton Secretary, F. Clemow S.D., W. H. Saunders J.D., G. H. Dodd I.G., R. Clemow D.C., F. Chambers W.S. Some matters of formal business having been transacted, cordial votes of thanks were passed to the retiring Worshipful Master, for the manner in which he had studied the interests of the Lodge during the past year, and to the Installing Officer—the compliments being duly acknowledged. At the conclusion of the business the brethren and visitors partook of a sumptuous banquet, provided in a style for which Bro. Clemow's old-established hotel has ever been proverbial, and dessert having been placed before the guests, the customary Loyal and Mark Masonic toasts were duly honoured. Bro. Richnell, in proposing the health of the newly-installed Worshipful Master, expressed the pleasure which the brethren must all feel in seeing the Hon. Baronet so far recovered from his recent serious illness as to be enabled to appear once more amongst the members of the Lodge. No one felt greater disappointment than he (the speaker) did at Sir Charles being in such a condition of health as prevented him from taking the honoured position of fifth Master of the Leopold Lodge at their last meeting. He trusted, however, that the Hon. Baronet might enjoy as happy and prosperous a year of office as he (Bro. Richnell) had done, and that the same good feeling might continue to exist amongst all who were in any way connected with the Lodge. Bro. Sir Charles Palmer, in acknowledging the compliment paid to him, said it was a source of genuine gratification to him to be received with such kindness and courtesy as he had been on all occasions, and he thanked them heartily for the honour they had that evening conferred upon him. He could assure them that nothing should be wanting on his part to advance the prosperity of the Leopold Lodge, and to uphold the prestige it had so deservedly enjoyed in the past. The health of the Officers of the Lodge was given from the chair, and in response Bro. J. H. Dodson, as Treasurer, congratulated the brethren upon the satisfactory condition of the finances of the Lodge, and expressed his conviction that a long career of harmony and prosperity was in store for the Leopold Lodge. Several other complimentary toasts were honoured, the proceedings being enlivened by some excellent vocal and instrumental music, to which Bros. T. Walls, A. Tisley and other brethren contributed, whilst the recitation of Hood's poem on "The Lady's Dream," by the Worshipful Master, elicited the heartiest expressions of appreciation from all present. Altogether a most harmonious and enjoyable evening was passed.

FRENCH BRETHREN OPPOSED TO THE REVOLUTION IN THE LAST CENTURY.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—In a work named below, I came across the following interesting paragraph. Comment is unnecessary. It may, however, furnish an item for Brother Gould's "History of Freemasonry."

Fraternally yours,

JACOB NORTON.

Boston, 1st June 1883.

"We have already noticed the protest signed by the princes of the blood in 1771, in which both the Duke of Orleans and the Duke de Chartres joined, and their subsequent retractation after the death of Count de Clermont. The Count had been the Grand Master of the Freemasons in France, and the Duke de Chartres was elected his successor; but as he had not attained the age prescribed by the statutes of the Institution, the Duke de Luxemberg was appointed administrator in the interim. Among the many absurdities propagated at a later date, was the assertion that the Freemasons had already planned the French Revolution, and that the Duke de Chartres joined in the conspiracy when he became Grand Master. It is only necessary to notice that the Duke de Luxemberg, his Deputy, was President of the Order of the Noblesse in 1789, and was the most vehement opponent of the Revolution, that nearly all the members of the Lodge to which the Duke belonged emigrated, and that only one of them ever took an active part in the Revolution, that one being the Duc de Lauzun—better known as Marshal Biron." PREROGATIVES OF GRAND LODGE AND OF M.W. GRAND MASTER.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—It would appear, from the manner in which, at the last Quarterly Communication of Grand Lodge, the objection of the R.W. Past District Grand Master for China to the recent alteration of the Table of Precedence of Grand Lodge Officers was met by the Grand Registrar, that a most important question relating to prerogatives is about to be fought out between the "purple" and the "blue." Unless the discussion which will assuredly ensue on motions to be made is conducted in a fair and impartial spirit on both sides (alas! that there should be "sides" in Masonry), it is certain that much heartburning, and possibly schism, may be the result. The question of prescriptive and indefeasible rights cannot, in this instance, be debated without reference to the present illustrious occupant of the throne of the representative of the R.S., but it ought to be generally understood that the very utmost loyalty to the person may be entertained conjointly with a conviction that the privileges and powers of the office should be clearly defined. As matters now stand, the genial warmth of a devoted loyalty is "exposed" to influences which might materially lower its temperature, and that through no fault in thought or action of the distinguished ruler of the English Craft. In view of the remarks which fell from our highly respected Pro Grand Master in reference to my observations at the last Quarterly Communication, I would say that I have always, and do still, disclaim personality in my endeavours to express my sentiments on subjects of public importance; and, however much my probably too excited delivery in speech may be misconstrued, I entertain a deep, though not servile, veneration for lawfully constituted authority. That such veneration should, however, be perfect, it is necessary that no self-imposed blindness, palpable defects in motives or actions, should be permitted to interpose.

So much by way of introduction of my subject. I propose to submit, through your pages, if permitted, several points relating to the Prerogatives of the Grand Lodge, and of its Grand Master, for the consideration of the brethren interested in the question which has arisen. And, inasmuch as the Grand Lodge is the primary body from which all Masonic authority emanates, precedence in argument must be given to it.

What, then, are the prerogatives of Grand Lodge, as set forth by the Ancient Constitutions of the Order?

First—"The Grand Lodge alone has the inherent power of enacting laws and regulations for the government of the Craft, and of altering, repealing, and abrogating them, always taking care that the ancient landmarks of the Order be preserved." (Cons. p 24, section 16.) Grand Lodge alone. That is, "the general representation of all private Lodges on record, together with the Grand Stewards of the year, and the Present and Past Grand Officers, and the Grand Master at their head," each and every member of which collective body possesses equal rights in general assembly in deliberating upon and "deciding all matters relative to the Craft." This, then, is the supreme prerogative of Grand Lodge, which all alike have not only to uphold, but, without any distinction whatever, to observe. Has this prerogative been recognised and maintained as it should have been? There is a law extant, created in 1869-70, under the terms of the eighth section of the then and still existing regulations for the government of Grand Lodge, which has been neither altered, repealed, nor abrogated, but which has been persistently obstructed, and yet remains inoperative. It may be here remarked that no reference appears to be made in the draft of the proposed revision of the Constitutions to this "landmark," which has hitherto been presumed to be authoritative in respect of Grand Lodge resolutions; and that, unless care be taken not to lose sight of so important an elision, this necessary provision may be altogether set aside.

Second—The Grand Lodge, equally with the Grand Master, can constitute brethren, under certain qualifications, members of its body, with such rank and distinction as may be thought proper.

Third—The election of the Grand Master, and Grand Treasurer annually.

Fourth—The appointment of the Board of General Purposes (in part) and of all Committees. In reference to this prerogative it may not be altogether out of place to ask whether or not the Grand Lodge was consulted in respect of the proposed Revision of the Book of Constitutions, a work of such magnitude and great importance that rather merited the appointment of a special Committee than the spontaneous, however praiseworthy, action of the Board of General Purposes, whose special business is defined in the regulations of the Order, and does not extend to the initiatory introduction of new matters of debate.

All other minor prerogatives of Grand Lodge which are referred to in the present Book of Constitutions may be considered as embodied in the supreme prerogative first above mentioned.

We have now to consider the prerogatives of the Most Worshipful Grand Master, which, in so far as they are expressed by the Constitutions of the Order, appear to be—

First: The appointment of the Grand Officers for the year, excepting only the Grand Treasurer. In respect of the exercise of this prerogative, there is not any regulation which either provides for or prohibits the appointment of any one Grand Officer for a longer period than one year, and there is no record that the practice of continuing the same brethren in office for successive years is other than a modern arrangement. As to the advisability of such continued appointments, opinions may differ; but there are not wanting many members of Grand Lodge who consider that every Grand Office, except those of the Grand Secretary and his assistant, should be open year by year to brethren equally qualified with the present holders thereof for the discharge of duties appertaining to the respective dignities. It is only in the case of the Grand Secretary that provision is made for continued service, by the express regulation that after being "appointed by the Grand Master he shall continue without re-appointment during the pleasure of Grand Lodge." And provision is made for past Grand rank being accorded to other Grand Officers on retirement after (presumably) one year's service. Whilst, however, the Constitutions of the Order remain as they are, and as they are likely to remain, unless the promoters of the proposed Revision are stirred to farther efforts, it may well be considered that the Most Worshipful Grand Master's prerogative in this respect is full and indefeasible.

Second: The appointment of brethren of eminence to represent him in sister Grand Lodges, and the constitution of distinguished personages as members of the Grand Lodge of England.

Third: The authority to preside over the meetings of any Lodges.

Fourth: The power to summons any Lodge or brother to attend him, and produce warrant, papers and certificates; but the power to expel any member from the Order is expressly reserved to the Grand Lodge.

Fifth: The appointment of Provincial and District Grand Masters.

Sixth: The power to grant dispensations in certain cases.

Seventh: The nomination of the President and ten members of the Board of General Purposes.

The foregoing are the only prerogatives expressly reserved to the Most Worshipful Grand Master by the Constitutions, and neither directly nor by implication is there any alienation from the Grand Lodge of its "inherent power" to decide and determine all other matters relating to the Craft. No person whatever is delegated whereby the order of precedence in rank, "declared and pronounced" in 1813, can be disturbed, nor can the "Prerogative of the M.W.G.M." be justly advanced against the enactment, alteration, repeal, or abrogation by the Grand Lodge of any of its rules and regulations.

There has been much, of late, connected with the proceedings of Grand Lodge which has caused great dissatisfaction (I speak for others as well as for myself), and it has become, one might almost say, absolutely necessary that the Craft generally should ascertain on what principles of abstract justice they are ruled. There are none amongst us, I should hope, so obtrusive as to suppose that late occurrences have been the result of the uninfluenced action of our Royal Chief, but there are a few who directly attribute them to most unwise counsel on the part of those who are, by virtue of their Offices, his immediate advisers.

I am, Dear Sir and Brother,

Yours faithfully and fraternally,

JAMES STEVENS P.M. 1216, P.Z.

ELECTION FOR COMMITTEE OF MANAGEMENT.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—In answer to Bro. Atkins, permit me space in your columns to assure him that I never doubted his fitness for the office to which he has been elected; still, however fit any one may be, if he neglects to perform the duties appertaining to an office he is only uselessly keeping out others who are able, willing, and have the time at their disposal, to give their services to the business to which they have been elected. Bro. Atkins's attendances, when formerly he was a member of the Committee named in my previous letter, can be easily ascertained by looking at the Attendance Book. To the worthy Brother the W.M. of that ancient and honourable Lodge the Egyptian, I tender my apology for any mis-statement I made as to the benefits he has conferred upon our splendid Institutions, but if he permits other names to appear and take the credit of his good actions, he must not be surprised at such a mistake being made. Bro. Atkins's term "insult" is entirely out of place, as no insult was intended, and in that case none was given. Who the brethren were that objected to his being on the Committees, except for the reasons I have stated, must be best known to himself. I am perfectly acquainted with them, and never heard a hint or expression to that effect. My estimate of Bro. Atkins's fitness has been proved, for on former occasions I have supported, and induced others to support him, and would again on an assurance from him that he would be in his place when duty called him.

Digitized by Google

Yours fraternally,

P.M.

REVISION OF THE BOOK OF CONSTITUTIONS.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—I have been hoping, with many other brethren, to see some notice taken in your paper as to the suggestion which appeared a short time since, signed "HIRAM," with regard to limiting the time for which certain Grand Officers should hold their appointments.

The position of Grand Secretary has been held by the same worthy brother for three years, why not limit this appointment to five years? The income, a very fair one, is paid by the Craft, and why should not the appointment be in the hands of Grand Lodge?

The Most Worshipful the Grand Master is always ready and willing to do any and everything for the good of Freemasonry, and no doubt would in this instance waive his prerogative, and as Grand Lodge, on the occasion of the election of Grand Treasurer, endorsed the views of those who hold that it is good to have at their disposal the means of rewarding "worthy brethren of long Masonic service," this would appear a fitting time to do so, now that the Book of Constitutions is to be revised.

The present Grand Secretary is a military man; he quite understands the five years' system, and would, no doubt, see the fairness of allowing other capable and worthy brethren a chance of promotion, and the service to the Craft would in no wise suffer, as there is an Assistant Grand Secretary, and ample staff for performance of the details of official duties.

I am, Dear Sir and Brother,

Yours fraternally,

FAIR PLAY.

NATIONAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

SIR,—The establishment of a National College of Music having been so universally responded to, induces me to ask, "What will ultimately be the fate of its scholars?" The College will be the means of firstly—Educating, and secondly—throwing upon the musical world a vast number of instrumentalists. The fact appears to be ignored that there is already in London alone a considerable number of talented English players who cannot obtain a living, owing to the distinguished patronage lavished on foreign artists. British musicians naturally look forward to the London season for their harvest, but as regularly as the season approaches we find two Hungarian Bands located here, advertising themselves "under the immediate patronage of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales and the nobility," engaged day and night at various garden parties, dinners, balls, &c., to the exclusion of the English musician. There is also another band here from Vienna, whose arrival has thrown an entire orchestra out of employment, as they first play at a theatre, and afterwards at an aristocratic club, recently formed.

The manifest injustice to English artists must be apparent, and I feel sure the facts need only to be brought under the notice of those who have the power of bestowing their patronage on native talent to remedy the evil.

By kindly inserting these few remarks in your influential paper, you will greatly oblige a large section of the musical profession.

I am, Sir,

Yours obediently,

AN ENGLISH MUSICIAN.

Bro. Thomas B. Dunbar, one of the oldest Freemasons in the State, died at his residence in Columbia, on Tuesday, 5th June, in the eighty-ninth year of his age. Bro. Dunbar was made a Mason in the old Lodge known as Eastern Star, No. 196, Columbia, Pa., on the 15th of June 1823, Robert Spear was then Master, and Thomas Lloyd Secretary. After the formation of the new Lodge, some years afterwards, Columbia, No. 286, Bro. Dunbar was appointed Tyler, in which capacity he faithfully served until the day of his death.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—Nervous Irritability.—No part of the human machine requires more constant supervision than the nervous system—for upon it our health—and even life—depends. These Pills strengthen the nerves, and are the safest general purifiers for the blood. Nausea, headache, giddiness, numbness, and mental apathy yield to them. They dispatch in a summary manner those distressing dyspeptic symptoms, stomachic pains, fullness at the pit of the stomach and abdominal distension, and regulate alike capricious appetites and confined bowels—the commonly accompanying signs of defective or diminished nerve tone. Holloway's Pills are particularly recommended to persons of studious and sedentary habits, who gradually fall into a nervous and irritable state, unless some such restorative be occasionally taken.

PROV. GRAND LODGE OF BERKS AND BUCKS.

WINDSOR, the Royal Borough, was the locality selected this year for the annual meeting of the Craftsmen of this Province, and, accordingly, on Monday last, a goodly assemblage of the brethren ranged themselves under their respective banners at the Albert Institute, Sheet-street. The Right Worshipful Sir Daniel Gooch, Bart., M.P., Provincial Grand Master, presided, and he was supported by the V.W. the Deputy Prov. Grand Master, the Rev. J. Studholme Brownrigg P.G.C., and the following Prov. Grand Officers of the year:—Bros. Reginald C. Mount W.M. 414 Grand Senior Warden, Lewis Poulton W.M. 591 Grand Junior Warden, Rev. Gilbert H. Layton 591 Grand Chaplain, Rev. Arthur Fearon 1566 Grand Junior Chaplain, Charles Stevens P.M. 414 Grand Treasurer, Robert Bradley P.M. 414 Grand Secretary, John Roseby Slator W.M. 1787 Grand Senior Deacon, Edward John Blackwell W.M. 1101 Grand Junior Deacon, Robert King W.M. 840 Grand Superintendent of Works, A. McDowell P.M. 948 Grand Director of Ceremonies, Robt. Nicholson W.M. 1566 Grand Assistant Director of Ceremonies, Francis Henry Lyon P.M. 574 Grand Sword Bearer, Edward Horne W.M. 1887 Grand Pursuivant, Charles Nowell Grand Assistant Pursuivant; Joseph Andrews 209, Andrew Pears P.M. 209, John Goddard 771, J. Ashby 771, R. E. Hannis 771, G. Stewards; William Hemmings Grand Tyler. After the Prov. Grand Lodge had been opened in due form, the roll of Lodges in the Province (to the number of twenty-one) was called, and in each case representatives were present. In response to the call for Provincial Grand Officers, as will be seen by the list we have already given, the brethren were mindful of the trust that had been reposed in them, and promptly answered the summons. It is the custom of this Province to have a record of the proceedings prepared, printed, and extensively circulated; consequently, at the annual gatherings, the labour is considerably lessened, and the mere acceptation of the details are passed without the time of the meeting being occupied by the formal reading of the previous minutes. The balance sheet of the Provincial Grand Treasurer showed an amount of £211 9s 8d in hand. The Lodges also were reported in a satisfactory condition, with an increasing membership. The Charity Account was next presented, and grants to the extent of £110 5s recommended; this amount being divided in sums of £10 10s and £5 5s respectively, the following Lodges receiving the larger sum, namely—Etonian 209, Buckingham 591, Windsor Castle 771, Scientific 840, Grey Friars 1101, Ellington 1566. The nine Lodges enumerated below were recommended the smaller sum, of five guineas, for each:—Union 414, Hope 574, Abbey 945, St. Peter and St. Paul 1410, Wycombe 1501, Watling Street 1639, Vale of White Horse 1770, Grenville 1787, and Herschel 1894. The Prov. Grand Master moved that these recommendations be adopted, and on this being seconded by the Deputy Grand Master, the resolution was unanimously agreed to. The sum of five guineas was voted in relief of the sufferers by the late fire in Jamaica, and the Prov. Grand Treasurer was then re-elected, which compliment was briefly but gracefully acknowledged by Bro. Stephens. After Bro. W. H. Belcher, 574, had been invested with the Provincial Charity jewel, the appointment and investiture of Provincial Grand Officers was proceeded with, as follows:—

Bro. R. G. Barton 771	G. Senior Warden
William Henry Bull 1639	G. Junior Warden
Rev. Arthur Fearon 1566	G. Chaplains
Rev. F. G. Kiddle 1787	G. Chaplains
Charles Stephens 414	G. Treasurer
Major Cooper King 1899	G. Registrar
Robert Bradley 414	G. Secretary
Francis J. Ferguson 414	G. Senior Deacon
Richard Dowsett 1101	G. Junior Deacon
A. J. Coales 1410	G. Sup. of Works
W. Biggs (acting)	G. Directors of Cerem.
S. G. Hant 574	G. Directors of Cerem.
C. A. Barrett 945	G. Asst. Dir. of Cer.
Captain Trollope 1887	G. Sword Bearer
J. C. B. Tirbutt 414	G. Organist
E. C. Knight 948	G. Pursuivant
C. H. Starr 1501	G. Stewards
H. R. Ruckley 1501	G. Stewards
S. J. Wheeler 414	G. Stewards
C. W. Seymour 771	G. Stewards
S. Volckman jun. 209.	G. Stewards
— Arnold 209	G. Stewards
William Hemmings	G. Tyler

In the course of his remarks, Sir Daniel Gooch said the several reports were, he thought, as satisfactory as they could wish, and fully denoted the progress Freemasonry was making in the Province. Letters of apology, for non-attendance, were read or announced; among others one from Brother Collins, Comptroller of the Household of the Duke of Albany, expressing His Royal Highness's thanks, but regretting a prior engagement prevented him from availing himself of the invitation. It was announced that the next meeting of Provincial Grand Lodge would be held at Wycombe, under the banner of No. 1501, and shortly afterwards Provincial Grand Lodge was closed. A capital banquet was served at the Town Hall, under the presidency of the Provincial Grand Master, when the usual toasts were done full justice to. The tables were handsomely decorated, Bros. Ashby and Turner providing some splendid flowers for the occasion. The musical arrangements were all that could be desired, Brother Summers, to whom they were entrusted, being highly and deservedly complimented.

