"CATACLYSM HAS BEGUN"

(The copyrighted article with title as given above, appeared in Metaphysical Digest, Vol. 2, No. 4 -- Editor, J. J. Williamson: Archer's Court, Hastings, England. Excerpts and summary by permission.)

(Editor Williamson begins by saying that while the Society of Metaphysicians agrees with H. G. Wells in believing that a new and better world will arise out of the collapse of our present one, the time required for this reconstruction must "depend on the magnitude of spiritual values to be found amongst us now." All efforts to gain world peace have resulted in a postponement of cataclysm. World-wide atomic war has been delayed and fighting has been restricted to Korea and other 'minor' fronts; but this active fight for peace is now being lost in the greed of financial interests, and nothing remains to prevent complete destruction, except the efforts of a few such groups as the Society of Metaphysicians. It is even in the best interests of financial groups (as they see it) actually to promote war to maintain the pulse of business based on divergent and evil principles.)

"The Holy Bible firmly predicts the end of the present era and describes atomic warfare, flood, famine and other great hurts very clearly; it also states that but a few can be saved! Exact analysis of the strength of human character proves this fact completely. Many, many proven seers have added their confirmation and, stage by stage, the old prophecies are being confirmed. It would be better, perhaps to call 'prophecy' an exact calculation by processes and on data unknown to modern science." .....

"The maximum danger lies within ourselves! Metaphysicians know that there are two major levels of consciousness and that these appear as emotion v. reason: self v. group: the ancient curse of Mankind (deflection of order by difference of degree) the HUMAN ELEMENT is the cause of all disruption in human affairs.

"The special mental energy studies made possible by the new metaphysics, enable us to evaluate the 'human element' very accurately and, thereby, to assess how we may operate our Policy with a minimum of loss and distortion. The simple fact is that the vast majority of people are functionally incapable of thinking in those terms necessary for GROUP or INDIVIDUAL SURVIVAL, due to the fact that their average mental energy is far below the minimum necessary for the perception of that data upon which proper evaluation and action depends. Humanity is riding to destruction and the answer lies in a simple mechanistic fact!"

"Only so far as fundamental understanding permits group action can we hope to survive; the masses of people, with impoverished consciousness; the divergent but high-powered financial interests and other factors all confirm that only a very few people can escape cataclysm. It is for these few we seek; it is for these precious human beings that we work. God Willing we may do enough to safeguard the world future and to lead the way to a New Age."

"Limited mental-energies cause such social evils as specialization, organizational chaos, crime, divergent and destructive motives in world affairs and so on. Especially, they cause an uneven development of human knowledge and practice; thus the atom bomb becomes an incredibly deadly toy in the hands of semi-lunatics or children. We refer to any and every walk of life and especially to those people in high office who, in their misconceptions promote non-fundamental issues and cause incredible dissipation of too-small assets to help masses of suffer - ing people. The world-situation was dangerous in 1944 when the atom-bomb was first exploded; our warning report firmly predicted another war. The efforts of UNO and men of peace restricted that war to Korea and similar fronts; but now that industry has re-built its plant and re-opened its international channels, motives have become restricted by 'business necessity' and UNO is failing due to the old evil of the psychological promotion of business interests without regard for funda-mental issues.... we are being carried ever-faster towards destruction. The result of this is that an increasing public instability occurs and with it a world-wide worsening in world affairs. In the past s i x months we have missed war again and again by the very narrowest of margins; witness the various 'incidents' between the 'red' a n d t h e democratic nations. However, it would be foolish to expect cataclysm arising from fundamental ignorance through lowered mental energies, to come purely through direct open warfare. The end of civilization, as we now know it, will manifest in many inter-related ways. We now possess sufficient information to prove that cataclysm has already begun."

"The mortal mental sickness of humanity has forced the development of atomic and other researches into warfare; the fear, greed, hatred and suspicion, being characteristic of that sickness, creates a race for destruction; bigger and better bombs are being made. A great many so-called scientists are psychotic - due to their specializa - tion - and they are certainly directed by an authority which is, of itself, based upon psychotic values. We state emphatically that it is impossible for any psychotic to deduce correct results, because he automatically shuts himself off from those lines of reasoning to which he is mentally allergic. In other words; the magnitude of the effects with which he deals are greater than his own powers of mind, thus he cannot embrace them or predict them. Action in matters affecting others is very wrong, if there is any reasonable element of doubt. Action affecting everyone is spiritually criminal if that action is not com-pletely understood and due allowance made for any mal-effects. Yet we find atomic bomb tests continuing without restraint; the only effect of reasoned, proven and public opinion on the authorities being bigger and better 'smokescreens' put out to the public to create further con-fusion - and with that confusion, an enhanced danger from mal-think-ing and acting.

"These facts are not restricted to our Society, although we claim to be the only organization in the world so far advanced in the new metaphysics and its practical applications. A short time ago, just before the American H-bomb was exploded, there was a violent press and radio campaign to stop it! In spite of world opinion the American authorities paid no attention and went right ahead! The result of this was far greater than 'calculated' in limited scientific terms! Japanese fishermen were injured and one has since died (Daily Mirror - 24th September, 1954); several hundreds of Malayan villagers became ill; the weather cycle has been disrupted; radio communication has been modified and far, far worse, the mental energies of the world's populations have been seriously depressed.-When man's consciousness falls all his reasoned works begin to disrupt; this means that the animalism of strictly personal emotions and actions win the fight against reason and all civilized works fail. This process is now in full operation and like a gigantic steam-roller crushing all before it, it will steadily develop in pace and effect until full final disruption is precipitated. Every bomb that has been exploded has contributed to these effects, but above all the new H-bomb, which so greatly surpasses the 'baby' ones, is the major cause of the pending disruption."

Mr. Williamson then goes on to deplore the emotionalistic basis of American national and international policies, and the uneasiness and fear which prevails and which causes us to neglect the cold and all-important facts. This sense of fear "spreads out like a cancer throughout the world". . . From the metaphysical point of view "blind stupidity in basic values is the cause" of such blunders of policy and in our attitudes. The maintenance of a balance between emotion and reason is basic to world survival. "Taken alone a slim chance of world survival was possible; but taken with the operative effects of the atomic explosions we can find but an impossibly small chance of avoiding world destruction . The present situation is that we have added to the purely human instabilities an instability of nature on a world-wide scale. This 'natural instability' is man-made and produced by the miscalculations of the atomic scientists acting under emotionally unstable governments. All organized planning and work will be disrupted by floods, famine, illness and resulting disrupted world economy. The result is a rapidly cumulative depression in mental energy of the majority of people with a sudden total collapse later on.

