Israel's supremacy is sure, universal in scope and power under Christ the King. It is to be a peaceful Kingdom, disarmed, and making no longer any preparation for war. Its prosperity is clearly indicated, every man walking in the Name of Jehovah. The tribes are to be re-gathered therein; the House of David shall possess the throne; and, while other nations will strive to prevent the Kingdom from being established, God will make Israel strong and victorious.

From this point, Micah takes us on to see the power and usefulness of the Israel Kingdom among the nations of the world; for we are not to be established for our own sakes, but for Service, for Sacrifice, and for the Will of God under the leadership of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.

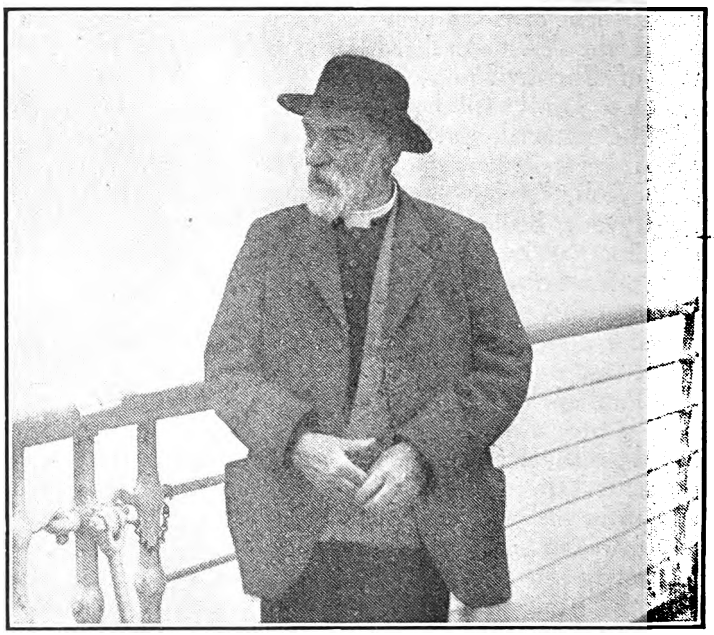
Dr. Goard follows, to show us what was the attitude of Jesus Christ to the Kingdom. "British-Israel Truth is not separated from the Gospel. We ought to talk about Truth, not about some part of it only. Truth has both material and spiritual aspects."

Jesus Christ came declaring, "The time is fulfilled." Here is a chronological statement; He puts His finger upon the calendar, in the midst of the Seventieth week of Daniel, when Messiah shall be cut off. The Gospel of the Kingdom was the great theme which Jesus came preaching, and which He sent His disciples out to preach.

Twelve were the men he chose and trained in an intensive Divinity course; for they were destined, so Christ says, to sit upon twelve thrones, judging the Twelve Tribes of Israel. There was to be no Foreign Missionary activity at that time: "Go not into the way of the Gentiles . . . but go rather to the Lost Sheep of the House of Israel." It was a Gospel strictly racial and national.

In answer to their enquiries as to the time of the end and the sign of His Coming, our Lord directed His disciples' attention immediately to the destruction of the Temple, the Fall of Jerusalem, and added the very last sign that should be before the End of the Age. "This Gospel of the Kingdom must first be preached to all the world . . . and then shall the end come." "This," says the Doctor, "you are now seeing in process of being carried out."

Thus all our Lord's teaching is closely connected with the Israel race, the city of Jerusalem, and the Restoration of the Kingdom in the last days; a material basis of the Kingdom of God is clearly prominent in the New Testament.



The great test question on which the disciples were to "graduate out of the Divinity School of Jesus" was "Whom say ye that I am?" That the replies all refer to those who are dead and gone—Elijah, Jeremiah, One of the Prophets—show that the people did not class Jesus as an ordinary man. Peter gives Him His rightful place, "the Christ, the Son of the Living God." Then, and not before, did Jesus begin to tell them of His atoning death and Resurrection; which Peter could not accept, but which was essentially a part of God's purpose. First the Kingdom teaching; then the Gospel of Salvation through the Cross; this was the order then, and it is the same to-day.

One of the excellent things we have had has been the institution of a gathering for enquirers, led by Mr. Morey. He has the Small Conference Hall nearly full at 5.30, and the questions are coming thick and fast. Mercifully, Mr. Morey is more than able to deal with the problems which perplex new-comers to this Truth, and his genial manner adds greatly to the force of his replies. Enquiries run along the lines of the confusion between Israel and Judah, the continuity of the House and Throne of David, and the ethnological question of the origin of the Saxon peoples; as well as in many other directions.

This is a great opportunity for overcoming prejudices and correcting the errors of false teaching, and Mr. Morey smilingly carries us through to the end, calling in from time to time such additional information as he feels others can deal with more fully than he. He is, indeed, a past-master in teaching the elements of the Truth, and we all enjoy sharing in the process of education and enlightenment.

And now, as the hour approaches 7.30, the hall is rapidly filling for Mr. Garrison's Annual Lecture. Those who are in the know are a trifle anxious as to how he will stand the strain, for he has been exceedingly overburdened for months past; but he comes on to the platform youthful as ever, a constant surprise to us all. The affection with which his audience regards him is well manifested in the applause which again and again he receives before the lecture commences.

We share Mr. Garrison's evident delight at the presence of Chancellor Du Bois to preside, "an eminent American citizen" to introduce our own eminent lecturer. The Chancellor is particularly happy as he describes for us the wonders and the life of his own native town and home, Chicago. "Those who are born in the State of Illinois are born in rich soil and drink the richest milk; they become tall and strong." In the Chancellor's case, this last statement must be, as many people wish other things to be, "taken spiritually." We do "take it spiritually" in his case, for our Chairman to-night is, in all things pertaining to the Spirit, a man "tall and strong."

Among the innumerable things in which Chicago is the centre and where she takes the lead, in aviation, for instance, and railroads, in commerce and medicine, in her parks and buildings and religious life, the Chancellor frankly admits that Chicago is the greatest "Devil's gang" centre in the United States. "The gang controls the Press; it possesses $600,000 a week for its pernicious propaganda; but the good people of Chicago have $6,000,000 to fight the Devil and his gang. Judge Swainson, Chief Attorney of the city, has the gang on the run. By the time the World's Fair takes place in 1933, the Devil and his gang will be shot out of Chicago."

Our Chairman also tells us, to our great comfort and enthusiastic applause, that there are 1,000 preachers of God's Word daily at work in the city, and that from 5 a.m. to 11 p.m. on Sundays the Gospel is preached to 25 million people from ten of the largest radio stations in the States. "From that centre of broadcast it will be my delight when I return to tell the good folk over the wireless of the good work you are doing in the Federation over here, and to preach to them the Gospel of the Kingdom."

The cheers with which we close the Chancellor's speech are increased again and again as Mr. Garrison takes the floor. Before commencing his lecture proper he asks us to welcome to the gathering a number of that noble band who saved civilization in the Great War. In the gallery a considerable company of the "Old Contemptibles" take the lecturer's salute, which we all emphasize by rising to our feet in their recognition.

Now we are embarked on a veritable feast of colour and of oratory, from the Pilgrim Fathers to the amazing wonders of the Grand Canons of Colorado and Arizona. Mr. Garrison is enthralled by his subject, and he enthrals us also. He exhausts the vocabulary in his efforts to describe the wonderful things he has seen and is now showing us. His flights of oratory and imagination again and again bring rounds of applause, as do many of the superb pictures which he has selected to make us know the beauties of this "material, magical, modern miracle of the work and power of God." We are astounded, as he concludes, to find that he has been holding us spell-bound for two hours; "a miracle describing a miracle."

That the union and co-operation of Britain and the United States is the crowning passion of his life is well illustrated as the lecturer leads the Chairman forward to receive our ovation at the close. Side by side these two mighty, small, giants, arms entwined, smile back at the cheering audience, striking in our hearts who knows what chords of sympathy and love. As Mr. Garrison boyishly tells us in farewell, "We are neither of us very big, but we have big hearts."

It has been a great effort, greatly achieved, and at a great cost; but we know that it has been worth it all; and we think he knows it, too.

WEEK BY WEEK.

Herr Dibelius concludes his review of English Piety with a scorching criticism of Puritanism. His gentle opening phrases only throw into contrast his culminating anathematizations.

"Puritanism dominates the English soul," he writes. But "whether Puritanism has been a blessing or a curse to English culture it is not easy to say. Certainly it has lent the Britons a religious force of incomparable intensity which is not the possession of a few religiously gifted spirits, but practically of

An Entire Nation.

"When ten thousand clergymen found a new Church for conscience sake, going out with wife and child into an uncertain future, as the Scottish Free Churchmen did at the time of the Disruption under Thomas Chalmers in 1843; and thousands of clergymen and laymen did before them; and, within a couple of generations, build a new Church in every respect equal to the old, the world bows in admiration before so grand an act of religious idealism, however incomprehensible it may find the basis of such martyrdom.

"Puritanism has enriched the British people with a lofty conception of uprightness and decency in questions of mine and thine, a highly-developed sexual morality, and a deep religiousness that victoriously survives all its Pharisaism."

So far so good. But now the Professor lets loose the banked-up fires of critical disfavour:—"With equal force could one call Puritanism the bane of English culture. Except where it broke against stronger forces, it has clothed English life in a universal matter-of-factness and joylessness which insists on looking at every issue, no matter how remote, from some religious or ethical angle: presents the same blank face to scientific problems and artistic ideas: and is in constant danger of withering up into a dreary worship of Mammon, under the most superficial of ethical overlays.

"And Puritanism again and again fosters an Aggressive Mission

To Other Nations,

reconciling as it does a total want of understanding of every civilization but its own with a harsh spirit of domination, upon which the Puritan then hastens to set the stamp of 'the will of God.'

"Finally, and most important—Puritanism is the parent of English cant. It is a somewhat complex phenomenon, a mixture of presumptuousness and ignorance which declines all correction and an incapacity to understand or accept any thing new and foreign. . . . But whereas religious forces everywhere else in the world are engaged in fighting this perversion, Puritanism sanctifies it, with its doctrine of

The Chosen People.

"Moreover, a mantle of Christian love is thus cast over every national failing. The Puritan knows that even a sinner may belong to the chosen of God. Inevitable that crude materialism and theological casuistry should pervert this profound doctrine to mean that whatever a saint of God may do, can be no sin, however evil it may look. The English Philistine subconsciously translates this into a dogma of English Puritan infallibility, which has believers more impassioned than the Papal.

"Puritan literature is full of the question how a man is to know whether he has the grace of God and is among the elect predestined by Him to eternal bliss, despite their sins. There is no safe mark of election, but a strong presumption of it is created by the visible blessings of God of a man's earthly doings. Popular ethics further vulgarizing this dubious interpretation, identifies the blessing of God with worldly advancement, and makes a saint of a smart salesman."

Thank you, Professor. But it is time we called a halt. We have become breathless in following your agile argument. We are dazed by the impact of your verbal thunderbolts.

There always exists the danger that high ideals will be vulgarized by dubious interpretations. This danger can only be avoided or neutralized by vigorous counter-propaganda.

But whilst it is possible for crude materialism and theological casuistry to pervert profound doctrine in the manner described, we are sure that Dibelius is mistaken in imagining that such a perversion has taken place on any considerable scale.

Digitized by Google

Needless to say there is nothing in the Scriptures to justify such degradation of interpretation. And the BRITISH-ISRAEL MOVEMENT provides the strongest counteracting influence in its evangelical call to national service through conversion and consecration.

Whilst we cannot agree that the position has ever become quite so bad as Professor Dibelius suggests, we appreciate the value of his testimony. It embodies a serious warning. And it is always useful to have the outlook of others regarding the weak and strong points in one's spiritual armour.

Dibelius is generous enough to admit that where such a depraved tendency has manifested itself it has always been attacked by the best minds in the English nation. Thus he continues :—" Of course the position is never stated in anything like this crude fashion : on the contrary, it has been passionately attacked by every genuine English teacher, for instance, CARLYLE, DICKENS, and RUSKIN.

" But the very fury of their onslaught shows how deeply the has eaten into the English—and even more, American—soul, as a dangerous by-product of PURITANISM.

" In the sphere of foreign policy, an Imperialism, devoid of any sort of ethical or cultural fig-leaf, is, by it, provided with a cloak, which, to the Continental, remote from the naivetes of Puritan materialism, is nothing but a repulsive piece of hypocrisy."

Dibelius complains that even when English political literature does honourably repudiate national excesses, it does not " alter by one iota the deeply-rooted assumption of the faithful Puritan that the ENGLISH PEOPLE, despite certain smirches on its escutcheon, is, after all,

CHOSEN OF GOD,

and designed by Him for lordship.

" Once the fight is won, historians may display a gentlemanly frankness in calling things by their right names ; a broken people may even be fitted out with the halo of martyrdom. That does not alter the facts, and the victorious nation remains the chosen people of the Lord."

And why not ? Does a servant cease to be a servant when he makes mistakes ? Does Dibelius expect the chosen people to manifest the qualities of archangels and saints ?

We must wait for the millennium for the endowment of millennial characteristics. Meanwhile, as sons of men, we betray all the natural weaknesses inseparable from our limited condition. And for the time being ISRAEL remains " the victorious nation of the LORD "— for JEHOVAH.

It is a curious fact that none of our critics seem to have the slightest objection to the Jews claiming (and being called) the chosen people. But they go into paroxysms of rage at the mere thought of BRITAIN playing that distinguished rôle.

The solution seems to lie in the fact that the Jews, nationally, are without power, whilst Britain's power is at its apogee.

* Deut. xxxiii, 29. Ferrar Fenton.

As the Jews in their Yom Kippur celebrations (held throughout the world each October) chant in lamentation :—

PEOPLE : We sit alone and weep.
RABBI : Because of our greatness which is departed.
PEOPLE : We sit alone and weep.
RABBI : We beseech Thee to have mercy on Zion.
PEOPLE : And gather together the children of Jerusalem.

Whilst the children of JERUSALEM (Jews) weep for their greatness which has departed, the children of ISRAEL-BRITAIN rejoice in the national greatness which is theirs as a result of national redemption.†

Lack of power calls forth pity. Power calls forth jealousy. But BRITAIN is doing no wrong in rejoicing in her power. The words, " In the day of prosperity, be joyful," are complementary to the injunction, " Rejoice, young man, in thy youth."

Britain's power and strength is from the LORD. Her youth and strength are renewed like the eagle's. But her power is not given her for self-aggrandizement. Power is given that she may be a servant to all other nations—a blessing to all the families of the earth.‡

The jealousy of other nations will vanish like morning mist before the rising sun-beams in the day that they themselves come within the political ambit of the KINGDOM in which the greatest nation will be the nation which has learnt to become the servant of all.

As for the future of true religion, we are in complete agreement with Professor Dibelius when he writes :—" There is more in Christianity than can be embraced by the prevailing type in one nation ; there is more than can be found even by a fusion of the best in both. Who has been brought up in one of these types will more easily see the depth that is there, but will never forget that in matters of religion, all depth is only shallowness compared with what should be."

NOTES ON THE IMPERIAL CONFERENCE

BY A. R. H.

I.

THE opening meeting of the 1930 IMPERIAL CONFERENCE was held in the Reception Room of the FOREIGN OFFICE at 10 a.m. on October 2nd.

Many of the speeches contain passages of significance from a BRITISH-ISRAEL viewpoint, the first official act being the drafting of the following message of loyalty to the KING and QUEEN :—

" The Prime Ministers and other representatives of the Governments of the BRITISH COMMONWEALTH assembled in conference, at their first meeting and as their first official act, desire to present their respectful duty to the KING. They join in thankfulness for Your MAJESTY'S restoration to health, and earnestly hope that Your MAJESTY and Her MAJESTY the Queen may be spared for many years to inspire the feelings of love and affection which

of the British Commonwealth under the Crown."

To this message, His Majesty addressed the following gracious reply :—" Please convey to the Prime Ministers and other representatives of the Governments of the British Commonwealth the sincere thanks of the Queen and myself for their message of loyalty and affection which they have addressed to us as the first official act of the Imperial Conference. I am especially touched by its kind allusions to my restoration to health. Realizing the all-important questions which will be considered, I shall follow with close attention the progress of your deliberations."

" (Signed) George R.I."

Note the important change in official title and vocabulary. We no longer talk about the British Empire. The Empire has become a Commonwealth. Thus official vocabulary brings us a step nearer to the Bible-conception of the Kingdom.

The Rt. Hon. Ramsay Macdonald, Prime Minister of the United Kingdom, after welcoming the Overseas delegates, suggested that the matter of primary importance on the agenda was the discussion regarding the transformation and change which has taken place in the Constitution of the Empire since the last Imperial Conference. " It is now our task," he said, " to consider, upon the basis of our experience, how to give practical effect to the declarations of 1926. Whilst engaged in this work we shall not forget that behind it is the thought of building for the future. Whatever changes of form we may accept, we should be guided by the truth that, though form is undoubtedly important, it is not the form but the

Turning to the question of Peace and Disarmament, Mr. Macdonald said : " In the sphere of foreign affairs the great objective is to secure and maintain world peace and uphold the influence of our Commonwealth of Nations in world affairs." Regarding the possibility of a new race for armaments being started the Prime Minister continued : " The outlook is disquieting, but should that calamity happen it will not be the fault of Our Commonwealth, which, both by precept and example, has shown the sincerity of its devotion to peace."

Readers are invited to make special note of the use by Mr. Macdonald of the intimate preposition " Our "—in relation to the Commonwealth. He does not say " the " Commonwealth but " Our " Commonwealth. This sense of common possession could hardly have been expressed more simply and beautifully, and as the subsequent speeches are recorded it will be seen that each of the Overseas representatives quite naturally fall into the same vocabulary and use the same term.

One cannot help thinking of the prophecy of Isaiah* : " For unto Us a child is born, Unto Us a Son is given." If we are Israel, then in a special sense we can say Christ is " Ours." Our Christ, Our King, Our Kingdom, Our Commonwealth. How richly the preposition " Our " expresses love and joy in possession. The preposition " the " is cold and abstract. " Our " is a little word but it is great in warmth of meaning and brings out to the full our sense of brotherhood.

Thus, Mr. Bennett, Prime Minister of Canada :—" Whatever else may distinguish one Conference from another, they are at least alike in that greets us here."

Turning to a consideration of the great tasks before the Conference, Mr. Bennett continued :—" In the past it has had before it problems of vast importance and of supreme intricacy, and has successfully disposed of them. But heretofore, in my view at least, there have never been presented to it for solution questions of such urgency and of such basic consequence to the economic welfare of the Empire as those which now arise.

" We meet at a time of industrial depression, falling prices, slackening trade, diminishing revenues, and rising unemployment. The situation is world-wide, and while some countries only know it in a modified degree, all are equally concerned in finding a cure for it.

" Those factors which once controlled the course of international trade and commerce have given place to others. The old order of things has passed. How far the present unhappy state may be regarded as the manifestations of change into of world affairs it is perhaps profitless at the moment to inquire. The facts alone concern us.

" My colleagues and I, representing the people of our Dominion, now come to this Conference, not only with a message of affection and good will, but in the strong belief that by the

we can advance the interests of all sections of the Empire. We have a common purpose, and it would be strange indeed if, united to achieve it, there should not follow on our action that same high measure of success which in the days gone by has crowned our joint and steadfast efforts.

" At this time I desire only to affirm my oft-repeated and unchanging conviction that there is no difficulty so great but we can overcome it, no problem so complex but we may solve it, if we have faith and confidence in one another, and the belief that through the growing strength of its parts there will be assured to the Empire as a whole and an ever-increasing power to maintain that leadership which it has won by centuries of achievement."

This striking call to action is worthy of Canada and thoroughly characteristic. This I can vouch for from personal experience. In my address to the British-Israel Congress in 1925—immediately on return from the Dominion, with mind and memory still fresh and clear from recent observation—I used the following words : " If I were asked to sum up in one word my impression of the Dominion, I would say 'Action!' Out in the Dominion the whole atmosphere makes one feel one wants to get up and do something ; the overwhelming impression is one of Action—Energy—Progress."

Now Ferrar Fenton, in his modern English translation of the BIBLE, designates the ISRAEL PEOPLE "a PEOPLE for ACTION." In the light of this, the call to action of Canada's Premier becomes doubly significant.

Action is the Gateway from Inspiration to Reality. It is the step from Promise to Actuality. Action alone can make the Ideal—Real. Action alone transforms Vision into achievement. Action is the process by which Faith receives its justification in fulfilment.

As the PEOPLE of GOD, we are being led, through faith in the promises of GOD regarding the coming KINGDOM, actively to co-operate in the building of the KINGDOM of GOD upon earth, knowing that our vision will be rewarded in due time with triumphant fulfilment.

PREDESTINATION.—XI.

BY THE REV. R. G. F. WADDINGTON, M.A.

II.—THE PROMISED LAND.

CAREFUL readers of the story of the Patriarchs can scarcely avoid noticing the prominence that is given in the Covenants to the Promised Land.

"And the Lord appeared unto Abram, and said, Unto thy seed will I give this land" (Gen. xii, 7).

"Lift up now thine eyes, and look from the place where thou art northward and southward and eastward and westward: for all the land which thou seest, to thee will I give it, and to thy seed for ever" (Gen. xiii, 14).

"Unto thy seed have I given this land, from the river of Egypt unto the great river, the river Euphrates" (Gen. xv, 18).

"And I will give unto thee, and to thy seed after thee, the land of thy sojournings, all the land of Canaan, for an everlasting possession" (Gen. xvii, 8).

"Unto thee, and unto thy seed will I give all these lands, and I will establish the oath which I sware unto Abraham thy father" (Gen. xxvi, 3).

"The land whereon thou liest, to thee will I give it, and to thy seed" (Gen. xxviii, 13).

"The land which I gave Abraham and Isaac, to thee will I give it, and to thy seed after thee will I give the land" (Gen. xxxv, 12).

The reader should really have no difficulty in deciding that these texts have no reference to "Heaven."

The Rev. S. H. Wilkinson, in his book, "British-Israelism Examined," declares that "these terms are not to be understood in a merely geographical sense." But is there any other POSSIBLE sense? There most certainly is NOT. It is utterly impossible to take these promises as meaning anything but promises of a definite and perfectly well-known land.

May I suggest to my readers that they should spend just two minutes considering the basis of the now famous "Balfour Declaration." The basis is the recognition of Palestine as the national home of the Jews, ACCORDING TO THE STATEMENTS OF THESE PROMISES.

That Earl Balfour and his co-signatories made a double mistake in limiting the land to the confines of Palestine, and in limiting Israel to Judah, does not affect the point. They took the Land of the Promise to mean LAND, and they knew that Israel once dwelt in the Land, and so they drew up their Declaration.

Now one may read the 28th, 29th and 30th chapters of Deuteronomy, and argue with me that the possession of the Promised Land depended absolutely upon obedience to the conditions laid down, and as Israel broke those conditions, the promise ceases to have value.

But these chapters only give the conditions under which Israel entered the Land of Promise, and they in no wise affect the Covenant God made with Abraham.

"Now, this I say; A covenant confirmed beforehand by God, the law, which came four hundred and thirty years after, doth not disannul, so as to make the promise of none effect" (Gal. iii, 17, R.V.).

And this Covenant was concerned as much with the Land as it was with the Seed. It is neither reasonable nor fair, neither is it honouring to Almighty God, to suggest, as our opponents do, that the Land part of the Covenant can be ignored, as of no moment. If the WHOLE Covenant was not confirmed by God, then the WHOLE Covenant is worthless.

Consider again. The sins of Israel, which caused the Ten Tribes to be cast out of Palestine, and the Two Tribes to be dispersed throughout the world, could not make the promise of God to Abraham of none effect. How could they? Shall the sins of my children, even their apostasy, make me less a servant of God, or deprive me of the grace of God in Christ? "The son shall not bear the iniquity of the father, neither shall the father bear the iniquity of the son." If the inheritance of the Promised Land depended upon Israel's obedience to the Law, then "It is no more of promise; but God hath granted it to Abraham by promise." Therefore our opponents in the matter have no case.

The absence of Israel from the land, as, for example, during the bondage in Egypt, did not cause the annulling of the promise. Then how could Israel's absence, during the Seven Times from 721 B.C., cause the annulling of the promise?

There is nothing to prevent the eventual and glorious fulfilling of the Covenant of the Living God.

No, one can only overthrow our case at the expense of Scripture. If the Scripture means what it says, if God's promises are true, then the promise to Abraham and his seed, that they should possess the "Promised Land," must stand equally with the promise of blessing through Messiah.

Further, we need to correct the error that has been thrust upon us all these years by teachers and commentators, that this promise of a territorial or landed possession was accomplished in the time of Solomon. "It is important to see that the Nation has never as yet taken the land under the unconditional Abrahamic Covenant, nor has it ever possessed the whole land."—Dr. C. I. Scofield. But even if Israel had actually possessed the Promised Land, and had lost that possession through sin, there is given through the prophets a definite promise of restoration. "Ye shall dwell in the Land that I gave to your fathers" (Ezekiel xxxvi, 28).

However, Israel, even in Solomon's day, at the zenith of his power, did not possess, or even administer, the land from the river of Egypt to Euphrates. Therefore, opponents will have to revise their estimate of the Bible statements.

Digitized by Google

And now a further note about the Promised Land. The Scripture describes it as "a pleasant land," "a delightsome land," "a glorious land," "the glory of all lands."

"The land, whither ye go over to possess it, is a land of hills and valleys, and drinketh water of the rain of heaven: a land which the Lord thy God careth for; (seeketh after) the eyes of the Lord thy God are always upon it, from the beginning of the year even unto the end of the year."

No words of mine could add to the Biblical descriptions of its fertility and prosperity, which are abundantly corroborated by Josephus and other historians of olden time.

We are apt, I fear, to judge the land as we have known it under generations of Turkish misrule, but there can be no doubt, judging by the remarkable change that has come over that part of the land now governed by Britain, during the short twelve years of her rule, that the land is wonderfully fertile. I have myself taken photographs which show an extraordinary contrast between the Palestine of 1917 and the Palestine of 1927, and as I saw the changes that had come over the land, there came to my mind the words of Ezekiel: "The land that was desolate shall be tilled, whereas it was a desolation in the sight of all that passed by. And they shall say, This land that was desolate is become like the garden of Eden."

Prior to the dominion of Babylon, the whole region, Syria, as well as Palestine, was one vast fertile region, with well-watered plains, and abounding towns and villages, and even in Roman times it was known as the Garden of Rome, but because of the sins of Israel and Judah, the threats of God against it were realized, even as was prophesied in Ezekiel vii, 21, R.V.: "I will give it into the hands of the strangers for a prey, and to the wicked of the earth for a spoil: and they shall profane it," or as Jeremiah declares, in xii, 10: "They have made My pleasant portion a desolate wilderness . . . It mourneth unto Me, being desolate; . . . for the sword of the Lord shall devour from one end of the land even to the other end of the land"; or, again, Ezekiel xxxvi, 13, R.V.: "Thou land art a devourer of men, and hast been a bereaver of thy nation."

And is it not true that from 603 B.C. down to A.D. 1917, 2,520 years, the country has borne witness to the judgments of God against the land? Babylonians, Persians, Greeks, Romans, Arabs, Crusaders, Turks, one after another, claimed the land by right of conquest, but all have been there only to execute God's judgments upon it. And it is the same Divine revelation which declared it to be a land which the Lord "careth for," which also decreed that it should suffer desolation, and should finally regain more than its former splendour.

Many people to-day deny all the miracles of the Bible, both of Old and New Testaments, and there are many teachers whose religion seems to consist of a string of negatives and denials.

I have been reading recently the notes of lectures, delivered to students, by Dr. Underwood, Principal of the Rawdon Baptist College. He gave his pupils to understand that "Deuteronomy is a forgery, that the Suffering Servant of Isaiah liii is not Messiah, but Israel suffering for the sins of the Gentiles, that the Lord Jesus was omnipotent: that He shared, on many matters, the ignorance of His contemporaries: that He did not turn water into wine: that He did not raise Lazarus from the dead: that much He is reported to have said in the Fourth Gospel was never said by Him, but was invented by the writer: that He drank intoxicating liquor, but would 'know better to-day': that Matthew did not mind 'stretching a point' when it suited him: that Acts i, 11, concerning the Return of our Lord, was an invention on the part of those who witnessed the Ascension: that the words 'Till He come' in 1 Cor. xi, 26, are a Jewish misconception brought over into Christianity, and the sooner they are dropped, the better: that Paul gave wrong teaching; that there is no future Coming of the Lord, no Day of Resurrection, no Day of Judgment, no Angels: and, like Deuteronomy, 2 Peter is a forgery."

What a splendid array of negatives! What a glorious faith for a Christian Professor!

But, most unfortunately, Dr. Underwood is on the side of the majority of "scholars" of to-day, and many hundreds of Ministers of the Churches are saturated with this agnosticism, which is ever ready to give heed to theories and opinions, and which refuses to ask, "What saith the Scripture?"

I believe I am justified in saying that it is useless to talk about Evangelism, useless to suggest Christianity as the uplifting Gospel for the world, unless the Bible as the Word of God is the basis of the authority. The moment the speculations of men are substituted for the Revelation of God, that moment the message of the preacher becomes weak and vitiated.

But what proof can we advance, of the truth of the Bible, which will discover the worthlessness of "modern scholarship"?

Some of the theories, of course, will not bear an hour's honest investigation, as for example the Elohistic and Jehovistic theories of Old Testament authorship. But there are problems which are raised by modern teaching which, dealing in sheer agnosticism, need more than an investigation of the text.

When, for example, "Criticism" declares that there are two stories of the Flood in Genesis, an Elohistic and a Jehovistic, it only requires an hour's careful reading and tabulating of the text to prove the absurdity of the theory, for anyone who tries to find the two stories will assuredly fail to find them, because the two ARE NOT THERE.

But when a man declares that the conversation between our Lord and Nicodemus never took place, except in the imagination of the writer, what shall we answer? It is not sufficient to say, "Well, I believe the Bible, and I don't want men's negatives."

I can only legitimately say, "I believe the Bible," because the Bible can be proved to be "believable," and the "believableness" of the Bible involves and depends upon the fulfilment of God's Covenants with Abraham, David, and Israel.

The existing signs of the Truth of God's Word are Israel, Judah, and the Promised Land.

And it is not for our good only that the Scripture sets out the whole programme of God's purposes for these three, but above and beyond all this is God's own honour and glory, the perfect fulfilment of His promises being the means of substantiating the truth of God's Revelation. And against the fulfilment, which is open to the eyes of all who WANT to see, the theories and doubts and negatives of the Rationalist and Agnostic are flung in vain.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

BY THE REV. G. H. LANCASTER, M.A.

QUESTION.—I should very much like your explanation of one particular passage which has always puzzled me (and which Theosophists make great use or abuse of) because I am not a believer in re-incarnation, i.e., the words of our Lord in John ix, 2 : " His disciples asked Him, saying, Master, who did sin, this man, or his parents, that he was born blind ? "

Our Lord did not reprove them for presuming that the man could have sinned before he was born—or so it seems to the general reader.—L. M.

ANSWER.—As Bishop Westcott suggests, the question of the disciples suggests that the history of the blind man was popularly known. It probably belongs to a Jewish mode of thought, and may have been asked without any special or distinctive apprehension of the alternatives involved in it.

On the other hand the question seems to assume that the particular suffering was retributive. The only doubt seems to be as to the person whose sin was punished thus, whether it was the man himself either before birth or in some former state of existence, or the man's parents. The latter alternative was familiar to the Jews (Exod. xx, 5 ; Heb. vii, 10), while there are traces of the pre-existence of souls, at any rate in the later forms of Judaism (Wisdom viii, 20).

Some old authorities like Beza and Grotius refer the vexed question to the doctrine of metempsychosis, i.e., that he may have sinned in a former state of existence. But this however has been satisfactorily disproved by Bishop Lightfoot, while it may be added that if metempsychosis and re-incarnation cannot be disproved, it is equally true to say that they cannot be proved. If any human being has ever lived before in a previous existence, certainly he or she has no knowledge of it neither is there any suggestion of such a possibility of it in the dogmas of the Christian Faith and Hope. The faith of re-incarnation is widely spread within the mystic religions of the East, but it finds no permanent hold in the West.

The Pharisees believed that the good souls only passed into other bodies which would exclude this case (see Josephus, Ant. xviii, i, 3 ; and Book of the Jews, ii, 8-14). Lightfoot and Lucke refer it to the possibility of pre-natal sin, Tholuck to predestinated sin, punished by anticipation, and De Wette to the general doctrine of the pre-existence of souls, which prevailed amongst both the Rabbis and the Alexandrians (see Wisdom viii, 19, 20).

Our Lord's answer is as so often guarded and non-committal. He never enters into controversial subjects when the latter are not directly concerned with His Mission. Rather does He use them in order to illustrate the need of salvation. Hence in this case our Lord lifts the whole question above the suggestion that either this man or his parents had sinned in any special way, and proceeds to prove that in the economy of God's Providence this man's blindness had its place and aim, which was to bring out " the works of God " through his being healed by the Saviour. Thus, in God's mercy are sin and disease overruled to His Divine glory.

THE SECRETARY-GENERAL'S NEWS AND NOTES.

OUR eleventh Congress has passed into history, but it will long be remembered by those who were privileged to attend all or most of the meetings. The interest was not only maintained, but increased. Even Saturday's audiences were larger than last year. The closing meeting was impressive and at times solemn.

It will take time to size up the general results, but we know that records were made. We know also that many received new light and great blessing.

It was a strenuous week for some of us, with four, five and six meetings a day, and we are deeply grateful for Divinely given strength to pull through it all.

We have all to be thankful for excellent weather throughout the week.

The regular weekly meetings are resumed at Headquarters ; Wednesday afternoons at 3, and Thursday evenings at 7.30.

Mr. R. O. Lucas writes from Toronto :—

"The holiday season is over, folks are returning to the cities with their children, and our Branches are resuming their regular meetings once again with gradually increasing attendance.

"Dr. Wm. Pascoe Goard and Rev. E. J. Springett, of Winnipeg, will be in Toronto to address meetings on Tuesday and Wednesday, September 23rd and 24th, and it is hoped that Mr. Springett will also visit our Hamilton Branch. A dinner is being tendered these, our guests, and the officers of our various Branches with their wives, by the ladies of our Toronto East Branch on Wednesday evening. We are looking forward to wonderful meetings and a fine beginning of our season's work.

"During the summer season the hand of death removed one of our very oldest and most beloved members from our midst in the person of Mr. Wm. Jackson. He was one of the pioneers in the Movement in Toronto. He was an artist by profession, and many hundreds of people will miss the beautiful notices of our meetings which he carefully prepared and which always stood outside of our Branch meeting-places. Dr. Sockett, a member of our Toronto West Branch, also died very suddenly during the summer. Surely this rapid passing of veterans of our Movement here within the last two or three years is a very real challenge to those of us who are younger to carry an added share of the burden—which is both a burden and a real pleasure! Let us pray that volunteers will be forthcoming."

A Presbyterian Minister, a Doctor of Divinity, in the United States, writes us an encouraging letter, saying that he has been a believer for twenty-five years, and that he has a Bible Study Course on B.-I. lines, and desires to get into touch with Study Circles elsewhere. He sends us his very best wishes for our work in Britain, and her wide domains.

The British-Israel Federation of Canada, affiliated with B.-I.-W.F., having Branches from Montreal to Victoria, desires to get in touch with groups of believers or individual British-Israelites in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island, with a view to organization. We are glad to learn from Mr. Arthur Exley, J.P., President of our Brisbane (Australia) Branch, that our Manifesto is—through the influence of Mr. Victor Rigby, the Secretary—to be published in the leading local paper ; also Mr. P. Hanna's radio talks on B.-I. are reaching vast numbers from Melbourne to nearly all parts of the great Island Continent, and that they are creating wide-spread interest and enquiry.

Our Halifax Branch has made a good start for the new session. Mr. Bateson, of Bradford, has given a comprehensive address on "The Signs of the Times" to a crowded audience.

The oldest member of our Nailsea Branch, Mrs. Pady, who is in her 100th year, has again most kindly given £5 in recognition of the blessing and joy B.-I. has been to her. We thank her most sincerely, and we congratulate her on the great age she has attained. She reads our journal every Sunday, being unable to attend church on account of deafness, her only failing.

THE ORIGIN OF THE ENGLISH

BY

MAJOR B. de W. WELDON.

Second Edition (revised).

Crown 8vo. 286 pages. Cloth.

Price, 4s. 6d. Post Free, 5s.

The COVENANT PUBLISHING Co., Ltd.,
6, BUCKINGHAM GATE, LONDON, S.W.1.

Here is a book which once read will be read again and again.

Our history traced for three thousand years. Of necessity, many details must be left out, for the whole of our history could not be compressed into the two hundred and eighty pages this book contains. The fact that a second edition has been called for is evidence of the value of this work for students of the history of the English People.

"The present writer does not claim that the story to be told in the following pages is anything of a new discovery. All the essential facts were in the possession of a man who lived many centuries ago, in the reign of the Emperor Justinian. And one German at least, the philologist Grimm, early in the last century knew a good deal more about the identity of Israel than he cared to disclose in books which were intended to glorify the great German race.

"The chapters that will now be written have to contain many Biblical quotations. But they are no more designed as a theological disquisition than a Government blue book or a standard history would be.

"They are merely the missing pages of the history of Israel, the pages that centuries ago were blotted out until the time came when they might safely be restored to their proper place in the world's historical libraries. All histories are dull reading; and condensed history is perhaps the worst of all, where no time can be given up to the 'drum and trumpet' details, interesting though these might be made.

"This book is no exception; having to be condensed, many interesting points must be omitted. Before our case can be established, many witnesses will have to be called; men who lived in different ages and in countries far apart—prophets and saints, as well as dignitaries of the Church; Greeks and Romans and Jews; pagans from the North; modern scholars of the most profound learning; and writers of gossip who would be exceedingly astonished to find fragments of their work still in existence after so many centuries have elapsed. All these diverse sources of information will be placed on a friendly footing of equal credibility before the reader."

THE BIBLE CHRIST AND MODERNISM

DO you realise that if you accept the Modernist theory of Evolution you deny the Divine inspiration of your Bible?

Modernism and German-made Higher Criticism combine to destroy faith in the truth and the sacredness of our beliefs. God either created man in His Own image or He did not, and if not we are as the beasts that perish.

Dr. McCrossan's book comes as a refreshing draught to a thirsty man, to those who truly believe that God's Word is in the Bible—that God's Word is the Bible. His array of facts and his forceful style chastise the Higher Critic and the Modernist. He takes his stand on God's Word and is unassailable.

Everyone who holds the Christian Faith should read this book.

EDITORIAL.

The following should be read in the light of Israel Truth, namely, that the Anglo-Saxon nations are the continuation of the Israel nation ; the inheritors of her Charters; the possessors of her guarantees and immunities from destruction ; the executors of her commissions.

It should be understood that Authors alone are responsible for the views expressed in their Articles.

GOD.

THE PEOPLE. Δ THE BIBLE.—II.

By the Rev. Dr. W. Pascoe Goard, F.R.G.S.

We have seen that the Bible tells one continued story without variation or break from the time of Moses to the Apocalypse. There were many contributors to the Bible, but the story is one. The writings were produced in many ages and in various countries, but still the story is one. The Book is divided into the Old Testament and the New Testament, but still the story and the Book are one. It is the story of God and of Israel.

Let us now look at the fact that the People have always marched in the highway of history marked out from the beginning in the prophecies concerning Israel. The field of world history is a wide and rich field of enquiry. The story of the Bible, and the march of Israel, forms a vital part of world history and of world movement. It is a leading factor in world history from fifteen centuries before Christ. Indeed, Israel history forms the backbone of world history. Although the Israel story has not been so fully written and known as is the history of the Continental Empires, yet the movements of the Israel people have been the deciding factor, giving scope and direction to the historic movements of the ages for the last two thousand five hundred or more years.

It should be noted that the history of the Continental Empires has been given the leading place in world literature, and that it was God's purpose that it should be so.

For God's purposes Israel must be hidden, and therefore was hidden for the period of her humiliation and punishment, namely, from the commencement of a period of punishment in 740 B.C. to the end of that period of punishment in A.D. 1936. See Dr. Wadge's book, "The Seven Times of Prophecy."

During that time the Continental Empires stood out as the great object of historic interest before the eyes of the world.

Let the reader turn to the Book of Daniel, if necessary, with the aid of "The Documents of Daniel," by Rev. Wm. Pascoe Goard, LL.D., and see that in the prophetic field, as well as in the historic field, the Continental Empires are given the place of prominence on the stage of world history. Yet it is manifest that all through the period when the Empires held the premier place in the view of the world, Israel continued to function beyond the rays of the spotlight, in a hidden manner, again and again bringing the vaunting and vaunted Empires to the dust.

The Empires, from that of Nebuchadnezzar to that of the Kaiser, constituted in their succession a "loop line" of history. The main line of history has ever been Israel, the servant-nation of God.

It is not our purpose to follow the line of the Continental Empires, but to tabulate briefly the place of Israel in world history from the beginning of the race of the Hebrews to the present day.

For the purpose of generating a new strain in the Adamic-Noachic family, from the descendants of Heber, "who was the father of all the Hebrews" as the Bible genealogy shows,

Digitized by Google

Abraham was chosen. His wife Sarah also was chosen, both of the same family stock. These were separated from country, kindred and father's house. They were sent into what was to them an unknown land, and were caused to dwell among a people with whom they could not mingle. They lived their lives as strangers in the land of their adoption.

Except for a very loose alliance for defence, there was no attempt to enter into the fellowship indicated by Citizenship of a Country. Least of all was there thought of intermarriage with the races which inhabited the country of Palestine. In fact, when a proposal came to them for intermarriage from some of the inhabitants of the land, in the time of Jacob, it was resented so bitterly, and with such an effusion of blood, as very nearly brought Israel into permanent blood feud with the inhabitants of the land.

So through the ages, the Israel seed, descending from Abraham through Isaac and Jacob, retained its separateness from the other strains of the Adamic family.

Of course there was a reason for this. For the purpose of God it was necessary to have a people with an established mental attitude. Now it is well known that this is a quality which is not possessed by peoples of mixed blood. Further, it was necessary to have a people who in their generations should have as the basis of their character the identical mental attitude which was possessed in such a striking degree by Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. To them, when their race characteristics should have been well established, should be entrusted the Divine Faith and the Divine Law.

They should be the proponents of the faith and the administrators of the Law.

Thus the Law should become the schoolmaster, in due time, to lead them to Christ.

Thereafter they should carry the good news of the Gospel of the Kingdom of God, and the Gospel of Jesus Christ our Saviour, to the ends of the earth.

Now let us see how they were engaged with this great task through the various periods of world history.

We give the following chronology in the figures of Ussher. It is an approximation sufficiently accurate for the purposes of this article. Those who desire to take the table as varied by the Assyrian chronology will find the same in the margin of the Oxford Press Authorized Version.

Abraham.

Abram, the father of the great world movement, was born at Ur in Chaldea (Ussher 1996 B.C.). Abram was of what the ancient Assyrians call the "Habiru," or, as the Bible calls them, the "Hebrew" people.

Abram moved from Ur to Haran in Mesopotamia 1926 B.C.

Answering the Divine call Abram moved to Canaan in 1918 B.C., settling in Hebron and Southern Palestine.

God's covenant with Abram, which contained the original charter of the race, was made in 1912 B.C., and is fully recorded in the seventeenth chapter of Genesis. The parties to this covenant are El Shaddai, Abraham, Sarah.

Isaac, the heir to the covenant, and the father of the Saxon race, was born in 1896 B.C.; Ishmael, the father of the Arabian race, having been born fourteen years earlier.

Jacob, the next heir, was born in 1837 B.C., at the same time as Esau. Jacob became the father of the Israel race, and Esau the father of the Edomite race, the modern development of which latter has functioned in Turkey since its conquest of the Arabian Empire.

Jacob and his family settled in Egypt in 1706 B.C., and there the Book of Genesis leaves them in the land of Goshen.

The Book of Exodus commences with the emergence of Israel from Egypt in 1491 B.C.

This particular period of Israel history is interwoven with Egyptian history, which at that particular time seems to have been the centre of world activity and civilization.

1491 B.C., which saw the inauguration of the Israel nation which was the ancient form of the Brith-Ish or covenant man nation, was one of the most remarkable dates in world history. Having regard to the civilization in the Euphrates Valley—now fully uncovered—and having regard to the contemporary Egyptian civilization and to the intermediate civilization of Palestine and Crete, etc., we are safe in saying that there emerged at this date a new nation among the nations. In connection with that appearance there was given a manifestation of God, the living God, absolutely monotheistic, such as history does not elsewhere show. There was propounded a system of faith in and worship of that same God on a plane infinitely superior to any previously known to history so far uncovered; and in connection with that faith there was promulgated the most perfect system of law ever revealed to humanity or developed by them. Such was the perfection of the system that, disregarding all other codes and systems, our Lord Jesus Christ ratified the Mosaic system down to the least jot and tittle, and made it the basis of New Testament teaching, New Testament administration, and New Testament worship and service of God.

In connection with that self-revelation of God, that system of faith and worship, and that system of law, the nation manifested the highest form of social organization, based upon the principles of liberty, equality and fraternity, then or thereafter known.

For such a nation, possessed of such faith, law and social order, to suddenly appear where previously no nation had been, is a great miracle of history, and naturally it profoundly affected and frequently dominated the whole succeeding course of world history.

In April 1451 B.C. Israel passed over Jordan, taking possession of the land of Palestine. Hitherto the world had looked upon ancient Assyria and ancient Egypt as the two and rival centres of world power. From this date onward Israel had to be reckoned with as a third centre of world power, steadily gaining in strength, until in Solomon's day it dominated and commanded the peace of the world.

1055 B.C. the House of David was established in the kingship over Judah, and in 1048 B.C. the House of David was established over all Israel. And the establishment of that House of David was for ever; even to the present day, and on to the end of time.

We will follow these vital details of world history in our next issue.

CONGRESS ADDRESSES.

Monday Afternoon, October 6th, 1930.

THE BRITISH-ISRAEL-WORLD FEDERATION.

Major J. Knowles, O.B.E. (President), said: Ladies and Gentlemen,—My first duty this afternoon is to extend a very hearty welcome to the delegates who have come from Overseas: Chancellor Du Bois (Chicago, U.S.A.), the Rev. Mark Jukes (Canada), the Rev. John Complin (Sydney, Australia), Arthur Exley, Esq., J.P. (President, Brisbane Branch, Australia). I am sure we are all delighted to welcome these delegates who have come so far in order to be with us at this Congress. We shall look forward to hearing addresses from them during the week. We think it is very good of them to have taken such long journeys in order to attend this Congress, and I would specially like to mention the Rev. Mark Jukes, who has come all the way from Vancouver, and if he will allow me to say it, he is very nearly ninety years of age. Chancellor Du Bois is Head of the Chicago Law School, and is a very important man in that great city. This is his first visit to any of our Congresses, and I hope it will not be his last. The Rev. John Complin, I am sorry to say, is not able to be with us this afternoon, but he will be here to-morrow. Mr. Exley is President of the Brisbane Branch, Australia, and I am sure we are very pleased indeed that he is able to be with us. I will ask these gentlemen to respond briefly after I have concluded my own short remarks.

In the first place, I would like to call your attention to what is the British-Israel position as set forth in the programme: it is admirably set out there, but briefly, of course, for it is not possible to put the whole position in just a few small pages of that description, but it will give you some indication, and a great many points for you to ponder over. Those of you who are not sure about any point raised there will be able to obtain literature at the Bookstall when you leave which will probably deal with the particular point on which you want more information. It would amply repay you to study that short statement on your programme.

Now, ladies and gentlemen, I am sure you will agree that for the past ten years all the nations of the world have in turn felt the great economic strain under which they have all had to go; and it has never been more severe than it is at the present time, and this applies specially to Great Britain, with her two million unemployed, and I am told that it now applies, in a great measure, to the United States of America, where they have more than double that number unemployed. Our enemies are attacking us by trying to ruin our trade in the hope of producing discontent among our people. At the same time, they are preaching that there is no God, and that religion is a false and even a mischievous thing. Love, self-sacrifice, pity, mercy, and kindred sentiments, hitherto regarded as virtues, are now declared to be weaknesses and even vices. This doctrine, which is working such disaster in Russia, is being preached even here in Great Britain. No man in his right mind can deny that there is in this world a menace of the most malign and dangerous kind, and it is the faith of the Anglo-Saxon world which alone can stem the tide of unrest and irreligion which is sweeping over the nations, and that faith is being attacked from a great many sides. We have had a recent instance of that in the speech delivered by Professor Julian Huxley, in which he declared that we could have a religion without God, and that religion was merely a function of human nature. The doctrine of the Kingdom of God on earth is the phase of doctrine which is most suitable to the present situation, and that is the Gospel which we of this Federation preach. We read in the Scriptures that God established for Himself a national organization: we believe that the modern development of that organization is the British Empire and the United States of America, and we believe that God is still King of His Own Kingdom, and that His law is the only safe system for the guidance of mankind. We of the Anglo-Saxon race occupy exactly the position foretold in the Scriptures regarding the Kingdom-nation, and there is no other nation that fulfils that position. We believe that the nation will win through its present difficulties, and that its future will be even more glorious than the past has been. One condition, however, is necessary before that can come about, namely, the nation must come back to the Bible, and must be willing to submit to God's law as laid down therein before it can enjoy the full privileges of its position. If, and when, British-Israel teaching is accepted by the majority of the inhabitants of the British Empire and the United States, then faith in God's Word will be restored, and the way will be clear for the full development of God's plan for our race.

The Rev. Mark Jukes said: Mr. Chairman and Friends,—It is passing strange to me to be here, after fifty years' wandering about in the trackless plains of the West, ministering to scattered people, doing what one could do to make known the message of God. And here let me say we have a saying in the woods among the woodmen, "Never use two strokes of the axe where one will do." That is a good principle to follow. For the work is so scattered that if you miss an opportunity you do not know when you will get another.

What is the subject of our teaching? That God made a covenant with Abraham and his seed for ever. And you are his seed! Do you doubt it? You call yourself British. "Brith" is pure Hebrew, and means "covenant," and "ish" means "man." You Britishers are covenant men, covenant with God, for to walk in His laws, and to do His will; and while you do so you will have the blessing of God and the overcoming of every difficulty. It is nothing new to me to see a track of country 2,000 miles long, largely settled in, with thousands of miles of railroad, growing wheat that comes to England. And there they are striving to do, what? To take possession of the unoccupied wastes of the world. That is the one great object of British colonization, to help those who are willing to help themselves.

Now when you turn from the Old Testament Scriptures to the New Testament Scriptures, you find our Saviour Christ sending out the Twelve, and telling them to go and preach the Gospel to all creatures. "Go not into the way of the Gentiles, and into any city of the Samaritans enter ye not; but go rather to the lost sheep of the House of Israel . . . . For verily I say unto you, Ye shall not have gone over the cities of Israel till the Son of man be come." The Son of man is not come at the present time: it is still future. Are you ready for His Coming? That is the one point. If you are not ready, then I would suggest that you get ready, for you do not know how soon that event may take place.

I have been studying English history covering the last four to five hundred years, and I find that the incidents in British history are a direct opposite of the history of the Children of Israel as recorded before the captivity. Now that is remarkable. Jeroboam introduced idolatry 2,500 B.C. And here is Queen Elizabeth holding up the Bible, "That is going to be the rule of my kingdom," she said. And from that time blessing rested upon the nation, until all the nations of the earth seemed to be pitted against her, yet she won out. Is it an accident? Go later to the time of Israel's captivity, 720 B.C., and the measure of 2,520 years you come to the end of the 18th century, and that marks the increase of the British Empire unto the present day. Do you realize these things? It is well to take notice of them. Go a step further. In 1917, Allenby took Jerusalem. The taking of Jerusalem by Allenby was 2,520 years from the first taking of Jerusalem by Nebuchadnezzar, when he ravaged the city and the country round. What we look for is the Coming of Christ to restore His Kingdom in the world; that He may bring unto Himself a nation chosen and blessed of Him to the praise and glory of God.

CHANCELLOR DU BOIS said: Mr. President,—I greet you as a typical Englishman. I come as an American. Permit me to say that candour is the essence of loyalty to God and the brotherhood of man. To be truthful without dissemblance is loyalty to God and to the State. Accredited citizenship in the Kingdom of God, that is the practice of candour, truth and loyalty. It is living it, not mouthing it, "read and known of all men." That is as I understand it with a big "E," an Englishman, side by side with a big "A," an American. We are twin brothers, Anglo-Saxons. Shakespeare says: "The friends thou hast and their adoption tried, grapple them to thy soul with hooks of steel." I come to you to fulfil the Divine law, and to grapple your souls, not with hooks of steel, but with hoops of steel.

We have lost in America much of the God-consciousness. I hope to hear many messages from you in line with that inestimable book, "The Law of the Lord and the Common Law," by Dr. Goard. It has many suggestions for me. I come to speak to you regarding the Common Law as God's law is practised in America. And I wish to present this at this time, as that which will relieve the stress of the heavy burden of statecraft, a task so great that one of your great Englishmen has said that government has become too great a task for human reason. I find to my surprise that Professor Julian Huxley denies the Personality of God, and the possibility of calling in His aid.

I have had in mind to speak of this fact, that back of the cosmos, the universe, material and mechanical, and beneath it all, and through it all, is the Divine immanence of God Almighty, the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, He is, and has been, and will be for ever, supreme in our physical universe. While your prophetic history of British-Israel is great and marvellous and the highest evidence of God in His universe, in view of Professor Huxley's challenge, and the challenge of the school for which he stands, I am looking to you, and you, and you to answer their negations by your personal testimony, a personal witness, not about the doctrine of God and salvation only, but that each of you is saved by the grace of God through our great Redeemer, the Son of God. I will say to you now, "I know that I have passed from death unto life." I know that I am born again. I know that I have the witness of the Spirit with my spirit, that I am a child of God. I know that if I am a child of God, I have an inheritance incorruptible and undefiled, reserved for me in Heaven. I know that I am a joint heir with Christ, and therefore have eternal life.

MR. ARTHUR EXLEY said: Mr. Chairman, fellow-members of the Commonwealth of Israel,—I have come from the Commonwealth farthest south, one of the vast territories of the British Commonwealth of Nations, one with great resources, and with not the population of this great City of London. There is a talk of unemployment, both here and in the Commonwealth and in America; and yet there are infinite riches awaiting development in those far-off lands. It is for us to understand and to know and to act upon the fact that we are God's Covenant people, and, as such, to pull all our weight together. It is useless pulling at an angle; we must all pull together, and when we do that, we shall be much nearer the Kingdom of God on earth, and much more fitted to welcome the Coming of the King. * * *

At this point of the meeting it was proposed that a telegram expressing the loyal greetings of the members of the Congress should be sent to Their Majesties the King and Queen at Sandringham.

A vote of sympathy was also registered with the relatives of those who lost their lives in the great air disaster, R 101.

THE REV. DR. PASCOE GOARD said: Major Knowles, fathers, and brethren, fellow-citizens of the Kingdom of God on earth,—It is with the greatest pleasure that we all see each other's faces again this year in our Annual Congress. The year that is past has been a year of rapid movement throughout the world. Great forces were let loose by a pistol shot in the Balkans in 1914, a pistol shot fired by the hand of an assassin which has reverberated throughout the earth. Forces were then let loose which instantly started in motion machinery which had been prepared with particular care during over forty years of preparation. It is a fact personally known to some who are in this building that the ink was hardly dry on the Treaty which ended the Franco-Prussian War before the preparation, material, financial and political, began to be made for the War of 1914. The physical conflict was the first phase of the great struggle. Physical resources of men, material and treasure were mobilized and used on an unprecedented scale from 1914 to 1918. What a terrific wastage of life and treasure took place in those tremendous years! But there came the day of the Armistice, in which we are dwelling still. Why did not the world declare it to be the day of Peace? Why is it that the cessation of physical conflict in 1918 ushered in the Armistice which is still being celebrated from year to year? Unconsciously the world expressed the truth: the end of the physical conflict was not the end of the period of world-wide disturbances: the end of the physical conflict did not see the exhaustion of the forces which had been let loose by that pistol shot in the Balkans: the movement is still going on, it is going on in every department of the world's life.

Migrations of Peoples.

For instance, there is the migration of peoples, the migration of nations jostled out of position by those forces which were let loose from 1912 and onwards. What misplacement of peoples are there to arrest the attention of the world, and possibly to create alarm? Look at what were the great unpeopled plains of Manchuria. Manchuria is simply a word attached to a certain section of a map in the atlas of the world. It has not meant a great deal to us in the past. Into the hitherto unpeopled plains of Manchuria, marching hosts have gone from Korea and Japan, the figures of which I have not in my possession. In addition to those, I am informed that from China there have migrated into Manchuria, since the signing of the Armistice, over four million of people. Think of it. Of what interest is that to us? I travelled across the Atlantic in April with a gen'leman of this city, a man well-known in the business world down in the City and in New York and elsewhere in the great financial centres of the world, and who, seeing his opportunity, went into that great country, and organized the incoming forces, getting them as cheap labour on to the soil. These are now producing and harvesting agricultural products by the million of tons. These products require fleets of ships to transport it to America and Britain and to the various nations of Europe. These new agricultural products, coming new into the world markets, help to bring about the chaotic conditions in the cereal markets of the world, and, in turn, help to bring about chaos in the financial condition of the world; in the Dominion of Canada, in the Commonwealth of Australia, and in other countries.

In Russia there is an explosive force thrusting out the community in every direction, so that the boundary lines of Russia have to be protected for hundreds of miles with barbed wire entanglements, and officers amounting to armies to restrain the population from stampeding over other nations.

From the borders of Russia in Eastern Europe, from Central Europe, from Western Europe, there has gone on and is still progressing the constant march of hosts overseas, crashing the barriers of the United States, knocking at the doors of the Dominion of Canada, and threatening the stability of the nations of Europe. To illustrate the immensity of the trek which has been started, I am informed that between three and four millions of Jews alone have gone from those territories bordering upon Russia into Great Britain and the United States of America. We read of the migration of Israel from Egypt to Palestine; but how small that was compared with the great trek of all these peoples. We read of the eruption of the Huns from the East, and of the Huns in turn uprooting the Goths from the European and the Asiatic sides of the Black Sea, and the region around the Caspian Sea; sending them crashing through the barriers of the Roman Empire, sweeping down through Europe, crossing the narrow seas into Britain, and establishing an Anglo-Saxondom in these regions. How tremendously the world was stirred by the marching hosts in those historic days, the third and fourth and fifth centuries of the Christian Era! But when you compare all these things with the great movement of peoples that is going on before our eyes to-day, they look small things, little things, and they are. The uprooting of the nations, the marching of peoples, the crashing of the political and imperial organizations which existed up till 1912 and onwards: the reorganization of the political map of the world; all these things are of tremendous significance.

I have spoken now of the material conflict from 1914 to 1918, and of the physical disturbance and uprooting of nations and peoples from the signing of the Armistice up to the present day. But now let me point to another thing of infinite importance, another thing of such importance hat if the foundations of Society crash, then world civilization dies. There was one in the House right across the Square who on occasion was said to have been intoxicated with the exuberance of his own verbosity! I want you to realize that I am not so intoxicated, but am making a carefully-considered statement now. The physical conflict has passed, and the world lives. The marching hosts of the nations are finding outlets. But now, as a result of the physical conflict in 1914 to 1918, and the disturbance of the nations from the signing of the Armistice to the present day, FAITH expressed in doctrine, and LAW expressed in administration, is being shaken as it never has been shaken during historic times. Now I should like to call attention in that connection to certain things which may be elaborated later on during the Congress. We have looked out upon the nations that were and now are not. Since 1914 the death-note of many a nation has been heard, and the place of that nation as it was previously organized knows it no more to-day. Nations have gone, and the world moves on. Empires have gone; ladies and gentlemen, all the empires have gone. There has not been a more important fact stated, judged from the material standpoint, in the House of Commons, in the House of Lords, in Westminster Abbey, or in the Central Hall, than that particular statement. ALL THE EMPIRES HAVE GONE. What about Britain? How was the signature of Britain appended to the Naval Treaty? "For and on behalf of the British Commonwealth of Nations." In 1912 the civilization of the world was contained within, roughly speaking, the borders of the empires of the world: China, Japan, Turkey, Russia, Austria, Germany, Great Britain. In 1912 China crashed, and that empire is gone. In the period of the War, Russia, Turkey, Austria, Germany, as empires, crashed; and they are all gone. This decade has seen the official declaration of Britain for what it is, and always has been, the "British Commonwealth of Nations." Japan, of course, is a kingdom, not an empire. Now it is amazing to look around the world and to see the vacant places that had been occupied by those tremendous structures. The organizations of to-day which have taken their places are only temporary expedients. No one will tell me, I am quite sure, that China has emerged into a permanent form of national organization. No one will tell me that Russia has emerged into a permanent form of national organization. No one will tell me that Turkey has emerged into a permanent form of national organization. The same thing is true of Austria and of Germany. The present are temporary expedients while men crystallize their thinking, and agree upon that form of national organization which shall take the place of the empires which have ceased to be, and which have passed away.

Empires have gone, but civilization stands. Now is it not a strange thing that you can go back to the very dawn of history, and see nations and kingdoms and empires crashed and broken, and still civilization moving forward, re-crystallizing itself again and again and again? What is the explanation of all this? Let us get back a little farther. Civilization—and how glibly we use that word! What do we mean by the word "civilization"? Let me make a statement, and I think it is an important statement, in defining what I think the word "civilization" means. It means this: An organization constructed and organized by a system of faith, and held together by a system of law. Let me illustrate.

Speaking approximately, 3,500 years ago, a man emerged in India, propounded the doctrine of Brahma, and he promulgated the Brahman law. The doctrine gathered the people, the law organized the people. They were brought together by the faith; they were disciplined by the law. In spite of every national and international upheaval through these 3,500 years of history, Brahman civilization has stood, and it stands to-day 200 million strong. It is absolutely impossible to break in pieces a civilization which is brought together by faith, and held together by disciplinary law.

2,520 years ago Buddha propounded his doctrine, and promulgated his law, and it brought about the civilization of Buddha, with its scores of millions as it stands to-day. In the same period the founder of the Shinto civilization propounded his doctrine, and promulgated the Shinto system of law. Thus was organized that virile kingdom of Japan, and thus it has been held together right down to our day.

In the seventh century A.D. Mahomet propounded his doctrine and promulgated his law. The doctrine brought together his followers, the law disciplined them, and that doctrine and that law has held them together right down to the present day for a period of 1,260 years.

At the same time there was propounded a traditional form of the Christian faith in the Continent of Europe, and it expressed itself in the civil law. And these two principles held Roman Catholic Europe together in spite of the conflict of nations and empires.

From early days this Island race inherited the Common Law as contained in the Bible. It took on new form and vigour in the Reformation. The proclamation of that faith, followed by the extension of the Common Law, has given to the world Anglo-Saxon civilization. That civilization in extent, in efficiency, in righteousness, in liberty, in the knowledge of God, exceeds all the other civilizations put together.

"Civilization" is made up of Brahman, Buddhist, Shinto, Mohammedan, European and Anglo-Saxon civilizations. You may make exceptions, but there is the general rule. How were these civilizations formed? By the propounding of faith in God. How were these civilizations held together? By the promulgation of the law, and by its administration, which disciplined the people and held them together.

We have seen nations broken. We have seen empires destroyed: and yet civilization stands. How does it stand? Upon the two principles of faith and law. Destroy the faith: break down the administration of the law, and you destroy civilization. Those that are in charge in Russia know this. They are labouring with might and main to destroy the two pillars of the temple, faith and law. There are those among us who believe themselves to be better furnished than the rest of us, who, nevertheless, are wielding every implement at their command to break down and destroy the faith and to weaken the law. Julian Huxley did no good service to Britain when he attacked the faith of the people last week.

Now, friends, there is the fight in which we find ourselves. A fight to preserve the faith: a fight to purify and support the administration of law. A fight to lead the nation to the realization that "Jehovah hath prepared His throne in the heavens," and that "His Kingdom still ruleth over all." I turn to Psalm ciii, which says: "Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all His benefits. Who forgiveth all thine iniquities: who healeth all thy diseases," and so on, and so on, until he reaches the culminating blessing of all. What is that? The fact that the throne of Jehovah is in the heavens. "The Lord hath prepared His throne in the heavens; and His Kingdom ruleth over all. Bless the Lord, ye His angels, that excel in strength, that do His commandments, hearkening unto the voice of His word. Bless ye the Lord, all ye His hosts: ye ministers of His that do His pleasure. Bless the Lord, all His works, in all places of His dominion; bless the Lord, O my soul." With Chancellor Du Bois, I triumph in knowing God as my Saviour, Jesus Christ as my Redeemer. But I glory in the fact that God is still in His heaven, the King of Israel, and that through the administrations of His Kingdom all things shall yet be right with the world.

MR. HERBERT GARRISON, in making his announcements, said: We believe in the grand old Book, and in the God of that Book, and we will never give them up to please anyone like Julian Huxley and others who are out to destroy our faith. And if Julian Huxley were here, I would say to him, "My dear young man, you have a great deal yet to learn. You cannot eliminate God from His universe. You cannot establish a religion without God. We challenge you. We will pray to God for the conversion of your soul." Let our prayers go up to God for the conversion of that man. Let him be brought to his knees, then he will put God first: then what he proclaims will be true science, not a false science. We believe in scholarship, but it must be a sanctified scholarship. We put faith before reason. Where are we without the Bible? Where are we without God? I call upon you to stand solidly together for God, for the Bible. Our task is to bring the whole world to a knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. We have a great mission, a great destiny. Now is the time to go forward boldly in the Name of Israel's God, and achieve the great task to which we have set our hands.

MR. JOHN LEECH said: Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen,—You, Sir, and the other speakers that followed, referred to the flood of Atheism, I might call it blasphemy, which has recently escaped the lips of a professor, and has been published in many of our daily papers. There is one matter in connection with that particular speech to which I want to draw your attention. I refer to what the professor has said with regard to prayer, and upon that I want to say a little this afternoon. Let me read you some extracts from his speech upon that subject. He said, "The nineteenth century has shown, or so many of us believe, that a whole spawn of monstrous ideas about religion—verbal inspiration, eternal damnation, magical efficacy of prayer or formula or rite, miraculous intervention, and the like—have no validity in themselves, and, indeed, are none of them vital to any true religion." Do you agree with him? Of course you do not. Again, he said, "It is obvious that with the abandonment of the idea of God as a single independent Power with a nature akin to personality, many current religious practices will become meaningless. There will be no reason for services of intercession, for prayer in the ordinary sense." This gentleman seems to be vying with the Russian Bolshevists in the endeavour to get rid of God from His universe. Will he succeed? He knows nothing of the power of prayer. And what a power prayer is! A mighty weapon placed by the Creator in the hands of His creatures; the greatest power that man can wield. Prayer moves the arm that moves the universe. Prayer runs through the Book from beginning to end, and we are admonished to pray, and to pray always. It runs right through the history of Israel from beginning to end. Prayer changes the course of events, and shapes the destinies of peoples, as we have seen in the Bible again and again. Oh, what a mighty weapon prayer is! We want to realize its power, and we want to realize how to wield that power, and to wield it in the service of our God, a mighty, mighty weapon. Suppose for one moment that prayer were to cease, what would happen? Why, we should be a wretched, hopeless mass of creatures, with no one to whom we could look in times of distress and trouble. But we are not members of a family who cannot approach their Father with their petitions. We have a God Who loves us, and Whose ears are open always to listen to the cry of His children. It is to prayer we resort in every time of trouble and difficulty and distress, a mighty consolation in sickness and even in death. But we want yet to learn more of the wonderful power of this mighty weapon that God has placed in our hands.

Now I want to take you for a few minutes to the farewell address of our Lord to His disciples, after the Last Supper, and shortly before the terrible struggle upon which He was about to enter against sin and Satan on our behalf. We find our Lord there making a farewell gift to His disciples, a farewell gift giving them a wonderful power which was to be used by them after the work of redemption was completed, when He was risen from the dead, and when He ascended up to glory. After telling them that a little while and they should not see Him, and again a little while and they should see Him, He made the following announcement to His disciples: "In that day (that day when they would see Him again) ye shall ask Me nothing. Verily, verily, I say unto you, Whatsoever ye shall ask the Father in My Name, He will give it you. Hitherto have ye asked nothing in My Name: ask, and ye shall receive, that your joy may be full." (John xvi, 23, 24.) I want to draw your attention to three wonderful words in that twenty-fourth verse: "In My Name." Until then the disciples had no authority to present petitions to their Father in the Name that is above every name. But "in that day" they would have the right to append that Name, the Name of the Lord Jesus, to their petitions to the Father. What does it mean? How little we understand the force of the meaning of our Lord's gift in that farewell address to His disciples. It means this, that they were given the power they had never possessed before, of appending His Name to their petitions and presenting them to His Father. Those petitions then would virtually be the petitions of the Lord Jesus Himself. Prior to the Resurrection, our Lord taught His disciples to pray, and He taught them that wonderful Lord's Prayer, as we call it; but His Name does not appear in that Prayer. But now there was to be a new order. The Lord was giving them something that they did not possess before, a mighty power in prayer, if they would but use it; and we may have it to-day if we will use it. He says: "Hitherto have ye asked nothing in My Name." But now what a change, what a power! Our petitions are to be presented in the Name of the Lord Himself. We hear prayers constantly, and they are presented "for Christ's sake." I suppose that means "on the merits of Christ," but nowhere is there the injunction to so pray, and the expression nowhere occurs. But now this new power to pray "in My Name" was given.

Let me illustrate it this way. We have in the law and in commercial matters a well-known instrument that we call a Power of Attorney. A principal who, for some reason, is unable to manage his own affairs, appoints an agent, and he gives him power in the Deed of Appointment to use his name for the purposes of the business, or whatever it may be, of the principal. What is the effect of that? When that Attorney puts the name of the principal to the deed or document, it is the act and deed of the principal, and has the same force and effect as if signed by the principal himself. Now it often happens that where, say, a landed proprietor is going abroad, he is unable in his absence to look after and transact the business of his property, and he appoints an Attorney, and gives that Attorney power to use his name, whether it be in executing deeds, or bringing actions, or whatever it may be, for the purposes of managing his property.

Now what have we here? The Lord Jesus Christ was about to leave this world. He was going on a long journey, up to Heaven, and He appointed His disciples to carry on His work in His absence, and He made them His Attorneys, and gave them the right and the power to use His Name for that purpose. Suppose that Attorney puts up, we will say, some land for sale, and a price is offered, and he accepts it, the deed is drawn up, and he signs the name of his principal to that deed. It is duly witnessed, it is sealed with the seal which is really the seal of the principal, and that deed is delivered. And the effect of that is exactly the same as if the principal himself had been present, and had executed that deed. Now here we have this wonderful thing. It is as though the Lord should say: "Hitherto have ye asked nothing in My Name. Now I give you the right to pray to the Father in My Name. I will appoint you My Attorney to carry on My business in the earth during My absence."

Now there are different sorts of Powers of Attorney: general or unrestricted powers, and particular or restricted powers given only for some particular purpose, and for which alone they may be used. Which is it here? It is a general power. Our Lord said, "Whatsoever ye shall ask the Father in My Name, He will give it you." "Whatsoever!" it is a general, unrestricted power. But there is one restriction implied in every Power of Attorney, and that is that the principal's name is to be used only in the principal's business and for his benefit, and the Attorney must not use it for his own purposes. Yes, that condition attaches to this Power of Attorney that the Lord has given us. We are to use it in His service, in the advancement of His Kingdom, and for His purposes, and for those alone. And we are not given that power to use it for our own gratification and glorification, or for our own benefit. Oh, how selfish we often are in our prayers! Listen to the prayers that are offered up, and you will find that they are generally for blessings and comforts and successes for ourselves. But the Lord Jesus never gave that Power of Attorney to us for that purpose. No. He appointed us that we should carry on His work in this world, that we should use that Name for His glory, and for that alone, and that we should never use it merely for our own advancement. And so we find, looking back a couple of chapters in St. John's Gospel, that our Lord said: "Ye have not chosen Me, but I have chosen you, and ordained you, that ye should go and bring forth fruit, and that your fruit should remain; that whatsoever ye shall ask the Father in My Name, He may give it you." I want you to notice there that that power of presenting petitions in the Name of Jesus is coupled with fruit-bearing; it is given for the purpose of bearing fruit for God, and fruit that will remain. That is the purpose for which the Lord gave this wonderful gift, this marvellous power in that farewell talk that He had with His disciples just before going away. Do we know anything of that power? Do we realize the power that the Lord has put into our hands, if we will but use it for His purpose, for the advancement of His Kingdom, for the benefit of our King.

Notice what the result is of using this power for the proper purpose: it is fulness of joy. He says: "Hitherto have ye asked nothing in My Name." "Ask!" You have got the power now, that wonderful power of prayer "in My Name." Use it! Ask! There is no limit to the power. Use it for the advancement of His Kingdom. We want to realize the wonderful privilege He has given us, the mighty weapon He has placed in our hand. "Ask, and ye shall receive, that your joy may be full." Oh, the joy, the fulness of joy, in using the power that the Lord has given us, using it, not for our own advancement, or for our own blessing, but using it in the work and the service of Jehovah, using it in advancing His Kingdom, using it for the benefit of our Lord and our King, during His absence—Till He come! We have this opportunity. He has gone away, and He has appointed us His stewards here, but soon He is coming back, and then the opportunity will be gone. Shall we not use every power He has given us for His service, for the spreading abroad and the advancement of His Kingdom upon this earth? It is Till He come. Oh, the privilege, the honour, and yet the responsibility of this great power that the Lord has given us, the right to use His Name, and to present petitions to our Father in His Name.

Thursday, October 9th.

The Secretary-General takes the Chair. From his manner, no one would judge the weariness which possesses him, and as he swings into one of those illuminative, impassioned addresses which are characteristic of him, he looks like a man in the full enthusiasm and energy of his prime. We remember that last night this indomitable leader lectured for two full hours: some of us know how much work he has put in this morning at Headquarters; and now he tells us how he had feared, as the meeting opened, that he would not be able to carry on.

One is reminded of the lines of the hymn, "And fresh supplies of grace are shed like holy oil upon his head," for as Mr. Garrison outlines once more, for the benefit of the newcomers among us, the things in which we most surely believe, his strength does not fail, neither is his natural force abated. There is undoubted inspiration, a power not himself, that carries him through, and the audience with him. As Mr. Complin remarked in a later meeting, "It's amazing how much the Lord can pack into a little."

Then the Rev. Guy Waddington, with his incisive, clear-cut diction, his merciless logic, his sly humour. He tells us that he has no fear in criticizing his brother clergymen, since he is one of them; "but I will never criticize the Nonconformist ministers, though they are as bad."

What is the use, Mr. Waddington wants to know, of preaching a Gospel of Salvation in the hereafter to a man who is concerned with the here and the now? The pressing questions of present-day conditions, unemployment, insecurity, and labour questions generally, are not to be settled for the man-in-the-street by urging him to the consideration of a better world after he is dead. It is the living man and the living problem with which we have to deal.

With many an illuminating flash of humour, illustrating again and again how his brother clerics and the hard-headed men of the North find the speaker an exceedingly "hard nut to crack"; with that droll turn of phrase which continually sets us in a ripple of laughter, Mr. Waddington takes us inexorably to his conclusion.

The only solution of the pressing problems of the nation to-day, he insists—and as one who works among the industrial classes of Yorkshire, he says it with all the emphasis of his daily experience behind him—the only solution of the problems is that offered by Christ Himself. "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God, and His righteousness." To preach the Kingdom as Jesus preached it, an affair of this world and of this age; to solve our problems on the lines of His righteousness, His law, His justice, and His love; this is our mission, and it is along these lines that the Federation is winning the attention of thinking men all over the country.

The Chairman next calls on Dr. Goard to speak, and we are brought face to face with the needs and demands of the work of presenting this Gospel to the nation. Such is the conviction of the truth of our message, of its efficacy in application to the problems of the day, of its urgency in view of the critical situation, that we feel that all possible means must be employed to spread this great message throughout the country as speedily as possible. Consequently, when Mr. Garrison embarks upon his appeal for funds, we are ready to respond. Cards are being filled up, with promises from £1,000 down to £5—or is it "up" to £5, since many such a "smaller" promise is in God's sight the biggest of all.

The clock stands at twenty minutes to five: we have been hard at it since 2.45, and the Chairman calls on Rev. Maxwell Carnson. Mr. Carnson seems as if he is going to have no mercy on us, as he calmly announces that we shall be late for tea. The result proves that we are, for he immediately launches forth on an exposition of the Person of Christ as he sees Him from the British-Israel point of view. Not the "pale Galilean" of Swinburne; not the meek and mild sentimentalist of certain popular interpretations; nor the dying or dead Christ of another school of thought; but Jesus the King, announced as such in Old and New Testaments, recognized as such, living and working as such, and coming again as such to the throne of Israel, leading the Israel Hosts, applying the Israel law, establishing the Israel dominance of the world, and bringing all nations under His sway until "the kingdoms of this world become the Kingdoms of our Lord and of His Christ; and He shall reign for ever and ever."

Despite the lateness of the hour, the Council of the Federation meets at Headquarters to elect the new Executive. Mr. Morey continues his exceedingly valuable Conference of questions and answers in the Conference Hall, and we assemble again at 7.30 for the greatest meeting of the week next to that for Mr. Garrison's lecture. Mr. Clive Kenrick is in the chair, and he makes a carefully-prepared and admirable speech—one which is singularly appropriate as a prelude to Mr. Davidson's remarkably able and closely-reasoned paper. It could hardly have been more suitable had he known beforehand what was to follow, as will be seen when both speech and paper are read later in these pages.

It is a severe disappointment to us all that Mr. Davidson is prevented, by doctor's orders, from personally giving his paper on "The Exodus of Christian Civilization from Economic Bondage." Mr. Morey, however, does full justice to the subject, and carries off the difficult work of presenting someone else's paper in a way that catches and holds the attention of us all. Mr. Davidson's line is easy to follow: he declares privately that he has completed his technical research into the secrets of the Pyramid and is now delighting to be able to present its message to the public in a way that the average man can clearly understand.

This evening's message is such as all can follow, though it requires close application. A most carefully-worked-out parallel between the Exodus of Israel from Egypt, and the present (or future) Exodus of the world from Economic Bondage leads inevitably to the proof of Mr. Davidson's contention that May 28th, 1928, saw the entry of the world upon that period of strain and crisis typified by the second low passage of the Pyramid. As we hear authority after authority quoted, all declaring that the present economic crisis commenced at the very period which has been the cause of so much controversy, we are forcibly reminded of Shakespeare's dictum: "There are more things in heaven and earth, Horatio, than are dreamt of in our philosophy," and we are not surprised that the prophet Daniel should declare that, in these latter days, "the wise," and only they, "shall understand." For it requires spiritual discernment and spiritual insight to follow the workings of the Providence of God: "the natural man receiveth not the things of the Spirit, for they are foolishness unto him: because they are spiritually discerned."

We thank God for men of the type of Mr. Davidson, who deal with material manifestations in the guidance of the Spirit of Truth Who shall guide us into all Truth.

Once more, in the singing of the hymn, we "come up to breathe," and then Dr. Goard addresses the crowded audience. He tells us that he deplores the tendency of the age to separate between the sacred and the secular: the service of God on the Lord's Day in hymn and prayer and sermon, and the ordinary avocations of Government and of business six days in the week. This, he declares, is a doctrine of devils.

The Government of this country is a Government, not of the people, by the people, for the people: it is a Government by God of His nation for the glory of God and the salvation of the world. Dr. Goard suggests the immediate appointment of a Royal Commission to consider the bringing of the legislation and Government of the Anglo-Saxon Commonwealth of Nations into line with the law of God.

"Jehovah the King," we are told, "is more intensely eager and anxious concerning the adminstration of His Kingdom in the Anglo-Saxon community of nations than is any human member of that community."

At Sinai an organized nation suddenly appeared, fully equipped with a faith, a civilization and a law. Only on the lines of the miraculous could that be accounted for. In the wilderness that nation was schooled for its great world-work: that was the commencement of the British nation, when at Sinai God made His contact with His people, and organized them into God's Kingdom of Priests in the earth.

Later came Israel's divorce: but also her redemption, promised in Isaiah l and sweeping on to perhaps the best-known chapter in the Bible, Isaiah liii. Then came her marvellous expansion in Britain and America, in Australia and New Zealand, and in the Isles of the Sea.

There is, it is true, a time of suffering ahead: the waters of Noah would not destroy that people Israel. No weapon formed against them would prosper. Jehovah had given Jesus Christ as a witness to the people. This is not the "Carpenter" of Nazareth, for there is no Scripture warrant for that title. "I have given Him for a leader"; and that is the great need of to-day, the leading of the people back to God. The day is almost immediately upon us when Jesus Christ shall return, when "God shall give Him the throne of His father David, and He will rule over the House of Jacob for ever."

Friday, October 10th.

On Friday morning Mr. Basil Stewart addresses the delegates to their great delight, and the expositions which Dr. Goard gives in the ministerial session are such as to remain vibrant in the memory for a long time to come. Though, towards the end of the week, delegates begin to plan for their homeward journeys, there is no obvious diminution of our numbers, and there is a deepening intensity of feeling in the meetings as the week goes on. With Mr. Exley, of Brisbane, in the chair of the afternoon session, and Rev. Brown Pollock and

Digitized by Google

Dr. Goard as the speakers, we feel we are in a rich pasturage, and we are not disappointed.

Mr. Exley acts as an excellent publicist for his own land of Australia, "One of those uttermost parts of the earth promised to the House of David in the Second Psalm." He speaks with fervour of the extent and possibilities of Queensland, but added fire comes down upon him as he turns his attention to the scientists and challenges them on their own ground. Which of them, he wants to know, can create the smallest particle of matter? Which can change the inanimate to the animate? Or how will the evolutionist develop one species from another? When they are able to do these things, we will listen to them in matters of Biblical interpretation; but until they can, they should silence their criticism of the Bible and acknowledge, as all men must, the power of a supernatural Creator.

The Rev. William Brown Pollock is speaking now on Redemption in its three developments of new Personality, new Power and new Purpose. From his own experience, Mr. Brown Pollock evinces the fact that the British-Israel Truth makes a man new, in outlook, in courage, and in service. "Except a man be born from above," not evolved from below, he can neither see nor enter the Kingdom of God. Without this, all worldly wisdom merely obscures your vision.

Joel's prophecy for the last days reveals the coming of power to the children of the Kingdom, manifested at Pentecost, where is made clear the secret of the restoration of the Kingdom to Israel and the power for the working again of Divine miracles.

It is only a redeemed nation that can bring all the world into the Kingdom and preach the Gospel to every creature. All men may come into the Kingdom, but Redemption and Repentance must be theirs before they can enter into the heritage.

There is one person who sits on high in this Congress, whose activities lend success to every session, but whom we are sometimes inclined to overlook, and that is the organist. Most speakers will admit that they are exceedingly dependent on the spirit of the music for the forcefulness and ease of their address; the Rev. E. A. Couldrey has left nothing to be desired in this respect.

Is it out of his own inner feeling, when Mr. Garrison causes him at short notice to speak to us, that he deals with the excuses which Moses made when God called on him to be His voice to Pharaoh? "I am incompetent"; "the people know thee not"; "the people will not hearken"; these were Moses' excuses, but they do not fit Mr. Couldrey.

Moses held in his hand the very weapon which was to prove his greatest evidence of the Power of God, that famous rod which became the serpent. All God's servants through history have been thus provided. "What is that in thine hand?"

With Luther it was the parchment which led to the Reformation; with Wesley it was the Word of God, the foundation of the Evangelical Revival. Both Milton and Bunyan had a pen, the one for his great epic of "Paradise Lost and Regained," the other for his "Pilgrim's Progress."

To each of us, we are reminded, is given something in our hand; and simple lives, filled with Divine Power, accomplish mighty things. It was the fruitless fig-tree that was cursed by Christ. It is at our peril that we evade personal responsibility.

Now Dr. Goard rises with the plea that in all our thinking of the things of God we should endeavour to transcend our limited human vision and accept the view-points of eternity. In the beginning God created, and He will wind up at the end. The Almighty is busy with His Universe: our King is busy with His Kingdom. We human beings, as units in a racial whole, are of course interested in the racial destiny, and the birthday of the Race should mean more to us than our own birthday, which is merely individual.

In our thinking we deal with shortened periods, 70 or 100 years. Christ deals with matters on the racial plane, and events that to us seem 2,000 years apart are only two days to Him. For example, His return to His Kingdom seems strange to us, because we calculate that it is 1,900 years since He went: but on the racial plane, the return of Christ is an ordinary normal event following in due sequence upon His departure.

Dr. Goard urges us to swing into this view, and carries us through history on the wings of vision. We commence from the creation of the material world and the appearance of life; then conscious life and death succeed. Some One returns in Resurrection from the Grave: Some One ascends to Heaven: Some One will come back from Heaven, bringing His saints with Him.

This is normal progress, that is all. Christ is now waiting, waiting for that event; and we know that some day He will come once more into residence in His Kingdom upon earth.

By A. R. H.

Dibelius traces the source of England's power in the world to-day, back to the "appeal to strong action" which was born of the Renaissance. According to our German critic it was at this same time that the English first developed the "sense that their inner life, in spite of all its faults, was the work of God, and called by Him to the highest destiny. Puritanism sanctified the roused by the Renaissance, and dedicated it to religious uses. From the seventeenth century on, every Englishman is an Imperialist, conscious or unconscious, animated by a steady patriotic flame; which, however, nearly always has an international and religious tinge."

The Professor refers to "Puritan conceptions of England's destiny to fulfil the bidding of God" being occasionally revived during the nineteenth century, "in order to lend a religious sanction to a policy of force abroad." He sees "religious forces" constantly being used to "enrich the Anglo-Saxon drive to action" and describes Nineteenth Century Imperialism as a "vague mixture of the conquering and missionary idea" bearing "the authentic Cromwellian stamp" which "seeks not merely to conquer but to impose its ideals on the world."

But Dibelius sees quite clearly that the arrogant pretensions of Puritanism are being eliminated from the national outlook to-day. "This is the most important point," he writes:—

Digitized by Google

"It is only in the region of foreign policy that the Englishman is still the pure PURITAN, seeking to

of the GOD of the ANGLO-SAXONS."

But like most historians Dibelius seems to imagine that just because he has traced all the impulses and motives animating the conduct of the ENGLISH PEOPLE in the acting of their national drama, he has therefore disposed of any spiritual significance that might exist and reduced all the phenomena of the national life to an uninspired human level.

On the contrary his testimony is an eloquent confirmation and proof of the Divine direction of human affairs.

The BIBLE speaks of the ISRAEL PEOPLE being destined to become "a Peculiar People above all the nations that are upon the earth." *

Dibelius portrays destiny in fulfilment when he writes:—"In the history of social development, ENGLAND represents a quite peculiar national type."

The BIBLE speaks of the ISRAEL PEOPLE being destined to become "a PEOPLE for ACTION." †

Dibelius writes:—"At every turn we have come into contact with the ENGLISHMAN as the

and of will."

Moreover he sees that England's achievement has not been that of her outstanding great men so much as that of the common people as a PEOPLE. England's achievement is racial, not individual.

Thus Dibelius:—"England's achievement is, in the last analysis, not the individual achievement of single statesmen, single legislators, single generals or single thinkers, but the collective achievement of

THE ANGLO-SAXON RACE.

ENGLAND can live without great men comparatively longer than any other country." Always there have been "men, simple, of average endowment, and little or no intellectual or artistic claims, who quite naturally, good-naturedly and egotistically pushed with their elbows and kept on making the world more and more English: men who, at any crisis would be slow to sacrifice themselves, but when there was nothing else for it, came forward and did what was necessary. On such men rests England's greatness: because of them it has survived, without notable loss, periods when its statesmen were definitely mediocre, periods when the world was looking forward to England's downfall."

Surely we can regard it as something more than coincidence that the Englishman's powerful will to action born of the Renaissance emerged simultaneously with his sense that his inner life was the work of God?

"We have seen the Englishman's religion voicing itself in the most potent moral appeal ever made to the human will—Thou art to build up

THE KINGDOM OF GOD UPON EARTH.

To that art thou called, thou and thy PEOPLE!" writes Dibelius, but dismisses the possibility of any significant conclusion being drawn from the simple fact of history.

Dibelius dismisses as cant "the Anglo-Saxon's naive assumption that his STATE, his culture, his conceptions of honour and morals are the only ones in the world." Yet is it not just possible that this might be the human distortion of Divine revelation?

The Kingdom is not the Kingdom yet. The English are being used by GOD for the carrying out of the "must be being restored" process of Kingdom-development. They are charged with the responsibility of building and organizing the ideal STATE. Present conditions may be far from the KINGDOM of heaven. But we are moving steadily toward the goal.

We are a peculiar people. And we have produced a conception of STATE which is characteristically different from the product of any other nations. "It is not," writes Dibelius, "as everywhere else in Europe, based upon absolutism. This new STATE, on the contrary, is a quite peculiar combination of modern democratic forms with the aristocratic spirit of the gentleman.

"It is the Englishman's philosophy of life. The system posits free, self-reliant and self-controlling citizens. It divides the world into nations free and unfree according as they do or do not resemble the English idea, and sees, in the history of the world, nothing but a gradual development of English liberty, destined to fill the whole world at last."

Dibelius observes but does not share this conviction. Elsewhere he makes plain his belief that the ANGLO-SAXON STATE cannot have a universal application.

But his vision is penetrating enough to see that the genius of the British idea rests in the fact that authority commands by leaving "to the commanded the sense that they nay, are really ruling themselves."

A form of STATE based upon voluntary co-operation instead of force—on moral in place of physical compulsion—is something new in the history of the world.

Like a church the new STATE relies upon the response to its appeal:—"Whosoever will . . . . !" Its strength, like that of CHRISTIANITY, depends entirely upon the fact that it does not compel conversion and obedience but calls upon all to take of its life-giving benefits freely. Christians are called upon but not forced to become with GOD.

The political conception of the new BRITISH STATE derives its inspiration from the Scriptural conception of the organization of the KINGDOM of GOD. That is the conception. We are moving gradually toward the realization of the conception in practical achievement.

Dibelius notes a transformation in the British outlook to-day when he says:—"For the first time in his history, the Englishman recognizes the STATE as an entity, possessing over-riding rights because it represents the nation as a whole."

He regards BRITAIN as being behind the Continental nations in this respect. But he underestimates the depth and force of the transformation which this new conception is destined to effect.

BRITAIN is the author of modern ideas in freedom and liberty. She may be last of nations to make the apparent surrender involved in exalting the welfare of the whole above the absolute

* Deut. xiv, 2. A.V. † 1 Pet. ii, 9. Ferrar Fenton.

Digitized by Google

freedom of the individual. But she will be first of the nations to carry this idea to its logical conclusions. She will be first of nations to produce a definite plan for the erection of the ideal State or City of God.

Dibelius catches a fleeting glimpse of this when he writes :— "It is good for the world, and good for nations with other ideals, that the world contains a State such as has made the State well-nigh superfluous, where most of the functions of the State are administered by society. England's contribution to civilization is this Free State. All England's other achievements pale by the side of this."

But that is as far as our German critic is prepared to go. In conclusion he throws down the spirited challenge :— "The authentic contribution made by the modern nations of Europe to the spiritual treasures of mankind is as important, perhaps in the last analysis more important than England's. Even England does not possess even the English are not the chosen people."

An Independent Civilization,

But the doctrine of the chosen people does not imply the possession of an independent civilization. Britain is the nucleus of a World-Kingdom which can hold together in unity many nations and many civilizations.

The chosen people are an important thing. But "all the families of the earth," ‡ are the all-important thing. The chosen people are an essential instrument in the Divine plan. But their importance is in relation to other nations. Apart from the other nations their significance as a chosen people does not exist.

The words, "in thy seed shall all the nations of the earth be blessed," § do not denote an independent civilization. They denote Israel's position as a centre through which God's blessing may reach humanity and civilization as a whole.

If the British-Israel thesis meant that Anglo-Saxondom was about to enforce its culture upon every other nation and civilization, no Christian worthy of the name could have anything to do with it.

If it meant that the Anglo-Saxon spirit and ideals in their present undeveloped form were destined to rule the world, again no Christian worthy of the name could look at it. But it does not mean these things.

Anglo-Saxondom represents a nucleus which the civilizations of every nation under heaven can freely join. It forms a biological basis for a truly international Kingdom. Dominion not domination is its destiny.

It influences all but compels none. It represents the outline of a Kingdom the glory of whose unity is in its diversity. All civilizations are invited to bring their own peculiar glory into it.[1]

Only when its spirit is thoroughly cleansed will it have reached the stage where it can safely dominate. But then it will be the dominance of the reign of love. England will only become all-powerful under the All-Ruler.[2] And in that day the kingdoms of this world will have become the Kingdom of our Lord and of His Christ.