The meetings of the Finsbury Park Lodge of Instruction, No. 1288, held at the "Cock" Tavern, Highbury, have been adjourned until Wednesday, 5th September.

FREDERICK OF UNITY LODGE, No. 452.

THE installation of this, one of the oldest of the Lodges in the Province of Surrey, took place on Tuesday last, at the Masonic Hall, 105 High Street, Croydon. Lodge was opened by the W.M., Bro. J. C. F. W. Rogers, who was supported by Bros. Magnus Ohren P.M. Past G.A.D.C. (Treasurer), H. E. Frances P.M. Past Prov. G.S.D. (Secretary), and a fair attendance of the members. After the minutes of last meeting had been read, confirmed, and signed, several communications were referred to, and a report offered for adoption was received. The by-laws of the Lodge, which had recently undergone revision, were accepted, conditionally on their being approved by the Right Worshipful the Provincial Grand Master. The duty of installing the Worshipful Master elect, Bro. Charles Magnus Ohren, was undertaken by Bro. H. E. Frances, to whose ability for the conduct of the ceremony we have on many occasions had specially to refer. Bro. Frances on this occasion well sustained his reputation. The new W.M. appointed the following brethren as his Officers:—William G. Batchelor S.W., David Snee J.W., Magnus Ohren P.M. Treasurer, H. E. Frances P.M Secretary, Charles George Scott S.D., William G. Hunter J.D., Daniel R. Wise I.G., C. T. Speight Tyler. A candidate for initiation now presented himself, in the person of Mr. William Batchelor, son of Brother W. G. Batchelor, the Senior Warden of the Lodge. This gentleman is about to leave the country, and desired to become a Mason previous to his departure. Brother Batchelor put forward the candidate, and Brother Magnus Ohren seconded the proposition. The ballot was favourable, and the fiat of the Worshipful Master having been secured previously, Mr. Batchelor now presented himself, and was initiated into the Order, the ceremony being conducted by the father of the aspirant for Masonic light. Notice of motion was given that a Past Master's jewel be presented to Bro. J. C. F. W. Rogers, on his leaving the chair, as a mark of respect from the members; and after some routine work, Lodge was closed. After a brief interval a banquet was served, under the personal superintendence of Bro. Rhodes, the proprietor of the Masonic Hall. On the removal of the cloth, the W.M., who ably fulfilled the duties of President, briefly introduced the loyal toasts. In speaking to the toast of the M.W. the Pro Grand Master, the R.W. the Deputy Grand Master, and the rest of the Grand Officers Present and Past, Bro. Charles Ohren said the Frederick Lodge was almost invariably honoured with the presence of one Grand Officer, their Treasurer; he should therefore, on this occasion especially, commend the toast, and with it would couple the name of Bro. Magnus Ohren. Bro. Magnus Ohren, in reply, said he rose with pleasure to respond. The position of a Grand Officer was one to be envied by any man, but it must be worked for by those who aspired to the honour. He could not say that there was any royal road, but he knew that a man must make some mark in Masonry ere he arrived at that point. Many of those present were entitled to sit in Grand Lodge, and doubtless had done so, consequently they must have observed how the Grand Officers filled their positions. It was a great thing for them to know there were brethren willing and able to carry out the duties. Some of the posts invariably had been filled with great advantage to the Craft for years past. The Pro Grand Master gave satisfaction when he attended; and every one felt the work would be done in a manner worthy a Mason holding so high a position. He only felt sorry that the Grand Master was not more frequently among the brethren, but they could well understand how that was; they knew that the Prince of Wales when asked to preside at some great undertaking was able to choose his own time, and was generally punctual; but the meetings of Grand Lodge, at which they were so anxious to have him present, fell on fixed dates, which clashed with other appointments. This, he believed, was the reason why the Grand Master did not more frequently preside at Grand Lodge. After some remarks as to the recent fire at Freemasons' Hall, Bro. Ohren said he had no doubt that when the new hall was completed they would more frequently see the Grand Master among them. In proposing the health of the Provincial Grand Master, the W.M. said that the Lodge was favoured by having several Provincial Grand Officers among its members; but he was sorry to say that only two were present on this occasion. He should couple the name of Bro. Jeffery with this toast. After Bro. Jeffery had acknowledged the compliment, and directed the attention of the members present to the approaching meeting (on the 28th inst.) of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Surrey, Bro. Rogers I.P.M. briefly proposed the health of the Worshipful Master, wishing him a happy and prosperous year of office. The W.M. in reply thanked the I.P.M. heartily for his kind expressions; he should do his utmost to support the dignity of the chair during his year of office, and hoped to prove that their confidence had not been misplaced when they elected him their Master. Brother Charles Ohren, in proposing the health of the Initiate, said he hoped Brother Batchelor would follow in his father's footsteps; if he took his father for a guide he could not go wrong. After a brief reply, the Worshipful Master proposed the health of the Visitors. They had five present, viz., Bros. Carmen, Hunter, Dutton, Morgan, and Massey. The brethren were indebted to Brother Carmen for the musical ability he had displayed; he should couple his and Brother Hunter's name with the toast. Bros. Carmen and Hunter having replied, the Past Masters were complimented. The W.M. had to thank Brother Rogers for the assistance he had rendered in carrying out the alterations in the bye-laws. Of the utility and advantage of these alterations there could be no doubt. Brother Rogers returned thanks. In replying for the Treasurer and Secretary, Brother Magnus Ohren said he had much pleasure in responding. The toast was usually put as the Treasurer and Secretary, on this occasion, however, the Worshipful Master had very properly put it as the Installing Master, and the Treasurer. Brother Frances was well known as an exponent of ritual; he was one who had devoted a great part of his life to Masonry, and it was highly important to the Craft at large that there should be those who, for the love of Freemasonry, were willing to devote themselves to the task of spreading a knowledge of its ceremonies. There were many men who attended Lodges of Instruction to teach young Masons, who were coming on and wanted to learn the duties of the chair. No brother could hope to be proficient in the duties of the chair unless he attended Lodges of Instruction, and unless there were men like Brother Frances to teach them. On his own behalf Brother Ohren said that looking back at an old book, that lay on the table in the Lodge room, he found that he joined this Lodge on the 2nd May 1867—just 16 years ago—and he had not been in the Lodge more than six months when he found himself assisting in the secretarial duties. Later on he was induced to become the Secretary, and for 15 years he had done the duties, he might say, to the satisfaction of the brethren, because he had had many proofs of that throughout. Through the death of their old friend Brother Robins, he thought he would give the Lodge the opportunity of appointing Brother Frances to the chair of Secretary, and knowing it was a duty Brother Frances could perform, he had thought it well to resign that position; and he trusted that for another sixteen years the brethren might see Bro. Frances in the Secretary's chair. As regarded the Treasurership, he hoped that as long as he held the office he should be able to conduct the affairs of the Lodge to the satisfaction of the brethren. The proceedings throughout were agreeably enlivened by duets, songs, and recitations. Our esteemed Bro. Ohren is decidedly musically inclined, and in this regard his sons take after him. Moreover, the visitors rendered some goodly assistance, Bros. Carmen and Dutton especially so.

The installation meeting of the Evening Star Lodge, No. 1719, will take place on Tuesday next, the 26th inst.

The distribution of prizes to scholars, and visit of the Stewards to the School of the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys will also take place on Tuesday next. It is anticipated there will be a very large attendance.

The Stewards of the year for the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution paid their customary visit to the Asylum at Croydon on Tuesday last The building, which has lately been under repair, presented a very comfortable aspect, and the residents turned out in force to receive their guests. Bro. C. J. Perceval, the Chairman of the day, on behalf of the House Committee, gave a cordial welcome to the visitors, and expressed a hope that what they saw that day would incite them to further exertions. For the benefit of those not well acquainted with particulars of what work the Institution is doing, Bro. Terry recounted the advantages it dispensed. The proceedings were of a most agreeable character throughout, and all present were gratified in having assisted in this desirable result.

SWEDENBORG SOCIETY.

THE seventy-third Annual Meeting of this Society was held at 36 Bloomsbury-street, London, W.C, on Tuesday, the 19th inst., Major Bevington presiding. The report of the committee states that 1,395 volumes of the works of Swedenborg have been sold and 879 presented during the year. The free libraries of Barrow-in-Furness, Dunfermline, Hawick, High Wycombe, Stafford, Tonbridge, Twickenham, and Westminster have received 217 volumes, and the Bermondsey Working Men's Institute, Bromley (Kent) Mission, Edinburgh New Church Society, Manningham Liberal Club, Salisbury New Church Society, and Dr. Williams' Library, Grafton-street, London, have received 108 volumes. 354 copies of the True Christian Religion and the Apocalypse Revealed have been presented to clergymen and theological students in Great Britain. 67 copies of the True Christian Religion to ministers in South Africa. In Ceylon the Colombo Library has received 32 volumes, the University of Tokio in Japan 41 volumes, the Nassau Library 6 vols., the Napier Athenæum New Zealand 35 volumes, and several other places abroad have received presentations. The Society has, among others, received legacies from the late Rev. A. Clissold, of Stoke Newington, of £1,000, and £200 from the late Thomas Tapling, Esq. of Gresham-street.

The members of the Traders Society, established in 1739, had one of their Quarterly dinners at the Guildhall Tavern, Gresham-street, on 15th inst., under the Presidency of Bros. G. Millis Senior Steward, G. Lambert (P.G. Sword Bearer) Junior Steward, and Bro. Dr. Barringer P.M. Secretary. The dinner was all that could be desired, as regards viands and wines. Brother Millis, in genial and eloquent terms, proposed the toasts of the Queen, the Army, Navy, and Volunteers. The toast of the Wardens was appropriately responded to. Brother Dr. Carpenter recited a poem of his own composition, and received well merited applause. Among those present were Bros. Sir John Robinson, Sir George McBean, Dr. Barringer, F. Adlard, Watts, McBean, Captain Probyn, Rev. Dr. John Rose, H. M. Levy, Dr. Cross, &c.

UNITED GRAND LODGE.

A SPECIAL Grand Lodge will be holden at Freemasons' Hall, on Friday, the 29th instant, at Half past Three o'Clock in the afternoon, for the purpose of receiving and considering the Report of the Board of General Purposes on the Amendments on the proposed Revision of the Book of Constitutions referred to the Board by Grand Lodge at the Quarterly Communication of the 7th March last, for consideration and report. The Grand Lodge will be opened at Four o'Clock precisely.

The following is the business to be transacted :—

REPORT OF THE BOARD OF GENERAL PURPOSES ON THE AMENDMENTS TO AND SUGGESTIONS ON THE PROPOSED REVISED BOOK OF CONSTITUTIONS.

To the United Grand Lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons of England.

The proposed emendations brought under the notice of the Board are upwards of 800 in number, and it has been found impossible to distinguish in all cases between those that are intended as merely suggestions and those that are proposed to be brought before Grand Lodge as amendments. The Board have, therefore, treated them all alike, and have given them their careful consideration. Many are of the same import, and some are even identical in phraseology; they have therefore been classed accordingly.

To print them in extenso would be attended, in the opinion of the Board, with unnecessary expense. It is, therefore, proposed to treat them in a classified and condensed form, under the heads of the respective rules to which they refer.

The Board are able to recommend to Grand Lodge the adoption of a large number of these suggestions. Some they do not recommend, and these are left to the discretion of Grand Lodge, in case the movers desire still to bring them forward.

Of the 308 Rules, 130 are untouched by any amendments, and these the Board consider may be treated as passed by Grand Lodge, without further discussion. The other Rules will now be treated consecutively, and the following suggestions, recommended by the Board, are before Grand Lodge for adoption or otherwise.

3. 1st and 2nd line, to omit 'The Pro Grand Master, the Deputy Grand Master and,' 'other Officers and,' and in 8th line 'other.'

5. 7th line, to omit 'in,' and to substitute 'has' for 'resides.'

6. The Table of Precedence is altered according to the recent order of the Grand Master.
To add a foot note respecting the prefixes and abbreviations used before the names of the respective Grand Officers.

9. 6th line, to insert 'such' before 'Lodge.' 8th line, insert 'English' before 'Lodge.' 12th line to substitute 'duly served' for 'filled,' and add 'such' before 'a Lodge.'

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

—:o:—

GREY FRIARS LODGE, No. 1101.

A REGULAR meeting took place at the Masonic Hall, Reading, on Wednesday, 13th June. Bros. Richard Dowsett W.M., E. J. Blackwell I.P.M., W. Ferguson P.M. acting S.W., J. H. Hawkes J.W., Ivey P.M. Secretary, Prickett S.D., Ravenscroft J.D., Hickie Org., Cordrey M.C., the Secretary acting as I.G., Hemmings Tyler. Bros. Slaughter, Whitfield, Sparrow, Greensway, Bennett, Brigham. Many others were expected, but just before commencing the business a heavy thunderstorm prevented several Officers, members, and visitors from attending. Lodge was opened, and the minutes of the last regular meeting were read and confirmed. The ballot was taken for Mr. William Morris, of Barnsbury Park, London, who was declared to be approved. Mr. Oliver Egginton, approved at the last regular Lodge, was duly initiated into the mysteries and privileges of ancient Freemasonry. The ceremony was admirably performed by the W.M., who also gave the charge in the first degree, in extenso. In the absence of the S.W., who was unavoidably abroad, on account of domestic illness, the I.P.M., in conformity with a notice of motion at the last regular Lodge, proposed, that the sum of ten guineas from the funds of the Lodge be applied to the assistance of the widow and children of a late brother, who were left in destitute circumstances; this was seconded by Bro. Ferguson, and carried unanimously. Bro. Stransom was re-nominated as Treasurer for the ensuing year. The W.M. explained the cause of his absence at the last meeting (he being Steward at the Festival of the Royal Masonic Institution for Girls), and gave an interesting account of the internal working of that admirable Institution; at its close proposing that the ten guineas voted by the Lodge should be paid in the name of the Treasurer of the Lodge for the time being, and that the five guineas voted by the Prov. Grand Lodge of Berks and Bucks should be paid in the name of the Secretary of the Lodge for the time being. This was agreed to. The forms of application to the Lodge of Benevolence for a grant to the widow of a brother were signed by the members present. All business being ended, the Lodge was closed according to antient form, and adjourned to the second Wednesday in October. We congratulate Bro. Dowsett upon the admirable working of the Lodge, both as regards himself and his Officers. The brethren retired for refreshment to the Ship Hotel, where an excellent cold collation was provided by Bro. Bailey, the toasts of the evening being the Initiate and the W.M., both of which were suitably responded to. The subject of a summer trip was fully discussed, and a committee formed to carry out the arrangements, there being on this occasion a desire to go to Virginia Water, but final arrangements will be made in the course of a week or ten days.

Percy Lodge of Instruction, No. 198.—At Brother Langdale's, Jolly Farmers', Southgate-road, N., on Saturday, 16th inst.—Bros Ferrar W.M., Weeden S.W., Lone J.W., Pearcy Preceptor, Fenner acting Secretary, Lorkin S.D., Bleakley J.D., Manger I.G.; also Bros. Brasted, Marks, Crawley, &c. After all preliminaries, the ceremony of raising was rehearsed, Brother Marks acting as candidate; the ceremony included the traditional history. Bro. Lorkin worked the third section of the lecture, assisted by the brethren. Lodge was closed to the first degree, when Bro. Lorkin worked the first section of that lecture, assisted by the brethren. Brother C. Weeden was appointed to preside at the next meeting. Brother C. Lorkin, the Treasurer of this Lodge of Instruction, will rehearse the ceremony of installation, on Saturday next, the 30th inst., that being the last meeting before the recess, which takes place during the months of July and August. Brethren are cordially invited to attend. Lodge opens at 8 punctually.

