ALL THOUGHTS, ALL CREEDS, ALL DREAMS ARE TRUE,
   ALL VISIONS WILD AND STRANGE:
MAN IS THE MEASURE OF ALL TRUTH
   UNTO HIMSELF. ALL TRUTH IS CHANGE,
ALL MEN DO WALK IN SLEEP, AND ALL
   HAVE FAITH IN THAT THEY DREAM:
FOR ALL THINGS ARE AS THEY SEEM TO ALL
   AND ALL THINGS FLOW LIKE A STREAM.

THERE IS NO REST, NO CALM, NO PAUSE,
   NOR GOOD NOR ILL, NOR LIGHT NOR SHADE,
NOR ESSENCE NOR ETERNAL LAWS:
   FOR NOTHING IS, BUT ALL IS MADE.
BUT IF I DREAM THAT ALL THESE ARE,
   THEY ARE TO ME FOR THAT I DREAM;
FOR ALL THINGS ARE AS THEY SEEM TO ALL,
   AND ALL THINGS FLOW LIKE A STREAM.

"SIGNS AND WONDERS IN THE SKIES"

by Major W. Tudor Pole

(Abstract, from The Spiritual Healer for September, 1954. The BSR Director would express himself differently and on some points more decisively than does Major Tudor Pole, but the basic agreement with the "4-D" interpretation is of much interest. Similar support for the BSR view - point comes from the Biometric Analysis of the aeroforms (Archers' Court Research Group), referred to in our Clips & Quotes of Sept. 15, '54, No. C-6. We invite the attention of our readers to this increasing support, especially among English investigators - and expect it to continue in degree as the "etheric explanation" is understood). ml

"The following notes (writes Major Tudor Pole) are based on my own impressions of a very obscure but fascinating subject and are not, of course, an authoritative explanation of the "flying saucer" problem.

"I think it probable that phenomena of a semi-objective character have been appearing in the atmosphere and stratosphere around our planet for a very long time past. It would now seem, however, that these "signs and wonders" in the sky are becoming more objective in appearance and also more numerous.

"It must be remembered that it is only in our own generation (for the first time in human history so far as we know) that man has been in a position to explore at first-hand aerial conditions around this earth to a height of 50,000 feet or so. One result may well be, that human vision is becoming more acutely trained for such observations, and that many objects hitherto unnoted are now being sighted.

It seems to me fairly safe to say that the phenomena termed flying saucers, anyway in the objective 3-dimensional form, are unlikely to have travelled into our atmosphere from the surface of other planets in the 3-dimensional form in which they manifest themselves to human vision. The immense distances involved make belief in such voyages incredible unless time and space conditions as we know them can be made subject to a law at present beyond our ken.

It seems far more likely that these objects in the sky which seem to be capable of appearing and disappearing almost instantaneously, are materializations emerging temporarily into our time-space conditions from a 4-dimensional sphere, which according to occultists surrounds & penetrates our own material universe. Exactly how such "mat and demat" takes place must remain unknown to us until our knowledge increases as to exactly what are the differences between life lived in a 4-dimensional sphere and life lived within our 3-dimensional world of matter.

"It is probably true to say that we have some slight experience of 4-D conditions, because the activities of the human mind are largely 4-D and not subject directly to time-space conditions. Telepathy has proved the possibility of transmitting an idea from one mind to another, instantaneously, over any distance. This is not a function that can be related to 3-dimensional life as we know it.

'The emergence of the clairvoyant and clairaudient faculty is also something that lies beyond time-space conditions, and through this a more complete understanding of the transference of objects and forms from 4-D into 3-D conditions and vice versa should be gradually attained.

'Be this as it may, it seems to me far more likely that intelligences liv ing in an interior world interpenetrating our own, and of a 4-D character, are responsible for bringing about the emergence in our atmosphere of these aerial phenomena, and for a purpose not yet clear, than that these apparitions in their objective state as seen by us have travelled 3-dimensionally from distant planets and in exactly the same form as that in which they appear to us.

It may well be that we have upset a law of Nature by "splitting" the atom, and have set off a chain of reactions in both the etheric and visable atmosphere around this planet which in some way has tended to objectify many of the apparitions referred to, or even to have attracted toward our earth such phenomena. It is possible that intelligences responsible for these happenings belong to a higher evolution than that attained by the human race, and are taking steps to warn or protect us from possible results of our interference with natural law.

In view of what is attested as a fact by many initiates and seers, namely, that a new wave of spiritual illumination is now entering human consciousness, it is possible that there is some connection between this and the strange appearances in our skies. I think the beings responsible for these appearances will find means for making their purpose known, and that it will be found a beneficent one, provided we respond in a friendly manner.

NOT in a spirit of controversy at all, but for comparison and mutual information. let us restate the basic ideas of the "4-D" or "etheric" explanation:

We agree readily with Major Tudor Pole, that an increase in psychic sensitivity, plus a lively interest and some apprehension, has itself made possible many genuine sightings - as well as imaginary ones.

All, or nearly all of the "air-borne" objects are indeed materializations. But they were never "immaterial", because the ethers are also to be described as etheric matter. An etheric object is a material object in a vibratory rate or frequency which our senses do not respond to. It goes thru mat and demat by converting its vibratory rate - but all the ethers are 'material' and all matter as we know it is in a sense etheric. There is constant need for definition of terms.

Telekinesis and teleportation are factual phenomena observable on our own plane. Mat and demat are phenomena which usually accompany them.

The "air-borne" aeroforms (vs "landed" craft) are mutants and subject to rapid change of shape, size, color, and movement. This in itself indicates that they consist of a different kind of "matter" than we are familiar with, and subject to forces we cannot employ. "Landed" craft are temporarily non-mutant and stable. But all our metals and other substances have their etheric prototypes; there is an "etheric copper", steel, tin etc. If the vibratory rate of "etheric steel" is lowered, the steel becomes perceptible to us as the metal we are familiar with. If the rate is again converted the steel disappears - a demat from our point of view, but a mat or re-mat from the etheric standpoint.

The ethers differ in density, and these densities are enormous, up to millions of tons to the square inch. Because of this density they are (generalizing, of course) subject to the control of thought'energy'or 'thought-force'. An ether-ship or any other object can thus be constructed (or created) by an etheric entity (person), by thinking it into existence. It then exists or subsists as a thought-form, and a thought-form can be posited at any point in space (in any space-time reference frame). The etheric frequency used will conform to the density of its 'location'. If this frequency is converted to another rate, the object ('space-ship') will "emerge" into another space-time level or 'plane'. If it emerges onto our 3-D plane of perception, we will be able to see, hear, and touch the object.

An object created by thought is really and literally identical with its creator. Our own bodies are created by our minds, in every corpuscle and cell of them. They are materialized (slowly) by our minds. These huge material but mutant objects are in essence Chakras of living force; when they operate in our atmosphere they take shapes which are somewhat familiar to us (Discs, globes, cigar-shapes- even geometric figures). When the Etherian wishes to speak to us, he usually makes himself into a body like our own. How else should he do it? If he came as a giant, a God or a monster, borne on wings or fiery wheels, would he be more welcomed by us? Would his purposes be advanced by such tactics?

Once again - the great mutant shapes are thought-forms, projections of mind-force operating on etheric matter. The mutants are really living things.