"The 'barely noticable' chances of survival would require that world governments refuse to tolerate anything that breaks world unity. If all atomic explosions are stopped; if existing explosions have not been too great to allow nature to recover; providing that fundamental and hence shared understanding provides a firm motive behind all business, all human affairs, actions and thoughts, then and then only could we see world-peace, world survival and a new age in terms of a cleansed world. For thousands of years a FEW have succeeded in gaining peace; most have failed! Calculation and practical experience proves that a precious few people will understand and be strong enough in that knowledge to work for God, for maximum matters and never for any lesser motive. This is a firm statement of the total Policy of our Society and with all our strength of mind and body we dedicate ourselves to the purposes of maximum human harmony. What detailed evidence do we have to support our previous calculations? It is quite obvious that some physical manifestations would become apparent from such a gigantic state of destruction. We will open our review of data from the explosion of the first American H-bomb and consider all other previous explosions as complementary causes of the natural disturbances predicted and recorded.

"At the exact instant the H-bomb was exploded a definite 'click' was recorded in radio receivers by trained observers; this seemed to indicate some sudden violent change in the electric state of the atmosphere. About five weeks later, our observers reported a strange static electric charge on their aerial systems, at a time when no such atmospheric electricity should have been present! Something beyond normal experience had caused an increased state of ionization in the atmosphere! Was this unexpected static charge and, also at a later date, an inexplicable static interference on certain radio bands, due to radioactivity? If so, then rain tests should prove radioactivity to be present. Birmingham scientists tested the rain and to their great concern found that it was slightly radioactive, there was no doubt about it, since the H-bomb explosion, the atmopshere had become radioactive! What else might have happened; what other effects were to occur?

"Skilled radio observers kept watch and soon new and strange reports commenced to flow into this office. One said, 'The NS transmission and reception are excellent, but the EW are dead!' Another, 'I receive stations better the closer they are to the tropics'; again, 'Long-range short-wave radio has improved for Northern latitudes but 'short-skip' distance seems to indicate an unnatural change in the density (degree of ionization) of the gas layers around the earth.' Very little additional data was required to prove that there was a considerable change in the state of electric charge in the atmosphere. But, was this change caused by solar activity bombarding us with energies from space and hence causing an increase of ionization? Or, as we suspected, was it due to radioactive dusts originating from the H. and other atomic explosions on earth?

"Now, the ionosphere is composed of two major layers, although the top one breaks up into two (F_1 plus F_2) during the night, due to the fact that the sun's rays are not present to maintain ionization. The lower layer is composed of ozone, (O_3), an unstable oxygen molecule, and this layer is responsible for filtering out too-strong ultraviolet rays from the sun. In addition, the ozonosphere, as it has been called, governs the characteristics of certain types of long range radio transmission. If both layers had intensified then the interfering radiation must have come from the outside of earth's atmosphere; but, if the lower layer only had intensified then the source of the changes would be due to something from earth and not space. We asked, 'Has there been any evidence of enhanced solar activity?' Careful sun-spot observation reveals that there has not! Also, photographs taken during the recent total eclipse shows solar activity to be extra low, according to the long N-S streamers of flame, etc., seen on photo-graphs. It is self-evident that the strange radio effects were not caused by anything external to Earth but came from Earth itself.

What evidence is there to prove that the lower layer of ionized gas had increased in density and that the upper layers were substantially unaffected? Radio investigations provide the answer. Long-range short-skip radio has improved; but the 10-metre band which uses waves passing through and virtually unaffected by the lower layer, shows no abnormal change. The North-South transmissions were splendid and the East-West were very poor; also, an unusual feature was that transmission and reception got better the nearer the station was to the tropics, proving that the ozonosphere was affected. Even as Saturn's rings form around the maximum girth of that planet because that is the position of maximum velocity, so does the earth's denser gas belt tend to become deeper at the tropics. These facts alone should suffice to prove that the atom-bombs have already caused a world-affecting change in the balance of natural forces. But, let us proceed: 'What other manifestations peculiar to man-made radioactivity in the atmosphere would we expect? Evidence of illness? Weather changes?...!

The Daily Herald, reporting an Associated Press statement August 16, 1954, states that several hundred Malayans are afflicted with a strange glandular disorder which makes them weep continuously. A Japanese captain tested the area near R.A.F. Changi, with a geiger counter and gained positive scientific proof that the area was, indeed, radioactive! Again we find indisputable evidence to show that the radioactive dusts from atomic explosions have diverse deadly effect in strange unsuspected ways; who suffers next?

The Society had established that the ozonosphere, about 40-50 miles up had, indeed, gained an increase in ionization (electric charge) due to the atomic dusts. Suddenly we realized that more serious, far-reaching effects were with us: the entire weather of the world simply became chaotic and dangerous. The Australian and New Zealand weather authorities reported that the weather-current cycle had 'speeded up'-rain and sun alternated much, much faster! British people fresh with the memory of a few days sun and a few days rain and an overall over-powering humidity, will know exactly what this means! Not only England, but all Europe, China, India, Pakistan, Holland and many other countries have recorded the worst floods ever. China tells us that they have had the worst floods for 1,000 years; how many 'modern' weather bureaus have records that long! The Alps were snowed up! Holland reports grave loss of life and property due to extensive, worst-ever floods; Cape Town reported deluge; Pakistan and India are afflicted with the loss of many lives and many thousands of pounds worth of property. The 'miscalculations' of atomic scientists seem to have been somewhat costly! This is precisely what is meant by us when we speak of action on limited data!

