...Editorial...

IN recent weeks we've had what might be called a sort of "revolt in Congress". We might begin with Senator Proxmire and his remarks concerning the need for a "return to democratic procedure in the Democratic party, rather than boss-rule and non-caucus procedure"; and we might go on with another senatorial remark something as follows: "I'm getting sick and tired of secrecy in the Pentagon, with some second-lieutenant slapping a top-secret rubber stamp on everything that comes along—it's time something is done about it." We might go further and mention the objections to "closed-door" discussions of which of our enemies to give large chunks of that four-billion dollars in foreign aid that is so necessary to our national security: such as aid to a bunch of Latin-American pint-sized nations so they can get guns to shoot at other Latin-Americans; and Yugoslavia, so they can kill American boys when they have to fight the Russians on European soil.

Some four years ago, we predicted in SEARCH (then called MYSTIC), that one of the top future developments was a battle against governmental secrecy. That battle is about to be joined, and it will continue until it is the number-one topic of the day.

Right now, however, we won't repeat the many insistences that we've made that we Americans are losing our freedoms to such governmental unconstitutionalities as this. Government today is full of such things, right on down to the worst of them all, the income-tax amendment which is the one thing our fore-fathers warned us would destroy us. What I'd like to dwell on for a moment is something else, only remotely linked to "secrecy"

As an introduction, have you noticed the very small items in the newspapers announcing that Russia, Britain and the United States had agreed to a cessation of atom and hydrogen bomb testing? The BIG story of the day, and you've got to dig it out with a powerful reading glass! Of course it couldn't be that the governments, like all scientists and half-way educated and informed people, have reached the inescapable conclusion that atom-bomb testing is terribly dangerous and simply must not be done any further?

With that in mind, let's hark back to Eisenhower's most recent speech to the nation concerning Berlin. In it he said he does not propose to fight a ground war in Europe over Berlin, and inferred that when the time came to make a decision of what kind of war to fight, it would be made at that time. Since atom-bomb testing is impossible to continue (unless through lunacy), then it also holds true that atomic war is impossible (except through the same mental process). If we are not to fight a ground war, and we CANNOT fight an atomic war; because, says Eisenhower, "an atomic war could mean the end of civilization"; and says Kruschev, "an atomic war can end civilization"; and say the scientists, "an atomic war would poison the atmosphere and the water and the soil so that life on earth would be impossible", then WHAT KIND OF A WAR DO WE INTEND TO FIGHT, if one is to be fought? There doesn't seem to be ANY kind of war we can fight, except . . .

And there you have it . . .

A mental war, a propaganda war, a war, carried on secretly, which will forever destroy the freedoms that are conceivable only by thinking people.

This statement implies that Eisenhower is an enemy of freedom. This of course isn't true, and we couldn't blame our readers who would jump all over us for saying it. Eisenhower is an American, just like the rest of us, and in the same desperate circumstances all Americans are now in. He is one of us, and just as deceived as the rest of us. There are some Americans today (numbering many thousands. if you want some vague figure presented to you) who are fully aware of the danger of the income-tax law. They are fully aware of how the Congress was deceived into passing it. They are fully aware of the way it is being used as a club over freedom. They are fully aware of its choking grip on individual enterprise. They are fully aware that the first consideration as to the performance of something worthwhile is whether or not it will be a tax problem. Investments in worthwhile businesses are not made, simply because the tax risk is far greater than the enterprise risk. Nothing ventured, nothing gained —but NOTHING LOST! Why take a risk in any business enterprise, when SUCCESS WILL ROB YOU BLIND of any profits that might accrue? Why work like a dog, and earn a fortune which you know beforehand you cannot keep? Not even if all you want to do with it is reinvest it and create more jobs for unfortunate jobless Americans.

The principle of freedom in America, guaranteed by the constitution, is as follows: The government was instituted by the people to secure citizens in the privilege of exercising their rights—namely, life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. The present theory of taxation: taking the money away from the people, then giving it back to them in the form of payments for not growing wheat, public charity, social security (backed by empty coffers from which the money was never even spent because it was never put in!) and all the other government dictated activities which have been taken over from the individual, is an assuming of these privileges to itself, taking them away from the citizen whose right it is to pay for these things himself out of the fruits of his labor.

Not only does the government tax the citizen unduly, but it then keeps secret from him what it does with the money, under the pretense (for pretense it is) of national security. True, it would be of assistance to the Russian army to know how many atom bombers we've given to Turkey, or how secure their finances are against Russian monetary attack. This can be kept secret. It should be kept secret. But NOT from the Congress! Not from the Senators and Representatives we elect to take care of our interests. All we want is assurance that necessary secrets are kept only from the Russians, and we believe our Senators have a right to be in on the secret, and to keep us informed that "all is well".

To give aid to Yugoslavia, part of the Soviet bloc, simply because Tito staged a "fake" revolt, which was soon patched up with love and kisses, may be argued as good policy because it might foster a real revolt, but under no circumstances should such a gamble be kept secret. The only ignorant ones would be Americans! To Russia's military men it would be the toast of the evening!

By all means, let's have foreign aid. But let's have it no secret! In order to keep aid to Turkey secret from Russia, it must be kept secret from the American Public, but it also follows that it must be kept secret from the Turkish Public. The two Publics meet, and they will talk. All people are blabbermouths. But no Turk, kept ignorant of the aid, will feel friendliness toward any American because of it.

Speaking of secrets, the newest "best-kept" secret is the U.S. explosion of three atomic bombs in space, at an altitude of 300 miles. For the "best-kept" nature of that secret, see back issues of both SEARCH and FLYING SAUCERS. Not only have we done it, but the Russians also, OFTENER than we

The point most stressed in these tests is that the radioactivity is "dispersed in space, and no fall-out results." There just isn't any mathematical equation that can be dreamed up to support that statement. Gravity being what it is, those heavy radioactive particles (whatever their quantity, which is admittedly low, consisting only of the actual components of the metals in the rocket and/or bomb casing and mechanism itself) will most certainly come down, and no matter how slowly, the time element is relative. If the nations engage upon a new policy of testing bombs 300 miles (or more) out in space, they will achieve nothing but a few years delay in paying the piper—because inevitably the rain of radioactive death will descend to the surface. We have here in this statement of no fall-out, just a plain unvarnished mistaken opinion. We have no hesitation in labeling it such. We'll publish the mathematics that prove otherwise, if anybody is able to provide them for us.

Besides, there is no equivocation in the recent agreement of the great powers to stop atomic bomb testing. There is no "except in space, at 300 miles out" provision. Just plain stop.

When the announcement was made by the Defense Department of the atomic explosions, a few more Senators erupted. Why keep it a secret from them? And besides, the propaganda value would have been immense, last September.

Yes, the second-lieutenants must be deprived of their rubber stamps. Secrecy of a judicial nature is good, but blanket secrecy, at individual discretion, is the death of our democratic freedom. It is not only dictatorship, but foolish dictatorship. Some of the second lieutenants we've met are incapable of rational thought (by our standards), and if anyone wants to seize upon that, let it be understood that it would be highly flattering, since we are the first to agree that we ourselves are not too far from the idiot stage. Thinking is such hard work that we can easily understand why most people do not even try.

This year (presumably) the gentleman who signs the checks made out by the U.S. Government in paying its obligations, will sign one for "interest on the public debt". It will be made out for eleven billion dollars. It may be more than one check, it may be thousands of them—but we will assume it is one check for the sake of simplicity. The question in our mind is equally simple—whose name will be on that check as payee? Who will take that check to a bank and cash it? And what will he do with the money? If he is a private citizen, it will be income, and taxable. What will be the amount of taxes he will pay on it? According to tax law, it should be 95%. He will get to keep $550,000,000, or slightly more than a half-billion dollars. The rest will come back into the United States Treasury. At the other extreme is the lowest possible tax, or about 25%. Uncle Sam would still get about three billion of his interest back.

Let us assume that all the 280 billion dollars we owe, as a nation, we owe to the holders of government bonds. Uncle pays you interest on those bonds. Where does he get the money to pay you? He gets it from taxing you. He taxes EVERYBODY who makes an income to pay interest to those who are in the bigger income brackets and thus able to buy bonds their poorer brothers cannot afford. It's a process of taking from the unfortunate to pay the fortunate. Regardless of the unfairness of this procedure, it is true that you ACTUALLY are not being paid any interest for your invested money at all, but are merely being given back a SMALLER sum in interest than is being taken from you in taxes to pay that interest. The reason for it being smaller is because the cost of hiring people to do all this "office work" must come out of the amount collected. Somebody must insert his hand in your pocket, remove a dollar and a dime, in order to transfer a dollar to his other hand, and put it back in your other pocket The dime, we suspect, is much too small an estimate to cover the cost of this ridiculous transaction. But to believe you are "making a profit" by buying these bonds is to delude yourself. Even to assume that you come out of it with only the dime loss on every interest-dollar, is a fatal mistake in business sagacity; because the value of the money you use to pay for the bond in the first place is subject to inflation, and after the due date of the bond (perhaps ten years) it has been reduced in purchasing power by about half, so that you get back only 50c for every $1 you invested

SOMEBODY ROBS YOU OF 50% of your investment every ten years! If you bought no bonds at all, but simply insisted that you be taxed for current expenses as they are accrued by the government, and the government used that tax money to pay cash on the line for everything it buys, you would wind up paying only 50% of what you are charged on a "credit" basis. Instead of paying out $70,000,000,000 per year for government costs, you would save the inflationary portion, or about $35,000,000,000 Right off the bat, you'd save $11,000,000,000 in interest. You'd save half the money you lose every ten years on your "investments" You'd save in dozens of hidden ways; such as compounded interest, unnecessary bookkeeping eliminated; reduced "office supplies" (such as millions of tons of paper, pencils, typewriters, office machines, rents, heat, light, salaries, etc.).

With the money you'd have left, you could buy all the things you can't afford now. Men would be called back to factories to make these things. Their income taxes would serve to bring yours down still further. The cost of living would go down; the standard of living would go up.

Why don't we do it?

Why don't we all tear up our bonds? Why don't we tax ourselves for a few years at full cost of doing business in the world, plus enough to pay off the creditors who are hounding us? Why not trade a few years of austerity, for a permanent future of prosperity? Who is it that is making us do things BACKWARD? Why does our government operate on business principles any businessman would consider insane and unmistakably ruinous?

It is admitted that we have better than $70,000,000,000 in UNSPENT money from previous budgets. Why don't we slap that onto our debts right now, and reduce the $280 billion to $210 billion? Why leave that money sitting in the bank (where it is used by the bankers to lend money to us poor suckers at 6% while we pay $3 billions interest on that idle money because we've borrowed to pay our bills while we've got money in the bank?

Why start an insurance company (social security) in competition to the private insurance man, with compulsory premiums amounting to 7% of $450 billions (annual national income)—which is $31½ billions annually—and drive the private insurance man out of business because he can't possibly compete?

Some smart "economists" are going to challenge our figures, and say they are ridiculous. That they're a much smaller sum. We admit that we haven't the ACTUAL figures to go on; but what does it matter? There ARE some actual figures, and they are the result of gigantic mismanagement of our national income. They are all detrimental to the welfare of the private citizen, and they are an unconstitutional usurpation of his own personal rights and privileges. We are Americans because we wanted to be free to manage our own personal affairs. But now we've had this freedom stolen from us, to be administered, at the very least, by incompetent "rubber-stampers", and at the very worst, by thieves!

We've even surrendered the right of Congress to coin money to a private bank, the "Federal" Reserve Bank, which is no more federal than the inside of your hat! We even give them the paper they use to print the money! And each ten-dollar bill (and higher denominations) constitutes a "promissory note" which promises to give you upon demand, another piece of paper in exchange, if you are witless enough to think it's any better. No gold, or silver, or tin, or copper, or smelling salts will be given for that paper. Worse, the bank that prints the money doesn't even perform the exchange, but passes the buck to Uncle Sam, who is given the responsibility for making good these worthless bits of paper.

This money is of value only because we consider it so. By our faith we use it as a medium of exchange, to swap the potatoes we raise for the salt we buy; or the refrigerator we manufacture for the potatoes we eat. But somewhere in the middle we lose a lot of potatoes and refrigerators, secretly stolen from under our noses by the "money changers".

By the way, we've worked hard for many years—why don't we ALL take off three months this summer and enjoy a hard-earned vacation? Let's just take it easy in the sun, get a good tan, do some fishing, get our worries off our mind, have fun with the kids—Lord knows we spend little enough time with them while they're young. It'll be too late when they've grown up. Just once, in a lifetime of 70 years, just three months to have fun, with no work, no responsibilities, no worries.

Just try and do it!

Your whole American civilization will go smash—your economy will collapse, you'll incur a tremendous mountain of debt that will prove the final straw to disaster!

THAT'S how you've managed your money affairs all your lifetime! You're a SLAVE! You can't even afford a three-month vacation ONCE in a lifetime. Brother, are you a smart businessman! And how you deserve this wonderful American democratic freedom you fought and died to establish! Like so much mud, you stupid fool! You can't sit on your fat fanny and KEEP that freedom! The good things in life come from CONSTANT PURSUIT of them. The makers of the constitution knew that, and said so in the plainest possible words. And they insisted that it be a "free privilege" to pursue life, liberty and happiness. We've now lost that free privilege. At least the liberty and happiness portion of it! You aren't at liberty to take even three months of happiness. All you can do is trade every minute of your time, and every ounce of energy in your muscles, and every bit of peace of mind for your VERY LIFE!

What are you so proud about you dumb bunnies?

Your forefathers gave you a free start, not owing anybody a nickel, and with a whole continent of the richest resources on the whole planet. The mess you're in today is YOUR OWN DOING. What are you going to do about it? Are you going to stand up and fight for your rights, or are you going to help forge the chains around your neck that will never again come off?

Do a little thinking, then a little questioning, then a little demanding. You've got the power. You've got the representatives in Washington. And presumably, you and they have the brains. There must still be some experts who know how to do things RIGHT. Let's begin to be RESPONSIBLE citizens! —Rap.

THE END

LINDA DARNELL'S HYPNOTIC ROLE

On February 10, 1959 Linda Darnell of the movies used hypnotism for help with a stage role.

For three days, while Miss Darnell was in periods of deep sleep, a reader recited her lines to her. Lines and stage cues were implanted in her mind while she was in the hypnotic stage of heightened susceptibility.

Next she went over the script under hypnosis to pin down a mental characterization of the role of the woman artist she was to play. During the trance the actress was told lines would come to her easily and naturally.

Her play, "Late Love," opened on schedule for a two-week stand in the Drury Lane Theater in Chicago.

The experiment appeared to be a success. One reviewer said: "Miss Darnell was entrancing rather than in a trance. All Miss Darnell's lines are perfect."

Said Miss Darnell:

"I never felt so secure about playing a role. Hypnosis has helped me feel this part completely."

IN DEFENSE OF CATS

By Marichen Al-An'

In the April issue of SEARCH, George Cardinal LeGros presented an article which painted cats as evil. In so doing he stirred up a storm. Letters poured in to the office of SEARCH, denouncing LeGros, and even denouncing the editor of SEARCH for publishing such an article. One subscriber even cancelled her subscription! Here, then, is the other side of the story. As for our own cat, he hasn't said a word!

In his well written and highly informative book, The Tiger in the House, Carl Van Vechten, himself a symbol of culture, refinement and scholarship, writes casually on pages 56-57, "To respect the cat is the beginning of esthetic sense. . . . refined and delicate natures understand the cat. . . . The cat is admired for his independence, his courage, his prudence, his patience, his naturalness and his wit. He is essentially a noble animal. . . . He lives like a great lord and there is nothing vulgar about him".

Assuming that Mr. Van Vechten is the authority and gentleman of letters the English speaking public has long held him to be, the statements made by Mr. George Cardinal Le Gros in his letter in the April issue of Search appear lacking, somewhat, in authority and good taste. LeGros states flatly (without any attempt at documentation), "No cat ever lived that was anything but an incarnation of cruelty and evil. Such pronouncements become quite interesting when viewed in the light of the attitude of Chinese, Egyptians, early Christians (to list but a few) toward this monster, the cat. The Chinese long held, we are told, that the mere nearness of a cat brought good fortune. Thus cats were (and maybe are) kept well guarded, on chains, to insure the best things in life. We understand also, that in certain Far Eastern temples cats are still utilized to guard the temple treasures. They are said to be, not only more highly evolved spiritually than most guards, but are above taking bribes, whether of food or affection. Likewise, the Egyptians, steeped in occultism as they were, held the cat in highest esteem, complete with festivals, temples and cemeteries full of cat mummies." (the average Egyptian was not mummified because of the expense involved). Of course, it is entirely possible that LeGros considers these ancients misinformed and lacking in the superior insights he claims for himself. However, the Egyptian god Ra seems to have supplied these benighted people some deep inner satisfaction when he was depicted as a cat even when other personalities of that pantheon appeared regularly in that guise. Thus Bast, often interchanged with Isis and Hathor etc., reigned as the symbol of virgin motherhood in cat form.

Le Gros goes on to state baldly, "No occultist worthy of the name ever lets them (cats) near him because of their defiling magnetism." This is interesting information, but a bit late. Obviously even early Christians might have profited by a closer contact with Le Gros and his superior insight as they went naively about associating this evil cat with their especially esteemed Virgin Mary. Or was it possibly that the Virgin preferred it so, as surely she could have appeared in a cloud, a cave, or some shining light and made her demands against the sacriledge. The Cat in the Mysteries of Magic and Religion, a book by W. Oldfield Howey, published in 1955 by Arthur Richmond and Company, N.Y., contains an entire and lively chapter on "The Virgin and the Cat." It also contains a chapter "Christ and the Cat" which makes interesting reading, especially for children whom we wish to educate for better citizenship and a more meaningful adulthood. Leonardo De Vinci could well have profitted by advice from Le Gros because he (poor, uninformed soul that he obviously was in comparison to Le Gros) went about blightly making drawings of "The Virgin and Child with Kitten." (courtesy of the British Museum) Barroccio fell into the same error seemingly, as the National Gallery has a lovely "Holy Family" (The Madonna Gato) in which a kitten plays a vital part, being nothing less than the center of interest holding the eyes of all members of the "Holy Family". As well, these saintly people probably knew nothing of occultism and therefore were destroyed by the evil little purring creature. Or again, is it possible that the Holy Family had been browsing through ancient Egyptian lore such as Howey tells us on page 53 of the book previously mentioned? "The Egyptian placed great faith in the power of the living cat to protect him from all kinds of evil, natural and supernatural."

LeGros elucidates farther, "The cat, lion, tiger etc. are lunar creatures, belonging to the night side of Nature, and therefore under the direct influence of the Moon, which is wholly malefic." We gather from this that Madame Helene Blavatsky was not (as is LeGros) an occultist worthy of the name, considering that she wrote in The Secret Doctrine, Volume 11, Page 228 (the footnote), "In the oldest systems we find the moon always male.. Thus Soma (the Moon) is with the Hindus a kind of sidereal Don Juan, a "King" and father, albeit illegitimately, of Budha-Wisdom (not Gautama) which relates to occult knowledge." Soma (the Moon) she continues, is the "giver of Wisdom". So, we will, if we heed Le Gros, fall into the trap of gaining Wisdom if we associate with cats. He equates cats with the moon (according to H.P.B.) signifies Wisdom. Thus Le Gros makes his stand quite clear. "Wisdom is evil, cruel and to be avoided at all costs".

But is the cat really completely under the influence of the Moon as Le Gros tells us? Again Mr. Howey comments on page 20 of the book previously quoted, in referring to an exhibit in the British Museum (listed by Sharpe as No. 105) "showing the forehead and ears of a colossal cat-headed goddess with a large headdress formed by a ring of sacred asps, each crowned by a sun. This gives us an idea of the reverence in which Bast (the Cat) was held by her worshippers, and clearly emplies her dual nature, embracing both sun and moon." What hey! Both sun and moon? Surely Le Gros would not approve of this. Obviously these Egyptians were not worthy of the name 'occultist' as is Le Gros who seemingly has been an authority since gurgling infancy.

Also, it is unfortunate that Le Gros was not on hand to inform The Prophet that cats are "completely cruel and evil" as seemingly the poor, deluded Mohammed had a deep fondness and respect for his feline companion. Story has it that The Prophet cut off a large area from his handsomer robe upon which the cat was sleeping when the call to prayers was sounded, lest he awaken the little "imp from the Pit", (as Le Gros designates all cats) and thus disturb its slumber. Ah well, holy men, especially if belonging to the ranks of "heathen" religions, are not only poorly informed concerning evil but perhaps even cater to it willingly.

And in the same vein we should have pity on Col. Charles Lindberg, who although making few if any claims about being an occultist does tell us of an occult experience of his in his autobiography. It seems that the Colonel blindly kept company with his favorite kitten which at the last moment he left behind lest it suffer the potential perils of that famous first non-stop trans-Atlantic flight. But, after all, who is Lindberg in comparison with the honorable Le Gros?

We quote the Le Gros letter further, "Anyone with rural or backwoods knowledge knows that mothers NEVER permit cats around their babies because of the danger of the beasts sucking the infants breath and suffocating them". I'm certainly happy to at long last have this bit of authoritative information, for now I realize at what an early age my mother was trying to kill me without leaving the fingerprints. One of my earliest memories is that of waking to find the family cat sitting on my chest. But, being considerably less than an "occultist worthy of the name," apparently I had the wrong reactions; I thought it was all good, clean fun and enjoyed the situation immensely. And, my mother (obviously a murderess at heart) seems to have taken it all in her easy stride. But such things happen in the rural districts of my childhood, the sands of Texas, wooded rough country of Tennessee and these beautiful hills of southern Indiana. Now, more than forty years and many cats later, I still sleep with the fuzzy little things on my chest nightly, feel highly honored in their deigning to share quarters with me, and luxuriate in their elegant proximity not only at nighttime but during the daytime as well when they usurp my desk space. So, with this in mind, I'm sending along $3 and a picture of the three cats who currently are destroying me with their "cruelty and evil". The picture and the money are for Dorothy Lauer to consider from the standpoint of auras. That they are "imps from the Pit" we have learned from Le Gros . . . but just WHAT particular kind of imps would be most interesting to ascertain.