But again too, the ever-present caveat: We do not "really" know what a 'Saucer' is, or a sand grain or a planet. The universe, we can well believe, swarms with life in every part. The true story of etheric worlds and people is beyond imagination,if such a phrase makes any sense. It seems quite possible that from such near-by regions as, say, the lunar orbit, small craft made of our-world stuff may visitus, and we may sometime visit them by similar means. But this is near-negligible compared to the major problem, of (say) some ten million 'ships' from "beyond the galaxies, beyond the Via Lactea." -- In what I have written here I think we have one or two syllables, from line 1, paragraph 1, page 1, volume 1 of Cosmic History, which nevertheless has NO page 1 and no ending at all.

"Man lives somnambulistically" writes Merrell-Wolff. "The whole purpose of his life is that he should awaken from his hypnotic slumber."

THE KEELY MOTOR

(by Assoc. Gaston Burridge)

On November 10, 1874, John Ernest Worrell Keely startled the world, especially the scientific world, by announcing he had discovered a 'New Force'. He demonstrated his 'vibratory generator', a machine said by him to run from this new force, to a dozen prominent Philadelphians in his home workshop-laboratory. From then on until his death, November 18, 1898, Keely was the center of a controversy which never was, nor probably ever will be, fully and finally settled. This, because Keely died with his 'secret' unrevealed to anyone - at least sufficiently, so further progress has been, or could be made with it since.

Keely and his motor ha d detractors, shading from mild sceptics to violent antagonists. He also had friends. Among his friends was Mrs. Clara Bloomfield-Moore, a wealthy widow of education and accomplishment, who not only provided Keely with funds for many years, but also wrote a great deal regarding his accomplishments and his theories. There is little doubt in my mind, that denied Mrs. Moore's assistance, Keely and his inventions would have died aborning.

It is recorded, Keely wrote extensively about his inventions and theories. If these writings were ever published, I have found no trace of them. It is quite evident that Mrs. Moore had full access to their manuscript form, for she quotes extensively from them in her own writings. We are deeply indebted to Mrs. Moore's writings today, for most of the 'pro' Keely information we have. If it were not for her published book, "Keely And His Discoveries", and her many published articles in magazines of that day, there would be little known of Keely's 'side' of his story.

John Keely was no fool. Even if one decides - after reading all the evidence - he was a fake, one must immediately credit him with being a near-genius. Studies of Keely's behaviour over the years certainly preclude his being insane - at least in the ordinarily accepted sense of the word's use today. Insane people do not conduct themselves as Keely conducted himself. It is true, there were many small things he could have easily done which would have eased much of the then current suspicion regarding his machines and work. Had he done them, it would have made his position much stronger today, would have made it much easier for us, sixty years later, to gather together a clearer picture of his true accomplishments. Why he did not accede to such minor requests is a puzzle, and with those who are inclined to call him a fake, his failure to have done so only adds fuel to an already brisk fire. Perhaps he had his reasons - and they may have been good ones.

If one does not believe there is such a thing as 'the ether', then, he can not believe John Keely was anything but a fraud, because Keely's motor was said, by him, to be powered by 'Etheric Force'. It does not appear to me - at least, at present - that Keely meant the same thing as the etheric force which B.S.R.A. writers discuss, because Keely said he gained his force from the 'disassociation of atoms of hydrogen and oxygen from the molecule of water'. He was not splitting the atoms, he was splitting the molecule of water. Of course, there is some force binding the two atoms of hydrogen and the atom of oxygen together. As I understand it, his apparatus would stop, when its supply of water was shut off or ran out. While he did not claim to have invented any sort of 'Perpetual Motion' machine, he did agree that if the supply of water were l a r g e enough, his engine would keep running until it broke down mechanically.

Keely's mechanism was set in motion - and could be stopped - by music. That is, the sounding of certain chords in proper relation to one another. For instance, by drawing a violin bow across a designated set of tuning forks, or plucking strings of a zither in proper sequence. There are some records which state a mouth-organ was also used. One of the things Keely's detractors say about this is, that he did not always play the same notes, in the same sequence, to obtain like results. No mention I have s e e n, even hints Keely might have also invented a 'code' of sounds by which to baffle his hearers and thus to hide his secret. Keely published a 'key' to his musical puzzle, but like so many keys, it has not 'unlocked' the door to his secret because it is not understood either. Like many esoteric matters, the key needs a key needs a key! Even large vault doors have several combinations, all of which must be unlocked before the door will open.

One of the difficulties Keely said he encountered was that of releasing this new force in quantities small enough to use with the means he was able to build. To release - or make - any large quantity was to endanger his own life. One source says Keely built a machine capable of producing 25 horsepower. I have not seen his machines, of course. The pictures I have of them are reproductions poorly made. But having spent most of my life associated with mechanics in one form or another, and knowing something of the history of materials available sixty years ago, and the amount of strain they would sustain per square inch of area, I am bound to say, I have seen nothing I believe would have supported or transferred anything like 25 horsepower of constant energy flow.

The scientists of Keely's day made their objections to his methods and means of demonstrating his new force, rather than to his theory such a force existed, and might be liberated. Those engineers and scientists who witnessed Keely's demonstrations declared he had not eliminated - to their satisfaction - factors already known, and 'proved', by which his machines could also operate. They said if he would remove these objections, and his machines still operated, they would accept his claims to have discovered a new force. Keely never saw fit to do this.

Between Keely's 'generator' and his motor was a wire. This wire was claimed by Keely to be 'solid'. Others, through 'hunch' or otherwise, said it was a 'tube'. They asked Keely to remove it from its fasten - ings, clip or saw a short piece from its ends in the presence of designated individuals. Keely would never accede to this request.

Keely was verbose, both in lectures and written compilations. Not only did he use a great many words, but he used many of them in new and strange ways, their meanings not to be found in dictionaries of that day. Engineers and scientists had no objection to coinage of new words or phrases, nor using old words in new ways. They were doing it themselves, for scientific and mechanical development was astride a mount of increasing speed. What they asked Keely to do was to present them with a 'glossary' of terms in order that they might know what he was talking about. Keely never did this.

As far as I have been able to find, no complete description of Keely's apparatus was ever published - even after his death. If one had the machines in front of him, a complete description would require many pages of text. From reproductions of photographs we can gather, a few outside 'facts' may be glimmered. It would appear there were several 'rotary' machines, or combinations of machines, during the twenty-four years before Keely's death. He also built other types, these to demonstrate his new force, but not by reproducing it in rotary motion.

His 'generator or transmitter' seemed essential to all forms of Keely's apparatus. It stood on a pedestal about three feet high, on a heavy glass plate. Around its base was a row of 'spines', or metal spikes of different diameters and different lengths, these spiraling its circumference. The pedestal was contrived to rotate by hand, on this base. Upon the pedestal's top end was centered the side of a drum having metal bars around its side perimeter. Its outside appearance was something like that of an armature of a present day electric motor. From each of these bars, and radiating toward a center shaft, around the two drum ends, were small, round metal wires of different lengths. The center shaft extended beyond the enclosed front face of the drum. From this shaft's outer extremity, hung a metal ball on a small metal rod. This paralleling the pedestal, but about fifteen inches from it. The ball hung just below the circumference of the drum, and out from it eight or nine inches. On top of this same shaft was a four or five-inch metal ring, in line with the lower ball and facing the drum's end. The rear of the drum was like the front, without the extended center shaft holding the ball and ring. From this face, near the bottom of the drum, came the 'wire' connection which led to the motor. What mechanism was inside the drum remains undescribed, but mentioned as 'complicated'.

Of the several motors developed by Keely, the 'globe motor' and the 'provisional engine' seem to be the ones most often demonstrated. Because the globe motor is the least complicated, thus requiring fewer words, I will roughly describe it.

