Search Magazine is published every other month by Palmer Publications, Inc., C-137 Hickory, Mundelein, Ill., Editorial office: Amherst, Wisconsin. Re-entered as second-class matter at the Post Office at Amherst, Wisconsin. Additional entry at Sandusky, Ohio. Manuscripts, artwork, photographs invited, but no responsibility is undertaken for loss. Return envelope and postage essential. No payment is offered for contributions. Subscriptions: 1 yr. $2.00; 2 yrs. $4.00. Printed in U.S.A. by Stephens Printing Corporation, Sandusky, Ohio.

....Editorial...

With this issue we change our format. Instead of the former digest size, we have enlarged the magazine to conform with our sister magazine, FLYING SAUCERS. Those of you who have followed us through the years will appreciate some of the reasons: First, we have found that the larger-sized magazine gets a better display on the newsstand. Thus, SEARCH will be easier for you to find. Next, while we have reduced the number of pages, the pages are twice as big as formerly, so that there is no reduction in the editorial content of the magazine. Rather, we have instituted a policy of reducing the size of advertisements carried in the magazine so as to increase the space allotted to articles. Third, we are now enabled to standardize our printing operation, and both magazines are printed simutaneously on the same press, thus making possible a considerable saving in printing costs. Lastly, the printing process used now makes for a much better reproduction. In the past, some of our photographs have not been too well reproduced. We believe that when we do run a photo, it will be much clearer, less "smudged" and "gray" than previously. A picture you can't see clearly isn't much good.

Editorially, there are other benefits which add up to less work for your editor, and therefore more time to spend on better quality articles, etc. Also there is the standardizing of the envelopes in which subscriptions are sent out. One size envelope instead of two, and cheaper costs because of bulk purchasing. All in all, the basic reasoning behind our change is to make even more firm our financial position, and insure that SEARCH shall continue to come to you. There are many cost increases lately, such as paper, postage, and labor. These things have a way of creeping up, and at the same time it is impossible to increase the price of so small an item as a magazine. Take postage for instance—the increases instituted thus far have cost us $3000.00 yearly over and above previous rates Never in its existence has SEARCH made that much money in a year! Obviously the postage increase alone is enough to put it out of business—provided we did not finance it with other operations. Sometimes people sneer at our selling of such things as hair preparations, facial clay, chili powder; but in the final analysis it is these things which make possible the continuance of a magazine which falls into the "free speech" category. Any magazine which is not a conformer to the "popularity" trend is a non-profit project. Thus, the financial picture in magazine selling makes for standardization, conformity, regimentation, and non-challenging material. Stick to the "norm" and you make money; do a little thinking and you go broke!

Then there are the readers who criticize some of the advertising we carry. So somebody sells "racing formulae", so what? Maybe the

AM I A REINCARNATED PRIESTESS OF ATLANTIS?

By Barbara G. Sorensen

Here is a strange story which may delight the believers in reincarnation. It actually happened to the author, and became so terrifying an experience that it resulted in a nervous breakdown. SEARCH magazine offers her story as a weird journey into the unknown realms of the mind.

The night club in New Orleans was small, smoky and crowded. The audience was varied, of mingled types, ages, varieties, emotions. A 3-piece orchestra took up most of the space on the tiny stage, making the remaining space quite inadequate for any serious expression of the art of the dance, but enough for the purpose of the patrons.

The orchestra seemed determined to drown out the noise of the audience, but they were not successful. The usual bedlams of a night club broke upon my ears in a distracting way. There grew in my mind a feeling of anger and annoyance toward the audience; somehow it seemed that they were intruding upon my privacy. It was the privacy of my own garden, beside the pool in which I bathed. The garden behind the Temple. . . .

But why were my clothes so strange? Why was I wearing the attire of a common dancer? I was a priestess, yes, a high priestess. I danced, but not in this attire, nor before common people. I danced before my gods, and before my love. No audience other than these should observe me.

But I danced on, thinking of the strangeness of my dancing costume; and while I danced, the noise of the audience faded. More and more, around me, a vision grew up, a vision of which I was a part. Reality supplanted reality, and instead of dancing on a tiny stage in a crowded room, before a boisterous, roisterous crowd, I danced before one man.

I was in a luxuriant garden, beside a beautiful pool, and now my garb was a filmy, lacy material strangely Egyptian in fashion. Around me the walls of the building in which I had previously been faded entirely away. I was out in the open, in balmy weather. Soft breezes caressed my body, languor stole over me, and I stopped dancing. Instead I took the hand of my prince, and we walked hand in hand beside the pool — my prince and I.

He was very tall, and so beautifully bronzed. Beside me he walked lithely and strongly. We had little need for words as we walked, for we had understanding of each other, and peace of mind. Around his neck was a jewel on a gold chain. I had given it to him. Around my neck was a similar chain, but it bore a tiny cross. It was my symbol of our troth. We were in love.

I stopped walking, to put my arm around his neck and to kiss him, when suddenly it was all gone, and I stood again, bewildered and afraid, on the tiny stage, staring at the audience leering at me from the tables about the smoky room. With a gasp, I turned and fled from the stage with the words choking in my throat:

"I can't go on . . . !"

Whether I walked home or took a cab, I do not remember. All I know is that somehow I reached there, undressed and went to bed. I had been terribly shaken by my weird experience, and felt relieved that it was over, although I puzzled over what it meant. Was I sick? Was I suffering from delusions? I sought sleep, concluding that I had been overworking, and rest was all I really needed.

But then it happened. . . I grew rigid with horror as I realized there was something evil present in my bedroom with me. I could see nothing in the darkness, but I knew, as surely as I knew that I myself was in the room, that someone else was there beside me, someone terribly evil and loathesome, someone who meant me dire harm. I lay paralyzed with fright, fearing to move. But I felt nothing, other than the presence. It remained there for hours, while my brain literally froze with terror in my skull. I felt that I was slipping into insanity, was going into a state of shock. The nerve-wracking actuality of the presence was devastating to my nerves. They screamed within me, while I myself was so dry-throated and tense that I could not scream.

Somehow I knew the identity of the evil presence. He was the High Priest. This was the Master of Sorcery, the Dreaded One. All night a mental battle went on. Half the time I was in my bed, half the time in a weird place where I saw marks being placed on my body by the High Priest—black marks on my wrists, my arms, on my hand. Marks of evil possession. I would, in spite of the darkness, see the marks; a vague resemblance to a cloven hoof, and yet not a cloven hoof. Each time I would see the sign, I would hear a voice: "Wash off the sign! Wash off the sign!" and I would find myself rushing to my bath pool, there to scrub frantically until they did truly seem to disappear.

But as soon as I returned to my bed, there would be the marks again, black and evil as ever, burning their way into my flesh. Repeatedly the frightening ritual went on, as I washed and washed again, but always failed to remove the marks for more than a few moments. It was a wonder that I did not rub the skin from my arms, so hard did I scrub them.

Each time the High Priest applied the sign, I revolted, and fled to remove it. But all to no avail.

At last the horror came to an ultimate pitch—he appeared beside me visually. His burning gaze held mine like a magnet, and my senses swam. The bedroom faded away, and I was alive in the remote past, and somehow it seemed unquestionable that this was Atlantis and that the dim illusions of a different sort of word were no more than illusions, and in fact never would exist.

Atlantis, I knew, was a country with cities beautiful beyond compare. The temple where I was High Priestess had a tremendous rounded dome that was covered with pure gold. Now, thinking back, I cannot remember if there was a cross on it or not. Why I should think of a cross surmounting a tall spire, I did not know. But I did. It was little strange things like that remaining with me, in the back of my mind, that kept me vaguely aware that I was not living one life, in Atlantis, but two—one of them almost too vague to understand.

The people of Atlantis were a proud people. They were always well groomed and well dressed. Health and luxury abounded. None were more luxurious than the High Priestess.

But it was the High Priest, the Evil One, who ruled. I ruled with him, but only in token. The people worshipped the High Priest, unable as I, to see into the darkness of his heart. However, at this moment, it seemed to me that my word was law, for I knew that I had the training and ability to equal or surpass his, for ruling.

I was reckoning without his insanity, and the evil power that he wielded. This power, I was soon to discover was too great, and the law of right and wrong, and the rights of humanity, were as nothing before it.

The High Priest was in a rage, and we were fighting. But I was too stunned by the discovery of his insanity to be able to cope with him, much less reason with him. The discovery, too, revealed now by his outburst, that I was not actually the ruler, but that the High Priest had stolen my power from me, left me weak and shaking. Worse, I knew now he meant to possess me, to take me for his own. He meant to make me his cohort in evil, to rule Atlantis beside him to its total enslavement.

I recoiled in horror, refused to be his queen, offered instead to abdicate, and leave the throne solely to him. I had fallen in love with a fine man, a prince, true and good, and I wanted to live a life of my own with him. I wanted a life of love instead of an empty life of rulership, power, and now, it seemed, mad despotism.

In revealing my love, I made my most serious mistake. Enraged, the High Priest confined me to the temple grounds, with no communication with the outside world. I saw no other human being whatever.

In spite of this, it seemed I had strange senses of which there is no counterpart today. I was incommunicado, but none the less I knew what was going on—the man I loved was being executed at the command of the High Priest. First, however, he was being cruelly tortured and multiated, and I, aware of it all, felt his every pain as he suffered it, his every torture was equal torture to me. The High Priest was enjoying himself, and I saw him with blood and froth coming from his lips, making him appear as a very demon, an evil spirit, which he actually was. No longer did I see him as a man, but as a black sprirt.

I went into a state of shock, and in that state, was not able to resist the High Priest, but he knew that my state was not true submission, and it enraged him. He meant to degrade me before the populace; so soil me that no man would ever care to love me again, or be a threat to the High Priest and his supreme authority over Atlantis. I was subjected to the Sacred Rite of the Bull. The purpose of the Rite, as it should be practiced, was to show service to God and to a tribute to eternal life. But the way the High Priest subjected me to the Rite was the perverse serving of Satan and the worship of eternal death. Taurus as opposed to Scorpio.

I was led into the Arena to the Sacred Bull. I knew how to dance before the bull, and to leap between his horns, but I was High Priestess, and this dance was the duty of lesser girls. I refused to dance. This refusal was portrayed to the populace as an insult to the god, and the High Priest whipped up a fury against me as he denounced me thus falsely.

Guards seized me, and dragged me toward the bull. I was ordered to make love to the bull as I would to a man. I refused. The guards tormented the bull, rousing him into an insane rage, while pinioning me before his gaze. In the bull's eyes I was the cause of his torment, and he struggled in his chains to reach me. My clothing was torn from me, and I was held before the maddened bull. Then the bull was released.

As he charged, the guards flung me high into the air. I came down on the horns of the charging bull. One sharp horn tore out an eye, the other pierced my ribs and my arm. The arm was broken and fell dangling before the bull's eyes. It maddened him further, and he tossed his head violently. The pain became so intense that I fainted. I do not know what happened after that, but I did not expect to live as the bull raced around the arena with me impaled upon his horns. It must have been that he threw me off, and perhaps even trampled over me in his blind rush as I fell to the ground. For when I revived, what must have been days later, I found that almost every bone in my body was broken, and I was horribly mutilated. If I lived, I knew no man would ever look at me again. Nor did I want them to. My broken heart was with the man I had loved, who now lay dead, even more mutilated than I. But as seriously injured as I was, I lived, by some miracle of vitality.

I recovered until I could walk again, but because my broken bones had not been set, I who had been so beautiful was now a hideous, hobbling monstrosity, so horrible in appearance that women turned from me with a shudder, and children ran screaming at sight of me. It was nearly a year before I was led out of my prison and paraded before the public. I was placed in chains and dragged naked through the streets. The crowd jeered and tormented me. I was led then to the pit for execution.

The pit was quite deep and rather large. It was circular in shape. Pointed metal stakes, needle sharp, were driven into the bottom of the pit, with the pointed tips aimed upward. They were so numerous and so close together that it was impossible to fit a human body between them. Anyone thrown into the pit could not fail to be impaled on at least one, or even a dozen.

I was thrown into the pit. I felt the sharp points cut into every part of my body and go c o m p l e t e l y through me. Such was the force of my impact that the stakes penetrated several feet through my body. The awful pain the moments before my death drove me from sanity, and I died out of my mind. To die thus we believe, was to be insane in the spirit form.

Atlantis fell. The fact of my death was the beginning of doom for the ancient continent. The forces of evil were unleashed; the people became as blood-mad as their evil Ruler. And in their downfall they blamed me. My refusal to dance before the bull had been an insult to the gods.

And now the gods rained their mighty bolts down upon the earth. Lightning flashed, thunder roared, the ground trembled. The waters of the sea rose higher and higher, and then the earth divided. Atlantis split into halves, and the beautiful temples and buildings crumpled and fell into the waters as God blew his breath upon them.

The people, gone insane, fought each other in their terror and in their efforts to reach higher ground. They used each other as stepping stones to reach the heights. They shook their fists at the heavens. These puny people cursed God, and even today their blasphemy rings in my ears. All of it was evident to me in my spirit form.

Those who were pushed to the ground to be used as stepping stones reached up and dragged those above them down to destruction with them. Atlantis and all the populace went deep into the eager, hungry ocean.

Out of the abyss rose three spirits: the evil High Priest, my Prince, and I. The High Priest cursed me, and my lover. Through his evil power he decreed that in future lives I would be doomed to be alive while my lover slept in death; and my prince would live while I was in spirit form. Never were we two to meet in life, nor in death. Reincarnation would be our lot—in different life spans.

In life I had not been able to fight the High Priest—but now in spirit form I found the ability to battle him. I had lost an eye to the bull—now I dug my fingers into the eyes of the Black Priest and tore them out. But the struggle to accomplish it locked us in battle all day and all night. When I finally succeeded, he was blind in spirit form.

I have lived many lives since. Never have I been able to find my Prince in the same lifetime. When he was in life, I was in spirit form, and his search for me was fruitless. Each life has been a torment, with the Evil Priest always in the background, his eyeless sockets glaring out in search of me, his evil powers always making a hell of my life.

In this life, I could not remember Atlantis. I could not understand the tragedy that always accompanied me. I could not understand the weird "presence" that tormented me. I did not recognize it as the High Priest and his evil power, still insanely bent on torturing me through the ages. Not until my breakdown there on the stage of the New Orleans night club as I danced. Later I went into trances, one of which lasted nine days. In these trances I talked incessantly, but those who aided me and listened, could not remember or understand much of what I said.

I heard the High Priest's voice taunting me, trying to persuade me to leave my body and go to my spirit lover—while he took over my living body for his own. I fought against him. I have no intention of allowing the Evil Priest to use my body to gain power once more, and perhaps destroy a world as he did Atlantis.

Further, I know, somehow, that the curse will not last forever, and that someday, I will meet my Prince, and we will be together. I am remembering more all the time, since that night when I went into the past like a lamb led to the slaughter, and I have hope. Life is hell, but there is an end to hell. If my Prince lives today, I will find him. If not—there will be another life!

LOST IN TIME

By Frank Patton

There is a man in the United States Public Service Hospital in Boston, Massachusetts who makes the clock of Time spin crazily over almost a century and a half. He claims to have sailed on many ships, and the manifests bear him out. But it cannot be the truth —or can it? Read the facts for yourself.

This weird story begins with a mystery within a mystery. On July 10, 1941, the German submarine J-24 encountered a strange clipper ship in the North Sea. On her bow was the name Cutty Sark. When challenged, she opened fire with a deck gun and was promptly torpedoed by the submarine and sank with loss of all aboard except one man, a man named Charles William Jamison. Later this man was landed at a Belgium port and ostensibly taken to a prisoner of war camp.

According to Lloyds of London, there was only one ship named the Cutty Sark, and she was a British clipper built in 1830, and vanished at sea in 1890, never to be heard from again.

Early in 1945 a U. S. troop transport picked up a man named Charles William Jamison in the North Sea. He was taken to Boston and arrived on February 9.

On February 11, 1945, an ambulance drove up to the U. S. Public Service Hospital in Boston at 2:25 A.M. and the driver assisted the attendant in carrying a very sick man into the hospital, gave his patient's name as Charles Jameson, and left. A check of all ambulances in the area later proved that no ambulance had called at the hospital in the past three days.

The man called Charles Jameson could or would not speak, and was found to be suffering from advanced osteomelitis, a bone disease, and from partially healed shrapnel wounds on his back. His clothing was in remarkably good state, but the fashion was of a cut no longer in use. His arms were tattooed with American and British flags, the words "U. S. Navy" and "United Kingdom". His age was judged to be about 45.