United Pilgrims Lodge of Instruction, No. 507.—Held at the Surrey Masonic Hall, Camberwell New Road, S.E., on Friday, the 15th inst. Present—Bros. Sarjeant W.M., Johnson S.W. Jones J.W., Hooper S.D., Bate J.D., Hartley I.G., Poore Secretary, James Stevens P.M. and Preceptor; also Bros. Phillips, Bye jun., R. W. Pooler, Chapman, &c. Lodge having been opened in the three degrees, was resumed to the second, and Bro. Phillips, acting as candidate, was entrusted, and the ceremony of raising was very ably rehearsed by the W.M., Bro. Bate delivering the charge of the degree. Lodge was duly closed down, and called off. Entry drill, in which the members join with much spirit, was practised, and the Lodge called on. Friday the 22nd, being the Preceptor's night, Bro. Stevens nominated Bro. Eldridge Johnson as W.M. The fifth Friday, the 29th inst., is the date appointed for rehearsal of the installation ceremony, Bro. Stevens, the Preceptor, officiates as Installing Master, and not the 22nd, as named in error in our last week's notice.

New Concord Lodge of Instruction, No 813.—One of the most successful meetings that has been held for some time past in connection with this Lodge was held on Wednesday last, at Bro. Langdale's, Jolly Farmers', Southgate-road. Bro. P.M. Cusworth Preceptor occupied the chair, supported by Bros. Smith S.W., Western J.W., Stiles P.M. Acting Preceptor, A. Perl Treasurer, F. Perl Secretary, Delvalle S.D., Chubb J.D., Read I.G.; also Bros. Scales P.M., Barrett-Kidder P.M., E. Storr, Edmonds, Hawthorn, Wrighton, West, Sillis, Ager, Swersee, Leach, Knight, Scurrah, Ockelford, Manger, Langdale, and others. The Lodge was opened in due form, and the previous minutes having been confirmed, the W.M. proceeded to work the ceremony of initiation, Bro. Edmonds acting as candidate. Lodge was then opened in the second and third degrees, and afterwards resumed to the first. During the proceedings, the brethren of the Metropolitan Lodge of Instruction, No. 1507, paid a visit, and received a cordial greeting at the hands of the brethren and Preceptor of this Lodge. The sincere and kind feeling existing between the members of the two Lodges is demonstrated by the fact that several members co-operate in assisting the Secretaries to make the numbers as large as possible at these visits (this being a return visit paid by the brethren of the New Concord Lodge to the Metropolitan in April last), and by coming from distant parts, and at some personal inconvenience. Long may this brotherly love continue, and serve to strengthen that bond of affection existing in Masonry, if strength there need be. Several brethren were elected members, and Bro. Smith was appointed to fill the chair at the next meeting. Business being over, Lodge was adjourned in the customary manner until Wednesday, 27th June. The brethren afterwards spent a social hour, when well chosen recitations and songs enlivened the proceedings, Bro. P.M. Cusworth acting as President. Success to each Lodge was drank, as was also the health of the President. Bro. Barrett-Kidder, in proposing this toast, remarked, with Yankee twang, that he hoped the "Cus at the head of the table might always be a Cus-worth knowing." The brethren then dispersed, after a very pleasant and enjoyable evening.

Kingsland Lodge of Instruction, No. 1693—On Monday, 19th inst., at the Canonbury Tavern, N. Bros. Dixie W.M., Marks S.W., Western J.W., Killick jun. Treasurer, Collingridge Sec., Brock S.D., Galer J.D., Trewinnard Preceptor, Wolf I.G. After preliminaries, the ceremony of passing was rehearsed, Bro. Gregory acting as candidate. Bro. Aynsley, being a candidate for raising, answered the usual questions, and was entrusted. Lodge was opened in the third degree, and the ceremony of raising rehearsed, Bro. Aynsley acting as candidate. Lodge resumed to the first degree. Bro. Marks was elected W.M. for Monday next, 25th June.

METROPOLITAN COUNCIL (TIME IMMEMORIAL).

UNDER THE AUTHORITY OF THE GRAND COUNCIL OF THE ALLIED MASONIC DEGREES OF ENGLAND AND WALES AND THE COLONIES AND DEPENDENCIES OF THE BRITILH CROWN.

A MEETING of this Council was held at the Masonic Hall, 8a Red Lion-square, on Saturday last, the 16th instant, when there were present Bros. Alfred Williams W.M., Robert Roy S.W., George Lambert J.W., D. M. Dewar Treasurer and Secretary, Rev. A. W. Hall Chaplain, Herbert Dicketts S.D., Robert Berridge I.G., R. L. Loveland Stewards; C. F. Matier D.G.M., James Inglis, E. Sweny, R. P. Spice, H. J. Parsons, James Pinder, F. W. Driver, A. F. Godson, W. Body Date, and others. Lodge opened in the Order of St. Laurence the Martyr, and that degree was conferred on Bros. A. Ferguson, John Livingston, M.D., Thomas Lamb Smith, W. Prince, and John Brittain. The degrees of Knight of Constantinople, Red Cross of Babylon, and High Priest, were afterwards conferred on the brethren entitled to receive them, the last degree being only granted to present and past Principals of the Holy Royal Arch. A P.M.'s jewel was unanimously voted to Bro. Williams, and the brethren afterwards dined together at the Holborn Restaurant. The installation of Bro. Roy as W.M., and the Annual Festival of the Metropolitan Council, will be held at the Mitre Hotel, Hampton Court, on Saturday, 11th August.

CITY IMPROVEMENTS.—The impending demolition of the Charterhouse, and the laying-out of the site for building upon, was the subject of conversation at the last meeting for the season of the London and Middlesex Archæological Society, which has just been held, when Bro. George Lambert, F.S.A., read an interesting paper "On the Early History of the Founding of the Charterhouse." In the discussion which followed, in which several speakers took part, Bro. Walford, as an old Carthusian, observed that it was now in contemplation to remove the Hospital and the Poor Brethren to the same neighbourhood as the School at Godalming, and he thought he expressed the opinion of many of his old schoolfellows, who were neither Radicals nor Revolutionists, when he said that they would like to see the institution removed into the country, because, with all its associations, the Charterhouse was not the place it was a few years ago. What would be the fate of the building he did not know. The existing hall was substantially the same, under some disguise, as the hall of the monastery, and the chapel was not materially altered. The Governor's room remained just as the Norths and the Howards left it, whilst part of the old cloisters still remained, as well as the monks' kitchen. Bro. Lambert, at the close of the debate, said he had reason to believe that before long the Charterhouse would be removed, and the site, which was a very valuable one, situated in the midst of a very thickly-populated and busy neighbourhood, sold for building purposes. Report said that great alterations had of late taken place in connection with the Charterhouse, and that there were not so many Poor Brethren in residence there as formerly. If, however, the buildings were to be destroyed, he thought that the marvellous chimney-piece of the hall should at any rate be preserved. It was urged by some of the speakers that the old buildings should, if possible, be preserved, and turned to good account as they are. The annual City meeting of the society is to be held in Goldsmiths' Hall during the present month.

A WEEKLY RECORD OF MASONIC INTELLIGENCE.

SANCTIONED BY THE GRAND LODGE OF ENGLAND.

THE RESULT OF THE BOYS' SCHOOL FESTIVAL.

SUCH considerable additions have been made to the total of this year's subscriptions to the Royal Masonic Institution for Boys, since the details published in our last issue were supplied to us, that we are now able to announce that the result of the year's Festival is already within a few shillings of twenty-three thousand pounds, or, to be more exact, that the figures as given us at the Institution on Thursday afternoon total up to £22,977 13s 6d, an increase of £533 13s 6d as compared with the amount announced by the Secretary at the Festival, and this, too, with several lists yet outstanding. We shall not attempt any further laudatory remarks in reference to this grand result—the figures speak for themselves, and reflect the greatest credit on all who have contributed to this most satisfactory result.

London, which was accredited at the Festival with £7,273, does not come up to that amount. All we can make of the figures published in our last is £7,074 16s 6d, and to this only £28 9s has to be added, viz., £1 3s to the list of Bro. Charles Dearing, of the Sir Hugh Myddelton Lodge, No. 1602, and £27 6s as the total collected by Bro. A. W. Duret, of the Progress Lodge, No. 1768, whose list had not been received when we went to press last week. So far, then, London has contributed £7,103 5s 6d, with twelve lists to come in. This sum is less than one-third of the total subscriptions, and, we may add, includes the amounts contributed by brethren who figure under the head "unattached"—some of whom by right belong to the Provinces.

Among the Provinces, Kent is the first which deserves attention at our hands. Accredited at the Festival with donations amounting to £2,000, its total increased, according to last week's return, to £2,107 12s 6d within twenty-four hours of the announcement. Now it has still further advanced, and at the present time it is accredited with £2,305 15s 6d, a result which has been arrived at by additions to lists already announced, and by the arrival of lists which were outstanding when we wrote last week. The lists which are affected by these additions are as follow, and the figures given are those at which the totals now stand:—

			Jas Smith Eastes D.P.G.M.	601	16 0
	Lodge
Royal Navy	429	T H Grove Snowdon		10	10 0
Wellington	784	A F S Bird, J.P.		63	0 0
Lord Warden	1096	R S Davy, M.D.		21	0 0
Corinthian	1208	W A Smeeth		59	12 0
Amherst	1223	R Dartnell		15	15 0
		C J Craig		10	10 0
	Chapter
Belvidere	503	G F Busbridge		10	10 0

These figures are the latest totals known at the office of the Institution, but there is a doubt even now as to whether they are correct, if we may judge from a letter we have received from Bro. W. A. Smeeth, the Steward of No. 1208, and which we publish elsewhere. We last week gave Bro. Smeeth's total as £31 10s, and he states that amount "is considerably less than half the sum that he had the pleasure to announce at his Lodge meeting on the preceding Monday," so that the total now accredited to him—£59 12s—must still be short of the actual figures. We very much regret that Bro. Smeeth's collection should have been understated, and if we still give it wrong, we hope he will supply us with the proper figures before our next issue. So far we can only publish the amount as given in the official returns. These additions which have been made to the Kentish total places that Province far above any of the others at this year's Festival, the next in order of merit being East Lancashire, with its £2,100. It appears to us a great pity that the credit of heading the Provinces should have been lost to Kent by what must have been a want of care in making up the lists. In a Province like this, and especially under such circumstances as were associated with it this year, when its Grand Master took the chair, some influential brother should be appointed to keep a record of the totals of the several Stewards, and make up a final return for announcement. If such were done, it would greatly assist the Secretary of the Institution, and it would prevent errors which cannot be afterwards remedied, no matter how publicly they may be explained. The present is a case in point. East Lancashire was said to take the first place at the time of the Festival, and it was immediately announced far and wide that such was actually its position; whereas, Kent was entitled to the palm; it is now too late to alter the impression made by the first announcement, and East Lancashire will retain—at least in the minds of very many brethren—the credit of being at the top of the Provinces, so far as amount of donations is concerned.

Cheshire has added £8 8s to its last week's return, the totals from the two Stewards of Lodge No. 321 being £10 10s from each, instead of £12 12s, accredited to one of them in our last.

Cumberland and Westmoreland, at the hands of Bro. G. J. McKay, alters its £1,000 into 1,000 guineas, an increase of £50, and one which we congratulate the brethren on making.

Gloucestershire sends up a further £5 5s at the hands of Bro. J. Brook-Smith, who now figures for £15 15s, in lieu of £10 10s previously announced.

Hants and Isle of Wight total is augmented by a guinea, placed on the list of Bro. T. H. Williams, while it appears there is one of its lists yet to be accounted for.

Lancashire (West) sends up £10 10s by Bro. John Williams, and £31 10s by Bro. J. T. Callow (both of whose lists were left blank in our last), and thereby increases its total by £42.

Warwickshire—per Bro. H. Bowley, of Lodge No. 739—contributes £26 5s beyond the figures given last week, and has yet some of its Stewards whose lists are outstanding.

Yorkshire (North and East) adds £3 11s to its total, that additional sum having been collected by Bro. A. Buckle, B.A., of York Lodge, No. 236.

The above constitute the additions which have been made to the Provincial lists since the publication of our last issue, and these, together with the amounts therein given, bring up the total of Provincial subscriptions to £15,874 8s, as compared with £15,171 accredited to them at the time of the Festival—a very gratifying addition of £703 8s.

Before proceeding further, we must offer some explanation for an error which occurred in our last issue as regards our summary of the amounts of the Provincial totals. At the time we wrote the remarks we refer to we were without the official lists, and not wishing to trust to memory, we copied the figures from a daily contemporary whose weekly Masonic column is, we are aware, under the direction of a well-known brother. We copied the totals with the intention of verifying them before we went to press, but omitted to do so, and in the result suffered the worst penalty which can befall "copyists"—we gave incorrect information. We much regret the error, but if our readers will consider how short a time there is at disposal after the returns are made up before we have to print, they will, we are sure, excuse the mistake we were led into. The actual totals, up to the present time, are as follows:—

We have devoted thus much of our space to a summary of last week's Festival result feeling assured that all who took a part in the raising of the money will agree with us that a correct return is desirable. We shall next week apply ourselves to the usual analysis of the several lists, and shall use these revised totals in doing so.

We have been requested to transfer from the list of "Unattached" Stewards the name of Bro. J. M. P. Montague, who represented the A. and A. Rite. His list will now be credited to the Province of Dorset.

Since the above was in type, we learn that Bro. H. J. Creamer, of Israel Lodge, No. 1474, Warwickshire, has sent up the sum of ten guineas. This also shall be taken into consideration by us.

A special meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge of North and East Yorkshire will be opened at York on Wednesday, 18th July, at 10 a.m., to co-operate with H.R.H. the Prince of Wales in the ceremony of laying the memorial stone of the new Institute, which is to be performed with Masonic honours. Bro. T. B. Whytehead is the Chairman of the Provincial Committee, and under his direction we feel sure everything possible will be done to ensure success. Brethren who propose to take part in the procession must be provided with tickets, which may be had (price 5s each) of Bro. M. E. Peck, the Provincial Grand Secretary.

Signor Ernest Palmieri announces his first Matinée Musicale (by permission of Messrs. Collard and Collard), at the Concert Rooms, 19 Grosvenor-street, Grosvenor-square, on the 5th July, when he will be assisted by some of the most eminent artistes of the day. Tickets 10s 6d each, can be obtained at 7 Uxbridge House, Notting Hill Gate, W.

A DAY AMONGST "THE BOYS."

CONTRARY to last year, when "Our Boys" were favoured with splendid weather for their annual summer Festival, Tuesday last turned out one of the most unfavourable days we have experienced in this proverbially "dripping" month of June. However, meteorological obstacles did not deter our brethren and their fair friends from attending in considerable numbers to participate in a réunion which has now come to be regarded as one of the most enjoyable of the season. It is then that friends meet, with a renewal of old acquaintanceships and the formation of new ones, and there is a happy sense of fraternity all round, and in every sense of the word. Stewards, who so proudly presented their lists last week, at the Crytal Palace, and helped to make up one of the most memorable years ever known in the cause of Masonic benevolence, were there in full strength, and in conscious satisfaction at having done their best. Their wives and sisters, and sweethearts—for, we presume, the rule applies in every social circle—evidently shared in the universal sense of duty, well fulfilled by the Craft in doing the boys a "good turn;" whilst Officers vied with the lads themselves in the endeavour to make the event a success, in spite of all that Jupiter Pluvius could do to mar it. As the trains arrived the Visitors filed down the somewhat muddy pathways of the village towards the School, with the skies overhead as murky and rain-laden as it is possible to conceive in mid-year; but once inside the commodious and hospitable precincts, all concern respecting the outer influences were immediately banished. The urbane and indefatigable Secretary, Brother Frederick Binckes, and the equally popular Head Master, the Rev. Dr. Morris, were here, there, and everywhere, receiving the Visitors, and assuring their personal comforts and enjoyment, in which task they were assisted by Bros. W. Raynham Stewart, J. L. Mather, and many other members of the House Committee. When the company had fully mustered, there could scarcely have been fewer than 800 ladies and gentlemen present, and a vast improvement was perceptible as a result of the determination of the executive to limit the number of invitations, as compared with previous years. Instead of issuing tickets for the admission of "bearer and friends," which often was construed in an unlimited sense, this year the invite was for one only; and the wisdom of the arrangement proved satisfactory to many who recollected the impetuosity with which those who ought to have known better made a rush for the commissariat department last year, even before the ceremony of distributing the prizes had been concluded. Instead of the Stewards and others who had borne the heat and burden of the Festival being elbowed out by the crowd, who had taken little part therein, all were able, with ease and comfort, to enjoy the hospitality of the House Committee, and in the place of hurry and confusion perfect order and convenience reigned supreme. The weather outside not being propitious, the proceedings in the gymnasium were vested with more than ordinary interest, although some little disappointment was experienced when it was announced that Viscount Holmesdale, who had so genially presided at the Festival, was unavoidably prevented from following the usual custom of the President on such occasions of distributing the prizes earned by the boys in the various educational competitions of the year. This regret was, however, in a great measure compensated for by the timely appearance of Bro. Horace B. Marshall, C.C., who, besides being a Vice Patron of the Institution, had the honour of being Hon. Treasurer of the Board of Stewards at the recent Festival. The interior of the gymnasium, when the fashionably-attired audience was seated, presented an aspect of the liveliest animation. The ceiling and pillars supporting the roof had been gaily decorated with flags and floral designs, whilst at the end of the hall a stage had been erected, with proscenium, wings and all the necessary accessories for a histrionic performance. On the platform were the most prominent members of the House Committee, with Bro. Binckes and the Head Master as central figures, surrounded by a perfect galaxy of feminine beauty. One of the lads (H. Fellowes) opened the programme with a song, "I am a Troubadour," one of C. W. Glover's happiest productions, and sang with much taste, after which the choir sang Weber's well-known glee, "The stars that above us are shining," in a manner that reflected the highest credit upon their musical instructor, Mr. C. E. Tinney, and afforded abundant evidence of the careful and efficient training imparted to them in this branch of the curriculum of the school. The musical arrangements were of the most complete and admirable character, and the lads acquitted themselves to the evident satisfaction of the audience. The Chairman having introduced the more "serious" business of the day with a few encouraging remarks to the boys, and congratulatory observations to the friends of the School, the happy recipients of the prizes presented by the Institution were called up by the head master, and each, as he took from the hands of Bro. Marshall his well-earned award, was also encouraged by a few kindly words to persevere in his future studies. The following was the order of merit:—

PRIZES PRESENTED BY THE INSTITUTION.