Howey has something to say about the "backwoods" on page 154 of the book under consideration. "Among the more primitive people still with us today, who venerate the Cat and believe that its soul attains Paradise, we must consider the Jakuns, who are one of the semi-wild Malayan Tribes. They differ from the Egyptians in thinking of the Cat as giving, not as requiring, assistance on the toilsome road between earth and heaven." Recalling that LeGros informs us that all cats are totally evil and cruel, "imps of the Pit," can we assume anything less than that these primitive Jakuns find Paradise and the Pit one and the same? Or do these unfortunates really prefer going to the Pit, thus choosing the Cat as their guide to the realms after death? It seems there is just no accounting for tastes. Or again, is it possible that some primitive periodical teaches these natives some of the misguided occultism of the Ancient Egyptians, who held the Cat destroyed evil? Page 31, (quoting Howey again) "Atet is said to have taken this shape (cat) when she conquered and slew the serpent of evil. . . .It is certainly remarkable that Ra, like his predecessor, assumed the form of a cat in order to combat the evil power. The battlefield was in the Other World . . ."

Le Gros continues, "Cats have been known to kill babies and even sleeping adults in the exact manner I explained in the story, (The Witch of Calhoun County)." Most remarkable! Do, please, give me a ring so that I may come and view the corpse when next such a case is brought to your attention. Also, allow me to acquire the murderous cat that thusly "sucked the breath". Perhaps my cats are a pack of weaklings, as seemingly there is not one bloodthirsty creature in the lot. I would very much like to encounter a real living and breathing "breath-sucking" feline that is a vital threat to one's life. Come, let us live dangerously! We cannot help but wonder who "told on Tabby" in the deaths of the breath-sucking type. Did the spirit of the suffocated child return, shaking its rattle at the guilty kitten? And did the rigid body of the cat-killed adult rise with one last surge of occult power, sit upright in bed, point one lifeless finger at Puss (probably still sitting spitefully on the chest of the corpse) and utter in low, hollow tones, "Yon imp from the Pit has sucked my breath, thus I am dead"? If this is so, then we have all too long missed a good show. I want to see one.

It would seem that Le Gros is the only occultist (now or ever) worthy of the name. However, permit some of us to remain unenlightened and thus suffocated by those charming cats and kitttens, go straight to the Pit with these fascinating imps, while Le Gros proceeds to his occult heaven as pictured by the Inquisition of which Le Gros seems to be an authentic, though provincial hangover. "The Cat in repose forms a circle, even as the serpent's head bites its tail again. Thus it is the ideagraph of Divinity in Nature, the Eternal, the Universal, the Complete. It is Om, the sacred Name, the prayer that exceed all prayer and obviates words in realisation". (Howey, The Cat in Magic and Religion)

In Other Tongues, Other Flesh (published by Ray Palmer, 1953, $4) Dr. George Hunt Williamson has a special tid-bit at the bottom of page 197. "When he (man) first arrived on Earth he had no body as we think of a body, so he looked upon beast and bird and chose the physical vehicle most likely to give him attributes producing qualities of spirit. The various cat forms were attracted to the Immigrants (men), but the ape form gave them a more flexible and better controlled hand with the all important thumb. Without the thumb man couldn't have produced a civilization. The cat form was discarded." My, my, how disillusioning it must be to "worthy" occultists to hear that their ancestors, at a time when they were more concerned with "attributes producing spiritual qualities" than building civilizations, were not apes at all, or men, but CATS!

Ah well, we can't have everything. But according to Van Vechten we can have a few of the better things in life by association with the Cat. He writes on page 302 of Tiger in the House:

"We have much to learn from the cat, we men who prefer to follow the slavish habits of the dog or the ox or the horse. If men and women would become more feline, indeed, I think it would prove the salvation of the human race. Certainly it would end war, for cats will not fight for an ideal in the mass, having no faith in mass ideals, although a single cat will fight to the death for his own idealism, his freedom of speech and expression." page 304

"There is, indeed, no single quality of the cat that man could not emulate to his advantage. He is clean, the cleanest, indeed, of all the animals. . . . He is silent. . . . He believes in free speech, not only believes in it but indulges in it. . . . He is entirely self-reliant. He lives in homes because he chooses to do so. . . . The cat neither gives nor accepts invitations that do not come from the heart. If he tires of his friends sometimes, so do I. If he wishes to move he does so. . . . The cat is virile, and virility is a quality which man has almost lost. . . . He is modest, he is urbane, he is dignified. Indeed a well-bred cat never argues. He goes about doing what he likes in a well-bred and superior manner. . . . But like all well-bred individualists, and unlike human anarchists, the cat seldom interferes with other people's right. His intelligence keeps him from doing many of the fool things that complicate life."

St. George Mivart: "The Cat", page 492: "The organization of the cat tribe may be deemed superior, because it is not only excellent in itself, but because it is fitted to dominate the excellence of other beasts."

Thus, Mr. Le Gros, if we must choose between them, permit me to cast my vote and my lot, not with the "occultists worthy of the name" but with the "imps of the Pit" who are never vulgar and who, we are taught, put out considerable effort to "slay darkness and evil" . . . leading us serenely to Paradise.

I one time knew a yellow cat.
He wasn't thin, he wasn't fat,
He wasn't bold, he wasn't shy.
He was a cat . . . and so am I.
He'd sit for hours, he'd sit and think.
He wouldn't laugh, he'd only wink
When folks would do the things they do
That cats' good breeding finds taboo.
He had an easy, natural way
Of saying things he had to say.
He never argued, never fussed.
His yellow fur was never mussed.
He didn't eat the things dogs would;
He doted most on breakfast food.
He had no anxious fear of want.
His manner was quite nonchalant.
I never saw him drinking beer.
I never saw him sit and leer.
He had no urge that needed vent.
He seemed quite wholesome and content.
He went to Heaven as cats do.
He'll meet me there when I am through.
Perhaps he'll purr, perhaps he'll sigh,
For he's a cat, . . . and so am I.

"DOUBLE STANDARD" SAFETY

Recently an Atomic Energy Commission spokesman said a British Parliament member apparently used the wrong measuring rod in declaring American wheat contaminated by radioactive strontium 90, one of the elements in atomic fallout.

Scientists believe the element, in certain quantities, causes bone cancer. Chemically similar to calcium, it remains radioactive for a long time.

Dr. Charles Dunham of the AEC was commenting on a statement by Konni Zilliacus of the British Labor Party, who said U.S. wheat samples averaged 50 per cent over the AEC's safe limit for strontium 90. But Dr. Dunham said Zilliacus apparently referred to an AEC limit that was "totally irrelevant" to wheat, for which a different standard is used.

The truth is ANY strontium 90 in wheat is too much!

SHOULD AMERICANS READ FOREIGN PROPAGANDA?

Recently it has come to the attention of the editors of SEARCH that Postal Authorities have taken certain steps to protect American citizens from foreign publications which contain propaganda. Perhaps the motives are commendable; but there are two sides to every question. What are the facts in this situation? Should Americans be protected from learning foreign viewpoints? Is the act of reading foreign propaganda a blot on your citizenship? Have you the right to read anything published anywhere in the world? Read this article and write the editors of SEARCH giving your opinion.

This article is written by the editor of SEARCH and contains only his impressions, by no means complete, on the subject of receiving foreign publications through the mail. Specifically, we are referring to either direct Russian publications, or Russian inspired publications issued in other countries, such as Canada, Mexico, Argentina, or wherever they may originate. Obviously it is the propaganda of Russia which most concerns our government. The extent of our experience is due entirely to the fact that we, as publishers of SEARCH, and FLYING SAUCERS do subscribe to several foreign publications, particularly those carrying news concerning rocketry, space satellites, new scientific achievements.

To be specific in one particular instance, we mention a magazine published in Canada, called "Northern Neighbors". This magazine is devoted entirely to Soviet Russia, and consistently paints Russia in a glowing light. There can be no question that it is directly opposite to the treatment given Russia in American magazines and newspapers. It says nothing unfavorable to the Soviet Union, and in fact, says many things that are quite remarkably wonderful. It frequently criticizes America and the American government. It praises the communist system, and decries the capitalist system. Communism is all right; capitalism is all wrong. There can be no question about it —it is propaganda. But experience has shown that when it reports some development in Soviet rocketry, space satellites, or atomics, it reports truly. To do otherwise would be to expose itself as a purveyor of falsehoods. Whatever the Russians do in their propaganda, they do not act foolishly, nor say things they cannot back up. To say the Russians launched a Sputnik which weighed a specific number of pounds, and went a certain distance, only to have the claim authoritatively disproven, would be disastrous to their intentions. To say that communism is better than capitalism is opinion, and cannot be challenged except by adverse opinion. We over here live under capitalism, and when our monthly pay check arrives, we feel quite satisfied that we would not trade it for a system that will not pay us one-fifth as much in the real value of money, which is what it will buy. We pay $15.00 for a good pair of shoes, a Russian has to pay $100.00 or more, and frequently finds that he has bought paper shoes.

We think, like almost every other American, that we can read such a magazine, and not run the risk of being sold a bill of goods which is so obviously printed in rose-colored ink. What about you? Do you think you are mentally unfitted to detect insincere statements or are so gullible that you'll instantly believe everything you read? Do you judge things for yourself, or do you depend on certain authorities to analyze what you read, and then implicitly believe the analysis?

Not so long ago, we read an item in the paper which intimated that one of the things that "counted against you" in the event that your loyalty as an American citizen was questioned was whether or not you "contributed money to Communist causes", ie. subscribed to a Communist magazine (among other means of contributing, of course). We were rather incredulous concerning this item and tossed it aside as the ridiculous opinion of some "not dry behind the ears" cub reporter.

Then we listened to some of the questions hurled at individuals being questioned by Congressional Committees, and found that it was very bad for you if you'd even been a member of such organizations as "America First". It didn't matter that you'd quit long ago, and didn't even know it was Communist inspired when it attracted your attention. Your editor, personally, knew two writers in Chicago (they worked for him as fiction writers) who joined the organization. They sincerely believed it was AMERICA FIRST they had joined, and they believed also that we ought to keep our nose out of Europe's wars. They tried to get your editor to join, but your editor is not a joiner. He likes to think for himself in everything, and in fact, insists upon it. He won't even join a church, because they ask him to accept things without proof. These two writers did join, they paid dues. When we got into the war, one of them enlisted in the air force, and was killed in Germany, fighting for what he believed in, America First. The other joined the Army, and invaded and conquered Italy practically single-handed, it is our private opinion. He was a great guy. Both were great Americans.

Picture these two men, had both lived, being questioned (by some strange development) by a Congressional Committee, and being required to answer yes or no to the question "Did you ever belong to the Communist front organization, America First?"

We hope you see the injustice of it. Yet, unfortunately, your editor must admit that many times when he picks up his copy of Northern Neighbors, he feels concerned with what might happen if he ever had to answer the question: "Did you ever subscribe to a Communist-inspired propaganda magazine called Northern Neighbors?" Of course we did! And to many other magazines, the world over! We are told the Communist line is such-and-such. But unlike some of our neighbors, we don't take it for granted—we subscribe for ourselves and see for ourselves. Yes, it's true the Communist line is such-and-such. Just lately there was a glowing description of how the Communists now plant oats in the winter with the ground frozen six feet deep! They have a planter, they say, that cuts six inches down, and deposits the oat seeds. Then they get an early start in the Spring, and presto, the Communist system is better than the Capitalist system. Oatmeal two weeks earlier in Russia than in America! Only we happen to live in Wisconsin, where a lot of oats are planted, and we have NEVER seen an oat planted in the winter, or while the ground was frozen, that came up at all, or if it did, promptly froze and died, or was heaved out of the ground by the alternate frosts and thaws of Spring.

This, of course, is propaganda. Everything in the Soviet Union is done better than we do it, because they are communists, and we are capitalists. That kind of a line, shoved at us from every article in the magazine, only makes us smile, to think that the writers actually believe they are convincing anybody.

However, what about our government? What about the Postal Authorities? Do they believe the readers of Northern Neighbors are completely stupid, and must be shielded from reading the magazine, lest they believe what they read, and thus become enemies of America, become subversives, and set out to blow up the local power plant? We'd like to find out! Do they, really?

Here is what we'd like to have our readers tell us, and PROVE it: Northern Neighbors claims that its magazines and books are held up by the postal authorities, sometimes destroyed, sometimes returned. They do this, says Northern Neighbors, with the claim that it is "foreign political propaganda" and therefore "ordinarily non - mailable". Further, says Northern Neighbors, under the "Foreign Agents Registration Act" the post office sends a form letter or card to the addressee to ask whether the magazine was ordered or subscribed for, and to sign this statement.

We have subscribed to several such magazines, and have never missed a copy in the mail, nor have we had such a card sent us for our signature.

Northern Neighbors can say anything it likes about Russia. I will read it and decide for myself. After all, it is immaterial to me whether Russian farmers waste oat seed planting it in frozen ground. But when they say something about America, such as this, I quite naturally want to know if it's true or not.

Such a card would frighten many people I know, and cause them to cancel their subscriptions. And because this is so, such a card mailed to my own subscribers of this magazine would cause them to be equally frightened and would cause them to cancel their subscriptions. For instance, what if the government wanted to suppress SEARCH (purely a hypothetical supposition, we assure you)? They could write a card as follows: "Are you a subscriber to SEARCH, whose editor supports (they need not use the word subscribe) a Communist-inspired magazine named Northern Neighbors?" And the card is issued as a function of "Foreign Agents Registration Act."

There are Americans who will argue that it is a good thing for the Postal Authorities to try to keep such a magazine out of the country, so that Americans cannot read it and perhaps be swayed by its persuasive subtle (?) propaganda.

We will readily grant that there are people who can be swayed by anything, even by the most crackpot theory. Tell them you've taken a ride to Mars on a flying saucer, and have been selected to be the new savior of the world, and they'll believe you to the hilt. Psychologically, the reason for this is fear, insecurity, and the belief by some people that the world really does need a new savior. Any savior, just so he saves! But these people are in an infinitesmal minority, and even if swayed, will not effect the course of the nation or the world one whit.

What will sway the world is an acceptance by the American People that the right of Free Speech can be abrogated in any way whatsoever. We admit that Free Speech is not License. We cannot go into the street and scream four-letter words at nice old ladies. That isn't Free Speech. It is disturbing the peace. We cannot advocate the overthrow of the government. That is traitorous, subversive. If you don't like our government, our system, it's all right with us, but as long as you choose to live in a system where the majority decide the course of all their lives, you are honestly bound to cooperate.

In this country, we are entitled to read WHATEVER WE WISH. We can read every word of Communist propaganda, if that is our desire. We can examine everything spoken or written by any person on the face of the earth. We can judge it entirely on our own initiative, as best we are able. We may be incapable of good judgment, but no matter—we have the right to read or speak. Americans read "Mein Kampf" and did not believe it. Germans read it and did believe. As a result, the world fought a terrible war. But would that war have been obviated had the Postal Authorities prevented Americans from reading "Mein Kampf"? Certainly not! In fact, there were some Americans who read the book, and because they believed that Germans would believe it, became aware of the danger, and did much to help prepare us for that war, by warning us, by use of their own free speech, that Hitler was dangerous. William B. Ziff wrote "The Coming Battle of Germany" after he read the book. How "victimized" was he by the "propaganda" in "Mein Kampf"?

The question here is not whether Northern Neighbors is "foreign political propaganda" and therefore "non-mailable" but whether an American can pay in advance for anything printed anywhere and have the right to have it delivered to him through the mail just as any other printed thing is delivered.

Who in the Postal Service can decide what should and should not be read by an American? Obviously no postal service employee has the right to make this decision. Not even Congress has the right to make such a decision. Nor the Supreme Court. It is the decision solely of the American Citizen himself to decide whether he wants to read any magazine whatever. The majority of Americans, by ballot, could decide that it is illegal to subscribe to foreign magazines, but they would also have to enumerate these magazines, because to leave the decision as to "political propaganda" up to an individual would be to obviate the purpose of the law, if such a law could ever be passed.

We wish to assure all American citizens that they can read any foreign magazine they wish, propaganda or not. Their right to do this is guaranteed by the Bill of Rights, the Constitution, and the duly elected government of the United States. We do not believe that the Postal Authorities ever issued such a card as described by Northern Neighbors. If anyone can prove it, they can be assured that we will expose it, and do our utmost to see that it is stopped, and that the authors of it are dismissed from governmental service. No American can tolerate any restriction of his liberties, either by Russian arms or by the misguided efforts of addled fellow citizens.

THE END

UNDERSEA MONSTER

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Divers waited for calm seas on Thursday, March 12, 1959 to search for a hairy-legged, pointed-headed monster reported lurking in an undersea cave just off the beach at Miami Beach, Florida.

The creature's presence was reported March 11 by veteran diver Bob Wall who said he looked it right in its ugly, brown-flecked eyes.

"I've been diving 11 years and it was the most fantastic thing I ever saw," he said." I couldn't believe it."

Wall came upon the denizen while diving for sponges, coral and curiosities to show tourists aboard a glassbottomed boat. He said he looked in a cave in a reef, about 35 feet down, and there it was staring at him with its brown-spotted eyes that protrude from its head on stems.

Officials of the Miami seaquarium thought enough of Wall's graphic description to order an all-out search. Five divers were looking for the thing until gusty winds made the hunt impractical.

A BRITISHER PREDICTS THE FUTURE

Quotes from an article by Arthur Constance in "Flying Saucer Review"

Here is an interesting prophetic viewpoint on our present world situation. These predictions, made by a man whose library includes 17,000 books, all of which he has read, should bear weight, without any "unusual power" of prophecy.

I HAVE always believed that Bode and Titius were on the right track in their endeavors to formulate a law into which the planets of our system fitted; but scientists since have beeen content to ignore the tremendous significance of the discrepancies in their theoretical work. Fath (Elements of Astronomy, 1955)—to quote but one example of this indifference—says that "there is no physical reason underlying Bode's law. and it seems likely that it is merely a chance arrangement of numbers which breaks down completely for Neptune and Pluto."

I predict that a further examination of these curious Neptune and Pluto discrepancies will lead to discoveries of profound importance to modern science. and that such discoveries may express themselves in any of the following forms:

A drastic increase in the known number of asteroids above the "something like 40,000" bodies now calculated as lying between the orbit of Mars and Jupiter. and an appreciable increase in our estimate of their mass.

A revision of our present conceptions of Ceres, Pallas, Vesta and Juno, and a very different conception of the nature of planetoids and asteroids generally, particularly regarding their shapes.

The tracing of the orbits of several new planets outward from the sun beyond Pluto.

New light on Eros (which, in its orbit, approaches our earth more nearly than any celestial body, with the sole exception of our moon), so that our ideas of the nature of this wanderer may have to be changed.

I regard the investigation of the discrepancies in the Titius-Bode law of planetary distances as of paramount importance in its relation to the most significant fact of modern times; man's increasing exploration of the nature of gravity. The nature of UFOs is closely associated with the problems that science faces in this field of exploration.

Gravity will be found not to be a "property" of matter. It is an invisible force that acts upon matter. Investigating the nature of gravity will mean investigating the invisible, the spiritual, the eternal. We are about to witness a titanic clash between spiritual and materialistic forces, and this will take place in the realm of exact science, as it is called, in the field of experimentation and research. The UFO field will have its repercussions in this investigation.

There will be a growing alarm the world over regarding the increasingly pernicious effects of radioactivity. There will be a rising tide of indignation and anxiety over the menace of radioactivity.

We will pass from a period of cold war to one of cold feet. The iron curtains will give way to doormats. Top-level conferences will decide who these doormats shall be.

I foresee, meteorologically, more and more earthquakes and tornadoes, an increasing number of devastating floods, and a relentless rise in the world's ocean levels, menacing the microscopically thin land film that lies above them—which will surrender vast areas, now populated, to them—and floods of sputniks rising into space. But no human landings on other planets—not even on the moon.

I foresee, in order of menace-degree, the following possibilities of world catastrophe:

. . . The obliteration of civilization in a holocaust of flaming devastation, touched off by one or more man-made misjudgments of the Windscale type.

. . . A world-axis-shift, triggered by continued atom-bomb rehearsals, resulting in titanic floodings of the world's land surfaces.

. . . A spiritual submergence of the world under Communism's atheism, tyranny and materialism.

. . . I rate world war as a bad fourth in order of menace-degree.

I foresee at least one world government publically admitting the reality of visitants from "outer space" during the next two years, but tempering this acknowledgment with misrepresentations of their real nature and purpose.

Of far greater significance than any of these possible happenings in the world-wide trend toward faith, and away from fear, expressed in the rapid increase in the number of religious and philosophical groups recognizing the true nature of the UFOs—groups which are coagulating into unifications. This fact may soon make my four prognostications seem unimportant.

(Editors note: We have presented this bit of British prognostication by Arthur Constance because contained in it are some of the most startling items we have seen in years. Inherent in the whole article is the inference that Arthur Constance is only "hinting," that, like Nostradamus he has written in "concealment." He has said many things in certain words which reveal that he actually means something else. Yet, he has not been evasive. He says, for instance, that there will be no landings on any other planet — not even on the moon. He makes no quibble in this statement. He says it flatly without prelude, without amplication. What does he mean? All the great nations of the world have stated their intention to do exactly what he says will not occur. Not now, or ever. Arthur Constance has a secret. He has not said something, and what he has not said is possibly the most ringing statement in his whole article.

Just for the record, your editor wishes to place himself solidly behind Mr. Constance, and repeat—there will be no landings on any other planet — not even on the moon!)

THE ESSENES AND THEIR DEAD SEA SCROLLS

By Mary Elsnau

The secret is out! The background of Christianity is as old as man. With the discovery and translation of the Essene Scrolls found in caves near the Dead Sea, it has been shown that much of our Old Testament was taken from the writings of the Masters of Wisdom down through the ages. The most startling disclosure of the documents so far published is that the sect possessed, years before Christ, a terminology and practice that have always been considered uniquely Christian.

Frank M. Cross, Jr., writing a series of articles based on his own scholarly studies of the Scrolls for "The Christian Century", published in the August 1955 issues, says, "It is clear that reworked Essene documents were published in the early Christian community such as 'Enoch, the 'Testaments of the Twelve Patriarchs', and perhaps the 'Assumption of Moses', The 'Two Ways', Essene formulations found in the Didache (Teaching of the Twelve Apostles), and the 'Epistle of Baranabas', make clear that direct use of Essene materials was made in the Christian compositions."

Dr. Cross observes further that a close likeness is "to be found in their theological language, in their theology of history, in their liturgical instutitions and their ecclesiastical organizations. They apply similar terms to themselves; they are the people of the New Testament who have chosen the Way (cf. Acts 9:2, etc.) Love of God and neighbor is the sum of the Law. They are the poor in the world, the Children of Light, the Elect of God who shall judge Israel and the nations at the end of days (1 Cor. 6:2-3). They have been given an inheritance in the lot of the Holy Ones (Col. 1:12). It is in these areas," concludes Dr. Cross, "that the Essene documents are radically important for our understanding of Christian origins and for the exegesis and definition of the New Testament expressions and concepts."

