ATTACKS ON TEACHERS - NEW YORK

OVER THE HORIZON

Almost two thousand years ago a mysterious white man walked from tribe to tribe among the American Nations. He came to Peru from the Pacific, He traveled through South and Central America, among the Mayans, into Mexico and all of North America, then back to ancient Tula, from whence he departed across the Atlantic to the land of his origin. Who was this white Prophet who spoke a thousand languages, healed the sick, raised the dead, and taught in the same words as Jesus Himself?

The Most Important Book We've Published!

Once in a lifetime an opportunity comes along to present such a book as this! The result of 25 years of research, it is a collection of authentic, documented Indian legends of both American continents, of immense value as Indian lore, and tremendously interesting and fascinating to old and young alike. The illustrations themselves are authentic Indian work, painted by some of the top Indian artists of all time; plus many original engravings drawn by the famous explorer and artist, Catherwood, to whom we owe much of our scientific knowledge of the ancient races of Central America. These illustrations are in themselves priceless, because the original structures depicted have since weathered until many inscriptions are lost except in these drawings. Further, the book is the final answer to the question of 1900 years: Did Jesus come to save only the inhabitants of the Old World, or did he come also to the New? Here is proof that He did! The identity of the Prophet cannot be positively made, but those who read these legends have their own firm opinion. Lastly, the archaeology and anthropology and geography of this book is a scientific marvel of accuracy. It is one of the most valuable tools on the bookshelf of the true thinker!

Every Word True! Every Word Documented!

These are true Indian legends, gathered during twenty-five years of research by L. Taylor Hansen, archaeologist, from many different tribes all over the Americas. By consulting museums, libraries and experts on folk-lore, it has been possible to correlate the findings into this fascinating book, backed up by the spades of the diggers into ancient ruins, and by all the sciences with which L. Taylor Hansen is familiar. This is a book that will back up the New Testament of the East, with the Christian Indian legends of the West. In this book is proof that the Savior came not only to one continent, but to all the world. This book will strengthen your faith as no other could!

What SEARCH Means To You

The pages of SEARCH are open to all who have something important to say concerning the occult, the unknown, the metaphysical, the controversial, the suppressed and allied subjects.

It is the policy of this magazine to present both sides of any question, and to refrain from discrimination. However, the editor considers himself "one of the gang" and will slug it out with anyone who cares to enter a battle of words.

Manuscripts are NOT paid for, and nothing is solicited with any guarantee of publication if circumstances intervene. SEARCH assumes no responsibility for photos, drawings, manuscripts, and will not return unless sufficient return postage is furnished by contributor. Manuscripts should be typed, or written neatly, one side of paper.

EDITORIAL

THE READERS of SEARCH Magazine (for the most part) are familiar with our sister magazine, THE HIDDEN WORLD. They know that it is a publication devoted to publishing in complete form all that is known of the Shaver Mystery, and finally, of its relationship to the material contained in SEARCH, and an attempt to place the whole "hidden world" into its proper perspective, and to show how such things as the Shaver Mystery are only one phase of the overall "mystery", which includes such things as flying saucers, spiritualism, etc. Briefly, when we first started THE HIDDEN WORLD, we estimated that twelve books would be required to complete publication of all the material on hand. We published a large magazine, 192 pages, and mostly on good, permanent paper. We asked its readers to pay by the year (four issues) at $6.00 or $1.50 per copy. Obviously this is a high price for a magazine, but actually, THE HIDDEN WORLD is a paperbound book, and in a category that usually sells for $2.00 or even $2.50. Some of our readers subscribed for 4 issues, some for all 12 (and paid $18.00 in advance). In our initial report to them, we said that the $18.00 would pay for all 12 issues (and therefore for the complete Shaver Mystery and its related material). But when we got to issue 12, we still had the main portion of our unpublished and personal material to print, and found that 4 more issues would be necessary.

These four final issues are now being set in type and will be printed as fast as they can be printed, with no regard to spacing out on any schedule. But there is an interesting history of the progress of this magazine which may or may not prove something. It is worth while to note that subscribers to this magazine would logically be those originally exposed to the Shaver Mystery in the old pulp magazine, Amazing Stories. And that the original 5,000 subscribers to it would keep on renewing until they got the whole series. But it didn't work that way: the second series of 4 books fell to 3,000 subscribers, and the third to 1,700. Thus, the mathematics of the situation indicated that the fourth series would get only about 900 subscribers. To a publisher, the mathematics here become impossible, at a price of $1.50 per copy. The simple item of setting the type for each issue comes to the total income for the whole 900 subscriptions! Then there is paper to buy, labor to pay, ink, binding, and shipping. So, since we would obviously not make it, on the basis of previous decline in renewals, we decided to ask the remaining 1,700 to pay $3.00 a copy. We felt that if somewhere between 500 and 900 did this, we could print the required number of copies, and those truly interested would get the whole material. Obviously anyone who did not renew, and later changed his mind, would find the "sold out" sign out, and that would be that.

We did get the required number. We got 759 renewals (some of them at the old rate because we offered reluctant ones an issue printed on newsprint paper). That is where the matter stands now, and we will shortly go to press with 800 print order. To us this is truly regrettable, because these last four books are actually the whole and complete answer to that oft-asked question: "What does Ray Palmer himself really think about the Shaver Mystery?"

When one considers that originally, some twenty years ago, about 3,000,000 people read the Shaver Mystery and were vastly intrigued, today only 759 people remain who want to be in on the final chapter!

In the process of getting these 759 people to subscribe, we ran into considerable animosity. Some people said they had already paid $18.00 for the full series, and accused us of money-grabbing to ask for $12.00 more without giving them what we promised. We did promise 12 books, and they were all delivered. Now there are four MORE, so we hope that misunderstanding is cleared up. Others realized this fact, but felt the price was too high (and it is! if you are considering it on a poundage basis - the book weighs 8/10 of a pound - but it's cheap if you consider it is the final summation of 30 years of personal research on the part of Ray Palmer). In both cases, we were accused of perpetrating the whole thing just to make a buck, and that furthermore, we must be millionaires by now.

We almost are - in reverse!

As each series of four books were issued, we lost renewals for only one reason that we could see - each series began to tread on more dogmatic toes, and each lack of renewal indicated a reader who had gotten to the point where he couldn't take it any more, and rather than change all his precepts, shut his eyes, to the whole thing. That is the main reason we say positively that these last four books will be the end of THE HIDDEN WORLD, because we believe that of the 759 people remaining, not more than 300 will not become our sworn enemies from that moment on - because what Ray Palmer thinks of the Shaver Mystery, and what it REALLY is, will alienate even Richard Shaver himself. And yet, it is my FIRM conviction that the evidence points only one way, and no other theory can come even close to being adequate.

But to those who finally understand what it is that I have discovered, and agree to THINK ABOUT IT, they will have been handed a tool that will be the most effective they have ever been handed.

Think of some of the questions: 1) Is Shaver really telling the truth about his underground caves; was he really there for eight years? 2) Are there really deros and teros; and do they really influence men on the surface with their rays and telaug and projections? 3) What about OAHSPE, and how is it (or isn't it) compatible with Shaver's concept of this planet? 4) Is outer space really inhabited, and do the Titans and Atlans really exist; and do they actually visit this planet? 5) Are the flying saucers real, and if so, what are they, where from, and why do they come here? 6) Are the spiritists right, and are there really evidences of the return of the dead to the realm of the living? 7) Can the religions of the world, in their enormous numbers, be integrated into a common denominator; and are they really true? 8) Is there a hidden secret government which rules the world, even our own United States? 9) What have our scientists, astronauts, etc, really discovered about outer space, and is it compatible with Shaver, Oahspe, the Spiritualists, Flying Saucers, etc.; or does it destroy these concepts?

Think of it, and think of the fact that there is one man who has spent a lifetime looking for the answers, and that he has amassed a mountain of evidence from which conclusions can be drawn; and then think of the fact that only 800 people will have an opportunity to get that material, for some unknown reason! Why do they drop their tails between their legs and run when the time comes for the showdown?

It is interesting to know that Shaver himself has always maintained that when there is danger of the "great secret" being exposed, the exposé will be halted by some violent means, or, failing that, the eyes and ears of the recipients will be somehow diverted so that they will not hear or see, or will make a negative decision to ignore, completely brainwashed by some mysterious ray that enters their brain and sets up illusion, negative thought, rejection, and just plain unreasoning fear.

The readers of SEARCH, even those who do not know much about Shaver or Oahspe, or flying saucers, still ask Ray Palmer what he really thinks. Well, they will get that in future issues of SEARCH, on every subject, just as they get it in small doses in each issue. But it is impossible to cover a subject such as the Shaver Mystery in short articles. That is the why of the sixteen books of the HIDDEN WORLD. In them we fulfil an obligation to those who have remained determined to stick it out until the final word. We are going to give them that final word. Once it is given, the Shaver Mystery will be answered, and will become nothing more than history, a phase, an item in the conglomerate of reality. It will, I hope, be understood, and can be used by these people in their thinking about the things that will come in the future from our research in SEARCH Magazine.

The most difficult thing in the world is to make people think, and the research necessary to do it has a weird barrier consisting simply of the passage of time. To the person who has been with us from the beginning, he understands every word we say; to the newcomer, it is necessary to recapitulate continually. The series of THE HIDDEN WORLD was intended to be such a recapitulation. But somehow that purpose has been defeated, because after all our efforts, we still have not succeeded in the purpose of creating a stock of "records" that would be available at a reasonable price to the newcomer. Perhaps what we've tried to do is impossible. Libraries have a habit of being burned, or in some way made unavailable to researchers. Just as we got much of our information from rare books, some of which took years to uncover, the future researcher will have to come upon a rare discovery, in some attic, of a complete file of the 16 books of THE HIDDEN WORLD, and when he does, he will no doubt value it beyond anything we might suspect today. Or perhaps he will discover only a random copy here and there, with perhaps the last four (the most important) altogether missing, because the original subscriber dropped by the wayside before he had completed the set.

Maybe the difficulty of research will always remain, to make men work for their progress, to make thinking a thing and proving that thing a challenge. Anyway, this has been a challenge, and there may be some 300-odd people out of an original three million who will say we have succeeded. But then, 300 successes is a large number of successes, isn't it? Maybe in the next 30 years we can double that number! Trying it appeals to us as the most interesting task in the world. And the things we'll find out while doing it should make the past discoveries pale into insignificance!

How could it be otherwise?-Rap.

CATHERWOOD'S YUCATAN

OUR COVER this month is a reproduction of a drawing by Frederick Catherwood, who, more than 120 years ago accompanied John L. Stephens on an expedition into the jungles of Yucatan. It is an accurate copy of the Castillo, a building which today is completely excavated, and should presumably furnish us with more information than available in the time of Catherwood. But this is not true. In the intervening 120 years, weathering has been so extensive that much of the carvings has been worn away, and can no longer be completely distinguished. This is regrettable, because we have not yet translated the ancient written language of Yuca-tan's Mayas, and when we do, we will have precious little to read. But thanks to Catherwood, we have several hundred very detailed drawings, exact copies, of Mayan inscriptions, which will be very precious to the future explorers into the culture of the ancient races of Yucatan. Without these drawings Catherwood made so painstakingly in the steaming jungles, pestered by insects and disease, and by illnesses that finally killed him, we would have lost forever what may prove to be very precious keys to a past that may prove more important to us than we realize.

We obtained this particular drawing from a book called Stephens' Yucatan (or rather a pair of books, because Yucatan was published in two volumes in 1843 by Harper and Brothers). These books are exceedingly rare, and our two copies are particularly good. Even though the pages are yellowed, modern photographic methods enable us to restore the drawings to their original vivid detail. Naturally they are not in color, which we took the liberty to add for the purposes of our cover.

To the editors of SEARCH, these drawings of Catherwood are even more important, because of the link they provide with a history of the past which we find very necessary to explain the nature of the reality we seek in SEARCH.

We believe it to be a fact that the earth has been inhabited by civilizations we do not even suspect today, that these civilizations are numerous, and go back perhaps 50,000 or even 75,000 years ago. These remnants in Yucatan are dated today by our explorers and scientists as possibly 3000 years old, and some even say 6,000. But there are ruins among the ruins which we think may go back as much as 12,000 years. When proper translations are made of the precious inscriptions so faithfully recorded by Catherwood, we may have proof of many things you have read about in SEARCH, in such books as OAHSPE, and in some of the amazing "psychic" sources SEARCH sometimes uncovers.

One of the books we have published, HE WALKED THE AMERICAS, speaks in its Indian Legends of a White Healer who came to this continent, some 2,000 years ago, preaching the same things Jesus taught. Catherwood's drawings picture some of the ruins that Indian legends say are the very buildings in which this ancient Healer preached and lived. Particularly of the mysterious capital city of Tula, which is reputed to have been even greater than ancient Rome, or Athens, perhaps the largest and most beautiful city the world has ever seen.

When Cortez arrived in this area, he brought with him religious fanatics who set out to destroy the libraries of the ancient civilizations, and who succeeded so well that today we have only Catherwood to turn to in hope of future restoration of the knowledge these fanatics sought to destroy. Why they wanted to erase it from human knowledge is debatable, but it is possible that it was a menace to their own ideology. Is it necessary that Man know who he is, where he has been, what he had done, and where he is going? The ancient civilizations of the world may provide a partial answer to the question, and here in Yucatan there is the haunting conviction that one of the important answers exists. So important that it was necessary for the mentally bound priests of the time of the Conquistadores to destroy it completely, lest their own empires of political as well as religious power collapse about their ears.

Perhaps the drawings of Frederick Catherwood will yet topple their secret upon them, and open the way to a greater vista for Man than our heritage now offers us, because of our destroyed memories. Because history repeats itself, it is necessary to know the past, so that we can envision the future. Today we are guided into a murkiness that may prove our destruction, if we are unaware of our true destiny. Those of the past have gone to the same destiny, and they left records behind them. The vital ones have been destroyed, and others hidden. In Yucatan, we have many hidden messages, hidden because of concealment, hidden because of literally wearing-away, hidden because vital translation keys are yet lacking. When that key is found, we will be able to read from Catherwood's drawings. And perhaps, by some inspired purpose carried out more than 120 years ago, the intent of the evil priests of Cortez will have been foiled after all!

ATTACKS ON TEACHERS - New York

by Elmer Beshearse

WITH increasing attacks on education by uneducated persons all over the United States has come increasing attacks on educators by uneducable persons in New York State. This is probably to be expected, because that which is suitable to attack by words becomes suitable to attack by violence.

Of course, it is never the educators (except in rare instances) that come under attack. It is education and the methods of education that come under attack. The educators aren't really to blame. It is just that they are duped into something that they cannot understand. It takes people outside the profession to tell exactly what is wrong with the teaching profession. They have all the answers to all questions.

True Education calls for a complete revision of WHAT is taught in the schools and HOW it is taught, and HOW the child is instructed. A corkscrew is effective in pulling corks because it is designed for the job! The "pulling out" of the faculties of the mind also needs a tool designed for the job![1]

A summation of what is generally thought of educators by the people who have all the answers is:

American educators did the best they knew how:. . .Not knowing how to read, the educators only had a knowledge of half of the mind, and they don't know any better yet![2]

And of course, since "they don't know any better yet", the following line of reason logically follows:

One of the worst dangers lies in the fact that our educational system is being turned into a brainwashing system. . .The degree of Ph.D. now means that you have been thoroughly brainwashed, and you will not be likely to think for yourself again.[3]

Such silly assertions that the more educated a person becomes the less able he is to think hardly merits an answer. Irresponsible pronouncements always remind me of Mr. Walt Kelly's brilliant Pogo, who was visited by a pig from a communist country. The communist pig made the following announcement:

"Yes, little companions, you might like to know that I have just written a book, all about America. . .Written from a completely unprejudiced view. I don't know a thing about it and so have had a free mind. . .See, right there in black and white it says my father-in-law discovered America in 1906."[4]

Some of the recent books and magazine articles on education have been written with the same "completely unprejudiced view" as outlined by Mr. Pig. The sad difference is that while we laugh at Mr. Pig, these writers on education are being believed. I know this because I wrote an article which was recently published. This article was nothing but satire from start to finish; and I did not expect that it would be literally believed. It said in part:

As a teacher, I would be first to realize that not all our methods are perfect. Teachers are ever striving to hypnotize and brainwash better. . .It is my sincere hope that textbooks of the future will be about half the size they are now, and that their covers will be shiny. It is to be hoped that they will be equipped with a bright chain upon which they can be suspended. . .As the book is spun, the light will glare off the shiny covers and into the eyes of the student. As the wind whips the pages, tears them from the book, and scatters them around the room, the message on the pages will fly to the brain of the student. . . At this point the millennium will be reached. In addition to Instant Coffee, Instant Starch, and Instant Security, we shall have the ultimate - INSTANT EDUCATION.[5]

Absurd as it may sound, some people who read the article actually took it literally.

So while the irresponsible writers make money with their books about what's-wrong-with-education? - the hoods in public schools make attacks on teachers. It seems that one group is trying to bury education figuratively, while their allies, the hoods, are trying to bury educators literally. Perhaps both groups believe in equality for everyone. Perhaps they both know the old German proverb, THE ONLY EQUALITY IS IN THE CEMETERY. Perhaps they are trying to make everyone equal as soon as possible. Or do you suppose they heard a leading figure from Russia state, "We'll bury you" - and they are subconsciously assisting him?

It has been stated that a man's character depends largely upon what the public doesn't know about him. This is true to a large extent. However, if one keeps in mind the following quote, he can usually define the character of the man:

A man never reveals his own character more vividly than when portraying the character of another.[6]

The character of some of the followers of extremist agitators was recently summed up in the closing paragraph of an important book:

But perhaps the majority of the followers of extremist agitators. . .are those whom the psychiatrists call the "inadequate personalities." These are the people who have never been able to "make it", even in the lowest levels of meeting the problems of life: the drifters, the punks who must sporadically erupt in emotional or physical violence, the petty thieves and gyps, the perennially idle, the pathologically self-indulgent. All of them are consumed with a sickening conviction - and a valid one - of their own individual worthlessness; they have no reservoir of inner strength to enable them to take the responsibility for their situation and to try to cope with it. So they blame the "system", the Negroes, the Catholic Church, the Jews, the Communists, the "big guys". These are the raw material for the lynch mobs that the extremist agitators hope to organize, exploit, control and, when they have served their purpose, erase.[7]

In short these people are incompetent. One might as well accept the fact that incompetence is not the exclusive monopoly of any particular segment to the society. Practically no one accepts the fact that he is incompetent, however. Or in the words of another:

One's own incompetence is a difficult fact to accept. So the citizen is prone to believe the demagogue who tells him the fault is not in himself. He wants to believe he can work less and earn more, save less, and have more, go in debt and not have to pay for it.