Following this part of the programme, the choir sang a couple of part songs, "Over the Hills we go" (Little), and "You Stole my Love" (W. Macfarren), which were admirably sustained, and all eyes were then directed to the "stage," whereon was enacted in capital style a farce by Thomas J. Williams, entitled Tweedleton's Tail Coat, throughout which a running fire of humour was kept up by the following cast:—

Toby Tweedleton . .	(A Poor Relation) .	F. F. Godfrey.
Blackberry Thistletop	(A Farmer's Son) .	E. Hair.
Mr. Barnaby Bracebutton	(A Retired Hosier) .	H. R. Watkins.
Mr. Pantechnicon Pantile	(Inventor of a Patent Screw Warming Pan)	R. W. Keddell.
Evelina . . .	(Bracebutton's Daughter)	H. B. Searle.
Kitty Spruce . .	(A Maid of All Work)	C. King.

The piece went with a swing and verve all through which would have done credit to more practised artistes, and testified to a considerable amount of histrionic ability in the lads who took part in the production. After a selection of music by the band, and the singing of T. Morris's Canadian boot song, and Sir A. Sullivan's, "The Chorister," by F. Cairney, Brother Binckes announced the names of the lads who had succeeded in carrying off the special prizes presented by the House Committee, who he stated were a dozen of the staunchest friends of the Institution; who were not only lavish in the amount of time and trouble in the work they devoted to the cause, but also in their pecuniary assistance when it could in any way conduce to the welfare of the Institution. This, by no means a merely complimentary allusion to the exertions of the House Committee, was received with genuine expressions of recognition, and the prizes were then awarded in accordance with the subjoined list:—

Writing, 1st, H. Nicholls; 2nd, F. Smith. Dictation, 1st, A. Salter; 2nd, J. Mackay. History, 1st, E. Hair; 2nd, T. Hall. Geography, 1st, F. W. Pow; 2nd, F. F. Godfrey. Mental Arithmetic, 1st, A. Salter; 2nd, R. Warner. Elocution, 1st, F. F. Godfrey; 2nd, R. W. Keddell. Good behaviour, 1st, H. J. Percy; 2nd, M. Thomas. Efficiency as Monitor, 1st, E. G. Taylor; 2nd, F. B. Searle. Proficiency in Drill, 1st, E. Hair; 2nd, F. W. Pow. The Band, 1st, H. N. Shrapnel and E. Jones; 2nd, A. Stevens and F. Smith.

The prizes offered by the Audit Committee, for the first time this year, were then given out, Brother Binckes intimating that they were designed to encourage the pupils in the art of music. R. Riley took the first, and E. Tibbits the second, amongst the competitors in the band, and J. Hurst the prize for excellence on the pianoforte. Then came the awards contributed by private donors, in the course of which the Secretary humorously, but truly, observed that although some amount of merriment might be occasioned by the lads coming forward in the grotesque costumes in which they had been acting, it went to prove that they were as apt in causing and enjoying amusement as in the acquirement of the more serious and useful studies of the School. The Rev. Dr. Morris, as Head Master and a Vice-President of the Institution, gave prizes for attention to studies and elocution, the former of which were taken by H. King and J. Hogg, and the latter by W. Garstin and H. R. Watkins. Bro. Edgar Bowyer, a Vice-Patron of the Institution, presented a prize for book-keeping, which H. J. Percy had the credit of securing. Bro. G. Festa, another zealous Vice-President, offered a prize for shorthand, which fell to E. Tibbits; and Bro. Maurietti's premium for mathematical drawing was given to F. Smith. Mr. Sylvester, the Drawing Master at the Schools, gave prizes, which were awarded as follows:—Etching, H. Hamilton, F. Godfrey, and A. Gardner; freehand, C. Stone; model, H. J. Percy; and architecture, E. Tibbits. As a relief to the routine work before the meeting, the choir was then called upon for a couple of part songs, and Macfarren's "Summer Song," and "Come, Dorothy, Come" (Swabian Volkslied) were given with remarkable sweetness and precision. Candidates for the "big" prizes of the year were then called forward, and Edwin Hair was congratulated upon bearing away the silver medal for good conduct, an honour which it was intimated was founded long before the present Schools were instituted. The Canonbury Gold Medal, presented by the late Brother Edward Cox, to the boy who was most popular amongst his comrades, and by whom the fortunate possessor was elected, was this year gained by Hugh Robert Watkins, whose ears must have tingled pleasurably at the announcement by Brother Binckes that neither he nor the House Committee had ever heard a complaint about him. Next came the coveted silver watch and chain for the boy who was about to leave the Institution, and the pleasure of awarding this gift from the Supreme Council of the 33° was only marred by the unfortunate indisposition of Ernest J. W. Taylor, which prevented his personal attendance on an occasion which must have been of so much interest to him. There was a considerable amount of justifiable pride in Bro. Binckes's allusion to the results of the University Local Examinations, and although Brother Winn no longer puts in his wonted appearance at these gatherings, his name was recalled as a munificent friend of the Institution, who by the accumulation of donations, amounting in the aggregate to £525, has secured an annual sum of £23 to be divided amongst the lads most proficient in the local examinations. As a result of the efforts of the eighteen candidates who were sent up, all satisfied the examiners, and twelve passed in honours, the list being as follows:—

Honours—First Class.—£2 to each boy.—1. T. Hall (distinguished for mathematics); 2. A. Salter; 3. E. G. W. J. Taylor (distinguished for Latin); 4. R. J. Warner.

Honours—Second Class—£1 10s to each boy. 5. W. J. Bartley; 6. E. A. Browning; 7. F. F. Godfrey; 8. E. Hair; 9. J. E. Tanare; 10. H. R. Watkins.

Honours—Third Class—£1 to each boy.—11. G. R. Allison; 12. R. W. Keddell.

Certificates.—(satisfied the Examiners).—10s to each boy.—13. W. G. Barnett; 14. J. Butterworth; 15. W. P. Cooper; 16. R. Riley; 17. H. B. Searle; 18. F. Smith (distinguished for Latin).

The part songs, "Song to Spring" (Betzer), and "The Night Chimes" (C. E. Tinney) were then sung in excellent manner, after which Brother Binckes, in a few happily-chosen sentences, pointed out that the object of these annual celebrations was to enable the Festival Stewards practically to witness the advantages afforded by the Institution, and to carry away a right impression of what they had seen. By the efforts of the Stewards a large amount was annually got together for carrying on the work of the School, and he appealed to the rest of the visitors to enable those who took a useful and prominent part in the welfare of the Institution to give them precedence in the matter of refreshment, which on some previous occasions had not been observed. The Chairman next addressed the lads in his usually kind and practical way, counselling them to go "onward and upward" through life, and to those who had not succeeded this year he remarked that the race was not always to the swift, nor the battle to the strong. He placed before them the fable of the tortoise and the hare, and pointed out that those who could not succeed by brilliancy might do so by toil and perseverance. The old story of Bruce and the spider was recalled, and the lads were reminded that if they had not yet commanded success they could do all they could to deserve it. To those who were about to quit the School, and who were going forth into the world big with good resolves, he said they might rise early and eat the bread of carefulness, but the workman might build the house in vain unless the Master blessed his labours. He exhorted them to honour the Lord with their substance, which they might well do by contributing half a guinea or so a year to the funds of the Institution, by which means they would in time become Vice Patrons. He was himself a poor boy forty years ago, but on the principle that he had given a proportion of that which had been entrusted to him by the Master, he now presented to them the experience of his life. Bro. Raynham W. Stewart proposed a cordial vote of thanks to the Chairman, which Bro. Marshall duly acknowledged, and in turn asked a similar compliment for the Head Master, the Rev. Dr. Morris, and his staff of assistants. In doing so, he said the best proof of the value of the instruction imparted to the boys was the fact that eighteen of them had passed the University Local Examinations. The money liberally supplied by the Craft, and judiciously expended by the Stewards, was well applied in fitting boys for the battle of life upon which they were about to enter. Bro. Dr. Morris suitably responded, and Bro. Roebuck proposed a vote of thanks to their estimable and hard-working Secretary Bro. Binckes, whose labours had been crowned with such success that the unprecedented sum of between £22,000 and £23,000 had been raised in aid of the funds of the Boys' School. Bro. Binckes, who had been absent during the time so many deserved compliments had been showered upon him, acknowledged the assistance rendered by the brethren in achieving the result which he had the pleasure of announcing at last week's Festival, and spoke of the sense of responsibility felt by each and all of the Directors in promoting the best interests of the Institution. The successes won by the pupils were their best reward, and he believed they had not yet reached the summit of their achievements. The farce, A Terrible Tinker, from the pen of J. Williams, was then performed by the boys, who afforded hearty and genuine amusement by their clever and intelligent acting.

The part song "Amid the golden corn" (F. A. Hatton) was then sung, and after the National Anthem, the company adjourned to the dining-hall and school-room where a substantial collation awaited them, and to which it need hardly be added ample justice was done. Later in the evening a number of athletic sports took place in the field in rear of the School, and were witnessed with evident interest, albeit a few showers drove the visitors every now and then to the shelter of the schools and playground. Subjoined are the results:—

Throwing the Cricket Ball.—E. Tibbits 1; W. Healey 2.

100 Yards Flat Race.—E. Tibbits (scratch) 1; W. Healey (4 yards) 2. A good race, won by half a yard.

Long Jump.—H. Hamilton 1; E. Iles 2.

150 Yards, for Little Boys.—Booth 1; Marshall 2; Keighley 3. Won by two yards.

High Jump.—E. Tibbits 1; H. Hamilton 2. Height 4 ft. 2 in.

Jockey Race.—E. Hair 1; R. Keddell 2.

Quarter Mile Handicap.—H. Hamilton (4 yards) 1; W. Healey (4 yards) 2, E. Tibbits (scratch) 3. Won by a yard; half a yard between second and third.

Tug of War for Little Boys.—Unwin's team beat Blomfield's.

Tug of War for Elder Boys.—Pow's team beat Hair's; Hamilton's team beat Keddell's. Final.—Pow's team beat Hamilton's.

Half Mile Handicap.—E. Tibbits (scratch) 1, T. Allison (12 yards) 2, T. Dyer (12 yards) 3. A good race, Tibbits catching his men in the last fifty yards; two yards between second and third.

Sack Race.—Walker 1, Black 2.

Jingle Race.—Gibson 1, Symons 2.

Band Boy's Race.—Browning 1, Riley 2.

Consolation Race.—Mackay 1, Stevens 2.

The prizes were afterwards distributed by Mrs. Edgar Bowyer, for whom hearty cheers were given by the lads, and repeated for the Head Master, Brother Binckes, the Chairman of the day, and other friends. It should be mentioned that Brother Festa, the present Worshipful Master of the Montague Guest Lodge, by his personal exertions succeeded in obtaining a substantial amount towards the prize fund for the sports, a kindness which met with due recognition and appreciation on the part of those who competed for the various events. As a fitting close to the entertainment there was dancing in the gymnasium, to the strains of the excellent band of the School, and the pleasures of the evening were kept up without rest until the last returning trains to town, when the guests were fain reluctantly to separate, having spent a thoroughly enjoyable afternoon.

(Compiler of "History of Lodge of Antiquity, No. 146, &c."); and a List of "Moderns" Lodges in Lancashire prior to the Union in 1813, by Bro. G. P. Brockbank W.M. 37, P. Prov. S.G. Deacon E.L. (Compiler of "History of St. John's Lodge, No. 221, &c.") Bury: Printed at the Hope Office by Bro. O. C. Crompton, 1883.

The author of this Lodge History, though but a young Masoon evidently takes a deep interest in studying the earlier Masnic, Records. We arrive at the conclusion that Bro. Edward A. Evans is a young Mason from the fact that he is described as the Junior Warden of his Lodge, and we heartily congratulate him upon the interesting details he has placed before us. We have so often pressed upon Craftsmen the necessity and advantages to be gained by a careful perusal of the books in possession of many of our old Lodges, that it goes without saying we are pleased to enrol Bro. Evans amongst Masonic students, happily an energetic and increasing body. The author has secured the co-operation of two most enthusiastic Masons, in Bros. J. Newton, P.M. 37, and G. Parker Brockbank, W.M. of the same Lodge, both of whom have done good suit and service as Lodge Historians. Bro. Newton has written a most interesting introduction to Bro. Evans's book; we have, however, only space for a brief extract or two, but we cordially recommend our readers not to lose the opportunity thus offered them for acquiring a knowledge of the traditions of our Order. Speaking of the Bye-Lws of 1734, Bro. Newton says, "These are at once curious and interesting, it would seem that an additional fee was charged to a Brother on his being raised to the third degree. The same custom prevailed in 'The Anchor and Hope' Lodge, Bolton, and probably in other Lodges, also, at that period. The Byelaws of 1734, and subsequent Byelaws adopted by the Lodge, show that the Lodge partook of the nature of a Sick and Burial Society at the earlier portion of its existence, as evidenced by the provision made for payments of Sick and Funeral Allowances."

With regard to the present status of the Lodge, Bro. Newton says: "Relief occupies the position of second oldest Lodge in Lancashire, the senior being the Anchor and Hope Lodge, No. 37, and like that Lodge the Lodge of Relief has continued to meet in the town where it was originally constituted during the whole period of its existence, extending from 1733 to 1883, or 150 years, a fact of which its members may justly feel proud."

After referring to the establishment of a Royal Arch Chapter, by some of the members of the Lodge of Relief, in 1769, "three of whom attended the Anchor and Hope Lodge at Bolton, in January of that year, in order to have the R.A. degree conferred upon them," and recording that their Chapter is still in existence, Bro. Newton concludes his introductory remarks with the following well deserved expressions of praise:—"Bro. Evans has so carefully noted down the various points of interest worthy of being recorded, that I now leave his history to speak for itself, at the same time commending it not only to the attention of all the members of his Lodge, but also to the Craft in general, especially to the ever-increasing number of Masonic students. It is only by means of compilations of this kind that we can hope to see an authentic and complete account of our Institution."

Having thus dismissed the portion of work allotted to our respected Bro. Newton, we now come to Bro. Evans's labours. He has divided his book into six chapters, the first of which gives a copy of the Petition to the Grand Master, the Rt. Hon. Earl of Strathmore, praying that a Deputation may be granted to "our right Worshipful Bro. Mr. Edward Entwistle" for consolidating the petitioners into a regular Lodge. This document is signed by

Lau: Plant M.	George Leigh
John Hey S.W.	Rogr. Booth
Wm. Loe J.W.	Ed: Clark

Then follows a certificate of recommendation, which appears to have been signed by the first W.M. and Wardens of the Anchor and Hope Lodge, Bolton. This we quote in full:—"These are to Certify the Right Hon. the Earl of Strathmore Grand Master, Thos. Batson Esq. Deputy Grand, & James Smith & John Ward Esqrs. Grand Wardens, yr Brot. Lau: Plant John Hey &c. who are subscribers to the Petition are regularly made Masons thorowly as the Constitutions direct as Witness our Hands the sixth Day of June in the Year of Our Lord 1733.

Ed. Entwisle M.*
John Fishwick S.W.
Robt. Brown J.W."

In due course the prayer of the petitioners was granted, and, as a matter of course, the Warrant is fully set out in the pages of the History. It appears from a footnote that the "Warrant is 8½ in. wide by 11½ in. long, and although it was not framed until 23rd April, 1818, is in an excellent state of preservation, the seal, although cracked, is otherwise perfect. The cost of framing the warrant was 2/3." With respect to this seal, it is stated to be "the official seal of the 'Moderns' Grand Lodge. The Shield contains the following Emblems or Arms,—a Chevron, charged with a pair of Compasses open chevronwise, between Three Towers embattled. Crest,—Upon the Helmet of Nobility, a Dove with wings close. Supporters,—Two Beavers. Motto,—'In the beginning was the Word,' expressed in Greek characters."

Bro. Hughan has remarked of this seal that "he never met with such an one before, and that it clearly refers to the third degree before the Royal Arch was adopted."

The Bye-laws are next dealt with by our author; those first made bear date St. John's Day 1734, and provide, in the preamble, that the brethren "meet at the House of Mr. John Hey's, being ye Sign of the Red Lyon, in Bury, in the County of Lancaster."

No. 1 stipulates that the brethren "hold a Quarterly Communication at the House of the sd John Hey's (viz.), upon the usuall Feast Days, or Times, of St. John the Evangelist, the Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary, St. John Baptist, and St. Michaell the Arch Angell, by two o'clock in the afternoon of the same Days, unless any of the said Days happen to fall upon a Sunday, then upon the day following, upon pain of forfeiting twelve pence."

No. 2 provides for the holding of monthly meetings; Nos. 3 and 4 regulate the conduct of the brethren, while No. 5 provides for the enforcement of a rule which at the present day is too frequently disregarded. We quote it in full:—

"5.—That no Candidate shall be admitted a Member of this Society without giving the Notice the Constitutions direct, and at the time of admitting first pay, half a Guinea, and when he is admitted Master† pay further the sum of Five Shillings and Three pence."

No. 6 stipulates that all the brethren present shall be consenting parties to the admission of a new member.