These Scrolls are a thousand years older than any previously known or admitted and the Old Testament follows their meaning so closely that the text itself proves the Scrolls were freely used.

In glancing back through the pages of history we find in that day previous to the era of Christ, humanity was in much the same emotional condition as today. Many were the groups who proclaimed the coming of the New Age, that of the constellation of Pisces. Then as now, there was a feeling of insecurity, of apprehension, of change in every department of life. Today we are expecting another Savior ushering in another New Age, this time that of the constellation Aquarius.

The Pharisees were bent on holding their own in a changing world, a change of values. These Pharisees were the scribes, lawyers and interpreters of the Law. They were so attached to the letter that they lost sight of its meaning, and "the letter killeth! The Sadducees were the priestly class who had become the materialists and the money changers. In their greed for gain, they had forgotten they were supposed to preach the Way to God. These were the Sadducees whom Jesus threw out of the temples because they used them for the transaction of business. "Ye cannot worship God and mammon!" The Essenes were, according to Madam Blavatsky, "the religionists of the New Faith". Can we not see the counterparts of these three groups about us in this "enlightened" age?

"Come from among them and be ye separate", Jesus admonished, Just so the Essenes were separate from the masses of that day. They had formed a self-sustaining community of perhaps three to four thousand souls dedicated to the Spirit of Love and enlightenment. Where the priests had failed in spiritual guidance to the people, the Essenes welcomed them into their midst; they cared for the sick and elderly as for the widows and orphans; their community was a refuge to those in need.

The life of the Essenes was one of strict discipline of the flesh that the spirit might awaken and become as a Light on the Way for others less evolved. They were "overcomers" of the desire nature of the body as of materialism in general which is the ultimate goal of us all. It is true, good and evil divides the man; to balance them and become one, is the sole purpose of man.

Amongst their Scrolls we find one that has been called the "War of the Sons of Light Against the Sons of Darkness." It is a blend of history and mysticism as are all their writings. Here we have the historical background, in great detail, of the struggle between the Israelites and the native tribes of Palestine. We are told of the number of men and of how they were maneuvered, of trumpets and horns and horses and of sling shots and javelins. It is like the descriptions of battle left by Rhamses that he had carved on pillars in the Rhamaseum in Egypt. It is also a version of the war in heaven against Belial, the prince of darkness. One of the Scrolls is addressed to the Archangel Michael, "whose countence is like that of the Sun." God was so intertwined in their daily lives that they lived with Him in all they did.

The Essenes were only one of many contemporary sects. The great Masters of previous ages had established their institutions of learning including great libraries, and their followers were still active. Of such great Masters, Spiritual leaders of men, Pythagoras, 5th century B.C. philosopher whose school was in Crotona, Greece, was one. Pythagoras also was master of geometry, astronomy, mathematics, music and medicine. His system of the universe placed the sun in the center and all the planets moving in elliptical orbits around it. Not until the 16th century, by the most accurate calculations, was this proved to be true.

Plato who taught at his Academy near Athens for forty years, lived about a hundred years after the time of Pythagoras. He too studied at the Sacred Shrines of Persia, India, Chaldea and Egypt, as did Pythagoras. Jesus is said to have made this same circuit in his formative years.

Minos was another great Mystic and Leader of Men who built his palace on the Island of Crete which when excavated, was found to be more modern in plumbing, indirect lighting, radiant heat as well as in fashions and art than we of today!

These great Master Initiates taught of the Source of man, the meaning of the Soul and how to awaken its mystic powers. They gave laws to regulate the affairs of men and ecclesiastical principals for their spiritual growth. When these were followed, as when we follow the precepts of Jesus, peace and harmony fills our daily lives.

To return to the Sadducees. They called themselves the Sons of Zadok which shows how far they had fallen from their priestly class. Zadok or Zedeq, it is said, was the High-priest under David and the first of the Jewish priestly line to serve in the Temple of Solomon. But Solomon copied his temple after that of Enoch, son of Jared and father of Methusaleh, whose life is told in Gen. 5:18-24. The name, signified in Hebrew, "Initiate."

The Treasury of Atreus, discovered by Schliemann in Mycenae on the Island of Crete, is none other than the Temple of Enoch who built it with the help of his son Methuseleh, according to the plan shown to him by the Deity of the Mysteries as we read the Essenean account in the Book of Enoch. At the completion of this Temple, while handing two golden and inscribed triangles to Methusaleh, Enoch whispered into his ear the Secrets of Initiation, proving these were handed from father to son throughout generations.

Out of the Hindu Kush mountains and down into the Indus Valley came a people who gave to the world the great Mystic and Teacher, Rama and his beautiful wife, Sita, Rama is yet widely revered in India; it was to Rama that the late Mahatma Ghandi prayed. These settlers of the Indus Valley brought with them their religion in the form of the Vedic Hymns. In these early days they were sung or chanted, even as they worked or played, finally they were reduced to writing in the sacred language of the Brahmans or Sanskrit. It is in these Hymns we find the Ramayana and the Mahabharata, two great and sacred Books treating of this classical period, both historical and religious, even as our Bible, describing also the wars between the forces of Light and those of darkness, just as in the Essene Scrolls.

Their laws were embodied in the Institutes of Manu. This Code of Laws was found to be so complete that it later formed the basis of our jurisprudence. They regulated their moral and social life and prescribed punishments for infractions. Purity of life was enjoined. Six Books of these Vedic Hymns include the sciences of phonetics, music, grammar, etymology, astronomy and ceremonials or ritual. They also contain history and scientific discussions as well as religious teachings for the Sanskrit literature belongs to an imaginative and creative, as well as to a serious and thoughtful, people. Manu too, is still revered in the religion of the Brahmans.

The Essenes embraced all these religions, the Greek, Persian, Chaldean and Egyptian, for all were basically the same. One center was in Alexandria, Egypt, and known as the Therapeutae. They were adept at healing, therapists, as the name indicates. They also taught the same principals as those of Zoroaster.

Zoroaster is said to have first invented the doctrines of the Magi, delved deeply into the researches of philosophy, the creation of the world and of man, and the study of astronomy. He was a great Teacher who reformed the religious system of his country He was known as a lawgiver and a philosopher and his laws too, are still the legal code among many. His followers are yet to be found in Persia and in India they are known as the Parsees. Like Pythagoras, Zoroaster admitted to no visible object for devotion except fire that burns and purifies. The Sun was the Light of the World, it gave light and warmth. It was worshipped as the symbol only, of the Great Creator, the Solar Aura, the Ahura Mazda. Fire was man's nearest approach to the great orb, the Sun.

And Akhnaton of Egypt, he who purified the religion of his day, pictured the Sun's rays as extended hands reaching out to the people as in giving blessing and receiving homage in return. Again, the Sun was the symbol only, of the Great Deity.

All these people of the various communities held great solar festivals at the time of the solstices. The Spring for Renewal of life, the rising of the dead of their then spiritual Leader, Teacher or Prophet. Our Easter is named for Esther of Assyria. This was followed by the Summer, then the Fall for Halloween or All Soul's Day when they paid homage to their ancestors. December 21, the shortest day of the year, was set aside as the Day of Birth. The Sun was coming out from its winter rest as each day thereafter grew longer; once again, Light prevailed over darkness.

The rising and setting of the Sun were greeted with hymns of praise. Their temples were always open to the rising sun. Here again we find the doctrine of the conflict between the powers of Light and those of darkness. According to the Zoroaster doctrine, Ormuzd led the powers of Darkness. In early ages, yet his philosophy, our Bible we have The Angel Michael doing battle against Lucifer and of course, the Light always prevails, and this too, as we said, is included in the Scrolls of the Essenes.

According to Pliny, these various groups composed a Hermetic Society that had existed from ages past. Hermes of Egypt, was of the early ages, yet his philosophy, which word means, "the study of the soul", was still being taught.

In the Book of Judges, composed a thousand years before the Christian era, this esoteric body is referred to as "Nazarines." In the Book of Kings they are designated as the "School of the Prophets." At a later date the Book of Maccabees speaks of them as an "Inner Circle" that was not only singularly "devoted to the law," but also manifested to a high degree the "active love of God". They were also called, "Hasidees," a name meaning "the pious ones." All these were contemporaries of the Essenes and all held in common the same forms of pure worship of the Great Creative Spirit. The writings of the Essenes, as with the others, were full of mysticism, parables, enigmas and allegories which same were copied down in our Old Testament.

Even the legends of the gods are included. In an old catacomb in Rome, Vatican archaeologists uncovered mythological frescoes side by side with biblical subjects. A report on the discovery made by the Pontifical Commission of Sacred Archeology of April 1956, states that the "archeologists were amazed that such subjects were chosen to embellish the tombs of early Christians."

It is a well known fact that Isis and Osiris, Gods of Egypt, and the infant Horus, were often mistaken for Joseph, Mary and the Christ Child. And Isis was often portrayed as Goddess of the Seas, Protectoress of voyagers. Demeter, Goddess of Abundance, represented the fruitfulness of the earth. The Demeter Mysteries have a Christian analogy. Persephone, daughter of Demeter, is carried away by Pluto to the underworld where her mother after a search discovers her installed as a queen. "This myth" observes Madame Blavatsky, "was transcribed by the Church into the legend of St. Anna going in quest of her daughter Mary, who has been conveyed by Joseph into Egypt."

One entire cubicle of the catacomb is covered with frescoes of the Twelve Labors of Hercules taken from the twelve houses of the zodiac. The Greeks interpreted this into the Twelve Labors of Samson as told in the Book of Judges. These lives and labors run parallel and each of these men represented the symbol of the Sun, or the Son of the Sun, God. In the early days of Christianity, the old and the new were mingled together, Christianity and philosophy, the apostolic teachings and the traditions of mythology.

John M. Dawson, LL.D., in his book, "Traditions of the Creation", writes, "A strange and startling confirmation of the antiquity of the Old Chaldaeo-Turanian legends, and of their wide distribution, comes from the traditions of the American tribes. The scribe who reduced to writing the 'Popul Vuh, the Sacred Book of the Ancient Quiches of Central America,' has the same order and sequence of creation, and the same ideas of the cosmological gods, and of the introduction of man upon the earth."

A building of the same plan as that of the Temple of Enoch on Crete, is still to be seen in Yucatan, Mexico. It, like the Great Pyramid of Cheops, the Tower of Babel and other great temples, was consecrated to the study of astronomy as well as a Temple of Initiation "for the performance of certain religious ceremonies connected with the worship of the sun, moon and other celestial bodies," according to August Le Plongeon, in his book, "The Sacred Mysteries among the Mayas and the Quiches, 11,500 years ago." This is further proof that our Bible is a true, Holy Book as it is also a history, however garbled as to the timing of events. For all books of the ancients contained much the same material, ritual and laws as does ours. We are not alone!

Dr. William F. Albright of John Hopkins University says The Dead Sea Scrolls are "unquestionably the most valuable of all scrolls yet known from the standpoint of history." They fill a goodly portion of the time which elapsed between the Old and New Dispensations hitherto called the "silent" centuries. Their inspirational writings were the same as those of the many ancient Masters of Wisdom.

Even though the Sadducees fell from their high office, the Wisdom was not lost for the Essenes, seeing what the conditions were in turn called themselves the Sons of Zadok, claiming Zadok their Preceptor for the spiritual life they lived. Josephus, the historian of the first century of our era, noted that the binding element in their community life was based on their zeal for virture and their love of mankind. They followed Isiah's admonition found in their own writings, "Prepare ye the Way of the Lord, make straight in the desert a highway for our God." The "desert" meaning the drought of spirituality, even as we see it in our day, i.e., the worship of God by lip service rather than coming from the heart, and the "highway", meaning to be a Light on the Path.

When John the Baptist came upon the scene, he bridged the old world with the new. He prescribed baptism by immersion in water as practiced by the Essenes, a ritual ceremony of Initiation which was the method used in all the Mysteries. Initiation into the Mysteries was always completed by immersion in water that a New Birth might commence for they were born into the Spirit and this is the Second Birth. This was not a Jewish rite but a sacramental ceremony. John was an Essene and an Initiate into the Wisdom of the Ancients. And John echoed the very words of Isiah, "Prepare ye the way of the Lord, make his paths straight."

The Magi, Initiates of this Wisdom, knew of the prophecy of a new Savior to be born among men and searched the heavens for a sign. Eventually they saw three conjunctions of the planets, Jupiter and Saturn in the constellation Pisces which astronomers say occurred in the year 4 B.C. By their calculations, they knew exactly the latitude and longitude here on earth where they would find the Babe. Taking with them their simple offerings honoring a Great Spiritual Soul, they started out on their long trek until they came to the city of Bethlehem. There they searched for and found the Infant. From this day he was watched over and cared for, even though in secret, by the Essene Brotherhood.

CAPSULE FROM ANOTHER WORLD

By Russel Fitzgerald
2220 Filmore Street
San Francisco, Calif.

Here is a strange true story of a lost pen knife, and how it came to light nineteen years later through the ministrations of an apparition in a dream.

If there is such a thing as "hell on earth" it must be knowing something to be true and yet so out of the ordinary that when one attempts to relate it, he is scoffed at and ridiculed. I am the victim of such a situation. I know something to be true which, when I try to talk about it, causes people to shake their heads in disbelief.

Last year, while I was still an undergraduate at college, I had what must be called a revelation dream. In my dream a figure appeared, spoke my name and told me to write down what he told me. Then the dream, which was overwhelmingly realistic, ended.

When I awoke I found that I had a note, written in my handwriting, crumpled in my hand. I was shocked.

The note read: "I am Valo. You will find truth in the capsule."

Instead of a signature, the note was signed with a crude little drawing of what seems to be a white rabbit.

I was bewildered and filled with wonder at this happening, but felt, at the time, that the event could in someway be explained. Perhaps, I thought, over-studying had caused me to walk in my sleep and write the note.

But there is no such simple explanation, for that very afternoon, as I was on my way to class, something caused me to walk directly to the middle of the athletic field and there find a little plastic capsule. I was beginning to suspect some sort of hoax or prank when I opened the container, but inside I found something that ruled out any possibility of trickery. I found a small pen knife with my name engraved on one side, and the year 1940 inscribed on the other.

I knew the knife well, for my father had given it to me just before his death. I lost the knife just a few months later and have often thought of it, wishing in some way I might have it back as a remembrance of my father. The incredible thing is that I lost the knife while my family was in Salt Lake City, Utah. There is no doubt that it is the same knife, for in one corner there are a few little scratches where my brother tried to write "Dad" with a needle.

Along with the knife was a one word note, again signed with a small representation of a rabbit. The second note said: "Later."

I do not pretend to understand the significance of what has happened. I do not know what the name "Valo" means; I have never heard it used by anyone. I do not know the significance of the rabbit which is used for a signature, and I certainly can in no way explain how a knife that was lost for nineteen years could reappear in the middle of an athletic field. I have no idea what the cryptic "Later" means.

I have not been revisited. I only know that the events, uncanny and fantastic as they are, happened as I described them and that I am being honest. If there is a psychological explanation for what happened, I would be the first one to listen. If there is some occult explanation I would still be open minded. but the truth is there just does not seem to be an explanation.

THE END

LONDON FLYING SAUCER REAL

A real flying saucer is reported to have been seen over London airport by four reliable witnesses on Feb. 26, 1959.

British air ministry officials have definitely classified the object as "unidentified," which means that it is not believed to have been either a stray weather balloon, a searchlight beam playing on a cloud, a planet, or anything else that is commonly mistaken for saucers.

The object consisted of a "glowing disk" which is reported to have hovered over the airport for 20 minutes.

The traffic control officer in the airport tower reported he examined the thing with binoculars without being able to identify it.

The fact that radar failed to react to it led to the theory that it was probably a searchlight reflection but investigation indicated there were no clouds at the time.

The object was estimated to have been about 200 feet up.

The report was taken seriously enough to be broadcast to the entire British nation by the BBC on its home program today. Days later the report was denied.

FLYING SAUCERS and SPIRITISM

By Clare John Jensen

The flying saucer phenomena is intricately interwoven with spiritualism phenomena. It is an extension, quickening, continuation, and an elaboration of phenomena for which the spiritualists have been ridiculed by the learned, the orthodox, and the unknowing for an hundred years.

I wish to examine similarities between the two phenomena because I believe an understanding of what happens in spiritualistic experiences is the touchstone or key to understanding the flying saucer incidents.

I use the word spiritism in preference to spiritualism to indicate a common basis of spirit or ideal philosophy—to avoid the implication that I maintain flying saucers are peopled by "dead" earthlings. I only say, I repeat, spiritualism is the touchstone or key to understanding the flying saucer phenomena. Again, I do not wish to maintain that all flying saucer events can be explained from this touchstone; but I do maintain a good part of them can be.

It is routine among the learned to explain away mysterious phenomena, and if this cannot be done, to ignore it. I find it indicative of good-breeding, scholarship, and education to be able to close one's mind to phenomena which does not fit into the orthodoxy of science or religion. Even those who admit the phenomena of spiritualism or flying saucers, disparage it, or ignore it.

To the learned I point out the phenomena exists. Since the facts fail to meet with your theories, the theories will have to be changed. Either that, or give up any pretention to knowledge or a search for objective truth.

To the religious I point out the phenomena itself is of incalculable worth. Christ was himself the greatest producer of phenomena which violated the everyday knowledge of the world given to us by science. Phenomena, rather than being of a low worth to religion is of the highest imaginable worth. Alongside it, all discussion and writing pale to insignificance.

The question is not whether you believe in flying saucers or spiritis-itic phenomena, but, whether or not you are acquainted with the facts.

If you do not know the facts, it is useless to argue against them.

That is why science has taken over the intellectual world. It has produced the facts.

In this connection, Dr. McDougall, writing in the Journal of the Society of Psychical Research in 1923, writes as follows:

"Unless Psychical Research . . . can discover facts incompatible with materialism, materialism will continue to spread. No other power can stop it; revealed religion and metaphysical philosophy are equally helpless before the advancing tide. And if that tide continues to rise and to advance as it is doing now, all the signs point to the view that it will be a destroying tide, that it will sweep away all the hardwon gains of humanity, all the moral traditions built up by the efforts of countless generations for the increase of truth, justice and charity." [1]

We must realize the man who avidly teaches atheism rather than theism and/or Christianity is neither more perverse, stupid, nor uninterested in the value of life than the religiously inclined. Rather, in the light of Twentieth Century Science, he—as the apostles of Christ—teach the truth as they see it, regardless of the consequences. These men are not the little minds of the age; they are among the greatest. Unless we produce the facts, their theories will continue to spread.

Those psychic facts which have been ignored by science are becoming more common today. These facts have been there all along, but, because they apparently supported traditional religion, science has ignored them. With the popularization of these facts, the man with a passion for truth, whether he be scientist or religionist, will have to take into account certain inexplicable phenomena which in the past has been ruled out as the most gross superstition by science, and as valueless by religion.

This is what psychic research and spiritualism have been saying for an hundred years. In fact, I find a most interesting time element between the rappings of spirits at Hydesville, New York, in 1847 and 1848, which is usually considered the beginning of modern Spiritualism, and the sightings of flying saucers by Kenneth Arnold in Washington State in 1947, which is considered the beginning of present day saucer phenomena. We have here a burst of phenomena separated by 99 to 100 years, and, while, it does not pay to push the time element as of any importance, I am fascinated by the time span.

Regarding the flying saucers, the public has been led to believe, I should say has been misled to believe, that when an object has been labeled as unknown that its existence is doubted, or unproven, or unprovable. But the facts are, and they are available to anyone who will take the trouble to investigate the literature in the field, that what is unknown is their nature and not their existence.

Official bulletins from the United States Army Air Force have purposely confused this issue. I say, purposely, because the weasel-wording of official communiques is well known among the students of flying saucers. Again, I say, it is a purposeful deception of the public because men who use every fallacy of logic in their attempts to squash the flying saucers stories, must, I assume, have a nodding acquaintance with logic in order to so successfully avoid drawing the obvious conclusions.

In particular, I refer you to the book, The Report On The Unidentified Flying Objects, by Edward J. Ruppelt, who was from early 1951 until September 1953, chief of the United States Air Force's Project Blue Book, the agency set up in this country for the investigation of the phenomena. Ruppelt says in so many words that the powers-that-be are anti-flying saucer. To stay in favor, the investigators followed suit. The official policy is not to talk about them, to ignore them, in the hope they will go away.

Again, I repeat, when the Air Force says there is no proof of flying saucers, and states that those things which they cannot identify are unknown, they are saying not that the flying saucers do not exist but they do not know their nature. (Example of one unknown, Ruppelt's book, p. 303-5) Or, to put it another way, it is simply a matter of logic. Because you cannot determine the nature of something, does not mean you have disproven its existence.

Dr. Schiller of the "Society of Psychical Research" some years ago wrote as follows: "A mind unwilling to believe, or even undesirous to be instructed, our weightiest evidence must ever fail to impress. It will insist on taking the evidence in bits and rejecting item by item. The man who announces his intention of waiting until a single absolutely conclusive bit of evidence turns up, is really a man not open to conviction, and if he be a logician, he knows it. For modern logic has made it plain that single facts can never be 'proved' except by their coherence in a system. But as all the facts come singly, anyone who dismisses them one by one is destroying the conditions under which the conviction of new truth could ever arise in his mind."[2]

You can ignore isolated cases of spiritism and flying saucer phenomena without reflection upon your intellectual capabilities or moral insight. But when hundred of thousands of observations in psychic research and flying saucer phenomena are written off, ignored, or condemned, when science ignores the facts, when religion condemns the facts, we must call into question the powers of the human imagination and reason and moral insight as it is understood by science and religion; either that, or we must give up all reliance in human testimony of any sort.

I find the following relationships in the phenomena of spiritism and flying saucers:

1.) FIRST, I wish to point out certain surface similarities between spiritist and flying saucer investigations and belief in both phenomena. Other than ascribing to communism in the United States, there is no quicker way to commit intellectual suicide. Our culture has not yet realized that orthodoxy is not a term confined to religion, but a pigheadedness characteristic of all creeds and cultures. The average citizen, as well as the average, original thinker of our age is as orthodox as the average citizen, and average, original thinker of a thousand, two thousand, or seven thousand years ago. Our orthodoxy is based in science; the medieval age based its orthodoxy in religion.