I have a friend who teaches in New York. I had considered applying for a teaching position in New York, so I wrote to my friend after I read about attacks on teachers. I should like to quote his answer:

First of all, I'll put your mind at ease by saying that the "student attacks" on the teachers have been occurring in the fair metropolis of New York City and. . .has not penetrated into the suburbs. Not a day passes without some such incident in the "more deprived-area" schools of the city... Obviously such things have been going on for years, but lately the papers seem more ready to report it. . .with the integration business bringing such matters into the limelight. . . it's the colored and Puerto Ricans who have been making the attacks, and naturally. . .the white parents. . . don't want their kids being bussed into the areas where this is happening. . .

I've seen my own neighborhood deteriorate considerably within the past five years, and that neighborhood is still one of the better ones in the Bronx. But the faces you see on the streets now are a portent of what is yet to come, and believe me, it stinks.

Years ago the "bad element" was made up principally of Sicilians, but they've come up in the world. . .along with the Irish and Jews, and those with the money have moved out long ago, making way for the newer lower-classes, which. . .continue to be Negroes and Puerto Ricans, the latest class of Welfare Folks. . .living with them (in the same community) is one thing and being liberal from a distance is another.

At any rate, I personally have not been attacked yet, but I'll let you know as soon as I am.

Before anyone accuses myself or my friend of being prejudiced, I would like to point out at this time that my friend is a member of one of the "minority" groups that he mentioned in his letter.

The articles on education, both pro and con, will no doubt continue to be written and published. I am all for it. I agree with Thomas Jefferson when he wrote, "Our liberty depends on the freedom of the press, and that cannot be limited without being lost." I don't want to see this freedom lost.

But instead of condemning and criticizing everything and everybody, it might be reasonable to first remember a sentence written nearly two hundred years ago:

The world is my country, all mankind are my brethren, and to do good is my religion.[8]

OCCULT "LIBERALISM" - AKHNATON

Part I

THE MAY, 1964 issue of SEARCH magazine contains two mystical articles entitled AKHNATON-AMENHOTEP IV-MOSES? and MRS. LAUER'S PROPHECY. These both seem to be an aftermath following THE 'RELIGION' OF OAHSPE in the March, 1964 issue. All three articles will be analyzed in the light of a more orthodox aspect - a puritanical evaluation based on the Holy Bible. Such a process may be slow, awkward to some. Still, to others, the burdensomeness of it may seem painful and strict. Still, the same method may provoke accusations of calling us "naive". However, it is our contention that the evolution for truth comes only by a tedious, sometimes, painfully slow overthrowing of "orthodoxy". If the "discovery" can't successfully establish itself, it hasn't won over orthodoxy. In religion - more specific, the Church of God - orthodoxy should present itself that much stronger and ethical.

The author states: "The message Akhnaton has for now is as modern as tomorrow's most erudite sciences, coupled with the most advanced knowledge of the universe, of the creator of the universe, and of man's relationship to that creator. He has a vital message for this New Aquarian Age which is fairly bursting upon us. It is coming through.

AND MOUNT ZION

He is working in and through almost every main Mystery School and Lodge. So far they have only parts of his whole message, but it is here, waiting for the world to receive. His message, as does the message of Moses, centers around pyramids even as his religion centered round Gizeh and possibly the Moses pyramid in Jordan long ago." Later the author says, "Ah-mena (the author reincarnated) is working for the One Religion and is giving out the Lost Secret Wisdom to all who receive." First, let us see if the Bible can be included as one of the author's "Mystery Teachings" and supports the coming of the "Aquarian One Religion". What is the "Gospel" Christ came to preach? Mark 1:14-15 says, "Jesus came into Galilee, preaching the gospel of the Kingdom of God, and saying, the time is fulfilled, and the Kingdom of God is at hand. . ." The word "kingdom" means government. Jesus was talking about the coming government of God over this "terra". Christ also commanded us to "repent" and "believe the Gospel". To be so SORRY never to break the laws (I John 3:4) of God's Government. Where in the Bible can we come to understand these "Laws"? Matt. 19:16-17: "Why callest thou me good? There is none good but one, that is, God: but if thou wilt enter into life, keep the commandments." What did that state? Various and sundry "mystical" teachings and dogmas? No! The Bible explains further in Luke 16:16-17, "The law and the prophets were until John: since that time the Kingdom of God is preached, and every man presseth into it. And it is easier for heaven and earth to pass, than one title of the law to fail." Does this seem to be - or even sound like - a "liberalized" basic law, wherein, "all mystical teachings" should group? Instead, the Bible precisely states "it is easier for heaven and earth to pass, than one title of the law to fail." Jesus clearly shows that God's Kingdom or "Government" is inseparably connected with God's Law. Verses 18-19 go on to show "which laws" they are. Nor can it be anything connected with a mystical-astrological foundation as the author's "aquarian age" implies. Daniel 2: 1-11 hits somewhat of the Bible's criticism of "astrology" (and this includes what concepts of it are contained in "pyramids" and "pyramidology"). However, Isa. 47: 13-14 states it much more expressly: "Let now ASTROLOGERS - STAR-GAZERS - stand up, and save thee. . .the fire shall burn them; they shall not deliver themselves from the power of the flame."

*Note: Luke 16:18-19 was referring to one of the Ten Commandments.

As we go into this matter furthur, we seem to find that the teachings of Christ were "diametrically" opposed to those told of by the author under discussion, in his "mystery teachings". To go into it much later, and deeper, we briefly remind the reader of the Bible's damnation of the "Babylonian mysteries". We shall see how such "counterfeit" and "Satan fostered" dogmas could easily be the foundation of your adon, yahweh, adon-ai, el-elyon, chri-sat, elat, el, ah-menes, hotep, menes, etc., which all seem to appear as "excuses" to take the authority of God and Christ away, in these forms of Pantheism - if not plain idolatry. For example, what does Simon Magus and his declaration to counterfeit Christ and His teachings have to do with Rome and Nimrod, by which the "Babylonian mysteries" planted "Nimrod" (the "opener" - Hebrew "Peter") off as "apostle Peter"? In turn, it would be interesting to note the connection this has with a pagan cemetery in Rome called "Vaticanus" (at the time of the Apostles) whereby this "Nimrod" was connected. And our mystical author is going to tell us that his "teachings" are the "exception" to this "rule". It is striking, but true, that the Bible teaches of a "majority" being lead away. If everyone is so busy being one of the "exceptions", wherein do we find the Biblical "many" that the Bible talks of? What a circle!

To review deeper, the "Gospel" of "Christ" as compared to the various "Mystery Teachings", it is very important to note that Christ's main message, aside from all other important teachings and words he gave, was the "Kingdom of God." Not evol-U-tion-birth by reincarnation processes, or mystical "CHARISMATA", but he sent seventy men preaching, and commanded them to preach the Kingdom of God (Luke 10:9). He sent the Apostles, on whom the Church of God was founded, to preach ONLY the Kingdom of God (Luke 9:1-2). For example, Apostle Paul preached the Kingdom of God (Acts 19:8, 20:25, 28:23, 31). And through Paul, God placed a double curse on man or angel that would DARE preach any other Gospel! (Gal. 1:8-9) It appears that the Bible is very specific to its Gospel - and not as nebulous and liberalized as some want it, in order to incorporate it into - or, into it - the "mystery teachings". God has always set apart and "marked" those who truly serve Him by keeping his commandments and his laws. I John 2:4 says, "He that saith, I know him, and keepeth NOT his commandments, is a liar and the truth is not in him." II John 9-11 gives an equally strong charge: "If there come any unto you, and bring not this doctrine, receive him not into your house, neither bid him God speed: for he that biddeth him God speed is partaker of his evil deed." A person who isn't keeping God's commandments does not grasp the kind of character and personality that the true God is. . .he is not truly "acquainted" with God! He is actually fostering his "own" "god" out of his own belief and imagination. Rev. 12:17, 14:12, 22:13-14, all speak of those WHO KEEP HIS COMMANDMENTS, referring back to Matt. 19:16-19.

If the Bible and Christ's teachings were majorly connected with the "aquarian mysteries" we'd be sure to see some kind of strict collaboration. However, we further, and more clearly, note that those views of the discussed author and the teachings of the Bible are still "diametrically" opposed by his comments on Daniel: "Two things reveal Daniel's prophecies recently and opened them wide for the world to know now. One: Gizeh first, then Zion, then all pyramids the world over, revealing their meanings. Two, it was a scientific discovery which finally opened Daniel's prophecy so that all mysteries and all prophecy may be completely revealed through the pyramid form and its accompanying Wisdom." The author states that it was "a scientific discovery" which finally opened Daniel's prophecy - further, "Gizeh" and "Zion". The Bible, in Rev. 5:5 says: ". . .the lion of the tribe of Juda, the root of David, hath prevailed to open the book, and loose the seven seals thereof." There's the answer. The lion of the tribe of Juda - the ROOT of David - IS JESUS CHRIST! The verse does not say "mount of the tribe" or "temple of". Nor does it say "mount of David" or "temple of". No reference to a pyramid. No MAN can interpret this momentous prophecy but Jesus Christ, God the SON. Not John, not some modern church leader, not any man, religious organization, sect, or denomination - certainly no pyramid! This is the revelation of Jesus Christ, which God the Father gave to him! Note (vs. 7): "And he came and took the book out of the right hand of Him that sat upon the throne." It is through God's ONE, TRUE, Church (Eph. 4:5) (I Cor. 12:13) - not to be confused with counterfeit Christianity (Matt. 24:11) (Matt. 24:4-5) (Matt. 24:24-26) - that Bible prophecy is to be understood (John 16:13). Since the author under discussion didn't elaborate upon the meaning of Daniel's prophecy, it is hard to compare it with prophecy understood by the Church of God. However, it should be an interesting note that the true interpretation has been done by Christians in this Church, who have NO INTEREST in pyramidology, or, even, perhaps, are familiar with pyramids. Also, this understanding has come to them significantly sooner than the discussed discovery of MT. ZION (if this indeed, refers to the one and same Biblical thing. Mt. Zion of the Bible also seems to show the characteristics of the "Church", aside from construction of pyramids). If the understanding of Daniel's prophecy depended so heavilv on the pyramids, especially Zion, how is it that this discussed Christians profess revelation and inspired understanding of the prophecies?

The author's next statement: "Christianity has wandered far from its earliest truth. Jesus would recognize very little of what passes for Christianity today. About nine tenths of our present day ministers read one, maybe two verses from the Bible, and from there on, their sermons are their own opinions colored by the general attitudes of the time. The Bible, as a real source of material to study, is almost completely neglected. Yet it is the most occult and factual book in existence today. It is a book by initiates, for initiates, once the keys to unlock its coded messages are obtained and applied to it. If Jesus were with us today he would bow to worship his most High Father God, the One who was known as El Elyon in Zion." The author and ourselves agree that "Christianity has wandered far from its earliest truth". However, we and the Bible vehemently disagree from the author as to "when" and "where" the "earliest truth" was. Christ told "often" of clever counterfeit theology (look up the meaning of "counterfeit"). "In vain do they worship me, teaching for doctrines the commandments of men. . . making the word of God of none effect through your tradition." (Mark 7:7,13) The beginning of the "destruction" of Christianity can be told in Acts 20:29-39. Paul explains HOW this would BEGIN: ". . . I know this, that AFTER my departure shall grievous wolves enter in among you, not sparing the flock. Also of your own selves shall men arise, speaking perverse things. . .to draw away disciples after them." And Ah-Mena from Hotep is going to tell us that the "Aquarian Mysteries" are void from such diabolical error? It is opposite the Church's own revelation and the Bible's teachings. As for using the Bible as an "occult" book, in the same sense as the mystics of the "Babylonian Mysteries", let's see what the Bible says about that: "And upon her forehead, was a name written, Mystery Babylon the great, the mother of Harlots and abominations of the earth." (Rev. 17:5) Here is a "mother" church - a church which is the lineal descendant of ancient Babylon, a church carrying on the ancient Chaldean Mystery and other occult dogmas. John sees this church as "drunken with the blood of the saints" (verse 6). This "organization" or "collaboration of man's dogmas" is called by God a "whore" because she has entered into illicit relationships with this world by getting into and corporating human ideas and wishes.

To quote: "All present religions have come to us mainly from this One Body of Truth, colored by the particular prophet who founded the religion. . .we are travelling at breakneck speed into the New Age. And all that is true in the old will be carried forward into the new. . .science and religion are her two wings and they will balance her in this New Aquarian Age." The general impression which Ah-Mena seems to try to give us is that, as he says: ". . .is working for One Religion. . .giving out the lost Secret Wisdom. . .a Wisdom which every modern science reveals and substantiates. An impression that the "followers" of the "mysteries" are gathering, growing, and progressing at a "break-neck speed"! Could this be characteristic of the True Church? Let's see what the Bible says. As described in Acts 20:29-39, the elders and ministers were especially assembled because, immediately after Paul would leave Ephesus (immediately, not later, as at the time of the Protestant revolt) there would appear in the Church congregations false ministers. Paul told of this as "turning their ears from the truth - turned unto fables." Nor was the Church to be sowed up with social, political and occultistic ideas: "Come OUT FROM AMONG THEM, AND BE YE SEPARATE" (II Corinthians 6:17). Jesus, as he prayed for his ONE Church, said: "I pray for them. . .not for the world. . .the world hateth them. . .they are not of the world. . . even as I am not of the world." (John 17:9-16). They are ambassadors, representing His Kingdom, which is "foreign" to the world, never being of the world. Starting at Paul's exit from Ephesus, the Christians were being put out of the visible, organized congregations (III John 9-10). They were to be persecuted and "SCATTERED": "It is written, 'I will smite the shepherd, and the sheep shall be scattered.'" (Mark 14:27). John 16:32 also says, "Ye shall be scattered." Acts 8:1 gives, "They were all scattered abroad." Nor is this true but tiny and nebulous group to be for a short time, but this condition is to pass well up until the "End Time" - right on through Ah-Mena's "Aquarian People" which will "burst upon us. . ." ". . .Yet they shall fall by the sword - by captivity, and by spoil, MANY DAYS. . . EVEN TO THE TIME OF THE END." (Dan. 11:33-35). Ezekiel tells of this also, "When he shall have accomplished to scatter the power of the Holy people, all these things shall be finished." No mention of a "great, powerful, dynamic, force exerting influence in this world." Jesus called it the "little flock" (Luke 12:32). . . despised, persecuted, scattered by the world, separate of the world, but never divided. It is this general situation that the Bible speaks of when it says: "PERVERSE DISPUTINGS OF MEN of corrupt minds, and destitute of truth, SUPPOSING THAT GAIN IS GODLINESS: from such withdraw thyself." (I Timothy 6:5)

A further characteristic of this same nature can be illustrated when we quote Ah-Mena: "It (the pyramid) points the way to that other city. It includes every Wisdom Incorporated in every religion, science and philosophy and all the human knowledge yet to be known in the world. No matter which religion, which wisdom, which Bible, which age, if it is true symbolism it is incorporated in Zion and supported in Gizeh. . ." Jesus foretold the very FIRST event to come on this world: Great Deception climaxing in our day now just ahead, in Great Tribulation: "Take heed, that no man deceive you. For MANY shall come in my name saying I am Christ, and shall deceive MANY." (Matt: 24: 4,5) Christ was speaking of the "majority" - vast majority, being deceived. This counterfeit and deception is included in man's "World View". This highly suggests that it includes every "incorporation," most religions, sciences, philosophies and all human carnal knowledge. It is Satan who is god of this world (II Cor. 4:4)! The environment and World View of this planet is Satan's kingdom. The Devil has many doctrines (I Tim. 4:1-4). He is referred to as "prince of the power of the AIR" (Eph. 2:2). He can counterfeit "miracles" (Matt. 24:24). It is Satan, the Devil, who "deceiveth the whole world." (Rev. 12:9). "Wide is the gate, and broad is the way that leadeth to destruction, and many there be which go in there at: because strait is the gate, and narrow is the way, which leadeth into LIFE, and FEW there be that find it." (Matt. 7:13-14)

Unlike Ah-Mena's "symbolism", the True Church has had a characteristic that has made it stand out quite different from another, any other, "organization". Throughout the history of the Church, it has always been referred to as "the Church of God". Not John's, Paul's, Luther's, Rome's, Calvin's. But God's Church. The Church is not named after any man, organization, construction, symbol or element. Note the following verses: Acts. 20:28. I Tim. 3:5. II Cor. 1:1. I Cor. 1:2, Gal, 1:13, I Cor. 15:9, I Cor. 11:22. I Cor. 10:32. II Thes. 1:4. I Thes. 2:14. I Cor. 11:16. I Tim. 3:15. Paul referred to the various Church congregations, of which Christ is the Head, as "the churches of Christ" (Romans 16:16). The actual NAME is the CHURCH OF GOD. Named after the Father (John 17:11).

Further, "The great Central-Sun-Son gives some of itself to every heavenly body, to every living being, to every single atom in all of the created universe." What this seems to purport, is the same fundamental-basic idea that "science" has incorporated with psychism. That such an "objective" view, while it may be "common", says nothing of who, really, fostered this "World View". As just explained, it is Satan who is god of THIS WORLD! This "gives some of itself. . .to every single atom" is only partially right, for God did create man in his own image. But not by any "ready-made" means as Ah-Mena describes. What the above statement of the author's seems to be is a "short-cut" for Spiritual reunion. The Bible knows of no such thing.

Part II

This article is a reply, mainly directed at two articles appearing in Search (May, 1964). The first is "Akhnaton - Amenhotep IV - Moses?" The author states that (she, he) is "Ah-Mena" from Hotep. The second article is "Mrs. Lauer's prophecy". No author is listed, but it appears to have been written by the same person who authored the first article.

This covers a lot of territory for one article. And although we will keep it brief as possible, it must of necessity be somewhat long, in order to even begin to adequately cover the subject. Also, it is difficult to organize so much material in logical sequence, so we will just cover one subject and then move to another.

First, there is the subject of reincarnation. The "Akhnaton-Moses" article preaches it, and is based on it. Even the author claims to be reincarnated, and claims to have "much good evidence, to substantiate" reincarnation. "Not superstition or ESP alone, but modern research, scientific knowledge, etc." Just what evidence, research, and knowledge, is not mentioned. But a great many statements in the article are based on the idea. Ahknaton was supposed to have reincarnated as Peter, Christ's Apostle. Ahknaton is supposed to reincarnate again in the present or near future, etc. No evidence of any kind is brought forth in support of these and many other statements. The statement is made, however, that Jesus Himself mentioned Elijah who had reincarnated as John the Baptist. We may deduce from this that the Bible is considered as one source of evidence for reincarnation. Another writer in Search even goes as far as to admit that the Holy Bible is the "only reliable proof we have of eternal matters." Yet he too preaches reincarnation. I submit that inorder to furnish proof or evidence for any teaching, based on the Bible, one must be able to point to at least a few plain, definite, statements in the Bible which set forth this teaching. Further, the statements must not be taken out of context, but must be consistent with the context and with the over-all teaching of the Bible on this subject.