No. 7 regulates the fees to be paid: "Every Member of this Society at all and ev'ry the Quarterly Meetings aforenam'd shall pay the sum of twelve pence; wch said Sum of twelve pence, together with the Admissions, and Forfeitures shall be log'd in a Box for that purpose and an Acct. of 'em kept in this Book, in order to the raising a Stock for support and releive of decay'd Brothers and such other uses as the Lodge shall agree to."

No. 8 provides for the safe keeping of these forfeitures. No. 9 decides "That no Bror. be entitled to any of the aforesd Money till he has been a regular subscriber three years and paid all his forfeitures, nor even then unless he Absolutely want a weekly Allowance, which shall all ways be Appointed by a Majority of Brothers what shall be thought sufficient."

Nos. 10 and 11 provide means for the adjustment of any differences that may arise, and for the termination of the business hours of the Lodge.

Then follow the signatures of 55 brethren, a fact which clearly demonstrates that Freemasonry must have been popular in Bolton in 1734.

* We note a divergence in the spelling of this worthy brother's name; in the copy of petition there is a second "t," but in all other cases the name is spelt "Entwisle."

† This means when he was raised to the Third Degree."

THE GRAND COMMANDERY.

THE Grand Commandery of Pennsylvania opened its Thirtieth Annual Session at Foulton Opera House, on Tuesday evening, the 30th of May. The Session was opened by Grand Commander B. Frank Breneman, when the Eminent Commander of Lancaster Commandery tendered, on behalf of the Templars of Lancaster, a welcome to the members of the Grand Commandery, which was responded to by G. Senior Warden George S. Graham, in a very elegant and pleasing manner. The annual reports of the Grand Commander, Grand Treasurer, and Grand Recorder were read and referred to appropriate Committees. There are fifty-six subordinate Commanderies in this jurisdiction, numbering at present 5,321 members; 643 were knighted during the year, while forty-five were admitted, eighty-five demitted, eighty-six died, and thirty-five rejected. The Grand Commandery consists of 754 members. The Treasurer's report exhibits the balance from 1882 as 1,302·56 dols. Receipts during the year 4,063·65 dols. The payments were 3,965·84 dols. The balance being 1,670.37 dols. and the assets of the Grand Commandery amounted to 2,270·37. Charters were granted for the establishment of Commanderies at Johnstown, Tunkhannock and New Castle. Erie was chosen for the place of meeting the Grand Commandery in 1884. The election of Officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows:—Charles W. Batchelor, of Pittsburgh, R. E. Grand Commander, Edwin G. Martin, M.D., of Allentown, R.E. Deputy Grand Commander, Joseph Alexander jun. E.G. Generalissimo, G. S. Graham, of Philadelphia, E. Grand Captain General, John Hewitt, of Philadelphia, Grand Prelate, Lee S. Smith, of Allegheny City, Grand Senior Warden, W. W. Allen, of Philadelphia, Grand Junior Warden, Mark Richards Muckle, of Philadelphia, Grand Treasurer, Charles E. E. Meyer, of Philadelphia, Grand Recorder. The following have been appointed subordinate Officers of the Grand Commandery:—W. C. Mellert, Pittsburgh, E.G. Standard Bearer, Frank Mills, Philadelphia, E.G. Sword Bearer, Benjamin Kauffman, Lebanon, E.G. Capt. of G., Edw. Masson, Philadelphia, E. Grand Marshal. The parade on Wednesday afternoon was one of the largest that has taken place in the State for many years. In the evening a reception and promenade concert took place in Fulton Opera House, which was a brilliant affair. An exhibition drill was given by St. Alban Commandery, No. 47, of Philadelphia, under the direction of Joseph S. Wright. It was a very creditable affair, highly complimentary to the Sir Knights of St. Alban.—Columbia Weekly Courier.

Holloway's Pills.—Health or Wealth. No sane person would hesitate an instant in the choice between these two conditions. Now is the season to secure the former either by restoring or confirming it. These Pills expel all impurities from the system which foul vapour and variable temperatures engender during summer; this medicine also acts most wholesomely upon the skin by disgorging the liver of its accumulated bile, and exciting the kidneys to more energetic action; it increases the appetite for food and strengthens the digestive process. The stomach and liver, with which most disorders originate, are fully under the control of these regenerative Pills, which act very kindly yet most efficiently on the tenderest bowels.

CONSECRATION OF THE BLACKWATER LODGE, No. 1977.

ON the 20th instant, the Right Hon. the Lord Brooke, M.P., paid his first official visit into the Masonic Province of Essex, since his installation by His Royal Highness the Duke of Albany at Colchester, in February last, the occasion being the Consecration of a new Lodge at Maldon, to be called the Blackwater, after the river upon which the borough stands, and numbered 1977 on the registry of the Grand Lodge of England. As might naturally be supposed the event awakened a good deal of interest among the Masons of the Province, and there was a large gathering both of present and past Provincial Grand Officers and members of the Lodges. The Public Hall was set out as a Lodge-room, and, being decorated with flowers and bunting, had a very pretty appearance. The Right Worshipful Provincial Grand Master arrived at Maldon by train at 1·33, and proceeded at once, in an open carriage, to the Public Hall, where Lodge was shortly afterwards opened by his lordship, the following brethren acting as Officers pro tem:—Bros. A. Buck I.P.M. 453 P.G.S.W. as S.W., Fred. Wood P.M. and Treasurer 1000 P.P.G.S.W. as J.W., Thomas J. Ralling P.M. and Sec. 51 P.G. Sec. as Secretary, A. Lucking P.M. and Secretary 1000 P.G.D.C. as D.C., and J. F. Barratt I.P.M. 1000 P.G. Reg. as I.G. His lordship then proceeded to consecrate the Lodge in due Masonic form. In the course of the proceedings, the following Oration, on "The nature and principles of Freemasonry," was delivered by the acting Chaplain, Bro. the Rev. E. H. Crate P.M. 697 P.P.G. Chaplain. The rev. Brother said:—

To do anything like justice to so copious a subject as that on which I have been requested to address you, viz., "The nature and principles of Freemasonry," would require a far longer time than the few minutes allotted to this oration. I will, therefore, only attempt to say a word or two concerning those three great principles on which our Order is founded, viz., Brotherly Love, Relief, and Truth. By the first we are reminded of that close and intimate relationship which subsists between us. There are various bonds of fraternal union existing in the world, but to us who are banded together by the mystic tye, those words of Moses, "Sirs, ye are brethren," seem to apply with especial force. And why so? Because we are brethren by bonds never to be broken—bonds into which we were not born; bonds into which we were neither entrapped, enticed, nor compelled to enter; bonds from which we might, even to the last moment before we entered, have easily escaped. If, therefore, as Masons, we do not act as brethren, we are surely amongst the worst of men. The relation, then, which we bear to one another, suggests to us the first great principle of our Order, and the duty it lays upon us, viz., that of Love—"Love as brethren." And how shall this love be shown? By gentle reproof in error by instruction of our Brother when he is in ignorance or difficulty; and by tender sympathy in sorrow and distress. In these particularly, amongst many other ways, may our love of the brethren be manifested. Prove yourselves, then, to be Masons in the best sense of Masonry, by the constant exercise of this exalted principle of humanity, this highly-finished jewel of Masonry—Brotherly Love. To the brother who is thoroughly imbued with this first great principle of Masonry, the practice of the second, viz., Relief, will have become a necessity of its existence. If he is rich, he will 'give plenteously"; if he has "little, he will do his diligence gladly to give of that little"; in either case regarding himself but as a steward, with a Master over him who will surely hereafter call upon him for an account of his stewardship. In short, he will ever bear in mind, and strive to act in accordance with, those words which are addressed to every Master when placed in the Chair of a Lodge—"So that when any one is said to be a Mason, the world may know that he is one to whom the burdened heart may pour forth its sorrows, the distressed prefer their suit, whose heart is guided by justice, and whose hand is extended by benevolence." It may, perhaps, seem almost superfluous to add that if we, as Masons, are careful not to neglect the duties of Brotherly Love and Relief, we shall no less scrupulously endeavour to carry out the third great principle of our Order, i.e., Truth. "Speak every man truth with his neighbour" ("or brother") will be our motto; and we shall not be content with a mere literal interpretation of the injunction, but shall strive to show our loyalty to the brethren, individually and collectively, by the straightforwardness of our conduct, as well as by the truthfulness of our words, remembering that "Actions speak louder than words." But, above all, we shall strive to act up to those five points of fellowship which we have solemnly sworn to observe. Now, to the members of this newly-constituted Lodge I would say—Suffer me to express the hope and belief that Wisdom has here builded her house. May all the choicest blessings of the G.A.O.T.U. rest upon you; with corn, and wine, and oil may He continually sustain you. May your Lodge ever stand firmly supported on the three great pillars of Wisdom, Strength, and Beauty. May every member of it, present and future, mount steadily upwards on the three grand rounds of our Masonic ladder—Faith, Hope, and Charity—ever practising here the noble principles of Brotherly Love, Relief, and Truth, that so, when hereafter summoned from this sublunary sphere, they may ascend to that Grand Lodge above where the world's Great Architect lives and reigns for evermore.

At the conclusion of the Consecration, the installation of the first W.M., Bro. Thomas Eustace P.M. and Treasurer 697 P.P.G.S.B., took place, the ceremony being ably performed by Bro. A. Lucking P.M. and Secretary 1000 P.G.D.C. The following were appointed and invested as the first Officers:—Bros. Thomas Rix P.M. and Sec. 697 P.P.G.S.B. acting I.P.M., Alfred Richardson S.W., Robert Smith J.W., Rev. E. H. Crate P.M. 697 P.P.G.C. Chaplain, J. H. Alliston Treasurer, George A. Eustace W.M. 697 Secretary, Samuel H. Ellis S.D., Samuel Shawyer J.D., R. Clowes W.M. 650 M.C., Edmund Gowers Organist 1024 P.P.G.O. Organist, William Strutt I.G., Edward Pairman Tyler, D. J. Wright I.P.M. 1024 P.G.P. and Hedson Stewards. The business of the day being over, the newly-installed W.M. proposed that a hearty vote of thanks be given to the Right Hon. the Lord Brooke, M.P., for his kindness in attending to-day and performing the ceremony of consecration. Bro. Eustace remarked that the brethren of the new Lodge esteemed it a very high honour that his lordship had come amongst them, more especially as it was his lordship's first visit to the Province since his Installation. The brethren trusted that his Lordship would allow them to enrol his name as an hon. member of the Lodge. The motion was seconded by Bro. Richardson S.W., and carried by acclamation. The R.W. P.G.M., in responding, thanked the brethren for the hearty reception they had given him. Having been appointed to preside over the Province, he felt it a duty to be present on so important and interesting an occasion, and at the same time it had been a great pleasure. They were good enough, a short time ago, to assemble in such large numbers, and to give him such a cordial welcome on his introduction to the Province at Colchester, some time back—and he recognised many faces around him which he saw on that occasion—that he felt that any little inconvenience to which he might be put in endeavouring to carry out his duties was but a small return for the great kindness he had received. His Lordship congratulated the brethren of the new Lodge upon the auspicious inauguration they had had, and also the W.M. upon being placed in the high position of first W. Master. He understood that this was not the first time that Bro Eustace had presided over a Lodge, and he (Lord Brooke) trusted that under his rule, and those who might succeed him, the Blackwater Lodge would become one of the most influential in the Province. His Lordship then remarked that he thought this would be an opportune time for him to announce that he proposed to hold a Provincial Grand Lodge on Wednesday, 1st of August, and carrying out the intentions of their late respected P.G.M., it would be held in the Borough of Harwich. His Lordship concluded by again thanking the brethren for the cordial welcome they had given him, and resumed his seat amid much applause. Votes of thanks were then passed to the P.G. Officers who had assisted in carrying out the arrangements of the day; to Bro. the Rev. E. H. Crate, for his excellent oration, and to Bro. Clowes for his handsome present of the Lodge banner. This banner, it should be stated, is a most beautiful specimen of needlework. It is of sky-blue silk, and in the centre is the arms of the Borough in heraldic colours, with the name and number of the Lodge worked beneath; while at the four corners are various Masonic emblems in silver thread, the whole being edged with fringe and mounted on a handsome stand. The banner, which was greatly admired, is the work of Miss Florence Chaplain Hast, Bro. Clowes's sister-in-law. The musical portions of the ceremony were ably rendered by Bros. John J. C. Turner P.M. 51 P.P.G.O., C. Osmond W.M. elect 51 P.P.G.O., Edmund Gowers J.W. designate and Org. 1024 P.P.G.O., and A. B. Sparling J.D. 697. The same brethren also kindly sang various selections between the toasts at the festive board, in which they were assisted by Bros. J. P. Lewin, F. Bird and A. F. Amos. At 4.30 between 90 and 100 brethren dined at the Blue Boar Hotel, a very excellent repast being served by Mrs. Hickford, the hostess. The usual Masonic toasts were given on removal of the cloth. In responding for the toast of his health, the R.W. P.G.M. repeated that he was most gratified with the kind reception they had given him, and expressed a hope that he should be able to come often amongst the brethren of his Province. His Lordship spoke highly of the work which had been done in the Lodge by the various brethren who had taken part in it, and said he certainly had never seen better performed anywhere. His Lordship proposed the health of the new W.M., and wished him a prosperous and happy year of office, and again expressed a hope that the Lodge would become an influential one in the Province. His Lordship and most of the Visitors left Maldon by the 6.57 train. The whole proceedings passed off most successfully, and all concerned are to be congratulated upon the happy inauguration of the Blackwater Lodge. Among the brethren present during the day, besides those already mentioned, were:—Bros. J. Nunn P.G.S.B. England, Andrew Durrant P.M. and Treasurer 276 P.G. Treasurer, the Rev. F. B. Shepherd P.M. 276 P.P.G.C., H. E. Dehane W.M. 1543 P.G.S.D., George Corble P.M. and Secretary 453 P.P.G.J.W., Frederick Wood P.M. and Treasurer 1000 P.P.G.S.W., F. George Green P.M. and Secretary 1024 P.P.G.S.W., W. Humphreys P.M. 1024 P.P.G.S.W., Edward Humphreys P.M. 1024 P.P. Grand Registrar, H. J. Sansom P.P.G.J.D., D. M. B. Wheeler P.M. 275 P.P.G.J.W., J. P. Lewin P.M. 276 P.P.G.S. of Works, J. F. Barrett P.M. 1000 P.G. Registrar, D. J. Wright P.M. 1024 P.G.P., E. Shedd I.P.M. 276 P.G.S., W. Bloom W.M. 1799, F. Bird W.M. 1024, J. J. Cavill W.M. 1312, A. Pertwee W.M. 433, C. Floyd W.M. 1867, W. C. Bell P.M. 1024, H. Darken P.M. 51, F. Quilter 51, Morgan Jones 697, H. J. Everett 697, W. G. Siggers 697, L. F. Manley 697, J. T. Bailey 697, A. F. Amos 697, J. G. Renshaw 697, Clarke Abbott 697, A. Ward 697, C. Frost 697, J. Howe 697, R. Helsham, M.D., S.W. 1813, A. O. Stopes 51, T. Elsey Bland 1024, J. Taylor jun. J.W. 1817, C. S. Blyth 1024, R. A. Francis 1024, E. J. Barstall 697, F. C. B. Christie 1024, W. H. de Cean 1024, F. D. Grayson W.M. Elect 160, C. H. Parker 1024, John Huntley 1312, J. R. Jarvis 276, H. Harper P.M. and Sec. 160, &c., &c. Letters of apology for their inability to attend were received from the W.D.P.G.M. (Bro. F. A. Philbrick, Q.C., P.G.D.), W. Bro. Colonel Somerville Burney P.M. 697 P.G.D., V.W. Bro. Colonel Shadwell Clerke G. Sec., W. Bro. E. B. Florence P.M. 214 P.G.J.W., W. Bro. J. C. Earle W.M. 214, &c., &c.—Essex Standard.

We are told that during the four days of the Handel Festival there were over 80,000 persons present at the Crystal Palace. The police arrangements were under the direction of Brother Superintendent Butt, who had an efficient body of men under him. Every thing went off satisfactorily, and Brother Butt was deservedly complimented by the chairman of the company, Mr. Mc'George.

INSTALLATION MEETINGS, &c.

—:o:—

EVENING STAR LODGE, No. 1719.