Except for the Spiritualist, no group has been more ridiculed than the men contacted by flying saucers. The history of saucer or spiritualistic phenomena is unknown or ignored. The witnesses to phenomena are impugned. If the man in the street sees it, it is not valid because he is not a scientist, and ipso facto, a competent observer. If a scientist witnesses inexplicable phenomena, it is not valid because the scientist must have misinterpreted the phenomena, because the phenomena does not correspond with the known and accepted make up of the universe.

Often there is a strange inadequacy of evidence, according to scientific standards. However, because you cannot weigh or measure psychic manifestations in the same way as physical matter does not mean the former is less metaphysically real, but that we will have to adopt a new methodology if we wish to give an accurate account of the universe.

No manner of documentation, witnessing, or photography is accepted as proof of anything psychic by science, yet, it is exactly this type of proof which psychic phenomena must depend on for the greater part to convince the casual observer, the scientist, or the man in the street. If signed statements under the seal of notary publics are presented, the witnesses are lying, or if sincere, they imagine what they claim to have seen. Or, it is said, the phenomena was real for them, which is the most common and ignorant evading of the issue. If no photographs are presented, the witnesses are lying. If photographs are presented, they are forgeries; or, negatively, they cannot be proven to be forgeries, which carries the implication they are forgeries.

For the most part, it is undoubtedly true the scientist knows absolutely nothing about psychic or spiritistic phenomena or flying saucers, has never investigated, has—at best, and only in rare instances—any knowledge of the existence of the literature in the field, and is a pri ori committed against the existence of such phenomena. His most elementary and childish explanations of the phenomena are listened to as indicative of erudition and great learning. Of course, this is characteristic of orthodoxy, and if you are really curious about the phenomena, all I ask is that you find out for yourself without permitting orthodoxy to settle the issue for you.

2.) Regarding the powers of the people contacted by the saucers. The contactees are often psychically gifted, they hear clairaudiently, see clairvoyantly, on occasion. Their psyches go out of their bodies for hours or days at a time and consequently they write about experiences out of the body. In particular, I call attention to three so-called saucer books: Angelucci's The Secret of the Saucers Dana Howard's My Flight To Venus, and Cecil Michael's Round Trip To Hell In A Flying Saucer.

The men contacted by the saucers and spirits are not usually academically trained. There is a use of the formally uneducated to bring the word, as it were. I tend to agree with the explanation given by the contactees themselves for this. The academically trained are beyond being reached. Their minds are set in such ruts, intellectual and lofty as they may be, that they are beyond basic changes in belief.

Often the men contacted claimed to be writing from dictation, that they are an amanuensis. I understand Daniel Fry to write from dictation in Alan's Message To Men Of Earth.

The effect upon the human contacted by other beings is either one of overwhelming harmony, or, in the case of contacts by what I shall term "undesirables," fear. Adamski explains his feelings of inadequacy, love, goodness in the presence of these beings. On the other hand, we find an overwhelming terror. A scoutmaster in Florida claims to have seen an ogre and have been momentarily paralyzed by a ray. These latter cases are not as uncommon as we would like to believe.

3) Regarding the spirits and the saucer people themselves. I find both spirits and saucer people can often read our minds. Daniel Fry in his first book, The White Sands Incident, mentions the saucer contact had picked his mind clear. Also, these beings have mastered mental telepathy.

The language used by the spirits and the saucer people is cryptic. We find in common among the men contacted, reference to the fact that when these beings speak, there is greater depth, meaning and perspective in what they say than when we ordinarily converse with a person. Adamski, Fry, and Bethurum mention this.

Overwhelmingly, the spirits and saucer people offer help and sympathy to the people on this plane or earth.

The beings contacted are often what we call traditionally angels and devils, but what is re-defined today by the people contacted, as being nothing but spiritually developed or spiritually retarded human beings. Often the people are of great beauty and great age, although their physical appearance is of man or woman of thirty. Usually, it is remarked their beauty is rather a spiritualness or inner glow than it is a matter of carnality.

While the people contacted by spiritism seem to be in between incarnations i.e., the spirits, the people, i.e., the saucer people, contacted by the saucers seem to come from other planets. There is reason to believe that when they say they come from other planets, it is not from a physical world as we know it. I would point out in passing here, that as I conceive it, the age regression or Bridey Murphy experiments are studies in the incarnations themselves. The spiritualists for the greater part deal with an examination of the life between incarnations, and the flying saucer people are from a world, rather worlds, of which neither of the two previous studies is cognizant.

The culture or civilization of the spirits or saucer people is Utopian or ideal. There is neither war nor pestilence, sickness, final death, politicians nor singing commercials.

The beings themselves are there as it were, but are invisible to the normal eye, as we conceive it. This matter has its best formulation in the work of Meade Layne, of the Borderland Sciences Research Associates, of San Diego (California).

There is a spectrum of tangibility, ending in forms of matter which are too dense to be touched, just as there is a spectrum of sound, ending in sounds we cannot hear, and a spectrum of color, ending in colors we cannot see.

The beings themselves have strange and marvelous powers. That these powers exhibited by the saucer people and vouched for by the spirits are not super-natural but, rather, super-normal, is what I wish to suggest. That certain men on earth have developed these natural powers I insist. That these powers are not necessarily indicative of great spiritual enlightenment, but are based in physiological potentialities of all men, I believe.

4) I wish to point out certain similarities in the phenomena and production of phenomena of spiritism and flying saucers.

Music and singing are employed at seances, for it has long been observed there is a close connection between musical vibrations and psychic results. Many reports of flying saucers accompanied by a humming or organlike sound are known.

Inexplicable noises are recorded accompanying both saucer and spiritistic phenomena.

Conditions of communication with saucer people and spirits are often similar. For example, the Van Tassel group at Giant Rock, near Twenty-Nine Palms (California) has views which are out and out spiritualistic. Many of their views seem to be based in Swedenborg, the first great modern Spiritualist. From my readings of Van Tassel, I should imagine he would agree with the following which are the prime conditions for a successful seance.

1. A regular and certain time should be set; e.g., 8 p.m., Tuesday night, every week.

2. A larger group is more conducive to results than a smaller group because it gives more mind power with which to work.

3. The group must be harmonious—antagonisms should be avoided.

4. The group should be confident or optimistic of results. This attitude is essential.

5. The participating minds should be passive rather than active. Rather than concentrating on communication and trying to send thoughts, the mind must be relaxed and phenomena allowed to come to you, as it were.

Globes of light are common to the seance room and flying saucer phenomena. The weird and varied lights of the saucers are recorded in your papers every day. Therefore I shall call your attention to phenomena of the seance room with which you may not be acquainted. I quote respected and competent witnesses:

Sir Wm. Crookes writes:

"I have seen a solid self-luminous body, the size and nearly the shape of a turkey's egg, float noiselessly about the room, at one time higher than anyone present could reach standing on tiptoe, and then gently descend to the floor. It was visible for more than ten minutes, and before it faded away it struck the table three times with a sound like that of a hard solid body. During this time the medium was lying back, apparently insensible, in an easy chair." [3]

Sir Wm. Barrett writes:

". . . Luminous appearances accompanying the mediumship of D.D. Home and the Rev. Stainton Moses and others, have been observed under such stringent conditions that they cannot be set aside as fraudulent. Points of light darting about the room and floating luminous patches, I have frequently witnessed . . ." [4]

Regarding the lights themselves, and the changing colors of the lights so often reported with saucer sightings, I find interesting ground for speculation in the work of Baron Von Reichenbach and his theory of odic force. His experiments with mediums proved there is a luminous emanation from metals, in fact from everything they tested in the seance room. Metals gave the most vivid impressions: Iron gave off a red glow, as did copper and mercury; lead, cobalt and palladium gave blue flames; silver and cadmium gave off white flames. The poles of magnets emitted flames, reddish-yellow from the south pole; bluish-green from the north pole.

I point out that the saucer contactees claim the saucers are made of an alloy and are operated on magnetic principles which we do not understand. I point out there have been experiments, in the work of Reichenbach, which suggest there is a relationship between whatever magnetism is, and the changing colors of various materials. I assume the saucer people understand and utilize certain magnetic or electromagnetic powers we do not understand, and the many changing lights associated with the saucer phenomena is the physical manifestation of powers being used, just, for example, as we recognize a steam or coal burning locomotive from its smoke, or we know an electric train from its hum.

The so-called angel's hair seen with flying saucers seems to be the equivalent of ectoplasm seen in the seance room. Tentatively, we might suggest, the saucers and spirit forms both emanate from different planes, probably not the same plane, but at any rate it is this emanating or materialization and dematerialization which is accompanied by ectoplasm in the seance room and the same thing under the name of angel hair in much saucer phenomena.

There is reason to believe, that just as ectoplasm is not necessarily visible, it nevertheless is there, that is, in the seance room, as necessary to producing the phenomena, or making it visible to our human sense; so, angel's hair may often—or, perhaps, necessarily?—accompany the saucer materializations without being itself visible. We might suggest in passing, tentatively, that, we see saucers because angel's hair is there whether or not we see it, rather than we see angel's hair sometimes accompanying saucer phenomena.

However, I am concerned here with the visible manifestations of ectoplasm and angel's hair. I shall read you a description of ectoplasm by a Dr. Geley written many years ago regarding the mediumship of a certain Eva C.

"A substance emanates from the body of the medium, (and) it externalizes itself . . . This substance takes various forms but in general it shows more or less composite organs . . . We may distinguish: 1. the substance as a substratum of materialization and 2. its organized development. Its appearance is generally announced by the presence of fluid, white and luminous flakes of a size ranging from that of a pea to that of a five franc piece, and distributed here and there over the medium's black dress, principally on the left side . . . the substance occurs in various forms, sometimes as ductile dough, sometimes as a true protoplastic mass, sometimes in the form of numerous thin threads, sometimes as cords of various thickness, or in the form of narrow rigid rays, or as a broad band, as a membrane, as a fabric, or as a woven material, within definite and irregular outlines. The most curious appearance is presented by a widely expanded membrane, provided with fringes and rucks, resembling in appearance a net . . . The physiological connection is sometimes perceptible in the form of a thin cord joining the structure with the medium, which might be compared with the umbilical cord joining the embryo to its parents." [5]

With this information at your fingertips, I ask you to listen not only with an open mind, but with new understanding, to the following flying saucer reports:

"Marysville, Ohio: November 1, 1953: Two teachers and sixty students saw a cigar-shaped flying saucer which hovered over Jerome Elementary school. Principal Rodney Warrick, one of the witnesses, said the strange machine appeared to have windows. Its luminosity was so brilliant that he had to shield his eyes. Suddenly, the object, moving silently, accelerated to a terrific speed. As it raced westward, it left a three mile trail of milky white asbestos-like strands which settled over trees, bushes, and telephone line. Both Warrick and Dittmar, the other teacher, recovered some of the angel's hair. When they pulled one strand into a thread, they found it so tough that it could hardly be broken. But a few moments after they had touched it, the substance disappeared."

"In 1952 a report from northern France stated hundreds of citizens had watched a huge cigar-shaped machine escorted by a squadron of flying discs. As the formation speeded up, a trail of angel's hair was seen to come from the tail of the mother ship. In another incredible story from France, frightened citizens insisted they had seen some of the web-like substance trap a doctor like an insect caught in a web. As he struggled, the witnesses said, the angel's hair released him, regathered and rose into the air."

"Another report from Pierre Closterman, a French air ace, flying near Marseilles, sighted a fast moving saucer from which 'little white flakes were escaping:' " [6] 5). Regarding certain beliefs and practices of the spiritists and saucer groups, there is an unanimity of belief in survival after death. But this belief is based in fact rather than fancy, according to the groups.

In general, it is believed Christ was incarnated to help mankind, that he was divine, and while the spiritualists have many positions on the exact role of Christ, the saucer groups would seem to believe that we are all potential Christs, at least in theory if not in practice, that the Christ was merely the Perfected Man, the ultimate goal of the human being.

It is the role of Christ in spiritism and saucer phenomena which makes it the most repugnant to the educated man of today. My personal conviction at this point in my life is that in its struggle against the medieval church, science threw out the baby with the bath water, as it is usually put.

We find prophecy and unfulfilled prophecy among the writings of the saucer contacts and the spiritists.

Although the flying saucer believers and spiritualists differ widely among themselves as to their beliefs, they are basically in agreement as to the value of the phenomena and its reality.

I wish to point out the overwhelmingly high moral connotations of contacts with the spirits and the saucer people. Particularly, I refer you to the messages from the saucers.

The men who have been contacted by the saucers agree basically in this: they have been told that our technological or scientific development has outstripped our social or moral enlightenment. Unless we change and act differently than we have in the past, we will blow ourselves from the face of the earth. This is also what our wise men have told us.

In concluding, I wish to say this: I did not invent the saucer or spiritistic phenomena. There have happened certain things, facts have been observed, facts exist, which demand explanation.

The explanations are fantastic I admit. The explanations, however, are no more fantastic than the facts themselves. The only theories I have found which approximate an explanation of the phenomena are the so-called crackpot. It is either work with crackpot theories or ignore the phenomena. I do not choose to ignore the phenomena; I cannot ignore facts.

If you ask why the saucers do not announce themselves, I say they have. But the witnesses are impugned. As far as announcing themselves to the U. S. government, there is nothing to announce. Saucers have been seen throughout the ages and recorded without number and have not announced themselves to governments. It may be the saucer people have no faith in earth governments.

If you ask why the flying saucer activity now, I answer by analogy in all seriousness. Ordinarily, we ignore the ant kingdom. If however, it indicated its readiness to blow up the earth because its red ants could not live next to its black ants, we should be forced to pay closer attention to the mites.

If you ask why the governments do not officially announce the existence of the saucers, I answer that the saucer phenomena so violates all known and accepted scientific and religious knowledge, the intellectual and religious world would immediately label the announcement itself crackpot. Ruppelt's book says, in essence, the airforce of the U.S. does not itself know what the saucers are. Further, no government official wishes to take the responsibility of announcing something which is as unpredictable and has as many ramifications as the saucer phenomena. It would be like the U.S. government announcing tomorrow that it had been mistaken all along and it had decided after investigation that communism was preferable to capitalism. I believe the U.S. government would have announced the existence of the saucers, ultimately, if the saucers came from other planets in the physical sense as we understand it. They apparently do not. At least, so many of the saucers come from other planes that the governments are at a loss to explain them with orthodox ideas. The people contacted are flesh and blood and spirit, even as we are. I refer you again to the work of Meade Layne of San Diego. [7]

At the present time the U.S. government must accept explanations of men like Adamski, Van Tassel, and Meade Layne, and these explanations are so "crackpot", according to orthodox experts of our intellectual world, most people cannot believe the theories.

No revolution in thought or in state has come about through an official announcement. If you wait to have your views sanctioned by orthodoxy, you shall wait in vain. No matter how repugnant the thought is, we shall have to think for ourselves.

We must not be afraid of being labeled crackpot by men who advocate atomic war or indifference in the face of it. Our intellectual and moral leaders have demonstrated their inability to cope with the situation. They have been unsuccessful in preventing two previous world wars.

Unless we take thought, and begin to act, unless we refuse to accept the axiom, war is inevitable, UNLESS we realize exactly what the saucer people have been telling us is the TRUTH about our world, we shall all, most assuredly, be destroyed.

INFANTS' BODIES HAVE STRONTIUM

A medical professor at Kagoshima University (Japan) reported on March 1, 1959, that bodies of recent stillborn infants showed a high percentage of strontium 90, a deadly radioactive element thrown off by nuclear explosions. He said the strontium probably was present in the mother's food and passed on to the embryo.

The MYSTERY of the MAYAN TEMPLE

PART II

By Mary Elsnau

Modern science is baffled by its own recent discovery of a burial tomb in a pyramid in Palenque, Mexico. It does not know the meaning nor the age of this tomb because science and religion are not united as they were in olden days; today science is divorced from religion; we have advanced in scientific knowledge at the expense of our spiritual progress.

If we view this remarkable discovery with open minds and from an entirely different angle, free of preconceived notions, not trying to fit the facts with what we think ought to be, but making the facts fit and then evaluating them, we come to an entirely different conclusion, vastly more grand than the scientists themselves are aware. By following old sources of history, and using the modern discoveries of archaeologists and blending these with the Wisdoms of the Sacred Mysteries, we can learn a great deal of the ancient religious rites and learn the secret of this tomb.

Bishop Landa, one of Cortez's followers, tells us in his book, Las Cosas de Yucatan, that the Mayas sciences, their history and religious tenets, with the rites and observances which they practised, were contained in volumes written in alphabetical and ideographic characters on parchment. And he brags of the great number of such volumes he ordered piled up in the city of Mani, in the year 1561, in the presence of the majority of the Spanish nobility then resident in the country, and set fire to. That the flames might burn brighter, he ravished a graveyard and brought the bones to the fire. And so were lost to us many precious volumes containing the history and traditions of the Mayas. However, in his book he told of the Maya's manners and customs and copied off some of the alphabetical and ideographic characters and these served as a key to decipher the Troano MS. and wall inscriptions.

Bishop Landa wrote (pp. 160-162) that "the men in Yucatan made offerings of their own blood, and inflicted the most curel treatment on their own persons, to propitiate the gods and beseech their favor," and that when they introduced these practises among the Mayas, they were looked upon as acts "unworthy of intelligent beings, foreign to the religion of their fathers and distastful to the gods."

They made eunuchs of themselves as did the later Phoenicians and the Phrygians during the orgiastic rites when they worshiped the Goddess Amma (Agdistis), the "Great Mother of the Gods." The same was done in honor of the Goddess Isis, at Busiris, according to Herodotus (Hist. lib.ii, lxi.).

Nachan or Palenque, we are told, was a city sacred to the God of Rain, symbolized by the image of the Southern Cross which in the beginning of the month of May rises over the horizon and the husbandman knows that the rainy season is near at hand. Thus through the centuries in all countries, the Cross has been regarded as the harbinger of the Regeneration of Nature and the sign of Life to Come. So Jesus died on the Cross, as many before Him had died at Easter (which is named for the Goddess Esther of Chaldea and Babylon) as symbolic of The Life to Come, when all the earth is alive with the verdure of Spring.

The learned Abbe Brasseur gave us the Invocation to the God of Rain in the "Crestomathie" in his Elements de la Langue Maya, (Troano MS. vol. ii, p. 101). This explains the tablets of the altars in the Temple of Palenque. This special worship indicates that these people were agriculturists. Augustus Le Plongeon, M. D., translated this Invocation in his book, Queen Moo and The Egyptian Sphinx, (p. 112), after living among the Indians many years while learning their language and studying their customs. It follows:

"When the Master rises in the East (the sun) the four parts of heaven, the four corners of the earth, are shattered, and my broken accents fall in the hands of the Lord.

"When the cloud rises in the East, and ascends to the center where sits the Orderer of the thirteen banks of clouds, King Ahtzolan, the 'tearer,' the 'yellow thunder,' where the lords who tear await the coming of Ahtzolan, then the keeper of the troughs wherein is fermenting the precious balche, full of love for the Lord's tearers, 'guardians of the crops,' presents the holy offerings that they may place them in the presence of the Most High, whom they reverence as a Father.

"I also offer the virgin bird (emblem of woman) with my holy love. Thou wilt look at me when I cut my privities, I who beg thy blessings with my heart full of love for thee, and ask thee to accept my precious offerings and place them in the hands of the Most High."

The "precious balche" is the blood offering. In Heliopolus, Egypt's most ancient City to the Sun, was a trough before the altar to catch the blood of the sacrificed animal. The stone slab which covered the coffin in the crypt at Palenque, is beautifully worked with the most amazing engineering accuracy and pictures the Cross with a figure in a basket. This is the basket which catches the blood.

In both Egyptian and Mayan heiroglyphs a basket represents an altar. We mentioned above that the Phoenixians and the Phrygians worshiped the Goddess Amma (Agdistis), the Great Mother of the Gods, Maia, of Mu. We now add from Abbe Brasseur, "When young men were wont to make themselves eunuchs WITH A SHARP SHELL, crying out at the same time, 'Take this, Agdistis!'"

On the wall protecting the inner crypt of the tomb at Palenque, at eye level, was a box made of stone slabs and lime mortar containing an offering which included three shells painted red and a magnificent teardrop pearl half an inch in length. Through our research of ancient customs we now know the meaning of these shells and to what use they were put, and the teardrop pearl is no doubt symbolic for the tears that are shed during this highly exalted moment! Better still, would it not be the Pearl of Great Price for which man gives his all?

The stone slab discovered within the crypt, beautifully worked in picture writing, is very similar to a slab forming an altar in the Temple above. On this Temple slab is carved a Cross, resting on a skull with a bird perched at the very top of the Cross. On each side of the Cross stands a human figure; that of a man on the right and a woman on the left. They represent the dual forces of Nature, of the Sun and the Moon as of the tiny atom with its positive and negative electrically charged particles which proves that they knew of the nature of these forces.

The Two Pillars on the porch of Solomon's Temple, which was designed and built by the Initiate or Mystic, Hiram-Abiff (Adoniram), known to the Masonic Order, were called Jackim and Boaz, meaning "in strength to establish," again representing the positive and negative forces, man and woman, the Isis and Osiris of Mu, the Americas and of Egypt: they were known and worshiped in every country under different names.

The T or tau cross of Egypt was placed in the hands or on the chest of their mummies, symbolizing the Life to Come, or Resurrection. The name of this cross in Maya is Ti-ha-u, (the tau of Egypt) and means, "this is for water" and the tripple wavy lines symbolize water. This same symbol is shown on the priest's headdress on the outer slab of the Temple of Palenque, and modern science knows that all life begins in water.

The male figure is on the East, whence the "Lord", the Life-giver and Sustainer, the Sun, rises every morning to animate and give strength to all Nature. On the West stands the woman, the "life nullifier", she "who causes life to disappear," because the Sun sets on the West, bringing darkness to the world. The badge on her arm, the mundane cross, is the symbol of the impregnated virgin womb of Nature, hence of the Life to Come. Her headdress is adorned with leaves, emblem of the Life that Has Come.

Both have brought offerings to their God; the woman, a full grown plant with root, trunk, leaves, flowers and fruit. The priest, a young bird.

Father Cogolludo (Hist. de Yucathan, lib. iv., cap. ix, pp 200-202) says, quoting various authors anent the Cross as a symbol of the God of Rain: "Gomara, speaking of the religion of the people of the island of Cozumel, says: 'Near by there was a temple that looked like a square tower, in which they kept a very famous idol. At the foot was an enclosure made of stone and mortar, highly finished with battlements.' "

The pillars on the porch of Solomon's Temple, were square representing the Four Cubes, symbol of the Four Builders or Archangels who aided in the Creation and still watch over the Four Corners of the earth. These are the Four Guardian Angels of the Roman Catholic Church today. And the Square was the Oath of the Pythagoreans as it is today of the Masonic Order and when we are in the right, we say we are "square with the world." The Square was also the symbol of Osiris.