The Governments of U.S. and of England try to soothe the people rather than to tell them the truth: witness the U.S. Pentagon instructions to their officials on the flying saucer data and to the 'highly confidential' R.A.F. order to its personnel to keep their 'mouths shut' if they saw any strange aerial object. We do not argue with the authorities about this, for it is self-evident that the public being of average mental age of 7-10 years must be treated as such! The results of panic would be worse in the early days of cataclysm than the cataclysm itself! But it is our opinion that continued evasion and assumptive deceit is morally criminal and that every effort should be made to adjust the public to ideas of danger, albeit step by careful step. It is significant that the Government can act fast enough to tell the public what has happened and what to do when war breaks out, and it is also significant that faced with overwhelming necessity the public does not panic at such a time. Honest direct action is better than a constant nagging doubt and worry; so tell it, gently if you will but definitely; speak up and let us have the truth! Dare we suspect that the officials are psychotic and do not want to admit, even to themselves, that anyting is wrong? We have seen this attitude in the past, especially in Great Britain in 1938-1939. On August 23rd, of this year and in keeping with governmental tradition, Dr. Sutton of the British Meteorological Office had a nice homely chat to the public through the media of both B.B.C. and the Press. He told us that the atom bombs could not throw up enough dust to cause weather changes; our world-wide wild weather was one of Nature's pranks and we could relax happily in the belief that the dear old sun would shine again and our old-time summers would return. Cassandra of the 'Daily Mirror' said point-blank that this was of little help to the farmers whose crops were rotting in the fields... and it was apparent that Dr. Sutton's 'smoke-screen' was a little too thin. The Dr. may have acted in good faith, but government direction and 'scientific superiority' is no remedy for grave concern over valid and immediate dangers. We do not lightly forget the wild rubbish given to the public by so-called intellectuals and orthodox, cramp-brained 'technicians' concerning the flying saucers... 'spots before the eyes', mass hallucinations, clouds, balloons - NUTS! The strictly academic and orthodox scientist is being revealed for the public menace that he is! Confined to sharply limited concepts peculiar to his own subject and often unable even to sweep out the floor of his own office effectively, he is yet presumptuous enough in his intellectual snobbery to give opinions on matters covering a vastly greater field than he has ever studied. Metaphysics does not make this mistake; it cannot! Every factor in metaphysical science is referred to infinite possibility, so that the unconscious and self-deceptive inclusion of divergent limitation of base factors is non-existent. If we must limit our conclusions we state exactly what those limits are and any ob v i ous ly omitted possibilities. Dr. Sutton could not give an opinion on the effect of radio-activity on weather, because he has no firm data on it! He was forced to ignore the possibility. No mention was made of t h e most important aspect of all: that although a relatively small quantity of dust (as compared with world atmospheric volumes) was ejected into the upper atmosphere, that small quantity would ionize incredibly vast areas of gas due to the constant ejection of electric particles from it. It is not the volume of dust that worries us so much - even though there is evidence that suggests even that was not quite so small as Dr. Sutton would have us believe - it is the activity and extent of the ionization that the radioactivity of that dust has caused. Radio tests already prove that this ionization has been enough to cause m a j o r shifts in well-established phenomena; that fact alone is sufficient to cancel all value from Dr. Sutton's lecture.

The Wilson Cloud Chamber is a device wherein humid air is caused to precipitate moisture by the ejection of a charged particle through the vapour. The same process can occur in the rarified regions of the upper atmosphere. We suggest that the charged particles now proven to be in excess in our earth's atmosphere (the ozonosphere mainly), due to the radioactive dusts from the H-bomb and others, are causing the atmospheric moisture to be precipitated at a much higher rate than normal. Hence, the violent rains and sudden cessation, this followed by a few days sun and a repeat performance. Yes, radioactivity was found in the rain in Birmingham, so there is no doubt that there is an increased electric charge causing added precipitation. This more violent weather cycle means that less moisture is stored per - manently in the atmosphere, the general humidity close to the earth is much higher, floods and all such matters more evident and active. If the overall humidity at low levels is higher, due to the increased weather cycle, then the overall winter and summer temperatures should be higher, and so would the evaporation rate. It is obvious that violent cycles of rain and sun must occur and they certainly have! Just how much water can be thrown to earth from the atmosphere is an interesting question, because as more atomic bombs are exploded - bigger and better H-bombs, for example - so will the comparatively small increase in ionization (as atomic dusts go) produce a greater rate of precipitation until we may well have another Great Deluge and with it, what is believed to be an exact repetition of the Great Flood of the Ancient Days.

There is a considerable amount of evidence suggesting that there must have been a very great pre-flood civilization and that this present world-crisis was accurately enacted in those ancient days. Very exact metaphysical mathematical symbols on ancient tablets (especially Aztec) prove that the pre-flood people had an outstanding knowledge of fundamental law; or at least that those who survived the flood did. This knowledge was not common to authority of those times - even as in these dangerous days in which we live. Certain obsidian d e p o s its suggest that great heat has fused the desert sands into glass-like substances, exactly similar to those found under present-day atomic e x - plosions! If the atomic bomb could cause floods now, then so could it in ancient days. It may well be that the violent upheavals of the land-areas at that time were due to enormous changes in natural pressures, rainwater weight, ice-cap shifts and such similar things: all these being upset by interference with the weather-cycle at that time. We suggest that even as our Society plots these matters now and steadily prepares for a pre-cataclysm era; so did advanced people before the Great Flood. The ancient tablets of the Aztecs constitute the highly developed fundamental teachings of the survivors of those savages who remained after the floods and radioactivity had subsided; teachings put forth by the precious few who had foreseen and prepared.

After the recent war, those left to 'police' the conquered coun - tries witnessed the extreme depths to which human beings may sink when the 'props' of 'civilization' have been removed. Murder, rape, theft, prostitution were normal characteristics, and all evidences of true 'culture' vanished with dire necessity. Fortunately, many died from privation and disease. Modern civilization is a highly complex net - work of inter-dependent but unstable facilities, and should certain key industries break down, then enormous areas of public service and activity just cease to be. War economics, so familiar to us all, pro-vide a living object-lesson of this process! We know that as cata-clysm develops men and women will be reduced to savagery in its worst possible form and that, apart from the kinder natural dangers, we have much more to fear from the emotional stability of each other than from anything else.

The story of six highly educated and cultured people on a small boat is a very, very true one. A storm arose and in the personal danger that suddenly appeared all traces of 'culture' disappeared. Women w ere... thrown overboard and men fought each other to the death for possession of too few a number of lifebelts. Modern culture is based on d i s - torted values and is, therefore, valueless; the only true value is that based on maximum or fundamental understanding.

Another aspect for which there will be increasing evidence, is that the polar caps are melting. If the average temperature of the world's surface atmosphere increases then the rate of melting will increase. It is estimated that about 100 ft. rise of water from sea-level would occur due to this source of danger alone. This factor is in addition to the reduced power of storage of water in the atmosphere above low lev-els. Changes in weight distribution on the earth must also result in changes in motion which obey the shift in mass; 'earth-wobble' i s being carefully watched in many quarters. Earthquakes in unexpected places (Cyprus?), old faults reopening and similar geographical chang-es may be expected and have, indeed already occurred in various parts of the world!

In addition to these more 'natural' sources of cataclysm, are the economic ones. These precipitate the violent depression in the con - sciousness of Man - as required by occult law - and give the world to the meek and to the humble at heart. What economic depressions are evident through the atom bomb?