The fact is that not a single verse in the Bible makes a plain statement teaching reincarnation. Not one! There are a few - very few-mostly obscure verses, which could possibly be taken to refer to reincarnation, but only if one starts with the idea already in mind that reincarnation is a fact! Never could anyone honestly deduce the theory of reincarnation from Bible verses. This is not evidence! No one with any idea of the nature of evidence and logical deduction could ever claim that it is! To start with a given idea, apply certain obscure verses to it (which could just as easily be taken to mean other ideas entirely), and then come up with the original idea again, is not proof! It is a silly argument in a circle! One could, by using this method, "prove" anything at all he might conceive of, from the Bible. Further, the verses in question, if taken to refer to reincarnation, contradict other plain and direct statements. Such as, "it is appointed unto man once to die, and after that the judgment." Not to die many times, and after each death a subsequent reincarnation. But just for example, let's talk about the case in question regarding Elijah and John the Baptist. Matthew 11:14 states "And if you will receive it, this John the Baptist) is Elias (Elijah) which was for to come." Matthew 17: 12-13: "But I say unto you, that Elias is come already, and they knew him not. . .then the disciples understood that he spoke unto them of John the Baptist."

Now this is surely the strongest "proof" of reincarnation that anyone can find in the Bible. But let us not forget to read all the Bible says about it. You wouldn't expect to understand all of any other book by reading two sentences. Why do you think you can do this only in the case of the Bible?

It had been prophesied by Malachi and Joel that Elijah would return to prepare the way for the Messiah. The Jews who do not now, and never did, believe in reincarnation, took this to mean that Elijah would be resurrected from the dead in order to do this. There are literally hundreds of verses which plainly teach the doctrine of resurrection; Jesus Himself plainly said that the hour is coming when all that "are in the graves shall come forth. . .to resurrection. . .(not that "all shall reincarnate or all those spirits awaiting reincarnation would be reincarnated - but all in the graves - the same bodies that were buried - would be resurrected).. The fact that Jesus Himself preached resurrection, alone disproves reincarnation.

Now with this in mind, we can see that the Jews who were looking for Elijah expected him to be resurrected, not reincarnated. Jesus, however, was trying to explain that this particular prophecy was with a spiritual meaning; rather than literal. We can see this, when we look at John 1:21, where John was plainly asked "are you Elias?" and he plainly replied "I am not"! Now we seem to have a contradiction, Jesus said, "This (John) is Elias", and John himself said, "I am not Elias!" But the whole thing becomes clear when we read Luke 1:17, where the angel told the parents of the person we just mentioned, John the Baptist, that he (John) "shall go before Him (Christ) in the spirit and power of Elias. . .to make ready a people prepared for the Lord."

There you have it! The reference is to one coming in the same attitude, with the same spirit (God's Holy Spirit), and the same power (the power of the Holy Spirit), and teaching in the same manner. It does not refer to either reincarnation or resurrection. Many of you could understand the Bible a lot better if you would purchase a good "concordance" and run references on these verses, and thus get all the Bible says on a subject, and begin to let the Bible interpret itself, instead of putting some "mystical" interpretation on it, based on your own faulty imagination or "intuition", or the "interpretation" of some so-called "great master" from the Orient.

All the other verses which claim support of reincarnation are even more easily explained than this: I purposely used as an example the one which is most commonly used and which is most easily misunderstood. Anyone with questions about the other verses, please write to me personally at my home address.

Now - outside of the Bible - what evidence is there to support reincarnation? The only "evidence" which I have ever seen, is that of people who "remember past lives". Perhaps the best known example of this was "Bridey Murphy", but there are other examples - notably, in India - which furnish much more conclusive evidence that indeed someone or something is remembering a "past life." Once again, however, this is not conclusive evidence for reincarnation, but could be taken several different ways. Some have suggested "ancestral memory" as explanation for it. This seems partly unsatisfactory, mainly on the basis that some cases of "past life" rememberance do not involve any ancestral relationship at all. But spirit-possession or spirit-obsession could explain every case completely. Even Dr. Wickland brings this out in his "30 Years Among The Dead", but he makes the mistake of assuming that the spirits involved are spirits of human beings who have departed this life. The Bible reveals that "the dead know not anything - a man dies - and then his sons come to honor, and he knoweth it not. . .in that very day his thought perish", he no longer has any knowledge of anything which occurs "under the sun." That is, anything which occurs on earth, cannot be known by the dead. But, there are "demons" - "fallen angels". These are spirit entities, ordinarily invisible to us, who have, according to the Bible, been living on this earth since before man was ever created. They do know what goes on "under the sun", and they can know details of lives of humans who have lived in the past, and they can impress the knowledge - the "memory" of such details - on the minds of living persons, causing them to think that they themselves are "remembering a past life". The purpose? To foster the false, pagan doctrine of reincarnation! I submit that this explanation is far more consistent and satisfactory than reincarnation, because: (1) it is in accord with the Bible; reincarnation is not. And (2) if we have all lived lives in the past, and if any of us should be able to remember these lives, then all of us should be able to do the same thing! The fact that we cannot, and that only a small fraction of a percent of the population has any such "memory", is in itself an evidence against reincarnation, rather than for it. For this shows that some abnormal condition is at work, and not a normal human memory. I repeat, if it were a normal human memory of a past life, then all of us could remember past lives. When it is pointed out to reincarnationists that reincarnation would make sense only if we could remember past lives and thus profit by mistakes, they reply that "this is not the way it works". Yet they turn right around and rely on a few cases of supposed past life memory, as their strongest proof of reincarnation. This again, is an argument in a circle, and no proof at all. If this is an example of the "scientific proof" which Ah-Mena claims to back up (his, her) theories. I think we have little to fear!

Now the next subject. Ah-Mena states that the Creator is giving a message to the world through "almost every main Mystery School and Lodge." Well does the Creator work in this way? These "mystery schools" are by their own admission a continuance or revival of the ancient Mystery schools of Egypt and Babylon. Both Egypt and Babylon are used throughout the Bible as the very types of wickedness and sin. Israel was delivered from Egyptian bondage, and this is used in the New Testament as a type of the Christian's deliverance from the bondage of sin. It was this "mystery religion" which started in Babylon under Nimrod and Semiramis, and which later became centered in Egypt, which was the beginning of the idolatrous system which so often led Israel astray in Old Testament times, and brought God's punishment upon them. (See "The Two Babylons", by Alexander Hislop). I do not vouch for the truth of every idea expressed in this book; it is written from a somewhat prejudiced viewpoint.

But the section dealing with the origin and spread of the Mystery Religion in ancient times is thoroughly documented and contains a wealth of information without which no one can understand the true nature and meaning of ancient pagan religions.

What does the New Testament say about these "mystery schools"? Speaking of the very teaching of the Anti-Christ which would finally culminate in the "man of sin," Paul says," The mystery of iniquity doth already work. . ." (II Thessalonians 2:7). In Revelation 17, a great false religion is described as having on her forehead written "Mystery, Babylon the Great. . .", in other words, a religion teaching the Babylonian mysteries. In the first century, A.D., the center of this religion had shifted to the ancient city of Pergamos, and precisely at this time we find Christ the Revelator causing John to write to the Christian Church which was at Pergamos, "I know thy works, and where thou dwellest, even where Satan's seat is . . . where Satan dwelleth (Rev. 2:13). Language could hardly be plainer! In other words, the "mystery schools", instead of teaching the Creator's message of one true religion, are actually teaching the very religion of Satan the devil! Why is it, that so many in this age, are turning away from Christianity in all its forms, and back to the ancient "mystery religions" of Egypt and Babylon, to black magic, spiritism, and various forms of occultism? I believe that this too, was prophesied, in a prophecy which specifically pinpoints certain identifying marks of the occult religions. I Timothy 4:1-3: "Now the (Holy) Spirit speaks plainly, that in the latter times some shall depart from the faith, giving heed to seducing spirits (spiritism and spirit contactees) and doctrines of demons (occult mysteries), speaking lies in hypocrisy, having their conscience seared with a hot iron, forbidding to marry (the anti-sex teachings of "super-pure" occultists), and commanding to abstain from meats (compulsory vegetarianism) which God has created to be received with thanksgiving."

Every doctrine here can be found in the occult "mystery schools". It cannot be found anywhere else! Let me urge all readers to consider carefully, that your creator forbids you to dabble in these Satanic mysteries!

Next the writer states: "If we are to believe one thing in the Bible, it is that it is now time for the pyramid to begin witnessing." Now this is amazing! The way that statement is worded, you would think that both the "fact" of a "pyramid witnessing", and the time of such "witnessing", is as plain as can be in the Bible! This is the one thing, supposedly, if any, which we can believe! The fact is, the Bible nowhere even mentions a "pyramid witnessing"; and of course, not the time of such a witnessing. Isaiah 19: 19-20, which Ah-Mena interprets it to mean pyramid, but this is purely opinion, with no basis whatever for assuming that her interpretation is correct. An Altar is a place of worship. The pyramids were, first and foremost, tombs or burial places of the Pharoahs. There is a difference. And as for the time of the altar's being a "sign and witness", read the connected verses in Isaiah 19.

Verse 17, "In that day shall Judah be a terror unto Egypt."

Verse 18, "In that day shall 5 cities in Egypt speak the language of Canaan."

Verse 22, "The Lord shall smite Egypt."

Verse 23, "In that day shall there be a highway out of Egypt to Assyria."

Verse 24, "In that day shall Israel be a third with Egypt and with Assyria, even a blessing in the midst of the land."

I submit that:

(1) The term "in that day" refers to the same time in all these verses.

(2) The things listed in verses 17,18,22,23,24, are not happening now.

(3) Therefore, the things in verse 19,20 are not happening now either!

"Ah-Mena" has again given us a classic example of taking verses out of context and mis-interpreting them. Her interpretations are purely fictitious imagination!

The "belief of modern scholars" that there were "two Moses" is even more ridiculous. The text of the Old Testament, which was accurately preserved by the Jewish scribes, knows only one Moses. In Exodus 2:21, we find the Moses who was getting ready to lead Israel out of Egypt, married to Zipporah. In Exodus 18:2, the Moses who led the people to Mt. Sinai (next chapter) was still married to Zipporah. Quite a coincidence, if two different Moses' had the same wife! And Yahweh was the same "One God" which first revealed Himself to Moses. God has many names, which simply reveal different attributes. One name was "the Eternal", meaning the ever-living one. Another name is El-Shaddai, meaning the Almighty. Still another is Yahweh-Ropha, meaning God-Healer. And there were several others. The different names reflect different attributes of the same God, not different gods. And the idea of a "Jealous, Vengeful, Tribal God" shows a complete ignorance of the meaning of the Bible. God created all people, He loves all people, and He will yet save all people. But He is the God of Israel in this sense: He chose Israel, they were His chosen people. But chosen for what? For special favors? NO! They were chosen to do a job, and to be used as an example before all the world! God demanded obedience to His Laws from them, and He punished them when they were disobedient. This was all done in love, to teach lessons to them and "to us who live now". Because it is only through love for God and man (summary of the Law) that we find peace, happiness, and (eventually) eternal life. God used Israel also, to execute judgment on a few very corrupt nations. God had intervened to protect these same nations years earlier, because "their iniquity was not yet full." But when their iniquity became "full", when so corrupt that they could no longer have any happiness in this life, God in love destroyed them, in order that He might later save them and give them Eternal Life. The destruction was the lesson they needed to bring them to their senses. Exodus 34:6-7 (still on the mount) show what kind of God this so-called "second Moses" worshipped. ". . .the Lord, the Lord, a merciful and gracious God, slow to anger, and rich in kindness and fidelity, continuing his kindness for a thousand generations, and forgiving wickedness and crime and sin; yet not declaring the guilty guiltless. . ."

Does this sound like a vengeful, hateful, tribal god? These verses alone prove the scholars wrong! David worshipped this same merciful God, he didn't "discover" a new one in Zion. Many modern scholars, and modern occultists, are ignorant of what the Bible says of God's ways and plans, so they twist the Bible around anyway they please, to suit their own imagination.

Beginning the last paragraph on page 15, the author gives a lot of names of gods and goddesses, etc. I will just point out in passing that Hislop in his Two Babylons proves this "Holy Trinity" of Father, Mother, and Son to be none other than Nimrod, Semiramis, and Semiramis's illegitimate son Ninus or Tammuz. This is the "son" who was called "Osiris" in Egypt, and they were known by various names elsewhere! This was not the God of Israel! Not the Creator! It is true that Israel did at times resort to worship of this unholy Trinity. But God always punished them for it!

There are many errors beginning about the middle of page 16 and on to the middle of page 17. I will try to briefly comment on each, without quoting from the article, as you can read this for yourself.

(1) Christianity places all the powers and attributes of the Son (of God) in Jesus, because he was, the Son of God, the "word" or "spokesman" made flesh. This same Jesus was the One who created the Universe (John 1, Hebrews 1).

(2) Christianity does not remember the "adept perfect son" "initiation of the mystery schools", nor the "seven mysteries", because these things were never part of Christianity, but were rather, as we have explained before, Satan's religion.

(3) The form of "Pantheism" which Ah-Mena presents is also, in error. The world is separate from its creator. He is not diffused inside the universe, but is wholly independent of and separate from it.

(4) We were not "there in the beginning" with Christ, nor does our Christian Bible make any such statement. Rather, here is what the Bible does say: Gen. 1:26, man was created after the earth, and all the plants and animals, were already created. Gen. 2:5, "after every plant. . .was in the earth. . .there (still) was not (yet) a man to till the ground." Job. 38:4, God said to Job (a man): "Where were you when I laid the foundations of the earth? Speak, if you have understanding!" And Job could not speak and declare,

Melchizedek Truth Principles

From The Ancient Mystical White Brotherhood thru Frater Achad

Just as you find the laws of mathematics and the sciences are specific and provable, you find that the laws governing the mental and spiritual realms are also specific, provable and usable.

SPIRITUALLY YOU ARE A GIANT, is what the Ancient Mystical White Brotherhood presents in this book in simplified, workable teachings, if you are willing to study and seriously work at applying these TRUTHS.

because he had not been in existence then!

(5) It may be that many Christians have wandered from their earliest truth; but at the same time it is well to remember that Christ promised to be with His followers (Christians) all days, even to the end of the world. He also promised that the Holy Spirit would guide them into all truth. Now Christ proved the truth of His promise by rising from the dead, so it is not sensible to say that His promise failed! The truth then, always has been, and is today, to be found among Christians, and not among occultists who persist in preserving the "mysteries of inquity". The Bible has been written, preserved, and translated by the Christian Church. It is not left to modern "Initiates" to unlock its messages.

(6) Jesus came to "save sinners" and to give "His life a ransom for many". Not to teach man to "redeem himself".

In closing with the first article, we agree that religion should be one and truthful; but this unity and truth is not found in occultism.

Now for the second article "Mrs. Lauer's Prophecy", actually, most of the points in this article have already been discussed in the commentary written on the first article, but there are a few comments which should be made. The whole thing again is based on Pyramidology, which is, as we have already pointed out, totally foreign to the Bible. It might be pointed out here, that dozens of people have interpreted certain elements in the design of the great pyramid as having prophetic significance of some certain events. Some have set dates for the world wars, the return of Christ, the end of the world, etc. And every one has been utterly wrong, as proven by the failure of his "prophecies" to materialize.

Further, the Bible knows nothing of a temple of God at Zion (though Zion is often used prophetically in reference to the Church), but the only literal temple was built originally by Solomon, after David was "already dead", and it was at Jerusalem, not Zion, and it was in this temple that God placed His presence and a manifestation of His glory. And it is certain that the worship of the true God was not present in any part of Palestine before Israel's conquest, otherwise God would never have used Israel to destroy or drive out the other inhabitants. The true worship may have existed there much, much earlier, but not at that time. David was brought up in the worship of the most High, he didn't have to be converted by the Pagan Jebusite priesthood. They did not worship the Most High anyhow, but were idolators.

The author identifies the Father's Only Begotton Son with light. Then states that both religionists and scientists recognize this primal creating Light as the source of Creation. The Bible on the other hand, states that God, in whom was life, created light along with all other portions of the physical universe. (Gen. 1:3-4). Life always came first, then light. The life which was in Christ gave light to every man, and not vice versa (John 1:4). The author's theory is just the reverse of the truth, and is just Pantheism restated.

Mr. Erdmann has already commented on this - I would like to add one point. "Ah-Mena" states that it was a Scientific Discovery which opened Daniel's end-time prophecy, and that this opens the door for correct understanding and revelation of all prophecy "through the pyramid form and its accompanying Wisdom".

What does the Bible say about this? Daniel says "none of the wicked shall understand, but the wise shall understand". Psalms says, "the fear of the Eternal is the beginning of Wisdom, a good understanding have all they that do His Commandments." True wisdom, therefore, comes not from pyramids or scientific discoveries, but from the Spirit of God which He will give only to those who are willing to obey Him. It is the "way of life" which is important to God - the keeping of His Commandments which teach us to Love God with all our heart and to love our neighbor as ourself - this love which Paul said teaches or edifies; But Paul also said that "knowledge puffeth up". When one makes such a big issue of "pyramid wisdom", the "shape and bounds of the universe", etc., he only succeeds in puffing himself up and not improving his life at all. . .this kind of "wisdom" God does not care for. He wants us to amend our lives; not to vainly puff ourselves up with "secret wisdom".

The question then, of whether the universe is egg-shaped or not, is of interest only as a matter of abstract scientific knowledge, but has nothing to do with our relationship to God or with True Wisdom. The Bible account of Creation is very brief, showing that it is not necessary to know all the details in order to please God. The main point is that God is creator and sustainer of the Universe, and that man owes Him worship and obedience. It is certainly not wrong to learn about other details of the universe, but it is wrong to make it a matter of religion. Besides, even though our scientists may "tell us" that our universe is shaped like an egg, the fact is that they do not as yet know, or have any way to know, what the shape or limits of the universe are. And it is deception to pretend that they do, and that such is a "scientific fact".