A heavy, circular, open-centered base ring rested on a thick glass slab. Two substantial uprights of metal, at the base's diameter supported two heavy bearings. Through these bearings ran a metal shaft of about two or two and one-half inches in diameter. On the shaft, and inside these bearings, was a metal ball of about fifteen to eighteen inches in diameter, the shaft at its axis diameter. This large ball was

'free' on the shaft. That is, it was not attached to the shaft, but was free to turn upon it. Around the 'equator' of this ball, and at right angles to the base and the shaft, and centering both the upright bearing supports, was a three-inch wide band of metal of some thickness which completely encircled the ball, but did not touch the ball's circumference by about two inches. This band around the ball's equator was fastened to the base.

What was inside the ball or the centering equatorial band was never described.

The ball spun on the shaft at a 'rapid rate of speed'. Keely claimed that after the ball had attained its required speed, the shaft could be removed from the center of the ball, and the ball would continue to spin within the metal equatorial band, held there by the force. There is no report of this point ever having been demonstrated that I can find.

What made Keely's apparatus function? Investigations conducted after his death were supposed to have 'proved' compressed air ran the motors, and it was the New Force which operated all Keely's equipment. However, it should be borne in mind, these 'after death' investigations were made with only part of the apparatus present. It is reported, a friend of Keely's from Boston removed several important pieces of equipment to Boston, immediately after Keely's death, and before the investigations took place. Too, the investigators found much burned material, or remains of equipment and material which appeared to have been hastily burned.

There is another explanation for Keely's success - and for his failures. His success in making his apparatus run - his failures in being able to tell anyone else how it did so, or how they could do it. That was probably why he never applied for a patent - why he refused to answer certain direct questions put to him by the court, and why, because he refused to answer, he was placed in jail for contempt of court. Keely couldn't answer, because he didn't know! Keely's motor was a 'self motor', a motor which ran because he, through some yet unknown means, possessed the necessary requirements of 'mind over matter' to make it run! For nearly twenty-five years, I believe, Keely diligently tried to learn his own secret. He could make his machinery work, but he didn't know why it worked, nor why he could make it so behave.

Very probably, Keely could make any one of his machines operate while he was in close proximity to it, but could not do so at any distance from it. It seems quite probable Keely learned these things early in his experience, and along with seeking the reasons, he was keen enough to conduct his affairs in such a manner as to derive some personal benefit from his peculiar ability.

It has been estimated Keely collected and spent well over $300,000 in his researches and experiments - and remember, these dollars were dollars of the late 1800's, not of the 1950's!

Some day, perhaps we all shall know. Until then, each of us must guess for himself.

- TREATMENT AND CURE OF CANCER --

- A Summary by -

Estella DeFord Graham, BSRA

"IS CANCER CURABLE?", various opinions, suggestions, and diets both orthodox and unorthodox compiled by Health Research, Box 461w, Pasadena 18-M, Calif., (112 pages, $1.00; three for $2.00.) This symposium adequately covers the field. Kirstene Nolfi, M.D., of Denmark, who cured himself and others of cancer with a raw food diet reports his work. Cyril Scott has a chapter. The speech of Chas. Toby, Jr., in which he reports being cured of cancer of the second most deadly type,by Dr. Lincoln, and his subsequent efforts to aid Dr. Lincoln in getting recognition is reprinted, as is the Benedict Fitzgerald report ordered by Senator Tobey and now suppressed by Senator Bricker. Space is given to the Lincoln and Hoxsey methods of treatment and some mention is made of Dr. Max Gerson, who has successfully treated some cases of cancer by diet alone. Passing mention is made of the Drosnes-Lazenby Clinic of Pittsburgh, Penna., where internal cancer is being treated with success with a mold. In the effort to quote everyone who ever had a thought on cancer, this book has become cluttered, but it contains much valuable material, such as the reprint of Expose's article on the A.M.A., a very hot item and one no longer available elsewhere.

"NEW CURES FOR OLD AILMENTS" (128 pgs., $1.00- The Defender, Wichita, Kansas.) This is a big dollar's worth. A short article on the Koch treatment is followed by comprehensive coverage of the Lincoln and Hoxsey methods and the amazing conspiracy to suppress these treatments.

The Lincoln Treatment consists of a bacteriophage which is inhaled or used as a gargle, and which enters directly into the blood stream. "Bacteriophages are not new, although most of them have been thera - peutically useless. The New Art embodied in this research is adequate to be granted a basic patent."

Life magazine for March 17, 1952, noted that more than 6,000 patients had by then been treated with the Lincoln antibiotics. This treatment is now being given in most of the 48 states and can be given by any doctor. For a more conservative statement than that given in "New Cures For Old Ailments", write the Lincoln Foundation, 309 High Street, Medford 55, Mass., for their free leaflet entitled "Statement of Policy Pertaining To The Research Program of the Lincoln Foundation, etc."

"Marked success has been achieved in upper respiratory infections, superficial, or skin lesions (impetigo), gastro-intestinal infections, foci of infections (sinuses, teeth, gall bladder, etc.,) Various infections in which staphylococci are a primary and/or secondary invader and in other apparently unrelated disease states." "The Foundation makes no claim and never has, that the 'phage-lysate therapy is or has been a "cancer cure". It is true that all observers have noted a marked palliative effect (relief of pain, nausea, vomiting, weakness, etc.) In a few x-ray evidence shows regression over a period of time. The 'phage-lysate therapy has been applied in a tentative and empirical and on a limited scale in arthritis, multiple sclerosis, diabetes, mellitus, and in certain types of malignancy. Favorable results call for further intensive study." (Quoted from Lincoln Foundation leaflet).

The Hoxsey Method remains the best cancer cure yet, but the Lincoln 'phage-lysates have cured cases of blindness, deafness, hemorrhoids, asthma, cancer, sinusitis, etc. This bacterio-phage works where penicillin and sulfas fail. Here is a great step forward in medical history. Do get this material into the hands of your nearest osteopath.

"Man's" magazine (August, 1953) published an illustrated article on the amazing work at the Hoxsey Cancer Clinic, and in poured a flood of 15,000 letters and 1,000 telephone calls from readers in all parts of the United States, Canada, Alaska, Hawaii, Mexico, and other countries. Just one year later "Man's" magazine sent a reporter to seek out seven persons who had been given up to die of cancer, and who, as a result of reading the article ha d gone to the Hoxsey Clinic and had been cured. The touching stories of these seven were published in the August 15, 1954, issue of the magazine referred to.

One case reported is that of a five-weeks' old baby who, having a lump in his abdomen, was cut open, sewed up, the verdict being "un - operable - death in two months." At seven weeks he became the Hoxsey Clinic's youngest patient ever. The parents were poor, and no payment was accepted by the Clinic. Today he is one year old and well. Another case is that of H. K. Hill, M.D., 62 years old, of LaVerne, Oklahoma, who had resigned himself to death. Having been shown "Man's" magazine, and his life already being forfeit, he went to the Hoxsey Clinic, and is today completely well, has resumed his practice, and works his farm. He has sent two of his relatives to the Hoxsey Clinic.

Ten doctors, all cancer specialists from ten different states, all with M.D. degrees, visited the Hoxsey Clinic, spending two days going over the 48-room building, checking records and interviewing patients who had remained free of cancer after four years. On April 12, 1954, they unanimously signed a statement which praises the three doctors in charge, comments on the latest in modern clinical equipment for preparing blood tests, urinalyses, serology, blood chemistry, bacteriology and pathology. Their report states: "This Clinic now has under treatment or observation between four and five thousand patients. It handles approximately ninety patients per day. Approximately 100 new patients per week come to the Clinic seeking relief, and the evidence we have seen indicates that approximately 90 per cent of these are terminal cases. Over the years the Clinic has accumulated more than 10,000 case histories, photographic studies and x-ray studies of patients.