The increased density of the ozonosphere and humidity in the lower atmosphere (this latter factor being in doubt), means that vital, health giving ultra-violet radiations from the sun have been badly reduced; ill- ness through lowered resistance, a fall in health standards, s e r ious drops in plant life all link with the radio proofs and give us a better overall picture of the havoc already caused. The farmer reports a loss of some 50% in most parts of the world and up to 66.6% in others! Holi- day trades report a fall in turnover of some 50% and the economic de - pression resulting is now so great that a vast overall drop in toler - ance, understanding, and all mental functions is apparent! Let us quote a few more figures: Blackpool; drop in incomes, reported August third, 1954. 'We lost 20,000 pounds this year as against last year's figures. Scarborough: 'Over 10,000 pounds was lost to the town this year due to bad weather'. Hastings: Our guest incomes were reduced by at least 10%.' Just what do these figures mean? This: many hundreds of thousands of people have worked for far less return this year; many businesses have lost and gone bankrupt. Worse by far: Tolerance, under- standing, and mental powers have dropped off as the worry and strain of personal survival have increased. The snowball of cataclysmic cir - cumstances is well 'under weigh'.

Dr. Sutton told us that little dust from atomic explosions had enter- ed the upper atmosphere; this may be so, but something caused dust to fall in Greenland on the 11th of March, 1954, in the form of red snow. This means that red dust must have been thrown into the upper atmos- phere, collected moisture and in its aerial drift moved to the Arctic and fell in the snow. It may be possible that this was the result of a- tomic explosion and that although the dust was precipitated in the snow- fall, the effects of the radioactivity in its passage into and back from the upper atmosphere remain up there. We have no record of tests of the snow for radioactivity, and mention it as but another possibility.

In addition to dangers from radioactivity in the upper atmosphere there are serious problems brought about by atomic research of a m o r e peaceful nature. Dangerous atomic wastes are radioactive substances, some of which we are told, can remain very active for thousands o f years. They cannot be put into streams, rivers, oceans, and any nor - mal surface disposal is insufficient protection from them. Harwell Atomic Energy Commission recently requested permission to dump t h e i r atomic wastes into deep, disused mine shafts; but local opposition was so great that the head of the Commission had to deliver an 'explanatory speech' to the local people who are still by no means convinced of the reasonableness of the act. If these wastes radiate, then in spite of all normal precautions, we see no reason why subterranean streams could not carry dangerous particles out into contact with human beings. Also, surface ionization, as already discussed, and similar effects, such as mutation, are possible. Mutation of germs, insects and so on could produce dangerous strains, although as a rule such mutants find themselves in an alien environment and die out or do not breed true. Nonetheless, the possibility must not be ignored for lack of data. It would appear that the only safe way to get rid of atomic wastes is to fire them right off the earth altogether - if we could!

Let us summarize. Evidence proves that atomic bombs have caused a desperately dangerous imbalance in natural forces. Weather has been disrupted; illness has appeared in Malaya; atomic scientists found wanting in calculation and safeguard. The emotional instability of authority causes psychotic behaviour in research and government and these constitute world instability in human affairs. The additional suffering of humanity, both from natural and from economic losses, results in a further grave depression of mental energies with a resultant drop in consciousness and all that this implies. This enhanced emotional instability propagates a violently developing cycle of disruption and complete cataclysm. A firm parallel appears to have existed in pre-flood days, together with a precious few souls who safeguarded humanity's interests and lived to set the next Era upon its pathway. So it is again, and so does the Society work and plan on a maximum fundamental basis to form the proper world-wide and infinite policy organization and its saviour community plans.

In conclusion: we do not represent mass opinion, and hence we can state the truth; unlike governments concerned with majority - and hence average - reactions. We appeal to those whose instinctive or conscious knowledge of fundamentals is sufficient for them to stand firm and to live truth; and together we constitute a vital, rapidly moving organization assessing the violent changes of these latter days and doing all possible to set up practical facilities for group living, group experience and Unified Essential Brotherhood on an infinite basis. To support this Policy through us, is a spiritual duty, for by so doing you also support all that is good and true and in your turn, play your part in world salvation. *

*Editor Williamson adds in a further note: "We have just completed important data on cataclysm which provides scientific proof that the weather is affected by the atomic explosions, and that, according to the volume of radioactive dust in the upper atmosphere, another great flood could occur." This thesis concerning weather effects of the bomb tests has long been maintained by BSR Associate E.S.Schultz, and supported by the BSR publications. "What is required", says Editor Williamson again, "is breadth of vision - take off the blinkers!"

Summary and Excerpts from

THE EMERALD TABLETS

Ms pg) Far into space my soul travelled freely . . .Strange beyond 12) knowledge were some of the planets, gigantic beyond dreams of men. . . Some I found who had conquered the ether; free of space were they while yet they were men. Using the force that is the foundation of all things, far in space constructed they a planet, condensing the ether into forms that grew as they willed - outstripping in science they, all of the races. Long time I paused, watching their wisdom; saw them create out of the ether, cities gigantic of rose and of gold. Formed forth from the primal element, base of all matter, the ether far - flung. Far in the past they had conquered the ether; formed in their minds only a picture, and swiftly created it grew . . .

Ms pgs) Called He then me, Thoth, before Him, gave me commands ... Then 16, 17) gathered I the sons of Atlantis; into the space-ship I brought all my records; gathered I all of my powers, instruments many of mighty magic. Uprose we then on the wings of the morning, leaving behind the Three and the Dweller; fast fled we to the land of the children of Khem (Egypt). There by my power I ruled them. Deep beneath the rocks I buried my space-ship, waiting the time when men might be free. Over the space - ship erected a marker in the form of a lion yet like unto man (Sphinx). There 'neath the image rests yet my space-ship, forth to be brought when need shall arise.

Know ye, O men, that far in the future invaders shall come from out of the deep. Then awake, ye who have wisdom; bring forth my ship and conquer with ease. Deep 'neath the image lies my secret; search and find in the pyramid I built. Deep in the passage that ends in a wall, use thou the Key of the Seven, and open to thee the pathway will fall.

Age-old is the warfare between darkness and light. Adepts have there been filled with blackness - Masters of Darkness, using always the dark magic. Unseen they came, unseen they go; man in his ignorance calls them from below. But so there exist the brothers of Light also ...(19)

Ms pg) When ye are free from the fetters of darkness and travel in 26) space as a Sun of the Light, then ye shall know that space is not boundless, but truly bounded by angles and curves. Matter is fluid and flows like a stream, constantly changing from one thing to another. Know ye, that throughout the space ye dwell in,are other (spaces) as great as your own, interlaced through the heart of your matter, yet separate in space ... Deep in the essence of matter are many mysteries concealed.

Nine are the interlocked dimensions,and nine are the cycles of space, nine are the diffusions of consciousness, and nine are the worlds within worlds. Aye, nine are the Lords of the Cycles that come from above and below.

Space is filled with Concealed Ones, for space is divided by Time. Seek ye the key to the time-space; know that throughout the time-space consciousness surely exists, though from our knowledge it is hidden.