The bit about identifying the "Father, Mother, and Son-Sun" with various parts of the "Egg-universe" again is just false pantheism, and a return to the ridiculous, fairy-tale type creation concepts of the ancient pagan Babylonians and Egyptians. They had a very similar personification of light, darkness, chaos, etc. They called these inanimate conditions their "gods", and, as the Bible says, "worshipped the creation more than the creator." Why do foolish people today wish to return to such abysmal ignorance? It is a fact which all should consider, that even modern scientists who may (in some cases) even be trying to discredit belief in God and creation, never even consider the creation-myths of the ancient gentile nations when discussing the matter! The only question which concerns them is whether their atheistic theories or the Bible is correct! The other creation stories are not even considered! Yet some occultists today will return to such foolishness, believing they have discovered some great "secret wisdom"!

Now just a brief word about "Thirty Years among the Dead", Chapters IX and X. We have already said that the "spirits" referred to here are not spirits of human beings but demon spirits. Spiritists can never prove that these "spirits" are departed humans, for the same reason that reincarnationists cannot prove reincarnation. The work of demons explains both phenomena perfectly, and at the same time is consistent with the Bible and with Christianity. The fact that these spirits deny salvation (page 27), and refer to the Christian religion as a "hoodoo" (page 28) proves they are demons. Besides, even if one insists on believing that such spirits are really dead humans, the Bible forbids having recourse to "familiar spirits" (of any kind) and forbids the living to seek information "from the dead". Should not a people seek unto its God? In connection with this, we could refer back to the other side told in Ecc. 9:5. ". . .the dead know not anything!", supporting the over-all view.

In conclusion, occultists have the same right as anyone else to hold opinions and to express them. But to claim, as "Ah-Mena" does, that such views are "proven by science" and are "taught in the Bible" is utter falsehood and utter deception!

We urge readers to "have no fellowship with these unfruitful works of darkness", but rather to "seek unto your God!"

OVER THE HORIZON

by

Rev. Wayne Trubshaw

LOOKING BACK upon the history of this planet we find the ruins of many civilizations far advanced beyond our own, with buildings and edifices that we are at a loss to explain the erection thereof.

We also find the record of governments where the profit system and all its seeming evils did not exist, and the problem of physical survival not one causing emotional trauma and dementia praecox. With all these causes nonexistent, that shut down and lower so tremendously the percentage rate of mental efficiency, we wonder what force did arise demanding a cessation of life being expressed under these sublimely utopian conditions.

Today we are worshiping the sayings of wise men that have been handed down for perhaps 30,000 or more years. The Sphinx is estimated as being that age and it symbolizes basic knowledge woven parabolically in our Bible, with no expounder on the platform of organized belief today, knowing of the nature or able to explain this rudiamentary ancient treatise.

Present humanity might be pictured as crawling very slowly over a path of illusion and stupidity paralleling difficulties overcome 30, 40, 50, thousand years ago by civilizations swallowed up in the fog of ancient time.

To what end this constant striving in the field of repetition? We have scientific warriors out at the forefront of progress, such as Prof. A. L. Kitselman* and Dr.

Kridler,* endeavoring to clear a path of great antiquity, buried deep under idiocy and superstition. Slowly do we accept the disturbance in this pattern of debris that is caused by the removal of some limb or rock familiar and expected in our viewing.

Is there an ambiguous path of progress that demands the lessons of experience be learned with a full thoroughness? What is different today than the far off yesterday so nearly obliterated by time? Could it be that what was once known by a select number must now act as the germinating factor that leavens the whole lump?

The Library of Alexandria, destroyed by the Romans, is credited with having 700,000 volumes of learned material, yet the masses were so uninformed that possibly the greatest hoax in all history was perpetrated upon them easily, and with a complete success. Even today this Gibraltar of imaginary figment reigns supreme in the social structure of our mental status.

The printed word, though blue penciled and hamstrung to some extent, is a marching giant, a new figure in this arena of environmental historical background. What will it do with the myths and allegories of the past? Will the truth out and be applicable to everyone that reads?

Secrets are being revealed, one by one, vital secrets pertaining to life. Thoughts, attitudes, even the mearest of irritations are being screened, changed or eradicated, for what? To improve physical health, to slow down the aging process.*

Assuming, according to the scientists, that man is similar to an electrical battery, but that his conduits are not in the best condition, let us suppose these conduits are corrected, not in the manner of the past where a small percentage succeeded, but where a large percent are informed walk upon a clear path. What would happen?

Would the mass power of these right way, positive thinkers be of enough voltage to set in motion, as it were, the big motor that is the Real Self, the God self?

Eternal life? No, not as man is today. That was curtly rejected by one of our publishers who said it did not appeal to him the trimming of the same toenails forever.

The ancient was super able in many respects; perhaps he had a better way of traveling than automotive transport. Possibly he used teleportation, having little use for any kind of mechanical conveyance. But where is this accomplished man of the past? Whatever his attainments, eternal life was certainly not one of them, or he would be here today.

Medical scientists, such as Dr. Carrol, have stated the body is potentially immortal, is so constructed to live forever, and that age and death are functionings caused by mental and emotional distress.

Comparatively, we in this age, have no mystical abilities and our physical house is more likened unto a loaded wheelbarrow we strenuously push until it is aged and worn beyond any more activity.

Failure after failure after failure seems a most dreary record, but does this prove the impossibility of success? What is it that stands out definitely in the picture? A few teachers, that could not or did not get the required amount of possible energy volume from the masses.

"Love ye one another" may have another meaning of scientific import. Change it into, Have no ill feeling, but seek mental harmony and cooperation from others. Talking of war, playing with guns, recognizing death in comedy and tragedy continually, fearing bombs - THINKING opposite to the law that can liberate, manifests into one effect - DISEASE-DEATH.

Age is a disease. Not expressing abilities even far beyond so-called genius can be classified as disease. We are halt, lame, and blind, in an atmosphere of vibratory deadliness because we live in and are limited by mental emotional forces constantly being generated by the way the millions think and feel.

Evidently the ancients knew something of the pattern of action that must be followed in order to make man a new being. There was a first flock and a second flock. The second section of humanity included all, for, as the script reads, "ALL shall be taught of God."

Possibly the first section is composed of those who read and think, practising correct thought toward others and esteeming their own potential ability with the highest valuation. The volume of positive, correcting, and healing POWER, kinetically liberated would function upon the remaining masses, and every person would begin to change and become aware of a new self, powerful and supreme.

What is our circle of limitation? What is our level of awareness? Evidently we do not think BIG enough nor realize our possibilities. We strive and strain for the praise of others but seem totally unaware of the far more vitally important, the ability to praise ourselves.

The shortcuts of the ancients, and also some of the moderns, though basic, are not fully and all inclusively scientific. If we break down the wall of our accepted limitations placed upon ourselves and fellow humanity, would this liberated thought force start a germination of seeds belonging to a new order and a truly free individual? Has superstitious thought served its purpose of conditioning and is now ready to be replaced by a science clearly perceived and realized as a sure system of accomplishment?

Could this "hour of the world's greatest need" be a place of transition, a finish of the old and a beginning of the new? Psychiatry is heralding a new man and a new day. Surely it is time to heed these revelations and promises based upon a field of new facts that shine an energizing light upon a hope that has either been long dead or far away in a realm of imagined illusion.

What is at first reasonable becomes in the final analysis unreasonable. There must be a fact more vital, more personal, with an effect of direct, intense, physical experience, added to the field of awareness, before an age-old pattern of attitude can be changed.

Blind striving for a protection against an obvious foe outside the body, can be a hoodwink to a greater enemy WITHIN that kills with a certainty, whereas the other, in all probability, will never come near to harm in any way, ESPECIALLY, if the inner mental state becomes clear of any negative emotional aspect, but broadcasts by polarity affinity a clean harmonious state into the vulnerable unconsciousness of those less positive and consequently receptive to that which has been energized into what is truly the most beneficial.

Cure the war inside the flesh caused by emotional dislike and opposition to the environment and the body will change, the entity will change and become an improving influence upon adverse conditions.

The Divine Law will become an active Ruler making a fact of the statement, "Ye shall have no fear of the terror by night, nor for the arrow that flies by day."

What has been rejected as religion will be accepted as a practical and demonstrable science. Let us wage a war of conquest where the winning causes a liberation and not a subjugation, not a lowering to an inferior state.

Let the magic of praise and promise supplant that evil of complaint and condemnation. The history is that hate poured into physical contest merely lays the foundation for another repetition of the same.

Nothing is more dangerous to our future than the war clouds gathering today. A counter-offensive against the war system of emotional immaturity is the only sensible procedure. Millions are being spent for publicity that is of little moment. What is needed is a book campaign. Our best books with the psychiatric truths broadcast for all who can read. Trained lecturers teaching the art of mental-emotional health to those whose minds if left to the animal influences of the past, will shoulder a gun in the next conflict. Mental Science is the key to a better future. A key we must use for our own security, and for a world-wide harmony, void of threat and sudden destructive eruption.

We have the education and the knowledge it takes. The question is, Are we going to use these vital assets or just drift along in the maze of increasing discords until something blows and we either stir our stamps or else?

ANALYZATION

The building of the character, Jesus, the Christ, might easily be considered the greatest hoax known to man of this age. At the Nicean Council, 325 A.D., the two Roman Gods, Hesus and Kristos were combined to make a new God for the masses to worship. The works of Apollonius of Tyana and his historical background were evidently employed very cleverly in shaping a miracle being with super-human powers.

In psychiatric processing it is found that when a false concept is revealed, that has been implanted in the so-called subconscious area, new energy is released with an increase in mental perception and an improvement in awareness. Somehow the conscious part of ourselves must be shaped truly to conform with the higher self that expresses no deception of any kind.

De-hynotization is caused by knowledge and perception. A person ceases doing useless things or believing mentally and physically weakening falsehoods when the truth is revealed and understood. A pattern for this release is shown by an experiment in hypnotherapy. The subject is given a post-hypnotic suggestion, such as, 'when the hypnotists touches his necktie, the subject will take off his coat; with his conscious mind giving some excuse for why this is being done, explaining the reason in the first instance by saying, "It certainly is warm in here," or something similar. The second act he may alibi by stating, "My it is getting cold," or, "I feel a draft from somewhere," but when told why he is doing these things he immediately stops, and is no longer affected by the trigger actions that impelled other response actions on his part.

A character weakness set up by parental care and protection is extended into later life by the supplanting of an outside God whereby the dependencies placed upon the parents are now shifted to an imagined being who will give all the gifts and perform all the miracles desired. This outer imagination, which might be termed the major of all "devil circuits," sets up the inferiority complex and the psychotic undevelopment that shuts down, or shuts off the advance to the divine and creative action of bringing out the potential perfection.

Once it is thoroughly understood that man has the power to redeem himself and that no outside force is going to do this work for him, then only will he proceed from the state of inertia he has been in for so long, and begin to release the inner abilities that potentially await expression.

The parent complex that holds one to a state of immaturity and mental inefficiency can be broken by revealing this false God illusion, and applying with common sense the truth of the ancient statements that were placed in a mouth outside of The Self, merely in order to promote the mercenary aims of a Roman Emperor, now long dead. There is no longer a need for a subjugation of people into a sub-normal emotional condition in order to rule them. Violent rebellion is not a condition to be feared from an educated populus. Only the unschooled and animalistic seek to correct by violence and destruction.

Too many patterns that are false, built into the outer consciousness, causes a leakage of energy that is greatly needed for emotional balance. We are faced with a problem of either being more honest and just, or reap the reward of a short circuit with a law that respects neither man nor nation.

Here is an opportunity to think, act, and harmonize with a beam of light that is regenerative, Divine, and of a higher world entirely.

Our youth especially, sense with an extra sense perception that we are falling dangerously behind a movement of progress, invisible but invincible. Possibly their lack of esteem for the material has a sound foundation. And, possibly, our clutch on the material too strong, and our grasp of the potential too feeble.

An opportunity, yes, but how many most ponderous reasons for not seeing the Light can be expounded?

PROJECT MOHOLE

By Alex Saunders

HOW MANY readers of SEARCH have heard of the two words that make up the title of this article - Project Mohole? I, for one, was aware of it only hazily. Then I read an item in The Telegram for January 25, 1964. It was an Our World column by J. Tuzo Wilson, titled "A Hole In The Ocean Floor". At once my interest was aroused, rekindled. Further research brought more light on the subject.

A discovery was made in (Wilson says 1904 - another source puts it at 1909) by a Yugoslavian seismologist, Andrija Mohorovicic, that the earth has a crust a few miles thick, a thickness which was later found to be about twenty miles under continents, and only three miles under the deep oceans.

The deepest hole so far drilled has never exceeded five miles. So, if science wanted answers regarding the nature of the solid material below the earth's crust, the drilling would have to occur on the sea floor. Thus was born Project Mohole, named after Mohorovicic.

A group of scientists became interested, but in an amused sort of way. They called their meetings the American Miscellaneous Society which was largely for entertainment where - as Wilson wrote - "They tried to outdo each other in proposing imaginative schemes that did not fit into the regular frame-work of existing science."

This drilling scheme which at first sounded so outrageous, later took on more serious tones. It was, after all, a most intriguing thought.

The core of the earth is believed to be of nickel-iron substance which has continued to cool and contract since this globe's birth. Next comes the encircling mantle, a layer of still-molten rock. Under tremendous pressure it twists, bends, and flows in a viscous tide. The upper layer, or crust, is never-endingly shifting. It moves, reshaping itself, sometimes imperceptibly, other times with a sudden violence that produces earthquakes or volcanic eruptions.

In the rocks of the Matterhorn are to be found the remains of molluscs. This, please note, is in an area thousands of feet higher than the sea in which they once lived.

At one time the continents were part of a single land mass which, when broken apart, were carried upon the tides of the mantle to their present locations. So goes the popular belief of many scientists.

Project Mohole, when it appeared on the scene, caused a number of questions to be raised. How could a hole in the ocean's floor be drilled? Could a ship be anchored in water several miles deep? If so, would the ship's rolling break the drill rods? And how could the hole be rediscovered after the withdrawl of the rods to change the drill-bits?

To find the answers, one would have to consult. . .whom? Well, how about certain oil companies that had drilled holes from barges in close-to-shore water?

This was done in 1961 and, encouraged by their experience, a decision was made. Project Mohole would be tried in two stages. The first stage was to experimentally drill short holes in deep water with no attempt at changing drilling bits. Second stage: the major project itself.

So an existing drilling barge was found. Specially equipped, it was taken in water south-west of Los Angeles where several special buoys - unlike the barge - were anchored to a depth of twelve thousand feet. Four great outboard motors were used to keep the barge near the buoys which in turn were watched by instruments like radar and asdic or sonar position-finders. Next came the lowering of the drill-rods and, finally, the drilling commenced.

When the drill-bits wore out at about six hundred feet, they were pulled up and a new bit was installed.

Further drilling completed another hole of six hundred foot depth. This was not a continuation of the first hole to extend it to a depth of twelve hundred feet. This could not be done because no method had been devised of entering the old hole. But, then, the $7,500,000 test was merely a limited one, a huge success as far as it went. What was needed now were three things.

(1) A large vessel (2) longer drill rods (3) a workable method of changing bits to re-enter the original drill-hole.

Technically, the undertaking appears possible. The biggest problem, of course, is the inevitable one of financial backing, for estimates to do the job have been quoted up to sixty-seven million dollars.

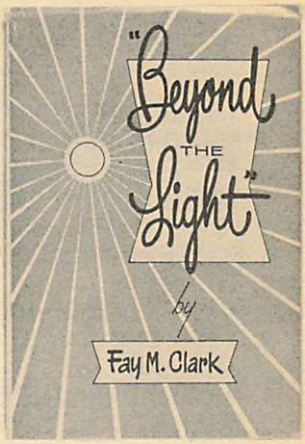

"And" - as J. Tuzo Wilson ends his column - "though billions are available for space research, this sum has not been authorized."

HEALING STONES
by
DORIS M. HODGES

THROUGHOUT the ages, man has found certain stones and other substances that appear to be helpful in restoring physical health as well as aiding mental development.

In the past very few writers have attempted to present an intelligent discussion on this subject. The author, Doris Hodges, has spent much time and study on it and in "Healing Stones" gives the reader an intelligent presentation of these aids. The thirteen chapters cover Amber, Emerald, Amethyst, Ruby, Turquoise, Moonstone, Opal, Jade, Pearl, Diamond, Jet, Topaz, Lazurite, Azurite, Malachite and Chrysocolla.

BEYOND THE LIGHT
by
FAY CLARK

FOR CENTURIES the Indians of the west and Mexico have worshipped the peyote cactus because the eating of its buttons or roots seems to draw aside the veil and allow the mind of man to touch a higher level of KNOWING.

Mr. Clark tested the effects of peyote and experienced an amazing expansion of consciousness. Directing this out-reaching with self-suggestion, he was able to look backward into the past incarnations of his friends and to see how the human being grows and progresses, or stumbles and loses ground. He looked for the ultimate truth in religions and saw the great and living truths separate themselves from the mass of dogmas and become so simple and self-apparent that he could describe them in history-making sentences. In no other book has the full range of sensations produced by peyote been so graphically portrayed. This book opens new windows of insight and experience. No sincere searcher can afford to overlook it.

THE BEGINNING OF MATTER

by

Yada Di Shi'iti

Yada: "To begin at the beginning sounds good, but where life is concerned in what is called the 'matter world,' it is almost useless to try to find words to tell of a condition that existed long before what is called 'the birth of form.' The basic nature of existence as you know it, is called 'times.' Before the form was, there was a condition we may call 'time.'"

Aud.: "Singular."

Yada: "Yes. The reason I am using the plural expression 'times' is because the nature of matter is what may be called 'atomic.' It is of little use to say that time is vast, because the word becomes meaningless when you relate it to 'times.'

"A few nights ago I had the pleasure of watching, through this man's eyes, the story of the scientific theory regarding 'times.' Here there was much wondering as to why time could not be created, or gone back to, by reducing time into divided fractions, and fractions of fractions. Were it possible to get absolute time, it would mean that even time itself was a creation."

Aud.: "Question, Yada?"

Yada: "Yes."

Aud.: "Doesn't time begin with the first motion?"

Yada: "Yes. You see, this first motion is the first fraction. It is not a different matter, and this is why your scientists make a big mistake in talking about time and trying to divide it to its utmost one-ness, because time started by one motion - the first motion."

Aud.: "Could we say that the first motion created positive and negative, and so time?"

Yada: "Yes."

Aud.: "That would be the trinity?"

Yada: "There comes to my mind the question, 'Out of what did matter come?' The only answer I know is 'Motion.' The matter world was created by three different kinds of motion which created what may be called triangular, or three-dimensional matter.

"Matter does not exist in something. Matter, so far as the matter-world goes, exists in itself, for, along with what you call 'matter,' three-dimensional space was created.