Seven years later, sitting paralyzed from the waist down, he spoke for the first time. At once hospital authorities began a process of questioning intended to discover his identity, and where he had come from, and the cause of his shrapnel wounds. Questioning was difficult because he would not respond. Once it was established that he was a sailor, records of ships, including Janes Fighting Ships, were secured and shown him in the hope of a sign of recognition.

One ship excited him tremendously. He called it by name, the Bellerophon, although it was listed only by number in the book. It was the Bellerophon, commissioned in 1909, and heavily damaged at the battle of Jutland, in the first World War. Jameson claimed to have served on her when "brand spanking new", and described his participation in the battle of Jutland, although when questioned as to actual details, remained firmly silent, as a navy man would as a matter of training when captured If his story was true, this would have made him older than 60 years.

But the worst was yet to come. During the process of looking at pictures in books, one of Disraeli was encountered, and Jameson said "He is a great man!" When informed that Disraeli was long dead, Jameson grew indignant. Not so, for just yesterday he had made a great speech in Parliament, and Jameson quoted passages from the speech. Upon research, it was discovered that Jameson was correct in his quotes. The speech was made in 1837! Yet Jameson claimed it had been "only yesterday"! During Jameson's personal lifetime. Now Jameson was more than 125 years old!

More old pictures were shown. Jameson grew ecstatic over a British Naval gunnery school he had attended, and described its grounds intimately. Research showed he was entirely right in his description, but the gunnery school dated back to 1850!

He also said he had been inside a London ammunition depot of the 1890 era.

One day, Jameson explained the tattoos on his arm. The interlocked emblems of the U. S. Navy and that of the United Kingdom, he said, were emblematic of the friendship between the two countries, and had been put upon the crew of the Cutty Sark. This ship, he said, had "sailed off into eternity, where all good ships go."

As we have seen, the Cutty Sark did sail off into eternity in 1890. Only to reappear in 1941 in the North Sea to be torpedoed by a German submarine!

Jameson was on the first, and Jamison on the second. Could they be the same? For the first time the spelling of Jameson's name was questioned, and indignantly he corrected it, writing it out for the doctors. Jamison! Not Jameson, but Jamison!

When shown old British uniform sleeve markings, Jamison identified them as "false", which was true—the doctors had juggled them.

Now, revealed Jamison, he had also been on the Hinemoa, out of Chili, bound for the British isles, and torpedoed in the British Channel. The information was correct, except for the manifest. On it appeared the name Charles James Jennings. Not Charles William Jamison, but strangely similar.

The doctors tried a new tack. Since investigation by questioning Jamison resulted only in further and further confusion and contradiction, they broadcast his picture on TV. Recognition was almost instantaneous. Homer Dee, of Galveston, Texas, identified him as Frank J. Higgins, who had left Galveston, arrived at St. Johns, Newfoundland, written back that he had shipped on the Frances Salmon, bound for an unknown destination, on Jan. 12, 1942. The Frances Salmon was nevev heard from again, and Higgins was presumed lost. But Higgins' family refused to accept him as Higgins, and when Higgins' fingerprints were compared with Jamison's there was not the slightest similarity. The manifest of the Frances Salmon was examined. It showed the name of Frank J. Higgins, and further down the list, that of Charles William Jamison! The impossible had happened, and the mystery was now insoluble.

The Jamison picked up by the U.S. Troop Transport in 1942 off South-

SEARCH Magazine's complete report:

THE ROLE OF THE POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT IN THE CENSORING OF "FOREIGN POLITICAL PROPAGANDA"

Disturbed by reports from our readers that there was unconstitutional interference with the receipt of books and magazines from foreign countries on the grounds that they constituted "foreign political propaganda, SEARCH Magazine instituted a complete investigation of the situation. The following material is the result of that investigation, and includes material secured for SEARCH by U.S. Senator William Proxmire by persistent effort (for which SEARCH thanks him heartily), plus various opinions and evidence submitted by readers. To summarize this material, SEARCH's editor comments on its implications.

In our June, 1959 issue, we asked the question: "Should Americans Read Foreign Propaganda?" Thereby we raised a storm. Since a complete presentation of the evidence for and against thus became necessary, we wrote to Wisconsin's U. S. Senator William Proxmire, who, while a controversial figure in Washington, cannot be said to neglect his mail. He provided us with a very complete report, for which we are quite appreciative. The following is his report:

June 2, 1959

Mr. Ray Palmer
Route 2, Box 36
Amherst, Wisconsin

Dear Ray:

Reference is made to your letter concerning the mailing of foreign magazines described by the Post Office Department as "Foreign political propaganda". The delay in replying to your letter was due to the fact that one of my staff members had to call the Department three times before the requested information was furnished.

Enclosed is a copy of the letter which General Counsel Herbert Warburton goes into great detail concerning the Department's position in this regard. I hope that you will find his explanation answers the questions you have raised.

With warm regards,

Sincerely,
William Proxmire, U. S. S.

June 1, 1959

The Honorable William Proxmire
United States Senate
Washington 25, D. C.

Dear Senator Proxmire:

Earlier this week a member of your staff telephoned my secretary and stated that you had received a request from a constituent for information pertaining to the Post Office Department's procedures in implementation of the Foreign Agents Registration Act, that you desired to answer the letter directly, and that you desired copies of POD Forms 2153-X and 2154-X.

I enclose copies of these forms together with a copy of a statement I prepared several months ago pertaining to Post Office Department procedures pursuant to the Foreign Agents Registration Act.

This inquiry from your constituent gives me an opportunity to discuss with you the Post Office Department's method of implementing the Foreign Agents Registration Act.

Since I became the General Counsel of the Post Office Department in May 1958, I have given considerable time to the study of the laws pertaining to foreign political propaganda with respect to the Post Office Department.

The responsibility for this Department's handling publications determined to contain foreign political propaganda is based upon the Foreign Agents Registration Act (22 U.S.C. ss611-621) and implementing Opinions of the Attorney General. The Acts requires that all agents of a foreign principal register with the Attorney General, and that such agents who disseminate political propaganda must, by labeling, identify their material as being transmitted by a foreign agent. The Attorney General in an Opinion rendered in 1940 (39 Atty. Gen Op 535), specified that a person in a foreign country, acting for a foreign principal, who sends foreign political propaganda through the United States mails, should be considered as though his action occurred within the United States. Accordingly, if he were not registered with the Attorney General as a foreign agent, he would be deemed to be in violation of the registration requirements of the Foreign Agents Registration Act. and the material he had mailed would be subject to confiscation.

The Bureau of Customs inspects matter entering the United States from abroad which is suspected by it to contain foreign political propaganda. These inspections are made at the various ports of entry, principal of which is New York City. Customs inspectors determine whether the material contains, or is believed to contain, foreign political propaganda. If the sender is not registered as a foreign agent, customs inspectors transmit the material to the postmaster at the port of entry for processing in accordance with the Post Office Department's procedures in implementation of the Foreign Agents Registration Act.

In December 1956, the Attorney General, designated by executive order to administer the Foreign Agents Registration Act, promulgated what one may term Rule 6. Rule 6 provides that:

"Any person not within the United States who uses the United States mails, or any means or instrumentality of interstate or foreign commerce, within the United States to circulate or disseminate political propaganda to addressees who have not ordered, subscribed to, or otherwise solicited such material shall be regarded as acting within the United States and as subject to Sections 2 and 4 of the Foreign Agents Registration Act."

Since 1956, the Bureau of Customs and the Post Office Department, consistent with the more liberal position enunciated in Rule 6, have been passing publications containing foreign political propaganda through the mails when the addressee has ordered or subscribed to them. Of course, it was recognized that colleges and universities were frequently receiving foreign political propaganda for academic use. This fact became particularly obvious in 1956, when the bulk of the responses from academic institutions and from academicians to the inquiries of the Post Office Department indicated their interest in receiving foreign political propaganda. Since then, the Post Office Department has adhered to the policy of permitting material containing foreign political propaganda, addressed to colleges and universities, to pass through the mails as a routine practice without the need for inquiring as to whether each shipment was solicited by the addressee. The Post Office Department inquired of other addressees also, and when their reply was that the material had been ordered or subscribed to and it appeared that the material was not intended for indiscriminate dissemination, it was passed through the mails to these addressees.

The volume of foreign political propaganda coming into the United States has been steadily increasing. The Bureau of Customs now estimates the amount to be in excess of 15 million pieces annually. As the volume increased, so did my concern that the Post Office Department's implementation of the Foreign Agents Registration Act was an ineffective means of implementing the Department's responsibility under the Act. My specific concern was that the Office of the General Counsel in Washington, which theretofore handled directly the entire program, could not keep up with its work with respect to the program.

A check at port-of-entry post offices was therefore instituted to determine whether a more facile and certain procedure for handling this responsibility could be devised. Simultaneously a spot-check was instituted to determine whether oversights had occurred in communicating with addressees, due primarily to the increasing volume of mail.

This check confirmed my fear that the Post Office Department's then extant procedure was inadequate. For example, the spot-check indicated that due to clerical oversight and other causes, many addressees had never been informed about mail matter containing foreign political propaganda which had been sent to them.

The inadequacy of the old system, when compared to the changing needs of the times, together with the Post Office Department's understanding of the negotiations completed on January 27, 1958 (Joint Communique of United States and Soviet Union on Cultural Exchanges) between the United States and Russia, which were directed toward a freer cultural exchange, led to my requesting an inter-agency meeting upon the matter. Representatives of the Post Office Department met with representatives of the State Department and the Bureau of Customs.

The consequences of that meeting were:

1. The diplomatic agreement, by its preamble, confirmed that the exchanges for which it provided should be subject to the Constitution, laws and regulations of the respective countries, and that both the Americans and the Russians effect certain cultural exchanges (enumerated thereafter). Accordingly, the representatives of the three agencies agreed that the widest possible latitude would be given to passing propaganda through the mails.

2. The representatives of the three agencies agreed that those of the State Department would keep those of the other two agencies informed as to identities of those domestic agencies, organizations and individuals which had been designated by the Government to work with their foreign counterparts, so that propaganda material addressed to them could be speedily passed on; that the Justice Department's representatives would keep the other representatives continually informed as to the registration status of foreign agents; that the Customs inspectors would keep the representatives of other agencies continually informed, as they had previously, of the nature and form of propaganda received including addressees and material of addressees; and that representatives of the Post Office Department would adjust its procedures to be sure that every addressee would be notified as quickly as possible of the identification of the material addressed to him.

In execution of this obligation, I immediately called a meeting of the postmasters representing the primary ports of entry to secure their advice as to the practical means by which the Post Office Department could best implement its responsibility. All persons present at that meeting here in Washington agreed that the best method was to delegate the responsibility to the postmasters at the ports of entry.

Accordingly, the present procedure was instituted. Customs inspectors notify port-of-entry postmasters when they receive matter containing, or believed to be containing, foreign political propaganda. The postmaster, by means of POD Forms 2153-X and 2154-X, notifies the addressee. As you will note from perusing these forms, they are self-explanatory. If the addressee affirmatively executes the Form 2153-X and returns it within 15 days to the postmaster from whom he received it, the postmaster then forwards him the publications to which it pertains. If the addressee advises that he did not order, subscribe to, or otherwise solicit the material, the material is not sent to him, because it is concluded that the material, if forwarded is unsolicited and would be disseminated in violation of the Foreign Agents Registration Act. In these instances, the material is generally destroyed pursuant to the authority of the Foreign Agents Registration Act and of 18 U.S.C. 1717. If an addressee has solicited more than two copies of the same issue of the same publication, unless he is acting as agent for other people, only two copies of each issue of each publication are sent to him, the rationale for this limitation being that if an addressee for his own use has sought more than two copies, he has sought them for the purpose of dissemination contrary to the Act.

The Foreign Agents Registration Act is essentially an informative Act. Its purpose is not censorship, but rather a method of advising addressees of unsolicited mail that material has been mailed by a foreign agent and to prohibit dissemination when the disseminator has not registered with the Attorney General. Thus, one may say that the statute does not prohibit the sending of propaganda through the mails, but rather, defines the method by which it may be sent when the sender comes within the purview of the Act. By way of emphasis, I should mention again that a publication containing foreign political propaganda that has been ordered, subscribed to, or otherwise solicited by the addressee is sent to the addressee provided he notifies the postmaster that he has ordered, subscribed to, or otherwise solicited the material.

If there is any further information you desire concerning this matter, please do not hesitate to call upon me.

Sincerely yours,

(Editor's Note: The following are reproductions of the cards sent to persons to whom "foreign political propaganda" is addressed, prior to delivery or destruction, as the case may be):

Dear Sir:

This letter is to advise you that the Postal Service has received foreign mail addressed to you consisting of certain publications which contain political propaganda as defined by the Foreign Agents Registration Act (22 U.S. Code 611-621).

Such matter ordinarily would be treated as nonmailable. However, such matter lawfully may be passed through the mails and delivered to the addressee when it has been ordered, subscribed to, or otherwise solicited, and is not for dissemination. It is possible that you did not order this material and that your name is on a mailing list over which you have no control. Therefore, in order to determine whether the publication listed on the enclosed card may be passed through the mails and delivered to you please return the accompanying card.

If the enclosed card is not received within 15 days, the publications listed thereon will be disposed of as nonmailable under the law.

(Editor's note: The following is a printed sheet originating from the office of General Counsel Herbert B. Warburton, which is apparently mailed to all post offices):

The Role of the
POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT
in connection with the
FOREIGN AGENTS REGISTRATION ACT

The Post Office Department's responsibilty with respect to publications determined to contain foreign political propaganda is based upon the Foreign Agents Registration Act and decisions of the Attorney General supplementing and explaining its requirements. The Act (Title 22, U. S. Code, Sections 611-621) requires all agents of a foreign principal to register with the Attorney General, and that such agents who disseminate political propaganda, by labeling, identify that the material is being transmitted by a foreign agent. An Attorney General's decision, December 10, 1940 (39 Atty. Gen. Op. 535) specified that a person in a foreign country, acting for a foreign principal, who sends foreign political propaganda through the mails to this country shall be considered as though his action took place in the United States. Therefore, if he is not registered as a foreign agent with the Attorney General, he is deemed to be in violation of the registration provision of the Foreign Agents Registration Act and the material he has mailed may be confiscated.

The Bureau of Customs inspects mail matter originating in foreign countries and suspected to contain foreign political propaganda at the various ports of entry, primarily New York, Chicago, and San Francisco. It makes its determination that particular material is composed of or contains foreign political propaganda and, if the sender is not registered as a foreign agent with the Attorney General in accordance with the cited statute and the Attorney General's decision, the material is transmitted to the Post Office Department for processing in accordance with the Foreign Agents Registration Act and the aforementioned Attorney General's opinion.

In December of 1956, the Attorney General, who has been designated by executive order to administer the Foreign Agents Registration Act, promulgated what is known as Rule 6. This rule provides that:

"Any person not within the United States who uses the United States mails, or any means or instrumentality of interstate or foreign commerce within the United States to circulate or disseminate political propaganda to addressees who have not ordered, subscribed to, or otherwise solicited such material shall be regarded as acting within the United States and as subject to Sections 2 and 4 of the Foreign Agents Registration Act."

The above rule has been interpreted to mean that if it is determined that the addressee ordered, subscribed to, or otherwise solicited a publication, it may be delivered to him if it is not for dissemination. To carry out the Attorney General's rulings, the Post Office Department gives all addressees of foreign political propaganda publications an opportunity to state whether they ordered, subscribed to, or otherwise solicited the publications.

The letter which you recently received from the postmaster was in accordance with the foregoing procedure. If you sign the return card contained in the letter and forward it to the postmaster, you are not liable in any manner whatsoever for accepting the material. Also, if you do not reply, you assume no liability or responsibility. We hope you will understand that so long as the Foreign Agents Registration Act remains a law, the Post Office Department must abide by its terms.

Sincerely yours,
HERBERT B. WARBURTON.

Dear Rap:

You asked that we should express our opinion about "Should Americans read foreign propaganda?"

Of course we should. That is our only way of knowing how to react to it. Of course, I would not advocate that high school agers do it, because they have not finished their training. Publishers of smut claim that we are not permitting them their legalized freedom when we object to their publications. BUT, the trouble is that most of it is leveled toward the immature mind of the high schooler or earlier ages, the immature mind. Both smut and propaganda are pretty heavy stuff for the young, just as we do not offer a baby beefsteaks cooked rare. We have to wait until the baby has cut teeth and learned to use them before we feed them adult food. The same is true with smut and propaganda. We must permit the infant to cut spiritual teeth and learn to use them before we offer them this adult stuff. Infants get indigestion by tackling rare beef, and younglings can do themselves and others a great deal of harm by tackling smut and propaganda.