National cleansing has been provided for. National pride, envy, ignorance, intolerance, egotism, will all be swept away with the coming climax to the process of outpouring of the new spirit of the new and better covenant.[3]

We are asking for a miracle. But with God all things are possible. And we have the promise of His Word that if we nationally enquire of Him to do it for us [4] He will demonstrate the achievement of the impossible to be not the least of Divine possibilities and triumphs.

NOTES ON THE IMPERIAL CONFERENCE.

By A. R. H.

II.

Mr. Scullin, Prime Minister of the Commonwealth of Australia, in the course of his address said :—" Irrespective of the parties to which we belong we pay tribute to the memory of the men who played their part in building up the nations which constitute the Commonwealth of Nations. I have confidence that the Nation I represent, in common with the Nations which make up will pull through the difficulties which face us to-day.

This Commonwealth of Ours,

" I would like at this early stage to emphasize the very active sympathy of the Government and People of Australia with the efforts which have been made for the preservation of world peace. We take pride that the Government of the United Kingdom has given along these practical lines, suggesting the only practical steps that will prevent a repetition of the horrors of war.

" One of the principle tasks ahead of us is to advance a stage further the great task of harmonizing the real self-determination of the Dominions with the real unity of the British Commonwealth of Nations.

" We are a Free Association of Peoples, and to my mind there is nothing to be gained, and perhaps a great deal to be lost, by attempting to crystallize our relations too closely within the confines of any formal document.

" Here in this British Commonwealth of Nations we have in existence the

on a fine scale. Let us strive to safeguard the unity of the whole without sacrificing the individual liberty of the parts. On the unity of the British Commonwealth may depend, in time of crisis, the preservation of international peace.

" Mr. MacDonald spoke of the spirit being of more importance than the form. I endorse and applaud that remark, and I submit that this is the sense in which we should approach our many tasks. Before leaving this subject I would like to express the appreciation we feel in Australia of the sympathetic attitude that has been evidenced by successive Governments in this country (England) in adapting themselves to the new constitutional position and to the comparatively rapid changes that have taken place in Inter-Imperial relations."

Mr. Scullin continued with a remarkable address upon the subject of "Empire Economic Co-operation"; too long to report here. Readers wishing to refer to the address are invited to consult page 7 of the Times dated October 2nd, 1930, where a full report is given.

The Prime Minister of NEW ZEALAND, Mr. Forbes, now addressing the CONFERENCE, said:—"It falls to me to represent, as worthily as may be, a DOMINION which, though small in area and limited in population, yields second place to none in its devotion to the CROWN, and its determination to do what lies in its power to promote the unity and prosperity of OUR COMMONWEALTH of NATIONS.

"We have valued, and still value, our close connection with the UNITED KINGDOM and with our sister DOMINIONS, and we should have been well content to allow constitutional relationships to settle themselves in the time-honoured way, in accordance with the necessities of the position and the requirements of the time. We readily recognize, however, that the considerations applicable to one DOMINION are not necessarily applicable to all, and that if

OUR ASSOCIATION TOGETHER IN ONE

COMMONWEALTH is to endure it must rest upon a basis which is acceptable to all.

"It seems to me that in a COMMONWEALTH consisting of at least SIX EQUAL PARTNERS, differing in a marked degree in history, in geographical situation, in internal organization, in industrial development and in economic orientation, and differing to some degree also in language and in race, centrifugal influences must inevitably tend towards the weakening of our association in the absence of some effective means of evolving a common policy and common action in all essential matters. It is our hope that the Governments represented here will find it possible to divert their attention from status to co-operation."

General Hertzog, Prime Minister of the UNION of SOUTH AFRICA, expressed the hope that the Conference might "prove no less advantageous to the prosperity and happiness of the COMMONWEALTH and its constituent members than that of 1926," and continued: "I have no doubt that if we set ourselves to the fulfilling of our task in the same spirit of mutual helpfulness, the result of our labour will be no less conducive to cordial co-operation, and to the solution of Commonwealth problems in a spirit of national comradeship."

The Minister for External Affairs for the IRISH FREE STATE, Mr. McGilligan, said: "The extent to which in the COMMONWEALTH has gone and the friendly relations so established impose upon us the duty of taking a deep interest in each other's welfare. The prosperity of the group as a whole, dependent upon the orderly and balanced economic life of each NATION of the group, has a direct bearing on the happiness and welfare of every individual citizen in all OUR COUNTRIES.

"For us the recognition of our position as a FREE and SOVEREIGN STATE comes before all other considerations. We desire to devote ourselves entirely to the development of the prosperity of our people and to co-operation with the other Governments of the COMMONWEALTH in raising the level of human happiness in other countries."

The Prime Minister of NEWFOUNDLAND, Sir Richard Squires, now gave the Conference an address tinged with a definite British-Israel flavour. "We want, as Newfoundlanders, to develop our position in the EMPIRE," he said. "We feel that in the days of long ago the world thought in terms of miles as distance. Now we think in terms of time. Whilst in the past decades the Imperial idea was cramped by the distance of one OVERSEAS DOMINION from another, to-day science is so lessening distance from the time standpoint that the vision of years ago is realized when the BRITISH EMPIRE would be linked together, not merely by long distance cable or occasional visits, but by actual contact at some given headquarters of the leading statesmen of EMPIRE, so that there can be developed that personal touch, that unity of thought, so essential for Empire solidarity.

"I feel that at this moment these lines of KIPLING are most appropriate:—

'Oh, East is East, and West is West, and never the twain shall meet, Till Earth and Sky stand presently at God's great Judgment Seat:
But there is neither East nor West, Border, nor Breed, nor Birth,
When two strong men stand face to face, though they come from the ends of the earth!'

"Here and now you have the strong men of the East, of the West, of the North, and of the South, gathered together in conclave, in chambers pregnant with creative thought, and it is with that idea of the possibility of the outstanding success of the Conference that NEWFOUNDLAND joins in the consideration of Empire problems."

British-Israel believers reading this speech naturally recall the words of Isaiah—that great prophet to ISRAEL in the ISLES:—"I will bring thy seed from the EAST, and gather thee from the WEST; I will say to the NORTH, Give up; and to the SOUTH, Keep not back: bring my sons from far and my daughters from the ends of the earth."

And are we not justified in looking further into the future still toward the calling of that of Matt. viii, 11:—"Many shall come from the EAST and WEST and shall sit down with ABRAHAM (Father of the Brith-ish Race) and ISAAC (Father of the Saxon Race) and JACOB (Father of the Israel People), in the KINGDOM of heaven."

The KINGDOM of Heaven? Yes! The KINGDOM of Dan. ii, 44. The KINGDOM that the GOD of Heaven set up. This Kingdom is a worthy contemporary and successor to the Gentile succession—BABYLON, MEDO-PERSIA, GREECE and ROME—and is one which, in its final state, will with millennial-perfection conform in realization to the prayer-ideal of Christian hearts: "Thy KINGDOM come on earth as it is in heaven."

It will be a great Day indeed when the Fathers of the RACE themselves preside over the gatherings for Imperial consultation. At this great Conference the destiny of nations will be settled in a manner never attempted before.

DOES THE BIBLE STAND OR FALL WHEN TESTED BY SCIENCE, HISTORY AND PHILOSOPHY?—XI.

By Professor Edward Odlum, M.A., B.Sc.

Ishmael Under Covenant.

Genesis xvii.—"And as for Ishmael, I have heard thee: Behold, I have blessed him, and will make him fruitful, and will multiply him exceedingly."

In these and other words we see that Ishmael, Abram's son, was brought into covenant blessings, which indeed was a great joy to Abram, who had it in his heart to give him the blessings of the firstborn, known as the BIRTHRIGHT.

This great blessing was Divinely held for Isaac, the son of Sarah and Abraham. The history of Ishmael in and around Arabia, his primal home, very clearly shows that the covenant promises were made good.

"He shall dwell in the presence of his brethren."

This was a strange, a very unique promise. Nothing in Scripture like it. Has this statement been made good adown the ages? It is of the nature of an unending promise: it carries the for ever element.

He shall dwell in the presence of his brethren. If a time could come when he departed from the presence of his brethren, then there would be a time when the word would fail.

What are the facts? Ishmael for 3,800 years has remained in the homeland given to Abram, Isaac, Jacob and their seed for ever. And Ishmael is there to-day. Nations came and went, but Ishmael remains for ever.

Mongols, Tartars, Turcomans, Scyths, Goths, Greeks, Romans, Danes, Norse, Angles, Saxons, and all others might perpetually shift from place to place, but Ishmael never. His home was permanently located, his habitat fixed.

Thus then a unique promise has stood the test of all time, and the foreknowledge of the fact carries in it the mark of Divinity. Here, as elsewhere, the Old Book stands and wins out perfectly.

Abram—Abraham.

Genesis xvii.—"Neither shall thy name any more be called Abram, but thy name shall be Abraham; for a father of many nations have I made thee."

Remarkable how the Lord gives attention to names and their significance.

Abram was the name given by his parents, and while carrying that name, he received many promises of great and far-reaching blessings.

Ab-ra-ham, the father ruling a multitude! Ab, a father; ra, ruling, as seen in Rajah in India to-day; and ham, a multitude.

If we look, as we shall later on, at the word Israel, we will see that it, like Abraham, is composed of three words. Is-ra-el. Is or Ish a man; ra, ruling; and el, God: a man ruling with God. Ra is the middle word in Ab-ra-ham, and in Is-ra-el.

Both names, given by the Lord, are prophetic, and were so intended when Divinely given.

THE SECRETARY-GENERAL'S NEWS AND NOTES.

Mr. John Leech and the Rev. Joseph Gay addressed excellent meetings at Headquarters last week. Meetings will be held at H.Q. each Wednesday afternoon at 3 and each Thursday evening at 7.30. All are invited. Mr. J. J. Morey will be the speaker on Thursday evening next.

Chancellor Du Bois, the Rev. Dr. Goard and Mr. Herbert Garrison addressed two large audiences in the Town Hall, Folkestone, on October 16th. Many of those present were new to B.-I. meetings. Colonel Du Pre presided.

Headquarters' speakers including Dr. Goard, Mr. Leech, Rev. Maxwell Carnson and the Secretary-General are addressing meetings this week at Tunbridge Wells, Hove, Brighton and Dover. Dr. Goard and Mr. Garrison were at the Birmingham Town Hall on Monday last.

To-day (Saturday) Dr. Goard travels to Glasgow. To-morrow he preaches at Crosshill-Victoria Church at 11, and addresses a great audience in St. Andrew's Hall at 6.30. On Monday he opens a series of meetings in the Central Halls, 25, Bath Street, Glasgow—not Christian Institute, as stated in our last issue—and continues each evening at 8 up to and including Friday, October 31st. All our friends and supporters are earnestly requested to do all they can to make these meetings widely known. Particulars can be obtained from Mr. Young, 20, Queen Street, Glasgow, and he will be glad of the help of volunteers to distribute circulars, etc. Our Manifesto is to appear in the "Glasgow Herald" this week, on Tuesday or Wednesday probably.

By invitation of our Edinburgh members and friends, Mr. Garrison will go to that city on October 27th to help organize a series of meetings there from November 3rd to 7th in Dowell's Rooms, 18, George Street, afternoons at 3 and evenings at 8, except Thursday night, to be addressed by the Rev. Dr. Goard and himself. A drawing-room meeting is being arranged for one day next week to make advance arrangements. Volunteer workers are asked for and a room has been engaged in which they will be able to do good work which will be duly indicated. Communications should be addressed to Mr. Wm. Green, 123, George Street, Edinburgh, or to the Secretary-General at same address.

These two big efforts for Scotland are being made at the urgent request of our Scotch friends, and as the expenses will be heavy we ask that all who can among our Northern readers will generously come forward with donations to provide against loss. No charge whatever will be made by Headquarters except for out-of-pocket expenses, but the cost of advertising, rents, etc., have to be met. We feel sure that all will join in prayer with us for the Divine blessing on all these meetings.

Miss Hamilton Hunter has addressed splendid meetings at Harrow, Worthing and Eastbourne. Encouraging progress is being made in both places.

Miss Hunter opened the session at Bexhill-on-Sea with two good meetings. She emphasized individual responsibility and made powerful presentations of Israel Truth. New members were enrolled. The Branch will now concentrate on making a success of the mission which the Rev. Maxwell Carnson is to conduct next month, of which due notice will be given.

Mr. Wintersgill, Hon. Sec. of our Wigan Branch, writes of a very encouraging opening of their winter session with an impressive address by the Rev. E. A. Couldrey. Several enquirers attended and new members were enrolled. The power of the Holy Spirit was manifested. A great move forward is anticipated this year. People are realizing that we are living in extraordinary times and are now willing to listen to B.-I. teaching.

Paignton Branch has sustained a very great loss in the passing to Eternal Life of their much beloved member, Caroline Anna Margaret, widow of Archibald L. Spens, I.C.S., on October 12th. She was a firm believer in the B.-I. Truth, an ardent supporter of the Bible Society, and the first to inaugurate the Mothers' Union in Paignton, holding monthly meetings in her own house.

A member in Canada asks :—"Has any reader a complete set of The Northern British-Israel Review (quarterly 6d., annually 2s. 6d.), printed and published by Fraser, Asher and Co., Ltd., 164, Howard Street, Glasgow, for the Northern British-Israel Council, edited by M. Graham Coltart. Failing a set, would anyone sell :

Number 3 of volume I.
Number 1 of volume III.
Numbers 2 and 3 of volume V.
Number 3 of volume VI.

The enquirer would prefer the whole set, but very particularly wishes to secure the specified numbers, and, of course, is quite prepared to pay for same.

E. E. L. writes : "I have this day returned home from the Congress. It would take pages to tell you my impressions, and, after all, they are just the impressions of hundreds of others who attended from all parts of the Empire. . . . . As a result of it all I enclose you a cheque for one hundred pounds. This money expresses my whole savings for a day of misfortune in health, or lack of work ; so you see I have come home with two outstanding thoughts—nothing is too much to give up, no trust too great to repose in the Lord God of Israel . . . . . I am now putting my health, and my fitness to continue to earn my daily bread, into His Hand, as a result of the "Vision Glorious" presented to us last week."

God said, "David shall never want a man to sit upon the throne of the house of Israel."—Jer. xxxiii, 17.

Mr. Milner's work proves the existence of the man of David, sitting upon a throne. It follows that the throne must be that of the house of Israel.

When anything of value is lost it is usual for the loser to advertise for it in the "Lost and found" column of the local newspaper, or to put a notice in a shop window or on the wall of a building. These notices always give a description of the lost article, so that the finder may be able to identify it. Generally a reward is offered, the more valuable the article the greater the reward.

And the reward? A clearer understanding of the Scriptures and of God's plan for the world as revealed in them; a proof of His faithfulness to His promises; and the knowledge that on us, as members of this mighty Empire, rest all the promises made to our fathers, not to be used for our own gain, but that we may become indeed a blessing to all the world.

On Giving

THE festive season is again drawing nigh. Simultaneously the ever perplexing problem of Christmas Gifts comes to mind.

Some have the happy gift of being able to choose the right present for each individual without a deal of thought, so to those people this notice does not apply, as they have most probably already decided which B.-I. book will be most suitable for each recipient.

Now to those who find that the choosing of Christmas Gifts becomes a more harassing problem each succeeding year, we would say: Cease to worry, let us make a helpful suggestion.

You probably have among the members of your family and among your friends many who accept British-Israel Truth. What constitutes the best of all gifts for them ? The answer is obvious—B.-I. books of course! Your choice will not be restricted, because, as our Truth grows so does our catalogue of publications, and the number of books and pamphlets now available runs into well over one hundred titles. The field of choice is therefore large and varied, and remember that our Book Room holds a large stock of literature which does not appear in our catalogue.

Let us help you still further. We have recently published a number of most important books, and one of these in particular is very suitable as a gift. We refer to Dr. Goard's latest publication, "CROSSING THE RIVER." Here you have a book that is most attractive in appearance, and even more attractive in content. Dr. Goard has reached a highly spiritual note in this book, and for anyone who values the remarkable expositions of the Author, there could be no better gift. There is a special presentation binding in blue art leather with gilt edges, costing 5/3, post free, while the price of the neatly bound cloth edition is 3/9 post free.

Next comes Dr. James Mountain's magnum opus, "THE TRIUMPH OF BRITISH-ISRAEL." This is a big book of 336 pages, with index, written in reply to the attacks on B.-I. Truth by Revd. D. Lee Pitcairn, Mr. George Goodman and Mr. Avary H. Forbes, M.A. This book covers practically the whole ground, is full of ripe scholarship, and can be confidently recommended. This would make a splendid gift for both those who already have a knowledge of B.-I. teaching and those who should have. It costs 6/6, post free.

A recent publication, and one that fills a long-felt want, is entitled "THE STORY AND MESSAGE OF OUR BIBLE," by Mrs. M. Cooke. This is our suggested gift for the young people. The author has presented the absorbing story of how we got our Bible in a bright and readable manner, and the interest of the reader will be fully maintained throughout. The final chapters are devoted to an easily understood treatise dealing with the message of our Bible in history and prophecy. It will be seen that this publication forms an admirable introduction to B.-I. teaching, and it costs but 2/3, post free.

There are, as we mentioned before, many other publications of merit in our catalogue, some of which are advertised on other pages of this issue. But remember, let it be books—B.-I. books. Your presents will then carry a twofold value—they will come, first as a gift, and secondly as valuable knowledge placed at the disposal of the recipient.

NOW, make your selection from our catalogue (which will be gladly sent free and post free on request), send it to us with the names and addresses to whom you wish the books sent, and we will post in time for Christmas. We are glad to do this service, realising that the packing and posting of parcels can be an irksome task to you, but is to us a part of our everyday routine.

Send your order and full particulars, with remittance, to the address below, and we will do the rest.

EDITORIAL.

The following should be read in the light of Israel Truth, namely, that the Anglo-Saxon nations are the continuation of the Israel nation ; the inheritors of her Charters ; the possessors of her guarantees and immunities from destruction ; the executors of her commissions.

It should be understood that Authors alone are responsible for the views expressed in their Articles.

GOD.

THE PEOPLE. △ THE BIBLE.—III.

By the Rev. Dr. W. Pascoe Goard, F.R.G.S.

Israel furnished the controlling factor in world history, imparting to it its direction, and meeting and turning its stream at critical points from the emergence of the nation Israel among the nations in 1491 B.C. onward to the present day.

In noting the outstanding dates, and the events marked by such dates, in the history of Israel and of the world, we came down to the establishment of the House of David in Israel in 1055 B.C.

This event is important, as it establishes the Kingdom of the House of David in Israel, God's "Kingdom of Priests," and in the world to the end of time. There has been no choice left by Almighty God for those who believe the Bible, and who would do the will of God as revealed therein, but to be subjects of the Kingdom so established, if they are indeed a part of God's Kingdom-nation Israel. There is no choice left for the people. There is no chance to submit the matter to a popular vote. By the act of God, confirmed by the solemn oath of God, the House of David was established to reign in the Houses of Judah and of Israel for ever.

Let it be noted, however, that there is no guarantee that the House of David should reign over the whole of the Israel ethnical groups at any one time before the final reunion of all Judah with all Israel. Then, and thereafter, "David my servant shall be king over them all." It was by the Lord's will that the ten-tribed Kingdom of Israel moved out from under the rule of the House of David at the time of the rebellion of Israel under Jeroboam. It was afterwards the will and act of God which removed the House of David from Judah and established it over the House of Israel. (See Jer. xxxiii.) It is God's declared will that in these very last days in which we are now living all the ethnical units of Judah and of Israel shall become one and shall have for their King "David my servant." Every such ethnical unit which has not been recognized as of Israel will now manifest itself and seek union with the central body of Israel.

This will as surely come to be the case as that the sun will arise again in due time in the heavens.

The Kingdom of David held the balance of power in the ancient world from the close of David's reign to the Assyrian invasion of separated Israel.

The Kingdom of David started the armies of Nebuchadnezzar marching again and again, and was the key influence in the reign of that monarch. The Kingdom of David furnished matter for the most solemn prophecies during the days of Isaiah, Jeremiah and Ezekiel, and also of the other prophets.

The Kingdom of David established in the "high mountain and eminent," even "the mountain of the height of Israel," that is to say, in the British Isles, has been a leading factor in world affairs from the sixth century before Christ, and still is even to the present day.

Herein is a thread of world history which would occupy many such articles as this to unthread. But it has been elsewhere written in part, and will be more fully developed as the study of this realm of history goes forward.

THE COLONIAL EMPIRE OF DAVID AND SOLOMON.

The Kingdom of David during the reign of David and Solomon exercised a marvellous influence in the world as it was then constituted.

The scope of Assyrian activities seems geographically to have comprised the watershed of the Euphrates. It extended to the Mediterranean, to the Black and Caspian Seas, to the Persian Gulf, and to the borders of India.

The scope of Egyptian activities extended into the heart of Africa, and interlocked on the Mediterranean with the activities of Assyria.

The scope of Israel activities, in conjunction with those of Tyre, extended elsewhere to the then known world, even perhaps to the now known world.

This is a phase of the story which is too long to be told here. It must suffice to say that the then new world, which included all the continents and most of the island groups of the Northern and Southern seas, in both the east and west, were known and exploited by the Israelites and the Tyreans. Together these were known by the geographical name of Phœnicians.

It seems that Tyre took as the sphere of her influence the regions south of the Equator, and Israel the regions north of the Equator. Both traded together in all these regions. Solomon's fleet went with the fleet of Hiram of Tyre, and Hiram's fleet sailed with those of Solomon. The organization of the overseas "sphere of influence" south of the Equator was done by Tyre, and it partook of her system. The organisation of the sphere of influence north of the Equator was undertaken by Israel, and here was laid the foundation for the later developed European civilization.

Nebuchadnezzar destroyed these two centres of world trade, commerce and colonization when he destroyed Jerusalem and Tyre. Because of the system on which it had been organized, which withheld from the colonies knowledge of the essential industries, the Tyrian colonies in the south reverted to savagery. Because it was always the Hebrew policy to make every person, and every colony, self-dependent by teaching them the essential industries, the northern colonies of Israel stood, and became modern nations.

The ancient British or Israel Empire under Solomon was a foreshadowing of the modern British Empire under His Gracious Majesty King George V.

But we must turn away from the epic of the House of David.

We now turn to the multiplication of the ethnic units of Israel stock, by the separation of the nation into two houses, two nations, two kingdoms, namely (a) Israel, containing ten of the tribes of Israel; and (b) Judah, containing two tribes. These two ethnical units continued to reside in Palestine, Israel in Northern Palestine, and Judah in South Palestine. Inasmuch as Bible history took in only the activites of Israel within the geographical boundaries of Palestine, these two ethnical units alone are discussed and their movements recorded in the Bible histories. Here was the administrative centre of the Divine administration, and only their actions had significance for the Divine purpose.

There were other ethnical Israel and Judah units in existence then and there continued to be through the succeeding ages of history.

The kingdom of Priam, with its capital city of Troy, was founded by a branch of the Israel people descended from the Patriarch Judah. The leader of this colony was Zarah, the son of Judah, on whose hand the midwife tied the scarlet cord.

Greece had been occupied by the Danois, or the people of Dan.

Britain had been occupied by an early migration of Israel people, and in Ezekiel's day the British colony constituted the "high mountain and eminent: the mountain of the height of Israel" on which the tender twig of the Royal House of David was planted.

Thus we see that there were at that time of world history five ethnical branches of Israel stock.

975 B.C. saw the division of united Israel into two rival and often hostile nations. In the meantime the power of Assyria was steadily growing. Assyria would have been powerless to have broken the united strength of Israel, but it would soon be strong enough to try conclusions successfully with divided Israel. Thus the dividing of Israel into two nations was a point of cleavage which changed the current of world history, and changed it for the worse. Had united Israel plus the House of David been obedient and usable by the Lord God Almighty, the course of suffering the world has been caused to walk through might have been entirely avoided. But Israel was more set upon material and political good than upon moral and spiritual development. Therefore Israel turned away from the Lord God of Israel, and from the great purpose He had revealed to them and to their fathers, and to which He had called them to dedicate their lives. Therefore He had to give them time to try their experiments in life, individual and national, that at the end, disillusioned and weary at heart, they might return to Him and to His purpose again.

740 B.C. saw Assyria triumph against wasted Israel, and saw Israel carried captive to Assyria. Humanly speaking, it was a sorry day, and a mad day, for Assyria when they carried such a virile race into captivity into the heart of their own land. Results soon began to be manifested in that land from the settlement there of the Israel peoples.

First, Israel struck for local freedom, and obtained it. They turned their arms against their captors, and even captured the City of Nineveh, burning it to the ground.

Then they made alliance with the Medes and Persians, and brought about the fall of Babylon and the establishment of the Medo-Persian dynasty, achieving their own and the Jews' freedom at the same time.

But more striking still was the religious and political difference which they produced in the Euphrates Valley. Polytheism gave place to Monotheism. Autocracy gave place to limited Monarchy. Slavery gave place to freedom of races within the Empire.

From thence the light of Monotheism was sent forth to the ends of the earth. Zoroaster set up his system of faith and law in Persia; Buddha, the Lion of the Saxons, set up his system of faith and law in India; the Jews began their Talmudic commentaries on the Scriptures; Druidism was reformed in Britain; the Philosophers and Law proponents in Greece reached the height of their glory; even Rome partook of the broadcasted culture. Thus as the Apostle Paul declares, "The casting away of them was the enriching of the world." Thus the scattering of Israel in Assyria became the means of the beginning of the preparation of the world for the Coming of the Christ.

In 603 B.C., Babylon, which had in the meantime overthrown and succeeded Assyria, carried Judah away captive to Babylon.

What this transaction effected in the way of modification of world history let the Book of Daniel tell. This Book contains one of the most striking presentations of world history of that period which can be found in any literature. In the meantime the Book of Daniel capped the climax of literary achievement by prewriting the history of the succession of world Empires which should arise right down to the present day.

536 B.C., fifty thousand Jews, or less, returned to Jerusalem and founded the nation of the Jews. It will need no words of mine to show that the founding of that nation was an event which has profoundly affected all succeeding world history.

284 B.C., Alexander the Great, at the head of the Danois or Greeks, invaded and overthrew the Empire of Persia. Thus the third ethnic unit of Israel made its impact upon world history.

4 B.C., our Lord was born, and the great events of His life became historic. Nothing since the world began has so affected the course of world history as the life, death, resurrection and ascension of our Lord, and the Gospel which tells the wonderful story.

70 A.D., Jerusalem was destroyed and the nation of the Jews scattered.

About this period Rome made the first national contact with Israel in Britain, and Israel in Britain emerged upon the full stage of world history.

About 40 A.D., Joseph of Arimathea and his companions brought and established the Gospel of our Lord in England, from whence missionaries were sent to the European peoples, even to Rome itself in the person of the Royal Household of Britain. Notably, there were found in Rome, Linus, Pudens, and Claudia, of the Household of Caradoc, Britain's hero king, all of whom are mentioned by St. Paul in his Second Epistle to Timothy.

In the third century A.D., the eruption of the Huns from the east uprooted and drove the Israel peoples from the borders of the Black and Caspian Seas, on both the European and Asiatic sides, and sent them crashing up against and through the boundaries of the Roman Empire, under the name of "Goths" in its variations.

These progressed down through the Roman Empire to the borders of the North Sea and of the Baltic, and streamed across into Britain under various leaders, being called by various names. But they were all of Israel stock.

The final influx was in 1066 A.D., under William the Conqueror.

From this time the people were occupied in the process of fusion. There were the original Israel settlements called the ancient Britons; there were the Saxons and Danes; and finally the Normans. It took centuries for all these to settle down side by side and to be fused into the Anglo-Saxon peoples.

Then they began, and have since carried on, their colonization of the waste heritages of the earth, and they have received the gift of "the heathen" for an inheritance as it is at this day.

And yet the great epic is not yet worked out. They must still go forward with the Divine plan till all nations, free and equal, are found within the boundaries of the Kingdom of God.

Thus the march of the people has been on the lines of the history and prophecy of the Book, and it is gloriously manifest that God has been shepherding them all the time, and throughout every stage of their age-long journeyings. May God still carry on His great plan for the regeneration of humanity and the salvation of the world.

CONGRESS ADDRESSES.

MONDAY EVENING.

DR. PASCOE GOARD said: I have to apologize for the non-appearance of Major Rigg, who was to have been Chairman this evening, but most important national service prevents his being present with us to-night; but his sympathy and good will and earnest desire for our success is most heartily with us.

We are exceedingly glad to meet again on this first day of our Annual Congress, and to realize that in the gatherings of this afternoon and this evening, and during this week, there are representatives from very widely separated parts of Anglo-Saxondom: from Australia, from the United States of America, from the Dominion of Canada, from South Africa, and from many other parts of the Anglo-Saxon world; and also from a number of the Continental countries and nations, delegates are gathered here. On behalf of the Federation, as its Deputy President, I again welcome you every one, and pray that God's blessing may be upon each and all of us during this, I do not doubt, wonderful week upon which we have entered. I wish to say to such of the brethren of the clergy and ministry as are present in the Congress to-night, that it is our desire to welcome you now and always on the platform. The ordained ministers of the Word are those whom God has appointed to lead in this phase of the great evangel, and we shall all feel a good deal more comfortable to see you, and to feel your presence shoulder to shoulder with us on the platform, than to look at you in the audience. Let this invitation stand for every meeting. Let me also invite you in the name of the Association connected with the work of the Federation to come and join with us in our special meeting, and study together at eleven o'clock each morning at our Headquarters, at 6, Buckingham Gate. We shall be very glad to welcome you.

We have a delightful programme this evening, and I am not going to stand between you and the speakers.

THE REV. MAXWELL CARNSON said: Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen,—I have in mind to-night those of you who are in this Hall feeling a little bit strange, and, it may be, a little bit nervous lest someone present should see you here and wonder at the strange company in which you find yourself. It is not so very long since I was in that same awkward position myself, and I wish to assure you that I have every sympathy with you, as we all have ; but we are hoping that we shall be able to carry you a little further along the pathway of truth, perhaps this afternoon and during the week, than you have been led so far. And in order that we may not be strange with one another, it seems best that we should commence in a thoroughly orthodox manner, lest any should feel that we are departing from " the Faith once for all delivered to the saints."

Accordingly I take you entirely into my confidence when I tell you that I propose to deliver, first of all, the line of thought hat was delivered before an orthodox and very extensive congregation of the Church of England yesterday morning in the City of London, or, rather, in the London area, by a clergyman who had no idea whatever as to the logical conclusions of the things he was so excellently and ably putting before us. Consequently, for the first five or ten minutes in regard to what I want to say, there may be little or no difficulty in accepting every one of the positions put before you.

The question that is in most of our minds at this moment is the question of the possibility of the knowledge of God. Our scientists, some of them (I thank God, not all), our philosophers, some of them, and not always the most philosophical, are assuring us that the further you go in the line of science and philosophy, the less likely are you to believe that there can be a knowledge of God. You have so many illustrations in the public utterances of our leaders of thought outside theological and religious circles, that we need not spend time upon it. At the moment shall we call that line of approach in a phrase which is familiar to most of us, the Greek line of approach, along the field paths of philosophy and science, of which the Apostle was speaking in those words which were read to us just now. The question is, " Can a man by searching find out God ? " And along those lines usually the reply will be, "After that in the wisdom of God the world by wisdom knew not God, it pleased God by the foolishness of preaching to save them that believe."

That position is familiar to everyone of us in this Hall tonight : and I think most of us will agree on the point, that the second line of approach to the knowledge of God will be what we shall call, by way of contrast with the Greek line of approach, the Hebrew line of approach, which is the line of revelation. That is to say, that through Hebrew writers, prophets, seers and mystics, there has been given to the world a knowledge of God, or, rather, statements about God which obviously could not have been arrived at by research or by study, or by any line of philosophical approach. The literature of the Hebrew nation in its days of literary splendour is full of statements of God, which are beyond the power of human knowledge unaided to arrive at. Will you grant me, then, at least there is the possibility that the Hebrew writers had something that your scientists and your philosophers will freely admit they do not possess—the possibility of the knowledge of God.

At this point I am reminded that in a recent evening paper there was a picture on the illustration page of Professor Julian Huxley at work with a microscope. Probably many of you saw the picture, but I venture to say that many of you overlooked the statement underneath the picture that was put in, presumably, by the Art Editor. The statement ran somewhat in this fashion : " Professor Julian Huxley, who has declared that the world is moving towards a religion without God, devotes his attention through the microscope to those mysterious processes of nature which no scientist has yet been able to explain." Now, if I had said that, they would have said, " You would expect Mr. Carnson to be displeased with Julian Huxley's statement." But, since this Editor thought fit to put him in his place, I thought it was well worth while to pass it on. Not everybody is misled by the statements, even of leading scientists ! There is that in nature, there is that in the knowledge of God, which cannot be arrived at, even by Julian Huxley.

Now shall we see how much we have got through this so-called revelation of God through the Hebrew prophet : we shall try to tabulate point by point, and we shall recapitulate from time to time, point by point, the things that we have gained in this knowledge through revelation.

First of all, the Hebrew writers tell us that (1) " God does reveal Himself." They claim that He spoke, how we are not told, but that He spoke to them, and gave them truth concerning Himself which they were unable to receive in any other way. They tell us that (2) " this God is righteous and loving." They tell us that (3) " He has a will and purpose for humanity." They tell us that (4) " He is omnipotent, with this limitation, that since He has given free will to man, and refuses to take back that gift, man is able to thwart and to delay God's purpose, though not in the ultimate, to overcome it." They tell us that (5) " the apex of the will and purpose of God is Jesus Christ." Now shall we stop and think how much we have learned about God through revelation : we have not proved it, but we have learned it on the statements made by the Hebrew writers, that so the truth was given to them.

Now, says our preacher, and rightly, Certainty in Religion —and surely in this world of to-day, there is no thing more desired by all classes of the community than certainty in religion ; the people in the pew are demanding certainty from the pulpit, and they are not getting it : and the people in the pulpit are demanding certainty through their teachers, which they are not getting ;—Certainty in Religion, says the preacher, comes from definitely making up our minds that, with regard to this question of revelation, " God spoke through the prophets."

Now, he says, neither the theory of Evolution (of which he was an exponent, I gather), nor the literary criticism of the Bible (with which I should gather also he had a certain amount of sympathy), can overthrow this fact that God spake through the prophets. It is quite refreshing to hear a man in the pulpit who is so certain of that in these days of unrest and doubt and discussion of this question. There is such a fact as revelation. There are certain truths of God which have been given through the Hebrew prophets, which have not come through any other line, and which cannot be arrived at by any human intelligence, apart from that revelation of God. Will you all of you, individually, accept this position, or not, that God has spoken through the prophets ? Yes, or No. Anyone who wants to say " No" is perfectly at liberty to do so.

Here is the alternative. The alternative to the belief that God has spoken through the prophets is the alternative that is being given to us on all hands under the general title of Evolution. As Peter in his Epistle puts it: "They say, Where is the promise of His Coming? for since the fathers fell asleep, all things continue as they were from the beginning of the creation." That is the alternative to a belief in that revelation, that when God had once started the universe, if there be a God, that from that moment there has been no interruption from without, and there will be no such interruption in the future that is before us. If there be no belief in the revelation of God Who spoke through the prophets, you have to look forward to an endless future of gradual improvement from the commencement of the Creation until its climax.

If revelation will not fit known facts, where are you? Will the revelation that is given by God through the prophets fit known facts? We shall have to go back on what we have learned. The first point is this, that we know that "Jesus Christ came as the apex of the will and purpose of God." Well, how do we know that? What proof have I of that? I prove it by the existence in the world of the Church of Christ. Yes, but you can say to me that the existence of the Mohammedan faith is no evidence that Mohammed was correct. The existence of Buddhism is no proof that Buddha was correct. Are you going to say to me that the existence of the Christian religion and of the Christian Church is proof of the correctness of the Coming of Christ as the fulfilment of the will and purpose of God? No, I am not going to prove the accuracy of the revelation of Christianity as a faith, but of Christianity as a world power. It is not merely the Christian faith with which you have to deal, it is the Christian ethic, the Christian philosophy, the Christian philanthropy, the Christian missionary effort, the Christian atmosphere, and the Christian civilization of the world, that proves to you that Jesus Christ is the apex of the will and purpose of Almighty God. When Buddhism and Confucianism come to you, and say, "Look at our hospitals and philanthropies and charities," then I will begin to listen to them; but they cannot do that, because there never were such things. That is the first thing we have proved out of this revelation: "Jesus Christ is the apex of the will and purpose of God." I hope I have carried all the nervous ladies and gentlemen with me so far in realizing that we are still orthodox.

Jesus Christ based His work and teaching on the revelation of God through the prophets. Did He? Yes, He did. Listen. He says, "Your father Abraham rejoiced to see My day: he saw it and was glad." "These are they which bear witness of Me." And the Scriptures which He had were the writings I am talking about, the revelation of God through the Hebrew prophets. "And beginning at Moses and all the prophets, He expounded unto them in all the Scriptures the things concerning Himself." And not only so, but His followers pursued the same path: you have evidence of that in Paul before the governor, when his great and final appeal was, "King Agrippa, believest thou the prophets? I know that thou believest." The whole basis of the New Testament life and work and teaching of Jesus Christ, and of the early Christian Church, is based upon those very much disputed Books.

I am not sure whether it is right of me to pass it on. But a certain piece of information reached me to-day which has somewhat amused me. I understand a certain Bishop of the Church has been perplexed because his clergy have been feeling that they could not any longer go on preaching two or three sermons on a Sunday, and he has suggested to them that they will have little further difficulty if they will preach a little more out of the Book, and he recommends them to preach on the Books of the Bible, and especially on the prophecy of Jeremiah. And I understand that one loyal clergyman, following his Bishop's command, as he ought to, endeavoured yesterday to preach on Jeremiah, and he landed Jeremiah somewhere in Egypt, and left him there, because he did not know what to do with him! I recommend that the Federation proceeds forthwith to see that the clergy of that diocese, following their Bishop's injunction, shall be well-trained in the real contents of the Books of the prophets, especially Jeremiah.

May we go one stage further? "God has spoken": we have granted that. But where? "Through the prophets": we have granted that. If you have not, say "No." "God is what the prophets say He is." "God works as the prophets say He works." Oh, be careful: you are getting on to very difficult ground. But I think you are with me so far. "God works through nations: through all nations." Babylon with its civilization; Medo-Persia with its discipline; Greece with its culture; Rome with its law and its liberty, such as it was; all of them are preparations for that great national development when the God of Heaven shall set up a kingdom which shall never be destroyed. That is in the prophets.

God works through nations, and He works as the prophets say He works. Oh, perhaps, I ought to tell you that we have now left Sunday morning's sermon behind, and we are going on to its logical conclusion. Very well, now we must add this to our knowledge. What is our knowledge? "God reveals Himself": that was the first point. "God is righteous and loving": that is the second point. "He has a will and purpose for humanity": that is the third point. Now I am going to put the fourth point. It is this: "That will and purpose of God is through a nation." We did not have that before: we have just added it to our knowledge. "Man with his free will can thwart and delay the purpose of God": and "Jesus Christ is the apex of the will and purpose of God." You see what a complete line of thought you have got. Can you accept this? I know you British-Israelites can, because you have been trained to it!

Somebody says, "No, I do not know that God does work through a nation." Very well, then you do not know what the prophets say. I was in a meeting of ministers and teachers in South Africa one evening, and from eight until midnight they tried their best to get a little intelligence into my head; and before I had finished they said, "Well, we do not know enough about it to know whether what you are saying is correct." I had said nothing but what was in the Bible. I said, "You mean to tell me, you Methodist ministers and local preachers, that you do not know enough about the Bible to know whether I am speaking the truth, or not?" And they looked at one another, and said, "We are afraid that is a fact!" They did not know what was in the prophets.

"If they speak not according to this word, there is no truth in them." If we accept revelation we know that "God has a purpose": we know "He works through a nation," which is to be His witness to other nations, to stand for liberty and justice and truth in the world, to spread and cover the face of the earth, to take a lead in the counsels of the world, and yet to serve all peoples, and ultimately to establish God's law. And all other nations shall desire to join it in the will and purpose of God: and "Jesus Christ is the apex of that will and purpose," Who based His teaching on the revelation of the prophets, and Who will yet come again to complete the edifice which they commenced, and of which He is the crowning point. That, finally, "man has free will and can thwart and delay the purpose of God." Those are the facts of revelation.

Are they the facts of truth? Of course they are, and for this reason, that there is such a nation in existence as the British people, to be His witnesses, and to spread and cover the face of the earth, and yet to serve all peoples, and ultimately to establish God's law which is our Common Law, and God's faith which is our faith, and so to establish God's law and God's faith that the other nations will want to come into it, and they are coming. The facts agree so far as the nation is concerned.

"That Jesus Christ is the apex of the will and purpose of God." We know that to be true. The Cross of Christ stands there as an everlasting sign that He shall come again to rule over the nations of the earth that He has purchased for Himself. "That men can thwart the will and purpose of God"; Julian Huxley is an illustration of that, and the chaos of the day in which we live.

What then is our Gospel, our Good News for 1930? That God has spoken: that we know Whom we have believed, and we are confident that He will carry through His purpose, and we are going to help Him in that great work. "This is the victory that overcometh the world, even our faith." This is the knowledge that "we know Him Whom we have believed." Here we have guidance. "We have not followed cunningly-devised fables. We have the more sure Word of prophecy, which is as a light shining in a dark place, unto which we do well that we should take heed." We have certainty. "He that heareth My words and doeth them is like a man that built his house upon a rock." "A man shall be as a hiding-place from the wind, as a covert from the tempest, as the shadow of a great rock in a weary land." These things are ours; the Gospel of individual and national salvation, not only for us, but for the whole world. "All things are ours, and we are Christ's, and Christ is God's."

MR. HERBERT GARRISON said: Dr. Goard,—I think it is most fitting that my part to-night should be to address myself in particular to those who have honoured us with their presence, and who are not usually with us in these meetings. I assume there is a large body of people here to-night because of our Manifesto in thirty papers, and our recent Call to the Nation in fifteen papers, those who are not yet conscious British-Israelites, and who are asking, What does all this mean? Who are you? What are you doing? What do you want us to do? Tell us all about it. Well, it would take me all night to tell you all about it, but I would like to tell you just a little. First of all, I would say for the information of those who do not know, that we are not a sect; we are a great interdenominational organization, representing various denominations of Britain, the Overseas Dominions and the United States of America. A man, highly placed, has publicly said that we are the greatest interdenominational organization in existence. I know that the British and Foreign Bible Society occupies a premier position, in so far as the circulation of the Scriptures are concerned, but our organization not only circulates the Scriptures, but proclaims and teaches the correct interpretation of the Scriptures. That may be a bold claim to make, but it has been made, and we have a right to endorse it. Why do we dare to endorse such a claim as that? Let me put it this way. No man has yet proved that our interpretation is incorrect. Our opponents have utterly failed to understand what we really teach: they have not thoroughly examined our literature, and hardly ever, or never, come into any of our meetings.

We claim, then, that we stand for the whole counsel of God. We stand for the Bible in its entirety. We do not pick and choose, or in any way attempt to mutilate Holy Writ. We accept the Bible as the Word of God written, and we believe that Word to have been inspired. I mean by that, that holy men of God were chosen by God, and equipped by Him, and controlled by Him while they wrote, so that what they wrote was given under control of the Holy Spirit. We take a very definite stand, and say, to use the words of the great W. E. Gladstone, We stand on "the impregnable rock of Holy Scripture." No scientist, and no agnostic, and no destructive critic shall move us one pin's point from that position. You say to me, You claim to be a great interdenominational organization. Who is behind you? Where do you get your money? Who is behind you? I answer, Hundreds of thousands on the human side, and among them the highest people in the land. I could give you a long list of names, but there is not time to do so. On our Roll of Honour I would mention Queen Victoria and King Edward VII. And when I say the highest people in the land, I mean all that those words should convey to your minds. Now where do we get our money? God sends us our money through His servants, voluntarily. We are a voluntary organization: the membership is voluntary. Individual people are sending us gifts of £1,000 and £2,000 and £3,000 at a time for special work. What does that mean? It means obviously that they have the conviction that we are right, or they would not bestow their money so liberally. We have Old-Age pensioners, we have people in Incurable Homes, who give their shillings and sixpences to help forward this mighty work. I have been in Christian work since 1877, but I tell you frankly, although I have laboured and preached for very many of the great denominations in various parts of the Empire, I have never found in all my life so devoted, so loyal, so generous, and so zealous a body of people as are within the ranks of this British-Israel-World Federation. We stand solid on this common platform. We stand then for God, for His Holy Word. We stand for the King and the Royal Family. God bless them. We stand for the Constitution, for the Common Law, which is the law of the Lord, the law that came from Sinai and was given to Moses. We stand for the unity and the consolidation of the Anglo-Saxon race, Britain, and her Commonwealth of Nations, and the United States of America: and we want to see the race absolutely united as one mighty people, forming a real bed-rock league of nations. We have some two hundred and more Branches throughout Britain, and our Overseas Dominions and the United States of America. We have issued fourteen million books and pamphlets. We have half a million at the present moment in the storerooms and packing rooms, and they are going out in thousands every week to many parts of the world. Our weekly journal, THE NATIONAL MESSAGE, is going all over Anglo-Saxondom. On the great railways and steamships you will find THE NATIONAL MESSAGE, whose Editor is Dr. Goard, and whose leading articles have appeared there since 1922, and will long continue to appear, we hope. That little paper costing only 2d. per week is absolutely unique. Now mark my words, I do not think I am speaking too strongly when I say there is not another journal like it. It is carrying joy and assurance and satisfaction and uplift and enlightenment to multitudes of people all over the world, except Russia.

We have millions of adherents to this Movement. I do not exaggerate in the least. A reputable Encyclopædia of ten large bulky volumes said more than fourteen years ago that they estimated the number of British-Israelites at two million. If they said that fourteen years ago, what they would say to-day I do not know. Only God knows the number. All things to-day are converging to a certain point of time. What do I mean by that? I mean the time when British-Israel shall be publicly and officially proclaimed and avowed in the highest quarters of the State.

Now you dear folk, who have come here to-day in an investigating and enquiring spirit. I ask you to come in quickly and do not wait to come in at the eleventh hour. Get the satisfaction and the joy of joining the ranks in advance. I could give you names that would startle you. I could give you facts that would startle you. But I must not in the present stage of things. We are waiting patiently, and in full assurance. But in the meantime we are going on with our spade-work. I spoke to you just now of that half million of books which we have in the storerooms at our Headquarters, No. 6, Buckingham Gate, immediately opposite the Palace of the King. Just where we ought to be, and where we were led in the most marvellous and Providential way.

You ask me what it is we teach. We teach and proclaim the Gospel of the Kingdom of God upon earth, and the Gospel of Salvation. Not two Gospels, but two phases of the one Gospel, and we perforce must proclaim the Gospel of the Kingdom of God upon earth because the preachers in the main have not done so: they have preached quite rightly the Gospel of Salvation, but they have not preached the Gospel of the Kingdom of God upon earth. The Archbishop of Canterbury, not very long since, emphasized, to our delight, the very thing that should be done by the clergy, of proclaiming the Gospel of the Kingdom of God upon earth. Why do I emphasize the preaching of the Gospel of the Kingdom of God upon earth? It is what our Lord Himself preached when He was upon earth. Read the Gospels and you will find that this is correct. It was after the Resurrection that the Gospel of Salvation was proclaimed by the Apostles; that did not mean doing away with the Gospel of the Kingdom: it meant the two phases of the one Gospel. Now many of the preachers and the theologians and the commentators have overlooked that, and we are trying to make up where they have failed.

Then we come to the acid test as to whether we are right. In my humble opinion, the acid test is, Is God's blessing resting upon this great Movement? Will anyone dare to say, who has any knowledge of the subject at all, that this Movement has not been blessed by God? I can declare to you, and so can all my brethren here, that all over the country it has had God's blessing in a most marked and marvellous manner. God has always honoured our faith and our courage. And when we have taken our courage in both hands, God has always honoured our faith and sent us the money we have needed, and has given us marvellous blessing. That is a satisfactory answer to my mind to the question as to whether or not this Movement is of God. If it was not, I, for one, would not be in it. The truth at all costs and all the time and nothing but the truth. We declare to you solemnly, in the Name of God, that we do believe in our innermost hearts and souls we have this truth, and the acid test is that we have God's blessing in proclaiming this truth.

What do we believe? We believe in God. We believe in the Lord Jesus Christ. We believe that He was the Son of God, the second Person of the Trinity. We assert and proclaim the Deity of our Lord Jesus Christ. We do not simply call Him a great Teacher, as some people would say, or our Elder Brother. We go beyond that. We proclaim the Deity of our Lord Jesus Christ, in line with the great theologians, and the great preachers, and the great evangelists and revivalists of past times. We are in line with the man who stands on this platform Sunday by Sunday (Dr. Dinsdale T. Young) proclaiming the truth. We are out of line with the men who from the pulpit deny the Divinity of our Lord. We are entirely out of line with the men who are picking and choosing from Holy Writ, saying, This I can accept, but the other is Oriental fable and nothing more. They believe in Evolution. That is a wide term. What do you mean by that? I do not believe, and nothing will ever bring me to believe, that man was evolved from an anthropoid ape. I go to the Zoo sometimes, and I see the antics and tricks of the monkey, and I like them enough to give them nuts. I go to the Natural History Museum. And somebody comes up behind me, and says, "Are you fascinated because you are looking into the face of a representative of your ancestors?" "What!" I say. "Are you going to make me out such an ugly brute as to say that is the representative of my ancestors? My ancestors were made in the image of God." The scientist claims that intellect is everything, and that faith is nothing. Faith is greater than reason. We live by faith. Is that so, or is it not? We live by faith. What faith has Julian Huxley? Are you aware that there is a document in the Bodleian Library over the signature of 617 eminent scientists, who all declare in that manifesto that there is nothing in the Bible at all inconsistent with true science. I would rather accept the declaration of those 617 scientists and rule Mr.

Julian Huxley out of court, and simply say again, "My dear young man, you have yet very much to learn."

I have not told you half of what we believe. But I ought to say that we believe, in common with all orthodox and evangelical Christians, in all the great principles for which our Reformed Church stands, only we go further than they do in some respects in that we believe God to be the God of His Word, and we believe Him to be a covenant-keeping God. We believe that He said what He meant, and meant what He said. Just that absolutely. No twisting round; no trying to explain away; but taking God at His Word; and in that we are in line with the late Bishop Ryle. Do you remember his dictum: "Take the Scriptures literally, wherever the literal interpretation appeals to ordinary common-sense." I am giving you the gist of what he taught himself. Now the trouble with a great many is that they have been spiritualizing where they have no business to spiritualize. There are ludicrous examples of that. These men are spiritualizing things out of all recognition. Remember there is a great deal in the Bible that is material. When God said that the Kingdom was taken away from a certain nation, He did not say it was given to the Church. No, He said it was given to a nation, and that nation was Israel as distinct from the Jews. You say Israel and the Jews are one. Just wait a moment until you have got in your mind the correct differentiation between Israel and Judah: until you have got that clear you will fail to understand the Scriptures. I make that statement, and defy anyone to deny it. The line of demarcation runs all through Holy Writ. I will put it in another way. Israel and Judah are not interchangeable terms. The Jewish question is exceedingly difficult; it is a veritable tangle. Most of you, I take it, are Bible students, and you know there was one son of Jacob named Judah, and the descendants of Judah were Judahites. The name of "Jew" does not occur in the Bible until the Second Book of the Kings. What about the Israelites? They are descended from the sons of Jacob other than Judah, and were taken captive to Assyria, whereas the Judahites were taken captive to Babylon. And whereas only a portion of the Judahites came back, the Israelites never came back. There were two nations after the death of Solomon. The southern nation of Palestine and Judah, having their capital in Jerusalem, and the northern kingdom of Israel, Samaria; what became of Israel? They did not die out. If they had, prophecy would not have been fulfilled, and the whole course of history would have been altered. They migrated across Northern Europe in the course of a thousand years under different names; they reached Scandinavia, and then into the British Isles. And behold here we are, the descendants of those sons of Jacob! You hear about the lost tribes. Put away that expression. We are not lost, we are found, and we are very much in evidence, because the Bible intends us to be in evidence. God gave to this nation a work to do: to be the great missionizing, colonizing, stabilizing, civilizing people of the world. Is not that exactly what we are? Peoples of the world look to Britain. We have lent millions of pounds to other nations, and is it not a fact also, according to Scripture, we have never borrowed from a foreign nation, exactly as the Bible said would be the case? Lending to other nations, but borrowing from none. And we were to hold the keys or gates of the world. And we have the Sabbath as a national institution. The Sabbath is not being kept as it ought to be. We must bring the people back to the grand old Sabbath of our fathers. Our work is to bring the Bible back that our people may know it as our fathers knew it, and as you and I were taught it at our mother's knee. Not the Bible of the destructive critic. And I am going to make to you another statement. No single discovery that has ever been made in any part of the world has in any wise discredited Holy Writ. Indeed, every discovery that is being made substantiates and confirms and upholds Holy Writ. And one of the great believers in British-Israel in London to-day is spending his fortune unearthing Biblical sites, and in so doing is proving the Modernists to be wrong. British-Israelites are doing the great work of the world. There are clergymen and ministers in our ranks and on our platforms to-day who, but a few years ago, were bitter opponents, but on coming into touch with us, and attending our meetings, and reading our literature, are now proclaiming our Truth, and glorying in it, and are filling Churches which before were half empty. British-Israel is the mountain-top of Truth. What a glorious view you get from the top of a great mountain! How your soul is lifted right up to God! What mighty panoramic views you get! British-Israel gets us on to the highest peaks of joy and enlightenment and assurance. And the British-Israelite looks down there in pity on those living in the morass of destructive criticism. And he sees the agnostic involved in the fog, searching and groping about for the light he cannot find. He looks down also upon certain other persons I need not name, but they are to be pitied. British-Israelites know that God is a covenant-keeping God; that He has never failed in one single covenant, or one single promise. In the very nature of things He cannot fail. It is impossible. For if the word "failure" entered into the curriculum of God then He would no longer be God. God is true and faithful altogether, and we not only believe in God, but we believe God, and we take Him at His word, and we ask you to do the same. Come into our ranks, work with us, and enjoy what we are enjoying. If you will do this, it will be the happiest day in all your lives.

WE conclude this series of articles with a review of Herr Dibelius' chapter entitled: "ENGLAND, after the WAR." Thus he writes:—

"England's gains from the WORLD WAR were immense. The German fleet, against which the war was waged in the first line, lies beneath the waters of SCAPA FLOW. The British Flag now waves over what were Germany's important colonies (German South-West and German East Africa). The INDIAN OCEAN is now

A BRITISH SEA.

The PEACE of VERSAILLES has given the BRITISH EMPIRE nearly as much as did the peace concluded after the downfall of NAPOLEON.

"Yet in ENGLAND a profound pessimism rules, a feeling of dissatisfaction with what has been accomplished, a mood of uncertainty and oppression, as though ENGLAND had lost the war. A general idea prevails that the objects of the war have not been attained. And war, with its gains, has also brought losses so heavy that it is a question whether they do not offset all that has been won. Most menacing of all, it has produced internal transformations so perilous as to exclude any sense of tranquillity.

"GERMANY is overthrown but not destroyed. It was broken only after four years of resistance and the alignment against it of an entire world. Such a combination can never recur.

"Circumstances enabled victory to be won and a great but momentary advantage to be secured; but, so English pessimists fear, there has been no lasting settlement of the balance of political power. The PEACE of VERSAILLES injured GERMANY deeply; but was the war worth while? Its immediate reactions have been most unsatisfactory. FRANCE and the UNITED STATES have been strengthened politically in a way that is by no means to Britain's interest. VERSAILLES, the LEAGUE of NATIONS and separate treaties have built up for FRANCE a position of power in EUROPE that is most unwelcome.

"Even more striking is the post-war ascendancy of the UNITED STATES. It is the great gainer by the war, financially, industrially and politically. It has gathered in Europe's gold, in payment for war supplies; it is the creditor of the STATES of EUROPE and takes ruthless political advantage of its financial superiority. It is using the to prevent the nations of EUROPE from increasing their armies and navies in accordance with their own wishes.

"BRITAIN has to be contented with a fleet that instead of being the first in the world is merely the equal of the AMERICAN, and even this equality is being threatened. The effort to present the loss of English naval superiority as a sacrifice on the is hardly convincing even for home consumption.

"Moreover, the war has shaken British dominion precisely in those quarters where it seemed to be most secure—in the FAR EAST, in INDIA and in the BRITISH DOMINIONS. No doubt new forms will be worked out for the association of the DOMINIONS and the MOTHER COUNTRY, but it is abundantly clear that the larger colonies must be regarded rather as a burden on British foreign policy than taken for granted as a support to it. No doubt INDIA will be held and the vast trade of the EAST not lost, but there will have to be a far-reaching writing down of assets in all these regions. Was the war worth all this?

"The war cost BRITAIN heavy sacrifices in human blood .... The National Debt has risen from £661 millions in 1914 to £7,631 millions in 1928. . . . Further, which swept through the world like a destructive plague on the wings of war was felt in its full force in ENGLAND.

THE MORAL LOOSENESS

"The discipline of the Church disappeared, the observance of Sunday died out, Puritan rigour in sex relations was replaced by a licence bordering on shamelessness. . . . Now, self-expression is the cry; the old moral code is scorned as prudery. There is a deterioration in manners everywhere. . . . The Church has nothing for the rising generation; everything Puritanic is dismissed as ridiculous hypocrisy; it is hard to get young men to train for the ministry.

"For the first time in history, it would seem as though ENGLAND has broken with CHRISTIANITY.

or does it really presage the downfall of civilization? England's young men went into the war with enthusiasm, because they believed they were fighting for the victory, throughout the world, of liberty, self-government, individualism and Liberalism which was what English civilization meant to them. But it is precisely this form of civilized life that seems to have gone under in the war.

"True, the Continental monarchies were broken, but there is little hope of comfort in what has taken their place. And ten years after the victory of Western civilizations, three-quarters of Europe is dominated not by Western Liberalism, but by dictatorship. . . .

"England itself is the scene of a struggle for mastery between profiteering capitalism and the crude egotism of the working-class—with the spectre of MOSCOW brooding in the background. The hand of MOSCOW is discerned in the nationalist agitation in INDIA; in CHINA, RUSSIA has obviously been working against ENGLAND; and the English world which ought to be closing ranks in the face of the

it, threaten, instead, to break in sunder; the DOMINIONS are no longer to be relied upon, and even at home the English soul is infected with Bolshevism. Can ENGLAND be said to have won the war, when its is no longer current in the world? Has Imperialism not been an utterly vain dream? Is not war under all and any circumstances a mistake? Is not politics a dirty business? Would it not be saner to devote oneself to the better things of life . . .? For the first time in its history the youth of ENGLAND is consciously anti-political, anti-Imperialist, anti-Conservative.

"Wide circles in ENGLAND to-day are filled with doubts of civilization and deep pessimism. Has ENGLAND become powerless? Is it moving towards dissolution?"

Remember this is only the description of the outlook of pessimists. Personally we do not share these pessimistic doubts for one moment.

Now Dibelius gives his answer to these challenging questions. And it is just the type of answer with which we can all concur. For in spite of unrest, upheaval, and disintegration, the heart of the nation remains sound and we have not the slightest justification for despair.

Our present difficulties are to be likened to the fermentation which accompanies germination. They are the birth-pangs which herald the birth and manifestation of a new and better age.

Digitized by Google

Thus Dibelius voices his conviction in the ringing words:—"The answer to this can only be a decisive—No! The pessimistic criticism of civilization universal at the moment in ENGLAND does not go very deep even there. Essentially it is confined to LONDON, and to the younger circles at the Universities. It represents the utterance of men of letters and of learning, of theologians, and of many politicians—in other words, of thinking ENGLAND.

"But England's greatness does not rest with its thinking minority, but with the great mass of and powerful will. All of these want England to be somehow different, but despair does not occur to them.

"And the distant observer, comparing England's troubles with those of other countries, while finding that ENGLAND will have to cancel many hopes, as other less fortunate countries have already had to do, sees no ground for despair in fact.

"WHAT ENGLAND IS NOW EXPERIENCING IS A GRAVE CRISIS IN WHICH A NEW STATE AND A NEW TYPE OF SOCIETY ARE COMING TO BIRTH. THE OLD HAS TO A LARGE EXTENT LOST ITS JUSTIFICATION FOR EXISTENCE, AND MUST NOW YIELD PLACE TO THE NEW."

This pronouncement is so significant that we have felt justified in reproducing it in small capitals.

In this dramatic declaration Herr Dibelius catches a sure vision of the coming KINGDOM. It is only a momentary vision and is almost instantly swallowed up in reconsideration of difficulties ahead. But to the British-Israel mind the vision is radiant with significance.

In 1558, BRITAIN—as the STONE KINGDOM of DANIEL—first emerged upon the stage of world history as a world power. In 1606 she reached the stage of development marked by the official union of the sons of JACOB in the ISLES of the WEST—the formation of the UNION JACK and UNITED KINGDOM. In 1800 began the process of expansion and the formation of the BRITAINS overseas. In 1918 came the manifestation of BRITAIN as a NATION and COMPANY of NATIONS—a political phenomenon such as the world had never seen before.

To-day we live in another formative and renaissance period. BRITAIN is passing through a time of spiritual testing. But she will emerge a new and better BRITAIN filled with the spirit of the new and better covenant. This fact, both the SCRIPTURES and the BIBLE in STONE of the GREAT PYRAMID, make abundantly clear.

Dibelius' further consideration of future difficulties seems to come as something like an anti-climax to his previous inspiration. Thus he claims that "Politically it would seems that ENGLAND has no alternative but to share world dominion with AMERICA, and strive, through the LEAGUE of NATIONS, for the imposition of an which, however, it is doubtful whether EUROPE would accept."

Moreover, he thinks that: "From the economic point of view it is highly questionable whether anything like a unified, all-British economic association can be brought into being against America and against the Continent of Europe."

Dibelius hesitates to prophesy too far ahead. But he has one more flash of inspiration when he writes: "To a nation with its ultimate powers unimpaired—and that is the case with ENGLAND—is possible, out of the present political and economic chaos of EUROPE."

The Professor also makes a pregnant suggestion when he adds the opinion that "the deciding factor here would seem to be whether or no ENGLAND can succeed in putting itself at the head of a European coalition to save EUROPE from Bolshevism. The country that can do this will for long be

LEADER OF THE WEST.

So mighty an achievement, however, implies the realization of two conditions: a country which is to fight Bolshevism with spiritual weapons must have first cast off from its own economic system the fetters of a predatory capitalism—an enterprise only conceivable to a policy sufficiently long-sighted and strong to have substituted a genuine system of European peace for the regimen of force of the Versailles Treaty."

PREDESTINATION.—XII.

THE EVERLASTING KINGDOM.

THERE are very many people who, if they were asked to give a definition of the word "Christian," would give a most inadequate reply. "There is a man I know in my parish," said a Vicar to me recently, "who never attends any place of worship, and he does not believe that Jesus is God, but he is a most excellent man, who lives a moral life and is ever seeking to do good to his fellows. I call him a Christian."

But how can a man be a Christian who does not acknowledge Jesus to be the Christ? On the definition of that Vicar, many an atheist, many a Mohammedan, many an idolater, is a Christian. Which is manifestly absurd.

A Christian MUST believe certain things, as well as lead an upright life. He must believe that Jesus of Nazareth is THE CHRIST, the Eternal Word, Who in the beginning was with God, and is God; Who became flesh, and dwelt among us. Belief in the Incarnation, the Atonement, the Resurrection, the Second Advent, this is absolutely essential to Christianity, and without this belief, which must be followed and demonstrated by upright living, a man has no right whatever to the name of Christian.

The fact is that so many people never take the trouble to think carefully about the meaning of the words they use, and, therefore, use them often in a wholly unjustifiable sense which robs the words of all true meaning. Moreover, very many people have most hazy ideas as to what Jesus taught, and why Jesus came.

Here, in Luke i, 31, we may find a splendid answer to the question why He came: "And, behold, thou shalt conceive in thy womb, and bring forth a son, and shalt call His name Jesus. He shall be great and shall be called the Son of the Highest: and the Lord God shall give unto Him the throne of His father David; and He shall reign over the House of Jacob for ever: and of His Kingdom there shall be no end." And this "National" purpose of the Coming of the Christ, however troublesome to many theories it may be, is every whit as definitely Scriptural as the "Spiritual" promise of John iii, 16 (R.V.):

Digitized by Google

"For God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on Him should not perish, but have eternal life. For God sent not the Son into the world to judge the world; but that the world should be saved through Him."

I am afraid that it is only too true to say that many people who profess and call themselves Christian really do not know what Jesus taught, nor what the Scriptures declare. Many of them just get a smattering of the Gospel of Salvation, and they either ignore, or are ignorant of, the rest of the Counsel of God. Consequently, they are in no position to appreciate the tremendous place that the National purposes of God in Christ occupy in the Scriptures, nor to understand the meaning of the word: "Think not that I came to destroy the law or the prophets: I came not to destroy, but to fulfil."

A second question that is worth asking and answering.

Do you know what it is to which God is pledged?

The Bible story is written around certain Covenants which were pledges of Almighty God. And one of these pledges is the pledge made to David in the words: "Thine house and thy kingdom shall be made sure for ever before thee: thy throne shall be established for ever" (2 Sam. vii, 16). There is a very excellent enlargement of this pledge given in Psalm lxxxix: "I have made a Covenant with My chosen, I have sworn unto David My servant; thy seed will I establish for ever, and build up thy throne to all generations." Looking at the immediate appearances of affairs, after the fall of Zedekiah's kingship, the writer of this Psalm says (v. 38): "But Thou hast cast off and rejected, Thou hast been wroth with Thine anointed . . . and cast his throne down to the ground." But he recognizes that this appearance is contrary to the pledge, and he does not allow this appearance to hinder his faith. It does but give wings to his prayer for the Covenant which he acknowledges to be unbreakable.

But does not the Covenant depend upon the good behaviour of the kings? No, not completely. Sin certainly has an effect upon the fortunes of the kings, as upon the fortunes of the Kingdom, but it does not cause the Covenant to be broken, nor the kingly line to be destroyed. "My mercy will I keep for him for evermore, and My Covenant shall stand fast (be faithful) with him. His seed also will I make to endure for ever, and his throne as the days of heaven. If his children forsake My law, and walk not in My judgments; if they break (profane) My statutes, and keep not My commandments; then will I visit their transgression with the rod, and their iniquity with stripes. But My mercy will I not utterly take from him, nor suffer My faithfulness to fail. My Covenant will I not break (profane), nor alter the thing that is gone out of My lips. Once (one thing) have I sworn by My holiness; I will not lie unto David; His seed shall endure for ever, and his throne as the sun before Me. It shall be established for ever as the moon, and as the faithful witness in the sky."

You may say, if you wish, that these words are the expressions of a deep religious hope, and nothing more; that in the midst of the general apostasy of Israel, there were a few earnest souls who still hoped for better things, and believed that these better things would come for, and through, the House of David. However, as events have proved, these better things did not come. Five hundred and eighty-seven years of wretchedness, scarcely relieved by the heroism of the Maccabean days, passed over the House of David, and the peoples of Israel; and then came Jesus, of the House of David, to usher in a "spiritual" Kingdom. You may argue thus, if you wish, but your argument removes from words every scrap of their proper meaning, and makes nonsense of the whole Scripture. "How do you make that out?" you will want to ask me. Well, I need give only one example from this very same book of Psalms, I need not trouble to quote any other books, one reference will be quite sufficient. In Psalm cx, I read: "The Lord said unto my Lord, Sit Thou at My right hand, until I make Thine enemies Thy footstool," and "The Lord hath sworn and will not repent, Thou art a Priest for ever, after the order of Melchizedek." If Psalm lxxix does not mean what it says, neither does Psalm cx. I have heard it argued that we possess a faculty which enables us to discern between what is true and what is not true in the Bible, between what is inspired and what is only human, But is not this a very foolish argument, really? If we do possess such a faculty, it works in a most uncertain way, for it tells one man one thing, and another, the exact opposite. It tells Dr. Underwood, for example, that the doctrine of the Second Advent in Paul's Epistles is a "Jewish misconception," and it tells me that it is the very Word of God Himself. Queer, isn't it?

Now you may say that our Blessed Lord quoted the first part of this Psalm, and that the author of Hebrews quoted the second part of it, and consequently this Psalm is lifted up on to a distinctly higher plane of authority. I answer that the very Messiahship of Jesus is founded, so far as the New Testament Scriptures are concerned, upon Psalm lxxxix, and the similar Old Testament references to the pledge God made to David.

So, then, the bad behaviour of the sons of David has no effect in annulling the pledge. It is impossible to conceive of worse sins and follies than those of which kings are capable. Power, wealth and flattery, in combination with a weak character, make vice easy, and Israel's and Judah's kings are no exception. Rehoboam was foolish, Ahaz a coward, Henry VIII and Charles II unworthy. But their wickedness did not make them any the less sons of David, nor did it prevent their children or successors from being upright. Neither did it prevent God from keeping His pledged word. Psalm lxxix, 30–34, already quoted, shows this, and also shows that the pledge is considered in its strictly literal meaning. And that this Covenant is bound up with the ministry of our Lord is shown by the early chapters of Matthew and Luke, especially by the message to Mary and the song of Zachariah.

Thus there is established and maintained by Almighty God a "changeless decree" which tells of a line of kings, or potential kings, reigning over a kingdom that shall never be destroyed, safe and secure during all the rolling ages. "The kings of the earth set themselves, and the rulers take counsel together, against the Lord, and against His anointed. . . . The Lord shall have them in derision."

Now when the hosts of Babylon crushed Judah, and the sons of Zedekiah were slain before his eyes, and then those eyes were put out, it would seem as if the promises had failed.

Digitized by Google

And it is surely correct to say that Nebuchadnezzar imagined that he had "wiped out of existence" the House of David.

The reader who believes the whole Scripture to be the Word of God, the reader who takes the promises literally, is faced with an awful problem here, I admit. Faith? Well, is it not just hoping against hope? No, "Faith is the assurance of (the giving substance to) things hoped for, the proving (test) of things not seen." Can the sworn promises of God ever come to nothing? Shall a man be more just than his Maker? Surely, surely those who tell us that our hope and faith are misplaced or vain, that we are looking for material facts, when spiritual blessings are meant, are really contending that the sworn promises of God CAN come to nothing? Did David, did the prophets, did the Apostles set their hearts on a false hope when they looked for the Tabernacle of David to be set up again, and the kingdom to be restored to Israel? If they did, then I think that we are entitled to say that Jesus should have told them so, when the question was asked at the time of the Ascension. What saith the Scripture? "Let God be found true, but every man a liar: as it is written, That Thou mightest be justified in Thy words, and mightest prevail when Thou comest into judgment." "For the gifts and calling of God are without repentance (not repented of)." Thus we are assured by Paul, that God has not changed His mind about His pledge to David, any more than He has repented of His pledge to Abraham and Israel.

How, then, shall we solve this problem of the apparent failure of the pledge to David concerning his throne?

It is, to say the least, a striking and remarkable piece of evidence that in 1861, the Rev. F. R. A. Glover, without the slightest idea of the identity of the nation of Israel with the British race, and without the flood of Scripture light which has since been shed upon the subject, published a book entitled "England, the Remnant of Judah," in which he contended, on what he called "purely scholarly and logical grounds," that the dynasty of David, after it was thrown down by Nebuchadnezzar, was re-established and set up in these islands, and that Queen Victoria (then reigning) was the lineal and direct representative of David, King of Israel and Judah.

I hope to give a short summary of Mr. Glover's argument in my next chapter. In the meantime, and in preparation for his researches, we ought to note that at the very time when the throne of David seemed to have come to an end, Jeremiah uttered two prophecies, absolutely remarkable for their message. "Hear the word of the Lord, O ye nations, and declare it in the Isles afar off; and say, He that scattered Israel will gather him, and keep him, as a shepherd doth his flock. For the Lord hath ransomed Jacob. . . . . Thus saith the Lord, which giveth the sun for a light by day, and the ordinances of the moon and of the stars for a light by night . . . if these ordinances depart from before Me, saith the Lord, then the seed of Israel also shall cease from being a nation before Me for ever" (Jer. xxxi, in loc). "If ye can break My covenant of the day, and My covenant of the night, so that there should not be day and night in their season; then may also My covenant be broken with David My servant, that he should not have a son to reign upon his throne; and with the Levites, the priests, My ministers" (Jer. xxxiii, 20, 21).

The Levitical priesthood is still functioning, is it not? The two feasts of Passover, and of Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, are still kept in their season. There has been no break here. Then there has been no break in the Davidic line, as God is Truth. If it be contended that Jesus Christ is the fulfilment of the promise to David, then there has been a gap of nigh six hundred years between Zedekiah and the first Coming of Jesus. Moreover, when Jesus came, He did not take the throne of David. If it be answered that Jesus will come again and that THEN He will take the throne of David, already two thousand five hundred years and more have passed without a Davidic king. He will certainly come again, and He will take the throne of David, but He will take it from the one who is sitting thereon, He will not "set it up."

The promises of God do not admit of any gap, neither do they admit of a "spiritual" interpretation. The throne of David was as literal and material a throne as the Coronation Chair in Westminster Abbey.

NOTES ON THE IMPERIAL CONFERENCE

By A. R. H.

III.

THE final address by the MAHARAJAH OF BIKANER (representing the Delegation of INDIA) formed a fitting climax to the opening session. Thus the Maharajah of Bikaner: "As a former Prime Minister of AUSTRALIA fittingly observed at a previous Conference, the CROWN represents something more than the visible symbol of the Empire's unity, the centre of its loyalties, and the link which binds the whole EMPIRE together.

"To us Indians—and I speak for my fellow-Princes as well as the great mass of my countrymen both in the INDIAN STATES and BRITISH INDIA—there is in our feelings of veneration for the SOVEREIGN; and this is all the more so in the case of HIS MAJESTY KING GEORGE V, whose life of selfless service in the cause of all the peoples of his vast EMPIRE fulfils all the ideals of true kingship set forth in OUR HOLY SCRIPTURES.

"In 1917 I delivered to a similar distinguished assembly a special message of good will from my brother Princes, especially entrusted to me at a banquet in BOMBAY just before my departure from INDIA, emphasizing their staunch loyalty to the august PERSON and THRONE of HIS MAJESTY, their feelings of steadfast friendship and alliance with the nations of the COMMONWEALTH, and their determination, in the hour of crisis, to be once more true to their traditions of co-operating to the full extent of their resources in the cause of the EMPIRE. Sir, I desire to repeat that message to-day.

"Does INDIA wish to remain within the COMMONWEALTH? My answer, in spite of all that has happened and is happening in INDIA, is 'Yes.' The PRINCES and subjects of the INDIAN STATES—whose interests I have the honour especially to represent here—retain their loyalty to the KING-EMPEROR and attachment to the EMPIRE undimmed. And the great bulk of the people of BRITISH INDIA are, I venture to say, desirous at heart that their country shall occupy an honourable place in the that constitutes the BRITISH COMMONWEALTH.

Digitized by Google

"INDIA feels confident that, in the delicate task that awaits the Round-Table Conference, she may count also upon the good will of the great DOMINIONS, whose freedom in unity within the EMPIRE represents the ideal of all that is best and—despite all appearances—all that is most influential in contemporary Indian politics."

This message is reassuring at the present anxious time. The MAHARAJAH OF BIKANER'S glowing tribute to the THRONE reminds one of the testimony of the MAHARAJAH OF BURDWAN in 1926: "I associate myself whole-heartedly with the message of loyalty to our beloved KING-EMPEROR and QUEEN-EMPRESS, for in INDIA the SOVEREIGN and his CONSORT have a place in the hearts of Indians second only to Divinity itself."

What can be the secret of this fervent loyalty? Is there not a partial clue in the prophecy of Isaiah: "Kings shall be thy nursing fathers and their Queens thy nursing mothers."

On first consideration the fervent warm emotional enthusiasm of India's loyalty almost seems to put to shame the cold matter-of-fact loyalty of Anglo-Saxondom. The difference, however, is not really one of loyalty but of temperament.

It is indisputable, however, that the loyalty of ANGLO-SAXONDOM would burn with a brighter flame and find expression in more emotional form if the DAVIDIC nature of the BRITISH THRONE was more widely known and recognized.

It is interesting to note that the Special Committee set up to examine the proposals for the reform of the legal relations existing between the CROWN and the DOMINIONS, occupied in the HOUSE of LORDS, the handsome room where new Peers put on their robes. Opposite LORD SANKEY, chairman of the Committee, was the great mural painting of MOSES bringing down the tablets of the LAW to his people.

Speaking of his impressions of the opening meeting of the Conference, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald said: "Now that the old house of the EMPIRE, based on government from LONDON, has proved too narrow for the process of constitutional development, we must build up our new house of the BRITISH COMMONWEALTH based on the principle of free co-operation. Our existence depends upon how truly it can be said of our Constitution: 'For still the new transcends the old.'

"The building of that new house cannot be accomplished in one or two Conferences, but we shall hope to make a beginning on firm foundations. The new house may seem unfamiliar, but it has become necessary, for the family has grown to manhood. The new house, however, will lodge the old tenants and be filled by the spirit of forbearing unity.

"The Conference opened in splendid spirit this morning. When we survey the world trade depression and the increasing unemployment, both in this country and in the Dominions and Colonies overseas, the outlook may seem disquieting indeed, but the genius of our peoples is at its best when the difficulties are greatest, and on the very magnitude of our problems I build good hope of overcoming them.

"I should like to make this Conference another turning point in the WONDERFUL STORY OF OUR PEOPLE.

We have been suffering from a bad bout of pessimism. All things are becoming new, and so many of those to whom we looked for leadership in both public and private affairs, in the workshop and factory, and the State, have shivered at the changing conditions.

"Week by week figures of unemployment have had the effect of depressing ourselves and of hiding us in a cloud, in the eyes of the rest of the world. That must be stopped. Our weakness is in our psychology far more than in our skill, our material, our resources, our opportunities. It is a renewal of will that we need."

Yes! we need a renewal of will. We need a will consecrated to the will of GOD, and inspired and directed by the new spirit of the new covenant.

Let us trust that the special prayers for the deliberations of the IMPERIAL CONFERENCE, offered each day in WESTMINSTER ABBEY, will be heard, and contribute to this desirable consummation.

DOES THE BIBLE STAND OR FALL WHEN TESTED BY SCIENCE, HISTORY AND PHILOSOPHY?—XII.

BY PROFESSOR EDWARD ODLUM, M.A., B.Sc.

ABRAHAM—SARAH—ISAAC.

WHEN the Lord definitely located a time for the birth of Isaac, both Abraham and Sarah laughed. Some people think it was the laughter of scepticism. I believe it was the laughter of joy and deep satisfaction. The result of their laugh reached far down the corridors of time and has spread all over the world, as we shall later show.

The Lord told the happy pair that the child would be named or called Isaac, meaning Laughter.

Reader, get the significance of the name joy, laughter, happiness, given to the young child of promise.

NAMED IN ISAAC.

Genesis xxi.—"For in Isaac shall thy seed be called or named."

The Hebrew word used here is yik-kara, yikara, which signifies to call or name: Call in the sense of name.

Exactly as in Luke i:—Thou shalt call His name Jesus. The word here in Greek is Καλέσεις, and simply means to name. This is important as we shall see when examining Paul's writing. The real intention was to place upon Abraham's seed, through Isaac, the significant mark or impress of Isaac or Laughter, joy, pleasure, for in the seed of Isaac all the nations of the earth were to be blessed, to be brought into the Isaac condition of joy, delight, happiness, Laughter. What a wonderful intent and provision! How glorious the prospect!

LAUGHTER—ISAAC—YITZ-CHAK.

Our English pronunciation Isaac is a poor imitation of the Hebrew letters used as an attempt to spell an unspellable word or sound.

The parents laughed and, in so doing, made a throat or guttural sound, which cannot be accurately represented by letter or other symbols.

Let us indicate by another onomatopoetic word, the word for crow. We all have heard the caw of the crow, and know that the sound caw has given this familiar bird its name.

We write crow: the Latins write Corvus: the Greeks Korax: the Spaniards Corbo: and the Japanese Korasu. These are all attempts at representing the noise made by the crow when cawing.

The word yitz-chak in Hebrew is an attempt to reproduce the sound made in joyful laughter.

SAXONS—SACHS—TCHEKS.

The name Sach, Sak, Sac, Soch, Sogh, Sagh, Cos-sack, Saxon, Saccennæ, Sogdi, etc., can be traced over Asia out to Japan, through Europe, over to the British Isles, to America, even to the Pacific Coast, to Australasia and all through Africa.

One thing sure is this: the name is applied to people in all lands, and we know that the name and rule of the Saxons cover unknown and known millions of earth's most powerful, aggressive, progressive and enterprising people.

Yes, this promise concerning the naming of Abraham's chosen seed, in and through Isaac, has been made good, and is one of the most prominent world-facts of to-day.

A Missionary writes from India:—"I am greatly interested in your work and mission, and I want to do a little toward helping you on; I enclose a money order. I am convinced of the main idea underlying the British-Israel Movement. It satisfies one's questionings regarding certain statements of Scripture as no other idea does."

We regret to have to record the death—suddenly—of Mr. Henry P. Rudd, of Chepstow Villas, Notting Hill, and we tender our sympathy to his sister and family. Mr. Rudd was a member of the Council of the old Imperial British-Israel Association, and had been an ardent believer for many years. He will be much missed by the older members of the Federation, of which he was a supporter from its foundation in 1919.

Wednesday and Thursday, December 3rd and 4th, are the days fixed for the next Annual Sale of Work in aid of the funds of the Federation, at Headquarters. Gifts of articles of plain or fancy work, children's wear, etc., etc., will be very welcome.

We are pleased to announce that the sales of literature at the Congress nearly doubled those of last year. A College in the London area is taking 100 copies of the Secretary-General's pamphlet on "The British Commonwealth of Nations" for its students. Dr. Mountain's new book, "The Triumph of British-Israel," and Dr. Pascoe Goard's "Crossing the River," had a specially large sale.

Two well-attended meetings were held at the Hove Town Hall on Friday, September 26th, when Mrs. Bloxam gave most interesting lectures—"Our Flag and Heraldry" in the afternoon, and "Prophecy Fulfilled in Palestine To-day" in the evening.

Several questions arising from the many points raised were convincingly answered, and these, together with the absorbing nature of the subjects themselves, apparently convinced many of the large numbers present.

The Right Hon. Lord Strathspey, in introducing Mrs. Bloxam, said that we had a great heritage handed to us from our forefathers. Such a great patriotism existed that the Imperial idea had become a vital force. The first thing the twentieth-century Britons had to do was to get a true conception of Empire into their heads—what it was and what it meant. Maintain it they must, for it was God's own creation.

A vocal item was given by Miss Doris M. Lucas, and prayers were offered by the Rev. J. Horrocks and the Rev. Pitt Bonarjee.

Several new subscribers and many enquiries made a most auspicious commencement to the Third Session of the Branch, and great interest was shown in the announcement of the forthcoming meetings to be addressed by speakers from the Congress.

The Rev. T. H. Whitehouse, Commissioner for the Midlands, writes:—"Some two thousand people nearly filled the beautiful Town Hall at Birmingham on Monday, October 20th. It was a proud moment for the Midland Commissioner, looking round the vast audience, to realize that the efforts of his devoted band of workers had brought about such a splendid result.

"Such workers—men and women whose hearts God has touched—all out for Christ and His Kingdom.

"An opening address from Mr. Clive Kenrick, in the chair, dealing with the signs of the times, fitly led up to a fine lecture, with magnificent slides, by the Secretary-General, Mr. Herbert Garrison, who, in his best form, told of 'Cities and Citizens of the United States,' followed by the Rev. Dr. Goard on 'The Advancing World Crisis,' which made a profound impression on the great audience.

"Considerable quantities of the Manifesto were sold, and good results are confidently expected."

Our Southampton Branch reports two very successful meetings on October 22nd, with splendid audiences, both afternoon and evening, one of which was the largest yet known for B.-I. in the town. Mr. John J. Morey gave two rousing addresses. * * *

For the information of those who were not privileged to attend the recent Congress, we here give the names of those who took part, including those who read the Scriptures and engaged in the devotional exercises, also those who attended the Clerical and Ministerial Conference :—Rev. Mr. Alfred Dixon writes :—"The Ryde Branch has been greatly favoured and helped by the recent visit of Miss Hamilton Hunter, who gave four masterly addresses. Meetings were held in the Town Hall, and His Worship the Mayor, Alderman C. J. de Launay, presided over the opening meeting. He spoke of the many proofs of the identification of Britain with ancient Israel, and his pleasure at being in any way identified with it. On the second day, the Rev. Chas. E. Paterson, M.A., Vicar of Holy Trinity and Hon. Chaplain of the Royal Yacht Squadron, Cowes, presided. Mr. Paterson is a whole-hearted believer in British-Israel, Our pianist failed us, but the Mayoress very graciously offered to preside at the piano, and did so right throughout the four gatherings. Miss Hamilton Hunter's handling of her subjects kept her audience in rapt attention, and carried conviction to many who were doubtful before as to the claims of our identication with Israel. To say that the lectures were greatly enjoyed by all is far below what we would like to express. Perhaps the lecture which was most telling was the 'Redemption of the Israelite Nation.' We were greatly pleased and encouraged by the number of new faces present for the first time, and many are eager to have another visit from Miss Hamilton Hunter as soon as possible."

Glastonbury Traditions

BEING A TRANSLATION FROM THE LATIN
BY
THE SECOND CHAPTER OF BRITANNICARUM ECCLESIARUM ANTIQUITATES OF JAMES USSHER, ARCHBISHOP OF ARMAGH AND PRIMATE OF ALL IRELAND, PUBLISHED AT DUBLIN IN 1639. WITH THE ORIGINAL FOOTNOTES.

This is the first published translation of this important chapter of the great Archbishop Ussher's Monumental Work on the Antiquity of the British Churches, produced in Latin in 1639.

It contains the collected traditions, as gathered from various sources by this eminent writer, concerning the coming to Glastonbury of Joseph of Arimathea and his companions, and distinguishes, with notable impartiality, between such as may be regarded as merely legendary and those which, on the basis of continuous authority, are worthy of acceptance.

In particular, he adduces the arguments used by the British delegates to the Councils of Pisa, Constance, Siena and Basle (1409, 1417, 1424 and 1434, respectively) in support of their claim regarding the priority of antiquity of the British Church, and deals with the evidence on which such arguments were based.

The original footnotes are reproduced (the more important being translated) in order that the reader may consult the authorities cited by Ussher, should he desire to do so.

EDITORIAL.

The following should be read in the light of Israel Truth, namely, that the Anglo-Saxon nations are the continuation of the Israel nation ; the inheritors of her Charters ; the possessors of her guarantees and immunities from destruction ; the executors of her commissions.

It should be understood that Authors alone are responsible for the views expressed in their Articles.

GOD.

THE PEOPLE. △ THE BIBLE.—IV.

By the Rev. Dr. W. Pascoe Goard, F.R.G.S.

We have seen the steady progress of the Israel story in the Bible. This Bible story is not simply history of events which have HAPPENED. It is rather the statement of a great work undertaken by the Lord God of Israel and of the whole world, for the uplift of mankind and for the establishment of the Kingdom of God in the earth.

We have become so used to abject and sin-cursed conditions in the earth as to think of them as the permanent and natural condition of things. But such is not the case. God has set forth in the clearest terms, as one of the plans of His executive Godhead, the restoration of law, order, justice and purity in the earth. The Book which tells the details of the plan and of the history of the progress of the plan is the Bible. The people involved in the plan, who were born to carry it to full completion within a certain set period of millennia is the Israel nation and company of nations of which the Anglo-Saxon world is the official centre. In history and prophecy this great activity of the people is fully set forth in the Bible, and more than ninety per cent. of the action of the story is now written in the books of secular history.

We now turn to the recorded manifestations of God to the nations in public demonstration of His Personality and Presence.

First we have the delightful records of God in His appearances to Abram, later called Abraham. For the purposes of this intercourse God manifested Himself by the Name El Shaddai, and in angel form. That is to say, in a form like that of the sons of men, but manifestly not mortal.

We read of His coming to the tent door of Abram and there receiving his hospitality. We read the conversations which took place there and have the record of the Covenants which were then entered into between God, under the Name El Shaddai, Abraham and Sarah. (See 17th chapter of Genesis for instance.) This form of self-manifestation held during all the period in which God dealt with the Abrahamic family as a family. Speaking generally, this was exclusively the case up to the time of the emergence of Israel from Egypt, that is to say, during a period of some 450 years.

When the family is in the foreground in the later Scriptures, the same name and manifestation is used. This particular period dated from the call of Abraham—the date of which was given in a former issue—down to 1491 B.C.

In 1491 B.C., because of the development of the Bible plan and of the Israel people, God gave a new revelation of Himself to Israel as Jehovah, and took His seat upon His everlasting throne as the King of His nation Israel. The last clauses of the 103rd Psalm show David's recognition of this great fact. The manifestation itself, to which we have frequently referred, is found in the 19th chapter of Exodus, from which we quote the following verses :—

"And Moses went down from the mount unto the people, and sanctified the people; and they washed their clothes.

And he said unto the people, Be ready against the third day: come not at your wives.

And it came to pass on the third day in the morning, that there were thunders and lightnings, and a thick cloud upon the mount, and the voice of the trumpet exceeding loud; so that all the people that was in the camp trembled.

And Moses brought forth the people out of the camp to meet with God; and they stood at the nether part of the mount.

And mount Sinai was altogether on a smoke, because the Lord descended upon it in fire: and the smoke thereof ascended as the smoke of a furnace, and the whole mount quaked greatly.

And when the voice of the trumpet sounded long, and waxed louder and louder, Moses spake, and God answered him by a voice.

And the Lord came down upon mount Sinai, on the top of the mount: and the Lord called Moses up to the top of the mount; and Moses went up.

And the Lord said unto Moses, Go down, charge the people, lest they break through unto the Lord to gaze, and many of them perish.

And let the priests also, which come near to the Lord, sanctify themselves, lest the Lord break forth upon them.

And Moses said unto the Lord, The people cannot come up to mount Sinai: for thou chargedst us, saying, Set bounds about the mount, and sanctify it.

And the Lord said unto him, Away, get thee down, and thou shalt come up, thou, and Aaron with thee: but let not the priests and the people break through to come up unto the Lord, lest he break forth upon them.

So Moses went down unto the people, and spake unto them."

Please read the whole of the two chapters xix and xx as parts of this article.

The manifestation of God here inaugurated has been a permanent institution in the affairs of Israel and the world, and it is only our blindness which prevents our beholding His glory hovering over us at the present time. The counsel of His Will and the strength of His Personality have driven, and continue to drive the undercurrent of world affairs straight toward the accomplishment of His purpose to make the national, economic and world-wide administration of His Kingdom universal in the earth.

At the opening of the Temple of Solomon, about four centuries later, namely (Ussher) 1004 B.C., the Lord manifested His Presence at the dedication of Solomon's Temple.

From the narrative of the event we quote 2 Chronicles, 7th chapter, verses 1-3:—

"Now when Solomon had made an end of praying, the fire came down from heaven, and consumed the burnt offering and the sacrifices; and the glory of the Lord filled the house.

And the priests could not enter into the house of the Lord, because the glory of the Lord had filled the Lord's house.

And when all the children of Israel saw how the fire came down, and the glory of the Lord upon the house, they bowed themselves with their faces to the ground upon the pavement, and worshipped, and praised the Lord, saying, For he is good; for his mercy endureth for ever."

Please read also the whole narrative of the dedication, 2 Chronicles, chapters v, vi and vii, as part of this article.

We now leap forward along the path of Bible progress and Israel history to about 750 B.C. The young prophet Isaiah, going up to worship in the Temple, is suddenly surprised by beholding, with unclouded vision, the manifestation of God. The passage is contained in Isaiah, chapter vi, 1-13:—

"In the year that king Uzziah died I saw also the Lord sitting upon a throne, high and lifted up, and his train filled the temple.

Above it stood the seraphims: each one had six wings; with twain he covered his face, and with twain he covered his feet, and with twain he did fly.

And one cried unto another, and said, Holy, holy, holy, is the Lord of hosts; the whole earth is full of his glory.

And the posts of the door moved at the voice of him that cried, and the house was filled with smoke.

Then said I, Woe is me! for I am undone; because I am a man of unclean lips, and I dwell in the midst of a people of unclean lips: for mine eyes have seen the King, the Lord of hosts.

Then flew one of the seraphims unto me, having a live coal in his hand, which he had taken with the tongs from off the altar:

And he laid it upon my mouth, and said, Lo, this hath touched thy lips; and thine iniquity is taken away, and thy sin purged.

Also I heard the voice of the Lord, saying, Whom shall I send, and who will go for us? Then said I, Here am I; send me.

And he said, Go, and tell this people, Hear ye indeed, but understand not; and see ye indeed, but perceive not.

Make the heart of this people fat, and make their ears heavy, and shut their eyes; lest they see with their eyes, and hear with their ears, and understand with their heart, and convert, and be healed.