"I think your scientists say the matter-world is both limited and limitless, because where matter is, that which is space is, but basically space is a thing of consciousness, of consciousness that is making reference to itself. This is very hard to think of. This is why you do not yet have, in your world, words that can give a true picture of the composition of space, or a nearly true picture of the nature of life. The moment you try this you are making different sounds and, where creation is concerned, sound is working to create or to keep matter creating itself. By 'sound' I do not mean that which is heard by the sense of vibration, but what other expression can we use?"

Aud.: "Vibration?"

Yada: "Vibration is the result of motion. Motion then becomes matter - three-dimensional matter. In your Christian Bible it says, 'In the beginning was the word, and the word was with God, and the word was God.' Yes?"

Aud.: "Yes, that's right."

Yada: "The word 'sound.' Sound is motion, is matter. Now I wish for you at any moment, whatever I say that is not to your understanding and you have ideas of your own about it, you correct me, please."

Aud.: "Yada, I do not mean this to correct you, but there are people who think that sound exists only in relationship to it being heard."

Yada: "Yes, and this is true, but the sound I speak of has nothing to do with what the ear can hear, but with octaves much higher."

Aud.: "Could this be classified as being 'ultrasonic?' "

Yada: "Yes, and a little bit more, but you can use it so as not to get too fancy with words."

Aud.: "Yada, so likewise with motion is something again of which we, through our senses, seem to have an idea. To us, of course, we are aware of motion as a creation only inasmuch as we can sense it or can measure it. But you are talking about matter at the beginning as motion, or as matter beyond that which we can measure."

PRYING INTO THE UNKNOWN

By

Will Carson

and

Jeannie Joy

THE following story has been put together from several rather disconnected letters we've received over a period of several months from a correspondent who, for clear reasons, doesn't want his identity known. We'll directly quote only a small portion of one letter from this anonymous person -

"You like to pry into the unknown, you can get in trouble that way Mr. Carson, as I'm going to tell you something about what happened to me for prying where I guess I had no business. I can't let you know my name but we have a mutual friend and he showed me your stories. I would like to have your editor print what happened to me as some people believe there are super beings who live among us from some other world and really run things but I have been leery about writing to any magazine because maybe they are really run by super beings too and would know who I am. That's why I say you can get in trouble but you use your own judgment. . ." (sic)

We are using our own judgment in submitting the ensuing account to SEARCH - which we don't think is "really run by super beings"! How much authenticity there is in it - who or what sort of person the correspondant is - can only be guessed, and we leave it to the readers.

THE STRANGE MAN

I went to work for the _____ Corp. on January 4, 1961, for the building maintenance department, which means I was an assistant janitor. It is one of the world's largest corporations with holdings in many different countries and this was their main headquarters where the executive suites are located. Even getting on as a janitor took a lot of pull and it was through a friend of mine who had been with them for seven years that I got the job. This branch is in a state that has right-to-work laws and as a policy never hires union members, even though it paid more money than I'd ever made before.

The main thing I had to learn, my friend told me, was to just do my job, keep my nose clean and don't ask questions. And I'd do best just to keep out of "Old Hatchet-Face's" way - who was head of the maintenance department.

That suited me fine and by following his advice everything went along alright for awhile. I was there for over a year and had been promoted to some of the cleaner jobs before I first started getting the idea that something was screwy about the whole set-up. It was some smaller things at first that I thought could have just been my imagination. But then there was the day I saw the strange man for the first time, and from then on it was never the same working there for me.

Although I was assigned to the wash rooms upstairs where the executive suites - and the "Forbidden Room" - were located, it was in the basement where the Wheels parked their cars that I first saw him.

I really had no business being down there in the first place. It was part of The Rules that no employee ever went anywhere but in his own assigned area. But by then I felt I knew the place and was smart enough to get away with things that others couldn't. I had already explored certain off-my-own-limits areas and not got caught, and I was already getting snoopy about those strange things that seemed to be going on in the place and I thought I might get a line on - who knows? Maybe something un-American. I knew the Wheels drove into the basement and took a private elevator up to their suites, so no one ever saw any of them. But I wanted to get a gander at what these characters looked like, some of whose names were in the news a lot. So I "borrowed" the keys from the clean-up man who did the garage while he was taking a break and I went down there. Just as I opened the door to the stairway, I saw a big black Limousine pulling in, and no one was looking my way, so I stepped out quickly and ducked behind a pillar. From there I had a clear view of the occupants as they got quickly out of the Limousine and stepped over to the elevator. They had to wait a minute for the lift to come down from the third floor and while they waited I looked them over. There were four men, three average looking, dressed in charcoal black business suits, smoking cigars and looking very important and impatient. It was the fourth one who struck my attention.

It's hard to explain what it was exactly that was so strange about him. He was dressed like the others, but wearing a hat, a Homburg I believe they're called. I only got one short good glimpse of his face and that was from the side. The first thing I thought was that at one time he must have had part of his face shot away or torn off in an accident and replaced by plastic surgery. I knew a vet who had lost half his face during the war and had it replaced, and the rebuilt portion had a changeless; doll-like appearance to it. This was how the strange man first appeared to me.

When they'd gone into the elevator, the chauffeur drove the Limousine past where I was hiding, but he didn't see me, and I ducked back through the stair door and up to my own area. No one had seen me, but when I was taking the keys back, the garage janitor was just coming back and I just barely got the keys back where he'd left them. Even then I guess he wondered what I was doing there. I nodded as we passed but I could feel he was staring after me. He was an odd-acting duck - but then most the employees were. No one hardly ever spoke or payed much attention to the other while on duty, or even during breaks. Aside from my friend, I never associated with any other employee, even after work. And my friend and I never "talked shop."

After that I developed an eerie feeling about that whole place. I can't explain it. But my curiosity was even stronger now and I was more determined than ever to find out what was going on. I've always been pretty gutsy and the only thing I could have been afraid of was losing the best job I'd ever had. I was building up a pretty fair bank account - I don't drink very much and I never carouse - and was hoping to save enough to start a little business of my own. The only thing, by then I was getting restless. It was already longer than I'd ever stayed on one job. But trying to find out what wasn't quite right about that place kept me interested enough.

The only thing, it was almost a year later before I was able to do any more successful snooping. In that time, I realized how tightly things were guarded and how stiff the security was. My getting down into the garage must have been a slip-up that happens once in a thousand times, plus a lot of luck. Although I can be pretty wily, it must have been luck too that no one got suspicious that I was trying to learn something - although part of my act that kept me there, and probably got the promotion, was my playing the not-very-bright, good-natured janitor who was doing the sort of job that required the maximum of his mental abilities.

It was probably because of the Cuban crisis that I finally got the "break". My shift began after office hours, when all the help on the third floor, except maintenance, had gone home. It was against regulations for me to go up there - even in the small area I was assigned to - except after office hours; and not even then if anyone up there worked overtime. In fact, I learned that my key to the mantenance stair door didn't even work if I wasn't supposed to go up there.

But one night I was up there during my regular hours, cleaning the rest room that never was used very much but had to be cleaned daily anyway, when I heard the private elevator coming up. I quickly turned off the rest room light and listened through the closed door. I heard the elevator door slide open and hurried, padded footsteps cross the corridor onto which the rear doors of the executive suites opened, mumbled voices, the click of an opening door and the sound of it closing and re-locking. I waited a few minutes to make sure the corridor was clear, then I eased the door open and, seeing the coast was clear, stepped out. Then I noticed a most unusual thing. . .

The door to one of the suites was not fully closed, and through the crack I could see light. I had tried these doors in the past, when I knew I was the only one up there, and they'd always been locked. Whoever had come up a few moments earlier had gone into one of the other suites, I was sure, because I had distinctly heard the door close, latch and lock. Perhaps this door had been ajar when I'd first come up and I hadn't noticed it. Anyway, I couldn't imagine, as cautious as everyone had always been, that anyone - especially one of the Wheels - would have gone and left his door open.

I never thought it might have been a trap. . .

By now, my curiosity was stronger than my desire to keep this janitor job any longer. I had a pretty good bank account by now and I was really restless to move on to something that wasn't so much a routine. I used to box and I'm pretty strong, so I never had any fear of what anyone might do to me if I got caught snooping, except for the job, which I didn't much care about now anymore.

I walked quietly over to the door that was ajar and I carefully peered inside. I could hear voices coming from somewhere beyond the room that the door opened onto, and the light was coming from a further room. The office itself was dark and unoccupied, as far as I could see. The door to that further room was wide open and I figured that must be the "Forbidden Room" which could only be entered from one of the executive suites and which none of the janitors were ever allowed to enter. (This was information I had gleaned from my past snooping, along with the fact that even the executive suites were maintained by someone other than members of the maintenance department where I worked out of.)

Quietly I pushed the door open far enough to admit myself and I slipped inside. I could see just well enough from the reflecting light to find my way around the furnishings without bumping into anything, and I worked around so I could see through the door into the "Forbidden Room."

First I'll describe that room. It was real plush, like you see in movies of private clubs for rich people. Cigar smoke was drifting up toward the vents and the lighting was indirect but good enough for me to make out details. In my line of vision I only saw three men, but I think there were probably about six altogether. But what my attention became riveted on was that strange man I had seen a year before - "Doll-Face", I'd always remembered him. Now he was facing my direction and I saw that my first impression hadn't been exactly correct.

His whole face looked synthetic. Even his straight, black hair looked like patent leather, or like it was painted on. He occupied a chair that seemed to be somehow special in its form and position. He sat straight and stiff. He wasn't smoking. I couldn't make out his eyes for they were deep in shadows.

The other men were doing most of the talking, although in quiet, subdued voices, there seemed to be a note of emergency. I only caught occasional, meaningless snatches of their words - until the strange man finally spoke.

I could understand each of his words clearly, although he said only a few words. He didn't speak any louder than the others, but his voice was so much different, higher-pitched and clearer. It didn't seem to have any foreign accent. The other men quit talking and listened whenever he spoke his occasional word. There was no doubt who was in charge.

Several of his words I remember: "The domain is stable enough." "Three million is the limit." "Water must be hot before it can steam." "Let's alterate that to 7."

He was speaking again when suddenly he broke off in the middle of a sentence and, even though I still couldn't see his eyes, I suddenly realized he was looking directly toward where I crouched in the darkness. He couldn't possibly have seen me - not with normal vision - yet I swear he was looking directly at me!

I've told you I'm pretty gutsy; but right then the hair on my neck started to crawl. There was this long period of absolute silence, with only the bluish cigar smoke drifting up toward the ceiling and that weird character staring right at me, none of the other men moving (maybe they thought he was only deep in concentration). And then the door to that "Forbidden Room" started swinging slowly inward, until it softly closed with a click of the latch, leaving me staring at a blank panel.

For an instant I had the impression of being trapped, but looking around quickly, I saw that the door to the corridor was still open.

But I still didn't run. I expected any minute security guards to start popping up out of the woodwork and I thought, "If I'm running, they'll start shooting."

But no guards appeared, no one. Hardly believing it, I went back out into the corridor - hesitant at first, expecting someone to be waiting out there to intercept me - closed the door to the suite (latching it this time, and it locked automatically) and started for the stairs. I remembered my cleaning equipment in the rest room, went in and got it, then, without further incident, went downstairs. Now I tried the bottom stair door through which I'd just come, and my key wouldn't re-open it.

I was really shaky now, like I've never been before. I thought of telling my friend what had happened, but then I suddenly wanted one thing more than anything else - to get out of there and never come back. I went to my locker, hoping now I wouldn't run into my friend, changed my clothes and went home.

When my friend got home he called me (I was lying in bed by then thinking about the strange man and my experience). I told him I'd got sick and gone home early and that maybe I'd better take the next day off, too. But when he finally hung up, I knew I'd never go back there, and I got up as soon as the banks opened, drew my account, dropped a line to my friend telling him to collect my pay for me and save it till I got in touch with him. Then I caught the next bus for the town I'd always figured on going to if I quit that job.

Later, when I had a Post Office box, I wrote to my friend and told him to forward my two days' pay I had coming. He sent a letter along with it. What in the hell had I done? he wanted to know. The day after I'd quit, "Hatchet-Face" had a requisite for an "interview" with me, and my friend hinted that it could have been part of my "discharge."

An "interview"? What I believe is that if I had stayed and faced that "interview", I would never have remembered what I had seen in that "Forbidden Room" - and whether, after they'd finished with me, I'd remained employed or not would have depended on how successful their "treatment" would have been. I might have gone on working there - but I would have been like the others: mindless, and not just pretending to be stupid, as I had.

And now do you understand why I expect any minute for a man in a black coat to tap me on the shoulder and why I can't let you know my name?

The hair on our neck begins to crawl, too, when we reflect on this man's experience. Strange things, indeed, are going on! When we were kids we often had the sneakin' suspicion that there was a conspiracy against us, that the whole adult world was in on something we didn't know anything about and were laughing and conniving behind our back - probably a thing that most kids at some time experience. As we became adults we laughed at our childish idiosyncrasy. But now as we become more and more inquisitive we find that old sneakin' suspicion coming back - and yes, we know what a "persecution complex" is.

We wondered if the above story was the result of a "persecution complex" experiencing certain coincidences. It seemed rather peculiar that a corporation that exercised such rigid security should leave itself wide open at the top. However, as the writer said, it must have been one slip in a thousand, a pretty good record at that for something which after-all still would be subject to human error. And apparently it was during one of the "Cuban crisis", when the "Wheels" would be most critically concerned with financial matters and inclined to rely on the security machinery to run smoothly. There was also the mention of a trap, but it didn't seem like a very logical time or method for testing the compatability of employees. The "strange man" could very well have been simply concentrating and only seemed to be looking at our correspondent; the door could have blown shut by a gentle ventilation, or been pushed by the hand of someone sitting out of our writer's sight, who simply might have abstractedly realized the door ought to be closed.

But then, "Hatchet-Face" the following day DID have a requisition for an "interview" with the man, and it had to do with his "discharge." What in the Hell had he done? the friend had written.

And then there's the fact alone of the Strange Man - "Doll-Face". Who. . .what. . .was he?

(We couldn't correspond with our informant as he gave no return address. There were questions we'd liked to have asked. If he reads this, we'd appreciate hearing comment upon it from him. We may have interpreted part of his story wrongly.)

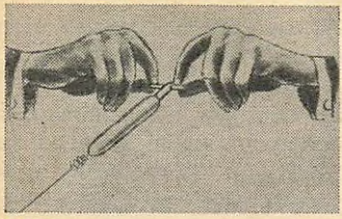

Mysteries!

But some of the most obscure mysteries of all occur in Washington. There is the perplexing fact, for instance, that every year we pay $843 million to farmers for NOT growing wheat and other food grains; we pay an additional $475 million yearly for the storage of surplus grown feeds; and now the Senate recently has approved an appropriation of $17 million to develop an additional 13,000 acres of land in Kansas for the production of feed grain.

It makes us wonder who - or what - is running things. . .and to what end?

We have written in the past about the folly of continued "underground" nuclear testing. Our convictions have been affirmed in the Jan. 25 ('64) issue of SCIENCE NEWSLETTER. Underground testing CAN and DOES release dangerous amounts of radioactive iodine-131 - which is particularly dangerous to the thyroid glands of young children. Dr. E.A. Martell, of the National Center for Atmospheric Research, at Boulder, Colorado, cited in particular the recent tests in Nevada - as we did in reporting to SEARCH. From Sept. '61 to Aug. '62 twenty five clouds were produced by underground explosions, ten of these were radioactive.

(Incidentally, Palmer, Alaska, in the fall of '62 recorded an ACCESS of the "acceptable infants' level for iodine-131.")

And now we have been promised for this spring bigger and better atomic and hydrogen blasts in the Nevada desert (our home), ranging up to a megaton in power (equivalent to a million tons of TNT). However, since some of the past tests (of much lower yield) jarred the casinos in Las Vegas, sixty miles away, the AEC is allocating an additional section of desert land onto the northwest corner of the existing test site, which will put it just over the hill from Tonopah, Nevada - where this is being written.

Dorothy Spence Lauer, in her latest psychometric analysis report to J.J. says:

"There will also be some news in regards to the state of Nevada that will be a surprise to everyone. This must be something that we all will read in the newspaper. For some reason you seem to be almost happy that you are not in that location at that time."

By time this sees print, the testing will be well under way. We hope you will be able to refer to us as "gloom-mongers" with our bare faces hanging out - but in view of everything, I don't think you can fairly call us "unjustified alarmists."

YOUR FUTURE

Predictions of the future by the ability known as psychometry. She can find lost objects, determine the state of your health, predict your future. Try her, and see.

THERE ARE going to be several instances take place that will cause people to sit up and take notice. This will be before they cast their vote for Presidency. There will be several factors that they will take into consideration due to one of the candidates' actions. They will convince them, beyond a doubt, that they should not vote for that person. This will not only cause a stir among the politicians, but among the general public. This may come up so unexpectedly that people who thought they were going to vote for one candidate will suddenly change their mind. This is going to be something rather spectacular to look forward to.

There will be an upheaval in Loas, and I feel it may not be too pleasant. Still this has happened before and I do not think too much concern should be felt over it.

Red China will also do something that will annoy all of us, including Mr. K, to the point that Mr. K. will make a startling and sudden proclamation that will be most surprising, especially to those in Red China. He intends to carry out everything that is said.

Elizabeth Taylor will be in the news again. Not in a very favorable light, I am sorry to say. This will be due to the company she will be keeping - and it will not be Richard Burton. She will have a restless feeling again. I can only hope that she has learned from the past, for she will go through these experiences until they are.

Many people have written and asked me what I think about spiritualism. I think the true spiritualism is a wonderful thing. My experience with it has not been in calling upon those who have passed on for information, or doubts that rise, or the everyday questions that people often ask. Many spiritualists have actually confessed to me that it is easier to say "yes" (in order not to be bothered by a lot of questions) than actually to concentrate upon that person's problems. This is one reason I have been so against many methods of so called "spiritualism." When people pass over I do think they have much to learn, and I do not think they care whether a stock rises or falls, nor do I think they are given this information. Nor do I believe because a person dies, they suddenly turn into angels. I think they have to work this out until they get over the habit of being deceitful and lying, then they progress. I am a little leary also in believing that disincarnated spirits can take over our bodies, making us do things we would not normally do. I do believe if everyone would turn directly to God, they would not have to worry about a disincarnated spirit taking over their bodies. This is where so many people and I differ.

