THE INNER REALITY.

My soul looks out
From a world within,
And the things I see
Are cold - and dim.
But the world within
Is real - and warm,
Reality lives
In another form.

- Tuella

I Am Esu who speaks:

"An enlightened imagination is the finest tool a soul can use in the ongoing administration of the gifts of the Spirit. The gifts of the Spirit require the added organization of the annointed imagination of the inspired mind.

"Introspection and the journey inward into the inner citadel will return to outer levels with an abundance of interpretation and application to enhance the ordained spiritual gifts that are the right of the child of Light.

"Spirit guided imagination is the crowning glory of intuition. Intuition applies itself in propelling the gifts of the Spirit into visible service and usefulness. Spiritual imagination glorifies these gifts and expands their usefulness. I have spoken that "except ye abide in the vine, the branch cannot bear fruit of itself." The vine is the Holy Spirit, the branches are the gifts thereof; the spiritual imagination is the life of the branch and produces the fruit. The illumined intuitive mind, giving birth to annointed imagination, opens the door into creative reflections of true Reality.

"Consider then that Divine Reality is found in the imaginative creativity of the thought life, and illusion is found in the deceptiveness of intelligence. Therefore, it is a spiritually activated intuition that inherits eyes to see and ears to hear, and a sense to know the Inner Reality.

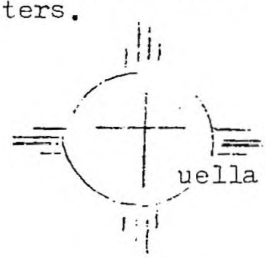

"Put not your dependence on the scholarly degrees with which man would honor thee. Seek with the inner knowing, the knowledge, the wisdom and the understanding that comes through divine creativity within the soul. This is the door into the Ageless Wisdom and the Fountain of Understanding.

z"The smallest vestige of ego intelligence in spiritual service can lead the wisest ones astray. When Ego stands between a man and his creativity, the rivers of intuitive imagination that could bring forth the very thoughts of God are formidably blocked in their flow.

"So I would speak to all who desire to serve Our Light. Lean not upon thine own understanding, and the furrows of Ego intelligence, but hold these aside and behold the glory of God that arises within thee, because greater works shall ye do Because I am with the Father, and I am with thee. Know that out from thee and thy creative center shall flow rivers of living waters.

I Am Esu, known as Jesus the Christ.

This is the Second Part (conclusion) of an unpublished "Letter to a Friend" written by ANNALEE SKARIN just previous to her Translation in 1952. "Reason", whom she mentions, was her husband, and he too translated. She mentions her "Work" of bringing forth a book as God directed her.

PERSONAL GLIMPSES

I know exactly how you feel about meeting with those who have no understanding of this great light and whose lives are empty and meaningless. One of the great teachers taught, "One cannot reach the heights if he carries an excess burden of many acquaintances." These who do not see and understand must be left behind since it is impossible to take them with us at the present time. But always there is the prayer in my heart that we might later go back and gather them up - at least those who desire to come with us.

For many years I have separated myself from those who do not speak my language. Reason, bless his heart, did not understand that at first. He wanted me to mix with his friends, to visit much and often with his folks. It was an utter waste of time. Before too long he began to understand. The only meeting ground at that time was for me to step down to their frivolous level of thinking for if I had tried for even one moment to lift them to mine, they would have resented it terribly. So our visits were rare, short and filled with love. Now they are beginning to come to us and ask what it is we have that they haven't got. We finally gave them copies of these books and they have not only studied them, but have passed them out to their friends. Lately there have been so many outsiders who have come to us to teach them.

Yes, I am afriad that those who step out into this Light are resented by all who cannot see it. We cannot possibly take those with us who will not come. And though I stood alone to give my life, with my whole family bowing their heads in my shame, as they would consider it, yet I would have to go on. And who knows but by our going, we may be able to take them all with us before it is finished.

Before long these great truths will fully come to light. I have been studying about them since I was a child. When in high school I used to refuse to go on dates and picnics so I could stay home and curl up on my bed and study the ancient records of the Old Testament - the genealogies - the time schedules - the movements of people and the background of the world. I have stood before it in awed breathlessness - and have always felt that someday the full knowledge would be revealed.

What a glorious world we live upon. How marvelous it is. And what a great privilege it is to be able to belong to it. I've always rejoiced that I was permitted to come to Earth instead of some other planet.