Then said I, Lord, how long? And he answered, Until the cities be wasted without inhabitants, and the houses without man, and the land be utterly desolate,

And the Lord have removed men far away, and there be a great forsaking in the midst of the land.

But yet in it shall be a tenth, and it shall return, and shall be eaten; as a teil tree, and as an oak, whose substance is in them, when they cast their leaves; so the holy seed shall be the substance thereof."

Again we take a step forward along the line of Bible progress and of Israel history, and this time the scene is laid on the banks of the River Chebar among the captives of Israel. It is a vision of the same glory, manifesting the same Personality. Please turn to the 1st chapter of Ezekiel, and read, with care, up to verse 25. This prepares the way for the striking declaration which follows in verses 26-28 inclusive, which we quote:—

"And above the firmament that was over their heads was the likeness of a throne, as the appearance of a sapphire stone; and upon the likeness of the throne was the likeness as the appearance of a man above upon it.

And I saw as the colour of amber, as the appearance of fire round about within it, from the appearance of his loins even upward, and from the appearance of his loins even downward, I saw as it were the appearance of fire, and it had brightness round about.

As the appearance of the bow that is in the cloud in the day of rain, so was the appearance of the brightness round about. This was the appearance of the likeness of the glory of the Lord. And when I saw it, I fell upon my face, and I heard a voice of one that spake."

We will follow this great study in our next issue.

OUR CONGRESS DAY BY DAY.

FRIDAY EVENING, OCTOBER 10TH.

WE delight this evening to welcome Dr. Dinsdale T. Young, that veteran preacher whose vivid personality and unwavering Gospel have so all-important a place in the work of the Central Hall. The applause which greets him proves how warmly we of the Federation hold him in our hearts ; and he digs himself deeper therein as he unfolds to us what is his conception of the Truth for which we stand.

He tells us that he has come among us confessedly as a learner, an eager learner (applause) ; nay, a convinced learner (renewed applause). " I am very glad indeed," the sonorous tones ring out clearly, " if my presence is indicative of the fact of a growing sympathy with the British-Israel Movement As I travel about the country, I hear how matters are progressing ; and it is a real joy to know that the British-Israel Movement is attracting increasing attention in our villages and towns ; it is a great contribution to the Empire and to religious truth."

To call the British-Israelites " cranks," Dr. Young thinks, is no argument ; his view of us from the platform is that we are very happy-looking cranks.

Turning then to the evergreen question, " What good is it ? " the Doctor declares with great emphasis, " What advantage hath it ? Much, every way."

It is a call to patriotism. " I see more clearly every day I live that every true Christian should be a patriot. I have little use for those who mistake biliousness for holiness, and consider that not to be loyal is a mark of sanctification. These people seem to wish they lived in another country, and I heartily share their wish." (Much laughter.)

England, he continues, is a country smiled on by God, having a definite covenant relation with the Almighty, and a great destiny. It is ours to cause the heart of the rising generation to throb with the love of England.

It is a great call to character. " If we be Abraham's seed,"— " I quote Paul, and in quoting him, I quote the Holy Spirit,"— " we must have the faith of Abraham." " If ye were the children of Abraham, ye would do the deeds of Abraham." The strength of Empire is character, the greatest thing there is, even in God Himself.

It is a tremendous call to Evangelism. " There is nothing we want so much in the Churches to-day as Evangelism. I read accounts of ecclesiastical gatherings and no Evangelism mentioned. It would be better to discuss that than some of the doubtful questions which seem to exercise the ecclesiastical mind. We are not here simply for Ethics and Social Questions : the pulpit exists to get people converted.

" It is driving people to the Bible, while many of the pulpits are engaged in tearing the Bible to pieces. The greatest revival we need is a revival of Bible reading. Since I looked at British-Israel I have been more interested in the Bible than ever before."

Dr. Young closes his inspiring speech by saying pleasant words about Mr. Garrison, who is a very old friend of his. He congratulates us on having such a man at the head, and— this with a rapid glance round the platform and a smile of sheer enjoyment—" I perceive," he concludes, " that the Movement has brain—and heart."

After such a Chairman's address, it must be easy to carry on. The Rev. Joseph Gay seems to think so, as he swings into an address on " The Gospel of Grace in the New Testament, read in the light of British-Israel fact," not British-Israel Truth, since truth is not in a thing but in a person. Personality is the one great fact of the Universe ; and Personality is God ; and God is Truth.

The British-Israel teaching is not a theory, not a thing to be proved, not a working hypothesis : it is a fact ; and the fact of Israel has been the great interpreter of the Book. Truth is a Person ; Jesus said, " I am the Way, the Truth, the Life." Pilate, faced with the Person of Truth, was converted and declared, " I find no fault in Him."

When a certain Canon of the Church declared in Boston that " the God of the New Testament is not the God of the Old, and the Old Testament is no longer needed," there was one fact lacking in his thought which would have changed his whole outlook ; and that was the fact of Israel.

Mr. Gay then traced, with considerable emotion, the continuity of the Grace of God in Israel, first through the Israel of the Old Testament, then in London to-day ; in Isaac, in David, and in Jesus. With all the sins of the Northern Kingdom in Palestine, God's mercy never failed, His Grace was never withdrawn, His favour never died. The birth of Isaac was all of Grace ; " nothing in Abraham, nothing in Sarah ; everything in God." Nor did Abraham offer up Isaac—God did. He provided the lamb for the sacrifice. Isaac was God's creation, and the Isaac seed is a sacrificial seed down to this day.

Grace in David was peculiarly marked. " I have no use," says one, " for David, the man who caused another to be slain in order that he might take his wife." " But," retorts Mr. Gay with all his emphasis, " the depth of his sin is the depth of his humiliation, and the depth of his humiliation is the extent of God's mercy and grace. All the graces of God are in David ; all the ideals, heights and purposes of Israel are in David as well as the depths.

The fact of Israel lifts you up and carries you on to Christ, in Whom is the fulness of Grace and Truth. It is an objective element, coming into life from outside ; manifested in a man who appears to Abraham and eats a material meal. He speaks with authority : He comes as Lord of Hosts, our Christ.

As Dr. Young is called away to another meeting, Mr. Garrison takes the chair, and gives another of his impassioned speeches which are a constant source of affectionate surprise to us all. Whence comes this enthusiasm, this power, this burning flame which looks as if it would consume the " earthly vessel." No wonder Mr. Complin lovingly remarks, as he rises to speak, " Isn't it wonderful how much God puts into little bits."

Mr. Complin wants us to get hold of the solidarity of the race, and with the tender little story of the dying boy in Australia whose last hours were soothed by hearing his mother's voice from England over the wireless. " As the 'phones were fitted to his ears and the beloved sound reached him across 13,000 miles of air, his face lit up and he whispered, ' Is that you, mother ? ' "

That, says Mr. Complin, is Australia, with her 400,000 men in the war—feeling the obligation of the child for the mother. " I couldn't see the Old Country in a tight corner."

Digitized by Google

Now this genial, effective Australian leads us to the heart of Isaiah, and the heart of God Himself, in the story of the two wives, the married and obedient, the desolate and rejected. "More are the children of the desolate than of the married wife." There is the promised expansion of Israel, making the desolate cities to be inhabited, and her seed inheriting the Gentiles.

The shameful past is wiped out; the rejected wife is restored. "Thy maker is thy Husband, Jehovah of Hosts." World-expansion is here, in "The God of the whole earth shall He be called." "For a small moment have I forgotten thee, but with great mercies will I gather thee." "In righteousness shalt thou be established," to give fair play, to release the slaves, to be a refuge to the distressed.

"You and I," concludes Mr. Complin, as he calls us to our feet in dedication to the service of Christ, "must get down before God and give ourselves up as channels for the Holy Spirit to work through, in prayer for our nation."

The meeting draws to a close with one other Australian visitor, Mr. Exley, of Brisbane, who tells us he is taking back with him, not the Ashes, but the Lighted Torch of Truth. He comes now with a warning that the greatest danger of the age is that Israel should be unprepared for the Coming of the King. Referring to the great unrest of to-day, Mr. Exley asks, "Do you believe God? If so, 'when you see these things, lift up your heads, for your redemption draweth nigh.' Jerusalem has been freed; many run to and fro; knowledge is increased; many false creeds abound, as does iniquity, and the love of many waxes cold. There is distress of nations; there are the physical signs of earthquake and storm; and, most striking of all, this Gospel of the Kingdom is being preached to the whole world."

We close with the vision he brings to us from Revelation xv, with the sea of glass and fire, and the song of Moses and the Lamb resounding through the ages.

It is a great finish to a great day.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 11TH.

Alderman Dearden, who was Mayor of Rochdale last year, and inaugurated the "Rochdale for Christ" Campaign, attributes his presence on the platform as our Chairman this afternoon, and his campaign at Rochdale, entirely, under the Grace of God, to Mr. Morey bringing him, at a time of great personal trouble, to a knowledge of the British-Israel position. He tells us that nothing else can so fully reveal the Truth of God; that no Christian should be less anxious than to know the whole Truth; and that no minister of the Gospel has a right to ignore this great question; he should do everything that is possible to acquaint himself with the Truth, and must in faithfulness to God proclaim the whole Gospel.

The great fact of British-Israel Truth is that it solves Bible difficulties; it is our peculiarity that we are concerned with the truth of the Book. "Evolution says that it took ten million years to build a man's spine; if that is the speed of Evolution, there is not much hope for the future." In the chaos of to-day's life, it is only the man who accepts the Bible as a whole who can have rest and peace.

In his own experience, Mr. Dearden declares, he has reached faith in the whole Counsel of God through Faith in the Promises. Three thousand of them, he says, have been fulfilled in history; ninety-five per cent. have been carried out; we may well believe the other five per cent. will follow.

He concludes with a great challenge to everybody in the audience. "This declaration of the Truth is not only a minister's job; you are to help your clergy, and do the jobs they give you to do."

Chancellor Du Bois, of the Chicago Law College, follows, and puts us in a good humour in his opening sentence. "I met a man," he declares, "whence he came, whither he goeth, I know not; but that man caught me up; said, 'Sit here,' 'Stand there'; it was this man, Pascoe Goard, brought me here."

In a masterly summing-up of the present situation in the colleges, quoting as he goes various Professors' opinions, which he declares to be "the opinions of super-highly-trained animal minds of the First Creation," the Chancellor informs us that modern civilization "is suffering from a 'super-ego'; it is giving us a manifestation of the aggressiveness of one of the two great antagonistic forces in the world, the forces of Satan and of Christ." "Be of good cheer," we are reminded that Jesus said, "I have overcome the world."

From this point we are treated to a scholarly excursus into the realms of the Common Law which, "existing in and from the Universal Human Reason and Moral Consciousness, God included in the society and system of His Israel people." Thence to the scientific aspects of the Holy Spirit, in conflict with the "fire of hell in the colleges." We are given a tragic picture of the overthrow of the faith of the rising generation, due to false teaching in the schools, the corrective of which is, and can be, only the Holy Spirit, "Who shall guide us into all the Truth."

One of the Presidents of a great college in the United States is quoted as saying, for our comfort, that "the greatest scientists, almost to a man, grow less materialistic and less mechanistic the deeper they delve into scientific questions." "In the house of science," the Chancellor believes, "one by one the walls are breaking down. There is now one room only in the house of Physics; how long can the old distinction between Mind and Matter be kept separate?"

The deeper we delve into the world of scientific activity, as, for instance, in the study of the electron, which we are told acts differently on different days, the more we are driven to the idea that "there must be thought there"; "a Personal, Creative, Immanent Mind—in short, OUR GOD is necessary."

The Chancellor describes Mr. Davidson's study on "The Exodus from Economic Bondage" as "a sling-shot, David's bull's-eye-hit to bring material science to its knees."

"In view of our knowledge to-day of the Fourth Dimension, as we stand on the borderland between the material world and the whole range of Dimensions up to the Tenth, we are compelled to cry, 'What amazing fools these exclusively materialistic scientists are.'"

After this brain-stirring address we are glad to have the breathing space which the material needs of the Federation allow us, and after the offerings have been received, Mr. J. J. Morey takes us back, gratefully, to some of the elements of our belief. This is the charm of the Congress, that we are continually refreshed at all points, and that leaders like Mr. Morey are always re-arming us.

He leaves us with no vulnerable spots. The foundations of our history are in the Book; the Covenants are there, and we see them running on to-day. The Israel nation must be in the world to-day, or the Covenants have failed. If the Nation has been redeemed it must also be restored. British-Israel teaching agrees with the Bible and World History.

We are now led straight to the evidence of our Coinage. Our King is declared on our coins to be King only "by the Grace of God." He is Head of the Church and of the State. Britannia is the "woman, Israel." All the symbolism is Israelitish.

We are glad to know that Mr. Morey is making a special research into all sections of our national imagery, for, as he rightly tells us this afternoon, it is all prophetic of the glorious reign that is coming; just as it is all Israelitish and takes us back to our past. In it we can see our glorious heritage, our great responsibility and the wonderful time when we shall come out of our bondage.

No talk on coinage symbolism would be complete without reference to the American coinage, and Mr. Morey goes as carefully into that as he does into all with which he deals, showing that it is just as Israelitish as is our own.

So we go to our last tea-interval of this wonderful week. One fancies that conversation becomes more rapid as the time of separation grows nearer. There is so much to say to all these friends from all over the country, and there is always a touch of sadness about the last meeting. For one thing we have become once more like Israel on the march; after a week of encampment at the Central Hall, we now gird up our loins and move on to the Church House, Westminster.

There is an atmosphere about this dignified, ecclesiastical building which adds much to the spiritual force of the meeting, and with Dr. Goard in the chair, we open our last meeting of the Congress. As he tells us that our meetings have been characterized by the Divine Presence, the fervent "Amens" of his hearers show that he has struck a responsive chord at the very start. "We knew it," he declares, "we felt it, and such experience cannot be ignored. The scientists must not ignore such testimony. The Spirit comes by the avenue of the Spirit, not by that of the senses; and until scientists try for themselves the contact thus made, they have no right to deny it."

Rev. J. Lumley Davies outlines for us our national and individual privileges, quoting Victor Hugo's great testimony concerning our place and destiny. England's great world opportunity is coming, has come; and the nations of the Continent are increasingly recognizing it. "What manner of persons therefore ought we to be?" In our daily walk we must have Loyalty to God, and Faithfulness to Gospel Teaching.

In a carefully-balanced statement of the conditions of life in our colleges, with their infidel and cynical professors, and students led into unbelief—"they study beetles and frogs, but ignore the greater things"—(Mr. Lumley Davies shows us how, even in the school text-books, the enemies of England are trying to overthrow our Protestant and Evangelical Beliefs), we are brought to the position that "the ox knoweth his owner, and the ass his master's crib; but Israel doth not know, My people do not consider."

If it be true that we are the salt of the earth, to sweeten, preserve and prevent corruption, then we must be ready to come out of ourselves and give ourselves up to the service of God in our nation. There will be times when we shall feel, with Elijah, that we only are left, and they seek our life to take it away; but always, in the moments of loneliness, weakness and almost despair, there is the "still small Voice" which reminds us that God is in the midst of us; and we arise and go forth with fresh courage to the victories which await us.

Rev. Maxwell Carnson takes us on to the high places where God dwells, and shows us the Everlasting Purpose of the Father towards His people Israel as it is shown in the Scriptures from God's point of view. From the plotting out of the nations on the map of the world, "Fixing the boundaries of the people according to the numbers of the Children of Israel," all through the history of the Nation in the Bible; to the Coming of the King; to His nursing, guarding, carrying, rebuilding and regathering of His people, Mr. Carnson leads us stage by stage to the great consummation of the end, "When He shall have put down all rule and all authority," and shall reign over the kingdoms of the world.

Rev. John Complin, of Australia, tells us of the great opportunity London has to-day for Evangelism, greater than we have had since Pentecost. "No patriot should neglect our Book, which is our Past, our Gospel and our Destiny." We are reminded that the position of the Tribes of Israel relative to the Camp of the Hosts of Israel was indicative of much. Judah was on the Eastern side, opposite the door of the Sanctuary, the Altars of Sacrifice and of Incense. Joseph, Ephraim and Manasseh were on the West side, on the side of Britain and the Islands of the Seas. "Judah was His sanctuary; Israel was His dominion."

The note on which Mr. Complin finishes up is the note we always delight to hear, and he takes us just where we want to be in a very telling little story of his own experience, taken from the depths of his loving heart; so that the Congress ends with the message "Jesus is so wonderful." No better word has been said all the week.

And now, though the hour is late, Mr. Garrison says his farewell words. He must be feeling thankful that another year's Congress has reached so good an end; for who can tell, even of those who are closest to him, of what this organization, this burden of responsibility, has meant to him, in spiritual as in material things. Yet he shows no sign of weariness in his last words, and the flame of his enthusiasm and courage burns as brightly as ever.

The message is "Speak unto the Children of Israel that they go forward," against Popery and idolatry; against the guns of the anti-God campaigner; against the atheist, the infidel, the Bolshevist. Quoting at length from the "Charge of the Light Brigade," Mr. Garrison pictures for us all the enemies that are massed against us. "It is the Devil's army," he concludes, "but WE SHALL GO THROUGH."

So the last word of the Congress is a shout of triumph, echoed again in our last song of praise and in the rolling periods of "God Save our Gracious King." And now we go back home, to translate all the experiences of this wonderful week into action that shall galvanize the whole of the nation, and through us all the nations of the world, into NEWNESS OF LIFE.

"AND THE BEST OF ALL IS, GOD IS WITH US."

NOTES ON THE IMPERIAL CONFERENCE.

BY A. R. H.

IV.

THE IMPERIAL CONFERENCE has now settled down to the heavy business of the agenda and for the time being the speeches are mostly confined to technical matters unsuitable for publication in the National Message.

In between sessions, however, the Dominion Premiers are being given special opportunities for becoming better acquainted with the HOMELAND, its peoples, and national activities.

On Saturday, October 25th, a special flying display was organized by the ROYAL AIR FORCE for the special benefit of the Overseas representatives. At Croydon, LONDON'S AIR PORT, the DOMINION PREMIERS had a demonstration of the British Kingdom's air might. The question of air power has assumed a new significance since the machines of His Britannic Majesty's Royal Air Force—brought about a literal fulfilment of Isa. xxxi, 5, on that memorable 9th of December, 1917, when JERUSALEM was delivered.

AS BIRDS FLYING—

The DOMINION PREMIERS will also witness an impressive demonstration of Kingdom-sea-power when they visit PORTLAND on November 1st.*

It is good that Overseas visitors should see something of the might, majesty and dominion of the power of ISRAEL-BRITAIN. In the self-consciousness of adolescence the younger nations of the EMPIRE are apt to belittle the strength and contribution of the MOTHERLAND.

ENGLAND was only receiving the recognition which is her due when, on a recent occasion, the Prime Minister for NEW ZEALAND (Mr. Forbes), referring to the economic position of the BRITISH COMMONWEALTH in the earlier years of the present century, said: "I would ask the people in the widespread possessions of His Majesty to remember that this position was achieved through the industry and ability of the British nation."

True modesty is a virtue. But an excess of modesty may be positively harmful. "Honour to whom honour is due" is the moral basis of our plea for recognition of the contribution of ENGLAND. The term "England" is used here deliberately. Because whilst the BRITISH COMMONWEALTH is the achievement of the BRITISH RACE as a whole, ENGLAND has played a major part in that achievement.

Take the example of the GREAT WAR. It is sometimes said that the DOMINIONS and the Colonies saved ENGLAND in the war. But from a military point of view it was ENGLAND that saved the EMPIRE.

Out of the total enlistment of the EMPIRE (seven millions) ENGLAND sent four, INDIA one, the DOMINIONS one and a half, and the COLONIAL EMPIRE including SCOTLAND, IRELAND and WALES the balance of half a million men.

No one wishes to disparage the magnificent contribution of the Empire. But we plead for a right perspective. It is not generally realized that little England sent more men into the fighting forces than the whole of the rest of the Empire including Scotland, Ireland and Wales.

Moreover, in proportion to the population of the whole EMPIRE, England's casualties were 82 per cent. and that of the rest of the UNITED KINGDOM together with all the troops of OVERSEAS DOMINIONS and COLONIES was 18 per cent. These facts should for ever effectively dispose of the time-worn question: "What did ENGLAND do in the GREAT WAR?"

To-day the EMPIRE is composed of FREE and EQUAL NATIONS. But ENGLAND, as long as she remains modern representative of EPHRAIM—the birthright holder—will still be entitled to the pre-eminence. The DAUGHTER-NATIONS are FREE and EQUAL. But ENGLAND is still primus inter pares, i.e., FIRST among EQUALS.†

CONGRESS ADDRESS.

MR. J. J. MOREY said: Mr. Chairman, my dear Friends,—We have had an address to-night dealing fully with the elementary foundation truths of our belief from our esteemed Secretary-General. We have had an address from the Rev. Maxwell Carnson, introducing the subject of prophecy; and I feel that I ought to follow up some of the questions upon which we have begun to think. I want to speak to you for a few minutes upon the portions of the Bible which relate to the time in which we are living, because I think it is not enough to talk to the men of Britain to-day merely about prophecies that belong to the past; and it is not much good talking to them about prophecies that are to be fulfilled a long time ahead. If I can show you that the world as it is to-day is spoken of in this Book, that the state of things we are now in has its place in prophecy, that Britain has its place in prophecy, and that the chaos of our times has its place in prophecy, well, I feel that ought to nail it down.

As our time is limited, we must do without an introduction. But I do say this, that the man who imagines that this Book is all about the past, or about the future, and will not see that 1930 is in it, has got a very one-eyed view of the scope of the matter of this Book. We believe that this is the Book of the ages: beginning with the creation of Adam it ran on to the Coming of Christ, and beyond that to the new heaven and the new earth. But are you going to cut out the most important era of all, the Christian era? It would be foolish to suggest it. And now that we have nearly come to the end of the Christian age, I am sure all thoughtful Bible readers will realize that we are drawing near to the time when the King is to come back again, to the time of preparation for the great struggle which is to take place, and to that climax, that apex in history, the reign of Christ on earth: these, and all the associated circumstances, must have a great place in the story of this Book. So I would leave all introductory matter alone, and bring you to several passages, as far as my time will permit, which I am quite sure refer to our day, that you may be prepared in your thought and reading for the comfort of other people, and for the enlightenment of many who have not heard that phase of Scripture.

* When the Dominion Premiers see the Naval demonstration they will have some idea of the immense burden borne by the people in this country to protect the Empire. For every £100 spent by Great Britain for this purpose the rest of the Empire only contributes £16.

† This idea has its parallel in Christian organization. We are all brethren in Christ Jesus. But Christ remains "among many brethren" the first or firstborn. Cf. Rom. viii, 29.

Let us begin, first of all, at a series of chapters in Isaiah. The twelve chapters from the 24th to the 35th give us the story of Jacob's trouble which began in 1914, and they run on and give us many events which have taken place, and are taking place, and are about to take place until the Coming of Christ. Now how does Isaiah lead up to those chapters? He begins in chapter xiii by writing to the other nations, to Babylon, Assyria, to Edom (Turkey of to-day), Tyre, Egypt, and to the other nations and heathen peoples, and he tells them they will fall. I cannot tell you how many nations of the world have been shaken by revolution since 1914. I cannot tell you how many thrones have fallen, and there is another one tottering to its fall. Revolution is still working. Isaiah is right. He sees that before the Coming of Christ the nations that have come from heathen people will be rendered helpless, and they will be glad to come under the government and the law and the throne of the Kingdom when it is finally established. But they are broken, and I believe others are now breaking. And when Isaiah sees the world in chaos he begins chapter xxiv, and he says: "Behold, the Lord maketh the world empty, and maketh it waste, and turneth it upside down, and scattereth abroad the inhabitants thereof." Is not that an exact description of what is going on? Is not religious life upside down? Is not the Church life of our day upside down? Is not industry and finance upside down? Are not international politics upside down? Is not the chaos really here? The prophet is leading up to the Coming of Christ, and he begins the story of Jacob's trouble when the world is upside down, when the heathen nations are in chaos and trouble, and he hears a nation in the isles singing songs of praise, thanking God that they have discovered something. And when all the world is in chaos, that nation in the isles, the Israelites of to-day, are seeing things; but only after they have found out that they are His people, and He is their God. Will you read it: it is up-to-date prophecy beginning there in chapter xxiv. But you have not gone very far in the reading before he tells you that "in this mountain shall the Lord of hosts make unto all people a feast of fat things." You are quite safe in putting the word "nation" for "mountain" in prophecy. For instance, Micah speaks of the mountain of the House of the Lord: that is the nation kingdom. "But in the last days it shall come to pass, that the mountain of the house of the Lord shall be established in the top of the mountains, and it shall be exalted above the hills; and people shall flow into it." And the law goes forth: there is the nation, there is the government from Zion. And in this 25th chapter Isaiah says that "He will destroy in this mountain the face of the covering cast over all people, and the veil that is spread over all nations." We are the people, and the covering is being removed, and the veil that is spread over all nations. We are going to know who we are. We are going to know who the other nations are. He is going to solve all those mysteries. You will know who the races are, the Moabites of to-day, the Assyrians of to-day, and all the rest of them. He will uncover them all in order to prove to all the critics in all the world who Israel really is. And is it not being done? Are you so unbelieving that you cannot see that that operation is going on at the present time? Witness these meetings every year in this large Hall, and in all the cities and towns of Britain, where large audiences gather to hear that wonderful story. Yes, and by the time you get to chapter xxvi, the nation in the isles has made the discovery. And what do they say? Oh, yes, we shall say it. They say, when the world is in chaos, "Lord, Thou wilt ordain peace for us: for Thou also hast wrought all our works in us. O Lord, our God, other lords beside Thee have had dominion over us: but by Thee only will we make mention of Thy Name." We have been in captivity. But we say, "Thou hast increased the nation, O Lord, thou hast increased the nation: Thou art glorified; Thou hadst removed it far unto all the ends of the earth." There has never been an application in the historical world of that verse, but there is one to-day; and there is a great revelation coming, and Isaiah saw it all, and has put it down here in this story of the 12th chapter, upon which we have really entered, and the chaos is coming upon us like a tremendous cloud; but we shall find our God, we shall pray to Him, we shall sing songs to Him, and we shall know who we are, and we shall feel safe when all the world is in chaos and trouble.

Now in dealing with this series of chapters, I can only point to a thing or two, and pass on. The prophet puts his finger upon one or two definite things. Now I have been a preacher of the Gospel and a Temperance worker all my life, and I have heard that chapter about the drunkards of Ephraim spoken of and preached from, and talked about many a time, and it is here in this series. The drunkards of Ephraim. Yes, they were very fond of it. We have had the name of being the most drunken nation on earth, one of the indications that we are the people of Ephraim. And Isaiah tells us here that this great evil is going to be dealt with in this nation. That chapter must be put into its setting. And it is when our eyes are open, when we are able to talk to God as His Chosen People, that we shall find ourselves, and we shall see that that great sin is put right out of our national life. And God is going to deal with it in the Tribulation. I want you to read that chapter in the light of the chaos which is coming upon us. Then we are all thinking about Professor Julian Huxley. Isaiah in chapter xxix sees the Modernist position of to-day. Chapter xxix is about the very thing that we are all lamenting. Scripture to-day is being sneered at and misinterpreted and scoffed at and put away. Men are saying to us, There is nothing in the Old Testament, and some are saying that there is not much in the New. And what does Isaiah say? He says: "The vision of all is become unto you as the words of a book that is sealed." Sealed up: there are men to-day who cannot see anything in it: their eyes are holden. And the book is delivered "to one that is learned." That is Oxford; that is Cambridge; that is the philosopher; that is Julian Huxley. We say to him, Read this, I pray thee. But he says, I cannot, for it is sealed. And then the Book is delivered to a man that is not learned: that is the congregation: that is the man-in-the-street, saying, "Read this, I pray thee; and he saith, I am not learned." And the man-in-the-street is following the scholar, and Isaiah sees it, and he describes it—the position which is coming on. Mind you, it has not come on yet to its fulness, but it is going to get worse and worse. But before he finishes that chapter, what does he say? "In that day shall the deaf hear the words of the Book, and the eyes of the blind shall see out of obscurity and out of darkness." I venture to say, Mr. Chairman, that the British-Israel Movement has a place there, for you are all coming out of darkness, and out of obscurity, and the Book will be vindicated, in spite of what the scholars and the scoffers and the Modernists say. God is going to prove the Book, and the eyes of the blind shall see it. And the last verse says, "They also that erred in spirit shall come to understanding, and they that murmured shall learn doctrine." Those that found fault with it, they shall learn doctrine. Go right on through the story, and you read on till you come to chapter xxxv. "The wilderness and the solitary place shall be glad for them, and the desert shall rejoice, and blossom as the rose . . . And the ransomed of the Lord shall return, and come to Zion with songs, and everlasting joy upon their heads ; they shall obtain joy and gladness, and sorrow and sighing shall flee away."

That, I submit, is a wonderful series of chapters. That is up-to-date prophecy, and if you cannot believe it when you compare it with your newspaper, with international politics, with the religious state of the world to-day, then you are very hard to convince. In that series of chapters is contained our story, and we shall realize it in 1936, or thereabouts, when we come out of the darkness, and the Lord's Kingdom, finally known as the Kingdom of God, is established in the world.

I have not time to speak about the latter part of Isaiah, which deals with the whole of the Christian age, and has a place for to-day ; for in the closing chapters of his second Book Isaiah sees our state and our national apathy and indifference and sin, but he sees the nation coming to repentance. I am glad to see that in all the prophets it is prophesied that we shall come back to God. We shall know not only who we are, but we shall acknowledge Him, and return to Him.

Now there is a chapter in Jeremiah which I want to mention, and then pass on. There is something in chapter xxxiii which has a very vital meaning for to-day. It is a chapter about the new covenant, and it is a national covenant. Now I know where you all are as Christian people : I have been there myself. You have been taught only to think of a new covenant of Christ, and of a new relationship between you and the Father. Once a rebel : now a son. That is an individual new covenant in Jesus Christ the Lord. I will allow you to call that the individual side of the new covenant. But the new covenant in its fullest application is a national covenant made with the House of Israel. Read it. I admit that when that national covenant is brought in there will not be anybody in it but those who are also in the individual covenant of Christ. But I submit to you that this has never yet been brought to its fulfilment ; but it is coming soon : it is coming when the Lord Jesus Christ comes. And when that new covenant is brought in with the House of Israel everybody in the nation will know the Lord. Now you cannot say that of London yet. They will all have the law written on their hearts : it will not be necessary to preach Christ to them, for they will all know Him from the least to the greatest. It has not, however, come in yet in its fulness. There is one thing I want you to notice that Jeremish says. He tells us that so long as the sun and the moon and the stars continue, Israel shall remain a nation before Him for ever. We are in that time. I am sure the sun and the moon and the stars are carrying on. I would rather trust the word of Jeremiah than what the critics may say. I believe the word of Jeremiah. Israel is a nation to-day waiting for that new covenant to be brought in. "Israel a nation before Me for ever." You have a great time-mark given when that nation will have a new covenant established in it. For there is to be a new suburb built around on the north-west side of Jerusalem. I saw that suburb last year : it is being built, and the measuring line has gone forth upon it, and the desolate place is becoming beautiful, and villas are being erected there, since Britain entered Jerusalem in 1917. Surely the time has come when that nation, which is still in existence, is ready for the Coming of Christ and for the new covenant to be established. I submit this to be a consecutive story of that people, and that is the application for us to-day.

There are also some important chapters in Ezekiel which refer to our times. It is about nine years ago since I first met our Chairman, Dr. Goard, and about that time I remember he spoke of these chapters, and I have never forgotten what he said. And at his suggestion I wrote on the top of that page in my Bible, "An Agenda of the Last Days." And you have got it from chapters xxxiv to xxxix. In the 34th chapter we have the finding of the lost sheep. Now your critics say there have been no lost sheep. But Ezekiel says there are, and that they are going to be found in the last days. It is very remarkable to notice throughout the Book that Israel are referred to always as sheep, the flocks, and the other nations are referred to as wild beasts, and the wild beasts prey upon the sheep, and the sheep are scattered over mountains. Think of the nations of Europe. And Ezekiel says those lost sheep are going to be found, that He will seek them out, that He will gather them from all the nations in which they have been scattered during the cloudy and dark days. You have got the chapter there which foretells the finding of the people, the People of Israel. Then shame on us that we should be surprised that that work is going on. We ought to believe the Book ; we ought to be expecting this very thing to happen, and not looking upon it as something marvellous that God should be fulfilling His great scheme and plan and purpose for Israel and the world. I suggest that you should read that chapter and the 10th chapter of St John. If anybody knew Ezekiel, Jesus did. He went into the synagogue and He took the Book, and that Book had Ezekiel in it. And He knew it. He read from Isaiah that day, but He knew Ezekiel if any man did. He said, "I am the Good Shepherd" ; and He came to find His lost sheep. "My sheep hear My voice, and I know them, and they follow Me." I am glad that as a nation we have heard the voice of Christ, and we believe Him to be the Saviour of men. But He says, "Other sheep I have which are not of this fold" (this fold in Galilee, in Capernaum, in Palestine : He knew where they were.) "Other sheep I have which are not of this fold, them also I must bring, that they may be one fold and one Shepherd." The finding of the lost sheep is going on in the Christian age, and I believe that chapter began to be fulfilled in good earnest after our captivity period closed about the year 1800, when the great Revival Movement began, and when the great Missionary Societies came into existence, and the Church woke up to activity, and began to see that it had a message for the world; and then Britain got its Empire, and the Empire has grown side by side with the finding of the lost sheep, and with the spread of Christianity in the world. Go on to chapter xxxv, there you have the breaking up of the Turkish Empire, which has gone on rapidly during the last century, and especially during the last twenty-five years. And then on to chapter xxxvi, where you have the preparation of the Promised Land for the coming back of Christ; and that is going on at a tremendous rate. And then chapter xxxvii, where we stand to-day. I have not time to tell you the story in detail. It is the vision of the dry bones in the valley. Do not imagine that this means the conversion of the individual. No, he says, "These bones are the whole House of Israel." They are the lost sheep: they are scattered over the mountains of the world. But these dry bones come together. God said to Ezekiel, "Prophesy upon these dry bones, and say unto them, O ye dry bones, hear the word of the Lord." And that is just what we are doing. We are prophesying to the dry bones. The people of Britain are the dry bones, and we are calling them back to a true and a great awakening. "Then He said unto me, Prophesy unto the wind." Now you can prophesy to the dry bones, but you must pray, and tell the people to call upon God. We shall have a great awakening then: the dry bones will begin to come together until the whole nation is awake, and they will stand upon their feet, a great army, waiting for the new covenant, waiting for the King to come, and the Kingdom to be established. I say we are in the middle of that vision at the present time. That is up-to-date prophecy of the Israel nation wherever it may be.

And the second vision in that chapter is about the two sticks. Ezekiel had to take a stick for the northern nation, from Joseph Ephraim, and a stick for Judah. I suppose he would make them look like one before the people, and they would say, "What are you doing, Ezekiel?" And he would reply, "Just like that, God is going to take the two nations and make them one, and one king shall be king to them all; and they shall be no more two nations, neither shall they be divided into two kingdoms any more at all." He began to join the two sticks. I have not time to explain to-night why I say that Scotland represents Judah. It would be easy for me to prove that nearly all the Scottish people are normally Judah. The Jews are not normally Judah. There may be some evidence in their commercial affinity. But officially it is Judah in Scotland and officially Israel in England. James was not called James at all. You will see in the Museum that his name was Jacob. When Jacob became King of England and Scotland the union flag was set up. That is the union of the two sticks. There was the British Cross, and that is one of the oldest things we have got in our heraldry; and the Saxon Cross marked blue, and united with the Cross of St. Andrew. And we had our Union Jack when the union of the two sticks began. And it is not finished yet. There are over fifty millions of Americans to come in, and there are batches here and there about the world. You have got a very wonderful statement at the end of Isaiah xii, in which God says that in that day, at the Coming of Christ, He will set His hand to recover the remnant of His people that are left, and they will all come to live in the Kingdom under the throne of David, if they have taken Christ as their Saviour: they will come from the east and from the west, from the north and from the south, and will sit down in the Kingdom with Abraham and Isaac and Jacob. Those two sticks have been fully joined, and one King, the Lord Jesus Christ, the Son of David, will be King over all. And that is going on at the present time.

I want to say a few words about chapters xxxviii and xxxix: they have reference to that which is taking place in Moscow and in Russia to-day, The chapters are written to Gog and Magog and to the Prince of Rosh: Russia. What does he say to Russia and about Russia? That she will think an evil thought. Is that true? I need not remind you of the terrible things that are coming to us from Moscow, of an anti-God campaign. It is a crime there to teach a child religion. They have closed the door to the Bible. They want to put God out of His universe. They are thinking an evil thought truly. I am sure Ezekiel was right in saying that they have thought an evil thought. They come down upon Palestine. How do we know it is Palestine? Because it is the land that has been brought back from the sword. Turkey ruled Palestine by the sword, and it has been brought back from Turkey into Israel Britain, recovered from the sword. They will come down upon that land and take the spoil. What do they want to take? Anything they can get. I am not a politician, but I remember when I was a lad my father used to talk about things, and I know that then it was common knowledge in this country that the one thing that Russia wanted was the way through to India. They are coming down to take the spoil. I suggest to you that they want something more than Jerusalem, something more than Palestine, and they are trying to prepare the way when they will come to take the spoil. I suggest to you that they want to cut our Empire into two, to take that pearl of Asia, as well as Palestine. But they will fail. What does Ezekiel say to them? What does God say to them? Cannot you hear Him talking to them as if they were a beast. "I will put a hook into thy jaws, and turn thee back." I do not believe the sons of Britain will ever meet the Red Army of Russia. God will turn it back. Joel writes about the same thing. "But I will remove far off from you the northern army, and will drive him into a land barren and desolate, with his face toward the east sea, and his hinder part toward the utmost sea." It is God's battle, and He is going to turn him back.

Now Ezekiel tells you that God calls for a sword, and He tells you what the sword is. It is the storm of the hail and the pestilence: that is God's sword. Some of you remember about a month ago at midnight how that the thunder and the lightning continued for quite a long time. And the thought came to me, What could not God do if He were angry? And that was only just a little bit of His power. You see He is holding His power back, but Ezekiel says He is yet going to let it be seen, for He says: "My fury shall come up in My face." And with the forces of nature He is going to deal with the army of the nations that are setting Him at defiance, and that has thought an evil thought; and that army will fall. I know it is terrible reading. But it is God's battle against the forces of the Devil, and Ezekiel sees it coming.

Now that is as up-to-date as the news in the Daily Mail, or any other paper to-day. If any man in Britain wants to know God's politics, wants a solution of those perplexing things that are going on, he cannot afford to neglect Ezekiel for any other authority. You read in the Book of the Revelation that Gog and Magog make trouble after the Millennium. How do you know that is not the trouble? said a man to me. In Ezekiel xxxix you will read this: "From that day Israel shall know that I am the Lord, their God." Now I know they will know that all through the Millennium, that great deliverance is going to be the final stroke in the awakening of this nation, when we are delivered by the hand of God from the terrific forces that are preparing to swamp Christianity, God is going to deliver us, and that deliverance will convince the worst critic, the severest critic and opponent of this Book in this land, and the nation of Israel will know from that day forward they are His people, and that He is their God, and the heathen will know. I want to ask you this question. Why do we want you to read these prophecies? Why do we want you to know this Book? Because the trouble is going to deepen. You are going to be put into straitened places like the narrow passage in the Pyramid, which is the symbolism of the experience, and industry will be more difficult, finance will be more chaotic, our statesmen will not know which way to turn, and the affairs in the Church will become more complex than ever, and when men are turning away from the Book in their ignorance, you will have a rock upon which to stand. You will know what is going to happen. You will know what the nation is to go through, but you will be a comfort and strength to those around you who are seeking the Lord in the darkness, and wanting to know the real truth that God has revealed. This day has a tremendous place in the Book which men are deriding. It has an application to this nation at this time. Beyond any doubt whatever it is God's revelation; this prophecy is given to us for our enlightenment and our assurance, and to prepare us for the Coming of our great Deliverer and our King.

IN CANADA they have a proverb to the effect that when JOHN BULL "falls" he always "falls up" and not "down." England's heaven-born dexterity in getting herself out of difficulties has become a byword the world over, the most recent example of this ability being displayed in the manner in which ENGLAND is extricating herself from responsibility for the extremist ambitions of ZIONISM.

A first-class political sensation has been caused by the sudden resignation of Dr. Weizmann and Lord Melchett, from their positions as President and Chairman, respectively, of the Zionist Organization, following the issue of a White Paper by the BRITISH GOVERNMENT setting forth its statement of policy for the future.

In his letter of resignation Dr. Weizmann claims that the British Government's latest statement of policy represents "a profound change in the policy of 1922," and "goes a long way towards denying the rights and of the JEWISH PEOPLE in regard to the National Home in PALESTINE."

Both these accusations are based upon serious misunderstanding. British Government policy has not changed one iota from the form of its original Declaration. The Balfour Declaration of 1917 was clearly worded and can admit of only one reasonable interpretation.

The trouble from the outset has been that the Zionists put their own interpretation on the Declaration and have consequently been living in a fool's paradise. Sudden awakening to hard reality is responsible for the present feeling of cruel disillusionment.

How intense this feeling is may be judged from Lord Melchett's outburst:—"It is an act of almost unparalleled treachery towards a credulous and harassed people who believed they had found a haven under the broad ægis of the British Flag and the guaranteed word of British Statesmen."

This charge of treachery must be withdrawn. The guaranteed word of the British Government remains unchanged.

Moreover, the true facts of the case may be discovered from a perusal of the Preface to the collected words of Ahad Haam entitled "The Crossways":—"The time has come to reveal one secret which will enable the reader to understand the real meaning of the DECLARATION, 'To facilitate the establishment in Palestine of a National Home for the Jewish People,'—this is the

which the BRITISH GOVERNMENT has made to us. But this is not the text which was proposed to it by the Zionist Representatives. They wished to have it read:—'The Reconstitution of Palestine as the National Home of the Jewish People.'"

This revelation by a founder of the Zionist Movement shows that the cause of disagreement has existed from the outset. The British Government cannot be charged with treachery, for their attitude to-day does not vary one hair's-breadth from the text of the promise of 1917.

If the hopes of the JEWISH PEOPLE have now been found to be sterile, they have no one to blame but themselves. They have persisted in reading their own wishes and own interpretation into the plain words of the DECLARATION in the hope that in time their own interpretation would be accepted as the correct one.

Indeed they have achieved no small success in this direction. The completeness with which they have deceived themselves has helped them to deceive the world. Quite a strong sentiment has been aroused throughout the world in their favour.

Students of Biblical prophecy have puzzled tremendously over the BALFOUR DECLARATION. Imagining the Zionist interpretation to be correct, they have wondered how ENGLAND would extricate herself from the blunder and correct the error without breaking faith with the JEWISH PEOPLE. Recent events show that our way is clear. We have simply to stand firmly for the fulfilment of the letter and spirit of the Balfour Declaration and our conscience will be clear and our action in line with the Divine plan.

Most of us thought the BRITISH GOVERNMENT had blundered

when it sanctioned the BALFOUR DECLARATION. Now we find that GOD was at the helm guiding the decisions of His Kingdom-statesmen and that it is only our own blindness which has prevented us seeing this all the time.

Ahad Haam,* in "The Crossways," goes on to say that many efforts were made to induce the BRITISH GOVERNMENT to modify its wording in accordance with the Zionist demands, but that these efforts failed. Later he interprets the intentions of the BRITISH GOVERNMENT at that time as being :—"(1) The recognition of the historic right of the JEWISH PEOPLE to establish its national home in Palestine, the British Government to aid in this ; and (2) the denial of any right to deprive the present inhabitants† of their rights and of making the Jewish People of the country."

This clear statement and confession should settle the question of the good faith of the British Government once and for all. The instinct of the British Government in framing its Declaration in this particular manner is proved to be sound.

For the JEWISH PEOPLE are a remnant only of ISRAEL and a very small remnant at that. As such they have a historic right to take up domicile in the land of PALESTINE. And this right they are exercising under the broad ægis of the British Flag. But PALESTINE belongs to and is the homeland of and GREAT BRITAIN—as modern representative of the whole HOUSE of ISRAEL—alone has the right to look forward to becoming the sole ruler of the land of ISRAEL. This sovereignty can never become the exclusive prerogative of the JEW. It is the sole prerogative of all the HOUSE of ISRAEL wholly.‡

ALL THE HOUSE OF ISRAEL WHOLLY,

If the Zionist Organization can rest content with the limited but legitimate aspirations of the official programme, all will be well.

But if Zionist aspiration soars beyond official limits there is bound to be serious trouble. The late LORD RAGLAN warned us of the fact that ZIONISTS intended to include DAMASCUS and TRANSJORDAN in a GREATER PALESTINE. Lord Beaverbrook has also warned us that such "one-sided activity would prove detrimental to the war interests of the BRITISH EMPIRE." But these practical considerations are as nothing compared with the fact that such a proposition is in complete opposition to the course of Scriptural prophecy.

It is difficult, however, not to sympathize with the Jewish aspiration. For in the Balfour Declaration the ZIONIST JEW saw a proclamation heralding the happy culmination of the age-long dream of restoration that has never quite faded since the time of the DISPERSION.

The process of disillusionment is always hard. But the Zionists will have to face the facts of the case and be prepared to surrender their exclusive claims if they wish to enjoy the larger blessings and privileges that will come from enjoying domicile in the land of their Fathers in association with, and under the continued protection of, their long-lost but now rediscovered brethren of the HOUSE of ISRAEL.

* Ahad Haam is a nom de plume concealing the identity of one of the founders of the Zionist Movement. "At the Crossways" was published in 1921.

† The Arabs represent five-sixths of the total population of Palestine.

‡ See Week by Week article dated June 28th, 1930.

According to Dr. Stephen Wise, the criticism of Dr. Henry S. Pritchett§ in 1926, was "the first opening gun in the battle against Zionism." Dr. Pritchett made a special investigation, and in his official report declared that the dream of Zionism was "unfortunate and visionary, fantastic and ill-omened."

A Jew of international importance, Mr. Henry Morgenthau, caused consternation by agreeing with this report, which he claimed was in agreement with his views of five years previously. In his autobiography, published in 1921, he had written :—"Zionism is the in Jewish history. I assert that it is wrong in principle and impossible of realization ; that it is unsound in its economics, fantastical in its politics, and sterile in its spiritual ideals. Where it is not pathetically visionary, it is a cruel playing with the hopes of a people blindly seeking their way out of age-long miseries."

As a steady opponent of the establishment of a Jewish political State in PALESTINE, The American Hebrew (New York) commented as follows :—"We make this distinction clear : the Palestine effort to make the HOLY LAND economically fit for a large number of Jews from Eastern Europe to find a new home is one thing ; the Zionist effort to settle a million Jews in PALESTINE in order to attain a political majority and is another. Criticism of the former is invalid. Criticism of the latter, however, we hope will serve to administer a much-needed purgative to political Zionism, which suffers from the auto-intoxication of nationalism."

This is the fairest, sanest, soundest, commentary we have yet received from Jewish sources. It brings the whole question into line with Scriptural prophecy ; into harmony with British Government policy and into sympathetic consideration of the interests of the Jewish People as a whole.

The phrase "auto-intoxication of nationalism" is a stroke of genius, and exactly hits off the meaning and significance of the challenge of Ezekiel xi, 15.

But there is one final and crowning aspect to the whole question which we cannot afford to overlook. Within its legitimate limits the Zionist return of Jews to PALESTINE is bringing about a fulfilment of the prophecy of the FIG TREE, and as such can be justly regarded as a definite sign of the coming end of the age, the second coming of the Redeemer and KING of ISRAEL, and the open manifestation of the KINGDOM of GOD upon earth.

According to James Waterman Wise (son of Rabbi Stephen S. Wise) "the physical manifestations of the in PALESTINE" are of small consequence compared with the spiritual changes which are taking place. In PALESTINE, Mr. Wise assures us "Zionists see the beginnings of a new life. There is a new light in their eyes, a new song in their hearts. And as they go they seem to be touched with a high sense of consecration. They feel themselves to be trustees for Israel of Israel's land."

§ Dr. Pritchett, President of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, published his observations in "International Conciliation," the organ of the Carnegie Endowment.

The manifestation of new life as a result of the re-birth of the Jewish soul in PALESTINE is undoubtedly a fulfilment of Luke xxi, 29–30. But alas, there is no promise that the Fig Tree will bring forth fruit. For the Jews are never to be rehabilitated as a nation. Of the Jewish Nation or Fig Tree it is written :—" Let no fruit grow on thee henceforward forever." Presently we shall find that the much exalted Fig Tree of Zionism has withered away.

Those who spake of the " Tragedy of

were speaking better than they knew.

" But why should the ideals of faithful zealots be thus crushed to the ground in unfulfilment ? " is the type of question asked to-day. Why should the Jewish nation have to face the judgment of extinction as a national entity for ever ? Why should all attempts to revive life into the JEWISH PEOPLE along national lines be destined to prove abortive ?

The destiny of the JEWISH PEOPLE as a separate nation ended with its destruction in the days of TITUS and the official transfer of the KINGDOM of GOD from the Jewish People to ISRAEL-BRITAIN, the NATION destined to " bring forth the fruits thereof."

Moreover, PALESTINE is the HOMELAND of the BRITH-ISH PEOPLE—a PEOPLE in covenant relationship with GOD—and not to the Jewish remnant—the " branch, broken-off through unbelief." The HOLY LAND belongs to the HOLY PEOPLE ; to ISRAEL, not to the JEW.

Is there not in this fact a strong justification for calling upon Jewry to turn to the Messiah and claim Him as their Redeemer and Saviour ? Only thus can the future of Jewry in Palestine be assured of its proper consummation.

The JEW may make a home for himself in the land of PALESTINE. But he cannot raise the standard of the " broken-off branch " over the ancient HOMELAND. The " broken-off " branch are a remnant of the tribe of Judah only.

The UNION JACK alone, as ensign of the whole HOUSE of ISRAEL, is destined to fly for ever over JERUSALEM. The UNION JACK, or UNION of JACOB, is the symbol of the Divinely-appointed sovereignty of the BRITH-ISH HOUSE and THRONE of DAVID. His Majesty's Government in GREAT BRITAIN—or we might truly say HIS MAJESTY the KING himself—is the trustee for ISRAEL of Israel's land.

DOES THE BIBLE STAND OR FALL WHEN TESTED BY SCIENCE, HISTORY AND PHILOSOPHY ?—XIII.

BY PROFESSOR EDWARD ODLUM, M.A., B.Sc.

ABRAHAM—ISAAC—THE SACRIFICE.

WHEN we read this wonderful story in all its bearings, and re-read the account as given in the Scriptures, New and Old, we are powerfully impressed with certain facts :—

First.—The Lord had promised Abraham that in Isaac would Abraham's seed be named ; and that Isaac would have a numerous, a countless progeny—a promise fulfilled !

Abraham believed the Lord, and it was imputed to him for righteousness.

Second.—The Lord ordered Abraham to offer up Isaac as a sacrifice ; and by this act tested Abraham's faith in a marvellous and crucial manner.

Third.—Abraham fully and unreservedly made the offering and sacrifice.

Fourth.—Isaac freely and voluntarily offered himself as a sacrifice to the Lord on Mount Moriah.

Fifth.—The twofold sacrifice was Divinely accepted as sufficient.

Sixth.—The faith-test was the crux of the whole matter, and is too often altogether missed by the various phases of the account, drawing off the attention and somewhat covering the main fact.

The Apostle Paul gives us the key to this faith-test :

Heb. xi, 17 : " By faith Abraham, when he was tried, offered up Isaac ; and he that had received the promises, offered up his only begotten son.

Verse 18 : " Of whom it was said, That in Isaac shall thy seed be called :

Verse 19 : " Accounting that God was able to raise him up, even from the dead ; from whence also he received him in a figure."

Abraham's faith, in plain language, meant this tremendous proposition which we give thus :—

1. Isaac to be the father of a future race called in his name.
2. Abraham's belief in this promise.
3. Abraham commanded to offer up Isaac as a sacrifice.
4. Abraham understood and believed this was an actual, material, fire sacrifice of his son of promise.
5. Abraham determined to obey, make the sacrificial offering, and trust the Lord still to keep the primary promise.
6. Abraham believed Isaac would die on the altar, and that the Lord would raise him to life again, and make good His sworn promise of an abundant seed named in or after Isaac.

This number 6 is the climax, the peerless test of human faith, and Abraham acquired and used that very faith. No wonder Abraham is the accepted father of the faithful, and was recognized as God's man of the covenant.

THE INCLUDED SACRIFICE FOR SERVICE.

When Abraham was put to the test, and his son also, they met the demand, the test, and made a complete and accepted sacrifice. It was inclusive in effect, for in that double willing sacrifice was included all the promised seed from Jacob and his sons forward to the end of time.

The chosen race was one already offered for a special and comprehensive personal and national service.

THE STORY AND MESSAGE OF OUR BIBLE.*

BY M. COOKE (authoress of " The Torn Cloak " and " The Story of Our British Ancestors.")

KNOWLEDGE, love and understanding are the three gifts necessary for anyone who writes for children or young people.

Mrs. Cooke has them all in happy combination. And it is so necessary that boys and girls, young men and maidens, should learn to know and love the Bible story. For we elders, in God's good time, will be going on to other fields of work, if He shall so ordain, and the young folk of to-day must soon be ready to take up the unfinished tasks, and may they do them better than we have done.

Happily, the Church, and individual Christians specially gifted by the Holy Spirit, are wide awake to the needs of the hour. Pageants of youth, guilds for young people, men and women having the pen of the ready writer, are bringing the beauty and truth of Christ's holy religion vividly before the eyes of the young people to whom God will entrust the rebuilding of a more glorious world.

"O Thou Who givest visions unto them that praise Thee, give us also the courage to make our dreams come true. Help us to know that the ideal cannot evade us for ever; that it is knocking at the door of life wondrously fair, wondrously practical, and is an urgent pressure upon life, hungering to become actual."

We most joyously commend Mrs. Cooke's little work to the young people of all ages; for the charm of her writing is that it may be read with equal delight by old and young.

The making of the Divine Library which we call The Bible, the story of early manuscripts and their miraculous finding—(and these are true miracles)—the era of printing and world-wide distribution; in a word, "The Book and its Story" are condensed within little more than a hundred pages.

But, woven into the texture of this story is something which we have never before seen included in similar histories. For the story of the Chosen Race and the Enduring Dynasty which, like a golden thread, runs through the Bible from Genesis to Revelation, is here brought into its proper context. It is not only "The Book and its Story," but The Book and all its Story.

Authoress and publishers alike are to be warmly congratulated on the writing and the printing, in clear, readable type, of this most attractive book, which has the additional advantage, in these days of economic stringency, of being within the power of a modest purse. It will make an admirable Christmas gift.

Pray that the authoress, who is "still an invalid," may be spared to write yet other books of beauty and truth, and may others, according to their various gifts, catch the flame and pass on the torch; for the need is great.—HARRISON HILL.

THE SECRETARY-GENERAL'S NEWS AND NOTES.

THE REV. DR. PASCOE GOARD will give two addresses at Headquarters on Monday, November 10th, at 3 and 7.30 p.m.

The speakers at the usual weekly meetings at Headquarters next week will be Arthur Exley, Esq., J.P., on Wednesday, at 3 p.m., and Mr. William Sleeman on Thursday, at 7.30. We extend a cordial invitation to these meetings at Headquarters.

On Wednesday morning next, November 12th, at 11 o'clock, Mrs. Hamilton Short will hold a Ladies' Working Party at Headquarters, in connection with the forthcoming Annual Sale of Work, which we would remind our readers will take place on Wednesday and Thursday, December 3rd and 4th.

The Hull Branch have recently sustained a heavy loss in the death of Miss M. M. Keer, who was accidentally killed by a motor cycle. Miss Keer, who was Principal of Studley House School, Hull, was for many years a firm believer and keen advocate of British-Israel Truth. She will be greatly missed, not only by our Hull Branch, but also by many other local religious and benevolent institutions. We tender to her family and friends our sincere sympathy in their bereavement.

Two very successful meetings were held at Southport on October 27th. The speaker was the Rev. Guy Waddington. His subject for the afternoon meeting was "Predestination," and in the evening "The Abrahamic Covenant." Only a very prejudiced person could have left the evening meeting unconvinced, the lecturer having made it so clear and irrefutable that Britain is Israel. There was a good attendance at both meetings.

Mr. Hesketh, of Manchester, visited the Liverpool Branch on October 30th, and gave a very interesting and instructive lecture on "The Sure Word of Prophecy and the Second Coming of Our Lord." He pointed out that the signs of the times proved that that event was in the near future. Chancellor Du Bois (U.S.A.) paid the Branch a surprise visit and also gave a short address.

Our Secretary at Tunbridge Wells writes:—

"The recent Mission addressed by leaders from Headquarters was a time of real enlightenment to many on the subject of British-Israel teaching. The Empire lecture by Mr. Garrison was just splendid, and as one man said, 'He would gladly pay 2s. the next evening to hear him again'—so we thank God and take courage, intending to 'carry on' in His strength, that this glorious Truth shall spread far and wide. We are hoping our membership will be greatly increased."

* * *

Following on Mr. Harrison Hill's recent Lecture-Recital to the Harrow Branch, he was invited to address the Harrow-Wealdstone Brotherhood, which meets in the Co-operative Hall, Wealdstone. This he did on Sunday afternoon, October 26th, addressing a large gathering of men and women. Miss Maud Beck presided. Taking as his subject "The Bible in Song and Story," Mr. Hill developed the history of sacred song as recorded in the Bible, and its influence in the establishment of God's Kingdom on earth. The Hon. General Secretary of the Brotherhood, Mr. Chas. M. Rose, in the name of the meeting, extended a hearty invitation to Mr. Hill to continue the story in one or two additional lectures at an early date in the New Year.

* * *

The Rev. Joseph Gay visited the Highgate Branch at its opening meeting on October 22nd, and gave a very helpful and inspiring address.

The Secretary of the Halifax Branch writes :—"We had a splendid address from Mr. H. D. Houghton on October 23rd, between 60 and 70 people being present."

* * *

The Rev. Mark Jukes visited Exeter on October 29th and addressed two Branch meetings, which were most encouraging in every respect, the attendance being larger than for some time. There were many strangers, who appreciated to the full Mr. Juke's scholarly dealing with British-Israel Truth There is reason to believe that interest was aroused by these meetings. Local friends heartily and sincerely appreciated the great privilege and pleasure of hearing Mr. Jukes.

Mrs. Bloxam addressed a meeting at the Cadena Café, Leamington, on October 27th, and spoke most illuminatingly on the appearance in the Old Testament of the Second Godhead, of the Divine Trinity, His visit to Abram, to Isaac and to Joshua, and also to Ezekiel. Lieut. J. Porch, R.N., the Branch Secretary, was in the Chair.

A Member writes :—"From personal experience I know that many readers of THE NATIONAL MESSAGE do not give the 'Engagement Column' the early and careful attention it should have. I always look at it first of all to see if any meetings are being held in districts where I have friends, and, if so, I write to each one. No doubt hundreds of British-Israelites do the same, but I know of many cases where new and struggling Branches and Study Circles would have welcomed one or two more attending. It is no good looking at the 'Engagement Column' too late!"

We commend this very practical suggestion to our readers.

A very successful Two-Days' Mission was conducted by the Rev. T. H. Whitehouse at the Friends' Meeting House, Gloucester, on Tuesday and Wednesday, October 7th and 8th. On Tuesday afternoon, Rev. J. T. Childs, Vicar of Holly Bush, Ledbury, presided. Mr. Whitehouse took for his subject the "Present Day Menace," and in the evening "The British-Israel Challenge." On Wednesday afternoon, Dr. F. Waddington (Cheltenham) presided, when the subject was "God's Kingdom: Its Origin and Growth." In the evening Mr. R. James presided over a large audience, and Mr. Whitehouse spoke on "The Coming King." The lecturer, in the course of his very inspiring address, said: "A question often asked was whether the Lord Jesus Christ would really come again. He grieved to say that from the majority of the pulpits of all the Churches—Nonconformist and Anglican alike—the teaching of the Coming of Jesus Christ among most of the denominations had ceased to be an article of belief. It was their conviction as a Federation that everything they taught and all the events of the day led up to the Coming of Jesus Christ to take the Throne of David and rule over a new and regenerated world."

During the course of the lectures great interest was manifested and a number of people expressed their wish to know more of the Movement. Long and able reports were given by the local Press, to whom Mr. Whitehouse expresses his thanks.

". . . the Bible is the only book that tells the whole truth about us, the only book to study for an elucidation of the world problems existing to-day. I believe that the whole of the Anglo-Saxon race, in different parts of the globe, are the descendants of Israel, and came originally out of the loins of Abraham and so are 'children of the Promise.' We are the descendants of the Ten Tribes of Israel. Throughout the ages, from before the time of bondage in Egypt till the Norman Conquest, and, later on, the uniting of the Scotch and English Crowns in A.D. 1603 in the person of James I, we have been working out God's plan of re-assembling in 'the appointed place.'"

EDITORIAL.

The following should be read in the light of Israel Truth, namely, that the Anglo-Saxon nations are the continuation of the Israel nation; the inheritors of her Charters; the possessors of her guarantees and immunities from destruction; the executors of her commissions.

It should be understood that Authors alone are responsible for the views expressed in their Articles.

GOD.

THE PEOPLE. △ THE BIBLE.—V.

BY THE REV. DR. W. PASCOE GOARD, F.R.G.S.

WE have seen that the Bible is the continued record of God's purpose which runs continuously through the ages, carried forward as the major thread and motive power of world history.

We have seen that the people developed and moved forward along the great highway of Bible truth. This is the more remarkable from the fact that the Bible prewrote the development and outlined the movement of the people from the beginning to the accomplished end. Even the latest of the Bible writings are products of past ages. Most of the Bible which carried forward such prophecies to our day and to the end of the accomplished purpose was written in the heart of and from the standpoint of another civilization, namely, the Asiatic Civilization, or, rather, the Israel Civilization in Asia, and in Oriental setting. Yet the Anglo-Celto-Saxon world of to-day is clearly set forth there—and even the dispensation of the millennium and of that civilization which has not yet appeared, and which can only be visualized by aid of the prophecies of the Bible written thousands of years ago.

The people in their movements to and fro, in their development, in the geographical trend of their travels, and in their national enterprise, have moved right along the line indicated in the prophecies.

We have seen that God has revealed Himself in word as being continuously in Israel.

God has further revealed Himself in Historic Acts, visibly and audibly. To Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, in the Patriarchal period ; to Moses, and the Elders, and to all Israel at Sinai ; to the worshippers at the dedication of Solomon's Temple ; to Isaiah in the Temple, at the commencement of Isaiah's prophetic ministry ; to Ezekiel, among the captivity of Israel on the banks of the River Chebar.

This study brought us in our last issue down to the first chapter of Ezekiel.

Once again Ezekiel is caused to see, and to be officially present, when the Lord manifested Himself to the Prophet in Jerusalem. As at the time of Isaiah, the manifestation of the Presence of Jehovah went unrecognized by the priests and worshippers. Only Isaiah saw the vision of the sixth chapter of Isaiah. Only Isaiah heard the chanting voices of the seraphims. Only Isaiah felt the touch of the sacred fire. Only Isaiah heard and gladly received the assurance of iniquity taken away, and of sin purged. Only Isaiah heard the Voice of the Lord saying : "Whom shall I send, and who will go for us," and replied "Here am I, send me." Only Isaiah heard the commission : "Go and tell this people."

The priests continued their ministry in and about the Temple. The worshippers came and went. All of them, save only Isaiah, were unconscious of an event which should find such a striking place in Holy Writ, and should ring down through the ages. In the meantime there was pronounced a sentence which should be a factor in world history for millennia then to come.

The condition of Jerusalem, after the captivity of Israel, progressed from bad to worse, and from worse to unbearable conditions in the sight of God. Therefore the Lord again approached Jerusalem. He came in plenary session to execute judgment upon the corrupt City and State. It seems to have been a session of the Supreme Court of Jehovah, the King.

We now have the striking passage in chapters viii to xi.

The revelation of these things began in Ezekiel's house among the captives of Israel, during an official visit from the Elders of Judah. Thus the introduction is given :—

"And it came to pass in the sixth year, in the sixth month, in the fifth day of the month, as I sat in mine house, and the elders of Judah sat before me, that the hand of the Lord GOD fell there upon me.

Then I beheld, and lo a likeness as the appearance of fire : from the appearance of his loins even downward, fire ; and from his loins even upward, as the appearance of brightness, as the colour of amber.

And he put forth the form of an hand, and took me by a lock of mine head ; and the spirit lifted me up between the earth and the heaven, and brought me in the visions of God to Jerusalem, to the door of the inner gate that looketh toward the north ; where was the seat of the image of jealousy, which provoketh to jealousy.

And, behold, the glory of the God of Israel was there, according to the vision that I saw in the plain."—Ezek. viii, 1-4.

The Prophet is now shown in connection with the Temple first—AN IMAGE in the entry to the Temple. (See verses 5 and 6.)

God help us, how many images does the Lord see in His House to-day. Next "a hole in the wall," within that a hidden door. Inside the door a cave or room. "Every man in the chambers of his imagery." "So I went in and saw : and behold every form of creeping things, and abominable beasts, and all the idols of the House of Israel portrayed upon the wall round about."

And there stood a Sanhedrim of Elders of the House of Israel—and in the midst of them the official leader of Israel, Jaazaniah the son of Shaphan, "with every man his censer in his hand ; and a thick cloud of incense went up."

Thus appeared the corrupted worship offered in the House of God at that time.

Next Ezekiel was shown women weeping for Tammuz—the ancient Babylonian idolatry still perpetuated in the modern worship of "the Queen of Heaven."

Finally he was shown the Sun worshippers carrying on their idolatry from the Temple area.

"Then he said unto me, Hast thou seen this, O son of man ? Is it a light thing to the house of Judah that they commit the abominations which they commit here ? for they have filled the land with violence, and have returned to provoke me to anger : and, lo, they put the branch to their nose.

Therefore will I also deal in fury : mine eye shall not spare, neither will I have pity : and though they cry in mine ears with a loud voice, yet will I not hear them."—Ezek. viii, 17-18.

The terrible executive action ordered by God, the Supreme Judge, upon Jerusalem, is set forth in chapter ix, which the reader will turn to as part of this article. The great fact is written red in the pages of that troubled city. Not as a supernatural happening, but in the Nebuchadnezzar campaign against Jerusalem which resulted in the destruction of the City and Temple.

Read also the verses of chapter x to verse 17.

"Then the glory of the LORD departed from off the threshold of the house, and stood over the cherubims.

And the cherubims lifted up their wings, and mounted up from the earth in my sight : when they went out, the wheels also were beside them, and every one stood at the door of the east gate of the LORD'S house ; and the glory of the God of Israel was over them above."—Ezek. x, 18-19.

Please also read Ezekiel xi, verses 1 to 13, as part of this article. We quote the striking statement concerning what the inhabitants of Jerusalem—the Jews—have said concerning and to the House of Israel.

"Again the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

Son of man, thy brethren, even thy brethren, the men of thy kindred, and all the house of Israel wholly, are they unto whom the inhabitants of Jerusalem have said, Get you far from the LORD : unto us is this land given in possession.

Therefore say, Thus saith the Lord GOD ; Although I have cast them far off among the heathen, and although I have scattered them among the countries, yet will I be to them as a little sanctuary in the countries where they shall come.

Therefore say, Thus saith the Lord GOD ; I will even gather you from the people, and assemble you out of the countries where ye have been scattered, and I will give you the land of Israel.

And they shall come thither, and they shall take away all the detestable things thereof and all the abominations thereof from thence.

And I will give them one heart, and I will put a new spirit within you ; and I will take the stony heart out of their flesh, and will give them an heart of flesh :

That they may walk in my statutes, and keep mine ordinances, and do them : and they shall be my people, and I will be their God.

But as for them whose heart walketh after the heart of their detestable things and their abominations, I will recompense their way upon their own heads, saith the Lord GOD."—Ezek. xi, 14-21.

THE DEPARTURE OF THE GLORY.

"Then did the cherubims lift up their wings, and the wheels beside them; and the glory of the God of Israel was over them above.

And the glory of the LORD went up from the midst of the city, and stood upon the mountain which is on the east side of the city.

Afterwards the spirit took me up, and brought me in a vision by the Spirit of God into Chaldea, to them of the captivity. So the vision that I had seen went up from me.

Then I spake unto them of the captivity all the things that the LORD had shewed me."—Ezek. xi, 22-25.

It is well that we should give careful consideration to these matters. In this wonderful revelation, given at that time to the Elders of Judah assembled in the house of Ezekiel, is a clear, full-faced view of the greatest fact in world affairs, the most potent fact in world history and in contemporary events. We may state it thus.

As at present constituted, and from the first, there was a measure of self-government secured to every unit of the social structure of the Israel people.

The individual always had in Israel a goodly measure of personal liberty. The village, town, city, also had a measure of local government. The tribe, province, state, had, and has also a measure of local self-government. Then came the central government, which also always has been and is local. That is to say, there was always the authority and influence of the Common Law, limiting the authority of the King, President, or Governor. The Law which so limited and still limits the power of King and Parliament, of President and Congress, is, as we all agree, based upon the "Law of God, natural and revealed." Blackstone said words to this effect, but unfortunately we have not a copy of Blackstone at hand from which to make the exact quotation.

This fact, that there is a Law which limits the activity of King and Parliament, President and Congress, leads us back to the revealed rule, in supreme plenitude of power, of Jehovah the God of Israel, and of the Anglo-Saxon world.

Law is eternal as far as we know. It issues out from eternity, as does the Personality of God.

God is eternal, and His Personality issues out of eternity as the Administrator of the Law. But He is not only the Chief Administrator of the Law; He is also revealed as the Supreme Head of the nation.

It is our experience that the history of the race to which we belong, and of all races, is made up of administration carried on by succeeding generations. Each generation formulates a policy for itself and pursues it. Such policy is largely sequent to the policy of the generation which preceded. But each generation varies the policy of its predecessor generation.

Often the policy of former generations is reversed by succeeding generations. Therefore the history of all races, our own in particular, runs in zigzag lines; sometimes moving this way, sometimes that, sometimes going forward, sometimes retracing steps already taken.

Yet it is manifest to all students of our history as a race that there is an undercurrent of progress. The zigzagging is only surface movement. What is the cause of the undercurrent of progress? It is the continuous administration of a single mind which is driving forward along an indicated line and to a declared end. This is the supreme government and forward progress of God, the King of Israel, and of the Anglo-Saxon world, which is modern Israel.

The nation Israel, in the exercise of her local self-government, had forgotten or rebelled against the supreme purpose and policy of the Lord Almighty. Therefore the nation Israel had forfeited its rule and had been sent out into captivity under the hand and rule of Assyria.

Judah and Jerusalem were now in flagrant disobedience to the Divine overrule, and had transgressed against all reason and against all patience. To have allowed her to continue would have been disastrous for the people of Judah and for the world. Therefore a judgment day had been appointed and Ezekiel was taken to see the proceedings in the heavenly court established for the occasion at Jerusalem. By his report of the trial and sentence we are permitted to see how the Lord God Almighty deals with refractory nations. Therefore the Scripture we have been considering was caused to be written embodying the report of the trial. The offence is manifested. The Judgment is presented in reasoned form. The sentence is passed. The Supreme Judge of the nation closes the court and withdraws, and leaves it to history to fill out the measure of judgment which is indicated both in the sixth chapter of Isaiah and in the passages quoted in Ezekiel.

The same God is ruling still. He is carrying on the same national purpose. He is holding our fellowship of nations responsible for the carrying out of the same law and the same purpose. His judgment-seat is still occupied. If we had Ezekiel's vision we should see the same Glory of God hovering over the children of the same nations of Israel.

The generations come and go. They change their policy from generation to generation within the limits of their self-government. But the LORD abides for ever. His policy never changes. His administration never varies. He is still our King and our Judge. One wonders how our nations now stand in relationship to His supreme government and to the eternal law of righteousness which is administered by Him. Let us with reverence and interest read the record of the great assize, held at Jerusalem, which has affected the life of Judah the nation to the present day. (See Ezekiel, chapters viii to xi.)

Weekly reports from the British-Israel Federation of Canada show increased activities in all Branches throughout the Dominion. The Rev. Dr. Pascoe Goard and the Rev. E. J. Springett spent two days in Toronto towards the end of September and addressed two large public meetings. From these meetings Dr. Goard brought greetings to the Congress. New Branches have been formed in Ontario, Manitoba and British Columbia. Ontario is endeavouring to form a Study Circle in every town in the Province, and all interested are asked to communicate with Mrs. Learmonth at the Toronto Headquarters, Sherborne Street. The message from Canada is that "Everywhere we are going forward!"

CONGRESS ADDRESSES.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON, OCTOBER 7TH.

THE REV. DR. PASCOE GOARD (Chairman) said: We are well on the way with our Congress this year. It has been a very busy and profitable morning. The Clerical and Ministerial Association in connection with our work met from eleven on until lunch time, so that this is the second gathering on this second day of our Congress. We are very glad to be together again this afternoon. We desire, on behalf of the Federation, very heartily to invite any clergyman or minister in this audience, this afternoon, and at any succeeding meetings, to join us on the platform.

Now we have an important programme of speakers this afternoon, speakers who will bring a message to you straight from the heart of God. I would call your attention to the fact that last year, and again this year, one particular day has been taken over and provided for by the Clerical and Ministerial Association. This is our day to-day.

THE REV. CANON C. J. HOLLIS, M.A., said: Dear Mr. Chairman and Brethren,—May I just say at the very outset that we thank our Chairman for his kindly welcome, and I would also endorse what he said as to the glad welcome we would give to any clergyman or minister to join our ranks. I believe there are a great many who are more or less sleeping partners. I do not mean to imply that they are asleep, but that they have not yet made up their minds to come right out into the open, and to take the plunge and stand with us in this great crusade. You may remember those words in Esther iv, 14. Mordecai speaks to Esther, and says: "For if thou altogether holdest thy peace at this time, then shall there enlargement and deliverance arise to the Jews from another place; but thou and thy father's house shall be destroyed: and who knoweth whether thou art come to the kingdom for such a time as this?"

As I see it, and as I am sure the great majority of you see it, this is a time of crisis in the world's history, and in the history of our people: and a crisis means judgment: a crisis means decision: a crisis means making up your mind in a very fateful moment of your own, or the world's history. This is a time of crisis. "Such a time as this." Cannot you hear our Lord saying, "How is it that ye do not discern the signs of the times?"

I think Mordecai's message to Esther is true also of us. If we do not speak of what God has revealed to us as a very important part of His truth, God will raise up somebody else. Who knows but that God has definitely designed that the British-Israel people should have come to the Kingdom for such a time as this? I think it is for us who have received, as we believe we have received, a vision, it is for us to write the vision plain that they may run who read it. And as we think of this vision we want, not only a great many who can see, who have sight, but we want something still deeper, we want those who have insight, by the grace of God. And we want something still further, we want those who have foresight, those who are looking on from the present into the future. It is almost a second sight that God gives to those who are in touch with Him.

I want to speak to you this afternoon just for the time that is allotted to me, and, so far, I have not been told how long or how short I am to speak, but I want to speak about two things, the Danger and the Deliverance, or, if you like, the Darkness and the Dawn.

First of all, the Danger. It seems to me, and it seems to many, that there is some deadly force or influence or power undermining Anglo-Saxon sanity and solidarity and stability. It seems as though something is at work. Some of you remember your Tennyson's "Siege of Lucknow," in which the poet describes the sufferings and the anxieties of those who were standing that awful siege, and he goes on to speak of them hearing a mine being worked beneath, a mine that was to blow them up, and the next thing that they did was to counter-mine and to go still deeper to counteract the murderous effect of the mine itself. And if we have got scepticism and atheism undermining the structure of the Church of Christ, we have got to counter-mine that, we have got to get right underneath; and we may be perfectly certain that we shall come through, and that we shall overcome this danger.

And what is it? Well, of course, it may be described in many different ways. I want to speak of it as laxity, looseness. When you were boys and you rode a bicycle, you remember your father saying to you from time to time, "You ought to look at the nuts on your bicycle lest they should be getting loose, otherwise you may have an accident." All over the range of the British Empire and America and other parts of the world laxity may mean the nut coming off. Laxity may become total loss.

Laxity: What does it mean? Looseness in the things of religion. Is not that true? Some of you read the other day in one of the morning papers a description of Julian Huxley's lecture on Religion: there was not much religion about it; and he said this, that nowadays we have come to the stage when all the old beliefs in the inspiration of the Bible and the Personality of God, and the hearing and answering of prayer, could all be jettisoned and thrown overboard. What we want, he said, is a religion without God; and he ended up by saying that it might be possible to have a religion without a God. It just shows what a looseness there is in regard to the thought of God, when a man can openly in a public lecture before the world, and without shame, say that we can do without God. Things are getting lax indeed.

There is a looseness to-day in the things of religion, concerning God and His Word, concerning the Day of God, concerning the laws of God. I have not time to elaborate these things in detail. There is a loose hold upon the fundamentals of the religion of Jesus Christ and of faith in God. There is a laxity also in moral standards. I am thinking for a moment of such things as dress. Go to any of our bathing centres and see there how people are dressed. There is a laxity regarding the marriage tie. Think of our novels. Take up some of our novels to-day, and before you have read twenty or thirty pages, you are brought up against something that strikes you almost dumb with its evil suggestions. There is a laxity in regard to dress, and to the marriage tie, and to our fiction.

Mind you, in labouring this point, I know that behind all this there is an organized purpose on the part of the powers of darkness to undermine the faith of this race. There is a laxity in honest toil and industry: there is the degeneracy of the dole. We have every sympathy with men and women who want to work and cannot, but I still speak of the degeneracy of the dole. And the men and women who are work-shy to-day (for I think it has come to that now), we shall say of them, say in ten years' time, "They cannot work"; for when God has put into your hands a power and a capacity for work, if you do not use that power and capacity, you will lose it. There is a laxity also in regard to discipline. Look at the revolt of the children to-day, and the abdication of the parents. They let them please themselves. There is a laxity in law and order. Was there ever a time when there was so much fraud, and on such a huge scale? Was there ever a time in the history of our land, within the memory of our fathers, when there was so much robbery with violence? There is a laxity in our recreations; in our films; and even in our music; it is trashy and feeble and lifeless, far removed from all the beautiful music of the great masters, whom, doubtless, God inspired.

I am speaking upon a more or less mundane question. There is a laxity in athletics. Some of us seem to see that the time has come when we are not able to hold our own with the other nations of the world in athletic sports, and we do not mind it; some do not seem to mind being beaten. They say our turn has come to take second place. We have a certain inferiority complex that has been started in the nation. There is a laxity in politics; there is no real cohesion in politics; every party seems to be divided up into sub-divisions; there seems to be a weakness of leadership. And there is a looseness in the habits of the people. I am thinking now of the litter that I see, even in the residential streets of Worthing: newspapers in the gutter; not to speak of the defiling and the debasing of the glory of the countryside. It is all part and parcel of the laxity that has crept into our nation, but which, as I believe, has been stealthily and subtly set on foot and fostered by an evil power.

With our characteristic lack of suspicion, we are blind to these sinister menaces, this mine that is going underground, this Soviet menace. An Italian once said, I think it was Machiavelli, that if only you can divide a body, or a people, or a person so that there is no cohesion, no connected link to drive forward with a definite high and noble purpose, you have got a hold of that body, that person, that personality. And that is what the Devil and his agents are seeking to do with this people to which we belong, and the people of the United States of America, to divide us hopelessly, so that they can come in and govern and rule and control. So much for the danger. You will probably think of other sides of the danger than those I have mentioned.

What of the Deliverance? Back to God, as you have it on your programme, and back to His Word. Now this is the only legitimate optimism that there is. We are optimists in the best sense of the word, and on the surest foundation; trusting in God, seeking only His glory. There is no need for pessimism. But our optimism must be based on the honour and glory and the grace of God. You know it says in the prophet Malachi, "If then I be a Father, where is Mine honour? And if I be a Master, where is My fear?" And we British-Israel people in a very special measure are set apart to enquire of God, to look to Him, to gain from Him His strength and His guidance and His grace to deal with the situation as we find it to-day. Because, after all, is not our optimism based on the fact that "they that be with us are more than they that be with them"? Is it not true that the victory that overcometh the world is our faith? I once read these lines and they carry with them a very great encouragement:

"The waves may be divided
But the tide is sure to win."

Our hope is in God the Almighty. I once saw this motto on a sundial: "God's waiting time is God's working time." God is not asleep.

Just in closing. You remember that wonderful situation recorded in 2 Kings xviii, of Rab-shakeh and Sennacherib, with their invincible forces; how they came and thought they would frighten Isaiah and Hezekiah out of their wits and into instantaneous submission; and the odds, apparently, were utterly against them; but through prayer and waiting upon God, you know the wonderful answer that God gave Isaiah to speak to His people. "The virgin the daughter of Zion hath despised thee, and laughed thee to scorn: the daughter of Jerusalem hath shaken her head at thee." "Therefore thus saith the Lord concerning the king of Assyria, He shall not come into this city, nor shoot an arrow there, nor come before it with shield, nor cast a bank against it." You look into the 38th and 39th chapters of Ezekiel, and you see how that at a later date, when that great power, Gog, comes over the mountains and sweeps down upon the Holy Land, once again there will be a waiting upon God.

You and I are out to let Him have His way and His will. Oh, that we might all say with one heart and with one voice, "Oh God, our eyes are upon Thee." And we call our own people, those who believe with us, we call our nation to prayer, to united prayer, to public prayer. We call our nation to confession of our sins and shortcomings. We call our nation to obedience. We say, "This is our God. He will save us." You remember it says in the Bible, "Overcome evil with good." I would add one letter to one of the words, and take one letter out of another word, and say, "Overcome the Devil with God."

THE REV. J. J. WHITEHOUSE, M.A., said: Mr. Chairman, my dear Friends,—The subject of my address is "The Challenge of a Great Emergency." I have borrowed the title from an address recently delivered at Oxford by Mr. William Wallace, an industrial expert. He was addressing a conference of directors and managers of big industrial concerns, and he said this: "I believe that the present situation will become graver still. I do not think, by any means, that we have touched the bottom yet, but if we accept the challenge of a great emergency, I do not think we need have any fear for the future." The same opinion was expressed about the same time, I remember, by the leader of one of our political parties, Mr. Lloyd George, who put it like this: "We are not passing through, but passing into a crisis." And we members of the British-Israel-World Federation believe that with all our heart and soul. It is one of the facts we have learned from a study of prophecy: it is indicated for us in the symbolism of the Great Pyramid. And the imminence of this crisis is a challenge to us to be up and doing in the firm conviction that the King's business requires haste.

Now, what are the facts about this emergency? What is the situation which, according to the authorities I have quoted, threatens to launch us into a great national crisis? Well, first of all, there is the fact of the economic depression, which is sapping the life-blood out of this country, and threatening us with national bankruptcy. It is not that we are the only country: there are other countries as well. If we ourselves only were concerned, the situation would not be so ominous. Markets could be adjusted so as to give us a help over the stile. But this thing is world-wide. It has its grip upon the throat of every big industrial country, and it persists, in spite of the best attempts of the best world-economists to solve it.

Now, how has all this come about? I mean, what is the root cause of the present position and the present situation? Every ailment has a cause, and, generally speaking, if you find out the cause of an illness, you are on the highway to effect a cure. What is the cause of this trouble then? There are some who would tell us that it is mainly a matter of cycles. It is like the ebb and flow of the tide. Depression follows prosperity, and so the wheel goes round. In our prosperous days we probably do the things which are foolish, and we have to pay for our folly. We spend more than we can afford. And when we have learned our lesson, when we cut our coat according to the measure of the cloth, then the tide of prosperity flows back. I suppose we should all admit that there is some truth in that, that that partly explains the present distressful situation. There is no doubt that many of us, perhaps the majority of us, have spent more in luxuries than we can afford, or that we have given to religion. Our yearly Drink Bill would pay a big slice off the National Debt; and as for Gambling, it is probably not only doing more moral harm in the country than Drink at the present day, but it is a colossal misplacement and waste of money. There are our luxuries then: let us admit that.

Then there are the opportunities which we might have seized some ten or twelve years back, when the markets of the world were being reconstructed, and when the front stalls were for the nations that could sacrifice to the extent of losing life in order to save it. Those missed opportunities! All this is part of the situation. It is what you might call the economics of it; or, if you will, it is the cyclic aspect of it. But this cyclic aspect of the present situation is only part of the explanation. We all feel, I think, that it is about time that the cycle had gone its round. Some of the big bankers have been telling us this. They told us in the Spring of 1928, when they presented their balance-sheets, and assured the country that we were already getting round the corner. That was in 1928, and it is more than two and a half years now, and the situation has grown infinitely worse and more menacing.

The theory of cycles may be partly the explanation, but it is not the only one, nor the chief one. There is an economic aspect of this question, and there is also one that is more important still, and that is the spiritual aspect of this depression. And it is this aspect which is the challenge of the immediate emergency. Listen to this: "All these blessings shall come on thee, and overtake thee, if thou shalt hearken unto the voice of the Lord thy God. Blessed shalt thou be in the city, and blessed shalt thou be in the field. Blessed shalt be the fruit of thy body, and the fruit of thy ground, and the fruit of thy cattle, the increase of thy kine, and the flocks of thy sheep. Blessed shalt be thy basket and thy store. Blessed shalt thou be when thou comest in, and blessed shalt thou be when thou goest out. The Lord shall cause thine enemies that rise up against thee to be smitten before thy face: they shall come out against thee one way, and flee before thee seven ways. The Lord shall command the blessing upon thee in thy store houses, and in all that thou settest thine hand unto: and He shall bless thee in the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee." Or listen to this: "And it shall be, if thou do at all forget the Lord thy God, and walk after other gods, and serve them, and worship them, I testify against you this day, that ye shall surely perish. As the nations which the Lord destroyeth before your face, so shall ye perish, because ye would not be obedient unto the voice of the Lord your God."

Now, my friends, what have we here in these passages from Deuteronomy, and other passages which could be quoted of a like character? As clearly as words can tell we are told that a nation's prosperity goes hand in hand with its spiritual development. "Where there is no vision the people perish." "Righteousness exalteth a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people." "If thou obey, thou shalt eat the fat of the land." Christ taught the very same thing in that famous pronouncement of His, "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you." He was talking about food and raiment, and the ordinary necessities of life. He connects these with a passion for the Kingdom of God. In plain simple terms He says, If you put God first then you will never lack the things which are necessary for your contentment. And what does man need more than that? And right through the Bible you have got the same truth expounded. Put God first, and all things that are necessary will follow. God will look after you. But relegate Him to the background, forget His laws, neglect Him in the pursuit of other interests, and a dearth comes over the land, and even nature seems to turn to be our enemy. That is Bible truth.

And, my friends, if we as a nation put God first, then all that is good for us will follow. But have we not rather put Him into the background? Have we not kept Him outside the circle of our main interests? The temple of the Most High has been surrendered for the golf course. Mammon instead of God is to very many the scheme of life. Pleasure has taken the place of religion. All this has been happening for years past, and is happening still. It has fixed itself, so to speak, as a tendency in the nation. And Providence help the young people who are growing up into this tendency. But God is going to change that tendency. The Bible tells us that a period will come in the cycle of time when the stress of circumstances will do what the love of God ought to have done for us. The love of God has been trying to bring us back again out of this folly, and out of this suicidal tendency, and we have rebelled. And so the stress of circumstances is going to show us that the Most High rules in the kingdom of men. There is the challenge, therefore, of an immediate emergency.

And, as Canon Hollis said, we have got to get back to God as a nation, and that means to put God first, first in statesmanship, first in industry, first in trade and commerce, first in the home life of the country, and also first in the Church. God first in the Church! That sounds strangely paradoxical when you think about it, for one would imagine that the question would never arise about putting God first in the Church. I am not going to say much about that, except to state it as my belief that the Church itself at this moment is waking up to this great challenge. She is beginning to realize at long last that she is part of the great emergency. She has toyed for a long time with a conception of a national mission, a national revival of religion, and several attempts have been made to produce a revival. Just throw your minds back over the last sixteen years. There was a National Mission of Repentance and Hope. It was more a Mission than National perhaps, but, nevertheless, it was the birth of a vision in the Church for bringing the nation to the footstool of God.

Then there was what was called "Copec." This movement included all shades of religious thought, and was the social application of Christianity. One felt about "Copec" that at least there was a chance of bringing the nation to the footstool of God, and that the people would understand something about religion if it was outlined to them in terms of social endeavour. And "Copec" seemed to be a key. We do not hear very much about it now, but we are not condemning it. It was born of a real vision, and an endeavour to bring England to Christ. Then there was the great World Call, as we of the Anglican Communion know it, when we were told that perhaps the reason for our failure had been because we had not obeyed the great command of our Master to preach the Gospel to all the world, and that if only we could start to obey that command, so to speak, in other places, we should build up a sturdy Christianity at home. At any rate, it was a Call to the Church to be up and doing. Again, we were greatly moved by that Call. We felt it was somewhat different to the other attempts that had been made previously and that, perhaps, with the blessing of God, it would be the key to bring England back to Christ. And so it has been going on for the last sixteen years. Conference after conference; special effort after special effort. And now we of the British-Israel-World Federation believe that the moment has come, and that the stress of circumstances will force the conscience and the imagination of England to realize that the time has come when God has got to be put first in the nation. And if first in the nation, He will be first in the Church. I am speaking now of the Church in the broadest sense, organized religion, institutional religion, what you might call the spiritual side of the nation. And there is another side of the nation which we have taken for granted which is not the spiritual side of the nation. Now all this has got to be changed. There is not going to be two sides, but one side, so that the Church and the nation will be one, so to speak: it will not only express the nation's belief, but it will be the nation presenting itself as a monument of God's mercy.

Now, how are we going to get that over into England? We in this Hall can see it. We can see that this is probably the next step, and that once we can create what I should call a religious patriotism, then we are going to touch the people to whom the Church can make no appeal. How are we going to do it?

I was speaking a few months ago at Headquarters on the next great Revival, and ventured to propound the theory that every great Revival of the past had for its starting-point some forgotten truth of the Bible, some truth that men had forgotten, and some preacher or some movement unveiled. In reading of Moody's Mission in the 'eighties, one learned that the note that was struck by the great evangelist was the love of God, and that was, so to speak, a new note in England at that time. The people had heard a great deal about God's justice, but they had heard very little about God's mercy: they had heard much about hell fire. And then came this voice, soft as the breath of even, to souls that were just hungering to know that God was love, and that gave Moody his start; and wherever he went he could turn audiences with a wave of his hand. And there are men to-day, fifty years afterwards, who thank God for what that great evangelist taught of that newly-discovered truth about God.

I suggested in the address I have referred to that perhaps the forgotten truth that is going to bring about the next great awakening is the truth about the Kingdom of God, the truth that we British-Israelites believe, that God has a servant-nation in His plan and purpose for the human race, that He has always had this servant-nation to be His ambassadors; and if we can make our people believe that we are that servant-nation, appointed to do this special work of taking the message of the Most High to others, that we are appointed to be the priest nation of the human race, if we can get that over to them, then I believe there is enough patriotism in England, and enough common-sense and judgment to see that that is the key to the future of this Empire.

Suppose the truth of our heritage suddenly came as a sound conviction to the people of this land, what would immediately happen? Here we are in a maze of perplexing problems, international and domestic. The future is ominous, and as perplexing as it can be. None can see far ahead, and what we see portends trouble. Suddenly we realize that all the centuries have been preparing us for this emergency; that in the plan of God we have been led to a great position of world responsibility unparalleled in any other age, and that the covenants and promises made to the patriarchs are being fulfilled in us. Now suppose this conviction should spread right through the land, what would immediately happen? I suggest that three outstanding things would happen.

First of all, there would be a widespread return to the Bible as the Divinely-appointed Chart to guide us. If in the Bible we have the plan of God revealed, then it is a Book for statesmen and scientists to read, as well as for theologians, and for the humble servants of God. What follies could have been escaped had we realized this before! What shoals and quicksands we might have avoided! There would be this return to the Bible. And, in the Providence of God, the Bible is being more firmly established to-day, as you know, than ever before. Call it a coincidence: I call it the plan of God. We are looking forward most eagerly to what will be revealed when the excavators begin their work again this winter in the East and in Palestine.

The second result would be, I think, the stirring of religious patriotism in the land. There is a patriotism which is not religious, and it is not spiritual patriotism. It thinks of the country in terms of power and position, of commerce and rank. That is not true patriotism. I am thinking about religious patriotism. I have in mind what king Hezekiah said in his crushing reference to the king of Assyria: "Be strong and courageous, be not afraid nor dismayed for the king of Assyria, nor for all the multitude that is with him: for there be more with us than with him: with him is an arm of flesh: but with us is the Lord our God to help us, and to fight our battles. And the people rested themselves upon the word of Hezekiah, king of Judah." Now that is what we want in this country, that kind of patriotism.