"We as a committee feel that the Hoxsey treatment is superior to such conventional methods of treatment as x-ray, radium, and surgery.

"We are willing to assist the Clinic in any way possible in bringing this treatment to the American public. We are willing to use it in our offices, in our practice on our own patients when, at our discretion, it is deemed necessary.

"The above statement represents the unanimous finding of this committee. In testimony thereof we hereby attach our signatures."

Reporters were present when the report was read, material was prepared and given out to the press, radio and television. All this was suppressed - as seems to be one of the American ways of handling such situations.

Reprints of this report may be had free from the Hoxsey Cancer Clinic, 4507 Gaston Ave., Dallas 10, Texas. Some reprints of the "Man's" magazine 1954 article are also available.

The Defender Magazine prints in each issue articles on the Lincoln and Hoxsey Treatments. The Defender is Fascist, Fundamentalist, and Isolationist. I clip out the Lincoln and Hoxsey material, and burn the rest; but know of no other place to get the same material.

"The Fitzgerald Reports 1 and 2." - No. 1 is available from the Defender, at Wichita, Kansas, for 10¢. When Senator Toby got the loan of Benedict Fitzgerald from the Justice Department and put him to work getting evidence on the suppression of cancer cures and the racket that many cancer funds are, he had the lion by the tail. Unfortunately Senator Tobey died just as Mr. Fitzgerald prepared his report, and Senator Bricker is a mouse (or is it a rat), and no lion tamer. Mr. Fitzgerald in his second report states that Hoxsey in 1924 was given an supposedly incurable case of cancer to treat. Successful, he was told by Drs. Harris and Fishbein, heads of the A.M.A., to turn over his formula and in ten years he would receive 10%! His refusal has led to an all-out effort to ruin him.

History repeats -- Dr. Ivy, who had served on the board of the A.M.A., and who was doing research work on the drug Krebizon, with marked suc - cess in some types of cancer, was approached by the two heads of the A.M.A. and offered surreptitiously two and one half million dollars to turn the Krebizon formula over to two drug manufacturing firms. His refusal led to his ousting from the A.M.A., and also from the University of Illinois, and a campaign of vilification began and still continues. Senator Tobey met with the board of the University of Illinois, Dr. Ivy was reinstated, and the head of the University who ousted Dr. Ivy was removed. Remember, this is not hearsay, but the report of a top-flight investigator who, because of it, no longer has a job with the Justice Department. Now, whenever and wherever the A.M.A. sticks its snout out it meets the legal fist of Mr. Fitzgerald. He has recently dealt them an upper-cut in New Hampshire and in Pennsylvania. May God put power in his punch.

Expose', 225 Lafayette Street, New York 12, N.Y., ($2.00 for eleven months - $3.00 for twenty-two months) seeks no advertising, has no angels, accepts no contributions. Completely independent, it supports itself by subscriptions, and publishes articles other papers and magazines dare not publish for fear of pressure-group reprisals, or advertising cancellations. Back issues, five for $1.00, include No. 19 Cancer Research, No. 17 Winchell Revisited, No. 16, Catholic Action, No.(?) Charles Tobey, Jr., on Cancer, No. 22 Thugs Blackjack Editor. Expose' has an anti-religious bias and is immature in that field. Its reprint on the A.M.A. is sold out.

Cancer is systemic, no cancer was ever cured by surgery or radium. If a cure resulted, it was not cancer. The whole system must be cleared of the poisons. When lymphatic circulation is good, this generally can be done. Hoxey and others can cure cancer, but who can deal with the running sore in the body politic called the A.M.A.?

Dr. George Hunt Williamson, Director of Soulcraft Research Laboratories, writes us concerning the Hunrath-Wilkinson glyphs, found in Mr. Hunrath's room after his disappearance. These symbols, writes Dr. Williamson, "came from me and my researcher, and a complete set of them is included in my new book. I would like your readers to know where they came from and what they are. FATE magazine misinterpreted them but I think H.T. Wilkins is close to the answer. They are related to Lemuria, etc. . ." We have printed quotes from this letter at more length in Clips & Quotes of September 15 last.

William Dudley Pelley's VALOR of September 4, 1954, prints a lengthy quotation from the Probert Control Yada Di Shi'ite, with very commendatory comments. This material was issued as a current release by the BSRA, and was recorded by tape or stenographic means as given by the Control. VALOR will print the remainder of the transcript in a later issue.

We call attention to an elaborate book list issued by THE BOOK EXCHANGE; 2643 North 33rd St., Philadelphia, Penna. This firm also supplies all needed material for study of the aura by visual means.

After many delays we can now supply the second and improved printing of THE COMING OF THE GUARDIANS - a compilation of the principal statements made by the Probert Controls concerning the Aeroforms during the last eight years. Important material and in a "class by itself". 7 x 10", 65 pgs., mimeographing of professional quality. ($3.00).

Biometric Analysis of the "Saucer" Photographs is published by Archer's Court Research Group, Archers' Court, Hastings, England. Price not stated. Important research, somewhat technical. See our CQC-C-6. The Aura Biometer instrument can also be obtained from this group: (5/12/6 d).

The BSR Director has made slight changes in this LETTER RECEIVED, sufficient to protect the identity of the writer, but not affecting the basic ideas.

Dear Friend M.L.

I wish to make a suggestion in a spirit of helpfulness and without ill-feeling toward any group of people themselves. I think it is absolutely necessary that you hint in your reports of contacts that people have, or claim to have with 'Saucerians', whether the persons making the reports belong to or are closely associated with any of the great religious organizations. . . I am personally sure that an attempt is now being made, or will be made, to infiltrate BSR information. On the radio I heard that children are writing on New York sidewalks: "Martians go home - we don't want you here."

This is not purely guess-work. Although man is a compound idea, and in this solar system would most certainly look like us, there is no reason to believe he would have the same form in other solar systems. However, I had a chat with (a well-known English writer and investigator) concerning the Canadian Sarza story. In his own words: "there is a powerful interest in back of this "Unspeakable" story. To these great space Beings, for a man to say, 'believe this or be damned', is downright evil.

There is a group of about 50 of us here, who meet twice monthly, including doctors and engineers andsome of the most highly trained people in our city. We are much concerned with the report that the government is planning more war games with atomic weapons. We are told indirectly by another group of investigators, that: 'This will compound the damage already done ... we are greatly concerned with what action the Etherians will take, if any'. In view of the fact that 219 UFO's were spotted near Redding, Calif., last Friday (Sept. 10), in a 24-minute period, I think any advice from your sources would be of great interest to our group.

The writer of the above letter also includes a (mimeo) statement by the astronomer Rolf Brahde (Norway), concerning the Bjornulf film. of 'saucers' seen during the eclipse. Dr. Brahde calls these 'an unexplainable phenomenon ... not due to reflexes, or to any failure of the lens - not meteorites or any form of flash light ... I cannot give any explanation.'

The 'saucers' referred to by Dr. Brahde "have dragon-shaped tails". He describes them as "some sort of emissions in the stratosphere", and believes that they "receive energy from the sun."

"SAUCERS AND SCIENTISTS"

(By Harold H. Fulton, President, C.S.I., New Zealand: from Australian Flying Saucer Magazine) *

I am convinced that flying saucers are factual interplanetary vehicles controlled by an advanced intelligent race.

For seven years I have followed the reports of mysterious aerial happenings and endeavored to obtain as much recorded data as possible, from all sources. I have read carefully through the ever increasing number of scientific explanations, including the most prolific to date, that of Professor Menzel. In all these I have not been able to find an answer to this riddle that can approach the now popular notion that the saucers are real, solid, and intelligently controlled extra-terrestrial craft.