I refuse to change my opinion, for after testing this out for 35 years, I think I have the right to say what I know to be true. True spiritualism does exist, and there are many wonderful psychics, but they are those who are not going to guide you into believing that a doctor who has passed over from this life, is now your doctor in spirit form. Nor do I believe they would tell you of, ascended masters now being assigned to you. I have seen so much misuse of this theme that I feel sick at heart. While it takes a great deal of time to do each analysis, before I start an analysis I do not tune to anyone but to that channel of God. I feel if I were given this fine gift it is from God. I feel if God has given this to me, then He is the one I should turn to for guidance. As I do this with each analysis, I take no credit for any accuracy. I feel that a God-given gift is one where you turn to the person with the power to give you this gift. I have actually seen people go into hysterical frenzies because they have gone to someone and were told they now carried a spirit of someone else with them and that the only way they could rid themself of this was to do some ridiculous ritual and spend some money. This again I highly disapprove of. How on earth can people who believe in God, and actually believe He is first, last and always in our minds, believe these things? They are putting an evil power into effect, choosing it above God's way of living. I have wanted to mention this many times in this column. If you turn to God for guidance, the first thing in the morning, you know that it is accurate and that it is what you should follow through on. Yet many people do not do this. Or they may for awhile, then they drift away.

I feel even in my work, as close as I am to doing each analysis carefully, that at times I could make an error, for I am human. Therefore, I feel too, that all I can do is tell each person exactly what comes to me. I do not always agree with people when they write me, for I would rather lose a client than take a chance of misguiding even one person. So, do not believe in these things which are going to mislead you at a later date. The day will come when you will have to turn to that Divine Power which certainly supersedes anything else that apparently exists. It only exists if you give it power. People have asked me about others putting hexes on them, about ascendent masters leaving them to do things that they know very well they would not ordinarily do, misleading information, etc., to me this is all erroneous.

I believe a true spiritualist would agree with everything I have mentioned here. If you are worried or upset, I do not doubt the fact at all that you may feel a loved one's presence. To say that that person will give you trivial messages is doubtful. In fact, I went to a seance as an investigation for a magazine I was working for and they were actually telling jokes. This was carried a little too far as far as I was concerned. I just cannot feature this happening. They were not jokes that one would actually tell everyone, which shocked me even more, although I am far from being prudish. But I do feel in this case it was carried a little too far.

While I do analyses on tape for people if they ask me to, personally I would prefer they had the typewritten analysis.

I want S.B. to know at the time they arrived in town I was not home, but at the hospital with my daughter and therefore it was impossible to contact that person or K.M.

There will be some startling news about flying saucers. Also, I think the Air Force will come out with the story that in time to come airplanes will be in the shape of flying saucers.

Conditions will get better. Finances for the general public will increase. There may be some astonishing changes that will be brought about in regards to interest rates. This will be very

HOW TO GET A PSYCHOMETRIC ANALYSIS

Select a short verse from the Bible, perhaps your favorite, and write it on a separate sheet of paper, meanwhile concentrating on your problems. Then mail the sheet to Mrs. Dorothy Spence Lauer, Amherst, Wisconsin, and enclose $5.00. Bear in mind the reply may take several weeks.

HOW TO GET A PHOTO AURA ANALYSIS

Send a snapshot of yourself to Dorothy Spence Lauer, Amherst, Wisconsin, and enclose $5.00 to cover the cost. Be sure to include your return address! Surprisingly many applicants forget this! And please, if possible, report the results to SEARCH magazine after their accuracy or inaccuracy is determined. Remember, reports of inaccuracy are as important as those of accuracy.

HOW TO GET VOICE ANALYSIS

600 ft. tape (both sides) voice analysis on either photo aura or psychometry or both. Enclose $15.00 to cover cost.

Editor's Note: Dorothy Spence Lauer is a Psychometrist, specializing in precognition. Ordinarily she needs but an object belonging to, or handled by, the subject, or the presence of the subject, to become aware of the psychic influences from which she draws her information. However, by writing out a verse, while concentrating, as described in the instructions given on this page, a sufficiently powerful psychic impression will be made to enable the medium to receive the information she seeks. We have made this service available to our readers purely in an experimentative atmosphere, in an attempt, first to determine whether or not this ability is of a nature both real and valuable; and second, to provide you with an interesting bit of entertainment. surprising to everyone as they will become a law.

Many clauses in the Civil Rights Bill may be changed and there will be several situations that will arise from this that will be quite surprising in nature to all of us. Racial disputes will still continue and I feel a tension especially in the states of Alabama, Arkansas and Tennessee. These three states will be at one time or other in the headlines.

So many people who have written to me asking about spiritualism will recognize the fact that in any analysis they ever received from me, there is an affirmation in which I implore them to turn their thoughts directly to God and be guided accordingly.

I often feel very humble with the gift I am blessed with. I have used it correctly all my life and that is why I feel it will become stronger as time goes on. Any misuse of such a gift would result in it being taken from me immediately, and I do not want that to happen.

I received a letter from a person who was quite angry because I would not say "yes" to her problem. I felt in saying "yes" that it would be the means of her fooling herself.

The new fashion in women's wear is topless bathing suits. I do not think that this will be followed very long. These women may suddenly find that their husbands are not so extra "modern" after all!

People should be careful of a company or companies writing to them, saying they are the "heir" of an estate. The companies demands will be far greater than any amount of inheritance that they would receive.

For you Ray, I feel that conditions are definitely on the uptrend. Do not become discouraged, as conditions around the corner will be brighter.

THE MYSTIC MESSAGE BOARD

See messages from the beyond—or from the depths of the subconscious spelled out before your eyes!

AYE-SEE (I See) lets you see into the beyond or into the mists of subconscious personality. The gentle touch of your fingertips to the AYE-SEE Planchette can throw open the door to those hidden worlds that invite your exploration. Others have already found that they can see beyond with AYE-SEE, now you have the same opportunity.

AYE-SEE is a custom-made psychic appliance now offered only to readers of FATE Magazine. Our shop works slowly and carefully on each AYE-SEE so place your order now to avoid disappointment.

You invest only $14.95 to buy your AYE-SEE; you risk nothing because your purchase is fully guaranteed.

A NEW, SUCCESSFUL PRINCIPLE

AYE-SEE works on a newly discovered principle that appears to improve accuracy and bring messages through with greater speed.

HOW IT WORKS The essential parts of the AYE-SEE are the all-wood Table, the Planchette, and the Light Beam. The Planchette is a disc of translucent optical acrylic plastic bearing the letters of the alphabet, numerals and symbols. The Light Beam streams softly from a lens in the center of the Table.

As you touch your fingertips to the Planchette, mysterious forces may move it about over the Table. When it stops moving, the Light Beam will point to one letter or symbol to indicate that it belongs in the message. The indication is very positive —there is no question as to what AYE-SEE wants to tell you.

The entire Table is built of wood because psychics have advised that wood produces the strongest vibrations. Since the entire Planchette is in contact with the Table, it may be that most of the energy from these vibrations is absorbed by the Planchette and transformed into the movements that spell out your messages. This may account for the high-speed reception AYE-SEE gives some experimenters.

DEVELOPED BY SENSITIVES The superior features of AYE-SEE are the product of careful experimentation by sensitives adept in using message boards. From coast to coast, accomplished psychics have contributed suggestions which now emerge as AYE-SEE.

You can be confident that AYE-SEE will work for you, because it has been created by people who know. Here is a typical comment from an experimenter who tested AYE-SEE: "I'm delighted with it as I'm getting my messages much faster."

OPERATES IN DIM LIGHT AYE-SEE provides its own light—room lights need not be turned on to read the messages—thus, AYE-SEE can be used in comforting, dim light or under the conditions of the seance-room. An AYE-SEE working under these conditions seems to pour out a fountain of light and presents a highly dramatic picture.

USE ALONE OR WITH A GROUP The AYE-SEE Planchette is a perfect, round disc. Thus it can be operated equally well by one person or by a large group, each touching a hand to the Planchette. The long electric cord supplied with AYE-SEE permits it to be placed in the center of a room with guests seated all around.

IF YOU HAVE TRIED OTHER BOARDS If you have had any measure of success with other types of boards, you owe it to yourself to try AYE-SEE. This recommendation comes from an experimenter who wrote, " . . . those who have enjoyed using (trade name omitted) will get a bigger kick out of this psychic appliance."

ON THE IMPORTANCE OF YOUR EXPERIMENT When you experiment with AYE-SEE you are participating in a great work. The world-renowned psychologist and investigator F. W. H. Myers wrote this about such experiments: "May I add the remark that it is to experiments with automatic writing, crystal-vision, etc., rather than to spontaneous apparitions, that we must look for any real information as to the degree in which departed spirits retain the knowledge of the things of earth."

THOUGHT DIAL

(Now You Can Dial Your Thoughts)

by Sydney Omarr

Introduction by Carl Payne Tobey

Includes actual "Thought Dial" and crystal-clear text, explaining principles, method of operation, interpretation, plus detailed sections on:

ANSWERING DIRECT QUESTIONS, TAPPING THE SUBCONSCIOUS, LOCATING LOST ARTICLES, PICKING WINNERS!

Edition after edition after edition, this book has proved a best seller, combining Astrology, Jungian Depth Psychology and Numerical Symbolism. THOUGHT DIAL is not a toy. It is a psychological device which enables one to by-pass the conscious mind and enter the realm of the subconscious, home of the truth within us all.

THOUGHT DIAL has been called
The Book That Stopped
The Art Linkletter Show!

It happened January 20, 1960. And it was Sydney Omarr's sensational THOUGH DIAL that did it— stopped the famed Art Linkletter House Party show! Linkletter, an admitted sceptic, challenged Omarr to demonstrate THOUGHT DIAL. Omarr did, whereupon an amazed Linkletter muttered before a TV-Radio audience of millions, "Fantastic, simply fantastic!"

THOUGHT DIAL — a complete study in itself, yet simple to operate: designed for STUDENT as well as PROFESSIONAL.

YOU WILL WANT TO BEGIN YOUR EXPERIMENTS IMMEDIATELY!

Thirty Years Among The Dead

This is a condensed version of Dr. Carl A. Wickland's Classic (and now out of print) book on abnormal psychology. It is a record of his work with obsession carried on with Mrs. Wickland, who was an accomplished medium. Together they cured many obsessed persons, persuading discarnate spirits to give up their hold on their victims, and thus restored their patients to normal, happy lives. This book is still years ahead of present day research in this field.

INSPIRED NOVELS

Great esoteric novels, long out of print, being made available once more! Valuable books for the student of the mystic! These four books are first of a series.

Published by Ray Palmer,

Rt. 2, Box 36, Amherst, Wis.

A ROMANCE OF TWO WORLDS

By Marie Corelli

Marie Corelli was perhaps the greatest psychic writer of them all. Her novels contain esoteric lore of tremendous importance. In this novel she treats of the world of the spirit, and its relationship to we who are in the world of the living.

THE SOUL OF LILITH

By Marie Corelli

In this book the author shows how close is the link between life before death and life after death. This body we live in holds our spirit; but what of the disembodied spirit, or the spirit that never lived? Can a body be alive without its tenant soul?

ETIDORHPA

By John Uri Lloyd

A truly important book! In all respects the worthiest presentation of occult teachings that has yet been written. Fiction? None but the ignorant would believe that! The author was an advanced student of occultism, and in his sensational book he has tried to place before his fellow men a tremendous reality he discovered concerning this earth of ours, and life on it, in it, and beyond it. Here is truth!

ARDATH

By Marie Corelli

The key book in Marie Corelli's six esoteric masterpieces. Here is a book that places reincarnation in the most straightforward and fascinating light ever woven into a novel. If you do not have a philosophy of life, its responsibilities, and the debts incured in a lifetime, you will get it in this book. You will ask yourself, too, just how those debts may be paid. Marie Corelli says this is the way!

Where The Reader Has His Say

Dear Ray:

We did a double-take when we saw Brinsley Le Poer Trench's article Two Sides Of A Coin, in the Aug. '64 issue. Why? Because we had just read almost those identical words in a book entitled THE SACRED MUSHROOM, Doorway To Eternity (Doubleday & Co., Inc., 1959). The author, Dr. Andrija Puharich, a leading American para-psychologist, states that he has no more doubt as to the existence of "disincarnate intelligences" than he has to that of carnate ones; to him "they are but opposite sides of a coin."

Now, if we read Mr. Le Poer Trench correctly, what he wants us to consider is the possibility of an "alternate universe" in which things are perhaps the reverse of what they are here - like a reflection in a mirror? - as a source of the flying saucers; and that left-handed people may represent that Other World, they having somehow been born into the wrong universe - or on the wrong side.

We may be wrong - too literal or even naive - in our interpretation of Mr. Le Poer Trench's meaning; but the thing is interesting to consider nonetheless.

Anti-matter and the idea of an alternate universe are, of course, common postulates, but we are not familiar with any materialistic speculations regarding our personal relation to this Other World. . .unless the so-called "spiritual" turns out to be actually just as material as the known world and we've attached a supernatural quality to it simply because it is so far from the grasp of our comprehension in demonstrable terms.

Two lobes to our brain? Only the Right side utilized by right-

It is impossible to imagine that Nature could be so remiss as to sustain an imperfection, which an unused portion of our brain would be if it had no intended function. Mr. Le Poer Trench obviates the "wise provision" answer; and the idea that our unused grey matter is just waiting for us to evolve to the point where we learn to utilize all of it seems untenable by the same token. The only other demonstrable answer we can think of is that (as we speculate elsewhere) modern man is a degenerate from a former higher being who once made use of all of his brain and that the unused portion we now carry is a left-over, like the appendix, tailbone, etc.

Otherwise we must recognize that our seemingly unused portion DOES have an unknown function, as essential as the other. . .if not more so.

At this point we can only pose certain questions:

Are there beings in a converse universe who have twin lobes in their brains and do the majority there utilize the LEFT side only?

Does our RIGHT lobe and their LEFT lobe, then, share some common psychic affinity?

Is our seemingly unused lobe the gateway to that other world?

When we have a psychic experience or talent is it a contact with that world? Is the "unused" portion actually being used?

Ancient history and mythology are fraught with references to The Twins: Do you have a twin in the Other World? Do you and he share a common lobe - to him the RIGHT, to you the LEFT?

May we someday learn to contact this world directly and at will?

Might we someday find a "physical" way to contact or reach this Other World? (Other than through the mind.)

Have beings in that world ALREADY learned how to do this?

Could this be what the flying saucers are?

Dr. Puharich, whose book we have cited, is particularly interested in the phenomenon which he refers to as MCC - for "mobile center of consciousness" and which we more commonly call astral projection. Siberian shamans are known to attain this through use of the "sacred mushroom" (Amanita muscaria) and Dr. Puharich believes that MCC may be the key to the "other side of the coin." We will never understand that other side, he believes, until we first understand THIS side - and we'll never fully understand THIS side until we DO realize there ARE two sides! Will Carson & Jeannie Joy, Box 807, San Fernando, Calif.

L. Taylor Hansen
c/o Amherst Press
Amherst, Wisconsin

Dear Mr. Hansen:

I am a student at Brigham Young University and in writing this letter I am representing approximately 50 students, in my class alone, all of which are studying religion, and in particular, the Book of Mormon.

After reading your recent book entitled He Walked The Americas, I noticed some distinct correlations between your book and the Book of Mormon. As you undoubtedly know the Book of Mormon speaks about great nations of Indians who long ago left Jerusalem and came to the Americas. The Book of Mormon tells of the history of the people as they lived and grew in the Americas; in particular the Book of Mormon tells of the religious aspects of the lives of the people and of their association with Christ who visited them in their lands.

To make a long story short, I would like to make a short list of some of the things you mentioned in your book which parallel the Book of Mormon and the present day doctrine taught by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints:

1. Your book speaks of 12 disciples always being ordained by the Prophet; this is true in the Book of Mormon also - and in our church today.

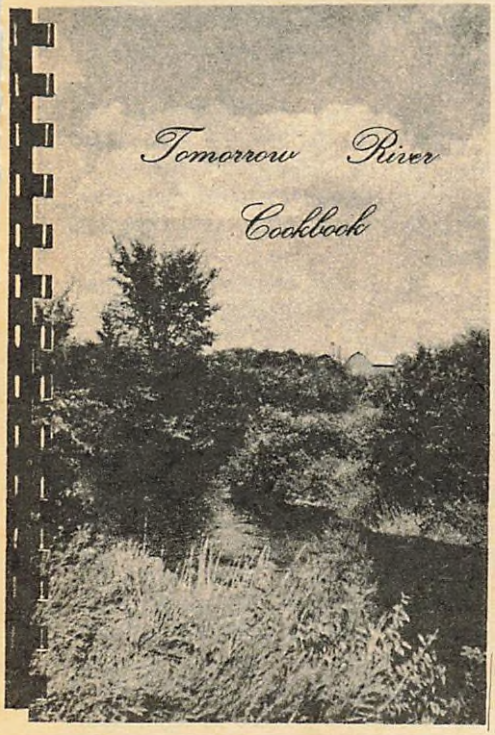

2. Your book mentions the prediction of the coming of the white man; the Book of Mormon does likewise.

3. According to your findings, the ancient Indians had a type of priesthood wherein when one was to be ordained to a position in the priesthood this ordination would be performed by the "laying on of hands;" this is also true in the Book of Mormon and in our present day church.

4. Your book tells of storing records in caves for future ages; the plates which eventually were found (and later translated) by the first prophet of our church, Joseph Smith, were stored and hid up at various times in caves, etc., for the explicit use of future generations. One reads in the Book of Mormon how God and Christ at various times ordered their people to hide up their records so that they wouldn't come into the hands of the unrighteous and so the people of future ages would have the scriptures for their reference. Presently, L.D.S. records are also stored in bomb proof shelters (in caves) in Utah.

5. Your book illustrates the most fundamental law of the Father: "always love one another." This same fundamental law was preached by Christ as the people recorded it on the metal plates which were later translated and called the Book of Mormon. (The Book of Mormon was named after a fellow called Mormon who was responsible for abridging several records into one record now called the Book of Mormon.)

6. Time and again your book points out that the ancient Indians built great temples in which their sacred ordinances were performed, people were blessed, etc. The same is true in the Book of Mormon times, and as you probably know, the same is true in our present day church.

7. Your book speaks about great cities with vast networks of highways, and of the ability of the ancient peoples to do great work in metals. The Book of Mormon also relates similar facts - almost word for word.

8. A well-ordered empire, a Christ-like religion with well established temples and rituals, and a living religion and belief in the Prophet are spoken of in your book. In the Book of Mormon the ancient Indians had a religion which was introduced by Christ in person. It was a well-ordered religion with an active priesthood and temples wherein Christ admonished the people to perform their sacred ordinances. And in our present day church one finds a very well organized system with a very active priesthood and temples, in addition to the tabernacles.