THE installation meeting of this successful Lodge took place on Tuesday, the 26th inst., when the brethren were presided over Brother James Glaisher W.M., Magnus Ohren P.G.A.D.C. S.W., Arthur Mead S.D. as J.W., J. Manwaring J.D., Edward Hide as I.G. Amongst the visitors present were Bros. John Sampson Peirce P.G.D. No. 2, S. Spencer late 662, C. W. Davis 1216, H. A. Dixis 1216, W. W. Morgan S.W. 211, F. J. Cisneros Lodge of Light, Cuba, H. Massey P.M. 619 and 1928, J. L. Anderson 206 and 554, D. W. Pentecost P.M. 231, H. J. Levett 452, Anbrey M. Ohren 452, E. W. Linging 1563, T. M. Paget P.M. 829, H. B. Chamberlain 1364, F. H. Duffield 619, A. W. Cooper 619, E. C. Massey P.M. 1297, A. Richards P.M. 216, Cranch 1669, Robert Harris 25, C. M. Ohren W.M. 452, Henry J. Datton 1706, &c. Lodge was formally opened at 4.30 o'clock, when the minutes of last meeting were read, confirmed, and signed. Several communications were noted, one from Mrs. J. W. Sugg, wife of the J.W., who stated that though her husband's state of health had improved, he was yet unable to be present at Lodge, and intimating that for a few weeks, at least, Brother Sugg would continue to reside at Brighton. The W.M. having expressed a fervent hope that their esteemed brother would be able to attend at the next meeting, a letter was announced from Mrs. Duff-Filer, in reply to the letter of condolence sent by the Lodge on the death of her husband, who was the first W.M. of the Evening Star Lodge. The report of the Standing Committee was received and adopted. This showed a balance in favour of the Lodge of £110 14s 5d. It was stated that the Lodge property was fully insured, and that a balance stood to the credit of Benevolent Fund of £12 11s 4d. The proposed new Bye-Laws, subject to the approval of Grand Lodge, were agreed to; and reference was made to the munificent contributions to the lists of the Stewards representing the Lodge at the respective Festivals of the Girls' and Boys' Schools, by Bro. W. Winn, who had given 100 guineas to each of the scholastic Institutions. This enabled Brother Dr. Porter, who acted for the Girls, to take up a list of £146 odd, while Brother Ferrand Davies, who served for the Boys, took up a little over £150. Brother Glaisher explained the reason why the Lodge thought it advisable to change the date of its meetings, which in future will be held in the months of February, May, October, and November, instead of the four consecutive months hitherto the rule. The installation of Brother Magnus Ohren Past Grand A.D.C. as Worshipful Master was then proceeded with, Brother Glaisher ably conducting the ceremony. The Officers were appointed as follows:—Bros. J. W. Sugg S.W., Arthur Mead J.W., James Glaisher P.M. Treasurer, W. Sugg P.M. Secretary, Joseph Manwaring S.D., E. Hide J.D., Joseph Francis Porter I.G., Ferraud Davies and T. H. Martin Stewards, and C. T. Speight Tyler. On the motion of Brother Thomas A. Greene P.M., a P.M.'s jewel was presented to the retiring W.M., Bro. James Glaisher, as a mark of respect from the members. At the same time Bro. Glaisher was complimented for the zeal he had displayed in his conduct of Lodge business. This having been suitably acknowledged, a proposition for a joining member was handed in, and shortly afterwards Lodge was closed. The banquet was served in the Crown Room of Freemasons' Tavern, and in due course the toast list was proceeded with. In proposing the health of the Pro Grand Master the Earl of Carnarvon, the Deputy Grand Master the Earl of Lathom, and the rest of the Grand Officers present and past, the W.M. said that the Craft at large were indebted both to the Earl of Carnarvon and the Earl of Lathom, who took a lively interest in Masonic affairs. Most particularly were they indebted to Lord Carnarvon, who frequently presided in Grand Lodge, and on these occasions the business was disposed of with the least delay. Lord Lathom was not so frequently seen in Grand Lodge, but he came whenever his engagements would permit of his so doing; he also took a great interest in Masonry. Of the other Grand Officers he would not speak. Those who went to Grand Lodge knew that only capable men were appointed to office, and that all of them endeavoured to perform their duties with zeal and regularity. Bro J. Sampson Peirce, in replying, referred to the fact that both the W.M. and Bro. Glaisher were Grand Officers, as well as himself, and regretted that Bro. Glaisher's name had not been associated with the toast. It was well known that the M.W. the Grand Master exercised the greatest care in the selection of Officers, so much so that the honour attaching to the holding of Grand Office had been greatly enhanced under his wise rule. He (Bro. Peirce) fully appreciated the honour of having to respond for Grand Officers. It gave the Pro Grand Master a great amount of pleasure to associate himself with the affairs of the Craft. He was frequently at Grand Lodge, and it must be very gratifying to him to be always accorded, as he was, such a hearty reception. With respect to the Deputy Grand Master, the Earl of Lathom, he, too, was immensely popular, not only with Master Masons, but with the more advanced Degrees with which he most zealously associated himself. As regards the rest of the Grand Officers, they were well known and earnest Masons, who all endeavoured to do their duty, to the best of their ability; they were at all times very happy to come amongst the brethren, and watched with pleasure the progress of the various Lodges. In conclusion, he assured his audience that the Grand Officers might be relied upon to do their best in discharging their duties; he thanked the brethren very heartily for the cordial manner in which the toast had been received. Brother Glaisher I.P.M. said that there was a very pleasant duty which he had to perform, the privilege of performing which attached to the honourable position of I.P.M., which he, for the first time in that Lodge, held that evening. The toast he had to propose was the health of the W.M., whom he had known for a quarter of a century. He had always found Brother Magnus Ohren a sterling man, in every sense of the word; he asked them, therefore, with pleasure and confidence to drink a bumper to the good health of their newly-installed W.M. Brother Ohren in replying said, that to a man who was not a trained orator it was one of the most difficult tasks he could be called upon to perform to reply to a toast personal to himself. Bro. Glaisher had referred to the length of their acquaintance; he took to himself the credit of being the Masonic father of Brother Glaisher. Some twenty-five years since they were up in a balloon together, and Bro. Glaisher while in the clouds expressed his desire to know more of Freemasonry, stating he was well inclined towards the Order. He (Brother Ohren) seized the opportunity, and was eventually induced to propose him as a member of the Craft. It came about, in due course, that both were in office in the same Lodge, Bro. Glaisher, however, showed superiority in regard to memory. He (Brother Ohren) felt some diffidence in going forward, and urged on Brother Glaisher to precede him; it was ultimately agreed that he should follow Brother Glaisher, and in these relative positions he and his friend Brother Glaisher had passed the chairs of three Lodges together, and this was the third time that Brother Glaisher had installed him. He returned them his best thanks for the kind and cordial manner in which they had received the toast. The next toast was the Past Masters of the Evening Star Lodge. Brother Glaisher was not in good health and had been obliged to leave early; indeed, he would not have been present at all if it had not been for the purpose of placing his successor in the chair that day. Bro. Greene had been kind enough to undertake the Senior Warden's duty in the absence of Bro. J. W. Sugg who was unfortunately confined to the house by illness. The P.M.'s of the Lodge had always shown themselves willing to assist the W.M. in his work, and he was sure that those who were absent would have been present if circumstances had not prevented them; in fact letters had been received to that effect. The brethren present would agree that no man should neglect his official duties to attend to Masonry. He would say no more upon this toast, but would ask Brother Greene to respond. Bro. Greene thanked the W.M. and brethren. He considered that every Past Master ought to be able and willing to accept any office, from Inner Guard to Installing Officer. If every Officer and member of the Lodge would lay it to heart that he ought to do his duty in every branch of Masonry, then the Evening Star Lodge would be second to none in the working of the Ritual. They had begun upon a good model—that of the Emulation Lodge. If the Ritual was as well carried out in the Evening Star Lodge as it was in the Emulation Lodge of Improvement it would be second to none. With the toast of the Visitors was coupled the names of Bros. Alfred Richards and Cisneros, who acknowledged the compliment, and assured the W.M. and brethren the visitors fully appreciated the hospitality shown them. Bro. Meade replied for the Wardens and other Officers, and Prosperity to the Masonic Charities gave an opportunity to Bros. Dr. Porter and Ferraud Davies to say a word or two. The Lodge on every occasion had sent up a Steward. It was the ambition of the Evening Star Lodge to be a V.P. of all the Charities, and, so long as there was a willing brother found to come forward to assist them with a Stewardship, he hoped they would always be able to send something from the funds of the Lodge. Bros. Dr. Porter and Ferrand Davies replied; each spoke of the great sympathy they had with the Charities. Both of them stated that upon taking Stewardships they had applied to Brother Winn, who was so liberal a supporter of the Charities. Brother Winn generously and at once promised one hundred guineas to each of them. The Tyler shortly afterwards gave the closing toast. This enabled those brethren who had trains to catch to get away at an early hour. Those, however, who could spare time, were well repaid for staying. The musical ability of those present was much exercised; and good songs and recitations followed in quick succession. Bros. Charles and Aubrey Ohren, sons of the W.M., exerted themselves most satisfactorily; while two recitations, given by Bro. Harold J. Levett, were most artistically rendered. Brother Henry J. Datton was a ready accompanyist at the pianoforte. Bros. R. A. Cranch and Linging also were successful in their efforts to entertain. Taken altogether, we scarcely recollect spending a more pleasant evening. The menu card was enriched by a splendid photograph of the W.M. by Fradelle, of 216 Regent-street.

ALEXANDRA PALACE LODGE, No. 1541.

THIS Lodge met on Saturday last, at its new home, the Imperial, Holborn Viaduct. The business of the evening being the installing of Bro. H. Gush as W.M. for the ensuing year; the work was most ably performed by the retiring Master Brother W. Denison. The newly installed W.M. then invested his Officers—Bros. R. J. Ward S.W., J. Ward J.W., W. Denison I.P.M., Larebia Treasurer, J. R. Stacey P.M. Secretary, Fitch S.D., Manton J.D., Kearney I.G. A splendid Past Master's jewel was presented to the retiring W.M. The brethren, after labour, partook of a most recherché banquet, which had been provided by Brother Begbie, the indefatigable manager of the Imperial Hotel.

Royal Alfred Lodge of Instruction, No. 780.—On Friday, 22nd inst., at the Star and Garter Hotel, Kew Bridge. Bros. C. E. Botley W.M., H. E. Tucker S.W., Gomm J.W., F. Botley S.D., A. Turner J.D., Sperring I.G., Andrews P.M. Preceptor, Maton, Blasby, &c. Lodge was opened, and the minutes of last meeting were read, confirmed and signed. The work comprised the rehearsal of the ceremony of initiation and calling the Lodge off and on. After routine work Lodge was closed, and adjourned.

ST. JOHN THE BAPTIST'S DAY.

FREEMASONS punctuate the Masonic year by the observance of two Festivals—St. John the Baptist's and St. John the Evangelist's Days. We are upon the eve of the former, and many bodies of the Craft are preparing to celebrate it with becoming spirit. In Pennsylvania we shall witness nothing akin to the great gathering of one year ago, when all of the Lodges of Pennsylvania united in commemorating, in Philadelphia, the Sesqui-Centennial Anniversary of the first meeting of the Grand Lodge, and first election of a Grand Master and other Grand Officers in this jurisdiction. The rejoicings of that day may not be duplicated in their enthusiastic character for a number of years to come, but the brethren will always keep in memory the first St. John, and in spirit, if not by formal act, evince the power of the virtues he exemplified over their lives.

The Grand Lodge of England was "revived" on St. John the Baptist's Day, 1717, just one hundred and sixty-six years ago. Prior to that, for an unknown period, the subordinate Lodges of England and Scotland—such as the Lodge of Antiquity (St. Paul's Lodge), in London, and the Lodge of Edinburgh, and Mother Lodge Kilwinning, Scotland, each was sovereign and independent; but in 1717, in England, and a little later in Scotland, the individual Lodges respectively united in forming a Grand Lodge, yielding their sovereignty, and reviving the annual assemblies or communications of the Craft. That the brethren in the early part of the seventeenth century highly esteemed St. John the Baptist's Day, is proved by the fact of the famous gathering on that Festival of the Fraternity at the Apple Tree Tavern, London; and we cannot do better than imitate their example by frequently, if not statedly, holding a proper Masonic celebration on this natal day of the revived Grand Lodge.

Among our country Lodges, and especially in the South and West, this St. John's Day is the most popular festival of the year. It occurs at such a charming season, when the air is redolent with the aroma of flowers, the days are longest, the sun shines brightest, all nature is freshest and fairest, and human nature is readiest to join in a festal celebration. The Grand Architect of the Universe Himself has indicated this season, and especially St. John's Day, when the season is at its height, as the time of times for holding a festal celebration. Masonry could possibly select no better one.

We are not among those who deduce the genealogy of the Craft directly, by lineal descent, from the Baptist. He may have been a Mason. We cannot say. Certainly the "voice of one crying in the wilderness" was a "voice of Masonry," and for aught we know, the Baptist may have frequented "a Lodge in some vast wilderness." Right well we know he was a Standard Bearer of Truth, and that his brotherly love knew no bounds. If he was not a Mason, he ought to have been one. He was a Mason at heart and in life, and by observing his "day" we may pay a tribute to the general Masonic character of his life. At all events he was a pleasing type of Masonry, which exists in the wilderness of the world as the depository of truths which the world must accept and practise, before it can be what the Grand Architect of the Universe designed it to be.

Ancient Craft Masonry has often been called "St. John's Masonry." It is a name we may be proud of, for St. John's is as good, if not as ancient a name as King Solomon's. Both of these ancients were good men and true in fact, if not in Masonry.

John signifies God-sent. Is it too much to say that Masonry is God-sent, and basks under the smile of the Almighty? Does He not approve our heaven-born Charity, our open Bible, our holy Altar, our stately Masonic Temples dedicated to His Name, and our public Masonic Homes for the aged, the indigent and the orphan? Are not Faith, Hope, and Charity, Brotherly Love, Relief and Truth, God-sent?

Let us never yield to the zealotry of brethren of one idea. In France they have emasculated the Faith of Masonry by cutting off from it an acknowledgment of the existence and beneficence of the Grand Architect of the Universe, the "I am that I am," the Great First Cause; and they have in like manner emasculated the constitution of the Craft by cutting off from its faculty of power the head—the Grand Master, and substituting a fractional President. Some also would have us drop both the St. Johns. Never, while Masonry is Masonry. Rather let us drop the brother or brethren who insanely strike at the landmarks of the Craft, the usages and customs of Freemasonry. Freemasonry above all is cosmopolitan. It cannot be sectarian. It would be sectarian if it should drop the St. Johns, just as it would be atheistic to ignore the great "I am." Oh! the littleness of little men, who would level a great Fraternity to the deep, low, dark valley of their own puny understandings. Let us laud rather that comprehensive catholicity which embraces the higher and better thoughts of all the higher and better thinkers: that knows no religious creed in Masonry; that loves it for its elastic character; that exemplifies in practice as well as teaches its virtues; and that upholds it in its purity, its simplicity, and its integrity.—Keystone.

Two Provincial Grand Lodge Meetings of the Mark degree are appointed for next week, that of Hampshire and the Isle of Wight taking place at Sandown (Isle of Wight) on Monday, and that of Middlesex and Surrey at Richmond on Saturday. The former will take place at 4 o'clock, previous to which the William Hickman Lodge will be consecrated, and we hope several additions made to the role of Mark Masters. The latter, that of Middlesex and Surrey, will commence at 5 o'clock. The work to be transacted in both is that usual at these annual gatherings. A banquet will follow in each case.

RETURNED PRODIGALS.

ONE of the healthiest of Masonic signs in the State of New York, we hold, is the return of the wanderer. From an examination of the record, we are informed by the Grand Secretary that the number of affiliates through the State has been large and increasing. The story of the Prodigal Son and his return come to mind. Non-affiliation is the bane of Freemasonry, and we believe this to be admitted by all the Masonic press, and its cause and effect have been discussed and dwelt upon without stint. Its causes have been numerous, and its effect quite disastrous. By some excellent judges it has been calculated that New York State has within its territorial limits 120,000 Masons; on its rolls less than 80,000, and the balance one-third of the entire number, floating, drifting here and there, without any interest in the Fraternity on the part of many of them, yet only needing direction and the kindly influences of our Institution to again bring them within the fold.

We believe the past Masonic year will be found to have been one of great prosperity; that Masonic thought has been diffused more widely and intelligently among available material for the Temple; that this awakening has naturally reached those who once were with the Brotherhood, hastily and from causes just or imagined, allowed themselves to drop away from our registry, and that as well it has reached those who having had but an indifferent Masonic education (in reality, those who never saw the true light) listlessly, as the Hibernian would say, "dropped that which they never had." These men, our Grand Secretary says, are beginning to awake and to realise their position and surroundings, and to knock at our doors for re-enrollment.

So important do we look upon this matter that we would be gratified to see the price of affiliation in all our Lodges fixed at some nominal sum; then let the members exercise their best judgment in proposing applicants for affiliation and in the use of the ballot in staying undesirable or inharmonious elements from becoming members of the Lodge family.

Now, anent this subject, and relative to the practice of Lodges in different States, the Dispatch has an article, from which we extract as follows:—

"It will be remembered that our statutes allow a Lodge, by adopting a Bye-law to that effect, to provide a penalty for non-payment of dues, 'which penalty shall be unaffiliation.' Now, it happened that a member of a Lodge in New York was disciplined in the way and manner 'herein provided,' and after a time removed permanently to another jurisdiction, where he affiliated. When the Lodge at this end of the line heard of the fact, it made a vigorous attempt to apply our local laws, and demanded reparation. The jurisdiction at the other end calmly replied, 'You have declared this brother unaffiliated, and when he removed his residence to another place your jurisdiction over him ceased. If he owes you anything, you have a right to collect it; but we, finding him worthy, have exercised our right by making him a member of our Lodge.'

"This transaction illustrates in an eminent degree the fallacy of the general supposition that our laws apply in other places beyond the State of New York. Of course, a brother disciplined in a Lodge in this State could not join any other in this jurisdiction until he had cleared the old score; but when he passes the border of our State lines his admission or refusal must depend on other conditions than our local regulations, and it will be well for us when we come to understand that our laws have no general acceptation, the exceptions—which only prove the rule—being in States where laws similar to our own prevail. * * * * In some States consent to receive the petition of a rejected candidate can only be given to another Lodge by a unanimous vote. New York, fortunately, is on the right side of this question, because only requiring a majority, and this, we take it, that in the experience of the brethren, it is generally, or at least in the majority of cases, found that the rejection is due to some personal reason apart from the governing principles of the Fraternity, and that such feeling should not be allowed a wider range than is to be found in one Lodge, or, in other words, that allowing one man to follow another with his vindictiveness around the world is neither just nor Masonic. Please consider."

We have no reason to believe that our States have a less number of non-affiliates in proportion to those of New York. Counting our strength at a close calculation of 600,000 men in the States there would be proportionately an army of 200,000 wanderers or negative Masons. There is no just reason why that number should be 100,000. The admitted main cause is the non-payment of dues, while another is the lack of a proper discharge of the duties of the Officers of Lodges.

There should be more rejoicing over one affiliate returning to the household than over three initiates, one of whom, in carrying out the proposition, is bound to become a non-affiliate.—Hebrew Leader.