But the adult should by all means read it. Congressmen, state and national officials, ministers, teachers, publishers, writers and thinking people of the nation should read it. Frankly, it is a pet notion of mine that Russian should be taught in our schools even as English is taught in the Russian schools.

Dear Mr. Palmer:

Of course Americans should read foreign propaganda. As for it being suppressed by the Postal Department, I am inclined to think your article sums up the situation very well, however, I am reminded of the dramatic story of an American newspaper that was suppressed. This happened some forty years ago and is told in Oscar Ameringer's book "If You Don't Weaken" (Henry Holt & Co.) In case you have not read it I recommend it as "gorgeous and important reading." Not mystery or science-fiction.

I, too, have wondered what I would say if questioned about Communism. I read some books and have some ideas that I support wholeheartedly and I am told 'they are Communistic'. Then I read other books and hear of other ideas that are abhorrent to me and I am told 'they are Communistic.' Last week I read a message received telepathically from Monka, of Mars. From it I lift the following, to me, significant, statement, "Forget not that the basic concepts of Communism are much purer than those of Democracy. Yet those who call themselves Communists are nothing but tyrant. Therefore, Communism has become a filthy word."

Dear Mr. Palmer:

Enclosed is a letter written to the Postmaster of Buffalo, N.Y. concerning a book that was ordered that was thought to be of propaganda nature.

As far as the magazine Northern

Neighbors not reaching the subscribers, I am unable to comment on that. I know of only two subscribers, and have not heard any complaints from them. (This letter of course, pertains to your article in June issue of SEARCH.) I get the magazine USSR, and as yet haven't missed any of the issues. However, I have never yet received a book from any publisher or book store that was not open. The package that is. I am sure that any breaking open of the package was done at this end of the line, for the books would never have reached me otherwise, such was the condition of the wrappings. This is only with books. I get packages from Sears; from friends, and out-of-town stores and they arrive in good condition. While this is annoying, as I like my books in good shape when I get them, it doesn't disturb me, as I am quite sure that if I wanted a book or magazine that would be held up at the post office because of propaganda contained. I would readily find ways and means of getting those books. I feel, at the age of fifty, I am well able to separate the wheat from the chaff, and need no guardian of my actions, physical or mental.

I liked your editorial very much, and of course your article on propaganda. You have a most interesting magazine, and I enjoy it and lend it to friends so that they might also.

Checking over my I.F.Stone's Weekly back issues, I came across a notice in 5-11-59 stating that all copies of his newsletter for May 4th sent to the subscribers in the District of Columbia "inexplicably disappeared from the local postoffice". This issue dealt with the article, "Strontium May Be 60 Times Deadlier Than AEC Says".

Postmaster,
Buffalo 5, N.Y.

March 25, 1959

Authoritative Sir:

I have received your notice that if I do not sign the card, which will presumably list me among the undesirables, the book, my property, ordered and paid for, shall be destroyed as being unfit for me to read. I have served my country in foreign war, have been shocked and shattered in course of duty, an experience which I suspect has not been yours. Now you would apply your smother blanket to information sought to enable me the better to ponder the threats and hazards of another war. Your use of the word, propaganda, is no justification in a land flooded with propaganda. "We, the people" must judge what truth lies in all such. Ever since ours has been a nation we have been told that "We, the people" have been told we are the court of last resort, that final decisions rest with us. Your censorial attitude means that this court shall not fully hear the contentions of the pro and con, but shall be blinked and ear muffed by assertive politicans, who pose as guardians of their betters.

Where does any citizen, official or other, discover the least constitutional authority to decide what other citizens shall read or hear or see?

If you and other servants can usurp the power to decide what works on political and international problems may be intercepted on the way to subscribers, it is but a short step to making away with the essays and brochures of heretics, to denying magazines access to the mail, to emasculating text books, purging libraries, blue pencilling encyclopedias.

Every moon sees some vituperative servant of the people trample constitutional rights, the most sacred of which is free speech and press. These self appointed dictators make of Democracy a hollow sham. "We the people", do not go far wrong when all sources of information are open and unhindered. I am demanding prompt delivery. If refused, I shall ask why, legally ask it of higher-ups, who are legally obliged to answer.

Dear Rap:

Re your recent article "Should Americans read Foreign Propaganda?" I am enclosing a P.O. Form sent my wife, Lillian Kelley, just yesterday. The publication referred to is "Democratic German Report"; it came entirely unsolicited; we would return it to our local Post Office, telling them that we did not want such material sent to us. We did this for several months, but the "Report" kept coming—then came the P.O. Dept. Form "2153-X, Mar., 1959", which we have to sign and return to P.M. at Chicago. This is the second form that my wife has received from the P.O. Dept.

I agree that we should be trusted to read and decide for ourselves, as to what to believe, re such trashy propaganda . . . personally, I toted a machine-gun thru the mud of La Belle France, in 1918—and would gladly do it again (at age 65) to protect the American way of life—but "I'm agin" this paternalistic way of "protecting me from myself".

Well, you asked for proof, so here 'tis . . . More power to ye!

Dear Mr. Palmer:

The question you raised in your article, "Should Americans Read Foreign Propaganda" amounts, of course, to: should there be censorship of printed word?

Well, it's not easy to generalize, the answer to your question, as you do by denying such necessity unequivocally.

In the first instance very few people have sound judgment, and a vast majority don't even bother to make an effort to strain their minds for rational judgment—they just follow the lead of whomever they happen to believe in, even if he is a proven liar.

I will give you just two examples of recent strict propaganda events, which were swallowed hook and sinker by the masses, but which have a great deal to do with the universal tension and insecurity of all mankind, which were so much more enhanced just because they have not been censored at the very beginning and not emphatically denied as outright lies by those who are supposed to represent the people:

1. When Red hordes struck at MacArthur at the Yalu River, people were led to believe that they were Chinese "volunteers," who came to the help of the "defeated Red Koreans".

You and I of course well knew that they were regular Chinese army furnished with Soviet tanks, artillery and "Migs", and that it was Red China, wha attacked, not the UN, which is "inanis umbra et sine honore romen" but our United States of America and not some "volunteers".

Would not the public reaction force our defeatist leadership to smash, once and forever, the bloody murderers, if the people knew the truth?

2. The big joke of the "Big Five", who emerged after the defeat of Hitler and Japan, suddenly became, after the trip of George Marshall to China, just the "Big Four", because the people were led to believe that the government of Nationalist China was no good and "peaceful agrarian reformers" were taking ½ billion Chinese over!

One can excuse the majority of people for not knowing what communists really are, be they Chinese, Russian, French, Italian, German or American, but our leadership certainly knows that they are wholesale murderers, besides being aggressors of everything that is decent, and that they boast to "smash" us and that they are arming for the sole purpose to do so. Nevertheless this brazen lie has been left to ride the minds of the people and the betrayal of Nationalist China has been accepted without protest, and the forseeable future of Asia "in toto" jeopardized, maybe without any hope to better the conditions peacefully.

Would you also in this case assert that no censorship to poison the ignorant minds is needed?

And, dear Mr. Palmer, I certainly cannot agree that the friends you mention who joined "America First" which is a communist front, are great Americans; in my estimate they are even not average, because the average is harmlessly not thinking at all and just drifts along during his life, as a dry leaf, which is carried with the tide of a brook, whereas your f r i e n d s thought of joining an organization about which they knew nothing at all.

And, whereas propaganda printed by Marxists in the Soviet Union may not affect even the average nonthinker, their propaganda, printed right among us, is the subtle and poisonous subversion of ignorant minds, which is strictly foreign and used for the fulfillment of the Marxist goal, and therefore the censoring of it is badly needed, as otherwise half of humanity would not be enslaved in mind and soul and the other half would not be in the tragic and pitiful condition of utter confusion, for which no hope of escape is in sight.

E. L. Brasol
P.O. Box 1774
Daytona Beach, Fla.

* * * *

To begin our editorial comment, we'll take last things first. Apparently Mr. Brasol believes that inasmuch as the general public is ignorant and thoughtless, there should be censorship. He seems to postulate that as long as we are faced with ignorance among the populace, the remedy to prevent possible trouble (such as a public demand that the Chinese be properly licked), is to keep them ignorant, to prevent them from receiving disturbing information. We wonder if Mr. Brasol's opinion is not precisely the opinion of the formulators of the "Role of the Post Office Department in connection with the Foreign Agents Registration Act"?

Mr. Warburton admits to this particular official interpretation of the application of the Foreign Agents Registration Act to books and magazines addressed to American citizens, passing through the Post Office Department. While we are on this particular paper, let's take a closer look at it.

Specifically, the requirement of the Foreign Agents Registration Act is to compel all agents of a foreign principal to register with the Attorney General, and that the material they are disseminating be labeled so as to show that it is being transmitted by a foreign agent. Thus, it is the sender of the material who is the subject of this Act. The Act is designed to prevent indiscriminate dissemination of political propaganda, and if it is, to request of the addressee whether or not it was ordered, so that the status of the material and its sender as a violation and violator may be determined.

This does not explain why, once such determination is accomplished, the Postal Department goes on sending these notices to recipients. Obviously the purpose of the Department (or rather Mr. Warburton) is to censor, and not to enforce the law. It should be quite apparent that once a sender of foreign political propaganda has been detected in an unlabeled transmission of his material through the mails, it is no longer necessary to waste the taxpayer's money sending fifteen million such notices to the addressees. Mr. Warburton is entirely outside his rights in his interpretation of this phase of the Foreign Agents Registration Act, and his action in instituting this wasteful and deceptive system is wholly unconstitutional, and an act against the inherent freedom of speech of the American people.

If the receipt of foreign propaganda is okay for academic use in our colleges and universities, where apparently it is used in classrooms in the process of teaching political science, it is hard to conceive of the distinctive line drawn between a tutored student and a self-taught student.

There is great danger in several phases of the requirment to sign a statement regarding whether or not the material awaiting delivery was ordered or solicited in any manner. For instance, if more than two copies have been ordered, this is an automatic violation of the Foreign Registrations Act. This implies a vast system of record-keeping, and when more than two such copies have arrived, a violation can be said to have occurred, which is prosecutory. We have no argument with this, but the thought of the staggering bookkeeping cost of such an operation appalls one interested in postal deficits. Apparently most, or all, of our postal deficit, which is used as an excuse to raise postal rates, derives from activities of the State Department, and laws which have nothing to do with the cost of delivering your weekly letter to Mother. If this is the case, the increase in postal rates should be applied to the material in question, namely the incoming foreign political propaganda, and should be paid for by the sender.

However, a law is a law, and must be obeyed. It is the implementation of this law that leaves much to be desired. As long as there is international agreement to allow solicited entry of political propaganda, how much simpler would it have been to specify that the sender include, on his order blank, a coupon which is simultaneously filled out and mailed to the local postmaster, so that he can deliver this material without delay, upon receipt. Lacking such an "authorization", destruction of the material would be automatic. But such efficient methods are obviously beyond the ability of our Mr. Warburtons and our framers of Foreign Political Propaganda Acts.

Basically, the important objection to the Act as a whole is the loophole left in interpretation. It comes down to the question which is still unanswered — who among our citizens has the right to tell a free man what he may or may not read? The whole Act should have nothing to do with the recipient of the material, this portion of it is obviously a "rider" attached to a bill intended to protect against the activities of foreign agents or spies. No one argues that we must not allow our people's minds to be misled, poisoned, deluded into betrayal of our American freedoms. But to shield them from propaganda is the wrong approach. Rather, it would be most effective to counter this propaganda by a logical debunking. It would cost far less to prepare rebuttal material to every piece of foreign propaganda coming in through this mutual international agreement (whether labeled as such or not), and attach it free to every incoming piece, so that the recipient will have both sides of the question. Spike the lies right in their tracks. Allow the foreign agent to hoist himself with his own petard by exposing the perfidy in his material. The cost would be far less than this amazing Postal Department antic. And in a few short months the propaganda would stop due to its becoming worthless, and actually, becoming a boomerang which would be intensely embarrassing to the foreign propagandists. No one spends money on a project which produces negative results.

What we need in Washington is more intelligent solicitude for the welfare of Americans, and less abrogation of their freedoms through imperious censorship, no mater how well-meaning. The fact remains, no single American, or group of Americans, has the right to tell you and me what we shall not read. It will be pointed out by Mr. Warburton that such is not the case; but it is! Once you have signed such a card, it is on file as a matter of record that you are a "voluntary recipient of material disseminated by foreign agents" and the maxim of "guilt by association" is not at all impossible Witness the question flung at all persons brought before Congressional Commitees on suspicion of communistic leanings and activities: "Were you ever a member of or contributed to a Communist front organization?" It is just as easy to produce such a card as form 2153X as evidence of willing assimilation of un-American ideas.

In SEARCH's opinion, this is the negative approach to the problem of foreign political propaganda. A positive, aggressive counter-attack would be the American Way. That is, unless it is true that we are a nation of ignoramuses incapable of thinking for ourselves, except in the matter of cigarettes!

Mr. Warburton, the thinking man's filter, says we are.

SEARCH says we ain't!

ampton had been listed in her manifest as born in Boston. Check of the records showed no Charles William Jamison with record of birth, nor did a search of the naturalized citizens record of Boston show such a name.

Charles William Jamison was undoubtedly aboard all the ships mentioned, in all the times mentioned, and the Charles William Jamison in the Boston hospital remembers all of them. Although it seems incredible, here is a man truly lost in time!

There remains only one question —on what ship will he next turn up, only to be lost in the reaches of the unknown called the centuries? It would be no more fantastic than what has already happened.

IS WORLD PEACE A DREAM?

By Alfred W. Pritchard

The June issue of SEARCH presented a rather lengthy letter from Dr. Alfred W. Pritchard, President of the Inner Powers Society and Author of the book "USING THE MAGNETIC FORCES OF YOUR MIND." Many people have written stating they would like to hear more from Dr. Pritchard. Here it is – you asked for it.

IN considering this most important subject let us be realistic. Let us not get caught in the web of prejudice — hatred — selfishness and countless other attitudes that disturbs one's ability to reason.

One could write a thousand books on the causes of war and yet never arrive at the true answer, when all the time the answer could be given in one statement, to wit: "THE INABILITY OF PEOPLE TO UNDERSTAND EACH OTHER."

If we can in brief come into an understanding of WHY people do not or cannot understand each other, would we not hold the KEY to the situation in our hands? And if we held the KEY within our grasp would it not be worth every effort within our means to turn the magic key that would bring understanding between people and nations?

Do you argue with your neighbor over the fact that 2 plus 2 equals 4? Do nations argue over the fact that 2 plus 2 equals 4? Of course not! For the simple reason that each has been equally taught the true fact that 2 plus 2 does equal 4.

What are the two factors, the two major factors that divide people and nations, those factors that create hostility and wars? Obviously they are religion and politics.

In the world of Nature in the raw, the observing individual will notice that there is always a natural enemy for every living thing in order that a balance of the whole may be maintained. This earth has been here a long time now and no one animal has overruled the whole. There is a natural check in nature to maintain this balance. These natural checks are necessary because the animal was not blessed with the ability to THINK, to REASON, and therefore to govern his activities for the benefit of the whole.

The ability to THINK and to REASON was given to man exclusively, but his failure to adequately develop these abilities has been his shortcoming.

Why has man failed to develop his inherent ability to reason and understand his neighbor, or why have nations failed to agree, to understand each other and therefore avoid the untold suffering that humanity has been forced to endure? One could answer, "Selfishness and greed," and he would probably be right so far as such an incomplete answer goes. The truth of the matter lies much deeper and has been hidden from the people for so long that they do not even suspect the true basic cause. The facts of the case are available, and anyone willing to invest the time that this writer has done can find them for himself. Shocking, as it may be, the basic root of the cause of misunderstanding among people, the inability of people to agree, the inability of nations to agree, finds its roots in religion!

Does this mean that religion is an evil thing? By all means no! It only means that tyrants have had control of religion for thousands of years, and have deprived the people of the TRUE knowledge concerning religion. For thousands of years TRUE RELIGION has been reserved for a select few. For thousands of years the people have been taught false religion in order to keep them in ignorance and subject to the tyrannic powers of false religious organizations.

HOW WAS IT DONE? Simple!

In days long past the people were taught the truth about religion, and TRUE RELIGION consisted of a TRUE KNOWLEDGE of the LAWS OF NATURE — THE LAWS OF GOD — and the relation between them.