The third result, the best of all, and with which I close, would be the nation's devotion to Jesus Christ. "I am not sent but unto the lost sheep of the House of Israel." These words, as you know, do not mean that Jesus is not the universal Saviour of every race. But they do mean that He comes in search of the servant race. He wants to find the servant race to convert the world through them. Israel has got to be His ambassador to all the other races. Oh, what a thing it would be if this nation bowed the knee to Jesus Christ; if it sought His guidance in matters of State and in the Houses of Parliament over yonder, and if the principles of the Sermon on the Mount were incorporated in the industrial and commercial trade of the country, what a thing it would be! It would be the Prodigal Son over again. "When he came to himself, he said, I will arise and go to my Father, and will say unto him, Father, I have sinned against Heaven and before thee." And when he came to himself, the Father was there ready to receive him, and to welcome him back into the home of peace. It would be also as it was in the case of Jonah and the Ninevites: when they turned to God the retribution was stopped. So I believe it would be with us in the present emergency, when we recognize who we are, when the forgotten truth of our servanthood is re-established, then God's Word will be the guide of our pilgrim days. And patriotism will be another word for righteousness, and Christ Jesus, the King of Israel, will sit upon the throne of the world.

THE REV. W. BROWN POLLOCK, M.A., said: Dear Mr. Chairman and Friends, Clerical and Lay,—It is a great pleasure to be here in London and to stand upon this platform once more as I am doing this afternoon. May I just say how much I tremble when I am called upon to give a word of testimony, but I do want that word of testimony to be a testimony to the wonder and the mercy of the grace of God. First of all, as I listened to the addresses which have been given this afternoon, so wonderful and forcible and helpful, it came to me that my own need is the need of every soul, as well as the great need of the Church and the great need of the world, and that is, of Jesus Christ Himself. "Wherefore speak ye not a word about bringing back the king?" So for a moment may I remind you of the time before I came out of nature's darkness, out of the darkness of human depravity, into the light of God's mercy and grace. It was just like being brought out of a deep dungeon, along many corridors and up many winding staircases into God's beautiful fresh air, a wonderful world of light and life and colour, and of singing birds and glowing flowers, of wonderful mountains and oceans and skies, with countless tokens of His greatness and of His wonder. But the biggest blessing of them all, His love written over it all, and His mercy in the Cross of Calvary and the atonement of the Son of God for the sins of man. He brought me up out of darkness into His marvellous light. I know now, and better now than perhaps ever before, why; in order that I might be just one to the praise and the glory of His grace, to show forth His praise.

And do you know, that took place a long time before I became a British-Israelite. But it would be only fair to mention those friends who pleaded with me up in Keswick and elsewhere. A friend used to talk to me on my way from the meetings, and she did her best to make me see the light about the British-Israel Truth. And one day I saw on the ground a little paper, with the title, "Where are the Lost Tribes?" Of course, you know our opponents say that they never were lost. I was speaking to a Christian Jew on Sunday, who was preaching for me, and I said to him, "What is your belief about the British-Israel Truth?" And he said, "There is nothing in it. For you know, to begin with, the ten tribes were never lost." Well, I ventured to say to him that our Lord spoke about the lost sheep of the House of Israel; but I could see very well that he evidently had no intention of entering into a conversation about it, and the time was short as he had to go to service, and we never finished our conversation. But there it is. There are those who talk that way.

Well, finding this little paper I read it, and had further conversations with my friend. And long after, when I was reading the prophecy of Hosea, I realized that the prophet was to tell His people that they were to be scattered, and finally they were not to be His people. And a little while after that, reading the first chapter of the First Epistle of Peter, I found that this very people were being addressed, that after that long period of years, that great gap in their history, the time had come when, through the grace and mercy of God, they were again brought back to Him by the new covenant. They were again to be called the people of God. Peter the Apostle was addressing them, "But ye are a chosen generation, a royal priesthood, a peculiar people, that ye should show forth the praises of Him Who hath called you out of darkness into His marvellous light; which in time past were not a people, but are now the people of God: which had not obtained mercy, but now have obtained mercy." Out of the darkness of their condition into the glorious light and love and life of God. From that point I began to make a study of this Truth.

It is remarkable as you read the Word of God, and it is so even with ministers; we may read chapter after chapter, and there are certain key phrases and expressions, and it is astonishing how those key phrases and key expressions seem to escape our notice, and, therefore, they fail to challenge thought and investigation. And one of those key phrases is "In the latter days." And I began to trace that expression through the Word of God, and to find that in the latter days the people of Israel were to be the greatest people in the world, they were to be a company of nations, to get the chief positions in the world, to be on top and not underneath, they were to be the great money-lenders of the world; and they were to be God's people in the world. And they were to have a double capacity, one was of ruling imperially, and the other was as an instrument of the grace of God through the Church.

Do not for a moment think that the Church of God is a Gentile Church. I thought that was so for long years. The Church of God has been an Israelitish Church from the beginning, and it is going to be to the end. And the great hope of the Church is centred in the King of kings, the second Person of the ever-blessed Trinity. He is the great King, for Whom the world is languishing, without Whom we must sink deeper into what is called the time of Jacob's trouble. That time of trouble might be lessened if the nation would come to repentance towards God and faith in Jesus Christ, and would prepare itself for the Coming of the King: first, by enthroning Him in their own hearts; and, secondly, by restoring Him to His rightful place in the Church, as the one and only High Priest, the only Mediator between God and man; and then in the nation as Sin-Bearer and Saviour; as Lord of the individual soul, of the collective body of the Church, and of the whole mighty nation and Empire over which He will one day rule.

THE CRUCIFIXION OF CHRISTIANITY.

VIII.

By the Rev. John Blacket (of Australia).

The Evangelical Revival of the Eighteenth Century.

Turning from the potency of the Rule of Faith, as preached by the Apostles and Apostolic Fathers, look for a moment at the progress of the Faith. Justin speaks of "a countless multitude" who had "embraced the Christian faith," and died in its defence.

We leave the Apostolic Age, and come down to the Evangelical Revival at the dawn of our own day. The moral and spiritual condition of England, previous to the Revival, was deplorable. Bishop Ryle, of Liverpool, in his book, "The Christian Leaders of the Last Century," says: "From the year 1700, till about the era of the French Revolution, England seemed barren of all that is good. Christianity seemed to lie as one dead. There was darkness in high places, and darkness in low places, darkness in the court, the camp, the Parliament, and the Bar; darkness in country, and darkness in town; darkness among the rich, and darkness among the poor—a gross, thick, religious and moral darkness—a darkness that might be felt."

But the Sun of Righteousness arose, with healing in His wings—the eternal God "broke through." The Wesleys, Whitefield, the saintly John Fletcher, and a band of men "whose hearts God had touched" went through Britain as a flame of fire. Like the messengers of Apostolic times they preached positive truth—they proclaimed, in all its fullness, the Apostolic Rule of Faith—the Enactments of the Apostles, as Ignatius terms them—the "traditional Christianity" that some Modernists to-day would throw overboard. What was the result? As in the Apostolic Age," God also bearing them witness, both with signs and wonders, and with divers miracles, and gifts of the Holy Ghost" (Heb. ii, 2, 4).

Let Bishop Ryle tell the story: "The instrumentality," he says, "by which the spiritual reformers of the last century carried on their operations was of the simplest description. It was the old Apostolic weapon of preaching. . . . They preached fervently and directly. They taught the sufficiency and supremacy of Holy Scripture. They taught that Christ's death was the only satisfaction for man's sin. They taught the doctrine of justification by faith. They taught the universal necessity of heart conversion. They knew nothing of the modern notion that all possess something good within, which they have only to stir up and use in order to be saved. They never taught that Christ's death was only a great example of self-sacrifice." Bishop Ryle goes on to say: "The movement of these gallant Evangelists shook England from one end to another. . . . A candle was lighted of which we are now enjoying the benefit. The feeling of all classes in the land about religion and morality gradually assumed a totally different complexion."

At the Liverpool Conference of the Methodist Church in 1820 it was reported that there had been a decrease in the membership of the Church. The decrease in the home circuits during the year amounted to 4,688. For fifty-four years consecutively the Conference had not met without reporting an increase in the membership. The minds of the preachers were perplexed; their souls were in travail. The position was seriously and prayerfully considered. What did the Methodist fathers of that period do? Did they sit in judgment upon doctrinal Christianity? Did they seek a readjustment of the Christian Faith? No. The question was: "Have we departed from our old standards?" Have we been remiss in the proclamation of the Gospel? The Conference drew up a series of resolutions known as "The Liverpool Minutes," the second resolution of which read as follows:—

"Let us endeavour, in our public ministry, to preach constantly all those leading and vital doctrines of the Gospel which peculiarly distinguished the original Methodist preachers, whose labours were so signally blessed by the Lord, and to preach them in our primitive method—evangelically, experimentally, zealously, and with great plainness and simplicity; giving to them a decided prominence in every sermon, and labouring to apply them closely, affectionately and energetically to the consciences of the different classes of our hearers."

A day of "fasting and prayer" was appointed. The resolutions were put into practice. The preachers said: "We, on this solemn occasion, devote ourselves afresh to the service of God, and resolve, in humble dependence on His grace, to be more than ever attentive to personal religion." They sounded a positive note in their preaching, and the next year, at the Manchester Conference of 1821, after deducting losses from death and other causes, there was an increase of 9,137 members. The total increase, adding the foreign mission work, was 10,373.

The President and Secretary of the Conference, in an address to the members of the Church, said: "Nothing new was adopted or even proposed. We 'stood in the old ways and enquired.' The preachers pledged themselves to God and to each other to preach our doctrines"—the Apostolic Rule of Faith—"with renewed zeal, and in the most explicit manner; and to engage, by their exhortations, the co-operation and prayers of all the Societies. The visitations of Divine influence upon the Connexion have been very extensive."

About twenty years later (1842) a decrease was again reported of 2,065 members. Again there was anxious and prayerful enquiry. It was resolved that a day should be set apart as a day for "fasting and prayer," and for "seeking especially the more abundant effusion of the Holy Spirit." A writer to the Methodist Magazine of 1843 says: "There were great 'searchings of heart,' and many wept 'between the porch and the altar,' because our Zion languished. To the enquiry, frequently urged: 'What must be done?' the answer was: 'Return to first principles.' It was acted upon in the fear of God. It seemed like the gathering cry to the hosts of our Israel. Many went forth 'weeping, bearing precious seed, and came again rejoicing, bringing their sheaves with them.'

"Thousands profess to have obtained the pearl of great price," the writer goes on to say. "The services had nothing new in principle. Prayer meetings were held in the morning; a short sermon was preached every evening. There was a public prayer meeting after each sermon. Many of the most profligate and abandoned characters, inaccessible by ordinary means, and who had not attended a place of worship for years, were brought under the Gospel. Chapels which had not been filled for years were crowded every evening. What is best of all, great numbers obtained pardon and purity, multitudes of whom rejoice in it at this hour." The increase for the year was more than 4,000. These are significant facts, and should be carefully pondered in the time of spiritual dearth through which the Churches are now passing.

It is the positive note, and the Old Gospel, as it was preached in the Apostolic Age and in the Great Revival of the Eighteenth Century, that the world needs to-day. Modernism—throwing overboard "Traditional" or "Doctrinal Christianity"—will end in disintegration and death. A few years ago the scholarly Dr. C. J. Ellicott, Bishop of Gloucester and Bristol, and Editor of "The Commentary for Schools," saw the ultimate trend of a growing Modernism, and wrote as follows: "If the Supernatural has to be minimized in the Old Testament, will it be long before the same demand will be made in reference to the New? The same spirit will ultimately challenge the evidence on which the Incarnation rests; and the more so as all the age-long testimonies of the Old Testament—all the foreshadowings—all the promises that were greeted from afar—all the sure words of prophecy—will have been explained away and dissipated, and there will remain nothing save two narratives, which, it will be said, bear so patiently the traces of illusion, or, at least, of an idealism expressing itself under the guise of alleged facts, that the doctrine of 'the Word became flesh'—the doctrine which is the hope, light and life of the universe, will, in the end, be surrendered to the last demands of what will have now become not a distressed but a ruined faith." . . . "When that blessed doctrine is surrendered," Bishop Ellicott says, "the total eclipse of faith will have commenced, and the shadows of the great darkness will be fast sweeping over the forlorn and desolate soul."

The world to-day needs a Divine Manifestation, but such Manifestations come to-day as they did on the Day of Pentecost, and, in connection with the Great Revival of which we have spoken, in response to compliance with conditions. The followers of our Lord "all continued, with one accord, in prayer and supplications" (Acts i, 14), and on the Day of Pentecost the Manifestation came. Is not too much ministerial time spent to-day over questions of a critical and speculative character?

In his soul-stirring book, "The Tongue of Fire," founded upon the Pentecostal visitation, the Rev. William Arthur, M.A., says: "O for high examples of God's moral workmanship! O for men instinct with the Spirit! The countenance glowing as a transparency with a light behind it; the eye shining with a purer, truer light than any that genius or good nature ever shed; limbs agile for every act of prayer, of praise, of zeal, for any errand of compassion, and a tongue of fire."

It is not a "reconstruction of the Christian Faith," but "the unction from above," and "the tongue of fire," more especially that the Church and the world need to-day.

WEEK BY WEEK.

By A. R. H.

ON October 28th, LONDON enjoyed the splendour of all the glitter and pageantry associated with the STATE OPENING of PARLIAMENT. Of all British public ceremonies this is perhaps the most romantic. It is a national pageant of rare brilliance and significant symbolism.

And this year the presence of the DOMINION PREMIERS added novelty to an event which already promised to be unique on account of it being the first time that H.M. THE KING had appeared in person at the HOUSES OF PARLIAMENT under the ægis of a Labour Government.

In the MOTHER OF PARLIAMENTS the DOMINION PREMIERS saw the magnificent ceremonial which has been hallowed by ages—the picturesque figures of Bluemantle and Portcullis Pursuivant, Norroy King-of-Arms, the Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod. . . . But we are anticipating events and must begin at the beginning.

Early in the morning the historic search of the vaults beneath the HOUSES of PARLIAMENT had been carried out by Beefeaters from the TOWER of LONDON. This tradition owes its birth to the Gunpowder Plot.

Later, with all the picturesque pageantry and historic ceremonial of a function in full State, the KING and QUEEN rode through troop-lined streets from BUCKINGHAM PALACE to WESTMINSTER.

Ten minutes before Their Majesties leave the PALACE, the Crown and Regalia is taken under military escort to the HOUSE of LORDS. Five minutes later, H.R.H. PRINCE DAVID of WALES leaves for WESTMINSTER, driving in his State Landau and escorted by a detachment of the Household Cavalry.

The blowing of a silver trumpet by a gold-coated trumpeter on a white horse is the signal for the start of the procession. As the notes echo through the Palace Courtyard a stentorian command is given to the Guardsmen outside the PALACE: "Present Arms!"

A moment later, watchers in the MALL catch sight of the first pair of the eight bay horses, drawing the old STATE COACH, tossing their headdress of deep red cord as they emerge from the Palace Gates. As the cavalcade draws nearer it is noticed that four mounted police, riding abreast, lead the way. Their prosaic garb is in striking contrast to the riot of colour behind them. But they are magnificently mounted on white horses.

Next comes the first division of the SOVEREIGN'S ESCORT. Officers and Troopers of the Blues, sitting their black horses rigidly, jingle along in front of the GILDED COACH. The sun glints brightly on their silver breastplates. . . . And now the COACH itself appears as a blaze of gold in the October sunshine.

The COACH is drawn by eight bay horses with crimson ribbons knotted in their manes. The postilions and outriders in gold and scarlet livery make a brilliant spectacle. . . . The wide windows of the STATE COACH frame a radiant picture of the KING and QUEEN bowing to the cheering crowds. . . . Following the COACH march a bodyguard of the YEOMEN of the GUARD in their historic Tudor uniform ; then, on horseback, the three equerries in attendance on Their Majesties; finally another detachment of the ROYAL HORSE GUARDS, including the STANDARD-BEARER and two riders each carrying a large silver battle-axe.

The beauty of the scene bathed in the lovely October sunshine ; the thrill as the strains of the National Anthem float across the air from the Guards' Band at ST. JAMES' PALACE, combine to form a memory that is unparalleled and unforgettable. The mind is carried away and nearly overwhelmed by the hundreds of separate impressions which crowd and clamour for consideration. . . .

But as the GOLD STATE COACH rolls away into the distance the chief impression left in mind is the extraordinary significance of the construction of the COACH itself. Its construction is symbolic of Britain's sea-power, and, as such, is a witness to Britain's identity with the KINGDOM.

The body of the COACH is composed of four large TRITONS. Each TRITON is holding a trident or emblem of NEPTUNE, god of the SEA.

Now according to the Scriptures, one of the most important symbols for the KINGDOM is the "Pearl." What is the PEARL? It is that which has come up out of the sea. The first lines of the anthem "Rule Britannia" complete the sequence for us :— "When Britain first, at heaven's command, arose from out the azure main. . . ."

BRITAIN is the PEARL—that which has come up out of the SEA —BRITAIN is the KINGDOM.

How fitting then that Royalty of the HOUSE of DAVID should proceed to the opening of Britain's Parliament in a golden chariot so rich in historical and prophetical symbolism.

But the most magnificent part of the pageant takes place when the procession has entered the walls of the HOUSE of LORDS itself. Here, in the oldest second Chamber in the world, ceremonial rites form a spectacle "courtly and splendid, in keeping with the State of and its ruler." The GOTHIC architecture harmonizes perfectly with ceremony connected with the throne and government of GOD'S KINGDOM-NATION.

All those whose rank calls them to share in this high assembly have gathered one half-an-hour before the coming of Their Majesties. The LORD MAYOR of LONDON sits in the Gallery facing the group of DOMINION PREMIERS, all in their levee dress. Conspicuous among them is Mr. Bennett, in the gold lace uniform of the PRIME MINISTER of CANADA. Contrasting vividly with the sombre levee dress of the representatives of ANGLO-SAXON NATIONS is the scintillating spectacle of the INDIAN PRINCES, in their gorgeous robes and blue and scarlet turbans, who sat opposite.

Below, on the floor of the HOUSE, the diplomats' benches are filled with the envoys of other nations, sashed gaudily and jewelled with the unfamiliar Orders of foreign courts.

The JUDGES and LORDS of APPEAL, in their grey wigs and black and gold robes, afford a sober contrast as they occupy the Woolsack. The ARCHBISHOPS and BISHOPS sit in front of the AMBASSADORS.

The red robes of the PEERS facing the THRONE; the many-coloured dresses and glittering coronets of the Peeresses, completed the scene of dazzling splendour. The medals and swords of the Gentlemen-at-Arms flash, and gold-braided tunics glisten. . . . Suddenly the lights are dimmed, the hum of conversation ceases, as the DUKE of YORK, in scarlet and white and gold, enters and walks to his seat. A moment later and he is followed by PRINCE DAVID of WALES in scarlet and ermine. The PRINCE walks alone to his throne beside that of the KING and QUEEN, but one step lower on the dais.

A sound like distant thunder as the double Royal salute of 41 guns is fired in ST. JAMES' PARK dramatically announces the arrival of Their MAJESTIES. At the Royal Entrance Their MAJESTIES are greeted by the great OFFICERS of the STATE. Moving slowly up the staircase to the Royal Robing Room Their MAJESTIES walk, attended by Rouge Croix Pursuivant, Rouge Dragon Pursuivant, Kings-at-Arms, Heralds and Ushers, all in full State uniform.

A distant fanfare sounds. The lights flash up, lending all things a new glitter, and on the threshold, leading the QUEEN by the hand, comes the KING. The KING, his crown sparkling and his purple train sweeping across the steps of the Thrones, stands for a moment while the splendid company bow their greeting. Then, turning to the QUEEN—a regal figure in her silvery gown—His MAJESTY and His CONSORT seat themselves side by side on their thrones, and the deep voice of the KING rings out: "My lords, pray be seated."

"The most gorgeous sight in the world to-day," murmured an American visitor as, in the pause which followed, Black Rod goes to summon the Faithful Commons. To a son of Manasseh the pageantry and tradition of EPHRAIM-ENGLAND must provide a rich contrast to the incompleteness and poverty of colour inevitably attending the decapitated social life of a great Republic.

Certainly the scene is thrilling even to a stolid Englishman used to such sights and sounds. Grouped about the KING and QUEEN on their golden thrones are the PRINCE of WALES, the DUKE of YORK, and the bearers of the oldest and best-known names in BRITAIN. The pause during the absence of Black Rod is the most dramatic moment in the whole ceremony.

But now the silence is broken by the sound of footsteps, as the COMMONS, headed by the SPEAKER bewigged and in black, appear at the bar of the HOUSE. On bended knee the LORD CHANCELLOR, who carries the GREAT SEAL of the REALM, hands the Speech to HIS MAJESTY. The KING surveys the Speech for a moment and then, in a clear, resonant voice, begins to deliver it.

With the prayer that, "under the

the outcome of your deliberations may advance the happiness and well-being of MY PEOPLE," the Speech ends. It has occupied but a few minutes. Within fifteen minutes of its commencement the pageantry has already commenced to dissolve. The KING and QUEEN step down from their thrones. The ROYAL PRINCES, followed by the AMBASSADORS, the representatives of OTHER NATIONS, PEERS and Peeresses, take their departure.

But the ceremony† would not have been more beautiful had it been less brief. As the Times aptly puts it: "It was as if one closed, after a swift perusal, some old, sublimely illustrated volume of English history, save that what was written there was startlingly concerned with the facts and the needs of to-day."

ABRAHAM AND KETURAH.

To these parents were born six sons, of whom came a group of Abrahamic nations. Among these were the Midianites, who figured considerably in the history of Judah and Israel, later in time.

The nations coming from these six sons moved eastward, and formed the ruling peoples of India in the later ages. Hence India is with Britain to-day.

ISAAC AND ABIMELECH.

A famine in the land caused Isaac to plan a journey to Egypt. While thus meditating, the Lord said to him:—Genesis xxvi—"Go not down into Egypt; dwell in the land which I shall tell thee of:

"Sojourn in this land, and I will be with thee, and will bless thee; for unto thee, and unto thy seed, I will give all these countries, and I will perform the oath which I sware unto Abraham thy father;

"And I will make thy seed to multiply as the stars of heaven, and will give unto thy seed all these countries; and in thy seed shall all the nations of the earth be blessed;

"Because that Abraham obeyed my voice, and kept my charge, my commandments, my statutes, and my laws."

"And Isaac dwelt at Gerar."

In the above Scripture we get a contract, a promise, a covenant. The sweeping promise was conditioned on Isaac's obedience. And at once Isaac rendered that obedience. Instead of going to Egypt, he remained at Gerar among the Philistines.

Hence in his obedience he made the conditional promise, covenant, or contract complete, effective and unconditional.

† The description of the ceremony in the House of Lords is based upon eye-witness reports in "The Times," "Morning Post," "Daily Mail," "Daily Express," "Daily Mirror," "Evening News" and "Evening Standard."

Digitized by Google

How important, and age-reaching! All the promises conditionally made to Isaac became fixed and sure through Isaac's obedience.

Therefore the seed of Isaac is the possessor "of all these countries." From the context we know that, in the words "all these countries," Egypt and Philistia are included: and from other promises we know that Arabia, Canaan, Syria, Edom, Moab, Ammon and Iraq, as well as Philistia, Egypt and the Sudan belong to Abraham's seed.

Is it not remarkable, even astounding, to know that as this Book is in course of preparation, Great Britain is the de facto owner and the official overlord of all these lands? How does this strike you, my dear earnest, honest reader? Make answer.

PRAYER FOR INDIA.

THE Archbishop of Canterbury, the Archbishop of York, the Rev. Dr. Charles Brown, Moderator of the Federal Council of the Evangelical Free Churches, and the Rev. Dr. Sharp, President of the National Council of Evangelical Free Churches, have issued the following request for prayer on behalf of the Indian Round-Table Conference:—

On Wednesday, November 12th, His Majesty the King will inaugurate the Round-Table Conference which has been summoned to consider the future government of India. No words are needed to emphasize the great and solemn responsibility which rests upon the delegates who are now assembling. The constitutional questions involved are grave and difficult. But what matters most is the spirit in which the delegates will approach and conduct their discussions. In this region of spirit God ever manifests the power of His own Divine and Holy Spirit, and it is in answer to prayer that this power is promised. It is therefore right that Christian citizens should unite in prayer that God may bestow upon the Conference the spirit of wisdom and mutual understanding, of sympathy and good will, of patient forbearance and resolute hope.

We earnestly trust that on Sunday, November 16th, the Sunday immediately preceding the week when the deliberations of the Conference will begin, prayers will be offered for the Conference in all places of worship throughout the land in accordance with their several customs, and that such prayers—private as well as public—may be continued during the sessions of the Conference.

May God grant that its members may become conscious of an atmosphere from which prejudice, misunderstanding, and suspicion have been banished, and that throughout their deliberations East and West, each bringing and interpreting to the other its fullest knowledge and its highest ideals, may take counsel together for the permanent welfare of all the peoples of India.—

(Extract from The Times.)

British-Israel believers will be in full sympathy with this appeal for united prayer. If all great national problems were made a matter of national intercession there would soon be an end to all the ills and inharmonies which afflict the national life. God has promised to act for us if we nationally enquire of Him. (Cf. Ez. xxxvi, 37.)—A. R. H.

REVIEW.

THE RESTORATION OF ISRAEL.*

By J. LLEWELLYN THOMAS, F.R.C.S. (author of "God and My Birthright.")

THE publication of a second and revised edition of Dr. Thomas's "Restoration of Israel," clearly printed, at the extraordinary cheap price of eighteenpence, will place this work at the disposal of a yet wider circle of readers. One of the stock arguments used by opponents of British-Israel Truth who ought to be better informed is that God's promises to Israel of the Ten Tribes were all strictly conditional and that their punishment was final and without hope of restoration.

To those who take this point of view or have been influenced by it, Dr. Thomas's "unusually lucid and sanely reasoned" study (to quote the opinion of The Scotsman) offers Scriptural evidence that Israel's Restoration was foretold, and guaranteed on the word of Jehovah; that the Time, Place, Religion and vast Population of Israel in the time of her Restoration are clearly stated in the promises and prophecies of Holy Writ, and that these things are in process of fulfilment before our very eyes.

Dr. Thomas's clarity of style is stamped upon the present work as upon his other book, "God and My Birthright," the text-book of our Study Circles. Isaiah, Jeremiah, Hosea, Ezekiel, Jonah, Zechariah, are brought to witness in ordered sequence, as point by point the argument is developed. The present position and future destiny of the British Empire and the United States of America are thus set forth in the concluding sentences of the book:

"These two sections of the Anglo-Saxon race must sooner or later combine to carry out the great vocation of Israel. No material bonds can possibly produce such an effective brotherly union as a full realization that God has pre-destined them to be His Servant, to serve the nations, to guide, help, protect and succour them with all their resources and sympathy, and to lead them into the paths of justice and judgment," and, after reminding the reader that Israel and Judah are to be united once again, the author concludes:—

"Little wonder that Moses, looking down the long ages and foreseeing the ultimate destiny of the chosen people in the latter days, exclaimed, 'Oh that they were wise, that they understood this, that they would consider their latter end.'"

"Thou, Israel, art My servant, . . . I have chosen thee and not cast thee away; fear thou not, for I am with thee, be not dismayed, for I am thy God; I will strengthen thee; yea, I will help thee; yea, I will uphold thee with the right hand of my righteousness." (Isa. xli, 8–10.)—

BALHAM.—A meeting was held in Hookfield Hall, when an address, full of valuable information, was given by Mr. Whitham. Mr. George Washington, who presided, said that had he not already been a convinced British-Israelite before he entered the hall, he certainly would have been so when he left.

THE SECRETARY-GENERAL'S NEWS AND NOTES.

THE REV. DR. PASCOE GOARD and Mr. and Mrs. Garrison had a busy fortnight in Edinburgh and Glasgow. Good work was done in both cities. Some particulars shall follow in our next issue.

* * *

Dr. Goard gave two addresses at Headquarters on Monday last to excellent audiences. He will give another on Monday afternoon next. In the evening of that day, at 8 o'clock, he and Messrs. Garrison and Morey are to be at the large Town Hall, Chiswick.

* * *

The speakers at Headquarters last week were Mr. J. J. Morey and Mr. Arthur Exley, J.P. The latter will (D.V.) speak again on Wednesday afternoon next, and the Rev. Kenneth Dodds on Thursday evening. This will probably be the last opportunity of hearing Mr. Exley before he sails for Australia.

Our Ealing Branch earnestly desires the support of our London members at the Victoria Hall (Town Hall) on Friday, November 21st, when addresses will be given by Mr. J. J. Morey and the Rev. Maxwell Carnson on "The Present Menace and How to Meet It," and "The Christ, the Kingdom and the Cross."

It is hoped that this large hall will be filled, as a result of the full-page advertisement in the Middlesex County Times on November 15th, in which the British-Israel Manifesto will appear in full. The meeting will commence at 8 o'clock and will be preceded at 7.30 p.m. by an organ recital by Mr. Wilfrid King, F.R.C.O. Nearest station, Ealing Broadway.

A great effort to win the East London suburbs to our Cause will be made on November 24th, 25th, 26th and 27th, at 8 p.m. each evening. Rev. Dr. Pascoe Goard, Mr. Garrison, Mr. Leech, Mr. Morey and the Rev. Maxwell Carnson will be the speakers at the Public Baths, Cathall Road, Leytonstone (opposite the War Memorial). The hall is within two minutes of the Leytonstone Station (Midland) and five minutes of the Leytonstone Station (L.N.E.R.). A few reserved seats at one shilling each are available. Tickets may be obtained from 6, Buckingham Gate, or from Mr. C. S. McKelvey, 36, Borthwick Road, Stratford. If our readers of THE NATIONAL MESSAGE have any friends in the districts of Stratford, Leyton, Leytonstone, Wanstead, Walthamstow, East and West Ham, Forest Gate, Manor Park or Ilford, we hope they will inform them of these great meetings; and we are sure of the prayers of our people for God's richest blessing.

* * *

Meetings of the Hull, Beverley and Bridlington Branches on October 21st, 22nd and 23rd were addressed by the Rev. Gilbert Davies, M.A., Vicar of Branstone, Burton-on-Trent, on the subject "Back to the Bible," when the speaker dealt with the fulfilment of prophecy in "these last days," as showing the design of God in carrying out through the Israel-British race His purpose in sending the Gospel of Good News to the whole world, and thus preparing for the Coming of His Kingdom. At Hull Mr. W. Clark presided, while Mrs. Leason (wife of Captain Leason) presided at Beverley, and Mr Shepley at Bridlington. The meetings were all well attended, and great interest and attention were shown as the speaker in a graphic way unfolded his theme.

* * *

The Rev. T. Sparshott Johnson lectured for the Harrow Branch on October 31st in the Gayton Rooms. "The Signs of the Times" was the title of the lecture.

* * *

The Rev. Kenneth Dodds has given two addresses to the Dorking Branch. Those privileged to hear are still speaking with enthusiasm of the spiritual inspiration experienced. The members will be glad to hear him again.

The South Irish Branch had a splendid week on the occasion of the welcome return visit of the Rev. Joseph Gay, A.T.S., October 26th to 30th.

Sunday, the 26th, Mr. Gay was the preacher at morning service in Sandymount Methodist Church, by invitation of the Rev. F. A. Duke, where he addressed a very large congregation; and at evening service in Sandymount Presbyterian Church, by invitation of the Rev. J. S. Crockett, where again much interest was shown.

Monday, the 27th, Mr. Gay held an afternoon meeting in the Men's Christian Institute, Kingstown, which was very well attended.

The following three days, 28th to 30th, he addressed large and interested audiences in the Dublin Diocesan Hall.

The chief attraction of this series was undoubtedly the Lantern Lecture, on Tuesday evening, entitled "America as I Saw It." Mr. Gay showed over 100 slides made from his own photographs of people and places he visited during his recent tour in America. There was a very crowded and appreciative audience and, although the lecture was considerably longer than is usual, the interest did not flag.

Wednesday and Thursday were devoted to the lecturer's new series of addresses, under the general title of "The Anglo-Saxon Gospel Mission," which all were agreed are among the finest of the many fine addresses that the South Irish Branch has enjoyed from time to time from Mr. Gay. The following presided at the meetings:—the Rev. W. W. Dungan, M.A., the Rev. Robert Northridge, M.A., the Rev. J. S. Crockett, and E. H. Flint, Esq. The Rev. J. Loftus Coade, who was to have taken the chair on Thursday, was prevented by illness from doing so.

There was a record sale of literature.

A NOTE FROM CAPRI.

Miss Muriel Landseer Mackenzie writes:—"Many people reject the British-Israel theory without second thought on the ground that if the lost Ten Tribes are to be found in the British race to-day, historical records or at least traditions would exist as evidence of that astounding fact. But an instance of how quickly and completely even a non-migratory people can forget their heritage is afforded by the history of the famous Blue Grotto of Capri.

"This grotto, the miraculous colour effect of which attracts tourists to-day the world over, was known in the days of Augustus Cæsar and Tiberius, both of whom built themselves palaces on the island. In their day the present unparalleled effect of phosphorescence would have been less remarkable, the level of the Mediterranean Sea having since risen by six feet. Nevertheless, the grotto attracted considerable attention in the days of the Romans, and the Emperor Tiberius caused a passage to be tunnelled, making it possible to penetrate to the innermost recess of the cavern from the landward side.

"With the passing of the Romans the passage became choked, and the gradual rising of the sea level caused the sea entrance to pass more and more unobserved. The temporary establishment of the Saracens in the island during the eighth and ninth centuries A.D., and later, the perpetual raiding of the Corsairs may well have filled the minds of Capri's inhabitants to the exclusion of all other thought.

"In any case, the fact is this. In an island that measures four and a half miles long and about one mile in width, in a tiny world continuously inhabited by a population whose seafaring activities forced them into daily acquaintance with the brief coastline, all knowledge of the now world-famous 'Grotto Azzurra' was in the course of some fourteen centuries completely lost.

"Not until May 16th, 1822, did an adventurous fisherman thrust his boat through the small dark opening that measures to-day a bare forty inches by thirty. The Blue Grotto was rediscovered.

"A group of tribes, first deported from their native land, then driven to wander blindly across a continent under perpetual menace from war, famine and oppression, comes to forget in the course of generations its name, its origin, its race. In the face of the history of the Blue Grotto, the fact could hardly be termed surprising."

Mr. W. E. Oldroyd writes from Sydney:—"In your issue of August 9th, 1930, reference is made to the arrival of our South African Commissioner, the Rev. Maxwell Carnson, in England, to take part in the Forward Movement. The language difficulty and the political situation in South Africa are certainly difficult problems to meet in our British-Israel Cause; but during the first part of his Commissionership, the Rev. Maxwell Carnson fought a good fight in our Cause, and established a South African journal, 'The South African National Message,' eminently suitable for South African conditions. Articles appear in this journal in both English, Afrikaans, and Dutch. I remember the busy time he had in his short stay in Pretoria when I had the honour of being in charge of the Branch there. Arriving on the Saturday, he spoke in the Y.W.C.A. early Sunday morning, preached at the morning service in the Central Wesleyan Church, and also in the evening at the Sunnyside Wesleyan Church; lectured to good audiences on the Monday and Tuesday evenings; a round of visitations during the daytime; and then off again by railway (long distances) to help other Branches. To use a common phrase, he was, indeed, a live wire. His co-worker, Mr. J. T. Burton, is carrying on the good work of the South African journal, together with stalwarts in Capetown, Durban, Kroonstad, and the Transvaal, who are keeping the British-Israel flag flying in a land of opportunity, yet a land where there are tremendous difficulties and racial prejudices."

This little work contains the substance of Two Lectures given at Glastonbury by Mr. Lancaster in 1925.

The former, brief though it is, is a remarkably clear exposition of what has now come to be accepted as the character of the pre-Christian Briton, not a painted Savage, but a well-educated, well-equipped man, with a very considerable and justifiable pride of ancestry.

The latter, dealing with the establishment of Christianity in our island in the early years of the faith, cites a formidable list of authorities in support of his contention that St. Paul, Joseph of Arimathæa and many other New Testament Characters were the first bringers of the Gospel.—An arresting and convincing paper.

It should be understood that Authors alone are responsible for the views expressed in their Articles.

REMEMBRANCE DAY.

By the Rev. Dr. W. Pascoe Goard, F.R.G.S.

The great City is silent. The heart of the world is still for the moments of the Silence. Streets are statuesque. Men and women, conveyances of all kinds, are suddenly halted. The walls cease to echo back the million-voiced sounds of movement and activity.

The King and all the people stand with heads bowed. On every face there is an expression of solemn awe.

It is not the silence of midnight, but the much more impressive silence of midday.

In our Headquarters the staff have gathered into the large room facing the Palace. Mr. J. J. Morey prepares for the moment with a word of prayer. Dr. Pascoe Goard recites the exhortation from the 41st chapter of Isaiah : "Keep silence before me, O Islands, and let the people renew their strength."

And then the long, slow ticking of the clock . . . . .

We are reminded of a graphic touch in the Book of Revelation which says : "And there was silence in heaven for the space of half an hour."

And so we each remembered the things which were past, as we know them and remember them.

What was it that we remembered ?

Let us look at the Calendar. 1st August, 1914—2nd August, 1914—3rd August, 1914—and remember the question asked all over the world, "What will Britain do ?" Then came the 4th of August, 1914—and Britain entered into the War.

After that, what a world of pain and darkness! What brave men went out to premature death! What other brave men were rendered lifelong sufferers ! God help the world which brings itself into such terrible places, and which runs full tilt upon such terrible loss and pain.

How came these things to be ?

We remember that there was a party on the Continent which had faith in war as a means of attaining ambitious things for the Teutonic family first, and after that, perhaps, for the human family. They thought war : they planned war ; they prepared war ; they precipitated war ; and then at last the deadly plague of war was loose in the world.

Yet there was a numerous party in the world who foresaw the results of war. They foresaw the dislocation of peace, and of commerce and industry. They foresaw the scattering of treasure, and the wastage of life. They hated the thought of war. They wrote against war. They spoke against war. They thought against war. But, unlike the other party, they did not prepare to defend the peace. They did not prepare to make war manifestly a doubtful thing. They could not therefore command the peace, nor preserve it in the world. These were the no-preparation pacifists, who would not suffer the nation to which we belong to prepare for defence against war, nor, if war must come, against aggression. Their voice was potent to keep Britain unarmed, untrained, unprepared should war arise ; but they were not potent to halt the preparation of the opposing nations nor to prevent war.

There was another party in our land which also hated war.

They wrote against war. They spoke against war. They thought against war. They were eager to take such action as would enable Britain to command the peace.

These were shouted down as WARMONGERS by those who believed in unarmed peace.

Then came the testing-time. Christian people prayed against war everywhere. Financiers strove against war in all countries, except perhaps Germany, which country had gone war-mad. All parties in England laboured by reason and influence to preserve the peace. But Sir Edward Grey lacked one argument in the struggle for peace. That was the only argument to which Germany was prepared to listen, namely: the fact of a million of armed men ready to enforce the peace.

We remember that had Britain possessed an army of a million men as an argument she would never have had to put eight millions of men into the field as a fighting force. Had Britain possessed an army of a million men, with the necessary equipment, that argument would have kept the German sword in the scabbard. It was only because Germany esteemed the British to be "a contemptible little army" that the courage was found in the German war councils to make war inevitable.

The pacifists tried an awful experiment in disarming Britain in the first decade of the present century, in spite of the fact that Europe was armed to the teeth. It was an experiment in the ideal. The reality which resulted was awful.

We remember the statement of our Lord: "The strong man ARMED keepeth his house." We remember the amended statement of the pacifist: "The strong man, unarmed, keepeth his house." But the amendment to our Lord's saying failed. How awfully it failed! The statement of our Lord stands.

We remember that the experiment in ideal internationalism resulted in the loss of millions of lives and untold treasure.

Moreover, we remember that in the political world men were mad after economy in certain directions. Those directions were in the matter of slowing up preparation of such materials as are needed in time of war. Ships, guns, clothes, munitions, transport, and so on, and so on. And so men turned dejectedly from the once busy arsenals—workless. Men told themselves, and the world, that they had progressed too far to condescend to make such materials for such a purpose. They were "too proud" to prepare "to fight." And so there came the years of famine of war material. But war material must be had. And so at famine prices they were purchased from abroad at the cost of all the available gold, and all the available credit, to such an extent that the nation is impoverished, and her workers are bound to the unpaid task of earning and paying off the cost of such munitions, and twice as much more in interest, over a period of sixty years to come. What a burden has thus been bound upon the shoulders of the living, in addition to the sorrows which must be born for the dead. Every penny of that money, or such lesser portion thereof as would have supplied the need, should have been paid out in wages to British workers. Now British workers must pay it to another nation.

O unarmed and unprepared Pacifism! How much thou hast to answer for before thy God and the nation, the burdened nation, of Great Britain!

That experiment, in pacifism and economy, tried in the early years of the century, cost millions their lives, and bound upon the shoulders of the living a burden of debt for generations to come.

God strengthen us in our hatred of war. God help us to get that strength of arm, and of national power, which will enable us to say to the nations: "Wars shall be no more."

Having these remembrances, we look about the world and see what is the world condition at the present time. Is it a time when we can with any greater safety lay aside our armour? Premier Ramsay MacDonald expressed a warning at the Lord Mayor's Banquet this year, that Britain, while leading the way in disarmament, must look behind to see if the other nations were following in her footsteps. She has tried this experiment of unarmed peace once at the cost of a million lives, and of the liberty of two generations. Will she go on trying it again?

Russia is arming, and Prussia is with her. Mussolini is arming, and the Papal power is behind him.

China is fighting, and has been since 1912. Now it is manifest to the dullest intellect that the inert mass of China, counted by hundreds of millions, is teaching itself the terrible game of war. Unless the West steps in with influence sufficient to cause China to lay the weapons of war aside, she will presently appear as a new warlike nation, trained by experience in the horrible game and prepared to carry it, as did the Huns, over the Western world.

In the face of all this, shall the idealists again prevail and take the power from the hands of Britain to command peace?

Remember, we all want peace. Remember that unarmed influence has ever failed to preserve peace. Remember that the greatest argument for peace is that the balance of power is, or should be, in the hands of the nation and company of nations utterly opposed to the using of that power to make war.

We remember that ever since the signing of the Armistice there have been forces loose, making for upheaval, revolution, and war. None can doubt that such is the case.

Let us therefore hate war with all our heart and soul. It is that which made Remembrance Day a remembrance of tragedy and of sorrow.

Let us write against war. Let us speak against war. Let us think against war. Let us strive against war. If all other nations will do so, let us banish preparation for war. But in the face of the fact that other nations are preparing for war, and that China is continuously engaged in war, let us be ready to make our command to keep the peace the command of the strong man armed, equipped to maintain the peace in the world.

Let no man say that in thus calling for due preparation we are speaking against the teaching and spirit of Jesus. Jesus must have hated war with a most perfect hatred. But Jesus taught in the Sermon on the Mount that every man of the nation, of military age, and fit to go forth to war, should be enrolled in the ranks of the defensive armies of the nation. Jesus in the Sermon on the Mount adopted every jot and tittle of the law. Now an integral section of the law so adopted was The Book of Numbers. Everyone who has carefully read that handbook of national organization, especially the four first chapters of Numbers, will see that this is the case.

God fill us all with the spirit of peace. God help us to be able to enforce peace, or to beat back the tide of war, if it arises against us, with "a rod of iron." So will the remembrance of the past be our safeguard for the future.

This is not a question of peace or war. We are all for peace. It is a question of armed or unarmed peace. Unarmed peace was broken up in 1914. Unarmed peace will be broken up again. Armed peace may be abiding. And yet! and yet! The idealists will try their experiment again, and the world again will pay in suffering and death for it.

So we mused as we remembered and sorrowed for those who gave their lives. Perhaps they gave their lives to repair the blunders of visionary idealists who refused to face the grim realities of the age.

So we muse as we look forward with such amount of prevision as the Lord of life has given us, illumined as it is with the "more sure word of prophecy." So we hear the steady and infinitely sad Voice of our Lord telling of wars and rumours of wars, nation rising against nation, and kingdom against kingdom, to the end of the age. And as His Voice told the horrible story, and He knew the sad truth of the story, His whole soul shrank from the tragic facts He foretold, and He hated the facts He foretold with all His Spirit.

But He told the facts and warned us of them. And they have not come to the final end yet. And in the telling of the sordid story He makes it clear that there will be no end to wars and rumours of wars until He Himself comes and commands the peace of the earth.

As we read the sacred Scriptures we are compelled to believe, as we have consistently taught for over a quarter of a century, the last phase of war on earth is yet to come, and that when it comes it will be organized by

who is named Rosch, evidently the Russia of to-day. Here is the roster of the combination:—

"And the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

Son of man, set thy face against Gog, the land of Magog, the chief prince of Meshech and Tubal, and prophesy against him,

And say, Thus saith the Lord God; Behold, I am against thee, O Gog, the chief prince of Meshech and Tubal:

And I will turn thee back, and put hooks into thy jaws, and I will bring thee forth, and all thine army, horses and horsemen, all of them clothed with all sorts of armour, even a great company with bucklers and shields, all of them handling swords:

Persia, Ethiopia, and Libya with them; all of them with shield and helmet:

Gomer, and all his bands; the house of Togarmah of the north quarters, and all his bands: and many people with thee.

Be thou prepared, and prepare for thyself, thou, and all thy company that are assembled unto thee, and be thou a guard unto them."—Ezek. xxxviii, 1-7.

This combination shall be opposed by the following:—"Sheba, Dedan, and the merchants of Tarshish, with all the young lions thereof."

Every sign in the international field points to this last great clash of contending nations. Those who wish to read the full story should read carefully the 38th and 39th chapters of Ezekiel, remembering that the aggressive nations are under the leadership of Russia, and the defensive nations under the leadership of Great Britain.

This brings us to the consideration that in this war God Almighty moves against the aggressive combination. His power and His majesty put a period to the conflict, in the meantime overshadowing and protecting His people. When the end of that conflict is reached, He will never again permit the terror and carnage of battle to disturb the peace or desecrate the earth.

In connection with that great deliverance it is solemnly recorded in verse 22 of 39th chapter of Ezekiel: "So the House of Israel shall know that I am Jehovah their God from that day and forward."

Looking back, and remembering the past, we say as a memory; and looking forward in the light of prophecy to the passing of the last phase of the struggle, we say as an anticipation:—

"If it had not been the Lord who was on our side, now may Israel say;

If it had not been the Lord who was on our side, when men rose up against us:

Then they had swallowed us up quick, when their wrath was kindled against us:

Then the waters had overwhelmed us, the stream had gone over our soul:

Then the proud waters had gone over our soul.

Blessed be the Lord, who hath not given us as a prey to their teeth.

Our soul is escaped as a bird out of the snare of the fowlers: the snare is broken, and we are escaped.

Our help is in the name of the Lord, who made heaven and earth."—Psalm cxxiv.

CONGRESS ADDRESSES.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON.

THE REV. T. SPARSHOTT JOHNSON, M.A., said: It is now more than twenty years since I first stood on a platform in London giving out the British-Israel message, and I have had the privilege of speaking at six out of the eleven British-Israel Congresses. But I do not think I ever stood before a British-Israel audience in a more solemn hour of our history, or of the world's history. I come to you to-day, as Dr. Goard said at the beginning, under the conviction that I have a message direct from the heart of God, and I have five minutes in which to deliver that message. I must give you as much of that message as I can in that limited time.

There have been ringing in my ears for some time past these words, as, I believe, from the heart of God, "Son of man, I have made thee for a watchman unto the house of Israel: therefore hear the word at my mouth, and give them warning from me." There were two great notes running right down through the Bible from the beginning to the end, the wooing note, and the warning note. And I love the wooing note. "Unto me who am less than the least of all saints is this grace given, that I might preach among the Gentiles (and in more than one language), the unsearchable riches of Christ." Men think that they are right in confining themselves to the wooing note, and because they think they do not hear that wooing note in the Old Testament, they throw it over, and they come before their congregations, and the people of this country with what they think is a much more reasonable view and picture of God. "God is love," they say, and there they stop.

But there also runs right through the Bible the note of warning to God's people Israel. I am quite sure of this, that this is the note that we have to proclaim to-day as clergy and ministers and believers in the British-Israel Truth. God is speaking to this nation in solemn tones to-day. I saw a picture in the paper yesterday of a flag, and on the flag was "R101." Is it fanciful to take away the cypher, and read number "11"? This is the eleventh Congress gathering of the British-Israel-World Federation. And all my colleagues on the platform will support me in saying that the signs of the times point to the approaching hour of midnight.

Mr. Lloyd George said last Saturday week, "This is the DARKEST HOUR SINCE THE GREAT WAR."

And as you heard to-day, we are entering into, not coming out of, a great world crisis. We were startled last week by a certain statement that was made; and I think we have, to some extent, been unduly worrying our minds about one particular scientist, Professor Julian Huxley, because he says that his scientific studies have led him to believe that we can do without God in religion. Now, my friends, the tragic side of that is this: that he is only in the vanguard of a great host in this country who have started out on the broad road which begins with compromise. "Wide is the gate that leadeth to destruction, and many there be that go in thereat." They are passing through the gate of compromise to the wide and broad road. It is the prevailing snare of the Devil to-day. You get it in all ranks of the Churches: Compromise. That is what this great menace of Modernism means. They begin with compromise, and it is the most insidious snare that we have to meet. Our Lord came on earth, you will remember, and met the Devil in Person, as we believe. And one of the great temptations to Him, in order that He might have the Kingdom then, was that He should compromise. And what was His answer? "Get thee behind Me, Satan." I counsel you, my dear friends and fellow citizens of the Kingdom of God, when compromise is presented to you, and it will be assuredly, let your answer be the answer of the Master's: "Get thee behind Me, Satan." That is the way that Satan is entering into this Zion to-day, this Kingdom of God in this country, under more forms than one.

We have been reminded to-day that God has been for us and for Israel all down through the ages as long as we have been for God. That terrible national tragedy that happened on Sunday; it is one of a series, mind you; it is only one in a long list during the last three months, of our leading people, heroes, some of whom laid down their lives on Sunday, suddenly ushered into eternity, as they then were. Now we do right to sympathize with those who have lost their relatives. I suggest that God is speaking to this nation to-day, and telling us to repent. We are approaching the hour of midnight. Do you remember that midnight many years ago in the history of Israel, when Israel came out of Egypt at midnight? We are going into the midnight, we have got to go through it. But Israel came out of Egypt, how? Under the shelter of the blood. There is a story told of those days that, as the Children of Israel tramped up through the night and the tramping of their feet could be heard as they marched out of Egypt, a boy before the start of the tramp said to his father, "Father, has the blood been sprinkled?" And the father said, "Yes, my son," But the boy was not satisfied, and presently he asked again and again, until the father took him outside to see, and he found that the blood had not been sprinkled. And there was a rushing to and fro for the hyssop, and the blood was sprinkled. And then at midnight there was a cry as the people of Israel started out from the land of Egypt; and the young man said to his father, as they tramped along, "Aren't you glad that the blood was sprinkled?"

I am sure we are going into the darkness of Egypt, and there is only one way out for this nation: it is by way of the blood. Is there no place to-day for the wooing note? Yes, thank God, there is. There are many clergy to-day who say they cannot preach out of the Old Testament. Well, I am going to preach a sermon from the lips of God Himself to His people Israel in the Isles to-day, and this is what He says: "Ho, everyone that thirsteth, come ye to the waters. And he that hath no money, Come ye, buy wine and milk without money and without price. . . . Behold, I have given Him for a witness to the people, a leader and commander to the people. . . . Instead of the thorn shall come up the fir tree, and instead of the brier shall come up the myrtle tree: and it shall be to the Lord for a name, for an everlasting sign that shall not be cut off."

THE REV. G. H. LANCASTER, M.A., said: Mr. Chairman and dear Christian Friends,—I have been asked to give my testimony. I have very often, indeed, given my own personal testimony on the platform here, and one does not want to repeat words that have been said before. But as the Chairman has just alluded to the fact, may I say that I was the last elected President of the old Imperial-British-Israel-Association, and I have for the last twenty-eight years, going back to 1902, taken every occasion to preach and lecture and write on this great and most important Truth, without which, I feel, long since I might have lost my faith, and could not have stuck to the Bible, nor have maintained one's position in face of the great difficulties that surround us, especially in East London, and also in regard to the great international emergencies of the present time. I am most profoundly convinced that those of us who are staunch believers in the great Cause and Truth of British-Israel have got a great vision, and that God has given to us that vision, and with it a great and far-reaching responsibility and also duty. It is one thing to be a Christian: it is quite another thing to be a Christian, plus, may I say, a believer in the Truths of British-Israel.

May I quote the words of our Lord, and say, "I am not yet fifty years old," and I remember being taken by my mother to hear Mr. Moody preach, and I can give my own testimony, therefore, to the great and wonderful work that Mr. Moody did in preaching the Gospel of love. I was also one of the superintendent workers in the Albert Hall, when Dr. Torrey and Mr. Charles Alexander held their great mission in London. But even the work of Moody and Torrey, great as it was, fell short because they did not proclaim the full Gospel of the Kingdom, nor did they see the great truth that we are God's Israel, that we are the people called after God's own Name, elected and chosen by Him that we might be the great missionary nation proclaiming the message of the Gospel of the Kingdom to the whole wide world. In one of my books I point out that the word "evangelize," which means to preach the Gospel, practically is the same Greek word as to "anglosize," that it has the same root. The work of the Church is to anglosize the whole wide world. We have to take our Union Jack and the Stars and Stripes, and those two woven into one confirm the truths of the Bible from Genesis to Revelation. And we have to proclaim the message of the Kingdom of God and the Kingdom of Israel to all parts of the world.

A few days ago, through the kindness of a friend, I stood in Rome. One of the greatest privileges of my life was to stand on the actual spot where once was the house in which St. Paul consecrated Linus as the first Bishop of Rome. (There was never any suggestion that St. Peter ever went to Rome, or was the first Bishop there.) Also under the same roof St. Paul consecrated Anacletus as the first Bishop of Britain. Linus was the first Bishop of the early Church of Rome a hundred years before the foundation of the Papacy.

HE WAS THE FIRST ANGLO-ISRAELITE

who became the first Bishop of that most wonderful Church to which St. Paul went later on, and to which he wrote the most wonderful of all his Epistles.

I also went to the Vatican, but not to see the Pope! I was asked if I would like to have an audience, and I said "No!" I went there because being fond of art I wanted to see the famous art treasures there. And while in the Vatican I could not help breathing a prayer to God that our British-Israel-World Federation might influence the powers that be to get the British Plenipotentiary to the Vatican withdrawn, because I do believe with all my heart and soul that if we cut absolutely all traces with the Roman Church, God will bless us. Whenever we have a great naval disaster or a great airship disaster or some great national disaster, it is always God pointing His finger to our contact with Rome.

I could say a good deal more, but I am exceeding the few moments which are very generously given to me this afternoon. But I will give my closing testimony, and this testimony must be one that I want to reach the heart of everyone here this afternoon. It is this. My friends, don't leave it all to us, we your speakers and writers and organizers. Much depends upon you. You have got as much work, and possibly more than we have got to do. You make us work, and we will make you work, and we must all work together, and pull together. Each one of us must have his own and her particular work to do, as St. Paul says in the fourth chapter of the Epistle to the Ephesians. In a modern sense we can apply those words to-day to the work of God's Spirit in the Kingdom of Israel. "But unto every one of us is given grace according to the measure of the gift of Christ. . . . And he gave some, apostles, and some, prophets: and some, evangelists: and some, pastors and teachers: for the perfecting of the saints, for the work of the ministry, for the edifying of the Body of Christ." Now, under which category do you come? Don't leave it to other people. God has His special place for you in the Kingdom of Israel. Go on your knees in the darkness and silence of your own room, and ask for your vision, and God will give you your vision, and it will be now as it was in the days of King Uzziah.

"In the year that King Uzziah died I saw also the Lord sitting upon a throne, high and lifted up, and his train filled the temple. Above it stood the seraphims: each one had six wings: with twain he covered his face, and with twain he covered his feet, and with twain he did fly. And one cried unto another, and said, Holy, holy, holy, is the Lord of hosts: the whole earth is full of His glory. And the posts of the door moved at the voice of him that cried, and the house was filled with smoke. Then said I, Woe is me! for I am undone: because I am a man of unclean lips, and I dwell in the midst of a people of unclean lips: for mine eyes have seen the King, the Lord of hosts. Then flew one of the seraphims unto me, having a live coal in his hand, which he had taken with the tongs from off the altar: and he laid it upon my mouth, and said, Lo, this hath touched thy lips, and thine iniquity is taken away, and thy sin purged. Also I heard the voice of the Lord, saying, Whom shall I send, and who will go for us? Then said I, Here am I: send me."

THE REV. J. J. MCNAIR said: I do not think it would be just to you that I should keep you more than one or two minutes on account of the lateness of the hour. But when I am called upon to testify, I feel I must obey those that are in command, my superiors. And I think I could not do better, after all the wonderful things we have heard this afternoon, than to remind you, as I would remind myself, that we are witnesses. The speakers have spoken about service, they have spoken about the importance of doing our duty in the service of our God. Is not that one of the important things that our Saviour told us to recognize and to carry out when He said, "Ye shall be My witnesses both in Jerusalem and in Judea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost parts of the earth"?

We testify this afternoon and witness to the fact that God is faithful and a covenant-keeping God, but that His promises are made only to those who comply with the conditions attached thereto. And if we carry out His promises, we must recognize the fact that we have a position to fill, and we have a duty to perform, and we are to be witnesses for Him in our everyday life, wherever we are, whatever our work is; I always like to think that when the Saviour spoke these words He had in His mind, not only His immediate followers at that particular period of the world's history, but that He had in His mind you and me. "Ye shall be My witnesses." And it is when we realize the importance of our task, and we are prepared, whenever the opportunity presents itself in our everyday life amongst those with whom we come into contact day by day, to tell out this wondrous story, that then we shall see the increase of the blessing that we all hope for and pray for, and that we know shall be vouchsafed to us.

Last Sunday week I sat in my stall in my Church, and I heard one of those who perished in the catastrophe last Sunday morning read the lesson from Deuteronomy. "If ye shall hearken unto My words," then such and such things shall happen unto you. And that is just the point that I want to emphasize, and that I would insist upon with all my power, that we are under an obligation to walk worthy of the vocation wherewith we are called. "Ye are My witnesses," saith the Lord. Are we witnessing for Him, even though others may sneer and shrug their shoulders, or look upon us as fanatics, or something worse? We have to be faithful and to testify and to witness. "Wherefore He is able to save them to the uttermost that come unto God by Him, seeing He ever liveth to make intercession for them."

TUESDAY EVENING.

MR. JOHN LEECH: On one occasion Bradlaugh, the great atheist, was giving a lecture in Blackburn, and he took for his subject the Gadarene swine, and he said that the hill on which the swine were was six miles distant from the lake in which the swine, we read, were drowned. And he made great merriment out of this, and he said that that showed the absurdity of the whole thing. It was impossible for the swine to have run six miles. I do not know whether he was right about the six miles, or not. At the close of the lecture questions were invited, and one farmer got up and said, "Mr. Chairman, I want to ask the lecturer one question. I had a pig, and he was a wild one: he was thin in his body, and had long legs, and I never could keep him in. He would break through anything, and we never knew where he was. The neighbours knew his character right well. On one occasion a neighbour came to me, and said, 'Do you know where your pig is now?' 'No,' I said, 'Well,' he replied, 'he is on the way to Preston.' Now Preston was nine miles distant. I went out and I ran after my pig; and when I got close to him he scampered off, and I could not overtake him. And it was not until I got to Preston that I landed my pig, and that was nine miles from where we started. Mr Chairman, the question I want to ask the lecturer is this: If a pig would run nine miles with honest Tom Brown behind him, how far would he run if he were driven by the Devil?" Bradlaugh never gave another lecture in Blackburn!

This Book of ours, the Bible, has a wonderful history. No Book has ever had the enemies that this Book has had, because not only man, but hell is against it, and all the powers of the Devil; and yet they have never been able to put it down: it has always conquered and always will. It is a wonderful Book. In those days the enemies of the Bible were the open atheists, like Bradlaugh. To-day there are more dangerous enemies than Bradlaugh, the religious enemies, those who say that the Book is good, but who, on the other hand, tell you that it is filled with inaccuracies, and that you cannot depend upon it. And yet, in spite of all the attacks that have been made, and will be made upon this Book, our feet, our British-Israel feet, are more firmly planted upon the rock of the Word of God than ever they have been before. What we want to day is miners: we have too many manufacturers. There are people to-day, and they are manufacturing theories and doctrines all around us. But we want miners who will dig deep down into this wonderful mine, with its riches of truth. The man who passes along the field or the road knows nothing of the mine of wealth that is underneath his feet. All that he sees is the clay above; and he thinks nothing of it: he sees no beauty in it. It is the one who digs down into that gold mine, or that silver mine, or that diamond mine, or even that coal mine, who realizes the riches that are there. The other only passes it over, and knows nothing of it: he is not a miner, and does not dig down into the depths. We want people who will dig right down into the Book, into that wonderful mine. And oh, the wealth and the riches that are there waiting for us to claim, to take them up, to reveal them, to make them known. And we have at our disposal the great key, the great instrument, the spade for opening up the ground, for bringing the wealth of that mine up to the surface, and making it known to others. Yes, it has been hidden for many, many years, and for many centuries. But we thank and praise God that in our day He has opened up the wonderful truth concerning the fulfilment of the promises and prophecies and the purposes of Jehovah our God. Let us, then, dig down into this mine. Let us get hold of these wonderful riches that are down below and hidden, let us remove all the obstacles, and let us dive down and dig, and let us lay hold of the wonderful riches that are to be found in this Book, and that are at our disposal.

BY THE REV. ARTHUR PRITCHARD, M.A., Vicar of Rowington.

Two years ago, at our Annual Congress here, I delved rather deeply into the book of Hosea, demonstrating very clearly (I was afterwards assured) that it is a British-Israel book from beginning to end. To-night I invite you to take a common-sense B.-I. aspect of the book of Isaiah. Both the great prophet and his great book are a problem to Commentators. Some think that the prophet was of high birth, and others that he was of humble birth, but possessing talents and energy, hence his great influence and the high place he held throughout his public life under five successive monarchs of the kingdom of Judæa. The last of these kings was Manasseh (born, strange to relate, after the miraculous prolongation of Hezekiah, his father's life), and Manasseh it was, if tradition be correct, who caused the prophet to be cruelly "sawn asunder," a reference to which seems to be in Heb. xi (the Memorial Chapter), which is sometimes called "The Westminster Abbey of the Bible."

The book of Isaiah is conveniently divided for us into sixty-six chapters; and the latest Commentary ("A New Commentary," as it is termed) tells us that the book is not a unity, but that it comes from various writers, and from very different periods of the history of the Jewish people. Some Commentators write of two Isaiahs, and others of three or more; and all these conceptions or misconceptions arise because the Theologians, as a rule, neither distinguish the House of Israel from the House of Judah, nor the House of David from the House of Judah; and also because they fail to understand that the Ten Tribes of Israel, providentially removed from Palestine, were, in the unfailing purpose of Almighty God, yet to have a glorious future, becoming His racial and national, political and religious servants in the earth, that the whole world, through their agency, might be brought into the Christian Covenant, and become a loyal part of the Kingdom of God. When a reader of the Bible once clearly recognizes the difference between a Jew and an Israelite, a Jew, that is one of the tribe of Judah, which tribe along with the tribe of Benjamin formed the Kingdom of Judæa, in South Palestine; and an Israelite, that is one of the other tribes of Israel, popularly called the Ten Tribes, who formed the Kingdom of Israel, in North Palestine; and has recognized also that there are two sets of prophecies, one referring to the Jews of Judæa, and the other referring to the Israelites of Galilee, Media, Saxony, Britain, or wherever else they may have wandered; then the Bible becomes more understandable, and a strong light is cast over its history and prophecies, showing plainly how Divinely ordered and assembled they all are, explaining one another, and complementing one another.

"Isaiah—An Outline Study."

The best little guide I know to the book of Isaiah is Dr. Pascoe Goard's shilling booklet entitled "Isaiah—An Outline Study," and I commend it that it may help some of you as it has enlightened me. As you will see, "It floods the course of History with light, and History makes its message plain."

Incidentally, Dr. Pascoe Goard takes the same view of the prophetic book as the Speaker's Commentary does, that it is the work of one individual, even the supposed interpolation of the four historical chapters (xxxvi-xxxix) being quoted maybe from Isaiah's own historical records, which Mr. Ferrar Fenton entitles "The History of Israel," included in which history are the historical books we call Judges, 1 and 2 Samuel, and 1 and 2 Kings, the justification of his conclusion being shown in the Revised Version of 2 Chron. xxxii, 32, which gives the preposition "in" without adding the conjunction "and." Mark well the difference and therefore the significance of the two versions. King James's Version reads: "Now the rest of the acts of Hezekiah, and his goodness, behold they are written in the vision of Isaiah the prophet, the son of Amos, and in the book of the kings of Judah and Israel." But the conjunction "and" is an insertion in italics, and is therefore omitted in the Revised Version, which reads: "They are written in the vision of Isaiah, the prophet, the son of Amos, in the book of the kings of Judah and Israel."

Comparing this with 2 Chron. xxvi, 22, where we are told that "The acts of Uzziah, first and last, did Isaiah, the son of Amos write" (thus showing that he was an historian as well as a prophet), we have the explanation, as Mr. Fenton suggests, of the masterly and philosophic style in the six historical books from Judges to 2 Kings, as compared with the later written records of the family of David, called "The Chronicles."

But even supposing that Isaiah was no historian, and that therefore the historical chapters were not written by him, being an interpolation just before a later, so-called Isaiah begins his "Comfort ye, comfort ye," message to the people of God, there is yet the difficulty to be got over by those who believe that there were two Isaiahs, of explaining why the first Isaiah, e.g., in chapter xxiv, should, in prevision and preaudition, like the presumed second Isaiah, later, write in a similar strain in regard to the "Glorias" to be rendered in the isles of the "West," which the term isles of the "Sea" really signified to the dwellers on the Eastern Mediterranean shore.

Isaiah's National Messages.

I want you now to note how simply the book of Isaiah can be sectioned.

In Chapters i-vi, Isaiah's message is to Judah and its capital Jerusalem; in chapters vii-xii to the House of David;

Chapters xiii-xxxv, to the Nations, ending with an assurance of future mercy to Israel;

Chapters xxxvi-xxxix record matter-of-fact history, maybe Isaiah's own chronicling;

Chapters xl-xliv give the message to Israel in the Isles, the term Israel in Isaiah almost always referring to the Ten-Tribed people, and never to the Jews alone.

Chapters xlv-xlviii contain a message of assurance of mercy for the Judah Captivity in Babylon;

Chapters xlix and onwards indicate Israel's pilgrimage, expansion and home-returning. Such, it seems to me, is the reasonable analysis of the great Book that the ordinary reader of it should have in mind when, following its human writer, he is overleaping centuries as a little thing.

But there is a still simpler analysis, which may be more than a coincidence. If the contents, number and order of the books of the Bible have been handed down to us by what Canon Liddon termed "The inspiration of selection," then the fact that exegetes of all schools of thought recognize two main sections of Isaiah, namely i to xxxix, and xl to lxvi (corresponding to the 39 books of the Old, and the 27 books of the New Testament or Covenant), is of profound significance.

"Listen, O Isles."

Now, let us concentrate our attention on the last section of the Evangelical Prophet's inspired communications, beginning at chapter xlix with "Listen, O Isles." But, says the hypercritic at once, "The Hebrew word for island, spelt Ai and translated Nēsos (long e) in the Greek, and isle or island in the English version, might equally be translated coastland." Well, as a matter of fact, it is not so translated in the 37 places where the singular or plural noun occurs. And one effective reason for this is, that whereas there are nine other words appearing about ninety times in the Hebrew Bible with the specific meaning of coastland, Ai is the only word for land surrounded by water, nēsos, its Greek equivalent, literally signifying "floating land," which it and its English equivalent, isle or island, might, to an onlooker, seem to be.

Obviously therefore Ai, nēsos and island must be considered synonymous in the passages where they translate each other. And so the rendering "Listen, O coastlands" (displeasing sound!) must be ruled out, as the context, commonsense, and even our offended ears demand. "Listen, O Isles." But what Isles?

Isaiah, let us remind ourselves, was writing in Palestine, and all the islands he would know of were in the Mediterranean and beyond it to the North-West. Quite three hundred years, however, before the Prophet's time, tin was obtained from S.W. Britain for Solomon's Temple; and probably, at the time of writing, Israel's sea-faring tribes had a colony of Brits or Brythons permanently in residence and possession ; and either educationally or prophetically, Isaiah must have known these facts.

I asked my country day-school children, in the Midlands, the other day, how many British Isles there were, and the answer quickly came: "Two, Great Britain and Ireland." Afterward, they were drawn out to tell me of the Isles of Man, Wight, Anglesey, and so forth ; but when I informed them that there were over 5,000 islands making up the British Isles —as many islands as the naked eye can see stars in the sky— they were amazed. True, only 180 of the islands have inhabitants all the year round ; but even that is probably a surprising fact to most of you. "Keep silence before Me, O Islands," writes Isaiah in chapter xli. And these islands are variously shown by other Prophets as well as Isaiah, to be in the west, and that the far west, at some particular END or uttermost PART of the earth, as then known. These islands, it must be noted, are brought into association, in the same passage of Scripture, with a certain "Wilderness," some safe and remote sanctuary, where the historically lost and wandering Israelites should be racially and nationally regathered, protected and developed ; and furthermore, the particular Wilderness is brought into association with a certain, appointed, prepared and safe Place, that is a region predetermined of God for the ultimate, unmolested habitat of His chosen-for-service people which, by the by, we nationally claim to be every time we say or sing : "Make Thy chosen people joyful." This chain of evidence is remarkably well wrought for all enquirers by Dr. Thomas, in his book, "The Restoration of Israel" (recently published at 1s. 6d.), wherein the "Place," "prepared" and "appointed," the "Wilderness, and the Isles of the sea or west," are shown to be absolutely identical. And so, if the appointed Place of protection from invasion, Divinely promised in 2 Sam. vii, 10 ; if the once solitary Wilderness now blossoming as the rose ; and if the Isles to visit which, Cæsar's rebelling veterans protested was like "going out of the world," where Jehovah's praise is now being daily declared from the rising of the sun unto the going down of the same, be not recognized here under your very noses, then let the truth be broadcasted that you have been ANTICIPATED in Isaiah xlii and xliii, and even nationally and officially marked, as the application of which is, that British Isles*men* are mentioned in the Bible as well as British Isles ; and that the inhabitants generally, being purblind as to their origin and destiny, and culpably deaf to Moses and the Prophets, do not really know where they are, who they are, what they are, and why they are, being, sad to relate, even more lost to themselves in Britain than their forbears—the deported Ten-Tribes—were—"lost" in Assyria (Isa. xxvii, 13, margin).

Hence the necessity of B.-I.-W.F. meetings for enlightenment on a large scale such as we are now holding.

Here let me glean some enlightenment for the enquirer from a valuable out-of-print book, "England the remnant of Judah and the Israel of Ephraim." Mr. Glover, the author, who was English Chaplain at Cologne, asked the Rabbi there to write the word England in Hebrew. Now, the Hebrew is written from right to left, and Mr. Glover expected that the Rabbi would write England backward beginning with D in Hebrew and ending with E ; but instead he wrote from right to left MIH—IIA, pronounced Yaii-Yaiim, the very Hebrew phrase used by Isaiah we translate as "Isles of the sea." When remonstrated with, the Rabbi replied : "When we speak of the United Kingdom we say Yaii-Yaiim as if spelt AII-H'IM. No educated Jew would write his meaning in any other form."

"Thus by the testimony of Judah the Israel Redivivus of Isaiah is here," actually here in England's green and pleasant land. So, writes Milner in another out-of print book, entitled, "Verse by Verse," than which there is no better guide to B.-I. teaching, especially to ministers of religion.

THE BRITISH ISLES.

So we may surely take the expression "Listen, O isles" as a message to the British Isles ; for proofs galore can be given to show that the Israelites, being grandsons of Isaac, ultimately known as Saac's sons, and finally Saxons, were providentially drawn here for discipline, training, growth, expansion ; and, above all, for ultimate service to all the other nations ; and that is the raison d'être of the International Conferences and Congresses that are being held in London from time to time. A difficulty that has to be got over (and it is rather a big one) is to discover by and to whom the message is really addressed for, sometimes, in Bible interpretation, we have to compare one verse with another, one chapter with another, and one book with another, to get at the exact meaning.

Look for an illustration of this through Chapter xlii. The message is : "Behold my servant," and verse after verse would fit the Messiah especially as "a covenant of the people" and a "light of the Gentiles" ; but, in verse 18, this particular servant is said to be blind and deaf to God's presence and commands ; so we conclude that a Racial or National servant is meant ; and that is corroborated in Chapter xlix, 3 (for Chapters xlii and xlix must always be studied together) where we read : "Thou art my servant, O Israel, in whom I will be glorified." Thus we must distinguish between the Messiah—the Personal servant of Jehovah, and the Hebrews—the Racial servant of Jehovah, and Israel as the National servant of Jehovah. Sometimes they are so closely related, like a head to a body, a bridegroom to a bride, a State to its State Church, that a whole passage may not only be for Israel herself but also for the Messiah in Israel, or even as Israel.

ISAIAH CHAPTERS INTERPRETED.

Now for a running commentary beginning with Chapter xlix. Listen, O British-Israel Colony in the Isles, and listen, ye exile-Israelites in Media or wherever your wanderings take you, listen unto Me just as you listen to your better self. Your ideal Israel, the perfected Commonwealth, you are Divinely purposed ultimately to become, is, as it were, joined on to Me, and I speak to you in My own Name and in ideal Israel's name, too, in order to draw you on and up towards the high destiny and work that lie before you in the centuries to come. Sanctified from the womb (whether of Sarah or the B.V.M.) or both, and kept hidden but slowly and surely made serviceable in raising up the two sections of the Hebrew people, thou, at length, shalt be a light to lighten the Gentiles, and be My salvation to the ends of the earth.

Further (verse 8), I will give thee to "BRITHAM" (the Covenant people) to establish the land and to populate the Colonies and Dominions, giving liberty and freedom all over the Empire, establishing such industries and political schemes as will prevent unnecessary privations and make the citizens happy and contented, whether from the far East or from the West, or from the North or from the land of Sinim (or "bushes") for which Jerome's translation in the Vulgate significantly is "TERRA AUSTRALI," or land of the South. As Milner remarks: "The various quarters in which the Empire of Britain is found are here described, and of one of them the very name is given."

Verse 13:—"Sing O heavens; and be joyful O earth; and break forth into singing O mountains: for the Lord hath comforted His people and will have compassion upon His afflicted." Hitherto, the Messiah has been speaking for Himself and the ideal Zion; now, Zion complains she has been forsaken and forgotten.

But Jehovah graciously vindicates Himself and declares a future growth and expansion and prosperity. The American Colony some day should be lost to the Motherland, but the population should so advance that other parts of the earth should be colonized and yet not be lost to the Motherland; and the time would come when the House of David would, as it were, be the ensign around which the bulk of the nations would gloriously rally; but as for the rest, their lot would be inglorious.

Chapter l shows the Israel bride's divorced condition, from which the Messiah would rescue and redeem her.

In Chapter li she is pointed back to her origin from the father and mother of the faithful—Abraham and Sarah—and God's people in the Isles—blind to their origin—should long for and expect the new law in the Gospel Dispensation.

Then Jehovah is exhorted to awake and put on strength, and after a gracious reply, Zion (in Chapter lii) is in her turn called upon to awake and put on strength, and as God always gives strength when He commands it, the invigorated Zion can now carry the message or the "report" which she believed; and little wonder that the prophet rejoices thereat.

Chapter liii, which begins with "Who hath believed our report," is the record of the report which Israel believed and was to propagate—a chapter never read publicly or privately by the Jews, not being acceptable to them. So, Mr. Bergmann, a converted Jew and a B.-I., has informed us. In this chapter we are at the Holy of Holies of the New Testament, and we see the wounded figure of God's super Man Who bore our griefs and carried our sorrows; and this manifestation of the uplifted Christ is to be Israel's message for herself and for all the nations.

In Chapter liv we see what our Lord's Coming would do for Israel, the divorced wife of her Heavenly Spouse, being redeemed and restored to favour again. Instead of barrenness a multitude or company of nations would spring from her, with a Divine wall of protection around them, against which no enemy's weapon would successfully contend.

Incidentally, is it necessary to point out to people of intelligence that this prophesied company of nations is not only actually existent but actively in evidence, as shown by the presence of its chief political heads now at the Empire's heart, independent equals, but owning a common allegiance to the most honoured man on earth, Our Gracious King of David's line.

And surely the fact, the astounding fact, the impressive fact that—

The whole continent of Australia,
The largest country of America,
The Empire "Jewel" of Asia,
The biggest slice of Africa, and these "Stone Kingdom" chippings from the mountains of Europe, known as the British Isles

(which were once so insignificant to a Czar of all the Russians that he failed to find them on the map of the world because, at the moment, he happened to have his thumb on them, and are, it is said, so insignificant to Manasseh of the United States that when he comes over to visit his brother Ephraim of the United Kingdom he is afraid of going out at night to post a letter lest he should fall into the sea and get drowned)—the fact, I affirm, the absolutely convincing fact that the Isles and all these far-flung Dominions inseparably connected with them should have been for so long a period saved and freed from successful attack in this confessedly naughty world of ours, can only be due to the God of Israel's promise being continually and faithfully kept and His plan being continually "kept to." (2 Sam vii, 10; Deut. xxxii, 8 and 9.) Now let me get back to my exegesis of the closing chapters of Isaiah, and be as brief as I can.

Dr. Pascoe Goard sees in Chapter lv the rallying call of the people to march out from under bondage, the Commander being the great Redeemer. Exhortations to righteousness of life—national and personal—and to the proper treatment of Gentile converts are given in the next four chapters. Then we arrive at Chapter lx, which is filled with promise and blessing for literal Israel and not any Church substituted for it. John Wilson, in his "Israelitish Origin," writes that "Arise, shine, for thy light is come" is a lively call to us Britons "to stand boldly forward, and occupy our proper position, our destiny, our duty, and our privilege." Chapter lxi is another instance of the Messiah speaking for Himself, then letting His Israel do her part.

The Messiah speaks again in Chapter lxii, which is followed, in the succeeding two chapters, by a dialogue between the prophet and the conquering Messiah; then next a Psalm of Thanksgiving at Edom's desolation and then a prayer for Divine aid and restoration which is carried through Chapter lxiv. Chapter lxv shows Israel in exile seeking after God and closes by giving a description of Millennial blessedness. In the 66th and last chapter the old sacrifices and ordinances to be resumed are discountenanced, and the Lord's Coming shall be Israel's glory and His and her enemies' final discomfiture.

CLOSING REMARKS.

Now, in this hurried survey of B.-I. teaching in the latter part of Isaiah, I have endeavoured, not I trust without success, to show, amongst other good things, that the Prophet's book, despite what Higher Critics contend, is a unity in itself; but even should it ever be effectually demonstrated that it is the work of more than one writer, we can still believe, can't we? that it is by "The Inspiration of Selection" that its 66 chapters, and also the 66 books of the Bible, have been assembled and handed down to us.

And, after all, what matters it who the individual writers and redactors of the parts of the Bible are, so long as we believe and assure ourselves that the one Author, behind the original manuscripts, is the Holy Spirit Himself—the active Agent of Unity in the Godhead, in the Christian Church, in the world of Nature, and in our precious Book of Truth.

WEEK BY WEEK.

By A. R. H.

NOVEMBER 11TH, 1930. For the eleventh time, the people of ISRAEL-BRITAIN have gathered at the CENOTAPH at the eleventh hour of the eleventh day of the eleventh month, for a service of thanksgiving in memory of those who made the supreme sacrifice during the first phase of the GREAT TRIBULATION.

In every city, town and village throughout the BRITISH ISLES

—THE ISLES OF THE SEA—

the nation's central act of homage was imitated. For the scattered services in every part of the KINGDOM, and throughout the whole EMPIRE, find a common centre in the official service at WHITEHALL, since it is here that H.M. the KING and his sons, together with heads of STATE, officially lead the NATION and EMPIRE in keeping silence before GOD.

It is as if the NATION consciously obeyed the command of the LORD, given through the lips of the prophet Isaiah, and addressed to ISRAEL in the ISLES:—"Keep Silence before ME, O ISLANDS; and let the PEOPLE renew their strength."*

Certainly, in this annual moment of national stillness, the PEOPLE of the BRITISH ISLANDS renew their strength. For the SILENCE is not a negative silence but a positive silence. In the stillness of the GREAT SILENCE the PEOPLE draw near unto GOD and GOD draws nigh unto them. In the SILENCE we feel the active, living, presence of CHRIST, the SILENT ONE.

"It is so unchanging, and yet so eternally new," writes the Evening News, describing the nation's solemn act of remembrance. "Unchanging in its setting and in its gorgeous ritual: how often have we seen that casting its long shadow on the ground, and the hushed multitude which fills the wide street with a frozen tide of humanity, and the King's bowed head; how often we have heard the strange silence falling on the air, and the sudden crying of bugles! And yet, like the unchanging flowers of spring, it blossoms anew each year, with its blossoms of memory.

"There, glowing in the sunshine with a cold radiance is the CENOTAPH. A white Pillar, utterly bare and simple, springing upward like a tall flame, like a pillar of light."

Another writer speaks of the CENOTAPH as "an EMPTY TOMB that is the altar of full hearts," and continues: "Led by our beloved KING-EMPEROR, we do penance by assembling our power before an EMPTY TOMB, thereby recognizing that ideals are bigger than deeds, and that glorious death is more sublime than victory."

Thus the Daily Mail echoes the sentiment of the Morning Post, which writes: "With every passing year, its dignity seems more subduing, its significance more profound, as of

in which all creeds and classes and parties find themselves 'bound to each other by natural piety.'

"The setting of this SERVICE is spacious and noble; the shrine of worship is the hallowed emblem of a nation's agonies† and exultations. Among the celebrants are the highest in the land. Yet the sanctification is not in these august incidentals but in the spirit which broods over the scene . . . . . Pride and humility, remembrance and thankfulness—all are blended in the complex emotion which makes ARMISTICE DAY SERVICE at the CENOTAPH a living and enduring COMMUNION, the expression of a nation's heart and mind, wherein are 'drowned the little hatreds of mankind.'

"The intermission of such an experience would be, not a triumph for peace but a capitulation, a falling from grace, a confession that we could no longer rise to heights of so great an argument, nor, for this one hour of this one day in the year, put off mortality and put on immortality.

"And with what ordered and fitting progress this wonderful ceremonial attains its appointed climax. At the focal point—the CENOTAPH, in austere simplicity symbolizing more than any ornament could express—the votive multitude begins to gather, passing and repassing—a multitude without form and void . . . . . And then, as in Creation, the formlessness takes shape and establishes its boundaries, becoming the living and serried frame of round which, as a guard of honour, the living comrades of 'the glorious dead' rank themselves in due and disciplined array.

"At last the solemn scene is set, warmed and illumined by sunshine that falls like a benediction, and shines through the November mists that still gather at the horizon, like an emblem of LOVE and FAITH that in this ceremonial prevail over the shadow of death. May we not take it as an omen—that on ARMISTICE DAY the weather is persistently kind?"

Companies and detachments of troops have formed a larger hollow square—a border of colour—around the white CENOTAPH.

"As the hour of eleven approaches, the hush of expectation deepens on the scene. The procession of clergy, headed by the choir, in the resplendent (scarlet and gold) uniforms of the CHAPEL ROYAL or the white surplices of the ABBEY, file slowly into view with the BISHOP of LONDON—his episcopal Staff borne before—following in the train."

Next emerge the MINISTERS of STATE. The PRIME MINISTER, the LEADERS of the OPPOSITION PARTIES and members of the CABINET. This year the presence of the DOMINION PREMIERS and the RULING PRINCES of INDIA make the ceremony a truly united tribute of EMPIRE. The turbans of the INDIAN PRINCES glow in the sunshine, purple, blue and gold. They stand there a little to the rear of the KING as representatives of some seventy million of people who call him EMPEROR. Truly the might and majesty of EMPIRE are well represented here to-day.

"Before the CENOTAPH the KING stands alone, the

FATHER OF HIS PEOPLE.

In that one lonely figure was symbolized the SOUL of a NATION," says the Daily Mail, blind to the significance of its testimony.

Five minutes yet remain before the stroke of eleven. In this interval wreaths of remembrance are laid before the CENOTAPH. First the KING, carrying his wreath in his own hand, deposits it; stands for a moment at the Salute. Then PRINCE DAVID of WALES and the DUKE of YORK follow in their turn. After them representatives of the ROYAL NAVY, the ARMY and ROYAL AIR FORCE.

"As the last of these tributes is paid, the shattering challenge of a gun announces that the crowning moment has come. Big Ben, unhasting, booms the hour; and as the last stroke of the hammer falls, so falls the Silence!—'sudden from Heaven like a weeping cloud.' It wraps and enfolds and subjugates the scene as by a spell.

"And personifying that act of instinctive national piety, stands apart, lonely, the figure of the KING'S MAJESTY, clad in the field-dress of a Field-Marshal, with head bent and shoulders slightly stooping, as if in token of the sacrifices and sufferings from which he and his PEOPLE had found such dear deliverance.

"No eloquence could wring the heart like this two-minutes' SILENCE, in which our noisy years seem suddenly to dissolve into INFINITY. What it says to the mind and heart is more than can be made articulate.

"Another reverberating gun breaks the spell as suddenly as it fell; the echo of distant maroons repeats the signal; and then the bugles sound the haunting farewell of the 'Last Post,' with that wistful finale on a rising note, like a forlorn call to those who neither hear nor answer any more."

Now, mourning turns into praise and thankfulness, as expressed in the glorious hymn: "O GOD, our help in ages past." The words of the second verse are particularly significant:

"Under the shadow of THY THRONE
Thy SAINTS have dwelt secure;
Sufficient is Thine Arm alone,
And our defence is sure."

All eyes turn to the KING and PRINCE DAVID of WALES, earthly representatives of the ISRAEL THRONE. . . . It is noticed that both HIS MAJESTY and HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS are singing every word of the hymn. The tide of melody flows through WHITEHALL as a hundred thousand people lift up their voices. . . . At last the hymn draws to its close in a powerful affirmation of national trust and reliance upon GOD for days to come.

Now come the words of the beautiful collect: "Grant, we beseech Thee, O Almighty God, that all who here do honour to the memory of our brethren's sacrifice may so be filled with the spirit of their love and fortitude that, forgetting all selfish and unworthy aims, they may live only to the glory of God and to the service of their fellow-men.—Amen."

The LORD'S PRAYER follows and is taken up in solemn tones by thousands. . . . "Thy KINGDOM come . . . on earth as it is in heaven." The ISRAEL PEOPLE beseech GOD to complete the climax to the long process of Kingdom-development.

The Reveille sounds its message of hope. . . . And the BISHOP of LONDON gives the ISRAEL blessing:

"The LORD bless thee and keep thee:
The LORD make His face to shine upon thee,
And be gracious unto thee:
The LORD lift up His countenance upon thee,
And give thee peace."

And now the exquisite harmonies of the NATIONAL ANTHEM are heard. Very slowly, very reverently the words are sung. Every word is eloquent with prayer and praise.

The ceremonial is over. The KING and his sons salute the white symbol of a million men, and walking toward the Home Office pass from the scene.

As it has been truly said, "Only by courage and iron resolution will the reign of justice be established on earth." It is because ARMISTICE DAY reminds us of this fact that we wish to preserve it as a kind of annual DAY of ATONEMENT, or as the Times has it, "an annual self-dedication of individual, of NATION, and of EMPIRE to the service of the future."

The BISHOP of RIPON is right when he describes it as of the post-war world, and again as being "in essence a religious anniversary of a characteristically British kind."

"To abolish ARMISTICE DAY," he continues, "would be to choke one of the most living springs of hope, not only for our own NATION, but for the peace and progress of MANKIND. It is not insular self-importance that credits us still with a world mission, nor merely a religious bias that connects this mission with our almost unique religious inheritance. An Austrian writer has said, in the very strains of Kipling's 'Recessional':—'One thing is certain. The British Empire will last just as long as its spiritual basis remains a living and effective force, and no longer. But the end of it will also be the end of the world-wide rule of the white man.'"

Thus the significance of ARMISTICE DAY only becomes intelligible in the light of Britain's destiny and identity with ISRAEL. And if we are ISRAEL, surely CHRIST, the KING of ISRAEL, must be very present with us in the time set apart each year for national silence, national prayer and national consecration.

What other influence could effect so mighty a commemoration? For in every continent and archipelago throughout the world where flies the British Flag—there heads are bared. . . . The hush of WHITEHALL is echoed in the stillness of which falls upon the great cities of OVERSEAS DOMINIONS. The Silence is kept at sea; in great ships and in small; in warships and in fishing vessels. The Silence is kept by aircraft in the air. . . .

An EMPIRE is at prayer. For as the sun in its course through the heavens brings the hour of eleven to each of the BRITISH COMMUNITIES in their turn, the hush of silence falls like the dew from heaven upon the awaiting people. The GREAT SILENCE belts the globe and girdles the earth. The whole EMPIRE unites, for two minutes, in remembrance of those who died, and dying, died that we might live.

Who can measure its influence, its power, its true significance? Who can estimate the spiritual changes which take place in the heart and mind of the nation during that brief moment when movement is hushed and the people stand in quiet contemplation?

What an opportunity for the HOLY SPIRIT to effect its regenerative influence. At such moments the silent unseen process of writing the Divine Law‡ upon the hearts and minds of the PEOPLE proceeds apace. It is from such a stillness that is brought to birth. It is from such times of national spiritual-communion with GOD that the foundations of the new and better covenant[1] are well and truly laid.

It is from the successive influence of such moments that the glad consummation to this laboured process of development is hastened; the happy culmination, when, as it is written,[2] will be born of GOD in one day.

THE WHOLE NATION

This then is the supreme significance of the GREAT S I LENE and of the ELEVENTH HOUR. For two minutes—throughout the whole WORLD, the people of a WORLD EMPIRE stand silent before GOD in memory of their brethren who have crossed the RIVER to another shore. At the heart of this EMPIRE—the PEOPLE, led by KING and Captains, stand before the SHRINE of EMPIRE—a CENOTAPH—

AN EMPTY TOMB.

If we have the eyes of the Spirit we must see in this a definite symbol of the RESURRECTION and the coming manifestation of the sons of GOD.[3]

It is for the manifestation of the sons of GOD that the whole creation waiteth.[4] It is the manifestation of the sons of GOD that comes in the day when the whole NATION is born of GOD.[5] It is the purpose of the GREAT TRIBULATION to bring about this spiritual change or rebirth in the ANGLO-SAXON RACE and BRITISH NATION.

To-day, chronologically, we are nearly halfway through the second low passage of the GREAT PYRAMID. And we are marching on our way through TRIBULATION to the great deliverance of the KING'S CHAMBER. As we emerge from the present passage and final phase of TRIBULATION, we stand up, to find our feet touching the OPEN or EMPTY TOMB, symbol of the RESURRECTION and TRANSLATION. The PYRAMID has its CENOTAPH or EMPTY COFFER. And so have we.

Are we not justified in regarding the word CENOTAPH in its new and higher meaning? It is not so much "a sepulchral monument raised to a person buried elsewhere," as "a TOMB whence one has arisen."[6]

We who are alive, live in the closing days of the old AGE and the days which herald the new and better AGE in which all the promises made to the FATHERS of our RACE find fulfilment.

‡ Jer. xxxi, 33. § Ez. xxxvi, 26. [1] Jer. xxxi, 31-34.
[2] Isa. lxvi, 8, etc. [3] Rom. viii, 19, etc. [4] Rom. viii, 22.
[5] See Isa. lxvi, 8: "In a moment a Nation be born? Thus Zion travailed—thus brought forth her Sons!"
[6] See word "Cenotaph" in Cassell's New English Dictionary.

The GLORIOUS DEAD in CHRIST are among the great cloud of witnesses who died "not having received the promises, but having seen them afar off."[7] But just as JESUS died and rose again, even so, "them also which sleep in JESUS will GOD bring with Him."[8] And we have the consolation of the words engraven in stone on the Tomb of the Unknown Warrior:—"In CHRIST shall all be made alive."

Unknown to us, the GREAT SILENCE, held throughout GOD'S KINGDOM-EMPIRE in the earth, is creating the conditions which will make the manifestation of the sons of GOD a practical possibility. The advent of the sons of GOD under the leadership of the SON of GOD will form the climax to the troubles of the present AGE. But it will be a climax of deliverance. Only a RACE of Supermen led by a DIVINE SUPERMAN can build the perfect superstructure of the KINGDOM of HEAVEN upon earth upon the national foundations already well and truly laid by the BRITH-ISH ISRAEL PEOPLES.