Ms pg) (Then spoke the master) "Know, O Thoth, in the beginning there 29-30) was Void and Nothingness, timeless and spaceless; and into this came a thought, and it filled the Void. There existed no matter; only force, a movement, a vortex or vibration of purposeful thought. ...and for thought to be eternal, time must exist - so into this Thought grew the law of time. It changes not, but all things change in time, for time is the force that holds events separate.

Time is not in motion, but ye move through time as your consciousness moves from one event to another. By time ye exist, all in all a n eternal ONE in existence" ... Knew I then that even infinity is moving on to some unthinkable end. Saw I that the Cosmos is ORDER, and part of a movement that extends to all space - part of an Order of Orders. Saw I the wheeling of Cycles like vast circles across the sky; knew I then that words are power, to open the planes that are hidden from man...

List ye, O man, and hear a mystery, stranger than all that lies be - neath the Sun. Know ye that all space is filled by worlds within worlds, aye, one within the other, yet separate by law ..." *

Hear ye and listen, my children: Magic is knowledge - and only is law. To him without knowledge, wisdom is magic and not of the law; Light is thine for the taking. Material On The Chakras And The Tree, Put Forth By Dion Fortune After The Publication Of Mystical Qabalah

(Courtesy of Associate H. B. Williams) --

The Qabalist accustomed to using the Middle Pillar, will find it necessary to make careful distinction between his Malkuth and Yesod and the yogi's Muladhara and Svaddisthana Chakras. The yogi locates both these in the auric equivalent of the pelvic region of the spine; the qabalist locates Yesod, the moon centre, there but places Malkuth under the feet in the same way as Kether is over the head, thus indicating that it likewise is a link with objectivity. In the qabalistic method, Malkuth is used as the earth contact, and the operator visualizes himself standing on it as if it were the globe of Earth swinging through space, and a remarkable magnetic flow is thus received. This current, derived according to tradition from the Earth's aura, rises straight to Yesod in the sacral plexus and there becomes personal to the individual. Yesod is, in fact, a transformer of the universal, elemental energy into personal magnetism, and this is a very important practical point. Therefore, it is customary to equate Malkuth with the Muladhara Lotus, and I have done this in previous writings. I have come, after practical experience of both methods, to doubt whether this is correct. It must be remembered, in equating the Lotuses with the Sephiroth, that the yoga method is concerned with a single line of Centres, one above the other, and the qabalistic method is concerned with three lines of centres related to each other in triangles, and we must consider the functions rather than the locations of the centres in equating them.

Malkuth occupies a position in the aura analogous to that of Kether, that is to say, it is outside the body and has no physical analogue; and just as Kether picks up the cosmic forces, so Malkuth picks up the earth magnetism. Kether, therefore, equates accurately with the Sahasrara Lotus, but the function and "feel" of Malkuth is quite different to that of the Muladhara. Moreover the coloring is different. Malkuth has attributed to it the four colors of Elemental Earth, whereas the Muladhara is wine-colored. Yesod, on the other hand, has among its colors in the four color-scales, indigo, very dark purple, and violet-purple, and the Paths surrounding it have various shades of crimson, dark blue and wine-color among their symbolism. In my own experience, moreover, I have found what is said of the Muladhara Lotus to equate with my experience of Yesod, which, for practical working purposes is unquestionably the reservoir of magnetic force so far as the individual is concerned. The results I obtained from that centre exactly equate with what is reported of the Muladhara with its Sleeping Serpent. There are certain places on the Tree where the Paths connecting the Pairs of Opposites, the Equilibrating Sephiroth on the Side Pillars, cut the Middle Pillar. These nodes are obviously important points. I believe we shall be on the right track if we equate certain of the Chakras with these nodes and recognize in them the equilibriated forces of the Pairs of Opposites of the different levels of manifestation. The Svaddisthana Lotus, according to this system of notation, would correlate with the equilibrium of Hod and Netzach.

According to The Secret Doctrine of Blavatsky, the Moon is t h e reservoir of magnetic force for the Earth because evolution was at the etheric phase of development when Moon and Earth parted company. If this be true, and I attribute high authority to The Secret Doctrine, then it is to be presumed that what qabalists call the Moon Centre in the microcosm will fulfill the same function; that is to say, Yesod will be the reservoir of magnetic force at the base of the spine where the Serpent Kundalini, which possibly equates with the Qabalistic Dragon, sleeps in her coils. It will be remembered by qabalists that it is in Yesod that is the place of Severest Judg - ments, to which Leviathan raises its seven crowned heads, and allowing for the ascetic influence of Christian thought upon the doctrine of Western Initiates, it is quite probable that the Goddess Kundalini of the East is referred to as "that old serpent" -- and here again we have a useful piece of information.

In regards to Hod, Netzach and Yesod, they are called the Magical Triangle. Hod, equating with Thoth-Hermes, is characterized by an intellectual auatere method of operation of the Hermetic type; Net- zach, equating with Aphrodite and the Lady of Nature, is character- ized by the Greek type of magic, such as seen in the Dioysian rites; and Yesod, equating with the Moon, which according to the most an - cient tradition is the magnetic aspect of the Earth, is character- istically represented by the magical methods of Egypt.

For practical purposes the Qabalah-trained Western initiate is accustomed to pick up the earth-forces through his Malkuth, located under the soles of the feet, and to regard the sacral or pelvic centres as constituting Yesod, the Moon-sphere of personal magnet- ism, and this appears to be a useful practical concept. Working with the microcosmic Malkuth we contact the elemental forces, and working with the microcosmic Yesod we contact our own reservoirs of magnetism and set them in motion. We have got to face the all-- important matter of the real nature and function of the Moon-Centre; the fact that is connected with the sacral plexus in both Eastern and Western systems should have put the investigators on the track of its real nature, for the sacral nerve plexus controls the genera- tive organs.

In the Moon Centre the impersonal magnetic vitality derived from the Earth is transformed into very personal sex force, and if any- body questions that statement, I suggest they put it to the test of practical experiment and see for themselves. In the practical workings we pick up elemental force from the Earth through t h e Earth Centre; we transmute it into magnetic force in the Moon

Centre, and raise it again to the Sun Centre where the actual work begins. If we fail to maintain thought-control when the force is at the Moon level, sexual images will arise in the imagination and the force will be short-circuited through sensual channels; if, however, we maintain a rigid control, which we can only do if we are experts in the practice of concentration, then the force rises out of the sexual sphere and gives no more trouble in that direction but becomes available for the purposes of the higher magic. Without this basis of personal magnetic force I do not believe it is possible to work magic effectually. It is because in the West we are both ignorant and afraid of this that our magic is inefficacious and our occultists of ill repute; for either they fail to function at all, or fall into pits that they have all unknowingly digged. In my opinion we ought to understand these powers and keep them clean, neither refusing to face them, nor basely exploiting them.