These unidentified ships of the air have been reported by thousands of reliable witnesses from every nation. You are perhaps most aware of reports from your own country, U.S.A., and most recently, England. I can state with absolute truth that there have been just as many, if not more cases reliably reported in France, New Zealand, South Africa, Portugal, Japan, Korea, India, New Mexico, Norway, Sweden, Canada - in fact there seems to be no place where they have not been seen.

How can scientists brush off such affirmative and positive proof? ... Highly skilled operators and specialists of electronics , both from the armed forces and civilian enterprise, have watched with utter astonishment the amazing performance of mysterious craft on the screens of their radar sets. There are scores of reports of their having been seen by groups, crowds and whole townships of people in broad daylight. Groups of observers have watched them for periods of three to four hours in broad daylight. Many astronomers have seen similar objects through their telescopes.

Some scientists who try to 'debunk' the case are as ignorant of the facts and recorded information as they claim the masses are of scien- procedures. If this is not so, it must be that such scientists automatically classify the unsolved cases as the work of absolute liars, hoaxers, and opportunists. . . Skilled aviators have met the craft at close quarters in the air . . . Data on a series of mysterious airplane disasters strongly suggest collision with unknown heavy bodies. Prof. A.B.C. Lovell of Manchester University gives a good measure of approval to Professor Menzies book - but the U.S.A.F. Committee reported that 'the book was beautifully written but did not explain the flying saucers! . . I am of the absolute opinion that the majority of bluffers, humbugs and story-tellers are among the officials and scientists who continue to pour out their time-worn 'explanations... It is an insult to 20th century intelligence to brush off the testimony of thousands of reliable witness as "nonsense".

NOTE: The foregoing article, from the AFSM of March 1954, runs to some three pages of small print and has been condensed for RR printing. Address the AFSM at 3 Ferguson Ave.,Fairfield, New South Wales, Australia. Single copies, USA, 25¢. Recommended to all BSR Associates.

We continue with various short items from the Australian Flying Saucer Magazine:

Columnist Robert S. Allen reported in Dec. 1953, that six countries besides the USA had official investigations under way concerning the UFO, and that efforts to fathom the mystery were increasing in the US and abroad. "Rumours about space-ships will neither be confirmed now wholly rejected.".

(In the Fall of 1946, the BSR Round Robin reported a huge 'space-ship' over the San Diego area. This was the night of the meteor shower, and the craft was first reported to the present writer by the well-known medium Mark Probert, who watched it from the roof of an office building. His report was corroborated by some 35-40 other witnesses and a small booklet was issued covering the matter. This of course was treated with ridicule when it received any attention at all, but since the verification was satisfactory, inquiry was made of the Probert Controls (deep trance mediumship).

(These Controls, after a few days, gave their interpretation of the object observed, forecast a long series of such phenomena, and described them as etheric craft under the control of highly evolved 'space beings', some of whom were the 'Guardians' known to the ancients. This initial explanation has been elaborated in the past eight years, but has not been basically altered. It was then, and still remains the only interpretation of the whole mass of phenomena now being 'investigated'; it makes good metaphysics and sound thinkable science as well. All subsequent phenomena can be subsumed under this explanation and approached from this angle. To this day, apart from this "Etheric" or "4-D" interpretation there is not a single satisfactory analysis and description of the nature and meaning of this "visitation"... And let us make it clear, that this "4-D" account which we have detailed in many booklets and minor publications, is not invented or discovered by this writer and his associates. It is not a metaphysical fantasy, but a hard factual accounting, given us by highly intelligent excarnate humans on the 'other side of life'. The BSR Associates do not claim credit, but only a great privilege in the receipt of vital information, which will some day be accepted, and in the selfless cooperation of the gifted medium named above.

(This publication, Round Robin, is of course directed primarily to the interest of BSR Associates - hence we may with propriety make such statements as the foregoing. But (equally, of course) all information we have is at the disposal of informed and receptive inquirers). ML

A.F.S.M. ITEM: Berri, near Adelaide, So. Australia. "Residents were frightened and mystified by an "unusual animal", described as being six feet long, with an odd-shaped head and big eyes, and a scaly - backed body tapering to a long tail which "hissed at them" from a tree, in which it clung with its tail twisted about a branch. It was described as being "like an animal from another world." (Maybe it was).

THE FARMINGTON AFFAIR:

This extraordinary affair has been casually and briefly reported to the American public - yet almost without effect. Its substantiation is complete and easy, and would have ended all controversy about the actuality or 'factuality' of the UFO - but proof is almost impossible when it is not wanted. Farmington is a township of about 5000 residents, and the Las Vegas (N.M.) OPTIC of March 18, 1950 carried an 8-column story about what happened there. It described:

. . . - a mad flight of disc-shaped objects rushing across the sky in solid waves. They were definitely disc-shaped and tended to flutter. The actual number was estimated at more than 500. They were silver-colored, except for one that was red. This one was 'slower than the others',but 'passed from horizon to horizon' in about three seconds. It was about twice the size of a B-29 bomber. "The objects flew sideways, on edge, & at every conceivable angle, and made many right-angle turns. At least half of the residents of Farmington saw all this; the objects were also seen on the same day in Las Vegas, So. Carolina, and Peru. The Daily Optic concluded its article by saying:

"The American population is not composed chiefly of children or idiots. Many of us are adults who are willing to embrace new concepts of time and space. Attempts to keep the public in the dark invariably have hurt the general welfare. It is high time for the government of the U.S. to cast aside evasion and secrecy . . ."

Our readers can decide for themselves whether the situation has improved, with regard to "evasion and secrecy" during the last four years.

"There's quite a bit of talk about the saucers being interdimensional instead of interplanetary - or both. This is a fairly sound idea, in view of General Samford's statement in Washington that the saucers are some kind of natural phenomena unfamiliar to us, the interdimensional theory would stack up pretty good."

This is from Mrs. C.E. Lorenzen, Director of a research set-up at Sturgeon Bay, Wis. - writing in their APRO Bulletin. The idea is indeed "fairly sound" - provided interdimensional means to her what it does to us. An idea of this sort is one more straw in the wind favoring the BSR way of thinking. (But let's all be careful about getting "metaphysical" and hence into the zoo).

Mrs Lorenzen also reported, in March 1954, that analysis of the gold-colored sediment around the edges of a hole made in a steel billboard in New Haven, (Conn.). shows the substance to be mainly copper. Copper is not found in meteors. It has been found in fireball residues (which are not meteors). The copper was in a molten state at the time of impact, according to chemists who did the analysis.

- COMMENTARIUM -

RAMA KA LAO:

In 1946 I was called upon to give some ideas about the bird in the sky, and I gave you the name Kareeta for it, which is God-Man-in-Flight. Since then you have witnessed a vast variety of similar manifestations. I am making no predictions of imminent disaster to your world, yet the period of growth of your civilization is now on its descending arc. It has passed its apex, it enters on its decline. So, these Guardians of your earth and of the solar system have made their appearance - as they have done on many other occasions, greater and lesser, in the past -for the purpose of studying the earth and the solar system.

Back of all this is the fact my colleagues have spoken of before - the expansion of the universe - the increasing separation of the island universes. Now this is disturbing the balance of forces, the gravitational thrust or pull, the orbit of the earth is affected. The nutation of your globe, its nodding and wobble are affected. It is not the accumulation of polar ice in itself which is affecting the inclination of the axis, but this weight comes into play as the gravitational forces change. When the actual tipping of the pole takes place the earth will enter upon its new - and last - Ice Age.