These are some of the thoughts that crossed my mind when reading your book. Quite naturally several questions entered my mind about the author of the book; I would like to ask these questions now:

1. Are you a member of the L.D.S. Church, and, if not, could you tell us if you have been exposed to the church in your travels? To what religion do you presently belong?

2. In doing research for your book were you aware of the Book of Mormon?

3. Having a vast knowledge of archaeological findings, have you ever been acquainted with any of the archaeologists which represent the L.D.S. Church in Central America? (As you must know, there is a society in Mexico and various places in Central and South America which is directing its efforts to back up the Book of Mormon. I am not well versed on this aspect of our church, but I understand and have at least seen a few books which have definitely supported the Book of Mormon. Can you comment at all about this?)

4. When you wrote your book were you aware of the fact that it would appeal to the members of the L.D.S. Church in that it does tend to confirm many of the teachings of the Book of Mormon?

I feel rather foolish asking such basic questions of you as I strongly feel that anyone who could write a book such as yours must surely have been aware of many of the things which I have commented on, etc. However, since the demand was so great that someone write to you to get the answers to some of the questions which I have presented you with, I have done it so we can all benefit from your reply. I would be delighted to send you a copy of the Book of Mormon and references regarding some of the things I've mentioned in my letter.

I must add that we are very anxiously awaiting your reply. School is out for the summer the end of May; however, if you cannot answer this letter until after that time, we shall still be able to review your reply when we resume school at the beginning of next semester (the last of September). I shall give you as a return address the campus address of our professor of religion.

Thank you very much. William C. Coller, 3A-128 Wymount Terrace, Provo, Utah.

similarities between HWTA and The Book of Mormon. However, I am not a Mormon and up to last week had never seen nor read any part of the Book of Mormon. Not that I am prejudiced but never had been exposed to it.

In the last copy of SEARCH Magazine put out by Amherst Press, Amherst Wisconsin, I attempted to answer all these questions which you have asked, and incidentally, many, many others.

My authorities are the Indians themselves and the legends as they were told to the explorers or interested parties over a hundred years ago before ignorant people began making fun of what they did not understand when they heard the stories. They are to be found for the most part in books over a century in age and usually out of print, therefore, collector's items. I believe that many of these legends were discovered when the Spanish first entered The Americas, and that I have by no means recorded them all.

No, I have never met any of the LDS archaeologists. Most of my information on Mexico was gained at Mexico University. I only wrote the book because the Legend of The Pale God fascinated me and has since before the Second World War. I wrote it up for a short article in a small magazine then, and in researching the legend, found the book taking shape in my mind. Writing something to appeal to Mormons was never in my thoughts at any time. I was not attempting to appeal to any church, only to follow what seemed to be an actual historical character.

In the last two weeks I have received several copies of The Book of Mormon, thank you, just the same but unfortunately I am not able to go into it very deeply as I am preparing for publication another and much larger book upon entirely another subject - namely Oceanography and Geology reviews Greek Mythology and the Atlantis Legend.

Thank you for your letter. Give my best regards to your instructor, and I hope that this will reach you before the end of your school. Keep that intellectual curiosity always bright and shining and life will never become boring. One of my college professors once told our graduate class that "Knowledge is a ball floating in a Sea of Ignorance, the more you collect - the greater your exposure to ignorance." It is a tremendously fascinating challenge.

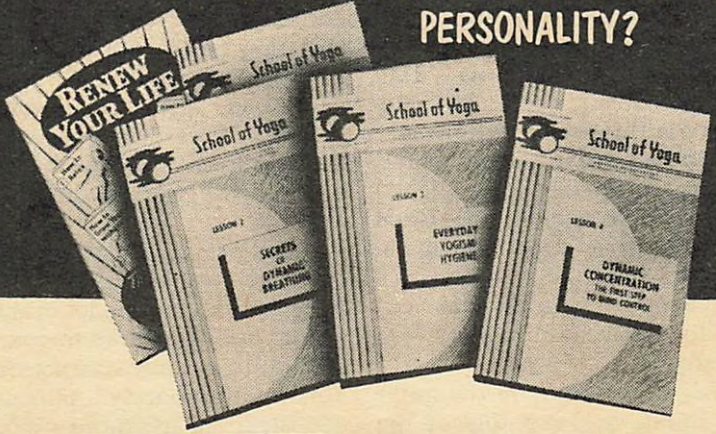

Thank you again. L. Taylor Hansen, 60 Tide, Coast Mobil Hm Pk., 24815 S. Normandie, Harbor City, S. Calif.

from readers - articles. . . But to take one specific article, "What Is An Ouija Board?" by Rosalind John.

First, there are many people who do not bow in reverence to reincarnation. You are one, Ray, having repeatedly confirmed your disbelief in this popular theory.

While operating the ouija, Rosalind contacted an alleged spirit, Helen Dearman, who, when questioned about a previous communicating spirit guide, Frank Edwards, explained his absence with the claim that he had recently reincarnated.

Here, seemingly from the spirit world itself, we are told of the factuality of reincarnation. But if its existence is untrue (and spirit messages I have read of have both admitted and denied it), why this false information?

Could the answer be that the false information originates from, not spirits of a high dimensional world, but rather from the lower atmosphere near the earth plane where are found evil and malicious entities practising every phase of degradation? That is, the admittance of reincarnation is devulged by untrustworthy spirits who for reasons of their own prefer to deceive.

I find myself frowning in puzzlement. Helen Dearman did not appear to be an ignorant or evil dweller of the lower planes. Just the opposite, for she was described as "full of vivacious energy, fun loving and loyal, she proved to be a wonderful new guide." So, if actually from the higher planes, why this deliberate deception regarding reincarnation?

I end this letter with that puzzled frown still present. Alex Saunders, 36 Bentworth Avenue, Toronto 19, Ontario, Canada.

• Yours is a good question, Alex. But I don't exactly understand your puzzlement. A whole lot of answers should have occurred to you, of all people! First, have you noticed that almost immediately a famous person dies, one (or more!) mediums claim him as a contact, or even as a guide. Isn't it possible that the contact and/or the medium is a liar? But more likely, isn't it possible that the contact, if real, comes from an area where they are as confused as we are regarding reincarnation?

The reason the spirit world (so called) insists in the main that reincarnation is a fact, is because this spirit world is where people go who die believing in reincarnation. Providently, there is a place for them where they would not be thrown into a totally strange environment, and forced to abandon the beliefs of a lifetime. To most it would be impossible to accept. Imagine being a reincarnationist suddenly told there is no such thing, and then being told that there isn't any good substitute? Asking, then, what he is to do, he gets a shrug of the shoulders. A problem, isn't it?

Like attracts like; birds of a feather flock together. Thus those who die believing that they will be to a sort of waiting station where they will either be assigned or select a new body and a new life cycle back on earth, find themselves in such a waiting place, full of people waiting. In this place they find that they can influence certain sensitive mediums, and they pass the time in talking to and through them.

Some of these people do this for years, even centuries, awaiting a reincarnation call that never comes. Some of them find that they can actually sneak into the body of a living person, either adult or a newborn baby, and possess it, even to the extent that they think they are reincarnating. Others tire of waiting for the assignment, and set out to explore their new environment, and meet up with the mystery that lies beyond that "shrug of the shoulders" I mentioned before. Then, like the Helen Dearman who explained a missing contact's disappearance (from her ken) by saying he had (obviously) reincarnated, he turns up missing, and those remaining behind assume the natural thing to assume, that he had "gotten the call".

PROVE YOUR PSYCHIC POWERS WITH A

PLANCHETTE!

The Planchette is a Mechanical Means for Automatic Writing. It Aids Psychic Manifestations which have no other means of becoming Concrete.
The result of an exhaustive search, our authentic Planchette is hand-made from an "alive" wood. It measures about 6 inches in length. Smoothly hand-finished, it is polished to high lustre with a resin which, being a wood byproduct, will not interfere with vibrations set up by your continued use.

HOW THE PLANCHETTE WORKS:

Specially-fitted pencil forms one leg of planchette, the other two rolling free on ball bearings. The bearings permit the slightest indication of movement to take effect, the tiniest wisp of pressure transmitted through your hand. Complete instructions for use and care of the Planchette are included with each instrument.

Recently sensitives have advised us to make these instruments in colors to match personal vibrations. Thus the Planchette is available in natural clear Birch, dark Vibrant Walnut stain or Magnetic Red natural stain.

The truth of the matter is that when the spirits say reincarnation is true, they are just the same in all respects to people who are living who claim reincarnation is true. That's what they believe! In this issue is a letter from a reader who says exactly that. What do you think she will say after she dies, and contacts a medium? So there is why spirits make these claims. But such a claim cannot be considered evidence that it is true.

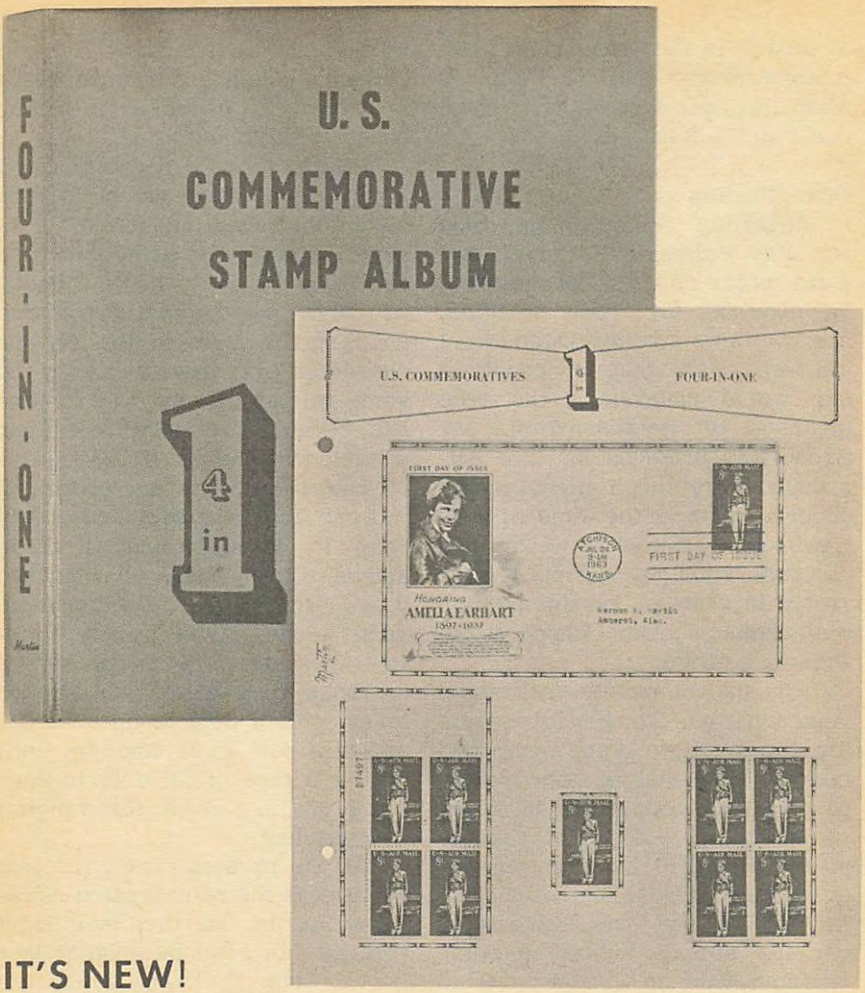

The fact is, we are bound by our beliefs, and if our belief binds us to this lowest of all planes, it is natural that such a believer, after death, remains very close to the plane which he intends to reinhabit, or believes he will reinhabit. Why would he go any further from it then he would have to? Why, for instance, go way out beyond, into an area where he is convinced there is nothing at all but empty space and utter cold and darkness? He wouldn't think of it!

If you believed in reincarnation, and was waiting to reincarnate, and you found yourself able to talk to or through a medium, wouldn't you say you were waiting reincarnation, and that there were a lot of other people with you waiting for the same thing? And if you actually saw one of them entering the body of a newborn baby, wouldn't you say he was reincarnating. And when you saw a newborn baby with no one trying to get in, wouldn't you try?

As for Helen Dearman, I'm sure that when alive, she was "full of vivacious energy, fun-loving and loyal". Why should she change dead? And if she believes in reincarnation, sooner or later she will "reincarnate", or do what she thinks is reincarnation, and some psychiatrist will find himself with a new patient with a split personality, or paranoia, or dementia praecox. Or in a more modified version, a person who has weird memories of being places and doing things he or she could not possibly have been or done, and therefore believe himself reincarnated.

In my research, I have actually talked to THREE Wendell Wilkies! Somehow I find myself unable to accept that all three of them actually are Wendell Wilkie reincarnated. And even if one of them is, he has somehow become a prime jackass, and very low in intelligence. If reincarnation is a path to improvement, these Wilkies have failed utterly to progress, and have most certainly regressed!

Yet, I do not say that "reincarnation" is impossible. It may be that, from some higher plane of existence, rare individuals are selected to be born into a physical body again to set Mankind on the right road again. Was Jesus one

Dear Readers:

Regarding Search, Sept. 1964 and Ray Palmer's Editorial, and a few other things. This may be a bit shocking for those of blind, narrow views and understanding. I am well aware that few people in our world understand the true meaning of Reincarnation. My friend Ray pretends he does not. I doubt very much many people understood it in the time of John Newbrough. I think John Newbrough did understand it, and put it correctly in Oahspe, but this portion was removed from Oahspe at the Printer's office.

All ancient people understood reincarnation. To be reborn, is for the spirit to come again and take up residence in a newly prepared flesh body, this IS being reincarnated. The word carnate means flesh, to incarnate means to step into a flesh or materialistic body of any form. So to reincarnate simply means to come again and take up a prepared flesh body and live again on earth. Every one must live many lives to gain knowledge and experience, we must experience ALL things! This cannot be done in one small lifespan. One's Spirit, the REAL YOU never dies! It has everlasting life! We must live many lives to collect wisdom and understanding in order to climb to a higher phase of existence.

History has repeated itself many, many times and shall keep right on repeating itself. It is never exactly the same, we only see it as being the same because we cannot see the real characters enacting the roles of life. No one character ever enacts exactly the same role as they had in a former life, because they must have other experiences and add to their store of knowledge. Ray has proven to me one thing, the reincarnation of John F. Kennedy and all those actors on the scene one hundred years ago! All those same names, same deeds, all seemingly so alike! Yes indeed! All those spirits of those men were reincarnated to pay off a debt to one another and this will go on, and on, until they are free of all debt to each other and are ready for a higher soul-grading.

At the present time President Johnson is the reincarnated Abraham Lincoln, who died by a bullet through his head by John Wilkes Booth. John F. Kennedy was the reincarnated spirit of John Wilkes Booth, who in his former existence shot and caused the death of Abraham Lincoln, but he was not alone in this deal, there was the International Banker who paid for the killing of Lincoln. This had to be

OAHSPE—THE LONG LOST, AUTHENTIC, UNEXPURGATED, UNCHANGED FIRST EDITION

AFTER 75 YEARS!

THE 1882 EDITION OF THE WONDER BOOK OF THIS AGE, PHOTOCOPIED FROM THE ORIGINAL, NOT A COMMA CHANGED!

In 1891, for reasons not acceptable to many, including myself, John Ballou Newbrough and Andrew M. Howland issued a "revised and corrected" edition of OAHSPE. These revisions and corrections (and omissions and additions) have never been satisfactorily outlined, and because since 1885 the first edition could not be purchased anywhere, the public has been unable to ascertain what these changes were. In all my life, I have been able to find but one copy of the 1882 edition. Others are rumored to exist, but if they do, they are in private collections. With this photocopied edition of OAHSPE, reproduced from this lone volume, the 1882 edition is once more made available to the public. With the advent of the Space Age, OAHSPE is being vindicated, thus I am pleased to make this controversial edition available to those who, like myself, believe it to be one of the world's important books.

Perhaps the best way to describe OAHSPE is in the words of the book itself: "A sacred history of the dominions of the higher and lower heavens on the Earth for the past twenty-four thousand years, being from the submersion of the continent of Pan in the Pacific Ocean, commonly called the Flood or Deluge, to the Kosmon (present) Era. Also a brief history of the preceding fifty-five thousand years, together with a synopsis of the cosmogony of the Universe; the creation of the planets; the creation of man; the unseen worlds; the labor and glory of gods and goddesses in the etherean heavens; with the new commandments of Jehovih to man of the present day. With revelations from the second resurrection, formed in words in the thirty-third year of the Kosmon Era." The purpose of the book is: "To teach mortals how to attain to hear the Creator's voice, and to see His heavens, in full consciousness, whilst still living on the earth; and to know of a truth the place and condition awaiting them after death."

This edition of OAHSPE contains 928 pages. It also contains nearly three quarters of a million words, and calculating from actual time of writing, it was written at the rate of 120 words per minute! This on an 1880 Sholes typewriter is a miracle in itself. Many of the drawings in OAHSPE were done at the same time . . . in the dark! The Book of Cosmology might have been written by today's space scientists! Much of the science in OAHSPE has only recently been "discovered". Newbrough could not have "guessed" so rightly, especially in the face of all the authorities of his day. Today space satellites are discovering "how it is" out in space, while in 1882 OAHSPE contained the same information! As an instance, the now famous Van Allen radiation belts, complete as to nature and height! The scientific reader is overwhelmed by the science of OAHSPE.

settled, "What ye sow, so shall ye reap!" hold true, and there is no way to set this Law aside. This is Karma and has to be worked out like any debt, must be paid in full. We must return and pay or work off these debts. If we do something that is not true to the LAWS we must return, spirits are put into newly prepared bodies, reincarnated and we work to pay off accumulated Karma and make people like us in the present life phase. We have all murdered, or will in the future of life-times, as we must experience ALL THINGS!

The spirits of the former wives were in the bodies of the two present wives that live today, even if it was a hundred years ago, this is nothing in the time of the LIFE of the Spirit. Kennedy's secretary named Lincoln, is the present reincarnation of Lincoln's secretary named Kennedy. Jack Ruby is the reincarnation of Boston Carbeth. Sec. Rusk was once Lyman Trumbull. Lee Harvey Oswald was the reincarnation of the International Banker who paid John Wilkes Booth to murder Lincoln. His name is not known to me at the moment, but he paid good money for this murder, not because Lincoln meant to free the black enslaved peoples, but because he intended to conscript United States bank notes, and not borrow from the International Bankers, as our Government has been doing for a number of years now. The true reason of John F. Kennedy's murder will not come out for a long time. But it will come out! Truth cannot be hidden for long! There is a reason for all things. A Plan! We know Karma does exist, so all these Spirits had to reincarnate for this very enactment of Nov. 22, 1964. Terrible, you say. Yes, in a way, very terrible, but if we could see the rest of the life-pages of these people, we would change our minds. Everything always works out for best in the long run, when the end comes they will all be Spiritual friends. Reincarnation makes it possible for the Spirit to climb the ladder to higher Soul-grades. Every one must climb this ladder, and receive higher soul-gradings before they can go on the path upward to higher realms of existence. There is no such thing as passing over into an idle Heaven where we can sit and twittle our thumbs on a golden street, with houses studded with precious gems for the rest of Eternity, as the Lazy people want to do! We work and work and work! We must struggle and struggle and struggle. Even if it means returning to earth for a million different life-spans or to receive a bullet in the head, as so many do. Killing is wrong, one of the Ten Commandments says" thou shalt not kill a living thing." Cut short to read, "thou shalt not kill", but nobody

DOES DANDRUFF MAKE YOU WANT TO HIDE YOUR HEAD IN SHAME?