Over a period of many thousands of years, the Ancient Egyptians worked to perfect their knowledge of the LAWS OF NATURE and the LAWS OF GOD. Truly, all Cosmic Laws are Laws of God, but, some work through Nature and some work through Mind. Their knowledge was used constructively for the benefit of the whole. In order to record their knowledge of the invisible, it was necessary to adopt a system of symbols that would REPRESENT the invisible powers that they had discovered. This feat was first accomplished by the use of Zootypes, that of using animals whose natures resembled the powers of Nature or the powers of God that they wanted to record. A very elaborate system was established in order to clearly explain how the laws of Nature functioned and how the Laws of God functioned. The Egyptian Religion is now known to have been the original religion on the earth and every other religion finds its roots buried in Egypt.

During the process of developing the original religion, they partially abandoned the zootypes and established a very elaborate mythology including their astronomical mythology. They knew the courses of the planets and the stars. They knew the course of the moon. They knew the course of the earth around the sun, and in fact they knew more about astronomy than we do today They knew the nature of vegetation, they knew the nature of animals, and they knew the nature of man.

They knew that man is a dual being. They knew that man has two minds, and they knew the laws by which they are governed. They knew that the visible body of man is of the earth, that it consists of the elements of the earth, and that this body of earth has a mind of its own. They knew that there is another body, another man, an invisible man that uses the body temporarily while here for his vehicle to move about in this environment. They knew the nature of this inward man. They knew that he is not of the earth, but rather of the heavens.

Just as we find positive and negative polarity in electricity, they knew of the polarity of the inward and the outward man in men. They knew that according to their inherent nature, there is a natural conflict between the two. They knew how this conflict is established, and they knew how this conflict may be corrected. And herein was the purpose for religion:—In order that man might know himself, and thereby correct the natural conflict within him, and when this is accomplished, there is no conflict with his neighbor and he has accomplished his purpose for being here. Instead of greed and selfishness ruling his actions, he then understood himself, and understanding himself he understood his neighbor and instead of competing to see which one could get on top to hold the other down, the spirit was that of trying to help one another, for they understood why they were here and the nature of the work to be accomplished.

The ancient religious writings had no meaning without being explained as they were always recorded by means of symbols of one sort or another. When the tyrants took over they simply told the people that the shell, the symbol, the means of recording the facts was the truth. They simply failed to explain the inner meaning of the symbolic material. Of course many people objected to this, for they knew the truth, but they were quickly eliminated. It is recorded that 90 milion people were killed when the tyrants decided that true religion would no longer be taught, but rather the symbol would be taught as the truth.

The inside truth of religion is called es-oteric religion, and the shell, the symbol, the carrier of the true message is called ex-oteric religion. The Webster Dictionary defines the word "exoteric" as "suitable to be imparted to the public." Historical religion is ex-oteric religion. True religion is timeless. Exoteric religion consists of teaching the people that the "letter" is the fact. As regarding the Christian Religion, the people have been taught that the "letter" is the fact in spite of the clear warning that was given to beware of the "letter."

There is a deep underlying reason why religion was developed, and why it was developed to such a high degree in the long past. It was because of the fact that the outward man or the mind of the body, is without reason, that it is hypnotic in nature. The ancients discovered that if the person would exercise his mind, that is, if he would learn to THINK, and THINK concerning the things that are TRUE, that they could overcome the hypnotic nature of the outward man, the body mind, called the carnal mind. By so doing they could overcome the natural conflict caused by the natural hypnotic nature of the carnal mind. The endless effort of the Ancient Egyptians was to find that which was true and to live in that truth.

There are countless forms of evidence to prove the high development and superior knowledge of the Egyptians. The inability of modern man to understand the symbols of the Ancient Egyptians has caused them to be the object of severe ridicule, especially from the hands of false religionists.

When the tyrants came they knew the nature of the carnal mind, they knew how it could be controlled hypnotically, that it would believe anything impressed upon it, if it were properly impressed. They knew that ignorance was essential to this accomplishment, and therefore used every effort to keep the people in pupilage, (a state of endless learning, never learning true knowledge). True knowledge whereever possible was destroyed in order that the ex-oteric hypnotic religion may be imposed upon the people. False religious organizations have known of the power of hypnosis since their beginning, but the people being ignorant of the powers that were being used for their control were unable to do anything about it.

About 50 or so years ago the Russian Scientist, Pavlov, re-discovered this same principle. About the same time an Englishman also discovered the same principles after studying the principles set forth by Mesmer who had previously discovered what he called mesmerism. It was very similar to hypnosis although he used an elaborate system which he claimed made use of the animal magnetism in man in order to accomplish his results. Many hypnotists use part of his methods yet today, but all under the name of hypnotism. The English, the French, and some Americans used the principles and in recent years have learned much about them. However, the Russians saw a weapon, a secret weapon, that they could use to endeavour to gain control of the world. They studied the phenomena from every angle and they know every trick concerning the phenomena. Their knowledge surpassed that of the religious tyrants who had long used it for the control of the people.

For some years now the people of the United States have been subjected to hypnotic influence from both religion and foreign governments, as well as in the realm of advertising, and other mediums.

False religion has deprived man of gaining true knowledge of himself in order that they might maintain a tyrannic control. They have posed as men of God, yet they never teach the True Laws of God, of the True Nature of man, or the True relationship between man and God. Now they say that a Godless nation is trying to take over the control. Which is more Godless, the one who professes to be and is not, or the one who admits that he is not? When the truth is known, there is no way to escape the fact that FALSE RELIGION is the cause of war, and the cause of our present conflict with Russia.

The Kremlin states that "religion is insanity" and that they are going to remove it from the earth. Before we condemn the statement just because it came from the Kremlin, let us examine it. In the first place they are undoubtedly ignorant of the facts of True Religion. The statement would have been in good order if they had stated, "False religion is insanity and should be replaced with true religion."

Before we get alarmed about such a statement, let us analyze the word "insanity." Let us consult Webster rather than our emotional feelings concerning the word. The Webster International Dictionary 1909 defines "insanity" as follows: "1. The state of being insane; unsoundness or derangement of mind; madness, lunacy. ALL POWER OF FANCY OVER REASON IS A DEGREE OF INSANITY."

Modern ex-oteric religion admittedly states that their "belief," their "dogma" which is defined as "opinion presented as if it were fact," must be accepted without process of reason or proof. To doubt, or to require "proof" they state is despising to God. They unconditionally require the so-called convert to accept their "formula" for the saving of the soul without proof of their statements being correct. Their stronghold is — "It is the word of God." Such acceptance constitutes a compliance with the terms of the definition of the word insanity, in that the acceptance was based on fancy and not that of reason. Webster defines "fancy" as "To believe or imagine something without proof." In 1 Thessolonians 5:21, in our Bible we are told: "PROVE ALL THINGS; HOLD FAST THAT WHICH IS GOOD."

The state of being insane does not include "violence" as many people think it does but rather has reference to the soundness of body and mind, particularly the mind. Sound or soundness implies wholeness, or as Webster states: "Unbroken, unharmed, free from flaw, defect or decay, healthy, not diseased, free from error; correct; right; honest; true."

The word sanity is derived from the same Latin root as the word "sanitary," which is a state free of corrupting influences. Knowing this helps to obtain a clearer understanding of the word. Much attention has been given in recent years to the development of outward sanitary conditions, however the word applies inwardly as well as outwardly.

By the Kremlin stating that they intend to remove religion from the earth because it is insanity, does the Kremlin propose to establish a state of SANITY? Obviously not, but rather a different kind of INSANITY because their procedure is not in the teaching of true knowledge but rather consists of another form of "dogma" which is as I have stated, "opinion presented as if it were fact." It is just another hypnotic control which obtains its power and effectiveness by keeping the people in pupilage. A state of sanity cannot be produced without the individual compliance to the terms of the word "sound" herein given.

By studying the cold hard facts of the case and determining the issue according to the true meaning of words and not emotional feelings or fancy, we are able to turn the spotlight on the real culprit. If adequate corrective measures were taken a correction could be made.

Much of the true ancient religious knowledge is known. Much of it is contained in our Bible when properly understood, and of real value when properly taught.

Anyone properly or truly taught knows that the Saviour is the Creative Power of God, called in the Egyptian Religion "THE EVER-COMING SON," and called in the Bible, "THE ONLY BEGOTTEN SON." He is the ONLY Son because the Trinity of the Godhead consists of three principles, to wit: FATHER — MOTHER — and SON. Only ONE of each. The Son is the Workman, doing the work of the Father. The Father "IS", the Son manifests in the realm of time, therefore He is "EVERCOMING," making both statements correct, and each one adding to the meaning of the other.

The Son being the manifestor for the Father in the realm of time, is therefore found to be operating on two levels, to wit: the mortal and the Immortal. In the Egyptian Religion the Son was first called Iu and was later changed to Horus, Horus of the Double Horizon. The two horizons of the rising sun and the setting sun were symbolic of the mortal and Immortal levels.

In the Egyptian Religion, the EVER-COMING Son as mortal Horus is symbolized by the sun on the Western Horizon or by the setting sun because it goes down into the darkness, the darkness of mortality.

The rising sun is the symbol of the EVER-COMING Son on the Immortal level. The Son having gone into darkness on the Western Horizon overcame the forces of darkness to rise triumphant on the Eastern Horizon.

This symbolism is a method of recording the facts of their spiritual knowledge by means of REPRESENTATION in the recurring cycles of time. It is a way of stating that The Immortal is continually coming down into the mortal and rising again into the Immortal. While in mortality, He is the suffering Son, suffering as you and me. This is just another way of stating that "Christ came in the flesh," because He is continually, EVER-COMING in ALL flesh.

In the Bible the Son is sometimes spoken of on the mortal level and sometimes on the Immortal level and sometimes on both. Jesus is equal to mortal Horus and Christ is Equal to Immortal Horus. The hidden objective of the Christian writings is exactly the same as the Egyptian, that of Immortalizing the mortal, to raise Jesus to the status of Christ.

To believe that a single man died on a wooden cross as an historical event approximately 2000 years ago to save sinners from their sins is to believe that which is not factually true. Such is contrary to the teaching of the Bible and also of the Egyptian Religion, from which the Hebrew and Christian writings were adopted. This is an escape mechanism, a mechanism designed to avoid the individual responsibility of developing character according to the Laws of man's spiritual beingness. To believe the lie is to strengthen the power of the hypnotic nature of the carnal mind.

The symbol of the Cross originated in Egypt and was a method of recording time. The symbol of the Cross used on hot cross buns at Easter Time indicate equal day and night as this event is timed to the Vernal Equinox. The symbol of the Cross which has been taught to be a symbol of the wooden cross that the Christ died on has the horizontal line raised above the center of the vertical line and indicated the Winter Solstice, the time of the year when day and night was unequal.

In Ancient Egypt the sun was recognized as the "giver of life" to all manifested things on the earth. It was observed that the sun apparently stood still for three days at the Winter Solstice and this representation in nature became a part of their astronomical mythology They recorded that the "giver of life" the Saviour, "died on the cross" at the winter solstice, and after lying "dead" in the "grave" or the "tomb" for three days rose again, or was reborn again for another year. This was a time of celebration and feasting because the Saviour was on his way back to bring them an abundance of good things.

Easter was symbolic of the birth of Horus on the Easter-n Horizon and the equal placement of the lines of the Easter Cross indicated the balance of the powers of light and darkness, and in their spiritual teaching, it was symbolic of the birth of the spiritual nature in man, when by the attainment of True Knowledge and right living, he overcomes or gains a dominating hand over the forces of darkness, his mortal nature.

The Egyptians divided the heavens into twelve sections. These divisions may be noted in a modernized form in the present day Zodiac. A complete "turning" of the heavens due to the relative movement of the earth and the constellations was discovered to require approximately 26,000 years. Each section or sign therefore required approximately 2155 years for fulfillment.

The Saviour was always "THE EVER-COMING SON" the Creative Power or Mind of God, the Manifestor in time but in different periods or signs of 2155 years each he carried a different title according to the nature of the sign or period in which he was manifesting. For example: in the sign of the Bull he was the Son of the Calf. In the sign of the Ram, he was the Son of the Ram or the Lamb. Thereby we obtain the term "THE LAMB OF GOD" which has its roots in Egyptian Astronomical Mythology.

The coming Saviours could always be predicted by merely observing the sign in the Zodiac to come into the realm of manifested time according to the laws of precession. The time of the event of the "birth" of a new Saviour, or the beginning of a new sign was accurately determined by the astronomers who kept accurate time by the relative movement of the earth and the constellations.

By combining the Astronomical Mythology with its twelve signs or periods of the Great Year with the lesser year of twelve months, we find that in one period or sign "THE EVER-COMING SON" as "THE LAMB OF GOD" symbolically suffered at the winter solstice every year for 2155 years. It is recorded that the symbolic Lamb hung on the Cross until the 6th century A.D. when it was replaced with the figure of a man.

Inasmuch as knowledge is acquired by the means of words, it is an obvious fact that a state of reason cannot be established unless the true meaning of words are understood. The reader or the listener must enter into a state of co-understanding with the speaker or writer. It therefore follows that words without true meaning are hypnotic and only serve to condition an hypnotic state, a state of "fancy," without reason. To most people the Bible is a book of words that have lost their meaning. Reading the Bible without knowledge of the true meaning of the words used is a means of conditioning an unreasonable hypnotic state, a state of pupilage, a state wherein the judgment is based on "fancy" rather than reason.

Literalized, historized, religious truths have been the downfall of man. It forced the western world into the dark ages from which we are just now emerging. It has caused one war after another and will continue to cause wars until the nonsense is clearly revealed for what it truly is. Man must again have the opportunity of attaining true knowledge, particularly pertaining to the Laws of his own being. He must have this in order that he may overcome the opposing forces in his life. He must have this in order that he may fulfill his individual purpose for being on earth. By so doing he not only helps himself but he helps others to fulfill their purpose for being here. As a result we shall have a people that understand each other's problems and are willing to agree for the benefit of the whole.

The day has come and is, when men must closely examine powerful organizations and determine whether or not they are teaching TRUE KNOWLEDGE, the ES-OTERIC or whether they are giving the people the chaff, the shell, the "letter" which the Bible states will kill.

In True Knowledge only do we find a way to awaken from the influence of the blind hypnotic forces of the carnal mind. In True Knowledge only do we find a way to develop true character. In True Knowledge only do we find a way to develop our inward spiritual beingness. In True Knowledge only do we find a common ground whereupon people and nations may enter into agreement. In True Knowledge only is man enabled to earn the Prize of Immortality.

Regardless of any and all pressure of organizations to maintain or obtain tyrannic control of the people by keeping them in pupilage, the truth must go forth, it must come into the hands of the people. The people must know the truth of their being. They must be released from hypnotic control. They must know the truth of the Scriptural messages. They must have that true knowledge that will enable them to overcome their own natural conflict and thereby understand others True Knowledge must again be taught to the people and not reserved for a select few. The powers of hypnotism must be used wisely and constructively for the healing of the body, for awakening man from hypnotic sleep. The "Will of God" that each individual shall overcome his own inner conflict and rise triumphant from the mortal powers of hypnotic darkness must again be a reality. The tyrannic use of hypnotism to keep people in ignorance (pupilage) must cease at once. The people must be informed of the truth of the hypnotic nature of the carnal or body mind. They must be informed of the hypnotic powers used against their welfare. They must know to recognize the use of these powers and therefore be enabled to avoid their destructive influence. Only by so doing will we be able to rid the earth of the power of selfish psychotics, mad men, who would destroy people and nations to maintain or endeavour to obtain their seat of selfish power. Such is the work that must be done.

Is world peace a dream? It may be a dream, but it is not an empty dream. Such is the goal for man to attain. Such is the true "Will of God."

Such a state will not be attained by cancelling stamps with the slogan, "PRAY FOR PEACE." It will only be attained by men doing what they should, particularly pertaining to the study of, and the teaching of the True Laws of Nature and the True Laws of God and thoroughly understanding the relationship between them. Only then will men be enabled to live in peace.

So long as the individual is inwardly divided against himself, so long will the people and nations be divided among themselves. Peace will come to man inwardly and outwardly only when they have performed the work set out for them to do.