DOES THE BIBLE STAND OR FALL WHEN TESTED BY SCIENCE, HISTORY AND PHILOSOPHY?—XV.

BY PROFESSOR EDWARD ODLUM, M.A., B.Sc.

ISAAC—JACOB—ESAU—REBEKAH.

A REMARKABLE story here in Genesis, chapters xxvii and xxviii! Here is an epitome. Esau and Jacob twins; birthright Divinely given to Jacob the younger, before birth.

Esau, the young hunter, despises what to him and Jacob is his birthright, and he sells it for a supper, perhaps for many suppers. Hence, by contract between the two brothers, the birthright belonged to Jacob.

Jacob was right and just in the purchase. His brother would not remain at home, and aid in shepherding and land cultivation. He preferred to be a hunter, which then as now, in Asiatic lands, includes or pre-supposes a robber. The Oriental hunters were robbers. So with Esau, and when he needed help, he landed at home and sponged on those he would not help with their daily work.

The trade was a just and sane transaction. Esau cared not for his birthright blessings. Jacob did, and fed his brother for that desirable gift.

The Book of Jasher tells us that Esau gave Jacob a sealed, signed deed, and that when Jacob's body was brought to Hebron for burial in the Cave of Machpelah, Esau denied the sale. Joseph had the deed in Egypt and sent his brother Naphtali thither for it. Before he returned a son of Dan cut the head off Esau, as Esau had beheaded Nimrod.

Isaac was determined to give the birthright blessing to Esau, who was going to take it, though by an oath and deed he had transferred it to Jacob.

Rebekah aids her son Jacob to get it, and by fraud they succeed. Even though Isaac was deceived, he told Esau that the blessing would remain to and with Jacob.

Later on, Jacob flees for his life, lands at Bethel ten miles north of Jerusalem, remains all night, has a dream, meets the Lord, receives the birthright blessing again, and goes on his way north to his uncle Laban.

BRITISH-ISRAEL ACTIVITY IN GLASGOW.

A MOST successful series of meetings have just been completed in Glasgow. These were carried out under the auspices of the British-Israel-World Federation, and followed immediately upon the publication of the Manifesto in the Glasgow Herald. The importance of the Manifesto became at once apparent, when representatives of the Press appeared upon the scene, pressing for the Manifesto to be submitted to them for publication.

The meetings opened in the Central Halls, Bath Street, on Monday, October 27th, and continued until Thursday, October 30th, the interest being sustained throughout and reaching its climax on the last evening, when the hall was filled to capacity.

Enquiry cards were distributed at each meeting, and the number filled in and presented has exceeded expectations. The sale of literature dealing with the subject was on a large scale, and many of the books were completely sold out.

The Glasgow Associations were gratified at the presence of Mr. and Mrs. Garrison at two meetings, and Chancellor Du Bois, of the Chicago Law College. Mr. Garrison dwelt upon the necessity of getting back to the Bible and the need for extension of our Movement, and he roused the enthusiasm of his audience. The Chancellor referred to his personal interest in our work, and the interest of the Faculty of Law in Chicago which he represents.

Dr. Goard was at his best, and expressions of appreciation from all quarters testify to a wonderful advance in the gripping power he holds on his audiences. His method of presentation is different from anything heard in previous missions, and the development of this presentation has been of particular interest to the present writer. The method of presentation is directly referred to in Scripture.

Isaiah xliii, 8: "Bring forth the blind people that have eyes, and the deaf that have ears."

Isaiah xliii, 9: "Let all the nations be gathered together, and let the people be assembled: who among them can declare this, and shew us former things? let them bring forth their witnesses, that they may be justified: or let them hear, and say, It is truth."

Isaiah xliii, 10: "Ye are my witnesses, saith the LORD, and my servant whom I have chosen . . . ."

Evening after evening Dr. Goard showed us the former things of Scripture and, producing the necessary witnesses step by step, built up the evidence as to the establishment of, and the demonstration as to, the fulfilment of the Covenants of God with His people Israel.

A wonderful stimulus has been given to Glasgow which may bear much fruit.

The thanks of the Associations are due to Miss Ketterer, who so ably presided at the piano, and to the Rev. Alexander Stewart, M.A., who occupied the chair on the Tuesday evening. On the other evenings the duties of the Chairman were carried out by the Presidents of the Associations in Glasgow.

ANDREW B. BUCHANAN.

ANOTHER GREAT FORWARD MOVEMENT.

BY E. K. ADDERLEY.

IT has been acknowledged by B.-I. leaders that we are living in the period referred to in Scripture when Israel is commanded to "close her doors about her."

These passing days of October, 1930, are indeed heavy with Fate. An Imperial Conference is sitting to determine the economic relations between the constituent parts of the Empire.

So far, the leaders of our Dominions have spoken imperially, and clearly, of the necessity of closer economic interaction between Britain and her Dominions, in order to preserve our common heritage.

Further, great associations of Bankers and of industrial magnates are springing up and demanding the same thing as the price of our salvation from chaos and disintegration. Even the Labour Party is beginning to question its old policies.

And from a purely humanitarian standpoint, the fact that the Russian peasants are at last rising up in their despair, and demanding that corn shall be imported and not exported, in order to preserve them from starvation, is sufficient to prove that this great question is not one of our national well-being only, but demands a settlement urgently (against the dumping of foreign produce) in the vital interests of Europe generally, and of Russia in particular.

Professor Odlum, in last week's NATIONAL MESSAGE, sounded a call to action, but at present that call is primarily to our spiritual leaders and teachers, however keen B.-I. members may be in general. "The gifts of the Spirit are diverse," and surely the time has come when the B.-I.-W.F. (having prepared the ground by many years' testimony to "The Gospel of the Kingdom") may now take the field Officially, and urge its members to support the demand for the economic co-operation of the Empire to the full, in the assurance that this great and increasing demand in the Motherland and its Dominions is in accordance with the Divine purpose for Israel.

Yes, to press for it, even if the slow process of Parliamentary procedure has to be set aside, and a great Council of State appointed in its place.

England has hitherto always been foremost in humanitarian work, and the following resolution, passed by the Russian Workers' Club and others in Russia, may convince those who still hesitate re the economic aspect of tariffs: "The Soviet Government was advised by the meeting to cease immediately the export of grain, butter, eggs, etc. The meeting further demanded that the Soviet Government should purchase wheat abroad for its starving population. Already the policy had cost them many hundreds of millions of roubles." Then a table of losses to the State was read out, showing that during the last three years Russia had lost £22,000,000 by the sale of wheat.

A greater horror is now in process of fulfilment in Russia.

Soviet timber, which is to be distributed here next year, will be produced by conscripted and SLAVE labour.

With such conditions in Russia and unemployment at home, how can we help the down-trodden peasants except by setting our own house in order?

THE SECRETARY-GENERAL'S NEWS AND NOTES.

THE REV. DR. PASCOE GOARD addressed another fine audience at Headquarters on Monday afternoon last. He will speak again (D.V.) on Monday afternoon next, November 24th. In the evening he and the Secretary-General are to speak at the Stratford meeting announced last week. The speakers at Headquarters next week are the Rev. Mark Jukes, of Vancouver, B.C., on Wednesday at 3, and Mr. H. A. Marchant on Thursday at 7.30; the subject by the latter is to be "What do the Scriptures teach us concerning Israel and Judah and the Second Advent?"

* * *

Our readers are reminded that teas are served at Headquarters every week-day (except Saturdays), from 4 to 5.30. The tea room is very bright and it overlooks Buckingham Palace. An excellent opportunity is offered for social converse, or for rest and reading, and we invite all to avail themselves thereof.

* * *

The dates for the Annual Sale of Work, etc., are rapidly approaching—December 3rd and 4th. A well-attended meeting of the Women's Auxiliary has been held, when arrangements in re the Sale were made. We are very grateful for donations and gifts received and we shall gladly welcome more, as it is desired that the results this year shall mark a record. Gifts may be addressed to Mrs. Knowles, President, or Mrs. Garrison, Hon. Secretary, Women's Auxiliary, 6, Buckingham Gate, London, S.W.1.

* * *

We are very grateful for the donations received or promised through our appeal at the recent Congress, and we hereby appeal to those who were not able to attend the Congress meetings to come to our aid. Our work is expanding in all directions, and our needs are correspondingly increasing year by year. The calls for help and for meetings and speakers come from all parts of the country. It is impossible to meet them all unless our revenue is considerably increased. We beg that all our kind supporters will do their utmost for this the greatest of all Causes to-day. Cheques or Postal Orders should be addressed to the Secretary-General, 6, Buckingham Gate, London, S.W.1, and crossed Midland Bank. Bank notes should only be sent in registered envelopes.

Those who require furnished rooms with attendance in the London area within 20 minuntes of Victoria are invited to communicate with us.

Our Hostel at Glastonbury is open all the year round, and some are now booking their rooms for a Christmas visit to this sacred place. We shall be pleased to hear from those who wish for accommodation.

Our Edinburgh friends are encouraged by the series of seven meetings recently held in their beautiful city by the Rev. Dr. Pascoe Goard and Mr. Herbert Garrison. It is believed that much good was done. Mrs. J. Campbell Shairp, Mrs. D. J. Dundas, Colonel Cheyne, Mr. Wm. Green and Mr. Garrison presided. Dr. Goard gave wonderful expository addresses. Many people came from various parts of Scotland. Much literature was sold. Mr. Garrison addressed a special gathering at the Queen's Club, arranged by Mesdames Shairp and Dundas, who kindly provided tea. General Crosbie and Colonel Cheyne also spoke. Dr. Goard and Mr. Garrison and Mr. Green addressed a conference and social meeting at Mackie's Café.

A meeting of the Liverpool Branch was held at the Common Hall, Hackins Hey, on Thursday, November 13th, when Miss Hamilton Hunter gave a lecture on the "Redemption of the Nation Israel." She pointed out very clearly the difference between Redemption and Salvation—the former for the Children of Israel; the latter for all men. She made a strong appeal to those present to join the Branch if they had not already done so. The Rev. E. A. Couldrey was in the chair.

The next meeting of the Liverpool Branch will be on November 27th, when the Rev. E. A. Couldrey will be the speaker.

ERRATA.—In our issue of September 13th, in the article "Israel in Exile" by E. B. H., page 588, first column, the first sentence of the second paragraph should read north of Lake Van, and south of the Caspian Sea, instead of vice versa.

The couplet in Canon Hollis' Congress address given in our issue of November 15th, page 725, should read:—

"The waves may be defeated
But the tide is sure to win."

We regret that we omitted to acknowledge our indebtedness to the Daily Mirror for their courteous permission to reproduce the photograph of the State Coach in our issue of November 15th.

LONDON AND SOUTHERN AREA BRANCHES.

An effort is being made to inaugurate a GREAT RALLY OF BRANCHES in the TOWN HALL, BATTERSEA, on Friday, 28th November, at 8 p.m., when Mr. John J. Morey, Southern Area Commissioner, will (D.V.) speak on "The Approaching Crisis and the Divine Solution." The Rev. W. A. Sinden will preside.

The need for a great Call to the Nation is realized by all members and adherents of the Federation, and it is therefore earnestly hoped that Branches will support this Rally, which we trust will be one of many throughout the Area, so helping to broadcast the fact of God's Kingship in Israel-Britain and to show the way out of our present difficulties and tribulation as a Nation.

Here is an opportunity to demonstrate that spirit of unity and co-operation, urged by the Area Council, as by this means Branches will help themselves and further the Cause generally.

"Stir up your strength and come and help us."

* * *

We are pleased to report that Mr. Philip E. J. Monson, of Los Angeles, Cal., State Secretary of the Anglo-Saxon Federation of America, has been offered an opportunity, free, of broadcasting on the evening of December 8th. Mr. Monson will speak on the Manifesto by Dr. Pascoe Goard, "The Present Menace," and the need of National Prayer.

This offer has been made through the courtesy of a Los Angeles journal, and is a step forward for our Cause in California. We pray that God will be pleased to bless this effort.

Mr. Wm. Whitton visited the Harrogate Branch on Monday evening, November 10th, and addressed a very appreciative audience on "Bible History on British Coins."

It is now three years since 'Giving and Taking' first appeared in these columns. Issued in tract form it has attained to a circulation of 275,000 copies, and may still be obtained from us without charge. We desire, however, particularly to stress our recently advertised booklet, 'A Barrier to Blessing' (12 copies post free 1s. 1d.), as containing a much fuller statement of the Israelitish tithing law, and is making a much weightier appeal. In these days of deplorable economic distress, every believer should be an earnest propagandist of the tithing principle and should use the best literature as an effective means of propaganda. Needless to say, the fullest and most authoritative work upon the subject is 'The Whole Tithe,' obtainable from the Covenant Publishing Co. at 5s. (post free 5s. 6d.) and, now that the winter evenings are upon us, we know of no object of study so likely to bring blessing upon the student himself, and the Empire of which he is a unit, than this work. It is lucid, final and convincing, and, withal, not unreasonable in its demands. Study Circles, please note!

This book is an exposition of the Epistle to the Hebrews. The Epistle bears in the signature place the name "GOD."

The double fact that the human authorship is withheld, and in the signature place the name "GOD" appears, indicates the Epistle to be a letter directly inspired from God to us.

The subject of the Epistle is God the Son; His Office and Ministry, as King of Righteousness; King of Peace; King of Salem.

The book is brilliantly written. It brings out new truths and restates well-known truths, so as to make all appear strikingly new.

The place of Israel in the New Covenant is made to appear with great clearness.

EDITORIAL.

The following should be read in the light of Israel Truth, namely, that the Anglo-Saxon nations are the continuation of the Israel nation; the inheritors of her Charters; the possessors of her guarantees and immunities from destruction; the executors of her commissions.

It should be understood that Authors alone are responsible for the views expressed in their Articles.

GOD.

THE PEOPLE. △ THE BIBLE.—VI.

BY THE REV. DR. W. PASCOE GOARD, F.R.G.S.

WE have seen in former issues that the Bible is the continued record of God's purpose, which purpose and record run continuously through the ages.

We have also seen that the people have always developed and moved forward in the great highway of Bible history and prophecy.

We are now considering a series of facts which demonstrate that God has revealed Himself in word and action in and to Israel from the beginning.

We saw in our last issue God's judgment arrived at, pronounced and put into execution against the Kingdom of Judah and the City of Jerusalem.

Isaiah was given to see and witness the Lord seated in judgment upon Judah and Jerusalem, as we see set forth so graphically in the sixth chapter of Isaiah. Isaiah was constituted God's messenger to Judah and Jerusalem, to declare the judgment, and the coming execution thereof, in the removal of the people far away. (See Isaiah vi.)

This sentence was deferred, giving time for repentance. But that repentance did not come. On the contrary, the practices of Judah and of the inhabitants of Jerusalem went from bad to worse, involving deeply the Temple, God's House, and the Name and Word of God.

Ezekiel, over a century later, is given the privilege of seeing the Divine Person once again acting in plenary session, sitting in judgment on the rebellious City and Kingdom. This we saw fully in the last issue. After that final judgment, putting in force the former sentence, the Lord withdrew His glory from the City.

History shows the marching of the power of Babylon against the City and its final destruction, including in that destruction the Temple which they had defiled.

Thus the case of Judah and Jerusalem is disposed of, and history proceeds exactly along the line of that judgment.

JUDGMENT PASSED ON ISRAEL.

We are now introduced to another most momentous session. The place of judgment was in Ezekiel's house, which was situate in the land of the Captivity of Israel, on the banks of the River Chebar.

The personnel of the convention was entirely different from that when judgment went into effect against Judah and Jerusalem. At that session there were present the Elders of Judah, Ezekiel presiding. Now there are convened Elders of the House of Israel, Ezekiel presiding.

This is the second convention of the Elders of the House of Israel. The first convention of the Elders of Israel in Ezekiel's house is recorded in Ezekiel, chapter xiv, which the reader will do well to study.

In this second convention of Elders of the House of Israel a final decision is reached by JEHOVAH, the Judge of Israel, concerning the then present, and the future of the "Captivity" of Israel.

Judah was sent forth from the land of Palestine to suffer her appointed sentence.

The sentence upon Israel herein conveyed is still more drastic than that pronounced upon Judah. The Lord withdrew His Glory from Jerusalem, and set forces in motion to carry out His decree upon Judah, which was banishment from the land.

The Lord here sends Israel onward in the series of wanderings upon which she had already entered. But He withdrew Israel's privilege of enquiring of Him, and sent her away to serve her idols during the period of her banishment. Yet the Lord declares again and again that He would go with Israel, even though Israel should not know the fact of His Presence, nor should be able to draw the comfort and strength which should have been theirs through that knowledge. Such comfort and strength was lost to them through their blindness and unbelief. The banishment was at all times contingent on Israel's attitude towards God—always it was "If ye will not hearken unto Me."

Here is the record of an event which has profoundly affected the history of Israel and of the world to the present time. The statement is so solemn, so important, so illuminating of the progress of history, that we quote it in full :—

"And it came to pass in the seventh year, in the fifth month, the tenth day of the month, that certain of the elders of Israel came to enquire of the LORD, and sat before me.

Then came the word of the LORD unto me, saying,

Son of man, speak unto the elders of Israel, and say unto them, Thus saith the Lord GOD ; Are ye come to enquire of me ? As I live, saith the Lord GOD, I will not be enquired of by you.

Wilt thou judge them, son of man, wilt thou judge them ? cause them to know the abominations of their fathers :

And say unto them, Thus saith the Lord GOD ; In the day when I chose Israel, and lifted up mine hand unto the seed of the house of Jacob, and made myself known unto them in the land of Egypt, when I lifted up mine hand unto them, saying, I am the LORD your God ;

In the day that I lifted up mine hand unto them, to bring them forth of the land of Egypt into a land that I had espied for them, flowing with milk and honey, which is the glory of all lands :

Then said I unto them, Cast ye away every man the abominations of his eyes, and defile not yourselves with the idols of Egypt : I am the LORD your God.

But they rebelled against me, and would not hearken unto me : they did not every man cast away the abominations of their eyes, neither did they forsake the idols of Egypt : then I said, I will pour out my fury upon them, to accomplish my anger against them in the midst of the land of Egypt.

But I wrought for my name's sake, that it should not be polluted before the heathen, among whom they were, in whose sight I made myself known unto them, in bringing them forth out of the land of Egypt.

Wherefore I caused them to go forth out of the land of Egypt, and brought them into the wilderness.

And I gave them my statutes, and shewed them my judgments, which if a man do, he shall even live in them.

Moreover also I gave them my sabbaths, to be a sign between me and them, that they might know that I am the LORD that sanctify them.

But the house of Israel rebelled against me in the wilderness : they walked not in my statutes, and they despised my judgments, which if a man do, he shall even live in them ; and my sabbaths they greatly polluted : then I said, I would pour out my fury upon them in the wilderness, to consume them.

But I wrought for my name's sake, that it should not be polluted before the heathen, in whose sight I brought them out.

Yet also I lifted up my hand unto them in the wilderness, that I would not bring them into the land which I had given them, flowing with milk and honey, which is the glory of all lands ;

Because they despised my judgments, and walked not in my statutes, but polluted my sabbaths : for their heart went after their idols.

Nevertheless mine eye spared them from destroying them, neither did I make an end of them in the wilderness.

But I said unto their children in the wilderness, Walk ye not in the statutes of your fathers, neither observe their judgments, nor defile yourselves with their idols :

I am the LORD your God ; walk in my statutes, and keep my judgments, and do them ;

And hallow my sabbaths ; and they shall be a sign between me and you, that ye may know that I am the LORD your God.

Notwithstanding the children rebelled against me : they walked not in my statutes, neither kept my judgments to do them, which if a man do, he shall even live in them ; they polluted my sabbaths : then I said, I would pour out my fury upon them, to accomplish my anger against them in the wilderness.

Nevertheless I withdrew mine hand, and wrought for my name's sake, that it should not be polluted in the sight of the heathen, in whose sight I brought them forth.

I lifted up mine hand unto them also in the wilderness, that I would scatter them among the heathen, and disperse them through the countries ;

Because they had not executed my judgments, but had despised my statutes, and had polluted my sabbaths, and their eyes were after their fathers' idols.

Wherefore I gave them also statutes that were not good, and judgments whereby they should not live ;

And I polluted them in their own gifts, in that they caused to pass through the fire all that openeth the womb, that I might make them desolate, to the end that they might know that I am the LORD.

Therefore, son of man, speak unto the house of Israel, and say unto them, Thus saith the Lord GOD; Yet in this your fathers have blasphemed me, in that they have committed a trespass against me.

For when I had brought them into the land, for the which I lifted up mine hand to give it to them, then they saw every high hill, and all the thick trees, and they offered there their sacrifices, and there they presented the provocation of their offering : there also they made their sweet savour, and poured out there their drink offerings.

Then I said unto them, What is the high place whereunto ye go? And the name thereof is called Bamah unto this day.

Wherefore say unto the house of Israel, Thus saith the Lord GOD; Are ye polluted after the manner of your fathers? and commit ye whoredom after their abominations?

For when ye offer your gifts, when ye make your sons to pass through the fire, ye pollute yourselves with all your idols, even unto this day: and shall I be enquired of by you, O house of Israel? As I live, saith the Lord GOD, I will not be enquired of by you.

And that which cometh into your mind shall not be at all, that ye say, We will be as the heathen, as the families of the countries, to serve wood and stone.

As I live, saith the Lord GOD, surely with a mighty hand, and with a stretched out arm, and with fury poured out, will I rule over you:

And I will bring you out from the people, and will gather you out of the countries wherein ye are scattered, with a mighty hand, and with a stretched out arm, and with fury poured out.

And I will bring you into the wilderness of the people, and there will I plead with you face to face.

Like as I pleaded with your fathers in the wilderness of the land of Egypt, so will I plead with you, saith the Lord GOD.

And I will cause you to pass under the rod, and I will bring you into the bond of the covenant:

And I will purge out from among you the rebels, and them that transgress against me: I will bring them forth out of the country where they sojourn, and they shall not enter into the land of Israel: and ye shall know that I am the LORD.

As for you, O house of Israel, thus saith the Lord GOD; Go ye, serve ye every one his idols, and hereafter also, if ye will not hearken unto me: but pollute ye my holy name no more with your gifts, and with your idols.

For in mine holy mountain, in the mountain of the height of Israel, saith the Lord GOD, there shall all the house of Israel, all of them in the land, serve me: there will I accept them, and there will I require your offerings, and the first-fruits of your oblations, with all your holy things.

I will accept you with your sweet savour, when I bring you out from the people, and gather you out of the countries wherein ye have been scattered; and I will be sanctified in you before the heathen.

And ye shall know that I am the LORD, when I shall bring you into the land of Israel, into the country for the which I lifted up mine hand to give it to your fathers.

And there shall ye remember your ways, and all your doings, wherein ye have been defiled; and ye shall lothe yourselves in your own sight for all your evils that ye have committed.

And ye shall know that I am the LORD, when I have wrought with you for my name's sake, not according to your wicked ways, nor according to your corrupt doings, O ye house of Israel, saith the Lord GOD."—Ezek. xx, 1-44.

What a tremendous recitative of Israel history is here. First the wilderness experience in Moses' day. Then the experience in the land of Palestine. After that the scattering of Israel in "the wilderness of the people." Then the regathering in "Mine holy mountain, the mountain of the height of Israel," and then their return to and acceptance by the Lord. This is the "High mountain and eminent, even the mountain of the height of Israel," to which the tender branch of the House of David should in the meantime be planted. Beyond reasonable question "Mine holy mountain, the mountain of the height of Israel" refers to the British Isles and to her daughter nations.

It will be noticed that in two things the House of Israel transgressed. They failed to keep the commandments, statutes and judgments of the Lord. The seriousness of this charge is shown by the threefold statement of their refusal to obey the Law of the Lord as contained in the commandments, statutes and judgments. This included especially their neglect of the Sabbaths of the Lord; and finally they rebelled in carrying on heathen worship in connection with the House of God and the worship of God. The offering to God polluted, and heathen worship was a greater evil than offering such worship to idols, heinous as the latter offence was.

Therefore they were cut off from enquiry of the LORD. They were sent away, with the sad, final, and complete dismissal contained in the words: "Go ye, serve ye every one his idols, and hereafter also, if ye will not hearken unto me: BUT POLLUTE YE MY HOLY NAME NO MORE WITH YOUR GIFTS, AND WITH YOUR IDOLS." Frank and open worship of idols was less offensive than polluted worship of God.

But the time should come when in another land they should offer a pure sacrifice and service, and it and they should be accepted of God.

How faithfully has Israel history followed this tremendous outline of prophecy. They were indeed scattered through the wilderness of the people.

There they did serve idols and false gods, and in the serving they inflicted upon each other, family against family and clan against clan, the plague of war with its accompanying suffering and death. What a record of blood and fury is that of the ages through which the people fulfilled their self-inflicted punishment all readers of ancient and mediæval history know.

At the same time they were ever at war with the Continental powers. They passed through the centuries with footsteps stained with blood, their own, and that of their enemies.

In the meantime the pure light of the Gospel was hidden from them. Of them the Apostle Paul said in his day: "How shall they believe on Him of Whom they have not heard, and how shall they hear without a preacher, and how shall they preach except they be sent."

But there came the time when under the guiding hand of God they were brought to "the mountain of the height of Israel." This took place long centuries after Israel had dis appeared from Palestine, and here in that "high mountain and eminent, the mountain of the height of Israel," the Lord has revealed Himself to them. They have accepted Him once more as their God and King, and they are being accepted of Him, as to their person, their sacrifice of worship and their service.

This resulted in the cutting off of Israel for ages from the Temple and priestly ministration. They were weaned from the ancient traditions. They were never subjected to the iron yoke of Jewish Talmudism. Their minds were fallow ground ready for the acceptance of the truth as it is in Jesus. They accepted His Name and His salvation.

In reading the above chapter therefore we are reading a synopsis of our own national history, and we rejoice that racially and nationally we are now dwelling in that land known to the prophet Ezekiel as the "mountain of the height of Israel," and to Isaiah before him as Israel in the Isles, and in that land we are walking in the full light of the Gospel in both its phases, viz.: the Gospel of the Kingdom, and of the Grace of God which bringeth salvation, through Jesus Christ our Lord.

DOES THE BIBLE STAND OR FALL WHEN TESTED BY SCIENCE, HISTORY AND PHILOSOPHY?—XVI.

By Professor Edward Odlum, M.A., B.Sc.

Laban—Jacob—Jabbok—Israel.

At Bethel, Jacob received from the Lord all the blessings promised to Abraham, Isaac and their seed. He proceeds to Haran, and lives with his uncle Laban about 25 years, becomes wealthy, has a large family, is commanded by the Lord to return to Canaan, and keep the vows made by him at Bethel.

He leaves Laban, goes south with his family, servants and flocks, and, at the torrent Jabbok, remains for the night. Here he meets the angel of the Lord, has a struggle, emerges into spiritual light, life and liberty, and then receives a new name to match the new-born man, in the new or regenerated state. He ceases to be Jacob the supplanter and becomes Israel, the man ruling with God.

Israel, Bethel, House of God.

Genesis xxviii, 22:—"And this stone, which I have set for a pillar, shall be God's house."

Genesis xxxv, 1:—"And God said unto Jacob, Arise, go up to Bethel, and dwell there: and make there an altar unto God."

"So Jacob came to Luz, which is in the land of Canaan, that is, Bethel, he and all the people that were with him.

"And he built there an altar, and called the place El-Beth-El."

On his way to Syria or Haran, Jacob and the Lord entered into a contract at Luz or Bethel. The Lord gave him unbounded blessings and promises running down through all time.

Jacob contracted to dedicate a specific stone or pillar to the Lord as His House, and to pay tithes.

When Jacob was with Laban, the Lord told him to go to his father's home, and also to fulfil his vow at Bethel. This Jacob did.

This Bethel-pillar, this House of God, became the first outward sign and testimony of the foundation of the Stone Kingdom, so definitely provided for in the acts of the Lord, responded to by the acts of Jacob.

Here, then, is the stone foundation of the then future Stone Kingdom dreamed about by Nebuchadnezzar, explained by Daniel, and referred to by Jesus when teaching the people.

THE BRITISH SUDAN.

By Henry Proctor, F.R.S.L.

In the Nineteenth Century for September there is an article by Madame Odette Keun on "A Foreigner Looks at the British Sudan," in which she extols the British administration in the highest terms. "Not even a Bolshevik," she says, "could say that by taking over the Sudan the British made an enviable haul. The first administration pioneers were military, and unfriendly though I am to every sort of professional army, I recognize homage is due unreservedly to the indomitable pluck they showed, and the enduring work they did. They were turned loose into a country that—it sounds unbelievable (but it is true)—is as big as British India. And these English proved that the government they were establishing was, though a government, unlike the ancient despotisms. They created just rules unheard of before; they collected equitable taxes, and brought the whole region under an elastic form of central administration. In some ten years they had taught a large portion of the Sudan that and that men could be subjects, and yet live protected and helped, and not like hunted beasts. Behind them Khartum, with an unprecedented quickness, consolidated their achievements, and threw out new progressive organizations on an essentially civil basis. To-day, at the end of three decades, the Sudan counts

Order and Peace were Realities,

Over 6,000,000 souls.

As a whole it is self-supporting, the British taxpayer not giving a penny towards its upkeep; individually, according to native standards, it is prosperous; it is disciplined, and climbing towards education. Public security is practically complete, compared with other European Colonial possessions 100 years old—and more, it is quieter—

Happier—Richer—Healthier.

How have these astounding results been achieved?

The British might have done with impunity in the Sudan what the Belgians did in the Congo, or what the Germans did in West Africa. They might have reverted to the methods by which Algeria was pieced out by France for the benefit of her own settlers. To their eternal honour, be it said, they did not choose. They invented, they avoided the follies and sins that up till now have invariably attended every attempt at colonization. The Sudan is the latest thing in European exploitation, and it is the best. The English rulers struck straight out for an incredible objective—the welfare of the conquered alone. They inaugurated a regime that in at least three important things was completely new.

(A) They left the native owner in possession of his land—even where the land was capable of growing cotton plantations that have become the main source of the individual native's prosperity.

They gave him seed, water, technical supervision, and yet left him his own master.

(B) They did not allow the small settler, the small trader and the middle-man from home to come into the country.

(C) They abstained from every kind of forced and unpaid labour. The British have moved with astonishing promptitude, enterprise and success. They have built railways and dams and ginning factories, opened roads and developed parks, and they paid the natives whom they employed as workmen. The rapid and steady expansions of the railways

Digitized by Google

STIMULATED NATIVE AGRICULTURAL EFFORT

all over the country, for the Atbara Suakim and Port Sudan branches opened up a very important field to transport and commerce. A direct trading access to Asia and Europe, such as the long, costly desert and river route up the Nile to the Egyptian coast had never been. The Sudan is and its advance is exclusively the work of its British administrators." Thus far Madame Odette Keun, who writes, as she takes pains to show, is without any bias in favour of any Colonial administration, even that of her own country, much less that of the British. That which had been regarded as an unproductive desert is now being fertilized by the Colonial expansion of Israel-Britain fulfilling again literally the Word of God in Isaiah (chap. xxxv):—

"The wilderness and the solitary place shall be glad for them; and the desert shall rejoice and blossom as the rose. It shall blossom abundantly, and rejoice even with joy and singing; the glory of Lebanon shall be given unto it, the excellency of Carmel and Sharon."

CONGRESS ADDRESSES.

TUESDAY EVENING.

DR. PASCOE GOARD: What Mr. Leech has told us does show that this Book is still the best seller, and it also shows that you do not know it very well, because most decidedly the United States of America and the Overseas Dominions are absolutely Biblical subjects: they are in the Bible.

Now then for a few moments to-night let us take this thought, that the most sacred things connected with, and forming the very life-blood of the Christian faith, are bound up with, and contained in, the national message of the Bible, and the nations contained in the national message. We have made the mistake, and I associate myself with my brethren, of abstracting the spiritual message of the Bible, and endeavouring to present it unclothed in its material body to the people. It is such a ghost-like thing that most of them cannot see it, and such is our attitude towards ghosts of all descriptions that we have ceased to believe in their existence. Now I believe in the spirits of just men, and of just men made perfect. I confess to you that I have not consciously got into touch yet with very many of the just men made perfect, for they are before the throne of God in Heaven, but, by the grace of God, I have made contact with many just men not yet made perfect: and they are all in the body. Now I can come into conscious contact with the spirits of embodied men. I like to feel the warmth of the grip of their hands, I like to see the depth of the sparkle in their eyes, I like to see the smile upon their faces and the expression of intelligent earnestness there, I like to see the light that shines out of their eyes and out of the faces of men. I used to have to pass a churchyard every night when I was a boy down yonder in Cornwall. It was an eerie place, and I quickened my step for fear and with the thought hovering around of the possibility of meeting one out of the body. And when one night as I went by the churchyard, and saw inside the iron fence a form arise, and caught a glimpse of a pair of big round eyes, well, I could have won a marathon race quite easily. And when I came back the next evening and saw that form again arise: well, it was good practice in running! But the next evening, I said to myself, "This won't do: I am not going to be a coward." And I borrowed a heavy walking stick of an old farmer. When I came to the gateway, and saw again that form arise, with a trembling hand I opened the gate and marched up to ascertain the cause, and I found a pathetic thing. It was a new part of the churchyard, with only one grave in it, that of the rector who had just died, and upon it was crouched his great St. Bernard dog. And listening for footsteps, hoping that his master was coming, he rose to see. But it nearly scared the life out of me. But what has that got to do with it? This. We love to meet our fellows in the body: we shrink from meeting them out of the body. What has that got to do with it? We love the spiritual teaching of the Bible, when this treasure is possessed in earthen vessels, as the Apostle Paul says. But the man-in-the-street is shrinking from it because we have made it a disembodied spiritual entity. I say then again that the most precious things, the most sacred things in connection with our soul's salvation is bound up with the material, national history of Israel: and God intended that we should get contact with the spiritual by the majestic manifestation of His footsteps in the national.

Now I think you will agree with me that that seems to be a rather difficult proposition to establish. If that is true, my brethren of the ministry, don't you think that as bodies we have to change our methods? Let us begin with the great doctrine of the New Testament, the doctrine of justification by faith, by which we have access into this grace wherein we stand, and rejoice in hope of the glory of God, with its foundation head in the covenant which Almighty God made with our forefather Abraham. Is that not right? Now I worshipped here last Sunday morning, and I am sure my dear brother, Dr. Dinsdale Young, will forgive me for pointing out one little miss in a glorious presentation of imputed righteousness. He showed to us that God historically imputed righteousness to Abraham, imputed Abraham's faith to him for righteousness. He believed God. Then the Dr. asked this question: "What did God promise to Abraham?" And he made answer that God promised to Abraham righteousness, and He imputed righteousness to him. The sermon was splendid, and I am seizing upon it to elaborate my point to-night. What did God promise to Abraham? Who will answer me? That he should become the father of many nations. Potentially that was fulfilled in the one son, Isaac, through whom the seed should be developed into many nations. But is it not the case that our father Abraham waited until the centuries in which we are now living before he received the fulfilment of the promise and became the father of many nations? Now I know that the Arabs are descended from Abraham, and they know it. I know that the Turks are descended from Abraham, and they know it. "But in Isaac shall thy seed be called." Abraham was to become the father of many nations, and Abraham believed God, and it was counted to him for righteousness. And through being justified by faith we have peace with God, the faith that Abraham should become the father of many nations: and that we are the inheritors of that very promise. I say to you that all the glorious triumph of the doctrine and the fact of justification by faith is opened up by our acceptance of the doctrine that Abraham our forefather should become the father of many nations. Now that is a hard fact. Let us go on again.

We read in the 2nd chapter of Genesis, and on, that Elohim formed Adam of the dust of the earth, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life, and man became a living soul. And then the name Jehovah is in abeyance. But in the 6th chapter of Exodus it is revealed again, and you take the Commentaries in regard to it, and you will find there wonder as to why that Name, after centuries, should have emerged again at that particular time. Why, because then Jehovah made His personal contact with His nation Israel. You see the combination again. Take your Scriptures and read them right along down through. Study God's dealing with Babylon, with Persia, with Greece, with Rome, with Egypt, and all the other nations, and you will find that in none of them does He manifest His Jehovahship. But Jehovah is known by His self-revelation to His nation Israel, and by His continuous and progressive historic leadership and kingship in Israel right down to the present day. Outside of the nation Israel you do not know Jehovah in the Bible. Now we see Holy, Holy, Holy is Jehovah, Elohim or El Shaddai. What do we mean? Oh, how those great words roll off our tongues! But what music there is in them! I can think of all the hosts of Heaven singing them. But they sing with understanding, and, as a rule, we do not. What does it mean? That they are triumphs in the sinlessness of Jehovah? No, the question of sin never arises in connection with God. What, then, are they singing? They are singing of a manifestation of God as Jehovah. In each manifestation He has sanctified, set Himself apart exclusively for one great task, the task of the administration of His Kingdom-nation Israel. You do not find the name Jehovah in connection with the Creation and the sustenance of the material universe. You do not find it in connection with His relationship to all the sons of men. You do not find it in connection with His relationship with Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, to whom He revealed Himself as the Most High God. You find the name Jehovah set forth and indicating God in His Kingship of His nation Israel, and to this task, as though it were the only task. In His Jehovah administration He is Holy, Holy, Holy. And when He says, "Be ye holy, for I am holy," He means an utter surrender and devotion and consecration to the service of His Kingdom Israel in the revelation of Jehovah, Whose Name, and the knowledge of Whose Name, shall yet cover the earth as the waters cover the sea. But the vessel that contains it and manifests it is the corporeal body of His nation Israel. Is it not true? Jesus Christ the Saviour testified, and said: "I am not sent save unto the lost sheep of the House of Israel." What, you say, has the salvation provided by Jesus Christ been confined to the Israel people? No. This is what He said: "I am not sent save unto the lost sheep of the House of Israel." "But as My Father hath sent Me, even so send I you. Go ye into all the world, and preach the Gospel to every creature." And you can only find Jesus Christ our Saviour coming to Israel, manifested in Israel, sent to the lost sheep of the House of Israel, and made known to the world by Israel. The Virgin Birth of Jesus Christ. Why should the question be raised? The Old Testament declares it in the most sacred manner as the direct testimony of Jehovah to Israel, and the New Testament historically records it in just as clear language. The Virgin Birth is not treated as a doctrine but as a fact in the Book of Isaiah, and no theologian has a right to take it out of the realm of fact and put it into the realm of doctrine. How is the fact of the Virgin Birth introduced in the New Testament? Go to the 7th of Isaiah, and you will see. What were the circumstances? Three little kingdoms on the borders of the Mediterranean Sea—Syria, Ephraim-Israel and Judah. Suddenly the king of Judah received a messenger breathless, saying, Syria is confederate with Ephraim, and they have gathered their armies, and have proceeded over the border, and are marching upon Jerusalem now, with the declared purpose that they will dethrone the House of David, and set up the son of Tabeal upon the throne. There was no time to gather an army, and we read that the heart of the king and of the people were bowed like the trees of the forest before a mighty wind. Yet the king went out himself into the field, into the camping ground, the parade ground, outside Jerusalem, and he set up his pavilion and called his men. And there came Isaiah. Well, two men were enough to handle Pharaoh and all the forces of Egypt. Ahaz would rather have had an army than this messenger from God: and the prophet said to king Ahaz, "Take heed, and be quiet: this shall not prevail." And the king shook his head. "Moreover the Lord spake again unto Ahaz, saying, Ask thee a sign of the Lord thy God? ask it either in the depth, or in the height above. But Ahaz said, I will not ask, neither will I tempt the Lord. And he said, Hear ye now, O House of David: Is it a small thing for you to weary men, but will ye weary my God also? Therefore the Lord Himself shall give you a sign: Behold, a Virgin shall conceive, and bear a Son, and shall call His Name Immanuel." There was brought to me a beautiful copy of the Bible from the Jewish press of Philadelphia. I thought it was interesting that they should be printing the Old and the New Testaments. And I said, "I will test that Book by one phrase." And I turned to Isaiah vii, 14, and I found one word changed. "Behold a Virgin shall conceive" was printed here, "Behold a young woman shall conceive and bear a son." And I said, "That word is found in four other passages, I will turn them up also." But I found that was the only passage changed. The Evil One wants to get rid of that fact of history and of prophecy. "Behold, a Virgin shall conceive, and bear a Son, and shall call His Name Immanuel. Butter and honey shall He eat, that He may know to refuse the evil and choose the good." A reference to the temptation of Jesus. And there was the sign to Ahaz, that the combined hosts of Ephraim-Israel and Syria should fall before the walls of Jerusalem; and there was annunciated the prophecy of the Virgin Birth. Do you believe the prophecy and the history of the Virgin Birth of Jesus? Then, my brethren, can you accept the sign given, and deny the thing signified? What was the thing signified by the Virgin Birth of Jesus? That the House of David should never be overthrown. There it is. The doctrine of the Virgin Birth bound up with companies of nations, and marching armies, and battles, and sieges, given as a sign from Almighty God in Heaven, that Jesus Christ was born to occupy the throne. To Him was given the throne of His father David, and He shall rule over the House of David, and it shall never be overthrown. They are bound up together.

One thing more. Will you come with me in spirit to Romans xii, 1: "I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service." What is the connection? This. "I say then, Hath God cast away His people? God forbid. For I also am an Israelite, of the seed of Abraham, of the tribe of Benjamin. God hath not cast away His people which He foreknew." The 9th, 10th and 11th of Romans deal with God's then relationship to Israel. In the 10th chapter the Apostle Paul spoke of those who at that time had never heard of Christ. "How then shall they call on Him in Whom they have not believed? And how shall they believe in Him of Whom they have not heard? And how shall they hear without a preacher? And how shall they preach except they be sent?" And so he goes on to speak of God's relationship to the known Christian Israel at that time, and His continual purpose towards Israel and to the end of time. A racial and national story told by the prophets, told by our Lord, told by the Apostles. And when he has approached again the national development of God's purpose in the earth, and of the spiritual regeneration that shall flow to Israel, and the world through it, then the Apostle calls for consecration. "I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service." What for? To help forward the Divine plan.

With that in mind and in the same connection, let me ask you to come to that wonderful Epistle to the Hebrews. Hear another exhortation to go on to Christian perfection. Now this is what he says: "Therefore leaving the principles of the doctrine of Christ, let us go on unto perfection: not laying again the foundation of repentance from dead works, and of faith toward God, of the doctrine of baptisms, and of laying on of hands, and of resurrection of the dead, and of eternal judgment. And this will we do, if God permit." Where shall we go? To the promises that God made with Abraham. You cannot get away from them. For when God made promises to Abraham, because He could sware by none greater, He sware by Himself, saying, "Surely in blessing I will bless thee, and in multiplying I will multiply thee." Did He not multiply them? They went down into Egypt seventy strong; they came out of Egypt three to four millions strong. And the mathematician says "Impossible." Seventy men were recorded, but not women or children or servants; and they were in Egypt approximately three hundred years. In A.D. 1800 we Anglo-Saxons in Britain and America numbered approximately sixteen millions of people only. The years have gone by, and we Anglo-Saxon people number to-day 160 millions. And you will find the rate of increase from the time that Jacob led his family down into Egypt, to the emergence out of Egypt, and not twenty-five per cent. greater than the multiplication God has given us from 1800 to 1930. "Thy seed shall possess the gate of his enemies. And in thy seed shall all the nations of the earth be blessed." Jesus Christ a priest for ever after the order of Melchizedek. "By so much was Jesus made a surety of a better testament." "But now hath He obtained a more excellent ministry, by how much also He is the mediator of a better covenant, which was established upon better promises." "This is the covenant that I will make with the House of Israel after those days, saith the Lord: I will put My laws into their mind, and write them in their hearts." That is the new covenant sealed by the blood of Jesus Christ, and administered by Jesus Christ, King and Priest for ever after the order of Melchizedek. And what is the covenant? That He will restore and write in the heart of Israel His law, that they shall awake to the knowledge of Jehovah, that while the sun and moon and stars endure they shall remain a nation before Him for ever, and that when the time is ripe, and the covenant comes into full effect, it shall be indicated by certain developments, and by the rebuilding of the city of Jerusalem, which promise lay dormant until Allenby took the city in 1917.

Have I made it clear that we are not preaching a separate Gospel, or even a separate phase of the Gospel, but bringing back to you that earthen vessel of which the Apostle spoke, which carries to the thirsty lips of a dying world the glorious spiritualities of the Gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ?

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.

MAJOR J. KNOWLES, President, said: I feel sure that many of you who have been attending these meetings during the last two days must now be wondering what you can do to help this Movement. Well, there are many ways in which you can help us, and I assure you we want all the help we can get. Mr. Garrison will speak of this to-morrow, but, in the meantime, I want just to tell you of one or two ways in which you can be of great assistance. First of all, I should like to say that we want to increase our membership. You know, the more people there are who join a Movement, and the more people there are who have a financial interest in a Movement, the greater progress is it likely to make. I, therefore, appeal to any of you who have not joined us, either as members or associates, to do so. To become a member will cost you £1 1s. a year; and to become an associate will cost you 5s. I do ask you to join our ranks. Mr. Garrison, our Secretary-General, is carrying a very heavy burden, and I would ask you to help him all you can, and to do it now.

There is another way in which you can help forward our Movement, and that is by becoming a subscriber to THE NATIONAL MESSAGE, our weekly journal. Most of you know it. It is an admirable journal, very well got up, and you will find most interesting articles in it.

And then, ladies and gentlemen, I would ask you to patronize our bookstalls. When you leave these meetings, anyone on the staff of the Federation, or anyone on the staff of the Covenant Publishing Co. will help you to select the book which you require, and which deals with the particular point on which you personally would like fuller information. We have brought out recently a number of new books, which I am sure you will find well worth studying. There is The British Empire or the Commonwealth of Nations, by Mr. Garrison, which is most illuminating, and costs only 3d. There is The Restoration of Israel, by Dr. J. Llewellyn Thomas, costing 1s. 6d. There is also a most illuminating and interesting book which we have recently brought out, and is a wonderful answer to some of our critics, called, The Triumph of British-Israel, by Dr. Mountain, price 6s. This is one of the most interesting books that I, personally, have read for a long time. Then there is The Story and Message of Our Bible, price 2s.; and Crossing the River, by Dr. Pascoe Goard, cloth bound 3s. 6d.; and The Restoration of Palestine, by Basil Stewart, price 2s. 6d. I would ask you to see that you have a good supply of books from the bookstalls. And if speakers would, whenever possible, call attention to particular books in their addresses, that would help enormously to increase their circulation.

THE REV. W. BROWN POLLOCK, M.A., said: I have been waiting upon God for a message, and I can only pass on to you what He has given to me, and that message has to do entirely with His Holy Word and its teaching as it affects our great future, as it warns and exhorts us with regard to the present, and reminds us of God's mighty dealings with us in the long past.

I want to speak to you about a passage of Scripture that you will find in Micah iv. And may I say, as I direct your attention to that prophecy, what a wonderful Book the Word of God is, that collection of Books, which is the history of our people from the beginning, and their continuance unto the very end, when triumph is going to crown our Lord King of all His people. And, therefore, while God may have many things to say to us which will be very searching, at the same time He is pointing us onward to the time of coming glory. It is astonishing how many of the prophets began by proclaiming the coming judgment of God upon His people for their apostasy. And then there is the great message of redemption. And close by the great message of redemption comes the wonderful story of future glorification, of the triumph of good over evil, and the triumph and the victory of the plan and purpose of God.

Well now, in the beginning of this 4th chapter of the Book of the prophet Micah we are told about something that is going to happen in the last days. "But in the last days it shall come to pass, that the mountain of the house of the Lord shall be established in the top of the mountains, and it shall be exalted above the hills: and people shall flow unto it." Israel's destiny. What other book in the world could tell you the destiny of a people hundreds of years before it takes place? If there is one great hall-mark of the inspiration of this Book, if there is one great hall-mark that it is the Word of God, and that is, God's Word, surely it is that the history of God's people is written beforehand hundreds of years, and we see that history being fulfilled in our day and generation. Mr. Julian Huxley may say that it would be well if religion had no God. And, well, if it be a false religion we should like that there should be no God at all in it. But do let us remember that this Book solemnly declares that "the fool hath said in his heart, There is no God." "No God for me, no God in control, no God to enlighten." That is a foolish thing. If ever there was a day in which it was more incumbent and urgent upon us to prove the wonder of this Book, and the actual fact of the Lord God Almighty, Jehovah, our Elohim, it is this day.

Here we have the destiny of Israel foretold: and I want to tell you about this as it is told in God's Word, because I think if anything lifts us up to the highest possible conception of the wonder of the high and holy vocation and estate into which we are called, it is the vision of His purpose and plan as it reaches its consummation and triumph. And so in the last days we are told "the house of the Lord shall be established in the top of the mountains, and it shall be exalted above the hills." You know as well as I can tell you that it is a symbol for a kingdom in the Word of God. And here we have a vision of the House of the Lord established in the top of the mountain. Perhaps that is His spiritual Kingdom, the mountain of the House of the Lord, above all the kingdoms of the world, when the kingdoms of this world shall have become the Kingdom of our Lord and of His Christ. So the great Israel nation is supreme under the Divine, spiritual control, personality, power, and blessedness of the House of the Lord on the top of the mountains. And then we read of the hills. That is the lesser power, and of the people of the world who flow towards Jerusalem to hear the Word of the Lord. "For the law shall go forth of Zion, and the Word of the Lord from Jerusalem." There is the destiny of Israel, as seen in this verse. It is Israel's supremacy. And Israel ought always to be supreme, and if we were to reach our great ideals, if we were following in the commandments of the Lord God, we should be supreme in a far greater, more extensive, high, deep, wide, and holier way than we are at the present time.

Then the next thing we find about this Kingdom is this, that in the future it is to be universal. "And many nations shall come, and say, Come, and let us go up to the mountain of the Lord, and to the house of the God of Jacob: and He will teach us of His ways, and we will walk in His paths: for the law shall go forth of Zion, and the Word of the Lord from Jerusalem." That identifies it with ourselves. The Kingdom is to be a universal Kingdom. Why, our national possessions are well nigh universal to-day. But this is something far more extensive, and more far-reaching, and of greater wonder and power and influence than anything we have known in the past. Ought that not to be an inspiration to every one of us to get down on our knees and to ask God to give us more of that Divine Spirit, that we may reach unto the fulness of His purpose?

Then it goes on to tell us what is to be the nature of that Kingdom. It is to be peaceful. Great efforts are being made to obtain peace. One naturally feels afraid of that great Movement. If there is anything that will hold the dogs of war in restraint and the savage passions of men, and will lift their ambitions to a loftier purpose, then let us put all our weight into a Movement like that. But, after all, we have got to consider these things in the light of the revelation of God's Word, and we believe there will never be that fulness of peace until the King of Peace comes once more: He Who has been exalted, He Who is enthroned in the hearts of millions of people,

Digitized by Google

He Who is blessed for evermore. It will not be until He comes and reigns in His Kingdom, and occupies the throne of David in Person, that we shall have that Kingdom of peace. Listen to this : " And he shall judge among many people, and rebuke strong nations afar off : and they shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruning hooks : nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more."

And then it is to be

A KINGDOM OF PROSPERITY.

Yes, where the Kingdom of God is, where the power of God is, where the purity of God is, where the Person of God is by the Divine Spirit in human hearts, you will find that there comes the peace of God, yes, and something that is far deeper, the God of Peace to dwell in your hearts. Surely, that was God's intention in Creation, not only that He should make man in His own image, but that man should dwell and move and have his being in Him, in the working out of His purpose. Yes, following peace there will come prosperity. Oh, how we lack that to-day! How parched and dry are the channels of commerce and industry! The great basic industries of our country failing. The laughter of the people turned into sorrow, and from plenty into want and poverty through unemployment. Oh! that the people of this country might know the secret of the Lord, and the wonder of His power to bring in prosperity! Listen : " They shall sit every man under his vine and under his fig tree : and none shall make them afraid : for the mouth of the Lord of hosts hath spoken it." " For all people will walk every one in the name of his God, and we will walk in the name of the Lord our God for ever and ever." That is the height of all prosperity. Magnificent, glorious, wonderful. It gives a new inspiration to every British-Israelite. It comes with new force to everyone that is just groping his way into the labyrinths of this great and wonderful Truth, to know what is our standing, what is our vocation, what is our great destiny.

But it does not stop there, for after all that, we find that there is to be a recovery of the people of Israel. " In that day, saith the Lord, will I assemble her that halteth, and I will gather her that is driven out, and her that I have afflicted." " Her that halteth," I think that must be Judah. " Her that is driven out, and her that I have afflicted," I think that must be Israel. " And I will make her that halted a remnant, and her that was cast far off a strong nation : and the Lord shall reign over them in mount Zion from henceforth, even for ever. And thou, O tower of the flock, the stronghold of the daughter of Zion, unto thee shall it come, even the first dominion : the kingdom shall come to the daughter of Jerusalem."

Having closed his vision of the destiny of the Israelitish people, he strikes a warning note. There is to be discipline. There is declension and apostasy which is going to land us in the great Tribulation and the great Day of Jacob's woe and trouble. What we do notice is, and Israel must take note of this, for I believe it is a note of warning, that where there is disobedience, there must be discipline, and a discipline that means something very severe. You know, there may be some in this audience who are wondering what this has got to do with

GREAT BRITAIN AND WITH THE BRITISH PEOPLE.

May I digress just for a moment, to show you that we are talking about the people of Israel and that we British people claim our identity with the lost Ten Tribes. I want to take you back to the 49th chapter of Genesis just for a minute, to make that identification clear which Micah makes in the 5th chapter. " And Jacob called unto his sons, and said, Gather yourselves together that I may tell you that which shall befall you in the last days." There you are : the gap is a long one, but Jacob is talking about the last days : and Micah is talking about the last days. And Jacob says, " Judah is a lion's whelp : from the prey, my son, thou art gone up : he stooped down : he couched as a lion : who shall rouse him up? The sceptre shall not depart from Judah, nor a lawgiver from between his feet, until Shiloh come : and unto him shall the gathering of the people be." Then he goes on to say, " Joseph is a fruitful bough, even a fruitful bough by a well, whose branches run over the wall : the archers have sorely grieved him, and shot at him, and hated him : but his bow abode in strength, and the arms of his hands were made strong by the hands of the mighty God of Jacob ; (from thence is the shepherd, the stone of Israel.)" And you go on through these wonderful chapters and books until you come to the Book of Deuteronomy, and you find that Moses has got something to say to the people in these latter days : and the facts are written before our eyes, the conditions which he begins to show the people of that day. He says : " For I know that after my death ye will utterly corrupt yourselves, and turn aside from the way which I have commanded you : and evil will befall you in the latter days : because ye will do evil in the sight of the Lord to provoke him to anger through the work of your hands." They were to consider what they were to be in the latter days. And so on right through the Word of God you get this, until you begin to realize that not only did Jacob tell this to his sons, to which Micah refers, but in the time of Balak, Balaam in his prophecy foretold that in the latter days Israel should be a great that they should possess the gates of their enemies, that they should be the great lenders of the world, that they should be an imperial people. Where in the world to-day can you find such a people? Surely only in the British people. Therefore it is in regard to that I want to speak of the danger of the latter days, the danger of the desecration of the Sabbath, the breaking of the laws and the commandments of the Word of God, the apostasy which is being led on and encouraged and inspired by men like Julian Huxley. There is not only that, but there is the lack of Church attendance, lack of the reading of the Word of God, the prayerless lives of thousands, yea, millions of the people, with the bringing forth of all kinds of moral disaster and corruption of life. It is those things that are delaying the great purpose of God, and that will bring severe discipline.

To go back to the thought of Israel in discipline. What happened when the apostasy took place in the time of the kings? The Ten Tribes behaved so badly, their young children were so evil, that the only thing for God to do was to take them out of the land, and to scatter them amongst the heathen. Soon after that the House of Judah and Benjamin became corrupt and failed in the great purpose of God, and they were carried away captive to Babylon. Just let me read you the verses about that discipline. "Now why dost thou cry out aloud? Is there no king in thee? Is thy counsellor perished? For pangs have taken thee as a woman in travail. Be in pain and labour to bring forth, O daughter of Zion, like a woman in travail: for now shalt thou go forth out of the city, and thou shalt dwell in the field, and thou shalt go even to Babylon: there shalt thou be delivered: there the Lord shall redeem thee from the hand of thine enemies." Then we read a little further on. "Now also many nations are gathered against thee, that say, Let her be defiled, and let our eye look upon Zion." This is later on, of course, in history, and it seems to point to the Great Tribulation, possibly to Armageddon. "But they know not the thoughts of the Lord, neither understand they His counsel: for He shall gather them as the sheaves into the floor. Arise and thresh, O daughter of Zion: for I will make thine horn iron, and I will make thy hoofs brass: and thou shalt beat in pieces many people: and I will consecrate their gain unto the Lord, and their substance unto the Lord of the whole earth."

After giving the great picture of the supremacy of Israel and its great future, then its failure, and the discipline of the Lord, immediately in the 5th chapter the prophet shows how deliverance is to come. You get one of the which foretells the Coming of the incarnate Lord Jesus Christ. And in the first verse we read: "Now gather thyself in troops, O daughter of troops: he hath laid siege against us: they shall smite the judge of Israel with a rod upon the cheek. But thou, Bethlehem Ephratah, though thou be little among the thousands of Judah, yet out of thee shall He come forth unto me that is to be ruler in Israel: whose goings forth have been from of old, from everlasting." There you have the humanity of the Lord Jesus Christ, and there you have also His Divinity. "Therefore will He give them up." When they have taken Him and rejected Him and nailed Him to the Cross, and when He has risen again. "He will give them up, until the time that she which travaileth hath brought forth: then the remnant of His brethren shall return unto the Children of Israel." When the Israelitish people with the Israelitish Church have preached the Gospel of Christ, and the people of Israel have heard the Gospel and have been evangelized, then there are formed two remnants, because you see there is a double travail; there is the travail which means the Coming of the Son of man, and there is the travail which means the formation of the Israel man, the body of Christ, the Church; surely this is part of it. Israel, He gives them over until the Gospel reaches His people, and then there are two distinct remnants seen. The remnant of Jacob, on the one hand, for some Jews will be saved, and the remnant of Israel, that is, Israel proper. What we see is this. During the Kingdom age there are to be these two remnants, and they are to stand in a very wonderful relationship. In Micah v, 8, you will find it says "the remnant of Jacob." That surely means the inspired people of Israel, that surely means the people of Israel gathered into the fold of Christ, and evangelizing the world, the Holy Ghost coming down in showers of blessing in response to the preaching of the Gospel to the people who will hear it. Showers of blessing there shall be. "And the remnant of Jacob shall be among the Gentiles in the midst of many people as a lion among the beasts of the forest, as a young lion among the flocks of sheep: who, if he go through, both treadeth down, and teareth in pieces, and none can deliver." We read that Israel is God's battle-axe, that Israel is for the defence, not only of the truth of God, but for the freedom and for the help of the nations that are downtrodden. We must pause here just to remind ourselves of some of the dangers that beset us. I do not know if you make a connected whole of this, but to my mind it is perfectly clear, and I hope the Holy Spirit will make it clear to you. We come to the 13th of Matthew and we remember that this remnant of Judah is to be as dew and shower, and we remember that our Lord tells the parable of the Wheat and the Tares. I want you to notice in the parable of the Sower that it was the Word of God that was the seed. "The seed is the Word of God." And in the parable of the Tares, the seed are the children of the Kingdom, and it is sown in the field which is the field of the world. And while men sleep the enemy comes and sows the spurious kind of wheat, which is an imitation of the real wheat, and which probably will try to set up a kingdom in opposition to the kingdom of Israel, and it may appear to possess the power of the Holy Spirit. While it may seem to be like it, yet it is utterly different from it. And the two are to grow together until the harvest. And we are to be warned in order that we may stand true to the Word of God and to the Gospel which is entrusted to us, and to the spiritual work which is ours to-day. And both as national and as God's spiritual children, you hear about the remnant of grace, and although all Israel was not saved when the Apostle was writing, all Israel is to be saved. Nationally Israel is to be saved when the Lord returns to build up Zion, and eventually to reign in Jerusalem.

WEEK BY WEEK.

BY A. R. H.

ON November 12th, the historic ceremony of inaugurating the ROUND-TABLE CONFERENCE on INDIA took place in the famous ROYAL GALLERY of the HOUSE of LORDS, "that august chamber of heavy gilt walls and high-domed ceiling of old gold, in which so many epic pages of British history have been written."

H.M. KING GEORGE V, KING of the BRITAINS and EMPEROR of INDIA, presided over the assembly composed of his principal Ministers, the RULING PRINCES of INDIA, the DOMINION PREMIERS and leaders of all shades of political thought throughout the EMPIRE as a whole. The brilliant colouring of the robes and headdress of the INDIAN PRINCES added greatly to the impressiveness of a scene of great splendour, unique in the annals of the EMPIRE.

"An hour before the CONFERENCE opened the GALLERY had the chill atmosphere of an empty cathedral," writes the Times. "The morning sun filtered coldly through the stained-glass windows; the colouring in the tapestries seemed strangely subdued. But gradually the great hall came to life. . . ."

A little while later and the spectacle in the HALL might have represented a magnificent scene in some Eastern Palace. Never have the ornate walls of the ROYAL GALLERY enclosed a scene more brilliant and resplendent. For gathered here to meet the KING-EMPEROR are the spiritual and temporal rulers of some 319 millions of his Oriental subjects.

" It was nearly ten minutes to twelve before the delegates were invited to take their seats. They sat round the long, oval-shaped mahogany table, on small red morocco leather chairs emblazoned with the royal insignia in gold," writes the Daily Express, taking up the description for us. " In the centre, on one side of the room, beneath a vast fresco of WELLINGTON and BLUCHER at WATERLOO, stood the massive golden throne, before which the KING presently appeared, to read and his opening speech.

" Sharply at twelve, as BIG BEN boomed out the first stroke of the hour, a deep hush suddenly swept over the crowded assembly, and there ensued the silence of a sepulchre. The KING had appeared at the western entrance to the GALLERY."

Official Opening of the Indian Round-Table Conference in the Royal Gallery of the House of Lords, 12th November, 1930.

The KING-EMPEROR, accompanied by the PRIME MINISTER and ROYAL CHAMBERLAIN, walked, with fine dignity, straight to the ROYAL THRONE. Here, bowing to his PRINCES and MINISTERS, first to the right and then on the left, he sat down for an instant, then rose, and proceeded in a slow, clear, resonant voice, directed into a small silver microphone before him, to declare the CONFERENCE open. His words were broadcast to the ends of the earth. The entire assembly stood while the KING spoke. The speech which lasted six minutes was as follows :—

It affords me much satisfaction to welcome in the capital of my Empire the representatives of the princes, chiefs, and people of India, and to inaugurate their Conference with my Ministers and with representatives of the other parties composing the Parliament in whose precincts we are assembled.

More than once the Sovereign has summoned historic assemblies on the soil of India, but never before have British and Indian statesmen and rulers of Indian States met, as you now meet, in one place and round one table to discuss the future system of government for India, and seek agreement for the guidance of my Parliament as to the foundations upon which it must stand.

Nearly ten years ago, in a message to my Indian Legislature, I dwelt upon the significance of its establishment in the constitutional progress of India. Ten years is but a brief span in the life of any nation, but this decade has witnessed, not only in India, but throughout all the nations forming the British Commonwealth, a quickening and growth in ideals and aspirations of nationhood which defy the customary measurement of time.

It should, therefore, be no matter of surprise to the men of this generation that, as was then contemplated, it should have become necessary to estimate and review the results of what was begun ten years ago, and to make further provision for the future. Such a review has been lately carried out by the Statutory Commission appointed by me for that purpose, and you will have before you the outcome of their labours, together with other contributions which have been or can be made to the solution of the great problem confronting you.

No words of mine are needed to bring home to you the momentous character of the task to which you have set your hands. Each one of you will, with me, be profoundly conscious how much depends, for the whole of the British Commonwealth, on the issue of your consultations. This community of interest leads me to count it as of happy augury that there should be present to-day the representatives of my Governments in all the Sister States of that Commonwealth.

I shall follow the course of your proceedings with the closest and most sympathetic interest, not indeed without anxiety, but with a greater confidence. The material conditions which surround the lives of my subjects in India affect me nearly, and will be ever present in your thoughts during your forthcoming deliberations.

I have also in mind the just claims of majorities and minorities; of men and women; of town dwellers and tillers of the soil; of landlords and tenants; of the strong and the weak; of the rich and the poor; of the races, castes, and creeds of which the body politic is composed. For these things I care deeply.

I cannot doubt that the true foundation of self-government is in the fusion of such divergent claims into mutual obligations and in their recognition and fulfilment. It is my hope that the future Government of India, based on this foundation, will give expression to her honourable aspirations.

May your discussions point the way to the sure achievement of this end, and may your names go down in history as those of men who served India well, and whose endeavours advanced the happiness and prosperity of all my beloved people.

I pray that Providence may grant you, in bounteous measure, wisdom, patience, and good will.

The KING, having concluded, paused for a moment to survey the gathering before him. He then shook hands with the PRIME MINISTER, bowed to the delegates, first on his right, and then on his left, and finally withdrew from the GALLERY.

A spontaneous murmur of appreciation broke the respectful silence in which His MAJESTY retired from the Conference. Attendants hurried to remove the scarlet and gold throne from the dais as the MAHARAJAH of PATIALA—wearing a striking blue puggri—rose to propose that the PRIME MINISTER should preside. His first words gave the assembly the chance to express their sentiments and let loose the warm cheers that had only waited the appropriate moment. The MAHARAJAH of PATIALA said: "The gracious address which His MAJESTY the KING-EMPEROR has just delivered strikes a responsive chord in our hearts; and if we can succeed in following the lead which he has given us I feel confident that our deliberations will be crowned with success. As CHANCELLOR of the CHAMBER of PRINCES I have the honour to propose that the PRIME MINISTER be appointed as chairman to preside over our deliberations."

The PRIME MINISTER took the chair, and addressed the Assembly, saying:—

My first duty as Chairman of this Conference is to ask your consent that I should convey our humble duty to His Majesty and an expression of the loyal gratitude with which we have welcomed his gracious presence here and of the inspiration which his words have given us. I know also that you would have me include in your message our loyal and grateful appreciation of the kindly solicitude of Her Majesty the Queen which my Indian friends have been privileged to experience already. Nor are we unmindful that it is to His Majesty's gracious permission that we owe the honour of holding our meeting in this Chamber to-day and hereafter in the ROYAL PALACE OF ST. JAMES'S.*

We are deeply sensible of these signal marks of their Majesties' sympathy and favour.

I am very conscious of the responsibility you have put upon me. But responsibility lies heavily on us all at this Conference. For we are now at the very birth of a new history. The declarations made by British Sovereigns and statesmen from time to time that Great Britain's work in India was to prepare her for self-government have been plain.

The task that lies ahead of us is beset by difficulties for the solution of which the past affords no ready-made guide; there are stubborn diversities of view that have still to be brought together, and conflicting interests that have hitherto proved irreconcilable.

We must bring to our task all the resources of mutual trust, of practical sagacity, of statesmanship, which we can command.

This is not the time even for reciting, to say nothing of prejudging, our problems. We shall meet them as we proceed. Let us face them as men determined to surmount them. Why not? What problems of growth and of development in liberty and institutions have our people not faced, and united we remain, in spite of all our diversities, because of our skill in harmonizing differences by reasonable mutual accommodation.

His Majesty's presence at the opening of our deliberations enabled us to understand both the strength and the flexibility of the bond which binds our whole Commonwealth of Nations together in loyalty and devotion to the Crown. The attendance of representatives of the Dominion Governments is an earnest of the interest and good will with which the Sister States in the Commonwealth of Nations will follow our labours. The association of the Princes for the first time in joint conclave with representatives of the people of British India is symbolical of the gradual moulding together of India into one whole.

When I turn to the representatives of British India I am mindful, it is true, of India's different communities and languages and interests, but I am reminded still more of the quickening and unifying influences which have grown irresistibly from her contact with Great Britain, and, indeed, of the aspirations for a united India which were in the minds of her philosophers and her rulers before the first English trader set foot on her shores.

Nor is it without significance that we, who, though not of India, also seek India's honour, are drawn from all three parties in this Parliament, on the inter-play of whose rivalries, no less than ideals, is built up our British system of government.

Apart from these things, surely the simple fact that we have come here to sit at one table with the set and sole purpose of India's advancement within the companionship of the Commonwealth, is in itself an undeniable sign of progress towards that end, and also an inspiring challenge to reach agreement.

Things have been said in the past, whether in anger, in blindness, or for mischief, which we had better forget at this table. Whatever be the story that is to be written of this Conference, be assured that it will be written. Let us strive to make it worthy of the best political genius of our peoples and to add by it to the respect paid by the world to both our nations.

Conspicuous in all the speeches of the INDIAN PRINCES and Representatives which followed, was a note of prayer and dependence upon DIVINE guidance. This consciousness of the presence of spiritual reality is perhaps the most precious quality in Indian character. Combined with a fervent loyalty for the THRONE and CROWN we feel that this quality represents the ideal soil in which to sow the seed of the truth of the fact that the HOUSE of WINDSOR is and our KING, as member of that HOUSE, occupies the THRONE of ISRAEL as "vice-regent" to JEHOVAH, like his illustrious predecessor.

We feel that the INDIAN PRINCES, with their keen perception of the spiritual significance of kingship, would be quick to recognize the superlative portent of this matter. For in looking to the KING we must never forget "Him Whose Minister he is." Moreover the words which the QUEEN of SHEBA addressed to SOLOMON, are equally applicable to the occupant of the BRITISH THRONE:—

* St. Jacob.

"Blessed be the LORD thy GOD,
Which delighted in thee to set thee on HIS THRONE,
To be king for the LORD thy GOD."‡

The KING of ISRAEL is CHIEF-GOVERNOR§ to JEHOVAH, "occupying" until He come Whose right¶ it is. For if the BRITISH THRONE is the throne of DAVID, it is the throne of the KINGDOM and of the LORD, as it is written:—"Then Solomon sat on the

as KING, instead of DAVID his father, and prospered; and all ISRAEL obeyed him."[1]

Thus the prayer of DAVID for ISRAEL is equally a prayer for the BRITISH THRONE and KINGDOM—modern representative of ancient ISRAEL:—

"Thine, O LORD, is the greatness,
And the power, and the glory,
And the victory, and the majesty;
For all that is in the Heaven and in the earth is Thine;
Thine is the KINGDOM, O LORD,
And Thou art exalted as HEAD above all."[2]

Next week the speeches of the Ruling Princes of India will be recorded.

MR. S. E. STEELE, of Liverpool, addressed the members of the Rochdale Branch recently. Mr. H. Bates presided.

The subject of the lecture was "The Early British Church." In introducing it Mr. Steele said the records of the early Church in Britain and of the Druids were so interwoven and connected that it was impossible to consider one without the other. Had he been asked, say, thirty or forty years ago, the question who was the first missioner to preach the Gospel in England he would unhesitatingly have replied, "St. Augustine, at the end of the fifth century." This was believed by the majority of people; it was taught in our schools, including Church of England schools at that time, and was universally claimed by the Roman Catholics. Facts, however, would prove how erroneous that belief was. For the foundation of the Church we must go back some 3,400 years to the setting up of the tabernacle by Moses in the wilderness and the consecration of Aaron and his sons as priests. The speaker then dealt with the way in which the worship of God was continued during the wanderings of the children of Israel. It appeared tolerably certain that Christianity was first introduced in England by Joseph of Arimathea and his compatriots in A.D. 36–39, followed by Simon Zelotes, Aristobulus, who became the first Bishop of Britain, and St. Paul himself. The first church to be built in England was at Glastonbury. The excavations which had taken place at Glastonbury, according to the official surveyor, were all corroborative of the story told us of the wicker church (the model of which might be seen at the British Museum) at Glastonbury having been there.

What was the attitude of the Druids towards this apparently new religion? We had heard that their religion greatly resembled that of the early patriarchs. The main principles of Druidism were founded in Asia by Gwydelon Ganhebon (who was said to have been Seth, the son of Adam) when he was fifty years of age. From Asia that religion was brought into this country by Hu Gadarn, who was a contemporary of Abraham. Christianity was a new thing in Asia, but there was never a time that the Druids in Britain held not its doctrines. Long before Christianity was established in Judea, Britain, from the earliest periods, had a religion called Druidism, and that religion prepared the people for the acceptance of Christianity, which was planted in the country by Joseph of Arimathea.

THE HASTINGS AND ST. LEONARDS BRANCH.

THIS Branch held their annual Sale of Work at the Masonic Hall, St. Leonards, the proceeds of which are devoted to the funds of the local Branch.

The stallholders were: Mrs. Modin (Hon. Sec.) and Mrs. Holbrook (wife of the local President), assisted by Mrs. Hale, Mrs. F. Lake, Mrs. Jones and Miss F. Smith. In the afternoon and evening lectures were given by Mr. John Leech, M.A., LL.B., K.C., the subject being Israel's relationship with Jehovah, as illustrated in the prophetic writings of Hosea, Isaiah and the Song of Solomon, where the marriage and divorce of Israel is shown, followed by the return of the divorced wife, the courtship and coming re-marriage. The simile presented in those prophecies showed clearly how, after Israel's separation and divorcement from Jehovah, through idolatry, the nation would ultimately be restored to favour through redemption, with the eventual Coming of Christ to restore all things. Whilst the Church, comprising those gathered out of all nations, had its mission to perform as the body of Christ, the nation of Israel as the bride must come to repentance before Christ's Kingdom is established on earth. In this the lecturer lucidly explained the distinction between the Church as the body and the nation of Israel as the bride of Christ. The Rev. H. Newton, Vicar of Rye Harbour, presided at the evening lecture, having been prevented from attending during the afternoon. The addresses were listened to with keen interest, among those present being representatives from Bexhill and Rye. Between the two lectures many partook of tea, provided under the superintendence of Mrs. Hebert.

We learn with regret of the death of the Rev. John W. G. Bishop, of Tunbridge Wells. As a B.-I. he found delight in our literature, and he was a regular reader of this journal. He had given many addresses in a manner that made him many friends among old and young. His friends have our deepest sympathy.

We much regret to report the death of the Rev. E. McManus, of Montreal, in his 88th year. He was a devoted servant of God, and a stalwart British-Israelite for many years. We tender to his family our very sincere sympathy in their great loss.

THE SECRETARY-GENERAL'S NEWS AND NOTES.

There can be no meetings at Headquarters next week as all efforts are being concentrated on the Annual Sale which takes place on Wednesday and Thursday, December 3rd and 4th, from 3 to 9.30 each day. Teas and suppers provided at a nominal charge. There will be a musical programme each day, and stereoscopic pictures may be seen of excavations in Bible Lands. Our friends and supporters are cordially invited to do some of their Christmas shopping at this Sale. Those who may not yet have sent their gifts are reminded that any useful articles will be welcomed, including comestibles: cakes, biscuits, fruits, sweets, jams and various bottled goods, etc., etc. The B.-I. Crusaders will have a special stall as last year. We warmly thank all who have already generously sent donations and articles. Every penny goes to the B.-I. funds. Our friends at a distance naturally prefer, as a rule, to send money, and we are exceedingly grateful for same.

Mr. John Leech, M.A., K.C., is to preach for the Rev. Canon Savage, M.A., to-morrow—Sunday—at 11, at St. Bartholomew's Priory Church, Smithfield.

Mr. Herbert Garrison gives his lecture on "Volcanoes," with thrilling lantern pictures, for our Hastings and St. Leonards Branch, on Friday next, December 5th, at 7.30, in the Masonic Hall.

* * *

Mr. Arthur Exley, J.P., President of our Brisbane Branch, gave a farewell address at Headquarters on Wednesday of last week. The Secretary-General expressed the appreciation of the members who had heard Mr. Exley's addresses at Congress and at Headquarters, and wished him and Mrs. Exley a safe and pleasant voyage back to their home in Australia. They thanked us all for the happy time they had experienced in the Old Land, and then they joined the President, Deputy-President and the Secretary-General and members of the Executive Committee at tea in our Reception Room.

* * *

The Rev. Kenneth Dodds gave the address at Headquarters on Thursday evening.

* * *

Successful and well-attended meetings were held last week in the Town Hall, Chiswick, and the Victoria Hall, Ealing. The speakers at the former were the Rev. Dr. Pascoe Goard and Mr. John J. Morey, with the Secretary-General in the chair; and at the latter the Rev. Maxwell Carnson and Mr. Morey. Keen appreciation was manifested on both occasions. Our Manifesto was published in the Middlesex County Times in advance of the Ealing meeting.

* * *

Mr. Henry Iveson, of Rochdale, gave his lecture and exhibited his films on Palestine for our Harrogate Branch on November 17th, and our local Secretary—Miss K. Noble—writes in very warm terms of the gratitude of the members for Mr. Iveson's excellent lecture and the interesting pictures taken by himself during his last visit to the Holy Land. It is hoped that he will visit the Branch early in the New Year with another series of pictures on the Great Pyramid. We hope other Branches will also have the privilege of seeing these pictures, and of hearing Mr. Iveson's descriptions.

A very successful three days' mission has been held by the Rev. Joseph Gay, A.T.S., at Croydon, on November 12th to 14th, under the auspices of the Croydon Branch. Mr. Gay conducted Gospel meetings each afternoon and evening on the Wednesday and Thursday in the Hall of the Art Gallery in Park Lane, and on the Friday in the Horniman Hall (Y.M.C.A.). Great interest was shown throughout, and at the closing meeting the Horniman Hall was filled. Mr. Gay dealt with such subjects as:—"The Gospel of Redeeming Grace," "The Evangel of the Kingdom as taught in the Parables of Our Lord," "The Baptism of the Holy Ghost and the Gift of Tongues."

The Croydon Branch will register many new members as the result of the mission. The offerings and special donations given at the various services will more than cover the cost. It is our strong desire to have such missions held wherever possible.

On November 18th and 19th Mr. Harrison Hill visited the Dorking and Horsham Branches of the B.-I.-W.F., giving two addresses at each place. The afternoon address was on the subject of "British-Israel," and the evening on "The Bible in Song and Story." Dr. Goard has often said that the way to popularize our B.-I. Message is to sing about it; and this opinion was fully endorsed by the friends, both at Dorking and Horsham.

At Dorking we were glad to see Mr. J. E. Turner, an active worker for British-Israel Truth, whose pamphlet on "The Book of Common Prayer" and occasional articles in THE NATIONAL MESSAGE have given instruction to many, while at Horsham, after Mr. Hill had made an appreciative allusion to Dr. Aldersmith (formerly Medical Officer at Christ's Hospital, the famous Blue Coat School at Horsham, and world-renowned as a writer on British-Israel, co-author with Mr. Davidson of "The Great Pyramid, Its Divine Message"), a lady came forward and said: "Mr. Hill, we used to hear you at the School in my father's time, when you gave your Musical Recitals. I am Miss Aldersmith." "And you believe as your father believed?" "Yes, indeed," said the lady. Having some young people in his audience, Mr. Hill asked, "Now, do you see quite clearly the difference between Israel and Judah?" and they smiled their assent.

Mr. Wakefield, Chairman of the Horsham Branch, presided at both meetings in that town.

One of the best meetings of the Burton-on-Trent Branch yet held took place at Boots' Cafe, on Wednesday, November 19th, and was addressed by the Rev. T. H. Whitehouse. The subject was "Christ or Chaos," and the present world-crisis. The Rev. Gilbert Davies, M.A., Vicar of Branstone, presided. The lecturer dealt in his usual lucid manner with the grave condition of events in Russia; everything pointed to a great upheaval ere very long. It was noticed that large numbers of those present were strangers, present for the first time, who showed great interest in the lecture and expressed their intention of attending Mr. Whitehouse's next lecture at Burton on Wednesday, December 10th. A large number of young men were present and the room was full. The Cause is undoubtedly growing here.

A telegram from Calcutta says that Messrs. Hobbs and Sutcliffe have refused to play cricket on Sundays. Mr. Hobbs said nothing would induce him to play on Sunday. He had been brought up in a religious atmosphere, and he intended to respect the Sabbath. Thank God for men who have the courage of their convictions. We badly need such men in our national life to-day.

* * *

Miss Hamilton Hunter has given two addresses for our Southport Branch, and they have aroused the enthusiasm of the members and friends to a high pitch. At the close of the second meeting, Miss Hunter commended the Crusader Movement, and the B.-I. Crusader paper as well as THE NATIONAL MESSAGE. Another visit from the lecturer is eagerly looked forward to.

* * *

The Rev. Commander Roberts, R.N., writes that: "Israel's Scripture and Prayer Union," of which he is Honorary Secretary, is entering upon its Jubilee, and it has thousands of members. He asks that members will kindly renew their subscriptions by sending him 6d. in postal orders not stamps. His address is "Madeley," Upper Hermosa Road, Teignmouth, Devon. We hope to publish some particulars of this valuable branch of our work in a future issue.

Mr. R. O. Lucas writes:—

"Regular meetings have been held by both Toronto East and Toronto Central Branches. Mr. Thos. Ransom addressed Toronto East on 'The Purpose of the British Empire.' A large meeting greeted him, and expressed its keen appreciation of his splendid address. Mr. J. R. Spearman gave a lecture before our Toronto Central Branch, the title of which was 'The Enduring Stone Kingdom.' It was thoroughly enjoyed by the full meeting. The Women's Auxiliaries of these two branches are both doing excellent work. The ladies of Toronto Central are planning and working for a bazaar which they are going to hold early in December, and which all are sincerely hoping will be a great success. Miss L. G. Twohy, Secretary of our Hamilton Branch, has written a joyful letter advising us of plans to obtain a centrally located hall in Hamilton for their regular meetings—and how these plans, by God's blessing, are materializing. We trust that God will continue to guide and bless them in their splendid work for Him in Hamilton."

Those who heard Mr. Basil Stewart's address to the delegates at Headquarters during our recent Congress, when it was requested it might be printed for wider circulation, will be glad to hear that it can be had at our Bookroom, price 3d. a copy, in pamphlet form*, as given at St. Bartholomew's, Smithfield, on October 5th last, when it created a deep impression on all who heard it. In view of the Imperial Conference, which has since held its sittings, this pamphlet is timely, and we draw attention to the Addendum added at time of going to press.

Somewhere in this world there is a Nation which is God's Old Israel, which was, and is, to endure while the "Sun, moon and ordinances of heaven endure."

The situation of that mighty Kingdom to-day Professor Odlum indicates by the sayings and writings of many prominent men who have written or spoken concerning the British Empire. These opinions, the majority of which were expressed by men of nations other than our own, all point to the conclusion that the only nations conforming to every detail of this description are the British Empire and America.

THE NEW YEAR

Once again the time of good resolutions is upon us. Each succeeding year we make our resolutions, some of which are kept, while the others are forgotten in the rush of our daily existence. Why not adopt a new method this year ? Why not say to yourself : " I will try, by word AND deed, to procure a new convert to British-Israel teaching " ? This should be the good resolve of every B.-I. this coming New Year's Day, and every day. And the method ? It is comparatively seldom that we gain a new adherent through the introductory casual talk on B.-I. matters, given earnestly enough it is true, but lacking the vital power of words, expression and continuity of thought that compels the listener to think—" Why, there must be more in this matter than meets the eye." The easily assimilated presentation can really only be given by a graduated course of lectures, or better still, by the printed word.

To put forth this presentation is the reason for the existence of THE COVENANT PUBLISHING CO., LTD., and THE NATIONAL MESSAGE, LTD. We are constantly being asked to forward copies of books that present the B.-I. case in an easily understood manner, and we shall be very pleased to do the same for you. Why not make your resolve and ask us to send a copy of one of the undermentioned books to the person you have chosen to interest in our truth, and at the same time start a subscription to " The National Message " for him (or her), in order that the latest B.-I. thought and news may be constantly brought to notice ? By this means your good resolution will probably bear fruit and thus bring another individual to a realisation of his (or her) heritage.

The books shown below have been chosen, because they all set out to state the whole consecutive British-Israel story. Each of them does this, but the mode of presentation differs only in the author's general ideas on the subject, which are in each case sound.

EDITORIAL.

The following should be read in the light of Israel Truth, namely, that the Anglo-Saxon nations are the continuation of the Israel nation ; the inheritors of her Charters ; the possessors of her guarantees and immunities from destruction ; the executors of her commissions.

It should be understood that Authors alone are responsible for the views expressed in their Articles.

GOD.

THE PEOPLE. △ THE BIBLE.—VII.

By the Rev. W. Pascoe Goard, LL.D.

In our past studies we have seen, first, that the Bible is one continued story of the birth and progress of the Israel people, from Abraham to the end of time. Each of the books of the Bible constitutes a contribution to the one continued story, both as to the Old Testament books and those of the New Testament.

The historical portion of the Bible is unique in its marvellous power of compressing the statement of universal, cosmic and historical facts into astonishingly few words. Short telegram sentences convey information enough ordinarily to fill volumes, and the impression given is always full, accurate, and definite. All other literature halts very far in the rear of the Bible in this regard.

It is also unique in that it unhesitatingly tells of the inter-activities of other and higher orders of life, such as the angel hosts and angel messengers, and even the activity of God Himself, in earthly and human affairs.

It is still further unique that in both broad outlines and specific details it carries forward the pre-written history of the Israel people, and incidentally of other Empires and nations, for thousands of years beyond the date of writing, even to the end of the age.

We have said that there were many prophets, but only one prophecy. There were many contributors, but only one story. There were many books, but, quite correctly, the whole of them combined is called the Bible, which in plain English means the Book.

We have seen that the people, known as Israel in Bible history, and as Celts and Saxons in modern history, have marched along the exact pathway outlined in the history and prophecy of the Bible, and that they are still marching past the appointed mile-posts on the same great highway at the present time, heading straight for the appointed consummation of the ages which is indicated in the Bible.

We have seen that from the beginning God manifested Himself in Person, visible at times to appointed witnesses, and making His Presence known by word and action continuously through the ages.

In the last two numbers it has been our privilege to see Him as the august King and Judge, carrying through a Supreme Court judgment on Judah and Jerusalem, which brought about the deportation of the people finally from Palestine, and the destruction of Jerusalem and the Temple which they had defiled.

We have seen a similar judgment upon the House of Israel pronounced to the Elders of Israel assembled in the house of Ezekiel in the midst of the captivity of Israel ; ending in the withdrawal from Israel of the privilege described as "enquiring of the Lord."

This unique privilege had been enjoyed by Israel and Judah from the organization of the nation. They brought their problems to the Lord through priest or prophet, and received specific directions as to the course of action to be pursued under the circumstances. This privilege should be no more until the latter days, when the privilege should be restored. Further, the people were sent away to "serve every man his idol," manifestly on the ground that it was less evil to offer idolatrous sacrifice to an idol than to offer idolatrous sacrifice to the Lord, inasmuch as this was to offer an abomination to Him. The serving of idols involved neither the worship of God nor His Holy Name, and, as the people would not cease offering idolatrous sacrifices, it was better that they should offer them to stocks and stones than to God.

So Israel were sent away to serve their idols if they would not hearken unto God.

Now the two branches of God's servant people—Judah and Israel—had become unusable by Him. Therefore it became necessary to improvise a new agency for the carrying forward of the great purpose, and this emergency was met by the Divine erection and organization of the temporary or "seventy weeks" nation of the Jews.

It will be remarked that this "seventy weeks" nation was neither the House of Judah nor the House of Israel. It was a new organization called "the nation of the Jews." It was at this time that the word "Jew" and "the nation of the Jews" became officially recognized as terms indicating this temporary nation. The word "Jew" had been twice previously used to indicate groups of people of Judah. But now it is used to indicate a nation, an organized ethnical unit.

So we see that, counting the national organizations made up of Israel people within the purview of the Bible, we have:

First, united Israel, from Moses to Samuel—and under Saul.

Secondly, eleven-tribed Israel, under the House of Saul after Saul's death.

Thirdly, the single-tribed kingdom of Judah under David, during the seven years the House of Saul reigned over Israel after Saul's death.

Fourthly, reunited Israel under David and Solomon.

Fifthly, the ten-tribed House of Israel, separated from Judah from 975 B.C.

Sixthly, and contemporary with the House of Israel, two-tribed House of Judah, also from 975 B.C.

To simplify these matters we may say, first, united Israel from Moses to Saul, and again united under David and Solomon.

Then, the two nations Israel and Judah until the Captivities of both.

When both had gone into captivity, the Administration organized by the Lord, and the worship organized by the Lord, both ceased in the land, because the agencies which should have carried them on had been swept away into captivity.

Therefore, for the purpose of the great plan, it was necessary to supply another ethnical agency for the completion of the redemptive work involved in the great plan.

SO THE NATION OF THE JEWS WAS ESTABLISHED TO DO THE WORK.

We should not carry the word "Jew" back to any earlier period than this. The "Jews" gave to the world no system of Law. The "Jews" gave to the world very little of the Scriptures, namely, the historic books of Ezra and Nehemiah, and the prophecies of Haggai and of Zechariah, with some additions to the Book of Psalms, etc.

The period of the nation of the Jews produced the apocryphal books. These fall very, very much below the standard of the Scriptures, and yet the Apocrypha shows the level of the spiritual vision, and of the high-water mark of the sacred literature of the age.

The new Testament was not a Jewish production. The disciples who wrote or furnished the material which formed the basis of the Gospel narrative were Galileans. In the New Testament geographical and ethnological references to Galileans are carefully separated from "Jewry." St. Paul was of the tribe of Benjamin. His birthplace was in Tarsus, a city in the region inhabited by people of the Israel Captivity.

The destruction of the nation of the Jews was not the destruction of the House of Judah. That had been scattered among the nations centuries before. Much less was it the destruction of the House of Israel.

The nation of the Jews was suddenly erected by the Lord Almighty. Daniel states the fact and tabulates the reasons for the establishment of, and the work to be done by, the nation in the following virile words:—

"Seventy weeks" (490 years) "are determined upon thy people and upon thy holy city
To finish the transgression, and To make an end of sins, and
To make reconciliation for iniquity, and
To bring in everlasting righteousness, and To seal up the vision and prophecy, and To anoint the most Holy."

The determination to set up the nation is clearly set forth. Also the exact time during which it should function in the Divine plan.

In the tabulation, each separate item beginning with "to," the things for which the nation must be the theatre, and in part the agent of accomplishment, is set forth. Each one of these fundamental things furnishes a sufficient reason for the setting up of the nation, if all others were wanting.

The progress of the seventy weeks' nation and the time-table of work to be done are indicated in three periods:—

"Know therefore and understand, that:—
From the going forth of the commandment to restore and to build Jerusalem unto Messiah the Prince shall be seven weeks, and threescore and two weeks:
The street shall be built again, and the wall even in troublous times.
And after threescore and two weeks shall Messiah be cut off, but not for himself: and the people of the prince that shall come shall destroy the city and the sanctuary; and the end thereof shall be with a flood, and unto the end of the war desolations are determined. And he shall confirm the covenant with many for one week: and in the midst of the week he shall cause the sacrifice and the oblation to cease, and for the overspreading of abominations he shall make it desolate, even until the consummation, and that determined shall be poured upon the desolate."

This is a wonderful synopsis of the history of the seventy weeks' nation of the Jews. It would take a long article to unravel the whole, but the reader may find this done to his hand by the present writer in chapter xi, pages 133–141, of the book entitled, "The Documents of Daniel," which may be obtained from The Covenant Publishing Co., Ltd., 6, Buckingham Gate, London, S.W.1.

Ezra and Nehemiah give the history of the establishment of this seventy weeks' nation. With the exception of the organization of Israel at Sinai there never was a nation the origin of which was more graphically stated than this.

Haggai and Zechariah are Old Testament prophets dealing with the restoration, even as Jeremiah and Ezekiel deal with the sweeping away of the preceding Kingdom and House of Judah.

Maccabees may be read as good history of the troublous period dealt with therein, and the remaining books of the Apocrypha throw sidelights on the period.

Seven weeks of years were taken up with the restoration of the City and Temple. Sixty-two weeks of years passed away in the troubled history of the nation.

The last week of years is the all-important week, and in that was accomplished the things which are tabulated as we have seen above. This was the week which saw the baptism and ministry of Christ, when the great Personality of our Lord, surrounded by minor personalities; and the great activity of the Lord, furnished the personnel and narrative of the Gospels. This great week has set the high-water mark of human interest for the world ever since.

70 A.D. saw the destruction of the City, the destruction of the Temple, and the final scattering of the nation of the Jews.

So a great part of the Divine plan was undertaken and carried through by that ethnical unit, the Jewish nation.

From this time Israel of the Captivity and Israel in the Isles emerge into the scheme of things again, and are clearly presented to us as the nations of St. Paul's writings, unfortunately translated "Gentiles" instead of "nations."

To these we shall turn our attention in the next issue, and we shall see that the messages of the Prophets and Apostles concerning Israel in the latter days, addressed to "Israel in the Isles" and Israel of the Captivity, is the sweetest song which has ever been sung regarding God's people, His servant and witnessing "nation and company of nations."