Father Cogolludo continues: " 'In the middle of this existed a stone cross ten palms high, which they regarded and worshiped as the God of Rain. . . .' In time of drouth 'they made offerings of quails that had been sacrificed, in order to allay its wrath against them with the blood of this small bird; after which they held it certain that rain would soon fall.'"

The reason why a quail is sacrificed, is explained by Dr. Le Plongeon: "Without a knowledge of the Maya language and of the symbolism of the Maya occultists, it would be well nigh impossible to understand why a quail, a bird, in full plumage, is figured perched on the top of a cross; why the cross is planted on a skull; why devotees offered sacrifices of birds to the God of Rain.

"The bird on the top of the cross typifies the seed deposited in the ground at the beginning of the rainy season, and placed in the keeping of the God of Rain, invoked as protector of the fields. Chiich is the Maya generic name for 'bird'; but it also means 'seed', and 'to gather one by one grains that have been scattered,' as birds do in the fields, robbing the owners of both the seed and the crops. What then more natural than to offer their enemies in sacrifice to the God, to the Yumil col, the Lord of the Crops? The cross being planted on a skull simply indicates that from death springs life; that the seed symbolized by the bird on the top of the cross must first become decomposed in the ground before coming again to life in the shape of a plant.

"It is well to notice that all the ornaments that, besides the text, adorn the tablet, are neither leaves, flowers, or some other parts of the living plant, showing that the Temple, where it was placed, was dedicated to the God, Protector of Agriculture."

We believe this is the full explanation of the recent and wondrous discovery of the ages-old sarcophagus by Senor Ruz and that this sarcophagus contained a Master, their Great Leader, the One who taught them the arts of agriculture as did Osiris in ages anterior to the One here entombed.

In this work, "the letter killeth" so we must seek deeper for the True meaning, often using intuition by sifting the evidence. In this way science and religion are once again united as they were in the earliest times.

IT HAPPENED TO ME...

From time to time SEARCH magazine passes on accounts of true experiences from our readers. The following stories are given to us as actual happenings, and the editors are pleased to present them at face value. "It Happened to Me . . ." is just one phase of SEARCH'S presentation of evidence upon which its readers can draw their own conclusions. Names and addresses are printed, or are on file at the office of SEARCH in the case of those to whom identification might prove to be a source of embarrassment or inconvenience. SEARCH does not pay for these contributions, but presents them as a service to those readers who request actual happenings going on today, and in the lives of living people.

MY LIFE REPEATS ITSELF!

This is the first time I have ever written to a magazine of your type, but have been reading SEARCH ever since I first noticed it on the stands.

I have been reading experiences of flying saucers, dreams, mind over matter, etc., but can't remember anything on coincidences!

I have been showered with unusual coincidences for about six years and just have to tell someone about them. This is an example and I would like very much to have it printed in your magazine so that others might have something to explain or add additional experiences.

It happened on the 17th of March, 1957, at about 10:00 a.m. I was driving down one of the busier streets of our city and was approaching a green traffic light when suddenly the car in front of me slammed to a stop. I too, came to a quick stop, so fast that I killed the engine. By this time the light was red and sitting there, I noticed that the reason for all the confusion was due to an out of state auto driving in both lanes. This car had a red license plate and lying in the back window was a small shaggy dog.

After both cars had turned right,

I proceeded under the light only to be stopped suddenly again by another vehicle turning rather wildly to the left in approaching. This car was full of small children and driven by a bleached blond woman. Rather shakingly, I finally made my way home.

All of this could be explained as an every-day traffic occurrence were it not for one thing. The very same thing happened to me before. Right down to the exact detail of the red plates, dog, blond driver, same location, etc. Was this a coincidence? Or some sort of cycle in my life? Or what?

This isn't the first, for I have had coincidences of exacting detail many times before. I would appreciate your printing this experience so that I might hear from others who may have had such experiences or who could shed some light on these happenings.

SAVED BY HYPNOSIS

Wife - Now you're going back in time. You're getting younger and younger. Now you're six years old. What is important to you now that you are six?

Husband - They tie me up!

W. - Who ties you up?

H. - Mom or Pat or Chuck!

W. - Where do they tie you?

H. - To the clothes line.

W. - Do they ever tie you up anyplace else?

H. - No.

W. - Where's Dad?

H. - He's gone.

W. - Where has he gone?

H. - On a big boat to St. Louis.

W. - All right. Now you're untied and you can play. You're getting younger. You're five. What is important to you now?

H. - Daddy is home now. He's sorry I'm sick.

W. - Oh, you're sick? What's wrong?

H. - Got reasons in my head.

W. - Does it hurt bad?

H. - I don't care if it hurts. I make myself sick so they won't tie me up.

* * *

My husband looked so peaceful as he lay in the hypnotic trance where I had placed him. For a year now he had been a patient at the Mental Health Unit. The doctors had not discovered the cause of his illness. John had placed a block in his mind and did not want to remember his childhood. Although he didn't use alcohol, he was the meanest person to live with you ever met. At no time when we walked past him could we feel assured that we wouldn't be struck with whatever might be handy! Life was unbearable for the three children and myself.

When he began to threaten to kill us all, I tried praying for a solution. Clairaudiently I was told what to do. The day after I visited the State's Attorney, my husband received a letter from him. John sullenly agreed to visit a doctor. The first prescription of tranquilizing drugs cost twenty-two dollars, but John slept! How he slept! Day and night. It was difficult to stay awake at work at his job of precision grinding for an eight hour shift.

The climax came one snowy day in March, 1955. He did not sleep so late that day, for some unknown reason. Instead he griped and nagged at me, but I ignored him. Seven o'clock that evening I heard a thud in the bathroom. Since the children were in the living room watching TV, and my father was in his room upstairs, John was the only one that remained. John was hurt! I raced to the bathroom. I tried the door, but something held it shut. I tried hard, inched it open a couple of inches, so that I could see John's feet. Forcing my way in, I found him lying there, and beside him three new bottles of tranquilizing pills and a bottle of aspirin lay empty!

John was breathing shallowly. I dragged him out of the bathroom and sat him up in the hallway. Thickly words drawled past the half-stiff tongue—he wanted to die! I made a hurried call to the druggist, who assured me he would only sleep. Our doctor was in Chicago. Fixing a glass of water with mustard, I forced John to drink it. Up came the dope. Then I gave him black coffee, black as could be, forced it down his throat. Two hours later I started walking him, or rather, dragging him, through the snow, block after block. At eleven o'clock we put him to bed to sleep. I was scared sick, but he awoke at 1 P. M. Sunday, apparently all right, but still feeling drugged.

Monday I went to see the doctor. I stated that John needed a psychiatrist. The doctor sharply asked me why? I got no help from him, so I left. Two days later John was at the mental clinic.

In October, nothing had been achieved, but I was told to be patient. I was discouraged. A few days later I was uptown and saw a book on hypnotism. A bell rang in my mind, and I bought it. I studied it, and learned how to hypnotize.

In November I managed to hypnotize my husband completely in a matter of five minutes. I have already told you what happened. He recalled his childhood, related the incident of the tying to the clothes line, and many other things. Night after night we went through the hypnotism procedure, always fixing in his mind that he would remember anything he wanted. Sent back to age two, he remembered getting teeth. One year old, he remembered learning to walk. So many things a one year old can remember.

I never tried to prove reincarnation. I was interested in helping my husband to help himself; to find the reason for his sickness. We agreed not to tell the doctor of our sessions, but one time we suggested to the doctor that he try hypnotism. He wasn't interested. So we went on alone.

My husband is now released from the doctor's care, and how our lives have changed! All his illness was due to the fact that as a child he was tied to a clothes line with a rope to keep him from running away to play with other children. When he did manage to get loose, he was caught, and the mother, brother and sister would tie him up again, keeping a vicious circle going. His personality was crushed. Derisive remarks from other children did not help any. His father was gone from the family for fourteen years, working on a boat out of St. Louis. Although childish, John's retaliation was to make himself ill to gain the love and affection he needed, and to escape being tied up. This practice of making himself ill became ingrained, and persisted into his manhood, although the reason for it had been forgotten. Hypnotism recalled it to him, and he saw how foolish it was. He was cured. The human mind is a delicate thing, and hypnotism is a wonderful tool for healing it, if used properly. I thank God that I was able to use it to bring back my beloved husband to me!

MY TEACHER WAS A DOG

Less than twenty-four hours ago Susie-Stop-It was killed on the highway by a reckless driver. Twice since then she has appeared to me, once alone and once with another dog. Her death which had at first seemed a great tragedy has proved a blessing—and a badly needed lesson.

But let me begin at the beginning. And that beginning goes back to 1942 when utterly discouraged with my efforts to be mother-father; homemaker-breadwinner I told God to take my life and use it as He saw fit. The Father had me send my child to relatives for a time and He sent me on a learning tour which would fit me for a great work. The Master taught me how to heal. I, who had always thought my only talent was the compassion to have patience with slow learners in the schoolroom found myself to be a good mental medium, a good contact healer, fair at nearby healing and with some ability as an involuntary distance healer. The desire became so strong to not only use my own powers but to teach the art of attuning to others. The power to attune is as inherent in mankind as music and can like music be developed to a still higher power. Attuning is a more apt word than healing because the connotation of healing is just to cure the aches and pains the person knows he has. Attuning to the Infinite not only takes away aches and pains but removes the shutoffness from God; tunes up every cell of the being; gives new luster to the eyes and hair, new softness to the skin, new vigor to the brain. It increases known talents and brings deeply hidden ones into view.

With my own 'widow's mite' I started THE JOE NORMAN HAVEN, which was incorporated to be a 'nonprofit, interdenominational, experimental, euthenic institute.' A home and school of applied Christianity. I purchased this huge old brick schoolhouse that once housed a hundred neighborhood school children whose parents worked in the mines. When the coal supply here was gone, the machinery, workers and their families left. In many cases they picked up their houses and took them along. The schoolhouse became a derelict. The five acre playground once teeming with child life became a browsing place for stray cattle. My little cash would not go far towards repairs and modernizing this thirty year old building but I felt sure that people would realize the worthwhileness of the project and contribute to it.

For years I had been saying, "But I cannot go alone, dear Lord!" Now I grew enough to realize that my Silent Partner would always be with me. So I moved out there in July. It would not be long until there would be an ample food supply so that it would be possible to take guests. My guests arrived almost at once, hordes of them, grasshoppers, so hungry that they kept the plants defoliated, heat almost unendurable and a long drought. Just as the loneliness was becoming unbearable another guest arrived, a puppy not long weaned whom someone had thrown out to find herself a new home. "I can't afford you," I said firmly. "Go away. I can't even feed myself."

The puppy stayed. She wagged and smiled her way right into my heart. Neither of us ever missed a meal although sometimes the fare was scanty. Susie grew big fast. Before the summer was over she had frightened away the evil faced man who had planned to use the building that night for a tramp-otel. She took her naps at my feet. Nights she slept beside my bed. As it got colder a barrel made of hard pressed cardboard with the ends knocked out became her own little Susie quarters. I slept in peace for Susie was near.

Then as quick as the turn of a car wheel, Susie's happy, gay little life was snuffed out. My protector was gone. I was all alone. Two hours later as I sat at my typewriter my attention was called to a spot across the room. There was Susie! Oh, no, not the Susie I had known complete with physical body but the Susie who lived on outside the body. There were her eyes shining as they did in the dark when a flashlight was turned on her. There was some kind of a body, something misty and nebulous. She was gone almost instantly but as long as I live I will remember her appearance there. The real Susie did live on, did remember her loved one and had come to comfort me. I had seen her myself. Albert Peyson Terhune used to write of his belief that some of his collies returned but he seemed never to have actually seen them himself. I had seen my dog.

Bedtime was long delayed last night because of my dread of going alone into that huge schoolroom used as a bedroom. When I did go to bed, sleep did not come. I tossed and turned from side to side. Then suddenly there was beside me in the bed a vision of a barrel like Susie's only smaller. Lying diagonally right through that barrel was a huge dog, brown and white with wide flappy ears. She gazed at me with eyes of compassion and the love that passeth understanding. Then as I looked deep into the eyes of eternal, ever watchful love, there came a tiny faint biting of my fingers by puppy teeth. Susie's way of saying, "I love you." Then the dogs and the barrel was gone. I lay there marveling at the power of love. I felt very humble and yet elated. I had been putting my faith in one little dog to protect me and be company for me. God was showing that He has many ways of caring for His own. If danger comes near He can send a whole psychic army of dogs if need be. I had long realized that I was not sufficiently transcending the situation here to change it. I was trying but someway could not make it. Poverty consciousness has been my big problem all my life. It must be conquered before the J.N.H. can fully succeed. I have been too wont to try to do things under my own power. Now I feel sure that with the memory of eternal love shining forth from the eyes of these two dogs I can so transcend my problems that the J.N.H. can fulfill its destiny going forth to do wonderful work for humanity.

Last night, I had gone to bed, was lying wide-eyed and sleepless, my mind on things that had happened years ago. Suddenly there came two quick little dog kisses on the side of my mouth. Each time she comes I am strengthened and encouraged

MY COUSIN ORA

Every word is true; I lived through this experience! I loved Ora! No one has ever taken her place in my heart to this day! I was reared by a fifth cousin of my father, Ira Kelley.

Ora married this distant cousin's brother. I called Ora, aunt, though she was actually my cousin. I spent most of the summer of 1918 with Ora at her home on the banks of the Kentucky River not far from lock number three. She helped teach me to swim, took me boat riding on the river, let me help her with the work, and teased me over boys! Yes, I loved Ora! She had the most contagious laugh of any one on earth; and was she pretty? She had natural red rosy cheeks, red lips, black eyes that sparkled with merriment. Wavy black hair, pearly white even teeth and skin like alabaster; smooth and soft to the touch like a babe's. Ora believed in the Bible and a Hereafter. At this time I did NOT! Merely due to the treatment I had received by those who had charge of me. I told Ora one day, "I do not believe the Bible, I do not believe any of it! There is no such thing as a Hereafter!"

This happened on a Sunday morning in August 1918 just before leaving for my home in Nebraska. Ora had a lot of sisters and brothers, and three of these sisters came over on this Sunday morning. There were Frances, Lulu and Lorraine. I liked these girls very much! The conversation turned to church and Sunday school; we sat in a circle on the dining room floor talking. They asked me why I did not like to go to Sunday school or church.

"Because I don't believe it, I don't believe there is a Hereafter. I don't believe the Bible; why that tale they tell about Jesus is silly—just plain silly! There is no such thing as a Hereafter!" And at the time I meant it!

Their eyes grew wide in alarm and shock. Ora jumped to her feet saying: "Elizabeth, I'll make a pact with you," she was breathing hard, "if I die first and find there IS a Hereafter, I will come back and tell you so—"

"That's fair enough Ora, if I die first I will come back and let you know—" we shook hands on this arrangement.

I returned to Omaha, where I obtained employment. I stayed at a hotel with Minnie, the distant cousin of my father, Ira Kelley, with her daughter Josephine. We had only one room and all three had to sleep in the one bed. This lasted until we could afford other rooms. But before I moved to a room of my own something happened back in Kentucky. One night while I was trying to sleep in the middle with those two women, I suddenly found I had wings and was trying hard to reach Ora. She was calling my name. I worked and I struggled to reach her!

"Elizabeth! Elizabeth! I need you—" I tried and tried to make my wings work but they failed me! Then finally I realized I was not asleep, but had been lying there wide awake perfectly miserable between two people. One who kicked and the other snored so loudly I would have to awaken her so I could go to sleep. Then again I heard my name called. It was Ora's voice. I tried the wings, but again they would not lift me off the ground! I sat up suddenly gasping and cried out, "something has happened to Ora!"

Minnie said sleepily, "Awh, shut up and go to sleep; you never did have a lick of sense!"

"I can't sleep, something has happened to Ora—" I sobbed. "She needs me—I was trying to reach her and I couldn't!"

"Oh, all right, all right, if you must have a nightmare, have it, but don't keep us awake with it!" growled Minnie.

"You and your 'dreams,'" sneered Josephine.

"But something has happened to Ora," I wailed, tears trickling down my cheeks.

"All right, if anything did happen they'll let us know, so go to sleep." Minnie ordered roughly.

How could I sleep? Well I certainly did not!

I trembled and shook on the job the next morning, fearful of my very shadow and by noon when I reached the hotel, sure enough here came Minnie with the telegram. Ora had died at the very time I had been trying to fly to her aid! She had taken flu some twelve hours before, dying in a hurry.

Years passed. I completely forgot about the arrangement, why I do not know. After the birth of my only child, a son, LeRoy, I developed leakage of the heart. I made the mistake and went to California to visit Minnie's daughter in May 1932, I stayed three weeks. While there I learned of Doctor Corley and his fine work. The first Sunday in June she took us to the beach at the Fleishackers, (name not spelled right) Zoo, San Francisco. She insisted on putting all our clothes in one locker and she took the key! I had two little boys with me, my own son and a boy, Robert. I had been appointed guardian of this child by the court of Lincoln County. I had not been used to the sun! So after a half hour I asked for the key. I had all the sunshine I could stand. She refused to give me the key. There I was turning red as a beet without any shelter whatsoever! Only a sandy beach. The boys were busy playing along the edge of the surf. Of course they sunburned until their skin peeled off in streamers. My skin came off in sheets. We were literally barbecued on that beach!

I could not run and keep moving like the children, because of my heart condition. The only thing that saved me was the sand. I was trying desperately to cover my body with the sand and pleading with Josephine for the key to the locker to get our clothes. She was stubbornly refusing to give me the key when two young men came by. Seeing me they stopped to say.

"Don't you know it's dangerous to get sunburned like that?"

"Of course I know it, but tell her that—she won't give me the key so I can dress—"

The two men turned on her and gave her a piece of their mind, then came back and covered me up in the sand. This act, the doctor told me later is what saved my life! When this day was ended, I had a severe case of sunburn poisoning that took years to get over. I had the same thing that killed Jean Harlow. My doctor in North Platte could do nothing for me. My whole body swelled, my legs were three times their normal size. I could hardly get off the street car that night to reach the apartment.

I returned home the first week of June, and, put to bed the first of July, could not get up at all. Doctor's orders. He took my husband into the parlor and whispered to him; but I heard every word of the conversation.

"If I operate she dies, if I don't operate she dies—there is no hope! Nothing I can do—" said doctor Fetter.

I was bedfast for weeks. I was in so much misery and grief, "I didn't need to go near that old beach—" During these weeks of suffering I never once thought of my cousin Ora. With the first of September, I had in mind to get out to Doctor Corley somehow. I must reach this doctor, I told myself over and over. He could help me! I struggled to rise. I must reach the telephone and get transportation to San Francisco. My husband is a railroad man, so I ordered passes to California. I managed to get back to bed. It had been a terrible struggle. I told no one I had ordered the passes.

I had a woman staying with me part time. She was working in the kitchen on this September day. I could hear the dishes rattling and the water splashing in the sink. By turning my head I could see her in front of the sink working. It was about three o'clock in the afternoon of Sept. 3, 1932. I was lying there in ice packs and in much misery, hoping the passes would come in a hurry; I had asked them to rush them! I was facing the bedroom windows, hearing the splashing of water, the clink of dishes, when suddenly there was added quite another sound! Some one was hurrying toward the bedroom door along the hall. The foot steps echoed loudly, though there was a carpet on the floor. Curious I turned my head to see who was approaching. I could see no one, but I could feel the presence of some one standing in the doorway looking at me. A voice said, "I told you I would come—"

I calmly replied, "Oh, it's Ora!" I felt no surprise, no alarm nor any fear. I just know she was standing there in the doorway. I had the impression she was dressed in white, though I could see no actual garment.

"Yes, it is Ora, I told you I would come—you must fight; you have something to live for—you must fight; you have something to live for—"

I could feel her presence as plainly as the lady in the kitchen splashing water and rattling the dishes. Ora moved to the foot of my bed and sat on a chair.

In a short time a friend stopped to say hello. They moved to sit on the chair, and it was all I could do not to cry out, "Don't sit there, you'll sit on Ora!" That won't do, I thought, they would never understand! Ora soon was standing at the foot of my bed. She stayed right in the room with me. The next morning when doctor Fetter came, I asked him a question that somewhat startled him.

"Doctor, would you say I am rational?"

He took my pulse, my temperature, then stood back and gazed at me with much speculation, then replied, "Yes, yes I would say you are rational, Why do you ask me this?"

"Well sir, if I told you, you'd never believe me!"

At no time, no matter how sick I was, was I out of my head with delirium, or even bordered on it. I was so sick when the passes came I begun putting off the trip from day to day. And one morning, some one gave me a violent shaking, calling my name.

"Elizabeth, Elizabeth! you must leave today—Elizabeth, Elizabeth, you must leave today! You must fight, you have something to live for! You must leave today!"

I sat up groaning and woke my husband asking, "Did you shake me just now?" He had been sound asleep and there was no one else in the room that could have shook me. I had no more than asked him this question when I felt Ora standing beside the bed. It had been Ora's voice, and I knew it!

"Gosh," retorted my husband, "I didn't shake you; can't you see I was sleeping?"

"I've got to leave today, I've got to make that train somehow!"

"You can't go—you can't make any trip to California; what's the matter with you? You can't stand such a trip alone—"

"I'm not going alone, I'm taking the children with me." The children were nine and seven years old at this time.

"That's impossible! You can't take the children in your condition!"

We caught the train. The pullman porter in the car I had turned white at sight of me. He made the upper berth and I got into it somehow! My husband bid us farewell, thinking I could not live to reach San Francisco. He said afterward he watched for telegrams until he heard from me. Telegrams saying I had passed away enroute.

I wired a friend to meet me at the Ferry Building in San Francisco, telling them I was ill. The colored man in the dining car actually set his alarm clock to bring me ice for the ice pack at all hours of the night. He wished to get a wheelchair for me at Oakland, but I told him I could stand it. How I did I do not know to this day! I would not want to do it over! No body can know what I suffered leaving the train and riding across on the ferry boat. The bay seemed endless! My friend was thoroughly alarmed at sight of me! I arrived on Saturday night, having left home on Friday the 13th of September, 1932. I was unable to start my treatments until Monday evening the 16th of September.

This doctor could not treat in the home. I had to be taken to his office for treatments. I was taken in a taxi cab. I had to climb the stairs to his office on the second floor. You may think by all this moving about that there was little wrong with me. But how mistaken you might be! When the doctor got around to start the treatment the nurse stuck a thermometer in my mouth and started taking the pulse. She began to grow pale. when she looked at the thermometer her eyes widened and her mouth fell open, she dashed out of the room and ran down the hall to the doctor's private office.