There is work to be done. It is not a profitable work when speaking in terms of monetary return, but rather a missionary work, but a missionary work of a vastly different type than has heretofore been carried on. The people must be warned and instructed in how to detect the use of hypnotic powers against them. They must be informed as to the truth of their dual beingness. They must be informed as to the true meaning of: "JUDGE NOT ACCORDING TO THE APPEARANCE OF THINGS," because the "APPEARANCE OF THINGS" is hypnotic. They must be informed as to what the Bible means by the statement "AWAKE THOU THAT SLEEPEST, ARISE FROM THE DEAD, AND CHRIST SHALL GIVE THEE LIGHT." They must know that in this statement the word sleep means hypnotic sleep, that of being bound to the hypnotic conditioning of the carnal or body mind. They must know that "dead" means "carnal-mindedness," and they must know that Christ is their own inner spiritual beingness that will give them Light or Understanding, when they — by their own effort — overcome sleep and rise above the conditionings of the carnal mind, the forces of darkness.

They must know that the New Testament is not a book of history, but rather a teaching of spiritual psychology, and that it did not originate only 2,000 years ago, but was the product of an enlightened civilization, and was developed over the course of many thousands of years in Egypt and was later re-written in Aramaic and Greek, but can never be fully understood until it is traced back to its origin in Egypt.

The INNER POWERS SOCIETY was founded for the purpose of recovering and disseminating Eternal Truth. It is a California non-profit educational corporation. Anyone can help. Everyone should help. There are many ways in which the people can help:—by the purchase of our books for themselves and for gifts; by telling others about our books; by establishing neighborhood groups to discuss and endeavor to understand the True Knowledge set forth in our publications.

Each person should help according to their abilities. They should consider that this is the only means whereby lasting peace may be attained. They must know that the expenditure of billions of dollars for weapons of war only lead us into positions for the expenditure of greater and greater sums. They must know that the dissemination of true knowledge is their only means of destroying tyranny, the only means of protecting future generations against war.

Each person should stop and consider that our forefathers fought the bloody battle and gave their lives that we may have freedom. Each person should realize that we OWE THEM A DEBT, and the only way we can pay that debt is to do that which is according to their individual abilities to protect and perpetuate that freedom, striving always toward greater and greater freedom as set forth in the foregoing material. How do you do it? Consider: "Prove all things; hold fast that which is good," and that means DESTROY that which is PROVEN bad. Time's awasting — there is work to be done!

I know many people who use escape mechanisms such as: "The Bible teaches Love, not hate." They're hitch-hikers, riding at others' expense. Listen close, I'll let you in on a secret; you will find it in Psalms 9:10; "YE THAT LOVE THE LORD, HATE EVIL:" Tyranny is evil, lies are evil. Let's wake up and get out of our slumber rut of tyrannic false religion, and fight the lie and fight the evil wherever we find it until the earth is free of evil.

Are those coming ahead of us going to be able to look back and say? ——— -- "They did a good job, and just in time." YOU answer the question.

YOUR FUTURE

AS REVEALED THROUGH PSYCHOMETRY AND YOUR PHOTOGRAPHIC AURA, BY THE MYSTERIOUS PSYCHIC ABILITY OF

DOROTHY SPENCE LAUER

What does tomorrow hold in store for you? All of us would like to know, and there are various ways of predicting. Here, in Mrs. Lauer, we present a prophet who employs two unusual methods, and whose ability SEARCH proved positively, 87½% accurate, over a period of more than four yeors.

I must ask everyone to PLEASE allow time for the analysis to reach you. Each one is done personally, and I do not rush through these, so you can well see with the volume of mail I receive I must have time to do them.

The following predictions were made on June 25, 1959:

I feel that many stocks will take a decline, until September then those that were "quiet" will soar and many people will be delighted.

Much news about the far east unsettled yet and some disturbing real unrest (here is where people should worry about Russia,) while I feel safety yet for us, still many battles will be fought on lands that I feel it would be best we note and still realize that in the end these lands will also settle down and each realize war is NOT the answer.

Several plane crashes, one will have a notable passenger. Arthur Godfrey should still watch his health—very closely!

People will find that relatives may try to "do" them out of property due to wills not being made. It would be better for everyone to take care of these little things now, yet many who think they are near their end aren't at all, and should not give up goals or hopes of reaching them.

A very big uptrend in clothing industry, and those in it will really do well.

Be cautious of several "offers" that promise much-but really are of no value.

Many people will start visiting abroad, and have many things to report that will cause us here to feel more settled about world events.

Ray: You may have an actual quarrel over a money deal—let the other person do the talking, and you'll gain! Something exciting and good for your children and they will be delighted with this, although for some reason you and your wife will wonder should you let them take advantage of this—do—it will be all right.

Also do you know anyone, seems like a small boy you may not approve of, coming into the house? If not, one will come—follow your hunch here and you avert something strange or a situation that could be prevented by not allowing this boy to be rather possessive with someone in your family—no doubt a child.

A loss you were sure to think would take place may have a better outcome than you think!

You may find you'll be busier than ever, only don't assume another type book a man will want you to launch—I cannot feel success with it. He is well known and you'll be tempted, yet I feel he is trying to make a comeback of some kind.

I feel soon many things come out about "flying saucers" that astonish everyone. Some points good, others bad!

Elderly people should enjoy their lives now with their mates and stop worrying about many things they shouldn't even concern themselves with, such as money exchange, losing property, trying to worry about the government, and how it is run and above all avoid those who would try to make them feel as if the world isn't fit to live in. As time goes on these very same people will again change their viewpoint and try to get followers, so PLEASE, all you nice elderly people, enjoy life with your mates!

HOW TO GET A PSYCHOMETRIC ANALYSIS

Select a short verse from the Bible, perhaps your favorite, and write it on a separate sheet of paper, meanwhile concentrating on your problems. Then mail the sheet to Mrs. Dorothy Spence Lauer, Amherst, Wisconsin, and eenclosed $4.00. Bear in mind the reply may take several weeks.

Send a snapshot of yourself to Dorothy Spence Lauer, Amherst, Wisconsin, and enclose $4.00 to cover the cost. Be sure to include your return address! Surprisingly many applicants forget this! And please, if possible, report the results to SEARCH magazine after their accuracy or inaccuracy is determined. Remember, reports of inaccuracy are as important as those of accuracy.

Editors Note: Dorothy Spence Lauer is a Psychometrist, specializing in precognition. Ordinarily she needs but an object belonging to, or handled by, the subject, or the presence of the subject, to become aware of the psychic influences from which she draws her information. However, by writing out a verse, while concentrating, as described in the instructions given on this page, a sufficiently powerful psychic impression will be made to enable the medium to receive the information she seeks. We have made this service available to our readers purely in an experimentative atmosphere, in an attempt, first to determine whether or not this ability is of a nature both real and valuable; and second, to provide you with an interesting bit of entertainment. Please report results to us.

IT HAPPENED TO ME--

From time to time SEARCH magazine passes on accounts of true experiences from our readers. The following stories are given to us as actual happenings, and the editors are pleased to present them at face value. "It Happened to Me . . ." is just one phase of SEARCH'S presentation of evidence upon which its readers can draw their own conclusions. Names and addresses are printed, or are on file at the office of SEARCH in the case of those to whom identification might prove to be a source of embarrassment or inconvenience. SEARCH does not pay for these contributions, but presents them as a service to those readers who request actual happenings going on today, and in the lives of living people.

DO ANIMALS READ OUR MINDS

I believe they do—here's an example that seems to prove my point.

One day when I was on my way home from the grocery store I saw a cat sitting on the sidewalk. People were passing by going in two directions—none paying any attention to the cat.

Because I like all animals, I noticed this cat and thought to myself, "How cute he is, I just love him. Wonder if he has a home?" All this as I passed by. I didn't stop, speak, or apparently notice the cat, nor did he act as though I existed. Yet, when I was about one-half block from my home this cat ran across the street in front of me, then stayed close to me the rest of the way.

He ran up the steps of my house and stopped at the door. As I opened the door he darted into the house ahead of me. I called to my daughter, "We have company!" Then she saw the cat and I told her about him. We both laughed. He sat in our laps, drank milk, slept in our chairs, and made himself at home.

When night came he went to the door and meowed. I opened the door, he ran out and I have not seen him since.

Did he read my thoughts, then pay me a visit? That I would like to know.

I AM PSYCHIC

I've always been psychic, and my first peculiar experience that I can remember happened about 1914. I got up one morning feeling uneasy. It seemed that some impending danger was near, and as the day wore on, I could not do anything but walk the floor and pray. I was just a young girl then. And my father and oldest brother were working in the timber. They took their lunch with them so did not come home at noon. About noon that peculiar feeling left me. I've never had anything so depressing before or since as that one half day was.

Next morning Mother and I were making a dress for me. I remember it was black satin. About 11 a.m. I was pressing some seams when Rob, my brother, walked in ashen white Mother asked him what was the matter and he said Pa had got hurt by a falling tree and his leg was broken.

In 1939, one night, I dreamed that my husband and I were in N.C. We were going through a wooded section up a winding country road to my Uncle Jim's, and when we came to where he lived, there he stood by the fence, smiling, but he never said a word and neither did we. I woke up

In a few days I got word that Uncle Jim had passed away.

In Aug. 1955 my husband was in the hospital and was to be operated on the 23rd. That morning about 5 a.m. I was lying on my left side, when I heard voices in my left ear. It was women talking just about ordinary affairs of housekeeping and so on. I wondered if I was lying on a nerve or something. The voices kept on; then I turned over and they stopped just long enough to get still and they began again. The ladies talked and talked, and the only thing I can remember was that one of them said she had made so much slaw that all she could see was slaw, slaw, slaw. She repeated it three times.

About this time outside noises got the voices all mixed up and they ceased. Then the very next morning about 5:45 a.m. I was lying on my right side and a man's voice started up in my right ear. He was singing a song to his gal Susie. I can remember a few of the words, but I've never heard the song if there is such a thing. He sang until the six o'clock shop whistle blew, then the noises became mixed and he stopped.

A few nights later I had something like a nightmare only it was different. At first something seemed to be holding me down so tight I could not move or speak or hardly breathe. Then the force seemed to move me and instantly I was two blocks from home in the middle of the street, but still could not move or speak. I could see on one side of me and there was a small stucco house with two apple trees beside it. They had apples on them, and now I did long to get over to them and pick off an apple or so to bring home to show my husband and my sister, so they'd know I was telling the truth when I'd tell them I'd been down there. But I could not move. Suddenly I was back home in bed and had full control of myself.

Next time I went by that place I looked for that house and it was there exactly as I'd seen it, apples and all.

A few nights later I heard a teenage girl mention a local boy's name (which I'll not mention). She said "I hear that. . ." Right then my sister was shaking down the kitchen range to build a fire and all the noise got so mixed up and confusing that I did not catch what she said any further, but a few days later this boy was involved in a car accident in which he was the driver and one boy was pretty badly hurt.

Time: 2:00 P.M. April 28, 1959

EVENT:

My wife, Margaret, consulting her T-V Program, was preparing to tune in a station. Her attention was called to a brief account in the publication of the Patterson-London heavyweight championship boxing event to be held the following Friday night.

For some unknown reason, Margaret spoke aloud, "There is going to be a good fight on T-V Friday night." As she said this, she looked up and saw my late Father sitting in his favorite chair across the room He was dressed in dark brown trousers and a checkered shirt, the clothing that he usually wore on the days that I drove him to town for a haircut and some shopping. My wife, impelled by some strange impulse, kept speaking to him just as she used to do. After a fully elapsed five minutes (by the electric clock on the wall by his chair), my Father seemed to shift sideways as he disappeared from her view!

PERTINENT FACTS:

This strange, very recent event occurred the afternoon of April 28, 1959 at the very hour of his funeral services. Nearing 84, after an illness of about two years, he peacefully passed away at our home on January 18, 1959. Mother preceded him on April 21, 1930. Mother's and Father's birthdates were the same date, April 29! She was 5 years the younger.

At the time of my Father's sudden appearance, my wife, Margaret was alone in the house with the exception of two pet dogs: I being in town at work at my trade as a watchmaker. One of the dogs was a favorite pet of my Father, spending many of an evening on his lap before bedtime and frequently with him during the day. Yet, both dogs slept through this strange occurrence!

After my thorough questioning, my wife insisted that Father's appearance was no imagination or trick of her mind! She actually saw my Father sitting in the chair for about five minutes by the electric clock on the wall nearby! He was easily r e c o g n i z a b l e both by his clothes and the large, dark brown mole on his right upper forehead which he had carried for so many years of his life. He did not speak, he just sat there looking at her. In life, he was very hard of hearing but was perfectly capable of visiting and possessed a keen, analytical mind!

Why did this strange appearance happen? Was he trying to convey a message or some sign on the day before he would have been 84 years old? Why was he in view for five minutes as my wife would occasionally glance at the clock? I used to be quite skeptical when I read supposely true, first person accounts of supernatural h a p p e n i n g s but my wife is a rational, sensible woman, more-so than I may be. What she saw, she saw! I believe! What else is there to do? It happened thus!

By the way, when he was able, my Father always enjoyed watching the Friday night fights on Television and would often stay up past his early-to bedtime to see them; he had been interested in boxing events since his earlier years having seen John L. Sullivan fight Jake Kilrain.

My wife told me in answer to one of my questions that she had not been thinking about Father on April 28 and she was not unduly tired. Also, along with me, my wife had expressed doubts about the substantiality and the possibilities of supernatural things involving the appearance of a deceased person. We have believed that when a person was dead, he was dead and w i t h o u t thought, action or any feeling until the day of the Resurrection! But now, we believe! Also, within my soul, I believe that there is a place, just beyond our earthly life where our loved ones wait, perhaps, until the time comes when we lay our earthly burdens down and then they may guide us and orient us as they lead us on to one of the "Many Mansions" prepared for us. It must be possible that they can manifest themselves to us when they feel the need arises. My Father was not an emotional type of man nor did he openly profess deep religious convictions that I ever knew of. He had talked of Christianity and its events and he led a morally straight life, kind and considerate of others and openly honest in all his dealings as a carpenter and as a man. He was well esteemed by others and his word was considered his bond. Deep in his heart, I feel that he was a believer. He never scorned, ridiculed or belittled the opinions of his fellow humans and I honestly think that by the practices of his life he was as much of a Christian as any of us can ever hope to be.

I know not for certain, but, perhaps my Father's supernatural appearance to my wife Margaret, was his way of assuring us that there is a place and a time for loved ones to meet again beyond the gates of pain, sorrow and tears by the divine grace of Almighty God!

THE DAY I DIED

When I was eighteen or so, I went to the hospital for a minor operation. I recall asking the anesthetist to slow down (they sometimes used chloroform in those days because it was not as nauseating as ether) and the anesthetist raised the cone a little, returned it to my face, and I blacked out.

Then I seemed to be walking off the earth at its skyline into a foggy twilight and found myself in the midst of a host of shadowy, shrouded figures of all ages, though there seemed to be no very young children there that I could see. This sea of humanity stretched far into the distances and were all facing one way. They were all engaged in a soul-shattering lamentation, as though overwhelmed with grief and there was the low murmur of tearful sighs and abject and pitiful sorrowing. There seemed to be some whom I recognized in a vague way, and I had the feeling that this was some sort of hell, and then I turned in the direction in which the vast multitude was milling, to see what it was they were striving toward. Then I saw a gigantic flat disc, and there may have been others farther in the background, on which many of the shrouded figures stood, while others stepped upon it and still others were prevented by some unseen force, and those who were not permitted broke into fresh wailing and weeping and gnashing of teeth in an indescribable anguish.

Then I knew that this disc or platform held the "dead" who were being allowed to return to life for another chance, and with this realization I, too, began my own bitter anguish, tears and prayers for a chance to live again. I, too, began to experience the excruciating agony of knowing that I had died and that because of my sins I must remain here in this dark and pitiless void of agonized souls. But suddenly, to my unspeakable joy and gratitude, I was told by some method of thought-transference, that because of my youth and the insignificance of my sins, I was to be allowed to return to life, and I vowed before all that great multitude to live as good a life as I knew how, and I knew instinctively that the knowledge of good and evil I was to be guided by was within each of us. The disc or platform, filled to overflowing with its burden of shrouded figures began turning faster and faster and still whirling at this unbelievable rate, I opened my eyes and found myself in an oxygen tent.

I was told that the operation had not been performed because my heart had stopped and I had been considered dead for several minutes! They had continued working and hoping that some spark remained

HE PREDICTS FLOODS

William C. Rice, a fireman on the Parkersburg, W. Va. Fire Department, has a unique ability. It's predicting floods!

On January 16, 1959, with no indication of river rise, Bill emphatically declared there would be a flood and many persons would have to leave their homes. On January 23, 1959, just one week later, area papers carried the headlines, "FLOOD CREST EXPECTED SATURDAY: 200 FAMILIES TO BE EVACUATED."