"THIS PEOPLE HAVE I FORMED FOR MYSELF."

By HENRY D. HOUGHTON.

THERE are in the Bible many texts, clear, definite and forceful, which are era-making in their character, and yet are utterly overlooked.

Hidden away in Scripture there are prophecies of the most profound importance, of vital bearing upon our present position, and yet which are passed over unconcernedly.

For all the notice that is taken of them they might never be in the Word of God at all! And thousands of Christians do not know that they are there!

But whatever we may think of them, those are the lines upon which God is going to treat Israel, and rule the world; and no thing, and no one, can ever divert God from His purpose.

Here is one of them:—"This people have I formed for Myself: they shall shew forth My praise." (Isaiah xliii, 21.)

There is the Divine plan and purpose in Israel clearly announced.

Israel had failed, utterly and lamentably failed to keep God's Covenant, so much so that it ended for the Ten Tribes in God's anger, and, at last, banishment from their land.

Now what is God going to do about it?

His great Name was associated with Israel. Israel were called His people! He called them so Himself!

He was the God of Israel, He still calls Himself so in this very chapter!

"I am the Lord, your Holy One, the Creator of Israel, your King." (Isaiah xliii, 15.)

There is no sign whatever of casting-off! But abundant signs of mercy, forgiveness and restoration, and a never-ending entreaty of her to come back.

And yet God is apparently defeated, for the accumulated wickedness of the people had brought upon them dire punishment.

Will God accept His defeat?

If so, what becomes of His oath and His Name?

Now, in the very words of our text God announces His decision. And there is no ambiguity about it: it is as clear as the sun at noon! "This people have I formed for Myself; they shall shew forth My praise."

"THEY SHALL!" How strong, how definite, how final!

It is not admonition, it is declaration! It is not even a command, it is much more, it is the Almighty fiat.

It takes no account of difficulty, of hindrance, or even of unwillingness on the part of the people concerned.

"THEY SHALL!"

It is a cutting across Israel's purposes and inclinations, a clean sweep of all opposition and hindrance, the breaking-down of all reluctance and indecision—"THEY SHALL!"

This was spoken to Israel by God right at the commencement of Israel's long banishment; and shows unmistakably that He will not accept defeat. But that perverse, wicked, obstinate Israel should finally be completely mastered, won, loved into obedience, and become the spreaders of God's great evangel.

But take the term "THIS PEOPLE," and note its definiteness.

It refers to a people then present, and being spoken of.

It cannot refer to a latter-day Church, however worthy that Church may be. Nevertheless it is just possible that the latter-day Church in Israel is the very means whereby God is going to bring about His great purpose here spoken of in Israel herself.

For right in the very centre and heart of Israel the Church has been planted, and it is the means God is now using to bring about the knowledge of Himself and the fulfilment of His declared purposes.

The message however is to the Nation, the continued Nation, the same Nation! It says "THIS people"; the very people then existing, and of whom He says in verse 1: "O Israel, Fear not; for I have redeemed thee, I have called thee by thy name; thou art Mine."

Digitized by Google

But someone says: "Surely that cannot mean this wicked, rebellious, banished Israel!"

Well, that is what it says! Look at the verse but one previous: "For they would not walk in His ways, neither were they obedient unto His law." Surely that is clear. And yet these are the very people to whom He says, two verses later on, "O Israel, fear not; for I have redeemed thee; I have called thee by thy name; thou art Mine"! Marvellous words indeed.

But it says "called thee by thy name!" Where is the name? In the very same passage just quoted: "O ISRAEL!" There is the name, and it is called by God!

But says one, "It may mean a new, a latter-day "Israel"! Oh no! It does not! Look at verse 3: "I gave Egypt for thy ransom, Ethiopia and Seba for thee."

God is speaking of a people who came out of Egypt, whose people He destroyed that Israel might be ransomed. It cannot mean any new latter-day Israel!

Those are the people who came out of Egypt: "Redeemed" (verse 1), "Precious" (verse 4), "Loved" (verse 4); Saved at the expense of others (verse 4), who are commanded to "Fear not" (verse 5), whom God is going to bring back from the east and west, and north and south (verses 5, 6); who are blind to their origin, though they have eyes; who are deaf to the words of the Book, though they have ears (verse 8); God's witnesses (verse 10), For whose sake God sent to Babylon and brought down all their nobles (verse 14); These, these are the people of whom God says in verse 21:—"THEY SHALL shew forth My praise."

When we look at these words closely we shall see that this is an announcement that the Nation Israel shall become the world's evangelizer.

Let it be said here that this cannot refer to the Jews; they are only a small remnant of one Tribe; and they reject our Lord! It must then refer to "Israel." Now if we really believed this, it would set us all searching at once for the Nation showing forth God's praise, for by that one thing they may be identified with absolute certainty.

Again, look at this very decisive word, "SHALL." There is no interruption of its action: there cannot be!

With men a "They shall" is limited by the power of the earth-bound man who speaks it.

With God, the Almighty, the Everlasting, the Unchanging, those words assume power illimitable.

With Him "They shall" is not remonstrance, which may be either effectual or otherwise. It is decision, absolute and irrevocable.

Take a few passages of Scripture where this wonderful word "Shall" is used, and note their conclusiveness.

"And the Kingdom shall be the Lord's." (Obad. 21.)

"The Lord shall reign over them in Mount Zion." (Mic. iv, 7.)

"Then shall the Lord go forth and fight against them."

"In that day shall there be one Lord, and His Name One."

"The Lord of that servant shall come." (Luke xii, 46.)

"So shall we ever be with the Lord." (1 Thess. iv, 17.)

It is the word "Shall" which gives all these phrases their certainty. For if you could deprive that word when uttered by Jehovah of its conclusiveness, all hope in the Christian religion would have gone by the board.

But says one, "Israel failed after that!" Of course they did! THEY FAILED THEN! GOD TELLS THEM SO, AND UPBRAIDS THEM WITH IT! And yet makes this glorious declaration in spite of it all!

Nay, further, He tells them that though they have got tired of Him, ceased their sacrifices and worship, and made Him tired and wearied with their sins, yet for His Own sake He blots them all out, and will not remember them!

"I, even I, am He that blotteth out thy transgressions for Mine own sake, and will not remember thy sins." (Isa. xliii, 24, 25.)

Now why those words, "For Mine own sake"? Because of God's words to Abraham of an everlasting continuity of seed, and His promise to be a God unto him and to his seed after him, which covenant God said was to be "Between Me and thee and thy seed after thee in their generations for an everlasting covenant." (Gen. xvii, 7.)

God there binds Himself everlastingly to bless and favour Abraham's seed; and here is where God would be affected if Israel were altogether cast off!

The blotting out of their sins was part of His scheme and plan to maintain His oath to Abraham!

If they were cast off He failed!

And so He blots out their sins that He may maintain His ancient covenant and word with our great forefather, Abraham.

This chapter shows God at work for His holy Name's sake.

Even 125 years later God had not altered His mind, for Ezekiel xxxvi tells us the same thing!

"Therefore say unto the house of Israel, Thus saith the Lord God; I do not this for your sakes, O house of Israel, but for Mine holy Name's sake, which ye have profaned among the heathen whither ye went." (Verse 22.)

Again in verse 24 and onward we read of the work going on:—

"I will take you from among the heathen."

"Then will I sprinkle clean water upon you."

"A new heart also will I give you."

"I will put My Spirit within you."

"And ye shall dwell in the land."

"I will also save you from all your uncleannesses."

In all this we can see God's process of renewing perverse and wayward Israel, that they may be fitting ambassadors to spread forth His praise.

And then it finishes up with this declaration, "Not for your sakes do I this, saith the Lord God, ... be ashamed and confounded for your own ways, O house of Israel."

In those words, "For Mine holy Name's sake," lie Israel's safety and salvation.

For if God ceased to regard His holy Name Israel would indeed have no hope!

But for His holy Name's sake He deals with them in mercy, and changes their heart. "A new heart will I give you . . . . . I will put My Spirit within you, and cause you to walk in My statutes, and ye shall keep My judgments and do them." (xxxvi, 26, 27.)

What does all this mean? It means that the Israel of the Baal-worship shall become the teachers and preachers of the Lord!

Now we may understand the full force of St. Peter's words to the assembled Council: "Him hath God exalted with His right hand to be a Prince and a Saviour, for to give repentance to Israel and forgiveness of sins." (Acts v, 31.)

Digitized by Google

And also those other words of the devout Simeon when he looked upon the infant Christ: "Mine eyes have seen Thy salvation . . . . . A light to lighten the Gentiles, and the glory of Thy people Israel." (Luke ii, 32.)

This cannot even by the utmost stretch of charity be applied to the Jews; but it does apply most clearly and most forcibly to one Nation on the earth to day.

There we have, in this passage in Luke, God doing the very things which He had promised and purposed in Isaiah xliii: "They shall shew forth My praise."

Now turn your eyes from Scripture and look over the Nations to find them. For most assuredly they are here!

In all the wide sweep of the Nations there must be (if God is true) one answering to these tell-tale marks! And most assuredly there is. For amid all the self-seeking, the rivalry, the grasping, and the everlasting greed of men, there is a Nation of the Cross!

There is a Nation showing forth God's praise; and if it is not Israel, then God's purposes and plans have come to nought!

But we may be sure that God saw the end from the beginning; He knew the final issue when He said of Israel, "This people have I formed for Myself; they shall shew forth My praise."

This will explain the unbounded joy of God at the complete and overwhelming success of His scheme to save and redeem Israel, and through her to accomplish His good purposes to the world.

"Sing, O ye heavens; . . . break forth into singing, ye mountains, O forest, and every tree therein: for the Lord hath redeemed Jacob, and glorified Himself in Israel." (Isa. xliv, 23.)

There is one people to-day who not only exhibit all the marks of Israel, but in their national worship take to themselves the position of this chosen Nation!

In the Church of England in both Morning and Evening Services the Priest says, "Lord, save Thy people." And the congregation respond, "And bless Thine inheritance."

Who do they mean by "Thy people"? Anybody, everybody? Certainly not. For they have just said, "and make Thy chosen people joyful."

Probably some would answer, "It means the true Church." But it could not mean that, for the Church is already saved, and to pray for true believers to be saved would be ridiculous.

But perhaps some say, "They say it in ignorance because it is in the Service." That, however, is no explanation, for the originators of that Service—many hundreds of years ago—were not ignorant. They wrote it with full knowledge of who we are.

And so the prayer goes up every Service throughout the year from a hundred thousand voices, "Lord, save Thy people." And the people of the inheritance reply, "And bless Thine inheritance."

When our Saviour was upon earth He expressly forbade men, when speaking of their fellow men, from using a certain word.

And yet He, exercising His sovereignty, twice used that same word to condemn men.

Once, concerning the man who piled up riches and was not rich towards God—"THOU FOOL!"

And once concerning men of an opposite character, religious, devoted followers of God, yet who, in their prejudice and blindness, did not believe the prophets! "O fools, and slow of heart to believe all that the prophets have spoken." (Luke xxiv, 25.)

Think of it, these men, though they were devout sincere men, yet they were marked by our Lord with that terrible denunciation, and called "fools" because they did not give the prophets due credence!

Has that any application to-day?

Do men to-day, even religious men, believe ALL that the prophets have spoken?

If they don't, how is it possible that they can escape that fearful word of our Lord?

The word He has for ever forbidden us to use, He Himself applies to them! How searching then must be that condemnation!

CONGRESS ADDRESSES.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.

DR. PASCOE GOARD said: Major Knowles, Dr. Mountain, fathers and brethren, fellow citizens of the great Commonwealth of Israel,—I think that you will agree that we may quote a very striking passage of Scripture: "Lord, it is good for us to be here."

I have great pleasure in bringing to you the most hearty greetings of our brethren Overseas. From the various points it has been my privilege to touch in the United States, and the various Provinces of the Dominion of Canada, most hearty greetings have been sent. In many places people who desired eagerly to be present at the Congress and failing to do so have arranged groups for prayer all through this week. They are now meeting and praying that God's blessing may rest upon this central annual gathering, upon this great Revival Movement in all the world. I present to you the greetings of our friends from Canada. Others have done it from other parts of the Empire.

One other promise I made, and I think you will be interested in it. Passing through the City of Winnipeg I was met by Dr. Wadge, of Winnipeg. With him was one whom I met earlier in the summer. He is a Jewish scholar. He speaks several languages. He reads the Hebrew Continental literature, and the literature on our own shelves. He has been very radical, almost Communistic. He was brought into contact with the British-Israel doctrine. He then searched the libraries—Jewish, European, Anglo-Saxon—for data to test the matter, and ended by confessing

"IT IS THE TRUTH."

He insisted that I should say to you, on his behalf, the Jews also are "British." He went on to explain what he meant. That the word "Brit" means covenant, and "ish" means man. Abraham was the man with whom God made the covenant, and with his seed for ever, "and because they of Judah are Abraham's seed, as well as Israel, they also are British" or "covenant men."

We have talked a good deal about "British-Israel Truth." Some have spoken of it as though it were a separate Truth, classified and labelled, and placed alongside the Gospel.

Digitized by Google

That is not my position, and I do not think it is yours. I do not believe much in talking of "British-Israel Truth" as a separate thesis, I rather believe in talking "Truth." If there has been an abstract of truth made, if there has been a separation between this and that department of truth, the brethren who have spiritualized the Gospel have done the separating, not we. Spiritualized truth is specialized truth—truth involves both the natural and the spiritual. Think that over. We can no more separate the national from the spiritual than we can separate the mind and soul from the body. You may separate the soul from the body, but you kill the man in the process: and you can separate spiritual truths from national truths, but in doing it you kill the life of the truth. When the nation awakens to the significance of the implication of the truth and Israel's part in it; and when the nation in both material things and spiritual things falls into line with the truth, then the dark clouds, national, economic and spiritual and otherwise, that now overshadow our sky, will disappear like the mists of the morning, and the Sun of righteousness will shine out upon us.

"Stand ye in the ways, and see, and ask for the old paths, where is the good way, and walk therein, and ye shall find rest for your souls," cried the Prophet to Israel. The old path and the good way began with the call of Abraham, and then sweeps right on to the time when the Son shall "yield up to the Father, and Himself become subject to the Father, that God may be all in all." That is the old path: that is the good way. Let our feet walk therein, and God will walk in that pathway with us.

It has been my privilege to minister to many branches of the Christian Church. I was born in the Church of England. The foundation of my Biblical and spiritual knowledge was laid there. I memorized the Collects and the prayers and the services of the Church of England, and it has been my privilege, on both sides of the ocean, to worship, and, at times, to minister in the Church of England. All phases of the Gospel are touched upon and preached upon in the beautiful order of service provided in the Book of Common Prayer. I have felt in the Church of England supremely this, the consciousness, the reverent apprehension of the Presence of God the Father. It is impossible to live in the atmosphere of the Book of Common Prayer without arriving at that consciousness. Whatever may be said or done in the pulpit, the glorious words of the liturgy ring out with the full clear message of the Presence of God the Father. As the minister leads, and as the people respond, there grows up everywhere that consciousness. There is general agreement in the Nonconformist Churches to centre their teaching about the Personality of Jesus Christ. Some know Him simply as a man; but such a Man! Some are not quite sure as to whether He is more than a Man upon Whom Divinity descended. Others know Him as God the Son manifested in the flesh, the Second Person of the Holy Trinity. But they are all preaching Jesus. In such Churches one is brought face to face with the historic Person, Jesus of Bethlehem and Nazareth.

The Pentecostal Alliance, the Christian and Missionary Alliance, the Nazarenes, and all those organizations which arose out of the great Wesleyan revival, are emphasizing the Person and Ministry of the Holy Ghost. While they preach God the Father, and God the Son, I find them everywhere emphasizing the Person and work of the Holy Ghost. In each of these groups the Gospel is presented, but with a different emphasis.

Is it any wonder that where all these branches come together on this British-Israel platform we find the full drive of the doctrine of God the Father, God the Son, and God the Holy Ghost? May God grant that the Christian unity which has begun to crystallize on this British-Israel platform all over the world may become universal in the Church of Christ.

Yesterday we studied the manifestation of God under His various administrative Names. We will this afternoon study the attitude of our Lord Jesus Christ towards the Kingdom truth, and the truth of the Gospel of Salvation. Our Lord Jesus Christ began His ministry with the presentation, not of the Gospel of Salvation through the death and resurrection of Jesus Christ, but with the presentation of the Gospel of the Kingdom. I was very much interested to read a modernist article in one of their magazines pointing out what the writer supposed to be a fact of great interest, viz.: that Jesus Christ first of all experimented with the Gospel of the Kingdom, and then finding it would not work, He dropped it, and substituted the Gospel of Salvation! The writer of that article was seeing "men as trees walking." It was quite true that our Lord began with the preaching of the Gospel of the Kingdom. But it is not true that He laid down the preaching of the Gospel of the Kingdom, for that sweeps right on to the very end. The first word of the Christian dispensation is spoken in St. Mark's Gospel, chapter i, verses 14, 15: "Now after that John was put in prison, Jesus came into Galilee, preaching the gospel of the kingdom of God, and saying, The time is fulfilled, and the kingdom of God is at hand: repent ye, and believe the Gospel." This was the very first word of the Christian dispensation.

John the Baptist was the forerunner of Christ, the last of the prophets, preceding and leading up to Jesus. So we see that was this: "The kingdom of God is at hand: repent ye, and believe the Gospel." It was spoken by our Lord Jesus Christ Himself.

He went on preaching the Gospel of the Kingdom, and calling here one and there one to "Follow Me," until behind Him there were twelve disciples. Why twelve? In order that they might ultimately judge the twelve tribes of Israel. From Genesis to Revelation there are twelve tribes. From the beginning of the Christian dispensation there are twelve disciples. "Ye shall sit on twelve thrones judging the twelve tribes of Israel."

Well, Jesus began to teach the twelve disciples Divinity, and their first instruction consisted of the Kingdom message. When they had gone far enough to understand the Kingdom message, then He gave them preliminary ordination and sent them out to preach that Kingdom message. The instruction He gave to them was: "Go not into the way of the Gentiles, and into any city of the Samaritans enter ye not: but go rather to the lost sheep of the House of Israel; and as ye go, preach, saying, the kingdom of Heaven is at hand. Heal the sick, cleanse the lepers, raise the dead, cast out devils; freely ye have received, freely give." And so up and down the hills and valleys of Galilee they went, their voices ringing out like trumpets, "Repent ye, repent ye, for the kingdom of Heaven is at hand." He gathered His seventy, and He sent them out with similar instructions. In that doctrine there was no foreign mission. "Go not into the way of the Gentiles, and into any city of the Samaritans enter ye not: but go rather to the lost sheep of the House of Israel." It was a racial Gospel: a limited Gospel: a national Gospel. It was not yet the Gospel of Salvation.

Let us turn to Matthew xxiii and xxiv. It is the end now of the ministry of our Lord. He has made His last visit to, and appeal in, the Temple. He has come to His own, and His own received Him not. Now with His heart broken, He weeps over Jerusalem, saying, "O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, thou that killest the prophets, and stonest them that are sent unto thee, how often would I have gathered thy children together, even as a hen gathereth her chickens under her wings, and ye would not! BEHOLD, YOUR HOUSE IS LEFT UNTO YOU DESOLATE. For I say unto you, YE SHALL NOT SEE ME HENCEFORTH, till ye shall say, Blessed is He that cometh in the Name of the Lord. AND JESUS WENT OUT AND DEPARTED FROM THE TEMPLE." What a record! The Shekinah glory had withdrawn from the former Temple ages before, and now the Prince of Life had departed and the house was left desolate.

Down the valley, across the Kedron, up the Mount of Olives, our Lord went alone, seeking a quiet corner away in a crevice of the rocks, where He could look across to the Temple that He had left, and to the city over which He had wept. Quietly His disciples came to Him, and said, "Tell us, when shall these things be? And what shall be the sign of Thy Coming, and of the end of the age?" Point by point He answered that question, and then He said, "This Gospel of the Kingdom shall be preached in all the world for a witness unto all nations: and then shall the end come." That is the last word of the Christian dispensation, is it not? And it is being spoken in this day.

Let me ask you once more to glance at the sermons on the Day of Pentecost, and the following days. St. Peter is standing before the multitude, and he says: "Ye men of Judea, and all ye that dwell about Jerusalem, be this known unto you, and hearken to my words." And then the wider call, "Ye men of Israel, hear these words." There is the beginning of the Pentecostal work of the Christian Church, and the call is made to the two branches of the Israel people.

Now just before the curtain drops upon the Apostolic activity, we read this final record in the Acts of the Apostles, which Book is to the New Testament what the Kings and the Chronicles are to the Old: "And Paul dwelt two whole years in his own hired house, and received all that came in unto him,

PREACHING THE KINGDOM OF GOD,

AND teaching those things which concern the Lord Jesus Christ, with all confidence, no man forbidding him." And then the curtain drops upon the Apostolic activity. Are we preaching the two phases of the Gospel as it was introduced by Jesus Christ our Lord, and as it was taught to the early Church by the Apostles? Are you agreed that we are? But, you say, this is strange doctrine. Did not our Lord immediately open with the Gospel of the salvation of sinners? No. As a matter of fact, He did not. It is clear enough when we see it once in the record. Here we are in the 16th chapter of St. Matthew, and that is getting on towards the end of His ministry. "When Jesus came into the coasts of Cæsarea Philippi, He asked His disciples, saying, Whom do men say that I the Son of man am?" He was testifying to His own humanity: they knew Him as a Man. He recognized their knowledge, and so He put the question concerning Himself as the Son of man: "And they said, Some say that Thou art John the Baptist: some, Elias: and others, Jeremias, or one of the prophets." These were strange answers from the people, for in every case this would mean a resurrection from the dead. They saw that He was not an ordinary man: they saw that He was an extraordinary Man. They accounted for His strange power and knowledge by supposing He had come back from the dead. How well did our Lord say, "They have Moses and the prophets: let them hear them. . . . If they hear not Moses and the prophets, neither will they be persuaded, though one rose from the dead."

Here is a more searching question asked of the Apostles, written in the Bible, and so put to everyone who reads it, "Whom do ye say that I am?" Now in their Divinity course the disciples had reached the examination day, and this was the test question of the examination, "Whom do ye say that I the Son of man am?" That is the question that our Lord is asking of every Divinity student to-day. He made the answer the test as to whether they should go on into His ministry, or turn away. "Whom do ye say that I am?" St. Peter made answer, "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the Living God." And then there was the reaction of our Lord. "Blessed art thou, Simon Bar-jona: for flesh and blood hath not revealed it unto thee, but My Father which is in Heaven." They recognized the Deity of our Lord, His Sonship of the Most High.

"From that time forth began Jesus to shew unto His disciples, how that He must go unto Jerusalem, and suffer many things of the elders and chief priests and scribes, and be killed, and be raised again the third day." This is a more difficult lesson, the lesson of the Atonement, succeeding the lesson of the Deity of our Lord: "Then Peter took Him and began to rebuke Him, saying, Be it far from Thee, Lord: this shall not be unto Thee." 'The Father does not require this sacrifice on Thy part. The redemption of Israel, and the atonement for the sins of the world, need not be carried through at such a sacrifice to Thee. The sovereign mercy of God is all-sufficient. The example of Thy perfect moral character, the perfection of Thy ethical teachings are sufficient for the uplifting of humanity and the salvation of the world.' But Peter rebuked the Lord and denied what Christ had said. Again Jesus reacted to the statement of Peter. "But He turned and said unto Peter, Get thee behind Me, Satan: for thou art an offence unto Me: for thou savourest not the things that be of God but those that be of men." What a scathing rebuke! "Then said Jesus unto His disciples, If any man will come after Me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow Me." What is the Cross? The fact that Jesus Christ must be killed and raised again the third day for the redemption of Israel and for the salvation of the world. And so He said to them,

"What is a man profited if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul? Or what shall a man give in exchange for his soul?" What is our Lord talking about? Commerce? Trading? Profits? Fortunes? Not at all. What is the question? It is of the Apostle of Jesus Christ going out to win the world for God, and what shall it profit if by eloquence and scholarship he win the whole world to a Gospel which has not the Atonement in it, procured by the fact that Jesus Christ must be killed and raised again the third day. Do you see how our Lord proceeded? First laying the foundation of the Gospel of the Kingdom; then proceeding to question His disciples as to His Personality; and when they had made their testimony to His Deity, then going on to the Gospel of the Atonement by the death and resurrection of Christ. Then warning them that in winning the world to their doctrine there would be no salvation in the last analysis outside of the Atonement, and that if they put that away they have nothing to give in exchange even for their own soul. Our Lord Jesus Christ was a wonderful, a marvellous Teacher, and those who proceeded through the degrees of Divinity as He taught them, learned these fundamental lessons. They accepted the doctrine. Before the completion of the course of their education, there came the agony of the Garden, the insults in Pilate's Hall, the Cross, and the darkness of the tomb. At this time they were broken men. They had not made application of the doctrine that our Lord taught them: they had not realized the glorious consummation of it until Easter morning demonstrated that although He had been killed, He was now risen from the dead; and that the redemption of Israel and the atonement for the sins of the world had been made complete. Thus we see how our Lord wove in the two phases together, the doctrine of the Kingdom and the doctrine of Salvation, through His death and resurrection.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON.

MR. HERBERT GARRISON, Chairman, said: This is the fourth day and the seventh meeting of our Congress in this Hall, but we are holding in all four, five and six meetings a day; you must be rather glad that you have not to attend all the meetings every day! You are satisfied with the two meetings a day held here, most of you. I trust you feel that you are getting a feast of good things, and that those of you who have come long distances are feeling that it was worth while coming. There are friends here from very long distances, because it is a few hundred miles up to Scotland, and it is a good long way down to Land's End, and it is some distance to Ireland; and there are friends here from all those parts. But there are also friends from Africa and Australia and Canada, and the United States. Yes, Anglo-Saxondom is represented in these meetings every day and twice a day. Don't you think it is a glorious thing to feel how representative we are in this great inter-denominational organization? What is it that brings us together? Why have you come, anyhow? One would give one answer, and another, another. But, in a sense, I think, after all, the answers would be very much alike. You have come because you are interested. Many of you have come because you have gained help in these Congresses before, and you have come expecting a repetition of it. Some of you have come because you have heard of the British-Israelites, and you have wondered what they teach, and what they are like, and what they want to do, and whether they are orthodox or not, whether they are worth encouraging or not.

I wonder if there is anyone at all here who has the idea that we ought to be avoided, that we ought not to be encouraged, and who would never come again to our meetings? Is there such a one in the audience? I do not think so. I think you are all sympathetic. If you are not, you very soon will be, if you keep in touch with us, for we are out to do you good, and to do one another good, and to do only that which is good in the Name of the Lord God of Israel. And shall I say that one of our mottoes is "Unity." And another is "I serve." We are out to serve collectively and individually. Now you know that is the motto of the Prince of Wales, and surely he lives up to his motto. As an organization we are trying to live up to that motto too, and many of you individually are trying hard to live up to that motto. And surely our Lord Himself left us a marvellous example. He served, not only His day and generation, but all humanity, for all time, in a manner that no one else on earth, in past times, or present, or in the future, ever could. But have you not noticed—those of you who have tried to live up to that motto—that it is a real joy to serve? I think there is no person really to be more pitied than the selfish person. What a miserable person he must be! He gets nowhere. He is not satisfying himself. He is not serving God: in fact, he is doing the very opposite. Those who are self-less, who are seeking to serve others, and thereby do the will of God, are the only people who have a right to be happy, and the only people who really are happy. We must do our duty to God and to each other. Our Federation has to proclaim the whole counsel of God, not a part of it only. We are making bold on this platform to say that we as a Federation, according to the light we have, are boldly and constantly proclaiming so far as it has been revealed to us in this Holy Book. It is on this Holy Book that we base our teaching, and the teaching that is not actually in this Book is supplemental to it, is a corollary of it, is a logical consequence of it. We maintain that our position is established by this Book, and is supported by many of the sciences. People come as enquirers, who do not quite know what we stand for. I have been asked to say a few words to enquirers here, whom we are delighted to have with us. We claim to be descendants of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, and we are proud of our ancestors. But, says someone, do you make out that we are Jews? Certainly not. Do you mean to tell me that you imagine that Abraham was a Jew? I am aware that some say that he was, but to call Abraham a Jew is most ridiculous. The term "Jew" does not occur in the Bible until the 2nd Book of the Kings and the 16th chapter. The Jews were the descendants of one son of Jacob whose name was Judah; therefore they were Judaites. The others were descendants of the other sons of Jacob. We are Israelites, and there is our line.

There was a division after the death of Solomon between the southern and the northern kingdoms, the southern Jewish, and the northern Israelitish. The Jews were taken captive to Babylon, and, after seventy years, 43,000 or more returned. Our forefathers at a period after that were taken captive by Assyria, and our forefathers did not return to Palestine. Josephus, the prince among the Jewish historians, wrote of this. What became of them?

THEY MIGRATED WESTWARD, and during a thousand years came across Europe into Scandinavia, and into the British Isles; and here we are very much in evidence. We fill the bill as a nation, and no other nation does so, and no other combination of nations. There are over a hundred identification marks of the Celto-Anglo-Saxon people with Israel, and no other nation bears these marks. Israel runs through the Bible like a silver thread, as the Atonement does like a scarlet thread. Seven-eighths of the Bible was written to the Hebrew people, and only one-eighth to the Gentiles. Israel was to be, according to promise, a nation and a company of nations. Will you tell me? Is there such a thing as a nation and a company of nations outside the British Commonwealth of nations in the world to-day, or has there ever been? There is one great prime factor, one great visible, tangible evidence, that we are right in our claims. And then think of this tremendous thing. If the Bible is true, and we say it is true, Israel was not only to be a but she was to lend to other nations, and she was never to borrow from a foreign nation. Tell me, does that apply to any other nation except Britain? Does it apply to France, to Spain, or to Germany? We have never borrowed from a foreign nation.

NATION AND A COMPANY OF NATIONS,

Israel was to be the great missionizing, civilizing, stabilizing race of the world. They were to be the witnesses of God: they were to have the oracles of God. Think how we are circulating the Scriptures. That is a work which is done by the race to which you and I have the honour to belong. We are not doing all we ought to be doing, but we shall when as a nation we understand our origin, mission and destiny. It is a to be an Israelite, and to be conscious of it. But it is also a very grave responsibility: and hence it was that our Manifesto was published a few months ago, and our "Call to the Nation" a few weeks ago. And we are here now to call upon the nation to come back to God, and to realize who and what we are as a nation, and what is our mission and our destiny. There is a great Imperial Conference in this City, and they are talking big things, which we think very important. Frankly, in my humble opinion, the first thing the Imperial Conference ought to do, and the Prime Minister and the Cabinet of this country ought to do, and the whole Parliament ought to do, and what the leaders of the Church ought to do: is to enquire of God; to get down upon their knees and begin at the beginning, and come back to God and ask of Him what is to be done. This nation must repent of its sins and its selfishness and its many abominations. Not until the nation does that will it be fully blessed and raised to the height of its high calling as a nation. We British-Israelites must be up and doing. Glory be to God, that some of you have realized it already. I beg of you all to come into that position. Put away selfishness, self-indulgence, avarice. Go forward, as God bade Israel go forward, in His Name, then triumph and victory is bound to come.

THE REV. R. G. F. WADDINGTON said: I am going to make no apology for preaching a sermon; being a parson I suppose I cannot help it. My text is, "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you." Oh, for freedom from anxiety! Oh, for a heart and mind at rest! When our balance in the bank is fairly good; when our weekly wage is good and regular; then we feel confident in ourselves, and we feel safe. But when the money that seemed so sure begins to falter; when trade is bad; when the sound of the grinding is low; then anxiety appears in the heart and mind, and it shows itself in our very faces. Then someone comes along, generally a parson, and he says, "Don't worry: all will be well. Don't be anxious. God loves you." Money you may lose any day. Riches have a habit of taking to themselves wings and flying towards the heavens. But you never lose God. I want to ask you a question, and I want you to ask it of yourselves, Of what practical value is that gospel—don't worry; don't be anxious; some day, somehow, God will provide? What practical value is that to the man who is out of employment, to the man whose shop has just been closed, to the man whose business has crashed, to the farmer who watches his crops rotting in the fields, and to the man who perhaps has not yet felt the pinch? And, may I add, that we clergy ought to thank God from the bottom of our hearts that, though our incomes may be small, they are regular; we know where they are coming from. There are thousands of men in the North who do not know where their money is coming from for the next week. We have got something to be thankful for. And if the man who has not felt the pinch says to the unemployed, or to the man anxious about his business, "Don't worry. God will provide," do you think that is giving him a practical solution of his problem? Is it not rather like mocking at his misery and anxiety? But you will say to me, Is not that just what Christ Himself said, "Don't be anxious. Don't worry. God will provide"? That is the impression that most people get, I think, when they read the Sermon on the Mount. It is certainly almost all the Gospel that is preached from the majority of our pulpits to-day, the Gospel for the soul, the Gospel for the hereafter. You get to Heaven in the end if you are good. Of what practical value is that to the man who sees his children ill-clad, ill-shod, underfed, to tell him that some day, in God's good time, he will be on the other side of the river? Don't you think it is high time that we as professing Christians woke up? Don't you think it is high time that our leaders in the Church and the State woke up, and read just what the Lord Jesus Christ did say. He did not say, "Don't worry. Don't be anxious. Some day, somehow, God will provide." He did not say that. What He said was, "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness." The Church, and I am speaking of all the denominations (they are all in the same boat), the Church has been preaching for generations a Gospel which touches the soul only, and they seem to have forgotten completely that the Gospel is as much a Gospel for the body as for the soul, that God is as much concerned with our bodies as with our souls, for He made them both. We are often told that our British-Israel teaching is altogether too much on the material side. Does the Bible ever put over one against the other, the material and the spiritual? Never. The Bible makes no contrast between the spiritual and the material. The Bible emphasizes the material as much as the spiritual. God's Gospel is a Gospel for the body as well as for the soul. It is a Gospel which is as much concerned with our state here and now as with our state hereafter. Jesus did not say, "Don't worry. Some day God will provide." He said, "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you." And for generations, I say, our leaders in the Church, our clergy and our teachers, have been emphasizing just the Gospel for the soul only, and they have completely forgotten the conditions for prosperity that our Lord Himself laid down. It is easy enough to think of glaring examples. God says again and again, "Thou shalt not." And we say, Does it really matter? God's Word has the most stringent laws laid down upon such a matter as that of purity; and what do we say? We say, in effect, that immorality does not matter. We are tolerating Birth Control. We are tolerating and encouraging Divorce. God says, "Thou shalt not." We say, That commandment was written four thousand years ago, and circumstances have changed, and there are extenuating circumstances to-day.

Or you may consider such a command as the Second Commandment. A few weeks ago a good friend and myself were conducting a mission in Darlington. And we were invited out to a vicarage one afternoon, where we met two delightful parsons of the Church of England. I can criticize the Church of England because I am one of their parsons. I would not say anything about the Free Church parsons, though they are as bad. When it came to question time, the first question that one of these delightful men asked was this: "I think that British-Israelism is all piffle." So I told him it was a delightful question and a very practical one. He switched off from one point to another until he got on to the matter of the Second Commandment; absolutely nothing to do with the lecture. He was as much at sea with his question as with his theology, and he said, "If a man finds it helpful to his devotion to erect an image in his Church or house, why shouldn't he? It is all a matter of temperament. If a man finds it helpful, who are you, and who am I, to say he must not?" I agreed with him that it was not either for me or him to say "Thou shalt not." But, I said, it is for God to say "Thou shalt not"; and when God says "Thou shalt not," who are you, and who am I, to say it does not matter? And the Church has for generations been saying, concerning God's laws, "They do not matter." Circumstances have changed; times have changed; we have advanced. "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you." We expect the blessings without giving a thought to obedience. Have we any right to expect prosperity until we obey? Obedience comes first. There is the condition. And that brings me straight on to the question, What is meant by the Kingdom of God? "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God." I am going to be very elementary for the sake of those who may know little or nothing about British-Israel teaching. I am going to take you back to the establishment of the kingdom at Sinai, where, in accordance with the promises God made to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, God gathered the twelve tribes of Israel at Sinai, and there formed them into a kingdom, a kingdom of priests, a holy nation. I think it is worth while spending a moment there in trying to explain to you just what is meant by the word "priest."

Some of you have heard this story before. Some two or three years ago, about three o'clock one morning, my telephone bell rang, and I got out of bed to answer it. It was the Matron of the Bradford Infirmary; there was a woman there who was dying, and who wanted to see me before she died. I put on my clothes and I walked the three-quarters of a mile down to the Infirmary. I went into the private ward where she had been placed. When she saw me she struggled up on her elbow, and her greeting was, "You go to hell. I do not want you, I want a priest." It was a very pretty greeting. I went across the road to the Roman Catholic Church, where I left the Father there in charge. That woman's mistake was quite a common mistake. You ask an ordinary person what is meant by the word "priest," and they will say, a clergyman of the Roman Church: and they are wrong. They do not even give us credit for being priests. In fact, we of the Church of England do not know the meaning of the word. We have limited it entirely to the sacred ministry. If you will take the trouble to read the Books of Exodus and Leviticus, you will find that the priesthood of Levi was concerned, not only with theology, not only with the ministry of the soul, but with the ministry of the mind, with the ministry of society, with the ministry of healing. The doctors and the lawyers and the clergy and the teachers, they were all priests in God's view of the word, and just what the tribe of Levi was to the other tribes of Israel, so God meant Israel to be to the whole world, a kingdom of priests, a holy nation.

Let me go on and explain to you the word "holy." The word "holy" does not mean perfect. If Paul the Apostle was writing a letter to you, he would begin it by describing you as the saints which are at the Congress. A holy people. You are not perfect by any means, are you? You and I are only accounted righteous as we have been cleansed by the Blood of Jesus Christ. If we have not been cleansed we are not righteous. But the moment you and I acknowledge Jesus Christ we become saints. We do not become perfect: we are only at the first step of the ladder: but we are holy: we are saints: we are separated. That is what it means. Set on one side for God's purpose. Israel was by no means perfect, but she was a company of saints on Mount Sinai. "All our fathers were under the cloud," says Paul, "and all passed through the sea. And were all baptized unto Moses in the cloud and in the sea." They were all saints, and they were a holy nation. But we immediately read that "with many of them God was not well pleased: for they were overthrown in the wilderness." If only people would read what the Bible says they would not make foolish mistakes, and they would not talk of a holy people being a perfect people. A holy people are a people set on one side for a purpose, and the purpose for which God set Israel on one side is this, "Ye are My witnesses that I am God." And so the Kingdom began at Sinai. There is the law of the Kingdom contained in about fifty pages of this Book. There are the people of the Kingdom, the Twelve Tribes of Israel. There is the land in view which God promised to Abraham, all the land from the river Nile to the river Euphrates. And there is the King, God. You will remember when the Children of Israel demanded a king like the nations round about them, Saul was instructed to tell the people that they had rejected God from being their King. They were not setting God on one side, for if you will take the trouble to read the 9th chapter of Hebrews you will find that all the movements of the Children of Israel were controlled by God through the pillar of cloud by day and the pillar of fire by night and the Shekinah glory. God was the King of Israel. And you will read that David and Solomon sat upon the throne of the Lord in Jerusalem. And Jehu was anointed to be king over the people of the Lord.

There is the Kingdom, and that Kingdom was definitely divided into two parts by the wisdom of God. You may read the words, "This thing is of Me, saith the Lord." The Ten Tribes followed Jeroboam, and lapsed immediately into idolatry, and became an uncircumcised people. There are very many people who criticize British-Israel teaching on the ground that we cannot be Israel because we are an uncircumcised people. But Israel became an uncircumcised people, because they broke away from the covenant. And what was the covenant? God's covenant made with Abraham? Not a bit of it. No, the covenant that God made with them at Sinai, and that covenant, Paul says could not, and did not, set on one side the Abrahamic covenant. Moreover, consider this question of circumcision. I would remind you that God tells us that the covenant God made with Abraham was made with Abraham while he was yet uncircumcised. And so it is all nonsense to talk about our not being a circumcised people. The covenant that God made with Abraham held good in spite of all the breaking by Israel of the Sinaitic covenant. Paul says, "The covenant that was confirmed before of God in Christ, the law, which was four hundred and thirty years after, cannot disannul, that it should make the promise of none effect. For if the inheritance be of the law, it is no more of promise; but God gave it to Abraham by promise." Who is the seed of promise? Christians? No. Israel. For I would remind you that Abraham had two sons. Ishmael, who did not inherit any of the blessings of the covenant, and Isaac, who was the son of promise. I would remind you also of this: when the division between Israel and Judah was complete, in spite of all Israel's sins, in spite of Israel having abandoned the law, and the sign of the law, circumcision, God renewed with the Ten-Tribed Israel all the promises that He had made to Abraham. And Judah from henceforth is out of it until she joins Israel again. The covenant of God made with Abraham is renewed to the Ten-Tribed Israel. You read Hosea, and you will find that I am right. I am not giving you any private opinion. It is not a matter of my own interpretation. It is simply a matter of what the Scriptures say.

Now comes the question, Did not Israel return? I think I can best answer that question by telling you another little story. Some little time ago I went to speak in a suburb of Bradford, Shipley, to a men's Bible Class. There was not the least need for a certain man to say anything, but when I had finished he could not keep silent. I had been giving a purely Gospel address on the question of the Resurrection. And he got up and criticized my British-Israel opinions, and I reminded him that I had not said a word about British-Israelism all the afternoon. "But it was in the back of your mind all the time" was his retort. And then he set to work to try and prove to me from the Bible that Israel and Judah were one and the same thing, and that the promises made to Abraham were going to be fulfilled by the Jews in the future. And he began by quoting Ezekiel xxxvii, and, like so many others, he opened a trap for himself, and walked straight into it. He could not have chosen a better chapter than that chapter. I said to him, "I understand that you believe that Israel and Judah were reunited and all returned back together from Babylon in 536 B.C." "Yes," he said. "Now you are telling me that these promises, particularly in Ezekiel xxxvii, are for the future. That Ezekiel prophesies a reunion of Israel and Judah. If it is going to be in the future it could not already have taken place." And he found himself in a little bit of a difficulty. I asked him which he would have. So he decided the promises were all going to be fulfilled in the Jews in the future. "Very well, then," I said, "you must admit that Israel and Judah are still separated." "Well, that does not make Britain Israel" was his reply. "I didn't say it did," I said, "but if Israel and Judah are to be reunited in the future, will you tell me where Israel is? Judah we can see, but where is Israel?" "I do not know," he said. "Very well, then, don't argue with a man who does!" You cannot have it both ways. If Israel and Judah were reunited 2,520 years ago, and if the Jews, as we see them to-day, are all Israel, then I tell you that this Book is false from one end to the other. If the Jews are Israel, and all the promises made with Abraham upon the Jews in the future, again I say this Book is false, and if this Book is false, where is your Christian faith? It is gone. You cannot talk about your Christian experience. It is no proof at all of the truth of Christianity. The Mohammedan can speak just as sincerely about his experience, and so can the Buddhist. Christianity is only true, the Gospel of the Atonement, the Gospel of the Resurrection is only true in so far as this Book is true. And this Book distinguishes between Israel and Judah. It divides Israel from Judah. It calls Israel the Kingdom of God after the division. There is the renewal of the Abrahamic covenant with Israel of the Ten Tribes after the division. It foretells the Coming of the Lord Jesus Christ to reign over the Kingdom of God, and it bids you and me seek that Kingdom of God, and that treasure hidden in the field.

I want to suggest to you as something practical that if you and I desire to see Great Britain prosperous, if you and I desire to see our unemployed working, and our mills and our businesses flourishing, and our international troubles at an end, the one way to realize that is by getting back to God and back to His Word. "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you." Then prosperity will follow, but it will not follow until we are obedient. And that is why God says to Israel, "I will yet for this be enquired of by the House of Israel to do it for them." And that is why God also declares that He will write His law in our hearts, and put it in our inward parts, and "they shall be My people and I will be their God, saith the Lord of hosts." We British-Israelites have the Gospel which the nation needs.

WEEK BY WEEK.

By A. R. H.

ON the whole, the speeches at the opening of the ROUND-TABLE CONFERENCE on INDIA maintained a high level of temper and reality. They cannot be dismissed as mere rhetoric. Their general tone and trend is full of genuine significance.

The PRIME MINISTER was followed by the MAHARAJAH GAEKWAR of BARODA, who, on behalf of the Indian States Delegation, remarked :—

"We are deeply beholden to His Majesty, to whom I beg you, Mr. Prime Minister, to convey our sentiments of loyalty to his throne and person. These historic precincts have witnessed many conferences fraught with import; but I doubt if ever before they have been the scene of such a one as this, when the issues at stake involve the prosperity and contentment of India's millions, and the greatness of the British Empire.

"By the concession in generous measure of the aspirations of the Princes and peoples of India, and by that alone, can realization be given to the noble words of Victoria as expressed in the famous Proclamation :—'In their prosperity will be our strength; in their contentment our security; in their gratitude our best reward.'

"May we all labour whole-heartedly, with mutual trust and good will, for the attainment of so great an end."

The MAHARAJAH of JAMMU and KASHMIR (the Pro-Chancellor), having expressed deep gratitude to the King for the cordial welcome tendered to them, proceeded :—"This is the first occasion on which the Princes of India in person sit at the Conference Table along with representatives of British India and of His Majesty's Government to discuss the political future of India. Allied by treaty with the British Crown and within our territories independent rulers, we have come here with a full sense of responsibility to our States and to all India.

"As allies of Britain, we stand solidly by the British connection. As Indians and loyal to the land whence we derive our birth and infant nurture, we stand as solidly as the rest of our countrymen for our land's enjoyment of a position of honour and equality in the British Commonwealth of Nations.

"Our desire to co-operate to the best of our ability with all sections of this Conference is a genuine desire; so, too, is genuine our determination to base our co-operation upon the realities of the present situation.

"We Princes believe that difficulties exist only to be surmounted, and by the Grace of God, with good will and sympathy on both sides, surmounted they shall be. With the noble words of the King-Emperor's speech still ringing in our ears, we Princes affirm that this Conference shall not fail through any fault of ours.

"You will hear, Sir, many claims and counsels, and some may be in partial conflict.

"Our common prayer is that, somehow, through the magic of your personality, these claims will be reconciled and these fragmentary counsels will be gathered into one complete scheme, so that this table, whatever its exact shape, may be hereafter remembered in history as the table of rounded wisdom and statesmanship."

SIR MUHAMMAD AKBAR HYDARI :—

"The address which we have been privileged to hear to-day from the lips of the King-Emperor, full as it is of that personal sympathy to which every Indian heart immediately responds, will prove an inspiration and a guide for all of us.

"The Nizam, whose representative I have the honour to be on the Indian States Delegation, counts amongst his proudest titles that of 'Faithful Ally of the British Government.' For 150 years the Nizams have held steadfast to this alliance—'an alliance in perpetuity,' as the treaties proudly proclaim it to be. As with Hyderabad, so with all States; and I can assure the peoples of the Empire and the world at large that no hand shall sever the ties which bind the Princes to the Crown.

"At the same time, the States, autonomous within their own borders, can fully sympathize with the aims and ideals of the people of British India, and are ready to work in harmony with them for the Greater and United India, which we all hope may be the outcome of our deliberations. It is in this spirit we enter the Conference, and in this spirit we shall do all that lies in our power to assist in the solution of the problems of our country and the satisfaction of her aspirations.

"Every race, creed, and religion has its own distinct contribution to make to the common weal, and we of the States for our part bring with us no mean inheritance—the traditions and culture handed down from spacious days, when in politics, arts, and science India stood amongst the foremost peoples of the world. We approach our task, which is beset with so many difficulties, in all humility, trusting not in our own power, but in the guiding hand of the Divine Providence."

MR. V. S. SRINIVASA SASTRI :—

"We all feel heartened to our task by the gracious and inspiring words of His Majesty. They contain lessons which we must learn and practise if we would succeed in the enterprise about to begin, Sir, under your sagacious and well-proved guidance. The Crown is the symbol both of power and of unity, and draws our hearts in willing homage and reverence. It is more. It is the freedom, and equality among the various peoples of the Commonwealth. Loyalty, therefore, enjoins the faithful and unceasing pursuit of these ideals, and we should be failing in our duty to the Crown if we knowingly tolerated, anywhere under the British flag, conditions that produced injustice, inequality, or undue restrictions on the growth of communities.

"This Conference will enable all parties interested in India to bring together their ideas on the subject of her contentment and peaceful advance to the fulfilment of her destiny. Bold and candid speech is required, but also moderation, forbearance, and readiness to appreciate different views. Above all, the vision of India as a whole must shine brightly in our hearts, and her strength and prosperity must be the sovereign consideration governing all our plans."

MR. BA PE:—

"The Burmese delegates are deeply sensible of the signal honour which has been done to Burma by the selection of a Burman to speak on this momentous and historic occasion. It is an honour which will cause genuine pleasure and satisfaction to our countrymen, and, on their behalf, I wish to say how grateful we are to the King for the gracious words he has spoken to us to-day, and I humbly beg leave to assure him of our loyalty to him and his Royal Consort. It has caused us heartfelt satisfaction to see him restored to health, and we pray that he may live long to preside over the destinies of this great Empire.

"The people of Burma are very grateful to His Majesty's Government for arranging this Round-Table Conference, and we believe that a frank and full and friendly discussion can only result in good both for the people of Britain and of Burma. We believe that friendly discussion will remove obstacles and solve problems that, viewed from one standpoint only, appear unsurmountable or insoluble.

"The case of Burma is in some ways a special one, but we bring to the Conference in the fullest measure good will and co-operation, confident that the result of our joint deliberations will promote the political progress of Burma and satisfy the aspirations of its people and increase their prosperity and happiness. We have come to the Conference with high hopes, if I may be permitted to adopt the words that you, Sir, used on another occasion only two days ago, that our liberty will be broadened so that we may live with you under the same Crown, enjoying that freedom in self-government which is essential for national self-respect and contentment. As Burmans we love Burma our country. We believe in it, and in the greatness that lies before it. We look to England with friendship and affection, and hope that we shall soon take our place with other Dominions as equal partners in the Great British Empire."

The MAHARAJAH of ALWAR, on the conclusion of the opening ceremony, confided in a Reuter representative to the effect:—"The one thing above all that is clear in our mind is that while we aspire to INDIA being a sister Dominion, we shall be loyal partners in the BRITISH EMPIRE, with the CROWN as our connecting link."*

To this we would like to add a second fact which emerges from consideration of the opening speeches. Obviously, at the ROUND-TABLE CONFERENCE, we have been listening to words from the lips of the real masters of INDIA and of India's destiny. And whatever timorous-minded persons in ENGLAND and AMERICA may think, Gandhi no more represents India or Indians than did A. J. Cook represent England in the days of the 1926 English General Strike. Gandhi is in the hands of a set of lawyer-politicians out to gain office and the fruits thereof for their own personal enrichment and advantage.

"India has feared GOD and honoured her kings since the remote beginnings of her history," writes the Times. "Her best brains and swords have served the as their forbears served the Moghul Emperors. QUEEN VICTORIA'S great proclamation, by which the CROWN assumed the direct responsibility for the Government of INDIA, created new ties between the SOVEREIGN and the PRINCES and peoples of INDIA; and these ties have been strengthened and multiplied through KING GEORGE'S reign."

There was Divine inspiration behind the proclamation by which the CROWN in ENGLAND became directly responsible for the Government of INDIA. Unlike the ANGLO-SAXON DOMINIONS, INDIA is an inheritance and not a possession. The inheritance of a people is a different thing from the possession of territories. The former strongly implies a sacred trust.

It is clear from the Scriptures† that the development of the ISRAEL EMPIRE in the world was to proceed along two main lines of expansion, viz., the inheritances of Peoples and the possession of Territories. The "UTTERMOST PARTS of the EARTH" have been possessed and colonized by our own kith and kin, whereas the "PEOPLES" who have come beneath the shadow of our THRONE have come that they might enjoy the good and justice and judgment which it is the function of the BRITISH CROWN and DAVIDIC THRONE to bestow.

The word "heathen" is not a term of contempt and inferiority. Like the word "Gentile," it means primarily "not one of us," i.e., not Israel, and figuratively, "unenlightened."

Now there is a light that lighteth every man that cometh into the world. But the main body of the ISRAEL PEOPLE are entrusted with a special light; the light of the Israel Law and Faith. Compared with this light the light of other truth is darkness. This does not mean that the ISRAEL PEOPLE necessarily have any special virtue in themselves. But as light-bearers, they have been nationally and racially trained throughout the ages for the task of the taking the knowledge of CHRIST, to all the peoples of the earth. All men have a light. But CHRIST is the LIGHT. CHRIST is the LIGHT to lighten the Gentiles—or unenlightened. But to the enlightened ISRAEL PEOPLE He is "the GLORY." Find the PEOPLE in the world who have nationally made CHRIST their GLORY and you will find the ISRAEL PEOPLE. The ISRAEL PEOPLE are the SALT of the EARTH.

THE LIGHT OF THE WORLD,

It is curious that the Moscow-inspired political agitators in INDIA should have fastened on the SALT TAX as a symbol of their defiance and desire to sever the connection with ISRAEL-BRITAIN. Because if there is one thing above all things that BRITAIN ought to know to-day, and not BRITAIN only, but the DOMINIONS, the EMPIRE, the PRINCES and peoples of INDIA, and political agitators everywhere, it is this: Men may rage and imagine as many vain things as they like against the LORD and His anointed but the THRONE of DAVID in the earth is established by Divine decree "for ever."

The following words, once spoken to all ISRAEL from MOUNT EPHRAIM, were never more appropriate than they are to-day:—"Ought ye not to know that the LORD GOD of ISRAEL gave the KINGDOM over ISRAEL to DAVID for ever, even to him and to his sons by a COVENANT of SALT."§

In this connection the prayer of DAVID is also apposite:—

* This testimony is reminiscent of that of the Maharajah of Patiala, who on another occasion, said: "We do not, we cannot, contemplate any severance in the ties which bind India to the Empire. The maintenance of the British connection is the fundamental assumption of our whole position. I believe that the connection between my own country and the British Commonwealth is one that has been designed by Providence for the benefit of humanity at large."

"O LORD GOD of ABRAHAM, ISAAC, and of ISRAEL, our fathers: Keep this for ever in the imagination of the thoughts of the heart of THY PEOPLE, and prepare their heart unto THEE." ¶

Who can say but that in the day that JEHOVAH maketh up His jewels,[1] INDIA the "Unenlightened"—but justly designated "brightest jewel in the IMPERIAL CROWN"—may be yet found (by faith in CHRIST) shining with supernal lustre—a special jewel among many ISRAEL gems divine.

H. R. T. (South Africa) writes:—"Just a few lines in appreciation of the wonderful spiritual tone of THE NATIONAL MESSAGE. Indeed, it is a spiritual uplift for the thirsty soul. Many times it has led me to thank God for the comfort I have received, after coming from church and listening to a dry sermon. I pray that God's richest blessing may rest upon all your labours, and in due time, through the great stalwarts of your Federation, that the scales will be removed from the eyes of those who try and spiritualize the great Kingdom truths, even those who try and apply them to the Church. When the Truth is preached from our churches, it will be the means of solving that cry of 'empty churches.'"

A BARRIER TO BLESSING—THE TITHING SYSTEM OF ISRAEL AND ITS MODERN APPLICATION.—Every reader of THE NATIONAL MESSAGE should study this most practical Essay by Mr. P. W. Thompson, M.A., author of "The Whole Tithe," and of that excellent work, "Israel in Prophecy and History." The price of the present pamphlet (one penny, or three-halfpence by post) bears no proportion to its intrinsic value. It is the Second Edition of the paper read by Mr. Thompson before a Fundamentalist Conference at High Leigh, and we shall be surprised if further editions are not required.

The author rightly regards the subject as of extreme importance, and earnestly hopes that every reader will become a "missionary of tithing," for "The King's business requireth haste." The author points out that the question of giving a tenth is one of obedience, and that the neglect of this duty lies at the root of our national financial difficulties. "In our days there is on the part of sincere Christians much prayer. And if there be a total lack of power, this can only occur through some lack of obedience which renders prayer nugatory. Meanwhile, the power of prayer is not being lost. It is being stored up in God's keeping. And when the way of obedience has been attained, this stored-up power, the result of past and present prayer, will be released, and we shall have the greatest revival of religion in England since the days of Wesley."

The author is himself a financial expert, and brings to the subject Scriptural authority and sanctified common sense.

Miss Hamilton Hunter visited the Harrow Branch on November 21st, and gave her lecture on "The Redemption of the Nation Israel" to a large and appreciative audience; an intense spirituality always characterizes her addresses, and they create a profound impression on her hearers. Mrs. E. M. Powell presided.

Lt.-Col. Jarrett-Kerr writes:—"I should like to draw your attention, and that of your readers, to the coat of arms of Newfoundland, and the motto 'QUAERITE PRIME Regnum Dei.' The grant was made in 1637—and would tend to show that even then the United Kingdom claimed to be the Kingdom of God."

Mr. H. D. Houghton paid a further visit to the Hull, Beverley and Bridlington Branches on November 18th, 19th and 20th last. He spoke with much force on the subject "Strange Things in the Abrahamic Covenant," and the Message given by him was fully appreciated.

Mr. R. O. Lucas writes:—"Mr. W. H. Byers, who has only recently come to Canada from Ireland, has addressed our Toronto West Branch. The meeting was a splendid one. Mr. Byers spoke on 'Ye are My Witnesses,' and held his delighted listeners to the close.

"Mr. A. E. Welch, of London, Ontario, who was Chairman of one of the meetings at which Dr. Goard spoke while he was here, delivered a splendid address before a large meeting of our Toronto East Branch. His address was forceful and thought-provoking, and was very much enjoyed by all present.

"Mr. Welch is eager to start a B.-I. Branch in London, and we ask for the help of everyone interested in our great Truth who resides in London in this undertaking.

"On Thursday evening our Toronto Central Branch was host to Rev. F. C. Ward-Whate, who spoke on 'The British Empire and the Imperial Conference.' The lecture hall was filled to capacity to hear him, and all expressed their keen delight in his lucid description of Empire affairs and current events. After the meeting the Secretary, Mr. Ed. Vincent, announced that he had received a promise from Mr. Ward-Whate that he would again address the Branch (of which he is a member) in the New Year.

"And so the work goes steadily forward—with God's help and guidance."

Two very successful lectures were given at Sevenoaks on November 19th by Miss Hamilton Hunter, the subjects being "The Magna Charta of the Anglo-Saxon Race" and "The Vicegerent of Israel," and the hearers sincerely appreciated the great privilege and pleasure they had.

The Southport Branch held two meetings on November 24th. The lecturer, the Rev. W. Brown Pollock, took as his afternoon subject "The Meaning of Redemption in the Kingdom of Israel," and in the evening "Israel under the New Covenant." A great impression was made by the spirituality of the lectures. The subjects were dealt with most carefully, and the audience found the lectures most enlightening.

* * *

The Rev. E. A. Couldrey gave an inspiring address on "Our Lord's Second Coming" at the Liverpool Branch on November 27th to a very large audience. It was one of the best attended meetings they have had for many years.

Will British-Israel believers living in the following towns and districts please communicate with the Secretary-General at Headquarters, with a view to holding meetings which may ultimately issue in the formation of Branches:—

Luton, Berkhampstead, Uxbridge, Hitchin, Aylesbury, Windsor.

We will also be pleased to hear from B.-I. believers in other districts between London and Bedford, with the same object in view.

An enthusiastic American British-Israel lady, on a visit to Britain, is zealously working to awaken clergymen and others to the realization of the heritage and mission of our race. Thus Manasseh is trying to stir up Ephraim, after the latter has been stimulating the former!

Bradenstoke Abbey, recently purchased by Mr. William Randolph Hearst, is to be moved from its Wiltshire site, but will be rebuilt as an annexe to Mr. Hearst's South Wales castle, St. Donat's. The Evening Standard makes an interesting comment on this fact when it writes:—"There is peculiar fitness in the old Augustinian priory's new situation, for the lovely wild coast below the castle is connected with the earliest arrivals of Christian missionaries in Britain, and legend has it that St. Paul landed there."

"... the Bible is the only book that tells the whole truth about us; the only book to study for an elucidation of the world problems existing to-day. I believe that the whole of the Anglo-Saxon race, in different parts of the globe, are the descendants of Israel, and came originally out of the loins of Abraham and so are 'children of the Promise.' We are the descendants of the Ten Tribes of Israel. Throughout the ages, from before the time of bondage in Egypt till the Norman Conquest, and, later on, the uniting of the Scotch and English Crowns in A.D. 1603 in the person of James I., we have been working out God's plan of reassembling in 'the appointed place.'"

From the dawn of history the practice of adopting, and the usage of, ensigns, standards, banners and symbols has been employed by mankind with both national and religious import. Whether we turn to the civilized nations of antiquity, the Egyptians, the Assyrians, Babylonians, Persians, Hebrews, Greeks and Romans, or to the uncivilized races of modern times, such as the Red Indians of America or the Maoris of New Zealand, symbolism is found in a variety of forms, and in all stages of development.

For all those who are desirous of learning something of the National ensignia of the ancient people of Israel (the great nations of Britain and the U.S.A.) we can do no other than very strongly urge them to read this work which sets forth, with heraldic and historic veracity, the origin and symbolic meaning of these emblems.

EDITORIAL.

The following should be read in the light of Israel Truth, namely, that the Anglo-Saxon nations are the continuation of the Israel nation; the inheritors of her Charters; the possessors of her guarantees and immunities from destruction; the executors of her commissions.

It should be understood that Authors alone are responsible for the views expressed in their Articles.

GOD.

THE PEOPLE. △ THE BIBLE.—VIII.

By the Rev. W. Pascoe Goard, LL.D.

We have seen in former issues the continued story of the Bible stretching from the beginning; taking a new point of departure at the call of Abraham, as on throughout all the succeeding ages to the time when the Lord shall yield up the Kingdom to the Father.

We have seen that the people of Israel have marched unvaryingly along the great highway portrayed in that story. The road always stretched away before them clearly mapped in prophecy; it lengthened out behind them, as they progressed on their way, and took the form of history. We, modern Israel, are passing by the mile-posts which the ancient prophets set up for us on the great highway that we might be able to know the stage of the national journey reached in our generation.

Among these mile-posts is the outstanding one of the capture of Jerusalem in 1917 A.D.

We have seen that God has manifested Himself, at times visibly and audibly, and at all times by word and action, as walking in the midst of His nation, ever administering the supreme things of the nation as King in Israel.

In the pursuit of this great purpose we have seen Him handling the Israel people; grouping and organizing them as nations: First, united Israel: then Israel and Judah.

When both of these had been removed into captivity, to spend the long period of two thousand five hundred and twenty years in punitive conditions, being thereby trained for an even greater work and higher responsibility, we have seen Him erecting the seventy weeks' nation of the Jews, to carry through such major items of the great plan as are recorded in the Bible from the rebuilding of Jerusalem and the re-establishment of the Temple worship, to the life and ministry, the death and resurrection of our Lord and the sending forth of His Gospel.

70 A.D. saw the end of that nation of the Jews, but not before it had accomplished the appointed task set forth in the prophecies; for instance, the Daniel prophecies.

We saw that the seventy weeks' nation of the Jews is neither the House of Judah, nor the House of Israel, but simply a short-lived nation set up for the accomplishment of certain vital parts of the great plan. After 70 A.D. the Bible features "the nation of the Jews" no more, but foreshows the re-emergence of Judah—which at the end of the long period of punishment should be reunited with Israel—as one of the leading tribes in reunited Israel.

We now glance at the nation of the Jews in the 70th week of its national history, the time of the Coming of the Messiah. It is well to note that "Jewry" is distinguished from Galilee, the two being regarded as separate entities. Thus St. John vii, 1: "After these things Jesus walked in Galilee: for he would not walk in Jewry, because the Jews sought to kill him." The Jewish people themselves said at Pentecost: "Behold, are not all these which speak Galileans?"

Judah was represented in "Jewry." Israel was represented in Galilee. It is held by many learned men that Galilee was inhabited by Benjamin. The Prophets and Evangelists further refer to the Galilee of the time of our Lord as the land of "Zabulon and the land of Nephthalim, by the way of the sea, beyond Jordan, Galilee of the Gentiles" (nations). So we see that in the time of our Lord there were dwelling in the land these two sub-ethnical units, Jews and Galileans, which fairly represented both Judah and Israel, although neither of such sub-ethnical units were the House of Judah nor the House of Israel. Groups of Israel people, portions of the scattered ten tribes, were domiciled throughout the Middle East at that period.

Into Bethlehem of Judæa came the Son of God: Jehovah Incarnate. We have no difficulty in accepting the full statement as given in the Evangelists. They wrote after personal acquaintance with our Lord, at the beginning of the Christian dispensation, when, humanly speaking, everything pointed to the probability of the Christian cult being laughed off the earth or drowned in the blood of its martyrs. The statement of Professor Gamaliel, LL.D., a member of the Council, made in an assembly of the Senate of the Children of Israel, held good: " . . . if this counsel or this work be of men it will come to nought. But if it be of God ye cannot overthrow it, lest haply ye be found to even fight against God."

How confidently and fearlessly they wrote concerning the Son of Godship of our Lord. What light, which was never elsewhere seen on land or sea, shines from the pages they produced. Their Gospel prevailed in spite of all the powers—physical, psychological, religious and Imperial—arrayed against them.

We read their writing in the light of two thousand years of historical demonstration, and we find that the influence of Jesus Christ has dominated the mind of the world to such a degree that the world's correspondence, its traffic, its covenants, agreements, treaties, and every important and trivial thing are dated from His birthday.

On the strength of His Name and of His Gospel there arose what we know as Western, or European, civilization, which for long was the greatest thing of the kind in the world.

In these last years European civilization has been surpassed by the Anglo-Saxon civilization. This new thing has arisen since Israel-Britain emerged from under her sentence of punishment. That punishment commenced in 721 B.C. and ended in 1799 A.D. The British Commonwealth of Nations—and America—have together developed Anglo-Saxon civilization in the world since that time. And all that is good of this is a direct result of the influence of the Christ.

Now that Personality which could exercise such an immeasurable influence in the world is more than a human personality. Therefore I accept, as a fact, not only on the testimony of the Bible, but as demonstrated by history, the Deity of Him Who was born in "Bethlehem in the land of Judæa"; for His influence in the world, His authority in the world, is not only Godlike, it is that of God.

In the Gospels we have a stately "wireless" broadcasting of this Personality as He moves forward to the accomplishment of the greatest task in all history. It is not an ordinary narrative. The impression of Him is such as is accorded by sight and hearing. Among other things, the impression has been sufficiently vivid to influence the great artists of the world to deal with every phase of His life. It has set the pens of countless writers to portraying His Personality. It has set musicians to the task of producing world masterpieces, such as the "Messiah." It has set poets unnumbered singing of the great theme of His Personality and ministry. But what is more to the point, it has set the Christian world on fire to portray by preaching His very Personality, to reproduce His teachings, and by all kinds of agencies the vision of the Christ has been transforming the world.

Thus the moral and ethical character of the world is being changed.

We read of His birth in Bethlehem of Judæa. We read of His immediate flight from thence to Egypt in the arms of His mother, in order to escape the murderous jealousy which instantly flamed forth against Him in that unhappy land. We read of His proposed return to Judæa, but again of His being turned aside to Galilee, Joseph the husband of Mary making the decisions under Divine direction.

We read of His appearance in Galilee at the beginning of His mission, preaching the Kingdom of God. We read of His baptism, of His transfiguration, of His passion, of His trial. Ah, yes—His trial. We must pause for a moment here. In all the reports of all the Courts of earth, and of all the Administrations, there never was such a case, before or since, as the trial of Jesus. We know there were present Jewish scholarship and legal culture; men trained in the Scriptures and Talmudic Law. There were present we know men of high Greek learning, classical scholars of their day. There was present the official representative of Roman Law and Roman Administration. All these, so wonderfully equipped with the learning of Jewry, of Greece, and of Rome, were engaged in the trial of Jesus Christ, the Son of God.

THEY KILLED THE PRINCE OF LIFE.

It will be well to think of this great outstanding fact in world history before passing on. It was not an illiterate mob who killed the Prince of Life. There were three outstanding world parties represented. The Sanhedrim contained Hellenistic Jews and Pharisees, the two parties then in the religious and scholarly world. The rigid ecclesiastic was found in the Pharisee. The then Modernist, whose basis of learning was the very same Greek philosophy which holds such a grip on certain schools of this day, formed the second group. The third group was that representing the Legal administration of Imperial Rome.

The two scholarly religious groups voted for the death of the Prince of Life. The Roman group as represented by Pilate dissented. Political pressure was brought to bear where conviction failed, and the cry was raised against Pilate, "If thou let this man go thou art not Cæsar's friend: whosoever maketh himself a king speaketh against Cæsar."

It will be well that all who undertake to judge the Lord and the things of the Lord should examine their arguments and their motives and see whether they are as frank and true as one easily assumes his own motives to be. Authority voted to dismiss the case against Jesus. No argument was offered in rebuttal of the statement, "I find no fault in this man." The threat of political consequences was advanced to secure His sentence to death. How many times have people used this pressure to reach results not warranted by scholarship, religion, nor justice.

So the Prince of Life was killed by the most cultured classes of the day.

Then we come to the astounding tragedy of the Cross. The incarnate Son of God was the central figure. His Personality as the Son of God was exposed to the wrath of men because He was also the Son of man, and as such His body was subject to death, and to the painful death of the Cross.

To that Cross He went. To that Cross He was delivered by Rome. To that Cross He was led by the Pharisees, the religious devotees; and by the Sadducees and Hellenes, the modern scholars of the day. The narrative of the Cross is one of the most blindingly illuminated passages in human history.

Came then the days of darkness while His body lay in the Garden tomb.

THEN CAME EASTER MORNING, AND THE RESURRECTION FROM THE DEAD.

The resurrection of the Christ was the world's brightest morning. It was the beginning of the resurrection of all the dead in Christ. It was the first dawning of that most glorious day for the race of man.

The resurrection had been an undemonstrated article of faith in the pre-Christian eras. The resurrection is a demonstrated fact of history and science since the first glorious Easter morning when the first begotten from the dead arose.

Then came the ascension from the Mount of Olives in the presence of His disciples. Here the narrative of the historic things which form the groundwork of the Gospel ceases. The record of these things constitutes the apex of the literature of Israel history, and these things furnish the material for the Gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ.

Now we come to a wonder of another character. It is not now the Presence of the incarnate Son of God. It is now the Presence in a new and startling manifestation of the non-incarnate Spirit, the Holy Ghost, the third Person of the Holy Trinity.

The scientist who reads the narrative of the descent of the Holy Ghost at Pentecost might do so with raised eyebrows but for the facts which immediately began to manifest themselves as the direct result of His manifestation.

Again the scholar might scan the record of the historic happenings at Pentecost with lifted brows but for the fact that the very same psychical and spiritual phenomena are manifest to-day. The whole of the power of the Christian Church during the ages in which it has demonstrated power of a spiritual nature is the direct result of the operation of the Holy Spirit. It was in the Church at Pentecost. It has been in the Church for ages, manifesting itself in dramatic fashion at many points of Church history; and it is still present in some measure in the Church to-day.

As surely as we know that there is a reality behind the electrical manifestations of light and power, so surely do we know, and on wider evidence, that there is a reality behind the phenomena manifested upon the pouring out of the Holy Ghost upon the individual or upon the community.

There came the revelation to Peter in the house of Simon the Tanner, when Peter was commanded to go and open the door of the Kingdom to the Gentile nations. Thus St. Peter was given the privilege of using once, and then flinging away, the key to the Kingdom of Heaven, "the gates of it shall not be shut at all by day; for there shall be no night there."

Finally, after the ending of the last of the seventy weeks, which ending was marked by the vision named, when the voice of the Lord was heard on earth for the last time, the armies of Titus—the Prince that should come—destroyed the City and scattered the nation of the Jews, and the end was with a flood as Daniel declared it would be.

In the historic event of Pentecost God was revealing Himself in a manner suited to the unfolding of the great plan.

In the Psalms, looking forward to the Christian dispensation, we read:—

"He shall come down like rain upon the mown grass: as showers that water the earth."—Psalm lxxii, 6.

The figure is that of a field in which the grass has been cut, cured, and carried away; leaving the brown stubble behind. Now that the hay harvest is over, the showers that water the earth descend and the mown grass springs anew, bearing a second crop of luscious pasture.

So Israel had been mown, and her people like grass were carried away into the captivity; thereafter to be scattered among the nations. Now the promise is that God will "come down like rain upon the mown grass," and this rainlike descent of the Divine Presence began with the outpouring of the Holy Ghost at Pentecost, and it has continued throughout the Christian dispensation.

It must be noted, with care, that Pentecost was not a new beginning of a new plan, but it was a new and expected development of the plan which began with the call of Abraham, which was continued in the organization of the nation under Moses, and in all subsequent Israel history.

The Holy Ghost having come, the appeal is made in His Name, and it is made, first, to "Ye men of Judah, and all ye who dwell about Jerusalem"; and in the second place, "Ye men of Israel."

We now notice a remarkable feature of the history of the geographical movement of the manifestation of the Holy Spirit; northward and westward, in the track of Israel. We see that the written message inspired of the Holy Ghost is addressed to Asia Minor, to Southern Europe, to Greece, Rome and Spain, and we notice among the honoured leaders of the primitive Church, formed of the "strangers of Rome called Saints," members of the Royal household of Britain.

One letter we have from the East in the New Testament, namely, the General Epistle of St. Peter written from Babylon "to the strangers scattered abroad."

It should be noted carefully that the letter to the Romans, so-called, WAS NOT WRITTEN TO THE ROMANS AS A PEOPLE, BUT "TO THE STRANGERS DWELLING AT ROME CALLED SAINTS."

Now, why should there be such a geographical trend to the historic movement of the New Testament but for the fact that the writers, as always in the Bible, were following the marching hosts of Israel? Let it be remembered with care that while our Lord sent the message of salvation to all the world, He sent that message through His appointed agent, His servant-nation Israel. He said, "I am not sent save unto the lost sheep of the House of Israel"; but to the disciples—members of the House of Israel—He said, "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel unto every creature." The Gospel which they should so preach is illustrated in the last verses of the Acts of the Apostles, which reads as follows :—

"And Paul dwelt two whole years in his own hired house, and received all that came in unto him, Preaching the kingdom of God, and teaching those things which concern the Lord Jesus Christ, with all confidence, no man forbidding him."—Acts xxviii, 30-31.

Lest familiarity with the Bible narrative should cover over the significance of these and such like words, we point out that the Gospel preached by St. Paul, and by our Lord before him, is twofold ; first, "preaching the kingdom of God," and, secondly, "teaching those things which concern the Lord Jesus Christ."

CONGRESS ADDRESSES.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON.

DR. PASCOE GOARD said : We have been having a very wonderful time together. I have often wondered if you, dear friends, who constitute the congregation, know what wonderful inspiration streams from you to those who stand behind this desk. It is simply marvellous what a congregation can do for, and with, a very ordinary speaker ; it can transform him into an extraordinary speaker, and he is simply lifted up by the concentrated encouragement and enthusiasm that shines from your faces, for behind the faces there is the spirit which radiates power.

I have been requested to speak this afternoon on "The Task that Lies Before Us" ; and I will take the most intimate and sacred conversation which our Lord Jesus Christ held with His disciples. We who believe on Him through their words are included in what He said, and included in His prayer. This is what He said : "As My Father hath sent Me, even so send I you. Go ye, therefore." Now the physical ministry of our Lord had a definite terminus. He said : "I am not sent save unto the lost sheep of the House of Israel." I once found a friend of mine struggling with this thought : "Does that mean that, after all, the preaching of the Gospel is restricted to the lost sheep of the House of Israel?" We went into the matter together : and I said, "No, that is not it. But the Lord Jesus Christ carries the Gospel so far, then hands it over, and bids His servants carry it on." "I am not sent save unto the lost sheep of the House of Israel," but, "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature."

Let us take another view of that : the promise of the Holy Ghost. "It is expedient for you that I go away." These were strange words for our Lord to say: "For if I go not away the Comforter will not come unto you, but if I depart I will send Him unto you. And when He is come He will reprove the world of sin, and of righteousness, and of judgment." But how shall He reprove the world? Through you ! It is God's purpose to bless all the families of the earth through the seed of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, that is to say, through Israel. It is manifest that from the time our brethren of the Jewish nation rejected Jesus Christ and His Gospel, they have been put on one side. It is by you, and you, and you, that the Gospel is to be carried on, and it is through you that the Holy Ghost will reprove the world of sin, and of righteousness, and of judgment. Manifestly God has placed upon us collectively this mighty task. It is the greatest task that has ever been laid upon a people.

Look back at the revival that came in past years. You will find it was the fanning of the embers of a fire which was already burning. God has given to us the task of lighting anew a fire, which had gone out, of the Gospel of the Kingdom.

Just make a comparison of what we are charged with doing, as compared with what God charged John Wesley and his associates to do. Our time is short for the work to be done, fearfully short, shall I say gloriously short, because at the end of the time our Lord is coming. As the Apostle Paul said : "Ye see the day approaching," and we do. The time is short, and there is much to be done. First, the awakening of Israel ; secondly, the instruction of the nation ; thirdly, the winning of the world for the Kingdom of God. Nothing short of that.

How is this to be done? It must be done, as we have been doing it, with a little nucleus of organization. Our organization has not grown with exceeding rapidity, but there is nothing miraculous about the way our organization has grown. Our groups are not overwhelming in numbers ; they are not overwhelming in wealth ; they are not overwhelming in influence. But they are centres of influence, and they are everywhere. A stalwart young man came into my office some time ago and said he wanted to have a word with the Editor of THE NATIONAL MESSAGE. I asked him where he was from, and he said : "I am from Somaliland, up in the corner where Somaliland and Abyssinia and Uganda meet." "What are you doing up there?" I asked. He replied, "There is a wireless or cable station there, with several operators. In our mail from home there came some copies of THE NATIONAL MESSAGE. We read them, and they brought us back to the Bible and to British-Israel Truth." I said, "Now that you have got this message, don't keep it to yourselves out there. Spread it among those who are around you." "We are doing it to the best of our ability," he replied. I was walking with a returned missionary a little while after, and he was saying that the Secretary of his Board had expressed his regret that they had not a single missionary in Somaliland. "Don't worry too much," I said, "for we have." Our voluntary missionaries are everywhere : they are radiating their personal influence : they are receiving and scattering our literature, and so the work is being done.

And then in the way of literature. You know we cannot get very far into the public Press. Sometimes we do, when we almost wish we didn't. One of the daily papers in Toronto sent a reporter to my hotel, and he said, "I have come to get information regarding you ; what you are doing, where you are going, the progress of your Movement, and its scope." He asked me questions which I answered, and when he was going away, I said, "Now you are sure you understand the matter, aren't you?" "Oh, yes, I understand it perfectly. You are a branch of the Zionist Movement!" Needless to say, we are not connected with that great Jewish Movement nor with the Jews.

We cannot get into the public Press, and, therefore, we must of necessity reach the people through our own Press, publishing matter that has come from our own pens. This must be done.

What is the aggregate of the public Press for any given date in London? Let us guess, say, ten million copies. Would that be near the mark? As you know, the daily paper is taken, scanned, and cast into the waste-paper basket. Our literature is not like that. A little while ago orders were coming in to the Covenant Publishing Co. for books which were advertised in the first issues of THE NATIONAL MESSAGE, showing that they are still being read. Our literature is handed on from hand to hand, from city to city, and even from country to country. The literature which we have been able to send out, by the grace of God, and by your generosity, and which is doing its work continually, will more than equal the output of one day's daily Press of London. That is a tremendous thing.

In order to do this it has been necessary for us to write a new library of books. The creation of that library of books since 1922 is a work of God through His servants. There has been a large turnover of money in the production of those books. I want to shew you for a moment what has been done in this regard. In 1921 a few of you with wonderful generosity invested some few thousand pounds in starting the publishing side of our great Movement. Since that time not one penny has been subscribed towards the shares in that little Company which was organized for the carrying on of this work of the King. And yet every year, such is the devotion of the directors and staff, an amount of books equal to the full invested capital of the Company is sent broadcast throughout the world. And, like the cruse of oil and the meal, every penny of that first investment, in kind, not in cash, is in the treasury still. It is a marvellous thing. The Covenant Publishing Co. takes care of that side of the work, in the production of the literature, and in scattering it to the ends of the earth. I may tell you that there are now about 500,000 volumes ready to take wing, the moment you and our friends all over the world will redeem the publishing charges that are against them. What an army of soldiers waiting to be sent out on active service. They await the "King's shilling," or half-crown—or whatever it is from you.

Aside from that, Anglo-Saxondom is ready and hungry for this message. With the Apostle Paul we say, "How shall they hear without a preacher, and how shall they preach except they be sent?" Let us mark this, the railway company will not carry one a mile, the steamboat company will not allow one to pass the gangway, the printing company will not give a turn of their press, no kind of service can be had, unless there is the ready cash down, or the credit that instantly upon demand a cheque will follow. So there must be that kind of assistance now, which will enable these demands to be met. That is what the Lord is asking for. Having had experience of the financial side of many different societies and organizations, I am ready to give my testimony that I do not know of any other organization that has done half as much in proportion to the means at its disposal as the British-Israel-World Federation. A little goes a long way with them, but there must be the little. I say this without any hesitation, that the economic interests in Britain, in America, in Canada, in Australia, in New Zealand, in South Africa, can find no investment that will offer such an unlimited return in the restoration of confidence, the restoration of prosperity, than in the making of the people here understand and believe with all their souls the Gospel of the Kingdom.

MR. HERBERT GARRISON said: This is a practical world, and we must be practical. Our organization is absolutely sound and progressive. It is spoken of by men in the City as one of the best-conducted organizations, and the most economically worked in the whole City of London. At our executive meetings many hours are devoted in prosecuting this great task. Thousands of books and pamphlets are going out to all parts of the world, except Russia. We are really doing something, and we thank God for it: and we are deeply thankful to those who have helped us. But we want to do more and more and more: we are not satisfied. If we are to carry out our work in the short space of time we have at our disposal, we must get busy, we must lose not a moment. We must be able to feel and to say that we have actually made a personal sacrifice in order that the Cause may go forward. Many have done that. You will wonder how we are financed. It is purely voluntary. We published that Manifesto recently, and it created a profound impression throughout the whole of the English-speaking world, and also in other parts. Not a penny of the cost of that Manifesto, which appeared in thirty papers, came out of the funds of the Federation. It was the gift of one man, supplemented by one or two others. I am going to ask you to do this afternoon a very practical thing. I am going to ask you to help us in this great work by promising to give as liberally as you can.

THURSDAY EVENING.

MR. CLIVE KENRICK, Chairman, said: I want you to consider for a moment with me Rev. xviii, and see if you agree with me that it portrays the time in which we are now living. The chief point of the chapter is the Fall of Babylon the Great, and its being made desolate in one hour. There is much else consequent on that desolation and fall, and an injunction to the Lord's people which does not seem to have been carried out as yet. Verse 2 gives the Fall of Babylon: "Babylon the great is fallen, is fallen, and is become the habitation of devils, and the hold of every foul spirit." Verses 17 and 19: "In one hour so great riches is come to nought. And every shipmaster, and all the company in ships, and sailors, and as many as trade by sea, stood afar off. And they cast dust on their heads, and cried, weeping and wailing, saying, Alas, alas that great city, wherein were made rich all that had ships in the sea by reason of her costliness! for in one hour is she made desolate."

Before we can understand whether this statement is even now being fulfilled before our eyes, we must make up our minds what is referred to as Babylon the Great, what period an hour signifies, and when that hour started, and then we shall also know when it will end.

Many have thought that Babylon the Great was the city of Babylon, which would be rebuilt, and was here referred to. But I feel sure the real reference is to the whole Babylonian succession of world powers. Babylon, followed by Medo-Persia, Greece, Rome, with the divided States succeeding the Roman Empire and their dependencies, or the whole state of society or civilization represented by them now. In other words, all Asia and Europe and South America, and from China to Peru. That is Babylon the Great. On the other hand, we have Israel being developed during all the times of the Gentiles as the 5th contemporary Kingdom, specially owning the majority of the ships and the shipping of the world, which is to supersede the other four Kingdoms, and eventually to fill the whole world. It is, of course, impossible for it to do this without the other four, and their successors, first pass away, which is what we even now see happening. Then there is the period of time, "in one hour is she made desolate."

WHEN DID THAT HOUR START?

We should expect both these points to be connected with Jerusalem and the times of the Gentiles, for our Lord told us that Jerusalem should be trodden down of the Gentiles till the times of the Gentiles were fulfilled, and she was then to be freed by Israel. The times of the Gentiles are the great cycle or week of 2,520 years made up of the seven times or days of 360 years each, and an hour on this scale of time is one twenty-fourth of one of the times, or days, and is fifteen years. When did that hour begin? Surely when the eleventh hour struck. Again looking to Jerusalem as a pointer, we find that the late Armistice took place on the 11th hour of the 11th day of the 11th month, eleven months after the freeing of Jerusalem, and eleven days after the Armistice with Turkey. Surely an amazing sequence of elevens arranged to catch the attention of those watching to acquaint them that the 11th hour had struck in 1918, and in one hour, or fifteen years, Babylon the Great is to be made desolate, succeeded by the midnight hour when the cry goes out that the Bridegroom cometh. Does history corroborate this view? Let us see. Where is the glory that belonged to the Peking and Manchu dynasty? Gone! China is broken up and become the prey of evil and unclean spirits. Where is the glory of the St. Petersburg and Moscow and the Romanoff dynasty? Gone. The name of the one city is changed and is now become a plague spot, and the other indeed is the hold of devils and unclean spirits. Where is the glory that was Constantinople and the House of Osman? Gone! The glory that was Vienna and the House of Hapsburg, perhaps the greatest bulwark on the temporal side of the Roman Catholic Church. Gone: scattered to the four winds. The glory that was Berlin and Potsdam, and the House of Hohenzollern: Gone. Madrid may shortly follow. And there remains but Rome which, phœnix-like, is rising to its ancient splendour, that its fall may be the more spectacular, and shown to be manifestly the work of God; just as Pharaoh was raised up before the Exodus.

What of the command to Israel? "Come out of her, My people, that ye have no fellowship of her sins, and that ye receive not of her plagues." Is not this a direct command to Israel to resume her attitude of splendid isolation? The United States of America has been much abused for leaving Europe to fend for herself after the War, but they seem to have obeyed this injunction better than ourselves, and may it not be that we are even now suffering in unemployment as a consequence of our neglect to develop our own heritage? Some years ago I calculated that one-half of our people were, in one way or another, dependent on foreign trade for their living, and now to-day, one-third of our people are living under the shadow of unemployment.

Now if we look at this 18th chapter of the Revelation, after this injunction to our people which is not obeyed, we see that it is of all those engaged in shipping and the foreign trade who hold up their hands and cry, "Woe, woe." To-day we have over a million tons of idle shipping in our ports, and it is especially those trades that are dependent on Asia and Europe that are suffering so terribly. I suggest to you that we are even now watching Babylon the Great being made desolate, and that the hour is already more than three parts gone, having started in 1918, and, therefore, ending in 1933 to 1934, and we may expect events to follow now in such rapidity during the next three or four years that the populace will be dazzled. If this is so, Dr. Goard should be right when he tells us that Britain will not have much more fighting to do, Babylon having already fallen. We are fighting now, not against mankind, but against the will of God.

Then what may we expect to follow during the next few years? These events are best left in detail to history itself, but we may expect to see the passing of the Gold Standard, and all that it entails, and a complete alteration of all values. I believe that the Gold Standard is the present form that the image of gold set up by Nebuchadnezzar has taken, and when the times of the Gentiles are fulfilled, that image, of course, will disappear.

Secondly, we may expect a

of Government, and here it is well to remember how Omri first made Israel to sin, that the statutes of Omri were kept and not the statutes of the Lord, so that it would appear that our present form of Government continues to make Israel to sin, and it may well be that the last act of the House of Commons will be the reintroduction of the Mosaic Law. It has been well said of the activities of Parliament, that "making innumerable statutes men merely confuse what God achieved in ten"!

Our health, our wealth and prosperity, as a Nation, and as individuals, depend on our keeping these Mosaic Laws and Statutes. Finally at midnight the cry that the Bridegroom cometh, and those of Israel who are prepared go into the Marriage Feast, the wedding, that is to say, making one of the Spiritual Church and the Nation Israel. When one tells this to the man-in-the-street, one finds three classes. Firstly, those who say with their whole heart, "I wish I believed that." Secondly, those who agree that an age ceased in 1914, and that we are struggling to bring forth a new and better age, but cannot see that these periods are the Scriptural ones of the Gospel Age, and the Millennium rule of our Lord, separated by St. Paul's consummation of the ages. Thirdly, those who say, "Yes, but that will take thousands of years to bring about." This can only be because these last are the victims of that false doctrine—Evolution. God's great creative acts always seem to take place suddenly, however long the preparation may have taken. I need only mention the Flood, the birth of Isaac, the bestowal of the Holy Spirit at Pentecost; and so to-day, "Can a Nation be born in a day?" We know that to God all things are possible, even this. Well, if our boasted 20th-century civilization is so soon to be a thing of the past, what are we to do about it? That is what my business friends always ask me. They do not understand that here is the patience of the saints. There is a passage in St. James' Epistle, chapter v, that deals with this point. It shows that the Coming of our Lord is so close at hand that there is no time for any reform to have effect. They want to save the world themselves, and so in the industrial world they forsake their life-long principles, and turn to human safeguards; a soul-destroying idea that life is an adventure, a self-sacrifice; or in politics to Socialism, another idea based on materialism; or in the spiritual world, to Spiritualism, and even worse. All alike are useless, and for the same reason, they leave out Christ. The truth is that our civilization is showing signs of imminent and complete collapse because the whole world, and Britain far more than one would have hoped, has turned its back on Christ and His teaching; and yet no civilization or nation can hope to endure unless it practises the principles of Christ and accepts Him as its King.

Then what remains? What can we do? Only the power of prayer. Let us pray as a nation, "Thy Kingdom come on earth even as it is in Heaven," "even as Elijah prayed, and it rained not for three and a half years." And then may we all experience "how beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of him that bringeth good tidings, that saith unto Zion, Thy God reigneth."

SCRIPTURE PASSAGE:—Exodus xiii, 17-22.

THE EXODUS OF CHRISTIAN CIVILIZATION FROM ECONOMIC BONDAGE.

BY DAVID DAVIDSON, M.C.

It is my privilege to be a member of what I believe to be one of the most interesting and helpful study circles in this country. Study circle is scarcely the right designation. I might more aptly term it a clearing house for the spiritual conceptions and experiences of our several members, who comprise many of diverse religious beliefs and philosophical outlook. Its purpose is to obtain collective harmony from a diversity of interests, opinions, and faith; to eliminate intolerance and the ground upon which intolerance is founded; and to achieve a fellowship that is based upon this common purpose, and that will break the shackles of creed, dogma and superstition, and thus free the spirit to attain collectively by harmony that which cannot be attained collectively by discord. That purpose we achieve by treating as sacrosanct the cherished religious beliefs and the faith of each and all of our members. Our circle is not a religious circle, but is a circle that has a spiritual centre towards which all our work is directed in harmony. I would like to see the same principles adopted and applied in every religious circle, Christian and non-Christian alike. For were these principles universally applied could there fail to be universal harmony?

THREE TURNING-POINTS.

At one recent meeting of our circle, I had to open a debate upon the history of prophetic literature. I confined my study to pre-Israelitish prophecy, and to the relationship that holds between pre-Israelitish prophecy and the Christian Gospels. In the course of discussion, I was asked to give a specific instance of a prophecy that had been definitely fulfilled. At the moment, my mental outlook was focused upon the whole vista of prophecy, and upon the whole vista of known history as the fulfilment of prophecy. It came therefore as a mental shock to be asked to alter suddenly my focus from the general to the particular, and, for the moment, I was at a loss for an answer. It seemed as if I were asked to prove the design of a carpet by pulling one of the threads out for inspection, since to me all history is the warp and woof of the design that prophecy collectively reveals. Another of our circle, however, promptly came to my assistance by instancing the case of Isaiah's prophecy concerning the Passion of the Christ.

Let me, however, on this occasion, give you another example that is veritably of the warp and woof of prophecy; an example, indeed, that, whilst hinged upon the Passion of our Lord, springs from the time of the Exodus of Israel from Egypt and spans into modern times, disclosing the buttressing destiny of the British race in the world, and the true purpose of the British Empire. The example connects the three series of mystically analogous circumstances, which, as I have shown in my works, are revealed both by Scriptural prophecy and by the Great Pyramid's prophecy—the Exodus of Israel from bondage in Egypt; the Exodus of our Lord to free the spirit of man from the bondage of fleshly dominion; and the Exodus of Christian Civilization from economic bondage. These are the three great themes of Scriptural prophecy, and the three great themes of Pyramid prophecy. The epochs of the respective circumstances are indicated in the Great Pyramid as the respective epochs of the three greatest turning-points in the spiritual progress of the human race. In the last series of circumstances we have already entered the final phase of intensive economic oppression that is to compel our Exodus from mystical Egypt into the wilderness of manna and deliverance, even although we cry for the flesh-pots of our bondage. The example I have chosen as an outstanding example of prophecy definitely fulfilled has an important bearing upon our tragic circumstances to-day. The example relates to a prophetic utterance in the Book of Exodus, to two statements of our Lord as to how this was to be fulfilled, and to the fulfilment of all three statements in the work of the British race. I will introduce my example by quoting the two significant statements of Jesus.