"She has a temperature of 108!" the nurse gasped.

"108? Are you sure?"

"Positive, it's a hundred and eight!"

"Go take it again, if it's still 108, pack her in ice, hurry—" he said sharply, following the nurse back into the room where I had just heard every word they had said! Believe it or not. they were at the end of a long hall from where I lay on a table. Out of ear range, but I heard as though they had spoken to me directly. I heard her say one hundred and eight. I recalled at this time of having read of several cases of a temperature of 108. Those cases had not lived; the fever had burned their brains. I began to get frightened, for I had not felt Ora since boarding the train. If Ora could not find me to help me, I could not win. I felt terribly alone.

It took them only a few minutes to have me packed in ice. They took my temperature every few minutes. I tried to pretend I heard nothing and did not know my temperature was one hundred eight. I silently prayed. "Oh, God what has become of Ora?"

Suddenly I felt calmer, cooler and the temperature was dropping. It was terrible news to learn that he could not treat me at the apartment, that I had to come to his office every day for treatment. I lived through Monday night, and all day Tuesday without the presence of Ora to help me. Ora had awakened me and sent me to this very doctor, yet she had not come with me. It was a terrible blow to me. How could I fight alone? Those trips to and from his office were horrible, horrible. I do not know today how I ever stood them. After returning home from the treatment on Tuesday evening I was actually frightened when I could not feel the presence of Ora. I kept thinking, I can't live without her help, I've got to have Ora.

I was lying there in bed suffering as I had never suffered before in this life, tears in my eyes, every one had gone to bed. I know not if the next breath would be my last.

"Oh Ora, Ora," I whispered, "I cannot make it without your help. Ora! Ora!"

I was lying there facing the door into the parlor, and through it I could see a big window that held nothing but a dark sky in view. It was at first just a big dark square, and then I noticed a tiny twinkling star. To my utter amazement the star was moving, coming right toward the window. Closer and closer until the star had not only grown larger but had lengthened out. And as the star traveled swiftly toward the window it grew brilliantly light and took the shape of a human being. I shuddered thinking, 'they are coming for me'. For a second I truly was frightened, for I did not wish to leave my son. It kept coming until it reached the window sill; there it perched in all its glory, lighting the very room with its brilliance. I shut my eyes, not wanting to see this angel cross the room after me. I waited and when nothing happened, I opened my eyes to see the figure in the window was still there, and instantly I could see the angel had the face of Ora. Ora, had come back to help me. She had been the bright light coming through the sky. I was not frightened any more. Ora had come, all would be well.

I closed my eyes with this thought, and when I looked again at the window Ora was gone.

Around six a.m. I was awakened by some one holding my hand. I thought instantly; one of the girls is here wanting me to wake up. As I turned to find out who, the hand feeling as real as my own hand, slid away from my hand. It had been as warm and firm of flesh as my own hand. I had expected to see some one standing there, but there was no one I could see with my physical eyes. But the presence of Ora was strongly felt. In the adjoining room I could see the girls, both fast asleep.

"It's Ora, Ora." And then I went promptly back to sleep. I had no fear as long as I realized Ora was by my side.

There followed three months struggle, a treatment every day. When I had improved somewhat, I took treatments every other day. I was under treatment for eleven months. On the first of June 1933, I returned to North Platte, and when doctor Fetter saw me, he received quite a shock, he never got over the idea he was seeing my ghost. According to him there was no way in which I could have possibly lived.

Believe me there is another world. A Hereafter; for Ora has told me so. —Elizabeth Reams

YOUR FUTURE

AS REVEALED THROUGH PSYCHOMETRY AND YOUR PHOTOGRAPHIC AURA, BY THE MYSTERIOUS PSYCHIC ABILITY OF

DOROTHY SPENCE LAUER

What does tomorrow hold in store for you? All of us would like to know and there are various ways of predicting. Here, in Mrs. Lauer, we present a prophet who employs two unusual methods, and whose ability SEARCH proved positively 87½% accurate, over a period of more than four years.

THE following predictions were made on February 24, 1959. This should be borne in mind, since the June issue of SEARCH is scheduled to appear on the newsstands on April 17. Thus it may be that several of the predictions herein have already become actualities, as you read, I give the date on which all predictions were made so that you may judge the accuracy in proper time perspective.

Once more I feel that there will be more air crashes and I wish I could explain the reason in scientific terms. I feel a sort of "pull", whatever it may be. Someone will understand, eventually, and once the discovery is made, it will cut air disasters by a very large percentage.

In Italy I feel that something is going to occur that will come to our attention, and we will be asked to send help. It is of a disastrous nature, and not at all pleasant.

The new Pope will be in the headlines, very bold black print. This will come as a great shock to everyone.

Anyone owning a large paper manufacturing company should guard against fire through carelessness of an employee, probably through smoking a cigarette. This is far enough ahead of time so that if it occurs that warning signs are put up, it might be instrumental in causing the careless person to be more careful, and thus prevent a fire which will run into a huge loss. This could include paper bag manufacture, books — anything where paper is the most important factor.

There will again be the feeling of apprehension concerning Russia, through news concerning Germany. Unrest and unsettled conditions will arise soon.

One of my clients will find a ring that they own will be very valuable. If anyone is thinking of disposing of a ring, even throwing it away, do not do so! Have it appraised first, if you do either.

Many interesting new methods in medical research will be devised. Very soon cancer will be on the way out. Arthritis also, which will be the next to go. Our medical men and those in research will soon have their reward for faithful work.

I am impressed to tell something that may appear a little hard to believe, but many inventors will have dreams in which Ford, Edison and Franklin will play a part. This is no mere coincidence. Anyone dreaming thusly should remember to jot down immediately any dream or vision of anything that concerns these three men.

A skeleton will be found soon. This will rock the nation, since it will prove murder.

Mental telepathy will become a fad, and many people will try it. They will be surprised at the results. However, it should not be done with cards. Calling cards should be discarded. Try actual sentences, because this will be found to work better. Use a system of "releasing from the mind" to that of the person you wish to contact.

The law will become more and more fearful to those who disobey it. Many strings will be tightened, where now they are lenient.

Don't be swindled to buy in on the ground floor of uranium stocks. There will be a loss, if you do. These shares will be offered at 10c per share, or thereabouts. It would result in some clever men becoming rich over your dimes, only to disappear. Be cautious in this type of investment, which includes other minerals as well as uranium.

HOW TO GET A PSYCHOMETRIC ANALYSIS

Select a short verse from the Bible, perhaps your favorite, and write it on a separate sheet of paper, meanwhile concentrating on your problems. Then mail the sheet to Mrs. Dorothy Spence Lauer, Amherst, Wisconsin, and enclose $3.00. Bear in mind the reply may take several weeks.

Send a snapshot of yourself to Dorothy Spence Lauer, Amherst, Wisconsin, and enclose $3.00 to cover the cost. Be sure to include your return address! Surprisingly many applicants forget this! And please, if possible, report the results to SEARCH magazine, after their accuracy or inaccuracy is determined. Remember, reports of inaccuracy are as important as those of accuracy.

Editor's Note: Dorothy Spence Lauer is a Psychometrist, specializing in precognition. Ordinarily she needs but an object belonging to, or handled by, the subject, or the presence of the subject, to become aware of the psychic influences from which she draws her information. However, by writing out a verse, while concentrating, as described in the instructions given on this page, a sufficiently powerful psychic impression will be made to enable the medium to receive the information she seeks. We have made this service available to our readers purely in an experimentative atmosphere, in an attempt, first to determine whether or not this ability is of a nature both real and valuable; and second, to provide you with an interesting bit of entertainment. Please report results to us.

WHAT HAPPENED TO PRIVATE ERWIN?

It was still a mystery Saturday, February 21, 1959, as to what happened to a 24-year-old Idaho serviceman and what happened to that plane crash he thought he saw.

The serviceman, Pfc. Bernard G. Erwin of Fort Bliss, Texas, whose home town is Nampa, Idaho, was found unconscious Friday night.

He was still unconscious at last report.

A hospital spokesman said doctors reported Erwin mumbled a few words which sounded like "jacket on bush."

Erwin was found about one mile off Utah highway 20 near this southern Utah community.

Some motorists saw a sign on his car on the road. It was painted with shoe polish and said: "Stop." So they did.

Inside was a note. It said: "Have gone to investigate what looks like a plane crash about one-quarter mile to my right. Notify state police immediately."

The motorists followed Erwin's trail. They found him face down in the mud. No plane crash was visible.

No crash nor any missing plane could be determined Saturday.

Iron County Sheriff Otto Fife said there were no marks of violence or any indication of foul play.

Erwin was hospitalized at Cedar City, Utah. The hospital said he appeared in reasonable health, with normal heartbeat, except for his unconsciousness. No diagnosis of his condition could be determined.

Im coming to you with a plea that you help me locate a book . . . I have been trying every source I know to find this book, to no avail. The name of the book is: "AN EARTH DWELLER'S RETURN" by Phylos The Thibetan, published by Lemurian Press in 1940 and presently out of print.

I believe that my only hope lies now in contacting an individual who will sell their copy, inasmuch as there were only 3000 copies printed to start with. Evidently the publisher is out of business, my letter to them was returned "unclaimed".

Letters from our Readers

Good Friend:

"Search Visits A Flying Saucer" by Dulcie Brown, is pure fiction and should be labeled as such.

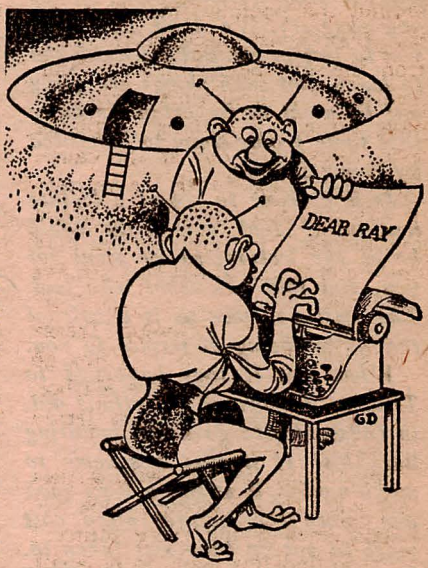

While the story is amazing, beautifully composed and really good reading, no one with sense enough to pound sand into a rat-hole would be stupid enough to believe it.

It is a crime to print such false items as fact, when American people are already flooded with so much futuristic nonsense.

It is claimed 11 contacts made since 1952. Then why not some photos or other proof?

Of course, you do not dare print this. 77 years young.

Leo Turner
720, 4th Ave.,
San Diego 1, Calif.

Anyone who has lived 77 years commands respect. And we certainly do respect you! So, in the remarks that follow, bear in mind that they are made respectfully, and solely in the interests of correcting your impressions, and of setting the record straight.

First, you omitted the last word of the title of the article: "SEARCH Visits A Flying Saucer Lecture." Naturally we did not visit a flying saucer! Dulcie Brown merely visited a lecture by a man who CLAIMED to have made eleven contacts with a flying saucer. We certainly don't certify that he did—but we do certify that he said so at this lecture! This is FACTUAL reporting. And certainly truthful. We are sure you don't mean to call Dulcie Brown a liar, for she is not. Next, if we believe a thing because we want to, or disbelieve it because we want to, we ARE stupid. This article is printed for you to form an opinion only! And not being stupid, you won't accept it without proof (photographs, etc, as you suggest). We don't EXPECT you to believe it! But we want you to know that such things are going on! It might be important to know that some people claim to be visited by flying saucers.

Is it a crime to report a lecture truthfully? Not everybody could be at the lecture, so we went for you, and told you what was said. The least you owe us is a vote of thanks for being of service to you.

What was it that happened to Truman Bethurum? Something did, to cause him to go about lecturing like this! If it was a scheme to make money, it wasn't a very good one, since the lectures often cost more to put on than was taken in. That's another thing SEARCH knows from its research.

Please don't call us liars without being able to prove it! When you do, you are guilty of the same label you pin on us. If you must pound sand, be sure there's a rat hole!

need, by subscribing, buying books, and writing encouraging letters) feels now that she will not tolerate our familiar policy. Just let us print one article with which she disagrees, and she is through with us. Strike my name forever from your records, she says! Don't even mail me a circular in the future! She wants never to hear from us again. This is regrettable, because now she won't see the article "In Defense of Cats", which certainly should have delighted her.

In the time of Noah, God looked down at mankind, and he "did not approve". And so, He said: "I regret that I have made man; I will destroy him." But God didn't go all the way—he singled out a good man and his family, and saved him as seed for the human race to continue. Also, He placed His bow, His promise, in the heavens to signify that He would never again destroy man in this manner. He wasn't as severe as Mrs. Smith. He gave man another chance. In effect, He was saying to man, "Even I am not perfect in Mine own eyes." But Mrs. Smith is. It must be a great consolation to God to know now that He actually didn't make a mistake, that his decision to give man another chance was the correct one —for He has at last succeeded: man is perfect—or at least a woman is.

As for your editor's cat, he just sits and stares inscrutably at us. Perhaps he knows in his cat-mind that Mrs. Smith really doesn't mean to be so severe. We showed our cat Mr. LeGros' article, and he just yawned. If the cats aren't sore at him, why should Mrs. Smith take it so to heart?—Rap.

Dear Mr. Palmer:

On page 112 of the April issue of SEARCH, another letter is published in the sex controversy. Mrs. Hughes now enters the controversy with the introduction of human reproduction and marriage. Nothing in my writings forbids anybody to get married and reproduce. The point that I have tried to make clear is that the Bible teaches continence. Marriage is not supposed to be a license for lust. Most married people indulge in lust without any desire to reproduce. Lust is not love. Lust is the act of trying to satisfy a sensual desire.

As for the remark about twisted references to retaining the "Seed," a literal quotation is not a twisted reference. How should the following quotations be interpreted? "Abstain from fleshly lusts, which war against the soul." - 1 Peter 2:11 "Whosoever is born of God doth not commit sin; for his seed remaineth in him . . ." - 1 John 3:9 "But this I say, brethren, the time is short: it remaineth that both they that have wives be as though they had none." - 1 Cor. 7:29 Besides these literal quotations there are a vast number of other biblical passages saying the same thing if the mystical language is correctly interpreted.

We hear a lot of preaching about being born again but no mention is made about the fact that the only way to be born again is by retaining the seed, nor are the people taught that the seed is Christ (Galatians 3:16). Retaining the seed is the equivalent of accepting Christ as the savior.

I am still receiving letters asking for more information in connection with the letter published in the November issue of SEARCH, which proves that people are interested in this subject. The importance of these teachings is in the fact that there would be less cancer and mental ailments if people realized how sexual abuses are harming their bodies and minds. These teachings are directed more toward the singie and married people who masturbate than toward those who don't. There are also serious sexual abuses committed among married people under fifty years of age whose main desire is to indulge in lust and avoid reproduction.

When the Bible is correctly interpreted, it teaches that the sexual

BETTER SIGHT WITHOUT GLASSES

As a result of his application of the methods of W. D. Bates, and others, Mr. Harry Benjamin discarded the strongest glasses it was possible for the most expert ophthalmologist to prescribe, and was saved from complete blindness. despite the fact that the specialists had announced that nothing could be done for him.

Thus convinced that spectacles were but crutches which, instead of curing eye weaknesses, actually increase the strain on the eyes, he made an exhaustive study of the whole subject of defective vision. The simple yet startlingly successful methods which he evolved are set down in a remarkable book, fluid is used in the production of red blood, and that the life of the flesh is in the blood. The sexual fluid contains the seed, which is Christ, and when it is transmuted into red blood it becomes the blood of Christ. The Spirit within and ancient literature claim that the sexual fluid produces red blood. That is why a continent life is important, no matter how foolish it may sound to married people.

I am assuming that you will publish this letter. In the same issue of SEARCH you are publishing an article about the Essenes and the Dead Sea Scrolls. According to Josephus, the historian, the Essene sect led continent lives and lived to be over 100 years of age. The ancient philosophers, including Socrates, regarded the sexual fluid as man's most precious possession, and called it The Philosophers Stone.

The seed is known by a vast number of names besides Christ, Stone, Jew, Word, Word of God, Immanuel, Moses, Adam, etc. What people must learn is that the seed is the Messiah-Christ and that there is no other savior.

Morris Katzen
Cooks Falls, N. Y.

Dear Ray:

As I read the April issue of "Search", I found two or three arguments going at high speed about what Jesus said and what the apostles said, also what the blind man had to say. The matter of the Seed was also to the front as was Reincarnation. As to the latter, I may at some time put my oar into that troubled water, but I want to first try out the readers, and the editor too, on a pair of statements made by Apostle Paul. These statements have bothered me a long time and no one seems able, or willing, to enlighten me on the meaning thereof.

You students of the Bible, and you Ministers of the Gospels: read the Epistle of St. Paul to the Romans; 7th Chapter, all of it, with emphasis on the last verse, the 25th which reads as follows:

"I thank God through Jesus Christ our Lord. So then with the mind I myself serve the law of God; but with the flesh the law of sin". King James Version.

Then turn to 2nd Corinthians: Chapter 12, verse 7 to 10, and find if that refers back to his statement in the last verse of Paul to the Romans.

To me it appears that Paul was compelled to serve both God and the Devil, (The Devil being temptation).

used Shaver's Alphabet to define the word "sin". Briefly, we've defined it to mean "physical life". "Sun-in"; or "Sun-ego-seed" (seed in the sense of nee or junior or beginner). Thus, if you want this editor's PERSONAL opinion of the meaning of the quotation you mention, it is this: God is "spirit" and represents spiritual living. To serve the law of God is to serve the laws of spiritual living; that is, to behave in a manner compatible with spirit, or spiritual life. Thus, to serve the law of sin (with flesh) is to serve the laws of physical living, that is, live in compatibility with the physical life. How could we serve the laws of spirit with fleshly means? How serve the laws of physical life by applying spiritual applications? Also, why should St. Paul THANK God for serving sin? Not if it is the Devil, or evil-doing! But if it is for the privilege of living in the flesh, and learning its lessons, it is certainly something that demands an expression of thankfulness! Your editor thinks that understanding what words mean is important, if we are using words to define our existence. Shaver's Alphabet has been of tremendous help to clarify the meaning of words. How important it is cannot be overestimated. But we've given you only our own opinion, for what it is worth. Perhaps our readers will add their opinions, and the sum total may be helpful to your thinking, and to all our thinking.

Dear Ray:

I was reading April SEARCH and came across the article VOCAL HOMICIDE—and read it and said "Gee, this sounds familiar"—then, "No wonder it sounds familiar—I wrote it—and I sent it in to you." What goes here? How come you have Jim Wentworth as author of same . . .?

Dear Mr. Palmer:

I just finished reading Mrs. Lauer's article in the January issue of Search and do not want to let more time pass without commenting on a psychometric analysis which she did for me quite some time ago, on which I should have reported far sooner.

Everything Mrs. Lauer predicted came to pass, with only one exception—and that still might come to pass later on, tho I'd just as soon it doesn't as it refers to my husband's health which at present is fine. Events did not begin to occur until at least a year after the analy-

Dear Mr. Palmer:

Recently I had the opportunity, through your great magazine "Search" to purchase a copy of the book called "Oahspe" and found that throughout this great book the "Earth" is referred to as the "Red Star."

"Oahspe" also states that the "Star of Jehovah" is within mans soul.

Could this mean that the star of the earth is from within the earth?

Jehovah and all his Gods & Godesses called the earth the Red Star when they were outside of the earth's vortex, somewhere in the etherean heavens; but after entering the earths vortex, at the "Bridge of Chinvat", they no longer called it the "Red Star" but called it earth as we mortals do.

This leads me to believe that if the earth is actually a star as seen by other worlds outside of the earths vortex, then the elements making up the vortex, or combinations of vortexs, must react on a man's vision as an xray machine whereby he doesn't see physical or solid bodies making up the external regions of a star; but sees through them to the light or fire within the core of the star.

Could this be the reason that we are not able to see the wonderful heavens of the Gods of Jehovah as we are not able to see solids through the vortex lens?

Perhaps space isn't as empty as man now believes it to be and I would like to hear your comments on the above as well as your readers.

Maybe when the first man gets up into space in a rocket, he'll look back and see that the earth looks red from space. If he does, Oahspe will be the only such opinion ever expressed on the earth; all others, including astronomers, have stated the earth looks green or blue from space.

Space, as man NOW believes, actually ISN'T empty. Man knows

WHAT IS THE SHAVER MYSTERY?

The editor of SEARCH gets many requests to explain the famous Mystery, and so do I. It is impossible for him, or for me, to answer that apparently simple question, much as we'd like to accommodate those who ask. Both of us work hard to earn a living, and we just haven't the time to answer such letters. But, if you are sincerely interested, and feel it's important for you to know (and I think it is!), I'll be happy to write you a personal letter explaining as best I can; but long, involved letters take time, and I DO have to earn my living. Maybe a personal letter from Richard Shaver himself is worth $5.00 to you; if so, just slip $5.00 in an envelope and ask any question you want — I'll answer your letter, $5.00 worth! (And a lot more, in my opinion!)

from his rocket probes that it is full of an astounding number of things. With this small beginning, Oahspe looks more and more interesting. It has proven right in its cosmogony in so many things recently that perhaps a re-evaluation of the book is in order. It would be interesting to list the facts (which were contrary to scientific knowledge at the time Oahspe was written, or were not known at all) which have now been either confirmed or discovered to be as Oahspe stated. For instance, written in 1881, the book tells exactly of the radioactive bands surrounding the earth at the levels where they have actually been discovered; it gives the current best-liked theory of the formation of planets and suns and other spatial bodies; it gave accurate distances to planets and stars long before astronomy figured them out.

Incidentally, the present edition of Oahspe is not like the FIRST edition. The first edition was printed in 1881, and the second in 1890. At the request (or was it insistence?) of the United States Government, and the British Government, it was edited, the first issue recalled and replaced free of charge by the second edition, and all but 57 (I believe, if memory serves me right) copies recovered and destroyed. None of those 57 since discovered are complete, being sans covers and many pages, particularly the vital language key. Wing Anderson, the publisher of Oahspe (presently), has tried for over thirty years to get a complete copy of the first edition and failed. But your editor, using a weird technique taught him by Richard Shaver, got one in less than a week, complete with the missing key to the ancient language charts, as well as the original context, which demonstrates why the two governments clamped down on it and attempted to destroy it. It is our intent to reprint the original edition (by photographic process and off-set printing) complete with typographical errors. Your editor believes the original edition to be extremely important in the light of recent events, and further, he cannot countenance any infringement on free speech, American or British governments of the '80s notwithstanding. That John Newbrough knuckled down to this preposterous imposition is beyond understanding.—Rap.