When questioned about his foreknowledge of the flood Bill said, "It always was that way with me. I just knew.

"In 1937, when I was only 7 years old, I was confined to bed with flu and a high fever. I called my father and said, 'Daddy, there's going to be a big flood and we're going to have to move out of here.'

"My father thought the fever had made me delirious as I was talking of a flood when there was no sign of rain or rising water. Everyone remembers the 1937 flood. It followed my prediction by about three weeks and our entire section was submerged and every family in the area evacuated.

"Then again in 1950, when I was 20 years old and home on furlough from the Army, I got the same persistent warning.

"I said to my father, 'Dad, I hate to cut short my leave, but if I don't get out of here today I won't be able to make it back to camp because the roads will be flooded.'

"Dad looked at me as if he thought I'd lost my mind. A flood was the last thing anyone expected. There were no indications. Nevertheless despite family protest, I left for camp that same day. No sooner had I arrived back at my post than a report came through that all traffic was at a standstill because of an unexpected flood and the route between my home and the camp was hardest hit of all.

"Don't ask me HOW I know," Bill said. "I just 'get the feeling' and pretty soon the water begins to rise."

DAILY DOUBLE

This is a true incident that happened a few days ago to a friend of my husband.

A man was celebrating his 38th birthday. All day, the digits three and eight ran ceaselessly through his mind. He tried to shake them off, to no avail. The next morning, he was awakened with them still pounding on his brain. He was impelled to do something about this situation. That afternoon, he went to "the races." He bet on horse number three in the first race, horse number eight in the second race, for the "daily double." They were both "longshots" with heavy odds against them. However, both horses came in and paid a huge sum.

horses don't win for you under that formula—but SEARCH does! What's wrong with using something you don't agree with to further something with which you do agree? We aren't too proud to use a different color brick to keep our SEARCH house from falling. What was it Jesus said about the joy in heaven over one sinner converted into a useful inhabitant being greater than over a thousand angels—or something similar to that paraphrase?

At this writing, we aren't sure of what will be in this issue, and therefore there may be some "surprise" articles not listed on the cover. We are receiving so many fine articles, challenging, thoughtful, vital, and grossly interesting that we are quite pleased. We'll run them as fast as possible, and it may be that important articles will not even be featured on the cover—so if you are in the habit of "shopping" around for articles of interest, it might be a good idea to flip open the cover and read the contents page as well as the titles on the front of the magazine, and make sure you don't miss something good. In fact, if you are a "s e a r c h e r", your purchase of SEARCH every issue ought to be automatic.

Where will you find such things as the following, for instance, if not in SEARCH? Some years ago we read in the papers of the death of Edsel Ford from cancer. Later an article appeared in the newspapers of the country, originating in Rockefeller Center, stating that he had died from undulant fever caused by drinking raw milk. Now, either he died from cancer or undulant fever —which was it? If from cancer, why the undulant fever story? Perhaps we can see a reason when we consider that the Rockefeller interests get a large chunk of income from the pasteurization of milk. And certainly the threat of dying from undulant fever caused by drinking raw milk would make everybody insist on pasteurized milk. Yet, here is a still stranger story: John Hopkins University scientists (and they are considered very good indeed) have made a study of undulant fever, and they say it is essentially an emotional illness. Confronted with such contrasting reports, we are quite befuddled. There seems to be such a multi-faceted appearance to truth. It seems to have so many sides. Can it be that truth is schizophrenic—multiple personality in nature? To be charitable, we must consider it so, for to say it isn't necessitates calling all but one of the makers of the quoted statements as liars (and perhaps even that one also).

Just today, we received a set of galley proofs from Orfeo Angelucci on his new book SON OF THE SUN. This is a sequel to his famous THE SECRET OF THE SAUCERS, published by your editor. THE SECRET OF THE SAUCERS sold twice as many copies as the average book publishing company does on most books. In fact, in your daily newspapers, there are listed many books under the designation of "best-seller" which sell far less than Orfeo's book. However, we don't go around blowing our horns like the big publishers. Our point here is that SON OF THE SUN is a fine book! In our next issue we will make it available to our readers. If you read THE SECRET OF THE SAUCERS and liked it, you will be doing yourself a disservice if you do not purchase a copy of Orfeo's new book. If you want to make sure you don't miss a copy, why not drop us a card and ask us to put you down on our mailing list for an advance notice the instant the book is off the press, rather than wait until we publish the notice in two months? Don't send any money, just let us know you want to be notified—we'll drop you a card when it's available. We aren't the publishers of this new book, but we are going to market it in quantity. We don't do this often—but when we come across a sincere book, we don't mind boosting it to the limit, even if our name isn't on the cover as publisher.

If you read the national newspaper coverage of the recent Giant Rock Convention, then you know what they are saying about people who write books like Orfeo's. Well, that kind of dirty journalism (and brother, nothing is more dirty than sneering at your fellow-man!) can't be fought in the "commercial press" but it can be fought by seeing to it that they don't succeed in crushing all literary freedom, by buying books such as those condemned so by Jess Stearns, who doesn't mind proving himself stupid, bigoted, prejudiced, guilty of slanting his writing dollarward, incomplete and therefore misleading reporting, public ridicule of minorities, impolite and uncouth, and in general, a paid hack not worth his salt. Privately we think even worse things of him, but we won't say them—except that he just doesn't know what he's talking about, and we wouldn't have him report a dog show for us! It doesn't matter if you yourself don't believe exactly as the authors of these books do, but at least buying them you strike a blow for fair play!

One of our readers wrote us and asked if this new wave of adverse publicity isn't a sort of project to dispose of the flying saucer people by ridiculing them out of existence? The way we look at it, there has always been a concerted effort to decry anybody or anything that is "different". Certainly these writers of defamatory articles are attempting to dispose of those they write about, and eliminate the things proposed by these people. Why else would they write such an article—to boost it? No, the man who has nothing constructive to offer seems inevitably to act destructively. He attacks everything that does not agree with his opinions. He cannot even find it in himself to practice charity. He is no Voltaire, to say he may disagree with what you say, but defend to the death your right to say it. Rather, he will make every effort to deny your right to speak. He will sneer you right out of existence, and he often succeeds, because he has many bedfellows.

But perhaps he does not succeed after all—because when he "plugs" a book, and it appears on the "best-seller" list, we find that the publisher has sold as many as 6,856 copies; while a book that is attacked, such as Orfeo Angelucci's THE SECRET OF THE SAUCERS sold 9150 copies to date! That evidence tends to show that Jess Stearn and his like are as ineffective as they are inept.

Here are a few odd questions you might find it interesting to try find the answers to: What is the proportion of round chimneys in contrast to square chimneys, as seen from a high-flying airplane? How do you know which way is Spitzbergen if you make your starting point the North Pole? Why did the U. S. set up a "satellite base" at the South Pole, when it's tough enough to launch them from Cape Canaveral, and there are no "north and south" satellites to track from such a base? What is the farthest point north that a tree can grow? What has

"FROM OUTER SPACE TO YOU"

By HOWARD MENGER

Conventional publishers wouldn't attempt to publish a book containing amazing photographs of space ships such as the one reproduced above. If they did, they probably would want to "tone it down" to avoid the inevitable pressures from the "powers that be."

"FROM OUTER SPACE TO YOU" tells the true and uncensored story of world-famed Howard Menger, who experienced many encounters with out-of-this-world people on his New Jersey farm, and actually rode in their flying saucers

"FROM OUTER SPACE TO YOU" contains 16 pages of photographs printed on glossy paper. Hitherto unpublished photographs by the author of spacecraft, space people — plus pictures of many important personalities in the UFO investigation field.

"FROM OUTER SPACE TO YOU" contains two books in one, with more than 25 chapters of fascinating reading material.

that got to do with Admiral Byrd? Is the moon really square (or any other strange shape)? How far is the South Magnetic Pole from the South Geographic Pole? Ditto, the North Magnetic Pole? Why does the dictionary give the mean distance of the Moon as 238,900 miles, while the recent "radar bounce" off the moon gives a distance of 288,000 miles? If the distance of 288,000 miles is the maximum distance of the moon, then isn't it so that the minimum distance is as much less than the mean as the maximum is more—or a minimum of 189,800 miles? Was the moon really 3 seconds late in its orbit recently?

THOUGHT DIAL

THOUGHTDIAL taps the subconscious, answers direct questions, helps locate lost articles, and even aids in "picking winners!"
THOUGHT DIAL consists of an actual "Thought Dial" and a concise, crystal-clear textbook, explaining principles, method of operation and interpretation. Simple, yet a complete study in itself!
INTRODUCTION by Carl Payne Tobey, President Institute of Abstract Science, who declares: "Sydney Omarr has discovered a method of helping people contact the abstract world, where all the answers to all your questions can be found."
Henry Miller, Internationally famous writer; "The value of the THOUGHT DIAL lies in the discovery —sooner or later— that all the answers to all questions must come from within. When one becomes truly aware of this ancient truth one will learn to ask the right questions. The first thing to find out is—Who is asking what? Second, are you prepared to accept the response provoked?"
Tiffany Thayer, celebrated author and secretary of The Fortean Society; "THOUGHT DIAL is exactly twice as good as Ouija!"
Lawrence Lipton, writer and scholar: "THOUGHT DIAL triggers the numinous experience of the individual."
The THOUGHT DIAL is simple to operate, easy to understand—it could represent one of the most exciting experiences of your life!

Dear Mr. Shaver:

I have discovered several "dero" races, who live in subterranean cities. If you came here I could bring you to the dero people, but they are NOT malicious. First of all, they are vegetarians, as they cannot keep animals where they live, and a vegetarian diet makes people peaceful. They are simply the "Niebelungs" or dwarfs, and with long white beards, of fairy tales, and they have dwarf women and children. Last week my investigators returned and said they visited their city (which has its own system of illumination) and are able to bring any of my American friends to visit it, but I require one condition: absolute secrecy, as I don't want governments to send armies into the tunnel to disturb these peaceful people.

To reach them requires a 3-day journey of about 40 miles through a tunnel. This entire distance is through a tunnel carefully lined with cut stone blocks below, above and on the sides. That was quite an engineering feat. I think the tunnel was made long to keep out curiosity seekers, and only the most determined will travel that distance.

Here is the report of my investigators: (They are two ranchers, father and son, who discovered the tunnel accidentally): "We left our house 5 A.M. for the tunnel on top of a mountain and reached it 3 P.M. We were tired and camped near the entrance of the tunnel. For three days we proceeded through the tunnel. We told time by our watches, as we could not tell when it was day or night. We went to sleep at 10 P.M. and awoke at 3 A.M. and continued walking. By the third day the tunnel started to go downward by steps. It was built of stone blocks on all sides. By the night of the third day the tunnel suddenly opened into a great space covered with what appeared as a sky with a yellow light that made everything luminous, like daylight. We saw a city with many houses and saw many people in the distance. They were dwarfs with long white beards and long hair and we saw women and children, and heard them crying. The third member of our party got frightened so we had to return."

These men found three such tunnels. They entered another for three days, but after hearing voices further in, got scared and returned. Now they are entering the third.

But these people of your dero race (except not malicious, as you injected much imagination into your account of subterranean people) are degenerate offshoots of the real Atlanteans who live in the hollow center of the earth. How to get there is a great secret.

If you wish to come here to visit these dero people I can arrange it. There is no charge as we are not after money. But you better come soon because I intend to enter the deeper subterranean world, perhaps never to return. Why should I return to this miserable radioactive world, which the Atlantean Teacher told us will be as dead as the moon by 1969, when I can live in a non-radioactive paradise? To enter you must pay the price: 1: STRICT VEGETARIANISM, to get a clean body inside, free from decaying proteins; the Atlanteans have refined sense organs and do not like people near them who are walking cemeteries of putrefying corpses of animals. 2: Absolute continence, or conservation of phosphorus which is not wasted via the gonads and conserved to feed the brain cells. 3: A vow of silence so that you don't "spill the beans" and endanger these people who do not want any lunatics with atomic weapons to invade them. 4: You must give up all surface attachments, for money, fame, etc.

If you, Richard Shaver, meet these qualifications, I will bring you to the subterranean world. No price charged except the price above stated. Show this all to Ray and tell him he and his family are welcome too. But I wonder if he will pay the price? Anyway he can do a good service on the surface to save others by publicizing our discovery in a cautious manner as we don't want madmen with atomic weapons invading these people to learn their scientific secrets concerning "vril", their source of energy beyond atomic energy, which empowers their flying saucers, two of which came here yesterday to visit us. It is pure nonsense to claim they come from other planets. They purposely say so to conceal their true origin so as not to endanger their people. But now that the human race has only a few years left to survive on earth, the subterraneans have adopted a more open policy.

You ask how to reach them. Their entry is in Matto Grosso, in Chavantes territory, where Fawcett was heading when last seen. Fawcett is still living in a subterranean city. The Atlanteans refuse to let him out because he has too loud a mouth and may speak too much or be forced to deliver lectures before scientific societies about his expedition. The subterraneans do not wish to risk invasion. However, those who are worthy will not be molested by the Indians who guard the entrance to the subterranean world. Just how to enter without danger is a secret I will tell only to qualified persons. The location of the entrance is Roncador Mountains in northeast Matto Grosso, where Fawcett was heading after leaving Cuiaba.

Mr. Shaver gave us this letter, apparently sent at the same time as the article we received from Brazil, and which is reproduced in next issue. Apparently Mr. Shaver is unwilling to risk visiting the "dwarf" people, admitted by Dr. Bernard to be "degenerate". The idea of their being peaceful because they are vegetarians doesn't convince Mr. Shaver, who points out that human beings are not vegetables, and he says he's seen (via telaug) human beings being eaten in caverns. As for the "Atlanteans", Shaver just doesn't know. This is new to him.—Rap.

Dear Mr. Palmer:

A few words on cats, G.C. le Gros, etc. as in number for June:

I noted le Grós' original remarks about cats, and having a pair of putty-tats of my own did not seem to meet the specifications I quick took le Gros up on it. (I have had quite a bit of correspondence on other matters with him.) He explained that my cats were the imported Venusian strain and quite different from the common, or Luciferian stock. (You have to know le Gros pretty well to tell when he is kidding, and not always even then. I fear me that he has succeeded in pulling several legs quite severely, especially the fair pedal extremity of Marichen Al-'An (there is really such a name?) and the long sensitive one of Nina B. Smith. He is likely sitting there grinning like a Cheshire cat, but if he knew it he's lucky to be alive after that crack). Anyway I referred the matter to my own kitties, who told me they were glad to have that come out at last, as they were tired of getting blamed for everything pulled around here by that pair of Luciferian cats that look so much like them. (Any fair minded person should realize that a cat can't help what other cat he looks like.) Anyway that's fixed up so far as I am concerned - for a while, anyway.

The matter of Hieronymus is something else, and I almost hesitate to add my two-bits worth to what you'll be hearing from your remarks about that. Hieronymus is not Hieronymus Bosch of several centuries ago; he is Mr. Hieronymus, an engineer of right now; several dozens of his machines in various forms are being experimented on, some by very important people, as I happen to know personally. I have a stack of reports on his results and copies of correspondence. Campbell of ASTOUNDING has printed articles and editorials on it for two or three years past, partly under the subject of "psionics." Don't you ever read your contemporaries? Le Gros' own reference was to an editorial by Campbell.

As to le Gros' remarks in current letter otherwise - I disagree with quite a few of them. He is practically saying to Russia "let's you and me commit suicide together and get it over with." There are still better ways out than that. As to his remarks about the Russian government - some of them probably deserve it but after all there are the Russian people to consider, who are people the same as us, and moreover, according to all travelers, almost universally friendly personally toward Americans.

I am certain the Russian government long ago made up its mind not to commit suicide via atom war, but to put us out of business via a much safer method a trade war plus propaganda - at which it has a far better chance of succeeding. Nor do I agree that they have any "death ray-" which by the way is a misnomer, the Hieronymus method having nothing in common with a "ray" when you know

THE HYPNOTISM HAND-BOOK

Have your subject gaze fixedly at this spiral and then READ TO HIM the hypnotizing techniques given WORD FOR WORD in Chapter Two of this "Handbook of Hypnosis for Therapy." As soon as he is hypnotized, READ TO HIM the particular WORD FOR WORD therapy which applies to his particular problem. Many such therapies are given, always in the exact WORD FOR WORD form, which is essential in any scientific or professional use of hypnosis. There has never been a book like this. A few years ago an article in Western Family said about its principal author. "Along the west coast, the 'hypnotism man' whose students you'll most likely run into, is Charles Edward Cooke."