Hatha Yoga is the Basis of all other forms of Yoga.

In man not the physical body but the Etheric Double is his Malkuth.

WHAT DO YOU MEAN - SPACE?

Nothing is more desperately needed just now, than a little attention to elementary semantics - simply to the definition of words. Let us explore, very superficially, the meaning of a single term - SPACE - even at the risk of being deadly dull.

SPACE in the philosophy of Aristotle means "the container of all objects". If no objects, no container. In a Void without objects, space could not exist. In a void with one object only - say, a single point. position would not exist.

In Kantian metaphysics, space, like time and causation, is a form of mind action, or consciousness. Our minds are so made that we are aware of the world only as it exists in space and time.

In modern mathematics, space is a name for certain abstract groups or sets. It is not an objective entity. It is a concept, and as such is bound up with another idea, that of time. All objects exist in three dimensions, and also in time. This gives us the 4-dimensional universe called the omniverse. Minkowski opened up this line of thought, and Einstein incorporated into both the special and general theories of relativity.

This space-time concept is based on the idea of geometrical points. A geometrical point has position only, does not have duration. If it is given duration it will produce a geometrical line. Space-Time is a term for the general structure of world events and objects - for "4-D" events. The Omniverse cannot move or change, but we can think of change and motion if space and time are regarded separately. No absolute separation is possible, but in a coordinate system we can think of them that way.

Space-Time is regarded somewhat differently by such thinkers as S. Alexander and C.L.Morgan, under the concept of Emergent Evolution. According to this, Space-Time is the universal matrix of matter, life, mind, even of Deity. "God" is an Emergent.

On a somewhat more mystical level, Space is sometimes described as "that form of reality which is not perceived by our senses."

Mathematicians cannot get along without Space - nor with it. They assign symbols and properties to it, but cannot treat it as an existent, nor recognize that it equates with the ether. The term "empty space" is meaningness - and so is the statement that the ether "fills space". Russell's definition of an electron, as "a wave of probability with nothing to wave in" shows the metaphysical poverty of such thinking - brilliant as its achievements may otherwise be. It seems certain that the ether will once again be accepted as the basic cosmic entity. As to whether or not the ether (or space, or ether-space) is material, depends on your definition of matter.

Always ask for definitions. Always be sure you have one if you are asked.

NEWS FROM NOWHERE (?)

The following statements were received by a young matron (Mrs. "V", of Oregon), a well-educated woman of unquestionable veracity, and not normally mediumistic or 'psychic'. She explains that she passed into a kind of trance-like state, with a sense of bilocation, and was aware of herself in a future incarnation, as a doctor in a male body, attendant on a number of terribly deformed patients in a huge hospital. In that projected or foreseen existence she (the doctor) was aware of the facts summarized below - which facts were then in past time, hence possibly in the future for us.

(1) Concerning the 'tip' of the earth's axis: That all planets which are accompanied by a single moon are subject to a force of unbalance: that the body called Clarion in certain positions reinforces the lunar pull or thrust on the earth, and that this conjunction has in the past produced sudden changes in the declination of the axis, with consequent abrupt and violent changes in all global conditions: That this condition is now impending (rather than the weight of the polar ice cap)and accounts for the great number of "space visitors" now present as observers. . .

(2) That the Blue Bomb (CO) had been (will be) used in warfare, with indescribable devastation. That from its effects issued innumerable human and animal monstrosities. That these malformed humans were not put to death, since that had come to be regarded as wrongful interference with Karmic destiny. That the effects were produced by the action of the blue bomb on the pituitary gland - and this in turn resulted from the presence of salts of CO in that gland. (Note: I am told that this last fact is already known to scientists, but Mrs. V. says she had never heard of it. ml)

A further oddity is, that this projected doctor-self, the future incarnation of Mrs. V., knew or stated that it was the foreseen devastation of the war with the blue-bombs, which caused Nostradamus to destroy his 'latest' predictions. Mrs. V. assures me that she had never heard of this action prior to the time of her experience, but that she later came across a printed statement, that the sage had indeed 'burned his rod and drowned his Book' when this future spectacle unrolled before him. (ml).

As a final item in this case: Mrs. V. does not understand a word of Italian - but did understand easily and clearly the libretto of an Italian opera played in her hearing while she was in light or semi-trance condition.

There is, of course, a great deal of sporadic psychism (due partly to the lifting of taboos) and RR receives some very remarkable tales. We seldom print these, for obvious reasons (which do not reflect unfavorably on anyone) - lack of facilities for checking references, and psychism is not our main BSR objective anyhow. But I have known "Mrs V" many years - and also believe that there are points of very special interest in the experiences described by her. (ml)

THE MARK PROBERT CONTROLS - EXCERPTS FROM TAPE RECORDING:

(This meeting was held in April 1954; the transcript runs to thirteen pages and as a whole has never been released to the public, altho copies have been available at cost to BSR Associates. Comments of the Controls on social and political conditions are for the most part omitted from the following excerpts).

Control, NATALLI, a 16th century Astronomer:

... In the past we have come toward minimizing that actions of atomic power as a deadly threat against your solar system. Now this must stop. We must break clean and true. The truth is that man, starting in 1945, took into his conscious hands the use of a force so devastating in its potential powers as to turn your earth into a Nova and thereby affect the entire solar system. Little by little your scientific minds have delved deeper into the building blocks called matter, called energy, but few have publicly mentioned that within the atom are forces as yet unknown even to the great majority of scientific minds; forces that if unleashed would turn your whole solar system into a Nova. All the bodies in the system would explode and end in loose matter floating through space - almost dead matter, for when it finally ceased its actions it would be on a very low level. Within the nucleus of an atom are forces up into the hundreds of thousands or millions of pounds of pressure per square inch.

RGM. Ten to the eleventh power! (100,000,000,000. ML)

NATALLI: These have not been touched yet ... In the use of the atomic bomb there is only one-tenths of one percent of the total forces which disrupted.

RGM. Uranium 235!

NAT. YES. Now in the hydrogen fusion action the forces are may thousands of times greater. The end of the action of the hydrogen explosions by your country, England, and Russia, is nowhere near in sight. Many strange things are yet to follow due to this. It is said that gravity has no action on the nucleus of an atom, that it is all electron forces within. Yet the atom does feel the effect of gravity, for it creates a surface, and it is when this surface is disrupted that the gravitational force is torn away from it. Being invisible does not mean being intangible, and a small body containing within it such tremendous bundles of force, creates a surface that is equal to a great sun, and takes that much gravitational pressure to hold its parts in place. So, what with the tearing away of the gravity field against the atom and letting loose these tremendous pressures, you would shatter your earth. Now your world of science is going to play with subatomic particles, and the deeper you go into the nucleus, the finer, the more dense, therefore the greater forces pent up in each layer. I'm certain you know nothing about the inner parts of the nucleus of an atom. These forces are largely unknown by your scientists, and the great Einstein will have to change some of his ideas with respect to relativity. It is in these deeper layers or more intense waves of what is loosely called energy, but yet it is substance that cannot even be classified as energy. It is in those fields that these great beings have their existence.