Your globe and other celestial bodies will run into great clouds of stellar debris. Some of this debris is almost certain to fall as showers of fiery matter. It is likely that the Moon will change to a new face - the dark side will become the visible one. Immense upheavals will take place upon the Moon.

Too much static electricity will bombard your earth (RKL means cosmic rays. ml). These come from the stars (suns), some of which, as you know, are of enormous size and hence send out a tremendous radiation. In place of the ultraviolet rays you will be receiving the infra-red (heat rays); this is because of the recession of the celestial bodies (RKL is referring to the 'red shift'.ml). This increase in temperature will work upon the polar ice caps and affect the balance of the earth. Theearth is held by an alignment of forces between the earth and the Moon (i.e., in part); there is a line of pressure (etheric pressure or gravity. ml) which must give way. It may give way slowly or suddenly. When it does the globe will tip.

An event which takes place slowly according to your earth-time may appear to us or others in another time-frame to be quite sudden; again it may seem much more sudden to you than to us. (A fact to be reckoned with in evaluating predictions from the 'other side'. ml).

(Question about the "New Age"). A New Age? Yes. But it can follow only on the death of the present world civilization. There must be an end and an uprooting. One does not build a new house with rotted timbers.

THE YADA DI'
SHI'ITE

There is eternal change and shifting of all bodies over vast periods of time. Yet when bodies are set in special alignment (as the sun, moon, and earth) they seldom suffer any sudden change. Cosmic changes take place over millenia. Changes now taking place appear at the time to be slow, but from another time-scheme they may seem to be very fast.

Yet certain effects should be perceived by you even now. During the last hundred years the 'wobble' of the earth has increased. The changing effect of gravity on the ethers and hence on the earth, releases internal pressures of the globe. The increased nutation of the earth also affects its structure and the movement of earth-masses. Earthquakes, changes of climate and weather, violent storms - it is not difficult to understand how all these things are tied in together, and how all relate to changing conditions of thecosmos - the expansion of the island universes.

(Question: concerning the "monster" near Sutton, W.Va.,seen by two adults and five boys and widely reported in the press):

"This monster was a mechanical thing. It may have been made fearful to look at, simply to discourage interference. The two small blue beams were mechanical eyes; they were rays penetrating the earth used for purposes of investigation, for chemical analysis.

"The horrible smell came from heated metal. From metals like yours yet different - different in molecular arrangement.

"When one of the Discs lands, you find it made of metal resembling your own yet with special qualities. You will find apparatus, dials etc. inside of it. These things, when they do not contain an operator, are controlled by light; they are controlled mechanically from the mother ship. This is connected with the changing colors about them. These craft while in operation have no weight, hence they can perform any movement, at any speed. If you can learn to alter the molecular structure of some light metal, then and then only can you equal the discs. And you must have a shield against cosmic radiation - something better than a lead shield 15 feet in thickness, now necessary to preserve life in space beyond the ionosphere. The people of the discs have achieved these things.

"I want to say that these many small flying objects are guided by consciousness, by will, but not by the consciousness of anyone or any - thing inside them. There is apparatus inside of them, for scientific observation and report. But the "remote control" is a projection of the mind, the psyche of an operator in another place. There is consciousness inside of them, but not a person for you to find. Students of occult matters know about this type of consciousness projection.

"Most of the visitors you see now come from etheric Venus. But many have come from Sagitarius - where there are beings much like yourselves. There is no human life as you understand it, on Mars. Venus - the visible Venus - is much too hot for human life. But in other planetary systems there is humanlike life.

"The Sagitarians have much less blood than you. It is a thin watery blood, a pale skin. The lung tissue is of like nature

(Question: about bomb tests off Australia):

"A hydrogen bomb has been detonated in the waste lands of Australia- but none over or near water.

"The alleged germ warfare in Korea - no such attacks have been made. But cases of strange sickness appeared. These were brought about by some of the Etheric people in their effort to combat the Black Forces. The leaders in Red China observed this sickness, could do nothing with it, but seized on it for propaganda and charges of germ warfare. The diseases arise also from the terrible mental conditions of the soldiery, the bad living conditions, lack of all sanitation etc.

"The lines on Mars are fissures. From the moon, your Grand Canyon would look that way.

"From the moon the earth is a green ball with white polar regions. Your great deserts also look white when the sun strikes them at certain angles.

"The moon did not originate as part of the earth, nor was it thrown off by the sun. It was an accretion in space, formed when it was needed.

"Long ago there was another moon, a smaller one, which broke into fragments. Part of these bombarded the earth.

"It is very likely that there will be outbreaks of strange diseases in different parts of the world, with which your doctors can do even less than with diseases you now have. They will be occasioned by general atmospheric and etheric changes. You should expect mental breaks in many places. (The Yada means psycho-physical and pathological 'waves', epidemic and endemic; these conditions may be mild, or extremely serious).

NOTE: With reference to Rama Ka Lao's comment ('one does not build a new house with rotted timbers'): It seems to be the general opinion among the 15 members of the Inner Circle communicating through Mark Probert, that before a new race and a new Age can emerge, present humanity will have to be removed from the scene - not necessarily but possibly through a series of natural catastrophes.

One reason many are slow to agree with this, is that the remarkable achievements of science and technology have cast such a gaud and glamour over our age, we feel that a magnificent future is surely opening before us. Yet there is every reason to believe that long-vanished races possessed a science equal, if not superior to our own. It did not preserve them from the dust of oblivion. Five times, these Communicators insist, all human life has been destroyed on our planet. Between these great events, in the course of more than a billion years, innumerable races and civilizations have flourished, and boasted of their achievements, their permanence, and the splendor of their future. Are we otherwise than they? But there is no cause for fear and lamentation, in beholding and accepting these vast processes of the Cosmic Life.

"A BRIEF TREATISE ON THE RUSSELL COSMOGONY"

A New Concept of the Universe, by Walter Russell

- Review by Mark L. Gallert -

Walter Russell, one of the great genius-thinkers of our time, has ably analyzed certain fallacies in the laws of Newton and Kepler. He has shown how these laws grew out of observations of our senses, and did not take into account the illusions which so often can deceive our sense perceptions. (To mention just one of these illusions, the appearance of rail - road tracks apparently converging in the distance until they appear to meet.)

The mysteries of light, gravitation, magnetism and electricity become far less mysterious when viewed from the standpoint of Russell's brilliant analyses. By starting with corrected laws of the behavior of matter and energy, Russell arrives at a beautifully integrated concept of light, matter and energy which explains much that is currently unexplainable by orthodox science. The conclusions have a vast range of applicability, from the life cycle of an individual to the growth and decay of solar systems. The validity of the Russell concepts has enabled them to predict successfully, the outcome of new experiments in gas transmutations performed with the assistance of such prominent industrial concerns as the Westinghouse Lamp Company and the Union Carbide Company.

The "Brief Treatise" of 96 pages and a 28-page diagram section, is essentially a condensation of basic principles which are more fully discussed in a Study Course of 935 pages and 182 diagrams, published by the Walter Russell Foundation. Packed into the "Brief Treatise" is such a large quantity of thought-provoking material, that it is virtually impossible to give a comprehensive idea of the scope of the work, within the small space available for a book review.