Cooke has taught doctors of medicine, dentists, psychiatrists, psychologists, ministers of the gospel, nurses, and many others, from San Diego, California, to Spokane, Washington. Cooke has mass hypnotized as many as 400 people at once by READING the WORD FOR WORD hypnotizing technique in this work.

Although written for the professional man, this book will have a wide appeal among laymen who seek precise methods rather than the vague directions that have hitherto been available. PRICE $4.50

YOUR DANDRUFF WILL GO

WHEN YOU USE "TURN-ER'S"

You've bought plenty of preparations, and they don't work, you say? Of course they haven't! You've probably been cheated as many times as I have. I'll bet I've spent hundreds of dollars on Jim-dandy goo, and wound up with worse dandruff than I started with. Made me plenty mad, too. I always get mad when I think of the lousy junk designed to chisel your honest dollars out of you. Mad enough so that when I find something good, I'm not bashful about telling my friends about it. And SEARCH'S readers are my friends. I had dandruff all my life, and despaired of getting rid of it, until one day Ken Arnold (the flying saucer man) left a half bottle of Turn-er's at my house, and flew off to Boise without it. I tried the stuff, because Ken's no sissy, and he dosen't put perfume on his hair. Well, in one week my dandruff was gone! And my hair had begun to darken. My wife tried it, and her scalp irritation disappeared. You can bet we wrote Ken in a hurry and asked where he got it! And now, we're telling you. But don't just take our word for it—here are a few testimonials from our readers, to back us up.

As I have about used up one bottle of your hair preparation, please send me another. I have had very good results in ridding myself of dandruff and itching. Lionel O. Branberg, Sharon Springs, Kans.

Enclosed find money order for $10.00 for two more bottles of Turn-er's as soon as possible. You sure found a good product. In the sixth application my dandruff scale was removed. Thanks to you. It does all you say and more, too. And it sure brings back color to your hair. Thanks! R. E. Van Gordon, 1950 W. Milham Road, Kalamazoo, Mich.

Enclosed please find check for $5.00 for another bottle of Turn-er's as soon as possible. I have been bedeviled by a terrible itching in my eyebrows for over thirty years. It seemed to be a large flaky dandruff, but if I combed it out too near the skin, a water substance would start, causing a scab-like condition. I have been to dozens of doctors . . . none did the slightest bit of good. After reading what Ray Palmer said, I decided to try Turn-er's. After the sixth application, I have not had an itch in my brows, and the skin underneath is as clear and clean as my face. The terrible dandruff was gone. I certainly am thankful to Mr. Palmer for bringing such a fine product to my attention.—S. W. Crusen, 2336 Filmore Ave., Buffalo 14, N. Y.

what it really is. This method may be effective for insects but can't be used on humans in that mass fashion, though it can to some extent individually.

Anyway le Gros wrote that letter in a pretty sour mood and is unhappy about it. It seems to have been a surprise to him when you printed it and I am sure he would be very glad to have you unprint it.

Long ago, in an equally sour mood, we made up the "axiom" that "What's worth writing is worth printing." Let the letter-writer beware!

Dear Mr. Palmer:

Dear Mr. Palmer:

About Mr. George LeGros' articles in your June-59 issue of Search, have you ever heard of the saucer magazine "Light"? Well if not, Vol. No. 3, No. I published at 20 Crawford Ave., Stafford Brisbane, Queensland, Australia, has on page 19, an article by Anna Barry, describing the amazing discoveries of a certain Mr. George De La Warr. The article also states that a book titled "Beyond The Atom" carries a much more detailed account of these researches. This article is regarding the beneficial rather than the benefit similar to Mr. LeGros', but the destructive aspects, using some type of machine ("Hieronymous"?). Well anyway, he is said to have photographed the past and also by use of his colorscope (Hieronymous) machine treated photographs of plants (also aerial photos of whole fields) stimulating growth. It is said that the emulsion on a photograph is in some way linked to the object that is being photographed. I though this information might cause you to investigate further, providing of course that you are truly interested in obtaining facts. I pass the ball to you now Ray. Are you going to drop it?

W. E. Drott
30050 Marshall St.
Royal Oak, Michigan

Drop it? Not me! Let's start a real storm! The reason the photograph stimulates growth of plants, or even of a whole field, is because the photo is the important secrecy link which makes it possible for a ben (beneficial) ray from Shaver's Tero to be used on the plant or plants in question without giving away the source of the beneficense! Everybody thinks it is the photograph that is doing it. Also, this is one way to get benefits for yourself, if you really know the Tero exist! You set up a "gimmick" which they can use as a secrecy alibi, and bingo, you get what you want! Try it sometime. But one word of caution—the Dero can use the SAME gimmick to grow warts on your nose—or worse! There is a real basis for the old saw about the three wishes and the warning that if carelessly used, they might not come out the way you wish. — Rap.

Dear Mr. Palmer:

In regard to the sex controversy going on in the June issue of SEARCH, I would like to present a little data for the consideration of your readers.

It seems as if the word "seed" is the pivot point of the controversy. Mr. Morris Katzen referred to the scripture found in 1 John 3:9 as grounds for his assertions; To wit: "Whosoever is born of God doth not commit sin; for his seed remaineth in him:" The word used in the Greek text that the word "seed" was translated from, is "sperma," and has the meaning of "Something OWN, i.e., SEED (including the male "sperm"); by implication OFFSPRING; spec. a REMNANT (fig. as if kept over for planting): issue, seed."

I think the misunderstanding rests on the point WHOSE seed is involved. That is, whether the word 'his' ties back to the word 'whosoever' or to the word 'God.' The true meaning here is that the word 'his' refers to 'God's seed,' not the seed of 'whosoever.'

I have found that many of these questionable matters may be solved by referring to the older more descriptive material, the material from which the Hebrews and the Greeks obtained their knowledge. Usually translators translate a little differently and if one can compare two or more translations, a better understanding is attained. I have here two translations of the Egyptian works of Hermes Trismegistus. These writings date back to a time thousands of years prior to the Greek, Hebrew, or Aramaic writings.

First I will quote from the Dr. Everard translation and then from the G.R.S. MEAD translation. I think these will probably put a little light on the subject. (Dr. Everard translation) "For man is divided into a Body and a Soul; when both parts of the Sense accord one with another, then is the understanding childed, or brought forth by the Mind pronounced. For the Mind brings forth all Intellections or Understandings. Good ones when it receiveth GOOD SEED FROM GOD; and the contrary when it receives them from Devils. For there is no part of the World void of the Devil, which entering in privately, sowed the seed of his own proper operation; and the Mind did make pregnant, or did bring forth that which was sown, Adulteries, Murders, Striking of Parents, Sacrileges, Impieties, Stranglings, throwing down headlong, and all other things which are the works of evil Demons. And the SEEDS OF GOD are few but Great, and Fair, and Good Virtue, and Temperance, and Piety. And the Piety is the Knowledge of God, whom whosoever knoweth being full of all good things, hath Divine Understanding and not like the Many."

(G.R.S. MEAD Translation) "For man is separated into soul and body, and only when the two sides of his sense agree together, does utterance of its thought conceived by mind take place. For it is mind that doth conceive all thoughts — good thoughts when it receives the SEEDS FROM GOD, their contraries when it receiveth them from one of the daimonials; no part of Cosmos being free of daimon, who stealthily doth creep into the daimon who's illumined by God's Light, and sow in him the SEED of its own energy. And mind conceives the seed thus sown, adultery, murder, parricide, and sacrilege, impiety, and strangling, casting down precipices, and all such other deeds as are the work of evil daimones. The SEEDS of GOD, tis true, are few, but vast and fair, and good — virtue and self-control, devotion. Devotion is God-Gnosis; and he who knoweth God, being filled with all good things, thinks godly thoughts and not thoughts like the many think."

Mr. Katzen also stated or inferred that Christ is the human "sperm," (male seed). I would ask the readers to consider the three scriptures found in Ephesians 3:9 and Col. 1:16 & 17, to wit: "And to make all men see what is the fellowship of the Mystery, which from the beginning of the World hath been hid in God who CREATED ALL THINGS BY JESUS CHRIST. FOR by him were all things created, that are in heaven, and that are in earth, visible and invisible, whether they be thrones, or dominions, or principalities, or powers: all things were created by him, and for him and he is before all things, AND BY HIM ALL THINGS CONSIST." This statement is tremendously all inclusive. It means that Jesus Christ is the Creative Intelligence and Power of God, in the active state, or as the ancients stated it, "The Workman Mind of God." In Egyptian the same characterization held the Title of Iu and Horus which was the "evercoming Son," the Creative Life and Light in the realm of manifestation. As to the word "continent" and "continence," they are not in the Bible, and if they were they are not limited to the sense used in Mr. Katzen's letter. The word means "self-restraint;" "self-command," which in other words means "self-control" and particularly applies in the ancient literature of self-mastery, the overcoming of the twelve earthly torments by calling on the ten virtues. God's SEEDS are the ten Virtues, and if these "remaineth in him" he doth not commit sin.

I do not mean to criticize Mr. Katzen, as I highly admire any and everyone who is sincerely seeking an understanding of these matters, and I hope that this additional information will clear up an important subject.

In regards to Mr. Sandelin's letter on the same subject, he is right in the last paragraph when he states, "To me it appears that Paul was compelled to serve both God and the Devil, (The Devil being temptation)." In the True Ancient Knowledge it is recognized that everything exists because of contrarity. We would have no power in the battery of our car if it were not for the contrarity of Positive and Negative. We would have no light or power in our houses for the

BETTER SIGHT WITHOUT GLASSES

As a result of his application of the methods of W. D. Bates and others, Mr. Harry Benjamin discarded the strongest glasses it was possible for the most expert opthalmologist to prescribe, and was saved from complete blindness, despite the fact that the specialists had announced that nothing could be done for him.

Thus convinced that spectacles were but crutches which instead of curing eye weakness, actually increase the strain on the eyes, he made an exhaustive study of the whole subject of defective vision. The simple yet startlingly successful methods which he evolved are set down in a remarkable book.

which gives clear, simple, detailed instructions which all may follow with the utmost ease. A few minutes a day are all that the methods entail to produce the most remarkable results.

"Thanks to the Benjamin book after 11 years with eye glasses at a cost of $306.00, I can now read the complete daily paper without glasses after following the instructions in this wonderful book for a period of only months. I am now working for perfect eyesight." —E Schuttner, Bridgeport, Conn.

"Four days ago I put my glasses in the desk drawer and I haven't touched them since. My eyes feel much more relaxed without them. Wonderful eye correction—infallible!" — Marshall Rodin, Rhode Island.

same reason. The basic contrarity in the universe is symbolized by Light and Darkness. In Egypt it was Horus and Sut. In the Bible it is Jesus Christ and Satan. Man can never eliminate darkness, success rests in the BALANCE of the forces. Would you enjoy a movie if all darkness was removed from the screen? An image or a creation is dependent upon the contrarity of forces. "Render therefore unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's; and render unto God the things that are God's." Balance the forces.

Hermes also stated, "For never, O Son, shall or can that Soul which while it is in the Body lightens and lifts up itself to know and comprehend that which is Good and True, slide back to the contrary; for it is infinitely enamoured thereof, and forgetteth all Evils; and when it hath learned and known its Father and progenitor it can no more Apostatize or depart from that Good."

All that is wrong with the world is, the people went to sleep and forgot the ten virtues, the Powers of Light that balance the powers of Darkness. My book USING THE MAGNETIC FORCES OF YOUR MIND deals very extensively with this matter of positive and negative forces in an extremely easy to understand manner. True understanding frees the mind of unreasonable fear and guilt complexes, and opens the way to Health, Joy, Happiness and Prosperity; and above all "Peace on Earth, Good will toward men."

Our Home Study Course now in preparation will deal extensively with this same subject. It is one thing to tell a person he should do something, but it is another to tell him how to accomplish it. The Bible states "Be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind," but it does not give specific directions for doing so. Our Home Study Course will deal with the WHAT - WHY and HOW - in simple easy to understand weekly lessons. Anyone interested in enrolling for this course which will probably run for 25 weeks, should send in their names and address to be placed on our mailing list for notification when it is ready.

USING THE MAGNETIC FORCES OF YOUR MIND $3.00

Dear Mr. Palmer:

I have subscribed to your magazine Search for a couple years, and I feel moved to contribute something to your "letters" department.

In some ways your magazine disturbs me, and in some ways it pleases me. I thought that you would appreciate my honest appraisal, since I read interlinearly a sort of straight-forward attitude toward people who write in.

First I will tell you the things that I like about Search. I like it for its opposition to the AMA, and for its readiness to challenge those who suppress knowledge about Saucers or other information valuable to humanity. And most of all I value the informal "Come Let Us Reason", where ideas may be aired, and exchanged. I feel that there is a great need for some system of contact between deep thinkers not necessarily prone to orthodox or conventional thinking. In addition there is a need of some media through which these people may find one another in the great mass of humanity.

Now let me humbly offer some criticism, that is aimed only in hopes of constructive gains. I would prefer if the articles in your Search were written in a more documentary style. (Some of them smell strongly of fiction, and I feel that there is quite a bit of pulp printed with no claim to fact that the readers would be buying if they wanted to be amused. I believe that the survival of Search and Fate depends upon people in Search of something, people who possibly have studied and another minority who have experimented. I am constantly looking for data, even if it is only historical data, and it is difficult if we must go to great lengths to prove the intentions of the author.

I note also that you have a few axes to grind. I cannot help admire the way you rush into a controversy when many an editor would remain neutral, with an eye for circulation. Could it be that in reality you find that by keeping a tempest going, that it keeps up interest and circulation? Let us hope that this is not the case, because I am sure we all want to trust you as an editorial arbiter. But I am disturbed by your heavy opposition to the theory of Reincarnation. Come let us reason about that . . . You are 100% behind the Shaver concept, and it is the findings (?) of one man. You would argue for us to accept a theory or statement that is uniquely dependent on the testimony of only one man. I know of no medium who has received similar messages, impressions or interpretation. Not that I am attempting to negate Shaver but to indicate the worth of your worth as an evaluator. On the other issue, we have many testimonies from persons who have laid claim to previous life. Many great minds after sorting the philosophies of the earth have settled for Reincarnation. There are millions who believe in it, and belief gives mass to a concept. Now I am not going to try to convince anyone that Reincarnation is a Truth, because it has not been proven any more than any other concept about Life-after-death. My attitude toward it is that it sounds the most sensible. And I am consequently most eager to hear proven any inconsistencies about it. I read a reply which you gave in April, 1959. You claimed that the weight of your evidence weighed for the non-reincarnation ideas. Why not elaborate. Which theory is better than reincarnation?

Your reply at that time contained no data or evidential testimony, but rather a sort of homey rebuttal to a situation that you would not care to see happen to you after death. I was raised in an orthodox religion (Christian) and was on the brink of entering the clergy. The truth is that I attended a seminary for some time. You speak of the false feeling about our "damphool mistakes", yet you do not mention that the Christian system capitalizes heavily on the sin game. If it is illogical for a man to be reborn for the purpose of learning better, then is it far more illogical to presume that we ignorant, microcosmic creatures should be held accountable to all sorts of limboes, purgatories and hells simply because we guessed wrongly or our birth made us the child of a pagan.

One more point. It seems that you have the same idea about reincarnation that prevails among most occidentals. They think that reincarnation pictures a soul hungry for physical expression, haunting delivery rooms, or the dens of animals. I think Buddha was responsible for initiating the theory and he did not even promise consciousness after death. He merely indicated that the second flame of the candle might be the same as the first one extinguished. The life-strand (in space-time) may be re-experienced. As in the Christian religion, much lace is often added to a theory or possible truth, so that when the overzealous sales-clergy gets through with the master's hints, it amounts to a wonderland of speculation.

It would be interesting to know what you really believe.

Richard Rose

Benwood, W. Va.

There is one trouble with being "documentary"—you eliminate that most valuable (you say) informality. You talk "stiffly" to a "starched collar". In order to get on the "inside" of the common ordinary everyday person, you've got to be "informal", although that isn't exactly the word. I suppose you've got to "get off your high horse" to get his trust and encourage his meeting you halfway.