You tell me how one of your loved ones warned you against this work and I find myself smiling softly. Not too long before my mother died she gave me a terrifying warning. She had never been a coward in her life, never ran from issues and was one of the most courageous women I have ever known; therefore, her advice was even doubly startling, for she said, "Annalee, don't do one thing more for righteousness than you have to, nor do any more in the church than necessary to keep in good standing, for if you do more, all the powers of Hades will rise up to destroy and fight you!" My mouth just dropped open and I stood looking at her utterly speechless. And I thought, "What a funny thing to tell me. I was put here to fight darkness and those forces of Hades. I was never meant to be a pacifist. I must give my life, if necessary, to help overcome those very forces." I never expressed my thought aloud. But now I know how very right she was - and yet how right I was.

I was run over by a load of hay in childhood and it was almost impossible for me to carry a child. I lost two at birth and then managed to have two by ceasearian operation. My youngest daughter came to me just as you saw these two boys. She spent a day with me before she was conceived, asking me to receive her. She is the one who had such a difficult time to live, and is so perfect now that she has had two children almost without pain. She is truly a miracle and a wonder. I wrote to her recently and thanked her for coming to me. Her letter came back a couple of days ago saying, "Mother, you thanked me for coming to you, and all I could do was think, "I wonder what I ever did in heaven that God gave the greatest privilege to me of choosing you to be my mother." She is such a wonderful girl.

I loved the Gospel always more than any of the others (in my father's family) but the Gospel means to me the ability to follow the Lord in all things, even to the giving of my life. When I found that these great Truths were not accepted by those in authority, I could scarcely believe it. But as you, I knew that I had to hold to truth, to follow Light though I paid with my life, and though I stood alone against the whole world - and for a long while Reason and I seemed to be standing alone. I used to go to the Temple in Logan, and after the lights were cut, kneel upon the snow and plead to God for the strength and courage to go on. I would pray for hours while my tears would freeze into little icicles. I wasn't sure but what I would be cut off from the Church - the Church that I had spent every ounce of energy in my life to help build up: years of teaching, seven years of missionary work, for I had made forty converts to the Gospel of Jesus Christ. But before that winter was over I could have enjoyed being burned at the stake, being stoned to death would have been a privilege, marching to the gallows a highway of divine glory - such was the strength that came. Even if my soul was required to pay the price of Truth, complete Truth, then I would pay that price.

Now about genealogy - how shall I answer that? I think it is quite possible to have those from the other side come and visit us, but often in so doing, we are interrupting their work. I think it would be best to follow the admonition of Christ when He said, "If you desire anything ask the Father in MY NAME and He will give it to you." If you ask the Father in the NAME of His Beloved Son to open the way for you to get your genealogy, it will be given to you in His way. That will be much more satisfactory. I prayed ten years for mine and with endless searching and prayers I was almost convinced that He did not hear my prayers. Then I was set apart for junior genealogy work to help get it started in Los Angeles, and in the whole church. I was told in the blessing the things I had been praying for that the the Lord always heard my prayers. I was promised that the way would be opened for my records to be given to me. A great grandmother, a woman whom I had never even heard of came to me in the Los Angeles Library. From that contact I was able to gather five thousand names. Her name was Constance Heuser from Switzerland. I wrote to my mother and asked her if she had ever heard of father speak of a Constance Heuser while he was alive. My mother wrote back a letter drenched with tears. "Yes" she said, "Constance Heuser was your father's grandmother. She came to me over forty years ago with a great multitude of people and begged me to do something for them. She was a vivid little blackeyed woman with the sweetest face. Imagine how I felt. It was the same person who came to me. I learned to read those German records in the Los Angeles library so that they were like English to me within five lessons. There is so much more to this story than I have time or room to write, but let God do it His way. Another time I had a book placed in my hands and worked with it a whole day in the Los Angeles Library. I got nine complete generations back through it. Later when I wanted to recheck, I was told that they never had had that book in the Los Angeles Library - that they had tried to get it but it was no longer in print. I had held that book in my hands. I worked with it for a whole day, and and wonder of wonders, I wrote down every reference it quoted.

Yesterday you were on my mind all day. It was as though you were calling for me. I wanted to write but there was not time. So the first thing this morning I am contacting you. The only joy in warmth and happiness is being able to share it with those we love. The joy of this work is so much more real to us than the ground upon which we stand, or the things that mortals are conscious of, that language rather fails us in trying to share it unless those receiving can open wide their hearts, and minds, and souls and let this light pour in.