The annual meeting of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Middlesex will be held to-day, at the Mitre Hotel, Hampton Court, under the presidency of R.W. Col. Sir Francis Burdett, Prov. G. Master. Lodge will be opened at 3 p.m., and after the transaction of formal business, the election of Provincial Grand Treasurer, and the appointment of other Officers, will take place. Notice of motion has been given by the Provincial Grand Master, that he will propose the granting of ten guineas to each of the three Masonic Institutions, and we doubt not the proposal will be agreed to. A banquet follows, at 5 o'clock, tickets for which (one guinea each) may be obtained of the Provincial Grand Stewards.

A QUARTERLY GENERAL COURT of the Governors and Subscribers of this Institution will be held at the Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen-street, Lincoln's Inn Fields, London, on Saturday, the 14th day of July 1883, at Twelve o'Clock precisely, on the General Business of the Institution, to place Candidates on the List for the Election in October next, to declare the number of Girls then to be elected, to receive the following report of General Committee, and to consider Notice of Motion as under.

REPORT OF GENERAL COMMITTEE.

"The General Committee reports to the Quarterly General Court that, in consequence of an intimation conveyed to the House Committee from the owner of the freehold land adjacent to the Institution—that he was about to offer for sale nine acres, or thereabouts, bounding two sides of its grounds, and that the lowest sum he would take for the whole, which he declined to divide, was at the rate of £4,000 per acre—Col. Creaton, with the concurrence of his colleagues, had obtained from him a promise that such land should not be sold until the views and opinion of the General Court as to the advisability of acquiring the property for the Institution could be obtained.

"That taking into consideration the facts that the land, if sold to a third party, might be dealt with in a manner most prejudicial to the School, and that if purchased by the Institution a very considerable and valuable portion of it could be re-sold, this Committee consider the subject is one which should receive the fullest consideration at the hands of the governing body of the Institution."

NOTICE OF MOTION BY BRO. ROBERT GREY P.G.D. Vice-Patron.

"That the Report of the General Committee with reference to the land offered for sale be received and considered, and such action taken thereon as shall be deemed advisable by the General Court."

PROVINCIAL GRAND LODGE OF SURREY.

THIS Provincial Grand Lodge was held on Thursday, the 28th inst., at the Oatlands Park Hotel, Walton-on-Thames, the brethren assembling under the banner of the Friendship and Harmony Lodge, No. 1616. There was a very fair attendance of members of the different Lodges in the Province, and the Past Provincial Grand Officers were well represented. The R.W. Provincial Grand Master, General Studholme Brownrigg, C.B., presided, and was supported by the Deputy Provincial Grand Master the Rev. C. W. Arnold Past Grand Chaplain, and the following Officers of the year:—Bros. Chas. Greenwood P.G.S.B. S.W., James E. Barton J.W., Rev. R. Milner Chaplain, W. A. Barrett Registrar, G. Price Treasurer, C. Greenwood jun. Secretary, J. B. Boucher S.D., A. E. Taylor Superintendent of Works, H. E. Frances Director of Ceremonies, J. H. Askham Assist. D.C., F. A. Manning Standard Bearer, &c. Amongst others present were, Rev. Ambrose Hall Past Grand Chaplain, Chevalier Desanges, Rev. — Watson, Vicar of St. Mary's Church, Oatlands, &c., &c. After Lodge had been formally opened, the roll of the Province was called over, and representatives from 24 out of the 25 Lodges which comprise the Province of Surrey answered the call. The minutes of the Provincial Grand Lodge held at Woking in July last year were read and confirmed unanimously, as also were the minutes of a special Provincial Grand Lodge held at Freemasons' Tavern, on 21st November 1882. The minutes of the Special Provincial Grand Lodge meeting at Bagshot, on the 9th April 1883, were likewise confirmed. This was the occasion when the Provincial Grand Lodge of Surrey assisted His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught, K.G., Past G. Senior Warden, to lay the foundation stone of St. Anne's Church. The Report of the Finance and Audit Committee was received. This showed a balance in hand of £71 2s 2d. A sum of £5 5s was voted to the Oatlands Working Men's Club Building Fund; while a suggestion from Bro. Dr. Strong as to the returns from the Lodges being made at an earlier date than hitherto, received approval from the Provincial Grand Master, and it was understood that a rule to this effect should be framed, and brought forward for consideration at next Prov. G. Lodge. The Prov. G.M. then referred to the occasion, in February last, when he took the chair at the Anniversary Festival of the Royal Masonic Benevolent Institution. It had afforded him immense satisfaction to realise how well the brethren of his Province had supported him on that occasion; 22 of the Lodges sent up Stewards, and amongst them they raised nearly £1000. The total amount realised for the Institution at this Festival considerably exceeded £13,000. A provisional grant of £63 had been passed by Provincial Grand Lodge, and the Provincial Grand Master now called on the members to formally sanction this grant. He also reminded the brethren that Provincial Grand Lodge had voted ten guineas to the St. Anne's Church, Bagshot, Building Fund; this, however, also required the formal approval of Prov. Grand Lodge now assembled. These grants were agreed to, and General Brownrigg again rose, this time to propose the re-election of Brother George Price as Provincial Grand Treasurer. The heavy strain on their funds made by these extraordinary demands had somewhat impoverished their exchequer, and their esteemed Brother Price had always laid it down as a rule that a balance of £100 should stand to the credit of Provincial Grand Lodge. In spite of a full realisation of the fact that they had encroached upon this balance, he would propose the re-election of Brother Price, and trusted that under the exceptional circumstances narrated he would not insist on the very letter of his contract being carried out. This proposition was duly seconded, and the ballot was unanimous in favour of Brother Price's re-election. The honour was briefly acknowledged. The Officers for the year were then invested, as follows:—

W. G. Batchelor S.W. 452	G. Stewards
C. T. Speight	G. Tyler

For the Audit Committee, the same brethren as last year fulfilled the duties were reappointed.

In addressing the brethren General Brownrigg urged on the new Officers the necessity of attending any meetings they may be summoned for. The state of Freemasonry in the Province was most satisfactory. The Lodges were progressing, and a spirit of unanimity prevailed that was most cheering. With respect to the selection of Grand Officers, he desired it to be remembered that there were not many offices at his disposal, and where there were so many aspirants it was a difficult task to select the most deserving. However, he desired to be impartial, and he took counsel with his Deputy, who rendered him valuable service in arriving at his decisions in this respect.

Shortly afterwards Provincial Grand Lodge was closed. The brethren then adjourned for Divine Service at St. Mary's Church, Oatlands, where a sermon was preached by the Provincial Grand Chaplain. Our rev. brother's discourse was as follows:—

"Casting all your care upon Him; for He careth for you."—1 Peter v 7.

The love of God to us, and the confidence and strength which it affords to all who have realised it, in whose hearts it has been shed abroad by the co-operation of the Holy Ghost, is forcibly impressed upon us in the text you have heard read. We are urged by it in times of sorrow and anxiety to put our whole trust and confidence in God, for we know and believe the love which He hath to us. When we recall the past, when we look back upon our lives, we are apt to dwell too much upon those events which have given us happiness, and to overlook the trials and difficulties which have met us from time to time, when our faith in the Divine love has been really put to the test. For it is in the time of pain and weariness and sorrow, far more than in happy and prosperous days, that the strength and the reality of faith is proved. My dear Brethren, we may be perfectly acquainted with the statements contained in the Bible respecting the character of Almighty God, and admit readily that His nature and His attribute is love, and that He has proved it and commended it to us by sending His only and most dearly beloved Son to redeem us, and the Holy Ghost the comforter to abide with us. Now let us ask ourselves this question,—Do we really believe this? Can we, under all circumstances, however painful and mysterious, cast our burden upon the Lord, and feel assured that He careth for us? Do we then—in moments of pain and sharp distress—know and believe the love which God hath to us? The Holy Scriptures, or as we term it, "The Volume of the Sacred Law," tell us of the omniscience and the omnipresence of the G.A.O.T.U. He, as David testifies, is about our path and about our bed, and He spieth out all our ways. In Him we live and move and have our being. Wherever we are, or whatever we do, He is ever with us, and His all-seeing eye beholds us, and one day we shall have to render to Him an undisguised account of our life and actions.

This, my brethren, we all believe, but do we realise the blessed truth that God careth for His people, and that His ears are always open unto their prayers.

Our Faith is not tried, mark you, in times of prosperity; when the sun is shining brightly and life is full of hope, and the voice of health is heard in our dwellings, but in the days of sorrow and adversity, when the sky is black with clouds, and the rain descends, and the winds blow, and the floods come and beat upon our house. It may be easy for some of us now to talk of the love of God, and of Christ. When life is hopeful and unruffled by care to believe in it, or think that we believe in it. But should we have boldness in the day of judgment? Should we believe it were God to visit and to judge us by some new and greater calamity than any which we have experienced heretofore? For example, suppose He were suddenly to take away one who was most near and dear to our hearts, leaving us desolate and alone, and bowed down under the burden of an intolerable anguish; or if some grievous bodily infirmity or some cruel dishonour were to visit us—what should we do then?

Should we, after the first throes of grief, relapse into a dull despairing bitter submission to our hard fate? or should we be able to plant our feet upon the everlasting rock, which is Christ, and say: We know and believe the love that God hath to us. "I will cast all my care upon Him, for He careth for me. Though He slay me, yet will I put my trust in Him."

It may appear strange, and yet it is most true, that men are taught chiefly by adversity the love which God hath toward them. The history of the Saints of God afford us abundant proof of this. David, who was sorely tried, confessed that it was good for him to have been in trouble. Hezekiah, likewise, when he was sick unto death, found out the truth about these dark hours of trial, and confessed it, saying: "O Lord, by these things men live, and in them is the life of the Spirit. Behold, for peace I had great bitterness, but Thou hast in love to my soul delivered it from the pit of corruption, for Thou hast cast all my sins behind Thy back." This, too, was Jacob's experience on that most fearful night of his whole life, when he waited by the ford of Jabbok, expecting that with the morning light the punishment of his past sins would come upon him, and not on him only, but on all his family, and his innocent children. When he stood there alone by the dark river, not knowing whether Esau and his wild followers would not sweep off the earth all he had and all he loved, and knowing too, ah! most bitter thought, that he had brought it all upon them by his own deceit and treachery. Then, when his sins stared him in the face, and God rose up in judgment against him, he learned to cast his care upon God, and to pray, as he had never prayed before—a prayer too deep for words.

And Jacob was left alone, and there wrestled a man with him till the breaking of the day, and when he saw that he prevailed not against him, he touched the hollow of Jacob's thigh, and the hollow of his thigh was out of joint, as he wrestled with him. And he said: Let me go, for the day breaketh, and he said, I will not let thee go till thou bless me, and he blessed him then, and Jacob called the name of that place Peniel, for I have seen God face to face, and my life is preserved."

So let it be with us, my brethren, when we are sorely tried, and find it hard to realise the care which God hath for us. Like Jacob, let us plead His gracious promises, and acknowledge the good gifts and blessings which we have already received, saying: I am not worthy of the least of all Thy mercies which Thou hast shewn to Thy servant. Ask for His help and plead His promises, even as Jacob did, according to his light, saying: Thou saidst I will surely do thee good, and you shall find, with him, that, as a Prince, you have power with God and man, and have prevailed. You will know and believe in the love of Him who careth for us, and perfect love will drive out all partial fear.

The love of God shed abroad in your hearts will sustain you under the sorrows and anxieties of this mortal life, and enable you to look forward and hasten to the coming of the day of God and the glorious appearing of the bright morning star, whose rising will bring peace and salvation to the faithful and obedient.

May it be so with us, dear brethren, that when this life comes to an end we may, by God's infinite love and mercy, be admitted into those immortal mansions whence all good emanates. So mote it be.

The arrangements for the banquet—in fact for the day's proceedings—reflected the greatest credit on the entertaining Lodge, Friendship and Harmony, No. 1616. A most bountiful repast was provided, and it is scarcely necessary to say justice was done to it. The room where the banquet was served was most suitable for the purpose, and the scenery around added a charm to the meeting. The Prov. Grand Master presided, and briefly introduced the customary toasts; in speaking to that of the Queen and the Craft, General Brownrigg called attention to the fact that this was the 45th anniversary of Her Majesty's Coronation. In introducing the second—the health of the M.W. the Grand Master, the R.W. the Pro Grand Master, the Deputy Grand Master, and the Grand Officers Present and Past, General Brownrigg said he approached this toast with some amount of diffidence. He had always conceived the duties of the Past Grand Officers to be to watch over the best interests of the Craft, and to uphold and give the Grand Master strength. He was, however, somewhat afraid there was a probability of the good feeling that had hitherto existed being disturbed. In the few hurried remarks he had addressed to the members of the Province in the Lodge-room, he had called their attention to the necessity of attending the approaching Communication of Grand Lodge, which was to be held on the day following their present meeting. Matters that demanded the gravest consideration would be discussed at this gathering. He would venture to remind the brethren that at the meeting in April last, when the Grand Officers for the year were appointed, the table of precedence had been materially altered, without notice, and without any explanation being vouchsafed. It had since been urged, that the Grand Master, being the Fountain of all Masonic honour, was acting within his prerogative when he took upon himself the responsibility of altering the table of precedence which had hitherto been carefully adhered to. For himself, he (General Brownrigg) could not think the Most Worshipful Grand Master was acting entirely on his own behalf in this regard. The Prince of Wales, though giving every attention to the business of the Craft, relied on his advisers for matters of detail, and in this respect he ventured to assert that the Grand Master had been badly advised. However, should the projected change be persisted in, he would suggest that the brethren respectfully and humbly make their protest, when doubtless their complaints would receive attention. By the projected changes, Grand Chaplains were removed to a position below Grand Secretary, Grand Registrar, and Grand Director of Ceremonies; consequently were much lowered in the scale of precedence that had hitherto prevailed. Now, taking into consideration the position of Grand Chaplains, as scholars, to say nothing of their sacred calling, he could see no reason for these alterations. He had spoken somewhat at length on this matter because he felt strongly on it. After reference to other changes that were projected, the Prov. Grand Master urged on all of those present who could make it convenient to attend Grand Lodge, and take part in the consideration of the several questions affected by the projected revision of the Constitutions. He then formally offered the toast for the acceptance of the brethren, and called on the Rev. Ambrose Hall Past Grand Chaplain to respond. Brother Hall in reply said that to all Grand Officers, whether present or past, it was ever a pleasing duty to acknowledge this toast. He could endorse the opinions expressed by the Prov. Grand Master, but he trusted the cloud which seemed to be at the present time overshading them would pass away, and that they should be, as hitherto, one body, one phalanx, united indissolubly together. When he looked around he say many who had our good cause so much at heart, that he felt assured wiser counsels would prevail. Brother Hall concluded by returning his sincere thanks for the reception given to the toast. The Rev. C. W. Arnold proposed the health of Brother General Brownrigg. The Provincial Grand Master, it might well be said, lived in the hearts of the members of his Province. This was exemplified in an eminent degree in February last, when he presided at the Festival of the R.M.B.I., on which occasion the members of the Province most loyally supported their chief. In acknowledging the compliment, the Prov. G. Master said he had only the same old, old story to recount. He never experienced anything but kindness and consideration at the hands of the members of the Province; while as to the zeal of his Deputy he felt unequal to the task of expressing his recognition of it. It was an astonishing thing to him to note how well the Lodges of Surrey got on together. Whenever a dark cloud arose, a little calm reflection soon dispelled it; and he ventured to assert there was not a happier or more united Province in the kingdom than the one he had the honour to preside over. For the toast of the Prov. Grand Officers Bro. Rev. C. W. Arnold replied. Several other toasts were given, and the enjoyment of the day was well sustained. In the course of the proceedings it was announced that the offertory at church, together with the amount voted by Prov. Grand Lodge for the Oatlands Working Men's Church Building Fund, realised £9 3s.

During the evening, a capital selection of music, under the direction of Bro. Edwin M. Lott P.P.G.O. Surrey, was performed by the following members of the Mozart Lodge, who kindly gave their services:—Bros. E. Moss W.M. 1929, H. Ashton, J. Kift, and T. Tremere J.W. 1929. The following is the programme:—Grace, "Deum Laudate," Dr. J. Smith; National Anthem; Madrigal, "This pleasant month of May," Beale; Song, "I seek for thee," Ganz—Bro. E. Moss; Part Song, "Summer Eve," Hatton; Song, "True to the last," Adams—Bro. T. Tremere; Ballad, "Far on the deep blue sea," Thomas—Bro. Henry Ashton.

LEBANON CHAPTER, 1326.

A REGULAR convocation of this Capter was held at the Lion Hotel, Hampton, Middlesex, on Thursday, 21st June. Ex-Comp. J. Stevens P.Z., 720, 771, acting M.E.Z., in the absence of the M.E. Comp. John Carther Woodrow. There were also present Ex-Comps. C. W. Fox H., John Hammond P.Z. J., W. Hammond P.Z. P. Prov. 1st A.S. Middlesex S.E., Edward Hopwood P.Z. acting S.N., H. J. Lardner M.E.Z. 1823 acting P.S., Comps. W. C. Davey and Thomas Errington Assistant Sojourners, Ex-Comp. J. W. Casson H. 1615 acting Organist, Ex-Comp. J. T. Briggs P.Z. 177, and others, Comp. Gilbert attending as Janitor. The Chapter having been opened, and the minutes of previous convocation confirmed, Ex-Comp. Briggs was elected a joining member, and ballots were taken for three candidates for exaltation, which were found clear. Bro. William Francis Webb, being in attendance, was duly exalted, with full musical ceremony, and the explanations from the principals were ably delivered by Ex-Comps. Casson as J., Briggs as H., and James Stevens as M.E.Z. At the conclusion of the ceremony the thanks of the Chapter were accorded to Comps. Stevens, Lardner, and, Casson for attendance and assistance, and after some other routine business the Chapter was closed. Subsequently the members of the Chapter and their visitors partook of an excellent cold collation, and under the presidency of Comp. Stevens, enjoyed a social hour or two before separation.