FATE, edited by my friend Curt Fuller, has three times the circulation of SEARCH. Why? Because he is "formal". He does things exactly the opposite I do. He goes through "channels". I could have an identical circulation, if I wished to sacrifice my 100% control of what I do. But I will not be dictated to by a "distributor" who decides what price I shall charge, what newsstands I shall go on, what percentage of returns I shall have (because he won't give me the same sales treatment he gives the big fellow), and who will put me out of business by rejecting me if I don't measure up to the amount of profit he demands from handling my account. Also, in articles, I have no fear of going counter to orthodoxy. I will be "banned in Boston". Curt (with no criticism intended, because actually he is a far better business man than I) will decide against the article on the commonsense grounds that there is no good reason to antagonize anybody. I will definitely antagonize a man who tries to dictate what I shall print, under the threat of financial loss as a consequence of such printing. Thus, when you say I start tempests with an eye to circulation, this is 100% wrong. What DOES happen with controversial material is that I LOSE circulation. I DO get "banned in Boston".

Now about your statement that I accept the statement of one man (Shaver) about his concept. Not true. I have often related the sensational receipt of 50,000 letters on the Shaver Mystery from people who wrote only to say "Bravo! I know this to be true too!" Ordinarily the magazine received 40 to 50 letters a month. What this means to an advertising executive in "potential customer numbers" is fantastic. And it was true. AMAZING STORIES about medical trade unions, malpractice, kickbacks, fee splitting, unnecessary surgrey, ghost surgery, food poisons, poison sprays, drug monopoly, medical rackets and a host of other crimes against the traditions of the Hippocratic Oath. These are the lifetime notes of a General Practitioner, now too old to practice, but determined to reveal the evils that medical monopoly bottled up for a half-century. Here is a fearless indictment, backed up by documentary proof, of the terrible menace to public health of power-mad and money-mad medical associations, to say nothing of the all-too-many doctors to whom their Hippocratic Oath is meaningless.

A BOOK BY A DOCTOR

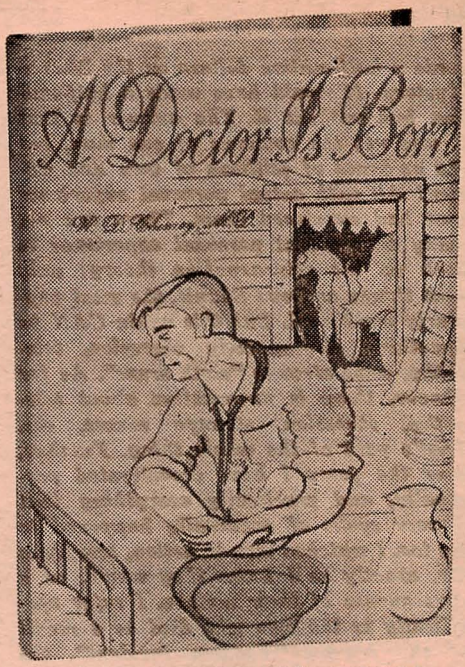

WHO DARES TO TELL THE TRUTH

It is not an attack upon doctors in general, nor on the practice of medicine on toto; it is directed only against those knaves whose nefarious practices must be exposed to save the lives and health of thousands who will suffer or die needlessly because of greed, carelessness and ignorance. Many good doctors know the truth, but cannot speak, because to do so would mean personal financial disaster, and ousting from practice.

made a half-million dollars on the Shaver Mystery. It would have made a half-million less without it. The answer is that it was not the evidence of one man, but the evidence of millions of men and women! All with actual personal experience that had convinced them. There are not many with actual personal experience to back up the reincarnation theory; only such things as Deva Shanti, the most popularly mentioned. But this again CAN be something else—namely obsession, telepathy, some strange "sixth sense". As for Shaver, there is no question about telepathy, obsession, strange senses, etc. That's part of the whole thing. Further, over the years I have investigated personally, and practically everything that Shaver spoke of eventually happened to me too. I watched men in action, saw them die, exactly as I knew they would, as a consequence of their actions. I refer specifically to the men who died as a result of the famous "Tacoma Incident", the most important, most frightening of them all. I called the Sun-Times in Chicago, five hours BEFORE the event, and as a result brought down on my head the intelligence men of all the services. It is hard to explain how you can name two dead men five hours before the Air Force itself knows they are dead and who they are, and as you know, military casualties' names are withheld pending notification of next of kin. When you ask what I really believe, you are asking me to utter ten million words. This Fall, the first book containing some of those ten million words will be published. It will prove that I am not taking the word of one man, and that I have good reason to say the weight of evidence is all on one side.—Rap.

Dear Ray:

I can hardly let go the comments in June Search, on pages 81 and 82, in regards to the book published by Truman Bethurum. If you have read the book Aboard a Flying Saucer, you will know that Mr. Bethurum spoke of his "Boss" as being Earl E. Edwards, or "Whitey" as he called him. Earl Edwards happened to be my nephew and as he passed two years ago he cannot verify some of the facts in the book, but I can, and a few things that are not in the book.

Earl and his wife, Marie came to see me in Los Angeles, where I was living and he said he had known Mr. Bethurum for five years or more as they both had worked on other jobs. He said he never knew Bethurum to tell any lies or to drink booze and had always found him to be reliable. In fact when Bethurum went up to the desert in Nevada, he lived in the big house trailer with Earl and Marie. And it was Marie who bought the uniform and washed it that went to pieces where Bethurum leaned against the "Saucer". Marie was mad as she thought Sears had sold a damaged suit, for the ones she bought for Earl were all right. But when Bethurum said he leaned against the "Saucer" they believed him. In fact he told them each time he contacted the Saucer, and it was Earl's fault that he did not meet them one night.

Marie is a Catholic and had the Catholic Priest (whose name I do not know) to talk to Bethurum, and he told her that he believed it.

As some one asked me "What were they doing out in the desert away from others"? I replied "Building highways for fools like you to drive on." I received letters from all over Nevada, Ely, Glendale, Overton, Fallon etc. as they parked the trailer some place, and Earl said they often drove sixty miles a day to their work. So I happen to know a lot of the book is the truth and do not doubt that the rest is. I never met Mr. Bethurum, but only know what Earl told me, and he laughed when he told about calling Mr. Bethurum at Carpentaria, Calif. He said he hung up before Mr. Bethurum could say no, on purpose, as he was afraid he wouldn't go over there, and he knew he was a reliable man and good worker and wouldn't be drunk on the job.

CAT BLAMED IN SUFFOCATION DEATH OF BABY

NEWARK, N.J., May 27, 1959 — (U.P.I.)—A gray alley cat jumped into a baby carriage yesterday and apparently suffocated a 5-week-old boy.

A medical examiner's report said little Antonio Jounas was suffocated either by the cat lying across his face or by the disarrangement of clothing inside the carriage.

Neighbors said they saw a gray alley cat leap from the carriage outside his home just before Mrs. Cecilia Jounas returned to attend her son.

CONCRETE EVIDENCE

By Orfeo Angelucci

(Author of "The Secret Of The Saucers", and forthcoming "Son Of The Sun")

Next to some artifact given by some Space Visitor, the best proof must come from Earthmen. CONCRETE EVIDENCE provides it.

Only one photo, non-sensational, but beyond question. Taken from a motion picture film that is beyond doubt.

The Air Command had the object on its radar scope below, while half a dozen planes pursued the object which hovered for nearly three hours over Victorville, California.

This is one photo never mentioned publicly by civilians or officials.

Yet it is the one AUTHENTIC PHOTO.

Does the Airforce amass photos and other evidence regarding UFO's? We reproduce regarding an official letter proving that it DOES, from the LOCKHEED STAR.

Have Space Visitors ever spellbound crowds as well as individuals? Read the proof of such events.

Many say, "If such men as Donald Menzel could tell of a sighting I would believe it." Read one of the finest sightings ever recorded, by Dr. Menzel, himself.

Nothing like this gleaming gem has ever been put into the lap of Saucerdom. Only a few pages, indeed. But the essence of proof squeezed into every letter of the words. This silences the silencers.

On the premise that the Christian God created everything, he created SEARCH. Is it smart to insult him that way? Besides, what's "un-Christian" about SEARCH? We run more honest Bible discussion than any popular magazine we know!—Rap.

Dear Ray:

In my last letter to "Search", I made a statement to the effect that I may some day put my oar into the troubled waters of the reincarnation controversy now raging in your magazine; this is it. The occasion came about in an unexpected manner, for as I was reading in The New Testament, 1.John, Chapter 4: verses 1 and 2., I therefore asked if Jesus Christ has come into the world in the flesh. As I had my "dowser", or pendulum, with me I asked the question and requested an answer and picked up the pendule. The reply was given to me as per below; who answered me I do not know, but the reply was given, and spelled out, letter by letter and word for word, as follows:

"Yes, He did come into the world in the flesh, as a man, and died for the salvation of all men. All humans who die in their sins in this life, will reincarnate in a new body, each as he finds a family to his liking; after a stay in one of God's many Heavens on the first spirit plane surrounding the earth, rising up to 20 thousand miles.

"On this plane the spirits go through a periodical school, with trips to the earth, to study human life in all its phases, to teach them what they had missed in their physical life to hold them back.

"Many of those coming to the first plane, who cannot, or will not, learn these lessons, will finally fade out and be absorbed by the Spirit of God and lose their individuality as an ego, or personality. That is the second death.

"Those that make progress in physical life and accept the Father as almighty God, trying in all ways to do His will; shall enter the second spirit plane; higher than the first. They that enter the second plane are not subject to the second death; but do study the things of the Spirit and the law of the Almighty. As they progress in the higher things of the spirit and the law, they are promoted into higher realms for eternity, and are finally elected into the Godhead for evermore, and retain their individuality: Amen."

Any comment on this, addressed to me will be answered if a stamped and self addressed envelope is enclosed.

I'd have asked for one more thing: proof!—Rap.

Dear Mr. Palmer,

I assume your magazine is written for intelligent people, and as I consider myself reasonably intelligent and try to do my own thinking, I must take exception to a few things expressed in the letter on page 85 of the June issue, written by Morris Katzen.

I see, Mr. Katzen is a Bible quoter, but he makes the common mistake of picking out just what he wishes to believe, and entirely ignoring the rest. If Mr. K. is qualified to interpret the Bible, so am I and so is everyone else. I have always had the impression that "seed" as used in the Bible, is symbolic, and usually refers to a man's descendants, as in the case of Galatians 3:16.

If the source of red blood is in the sexual fluid, then I must be a zombie; for I am a woman, and it has been medically proven that women have no "seed", in that sense. What of the children who have not reached the age of puberty and therefore have no sexual fluids? They nevertheless seem to have an abundance of red blood, and many a cut finger or scraped knee has attested to this fact.

I am all for a life of continence myself, but the proper basis for this belief is in the commandment, "Thou shalt not commit adultery." To interpret these verses out of context as meaning that the seed is Christ and there is no other Savior is not only short-sighted, it is grossly indecent. It has been brought out in Edgar Cayce's readings that the Christ-consciousness is in the mind or soul, i.e., the superconscious or better self of the entity. A logical person should at once realize that the true frontier is the mind, and therefore find it hard to believe that the Christ-consciousness should be imprisoned in the body, which is only a garment for the "I am" of the real self.

We have been shown that natural functions are not wrong in themselves; it is the unwise or selfish use of these by mankind that brings about such troubled conditions.

Anyone who believes that continence, or the lack of it (within the frame of marriage) shall be the determining factor in his salvation should diligently re-read the Bible, bearing in mind, "The letter of the law killeth, but the spirit giveth life."

If you publish this letter I would like to hear from anyone who has further ideas on this subject.

In more recent times, there has been a growing realization that on other worlds than ours, even in other universes, there are other living beings. The idea that earthbound man may someday journey into the heavens to discover other men and women, like or unlike himself, grows by leaps and bounds. Within man's soul lies the truth—mortals exist on other spheres!

In this book, many references and quotations are given from the latest authentic reports on Saucer phenomena. Because many believe there are contradictions in some of the reported happenings, it has been necessary to show that there is a great story and purpose behind all these experiences.

Here, in this book, is the history of OTHER TONGUES, and of OTHER FLESH; calm, scientific evidence that there are brothers of ours in the skies overhead.

SHAVER MYSTERY

The editor of SEARCH gets many requests to explain the famous Mystery, and so do I. It is impossible for him, or for me, to answer that apparently simple question, much as we'd like to accommodate those who ask. Both of us work hard to earn a living, and we just haven't the time to answer such letters. But, if you are sincerely interested, and feel it's important for you to know (and I think it is!), I'll be happy to write you a personal letter explaining as best I can; but long, involved letters take time, and I DO have to earn my living. Maybe a personal letter from Richard Shaver himself is worth $5.00 to you; if so, just slip $5.00 in an envelope and ask any question you want— I'll answer your letter, $5.00 worth! (And a lot more, in my opinion!) Richard S. Shaver, Rt. 2, Amherst, Wisconsin.

ODDITIES

5 Airliners See Strange Lights Over Pacific

Pilots of five different airliners reported sighting unidentified objects over the Pacific on July 11, 1959.

The first was Captain George Wilson, flying a Pan American World Airways DC-7C from San Francisco to Hawaii. He radioed that at 6:02 A.M. about 1,000 miles from Honolulu he saw "extremely bright lights."

"They approached us at 21,000 feet altitude," he said. "They were closing in rapidly, then turned, headed south and disappeared in about 10 seconds."

A little later, Pan Am Captains Noble Sprunger and E. G. Kelley reported seeing the same thing in the same general area.

Pan Am dispatchers here also heard pilots of a Canadian Pacific Airlines plane and a Slick Airways plane both bound for Honolulu radio that they had sighted such objects.

Kiss Stealing Milkman Uses Hypnotism

A milkman has admitted hypnotizing a mother and her two daughters in Baldwinsville, N. Y., and then stealing a kiss from one of the girls, a 17-year old, the Onondaga County Sheriff's Department said. Although the mother complained to deputies about the kissing, they said they could not arrest the milkman because the three said they had been willing subjects to their deliveryman's hypnotism.

Saucers Seen In Papua "People Inside"

Many people in the Papuan port of Samarai are convined that flying saucers are flying over the town.

A Native Affairs official said that on several occasions residents had reported seeing strange objects in the sky at night.

"Many are convinced they are flying saucers," he said.

The Port Moresby newspaper, "South Pacific Post," said that a missionary in the district claimed to have seen a weird aircraft.

It had portholes in the side and people looked through them as it travelled overhead at a snail's speed.

The newspaper said that the missionary reported seeing the object hover almost stationary overhead.

Territory Director of Native Affairs, Mr. A. A. Roberts, said that he recently received a report from an officer at Samarai, who said he had seen a weird light overhead.

The light was travelling west, high in the sky.

"It was blue in color when first sighted, alternating at long intervals to a reddish glow and ending with a green flash," the officer reported.

Four silent blowing objects, moving in single file across the sky, were seen by dozens of people in the Mildura area.

Mrs. L. MacArthur, of West Merbein, said the objects showed lights bigger than stars and travelled easterly.

They moved faster than an aircraft and were visible for several seconds.

Mr. John Clark, of Mildura, gave a similar description of the lights.

A number of patrons at the Mildura drive-in theatre also said they saw the objects.

Malformation Cause Bared

An unusually large number of malformed babies are being born in parts of upstate New York where radioactive rock is exposed in quantity, a state health department official says.

Dr. John Gentry of Syracuse, regional health director for the department, pinpointed areas in the northwestern and southeastern parts of the Adirondacks in counties across the southern section and in parts of three counties in the Hudson highlands near New York City.

In almost every instance, Gentry said, the high malformation rates resulted in townships with granite and shale of more than usual radioactivity or with glacial deposits in those rocks.

The significance, Gentry said, is in "the overwhelming consistency of the pattern."

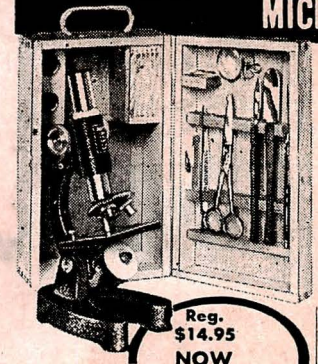

Dr. Herman F. Hillboe, state health commissioner, was quoted as saying Gentry's report was "a brilliant piece of medical detective work."

However, both Gentry and Hillboe emphasized that Gentry's findings were only a start and do not necessarily mean that radio-activity in rocks causes malformation in babies.

Acute Hearing

When 200 volunteers began searching an area of old mines and ponds near Johnson City, Ill., for four young children reported lost, the seven-year-old blind sister of one insisted on going along. She kept telling the searchers she heard the children cry, but, they, unable to detect the cries themselves, ignored the little girl. Finally, on her insistence, they went in the direction she said the crying came from, and found the four youngsters, hungry but otherwise unharmed.