Do you see how utterly impossible it would be to have all this great light and have no one with whom to share it - no one to travel this divine Highway of Light with? Just knowing you understand and are living by these higher laws is the greatest reward I could possibly ask. Your happiness is my happiness. Your joy is my joy. Your blessings are my blessings.

Hasn't the Lord been good to us? I feel as though I were talking in utter glory, almost with breath utterly suspended, so brilliant has the Light become, and so glorious. Yes, this great Light is the Light that will make us free or the great Truth. And it is only in this way and by developing this Light that it is possible to KNOW God and Jesus Christ whom He has sent - and truly THIS IS LIFE.

Remember, sometime ago I was told that when we could hold ourselves in this Light for seven days this work would be completed as far as we are concerned. This practise of sending out this Light is the greatest preparation possible. We have struggled to become conscious of that Light within. We have sought to fill our beings with it now, that it might be brought forth fully we must begin to send it forth. This is the most important thing I have ever written upon this subject. This is not in the book. This is your step now, and it is to prepare for that which is to come. It will wipe out prejudice, bitterness, opposition. It will destroy confusion and discord. It is the power of the Almighty beginning to swing into action as you send it forth.

Now, dearest one, how can I share with you these things that were too sacred to be written? The road of life has become such an absolute glory of living. Every breath is a divine privilege - and every thought is a power. It seems that I am so filled with joy and gladness and praise and thanksgiving that there is no room for anything else in this letter written right out of my soul, filled with love and tenderness for you and yours.

I love you. I love those you love, and my prayers are with you constantly. Know fully that your names were written long ago to receive this fulness of Light; that on the slips of paper contained in the drinking glass shown, your names were waiting. Just know, and reach continually into the Light with a song of confidence. May this fulfill the promise made to you that winter, that it would become easy. It is all so simple in its dynamic, breathtaking magnitude of eternal glory.

My loved ones are being given the privilege of accepting or rejecting this work in fulfillment of the promise of the Lord, that my leaving and marrying Reason would prove to be for His glory and a blessing to all concerned, and those who were concerned were those I loved and those who had loved me.

Oh, if we had only known then what we know now. Then I realized that looking back is not the right thing. So in looking ahead I reach out my arms filled with joy and sunlight and say, "Let me share these things with you, and come and walk with me forevr in light. There is nothing else like it in all existence."

WORK FOR BALANCE

Unillumined man is sorely plagued by troubles, fears and suffering, most of which seems to be caused by something beyond his control. He still thinks his security, health, peace of mind, supply and happiness must come to him from "without" yet he constantly finds this fickle source of his good failing to provide his needs.

Because the very composition of his Divine Nature is a trinity of Power, Wisdom and Love, he instinctively senses the presence of these elements in everything he longs to experience and possess. Even so, he doesn't consciously realize that he alone creates his world, nor does he see that every visible thing and condition therein is nothing but an active IDEA pattern projected into form, or each of these manifestations reflects his 3 main Spiritual qualities - Power being mirrored as ACTION, Wisdom as IDEAS and Love as the Substance of FORM.

Of course, the Master has perfected these attributes of his Divine Self, therefore he automatically precipitates them into his outer existence as all the health, harmony and abundance he desires to express. Meanwhile most people, being more or less one-sided in their Spiritual unfoldment, choose one of three different ways, that all psychologists recognize, to overcome their anxietiesm depending, of course, on whether they feel a stronger need to manifest Power, Wisdom or Love.

If it is Power the soul seems to lack, he (or she) will strive for that. If it is Wisdom, he (or she) searches for knowledge, and if it's Love, he (or she) seeks to experience a loving relationship with someone else. Unfortunately, instead of concentrating on expressing all three of their Life Qualities, they zero in on one, and therefore tend to remain one-sided in their development. You've all heard of the genius, whose emotional age is "three". He throws tantrums and behaves like a child when crossed. The dominating wife may be stupid and the clinging-vine type, often fails to assert herself at all. Each of these must work for balance if they would mature as well-rounded individuals capable of entering Christhood.

Those on the "Power Trip" may become little "hitlers", driven by anxiety to dominate everyone in sight. Such people range in scope from the Dictator of a nation to the lady who's determined to run her grown-up children's lives. Even the youngster in the schoolyard may try to boost his "self esteem" and sense of helplessness by bullying smaller children. The psychologist is familiar with the person who seeks Power in "social status". He's the snob, or the struggling suburbanite who is determined to "keep up with the Jones." These people get a feeling of superior strength by joining some "exclusive group" or "secret organization". They look down their noses at those who can not afford the country club and drive around in their long sleek cars, afraid to associate with their fellow man lest his helpfulness and inability to avoid misfortune, rub off on them in some terrifying way.