THE WORLD OF THE GOSPELS.

You will remember that our Lord said to the Jews—"The Kingdom of God shall be taken from you and given unto a nation bringing forth the fruits thereof." History, as you know, identifies for us the nation that has "brought forth the fruits." One has merely to consider the propagation of the Gospel to see that the British race comprises "the nation" specified by our Lord. The British and Foreign Bible Society alone has translated the Gospel into more than 630 languages, and the Gospel has been preached by British "witnesses" to every nation. In saying this I have no intention of minimizing the good work that has been done by the collective missionary efforts of other nations, or of Churches and creeds other than those of the British race. My object is merely to point out a phenomenon of history, publicly acknowledged by Roman Catholic authorities, who admit from their own statistical records that by far the greatest field of missionary activity in the Roman Church exists within the protecting confines of the British Empire. Very clearly, then, the British race, in building its far-flung Empire, has provided the means for the world-wide propagation of the Gospel.

Now this Gospel is of a twofold nature, since it comprises the Gospel of individual Salvation, and the Gospel of the Kingdom, which relates to collective spiritual organization. The Gospel of the Kingdom is essentially a Gospel of Community organization on a spiritual basis, of which the outstanding precepts are—"Do unto others as you would have others do unto you," "Forgive your enemies," "Forgive as you would be forgiven," "Whosoever's sins you remit, they are remitted unto them." In a community guided by such principles there is no need of competitive striving, unless in the doing of good. It is the perfect commune. Its organization differs from current communism in that Ananias and Sapphira have been eliminated from the community; whereas in Russia the aim is to eliminate all but Ananias and Sapphira. The Great Pyramid's revelation shows us that this is the lesson that our tragic period of history has yet to teach us in a collective sense. We blame Russia for much, while not yet knowing how much is vitally wrong within our own body politic.

Consider, then, what our Lord said concerning the Gospel of the Kingdom. He said—"This Gospel of the Kingdom shall be preached in all the world for a witness; and then shall the end come." Before we worry about what "the end" signifies, let us consider the effect of our Lord's saying upon such of His contemporaries as heard His words, or upon those to whom, in later years, His words were reported. Think of the scorn and derision that would be aroused amongst the Romans and Greeks of the 1st Century A.D. when they heard or read these words. Their known world was vaster, in their opinion, than this "unmanly" Gospel of the Kingdom could ever penetrate. They knew somewhat vaguely of the vastness of Africa, vaguely of China, and the regions of the extreme North. They knew little of India, and knew not at all of the two Americas, or of Australia, and New Zealand, and the myriad islands of the then unknown seas. Yet the despised Gospel has been translated into and preached in the languages of all these lands; by a people, whose many scattered tribal communities in Roman times were deemed "barbarian" alike by Greek and Roman.

THE EXODUS BROADCAST.

A people of even less account, by contemporary standards, than these so-called "barbarian" elements of the British peoples was the nation Israel fifteen centuries earlier. Their own account of their sojourn in Egypt, and of their deliverance from bondage there is not accepted by modern theological scholars, historians and archæologists. Modern textual critics ascribe this account of Israel's deliverance from Egypt variously to scribes of the 6th to 2nd centuries before Christ. Let us therefore meet modern critical scholarship on its own chosen ground, both in regard to the Old Testament and in regard to the Gospels; since late composite authorship of the Gospels is also a tenet of modern textual criticism. In doing so, let us admit that the hand of successive scribes, copyists, and editors is manifestly proved. But, also, let it be acknowledged that the mind, hand and tongue of any man, and the sum-total of human spirituality and scholarship must, of necessity, constitute the least perfect of media for the conveyance and expression of Truth that is revealed from God to man, as man is at present constituted.

Consider, then, the narrative of the Book of Exodus in the light of what the Gospels say, and, in the light of the Truth that both reveal, judge the opinion of modern scholarship. The narrative known as "The Gospel according to John" reports Jesus Christ as saying—"For had ye believed Moses, ye would have believed Me; for he wrote of Me. But if ye believe not his writings, how shall ye believe My words."

The Book of Exodus is the "reputed" writing of Moses. What does this say that is not believed? It gives an account of certain "wonders" in Egypt, performed by the Power of God. Modern scholars do not accept this account as authentic. This account states, however, that God said these "wonders" were performed "that MY NAME might be declared throughout all the earth." The Gospels refer to these wonders as performed by God and as recorded by Moses. These Gospels have been translated into every language of the earth, and have been "declared" unto every nation "throughout all the earth," as the Gospel of Jesus Christ, the Son of God. Has any statement ever been more triumphantly justified than this prophetic statement in the Book of Exodus, by Moses thirty-four centuries ago? Could the sum-total of modern scholarship achieve such a triumph of prophetic vision as this example reveals? Can we rely upon the opinion of modern scholarship concerning the authenticity of these Hebrew records when the records themselves give us such a clear vision of their future influence? Can they be untrustworthy concerning their own origin and so trustworthy concerning their ultimate purpose? Assuredly No! One can therefore understand modern theological scholarship being silent concerning the fact of the fulfilment of this prediction in the "reputed writings" of Moses, as it is silent upon the fact of the fulfilment of the "reputed" saying of our Lord that, "This Gospel of the Kingdom shall be preached in all the world for a witness unto all nations; and then shall the end come."

It is, therefore, a truthful saying of Paul that "the wisdom of this world is foolishness with God. For it is written, He taketh the wise in their own craftiness." In the same place, Paul says—"Let no man deceive himself. If any man among you seemeth to be wise in this world, let him become a fool, that he may be wise."

A MYSTICAL CRUCIFIXION.

This digression—if it can be called a digression—has been occasioned by the necessity for emphasizing the two truths that have been obscured, namely, that the predictions of the world-wide "broad-casting" of the deliverance of Israel from Egypt, and of the world-wide "broad-casting" of the Gospel have both been fulfilled in the propagation of the Gospel by the British race. The fulfilment of these two predictions identifies the British race as the race supplying, from its Spiritual essence, the fundamental body politic of Christian civilization. The prophecies of the Old and New Testaments depict this function as a temporary one to maintain the Light of Truth in a material world during the time that the world was being prepared to receive the Kingdom of God. The preparation was to consist of the spreading of the Gospel of the Kingdom to every nation. Nothing is said as to this Gospel being universally accepted. Rather are we told that it should cause dissension and chaos. The sole requirement for preparation is that the Gospel of the Kingdom should be preached to every nation, "then shall the end come." "The end" does not mean the end of the world. but the end of the present order of civilization, prior to the beginning of a new order of civilization, that appertains to the establishing of the Kingdom of God on earth.

Here I must refer you to a booklet, "Pyramid Prophecy and Current Events," which I had published in July, 1925. In this I gave an interpretation of one significant element of the Great Pyramid's prophecy that had not been considered in my previous work. The Pyramid's prophecy was shown to portray the sequence of events that are now happening as analogous, in a mystical sense, to the sequence of events that happened at the Crucifixion. The mystical Crucifixion was revealed as happening to the body politic of the British race, and the mystical betrayal to arise from the financial elements of the world's economic system.

Again, in "The Great Pyramid: Its Divine Message," published in July, 1924, I pointed out that the sequence of events at the Exodus of Israel from Egypt prefigured mystically the sequence of events at the Crucifixion. The outstanding identities are that our Lord's death, in the Gospels, is referred to as His Exodus, that He is "Christ our Passover"; that His Passion is "the putting away of leaven"; and that He is therefore the true "bread of life," and the "manna from heaven." The mystical crucifixion, economically, of our race, as symbolized in the Great Pyramid's prophecy, is therefore the Exodus of our race from the present order o world economy to be delivered into the economy of the Kingdom of God, from the "flesh-pots" of mystical Egypt to manna in the wilderness. The Book of Revelation therefore says that it was in this same "mystical Egypt where also our Lord was crucified."

A SPIRITUAL INITIATION.

Here I must again refer to the work published in 1924. In this it was shown from the Pyramid's prophecy that our oppression or tribulation would arise from causes of an economic nature, in consequence of the development of an Industrial Revolution due mainly, as was specified, to the universal adoption of mass-production methods. In the booklet published in 1925, the roots of this Industrial Revolution were shown from the Pyramid's prophecy to extend in time back to one Epoch in the autumn of 1909 and to an earlier Epoch in 1844. The prophetic symbolism was explained as depicting the 1844 Epoch as definitely beginning the age of speed in financial and economic procedure, in international transport, production and politics; and the 1909 Epoch as definitely beginning the age of acceleration in these spheres of activity—an acceleration towards the consummation, or end, of the age.

Let me give you a brief summary in chronological order of the various recent developments in the understanding of the Great Pyramid's prophecy. In the second half of 1921, I published a series of articles showing from the Great Pyramid's prophecy that the Tribulation on or the oppression of our race would begin on 29th-30th May, 1928. In July, 1924, "The Great Pyramid: Its Divine Message," was published, in which the scientific data were given confirming the date of our oppression beginning, and showing that the oppression or Tribulation, beginning on 29th-30th May, 1928, would be of an economic nature, arising from a crisis being reached at that date in the development of the Industrial Revolution. In July, 1925, the booklet, "Pyramid Prophecy and Current Events," was published, showing from the Pyramid's prophecy that the oppression, or mystical Crucifixion, would be effected economically through the channels of international finance. In a series of articles published in The Morning Post in September, 1916, I gave a simple statement, unadorned with technicalities, conveying the plain meaning of the Pyramid's Message concerning the Tribulation due to begin from 29th-30th May, 1928. This statement, as then given, is as follows: "This message (of the Great Pyramid) is addressed specifically to the British race, and means that the constitutional Governments of the British Empire and the United States of America are on the threshold of constitutional crises through which only the Power of Jesus Christ can bring them safely . . . ."

". . . . Having become forgetful of His admonition—'Seek ye the Kingdom of God and all these things shall be added unto you'—civilization is now being stripped of 'those things' to prepare mankind to seek for 'the Kingdom of God.' For, lacking the Spirit, civilization is now failing as our Lord Jesus Christ said it would fail. Bereft of His Spirit and acclaiming only His Name—praising in word and 'Despising and rejecting' in Spirit—civilization is tottering to its fall."

BANKRUPTCY AND LIQUIDATION.

In September, 1927, I published a series of articles reiterating the essential scientific basis and meaning of the Great Pyramid's prophecy. In this series it was shown that the crisis then approaching was portrayed as the natural consequence of man's ruthless exploitation of the productions or commodities of the earth. In May, 1928, before the date of the Tribulation began, I published another series of articles,[1] in which were emphatically stressed, from the Pyramid's prophecy, the economic nature of the then imminent oppression or Tribulation. Again, in plain words, I emphasized the economic nature of the oppression and the cause of the oppression being of this nature. The words were mine, but they are an accurate translation of the scientific idiom of the Pyramid's Message. These words are as follows:—

"In the crisis approaching, material well-being in the aggregate will depend upon spiritual fitness in the aggregate. Then shall we be brought to the realization of true values, and of the true principle of stabilization. Then shall we know that it is what one puts into the world that counts and not what one takes out of it; that no gold standard or any other fictitious standard can have any value unless there is man-power to give it value; and that man-power is below par or above par in the realm of physical being according as spiritual man-power in the aggregate is below par or above par in the Clearing House of spiritual values."

"At present we have arrived at the auditing stage of accountancy in our age of civilization, to find that our civilization is spiritually bankrupt."

"For whereas man's profligate and destructive use of the products of his scratchings and burrowings on the earth's surface is a matter of small account except to his immediate physical being, it represents within the microcosm the effects of the spirit of unrest, ignorant prodigality, and destruction that dominate man's whole spiritual environment. The ultimate chaotic and bankrupt condition of the one mirrors the ultimate (chaotic and bankrupt) condition of the other."

"As world 'builders,' we are bankrupt before our building contract is finished. We have nothing left to offer in mitigation of the terms of liquidation apart from offering ourselves—not, however, as faithless 'builders,' but as 'rough stones' (for thus the allegory of Scriptural and Pyramid prophecy changes), to be made into 'smooth ashlar' and 'living stones'" —that is to say, in the spiritual building of the Great Architect, which spiritual building is the Kingdom of God on earth.

Do not these words, written two and a-half years ago—words that were scorned and ridiculed at the time—express what many now realize, either consciously or subconsciously, to be truth? Why otherwise should there be such a universal cry, particularly throughout the British Empire, and even during the past year, I wish you to observe, in the United States of America—the richest country in the world—for a new spirit in every department of activity?

PYRAMID PROPHECY FULFILLED.

At the end of September, 1928, four months after the Tribulation began on 29th-30th May, 1928, I published a single article in The Morning Post, in which it was shown from the financial and industrial columns and trade supplements of our leading journals that it was realized by financial authorities and economists, at the time, that a serious financial situation had arisen, and that in consequence of this a definite economic decline began from the end of May, 1928. It was, indeed, specifically stated by two leading journals that the economic decline began from the end of May onwards, precisely as the Pyramid's prophecy had indicated.

Again, in September, 1929, I published a series of articles,[2] in which leading economists were quoted as employing practically the same terms, to express the then current economic situation, that I had employed prior to May, 1928, to describe the coming state of economic bondage. Trade and financial statistics and diagrams were given to show the development of economic bondage that had taken place since May, 1928; and from the Pyramid's prophetic indications, these were shown to reveal the then imminent collapse of the economic structure of the United States of America. In a Table of Pyramid dates and occurrences, the 29th-30th October, 1929, was indicated as an Epoch in the cycle of critical events that were then occurring, and it was upon the 30th October, 1929—the date indicated—that the American economic fabric experienced its final colossal subsidence in the Wall Street slump of last October. The whole industrial world is still suffering from the repercussions of this gigantic financial earthquake. Wealthy America is in the like helpless economic case that we are, crying out for a new spirit, wondering why wealth cannot keep the machine going, wondering where their supermen are and what they are doing, and—sad sight!—turning to the magic of mystical Egypt, in an endeavour to resuscitate a declining spirit by the incantation of magical formulæ they call "prosperity slogans." "Prosperity buttons" are issued in thousands, as amulet-tokens of the intense desire to hang on to the "flesh-pots" of mystical Egypt. We are, however, doing the same thing in this country, if in a different way. The shibboleths of party politics are the incantations of the magical formulæ that are to bring us prosperity; and our flaunting of our political faith takes the place of the American "prosperity button."

A series of two articles, under the title of "Church and State in the Great Pyramid's Prophecy," was published in July of this year. This is now published as a reprint, and is given free on application either to the Covenant Publishing Company or myself. This reprint will explain much that may be obscure concerning what I have dealt with in this Address as the Exodus or mystical crucifixion of the body politic of Christian civilization. The lines along which the mystical crucifixion will develop are indicated, and the various dated Epochs of successive phases are given. May I ask you not to jump to conclusions in this matter, but to await the necessary historical developments that will show eventually and in retrospect whether my interpretation of the prophecy is correct or not. In doing so, may I ask you to remember that even our Lord's disciples were in the dark as to our Lord's Mission, and as to His Crucifixion being the fulfilment of prophecy. They knew not the meaning of His ministry and Passion until Pentecost and after. It was not until after Pentecost that they knew the prophecies concerning His Passion had been fulfilled to the letter.

AUTHORITATIVE CONFIRMATION.

Now in the outline summary I have just given of my works to date, I have emphatically stressed the fact that the Great Pyramid's prophecy indicated a state of economic decline beginning from 29th-30th May, 1928. The Westminster Bank Review for September of this year now informs us, under the heading "Output Restriction as a Policy," that the present widespread decline in commodity prices, which is the greatest problem with which world economists are now faced, actually began from May, 1928, after the peak index value for that year had been reached in May. These conclusions are based on the recorded fluctuations of the wholesale price index of the Board of Trade. I have a diagram which I had prepared several months ago showing the same thing from the published fluctuations of The Times index number of commodity prices.* I have been waiting for some recognized authority to see this significant fact, since until November of last year I could not get the average industrialist to see the serious nature of the economic situation as I saw it. Now they see it, but cannot believe that the situation began to develop as early as the end of May, 1928. Let me therefore quote from The Westminster Bank Review. This states as follows:—

"The depression which overtook the world some months ago has not yet abated its virulence, and only the most optimistic still cherish the hope of any feasible short cut to prosperity. While British industrialists and traders are preparing to face what by general agreement must be a difficult autumn and winter, economists continue their researches into the origins of the present movement and their bearing on the future." is that of price movements. Although it is not generally argued that the widespread decline of commodity prices during recent months has been the cause of this year's trade depression, much comment has been provoked by the fact that the decline did in fact herald the latter movement . . . ."

"A question which is receiving a very large share of scrutiny

[2] "The Great Pyramid's Prophecy and Its Fulfilment."

* This diagram will appear shortly, together with an explanatory article.

". . . . it can readily be shown that the fall in commodity prices ante-dated the decline in industrial activity by many months. The wholesale price index of the Board of Trade, which is based largely on quotations for raw materials and foodstuffs in London, the most international of all markets, was, on the whole, inclined to rise during the first half of 1928, reaching its maximum in May of that year. . . . The index then fell rapidly until September, but a further period of relative stability intervened until March, 1929, when the decline became more pronounced . . . . during the twenty months that preceded the zenith of industrial activity (that is, from May, 1928, to the end of 1929) commodity prices were falling by about 7½ per cent. During the present year a further decline has accompanied the falling off in industrial activity, but its velocity has markedly increased. In July, the Board of Trade's price index registered a figure 10 per cent. below the level of the previous December, and 17 per cent. below that of May, 1928."

"The results of this sequence," continues The Westminster Bank Review, "are both interesting and significant. In the first place, it is fair to say that the producers of 'primary' commodities obtained longer notice of impending difficulties than did those engaged in manufacturing industries."

I have quoted enough from this Review to show what the situation is and to show when it began. The situation is precisely that which the Pyramid's prophecy revealed before the situation developed, and the date at which it began is the date that was indicated from the Pyramid's prophecy as the date of commencement of the last Tribulation on the British race.

MR. BALDWIN'S VISION.

And now let me speak as a humble citizen of this Great Empire, as one who is vitally concerned in our current issues and not, for the moment, as the translator or interpreter of the Great Pyramid's prophecy. In dealing with the Pyramid's prophecy, I have said some things that may be interpreted as derogatory to our present system of Party politics. Such was not my intention, since I believe our present system of Party politics to be performing a useful function in the work of demolishing, with the minimum of shock to the world, the arbitrary system of world economy, that, under existing conditions, is futile, and must be demolished for a better system of economy to take its place. From the viewpoint of the man-in-the-street, I believe that of all nations we shall as usual "get there first" in our supposedly haphazard but nevertheless subconsciously guided fashion. What we are experiencing now in our race is the most stupendous and yet the most silent world revolution this earth has ever known. The surest sign of success that I perceive in our current troubles is the resilience of our race in tribulation. Resilience is the property of seeming to be limp under the impact of overwhelming force and of speedy recovery when the energy of the overwhelming force has been expended. This was what our Lord meant when He said "Resist not evil." For evil is overwhelming if you resist it, but is capable of being diverted or thrown off if one spiritually recoils before it and allows it to expend its energy in futile pursuit.

Now apart from any consideration of politics, I believe that if Mr. Baldwin has a supreme gift it is the gift of a historical sense in appreciating the general significance of current movements. Six years ago, I quoted him as seeing in our race "the shock-absorbers of the world." It is in fulfilling this function that we are destined to go through our economic crucifixion, or our Exodus from economic bondage. We must show the world the way into the uncharted wilderness, to receive therein from God Himself spiritual deliverance, and the Law by which the world is to be regulated in the New Age. Consider then the following extract from The Times report of Mr. Baldwin's address to the Imperial Press Conference. "The adjustment of mankind to the machine," he said, "was the biggest problem humanity was up against, and he could not prophesy what the end was going to be. Highly industrialized Britain would take the shock of this new world. We were getting it now, and the path we were treading was uncharted. The road we were going through . . . was the one that other nations had to follow, for in all industrial problems and difficulties we were the pioneers . . . he thought it probable that their problems (those of other nations) when they arose would be far bigger than those we were facing to-day."

Mr. Baldwin's sequence, be it noted, is precisely the sequence of Biblical and Pyramid prophecy. Our Tribulation is ended when the judgment of the nations, their tribulation, begins. When therefore we find ourselves figuratively "with our backs to the wall," as Israel found herself in her Exodus to "the Sea of Reeds," let us take stock of the situation, and look for our deliverance through unity of command under the greatest of all commanders, Jesus Christ. For it was He, you will remember, Who spoke of the things that should come to pass, and that are even now happening. He said: "When these things begin to come to pass, then look up, and lift up your heads, for your redemption draweth nigh."

WEEK BY WEEK.

By A. R. H.

A READER who claims to have been "trying to teach for CHRIST for sixty years," takes great exception to the idea that the BRITISH COMMONWEALTH could be in any way identified with the KINGDOM of GOD upon earth of the Scriptures.

Our critic fastens in particular upon Week by Week dated September 20th, 1930, wherein A. R. H. has written: "The great new synthesis is the gathering of all nations into one great family. The BRITISH forms the nucleus around which the whole human family is to be organized into one UNIVERSAL KINGDOM."

This is too much for our friendly correspondent, who ejaculates: "Really! that is proposing the impossible," and follows up his expression of complete dissent with the enlightening information: "The only universal kingdom possible is a spiritual one such as the Christian Church—and that is doubtless the Kingdom our Lord established and our Lord preached."

Digitized by Google

This challenge raises at once the dual question: What is the KINGDOM: What is the CHURCH?

The true or universal CHURCH of CHRIST is a mystical union of all believers. CHRIST and His BODY form the CHURCH. In this MYSTIC WHOLE, sex and nationality are transcended. The BODY of CHRIST is composed of a people called out of every race and creed and tongue under Heaven.* There is a sense then in which the BODY of CHRIST might be termed "an international organization."

On the contrary, the KINGDOM is a national organization based upon a biological foundation; that of the ANGLO-SAXON (or ISAAC) seed of ABRAHAM. This organization forms a spiritual unity called the BRIDE.

We are rapidly approaching the day when the CHRIST (and His BODY, which is the CHURCH) will be united to the BRIDE (the KINGDOM) and they shall become one.

But at present the sharp distinction between the two remains quite evident. For whilst it is true that every member of the BODY of CHRIST is a citizen of the KINGDOM of CHRIST,† every citizen of the KINGDOM is not a member of CHRIST'S BODY.

Thus we reach the next vital fact: the dual nature of the KINGDOM of GOD itself. There is always an inner as well as an outer aspect to all these things. And the KINGDOM has a spiritual as well as a physical significance.

That is what Mr. Amery‡ was trying to express when, seeing the dual nature of this phenomenon as applied to the BRITH-ISH EMPIRE, he said:—"The EMPIRE is not external to any of the BRITISH NATIONS. It is something like the KINGDOM of HEAVEN within ourselves."

Why is the EMPIRE like the KINGDOM of HEAVEN within us? Why are we wrong to regard the EMPIRE as being solely something external to the people who inhabit it?

Because the EMPIRE is something a hundred thousand times greater and more significant than a name or geographical environment. We must look beyond the external and material manifestation and gaze upon the inward if we would know the EMPIRE for what it really is.

SOUL OF THE EMPIRE

The British Empire is the corporate expression of the mind and spirit of a People. Change the mind or spirit of that People and the British Empire—even though it survives in name and geographical environment—would no longer be the Empire.

Someone once said that if we want to get to Heaven we must take Heaven with us. It is the same with EMPIRE. For it is men who make Empires. Empires do not make men. An environment is the outward reflection of the inward spiritual condition of the people composing it.

This principle applies equally to both the CHURCH of CHRIST and the KINGDOM. For if we are in CHRIST JESUS, it is equally true that CHRIST is in us.§ In fact we might truly say that if we are in CHRIST JESUS it is because CHRIST is in us. For the SPIRIT of CHRIST dwelling in us makes us indwelling members of the MYSTICAL BODY of CHRIST which is the CHURCH.

This is a great mystery. But as the illustration of a fact it holds equally good as applied to the KINGDOM. For if we have entered into the KINGDOM of HEAVEN it is because the KINGDOM of Heaven is within us. In fact if the KINGDOM of Heaven were not within us we could not have entered into the KINGDOM of Heaven.

For the KINGDOM is first a state of consciousness and only secondly, by gradual process of development, a new environment.

This is the meaning of the LORD'S prayer which says in effect: "Thy KINGDOM come on earth as it is in Heaven."

What is Heaven? Heaven is the outward expression of the mind of GOD. GOD'S environment. The place where GOD is.

Thus in the LORD'S prayer we pray that this perfect environment may become manifest on earth. This manifestation is in process of development or restoration, as it is written:—"Thy KINGDOM must be being restored."[1] But the climax to this process is to come with dramatic suddenness.

It is obvious that the KINGDOM of HEAVEN has a dual manifestation. From the LORD'S prayer we know that the KINGDOM of HEAVEN in Heaven is organized in perfect harmony with the will of GOD. Whilst on earth, the KINGDOM of HEAVEN or KINGDOM of GOD is in an imperfect stage of manifestation and development.

For the KINGDOM of GOD upon earth is the KINGDOM that GOD set up of Dan. ii, 44. And the KINGDOM of HEAVEN upon earth is the self-same KINGDOM, viz., the KINGDOM set up by the GOD of HEAVEN of Dan. ii, 44. And this KINGDOM, like its Gentile predecessors, is an EMPIRE.

But if we accept the fact that the KINGDOM of GOD upon earth is represented by the BRITH-ISH NATION and COMPANY of NATIONS, how can we reconcile this with teaching such as this:—"Except a man be born again he cannot see[2] . . . . he cannot enter into[3] the KINGDOM of GOD," is a type of question asked to-day.

Let us examine the question first in strict relation to its context. Here was a man, Nicodemus, who knew perfectly well that he had been born, by natural birth, a citizen of GOD'S earthly KINGDOM-NATION.

"I am of the seed of ABRAHAM," thought he, "and that is all that matters." But, to his intense surprise, JESUS told h m that this was not all that mattered. To be able to say that ABRAHAM was his father—that he was born "Brith-ish," a covenant man—was not enough. He must be born again.

If we are born of the seed of ABRAHAM through ISAAC we are by natural birth citizens of GOD'S KINGDOM in the earth. But by natural birth we can never be more than sons of men. And the KINGDOM can only be properly carried on as it is served by men who through faith in CHRIST have become the sons of GOD.

Men make kingdoms. Kingdoms do not make men. And everything depends upon the spirit of the men behind the Kingdom.

We cannot have a true KINGDOM of GOD if the men who make up that kingdom are inspired by the spirit of man only. The natural seed of ABRAHAM is not enough. We must have a spiritual seed. The spirit of man behind the KINGDOM is not enough. We must have the spirit of God behind the Kingdom.

JESUS carried this teaching to its extreme and logical conclusion when He said :—" Among them that are there hath not arisen a greater than JOHN the BAPTIST, notwithstanding he that is least in the KINGDOM of Heaven is greater than he."

Here JESUS was not casting aspersions on John's spiritual character. He was using John as a type of greatness. JESUS said in effect : " Personal greatness does not count at all in My KINGDOM ; only spiritual greatness counts. John was a great man, but if you were as great as John, but not ' born again,' you would not be good enough for the purposes of the KINGDOM."

This teaching was badly needed in the days of Nicodemus. Nicodemus knew all about the national side of the KINGDOM. But although a master in ISRAEL, he was blind to the spiritual aspect.

To-day the exact reverse is the case. We are familiar with the teaching of regeneration, but blind to the national aspect of the KINGDOM of GOD.

But if Heaven is the outward expression of the mind of GOD, then we who are in CHRIST, and as ST. PAUL puts it have the MIND OF CHRIST[5]

(who is God), are potential co-creators of a heavenly environment. Heaven is the realm of pure thought. And in the degree to which our every thought[6] is brought into obedience to CHRIST are we in Heaven, and is that Heaven reflected in our outward life. For the outward life of individuals, as of nations, is the reflection of their inner life.

If every member of the earthly KINGDOM were in CHRIST, and thus in Heaven,[7] the KINGDOM of HEAVEN would immediately appear. Within and throughout the KINGDOM-NATION and EMPIRE the MIND of CHRIST would reign supreme.

It is the function of the EMPIRE GOSPEL[8] of the KINGDOM to hasten the consummation of this desirable transformation. So shall the KINGDOM of GOD upon earth become the KINGDOM of HEAVEN in deed as well as name or ideal only.

GOD can use us in our natural state as seed of ABRAHAM up to a certain point. For the BRITH-ISH PEOPLE are a people in covenant relationship with GOD. And since CHRIST died as REDEEMER of HIS PEOPLE, they are a redeemed people.[9]

But it is necessary, if the KINGDOM is to be truly usable, for every member of the elect RACE to become a member of the election of Grace. It is for this transformation that we pray, when (in our recitation of the Te Deum) we say :—" We therefore pray Thee, help Thy Servants whom Thou hast redeemed with Thy precious blood. Make them to be numbered with Thy SAINTS. . . ." We pray for the salvation of a redeemed Race. We ask that every member of the RACE that has been nationally redeemed (or brought back into covenant relationship) may become a member of the MYSTICAL BODY of CHRIST, which is the CHURCH. This is a prayer that the union of CHURCH and STATE may be effected and the several boundaries of CHURCH and KINGDOM become conterminous and equipollent.

The CHURCH of CHRIST or BRIDEGROOM is ready. But the BRIDE or KINGDOM hath not yet made herself ready[10] for the mystic union. But the time is approaching when the KINGDOM will be ready. The whole NATION will be born of GOD in one day.[11]

The BISHOP of DURHAM seems to have caught a glimpse of the radiant vision when, some little while ago, he said :—" The sense of citizenship in the GREATEST EMPIRE under HEAVEN is the lesson which needs most to be taught the coming generation of English men and women. They should learn how the EMPIRE was engendered in the BRITISH PEOPLE by the REFORMATION : they should lay to heart the principles on which it has been founded—justice, freedom and progress ; they should understand its magnitude ; the variety of its resources ; the greatness of its responsibilities and opportunities ; and they should vow to make themselves good citizens of that EMPIRE."

What finer summing up could we have than that? A powerful plea for Kingdom-teaching ; a type of teaching that naturally leads to personal consecration. And if the EMPIRE —the greatest EMPIRE under HEAVEN—was born of the spirit engendered by the REFORMATION, then it was a " born again of the SPIRIT of GOD " Empire. It was the handiwork (under GOD) of born again BRITISH men and women. Truly an Empire set up by God. For GOD uses HIS PEOPLE as His agents in the effecting of His purposes in the earth.

And if the EMPIRE is to flourish and continue, it must be carried on to-day by a born again RACE and PEOPLE. The BRITISH EMPIRE is destined to find this justification as a result of the proclamation of the national message of the BIBLE—the GOSPEL of the KINGDOM. A national and racial re-birth is called for.

Individually as GOD'S BRITH-ISH PEOPLE " put on CHRIST,"[12] and enter into the KINGDOM of HEAVEN, they will, finding at last the KINGDOM of HEAVEN within themselves, be amazed to see the KINGDOM also begin to manifest among and around them. For the KINGDOM of Heaven is first a state of consciousness, and, secondly, by process of development, an external environment.

Just as a civilization is the reflection of the heart of the people who go to make up that civilization, so it is with the Kingdom. The life of a Kingdom—the quality of a civilization—is the reflection of the inner spiritual quality of its people.

A PEOPLE who, being in CHRIST, have the Mind of Christ, and having come under the beneficent clauses of the new and better COVENANT[13], can be described as the PEOPLE in whose heart is GOD'S LAW[14]—such a PEOPLE will project into outward physical environment the CHRISTO-centric WORLD-CIVILIZATION for which all nations long. When every soul in the KINGDOM is in CHRIST—Who is in HEAVEN—then the KINGDOM of HEAVENLY CONSCIOUSNESS will be manifest on earth in very deed.

of kingdom-development is to pass through the KINGDOM o the FATHER[15] phase and thence into the final phase, when the KINGDOM shall be delivered up by the SON to the FATHER that GOD may be all and in all.[16]

Meanwhile the BRITH-ISH FAMILY of NATIONS or KINGDOM —constituting the BRIDE of CHRIST—form a nucleus around which the other nations of the earth may unite to form a UNIVERSAL FAMILY of NATIONS. The UNIVERSAL BROTHERHOOD of NATIONS will not be a melting-pot, but a harmonious orchestration. Each NATION within the COMMONWEALTH will be constitutionally free and endowed with a potential equal status. But BRITAIN will be CONDUCTOR in the CONCERT of the NATIONS, for as custodian of the LAW, BRITAIN, the SERVANT-KINGDOM, is the SCHOOLMASTER[17] to lead the other nations to accept the CHRIST as KING.

LONDON is the heart of BRITAIN. And in the heart of LONDON stands the ROYAL EXCHANGE—symbol of the material wealth and substance of the KINGDOM. Engraven into the stonework facing of this BUILDING are the pregnant words :—

"The earth is the LORD'S,
And the fulness thereof :
The WORLD, and they that dwell therein."

It is more than coincidence that the INTERNATIONAL BIBLE should print as chapter heading to this PSALM (of which the above forms the first verse) the emphatic affirmation :—GOD'S SPIRITUAL KINGDOM.

THE SECRETARY-GENERAL'S NEWS AND NOTES.

S.C.S.—We are compelled to make an earnest request on behalf of our Benevolent Fund. We have many cases of urgent need, and pathetic appeals for help from members and supporters who are in dire distress. Will those who are happily placed please come to our aid that we may stand by the needy, thus obeying our Lord's injunction ?

Meetings will be held at Headquarters on Wednesday next, at 3, and Thursday, at 7.30. The speaker for Wednesday afternoon is Mr. John J. Morey ; the speaker for Thursday evening will be duly announced.

We are very glad to be able to say that our Annual Sale last week was an unqualified success. The financial result was in excess of that of any previous year. We tender our warmest thanks to all donors and to all the workers. The President of the Women's Auxiliary, Mrs. Knowles, and all the members thereof, are to be heartily congratulated. They laboured long and devotedly, sparing neither time nor effort. We are very thankful for the success for their sakes as well as for that of the Federation. We tender our best thanks also to the artistes who contributed to the musical programme. Happiness and enthusiasm prevailed throughout the whole proceedings. The Sale was opened by our President, Major J. Knowles, O.B.E. The many and varied articles were artistically displayed and made a really fine show.

The Harrogate Branch reports a splendid exposition of British-Israel Truth by the Rev. R. G. F. Waddington at their meeting on 1st December, when a good audience listened with evident interest and pleasure to a fine lecture.

Mr. R.O. Lucas writes :—"On November 18th our Toronto West Branch held its regular meeting, which took the form of a Bible Study in the Prophecies under the leadership of the President, Mr. Geo. Garrett. The meeting was well attended and very instructive. Our Toronto West Branch is going ahead.

"Toronto East Branch members and their guests were privileged to listen to a lecture from their fellow-member Mr. Thos. Ransom, at the meeting of their Branch on Wednesday night. Mr. Ransom spoke on the present condition in Palestine. As usual, he treated his subject with remarkable clearness, and made it most interesting to all."

We regret to report the death of Mr. Henry Lister on November 17th, at the age of 100 years. The following is an interesting extract from the Leamington Spa Courier, which gave a report of his funeral :—

"Mr. Lister had left instructions that a certain small box among his possessions was not to be opened until after his death. When the contents were disclosed it was found that they consisted of a quantity of soil from the Holy Land, and a bunch of withered flowers from Jerusalem. Mr. Lister visited Palestine seventy years ago, and brought the soil and flowers back with him. His instructions were that the soil should be sprinkled over and under his body as it lay in the coffin, the flowers being laid on his breast. The epitaph was : 'Here lies a British-Israelite buried in his native soil.'

"The funeral was carried out with marked simplicity. The service at St. Mary's Church was conducted by the Vicar (Rev. F. Percy Bates), assisted by Canon F. B. Feist."

We extend our sincere sympathy to the members of his family.

Mr. J. A. Ford writes :—"A goodly company, meeting at Houldsworth Hall, Manchester, enjoyed an excellent time with Miss Hamilton Hunter as she gave her lecture on 'The Redemption of the Nation Israel.' It was her first visit to us, and we soon realized that we were listening to one whose exposition was as helpful to the student of the Bible as her elocution was pleasant to the ear. Miss Hunter is evidently an independent painstaking student. She dealt boldly with the points that gather round the great words Redemption and Salvation. Some of her expositions, e.g., that on Isaiah xix, 24, where Israel is spoken of as 'third after Egypt,' were more courageous than convincing—but always interesting and intelligent. Miss Hunter is not only a lucid lecturer, but also a serious and capable teacher."

Dr. Eric Waddington writes :—"On November 25th and 26th three special meetings were held in the Town Hall at Cheltenham to stir up a little more enthusiasm and interest in the message of the 'Gospel of the Kingdom.' The meetings were well attended, increasing numbers being present at each session; most of those present were new enquirers, and much interest was evoked in the Movement. The title, 'The Challenge of Christian Imperialism,' seemed to awaken a great interest. The subject on Tuesday afternoon was 'The Challenge' that the British Empire is built according to Divine specifications and plans and is imperishable. On Tuesday evening 'The Menace' of world revolution against the Christian faith and Anglo-Saxon civilization, or Moscow v. Britain, and her Commonwealth of Nations. On Wednesday evening the subject was 'The Throne.'

"All the addresses were delivered by the Rev. T. H. Whitehouse, Commissioner, B.-I.-W.F., Midland Area, and were given in his usual compelling and interesting style.

"Even after his speaking for an hour and a half at the evening meetings the people were still anxious to hear more, and many stayed behind to ask questions and enquire about the monthly meetings. We expect that this special appeal will bear much fruit. May God hasten the day when He will 'speak with the voice that wakes the dead and make His people hear.'"

The Rev. the Viscount Mountmorres, speaking lately at the Royal United Service Institution, said:—"If they were trying to be true to the leadings of Providence throughout the pages of their history they must believe God had a purpose in taking a little Island in the Western Seas to be the centre of a great Empire. What was that purpose? I can see no answer except that God had called them to be His agents in the regeneration of all mankind."

Mr. W. E. Thiem writes from Adelaide, Australia:—"The gramophone record of Dr. Goard's address has arrived safely, and given great pleasure to those who have heard it; this, with his inspiring writings, have greatly endeared him to us. Here is a book which once read will be read again and again.

Our history traced for three thousand years. Of necessity, many details must be left out, for the whole of our history could not be compressed into the two hundred and eighty pages this book contains. The fact that a second edition has been called for is evidence of the value of this work for students of the history of the English People.

"The present writer does not claim that the story to be told in the following pages is anything of a new discovery. All the essential facts were in the possession of a man who lived many centuries ago, in the reign of the Emperor Justinian. And one German at least, the philologist Grimm, early in the last century knew a good deal more about the identity of Israel than he cared to disclose in books which were intended to glorify the great German race.

"The chapters that will now be written have to contain many Biblical quotations. But they are no more designed as a theological disquisition than a Government blue book or a standard history would be.

"They are merely the missing pages of the history of Israel, the pages that centuries ago were blotted out until the time came when they might safely be restored to their proper place in the world's historical libraries. All histories are dull reading; and condensed history is perhaps the worst of all, where no time can be given up to the 'drum and trumpet' details, interesting though these might be made.

"This book is no exception; having to be condensed, many interesting points must be omitted. Before our case can be established, many witnesses will have to be called; men who lived in different ages and in countries far apart—prophets and saints, as well as dignitaries of the Church; Greeks and Romans and Jews; pagans from the North; modern scholars of the most profound learning; and writers of gossip who would be exceedingly astonished to find fragments of their work still in existence after so many centuries have elapsed. All these diverse sources of information will be placed on a friendly footing of equal credibility before the reader."

The two sections of the Anglo-Saxon race must sooner or later combine to carry out the great vocation of Israel. No material bonds can possibly produce such an effective brotherly union as a full realisation that God has predestined them to be His Servant, to serve the nations, to guide, help, protect and succour them with all their resources and sympathy, and to lead them into the paths of justice and judgment.

The destiny of the race is, indeed, great; high and holy is the calling. It is no light matter for a people to be the elected Servant of Jehovah, as was Israel. Such an election is no ground for pride or vain glory. Rightly understood, it can be no incentive to foolish boasting, but rather should it cause holy awe at the magnitude of the service to be rendered and at the unfitness of the Servant called upon to render it.

EDITORIAL.

The following should be read in the light of Israel Truth, namely, that the Anglo-Saxon nations are the continuation of the Israel nation ; the inheritors of her Charters; the possessors of her guarantees and immunities from destruction ; the executors of her commissions.

It should be understood that Authors alone are responsible for the views expressed in their Articles.

CHRISTMAS MESSAGE.

A ROYAL PROCLAMATION.

The address .. Fear not :
The tidings .. for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy,
To whom .. which shall be to all people.
When .. For unto you is born this day
Where .. in the City of David
What .. a Saviour,
Who .. which is Christ the Lord.
The sign .. And this shall be a sign unto you ;
„ .. Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes,
„ .. lying in a manger."

Was there ever such a proclamation as this ?

Time and place are first made clear. It was in the country of Bethlehem, the beautiful rolling hill country over which David the shepherd boy, the inspired Psalmist, the King of Israel, followed in youth his father's flocks and served at the " sheep cotes."

It was night, starlight, calm.

The subdued, drowsy noises of the night emphasized the general silence. There was the baying of shepherd dogs, or their noisy, wrathful barking as they sensed the approach of hyena or other beast of prey ; there was the occasional bleating of restless sheep, the subdued voices of the watchful shepherds, and other characteristic voices of the night.

The brilliant stars in the eastern sky, which seem to come so low and so near, furnished the softest lightening of the darkness.

Rest—Peace.

THE ANGEL OF THE LORD.

Suddenly there appeared " upon them " an August Presence. It was the ANGEL OF THE LORD, Who writes Himself in all ages JEHOVAH, the King of Israel.

From His Personality burst forth upon them the Shekinah glory. " The Glory of the Lord shone round about them, and they were sore afraid."

Then fell on the night the strong, sweet tones of the Voice of the ANGEL OF THE LORD, making the royal proclamation.

No messenger was employed. The message of the birth of the Son of God must be told by no created lips, nor by any human voice. Not since Sinai had the Voice of God been heard by the people, but now the long silence was broken, and the Father gave testimony to the birth of the Son of God, Who, by birth, became also the Son of man.

" For unto you is born this day in the City of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord."

This is the great culminating fact of all the ages. It is a great fact announced by the Voice of the Eternal Father.

BORN OF A VIRGIN.

Thus was fulfilled the sign given to the House of David seven and a half centuries before as an indication that the throne of David should neither be subverted nor overthrown.

This links directly with the seventh chapter of Isaiah, and the sign given to the then King of David's line, King Ahaz. A storm of war had suddenly, without warning, broken out against the House of David. The united armies of Syria and Ephraim-Israel had suddenly been thrown across the frontier of Judah, and were even then marching on Jerusalem with the avowed object of dethroning the House of David, and of placing upon the throne the Son of Tabeal. Isaiah came to King Ahaz with the assurance that it should be a fruitless attempt on the part of Syria and Ephraim. But how should Jerusalem, not prepared for war, and caught so suddenly as to be unable to rally an army for her defence, be able to make good against the united and powerful armies of Syria and Ephraim-Israel?

To encourage the King, Isaiah said, "Ask the LORD for a sign. Ask it in the heaven above, ask it in the earth beneath. The Lord will give you a sign. But the King refused to so tempt the Lord. Then said the prophet, with anger in his voice, God Himself shall give you a sign. Behold, a virgin shall conceive and bear a son . . . ."

If the King had requested a sign it would have been one which should have immediately been made manifest, for a belated sign would have been of no manner of use to the King in his great extremity. His vision was restricted to the then present moment of peril.

But seeing that God Himself gave the sign, He gave one which, although it was then centuries from manifestation to mankind, was ever present to the Eternal Father; namely, the birth of Christ the Lord.

Doubtless the House of David, from David down, knew that God had already guaranteed the perpetuation of the throne of David for ever. King Ahaz also knew as David did, and as the ritual of the Temple service constantly made manifest, that in due time the Son of David, the Messiah, should come and occupy that throne. The assurance was backed by the knowledge of the Divine Covenant, and by the other writings of the sacred Scriptures. It was an appeal to the faith of the King, and an assurance to the faith of the King. Therefore the warning, "If ye will not believe, surely ye shall not be established," or, If ye do not believe, it is because ye are not stable. (Isaiah vii, 9.)

Now the same God Who gave the sign, announced the redemption of the pledge, and the fulfilment of the Covenant to the House of David so far in the birth of Christ the Lord.

Now the anticipation of the birth of the Son which Isaiah had voiced in the same series of Davidic prophecies, chapters seven to twelve inclusive, became an accomplished fact. "For unto us a Child is born, unto us a Son is given, and the government shall be upon His shoulder. And His Name shall be called Wonderful, Counsellor, the Mighty God, the Everlasting Father, the Prince of Peace. Of the increase of His government and peace there shall be no end, upon the throne of David, and upon His kingdom, to order it, and to establish it with judgment and with justice henceforth even for ever. The zeal of the Lord of hosts will perform this."

The Voice of "the Angel of the Lord," who in the Old Testament writes His Name "I AM JEHOVAH," makes the proclamation:—

"For unto you is born this day in the City of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord."

And thus the anticipation of Isaiah ix becomes the reality which constitutes glad tidings of great joy which shall be unto all people of St. Luke ii, 11.

In the dispensation preceding the birth of Christ the eager minds of the faithful ran forward to the time of the birth of the Lord.

During all the Christian dispensation, the birth of the Lord has been a well-known and historic fact. Anticipation has become a realization. THE KING IS BORN. THE KING HAS COME OF AGE. BUT THE KING HAS NOT YET ASSUMED THE THRONE OF HIS FATHER DAVID. What shall we say then in the light of the birth of "Christ the Lord," as announced to us by "the Angel of the Lord," and as recorded in history?

We shall say to-day in this our dispensation that the occupation of the throne of David, and the assumption of the Kingdom of David, is yet an anticipation. We shall further say that the anticipation has been given double assurance by the historic fact that the King is born, is now alive, and is waiting for the moment when He will assume that throne and Kingdom. "Henceforth expecting until His enemies be made His footstool."

As the generations of the Mosaic dispensation waited for the birth of our Lord, so is the present dispensation waiting for the return of our Lord to take the throne of His father David, and to assume His Kingdom.

In the olden time the waiting seemed long. Seven and a half centuries passed between the giving of the sign and the fulfilment of the prophecy which constituted that sign, namely, the Virgin Birth of Christ. So in the present case nineteen centuries have passed since the renewal of the promise by the mouth of the angel Gabriel, "God shall give unto Him the throne of His father David: and He shall reign over the house of Jacob for ever, and of His kingdom there shall be no end."

We have all the promises which God gave to the former dispensation in the Old Testament. Further, the fact of the birth of Him Who shall be the King is a concrete additional sign to us of His coming reign. As the promise was a sign to the former generation of the coming birth of our Lord, so the promise of His reigning over the House of David for ever is a sign to us of His return. The fact that the former dispensation was granted the privilege of witnessing His birth is assurance to us that our dispensation will witness His return. By the birth of Jesus we know that we shall be privileged to welcome His return as King. If with the former generations we should meantime pass into His Presence we shall return with Him, in the not far distant future.

A SAVIOUR.

"For unto you is born this day a Saviour."

How sweet the words, Saviour and King: Saviour and anointed Lord!

In the glory of the return we shall all have a glad share. It will be ours to witness the enthronement of the final and supreme Head of the nation, Who shall command the peace of the world.

The birth of the Saviour is unto us—we have each a right to close fellowship with Him. He does not save His people en masse. He saves His people one by one. In becoming the Saviour of the individual, He becomes the personal and the closest Friend of the individual. At the Coronation we may be lost in the crowd. But in regard to His Saviourship, we are called to meet Him in His Cabinet, which is our closet, all others being excluded. There after surrender and confession to Him, and to Him alone, He manifests Himself to us and in us as our personal Saviour.

"Unto YOU is born this day in the City of David a Saviour . . ."

While the Kingship of our Lord is a deferred experience for us and for the world, the Saviourship of Jesus is a present and personal matter.

Now as to the grounds upon which our knowledge of His Saviourship rests. There is the consciousness of personal contact with Him which is so real and delightful an experience to multitudes. Those who have this heart-warming experience have no need of further evidence. But it is not given to all to enter at once into such an experience. Perhaps we should not say that it is not given to all: for He withholds not His Presence from any. But some are not able to so adjust their inner perceptions as to admit super-psychical experiences, that is to say, spiritual experiences. No doubt the trouble is in our own inner attitude. Thus some struggle for months, and even years, to obtain consciousness of such a contact, and for long fail to make it. Such as these have to look for further and external evidences on which to ground their faith in the Saviour.

There are many such evidences. But we can to-day only point to the one.

In the historic birth of Him Whom the Father announced we have such a fact as furnishes a sufficient foundation-stone of our faith.

But, cry a chorus of voices, "How shall the birth of the son of a village carpenter be an evidence to me of his Saviourship?"

We return the question: How should it be that the ANGEL OF JEHOVAH, that is to say, as we trace the use of the phrase in the Bible—how should it be that JEHOVAH, Whose names and titles include Elohim, the Creator of the heavens and the earth; Elyon El, the Most High God; and El Shaddai, God Almighty, and so on; make revelation of Himself, accompanied by Angel Hosts, in order to proclaim the birth of the son of a village carpenter?

By the annunciation of His birth from the lips of the Father we know the Son. By the declaration that He is the Saviour of the shepherds who heard the proclamation, and of all people, we know His Saviourship. By the historic fact of His birth, and of the undying but multiplying influence of His life, we know Him as the anointed Lord. By the testimony of millions of all races and of all the Christian ages, we know Him to be the Saviour. By the historic activities of His life, by His historic death and resurrection, by His ascension to the right hand of the Majesty on High, which is a duly attested fact, we know Him to be the Saviour of the world. We have not, indeed, followed cunningly-devised fables. We have followed and are following the best attested historic facts in the past history and the present experience of the world.

On the evidence of the attested facts we know Him and trust Him as our Saviour, born to us in Bethlehem nineteen hundred years ago, and now living the deathless life of the resurrected from the dead, carrying forward His Saviourship, "Henceforth expecting," as the Epistle to the Hebrews declares He is, "until His enemies be made His footstool."

GLAD TIDINGS.

Note the Voice of Him Who declares this to be glad tidings of great joy.

Many things not to be compared with the high and holy things of this proclamation are esteemed by men to be "glad tidings of great joy."

Many things not in the same class or order as this would be so esteemed by those who have passed over, saved through the blood of the everlasting covenant.

Many things not to be compared with this great historic fact would be esteemed by the "Angel Hosts" to be "glad tidings of great joy."

But this proclamation is esteemed to be glad tidings of great joy even by the Almighty God Who made the pronouncement. Therefore, judged by the Voice which so characterized this great historic fact, we esteem this to be the greatest joy known to us. This is the greatest of glad tidings of great joy which has ever stirred the hearts of mankind. It is so esteemed, and so proclaimed, by the Angel of the Lord Himself.

These glad tidings shall be to all people. This is the declaration of Him Who is called in the Old Testament and the New "the Angel of the Lord," and Who signs Himself "I AM JEHOVAH."

What, then, is the good news?

The historic birth of the Saviour of the "all people" mentioned in the proclamation.

Is it necessary to call attention to the statement of the Bible that no man, not father for son, nor even the greatest of historic characters, can work out salvation for the soul of another? How, then, should Jesus Christ the Lord be able to do so? Because He is a man of another order—He is God Incarnate, the Son of man, Who is God the Son.

Can there be any other statement of fact? Man cannot work out the salvation of man. Therefore came Jesus, Who declared of Himself "I PROCEEDED FORTH AND CAME FROM GOD—to seek and to save that which was lost."

By the testimonies which witness to His Personality, by the character which shines forth from His Personality, by the power which manifested itself in His Personality, by the influence which has ever flowed from His Personality, by the historic fact of His birth and the historic fact of His resurrection from the dead, we know Him for what He is, even God the Son, the Saviour of "all people."

* * *

We must proclaim to "all people" the Saviourship of Jesus. There is no avoiding this issue. We may not substitute the exemplarship of Jesus, nor the foundership of the world's greatest system of ethics and morals. These things will follow in due order. But the birth of the Saviour is the beginning of the glad tidings.

CHRIST THE LORD.

Finally, we must proclaim Him as the anointed Lord, the King of Israel.

Saviourship and Kingship meeting in Jesus is the message.

Friends of the Church and of the nation, have we so proclaimed Him? Are we so proclaiming Him to-day?

Proclaim Him as Christ the Lord Who is vested with the government of the earth. Let us remember "the government shall be upon His shoulder," and to this end He is "Christ (anointed) the Lord."

Have we taken this into consideration in developing our national government and carrying on national administration? Have we erected and administered the government of the Kingdom of Heaven in our own land and nation?

THE LAW OF THE KINGDOM.

Have we preached the government under the Common Law, or the Law of the Lord, to the nations? Have the councils of the nations considered that the restoration of His administration in the earth is the prime factor which should govern their deliberations and direct their actions? Do they realize that they are called to act under the Kingdom of God, and that the duty and need of the hour is to restore His administration?

Do the Powers of Western Europe know this? Do the members of the League of Nations know this?

Is this fact directing our own diplomacy?

It is a fact that the Kingdom of God is a going concern in the earth. It is a fact that it has been committed to His ten servants—Israel—and that such ten servants are represented by the Celto-Saxon race.

It is a fact that the Kingdom of God must soon embrace all nations.

It is a fact that this is part of the glad tidings of great joy which shall be to all people.

It is a fact that this consummation shall soon be reached, and that Jesus Christ shall be the King, seated upon the throne of His father David, and that under His reign wars and strife shall be made to cease in the earth.

So the historic birth of Christ the Lord is a guarantee of things to come which shall unite the world in the Kingdom of God, under the rule of the House of David, and under the enduring reign of Christ the Lord, Who was born to come to the throne of the Kingdom and to reign during the last of the seven millennia of Bible Story (not including in that period the first chapter of Genesis and perhaps not the first four chapters).

The seventh millennia of Bible story will begin A.D. 2000 by the Calendar (circa).

In the meantime the reasonable expectation is that the Coming of the Lord will precede the beginning of that millennium in order that all things may be ordered, and the final stage of the Kingdom fully established before the Sabbatic millennium begins. Further, it is reasonable to expect that the Lord will reveal Himself as King on earth soon after the final completion of the Divinely-pronounced sentence of 2,520 years of punishment on unrepentant Judah and Jerusalem, the punishment of Israel having already been accomplished.

Now it is an ascertained fact that the last of the penal terms pronounced of old will have been accomplished not later than A.D. 1936.

What the Lord will do in regard to the matter we know through the sure Word of promise and prophecy. He, Himself, says, "Surely I come quickly. Amen . . . ."

Just when He will come to the "day and the hour" we do not know. But we know "it is near, even at the door."

WEEK BY WEEK.

BY A. R. H.

"Noel! Noel! Born is the King of Israel."

WHEN wise men from the EAST came into Judea seeking the place where the CHRIST should be born, they did not ask the question: Where is he that is born the son of a carpenter; but—Where is He that is born KING . . . !*

We are not asking for the recognition of this emphasis for sentimental reasons. The emphasis is vitally important for historical reasons. For when HEROD the king heard of the birth of JESUS he was troubled. And the equanimity of a powerful ruler is not disturbed on any light account.

Matthew's record is strikingly vivid: "HEROD the king . . . was troubled, and all JERUSALEM with him." Would the birth of a carpenter's son have roused a whole city into a ferment of enquiry? Would a wholesale massacre of little children have been ordered if CHRIST had been nothing more than the son of a carpenter? No! The birth of JESUS was the birth of a KING. The birth of JESUS was the birth of the GOVERNOR† destined to rule the ISRAEL PEOPLE.

Personal greatness—a THRONE—an everlasting KINGDOM; all these were the birthright of the CHILD born in BETHLEHEM, as it is written: "He shall be great, and shall be called the SON of the HIGHEST: and the LORD GOD shall give unto Him the

THRONE OF HIS FATHER DAVID:

And He shall reign over the House of Jacob for ever; and of His KINGDOM there shall be no end."‡

HEROD knew that the birth of JESUS spelt the birth of a KING destined to rule the world. The birth of JESUS was a challenge to Roman hegemony. At all costs the possibility of fulfilment of Messianic prophecy must be stamped out. So when HEROD the king discovered that the wise men had deceived him he took the extreme measure of ordering wholesale massacre. "Be diligent; let not one escape," was the spirit of his command. Drastic action! But he knew that on its successful conclusion depended the destiny of the world.

* It is significant that Herod acclaimed Jesus by the inferior title: King of the Jews. But the people with true instinct, at His triumphant entry into Jerusalem, acclaimed Him by His rightful title, King of Israel. Our present King is king of the Welsh, but his true title is King of Great Britain. The greater includes the less. Jesus was something more than King of the Jews. He was King of Israel. Cf. Matt. ii, 2, with John xii, 13.

But in due time HEROD died. And the YOUNG CHILD to whom belonged the EMPIRE of the FUTURE came into His own. He came into His own not in the way most people had expected. He came into His own through the path of SACRIFICE and SUFFERING. He was obedient even unto death. And it will be from the spiritual glory of the supreme sacrifice that the future material splendour and power of His KINGDOM will derive its life and energies.

But if the birth of JESUS was the birth of a KING, it also spelt the rebirth of the KINGDOM destined to establish the sovereignty of CHRIST throughout the earth. For the HOLY CHILD was "set for the fall and rising again of many in ISRAEL."§ A CHILD was the centre of the hope of all who looked for the redemption of ISRAEL.[1]

As it is written: "For unto us a CHILD is born, unto us a SON is given: and the GOVERNMENT shall be upon His shoulder; and His Name shall be called WONDERFUL, COUNSELLOR, The MIGHTY GOD, The EVERLASTING FATHER, The PRINCE of PEACE. Of the increase of His

there shall be no end, upon the THRONE of DAVID, and upon His KINGDOM, to order it, and to establish it with judgment and justice from henceforth even for ever. The zeal of the LORD of Hosts will perform this."[2]

Such was the prophecy of UNIVERSAL EMPIRE surrounding the person of the CHILD born at BETHLEHEM. The possibility of immediate fulfilment of such a prophecy of ever-expanding dominion constituted a definite challenge to the might and majesty of pagan IMPERIAL ROME. The faithful few who looked for the redemption of ISRAEL knew this. But they were full of faith and would have been prepared to follow a conquering MESSIAH through the jaws of death and Hell and back again. They would have been prepared to face a world at arms.

But the paradox of the ages was about to be enacted. And disappointed zealots—who at one time were even on the point of taking the CHRIST by force[3] to make Him KING—found in their MESSIAH, not as they had expected, a "LION" but a "LAMB."[4]

The PEOPLE expected the KINGDOM to "immediately appear."[5] But CHRIST said "No. CHRIST must first suffer[6]; go away into a far country,[7] and after a long time[8] return to reign. Meanwhile it is for ISRAEL to occupy[9] the gradually developing KINGDOM[10] till the CHRIST reappears as KING."

Gradually it became plain that the EMPIRE of the WORLD was not to be won by force and established by the power of the sword. The seed of ABRAHAM were destined to inherit the WORLD by the striking force of moral and spiritual ideals. The KINGDOM of GOD was to follow a truly scientific principle of development. It was first to win an

and then to manifest material splendour. A basis of spiritual and moral ideas was indicated as the only foundation upon which a lasting greatness could be built.

"I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto Me,"[11] said JESUS. And from the day of the fulfilment of this purpose, the magnetism of the idea of sacrifice has never ceased to attract the loyalty of the heart of GOD'S ISRAEL PEOPLE. In the supreme sacrifice on CALVARY the spiritual foundations of the coming UNIVERSAL KINGDOM were well and truly laid. From this time it was evident that the conquest of the KINGDOM was to be the conquest of a new heart, a new mind, and a new spirit.[12]

This was a revolutionary revelation. It was most unpalatable to national zealots who looked for the immediate restoration of the material KINGDOM in all its glory.

What exactly was the position of the KINGDOM in the time of CHRIST? The Jews forming the SEVENTY WEEKS' NATION, were the only official faithful remnant left of GOD'S PEOPLE. The great bulk of the ISRAEL PEOPLE were, at this time, "scattered abroad," and, in their temporarily "divorced" condition, were accounted "Lo Ammi"—Not My People.

Significantly, it was to these "lost sheep of the HOUSE of ISRAEL" that JESUS was really "sent."[13] He knew that His message, rejected by the Jews, would eventually fall upon the good ground of ISRAEL, and His seed bring forth much fruit.

JESUS knew that through the power of national redemption these "outcasts," who were not of the Jewish fold,[14] would eventually be "gathered" into the ISLES of the SEA,[15] and from this SANCTUARY "break forth" again and build up the structure of the KINGDOM of GOD in every corner of the habitable globe.

JESUS knew that the KINGDOM "re-planted" in the ISLES of the SEA by the wandering ISRAEL PEOPLE was destined to succeed ROME as a WORLD-EMPIRE and stand for ever.[16] These were the mysteries[17] of the KINGDOM.

Now for the crisis of the Jewish Nation. JESUS came to His Own Official Nation. His Own received Him not, but rejected Him saying, "We have no king but Cæsar."

To the Jews He said: "The KINGDOM of GOD is taken from you and given to a NATION bringing forth the fruits thereof." On the Jewish Nation He passed the terrible judgment: "Let no fruit grow on thee henceforth for ever."

In A.D. 70, TITUS besieged JERUSALEM and the SEVENTY WEEKS' NATION of the Jews was destroyed, never to be resuscitated again.

Meanwhile the NATION of ISRAEL and THRONE of DAVID—jointly-destined to last as long as sun, moon and stars endure—were being re-assembled and restored in the APPOINTED PLACE,[18] from whence they should prepare a KINGDOM fit for CHRIST t rule at His Second Coming, at the end of the CHRISTIAN AGE and DISPENSATION.

Just as, at the dawn of the CHRISTIAN DISPENSATION, the Prince of this world, wrestling with the KING of the KINGDOM of HEAVEN, for spiritual ascendancy, prevailed not; so in these last days, must the kingdoms of this world make spiritual submission to the idea of the world sovereignty of GOD'S KINGDOM-NATION.

The Crucifixion of the KING of the KINGDOM of HEAVEN, was, on our Lord's own testimony, a world crisis: "Now is the Crisis of this World."[19] But it resulted in the triumphant Resurrection of the SON of GOD.

The WORLD CRISIS of 1914–18 (when to save the WORLD, one million of the SEED of ISAAC made the supreme sacrifice) was the first phase in the crucifixion of the KINGDOM, the climax to the second phase of which we are now approaching. This world crisis will result in the glorious manifestation of that RACE of SUPER-MEN, the sons of GOD.[20]

In the present time of TRIBULATION the nativity remains the sheet-anchor of our hope. For the birth of the KING which initiated the great Atonement on CALVARY guarantees the rebirth of the KINGDOM. For this MAN, "after He had offered one sacrifice for sins for ever, sat down on the right hand of GOD; from henceforth expecting till His enemies be made His footstool."[21]

H. G. Wells is right when he talks about the WORLD to-day entering upon

A PHASE OF EXPECTATION.

The whole world begins to feel the thrill of expectation as the hour of triumph draws daily nearer. For every indication points to the Coming of the ALL-RULER[22] much more quickly than the most expectant of us might suspect.

In Revelation it is written: "The WOMAN hastened to bring forth a MAN CHILD that should rule all nations with a rod of iron." This of the coming universal Dictator—One Who is altogether righteous—a WORLD-DICTATOR after GOD'S own heart.

And Isaiah puts it: "Before she travailed she brought forth; before her pain came she was delivered of a MAN CHILD." This of the coming of the KING of ISRAEL. And of the coming manifestation of the sons of GOD:—

> "Who hath heard such a thing?
> Who hath seen such things?
> Shall the earth be made to bring forth in one day?
> Shall a NATION be born at once?
> For as soon as ZION travailed she brought forth her children."[23]

Herein lies the true significance of NATIVITY. Without NATIVITY there could have been no CALVARY—no national redemption. But through nativity and redemption the rebirth and regeneration of the whole ISRAEL NATION has become a possibility, the triumphant realization of which is a guaranteed certainty.

In our celebration of the birth of CHRIST let us pray for the rebirth of His KINGDOM-NATION. Prayer—which is the sword of the Spirit—will help to overcome the enemy and hasten the day when victory over TRIBULATION and CHAOS shall be proclaimed, as it is written: "The KINGDOM of the WORLD has become that of our LORD and His MESSIAH; and He shall reign in the eternities of the eternities."[24]

CONGRESS ADDRESSES.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON.

THE REV. MAXWELL CARNSON said: There are things that one feels have to be said at certain times in certain places. One dare not resign the position to which one has been called. Dr. Goard has told us that there has been a great deal too much spiritualizing of the contents of the Bible. Mr. Waddington gave us again an essential, practical, matter-of-fact presentation of the truth. I am feeling very proud of myself because I just met a Doctor of Divinity. Of course, I do occasionally meet them, but the reason I am proud now is because this one happens to be a member of my own communion. And he said to me, "Are you still in the place where I last met you?" "No," I said, "I am with the British-Israel-World Federation." "It is so delightful to meet somebody who really believes something," he said. "There are not many in our Communion." If we really believe, if we are perfectly certain of the ground on which we stand, we are not going any longer to let the Devil steal from us those things on which our faith is built up. I say that with a set purpose, because I am convinced, though you may not agree with me, that this spiritualizing process is of the Devil. I do not mean that the teachers of our day are inspired by the Devil consciously, but I am perfectly convinced that the subtlety of his action is such as to deceive the very elect, if I may so call our theological leaders in the colleges and churches to-day; that all unknown to themselves, by their very scholarship, they are undermining faith by this spirit of the evil one who is saying, "Hath God said?"

Closely allied with that I want to bring you on to something else. The same thing has happened with regard to the Person of Jesus Christ. What has happened with regard to all the doctrines of the Old and New Testaments? The Devil himself has seen to it that so much has been taken away in the process of time from the Personality of Christ as to leave very little for the man-in-the-street, for the ordinary believer, and for the world, to lay hold upon. And it is that side of the Truth with which I am compelled to deal with this afternoon. One thing more than anything else that the British-Israel Truth has done for me, and I pass it on to anybody who may be enquiring into the subject, is that it has given to me a new Christ.

Now hero-worship is not only a matter for the boys and girls. It is not only a matter for the interested young ladies who are carried away by the red-blooded he-man, or the 'silent strong man' of the popular novel. If you will allow me to tell you a secret about ourselves, we men like a man. We know, of course, that the ladies like a man, because Ethel M. Dell says so. The man-in-the-street is looking for, and longing for, and will run anywhere for a man if he can only find a man to lead him. Julius Cæsar, Napoleon, and others have lived in history and in the hearts, not only of women, but of men, by their essential manliness, by that autocracy which was theirs in the time of their power. I am perfectly certain that the world is wanting a leader, someone upon whom it can rely, to whom it can turn in its problems. But where are you going to find your leader? Look around at your political circles to find the authority who shall guide this world through into the fulness of peace and prosperity. Who will you have?

Digitized by Google

Take your choice. Lloyd George, Philip Snowden, Stanley Baldwin, anybody you like. You know perfectly well there is no one you would put into that position. You want something a great deal more spiritual than that. These are political leaders. Would you like to deliver this mighty rulership into the hands of our beloved leader here, Dr. Goard? No, you wouldn't; because Dr. Goard is human, and he has human failings and human frailties, and no one knows it better than he does himself. There is no man, however exalted in spiritual life, however cultivated, however trained in thinking out the deepest and the highest things, to whom it would be safe to commit the overruling of the governance of the world. The world is wanting a leader.

You will recognize the portraits that Satan gives us. You know those pictures of Jesus Christ, the gentle, long-suffering, meek, mild, pacific Prince. I put it forward deliberately, in order to startle you into the fact that there is a school of thought that has put into the centre of our religion a Personality that will not appeal to any of us on the side of strength of character and purpose. Why even the old conception, the pre-war conception, shall I say, of the brotherhood of the cloth, is parallel in many cases to that conception of Jesus Christ, where we were supposed on all occasions to wear a long black robe, a clerical frock coat carefully cut at the collar. There is a certain type of religious life which is not Scriptural, and which does not arise out of a true interpretation of the Person of Jesus Christ. Those of you who saw many years ago that film entitled "I.N.R.I.", the story of the Christ which was presented at the Philharmonic Hall; I well remember that the Person of Christ, as presented by that company of players, was that of a pale, emaciated, thin, weakly man, inhuman in the sense of having no human passion. And whenever the figure of the Saviour came into that picture, it was of one weak and languid. The little children were not drawn into His arms, but they stood there round-eyed and hesitant. When I saw that picture I was horrified that that should be put before the Christian world as a representation of our Lord Jesus Christ. I am not surprised in the face of all those things that Swinburne should say, "Thou hast conquered, O pale Galilean! The world has grown grey with Thy breath." Young people to-day feel that if they come into the Church they have got to give up everything that makes life worth living. That is the interpretation of Jesus Christ and of Christianity which I am convinced is of no other origin than that of Satan.

The next conception with which I want briefly to deal is this, the conception of the Carpenter of Nazareth, the horny-handed son of toil. We must rejoice in the fact that He took upon Him the form of a servant, that He lived on a level with us. But so much has that been emphasized, and so overwhelming has been the literature that has dealt with the humanity of Jesus Christ, that the working-man of to-day thinks he can pat Jesus Christ on the shoulder, and say, "Good fellow"; that he can please himself as to what he does with the Personality of Jesus Christ, and he can whittle down the teaching of Jesus Christ until it becomes a mere abstraction. "Do unto others as ye would that they should do unto you." When you come into the men's movements, and challenge them on this one point, you discover one movement after another passes away as soon as you speak, not merely of the Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man, but of the fellowship and Kingship of Jesus Christ. I have seen more than one movement of ex-Service men go down and down because it has once been faced with the Personality of Jesus Christ as Lord, and has refused to rise to those heights. That is the second conception which I want to leave with you.

The third conception is associated with the Second Commandment, it is the conception of the dying or the dead Jesus. In the pictures of mediæval art and portraiture in certain places you see the physical form of the crucified Christ being taken down from the Cross, you see the weeping at the Tomb. We know so well some conceptions of Jesus Christ in the world of to-day are not compatible with that expression of His, "I am He that liveth and was dead, and, behold, I am alive for evermore." And that is where we have to come as to the Person of Jesus Christ. Now let us be Scriptural. I want to take you to the Manger at Bethlehem. I want you to stand before the Babe of Bethlehem, "our God contracted to a span, incomprehensibly made Man." We have stories of Bethlehem. We have stories of the poverty of the home, of the simplicity of the life of the Mother and of the Child. Who, after all, is the Babe of Bethlehem? Listen, "Unto us a Child is born. Unto us a Son is given." You are standing round the Manger at Bethlehem. "And the government shall be upon His shoulder," the government of His nation Israel, and, through His nation Israel, the government of the kingdoms of the world. Do not get away from that. "And His Name shall be called Wonderful, Counsellor, the Mighty God, the Everlasting Father, the Prince of Peace. Of the increase of His government and peace there shall be no end, upon the throne of David, and upon His Kingdom, to order it, and to establish it with judgment and with justice from henceforth even for ever. The zeal of the Lord of hosts will perform this." Who is this Babe of Bethlehem? "And in the sixth month the angel Gabriel was sent from God unto a city of Galilee, named Nazareth, to a virgin named Mary. And the angel came in unto her, and said, Hail, thou that art highly favoured, the Lord is with thee: blessed art thou among women . . . . . Thou shalt bring forth a Son and shalt call His name Jesus. He shall be great, and shall be called the Son of the Highest: and the Lord God shall give unto Him the throne of His father David, and He shall reign over the House of Jacob for ever: and of His Kingdom there shall be no end." That is the Israel people, and eventually, through the Israel people, the whole world. The Babe of Bethlehem!

Take Him again in His manhood when He comes into His own, and is baptized in the river Jordan. He is immediately led up of the Spirit into the wilderness. What for? Because he had to meet there the usurper of His Kingdom, Satan himself. Here is the Heir to the throne, the Inheritor of the promise of the Father. "Here is the Heir. Come, let us kill Him." And Christ meets the usurper, the Devil. "And he took Him up into an exceeding high mountain, and showed Him all the kingdoms of the world in a moment of time." Satan never wastes time. He takes Him up into an exceeding high mountain, and showed Him all the kingdoms of the world, and the glory of them. You know what he shows you. I will not tell you what he shows me. Satan shows these things to the Heir to the throne, this 'meek and mild Galilean, this pale Nazarene, this Carpenter of Nazareth,' Who held in the hollow of His hand all the powers of the ancient world: and Jesus knew it: and Satan knew it; and all the heavenly hosts knew it. And you and I have to know it. If Jesus had lifted His little finger and sent out a call to the scattered Israel people around the Roman Empire, He could have smashed that Empire to pieces, and He could have put Himself upon Cæsar's throne then, as eventually He will sit on the throne of Jehovah in the midst of His people Israel. Satan knew it.

Then, again, is there anything in the life and ministry of Jesus Christ that bears out this interpretation? There was Annas, who held office for himself, and then he secured it for his eldest son, and managed to keep it in the little family. And then, having no more sons, he secured it for his son-in-law, Caiaphas, the high priests. Where did they make their money? Down in the Temple courts, which Annas let out as a market in the very House of God. And he fixed the rate of exchange for his own benefit, and he made his profit out of the sale of the oxen and the sheep, and the place where they reared doves. And out of the profits he built himself a house, and it was called by the common people, "The Booths of Annas," and that was his summer residence. Now there comes on to the scene the 'Carpenter' of Nazareth, and He walks straight into the Temple court, into the centre of that vested interest, into the stronghold of this power. "And Jesus went into the Temple of God, and cast out all them that sold and bought in the Temple, and overthrew the tables of the money-changers, and the seats of them that sold doves: and said unto them, It is written, My house shall be called the house of prayer, but ye have made it a den of thieves." Could you have done that? Could I? The most dangerous thing that any man can do is to go straight against any authority and demand their right to do the things they are doing. The most difficult question that any minister dare ask any member of his congregation is, How did you make your money? They see to it that we do not know how much they have made. And here I say to you is the greatest moral challenge to vested interest and to ecclesiastical organization, the greatest example of moral courage that the history of the world has ever known. If Christ had only had the man-in-the-street with Him He could have revolutionized the religious life of His day. And, mind you, when a leader gets up in this our day and says to the man-in-the-street, "Come on, we are going to smash this organization that is holding us down," the man-in-the-street will follow. I want the man-in-the-street to follow Jesus Christ, the only One Who is able to deal rightly with such problems as those presented by Annas and Caiaphas.

Christ attacked them in their pockets, and He attacked them because they were Modernists and materialists. Annas and Caiaphas did not believe in the prophets except when it suited their convenience. They were frankly materialistic: they did not believe in the Resurrection because they were Sadducees. "When a man is dead, he is dead." You have Annas and Caiaphas in such a religion, with a false philosophy, with an entrenched position of theological acumen and leadership, so that they can say, "We prefer our traditions." Jesus said, "Ye have made the Word of God of none effect through your traditions." "When a man is dead, he is dead," said they. "Daughter, I say unto thee, arise," said Jesus to the daughter of Jairus, and He restored her to her parents. There are those who say death is only a sleep. I have heard ministers say that from the pulpit. What about the widow's son, who had been prepared for burial? And yet Jesus raised him from the dead, and gave him back to his mother. And the Theological cum Medical Association of the day gathered around, and said, "That is catalepsy." They always have a name for everything. And if that is not enough, come down to the story of Lazarus. I was once lecturing on John's Gospel, and a young man, fresh from the College, said to me, "I am surprised that you believe the story of the raising of Lazarus. I thought you knew that the story is a later addition, and has nothing whatever to do with the rest of the Gospel tradition." Well, I said what Mr. Garrison wanted to say to Julian Huxley, "You've still got a great deal to learn." Well, Jesus was in the country district, and He heard that Lazarus was sick: "so He stayed where He was." Have you ever wondered why? "This sickness is not unto death, but for the glory of God, that the Son of God might be glorified thereby." And when Jesus knew that Lazarus was dead, He set off so slowly and took so lengthy a journey, that Lazarus was not only dead, but decomposed before Jesus arrived there. "Lazarus, come forth." That was not only a challenge to the power of death, it was a challenge also to the lying philosophy of the moralists and materialists of His day.

Later, it is the Feast, and the multitudes are coming into the city: but when they ought to be coming in, they are going out, trickling through the gates, going towards Bethany. What for? The Bible says "that they might see, not Jesus only, but Lazarus whom He had raised from the dead." That explains why they were going out. And the question is, "Will He come to the Feast?" They are watching that bend on the Olivet Road. They knew the Scriptures: they did not need to be told what Jesus was doing. "Behold, thy King cometh, sitting on an ass's colt." 'Alas,' said the House of Annas, 'He is riding right into the position that we have kept for ourselves all these years; and the whole structure of life is being dashed to the floor.' Who by? The meek and mild Galilean? No. The Heir to the throne, the King Himself. What are you going to do with a King like this? What do the people say? "Crucify Him." And they crucified Him. But, listen, even in that hour of death He says, "I am a King. I am in control. I lay down My life. No man takes it away from Me. I lay it down of Myself. I have power to lay it down and I have power to take it again. . . . . Thinkest thou that I cannot now pray to My Father, and He shall presently give Me more than twelve legions of angels? But how then shall the Scriptures be fulfilled, that thus it must be?" Pilate says to Him, "Don't you know I have power to release Thee." What was Christ's answer. "Thou hast no power at all over Me unless it were given thee from above." A King in the presence of Cæsar's representative. And they put Him in the grave, and they sealed the stone, and said, "That is all over." But it was not. Because the third day He rose again from the dead. "For had they known it, they would not have crucified the Lord of glory." I believe they did know, so far as Annas and Caiaphas were concerned. But that is another question.

You see what we have got. We have got the character of Jesus Christ in history so massive, so dramatic, so essentially virile, we can go to the man-in-the-street, and to all the organizations of the world, and say, "This is the King. Let us fall in and follow Him." Jesus the King. Will you find me the men? I want men who will follow, not me, not the Federation, I want men who will follow the King, Jesus. And, mark you, you have not finished with it. Go to the 19th of Revelation: what have you got there? King of kings, and Lord of lords, riding into His own at the head of the Israel hosts, accompanied by the Israel people. Are you afraid you are going to die before Jesus comes? Don't worry. Some of our older brethren may be saying, "I do wish I was twenty or thirty years younger. I should like to be here when Jesus comes." Don't you worry. If you are not here, you will come with the Israel hosts. And we shall go to meet Him, and we shall come back with Him, the King, riding at the head of His Israel hosts, accompanied by the Israel people. "His feet shall stand in that day upon the Mount of Olives," promulgating the Israel law, and then "nations shall come running unto thee" (Israel) "because of the Lord thy God, and for the Holy One of Israel." That is Jesus of Nazareth, King upon the throne.

I call you, and I call myself, and I call all on the platform to a loyal devotion, to the surrender and dedication and sacrifice to the King of Israel, and to dedicate ourselves to that mighty work which He has committed to our hands as His ambassadors. "I beseech you, therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service." There stands in the middle of history a Cross, and the Cross that stands in the middle of history is to you and to me not a dark forbidding figure that casts a gloom over Good Friday, and a shadow over the joys of life. It is a triumphant challenge and victory over the powers of darkness which, otherwise, would sweep us to destruction. The Cross of Christ means for me that the age-long tyranny of Satan is ended. "God hath said," and that word He says is true, and will be fulfilled. It means that the Cross is in the centre of history, it means that the covenant that God made with Abraham will be fulfilled, and will be carried out to the very last letter and detail. The Cross in the middle of history means that He makes a claim on me that I cannot escape, and you cannot escape. For Christ is not only in the centre of history by reason of His Cross, but He is at the foundation of history, and before the foundation of the world there is a Lamb slain.

We are told that when President Grant died they placed upon the spot where his blood was bespattered a silver star in everlasting memory of the sacrifice of that great President of the United States. But so great were the throngs that passed to and fro that the silver star became no longer visible. The universe is studded with stars. There is not a single element of our life, individual, national, international, but is not purged with the precious blood of Jesus Christ. "And I, if I be lifted up, will draw all men unto Me." "Who is this King of glory? The Lord, strong and mighty, the Lord mighty in battle. Lift up your heads, O ye gates, even lift them up, ye everlasting doors, and the King of glory shall come in. Who is this King of glory? The Lord of hosts, He is the King of glory."

FRIDAY AFTERNOON.

MR. ARTHUR EXLEY, J.P. (Chairman).—Reverend brethren, citizens of the Commonwealth of Israel,—A sure promise is made unto David, "Ask of Me, and I will give thee the heathen for thine inheritance and the uttermost parts of the earth for thy possession." Friends, I come from one of the uttermost parts of the earth, the land far South. And as a representative of that great Southern Commonwealth I esteem it a great honour to my Branch of the Federation that your Council has chosen me to be Chairman of one of these magnificent Congress meetings. I am delighted to be here. At the various meetings of the Congress I have received great spiritual food and uplift. Coming from a distant land, as I do, I would like just for a few minutes to give you some idea of the land from which I come. "They little know of England who only England know." One of the greatest jewels in the crown of Britain is that great Southern Land. Never before has a Continent been given into the possession of one race for that one race to develop under God's guidance. When you consider that our Commonwealth of Australia is practically five-sixths the size of Europe, you can begin to get some slight conception of its vastness. Since I have been at this Congress I have had enquiries from members of the Federation who have asked me concerning friends in Melbourne, Adelaide, Perth, all of them hundreds, and some of them thousands, of miles from the city of Brisbane, where I live.

I am a representative of the Federation in the State of Queensland. And I would like to give you a few figures showing you something of the wealth of that State. It has an area of 6,750 miles, only a small proportion of which is under cultivation. Yet that cultivation last year yielded crops to the value of £1,300,000, and the gross value of the products of this wonderful State of Queensland for the year was £601,613,000, which would sound far more, Chancellor Du Bois, if it was put into dollars. I am also pleased to be able to announce that our death-rate in Queensland is one of the lowest in the world, so that it does not sound as though Queensland was a State that was not suitable for the habitation of Europeans. Our population is only at present 930,000. We have already constructed 6,500 miles of railway. This is in one State alone. And in Australia now you can go from the extreme west of Queensland right down to the east coast, and across the great Australian desert, as it is called, to Perth, that can be made in the world. That gives you some little idea of the wealth of one of the uttermost parts of the earth which has come into the possession of the British race.

Now during the course of this Congress I have been very interested in what has been said, and there are one or two matters which I would like to refer to, speaking as a visitor for the first time to a Congress of this kind. We have been hearing a good deal of a certain young man, the publicity given to whose utterance is due, in a large measure, not to his own reputation, but to his father's scientific reputation. It is alleged that he, blinded by a brain storm of his own wisdom, has dared to promulgate as his opinion that the coming religion of the world will be Godless. Now in this matter I would like to issue a challenge to him. And to do that I, first of all, want to call attention to the fact that in this great universe of ours, all matter, whether animal, or mineral, or gaseous, can be divided up into two great classes, the animate matter and the inanimate matter. When I studied science in my youth I was told that the smallest particle of either animate or inanimate matter was an atom, and that all the atoms were held together by the force of cohesion. Now they say that all matter consists of electrons which are kept in their place by a magnetic force. Anyhow, whether we call it an electron, or an atom, the smallest particle of matter is thus held together. Now I will challenge any scientist in this world to create the smallest particle of matter, whether it be an atom or an electron. I challenge any scientist in the world to change, without the force of nature, inanimate matter into animate matter. The forces of nature are nothing but the will and the purpose of God. Only once in the world's history has a human being been able to add one atom to the universe. There was a time in the history of our Lord's life here on earth, when, in order to minister to the hunger of the people who had been listening to Him, He multiplied certain loaves and fishes into a sufficient quantity to feed the multitude, and by so doing proved Himself to be the Incarnate Son of God. No wonder that St. Peter, who had seen that wonderful miracle, said, "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the Living God." For none but the Godhead can create. Let the scientists create one unit, and then, and not until then, will any credence be given to those who deny the truth of the first sentence in God's Holy Word, "In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth." Now as regards their theory of Evolution, again I would challenge them to change one species into another. They have tried, but there can be no change of species. There is an infinite variety within any one known species in the animal world. Think of the dog, from the tiny one up to the great hound. But all dogs are of the same species.

THERE IS INFINITE VARIETY,

but no change of species. Think of the wonderful roses in your garden; hundreds of beautiful blooms, all belonging to the same species in the vegetable world. But I defy anyone to get a rose out of a cabbage. No human power can effect a change of species. It is true that closely allied species have been crossed, and hybrids have been produced. But they do not perpetuate their kind. The student of nature, whether he studies the greatest of all sciences, the science of astronomy, which reveals the great wonder of God's universe, or the student of biology who tries to trace the first sources of life. If they study aright they cannot but come to one conclusion, that, in the study of the infinitely small or the infinitely great, there is the Omnipotent wisdom of the Creator, the Grand Architect of the Universe.

There is just one other matter I would like to refer to. It was mentioned, I think, by Dr. Goard in his conversation with the Jewish Rabbi who asked him about the Lost Tribes, and who said that they were never lost. That is a thing that our opponents frequently bring forward; that they were never lost. And by so doing they contradict the testimony of the prophets of God and of our Blessed Lord Himself. We know that the Ten Tribes were taken into captivity, and lost for a time as regards their history. In the Apocrypha we read of them going on a great trek, an exceedingly great multitude; and it is very well to know that at the time the Israelites went on that great trek, Herodotus speaks of the movements of the Scythians at that very time. That is profane history, not Biblical evidence. But the two agree. What do the prophets say about Israel being lost? One of them, the prophet Isaiah, says: "Listen, O isles, unto me: and, hearken, ye people from afar . . . . . In the shadow of His hand hath He hid me, and made me a polished shaft." If God hides, can humanity find?

NOT TILL GOD'S GOOD TIME.

Again Isaiah speaks, "I have put My words in thy mouth, and I have covered thee in the shadow of Mine hand, that I may plant the heavens, and lay the foundations of the earth, and say unto Zion, Thou art My people." And Jeremiah in the Lamentations says, "Under His shadow we shall live among the heathen." And Hosea says, "They that dwell under His shadow shall return: they shall revive as the corn, and grow as the vine: the scent thereof shall be as the wine of Lebanon." The sweet Psalmist of Israel also gives his testimony, "He that dwelleth in the secret place of the Most High shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty." It was God's purpose that Israel should be lost to human ken for a time, but, as is inscribed upon the tombstones in France of those soldiers who are buried there whose names are not known, they are "known unto God." Lost to mankind, but known unto God.

Now in these latter days Israel is coming rapidly into a knowledge of their destiny, and, at the same time, of their duty, because the duty of Israel is to be God's witnesses.

Those are the points which have struck me as I have listened to the various addresses. But now I am coming back again to what we are doing in our own portion of Australia, in Brisbane. We have there a very live Branch of the Federation, and the cause of that is because we have a very live Secretary. He is a young man; and it is the young men we want to get in to carry on the torch. He is doing excellent work. He has persuaded two newspapers to give us two columns every week upon British-Israel subjects. He has formed a flourishing Branch of the Crusaders, and is thus training up the young in the knowledge of their destiny. I think that the Publishing Department at the Office will acknowledge that he has been an exceedingly good customer, for the literature of British-Israel has been broadcasted right throughout, not only Queensland, but it has been sent down to the other States, especially THE NATIONAL MESSAGE. One thing the Secretary did. When there was a new Cabinet formed for the Government of Queensland, that they might be guided aright, he sent to each member of that Cabinet a copy of "The Destiny of Britain and America." And when a new Lord Mayor was elected for the city of Brisbane he sent him a copy also. That gives you some little idea of what we are trying to do in that Southern Land, which is one of the uttermost parts of the earth which Jehovah has given into the possession of Israel.

THE REV. E. A. COULDREY said: Mr. Chairman, Dear Friends,—Just before the meeting commenced my very dear friend, and our Secretary-General, asked me if I would say a few words. Well, I can only pass on a few rambling remarks, but I am sure I can count upon your generosity in listening to me.

I was thinking of the early history of the race, and I remembered the call of Moses to take the people out of the land of oppression to the Land of Promise. And you will remember in those passages in the Book of Exodus that Moses made three excuses. He said, first of all, that he was incompetent. "Who am I that I should go?" I do not, however, wish to dwell upon that. And then he pleaded the ignorance of the people. He said, "When I go to this people and say that the Lord God of Abraham and Isaac and Jacob hath sent me unto you, they will immediately say, but what is His name?" And I do not wish to dwell upon that side. What I do wish to dwell upon is a very personal matter. The third excuse that Moses offered was the excuse of unbelief, that when he did go to the people they would refuse to hear him. You will remember what the Lord said to him. "What is that in thine hand? And he said, a rod. And Jehovah said, Cast it down. And it became a serpent and he fled from before it." But it is that phrase, "What is that in thine hand?" that I wish to emphasize for just a moment or two. A rod, a simple acacia stick, but touched by the power of the Divine, and transformed into something living. Our life is like that rod, but filled with the Divine power it can accomplish what generations may bless us for. Think for a moment of Martin Luther. What is that in thine hand, Martin Luther?

ONLY A PIECE OF PARCHMENT,

yet the writing on that parchment caused the whole of the Romanizing system to totter, and brought about the greatest event of modern history, the glorious Reformation. What is that in thine hand, John Wesley? This Book, the Word of God. The message of John Wesley aroused the spiritual life of England to fever heat, and brought about one of the greatest revivals of modern days. What is that in thine hand, John Milton? Only poverty and blindness, yet in affliction's hour John Milton wrote his two immortal books, "Paradise Lost" and "Paradise Regained." What is that in thine hand, John Bunyan? Only a pen. Yet from the darkness of his prison cell that Dream was written which has awakened the world. What is that in thine hand, Brother, Sister? Only you yourself and God knows. But is it being left in your hand, or it it being used for His service? That is the question, and is can only be answered by you and by God. When Christ uttered those great passages which we have in the latter end of St. Matthew's Gospel, the thing that He condemned more than anything else was the evading of personal responsibility. He spake that parable concerning the fig-tree. He saw the fig-tree growing by the roadside, and not bearing fruit, and He cursed it. That is the only thing we ever find in the whole of Holy Writ that Christ ever cursed.

WHY DID HE CURSE IT?

Because it was not doing what it was there for; it was not bearing fruit, and, consequently it had no purpose in life. And the Master went on to say it is not only those who commit those more heinous deeds of murder, of theft, of idolatry, and such like things, but it was those who evaded personal responsibility who would not be received into the Kingdom. And what is personal responsibility? It is a simple thing when you come down to the basic matter of it. It is the giving of that cup of cold water in the name of a disciple; those little deeds of kindness done in the Name of Jesus Christ. Those things cannot and will not lose their reward. What I wish to emphasize is that you and I have been attending all this week these remarkable meetings, but it is not going to do us any good simply going home and saying to ourselves, I am so glad I was at the Central Hall; the meetings were such an inspiration. This, I feel, is frequently the danger, that after we have received much inspiration, and have climbed up into the mountain heights, we too frequently come down into the valley, and we find the Devil there, and all the evil around us, and we lose the inspiration we had gained. May God give to you and me in the days to come that true knowledge of the work that we are engaged in, that we may find there is no such word in the vocabulary of Heaven as the word 'impossible.'

May I end with this illustration? During the Great War the call was for an advance, but, unfortunately, our artillery were dropping shells only just over our own line of trenches. And so the word went back from the front line, from man to man, asking them to lengthen the range as we were advancing. And it went back, back, back, till nine miles behind the line in less than a few moments the artillery lengthened their range. And the troops went over and won their offensive. Brothers and sisters, the cry goes out from our hearts, 'Tell the artillery to lengthen the range; we are advancing.'

"Oh that each in the day of His Coming may say
I have fought my way through,
I have finished the work Thou gav'st me to do.
Oh that each from his Lord might receive the glad word
Well done, faithfully done.
Enter into My rest, and sit down on My throne."

DOES THE BIBLE STAND OR FALL WHEN TESTED BY SCIENCE, HISTORY AND PHILOSOPHY?—XVII.

BY PROFESSOR EDWARD ODLUM, M.A., B.SC.

ESAU MOVES EASTWARD.

