HOW TO USE THE INDEX

The subject matter is indexed and cross-indexed in the two principal indexes, the General Index and the Authors Index, under year of issue and the page number. Articles listed in the Departmental Indexes on pages 117, 119, 120, and 121 are also to be found in the General Index.

General Index

EXAMPLE: Suppose we want to find an article entitled "Mystic Illumination," but we do not remember the author. We turn to the General Index and in the section "M" we find:

Mystic Illumination	HSL	28-326; 40-67

This indicates that in the year of 1928 and on page 326 or in the year of 1940 and on page 67, the above article by HSL (H. Spencer Lewis) may be found. Also under "I" in the same index find the same information:

Illumination, Mystic	HSL	28-326; 40-67

Authors Index

If the author is known but the exact title of the article is unknown, it may be conveniently looked up in the Authors Index under the particular author the article was written by.

Index of Illustrations

This is a convenient index for finding illustrations in the magazines. The captions are indexed by month and year.