You might as well, if you're going to let dandruff and scale and skin rash make you bald as an egg. You've bought plenty of preparations, and they don't work, you say? Of course they haven't! You've probably been cheated as many times as I have. I'll bet I've spent hundreds of dollars on jim-dandy goo, and wound up with worse dandruff than I started with. Made me plenty mad, too. I always get mad when I think of the lousy junk designed to chisel your honest dollars out of you. Mad enough so that when I find something good, I'm not bashful about telling my friends about it. And SEARCH readers are my friends. I had dandruff all my life, and despaired of getting rid of it, until one day Ken Arnold (the flying saucer man) left a half bottle of Turn-er's at my house, and flew off to Boise without it. I tried the stuff, because Ken's no sissy, and he doesn't put perfume on his hair. Well, in one week my dandruff was gone! And my hair had begun to darken. My wife tried it, and her rash disappeared. You can bet we wrote Ken in a hurry and asked where he got it! And now, we're telling you. But don't just take our word for it—here are a few testimonials from our readers, to back us up.

As I have about used up one bottle of your hair preparation, please send me another. I have had very good results in ridding myself of dandruff and itching. Lionel O. Branberg, Sharon Springs, Kans.

Enclosed find money order for $10.00 for two more bottles of Turn-er's as soon as possible. You sure found a good product. In the sixth application my dandruff was cured. Thanks to you. It does all you say and more, too. And it sure brings back the natural color to your hair. Thanks! R. E. Van Gordon, 1905 W. Milham Road, Kalamazoo, Mich.

Enclosed please find check for $5.00 for another bottle of Turn-er's as soon as possible. I have been bedeviled by a terrible itching in my eyebrows for over thirty years. It seemed to be a large flaky dandruff, but if I combed it out too near the skin, a watery substance would start, causing a scab-like condition. I have been to dozens of doctors . . . none did the slightest bit of good. After reading what Ray Palmer said, I decided to try Turn-er's. After the sixth application, I have not had an itch in my brows, and the skin underneath is as clear and clean as my face. I certainly am thankful to Mr. Palmer for bringing such a fine product to my attention.—S. W. Crusen, 2336 Fillmore Ave., Buffalo 14, N. Y.

Enough? Well, then take it from Ray Palmer, one bottle of pays any attention to it. They kept up war just the same. This causes Karma to be placed on all people of the earth.

All the Spirits of those men who worked with and near Lincoln were here again and have been working with John F. Kennedy the past several years. Many of them were actually buddies. Sergeant Shriver has the Spirit that was once in the body of Senator Stephen Douglas who struggled with Lincoln throughout his campaign for Senatorship. Abraham Lincoln did not want to borrow money and run our country into debt as they are doing today. No business or nation can do so for long and survive!

Ten thousand years ago, Aegypt had a terrible internal crisis! She would revive then relapse into poverty, revive again and relapse! That is exactly what we are going to face in the near future, not only America, but the whole world! When one dances, they must pay the fiddler! Our nation has been dancing high and mighty and the pay will be bitter that is forth coming.

As Newbrough made the great error with the charts, he could and did make many other errors, the omitting of ancient lands, continents, islands, that once existed. And to take this omission and declare there is no such thing as Atlantis or the White Island or Mu, or Kukican, Afrika, Lusitania, Gondwanaland, Muritania, Kuiland, Antiglia, Uhigur, Umaur, Sumer and Akkad or Ur and many other once existing lands is tom-foolery! Or would be like a man travelling our highways blindfolded declaring there "is no one on this road but me!" One is just as stupid as the other. It could be the Spirit who gave him the book Oahspe, omitted these vast long ago lands for a purpose. You see it has been unlawful to speak of such distant pasts. People are not yet ready to receive these truths even today. We make measures for distance, and measuring devises called Carbon, all made to register just as our minds want them to. Not an inch further or a minute sooner than Orthodoxy allows! We are not yet ready to receive the Great Truths of Creation!

I have read Oahspe several times, and enjoy it very much. In a way it is the greatest book ever written. Too bad it has been tampered with by the first printers thereof. The Spirit world has a copy of this book and some day it will be brought to earth in its original form and given again to the people in its entirety!

The few worlds of reincarnation one finds in Oahspe came from the pen of the Editors before printing, to scare people from such thoughts. Fear! Fear of truth has always been a joke about men's necks, holding them back and keeping

Have your subject gaze fixedly at this spiral and then READ TO HIM the hypnotizing techniques given WORD FOR WORD in Chapter Two of this "Handbook of Hypnosis for Therapy." As soon as he is hypnotized, READ TO HIM the particular WORD FOR WORD therapy which applies to his particular problem. Many such therapies are given, always in the exact WORD FOR WORD form, which is essential in any scientific or professional use of hypnosis.

There has never been a book like this. A few years ago an article in Western Family said about its principal author: "Along the west coast, the 'hypnotism man' whose students you'll most likely run into, is Charles Edward Cooke."

Cooke has taught doctors of medicine, dentists, psychiatrists, psychologists, ministers of the gospel, nurses, and many others, from San Diego, California, to Spokane, Washington. Cooke has mass hypnotized as many as 400 people at once by READING the WORD FOR WORD hypnotizing technique in this work.

Although written for the professional man, this book will have a wide appeal among laymen who seek precise methods rather than the vague directions that have hitherto been available. THE HYPNOTISM HAND-BOOK was written by Mr. Cooke in collaboration with science-fiction novelist and short story writer A. E. Van Vogt.

their Soul-grades very low.

The only cycle that has much to do with reincarnation is the Great and Grand Cycle, at which time many advanced spiritual-soul-forms are resurrected to higher existences, or a complete new phase of life, elsewhere.

All the lazy-blind beings of our world hope there is no such thing as reincarnation, they do not want to work to earn anything. They want to purchase a ticket straight into a Blue Heaven with golden streets. We each reap as we sow! Money will not change the Law! The Cycles have nothing to do with reincarnation, neither does mutations do away with evolution. All are a Law of Creation, and all these Laws are in perfect operation with the Will of the "Great Spirit", and no man can put asunder because he does not like them!

Let me say now that in 2248 A.D. the evil spirits of this world will yet be with us. We do not evolve fast enough for man to improve to such extent that all evil will be gone from Earth. NO, evil will be among us as of olden days. There must be struggle and strife in order to force us each to learn! Nothing comes easy for a human being! We are just as slow to learn as the animals, our cousins.

We are actually taught death and not life from the time we are born. They are afraid to teach LIFE for fear it would do away with their paganism taught to all the earth in general. We worship gold, mankind, animals and some of us believe in the Gods, few of you would think of worshipping the Great Spirit! We worship the images of gods who have long departed this earth, but left their likenesses behind. These Gods came long ago to teach the earthling a glimmer of truth, all they could absorb at that time. We are not alone in our Universe, there are millions of planets in the Universes, and many different Universes, with millions of planets with billions of living beings. The earthling is supposed to live at this time some 144 years or more, and every one would live that long or even hundreds of years if they were taught from birth, LIFE and not DEATH, and how to eat, sleep and keep poisons out of their bloodstream. For the blood is the Life of the flesh body! as water is the Life of Earth.

The blood carries oxygen and food, and whatever else one puts into his system. Water carries oxygen and food to the earth. The earth, like mankind also has a Spirit!

We destroy the life of the cells of our bodies by the use of tobacco, alcohol, gasoline fumes, smog, caffeine, medicines, drugs of all kinds and narcotics that dehydrate or poison every cell in our bodies. The body is a wonderful machine, it has the power to rejuvenate itself

THE HIDDEN WORLD

There is a hidden world, unseen, mostly unsuspected, and largely denied - yet it exists as surely as the sun shines in the sky! It is known by many names, and it has many ramifications. Some people call it the Secret Government. Some call it the Shaver Caverns, inhabited by "dero" and "tero", those evil and good ones who inhabit caves deep in the earth. Others believe it is an Astral world, inhabited by the dead. Some even say it is another dimension. One thing only can be said to be literally true - there is an invisible force in our lives that governs us for good and evil, and against which we fight incessantly, some knowingly, some blindly. Now there is a magazine devoted to seeking out this Hidden World, presenting all sides of the story, giving all the evidence that is available to prove its existence.

HERE ARE SOME OF THE THINGS YOU CAN READ IN THE FIRST EIGHT BOOKS: "I Remember Lemuria!"; The Masked World; Voices In The Night; Beyond The Verge; The Lorelei; The Elder World; The Return Of Sathanas; Mandark; The Facts On Deros; The Mind Rovers; La Sorciere; In The Beginning; The Fountain Of Youth; and others. Many of these are complete book length novels. All are entirely factual. They are the most mysterious writings in the world.

by replenishing every cell in it, every five to seven years. A seven year old child has not a cell it was born with, all new! Why do we commit suicide enmasse? It is one way to speed up our life-spans. To get more lives lived so we can gain more experience and knowledge and climb to a higher soul-grading in much less time. We have the privilege of speeding up or crawling along the pathway to higher life. Hurry, or take all the time you want! No matter of the speed, we must climb it. It is the pathway to the Stars! To get on this Highway or Great Serpent one must work, struggle, live and die many times to be reborn, (reincarnated) to learn all the great lessons of creation and LIFE. Even Jesus, called Christ, taught reincarnation. He understood its true meaning, and taught his followers "I will come again!" This is true for all of us, we will come again. Some of us will remember some of this present life, we are now living, most of us will not! The word Christ was taken from the Egyptian word Krst, meaning Universal Spirit. We all are a part of this Universal Spirit, that is why it is said, Christ is in you, Christ is in me, Christ is in everything that lives on the earth, in the earth, under the earth! In the air! Like the grass and flowers each year that rise from the soil, come to life in the spring, so we will come alive in our springtimes too.

Why do we celebrate Easter? Easter is the symbol of reincarnation. It is the spring of life, when seeds come to life, the young are born. Easter is not new, nor is it just two thousand years old. It is millions of years old and has been celebrated by people for all that time and even much longer. Even some four hundred million years! For mankind is not new on earth! Man has been on earth for more than that age! One may deny reincarnation, or make believe it does not exist, and find all sorts of excuses for pretending it could never be, that has no effect upon the Law, it still works just the same, and the Spirit of that person will come again through this law of reincarnation, whether he wants to or not, or whether he believes in it or not! There is nothing that can stop it. You will be reborn into a newly prepared body when the time arrives.

All creation is a PLAN, all things are included within that Plan. Each of us has our destiny map with our Auras, and nothing can change our course. Not all the billions of people all pulling together can change the Plan of the Great Spirit. Nor can they change the course of the planet earth or her universe or her sister universes or her sister planets. These Laws are not to be changed even by the Gods themselves, of whom there are actually millions and not just one! Gods are not the Great Spirit! The Gods are higher Beings sent out to different parts of the universes to govern certain districts and to teach the creatures. Earth alone has five different Gods governing over this planet, there are higher Gods governing these Gods, in our heavens there are other Gods etc. The Plan as Ray mentions is so tremendous that the average person cannot dare look at even a small portion of it! For fear lest he be consumed! Fear, Fear! It covers most of us like a cloak.

The heavens are plateaus where spirits go to be judged (graded), before being sent back into reincarnation or sent to higher spheres of existences. There is nothing done by chance, it is all fixed! And chance is NOT a LAW! One cannot go on to new spheres of existences until they have earned that privilege! Money won't buy the ticket through this gateway making a short cut to a heavenly bliss built just for a few.

Times were mighty bad just after the assassination of Lincoln, and we can expect times to be bad after the assassination of Kennedy. We will have our own brand of plagues.

Some folks do not believe there are hells, but there are many such places for low graded spirits, who refuse to cooperate with the Laws of the Great Spirit. They are in the lower fields below the low heavens, actually a hell is a very low grade heaven. What would be hell to one person is actually a heaven to another. Depending on the soul-grade.

Orthodoxy teaches that the dead rest in the grave. This is not so - the castoff flesh body or cloak is busy returning back to the elements from which it came. No one is going to resurrect a wornout castoff body and put their spirit back into it for another life-span. It will be a newly made body of clean elements or rejuvenated elements, the kind that is needed for the next life-span. Some people believe the spirit is yet in the dead body, this is not true, that is why the body is cast off, dead, because the spirit has departed from it.

In times gone by they used to bury a person if he lay still a few hours, many persons have thus been buried alive. Any one in a catalepsy spell was considered dead and was buried at once. Some of these catalepsy persons were placed in leaden coffins and put in a huge vault. This caused a great mystery, because the coffins could not be kept in their proper places. These coffins kept leaping about, piling up one on top the other. There were five lead coffins in this place, and each time they added a new wooden casket, they would find the lead coffins standing on end or piled up on each other. After a time elapsed, they stopped the leaping about of the lead coffins by burying them in the earth. These lead coffins yet contained the spirits of these departed persons, who had actually been buried alive, the spirit cannot pass through lead. If they had put a hole in each lead coffin, the coffins would have stopped leaping about. Then the spirit could escape and would not be fighting to be free. The spirits of these five persons are entombed in these leaden coffins until the day something makes a hole through the lead coffins so they can escape. This is a real Hell, believe me, for these spirits cannot be reborn nor can they be graded in any of the heavens until they are released. They are standing still in progress, and can do nothing for themselves.

I enjoy your magazines, Ray, keep up the good work. I like to read what others have to say and what you write. Dr. Elizabeth Reams, 2113 East 4th Street, North Platte, Nebr. 69101.

"WHAT I SEE"

by Malva Dee

Predictions for the future, dated Aug. 3, 1964.

Due to the passing of a great statesman, royalty shall weep.

More strife ahead for the charming princess of the Netherlands.

Political upheaval and surprise victory for a 'quiet' man who will more than prove his worth.

DO YOU LIKE GOOD CHILI?

LET ME TELL YOU HOW TO GET IT

The Most Delicious Chili You've Ever Tasted

EASY TO MAKE, NEVER FAILS!

And along with it, I'll send you my personal recipe entirely free!
(It also makes meat balls & spaghetti sauce; tamale pie, enchiladas; burger sauce; pizza pie)

It comes in several forms—either in individual aluminum foil envelopes (it'll never deteriorate!) containing just enough to make one batch, enough for eight people; or in 1-lb. bags, or in 5-lb. cans (in case you run a restaurant, and you want to have people lined up for blocks waiting for that WONDERFUL CHILI they can get only at YOUR place). Send for any amount you want, from one small envelope to a ton. Your money back, if your palate doesn't tingle with delight!

Here's What Our Customers Say:

Need more chili seasoning, as I have been eating it until it almost comes out of my ears! Just can't seem to get enough of it. Enclosed find my check for $3.50 for which please send me five cartons of five 8-person servings, and I will be able to continue my orgy of chili. Have several friends who are anxious to try it also. C. A. Andrew, 905 E. Isaacs Ave., Walla Walla, Washington.

Not too long after getting my small order of your chili seasoning, I made up a pot of chili and forgot your seasoning. After eating a small dish of it, I remembered the two envelopes of "Williams" I had, so I dumped in one package and forfot it until dinner. Well, the whole thing in a nut shell is I'll never be without Williams Chili Seasoning again! It's wonderful! I've always prided myself on real good chili, but not any more! Enclosed find $1.00 for five more envlopes of seasoning, so I can have some more REAL chili Virginia Walters, Rear 1165 Harrison Ave., Columbus, Ohio.

TWO WAYS TO BE

ON TOP OF THE NEWS

WHAT'S really happening in man's effort to conquer his exciting new frontier?

To find out, you could read a cross-section of the world's great newspapers every day, study a couple of hundred scientific monographs every month, make periodic trips to test development and missile centers in the Western Hemisphere, and probably come up with a pretty fair idea of what's going on in the world of Space theory and development.

We recommend this method, if you can do it. It'll give you a chance to travel, and you'll see lots of interesting people and places.

Of course, you won't have time for anything else.

There's an easier way. It takes about 40 seconds — we timed it. Less than a minute to take pen and paper in hand and tell us you want a subscription to America's newest, finest, most-authentic magazine of Space.

In reporting major events in the world of Space, SPACE WORLD takes you behind the scenes, gives you up-to-the-minute information on technical and scientific problems, on the men who are making Space news.

What you read in SPACE WORLD is authentic, because the men who bring you this news are the very same men who are making it.

See for yourself how much deeper and more complete your understanding of Space will be when you read SPACE WORLD. Take advantage of our special subscription price that will save you money and insure your getting all future issues.

The next 6 issues for only $2.75
The next 12 issues for only $5.00

Your subscription, or your friend's or son's, will begin as soon as we receive your check or money order. So why not take the 40 seconds and write us . . . NOW!

A NEW VIEWPOINT ON MAN'S HISTORY DURING THE PAST 10,000 YEARS

What happened to mankind after the Atlantean civilization was lost? How did humanity react when Nature went mad? Where did the seeds of human culture survive? When did the world begin to recover from the effects of catastrophe? Who initiated the process of rehabilitation? Has knowledge of the source of world progress been suppressed and withheld from maturing mankind?

This book presents a scholar's answer to these and many other questions. Historical facts long obscured by Roman and Mediaeval propaganda have been examined and evaluated against an unusual but never fanciful background. The result is a new picture of mankind's history during the last ten thousand years.

MEN OF MYSTERY WHO ARE THEY?

One of the themes discussed is that the course of history has been changed abruptly, from time to time, by certain unusual men who have suddenly appeared upon the human scene. They have been few in number, but their thought and action have influenced succeeding generations. Sometimes this influence has been violent and drastic, at others it has gone almost unnoticed, unappreciated and under-valued by both contemporary observers and historians.

Human progress has been the gift of this inspired minority. Isolated by their genius and extraordinary in their abilities, they have demonstrated a marked difference from the ordinary people of any period in time.

What sort of men were these? Most important of all, to us and to our future, how has mankind utilized the knowledge these men have brought into the world?