GRAND LODGE OF NEW YORK.

FROM THE KEYSTONE.

THE 102nd Annual Grand Communication of the Grand Lodge of New York was held on Tuesday and Wednesday, 5th and 6th instant, Bro Benjamin Flagler, M.W. Grand Master, presiding. There were over eight hundred representatives of Lodges present.

Grand Master's Address.—After congratulating the assembled representatives upon the close of a year of general prosperity to the Craft throughout the jurisdiction, Grand Master Flagler reviewed the official work of his year, and recommended the recognition of the new Grand Lodges of Arizona and Peru. In relation to the penalty attaching to the non-payment of dues, a subject which interests every member of the Fraternity, he said:

In 1873 new regulations were adopted by the Grand Lodge, providing a penalty for the non-payment of dues. I am forced to the conclusion that these regulations do not properly protect the interests of the subordinate Lodges. So long as the Grand Lodge requires payment of a stated sum from the subordinate bodies, it must of necessity permit those Lodges to collect dues from members, and as their existence depends entirely upon their ability to pay to the Grand Lodge each year the moneys demanded, they should have the authority to compel payment of the dues provided for by their Bye-laws. Every Mason, when he becomes a member of a Lodge, signs his name to the Bye-laws, and by his own act enters into a contract to pay into that Lodge each year the amount therein stated as dues. Any failure on his part to do this indicates a want of integrity, and is a clear violation of a solemn compact. And as the Lodge enters into obligations based upon the agreement of each member to pay a certain sum each year, the neglect or failure to pay often proves a source of embarrassment to the Lodge and brings scandal upon the Fraternity.

The Penalty for Non-payment of Dues.—There has been in my opinion a great deal of mistaken sentiment brought into the discussions of this subject heretofore. If the neglect or refusal to pay was confined to our indigent Brethren, all this might do, but experience demonstrates that it is not. The representatives of Lodges here present will, I think, bear me out in the assertion that at least three-fourths of those unaffiliated by Lodges for non-payment of dues are those who could well afford to pay if they chose so to do. Therefore my opinion is, the neglect or refusal to pay by members who can do so without injury to their families, should subject the delinquent to a loss of his Masonic privileges, and that the penalty should be suspension from all the rights and privileges of Masonry until payment be made of the amount due at the time of such suspension. There is another consideration that has arisen out of my experience during the year, namely, that the penalty of unaffiliation for non-payment of dues fixed by our regulations, leaves the particular brother free, except that he owes his Lodge a certain amount whatsoever that may be, and we have a clear right to provide that he shall not affiliate in any other Lodge in this jurisdiction until he has satisfied that claim. But we cannot enforce our laws on other jurisdictions, nor make them the collectors of money due us; hence, when one declared to be an unaffiliate in this jurisdiction seeks affiliation in another, they are only bound in considering his petition to ascertain whether he is really an unaffiliate, and not whether he owes us any dues. I commend this whole matter to the careful consideration of this Grand Lodge.

What Constitutes a Summons.—Referring to the question of what constitutes a summons—another matter of general interest to the Fraternity at large—he said:—

The question has often been asked, "What is a legal summons?" I have replied:—A summons, to be legal and of effect, must be issued by the Master, over his own signature or by the order of the Master, and be attested by the Secretary under the seal of the Lodge; that it must be addressed to the brother summoned, and either be handed to him or sent through the post office to his last known address. As there seems to be considerable diversity of opinion in this matter it should be settled by this Grand Body, and I recommend forms for summons to be decided upon and printed in the transactions or with the constitution and statutes as a guide. The practice of using the word "summoned" in simple notices and of publishing in newspapers so-called summons is a grave mistake, and has led to the general impression that a summons is no more than a notice, and therefore but little attention is paid thereto, and our Lodges seem to have discontinued almost entirely to discipline members for refusing or neglecting to obey. A summons should not be lightly used, or when the purpose to be accomplished may be attained as well as by notice. I have given the generally accepted definition, but respectfully urge that there be a legal definition, that a mere notice or newspaper advertisement may not be mistaken for so important a document.

The Illustrious Dead.—The Grand Master next delivered eulogies on the illustrious dead of the year. The mortuary list contained the names of the Right Worshipful John M. Reilly, Charles E. Young, Henry W. Turner, James W. Simonton, Thomas H. Landon, Joseph B. Chaffee, Dr. C. Henry King, Levi H. Willard, Charles Craig, and Worshipful Brother Ezra Graves.

Annual Report of Officers.—After the reading of the Grand Master's address, which was received with approval, the Grand Treas., Bro. John Boyd, presented his report, which showed the receipts for the year from all sources to be 85,092·15 dols. The report of Bro. Ehlers, Grand Secretary, showed that the number of initiations and restorations during the year was largely in excess of the unaffiliations and deaths. The report of the Grand Librarian, Bro. H. G. Carter, showed that that important department had been administered with a degree of success unknown in former times. The librarian suggested many important improvements, which will no doubt be made, as their introduction will have the effect of increasing the revenues of the Fraternity. The report of the Trustees of the Hall and Asylum Fund, who have charge of the Temple, showed that the building had been kept in excellent repair and beautified to a considerable extent. The receipts from all sources were 97,145·78, of which nearly 33,000 dols. has been devoted to a reduction of the debt of the Temple. The Trustees give notice that after the 1st prox. they will be prepared to purchase income bonds to the amount of 25,000 dols.

On Wednesday the Finance Committee reported in favour of fixing the salary of the Grand Secretary at 3,500 dols., with an allowance of 1500 dols. for clerk hire, the salary of the Grand Lecturer at 1000 dols., with an allowance not exceeding 400 dols. for travelling expenses, the Grand Pursuivant and the Grand Tyler to receive 200 dols. each.

The following brethren were elected Grand Officers for the ensuing Masonic year, and installed into their respective stations:—Bros. J. Edward Simmons, of New York City, M.W. (Grand Master Bro. Benjamin Flagler declining a re-election), William A. Brodie, of Genesee R.W. Deputy Grand Master, John W. Vrooman, of Herkimer, R.W. Grand Senior Warden, John Ten Eyck, of Albany, R.W. Junior Grand Warden, John Boyd, of New York, R.W. Grand Treasurer, and E. L. M. Ehlers R.W. Grand Secretary. R.W. Bro. Theophilus Pratt, President of the Masonic Veteran's Association, was chosen one of the Trustees of the Hall and Asylum Fund.

The newly elected Grand Master, Bro. J. Edward Simmons, was born in Troy, 19th September 1841. He was educated at Williams College, and was graduated from that institution in the class of 1862. He studied law in the Albany Law School, and was admitted to the Bar in 1863. Returning to Troy, he practised law there for two years, and then abandoned the practise of his profession. In 1865 he removed to New York city and became a member of the Stock Exchange, and has retained his membership in that institution through a successful business career. He was initiated in Mount Zion Lodge, No. 311, in 1864, and ten years later affiliated with Kane Lodge, No. 454, of New York. He was Master of Kane Lodge in 1877 and 1878. During the administration of Grand Master Couch he was appointed District Deputy Grand Master of the Sixth District, and was Grand Marshal under Grand Master Roome. He was elected Deputy Grand Master last year, and is the Representative of the Grand Lodge of Missouri near the Grand Lodge of New York. Bro. Simmons is a member of Jerusalem Chapter, No. 8, R.A.M., and of Cœur de Lion Commandery, No. 6, K.T., of which he is a Past Eminent Commander. He is also a member of the Board of Education.

We congratulate our brethren of New York upon the harmonious and gratifying result of their Annual Grand Communication.

GRAND LODGE OFFICERS.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Allow me space to express my astonishment with the want of experience displayed by several writers in your paper on the subject of usual or frequent changes in Grand Officers. I will admit the duties of the Grand Treasurer are, of necessity, mainly discharged by the Grand Secretary and his assistants; and, therefore, the fortunate holder of the office requires no special qualification beyond the esteem and confidence of the Craft. It is, however, very different in the case of the Grand Registrar, Secretary, the Director of Ceremonies, each of whose duties can only be usefully and satisfactorily performed by an experienced Brother possessing special aptitude and ability.

I sincerely wish brethren would fully consider every side of the question before venturing to publish their opinions to the Craft at large.

I am, Dear Sir,

Yours faithfully,

25th June 1883. HENRY SMITH P.M. 387.

THE BOYS' SCHOOL FESTIVAL.

To the Editor of the FREEMASON'S CHRONICLE.

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—My attention has been directed to a very great inaccuracy in your published statement of the amount of my list, as Steward representing the Corinthian Lodge, No. 1208, on the occasion of the late Festival of the R.M.I.B. I am credited with £31 10s only, which is considerably less than half the sum that I had the pleasure to announce at our Lodge meeting on the preceding Monday, as the total amount of subscriptions and donations paid and promised by the Lodge and its members. If similar errors are made in the lists of other Stewards of Lodges in Kent, the £130 required to bring the contribution of our Province up to the magnificent one of East Lancashire would have been forthcoming.

To those who have made this error I leave the duty of correcting it, although fully persuaded that the correction will not meet the eyes of numbers who have read the first statement, and this fact causes me some natural annoyance, as I consider that the brethren of my Lodge very generously answered the appeal made to them.

I am, Dear Sir and Brother,

Fraternally yours,

W. A. SHEETH, P.M. 1208, P.P.G.A.P. Kent.

NOTICES OF MEETINGS.

—:o:—

HERVEY LODGE, No. 1692.

THE sixth anniversary of the Hervey Lodge, held on Wednesday, 20th inst., at the George Hotel, Hayes, Kent, was one of the most successful meetings ever held since the establishment of this rising Lodge. The members were summoned for 4 p.m.; the brethren met punctually, and were presided over by Bro. Harold Gripper, the W.M. for the past year, who was supported by Bros. D. Grinsted S.W. (W.M. elect), R. L. Gore J.W., H. Balding S.D., J. W. Baldwin J.D., J. King I.G.; also P.M.'s J. J. Hamilton G.S.W. and T. C. Newsome. Among the Visitors who attended the Lodge were Bros. W. W. Baxter P.M. 742, John Coe P.M. 1339, F. West P.M. 1815, A. Bishop S.D. 1892, G. J. Goodhart J.D. 1506, W. Elcombe 31, J. H. Francis 1815, H. Robertson 534, J. C. Gowdey 365 Scotia, Barbadoes. After the usual opening, the very interesting business of the evening was proceeded with; first, the passing of Bros. M. J. Dickins, J. Howard, and J. Sanders; the initiation of Mr. A. J. Beesley, and the reading of the Report of the permanent Committee, which was a very satisfactory one. The installation of the W.M. elect, Bro. D. Grinsted, was worked in a most able and praiseworthy manner by Bro. Harold Gripper, who, indeed, has conducted the working of his year of office in an eminently satisfactory manner. The new W.M. then proceeded to appoint his Officers, the addresses being impressively delivered to each on investiture—Bros. R. L. Gore S.W., R. V. Harman J.W., J. J. Hamilton P.M. G.S.W. Treasurer, H. Balding Secretary, J. W. Baldwin S.D., John King J.D., W. J. Gore I.G., A. H. Brett Steward, J. Bavin Tyler. The Installing Master then delivered the addresses, and the usual routine business being completed, Lodge was closed, and the brethren adjourned to the banquet-room, where the W.M. ably presided, over a most pleasant and social gathering. Bro. D. Grinsted, in proposing the health of the Queen and the Craft, said that no words of his were necessary to add to the enthusiasm with which this toast was always received at Masonic meetings. He would ask the brethren on this occasion, the 46th anniversary of Her Majesty's accession to the throne—that her health might be drunk with all earnestness, as that of one who had excelled in all the duties of a Queen, a wife, and a mother. The other routine toasts were proposed in due form, and were heartily received. The W.M. then proposed the M.W. Viscount Holmesdale Provincial Grand Master, and the rest of the Provincial Grand Officers, coupling with the toast the name of our worthy and excellent Treasurer, Bro. J. J. Hamilton, P.M. G.S.W. This toast was most enthusiastically received and ably responded to. Song—"The Old Brigade"—Bro. J. King. The toast of the evening, the Worshipful Master, was proposed by the I.P.M. Harold Gripper, who felt assured, from the working displayed by his successor in the several offices in the Lodge which he had so ably filled, that the work now before him would be equally well done. He knew the brethren would unite with him in wishing that Bro. Grinsted might have plenty of work to do. Song—"Welcome, Friends." Bro. R. L. Gore The W.M., in reply, thanked the brethren for the honour they had unanimously done him in placing him in the proud position he now occupied. He assured them that nothing on his part should be wanting to make his year of office a successful one. He had no doubt as to the immediate future, supported, as he truly hoped to be, by the Immediate Past Master. Song—"Et cetera"—Bro. Goodhart. The health of the Initiate was next proposed, and was responded to in a few appropriate words, the "Entered Apprentice" song being given with great gusto. The Visitors were then complimented; each responding to the toast. For the Past Masters Bro. Newsome first replied, and then the I.P.M., who complimented the Lodge on the large subscription, amounting to no less a sum than £50, that he had had the honour to forward to the Boys' Festival. Bro. Grinsted thanked them for this appointment, and regretted that their installation gathering should have taken place on the same day. Song—"The Village Blacksmith"—Bro. West. The Officer's toast was well received, and replied to by each in due order. The Tyler's toast brought to a close one of the most agreeable meetings that the Lodge has ever held.

Percy Lodge of Instruction, No. 198.—Held its usual meeting at Bro. Langdale's, Jolly Farmers', Southgate-road, N., on Saturday last, 23rd instant. Present—Bros. Gribbell W.M., Marks S.W., Lone J.W., C. Lorkin acting Preceptor, Fenner acting Secretary, Ferrar S.D., Rhodes J.D., Manger I.G.; also Bros. Payne, Langdale, &c. Lodge was opened with all formalities, and the minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed. Bro. Payne, after the Lodge had been advanced, answered the usual questions leading to the third degree, and was entrusted. Lodge was opened in the third degree, and the ceremony of raising rehearsed, including the traditional history, Bro. Payne acting as candidate. Lodge was called off and on. Lodge was closed in the third and second degrees. Bro. Fenner worked the second section of the first lecture, being assisted by the brethren. Bro. Marks was unanimously elected W.M. for next week. After which Lodge was closed, and adjourned. Bro. Lorkin, W.M. Duke of Connaught 1524, will rehearse the ceremony of installation this (Saturday) evening. Brethren are fraternally invited to attend. Time of meeting 8 o'clock punctually.

United Pilgrims Lodge of Instruction, No. 507.—At the usual weekly meeting held at the Surrey Masonic Hall, Camberwell New Road, S.E., on Friday evening, the 22nd instant. Bro. Eldridge Johnson presided as W.M. Bros. Alfred Jones officiated as S.W., J. N. Bate J.W., Stokes S.D., Sarjeant J.D., G. H. Chapman I.G., Poore Secretary, Stevens P.M., and Preceptor. There were also present Bros. Wilmot, Pool, &c. The first section having been worked by the brethren, the ceremony of initiation was well rehearsed for the first time by Bro. Johnson, who received the thanks of the Lodge for the proficiency he displayed. Bro. Bate delivered the charge in good style, and the Preceptor then lectured on the first tracing board. Lodge was called off for entry drill, and called on. Bro. Chapman was elected a member. Bro. James Stevens having been elected W.M. and Installing Master for the rehearsal of the installation ceremony on Friday, the 29th instant, Lodge was closed and adjourned.

Kingsland Lodge of Instruction, No. 1693.—On Monday, 25th June, at Canonbury Tavern, N. Bros. Marks W.M., Brook S.W., Rose J.W., Killick Treasurer, Collingridge Secretary, Osborne S.D., Pummell I.G.; and several other brethren. After preliminaries, the ceremonies of initiation and passing were rehearsed, Bro. Bagnall acting as candidate. Bro. Brock was appointed W.M. for Monday, 2nd July. Lodge was closed in due form.

FREEMAN'S CHLORODYNE.

The Original and only true.

HUNDREDS of Medical Practitioners testify to its marvellous efficacy in immediately relieving and rapidly curing Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Neuralgia, Spasms, Colic, Whooping Cough, and all Nerve Pains. It acts like a charm in Diarrhœa, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery. It rapidly relieves pain, from whatever cause, soothes and strengthens the system under exhausting diseases, and gives quiet and refreshing sleep.

Lord Chancellor Selborne, Lord Justice James, Lord Justice Mellish decided in favour of FREEMAN'S ORIGINAL CHLORODYNE, and against Brown and Davenport, compelling them to pay all costs in the suits. See Times of July 24th, 1873. Bottles 1s 1½d, 2s 9d, 4s 6d, 11s, and 20s. Sold by all Chemists.

TESTIMONIALS.—Head Quarter Staff, Cabul, May 31st, 1880. Mr. R. Freeman Dear Sir,—It is with much pleasure I am able to state that your Chlorodyne has been of special service to me in alleviating the wearisome spasms of Asthma, which is here existent in an aggravated form. Many of my patients now come and beg me to give them that medicine which always relieves them, and which I need hardly say is your Chlorodyne. Yours faithfully, CHARLES W. OWEN, L.R.C.P. Lon., M.R.C.S. Eng., the Divisional Head Quarter Staff and Civil Surgeon, Cabul.

The Times, August 13th, 1877. From our own Correspondent with the Russian Army. Okoum, July 25th, 1877. The want of sanitary arrangements in the Russian Camp was dreadful, and had we remained there a few weeks longer, dysentery and typhoid fever would have played more havoc in our ranks than the bombs of the Turks. I myself acquired an unenviable reputation as a doctor, owing to my being provided with a small bottle of CHLORODYNE, with which I effected miraculous cures.