Little do they realize that the surest mark of those who feel secure in their own Spiritual Strength is INCLUSIVENESS! - a desire for brotherhood and a sense of being one with all. The soul who seeks knowledge or Wisdom, that he may overcome his anxieties, is far less dangerous than the Power-bent individual. He becomes the scientist - the avid reader - the student. Yet with intellectual information alone, he may grow bigotted - also a snob if he prides himself on his developed mind, and compares his "superior" education with that of the man who may work with his hands, and whose talents lie there instead.

Many look down on those whose backgrounds of learning are different from theirs - those whose schools may be less expensive or whose knowledge is less accepted by present day "authorities". You've all met the well informed "pillar of the church" who thinks those who worship in other ways aren't "saved" or calls them "heathen". Without the love side of their natures fully activated, these people, too, are unbalanced in their unfoldment toward Christhood. Perfect Love casteth out fear because it usually leads to Power and knowledge with an open mind, thus rounding out the three Divine attributes in the living soul.

Everyone must balance the Trinity of Life within themselves before they can successfully overcome the anxieties and problems of the world as a Master does. BALANCE MAKES FOR CHRISTEDNESS, of course, there are many who develop the Love side of their natures and neglect to bring forth Power and Wisdom to match. They may want to share their troubles in friendship and succeed in making happy contacts with those around them, or they may wonder why they're so unpopular, instead. Such a person may fear intimate relationships and while he (or she) longs to make a happy marriage his fears and possessiveness may surface as jealousy and being "hard to get along with".

These souls think Love is something to GET - to suck in to themselves - instead of something you radiate and give away, or they may give too freely, without intelligent consideration of the fact that "they're casting their pearls before swine". The one who seeks love and approval often turns into the "social butterfly", the person who can't do anything alone - the person who feels helpless, worried and abandoned if he doesn't have a crowd around him all the time.

Personal wealth may make a member of the jet set, wasting his days going to parties and other shallow amusements. He finds himself preoccupied with being seen in the "right places" and choosing the "right friends". He too may look down his nose on others lest he lose his "social standing", or drown his anxieties in "fashionable" drinks lest he actually begin to suspect who and what he really is. He finds the supportiveness he requires in organizations that cater to the wealthy and the "so-called well born". Even the schoolyard clique serves to strengthen its members and ease the fears that they have of being "apart from the crowd". All these things are spiritually "childish" behavior. The CHRISTED are always INCLUSIVE. They see the God Nature in all and seek only the Power to create Perfection in their worlds. They gladly heal and help those in need without desire for reward or a sense of being "holier than thou". They neither wish to dominate their free-willed fellows nor do they exhibit intellectual pride.

Balance is their watchword. Therefore, Power, Wisdom and Love in perfect balance within each Christed Being reflects back to them as health, harmony, success and prosperity in all that they do.

So be it! I am Lady Vancia. God Bless you each and every one.

Have you remembered the City of the Sun in your will?

THE NEW DAY.

Everyone should know and realize the New Day has arrived, and with it much love and understanding is being radiated from our innermost being. We have all read, studied and talked about this New Day message long enough, and the changes that are taking place.

Today is the day, and now is the time, to put these revelations into action. No longer can we put our Light under a bushel, but we must let it shine forth that others who are searching and hungry may be drawn into this light and truth. Did not Jesus say, "Cast your bread upon the waters, and you shall find it after many days."

First we sow, then we reap,
Then we give and cannot keep.
This light we share
With those who care,
For when we give, we are sure to receive;
Nevermore to be deceived.

At City of the Sun — Clie Mae Hale

GOD WITHIN YOU.

Are you disturbed by things of the world,
Are you moved by acts of men,
Are you overwhelmed by worry,
And cares and frets no end?

Does the world seem to conspire against you
Because your problem is not solved,
Are you missing all the joy
Of laughing with the crowd?

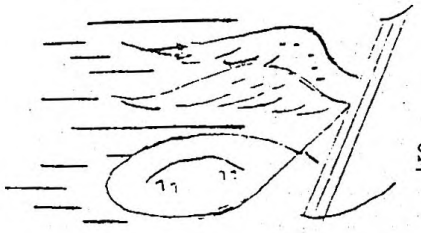

Do you see life a constant change
And have no staff or rod,
Have you looked toward heaven
To see if you have God?