Dear Readers of Search:

First to thank the true Americans that have written me about my book, A Doctor Is Born. They are wonderful expressions. BUT HAVE YOU WRITTEN TO THE MEN SUPPOSED TO REPRESENT YOU IN WASHINGTON DEMANDING THAT THE A.M.A.

WHY DON'T YOU PULL YOUR HAIR OUT BY THE ROOTS AND HAVE DONE WITH IT?

You might as well, if you're going to let dandruff and scale and skin irritation plague you. You've bought plenty of preparations, and they don't work, you say? Of course they haven't! You've probably been cheated as many times as I have. I'll bet I've spent hundreds of dollars on jim-dandy goo, and wound up with worse dandruff than I started with. Made me plenty mad, too. I always get mad when I think of the lousy junk designed to chisel your honest dollars out of you. Mad enough so that when I find something good, I'm not bashful about telling my friends about it. And SEARCH'S readers are my friends. I had dandruff all my life, and despaired of getting rid of it, until one day Ken Arnold (the flying saucer man) left a half bottle of Turn-er's at my house, and flew off to Boise without it. I tried the stuff, because Ken's no sissy, and he doesn't put perfume on his hair. Well, in one week my dandruff was gone! And my hair had begun to darken. My wife tried it, and her scalp irritation disappeared. You can bet we wrote Ken in a hurry and asked where he got it! And now, we're telling you. But don't just take our word for it—here are a few testimonials from our readers, to back us up.

As I have about used up one bottle of your hair preparation, please send me another. I have had very good results in ridding myself of dandruff and itching. Lionel O. Branberg, Sharon Springs, Kans.

Enclosed find money order for $10.00 for two more bottles of Turn-er's as soon as possible. You sure found a good product. In the sixth application my dandruff scale was removed. Thanks to you. It does all you say and more, too. And it sure brings back color to your hair. Thanks! R. E. Van Gordon, 1950 W. Milham Road, Kalamazoo, Mich.

Enclosed please find check for $5.00 for another bottle of Turn-er's as soon as possible. I have been bedeviled by a terrible itching in my eyebrows for over thirty years. It seemed to be a large flaky dandruff, but if I combed it out too near the skin, a water substance would start, causing a scab-like condition. I have been to dozens of doctors . . . none did the slightest bit of good. After reading what Ray Palmer said, I decided to try Turn-er's. After the sixth application, I have not had an itch in my brows, and the skin underneath is as clear and clean as my face. The terrible dandruff was gone. I certainly am thankful to Mr. Palmer for bringing such a fine product to my attention.—S. W. Crusen, 2336 Fillmore Ave., Buffalo 14, N. Y.

BE INVESTIGATED? Get those you care about to read A Doctor Is Born.

I'm now over seventy-nine. I have surely stuck out my neck for YOU, because I'm getting kind of anxious to see what lies just beyond the veil. One thing bothers me, this: What are YOU going to do about it? If you can read, you know about the crimes committed by public officials, the minks, the vicunas, the herds of cattle, the cars, the tractors, the priceless oriental rugs, the deep freezers, the French perfumes, the citizens bludgeoned to prevent them from exercising their constitutional rights. The only thing the career politician cares about is re-election. THEY WILL VOTE YOUR WAY IF ENOUGH OF THE REAL AMERICANS GET AFTER THEM.

In another book I shall actually furnish photostats, or photo 'cuts' to prove everything I've ever said. They would have been in Doctor Is Born, but that had to be a rush job. Why? A publisher bought my Doctors Confidential on a royalty basis. He was approached by someone, (guess whom) and for two years held it up. Oh, was I lucky in this case. The publisher had sent me one of the vilest pornographic books I've seen even in Paris. My lawyer simply told the party what we had and I got my script and 2,000 documents back. I shall most surely turn over that book to the Postal Department. No man should be at liberty who mails such pestilential garbage.

Well, friends, that's it. I've told you the facts. Are you going to let God, Humanity, Ray Palmer and me down, and in so doing condemn unnumbered millions to early torturing deaths—perhaps YOU or YOURS? I've told you what to do. Now do it!

Milton Jct., Wisc.

Dear Ray:

Have just finished reading Dr. Chesney's "A Doctor is Born" and sincerely recommend it to all would-be free Americans. Dr. Chesney seems to be a very courageous man. His book inspired me to search for a miller who processes pure flour, ie., without additives and the germ intact. A friend mentioned he knows of such a miller in Southern Minnesota and together we have ordered 100 pounds. If enough people went to small town millers requesting pure flour and if these same people advertised for such flour and other foods via the classified ads, some millers and merchandisers would begin to realize a new pure food market was being formed.

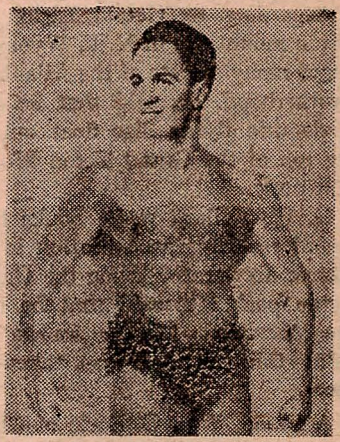

For the sake of our children and posterity we must do these things:

Dear Ray:

According to Gerald Light the Teton mountains in N.W. Wyoming guard many secrets of the Atlantean Brotherhood. He said that he saw a gigantic flying disc float out of the top of the Grand Teton Mountain peak.

G. W. Ballard wrote books telling of receiving an initiation in an atomic accelerator inside the Grand Teton peak. He said that he met the Ascended Master known as Saint Germain and was taken in there.

A friend, Wm. C. Earle of Oklahoma told me that he belongs to a Secret Order that has had conventions in the Grand Teton area. He said that he can't tell the name of the order and can't get me in.

I have a book, "Beasts, Men and Gods" by Dr. Ossendouski. In it he tells of Brahytma, King of the World, who lives in subterranean Agharti, located under central Asia. He says the Aghartians rush thru the caverns in cars strange and unknown to surface people. He says that all Aghartians are good people.

In a book "The Masters and the Path" by C. W. Leadbeater, D. D. is an account of Sanat Kumara, a Master of Divine Light, who came from the planet Venus about 6½ million years ago and who now lives in subterranean Shamballa beneath the Gobi Desert. He claims that Sanat Kumara came to this planet in an interplanetary space ship. Madame Blavatsky wrote that she was taken by a subterranean tunnel to visit Sanat Kurnara. She had to cover her eyes because she could not stand the dazzling divine light radiating from Him.

Gwidjieff, the author, wrote of esoteric Brotherhoods. He hinted that he had been in the Shangri-La in the Caucasus Mountains. He said women should never let their hair be bobbed or cut short because it might cause ovaritis, uteritis or vaginitis. High-heeled shoes are harmful.

Dr. J. H. Kritzer author of a book on "Iridiagnosis" said that if women never eat animal proteins they will never have their monthly sickness. He said facial make-up is poisonous and is absorbed thru the

Several small shifts have already occurred as an ominous warning that

Most Likely You Have Less Than FIVE YEARS TO LIVE

Coming Soon, Which Will be Caused by a SHIFT OF THE AXIS OF THE EARTH as a result of the GYROSCOPIC ACTION of our Solar System.

A similar shift, thousands of years ago, caused the ice ages, and the oceans to rush over the land at terrific speed, tearing mountains away and covering tropical forests (which are now our coal beds) with hundreds of feet of earth.

READ and HEED the amazing book "The Coming Disaster"—fourth edition (95 pages—some pages numbered such as 6-A, 6-B, etc., totaling 95) telling what the flood will be like, about when it will come, the warning to be had, and containing the astronomic, gyroscopic, mathematical and geological proofs, written plainly. These proofs are indisputable and all who have seen mechanical demonstrations leave convinced that the book is correct.

This is not a religious prediction, but is purely SCIENTIFIC. However, the Bible predicts it. Isaiah 13:13, "Therefore I shall shake the heavens and the earth SHALL REMOVE OUT OF HER PLACE. 24:20, "The earth shall reel to and fro like a drunkard." See also Amos 8:8-9; Haggai 2:6; Isaiah 10:26; 19:5; 28:17; 44:3; 24:20.

I freely take an oath that God strike me dead this very moment if there is any substantial error in this book—Adam D. Barber, author. It has now been gone over and carefully checked by a scientific analytical laboratory, astronomers, engineers and others and no errors have been found.

Read in this book, letters from fans, scientists, astronomers, engineers and others, and our plans to save civilization.

Dear Mr. Palmer:

Have just enjoyed reading the February issue of FLYING SAUCERS.

Your editorial was excellent. Your advice given to Frank M. Biess Jr., the fifteen year old boy in Chicago was tops. It is of the very greatest importance that the people learn to THINK FOR THEMSELVES, and in the following I shall try and explain my reason for making this statement.

Censorship of information and knowledge that you have found to exist is, to say the least, undemocratic and has no place in a government such as ours. Such things do not exist during the healthier days of our governmental affairs. Such action makes us wonder, it makes us think, it makes us look for a logical reason for the censor. Obviously it is an unhealthy condition and makes one look for the virus causing the disease.

In following this line of thought, I was reminded of what Charles Bancroft said in his book "THE FOOTPRINTS OF TIME." This book was published in 1881. He was speaking of a time prior to the founding of our government, and was in regards to the relations between government and religion. He said: "To a certain degree they each formed a check on the excessive tendencies of the other, but, the power fairly established, they often united to set very hurtful limits to spontaneous action. The king used his power to the common injury, and the priests their knowledge to the common debasement. The first exhausted the sources of prosperity and growth among his people to gratify his caprices and pleasures, and the priesthood promoted DEGRADING SUPERSTITIONS and a gross idolatry to strengthen their influence. It was for the interest of both TO KEEP THE PEOPLE IN PUPILAGE (a state of being a pupil—seeking and studying endlessly but never obtaining true knowledge) and check all tendencies to independent action or thought. Had it been possible for them to be wise and high-

THE AMAZING MR. LUTTERWORTH

Desmond Leslie

Co-Author of Flying Saucers Have Landed

A MAN ON THE RUN-A man with no memory-a man with a secret. Time running out. Only a few days left for him to remember what he has to do to save the world.

Who is Mr. Lutterworth? He doesn't know. What is his secret? He Cannot remember. Whatever it is many would stop at nothing to possess it.

Against an almost deceptive background of normality, the story moves rapidly, imperceptably into the hidden spheres of the mind.

Though it deals with very peculiar matters indeed, this book does, in the light of recent events, leave you with the uncomfortable feeling that some of it may be true-may already be happening. For sometimes what cannot be stated now as fact can be presented in advance as fiction.

His FLYING SAUCERS HAVE LANDED sold a quarter million copies and was translated into fifteen languages. Therefore, in Mr. Lutterworth we wonder, with an uneasy glance over our shoulder, whether the author isn't hinting of future events of which he knows more than he's willing to admit.

minded, the race would have been saved many centuries of debasement and misery."

It seems that herein may lie the clue to the mystery!

Could it be that it is not so much the influence of government as the influence of religion operating through the channels of government? To whose interest has it been to hinder scientific development? Who tried to hold to the theory that the earth was the center of the universe? Who gave the astronomers a bad time when they came out with the proof that it was not so? There are no theories of government that would suffer thereby. Who are the suffering ones? Are they not the ones that have been trying to force false knowledge on the people for thousands of years? Is it not true that the greatest danger to the teacher of lies are the FACTS of true knowledge?

Actually the word pupilage has a deeper meaning than that given in the ( ) and I think it is the meaning that Mr. Bancroft had in mind when he made the statement. It is that of keeping the individual in ignorance, actually a ward of the government or of the church, unable to take care of their own affairs.

Was not this country founded as a country "OF THE PEOPLE, BY THE PEOPLE, FOR THE PEOPLE?" Does it not seem wise to consider—"Is this still so?" If not, is there not work to be done? What is the matter with our people that they take anything that is handed them sitting down? I'll tell you Ray, they have been put to sleep by MASS HYPNOSIS. But they are not too sound asleep yet to exercise their minds and understand when someone comes right out and shows them what is going on like you did. Are not our government officials "servants of the people?" Who pays them their salary? What do they give the people in return? Who gave them authority to build an iron curtain around official offices that have information that belongs to the public? WHY have they built this iron curtain? To keep the people in pupilage? To try and reduce us to the status of slaves to their unholy activities again? Our forefathers had enough of that nonsense, and fought for the freedom that they handed down to us. Are not we big enough to protect that freedom? Freedom is always lost by the people FAILING to do that which they should have done. Tryanny is the price that people have to pay for sleeping at the switch. It is my impression that the people better start waking up and they better start waking up NOW, and they better start doing something about what they see when they do wake up. As long as

by Fay M. Clark

Here is a New Book — just off the press — that relates an incredible adventure of the author into an area of Psychic Phenomena hitherto unexplored.

Fay M. Clark, the author, hovered near the ceiling of a hospital room looking down upon his own crushed and broken body, listening to the doctors discussing his condition as if he were dead.

This experience moved the author to set out in search of enlightenment as to the nature of the survival of the soul after physical death . . . a quest which led him and his wife to research and study of hypnotism, reincarnation, and the powers of the superconscious mind. They found a satisfactory solution to some of the eternal mysteries of life, which they share with the reader.

UP RAINBOW HILL

by Dana Howard

This book was written at the critical point in history when man has only two alternatives. He may continue to indulge in catastrophic games of war, or he may accept his heritage of godship and come to realize the true meaning of life.

We have not yet adjusted to the fact that the challenge of space requires new concepts of the place of man in the ultimate plane of the universe.

Here Dana Howard offers conclusive and thoroughly documented evidence that a union of the material with the spiritual is being brought about to lift man to his destiny.

there are people on this earth there will be those who will want to gain tyrannic power of the people. Those with little ability will lord it over small groups, those with greater ability will lord it over larger groups. Always these men are truly mad men, and always they succeed because of the timidity of the people, and the timidity of the people is brought about by the use of hypnotic powers.

There is a secret in the Bible that very few people realize. It is in the fact that man is a dual being, a first man and a second man as it is stated; or an inward man and an outward man as it is also stated. The outward man, the first man, is the garment, the body, it is of the earth and it has a mind of its own, and this mind is called the carnal mind. There is also another man, and this man is the inward man, this is the second man, the invisible man, and this man has been given a title, and this title is Jesus Christ. The first man, the garment, the body, the mind of the body, the carnal mind, is where our trouble comes from. Unknown to the people, the nature of this mind has been kept a secret for thousands of years by tyrants that would keep the people in pupilage. The mind of the body, the carnal mind is HYPNOTIC in nature. It receives outside stimuli which is HYPNOTIC SUGGESTION and records there impressions which build a false structure in the carnal mind. The conscious awareness not having been taught any different accepts this hypnotic conditioning as real and a hypnotic dream state is established. Sad and tragic as it may be, it has been the aim of religious tyrants to keep mankind in a conditioned hypnotic dream state for thousands of years. The mechanics of their operations are about the most evil things ever devised in the mind of man. They use the powers of HYPNOSIS and call it the power of God. They use the power of hypnosis to get followers, then to keep followers, and then to bleed them for all they can get.

Several years ago I found myself a victim of multiple sclerosis. I was told that it was incurable. I did not believe it any more than I believed the so-called ministers. Convinced in my own mind that somewhere there was a true religion, and that by sincere seeking I would find it, and by so doing I would be cured of my incurable disease, I set to the task. I determined that I would accept nothing that would not all fit together to form a complete picture of truth. With this aim in mind, a remarkable series of events took place, and step by step as I advanced, further and deeper knowledge—was awaiting me. I have found that which I sought, and I have put some of it in a book titled USING THE MAGNETIC FORCES OF YOUR MIND. I have been cured of my so-called incurable disease. I know whereat I stand when I condemn the evils of false religion. I have uncovered the filthy trail they have left behind them. I know their tricks. And my advice is that a lot of other people better start finding them out. Their tool of control is HYPNOTISM, and the greatest difficulty is to convince people that they are under the influence of hypnotic powers. Usually they are not willing to accept such a statement until pain of some sort forces them to consider such an idea. They have no reason. The hypnotic dream seems real to them, and this is the advantage the tyrants have over the people. While the people think they are thinking, they are only responding to hypnotic stimuli. One cannot reason until he awakens from hypnotic sleep and therefore they cannot reason together. Most all are therefore in confusion, and that is just the way the tyrants want it. Confusion increases the suggestibility of the carnal mind and the tyrants have a tighter control on the people. Hypnotic mental confusion can be overcome, reason can be restored, and that was the reason why I wrote my book. And that is the reason for the teaching of regeneration or the "renewing of the mind" in the New Testament, but is little taught in churches. I have tested many churches and religious leaders to see if they were sincere and innocently ignorant, or if they were puppets in a system by sending them a complimentary copy of my book. Only once I received a "Thank you." Always, but once the result was "dead silence." Why? Because it tells the truth, the truth that exposes them as distorters of the truth. A menace should be recognized as a menace. Have you noticed the mounting influence figures of mental patients in our wonderful country? Why? Hypnotic suggestion used upon an unsuspecting public, ignorance of the functions of the mind, the result of attempting to keep mankind in a state of pupilage, by hiding true knowledge, by distorting the true teaching presented in the New Testament, and replacing it with a spurious history. The word "spurious" according to the Webster International Dictionary 1909 is defined as "not proceeding from the true source, or from the source pretended; counterfeit; false; adulterate." The so-called history can now be proven to be spurious in every sense here given by Webster.

tinue? The people's freedom is being taken away from them inch by inch, one move after another and the people do not realize it. Will they wait until the full control has been established and the yoke has been placed around their necks before they take action?

A dish that has been broken into many fragments might not look like a dish, but if someone with care glued all the fragments back into their proper place, the dish may again be re-established.

Ancient Egypt is the source of almost endless fragments of True Knowledge. As fragments they have been made to look ridiculous. Now that the fragments have been gathered together into a body of true knowledge we learn many things that have been hidden.

Did not the Egyptians discover the method of keeping true time by the relative movement of the earth and the constellations? Did they not discover the length of time of the Great Year? Did they not discover the course of the moon? Did they not discover the circuit of the earth around the sun? Did they not discover that the sun apparently stands still for three days at the winter solstice? Did they not discover that the rays of the sun equalized day and night all over the earth at the time of the equinoxes? Did they not divide the heavens into twelve sections, the time of each period being approximately 2155 years? Did they not look upon the sun as the "giver of life" to all living things upon the earth? Did they not set aside the time of the winter solstice as a time of celebration, because the sun after leaving the autumnal equinox become weaker day by day until the day came when no movement could be detected, and having "died" lay "dead" in the "tomb" for three days when movement was again detected (Christmas) and reborn to return to His Glory at the Vernal Equinox? (Easter)! Did they not use these recurring representations in nature as a method and means of recording their sublime TRUE SPIRITUAL KNOWLEDGE? Did not the word "Christ" originate in the Egyptian KRST? Did not the word Messiah originate in the Egyptian Messiahu? Was not the stories of the Egyptians, the characters of their typology and mythology (which was their method of recording and preserving their religion) stolen, literalized, historized, and somewhat distorted published as we find it in our Bible?

These are FACTS that can now be proven. These are FACTS that concern every man, woman and child. These are FACTS that reveal the falsity of many religious claims, whose teachings deprive the individual of True Spiritual Knowledge and therefore of the opportunity of fulfilling the injunction "MAN, KNOW THYSELF," or the Hebrew commandment to know his laws and statues, or the purpose of the New Testament, to awake from sleep by the exercising of, and the renewing of, the mind.

Is the light beginning to dawn as to the reason why certain people do not want certain knowledge known? It is unfortunate that more people do not understand the working of the human mind. If they did they would not fall prey to these teachers of false knowledge, attempting to keep the people as "wards."

The data which proves the fact that earlier civilizations knew more about the Laws of Nature and the Laws of God is massive, and the one who looks will find. Can we today build a pyramid or even move one 15 ton block of stone by means of music? Can we with all our fine machinery fit stone together as the Ancient Egyptians did? Can we make the high grade rustless steel that has been found to be a product of days long gone by? Buried cities, now found on mountain tops, which at the time of occupation were at sea level, reveal evidence of civilizations in the remote past that was in many respects superior to ours, and indicates the kindergarten of learning.

Who pulled down the curtain dividing us from the past? Who burned the library at Alexandria? Who tried to destroy the pyramids, the Sphinx, the Egyptian Temples? Who tried to destroy true knowledge all over the globe? I think you know the answer. They have left a trail of blood behind them for too long already. It is time for the people to start thinking FOR THEMSELVES, as you so wisely advised the boy Frank to do.

The original Egyptian Jesus was Iu, later the title was changed to Horus, Horus of the Double Horizon. This was Horus on the mortal level and the Immortal level, and coincides with the first man and the second man of the Biblical rendering. They knew the hypnotic nature of the first man, and it was the duty of the Priest to help their subjects to overcome this influence. This they realized could only be done effectively by "living in Truth." It was their endless aim to determine that which is "TRUE."

We find the same teaching in the New Testament. First,—Horus the Creative Power on the two horizons is combined in the one title of Jesus Christ, to wit: Ephesians 3:9 "And to make all men see what is the fellowship of the Mystery, which from the beginning of the world hath been hid in God who CREAT-

In more recent times, there has been a growing realization that on other worlds than ours even in other universes, there are other living beings. The idea that earthbound man may some day journey into the heavens to discover other men and women, like or unlike himself, grows by leaps and bounds. Within man's soul lies the truth — mortals exist on other spheres!

In this book, many references and quotations are given from the latest authentic reports on Saucer phenomena. Because many believe there are contradictions in some of the reported happenings, it has been necessary to show that there is a great story and purpose behind all these experiences.

Here, in this book, is the history of OTHER TONGUES and of OTHER FLESH: calm scientific evidence that there are brothers of ours in the skies overhead.

We are not alone in the Universe!

ED ALL THINGS BY JESUS CHRIST." Also: Colossians 1:16, 17; "For by him were all things created, visible and invisible, whether they be thrones, or dominions, or principalities, or powers: all things were created by him, and for him and he is before all things, AND BY HIM ALL THINGS CONSIST." This in the Egyptian has no "light" or understanding. He is the "EVERCOMING SON," which was carried over into the Biblical rendering as "THE ONLY BEGOTTON SON." In either case it is the Creative Power of God on both the mortal and the Immortal level, or on the material and the spiritual level.