Genesis xxxvi, 6:—"And Esau took his wives, and his sons and his daughters, and all the persons of his house, and his cattle, and all his beasts, and all his substance, which he had got in the land of Canaan, and went into the country from the face of his brother Jacob. . . . Thus dwelt Esau in Mount Seir. Esau is Edom."

Thus Esau voluntarily gives up all the land to Jacob, crosses the Jordan eastward, and settles in the land east of the Dead Sea and the mountains thereof.

Thus Esau finally and fully yielded the birthright lands to his brother Jacob, though later he denies his contract, and lost his head in the ensuing struggle at Hebron.

JOSEPH—BIRTHRIGHT—COAT.

Joseph was Jacob's first son by his true wife Rachel. Very important! Hence, from the human side, Joseph was made the birthright son, instead of Reuben.

The father followed Oriental custom and dressed his son in the clothing which indicated his family future official position. This fact and his wonderful dreams made his brothers jealous, envious and angry towards Joseph.

Hence they sold him to the Midianites, descended from Abraham and Keturah, who took him to Egypt. There, under Divine guidance, he came before Pharaoh, interpreted his wonderful dreams, and received appointment as de facto ruler of Egypt.

THE DREAMS OF THE KINE.

Genesis xli, 2:—" And behold there came up out of the river seven well-favoured kine and fatfleshed, and they fed in a meadow :

" And behold, seven other kine came up after them out of the river, ill favoured and leanfleshed."

Here we are told that these two sets of cattle or kine "came up out of the river."

How simple, natural and accurate to the common occurrences of the times !

Why did the king dream the cattle came up out of the river ? Easy of explanation, when we know the custom of the Egyptian cattle.

While in that land, and studying the habits of the cattle, I noticed that they, when fed, would go down into the Nile waters until completely covered, all but their nostrils. This they did and do so as to escape the myriads of flies and the very intense heat. They stand and sleep in the water, and when ready to feed, they come up out of the river. As they did in the days of Pharaoh and Joseph, so they do to-day. How accurate and true to fact is the story of the Old Book ! It errs not nor does it fail. If it says up, it does not mean down. If it says out of, it does not mean in or into. It uses the exact words needed to give the meaning intended.

THE GREAT IMAGE.

BY HENRY PROCTOR, F.R.S.L.

FROM the prophetic standpoint there is no book in the Bible which has met with more opposition than the Book of Daniel ; but it is said to be like a cubic block of stone, which no matter how often it may be overturned, is always right side up. And of all the book I think the occupies a unique place, not only in Biblical but in all literature, for it contains in its interpretation an epitome of the history of the world, from the time of Daniel until now, and to the consummation of the age.

That this is so is proved by Babylonian cuneiform inscriptions, of which we have many written by Nebuchadnezzar, by Nabonidus, by Cyrus, King of Persia, and it is further confirmed by Grecian and Roman history. Among others there is a complete record of the sequence of the four divisions of the Image—gold, silver, brass, and iron—in the Canon or the Almagest of Ptolemy, an astronomer and chronologist, who lived at the time of Hadrian's destruction of Jerusalem. He gives the names and dates of fifty-five successive sovereigns, who reigned from Nabonassar, the first king of Babylon (B.C. 747) to Antonius Pius the Emperor of Rome, in whose days Ptolemy wrote. He traces thus the succession of the greatest monarchs of the world, from before Daniel's time to his own. The Canon of Ptolemy is an unquestioned, and unquestionable authority, both as to history and chronology. He divides it into enumerating twenty Babylonian kings, ten Persian, terminating with Alexander the Great (eleven in all) twelve Grecian, and ends with twelve Roman Emperors, thus bringing the last down to his own time, which was that of the early Roman Empire.

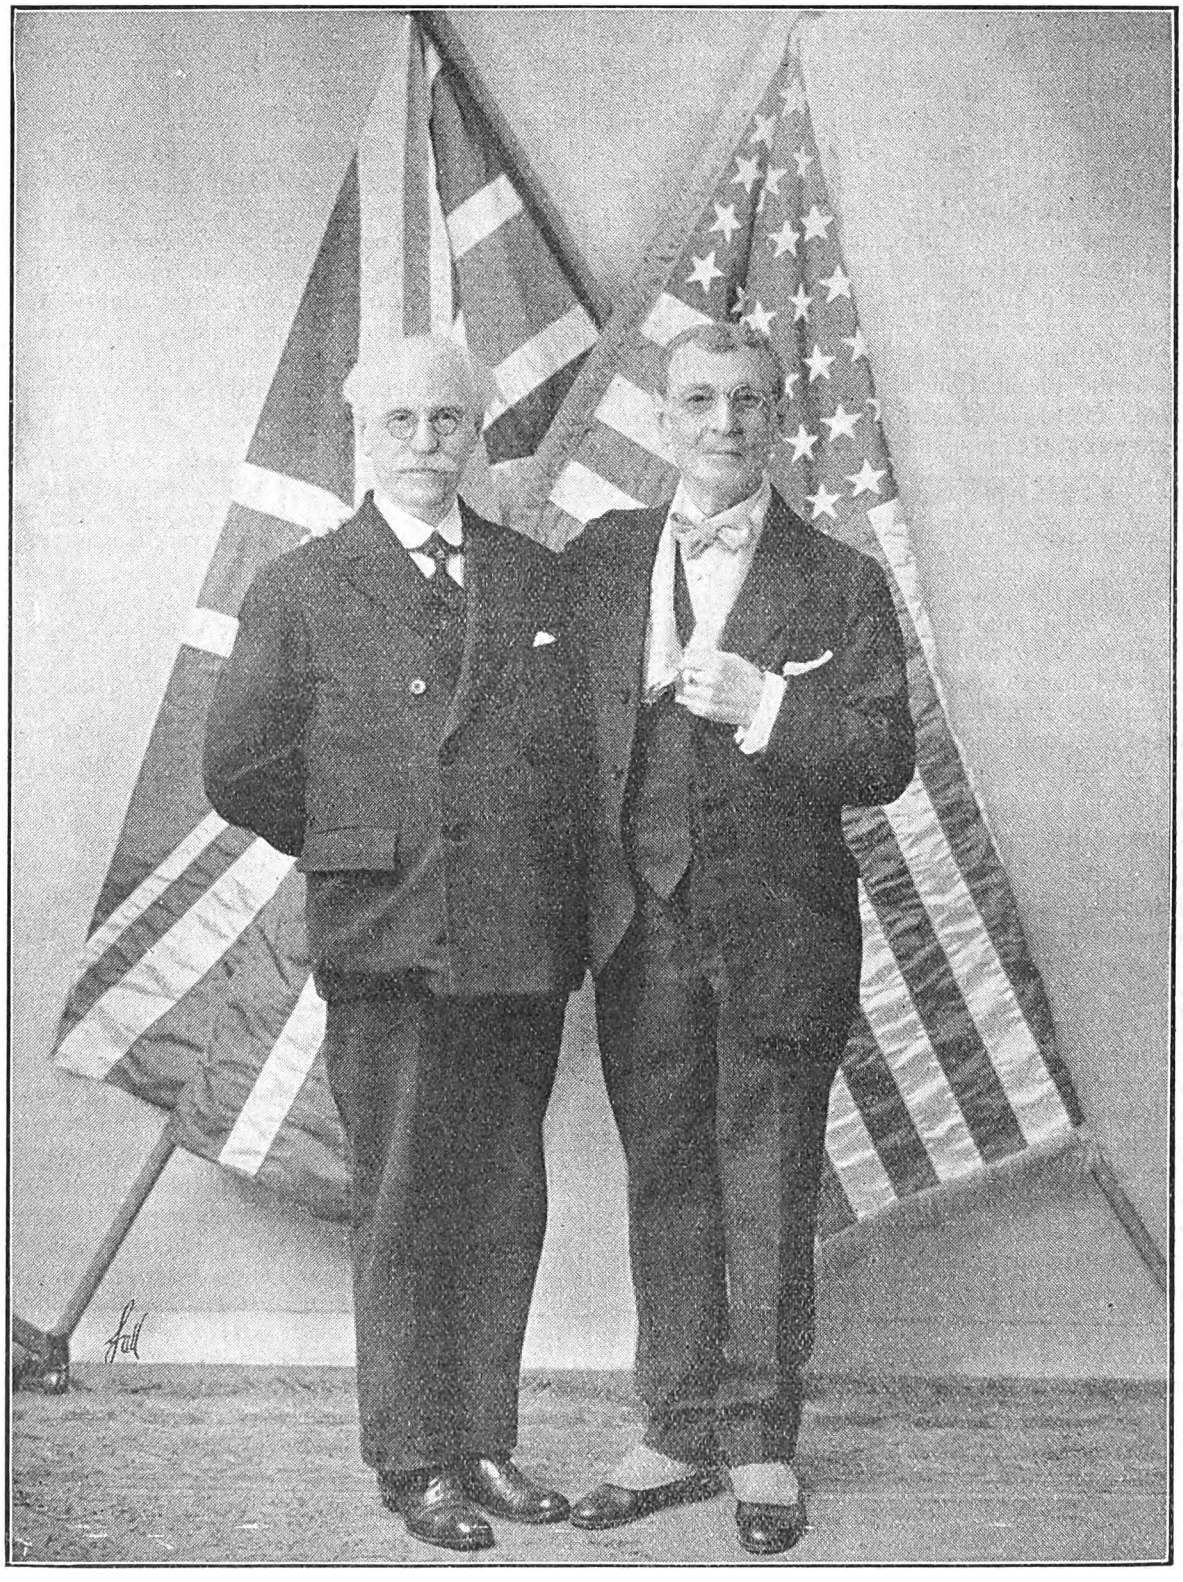
In each case, the principle of continuous arrangement is identical with that of the image. Where Ptolemy makes the Persian Cyrus the immediate successor of the Babylonian Nabonidus without taking into account the preceding Kings of Persia or Media, there in the image the silver joins itself to the gold ; where Ptolemy makes the Grecian Alexander the immediate successor of the Persian Darius without taking into account the preceding kings of Macedon, there in the image the brass joins itself to the silver ; and where Ptolemy makes the Roman Augustus the immediate successor of the Grecian Cleopatra, there in the image the iron joins itself to the brass. In short the Canon of Ptolemy may well be deemed a running comment on the altitudinal line of the great image. As the parts of the image melt into each other, forming jointly one grand succession of imperial rule, though administered by four successive dynasties from Nabonassar to Augustus and his successors.

It is marvellous how the parts of the image lend themselves to depict in vivid symbol the characteristics of the four Empires. For example, the duality of the Medo-Persian is represented by the two breasts and two arms. This Empire is afterwards seen by Daniel symbolized as a ram with two horns, and explained to mean : " The kings of Media and Persia " (Dan. viii, 20). Also the division of the Roman Empire into Eastern and Western is clearly symbolized by the two legs, and finally the ten toes represent the ten kingdoms into which it is afterwards divided. This fact is afterwards made clear and certain by a subsequent vision seen by Daniel himself of the fourth beast with ten horns.

The most encouraging part of the vision to us, as a nation, is the vivid way in which it symbolizes the final victory of the Stone Kingdom, the fifth Empire.



The stone, cut out without hands, falls upon the feet of the image, represented at the present time by the two Empires of Austria and Germany, for these were ruled over by two Cæsars, or Kaisers, whose title is derived from the Greek " Kaisaros " (Latin Cæsar) and they were both represented by the Roman eagles—the double-headed of Austria, representing the dual Roman Empire, and the black eagle of Germany, the undivided Empire. They had fallen upon the stone, and therefore had to be broken, and finally the stone will fall upon them, and grind all to powder—yea, " The gold, silver, brass, iron and clay will be broken in pieces together, and become as the chaff of the summer threshing floor."

Chancellor Du Bois and Mr. Herbert Garrison.

The Editors have pleasure in presenting on another page photographs of two distinguished men, both of whom are devoted British-Israelites. On the left is Mr. Herbert Garrison, F.R.G.S., F.R.E.S., the Secretary-General of the British-Israel-World Federation. On the right is Dr. J. J. Du Bois, Chancellor of the Law School of Chicago, Colonel, and possessor of a number of scholarly degrees in the University world. He was the founder of the Law School, and has been its head for thirty-five years. This is the senior higher educational institution in Chicago, which, while retaining for many reasons the original name of the Law School, does University work in all departments. Chancellor Du Bois was sent by the President of the United States to Britain and the Continent of Europe as messenger to the American Ambassadors at the various Courts prior to the outbreak of the Great War. He was in Germany on his mission when war broke out. He was also commissioned by the Supreme Lodge of the Masonic Order of the U.S.A., with messages to the Grand Lodges in Britain and Europe in the interests of Peace.

He collaborated with Lord Northcliffe in co-ordinating the influence of the British and American Press in favour of the Allies. He has a story to tell which some day may be told in these pages, the facts of which are an honour to any man.

Mr. Herbert Garrison needs no introduction in this journal as far as his British-Israel work is concerned. He had done a good lifetime's work for God and the Empire before he took up the work of constructing and carrying on the B.-I.-World Federation. Under God the Movement owes its existence in its present form to his organizing ability and his untiring energy. The picture was taken by special request. It represents the two men as they stood receiving the ovation of the vast audience on October 8th, at the close of Mr. Garrison's lecture on "The United States," when the Chancellor presided.

THE SECRETARY-GENERAL'S NEWS AND NOTES.

IT is with deepest regret and concern that we learn of the serious illness of our beloved Rev. Commander Roberts. We ask all to pray that God will be pleased to graciously sustain him. As he is quite unable to attend to correspondence, Miss Winifred Gaby, who has been acting as his Secretary, requests us to ask that all who may be sending subscriptions for Israel's Scripture and Prayer Union will please fill in her name instead of the Commander's on Postal Orders, etc. She will attend to all business connected therewith.

LATER: As we go to press we learn with great sorrow that our beloved friend has passed away.

The Secretary-General sends his warmest greetings and very best wishes for a Happy Christmas to all readers of this journal everywhere. May the Divine blessing be upon all of them.

Major N. N. E. Bray, Mr. Henry Proctor, F.R.S.L., and the Rev. John Complin were the speakers at Headquarters last week. There are no public meetings at Headquarters next week. Mr. John Leech, K.C., the Rev. R. G. F. Waddington, M.A., Alderman Dearden, and Mr. Wm. Whitton addressed good meetings in the North last week, the two first named at two meetings at Bradford, and each named at Sheffield, where six meetings were held.

Our Commissioners and Lecturers have been speaking in many centres, and carrying on a vigorous campaign.

We would remind our friends of the series of ten meetings to be held in the Central Hall, Westminster, from January 19th to 23rd, inclusive, at 2.45 and 7.30, when addresses will be delivered by the Rev. Dr. Pascoe Goard, and several other speakers. Particulars will be given later.

We invite the help of our friends in distributing circulars.

The Rev. Joseph Gay, A.T.S., on Thursday evening, 11th December, again visited the district of Romford and formed a new Branch to be known henceforth as the Romford British-Israel Association. Mr. G. Jeffery was elected President, and Mr. Saddler, Secretary. There is a fine scope for splendid work in Romford, and we wish every blessing to rest upon this newly-formed Branch.

Erratum: In our issue of December 6th, page 777, the word "after" in the second line of the first column should read "before." In December 13th issue, on page 793, tenth line down, second column, "1916" should read "1926."

We shall be grateful if Members and Associates whose subscriptions may be due will most kindly forward them to us, as the financial years ends on December 31st. Those of our readers who have not yet joined the Federation are invited to do so. Forms will gladly be sent on application. Members one guinea, Associates 5s. All communications should be sent to the Secretary-General, 6, Buckingham Gate, S.W.1.

The Rev. E. A. Couldrey has given great pleasure by an address to our Harrogate Branch. His teaching was most helpful, and his enthusiasm won the hearts of all, the Secretary writes, and a return visit is hoped for in the New Year.

A B.-I. Mission was recently held with the Stratford Branch. Sir Wilfred Sugden presided at the opening meeting, and he expressed entire sympathy with the Movement. Addresses were given by the Secretary-General, and by the Rev. Maxwell Carnson, Mr. John Leech and Mr. J. J. Morey.

We were pleased to be able to render some help to our friends in the East End, and we hope that good was done. We wish them God's blessing in their efforts.

Our Southern Commissioner, Mr. J. J. Morey, has been very busy since the Congress, and has addressed sixty meetings in various parts of his Area.

A four-days' Mission at Portsmouth, addressed by Rev. Maxwell Carnson and himself, was well attended and produced good results.

With the valuable help of Mr. Wakeford, a new Centre has been opened at Wallington, and two excellent meetings have been held.

Mr. Morey has also made a good start at Ramsgate, over one hundred people being present at his second meeting there in November.

He has given a series of three lectures on "The Kingdom of Heaven" at Watford, has twice lectured at Headquarters, and has held large meetings at Southampton, Eastbourne, Canterbury, Brighton and Folkestone.

The work in this Area continues to flourish. Mr. Morey is ably assisted in his work by Miss Hamilton Hunter, whose very able lectures are highly appreciated, and temporarily by Rev. Kenneth Dodds, the Vicar of Christ Church, Richmond, who has rendered yeoman service.

On December 8th a most successful lecture on "The Appearances of Christ in the Old Testament" was given in Chudleigh, Devon, by Mrs. M. Bloxam, with Mrs. Carleton-Stiff in the chair.

The audience were deeply interested, and some came from Plymouth, Teignmouth and neighbourhood.

At the close of the meeting Mrs. Bloxam was asked, on her next visit, to give a lecture on The Great Pyramid with lantern slides.

A Baptist Minister writes from U.S.A.: "I can find no words to express my thanks to you for sending to me a copy of THE NATIONAL MESSAGE. I have been more than amazed at its contents, and cannot tell how much blessing it has brought to my life. I have a Bible Class of men and recently I took the class time to read to them the article on 'The British Church,' as given in the NATIONAL MESSAGE. They were greatly pleased with it and want more from the same source. I have read some of the articles several times over and I heartily believe the matter and the construction of the Scriptures in the Prophecies which are dealt with in these articles. To my mind they seemed but dumb words until I could see them as revealing these wonderful truths!"

The Watford Branch report that Mr. J. J. Morey has just given the third and last of his Kingdom addresses: a series which has greatly helped to bring the teaching of British-Israel into ordered form. First dealing with the sequence of the Ages, then giving a most illuminating address on "The Parables of the Kingdom," he finished with a graphic picture of "What will happen when the King comes?" A supplied report of the last is appearing in the local Press (the West Herts Post) which serves admirably as the counter to an opposition which recently has proceeded from a vicar. This opposition, definite as it becomes when voiced from the pulpit, is welcomed by the local friends as evidence that British-Israel Truth is working.

Two meetings were held by the Southport Branch on December 8th, that in the afternoon being addressed by Mr. F. E. Jacques, with Miss N. Newport in the chair. The subject was "Leading Strings," full of thoughtful and helpful matter. In the evening Mr. W. H. Hesketh, J.P., of Manchester, gave the address, Mr. Banks taking the chair. Mr. Hesketh's subject was "The Sure Word of Prophecy and the Second Coming of Jesus Christ," soul-stirring but comforting in its assurance that "Our Redemption Draweth Nigh."

Miss Adelaide L. J. Gosset, sister of our Colonel Edward F. Gosset, is the author of a charming book entitled, "Roses, Marjoram and Nettles," a book of Days. It appeals to old and young in all ranks of life. It is full of entertainment, of wit, and of wisdom. and is an ideal book for the table of study or boudoir, for the wayfarer's pocket, and as prize or gift book.

Under each day of the year there are extracts and quotations of an interesting and uncommon character concerning notable people, and notable events in history, which the literary men and women will be very glad to add to their store of knowledge. As an example we give part of what appears under the date March 24th:—

Elizabeth, Queen of England.

"Elizabeth was a great character and a great queen."

"Roger Ascham, in his Schoolmaster (1570) has thus celebrated the literary attainments of Queen Elizabeth:

"'It is to your shame, you young gentlemen of England, that one mayd should go beyond you all in excellenceie of learnyng, and knowledge of divers tonges. Pointe forth six of the best given gentlemen of this court, and all they together spend not so much tyme, bestow not so many houres dayly, orderly, and constantly, for the increase of learnyng and knowledge, as doth the queene's majestie herselfe. Yea, I believe, that beside her perfect readiness in Latin, Italian, French, and Spanish, she readeth here and now at Windsore more Greeke every day than some prebendarie of this church doth read Latin in a whole weeke. And that which is most praise-worthy of all, within the wals of her privie-chamber she hath obtayned that excellencie of learnyng, to understand, speak, and write both wittily with head, and faire with hand, as scarce one or two rare wittes in both universities have in many yeares reached unto.'"

Following this, is the remarkable speech delivered by Queen Elizabeth to her troops at Tilbury about to oppose the Spanish Armada, which begins with the words: "I know that I have but the body of a weak and feeble woman; but I have the heart of a king, and a king of England too."

The price of the book is 5s. net. It can be obtained from the Covenant Publishing Company, Ltd., 6, Buckingham Gate, London, S.W.1.

This little work contains the substance of Two Lectures given at Glastonbury by Mr. Lancaster in 1925.

The former, brief though it is, is a remarkably clear exposition of what has now come to be accepted as the character of the pre-Christian Briton, not a painted Savage, but a well-educated, well-equipped man, with a very considerable and justifiable pride of ancestry.

The latter, dealing with the establishment of Christianity in our island in the early years of the faith, cites a formidable list of authorities in support of his contention that St. Paul, Joseph of Arimathæa and many other New Testament Characters were the first bringers of the Gospel.—An arresting and convincing paper.

" . . . the Bible is the only book that tells the whole truth about us, the only book to study for an elucidation of the world problems existing to-day. I believe that the whole of the Anglo-Saxon race, in different parts of the globe, are the descendants of Israel, and came originally out of the loins of Abraham and so are 'children of the Promise.' We are the descendants of the Ten Tribes of Israel. Throughout the ages, from before the time of bondage in Egypt till the Norman Conquest, and, later on, the uniting of the Scotch and English Crowns in A.D. 1603 in the person of James I, we have been working out God's plan of reassembling in 'the appointed place.'"

EDITORIAL.

The following should be read in the light of Israel Truth, namely, that the Anglo-Saxon nations are the continuation of the Israel nation ; the inheritors of her Charters ; the possessors of her guarantees and immunities from destruction ; the executors of her commissions.

It should be understood that Authors alone are responsible for the views expressed in their Articles.

GOD.

THE PEOPLE. △ THE BIBLE.—IX.

By the Rev. W. Pascoe Goard, LL.D.

We saw in a former issue the erection of the seventy weeks' nation of the Jews, and the purpose for which it was erected. It will be noticed that there is no hint of world rule in the category of duties to be performed by that nation.

The seventy weeks' nation of the Jews perpetuated the worship of God, and, as St. Paul states, "To them were committed the oracles of God." They also were the "Vineyard" to which the Son of the householder came, seeking the fruit thereof. They carried out the part of the husbandmen, who said, "This is the heir, come and let us kill him, and the inheritance shall be ours." See Matt. xxi, 33-46, for the parable of the husbandmen, and consider the statement following in verse 45:—

"And when the chief priests and Pharisees had heard his parables, they perceived that he spake of them."

Historically speaking it was to His prepared nation that the Lord came, and in it He carried out His redemptive work. It is useless for us in this late day to lay any charges against the seventy weeks' nation of the Jews as the people responsible for the death of our Lord. Historically such is the case. But also historically at that time our Lord prayed, "FATHER, FORGIVE THEM, FOR THEY KNOW NOT WHAT THEY DO." Now we are assured by our Lord that THE FATHER always hears the prayer of the Son. Therefore the great unconscious crime of killing the Prince of Life was forgiven even as it was carried to a conclusion. It is not for us to remember what God has forgiven, and caused us to know that He has forgiven.

Historically and judicially this prepared nation experienced the First Coming of our Lord, and was the means of offering Him up on Calvary.

Having fulfilled the function intended, whether in the WAY INTENDED OR NOT, the nation's life ended in A.D. 70. It had no mandate for world rule, although it earnestly desired it, and it had no continuance beyond the 70 weeks of its charter. God had no further use for that national organization, but He had a more glorious purpose for the people who constituted it.

God had established another series of kingdoms, or, as we term them, "Empires," and had charged them with the secular task of world rule, which rule should be all embracing outside of the "Kingdom which the God of Heaven" should set up contemporaneously with them. The Empires were Babylon, Medo-Persia, Greece, Rome. This is outlined in the prophecies of Daniel and has been discussed fully by the present writer in his book entitled "The Documents of Daniel."

The period for which these kingdoms or Empires were set up to carry forward the secular rule over the Gentile nations was for 2,520 years, from 602 B.C. to A.D. 1918.

Their course has been fully run, and they have passed into the pages as fulfilled history. In the Book of Revelation the whole series is known as "Babylon," "Babylon the Great," "The seat of the Beast," "The Kingdom of the Beast," and so on.

Contemporaneously with all these there was set up by the God of Heaven a Kingdom which should never be destroyed, which should not be left to other people, which should break in pieces and consume all these kingdoms, and which should stand for ever. These four statements regarding the Kingdom which the God of Heaven should set up balance the fourfold transformation of the Babylon succession.

When the fourfold Babylon succession should come to an end, then the Kingdom which the God of Heaven set up, which was represented by a Stone, should become a great mountain, and should fill the whole earth.

Now in the Babylon succession of Empires we have the Continental Empires. In the history of those Empires is included Babylonian history from 602 B.C., Medo-Persian, Persian history, Grecian history, Roman and Moslem history, to A.D. 1918. This takes in most of the field of ancient and modern history as it has been known and taught in the schools.

Running contemporaneously with these has been British ancient history. British history-making activity began eleven hundred years before Christ, and even further back. The Celtic records, and Celtic archæological aggregations, contain the early part of this history. It is a pity that the scholarly world has kept all this outside the course of general knowledge. This is a course of action which cannot be long continued, and yet it is remarkable that God has similarly kept the British nation separate from the Continental Empires, and the former has dwelt in "splendid isolation," as the statesmen of the Victorian period called it, unto this day.

The prophet Daniel presents this Kingdom to our view prophetically under the symbol of the Stone Kingdom.

The prophet Ezekiel again and again refers to this Kingdom as "the mountain of the height of Israel," "a high mountain and eminent, even the mountain of the height of Israel," and so on. As to its location, he makes it clear in Ezekiel, chapter xvii, under the parable of the great eagle, that the mountain of the height of Israel is not in Palestine from which the throne of David was being removed, nor in Babylon, nor in Egypt, but in the appointed place elsewhere.

Isaiah adds the geographical information that the same Kingdom which he calls "the Isles" is north and west from Jerusalem; and as that Kingdom is not within the boundaries of the Babylonian-Roman Empire, the Continent of Europe is excluded, and the British Isles demonstrated to be the Israel of the prophecies by elimination and identification marks.

So we have before us two lines of history, that of the Asiatic and European Empires from Babylon to Rome; and, on the other hand, British history back as far at least as 1100 B.C.

So also we have before us two systems of faith. We see the European Empires penetrated by the history and doctrine of the Christian faith. But while the European Empires were penetrated by the Christian faith, they were not purged of the remnants of the ancient form of heathen worship, as, for instance, of the worship of the Madonna and Child, which worship was old in the Mediterranean countries long before Christianity was born.

In Britain we find our ancient British forefathers worshipping God as the Holy Trinity in Druid worship, and we find them immediately accepting the Christian faith within a decade of the Resurrection of Christ.

The Papacy united Christian and heathen doctrine and practice, resulting in the composite system of the Papacy; British Christianity never coming into touch with the Continental system of heathen worship, kept the pure faith as it was "first delivered to the saints."

In the meantime the Asiatic wing of the Empires was conquered by the Mohammedan form of the ancient monotheism of Israel, unillumined by the clear light of Holy Writ. Thus there were three great ethnical units—(a) The Roman Empire, with an Empire form of Christian faith; (b) the Mohammedan world, with an Empire monotheism; and (c) Israel-Britain, with the pure Christian faith.

So we view the history of the Christian dispensation from the rise of the Papacy and of Islam in the territory of the Continental nations. So we view British history from the planting of the House of David in Ireland and Britain six centuries before Christ, and from the coming of the Christian mission to Britain within a decade of the Resurrection of our Lord. Not the mission of Augustine, but the much earlier mission of Joseph of Arimathea and his associates, who came straight from Jerusalem.

But now the Empires are ended!

The punitive sentence against Israel has also gone by, and since then a hundred and thirty years have passed wherein God has been restoring Israel, as represented by the Celto-Saxon race, to rulership with God.

Since the Reformation the Lord has once again been reviving in the Christianity of the Celto-Saxon race the outpouring of the power of the Holy Ghost.

The Scriptures which give to us the preview of this stage of the development of the great plan are, for instance—for we have not room to tabulate them all—the great message to Israel in the Isles contained in Isaiah from chapter xl to the end.

Whatever writer applies this great message of Isaiah to Asia, or to any civilization to be found in Asia, whether Israel or Gentile civilization, will, by so doing, make it impossible for himself or readers to make head or tail of the message. It will be seen to contain wonderful beauty and great doctrinal value: but as to historical fulfilment, there will not appear to have been any national fulfilment, nor is there now any appearance of fulfilment in any Asiatic people or nation. One would, in that case, be compelled to reach the same conclusion as Dr. Driver (who seems to apply the Isaiah message to the Jews) when he declares "It must be manifest that many of these promises have never been fulfilled, and now circumstances have so changed that they never can be fulfilled." A sad statement of a sad conclusion! But thank God Dr. Driver's conclusion was not drawn from fact but from fallacy, and so it is not only worthless, it is highly mischievous. The fact is that the great message of Isaiah, and similar messages of Jeremiah, Ezekiel, Daniel and the other prophets, apply to the Israel domiciled in the British Isles, and thence overflowing to the daughter nations, and they foreshadow the development of the great plan carried forward by the agency appointed of old, namely, by Israel, the servant-nation of God, the modern Celto-Saxon civilization.

When thus applied the prophecies are clear and luminous. Thus read they are found to foretell the very stages of Celto-Saxon development as it is recorded in modern secular history, and as we are living it out to-day.

Let us therefore take the great Israel-in-the-Isles message of Isaiah and, recognizing that God's Zion and Jerusalem, "twin" cities, or twin wards of one city, as they have always been and always shall be, have been officially removed, and transplanted in the "High mountain and eminent, even the mountain of the height of Israel"; that is to say, in the British Isles. For Zion is the centre of the governmental administration of Israel, and Jerusalem is the centre of Divinely-established worship in Israel.

The Isaiah message opens with a wonderful foreword to God's people, introducing the final stage of the great plan. (See Isaiah, chapter xl.) It then addresses the original British colony, the daughter nation, or colony of ancient Israel settled in the Isles. (See chapters xli to xliv.)

The message then reaches out to the tribes in captivity (see chapters xlv-xlviii) and gives them their marching orders to flee from the land of the Chaldeans ; these are the terms of the marching orders :—

"Go ye forth of Babylon, flee ye from the Chaldeans, with a voice of singing declare ye, tell this, utter it even to the end of the earth ; say ye, The LORD hath redeemed his servant Jacob.

And they thirsted not when he led them through the deserts : he caused the waters to flow out of the rock for them : he clave the rock also, and the waters gushed out.

There is no peace, saith the LORD, unto the wicked."—Isa. xlviii, 20-22.

The next paragraph of the Isaiah literature couples the original colony, the "Isles," with the new-comers who had thus marched from Babylon and joined the original colony in the Isles, to which new-comers the words are addressed : "and hearken ye people FROM FAR."

To this united people, so gathered in the Isles, known as Briton, Saxon, Dane and Norman, etc., is now proclaimed, up to the end of chapter liii, the Redeemer and the Redemption.

In chapter liv is given the miracle expansion of the Kingdom, which began immediately upon the ending of Israel's period of punishment, approximately A.D. 1800. See British and American history from that date.

The Kingdom is called upon to :—

"Enlarge the place of thy tent, and let them stretch forth the curtains of thine habitations : spare not, lengthen thy cords, and strengthen thy stakes ;

For thou shalt break forth on the right hand and on the left ; and thy seed shall inherit the Gentiles, and make the desolate cities to be inhabited.

Fear not ; for thou shalt not be ashamed : neither be thou confounded ; for thou shalt not be put to shame : for thou shalt forget the shame of thy youth, and shalt not remember the reproach of thy widowhood any more.

For thy Maker is thine husband ; the LORD of hosts is his name ; and thy Redeemer the Holy One of Israel ; The God of the whole earth shall he be called."—Isa. liv, 2-5.

and ends with the assurance :—

"No weapon that is formed against thee shall prosper ; and every tongue that shall rise against thee in judgment thou shalt condemn. This is the heritage of the servants of the LORD, and their righteousness is of me, saith the LORD." —Isa. liv, 17.

Now in chapter lv there is sent forth the trumpet-call to the nations and people of the earth to come into the Kingdom of God, to partake of the freedom and protection of the Divine administration under the House of David, under the assurance of the "sure mercies of David."

From thence, on to the end, Isaiah visualizes Israel going forth anew, the appointed witness of the Lord Jesus Christ, following His leadership, obedient to His command, carrying righteousness and peace and the glad tidings of salvation to the ends of the earth.

Jeremiah tells the same wonderful story in his own way, and from the viewpoint of his age, bringing out the new Covenant to be made with the House of Israel, and the ratification of the Divine Covenant made with the House of David; both to be effective to the end of time. (See chapters xxxi and xxxiii of Jeremiah.)

Ezekiel tells the same wonderful story, giving an agenda of the last days with great clearness, especially in chapters xxxvi to xxxviii. These chapters have no meaning nor possible application for any ancient time nor nation, but are luminously clear when applied to our own day, and bear the richest promise for our own race and civilization.

Then in upon the story as told by Ezekiel there bursts the storm of the war between the Continental nations, under the leadership of Rosch, against "Sheba and Dedan, the merchants of Tarshish, and all the young lions thereof." This is the final outbreak of war for all time, the antagonists being the Russian combination on the one hand, attacking Israel, and Israel under the leadership of Britain on the other.

Many of the other prophets give to us a view of the break-down of Asiatic civilization, involving Israel an Judah in the age in which the prophets wrote, and their glorious restoration by the strong hand of Almighty God in the latter days, that is to say, in the age in which we are now living.

We have lived to see the crash of the Continental Empires, as and when foretold by the prophets ; and they have passed like storm clouds which for ages have obscured the clear shining of the light which emanates from the throne of God.

We are now passing through the period of confusion incident upon the passing of the Empires, which, in spite of corruption and all other disadvantages, stood for some kind of law and order in the earth, under which trade and commerce, and international co-operation, was in some degree carried on.

But in spite of all the disturbance and distress of the time, it is well for us to realize that God Almighty is marching on, carrying out the great plan, and is leading us in a pathway which will soon issue into an age of prosperity, order and law, such as the world has never before enjoyed. Neither is that the end ; for the prophecies, which have received such entire fulfilment up to date, tell us of a still more glorious and final period in the working out of the great plan which is usually known as the millennial age under the personal reign of our Lord Jesus Christ.

So we come to the conclusion of this series of articles, and in it we see, first, that the Bible charted and mapped the great highway of history from the call of Abraham to the expected return of our Lord.

Secondly, we have seen that the footsteps of the Israel nations, and, incidentally, of the other nations, have marched throughout their generations in the pathway so outlined, and not otherwise. Finally, and most important of all, we see that our God has marched, and is still marching, steadily forward, by His right hand and outstretched arm so overruling the activities of individuals, nations, Empires, and the world, that they have come to the present point of modern history, and are reaching forward to the final stage under the Providential guidance of our ever-present God. That final stage is guaranteed to be under the reign of Jesus Christ our Lord. It will form the glorious consummation of God's great plan for the ages.

CONGRESS ADDRESSES.

THURSDAY EVENING.

DR. PASCOE GOARD said: Mr. Clive Kenrick, fathers and brethren, fellow citizens of God's Kingdom Nation,—I wish to associate myself, if they will permit me, with everyone of the brethren who are on the platform. It is unfortunate that we cannot all speak together, for we are all anxious to give out the Divine message. But please take my voice as the voice of us all to-night. I do not think I shall say anything with which my brethren will not fully agree.

I am faced at the outset with a barrier, a collective barrier that will meet me from your minds. That barrier is the habit of our thinking concerning God and His relationship to us. We think of Westminster Abbey across the way; we think of this Hall as the place of our Congress, and of this Hall on the Sabbath, when Dr. Young and his congregation meet, and we say that when we come together there, or here, or elsewhere, to sing hymns, to offer prayers, and to listen to sermons, then we are serving God. But we are in the habit of thinking that on the six days of the week when we are pursuing our avocations, when we are interesting ourselves with our political affiliations, and so on, that we are then pursuing the secular duty of serving the government of the people, which government is by the people, for the people. May God save us from that heresy. It has stood long enough; it is hateful to Almighty God; it is a doctrine of the Devil. The fact is that WE WORSHIP God in the Sanctuary. But we SERVE GOD in our secular pursuits. What, then, is God's plan for human government? His plan is the government of the people by Jehovah, the King of Israel, for the glory of God and for the salvation of the world. I think the time has come for Israel to return to God's plan of government. Will you introduce that plan into your political organization. I think perhaps all such organizations are represented here.

I would suggest that those who are responsible for the statesmanship of this country should appoint a Royal Commission to consider the shortest and the most perfect way of bringing the legislation and the administration of this country, and of the British Commonwealth of Nations, into line with the law of God.

Is that simply an ideal? The man-in-the-street to-day will shrug his shoulders and say it is an ideal. But, nevertheless, thank God, he is discussing it. In the United States there have appeared reviews in the law journals, of that little booklet, "God and the Common Law." Some have said, "That is beyond criticism." Others have said, "It is the greatest fun that ever appeared." But they are discussing the matter. That is the point.

I am going to try to make my way into your minds and hearts in order to bring to you this thought, that God, the King of Israel, is primarily and intensely interested and concerned with the administration of the government of the nation. That is the point. Jehovah, the King of Israel, is more intensely eager and anxious concerning the administration of His Kingdom in the Anglo-Saxon community of nations than any or all other persons that go to make up that community. I want to show you to-night that the most sacred things, and the most sacred transactions, that have been carried out by God the Father and God the Son which have been seen in the world, have been in connection with our national life. Turn to the prophecy of Isaiah, and see there God speaking to His nation. We disregard the misdirection found in the Editor's page headings which indicate that God is addressing the Church. This may be indirectly true. But primarily He addresses His nation. There it is.

We as a nation are at the present time in a condition that is tragic, and we are not going to be out of it to-morrow. This nation had, by the voice of God's servants, warnings given to them in the public Press and elsewhere, that at a particular time they would enter into a period in which there would not be room for them to stand upright; but there would be headroom enough for a people kneeling. That was indicated in the daily Press for a year before the event. It is still indicated, that we must still go with lowered heads and with bended knees for a little while.

A few years, the time is indicated, and then, thank God, we emerge into the King's Chamber. Now Mr. Davidson has been dealing from the beginning with the details of the immediate period through which we are passing, and I say "Amen" to all that he has said. But I am going to ask you to come with me and see a longer vision which God has given concerning us, showing what is God's immutable purpose in connection with His Kingdom-nation.

What, then, is it that I have to bring to you to-night?

THE KINGDOM ESTABLISHED.

Let us read the dramatic statement of the establishment of the Kingdom at Sinai. What happened at that time? A nation appeared among the nations which had not existed until that very day. The nation appeared among the nations, and soon demonstrated to all the world that it was equipped with a type of civilization that had never been equalled, a civilization which was a new thing in the earth. Can you explain how there should thus suddenly appear an organized nation, equipped with the faith, equipped with a system of law, equipped with a social organization superior to anything that had appeared on the pages of the ancient history of Egypt or ancient Babylon —or elsewhere? There is a miracle for you of the first magnitude. Three million people escaping from bondage: What of that? Three million people of the same race have escaped from the bondage of Russia into Anglo-Saxondom since the Armistice. And the world is not very startled about that. But this was the escape of an enslaved people—suddenly crystallizing into a supreme national organization in the world; having a revelation of God that had never been equalled before ; equipped with a system of law and social organization and administration unlike, above, and beyond anything that had appeared before. There is your miracle. How do you account for it? It cannot be accounted for in any other way than the way the Bible accounts for it. The Bible shows that nation shut up alone with God in the wilderness for forty years ; separated from Egypt from which they had escaped ; separated from Assyria ; with no international relationships ; with no trade or commerce ; with no industry. God fed them from day to day. It was a nation at school, absorbing the new constitution, carrying out the new administration that was different even from that in Israel prior to that of Moses.

What did the nation consist of? First of all, God established Himself as King in the nation. It is regarding the nation of which He says, " Can a woman forget her sucking child that she should not have compassion upon the son of her womb? Yes, she may forget. Yet will I not forget thee. Behold, I have graven thee upon the palms of My hands." How? By the driven nail. Where? On Calvary's Cross. When? When Jesus died to redeem His people Israel. Away with the self-righteousness and absolute selfishness of the Church which says, " I am God's," but " thou art altogether born in sin," as the Pharisees said to the man who was born blind. The unchurched masses on the street are citizens of God's nation, graven on His hands. " I have graven thee upon the palms of My hands : thy walls are continually before Me." First in the nation is Jehovah, the King of Israel. Then comes the roll of the citizens of Israel, which citizens form His Kingdom-nation, and then comes His constitution and law. Thus the nation was organized there, the British nation.

BRITISH.

Take the modern name " British " and carry it back 3,500 years. It is not a modern name. Where did it begin? When God established His " brith " or covenant with His people on earth. For " brith " means covenant, and " ish " means man in his covenant relationship. " British " ! It is thousands of years old. Green's Short History of the English People will not tell you where our nation was organized. At Oxford and Cambridge they will still tell you our forefathers at the beginning of the Christian era were skin-clad savages. The fact is that the first day of our national history occurred three months after the Exodus from Egypt, when Jehovah, the King of Israel, descended, and made contact with His nation. God then organized that nation into God's kingdom of priests in the earth. That is your heritage and mine. God is " the Ancient of Days." Wonderful Name. What does it mean? He says, " I am the First and with the Last," travelling all along through the generations. He supplies the spirit of Israel ; He is the God of Israel.

" ISRAEL DIVORCED." It is a sad story, that. When you read the Bible you do not expect to get into the Divorce Court, do you? Have you ever been into the Divorce Court? Not in regard to your own personality or family life. But racially you have, and so have I, for we belong to that people of whom God said they should be called Lo Ammi, Thou art not My people, and who were put away. They were divorced ; but with this promise, " It shall come to pass that in the place where it was said unto them, Ye are not My people, there it shall be said unto them, Ye are the sons of the living God." Let us pick up that story later on. St. John exclaims : " Behold, what manner of love the Father hath bestowed upon us that we should be called the sons of God. Beloved, now are we the sons of God, and it doth not yet appear what we shall be, but we know that when He shall appear, we shall be like Him, for we shall see Him as He is." Divorced, with the promise of redemption.

Where did the redemption take place? Remember the 50th chapter of Isaiah. "Thus saith the Lord, Where is the bill of your mother's divorcement, whom I have put away?" Who is He talking to? Israel-in-the-Isles, north and west of Palestine. Who is He talking of? The mother of Israel-in-the-Isles. "Where is the bill of your mother's divorcement, whom I have put away? or which of My creditors is it to whom I have sold you? Behold, for your iniquities have ye sold yourselves, and for your transgressions is your mother put away. Wherefore, when I came, was there no man? When I called, was there none to answer? Is My hand shortened at all, that it cannot redeem? Or have I no power to deliver." Then He goes on to declare the majesty of His dealings with the elements of nature, but there is no redemption that way. Then there is one of the most marvellous transformations to be found in all literature. Jehovah, the King eternal, has been riding gloriously in that manifestation of Himself in the 50th chapter of Isaiah, and He asks regarding the shortness of His arm and His power to redeem, illustrating His Power by the drying up of the sea. Then suddenly He changes His voice and begins to sing a wonderful song. It is the song of redemption. He says, " I have given My back to the smiters, and My cheeks to them that plucked off the hair : I hid not My face from shame and spitting." What is He singing about? Pilate's Hall.

Then in the midst of the great redemption story He calls us to attention, and He says, " Look unto the rock whence ye are hewn, and to the hole of the pit" (the quarry) " whence ye are digged. Look unto Abraham your father, and unto Sarah that bare you." Then He goes sweeping on to the 53rd chapter, " Who hath believed our report? " What report? The report of the redemption of the nation Israel. That is what he is talking about. " Who hath believed our report? and to whom is the arm of the Lord revealed? For he shall grow up before him as a tender plant, and as a root out of a dry ground." " He was wounded for our transgressions." " All we like sheep have gone astray : we have turned every one to his own way : and the Lord hath laid on Him the iniquity of us all." There you have a picture of the sheep collectively, of the flock movement, and also of the individual rebellion of the heart. " With His stripes we are healed." This is the song of the redemption of the nation. " Thou hast visited and redeemed Thy people Israel." What that redemption means in this world who can estimate? It is the shadow of the Almighty hovering over and guiding a redeemed nation, while the earth, in the madness of its rebellion, is dashing itself to pieces. Israel redeemed !

What follows after? The miraculous expansion of Israel when the time appointed comes. Listen. In 1800, that is 130 years ago, there were sixteen million Anglo-Saxons in the world. " Enlarge the place of thy tent, and let them stretch forth the curtains of thine habitations: spare not, lengthen thy cords, and strengthen thy stakes. . . . For thou shalt break forth on the right hand and on the left: and thy seed shall inherit the Gentiles, and make the desolate places to be inhabited. . . ." (See Isaiah liv.) What a wonderful fulfilment! Sixteen millions in 1800, and 160 millions to-day. The expansion has gone to America, to Australia, to New Zealand, to Africa, and to the Isles of the Sea: it has gone on and on encircling the globe until in 1917, under Allenby, our people marched into Palestine and into the ancient city of God, Jerusalem, the capital of the land of our fathers, from which land they took their departure over 2,500 years ago. What else? Looking at the Cross of Calvary, looking at the great redemption that had been wrought out for Israel, the Lord makes the following covenant. It is more sure than Magna Charta; it is more sure than the Bill of Rights: it is more sure than the Declaration of Independence. What is it? "For this is as the waters of Noah unto Me: for as I have sworn, that the waters of Noah should no more go over the earth: so have I sworn that I would not be wroth with thee, nor rebuke thee. For the mountains shall depart, and the hills be removed: but My kindness shall not depart from thee, neither shall the covenant of My peace be removed, saith the Lord that hath mercy on thee." Now there is the time of tragedy and suffering, but as to the nation and the company of nations and the great people of the Celto-Saxon race, God has pledged Himself that the Tribulation shall not go over the nation to destroy it. On the other hand our Lord said of the godless nations, to quote His words: "As it was in the days of Noah, so shall it be in the days of the Son of man. They ate, they drank, they gave in marriage, until the Flood came and took them all away." But those waters of Noah shall not go over God's redeemed nation Israel to destroy it.

That is a covenant which Almighty God made with Israel, as He made an earlier covenant with Noah that the material waters should never again overthrow the earth. That is our covenant. No matter what the turmoil: no matter though the waters rage and be lashed into fury in the international storm, the waters shall not destroy the nation that God has redeemed with the precious Blood of Christ His Son.

One more thing. "No weapon that is formed against thee shall prosper." For forty years Germany formed a mighty military weapon and launched it against us in 1914. Oh, the agony of that terrific struggle. But the nation stood.

Every communication that we now receive tells us that Russia, under Prussian leadership, is forging a mightier weapon. Never mind. "No weapon that is formed against thee shall prosper: and every tongue that shall rise against thee in judgment thou shalt condemn. This is the heritage of the servants of the Lord, and their righteousness is of Me, saith the Lord."

Now what have we? The vision glorious. "Ho, every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters, and he that hath no money, come ye, buy and eat: yea, come, buy wine and milk without money and without price." The gold standard is gone. Israel is so rich and, thank God, those who know the Empire know the truth of that potentially, that it can lift up its voice to the other nations, and say, "Ho, every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters, and he that hath no money, come ye, buy and eat: yea, come, buy wine and milk without money and without price. Wherefore do ye spend money for that which is not bread? and your labour for that which satisfieth not?" They are spending more money for luxuries than for ordinary necessities. "Wherefore do ye spend money for that which is not bread? and your labour for that which satisfieth not? Hearken diligently unto Me, and eat ye that which is good, and let your soul delight itself in fatness. Incline your ear, and come unto Me: hear, and your soul shall live: and I will make an everlasting covenant with you, even the sure mercies of David." Is the Lord talking about personal salvation? Is this the great missionary effort to bring the nations to the Cross of Christ that they may be saved? No, it is not. "I will make an everlasting covenant with you, even the sure mercies of David. Behold, I have given him for a witness to the people, a leader, and commander to the people" A witness concerning what? The Kingdom of God, God in His Kingdom, His Divine administration, the covenant that He made with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. And in spite of Dr. Driver, in spite of Bradlaugh, in spite of Tom Paine, and all the other deniers of the Word, every jot and tittle of His covenants shall He make good to the end of time. Jehovah has given Him, Jesus Christ, as a witness to the people. Oh, you say, He spoke according to the mechanic outlook, the Carpenter of Nazareth, according to His class, and according to His age. My friend, who told you that Jesus Christ was a Carpenter? Every man who approached Him called Him "Rabbi." The scholars of His day said, "Whence hath this Man this knowledge?" not having learned, as far as they knew. He said, "I proceeded forth and came from God," and the men of His day reverenced Him for His supreme culture and scholarship. And those who claim to be "modern" scholars, who describe Jesus thus, do not do themselves any honour, or the Lord either. The majesty of the Lord! The majesty of His Personality! "I have given Him for a witness to the people," and His witness is true to the last jot and the last tittle. He testifies to the writings of Moses and the Psalmist and the Prophets as to "the Scriptures which cannot be broken." "I have given him for . . . a leader and commander to the people." Now what have we here? A leader is obviously in the political world. If Anglo-Saxondom wants anything to-day supremely in the national and in the racial realm, it is that God would raise up for us a leader, to lead the ways of God. "I have given him for a leader and commander to the people." What is this? Let us visit Israel's camp at Jericho. The city lies in the Jordan Valley, with its towering walls and closed gates. Joshua, the leader of Israel, goes out alone, to look at the defences of mighty Jericho, mighty in those days. What could sword and spear do against stone walls that towered above him? Look! there is someone in the shadow over there, with the gleam of a sword in his hand. Who is this? Perchance the Commander-in-chief of Jericho, come to reconnoitre Israel. With the courage of his faith, and the courage of his race, Joshua marches up to him. "Art thou for us or for our enemy?" And then came the unexpected reply, "Nay, but as Captain of the Lord's host am I now come." And Joshua bent the knee before the Commander-in-chief of the hosts of Israel. "I have given him for a witness to the people, a leader and commander to the people." Who? Jesus Christ, the supreme Son of David, Who, when

He went away, said to His servants whom He was leaving behind, "Occupy till I come."

Now then there rings out the call to the nations, "Ho, every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters, and he that hath no money, come ye, buy and eat: yea, come, buy wine and milk without money and without price."

Do you know what we who have been in the Great Dominions have seen? We have seen men and women, literally in rags, with scarcely a penny in their pockets, pouring by the million into the inheritance that God has given us. Multitudes of them, then so poor, are now rich and independent, endowed out of the common heritage that God has given His Israel.

We have seen them coming as individuals, as families, as communities. But we are seeing a greater thing to-day. They could tell you stories over in the Administrative Offices of nations in Europe and nations in Asia who are saying to the British Government to-day, "Why can't we also become free and independent nations in your community of nations, and enjoy your mutual protection and your mutual prosperity?" Professor Dibelius, of Berlin University, wrote this testimony in 1928, in a book which has been printed into many languages. "If human progress is to continue," he wrote, "the Anglo-Saxon mission must go forward, and history will see to it that the nations of the earth, free and equal, shall form one great Commonwealth, the defence of which, if defence is needed, will be left in the hands of Great Britain."

In 1800 there were sixteen millions of us: in 1930 there are 160 millions. We hold in our hands a quarter of the earth's surface. And added to that, nations and peoples enough to make up the grand total, under the two flags of Britain and the United States of America, of 650 millions, or a third of the human race. Some of those that are born now will be living in 2000, and by that time surely the cry will have gone out in Heaven, and probably much before that time, "The kingdoms of this world have become the Kingdom of our Lord and of His Christ." The day is almost immediately upon us when Jesus Christ shall return, and God shall give to Him the throne of His father David, and He shall reign over the House of Jacob for ever. That is James, you know, for James is the English of Jacob in the Hebrew. The official place of the throne is St. James'. "And He shall rule over the House of Jacob for ever, and of His Kingdom there shall be no end."

FRIDAY AFTERNOON.

THE REV. W. BROWN POLLOCK, M.A., said: Dear Mr. Chairman, my dear friends, clerical and lay,—I want, as God shall help me, to speak to you about what redemption means in Israel. As I read of it in God's Holy Word, it means three great things. It means a New Personality, a New Power, and a New Purpose. First of all, let me take you to the Word of God, because I find all that I have to say about this matter there, and I find that it satisfies my mind, it furnishes me with every kind of mental equipment, and it gives me the moral courage, which I should not have otherwise, to stand before this great audience, and those on the platform who know far more than I do. I feel that this is a day and generation in which we have no right to ignore the Word of God. Indeed, it is the foundation of the truth, from the beginning, in the continuation, and to the consummation and end of God's great purpose and plan in creation, redemption, and sanctification of His people.

Let me say that God requires newness of Personality. If you turn to the 3rd chapter of St. John you will read there what the Lord Jesus Christ said to Nicodemus, "I say unto you, except a man be bo n again he cannot enter, he cannot see the Kingdom of God." Except a man be born from above: that is the Greek. Not evolved, through all sorts of inferior forms of life and processes, into the wonderful people God has made you and me to-day, a great Empire and a Kingdom which is ours. Except our life begin from the throne of God, from the Being of God, except a man be born from above, he cannot see the Kingdom of God. It needs Divine vision to see the Kingdom of God, to see the great wonders that God is working through His people Israel. Therefore we can be quite assured of this revelation and of the truth of these tremendous words of the Lord Jesus Christ, our most gracious, wonderfully glorious and loving Saviour and King.

WE CAN BE PERFECTLY CERTAIN that the things He tells us here as to our origin, and as to the certainty and the joy and the glory of our redemption, are true. I believe that God causes the light to be active in this way, and there arises the question, Now, how are we to be born again? I want you to turn to the first chapter of this wonderful Gospel of St. John. He has been telling of the Lord Jesus Christ, and of the things that belong to Him, and to Him alone, and He says, "He came unto His own, and His own received Him not," and then he goes on to say, "But as many as received Him, to them gave He power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on His Name: which were born, not of blood, nor of the will of the flesh, nor of the will of man, but of God." Not of blood, not of natural birth; nor of the will of the flesh, not of that which in the New Testament seems to be always opposed to the Holy Spirit, and to the spiritual world; nor of the will of man; no man can cause himself to be born, but by the will of God; that is His will for Israel. And that is what I want all our people to know. That is where we want them to get to. There is, then, the New Personality. A new sonship. In short, Regeneration. Don't you see that all the wisdom in the world will only lead us further away, will only complicate, will only obscure the true things. We have been spending the morning in the British Museum, where we heard a very wonderful lecture indeed on the Bible, and its sources, and there we were told things which made us realize that the critics, if they could only be led in a body into the British Museum, and could be given a lecture, would see they had not a leg to stand on in regard to any of their contentions about this Word of God. Evolution gone. Modern criticism gone. Where are these poor people going to get to? Where are our people, those who are depending upon the learning given them from the Universities and Theological Colleges and pulpits of our Church, being led to? Redemption means a New Personality; and it is only by means of a new birth; and that new birth can only be had on the authority of God and the work of God. "Which were born, not of blood, nor of the will of the flesh, nor of the will of man, but of God." Well, that is a very wonderful thing. "Except a man be born again, he cannot see the Kingdom of God." If there is anybody here depending for his salvation upon the realization of the great heritage of Israel merely on the fact of lineal descent from Abraham, let me say you are adrift, until you enter within the meaning of God's "Except." If all Israel is to be saved it will be on the ground of the truth of this Gospel.

We turn over and see that there must not only be a New Personality, but there must be a New Power, otherwise how are these things going to be accomplished? The refining influences and processes of social intercourse and of civilization will not accomplish it. And so we turn to the next Book of the Bible, the Acts of the Apostles. We remember our Lord and Master told His disciples when they asked Him, "Wilt Thou at this time restore again the Kingdom to Israel?" how the Kingdom was going to be restored. And here is also the way by which the New Personality, and the power to live the new life was to be received. "And suddenly there came a sound from heaven as of a rushing mighty wind, and it filled all the house where they were sitting. And there appeared unto them and it sat upon each of them. And they were all filled with the Holy Ghost." Can we put our hand on our heart and say that we have received the Holy Ghost? But that is what Christianity means. That is what the Israel redemption means. If you turn to the 36th chapter of Ezekiel, He tells us that He will take from us the heart of stone, and will give us a heart of flesh. He will give you a new spirit. And so these people in their blindness, because they could not see the Kingdom of God, let alone enter it, all they can think about God's people when they were filled with His eternal Spirit is that "these men are drunken with new wine." You are a crank. You are carried away with much learning. Not at all. I have put all the learning I have into the waste-paper basket; the only learning I have now is what God gives me. We have no right to put our learning before the wonderful things of God and the power of God. If they were to be great personalities, and to bring the Kingdom to perfection that God desires, surely this is the way it is to be done. Listen to what Peter said, and I want you to follow this very closely: "But Peter, standing up with the eleven, lifted up his voice and said unto them, Ye men of Judæa, and all ye that dwell at Jerusalem, be this known unto you, and hearken to my words, For these are not drunken as ye suppose, seeing it is but the third hour of the day. But this is that which was spoken by the prophet Joel: And it shall come to pass in the last days, saith God, I will pour out of My Spirit upon all flesh: and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, and your young men shall see visions, and your old men shall dream dreams." Thank God for that. I am going to have glorious dreams. "And on My servants and on My handmaidens I will pour out in those days of My Spirit: and they shall prophesy." Young women, look out. Beware of the spirit of the time. Get into the Spirit of God. Things will alter then. Dress and fashion, and lip stick, and powder. All these things will be altered when the Holy Spirit of God enters into His temple. "And I will shew wonders in Heaven above, and signs in the earth beneath: blood, and fire, and vapour of smoke." We have got to face persecution if we are going out with the truth of God and with this old Gospel. As you go forth with this New Personality, and in this New Power, you will find persecution awaiting you, and there will be the

of that dark spirit who has been keeping us out of the great blessings of our heritage for so long. But the Divine Spirit will come into the temple and fill the life and the personality of his great people. If the adversary cannot burn you with the fire of vengeance, he will open hell and let out this smoke from below, the vapour of it is as poison gas. Oh, the terrible literature that is let loose to-day; the terrible ideas of marriage, things that ought never to enter into the life of the Israel of God. And there is the talk of contraceptives to-day. That is the disgrace of our day and generation. That this thing should be paraded in the papers for poor weak souls to read, and that these things should come from the lips of men who ought to be educated to the service of the living God, encouraging men to indulge themselves to the last degree in mere animalism, when we think of the life that God has given spirit, soul and body, and that "in Him we live and move and have our being." "The sun shall be turned into darkness, and the moon into blood, before that great and notable day of the Lord come: and it shall come to pass, that whosoever shall call on the name of the Lord shall be saved. Ye men of Israel, hear these words: Jesus of Nazareth, a man approved of God among you by miracles and wonders and signs, which God did by Him in the midst of you, as ye yourselves also know. Him, being delivered by the determinate counsel and foreknowledge of God, ye have taken, and by wicked hands have crucified and slain. Whom God hath raised up." Answering to the blood of persecution is the precious Blood of the Divine Saviour, the Lord Jesus Christ. Answering to the fire of vengeance is the falling of the fire of the baptism of the Holy Spirit. Answering to the vapour and the smoke of hell is the truth and light which God has shed upon His Holy Word, and which He is making to be indeed a lamp unto our feet and a light unto our path, directing us that we shall not go astray, that there may be no wandering. There will be a reaching into this greatness which God has for us if we will only get back to the Word of God, and through that to God Himself. "Jesus of Nazareth, a man approved of God among you by miracles and wonders and signs, which God did by Him in the midst of you." I want you to notice that God claims to be the Author of the miracles of Christ. You have a difficulty about believing in miracles. Thank God, I have no difficulty, for I have always thought regarding any miracle done on earth it was God Who did it, and God the Son Incarnate did it, and God the Holy Ghost would do it, through His Israel,

HEALING THE SICK, and giving us many of the gifts which we have lost through our apostasy. At the end of that sermon of Peter's, three thousand people were converted. They came to repentance: they received Jesus Christ, and became New Personalities. Can a nation be born in a day? Yes. If it is the day of grace. A nation can be born in a day. And this whole nation could be born in a day to the Lord our God if they would only fall in with these simple directions and put aside these awful fallacies, and these explorations into the abstruse and the occult. The light is here, and the Gospel is still the same, and is still the power of God unto salvation. We think of that New Personality and that New Power that came to Peter and John. They saw the lame man at the Gate Beautiful, and Peter said to him, "Look on us." There is something tremendously powerful in a look. "Gold I have none, but such as I have give I thee. In the name of Jesus Christ rise up and walk." And immediately power came to him; it was the power of God; it was a power that no one could gainsay. If the Jews could have brought a case against Christianity, and could have shown that it was a sort of fable, an Eastern story, they would have done it, and put us out of court. But they could not do it because it was the Power and the Personality of God as revealed in His servants. And then you know he began to preach to them again, and what was the result of that preaching? "They were pricked to the heart, and said unto Peter, and to the rest of the apostles, Men and brethren, what shall we do?" The truth of God had pierced right into their innermost being. What did the Apostle say? It is worth while going back on those things. It is worth while remembering what was said. "Then said Peter unto them, Repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost. For the promise is unto you, and to your children, and to all that are afar off, even as many as the Lord our God shall call. And with many other words did he testify and exhort, saying, Save yourselves

Digitized by Google

FROM THIS UNTOWARD GENERATION.

Then they that gladly received His word were baptized; and the same day there were added unto them about three thousand souls." Peter says again later on, "Repent ye therefore, and be converted, that your sins may be blotted out, when the times of refreshing shall come from the presence of the Lord." And we read: "Howbeit many of them which heard the word believed: and the number of the men was about five thousand."

Well, there is the New Personality, there is the New Power. What about the New Purpose? Well, wherever these men went they carried out the purpose which was to preach the Gospel to all nations, to go out among the heathen. And have you noticed, it was by preaching the Word of God. Just to take one instance. When Philip went to Samaria they preached the Gospel there, and there was great joy in the city, and the people were baptized. And then the Apostles came down, and they received the Holy Ghost. It was the preaching of the Word. And all through you have the action of the Word of God by the Holy Spirit. "Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit he cannot enter the Kingdom of God." And when he is born of water and of the Spirit he enters the Kingdom, and he enters into the wonderful heritage which God has for every one of us. And upon every one of us there rests the obligation and the duty and the privilege and the responsibility of telling out the wonders that God has done for our souls, and of making every endeavour to convert our country and the nations beyond.

THE BIRTH OF THE IRISH NATION.—III.

BY WILLIAM F. DILLON.

(The previous articles appeared in THE NATIONAL MESSAGE of June 28th, page 408, and July 26th, page 470.)

THERE can be little doubt that the Danites, who lived a seafaring life as far back as 1394 B.C., and who traded in competition with the Phœnicians, visiting all the countries bordering on the "Great Sea" of the Philistines, or the "SEA of the Setting Sun," traded also with Greece.

According to one account it appears the tribe of Dan was divided into North and South, and that the Northern Danites founded the city of Dardana, afterwards called Troja, and also Dardanas, on the Dardanelles. This account, however, does not agree with another record which states that the cities of Dardanas, on the Dardanelles, and Byzantium on the Bosphorus were founded by Darda, one of the sons of Zara, the twin brother of Peres, born to Tamar the daughter-in-law of Judah the son of Jacob, or Israel. It is said that this Zara, on losing his Abrahamic birthright, never entered Palestine. He had five sons, one of whom was Darda (1 Chron. ii, 6), and his descendants, trading along the coasts of the Mediterranean Sea, found their way into Northern Spain, where they founded the city of Zara-Goza, which was a trading centre some centuries before the first mud hut was built in Rome. This Darda is identified with Dardanas, who left Egypt about 1800 B.C., and is said to have founded Troy. There is a tradition that about 1100 B.C., the Greeks captured Troy, and King Brutus the Trojan departed from Troy, bringing with him all the inhabitants, with their wives and families, in a great fleet, sailing through the Mediterranean, and landing in Britain or Albion, where they dispossessed a colony of Britons who had settled there. This fact has now been confirmed by the discovery of pre-historic inscriptions of the Trojan type, found on the rocks and monoliths of Britain.*

The Hebrew family of Zara has been traced across Southern Europe to Spain, where the word "Hebrew" was phonetically pronounced "Ibri"; hence in ancient times Spain was called the "Iberian Peninsula," and when some of the descendants of Zara found their way into Ulster, where members of the tribe of Dan had already settled, it was through them that Ireland was called Hibernia. Therefore it would appear it was not the tribe of Dan who founded Dardanas or Troy, but the family of Zara-Judah, long before their emigration to Ireland, and who brought with them the red hand of Ulster, which is in evidence to this day. (Gen. xxxviii, 24–30.)

The Lion, being the ancient standard of the tribe of Judah, everything points to the Israelitish tribes inhabiting the British Isles, as bearers of the ancient symbol, and although the sovereigns of Europe may have adopted several devices, the British Lion has been always in the foreground.

THE LION AND OTHER HEBREW SYMBOLS IN BRITISH HERALDRY.

The Royal Standard.—The King's Standard has in the first quarter three lions; in the second quarter (rampant) the lion of Scotland; in the third quarter the harp for Ireland; and in the fourth quarter three lions.

The Arms.—On His Majesty's Coat of Arms are:—First quarter three lions, passant-guardant for England; second quarter a lion (rampant) for Scotland; third quarter a harp, for Ireland; fourth quarter three lions passant-guardant, for England.

Crest.—Upon the Royal helmet, the Crown; thereon a lion statant-guardant, crowned.

Supporters.—On the dexter, a lion guardant, crowned, and on the sinister, a unicorn, gorged with a coronet of crosses patée, and fleurs-de-lis, a chain affixed thereto, passing between the forelegs and reflexed over the back of the last.

Motto.—DIEU ET MON DROIT.†

The Harp was the national emblem of Ireland for many centuries before Christ, and, with its angel guardian, was the only standard recognized in Ireland till the union of the three realms of England, Ireland and Scotland. The Harp is thus seen with its angel protector associated with nine lions and a unicorn.

Then the Cross of St. George for England, the Cross of St. Patrick for Ireland, and the Cross of St. Andrew for Scotland, became the Union Jack, and even the word "JACK" can be traced to the word "JACOB," of Hebrew origin. The Union Jack therefore represents the union of Jacob's posterity in the Isles of the West. James is the English form of the Latin name Jacobus, and the official title of our centre of Royal Government is the Court of St. James (Jacob).

From day to day new light has been thrown on the long-lost origin of our ancestors, the Britons, Scots and Anglo-Saxons, back to about 3000 B.C., and we find about 1,500 years before the Christian Era that the dwellers in the Western Isles, or "The Isles of the Sea," mentioned in the sacred Scriptures, were a highly civilized and literate race, descended from pure Hebrews and from the ancient Hebro-Phœnicians.

When we speak of the ancient Hebro-Phœnicians, it would appear that they represent a fusion of the Hamitic Philistines, Canaanites, Hittites, Zidonians, etc., with the tribes of Dan, Asher and Zebulun, for we are told (Judges iii, 3–6) of the union of the Israelites with the five lords of the Philistines, Canaanites and Zidonians, for "they took their daughters to be their wives, and gave their daughters to their sons." This hybrid race, notwithstanding, retained the characteristics of the warlike and turbulent Danites. So that when the Danites and the descendants of Zara-Judah met in Ulster, the probability is that they also intermarried, and were called the Tuatha-de-Danaan, which simply means the tribe of Dan, according to the Rev. Joseph Wild, D.D., in his very interesting work on "The Lost Ten Tribes," published in America, 1890 (now out of print). But this meeting of the tribes in Ulster was many years before the marriage of the Princess Tamar Tephi to King Eochaid II at Tara.

† See "The Heraldry and Flag of Great Britain," by M. Bloxam, 1s. 1d. post free. Obtainable from the Covenant Publishing Co., Ltd., 6, Buckingham Gate, S.W.1.

St. Patrick did not arrive in Tara until A.D. 432, or about ten centuries after Ollamh Fodhla (586 B.C.), whom we identify as the prophet Jeremiah, who brought with him the Princess Tamar Tephi, eldest daughter of King Zedekiah, the last King of Judah, and also his scribe Baruch. Ollamh Fodhla consented to the marriage of the Princess with King Eochaid II, the Danite Ard-righ, or Head King of Ireland, on condition that he renounced the worship of Baal, and the nation was to accept the moral law as contained on the two tables of stone given to the great law-giver, Moses.

It was in the time of the Ollamh Fodhla that there was founded at Tara, "a fair palace for the learned sort of the realm," denominated Mer-almin, or Mur Ollamhan—i.e., House of the Wise Men, or School of the Prophets; himself being Ard Ollamh, or chief prophet. Ollamh then was his title. (2) Hence were sent missionaries to various parts of Europe, and thus Ireland first became known as the "Island of Saints."‡

In the ancient burial ground at the rear of Devenish Abbey in Lough Erne, about two and a half miles from Enniskillen, there is a tomb cut out of the solid rock, which from time immemorial has been regarded as the resting-place of the prophet Jeremiah, who established the Druidic worship of Jehovah. When St. Patrick arrived some centuries later, it was stated the Druids had lapsed into idolatry, or had become worshippers of Baal, although the Druidic worship of Jehovah, introduced by Hu Gadarn, who was contemporary with the Patriarch Abraham, flourished in England until Christianity was introduced by the Apostles, and the first Christian Church was built, about A.D. 38, by Joseph of Arimathea, uncle of the Virgin Mary, at Glastonbury, on the Isle of Avalon, in the Bristol Channel.

To many people the most notable shrine in Ireland at the present time is the "Mergech," believed to be the burial-place of the beautiful Queen Tamar Tephi, on the Hill of Tara, in the county Meath.

The Hill of Tara is about four miles from Navan on the Dublin Road, and there is a considerable ascent for about a mile before arriving at the artificial mounds indicating the traditional burial-place of the famous Queen, and the site of the old palace of the Irish Kings.

The Hill, which is isolated, has been compared to Mount Hebron in Palestine. It is 510 feet high, upon which five roads converge, and round its summit are six raths, or circular earthworks, the largest being called "The King's Rath."

The ancient cemetery of "Brugh na Boinne," where the Kings of Ireland were laid in strong sepulchral keep, is situated about five miles from Drogheda, between the river Boyne and the road to Slane. There is a low hill about two miles long, on the crest of which stands the tumuli of Dowth, Knowth, and Newgrange, the latter being the largest, about fifty feet high, and covering about an acre. At one time there was an immense circle of standing stones round Newgrange, resembling the Druidic remains at Stonehenge. This was said to have been erected by the Tuatha de Danaan, about 1500 B.C., immediately before the arrival of the Celts. In the present day the very fences round this neighbourhood are composed of materials from the ruined tumuli, and are a mine of carved and inscribed stones.

WEEK BY WEEK.

By A. R. H.

SHADOWS of the old year lengthen as the days of 1930 draw to a close. But the old year merges into a new year. And each year brings us nearer to our journey's end—the KINGDOM.

The national basis of the KINGDOM is already manifest in the BRITISH NATION and COMPANY of NATIONS. But the KINGDOM is not the KINGDOM yet. The manifestation of the KINGDOM is a process of development, as it is written: "Your KINGDOM must be being restored." In fact this proclamation constitutes for all CHRISTIAN PEOPLE in general and the PEOPLE of ANGLO-SAXONDOM in particular.

What an inspiring proclamation! It is the privilege of us all—from the humblest citizen to Prince and King—to pull our weight and take our part in the building and establishment of GOD'S KINGDOM in the earth. Let us make this our New Year's resolution: To keep this STANDING ORDER in mind each day throughout the coming year, and, in humble reliance upon the love and strength of ALMIGHTY GOD, strenuously to exert all our powers in the service, and for the advancement, of the KINGDOM of GOD upon earth.

It is moving to reflect that at NEW YEAR'S EVE last year we looked forward into twelve months of an unknown future. And now that unknown period has been "lived through," and the blank spaces of "unformed events" filled in with the crowded details of historical fulfilment.

To-day we stand again on the threshold of another formless period. But in due time the "unknown" will have become the "known," and we shall have proceeded a further stage along the long, long trail which winds away into the LAND OF OUR DREAMS.

What is the LAND of our DREAMS? Well, if we have the faith of CHRIST the LAND of our dreams will be the coming UNIVERSAL KINGDOM.

It is faith in the manifestation of the KINGDOM of GOD upon earth in all its glory which robs life of fear and the future of the shadows of uncertainty.

Each day and hour and moment we step from the "known" into the "unknown." This is a fearful experience for those who do not dwell in the love and faith of CHRIST. But it constitutes the inspiration and adventure of life to those whose faith is firmly grounded in the doctrine of the KINGDOM.

Faith is a wonderful inspiration when it is rooted and grounded in love. There is something irresistibly romantic about the very idea of believing in the evidence of things not seen.† Faith has been defined as "Trust in an unseen future, and duty done in this life through that trust upon an UNSEEN GOD and His promises."

This conception of religion makes life worth living; and the more so as we bring our full intelligence to bear upon the mystical fact of our temporal existence.

For in reality, at every moment, we are living in and through eternity. Time is an artificial product of our intellect. Time is not duration. Time is a measure; the measure of duration. And duration is eternity. Duration is continuance; time without end.

At each separate moment of our earthly life, that which we call the future passes through that which we call the present into that which we call the past. Actually we live each moment of our life in the eternal "now." The future, present and past are simply terms we employ to indicate separate portions of that timeless in which our lives are cast. The past, the present and the future really form one great eternal indivisible whole.

In like manner JESUS CHRIST is rightly styled "the same, yesterday, and to-day and for ever."‡ He is "always with" us because He is one with the ETERNAL FATHER, in Whom we live and move and have our being.

The reason we labour this point at the present stage is that life can only be properly understood when viewed in the light of eternity. And at the NEW YEAR it is easier for most of us to catch a glimpse of the true significance of "time"; if we will only pause long enough to think of it.

Meditating thus we are helped to recapture the wonder of conscious existence. Half our troubles in life are caused by the fact that, having lost our sense of wonder, life has become ordinary and commonplace. Our minds become submerged in the overwhelming mass of daily happenings. We lose the power of withdrawing from external impressions and dwelling for a while in conscious communion with the quiet silent centre within—which is our real life—the life of CHRIST within us.

Knowledge of the love of CHRIST sets us spiritually free. Knowledge of the truth regarding the nature of our temporal existence frees us from mental limitations. Knowledge of the truth regarding "time" enables us to recapture that vision of eternity which transforms our daily life and makes the humblest detail of existence radiant with spiritual significance.

If we are in CHRIST we have passed§ from death unto life. Physically we remain at present in a temporal environment hampered by the physical limitations of time and space. But spiritually we have made firm contact with the real world of the Spirit which lies beyond the range of the physical senses.

It is on this—the other—side of the Veil that the spiritual foundations of the KINGDOM of GOD are well and truly laid. The visible KINGDOM—in process of development in the earth—has its perfect counterpart in the invisible, unseen world, as it is written:—"Thy Kingdom come . . . on earth, as it is in Heaven." And again:—"For Thine is the KINGDOM, the power and the glory, for ever and ever, world without end."

This is the world with which we come into contact whenever we succeed in momentarily freeing ourselves from the illusions of time and space. Entering into the silence of spiritual communion with GOD, we enjoy a demonstration of the fact that it is the things which are not seen which are eternal.

* This is implied in the force of the Imperative 1st Aorist. See Ferrar Fenton's footnote to Matt. vi, 13. Cf. also Matt. vi, 10.

‡ Heb. xiii, 8.

At no time in the history of the world has it been so necessary for people to recapture their consciousness of the reality of the unseen world of the Spirit.

It is only by learning to live in the Spirit that we can "enter into" the Kingdom of Heaven. And it is only by entering into the Kingdom of Heaven spiritually that we can develop the Kingdom of Heaven within us. And until we have the Kingdom of Heaven within ourselves it is impossible for the progressive development of the KINGDOM, among and around us, to come to full fruition.

As our New Year's major resolution let us dedicate ourselves to the task of developing our individual consciousness of spiritual power. It is up to us to work out our own salvation.[1] Our personal initiative and effort is all important. And the apparent hopelessness of the task vanishes when we realize that it is GOD[2] that worketh in us both to will and to do His good pleasure. Even our desire to advance in the spiritual life is a sign that GOD Himself has taken our development in hand. Moreover, we have the sure confidence that He Who hath begun a good work in us will finish it.[3]

We can have individual consecration without national consecration. But we cannot have national consecration without individual consecration. The individual aspect of national affairs is all important. And if the KINGDOM on earth is to become manifest as it is in Heaven it means that the people composing the KINGDOM on earth must bring their individual wills into harmony with the will of GOD. Only thus can GOD'S will be done on earth as it is in Heaven.

The new and better covenant of Jeremiah xxxi represents the SPIRITUAL CONSTITUTION OF THE KINGDOM of GOD upon earth. The peculiar genius of this constitution lies in the fact that it secures the perfection of obediential love by first writing the law upon the heart of the people. Thus the people willingly conform to the will of GOD, for they consent to the law in their hearts that it is good.

To-day, this marvellous, silent and unseen process of writing the law upon the heart and mind of the people proceeds apace. The day will shortly come when the whole NATION will rise up and say in unison:—"I delight to do Thy will, O my GOD: Yea, Thy law is within my heart."[4]

Delight, in doing the will of GOD and obeying His law, is the form of spiritual ecstasy enjoyed as a result of receiving the new heart, new mind and new spirit[5] of the new and better COVENANT. Let us pray that the whole NATION may proceed toward the enjoyment of this great experience of spiritual revolution during the coming year.

OBITUARY.

THE LATE REV. L. G. A. ROBERTS, COMMANDER, R.N.

IT is with heart-felt sorrow that we have to report the passing on of one of the veteran founders of the British-Israel-World Federation, Rev. Commander Roberts, R.N.

From childhood Commander Roberts has known and taught the great facts of British-Israel Truth. The entrance into this light on the Holy Scriptures, and on the British antecedents in Israel, and British destiny as Israel, was one of the first outstanding experiences of the veteran's life.

Commander Roberts was always a man of action, as the record of his life service makes clear.

Commander Roberts had a distinguished career in the British Navy, attaining the rank of Commander therein.

He left the service of the Master in the Navy and took upon him the responsibilities of the ordained Ministry of the Church of England.

He was ordained deacon in 1888, and priest in 1889, at Montreal, Canada. He served the Church in Canada until 1895, when he returned to England.

For several years Commander Roberts held the position of Secretary to the Protestant Reform League, after which he returned to the duties of parish work.

In the meantime the undertone of his ministry was preaching the full Gospel of the KINGDOM and of GRACE. He never halted in his testimony to the identity of Britain with the Israel of the prophecies, and taught that Britain was carrying out the predestined work of that Divinely-appointed nation. His authorship and books are well known to all British-Israelites. He was one of the founders of the present British-Israel-World Federation, and was early elected to be one of the two Deputy Presidents. Withpen and voice he has ever sent out the truth with no uncertain sound. He has been a faithful friend and wise adviser of all those who have been striving with him to prepare the way of the Lord.

He will be greatly missed in British-Israel circles, especially at Headquarters, and his memory will be kept green while his old associates and new friends remain.

A more full obituary will appear in a later issue.

A memorial service prior to the interment in London was held at St. James' Church, West Teignmouth. He was laid to rest beside his beloved wife in Richmond Cemetery on Wednesday, the 17th inst., Rev. Kenneth Dodds officiating. The funeral was attended by our President, Major James Knowles, O.B.E., and by many others of the Officers of the Federation and Headquarters' Staff. We mourn his loss sincerely and deeply. Also we glory in his Promotion.

DOES THE BIBLE STAND OR FALL WHEN TESTED BY SCIENCE, HISTORY AND PHILOSOPHY?—XVIII.

BY PROFESSOR EDWARD ODLUM, M.A., B.Sc.

THE DREAM OF THE CORN.

Genesis xli, 5:—"And he slept and dreamed the second time; and behold seven ears of corn came up upon one stalk, rank and good:

"And behold seven thin ears and blasted with the east wind sprung up after them:

"And the seven thin ears devoured the seven rank and full ears."

In this dream of the ears of corn there are three important points worthy of consideration.

First.—Corn means wheat in particular. In the English of the time of the King James Version, and down to very lately, the word corn meant grain, the cereals, such as wheat, oats and barley. Hence the English Corn Exchange, which has no relation to corn which we know of as maize or Indian corn.

Hence, let us fasten our minds on wheat as we read these verses.

Second.—We read that there were seven ears on one stalk in Pharaoh's dream.

Any farmer who raises wheat will tell you that only one ear grows on one stalk. Perhaps once in 100,000 times a farmer might find an ear of corn or wheat which has a twin head or ear, but to find two clearly separated ears on one stalk would be a most remarkably rare thing. To find two or three or more ears on one stalk is beyond knowledge of fact amongst farmers generally throughout the world.

And yet Pharaoh dreamed that he saw seven ears on one stalk.

Now for definite history! About thirty-five years ago, a man travelling in Egypt got some grain out of an Egyptian grave or sarcophagus, and sent some of it to a friend in the States. He planted it and it grew. He, in turn, gave some of the new crop to a farmer friend in British Columbia. He raised a considerable crop and I saw it in process of harvesting. On examination I found single stems on which were several ears, two, three, four and five. I searched, but found none with more than five ears to one stem.

Here in British Columbia, Canada, the writer found Egyptian wheat from the Nile Valley which survived for thousands of years the test of time. And lo! it gave from one to five ears of corn to the single stem or stalk.

Doubtless this dream of Pharaoh, like the dream about the cattle, was true to nature. In all probability it was rare, even then, to find seven ears of corn or wheat on one stem. The chief point here is this: The Bible story is found true to the processes of nature, and this is true, even when we, the Bible readers, do not know the facts of nature in the days of Joseph and Pharaoh 3,700 years ago.

Where are the farmers, the college men, the school teachers, doctors, lawyers, judges, politicians, statesmen and ministers, who at this moment, or during the last centuries, knew that wheat produced two to five ears of corn or wheat upon one stem?

And yet the writer fortunately knows this remarkable fact from having seen the actual product when matured.

How marvellous, how exact, how true in detail this wonderful old scientific Book, the Bible!

Third.—We read that it was "blasted with the east wind." Here, again, we have a revelation of a wonderful process of nature, truly scientific.

The "east wind" did the blasting. The north wind could not, for that wind brought the cool, moist winds southward from the Mediterranean Sea. Such a wind could not blast, burn or dry up vegetation, including the wheat crops.

In like manner the south wind could not, in those days, blast the wheat fields, for the good reason that such a wind would blow northward for hundreds of miles down the valley of the mighty river Nile, a valley richly covered with luxuriant vegetation of all kinds, including, at places, forests of tropical and semi-tropical cultivated trees.

Hence the south wind would not, and could not, blast the wheat crops; and hence the Bible story shows that Pharaoh dreamed a dream true to the processes of wind movements and conditions at that time.

The west wind, in those days, was modified by highlands and large areas of cultivated districts, and further, these winds were water-laden from the north-west areas of the Mediterranean. Hence the east wind naturally was the destructive wind of the Arabian and south-east desert areas, and was the one and only natural wind to present itself in Pharaoh's dream.

Digitized by Google

Now for a few words, specially written for any meteorological reader of these pages. In the northern latitudes, an east wind, reaching any given spot, must be considered a south-east wind in its travel preceding the time of its east-delivery at a given spot.

In like manner, a north wind at the moment of delivery has just previously past over an arc of a north-eastern circuit.

So with a west wind. It has a west-delivery upon a given spot, say as a field of wheat, but, just previously, its circuit was in the north-west. In the case of Egypt under consideration, the west wind comes from the Mediterranean Sea to the north-west.

The Nile Valley location, topographically, has a strong, modifying influence on the rich lands of the ancient Egyptian Delta.

The long, narrow, deep valley held the lower winds in leash, and forced them northward over a long distance, even though these winds had their origin in immediate precedence in the south-west.

Though hot and dry on reaching the Nile Valley, they, before deliverance in the farmland regions, would be cooled somewhat, and also somewhat water-laden.

Hence, from every standpoint, we see that the Bible story is true to the permanent, universal and specific, or locative operations of the Egyptian winds.

These above matters were carefully studied on the spot by the writer, who went to Egypt to study the Bible in relation to history and science.

How gloriously triumphant is our Holy Word! How exact! How Godlike!

THE SECRETARY-GENERAL'S NEWS AND NOTES.

NOTICE is hereby given that a meeting of the General Council of the British-Israel-World Federation will be held (D.V.) on Wednesday, January 21st, 1931, at 11.15 a.m., at Headquarters, 6, Buckingham Gate, London, S.W.1, for the transaction of general business. Several meetings of the Executive Committee of the B.-I.-W.F. have been held lately, to deal with the ever-increasing work connected with our fast growing Movement, and to consider a plan for a national campaign for the New Year.

* * *

The Secretary-General of the B.-I.-W.F.—Mr. Herbert Garrison—had a busy time last week in the North, with good meetings at Southport, Blackburn, Wigan, Liverpool and Preston. The keenest interest was manifested and new converts were made, some of whom had been opponents. The Secretary-General had a very cordial reception everywhere, and he was pleased to meet many old B.-I. friends and workers. He desires to express his gratitude to them all for their warm-hearted support, naming especially the Rev. E. A. Couldrey, Mr. S. E. Steele, Mrs. Attwood, Miss Newport, Mr. Horrocks, Alderman Dearden, Messrs. Wintersgill, Senior and Junior, and their families, Dr. and Mrs. Peddie and Mrs. Wood.

Mr. Garrison was greatly encouraged by the zeal, constancy and devotion of all members and friends to the sacred Cause for which we stand, and he was impressed with the good work of Rev. E. A. Couldrey and Mr. S. E. Steele.

* * *

A very enjoyable lantern lecture on the Pyramid has been given by Mrs. Bloxam to the Nailsea Branch, and the following day the Rev. Guy Waddington gave two of his most excellent lectures, greatly appreciated, especially in the afternoon, by a full room. On December 18th the Rev. Joseph Gay visited the Branch and addressed two good meetings.

* * *

Important concessions, it is learned, have just been granted to two Britons by the Palestine Government.

They have been given licences entitling them to the exclusive rights of prospecting for and exploiting copper and manganese deposits in the region of Akaba, the Red Sea port which is under the administration of Palestine.

It is estimated that these deposits may contain copper and manganese worth £25,000,000.

The weekly meetings at Headquarters will not be resumed until Wednesday, January 14th, when Mr. Basil Stewart will give a lecture on "The Present Crisis in the Light of Prophecy and the Great Pyramid," at 3 o'clock.

* * *

The Rev. Oliver Vince, B.A., B.D., lectured to the Harrow Branch on Friday, December 12th, on "The Standing Order of the Lord's Prayer," to an appreciative audience, who followed his very effective address with keen interest. Mr. E. H. Poole presided.

* * *

The Barrow-in-Furness Branch reports that five meetings have been held this session, the lectures being thoroughly appreciated by all present. There is every hope that this Branch has now become fully established.

* * *

We have received many letters from readers enquiring what action the Federation is taking in connection with the situation which has arisen over the opening of the Cinemas in many places on Sunday. Readers may be assured that the Federation has the matter in hand, and we hope to refer to it again in an early issue of this journal.

* * *

The Rev. G. W. Plasting lectured to the Stoke-on-Trent Branch on December 10th on "The Throne and the People." In the absence of Mr. Gresham Copeland, through illness, Mr. Ernest Patterson presided.

* * *

The Sheffield Branch will hold their Annual Tea and Social Evening on Wednesday, January 7th. Tickets, one shilling each, may be obtained from Mr. William Whitton, 34, Denham Road, Sheffield.

* * *

We deeply regret to record the death of Mr. Frank Atkins, of Sale, Cheshire, who passed away very suddenly from heart failure on December 6th. Mr. Atkins had been a member of the Federation for several years, and came to London to attend the Congress in October last. Our very sincere sympathy is extended to Mrs. Atkins and her family in their great loss.

The following interesting clipping from The Detroit Times of November 29th has been sent us by a reader :—

"GOOD BUSINESS ADVICE.
From the Prophet Isaiah.

The Bible is seldom thought of as a text-book on political economy. However, it contains a thought that seems especially applicable to the present business situation. The thought was uttered by the prophet Isaiah, and will be found in chapter xli, verses 6 and 7, of his book.

It reads :

"They helped every one his neighbour ; and every one said to his brother, 'Be of good courage.'

"So the carpenter encouraged the goldsmith, and he that smootheth with the hammer him that smote the anvil, saying It is ready for the soldering ; and he fastened it with nails, that it should not be moved."

Despite the quaintness of the language, one finds in that an idea that is as fitting to conditions in the year of our Lord 1930 as when Isaiah uttered it ages ago.

In a few words, Isaiah, who never dreamed of a motor car or an airplane or a radio, sums up what is wrong with our highly complicated industrial life, and suggests a remedy. He knew nothing of mass production, business cycles, agricultural over-production, or sales resistance. But he did know that each man was dependent on his neighbour, and that in times of stress there is no substitute for courage—and work.

All the business experts of to-day, with their reams of statistics and wise prognostications, have said nothing more to the point than that."

It is encouraging that at least one newspaper has been led to call people's attention to the eternal verities underlying the political and social economy of the Bible. Until the Anglo-Saxon Race as a whole recognizes this fact and returns TO GOD AND THE BIBLE, there is no hope of any improvement in present chaotic conditions.

LOST— A NATION; FOUND— AN EMPIRE

When anything of value is lost it is usual for the loser to advertise for it in the "Lost and found" column of the local newspaper, or to put a notice in a shop window or on the wall of a building. These notices always give a description of the lost article, so that the finder may be able to identify it. Generally a reward is offered, the more valuable the article the greater the reward.

And the reward? A clearer understanding of the Scriptures and of God's plan for the world as revealed in them; a proof of His faithfulness to His promises; and the knowledge that on us, as members of this mighty Empire, rest all the promises made to our fathers, not to be used for our own gain, but that we may become indeed a blessing to all the world.

This book is chiefly addressed to clergy, ministers and theological students. It should especially be read by all Christians who, through misconception, are fundamentally at variance with B.-I. teaching. Send it to your clergyman.

By an entirely new way of approach it opens up an essential aspect of the Divine revelation which no reverent mind can lightly put aside, nor any logical mind gainsay, viz., the revelation of a Triune God working out His purpose in and for the world, in and through His Triune Kingdom.

A Scottish Minister writes: "The threefold aspect of the Kingdom and indeed of all the manifestations of God is a matter of which I was aware, though dimly . . . Your book has developed the theme in directions I did not dream of. I have, and can have, nothing but praise for it."

THE EPISTLE TO THE ROMANS

The Epistle to the Romans

This great work presents the Epistle, in which St. Paul recites the primary bases of Christian Faith, in a light which is so new and so powerful that it throws into high relief the true meaning of all disputed passages. He allots the apostle the role of ethnologist and with the writer's own words proves beyond peradventure

the separateness of Israel from the Church, from the Jews, and from the world (kosmos) at the time of the writing of his epistle. Therefore the theory that Israel had been merged with the Jews, as some teach, or with the Church, as others teach, or with the non-Israel nations, as still others teach, must fall to the ground. Thirty years after the establishment of the Christian Church, and within ten years of the final scattering of the Jewish nation, the great apostle Paul declares Israel is still distinct, and still possessed of all the Israel Blessings and Covenants

The Epistle, read in the light of Mr. Goard's book, is a clarion call to Israel.

THE LAW OF THE LORD, OR THE COMMON LAW

Statesmen of every race and every tongue are seeking a system of government which will give security, establish peace—which is a final expression of ideal law-giving. Is there such a system?

This book demonstrates that such a system exists, and that that system is at the disposal of every nation.

It is the Common Law of the Anglo-Saxon Races.

When an alien race is brought under British rule it automatically comes under the Common Law of Britain; privilege of class is abolished; personal rule no longer holds sway.

When the Pilgrim Fathers set forth in the Mayflower to escape the personal domination of the Stuarts, next to the Word of God, the old Anglo-Saxon Common Law was their most cherished possession.

Yet the Anglo-Saxon Common Law is older than Anglo-Saxondom, older than Christianity itself. It had its first codification on Mount Sinai when the mouth of the Lord spake unto Moses.

There then is the PRINCIPLE, the root of the only system of laws which can succeed. Its amplification, its application in the form of constructive co-operation, to the needs of the present are all that statesmen need consider. The ideal system is ready-made for them.

Let every thinking man read this book.