IP-You are referring now to the Etherians?

NAT. Yes. Man will learn how to move in and out of various frequencies, but that is a long way ahead on the path of his mental evolution. The Etherian people do not care who is right or who is wrong; they are coldly disinterested in 'isms. They are simply trying to keep man from disrupting the entire solar system, and they are going to do it if they have to destroy the whole human race from the earth and transplant beings from other planets who have been seeking to get here anyway. This is not a threat. This is not because they are concerned with any moral aspects. This is simply a direct statement of fact with no emotion behind it. . . . . .

Question by RGM: Is President Eisenhower, at the moment, planning to release information concerning the arrival of the Etherians in the coming months?

NAT. He is - but in doing so, provided pressure is not put upon him, he will have to be very careful how he words his thoughts, otherwise you will have widespread panic ... Your President has been trying to carry on with the policy of keeping the peace, but he is caught between Catholicism and the Russian Communistic regime. I think, however, that the Russian government has no desire to start an open war. Her policy shall be to undermine all nations and take them piecemeal ... Governmental authorities will eventually conform to the wishes of the Etherians ... Catholicism will have to cease as a constant threatening factor against Communism; it is a constant irritant. . . It is in the scheme of things that certain measures will be taken by the Etherians to dissipate the dogmatic teachings of Catholicism ...

NAT. (About mesons and their effect on glass) (Effects on all kinds of glass, and glass in all positions, not merely on windshields, will "take place in the course of time"). (Note: This proved to be entirely correct, tho at present the phenomenon has apparently died out. ml.). "It is not meson rays doing this by impact; it is by causing chemical changes at certain points in the atmosphere, affecting chemistry of the atmosphere to produce a substance which breaks down the particles which hold the glass together. This substance, touching the glass, causes units of intense heat which penetrate the glass, and instead of dissolving it, powder it....'

Question: Do you identify the mesons with cosmic rays?

NAT. Yes. My friends, this is part of the action of chemical changes taking place in the atmosphere, due to cosmic and hydrogen radiation and other atomic particles mingling in the atmosphere.

(Q., by RGM): Do you differentiate between Hydrogen radiation as you just mentioned it and mesons?

NATALLI: No.

(Q. Hydrogen is the origin of it?

NAT. Yes, but it is all in the cosmic radiation; you have the forces coming direct to earth at great speed, and penetrating through to the earth and letting loose this substance, hydrogen, into the atmosphere. You do not have it moving in that but is scattering in the atmosphere in a more condensed form. Am I understood?

(Q. by ML): This graphite-like substance that has been found as a small residue on the glass is sometimes magnetic and sometimes not.

NAT. This is to be expected, for it is metallic substance and charged with a positive force. The reason for some being (charged) and others not, is only that the charge is of very short duration and is lost.

ML. (Is there a powerful heat effect when the glass punctures?

NAT. Yes, but it is not heat as in the way -- let me put it this way. What is the temperature to break down carbon artificially?

RGM. You mean to burn it? Several thousand degrees.

NAT. Yet the body burns it at 98.6 degrees. How is this? It is be - cause it burns it in very minute quantities. It is letting loose energy in minute quantities but having intense force within. If these particles land on your body they will cause for a moment some sensation.

ML. Is any harm done to humans by this phenomenon, so far? --NAT.-No.
ML. Is there any danger? NAT. No, because the charge is of too short duration. . .

* RR Editor had intended to continue in this issue with the discussion of the concept of Density, on which several articles have already been published, but the expected material did not arrive in time. An understanding of the use(s) of this term is essential with regard to the aeroforms.

* The publisher of an important 'saucer magazine' sends us a last-minute notation: "I plan to write up the mat and demat theory and some good evidence in support of it - namely, photographs. It's a case of non-visibility to the eye and materiality before the camera. So far the picture has passed all tests . . ."

With reference to this, I again assure our Associates that the general concept of the aeroforms outlined by us is steadily gaining ground. (The MP Controls have NOT led us astray). ML

GALAXIES OF LIGHT: Vol. I,No. 1.

This is a new bi-monthly publication by Gerald Light ("Lodge of Light"), some of whose articles have appeared in past issues of Round Robin. About 30 pages, 8½ x 11", in three colors, illustrated. Subscription price, $5.00. "No connection with any creeds, cults, political parties, or 'isms". Also described as "the newest and most inspired occult journal of the 20th century." The table of contents includes:

Message from Etheria - The Aquarian Empire -- Saucer Notes -- The Pyramid Mystery -- Religion of the Starry People -- Etheria, Garden of the Gods -- Color Chart of Etheria -- Dr. Gilbert Holloway -- Planetary Forecast -- Auric Polygraphs - Harmonics.

Subscriptions may be sent to Gerald-Light, 421 - E. 7th St., Long Beach 13, Calif.: Or, to 812 - 19th Ave,, Covington, Louisiana. Presumably this single first issue can be had for $1.00, though subscriptions only are mentioned. (This first issue contains a full-page quote from The Coming of the Guardians, a BSR publication).

Galaxies is obviously a rather pretentious undertaking - and also one which contains pronouncements certain to arouse opposition. My personal attitude has been explained at some length in Clips, Quotes, & Comments D-2, for January 15, 1955 - the upshot being that anyone interested should purchase Galaxies I-1 for himself and read it without prejudice pro or contra - i.e., with "critical receptivity" - the word criticism here meaning evaluation. The "problem of life" is the problem of values - or, What things are 'really worth while'.

NOTA BENE: In the interest of all Huna Research Associates, of all B.S.R. Associates, and in general of all the numerous friends of Max Freedom Long, and of Mrs Long and their collaborator Miss Ethel Doherty - we here quote from the notice given in Huna Bul.111, of Feb. 1, '55 concerning the change of address for all Huna activities - which now reads:

Robert Douglas Carr, Medium

by
Vivian Brinkley

Robert Douglas Carr, of Portland, Oregon, is one of the greatest trance mediums (or else the most versatile impersonator) it has ever been my pleasure to know.

He is an Aquarian, 26 years old, and his story of the unfoldment of his mediumship is amazing. The development began with clairaudience early in 1954 after months of meditation and simple Yoga exercises and quickly progressed into deep trance. His controls or teachers are a group of twelve, four of whom are still incarnated on this plane and are living in India and Tibet.