The Bible states: "AWAKE THOU THAT SLEEPEST, ARISE FROM THE DEAD, AND CHRIST SHALL GIVE THEE LIGHT."

The word "sleep" in Biblical usage or any ancient religious usage means "carnal" sleep or hypnotic sleep, it does not mean nocturnal sleep. More than any other single scripture, this one scripture discloses much of the Egyptian Wisdom. It is recognized here that man, the first man is asleep in carnal sleep or hypnotic sleep. In this state he is in intellectual darkness, he cannot reason, he can only respond to hypnotic stimuli. The Egyptians called this state "UNREASONABLE SLEEP." The Bible itself defines the word "dead" as "carnal-mindedness." Therefore by analyzing this scripture we find it to say; if thou will awake from carnal or hypnotic sleep, and arise out of your carnal mind, the mind of the blind hypnotic forces, Christ, or the second man, the Creative Power of God, on the Immortal level, or the spiritual level will give you light or understanding. This is perfect Egyptian teaching. The Bible also states: "Judge not according to the appearance of things but judge RIGHTEOUS judgment." This is also Egyptian teaching. They knew that the appearance of things was HYPNOTIC in nature. They knew the value of rising out of the blind forces of the carnal mind, they knew the value of EXERCISING THE MIND.

Here is another matter of tremendous importance. The one word that is used more than any other one word to get converts into modern Christianity is the word "repent." This word does not mean what false ministers tell the people it means. It has nothing to do with "TO BE SORRY" or anything of the kind. In explanation, let me state that the one word repent found in our Bible is translated from four words in the Hebrew, Chaldee, and Greek. Only one of these words contain the meaning of

"being sorry" and this word is found in the Old Testament. The word "repent" that they have stated means "TO BE SORRY" is in the Greek, "METANOEO," and has the meaning of "EXERCISE THE MIND - OBSERVE - COMPREHEND." It is used in the scripture, "I TELL YOU, NAY: BUT, EXCEPT YE REPENT, YE SHALL ALL LIKEWISE PERISH." In effect the meaning is: "I TELL YOU, NAY: BUT, EXCEPT YE EXERCISE YOUR MIND - OBSERVE - COMPREHEND, YE SHALL ALL LIKEWISE PERISH."

This usage as with the others has to do with AWAKENING from sleep. It has nothing to do with accepting a sense of guilt for your actions, but rather is the teaching of a method of breaking away from the blind hypnotic forces of the carnal mind. This is a teaching of the very finest spiritual psychology ever devised, but the whole value has been destroyed by those who would carnalize the Christ.

I cannot conceive of a greater crime than to misconstrue the true meaning of these sublime ancient Truths.

Speaking of hiding knowledge Ray, if you want to get into a field where they have done a real job of hiding it, get into the realm of religion. Even the dictionary cannot be trusted, as the old true definitions of many of the Bible words have been "OBSOLETED" in favor of the false definitions you now find in the modern dictionary. Also there are hundreds of cases in translation such as given in regard to the word "repent." For another example, the one word "praise" in the Bible is translated from 18 different words in the Hebrew, Chaldee and Greek. It is a conspiracy that has been in existence for a long time. In substituting the truth with a spurious history, they abandoned the true teaching of AWAKENING man from sleep, and used the hypnotic powers against him to KEEP HIM IN SLEEP, to KEEP HIM IN PUPILAGE. What greater Crime could there be than to keep man in pupilage, to deprive him of the knowledge whereby he can free himself of the carnal hypnotic forces, causing him a life of misery on the earth, and possibly a loss of opportunity of continued life in the next grade of God's Schoolhouse of Life?

If these hiders of truth keep on with their evil works, they will find that the day will come when the worm will turn, and when it does, they will be the first ones placed before the firing squad. But it does no good to tell them this, because they have no reason. It is up to the THINKING PEOPLE to force

A DOCTOR IS BORN

By Dr. W. D. Chesney, M.D.

Here it is at last; a book by a doctor who dares to tell the truth about medical trade unions, malpractice, kick-backs, fee-splitting, unnecessary surgery, ghost surgery, food poisons, poison sprays, drug monopoly, medical rackets and a host of other crimes against the traditions of the Hippocratic Oath.
These are the lifetime notes of a General Practitioner, now too old to practice, but determined to reveal the evils that medical monopoly bottled up for a half-century. Here is a fearless indictment, backed up by documentary proof, of the terrible menace to public health of power-mad and money-mad medical associations, to say nothing of the all-too-many doctors to whom their Hippocratic Oath is meaningless.

It is not an attack upon doctors in general, nor on the practice of medicine in toto; it is directed only against those knaves whose nefarious practices must be exposed to save the lives and health of thousands who will suffer or die needlessly because of greed, carelessness and ignorance. Many good doctors know the truth, but cannot speak, because to do so would mean personal financial disaster, and ousting from practice.

Dr. Chesney pulls no punches, and can prove every word he says. Don't let him stand alone in his courage. Don't remain a medical monopoly guinea pig. Order his sensational book today!

the issue and bring them to time BEFORE they gain the overpowering tyrannic rule. The people must realize that THEY are the TRUE GOVERNMENT and they must VOICE their opinions, and they must continually be on the ALERT to see that our public servants are working for the interests of the PEOPLE and not the interests of ORGANIZATIONS that would keep the people in pupilage for their own selfish benefits.

I might add just another line here to clarify another matter that might be in your mind, and that is the so-called "prediction" of the coming Saviour. Certain people have claimed that the "prediction" of the coming Saviour is evidence of the fact that he came as an historical event. It can now be proven that the "prediction" and the "event" are matters that find their roots in Ancient Egyptian Astronomical Mythology. According to the Egyptian reckoning of the Great Year of approximately 26,000 years, each sign or period of 2155 years had its own Saviour. This will be found to be true of all the great religions prior to B.C. (so-called) It is always the EVERCOMING SON or the ONLY BEGOTTON SON, but in different periods carries a different title.

According to the figures of experts, the Saviour for the period of Pisces should have been "born" approximately 255 B.C. This date marks the beginning of a new period, according to the relative movement of the earth and the constellations, a period of approximately 2155 years or 1/12th of the Great Year. According to the Ancient Mythology the Saviour during the period of Pisces should have died about 1900 and a new Saviour "born" for the present period of 2155 years. This is a matter of the Ancient Mythology, a method of preserving spiritual knowledge in the recurring cycles of manifested phenomena. The nonsense of the carnalizers have now upset the reckoning of TRUE TIME as it was kept for many thousands of years by the ancients. The material minded religionists in teaching that the Second Coming was an event that was to take place in a cloud in the outward sky, is again as ridiculous as their other literalizations in order to keep the people in pupilage. Such nonsense has caused untold suffering among the people. The Second Coming is an inward event, that must be earned by awakening from sleep and living in Truth. It may help to clarify the understanding here to state that Jesus is symbolic just as Horus is, as the CREATIVE POWER in the REALM OF MANIFESTATION. CHRIST is symbolic, just as Hor-

THOUGHT DIAL

Here is the amazing, uncannily accurate THOUGHT DIAL, which has become a sensational best seller in its field . . .

NOW YOU CAN DIAL YOUR THOUGHTS!

THOUGHT DIAL taps the subconscious, answers direct questions, helps locate lost articles, and even aids in "picking winners!"

THOUGHT DIAL consists of an actual "Thought Dial" and a concise, crystal-clear textbook, explaining principles, method of operation and interpretation. Simple, yet a complete study in itself!

INTRODUCTION by Carl Payne Tobey, President Institute of Abstract Science, who declares: "Sydney Omarr has discovered a method of helping people contact the abstract world, where all the answers to all your questions can be found."

Other opinions:

Henry Miller, Internationally famous writer; "The value of the THOUGHT DIAL lies in the discovery —sooner or later— that all the answers to all questions must come from within. When one becomes truly aware of this ancient truth one will learn to ask the right questions. The first thing to find out is—Who is asking what? Second, are you prepared to accept the response provoked?"

Tiffany Thayer, celebrated author and secretary of The Fortean Society: "THOUGHT DIAL is exactly twice as good as Ouija!"

Lawrence Lipton, writer and scholar: "THOUGHT DIAL triggers the numinous experience of the individual."

Ben Hunter, Night Owl KFI, (NBC) radio commentator; "THOUGHT DIAL is simply fascinating!"

The above comments are but a few of many similar statements from astrologers, psychologists, psychiatrists, writers, students and everyday persons in all walks of life anxious to learn by doing. The THOUGHT DIAL is simple to operate, easy to understand—it could represent one of the most exciting experiences of your life!

The Los Angeles Herald-Express terms THOUGHT DIAL "fascinating and unique." It opens new vistas within the mantic sciences, including astrology and numerology.

In the new, ENLARGED EDITION, Omarr presents additional findings based on a multiplication of experiments and research INVALUABLE FOR STUDENT AND PROFESSIONAL!

SPECIAL NOTE: For the many hundreds who have purchased the first edition of Thought Dial, the new supplemental material, is offered at $2.00.

us is symbolic of the CREATIVE POWER ON THE SPIRITUAL LEVEL, or on the IMMORTAL side of things. The aim of the teaching is TO IMMORTALIZE THE MORTAL. Or to raise Jesus to the status of Christ. This is done as is described in the Bible: "FOR HE IS OUR PEACE, WHO HATH BROKEN DOWN THE MIDDLE WALL OF PARTITION BETWEEN US." This is the "making one" the duality of the human being. And here in the word human is another secret. Hu is an ancient term meaning God. It preserved the truth of the duality of man and the fact that man is a God-man when he awakens from sleep and breaks down the middle wall of partition.

Now this might not seem to be related to the subject of FLYING SAUCERS, however the fact is, it is very closely related, as the people must know why censors are established, where the roots of many evils lie, and be so equipped as to effectively combat tyrannic principles wherever he finds them. Only by this means will we be able to establish a government "OF THE PEOPLE, BY THE PEOPLE, FOR THE PEOPLE."

I have the proof of the original true knowledge that has been distorted by selfish tyrants, causing untold suffering among the people of the earth for thousands of years. It is our intention to publish this knowledge, and teach this knowledge, and we have incorporated the INNER POWERS SOCIETY for this purpose. The Society is an Educational Non-profit Corporation, and anyone desirous of aiding us financially in our movement is invited to do so.

I think you would do well Ray to move your binoculars over a bit and see if you do not see other influences working that you had not previously taken into consideration. In case you might want to publish this letter for what benefit it might be to your readers, you are welcome to do so, and I will not mention that we have already made a reprint of a part of the almost unknown massive works that reveal this True Knowledge of Ancient Egypt, the True Origin of Christianity and the material that has been hidden for thousands of years.

This is the knowledge that is needed to break the power of the religious tyrants. True Knowledge is always the greatest weapon against tyranny. Tyranny can only exist when the people are kept in pupilage. My book USING THE MAGNETIC FORCES OF YOUR MIND must have something in it due to the number and the nature of the letters we receive from readers.

THE AMERICAN MERCURY

The HYPNOTISM HAND-BOOK

Have your subject gaze fixedly at this spiral and then READ TO HIM the hypnotizing technique given WORD FOR WORD in Chapter Two of this "Handbook of Hypnosis for Therapy." As soon as he is hypnotized, READ TO HIM THE particular WORD FOR WORD therapy which applies to his particular problem. Many such therapies are given, always in the exact WORD FOR WORD form, which is essential in any scientific or professional use of hypnosis. There has never been a book like this. A few years ago an article in Western Family said about its principal author: "Along the west coast, the 'hypnotism man' whose students you'll most likely run into, is Charles Edward Cooke."

Cooke has taught doctors of medicine, dentists, psychiatrists, psychologists, ministers of the gospel, nurses, and many others, from San Diego, California, to Spokane, Washington. Cooke has mass hypnotized as many as 400 people at once by READING the WORD FOR WORD hypnotizing technique in this work.

Although written for the professional man this book will have a wide appeal among laymen who seek precise methods rather than the vague directions that have hitherto been available.

MAGAZINE published my article MASS HYPNOSIS: SOVIET SECRET WEAPON in the February issue. Everyone should read this article and learn of the use of the powers of MASS HYPNOSIS upon the people in a FULL WAKING STATE.

The people today are bombarded on all sides with hypnotic suggestion, and this is the reason that we have so many people suffering from nervous disorders and is the FACT behind the statement of some of our fine doctors in the realm of psycho-somatic (mind-body) medicine, who declare that 90% of the physical disorders of the people are rooted in subconscious mind-conditioning.

We have re-prints of the article MASS HYPNOSIS: SOVIET SECRET WEAPON that ordinarily sell for 15c, however if your readers will mention SEARCH or FLYING SAUCERS when they write, we will send them a copy for free, with no strings attached.

Another thing about the Egyptians, we can trace EVERY language on earth and find it is rooted in the Ancient Egyptian. We can trace the Egyptians back many, many thousands of years, and yet we never find a time when they did not have a full knowledge of the courses of the stars and planets. There is no doubt that their knowledge of astronomy was far superior to ours of today. Did they obtain this knowledge by living out among them? Were the Egyptians "planted" here? Where did they obtain this knowledge if they did not come to earth by space ship? I think I recall a record somewhere of an Egyptian King going to battle in a "FLYING MACHINE." As I recall, it made a "purring" sound, according to the record.

complishments in science and technology. The Death Ray? Yes, they have it. We have it too, only our government is too stupid to do anything about it. You don't believe this? Read on.

First, one thing must be clarified: there are two great forces in the world, two tides of energy—one of construction and one of destruction. Behind them stand two Powers, two Organizations: the White and Black Lodges of Initiates. This was explained last year in SEARCH by Devananda, an Eastern Adept, in his article, "UFO AND THE BLACK LODGE." Here we must repeat that these Organizations work behind the scenes, employing human puppets and temporal institutions to achieve their ends. And now for a Shocker. The visible tools of the Black Lodge are Communism and Christianity, both institutions of human enslavement, one of man's body and one of his soul. Does this throw you? Then read history. Learn about the horrors of the Inquisition and the Crusades, paralleled only by Russia's present reign of terror. Yes, even now history is being written in blood while Eisenhower is up at his farm reading cowboy stories.

It should be obvious to every thoughtful observer of world affairs that Russia's brilliant stratagems and maneuvers could not possibly originate in the crude, primitive minds of its ostensible leaders who are and have been, from Lenin to Khrushchev, vodka-soaked illiterates. The real thinking is done by the Black Lodge Masters who through the ages labor ceaselessly to becloud man's mind and destroy his soul. That they enjoy less than total victory is due to the counter-efforts of the White Lodge which works for man's enlightenment and liberation. The Communist Manifesto of Karl Marks is 100 per cent sorcery on a par with the diabolical substance of Christian Scripture. Does this throw you? Good, we hope it does. Prepare for bigger shocks between now and 1975 when the forces of Good and Evil clash head-on.

Another thing. As a professional astrologer I know, as do many of my colleagues, that Russia's major moves are timed to the minute when stellar configurations favor the red horoscope. This is further proof that astute Occult Intelligence guides the moron butchers as they bluster before the world. To credit them with minds capable of mastering scientific Astrology would be like expecting pigs to sing grand opera. Russia is the trigger of Armageddon and will enslave the world or herself be destroyed. Hitler was Destiny's tool for the annihilation of the Red Scourge, but the

THE OPEN WAY
Celina, Tenn.

Black Lodge tricked our stupid, power-drunk politicians into rescuing her when she was breathing her last. We fed her and nursed her back to health so that in turn she could destroy us and the rest of the civilized world. For this we can thank the sainted Roosevelt whose lunatic policies live on.

How do we know that Russia has the Death Ray and is planning to use it? Two reasons. (1). Information to that effect has penetrated the blood-drenched Iron Curtain—private information, true, but from sources which have never been wrong in the past. (2). There are in America, as in the East, highly-trained Occultists who can project their consciousness to any part of the world and observe what is going on as easily as if they were there in person. It is a rare and exceptional faculty, surpassing the clumsy "astral projection" about which so much is said by people who know nothing about it. To extend the waking consciousness over great distances is simply a development of the image-making faculty latent in everyone. The particular part of the world to be studied is clearly visualized in the mind and the consciousness projected to it. The principle is easily understood when one realizes that all he actually is IS THAT CONSCIOUSNESS—a Divine Spark of Godhood whose home is not the limiting physical body, but the entire Universe.

These great Occultists know the truth. From their secret sanctuaries they watch the centuries go by, witness the rise and fall of nations, observe the heroism and stupidity of man, and, whenever possible, help him on his bewildered way. They know that the world, like individuals, must learn by trial and error, mistakes and suffering because they were once erring mortals themselves. They know that Russia, led by savage, power-mad beasts, must eventually be destroyed, but even they cannot predict with certainty her day of doom because man has free will and choice and determines his own course. The big question is: will the free nations unite and exterminate the blood-dripping monster in time, or will it be allowed to grow and expand into a horrible Hydra beyond our power to control? If so, civilization is doomed and future races will have to do what we should have done years ago.

And the Death Ray itself—a thing so terrible that by comparison atom bombs are as firecrackers. What is it? If you have never heard of the "Hieronymous machine," a little explaining is necessary. Years ago someone stumbled upon a principle of Magic used by the African

"The absolute tops in over 100 books on the subject of flying saucers! Undoubtedly the most all-embracing on every aspect of the subject that has yet appeared!" The Hon. Brinsley le Poer Trench. editor of the bi-monthly Journal of Space, FLYING SAUCER REVIEW.

"FLYING SAUCER PILGRIMAGE"

By Bryant & Helen Reeve

They went on a 23,000-mile pilgrimage to meet the people who claimed to have seen flying saucers, even ridden on them! They wanted to know these people for themselves, so they could judge their stories! Here, now, is their factual account of that pilgrimage. Meet them all for yourself: Adamski, Fry, Bethurum, Williamson, Angelucci, Van Tassel, Desmond Leslie, many others. And then they saw a saucer themselves! Read their exciting conclusions, their singular message to you!

Further comments:

"The authors have written the account of adventures and experiences in a most readable and delightful light-hearted manner, however do not be deceived by their gay and happy style. Oh, yes, they want you to enjoy their pilgrimage with them, and you will, too. But this book certainly goes "deep" and explores saucers, the space people and their raison d'etre, from every possible angle."

"Are contactees chosen in advance by the space people? Why don't they land? How do we look to the space people? What are they like? What can we learn from space beings? Is this civilization ending? Why are the space people coming to earth in such great numbers at the present time? Are the space beings hostile or friendly? These are just a few of many questions discussed in this book."

"No one seriously interested in learning the truth about flying saucers can afford not to have this book on their shelf. Better, have it by your bed!"

Voodoo priests for centuries. It had come down from Atlantis and was partly responsible for the destruction of that great continent. The "machine" itself is a chemicalized disk impregnated with a tremendous concentration of electro-magnetic force which is released as a disintegrative "ray" toward any object when a photograph or detailed picture of the target is placed upon it. The power of "Heironymous" is virtually unlimited when the machine is precision-made and operated by experts.

Why we say that our Government positively knows about it is that the Agricultural Department of a certain State of the Union consented to have it tested as an insect-killer without, of course, knowing what it really was. 90 farms in five counties were involved. The plantings were divided into alternate strips, every other strip being treated by the machine from photographs. The results were checked by State Agricultural authorities, and at the end of the experiment it was found that 90 per cent of the Japanese beetles had been destroyed. But when the State Bureau learned the truth—that it was not a chemical insecticide but a Death Ray operating on photographs—they rightly suspected that Magic was involved and washed their hands of it. It would never do, you know, for Government Officialdom to endorse anything "occult" or "supernatural." No—Never!—even if other nations, less bound by the stupidities of orthodox "Science," go all out for Black Magic and wreck the world in the process!

Russia's American agents snapped this up like they did our atom bomb, and her captive scientists are working around the clock to perfect it for large-scale destruction. It won't be long before all they will need do is place some aerial photographs of our big cities (which they have plenty of) on the death-charged disk, and New York and Washington, D. C. will disappear faster than highballs at a White House banquet. Such is the tragedy of America, the tragedy of closed minds, intellectual cowardice, professional pride and conceit, fanned by fires of bitter hatred for anything metaphysical or esoteric. And behind our ignorant scientists, politicians, preachers, and educators stand the mighty Adepts of the Black Lodge, pulling the wires and calling the shots.

Such are the facts, and here we stand—perhaps in the twilight of a death-haunted world—with half of America drugged by TV and martinis and the other half by Billy Graham and Bishop Sheen, presided over by fatuous bureaucrats masquerading as statesmen and a grinning golf-and-poker President, while the Sorcerers in the Kremlin and Vatican polish their plans for world conquest. A terrible picture? Yes, terrible indeed, bleak, black, and terrible—our own picture, our own collective portrait. Is it too late now? Is civilization doomed? Must Armageddon come and everything be lost. YOU answer that, dear reader.

George Cardinal LeGros
Post Office Box 917
Chicago 90 Illinois

We won't comment on this letter, except to say that "he that hath a mind, let him think". What we want to do, is to set something straight regarding the mysterious "Hieronymous machine" mentioned by Mr. LeGros. It happens that the name Hieronymous has been flung at us from another direction also, just recently, and this in respect to flying saucers. Before it goes too far, let's let our readers in on the facts regarding Mr. Hieronymous, whose full name is Hieronymous Bosch. First, Hieronymous Bosch was perhaps the first science fiction artist, and he did his strange work centuries ago. In it he depicted weird machines, whose strangeness impressed Richard Shaver (author of the Shaver Mystery) not because they were strange, but because they were FAMILIAR. They were almost exact reproductions of machines Shaver had seen in the caves inhabited by the dero. To Shaver, this meant that Hieronymous Bosch had also seen them, and had not "invented" them in his paintings, but had merely copied them, possibly for posterity, in the only way he could, without being burned at the stake. Next, it was in Amazing Stories, as supplementary material to the Shaver Mystery, that Hieronymous Bosch got his modern publicity. We strongly suspect that is the source of the present publicity being given to a mysterious Mr. Hieronymous, both by Mr. LeGros and the certain flying saucer individual who shall be nameless for the moment. If it is the intention of anyone to lead us on, getting us to fall in with his very tempting tid-bit to prove some of the things we say, let it be scotched right now. The only Hieronymous machines in existence are those painted on canvas by Hieronymous Bosch centuries ago, and the only interest in them that we can see is the remarkable similarity to machines seen in modern times by Richard Shaver, in his "caves". If Shaver dreamed, Hieronymous Bosch dreamed the same dreams! If there are any readers who know the OTHER reason we printed Mr. LeGros' letter, let him speak—but be careful! Hold your face right when you say it!—Rap.