One of the author's many important themes, is that Newton's Law of gravitation - matter attracting matter - tells only half of the story, and leads to fallacious conclusions. Russell shows that at all times in our Universe there are in operation two opposing forces - one of these forces manifests as gravitation, and this force also manifests as compression, heat, polarization and charging - while the opposite force manifests as radiation - and also as expansion, cooling, de-polarization, and discharge. The operation of these two opposing forces in many different fields is shown, including the cycle of birth, growth, and decay and death. Matter attracts matter only during the compression half of the cycle, where the gravitational or centripetal force is paramount. During the expansion half of the cycle, when the radiational or centrifugal force is paramount, matter repels matter. Russell mentions that if Newton had stayed to watch long enough the apple which fell to earth, he would have seen it disintegrate into gases which rose away from the earth. Newton's law poses a One-Way Universe - Russell outlines a Two-Way Universe- - the result of balance between two opposing forces.

The functions of the universe are controlled by polarity, and Russell discusses two sets of poles - the North-South magnetic poles, which con - trol the gravitational or compressive force, and the little-known East-West poles, which control the radiational or expansive force. This is of particular interest to the reviewer, who had come upon the 4-pole system of magnetism empirically when experimenting some years ago with a special type of electronic equipment used to analyze subtle forms of radiation. Russell's analysis of 4 poles, fills in the gap in Kepler's law of the elliptical orbits of planets - Kepler had accounted for one of the two foci of the elliptical orbits - Russell's 4-pole system also accounts for the other foci.

Russell's is far from being a materialistic analysis of the universe. He is thoroughly aware of non-material realms and causes - he states that "Failure to recognize that this universal body of moving matter has been created by some power outside of itself has led science to conclude that the energy which created matter is within itself. Even more erroneous is the conclusion that energy is a condition of matter." He shows the difficulties which science has fallen into, through the attempted exclusion of external cause, and views physical manifestation as the result of Mind or thought-image.

There is much more to the "Treatise" than the few points included in this review. The entire booklet is fascinating reading and c o n t a i n s a wealth of valuable material. It is obtainable from the Walter Russell Foundation, Swannanoa, Waynesboro, Virginia.

PROTON FISSION - *

(Physicist C.F. Krafft writes to Assoc. Lindy Millard) *

Dear Friend Meade Layne:

The enclosed letter was sent me by the author of the modern-vortex-atom theory (which incorporates H. Fricke's quasi-frictional principle in the ether). In an earlier letter, dated 2-17-49 Kraft told me:

> A few days ago I received your letter in which you wrote about a possible chain reaction from the disintegration of protons. I do not think such a reaction would be likely to occur because even if the protons in the air could be broken up in the path of the beam, the effect would not spread of its own accord. It is different in the case of Uranium explosions, where the U atoms are already under strain and tension, so that it requires only the trigger effect of a few additional neutrons to cause them to explode of their own accord.

Upon reexamining the proton's structure and duties in the economy of Nature, under more reasonable interpretations of the ether (cp. Fricke's primary and secondary ethers) I find that Krafft is right in what he alleges, but not completely correct in what he denies. He seems to overlook the idea that a proton may resonate vibrationally with hard Gamma rays of a certain frequency, and that this vibration alone can split the proton and release the latter's etheric massinto the surroundings (like ink dumped under the sea from an ink bottle). This liberated mass alone can trigger the radioactive loosening apart of several kinds of atoms. A surviving proton elsewhere may still be vibrating resonantly . . . when struck by some ejection product (of induced radioactivity) from mass over-fed atoms, and thus split apart more easily than usual.

LM

In July 1954 Dr. Krafft wrote Assoc. Lindy Mill ard, thanking him for a BSR brochure sent to him (Dr.Krafft), but objecting to it on the ground that it expressed opinions rather than experimental facts - i.e., of being too "dogmatic". Dr. Krafft adds that his book is now being translated in French. . ."Thus far all comments of the German press have been favorable."

* * NOTE: Under the heading, NUCLEAR PHYSICS - THE FISSION OF THE PROTON, statements by Lindy Millard, Roger Graham (physicist) another physicist (unidentified), and several Controls (deep trance mediumship of Mark Probert) were combined in a 7-page mimeo brochure, a few copies of which are still available ($1.00). With one exception these statements agreed that proton fission is possible by laboratory means, and likely to be very dangerous. It is my impression that present opinion among physicists is to this same effect.

GO TO THE SNAIL *

"It has lately been stated, by M. Allix, on the authority of M. Benoit in Paris, and of another discoverer, (also, I believe, a Frenchman, who is now in America), both of whom during the last ten years, have been employed in working out the discovery, which they had severally and independently made, although they are now associated to work it out, that this magnetic sympathy is remarkably developed in snails; that these animals, afterhaving once been in communication or in contact, continue ever after to sympathize, no matter at what distance they may be. And it has been proposed to found, on this fact, a mode of communication between the most distant places. Nay, M. Allix describes, with care and judgment, experiments made in his presence, in which, the time having been fixed beforehand, words spelled in Paris by M. Benoit, and also by M. Allix himself, were instantly read in America, and as instantly replied to by words spelled there, and read in Paris. All this was done by means of snails, and although the full details of the apparatus employed and of all the processes necessary to insure success have not yet been published, yet the account given by M. Allix, and also by M. Benoit, goes so far as to enable us to conceive the principle made use of.

"It would appear that every letter has a snail belonging to it in Paris, while in America each letter has also a snail, sympathetic with that of the same letter in Paris, the two snails of each letter having been at some period, and by some process brought into full sympathy, and then separated and marked. There is, of course, a stock of spare snails for each letter in case of accident, but it is found that these animals will live for a year without food, should that be necessary. When a word is to be spelled in Paris, the snail belonging to the first letter is brought by some galvanic apparatus, not yet fully described, into a state of disturbance, with which his fellow in America sympathizes. But this requires to be ascertained, which is done by approaching, in America, to all the snails successively, a testing apparatus not described, which however includes a snail. On the approach of this, the snail whose fellow in Paris has been acted on, exhibits some symptom, which is not exhibited by any other, and the corresponding letter is noted down. This is done with each letter, and thus the word is finally spelled.

"Now all this may appear at first sight, very absurd and ridiculous. I confess it appeared so to me, when I first heard of it. But when I recollected all I had seen of sympathy in man, all that was known about sympathy in the lower animals, and when I read the account given by M. Allix, a gentlemen well versed in science, of the successful experiments at which he had assisted, I perceived that the only difficulty lay in admitting the fact of the extraordinary sympathy of snails, and that, this being granted, all the rest was not only possible, but easy.

* See Note at end of article.

Now, I know nothing whatever about the habits of snails; and surely I am not entitled to reject facts, thus attested, without some investigation into them. I cannot say that the alleged sympathy is impossible. But an investigation into the matter, so long as the full details of the experiments made by the discoverers are not published, is certain to be a laborious task, and probably a fruitless one. It cost them a long time to ascertain the facts, and they have been for ten years engaged in bringing their discovery into a practical form. Till the promised publication appears, we can only admit the possibility of the thing and wait for an explanation, which shall enable us to verify it for ourselves. It will certainly be very remarkable if a snail telegraph should come into action, which, in spite of the proverbial slowness of the animal concerned, should rival in rapidity the electric telegraph and surpass it in security, inasmuch as there are no wires to be cut by an enemy,besides being infinitely less costly, since no solid tangible means of communication are required, and all that is needed is the apparatus at either end of the line, and the properly prepared snails.

It appears from the paper of M. Allix that even this astounding novelty is not new. At least, it would seem that a long time ago, I cannot fix the period, a secret mode of correspondence was devised, intended chiefly for communications with a beleaguered fortress, in which it is believed that animal sympathy played the leading part.

*NOTE: The foregoing article is quoted verbatim from a New England newspaper of about 100 years back. In the confusion of the BSR offices (what with "saucers" and cobalt bombs and mesons and what-have-you) we cannot give the name and date, or even make proper acknowledgment to the Associate who sent us the paper, about a year ago. We print it partly on the principle of dramatic relief, by reason of its quaintness - and then, who can say

Snail will not respond to snail
Tho' continents away?