The main teacher, Sri Siddhaguruananda, who is one of the four now in the flesh, is a Hindu and lives in Northern India. He explains his control of Robert Carr's body while in trance as a form of nieme and translates the word "nieme" as being " complete identification through which thought-projection is possible" and claims that a light, o r etheric thought-projected body built through will-power is always within Robert Carr's aura and although generally at rest, as soon as communication between him and Robert Carr is desired, energy flows from Sri Siddha through thought-projection to this light body and through nieme is impressed on Robert Carr. During trance this energy is intensified and Sri Siddha can use the vocal mechanism of Robert Carr's body and speak directly to his listeners.

Although one of the teachers gives personal Karmic readings, the main concern of all of them is an urgency to impart the knowledge that "there is no death" to as many people as possible before an imminent world catastrophe takes place. They do not often refer to such things but have made the statement that they cannot see how such a horror can be avoided any more and preparation must be made through individual enlightenment to help as many as possible in the dark time ahead.

Sri Siddha says there are at present seven mediums through whom seven councils or groups of teachers are working from one higher center. Among these he names Mark Probert and says there is one in Los Angeles, one in Chicago, and a woman in Spokane. Also that there is one in Russia, who if the pattern is followed through, will cause a great religious revival in that country.

To any B.S.R.A's who live near Portland and would like to contact Robert Carr, his address at present is: 1329 S.W. Broadway.

We take this occasion to thank a number of Associates who have sent us books in the BSR field of interests, with permission to sell at any obtainable price and to retain the proceeds as a BSR donation. This is very helpful - perhaps others will cooperate in the same way.

LUNAR ORBIT - AND THE CALENDAR:

(To RR Editor): "I call your attention to page 16, RR Sept.-Oct. 1954, Vol.X. Here Rama Ka Lao (an M.P.Trance Control. ml) states that with an increase in the tilt of the earth, the moon would change its orbit and upheavals would take place there (such as the lately reported 'cracks in the lunar surface. ml). If the moon were to change its orbit it might come closer to the earth, which would speed up its orbit; or it might move farther away from the earth and slow down. In any case the moon would tend to disagree with the printed dates on calendars sent out on New Year's day, because these are usually printed a year in advance. Enclosed in a 1955 calendar, one of several I have checked, made by different companies. These all agree with the 1955 calendar enclosed, that the New Moon is on Jan. 24, 1955, and that the next full moon is on Feb. 7, 1955. BUT the Los Angeles Times prints the New Moon, the Full Moon, and the quarter moon a day earlier in all its editions this month, so far; the New Moon on Jan.23, 1955. (Note: the Times tables come from the US C.& G. Survey. ml).

It is my personal opinion that the moon has been a day early in fullness for the last two months, but I think this discrepancy needs watching, since the Government would let the moon hit the earth (which it can't, without exploding beforehand), before it would admit the moon is or may be changing its orbit. The first calendar discrepancy I have noticed in the L.A. Times, was Dec. 25, 1954, when the Times printed the New Moon Dec. 24, 1954. Do you know any reason why this discrepancy has started, and have you ever seen anything like it before?

CONCEPTS OF THE ETHER

One of the principal difficulties in trying to make the "4-D" or Etheric interpretation of the aeroforms understandable, is the idee fixee that the ether (aether) is an outmoded hypothesis. The explanation for this attitude of course lies in the whole history of the subject since the days of Lodge. But it would be easy to show, by numerous quotations, that the ether is as much a reality and logical necessity today as are protons and electrons. Note the following brief examples:

" The real electron, the part that acts, is the surrounding ether which is outside its geometric boundary; and the electron theory is the science of the properties of the ether..." (C.W. Richardson in Electron Theory of Matter).

" It may be found that the ether is after all what is fundamental and that electrons and hydrogen nuclei are merely states of strain in the ether". (Bertrand Russell, in A.B.C. of Atoms).

" The foremost men of the age accept the ether, not as a vague dream but as a real entity" (Tydal, in Light & Electricity).

" It is possible that an electron is a kind of disturbance in the ether, most intense at one spot ... It is equally possible that a hydrogen nucleus may be explained in a similar way" (Russell, op. cit.)

Eddington, as is well known, says emphatically that we cannot dispense with the ether, and that in trying to do so we have to attribute properties to the interspaces and represent them by 'a host of symbols'. The phrase 'empty space' is meaningless and the old problem of actio in distans is still unconquered.

Now referring to the explanation we favor, that there is no "crossing of space" measured in light years, by the aeroforms, we refer again to Russell, who remarks that the process by which an electron changes its orbit is inexplicable - since it happens instantaneously contrary to all known physical laws. "Perhaps" (he says) "there is NO intervening space..." In like manner the ether ships emerge from one into another frequency, and thereby appear in a different place. There is no 'empty space' to cross, and hence no time required for transit.

BOOKS PERTAINING TO APOLLONIUS & RELATED SUBJECTS

THE RESULT: This is a 5 x 8½" - 48 pg. booklet, plastic binding. The by-line reads: "Comparing the Ancient Traditions with ancient history -- by means of selected passages dealing with the origin of the New Testament -- by Dr. C.A. Ostby -- Compiled by F.R. Bartholomew -- 2501 Irving Ave. So., Minneapolis, Minn. Dr. Ostby writes: "I am nearing my 92nd birthday, and have wished so much to leave behind me in book form the result of my life-long investigations of the Bible and of Christianity. My friend F.R. Bartholomew has compiled this for me, without compensation..."

This booklet makes the case for the actual origin of the "historical" Jesus in the Hesus Christos of the Nicean Council (325 A.D.) plus the great repute of Apollonius of Tyana. An admirable summary. No fixed price and I understand the supply is limited. We suggest you send $1.00 to Mr. Bartholomew at the address given above (and refer to this BSR recommendation).

SPIRITISM & THE BEGINNINGS OF CHRISTIANITY -- by James Russell Lowell Morrell, published by: Morrell & Bahler, Morrell Bldg., Remington, Ind. An 87-pg booklet, pocket size. "An account of the deliberate and malicious destruction of a pure and ancient religion - and the true origins of the teachings attributed to the "historical" Jesus. The author has an admirable historical background and gives important information about Apollonius....The author of this booklet is in ill health and difficult circumstances; there are only a few copies left of his booklet and there will be NO reprint. No fixed price, but we recommend that Associates interested in the subject matter send $1.00, either to the author at address given above, or to BSR Hdqrs.

NOTE: We cannot supply further orders for the book APOLLONIUS OF TYANA, by Alice Winston - but it can be obtained from the New Age Publishing Co., 1542 Glendale Blvd., Los Angeles 26, Calif. Price, $2.75. (This life of Apollonius is derived from a reading of the Akashic Records).