Now look in the depths of your being,
And find God's presence there.
He is stable and unchangeable
No other helper can compare.

You now have God within you
Go forth in His power and grace
No longer disturbed by things of the world
You'll find your trail and place.

Your rugged path will be straighter
You'll find your staff and rod.
Don't fix your thought on things
But stay your thoughts on God.

SHTAR COMMAND COMMUNIQUE

Greetings Children of the Light:

The world now stands upon the threshold of one of the most important years in its history. The crucial alignment in the heavens that begins its peak within this coming year, will bring to the planet many upsetting results. The winter that follows this one shall be one of the most severe you have ever experienced. It will be the work of the Space Alliance to concentrate upon assisting the planet in every possible way in its adjustment to the magnetic pull of the array of heavenly bodies as they arrange themselves in the heavens.

Many prophets will speak of these things as the year progresses, until there will scarcely be a thinking person who is not aware of the potential effects upon the planet. We, the volunteers of the Space Commands, are orderly and specific in the duties that are our responsibility. We come and go under strict assignment on definite missions to designated areas. Every square mile of inhabited and uninhabited land is covered and patrolled and reported upon constantly through our reconnaissance of the earth. You are being watched over and cared for, and this fact is one which we desire to stress at this time.

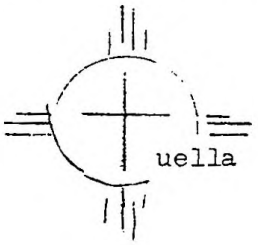

The meteor showers of the fall of this year (1981) will be much heavier than usual and the weather patterns will become totally erratic, unpredictable and inconsistent with that which has been considered the normal. In the meantime, for the balance of the present winter, we again stress the need to be prepared for lower temperatures than normal, heavier precipitation, and a spring that will be very slow to appear. Weather patterns for the coming spring will create difficulties in your plans for growing your food. The reluctant passing of cold weather will be followed quickly with a burning hot summer.

With these things in mind, anticipate that your agricultural pursuits will require much skill and patience. Many of your indigent citizens will suffer great hardship in the years before you because of the loss of produce and the extremes of weather. Be prepared to care for them in the great heat of summer, and possible shortages of fresh vegetables in the markets. Prepare your households with extra stores of prepared foods to offset the agricultural difficulties that could produce severe conditions.

We stand ready to assist with all the help we can give to those who call upon us.

A Friend and Brother - ASHTAR.

(December 1980 Release)

TO ONE WHO IS WEARY.

My child, thou who feelest that thy duty pressures art more than thou canst bear, let me tell thee how, even in activity, thou canst rest. It is the sense of hurry and of worry that weareth thee out, not the activity. It is one's mental attitude toward that which one is doing, toward that which yet awaits the doing, that causes nerve weariness and eventually nerve exhaustion. Do not permit emergencies of any nature whatsoever to pile up. With inner quiet and calm meet each one and then dismiss it to face another with equal equanamity.

Since thou mayest now be over-wearied, it is well that thou shouldst withdraw for awhile and just rest, but when thou dost again rebegin activities, do ye also rest by relying upon God's directing Presence to help thee carry thy load.

Trust. The word trust, the act of trusting in itself brings rest. He who trusts God's directing presence endeavors not forcibly to manage his own affairs by himself alone. My child, if in all sincerity thou wilt ask of thy God whatever is thy guidance - need, and then if, believing, trusting thou wilt inner-listen, of a surety that guidance will come unto thee and with it will come the strength to carry out God's directive, hard though it may be. I would not tell thee were it not so.

During thy rest period do ye let go of thine anxieties as quietly as the word 'trust' implies. Do not permit vagrant thoughts to garner aught of a disturbing nature. Each time thou art assailed by a worry-thought, repeat aloud if thou art alone, "In God do I trust. His way shall be my way. I trust His care. I trust His guidance. I trust His Love." Then, if in all sincerity thou hast spoken thou shalt find upon thy return to thy task that thy way hath been re-directed and that thou art at peace.

Thereafter I would advise thee to re-examine those things toward which thou dost feel a sense of duty. If it is God-required of thee, then it is thy duty, but if it is only man-required of thee, it is not necessarily so. Know ye not that far too often man's requirements of thee - even when not so recognized by himself - art in reality requirements for his own good. In the last analysis, it is through thee, thyself, that God doeth His perfect work, and that perfect work is not always as man plans.