Somebody might try it out a room or a block away, without voyage to Europe. If YOU do - Be kindly to your snail -

Put not salt upon its tail
If you do, 'twill deliquesce -
A horrid sight, as you may guess.

Give no thought to the complaint of the poet who wrote: Ye little snails with slippery tails Who noislessly travel Along this gravel By a silvery path of slime unsightly - I learn that you visit my pea-rows nightly ... etc. etc. Besides, a snail is really no snail but a gastropod mollusk, and some people eat some snails (after fattening) especially in la Belle France. Go to the snail, thou snuggard; it was on this globe and using the wireless before the human race was dreamed of.

- MISCELLANEA -

In our bi-weekly Release CLIPS, QUOTES, & COMMENTS we have recently published some 4 - 5 pages of names and addresses, of organizations & individuals active in aeroform ("saucer") research - many of them in England, others in Australia, Tasmania, Rhodesia, South Africa, one from Thailland, etc. All of these friends are anxious for "saucer" news - also, the time may come when such contacts will be of great value. We will supply these lists on request (stamps or stamped and addressed envelope appreciated).

The current C.R.I.F.O. NEWSLETTER, (Vol.I No.6. Sept.3, '54) begins with a sharp rebuke to the "silence group" in the Air Force, contained in a letter from Major Donald Keyhoe to editor L.H. Stringfield. "The threat of court-martial keeps military pilots silent on "saucers"!.. etc. NEWSLETTER is a monthly, $2.00 a year; copy .25: Recommended by BSRA. P.O. Box 1855. Cincinnatti, Ohio.

AP dispatch from Nuernberg, Germany: Dr. Kurt Schreiber, chief meteorologist at that city, says that "tiny particles of metal found inside hailstones that fell in Ba.varia, could be atom bomb dust ... The magnetic particles resembled ground glass, according to official reports. . ."

In Orlando, Fla., "a strange pitting and shattering of glass windshields and windows" followed light showers (Sept. 4, '54). The cracks / "within an hour and a half" (after the showers?).

The "mercurial rise of mercury", from $183 a flask to a record $305 within a year continues to excite interest and comment. Old timers point to similar fluctuations in the past; others are convinced that some 'big new use' by the Government has developed. Those of a speculative turn of mind will recall Desmond Leslie's remarks about the vimanas of ancient India (air craft, maybe space-craft): these were powered by a "mercury engine" or motor, according to ancient writings.

We take this space for again calling attention to our recent compilation, THE COMING OF THE GUARDIANS - an interpretation of the Aero - forms in scientific and metaphysical terms, from the "other side of life", given by the Mark Probert Controls during the last eight years (deep trance mediumship). About 65 pages, professional mimeo work, 2nd print.) ing: $3.00.

MEMORANDUM TO OUR FRIENDS IN GREAT BRITAIN:

Concerning the alleged landing of Discs ("saucers") at Edwards Air Base in California: This story came to us from a person in whom we had confidence and included many details, as well as names of three other observers. We have since had corroborative evidence from two other sources. We do not have "proof" in a legalistic or rigid sense of that word. We cannot print material given us in confidence, unless we wish to dry up our sources of information. I consider the account possible, highly probable, and basically correct. That is my personal conviction and I cannot at present give supporting details. We do NOT sensationalize any of the material we print.

(THE CONTROLS OF THE FAMOUS DEEP-TRANCE MEDIUM MARK PROBERT, AND NOW RE-PRINTED BY HIS PERMISSION FROM THE MAGIC BAG, AN OCCULT STUDY IN CON - SCIOUSNESS).

" The space you now see and seem to feel to be outside yourself was once a black void that stretched out into the All, and endless eternity. There was neither wind nor element of any kind, but all was in utter quies - cence, of a kind which no human can even faintly comprehend . . . .

"Now this was what the Over-Lords discovered the High Archangels of the Low Etheric were secretly working to do, and thereupon they sent a messenger to the Low Etheric, forbidding them to go further with their experiment. . . "Eat not of this Tree of Knowledge", sarned the Over-Lords, "for on the day that you do, you shall die. . .

" The Great Secret the Over-Lords held - and knew the High Archangels had as yet no inkling of it - was the Great Void . . .

" Then the Over-Lords formed a giant circle, tens of thousands shoulder to shoulder. In the center of the vast wheel one of the most advanced among them was chosen to sit . . . At the first words of the chant they began to meditatate ... upon the two force-energies called heat and cold . . . (Y.di S.)

" Orders were then given to the great Angelic Hosts to go and investigate the great fiery bodies that semmed to roar through the inky blackness of the Void, at appalling rates of speed . . . Motion had taken on new properties... When the Archangels entered these flaming bodies they discovered that their bodies did not blend with the substance, but re-mained quite separate and moved around in it ...

" All changes in matter are brought about by the forces of the Cosmic Mind playing upon raw or dead forces called chemicals - a pesitive force working in a negative field ... (H.H., M.N.)

THE VOICES OF THE MARK PROBERT CONTROLS CONCERNING THE AEROFORMS.

For eight years past the trance Controls of Mark Probert have spoken at intervals concerning the Flying Saucers and other related mysteries. Here are a few sentences from the many pages of their discourse:

" When will you people learn that there are worlds within worlds - that the etheric worlds interpenetrate with your plane and with each other. These are not craft constructed on your planet... It seems impossible to get it through your heads that objects can pass from an etheric to another level of matter and materialize there . . . (Lingford: 1947)

" My ideas about the Discs are similar to those given by Lingford. They are etheric in nature and materialize on entering the vibration rate of your world. . . I think this is going to stir up a hell of a lot of trouble ... The greatest difficulty, of course, is with your scientists ... " (Edison:1947)

" Always, when a civilization has reached its height and is destined to col - lapse the Etherians have appeared in numbers. They come to make examination and final record for their own knowledge ... also they have been disturbed by your releaseof atomic energies ..." (Lao-Tse: 1948

" This which I term etheric is the home out of which all physical manifestations come. Etheric regions are the regions of life ... if a man desires he can leave the astral regions after a time and enter the etheric, and need not come back to your physical world ... " (Lo Sun Yat:'48

" Let us look on these regions (the Etheric world) with an eye that can see in this higher vibration. The size alone of all in it would stagger your imagination. The vibrating, pulsating, irridescent colors, the teeming plant life, the animals and birds, libraries and lecture halls and universities ... men and women of great stature in flowing robes of different colors ... mighty heads with golden, red or black hair flowing down their backs in living waves ... (Professor Alfred Luntz: '48

" These craft are not what may be termed solids.
Their solidity is formed according to where they are going, what their mission is, and what particular body in the heavens they are approaching - they make their vibration conform to that of the body ... " (Ramond Natalli: 1950)

THE COMING OF THE GUARDIANS is a carefully mimeographed book of about 60 pages. In addition to the six Controls quoted above, three others - Arakashi, Rama-ka-Lao, the Yada di Shi'ite) also contribute to this unique symposium. Their approach is scientific and philosophical, and the science and philosophy of the future is implicit in it. This is the only publication now being offered the public, which contains the answers to the mystery of the Flying Discs.

The first mimeo. printing of this book sold at $2.00. A few copies remain. We als have a few of these in a plastic binding, at $2.50. The second and improved printing is now available, at $3.00. (All issues include 12 pages of the Rolf Telano communications, Notes on the Mark Probert mediumship, and a chart of the etheric zones of Terra).