Be ye wise in discernment even as ye art ever loyal in devotion. Let others carry the burdens which they are meant to carry. So doing, both they and thou wilt be benefited thereby.

Our child, our children, do ye that which bringeth thee nearest to thy God and therein rest.

Thine in Christ,
Selah

"In these times of pressures and tensions, all men become burdened. Peace can only be found with ones mind and heart placed IN HIS CARE. The outer turmoils that come, come upon all. Only those who hold fast to CHRIST WITHIN, trusting in RIGHT ACTION, calling for LIGHT to guide them in ALL situations, will be at PEACE within the turmoil."

AT THE CITY OF THE SUN:

On Saturday, November 8th, Rev. Robert Short was at the City of the Sun for his lecture on U.F.O. phenomena. The interesting presentation lasted a full three hours, and we were pleased to see so many friends from Deming in attendance, as well as visitors from El Paso. Rev. Short is the founder of the Blue Rose Ministry based at Joshua Tree, California. Refreshments were served following the lecture.

On Sunday, Nov. 9th, Ron Sease of Deming conducted our service, also speaking on the subject of space craft in the skies. The service was highlighted by a musical program greatly appreciated here, with Ron and Thelma in instrumental and vocal duets as well as Ron's solos with his guitar. We are always grateful for all those who come to share their blessings with us at the City of the Sun.

Austin and Ruth Love took an AmTrack Train to Los Angeles on the 23rd of October to attend the World Wide Eckankar seminar. There were around 7,000 in attendance for the 3 days. Afterwards they visited Austin's daughter, 4 grandchildren, and 9 great grandchildren. It was a real family reunion with Austin's sister and husband from Arizona and another sister from Texas also present. It seemed like old times riding on the train again.

Around 24 people attended our pot luck Thanksgiving dinner at the community center. Besides most of the regular residents, were several visitors from the area. After enjoying the wonderful food there was beautiful music furnished by Thelma Terrell on the organ and Ron Sease on the guitar.

It has been nice to have Fern Henley and three year old Allison here for a good number of weeks. With certain work completed John Henley was able to come and join his family just before Christmas.

Ruth and Marcus Rogers were here several weeks while they were trying to get work and settled in this area.

Connie Arnot has been appointed the new librarian. She has been re-arranging some of the books making room for many new volumes which we have received. Our library is always a popular place with the residents, as well as many visitors.

Olie Mae Hale just returned from a trip. First she visited her sister, Mrs. U.U. Voinche and family in Louisiania where they had a Thanksgiving reunion dinner with many relatives and friends gathering in the old family southern home. The day after Olie and her daughter DeJuana Jones (who had come for the occasion from Alexandria, Virginia) drove to Monroe, La. to visit her 96 yr. old sister-in-law and a niece and husband in her spacious old home on the banks of a bayou. The trip was continued to Virginia thru much fabulous scenery. Wonderful weather for rounds of Christmas shopping before returning home.

Christmas has been a busy social time for our little community. Many different affairs have been enjoyed by some of the members. Two days before Christmas Olie Mae Hale had a social evening. Faun Homman hostessed a lovely Christmas dinner for a number of residents. William and Mary Jane Swihler were proud to have a partial family reunion with a son and family coming from Georgia and a granddaughter and family driving from California. (8 in all.) It was the first time the great grandchildren had been seen.

Thelma Terrell was a guest of the Albuquerque New Age groups, and represented the City of the Sun on the occasion of their Christmas Progressive dinner on Dec.20. At the Golden Key Center she spoke of the book "World Messages" and autographed copies.

In six weeks the circulation of the book (page 2) has exceeded all expectations. The first edition of 1,000 copies is nearly sold out, and the second edition is in process. Release of ads this month in several large national publications will spread this Light of our Beloved Space Friends. The first thrust was given to the Golden Dawn readers who have responded phenominally.

An entire El Paso "Solar Cross" group under the leadership of Rev. Joan Kozak filled three cars to visit with us on Dec. 28th. Their group has been in contact with the same group of Space Commanders who participated in Rev. Terrell's (Tuella) book. The fellowship in the Light with all of these dear people was precious all afternoon, and closed with an energy circle before their departure.

We all were happy for the return of May Hastings from the Deming Hospital. It was nice to have her back with us.

A David H. Whitfield stopped by for information. Several California people have visited Rev. Wayne Taylor and the Foundation.

There has been gorgeous weather during December. All records broken!
